Podgorny Is No. 2

Brezhnev Confirmed Top Man

By MICHAEL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Communist Party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev was confirmed in the Soviet Union's top job today but Nikolai V. Podgorny emerged as the country's No. 2 man.

Podgorny, shunted off to the ceremonial role of president of the Soviet Union six years ago, was listed right after Brezhnev in the ruling Politburo announced by the party chief at the close of the 24th party congress. Podgorny's advancement pushed Premier Alexei N. Kosygin down to third place.

There was no immediate indication of the reason for the change in precedence. Kosygin, spokesman in the inner circle for the nation's economic managers, had held second place in the Politburo listing since the last congress in 1966.

Brezhnev announced that the party's Central Committee has added four veteran party workers to the ruling Politburo, bringing the total membership to 15.

Three of the men had been among the nine candidate or junior, nonvoting members of the Politburo. They are Viktor V. Grishin, chief of the Moscow party; Dinmukhamed A. Kunayev, first secretary of the party in Kazakhstan and a protege of Brezhnev, and Vladimir V. Shcherbitsky, premier of the Ukraine.

The order in which he listed the enlarged Politburo indicated that in addition to Kosygin's demotion to third place, Alexander N. Shelepin, the ambitious former secret police chief who is also the youngest man in the group, had dropped from seventh to 11th place.

Brezhnev read out the names in this order: Brezhnev, Podgorny, Grishin, Mikhail A. Suslov, Andrei P. Kirilenko, Arvid Y. Pelshe, Nirill T. Mazurov, Dmitry S. Polyanskiy, Pyotr Y. Shelest, Gennady I. Voronov, Shelepin, Grishin, Kunayev, Shcherbitsky and Kulakov.

The retention of all previous 11 members reinforced the impression, cultivated throughout the 24th congress, of stability and continuity at the top. This was heightened by the announcement that the 10-man party secretariat, which deals day to day with internal party questions, would be unchanged.

Presidential Primary In Hands Of The House

RALEIGH (AP) — It's now up to the state House of Representatives to decide whether North Carolina will join the group of states having presidential preference primaries.

The Senate voted 28-9 Thursday to pass a presidential primary bill after a lengthy debate during which Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover, led the opposition.

The bill would bring an increase in Powell Bill allocations to all municipalities, but some would get a bigger increase because of a change in the allocation formula.

Rep. Clyde Auman, D-Moore, sponsored the bill to permit elections in four Moore County townships on sale of liquor by the drink in class A restaurants.

Accusations Leveled At Former Penn Central Financial Officers

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two former financial officers of the Penn Central, a former Wall Street investment banker and two companies have been accused by the nation's biggest railroad of secretly manipulating Penn Central resources for their personal gain.

Their actions resulted in huge financial losses and drove the railroad into reorganization under the federal bankruptcy law, a civil complaint filed Thursday in U.S. District Court charged.

The giant transportation firm seeks recovery of millions of dollars lost through the "unlawful conspiracy and conduct." No dollar amount was spelled out.

Named in the action were: —David C. Bevan, Gladwyne, Pa., former chairman of the Penn Central finance committee.

—William R. Gerstnecker, Philadelphia, former Penn Central treasurer.

—Charles J. Hodge, Short Hills, N.J., former partner of du Pont (F.L.) Gore Forgan, Inc., a New York brokerage house.

—Penphil Co., a Pennsylvania corporation in which Bevan, Hodge and Gerstnecker were principal organizers. Bevan's brother David, a lawyer, is secretary-treasurer of Penphil.

Annexation Plans Are Turned Down By City Council

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Action that would have been one step nearer to annexation of several areas to Greenville died last night when Councilman Jerry Sutherland's motion to move ahead with preliminary work for annexation of Areas 1, 2, two parts of Area 4, and Area 5A, failed to receive a seconding motion.

Sutherland's motion followed an explanation by City Attorney David Reid that annexation required considerable preliminary planning and studies. "The City Council will have to direct the city manager and city planner to proceed in specific areas," Reid explained.

The areas Sutherland proposed for immediate consideration followed the same description set forth by the Planning and Zoning Commission. At their last meeting planning and zoning members voted to recommend City Council initiation of action to annex specifically designated areas.

Area 1 consists of five separate tracts between Evans and Charles Street. Area 2 includes a large tract of property west of the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad and east of Hooker Road and the WNCT Television Station area.

The other two areas in Sutherland's motion — Area 4 is made up of two small tracts south of Red Banks Road; and Area 5A is that part of Meadowbrook east of North Greene Street extended.

Dillon Watson, City Planner, noted during discussions that Hugh Winslow had sent a letter asking his farm (in Area 2) not be considered for annexation at this time.

At the beginning of the discussions, City Manager Harry Hagerty told Council members that if annexation was considered, "we still can't get action on time to get it on the books by July 1."

June 30 is the last date that listing can be made for city tax purposes of any area taken into the city. Any area taken in July 1 or after is not subject to listing until the following January.

Realtor Louis Clark, representing Wheless Associates, displayed architectural renderings and plans for the construction of a single story office building. "We propose to begin construction of a 10,000 square foot building as the first stage of a complex that will eventually cover the whole block," Clark said.

During discussions Hagerty noted that Area 6, known as the Dudley Farm, was a problem area for which annexation should be considered. He pointed out the area presents the dangers of possibility of an outbreak of diphtheria or typhoid fever, adding "one of the big problems is getting street rights of way."

Annexation of that area would be more a matter of humanity than anything else," Sutherland commented.

A Redevelopment Commission request for sale of Parcel 12 in the Shore Drive Project won approval of City Council members. Successful bid for the property, the block bordered by First, Second, Evans and Washington Streets, was in the amount of $101,800, bid by Wheless and Associates, a partnership firm. This figures out to $1.35 a square foot. A fair price minimum of $1.30 per square foot had been established by the Redevelopment Commission.

Nixon And GOP Senators Appear To Have Split Over Withdrawal Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and the Senate's top Republican have split publicly on whether President Nixon has indicated a target date for withdrawal from Vietnam.

GOP Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd both say they believe President Nixon plans total withdrawal by Jan. 20, 1973, the last day of his current term.

But the White House said the President has no specific deadline.

Scott and Byrd said in separate news conferences Nixon gave them the impression of having a final Vietnam pullout date when he briefed congressional leaders prior to his nationwide address Wednesday night.

That briefing also prompted Republican Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, a longtime critic of the war, to attack Nixon.

Hatfield said he got no such impression in listening to Nixon's speech, adding "It is very poor ... for the President to speak in such camouflaged language so that the American people aren't quite clear" on his Vietnam intentions.

The White House reacted initially to Scott's comments with a reference to the President's speech, in which he rejected setting a fixed terminal date.

Later, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters "I think it would be incorrect to say at this time that the President has a specific date that he feels this plan U.S. withdrawal will be completed by."

The Pennsylvania Republican made clear his belief that Nixon spoke in a different view in the briefing.

"I am more pleased by what I heard in the briefing," than in the speech, he said.

Byrd, who along with House Speaker Carl Albert was one of the two Democrats at the briefing, conveyed a similar impression.

"He (Nixon) did not state a definite date," the West Virginia Democrat said, "but I had the very definite impression from what was said that the President has a date in mind."

Asked if the date was by the end of his term, Byrd replied "I think that is substantially correct as I understood the President."

Hatfield responded to Byrd's comments by noting that Nixon has attacked proposals to set a fixed withdrawal date as playing into the hands of the enemy. Hatfield is sponsoring an amendment to force all U.S. troops out by the end of 1971.

City Bus Report Goes To Council

City Manager Harry Hagerty reported to City Councilmen last night on his finding of a bus transportation survey. Last month councilmen had directed Hagerty to further pursue all avenues of information on a possible bus system for the city.

Hagerty noted, "This would be for a full operational system. A system of fewer hours, fewer routes could be worked out on the basis of $112 per day per bus."

The Raleigh City Coach Line can provide busses to the City of Greenville at $13.00 per hour per bus for the first hour, and $9.00 per bus per hour for each successive hour.

On the basis of assuming a need in Greenville for six busses for 12 hours a day, six days a week, Hagerty said this "will cost the City of Greenville $209,664 per year, or $4,032 a week."

Under this concept, the city would pay this amount outright, and would receive all revenues collected. Assuming a basis of projected use of 10 passengers per hour for each bus, based on

In his report, the city manager said other arrangements were also possible. There are two basic methods he mentioned. One is to guarantee a set amount to a bus company operating a system; the other is the method presented by the Raleigh City Coach Line, where the company would rent the city a set rate with the city getting all revenues.

Executive Jet Aviation, Kanab Pipe Line Co., Tropical Gas Co., National Homes Corp., and Continental Mortgage Investors, the suit said.

Some of the investments for Penn Central were made through the Contingent Compensation Fund which has holdings of around $8.5 million, and the Supplemental Pension Fund having investments worth about $331 million.

Through Penn Central diversification investments Bevan, Hodge and Gerstnecker were able to exercise power in such firms as Great Southwest Corp.,

Penphil Co., du Pont (F.L.) Gore Forgan and other "tippees."

—Profiting by purchases and sales of shares made by Penn Central through gains, commissions and other considerations received by themselves and by Penphil Co.

Gerstnecker said he hadn't seen the complaint and declined comment. Bevan and Hodge couldn't be reached.

The railroad's trustees, now handling the reorganization effort which began last June 21, recently reported Penn Central lost $431 million during 1970 compared with a railroad operating deficit of $91 million in 1969.

Christians And Jews This Week Celebrate Their Separate Rites

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In a rare concurrence, Christians and Jews this weekend simultaneously celebrate their related, but contrasting festivals of man's redemption from bondage.

The kinship of the two occasions, in mood and concepts, symbolize the "persistently mysterious yet fateful bonds" which have linked the two faiths through the centuries, says Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum.

It is the only time in this decade when the Jewish observance of Passover eve this Friday coincides with the Christian observance of Christ's crucifixion, as was the case when it occurred.

Ordinarily, because of subsequent differences in ways of calculating the dates, the two festivals come at separate times, often weeks apart.

But both are springtime events. Both breathe a spirit of joy, hope and new horizons of life. Both involved great personalities, Moses and Jesus. Both commemorate God's intervention in man's behalf.

Basically, both also celebrate man's liberation by God from the shackles of destructive powers.

"The Lord is my strength and my song, and He has become my salvation," sang an exultant Israel on that first Passover of old, as recorded in Exodus 15. "Thou has led in Thy steadfast love the people whom Thou hast redeemed."

Passover commemorates mankind's first great struggle for freedom, and victory over tyranny through the exodus of the Jews from slavery in Egypt.

"Let my people go," demanded Moses, and through a miraculous series of events, the captivity, ragged people broke free from the dominant military power of the era.

Among Christians, their festival of Christ's crucifixion and resurrection also celebrates mankind's release from another kind of chains, the destructive forces of sin and death.

"Christ has set us free," writes St. Paul, and Peter's epistle adds, "We have been born anew to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ... and to an inheritance which is imperishable."

The climax of the Christian celebration comes Sunday, on Easter, marking Christ's resurrection from death and the promise it holds out for man's ultimate future.

Passover is observed for eight days by Orthodox and Conservative Jews, and seven days by Reform Jews.

Fires Hit Two Houses

Greenville firemen reported an unoccupied house on Memorial Drive was destroyed by fire about 5:05 p.m. yesterday.

Officers said the wood frame dwelling, vacant for about 10 years, was used as a storage facility for King Electric Company. Both the old dwelling and a small out building were reported as a total loss.

Greenville police investigators said two nine-year-old boys allegedly started the fire while playing with matches in the building.

Officers, who reported investigation of the incident is continuing, quoted one of the boys as saying the two got scared and ran when the fire started.

Firemen were called at 6:06 a.m. today to 404 Biltmore Street when a fire was discovered there.

Officers reported heavy fire damage resulted to the living room of the dwelling, while smoke damage resulted to the rest of the house.

City Asks For Dismissal

GREENSBORO (AP) — The city of Winston-Salem has asked dismissal of a suit by the Black Panthers on the ground it makes claims for which the court cannot grant relief.

The suit charges that last November and again in January policemen illegally searched Black Panther headquarters buildings in Winston-Salem and are wrongfully holding some of the organization's property.

An answer in behalf of the city and of Police Chief Justice Tucker and Police Capt. Henry C. Carter was filed in U.S. District Court Thursday.

The answer acknowledged that a policeman made copies of papers removed from a burning Black Panther building in November, and the copies still are in possession of the police department.

It also said the department has articles removed from another building which was searched on a warrant in January. And it asked the court what to do with the articles, including a tape recorder, a typewriter, two desks, a duplicator, a movie projector, a television set, two rifles, a riot gun and ammunition.

Tie To Trees Is Very Strong

By P.J. HELLER
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The ties between Mary Slingerland and the trees behind her home are so strong that even the threat of chainsaws could not cut the bond between them.

For the present, 51-year-old Miss Slingerland will enjoy the feeling of "living in the country—right here in Chicago—if you can believe that." Her country is a 38 by 300-foot strip of land between her back yard and the Chicago River—land somebody else owns.

