Set Self Afire, Dies

STATESVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A 67-year-old retired industrialist who had suffered a stroke recently poured gasoline over himself and burned to death Tuesday, police said.

He was William T. Smith, former president of a company which is now the Hetrick Manufacturing Co., which makes tents, sleeping bags and other camping equipment.

Police Detective Sgt. D. Z. Brown said Smith set himself afire in the back yard of his home in a fashionable neighborhood.

Coroner Irwin Scherer of Iredell County ruled the death a suicide.

Brown said Smith's wife and daughter, who were in the house at the time, told him Smith was in poor spirits because of the light stroke.

The detective gave this account:

Smith poured gasoline over himself, set it ablaze, and walked to the patio. He sat for a moment in a lounge chair in flames, and then walked back to the grass and dropped to the ground.

The police received a call from a neighbor that someone was burning in the yard. They sent an ambulance and patrol car.

Smith was pronounced dead at a hospital.

NEW COUNCIL MEMBERS . . . John Taylor, Jerry Sutherland, Percy Cox, Clarence Gray, Johnnie Edwards and Dr. Frank Fuller are sworn in by Judge J. W. H. Roberts this morning. Mayor Eugene West is seated.

New Bernstein Benefit

NEW YORK (AP) — Conductor Leonard Bernstein and his wife, who drew criticism last year for their benefit on behalf of a Black Panther group, have given another fundraising party, this one in support of the Rev. Philip F. Berigan and five codefendants.

The Monday night party reportedly raised $35,000 for Berigan and the others who are charged with conspiring to kidnap presidential aide Henry A.

Kissinger and blow up heating systems in federal buildings in Washington.

The party was closed to the news media, according to Charlotte Curtis who reported the event in today's New York Times.

Miss Curtis said the Bernsteins hoped the party would not be publicized like the one they gave for the Panthers Legal Defense Fund.

Can't Avoid N.Y. Tax

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 300,000 New Yorkers who thought they were getting a bargain by buying cigarettes from North Carolina mail order uses may soon be presented with a $1.5 million bill for uncollected taxes.

Two shopping carts loaded with the mailing lists of two such firms were wheeled into the office of the State Tax Commission Tuesday.

The lists were subpoenaed from the Weldon Cigarettes, Inc., and Angelica Co., Inc., of Weldon, N.C.

The two firms pleaded guilty last March to violating the federal law requiring them to file the names and addresses with tax officials so the appropriate taxes can be collected.

The delinquent state tax is $1.20 per carton and the city tax is 40 cents. Penalty for late payment is 80 cents, bringing the total to $2.40 per carton.

Most of the New York customers bought two cartons for $6.50, or about $1.50 under the lowest price here.

"The New York State taxing authorities have indicated that the state and city will join in a cooperative effort to collect the taxes due from New York City residents," the U.S. Attorney's office said in a statement.

Most Blame The U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Most European money men blamed the United States for the current monetary crisis in Europe today, charging that Europe is now having to pay the price for the "dollar sickness" and "mounting isolationism" in America.

There were warnings of worse to come unless Washington pulled its balance of payments out of the red.

One Austrian newspaper declared: "The Western currency systems in their current form can only recover if either the United States takes care of its balance of payments or a worldwide balancing of all currencies takes place."

West Germany, one of the loudest accusers of the United States for the current crisis, also came in for some criticism from its European partners for its monetary policies.

It was West Germany's decision Sunday to float the mark that triggered the wave of anxiety throughout Europe.

Israeli Enter Lebanon

BEIRUT (AP) — An Israeli force crossed the Lebanese border Tuesday morning and bulldozed a road for military operations some 500 yards inside Lebanon, the Beirut newspaper Al Liwaa reported today.

The report said Israeli army engineers cut the road near Ramia Village in a three-hour operation as a link with other dirt roads the Israelis have built inside Lebanon since the 1967 war. The Israelis cross the border periodically and use the roads to search for Palestine guerrillas.

Al Liwaa said that while the engineers worked, a 12-man patrol, two halftracks and two helicopters guarded the operation. The soldiers set up roadblocks and searched passersby, then pulled back under cover of intensive machine-gun fire directed at nearby villages, the reports said.

No casualties were reported.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 13,000-member signalmen's union will continue preliminary talks today in a government-mediated effort to head off a nationwide rail strike planned for next week.

At the start of the talks yesterday, president C.J. Chamberlain of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen and railroad industry negotiators met separately with National Mediation Board officials and Labor Department mediators behind closed doors at NMB headquarters. No progress was reported.

Speight explained that the last session of the legislature approved the establishment of vocational rehabilitation centers across the State. Three such centers are located in western North Carolina and two have been proposed for eastern North Carolina—one at Sanford and one at Greenville.

If the state fails to act before July 1, a total of $1,143,000 in federal funds earmarked for the project now may be lost.

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday approved a resolution committing the county's portion of the cost of the project (15 percent).

The federal grant would fund 61 percent of the project and 24 percent is being sought from the State.

City councilmen approved the resolution and offered their support in seeking the funds for the center.

GUCO Director Charles Horne said he had talked to Vepco officials about electric supplies for the summer and they say they will have reserves of six to eight percent.

Horne told Utilities commissioners last night that Vepco feels this will be adequate barring unforeseen problems.

Commissioners approved a low bid of $9,688 from Statsco Service Co. for coating and servicing an elevated water tank. Horne said one tank, on Chestnut Street, will be serviced this fiscal year, while a second, on Washington Street, will be serviced in the next fiscal budget.

Quake In Turkey

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — At least 58 persons were killed and hundreds injured this morning in a powerful earthquake that struck the town of Burdur and surrounding villages in southern Turkey.

The governor of Burdur Province, Esref Ayhan, said 18 deaths had been confirmed in Burdur and 20 each in two nearby villages.

He said 70 per cent of the buildings in Burdur, a town of 30,000 people, had been destroyed. Ayhan also had reports of entire villages collapsing in outlying areas which had not been contacted yet.

Instanbul's Kandilli Observatory registered the quake at 8 on the Richter scale, signifying it was of great violence. The Los Angeles quake in February registered between 6 and 6.5.

Housing Minister Sellahattin Baburoglu dispatched relief supplies and a mobile hospital to the city 225 miles southwest of Ankara.

Ayhan said the local hospitals were cleared of noncritical patients and were rapidly filling with injured from the quake.

Tavern Bill Held Emergency Law

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The Oregon Legislature has approved a bill to allow singing and piano playing in taverns.

The bill has an emergency clause saying: "This act being necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety" an emergency is declared to exist and this act takes effect immediately upon passage.

Work Begun

Rep. Horton Rountree, D-Pitt, said this morning in Raleigh that work has begun on a bill to be introduced to implement the one-year medical program at East Carolina University.

Rountree said that there are several aspects to be considered in the bill including the building situation and others and, as of now, it is hard to tell exactly what the bill will contain.

The representative noted that the bill should begin to take shape by the first of the week.

LBJ Recalls Kosygin On Hot Line Warned Of Possible Confrontation

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson says Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin used the hot line during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war to warn that Moscow was prepared to take military action if necessary.

The warning came on the morning of June 10 after the forces of Soviet-supported President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and other Arab armies had suffered extensive defeats.

equipment."

In that message, "Kosygin said that they had reached a very crucial decision, that they were prepared to do what was necessary including using the military," Johnson recalled.

"He (Kosygin) mentioned the words 'grave catastrophe.' He mentioned the words 'independent decision.' He mentioned the word 'military,'" Johnson said.

"When the leader of another state talks about a very crucial moment, foresees the risk of a 'grave catastrophe,' and he states that unless Israel unconditionally halts operations within the next few hours that the Soviet Union will take necessary, 'necessary actions including military,' this is pretty serious business," Johnson said.

Johnson said he asked Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara the location of the 6th Fleet. He was told it was 300 miles off Syria and under orders to stay at least 100 miles from the coast.

"I then said to Secretary McNamara, 'Let's modify the fleet's orders. Let's change it from 100 miles off the Syrian coast to 50 miles off the Syrian coast,'" Johnson continued.

"Every man in that room knew and all the leaders of the Soviet Union knew that every movement of that fleet was being monitored by the Soviet Union; and any changes in its direction would immediately be intercepted by the Soviet Union and be known to them," he said.

"That was the signal."

Johnson said he responded by ordering the U.S. 6th Fleet closer to the Syrian coast as a "signal that the United States of America and its government was prepared for the situation that would confront it if it were confronted."

"This was a very tense moment," Johnson recalled during an interview filmed in Austin, Tex., for the CBS-TV "60 Minutes" program shown Tuesday night. The tension eased later the same day when a cease-fire was reached.

The Kosygin message was not the first time the hot line was used during the 1967 war. Qualified U.S. officials reported at the time that Kosygin first messaged Johnson on June 5, the morning the fighting broke out.

Kosygin suggested on June 5 that the United States and the Soviet Union work together to ensure peace and said the Soviet Union did not want war in the Middle East, according to reports at the time.

Johnson said in the television interview that he received word on the morning of the 10th "that Mr. Kosygin desires the President to come to the

Gold Prices Pushed To Eighteen-Month High

LONDON (AP) — Increasing demand for gold amid general monetary uncertainty drove the price of the yellow metal to its highest level in 18 months today in European free bullion markets.

The price jump came as the Belgian National Bank announced it had cashed in $80 million for Ft. Knox gold. The bank said its internal policy barred taking in more dollars to add to its already swollen reserves of American money.

The Belgian move, coming on the heels of last week's dollar crisis, could embarrass the U.S.

government. Any concerted move by other European national banks to follow Belgium in cashing in dollars for gold could undermine the world monetary system.

The U.S. gold reserves stood at $10.9 billion at the end of March, $1 billion less than a year before. The United States has enough gold in stock at Ft. Knox to redeem less than one-third of the dollars held by foreign central banks.

The monetary system is based on President Franklin's D. Roosevelt's 1934 declaration that the United States would buy or sell gold at the rate of $35 an ounce. That pegged the dollar to gold at the $35 rate and other currencies fixed value of their currencies in relation to the dollar.

Policeman Couldn't Turn His Back On Stranded Family Of Five

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Richard W. Barrow just couldn't turn his back on the penniless family of five stranded and sleeping in their car. So the Norfolk policeman took them home with him.

It was nearly two weeks ago that Barrow tapped on the window of the car and discovered the Massachusetts man, his wife and their three children, aged 6 years, 4 years and 16 months.

