

Presidential Address

Troop Withdrawal Rate Is Increased

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has increased slightly the pace of U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam, ordering another 100,000 men home by Dec. 1. But he rejected appeals to set a date for ending U.S. involvement.

Nixon's announcement Wednesday night raised the monthly troop pullout average to about 14,300, well below the hopes of some for a dramatic rise over the current 12,500 monthly average rate.

The new goal will drop the total U.S. troop commitment to about 184,000 men, lowest in six years and 359,400 below the peak two years ago.

However, this is unlikely to mollify antiwar critics in Congress who have been pressing for a final U.S. disengagement, perhaps by the end of this year.

Obviously anticipating criticism, Nixon told his nationwide audience:

"If the United States should announce that we will quit regardless of what the enemy does, we would have thrown away our principal bargaining counter to win the release of American prisoners of war; we would remove the enemy's strongest incentive to end the war sooner by negotiations; and we will have given enemy commanders the exact information they need to marshal their attacks against our remaining forces at their most vulnerable time."

While Nixon did not say just where the end of the tunnel lies, he did say "I can assure you ... with confidence that American involvement in this war is coming to an end."

And with an apparent reference to the 1972 presidential election, he invited the American people to "hold me accountable if I fail."

There are indications from other administration officials that Nixon expects to reduce the American troop presence in Vietnam to a "residual force" of below 50,000 advisers and security troops to guard them by the time he goes to the voters again in November 1972.

The President said he was announcing an increase in the withdrawal rate between May 1 and Dec. 1 "because of the increased strength of the South Vietnamese, because of the success of the Cambodian operation; and because of the achievements of the South Vietnamese operation in Laos."

Critics raised doubts about the fighting qualities of the South Vietnamese army after it cut short its ground campaign against the Ho Chi Minh trail and some of its units retreated out of Laos in apparent disarray.

Other administration officials have said it will take until next fall to assess fully whether the six-week operation was a success in crippling North Vietnam's ability to mount major offensive actions.

But Nixon rated the operation a plus. Speaking in measured tones and with a large chart behind his right shoulder, Nixon outlined these conclusions based on what he said was his assessment:

"First, the South Vietnamese demonstrated that without American advisers they could fight effectively against the best troops North Vietnam could put in the field.

"Second, the South Vietnamese suffered heavy casualties. But, by the most conservative estimates the casualties suffered by the enemy were far heavier." He gave no figures.

"Third, and most important, the disruption of enemy supply lines and the consumption of ammunition and arms in the battle has been even more damaging to the capability of the North Vietnamese to sustain major offensives in South Vietnam than were the operations in Cambodia 10 months ago."

Calling the speech "disappointing in the extreme," Iowa Democratic Sen. Harold Hughes said Nixon "has chosen to continue those same policies which 73 per cent of the American people have already said they reject."

This was the seventh troop withdrawal announcement made by Nixon since he set in motion U.S. disengagement from the war in June 1969.

White House officials said the President in effect shortened the next pullout period when he raised the average by about 1,800 men a month.

As a result, they said, the administration will be able to take a look at enemy infiltration levels and other activity in November, when the new dry season sets in, and judge what threat may be faced by the shrunken U.S. forces still in the country next year.

Then, presumably, Nixon will determine whether to speed the withdrawal or keep it at the new rate beyond December. A slowdown seems unlikely.

In his TV speech Wednesday night, Nixon alluded indirectly to the My Lai massacre, saying that what he called "isolated acts of cruelty" should not rub off on the 2½ million "fine young Americans" who have served in Vietnam.

"The atrocity charges in individual cases should not and cannot be allowed to reflect on their courage and their self-sacrifice," Nixon said.

Primaries Set For Tuesday With Next Year

RALEIGH (AP) — Beginning next year, primary elections in North Carolina will be held early in May on Tuesday instead of Saturday.

The Senate Thursday enacted legislation to change the primary elections from the first Saturday in May to the first Tuesday after the first Monday. Sen. Jack Baum, D-Mecklenburg, said studies have shown that more people turn out for elections on Tuesdays.

Sen. Jyles Coggins, D-Wake, argued against the bill, saying that some working people would not have a chance to vote on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the House received a bill to change the state's election law. The measure came only one day after a bill to liberalize the law was narrowly defeated in the Senate.

The new bill was introduced by Rep. Jack Rhyne, D-Gaston. It would reduce from three to one the number of doctors required to certify that a woman's physical or mental welfare required that she receive an abortion.

Rhyne said that under present law, women in small towns with only one doctor are "treated unfairly" because of the difficulty in getting three doctors to certify the need for an abortion.

In other legislative developments: The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill to give the State Capitol Police authority to make arrests anywhere in Raleigh. The bill also clarifies the authority of the Capitol police to make arrests on state property. An amendment was approved to require that the Capitol police have training equivalent to that required of Raleigh police.

Rep. Sam Johnson, D-Wake, and several other House members sponsored a bill to rewrite state law dealing with finances of local government. The Senate approved and sent to the House legislation to require service stations to clearly advertise the difference in prices if they put gasoline in cars for motorists and operate self-service pumps.

The Senate approved bills to authorize ABC liquor store referendums in Thomasville, Dobson, Mt. Airy and Pilot Mountain.

Old Business: Appointments to boards and commissions; a report on the status of Greenville Foundation by the city attorney; and a report on East Carolina Student Advisory Board. Also, the city manager will report on bus transportation survey, and a public hearing will be held on abandonment of a portion of Halifax Street. A public hearing will be set on street assessment rolls.

New Business: Requests for mobile home permits and one for a temporary permit will be heard from six individuals. Requests for tax refunds number four cases, and the advertising of 1970 unpaid real estate taxes will be discussed.

R. B. Nelson of Robersonville will be heard on a resolution of endorsement, and Milton C. Williamson will appear on behalf of Fire Department employees. An ordinance to control motorcycles, Hondas and minibikes on public and private properties will be discussed, and petitions heard for street improvements.

A report on annexations as recommended by the Planning and Zoning Commission is on the agenda. The Redevelopment Commission is requesting approval of sale or disposal of Parcel 12 in the Shore Drive Project. Recognition will be made of elderly citizens, and a request considered for the fourth quarter allotment of city funds to the Pitt-Greenville Council on Aging.

A request will be heard for dedication of Kenilworth and Pinewood Roads, and the recommendations by the Planning and Zoning Commission will be taken up. City Clerk W. N. Moore is requesting that the council appoint two judges to serve in the May 4 elections in place of two who were previously appointed but cannot be present.

A ruling will be made on a Planning and Zoning recommendation to appoint the city planner as an ex-officio member of that board.

In Scott Address Environment Plan Given

By REESE HART

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott today proposed the establishment of an environmental policy for North Carolina and outlined 23 other recommendations to deal with environmental problems in the years ahead.

Scott spelled out his far-reaching proposals in a prepared address to a joint session of the House and Senate.

The governor said a number of his recommendations are incorporated into five major bills.

"The others," he added, "are contained in various proposals already before you or soon to come before you. Some proposals are far-reaching. Others are controversial. But all are offered in good faith and with the hope that ... you will keep in mind our responsibility to this generation and to those unborn."

Scott termed the environmental policy act one of the most important he was recommending. It will require that all state agencies give consideration "to the environmental values, aspects and consequences of their decisions."

Scott proposed creation of a state system of natural and scenic rivers.

"Initially," he said, "I suggest that portions of six North Carolina rivers be designated a part of this system. These streams will be maintained in a natural, free-flowing state, protected from dams and shoreline development."

Scott's other recommendations include:

—Strengthen the control of water and air pollution by requiring periodic reporting of all pollutants discharged into the air and water.

—Provide for regulations on waste from animal-poultry producing facilities, boats, sewage systems and septic tanks.

—Strengthen the law concerning dredging and filling and marshlands and tidelands.

—Initiate condemnation proceedings to obtain Bald Head Island for the state.

—Authorize coastal counties and municipalities to levy taxes for erosion control and hurricane projects not financed by federal funds.

—Require oil shippers to pay a fine, cleanup costs and damages in the event of an oil spillage in coastal and harbor waters.

—Provide state planning to coastal counties where no program to provide beach erosion is under way.

—Accept the offer of the owners of the Wrightsville Marine Bio-Medical Laboratory to donate the laboratory to the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

—Strengthen existing safeguards against environmental damage from oil or gas explorations.

—Authorize the State Utilities Commission to outline and enforce controls on environmental damage by public utilities.

—Make it illegal to litter on any state-owned lands.

—Strengthen enforcement of laws on junked motor vehicles.

—Institute a comprehensive study of land-use patterns.

—Recommend a comprehensive study of soil erosion and sedimentation problem and submit a plan to the 1973 legislature for dealing with the problem.

—Authorize establishment of Municipal Appearance Commissions in a move to improve the appearance of towns and cities.

—Establish a pesticide board to regulate the use and disposal of pesticides.

—Revise the makeup of the Board of Water and Air Resources.

—Adopt legislation to provide for the planning and construction of regional water supply systems.

—Admit North Carolina to membership in the Southern Regional Environmental Compact and a nationwide pest control compact.

In proposing condemnation proceedings to bring Bald Head Island into state ownership, Scott told the legislators "these proceedings will involve an appropriation of funds to be placed in escrow at the time condemnation proceedings are started. I ask that you appropriate these funds so that we can protect this unique asset."

"This action," he added, "will require a series of appraisals to determine the amount of money that must be placed in escrow."

Bald Head Island is owned by Carolina Cape Fear Development Corp. which plans to develop it commercially.

Scott said his 24 recommendations "are designed to attack specific problems which I feel are urgently in need of remedy."

Yorty Boycotts Agnew's Speech

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rather than dine on beef bourguignon and hear an address by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, Mayor Sam Yorty ate soup at his desk and worked.

Yorty said he stayed away from the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Wednesday to dramatize his opposition to federal grand jury indictments of three Los Angeles policemen, not as a snub to Agnew.

"I personally like him," Yorty said, but doubted that Agnew had full information on the indictments.

The officers were indicted on civil rights violations in the slayings of two Mexican nationals in an apartment.

do this still must be introduced.

Legislative committees dealing with environmental matters have been studying them ever since the 1971 session convened. However, the governor did not get around to making his recommendations until today.

The House Committee on Legislative Districts has turned the task of realigning House districts over to two subcommittees.

One of these subcommittees has prepared a tentative plan for rearranging House districts in the western half of the state, but a subcommittee working on Eastern House districts still is stymied.

The Senate Legislative Districts Committee has not even started its task of realigning State Senate districts. Its chairman, Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, is waiting for the U.S. Supreme Court to rule on a legislative redistricting case from Illinois.

State spending — the biggest issue of all — still is before the Joint Appropriations Committee and probably will remain there for a couple more months. Four appropriations subcommittees are working on various aspects of the money problem.

Bills to repeal the state's one-cent soft drink tax, the two-cent cigarette tax, the two cents the 1969 General Assembly added to the gasoline tax, and other tax proposals are still in Finance Committee and likely will stay there until the appropriations issue is out of the way.

Council Agenda Is Lengthy One

In the last City Council meeting scheduled prior to the May 4 municipal elections, members of the council face a staggering 31 announced agenda items for their April meeting tonight at 8:00 p.m. in City Hall.

Old Business: Appointments to boards and commissions; a report on the status of Greenville Foundation by the city attorney; and a report on East Carolina Student Advisory Board. Also, the city manager will report on bus transportation survey, and a public hearing will be held on abandonment of a portion of Halifax Street. Medical Group Study Continues

By STUART SAVAGE

Reflector Staff Writer

A discussion group, composed of officials from East Carolina University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, was scheduled to meet here again today for another in a series of discussions aimed at insuring student transfers from a proposed one-year medical education program at ECU to the UNC School of Medicine.

"I don't know whether we will finish discussions today or will require one more meeting," Dr. Edwin Monroe, head of the School of Allied Health Sciences said.

Commenting on an article published in a Raleigh newspaper this morning, saying the discussion group is "expected to release a report ... that will recommend creation of a one-year medical school at East Carolina," Dr. Monroe said, "I don't think so."

Explaining, he said the discussion group is designed to "explore the recommendations of the Board of Higher Education for a one-year (medical) program (at ECU) and to report back to the presidents and boards of trustees of both universities so the governing authorities can reach a decision as to what to do." He added that the study committee's report will not be in the form of a recommendation.

"The discussion group does not decide feasibility. We are to just discuss and evaluate the one-year question and report to the presidents and the boards. They might then make recommendations. But I think it is up to the legislature to decide what is feasible."

Noting that anything is possible, Dr. Monroe said, "It's a question of what is feasible ... a one or two year school ... or any other problem the state might be concerned with. The legislature has to decide what is feasible."

The question, according to Dr. Monroe, is not simply "whether or not it is possible to have a curriculum (at ECU) that will mesh (with the first year at UNC), but also which is best for the state and the region, and some decision about the cost involved, based on the needs of the state."

Dr. Wallace Woolees, dean of the proposed medical school at ECU, said local representatives on a discussion committee have set a "target date" of April 23, when they would like to have their report completed.

"We hope that the discussions will be ended very, very shortly ... within a week ... so we can start preparing our report for the president and the Board of Trustees," he explained.

He noted that a one-year medical program at ECU is possible, but emphasized that

Several Major Issues Have Not Yet Been Presented To Legislature

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — As measured by previous sessions, the 1971 General Assembly should be past its half way point, but several major issues have not even been presented to the lawmakers.

Today is the 74th legislative day of the 1971 session. The lawmakers have been in session nearly three months. Another three months will be the middle of July — when most legislators hope they will have wound up their session and headed for home.

What is probably the thorniest problem facing the General Assembly is Gov. Bob Scott's call for a restructuring of the state's institutions of higher education.

A blue-ribbon committee named by the governor to recommend a solution to this problem still has not reported its recommendations and is believed to be a week or so away from making its report. This means it may be a month or more before this issue is presented to the General Assembly.

Auto liability insurance also looms as one of the General Assembly's most pressing problems. This question also is before a study commission headed by Sen. Clyde Norton, D-McDowell.

Norton says he hopes his commission will have its report ready for presentation to the governor by next week, but it may be the following week. Then it will be up to the governor to make recommendations to the General Assembly.

Another top problem confronting the 1971 General Assembly is reorganization of state government. Legislative committees have been studying the problem of reshuffling more than 300 state agencies into about 19 state departments, but legislation to do this still must be introduced.

Legislative committees dealing with environmental matters have been studying them ever since the 1971 session convened. However, the governor did not get around to making his recommendations until today.

Groom's Mother Out For Trouble

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 18. She is marrying the boy she went steady with all thru high school. He is 19. We are managing the wedding but must limit the number of guests to 125 because my husband has been out of work and we are not in very good shape financially.