The work crew felled some 20 trees on the lot Wednesday. On Thursday, Mrs. Slingerland tied herself to a tree with a length of green garden hose.

"They'll have to get me before they get those trees," she said.

For six hours, she stayed tied to the tree. The workmen never showed up.

Michael Centanne, owner of a realty company which is clearing the land, said the property owner was trying to determine whether to sell the lot or build on it.

Centanne said: "Maybe this lady wants to buy the lot—but if she does, she sure has an unusual way of asking for it."

Opening lead: King of ♣
The four heart contract presented today is apparently beyond declarer's reach, since three diamond tricks and one club must be lost.

Yet some Souths who became declarer when this deal occurred in a recent tournament, succeeded in making four hearts when the defense was induced to slip up.

A game contract is not open to serious criticism, inasmuch as the combined holdings contain a duplication of values which is not easy to uncover during the auction.

Observe that North and South have the top four spade honors and yet can take only three tricks in the suit. The holding of three small diamonds facing three to the jack is yet another unfortunate flaw.

At the tables where South was successful in his efforts, the play proceeded as follows: West opened the king of clubs and the ace played from dummy. Trumps were cleared up in three rounds and South followed by cashing his three spade tricks, ending up in the dummy. A diamond was led now and East put up the king as West followed with the eight. East then played the ace of diamonds and, when the queen fell from his partner's hand, South's jack became established for the game fulfilling trick.

Altho East had been placed under considerable pressure, his procedure, when diamonds were finally led, was not clearly thought out. South, by actual count, has shown up with three spades and five hearts. West, for his three club bid, presumably has a seven card suit, giving South two clubs. This leaves declarer with three diamonds. If one of these is the queen, then he cannot be prevented from winning a trick in the suit and therefore East cannot gain by playing the king.

When the diamond is led from dummy, East should play low to allow for the possibility that West holds a lightly guarded queen. Even after East put up the king of diamonds, he could still have recovered by underleading his ace next. Under the eight of diamonds drops from West's hand, the conclusion becomes unmistakable that he has, at most, a doubleton in the suit, so that the underlead of the ace can hardly prove costly.

Coalition Is Looking For A New Alliance

By NORMAN KEMPSTER
WASHINGTON (UPI) —

The avowedly liberal Urban Coalition is looking for a new alliance of social action groups with such normally conservative elements as manufacturers and construction companies to open the suburbs to the poor.

The theme runs through several articles in the coalition's magazine, "City."

Malcolm D. Rivkin, a Washington urban planner, argued that business and industry needs low and moderate cost housing near new suburban factory locations and may be ready to use their muscle to promote both racial and economic integration of the suburbs.

In addition, Rivkin said, home builders are turning with increasing enthusiasm to programs of subsidized housing for the poor and near poor because rising costs have driven many potential customers out of the market for conventional housing.

Bizmen Join Drive
"When the question was just housing blacks or housing the poor," Rivkin wrote, "only the liberal voices were raised. And they have had demonstrably little effectiveness."

"Now some other quarters are being heard from, quarters that may conceivably have more influence on the suburban power structure. For they include elements of the power structure itself."

"One such group comes from business and industry. It is motivated by self-interest, a force that has long proved a powerful instrument for social change in American society."

"The simple fact is that these entrepreneurs cannot get or retain a labor force for their activities. They have begun to speak out for a broadened nearby housing supply."

Seeking New Markets
Turning to the home building industry itself, Rivkin said: "Plagued by high costs, high interest, and a limitation on upper-income customers, many conventional builders are looking to a lower-income market to keep them in business."

In another article in the same issue, Richard Babcock, a Chicago attorney and expert on zoning law, said the courts have struck down some restrictive suburban zoning laws partly because of a curious liberal-conservative coalition.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court, he said, struck down a zoning ordinance of a Philadelphia suburb which had required two-acre lots. The zoning clearly excluded the poor.

Babcock said the 4-3 majority, however, was made up of three judges who said it was illegal for the suburb to exclude the poor—and thus force them to live elsewhere—and one judge who decided the suburb had no right to impose rigid restrictions on the property rights of the subdivider.

Rejects Zoning Prejudices
"Starting from premises as distant from each other as Henry George is from a land speculator, (the judges) found themselves in agreement that the police power does not permit this kind of zoning," Babcock said.

"It would be rash to suggest that these improbable federations will be permanent. Some day one of them is going to glance at his bedfellow and dash for the door."

Rivkin made a similar point: "The church and citizen associations mistrust the homebuilders... the builders and developers, in turn, have been unable or unwilling to communicate to this base of citizen support."

But if the liberal and conservative advocates of greater housing opportunity in the suburbs are looking for even a brief marriage of convenience, the Urban Coalition apparently is ready to play matchmaker.

Miss Patsy Ann Oglesby Weds James M. Gregory

KINSTON — Miss Patsy Ann Oglesby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Oglesby Jr. of Grifton, and James Martin Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gregory of Elbert, W. Va., were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock in the Holy Trinity Catholic Church here.

The Rev. Robert Shea of Kinston and the Rev. Wallace Ellis of Grifton officiated at the doubling ceremony.

Altar vases were filled with white snapdragon, gladioli and palms flanked by lighted candles.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Buford Young Goodman, organist, and Miss Mary Ann Ippock of Vanceboro, soloist, who sang "Ave Marie" and "The Lords Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her formal length A-line gown was a silk peau and featured an empire waist of cantilly lace. The scooped neckline accented at the shoulders with flat bows had elbow sleeves of lace. The chapel length train fell from the shoulders and was bordered with bands of lace.

Her headpiece was lace petals outlined with tiny seed pearls attached to a miniature crown with a bouffant shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet centered with white purple-throated orchids.

Miss Nancy Lee Oglesby was her sister's maid of honor. She wore an orchid silk peau styled gown like that of the bride with an organza petal headpiece with an illusion veil. She carried a nosegay of pastel flowers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joseph Gregory of Bluefield, W. Va., Miss Anita Gregory, sister of the bridegroom of Elbert, W. Va., Miss Janet Oglesby of Grifton, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Robert Leslie Oglesby of Kernersville. They wore gowns similar to that of the honor attendant.

Joseph Gregory of Blue Field, W. Va., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were John Diachenko of Cleveland, Tenn., J. R. Hooten of Kinston and Mark Louis Smith of Deep Run.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Oglesby chose a pink polyester dress featuring a jeweled neckline, harmonizing accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua crepe dress with lace jacket and white carnation corsage.

The bride is attending East Carolina University and is serving as organist and choir director of Grifton United Methodist Church.

The bridegroom is a senior at East Carolina University, where he was a member of the East Carolina Pirates basketball team.

For a wedding trip, the bride changed into a navy jacket dress with navy and green blouse and wore the orchids from her wedding bouquet.

They will make their home in Greenville for the school term. Miss Mary Ann Perkinson of Greenville presided at the church register.

After the ceremony, the wedding party and out-of-town guests were entertained at a buffet supper at the Oglesby home in Grifton given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leslie Oglesby of Kernersville, Nancy and Janet Oglesby.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas Oglesby Jr. were host and hostess on Friday night at their home for a supper party for the Gregory-Oglesby wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Throughout the home, decorations were of pink and white snapdragons and other spring flowers.

After-Rehearsal Party On Friday night following the rehearsal for the Gregory-Oglesby wedding, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hooten, grandparents of the bride-elect, entertained at a party at their home.

Guests were greeted in the foyer by Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hooten of Kinston. A bride's bouquet with candles were placed on a book case in the foyer. In the living room Mrs. Dalton Williams, Mrs. Jesse Moore, Mrs. Fred Stokes and Mrs. Owen Stokes received.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white cutwork linen cloth and held a silver epergne with white snapdragons and carnations. Mrs. Joe Gregory, mother of the bridegroom - elect, poured punch and the three-tiered wedding cake was served by the mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. John Thomas Oglesby Jr.

Grifton News

Miss Margaret Sugg, administrative assistant to Congressman Nick Galifianakis of Washington, D. C., spent the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Sugg. Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wiggins of Tarboro.

Mrs. Walter Patrick has gone to Greensboro for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. James Whalen, Mr. Whalen and son, Frank Gervis.

Mrs. Ben G. Tucker and Bill Tucker have returned from a visit in Gainesville, Fla., with Mr. and Mrs. Danny Hines.

Mr. and Mrs. Donny Layno and daughter, Paige, of Raleigh were guests during the weekend of Mrs. Blanche Phillips and Mrs. Inez Sumrell, who will be having as other guests this week, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hardee and daughter, Nancy, of Old Hickory, Tenn.

Mrs. J. G. Chauncey is recuperating at her home here after being a patient at Lenoir Memorial Hospital, Kinston.

Let Husband Show Emotions

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a highly emotional man. Last evening we went to a very sad movie, and Dennis cried like a baby in all the sad parts.

When Dennis cries, he blows his nose a lot and his eyes get red, and it's very embarrassing to walk out of a theater with a man who looks like a little boy whose father just worked him over in the woods.

It doesn't have to be a sad movie, either. When we see funny movies, Dennis laughs so hard he cries. I knew he was emotional when I married him, so maybe I shouldn't complain, but I wish there were some nice way to tell him to please try harder to control his emotions in public. After all, it's only a movie. EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Of the many "cultural refinements" in our present-day society, the notion that it's "unmanly" for a man to cry is one of the physically damaging. There is no reason why a man should feel more ashamed of expressing an honest emotion than a woman.

Those who consistently hide their true feelings suffer from a variety of ailments, chronic stomach disorders and skin diseases, to name two. Be grateful that your husband is able to give vent to his emotions. It's healthy!

DEAR ABBY: I have been married twice. My first marriage was miserable. My second, wonderful.

My problem is that my mother never throws anything away. She has the wedding gown from my first marriage hanging in the closet of her house. Every time I go over there I see it, and it bugs me. I've told her several times to please give it away, or throw it away. Just get rid of it because it stirs up such unpleasant memories.

She says, "Maybe one day your daughter will want to get married in it."

I said, "Over my dead body." Abby, my daughter is only 10, and besides that gown is 20 years old and yellow. What can I do? BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: If the gown belongs to you [and it seems to me that it does—even if your mother paid for it], you can remove it from the closet and dispose of it any way you wish. It's difficult to believe that your mother has your best interests at heart, if she knows how you feel and keeps it hanging where you will see it every time you visit.

DEAR ABBY: I have been keeping company with a very nice gentleman for 17 years now. Al is 51, and I am 50. He is a wonderful man and very good-natured. Al recently bought a five-room house [two bedrooms] and we are living together, but not as man and wife. We get along so well and sharing one house is convenient for both of us. I feel I am doing no wrong, but the neighbors don't see it that way.

Al says he will marry me if I want him to, but I'm afraid it might spoil our wonderful relationship. We get along in every way, and we don't tell each other what to do. I have one bad habit which Al hates. Playing Bingo. I'm afraid if I married him he would try to make me quit Bingo, and I don't want to quit. What do you advise? UP NORTH

DEAR UP: Since you and Al are not "living as man and wife," don't marry him because of what the neighbors may think. You're right, a husband might insist that his wife quit Bingo, but a "pal" sharing the same house [sepa-

Order Of Eastern Star Officers Installed In Ceremonies

GRIFTON — Officers for 1971-72 of Grifton Chapter No. 134 of the Eastern Star were installed Tuesday evening in ceremonies at the Masonic Lodge.

The chapter room was decorated with a profusion of white and yellow daffodils, pansies and iris. A large basket of flowering cherry blossoms completed the setting, with lighted yellow tapers placed at each Star Point chair.

The meeting was called to order by the Worthy Matron

Louise J. McCotter, who then introduced the installing officers for the evening.

Mrs. Glen Garner, Installing Officer; Mrs. Effie Johnson, Installing Marshall; Mrs. Leta Shoulers, Installing Chaplain; and Mrs. Lena Langston, Installing Organist, all of Kinston Chapter.

Following the altar ceremony, the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. The Worthy Matron Joe Gilbert led the pledge of allegiance to the American flag and the national anthem was sung.

The Worthy Matron welcomed members and visitors. Mrs. Robbie Federick, of Kinston Chapter who is Grand Representative of Indiana, was welcomed and introduced. Also present were Mrs. Joe Ray, Worthy Matron of Ayden Chapter, and Mrs. Ralph D. King, Worthy Matron of the Kinston Chapter.

Following the farewell remarks of the Worthy Matron, the 1970-1971 officers retired. Following a short recess the following officers were installed:

Mrs. Mamie Dodd Jackson, Worthy Matron; Sam McLawhorn, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Nannie Cameron, Associate Matron; John Glenn, Associate Patron; Edna Earl Murphy, Secretary; Jewel Johnson, Treasurer; Becky W. Glenn, Conductress; Inez Wall, Associate Conductress; Wilbur Murphy, Chaplain; Christine Jackson, Marshall; Ruby Eubanks, Organist; Edna Ruth Nichols, Adah; Myrtle Braxton, Ruth; Virginia Daniels, Esther; Inez Sumrell, Martha; Glenn Barwick, Warner; and Joe Gilbert, Sentinel.

