Blast Rips Barracks

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) - Seven soldiers were injured, one seriously, when an explosion ripped through their barracks at Ft. Bragg Tuesday night. Maj. Jimmie Wilson of the post information office said today a preliminary investigation indicated the blast was caused by a dud artillery shell that may have been picked up on a firing range and brought into the barracks. Wilson said investigators had ruled out sabotage as the cause. Wilson said the man seriously hurt lost portions of both legs. Six other men were in satisfactory condition at Womack Army Hospital at Ft. Bragg. Names of the injured were withheld pending notification of next of kin. The blast ripped through the barracks of A Battery, 4th Battalion, 39th Artillery of the XVII Airborne Corps. It was not known how many men were in the barracks. There was no structural damage to the building, Wilson said.

Cites 'Undercurrent'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) - The Commandant of the Marine Corps, Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr., predicted here Tuesday that the United States will not reach a voluntary military structure "unless the attitude to the armed forces is substantially changed." Chapman said, "I think it's too bad," commenting to reporters on the antimilitary undercurrent in this country. He was here to speak at the Armed Forces Staff College on the status of the Marine Corps. The antiwar attitude, he said, has had no apparent effect on recruiting for the Marine Corps, adding that it has exceeded its quotas for the last several months. The Corps has a present strength of 220,000 men.

Rioting In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) - A hundred Jewish "Black Panthers" charging discrimination against Jewish immigrants from Africa and Asia fought street battles for six hours Tuesday with police. Ten policemen and several demonstrators were injured in Israel's worst rioting in years. Police said they arrested 74 protesters, who claimed that Jews from Africa and Asia are forced to live in slums and are deprived of educational opportunities. The Panthers organized three months ago. The police had authorized a Panther demonstration at a square in the city but moved in with clubs and water hoses when the demonstrators left the square and marched down a main street. The Panthers responded with a barrage of stones, and they smashed shop windows.

Redden Wins In Farmville Runoff

FARMVILLE - Leroy Redden won a runoff election here yesterday to become a member of the Farmville Board of Commissioners. Running third in a race for three seats in the municipal election held May 4, he was challenged by the fourth contender, incumbent Commissioner W. C. "Lum" Wooten because he did not win a clear majority. The vote yesterday was 636 for Redden and 462 for Wooten, according to C. A. Lilly, registrar. "The turnout was about 100 below that of the regular election," he said. Some 1,108 countable votes were cast and there were ten or 12 spoiled ballots. Redden and J. I. Mortan Jr. and W. R. Duke, the three newly elected Commissioners, will take their seats on the five-man Board July 1 at noon, Town Clerk Carl Beaman said. Redden, who will be assistant principal of Farmville Central High School next year, is the first black man to serve on the Board in many years and is the first ever elected. A Greene County native, he has been an educator and the owner of several local business places. He received his B.S. and M.A. degrees at A & T State College and has done further study at UNC-CH, ECU, and Calcutta University in India. A steward and superintendent of Sunday School at St. Stephen's AME Zion Church here, he is a World War II Veteran and a past commander of American Legion Post 372. He also belongs to the Pitt Progressive Improvement Club, Livingston Lodge No. 103, and heads the Pitt County A & T State Alumni Association.

Last Rites Today For Drowned Student

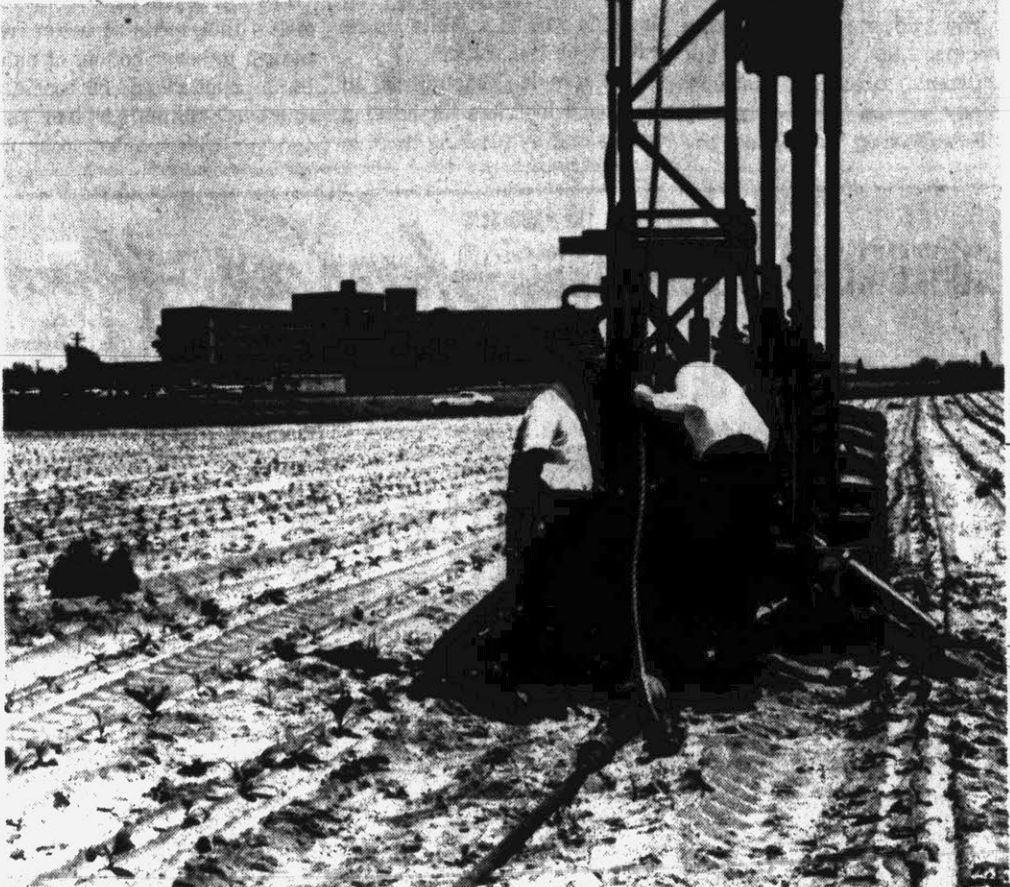

FARMVILLE - A memorial service for Dickie Newton, the Farmville High School student who drowned while on a class trip last Friday, was held Monday and graveside services were held this afternoon. Discovered around 9 a.m. yesterday at Salter Path, about a mile from where an undertow carried it out to sea, the body was taken to Carteret General Hospital. Going along with the funeral home staff to return the body home were Farmville High School principal Russ Cotton; assistant principal Sam

Follow Firemen's Lead City Police Organize A Union

By STUART SAVAGE, Reflector Staff Writer. Greenville police officers formed a union last night in an effort to seek improved working conditions. About two dozen officers attended the union organization meeting, and by 8 a.m. today, 33 of the department's 44 eligible full-time officers had become members. In becoming members of the International Brotherhood of Police Officers - an independent union - the men followed the lead of Greenville firemen who unionized under the International Association of Fire Fighters a year ago.

Officers of the IBPO local formed last year in New Bern, and Robert Bragg, IBPO's international secretary-treasurer spoke to the local officers and outlined benefits of union organization. Donald Lundblad, secretary-treasurer of the New Bern police union, told local officers, "joining a union doesn't make a miracle appear." He emphasized, "you have to go out and work. There's no miracle... it's hard work... the working together is what does it." A police department sergeant, Lundblad suggested meetings with the municipal governing board could be one way local union members could work toward improved equipment and training. He noted that improved training and working conditions would lead to increased pay. "A union can give you a voice in city government," he noted. Bragg told the officers, "There are a lot of reasons why police officers should belong to a union. You have problems that are unique. To get anything

Sales Tax Said Least Painful Way To Meet Cost Of New Hospital

By CAROL TYER, Reflector Staff Writer. Hospital Board chairman Woodrow W. Wooten and J. H. "Hap" Moye spoke out last night for the sales tax issue that is to be voted on next Tuesday. "The Commissioners tell us that the hospital bonds are what will raise the ad valorem tax so much if the sales tax is not approved," Wooten commented. "The revenue will have to come from somewhere and we believe this will be the least painful way. Every hospital trustee who worked hard and long for the approval of the hospital owes it to those he persuaded to also work for the sales tax." A resolution to make state legislators aware of the Hospital Board's strong desire to avail the hospital of prison laundry service was drafted. This was done after the group was told that Rep. Horton Rountree has co-sponsored a measure to have the matter of prison service as it opposes free enterprise studied by a special committee. Prison service from Clinton, which was scheduled to begin this summer would save Pitt County taxpayers some $40,000 a year, Hospital administrator C. D. Ward said, adding that the man in charge of the prison program does not feel too kindly toward a county whose representation is not in favor of the service, when so many other counties are requesting it. Only one local laundry has bid on the service for the past several years, Ward commented, so in effect the prison service is the low bidder. If the prison service is not used, building a laundry as part of the new hospital will have to be considered, trustees indicated. A letter of thanks from former Hospital Trustee Ed Waldrop was read. A resolution of appreciation was voted for Waldrop last month. Also read was a letter from Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Edminister of Greenville for the fine care given their seven-year-old daughter admitted to the Pitt Memorial Emergency Room for accidental burns. Administrator Ward told of a highly successful fire training program recently held by Pitt Technical Institute and Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner for hospital employees. Some 453 employees attended the session which dealt with use of fire-fighting equipment, evacuation of patients in the event of fire, etc. The new hospital project director Jack Richardson and

Railroad Stoppage Ends As Congress Votes Pay Hike

By JAY PERKINS, Associated Press Writer. WASHINGTON (AP) - The giant U.S. rail system began shrugging off effects of a two-day paralysis today and started moving tired commuters to their jobs and materials to the nation's factories. Members of the 13,000-member AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen, which had immobilized the rail system before Congress broke the coast-to-coast strike, began removing pickets from terminals and freight yards shortly after President Nixon signed legislation ending the walkout. Union President C.J. Chamberlain notified strikers shortly before midnight Tuesday the walkout was over and ordered them back to their jobs. The Penn Central reported freight trains were rolling again within an hour of Nixon's decree. Other railroads said they would resume service as the day progressed. Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said it probably would be 24 hours before full service was in effect, but Chamberlain said restoration "should be well along by morning." The signalmen's union, which represents only two per cent of the nation's 500,000-member railway labor force, struck the rail system Monday morning in a dispute over wages. Their picket lines were honored by other unions and almost all service was halted. Congress quickly enacted a measure Tuesday giving the signalmen a 13.5-per-cent wage hike and ordering a halt to the walkout until at least Oct. 1. President Nixon signed the measure about 10:30 p.m. The short-lived strike had its effects on commerce. A dozen West Virginia coal mines were shut down; Detroit auto firms and Pittsburgh steel producers cut back production. The Kellogg Co. of Battle Creek, Mich., and the Quaker Oats Co. at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, shut down altogether. Growers and processors of perishable foods sought to divert their produce to trucks but many reported only partial success. The walkout also affected the stock market. The New York Stock Exchange dropped sharply Monday, rose slightly at midday Tuesday but closed 2.74 points down in the Dow Jones averages.

Final House Action Expected Today On Private College Aid

RALEIGH (AP) - Final House action was expected today on a bill calling for state aid to private colleges and universities through scholarship funds. The House approved the measure tentatively Tuesday despite objections that it violated the principal of separation of church and state. The House voted 92-17 to approve the bill after beating down motions to refer the bill to the House Appropriations Committee, to defer action until next Wednesday, and an amendment to require that veterans of Vietnam be given preference in passing out scholarships. While the House was voting on the bill, Rep. Mary Odum, D-Scotland, told the House that by "setting this policy we are nailing public education to the cross." Rep. Perry Martin, D-Northampton, chairman of the House Committee, on Higher Education, told the House that a bill will be introduced later in the week to appropriate $5.2 million for the scholarships called for in the bill. He said the bill would provide a scholarship of $200 each for North Carolina students enrolled in private colleges and universities in the state. Rep. Marvin Johnson, D-Johnston, sponsored an amendment to require that Vietnam veterans be given preference in awards of scholarships, but the House killed the amendment on a tabling motion by Martin. This came after Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, pointed out that college expenses of war veterans are paid by the federal government under the GI Bill of Rights.

Today's Teachers Doing 'A Better Job', Avers NCAE Speaker Here

Dr. A. C. Dawson, Executive Secretary of the North Carolina Association of Educators, paid tribute to teachers in the public schools in his speech to annual banquet of the Greenville units of three teachers' associations - the N.C. Association of Educators; the Association of Classroom Teachers; and the Association of Childhood Education; meeting jointly at the Greenville Golf and Country Club last night. "Teachers are doing a better job today under the most trying circumstances," Dr. Dawson commented. "Public schools are presently at the lowest ebb in regard to public support." He commented that "public schools must have the same moral and spiritual support as that given in the past when the nation was founded on a system of public education." Dr. Dawson also made several comments regarding legislation matters concerning school program in North Carolina. During the program, five retiring teachers were honored by the presentation of certificates of appreciation for long service rendered to public education. The retiring teachers are: Mrs. Hazel Gibson, Mrs. Kay Phillips, Mrs. Esther Tetterton, Mrs. Lila Smith, and Athletic Director Roland (Bo) Farley. Mrs. Esther Warren, president of ACE, made the presentations. J. B. Smith, president of

Ellender Warns Nation May Choke On Its Debts

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States, the world's wealthiest nation, may choke on its debts, says Sen. Allen Ellender, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee. The Louisiana Democrat told his colleagues Tuesday the current national debt of nearly $400 billion is like a mountain so big it can't be seen. "That is a sum greater than the debt of all the other countries in the world," Ellender declared. He said he had put his staff and a bank of computers to work to make the size of a $400 billion debt more comprehensible, with these results: "If every member of the United States Senate counted two, one-dollar bills every second of every minute of every hour of every day of every week, it would take approximately 64 years to count $400 billion. "If the senators worked the standard work year eight hours per day for 260 days a year taking no coffee breaks, or holidays or vacations, it would take them 267 years to accomplish the same count." At its current capacity, it would take the Bureau of Printing and Engraving about 171 years to print 400 billion one-dollar bills. "$400 billion in one-dollar bills would fill about 3,456 railway boxcars, making a train almost 36 miles long." The 400,000,000,000 one-dollar bills stacked on top of each other would reach about 27,095 miles, or 4 1/2 trips from New York to Los Angeles. "Placed end to end, that many bills would make a path, 16 bills or 35 feet wide, to the moon. "End to end the bills would encircle the equator 1,552 times. Actually, Ellender confessed, "I've overstated the case." "The national debt at the moment is really only $396 billion." "But at the rate this government spends money," he said, "what's a few billion more or less."