I told the groom's mother that she could invite 63 people and we were inviting 62. She said that wasn't nearly enough for her as she is presently separated from her husband and she wants to invite her boyfriend and his family, which is very large. I told her in a nice way that she could invite whomever she wanted but not more than 63 people as we had to hold down the expense.

Guess what she said? "Either I have as many people as I want or I'll refuse to sign for my son!"

Abby, he is only 19 and he can't get married unless she signs for him. So what do I do now? SAD MOM

DEAR MOM: Don't let her blackmail you. In some states the signature of only one parent (or guardian) is sufficient. Look into it. Also tell the lady (?) that if she wants to pay for her own guests she may have as many as she wants.

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago my husband died, and right after the funeral my children insisted that I go visit my sister in another town to get away for a while.

Today I came home to an immaculate, but very empty house. I have two wonderful daughters and I love them dearly, but sometimes I wish they wouldn't be so helpful.

They came in and cleaned my house from top to bottom. Every closet, every cupboard, every shelf had been scrubbed. My house shines from one end to another.

But what bothers me most is that they disposed of all their father's belongings. There is not a trace of him in this house. It's as tho he never lived here. There are no socks to darn, no buttons to sew. My sons in law even divided up his tools. I suppose they did this so I wouldn't feel so bad sorting thru his things and doing it myself.

I could say something, but the deed is done, however well-meaning it was. But now I have nothing to do except dust and wash my own few dishes.

Thanks for listening, Abby. I feel a little better now. — LOST AND LONELY

DEAR LOST: I understand your feeling of uselessness, but I assure you your daughters meant well. They spared you what is usually the most painfully heart-breaking task a widow must face.

DEAR ABBY: On my next birthday, I will have to register for the draft. I am opposed to the war in Viet Nam and I want no part of it. If necessary, I will go to prison. I can't honestly say my "religious convictions" are responsible for my feelings, which I understand one would have to swear to under oath in order to become a conscientious objector.

In order to become a conscientious objector, what steps must I take? I do not want to be in violation of the law by refusing to register. But I know positively that my conscience will not allow me to take part in this war. Can you help me? FOR PEACE

DEAR FOR: After you register, request a special form for conscientious objectors from your draft board. You will have 30 days in which to gather character references from your neighbors, teachers, your clergyman and anyone who will vouch for your sincerity in this connection. Your draft board will then review your case and decide whether or not you qualify as a conscientious objector. [There are standards set down by the national Selective Service and the Supreme Court.]

If you are classified I-A, in spite of your objections, you can request a personal appearance and appeal it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Joint Effort Poses Example

Winterville, Ayden and Grifton have developed an interesting proposal which, if carried out, could be the stimulus for considerable development in the southern half of the county.

The three communities presented a plan before the county commissioners for linking the three municipalities with one water pollution control facility.

Grifton Mayor David E. Bosley explained that his town is faced with the problem of constructing a waste treatment plant costing $1.2 million. Ayden has to expand its facilities and Winterville is planning an expansion.

Bosley, speaking to the county commissioners, suggested that one plant could be built to serve all three towns with pumping stations at each municipality to pump wastes to the new plant.

The plant, costing $2.5 million would not only serve the municipalities but it would also serve industries locating along the route.

With a major limited access highway now nearing completion between the three towns the idea of a sewage system along the way does indeed seem to have merit so far as development is concerned. The representatives from the three towns were suggesting that the county government might be able to help in financing the work. No commitment was made and the county would have to examine proposal in light of a policy which would apply to any section of the county.

However, the communities have proposed a unique plan for cooperating in providing facilities which will be used by all three. Whatever the county decides about financing we think the three municipalities should pursue the plan.

Local Voters Should Know Best-Qualified

Filing time has ended for the city council and mayor's races with the elections due to be held on May 4.

With the filing deadline passing Monday afternoon, there were four candidates in the race for mayor and 16 seeking the six council seats.

Voters should become familiar with the candidates during the next month, so that each citizen will be in the best possible position to vote for the most qualified aspirants.

Greenville has a number of problems to solve and we need the best qualified mayor and councilmen to find the answers.

Scott Comments Are Low Key

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has been notably low-key in his public statements on the Castleberry-Barbour incident and his latest news conference was no exception.

The governor Wednesday parried a series of questions about the affair by saying that he is satisfied with the way it has been handled since it was made public.

Scott was first asked about a statement from State Sen. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, D-Guilford, a potential candidate for governor next year, criticizing the handling of the case.

The controversy surrounds the fact that Charles (Chuck) Barbour, former executive secretary of the Democratic Party, accepted a $500 donation for the party coffers from Robert Castleberry, then a paroled convict.

Castleberry recently said he made the donation because of Barbour's help in getting the State Paroles Board to issue a permit for him to leave the state.

Bowles said Barbour ought to be fired from his present job as director of travel and promotion for the State Department of Conservation and Development.

"If he (Bowles) gets to be governor, he can fire Barbour," the governor said.

Bowles commented later he still thinks the affair was "disgusting" and "fresh air is needed."

"There should be an independent audit of the party books, he said.

Asked if the laws on reporting of political contributions should be strengthened, Scott said:

"What's adequate is not always enforceable. If it isn't enforceable, it is ineffective."

A newsman asked Scott if policies of the Democratic Party should be changed to require more thorough accounting in view of the fact the party has no record of Castleberry's donation.

"The officers might want to look at it," Scott said.

The governor had said earlier that a preliminary report convinced him Barbour used "poor judgment" in accepting the donation.

Director Charles Dunn of the State Bureau of Investigation, said last week he was turning his report on the Castleberry affair to Superior Court solicitors in Raleigh and Durham to determine if the facts in the case justify any prosecutions.

Public Forum

(Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words)

To the Editor:

I have been and still am opposed to the Vietnam fiasco. And I do not agree with the military's trial of Lt. Calley, but he has been tried, convicted and sentenced.

Now the public is aroused. Why? Do they finally see what our young adults and teenagers have been screaming at us these past five years? That we are on the verge of losing our children? That the State (United States) will take them at five years of age (It was six before public kindergarten came about) and train them the way the States wants them to be trained for 13 years; then the military will finish the indoctrination in the next two or three years? That the State can and will convict and execute them, if they so desire, for doing what they have been trained and ordered to do?

And we the parents are helpless to do anything about it. Will the parents and the voters wake up in time to see that we are on the verge of becoming a military-welfare state? Will this ground-swell become a tidal wave of such force that it will sweep Washington clean in 1972, from the President on down through Congress? Our only hope is a new president and a new Congress controlled by the people. Parents and voters, do you see this?

Strength For Today

THE LAST SUPPER

Many regard Jesus as a revolutionary figure who was trying to supplant the religion of his forefathers with a new religion which would put himself at the center of things. As a matter of fact, Jesus was devoted to the religion of his fathers and was angry at the way superficial men would use the divine faith that had been set forth through patriarch, psalmist and prophet over the centuries.

The scribes and Pharisees were religious men, but their religion was superficial. It had to do with going through the motions. The Pharisees had had an illustrious record of courage and devotion. They had stood against enemies who some generations before had tried to wipe out the Jewish religion, which they considered a superstition. But with the passing of time the religion of the Pharisees degenerated into a superficial way of life and faith that was more politics than it was religion. Jesus came out to destroy the law and the prophets but to fulfill them. "God so loved the world that He gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world but that the world through him might be saved" (John 3:16-17).

On this day Jesus would demonstrate to the world through the use of bread and wine the nature of his relationship to his followers. "Eat, drink . . . This do in remembrance of me."

Notes On Law, Justice

The debate with William Kunstler was Wednesday night in Oklahoma. Then there was a debate on Thursday with Frank Mankiewicz in Tennessee. This was in the midst of the uproar over the Calley verdict, and I flew back home on Friday much perplexed. Kunstler is the dour and shaggy lawyer who first gained national prominence as chief defense counsel in the trial of the Chicago Seven. Since then he has become a folk hero of the New Left, a Catonian figure, gifted with mordant wit, a Wurlitzer voice and a prophet's fiery eye. The question was, Resolved, that law and justice are incompatible in American society today.

He opened by denouncing the verdict in the Calley trial, his point being that it is a crime to kill unarmed civilians in a war zone, the next defendant in the dock should be "the man who is pacing the oval room tonight." He triggered an emotional response that hit the stage like a blast from an opened furnace. Two thousand young men and women, many of them with clenched fists, leaped cheering to their feet.

My own response, which I never developed very clearly, was to suggest that the verdict was both yes and no. As a matter of law, Calley's trial was meticulously fair; the young lieutenant had enjoyed every procedural protection known to the Constitution. But as a matter of justice, in the metaphysical meaning generally ascribed to the term, no justice had not been served. This set off a few uncertain whoops from my side, and the debate rolled on. I lost.

In Chattanooga the following night, the question boiled down to something like this, Resolved, that a wise ordering of national priorities demands a budget for national defense in the neighborhood of $80 billion next year. I had the affirmative and my brother columnist took the negative; we went 90 minutes to a draw. Behind all our earnest discussion of intercontinental missiles was the troubled vision of My Lai, the murdered baby in a ditch.

In its strict meaning, as an adjunct of the law, "justice" involves the inflexible and uncompromising imposition of the punishment a man deserves. Stripped of the metaphysics, this was the justice Calley got. The charge was premeditated murder; and the charge was proved beyond a reasonable doubt.

Yet the larger connotations of "justice" cannot easily be stilled. Take Kunstler's point: The baby of My Lai is dead, as dead as the babies of Hiroshima 25 years ago; they too were slain by premeditated act. The commander in chief who today launches B52s, or tomorrow orders Poseidon missiles leaping from the deep, has an inescapable responsibility for other babies, in other ditches. In its abstract meaning, is "justice" served when lieutenants go to prison and Presidents go free?

Nixon Takes Gamble

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon took a major political gamble in making his latest Vietnam troop pullout announcement—but even if it should displease many voters, he still has left himself 11 months of pre-election leeway.

As if thrusting his chin forward, Nixon reminded a nationwide audience Wednesday night that he had pledged during the 1968 campaign "to end American involvement in this war."

Declaring that he is honoring his promise, the chief executive continued: "I expect to be held accountable by the American people if I fail to achieve it."

Right there, if not elsewhere in the 20-minute address, Nixon threw down a challenge to the many Democrats who want his job and to any others who may seek a speedier finale to America's role in Vietnam.

Nixon, in earlier speeches, said much the same thing—but about being held to account—about this time his decision to repeat the line seemed more significant if only because the 1972 election is much closer.

In announcing a slight increase in troop withdrawals, an average of 14,200 a month over the current 12,500 figure, from now to Dec. 1, Nixon obviously is convinced he has made a good bet. This is underscored by the timing of the event.

Whereas the President had indicated he would make the withdrawal announcement about April 15, he stepped it up about a week. And why? Well, Congress recessed Wednesday for a long Easter break. That suggests Nixon believes members of the Senate and House will hear a lot of approving statements about his speech from the folks back home. Otherwise he could—and presumably would—have waited until April 15.

Uncertainty about voter reaction therefore makes the Nixon gamble the greater. So, too, does the fact that he spoke as a new round of anti-war demonstrations is being mounted on a nationwide scale.

Nixon didn't have anything to say about this added hazard to his approach, however. Current withdrawal policy expires May 1 and he had to say something this month if the homeward bound movement was to continue.

New York's BBB Gets Scolding

By ELMER ROESSNER

A New York radio station after a three months study of the metropolitan New York Better Business Bureau has castigated its handling of consumer complaints and suggests that it get out of the consumer complaint business.

The criticism applies to only the New York BBB, of course, but bureaus across the country operate along similar lines.

Station WMCA conducts a "Call for Action" program as do many stations across the country. Two staffers, Priscilla Ellsworth and Betty Smith, followed up more than 200 complaints that had been referred to the BBB, the city's Department of Consumer Affairs, the state Attorney General's office and the Federal Trade Commission.

It rated them report-card style:

	Success	Efforts
City	C plus	A minus
State	B	C
FTC	A minus	B
BBB	F	F

WMCA concluded that "the Bureau actually does consumers a disservice by continuing to solicit complaints that could be handled far more successfully by those . . . public agencies that are fully committed to the consumer's interest."

It pointed out that the Bureau says it cannot intervene in disputes between buyer and seller, and that's what consumer complaints are.

It did give the BBB credit for establishing an office in the Harlem ghetto where consumers could walk in and make complaints orally.

Woodrow Wirsig, president of the New York Better Business

Bureau, said it would not reply to the WMCA report until its attorneys had completed a study to determine if it was libelous and malicious.

Auto Sales Rebound
Less Than Expected

The Cleveland Federal Reserve Bank in its Economic Commentary, observes that many business analysts expected the rebound from the General Motors strike would contribute much to the gross national product in the first 1971 quarter.

But, it notes, "So far the rebound has reached the pre-strike level of last summer, but is somewhat less than the recovery following the 1964 strike settlement."

Does Number Of Exported Jobs
Equal Number Of U. S. Jobs?

It has been reported here frequently that by having so much American production work done in Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Mexico, the Caribbean and other countries, the United States has figuratively exported jobs.

It is impossible to calculate the number of jobs thus lost to American workmen but it is reasonable to guess that it equals the 5.5 million Americans who were unemployed in mid-February, the time of the last federal count.

Now RCA and Chungwa Development Co. Ltd., of Taiwan, have announced plans to form a joint company to make and sell black-and-white TV picture tubes in the Republic of China. RCA says that the tubes will be sold to both domestic and foreign manufacturers on Taiwan, "including RCA's black-and-white set manufacturing facilities on Taiwan."

Special Needs Are Seen By Human Relations Ass't.

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — James E. Clyburn, assistant for Human Relations to Gov. John C. West, says he and other Negroes "must have special things done for us now" to overcome the past.

"We must admit," Clyburn told the Democratic Women of Charleston on Wednesday, "that we have not dealt justly with our fellowman in the past, and it is high time we begin."

"Why is it that we get so upset when there is talk about special treatment for blacks?" he asked. "We have had special things done to us, and in order to overcome those things, we must have special things done for us."

"We should not hide from that — we should advocate it."

Clyburn said this does not contradict West's inaugural promise in January for a color-blind administration. Rather, he said, it shows "we have a lot of catching up to do."

The former director of the South Carolina Commission for Farm Workers, Inc., a Charleston-based agency to help farm hands, urged the Democratic Women to help "foster respect for our fellowmen as human beings."

"To expect racial harmony without addressing ourselves to the issues of housing, health and education is like hoping to repeat a successful harvest while sowing the seeds over an impenetrable surface," he declared.