Acceptance addresses were then given by the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron. A satin Eastern Star flag was presented the chapter by the outgoing Worthy Matron and Patron. The meeting was closed with the singing of "Bless Be The Tie That Binds" and the Mizpah benediction.

Upon the retirement of the new officers, guests were invited to a reception in the dining hall of the lodge.

The refreshment table was covered with a linen cutwork cloth centered with an arrangement of pink spring flowers flanked by pink burning tapers in crystal holders.

Punch was poured by Mrs. Louise J. McCotter. Assisting was Mrs. Christine Jackson.

Approximately 75 guests were present from Kinston, Greenville, Ayden, Pleasant Hill, Farmville and Grifton.

Dr. Ralph Rives To Be Keynote Speaker At Annual Author's Luncheon

The Greenville Woman's Club will hold its annual Author's Luncheon on Saturday, April 24, at 1 p. m. at the club building.

Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, a member of the English Department of East Carolina University, will be the keynote speaker. The title of his speech is a line taken from John Steinbeck's "The Grapes of Wrath" — "How Will We Know It's Us Without Our Past?"

A native of Enfield, Dr. Rives is a graduate of East Carolina University and the University of Virginia. He attended Oxford University in England in the summer of 1958, and has traveled extensively in Europe.

He is a member of many historical and cultural associations on the state, regional and national levels. His articles have been published in the "North Carolina Historical Review," "Virginia Magazine of History and Biography" and others as well as in local and state newspapers in three states.

Dr. Rives has served as the president of the Halifax County Historical Association since it was organized in 1966 and is currently the vice president of the Pitt County Historical Association.

Of special interest during the luncheon, will be the presentation of 11 traveling awards to winners in the Creative Writing Contest.

Book club members planning to attend should contact Mrs. J. Con Lanier, 758-1727, by April 14. Tickets may also be purchased from Dink James.

Mrs. James, chairman, announces that space is limited and those wishing to attend should purchase tickets early. Tickets will not be sold after April 17.

With a woman like that to come home to, I'd have enough incentive to make millions, which of course would pay for a full-time, live-in maid.

I don't like housework, either. But I sure like to swing. DAN IN PORTLAND

Couple Observes 50th Anniversary

GRIFTON — On Sunday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Lewis were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary at a reception at the Elm Grove Free Will Baptist social hall.

Their children, Mrs. John Williams of Greensboro, Mrs. Roy Rumley of Greenville, Rex and Billy Lewis of Grifton and J. B. Lewis of Troy were host and hostesses for the afternoon.

Mrs. Lewis was wearing a yellow orchid corsage for the event. Greeting the callers were the Lewis family.

The mantel and piano in the main room were banked with magnolia. The room was also decorated with yellow and gold floral arrangements.

The refreshment table was covered with a linen cloth with satin bows at the corners and centered with an arrangement of gold flowers. The three tiered wedding cake was placed at one end of the table and the punch bowl at the opposite.

Punch was poured by Mrs. Janie Hines, sister of Mr. Lewis. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Rex Lewis, Bud and Ray Lewis and Miss Margaret Rumley.

Gifts were displayed by Anne, Teressa and Mary Jane Lewis. Miss Margaret Stevens and Drew Rumley presided at the register. Music during the afternoon was presented by Miss Nancy Williams of Greensboro.

Approximately 75 guests attended.

Withdrawal Plan Is Sound

President Nixon's latest statement on troop withdrawals from Vietnam leaves the firm impression that the administration intends to follow its course of orderly withdrawal consistent with sound military planning.

This, of course, was not the message his critics wanted to hear or expected to hear in his recent nation-wide address. There had been indications the President may announce a significant speed-up of troop withdrawals and perhaps even set a date by which all American soldiers would be out of Indochina.

More Dimension To Decisions

By BRYAN HAILIP
RALEIGH — Legislative decision has a moral dimension. North Carolina lawmakers were acutely aware of it this Holy Week leading to Easter. The Senate voted on an abortion bill. A House committee held a public hearing on legislation to abolish the death penalty.

Both touched on reverence for life, a doctrine central to religious belief and with profound connotations for Christians at the Easter season. However they stood on the issues — none but the dogmatist — admitted of only one position — legislators agreed moral implications were involved which could be settled only with philosophical struggle and searching of conscience.

"This is the hardest decision we have faced this session," said Senator Frank Patterson of Stanly, Senate floor pilot for the abortion bill. "You must decide it alone with your conscience."

After nearly three hours of debate, in which more than one-third of the Senators participated, the vote was against the bill, already passed by the House, which would have made abortion primarily a matter between a woman and her physician.

Second Moral Issue
It was the second major issue resolved thus far in the 1971 session in which moral questions were raised as a significant factor. The other was liquor-by-the-drink, defeated by the House a few weeks ago.

Taken together, the votes indicate that the hard-grained moral fiber of the Bible Belt remains strong in the Tar Heel character. Undoubtedly, many voting with the status quo in a time of eroded morality.

On the other side of the coin, the margin of the votes (the switch of half-dozen would have reversed either) gave evidence that Tar Heels are subjecting their social mores to searching examination and are moving to an attitude of change.

The balance may well tip on the capital punishment issue. Rep. Henry Frye of Guilford, introducer of the bill, and other proponents are optimistic that the time now may be ripe for abolishment of the death penalty. Observers agree the outlook is favorable.

A grace note in the Senate debate on abortion tied in capital punishment. "The same folds favoring liberalized abortion are those who want to do away with the death penalty," one Senator charged. He said it represented inconsistency on the question of population control; what he meant, of course, was that both depart from conservative moral concepts. Religious Factor Spotlights God, the Bible and Billy Graham figured in the Senate debate; invoked, naturally, by those in opposition to the bill. One Senator said Moses himself would not have survived if the population control experts in ancient Egypt had had their way. "Thou shalt not kill," quoted Senator Bobby Combs of Catawba, a Presbyterian minister subscribing to the doctrine of predestination. "I cannot play God," he said, on the matter of life or death for a conceived child.

"We are being too casual with the sacredness of life," said Senator Norman Joyner of Iredell, another minister-Senator, a Baptist.

Senator Ashley Furell of Beaufort, a Methodist, said his church didn't give certain guidance. The eastern conference voted against liberalized abortion; the western conference endorsed it. "It's hard for a layman to know what is right," Furell confessed. His conclusion was a vote against the bill. "Coat Hanger Abortions"

Among those speaking for the bill, Senator Marshall Rauch of Gaston touched on the hazards and horrors of illegal abortions now occurring in the state. "We have coat hanger abortions now going on," he said. The revised law would offer a remedy in that abortions would be performed under medical conditions, he noted.

As is often the case, other factors clouded the moral issue. Over zealous proponents caused irritation, though whether their activity lost votes or simply confirmed opposition would be hard to say.

Material distributed by Art Jones, former Mecklenburg Representative now a consultant to the Population Center at Chapel Hill, brought an angry reaction. Some Senators thought it anti-Catholic and offensive.

Rep. Robert A. Jones of Rutherford, the bill's sponsor, acknowledged the negative impact. "The material was not authorized, requested, nor desired by me," he said emphatically. Jones took a philosophical view as the dust settled. Legislators voted their conscience, as they should, he said.

The outcome was not interpreted as a backward step. "Our present law is much more liberal than many other states," he pointed out. That was adopted in 1967, and requires the concurring opinion of three physicians.

Change comes in moral attitudes, slowly but inevitably. Even in defeat, Jones surmised, the movement inevitably is forward.

It may well be that the President does have a timetable with fixed dates; but if he does it continues to be a closely guarded administration secret.

In the meantime the North Vietnamese cannot help but recognize that the Nixon administration does not intend to abandon South Vietnam without adequate defenses. This is what President Nixon has said all along and his most recent statement again underscores that position.

The statement may well mean that the defense posture of the South Vietnam army has not developed as the administration had hoped in the months since the Vietnamization program began. If that is the case, the administration surely must be taking another more realistic look at the future role of the United States in the war in Indochina.

Even so, by the President's projections, the United States by December will have withdrawn all but 184,000 troops from the war theatre in Southeast Asia. While that is a large number of American lives left exposed to death, it is a far cry from the 549,500 troops that were in Vietnam when the Nixon administration came into office in January, 1969.

There can be no doubt that the nation is weary of its role in the war in Southeast Asia. Yet President Nixon is following a sound course in the long term by assuring that the withdrawal of American forces is based on sound military tactics.

Close Abortion Vote Shows Thinking Change

A liberal abortion law has narrowly failed to pass in the N.C. Senate, but the closeness of the vote indicates that there has been a major change in thinking among Tar Heels.

The bill would have made abortion a matter between a woman and her physician. It was approved in the House but went down to defeat in the Senate by a 25-21 vote.

It is a certainty that a similar abortion bill will be back in future sessions of the Legislature and with reapportionment ahead it is likely that some version of the bill will pass eventually.

Nixon Motives Seen Political

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON

Suspicion that President Nixon's motives in entering the Calley case were political are reinforced by the fact he telephoned his House floor leader, Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, to check Congressional sentiment before his intervention.

That has produced sober second thoughts among a minority of thoughtful Republican Congressmen worried that their President is playing politics on a sensitive judicial question. Besides that, Mr. Nixon's call to Ford generated talk — which certainly seems untrue — that he is considering a pardon for Lt. William L. Calley, Jr.

What's more, a handful of White House aides feel the President was not only playing politics but bad politics. They believe the hysterical public reaction against the court martial conviction of Calley for murder at My Lai had subsided when the President burst in. He would have been better advised, they feel, to keep quiet or endorse blindfolded justice dispensed under written law.

On March 31, two days after Calley's conviction, the President placed an early evening call from San Clemente to Ford, the House Minority Leader, in Washington. He noted the White House was swamped with protests and wondered whether the same was true on Capitol Hill. Ford was then asked by the President to sound out Congressional reaction to the news that he was considering a wide range of options in dealing with Calley. Ford related this conversation the next morning, April 1, over breakfast to Michigan's Republican Congressmen, giving the impression Mr. Nixon was ready to intervene. Although there were one or two dissenters, the Congressmen were delighted that the President was following their public opinion.

In the ensuing conversation, there was talk of pardoning Calley. Some Congressmen got the idea Mr. Nixon the night before had discussed a pardon. But Ford told us flatly the President did not mention pardoning, and several Congressmen at the breakfast said Ford did not either. Nevertheless, word filtered into a shocked House Republican cloakroom that a pardon was in Mr. Nixon's mind.

What is not debatable is that early the evening of March 31 the President was weighing political reaction to the intervention into the case he was then planning. According to the White House, that was the night he supposedly awakened from his sleep to suddenly decide he must do something about the Calley case to show respect for the U. S. uniform. The next morning, he ordered Calley's release from the Ft. Benning, Ga., stockade (a step, as we have reported, decided upon well before by the Army civilian high command).

Television To End War

WASHINGTON — President Richard Nixon said recently that the Vietnamese war would probably be the last war the United States would ever fight. He's probably right.

The reason for it is television. It's obvious no country can ever fight a war again if its television commentators keep interviewing enlisted men about the battles.

I thought of this the other evening as I watched several enlisted men talking to a television correspondent in Vietnam.

My mind went back to World War II and I tried to imagine what the guys in my Marine Corps outfit would have said if someone had stuck a microphone in their faces and started filming their reactions to the landing in the Marshall Islands. "This is Terry Bartlett here at Eniwetok with the U.S. Marines. Standing next to me is Cpl. Zeth Kingbury of Zenith, Tenn. How's it going, corporal?"

"It's going real bad. I don't know if we can hold out the night with the ammunition we have. The Japs are dug in and we're getting a lot of heavy fire, a lot of it."

"What is your name, sir?"

"Pfc. Roger Bernstein of Brooklyn, N.Y."

"Roger, do you think the United States should have tried to take Eniwetok?"

"No, it was a mistake. Washington doesn't know what's going on. We're taking a lot of casualties out here for a worthless piece of coral."

"Then you don't think you should be here?"

"No, sir. I really don't. And neither do any of the other guys."

"How's the morale of the troops?"

"It's not good. We haven't had a warm meal in three days, and there are flies everywhere. We have to sleep in foxholes and the heat is fierce in the daytime. I have nothing good to say about this place."

"What's your name?"

"Pvt. Tony D'Amato of Chicago."

"Tony, why do you think President Roosevelt insisted on an invasion of Eniwetok?"

"It's hard to say. I've been against Roosevelt's strategy from the start. We should be bombing Tokyo and Osaka instead of wasting our time

Fear Is Girls Class

By JAMES F. DONOHUE

Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — For a man, fear is going to an etiquette class for girls, ages 5-8, and watching them get ready to take over the world.

They arrive like Chinese soldiers in bulky, padded, quilt-like snowsuits and emerge into the classroom in frilly party dresses with white stockings and gloves and black patent leather shoes.

It's like watching butterflies emerge from cocoons.