"They didn't have a penny," Barrow said, "all they had was the clothes on their backs. The kids hadn't eaten for a day. I just couldn't stand to see those kids laying there in that car."

So Barrow called his wife and invited the family to his home. They've been there since then.

Barrow's generosity came to light Tuesday when his superiors in the police department commended him for action "above and beyond the call of duty" in helping the family, whose identity was not revealed.

"He told me he had been in the restaurant business in Cape Cod and lost all he had," Barrow said. Before that, Barrow said, the man had been employed as an automobile body repairman and it was the promise of such a job that had brought the family to Norfolk.

But the job didn't materialize and the family was stranded.

"They are proud people," Barrow said. "They were nervous and upset over coming to stay with us. This was a family that had a good life and all of a sudden they found themselves down and out."

The family prospects have brightened since they moved into Barrow's home.

Barrow found the man a job with a local body shop. But the man's tools had been stolen in Massachusetts. Barrow went out and bought them new ones.

The man went to work and Barrow's fellow officers at the city's 1st Precinct chipped in with some financial support. At last, the family found an apartment

Vultures Too Full To Fly

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Dacca, East Pakistan (AP) — Vultures too full to fly perch along the Ganges River in grim contentment. They have fed on perhaps more than a half million bodies since March.

Civil war flamed through Pakistan's eastern wing on March 25, pushing the bankrupt nation to the edge of ruin. The killing and devastation defy belief.

Estimates of total dead start at six figures and range to over a million.

Reporters were banned from East Pakistan from March 26, when 40 newsmen were bundled out and stripped of their notes and film, until the government escorted in a party of six on a conducted tour May 6-11.

From visible evidence and eyewitnesses questioned out of official earshot, the following account emerged:

Throughout March, Sheikh Mujibur Rahman's Bengali-dominated Awami League harassed the military government with a non-cooperation campaign demanding autonomy and more benefits from West Pakistan.

Bengalis killed some West Pakistanis in flurries of chauvinism.

Mujib's party had won a majority in the National Assembly elections and he was Pakistan's major political figure. But negotiations in Dacca with President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan broke down, and Yahya flew back to West Pakistan March 25. That night the army reared out of its barracks, and East Pakistan was aflame.

Apparently reliable accounts, projected from body counts at mass graves, say about 10,000 persons were shot to death or burned to death the first few nights in Dacca.

Official spokesmen contended that the army went into action to stop a rebellion planned for 3 o'clock the next morning. They insisted that the army killed no one but those who fired at the soldiers.

But other officers said the rebellion plot was only an assumption.

Eyewitnesses said at least hundreds of victims were women and thousands were unarmed civilians, gunned down indiscriminately.

Europeans likened the damage to that of the hardest hit theaters of World War II.

The first week in April, when the army turned its attention to the city, occupation was swift. Mortars and heavy guns pounded the three-block market of two-story brick buildings to rubble.

As the army regained control across the province, embittered non-Bengali civilians took their own revenge, adding many more deaths to the toll.

In some towns are gaping, charred areas which foreign observers say were caused when the army dropped containers of gasoline from the air and set them afire with tracer rounds.

Security is tense in some areas, mostly along the Indian border, where remnants of the "Liberation Force" hide out. But little serious threat remains, even of guerrilla activity.

Author Believes In 'Couples' Good Life'

By JEANNE LESEM, UPI Food Editor, NEW YORK (UPI)—Jean Kinney, an author, lecturer and former advertising executive, is an evangelist for the good life a couple can have after their grown children leave home.

Jewelers Follow '4Cs' When Showing Diamonds

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most girls would rather have their swains select the diamond ring that makes them engaged. Most girls would like to be surprised. But, says the Jewelry Industry Council, most husbands-to-be consider this too risky. As a result, most engagement rings are chosen by the couple together.

An element of mystery may be added if the man goes to the jeweler first and selects an assortment of engagement rings that he thinks his fiancée would like. This also is a way for him to make sure that the favored diamond will be within his price range and that she won't be needlessly disappointed.

The jeweler will point out the merits and differences of the diamonds he is showing. These elements determine price and

That includes cooking for two, after years of cooking for a larger family.

"It's nothing like being a bride," she said in an interview here. "Cooking is second nature to you now. You know what your husband likes and you know the right combinations of food. You know what to do when directions say 'cook until done.'"

"Cooking is faster and easier—you're not proving anything any more."

Relax and enjoy this and other new-found freedoms, Mrs. Kinney urged. Many of her suggestions for travel, hobbies and meeting new people are described in her recently-published book, "Living With Zest in an Empty Nest" (Hawthorn).

A woman whose children have left home eats and cooks in a different way, she said.

"When a wife isn't working, there's no reason to get up to fix breakfast. I doubt if many men eat big breakfasts during the week."

Even when a couple breakfasts together on weekends, there's no pushing at children to eat.

"We're awfully health-conscious," she said. "It's the time of life you like so well you'd like the long haul.

"I've learned how to do things easily. I do lots of casseroles and serve a salad with them—green or sometimes fruit.

"You can buy small packages of almost everything, so you don't have to eat leftovers at all. Sometimes I make individual meat loaves and freeze the extra ones.

"Now I skip the baked potato because there's bread in the meat loaf."

She said she adds extra nourishment to cereals by sprinkling them with dry milk instead of sugar and serving low-calorie non-dairy creamer instead of cream.

Mrs. Kinney and her husband, Cle, an artist, have six grown children. She had two by a former marriage and he had four. Three were in college when the parents married 10 years ago. When the children graduated, the parents had the equivalent of a giant raise—about $8,000 a year they'd been spending on college expenses.

Mrs. Kinney suggested that windfalls such as this can be put to many uses, including remodeling one's home to make it more comfortable when grown children and the grandchildren come to visit.

"When a child leaves, you have extra bedrooms. You can make a kitchen in a closet for very little. You can make one bedroom into a sitting room with a daybed, refrigerator, hotplate, electric percolator and toaster, and keep the other bedroom for the grandchildren.

"Children eat all the time—they're animated sacks, food just drops in."

Mrs. Kinney said she copes with these apparently insatiable appetites by stocking the extra refrigerator with lots of fruit, milk and soft drinks for the grandchildren and breakfast things for the parents. One advantage of this practice: the grandchildren have their own little place and are not underfoot when you're trying to get dinner.

Jean Kinney's meat loaf make eight individual servings.

She Can't Lick Stamp Problem

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I see a lot of your readers are "sports widows." That's rough. But until a woman has become a "stamp widow," she doesn't know what misery is. Sports are seasonal and there is a limit to the amount of time and money they take, but a stamp collector is something else.

We have stamp albums, stamp literature and stamp hinges all over the place. Also, cigar boxes filled with loose stamps. He corresponds with stamp collecting pen pals all over the world, and he reads their boring letters to me.

I didn't know he was a stamp collector until after I married him. Then it turns out he's been collecting stamps since he was 8 years old. Not only does he collect stamps, he buys collections from other collectors. It's like a disease. How can I stamp out stamps?

—STAMPEDED

DEAR STAMPEDED: Why try to stamp out stamps? It's the only hobby you can lick!

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if the day before your birthday your husband said to you, "Honey, do me a favor and go buy yourself a birthday gift and a card to go with it. I'll give you the money for it."

I told him I really didn't need anything, so I said, "Why don't you just pick up some roses for me?" Then he said, "Aw, heck, they don't last, and you know the price of roses nowadays."

So, Abby, I didn't buy myself anything, and he didn't get me anything either. And to top it off, he didn't even wish me a happy birthday. So what would you do next birthday?

—PUZZLED BUT HAPPY

DEAR PUZZLED: I am glad you are also "Happy," because there is no way of injecting "sentiment" into a spouse who is utterly devoid of it. You could try to make him understand how delighted you'd be with just a card of his own choosing, but if you have to hit him over the head to remind him to "remember" you—forget it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband made sure I didn't miss your column about the wife who is constantly mistaken for hubby's mother. That's our situation.

I wish I could get together with the woman who wrote it. We could have a good cry together. I, too, am fat and gray. I have had 10 children in 14 years, so it's no wonder I have aged so. My husband never believed in birth control. He also never believed in giving me any help once they were brought into the world. He thinks that because he supports them (financially) his duty is done.

I have known for a long time that my husband is ashamed of the way I look. We hardly ever socialize. I do get an occasional invitation to the movies, but if they ever devise a way of showing movies with the house lights on, I'm a dead duck.

I keep a clean house, am a competent mother, and I work part-time to supplement our income. (With 12 at dinner every night, I have to.) I also have a sense of humor. How else would I have survived?

Nutrition Experts Work To Show Canadians How To Eat Better

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

Nutrition authorities in the province of Saskatchewan have brought out a booklet endeavoring to show Canadians how to eat better for less money. This is one of the few countries where one can still bring off such a feat.

Economy recipes can be intriguing coming from a land where wild rice—that luxury showpiece of U.S. gourmet shops—grows in profusion along creeks, and elk steaks are within reach of anyone who can shoot straight.

Game is a major item on the menu of many Canadians whose woods and fields abound with moose, deer, bear, beaver, muskrat and a host of other fauna. Fish also abound along both coasts and in the streams and rushing rivers of this vast land, famed for its trout, salmon and a variety of finny delicacies.

So do wild vegetables, from the watercress that lurks at the edge of brooks, ferns that match our finest spinach for taste and, of course, the wild rice.

And there are berries galore, from the tiny saskatoons that resemble blueberries to the yellow cloudberry found in the Yukon.

There is not only a broad range of foods but a wide variety of cookery in this country where the people of British Columbia follow the customs of their English forebears and the

Mix And Match Legware For Total Fashion Look

By AP NEWSFEATURES

In today's fashion scene, your wardrobe can be as varied as your whims. And for each new look there's the right kind of legwear.

According to a major stocking manufacturer, the fabric sets the mood. For example, a simple little shirtdress looks quite different in a slinky, shiny fabric than it does in denim.

In the same way, bold or exotic prints project a different air from thick, mubby tweeds. The function of hosiery is to be part of that mood, whatever it may be.

Here's how to add a touch of excitement or subtle flattery with contrasting or complementary legwear:

For slinky, shiny fabrics, your best bet in stockings or pantyhose are sheer colors, glitter and shiny yarns.

Lightweight fabrics such as matte jerseys or crepes should be paired with a matching matte look in sheer or semi-opaque hose in delicate textures.