The gubernatorial assistant noted that South Carolina State College, predominantly Negro, charges $200 less tuition than the other state schools and gets appropriations averaging $1,900 a pupil, compared with $1,200 to $1,400 at the other state schools.

"Some people are saying this defies the governor's edict of a 'color-blind' administration," Clyburn said. "But I say that if South Carolina State had been receiving its fair share of the state's appropriations over the last 75 years, its per student expenditure would be lower today."

"South Carolina State has a lot of catching up to do, and talking about it's not going to accomplish the fact."

The West aide said the state should adopt a policy to see that health services are delivered, including ambulatory care units, neighborhood health centers, and other alternatives to high-cost health insurance.

"We are enjoying only very limited success," he reported of

Ayden Woman Is Candidate

AYDEN — Mrs. Annie Marable Brown of Ayden has filed as a candidate for town commissioner of the fifth ward for the May 4 municipal election.

The first Negro woman to file for a political office in Ayden, Mrs. Brown is a counselor at D. H. Conley High School.

A native of Pitt County, Mrs. Brown has lived in Ayden since 1960. She is a graduate of the North Carolina A and T State University at Greensboro and Ohio State University where she received her master's degree in guidance counselor education.

Mrs. Brown presently serves as chairman of the Pitt County Association of Educators' Human Relations Committee, Ayden Good Neighbor Council, Ayden Citizens Advisory Council, and the Sub-Committee on Minority Housing; vice chairman of the Ayden Housing Authority and Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee; secretary-treasurer of the Pitt County Branch of NAACP.

A member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, Mrs. Brown is also a member of the American School Counselors Association, National Education Association, North Carolina Vocational Guidance Association, the Democratic Women of Pitt County and the Ayden Democratic Executive Committee.

Mrs. Brown's reasons for seeking the commissioner's seat include: a deep concern for the environmental protection and pollution control problems; acquisition of industry, which will be an economical uplift for the total community; an extensive street paving project; a rehabilitation program for old homes; and the creation of a more cohesive community.

West's program to eradicate hunger and malnutrition in the state. He noted only 107 of the 1,108 public schools in the state have breakfast programs, "showing the type of concern we have for the meal we all say is the most important."

Commenting on the food stamp program, he said that while it is true some people abuse it, "some rich people abuse the income tax system."

ness Nuremberg; witness the Yamashita precedent; witness Eichmann. But ah, comes the response, these defendants were the vanquished. Their threshold crime was in losing, in getting caught. Were the victors guiltless? The graveyards of Cologne, and Berlin, and Nagasaki give back an eloquent answer. What, then, of abstract "justice"?

There is another aspect. Calley was not the first serviceman to be court-martialed on a charge of murder in Vietnam. It was the magnitude of the My Lai massacre that attracted public clamor. But murder is a singularly individual crime; one victim will suffice. If Calley is to be freed, having killed 22, what of others now imprisoned for murdering only one?

It boils down to this, that pure justice — justice in the abstract — does not exist. Here on earth, it never has. What we must live with, for better or for worse, is the inconsistent, sometimes uncertain, often capricious and erratic justice that results from the orderly processes of established law. Calley's crime was a crime against specific sections of the Code of Military Justice. The jury that convicted him performed its hard duty; and neither law nor justice will be served if Calley should go unpunished now.

Jenkins Cites Opportunities

SOUTHERN PINES — Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University, urged Wednesday that opportunities for higher education in North Carolina be increased substantially and in a broad spectrum.

"We are going to need a strong educated citizenry in order to cope with the many unsolved problems confronting us," Jenkins said.

"Our objective remains that of the realization of the dignity of man," he said. "We must be concerned with not only making a living, but with living." He addressed the Sandhills Kiwanis Club here.

"Vocational and liberal arts should never be in conflict," Jenkins said. "They are mutually dependent."

Sunrise Service Set By UCYM

The United Christian Youth Movement's annual Easter Sunrise Service will be held at 7 a. m. Sunday morning at the Shore Drive area on First Street. Music for the worship service will be provided by a group of young singers. Communion will be served.

In the event of rain, the service will be held in Memorial Baptist Church at the intersection of Fourth and Greene Streets.

Four Injured In Collision

PACTOLUS — Four persons were reported injured when a car struck a railway crossing signal while attempting to avoid colliding with a Seaboard Coastline freight train near here late yesterday afternoon.

Driver of the car involved in the mishap was identified by Highway Patrolman G. L. Swanson as Amos Herring, 51 of Route 2, Wilson. Herring and three passengers were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries received in the collisions, although their injuries were not believed serious.

Trooper Swanson, who reported the mishap occurred about 5:25 p.m., quoted Herring as saying he was headed West along N.C. 30 and was blinded by the sun and failed to see the train across the highway until he was too close to stop.

Rather than collide with the train, Herring said he turned his car toward the roadside ditch, but struck the rail crossing signal.

Total damage in the mishap was estimated at about $1,000. No charges were made.

Society Plans Annual Meeting

The East Carolina University Club of the Society of the Sigma Xi will hear Dr. Harry H. Sisler, Executive Vice President, University of Florida, at its annual banquet on Tuesday, April 20 at the Candlewick Inn.

The banquet will also be the occasion of the installation of officers of the scientific research organization, Sigma Xi, and of the presentation of two student awards for outstanding research.

Dr. Sisler will discuss "The Role of Science and Technology in Modern Society" at the 6 p. m. meeting.

EASTER HOLIDAYS
Easter holidays for East Carolina University students begin with the end classes Thursday.
Classes resume the following Wednesday.

Angel Flight In Festival

Sermons In Stone Symbol Of Pain Monks Overcame

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer
CULLMAN, Ala. (AP) — The leaves are greening and the flowers are bursting out on a quiet hillside hidden away on the St. Bernard College campus in their annual rebirth symbolized by Easter and spring.

But the beauty of the lilies serves only to enhance a lifetime of sermons in stone painstakingly put together by a humble monk who knew what pain was, but who overcame disappointment and misfortune to reach more people by his handiwork than most priests ever hope to minister to.

Woodmen Sponsoring Egg Hunt On Sunday

All Greenville area youngsters are invited to participate in an Easter egg hunt Sunday at 3 p. m. across from the Pitt County Fairgrounds.

The event will be sponsored by Modern Woodmen of America, under the leadership of Junior Director Larry Stox, with the help of Scout Troop 509, led by Mrs. Nimon Hatem.

Participants are asked to gather at the award center of the fairgrounds for hunt instructions. Prizes will be presented to winners. In the event of rain Easter, the hunt will be postponed to Sunday, April 18 at 3 p. m., Mrs. Hatem said.

Stox commented, "Our organization is assisting in the sponsorship of community Easter egg hunts in hundreds of towns and cities in the United States. This contribution is a part of the Modern Woodmen program to further civic interest and enthusiasm and pride in hometown endeavors."

SALAD SALE
The Ladies Auxiliary of the Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church will have a chicken salad sale at the church on Saturday.
The sale will begin at 2 p. m.

of replicas of shrines and other points of religious history. They form the Little Jerusalem and Ave Maria Grotto that draw upwards of 60,000 people a year who come out of curiosity and to worship and who leave with a sense of wonderment that one man could have done so much with so little.

The man was diminutive Brother Joseph Zoettl, a native of Landshut, Bavaria, who came to this country hoping to become a priest.

But illness struck, leaving him hunchbacked and assigned as a brother to menial tasks at Stonega, Va., and Tuscumbia and Cullman, Ala. He was assigned in 1910, at only 19 years old, to the school's power plant here.

It was while he was in charge of the plant that he developed the hobby of building miniature shrines in his spare time.

The first ones were sold at a small souvenir shop at the school, and the income from these went toward construction of the Ave Maria Grotto on the monastery recreation grounds.

So many people came to see it that it was moved to the four-acre bluff of Eight Mile Creek where an abandoned rock quarry was terraced and landscaped as a background.

After the dedication in 1934, Brother Joseph's work increased in tempo.

Visitors from throughout the world sent him stone, marbles, tiles, shells, rocks, chandelier prisms and beads. These items, mortared together, went into the 150 different shrines that Brother Joseph completed before he died 10 years ago.

The main area, the Ave Maria Grotto, includes statues of the Infant Jesus in the arms of his mother, framed by intricate and striking combinations of materials.

To its right is Little Jerusalem containing numerous Holy Land replicas.

These two main areas, impressive as they are, are only a part of the scenes a visitor strolls past, wondering with each step how a man could have the patience to work for so many years with such small and varied materials.

Brother Joseph did his work freehanded, from pictures on post cards and books. But architects who have seen his replicas say they appear to be scale models.

"He didn't know enough mathematics to do a scale model," the present director, Father Lambert Gattman, said.

"But he had a good eye."

Father Lambert said that Brother Joseph "was kind of shy and quiet. He didn't seek any publicity but he got to be the best known man in our community."

Of Brother Joseph's legacy, Father Lambert said:

"You can go through a dozen times and every time you see many things you didn't see before."

Most Of Us Involved In $42 Billion Business

By EDMON Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chances are 10 to 1 that you're involved with an undertaking that has assets of $42 billion and does close to a $40 billion annual business—and there's a good chance also that you will soon be putting more into it or getting more out of it.

That undertaking is the Social Security system, which has grown from an almost timid beginning during the depression of the 1930s into a huge, tax-supported umbrella over more than 9 out of 10 working people in the United States, and more than 9 out of 10 persons 65 or older.

Of course, the working people and their employers pay the taxes that hold up the umbrella.

Congress, which has added benefits or coverage to the system more than a dozen times since the first Social Security bill was passed in 1935, has just done it again. It enacted a 10 per cent across-the-board benefit increase and a tax stepup to finance it.

The benefit increase, raising the income of more than 26.2 million persons and sluicing an extra $3.4 billion purchasing power into the still-sluggish economy, is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1971. The recipients will not actually have the cash in hand, however, until June because of the time required to adjust the mammoth computerized payout machinery.

The increased tax bite will be felt only next year and, initially, only by persons earning more than $7,800 a year and their employers. The payroll tax, currently 5.2 per cent each on employee and employer, applies only to earnings up to $7,800. Next year the base goes to $9,000. Later the rate goes up to a top of 6.05 per cent by 1987, but Congress almost certainly will have made more changes by then.

In fact, more changes are in the works. A better break for widows and for retired persons who continue to earn some money is considered almost certain. And there is much sentiment for another benefit increase, or else a provision for future automatic increases tied to the cost of living.

The 1935 Social Security act provided only for payments to retired workers 65 or older, and only those who had been in commerce or industry. It imposed a 1 per cent tax on earnings up to $3,000. The first benefit payments were to be made in 1942.

Even before the first benefits flowed Congress liberalized the system, providing for payments to aged wives, widows and children of deceased workers, and moving the first payouts up to 1940. The average payment that year was $22.10 a month for an individual. Recipients totaled 113,000.

By 1970, there were 26,230,000 beneficiaries. The average individual monthly payment now is $131. A 65-year-old wife gets, in addition, 50 per cent of her husband's basic benefit.

Successive changes have extended the coverage of the system, taking in many farm employees, domestics, self-employed professionals such as doctors, clergymen, employees of nonprofit organizations and, on an optional basis, employees of state and local governments. Now the system embraces nearly 94.5 million workers, more than 9 out of 10 jobs in the country.

Besides broadening the coverage, Congress repeatedly raised benefits — and taxes. In addition, it created whole new components of the system. Thus in 1956 retirement for the first time was provided for workers disabled before reaching pension age. And in 1965, after years of argument, Medicare, the plan under which Social Security pays much of the health care expenses of elderly retirees, came into being.

The family insurance factor of Social Security, the protection guaranteed to wives and children in case of a breadwinner's death, now reaches 95 out of every 100 children under 18 in the country, Social Security says, and is equivalent to insurance with a face value of more than $1 trillion.

From the start, the financing of Social Security has caused controversies. There was a sentiment for a three-way split of the cost among employers, employees and the general funds of the Treasury. But President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his advisers decided the system had a better chance if self-financed.

So the payroll tax on worker and employer has been used ever since, with only minor general fund infusions to take care of special groups.

Congress and Social Security actuaries alike have insisted that the rates set, and reset from time to time, have produced a sound fund, capable of meeting foreseeable obligations.

The price, however, has been steeply mounting payroll taxes, not only paying for current outlays of the system but building up trust funds that now own a significant part of the national debt. When Social Security started, the maximum tax was $30 a year each on worker and employer. This year it is $405.60. Next year it will be $468. By 1987, even in the unlikely event Congress makes no more changes, it will be $544.50.

Social Security spokesman says that, in terms of protection for departments and the prospects of ultimate payout on retirement, the payroll tax paid by a worker is a bargain. Nevertheless, as a current obligation that starts with the first dollar earned, the payroll levy can be a heavier burden for some low-income families than income tax.

The congressional decision to increase benefits this year but let the tax boost wait until 1972 was criticized by President Nixon, who had recommended simultaneous adjustments. But there is reason to believe it was not wholly unwelcome throughout the administration, concerned with an economy that remains sluggish and unemployment that continues high despite generous doses of relatively easy money.

Precisely such moves as the Social Security benefit increase—putting out 3.4 billion quickly spent dollars and postponing the countervailing tax increase until next year—when things may be livelier—are what some economic doctors are ordering.

Normally the payroll tax is, on balance, a restraining factor in the economy. Each year it produces more revenue than is needed to pay benefits for that year. The surplus goes into trust funds intended to make sure that the system will be able to meet future obligations to its growing number of beneficiaries.

Social Security, obviously, does not keep its surplus in shoeboxes. By law, the funds are invested in government bonds. In effect, the government borrows the surplus as fast as it accumulates, paying on each increment an interest rate based on the current cost of borrowing in the open market. At the end of 1970 the Social Security trust funds totaled $41.5 billion, invested at an average rate of 5.2 per cent. The major funds, for retirement and disability, are expected to earn more than $2 billion interest for the system during 1981. The funds are expected to grow by about $3.5 billion during the year.

Right-To-Read Program Staff Is Shaken Up

By G.C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Demanding action instead of promises. Education Commissioner Sidney P. Marland Jr. has shaken up the staff of the highly promoted Right-to-Read program. He says privately the federal effort has amounted to little more than a flurry of press releases. Marland replaced the director, Louis G. Mendez, with a California educator and ordered her to get results from the 18-month-old White House-endorsed reading program.

"Right to Read has been more of a spirit, a thrust of concern, a global kind of objective, rather than an operating program," Marland said Wednesday in introducing the new director, Dr. Ruth Love Holloway.

"It will no longer be spirit alone, but become operational in this office," the commissioner said. The new director is chief of the Bureau of Compensatory Education Program Development in the California State Department of Education.

