Opposes Delay—'Tomorrow May Be Too Late'

'Disaster' If No Restructuring: Scott

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott strongly urged today that the General Assembly approve legislation to restructure higher education in North Carolina and warned that "disaster will follow" unless this is done.

Declaring that "wasteful and damaging forces are chipping away" at the present system, Scott said action is needed now to make changes.

He urged that the majority report of a study committee be adopted with slight modifications. A committee headed by former Sen. Lindsay Warren Jr. of Goldsboro recommended today separate boards of trustees for each of the 16 state-supported universities and creation of a board of regents empowered to review budgets and programs.

The Warren Committee suggested the board of regents have 100-plus members. Scott recommended a 47-member board.

The committee proposed that the new plan go into effect July 1. The governor, saying July 1 is too close at hand, recommended that the effective date be Oct. 1.

Scott made his remarks in a prepared address to a joint Senate-House session. It was his sixth appearance before the lawmakers, a record for a North Carolina governor.

The governor noted that some persons have suggested that the question of restructuring needs further study "and that to act now would be to act hastily."

He warned that "if you postpone action now, the next General Assembly may not understand the problem until too late."

"We must do it now," he declared. "Tomorrow will be too late."

Scott said most of the damage to the present higher education system "is occurring from within—the wrangling, the rivalry, the empire building, the costly overlapping and duplication, the gliding - of - the - hills, the arrogant distrust and suspicion, the holier-than-thou, looking-down-the-nose attitude, the deviltake-the-hindmost, 'I'm getting mine, how are you doing?' philosophy. These internal disorders will grow progressively worse if left unchecked. Strong measures are called for. You can't cure cancer with a band-aid."

Scott told the lawmakers the board of regents of the University of North Carolina system "would combine the best features of the two principal entities within our present system—the Board of Higher Education and the Consolidated University of North Carolina."

A minority of the Warren Committee — six members—filed a written report recommending that no changes be made in the system "other than a revision of the powers and duties of the Board of Higher Education," the governor noted.

"I recommend that you reject the minority report," he said. "It deals in romanticism, in things past that some wish to preserve."

The majority report, Scott said, "speaks from the head. It deals in reality, in things as they are."

He told the legislators there will be cries of "deconsolidation" and "total and complete dismantling" of the six-campus arrangement of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

"I hope you will cut through the fog of sentiment which will accompany these cries, that you will recognize them as a diversionary move, and that you will support 'reconsolidation' of our total program of higher education."

Scott took issue with reports that the proposed plan would destroy the Consolidated University. He said, "I would not be a party to that neither would you. The plan does not affect any of its programs, faculty positions, buildings or campuses. The plan simply abolishes the Board of Higher Education and the office of general administration of the Consolidated University, replacing them with one coordinating board for all institutions. Individual separate boards of trustees would be established for all institutions."

Scott said the present higher education system "encourages jealousy and hard feeling among institutions. Further it encourages wasteful rivalry and unnecessary duplication of educational activities."

He said the existence of six institutions under one governing board of the Consolidated University "breeds conflict between that organization and other institutions."

"Regardless of how you feel about this question," Scott said firmly, "the Warren Report is an excellent documentary..."

"When one stands back and views all of higher education in North Carolina, and attends meetings of the University Board of Trustees and its executive committee," Scott said, "it is apparent that there is a very rigid pecking order. The agendas, the length of discussions, indeed the attitudes, reflect the fact that most of the attention is given to the campus at Chapel Hill, with the Raleigh campus following close behind but definitely in second place."

He added that all other institutions in the state "are outside the family."

The governor noted that under the present system every institution is forced "to jockey for position before the Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly."

"This," he added, "forces the presidents into unseemly competition against each other in order to get things for their institutions. It is wasteful, and more important it is not the sensible way to arrive at a fair appraisal of what is really needed in the state. The Advisory Budget Commission and the General Assembly and its committees are victims of this system just as the institutions are. The Advisory Budget Commission needs help, you need help, the governor needs it as director of the budget, and the institutions need it."