Thick knots go best with opaques, either in color or neutral shades, or with classic knee-highs in ribs, cables, argyles, semi-opaques and heathers.

Ultra-thin sheer fabrics such as voiles, chiffons and georgettes demand pale colors or darkly neutral hose with lacy looks and sheer textures.

New prints, with their accent on graphics, geometrics and oriental themes, call for sheer or semi-opaques in a pickup or matching ground color.

For the understated look of rustic fabrics—denim, canvas, poplin or corduroy—try a mix 'n match effect with complementary or contrasting opaques, heathers, classic patterns and knee-highs.

Remember, also. Each item of hosiery is an investment in fashion. To protect that investment, follow these wash and wear tips:

Pay careful attention to size instructions on each package. Most packages now carry a height weight chart.

Don't read just the fabric if you can't get a right fit. Slip the pantyhose back to your ankles and start over. If they were too long, don't pull quite so hard on the second try. If they were too short, stretch the fabric a bit more firmly as you work it over the thigh.

Always compensate for the fragility of ultra-sheer nylons by guarding against rough hands or nails when putting hosiery on. Never leave stockings on top of the bureau or carelessly subject them to contact with jewelry, car keys or other sharp objects.

Worthington-Hardison Vows Solemnized

FARMVILLE — The First Baptist Church here was the setting for the marriage of Miss Eleanor Cherry Hardison and Thomas Stamey Worthington Jr. on Sunday, May 2, at 4:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Marion D. Lark. Music for the ceremony was presented by Miss Pat Holloman of Greenville, organist, and Miss Kathryn Finklea of Farmville, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Ben Hardison Sr. of Farmville and Mr. and Mrs. Worthington Sr. of Willow Green.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length white satin organza gown styled with a high neckline and demi-bell A-line skirt. The high collar was banded in Venice lace. A deep panel of Venice lace and appliques of chantilly encrusted with pearls extended down the empire bodice and gown front. The full bishop sleeves also featured the lace appliques and pearls. The detachable chapel train was enhanced with lace.

She wore a bouffant veil of illusion attached to a tiara headpiece of organza loops trimmed with lace and pearls. Her cascade bouquet featured white French carnations, a white orchid and satin streamers.

Mrs. Larry Adams of Emporia, Va., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. John Ben Hardison Jr. of Bethel, sister-in-law of the bride, Miss Diane Speight of Farmville, Miss Frankie Gerard of Washington, Miss Nancy Howell of Arlington and Miss Linda Avery of Winterville.

Honorary bridesmaids were Miss Vivian Speight of Farmville and Miss Vickie Lemonds of Asheboro.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were John Ben Hardison Jr. of Bethel, brother of the bride, Johnny Briley of Farmville, Frank Bradham of Norfolk, Va., Edward Dail of Winterville, Jeff Beppard of Maury and Dick Thurston of Salisbury.

For a wedding trip, the bride changed into a white polyester dress with a navy blue and white stripe sleeveless coat and wore the orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will reside in Farmville.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is teaching in the Greene County Schools. Her husband attended Carolina Military Academy and Lenoir Community College. He is employed at Coastal Growers Nursery.

Mrs. Cedric Davis and Mrs. Marvin Speight directed the ceremony.

Reception

The parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Batchelor of Farmville greeted the guests in the entrance hall. Also receiving in the hall were Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Carr of Farmville, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, introduced the receiving line composed of the couple, their parents and the wedding party.

Mrs. John M. Wilkinson of Farmville, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Frank Bradham of Norfolk, Va., cousin of the bridegroom, served cake. Assisting in pouring punch were Mrs. Roscoe Gaylord of Plymouth and Mrs. J. B. Whitehurst of Portsmouth, Va., aunts of the bride, and Miss Karen Whitehurst of Portsmouth, Va.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. G. D. Hathaway Sr., Mrs. Chester Outland Sr., Mrs. Billy Marston, Mrs. Herbert Moye and Miss Pat Moore and Miss Mary George Davis.

Guests were invited to register by Mr. and Mrs. Ben B. Daniels of Plymouth, aunt and uncle of the bride, and good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hathaway Jr. of Farmville, cousins of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Stamey Worthington, parents of the bridegroom-elect, entertained at an after-rehearsal party at the Shamrock honoring the Worthington-Hardison wedding party.

EASY SPOON BREAD

The cornmeal is not pre-cooked.

2 cups waterground white cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups boiling water
1/2 of a 1/4-pound stick butter, cut up
1 1/2 cups milk
3 large eggs, separated

In a medium mixing bowl stir together cornmeal, salt, water and butter until butter melts. Add milk; beat with a spoon or whisk until smooth. In a small mixing bowl beat egg whites until stiff. Without washing beater in another small bowl beat egg yolks slightly; gradually stir into cornmeal mixture. Fold in whites; disregard small patches of white that do not fold in. Turn into a buttered 3-quart round straight-side souffle dish (about 8 by 3 inches) or similar utensil; bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until puffed and brown—1 hour. Serve at once or spoon bread will fall. Pass butter. Makes 6 to 8 servings. Leftover spoon bread may be reheated in a double boiler over boiling water.

Surest Chance For ECU Goal

It is disappointing to ECU officials and supporters to have to forego the very sound plans for a two-year medical school and instead seek the one-year program.

Nevertheless, the decision has been made and everyone concerned should make every effort to see that a strong one year program, in cooperation with UNC at Chapel Hill, is established.

The ECU board of trustees agreed to the one-year program after Gov. Scott wrote to say that this was the "most feasible course of action to eventually establish a four year medical school at East Carolina University."

N.C. Assembly Is On Schedule

By BRYAN HAINSLIP
 RALEIGH — Old '71, the legislative locomotive, is on schedule and rounding the curve into the final run home.

House Speaker Philip P. Godwin, who keeps a hand on the throttle, looks for it to pull into the station of final adjournment seven weeks from now or around June 30.

"We got off to a faster start. The local sales tax issue, brought up by the State Supreme Court decision and completely unexpected to us, slowed us down but now we have made up that time," Godwin said of the General Assembly entering its fifth month.

Already passed are decisions on such issues as Congressional redistricting, abolition of capital punishment, liberalized abortion, a presidential primary, and liquor-by-the-drink.

Still to come are legislative redistricting, spending and taxes, auto liability insurance, state government reorganization, and environmental legislation.

Caution Light Ahead

Godwin is watching the rails to guard against anything that might sidetrack the session into divisive, drawn-out debate.

"I'm opposed to panic legislation," the Gates County Representative said. "I think it is a mistake to take up major proposals when members cannot give them as thorough study as they should have."

Specifically, Godwin does not think the current legislature should act on far-reaching changes in the state's structure of higher education. The preferable route, he said, would be for study of the subject to continue with decision up to the next General Assembly when a new Governor will be starting his administration.

"I would hate to see something as important as this brought before the legislature so far into the session," he said. "You know, when adjournment is in sight the boys begin to vote to go home, instead of voting on the merits of the issue."

Money Sets The Pace

Progress on money bills is the key to adjournment; once spending and tax legislation is wrapped up, other matters tend to fall into place.

This week should be significant for the Appropriations Committee, Speaker Godwin said. Revenue Commissioner Ivie Clayton will report on revised revenue estimates for the coming biennium. "After the committee gets these figures, it will know where it can go in handling requests," he explained.

Part of the painful budget process is saying "No." As it looks to Godwin, one of the negative responses will be to the purchase of Bald Head Island as recommended by Governor Bob Scott. "I just don't see that much extra cash right now," he observed.

The money squeeze, joined to a no-new-taxes mood, will prevail upon lawmakers to maintain present taxes on the books, including the tax on soft drinks, in the House Speaker's opinion.

Another major issue which should move along this week is House redistricting on the basis of the 1970 census. A bill worked out in committee will reach the floor for debate and decision.

A Swinging Speaker Godwin swings with vigor into his job as House presiding officer. In fact, he's busted a couple of gavels so far.

"I enjoy it," he said candidly. "There is a real satisfaction in facing the responsibilities of this office, and working with members to keep the General Assembly moving."

The Speakership is an honor crowning his sixth term in the House. It also brings him to a political crossroads.

Godwin doesn't talk about his plans other than to concede an abiding interest in public service. Those who know his temperament feel he looks in the direction of elective office, preferably with close ties to the legislative branch, rather than to appointive position.

His name is one of those figuring in speculation on next year's race for Democratic nomination as lieutenant governor, a job which would fit his capability and interest.

For the moment, he concentrates on guiding the House along the track of the '71 session. Milestones ahead, as he reads them:

Auto Liability Insurance — "The people expect us to do something. Whether it will follow recommendations of the study commission remains to be seen. Lieutenant Governor Pat Taylor and I are pressing hard for prompt committee action," Godwin said.

State Government Reorganization — "Two years' study have gone into these recommendations. I feel they will be accepted without major changes," he said.

Environmental Legislation — "These are far-reaching proposals, but do not appear to be controversial. They will receive careful consideration," Godwin added.

In his letter the governor said he would support an appropriation of $735,629 for 1971-72 and $692,187 for 1972-73, or a total of $1,427,816 for the biennium to begin the program.

The governor made it clear that he felt the one-year program is another step toward a four year School of Medicine and also that he felt that this route afforded the greatest chance of success during this Legislature in light of the "financial and political considerations."

Gov. Scott said he discounted rumors that the ECU forces wanted a two year program or nothing. The ECU board of trustees quickly showed it was willing to take the course which was in the best interest of the state and the university by agreeing with the governor's recommendation.

ECU has raised valid arguments for establishment of the two-year medical school, rather than a one year program. It has studied the matter carefully as directed by the State Legislature. It is regrettable that North Carolina cannot now proceed with the two-year program which was proposed, for as we have often stated we feel it would be the most economical and feasible approach to the problem.

Still we, as did the board of trustees, respect the governor's judgment on this matter and the Legislature should proceed now to implement this decision.

The bill that is introduced in the Legislature should make it absolutely clear that this program will be the beginning of a four year School of Medicine at ECU. And, while we think that this program can and will be the basis of new cooperation between East Carolina and UNC, the law should, as Gov. Scott has recommended, state that those who complete the one year program at ECU satisfactorily will be assured of places at the Chapel Hill Medical School.

