

Governor Advises ECU Adopt One-Year Med School Course; Board Goes Along

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

East Carolina University president Dr. Leo Jenkins this morning announced a decision to pursue a one year Medical School at East Carolina University.

"I have today been instructed by the Board of Trustees of East Carolina University to pursue the one year medical education program in accordance with the recommendation of the State Board of Higher Education and along lines worked out in negotiations between Medical School faculties representing East Carolina University and the University of North Carolina," Dr. Jenkins commented.

"It has been the position of East Carolina University Board of Trustees," Dr. Jenkins continued, "that its decision on which avenue to pursue on the medical school would be made at such time when it became apparent the one year program was feasible and upon the guidance of Governor Scott.

"In a letter to Chairman of the Board Robert Morgan, the governor has recommended the one year approach as the next logical step in establishing four-year medical education at ECU."

Dr. Jenkins remarked "In his letter to Chairman Morgan, Governor Scott said 'I look upon this move as another step toward a four year school, just as I did with the establishment of the School of Allied Health Science at ECU."

"The governor further stated 'I remain convinced that the proposed one year program is a step toward the establishment of a four year program of medical education at East Carolina University. I do not view this route as a dead-end street. A school can move from a one year to a four year program just as they can from a two year to a four year program.'"

"It is the hope of the university trustees, in which I fully concur," Dr. Jenkins, said, "that the legislature will take the necessary steps to make this program a reality at the earliest possible date."

"The trustees of ECU feel it is in the best interest of this university and in the best interest of the state as a whole that this course be pursued."

The recommendation on which Board of Trustee members made their decision was a letter from the governor to Robert Morgan dated May 10 and released today.

ECU has been planning for a two year School of Medicine under the authority of the 1969 Legislature which appropriated funds to plan the school.

A preliminary accrediting report said that the staff already retained for the school was qualified and that interim facilities for beginning the school were adequate.

The Board of Higher Education recommended that rather than the two year program, ECU and Chapel Hill study the possibility of beginning a one year program at ECU with students completing this course being assured of admission to the Chapel Hill Medical School for their second and third years of work. For the fourth year many of these students would be sent back to eastern hospitals for clinical training. This study was recently completed by representatives of ECU and Chapel Hill. It was determined the one year program with transfer privileges was feasible.

However, ECU officials had still felt that the two year School of Medicine was the most practical route to follow and the Board of Trustees of ECU had been waiting word from the governor on his feelings on this matter.

Board Considers New Projects In Recreation Field

New projects to be investigated, shaped up and developed dominated the meeting of the Recreation Commission last night.

Endorsement of a Summer Childrens Theater; consideration of expanded use of recreation facilities by students of Rose High School; the pursuit of talks with the City School Board on the possibility of acquiring the gym at the former Eppes School site; and the revelation that recreation in Greenville is the major focal point of attention for the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters were subjects discussed at the May meeting.

Approval of support of the idea of a Summer Childrens Theater was made after Director Boyd Lee read a letter from Mrs. Laura Beth Cayton, who directed last summer's Childrens Theater. Mrs. Cayton outlined the success of the fledgling program, noting that 62 children in the city, ranging in age from 8 to 14, were active in the project last summer, in which two performances were given.

Expressing a wish to continue the program again this year, and to enlarge its scope, Mrs. Cayton asked for support of her idea from members of the Recreation Department. Although it was pointed out in the discussion that the Recreation Department could not furnish financial or other direct support, members agreed to favor its encouragement.

Mrs. Cayton revealed the Methodist Student Center, which has an adequate theater, has been offered for this purpose at a minimum charge. She proposes seeking assistance, through the sale of season tickets, both at adult rates and children's rates, to residents of Greenville. She will also seek donations to help finance the program.

For the coming summer season, she expressed a hope to be able to mount four children productions, and to include also a class in set design and scenery and construction for those children who wanted to be a part of such a program but were not interested in acting.

One suggestion was made that Mrs. Cayton might contact Operation Sunshine and similar groups as a feeder source of young people to take part in the theater.

Regional Center At Stake Seek To Spur N.C. Funds

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners met here yesterday with a group of local leaders in an effort to spur state action toward committing more than $400,000 toward construction of a regional vocational rehabilitation center in Greenville.

The center, hopefully, would be a 55-bed wing of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital, but according to John W. Dairymple, yesterday, if the state — either the General Assembly or the governor — fails to act before July 1, more than $1 million in federal funds earmarked for the project now may be lost.

Dairymple is state project director for planning for comprehensive rehabilitation facilities for the State Board of Education. He said the state must commit its portion of the money for the center by the July 1 deadline or federal funds now on hand for the project will revert back to the federal government.

Pitt Commissioners approved a resolution yesterday committing the county's portion of the cost of the project.

The vocational rehabilitation center, planned as one of five regional facilities in the state, was recommended by the State Board of Education for its Division of Vocational Rehabilitation earlier this year after a comprehensive study requested by the 1969 General Assembly. Projected cost of the center has been set at approximately $1,875,000.

A federal grant of more than $1,140,000 would fund 61 per cent of the project, while county funds totaling about $281,000 would finance 15 per cent of the project. The State of North Carolina would fund 24 per cent of the costs of construction. This would amount to about $450,000.

Rehabilitation centers are currently under development in Asheville, Winston-Salem and Charlotte. The Greenville center would be the next step in the regional plan, followed by a regional treatment facility in Fayetteville and a state rehabilitation institute at Chapel Hill.

County commissioners look with favor on the rehabilitation center proposal for several reasons. One basic plus in their view is the fact that it will help build beds for the new hospital here.

About half of the beds in the rehabilitation wing would be available for general use by medical patients. These 25 beds would cost the county about $281,000 as compared to about $733,000 if they had to finance the entire construction.

The group meeting yesterday agreed to enlist support from other areas of the state and present the problem to Gov. Bob Scott in a meeting in Raleigh as soon as one can be arranged.

In addition to commissioners others attending yesterday's meeting included local physicians, civic leaders, Pitt Representative Sam Bundy and Senator Vernon White and other interested persons.

'Irresponsible' Action Reducing N.C. Revenue Condemned By Demos

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican legislators came under fire in a caucus of Democratic House members Monday night for introducing bills that would reduce state revenues by $150 million during the 1971-73 biennium.

Rep. Ike Andrews, D-Charlotte, House Majority leader, said this is the "kind of irresponsibility the Democrats must cope with" in sorting out the proposed $4.3 billion state budget and the almost $900 million in supplementary budget requests made by state agencies. "We tried to reemphasize the public responsibility of the Democratic members in view of the irresponsibility of the Republican members," Andrews said after the 30-minute caucus.

Andrews said the caucus was held to let the Democratic House members, especially the freshmen, know where the legislature stands on the major issues now before it.

He said the caucus heard reports from the two money committee chairmen, Rep. Dwight Quinn, D-Cabarrus, of Finance and Rep. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, of Appropriations.

Andrews said Royall told the caucus that the Appropriations subcommittees, which have been listening to supplementary requests and poring over the proposed budget in detail since January, will begin reporting to the full committee Tuesday. Quinn told the caucus of the Republican tax-cutting bills pending in the finance committee and noted that the only GOP bill to raise revenues is one by Rep. Jimmy Johnson, R-Cabarrus, to up the cigarette tax from two to five cents a pack.

Andrews said other major legislation still pending which was brought up in the caucus was state government reorganization, auto liability insurance reform, House redistricting and the restructuring of higher education.

House Speaker Phil Godwin said he told the group that he hoped the legislature would not be faced with the question of restructuring higher education this session.

Defends Politics

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott strongly defended politics today and said he was getting "a little weary of people 'knocking' politics as something dark and devious — or worse."

"Politics makes things happen," Scott said in a prepared talk to the Sir Walter Cabinet, composed of wives of legislators and state officials. "It is the catalyst that brings about progress and advancement."

"A good politician," Scott said, "has to be an acrobat. Why an acrobat, you ask? Well, did you ever try straddling a fence, keeping a shoulder to the wheel, pointing with pride and looking to the future while keeping both ears to the ground?"

"Acrobats or not," he added, "politics is what makes our world go round. And politics makes for a more well-rounded world."

Scott lauded the work done by the Sir Walter Cabinet for charitable causes and said, "Your record of service demonstrates the versatility of 'politics' and the many ways it can be applied for the betterment of society."

"Ask any politician why he is in politics," Scott said, "and he will tell you it is because of the opportunity to do things, to make things happen, to activate plans and programs that will benefit people."

Vote Time Extension For Development Of Shore Drive Property

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Redevelopment Commissioners Monday night approved a time extension on a contract with the architectural firm of Dudley & Shoe calling for development of a parcel of land in the Shore Drive area.

Commissioners acted on a request by George Shoe, who appeared in behalf of the partnership, for an extension of six months on their development contract for parcel 16B, located on the northwest corner of the block bounded by First, Cotanche, Second and Reade Streets.

Shore Drive project manager Bryan McClure reported that the contract now in force with the firm for development expires on June 1 of this year. Commissioners had previously granted one extension and the June expiration terminates that extension.

Shoe said that his firm had originally planned to build a three-story structure and rent out office space not utilized by Dudley & Shoe but they were unable to accommodate the requirements of several prospective parties.

The architect added that they (Dudley & Shoe) now propose to build a structure in two phases; the first story to be built now for their needs with plans to add another story later. The first story of the building would be designed with adequate footing and foundation for the later addition of a second level, he said. The building would utilize some 30 parking spaces, it was pointed out.

Commissioners voted to grant the extension with the stipulation that plans for the structure, including square footage and other data, be submitted at the June meeting. McClure also reported that a bid opening for the demolition of the Edwards Building in the courthouse block was held on the 19th of April. Five bids were submitted and opened, it was reported, with the successful bid offered by the Rex Shambley wrecking firm of Chapel Hill.

The project manager said that

Campus Editor Is Suspended

East Carolina University student Robert Thonen, editor of "Fountainhead," the campus newspaper, was yesterday suspended indefinitely following a hearing by the ECU campus disciplinary board.

Dean of Men James Mallory said action by the board came after the hearing which followed a preliminary hearing held last Tuesday.

The board concluded the hearing in absentia as Thonen and about 30 sympathizers in the hearing room walked out immediately after the reading of prepared statements by Thonen and by Rick Atkinson, student defender of Thonen, Mallory said.

The disciplinary board is composed of eight members, four university faculty members and four student members. Mallory explained the student have four votes, and the faculty three votes. Dr. Charles Price, as chairman of the board, casts a vote only in the event one of the seven members abstains, resulting in a tie vote.

Thonen faced charges of the use of abusive language. Following the hearing, both Atkinson and Thonen were charged with contempt for counsel.

Mallory revealed that Thonen had been contacted yesterday afternoon and asked to come to his office in connection with the new charge, but at mid-morning had not shown up.

Under the terms of the suspension, Thonen is allowed 24 hours to get off the campus and can come back only on official business.

Disposition of the suit filed on April 23 by Thonen against Dr. Jenkins, and others is still pending. Judge John Larkins of the District Federal Court said that the latest action was on May 4 when he entered an order denying a motion for temporary restraining order.