Advise Regents Guide Budgets, Programs

Warren Commission Recommendations Are Aired

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A study committee today recommended separate boards of trustees for North Carolina's 16 state-supported universities and creation of a board of regents empowered to review the budgets and programs.

Legislation embodying the recommendations is expected to touch off a tug of war in the General Assembly. One senator said it will be "a holy war."

The governor's study committee, headed by former Sen. Lindsay Warren Jr. of Goldsboro, said the present state system of higher education in North Carolina "is structurally unsound."

It said the system has produced "tensions and conflicts of authority" between the Consolidated University of North Carolina and the state Board of Higher Education.

Eight of the committee's 23 members voted against the proposed new system. Six filed a minority report in which they said adoption of the Board of Regents plan would destroy the Consolidated University of North Carolina. The consolidated university has six units — UNC at Chapel Hill, N.C. State University in Raleigh, UNC at Greensboro, UNC at Asheville, UNC at Wilmington and UNC at Charlotte.

"In short," the minority report said, "the consolidated university — after more than 40 years of productive service to the people of this state — would be brought to an end and stripped of its good name."

The new higher education agency would be known as "The University of North Carolina system." The Committee proposed that the plan become effective July 1.

The committee suggested that the policy-setting board of regents have 100 elected members chosen by the General Assembly, plus a number of ex officio members. The initial board would be made up of persons from the present boards of the 16 state institutions and from the Board of Higher Education.

The committee said the governor and General Assembly may prefer a smaller board.

"The recommended plan," it added, "is designed to maintain a proper balance between authority to govern institutions (by independent boards of trustees) and statewide planning and coordination (by a board of regents). To do less than what is recommended will only perpetuate the existing conflicts. To do more would overcentralize authority."

The recommendations call for a 13-member governing board of trustees for each of the 16 public senior institutions. At present, there are 10 governing boards in addition to the board of trustees of Consolidated University.

New trustees for the present six campuses of the Consolidated University would be drawn primarily from the present university board of trustees.

The committee said the method of selecting the boards of trustees of each of the other institutions would remain unchanged, except that the president of the student body would become a member ex officio in accordance with legislation just enacted by the General Assembly.

The report went on to say that the staffs and most of the coordinating functions of the general administration of the consolidated university and the Board of Higher Education would be merged into the new agency.

"The General Assembly, now more than ever, needs the expert educational judgment of a single agency with a statewide viewpoint to enable it to perform effectively its function in making wise appropriations for higher education," the committee said.

It added, "Too often in the past decisions on appropriations have been made for political rather than educational considerations. Anyone who has served in the General Assembly can attest to this fact."

The six who filed a minority report said two plans emerged from the committee's work. One was the regency plan and the other "Which we favored, would leave the state's educational structure intact with a restatement of the powers of the Board of Higher Education, which we believe would enlarge that board's coordinating powers and would effectively eliminate present sources of confusion and conflict."

The six who filed the minority report were Victor Bryant of Durham, Thomas J. White Jr. of Kinston, Ike F. Andrews of Siler City, Archie

K. Davis of Winston-Salem, Mrs. Mebane H. Burgwyn of Jackson and Clyde A. Shreve of Greensboro.

They said, "The solution to the principal problem in higher education does not lie in dismantling that part of the state's system which has worked with efficiency and success. Rather, it lies in looking to the Board of Higher Education — armed with new powers... and the existing authority already on the statute books — to perform effectively the role expected of it."

Nearly Half Of Tar Heels Are Invited To Sue

RALEIGH (AP) — Nearly half the residents of North Carolina will be invited to participate in a lawsuit brought against five major drug companies for alleged price fixing in the sale of antibiotics.

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan said notices were mailed Monday to 2,167,000 North Carolina consumers, notifying them of their rights in connection with the suit.

The U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of New York, the court that is handling the anti-trust suit against the five drug companies, permitted North Carolina to represent its consumers in the lawsuit.

The Attorney General will represent North Carolina consumers in the lawsuit, unless individual consumers want to hire their own attorney.

