Swedesboro, N.J. Police were forced to close more than 25 miles of the roadway causing similar traffic jams on parallel state highways. Some of the demonstrators were arrested before the jam was broken up. (AP Wirephoto)

Turnpike Stall-In Saw 97 Persons Arraigned

MOUNT LAUREL, N.J. (AP) — Ninety-seven persons were arraigned today on charges of disorderly conduct arising from a massive "stall-in" on the New Jersey Turnpike by demonstrators returning from a peace rally in Washington.

Those arrested, mostly young persons whom police said remained on the four-lane highway after traffic began moving again about 11 p.m. Sunday, were taken to the municipal court house here. Thirteen cars and one bus were towed from the scene, police said.

The New Jersey residents, 28 in all, were released on their own recognizance. Others were held in lieu of $50 bail and taken to jails in Mount Holly and Camden.

Enemy Doubles Attacks Against South Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The enemy doubled his attacks in South Vietnam over the weekend and inflicted heavy losses on the South Vietnamese and their American allies. One attack early today wrecked the biggest ammunition dump in the central part of the country for the third time since January.

Communications and field reports said at least 49 South Vietnamese were killed, 168 were wounded and more than 100 houses were destroyed in attacks since Saturday. The

Bandit Left Him With 2 Dollars

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — When a fare held him up, a Miami Beach cabdriver handed over $43, looked steadily into the gun barrel, and swore he had no more cash.

The gunman lowered the gun, peeled off two single bills, and returned the $2 to Julius Grossman, 39.

"Can't leave a guy broke," said the gunman. "Drive off and don't look back."

Reject Tax On X-Rated Movies

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A South Carolina Senate committee has rejected a proposal to tax X-rated movies.

The tax would have produced about $40,000 a year. Further consideration of such a tax is expected later in this session of the General Assembly.

Charges Health Insurance Industry Failed People

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accusing the health insurance industry of "failure to serve the people," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy today urged adoption of his plan to cover all Americans under one federal health insurance policy.

The Massachusetts Democrat was the leadoff witness at three days of Senate Finance Committee hearings on several different health care proposals, including a health partnership plan of the Nixon administration.

Other first-day witnesses were Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

The Kennedy plan would cover every individual living in the United States for all health services for the prevention and treatment of illness and medical rehabilitation. It would be funded partly from the general U.S. Treasury and partly out of a payroll tax of 3.5 per cent on employers and 1 per cent on employees.

Kennedy, chairman of a separate Health subcommittee, said in his prepared testimony two months of hearings by his panel showed "gross waste and inefficiency" contributing to soaring costs of health care.

"We have heard testimony," he said, "that hospitals are used unnecessarily because insurance covers hospitalization but not outpatient care. We have heard that costly hospital facilities,

Rejects Counsel Of New Isolationists

President Tells C-of-C Worst Of Inflation Is Now Behind Us

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon assured businessmen today the nation is entering a solid and sustainable expansion and, with the rate of price increases cut in half, that "the worst of inflation is behind us."

Nixon repeatedly hammered on the theme of confidence in an address to the 59th annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce in Constitution Hall.

With militant antiwar demonstrators in the capital organizing two weeks of protest against the Vietnamese conflict, Nixon assured the country's largest business organization:

"First, you have a right to be confident that this nation will reject the counsel of the new isolationists.

Mansfield Sees Trouble Ahead For Draft Bill

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield forecasts serious Senate opposition to a two-year extension of the draft in a debate likely to involve the use of draftees in the Vietnam war.

The Senate Armed Services Committee is expected to complete action this week, probably Tuesday, on a bill extending the draft and eliminating future deferments for college students.

Its version would permit current undergraduates to keep their deferments until their fourth year of college are completed.

The House already has approved extending the draft for two years past its June 30 expiration date. Senate debate is due in about two weeks.

Mansfield said the legislation has faced a comparatively easy path so far but "this time I think it will encounter serious opposition."

He said the effort against the bill will center first on an attempt to end the Selective Service System altogether, and then, more seriously, on an effort to limit extension to one year.

In addition, Mansfield said, the issue of drafting men for service in South Vietnam appears certain to become part of the debate.

"At least on half and probably more of the casualties have been draftees," Mansfield said.

Such a development could embroil the draft issue in the larger Senate controversy over the war itself. Action is due later on legislation to forbid U.S. spending for the conflict after the end of this year.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., also is working for an end to the draft and the substitution of an all-volunteer armed force.

"I cannot stress too strongly the profound weakening of our social fiber, the undermining of the individual's faith in his government and his hope for the future the military draft inculcates," Hatfield said.

Giant Jetliner Earthbound

DENVER (AP) — A Continental 747 jetliner became stuck in the mud early today after overshooting the runway at Stapleton International Airport here. None of the plane's 75 passengers was injured, airport officials said.

The plane had landed on a flight from Los Angeles, but went off the east end of the runway and sank into mud. Airport officials said wet pavement may have been a factor in the incident.

Wants To Make Texas Visible

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI) — Jack Weeks of Dallas has an idea he says would keep the eyes of space travelers on Texas day and night.

Weeks wants to circle the state's borders with sodium vapor lights. Another kind of high visibility marker would be installed for daytime identification, then astronauts could watch Texas day and night.

VETERAN OFFICIAL DIES

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — T. V. Soong, 77, veteran official of the Chinese Nationalist government, died Sunday night. During the 1930s and 1940s, Soong dominated the financial affairs of the Republic of China.

Housing Fair A 'Success'

With the exception of a misty Friday night, clear weather prevailed during this weekend's Housing Fair here and the public turned out for the exhibition in satisfying numbers.

Termed by Pitt County Extension Chairman Edwin L. Yancey a "tremendous success," the three day fair was attended by an estimated 16-18,000 people who viewed the variety of commercial and educational exhibits.

"The weather cooperated beautifully," Yancey said this morning. "Mr. Moyer (fair manager J. H. Moyer) and I agreed that somewhere between 16 and 18,000 people went through the fair over the weekend and we are very pleased with the way everything turned out."

Yancey added that everyone we talked to said they were impressed with the overall quality of the exhibits throughout the fair. This is quite a compliment to the exhibitors. The chairman pointed out that much of the credit for the success of the fair should go to Moyer who "put so much of his time and effort in this and really did a tremendous job."

NCNB Raising Its Prime Rate

CHARLOTTE (AP) — North Carolina National Bank said today it is raising its prime interest rate from 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 per cent. The bank had gone to 5 1/2 per cent a month ago.

Some New York banks began raising the prime rate, which is charged to their biggest and best customers, last week.

NCNB officials said their prime rate was 8 1/2 per cent on March 24, 1970, and was lowered the next day to 8 1/4 per cent. The following year it was reduced to the lowest level of 5 1/2 per cent.

Low Ceiling Has Home Feeling

NEW YORK (UPI) — No claustrophobia so far as Lester B. Dill is concerned.

When Dill, who operates the Meramec Caverns in Stanton, Mo., checked into New York's Henry Hudson Hotel he asked owner Irving Schatz for a room with a low ceiling. The cave impresario wanted to feel more at home.

INCREASE UPHELD

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Supreme Court today upheld the $22.4 million rate increase awarded the Virginia Electric & Power Co. last June by the State Corporation Commission.

east Asia in a way that will permit us to stay involved in building a full generation of peace throughout the world."

But the basic theme of the President was a declaration of confidence in the strength of the economy. "In dealing with the future of this country, if you want to be a realist, you have to be an optimist," he said.

"... You can be confident that America's economy will continue its vigorous expansion without bringing on a new round of inflation."

"The facts show that we are winning the fight against rising prices. In 1969, inflation was roaring along at a rate higher than 6 per cent a year; in 1970 we managed to reverse that dangerous trend, and prices rose 5.5 per cent; in the first quarter of this year, prices rose at the annual rate of 2.7 per cent, the lowest rise in four years.

"We have cut the rate of inflation in half."

The President guaranteed there would be no wage-price controls. "The new prosperity will be the road of free markets, free competition, free bargaining, free men," he said.

But he gave clear warning that the White House will continue to use the jawbone weapon of publicity and pressure against excessive price or wage advances.

"I will continue to use the power of my office to persuade business and labor to act responsibly in making further progress against inflation," Nixon said. "Fighting inflation is not just the government's business—it's everybody's business."

Sec. Of State Rogers Begins Mid-East Trip

Secretary of State William P. Rogers flew to London today en route to the Middle East, where he hopes to revive hopes of a settlement between Israel and its Arab enemies.

The way ahead is difficult because neither Egypt nor Israel, the principal antagonists, show any sign of softening positions that have deadlocked peace negotiations.

Rogers' aim, as a starter, is to make arrangements for the reopening of the Suez Canal by a partial Israeli withdrawal from the east bank. But Israel wants Egypt to stay on the west side of the canal. Egypt wants the Suez Canal reopening as part of a deal for complete Israeli withdrawal from all Arab territory occupied in the 1967 war.

On his two-week journey, Rogers will attend a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization meeting in London and fly to Ankara for a Central Treaty Organization session that ends Saturday.

Rogers then will go to Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Lebanon, Egypt and Israel before returning to Washington about May 9.

In advance of its 23rd independence anniversary, Israel made public for the first time Sunday some of its new American military equipment, including amphibious artillery and a personnel carrier that could cross the Suez Canal in any fresh outbreak of hostilities.

Displayed to newsmen were the M109 self-propelled cannon, the M113 armored personnel carrier and the Sikorsky CH53 combat helicopter. All were shown last week, but newsmen were not allowed to publish their reports until Sunday night.

A Katyusha rocket launcher also was rolled out for newsmen as an example of war booty captured from Egypt during the 1967 war.

An Israeli military spokesman said both the artillery piece and the personnel carrier were "able to cross water obstacles of any depth."

Moscow has supplied Egypt with amphibious troop transport, and the Egyptians reportedly have staged water maneuvers in the canal area.

Observers say that by displaying its own amphibious strike capability, Israel is warning the Arabs that its forces can also cross the 197-foot-wide waterway separating the two opposing armies.

The armor-shielded, $5 million CH53 helicopter, a vital troop carrier in the Indochina war, is believed the most modern aircraft in service with the Israelis. Nicknamed the Jolly Green Giant it was described as "the most maneuverable in the world" by an Israeli pilot who put it through its paces.

The pilot said it had adapted well to desert conditions in the Middle East. The CH53 is one of the world's largest helicopters, has a maximum range of 700 miles and can carry 30 combat-ready troops or 8.5 tons of cargo.

Military men say the self-propelled cannon adds a new dimension to Israeli offensive capability, providing close mobile support for advancing troops.

The M113 armored personnel carrier will replace Israel's World War II-vintage troop carriers. Known to American troops in Vietnam as a "rolling sardine can."

