Some Rhododendron Varieties Do Very Well In Eastern N.C.

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Growing rhododendrons is a second generation affair for Dr. William R. Hoots, Jr. East Carolina University faculty member in the Industrial and Technical Education Department.

For the seven years the Henderson County native has been in Greenville, he has been able to "prove that some varieties do very well in the eastern area of the state."

Dr. Hoots remarked his father "was in the rhododendron business until his death at 80." Earlier, the senior Hoots had been a horticulturist with State College in Raleigh. "On his retirement he established a rhododendron business," Dr. Hoots said. "Most of my original plants are from my dad's collection."

Now that his Greenville rhododendron bushes have attained enough growth to be showy when they are in bloom, Dr. Hoots observed, "It is a major concern to me to let people have an opportunity to see them in bloom. Next year I plan to announce in advance the best viewing date and to invite the public to see them at that time."

He noted just now it is a little late to view them this year. "The blooming season is from about the last week in March, on through April and through the first couple of weeks in May. The white blooms first. Usually, somewhere around the 8th or 10th of May is the peak of the season, the best time for viewing."

In his Greenville yard, Dr. Hoots says he has "probably 21 to 24 varieties, some dwarf, some tall growing." Many of the rhododendrons are native to the southeast

U.S., others come from all parts of the world. "Some," Dr. Hoots noted, "do not at all look like rhododendrons, but more like a flowering palm tree."

Although the major part of the work involved falls on Dr. Hoots' shoulders, he said "it is actually a family project with us, including deciding where to put a particular plant." He added "they help with the weeding of the bed too."

The college professor admits to having a delightful time with the brilliant flowering shrubs and expressed a hope that people in this area will think about including rhododendron in their landscape planning along with other local favorites, such as the azalea and camellia.

Carrier Returns After 5 Years

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Midway has returned to the Indochina war after more than five years off the line for extensive modernization, the Navy said today.

The 64,000-ton, 25-year-old carrier has been on station in the Tonkin Gulf since Tuesday, and its planes have been attacking the Ho Chi Minh trail network in Laos.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Trustees for the Penn Central Railroad say further "emergency measures" will be needed to bring the nation's largest carrier out of its financial malaise and save it from failure.

will be Mendelssohn's "War March of the Priests", with the March from Verdi's opera "Aida" as the recessional. Mrs. Selma Davenport is organist for the program.

The congregational hymn to be used is "Come, Thou Almighty King," by Felice de Giardini. A second musical offering on the program is Caesar Franck's musical setting of "Psalm 150," to be performed by the J.H. Rose High School Ensemble.

Food Prices Pace Living Cost Rise

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grocery prices rose sharply again in April but smaller increases for some housing and transportation costs held last month's over-all rise in living costs to three-tenths of one per cent, the government said today.

The April increases brought the government's Consumer Price Index up to 120.2, meaning it cost $12.02 last month for every $10.00 worth of typical family purchases in the 1967 base period.

The Labor Department said the index was 4.3 per cent above a year earlier for the smallest annual rise in nearly three years and that the increase since February was the smallest of any three-month period in four years.

Grocery prices rose nine-tenths of one per cent. Housing costs edged up one-tenth of one per cent, transportation three-tenths, clothing four-tenths, medical care six-tenths and recreation six-tenths, said the report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The bureau also reported that some 45 million rank and file workers gained 73 cents a week in pay to an average of $124.75, and that after allowance for federal tax deductions and higher living costs, purchasing power was two per cent above a year earlier. However, the buying power of the average pay check was still 1.9 per cent below the record peak of September 1968.

The big rise of nine-tenths of one per cent for food followed an equally large jump in March grocery prices.

Most of the April food rise was due to increases in fresh fruit and vegetable prices.

"Prices of beef and veal, cereal and bakery products and dairy products increased instead of declining as they usually do in April," the report said.

Nixon And Chief Disarmament Negotiator Talk SALT Moves

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Soviet-U.S. strategic arms limitation talks apparently entering a crucial phase, President Nixon called his chief disarmament negotiator to a White House conference today.

The President's meeting with Gerard Smith follows by one day his dramatic announcement of "a major step in breaking the stalemate on nuclear arms talks" that has blocked progress in the SALT negotiations with the Russians since last year.

Smith is returning to Vietnam to wind up the spring session of the SALT talks and try to win agreement for a new round this summer in Helsinki, Finland.

White House officials said it is this round which will show whether the new push from U.S. and Russian leaders result in real progress.

In his nationally broadcast statement Thursday Nixon said that in secret exchanges "involving the highest level of both governments," the Soviet Union and the United States:

"Have agreed to concentrate this year on working out an agreement for the limitation of the deployment of ABM (antiballistic missile) systems."

—have also agreed that, together with concluding an agreement to limit ABMs, they will agree on certain measures with respect to the limitation of offensive strategic weapons."

The Soviets issued an identical announcement.

The SALT talks, started in 1969, have been stymied since last fall over whether to include both offensive and defensive missiles in disarmament package.

The Soviets proposed an ABMs-only deal as a first step. The Americans say ABMs are designed to defend against offensive missiles, so an ABM agreement must be linked to a curb on offensive missiles such as Russia's big SSes.

White House officials said the joint announcement does not mean either power changed its basic position at the SALT talks. The administration still wants to proceed with its request to Congress for an expanded Safeguard ABM pending further development from the SALT negotiations, they said. In fact, the Soviets are currently constructing more sites for long-range missiles and the United States is proceeding with the Safeguard ABM system, designed to guard U.S. sites against such long-range rockets.

The sentence focusing on an agreement to limit ABMs seemed to lean toward the Soviet position.

Mercury Poison Is Real

WASHINGTON (AP) — A New York health officer says the mercury poisoning of a housewife who died on swordfish dramatizes the potential danger facing other "fish fadists."

Dr. Roger Herdman, deputy director of the New York State Health Department, described the plight of an unidentified 44-year-old Long Island woman to a Senate environment subcommittee Thursday.

The mother of three consumed about 10 ounces of swordfish daily for nine months in 1964 and 1965, he said, and lost 45 pounds. She continued her swordfish diet sporadically until November 1970.

Now, he said, she has been diagnosed as a mercury poisoning victim.

The woman purchased the swordfish, all of it fresh from a local market, "because she didn't like fish ... she wanted a nonfishy-tasting fish," Herdman said.

Tuna fish fits that category, he said, and "a person eating 10 ounces a day would exceed the maximum allowable intake" set by the Food and Drug Administration.

On May 6 the FDA recommended that Americans stop eating swordfish because the agency's tests of 853 samples showed 95 per cent contained mercury exceeding its 0.5 parts per million standard considered safe.

The FDA ordered some tuna off store shelves last year but has since declared all on the market to be within its 0.5 ppm standard.

Herdman described the Long Island woman as "the first case of human illness in this nation directly attributable to mercury poisoning from ordinary marketable food."

Her condition has improved but her body still contains an abnormally high level of mercury, the health officer said.

Saturday Is Poppy Day

A POPPY FOR THE MAYOR . . . Two junior members of Greenville Unit No. 39 of the American Legion Auxiliary approach Mayor Eugene

West with the poppies they will be selling tomorrow. Pinning one to his lapel is Mrs. Jane Hall. On the left is Miss Debbie Whickard.

Tomorrow has been proclaimed "Poppy Day in Greenville" by Mayor Eugene West.

He urged all citizens to join him in wearing "this memorial flower in remembrance of the sacrifices of so many in defense of our freedom." The poppy was adopted in 1919 by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary as its memorial flower. It has been used to connote the paying of tributes to the war dead ever since. The Legion assists

Veterans and their families in time of need with the money raised by the sale of artificial poppies. Child welfare and rehabilitation in our community and state are the main recipients now, and American Legion spokesman said.

Demonstrations And Disorders Rise Anew

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Riot-arrested police pushed a crowd of some 200 college-age persons from the city's tavern area to the Kent State University campus Thursday in a third straight night of mass downtown gatherings.

More than 50 persons were arrested. This included more than 25 arrested after the dwindling crowd was pushed quarter of a mile to the campus.

The crowd which gathered in downtown Kent originally numbered 400 to 500 and at one point included members of the Chosen Few motorcycle gang.

About a dozen members of the motorcycle gang charged into the crowd, swinging belts and chains, police said. One cyclist was taken into custody and the weapons were confiscated, officers said.

Police began dispersing the crowd after Douglas Hayward, 19, of Perryburg, Ohio, was struck and injured by a motorcycle that raced into a crowd of some 400-500 persons milling around Kent's tavern area, blocking traffic. Hayward, a freshman at Kent, was treated at Robinson Memorial Hospital for a head wound and a laceration.