Included within the consumer class will be "All purchasers within the state who, during the periods 1954 through 1966, purchased or paid for broad spectrum antibiotic products for human consumption from public or private hospitals or from pharmacies, drug stores or other retail outlets."

Defendants in the suit are the American Cyanamid Co., Charles Pfizer & Co. Inc., Bristol-Myers Co., Olin-Mathieson

Chemical Co. (Squibb) and the Upjohn Company.

The antibiotics which were the subject of the alleged price fixing were Achromycin, Mysteclin, Panalba, Panmycin, Polycycline, Steclin, Tetracycl and Tetrex.

Morgan emphasized several points about the notice being mailed. First, if any adult North Carolina consumer does not receive the court's notice by Monday, May 31, and the consumer believes he may have purchased any of the drugs involved in the suit, then such persons should inform the court by writing to P.O. Box 790, Raleigh, N.C., 27602, and furnish the following information: the consumer's name, social security number, current mailing address (with zip code) together with a statement such as, "I purchased broad spectrum antibiotic drugs between 1954 and 1966 and I want my claim presented in this lawsuit."

The Attorney General emphasized that all inquiries should be by mail to the above box number. No telephone calls will be accepted.

Morgan said those receiving the notice should read it carefully as it fully advises about the lawsuit and consumers' rights in it.

Scott Threat Rumored

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott reportedly has threatened to withhold funds from the Consolidated University of North Carolina trustees if they fight his plans to restructure the state's higher education system.

Nothing about the threat came out at a meeting of the trustees at Chapel Hill Monday, but Scott held a brief closed meeting with the trustees' executive committee.

He reportedly told them he has enough power with members of the General Assembly — who ultimately decide money matters — to squeeze their budget if they campaign against his restructuring proposals.

The proposals were written by a study commission headed by former State Sen. Lindsay Warren of Goldsboro. Scott was to present them to the General Assembly today.

The trustees took no action on the proposals in their open meeting. The nearest reference by the president of the consolidated university, Dr. Bill Friday, was a statement in his report that the institution will continue as a "magnificent educational enterprise unequalled anywhere in this region of the nation."

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — President Nixon headed here today on a "nonpolitical" journey into the heart of territory dominated politically by Gov. George C. Wallace, his 1968 third party opponent and potential 1972 foe.

Nixon, who has been rather consistent in wooing the normally-Democratic votes of the Deep South, scheduled visits to Mobile and Birmingham, Alabama's two largest cities.

The President's stop at Mobile was to join Wallace and the governors of Mississippi, Kentucky and Florida at the opening of construction on the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, a 253-mile canal through sections of Alabama and Mississippi that eventually will link the Gulf Coast with the Tombigbee, Tennessee, Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio, Illinois and Cumberland rivers. The projected cost to the federal government: $346 million.

Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn declined an invitation to participate in the ceremonies.

Ralph Griffith, Dunn's press secretary, said Dunn initially had accepted the invitation, but changed his mind "because the legislature is still in session and he felt he should be in Nashville."

From Mobile, Nixon flies to Birmingham, the state's population center, to talk about the administration's "domestic initiatives," to editors and publishers from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

It was Nixon's latest effort to sing the praises of welfare overhaul legislation and his proposals for revenue sharing and governmental reorganization.

The President's meeting with editors and publishers was similar to other meetings elsewhere. Approximately 100 from 12 states received invitations to attend the briefing sponsored by the administration.

Nixon set up motorcades in both cities.

Before going to his Key Biscayne, Fla., home for the weekend, the President took part in the dedication of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library in Austin, Tex., Saturday.

SLAIN — Leon Anderson, 22, of Chattanooga, lies mortally wounded beside a Tennessee highway patrol car after he was shot. Police said he was shot while in the act of throwing a brick at a police vehicle. (AP Wirephoto)

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A Negro was shot to death by law enforcement officers Monday night, but authorities said civil disorders which have hit the city for four straight nights subsided with the presence of 2,000 National Guardsmen on the streets.

Fire and Police Commissioner Gene Roberts said Leon Anderson, 22, was killed as he threw a brick at 12 city, county and state officers who answered a call to an area where sniper fire had been reported on previous nights. He was the first person killed in the disorders.