Schedules Trial For Full Moon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal judge has granted a trial date to coincide with the full moon so the defendant, a fisherman, won't have to take time off from work.

Judge Robert F. Peckham set July 6 for Thomas L. Gion's trial in U.S. District Court.

Gion, 23, charged with refusing the draft, explained that fishermen don't go out during full moon because schools of fish then are hard to spot.

High Court Rules Public Housing Can Be Vetoed By Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled 5 to 3 today that the states may allow voters to veto public housing projects in their communities.

The decision, given by Justice Hugo L. Black, approved a 1950 amendment to the California Constitution that requires endorsement by a majority of the voters before housing projects need be constructed.

Black said the provision did not aim at a racial minority and insures that all the people of the community will have a voice in the decision.

"Provisions for referendums demonstrative a devotion to democracy, not to bias, discrimination, or prejudice," Black wrote.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart and Byron R. White were in the majority with Black. Justices Thurgood Marshall, William J. Brennan Jr. and Harry A. Blackmun dissented.

This lineup was noteworthy in one special respect. It was the first time Blackmun and Burger have disagreed in a major decision. Their voting pattern has been similar previously.

Justice William O. Douglas ruled himself out of the case without giving any reason.

Children Favor Toupee For Dad's Trip

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Our family is planning a trip to Ireland this summer. We have many relatives there. Our father, who is bald, would like to buy a toupee for the trip. Our relatives in Ireland would never know the difference because they haven't seen Dad since he was a young boy. The trouble is Mom. She doesn't want Dad to buy a toupee. All us kids are on Daddy's side. Whose side are you on? THE KIDS

DEAR KIDS: I'm on Daddy's side, too!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just received an invitation to a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party for a couple I'll call "The Johnsons," which is not their real name. We have been friends with the Johnsons for many years. Here is the problem. About five years ago Mr. Johnson and I started having an affair, and it's still going on, but nobody is wise. We really love each other, but we know it's hopeless. My question: Should we go to the party?

It would be difficult for me to sit there and pretend to be happy while Mr. Johnson pretends he loves his wife. And it would probably be embarrassing for Mr. Johnson, too.

On the other hand, there is no excuse I could give my husband for not going. My only out would be to get sick at the last minute. But if I did, my husband wouldn't go without me and I would feel like a rat making him miss a good party. I am not a very good liar. What should I do?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: If you've been carrying on with Mr. Johnson for the last five years and nobody is wise, you are a better liar than you think you are. You'd be better off going to the party and pretending to be happy, than staying home and pretending to be sick.

DEAR ABBY: This is concerning the failure of a widow to return about a dozen irreplaceable books which her husband borrowed during his last illness. How does the owner get them back?

You suggested that she take some cookies to the widow, then suddenly bring up the subject of the unreturned books. I say, nuts to your cookies approach. It's not honest. Just take a suitcase over there and ask for the books. A year is 50 weeks too long to wait for their return. Anyone who values a book should require a dated receipt for it. Every library does.

Yrs. Sincerely,
AN M. D. IN K. C.

DEAR M. D.: Thanks, Doc. Your prescription will no doubt effect a quicker cure than mine.

DEAR ABBY: I have a lovely home, beautifully carpeted thruout. Whenever I call a plumber to do inside work, a man shows up with muddy boots, smelling like a sewer. I think for the rates a plumber charges, he can show his customers a little more consideration.

I realize the plumber has a lot of dirty jobs to do, but is it necessary for him to come directly to a home for inside work after having been sweating for hours in a filthy sewer? IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Almost all servicemen will remove their muddy boots at the door without being told. [And if you have to tell them to, they'll accommodate you.] But you can't expect a plumber who has come from a dirty "stoppage" job to shower, change his clothes, and get a shine before going to your home. All you can do is specify that yours is an inside job when you call a plumber.

DEAR ABBY: "DUBIOUS" asked you if a man who had been swinging for 20 years can ever settle down? Brother, can they ever! I married a 47-year-old "wild man." He chased and drank and danced and played. He's now given up all his bad habits. He evidently had his fill, and now all

Popular Sentiment Is Changing

Few people seem overly concerned that no executions have been carried out in North Carolina since 1961; yet it appears that our citizens prefer to keep the law on the books.

Thus a bill to repeal capital punishment was voted down in the State House of Representatives last week by a vote of 46 to 65.

While the vote recorded against the bill seems to indicate that it never had a chance of passing

Reputation As A 'Maverick'

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Republican spells D-U-L-L to too many people; without a change of image, it also may spell D-E-A-D.

"Sometimes it seems our party actually enjoys the martyr role. Our candidates have shown great ability to go out and get zapped again."

Thinking and talking like that earned Rep. James C. Johnson, Jr. of Cabarrus his reputation as a maverick in the North Carolina GOP.

"Maverick? I guess I am," he said cheerfully. "I say what I think. That causes an uproar. Then people tell me: 'Jimmy, you're right but why did you have to say it?'"

Controversy is not un-congenial to Johnson, a restless, gregarious, give it the capability to field and support candidates who can win.

"Change must come about," he insisted. "I am trying to bring about change through evolution rather than revolution."

If that sacrifices his own political career, he's willing to do it. "Someone has to get bruised in order to advocate what needs to be done," he philosophized.

Not long ago Johnson stirred a minor flap by suggesting that Rep. James E. Holshouser, Jr., of Watauga give up the post of State Republican Chairman.

Holshouser didn't, and other GOP legislators said Johnson expressed only his own opinion.

Nothing personal intended, Johnson said, but simply a bid for broader distribution of party leadership. Holshouser is Representative, State Chairman, Minority Leader, and a candidate for Governor, he noted. "He's over-taxed," Johnson commented.

New Ideas Solicited
He had better luck when he proposed that the party go to the people for new ideas. Initial response was negative, but later the state executive committee approved a series of public hearings now going on throughout the state which will achieve the same objective.

Getting along with Democrats is a talent Johnson had to develop in Cabarrus, where a Republican hadn't been elected to the legislature in 40 or 50 years. It's part of his heritage, too. His mother was a Democrat, and her father was elected on that ticket to local offices in the Denton area.

His political flair may have come from his paternal grandfather, Floyd Johnson, who was the only registered Republican in Greenville County, S. C.

It's told that when Al Smith came through campaigning, lambasting Hoover for the Depression, Johnson jumped up on the platform. "Hold on, young fellow!" he commanded. "I can remember when the Democrats were in office and times were so hard sap didn't rise in the trees for four years!"

Johnson wears the GOP label and subscribes to its basic philosophy, but he's an independent when he goes into the polling booth.

"Sure I've voted for Democrats," he said. "In fact, I don't think I voted a straight ticket but once in my life. Nothing in the Good Book says either party is blessed in the candidates it picks."

He's convinced most citizens today feel the same.

That gives Tar Heel Republicans their chance, he believes, provided it makes itself responsive and put up capable candidates.

during this session, there is significance in it. It was as close as legislation to abolish capital punishment has come in the state. The debate preceding the vote was also lengthy. It lasted for two and a half hours.

Rep. Henry Frye of Guilford, chief sponsor of the bill, argued "Now is the time for us to make this step forward and be the first state in the South to make this change."

Rep. Frye and others supporting the bill have argued that the death penalty has been applied to the poor and blacks. Those opposed to it, however, indicated that they felt the death penalty was a deterrent to violent crime.

These two arguments have troubled lawmakers, the courts and the public for years and they probably account for the fact that, though there are 12 men and one woman on death row now, no one has been executed for a decade.

It is a certainty that bills to abolish capital punishment will be introduced in the future Legislatures and it appears that sentiment for abolishment is gradually growing. Since the death penalty is so rarely carried out in the United States, it is also possible that some future court ruling may abolish capital punishment in this year's House vote is indicative of changing feeling on this issue.

Watch Effect Of The Presidential Primary

The presidential preference primary for North Carolina is now a fact and, while such primaries are not all that important they can be interesting.

The primary will be held May 2 and delegates will be bound for the first ballot at party conventions.

No doubt, the primary will attract aspirants to North Carolina to campaign for the share of the delegation and this will bring national notoriety. The preference primary may also overshadow state and local races and even generate some bitterness on the state level.

At any rate, the presidential primary will be held next year and it will be interesting to observe its effect on state voting.

Blacks Approve Law-and-Order

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

PHILADELPHIA — The political appeal of the law-and-order issue which has given former police commissioner Frank Rizzo such a long lead for the May 18 Democratic mayoral primary election here is not limited to white voters caught up in anti-Negro sentiment.

To the contrary, we discovered a remarkable tendency among black voters to equate law-and-order candidate Rizzo, a tough, two-fisted lawman, with such lofty characteristics as "high principled" and "believes in equal justice."

What this means is that in the nation's biggest cities, deep longing for law and order crosses racial and economic lines. It appeals to lower- and middle-income whites frightened by Negro youth gangs, but it also has a powerful hold on middle- and lower-income blacks eking out miserable lives in a rising drug culture that preys on their children.

Accordingly, the message to liberals of both parties is clear: candidates who come out against law and order are risking political extinction, which was precisely what President Nixon and Vice President Spiro Agnew tried to cash in on during last year's Congressional campaign. They failed because the frightened Democrats jumped to the issue themselves, thus blunting the Republican campaign. Here in Philadelphia, however, Rizzo so far has the issue all to himself.

Our findings resulted from an all-day polling expedition here last week with national pollster Oliver Quayle. Almost one-third of the voters we talked to live in the black 37th Ward and not one of those registered black Democrats equated law-and-order with racism or described Rizzo as racist.

We made that discovery by asking each voter to choose from 15 written words or phrases those best describing a "law and order candidate." The leading choices were "believe in equal justice," "protection of a democratic society," "high principled," and "tough, no monkey business." Not a single black respondent chose "unsympathetic" and only one picked "too conservative."

Thus, the man who was Philadelphia's top policeman for years seems to be riding an issue that is not perceived by Negro voters in the blacks-hate-cops stereotype. Our visit to one of the dilapidated structures that passes for a home in one rundown block of the 37th Ward tells why.

Inside was an attractive young Negro mother and she talked on only one subject — the rising threat of drugs to her three children. The Philadelphia police force was not doing as well as they should to control the traffic in drugs, she said, but at least "Rizzo is trying," and would get her vote over both liberal Democrat Rep. William Green, Jr., and black state Rep. Hardy Williams, in the May 18 primary.

Adding weight to the general lack of hostility toward Rizzo was the fact that well over half our black respondents said they could think of nothing specific that they did not like about him. Those who did have anti-Rizzo grievances said he would impose a "police-type government," that he was "a good cop but not up to being mayor," and that he "hadn't

Strength For Today

THE MATERIAL IS IMPORTANT

Do you have any moral standards?