Police said smaller disorders Tuesday and Wednesday may have been triggered by the trial and conviction of a 20-year-old Kent State student for desecrating an American flag. Michael Brock was convicted in Municipal Court on Wednesday in connection with an incident on campus Feb. 5.

The disturbances Thursday night followed an anti-war demonstration at the site of the annual Honors Day review for ROTC cadets. Kent State President Robert I. White shifted the review from the campus to the university stadium, about 1 1/4 miles away, to discourage demonstrators. About 300 gathered and about 40 who jumped a fence into the stadium were chased by police. One demonstrator was arrested and charged with trespassing.

Found LSD And Marijuana Seed In Room Search

A 21-year-old East Carolina freshman was arrested on drug law violation charges in his dormitory room early this morning.

Agents of the State Bureau of Investigation and ECU Campus police searched a Jones dorm room where John David Kates of Winston-Salem was living. They found 69 tablets of LSD and a quantity of marijuana seed.

According to officers Kates was charged with the misdemeanor possession of marijuana and bond in that case was set at $500. Bond for the felony charge of possession of LSD was set at $2,500. A hearing in the case was scheduled for District Court June 2.

The search of Kates' room was conducted about 12:15 a.m.

Boyfriend's Hair Seems To Be His Favorite

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a young girl but old enough to have a boy friend. I live in Arkansas and my boy friend lives in Glendale, Cal. (He used to live in Arkansas.) Well, every summer my boy friend comes to Arkansas to visit his grandmother. Last summer he came here and his grandmother made him cut his hair, so he wrote and told me he wasn't coming this summer because his grandmother told him unless he planned on getting his hair cut first, not to come.

Abby, I begged him to come anyway. Last I heard was he wasn't coming. He says he loves me but it looks like he loves his hair more. He wears it down to his shoulders.

How can I get him to come to Arkansas even if he has to get a haircut?

ARKANSAS GIRL

DEAR GIRL: The fight for long hair is one that nearly every long-haired male needs desperately to win. It's not the hair he wants to preserve, it's his RIGHT to wear his hair the way he wants to. I'm afraid you're fighting a losing battle.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning women who display hairy legs and underarms, you asked for volunteers from Italy, so here is one:

I am a male American medical student at the University of Rome. When I first arrived here, I was amazed to see hairy legs and bushy underarms on Italian women of all ages. According to an Italian bachelor friend of mine, Italian men don't mind the hair at all. He said that a "defuzzed" woman would have the same effect on him as a woman without eyebrows would have on me!

In a country where people are so preoccupied with romance, it is hard to resign oneself to the daily confrontation with "B. O." on the bus. How an Italian can be romantically interested in a woman who has a jungle of hair under her arms, and no deodorant, is a mystery to me.

My one consolation is that I will one day return to the States where the women and Mr. Gillette have had a tremendous rapport for decades. In the meantime, I'll confine my female companionship to Americans or other foreigners.

FRED IN ROME

DEAR FRED: You have been conditioned by your American background. Would you believe that some European women are turned on by men who smell of PERSPIRATION! And some men prefer their women the same way. I'll bet there is more perfume sold in Europe than SOAP!

DEAR ABBY: I am writing about "J," the divorcee in Lincoln Park, N. J., who complained because the men there took her to dinner, a movie, and then expected sex.

You said, "Try the men in southern New Jersey. They are much more civilized and domesticated, I'm told."

Would you believe they are worse? I am also divorced and have gone out with men in their late thirties and early forties. The men in South Jersey take you to dinner, skip the movies and expect sex. This goes for men in Pennsylvania, also, as I border Philadelphia. In fact, this is also true of men in Bucks County and Montgomery County, Pa.

I'd say stick with the North Jersey men. At least you get to see a movie a few times a year. All decent men are married, and only half the married men are decent.

"J" FROM CINNAMINSON, N. J.

DEAR ABBY: Why are people worried about out-of-wedlock babies not having a name? They DO have one.

For centuries, theologians have said that when a girl is "profligate," her baby is the responsibility of her parents, and shall bear the parents' surname. As it were, it accrues to the maternal grandparents in the analogy of a calf belonging to the owner of the cow.

Couple Weds In Ceremony

In a double ring ceremony in the Red Oak Christian Church on Friday evening at seven o'clock, Miss Jewel Starr Allen became the bride of James Beasley Oakley.

Parents of the couple are Mr. James A. Allen and Mrs. Earl Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Oakley of Greenville. His paternal grandmother is Mrs. Lela Oakley of Greenville.

The Rev. Kenneth Moore, the bride's pastor, officiated at the ceremony. A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Leota Tyson, aunt of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of silk organza and lace. Her shoulder length veil was of silk illusion and lace and she carried a colonial nosegay of carnations and red streamers.

Mrs. Cathy McKeel of Jacksonville was matron of honor.

The couple will reside at Rt. 8, Greenville.

Lobbyist Finally Had To Move Out

PARIS (WNS) — Paulette Cambium, 21, wasn't content to wait at stage doors to get a look at her singing idol, Claude Francois. For four months she camped in the lobby of the apartment house where he lives. Tenants didn't complain until she invited half a dozen girl friends to join her. They wrote love graffiti on the walls and sent him flowers picked from the building's garden. Police arrested Paulette when she opened her idol's mail and bit a woman who told her that she was breaking the law. Judgment of the court: five days in jail, and move out of the lobby.

Mrs. Spangler Gives Program

Mrs. Evelyn Spangler presented the program at the meeting of the Simpson Extension Homemakers held Tuesday at the home of Miss Lena Barrow.

She spoke on "Be Sure, Insure Your Health." Mrs. Spangler discussed various types of health insurance and said "we should study our policies to find out how much coverage we had."

Mrs. Harold Mills presented at the business session and Mrs. J. B. Smith gave the devotional.

It was announced that May is Senior Citizens Month and various organizations have planned special activities.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. R. H. Heath served refreshments.

More Die 'Under The Influence'

While it may be difficult to measure the real significance of the figures, it should be of interest to every North Carolinian that so far this year there has been a six per cent increase in the number of drivers under the influence of alcohol killed in highway accidents.

Statistics developed by the chief toxicologist for the State Board of Health's Medical Examiner show that of the 72 drivers killed in single-car accidents from January through April, 51 of them, or 71 per cent, were under the influence of alcohol. Eighteen of the drivers (25 per cent) who died were sober according to laboratory tests and another three had

Election Of Judges Stays

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolinians will keep on electing their judges for the immediate future.

Anomination-apointive method, worked out by the North Carolina Courts Commission, has fizzled out in the General Assembly without gaining significant support.

Now the lawmakers face a decision on whether to give Republicans a fair shot in the election process. Weighing on the outcome of legislative action is a federal court suit filed by James E. Holshouser, Jr., of Boone, Watauga County Representative and State GOP Chairman. The suit attacks as unconstitutional the present system of district nomination and statewide election for Superior Court judges, which operates as an effective barrier to GOP candidates.

Legislative sponsored by a Democrat would make a change. Senator Thomas E. Strickland of Wayne put in a bill early in the session for nomination and election at the level of the judicial district. In areas where party strength is evenly matched, or the GOP is predominant, that would give a fighting chance to the minority party.

Waiting Committee Action
Strickland has waited patiently while the bill lay in the Senate Courts and Judicial Districts Committee. "I held off to see what they would do with the courts commission's judicial selection plan," Strickland explained. "Now I'm about ready to push for a vote on my bill."

That will be forthcoming, assured Senator J. Ruffin Bailey of Wake, chairman of the Senate committee and also the courts commission.

Both Bailey and Rep. W. Marcus Short of Guilford, chairman of the House Courts and Judicial Districts Committee, conceded that the outlook is dim for the judicial selection plan.

Even so, Short said, exposure of the proposal has served a useful purpose in putting before the public and legislators the question of how judges should be chosen. Undoubtedly, the issue will be back at the next General Assembly session.

The courts commission adopted a version of the so-called Missouri plan. A primary aim would be to relieve judges of the political burden and potential obligations of campaigning, and to make available qualified candidates who might shy away from the political involvement of direct election.

Nomination By Panel
This would be done through nomination of prospective judges by a citizens' panel and appointment by the Governor, who would have to select one of three names submitted. Judges thus installed would stay on the bench through a non-partisan, no-opponent election which would simply put on the ballot the question: "Should Judge X remain in office?" A negative vote would bring into play the same nomination-apointment process.