Twice now the Legislature has approved a medical education program at East Carolina University. During the past two years an excellent staff has been assembled and careful planning and study has been carried on for the program. This year the Board of Higher Education has approved a one-year medical training program for ECU and the governor has endorsed the concept of an eventual four year school.

There should be no question now in anyone's mind that the time has come to get started on medical education at East Carolina University. Anyone who opposes this program, which has resulted from years of study, cannot truly be concerned with solving the problem of a critical shortage of physicians in Eastern North Carolina.

Southern GOP Will Be Ired

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Behind the seemingly routine appointment within the next two weeks of a prominent Democrat to fill a new and long-vacant U.S. District judgeship in South Carolina lies a calculated White House strategy aimed at the 1972 Presidential election that is certain to infuriate Southern Republicans.

That strategy, most vividly seen in the appointment of former Texas Governor John B. Connally as Secretary of the Treasury, is that building strong Southern Republican parties takes second place to building a strong political base for Richard M. Nixon.

As for South Carolina, after 11 months of delay, Atty. Gen. John Mitchell finally gave an unpunished nod last Thursday to Democrat Sol Blatt, Jr., a well-known attorney in Barnwell, S.C.

Blatt happens to be the son of the long-time speaker of the South Carolina house. His appointment comes in the face of a furiously-paced campaign to get the judgeship for several Republicans, including former Republican Rep. Albert Watson who lost his segregationist campaign for Governor last November. Watson's hard-sell campaign for the judgeship is backed by Drake Edens, the Republican National Committeeman. He has also had some support from Republican State Chairman Kenneth Powell.

Thus, Edens and Powell, with other powerful party figures, will be out for revenge when they discover that Mitchell has quietly decided to name Blatt. That revenge could take the form of a primary opponent against Republican Sen. Strom Thurmond, who is up for reelection next year and has cleared the Blatt nomination. Thurmond would be unbeatable in any primary, but the political ripples from the still unannounced Blatt appointment could conceivably cause him trouble in the general election.

Party anger at Thurmond stems from a suspicion, not widely held, that one political result of the Blatt appointment, given the Byzantine politics of South Carolina, could be the presidency of the University of South Carolina for former Democratic Gov. Robert McNair. That would remove McNair as a possible opponent against Thurmond in this 1972 Senatorial election.

But Richard Nixon and John Mitchell, who will be his manager in next year's Presidential campaign, see far more to be gained by playing footsie with powerful Southern Democrats than in satisfying political demands of Southern Republicans who want White House patronage to strengthen their parties.

As in the far more critical state of Texas, the President's decision to bring Connally, one of the most powerful Democrats in the state, into his Administration was a calculated effort to

Strength For Today

HOW ABOUT IT? What would the world be like without religion? Some say it would be a lot better than it is now, but the number who say this is very small. The persecutions were a dreadful mistake, and nobody of sound mind would think for a moment of defending them. Every religion has something of value to contribute to the growth and enrichment of life. To say this is not to claim a neutrality that does not exist. Every religion believes that it has a contribution to make to the advancement of truth and the striking down of error. People complain a great deal about a "dismembered" Church. If there is one thing evident today it is that all religions are coming to see the advantage of diversity

Washington's Big Fear

WASHINGTON — No one talks about it, but one of the greatest fears concerning the attempt of the anti-Vietnam demonstrators to close down Washington last week was that the American taxpayer might have discovered that only half the people here were really needed to run the government.

Jaylan, who works in the Department of Bureaucratic Infinity, picked me up in his Volkswagen at 7 o'clock. I never saw him so nervous. "Don't worry, Jaylan," I said, "there's no going to be any violence."

"I don't understand," I said. "Look," said Jaylan, "for 30 years the government's been expanding at a ferocious rate. New departments have come into being overnight, old departments have been beefed up for no reason. The government is so big that no one has any idea how many people it really needs to make it work any more."

Public Forum

(Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words)

To The Editor: While on an exercise in the Mediterranean, I have been reading "The Source" by Michener. I have begun to sense the timeless nature of the accounts of slaughter by Jews of Canaanite, by Romans of Jews and Christians, by Moslems of pagans and others, and by Christians of Moslems, Jews, pagans, and other Christians. In most cases, the murderers were in their estimation completing God's chosen tasks. The worst of the lot were the Christian Crusaders who must have been following a Christ unlike the one in the Gospels. From time to time a nation would achieve prominence and perhaps even enjoy a benevolent government, but never did the two conditions exist simultaneously for more than a few hundred years at the most. Greed, religious zeal, a disregard for human life of social well-being, poor judgment, or a combination of these and other maladies always seemed to invade every worthy setting.

This afternoon I received my April 16 issue of "Between the Lines," a highly condensed, non-denominational, non-partisan news service. As I read of the Nixon-Mitchell efforts at suppression and had the events surrounding the Vietnam war again brought into focus, I could not help feeling that man has progressed little in his associations with his fellowmen in the last 20,000 years. I could not help seeing the possibility of another fallen empire. I refer, of course, to the United States, a country in a position of possibly effecting great strides toward world peace, but which seems to be steadily becoming the victim of the same maladies of potentially great nations of the past.

I can still see rays of hope if our national conscience can continue to be awakened, and if the Nixons, Hoovers, Mitchells, and Thurmonds who advocate tyranny can be removed from positions of importance. I do believe we have a chance, but so had the men in prior ages. I draw most consolation from the fact that young people all over the world are better educated, more compassionate, and more aware of the futility of violence than ever before. Perhaps we have reached the dawn of a new age. I hope so. The odds, however, are stacked against us.

Shadow Of Strikes Over 1971

By ELMER ROESSNER
 A steel strike and other labor troubles can tear a bigger hole in the economy than the General Motors strike did last year.

The chances of a steel strike are high. The United Steelworkers have already won a 31 per cent wage increase over three years from the car companies, and that is regarded as a minimum settlement the Steelworkers' American users, a surefire hedge since it will provide steel for production if there is a strike, will provide savings because, strike or compromises, steel prices will go up.

Virginia. This would prevent 70 per cent of all government employees from getting to work.

"That would be a catastrophe," I said. "But suppose it wasn't a catastrophe. Suppose the government discovered it only needed 30 per cent of its present work force."

"I never thought of that." "This demonstration is being covered by all the media," Jaylan said. "In the event that the protesters succeed in their shutdown and the government still operates smoothly, the whole country will know by tonight how few people it really needs to take care of the nation's business."

"We can't let it happen," I said to Jaylan as we skirted around a trash can on two wheels.

"I have to beat Bradley to the office," he said. "Why Bradley?"

"He sits next to me. If he gets to work and I don't, they'll discover he can do my job as well as his. If I get there and Bradley doesn't, I can prove they don't need Bradley."

"Gosh, Jaylan," I said,

 Walter Barfield, 85, from Castalia and a Confederate veteran, came to Greenville yesterday to attend Memorial Day exercises, but was greatly disappointed to learn that the occasion was observed last Friday.

Plans have been completed for the evangelistic services to be conducted at the Presbyterian Church here, beginning Sunday, by Dr. Ben Lacy of Richmond, Virginia.

The latest copy of State School Facts, a publication from the office of the State Superintendent of Schools, reveals the fact that the Greenville City Schools achieved the highest academic ranking of any school in the state with a total score of 94.3 out of a possible score of 100.

Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, accompanied by Mrs. Hyman Phillips, of Tarboro, left today for Wilmington to attend the annual meeting, luncheon and banquet of the Colonial Dames.

Babysitting Becomes Business For Home Ec Class

GOOD BABYSITTERS . . . must possess the characteristics pointed out on this chart in the Home Economics Department at North Pitt High School. Students participating in the program include Polly

Babysitting has become the business of the Home Economics I students at North Pitt High School.

With the help of their teachers, Mrs. Lucille Mayo, Miss Beatrice Simmons and Mrs. Ann Dunson, student teacher, the students have been learning and practicing how to become first rate babysitters.

"When a young girl decides to become a babysitter, she is taking on a very serious job, but also one that can be a great deal of pleasure," stated Mrs. Dunson. "Sitting is often a teenager's first paid job and is good practice for the responsibility of a full time job."

A successful sitter has many characteristics. She must love and understand children and be in good physical, emotional and mental health. She should have knowledge and some experience about the basic techniques of feeding, dressing, diapering, bathing, and how to entertain children. A good sitter is also safety conscious and makes every effort to protect the children from accidents.

"With a child's familiar environment, his own home and his own toys, with a new song or story, by knowing his routine and the special way he likes things to be done, a good babysitter can help make a child feel at home with a stranger," Mrs. Dunson explained.

"The Home Economics students have learned to put these characteristics to practical use by learning how to properly tell stories to children and to entertain them with finger games and songs. Also, the students have experienced making and evaluating toys for young children," Mrs. Dunson noted.

"The North Pitt students are ready for business with their babysitter check list and their babysitter kits," Mrs. Dunson added.

ingratiate himself with Connally. Democrats. Connally's appointment appalled Republican leaders in Texas, but with Mr. Nixon personally handling it, no one complained out loud.

In South Carolina, however, the imminent Blatt appointment will blow up a major political storm. Only last week both Edens and Powell, here for a meeting of Southern state party leaders, both told Mitchell separately that Blatt could not be named without splitting the party wide open. Both thought Mitchell responded by saying Blatt would not be named. The first they knew that Mitchell had picked Blatt was when FBI agents showed up in South Carolina to check Blatt's credentials.

Actually, Edens and Powell should not have been all that astonished. The Republican state central committee passed a resolution weeks ago against the elevation of U.S. District Court Judge Donald Russell, a popular former Governor, to the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals. The President named Russell anyway.

Now, with Blatt about to take the new District Court seat created by Congress last year, Mr. Nixon counts on 1972 help from the vast network of political friends of two of the state's most popular Democrats. He will try to smother the anger over Blatt's nomination by announcing at the same time the appointment of Republican attorney Robert Chapman to Judge Russell's District Court seat, but the Chapman appointment has long been expected.

In Texas, party backlash from the Nixon strategy has been muted and, thus far, insignificant. In South Carolina, too, Mr. Nixon is gambling that he will get more out of it from the political friends of Russell and the two Blatts, father and son, than he will lose from the fury of Edens, Powell, and Watson. But in South Carolina, that may turn out to be quite a gamble.

Students who are participating in the class and plan to do babysitting include:

"It isn't just me. You see all those cars bumper to bumper out there? In everyone of them is a Jaylan trying to beat a Bradley to work. These people are willing to take nails in their tires, dents in their fenders, tear gas in their eyes, anything, as long as no one finds out they are expendable."