Oh yes, you reply, I have some very definite moral standards. Such being the case, the next question is, Are these moral standards made of steel or of rubber — or perhaps of butter?

Some people have mighty good theories which they never for a moment think of putting into operation when comfort or profit or passion is at stake. Many people have an adaptable type of moral standard which can assume one form in one circle of society and an entirely different form in another. Some moral standards bend like rubber and others melt like butter when the heat of public criticism is turned on.

Stand for something! Everybody will think more of you if you do. Even the ones who laugh at you will secretly admire you. You may have heard this expression, "Stand for something or pretty soon you will not stand for anything." Not a bad description of how some people's moral standards give way before the assaults of every tempting circumstance. This expression sums up pretty well the basis on which some hostesses entertain, some business men operate, some students seek after popularity and office. Steel, rubber and butter. What about the substance of your ideals? Do you have any, and if so, what are they made of?

The Gin Rummy Team

WASHINGTON — "Good evening, comrades. This is Wo Pang of the Mao Tse-tung Broadcasting System in Peking. Seated with me on our studio tonight are the members of the People's Republic of China Gin Rummy team. Last week, in an unprecedented diplomatic move, the Americans invited our team to visit the United States to compete in the Gin Rummy Mixed Doubles Classic at Pebble Beach, Calif. This is the first time that citizens of the People's Republic of China were permitted behind the Nylon Curtain and we would like to ask them their impressions of what they saw in this most mysterious of all Western countries.

"Let us begin with Tai Bun, the captain of the gin rummy team. Comrade Bun, what impressed you the most about your visit to the United States?"
"The friendliness of the American people. Everywhere we went, people said, 'We may not agree with what your government stands for, but we really like Chinese food.'"
"Comrade Lo Song. Did you find the American people well-clothed?"
"The older people seemed to have enough clothes, but the young people were very poor. All the young people we saw had torn pants, dirty sweat shirts and none of them had any shoes. Our translator said that the young people in America preferred to dress this way, but we knew this was capitalistic propaganda. Why would people who could afford it walk around in their bare feet?"

"Comrade Bu Wong. Did the Americans let you see everything you asked to see?"
"No they didn't. They were very careful to let us see only the things they wanted us to see. For example, they wouldn't let us see Los Angeles."
"What reason did they give?"
"They said no one could see Los Angeles because of the smog. They said on most days even people who lived there couldn't see it. They expected us to swallow this story."
"Comrade Hu Toy. Do you also feel the Americans tried to prevent you from seeing what you wanted to see?"
"Yes. But they were very clever about it. They said we could go anywhere we wanted to, so one day I asked to go for a drive in the countryside. They took me on a road which they call a freeway. We traveled five miles in four hours and by the time we got out of the city, our translator said we had to go back because it would take us another four hours to return to our hotel. So we didn't see anything. I asked if we could take a train the next day and he told us there were no passenger trains in the United States any more. Of course, none of us believed it."
"Comrade Dan Gum. What were your impressions of the visit?"
"The thing that impressed me the most was the cult of Nixon we saw everywhere. It is like our cult of Mao Tse-tung with one major difference. In the People's Republic of China, we give

Other Editors Say Plain Welfare Talk

(Henderson Dispatch)

We don't know details of President Nixon's welfare proposals, but he certainly minced no words in denouncing the present system. Many people will shout a loud amen to what he said. His word is taken as authority on current conditions, when he said the United States cannot tolerate a welfare system "under which working people can be made to feel like fools by those who will not work." That's plain talk and is both needed and should be heeded by Congress.

The President went on to say that "it is incredible that we have allowed a system of laws under which one person can be penalized for doing an honest day's work and another person can be rewarded for doing nothing." He termed the present system a "monumental failure," whereby "the person in welfare can often have a higher income than his neighbor who holds a low-paying job." He said he thought those who refuse to work and accept work or training should be ineligible for welfare payments. We can without question buy that.

We think there is such a person as an irresponsible public official, even in Congress, where there is the inclination to toss out a sop of any sort that is calculated to garner votes at election time. That's not statesmanship on the part of those who instigate such a program because they think it will be beneficial to them.

There are probably millions of workers today who resent the system as it is now, and which is developing an army of vagrants greater than ever existed here before. It ought to be abolished, and if nothing better can be devised then discontinue the whole system. These people did not starve before they got on the handout rolls, nor would they now. Biblical edicts that he who will not work shall not eat is as justifiable now as when spoken many centuries ago.

Congressmen should favor and enact a program that is fair to every one whether it produces votes or not. Nixon apparently favors that plan, whatever effect it may have on his political future. For it he deserves commendation and support.

Mixed To Point Of Confusion

By ELMER ROESSNER

The economy is considerably mixed; the immediate outlook is mixed to the point of confusion. Commerce Department has concluded that the gross national product rose $28.5 billion in the first quarter of the year. That would mean $1,018.4 billion at an annual rate. President Nixon's target for the year is $1,065 billion. The first quarter figure suggests we are well on the way there, and the stock market reacted as if we are.

But when the first quarter total is viewed in the light of catch-up production as a consequence of the General Motors strike, stockpiling in anticipation of the possible steel strike in August, and the continued inflation of prices, the economy looks like the White Queen, who had to run so hard to stay in the same place.

The Federal Reserve said, "Industrial production edged up slightly in March." Just how slightly is shown by the Fed's own index. The February index was 164.9 per cent of the 1957-59 average, and the March index was 165.2 per cent. The index was 171.1 in March, 1970. "Sluggish" is the word. The New York Federal Reserve's Monthly Review for April said, "The recent performance of most business indicators suggests that domestic activity remains fairly sluggish.... The data for March suggest that the underlying situation in the labor markets remain on the sluggish side."

The New England Letter of the First National Bank of Boston said, "The economy gains momentum. Real output increased at an annual rate of more than 5 per cent, possibly as much as 6 per cent, in the first quarter of this year."

However, it added that the economy failed to achieve the Administration's quarterly expansionary target and will continue to fail unless early recovery is buoyed by business and consumer confidence.

Cleveland Trust said, "Prices rose too rapidly and production too slowly in the first quarter to leave much hope that anything like a $1,065 billion GNP can be obtained this year except by an extraordinary amount of inflation."

So you can take your choice. However it does seem that as long as unemployment remains high, the

Blunt Black Teacher

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE

Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Elijah Mays, a black educator, author, lecturer and minister, lives in a quiet and tree-shaded neighborhood of substantial brick homes in southwest Atlanta.

The neighborhood once was an upper-class refuge for whites who moved there as the city and its black spread.

But five years ago Mays, a close friend of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and other Negro professional men moved in, and all but three of the 20 white families now have moved out.

Mays, whose autobiography, "Born to Rebel," was published last month, swiveled toward the windows of an office in his split-level home on a recent, sunny afternoon and gestured toward the homes of neighbors.

A few black men in shirt-sleeves were watering their lawns. Children bicycled down the street.

"I been accustomed to whites running so long," said the 76-year-old Mays, a flicker of a smile on his face. "I'm surprised when they don't."

His face was serene beneath white hair brushed straight back from his creased and lined forehead.

The president of Atlanta's predominantly black Morehouse College for 27 years — he retired in 1967 — Mays perceives irony in the white flight from his neighborhood. Mays, a vocal and respected battler for civil rights all during his adult life, has made hundreds of speeches on the subject.

One speech, perhaps, is best remembered. In November 1955 at Memphis he surveyed his audience at a meeting of the Southern Historical Association and said segregation is against God and man.

"It is tantamount to saying, You made a mistake, God, when you didn't make all races white," said Mays. Another speech was given that day at the same meeting by a white Southerner raised in the segregated society of Mississippi. Nobel laureate William Faulkner joined Mays in warning of the dangers of segregation.

The bluntness of Mays' speech surprised many and made headlines throughout the region. But it came as no surprise to those who had heard Mays, a native of Epworth, South Carolina, speak on previous occasions.

The memory of that day delights Mays. "I had been talking like that all my public life," he smiles. "I am still talking like that."

His retirement has afforded him little idle time. He spent one year researching his book, another year locked in a room in a hotel near Morehouse writing it. He is much in demand as a speaker, especially since publication of the book, an assault on segregation.

In his book, Mays offers to readers a perspective on segregation gained from a lifetime of battling it on many fronts — as a black boy graduating from high school in South Carolina in 1916, as a student at a New England college, as the minister of the Shiloh Baptist Church in Atlanta during the 1920s, and as an educator trying to shore up "black colleges."

He bristles at the question of whether black colleges will be able to survive in the face of

Suggests A Second Office For Execs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Now that many Americans have a second car, a second home, a second television set, how about a second office?

That's the suggestion of Herman Taub, of Westport, Conn., president of the International Education Association, who believes many executives can operate a second office near their homes in the suburbs and add to their gross incomes without taking on additional assignments.

Taub has built a six-story office building in Westport, a residential community of 30,000 where about half the male population commutes to New York City every working day. The International Education Association, which publishes educational books and distributes educational films, operates the Westport facility as the Connecticut Office Building.

 credit to our beloved chairman Mao for everything good that happens here. In the United States, they blame Mr. Nixon for everything bad that happens there."

"Comrade Ro Po-li, what was the highlight of the trip as far as you're concerned?"
 "I think the highlight of the trip was our private visit with Vice President Spiro Agnew. He was very friendly and he told us many things about the United States that no one else would talk about."

"Such as?"
 "He told us that the American press and television networks were full of lies and they slanted the news and took things out of context so the American people never knew the truth. It was exactly what Mao Tze-tung had told us and we were happy to hear it confirmed from the lips of a high American government official. At the end of our interview, Agnew gave us a souvenir golf ball which he said he had personally played with. The ball had a slight dab of blood on it, but our translator refused to tell us why."

 done enough about drugs. These few criticisms almost exactly corresponded to Rizzo's even fewer white critics, indicating that Rizzo's glittering reputation as a law-and-order candidate overrides his weaknesses — little political experience and lack of education.

The significance of that finding became even sharper in answers to another question we asked to doublecheck the voters' perception of just what makes a "law and order" candidate. We asked the converse — how each voter would describe a candidate conducting a non-law-and-order campaign. Amazingly enough, the description used most often by blacks and whites alike was "racist," followed (again with whites and blacks agreeing in roughly the same percentage) by "too liberal."

The message is starkly clear: a non-law-and-order candidate is perceived as being unfair and unjust, hence "racist." For liberal candidates in big cities, the warning seems to be that law-and-order is no longer synonymous with racism, as it was in the days of Birmingham's Bull Connor and other anti-black law officers during the civil rights revolution of the '60s. Today, it may be the most important single attribute for any politician aspiring to be a big city mayor.

 integration. "Would you ask that question about a white college?" he asks. "Why should we assume that the black college should fail? Because white, in our society, is better. And that is racism."