Short said he sees considerable merit in the judicial selection plan. It would provide a thorough screening which would turn up highly qualified candidates, he noted. "We have to admit that the best judges aren't always the best politicians," he said.

Nowadays it takes money to run even a modest campaign, Short continued, and soliciting contributions creates a semi-obligation unseemly for a judge.

Short agreed election has worked well, produced qualified judges for the state, and created few instances of scandal or other problems.

Public Hearing Likely
Pro and con arguments on the judicial selection plan may be aired at a public hearing before the Senate Committee within the next couple of weeks, Bailey reported.

Two proposals drafted by the courts commission appear well on the way to enactment. One would fix mandatory retirement ages for judges: 70 for the trial court, 72 for the appeals bench. The aim would be graceful removal of those infirm or senile. The other proposal would create a judicial standards commission with power to censure or remove judges for improper conduct.

Both must be approved by voters as amendments to the State Constitution.

While the judicial selection plan appears dead, prospects aren't bright for Strickland's measure on district election of Superior Court judges.

Short, opposed to such an idea in past sessions, said he wasn't too keen on it now. "While Superior Court judges sit in their district, they serve on rotation in their division and are liable to assignment throughout the state," he pointed out. "There is some logic for statewide election."

been drinking but were not considered intoxicated.

The year-end figures for 1970 indicated 65 per cent of the 219 drivers killed in single-car accidents were under the influence of alcohol; 11 per cent had been drinking and only 24 per cent were considered sober at the time of their accidents.

For whatever else the statistics may be worth, they show that driving under the influence of alcohol continues to be a primary cause of highway accidents and fatalities on the state's highways. For the first four months of this year, at least, the percentage of drivers under the influence of alcohol killed in single-car accidents has gone up six percentage points. The percentage of sober drivers killed in similar accidents has gone up only one percentage point during the four-month period.

They are figures drivers should keep in mind particularly with the summer vacation season at hand.

Mutual Cutback Still The Preferential Goal

The Senate has acted properly in laying to rest various proposals for forcing cuts in U. S. Troop strength in Europe.

Approval of the Mansfield plan would have put the administration in an awkward position so far as negotiations with the Soviet Union on troop withdrawals are concerned.

However, the administration should press for mutual troop reductions in talks with the Soviet Union. Certainly it would be beneficial to both countries if the cost of maintaining large armies in Europe could be reduced.

British Seek Better Chance

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Its empire gone, its influence declining, Britain hopes to win new prosperity and power by joining Europe's Common Market.

And the Common Market, by opening its doors to four newcomers, could transform West Europe into the most important trading area in the world. It would band together 250 million people of 10 highly developed nations into a single producing and consuming unit.

The industrial significance of this states out of some figures:

In 1969 the United States produced 37 per cent of the world's passenger cars. The Common Market countries plus Britain produced 39 per cent. America's share of crude steel output that year was 23 per cent, or 1 per cent less than the production of the Common Market plus Britain.

Individually, countries like Britain or France cannot compete effectively against bigger rivals in today's world of advanced technology. For West Europeans to match American or Soviet efforts they must pool their resources.

The six members of the Common Market have started this. Now there is a prospect of enlarging that process by taking in four more states—Britain, Norway, Denmark and Ireland.

Such a development raises the vision of a community humming with activity, casting ancient jealousies aside. In time, if all goes well, a distinctive West European political voice will be heard rivaling the authority of the United States and the Soviet Union in world affairs. With West Europe concerting its foreign policies a special defense identity also would be possible. For the statesmen of allied Europe are not all that happy at the muffled dialogue they know is going on between Washington and Moscow on such issues of strategy as the limitation of nuclear arms.

That is the promise.

To assess its prospects of fulfillment a little bit of history is needed. Here are answers to some key questions:

Who belongs to the Common Market now?

There are six members. France with 50 million people, Italy with 53 million, West Germany with 61 million, and the three Benelux countries—Belgium, Netherlands-Luxembourg — with 23 million.

What exactly is it?

"Common Market" is the popular name given to the group with the official title of European Economic Community. This consists of three related bodies:

—The European Coal and Steel Community, which brought the vital coal and steel industries of the six countries together.

—The European Atomic Energy Community, which pooled the members' civil nuclear power resources.

—The European Economic Community, which set up a customs union and a basis for wider cooperation in trade, money, industry and social matters.

Why was the Common Market formed?

The aftermath of World War II brought the long-fearing nation-states of Europe a double challenge. One, political and military, came from the threat of expanding Soviet-led communism. It was met by forming the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, in which the six were hard-core members.

The other challenge, economic, came from the need to mend the ravages of war and to fit Europe for scientific revolution. This was done initially with American help. Then the French and Benelux people resolved to come to terms with their old German and Italian enemies. So the community idea emerged.

Did anyone stop the British from joining?

The British chose to stay out. Proud of their island tradition, still ambitious for a world role, Britons in general wanted to shun Continental entanglements. Instead they

THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER!!

Save Governor Reagan

WASHINGTON — No matter how I try, I can't stop worrying about Gov. Ronald Reagan's personal financial situation. As everyone knows by now, Gov. Reagan had such bad financial reverses last year that he didn't have to pay state income taxes.

Instead of Californians sympathizing with him over these financial reverses, they became upset and felt there was something wrong because they had to pay taxes and Reagan didn't.

Very few people in the state said, "If the governor makes $44,000 a year as salary and has assets of around $1 million and still can't pay his state income taxes, then he must be hurting very badly, and needs pity rather than censure."

My first thought was that the governor should seek legal aid from the local Office of Economic Opportunity. Although Reagan is trying to abolish legal aid for the poor in California, I'm sure the poverty lawyers would take his case anyway, just to prove that they will take anybody in dire financial straits, regardless of race, creed or elective office.

To make sure, I telephoned a CRIA (California Rural Legal Assistance) lawyer in California and asked him if he would take Reagan as a client.

"Yes," he said, "he would qualify for free legal aid. Our charter specifically says that any governor of a state whose finances are in such poor shape that he doesn't have to pay personal state income taxes is in no position to pay a lawyer, and is therefore eligible for free legal advice. It would be our pleasure to help Gov. Reagan in anyway we could."

"How would you go about it?"

From a legal standpoint it would probably be the most interesting case we've ever handled. Most of our cases have had to do with people who didn't pay any state income taxes because they didn't make any money. This would be the first time we represented someone who made money but didn't pay income taxes.

"Surely there is something wrong with the system if the governor of the largest state in the union has been hurt so badly financially that he can't pay any taxes."

"But what legal defense would you have for him?" I asked.

"First, we would have to find out what financial reverses Mr. Reagan had, whether they came from cattle, oil, real estate or the stock market. Then we would prove that it wasn't his fault that his investments went sour. It was probably due to the general economy."

"But the Republicans are in charge of the economy right now. Wouldn't it look bad if Reagan blamed his own party for the fact he had such a bad income situation."

"I guess you're right. We'll have to think of something else. Perhaps we could persuade the courts to allow the governor to make one motion picture a year."

"Or a new Death Valley Days series," I suggested.

"I was thinking of a remake of the 'Grapes of Wrath,'" the lawyer said. "They could shoot most of it around Sacramento, so the governor wouldn't have to be on location too long. But the important thing is to get him healthy financially so he doesn't have to eat from the public trough."

"This thing has far more ramifications than anyone wants to admit," he said. "We're trying to pull the poor up by their bootstraps so they become honest, hard-working citizens. But if they see somebody like Gov. Reagan, who has worked all his life and still has nothing left over for income taxes, they're going to say to themselves 'The hell with it. Let's stay on welfare.'"

Public Forum

(Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words)

To the editor:

With regard to the May 25 referendum on the imposition of an additional sales tax, I should like to make the following points:

1. Sales taxes are regressive taxes. That is, the lower a person's income, the greater percentage of that income is spent on items subject to the sales tax. For example, the elderly who receive Social Security pay a greater portion of their limited fixed income for sales taxes than people with incomes that expand as the economy grows.

2. The people of Pitt County expressed their feelings about an additional sales tax when they rejected a similar proposal in November, 1969.

3. Moreover, before the 1969 referendum the Pitt County Commissioners intimated that with an additional sales tax the property taxes would be lowered. But today the Pitt County Commissioners say that property taxes will be raised even with an additional sales tax. This then is not an either/or proposition (either sales tax or property tax as many believe). It is both!

4. I agree that the county needs money in order to expand services but I oppose the addition of a one-cent sales tax as the method of acquiring this needed money. There are other more equitable sources of revenue!