A truck was stalled in the middle of the street and Jaylan and I lifted his Volkswagen over it and then we took off again. "Bradley will never be able to do that," Jaylan cackled, "not with his station wagon."

By driving mostly on the sidewalk through Georgetown, Jaylan made it to his office on time. That Evening on the way home he revealed to me that not one person in the bureau was absent.

"As a matter of fact, there were several people on vacation and sick leave who came in to make sure their jobs weren't eliminated."

"It sure was close," Jaylan sighed. "If it hadn't been for the brilliant work of the police and military, the government might have had to cut its payroll in half."

regard by telling her to use a toothbrush for these chores.

"Well, they asked for it: A questionnaire filled in by tourists at Meramec Caverns in Missouri revealed that the formation they wanted most to see was—the toilet.

One way to save: If, instead of buying a pack of cigarettes a day, a 15-year-old youth put the money into a bank and kept the habit up until he retired, his savings plus the accumulated interest would give him a tidy nest egg of nearly $30,000.

Worth remembering: "You can tell a child is growing up when he stops asking where he came from and starts refusing to tell you where he is going." It was Josh Billings who observed, "The best condition in life is not to be so rich as to be envied nor so poor as to be damned."

Flower Of Woodstock Wilted With Money-Mad Performers

By JOEL DREYFUSS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The flower that bloomed at Woodstock has wilted.

Two years ago, 400,000 rock fans jammed an Upstate New York alfalfa field in a massive demonstration of love and peace as a way of life.

But now, disillusionment with the rock scene has spread far and wide. Rock performers have turned money mad. The deaths of some prominent rock stars and the ecology movement's call for purity have turned many young people off drugs, and the music itself is undergoing drastic alterations.

The announcement by rock impresario Bill Graham recently that he would close his two emporia of live music, Fillmore East in New York and Fillmore West in San Francisco, was seen as heralding an end of an era in rock.

The groups who once were willing to brave the rain and mud of Woodstock to play, had turned, Graham said, into highly structured corporations demanding higher and higher payments for their services.

Top bands, like the Jefferson Airplane and Sly and the Family Stone, command high fees as high as $50,000 for a single night's performance, and, Graham charged, income has taken a precedence over music.

Woodstock was in many ways the beginning of an era, an assertion by American youth that they had their own culture and their own way of celebrating.

Woodstock was the end also, because no matter what its success was, the myth it created could never be matched by the reality of any successor.

The next major festival in Altamont, Calif., was a free concert offered by the Rolling Stones. Members of the Hell's Angeles motorcycle gang were hired to keep the crowd under control and before the evening was over one youth was dead.

While Altamont may have been taken as a warning, the attractions of the outdoor concert especially when compared to the smaller incomes provided by indoor performances, were too obvious to the big time artist.

"He'd rather play the one concert with 20,000 people and spend the other three days resting on his yacht," Graham complained.

The year of the rock fest was 1970:

Love Valley, Goose Lake, Strawberry Fields, Powder Fields, Powder Ridge, Buffalo Party Convention and Roast, Beaufort Water Festival . . .

However, only 18 of 48 major festivals scheduled came off, according to Jon Northland, assistant editor of the rock weekly, Rolling Stone.

"The major reason is political," he said. "The day after the festival is announced, the city council and police come up with some emergency ordinance that makes it impossible to hold it."

Promoters also discovered that there were financial problems. The performers wanted more. Radical groups asked for a cut. The fans felt they were being exploited and that music should be free.

Don Friedman watched his Randall's Island Festival in New York City crumble under pressure from radicals until the doors were finally thrown open to the public.

"The love, peace thing of Woodstock has gone out," Friedman said. "It's been replaced by anarchy, complete total anarchy."

The only type of site left in which crowds can be controlled are the sports arenas, like Madison Square Garden.

Promoters can jam 21,000 youths into the Garden, and because of this, groups prefer to play there, despite the poor amplification.

In the last year or so, major upheavals wracked the rock music scene. The Beatles, who dominated the music of the 1960s split and squabbled over their fortune.

Within days of each other, singer Janis Joplin and guitarist Jimi Hendrix died, of apparent drug overdoses.

In the meantime, a new musical style emerged to challenge rock. The ear-splitting roar of 10,000 watts of amplification have begun to give way to the soft strum of nylon guitar strings.

"Country-style" bands like The Band, soft-voice singers like James Taylor, vocal groups like Crosby Stills Nash and Young have come on the scene.

Opening lead: King of ♣ East's enterprise in today's hand uncovered a sound slam contract that was based on an excellent distributional fit. The he was deprived of the pleasure of playing the hand by a pair of sacrifice-minded opponents, he still wound up with a substantial profit on the deal.

East opened the bidding with one spade and South overcalled with two hearts. West had something in reserve for his free raise to two spades, however with only nine high card points, he was reluctant to take more drastic action like making two forward going bids.

When North raised his partner's hearts, East's hand took on added lustre. West's support of the spades assured game, but if his side values were located in clubs, then a slam was in the offing. East now made the key call of the auction—four clubs. He had no intention of playing a club contract—however, if West reacted enthusiastically to this call, East intended to bid a slam in spades.

South persisted to four hearts and, now, West took this opportunity to show his excellent club support. The five club call by partner was just what East was waiting to hear and he proceeded to six spades without further ado.

Since there was no apparent defense against the opponent's slam, North chose to sacrifice at seven hearts, feeling that a somewhat smaller loss would be incurred at that contract. East doubled seven hearts.

West opened the king of clubs which was overtaken with the ace by East, for it was his desire to obtain a diamond ruff. He cashed the ace of that suit and then shifted back to a small club. West was in with the queen and returned a diamond which East trumped for the fourth and final defensive trick and a 700 point profit on the deal.

Girls Club Inspired Bright Trash Cans

The bright new spring colors on the trash cans in downtown Greenville is the result of an idea carried out by a group of girls known as Les Charmante-Elles.

This community service club, affiliated with Rose High School, recently completed this freshen-up project to convert the dark green containers to a color more appropriate for spring. Twelve of the cans were painted, with the choice of pink and light green for the two tone color scheme.

The high school girls felt these colors would stand out and serve to attract people who might otherwise be "litter bugs" to use the cans located at various places on downtown sidewalks. The colors are also the colors adopted by the club members as their own colors. Each can painted has been signed with the initials, L.C.E.

Another recent activity by Les Charmante-Elles has been the initiation of 15 new members during the week of April 26 to May 1. Together, the old and new members, along with their advisor, Mrs. N.C. Dunn, plan to conduct a number of "exciting" projects for the coming year.

Brenda Bell, president of the girls' club, said the idea for the vividly colored trash cans came from Manzer Saad, vice-president of Les Charmante-Elles.

Miss Bell expressed appreciation to City Manager Harry Hagerty and to other city officials for their cooperation in making it possible for the girls to complete the community service of highlighting the trash cans.

Special Events Planned At Aycock Junior High

One of the first projects locally in connection with Greenville's bid for All America city is one winning this week at E. B. Aycock Junior High School, with two special events scheduled for Thursday and Friday.

Supported by the Greenville Merchants Association and Chamber of Commerce, the first phase is an art display on Thursday, at the Aycock School Library. The art show will be one of posters presented in four categories — "The Basic Sources of Education," "Quality Education," "Correlative Education," and "Some 'Now' Comments Affecting Education."

First and second prizes will be offered in each category, and a special prize will be given for the best poster of the show.

Another feature of Thursday's program is "The Guessing Game," designed to inspire interest and activity. For this game, a special poster has been prepared containing 121 words pertaining to what education is, or ought to be. Every letter of the alphabet is represented in this list. Four secret words have been chosen that are especially applicable to education.

On Friday, the "Junior High School Bowl" will take place at 2:00 p. m. in the school gymnasium. This program will follow the basic format of the TV

Friday is Play Day for students at Sadie Sautter Elementary Grammar School. For the occasion, a big series of games have been planned at Guy Smith Stadium for all the children in grades one to six.

Boy Charged In Fatal Shooting

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — A 16-year-old Gastonia youth has been charged with shooting another teen-ager to death Tuesday at a West Gastonia residence.

Gastonia city police said they had charged Randy Odell Coleman with the shooting of 17-year-old Barry Dean Liverett. The victim was found sprawled in a bedroom of the residence with a double-barreled shotgun near his body.

Officers said both barrels of the gun had been fired, but there was no immediate explanation for the shooting.

program "College Bowl." A number of teams will be in competition to make an effort to muster the most points.

On this show, Dudley Flood of the State Department of Public Instruction and Bud Walker of the N. C. Good Neighbor Council will be on hand to serve as critical observers. TV personality Evangeline of the TV show "Together With Evangeline" will assist in awarding the prizes.

City officials, members of the Board of Education, and interested parents are urged to attend the Friday afternoon

Postage Rates Relatively Low

Although postage for a first-class letter will increase to eight cents later this month, Greenville Postmaster Lloyd Mills today reminded local citizens that the new rate will still be cheaper than postage rates were almost 125 years ago.

According to Mills, the first general issuance of postage stamps by the Post Office Department was authorized by Congress in 1847. The series consisted of a five-cent and ten cent denomination. At that time, the regular non-local postage rate was five cents per half ounce for mail traveling a distance over 300 miles and 10 cents per half ounce if over 300 miles.

During this period, an average letter weighing one-half ounce cost 10 cents to be sent from New York to San Francisco. In comparison, the imminent first-class postage increase from six to eight cents will still be 20 percent cheaper than before the Civil War.

"Despite the great distances many letters must travel in the United States," Mills explained, "our postal rates are still lower than in most other major countries, particularly when based on ability to pay."

When the proposed stamp rate is related to average hourly earnings, the impact of the two-cent increase in first-class postage on the family or individual will be minimal.

Mills is convinced that, "considering all factors, first-class postage continues to be one of the best and most economical products in American today."

Recently, another project was undertaken at Aycock. Part of a year long enrichment program which has been termed "Project Progress in Education", it was conducted in cooperation with civic classes at Aycock. The overall program is sponsored by the N. C. Joint Council on Health and Citizenship, with assistance of the E. B. Aycock Pep Club.