Mays, who was dean of the school of religion at Howard University before assuming the presidency of Morehouse in 1940, expresses the hope in his book that "the time will come when the white man and the black man can live in the same community with respect and appreciation for each other."

Mays, a natty dresser whose appearance belies his age, told a visitor to his office that he remains optimistic about the future, despite the exodus of whites from his neighborhood. "A few years ago you (Negroes) wouldn't have been allowed to move into a white neighborhood, the Negro ran the risk of having his home bombed.

 "The back of segregation has been broken by law, insofar as it pertains to a black man traveling where he wants, eating where he wishes and getting employment," said Mays, who remembers when a black in Atlanta "was thought fit only to be a maid or a naitor."
 "But, when it comes to the intimacy of blacks and whites living in the same neighborhood, going to the same schools and worshipping in the same church, not that much has changed. Way down in his heart, the average

Ervin Seeks Curb Church School Funds

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. moved today to knock out all language from a $1.5 billion school desegregation bill authorizing some of the money for Catholic and other religious schools.

The North Carolina Democrat, considered one of the Senate's leading constitutional experts, contends such use of federal money not only would violate the First Amendment but be bad policy.

His effort was not given much chance and neither were his other amendments aimed at busing plans used to desegregate Southern schools under court order.

The bill, now in its second week of debate, would permit some of the money to be spent in religious schools on projects designed to lessen minority-group pupil isolation.

The bulk of the funds, however, would be allocated to lessen public school segregation.

Privately sponsors of the desegregation bill say it would have been hard to get it out of committee without some provision for Catholic schools.

Ervin declared federal money for religious schools "is not only unconstitutional but it is tyrannical to tax Protestants and Jews to support Catholic schools."

"I maintain that it is not only unconstitutional, but it is tyrannical to tax Catholics and Jews for support of Protestant schools."

"I maintain it is likewise not only unconstitutional but tyrannical to tax agnostics or even infidels to support Catholic, Jewish or Protestant institutions teaching their respective religions."

Joins Foes Of J. Edgar

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, South Dakota's Democratic Presidential hopeful, says he has long felt that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover should be replaced.

McGovern, in New Orleans last weekend to address a group at Tulane University, said he couldn't prove the allegation of Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., that the FBI has tapped the phones of congressmen, but he believes Boggs' statement that his phone was tapped.

The FBI "is engaging in all kinds of eavesdropping and surveillance involving patriotic Americans all over the country," McGovern said.

He also criticized the FBI for using "paid informers" on college campuses and "using switchboard operators, mailmen and others to spy on private citizens."

McGovern termed Hoover an egotistical man who feels he should be above criticism.

Meanwhile, the 5th district Louisiana Veterans of Foreign Wars passed a weekend resolution in DeRidder asking that Boggs produce evidence to support his charges of FBI wire-tapping telephones of some congressmen.

If Boggs can't, the resolution said, he should either apologize to Hoover or resign.

In a Sunday television interview program, Boggs cited only the case of Rep. John Dowdy, D-Tex., who was reportedly visited by an FBI informant planted with an electronic surveillance "bug."

about 2½ hours in discussions and debate. On roll call vote the House defeated the bill by a 65-46 vote or a margin of 19 votes. Many members expressed a desire to do away with the death penalty, but did not think the penalty features of the bill were stiff enough.

A third bill that was labelled a local bill that may have statewide implications was the Moore County whiskey-by-the-drink bill. This bill permits Moore County to hold an election on the sale of whiskey-by-the-drink. It was passed by a close vote of 56 to 55 and this occurred by one member changing his vote from "no" to "aye" while the vote was being tabulated. If this bill should pass the Senate, it very likely would cause other counties to introduce similar

Will Not Share Parathion Study

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State University and the State Board of Health will not be working together on a study of the controversial DDT substitute, parathion.

Hush Puppies
By Larry Averette

Jonah and the Whale-Shoe

Ever heard the story of Jonah and the Whale-Shoe? Jonah was a fellow who kicked around a few years ago. One day he came upon a whale of a shoe. It was a giant Hush Puppies casual.

The tongue became untied and Jonah walked in.

Once within the giant Hush Puppies shoe, Jonah was fascinated with the workmanship. He noticed first of all that the shoe breathed. It was fashioned from Breathin Brushed Pigskin, and boy, was it soft and comfortable!

Next he noticed that the fluorocarbon shield protected him from the rain and dirt outside. That and the rugged crepe sole and steel shank support made him realize he was in the sturdiest and safest of stylish shoe-homes.

Genocide Pact A Near Fraud, Says Sen. Aiken

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — George D. Aiken, dean of Senate Republicans and one of the most respected members of Congress, says the treaty to outlaw genocide is extremely misleading and very nearly a fraud on the American people.

"It does not do what people have been given to understand it would do—and that is to assure fair treatment to minority races in any part of the world or in any country which has already ratified the treaty," the Vermont Republican said in an interview.

Aiken is ranking GOP member of the Foreign Relations Committee and was in the minority when the panel endorsed the 22-year-old treaty by 10-4 late last month.

The treaty, passed by the United Nations General Assembly in 1948, would make it an international crime to attempt the destruction of entire national, ethnic, racial or religious groups.

It was submitted to the Senate in 1949 by President Harry S. Truman but the committee refused to act on it. President Nixon re-submitted it to the

TV Program To Feature Work Of Heart Ass'n

A national television program, CBS-TV's "60 Minutes" Tuesday night will feature work done by the Heart Association in the prevention of heart disease.

According to Raymond T. Doyle, M.D., president of the Coastal Plain Heart Association, a portion of the program will be involved with a presentation concerning the disease.

Doyle said that the program will be helpful in educating the public as to the type of work that the Heart Association participates in and will show some of the progress being made.

The "60 Minutes" program, seen at 10 p.m. E.S.T., will be hosted by correspondent Mike Wallace who has filmed interviews with a number of heart specialists and researchers.

Back Talk From A Churchman

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Following recent raids and seizures at numerous South African church offices, the Rev. Theo Kotze, regional director of the Christian Institute of Southern Africa, said in a message to "all who threaten the church:"

"When the final reckonings of history are made, you will be seen for what you are—puny puppets of very earthly powers. You cannot destroy the things for which we stand; the concepts of love, truth, kindness, unselfishness and human dignity are imperishable."

Senate in February 1970. Aiken maintained there are "a lot of things which this treaty does not do."

"It does not alter the rules of warfare, or the obligation of parties to the Geneva Conventions on the treatment of prisoners of war and protection of civilian persons in time of war."

"It does not apply to civil wars as such."

"It does not apply to persecution such as the currently headlined Soviet treatment of the Jewish population."

"It does not apply to discrimination, racial slurs, insults and the like."

"It does not apply to voluntary population control measures. And, this is important, it does not apply to the past ..."

"It doesn't do any of them—it's extremely misleading."

Here are some questions and answers from the interview.

Q: Is someone purposely trying to mislead the people on this treaty?

A: No. There's an election coming up ... and I think there are a good many people who will be candidates for election that are trying to impress the minority populations in this country as to how much they are trying to do in their behalf.

Q: Do you mean Democrats, or Republicans, too?

A: Both. It's not a party measure. But some candidates for office, at least. And it's directed particularly, at least, to the Jewish population.

They get the impression that Russia couldn't oppress any of the Jewish population if this treaty went through. That simply isn't so.

It doesn't apply to the past, and yet there are people who think it would apply to the treatment of other countries to minority races in the past. It just doesn't do these things. It almost borders on hypocrisy.

Q: Is it just a piece of paper?

A: It would be a useless piece of paper—you couldn't enforce it even if it went through exactly as some propose it go through. We couldn't go into other countries and enforce the law. We wouldn't let them come in here and enforce the law.

Q: What about penalties?

A: There's no effective penalty that could be imposed. Each country can enact its own legislation. But it's just almost a national crime to tell minority races of the world that this treaty does something for them ...

Q: Is this a fraud on the American people?

A: Almost. Almost. It has a good general objective. But you can't have international legislation workable until you have a workable international court. And that isn't working at all.

We have a world court now ... now they've got no way of enforcing their decisions.

Still Dropping
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troop strength in Vietnam dropped to 281,400 men last week, the U.S. Command announced today. The total was 2,600 below the ceiling set by President Nixon for May 1 and the lowest level in nearly five years.

Official sources said they anticipated strength would drop about 274,000 by May 1, or 10,000 below the ceiling. Nixon has announced a seventh round of troop cutbacks to reduce the authorized ceiling to 184,000 by next Dec. 1.

Jerome B. Gilbert said "long range" pollutants—those which cannot be seen—also could be gone away with in 10 years. Gilbert also predicted an increase in the re-use of water.

Comedian Says He's Bankrupt

ARLINGTON, Mass. (AP) — "This is what happens when you do well," comedian Frank Fontaine—Crazy Gooenheim of the Jackie Gleason Show—told a news conference he called Sunday night to announce he will petition for bankruptcy.

Fontaine's attorney, former Massachusetts Lt. Gov. Francis X. Bellotti, said, "It's a case of poor financial management." Bellotti estimated the comedian's liabilities at $850,000. The Internal Revenue Service announced Friday the seizure of Fontaine's home in suburban Winchester, alleging Fontaine owes $450,000 in income taxes, penalties and interest.

The house, with an assessed valuation of $88,500, is to be auctioned May 25.

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Militant war foes and poverty lobbyists turned their attention to the halls of Congress today after the weekend's huge and peaceful Capitol rally, which a police official called the biggest in history.

Kicking off a two-week campaign of planned nonviolent disruption, they scheduled calls on congressmen and 24-hour sessions with senators in a "people's lobby" against the war and for expanded welfare aid.

Sunday, the continuing anti-war campaign saw police quietly lead away 124 persons whose Quaker peace vigil at the White House grew beyond the 100 persons allowed.

Police arrested only those who refused to leave when asked, and charged them with crossing police lines, which carries a $25 maximum fine.

The so-called "spring offensive" of antiwar actions is coordinated by the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice, which helped put on the big rally Saturday.

The People's Coalition is a loose, diverse group with wider aims and a more militant cast than its ally, the National Peace Action Coalition. NPAC seeks an end to the war through huge rallies and the People's Coalition stresses massive civil disobedience and non-violent action for peace and social justice; specifically, an end to the war by Aug. 28, a $6,500 guaranteed yearly income for a family of four and freedom for "political prisoners." Sunday, NPAC co-ordinator Jerry Gordon claimed anew the Saturday march and rally at the Capitol drew half a million persons. Police stuck officially with Chief Jerry V. Wilson's estimate of 200,000, but civilian information officer Bill Jepsen said it seemed much larger. "I would say from my knowledge that there were more here than ever before," he said. "We had liaison men out and they said it just dwarfed anything they'd seen."