"The victim was hit in the groin," Roberts said.

State Safety Commissioner Claude Armour ordered an investigation of the shooting, which occurred shortly after sniper fire was reported two blocks from where Anderson was killed.

The trouble erupted Friday night after black soul singer Wilson Pickett refused to appear at a show because he was not paid in advance. But two black ministers Monday blamed the continuing disturbances Saturday and Sunday on police.

The Rev. Paul McDaniel said police swore at blacks, were abusive, used the word "nigger" and arrested innocent people.

The Rev. H. H. Wright, president of the local Southern Christian Leadership Conference branch, agreed.

Roberts said he had not personally heard any officers using abusive language although police had been abused verbally. He would not comment on the other charges but said earlier that one person arrested during the weekend required hospitalization.

Police reported 39 arrests Monday night, 38 for violations of a 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew, which was extended for the first time throughout surrounding Hamilton County and nearby cities.

Chattanooga, a city of 119,000 persons with about 40,000 Negroes, had the curfew Saturday and Sunday nights.

Sniper fire was reported four times Monday night. There were three minor fires — at a coal yard, laundry and unoccupied house — and arson was suspected, police said.

Two battalions of guardsmen with live ammunition and fixed bayonets patrolled the streets, which were nearly deserted.

The sale of liquor, beer, firearms and ammunition and gasoline not pumped directly into vehicles was banned along with the display of firearms in shop windows.

Guardsmen were called in Sunday after the mayor said law enforcement officers could not handle the situation.

NATO Ministers Gather In Germany

by PETER REHAK
Associated Press Writer
MITTENWALD, Germany (AP) — The defense ministers of seven North Atlantic Alliance countries began a meeting here today that is expected to lay the groundwork for talks with the Soviet Union on balanced reductions of East-West armed forces.

The two-day meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's (NATO) nuclear planning group has as its formal agenda a review of the Alliance's nuclear strategy.

But it is the first high-level NATO session since the Soviet Union's offer to discuss a mutually balanced reduction of forces with the West, and the delegates are expected to begin formulating NATO policy on the Soviet offer.

This formulation is to continue at the NATO defense planning committee session in Brussels later this week and at the semi-annual meeting of the Alliance's foreign ministers in Lisbon next week.

Attending the session are U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird and Defense Ministers Helmut Schmidt of West Germany, Lord Carrington of Britain, Donald S. MacDonald of Canada, Jacob Fostervoll of Norway, Wille Den Toom of the Netherlands and Mario Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's talks with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin last week. Kosygin and Trudeau discussed the possibility of troop reductions.

Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany told the meeting that talks between NATO and the Soviet Union on bilateral troop reductions should not be allowed to neglect attempts to achieve East-West agreement on divided Berlin.

Tanassi of Italy. An eighth NATO country, Greece, is represented by an undersecretary of defense.

Lairs is expected to present a report on last week's Soviet-American agreement to work on accords to limit antiballistic missiles and offensive nuclear weapons. He said before leaving Washington the current series of Alliance meetings "may be of historical importance" because of the new moves aimed at reducing armaments.

First Danforth Associates Are Announced At ECU

"This campus is fluid, changing. There is lots of stress everywhere — but then what university or large school doesn't have this problem to some degree now? The larger a university becomes, the colder it becomes. Students feel dehumanized.

"This feeling creates tension and a failure of communication. That is the problem we would all like to remedy," says Dr. Norman Rosenfeld, associate professor of English at East Carolina University.

Rosenfeld and his wife, Dr. Vila M. Rosenfeld of the ECU School of Home Economics, have recently been appointed the first Danforth Associates at ECU.

The Danforth Associate Program, sponsored by The Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., seeks to encourage and assist the humanizing of the education process in colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Danforth Associates are college and university teachers and their wives (or husbands) whose primary responsibility is classroom teaching.

As Danforth Associates, the Rosenfelds will be encouraged to design special projects to assist efforts in improving student faculty relations and in working with faculty colleagues on particular education problems.