Swearing-In

On Wednesday, at 10:00 a.m., the new mayor and city council members elected in the municipal elections of May 4 take office in a ceremony in the Council Chambers in Greenville's Municipal Building.

To be sworn in are Mayor S. Eugene West, and six City Council members — Percy Cox, Johnnie Edwards, Dr. Frank Fuller, Clarence Gray, Jerry Sutherland and John H. Taylor.

Immediately following the ceremony, a special meeting of the new council will be held to consider a resolution supporting the Greenville Vocational Rehabilitation Center. Other items may possibly be discussed at the time also.

The public is invited to attend and witness the ceremony tomorrow.

Defector Says Hanoi Will Not Free All POWs

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A defector from North Vietnam said today that Hanoi subjects American prisoners of war to "brutal interrogation" and exploits them intensively for strategic and propaganda purposes.

Dr. Dang Tan, a former Communist party official in the North, said the Communists "usually put the prisoners on parade through the streets of Hanoi and other cities."

Tan, who came to South Vietnam four years ago and defected 20 months ago, said in a prepared statement read to a news conference: "American POWs are subjected to all brutal interrogation methods which the North Vietnamese skillfully employ to extract information from them. This includes brainwashing and political indoctrination. It is the objective of the Central Committee policies to win over the minds of the American POWs."

"The Central Committee of North Vietnam considers that American POWs must be intensively exploited, both for strategic, intelligence and for propaganda purposes. The Ministry of Public Security and the Ministry of National Defense of North Vietnam compete with each other for the exploitation of the American POWs. North Vietnam blatantly violates the International Geneva Convention of 1949 for the humane treatment of POWs by permitting other Communist bloc countries, including the Soviet Union, Communist China, Cuba and others, to exploit the American POWs. This includes trying to take advantage of the families and friends of these POWs in the United States."

Tan said Hanoi will not release all of the American prisoners "now or in the future" because "the Communists believe the POWs are very competent and will be useful to them in the future. They are trying to use their talents now ... Those POWs will not have a chance to go home."

Tan, a slight, bespectacled man of 42, defected in late September 1969 in Pleiku Province in South Vietnam's central highlands. He said he joined the Communist party in 1948 and, after holding a series of administrative posts in North Vietnam, he was sent to South Vietnam in 1967. He said he set up a hospital in the central highlands "where for two years I treated the wounded and trained medical cadres in the face of bombings and hardships."

In an interview earlier with Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen, Tan claimed that Soviet, Chinese, Cuban, North Korean and French "military strategists" were advising the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces fighting in South Vietnam.

Forum On Tax Referendum Scheduled May 18

For the second time in recent weeks, one of Greenville's most active groups, the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters is sponsoring a public forum.

On Tuesday, May 18, the League is holding the forum in the City Council Chambers in the Municipal Building (city hall) for the benefit of the public in becoming informed on issues of the May 25 referendum on the one cent sales tax increase.

Stressing that in presenting this forum, they are neither taking a stand to support nor oppose the tax issue, the League members emphasize the purpose of their planned forum is to bring to the public ideas on the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed one cent added tax.

When voters go to the polls on May 25 to decide the issue, they will determine whether or not they wish, effective July 1, 1971, to add another cent to sales tax, making it four cents on the dollar instead of the current three cents.

Information gathered by the members of the League working on this project reveals that, according to the County Manager Reginald Gray, adoption of the one cent added tax would provide an estimated total of $1,036,000 in tax receipts. Based on a per capita basis, the added tax would give $658,337 in new revenue to Pitt County and $258,906 to Greenville, as the largest town in the county.

During the week, members of the League expect to have in readiness a leaflet to distribute showing seven major points which are considered as advantages and seven as disadvantages of the proposed increase.

The major points they will offer in this connection for public discussion are:

Advantages — 1. The hospital bond indebtedness will be 44.31 cents per $100 valuation in the first year that all the bonds are issued. In the next fiscal year, county welfare costs will increase 6.42 cents per $100 if the county must pay for Medicaid. Without the one cent added sales tax which would total $7.64 cents per $100 on the tax rate, a one-third increase in ad valorem assessments would be necessary before the county could even consider area school needs.

2. If Pitt County is to progress, a new source of revenue is a must. Property owners would not tolerate a one-third increase in property tax. The county property tax is now $1.52 per $100, to which supplemental levies are added by individual school districts; the Greenville school district supplement, for example, is 45 cents per $100.

3. If the people approve the one cent added tax, the monies can be used for a variety of projects including libraries, recreation programs, the hospital, and industrial development. If the County Commissioners increased the sales tax without a referendum, the areas in which the money could be used would be severely limited by law.

In case of arguments against the sales tax, the leading points under the heading of disadvantages are:

Disadvantages — 1. Because food, clothing and other essentials are not exempt, this 33 percent sales tax increase would hit hardest those persons least able to pay. A larger percentage of the poor man's income is spent on taxable items. The Federal tax deduction table shows that incomes less than $3,000 pay $50 in sales tax; whereas an income five times higher pays only $152.

2. Compared to that of other states, the property tax of North Carolina is not high; furthermore, numerous inequities exist. Adoption of the sales tax increase would reduce the incentive to reform property tax inequities even though this reform could produce much revenue.

3. The need for additional tax has not been clearly demonstrated. If the voter is to make an informed decision he needs to know whether the proceeds of the sales tax will be used to add services or to shift some of the burden of present commitments from property tax. Since the voters accepted a property tax increase to pay for the hospital bond issue, an additional one-third percent sales tax increase is not necessary.

Mrs. Barry Shank, publicity chairman for the league, says the seven points for and seven against, of which only the three leading ones are given here, will form the principal basis of the forum discussions next Tuesday night.

The public is invited to attend this program, which is said to be an effort to present both sides of the tax increase question to the public prior to the May 25 referendum date.

To Speak On Peace Trip

Mrs. Sara Small, a Williamston woman who in 1964 ran for Congress against Representative Walter Jones, and is now a resident of Roxbury, Massachusetts, will be in Greenville Thursday at 8:00 p.m. at the Methodist Student Center on East Fifth Street.

The Eastern North Carolina social leader will speak on her experiences as a delegate of the Peoples' Peace Delegation that visited in Paris in March this year.

Along with other American citizens, she made the trip to Paris to meet with the principal negotiators at the Paris peace talks. The meetings of the delegation included one with the Buddhist poet Nhat Hanh, a Vietnamese religious leader and also with leading journalists on Vietnam.

The Paris trip was sponsored by the Clergy and Laymen Concerned about Vietnam and the American Friends Service committee. Both groups sponsored the trip as a "people to people" venture in peace.

The public is invited to attend the talk to be given by Mrs. Small on Thursday night.

PLANTERS INTRODUCES THE "ANYTHING-AT-ALL" LOAN. FOR GUESS WHAT.

Why do people borrow money?

They want to buy things. Or pay for things (which isn't necessarily the same thing). Like automobiles, boats, appliances, furniture, vacations, educational expenses or whatever.

Of course, some people have reasons for needing money which aren't quite so commonplace. Like the man who wanted to finance an expedition trip to Nairobi in search of an elephant burial place. Or the mother who lucked up on a genuine 1919 Victrola and gave it to her daughter to play records on. What a steal! (Except in those days records weren't flat.) Or the outdoorsman who wanted to convert a used fire truck into a camper. Or who knows what.

So Planters National Bank introduces an "anything-at-all" loan for just about anything at all. Planters will lend you money for any worthwhile reason. Just come by any convenient office and tell a Planters man about the money you need. Tell him how you want your loan arranged and select a due date for repayment that's convenient for you.

If you prefer, PNB can even automatically deduct the payments from your PNB checking account. (Which can come in handy if you're out of the country.) At no charge.

If your reasons for borrowing money are a little more average, but still important, your Planters man will be happy to talk with you about any of the following PNB loan plans:

Business Loans

PNB offers competitive rates. And loan officers with imagination and creativity to help shape your investment.

Home Loans

Planters can finance your new home quickly and conveniently with an FHA, VA or conventional loan.

Agricultural Loans

A long time specialty at Planters. Loans to finance land, equipment, livestock, crop production and a score of other agricultural needs. See us for the money and agricultural know-how to improve your operation.

Cash Guarantee and Master Charge

In addition, PNB offers the special services of Cash Guarantee Account... a private line of revolving credit you use by simply writing a check, and Master Charge... your personal charge account all over the world.

Of course, Planters also offers personal, home improvement and auto loans. So whatever you need money for, come in and talk to a Planters man. He'll tailor a loan plan to fit your individual budget and needs. And, if your reason for borrowing doesn't fit any of our conventional loan plans, we'll come up with an unconventional "anything-at-all" loan plan that can't miss.

After all, what's an "anything-at-all" loan for, anyway?

Traditional Wedding Gowns Are Favorites

BOSTON (UPI)—The traditional wedding gown prevails as the favorite with most of today's brides, despite the breakaway from the "establishment" by some.

So says the firm of Priscilla of Boston, which made gowns for White House brides and is reported the leading candidate to produce the dress for Tricia Nixon for her June wedding to Edward Finch Cox.

"When a woman marries she wants a traditional gown, not a curiosity piece," said Janet Chute, fashion coordinator for Priscilla. "The kook dress (including hot pants and do-it-yourself far out or freak fabric fads) is a curiosity. It is not attractive."

The firm spurns a short, Mod look, preferring to call its more informal wear "country" and not "peasant," an adjective some manufacturers have put on theirs.

Traditional the gown may be, but it's undergone changes—a "new interpretation of tradition," as Miss Chute put it. "The stiffness is gone. There is a return to softness, flattering fabrics, the theme is definitely nostalgic."

There is new interest in the sleeve and its detail, Miss Chute said. The tapered sleeve is back. Fabrics in the current Priscilla collection include French silk lace, chiffon, English net patterned with pearls and voile over organdy.

And for the "tiny bride," a "look as innocent as a christening," said Miss Chute. Was she trying to tell us something about the character of the gown she probably will run up for tiny Tricia?

No Child Is A 'Tragedy'

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to a column:
How should one react to the news that their friends have had an "abnormal" child? I think I can answer that because we had one. We were lucky enough to be told immediately of our baby's condition, and did not have the agony of the slow realization that "something was wrong."

Feeling it best to face the problem, we freely told our friends and relatives about our "special" child. Altho we knew very little about what to expect, he was our baby and we knew we wanted to keep him with us. He is now a loveable, mischievous 11-year-old Mongoloid, going to a special school, and we have never regretted our decision.

Perhaps "congratulations" are not in order, but to ignore the presence of a new baby in a home, when you would normally express interest in, I think, cruel. To this day I remember the pleasure I felt when someone came to see our baby, to hold him, and to let me talk about him.

One of the burdens a mother of a retarded child has is not having anyone with whom to compare notes about her child's progress. Every tiny gain has a tremendous important meaning for the mother of a handicapped child.