Newsmen who covered the demonstration shared Jepsen's assessment. The previous high attendance is generally conceded to be the 320,000 estimated by police at an antiwar rally here Nov. 15, 1969.

One high administration official, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, accepted the police crowd estimate and downplayed the importance of that figure.

He added: "I think a lot of them (demonstrators) are well motivated, but confused. But I would call their attention to the fact that it is becoming too fashionable in this country for our citizens to extol the virtues of enemy nations, of very repressive, totalitarian societies, while they run down the decision of our own elected officials."

President Nixon, who spent the demonstration day at his mountain retreat in nearby Maryland, has made no comment on the protest.

A similar demonstration in San Francisco Saturday involved another 156,000, police there estimated.

Alabama Bringing Suits Against 13 Industries

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama Atty. Gen. Bill Baxley filed suits today against 13 major industries, charging them with endangering the lives of citizens by polluting the air.

Baxley, who filed suits in Jefferson County Circuit Court, said the actions were taken under the state's "ancient nuisance laws."

Existing state antipollution laws are worthless, Baxley said, but the nuisance statutes should provide a remedy against polluters. The suits asked that the court enjoin the industries from polluting the air, and that they be closed down if they have not installed adequate antipollution equipment within six months.

Protection Agency sent a four-man team of experts to study the situation. Rains came and washed away the crisis shortly after the team arrived.

Birmingham's average count of dirty matter in its air is 162 micrograms. The national urban average is 97.

Current Alabama law gives industries seven years to study the problem without making them promise to take action once they are notified.

Defendants are U.S. Steel, U.S. Pipe and Foundry, Republic Steel, Republic Steel Enterprises, Vulcan Materials, McWane Cast Iron Pipe, Clow Corp., H.K. Porter Co., Lone Star Cement, Alpha Portland Cement, Universal Cement, the Woodward Co. and Alabama By-Products.

Pigeons Gunned

PARIS, Tenn. (AP) — About half of the city's estimated 1,000 pigeons bit the dust here over the weekend during a pigeon shoot on the downtown court square.

Paris Rod and Gun Club members, shotguns at the ready, showed up at dawn Saturday and began banging away at the pigeons. City Commissioner Polk Pascall directed the operation.

The Pigeon shoot was decided upon by the commission as a better way to reduce the pigeon population than chemicals would be. Merchants had demanded that some action be taken against the growing number of pigeons. Police stood by and watched as shotgun blasts echoed through the heart of town. They reported that there were no injuries to humans and no property damage.

Describe Nixon As Eager To Meet Mao

NEW YORK (AP) — Communist China's Chairman Mao Tse-tung wants to meet with President Nixon in Peking and Nixon is "thirsting" to visit China, according to Life Magazine.

Edgar Snow, an American writer who has known Mao for years, quotes the Chinese leader as saying in an interview last December that "the problems between China and the U.S.A. would have to be solved with Nixon."

Nixon said in another interview that no stable world order was possible without mainland China, according to Life's White House columnist, Hugh Sidey. Nixon is quoted by the magazine as having said the world will face mortal danger if America does not approach Peking because, in the President's view, Russia will not warm up to the Chinese.

Nixon decided to "extend the hand of friendship" to the Chinese last year, during the Middle East crisis, Sidey continues.

"If there is anything I want to do before I die, it is to go to China," Nixon said, according to Sidey.

Letters, Bibles Bound For Paris

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A delegation leaves here for Paris today, laden with 300,000 letters and 1,400 Bibles it hopes will eventually get to American prisoners of war in Vietnam.

Rep. Speedy Long, D-La., heads the four-man group that will ask North Vietnamese delegates at the peace talks to deliver the letters and Bibles to the prisoners.

The delegation also plans to visit world religious leaders in Brussels, Stockholm, Amsterdam and London.

Police Sick-Out Lasts One Day

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — A "sick out" action for higher wages ended Sunday with the police force returning to duty after a one day protest.

Officers on the 46-man force have asked the city council for a $1,200 across-the-board increase in their pay checks, but a spokesman said that no progress had been made in the talks with the city.

Seeks Census Of Purple Martins

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — A professor at Mississippi State University says he is setting up a census bureau for purple martins.

Dr. Jerome A. Jackson, Mississippi's only ornithologist, is calling on fellow bird lovers across the state to help count the birds. Jackson says he wants the population counted periodically to determine if environmental changes are affecting the scissor-tailed swallows.

'Lowly' Montreal Expos Sweep Astrodome Series

The Pointing Finger

second game of a doubleheader in Atlanta, Sunday. The teams split the two games. (AP Wirephoto)

The Montreal Expos—the first-place Montreal Expos, s'illvous plait—are one-up against the rest of the National League East for the first three weeks of 1971 and one-up on the Houston Astros for the last two years.

In their first two seasons, the Flying Frenchmen of baseball managed to win only two of 12 games in the Astrodome. They bettered that lowly mark Sunday with a 2-1 victory behind Bill Stoneman's three-hit pitching and a sweep of a three-game series.

in a row from Houston that year before losing the final game and I can tell you here and now that a sweep in the Astrodome is a great feeling." Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh defeated San Francisco 6-2, Cincinnati blanked Los Angeles 2-0 after the Dodgers took the opener 4-2, St. Louis rallied for three runs in the ninth inning and beat Philadelphia 5-4, the Chicago Cubs trounced the New York Mets 9-3 and San Diego and Atlanta split a doubleheader, the Padres winning 3-2 and the Braves taking the 10-inning nightcap 4-3.

American League scores: Baltimore 7, California 1; Detroit 10, Oakland 2; Washington 3, Milwaukee 2 in 10 innings; Boston 4, Chicago White Sox 2; Minnesota 8, New York Yankees 0 and Kansas City 6, Cleveland 4.

The Expos swept through Houston with a sometimes rare commodity for them—good pitching. They won the first two games by 3-2 scores behind Carl Morton and Steve Renko, although both needed late relief.

Manager Harry Walker of the Astros cited good control as the Expos' not-so-secret pitching secret.

The only run off the right-hander came in the first inning on Roger Metzger's double and Bob Watson's single. A walk and pitcher Jack Billingham's throwing error set up Montreal's runs in the third, driven in by Bob Bailey's grounder and Ron Hunt's single. The only other Houston hit was a sixth-inning single by Metzger.

After being shut out by Steve Stone and Ron Bryant, Pittsburgh jumped on San Francisco ace Juan Marichal for three runs and Vic Davalillo drove in three more with a pair of singles off Marichal's successors, Nelson Briles, making his first start of the season because Bob Moose had military duty, needed last-out help from Dave Giusti.

Al Oliver's two-run double was the big blow in the Pirates' three-run third. Willie McCovey homered for the Giants.

The Reds snapped their own four-game losing streak and the Dodgers' six-game win string behind Don Bullett's six-hit hurling and Tony Perez' first home run since opening day. Bill Singer pitched a five-hitter in the first game and was staked to four runs in the fourth inning, an uprising ignited by Willie Davis' triple.

Joe Torre, hitless in four previous trips, extended his hitting streak to 19 games with a two-out, bases-loaded single in the ninth inning that capped the Cards' three-run rally. A walk, singles by Ted Sizemore and Joe Hogue and a forceout produced the first two runs and another walk and an error by Don Money set the stage for Torre, who grounded into a double play to kill a threat an inning earlier.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins and Johnny Callison each drove in three runs as the Cubs whipped the Mets. Jenkins settled down and pitched his fifth straight complete game after yielding three runs in the second inning. He then retired 16 batters in a row until the seventh.

The Padres edged the Braves in their opener on Ollie Brown's two-run homer and an unearned run, although Hank Aaron No. 599 and Orlando Cepeda homered in the ninth. Nate Colbert and Dave Campbell homered for San Diego in the nightcap but Atlanta won out when shortstop Enzo Hernandez booted Aaron's bases-loaded grounder in the 10th.

Lew And 'Big O' Score Big In Bucks' Victory

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — The Big O and the Big A stand for Oscar and Alcindor. Or, they could signify omnipresent and awesome.

Oscar Robertson seemed to be everywhere as the Milwaukee Bucks crushed the Baltimore Bullets 102-83 Sunday and took a 2-0 lead in the National Basketball Association's best-of-7 title series.

The third game will be played in Milwaukee Wednesday night, with the Bucks trying to become the second team in the 25-year history of the NBA to sweep the championship series. The only other was Boston over Minneapolis in 1958-59.

The Big O, who has never played for a championship team in 10 previous seasons, scored 22 points, had 10 assists and six rebounds, and held Baltimore's Earl Monroe to 11 points.

Lew Alcindor, who is listed at 7-foot-2 but is at least two inches taller, scored 27 points, grabbed 24 rebounds, and intimidated the Bullets on defense.

While Alcindor and Robertson provided almost half of Milwaukee's points, the Bullets were raving about their defense.

"Every time you make a move to the hoop," said Jack Marin, who topped Baltimore with 22 points, "you run right into that giant oak tree in the middle."

"You just can't make any penetration, and you can't beat anybody by taking 20-footers all night."

Most of the Bullets, gauging from their own measurements, figure Alcindor is at least 7-4 or 7-5. But center Wes Unseld, who at 6-7½ has to play the big Buck, said Alcindor "looks

Farmville Defeated D.H. Conley By 9-3

FARMVILLE — Farmville High School rolled to a 9-3 victory over D. H. Conley High on Saturday night.

Farmville pushed out into the lead in the bottom of the first inning. Johnny Dickinson led off with a walk and Phil Lewis singled to drive in both runners. He took third on a passed ball and scored when Ronald Carraway singled.

Trailing 3-0, Conley rallied for three runs in the top of the second to tie it up. Carman walked and stole second, Sutton, singled him to third and advanced on the throw. Moore singled in both runners, and he moved on to second when the ball was played to the plate. Jones then got a hit to drive in Moore with the tying run. But Farmville shut Conley off after that, and went to work itself.

The Red Devils pushed over one in the bottom of the second, and that was all they needed. Cobb walked and stole second, scoring when Lewis got a hit.

That made it 4-3, and Farmville led the rest of the way. They added five more runs in the fourth inning.

Lewis and Carraway led the Farmville hitting with three each, while Jones and Worthington each had two for Conley.

Challenger Didn't Heed Frazier Yells

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Yancey "Yank" Durham trains fighting bulls, many ring scrappers like heavyweight champion Joe Frazier.

Ray Anderson doesn't fit the mold.

"I'm disgraced," said Yank, "to be associated with a man who'll run like that."

The 26-year-old Anderson fought with all the fire of Fred Astaire in Saturday night's light heavyweight title bout against champion Bob Foster.