Although the administration has asked no money specifically for Right-to-Read for the next fiscal year, Marland promised to find $10 million for the program in contingency funds.

The effort is designed to end functional illiteracy by 1980. An estimated seven million school children have reading deficiencies and more than 15 million adults are thought to have reading disabilities that limit their functioning in society.

Mendez was asked about his 10 months as head of the program. "I would sometimes get up in the morning and think things were beyond my control," he answered. "It reminded me of an artillery barrage while I was a paratrooper."

land was asked. He referred to a separate program, Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, which is helping an estimated six million low-income pupils with reading difficulties.

ACLU Planning A Suit For Reinstatement

By H.L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it will sue to reinstate two FBI file clerks who claim they were forced to resign because of off-hours work for a peace group.

Philip J. Hirschkop, an ACLU attorney, said Wednesday the suit will seek to enjoin FBI director J. Edgar Hoover from "interfering with the constitutional rights of any other employee."

Hirschkop commented at a news conference where Linda Janca, 21, and Christine Hoomes, 18, said they were given an ultimatum last Friday to stop part-time volunteer work for the National Peace Action Coalition or quit the FBI.

The girls said they held non-sensitive jobs filing fingerprint cards in the FBI identification branch.

Hirschkop said a third girl, Janie Bush, 19, of Nunda, N.Y., had been given a similar ultimatum but her status is unclear.

The FBI declined comment on the assertion. Miss Janca, of Biloxi, Miss., and Miss Hoomes, of Woodbridge, Va., said they had worked for the peace group two or three nights a week for the past two months stuffing envelopes in preparation for peace demonstrations scheduled April 24 here and in San Francisco.

They said they were questioned by superiors March 31 about their off-hours work and their views on the war, then given the ultimatum Friday.

They said J. Allison Conely of the FBI's identification branch, told them regulations prohibit political activity and indicated he thinks peace groups are anti-administration.

Jerry Gordon, coordinator of the peace group, said the FBI action was "an effort to coerce people not to come April 24 but we are going ahead."

The two girls said other employees of their FBI division are working for the coalition but declined to name them or say how many there are. The incident comes at a time when Hoover is under increasing criticism, with some members of Congress calling on the 76-year-old director to resign.

Congressmen Voted On Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina congressmen voted 6-5 Wednesday against an effort to increase President Nixon's education money request by $728 million. The House rejected the increase 191-187.

Two North Carolina Democrats, Reps. Fountain and Lennon, joined with the four Republicans, Broyhill, Jonas, Mizell and Ruth, in voting against the amendment.

Voting for the amendment were Democrats Galifianakis, Henderson, Jones, Taylor and Preyer.

Girls Will Be In Derby

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A women's liberation organization has won the right for three girls, two aged 10 and the other 11, to compete in the Soap Box Derby in Fayetteville on July 11.

Miss Carol Forbes, president of the local women's lib organization, said: "If little girls are not allowed to aggressively compete with boys on an equal level while they are young, they will not be able to aggressively compete when they are women."

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — About half of North Carolina's school systems no longer permit paddling of children, but the Cabarrus County Board of Education has decided to continue the disciplinary practice—under strict rules.

The paddle must be of a size and weight approved by the principal. An adult must be present if the principal does the paddling. If the teacher does it, the principal or an adult of his choosing must watch.

GOP Legislators Ask End To Milk Commission

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Two Republican legislators, charging that North Carolina's law encourages milk price fixing, want to abolish the nine-member State Milk Commission and replace it with a single commissioner.

Legislation to do so was introduced Wednesday by Sen. Hamilton Horton, R-Forsyth, and Rep. Donald R. Kincaid, R-Caldwell.

Horton said in a lengthy prepared statement that the policies of the milk commission have contributed "to unnecessarily high milk prices to the North Carolina consumer."

Horton and Kincaid said their legislation would save Tar Heel housewives $16 million per year based on the price of milk in Tennessee compared to North Carolina. Kincaid explained that under the bill, the commissioner would have the power to regulate the price paid to the dairy farmer. He would not have the power to regulate prices charged by distributors to their customers, nor the power to restrict the marketing area of any producer, Kincaid said.

In proposing to abolish the nine-member commission, Kincaid said: "It will be easier to place responsibility on one man than many; not as easy to pass the buck. One man will be more responsible to the people than many."

"The commissioner," he added, "will be appointed by the governor but can in no way be connected with the milk producing or distribution of milk."

Horton charged that "our present statute encourages price fixing which benefits only the processors of dairy products."

He said, "The milk our children drink costs several cents more per quart than the milk their cousins drink in Virginia, Tennessee and South Carolina."

"This bill," Horton added, "guarantees a market and a fair price to the farmer—just as the law now does. It also, however, prohibits price fixing by the distributors or by the state—for the first time in years restoring competition among the major processors in North Carolina. The effect of this bill will inevitably be lower prices to the families and the children of our state."

The Forsyth senator said the bill would eliminate duplications in the present statute, strike out portions "criticized as unconstitutional" and clarify the law.

Kincaid said a call was made to several cities Tuesday to obtain the retail prices of one-half gallon of milk. He listed them as: Richmond, Va., 61 cents; Columbia, S.C., 63 cents; Knoxville, Tenn., 59 cents one place, 56 cents another; and Raleigh, 65 cents.

"The farmer must be protected," Kincaid said. "His product is perishable and must be disposed of immediately."

But the distributor should be treated as any other business in our free enterprise system."

Little Girls Get Training

By ALISON LERRICK
PARIS (AP) — What adds more to the height than four-inch heels? Hair.

The Syndicate of the Haute Coiffure Francaise, which recently showed its head for summer, has put so many curls, frizzles and waves on top of it that it adds four inches on top, not to mention another few on each side, for a head that makes a real impression.

The "Angel" made an exit circa 1941 and is now resurrected for the first time since. And everyone knows angels wear permanents, just right for dunking in the ocean and springing back into shape. But the permanent now is personalized, with every lock immobilized for good according to its character.

"Shake your heads, girls.

Look how the hair is alive!" exclaimed Serge Stern, Syndicate president, beckoning at his bakers dozen of angels-models.

But contrast is the most angelic quality, both in length and color. The head is divided into three concentric circles, with the bangs short and floating up or down, depending on whether you're fond of your forehead, and the six-inch "halo" projecting behind them. Inside it is another short patch, just beanie-size, which ideally should be in a different color, like red with gold, to make the head truly "three-dimensional."

"This is the hair that suits the 40s clothes," explains Stern. "Besides, only true professionals can do it," thinking of the business havoc wrought by the craze for "lank" swinging hair.

NLRB Abolishment Suggested

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Sylvester Petro, professor of law at New York University, says the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) should be abolished because it is made up of political appointees who are influenced by political pressure.

Adjudication and interpretation of labor laws should be handled by courts he said Wednesday during a panel discussion at the Wake Forest University School of Law.

Another panelist, Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., said, "the trouble with it (the NLRB) is its insatiable thirst for power. Congress passes labor laws... and the NLRB twists them to suit the occasion."

Petro and Ervin said the labor board has upset the constitutional provision for separation of powers by wielding too much judiciary power in labor relations.

Rebuttal Time Offered

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A Pentagon delegation discussed with representatives of WBTV Wednesday the television station's offer of one hour air time to rebut a CBS documentary on the Defense Department's public information activities.

Charles H. Crutchfield, president of WBTV, said the Defense Department will decide later whether to accept the offer.

The controversial documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon," was broadcast Feb. 23 and rebroadcast March 23. Following the rebroadcast, CBS showed rebuttal comments by Vice President Spiro Agnew, Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, and Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. Then Richard Salant, president of CBS News, rebutted the rebuttals.

Flying Whale Smashes Car

FLORENCE, Ore. (UPI) — When a dead 42-foot California gray whale washed ashore here, the Oregon Highway Division concluded the best way to get rid of it was to blast it into little pieces, so sea gulls and other scavengers could devour it.

In the blast of 20 cases of dynamite, a flying chunk of whale smashed flat the roof of a car parked a quarter-mile away. Said the owner, Walter F. Umenhofer, "My insurance company is never going to believe this."

Good Friday Observance Set

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Scott has called on all North Carolinians to observe Good Friday, April 9, as "A Day of Prayer in North Carolina" for American prisoners of war in Vietnam.

The governor is asking all citizens to pause at 3:15 p.m. for "one minute of silent prayerful concern for the fate of our fellow North Carolinians and fellow Americans."

Dixon

Mrs. Mary M. Dixon of 410-B Elks St. died Sunday in Quigless Clinic in Tarboro. Funeral services will be conducted Friday at the Church of God in Christ with her pastor, Bishop Wyoming Wells, officiating. Burial will follow in Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Dixon was born in Mecklenburg County but moved to Greenville where she made her home. She was the widow of Herbert Dixon.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Rosa B. Williams of Greenville; one son, Willie James Johnson of Newport News, Va.; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Ringold of Windsor and Mrs. Lucy Moore of Greenville; and seven grandchildren.

Smith

Mr. Rudolph F. Smith, 65, died at his home near Greenville Wednesday afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Friday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Russell R. Davis, pastor of the Boyd Memorial Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Smith, a native of Pitt County, lived in Winston-Salem and Utah for many years. For the past four months he had been living near Greenville and was a farmer.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Lucy Smith of Goldsboro.

Godley

Mr. Willie L. Godley, 70, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted at 2:00 p.m. Saturday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by Captain Al Smith of the Salvation Army. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Godley spent most of his life in Greenville and was a mechanic. He was a member of the Salvation Army Post.

Surviving are a son, James W. Godley of Winterville; a daughter, Mrs. Latham Williams of Greenville; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Lester Taylor of Greenville; three brothers, Paul and Wesley Godley, both of Greenville, and Marshall Godley of New York, N.Y.; three sisters, Mrs. Alice Mears of Tarboro, Mrs. Rosa Franks of Clinton, and Mrs. Lena Hoffman of Jacksonville; 10 grandchildren; and seven great grandchildren.

Smith

Mrs. Sarah Lane Smith, 68, wife of Mack G. Smith, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Wednesday afternoon at 3:25. Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 Friday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by her pastor, the Rev. Dana Hunt, and the Rev. Kenneth Moore, pastor of the Red Oak Christian Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery. She resided at 1801 E. 5th St.

Mrs. Smith, a native of Wayne County, was reared in the Fountain Community and attended Western Carolina University at Cullowhee and East Carolina University. She taught in the Pitt County Schools prior to her marriage to Hugh T. Stokes in 1927. He died in 1945. She was later married to Mack G. Smith in 1948. She was a member of the First Christian Church.

Surviving are her husband; a son, Hugh T. Stokes Jr. of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Bruce Garris of Grifton and Mrs. William T. Robinson of New Bern; a brother, Leon Lane of Pinetops; four sisters, Mrs. Lester Moredith of Atlantic Beach, Mrs. Notoma Gresham of Ayden, Mrs. Christine Jackson of Ayden, and Mrs. T. C. Webb of Pinetops; and six grandchildren.

Barrington

Mr. Luther E. Barrington, 57, died in Beaufort County Hospital in Washington Thursday morning at 5:45 after suffering a heart attack about two hours earlier. Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 Saturday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel and burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

The Rev. Kenneth Moore, pastor of Red Oak Christian Church, and the Rev. Lee Early, his pastor, will conduct the services.

Mr. Barrington was born and reared in Beaufort County near Chocowinity, and had lived near Grimesland for the past 23 years. He was a member of Proctor Memorial Christian Church at Grimesland, the Improved Order of Red Men of Washington, and was a farmer.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eva Mae Harrell Barrington; two sons, Luther H. Barrington of Burlington and Billy C. Barrington of Grimesland; his mother, Mrs. Mattie Edwards Barrington of Grimesland; two brothers, Mitchell Barrington of Edenton and Ronald E. Barrington of Grimesland; three sisters, Mrs. Ed Andreoli of Richmond, Va., and Misses Beulah and Mable Barrington, both of Grimesland; and four grandchildren.

York Youth Planning Play

The York Memorial Youth Board will present an Easter play, "An Easter Conversion" Good Friday at 8 p.m. in the educational department of the church.

The play is the story of a hippie who doesn't believe in Easter. After seeing a movie, he becomes a convert for Jesus. The movie was made by the Youth Board and is a part of the three-act play.

The public is invited to attend. Sloths inhabit the forests of Central and South America.

SAIGON (AP) — A number of GIs in Vietnam who heard President Nixon's broadcast don't share his faith in the South Vietnamese army. But many think he could nevertheless speed up the withdrawal of American forces more than he promised.

Most enlisted men questioned at random said the President's speech contained nothing new or unexpected. Some said the Americans should pull out immediately while others expressed doubts about the ability of the South Vietnamese to resist the enemy without U.S. support.

An exception was a sergeant who has been in service 19½ years and is due to retire in six months. He said he would "go along with President Nixon." But "I've been in the service too long to make my opinions known," he added, refusing to be quoted by name.

Of Nixon's announcement Wednesday night that American forces would be reduced 100,000 men in the next seven months, Spec. 5 James Osteen of Cordele, Ga., said: "I think it's good, but it should be more."

The sooner we all get out, the better."

"We ought to pull out now, right now," said Sgt. Jack Silvers, 21, of Anchorage, Alaska. "The Vets don't give a damn if we're here or not. They don't care who rules them, Communists or whatever. We haven't accomplished anything, just got a lot of our guys killed."

S. Sgt. Gerald Taylor, 23, of Salt Lake City, Utah, commented: "I thought it was interesting to hear him rationalize what really appears to be desperate attempts to give the South Vietnamese more time."

"In Laos they didn't succeed in making a base area to stop movement on the trail ... Once the GIs are gone, without the continued air support, the North Vietnamese will be right back here."

A sampling of GI reaction at Quang Tri in South Vietnam's northernmost province produced these comments:

Sgt. George Gibson, 32, Louisville, Ky.: "To me it's just a bunch of hogwash. It struck me as a political speech. He may be sending some people home, but others are coming in."

Sgt. William Stroth, 24, New Knoxville, Ohio: "It sounded good to me if he's going to pull

Editor, Student Face Hearing

Robert Thonen, editor-in-chief of the Fountainhead, the East Carolina University campus newspaper, and student Bill Schell, have been notified they are to appear before a judicial hearing committee at the university. The two are charged with violating university rules and regulations concerning the use of abusive or obscene language.

"The charge states," Thonen commented this morning, "that I published or caused to be published, abusive or obscene language." The charge arises from a letter, signed by Schell, that appeared in the Forum section of the April 1 issue of the campus paper.

"Basically," Thonen said, "the subject of obscenity had been brought up much earlier this year. I said at the time as editor I didn't approve four letter words but could not in good conscience censor four letter words without a specific statute to that effect."