She Dislikes Early Morning Telephone Calls

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: In all the years I've been reading your column I never have seen this problem discussed:

My children are grown and out of the nest. Two are married and one is away at school. My husband prefers to have his breakfast downtown, so after 24 years of getting up early to prepare breakfast for my family, I am finally able to sleep in the morning.

Now the problem: My friends start calling me at 8:30 a. m. They have nothing to say that could not have waited until noon. They just want to visit.

Once I am awakened, I can't go back to sleep. Also they ask, "Did I wake you up?" When I say yes, they make me feel as though I should apologize for sleeping. (Especially my sister in law!) I have been a faithful wife and a good mother, and I am not lazy, so if I want to sleep late, whose business is it but my own?

I would take the telephone off the hook but with aging parents and children away at school I am afraid I might miss an emergency call. Is there a solution?

BUCKEYE DINGALING

DEAR DING: Yes! Ask each and every early bird caller to please refrain from calling you until noon because you have now earned the right to sleep late and would like to enjoy it. If they "forget," hang up on them. They will soon learn to respect your wishes. (P. S. For openers, clip this, and send it to the worst offender.)

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of the following? A new neighbor invited me and two other neighbor women in for tea. When she telephoned me she said, "Please come for a cup of tea on Friday at 2 p. m. for an hour." [The other women said they had been invited in exactly the same way.]

I arrived promptly at 2 p. m. and the other neighbors were right behind me. We were given a "tour" thru the new neighbor's home, after which she served us tea and little cakes. We were visiting and joking and having a lovely time, when all of a sudden an alarm clock went off in the kitchen. Our hostess jumped up and said, "Well, our hour is up! Thank you for coming." Then she handed us our purses and ushered us to the door. Naturally we all left. What do you make of this?

FLABBERGASTED

DEAR FLABBERGASTED: I think she's one woman who says exactly what she means, and means exactly what she says.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is divorced, and is engaged to be married again. His bride-to-be insists on a big formal wedding, white gown, 250 guests—the whole bit. My son has asked for my advice.

I feel it isn't proper for them to have a wedding like this because they set up housekeeping together two years ago, and have been living as man and wife in the same small town they plan to be married in. It seems to me this girl is deliberately setting herself up for ridicule and ugly gossip. She is a sweet, gentle girl and she and my son love each other.

Please tell me what you think. Am I too old-fashioned and not with it?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Since your son has asked for your advice, tell him exactly how you feel. But don't be surprised if that "sweet and gentle" girl refuses to be talked out of her big formal wedding, saying she couldn't care less about "ridicule and ugly gossip."

DEAR ABBY: My husband refuses to wear a tuxedo at our son's wedding. His reason is that the reception is being held in a "basement." True, it is basement level, but it is a beautiful room. The important members of the wedding party are all dressing formally and I think the father of the groom should wear a tuxedo. He said he would only if you thought he should, so please hurry your answer. Thank you.

MULE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell dad that I said he should wear a tuxedo.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Overshot The Mark Enroute To Wedding

GRETNA GREEN, Scotland (WNS) — Phillip Goulbourne, 21, and Maria McGowna, 16, eloped to Gretna Green but thought things over before the wedding and decided to invite the groom's mother, Nora Goulbourne, 50. Mrs. Goulbourne accepted the telephone invitation, took the next train from Liverpool, but missed the wedding because she fell asleep on the train and traveled all the way to Carstairs, Scotland.

Her Job: Teaching Children How To Cook

By JEANNE LESEM

UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Aileen Paul Bartholomew, a suburban housewife, mother, food consultant and author, volunteered for the kind of job most mothers would do anything to avoid.

She teaches children to cook. Her classes for 6-to-12-year-olds are part of the Leonia, N.J., community recreation program.

In an interview here, Mrs. Bartholomew said she started the classes in her home kitchen six years ago, despite a warning from the recreation director—who was a bachelor at the time—that the children would burn themselves and cut their fingers.

"My own children cooked at the age of three," she said. "I encouraged them to make simple things—drop cookies, gelatin desserts, instant puddings—so they could be with me while I was getting dinner. I was working at the time."

Miss Jones Gives WOTM Program

Miss Ada Jones presented the program at the meeting of the Women of the Moose Chapter 1308 held Thursday night.

The Academy of Friendship Chairman Genet Lilly was in charge of the program. Miss Jones spoke on "Friendship."

The Academy of Friendship Degree was earned and received by Mertie White, Pat Warren and Daphne Tedder. A gold ring, the symbol of the Academy of Friendship, and a corsage was presented to each one receiving the degree.

The results of the nominating committee meeting were announced and the slate of officers will be voted on May 27.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Luncheon Given Club Members

Members of the Chicora Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Don Wilkerson for a luncheon meeting. Mrs. Bill Taft was co-hostess.

Mrs. James Cheatham spoke on "Doll Collections" and exhibited many dolls from her collection which included antique dolls to the modern Augland dolls.

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Robert Deyton, Mrs. Fountain, Mrs. Jack Welch and Mrs. E. B. Aycock Jr.

Plans were made for the next meeting which will be a day at the river home of Mrs. Clarence Tugwell.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Edna S. Pridgen of Rt. 2, Elm City, announces the engagement of her daughter, Kathleen, to Anthony Louis Guzzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph P. Guzzo of Norfolk, Va. The wedding will take place June 5. The bride-elect is the daughter of the late Richard D. Pridgen.

Mrs. Bartholomew's husband is former child movie star Freddie Bartholomew, now an advertising executive. They have a son, 13, and a daughter, 15.

Her daughter by an earlier marriage also learned to cook at an early age, and appeared with her mother once a week on television cooking shows here.

Mrs. Bartholomew, who has conducted adult cooking classes as well, sees tremendous advantages in teaching the young.

"Children hear you—they're aware of what you're saying and trying to do," she said. "They're emotionally with you and you must be receptive to what they're saying."

Mrs. Bartholomew said her first children's classes were for older ones. Now there are classes for first graders, at the request of younger brothers and sisters.

She said she uses the same recipes for all ages, but different teaching methods. Many of the recipes are in "Kids Cooking," a cookbook she co-authored (as Aileen Paul) with Arthur Hawkins.

Her younger pupils, who come direct from school on Fridays, get juice and cookies right away and mill around a bit before they start cooking.

They also take two or three of the 1½ hour sessions to prepare recipes that older children can do in one.

"You have to be careful about attention span," said Mrs. Bartholomew. "I don't expect the little ones to finish the tedious job of pushing pizza dough. And I don't attempt to let them bake a cake from scratch and frost it the same day."

"You have to be terribly alert to work with children of all ages. They may be so preoccupied with other things."

Mrs. Bartholomew described herself as "really a Jean Mayer about nutrition"—a reference to the Harvard professor of nutrition who is a White House adviser on the subject.

She said she capitalizes on children's fondness for cooking and baking by teaching them to make "good nutritional molasses cookies and old-fashioned oatmeal ones."

"I do a lot of breakfast things with kids. I tell them 'even if your family doesn't have time to eat breakfast, there's no reason why you can't fix your own.'"

"Cooking classes are a way of encouraging responsibility. If you make a decision to stir properly, you will have something good to eat. If you don't or if you forget to set the timer, if you goof off—you'll lose the respect of your mates."

That's important, because the children, who divide up the food to take home, want it as visible and tasty evidence of their accomplishments.

Beef and macaroni is one of the simplest recipes in "Kids Cooking" by Aileen Paul and Arthur Hawkins.

In a frying pan over low heat, melt 1 tablespoon of butter, or enough to cover bottom of pan. Put 1 pound of ground boneless chuck or hamburger into pan and stir with wooden spoon or long-handled fork, keeping meat in small pieces, not chunks. Cook until meat loses red color, but not until brown. Open a can of prepared macaroni with cheese sauce and add to meat. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon of onion salt, stir and heat until steaming. Serves 4 to 6.

A Bride's China Is Lifetime Investment

NEW YORK (UPI)—Fine china has two basic designs: traditional and contemporary. While most of today's brides favor the traditional, their willingness to experiment and their love for bright, clear colors is finding expression in china designs.

Blue, green, orange, earth tones, combinations of red, white and blue, brown and black, black and white will undoubtedly catch the eye of today's bride searching for her china pattern.

She will find the muted colors, white-on-white, the gold and platinum bands are ever-present, too. The Jewelry Industry Council cautions the bride to remember that her fine china is a lifetime investment. She should be positive her pattern choice will survive her long-term scrutiny.

Some points about shopping for fine china:

—You should be able to see light through it.

Balancing a plate on three fingers and tapping it with a pencil should produce a clear, bell-like ring.

—The cup should fit snugly and securely in the saucer.

As a starter, four place settings of china are the minimum, if the bride and her husband-to-be plan on any entertaining at all. In china, a place setting includes a dinner plate, salad plate, bread and butter plate, teacup and saucer.

Just as china patterns today are alive with color, so are newer crystal patterns. Blue, green, black, brown, colored bowls paired with white stems, textured crystal are newsy additions to the traditional high stems and deep cuts so many brides still favor.

Whether she likes to mix the colors of her crystal and china, match them or experiment with her own favorable coloration for her table, the bride wants assurance that her crystal is of the same high quality as her china.

What to look for when buying crystal:

—Bows and stems of glasses should have uniform shape and balance.

—Held to the light, the glassware should not reveal waves or bubbles.

—Tapped gently with a fingernail, it should give off a clear, bell-like ring.

The four minimum crystal place settings will include in each setting: a water goblet, sherbet, wine glass and salad plate.

The bride's jeweler registers her china and crystal patterns along with her silver patterns, to make wedding gifting more meaningful and within the range of the couple's desires and needs.

Doctor Tells The 'Fat' Facts

DEAUVILLE, France (WNS)

— During the medical convention on obesity here, Dr. Robert Codaccioni assured Frenchmen that their women will never have the natural, slim figures that are the heritage of males. "The average adult male carries enough fat to represent 14 per cent of his total weight," explained the Marseilles specialist. "This figure rises to 28 per cent for the normal woman. In other words, the normal woman is fatty and should learn to treat chubbiness as health and beauty." He added that women who insist upon looking slim generally weigh from 8 to 10 per cent less than they should in their full glow of health.

U.S. Cannot Shirk Its Role

Senate Democratic majority leader Mike Mansfield has long been known for being a responsible leader; thus we can only accord his proposal to cut U.S. troop strength in Europe by 50 percent to partisan politics.

We assume that, as the Democratic leader in the Senate, Mansfield meant to put pressure on a Republican president in the field of international relations. If this is the case, Sen. Mansfield ran into some powerful opposition from within his own party. Two former Democratic presidents who have wrestled with the problems of international relations—Johnson and Truman—came out against the Mansfield proposal. A number of top Democrats who served in previous administrations also opposed it.

President Nixon said the Mansfield proposal would be "an error of historic dimensions"

The proposal is particularly untimely because Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev has called for negotiations for mutual reduction in European troop and armament levels.

The United States has made its share of mistakes in foreign relations over the past decade and there have been far too many little men who have sought to use this country's problems to advance their own petty ambitions.

We do not put Sen. Mansfield in this class; on the other hand he runs the risk of being judged that way in history if he attempts to pursue a partisan line insofar as our international commitments are concerned.

There has been talk of a new isolationist America as the result of our long and agonizing involvement in Vietnam. The only thing wrong with that theory is that the United States will not be able to shirk from its international commitments even if it tries. It may sound trite these days to talk of partisan politics ending at our shores, but to some extent that is the way it will have to be.

Assembly Will Do Something

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — The 1971 General Assembly will address itself to the issue of a proper structure for higher education in North Carolina.

While it does not yet appear what will be done, that the legislature will do something became clear over the past ten days or so.

Indications from inside and outside the State Legislative Building in recent days confirmed that chaos and conflict in the organizational pattern of higher education will be the subject for legislation.

First, a band of legislators in the Joint Appropriations Committee rallied support for their own recommendations for firming the hand of the State Board of Higher Education to coordinate programs of the state's universities.

Next, Governor Bob Scott said he will go before a joint Senate-House session, soon with proposals based on the work of a special study commission. Since the commission's report is in process of being drafted, the Governor made no detailed comment on what his recommendations will be.

Speaker Proposed Delay
The prospect for action this session was clouded last week when House Speaker Philip P. Godwin said he thought the wiser course would be to lay over the issue until 1973. The Gates Representative said he doubted adequate study and debate could be afforded the study commission's recommendations in the days leading to adjournment.

Often, the Speaker reminded, the vote in the twilight of a session reflects the desire to go home rather than mature judgment on the matter at hand.

Whatever the merits of Godwin's position, it failed to strike a responsive chord.

Governor Scott said he understood the House Speaker's concern to wind up business with dispatch and without needlessly prolonging the session. Nonetheless, he said, "I do think the question of the governance of higher education should come before the General Assembly at this time."

Lawmakers should remain in Raleigh long enough to attend to the business of the state and not a day longer, Scott added.

Lawmakers Ready To Act
Even before the Governor spoke, legislators themselves were saying the issue had to be dealt with at the current session.