"Hook, Ray, please hook," cried Frazier, flown in for moral support. "Get your head down ...

bear in ... hit him more than once at a time."

Frazier, the master slugger, never seemed to get his message across to the kid from Akron, Ohio, who recently joined up at Durham's boxing camp in Philadelphia.

"I give up, Ray," Frazier said after 11 rounds, throwing up his hands. "You fight your own way. You're obviously gonna do that anyway."

Foster plodded after his elusive target for 15 rounds and caught him often enough to pile up an unanimous decision in the nationally televised bout at Curtis Hixon Hall.

"It was the easiest title defense I've had," said Foster, who has retained his slightly-tarnished crown for a sixth time. "There ain't no light heavyweight who can shake me. It was a lopsided fight and I won easy."

The Washington, D.C., product now has a 43-5 record. Anderson fell to 33-6-1.

Net Triumph By Ralston

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Many observers whispered it in the stands Friday night, when he lost his opening singles match to John Newcombe after having him on the ropes.

"Same old Ralston," they said. "He can't win the pressure matches."

Dennis Ralston, the 28-year-old Californian who experienced both jubilant triumph and haunting defeat as an American Davis Cup player in the mid-60s, proved the doomsayers wrong Sunday and emerged as the hero of America's 4-3 triumph over Australia in the $30,000 World Cup Tennis competition at Boston College.

Ralston survived two match points against him and defeated Roy Emerson, an old nemesis and Australia's all-time Davis Cup hero, 6-1, 6-7, 7-6, in the decisive sixth match of the best-of-seven Davis Cup-style series between teams of professionals from the United States and Australia.

Ralston's triumph gave the U.S. team an unbeatable 4-2 lead and foiled the effort of Newcombe, the reigning Wimbledon champ, who beat Arthur Ashe of Miami in the fifth match, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, to keep the Aussies alive.

Emerson and Fred Stolle, the Aussies' playing captain, salvaged the seventh point by stopping Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2, in the final doubles match. The Australians divided $10,000, while the Americans split $20,000 for the victory.

Aussie Wins Cycling Race

GAINESVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Australian Kel Carruthers is on the record today as the first foreign rider to win an American Motorcycle Association road event in America.

The 35-year-old native of Sydney took the lead on the 17th lap of the 50-lap, 125-mile championship event at Road Atlanta Sunday and roared to a 30-second victory over veteran Dick Mann.

Carruthers, on a Yamaha, averaged 89.946 miles per hour in the event, finishing in 1:25.35. Second place finisher Mann, of Richmond, Calif., was riding a BSA.

Finishing behind him were Ralph White of Carson, Calif., third; Gary Nixon of San Luis Obispo, Calif., fourth, and Don Ernde of San Diego, Calif., fifth.

Cal Rayborn of San Diego, who was second to Carruthers in Saturday qualifying, led the first 16 laps of the race but mechanical problems forced him off the course.

Ken Roberts, a 19 year old from Redwood City, Calif., won a 50-lap novice junior race which preceded the championship event. Jerry Christopher of Corona, Calif., was second.

Today's Barbers Even Provide Mudpack For Males

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Does he, or doesn't he? Only his barber knows for sure.

That's the question being asked about many of today's men now that they can get the full beauty treatment at barbershops, including hair dyeing, styling, shampoo, mudpack, roll cream, manicure and toupee fitting.

Oh yea, and a haircut.

This reporter, feeling (1) curious, and (2) the need for all the cosmetological aids available decided to go to the barber who styles the hair of a southern mayor, millionaire John Belk of Charlotte, and find out what sort of treatment the mayor gets.

But the barber, Claud Furr, was about as helpful when it came to talking as an FBI agent entrusted with the nation's secrets.

It ended up with me in the master barber's chair and "mud" on my face.

Under these circumstances, a man can't help but keep one eye on the door, hoping someone from his poker club won't stroll in and see what's going on.

But my hopes were in vain. The boss fixed that by sending out a photographer who snapped away, wearing all the while a funny little grin.

"The mudpack," Furr said, "is like changing a car's oil. It draws the natural oil that is packed with dirt from your pores. Then we rub in cocoa butter after removing the mud."

The "mud" isn't really mud, but an odorless, gray cream.

The barber smoothed in a healthy glob of it and then applied hot air from a blower to dry it out. "How does that feel?" he asked.

It felt like I had screws all over my face and someone was tightening all of them.

The drawing sensation I was told, also increases blood circulation. I thought my heart would soon be in my cheek.

The mud stayed on the face for about 15 minutes before it was removed with a towel soaked with hot water. I was assured that at that moment I probably had the cleanest face in town.

Furr says there are plenty of men who get mudpacks nowadays, as men become more conscious of their appearance. Of greater demand is the hair styling.

Why not?
I got a shampoo, hair massage with some sort of expensive protein conditioner and the hot-comb treatment. I could have used the hood hair dryer like women use in beauty shops.

The cost of a complete hair styling was $7.50; a mudpack, $3; and a manicure, $2. And that is only the start for the man who wants the new look.

He should buy beauty aids, including his own mudpacks; hair gelatin, hair conditioner, hair spray and a hotcomb or regular hair dryer.

Of course, a married man has the inside track here. He can use his wife's hairdryer.

Furr, who started out as a barber 24 years ago in the small North Carolina city of Albemarle, says the modern man considers his hair a part of his personality. It can be styled to improve his looks.

"It gives a boost to the ego," Furr said. "How do you feel with your style?" he asked as I was trying to catch my profile in the mirror out of the corner of my eye.

"Oh, fine," I guess.
"Yes, barbershops have charged a great deal," Furr said. "I can remember when I started barbering one of the main features was showers. A man would walk in carrying his clean clothes and rent a shower."

A few minutes later I was back at the office.
"You don't look a damn bit better," the news editor said.

Truck Hijacking Is 'Business' In New York; Profits Are Big

By EDWARD V. McCARTHY
NEW YORK (UPI)—The driver of a big trailer truck wheeled his rig through the almost impossibly congested streets of New York City recently—one of some 250,000 similar trucks that move precious cargo in, and out and around the city every day.

He stopped for a traffic light and silently cursed the heavy traffic, paying no mind to the auto carrying three men, that drew alongside.

While one man remained at the car's steering wheel, the other two men jumped out. One went to the passenger side of the truck cab, the other climbed to the driver's side and poked a revolver in his face.

No words were spoken. They didn't need to be. The truck driver—call him Tom Smith for the purposes of this account—has been around for a while and he knew the classic picture. He quickly got out of the cab and into the back of the car, lying on the floor. The man with the gun climbed in beside him and the car drove off. The third man drove the truck away.

Worthless Cargo
After several hours of aimlessly driving the car around, the gunman took Tom's driver's license and let him out on a quiet residential street, unharmed.

The gunman and his pal then sped to a pre-determined "drop" where they knew the trailer would be parked. Their partner was there. The truck was there—and the air was blue with curses.

What, the other two wanted to know, was the problem? Their partner led them around to the truck's rear and gave them a look at the cargo.

It was thousands of brassiers—but specially designed for women who had undergone surgical removal of one breast—a cargo totally without value to hijackers. They had made a classic goof.

Squad's Size Secret
This is one of the few hijack stories New York City Police Capt. Thomas P. Kissane can tell with any degree of amusement.

As boss of the Detective Division's Safe, Loft and Burglary Squad—with a squad of men so small the department keeps the exact number secret to avoid giving "aid and comfort to the enemy"—it is his job not only to track down truck hijackers, but round up safecrackers and burglary rings, which abound in the richest city in the nation.

The men in the "heist" described were labeled "freelancers" by Kissane and his right-hand man, Sgt. Tom Connolly.

Most jobs, Kissane said in an interview, are not so amateur but are pulled by professionals associated directly with the organized underworld—and they almost always know beforehand just what truck and what cargo they are looking for. They work on contract.

"Let's say," Capt. Kissane said, "that the head of a certain organization needs a large supply of cigarettes for his various outlets around the city—they are running low."

"A man planted 'inside'—for a fee of about $1,000—tips them off when a fully loaded rig is going out with a cargo worth $200,000 on the retail market."

"Three professional heisters—for a fee ranging from $5,000 to $10,000, but averaging about $7,000 per job—are contacted and told when the truck is leaving, its route and where it is headed.

"They decide where best to hit it and the hijack is made—just as in the case of the hijacked brassiers."

"The wheelman who takes the truck gets a fee of about $2,500. He drives to a warehouse either owned or leased by the organized crime types.

"There, three to four men—hired at fees from $50 to $100 each—unload the truck. These are guys with records who don't have a regular occupation and are picking up a quick, tax-free buck.

"The wheelman then drives the truck to a point miles from the warehouse and abandons it, where it will finally be spotted by a radio patrol car and the word is passed on to us."

Loot Easily Sold
"By then, of course," Kissane sighed, "it is too late. The cargo has long since been disposed of. It is almost all pure profit. There is virtually no overhead."

"How do they get rid of the loot? Easily," Capt. Kissane said. "Through many contacts. Cigarettes and liquor are the biggest hijack items for this reason."

"They go to legitimate dealers—or buyers for dealers. They sell the cigarettes at about 70 per cent of wholesale cost, liquor at about 60 per cent of true wholesale cost. Many catering houses and hotels which do a big business in professional and wedding dinners get their supplies this way.

"The stolen stuff is mixed in with legitimately purchased stuff. This way, it is virtually untraceable. And, if anybody is checking up, they have honest bills of lading for honestly bought goods.

"They make a hell of a profit, though, on the stuff they buy under the counter. Everybody makes out but the manufacturer—and the public."

Consumer Real Victim
"The public pays in the long run, because the manufacturer, in order to make up for his huge losses, marks up his product price to allow for these losses."

"Just about everything you buy would be cheaper if it weren't for the hijackers."

"They used to be big on stereo systems and big color television consoles," Sgt. Connolly chimed in, "but they've all but given that up to concentrate on cigarettes, liquor and perfume. It's because they're lazy. The other stuff is too heavy to transport around and load and unload off trucks for the profit involved. They'd rather handle the lighter stuff."

"That's true," agreed Capt. Kissane. "Most of the other stuff stolen, such as TV, radios, stereos, electric shavers—you name it—is taken by the free lancers."

Why, the reporter asked, can't the drivers of the hijacked trucks pick out their assailants from "mug shots" in the extensive police rogue's gallery, since most of the hijackers have criminal records, and since the hijacked truckers get a good look at them?

"Because the drivers don't want to be hurt or put their families in danger," Kissane said.

You cut down on outer wear, inner wear and underwear with any of these Chevrolets.