NEW YORK (AP) — Life is always rare and new and private and personal.

But life is also shared and repetitive. Some experiences and dreams are so commonplace they seem to happen to everybody at some period of existence—to some early, to others late.

Here are a few examples:

An unfulfilled romance with a red-haired girl.

Flunking some subject in school—usually algebra, chemistry of Latin.

Stealing a nickel or dime from the change mother left on a dresser top or plucking a whole quarter from father's pants while he took a Sunday nap.

Almost drowning while learning to swim.

Rolling down a grassy hill and then feeling the world reel around you so that you grasped the earth in fear that you would fall off it.

Hearing parents engaged in a fruitless, wounding argument and wondering why grownups couldn't have the common sense of children.

The desire to rob a neighborhood bank or a great passenger liner in midocean.

The tremendous gulf, deeper than the Grand Canyon, left by the loss of a tooth.

Being inspired to some form of solitary antic behavior, some conduct you'd rather die than admit, by the mad influence of a full moon in summer-sweet

Strength For Today

A KING'S GREETING
Every year there is a meeting of the General Assembly of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, and the King of England sends someone to this church meeting to represent him. The representative always brings greetings and a message from his Majesty.

The shortest message ever sent by King George V, grandfather of the present sovereign. His message to the assembled commissioners was: "Speak a good word for Jesus Christ."

At first this seems trifling and almost irrelevant. How can we, sinful little people, say a good word for Jesus Christ. He does not need our support.

But as a matter of fact he does. In our social life we encounter conditions of which we do not approve, but we remain silent. In offices there are arguments over ethical matters and sometimes over religion, and we stand on the sidelines. On the college campus someone is always ready to poke fun at the boy who will not drink and at the girl who will not go the full length of boldness.

Why are we so silent, so reticent? Partly because we are afraid to take a forthright stand in behalf of what we believe. We think we will just go on believing the right thing and remain silent. But pretty soon we discover that we are not even believing the right thing, much less standing for it.

FTC Investigating New Game

By ELMER ROESSNER
The Federal Trade Commission is investigating a new kind of game for gas stations, it disclosed in making public its answer to a lawyer's question about its legality. The case has been marked by some curious delays.

The game is called "Play the STOCK MARK-IT." The plan consists of six games, each over two weeks. Every licensed driver visiting a Shell station, whether making a purchase or not, would be given an entry-blank on which he could select five from a list of 50 stocks on the New York Stock Exchange.

At the end of each two-week period, persons whose selected stocks made the largest gains would get $60,000 in prizes, one of $10,000, 10 of $1,000, 100 of $100, and 1,000 of $10 and 4,000 of $5. Contestants could name a sixth stock, which would be reckoned in case of ties.

Asked Advice
The FTC in recent years has offered to give advance, non-binding opinions on advertising and promotional plans and on June 29, 1970, Robert A. Richardson, attorney for Saunders, Stiver & Co., a Cleveland company, wrote the FTC outlining the plan and asking an advisory opinion.

After a discussion between a Mr. Steinbach of the FTC and an associate of Richardson, Richardson on August 5 sent a more detailed description of the game, including the 50 stocks to be listed and the rules.

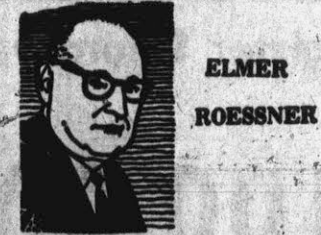

Then six months later, according to Richardson's recollection, Joseph W. Shea, secretary of the FTC, wrote him saying, "The commission has given this matter careful consideration and is of the view, based on the materials and information furnished, that an advisory opinion would be inappropriate under section 1.1(b) of the commission rules, because this plan is substantially the same as several others that are now under investigation by the commission."

"This action implies neither approval nor disapproval of the course of action here involved."

Another Time Lag
Then, under date of May 6, the FTC released the correspondence, including the details of the game and Shea's letter. The release began:

"The Federal Trade Commission has answered (sic) a recent (sic) request from Saunders, Stiver & Co., for an advisory opinion concerning the legality of a game..."

I phoned Richardson and asked whether the company was going ahead with the game in view of the non-opinion and he said that that was a confidential matter between lawyer and client. So we won't know whether we can play Stock Mark-It or some "substantially the same" games this summer.

Market worked?

The six have torn down most barriers, like tariffs or customs duty, holding up trade between themselves. Thus French cars can be sold without duty in partner-states. Dutch radios, or West German machines, or Belgian or Italian textiles, can be bought without duty in other member countries. This has made all concerned somewhat more prosperous.

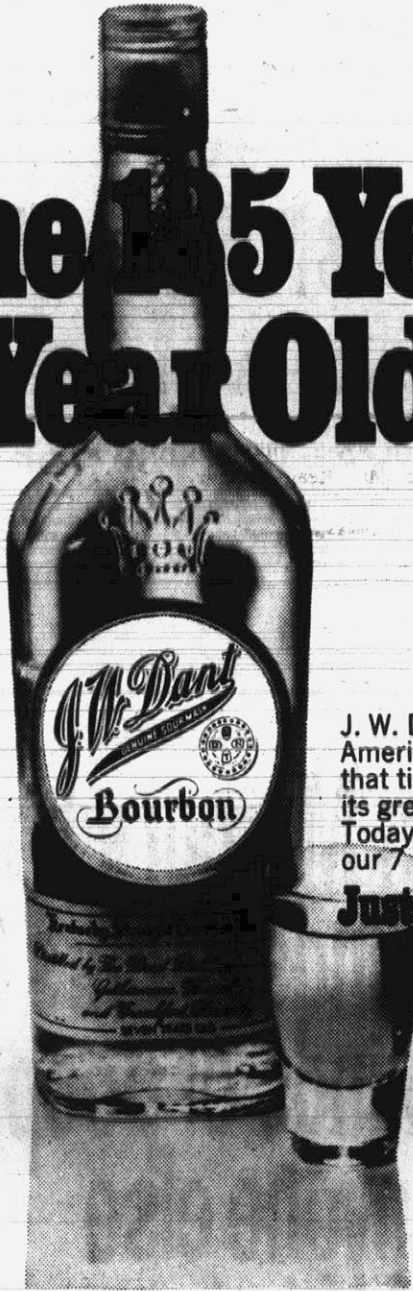

The Common Market at the same time erected a single, quite low tariff on imports from most outside countries. As a result, since 1958, its trade with the rest of the world has gone up 25 per cent.

The community has done many other things. Workers and money can move as freely as goods among member states. Transportation and power policies have been unified. A common legal and commercial code will allow companies to ignore frontiers. There is a plan for a single money system enlarged Common Market because of the external tariff. And the great factories and plants of the Europeans, geared for mass production, should in time become more efficient, turning out cheaper goods. These could squeeze American products out of some markets. Thus competition would become progressively fiercer.

Would a bigger Common Market spur the movement toward a United States of Europe?

The key members—France, Britain, Germany—are still pretty coy about this. Neither French or British leaders would contemplate at this time any surrender of freedom to make their own political decisions. Nor would their respective parliaments accept this. Yet, 10 important countries, working together daily on bread-and-butter issues, would have to merge much of their sovereignty.

Mills Not Closing Door On Possible Candidacy

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says he's not making himself a candidate for the White House, but "I've never objected to anything my friends do." As, for example, making him a candidate for the White House.

That's a tack taken with some routine lately as the Arkansas Democrat tours a Southern circuit and bolsters acquaintances in states which, by no likely coincidence, have presidential primaries next year.

In Nashville, Tenn. last week, for example, he stood with Democratic Reps. Richard Fulton, William R. Anderson and Ray Blanton and reminded newsmen "I have said I do not want my name on the ballot."

"However," he smiled, "I'm in the hands of my friends."

And he acknowledged—or suggested—to fellow Democrats in Raleigh, N.C., Thursday that "there might be some states where my friends might prevail upon me," to allow his name entered.

Mills, who will be 62 next week, heads Saturday for Florida, site of another primary, and a testimonial dinner for Rep. Bill Chappell, another admirer.

Admirers are something of which Mills has plenty, particularly among colleagues who agree with the moderate-to-conservative fiscal philosophy which has marked his 32-year House career and led him to the chairmanship of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee. But whether most would agree with Rep. Walter R. Jones, D-N.C., that Mills' "stable and unemotional leadership" will make him a serious presidential contender is another matter.

One congressman, who asked not to be identified, said Mills will find of his strength limited to the South and border states.