"There is no reason to wait," said Senator Tom Strickland of Wayne, voicing the sentiment of many in both chambers. "If, indeed, the present situation is costly to the taxpayers of the state, we should remedy it as soon as possible."

Strickland is a member of the Personnel and Long-Range Planning Subcommittee of the Joint Appropriations Committee which already has offered suggestions for meeting the higher education crisis. It reported recommendations to the parent committee last week.

The subcommittee headed by Rep. Julian Fenner of Nash suggested that the present State Board of Higher Education be strengthened by giving it authority to approve new programs contemplated or proposed by the institutions. It also recommended that the board have power to abolish programs when it deemed duplication was expensive and unnecessary.

Authority for the board to bring budgetary coordination to higher education has been approved by the subcommittee, but not yet presented to the full committee. Naturally, it is an idea with far more potential for controversy.

End To Rivalry
The aim is a cure for the intense competition now prevailing in higher education, with institutions jockeying for legislative advantage in securing appropriations. As the taxpayer burden grows, more and more legislators and citizens are concerned at the absence of cooperation and coordination in the area.

One extreme approach reportedly is taken by the study commission headed by Lindsay C. Warren, Jr., of Goldsboro, predecessor to Strickland as Wayne County Senator. It would set up a board of regents to run the state's system of higher education; in effect, deconsolidating the University of North Carolina.

The other extreme, of course, would be inaction: allowing the present rivalry and jealousies to continue unchecked.

Duplication is not always a vice, and stifling incentive is never a virtue," Strickland insisted. "However, we must have coordination and cooperation among institutions for the truly gigantic task of higher education."

Changeover In Duke Power Co.

By JOHN KILGO
CHARLOTTE — Carl Horne Jr. was the attorney suing Duke Power Co. in a bus accident case. William B. McGuire was representing the power company.

Horne won the case in lower court but Duke appealed and McGuire won in the higher court. That was 20 years ago and in the following years Carl Horne and Bill McGuire became very close friends.

A couple of weeks ago, Horne succeeded McGuire as president of Duke Power Company.

"Following in Bill McGuire's shoes would be a difficult job in the best of times," Horne says, "and these aren't the best of times."

Horne was an expert trial lawyer in one of Charlotte's most prestigious law firms back in 1954 when he was approached about coming to work in Duke's legal department. He turned it down, then later accepted the job. He was named general counsel in 1959.

Now as Duke's president, Horne will be called boss by some 10,000 employees.

"My main job will be to motivate these people," Horne says. "The morale in this company is remarkable. If we can't make a success of the utility business, I doubt that anyone can."

Horne steps in at a time when power companies across the country are under the gun from many angles. People demand more electricity to run their air-conditioners, TV sets, fans, and kitchen appliances. Power companies feel they must build nuclear-powered plants to supply the demand, but this often brings protests from conservationists.

"One of our main jobs today is public relations," Horne says. "We must be able to get the true story of what we are trying to do out, so people can understand it. A few people with lots of degrees are going around the country distorting statistics and scaring a lot of people."

Just as Horne is eager to start his new job, McGuire is anticipating the enjoyments of retirement. He'll still be on the board of directors at Duke but he plans to do some relaxing.

"In our company you're not eligible for retirement until you're 60," McGuire said, "and I just turned 60 several weeks, I can tell you that I'm enthusiastic about my new life. It's good not to have to listen to the alarm clock any more."

McGuire will continue to do some industry-related work, but mostly he says: "I've got a million things that I've been wanting to do but just didn't have time. I plan to enjoy myself and get some of those things done."

Horne, meanwhile, is working out of McGuire's former office. It's a big room, modestly furnished, no carpet on the floor. Horne likes white shirts, narrow ties, blue trousers. He works in his shirt sleeves, is easy to talk to.

"I will admit that I'm a little frightened by this job," he says. "But I have good people around me and we think we can get the job done."

Horne misses the excitement of trying cases in the courtroom but he looks back on his decision to come to Duke Power and says: "I've never regretted it."

He likes to hunt and fish but finding time for hobbies will now be a problem.

Horne, the new president, and McGuire, the past president of Duke Power, both summed up their new roles this way: "I'm excited about it."

Public Forum

To the Editor:

How many times must the voters of Pitt County reject the proposed general sales tax increase? A year and a half ago they rejected this proposal. If it is rejected again on May 25, will that settle the matter? Or must they reject this tax a third, fourth, or fifth time? To be sure the Commissioners will not then be able to impose the tax, but who knows what they and the legislature may do two years from now? It takes only one affirmative vote of the people to levy the tax. Why must the people vote against the tax more than once to scotch it? How many times, O Lord? How many times?

Strength For Today

OUT WITH THE MESSAGE

Mr. H. Allen Smith, the humorist, has written an amusing observation on the clergy.

"Whatever the clergy say is law! All they have to do is to say that the world is flat, or round, or upside down, and the people say 'Amen.' All that they have to do is to say that the world is really an oyster and the people nod and get out the horseshoe. If I had it to do over again, I think I'd think I'd go in for holy orders. I'd get a lot more respect for my opinions around the house."

There are several hundred thousand of us who wish that the amusing Mr. H. Allen Smith were correct. There was a time when the minister was called "parson," meaning that he was the outstanding person of the community. He is still very highly respected, but he is not highly enough respected. Curiously enough, the average minister does not respect himself as highly as he should. He is inclined to bow and scrape a bit before scientists and other erudite people. This he should not do, for the minister is God's proclaimer of truth. He has something vastly more important to say than has the scientist, the economist or the politician. He is doing disservice to the faith when he tries to make his teachings conform to every new modern idea.

Let the minister cry out his true message, and we shall have a revolution overnight to the glory of God.

Russians Won't Buy It

WASHINGTON — My colleague Russell Baker of the New York Times a couple of weeks ago wrote that the reason the Soviets were digging large new holes around Moscow is because they believed that American potholes were really dug for our new missile sites.

with a Soviet spy named Nicolai. He told me the reason the Soviets were digging their large holes is because we were doing the same thing in Washington. "Nicolai, how can you sit there and say that we are installing missiles in the Washington area?" "Ha," said Nicolai. "Why are there large holes all over Washington?" I started to laugh. "Nicolai, you Communist fool. Those holes are being dug for our new subway."

building a subway in Washington. Everyone knows that. "Of course we are. The plans have appeared in all the newspapers." "Then what is this?" Nicolai demanded, taking a newspaper clipping out of his tobacco pouch. He read, "The House today defeated a bill to release funds of $34.2 million for the District of Columbia subway construction project now going on in Washington. Without these funds metro officials said they would not be able to continue the work." Nicolai, you naive Red idiot," I laughed. "The

Other Editors Say Think About It

(Jacksonville Daily News)
The changing U.S.-Soviet military balance of power makes inevitable a major shift in U.S. foreign strategy.

It makes the old freedom of U.S. action next to impossible. In another Cuban missile crises, we probably could not push a showdown of the 1961 type without a very strong reaction by the Russians, perhaps in Berlin.

We probably could not again be able to get away unscathed with a precautionary military step of the type President Eisenhower carried out in Lebanon in 1958.

It means too that the United States probably can never again take the chance of becoming tied down in one country so completely as in Vietnam.

A nuclear stalemate or Soviet superiority would give USSR new freedom to promote "wars of national liberation" or underground insurgencies directed and supplied with arms, money and "volunteers" from outside.

It probably would mean a gradual decline in the unity of the free world, with more countries attempting some sort of a detente with the Soviet Union.

It could mean a growing activism among aggression-minded small nations, especially those allied with Moscow, because they would have less fear of intervention by the United States.

In sum, the growth of Soviet power could tempt the Kremlin and its allies into bolder challenges, thus increasing the danger of war.

The shift in military power responsible for the trends noted above—is dramatic.

A decade ago, at the Cuban missile crises, American ICBMs outnumbered Russia's by 10 to one. American conventional forces dominated the seas.

Today the United States is still ahead, but not by much. Some high officials argue that by 1975 the Russians may be ahead. Some set the date at 1980-82. Though others disagree that there is evidence the Soviet Union will achieve superiority most of the experts agree that barring a major technological breakthrough, the United States will never again enjoy the preponderance over Russia that it had in 1961.

Something to think about!

Low Opinion Of Public's Mind

By ELMER ROESSNER

The United States Trademark Association has issued its annual exposition of the human mind — or the judicial mind — at work. It has listed the trademarks found to be infringements, and those not to be in conflict, by various tribunals.

toddlers and Cuddler knitted underwear for infants. Zirc catalytic receivers and JVC tape recorders. Lave soap and Lavana liquid detergents for fabrics. Miss Merry toy kits and Miss Mary children's tea sets. Q-Tips swabs and Quick Tips manicuring spray. Zirc catalytic agents and Cozirc dryer for paints and varnishes. Awake frozen concentrate for imitation orange juice and Arise liquid breakfast drink. Noon Hour picked and marinated fish and 12 O'Clock dietary food in powdered form. Taractan tranquilizers and Taruxan treatment for cardiac deficiency. Si-Bonne fabrics and Tres-

Bons hosiery.

From these, one may get the idea that the American judiciary has a low opinion of the American intelligence, which cannot distinguish between "awake" and "arise" or marinated fish and powdered dietary food. However, the design and color of the trademarks sometimes entered into these cases.

Distinctions
On the other hand, there are trademarks which various jurisdictions decided were not in conflict with each other:

Chow animal feeds and Chow Mania snack crackers. Coca-Cola beverage and Coco-Loco flavoring for soft drinks. Dutch Masters cigars and Little Dutchman cigars. Ole tiquila and Ole cigars, with accents over the "e." Downtowner motor inn and Uptowner motor inn. Skol vodka and Skola soft drinks. Sailfish sailboats and Goldfish sailboats.

Five Years Lost

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — A clean desk is the sign of a frightened mind.

I've said this before, and I now say it again. I was nearly scared out of my wits a month ago when, bowing to popular office demand, I let the vast hump of debris atop my desk be cleaned off.

That represented a tremendous sacrifice to me. To those around me that tower of rubble was only an eyesore and a needless mess. To me it was a mound of marvels, the many-layered story of my life. It represented conservation, sanctuary, security.

You'd think that with everybody else in America hellbent trying to throw everything away, anyone who tried to save something would be regarded as a hero. Not if he tries to save it on his desk!

The pressure mounted day by day. First came a parade of memos from paper clip Hitlers sternly ordering that my desk pile be removed. I put the memos on top of the pile. Then the paper clip Hitlers came in person and shouted in my ears until my head rang.

Then the fire department came and said spontaneous combustion was an imminent possibility, and they'd have to hose off the desk. Then a fellow in a false mustache who said he represented the federal government arrived and threatened to have the desk declared a national disaster area and bulldozed to the floor.

Howard McGinnis, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers College, is the new president of the Greenville Rotary Club. The announcement of his election was made at the regular meeting of the club last night. He succeeds J. H. Waldrop.

Work progresses on a memorial today as Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, inspected the finished head of George Washington, which is part of the national monument being carved on Mt. Rushmore in the Black Hills of South Dakota. Heads of Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt will complete the group.

Mrs. Bryant Winfield of Washington, was in Greenville yesterday.

Mrs. S. E. Jeanette and little son, of Henderson, are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Tyson.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Mrs. S. T. White and Miss Margaret Fleming left Friday for Hollins, Virginia and a trip through the valley of Virginia.

Hot Shot liquid insecticide and Hot Show shave cream. And there were more. But these are comforting to the common folk who know the judiciary believes they can tell the difference between insect poison and shaving cream and uptown and downtown.

Oil Hogs Promised
To Chew Up Oil Slicks
A new system for eliminating oil slicks has been proposed by Gulf & Western Industries Development Center at Swathmore, Pa. It involves parachuting specially designed boats, called "oil Hogs" from parachutes around a slick. These diesel-powered pontoon boats are expected to suck up soil and water, separate the oil and pump it into giant, floating bags for recovery. Each Hog is planned to gulp up 400 gallons of oil a minute, and a group could suck up a 1.1 million gallon spill in 12 hours.

Center Offers Education To Adult Groups

A new service in education is being offered by Pitt Technical Institute in a joint arrangement with the Division of Continuing Education of East Carolina University.

At the Moyewood Neighborhood Service Center, courses in Adult Education are to be offered to include adults who are not enrolled in the public school system.

On Thursday, May 20, at 7:30 p.m., Ola Porter, Adult Education Director, will be present at the Moyewood Neighborhood Service Center to explain the courses that are to be offered.

Mrs. Brenda Teel is in charge of administrative arrangements for the program to be held at the center, which is located at 1710

West Third Street, in the Moyewood Housing Project near the Pitt County Hospital.

Courses to be offered will include:

—Adult basic education, for persons who wish to improve their reading, writing and arithmetic.

—Homemaking courses, to include home sewing and knitting.

—Adult high school program for persons who may not have completed high school and who are interested in that goal.

—Adult driver education, for adults 18 years and older. There will be classroom study of rules and regulations and training outside the classroom in cars.

—Special interest classes, for subjects such as cake decoration, copper tooling and hat making.

If sufficient interest is shown, classes will be planned for morning, afternoon, or night.

Adults wanting more information are asked to contact Mrs. Teel at the center or by calling her at 758-5010.

Sponsor 'Night Of Fun' May 22

The Pitt County Chapter of the A. & T. State University Alumni Association will sponsor a "Night of Fun", Saturday, May 22, at St. Gabriel's School, 1000 Ward Street, Greenville, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will consist of black culture, talent, games, a fashion show, and a pot luck dinner.

The menu will consist of fried chicken, ham, potato salad, string beans, congealed salad, pie, cake, and beverages.

Tickets for the program can be purchased from any member of the association. Proceeds will go to the A. & T. State University Scholarship Fund for worthy students.

Buchwald . . .