Dr. Andrew Best directed the program. He was assisted by Miss Doris M. Hardy, civics-English instructor, and Raymond Williams, guidance counselor.

form at Sadie Sautter and march under supervision to Guy Smith Stadium. At 10:45, when all the students have gathered in the stadium, the festivities will commence with a flag raising ceremony and the pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Beginning at 11:00 a. m., each class in turn will play games on the field, with classes taking their turn individually.

A closing of games ceremony takes place at 12:15 p. m., to be marked by a ceremony lowering the flag.

The school children will eat their lunches on the site from bag lunches provided by the school. This will take the place of their regular lunch at school.

Prizes will be awarded to winners in the games following the lunch period.

At 1:30 p. m., the children will be put into formation for the supervised march back to the school.

Mills Is Invited

RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly has voted to give Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., a chance to answer Vice President Spiro Agnew on the issue of revenue sharing.

Agnew appeared before a joint legislative session last Thursday and strongly urged support for President Nixon's revenue sharing proposals.

Mills, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, is an outspoken opponent of the revenue sharing proposals.

The House and Senate both approved Tuesday resolutions inviting Mills to address a joint legislative session at 12:30 p.m. on May 20.

Although Democrats proposed the joint session to hear Mills, it was endorsed by Rep. Jim Holsouser, R-Watauga, state Republican chairman who said it was proper for the General Assembly to hear both sides of such issues.

Phantoms Raid North Viet Guns

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Striking in two waves, U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jets destroyed 13 anti-aircraft guns around the Mu Gia pass in North Vietnam, the U.S. Command announced today.

The command said the Phantoms attacked the anti-aircraft sites after receiving fire from North Vietnamese guns while over Laos. None of the U.S. planes was damaged, the command said.

The command in a delayed report said the strikes took place Monday afternoon, a day after a North Vietnamese MIG21 jet attacked a small American observation plane over the Plain of Jars in northern Laos.

A command spokesman, Maj. Charles Johnson, said the strikes Monday were against anti-aircraft positions 75 miles north of the demilitarized zone and two miles inside North Vietnam from the Laotian border.

AYDEN — A Route 1, Ayden man, John Henry Wooten, 74, died Monday night of injuries he received in a traffic collision near here earlier in the day.

The Wooten truck, Harvey said, was struck by a car driven by Ashley Robert Garris, 60 of Hookerton, which was traveling South on N. C. 11. Garris, the coroner reported, was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for injuries he received in the collision, and released.

Wooten, who was admitted to the hospital, died about 10:15 p.m.

No charges were placed in the collision, and according to Harvey, the death was ruled accidental.

Summrell Case Is Being Tried

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Testimony continued today in the trial of Julius Stewart Summrell, charged with resisting arrest, assault on an officer and disorderly conduct in connection with a July 6, 1970 incident at Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Summrell allegedly assaulted Greenville police officer Ptl. B. F. Phillips after being placed under arrest on disorderly conduct charges. Summrell, was shot by the officer during the alleged assault.

Yesterday, officer Phillips testified that he had been called to investigate a traffic accident in which Summrell, a passenger in one of the cars involved, was reported injured.

Going to the hospital's emergency room to continue his investigation of the mishap, the policeman said Summrell was "talking loudly . . ." and in his opinion causing a disturbance.

"I told him to quiet down," the officer said, adding that Summrell's mother also tried to quiet him.

Phillips testified Summrell continued his loud talking "disturbing the functioning of the personnel" in the emergency room, and that he placed Summrell under arrest for disorderly conduct.

"He (Summrell) told me I was not going to arrest him . . ." Ptl. Phillips continued. A confrontation developed and a scuffle then erupted.

Phillips told the court that he drew his pistol after Summrell took his blackjack from him. "Summrell was standing there with the blackjack up in his clinched fist . . ." and after being ordered to drop it, "he threw it at me and hit me in the chest."

The scuffling continued outside the hospital, "I continued to tell him to stop," Phillips explained, but the two men Summrell and Phillips — continued to move toward the parking lot in front of the hospital.

At this point, Ptl. Phillips explained that Summrell's brother, Jerome Streeter, came up.

Ptl. Phillips said that he and Summrell fell to the ground with Summrell on top, and the altercation continued. "I put both hands on my gun to keep him from getting it . . . then someone held and someone kicked me . . . in the neck and head . . ."

Summrell, the policeman testified, got up, started away, then turned and began advancing again toward the officer. Phillips said he then fired six rounds from his service revolver at Summrell.

Phillips said he remained out of work for six weeks following the incident. He said his doctor "would not allow me to return to work" and noted that he was under suspension by the police department pending completion of an investigation of the incident by the SBI.

A delegation of Negro leaders met with members of the city council late on the night of July 8 demanding that Phillips' pay be stopped during the term of the investigation.

Phillips, 27, has been a member of the police department here since August, 1967. Julia Shaw, a registered nurse, testified that she was on duty in the emergency room when Summrell came in following the auto accident.

He "got real indignant" and was "cussin'," Miss Shaw testified. "Summrell told me to get out of the room . . . get out of my face white woman."

She said she overheard Summrell's mother trying to quiet him down.

This morning, Robert G. Little of Route 1, Grimesland told the court that he was present in the emergency room area when Ptl. Phillips and Summrell began scuffling. He said he overheard Summrell tell the officer, "I'll kill you."

Little described Summrell's expression as "not normal" and said Summrell "pushed the officer". The defendant, Little noted, had been talking loudly while in the emergency room.

Little said when the scuffle between the officer and Summrell began, he (Little) and other persons waiting in the emergency room moved. "A good run is better than a bad stand," Little explained.

City Counts 2 Collisions

An estimated $2,600 property damage resulted from two collisions here late yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 5:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of 11th and Clark Streets which involved cars driven by Thurmond Mathes, 59, of 402 West 12th St. and Janie Brock Hardison of Glendale Court.

Police, who charged Mathes with failing to yield the right of way set damage to the Mathes car at $800 and estimated damage to the Hardison car at $1,000.

Clifton Earl Vendable, 22, of 1307 South Pitt St. was charged with having faulty steering following an 11:20 p.m. mishap on Dickinson Avenue about 100 feet West of the Ficklen Street intersection.

Reminds Faith Is Sheer Trust

NEW YORK (AP) — Christian fundamentalism, which rejects critical analysis of the Bible, "pretends to offer men security where there can be no security," says famed German theologian Rudolph Bultmann.

In a new book on his works issued by Doubleday, "The Thought of Rudolf Bultmann," by Andre Malet, the influential, but controversial theologian says faith provides no answer to "the riddle of life."

Rather, faith is sheer "trust in the grace of God which has called man to life and gives life a meaning, even though man does not see the meaning yet."

Rampants Rip New Bern, Hold To First

By CHIP LAMBETH Special To The Reflector Rose High's Rampants remained in contention for the championship of the Eastern 4-A, Division II race yesterday with a resounding win over New Bern's Bears, 11-2.

He advanced to second on Earl Jones' single. Weatherington got his second hit of the day and for a moment it looked as if New Bern would be first to break the scoring ice as Moore streaked home from second. The Rampants appealed to the umpire that Moore had not tagged third. Shortstop Bill Lee stepped on the base and Moore was called out. The Bears put a man on in the third on an error but could not bring him around.

Weatherington's fourth hit of the day. The Rampants went to work early. In the second after two batters had been retired, Jimmy Sugg reached base on an error by the first baseman and went to second on the play. Sugg stole third and scored as pitcher Steve Arnaud aided his own cause with a single to center field. Arnaud stole second and scored as the New Bern third baseman could not find the handle on Larry Dixon's grounder. Dixon advanced to second and moved to third as Kim Harbin reached base on the third error of the inning. Dixon scored and Harbin went to second on a balk by the Bear pitcher. Bill Lee got on safely on another error and both Lee and Harbin scored when Stanley Cobb lofted a long fly that fell on the other side of the track in right field giving Cobb a triple. John Conway walked and stole second but the Rampants could not bring them across. J. C. Daniels opened the third by reaching first when the New Bern catcher missed the third strike. Daniels advanced to third as the pitcher errored Arnaud's slow roller to first. Arnaud went to second on the play and both runners scored on a hit by Dixon. Dixon stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. He scored when the throw to second to get Lee who had walked was errored.

The Rampants added two more in the fourth as Conway tripled to deep left center field. Jim McDermott singled him home and McDermott scored on a hit by Daniels. Daniels stole second and went to third on another error. But was caught in a rundown as the Bear shortstop played Steve Worthington's grounder to home. Worthington took second on the play but could not come around. The Rampants got their final run in the sixth. Harbin reached first on the tenth New Bern error. He stole second and took third on still another error by the Bears. Lee brought Harbin home with a sacrifice fly.

The Rampants put a man on in the sixth. Mike Reilly got a hit and went to second as the right fielder overran the ball. Reilly, however, apparently dislocated his shoulder as he slid into second and Greg Chapman replaced him but could not score as the next three batters went down in order. The Rampants travel to Kinston Friday. They will be seeking their seventh conference win and the championship of the Division.

Bucs Down Spiders In Final Home Game

McCovey Aids Perry In Gaining Fourth Win As Cincinnati Falls

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
A couple of West Coast Willies are off on a whirlwind spree and, for a change, neither one answers to the name Mays.
Willie McCovey, coming on strong after a slow start this season, belted three hits, including his seventh home run, as the San Francisco Giants widened their National League West lead to eight games with a 6-1 triumph over Cincinnati Tuesday night.

Willie Davis, meanwhile, continued his torrid hitting with three singles and a triple, helping the Los Angeles Dodgers whip Atlanta 6-1 to snap a three-game losing string and move into second place behind the runaway Giants.
Davis banged out 11 hits in his last 13 trips to the plate, hiking his batting average to .395. McCovey has gone 9-for-12 in his last four starts, bringing his average up to .311.
Elsewhere in the NL, the

New York Mets battered Houston 8-1 behind Nolan Ryan's three-hitter and Dave Marshall's grand slam homer; two homers by Joe Torre paced St. Louis to a 10-4 romp over Montreal; Pittsburgh drubbed San Diego 10-4 with Manny Sanguillen stroking four hits and the Chicago Cubs clubbed Philadelphia 6-2.
McCovey put the wraps on the Giants' 24th victory in 33 games with a two-run homer in the third inning after Mays, a .375 hitter, drew a walk from Jim Merritt.