So, do acknowledge the birth of a special child. Or send a little gift. Or send flowers to the mother. Continue to show an interest [not curiosity], and encourage the parents to get in touch with their local society for retarded children for help with mutual problems. It will be rewarded with much love, affection and gratitude.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote asking you if they should send a gift, or a card of "congratulations" to a mother who has given birth to a Mongoloid child. Thank you for saying, "By all means, yes. To a mother, a child is a child." I know your advice was sound because I had a Mongoloid son. Friends called. They stopped by. They even gave me a surprise baby shower when he was a month old. Here is the message on one card which meant so much to me:

"God gave this child to you to guide,
To love, to walk thru life beside.
A little child so full of charms,
To fill a pair of loving arms.
God picked you out because He knew
How safe His child would be with you."
God bless friends like that.

—MRS. C. B.: BEACON, N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to the person who wanted to know if she should acknowledge the birth of a Mongoloid child, or out of kindness ignore the "tragedy."

I will always be grateful to friends who sent cards and gave us the feeling of "normalcy" when our Mongoloid son was born. He is now a happy 6-year-old, and a great source of joy to us. He goes everywhere with us, and is so full of love, we wouldn't trade him for any other child in the world. Not all Mongoloid children are severely retarded. No one knows at the time of his birth what his potential will be if given a chance. He deserves better than to be written off as a "tragedy." An investment of love and care and a little work can be returned tenfold.

There are organizations all over the country to guide and counsel parents who share this experience. Anyone interested may write to The Mongoloid Development Council, 1810 S. 31st Street, Kansas City, Kas. 66108. —RUSTY'S MOTHER

ATLANTA, Ga. — Mrs. Betty Casey of Greenville, N.C., recently attended the Southeast Regional Conference for the National Affiliation For Literary Advance (NALA) held here.

She represented the Pitt County Literacy Council at the meeting. Representatives from five states were in attendance. This program is carried out by volunteers and is dedicated to teaching illiterates to read. Special emphasis is placed on the needs of adult illiterates.

The teaching system is known worldwide by the slogan "each one teach one" and was introduced by the late Dr. Frank Laubach, who conceived and originated the teaching method.

Mrs. Casey also took part in a writers workshop held in connection with the conference. Several of her articles are being considered for publication and for use by the Atlanta Council and other groups represented at the workshop.

Directors for the workshop included Mrs. Carolina Blackeley, editor-director of Laubach Literature, Mrs. Katie

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Weeks, Miss Bobbie Weeks, Mrs. Frances Whitehurst and Mrs. G. T. Whitehurst attended the Worthington wedding in Farmville recently.

Brides Should Write Thank You's Promptly

NEW YORK (UPI)—To say thanks properly and promptly for wedding gifts is one way of getting the marriage off to a good start—with relatives and friends.

As far as possible, write your note as soon as gifts arrive. Those arriving too late to answer before the wedding should be acknowledged promptly on return from the honeymoon.

There is no objection to printed notes, especially when you add your own hand-written message. Small conventional note-size paper is preferred.

Joint Maneuver Action Taken

NOTTINGHAM, England (WNS) — Teen boys in the Nottinghamshire Army Cadets kept playing hookey from training exercises because they are more interested in dates with girls.

Professor Norman Haycocks of Nottingham University suggested a tender-trap plan to lure the lads back to duty: girls on the training field. Colonel James Gunn, the boys' commander, has invited the Girls Venture Group to join the Nottinghamshire Army Cadets in joint maneuvers.

Miss Sylvia Jones of Tarboro and Miss Janet Cobb of Bethel spent the weekend in Morehead City.

Suburban Beauty Hints from Clara Garriss

MYSTIFY HIM

For centuries women have enjoyed a large arsenal of mystic powers over their male counterparts. Today, however, these powers have slowly dwindled until we are indeed fortunate to have any mystery about ourselves left!

We all know that a mysterious appearance still intrigues our gentlemen friends. So why not capitalize on this intrigue?

We have a wild suggestion which involves eye makeup. Sweep a glimmer of silver on your brow and royal blue shadow on your lids. Then, attach thick, false lashes flecked with silver. To add a bit of elegance, define your brows with rhinestones pasted in place with surgical glue.

What about the hairdo? We suggest an elaborate ringletted style with gray curls. Lift the hair in front and lightly comb the ringlets back, thus preserving the hairdo's shape.

No Sympathy For Protestors

Even though most Americans feel it is time to end the war in Vietnam, the thousands of so-called antiwar protestors failed to generate much public sympathy last week as they sought to tie up the nation's capital.

At last report 12,000 of the protestors had been arrested and it was apparent that they had miserably failed in their efforts to paralyze the governmental functions in Washington.

It was clear that Washington police had been carefully trained to deal with the demonstrators, for despite the fact that so many arrests were made, there were no reports of shootings or deaths during the week.

So it would seem that the militant demonstrators accomplished nothing during the week except to push the thinking of the American public in general away from the militant's announced aims.

It was interesting to us to read during the same week that American troop strength in Vietnam has dropped to less than half of what it was at peak strength. This must be an indication to anyone who is willing to think about it that the goal of withdrawing U. S. troops from Vietnam is being accomplished.

It is obviously not being done as rapidly as many people would like—some of them very sincere in their beliefs. Still there is little doubt in our minds that the rate of withdrawal will continue as it is going and within a year there will be no more than a small force of Americans in Vietnam.

Why then such militant demonstration in Washington? One has to wonder if leading such a cause has not become a profession with many of the leaders. Without a cause there is no following, and thus it is just possible that it is to the personal advantage of some to keep such things going.

Favorable Memories Of President Truman

Harry S. Truman celebrated his 87th birthday Saturday, but because of his advanced years he was not able to attend the celebration in a Kansas City hotel.

Though age has slowed him, Americans still remember the former president as one who had to make momentous decisions during and after World War II when the duties of president descended upon him at the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Truman made his decisions bravely and it is certain that he has assured himself a favorable place in history.

Meany Favors Sen. Jackson

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — In quiet, off-the-record talks with close friends, President George Meany of the AFL-CIO is revealing that his first choice for Democratic Presidential nominee is Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington, a hardliner in foreign policy with a liberal domestic record.

Meany, a Vietnam hardliner, thinks Jackson actually has a chance to be nominated, a distinct minority view. Although Meany won't say anything publicly, the word is getting around labor and political circles in a way that can only help Jackson's present shadow candidacy for the nomination.

As for front runner Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, Meany is unenthusiastic. The labor boss says Muskie does not seem to understand economics and is "weak" on foreign policy, particularly the Middle East, where Meany talks a very strong pro-Israeli line identical to Jackson's. Meany also takes a dim view of a second try by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, labor's enthusiastic and unanimous selection in 1968.

Surprisingly, his second choice is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, whom he regards as "dependable" on Vietnam, in sharp contrast to leading Democratic doves, such as Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota and Harold Hughes of Iowa. If McGovern, Hughes, or some other all-out dove gets nominated, Meany tells friends, he would be inclined to sit out the campaign.

A footnote: Whatever Meany thinks, organized labor will not give monolithic pre-convention support to anybody the way it backed Humphrey in 1968. I. W. Abel of the Steelworkers likes Muskie. Leonard Woodcock of the Autoworkers is undecided but interested in Hughes.

Nixon in '72

President Nixon's inner circle hopes proliferating talk about his not seeking a second term in 1972 will be quashed by the long-delayed announcement of a citizen's committee for his reelection.

Originally scheduled to be announced a month ago, its membership was not completed until last week. Then, the President's political operatives determined that such an announcement would be inappropriate with antiwar protesters swarming all over Washington. Now, finally, the announcement is expected in Cincinnati this week from the committee's chairman: Francis Dale, publisher of the Cincinnati Enquirer and president of the Cincinnati Reds.

The President's obvious though unstated participation in this operation will, the Nixon men hope, finally end all no-second-term talk. Indeed, four White House aides now have left the government payroll to staff the committee's headquarters at 1701 Pennsylvania Ave., catty-corner from the White House.

Burger Court Stumbles

Three weeks have passed since the U.S. Supreme Court delivered itself of opinions in the school desegregation cases, and I ask your forgiveness for arriving late at the story. The press of Portugal, with deference to its editors, was not of great help in determining what the Court had said.

But neither are the opinions themselves. These turgid pronouncements, combining bad law with wretched style, add up to the poorest performance thus far from the Burger Court. The Chief Justice, principal author of this lamentable mush, has many good qualities, but none can be discerned in the muck. The pen of Mr. Burger, sad to say, is filled not with ink, but with library paste.

The several Southern school cases that were combined for argument last October had this much in common: They were intended to provide the Supreme Court an opportunity for fashioning clear guidelines to lower Federal courts in deciding upon desegregation remedies. No such clear guidelines emerge. At first reading, the opinions seem to say that anything goes — busing, pairing, clustering, gerrymandering, you name it; on closer inspection, this is yes and no, as may be, depending upon circumstances, unh-huh and provided that. "Words are poor instruments," sighs the Chief, "to convey the sense of basic fairness inherent in equity." True. But his words are poorer than most.

The difficulty here is that the Court has lost its way. The longer it stumbles about in the thickets of equity, the farther it gets from the benchmark of the Fourteenth Amendment. That is what the famous Brown case, 17 years ago, was all about. The holding then was that the defendant States, by assigning children to school by reason of their race, were denying them the equal protection of the laws. What was generally understood was that the Court, in ordering an end to State-imposed segregation, was ordering an end to racism.

What was generally understood then alas, cannot be generally understood now. The Brown decision of 1954 said, in effect, that pupils could not be assigned to schools by reason of their race; the opinions of April 20 lay down precisely the opposite rule: Pupils must be assigned to schools by reason of their race. The teaching of Brown was that all children must be treated equally; the teachings of April 20 are that some are more equal than others.

hang. No-vote strategy in the Finance Committee could simply drag the issue along until the Appropriations Committee has made spending decisions, based on retention of the $38 million yielded by the soft drink tax. With that step taken, pressure would be irresistible to leave the revenue structure undisturbed.

Decisions Behind Scenes

That working out will be the subject for back-stage dialogue and maneuvering. The histrionics for public view came at the hearing.

Repeating as protagonists (hero and villain, depending on the point of view) were Executive Director Sam L. Whitehurst of the North Carolina Soft Drink Association and Rep. Perry Martin of Northampton, a progenitor of the tax. Their parry of questions-and-answers came to a stand-off, but gave a highlight to the proceedings.

The ingenue, and only performer applauded, was Mrs. Mary Margaret Hughes of Raleigh. She played Irate Housewife, and told the lawmakers they should remove the soft drink tax from her already burdened grocery budget.

What stopped the show was the surprise appearance of Wilbur Hobby, state AFL-CIO chief, in a reversal of roles. He opposed the soft drink tax two years ago. This time he was vehement against its repeal. Shaking his jowls and lambasting bottlers for pursuing profits, Hobby said North Carolina must have the money the tax produces for teachers' salaries and other services.

The decisive actor remained well off-stage, his lines delivered sotto voce and relayed by emissaries.

Scott Stance Ambiguous

Governor Bob Scott's position on repealing the tax is variously interpreted. Soft drink spokesmen like to point out that Scott never once recommended singling out their product; he proposed a five-cent cigarette tax and the 1969 legislature "compromised" on two cents on cigarettes and one cent on soft drinks.