"Regardless of people's views expressed in a campus paper, whether its liberal or conservative, religious or agnostic," Thonen commented, "My responsibility is to keep, especially the pages of the forum, completely and absolutely open."

Thonen related that the publications board met and discussed the situation. "They informed me in a letter that they were aware of the controversy a stand on obscenity would create. For these reasons I was told to use my own discretion."

In reference to this, Thonen said, "I told them I would make every effort to keep such language at a minimum. In each case, I tried to determine if the writer was sincere, if the language was part of a point being made."

He noted this is what the Publications Board agreed he should do.

Earlier this week, a university spokesman confirmed that a judicial hearing involving Thonen and Schell would be held on April 15.

Thonen said today the hearing had been tentatively postponed, and that he expected to be informed soon of a new date for the hearing.

Schell could not be contacted for comment on the forthcoming judicial hearing.

New Bern Bests Rose Runners

NEW BERN — Rose High School's track team nipped Goldsboro for second place in a three-way Division II track meet yesterday, while hosting New Bern away with first.

The Bears piled up 74 points to capture first place in the meet. The Rampants finished with 43, while Goldsboro was just a step back at 41.

New Bern won eight of the 15 events, while Goldsboro took five firsts and Rose captured only two. The Rampants had more depth than the Cougars, however, and Goldsboro failed to score in the relays. That enabled Rose to just slip past them.

The Rampants play host to Kinston and New Bern here next Wednesday.

Summary:
Shot put: Humienny (NB), Riddle (G), Clark (R), Pittman (NB), 49-1/2.

Discus: Riddle (G), Humienny (NB), Hunter (R), Clark (R), 138-4.

Battle For Quarterback Goes On At ECU Drills

The big question a year ago when East Carolina's football team switched from the single wing to the pro-set was — "Who will play quarterback?"

Well, the question is the same this spring as Coach Sonny Randle's Pirates go about the business of preparing for a season which is still five months away. However, the circumstances are much more pleasant.

Last year the Bucs had no one with varsity quarterback experience, no one with freshman quarterback experience, in other words, no quarterback with any college experience on the job. The question "Who will play quarterback?" was usually asked in hushed tones which bordered on fright.

What a difference a year can make. Now Randle has not one, but three young men he thinks can do the job this fall when the Pirates open up with Toledo on Sept. 11.

"We are very fortunate at quarterback," says Randle, "in that we have, I sincerely believe, three of the best quarterbacks in the Southern Conference. I wouldn't trade any one of them for anybody in the league."

The terrific trio is composed of returning starter John Casazza, who came out of Chowan Junior College a year ago to break many ECU passing records; blue-chip sophomore Carl Summerell, who enjoyed some great games as a freshman; and junior college transfer Gary (Magic) Wann, who was Junior College All-American at Fullerton, Calif., last season.

"We have no idea which one will start against Toledo," says Randle. "It could be any one of the three. All have looked good in spring drills. I have the utmost confidence in Casazza, Summerell and Wann. And I'll say one thing — whoever wins the No. 1 job will have really earned it and he'll be a better quarterback because of the other two men pushing him."

Of the three, the 6-3, 195-pound Wann is the strongest passer. He throws the long ball very well — something the Pirates lacked last fall. The 5-10, 185-pound Casazza, a rising senior, is the most experienced of the three. And Summerell, who stands 6-3 and weighs 190, is probably the best runner of the trio.

It all adds up to a very pleasant situation for the Pirates. And to make matters even better, Messrs. Casazza, Summerell and Wann are getting some expert instruction from Norman Snead, Minnesota Vikings quarterback, during spring drills. Snead has been personally tutoring the three since the start of drills and will do so right up to the annual Purple-Gold Game on April 24 at Ficklen Stadium.

North Pitt In Pair Of Wins

BETHEL — North Pitt High School captured its first baseball victories yesterday, sweeping a doubleheader from Oak City's Trojans. The Panthers won the first, 4-1, and took the second, 15-2.

Steve Fuchs pitched both games for North Pitt, hurling a one-hitter in the opener. In that, he struck out five and walked three. Both games were set as five-inning affairs.

In both, North Pitt jumped on Oak City in the first inning to get all it needed.

In the opener, the Panthers pushed over three runs in the first inning. Linwood Brown walked, and Earl Worsley also reached on four balls. Joey Moore doubled in Brown, and Fuchs helped his own cause with a single. That scored both Worsley and Moore for a 3-0 lead.

North Pitt scored its other run in the second. Brown walked and scored on a double by Moore.

In the second game, North Pitt again jumped on the Trojans early. In the first, Brown led off with a walk and Moore singled. John Grimes walked, loading the bases. Fuchs hit a single, scoring Brown and Moore, and Danny Whitehurst knocked in Grimes with a hit. Ronnie Briley finished off the inning's scoring with a single that brought Fuchs in.

North Pitt went on to score nine more big runs in the second and add two more in the fourth. Oak City scored one in the second and one in the fourth.

First Game
Oak City 000 10-1 3
North Pitt 310 0x-4 4 1
Smith and Adams; Fuchs and Briley.

Second Game

Oak City 010 10-2 5 5
North Pitt 490 2x-15 11 1

Pirate Athletes Receive Honors

Nine East Carolina University student-athletes have been chosen to appear in the 1971 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America."

The nine Pirates named to this elite group are:

Football — Mike Kopp, a junior from Crestwood, Mo.; Richard Peeler, a junior from Shelby, N.C.; Billy Wallace, a junior from Edenton, N.C.; and George Whitley, a senior from Huntersville, N.C.

Football and Baseball — Dick Corrada, a senior from Richmond, Va.

Baseball — Ron Hastings, a senior from Connelly Springs, N.C.

Tennis — Graham Felton, a senior from Rocky Mount, N.C. Track — Jim Kidd, a junior from Manassas, Va.

Wrestling — Mike Spohn, a senior from Frankfort, N.Y.

Announcement of their selection was made by the Board of Advisors of "Outstanding College Athletes of America," an annual awards volume published to honor America's finest college athletes.

Coaches and athletic directors from individual colleges and universities across the nation nominated the winning athletes on the basis of their displayed abilities, not only in athletics but also in community service and campus activities.

The five football players named all won Southern Conference post-season honors in 1970. Peeler and Corrada were named to the First Team All-SC at defensive tackle and offensive flanker respectively, while offensive guard Kopp, runningback Wallace and defensive back Whitley made the Second Team. Corrada set numerous ECU pass receiving records last fall, and has started for four seasons as a shortstop-secondbaseman on the baseball team. Peeler is the elected captain of the Buc gridders this coming season.

Hastings, a hard-throwing righthanded pitcher, led the nation in earned run average last spring with a brilliant 0.56 ERA, a Southern Conference record.

Felton plays No. 1 on the East Carolina net team. Kidd is an outstanding middle-distance man and team co-captain in track (he set a Southern Conference indoor record in the 880 last month), and Spohn was NCAA District 3 champion at 150 pounds in wrestling.

Biographies of the nine Pirate standouts will be published in the 1971 edition of "Outstanding College Athletes of America," set for a July press date.

Ticket Sale Set For Harrington Dedication

Tickets for the dedication game of Harrington Field, East Carolina University's new baseball stadium, will go on sale April 15.

The game against Duke University will be played May 9. Tickets are being handled by the Greenville Jaycees and Ticket Chairman Melvin Hoot expects to fill the stadium, which will be named after a prominent Pitt County native Milton Harrington.

Harrington, who now resides in Durham, is president of Liggett & Myers Inc., and once coached the Greenville entry in the Coastal Plain League.

The opponent makes the dedication game even more appropriate. Harrington captained the Duke baseball team in 1931 under the late Jack Coombs. He is recognized as "the father of baseball" in Greenville.

In addition to coaching in Greenville, Harrington spent many of his playing days here. Many of his teammates and former players will be present for the dedication ceremonies.

Lights and additions to the present baseball field will cost approximately $100,000, which was raised by the East Carolina University Foundation.

"We want to fill the stadium May 9," said Reynolds May, executive director of the Foundation. "We hope the Greenville residents come out to honor the city's 'father of baseball'."

"The stadium will be one of the finest college baseball playing facilities in the South," May continued. "We plan to add new seats at the completion of the present season."

Tickets for the game can be obtained from any Jaycee or from one of a number of Greenville businesses after April 15. Ticket prices are $2 for adults while all children under 12 will be admitted free. ECU students will be admitted with their ID and activity card.

ECU baseball coach Earl Smith called the stadium "a dream come true."

"Now we can compete with any college in the country as far as baseball is concerned," said Smith. "I won't rest until we have a national championship."

The new stadium will be a covered brick and concrete structure.

McGuire Gets Pact Extension

COLUMBIA (AP) — The University of South Carolina says it has extended Coach Frank McGuire's contract to 1980 in a drive to give the school a basketball program "second to none."

T. Eston Marchant, chairman of the Board of Trustees, said in a brief Wednesday announcement that a national schedule is being drafted "to replace our previous one, which was predominantly regional."

His reference was to the school's withdrawal from the Atlantic Coast Conference it helped found 18 years ago and to the ACC basketball tournament title the school won for the first time this year after topping the regular season standings last year.

McGuire, expressing pleasure at the contract extension, said, "Our recruiting has been going on schedule and we are most optimistic about the future."

The New York City native came to the South in 1953, leading the University of North Carolina to the NCAA championship in 1957. After a stint coaching the then Philadelphia Warriors of the NBA, he came to South Carolina in 1964.

He is a 1936 graduate of St. John's University, where he later coached successfully, after 11 years as a high school coach, before moving South.

May Missed The Plate, But Sox Didn't Miss Sweeping Both Games

Alou Triggers Houston Victory; Perry Tosses Four-Hitter In Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Writer
Carlos May. Then again, he may not. Touch home plate, that is.

The rest of the Chicago White Sox know the way home and they took the route 18 times Wednesday while sweeping the Oakland A's 6-5, 12-4 in the first opening doubleheader in major league history.

Carlos almost May-ed it. He negotiated 359 of the 360 feet around the bases without incident after blasting the ball into the seats. The last foot proved elusive. So did the plate. Carlos stepped over it and merrily continued on into the dugout.

"I knew I missed it," he confessed. "I was too busy shaking hands."

Catcher Gene Tenace spotted the boo-boo, appealed to umpire Jim Odom and Carlos suddenly went from three-run homer to two-run triple.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged Washington 3-2, Minnesota blanked Milwaukee 4-0 and California tripped Kansas City 7-3. Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and the New York Yankees were not scheduled.

In the National League, Atlanta nipped Cincinnati and Houston shaded Los Angeles by 2-1 scores. St. Louis battered the Chicago Cubs 14-3 and San Francisco downed San Diego 7-3. Montreal and the New York Mets were postponed by wet grounds and Philadelphia and Pittsburgh had the day off.

The White Sox, who blazed their way through spring training, got Manager Chuck Tanner off to a sparkling AL debut with their twin win. They battled from a 4-0 deficit in the opener—Sal Bando slammed a three-run homer for the A's—with Bill Melton and Walt Williams homering—and tied the score in the seventh on Rick McKinney's pinch single. The winning run scored when center fielder Rick Monday booted the ball.

Jay Johnstone's homer got the Sox started in the nightcap and May's homer-triple made it 3-0. Oakland caught up in the fourth but Mike Andrews delivered a two-run tie-breaking double in the fifth and a grand slam by Melton highlighted a five-run sixth.

The world champion Orioles opened their season on a triumphant note, although they had to wipe out a 2-0 Washington lead, built on RBI singles by Joe Foy and Elliott Maddox.

Baltimore scored in the third on two singles, a sacrifice and an infield out; in the fourth on an error, wild pitch and Ellie Hendricks' single, and won it in the fifth on singles by Dave Johnson and Boog Powell and Frank Robinson's double. Dave McNally scattered nine hits and whipped the Senators for the 20th time in 24 decisions.

Bert Blyleven, who turned 20 on Tuesday, dazzled Milwaukee on four hits and Harmon Killebrew belted his 488th career homer—a two-run shot in the first inning—to pace the Twins.

Pitcher Tom Murphy drove in two runs with a double and single and spaced 10 Kansas City hits as California beat the Royals. The Angels rapped out 12 hits, including a double and two singles by Jerry Moses, a homer by Ken McMullen and two hits each for Alex Johnson and Sandy Alomar.

Just because Jesus Alou is sitting on a bench, it doesn't mean he's sitting still.

"I try to stay in shape, who knows what will happen?" says the Houston Astros' outfielder who's in an unaccustomed reserve role this season.

It happened Wednesday night for Alou against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The St. Louis Cardinals

crushed the Chicago Cubs 14-3; Atlanta topped Cincinnati 2-1 and San Francisco dumped San Diego 7-3 in the other National League games Wednesday. Wet grounds postponed the Montreal-New York contest.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox took a doubleheader from Oakland, 6-5 and 12-4; California turned back Kansas City 7-3; Minnesota slugged Milwaukee 4-0 and Baltimore nipped Washington 3-2.

Alou broke into the line-up after Jim Wynn sprained his back while at bat. The newcomer delivered three singles off Dodger ace Don Sutton, including the go-ahead run that scored Cesar Cedeño.

George Culver saved the victory for Wade Blasingame, slamming the door on the Dodgers with one out and a man on first in the ninth. He coaxed pinch-hitter Richie Allen into a game-ending double play.

Jose Cardenal and Joe Hague each drove in four runs as the Cardinals capitalized on five Cub errors. The losers coughed up nine unearned runs as third baseman Ron Santo and first baseman Joe Pepitone committed two errors apiece.

Southpaw Steve Carlton, a 19-game loser last year, checked the Cubs on three hits until Pepitone homered in the seventh. Billy Williams got Chicago its other runs with a two-run shot in the eighth.

St. Louis, aided by three errors, scored five unearned runs in the third, with Cardenal's two-run single off losing pitcher Bill Hands the key blow. Hague delivered two of the runs with a single in a six-run sixth for St. Louis.

Hank Aaron struck his first home run of the season and 593rd of his career and Clete Boyer knocked in another run in a two-run seventh that carried Atlanta over Cincinnati. Until the Braves' rally, they had been able to reach Reds' starter Jim McGlothlin for only one hit.

The Reds, who had 10 hits off Ron Reed and Cecil Upshaw, scored their run in the sixth on a double by Johnny Bench, a walk to Bernie Carbo and a single by Hal McRae. Upshaw choked off a Red rally in the ninth with one out and a man on second.

Dick Dietz, Ken Henderson and Willie Mays unloaded homers and Gaylord Perry pitched a four-hitter for San Francisco. Henderson hit a solo homer in the second, Dietz a two-run shot in the fourth and Mays smacked his 630th career homer in the seventh.