Your money's tight these days. And before you go loosening it up on something new, you want to be very sure what you buy will be around for a while. We understand. And we've done something about it. Impala. Chevelle. Camaro. And Nova. Each car, for example, gives you a lot more outerwear protection. In things like Magic-Mirror acrylic finish that's tougher and less porous than enamel. That holds a shine longer. Bumpers, door handles, and locks that are made to resist rust. And special protective inner fenders to help keep the outer fenders looking new. Each car gives you more innerwear protection, too. That's because our Body by Fisher craftsmen equip the cars with upholstery and durable materials that really hold their good looks. Resilient cushioning that gives you thousands and thousands of comfortable sits. And long-lasting vinyl trim. And each car gives you more underwear protection. The engines last longer because they run cleaner on no-lead or low-lead gas. The brake lines are corrosion-resistant. The exhaust system is aluminum. And there are rocker panels or body sills designed to help keep rust spots from ever forming under the doors. Impala. Chevelle. Camaro. And Nova. If you like their good looks now, you'll love the way they hold onto their good looks. It's putting you first like this, that keeps us first.

Buckling your seat and shoulder belts is an idea you can live with.

Good quality tobacco plants play an important role in the production of a good profitable tobacco crop.

Use of poor plants results in increased cost of production by requiring more replanting time and reduced operating efficiency.

Irregular growth caused by poor stands at transplanting time creates problems when cultivating, topping and when applying sucker control agents.

The size of the plant used when transplanting is a quality factor. Plants too small do not live well and those too large often bloom prematurely. Plants with a stem length of about 5½ inches from the root to bud, and a stem diameter of about one-fourth inch are considered a medium size plant.

In a series of tests using spindly, medium and bunched plants, and a mixture of all three, the yield from the mixture was the lowest.

Some growers have found that they could produce a more uniform crop when they graded their plants before transplanting them in the field.

Consideration should also be given to the advisability of replanting when a perfect stand was not obtained at transplanting time.

Any replanting needed should be done as soon as possible after transplanting, preferably within a week. A late replant usually does not make much growth because of the competition from adjacent plants.

The big question is whether you should replant at all. Test conducted in 1966-68 showed that the labor required for replanting could not be justified if you had as much as 95 percent stand. The results also suggest that it is doubtful that you can justify the labor for replanting even if you have 10 percent missing hills. When deciding whether or not to replant you should consider the fact that the two plants adjacent to a missing hill will make up to 30 percent of the weight loss because of the missing hill.

Big Mississippi Flood Missing

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—The great Mississippi River flood just didn't come this year.

The National Weather Service had sounded the alarm and federal officials as high as the White House had issued warnings for residents of the Upper Midwest to brace for severe flooding that might approach record levels.

"Flooding because of the snow thaw and early spring rains is over with," Joseph Strub of the National Weather Service said Saturday. "The two other conditions that produce bad flooding—a fast thaw and rain on top of the snow melt—didn't materialize."

Big Mix-up In Shipping Cargo

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—An entire containerload of Japanese snowmobiles disappeared from a dockside before they could be delivered to a Vancouver dealer.

Police found the machines were loaded right back onto the ship and were well on their way back to Japan. Another container addressed to the snowmobile dealer proved to contain hundreds of cans of tuna fish, canned right here in Vancouver.

Tobacco TIPS

By S. J. WEEKS

Tobacco mosaic is one of our oldest known diseases. It is caused by highly contagious virus. The virus is spread by contact and has been known to live in cured and stored tobacco for 50 years. Mosaic often originates in the plant bed and is caused by the mosaic virus in manufactured tobacco coming in contact with the young tobacco seedlings. Once the infested plant is transplanted in the field, it is easy to spread the disease to other plants by contact. Losses caused by this disease vary to some extent between seasons, but little progress has been made in reducing losses during the past 25 years.

Considerable research has been done on the use of plain, ordinary milk for the control of mosaic of tobacco. It has been found that the use of milk in any form at transplanting time will greatly reduce losses. Two types of treatment have been used: (1) Spraying. This consists of spraying the plant bed 24 hours before pulling the plants with five gallons of whole or skim milk, or five pounds of dried skim milk mixed with five gallons of water, applied to 100 square yards of bed. (2) Dipping. This consists of dipping the hands about every 20 minutes in whole or skim milk, or a mixture of one pound of dried skim milk to one gallon of water. The hands are dipped during pulling and transplanting in the field.

In experiments conducted to test the effect of milk in controlling this disease, hands of workers handling tobacco plants were contaminated with the mosaic virus. Plots of tobacco were planted where treatment was not used, where the plants were sprayed, where the hands were dipped, and where spray and dip were used. At the Whiteville Station, the spray treatment produced 446 pounds more tobacco per acre and sold for $326 per acre more than the tobacco grown in the untreated check plot. The dip treatment was more effective than the spray.

When both spray and dip treatments were used, the per acre yield and value was higher than when either spray or dip treatments were used.

If mosaic has been a serious problem on your farm in the past, it would probably be a good idea for you to try the milk treatment on your farm this year to help prevent the losses caused by mosaic.

Cosmonauts 'Satisfied' With Two-Day Testing

By MICHAEL JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP)—Col. Vladimir Shatalov, the Soyuz 10 commander, says he and his two crewmen were "completely satisfied" with their two-day space trip to test new docking equipment in space.

The three cosmonauts returned to earth safely Sunday aboard the command ship module after the test of a new docking collar and other equipment for use in building orbital space platforms.

Shatalov told newsmen the flight program was "big, complicated and tense."

Rookie cosmonaut Nikolai Rukavishnikov said: "We are alive, healthy and in one piece." But he said the Soyuz landing module narrowly escaped dropping into a lake.

Descending at the end of an orange parachute at dawn, it touched down only 130 feet from the lake in Soviet Central Asia.

Soyuz 10 docked with the unmanned space station Salute Saturday, and the two craft orbited for 5½ hours locked together.

Salute remains in space, possibly to be used again when Soyuz 11 is sent up.

The Russians did not disclose how their new docking collar works. Negotiations between the Soviet Union and the United States are under way to work out compatible docking equipment so one nation could rescue another's spacecraft if that became necessary.

New electronic finder equipment for docking and rendezvous in space as well as unspecified new accessories also were tested on the Soyuz 10 flight.

Shatalov told Soviet newsmen in Karaganda, 1,800 miles southeast of Moscow: "We are still working toward the creation of an orbital space station.

The past decade has seen us move step by step toward the solution of the problem. This flight was one more step."

The Soyuz 10 mission was the briefest Soviet space flight since 1965 and the first manned shot in nearly 11 months.

Shatalov, 43, and engineer Alexei Yeliseyev, 36, made their third space flights. Rukavishnikov, 39, made his first.

Soviet sources before the flight had suggested that a space "spectacular" involving two manned craft, presumably docking with the crewless space station, would be attempted. This did not happen.

Blind Youth Maps Career

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP)—Danny Berry, a blind Davidson College student who wants to become a minister, says his work will be with people who can see.

"I feel this is where it's at," he says. "I want to have an effect on the sighted as well as the blind."

The 21-year-old Nashville, Tenn., native is already having an effect on the campus of Presbyterian-related Davidson.

He's a disc jockey for the campus radio station, a member of the college Union Board, a Young Republican, a sports fan and an editorial writer for campus publications.

That's not all. Berry has a "B" average in most of his classes. A history major, he is scheduled to graduate in June of next year.

Berry takes notes with a tape recorder in class. He writes with a six-key Braille typewriter and reads Braille at 200 words a minute.

The State of Tennessee provides money to pay aides to read his textbooks to him. Another source of help is his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Berry Jr. of Nashville. They transcribed his winter-term political science textbook onto tape recently.

Berry came to Davidson after two years at Maryville College in Tennessee.

Make more soybeans... make more money...

the No-Til* way.

No-Til economies are big news!

No-Til eliminates trips over your fields—cuts the cost and work of getting a soybean crop in. No-Til can be a one-trip practice which gives you a far better chance to plant more areas on time... for a fast start, a full season of growth.

No-Til starts with an Allis-Chalmers 600 Series planter so flexible you can plant 40- or 38-inch rows today... change to 30- or 20-inch rows anytime just by adding planter units onto the same frame.

And you can take full advantage of double cropping opportunities with direct sod or stubble planting... or plant easily eroded hills or slopes that otherwise don't return a profit.

Then, to get the most out of your No-Til soybean program, you need fast, weed-free early growth. That's where Du Pont LOROX comes in. LOROX controls a wide range of weeds and grasses that plague soybean growers. With Surfactant WK, LOROX gives both contact and residual action.

See how much more you can make by doing less. See your Allis-Chalmers dealer for the equipment you need. See your agricultural chemicals dealer for LOROX. It's a winning combination to make more beans and make more money.

With any chemical, follow labeling instructions and warnings carefully.

One 2 lb. can of Lannate® stops insect damage on up to 8 acres of tobacco

Insects hit directly by the spray begin falling minutes after spraying. Some LANNATE is absorbed into the plant, where it continues to kill insects as they feed. Yet LANNATE doesn't linger. It does its job and then breaks down into materials commonly found in nature.

LANNATE performs at low rates, and that means more for your money when you're buying insecticides.

This unique formulation of water-soluble powder dissolves easily and contains no solvents to "burn" foliage.

Remember—it's the worm that costs you money, not the insecticide. Start early and get a jump on the bugs.

Worry Clinic Stimulated By 'Tour' Sermon

Msgr. Ward has the vital enthusiasm of St. Paul and surrounds himself with assistant priests who soon catch his own magnetism. Notice one of the sermons delivered by the new priest named Stolarski. It was unusual, dramatic, yet relevant. Jesus pioneered this style of preaching!

the center aisle, as if he were the tour guide on a bus. "Over here on the right," he added, "you will see what was the famous St. Bernard Catholic Church."

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M.D.
Case Q-536: Msgr. Henry Ward directs the flourishing St. Bernard's Catholic Church in Crawfordsville, Indiana.

He is a dynamo of energy and enthusiasm, so he has inspired many younger priests who have been his assistants through the years.

Recently a young priest named Stolarski joined Msgr. Ward.

On one Sunday that he addressed the congregation, this young cleric surprised his audience.

"Today," he began, "I want you to imagine that we are seated on a sightseeing bus, heading toward Purdue University."

Then Rev. Stolarski descended from the pulpit and walked along

Then he continued his sight-seeing discourse, as if the church were no longer the dynamic force in Indiana life that it still exerts.

For he mentioned that occasional members of the old church drifted away or were enticed by preoccupation with secular problems.

But he concluded his stimulating sermon by showing that a dedicated core of religious zealots had persisted through the years.

So a new era was being ushered into being for the St. Bernard Church.

Frank Kromm, who is head of the Hopkins Syndicate that handles this "Worry Clinic" column, is a devout member of that church, so he and his wife gave me a brief synopsis of this unusual sermon by their new priest.