What seems to be a hardening attitude on the Governor's part for no change in tax laws is becoming apparent. A legislator favorable to repeal of the soft drink tax came from a conference with Scott and reported the Governor made a bid for support to retain the tax.

Certainly, Governor Scott is aware that patching a $38 million budget hole, should the tax be repealed, would be difficult indeed as late as it is in the session. Whatever his personal feelings on the soft drink tax, retaining it might well seem the easiest course to negotiate.

Each passing day builds pressure for lawmakers to reach the same conclusion. Speaker Sees No Repeal

So astute an observer of General Assembly ways as House Speaker Philip P. Godwin now has decided the legislative mind is made up against any major revisions on the revenue structure.

"I do not think the soft drink tax will be repealed," Speaker Godwin said. "The people realize we can't take that much money out of the budget and take care of our daily needs, much less provide for any new programs."

The Gates County Representative said he hasn't detected a lot of clamor from the public for repeal. "I've had a lot of letters, but 75 per cent of them are from children who do not realize the serious nature of what they are asking," Godwin said. "They do not understand the relationship of taxes to schools and other state services."

The House Speaker ventured the opinion that muscle for repeal is coming from outside the state. "I believe the national soft drink industry realizes that other states are likely to look their way for taxes as long as our tax is on the books," he explained.

The ironic turn to the drama is that while bottlers are likely to remain under the tax, some competitive products may well slip out. There is sentiment among legislators for exempting certain powders and other drink mixtures or products, a tax loss of only $750,000.

Inclusion of these items was cited by the soft drink association in its advertising campaign describing the levy as a "food tax."

Strength For Today

A REAL INFLUENCE

To what extent are people — particularly young people and children — influenced by motion pictures and television?

Probably a great deal. Some of this influence is bad, but most of it is not. Probably its worst influence is that movies and television allow us to live in a fantasy world rather than in a real world. Living is rough going for everybody some of the time. There are crises in life before which we stand apparently helpless. But there is no such thing as helpless and hopeless in a world presided over by a good God. There is crime in the world, and we have to face it. There are amusing situations, and some filled with mystery to the extent of being fascinating. We make a great mistake when we try to bring the whole of life down to a few good things or a few bad things. Life is complex. It becomes more so with the passing of decades. Would you trade living today with living one hundred, two hundred or five hundred years ago? The world in which we live has been designated as the best of all possible worlds. It would take a lot of thinking, arguing, yielding and table-pounding to establish the truth of such a statement.

Let us rejoice in what we already have. The free democracies of the western world are — with all their imperfections — better than anything humanity has ever known before. We hear a lot about student disorder and riots, yet the young people today probably know more than any generation of young people that has lived in the whole of human history. They need to be cut down to size once in a while — but so do we all. Abraham Lincoln declared that we are about as happy in this world as we make up our minds to be.

Japan's Marketing Advantage

By ELMER ROESSNER

The school year ends in March in Japan and so in April and May thousands of young men and women are seeking employment. There is no job-hopping as there is in America where millions of young people try different lines of work and different employers ("What's this company's pension plan, Mr. Throckmorton?") before they settle down.

In Japan, as Shigeo Kameda, Japan Air Lines vice president, told a San Francisco business convention, both employer and candidate carefully consider the matter. The job will probably be for life.

"The paternalistic nature of employment, even in these modern times, is general in Japan," he said. It's custom. An employee can quit his job and some sometimes do. An employer can fire a man. But, as Kameda said, "Such human frailties as slowness, dull-wittedness, impaired health, lack of adaptability, inflexibility or even inefficiency are not, of themselves, generally considered adequate reasons for dismissal. A more customary solution might be to hire an additional employee to take up the slack of the man found wanting."

A Subtle Advantage
"Generally speaking," he added, "compensation is not related to the specific job but to the tenure of the employee." This not only avoids internal friction from job assignments, but it also encourages management to constantly train employees for greater responsibility and management potential. Japanese wages are low, only a fraction of what is paid

American workers. But there are such fringes as:

Twice a year mandatory bonuses of five or six months pay.

Inexpensive modern housing or housing allowances.

Plush expense accounts and chauffeured cars for top executives.

Recreational facilities for all employees.

Two Christmases A Year

The bonuses are paid in June and December. This results in Christmaslike exchanges of presents twice a year.

Because, as in America, housing is short, it is sometimes imperative for an applicant to accept a position in order to get housing. Some companies also pay for transportation from home to plant.

The differences between employment in Japan and in the United States becomes more important to American businessmen as Japan steps up its competition. It is not only exporting electronic products, textiles, pianos, glass and cameras and optical goods to the United States below American producers can meet, but it is also snatching foreign markets away from U.S. exporters.

And low wages, while a significant advantage, are not the only one. The Japanese worker is not only disinclined to strike — although he sometimes does — but he is an integral part of the company. His life is tied to it.

In Japan, the "organization man" is not limited to the executive suites. The clean-up boy hired yesterday may be 100 per cent "organization" today. He is constantly seeking ways to increase his own and the company's productivity. He has little temptation to goof off. Absentee rates are low. For America, it's tough competition.

ARVN Drive Halted, But Enemy Units Diverted

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy troops have halted a major South Vietnamese drive into eastern Cambodia, knocked two armored cavalry regiments out of action and put the Saigon forces on the defensive.

But U.S. advisers say the South Vietnamese operation has kept three enemy divisions from crossing the border into the 11 provinces surrounding Saigon.

"The primary mission now," said one U.S. adviser, "is to block any infiltration across Highway 7 into South Vietnam."

The South Vietnamese in early February pushed 30 miles into Cambodia. Now they have fallen back to Route 7 just

Vitamin May Deter Hazard

DAVIS, Calif. (AP) — By exposing rats to ozone and giving them varying amounts of vitamin E, a University of California professor says he's found evidence the vitamin may ward off air pollution hazards.

Dr. Aloys L. Tappel, UC Davis professor of food sciences, says in each of the experiments he conducted, most rats died after exposure to the pollutant had diets deficient in the vitamin.

Tappel says most Americans get about 7 milligrams of the vitamin daily, well below recommended levels but could boost that amount with wheat germ, corn germ, egg yolk, leafy vegetables and vegetable oil.

lunacy solemnly compounded for Charlotte and Mecklenburg County in North Carolina. As one minor facet of this gem, 300 black students must be daily transported away from the high school they normally would attend, in order that the racial mix may be improved in Independence High School some miles away. This the Supreme Court approves.

Yet such an objective is absolutely inconsistent with the Court's own avowed objective, which "to see that school authorities exclude no pupil of a racial minority from any school, directly or indirectly, on account of race." Unless words have lost all meaning, it is plain that the 300 black pupils, members of the racial minority, have indeed been excluded from a particular school "on account of race."

So it is back to racism. That is about what the opinions of April 30 amount to. We can forget about the Court's statement a couple of years ago that it wants neither black schools nor white schools, but "just schools." It is not possible to maintain "just schools" when the sole criterion underlying every decision is the criterion of — race.

So far as the attainted Southern States are concerned, race must remain the be-all and end-all. In the selection of school sites, in the hiring and assignment of faculty, in the fixing of attendance zones, the local school boards are to be regarded as guilty until proved innocent. Lower courts are to assume that the boards are seeking deviously to maintain segregation, and it is up to the trial judges to outwit them.

It is a sad business all around — for the courts, for the children condemned to insistent race-consciousness, for the public school systems that inevitably will suffer through the loss of public support. The old follies and evils of segregation cannot be eradicated by these decrees; they can only be exchanged for new follies and new evils. This is not equity; this is nonsense.

across the border. The U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have taken over the original mission, destruction of the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong 5th, 7th and 9th divisions and their base camps.

"There is no indication of any enemy divisional sized elements coming back into Military Region 3," the Saigon area, one officer said. "They have been contained by the South Vietnamese."

This has prevented the enemy from disrupting pacification efforts in the countryside and has paved the way for more withdrawals of American ground forces, the advisers say.

A footnote: Contrary to published reports, long-time Nixon political operative Murray Chotiner has no part whatever in this operation. Incredible though it may seem, the fact that Chotiner's new law offices also are located at 1701 Pennsylvania is sheer coincidence.

Connally's First Loss?

A furious backstage fight over the next Commissioner of Internal Revenue between John B. Connally, Secretary of the Treasury, and the White House staff is likely to result in Connally's first setback in the Nixon administration.

Connally's candidate to succeed Randolph Thrower at the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is John S. Nolan, highly-regarded Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for tax policy. But Nolan rubbed top White House aides the wrong way in 1969 during the intramural Administration struggle over tax reform.

Particularly hostile to Nolan is Charles Colson, the President's influential special counsel and chief contact with pressure groups — including the American Bankers Assn. Colson and Nolan had a brutal fight when Colson backed a demand by mutual fund bankers, that Nolan lobby Congress to remove a ban on "swap issues." Nolan refused.

Although Nolan was the Treasury's candidate before Connally joined the Cabinet, Connally has enthusiastically endorsed him. His Houston law partner, Marvin Collie, is Nolan's long-time friend.

Socrates was the ancient Greek philosopher who has often been called the wisest man who ever lived. He is also, you may recall, the fellow who said, "Once made equal to man, woman becomes his superior."

A delusion is what a fat man has who really believes that wearing either a single-breasted or a double-breasted suit will make him look slimmer.

I never yet have met a red-haired woman who had an inferiority complex or felt she had led an altogether unsatisfactory life.

It is easier to be forgiven for painting a poor picture than for telling a joke badly.

Nothing makes a guy feel smugger than finding a mistake made by his wife or a calendar.

Much of the failure of the ground force to meet all its objectives is attributed to the death of the field commander, Gen. Do Cao Tri, in a helicopter crash less than three weeks after he launched the operation. Tri was South Vietnam's most aggressive field commander, and his death robbed the offensive of its momentum.

The operation was a followup to the May 1970 invasion that destroyed major North Vietnamese and Viet Cong base camps and war stockpiles in eastern Cambodia.

Tri's plan was to sweep quickly through the Chup rubber plantation, 30 miles from the border, then swing eastward in heavy jungle through a North Vietnamese supply depot and truck park, then cut back for a sustained drive through the 75-square-mile plantation. It is Indochina's largest and believed to be the headquarters of the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong 9th Division.

Tri also expected that by the end of the dry season in June, his force could move southeast and link up with a column moving up from the south.

The plan was never carried out.

In a previously undisclosed move two weeks after the operation began, Tri sent a helicopter-borne task force into the town of Chhlong, 20 miles south of Kratie. It was the deepest penetration in the campaign.

Tri had talked about pushing all the way up to Kratie to cut a lower branch of the Ho Chi Minh trail but instead turned the Chhlong force southward to link up with two task forces moving north from Highway 7.

After the linkup, the combined force was to push east into the enemy supply, depot and truck park, which had never been invaded. Instead heavy resistance stalled the South Vietnamese, and Tri was on his way to get them moving when his helicopter crashed on Feb. 24.

Tri successor, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, was cautious, unfamiliar with Tri's plans and reluctant to risk heavy losses. He ordered the task forces to pull back under protective cover of U.S. B52 bombers. They set up defensive positions along Highway 7 and there became the target of heavy North Vietnamese rocket and mortar attacks.