Then the class starts, and the girls are taught how to walk, and talk, and wash, and sit, and turn, and even how to climb steps.

That's what is frightening. Untutored, little girls do these things just like little boys. They clunk when they walk. They plop when they sit. They mumble when they talk.

But after the class, most of the girls—not all, but most—bounce and glide and purr.

A man gets the feeling he is watching an army being trained to conquer—him.

"Not at all," reassured Merc-y E. McNiff, instructor of the etiquette class at a Boston department store. "This is not training to catch a man. This is training so the girls can take their proper place in life."

"Woman should be feminine to be a woman—almost sickeningly feminine," Miss McNiff added. "We want our girls to be different from boys, so much that you'll notice the difference even if they are just walking down the street."

Miss McNiff gets to the essentials of her teaching philosophy early in the class. "Did you know," she asked, "that girls are born different from boys?"

For example: —Little girls applaud by tapping the fingers of their right hand against the heel of their left hand.

Other Editors Say Against The Law

(Greensboro Daily News)

North Carolina still has a good many archaic laws on the statute books and other laws that appear to be more whimsical than meaningful. Now Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake, is conducting a one-man drive to get some of these dusty old laws repealed.

To that end he's introduced bills to repeal state laws dealing with indentured servants and deserting seamen and with the possession and dispensation of firewater near the scene of a political discussion.

While he's at it, we hope he'll take a look at several state laws that strike us a quaint, if not archaic. Among them are laws:

—Making it illegal to walk longer than eight hours continuously. (Detroit has already made it impossible for anybody to walk more than 30 minutes continuously without being in imminent danger of certification as legally insane.)

—Against applying a tattoo to anyone under 21 years of age. (If college students learn of this one, they may seize on it as an avenue of protest and self-expression. Then the rest of the state would have to learn to live with "the tattooed generation.")

—Making it a misdemeanor to fight a bull except in self-defense. (This law is backwards; it should be a misdemeanor for a bull to fight a man except in self defense, and the burden of proof should be on the bull.)

Meanwhile, we wish Mr. Twigg luck with the bills he's introduced. And his colleagues in the legislature ought in self defense to unite beyond his bill to repeal the law making it illegal to sell, possess, or give away liquor within two miles of a political talk.

As an unidentified staff writer for the Raleigh News and Observer commented in a news article on Mr. Twigg's efforts: "That law must have been violated several hundred times during the Democratic Party's recent Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner here."

Strength For Today Funny Inflation Fight Is Waged

GOOD FRIDAY
Could there be anything good about this day? Yes. Because the greatest event humanity has ever known, namely, the forgiveness of sins and the salvation of men's souls, was about to be made possible through sacrificial obedience to the will and power of God.

On Thursday of this holy week Jesus had instituted the Last Supper. He told his disciples that the bread they ate in this last supper they would have together represented his body and the wine represented his blood.

Great as the teachings of Jesus are and powerful as was his ability to heal and cure, the most comforting reality we can have is the sense of God's presence with us. "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world" (Matthew 28:20).

The agony of Gethsemane had taken place. The disciples, who had pledged themselves to be faithful to the end, had fled when arresting officers came and laid hands of legal authority on the Man. Even Peter, head of the apostolic group, had not only fled in terror but had denied at last that he even knew this Man.

There was a trial (if we could give this fiasco a legal name), and Pilate, a born weakling who thought of nothing but his own personal advancement, had finally tried to disconnect himself from the evil of it all by washing his hands of the whole affair.

So this was the king of the Jews. "And the soldiers plaited a crown of thorns and put it on his head" (Matthew 27:27-30; Mark 15:17-19). They put a reed in his hand and knelt before him and spit upon him.

We have a funny, big ol' government. It is fighting like crazy against inflation. Like crazy is right. Some days it seems to be fighting inflation with more inflation.

While the Administration is trying to limit the wage increases of the construction industry to 6 per cent a year, the Democrats in Congress are trying to increase the minimum wage from $1.60 to $2 over two years, an increase of 12½ per cent a year.

And first-class mail rates go up 33 1-3 per cent on May 16. The Post Office has announced that if the new postal corporation is unable to act by that date, the Post Office will then put the rates into effect on a temporary basis.

And on April Fools Day the government increased dairy price supports, which will show retail prices up. Stenos in New York already pay 35 cents a pint for milk in New York sandwich shop. COMMENT: We are lucky to have a two-party system. Imagine how many directions the government would be parked autos on the showing that the city's charge for storing cars on a pier was based on, among other things, the cost of dredging around the pier in 1883 and the cost of building pier sheds that were replaced in 1914 and 1918. COMMENT: There's a citizen born every minute. Conglomerate Slowing The urge to merge is waning. Many recent merger proposals have been dropped because the current recession has disclosed one or both corporations were not as sound as represented or imagined. COMMENT: This may be a healthy trend. Many previous mergers have transferred control of corporations from working managements to financial operators. Civil Rights And Anti-Poverty Groups Join Forces In Protests

By TOM SEEPY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dozens of civil rights and anti-poverty organizations have joined forces with antiwar militants for the first time to protest hunger, discrimination and U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

"I see a much greater potential than I've seen in the last 15 years of the civil rights movement," said Hosea Williams, an associate of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

"None of us can make it alone."

The new organization, the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, is showing its strength for the first time in a series of demonstrations leading to a May 5 moratorium aimed at withdrawal from Vietnam, a guaranteed income and release of "political prisoners."

The coalition was formed, leaders say, because social ills cannot be cured while the United States is spending billions on the war in Southeast Asia. They say they don't expect any cause will suffer by infusion of the others.

"We have become multi-oriented for our own integrity," said David Dellinger, leader of many antiwar demonstrations and one of seven persons convicted of conspiracy in connection with the 1968 Democratic National Convention at Chicago. "The same people (the government) who are waging a war against the Vietnamese are waging a war against these people (the poor and the black)."

The People's Coalition, formed in January, represents more than 100 organizations, including SCLC, National Welfare Rights Organization, National Students Association, Jews for Urban Justice and the Committee of Returned Volunteers in addition to such antiwar organizations as the War Resisters League.

The Coalition is an outgrowth of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War and its predecessors which sponsored the Nov. 15, 1969, rally in Washington, the May 9, 1970 demonstration in response to the U.S. incursion into Cambodia, and demonstrations at the 1968 Democratic convention.

Leading up to the May 5 national moratorium, the coalition has lent support and membership to demonstrations being held by SCLC and the National Welfare Rights Organization in New York this week.

Pollution Blamed On Irresponsible

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Former Gov. Luther Hodges blames much of today's pollution on socially irresponsible businessmen of years past who "cut the forest down...polluted the waters."

Hodges, also a former U.S. secretary of commerce and one-time chief executive officer of the Fieldcrest textile mills, spoke Thursday at a symposium on business ethics. It was sponsored by the College of Business at Appalachian State University.

To Introduce Legislation

By CONNIE BLACKWELL
Asheville Citizen Staff Writer
Written for The Associated Press

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation will be introduced in the General Assembly soon to carry out Gov. Bob Scott's call for a revised anti-pollution agency that is not composed of representatives of potential polluters.

The bill, drawn up by Sen. Zebulon Alley, D-Haywood, is designed to eliminate any conflicts of interest on the Board of Water and Air Resources and to reorganize the Department of Water and Air Resources, the board's administrative arm.

Scott, in his environmental message to a joint session of the legislature Thursday, said, "Under the present statute, the Board of Water and Air Resources includes representatives of the entities it is supposed to regulate. This places the board in the untenable position, at times, of sitting in judgment of the interests of its own members."

"The statute governing appointments to the board should be revised to bar possible conflicts of interest."

"I feel that no person should be appointed to the Board of Water and Air Resources who is an officer, employee or representative of any industry, county, city or other political entity, or any other body subject to the regulations of the board," Scott said.

The composition of the 13-member board has drawn much criticism in the past few months. In December, Don Goodwin, director of the division of control agency development of the federal Air Pollution Control Administration, said the board is made up of representatives of "some of the largest polluters in the state."

The present law calls for two board members actively connected with industrial production. The board now has six directly connected with industry and one member of a downtown Washington which casts further doubt on the middle-of-the-night decision story.

Costin's was the scene of a dinner meeting by the Republican Regulars, a semi-secret society of conservative Congressmen, now outraged over the Calley verdict. The speaker happened to be White House political aide Harry Dent, who told them not to worry. Dent was not specific, but everybody thought he was promising White House intervention.

This political flavor was increased the next evening when Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, the President's premier political adviser, was interviewed over television by David Frost. Instead of defending military justice, the Attorney General declared: "I am disturbed by the overall picture."

When Mr. Nixon two days later announced he would personally decide the case, there was reason to suspect Mitchell's grand design of combining the 1968 Nixon-Wallace vote for 1972. Calley had been adopted by Gov. George Wallace as a national hero, making Mr. Nixon vulnerable to Wallaceite defections if he supported the court martial. Overwhelmingly, White House aides applauded the political shrewdness of the intervention.

There were some Republican dissenters, however, inside and outside the White House. Speaking to the Republican Regulars just after Dent that night was one of Washington's wisest men: former Presidential counselor Bryce Harlow. Unaware of what was afoot at the White House, Harlow eloquently urged the Congressmen to withhold criticism of the Calley decision and instead let the judicial process work — words to be remembered into the future by the President and his men.

metropolitan sewage district whose operations are regulated by the board.

Alley's bill would make some changes in the Department of Water and Air Resources in order to straighten out administrative inequalities and clarify the authority of local water and air boards.

More To Be Done In Negotiations

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Negotiators report that although discussions on a new contract to end a strike at P. Lorillard Corp. cigarette plants are "going good ... we cannot say we are near an agreement — there are too many things to iron out."

The strike at plants in Greensboro and in Louisville, Ky., started March 1.

The chief negotiators, Homer Cole for the Tobacco Workers International Union and Clifford J. Benfield for Lorillard, held a news conference Thursday evening.

In Age Of The Director Many Are Being Released

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Most serious film critics have proclaimed this the age of the director. If that's so, why are so many directors getting fired? The director generally takes part in shaping the script, selects camera angles, puts the actors through their paces and assembles the film in final form. The French consider him the "Auteur" author of the film. During the big studio era of Hollywood, directors were usually subservient to producers. With the decline of the studio control, American directors followed their European counterparts in becoming auteurs. That trend may now be reversing. MGM President James T. Aubrey recently remarked: "We are going to be holding a tighter rein on directors in the future. Until recently, the task of turning MGM's fortunes occupied all my time and I had little time to pay to production. That is being changed." He has twice demonstrated that recently. Jules Schwerin was removed in the middle of filming "Fortune and Men's Eyes" in Canada, and he was replaced by Harvey Hart.

Stuart Hagman directed "Speed Is of the Essence" in New York for MGM. The company decided more footage was needed, and it hired John Avildsen to do two weeks of retakes. Recently Variety ran an interview with Paramount production chief Robert Evans. It was headlined: "Cut Directors Down to Size." Evans indicated an end of the era of director as superstar. He promised that the company would take an active part in creative matters, adding, "We are not going to be passive backers." At least two directors have recently collided with acting superstars and were ousted. Directing "Sometimes a Great Notion" in Oregon, Richard Colla encountered differences of opinion with the star, Paul Newman. The star also happened to be a producer of the film, and Colla was replaced by Paul Newman.

Robert Morgan To Speak At Development Meeting

Robert Morgan, Attorney General of North Carolina, has accepted an invitation to speak at the annual meeting of the Mid-East Economic Development Commission on April 22 in Williamston. Plans for the meeting, to be held at Moratock Park on the Roanoke River, were announced by William H. Page, commission chairman who noted that several key political figures both in and out of the district have accepted invitations to attend the meeting. Among them are State Senators W. R. Roberson Jr., Ashley B. Futrell and Vernon E. White; G. Fred Steel Jr., co-chairman of the Coastal Planis Regional Commission; Charles B. Winberry, president of the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina; and James B. Hunt Jr. of Wilson who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for lieutenant governor. The gathering will begin with a social hour at 6 p. m. on the park dock, followed by a picnic for persons attending the annual session. The commission announced that several important matters of business will be discussed at the meeting and citizens of the five-county district were urged to attend to "become better informed of their regional organization." The commission was formed to assist the district in meeting its special problems, to promote economic development and to establish a framework for joint Federal, State and local efforts toward providing basic facilities essential to the growth of the district. Mid-East is composed of Pitt, Beaufort, Martin, Hertford and Bertie counties.