"A lot of his support will be from people who voted for George Wallace in '68," he said, although quickly adding "Wilbur doesn't share Wallace's views or race."

And there is little evidence the other possible Democratic candidates are worried over Mills.

Many Attended Tax Referendum Forum

Many citizens of Pitt County attended the Pro-Con Meeting on the proposed one cent sales tax increase, held in the City Council Chambers of City Hall Tuesday night.

Pitt County Commissioner R. L. Martin spoke of the advantages of the proposed sales tax increase, stating that property taxes were already too high in this county. The situation, he observed, would provide a poor climate to attract industries into the area: Commissioner Martin said monies received from additional sales tax would go for definite needs, such as the hospital bond, medicaid, air-conditioning for five county schools (including E. B. Aycock Jr. High), athletic fields, and mental health children's services.

Associate Professor of Political Science at East Carolina University, Dr. T. E. Yarbrough advocated a reform of the property tax assessment rather than an increase in the sales tax. Instead of burdening lower income groups further, Dr. Yarbrough said he felt that equitable assessments should be made on choice undeveloped land and cited some inequities of land evaluation in this area.

An extension of the question and answer period was requested by the audience to continue discussion concerning distribution of funds and priorities. The forum was sponsored by the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters.

Kindergarten Registration Set Thursday

PACTOLUS — Kindergarten registration for eligible children in the Pactolus attendance area will be held Thursday from 9 a.m. until 12 noon in the school library.

The kindergarten will be open to children who are five years old on or before Oct. 16, 1971. Inoculations for whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, polio and smallpox are required.

Parents who have children eligible to attend the kindergarten should register their children on the above date. It is not necessary to bring the children to registration.

The kindergarten will be held during the 1971-72 school year.

Police reported that the Baker car collided with a parked car owned by Pearl Marie Carper Hartsell of 503 Pine Street on Pine Street about 78 feet East of the Cherokee Road intersection.

Damage to the Hartsell car was set at $300 while damage to the Baker car was estimated at $800.

Propose Bonds

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina School Boards Association will propose next week that a record $200 million statewide school construction bond issue be placed before the voters.

The association plans to hold news conferences in Raleigh and Charlotte the first of next week to call upon the General Assembly to authorize the referendum so that it can be held in conjunction with the November 1972 general election.

The association says there is critical overcrowding in many of the state's schools. It proposes that the $200 million be divided among the state's 152 school districts on a formula that will favor districts which have had the greatest increase of pupils during the past decade.

Hit-Run Charge Placed In Two Local Accidents

William Kenneth Brown, 30, of Manteo, has been charged with hit and run driving and driving under the influence in connection with two collisions here early this morning.

Police investigators reported a car driven by Brown allegedly collided with a car parked in a parking lot on Cotanche Street about 12:10 a.m., causing an estimated $40 damage to the Brown auto.

The Brown car, being followed by the owner of the car involved in the first collision, then allegedly collided with a parked car on Ninth Street owned by Kenneth Charles Adams of 412 East Ninth.

Police reported an estimated $300 damage resulted to the Adams auto and about $450 damage resulted to the Brown vehicle in that mishap.

Brown was taken into custody on 10th Street a short time later. The collisions reportedly occurred between 12:10 and 12:20 a.m.

Old Crow's good taste begins with men who love to work with their hands.

Anthony Clark has a big responsibility. One false move of his hands and he's mixed the wrong measure of grain for the Old Crow formula. Does he ever miss? The proof is in the good taste of our Bourbon.

Making Bourbon which tastes good, bottle after bottle, made Old Crow famous. Back in 1835, our people figured out the formula that took Bourbon-making out of the hit-or-miss category. Later, they handmade the first sour mash Bourbon. We still use our hands in making Old Crow.

After work, most of our men keep on using their hands. Anthony Clark calls on the same craftsmanship mixing grain as he does tying fishing flies.

Over the years, craftsmanship like this has made Old Crow America's best-tasting Bourbon.

IS A PITT COUNTY SALES TAX NECESSARY ?

VOTE ☒ YES

For the following reasons:

1. In order to keep Pitt County competitive in locating new industrial plants (more jobs). When the bonded indebtedness for the new hospital, mandatory social service cost, school needs, and other necessary costs are added (33 1/3% of an increase) to our present property tax rate, Pitt County will have one of the highest property taxes of all of our surrounding counties. What industry would want to locate a new plant here?
2. It has been proven by the Wall Street Journal that the property tax adversely affects the poor more than the sales tax because most of the poor are renters and the landlords increase their rents to offset the increase in property taxes.
3. People who can afford to buy more, pay more.
4. We must tax ourselves for the services we demand. With the property tax and the sales tax, all segments of society will bear some of the tax burden and this will permit people to participate in providing services they receive.
5. The sales tax is good because as the economy grows, the amount received from sales tax increases.
6. The sales tax is easier to pay because the tax is paid in small amounts as purchases are made rather than in large lump sums once a year.
7. The towns will share equally with the county on a population basis thereby holding down town taxes.

We all know that our counties and municipal governments must have more money with which to pay for our new hospital, schools, and other services, so it is not a question of "if," it is a question of "how."

Think these things over and

New York Mets Drop 5th Straight Game

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The word was out among the New York Mets: Get Wise. But Rick Wise was just another un-ouchable for Manager Gil Hodges' Skid Kids.

"We're all right," said Hodges after Philadelphia silenced New York 1-0 on six hits Thursday night for the Mets' fifth straight loss.

They don't look all right. Before the spinout, the Mets were hurtling in high gear with a hot winning percentage and three-game lead in the National League East. Now they're a game behind front-running Pittsburgh and only percentage points in front of third-place St. Louis.

"We've just hit a snag," said Hodges calmly, exuding the posture of a winner. "Fortunately, we're in a position to overcome it."

Position in baseball is everything, but pitching and hitting also play a part. And the Mets have been getting one without the other, when they needed both during the current cold streak.

After the Mets won the first two games of the Pittsburgh series last weekend to take their 14th of 17 games, they lost 4-2 to the Pirates Sunday. Then followed 4-3 and 8-6 losses to Atlanta and 4-1 and 1-0 to Philadelphia on the short road swing.

In Thursday's other National League Games, San Francisco whipped Chicago 8-7; St. Louis turned back Los Angeles 5-0; Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh 5-4; San Diego dropped Houston 4-2 and Montreal cooled off Atlanta 4-3 in 14 innings.

In the American League, it was Detroit 5, Cleveland 3; Boston 5, New York 2; California 1, Minnesota 0 and Oakland 7, Milwaukee 3. Rain postponed Baltimore at Washington.

Gary Gentry, who pitched one of the strongest games in the Mets' Black Week, made one mistake—a gopher ball to Deron Johnson for the only run in the second inning.

"One pitch, one swing," said Hodges, signifying the difference in the game.

Willie McCovey walloped a three-run homer in the ninth to pull San Francisco from behind. The Giants used three-run innings in the eighth and ninth to wipe out a four-run Chicago lead.

The Cubs, who had two homers by Ron Santo, led 6-2 in the eighth when the Giants scored three times on pinch-hitter Fran Healy's bases-filled double. Then McCovey slammed his ninth circuit shot of the season following walks to Tito Fuentes and Willie Mays.

Steve Carlton's five-hitter and Joe Hague's home run and run-scoring single led St. Louis. Carlton, battered from the box his two previous outings, held the Dodgers to singles by Willie Davis and Richie Allen and a double and two singles by Wes Parker. The tall left-hander, who lost 19 games in 1970, struck out five in recording his third shutout of the year and seventh victory in nine decisions.

Hague's single capped a two-run first inning, then he added the Cardinals' last run with a homer in the eighth. Lou Brock, who knocked in a run with a double in the Cardinal seventh, extended his hitting streak to 16 games.

Bernie Carbo singled in the tie-breaking run in a three-run seventh that carried Cincinnati over Pittsburgh. Carbo drove in Tony Perez, who had singled, with the run that snapped a 3-3 tie before Tommy Helms produced what proved to be the winning tally with a double.

Ty Cline had started the Reds' rally with a single and eventually cross the plate on Perez' single. Pittsburgh had grabbed a 3-2 lead in the top of the seventh when pinch-hitter Vic Davillillo singled home a run.

Nate Colbert delivered three hits, scored two runs and knocked in another as San Diego beat Houston for the second night in a row. Al Severinsen bailed San Diego starter Clay Kirby out of ninth in-ninghot water to preserve Kirby's second victory in seven decisions.