An important part of the Associates Program is to provide educational conference and certain funds for use by the Rosenfelds in the improvement of student-faculty relations and the teaching-learning process. An amount of up to $500 may be requested by the Associate couple for the planning and implementation of the project.

Norman Rosenfeld is active in all phases of academic life at East Carolina, particularly where students are involved. He is a frequent participant in campus discussion groups and one of the honors program English faculty members. He has also served as advisory to the Hebrew Youth Fellowship.

Villa Rosenfeld is chairman of the department of Home Economics Education, immediate past chairman of the Faculty Senate, and a frequent participant in local and national vocational and home economics professional organizational meetings.

communion between people — minority groups and majority groups, faculty and students," says Rosenfeld.

"And we will continue having students in our home for dinner and discussion," says Mrs. Rosenfeld.

Norman Rosenfeld continued: "Here, on the ECU campus, for example, we segregate the faculty and students. In the coffee shop there is a special room marked 'Faculty Lounge', separated from the student area by a partition. The same type situation exists in other areas on campus and causes tension between the two groups who should be working together for the same purpose — academic enlightenment and communication."

Dr. Norman Rosenfeld received the BS degree from California State College (Pa.), and the MA and PhD degrees in English from the University of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Vila Rosenfeld is a native of Virginia. She received the BS degree from Radford College, the MS from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and the DEd from Penn State.

The Rosenfelds have one child, a daughter Tarmar, age 5.

Plaques indicating selection of the boy and girl who have received the highest averages for four years of high school studies were received by Marcia James and Harry Alexander Allen. This scholarship plaque award was established by the class of 1956.

Evon Ebron received the Twirp Week Award for outstanding participation.

Harry Alexander Allen received the State Bank and Trust Company Award given the student with the highest scholastic average for a four year period.

The Danforth Award, presented to two students who exemplify leadership and character traits went to Janet Mills and Ernest Adams.

The Good Citizenship Award, sponsored by the Greenville Civitan Club, for the student who has worked unselfishly for the betterment of his fellow-students and his school community, this year was won by Ernest Adams.

The Woman's Club Citizenship Award for the girl exhibiting the best citizenship during four years in high school was received by Nancy Clemens.

Awards For Six Masons

BETHEL — Six Bethel Masons were honored with service awards last Friday night for long years of service with that organization. Three members, Nathan G. Beverley, John Mayo, Jr., and J. Claude Williamson received recognition for 50 years of service.

Three other Masons, Esper A. Futrell, Walter Gray and Willard G. Manning, received service awards for 25 years.

Representative Sam Bundy of Pitt County presented the six awards. Bundy and his wife, and State Senator Vernon White and Mrs. White were guests at the banquet.

John L. Watson, outgoing master of the Bethel Masonic Lodge, received the gavel from Cleve Burton, Jr., Master of the Lodge.

The principal guest speaker for the evening was Howard G. Dawkins of Greenville. Dawkins is the director of the Eastern North Carolina Sheltered Workshop. He spoke about the establishment, growth, accomplishments and needs of the institution.

DR. NORMAN ROSENFELD

Named Regional Awards Judge

Thomas A. Clere of East Carolina University has been appointed a regional judge for the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards program for 1971.

Judging committees composed of teachers to English from both colleges and high schools, will evaluate the writing skills and literary awareness of nearly 7,000 selected high school students in their junior year. The Achievement Awards program attempts to grant recognition to high school students in their senior year for excellence in English and to recommend them for scholarship aid for higher education.

Army Camp Shaken By Grenade Blasts

By M. H. AHN Associated Press Writer
SEOUL (AP) — Black soldiers protesting racial discrimination are blamed for a rash of grenade explosions at a U.S. camp 35 miles south of Seoul. One American and three Koreans have been injured by the blasts.

Five grenades exploded Saturday night and early Sunday at Camp Humphreys. A military spokesman denied a report that two more grenades went off today. He said an explosion had been heard, but it was the work of Koreans blasting at a construction site nearby.

The spokesman refused to comment on reports from U.S. military sources and Korean police that the grenade explosions were the work of black soldiers angered by their treatment by the Army. The Seoul newspaper Hankook Ilbo said 10 unidentified Negro soldiers were responsible for the weekend explosion.