(Continued from page 4) are very clever. First they have Congress announce they are going to build a subway. Then when you get your holes dug just the right size for your missiles, Congress announces it will not give any money to complete the subway."

"Nicolai," I said nervously, "I know it doesn't make sense for Congress to let people start building a subway and then refuse to give the money to complete it. But that's the way it is done in the District of Columbia, and you have to believe me."

"My report to the Kremlin still stands," Nicolai said. "If you can prove to me that Washington will have a subway in the next 10 years, I will be happy to change my intelligence."

"I can't prove it, Nicolai," I said, perspiring. "We may or may not have a subway, depending on what happens in the Senate on the subway appropriations bill."

Nicolai declared, "We will continue digging holes in Moscow until you people stop digging holes in Washington. Your subway story was a good try, but it never fooled us. We were onto it from the beginning."

"I left Nicolai and ran to the nearest phone and called Congressman Natcher's office. "For God's sake," I pleaded, "release the subway funds before the Russians install a whole new generation of intercontinental nuclear missiles."

"Russian missiles?" The person on the other end of the phone said. "We're sorry. That's not our committee."

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, May 19, 1919

You are urged to vote for the Local Sales Tax on May 25th for the following reasons:

The cost of operating our County, City and Town Governments is increasing rapidly each year. A one per cent local sales tax will bring in approximately $1,036,000.00. These funds will be distributed to our City, Town, and County Governments on a population basis as follows:

Town of Ayden	$30,734.00
Town of Bethel	13,487.00
Town of Falkland	1,158.00
Town of Farmville	39,411.00
Town of Fountain	3,866.00
City of Greenville	258,906.00
Town of Grifton	13,790.00
Town of Grimesland	3,510.00
Town of Winterville	12,801.00
County of Pitt	658,337.00

TOTAL $1,036,000.00

The interest and principal on the Hospital Bonds for the first year that all of the bonds are issued will be 44.31 cents tax rate increase and will average out to about a 30 cents tax rate over the lifetime of the Hospital Bond issue.

The mandatory increase in welfare (Social Services) by the Federal Government and State of North Carolina will amount to a 6.42 cents tax rate increase. This will be a total increase of 50.73 cents or an increase of about 33 per cent on our current ad valorem tax rate.

Our Pitt County Board of County Commissioners has gone on record that the funds received from the Local Sales Tax will be used first for the payment of the interest and principal of the Hospital Bonds and then for educational purposes.

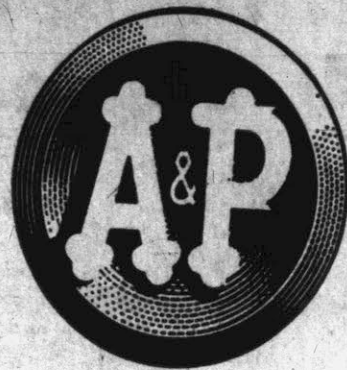

By adopting the Local Sales Tax we will be paying the needed increase in tax revenue on a fair basis. A person spending $1,000.00 will pay $10.00 Local Sales Tax and one spending $10,000.00 will pay $100.00. This is certainly a fair way to raise the necessary increased tax revenues.

The Board of Trustees of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital has unanimously approved and urges you to vote FOR the Local Sales Tax on May 25th.

WHO IS A&P?

A&P is people... 135,000 loyal, dedicated people... people who know and believe in what their company stands for.

For more than a century, A&P has been fortunate to have such people... many of whom started as teenagers and have profited from our policy of promoting from within the company.

We think our A&P people are special. They know and believe in the basic philosophy of A&P: to bring the most good food, to the most people, for the least amount of money... and to CARE about what we sell and how we serve you.

We are proud of our A&P people... all 135,000 members of the A&P family. They are A&P. Without them, we wouldn't have you. Without you, we wouldn't be in business!

Dedicating Conley School On Sunday

The new D. H. Conley High School will be formally dedicated in ceremonies Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the school.

Dr. Jerome Melton, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, will be the keynote speaker.

Participating in the program will be Clinton Anderson, vice chairman of the Conley Advisory Council; J. R. Carraway, Conley principal; Robert Halstead, chairman of the Conley Advisory Council; A. S. Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools; Charles Woodall; Mark Owens, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Education;

Mrs. Ethel Godley Tucker, and M. W. Rountree.

Special music will be presented by Marion Jones and the D. H. Conley Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Dianne Finnegan.

The new school, located five miles south of Greenville just off N.C. 43, opened its doors to students on January 5.

Students in grades nine through 12 in the Winterville, Grimesland and Chicod areas make up the enrollment of 490 boys and 462 girls.

The facility includes 37 classrooms and nine mobile units. Fifty-six faculty members provide instruction in academic courses as well as vocational subjects such as carpentry, bricklaying, agriculture, drafting, mechanics, metals, food occupations, health occupations, home economics, choral music, and on the job training programs.

School Lists Honor Pupils

STOKES — Principal M. T. Lewis has announced the honor students at Stokes Elementary School for the fifth marking period.

Students named to the honor roll for making all A's in their subjects were:

Second grade — Ben Andrews, Roger Nelson, James Payton, Denise Hudson, Sheila Spruill, Jane Harrison and Mary Frances Little; Third grade — Wayne Hayes, Robert Bunn, Columbus Chavis, Terry Roach, Louvenia Clemons, Lynette Paige, David Bullock, Gerard Hardison, William Little and Bobby Manning.

Fourth grade — Ann Gurganus, Kelly Morris, Cynthia James, Cedric Roberson, Mary A. Hudson, Nora Jenkins and Cynthia Barnes;

Fifth grade — Jimmy Singleton, Alan Crandell, Loretta Hudson, Jennifer Cherry, Debbie Richards, Laura Harrison and Penny Whitehurst.

High School's Choral Concert Thursday Night

The annual Choral Spring Concert of the Mixed Chorus, the Ensemble, the Treble Chorus and the Birondanjles Singers takes place Thursday night at 8:00 p.m. in the Rose High School Gymnasium.

Miss Louise Heffler, director of the choruses, is being assisted this year by a student director, Susie Hill, with Anna White serving as accompanist. Two guitarists, Steve Reel and Steve Rogers, will be giving assistance to the Birondanjles Singers.

In programs of varied music, representing many styles and periods, the four groups will range from the 16th century to the latest popular music.

The Mixed Chorus will include in their offering Randall Thompson's "Frostiana;" "Heavenly Light" by Wilhousky; "Come, Soothing Death" by J. S. Bach; Morley's

"Sing We Enchanted;" and "Out in the Fields," by Dawson.

"Spring Songs" by Kent will be among selections to be performed by the Treble Chorus. The Ensemble will include Fetter's "Drums;" "Listen to The Lambs" by Dett; "El Grillo" by 'des Pres; and "Psalm 150" by Franck.

Popular and folk music is the major fare of the Birondanjles who will include, among other songs, some of their standard repertoire — "Feeling Groovy;" "Come Saturday Morning;" "Leaving On the Jet Plane;" "Settle Down;" and "Love Is Blue."

Tickets are available at the door prior to the concert. They are priced at 50 cents for adults, and 25 cents for students and children.

Mailed Early To Avoid The Cost

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Friends of Charles E. McCollum received a surprise when they looked in their mailboxes Monday.

McCollum mailed about 30 Christmas cards Saturday in envelopes marked "do not open until Christmas."

Inside each card was a message explaining the cards were mailed early to avoid the increase in postal rates that went into effect at midnight Saturday.

Contributing To History Book

Dr. Roy N. Lokken, associate professor of history at East Carolina University, is cooperating with professors of history at Lehigh and Duquesne Universities, the University of New Brunswick and Simon Fraser University, Vancouver, B.C., in writing a supplementary textbook for college-level colonial American history courses.

Dr. Lokken's contribution to the book is an interpretive essay and illustrative sources on science and technology in colonial America.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices moved higher today as the two-day selling binge appeared to end. Trading was dull. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11 a.m. was up 3.24 to 921.80. Advances outnumbered declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 3 to 2. Analysts attributed the upturn to bargain hunting by buyers who considered the market oversold. Big Board prices included Consolidated Foods, unchanged at 44½; Commercial Solvents, up 2½ to 36½; Georgia Pacific, Hospital . . .

(Continued from page 1) Trustee Kenneth Dews reported on a meeting with hospital architects and the North Carolina Medical Care Commission they attended in Raleigh yesterday. A rough sketch of the hospital layout was shown, they said. The tentative plan calls for two four-story nursing towers with ancillary facilities in the bottom. Administration, the boiler building, and the supply building would be separate cheaper facilities. Soil borings on the site are now being made, Richardson said. The Trustees went on record as commending placing a regional rehabilitation center here and said they will do everything to make such a venture successful.

Slight S.C. Tremors

COLUMBIA (AP) — The Columbia Weather Bureau today reported that slight tremors were recorded in an area of South Carolina between the capital city of Columbia and Orangeburg. The bureau said the tremors were felt between 8:45 and 9 o'clock this morning. The University of South Carolina Geology Department said it has received numerous reports of tremors. But the department said, it was now impossible to check its seismograph. A spokesman explained, "The man in charge of the seismograph is the only one with a key to the room and he is in Charleston and there is no way for us to get in and check." The Columbia Weather Bureau said radio station WTND of Orangeburg received several calls for residents of the Orangeburg, Cordona, Bowman and Cameron sections of slight tremors. Orangeburg police also had many reports of the tremors. A radio station in St. George said it received several calls and a spokesman at the station said, "Our building vibrated. Things kind of jumped around for awhile." There were no reports of any damage in the area.

Adopt Compromise On Medical Schools

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — The House of Delegates of the North Carolina Medical Society approved a compromise resolution Tuesday voicing support for the three medical schools in the state. The official ruling group of the society endorsed legislation to "lend maximum support" to the schools at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Duke University and the Bowman Gray school at Wake Forest University. The compromise came after the House of Delegates considered four resolutions, two of which called for support of a proposed medical studies program at East Carolina University. The resolution as passed on the next-to-last day of the society convention at Pinehurst recommends that "each school be requested to continue its efforts to expand the number of medical students being trained. Because of the lack of definitive data, the Medical Society recommends that development of new medical schools be contingent upon an immediate in-depth study of needs for medical doctors in this state."

Immediate Hazard

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential advisory committee, calling air pollution "our most immediate health hazard," says environmental programs deserve a bigger cut of the federal budget. The Citizens' Advisory Committee on Environmental Quality, in a report to President Nixon Tuesday, also said the government should raise its sights on water quality and trash accumulations. It said the attack on air pollution should include "a compulsory but phased program" of fitting old cars with antipollution devices over the next few years. Federal regulations require new cars to meet strict emission standards by 1975. The committee said administration efforts to increase water pollution control funding was a step in the right direction but more steps were needed. The administration has proposed increasing the federal grant for water treatment facilities to provide the matching half of a $12 billion national investment over three years. The aim is to achieve secondary treatment of waste water. Current treatment removes most biological waste but leaves a wide variety of pollutants.

Frozen Ox Lips Are First Cargo

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Twenty tons of frozen ox lips will be shipped to the Netherlands on the first voyage of Duluth's new refrigerated vessel service. The cargo arrived Tuesday by truck from Fargo, N.D., and will be carried by the "Ulysses Island," across the Atlantic next month. Duluth packing house personnel said the ox lips probably would become an ingredient of sausage. The flight musculature of the tiny hummingbird is the strongest of any bird—one-third of its weight.

Says Problem Is Population Rate

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall says "all our problems would be more manageable if we had a lower population growth." Speaking to students at Illinois State University, Udall said: "In history we are on the edge of an interesting period. Until this time, human fertility was a blessing, but now, if it is not controlled, it can be a curse."

Chips and putts from area golf courses: Greenville

The Club Championship Tournament at Greenville Golf and Country Club will close out Sunday afternoon with final matches.

In the men's championship flight, Molt Massey and Lee Ball will meet for the title. Bob Abbott and Carl Pierce will vie for the top spot in the first flight. Harriette White has already won the women's title, defeating Bessie Brown in the finals.

Barnie Rawl and Gay Waldrop will be battling for the first flight championship.

Presentation of awards and a cocktail party will be held Sunday evening following the matches.

On Friday's Ladies Day, a Scotch Foursome tournament was held. Winners were Nancy Monroe and Rose De Lanciano. Second place went to Ann Whitehurst and Virginia Lansche. A putting contest was also held with Joan Hooper winning A division, and Lou Thomas taking honors in B Division.

The ladies also held a surprise birthday party for Dr. Hubert Haynes who celebrated his 80th birthday.

Brook Valley

The Men's Club Championship qualifying was delayed until today because of bad weather over the weekend at Brook Valley Country Club.

The women's championship will be decided Sunday, with Jeanette Thomas meeting Sandy Barnhill. Helen Boyd and Evelyn Ward meet in the first flight.

Aline Hamlin will take on Shirley Taylor or Betty Bailey in the second flight.

The Eastern North Carolina Ladies tournament, set last week, was postponed until May 26-27 at Brook Valley.

Joe Dudley recently turned in his best score, a 78.

Ayden

A team of Dean Wingate, Marvin Baldree, Red Nobles and Louise Wooten took first place in the Superball (With One Lady) Tournament held Sunday at Ayden Golf and Country Club. The team shot a net 63.

Second place went to the team of Bruce Burnett, Joyce Stroud, Gwynn Merritt and Jack Allen, with a 64. A playoff was held for third, fourth and fifth, when three teams tied at 65. Taking third was the team of Sidney Roberson, Don Carson, Janet Shelor and Reid Joyner. Fourth went to Don Baker, James Jones, Tim Allen and Pat Joyner. Fifth place went to Ray Kite, Charlie Davis, J. C. Pollard and Smiley Brown.

Sidney Roberson had one of his better scores recently, firing a 67. He birdied two, three, four, five and then eagled six.