Kirby was touched for a run in the first and survived bases-loaded situations in two innings before the ninth when the first two hitters singled. Severinsen got two outs before a run-scoring single, then coaxed pinch-hitter Jim Wynn into a game-ending bouncer.

John Boccabella's leadoff home run snapped a 3-3 tie in the 14th to give Montreal the victory over Atlanta which had won five of six games. Ralph Garr, the National League's leading hitter, had tied the game with a run-scoring double in the fifth.

St. James Wins To Widen Lead

St. James Methodist padded its American Division lead with a 13-12 victory over Black Jack last night in the Church Softball League. In the other game, Piney Grove pulled within half a game of Immanuel in the National Division, ripping St. Gabriel, 30-10.

St. James is now 6-1 in the American Division, while Presbyterian and Meadowbrook are both 5-2. They are followed by Belvoir, 4-3; Christian, 3-5; and St. Gabriel and Trinity, both 1-7.

Immanuel leads the National Division with a 6-1 record, while Piney Grove is 6-2. They are followed by Mt. Pleasant, 4-2; Oakmont, 4-4; Black Jack and Grace, both 3-5; and Maranatha, 1-6.

St. James took the lead with a run in the first, but Black Jack came storming back to score seven in the bottom of the first. St. James scored once more in the second, then scored four in the third to cut the lead to 7-6. In the fourth, three more St. James runs crossed but Black Jack got one, making it 9-8 in favor of St. James. St. James added two more in the fifth, as did Black Jack, and then Black Jack outscored St. James, 2-1, in the sixth to tie it at 12-12. St. James got the winning run in the seventh. Shaw reached on a double and advanced on Roy Carawan's single, scoring the winning run.

In the second game, Piney Grove got all it needed in the first inning, scoring 10 runs. Jim Evans doubled and Tom Meets singled. William Nichols doubled and Wayne Avery homered. Jim Mills tripled and George Random and Graham Crawford both walked. Hubert Tripp doubled and Corbitt Journey also doubled. Evans doubled for the second time, and scored the 10th run on Nichols' double.

Piney Grove added two in the second, one in the third, five in the fourth including a homer by Avery, seven in the fifth, and got five more in the sixth, with Nichols homering.

St. Gabriel scored four in the second, one in the third, three in the fourth and two in the seventh for its 10 run total.

Little Mint, Foodland Tied

The Little Mint and Foodland held onto a tie for first place in the Ladies Softball League as both picked up victories last night. Little Mint rolled to a 26-0 victory over Wachovia, while Foodland beat Coca-Cola, 16-3.

Little Mint and Foodland are both 2-0 in the standings, while Piggly-Wiggly is 1-1, Coke is 1-2 and Wachovia is 0-3.

In the opener, the Little Mint got all it needed as it scored three runs in the first inning of play. Pat Kilpatrick doubled and scored the third run on a double by Bobbie Jones.

The Little Mint went on to pick up five in the third, with Jones homering, 14 in the fifth with Tripp homering, and four more in the sixth. In the second game, Foodland came up with three runs in the first inning, but Coke rallied to tie it up. They got two in the second and one in the third to make it 3-3.

But Foodland came up with six in the fifth to take the win. Joyce Sawyer reached on an error and Carolyn Hardy singled. Dianne Hurley doubled and Cathy Anthony singled. Georgia Potter got a two-base hit, and Tess Jackson walked. She scored the final run as the inning ended on singles by Julia Satterfield, Nancy Tripp and Elise Hannah.

Foodland then added seven more runs in the top of the seventh for the 16-run total.

Graniteers In Third Victory

The Graniteers kept rolling along yesterday, dumping their third straight opponent, as Pepsi-Cola fell to them, 12-4.

The win left the defending champs with a 3-0 record. The Exchange is 2-1, followed by Integon and Elks, both 1-1, Moose, 1-2, and Pepsi, 0-3.

The Graniteers got all they would need in the first inning as they scored six runs. Tim Allen singled and Joel Clark got a hit. Steve Manning singled to drive in Allen with the first run. Chris Moye got another hit, loading the bases. Jay Chenier then singled to score both Clark and Manning. Keven Hart followed with a double, scoring Moye. Chenier came in when Henry Wooten grounded out, and a passed ball scored Hart.

Pepsi-Cola came back with two runs in the bottom of the first. McDonald Avery singled and Michael Shank walked. Both advanced on a passed ball, and another scored Avery. Joey Cherry then singled in Shank.

The Graniteers scored three more runs in the second. Howard Vainright reached on a fielder's choice and Clark doubled. Manning then brought in all three runs with a homer.

Two more came over the fifth. Wayne Stokes walked and took third on two passed balls. Allen singled to the infield, and he took second on a passed ball. Clark then singled in both runners.

Pepsi got its final two in the bottom of the fifth. Avery reached on a fielder's choice and Shank walked. Dana Kendrick singled in Avery and Shank stole home as Kendrick stole second.

The final Graniteer run came in the sixth. Chenier reached on an error, took second on a passed ball and went to third on an error. He scored on Sam Hardy's fielder's choice.

Optimists Down Kiwanis By 6-1

The Optimists established themselves as the team to beat in the North State Little League yesterday, taking a 6-1 victory over the defending champion Kiwanis.

The win left the Optimists in firm control in the league with a 4-0 record. The Kiwanis are second, 2-1; followed by the Jaycees, 1-1; R. C. Cola and the Lions, both 1-2, and Coca-Cola, 0-3.

The Kiwanis took the opening lead, scoring a run in the first inning. Sid Ashby moved as far as second when his grounder was errored. David Middleton singled, moving Ashby to third, and Randy Britt's ground-out scored Ashby for a 1-0 lead.

That held up until the third inning when the Optimists pushed ahead with two runs.

Mac Stokes walked and Jeff Aldridge reached on a fielder's choice. Both advanced on a wild pitch and an error scored Stokes. Gary Porter then grounded out, scoring Aldridge from third.

In the fifth, the Optimists added four more runs to close out the scoring. Allen singled and stole second. Ricky Robinson got a hit, and Bubber Rowlette reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Eric McCormick reached on an error, scoring Allen. Turbine Back At Indianapolis

By MARTIN E. BIEMER
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A turbine car is back at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year.

Whisper-quiet, silken-smooth, and slow.

Too slow, says designer-builder Howard Millican, to qualify under normal circumstances.

"It's possible we could get in," he said. "But only if we were among the first 33 qualifiers and it rained, or something else happened, to keep anyone else from qualifying."

Then why bother?

—It's helping prove that U.S. Auto Club restrictions on turbines are too severe to allow them to compete.

—It's an educational experience, for Millican and the turbine engineers who help him in their spare time as a labor of love.

—It could be the wave of the future—and Millican could ride the crest.

The turbine cars burst on the scene in 1967, when Parnelli Jones set 18 track records in the car dubbed the "pregnant whale."

In 1968, turbines were back in wedge-shaped Lotus cars. Joe Leonard set qualifying records in his STP Lotus turbine that year which weren't cracked until this year.

Piston engine advocates screamed that the turbines were unfair, and USAC's rules-makers agreed.

USAC handicapped them by restricting their air inlet area. It was sort of like putting a Volkswagen carburetor on a Cadillac. The turbines could run, but they would run out of breath at high speeds.

Millican decided the turbines still had potential. He got an old Gerhardt chassis, rebuilt it completely, and installed an Allison 250 helicopter turbine. The car was entered on the speedway in 1970, but failed to get up enough speed to qualify.

Allison engineers, working evenings and on their days off, helped develop the engine. Millican worked on the chassis. Sponsor Jack Adams footed the bill to enter the car in USAC championship races.

"On the one-mile tracks, we are fairly competitive—due mainly to our special tires," Millican said. "Our corner speed on one-mile tracks is equal to or better than anyone there."

"But on the longer tracks, we just don't have the power to get up to their speeds on the straights."

Only Bomb In Cleveland Was Horton's 11th Inning Blast

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
An anonymous bomb threat was telephoned to Cleveland Stadium during the sixth inning of Thursday night's game between the Indians and the Detroit Tigers. When the explosion finally went off in the 11th inning it was signed by Willie Horton.

The Detroit outfielder slugged a two-run homer, giving the Tigers a 5-3 victory over the Indians.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston whipped the New York Yankees 5-2. Oakland trounced Milwaukee 7-3, and California shaded Minnesota 1-0. Baltimore and Washington were rained out after three innings with the Orioles leading 1-0 while the Chicago White Sox and Kansas City Royals were not scheduled.