For Rev. Stolarski kept walking up and down the center aisle, creating the illusion of an actual bus trip.

In fact, he had stated in his opening remarks that passengers could avail themselves of the restroom in the back of the bus.

And he mentioned there would also be a "rest stop" after 30 minutes of travel.

This apparently referred to the termination of his sermon.

Mrs. Kromm was so thrilled by this unique bus trip that she said she vividly traveled back over 30 years of St. Bernard history in this simulated 30-minute sight-seeing tour. As an Applied Psychologist, I wish to salute both Msgr. Ward and his able assistants, for they have the star salesman's enthusiasm and use of dramatic analogies.

When I criticize stodgy clerics (as I often do in this column), it is merely to prod them into adopting Christ's "narrative" style of preaching.

For sporadic pastors routinely employ the dry, dull "essay" formula for a sermon, wherein they string together long, expository sentences, with no cases from real life and no tie-in with their local congregation.

By contrast, Jesus cited examples (parables) from the daily experience of his audience and thus clinched ethical laws with dramatic cases from the workaday world of his listeners. Legitimate dramatics and advertising strategy will delight an audience and drive Morpheus away from the pews!

So send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Egypt Convinced Vast Oil Wealth In Desert

By GERARD LOUGHRAN
BEIRUT (UPI)—Egypt is fighting a new battle over the World War II desert territory where Bernard L. Montgomery's British tanks clashed with the German Panzers of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. But its connections with war are only geographical. This is a struggle to force the inhospitable sun-baked territory to give up the oil which Egyptians are convinced lies in vast quantities under its surface. The vice premier for production and industry, Dr. Aziz Sidky, delighted economists recently when he announced a major discovery in the western desert near El Alamein, site of Montgomery's 1942 victory. He said a well had been struck which meant "the beginning of a new hope for Egypt." Its initial yield was 3,200 barrels, he said, but this figure was expected to rise to 10,000 and 15,000 barrels. Although this is considerably less than some of neighboring Libya's prolific producers, which can pour out 40,000 barrels daily, its potential is well above the 3,000 barrels daily average coming from Egypt's existing western desert wells. Sidky said the new well "will provide an answer to the oil riddle of the western desert," and President Anwar Sadat hinting at the find last March 23, said "within a couple of years Egypt will become one of the largest oil producers in the entire Middle East." Having lost four million tons of oil a year when Israel seized the Sinai fields during the 1967 war, Egypt's euphoria is understandable. But oil sources cautioned it has a long way to go before it can enter the big boys league. With production around 22 million tons a year, Egypt is far behind Iran (165 million tons), Libya and Saudi Arabia (150 million tons) and Kuwait (127 million tons). The top Egyptian producing field at present is the Morgan Field, operated jointly by the U.S. Panamerican Co. and Egypt's General Petroleum Corp. It is spilling out 200,000 barrels a day from the Suez Gulf. But greater hopes have been shown about the western desert area because it adjoins Libya's rich oil fields and because Egypt has already found one field in the area. Three concerns are exploring in the desert. They are Amoco and Phillips, both U.S.-owned, and a joint Soviet-Egyptian team prospecting in the Siwah Oasis area near the Libyan border.

Seeking Cause Of Derailment

LEXINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Investigators are seeking the cause of a five-car derailment that spilled coal along the tracks of the Winston-Salem Southbound Railroad. J. W. Hamilton, assistant to the small railroad's vice president, said five of the 76 cars in a train heading for a switching terminal at Norwood derailed about 2 p.m. Sunday between Lexington and Winston-Salem. No one was injured and the only damage was to the cars involved and the tracks, he said.

Her father, Harold Botterill, a grocer in this village 70 miles from London, said Sunday that Miss Carne had seen her husband only six times since the wedding. America Seeing Start Of An Alternative Society

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Margaret Mary, 22, tall, lithe and educated daughter of the middle class, hopes someday to make her parents understand why she dropped out. But not yet; the weekend would be awkward enough.

Her parents were driving in from Kansas Saturday and she had already promised to spend the day with her friends making a pornographic film.

The $75 will help Margaret Mary get through another month. Each month brings her closer to the day she can flee the city for the rural commune that lights up her dreams.

Even if that dream falls through, there are others. The Alternative Society has no shortage of dreams and Margaret Mary is a member in good standing. She turned her back on the society that produced her.

Throughout the nation, untold numbers of young white, well educated Americans have made the same decision.

Many may prove temporary dropouts, staying off to the side with one foot at least tentatively planted in straight America. They are finding "a way station."

"But there is evidence," wrote sociologists Peter L. and Brigitte Berger in the New Republic, "that for an as yet unknown number, the way station is becoming a place of permanent settlement. For an apparently growing number, there is a movement from youth culture to counter culture. These are the ones who drop out permanently."

There's no way to estimate the size of the Alternative Society's population, but it is clear that thousands of young people have turned their backs on the America of processed food and skyscrapers and eight cylinder cars and little houses in suburbia.

They are engaged in building an Alternative Society with its own values, its own institutions, even its own religions.

Journeying through the outposts of this other American—places like Berkeley, Calif.; Madison, Wis.; and Cambridge, Mass., one finds free universities which offer whatever courses people want to teach or learn, free medical clinics, even free buses and taxi cabs.

Berkeley, Madison and Cambridge have long been regarded as radical bastions. But one finds the same kind of institutions in places without as rooted a history of confrontation politics.

Albuquerque, N.M., has its free store and a people's garage where profit is not a motive. Atlanta, Ga., has communes, a people's craft center, an underground newspaper. Seattle, Wash., will soon have a movement free clinic staffed by long-haired doctors.

Communes, not only for foot-loose hippies, but for doctors and lawyers, are springing up in the major cities.

Everywhere, the new society is dwarfed by an dependent on the larger society.

"How autonomous can they be?" asks Keniston. "They almost have to be parasitic. They take for granted a much larger system they are at least nominally opposed to but at the same time can't do without."

"It's really kind of ridiculous," sneered a New Mexico social worker, "these small groups of middle class children with their straightened teeth get so much sympathy while you can't get money for people whose needs are a lot greater."

"And after they come here and get their case of hepatitis or whatever, off they go, back to Chevy Chase or Grosse Pointe." Margaret Mary could return home to hide or to rest, but never to live.

"I'm afraid of the outside world," she said. "There are parts of you that are still innocent and there's no way of knowing until you are hit."

Besides, she said, she wants to survive and straight America is doomed—a view widely held in the Alternative Society.

In another age, Margaret Mary might have been an oddity living up the gossip in a small Kansas town. Or, perhaps, she might have made her way to New York or Chicago and lived out her life among a minority of like-minded clustered there.

But Margaret Mary is no oddity in the other America. Even Kansas has hip communities where she would feel at home, find shelter, food and clothing and the company of friends.

It isn't easy going.

The trouble isn't just the recession that has left cupboards bare in communes from Seattle to Cambridge. Its also people: the bikers (motorcycle gangs) who harass the freak population of Atlanta; the smack (heroin) freaks who roam owdley down Berkeley's Telegraph Avenue; the ripoff artists (petty thieves) who have all but killed the once happy hospitality of the crash pad.

As in the straight society, it helps if you have certain advantages—skills, education or some family money to fall back on.

Without those advantages, one needs a little bit of luck and some friends.

But, already, substantial numbers of young Americans are living on their own terms and surviving.

"We are not a lunatic fringe," wrote revolutionary Tom Hayden in his book, "Trial."

"We are a new people rising from the ruins of the American empire."

Hayden's "New People" are together in what is often self-imposed poverty near the heart of virtually every major U.S. city.

They are linked by a life style that puts down profit and exploitation and extracts personal fulfillment.

Listen to Margaret Mary: "I bant someday to raise goats and wild plants and live off the land and be together with my friends ... It's very important to me to be a mother. I want to be the mother of children without last names. I won't force them to, but I believe my children will be hip because I hope my life will satisfy them."

Listen to Linda, a delectate, child-like girl of 22 living in an Albuquerque commune: "Why should I work 30 or 40 hours a week for someone or something that doesn't give a s— about me so I can get money to buy things I don't give a — about owning."

Listen to Paul, a radical in Cambridge:

"I think the thing they got stinks. I don't think they are happy. I'm trying to be happy and I hope to come to a human alternative at the same time."

They all are in flight from the society they were raised to be a part of. The society they are running toward isn't yet ready to receive them all. It may never be.

But it is new. The hip movement as a catalyst that acted on significant numbers of middle class children is scarcely more

March To Show Dissatisfaction

RUTHERFORDTON, N.C. (AP) — A group of Negro teenagers staged a protest march in Rutherfordton Saturday to express their discontent.

Police estimated about 25 to 50 took part on the protest on the city's main street. Officer Roscoe Laughter said the march apparently grew from a racial fight at Central High School in Rutherford County.

The demonstration was held without violence or arrests, Laughter said.

SAVING WILDLIFE

VICTORIA, B.C. (UPI)—The British Columbia provincial government has introduced legislation to protect rare or endangered species of wildlife. The bill prohibits hunting or chasing game with snowmobiles and regulates the carrying of firearms.

than five years old, if one dates its birth to the blooming of the flower children of San Francisco Haight-Ashbury in 1966.

The institutions it is competing with have been entrenched for centuries. Yet, they are reacting to the innovations spinning out of hip communities.

Clothing manufacturers mass produce hippie clothes, complete with embroidered patches that mock the very real poverty of the Alternative Society. Advertising copy is laced with Alternative Society phrases such as right on and groovy. Sexual mores are limited; so is the rite of marijuana smoking, already as acceptable among some junior executives as a double martini before lunch.

all the while, the building process goes on.

"If we can show our generations that it's viable to live this way, that it isn't necessary to take a straight job, we may not be creating a counter society, but it will at least be a new direction," says a young lawyer in a Cambridge legal collective.

"If there is no community for you, young man, make it yourself," wrote Paul Goodman in his novel, "Making do."

That is precisely what these young Americans are attempting to do.

WHO SHOULD DECIDE?

There seems to be a misunderstanding as to my position on urban redevelopment.

The City Council has approved an agreement whereby the City is obligated to the extent of $1,600,000.00 for the "redevelopment" of the "Central Business District", a small area of our City.

It is my opinion that the commitment of our City funds to this extent should be submitted to the vote of the citizens.

Our State law provides a procedure for the property owner to "redevelop" their own property. I own property in the "Central Business District", and I am willing to pay the development cost to my property. I am not asking others to improve my property! Consider who is ??? Consider who is asking you, the tax payer, to improve theirs!

The purpose of our suit against the city is to have the Supreme Court say whether the Council, or the citizens, will decide the commitment of our City resources. You, the citizens, will pay the $1,600,000.00.

I think YOU, the citizen and tax payer - should decide.