The Club championship will get underway on May 29. It is scheduled to wind up on July 5.

St. James In Loss To Grace

Grace Free Will Baptist knocked St. James Methodist out of the driver's seat in the American Division of the Church Softball League last night, beating the last remaining unbeaten, 10-9. Presbyterian, by ripping Marantha, 18-4, pulled into a tie for the American lead.

In the division, Presbyterian and St. James are both 5-1, with Meadowbrook right behind at 5-2. They are followed by Belvoir, 4-2; Christian, 3-4, and Trinity and St. Gabriel, both 1-6.

In the National Division, Immanuel leads with a 5-1 record, followed by Piney Grove, 4-2; Mt. Pleasant, 3-2; Black Jack and Oakmont, both 3-1; Grace, 3-5, and Marantha, 1-6.

In the opener, Presbyterian pushed over two runs in the first and never trailed after that. Boyd Lee singled and scored on Bill Glidewell's triple. Glidewell scored on a sacrifice fly.

Marantha came back with a run in the second, but Presbyterian scored three in the third on singles by Beddingfield and George Fuller and a homer by Don Owen. They added five in the fourth, four in the fifth and three in the sixth before gaining his final run in the seventh.

Marantha scored one in the fourth and two in the seventh for their total.

In the second game, St. James took the lead with three in the first, but Grace came back with six in the second to take the lead. Another crossed in the third, but St. James came back with two in the fourth, making it 7-5. Grace scored two more in the fifth, but St. James got four in the fifth as Jimmy Smith homered to make it 9-9.

Grace then pushed over the winning run in the seventh.

ROBERSONVILLE — An error in the bottom of the seventh inning gave the Robersonville Golden Eagles one more chance, and it was all they needed for a 4-3 victory over the Ayden Tornadoes.

It was the first round of the State Class A Baseball Playoffs, and the win lifted Robersonville into the second round of play, Friday. Their next opponent will be Manteo, which beat Mattamuskeet last night. The game will likely be played Friday at 4 p.m. at Mattamuskeet.

Havelock Drops Greene Central

Havelock High School downed Greene Central, 7-3, yesterday at Harrington Field at East Carolina University in the first round of the State 3-A Baseball Playoffs.

The loss knocked Greene Central out of the competition, while Havelock advances to the second round.

The Havelock nine grabbed the lead in the bottom of the first inning, pushing over two runs. Jim Dargan walked and Don Zogorski followed with a homer to left, making it 2-0.

Greene Central came back to tie it up in the top of the third, scoring two of their own. Mike Perry walked, and Bob Scott lifted the second ball out of the park for another home run.

But the tie didn't last long. Havelock came right back in its half of the frame to push over three runs and take a 5-2 lead. Zogorski was again the hero. He slapped a ground-ruled

The two teams had battled head-to-head all the way through the game, with both holding leads at one time. Ayden had blasted Eagle hurler Glenn Forbes in the first, but then found him hard to get to except for one brief interval in the fifth.

At the same time, Ayden hurler Donnie Moore stayed in trouble most of the way, but most of the time managed to hurl his way out of it.

Forbes recorded 10 strikeouts along the way, walking one and giving up four hits and just one earned run. Moore fanned 12, but also walked two more, three, and gave up six hits and two earned runs.

Ayden pushed ahead in the first inning when it looked like their bats were going to prove too much for Robersonville. Ken Cleaton led off with a double down the right field line, and he moved to third on an out. Dale Manning brought him home with another double to right. Mike Griffin then singled into right, and when the fielder made a wild throw, Manning came the rest of the way to score making it 2-0.

But Forbes slammed the door then, and didn't allow another baserunner until the fifth inning when Ayden got its third run.

Robersonville meanwhile went to work, tying it up with a pair of runs in the second. Lang Hardison cracked a double into left center to open the frame and with two outs, Loyall Corey doubled down the right field line scoring Hardison. Everett Jackson followed with another double, scoring Corey with the tying run.

In the third, Robersonville picked up another run without benefit of a hit. Ed Warren walked and Hal Knox attempted to sacrifice him up. The bunt was fielded by Moore who attempted to get Warren at second. His throw was wide and late, leaving both safe.

Robersonville went with the bunt again, as Forbes laid one down, and again Moore got it and went for Warren, this time again failing at third, loading the bases with none away.

The next hitter, however, grounded to first, and Warren was doubled out at home. Phil James then grounded to third, and it looked like Ayden was out of it, but the ball got by there, and Knox scored to put the Eagles into a 3-2 lead.

Robersonville put men on base in each of the remaining innings, but did not scratch again until the seventh.

Meanwhile, Ayden, after having 11 straight men retired, finally broke the ice again. Robbie Pinner singled to left and moved around to third when Lavern Loftin's grounder to second was muffed. Cleaton grounded out, scoring Pinner with the third run, tying it again.

Forbes walked Doug Phillips to put two on, but then struck out the next batter to retire the side. He fanned the next four batters and the final two grounded out as Ayden didn't get another man on base.

It looked like the game was set for extra innings as Robersonville went into the bottom of the seventh. With one away, Warren banged a single into center, but the next batter struck out. Forbes then rolled one down the third base line that was again errored, putting

Greene Banquet

SNOW HILL — Greene Central High School will hold its annual athletic banquet Tuesday night at the Snow Hill Moose Lodge at 7:30 p.m.

Speaker for the banquet will be Hubie Brown, assistant basketball coach at Duke University.

Tickets are on sale from any member of the Ram Booster Club, or from the High School

Warren on third. Lang Hardison lifted a single into right, easily scoring Warren with the winning run, and Robersonville began looking toward a second round game.

Last year, Robersonville, after winning the Martin County crown went to the state finals before finally bowing two games to one to Farmer.

Williamston Gains 6-3 Win

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Tigers vaulted into the second round of play in the Class 2-A Baseball Playoffs with a 6-3 victory over Swansboro last night.

The Tigers spotted Swansboro a 3-0 advantage before storming back with five runs in the fourth inning to win it.

Swansboro gained the lead with two runs in the first inning. Andrews and Mobley both singled and Dillihunt reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Andrews. Causey then singled, scoring Mobley.

In the second, Swansboro scored again, making it 3-1. Riggs walked, then scored on Andrews' single.

But that was to be it for the visitors. Mike Weaver shut them out after that, and waited for his teammates to do something about it.

They started in the bottom of the inning, scoring one run. Billy Rigger was hit by a pitch and Rock Cherry walked. Mike Weaver reached on an error, scoring Rigger.

Optimists Get Past The Lions

The Optimists pulled back into sole possession of the first place in the North State Little League yesterday with a 7-5 victory over the Lions.

The Optimists are now 3-0, a half-game ahead of the Kiwanis, 2-0. They are followed by R. C. Cola and the Lions, both 1-2, the Jaycees, 0-1 and the Coca-Cola, 0-2.

The Lions pushed ahead in the first inning, scoring a run. Mike Adams singled and took second on a passed ball. An error moved him to third and Guy Bradbury brought him home with a sacrifice fly.

In the third, two more Lions came across for a 3-0 lead. Phillip Gibbs reached on a fielder's choice and stole second. Ray Kilpatrick singled him in and he took second on an error. Jesse Baker walked, and an error let Kilpatrick score as Fraeger Sanders doubled.

In the fourth, the Optimists began to rally, scoring two runs. Gary Allen walked and moved to second on an out. Bubber Rowlette reached on an error, scoring Allen. The miscue advanced Rowlette to second. He took third on an out and scored on Bob Peoples' double.

Then, in the fifth, the Optimist scored five runs to take the victory. Gary Porter led off with a home run, tying it at 3-3. Jeff Aldridge singled and Allen reached on an error. Mac Stokes followed with a three-run homer, giving the Optimists a 6-3 edge. James Shoe reached on an error, advanced to third on Peoples' hit and scored on Greg Lee's double.

The Lions, trying to rally, came up with two in the sixth, but couldn't catch up.

May Leads Cincinnati To 4-3 Victory

by DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Heydays have been few and far between for the Cincinnati Reds this spring, but they've been making the most of their May days.

Lee May, back in the groove after recovering from a knee injury, drove in three runs with a single and his seventh homer of the season Tuesday night as the struggling Reds nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3. The defending National League champs, mired in fifth place in this year's West Division race, have won just six of 16 starts in the month of May—and homers by May have contributed to five of those victures. In other NL games, Pittsburgh edged Montreal 3-2; Atlanta downed the New York Mets 4-6; San Francisco clipped the Chicago Cubs 7-3; St. Louis shaded Los Angeles 6-5 and Houston nudged San Diego 3-2. In American League play, Baltimore trimmed the New York Yankees 6-2; Boston beat

Detroit 5-3; Cleveland smacked Washington 7-3; Oakland topped Milwaukee 5-2 and California defeated Minnesota 3-1. Pete Rose gave Cincinnati a 1-0 first inning jump with his fourth homer, but the Phillies took the lead in the second on run-producing singles by Roger Freed and Terry Harmon. May tied it in the bottom of the inning with a drive into the upper left field seats off Phil's starter Barry Lersch. Then, after an infield hit by Johnny Bench and a double by Tony Perez in the fifth, May drilled a two-run single to left. May, who suffered torn knee ligaments in a spring training collision with Tim Foli of the Mets and didn't get back into regular action until April 23, has slammed 10 hits, including three homers, in his last six games.

Dave Cash looped a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth, carrying the Pirates past Montreal and into a virtual tie with New York for the East Division lead. Bob Johnson, driven from the mound in the first inning of his previous start, went the distance—scattering six hits—for the Pirates, who trail the Mets by percentage points in the standings following their seventh victory in 10 games. Home runs by Hank Aaron, hot-hitting Ralph Garr and Clete Boyer helped the Braves repulse a late New York rally at Atlanta. Aaron belted his 13th homer, a two-run shot in the first inning. In the third, Garr, the league's top batter at .400, connected for the third time in two nights before Boyer's three-run blast, giving the Braves a 6-3 lead.

Marty Perez' triple keyed a two-run sixth for Atlanta, which offset the Mets' four-run flurry in the eighth. Bob Aspromonte socked two homers for the Mets and singled during the eighth inning uprising. Bobby Bonds cracked a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly as the Giants snapped Cincinnati's winning streak at six games and maintained an 8½-game bulge over second-place Atlanta in the West. Ken Henderson's two-run single capped a five-run San Francisco burst in the sixth that assured Ron Bryant of his fourth victory in five decisions. The Cardinals, who blew a 4-0 first inning lead, broke a 5-5 deadlock in the ninth on Jose Cardenal's bases-loaded single off the glove of Los Angeles

Canadiens Rally From Two Goals Down To Beat Chicago, Win Cup

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — "We've done it again, we've done it again," shouted the Montreal Canadiens Tuesday night before breaking into the song "Les Canadiens Sont La."

to make the playoffs last year and had to defeat Boston, the winner of the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League, and then Chicago, the champion of the West. Henri Richard, the 16-year veteran who last week blasted Coach Al MacNeil as "incompetent" and "the worst coach I've ever played under" turned the tide by scoring the tying and winning goals.

It was bedlam in the Canadiens' dressing room with Champagne, French variety, spewing all over the place and the players hugging and kissing each other. "It was the biggest goal of my life," said Richard, "I've been on nine winners before but I never felt like this."

Then to questions of his emotional outburst against MacNeil, Richard grinned and said "I should have kept my mouth shut." The Black Hawks, shooting for their first Cup triumph in 10 years, took a 2-0 lead on goals by Danny O'Shea before the Canadiens struck. Jacques Lemaire hit on a 65-footer at 14:18 of the second period and Richard tied it at 18:20 of the second period. Then Henri scored at 2:34 of the third period and the Canadiens and goalie Ken Dryden took care of the lead.

Dryden won the Conn Smythe award as the most valuable player in the playoffs.

Asked if he thought MacNeil would be back next season, Henri replied "I don't know but I hope so. I should have kept my mouth shut. My timing was wrong. But it sure is a relief we won tonight. MacNeil, overcome by emotion, kept repeating "I don't know what to say. I'm not worried about next year. I'm just too happy right now." Captain Jean Beliveau was holding the glistening Stanley Cup over his shoulder and taking swigs of Champagne from obliging teammates. Beliveau, who reportedly had announced his retirement, reneged and said "There's a 50 per cent chance I might retire and there's a 50 per cent chance I'll be back."

The Black Hawks, naturally, were despondent and Coach Billy Reay gave a wry smile and said "Now, Henri can say MacNeil is a great. It was a shame to lose after the series we played but our guys have nothing to be ashamed of. That's two good seasons in a row and now we've got to look forward to another."

resistant asphalt. Meyer has been associated with the development of both the Offenhauser engine used by the McLaren's and the special Ford V-8 racing engine used and manufactured by Foyt.

"There hasn't been a basic change only refinements, in racing engines since Harry Miller combined the Ballot crankcase and the Peugeot cylinder head," Meyer said. The French Peugeot won three of the first seven Indianapolis races 1911-17 and the Ballot, also French, was a strong contender for several years after World War I.

The Miller engines became Offenhausers when Fred Offenhauser took over the business. He was succeeded by Meyer and Dale Drake, who put a Meyer & Drake name plate on their engines, but the "four bangers" continued to be known as Offys.

The Ford Motor Co. moved into the picture and developed the special V-8 with which the late Jimmy Clark of Scotland won the 1965 Indy 500 in a Lotus—two years later than expected.

Russell Coach For NBA Stars

HOUSTON (AP) — Coaches for the National and American Basketball Association all-star game will be Bill Russell, former player-coach of the Boston Celtics, and Larry Brown, a star with the Denver Rockets. Tickets for the May 28 Astrodome game went on sale today as plans for the contest continued despite objections from club owners in both the leagues that are seeking legislation which would pave the way for a merger. Plans for the "super game" were announced May 11 by Oscar Robertson of the NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks and president of the NBA Players Association. He said it would show that the two leagues can play against each other at the highest level of competition without an illegal merger. An Astrodome official announced that Rick Barry had been added again to the ABA roster. Barry, experienced in both leagues, had been quoted earlier as saying he would refuse to participate in the game in that it amounted to opposition to the proposed ABA-NBA merger which he favored.