Generation Gap Seen On Social Security

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Observations on the mores of Americans, particularly in regard to the way they acquire, spend and even save their money: —A generation gap may be opening between young workers and retirees. That is the conclusion of The Morgan Guaranty Trust, which observes: "It would not be surprising if young and middle-aged workers, whose family budgets are being severely strained by taxes and inflation, would oppose further liberalization of Social Security." The bank notes that some relatively poor families pay more in Social Security levies than in federal income taxes. In fact, 12 million tax returns in 1969 involved no tax payment. But these same people paid Social Security. The developing situation, Morgan notes, arises from the increasing strain on budgets of wage earners because of steadily rising levies and the growing pressures for higher benefits by the nation's retirees. —Many people each year decide that the best thing they can do for their families is to disappear, leaving behind their insurance policy and strong circumstantial evidence that suggests they are dead. The tragic fishing trip is one of the commoner ploys: an overturned boat, a floating hat and maybe a note left on the dresser at home relating how the writer expected to be home at such and such a time. That takes planning, but not all such deceptions do. Insurance company files contain the case of a man who stood on the sidewalk and watched firemen battle a hotel fire. When the fire was over and the newspapers hit the street, the man discovered he was among the missing. Seizing the opportunity, he disappeared. His wife, also quick to spot an opportunity, had him declared dead and collected his insurance. —Much is made of the high rate of savings in the United States during recent months. In the second half of 1970, for example, it reached 7.5 per cent of disposable income, which is extraordinarily high—for Americans. But how do you account for rates twice and nearly three times that in some foreign countries? In Japan, 20 per cent is not uncommon. And 14

Spring Workshop At Campbell Steele On Board

Seven members of the East Carolina University chapter of the Student North Carolina Home Economics Association attended the Association's spring workshop at Campbell College in Buies Creek last Friday and Saturday. The keynote speaker was Dr. Richard Klemer, a professor of child development and family relations at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. He said to work in home economics is to work for mankind and that the field can be at its best only when those associated with it become involved and working for a specific cause. Discussed in "buzz groups" Saturday morning were four major topics: "The Home Economist in the Peace Corps," by Mrs. Pat Baars, who has filled this role in Malaysia; "Teaching Tidbits," by Mrs. Mary Frances Jones; "Ethnic and Cultural Differences," by Mrs. Gladys Vaughn; and "Opportunities Knock Often," by Mrs. Barba Vestal, a home economist with a large food corporation. Those attending from ECU were Mrs. Laura Little, advisor; and Ann Bobo, Pam Hankin, Ellen Altman, Emily Watson, Jane Hearn, Gail Brinson, and Susan Craft, members. The North Carolina Outward Bound schools makes use of the mountains, rivers and forests of the Blue Ridge mountains as the teaching vehicle through which those values are discovered and assessed by students taking part in the program. The intent of each course is to bring together a broad cross section of young people. Admission is made without regard to race, creed or national origin.

Thus begins the most amazing account of human experience ever written. And so simply, with just a notation of time: the hour, the day, the very moment!
But like a church bell sounding its call to worship, that simple notation of time has become the clarion of a New Life.
So deeply has it penetrated our preoccupation with the routine of every-day existence that millions gather at sunrise to greet the dawn of each Easter Day.
What has given such meaning to one moment in time?
Its PROMISE: Christ is risen. The One Who said, because I live, ye shall live also—He lives!
This tremendous moment, for all who worship Him in faith, became the first entry in the Diary of our Destiny.

Easter Cantata Planned Sunday

An Easter Cantata entitled, "He Is The King Of Glory," will be presented Easter Sunday night at 7:30 in the sanctuary of the Black Jack Pentecostal Free

Will Baptist Church, Rt. 3, Greenville.

The program will be given by the Adult Choir, featuring four of its members as soloists.

The cantata is a portrayal of the Resurrection story and significant Holy Week events.

Scriptural narrations with instrumental background are an integral part of the presentation. The Cantata Choir is directed by Mrs. R. M. Stewart.

Pastor R. M. Stewart invites the public to attend this special service.

Rate Hike Is Requested

RALEIGH (AP) — The price North Carolina tobacco growers and processors must pay to transport their leaf may go up if the state Utilities Commission approves a rate hike requested by the N.C. Motor Carriers Association.

The organization has filed a new tariff schedule with the commission. If approved, it will go into effect May 7.

The rate changes include ones calling for a 5 per cent hike on redried and green tobacco loads, with a minimum of 25 cents per hundred weight, and the same increase on double decks. The minimum rate would be 23 cents per hundred weight.

Group To Visit Youth Campsite

A caravan will leave the Elks Home, Bonners Lane, Easter Monday at 8 a.m. for a trip to the Hobson R. Reynolds Elks National Shrine and Campsite for Youth at Winston.

The trip is being sponsored jointly by the Golden Rod Temple No. 368 and Pitt Lodge No. 234.

The farm was given to the Elks by the present Grand Ex-Ruler Hobson R. Reynolds. The farm, called "Reynolda", has been in the Reynolds family since the Civil War.

The Shrine, including over 100 acres, will include a motel, swimming pool, tennis courts and campsite for youth. The project will cost approximately $1,000,000.

TWO REASONS WHY THE SPECIAL SOFT DRINK TAX IS UNFAIR AND SHOULD BE REPEALED.

Those who can afford it least have to pay the most: Housewives who buy soft drinks for their families, children, working men and women — those who consume the most soft drinks — are singled out to pay more than their fair share of the tax burden every week, every day.

2.

The special soft drink tax is really a special food tax. In addition to the regular three or four per cent sales tax, housewives now pay a special tax on more than 100 different food items under provisions of the so-called special soft drink tax. This special tax is costing consumers throughout North Carolina about $18 million per year.

ONE WAY YOU CAN DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

If you resent having to pay more than your fair share of taxes just because you and your family enjoy soft drinks, please write to your legislator and urge him to repeal this unfair tax. The soft drink industry has pledged to remove the exact amount of the tax when the tax is repealed. That means you'll pay less for many food items for your family. So write to your legislator. Send your letter to your senator or representative, N.C. State Legislative Building, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602.

The Citadel Edges Pirates, 2-1

An Unhappy Jack

Reflector Sports Editor

The Citadel used the long ball after a Pirate miscue had set the stage for them and turned it into a 2-1 Southern Conference victory over East Carolina yesterday.

By winning, The Citadel snapped a two-way tie with the Bucs for first place and moved out all by itself. The Bulldogs now post a 3-0 conference record and are 9-3 overall. East Carolina, in losing, dropped its conference mark down to 2-1, and fell into fourth place in the loop. Davidson and Furman are tied for second with 3-1 records.

The game was a pitching contest between ECU's Hal Baird and the Bulldogs' Doug Pounder. Baird went all the way in absorbing the loss, but neither of the runs scored against him were earned. He struck out eight and walked three in going the distance.

Pounder needed relief from Cal Hayslip in the final inning, after he was tagged for a homer and a double. He had hit troubles in allowing five hits, and six walks while striking out four. But in nearly every case, he got out unscathed.

East Carolina just couldn't produce runs. They twice loaded the bases with nobody out and failed to score. The Citadel got easy double plays both times to avoid it.

The Bulldogs put Baird in trouble in the first frame. Steve Fisher opened up with a walk and Jerry Wise grounded deep to short, beating out the throw. But with runners on first and second and one out, Baird settled down and checked The Citadel for the rest of the frame.

But in the third, he was finally touched. Fisher led off the inning and put down a little grounder along the first base line. Baird fielded the ball, but it was missed at first and Fisher arrived safely. He was sacrificed up, but the next man went down into the infield and it looked like Baird might get out of the jam again. But Joe Davis had other ideas.

He sent a towering drive into right field, and it cleared the fence about 325 from home, giving The Citadel a 2-0 lead in the contest. It proved to be enough.

Baird gave up only two more hits the rest of the way, and one of them was an automatic when a runner was hit by a batted ball. Only in the sixth did The Citadel threaten again.

In that frame, Davis led off with a walk and was sacrificed to second. With two away, Ron Sanders hit a soft fly into left field, and Davis tried to score on the play. East Carolina's Larry Walters made a perfect throw to the plate and Stan Sneed pushed the tag on Davis despite a jolting collision between the two.

But the Bucs, while holding The Citadel except for the homer, could get nothing of their own.

Mike Bradshaw opened the first with a walk and was sacrificed to second, but got no further. An infield hit put Squeely McNeely on in the third, but he never got off first. The Bucs had no other threats until the seventh.

It seemed almost certain the Bucs would score then. Dick Corrada led off with a walk and Larry Walters put a single into left center. Mike Aldridge dropped a ball down the third baseline, but it was bobbled and all runners reached in time, loading them up. Troy Eason, however, grounded back to the mound, and Corrada was nipped at home and Eason at first for a double play. Stan Sneed was intentionally walked, and the next batter popped up to end it.

In the eighth, it was like an instant replay. Baird walked and Bradshaw also got a free trip to first. Matt Walker bunted the ball past the charging infielders for a hit, loading the bases with no one out again. But Corrada hit back to the mound for another home to first double play. Walters was intentionally walked for another force place, and a pop-up ended the inning again.

Only in the ninth were the Bucs able to scratch, and then it was not enough. Eason somewhat atoned for his double play grounder by hitting a 350-foot homer to right. It was the lone Buc run of the day. Sneed came back with a double to center, but he never got to third as the next three batters went down in order to the reliever, Hayslip.

The game was the only home contest in April for the Bucs, who begin a long road stand today. They face N. C. State today and Saturday, in Raleigh, then take on High Point College in High Point on Sunday. Monday and Tuesday, they are in Blacksburg, Va., to meet

Pirates Plan Busy Holidays

Spring vacation may have arrived and most East Carolina University students have either headed for home, many of the South's beaches or the National Fiddler's Convention in Union Grove.

With the Easter holidays usually comes a lot of travelling and ECU's athletic teams are no different. Most of all of the Pirate teams will be on the road seeing such exotic places as Williamsburg, College Park, Richmond, Roanoke, High Point and Blacksburg.

The Pirate baseball team will have the busiest of all schedules over the break. First, the Bucs play at N. C. State today and Saturday before moving on to meet High Point College at High Point on Sunday. From there, Coach Earl Smith will take his club to Blacksburg, Va., for games with Virginia Tech on Monday and Tuesday.

Smith is hoping that the road trip will bring a turn-around in the Pirate's success. Last season, his club won the Southern Conference championship and went on to Gastonia for the NCAA District III playoffs, but it was an even-numbered year. It was 1970 and this is 1971.

That may not make much sense to the average baseball fan but Smith's teams seem to have their troubles when odd-numbered years roll around. No success has been enjoyed by an ECU baseball team in an odd-numbered year but on even-numbered years the Pirates rake in the honors.

This season the Bucs have had their troubles at the plate and carried only a .215 team batting average into the road trip. But, things may be beginning to turn around for the Pirates after last weekend's sweep of a doubleheader at VMI which broke a four game losing streak.

The only action at home over the holidays is a golf match with Old Dominion this afternoon at Greenville Golf and Country Club. ECU's golfers are undefeated in dual match competition.

Following the match the Pirate golfers head for College Park, Md., for the three-day Maryland Collegiate Golf Tournament which starts Sunday.

Coach Bill Dickens' tennis team has two matches on the road over the break. First, the Pirates meet Richmond today and play at William & Mary in Williamsburg on Saturday.

Coach Bill Carson's track team stays busy over the holidays, first competing in the Colonial Relays in Williamsburg. Then the Pirates move on to Blacksburg Monday for a three-way meet with Virginia Tech and Marshall.

The much improved Pirate track team had its best showing in the State-Record Relays last weekend in Columbia, winning the two-mile relay — the first event ever won by an ECU team at the affair.

ECU's lacrosse team has two matches over the break, first playing VMI at Lexington, Va., on Tuesday before travelling to Roanoke, Va., for Wednesday's match with Roanoke College.

ECU's crew is in New York on Sunday for the annual Grimaldi Cup Regatta. Two seasons ago, the Pirates impressed many of the finest schools in the nation by finishing second in the event, which is rated as the national championship in the sport.

Ayden Rolls To 21-0 Victory Over Conley

By BILLY EVANS
Reflector Sports Writer

AYDEN — The Ayden Tornadoes rolled past the Conley Vikings Thursday afternoon, 21-0. The Tornadoes took advantage of the numerous walks and got key hits to gain the victory over the Vikings.

The Tornadoes used three pitchers in gaining the two hit shut-out over the Vikings. Donnie Moore who started the game got credit for the win. Moore was backed up by Cleaton and Manning.

In the first inning of the game the Vikings were put down in order but the Tornadoes wasted little time in jumping on the Conley pitching staff. Griffin started the inning off for the Tornadoes on a free trip to first. The next two men were out on ground balls but on two consecutive singles by Tripp and Craft Ayden jumped into a two run lead.

Ayden had their biggest inning in the bottom of the second when they scored ten runs and virtually broke the backs of the Conley team. Eason and Moore both singled to begin the inning and when a ground ball by Griffin was eroded which allowed Eason to score, the Tornadoes were off on their scoring spree. Two singles by Loftin and Manning coupled with four straight walks allowed the Tornadoes to score four more runs.

The inning was capped off by a grand slam homer by the pitcher, Donnie Moore, to put Ayden in command with a 12-0 lead. The inning ended without any more scoring.

The Tornadoes scored three in the third, the first of the runs coming on a homer by Dail Manning. Tripp followed with a single and Blount walked, both of the runners scored on a single by Cleaton.

Ayden finished up their scoring by getting one in the fourth, three in the fifth and two in the sixth to make the final score 21-0.