National League scores: San Francisco 8, Chicago Cubs 7, Philadelphia 1, New York Mets

0; Cincinnati 5, Pittsburgh 4; St. Louis 5, Los Angeles 0; Montreal 4, Atlanta 3 in 14 innings and San Diego 4, Houston 2.

Horton, a right-handed hitter, drilled an outside pitch from lefty Steve Ingori over the right-center field fence following a leadoff walk to Jim Northrup.

Earlier, Norm Cash homered for Detroit and Vada Pinson for Cleveland and the Tigers held a 3-2 lead with two out in the ninth and unbeaten Joe Coleman shooting for his fifth triumph. But Coleman walked Fred Stanley and Chuck Hinton and reliever Tom Timmerman gave up a run-scoring single to Ted Ford.

Still, Coleman's 4-0 record represents the "best start in the majors" for the plucky righthander, who suffered a fractured skull when struck by a line drive during spring training.

The Red Sox exploded against New York's Stan Bahnsen with one out in the first inning on a walk, Carl Yastrzemski's run-scoring double and Rico Petrocelli's third home run in four games. George Scott cracked a two-run homer in the eighth to nail down the Sox' 19th victory in 24 games and boost their lead in the AL East to three games over the Orioles.

Boston plays four games over the weekend in Baltimore.

The Yankees got their runs off starter Bill Lee in the sixth but Bob Bolin came on to retire pinch hitter Curt Blefary with the bases loaded and stopped New York the rest of the way.

Oakland's Chuck Dobson continued his comeback by limiting Milwaukee to six hits in eight innings and Dave Duncan and Mike Epstein hit solo homers for the A's. Johnny Briggs' eighth-inning homer spoiled Dobson's shutout bid.

Clyde Wright, who missed a turn due to tendonitis in his pitching arm, hurled a five-hitter as California edged Minnesota. John Stephenson singled home the only run the eighth off reliever Ray Corbin following Sandy Alomar's leadoff single, Alex Johnson's sacrifice and a walk to Tony Conigliaro.

Rookie Pete Hamm, making his second major league start, battled Wright on scoreless terms for seven innings, allowing only two hits before he was removed for a pinch hitter.

Canonero Looks Over Belmont

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The big bay colt walked into stall 14 at Belmont Park and promptly got down to roll in the wood shavings on the floor.

"He does that when he feels good," said Groom Pedro Quintero of Canonero II, who arrived at Belmont Thursday for his shot at thoroughbred racing's fabled and elusive Triple Crown.

The shot for Canonero, which means gunner in Spanish, will come June 5 with the running of the Belmont Stakes.

The arrival here of Canonero II, come-from-behind winner of the Kentucky Derby and the front running winner of the Preakness, caused quite a bit of activity around barn 7A, where stall 14 has a yellow sign with brown lettering and a brown numeral, Canonero II, 9.

The No. 9 on the sign was the numeral worn in the Preakness by Canonero II, owned by Edgar Caibett of Venezuela, and raced mostly in that country. The sign is a souvenir from the Preakness.

It is doubtful there will be a No. 9 in the Belmont, as only five or six 2-year-olds are expected to oppose Canonero II.

Canonero II arrived at Belmont from Pimlico in a van which also held Quintero, and two Spanish-speaking uniformed guards.

Movie cameras whirled still cameras clicked and newsmen bombarded an interpreter provided by the New York Racing Association as the colt was walked under the shed roof.

"He's earned it (the attention)," said Jockey Gustavo Avila, on hand for Canonero II's arrival. It was a complete contrast to his arrival in Kentucky for the Derby when he received as little acclaim as an ordinary allowance horse. Even the trip to the Preakness has been greeted with as much doubt as excitement.

Canonero II, the $1,200 Kentucky-yearling purchase, who now carries a multimillion dollar value, appeared fit for his Triple Crown bid.

The five previous candidates whose bids have failed since Citation in 1948 are Tim Tam, 1958; Carry Back, 1962; Northern Dancer, 1964; Kauai King, 1966; and Majestic Prince, 1969.

Gardner-Webb, High Point Win

GREENSBORO (AP) — Gardner-Webb and High Point moved into the winners' bracket of the NAIA District 26 baseball tournament Thursday night.

The winner of the four-team, double-elimination event will play in an area tournament at Wilmington later this month for the right to be in the NAIA national championship tournament.

Gardner-Webb downed Pfeiffer, 10-5, in the night's second game after High Point whipped North Carolina A & T, 2-0. Pfeiffer plays A & T at 2 p.m. today and High Point goes against Gardner-Webb at 6 p.m.

One team will be eliminated in the afternoon's first game.

The winner of the 2 p.m. game will play the loser of the 6 p.m. contest later tonight, with that loser being eliminated. The finals will be Saturday night.

Gardner-Webb's win was mainly due to the power hitting of Larry Sisk, who belted three home runs and had seven RBI's. Joe Stepp also knocked one out of the park for the Bulldogs.

Gardner-Webb's total of 28 home runs this season is an NAIA record.

Pfeiffer, defending District 26 champion, got three hits from Rick Young.

Dwight Inge pitched a two-hitter from High Point, giving up only singles by A & T's Artis Stanfield in getting his shutout. He also doubled in the third inning and scored what proved to be the winning run on another double by Mike Jones.

Knudson, Blancas Share Golf Lead

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — George Knudson and Homero Blancas shared the first-round lead in the Colonial National Invitational Golf Tournament but much of the attention focused on a young amateur just two shots off the pace.

Ben Crenshaw, 19, a University of Texas freshman, recorded the second lowest amateur score in the 26-year history of this tourney, firing a 69 Thursday.

Canadian Knudson and Blancas, the defending champion, matched three-under-par 67s on the 7,142-yard Colonial Course, playing on an ideal scoring day.

Crenshaw, golf observers say, has the same crunching tee game and deft putting stroke of Jack Nicklaus, whom the young amateur, also a blond belter, has never met. Nicklaus isn't playing here.

Crenshaw shot a one-under-par 283 last week in the Houston champions International. It would have been good for $3,800 if he played for pay instead of glory.

He's still uncertain when he will turn professional.

"I want to finish school," he said.

He was asked his major, however, and he answered laughingly, "I don't have a major, my major is golf."

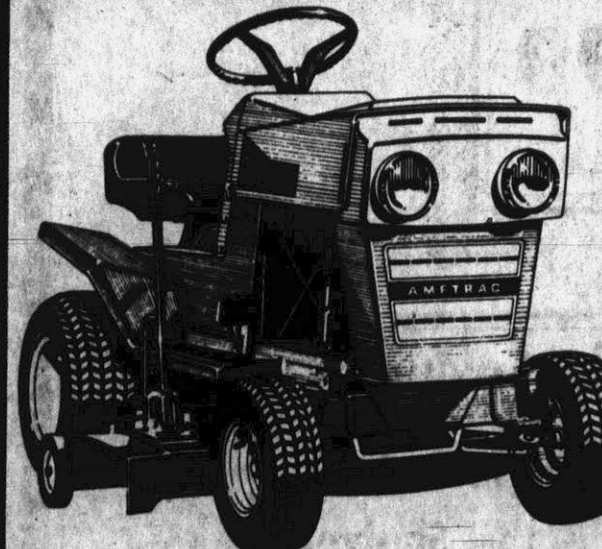

Crenshaw plays 18 and sometimes 27 holes a day. He tied for low amateur in the 1970 U.S. Open in a deadlock for 36th place with a 301 total.

Crenshaw came out of three traps to salvage pars.

Shooting two-under par 68s were Bert Greene, Fred Marti and Jack Montgomery while Jerry Heard, Dave Stockton, Bert Yancey and Chuck Courtney were tied with Crenshaw at 69.

Twelve players including former U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino were at even par 70.

When your neighbor is on his third lawnmower, you may still be on your AMF Orange!

Our riding mowers are built for lasting. So you'll spend more time taking them for granted. And less time taking them for repairs. Because they aren't loaded with plastic gadgets and fancy frills to go on the fritz later on.

They're a long term investment, so when other people are changing mowers, you'll probably be changing blades. That's the way we build them. Material and workmanship, yes. Gadgets, no.

Connally Taking Dollar Message To Germany

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally is going to Germany next week to meet with many of the European government and banking officials most deeply involved in the recent world monetary crisis.

Connally, in office less than four months, is expected to carry President Nixon's message to the American Bankers' Association's international banking conference in Munich that economic recovery in America will not be slowed because of the dollar crisis.

Connally told newsmen Thursday the United States' approach has been to continue economic expansion while fighting to reduce the rate of inflation.