"As of now, Barry is back on the ABA roster and we anticipate he will play," the spokesman said.

Foodland, P-W Claim Victories

Foodland and Piggly-Wiggly both picked up victories last night in the Ladies Softball League. Piggly-Wiggly downed Coca-Cola, 22-5, while Foodland ripped Wachovia Bank, 33-2.

Piggly-Wiggly added four in the second, including a homer by Martin, two in the third, on another Margin homer, seven in the fourth, and three in the fifth. Coke got three in the third and two in the fourth.

The Elks took the lead in the game in the second, scoring two runs. David Randle walked and moved to third on Joe Godette's double to right. A walk scored Randle and a passed ball let Godette come across.

In the third, the Elks made it 3-0 with another run. Randle again walked and moved to second on the opener, Piggly-Wiggly wrapped it up with six runs in the first inning. Joyce Martin singled and Shirley Davis doubled. Jan Moore singled, but was cut down as Carolyn Haddock reached. She also went down as Margie Harris reached. Marie Mayo singled and Betty Owens got a hit. Nine Stokes reached on an error, scoring Stokes with the sixth run.

SPEAK UP. SPEAK OUT.

If you can't afford another gas price increase, you can't afford to keep quiet about Senate Bill 588.

Senate Bill 588 is a dangerous piece of legislation that would outlaw self service gasoline stations in North Carolina, enabling other stations to raise gasoline prices at will.

There has never been a serious fire or accident at a self-service gas pump. However, the National Fire Protection Association reported 3,900 fires at manned stations during 1969. According to the FBI, nearly 14,000 robberies occurred at regular service stations during 1969.

The sponsors and supporters of this bill claim this legislation is needed because self-service gas pumps are dangerous. Don't believe it. Supporters of the bill to outlaw self-service gas pumps simply want to eliminate competition so they can increase the price you pay for gasoline and fatten their own pocketbooks.

Write or call your legislator in Raleigh. Urge him to vote against Senate Bill 588. Self-service stations help keep gasoline prices from going higher.

Colbert Saves McDowell's 7-3 Win

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Lonborg found the thrill wasn't gone. Sam McDowell discovered the strike pitch was a hurricane of cheers fired up Lonborg's triumphant return to Boston as the former Cy Young winner pitched inspired relief to help the Red Sox stop Detroit 5-3 Tuesday night.

McDowell, meanwhile, gained a Cleveland victory inspite of himself as he issued ten walks before leaving in the seventh inning in a 7-3 Indian walkaway over Washington.

"I was overwhelmed," said Lonborg, speaking of the cheers of 13,021 that welcomed him home to Fenway Park. "I was shaking inside ... I had goose bumps. I was surprised. I didn't expect it."

Slim Jim responded to the acclaim with three hitless innings as Boston wiped out a 3-2 lead on Rico Petrocelli's three-run homer in the seventh.

McDowell, despite his wildness, had a no-hitter through six innings. But Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark insisted McDowell wasn't going the route—no-hitter or no.

Sudden Sam suddenly lost his "classic" by giving Joe Foy a single leading off the seventh. Dark moved in a hurry to replace McDowell with reliever Vince Colbert.

"Foy hit a terrible pitch," said McDowell, who won his first game as a starter this year. "I threw terrible pitches all night and got away with it. I pitched a terrible game."

In the other American League games, Baltimore beat New York 6-2; California turned back Minnesota 3-2 and Oakland trimmed Milwaukee 5-

2. Rain postponed Chicago at Kansas City.

National League: Pittsburgh 3, Montreal 2; Atlanta 8, New York 6; Cincinnati 4, Philadelphia 3; Houston 3, San Diego 2; San Francisco 7, Chicago 3 and St. Louis 6, Los Angeles 5.

Lonborg, the former ace of the Red Sox pitching staff, had nothing but trouble after the 1967 World Series. First he broke his leg in a skiing accident, then developed a chronic sore arm and was finally dismissed to the minors last year.

He pitched his way back to Boston from Louisville with a hot early start this season.

While Lonborg was working his magic, the Red Sox' bats came alive in the seventh on a single by Reggie Smith and double by Carl Yastrzemski before Petrocelli's clout.

Colbert held Washington to one run in his three-inning relief stint as McDowell gained his second victory in seven decisions, one of his slowest starts in years. The other triumph was in relief.

Paul Blair sailed the first pitch of the game into the right-center field seats and Brooks Robinson unloaded a tie-breaking two-run homer in the fourth in the Baltimore success. Mike Cuellar beat New York for the eighth time in nine decisions since coming to the American League.

Tom Murphy scattered eight hits and won his first game since April 7 as California stopped Minnesota. Murphy, who had lost five straight since winning his first decision last month allowed only two outfield putouts. Four of the Twins' hits failed to leave the infield.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter fired a three-hitter for his seventh straight victory and Rick Monday, Joe Rudi and Sal Bando ripped home runs as Oakland trimmed Milwaukee. Hunter struck out nine and held the Brewers hitless in every inning but the fourth and ninth.

Stars Capture ABA Cage Title

By JIM CHURCH
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars' coach Bill Sharman, wading through a jubilant crowd and shaking hands like a presidential candidate, laughed and said, "I think we've found a home."

The Stars, transplanted to Utah from Los Angeles this season, had just whipped the Kentucky Colonels, 131-121, Tuesday night to win the seventh and final game of the American Basketball Association championship playoffs.

"It was a fantastic year," Sharman said, "especially when you consider we started with 10 almost unknown players. It was a great team effort, like it was all year."

"But Kentucky, with Artis Gilmore, will be the team to beat next year."

"We just didn't hit the hoop when we should have," said Kentucky coach Frank Ramsey, walking alone through the Salt Palace Parking lot. "Our boys don't have to hang their heads all summer thinking about what they didn't do," Ramsey said. "We played a good game, but Utah played great."

Utah, on the shooting of Zemo Beatty, who finished with 36 points, led all the way after going on top 41-40 in the first half on Glen Combs' basket.

The Stars, shrugging off Dan Issel's 41-point scoring pace, pulled away to an 11-point advantage with two minutes left after Darel Carrier's three-pointer pulled the Colonels to within four at 116-112 with five minutes to go.

Utah's Mike Butler came off the bench and made every shot he took in the last minute, hitting a three-pointer, a two-pointer, and two free throws.

Cincy Powell backed up Issel for Kentucky with 19 points and 20 rebounds. Carrier, who hit four straight shots late in the third quarter, including three for three for three points each, scored 31.

Willie Wise scored 22 and grabbed 20 rebounds, including 17 off the defensive boards. Combs added 20, all in the first half when Utah took a 61-54 lead.

Kentucky forward Jim Ligon fell in the first half and injured his back. From there on, Utah commanded the boards, out-rebounding the Colonels, 71-59.

Kentucky, which faltered after taking a 32-28 first quarter lead, retained its record of never having won in the Salt Palace. The Colonels squeaked by in three playoff games in Louisville, and Utah took the other four by comfortable margins.

The Colonels, a division runner-up like Utah, lost to the Stars three times in Utah during the regular season. Kentucky got by Miami and Virginia in Eastern division playoffs, while Utah breezed by Texas in four games before meeting Indiana.

The Stars set a pro basketball attendance record for a first-year franchise, averaging 7,122 a game, including the sell-out of 13,260 Tuesday night despite the game being televised locally.

Citation Trainer Picks His Horse

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — "Citation would beat him by 20 lengths."

H.A. "Jimmy" Jones spoke with pardonable pride today in discussing an imaginary race between the last winner of racing's Triple Crown in 1948 and Canonero II who seems destined to become the first 3-year-old to win the Triple Crown after nearly a quarter of a century.

Canonero II, a Kentucky-bred, but Venezuelan-owned colt, startled the experts by coming from far back to win the Kentucky Derby, then taking the Preakness after a front-running duel with Eastern Fleet, a recognized speed horse.

The Belmont Stakes, at a testing half and one-mile, will be raced at Belmont Park in New York on June 5.

"What do you think would happen if it were possible for Citation, in his prime, and Canonero II to race each other?" Jones was asked.

"I would have to think that Cy would beat him by 20 lengths," replied Jones, who trained Citation for Calumet Farm before he became Director of Racing at Monmouth Park here.

"Maybe I'm prejudiced, but that's my opinion."

"Citation could do everything," Jones said. "He was capable of two or three moves in a race and could kill you in an eighth of a mile."

Jones emphasized he was not downgrading Canonero II. "He's a pretty fair horse who has shown he can come from behind or run on the lead. It's just that up to now I wouldn't think he belongs in the same class as Citation."

Jones saw both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness and will be on hand for the Belmont.

Told that Johnny Campo, trainer of Jim French and Good Behaving plans to run both in the Belmont, Jones commented that it would be "hard to set a trap for Canonero."

Jones noted that the Belmont has been "a killer of potential champions. There's been many an upset. As of now I think Canonero II would win, but you never know what will happen."

Perhaps he had in mind how Citation, the 1-5 favorite, stumbled at the start of the 1948 Belmont, but fortunately recovered and went on to win by eight lengths in 2:28 1-5.

Doctors Told Fee-For-Service Concept Endangered

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — The new president of the North Carolina Medical Society today criticized proposed health care plans which would do away with the "fee-for-service concept" or lead to "the dissolution of the private practice of medicine."

Dr. Charles W. Styron of Raleigh said that the public has been led to believe that a person has "a right to medical care regardless of any other circumstances."

"What we mean, or what we should mean," he said, "is that every person has a right to bargain for medical care with the providers of that service and to have access to medical service just as they have a right to bargain with every other provider of service, the merchant or the mechanic."

His comments came in an inaugural address prepared for the final session of the society's annual convention in Pinehurst.

"Doctors are aware of that segment of our society that is at a biological disadvantage. These individuals can never be expected to meet their medical, social and economic debts and will need help."

"I must point out that this unfortunate segment is a responsibility of society at large in which the physician will bear his share of the problem," he said.

"Today we have more plans for delivery of health care than for the treatment of the common cold, and I suspect each about as effective."

"Almost universally the plans to not take into full account the services that are presently available," he said. "Any precipitous action taken by lawmakers may very well result in introduction of methods that are not possible, and that work a great deal less well than the methods that we now have."

"It is my opinion that all suggestions for a system for delivery of care must be carefully evaluated, with the plan of adding to our present system, rather than replacing it," he said. "There is no doubt whatever that this will be done."

Styron announced that he had appointed a committee to explore such ideas as foundations for medical care, health maintenance organizations, prepaid plans and any other plans that are proposed.

He said he would also encourage the study of the formation of clinics "in necessary areas of need with the possible use of medical students and residents and others if they desire, under the supervision of the medical centers and/or regional physicians and in cooperation with local comprehensive health planning councils."

Styron defended the present system and the fee-for-service concept of private medical practice.

"I suggest that private practice is not anybody else's business except the business of the individuals involved. I reject therefore any system that has as one of its objects the destruction of the doctor-patient relationship," he said.

GREENSBORO (AP) — The 70th anniversary of Cuban independence from Spain will be celebrated by more than 500 Cubans who now live in North Carolina.

Soldiers Begin 3½-Month Trip

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Special Forces soldiers from Ft. Bragg, N.C., have begun a 3½-month trip to retrace the steps of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

tors wish to bargain with carriers, government or any third party for the service which is rendered, this is strictly the business of the doctors who are "free men."

Styron said he believes that any system that will improve realistically the health of Americans will be received and supported warmly by American doctors.

Concerning medical education, he said, "The time has come, I believe, when we must look to the medical student to pay his way, either at the time, or in payment of loan funds later."

"The scholarship fund—a gift for the accident of excellence—should be phased out and such funds should be used for basic costs of medical schools and medical centers where training is carried out," he said.

List Tar Heel Killed In Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department said Tuesday that a North Carolina serviceman has been listed as killed in action in Southeast Asia, instead of missing as previously listed.

He was Army Spec. 4 Joel Hatley of Albemarle.

Approximately 50 per cent of the U.S. population wears eyeglasses.

Elite ARVN Unit Hunting N. Viet Command Base

By GORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — A battalion of 700 elite South Vietnamese troops is combing an area on the Laotian border, searching for a major North Vietnamese base and command headquarters, military spokesmen announced today.

The operation got under way Tuesday in the central highlands about 10 miles northwest of Ben Het, and the South Vietnamese have found nothing significant so far, a military spokesman in Pleiku, Capt. Le Van Phuc, said.

Phuc said captured prisoners and defectors reported the North Vietnamese had about 50 tanks hidden in caves along the frontier. They also said they thought the North Vietnamese had missiles in the region, but "they did not give confirmation," Phuc said. These could be conventional ground-to-ground rockets that are sometimes fired at aircraft and mistaken for the Russian surface-to-air missiles, or SAMs.

Asked if the South Vietnamese troops would cross into Laos, Phuc said: "Maybe, but I'm not sure."

He said thus far there is no major U.S. support but bombers and helicopter gunships will be called when needed, should the ground troops uncover a lucrative target.

South Vietnamese Firebase 6, just to the southeast of Ben Het, underwent a 17-day siege last month by North Vietnamese operating from the target area of the new operation.

Elsewhere in Vietnam, allied forces reported killing 132 enemy troops in a series of clashes ranging from the southern end of the country to the A Shau valley in the northern sector.

The U.S. Command also reported bomb attacks on four anti-aircraft batteries in North Vietnam Monday and Tuesday after they fired on unarmed reconnaissance planes. Results of the strikes 15, 80 and 90 miles north of the demilitarized zone were not known, the command said. A spokesman said none of the U.S. planes was hit.