Bobby Bonds' eighth homer, singles by Chris Speier, McCovey and Ken Henderson and another homer by Dick Dietz had given the division leaders a 4-0 first inning jump.
Gaylord Perry, 4-1, checked the reeling Reds on six hits.
Davis punched a two-out single in the first inning before Richie Allen walked and Wes Parker drilled a two-run double, sending the Dodgers ahead to stay at Los Angeles.

East Carolina University's Pirates, out of the race for the Southern Conference crown, may have a little to say about who replaces them this year. At any rate, they threw a kink into the University of Richmond drive yesterday, downing the Spiders, 6-2.
It was the final home game for the Bucs this year, who have only a double header left on the road with Davidson, on Saturday.
And the Pirates made their final appearance in Harrington Field a good one, banging out 13 hits against the Richmond pitching. Hal Baird scattered six hits in getting the victory in the game, and both of the runs scored against him were unearned.
Richmond threw a scare into the Pirates in the very first inning, however. Reggie Dunnivant led off, and cracked a long fly ball into center field.
Troy Eason, playing for the ailing Matt Walker, who is out with measles, backed up, but dropped the ball, and by the time he recovered and threw in, Dunnivant was standing on third. He then scored on Bruce Wright's ground out to short.
Tom Bondurant followed with a double to center, but with two away couldn't come around.
The Bucs got their first chance in the second. With two outs, Dick Corrada singled and Stan Sneed slapped a single into center. But he tried to stretch it, and was thrown out, ending that threat.
Richmond threatened again in the third. Bill Daly reached on a fielder's choice and reached second when Sneed tossed the ball over Baird's head into center on a return after a pitch.
But Baird struck out the final batter to end the frame.
The Bucs then pushed over two runs in the bottom of the third. Ralph Lamm led off with a walk, and Mike Bradshaw's grounder took a bad hop at short, enabling both runners to reach safely.
With two outs, Mike Aldridge slammed a double to left, scoring both runners for a 2-1 East Carolina lead.
The Pirates then put the game on ice in the fourth inning, scoring four unearned runs. Gus Roberson struck out, but reached to open the inning when the ball got by Richmond catcher John Denzler. Sneed then doubled and Lamm followed with a bunt down the third base line. Before the charging third baseman could make a play however, Roberson was across home, and Lamm safe at first. Baird then hit a fly to center, scoring Sneed after the catch. Bradshaw singled to center to keep third going, and Eason reached on an error, scoring Lamm. Aldridge followed with a single to left, scoring Bradshaw with the sixth Pirate run.

The Bucs offered three more threats after that, but failed to score. Corrada walked and stole second in the fifth, but got no further. He singled in the seventh, and went to second when Walters, who had reached before him was cut down at third after the catcher had lost a pitched ball. Then, in the eighth, singles by Bradshaw and Eason put runners at first and third with two out.

Richmond offered another threat in the fifth. Denzler singled, took second on a wild pitch and went on to third on the second out of the frame, but died there.

Finally, in the eighth, Richmond managed another run. Wright walked and moved up when Bondurant walked. Sneed tried to pick Bondurant off first, but threw wide of the bag, and Wright raced home on the error, with the final run of the game.
Bondurant paced Richmond's hitting with three. East Carolina was led by Bradshaw with three, while Aldridge, Corrada and Sneed each had two.

Oak City Runs Past Vikings

WINTERVILLE — Oak City High School jumped on the Conley Vikings in the first inning for seven big runs, then went on to take a 10-4 victory over their hosts.
The seven runs were all the Trojans needed to wrap it up. Ross led off with a walk and Baker reached on a single. An error on the play scored Ross. Baker advanced on a wild pitch, but walks to Hardison and Smith loaded the bases. Whitfield and Scott were given additional walks, scoring Baker and Hardison, and Adams was hit by a pitch, bringing in Smith. A pickoff attempt on Whitfield was errored, and he and Scott both scored. Reason then grounded out, scoring Adams with the seventh run.

It stayed that way until the fifth when Conley scored its first run. Prince Bunting reached on an error, and Cleve Averett walked. Both advanced on a balk, and Steve Worthington brought in Bunting with a sacrifice fly.
Both teams punched over three runs in the sixth inning to wind up the scoring.

Mental Health Month Emphasis On Understanding

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Mental Health Month this year is more than a time to promote better understanding of mental disorders and good practices for emotional health among Americans.

Among North Carolinians, it's also a time to become aware of the revolutionary measures for mental health now before the North Carolina General Assembly. Anyone who knows and who cares should let his representatives know, said David Reid, president of the Pitt County Mental Health Association. A public hearing was held Tuesday, he said, but measures probably won't be voted on for several weeks.

The most all-encompassing measure one that authorities say will be the broadest bill on patient's rights that has ever gone through a state legislature, if this one does. It would guarantee that no person receiving services or treatment through an approved facility licensed by the N.C. Department of Mental Health or any program approved by the Department would lose in whole or in part any rights or liberties, except as provided by law. The rights are enumerated as follows:

All rights under the Constitution or laws of this State or of the United States.

The rights to register and vote, to marry and obtain a divorce, to representation by legal counsel, to dispose of property, to execute instruments, to make purchases, to enter into contractual relationships, to devise and bequeath property unless adjudicated incompetent under the provisions of Chapter 34 of the General Statutes of North Carolina.

The right to privacy of patient's judicial and hospital records and to treatment and rehabilitation, subject to denial or limitation for good cause.

The right to personal privacy and dignity, including the rights: to wear his own clothes; keep and use personal possessions; be allowed to be able to spend a reasonable sum of his own money; have access to individual storage space for his private use; receive visitors each day; have reasonable access to telephones, both to make and to receive confidential calls; to have access to letter-writing materials, including postage, and to mail and receive unopened correspondence; to receive upon discharge, if needed, suitable assistance in meeting immediate needs for food, clothing, and transportation;

To be free from physical restraints, including confinement, except in cases of imminent danger of inflicting injury to one's self or others and except as occasioned by therapeutic treatment; not to be subjected to experimental research without the patient's express and informed consent, or to any unusual hazardous treatment procedures; to be able to refuse electric shock therapy unless determined to be incompetent to make that decision by the professional person in charge; the right to receive remuneration for work done of value to the facility;

Not to be arbitrarily transferred without medical or administrative justification, and to be in a facility close to one's home, if desired, subject to space availability and to the patient's welfare as determined by the professional staff responsible for his care;

To be detained or treated only in appropriate facilities, which specifically shall not include jails or other penal or criminal facilities, unless the person has been formally charged with or convicted of a crime.

He must be informed of his rights.

"I feel this legislation is forward-looking and humanitarian," Reid said. "Our local Association is working for its passage, and I hope everyone who has ever been a patient, had a loved one as a patient, or who feels compassion for mental patients for any other reason, will join us."

"One reason I personally feel is so important is that I think it will greatly increase the number of persons who seek help for mental problems before they become too severe. I know it would make a difference to me if I felt the Law protected my rights while I was hospitalized or receiving treatment at a local Mental Health Clinic, regardless of what treatment was or how long it took.

"North Carolina and other states in the United States have the lowest voluntary commitment rate in the world. The United States' is between 20 and 30 per cent, while in Europe, voluntary commitment averages 70 to 80 per cent."

"The recent passage of a bill concerning driver's license revocation should provide some incentive for voluntary commitment and right what we of the PCMA feel has been a wrong. This bill exempts anyone who voluntarily commits himself for treatment for mental illness, alcoholism, or drug addiction from an automatic review of his driver's license. However, the provisions of this bill would not apply to those who have been judged mentally incompetent, or had been involuntarily admitted," Reid said.

Very Small Amount Of Extra N.C. Funds Available

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has reaffirmed his opposition to any cut in state taxes following his announcement that the General Assembly will have only $16.3 million in extra funds available to meet spending requests not included in his proposed budget.

Scott told a news conference Tuesday that revised estimates of general fund revenues indicate that the state will have an extra $11,050,000 this year and $5,265,000 during the next biennium over what he anticipated when he presented his proposed $4.3 billion budget in January.

The legislature's money committee chairman had been predicting that the surplus would be between $30 million and $50 million.

Since Scott presented his budget, state agencies have asked the legislature for more than $700 million in supplementary spending.

"This additional $16,315,000 now estimated to be available will not provide for all the additional services we all know to be needed," Scott said.

"This fact underscores once again my position that we cannot allow changes in our tax laws that would further seriously reduce our revenues," he added.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman John Burney, D-New Hanover, told the news conference that the small revenue surplus strongly reduces chances for repeal of such levies as the soft drink tax, which will produce $38 million during the biennium.

Both Burney and Scott noted that the surplus could be almost completely taken up by mandatory supplementary expenses, such as increases in state Social Security contributions for teachers and other

Kidney Repair Seen Feasible

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Researchers at Baylor College of Medicine have developed a method—used so far only on laboratory animals—to take organs out of the body, repair them, then reimplant them.

They have taken the kidneys from 30 dogs, kept them functioning out of the body for up to three days, then reimplanted them. Eighty per cent of the kidneys functioned well enough to sustain life for long periods.

state employees, increased fuel costs and the rising cost of state-purchased automobiles.

"That's going to just about take up the $16 million," Burney said.

Scott also noted that the revenue estimates are "based in part on our confidence that our state's economy is sound and that we can expect growth to continue upward."

He said the current estimates indicate a gain of $11,050,000 during fiscal 1970-71 and $5,265,000 during 1971-72. No increases over earlier estimates were predicted for fiscal 1972-73.

Scott was asked if the small surplus rules out additional pay increase for teachers above the 10 per cent hike in his proposed budget. He said, "No, it would not close the door at all."

Senior Citizens On The Move

PERU, Ill. (AP) — Older Americans are moving to the south and west of the United States, a preliminary report of a Social Security study shows.

Paul A. Schmidt, manager of the Social Security district here, said the study of the nation's retired—about 1 per cent of the total—moved permanently from one state to another during the year surveyed.

you are talking about more than just teachers," Scott added. "My guess is that the General Assembly is going to come up with a package program" for all state employes, he said. He indicated that such a package has been discussed. Scott also said a bond issue is being considered to boost revenue during the biennium, but no decision has been reached.

Thank You - To the many people who by their vote of confidence made possible my joining the Greenville City Council today as YOUR representative.

Diabetics Camp Will Be Opened On August 8

The Carolinas Camp for Diabetic Children (CCDC), in its fourth year of operation, will be held this summer from Aug. 8 through 22 at Eagles Nest campsite near Brevard.