Nate Colbert was the whole San Diego offense, knocking in all the runs with two homers.

Flood Loses Court Battle

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Curt Flood didn't make any progress in his $3.1 million suit against baseball on Wednesday, but he earned another $611.11 by playing against the Baltimore Orioles.

Just before taking the field against the Orioles, the $100,000-a-year outfielder for the Senators learned he had lost another battle in his antitrust suit.

"We anticipated that," Flood said of a decision by a three-judge U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York which upheld an earlier dismissal of Flood's claims by Federal Judge Irving Ben Cooper.

"We knew that no lower court would overrule a previous Supreme Court decision," Flood said.

Flood claims he was forced into "peonage" by baseball's reserve clause system, but the written appellate decision by Judge Sterry R. Waterman said Flood "retains the option not to play baseball at all."

"We readily acknowledge that plaintiff is caught in a most frustrating predicament, a predicament which defendants have zealously seized upon with great perspicacity," Waterman wrote.

Flood declined specific comment until he had heard from his attorneys, but in New York the lawyers reiterated their intention to pursue the case to the Supreme Court.

"The Supreme Court chooses the cases it wants to hear," Flood said. "I just hope ours will be one of them."

Flood filed his suit when he was traded by the St. Louis Cardinals to the Philadelphia Phillies after the 1969 season. He claimed the reserve clause, which binds a player to one team unless he is traded or released, violates the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, along with antitrust laws of the states and Canada.

After sitting out the 1970 season while his case was heard, Flood signed with Washington and opened the season with the Senators on Monday.

Terrell Trying For Comeback

By murray rose
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Ernie Terrell says he came back to the ring because "I owe that guy a beating."

The 6-foot-6 heavyweight, now 32, referred to ex-heavyweight king Muhammad Ali.

"I also owe Floyd Patterson a beating," added Terrell, the former World Boxing Association heavyweight champion.

"That's what I'm fighting for now—that and a chance at the title," he said Wednesday at a press conference for a press conference for a tripleheader television fight card May 3 in which he is one of the featured boxers. He will meet Brazil's Luis Faustino Pires in a 10-round in Chicago.

That fight will start off the electronic title. It will be followed by another 10-round in Toronto matching Jimmy Ellis, another former WBA heavyweight champion from Louisville, and George Chuvalo, the Canadian champion, and finally a 15-rounder billed "for the heavyweight championship of the Americas" in Oakland, Calif., between unbeaten George Foreman of Hayward, Calif., and Gregorio Peralta of Argentina.

Loren Cassina, the president of the firm which set up the show, said the Chicago fight would go on at 9:15 p.m., EDT, followed by Toronto at 10 p.m. EDT and then by Oakland at 10:45 p.m. EDT.

Cassina said the three fights will be seen in each of the arenas and in about 300 theaters coast to coast by closed circuit television. He said the fights will be telecast live by satellite to Hawaii and South America.

Terrell was beaten and humiliated by Ali in a savage, foul-packed title fight in Houston, Feb. 6, 1967. Not long afterward, Ali refused induction into military service, was stripped of his title, and was kept out of the ring for nearly 3½ years.

The towering Terrell, who has a musical group and business interests in Chicago, retired about nine months after his old rival. He unretired last December and has scored two knockouts.

Daniels Tops ABA All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Mel Daniels was named the Most Valuable Player in the American Basketball Association today commissioner Jack Dolph announced.

The 6-foot-9 center also was named to the All-Star team, joining New York's Rick Barry as the only repeater from last year's squad.

Daniels, who led Indiana to its second straight division title and Barry were joined on the first team by Roger Brown of Indiana, Charlie Scott of Virginia and Mack Calvin of Florida.

The All-Star squad and MVP award was made in a nationwide ballot of sportswriters and sportscasters covering the league.

The second team included John Brisker of Pittsburgh, Joe Caldwell of Carolina, Zelmo Beaty of Utah, Dan Issel of Kentucky, Don Freeman of Texas and Larry Cannon of Denver.

Jack Nervous About Masters

By HUBERT MIZEELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the man who's won everything—twice, has a churning stomachful of nerves during preparation for the 35th Masters Golf Tournament.

"My insides were flopping," said the Golden Bear. "A tournament like the Masters, U.S. Open, PGA or British Open always creates that condition."

Golf's lone "double grand slammer" made one mistake in his Masters timetable. Being a homebody of note, Nicklaus chartered an airplane Sunday night and went to his more-than-humble Florida abode to see his family.

"While I was home, my stomach erupted," he said. "I was sitting there, wanting to be preparing my game and eager to get the Masters started. I want this one, want it badly."

Nicklaus has crossed every major golf barrier except winning the "Big Four" all in one calendar year. The 31-year-old blond bomber captured the PGA title six weeks ago at Palm Beach Gardens—five miles from his Florida doorstep—and is facing step No. 2. "So, Jimmy the Greek said I was 500-to-1 for the Big Four before the PGA," said Nicklaus, gulping a whale-sized dish of ice cream that shattered his famed diet for the moment.

"That would've been worth putting a couple of bucks on," Nicklaus, according to the Las Vegas oddsmaking genius, is now a mere 100-1 to add the Masters and two Opens to his 1971 accomplishments.

The Masters' field of 77 got rolling today with Billy Casper defending the title he won in a playoff from cross-town San Diego pal Gene Littler in an 18-hole playoff last spring.

Nicklaus, Casper and famed "Big Four" counterparts Arnold Palmer and Gary Player—with nine Masters titles between them—clutched most of the favoritism and crowd interest as the Masters began.

"I'm playing well and the putting will tell," said Palmer, a trim athletic specimen at age 41. "I can't see anything wrong with becoming the Masters' first five-time champion."

Unitas Hurt; May End Career

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — John Unitas, who missed a relatively few games while being knocked around for 15 years in the National Football League, finds his career in sudden jeopardy because of a freak off-season injury.

The 37-year-old quarterback ruptured his right Achilles tendon while playing paddle ball Wednesday with teammate Tom Matte, and underwent surgery about six hours later.

Matte, who drove Unitas to Union Memorial Hospital, also was admitted not long afterward when he suffered a recurring attack of bleeding ulcers.

"The surgery confirmed the early diagnosis of a ruptured Achilles tendon of the right foot," a Colts' spokesman said after the 1½-hour operation on Unitas.

"The tendon was separated and shredded about two inches above the right heel," the spokesman said. "The separation was repaired and Colt doctors are optimistic about the surgery."

Unitas is expected to be in a cast for about six weeks, however, and the type of injury has been known to cut short the careers of much younger athletes.

"This has been some year," Unitas reflected. "First, I was hurt in the Super Bowl, then my wife sued for separation, and now this."

Unitas, who holds almost all of the NFL passing records, was injured in the first half of the Super Bowl game against the Dallas Cowboys, but the Colts went on to win, 16-13.

Since he started with Baltimore in 1956, Unitas has suffered broken ribs, a punctured lung, dislocated fingers, torn knee cartilage, broken vertebrae, and tendonitis of the elbow.

He missed one game in 1958 and sat out another, although he was ready to play, after suffering broken ribs and the lung puncture. In 1965, following knee surgery, he was sidelined for four games.

The elbow tendonitis kept Unitas out of action almost the entire 1968 season, but a rigorous therapy program restored his throwing arm for the 1969 season.

"It's a staggering thing, not only for all of us personally," said Don Klosterman, the Colts' general manager, "but because John Unitas has contributed so much to professional football and the Baltimore Colts. But with John's determination and courage, we are hopeful of his early return to the team."

Where Jesus Walked

Way Of The Cross Path Only 1,000 Feet

By HAL McCLURE
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — The Way of the Cross, the path the condemned Jesus followed from Pontius Pilate's court to the rocky hill where he died, is only 1,000 steps.

Nearly 20 centuries later the traveler following those same steps may find the Via Dolorosa a Street of Sorrow still—for another reason. Only the most devout pilgrim can close his eyes to its commercialism and secularism.

Too often the visitor, remembering his early Bible training, has an idealized vision of Christ's last agony, perhaps a palm-shaded lane leading to a cloud-shrouded mountain.

It is far from that.

The Via Dolorosa is a narrow, twisting, cobbled alley leading from the Lion's Gate in Jerusalem's eastern wall through the teeming heart of the Holy City to the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, marking the traditional site of Calvary and the entombment.

It is lined with countless shops bearing such impious names as Eighth Station Souvenir Bazaar, Peace Land Souvenir Shop or Holy Land Exhibit. Eager shopowners, who have looked forward to the Easter Week bonanza for a year, beckon from doorways importuning the pilgrim to buy souvenirs—olive wood crucifixes, mother of pearl Bibles, rosaries, brocades, maps, guidebooks.

The truth is, the old walled city of Jerusalem is not unlike any other Arab quarter of the Middle East—filled with the same sights, sounds and smells.

Nine of the 14 Stations of the Cross—which the Bible and Christian tradition say mark crucial events along Jesus' path—are on the Via Dolorosa. The rest are inside the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. Without a guide most of the stations are difficult to find as they are protected behind thick church walls dotting the Way of the Cross.

The names of some of these shrines must be Christianity's most colorful: the Prison of Christ Monastery, the Sanctuary of the Flagellation, the Church of Our Lady of the Spasm and the Church of the Holy Face.

Ironically, the first station, the praetorium where Jesus was condemned, is inside a Moslem boys' school and the pilgrim must wend his way through crowds of shouting boys. The third station, where Jesus fell under the weight of the cross for the first time, was once a Turkish bath. A tiny chapel run by Polish Catholics marks the spot. A combination museum and souvenir shop is at the rear.

Near the sixth station, where Veronica wiped the face of Jesus, two Greek Cypriot matrons, clad in austere black, sit on folding stools to catch their breath. They stare impassively at a wall covered with posters advertising Jerusalem's new films, including "Killer on a Horse" and "Hell Commandos." A lemonade seller, bells tinkling, offers them a cooling drink.

Close to the seventh station, where Jesus fell the second time, a modern-day money-changer boasts he cashes traveler's checks.

Past the eighth station, where Jesus spoke to the daughters of Jerusalem, and the ninth, where He fell the third time, a standup narghileh—or water pipe—still has a waiting line. The proprietor gives each smoker a fresh mouthpiece when he steps up for several puffs.

The crowds begin to thicken on the Christian Quarter Road just outside the Church of the Holy Sepulcher. Gino's Snack Bar, advertising spaghetti and pizza, is doing a brisk business.

Outside the church courtyard, the owner of the Express Laundry takes a noonday nap, his head on an ironing board. Beside the church entrance, an Israeli police sign warns visitors that inside they can't eat, smoke, play transistor radios or speak loudly. Babies and animals are forbidden.

The old Crusader Church of the Holy Sepulcher, badly damaged in an earthquake in 1927, is still under repair. Work is not expected to be finished for 5 or 10 years. The delay is blamed on church groups quarreling over how the restoration must be accomplished.

Saladin, the Arab conqueror of Jerusalem, taking note of the bitter feud, turned the key to the church over to a Moslem guard centuries ago. A Moslem family still has the key.

A flight of steep stairs just inside the door leads to the rocky summit where tradition says Christ died on the cross in the company of two thieves.

A bearded monk gives a candle to one of the devout, an elderly woman in black. She lights it and places it on the altar, closing her eyes in prayer.

To her and others like her this is the only meaning of the Via Dolorosa—the Street of Sorrow.

Fountainhead Receives Award

BEST EDITORIAL AWARD ... for a college newspaper in the Carolinas was presented to Bob Thonen (right), editor of ECU Fountainhead, by David Gillespi (left), associate editor of the Charlotte Observer.

East Carolina University's Fountainhead was judged the second best college newspaper in the two Carolinas in the 1971 College Press Awards competition sponsored by the Charlotte Observer and the Charlotte News.

Members of the Fountainhead staff also brought home editorial writing and feature writing awards from the annual awards luncheon in Charlotte Saturday.

Earl Heffner, Sunday editor of the Charlotte Observer, who judged the large college category, described Fountainhead as "a very lively newspaper."

The merit award for best editorial was won by Editor Bob Thonen's criticism in print of the low student attendance at Artists Series concerts. The editorial appeared following the Anna Moffo concert fall quarter.

The best feature story merit award was presented to staff writer, Ed Brody, for "Dean Has Fond Memories." The story dealt with memories of former Dean of Women Ruth White's years at East Carolina Teachers' College.

Earlier this school year, in October, 1970, Fountainhead was judged "a first-class newspaper" and received a certificate of merit from the Associated Collegiate Press of the University of Minnesota School of Journalism.

Agreement Seen As Being Near

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Negotiators were reported near agreement today on a new work contract for striking Lorillard cigarette plant workers in Greensboro and Louisville, Ky.

Production employees at the two plants, members of the Tobacco Workers International Union, have been on strike since March 1.

A spokesman said Wednesday negotiators were going over details of a contract section by section, with indications that only minor matters remain to be settled.

Charlotte Report Is Due Soon

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Sixty members of the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce recently spent two weeks investigating topless dancers, adult movies and prostitution in the city. Their report, a survey of public morals in Charlotte, is to be made public shortly.

The investigators were asked simply to describe what they saw and not to express an opinion on whether it was obscene.

The chamber says the report on what goes on in the city after dark is intended to help authorities take some action.

Forecasters Could Be Very Wrong This Year

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — This a story that might help explain why many business and government forecasters could be very, very wrong about the economy this year.

Conceivably, it might also help reaffirm your faith in the mental capacity of consumers, and shake up some overly confident theoreticians and clever marketing men.

Most economists are generally agreed that it is the consumer who must lead the nation out of the economic wilderness into which it receded in 1970.

They reason that the consumer has been able to save more than 7 per cent of his take-home pay for more than a year and that, based on prior experience, the time has come for him to spend those savings.

Slight fluctuations in the savings rate can have enormous impact, and could even be the difference between boom or bust.

In the last half of 1968 and the first half of 1969, for example, the rate of savings dropped from 7.4 per cent to 5.5 per cent, resulting in an $11 billion increase in spending.

Something of the same was forecast for 1971; it hasn't arrived.

Tilford Gaines, vice president and economist of Manufacturers Hanover Trust, puzzled over this. He had attended a meeting earlier this year of a dozen respected economists, all of whom were confident spending would rise.

Gaines finally concluded that perhaps economists were placing undue importance on the effect of fiscal and monetary policies in building their economic models.

In the language of the trade: "What ever else may be concluded from the erratic behavior of the savings rate, and therefore of consumer spending habits, it is quite obvious that spending habits are not just automatically adjusted to influences coming from the independent or exogenous variables to which economists have attributed so much importance."