Minh was planning a 10-mile push away from Highway 7 three weeks ago to get the operation going again before the heavy rains of the monsoon season set in. It was suddenly called off with no explanation; officers in the field said the reason was that the two armored cavalry regiments which had been knocked out were still inoperative, plagued by a lack of parts and maintenance due to a logistics jamup.

Officers said the two armored cavalry regiments—the 15th and 18th—lost 30 per cent or more of their 130 tanks and armored personnel carriers.

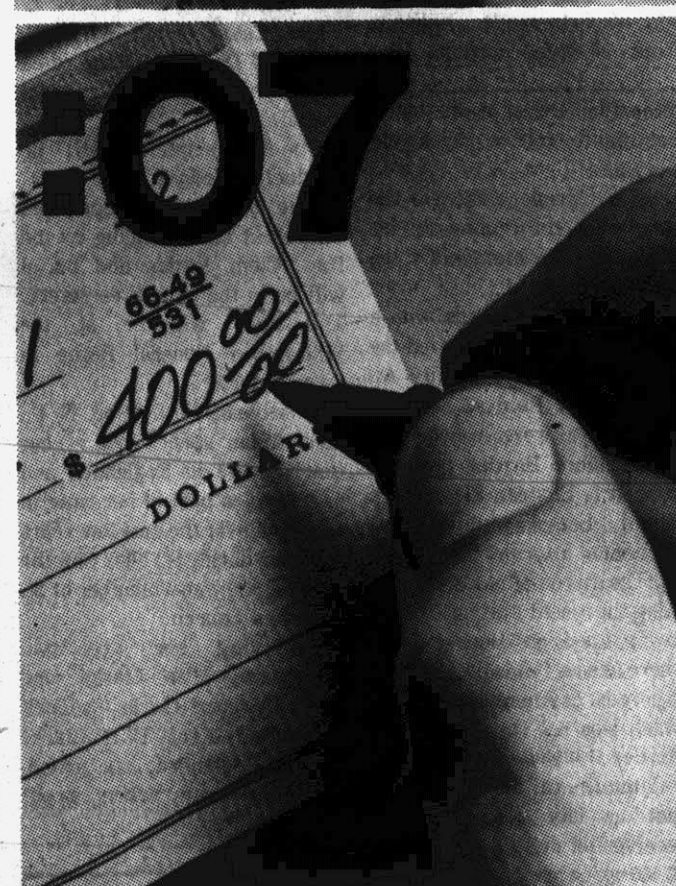

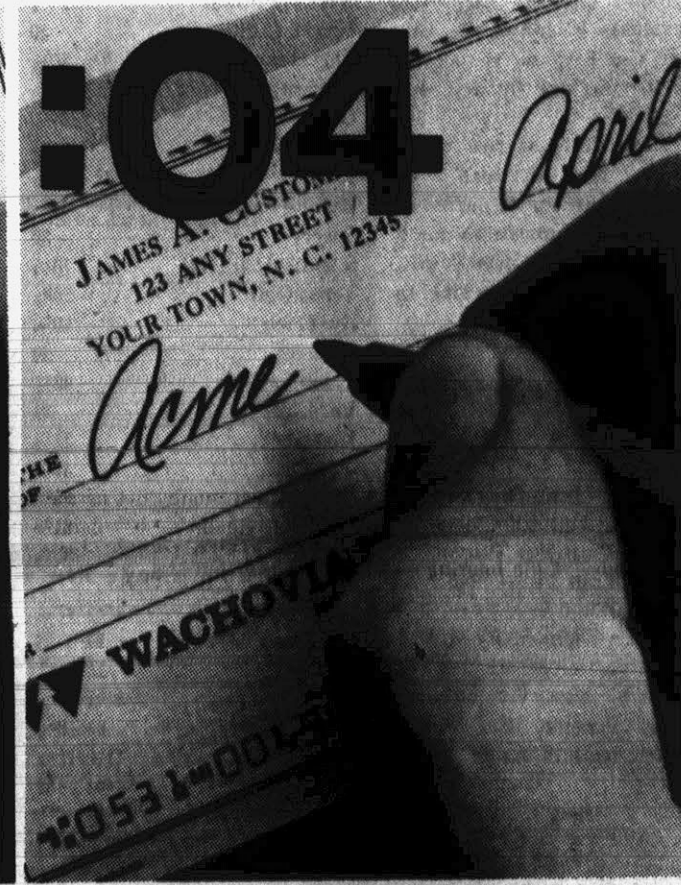

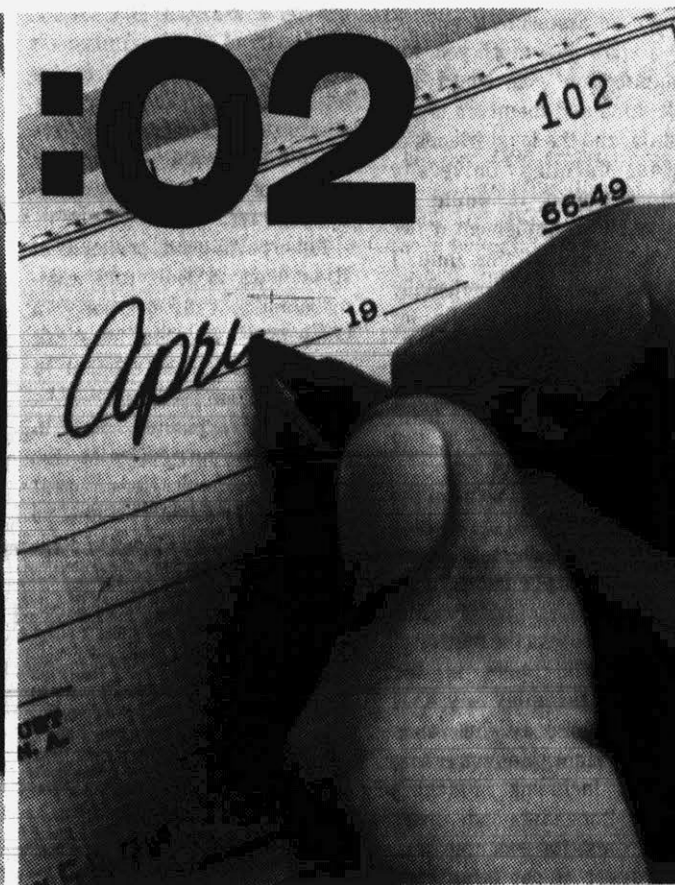

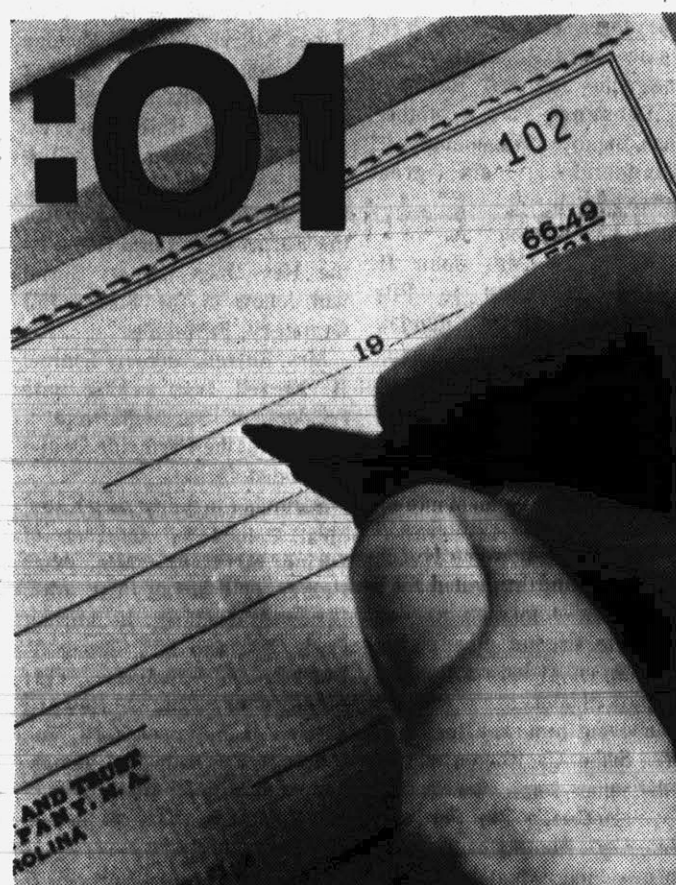

The Saigon government claims nearly 7,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops killed in the campaign and has reported more than 600 of its men killed and more than 3,000 wounded. But the total of South Vietnamese casualties is understood to be higher.

Intelligence indicates the three enemy divisions are getting replacements down the Ho Chi Minh trail through southern Laos.

Woman Power

"Recreation will be our main study program for the next two years," Mrs. Carolyn Creekmore, observer for the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters told the Recreation Commission members last night.

Saying she would be attending their monthly meetings, the League representative noted "hopefully, as a result, our main goal is to study in depth what is offered by the community and the county, to evaluate it, and to see what we can help do to provide better service in any way possible."

"For the next two years, then," she continued, "we will pool all our resources on this main goal. There are a lot of women involved in this, and we will be working to help you."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices drifted upward today in relatively slow trading. Analysts said investors continued to be cautious in the light of the international monetary situation.

The 11 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 0.84 to 933.39.

Advances took a slim lead over declines among the issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although stocks declined along a broad front Monday, analysts had noted signs that the market was basically healthy. They said the market fell mostly of its own weight and that important support appeared at the 930 level of the Dow average.

Prices among the most-active Big Board issues included:

Xerox, down ¼ at 107½; First National City Corp., off ¼ to 35½; Sunbeam, down ¼ at 25; Texaco, up ¼ at 37; Chase Manhattan, off ¼ at 52¾; Kinney Services, up ¼ at 36½; Ampex, up ¼ at 19¾; and Tele-gony, up ¼ at 30¾.

On the Amex, prices included: Computing & Software, down ¼ at 37½; Overseas Shipholding Group, off ¼ at 21; Total Petroleum-North American Ltd., up ¼ at 8¼; Teleprompter, ahead 2¼ to 84½.

Arrest Man For Farm Break-In

Pitt County deputies have arrested a Rt. 1, Ayden man following investigation of an attempted break-in Monday at a farm residence near Ayden.

Jessie Kornegay, 18, is charged with attempting to break into the home of Armissus McLawhorn on the Willie Cox farm on Rt. 1 shortly after noon yesterday.

The Sheriff's Department reported that Kornegay is being held under $200 bond pending a hearing in District Court in Ayden on May 27.

the county plans to set up a temporary office for the magistrate, who now has offices in the Edwards Building, following demolition of the structure.

Kirby Boyd, commission real estate officer, said last night that bids were opened on April 22 for the removal of the "Buck" house located behind the courthouse, facing Washington Street.

Boyd reported that Larry Early of Greenville submitted the successful bid and plans to move the structure to another area of town, hopefully this week.