Sponsored by the North and South Carolina Diabetes Association, the camp is open to all diabetic youngsters from both states between the ages of six and 15.

According to local association representatives, children at the camp participate in normal camp activities including swimming, hiking, dancing, playing softball, learning crafts.

Added to the traditional camp routine, however, are lessons on the injection of insulin, management of diet and checking body sugar levels in an effort to teach the children self-reliance in taking care of their illness.

Physicians, nurses, and dietitians from Duke University Medical Center in Durham, the Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem, the University of North Carolina School of Medicine in Chapel Hill, and the University of South Carolina Medical School make up the camp's medical staff.

The CCDC got its start four years ago, it was pointed out, when a group of Greenville, S. C. Parents of diabetic children found that their youngsters were being turned away from camps in other states because of space limitations. The parents joined forces to form the Greenville Lay Society of the South Carolina Diabetes Association and shortly thereafter began plans for a camp in the Carolinas the following summer.

Parents of campers pay only as much as they can afford to send their child to camp, representatives say. The North Carolina Diabetes Association provide financial aid for children who could not otherwise attend camp.

Persons in the area desiring further information and application forms should contact the North Carolina Diabetes Association, P.O. Drawer 3891 Chapel Hill.

The local representative for the association, Mrs. Laurel Holloman, may be reached at Pitt Memorial Hospital (752-5141) or at her home (756-1324).

Freight Rate Hearing Set

The North Carolina Utilities Commission has announced that a hearing before the United States Interstate Commerce Commission on the matter of intrastate rail freight rates and charges will be held in Raleigh on July 12.

The hearing has been scheduled for 9:30 a.m. on the 12th in room 209 of the Federal Building in Raleigh.

Persons who have not notified the commission of their intent to participate and file evidence and testimony may send their verified statements to the commission, P.O. Box 991 in Raleigh, on or before June 10 and the Legal Department of the commission will file the statements in their behalf.

According to the commission, in response to a petition filed by rail carriers operating in North Carolina intrastate commerce, the I.C.C. has instituted an investigation . . . with view of determining whether, as alleged by the railroads, the present rail rates applicable on North Carolina intrastate traffic are the cause of undue, unreasonable and unjust discrimination against and, an undue burden on interstate and foreign commerce, because said intrastate rates have not been increased in the same measure as the interstate rates under orders of the I.C.C. . . .

Further inquiries to the notice may be addressed to Edward B. Hipp, commission attorney, North Carolina Utilities Commission, P.O. Box 991, Raleigh.

Held Up Bank In Henderson

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Police say a man armed with a pistol and another with a double-barreled shotgun robbed a Henderson branch bank Tuesday.

The two robbers got away with an undetermined amount of cash in a blue pickup truck after holding up the Henderson Mall branch of People's Bank and Trust Co. on the western outskirts of the city.

Police said several bank employees were locked inside the vault by the bandits but were released soon after the robbers fled.

Shoplifting Clinics Set

RALEIGH (AP) — Clinics will soon be available to teach retail clerks in North Carolina how to detect and detain shoplifters under a new law that goes into effect July 1.

The executive vice president of the North Carolina Merchants Association, Thompson Greenwood, said clerks and store owners will be advised in the clinics that they may use whatever force necessary to restrain suspected shoplifters.

The new law relieves the stores of virtually all liability and authorizes them to detain suspected shoplifters for reasonable amounts of time and to use reasonable force to do so.

Greenwood said time a suspect is detained would depend on the circumstances and upon his attitude.

"If there's an argument between the store and the customer, I could see why the time could be a little longer," he said.

He said clerks would still be urged to use caution in applying physical force, since under the law a customer accused of shoplifting does have the right to file assault charges if he believes unreasonable force was used to detain him.

Greenwood said the clinics, which have instructed about 4,000 persons in the last three years, also will deal with a law change which makes it easier to arrest a person in the store rather than waiting until he has left with the goods.

"If he's getting toward the door, stop him" will be the new watchword.

Reveal Damage To Angkor Wat

By MICHAEL PUTZEL, Associated Press Writer
PHNOM PENH (AP) — The Cambodian army apparently plans no disciplinary action against a captain who ordered an artillery barrage that did severe damage to Angkor Wat, Cambodia's national treasure. The huge 12th century temple was shelled three months ago, authoritative sources said, but the government kept the incident secret. Angkor, the ancient Khmer capital in the northwest, was occupied by Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers last June. Government forces were ordered not to attack for fear that fighting would damage the ruins, which include the temple of Angkor Wat and the adjacent Angkor Thom. The shelling killed or wounded about 10 peasant refugees in a nearby pagoda and heavily damaged the south side of Angkor Wat. Informed sources said the barrage was ordered by a battery commander without permission from higher authority. The sources reported the officer was transferred outside the area but was not punished, apparently because the high command believed that would hurt army morale. Reports of the shelling came from travelers returning from Siem Reap, the town nearest Angkor. The reports later were confirmed by a government expert who saw photographs of the damage. The sources reported: The 105mm howitzer barrage hit the south side of the main temple, destroying the third floor of the southern gate. One shell smashed into the second-floor gallery and three more exploded in the gallery of history on the first floor, damaging a fresco depicting the story of the Khmer empire. Seven rounds also hit the nearby pagoda where the refugees were living. Angkor was built from the 9th to the 12th centuries as the capital of the Khmer empire. It was abandoned in favor of Phnom Penh in the 15th century after Thai invaders plundered and sacked the vast collections of temples, palaces and other buildings. The jungle moved in, and the ruins were forgotten until the French discovered them in 1900. French archeologists cleared away the jungle in the first part of this century and have continued their work on the ruins despite the end of French rule in Indochina and the shifting tides of politics and war in Cambodia.

Voyage Is Ended For Chichester

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — Sir Francis Chichester's unsuccessful try at sailing alone 4,000 miles across the South Atlantic in 20 days has ended here.

Mellon Widow Plans Wedding

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Constance Prosser Mellon and Peter E. Burrell of Newmarket, England, plan to marry this summer. She is the widow of financier and philanthropist Richard King Mellon. Burrell is director of the government-owned National Stud of the United Kingdom, an organization dedicated to improving horse breeding. Announcement of their engagement has been made by the business offices for Mrs. Mellon and her four children. The time and place of the wedding were not announced. It will be the third marriage for Mrs. Mellon, an expert horsewoman who is in her early 60s. She married Mellon in 1936 after an unsuccessful marriage to Vance McCaulley. Mellon died last June 3. The 69-year-old yachtman sailed into Plymouth Tuesday night. He sailed from Plymouth on Dec. 18 for the South Atlantic bid, but failed to cover the distance in the time he had set for himself. Sir Francis arrived in San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, 22½ days after leaving Bissau, Portuguese Guinea, in West Africa. He had described his goal as the yachtman's "four-minute mile."

APTS TO RENT

DALLAS (AP) — There are more apartments vacant now than at any time since 1964, says Devane Clarke, president of the Texas Apartment Association. He blames overproduction and the present state of the economy.

A Work Agenda Aids Efficiency

Debby decided to adopt my "Agenda" plan in order to finish more chores over the weekend. It is an excellent method for saving time and also increasing your output of work, whether you are a student, housewife or business executive. Try it for one week and see for yourself!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case Q-551: Debby, aged 9 is one of our granddaughters. She is troubled by failing to get all of her household chores completed on schedule. "Mamma," she announced one Saturday morning, "I guess I'll write down my Agenda, the way Grandpa does. "Then I can see all the things that I must finish. "And I'll cross off each one as soon as it is done." Efficiency Engineering The use of a written list (Agenda) is a great ally of efficiency engineering.

I make out my own monthly agenda and keep it on my desk. Debby and her brothers (Matthew and Peter) often sit around my office, pestering me with questions while I am frantically trying to type my day's chore as per my Agenda. So they may then peruse the Agenda to see if I am falling behind in my output. For I make a separate line for each week's batch of these 6 "Worry Clinic" columns.

This means 4 and sometimes 5 entries for the month. But I also produce a syndicated Quiz Column, so I list 4 or 5 more entries, since it requires a full day's typing to complete just one week's quota. Then I list the 3 or 4 magazine articles that I must complete, making each one a separate entry. And each lecture trip also gets listed on a separate line. Since I must dictate many "sloves" of letters on my dictating machine, I list them, too. Plus a few extra chores, such as cutting wood for the fireplace or painting the garage, etc. My monthly list thus contains 25 to 30 major items, most of which are a full day's quota of work. When I complete any item on the list, I cross it out with a thick red marking pencil! And I take vicious delight in doing so, as my grandchildren have often observed. Last summer, 11-year old Matthew aided me in repairing the dam on our little farm pond in Indiana, plus nailing several sheets of galvanized roofing on the barn, sawing down trees for firewood, etc. "Mamma," Matthew explained to our daughter Judy afterwards, "Grandpa crossed off 10 items in his Agenda that had not been finished for over a year!" Which was true! And I lost 12 pounds of blubber, because he prodded me so heavily that we put in double time for an entire week. But this Agenda plan is superb for everybody, since it lets you go from one task to another without wasting time. Otherwise, we stall around for an hour or two wondering "What should I do next?" Students, too, can make a daily or weekly Agenda and list the hours of study for various courses, or the themes they are to write. You'll find it is a great joy to cross out each completed item. And after a few months, you'll feel restless if you don't accomplish something definite every day, even on your vacation!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

For the third year, employees of Union Carbide have made a cash contribution to Pitt Technical Institute. At a brief ceremony late Monday morning in the office of Pitt Tech President Dr. William Fulford, Fuller Molsinger, manager of Union Carbide, presented a donation for $500.

Saying the money was to help the institution carry out its program, Molsinger commented, "We are very satisfied with Pitt Tech's response to job filling."

State Senator Vernon White, present for the brief ceremony, noted that the concern of Union Carbide "expressed cooperation with Pitt Tech in a nice way." The senator said, "Such gifts make us feel we are meeting the needs of Pitt County and serving the area in vocational and technical ways."

In accepting the third annual gift from the Greenville company, Dr. Fulford said, "The

In conjunction with the aims of a national program, the Greenville Pitt County League of Women Voters has launched a full dress program to study methods to prevent and combat air pollution locally.

Groundwork for this project is being headed by Mrs. Charles E. Bland, who helped plan and attended the Air Quality Workshop in Raleigh. Dr. Joseph Boyette of the Biology Department of East Carolina University, was a special participant in the Raleigh program.