The U.S. spokesman confirmed that a quantity of grenades had been stolen on the base before the explosions. He said this included 50 fragmentation grenades, two incendiary grenades and 16 smoke grenades.

Embezzlement Given 5 Years

WILSON, N. C. (AP) — A former assistant cashier at a Wilson bank who pleaded guilty to embezzling was sentenced to five years in a federal women's prison Monday.

U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins gave the active sentence to Mrs. Ethelynn B. Ethridge, 32, who admitted taking $62,000 over a four-year period from Branch Tanking and Trust Co. She was arrested last fall by the FBI.

ADULT BASIC EDUCATION — Classes are designed to enable persons 17 years of age or older (not currently enrolled in public school) to learn the basic skills of reading, writing, arithmetic, social studies, English and Science on any level from non-reading through the eighth grade level. There is no charge for tuition or books for these classes.

HIGH SCHOOL EQUIVALENCE TESTS — Pitt Technical Institute has been designated an official testing center for the General Educational Development Tests by the American Council on Education. The State Department of Public Instruction will issue a "Certificate of High School Equivalence" to adult residents who have not completed high school provided they meet the following requirements:

1. Make a standard score of 35 or above on each of the five tests and an average standard score of 45 on all 5 tests.
2. Be nineteen years of age or older (an 18 year old may take the test provided he has been out of the public schools for 4 months).
3. Make application for tests on official application blanks that are available at Pitt Technical Institute and in the offices of the City and County Superintendents of Schools.
4. Pay a test fee of $3.00.

The GED tests will be given at the Institute on the first Wednesday of each month from 8:00 a.m. till 4:00 p.m. It will take both Saturdays to complete the battery of 5 tests.

TRAINING FOR HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION is available at the Institute.

HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION — Classes are designed to enable adults 17 years of age or older (not currently enrolled in public school) to review and prepare for the High School Equivalence Examination given at Pitt Technical Institute. Classes are offered in 120-hour sessions which meet two nights per week usually from 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. English, reading, social studies, math and science are the subjects covered. There is no tuition charge and the total cost of books is $5.10.

ADULT LEARNING CENTERS

The Learning Centers at Pitt Technical Institute and Farmville are designated to provide the opportunity to learn in practically any field. Courses to meet the needs of the non-reader as well as the college graduate are available in the centers.

The majority of students presently enrolled in the Learning Centers are preparing to take the General Educational Development test to obtain their High School Equivalence certificate or to improve in particular subjects such as reading, arithmetic, or English grammar. Some, however, are enrolled to upgrade themselves for a possible job promotion; while others are using the program for reinforcement in a technical institute curriculum or in college work.

High School students may receive credit for units during the summer with their principal's permission. In addition, anyone needing high school math and foreign language to meet entrance requirements at East Carolina University may take these in the Learning Centers.

Persons may enroll in the Learning Centers without cost and attend at anytime that is convenient for them.

The center at Pitt Technical Institute is open Monday through Thursday from 9:00 - 5:00 and 7:00 - 10:00, and on Friday from 9:00 - 3:00. For more information, you are urged to visit the Learning Center during these hours or contact the coordinator by phoning 756-3130, extension 31.

The Farmville Learning Center is open Monday through Thursday, from 9:00 - 4:00 and 7:00 - 10:00, and on Friday from 9:00 - 3:00.