CBD project manager Lawrence D. Holt said that the first property acquisition in the CBD area had been made. He pointed out that the 202 W. Eighth St. acquisition involved an owner-occupied residential

Scott Letter

The Honorable Robert Morgan, Chairman
East Carolina University
Board of Trustees
Department of Justice
Raleigh, North Carolina

Dear Bob:
I have reached a decision that the best and most feasible course of action to eventually establish a four year medical school at East Carolina University is for your Board of Trustees to seek funding for the so-called "one year" medical education program from the current General Assembly.

You know that I have long held the view that eventually we are going to need another state-supported medical school in North Carolina when the UNC-CH medical school reaches its maximum. Logic tells us this. I have reiterated this view at a recent meeting of the Board of Higher Education, and I have expressed it privately on many occasions.

My suggestion that we move at this time to a one year program is not based upon any change in my views. I look upon this move as another step toward a four year school, just as I did with the establishment of the School of Allied Health Sciences at ECU.

Furthermore, I am persuaded after careful analysis and discussions with legislative leaders, that this position affords us the greatest chance for success at this session of the General Assembly in light of financial and political considerations. As a former legislator, I'm certain you can appreciate such an assessment.

I know how much you, the members of your board, Dr. Jenkins and members of his staff, and the loyal friends of East Carolina University have hoped it would be possible to implement a two year school at this time. I know that you personally have fought this battle for several years.

It is my honest opinion, however, that we face serious obstacles in getting a two year school at this time.

Let me explain some of the factors I weighed in reaching my decision which, I assure you, was not made hastily or lightly.

First, there is the matter of money. Old-timers in the General Assembly say that they cannot recall when funds were so tight. Many pressing needs, including matching funds for law and order programs, for example, are in danger of not being met.

Furthermore, as governor, I must consider not only the costs during this biennium, but what must be recommended in the 1973-75 budget, which I must prepare before leaving office. With a two year program, a new building costing over ten million dollars would be needed, either in this budget or the next. Your school could not be accredited without it. Also, substantial funds, $600,000 or more, would be needed to improve your medical library. Under the one year program, a new building is not required and less funding for the library would be expected.

Holt added that the commission staff is still corresponding with Peden Steel Co. representatives concerning the possibility of parking decks for the CBD area of the city.

T. I. Wagner, Newtown project manager, told commissioners that 31 more parcels had been acquired in the project area. Of the 145 structures that were in the project in the beginning, he noted, only 52 remain now and the number of tenants has been reduced to 31. Some 93 structures have been demolished so far, he said, and there are five more to come down soon.

The commission's executive director, Col A E Dubber, reported that a letter had been written to the Area Development Corp. informing them that their development time for a parcel (block bounded by Washington, First, Greene and Second Streets) had expired.

Also in the area of costs, I am persuaded that the operational costs of a one year program is considerably less than for a two year program. Logic will not allow me to be convinced that a two year program can be operated as cheaply as a one year program.

Second, as governor, I must look at the overall health care programs in the state. In doing so, I reason that the report of the Board of Higher Education on February 19, 1971 is sound and I endorse that report. That report contained the following basic recommendations for training of physicians:

(1) An orderly expansion of the UNC-CH medical school of its entering class of 100 to 200 not later than the end of this decade.

(2) Continue support of the Meharry Medical College program through the Southern Regional Education Board. Five or six new spaces are available each year.

(3) Contract with the Duke and Bowman Gray schools of medicine for the education of the maximum number of additional North Carolina students.

(4) Create a statewide plan to increase the number of physicians. This plan includes recommendations that an agreement be reached between the UNC-CH medical school and East Carolina University, whereby the latter would provide training

Members of the commission asked Lee to inform Mrs. Cayton by letter of the commission's support and to include in the letter a commendation for Mrs. Cayton's enthusiasm in her efforts to make possible a theater program for children in the summer.

Robert Alligood, principal of Rose High School, told commissioners "my purpose in being here is to see if we can work a little closer together in the use of our facilities."

Alligood explained that in planning the curriculum for the coming school year, that physical education is being used in a new concept, that of in-class instruction. The principal noted that tennis was one field of instruction in which greater effort was hoped to be stressed, but that this could not be done without making more definite arrangements for use of the city tennis courts to the extent that classes could be scheduled.

Director Lee, commenting that he agrees on the needs of the school, added "My philosophy is we have got to provide for the people of Greenville, our first concern, and still help the school as much as possible."

Board chairman Mrs. Clay Burnette, appointed Sidney Carraway and Dr. Ralph Steele as a committee to work jointly with Lee and Alligood to form a plan that would provide students the greatest possible degree of usage of both the gym and the tennis facilities.

Commission members authorized Lee to further pursue with the Greenville City School Board of Education the possibility of purchasing the section of land at the site of the former Eppes School that contains the gym. Members also agreed to be responsible for an appraisal fee to be paid to Lester Turnage for making an appraisal of the fair value of the portion of land the commission is interested in — a plot about 280 by 350 feet bordering Nash and Ward Streets.

The total land area is somewhat more than nine acres, with frontage on Memorial Drive, West Fifth Street, as well as Nash and Ward. City Manager Harry Hagerty pointed out that property along Fifth Street and Memorial Drive would be more expensive than the property on which the gym rests, and that it was his belief the City School Board would agree to sell that portion to the

at the first year level. Students satisfactorily completing the program would be guaranteed admission to the medical school at Chapel Hill.

The plan also calls for extension of the fourth year clinical training to include the utilization of hospital resources in such cities as Greenville, Kinston, Goldsboro and Wilson, to name a few.

Thus, a student would take his first year of medical education at ECU, his second and third year training at UNC-CH and his fourth year clinical work could well be in one of the cities in eastern North Carolina. Likely his fifth year clinical work would be there also.

Most everyone I have talked with tells me it is not where the medical student takes his classroom work that influences where he will practice, but the place where he does his clinical work and does his internship have more influence than anything else. Thus you see the value of tying into this program the development of clinical facilities in the eastern part of our state.

Third, I feel it would be very difficult to get the two year program funded. There is not only the problem of money, as I mentioned earlier, but there are many legislators who are not convinced that any program of medical education should be placed at East Carolina. I disagree with that view, but that is the way I assess that situation.

Fourth, the Board of Higher Education has already recommended the one year program. If I recommended otherwise to the legislature, I would either have to get the Board to reverse its position or I would have to by-pass the board of which I serve as chairman (and many of whose members I appointed) and go straight to the General Assembly.

I seriously doubt I could do the first, and I will not undercut my board by doing the latter.

Fifth, I remain convinced that the proposed one year program is a step toward the establishment of a four year program of medical education at East Carolina University. I do not view this route as a dead-end street. A school can move from a one year to a four year program just as they can from a two year to a four year program.

I do hope that the Board of Trustees will request funding for the one year program. Rumors have been going around the legislature that if ECU can't get a two year program then they don't want any at all. I discount these rumors for I cannot believe such an attitude would prevail in the ECU family. If such were the case, with the financial and political realities in the legislature being what they are, I'm afraid that is exactly what ECU would receive—nothing. And I don't want that to happen any more than you do.

In summary, I recommend that the East Carolina University Board of Trustees seek funding for a one year program of education at this session of the General Assembly.

Based on reductions suggested by the ECU staff, coupled with recommendations by outside consultants and by the Board of Higher Education, I am prepared to support actively an appropriation for this program of $735,629 for 1971-72 and $692,187 for 1972-73, a total of $1,427,816 for the biennium. I will also support funds for the establishment of clinics for fourth year training in eastern North Carolina cities, where resources are available.

Finally, permit me to close on a note of levity. I read that ECU's Board of Trustees were awaiting my decision on this question. That's fine, and I don't shirk that decision, however difficult it may be. But my experiences in higher education since I have been governor had led me to believe that the institutions did not want the governor or anyone else telling them what to do. Perhaps we truly do live in the time of change.

With highest personal regards,

Cordially,
Robert W. Scott

AYDEN — Mr. John H. Wooten, 74, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday night.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the Farmer Funeral Chapel here with the Rev. Clifton Rice and the Rev. C. H. Overman officiating. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

A member of the Ayden F.W.B. Church and a farmer, he was reared in Greene County, but had been an Ayden resident for the past 28 years.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Sudie C. Wooten of the home; nine sons, Robert and Wayne Wooten, both of Portland, Ore., Carl Wooten of Raleigh, Norman and Winston Wooten, both of Greenville, William Wooten of Seven Springs, John

Lee is to report back to the commission the findings of his contact with the members of the City School Board.

Commission members, with a couple abstaining, approved the payment of $279.50 to City Attorney David Reid as attorney fees for legal work in acquiring the five acre Hardee property adjacent to Eastern Elementary School. Lee explained that payment of attorney fees varied with the source of federal funds, citing the recent purchase of the Evans Land on Hooker Road where federal funds provided for 50 percent payment of such fees, which was not the case in the Hardee transaction.

Councilman Edwards said that as city attorney, Reid receives an annual payment of $2,500 which provides a retaining fee for routine legal work performed. "Anything beyond the normal requirements calls for payment of a reasonable fee," Edwards said.

In a final item, Mrs. Burnette asked Charles Pope, Mrs. Louis Gaylord and Dr. Ralph Steele to serve as a nominating committee to bring in names to be considered at next month's meeting for membership on the Recreation Commission.

Wooten of Tampa, Fla., James Wooten of New York, and Clifton Wooten of Williamston; five daughters, Mrs. Willie Rogers of Greenville, Mrs. George Graylie of Tarboro, Mrs. Odell Bright and Mrs. David H. Kittrell

FARMVILLE — Mrs. Ethel Jones Kittrell, 68, died Monday afternoon in the Fairfax Hospital in Falls Church, Va., following an illness of two months. Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Thursday from the Church Street Chapel of the Farmville Funeral Home by the Rev. Jack Hunter. Burial will follow in the Forest Hill Cemetery, Farmville.

Mrs. Kittrell, widow of Samuel H. Kittrell, was a long-time resident of Farmville and a member of the Farmville United Methodist Church.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. Roland L. Anderson of Spring Field, Va., Mrs. Scott Pearce of Fairfax, Va., Mrs. Bruce A. Budlong of Sterling Park, Va., and Mrs. James T. Beamon of Tallahassee, Fla.; three sons, James Howard Kittrell of Manassas Park, Va., Clarence Ray Kittrell of Vienna, Va., and Samuel A. Kittrell of Falls Church, Va.; 20 grandchildren.

Mann

Mrs. Laura Clarke Mann, 87, widow of Dr. T. A. Mann, died Monday night in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 3 p.m. at the St. George's Episcopal Church at Lake Landing by the Rev. Clem Jordan and burial will be in the church cemetery. The body will be at the Williamson Funeral Home in Swan Quarter.

A native of Washington, N. C., Mrs. Mann spent most of her married life in Englehard and had spent a part of her time in Greenville for the past few years with her daughter, Miss Camille Clarke. She was a member of St. George's Church.

Surviving her are two daughters, Miss Clarke and Mrs. Florence Clarke Swindell of Raleigh; a son, E. R. Clarke Sr. of Englehard; six grandchildren; and seven great grandchildren.

Offers Report On Recreation

"Our dog obedience class can be a somewhat hazardous duty," Recreation Director Boyd Lee commented in a report of highlights of recreation activities during April.