He echoed the thinking of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns, who said a day earlier fighting inflation, not reducing interest rates, is the top priority in improving the dollar's international position.

To underscore the importance of Connally's trip, President

Nixon Thursday went to the Treasury building to meet with Connally for an hour-and-a-half discussion of the secretary's week in Munich.

Connally's visit is seen as an effort to assure European financial officials worried over the dollar glut occurring in their countries since the first of the year.

The record dollar flow was triggered by lower interest rates in the United States in comparison to those in Europe. As a result, West Germany de-

Would Revise N.C. Drug Laws

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill to rewrite North Carolina's drug laws would lighten the punishment for possession of small amounts of marijuana but would keep stiff penalties for pushers and for possession of hard drugs.

This was revealed Thursday when the House Judiciary Committee was briefed on the bill prepared by a subcommittee.

A first-offense conviction of possessing up to 10 grams of marijuana would be a misdemeanor punishable by up to six months in prison.

A first offense conviction for selling illegal drugs would be a felony and violators could be fined up to $5,000 or imprisoned up to five years.

valued its currency relative to the dollar.

Several other European countries then revalued their currencies and the purchasing power of dollars in Europe lost some strength.

Although the crisis has calmed, officials in Washington say the basic causes have not been removed: continuing high deficit in the U.S. balance of payments, the existence of some $50 billion in U.S. currency still overseas, and the disparity in interest rates between the United States and Europe.

Connally also met Thursday with Valery Giscard d'Estaing, the French finance minister, in a discussion of the monetary crisis.

Although the crisis did not affect France directly, D'Estaing said he expected the dollar would soon return to its fixed rate of value with other currencies.

Scott Speech To Open Meeting

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott will deliver the lead-off speech at the opening this afternoon of a two-day North Carolina White House Conference on Aging.

Other speakers during the two-day meeting will include U.S. Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri.

Reds Step Up Shelling Attacks

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong increased their shelling attacks in South Vietnam and battled Saigon's troops near the A Shau valley and in eastern Cambodia, military spokesmen reported today.

The Saigon government said there were 24 small rocket and mortar attacks against South Vietnamese military units and civilians during the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today. The biggest attack was only 10 rounds and casualties were reported light. But it was the largest number of such attacks since April 26.

The government's military headquarters also reported 119 enemy troops killed in fighting at four points near the A Shau valley and at five locations in eastern Cambodia. The Saigon forces also uncovered an arms shop and several munitions dumps containing more than four tons of arms and ammunition, spokesmen said.

Field reports and battlefield communiques put Saigon's losses in the fighting at 13 killed and 45 wounded. Another eight South Vietnamese militiamen were killed and 12 were wounded in an attack on an irrigation project built by American volunteers out of discarded war material 10 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

A U.S. Marine civic action team began the project three years ago. Its purpose was to bring a year-round water supply to lands tilled by refugee Montagnard tribesmen driven from their mountain homes by the war.

As the project progressed, volunteers from the Army, Navy and Seabees joined in during their off-duty time. There was no official U.S. aid; instead the American volunteers fashioned two pumps, two engines and a pipeline out of abandoned equipment.

The system went into operation less than three months ago.

The U.S. Command reported no ground fighting involving American forces, but three Americans were wounded in two rocket attacks on U.S. bases below the DMZ. And two Americans were killed when small Army observation helicopter was shot down eight miles southwest of Pleiku, in the central highlands.

The fighting near the A Shau Thursday swirled across mountain ranges overlooking the 30-mile-long valley on the east and the north, 375 miles north of Saigon. The action was part of operation Lam Son 720, which was launched April 14.

Saigon headquarters said 53 North Vietnamese troops were killed around the A Shau, 31 of them in a single battle seven miles northwest of a Luoi, which sits on the valley floor. Total South Vietnamese casualties were seven killed and 17 wounded in the A Shau fighting, field reports said.

In Eastern Cambodia, 66 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were reported killed and an arms shop was reported uncovered. Saigon at points about 40 miles apart from near Phum Veal south of Kompong Trabek on Route Q, far as 25 miles from their border. Some South Vietnamese forces were operating as the Saigon to Phnom Penh der.

Arrested 19 In Narc Raid

BUIES CREEK, N. C. (AP)

The State Bureau of Investigation capped a drug and narcotics probe at Campbell College with the arrests of 19 students Thursday.

Late Thursday night 15 of them had posted bond and the others were arranging for release from jail. A spokesman in the Harnett County sheriff's office said bonds range from $3,000 to $15,000.

Names of the arrested were not available.

A hearing was scheduled Thursday at Lillington for the 19.

Campbell is a Baptist-supported liberal arts school of about 2,500 students.

Charles Dunn, SBI director, said in addition to the students three other persons were arrested. He said agents charged all those arrested with possessing drugs.

The agents confiscated amphetamines, barbiturates, marijuana and a substance believed to be LSD, Dunn said.

Campbell President Norman Wiggins, whose office was notified before the arrests were made, said: "We will never permit our campus to become a sanctuary for those who would violate the law. We are sorry for the young people and for their families."

Plan Replacing Of Substation

AYDEN — Utilities crews will begin work at 6 a.m. Sunday to replace the substation supplying electric power to the Ayden area.

The Greenville Utilities Commission, from which Ayden purchases power, is increasing the capacity of the substation from 6,000 KVA to 9,000 KVA in an effort to provide improved service.

The change in the capacity will require complete replacement of the substation, located about two miles north of Ayden on the old N.C. 11 Hwy. The transformers now in the substation will be relocated in the Hollywood substation on N.C. 43.

According to Malcolm Green, assistant director of the Greenville Utilities Commission, the work is being done on Sunday because this is the only time the load will be light enough so the change can be made without cutting off anyone's lights.

Green expressed the hope that the work can be done without turning off the electricity. The only people involved will be those served by the Ayden Utilities.

Advances held a slim lead over declines among issues traded in the New York Stock Exchange. Analysts said investors appeared to be cautious, possibly because of concern that higher short-term interest rates might lead to an increase in the prime rate.

Sukarno's Son Seeking Votes

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Guntur Sukarno Putra, eldest son of the late President Sukarno, made his first political speech of the general election campaign Thursday, appealing to a small group of followers to vote for the party of his father.

Guntur, 27, spoke before supporters of the Nationalist Party of Indonesia—PNI—calling on them to "urge your wives, your children and friends to vote for the PNI in 'the election.'"

The PNI, founded by Sukarno 44 years ago, has been urging Guntur to speak up in the hope that the appearance of the heir to the Sukarno name would stir up some enthusiasm for the party in the election, which is scheduled July 3.

No Punishment For Cartoonist

The East Carolina University disciplinary board has found a cartoonist with the student newspaper, Fountainhead, guilty of preparing a recent cartoon for the paper subscribing to vulgar and abusive language.

The chairman of the board, Dr. Charles Price could not be reached this morning for comment.

The cartoon that brought the charges contained a statement, defined in the charges as abusive, vulgar and obscene, directed at ECU president, Dr. Leo Jenkins.

'Doc Adams' Return To TV

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Milburn Stone, "Doc Adams" on television's "Gunsmoke," says he is recovering from heart surgery at a rate that should permit him to be seen in the series again by December.

"I feel fine, better than I'm supposed to," Stone, 66, said Wednesday at University Hospital, where he had come for a checkup.

Stone, who had a heart attack in 1968, underwent open heart surgery March 16 after he was told that a second attack would render him useless.

He said he hopes to return to work by September, which would put him in episodes that would be seen in December.

Citizens Opposed to Sales Tax

209 Pineview Drive
Greenville, N.C.
May 10th, 1971

To the Voters of Pitt County:
Fellow Citizens:

On Tuesday, May 25th a county-wide referendum will be held in an effort to impose an additional one-cent sales tax.

WE URGE YOU TO VOTE AGAINST THIS TAX

1. IT IS UNFAIR
This tax strikes the middle and lower income groups the hardest. It applies to food, clothing, medicine and other essential items. The greater portion of the poor man's income goes to these items. This tax hits most the people least able to pay, those with families and low income.

2. A SALES TAX IS ALREADY APPLIED
There is presently a three per-cent sales tax. The people with families and low income already pay more than their fair share when they purchase the necessities of life.

3. IT DELAYS NEEDED TAX REFORM
Pitt County needs additional revenue to increase and develop necessary services such as: schooling, recreation, police protection, medical help, etc. Now is the time to reform the tax base so that all citizens support their government according to their ability to pay.