This brought to 40 the number of so-called protective reaction strikes against North Vietnam this year.

In Laos, authorities in Vientiane said Communist forces are "digging in" after capturing three towns in the southern panhandle. Government casualties rose to 80 troops killed, 34 wounded and 30 missing from fighting Sunday on the Bolovens plateau, officials said.

Revival Services Now Being Held

A dozen small clashes were reported in South Vietnam Tuesday, with most of the action centered in the western Mekong Delta bordering Cambodia and in the five northern most provinces.

With tactical-fighter bombers and helicopter gunships supporting the Saigon forces, South Vietnamese losses were held down. Communiques and field reports said 10 South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 24 wounded. No U.S. casualties were reported.

Two of the clashes were on the eastern and northern edges of the 30-mile long A Shau valley bordering Laos, where allied forces have been conducting operation Lam Son 720 since April 14 in an effort to disrupt North Vietnamese supply lines. Seven North Vietnamese and one South Vietnamese were reported killed in the two fights.

A rash of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong rocket, mortar and terrorist attacks that had been anticipated to mark the 81st anniversary of the birth of Ho Chi Minh apparently failed to materialize. Ho Chi Minh, the founder and first president of North Vietnam, died Sept. 3, 1969.

Will Vigorously Enforce Newest Obscenity Law

RALEIGH (AP) — Asst. Atty. Gen. Burley Mitchell says he will seek "vigorous enforcement" of North Carolina's new anti-obscenity law.

Mitchell made his comment shortly after the Senate accepted a House amendment Tuesday and enacted the anti-obscenity law. The amendment makes the new law effective July 1.

Mitchell said obscene movies and book stores for adults only may be on the way out in North Carolina as a result of the stiff penalties carried by the new law.

Although the new laws is not effective yet, Mitchell said his office had advised local officers they can move against pornographers under the state's old anti-obscenity law.

Although a three-judge federal panel ruled the old law unconstitutional, the North Carolina Court of Appeals held that the law is constitutional under its interpretation of the law.

This means the old law can be enforced because "only state courts can give final interpretations to state law," Mitchell stated.

The new laws makes it a misdemeanor to disseminate obscene material to adult, with punishment ranging up to two years in prison at the discretion of the court.

The law makes it a felony to disseminate obscene material to children under 12 years old, with punishment ranging up to five years in prison.

New legislation Tuesday included a bill to eliminate the requirement that motorists must carry auto liability insurance. The bill was sponsored in the House by Rep. Clarence Leatherman, D-Lincoln, and Jack Rhyne, D-Gaston, and in the Senate by Sen. Clyde Norton, D-McDowell and others.

The bill, recommended by a study group headed by Rhyne, would require motorists who did not wish to buy auto liability insurance to pay $50 years into a state-administered fund that would be used to reimburse insurance companies for claims they pay for damages caused by uninsured motorists.

The Senate amended and then killed a measure which would have abolished the death penalty for persons under 16 years old.

"This is a step to put a foot in the door toward taking away capital punishment," said Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax in opposing the measure.

The bill, by Sen. Jyles Coggins, D-Wake, originally would have forbidden the execution of anyone under 21. It was changed to 18 in committee and amended to 16 on the Senate floor by an amendment offered by Sen. W. C. Taylor, D-Caswell.

Raleigh's 3 Adult Book Stores Raided

RALEIGH (AP) — Police raided Raleigh's three "adults only" book stores Tuesday and charged four men with selling obscene materials.

The raids marked the resumption of a city drive against alleged obscenity which had been brought to a virtual standstill by a federal court ruling several months ago.

A three-judge federal panel in Charlotte struck down the state's anti-obscenity statute Jan. 20. But a recent state Court of Appeals ruling upheld the law and overrode the federal court decision.

Prosecution on obscenity charges had been practically halted across the state in the wake of the federal court decision.

The Raleigh raids came on the same day the legislature enacted a tough new anti-obscenity law, but the new law does not take effect until July 1.

Detective Robert E. Goodwin said nine officers were sent to the stores to make purchases before the arrests. All three stores are in the downtown area, and one sits next door to the N. C. Justice Department building.

Those arrested were John Knoll, manager of the Martin Street store; Don Childs, manager of the Fayetteville Street store; Joe M. Bryant, manager of the Wilmington Street store, and Billy Ray Queen, a supervisor at the Wilmington Street store.

Bonds in each case were set at $200 pending a trial in Wake District Court June 16.

New Bank-Taxing Method Endorsed

RALEIGH (AP) — A new method of taxing banks has been approved by the House Finance committee.

The legislation is aimed at taxing banks exactly as other corporations are taxed, and it has the support of the North Carolina Bankers Association.

The bill would remove the 6 per cent excise tax which banks in North Carolina now pay and impose on them instead the corporate income tax, corporate franchise tax, personal property tax and the intangibles tax.

Peking Opens Tourist Service

HONG KONG (AP) — Peking has opened a new China International Tourist Service to make things easier for foreign visitors, a Chinese businessman returning from the mainland reported today.

The businessman said the new service, a supplement to the government's China Travel Service, has offices in all major Chinese cities and gives information on tours and tourist spots, arranges boat, train and plane tickets, provides guides and interpreters and arranges hotel accommodations.

The effect of the plan would be to increase by some $500,000 the taxes banks pay to cities and counties each year, and to decrease by about the same amount the taxes banks pay to the state.

State Revenue Commissioner I. L. Clayton told the committee that banks will not get a tax break under the proposal, and in fact, during the next biennium, they will pay $1 million dollars more than under the current law.

Clayton said this would happen because the final payments under the excise tax — amounting to about $4 million — would be due in 1972 and the franchise tax, estimated at $1 million per year, would be paid twice during the biennium.

Until 1957, banks in North Carolina were taxed like other corporations. The excise tax was imposed in that year to meet the needs of federal bank tax prohibitions which were removed in 1969, opening the way to a revamping of state bank tax structures.

After approving the bank tax bill, sponsored by Rep. Chris Barker, D-Craven, the committee killed one sponsored by Rep. Howard Jemison, R-Forsyth, which would have imposed the personal property and franchises taxes without removing the excise tax.

Ironmaking Is Another Field That Has Gone

By H. G. JONES
 Director
 N. C. Dept. of Archives and History For the Associated Press
 RALEIGH (AP) — Along with gold mining, plank road construction, buggy building, and other industries that once flourished in North Carolina, ironmaking also has passed from the scene.
 The beginnings of this industry, which once promised — or threatened, depending on point of view — to make North Carolina an iron producing center, date back to before the American Revolution.
 Some small quantities of pig iron reportedly were shipped to England from North Carolina as early as 1728.
 The first recorded ironworks were in the Piedmont, an area of the state scattered with deposits of two kinds of ore, magnetite and limonite.
 Great Britain in 1750 had forbidden the manufacture of any iron product except pig and bar iron, but the Colonial Records of North Carolina indicate that by 1770 two furnaces were in operation on branches of the Deep River in Orange County and that there were prospects of building a third near Salisbury.
 As relations with England reached a low ebb, the Provincial Congress of 1775 offered financial reward for the first rolling and slitting mill to prepare iron for nails, for the first steel furnace, and for the first furnace for pig iron and castings.
 A "plant" designated to furnish for two years all castings of cannon balls, and hollow ware "necessary for the service of the country" was established in Chatham County and was bought by the state in 1777, but it was returned to its original owner a year later.
 During the Revolution, similar operations sprang up across the Piedmont and the western part of the state to supply materials of war, but several factors, not the least of which was a lack of "technical know-how," kept the industry from reaching its full potential.
 North Carolina remained dependent on its neighboring states for much of its iron throughout the Revolution, and with the end of hostilities, the Tar Heel iron industry came almost to a total standstill.
 However, a new era was ahead that was to give the iron industry a fresh start, primarily because of westward expansion and the growth of domestic manufacturing.
 In 1788 an act was passed by the legislature "to encourage the building of ironworks in the state." Under the act 3,000 acres of land were to be given to each new ironworks established and, if a specified amount of iron was produced, the land was to be exempt from taxes for ten years.
 During the two decades that followed numerous forges were established to take advantage of the free lands. Lincoln County became a center of ironmaking by 1798 with five inter-related families separately engaged, in the business at such places as Vesuvius Furnace, Mt. Welcome, and High Shoals.
 Although ironmaking in North Carolina during the first half of the 19th Century, brought considerable fortunes to a few individuals, it never developed into the "big business" pattern of Birmingham and Pittsburgh.
 Here it was always closely allied to the plantation system as a subsidiary enterprise of men who were primarily farmers.
 The industry failed to reach beyond the limited markets of the local area, and among the factors most often cited as causing its downfall are the use of primitive techniques, the poor state of transportation at the time, and the development of richer ore deposits elsewhere.
 By the 1850s almost all of the individual "ironmasters" of North Carolina had given way to growing competition from large capitalized companies that came with the industrial revolution.
 During the Civil War the state's few remaining isolated ironworks again hit a peak of activity and the Confederate government even planned a large arsenal and foundry on the Deep River.
 Construction was begun but was far from completed when the war ended along with the hopes of those who envisioned North Carolina as a leader in the production of iron.

ECU Publishing Variety Of Books For The Layman

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Without fanfare, East Carolina University Publications is publishing small books, which while scholarly, are ones that can be read with benefit by laymen with more than a passing interest in the subject matter.

As an example of books prepared by one department alone, the Department of Political Science, there are three recent books available — all published within the past year.

"Essays On the Viet Nam War," edited by Dr. Jung-Gun Kim, has a lengthy article on the "Legal Aspects of the Vietnam War" by Quincy Wright. Wright covers topics such as Constitutional Issues, Principles of International Law, Intervention by the United Nations, Vietnam Before World War II, Vietnam After World War II, and other viewpoints within the legal aspects of the controversial Southeastern nation.

Philip J. Adler has contributed an article on "The Vietnam War and U.S.-East European Relations," showing the effects of the conflict on American relations with the communist states of East Europe.

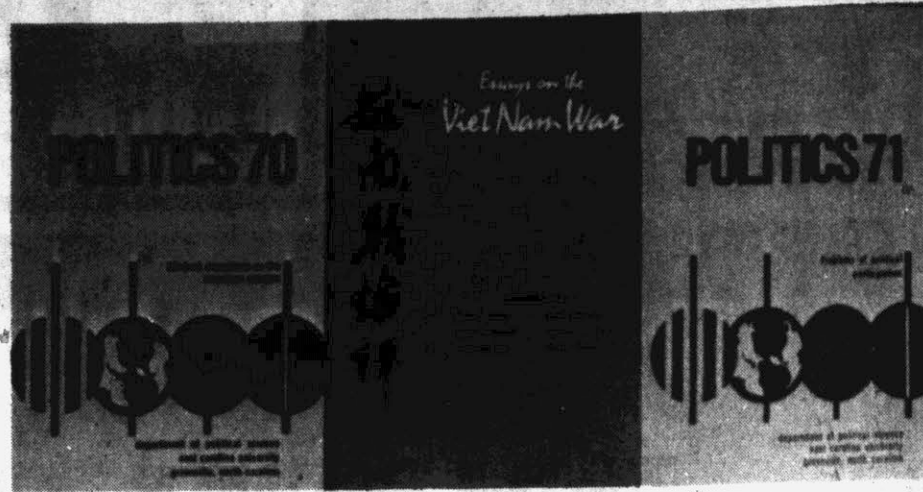

"The Vietnam War, Intervention, and The Changing Concept of Domestic Jurisdiction" is the subject John M. Howell writes about, in which he sets forth an interpretation of intervention and its manifold implications for the U.S.

Ralph Braibanti, writing on "New Perspectives in Asian Affairs," pinpoints a number of common misconceptions of the political phenomena which occur in Asian countries.

Other articles in this publication include William C. Johnstone's "The Politics of the Vietnam War: A Look at The Record," and editor Kim's "Reflections on Recent International Politics, United Nations, and the Vietnam War."

Although events in Vietnam have taken many dramatic turns since the publication of "Essays On The Vietnam War," this volume still provides the thoughtful reader with much background.

Also in 1970, the Department of Political Science compiled a series of essays on the general subject "Student Discontent on the American Campus," in book form entitled "Politics 1970." In this first of an annual series under the editorial committee of Hans H. Indorf, Howard A. I. Sugg and Tinsley E. Yarbrough, it was noted each annual issue would be devoted "to a problem of topical interest."

A TRIO . . . of handbooks published by East Carolina University Publications. All are products of the Department of Political Science.

"Politics 1970" leads off with a joint paper by Alan E. Bayer and Alexander W. Astin, "Violence and Disruption on the U.S. Campus: A Survey Analysis." Their paper includes statistics in table forms which dramatically show major issues and the degree of protest by institutions experiencing violent and non-violent forms of protests.

In this first issue, two students also contribute a joint article. Phyllis Bridgeman and Alan N. Sabrosky collaborate on "The Student Speaks: Pros and Cons of Revolution."

ECU President Leo W. Jenkins joins Robert W. Williams and John M. Howell in one article, "Student Unrest: An Administrative Point of View." Another joint venture is "A Survey of Practices Concerning Student Membership on Academic Committees," by John B. Davis and Vann Latham.

John P. East is the author of "Student Radicalism and Moral Authority: Some Personal Reflections." East writes on "The Need for Transcendent Moral Authority," and "The Relevance of The Judaic-Christian Perspective," concluding "I do not agree that these students are 'idealistic' or 'courageous' as some of their apologists suggest." He adds "I cannot defend these student radicals."

"Black Student Activities and Administrative Responses at Public Universities in North Carolina. A Preliminary Survey," is the title of Kenneth Day's article. Day divides his article into several topics — "Diversity of Black Student Groups;" "Demands Made By Black Students;" "Factors Relating to Diversity;" and several more topics.