In his report Monday night to the meeting of commission members, Lee said "The first night the man from Raleigh, a professional dog trainer, worked here, he was bitten twice by a dog and had to be taken to the hospital for treatment. But he came back."

This class, according to Lee's report, is going well with 35 residents in Greenville signed up for the ten week course at a cost of $20 each.

Lee informed members that two tennis courts have been resurfaced and that because of the curing process it would be about another week before they could be used again. He also noted that lights for the two new courts would have to wait until the next budget year, after July 1, "because our money has run out."

The Easter Egg Hunt for the children of Greenville proved a real success. "About 770 kids took part in the hunt," Lee reported, "and 15,000 eggs were picked up by the kids in less than five minutes."

Softball leagues are in full swing again, with 14 teams from the Church Softball League in action, and ten teams from Burroughs-Wellcome in practice. The Burroughs-Wellcome teams use the field at Third Street School.

A final item on the report focused attention on the part played by the Recreation Commission maintenance team, who helped build the new Safety Town at Angas Fulfillioe School.

Activity attendance reports show that to date for 1971, a total of 65,862 persons have made use of Greenville Recreation facilities. In April, the South Greenville total was 4,647, and that of Elm Street, 8,964.

Kansas City Bids Farewell To Jinx As Baltimore Falls Again

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals have obviously said 23-aidoo to the Baltimore Orioles' jinx over them while the New York Mets caught up with Houston's Wade Blasingame just as he was about to count 10 and out.

After losing 23 straight games to the Orioles the last two years, Kansas City made it three out of four over Baltimore this season with a 4-1 victory Monday night behind the slugging of Amos Otis and Bruce Dal Canton's five-hit pitching.

The Mets had never beaten Blasingame and were in danger of dropping their 10th in a row to the Astros' left-hander until Bud Harrelson singled home two runs in the seventh inning for a 2-1 triumph.

Elsewhere on Monday's slim major league slate, San Francisco and Juan Marichal edged Cincinnati 3-2, Ferguson Jenkins hit the Chicago Cubs struck out 12 and became the National League's first six-game winner by blanking Philadelphia 3-0, St. Louis whipped Montreal 8-5 and Detroit downed California 5-2.

Dal Canton and loser Dave

McNally were locked in a scoreless battle with two out in the fifth inning when the Royals took a 1-0 lead on singles by Freddie Patek, Cookie Rojas and Otis, who earlier singled and doubled. Otis then homered in the seventh following Jerry May's double and a walk.

Baltimore's only run came in the eighth and was unearned when left fielder Carl Taylor dropped a two-out fly ball with a runner on second.

Manager Bob Lemon disclosed that Otis did his heavy hitting on an upset stomach.

Blasingame had protected a 1-0 lead on singles by Bob Watson and Denis Menke and a double play grounder from the second inning until the seventh when Jerry Grote, who broke up a no-hit bid in the fifth, lashed a one-out double.

Don Hahn got an infield hit and took second on Tommie Agee's tap in front of the plate, with Grote holding third. Harrelson then drilled his decisive hit to center field.

Marichal, who recorded his 2,000th career strikeout, held the Reds to one hit until the sixth when Pete Rose singled and Tony Perez homered. By that time, however, the Giants had all their runs with Willie Mays, Ken Henderson and Tito Fuentes getting the RBIs.

Jenkins fired a four-hitter at the Phillies, retiring 17 consecutive batters between singles by Larry Bowa in the third and eighth. Billy Williams doubled off Chris Short in the sixth, took third on Jim Hickman's single and scored the only run Jenkins needed on Joe Pepitone's grounder. In the eighth, Glenn Beckert singled and Hickman homered.

The Cardinals, who filled the bases with none out in the seventh inning of a tie game, pushed across five runs after reliever Mike Marshall picked up two outs. Marshall then walked Ted Sizemore and Dick Schofield, pitcher Jerry Reuss belted a ground-rule double and Lou Brock singled the final run across.

Joe Hague drove in the first three St. Louis runs with a pair of homers.

The Tigers jumped in front of the Angels 2-0 in a weird first inning that consisted of a single, walk, two errors and two wild pitches.

Jim Northrup singled with two out and raced to third on Andy Messersmith's wild pick-off attempt. Norm Cash walked and took second while Northrup scored on a wild pitch. When catcher John Stephenson's throw to the plate hit Northrup and rolled away Cash continued to third, scoring, on another wild pitch.

Dick McAuliffe homered in the fifth and the Tigers got two more in the sixth, the last run coming on a wild pitch by Mel Queen. Roger Repoz homered for California's first run.

R.C. Cola Beats Jaycees By 11-7

R.C. Cola tripped the Jaycees yesterday as the North State League opened the Little League season at Elm Street Park. The game opened the Twentieth Anniversary Season for the Greenville Little Leagues, which began operations in 1952.

The R.C. pushed ahead in the first inning, scoring three runs. Billy Ellington reached on an error and Dough Burbage singled to center, scoring him. Mike Brown doubled, and passed ball let Burbage score the second run. Brown scored on Ricky Bolonde doubled to score Ellington.

The Jaycees picked up its first run in the bottom of the second. Charles McLachorn doubled and took third on a passed ball. He scored on another.

In the fourth, R.C. added three more runs, running their lead out to 8-1, a margin which the Jaycee, players could not overcome. Bolonde singled and advanced on a wild pitch, coming around to score on passed balls. Charley Hayek and Bryant Morton both walked, and then too advanced around on passed balls, finishing off the scoring in the inning.

The Jaycees came up with a five-run rally in the bottom of the fourth. Bill Myers tripped and McLachorn was hit by a pitch. Danny Boyd doubled and drove in both runs. An error let him come when Billy Williams reached safely. Charles Phillips walked and Scott Creech reached on another error.

Phillips was cut down trying to score however. Kenneth Avery walked and Bill Collier reached on a fielder's choice. Jay Holt then singled to score Creech with the final run.

R.C. scored three more in the fifth, while the Jaycees came up with one in the sixth.

Moose Rally To Defeat Pepsi

The Moose rallied for five runs in the fifth inning yesterday to nip Pepsi-Cola, 9-8, in the opening game of the Tar Heel Little League at Guy Stadium.

Pepsi took the lead in the first inning, scoring three runs. MacDonald Avery walked and moved around to third on a pair of passed balls. Dana Kendrick then singled him home. A passed ball moved him by and Joey Cherry slapped a homer to make it 3-0.

The Moose came back with two in their half of the inning. John Lawler reached on an error and Henry Baker walked. Both advanced on a wild pitch, scoring on a double by Ross Hawkins.

In the second, the Moose tied it up with another run. Steve Lawler reached on an error and Danny Wood was hit by a pitch. Henry Baker singled, and Lawler came home, scoring on an error.

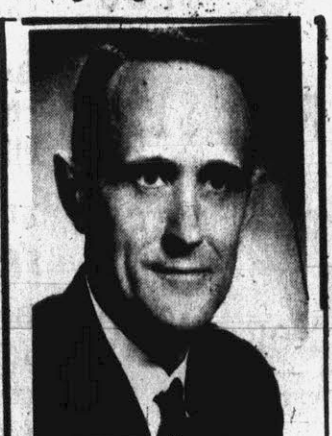

Rose Sets Banquet

Rose High School's All-Sports Banquet will be held Monday at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Athletes from all of the Rose High School athletic programs will be honored at the banquet. Interested people who would like to attend the banquet may purchase tickets to it, through Friday, at either Hodges Hardware Co., or at Biggs' Drug Store.

The Pepsi team went back ahead with two runs in the third. Kendrick reached on a fielder's choice and Mark Conway singled. Both moved up on an error, with Kendrick scoring. A passed ball then let Conway in. Pepsi ran its lead to 8-3 with three more in the fifth. Avery walked and moved to second on a passed ball. Michael Shank singled, and the two runners worked a double steal. Kendrick doubled in Shank, stole third and scored on a passed ball.

The Moose rallied for five in the bottom of the fifth to tie it up. Baker reached on a fielder's choice and William Brewington doubled him home. Hawkins singled and Brewington scored on a passed ball. Mickey Finn singled and an error let Hawkins score. A wild pitch then brought in Finn. Robin Little singled and scored on Wood's double with the tying run.

The Moose then won it with one in the sixth. Baker singled, moved up with Brewington was hit by a pitch, and scored when Hawkins' grounder was errored, winning the game.

CHAPEL HILL — East Carolina University's Pirates struck early, but they couldn't hold on, and the University of North Carolina rallied to snap an eight game losing streak last night, 7-5.

The loss broke a two-game Buc win string, and avenged an earlier Pirate win over the Tar Heels in Greenville. It dropped the Buc record to 11-18 for the year with three games left to play.

The Bucs got only three hits off freshman Carolina hurler Fred Gianiny. He struck out 14, but walked eight in going the distance. He was most effective with a sharp breaking curve.

The Pirates, however, tapped him for two runs in the top of the first inning to lead for the only time in the game.

Hal Baird led off the assault, reaching first on an error. Mike Aldridge then stepped in with his second straight homer in as many times at bat, crashing the ball over the fence in straight-away center, 400 feet from home. The blow was the seventh homer of the year for Aldridge, and it gave the Bucs a temporary 2-0 lead.

Just how temporary, the Pirates found out as Carolina came rushing back to score four runs in the bottom of the inning and take the lead for good.

Doug Lanham led off with a single to center, and Mike Roberts and Bobby Elliott both reached on infield hits, loading the bases. Ron Cox grounded to short, and the Bucs appeared to be setting up the double play, but the umpires ruled that Dick Corrada in taking the toss from Mike Bradshaw, didn't contact the bag, and all runners were safe, with both Lanham and Roberts streaking home to tie it at 2-2.

John Wilson then singled to left, scoring Elliott. Bobby Guthrie walked, and Jack Leachman got an infield hit, scoring Cox with the final run of the inning.

Carolina added two more runs in the second, boosting their lead to 6-2. Roberts walked and Elliott singled to center. Both advanced on an infield grounder, and Cox hit a sacrifice fly to score Roberts. Wilson singled to score Elliott with the second run.

The Tar Heels tacked on their final run in the fourth inning, running the lead out to 7-2. Roberts doubled to right center, and Elliott reached on an infield hit. Gillis grounded out without scoring Roberts, but he did come in when Cox grounded out.

The Pirates then tried to put together a rally in the top of the sixth, as they scored three runs to close the gap to 7-5, the final margin.

Aldridge and Larry Walters both walked to lead off the inning. Corrada singled to right, and when his ball got through the fielder, both Aldridge and Walters came in to score. Corrada went to third on the play. Rich McMahon then

The Buc rally died there, however, and the Pirates absorbed the loss.

The Pirates will be seeking to close out their home schedule with a victory this afternoon, as they play host to the Richmond Spiders. Game time for that is 3 p. m.

The Bucs then close out the year Saturday in Davidson, playing the Wildcats in a double header.

Whitley Inks Eagle Contract

George Whitley, East Carolina University's football co-captain for the 1970 season, signed a contract with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, yesterday.

Whitley will report with other rookies for camp on July 15.