North Pitt Nips Robersonville

BETHEL — North Pitt High School chalked up its third straight victory yesterday, edging out Robersonville's Golden Eagles, 2-1.

The win raised the Panthers record to 3-5 on the season.

North Pitt scored first, getting a run over in the third inning. Earl Worsley walked and John Grimes advanced him with a single. Danny Whitehurst followed with a single and that brought Worsley over for a 1-0 Panther lead.

It stayed that way until the fifth inning, when Robersonville pushed over a run to tie it up. Phil James singled and moved up when Lang Hardison walked. Doyle Farmer followed with a hit, bringing James over for a 1-1 deadlock.

But North Pitt was not to be denied. They came back with a run in the bottom of the fifth to gain the victory. Joey Moore singled and Grimes drew a walk. William Little then got a hit, scoring Moore with what proved to be the winning run.

The two teams meet again next Thursday in Robersonville. The Eagles, in the meantime, visit Vanceboro on Tuesday. North Pitt is idle until then. Ro'ville 000 010 0-1 6 3 N. Pitt 001 010 x-2 7 1 Farmer and Knox; Abeyounis and Young.

Aycock Rips Cox

WINTERVILLE —Aycock Junior High School remained unbeaten yesterday with a 6-0 victory over A. G. Cox Junior High of Winterville.

Howard Leggett tossed a two-hitter at Cox, striking out 13 and walking one along the way.

Aycock got all it needed in the first inning of play, scoring three times. Dickie Johnson reached on an error and stole second. He moved to third on Robert Brinkley's single. Brinkley also moved on to second with a steal. William Carraway got a single, scoring both runners for a 2-0 lead. Carraway went on to third on a pair of passed balls and he scored the third run from there on Johnny Causey's single.

In the fourth, Aycock added another run. Leggett walked and stole both second and third. He scored when Kelly Heath got a hit.

Aycock later added a run in the fifth and another in the seventh.

Brinkley the Aycock hitting, getting two of their six.

The Aycock nine travels to Rocky Mount next Wednesday for its next outing.

Williamston Slips By Gates

GATESVILLE — Williamston High School edged past Gates County yesterday, 7-6, for its fourth win of the year.

The victory gives the Tigers a 4-1 overall mark, and left them with a 2-1 Albermarle Conference record.

Gates pushed into the lead with two runs in the first inning, however. Morgan singled and Porter walked. Both advanced on a balk, and Jordan singled in Morgan. An error on the play also let Porter come across.

Williamston came up with two in the third to tie it up. Sammy Roberson singled and Rocky Cherry walked. Mike Weaver singled in Roberson, and Cherry came over on Bruce Lewis' sacrifice fly.

Williamston moved into the lead with one in the fifth, but Gates came back with three to take a 5-3 lead in the bottom of the inning.

The Tigers then rallied for three of their own in the sixth. Dwight Ange singled and was sacrificed to second. Roberson single him in and stole second. Jimmy Rayford reached on an error, scoring Roberson, and he advanced to second on another miscue. Cherry singled to score Rayford with the third Tiger run.

Then, in the seventh, Williamston got what proved to be the winning run. Weaver singled and Kent Lewis was hit by a pitch. Two passed balls then allowed Weaver to score, got a 7-5 lead.

Gates tried to rally, scoring once, but Williamston choked it off and got the win.

Palmer Says 'I Played Atrociously'

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer once "owned" the Masters, winning four times in seven years.

Now he can't even make an eight-inch putt.

"I played atrociously," growled the millionaire golfer. "Can't recall anything I did well ... worst round of the year."

Augusta National hasn't been kind to Palmer since 1967 when his steel grip began to loosen on the course that Bobby Jones built.

"Conditions couldn't have been easier," observed Arnie's fellow superstar, Jack Nicklaus, after Thursday's opening round of the 35th Masters.

"Nope," said Palmer, "can't blame the course. Blame me."

Charles Coody, a tightwad of note from Texas, proved the Golden Bear's point with a blistering six-under-par 66 to leapfrog the field by three shots.

Coody shot nines of 34-32 for a 66, three blows better than a runnerup herd at 69 that included Bob Lunn, Bob Murphy, Ray Floyd, Hale Irwin and Don January.

Pre-tournament favorite Jack Nicklaus, the "Big Four" sweep on his mind after a PGA triumph in February, settled for 70 along with Dale Douglass, Art Wall, champ here in 1958, stood with Bert Yancey and Tom Weiskopf at one-under 71.

From there, the field became crowded.

Twelve players bunched home with even-par 72s including defending champion Billy Casper and Gary Player. Also there was steady, colorless Gene Littler, the man Casper edged in the 1970 playoff.

Palmer had 10 companions at 73 including amateurs Steve Melnyk and Lanny Wadkins.

It was Coody's close pal, Frank Beard, who branded Charlie as the pro tour's tightest man with the dollar. Beard, some claim, is one who should know.

"I didn't mind," smiled Coody. "I read Frank's book and enjoyed it. Yep, I'd guess you'd say I'm conservative."

Coody's play Thursday was nothing short of spectacular, especially on the par fives on the rolling 6,980-yard Augusta National layout.

He stroked a one-iron to within five feet of the stick on the 555-yard second, but missed the eagle. Coody two-putted from 100 feet on the 530-yard eighth for another bird. His 15-foot putt from the fringe on the 475-yard 13th hit the pin, but wound up a birdie, too.

Coody's day of par-5 miracles ended on the 520-yard 15th when he hit the second shot pin high—fourth time of the sunny afternoon—and two-putted from 30 feet.

"There's 54 holes to go, but I got myself in real good position," he said, sipping a Coke. "I mixed in a chip-in on the 14th hole and a good four-iron that landed two feet from the hole on the 10th to make it a nice, bogeyless day."

Coody, like Palmer, has known heartbreak on these hallowed north Georgia acres. After eagling No. 13 and birdieing No. 15 in 1969 to take a onestroke Sunday lead, Charlie botched it away by bogeying 16, 17 and 18.

"You know how to hurt a guy," he said when asked of the downfall, which opened the gates for George Archer's Masters victory two years ago. "I've thought about it often. An average pro like me doesn't get that close too often, so you don't want to blow it."

Coody was also close after three days in 1970, but bogeyed three of the first seven holes on another sad Sunday and wound up tied for 12th.

"I thought for awhile it might be like the old days," Palmer said of his round. "It appeared I might get away with some bad shots and shoot a decent round."

Nothing doing.

Palmer's round of one-overpar 73 wasn't a total disaster, but the 41-year-old idol couldn't get that eight-inch miscue off his mind. "I blasted five feet from the hole from a trap on No. 10," said a grim-jawed Arnold. "Thought I might save par, but the putt slid eight inches past. I lined it up and missed it." Double bogey six.

Palmer tried to tell himself it wasn't carelessness. But, he recalled—when asked about similar mite-sized goofups—that "I missed two six-inches in the PGA a few weeks back. Hell, nothing's sure anymore."

Palmer's 1957-68 Masters log was unbeatable, an 11-year reign that included finishes of 6-1-3-1-2-1-9-1-2-4-4. He was 46 under par for those 45 rounds including a 68 in the 1962 playoff victory over Player and Dow Finsterwald.

Palmer blew the 36-hole cut in 1968 with rounds of 72-79. Two years ago, he limped home in 27th position with a four-overpar 292 total. It got worse last spring, a 295 that earned Arnold a tie for 36th.

Thursday was doomsday for several of the old-timers. Gene Sarazen, 69, struggled in with an 83 and Julius Boros, 51, popped three shots into the water in five holes to card a 37-43—80.

"Worst round I can recall playing," said Boros. "Awful, just awful."

Nicklaus, although saying the course was playing soft, claimed the pin placements were "about as tough as you could get them. You'd had to be a crazy man to shoot the ball straight at five of the flags."

Nicklaus came out of gate flying with birdies on Nos. 1 and 2, but managed only to treat water thereafter in a 34-36-70. A ball in the creek with a one-iron cost him a bogey on the par-5 13th and Nicklaus atoned on No. 14 with an 18-foot birdie putt.

"You'll never learn, Jack," said Pretty Barbara Nicklaus as the thinned-down bear marched from the 18th green. He knew what his wife meant. "I moved my head over a couple of putts ... missed a three-footer on the 18th."

An elderly newsmen asked Nicklaus if he was doing some amateurism "peeking" on the putts.

"Just like you, Fred," smiled Jack, "I want to see where it's going."

The good taste of Old Crow begins with men who love to work with their hands.

Before we'll mill a kernel of grain to make Old Crow, experts like Jerry Simpson test samples by hand for appearance and color. It's the only way we know to make a good-tasting Bourbon.

Making Bourbon which tastes good, bottle after bottle, made Old Crow famous. Back in 1835, our people figured out the formula that took Bourbon-making out of the hit-or-miss category. Later, they handmade the first sour mash Bourbon. We still use our hands in making Old Crow.

After work, most of our men keep on using their hands. Jerry Simpson calls on the same craftsmanship maintaining the quality of our country Bourbon as he does upholstering his chair.

Over the years, craftsmanship like this has made Old Crow America's best-tasting Bourbon.

Rough Debut For Stone; Mays Cracks Grand Slam

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Single, home run, single, double, walk. How's that for a major league baseball debut? Pitching, not hitting.

That's what San Francisco's rookie right-hander Steve Stone ran into in his first inning in the big time Thursday night.

"I wasn't nervous, but I didn't have very good stuff when I warmed up or when I started the game," said the 23-year-old.

Actually, Stone wasn't around long enough to be nervous anyway. Sent to the showers in the fourth after a shower of hits, he listened on the radio as San Diego pulled out a wild and whacky 7-6 decision with a three-run ninth.

"Stone didn't throw like he did when he pitched against us in spring training," said San Diego Manager Preston Gomez, who watched his team waste a three-run lead in the seventh, then win dramatically on Nate Colbert's ninth-inning sacrifice fly.

From the start, it didn't look like the Giants' night—or Stone's for that matter—as the Padres stung the youngster for four first-inning hits, including Larry Stahl's two-run homer. Chris Cannizzarro's fourth-inning single, the seventh hit, chased Stone and Cannizzarro's later came around on Steve Arlin's single to make it 4-1.

But the Giants sprinted into a 6-4 lead on the wings of a five-run seventh, including Willie Mays' eighth career grand slam home run and 631st lifetime wallop.

That was it until the ninth when singles by Don Mason, Dave Campbell, Stahl and Clarence Gaston tied the game and set the stage for Colbert's game-winning belt to center.

Elsewhere in the National League, it was Pittsburgh 2, Philadelphia 0; Montreal 6, New York 2 and Houston 7, Chicago 3. Cleveland trimmed Boston 3-2 and Kansas City took a 3-2 decision over California in the American League.

Willie Stargell delivered a screaming, two-run double in the sixth inning and Luke Walker handcuffed Philadelphia on five hits in Pittsburgh's triumph.

John Bateman knocked in three runs and Steve Renko, a former New York farmhand, scattered 10 Mets' hits in the Montreal success.

"I had to break my bat to get a base hit," said the burly catcher who knocked in the runs with a 60-foot roller in the first and a broken-bat blooper in the seventh, "but I'll take them any way they come."

Renko, a 13-game winner with the Expos last season as a rookie, was tough in tight spots.

Allison To Wood Bros.

STUART, Va. (AP) — Donnie Allison, who won five super-speedway races last year on his way to a $92,000 season, has been given the ride in the Wood Brothers stock car being vacated by A.J. Foyt.

Glen Wood made the announcement Thursday. He said Allison's first start in the Mercury would be in the 250-mile race at Martinsville, Va., April 25.

Foyt has started the car in four races this year, winning two and finishing second and third. He earned more than $85,000 in prize money. However, the Texan plans to concentrate again on the USAC championship circuit, where he has won the driving race five times. The Wood brothers concentrate on the NASCAR circuit.

Allison was the regular driver for car-owner Banjo Mathews when the team was part of the Ford Motor Co.'s factory-sponsored racing organization. Ford no longer is sponsoring stock cars.

Jack Hiatt, formerly with Chicago, drove in the first two runs with doubles and Jack Billingham unfurled a four-hitter for Houston.

Playing against his former mates, Hiatt said, "Naturally, you try to do a little bit better subconsciously and then you do it."

"It feels good," Hiatt added. "But I've played with too many ball clubs to be trying to get revenge on them all for trading me."

Hiatt came to the Astros from Chicago last fall and this was his first shot at the Cubs.

His second-inning double off Ken Holtzman followed a double by Dennis Menke. In the fourth, Hiatt chased home the first of three Astro runs with another safety.

Rookie Gomer Hodge's two-out, two-run single in the ninth propelled Cleveland over Boston before a crowd of 40,462, the largest home opener for the Indians since 1965, when 44,185 showed up.

Hodge, who had doubled as a pinch-hitter and scored in the eighth, singled off Ken Tatum to chase home Ray Fosse and Doug Camilli.

Boston had taken a 2-0 lead on two homers—Luis Aparicio's in the third and pitcher Sonny Siebert's in the fifth.