The paragraph is worth re-reading, but simplified, it suggests that an understandable failure of forecasters is that they tend to overlook the free will of customers and view them instead as puppets whose actions respond mechanically to tugs on the strings.

"Consumers obviously have minds of their own," Gaines concluded.

He suggests that forecasters may be overlooking a fundamental shift in consumer behavior and that this shift probably explains why savings remain high and spending lags on big ticket items.

Attendance Law Convictions Said Difficult

The parent in the Charlotte case is a member of the True Light Church, which believes the end of the world is near. He said that because of his religious and moral beliefs he took his 13-year-old daughter out of school, and she is being taught at home by her mother.

Solicitor Thomas Moore said that because of the unsettled conditions in Charlotte-Mecklenburg County schools, he will not prosecute other members of the church in Superior Court, where a jury trial is required.

Moody said that during his days as a private lawyer he found that juries "always felt parents had a right to decide for themselves whether children should go to school."

Darryl F. Zanuck Resigns His Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Darryl F. Zanuck, the last of the tycoons from Hollywood's golden years, has resigned as chief executive officer of the 20th Century-Fox Film Corp.

The announcement Wednesday following a special meeting of the company's board said Zanuck, 68, will retain his title as chairman of the company and concentrate on film production.

The board said that Dennis C. Stanfill, who was elected president March 18, would have responsibility for all phases of corporate activity except film production.

Zanuck, a cofounder of 20th Century in 1933, left Hollywood in 1956. He returned in mid-1962 to take control of the company and turned its loss of $39 million that year into a $9 million profit in 1963.

The success continued until 1969 when the firm lost $36.8 million. In 1970, Fox reported a loss of $77.4 million and a dissident stockholders group initiated moves for a proxy battle to control the firm.

Everything you've always wanted to know about electric heat.*

Maybe you've been thinking about converting your home to a modern electric heating system. But you're not sure which kind to choose. Or how much operating costs will be.

There's a man who can tell you all you want to know. A Vepco Residential Heating Consultant. Here's why you should talk to him if you're thinking about converting to electric heat.

He'll help you choose the best system.

There are different kinds of electric heating systems for different needs. All give you today's cleanest, safest, most dependable home heating, yet each has its own advantages.

The radiant systems, like electric baseboards, eliminate bulky radiators and floor furnaces to give you clean, uncluttered rooms. And they give you another important feature of modern electric heat, room-by-room temperature control.

Other systems are especially designed to take advantage of existing forced air ducts or hot water pipes. They can replace your old furnace with a minimum of time and fuss. And with no interruption of your heat supply.

He'll help you budget and plan your conversion.

The kind of system you choose may depend upon your home and budget. So your Vepco heating consultant will give you all the facts you need to make a choice.

He'll survey your present heating system, including a check on your wiring and insulation. And he'll estimate the cost of operating the new electric system, taking into account Vepco's new low winter electric rates. He'll even help you arrange financing.

Your Vepco heating consultant can also make all the necessary arrangements with a Vepco-recommended heating contractor to estimate the cost of installing the system.

It's all free for the asking.

A Vepco heating consultant won't cost you a dime. And with every free consultant comes free information, ideas, planning and help. In short, everything you've always wanted to know about electric heat.

To arrange an appointment, just call your nearest Vepco office. Or write Vepco, Room 419, P.O. Box 26666, Richmond, Virginia 23232.

R.S. Trail Joins Staff

R. Steele Trail has joined the staff of the North Carolina Council on Mental Retardation as regional supervisor for Eastern North Carolina.

His appointment was announced by Robert L. Denny, executive director of the Council. He will work in a 31-county area which is served by the Caswell Center for the Retarded.

Trial will work with the area coordinators and local planning councils on mental retardation in this area. He will serve as a liaison person between agencies serving the retarded and as a point of referral for services for the retarded.

A native of Raleigh, he served three years in the Army as a medic and is a 1970 graduate of East Carolina University. He entered graduate school there last summer in the field of Vocational Rehabilitation Counseling. He and his wife live here.

Daniel Boone's long rifle was called "Old Betsy."

Opening lead: Four of ♠
A gap in declarer's technique led to South's downfall in his six heart contract which is presented today.

West chose to open a spade against the slam bid which was a very fortunate choice for his side. Any other lead would have given declarer a chance to dispose of his spade loser on the dummy's third club and then only one diamond trick need have been conceded. With the spade opening, prospects appeared hopeless to the declarer. With a fatalistic gesture, he put up dummy's king and thereby surrendered all chances of success. East won the trick with the ace and then tried to cash the queen. South ruffed and proceeded to run all his tricks. However, West held on firmly to his spades while East protected the diamonds, and at the end a diamond was conceded for down one.

With only 11 tricks at his disposal, it should have been clear to declarer after the opening lead that his only hope was to find all the missing assets in spades and diamonds in the possession of one opponent—in this case, East—and then to apply pressure against that player. By cashing all his winners, South may be able to force the defender to surrender his protection in one of the suits. In order for this plan to succeed, however, it is essential to retain dummy's king of spades as a threat card.

If a low spade is played from the North hand at trick one, East will presumably put up the queen to win the trick and then adopt a neutral course by shifting to a trump. Now all the hearts are run followed by the three clubs. Dummy comes down to the king of spades and the king-nine of diamonds, while declarer has left the A-7-4 of diamonds. East is unable to hold the ace of spades and still retain a diamond stopper, so that on the last club he must surrender the slam fulfilling trick to his opponent.

Laos Govm't Official Was Overworked

By KIM WILLENSON
 LUANG PRABANG, Laos (UPI)—The governor of Phong Saly province was so busy a few months ago that he had to quit one of his two jobs. But he came down with a debilitating case of high blood pressure anyway.

That might not seem strange except that so far as the Laotian government is concerned, all that is left of Phong Saly Province is a two-story stucco "capital" on the banks of the Mekong River here in Luang Prabang, 100 miles from the nearest point in Phong Saly territory.

A few days ago a group of visitors called on the governor, Col Phouey Manosane.

Phouey explained to them that he has been governor of Phong Saly since last summer, when the former governor was sent aboard on a government mission. Until two months ago he also was chief of staff for Military Region I, covering the three northwestern provinces of Laos.

Then his blood pressure caught up with him.

"I had to stay up so late at night doing two jobs that my nerves started to bother me, and then I felt sick all over," he said.

So he resigned as chief of staff, and now his main responsibility is "ruling" about 2,000 former refugees of the province who came to this area about nine years ago when the last government officials left the province.

The province actually has been under the total domination of Communist China since 1961, when Gen. Khammouane Boupha, then the governor, broke his allegiance to the neutralist forces of Prince Souvanna Phouma and went over to the Reds.

Since Phong Saly has a longer border with China's Yunnan Province than it does with the rest of Laos, it is not surprising that the Chinese have sought dominance there. The Chinese rule through a consulate in Phong Saly town that is said to be as powerful in the province as the American Embassy is in Vientiane.

Nevertheless, the Laotian government still has fond hopes of one day restoring its rule over all its territory, including Phong Saly and several other northern provinces that are now all but totally ruled by China, North Vietnam or the Pathet Lao.

Dr. Carpenter Will Speak At Divisional Meet

Serving as national chairman of the student member organization of the Music Educators National Conference (MENC), Dr. Thomas H. Carpenter of East Carolina University will speak to students attending the organization's Western division convention next week in San Diego, California.

Carpenter, chairman of the music education faculty of the School of Music, has already delivered addresses this year to students attending the MENC's Southwestern division convention in Albuquerque, New Mexico; the Eastern division convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey; the North Central division convention in Cincinnati, Ohio; and the Northwest Division convention in Boise, Idaho.

After the Southern division convention the last of April in Daytona Beach, Florida, he will have officiated at student functions for all six of the organization's six division conventions.

See Doubling Of Toy Sales

NEW YORK (AP) — Sales of toys will more than double by 1980 and the number of firms manufacturing those toys will be halved, according to toy industry executive Robert A. Vanourek, general manager for the Leisure Group's Youth Recreation Product Line. "Manufacturer's toy volume may reach $5 billion annually by 1980 if trends continue," says Vanourek. "Running counter to this sales leap, the number of companies producing toys should be cut in half to less than 500," he adds.

New Orleans Had A 'Toulouse-Lautrec'

By LAURA FOREMAN
 NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The ample-bodied lady in the antique photograph looks kindly, serene and maternal.

She may have been all those things. She was also a prostitute.

The picture was taken 60 years ago by a dwarfish misanthrope named E. J. Bellocq, a New Orleans native who used a camera to depict the seamier side of this city the way a fellow Frenchman—Henri Toulouse-Lautrec—once painted to immortalize the gutter world of Paris.

Photos On Display
 Thirty-four Bellocq photographs, assembled by the Museum of Modern Art in New York, are now in display at the venerable Delgado Museum of Art here.

All the women Bellocq photographed were prostitutes. Many in the photographs are graphically and emphatically nude, which is something of a departure for the staid Delgado Museum.

"We haven't heard any howls yet," museum director James B. Byrnes said of the Bellocq exhibit, "but we may hear some." He characterized the display as "family style sex," but did not elaborate.

The exhibit is entitled "Storyville Portraits."

The legendary Storyville was one of America's few legalized red-light districts before the U.S. Navy shut it down for good in 1917.

Story Made Famous
 It got its name and official existence in 1896 when a city alderman named Siney Story piously tried to clean up the New Orleans waterfront by restricting illicit pleasure to a circumscribed area.

To his eternal torment, the madams of the area adopted his name.

Jazz was born in the cribs and castles of Storyville, and most, if not all, of the old-time jazz musicians started there. They spelled it jass in those days, and it was not a nice word.

Johnny Wiggs, a jazz cornetist, recalls his impressions of Bellocq in the exhibit's catalogue: "He had a very, very high forehead which came to a point, and he was somewhat bald, or at least that's the impression that I have, and he must have had some kind of brain disease."

"He was short," Wiggs said. "And his sitdown place was very wide. And he had very narrow shoulders."

Hard To Know
 "He was awful hard to get to know. And of course nobody was that interested in knowing him. I mean, there was a funny looking little guy, you know, and he wasn't interested in whether you were nice to him or not."

"I just imagine he was the kind of guy who would bring his own lunch."

This stunted little man cultivated the women of Storyville, by all accounts as a friend rather than a patron, and his pictures of them are by turns poignant, funny, grotesque and profound.

Editor John Szarkowski in the catalogue for the exhibit describes Bellocq's women as "beautiful innocently or tenderly or wickedly or joyfully or obscenely, but all beautiful, in the sense that they are present, unique, irreplaceable, believable, receptive. Each of the pictures is the product of a successful alliance."

Works Ignored
 No one seems to know exactly when Bellocq was born or when he died. He was neither an innovator nor a technical master in his field, and his work—the 89 plates that survive—has been ignored heretofore.

But, as Szarkowski points out, "a skillful photographer can photograph anything well.

"To do better than that, he must photograph what he loves. Bellocq apparently loved women, with the indiscriminating constancy of a genius."

New Trucks Will Be Air-Cooled

BONN (UPI)—Air-cooled motors will replace water-cooled engines in the West German army's next generation of five- and 10-ton trucks, Defense Minister Helmut Schmidt has decided.

But West German tanks will continue to be powered by water-cooled engines. The new truck motors will be capable of burning any type of fuel, including both gasoline and diesel.

Snakes Hazard For Commuter

HOUSTON (UPI)—Russ Van Splinter has encountered a new hazard in suburban commuting—snakes. The native New Yorker found a three-foot reptile lounging on his windshield and neither courtesy nor rudeness would charm him from the car.

Van Splinter ignored the "Crazy Nut" stares from fellow commuters and went to work with the new hood ornament—sort of a "windshield viper"—in place. A few moments of hectic Houston traffic, however, and the snake slipped away to continue by belly.

The average population density in Indiana per square mile as of 1970 was 174.

'I Feel Proud' Frazier Tells S.C. Legislature

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier has told his home state legislature "Everytime I see a black person taking a step forward I feel proud."

Speaking in a soft voice to a quiet but packed Hall of the House of Representatives Wednesday, Frazier looked at young Negroes filling the visitors' balcony and said:

"If you just put that right foot forward and then that left foot forward and then begin to walk forward, you'll find out that there always will be someone there to give you a hand."

The champion, who drove the 140 miles from his coastal home town of Beaufort in response to a legislative invitation, then looked at the three Negro members of the 170-member legislature, the first of their race in the State House since 1901.

"I am proud to see the few black faces that have been duly elected to this legislature, and it gives me great pleasure to know that, finally, white and black citizens are working together for the help of all the people."

"Times have changed," he observed. "Many things can still be improved. We can and we will have more blacks in our South Carolina legislature."

"We must save our people," he said, "and when I say our people, I mean both black and white."

"It is you and me, all men

Memo Notes Governor Lost

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—An entry in the British Columbia 1971 Centennial Committee's list of "Centennial Memos" issued to the press reads, in full:

"The first governor of the crown colony of Vancouver Island, Richard Blanshard, became lost in the forest shortly after his arrival in 1850."

together, we must fight and we can whip the problems of South Carolina and the whole country."

One of the few Negroes to address the legislature since Reconstruction, Frazier called his visit "a rap with those fellows in the legislature."

He was accorded a loud and long standing ovation when he was escorted into the House hall for a joint meeting of the House and Senate. Lawmakers reached out to shake hands and Frazier used both his to accommodate them.

His mother, wife, two of his children, a brother and a sister accompanied him.

Sen. Ralph Gasque, D-Marion, a former professional boxer and, with a 38-hour record filibuster to his credit, the champion talker of the General Assembly, introduced Frazier.

Later Frazier visited Gov. John C. West and had lunch with a group of state officials before returning to Beaufort for a rest he plans to continue at least until Saturday.

Modern New Race-Course Takes Shape Near Jakarta

By ISA ISMAIL
JAKARTA (UPI)—A modern, multi-million dollar race-course which can accommodate 10,000 spectators is taking shape in the Jakarta suburb of Pulo Mas—literally Golden Island.

The racecourse and all its facilities including computer controlled parimutuel machines is being constructed by an Australian syndicate and is scheduled for completion in March.

The Australian company, DRC Investments Ltd., will spend approximately 10 million Australian dollars for the project during the next three years. The company will hold management and financial rights of the racecourse during the first 15 years of operation, after which the Jakarta municipality will take over.

More than 80 thoroughbred racehorses flown from Australia in December are said to be adjusting themselves quite well to Indonesia's tropical climate. Their feed, which earlier was imported entirely from Australia, is now being replaced with Indonesian-grown grain.