A native of Huntersville, N.C., Whitley a 5-11, 180-pounder had an outstanding career for the Pirates as a defensive back. He will be continuing this position with the Eagles.

He was a starter for the Bucs for three years at the corner spot in the defensive backfield. He was also a return specialist for the Bucs, setting three season records last year. He returned 20 punts for 191 yards, and had 19 kickoff returns, all individual season records. He tied the single game record for most punts return, carrying back five against The Citadel.

This past season, he was an All-Southern choice on the team he helped lead to the top of the Southern in defense, and was twice Player of the Week.

Head football Coach Sonny Randle, who aided Whitley in getting the contract, said he felt Whitley has all the tools needed to be successful in the pros, despite his height.

BATTING — Amos Otis, Roy-

homer, a double and two singles, driving in all Kansas

City's runs in a 4-1 triumph over Baltimore.

Crowd Following Immanuel Team

Immanuel, which had dropped into a tie for first over the weekend, found itself back alone in first, but there was a crowd behind them after last night's Church Softball League games.

In the action, Oakmont downed Grace, 15-14; Black Jack beat Mt. Pleasant, and Piney Grove whipped Marantha, 7-0, in the National Division, while Belvoir rolled over First Christian, 21-6, in an American Division game.

In the National division, Immanuel leads with a 3-1 record, while Black Jack, Mt. Pleasant, Oakmont and Piney Grove are all 3-2. Grace is 2-3 and Marantha, 0-5.

Presbyterian and St. James lead the American Division with 4-0 records, followed by Belvoir, 4-1; Meadowbrook, 2-2; Christian, 1-4; and Trinity and St. Gabriel, both 0-4.

Grace took the lead in its game with two homers in the first, by Donald Hudson and Lindsay Hardee. Oakmont came back with three runs to take the lead.

In the second Grace got another homer by Robin Coggin to tie it up at 3-3, then the team added five more runs in the third to lead 8-3. Oakmont scored once in the third, but Grace picked up two more on another homer by Hardee. Oakmont scored three in the fifth and then charged into the lead with seven in the sixth. But Grace came back with four in the top of the seventh to tie it again, 14-14.

In the bottom of the seventh, however, Oakmont pushed over the winning run. Al Wood reached on an error and then scored on a triple by Phil Martin. Oakmont's rally had been helped by homers by Danny Singleton and Pete Carraway.

Black Jack got all it needed to hold the lead in the first inning scoring four runs to take the lead for good. Bill Carson singled and Hugh Hardee got a hit. Tal Adams homered to score three runs. Steve Peele singled and scored on a double by Randy Dixon for the fourth run.

Black Jack came on to add eight in the second, three in the third, on homers by J. T. Mills and Dixon; five in the fourth, two in the fifth, one in the sixth, as Mills homered again, and one in the seventh.

Mt. Pleasant scored two in the first on Willie Wallace's homer, then got one in the second and another in the fifth, the last a homer by William Nobles.

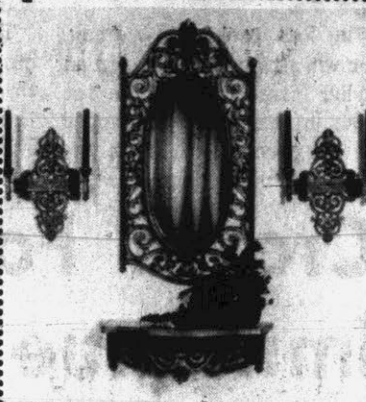

Piney Grove, getting a tight defense that didn't allow Marantha a run, scored twice in the first to get the win. Wayne Avery singled and moved up on William Nickels double. George

Seed Corn Labeling Bills Offered To Legislature

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation to set up strict regulations for the labeling of seed corn sold in North Carolina has been introduced in both houses of the General Assembly.

The bill to amend the state's Seed Law was introduced Monday night by Sen. Vernon White, D-Pitt, and Reps. Nancy Chase, D-Wayne, William Kemp, D-Wayne, and James Speed, D-Franklin.

It would set up a five-member investigation committee to study alleged violations of labeling regulations.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham was recently called upon to revoke the license of a Fuquay-Varina seed firm charged with selling seed corn under false labels. Under the bill, an investigative committee would be appointed by the commissioner to look into such allegations and make recommendations to him.

Nancy Reagan Now Embittered

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's wife, embittered by political attacks on her husband, says she hopes he will quit politics after this term as governor.

"I don't think I'd be for it," Nancy Reagan said when asked if she would want her 60-year-old Republican husband to run for office again.

"I would hope that he would not," the former movie starlet said in a television interview Monday.

The governor has hinted he might run for the U.S. Senate in 1974 but has said he would not seek a third four-year term as governor when his current term expires then.

Mrs. Reagan, 46, said she was cautioned by friends before Reagan ran for governor in 1966 that "politics is such a dirty field, it's just dirty and don't get into this."

Mike Boyd of Sacramento's KCRA television and radio asked her if she has found this to be the case.

"Yes. Yes, I have," she replied. "Unfortunately, because I've always believed that

In other action Monday night, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill by Rep. J. Olie Harris, D-Cleveland, which would add certain mind-impairing drugs to the provisions of the law that now prohibit driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or narcotic drugs.

The House reversed itself and voted to send back to committee legislation by Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake, to authorize the Board of Social Services to reallocate funds to meet any change made in federal welfare programs during the coming biennium. The bill received tentative House approval Friday.

But Rep. Speed High, D-Cumberland, said the bill's language was vague and the bill might allow the board to shift its funds in any way it saw fit as soon as the General Assembly left town. The House passed on a voice vote his motion to refer the bill to the committee on State Government for further study.

Bills introduced in both houses would allow insurance rate decisions made by the Commissioner of Insurance to be appealed directly to the Court of Appeals instead of to the Superior Court. The legislation was recommended by a study commission on auto liability insurance.

Reps. William Fulton, R-Burke, and Dan Lilley, D-Leonoir, and Sen. Bobby Combs, D-

Catawba, sponsored bills to replace the limited driving permits which judges can give to persons convicted of a first offense of drunken driving with probationary driving licenses issued at the discretion of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Sen. Gordon Allen, D-Person, introduced three bills that would authorize the University of North Carolina to issue up to $13 million in revenue bonds for telephone, electric, water supply and treatment system development.

Rose High Band Offers Spring Concert Thursday

SAXOPHONIST . . . James Houlik, standing, (left) practices with the Rose High School band for his solo work on Thursday night's spring concert at the high school.

The second of Rose High School's spring concerts is to be held at Rose High School, Thursday night, at 8:00 p. m.

The J. H. Rose High School Concert Band, under the direction of conductors James Rodgers and Johnny Wooten, will feature the appearance of saxophonist James Houlik of the School of Music faculty, East Carolina University. Houlik will play the "Suite for Tenor Saxophone" by Richard Lane. Lane is now a free-lance composer and private teacher of composition living in New Jersey.

Selections scheduled to be played by the band in their annual spring concert includes Stewart's "March Junco," "Incantation and Dance," by Chance; a selection from "Italian In Algiers" by Rossini; and Richards' "Emblem of Unity."

The Percussion Ensemble, consisting of seven players of the band, will present three Thomas Davis compositions — "Latin Resume," "Flat Baroque," and "Oriental Mambo."

Five members of the Woodwind Quintet will play Debussy's "Arabesque No. 1." The program will conclude with "Front and Center" arranged by Warrington; Jenkins' "American Overture For Band," and "Giovanni's 'Overture in B Flat'."

Admission to the concert is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students and children. Tickets for the Rose High Band concert may be obtained at the door prior to the concert.

Six Die From 3-Truck Crash

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The brakes on a van-type truck apparently jammed causing a three-truck collision Monday in which six persons were killed

Two Injured In Accidents

Two persons were reported injured here yesterday in one of two collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Officers reported Mrs. Emma Roebuck Tripp of 158 West Gum Rd. and a passenger in her car were injured when the vehicle collided with a car driven by Francis Norman Strawn of 204 Warren St. about 1 p. m. at the intersection of 10th and Charles Streets.

Police estimated damage to the Strawn car at $500 and placed damage to the Tripp auto at $300.

Mrs. Tripp was charged with failing to stop for a stop signal.

Jennifer Hoard Hodges, 26, of 201 North Elm St., was charged with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 2:29 p. m. mishap on fifth Street 100 feet West of the Ford Street intersection.

According to investigators, the Hodges car collided with a vehicle driven by Viola Smiley of 306 West Fifth St. causing an estimated $400 damage to the Smiley auto and about $350 damage to the Hodges car.

Students Attack Litter Problem

Students of the Seventh-Day Adventist Elementary School in Greenville are doing their part in making Greenville a clean and beautiful place to live.

G. R. Rickaby, principal of the private school, announced that students of the school in grades five through eight were taking part in a project today to pick up paper, cans and bottles in the ditches of the Greenville area.

The young students are using for their slogan, the admonition, "Don't Be A Litterbug."

Criticizes Rate Boost Tactics

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan said Monday that newspapers are not the place to determine rate increases for utilities.

And Morgan, speaking at Appalachian State University Monday, advised Duke Power Co. in particular to take its fight for higher rates out of state politics.

Morgan vowed to make the voice of consumers heard just as loudly as those of special interest groups such as utilities.

English Class Presents Play

AYDEN — The fourth period senior English class at South Ayden School will present "The Winners," a two-act play Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the school.

The play is about a young man, played by Roscoe Garrius, who is taking and pushing drugs and is anxious to drop out of school. His mother, Eihelene Dixon, and sister, Deborah Hooks, and a social worker at the community center, James Prayer, try to get Roscoe to stay in school and change his way of life.

Tickets are 25 cents for students, 50 cents for adults and $1 for patrons. The play will be presented in the South Ayden School gym.

Tickets may be purchased from the students or at the door.

Police Chief Is Suspended

MOUNT HOLLY, N.C. (AP) — The police chief of the Gaston town of Mount Holly was suspended Monday night following his arrest on a charge of occupying a motel room for immoral purposes.

The suspension by the city council came before a standing-room crowd of about 75 residents of the small town near Charlotte.

Chief William B. Crider was arrested Sunday morning at a Charlotte area motel along with a waitress.

Crider's suspension came after the Mount Holly Jaycees presented two resolutions to the City Council supporting Crider. One resolution was in the form of a petition that stated the Jaycees' confidence in Crider. The petition bore the signatures of about 55 persons after it was circulated in the council chamber just prior to the meeting.

Mount Holly Mayor Ray Broome said he would appoint an investigating committee to seek facts behind the arrest. A woman in the audience at Monday night's meeting blurted out that the mayor shouldn't appoint anyone "that framed" Crider.

An Equal Opportunity Company

Cheaper in the long run.

Gas will never cost you much. (You'll get up to 27 miles to the gallon.)

And the amount of oil you use is like a drop in the bucket. (It only takes 2.7 quarts and almost never needs more between changes.)

And the engine is air-cooled, so you don't have to spend a red cent for antifreeze or rust inhibitors.

And you get more than your money's worth out of a set of tires.

But don't think buying a new Volkswagen is just another get-rich-quick scheme.

You have to wait until the second set of tires wear out.