Three individual articles round out the content of "Politics 1970." These are Tinsley E. Yarbrough's "University-Student Relations and the Courts;" William F. Troutman, Jr.'s "The New Student Left: Liberal or Radical? The Case of the Southern Student Organizing Committee;" and Hans H. Indorf's "Syndicalism: International Link and Common Denominator of Student Militants."

"Politics 1971," follows rather closely the same format of "Politics 1970." The 1971 publication is based on the theme "Problems of Political Participation." Hans H. Indorf again writes the introduction.

Seven individuals have contributed articles to "Politics 1971." Congressman Walter B. Jones answers five questions put to him in a short article "Personal Political Participation."

Young-dahl Song contributes a long essay on "For Repeal of the Hatch Act;" and another lengthy contribution is that of Mack H. Jones' "Black Officeholders in Local Governments of the South: An Overview."

William F. Troutman Jr., and Tinsley E. Yarbrough, who were writers for the 1970 issue, are also represented in "Politics 1971" with articles on "Political Participation in the American Context: A Definition and Evaluation;" and "Demonstrations: The View of Justice Black," respectively.

"The Soviet Concept of Political Participation" is the subject chosen by H.A.I. Sugg. In his article, he touches on "Basic Concepts;" "Soviet Critique of Capitalist Democracy;" "Nature and Essence of Soviet (Socialist) Democracy," and other topics relating to the Soviet concept.

North Carolina's Attorney General Robert B. Morgan discusses in depth the concern in North Carolina over "Consumer Protection Through Consumer Representation." At one point Morgan notes "As the Attorney General of North Carolina and as a person who believes that the consuming public deserves protection, I have tried to find a basis for such protection in the fundamental documents of American government."

These three books, the result of collaboration on the part of university personnel, students, and notable state figures, provide serious insights into a number of issues which are of vital concern not only to scholars, but to concerned citizens.

Persons interested in purchasing a copy of any of these publications can order them from East Carolina University Publications, P. O. Box 2771, Greenville, N.C. "Politics 1970" is priced at $2.75, plus 25 cents for postage. "Politics 1971" is $1.98, plus 25 cents postage. No price is given for "Essays on the Viet Name War."

Country Musicmakers Hail 'Bootlegging' Ban

By NANCY SHIPLEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gov. Winfield Dunn's signature on a measure outlawing the "bootlegging" of tapes or records, has been termed a milestone of Tennessee and the music industry.

Dunn's signing last week of legislation making it a felony to copy tape recordings or records for purposes of resale made Tennessee the first state in the nation to enact such a law.

The new statute, which went into effect immediately sets a penalty of up to three years in prison or a fine of up to $25,000 for the first offense and a 3-to-10 year prison term and a fine of up to $100,000 for any subsequent offense.

Manufacturers and distributors who know the location of "bootlegged" recordings are charged with the responsibility of notifying law enforcement agencies. The law provides that such illegal recordings confiscated by authorities are to be given to charitable institutions.

Cecil Scaife, Nashville Columbia Records executive, said the purpose of state laws is to hold the line against lucrative manufacture of bootleg recordings until passage of a national law.

Scaife said Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., has introduced an emergency bill in the Senate which he said has already passed the Senate Judiciary Committee and is expected to be considered before the House Judiciary Committee soon.

But Scaife said music industry officials anticipate its eventual passage will take some time.

Scaife said that until now, it had been possible for a bootlegger of recorded commercial songs and other material to be a respectable businessman in the sense that he was violating no laws.

"The only legal tactic you could take against him was to charge he was using unfair advantage by copying the material and selling it at his own price," the record executive explained.

"Nobody in normal business circles now is going to want to run the risk of becoming a felon," he said.

Scaife quoted figures he said were compiled through considerable research by the National Association of Record Merchandisers and Billboard Magazine, showing the business volume of the retail recording industry now totals about $750 billion annually and that bootlegging now accounts for an estimated $100 million a year.

Scaife said the normal price of a bootleg recording ranges between one-half and two-thirds the cost of the legitimate recorded product on the market. The bootlegger ordinarily makes no payments to the singers, songwriters and publishers and whose work is exploited, e stated.

The music industry official said the new Tennessee law appears to be strong enough to accomplish its goal.

Job Corps Is Recruiting

The Job Corps is recruiting 16-through 21-year-old school dropouts who would like to learn a trade and complete their educations at a residential center away from home.

Recruiting of men is done through the State Department of Social Services. Job Corps counselor, Mrs. Mary Lou Latham, travels all over Eastern North Carolina interviewing candidates. She will be at the Martin County Department of Social Services in Williamston Thursday, May 27 and at the Pitt Social Services Department in Greenville Friday, May 28. Interested persons who have no transportation may be interviewed at home by writing to Job Corps, P.O. Box 2599, Raleigh, N.C. 27602.

Interested girls should contact Women in Community Service in Greenville. The office, located at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on East Fourth Street, is open from 10 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday. The WICS mailing address is P. O. Box 133, Greenville, N.C. 27834. Mrs. Jack Wilkerson heads the local volunteer program, which serves most of the eastern N.C. counties.

West's role in defending against South's two heart contract is reminiscent of the ostrich burying his head in the sand when danger lurks. By merely anticipating the impending course of events, West could have taken steps to assure a profit for his side on the deal.

West opened the king of diamonds on which East signaled vigorous encouragement by playing the nine. West continued with the ace and a small diamond and South ruffed the third round with the deuce of hearts.

Declarer cashed the ace and king of hearts and when both opponents followed, he left West's long trump—the ten—outstanding and proceeded to run the spades. The ace was played, followed by the queen which was overtaken by dummy's king. On the third and fourth spades, South discarded two clubs. West finally ruffed in with the ten of hearts, however he could cash only one club trick because declarer ruffed the second round and claimed the balance.

In all, South lost one heart, two diamonds and one club to score an overtrick on the deal.

West should have been sufficiently impressed by the dummy's spade holding to make a determined effort to get his partner in for a club play thru South. In other words, West should have anticipated the possibility that declarer might hold the missing spade strength as well as the king of clubs.

It was a cinch from East's play of the nine of diamonds on the first trick, that he held the queen of that suit. If he had the jack and not the queen, for example, he would surely have given a milder come on. Observe that if West under leads the ace of diamonds at trick two, East will put up the queen. When this holds, the club shift becomes routine and the defense can rattle off three tricks in that suit to complete their book and then sit back and wait for their trump trick which sends declarer down to defeat.

W.W. Moore Is Re-Elected By Federation

ATLANTIC BEACH — Police Chief W. W. Moore has been re-elected North Carolina state president of the American Federation of Police.

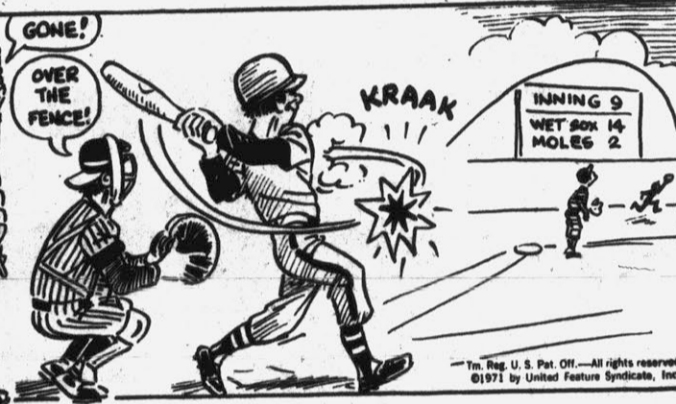

Chief Moore, who is completing his first two-year term in office was re-elected for a second two-year term in mail balloting last month. The police official's certificate of election was presented last week. A native of Kenly, Moore has been Chief of Police at Atlantic Beach since 1966. The American Federation of Police is a non-profit fraternal association of law enforcement officers, with membership from across the United States. Headquarters of the federation are located in North Miami, Florida.

New UNC Trustees To Be Voted On Thursday

RALEIGH (AP) — The House and Senate will meet in joint session Thursday to confirm the election of 28 new University of North Carolina trustees.

The 28-member slate was approved Tuesday by the Joint UNC Trustees committee from a list of 60 nominees. Selections of the committee are traditionally approved without challenge on the floor.

However, the possibility of a nomination from the floor was left open by the omission from the slate of Archie K. Davis, a member of the UNC executive committee and chairman of the board of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. of Winston-Salem.

Davis was one of 13 incumbent trustees who had been nominated for reelection but were not included on the slate Tuesday.

Another executive committee member, Mrs. John C. Burgwyn of Jackson, withdrew her name from the list of nominees.

Two other members of the executive committee were approved for reelection: Sen. George Wood, D-Camden, and Durham banker George Watts Hill.

Founders Day Observance At Children's Home

The Free Will Baptist Children's Home at Middlesex, will celebrate its 51st anniversary with a Founders' Day, Saturday.

Registration will begin at 10:00 a.m. and a worship service at 10:30 a.m. with Dr. James Batten as speaker. Dr. Batten is a Free Will Baptist layman from the Micro Free Will Baptist Church and is presently serving as chairman of the Department of Secondary Education at East Carolina University.

A picnic style lunch is planned for 12:00 noon. An informal program is planned for the afternoon, including games and contests for everyone.

In addition to Wood, three other legislators were put on the slate: Sen. I.C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, Rep. Julian Fenner, D-Nash, and Rep. Carl Smith, D-Orange.

Hill, a veteran UNC trustee, barely made the list, tying for 28th place on the first ballot with Rep. Allen Barbee, D-Nash. Hill won the two-man runoff 18-16.

Incumbents approved are: Irwin Elk of Charlotte; Hill; Mrs. J. Henry Hill of Hickory; Thomas H. Leath of Rockingham; R. D. McMillan Jr. of Red Springs; Ashley M. Murphy of Atkinson; R. Glenn Stovall of Roxboro and Wood.

Others who made the slate area: Mrs. Ed M. Anderson of West Jefferson; Harold K. Bennett of Asheville; Cary C. Boshamer of Morehead City; Dr. George W. Brown of Waynesville; Victor C. Dawson of Fayetteville; Grover A. Gore of Southport; James A. Hardison Jr. of Wadesboro; William L. Hill II of Wilmington; Lewis L. Hobbs III of Shelby; Mrs. Car-

Secretaries To Sponsor A Tea

Nineteen secretaries in the schools and school office of the Greenville City School system will tomorrow sponsor a tea at the Library of Eastern Elementary School at 3:45 p.m. to honor 23 city school administrators and the members of the School Board of Education.

Mrs. Naomi Edwards, spokesman for the secretaries, noted the event ties in with national Education Bosses' Week, which is being observed May 16 through May 21.

Principals, assistant principals, associate principals, directors of elementary and secondary education, the superintendent and associate superintendent are among the 23 administrators, all male, who are being honored at the tea, at which punch and cake will be served.

lyse Isley of Burlington; George R. Little of Elizabeth City; Mrs. Kenneth Newbold of Laurinburg; Bernard Smith of Asheville; W. Griswold Smith of Greensboro; R. P. Spangler of Shelby; William J. Stone of Canton; and Mrs. H.H. Walston III of Wilson.

Realtors Warned Many Priced Out Of The Market

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., told the Charlotte Board of Realtors Tuesday that rising pay scales of construction unions are putting housing out of the range of many middle-income people.

Fannin spoke to about 500 persons at the Realtors' 50th anniversary banquet.

He accused the building trades unions of not training enough apprentices to meet the needs of the construction industry. And he said inflation caused by other unions' following the lead of the construction workers was helping to put American exports at a disadvantage.

Fannin returned to the United States earlier Tuesday from a five-day visit to Japan. He said this nation must make the Japanese open their markets to U. S. products or else give the government power to put strict controls on Japanese goods.

A Thinking K-9

..SUFFOLK, Va. (AP) — How does a K-9 police dog, trained to hold suspects by gripping their clothing in her jaws, cope with a nude man? ..This was the problem that confronted Suffolk police dog Jinks Tuesday when a prison escapee dashed from a house with no clothes on.

..Jinks measured up to the sudden challenge, however, by circling the man at close quarters and just looking mean. That was enough to root the man to the spot and he was quickly arrested.

Oil Alert Is Formed On West Coast

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The petroleum industry is moving to put men and equipment on alert along 1,200 miles of Pacific coastline to take quick action should a major oil spill occur.

The organizations forming in Portland, Ore.; Seattle, Wash.; and San Francisco, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles and San Diego in California, are an outgrowth of the Santa Barbara Channel oil well blowout two years ago and the collision last January in San Francisco Bay between two oil tankers.

"We are incorporated for the purpose of acquiring equipment and material and training men and setting up a more or less volunteer fire department-type organization to contain and clean up any oil spill that might occur in our area of interest," said Reese W. Morton, director of Clean Seas, Inc., in Santa Barbara.

Formed as a nonprofit organization by 14 oil companies with oil exploration and production operations in the Santa Barbara area, Clean Seas, Inc., is the leader in the growing movement. A group that plans to call itself Clean Bay, Inc., is forming among oil companies operating in San Francisco Bay and its tributaries.

"The greatest thing we hope to be able to do is contain and clean up the oil wherever it's spilled and never let it get to the shore," Norton, a 36-year veteran engineer with Standard Oil, said.

He said procedures have been set up so that large numbers of men and equipment could be on the scene of a spill within two hours. They would be directed by radio and telephone from a command post in Santa Barbara.

There have been no major oil spills along the California coast since the tanker collision.

Clean Seas was incorporated last August and began organizing men and equipment early this year. It's first-year budget of $250,000 provides for purchase of equipment and testing of proposed oil spill control systems. The industry is funding the program.

"After the Santa Barbara spill, everyone realized this had to be done," Norton said. "Perhaps the spill did the oil industry a favor in that it got us moving on things like this."

Legend has it that the kangaroo's name comes from a native phrase meaning "I don't know," given in reply to the white man who asked the name of this strange animal.