Anniversary Ceremony
Jakarta Governor Ali Sadikin is scheduled to inaugurate the racecourse on June 19, the city's 444th anniversary.

The Jakarta racing management plans to import up to 400 thoroughbred horses this year. Already it has built modern stables which can accommodate 200 horses.

The mile and a half racecourse is shaped as an elongated ellipse with a man-made lake in the middle.

The grandstand can seat 4,000 persons. The building also houses an air-conditioned lounge, as well as restaurants and clubhouses.

William Oei, an Indonesian Chinese who adopted U.S. citizenship eight years ago, is managing director of the track. He said when the races begin in June, Indonesian jockeys will ride the horses. There are now three Australian jockeys in Jakarta training local riders.

Not New
Horse racing is not a new sport in Indonesia.

Residents in central Sumatra have raced horses since early this century. It is said that Dutch colonial authorities introduced horse racing.

In Java racing was popular from the 1920s. Racehorses from Sumatra and Timor Islands are known for their speed although smaller in stature than thoroughbred imported racehorses.

Before World War II, there were some 200 thoroughbred racehorses in Java, imported from Britain, Ireland and Australia.

Initially one race day a week is planned, for Saturdays. There will be eight race per race day, involving about 96 horses. The track plans to eventually hold two race days per week, when more horses are available, through import and breeding.

Damage Heavy To Dwelling

Greenville firemen reported extensive damage resulted to a two-story frame dwelling at 601 South Pitt St. last night when fire erupted in the home.

Officers said the fire apparently started in a second-floor bedroom from an oil heater.

Extensive damage resulted to both the house and its contents in the 9:50 p.m. blaze.

Sunrise Service In Ayden Sunday

AYDEN — The second annual community Easter sunrise service will be held Sunday beginning at 6 a. m. at the Ayden Little League Ball Park.

Services will be conducted by the ministers of churches of Ayden including Rev. G. G. Mister, Rev. Jesse Wilson, Rev. J. H. Trader, Rev. L. T. Wilson, Rev. T. J. Boyer and the Rev. C. H. Overman. Services are being sponsored by the Ayden Good Neighbor Council.

In case of rain, the service will be held in the Elementary School cafeteria.

Grant Is Made To University

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Appalachian Regional Commission has approved a $16,526 grant which will enable the library of Winston-Salem State University to meet the minimum requirements of the American Library Association.

The grant will assist in increasing the number of volumes from 71,600 to 90,000, and in purchasing library equipment.

PLAY PLANNED
An Easter play entitled "He Is Risen" will be presented Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary's Baptist Church.

Winds, Rains, Years Gnaw At Cemetery

LIKE A MUSEUM — The cemetery has gone to seed, but that's okay with the tourists who flock as if it were a museum. It is old, accessible and filled with crumbling vaults of the dead, stacked curiously like rows of file cabinets.

By DAVE STEINBERG
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Wind, rain and the years gnaw at the plaster-and-brick tombs, but the elements only seem to shellac the face of Buddy Anspacher, venerable tour guide at St. Louis Cemetery No. 1.

The cemetery, established in 1789, is the oldest in the city. It lies partially hidden behind four walls on the fringe of the French Quarter. Anspacher has been a fixture for more than 20 years.

The cemetery has gone to seed, but that's okay with the tourists who flock as if it were a museum. It is old, accessible and filled with crumbling vaults of the dead, stacked curiously like rows of file cabinets.

History does abound. There is—or supposed to be—the tomb of Marie Laveau, voodoo queen of the 19th century ... the two wives of William C. Claiborne, the first American governor of Louisiana ... and Etienne Bore, the first mayor of New Orleans, and one of the many wealthy Creole pioneer families laid to rest there.

More than 1,500 burial places exist, counting the family vaults where more than one person is entombed. Few are still buried — there were 39 last year.

The Creole custom of using a single vault for a number of entombments worked efficiently. The remains of the last occupant were pushed to the back and the decayed casket removed. The vault was then ready to receive another body.

Tombs are arranged helter-skelter along twisting oyster shell paths. Some monuments endure with marble and iron railing to protect them; others grind into sand or sink into the swampy soil.

The Archdiocese of New Orleans, custodian of the property, says that lack of funds prevents major renovation. They encourage those with burial rights to improve their lot, and would like to see the public support it as a civic cause.

An isolated magnolia or palm thrives, but weeds are more at home, sneaking out to sunlight.

Night sometimes finds a derelict snuggling up in a clump of weeds and perhaps coming under the spell of Marie Laveau.

A fraternity of disciples still comes to her to this day.

In her day — she died in 1881 at the age of 87 — she prescribed love potions and all the mystical advice voodoo queens give. The faithful who visit the tomb made an "x" with brick chalk that is supposed to be a "gri-gri" or charm.

The believer then makes a wish, any wish, and does a few quick dance steps to complete the ritual.

To Anspacher, 74, all this is part of the history he has repeated daily.

Built like a red bean, his speech is short and friendly. He likes to kid with a straight face: "Don't worry folks, even if you are locked in when we close, there's a law that says we're not allowed to bury anyone alive within five miles of here."

Anspacher also quizzes tourists about the kind of tree that graces the cemetery's entrance. Most don't know, so he tells them: a camphor tree. Here, sniff a leaf.

His tour doesn't include the freshly whitewashed double vault where his grandfather and grandmother are entombed. It is far from his path.

TOUR GUIDE Bob Kelley, doing a dance in front of the tomb of Marie Laveau, Voodoo queen of the 19th century, who is entombed in St. Louis Cemetery. Dance is supposed to put a hex on evil spirits.

TIME OUT — Buddy Anspacher, 74, takes a lunch break between conducting tourists through St. Louis Cemetery.

PEEKING — Twelve-year-old David Schnormeier of Gambier, Ohio, peers into the decaying tomb at St. Louis Cemetery No. 1 in New Orleans.

Worry Clinic
Education Is In Your Reach

Delia offers a splendid idea to give your children a yearning for learning. And that produces lifelong students. Such as Abraham Lincoln! Meanwhile, you furnish your kiddies a chance to earn their own money while they are whetting their wits. It is in their early childhood that true scholars are developed!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
Case Q-522: Delia J., aged 47, offers all parents a challenge. "Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband is a Dental Surgeon. 'He has always said that psychology is vital to all success, so he asked me to cut out your daily 'Worry Clinic' column from our newspaper and make a scrapbook thereof. 'Well, maybe I am a buck-passer! 'But I decided it would help our three sons if they read your column and pasted it in my scrapbook. 'To motivate them better, I offered each one of them 25 cents per day if they'd read the column aloud to their daddy and me at the dinner table and then cut out the column and paste it in the scrapbook. 'Well, that worked splendidly. 'In fact it gave them spending money but also offered them a broad perspective of applied psychology. 'So they made 'A' grades in psychology at college. 'And two of them obtained doctoral degrees! 'They said college work was easy for them, since they had obtained such a broad background of knowledge just from your daily columns. "My husband keeps the bound volumes in his office and has them fully indexed under such headings as Child Rearing, Marriage, Business Psychology, Public Speaking, etc. "Thus, we have a complete 15 year file of every case you have written!" Sir Galahad Parents, take a lesson from Sir Galahad who vainly searched all over the world for the Holy Grail. Then he finally found it when he returned home!

Dr. Russell Conwell, founder of Temple University, delivered his "Acres of Diamonds" lecture over 6,000 times.

Therein, he described a man who sacrificed all his property to seek diamonds afar, only to find them in the stream on his home farm that he had left.

Too often parents also look far away for the education and moral training of their kiddies, when it lies within their own home!

If you good mothers imitate Delia, you will thus instill in your youngsters the "love of learning."

That is far more vital than a college insurance policy to finance 4 years on a distant campus.

Unless your kiddies obtain this deep yearning for learning, they will drop out of high school or flunk out of college.

And with that home-instilled yearning for learning, then your child can even educate himself, as did Abraham Lincoln.

For thousands of Americans who never went to college, are much better educated than many with a college diploma!

Such people avidly seek factual data and take advantage of the many local aids to a cultured mind.

This newspaper is thus a superb "University in Print!"

THE LADIES HAVE PLENTY TO SAY... AND BOY... DO THEY SAY IT... ALL DURING THE MEETING...

THAT IS UNTIL THE CALL GOES OUT FOR VOLUNTEER WORK. THEN... DEAD SILENCE...

Thanks to JIM ALLIGER, TONAWANDA, N.Y.

President Grant Had To Step In

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A president once had to intercede to settle an Arkansas gubernatorial election.

It happened in 1872 when Eliha Baxter led Joseph Brooks by a small majority. Each claimed victory.

Baxter took office. Brooks went to court, but his case was thrown out. Then Brooks took the governor's office by force, and friends of each candidate kept Little Rock on the verge of

Communities For The Fliers

NEW YORK (AP) — "Fly-in" communities, land development projects designed to appeal to private pilots who like to enjoy their own home and their own airplane, too, are increasing in popularity, according to Clark Equipment Co. One of the more sophisticated communities is located near Denver, Colo., and has custom built homes, with garage-hanger combinations, and an eight-hole golf course paralleling the runway.

Responsibility Given Parents

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—The Lansing City Council has unanimously passed an ordinance making parents responsible for the misdemeanors of their children aged 17 and under.

Parents whose children commit crimes can be fined $500 or sentenced to up to 90 days in jail under the new ordinance.

Animals with pouches, such as kangaroos, are known as marsupials.

Dismiss Their
Superintendent

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP) — Dr. John Deason, Alamance County superintendent of education whose program of change and innovation has aroused controversy, is being dismissed. The county Board of Education voted 3-1 Tuesday night not to renew his contract, which expires June 30. He has been superintendent for four years.

AN EAGLE RETURNS—A fledgling bald eagle, a little more than two months old, returns to its nest high in a dead tree at Marco Island, Florida. This eagle is one of two raised in the nest this season and is just learning to fly. It will be five years before the bird acquires its majestic white head and tail. (AP Wirephoto)

Farmland Value Is Moving Up

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The search by America's mobile population for space and recreation is showing up in the values of the nation's farmlands, which Agriculture Department figures show have almost doubled in the past 15 years.

The national average of farmland prices reached an index of 188 last year, based on 1957-59 equaling 100, but the gains in certain areas have been considerably larger.

A partial explanation lies in the steady encroachment of farmland areas by Americans fleeing to exurbia from the congestion and discord of urban centers. Second homes are contributing strongly. And recreational facilities are adding to the values.

A casual review of statistics maintained by the Economic Research Service suggests in fact that some of the biggest factors in farmland prices today are hardly associated with agriculture at all.

In Vermont, for example, prices have risen 250 per cent in less than 15 years—to an average of $180 an acre—a growth explained in part by the rapid development of ski areas and vacation homes amid the dairy farmers and pastures.

And in New Jersey, where farmland values averaging $1,000 an acre are higher than in any other state, the explanation is found by counting the residential developments rather than in technological improvements.

By contrast, acreage valued at $6,000 in the California citrus area is the result of a high degree of development. Highly productive trees, mechanization, irrigation.

But whatever the reasons, prices in almost every state have been rising at a rate in excess of inflation. In other words, prices have been rising in real rather than current dollars.

Last year was an exception, with the national average of values growing by only 3 per cent—and falling in Kansas and California—while inflation exceeded 5 per cent. But the longer trend suggests that the pattern of increases will resume soon.

This is how the indexes—remember, they're based on 1957-1959 equaling 100—look for the various regions:

Northeast 214, Lake States 175, Corn Belt 170, North Plains 171, Appalachian 197, Southwest 237, Delta 253, Southern Plains 212, Mountain 168, Pacific 178. The national average is 188.

In terms of dollars per acre, the Corn Belt reports the highest value at $380, and almost solely because of agricultural rather than population reasons.

Mayor Hits At University

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Lee has come out swinging in his campaign for reelection.

Lee, who became the first black to be elected mayor of a predominantly white North Carolina town in modern times, filled Wednesday for a second two-year term.

One of his major targets in the campaign is expected to be the University of North Carolina, the town's main industry.

The university owns and operates all water and electric utilities in Chapel Hill and adjacent Carboro, as well as those of the school itself.

"We must have those utilities," Lee said Wednesday. "I intend to aggressively pursue that aim."

Opera Group Holds Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—OPERA America Inc., which intends "to develop a representative national voice for opera," held its first meeting in February. Delegates from 27 opera companies attended.

Thirty professional opera companies, including the Metropolitan, are members. During the year membership is expected to increase to include all American opera companies.

Toward a better performance climate, an auditions committee has been formed and in May the organization will hold a national audition of young singers recommended by member opera companies. Hiring personnel of member companies will attend the audition.

NOTICE

Under and by virtue of an Order of the Superior Court of Pitt County, made in a special proceeding entitled "Pattie Briley Boyd, Et Al: Ex Parte", the same being 71SP56, the undersigned Commissioner will on the 18th day of April, 1971, at 11:00 A.M., at the Court House door in Greenville, North Carolina, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash the following described tracts or parcels of land located in Pitt County, North Carolina, to-wit:

FIRST PARCEL: Lying and being in Pactolus (formerly Greenville) Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and on the north side of Tar River and containing three quarters of an acre of land and adjoining the Ed Fleming Farm, and on the north side of the Greenville and Washington Road, five and one-half miles northeast of or from the Town of Greenville, N.C., and being the identical property conveyed by L. C. Lock to Charley Briley by deed dated March 1, 1929, of record in Book V-22, on page 234, of the Pitt County Registry.

SECOND PARCEL: Lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows: Commencing at a stake in the northwest intersection of Fleming Street and Tucker Street; thence running N. 69-10 W., a distance of 73 feet to a point which shall be the point of Beginning; thence runs N. 69-10 W., a distance of 70 feet to a stake; thence S. 20-05 E., 50 feet to a stake; thence S. 69-10 E., 70 feet to a stake; thence S. 20-05 W., 50 feet to the point of Beginning; and being the western half of Lot No. 35 of the S. I. Dudley Homeplace Subdivision, which was conveyed by Sam Fleming and wife to Amos Mills and wife and Jack Carr and wife. See also Book D-26, page 502; and Book W-15, page 26, of the Pitt County Registry. This is the identical property conveyed by Amos T. Mills and wife, Christine P. Mills, to Charlie Briley and wife, Rachel Briley, by deed dated December 18, 1954, of record in Book E-28, on page 101, of the aforesaid Registry.

This property will be sold subject to ad valorem taxes for 1971 and subsequent years and all other outstanding taxes and assessments. Each tract will be sold separately. The successful bidder will be required to deposit ten per cent of his bid for the first $1,000.00 and five per cent of any excess over $1,000.00, to show good faith, pending final confirmation or order of resale by the Court.