Mike Hedlund and Jim York pitched seven-hit ball and Kansas City made good on three California errors, two by usually reliable shortstop Jim Fregosi.

The Royals scored their first run in the second when Hedlund chased home Bob Oliver with a single after Fregosi opened the door with an infield double. An error by left fielder Alex Johnson and another miscue by Fregosi added fuel to another Royal rally in the third inning. Cookie Rojas knocked in what proved to be the winning runs with a two-run double.

Suspected Car Misuse Reports Are All Studied

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer
On July 2, 1970, an employe of the state's Employment Security Commission drove a state-owned car into the parking lot of a Raleigh ABC store, went inside, made a purchase, and drove off.

On Sept. 3, 1970, a Highway Commission employe pulled up at an ABC store, got out and went in.

About 1:15 a.m., Jan. 1, 1971, a state employe driving a state-owned car was involved in a traffic accident as he made his way home from a New Year's Eve Party.

On March 19, 1971, an athletic trainer for East Carolina University was whipping along a highway near Raleigh at 85 miles per hour in a state-owned car with his girl friend snuggled next to him.

These are four of the 21 complaints of suspected misuse of state cars that the state has dealt with officially in the last 18 months.

Sometimes, even under what may seem the most incriminating circumstances, the car proved to be on legitimate state business. That was the case in the incident involving the New Year's Eve party. The employe, a new man with the Cultural Arts Division of the state Department of Public Instruction, had been asked by a superior to attend the party at the Garden Gallery northwest of Raleigh.

He was asked to attend because members of the North Carolina Arts Council and the North Carolina Museum would be there and he needed to meet them.

Other cases that have come to the state's attention haven't been so easy to explain.

The man whom the state employes have to answer to is Charles Williams, an assistant director of the North Carolina

Basketball Star Helps Drug Fight

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Dick DeVenzio, Duke University basketball star, is dribbling a basketball and talking at schools, shopping centers and churches around the state to raise money for the fight against drug addiction.

The funds will go to Genesis House, a 128-acre farm in Chapel Hill which treats the physical and psychological problems of young heroin addicts.

DeVenzio will appear at Charlotte shopping centers Saturday and Monday in his "Dribbling for Dollars" campaign.

Department of Administration. He has watched with interest the recent furor over alleged misuse of state-owned automobiles.

The debate was touched off by the recent disclosure that a handful of Democratic legislators rode from Raleigh to Wilson and back in a state Highway Patrol car to attend a party meeting.

State Republican Chairman James Holshouser, while offering nothing specific, has charged that there are other examples of misuse of state-owned cars, such as state cars being seen with families in them on Sunday afternoons.

The state owns 11,492 cars

Picturephone Planned By Bank

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The North Carolina National Bank plans to install a picturephone system—the first use of the talk-and-see telephone south of Pittsburgh.

It says the system should be in use this summer, with the first line from its main office in Charlotte to its Corporate Services Center three blocks away. Executives will be able to see charts and documents while they are discussing them.

and trucks, 909 of which operate out of a motor pool in Raleigh. Williams believes there are more cases of misuse of those cars than are reported to him.

He says some state employes are afraid to tattle on higher state officials, and some citizens don't want to go to the trouble to report it when they suspect misuse of a state car.

TVA Planning Project Move

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority has announced that it will soon move its compost project from Johnson City to North Carolina's Avery County.

The agency also said Thursday it will step up research and demonstration efforts to find new economic uses for compost.

The TVA, in a joint project with the U.S. Public Health Service, has been turning about 80 per cent of Johnson City's garbage into compost. The compost has been used on field crops, strip mine banks, highway cuts and grasses.

Operations in Avery County will center on the use of compost in the production of tomatoes, flowers, shrubbery and other specialty crops.

Williams himself made two of the 21 reports. In both cases, the state-owned cars were speeding.

Williams, who looks like the movie version of a Gestapo agent, is bespectacled and slightly balding and sits ramrod straight behind his desk.

Of the 21 reports he handled, 11 were for traffic violations, mostly speeding. The other 10 concerned suspected misuse, and six of those turned out to be apparent violations of state rules.

Even some of those six, however, are borderline cases. In two instances, employes said they stopped at grocery stores that were not out of their way — one to pick up a carton of soft drinks and another to get two packs of cigarettes.

Two others involved stopping at ABC stores. The employe with the Highway Department was fired. The violation "was discussed" with the Employment Security Commission employe who stopped at a liquor store.

In the remaining two cases involving misuse, state employes driving state cars were seen transporting schoolchildren, presumably their own, on school days.

Neither case has been explained by the bosses of the departments involved, the Employment Security Commission and Department of Public Instruction.

The ECU trainer seen on a Sunday in state-owned car with his girl friend was on school business, according to an ECU official's reply to Williams. The trainer was to check on the condition of an injured prospective athlete who lived in the Raleigh area and had taken his girl friend along for the ride.

Williams does not pursue the cases beyond getting explanations from the superiors of alleged offenders, but neither does he ignore the complaints.

He writes a letter to the head of the department for whom the offender works and sends a copy of the letter to the person who made the charge. Williams asks for a response from department heads. Sometimes he gets one; sometimes he doesn't.

At any rate, the matters are handled administratively, even though technically the misuse offenses are violations of North Carolina criminal law.

General Statute 14-251 says an offender can get up to six months in prison and a $500 fine for making personal use of a state car.

According to the attorney general's office, violations of this law should be presented in a bill of particulars to a court solicitor who should decide whether the employe should be prosecuted.

This procedure, as explained by the attorney general's office, would protect the official who received the report against charges of misfeasance, defined in law as simply following the wrong procedure.

The House and Senate Government committees Wednesday called several state officials before a joint meeting to discuss state policies on the use of state-owned cars.

Some of the officials told legislators that some state officials have stopped using state cars to avoid the "shadow of mistrust." The state officials are supposed to testify again soon before the committees.

Fleet Of State-Owned Cars Includes Many Makes, Models

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's fleet of state-owned cars and trucks includes the governor's Cadillac limousine, 11 Chrysler Newports, a 1961 Plymouth operated by North Carolina State University and 11,479 vehicles in between.

There is no rule of thumb for who gets what kind of car, with the exception of the governor. Gov. Bob Scott also uses a new Lincoln Continental, which the state leases from that company for only $750 for promotion purposes.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University drives a state-owned Chrysler Newport, but the heads of the other state colleges and universities drive Fords, Chevrolets and Plymouths furnished by the state.

The chancellor of N.C. State, Dr. John Caldwell, prefers to drive his own car "because I can't carry my golf clubs in a state-owned car." He is reimbursed by the state at a rate of seven cents per mile for official trips. Private industry generally pays up to 12 cents per mile to its employes.

For the 909 automobiles in the central motor pool at Raleigh, it costs the state $300,316.85 a year for gasoline alone. Those 909 cars were driven a total of 17,157,476 miles last fiscal year, a distance equal to more than 36 trips to the moon and back.

There are no figures available for the total cost of gasoline or miles driven for the state's other 10,500 cars and trucks.

The state Highway Department is the biggest user of state-owned vehicles with 4,375. The Motor Vehicles Department, which includes the Highway Patrol, has 986.

The drivers of cars operated out of the central motor pool are given two gasoline credit cards. These cars are to be used "only in emergencies," according to state rules. Most of the gasoline is supposed to come from state pumps at the motor pool, at Highway Patrol and Highway Department stations and school maintenance buildings.

Last fiscal year the motor pool bought 1,223,548.5 gallons of gas. State employes purchased 264,619.6 of those gallons at service stations with credit cards.

There appears to be no watertight way of preventing private use of the credit cards, although they are stamped in the name of the motor pool. But the head of the motor pool, Howard Eaves, says there would be no way to tell, when a state employe made a credit-card purchase, whether he had worked out a deal with the gasoline dealer not to write down the license plate number of the car in which the gas was pumped.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidents of nine railroads and leaders of the trucking industry chipped in toward an $80,000 sendoff for the re-election campaign of the senator who heads the subcommittee handling rail and truck laws.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., also got help from other government-linked industries such as steel, drugs, Wall Street finance and mail-order firms.

North Carolina Board Wants U.S. Take-Over

RALEIGH (AP) — A proposal that the state take over all non-federal cost and administration of welfare has won the unanimous approval of the North Carolina Board of Social Services.

Other board members also spoke vigorously in favor of the proposal, made by the professional research firm of Booz-Allen.

that would require Medicaid recipients to receive prior approval from the Department of Social Services before receiving certain services that up to now have been automatically covered by the medical assistance program.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., also got help from other government-linked industries such as steel, drugs, Wall Street finance and mail-order firms.

—$1,000 from a lobbyist of the U.S. Savings and Loan League, which is frequently involved in legislation before the Senate Finance Committee.

—$2,000 from two partners in the Wall Street firm of Loeb, Rhoades & Co., plus another $2,000 check the same month from the Securities Industry Campaign Committee.

—At least $6,000 in ticket purchases by members and officials of the American Trucking

Associations, including one of its lobbyists. The trucking support for Hartke ranged all the way across the country from Orange, N.J., to Oakland, Calif.

The board took the action Thursday despite objections from the N.C. Association of County Commissioners that the move would "add to the uncertainties" of a proposed federalization of the nation's welfare system.

Board chairman John R. Jordan Jr. said after the meeting that he believed at least 60 per cent of the counties also agreed with the proposal and opposed the NCACC position.

Prior approval would be needed for such things as nursing home care over 90 days; hospitalization over 60 days; elective surgery; and certain dental services.

Campaign dinners are a traditional device used by many politicians to bankroll re-election races. Hartke's GOP rival, Richard Roudebush, got help from another familiar source—$114,000 was poured into his campaign under the name of a former White House political aide. Hartke won re-election by 4,000 votes, but a GOP appeal for a recount is pending before the Supreme Court.

—$2,000 from officials of American Motors Corp. Hartke had helped steer a special tax refund through Congress in 1967 that saved the firm from financial disaster. Half the campaign money came from the American Motors' lobbyist on this bill. And the board chairman, Roy D. Chapin Jr., sat with Hartke at the head table.

Associations, including one of its lobbyists. The trucking support for Hartke ranged all the way across the country from Orange, N.J., to Oakland, Calif.

NCACC Information Director Jerry Elliott suggested that a legislative study commission be formed to review the entire welfare system and report to the 1973 General Assembly.

In other action Thursday the board also approved a plan announced by Jordan in March that would require Medicaid recipients to receive prior approval from the Department of Social Services before receiving certain services that up to now have been automatically covered by the medical assistance program.

School Figures Are Disputed

RALEIGH (AP) — One of the state's top budget officials has disputed the contention of the North Carolina Association of Educators that the schools aren't getting their fair share of the state budget.

Assistant state budget officer Frank Justice told a subcommittee of the legislature's Joint Appropriations committee Thursday that "these figures quoted out of context are meaningless."

He said the figures that should be compared are the $442 million the state spent for 1,063,606 school children in the 1961-63 biennium and the $977 million recommended to be spent on 1,089,824 pupils during the coming biennium.

Justice said this shows that while public school enrollment has increased only 2.5 per cent, state funds have increased 120 per cent.

He did not mention the NCAE during his presentation, but the schools' shrinking portion of the state budget has been one of the group's rallying cries in its drive for more money.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Chamber of Commerce says prostitution flourishes in hotels, motels, private clubs and at least one bawdy house in Charlotte.

Officials of the NCAE have said that other state agencies are getting money that should go to the schools. The educators point to the fact that the schools' share of the general fund has dropped from 60 per cent in 1961 to 48 per cent under the proposed 1971-73 budget.

Worry Clinic Church Invasion Seen By Crane

Rev. James may shock every red-blooded American, regardless of his religious affiliation. And our American Legion might well alert all its members to the insidious invasion of our churches by such vicious propaganda. If our kiddies are thus brainwashed favorably toward Communism, where will our churches find themselves in the next generation?

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
Case Q-518: Rev. James is a dedicated Methodist clergyman. "Dr. Crane," he began, "you have often mentioned in recent years the revolt within various churches. Well, it has hit our United Methodist denomination till in our conference, almost 50 percent of our churches failed to meet their budget last year.

"Parishioners are willing to donate money to the local church, for heat, light and pastor's salary.

"But they rebel against what are called 'Conference Apportionments' for the District Superintendent and Bishop, plus a lot of sociology projects that have little connection with religion.

"And if you think I am exaggerating on the latter point, please glance over this analysis of our Sunday School literature!"

Communist Brainwash?
From the Sunday School

papers for kiddies, aged 6 and 7, were these two pages, each with a native child's picture at the top:

Children in Laos
We live in Laos (Louise).
We grow much rice.
We are Buddhist as are most of the people of Laos.
We are sometimes called the land of a million elephants
Our country is friendly to Communist China.

Children in Cambodia
We live in Cambodia (KAMBO-dia).
We grow much rice here.
We have much rubber.
Our country is not taking sides in the war in Vietnam.
But we have been more friendly to Communist China.

Cancer Crusade Begins

Pitt County's annual crusade against cancer was launched Wednesday night when American Cancer Society volunteers gathered at the Moose Lodge here.

Dr. Charles Gilbert, president of the county unit, stressed the importance of the volunteer's role in this year's educational and fund-raising crusade. "We believe that people-to-people contact—folks alerting their relatives, neighbors, and friends to cancer's warning signals and helping to raise fighting funds—is part of the combination that will increasingly turn the tide against these dread diseases called cancer. The other part is the dedication and skill of thousands of physicians and researchers searching for causes and better treatments," he said.

He reminded the volunteers that many cancer deaths are needless since the chances of a cure are good with early diagnosis. "There are more than one-and-a-half million Americans alive today to prove this," he said.

Outlining the events and procedures of this year's crusade, Mrs. Robert Messner, executive secretary of the Pitt County unit, said, "Every home and business must be visited beginning this week. Everyone with even a few hours to spare can help. Families must get the facts about cancer. One key part of the Crusade is distributing life-saving leaflets telling how one can protect himself against cancer. Anyone who has not already volunteered, but wishes to, should call 758-3131 or 756-0089.

MOTIVE which civilized adults don't use in polite society.

And two full pages of illustrations showed nude men and women, making love or in grotesque erotic positions that made the issue merely a Methodist magazine of pornography.

"Why," you may exclaim in disbelief, "would the Methodist Church ever let its name be linked with such a magazine as MOTIVE?"

Well, the magazine also contained ads by student rioters out in Berkeley, soliciting donations for defense funds to aid those who had been arrested in California campus vandalism.

One such ad concluded with: "Rush all the bread you can collect to: People's Park Defense Fund, 1921 Grove Street, Berkeley."

A medical friend of mine at Lafayette, Indiana, had given me an earlier issue of this MOTIVE magazine in which wives were told how to be untrue to their husbands, yet prevent the latter from suspecting such infidelity.

Control Battle Appears Underway

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Black activists Golden Frinks and Ben Chavis, linked together by day in a federal court hearing, have been battling each other by night for control of Wilmington's civil rights movement.

Frinks and his Southern Christian Leadership Conference moved into this port city of 50,000 last month in the wake of violence that left two persons dead from gunfire during racial turmoil and a third death that police say may have been racially motivated.

Mayor L.M. Cromartie has blamed the violence on a school boycott admittedly counseled by Chavis, a field organizer for the North Carolina-Virginia Committee on Racial Justice.

Frinks, a 13-year veteran of civil protest, is a practitioner of nonviolence; Chavis, younger and less experienced, says action is stronger than words.

Both were involved in a hearing this week before U.S. Dist. Judge Algernon Butler to determine if an injunction restraining them from interference with New Hanover County public schools should be made permanent.

Side by side in the courtroom during the daylight hours, Chavis and Frinks have gone their separate ways at night as each has sought to build his following among Wilmington's black community. The result apparently has been even more division among the blacks.

During the height of Wilmington's violence disorders in February, Police Chief H.E. Williamson cited the difficulty in pinpointing a black leadership as one of his major problems in resolving the struggle.

A joint meeting intended to promote unity reportedly broke up Wednesday night when Chavis disagreed with Frinks' plans for nonviolent disruptions of next week's Azalea Festival. Chavis checked out of his motel late Thursday and could not be reached, but Frinks readily confirmed the verbal tiffs.

"I told them they had created a situation they'd be the victims of," Frinks said in an interview.

Chavis, in his work here, appears to have favored small committees of young people. Frinks has his committee, too, a 46-member unit of "community snoopers who keep me informed."

Frinks noted speculation prevalent in Wilmington that the more militant blacks might go underground, but the SCLC official said it would not be effective if it happened.

"I'm going to keep this community open," Frinks said, pledging "to seal off every one of these guys who want violence."

The Committee on Racial Justice followers were left leaderless in February when Chavis and his white co-leader, the Rev. Eugene Templeton, went to Raleigh for a news conference at which they said their lives were unsafe in Wilmington. They returned to the coastal city several days later, but their work has been overshadowed since mid-March by Frinks' more vocal campaign.

Declaring "this city can stamp out violence and bring in beautiful nonviolence," Frinks has scheduled organized interruptions of the Azalea Festival parade on April 17 to back up his demand for blacks to receive a share of the festival profits.

The interruptions, he said, would be staged by "professional disrupters" used by the SCLC for major protests.

"They are continuously in the struggle. They go where they are needed. They are nonviolent professionals," he said. He said the disrupters, who participated in a 1969 hospital employe protest in Charleston, S.C., "are not paid, but they are professionals in that they are experienced and know how to handle themselves."

Dep't. Head Attends Meet

Dr. J. W. Byrd, chairman of the physics department at East Carolina University, attended two meetings of the National Science Foundation Director's Conference in Washington, D.C., March 25, 27 and March 31-April 2.

The meetings were held to discuss projects for the improvement of science in American Colleges and Universities.

Dr. Carpenter Addresses Group

Dr. Thomas H. Carpenter of the East Carolina University School of Music will speak to students attending the convention of the western division of the Music Educators National Conference (MENC) in San Diego, Cal., next week.

Dr. Carpenter, chairman of the music education faculty at ECU, is national chairman of the MENC student member organization.

story, structural steel building, with precast concrete sections and narrow vertical glass panels. Covered walkways are in the plans.

Clark said, "It is anticipated to let construction bids within the next two months. One prime prospective tenant wants space by the first of the year."

Attorney Milton C. Williamson of Farmville appeared before the Council last night with a request to be heard on behalf of employees of the Greenville Fire Department. "You might think I represent AFL or CIO," Williamson commented, "but I'm here only as friend and counselor of the firemen to be heard on the question of salaries of employees of that department."

The council approved a resolution of intent to meet with Williamson at a later date to be set up. Councilman Percy Cox told Williamson, "It is customary for department heads to meet with the city manager at budget time. At that time we'll know more how to discuss the matter with you."

"There are many things that will affect the salaries of firemen and all our city employees," Hagerty observed. He mentioned one factor that might make a difference, the possibility of the return of sales

Bicycle Rides Planned Sunday

Anyone who thinks he can ride his bicycle at least ten miles in one hour is invited to participate in one of two rides at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. next Saturday.

The Carolina Cycle Club is sponsoring the rides in order to interest new club members and also to recruit qualified riders for a 93-mile round-trip to New Bern April 24.

The riders who participate in either of Saturday's rides will be awarded certificates — Class C if they complete the ride with an average speed of 10 to 15 mph and Class B for 15 mph or over. Both rides will be monitored by members of the Carolina Cycle Club.

The meeting place is Wright Fountain on the East Carolina University campus. In case of rain, Sunday will be an alternative date. For further information one should contact Charles Bernier at 1800 East Fifth Street, 752-4020.

By DON KENDALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Department strategists are planning another incursion into fire ant country with an aerial weapon called mirex, an attack environmentalists claim is akin to using nuclear bombs on pickpockets.

Mirex has been used on at least 30 million acres since 1962. The chemical is mixed with a bait and sprayed from airplanes over pastures and woodlands infested with the destructive stinging ants.

The program is carried out under an agreement between the Agriculture Department and states involved, all in the South where fire ants have taken over about 126 million acres since landing at Mobile, Ala., in 1918.

Fire ants cause millions of dollars in damages to pastures and livestock each year. Their venomous bites are painful to humans and animals. The ants destroy pasture by building mounds six to eight inches high, two feet across and only a few feet apart in heavily infested areas.

The Department of Agriculture, which considers mirex the most effective weapon against fire ants, had planned to spray 11 million acres this year, beginning last month. But lawsuits and protests from environmentalists have snarled the strategy. The new target date is sometime in the next two weeks.

Dr. Charles F. Wurster, an adviser to the Environmental Defense Fund, said using mirex is "out of all proportion."

"The fire ant is not really a very serious pest," Wurster said in an interview.

"It bites people on occasion, but so do wasps and bees. Wasps and bees are a lot more dangerous but I don't see the Agriculture Department trying to eliminate them." Wurster, an associate professor of environmental sciences at the State University of New York, Stony Brook, Long Island, charged the mirex program is "a political pork barrel that helps pump money into the states" in an unneeded reaction to a minor problem.

A suit pending in U.S. District Court here seems to enjoin the Agriculture Department from further use of mirex.

The suit involves protests by the Environmental Defense Fund and others who have waged continual battles against hard-core pesticides such as DDT.

Mirex, like many other pesticides, is highly persistent, has been found as residue in fish and animals and has caused cancer in laboratory animals.

But the Agriculture Department says it now has a modified spraying plan that will minimize dangers. The department says the plan would stop the pests in the South and prevent their spread to California and up the East Coast.

The program for spraying 11 million acres this year was to have started March 15 but was delayed by legal actions and government reviews. Then the schedule called for an April 1 target.

Now, according to J.W. Gentry of the Agricultural Research Service, unless spraying begins within two weeks the fire ants are going to come out of their winter cycle, grow wings and start flying into new areas.

If this occurs without mirex spraying, Gentry told a reporter, fire ant territory could be increased greatly.

The modified plan, Gentry said, calls for selectively spraying seven million acres instead of the original 11 million.

Mirex would be used on about 4.1 million acres in Georgia, according to the modified plan, and on 2.6 million in Mississippi. Other spraying would be done on "hot spot" areas where fire ants are known to congregate in force in Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana,

North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas.

Besides the legal obstacles raised by environmentalists, the federal government itself is not sure about mirex.

In March, the Environmental Protection Agency, which recently took over pesticide control from the Agriculture Department, issued notices of cancellation on a number of chemicals including mirex.

EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus wrote Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin that laboratory evidence raises substantial questions about mirex.

Ruckelshaus refused to order a suspension which would have barred sale of mirex regardless of company appeals. That can be done if a chemical is judged an imminent hazard to human health.

Therefore, the only action taken by EPA was to issue cancellation notices on mirex. Thirty days were allowed for manufacturers to file appeals—and sale of mirex can continue through the appeals.

Allied Chemical Co. is the only firm registered to make mirex for the fire ant program. The plant is at Aberdeen, Miss., in the heart of fire ant country and in an area well-endowed with political muscle in Congress.

That muscle includes Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., who for years has held a tight rein on the Agriculture Department as chairman of the House agricultural appropriations subcommittee. And now the subcommittee has taken budgetary authority over the agency which controls pesticides.

DONATIONS FOR CAMPERSHIPS . . . for three exceptional children will be taken beginning tomorrow at Pitt Plaza by members of the Gamma Delta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International. Mrs. Richard Stevens, president (left) is shown with Tim Dixon of Wahl-Coates School and Ronnie Holland of Aycock and Mrs. Robert Barlow, a teacher at Wahl-Coates and a sorority member. Classes for exceptional children at the two schools were given an Easter egg hunt at Elm Street Park by the sorority Thursday afternoon.

Mr. White, a native of Rowan County, had been a resident of Pitt County most of his life. He was a resident of the Bell Arthur Community and was a member of the Bell Arthur Methodist Church, where he was a choir member and superintendent of the Sunday School. He was a veteran of World War One and was the Chaplain of Pitt County Post No. 39 of the American Legion.

Surviving is one brother, Mitchell White of Greenville.

Princess Anne Nixes Hot Pants

LONDON (AP)—Princess Anne says she won't wear hot pants.

"That's the limit, the absolute limit. Certain things I will not do," says the 20-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II.

The princess, known for her trendy clothes, disclosed her aversion to the short shorts in a program to be televised Sunday by the British Broadcasting Corp. Newsmen got a preview Wednesday.

Glass fibers actually were first discovered by ancient Egyptians, according to Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. The Egyptians drew molten glass into threads to wind around vessels as a decoration.

Older Citizens Are Remembered

EASTER GIFTS FOR THE AGING . . . have been distributed by the Pitt-Greenville Council on Aging. Three residents of the Jones Nursing Home in Winterville (left to right) Mrs. Hattie Scarborough of Farmville, Mrs. Amy Daniels of Greenville, and Miss Dollie Burke, also of Greenville pose with one of the several flower arrangements and the Easter baskets brought them. With them is Miss Ollie Mae Patrick, an attendant. Mrs. Scarborough was given a knitted scarf since she is the oldest resident, Council coordinator. Mrs. J. B. Spilman said. (Reflector Photo by Carol Tyer)

Many older Pitt Countians are being remembered this Easter through the efforts of Mrs. J. B. Spilman, coordinator of the Pitt-Greenville Council on Aging and a volunteer group of workers headed by Mrs. J. T. Little Jr. Greenville and Ayden florists donated permanent flowers to the Council and book stores and individuals gave flower vases, puzzle sets, and many other items for the recipients to enjoy.

Knitting wool to make small Andy dolls was also given.

The workers have completed numerous spring flower arrangements and delivery has begun throughout the county.

Mrs. Spilman said, "Many lonely and isolated persons will be reached with these Easter flowers and gifts. However, we will miss many, so we urge everyone to remember the aging individual at this Easter season and don't fail to realize just how much he or she has contributed to our society."