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — It's a long way from Hawaii to Oregon when you go via Atlantic City and the trip takes five years. But that's the route made by Roberia Colan Moore, Miss Hawaii of 1965, now wife of marathon runner Ken Moore and runner in her own right. Since last fall Bobbie (her preferred name) and Ken have been living in Lowell on the shores of Dexter Lake. Ken, former University of Oregon and North Eugene High School track star, is enrolled at UO, working on a master of fine arts degree in creative writing. Bobbie is job-hunting, an occupation she finds depressing. The frustration drove her to enter the Seaside Trails End Marathon, held recently. "There was nothing else to do, so I entered, just to see if I could run it," she says. She finished the 26-mile, 385-yard race in five hours, two minutes and forty seconds, Ken running with her for moral support. Bobbie hadn't jogged at all until Ken gave her a pair of track shoes the first Christmas after they were married. A bride is not one to pass up such a hint, and this one started jogging then. She's first ran competitively in the summer of 1969, in San Francisco's 7 1/2-mile Bay to Breakers race. Ken entered, too, and won. "I came in 1,198 or something," Bobbie recalls. "Last year we entered again, and Kenny won again. I came in 1,125." She claims her real reason for entering the Bay to Breakers race is to partake of a traditional feast that follows. Bobbie may not be Olympics material like her husband, but jogging seems to be in her blood. "If I haven't jogged I even feel guilty about eating," she says. She recalls her experiences as Miss Hawaii as "sometimes fun," but she sums up the Miss America Pageant in one word: "phony." "It was strange," she remembers. "In fact, it was weird. We were put up there on display and the things the judges were looking for a person could turn on and off."

Bobbie won't say she regrets the experience—there were advantages, such as scholarship money and travel. When she won the Miss Hawaii title, she had just graduated from high school. During her year's reign she was paid for most public appearances and also worked full time as a feature writer for the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. She saved enough of her earnings to finance nearly her entire first year at Stanford, where she enrolled the fall of 1966. Though now living in Oregon, the Moores are far from settled. Bobbie talks of seeing the South Pacific—Australia, New Zealand. And she talks of living in Hawaii someday. The daughter of a haole (white father) and his Filipino-Japanese-Spanish wife, she is a typical multi-racial product of the island. The place has claim to her heart too. Even in Oregon, she says she sometimes longs for the Polynesian Pacific.

NEW YORK (AP) — "What a beautiful bride!" Since the first "I do," millions of wedding onlookers have sighed that phrase. In defiance of logic, there seem to be more beautiful brides than beautiful brides-to-be. Even the noted plastic surgeon, Dr. Maxwell Maltz, agrees that a girl of average appearance "will look prettier" on the way to the altar. Is the beautiful bride a figment of many imaginations? Hypercritical photographers don't think so, according to the Bridal and Bridesmaids Apparel Association. Bradford Bachrach studio asserts, "The girls we see as brides bear out the truth of the statement that 'brides are beautiful.'" Philippe Halsman agrees. So does Peter Basch. Photographer-educator Ralph Hattersley, goes a step further: "I've noticed," he says "that even girls who have lived with their men before marriage also look especially beautiful on their wedding day, though one might suppose they wouldn't... the idea of marriage does something special to their looks."

What's the reason for this phenomenon? Psychiatrists and psychologists have varied explanations. Dr. Martin S. Livingston believes that brides "have evidence that they are worthy of love, that they are lovable. People are attractive when they feel they are lovable and worthwhile." Dr. Eleanor Hamilton says, "all people who love radiate out an inner beauty. The saying that all the world loves a lover is a see-able fact." Pioneer hypnotherapist, Dr. Abram Weinberg, thinks the bride's beauty is related to expectancy. "She represents all brides since the first one. She represents all womanhood. It is the expectancy she brings with her: 'the expectancy of femininity, of womanhood' that shines through in beauty." "It is also the expectancy of the people who are there; the beautiful setting, the flowers, the music, the bridal gown. All these put you in the mood of expecting her to be beautiful," says the psychiatrist. Dr. Weinberg also believes there's a physical basis for the bride's beauty. "In the excitement, blood flows to the face, there is increased outpouring of adrenalin, and the glow in her face reflects these organic, physiological changes." Basch, a specialist in photographing women, believes happiness is "very visual" and the bride reflects this happiness in her face. It imbues someone who may not be photogenic, he says, "with a kind of beauty. It may be inner beauty. But it is visible." Dr. Edrita Fried, a psychotherapist, simplifies this to: "The soul makes the look." According to Father John McVean of St. Francis of Assisi Monastery & Church, "The love everybody else remains in the realm of the ordinary," says the psychotherapist. "When you think of a beautiful bride, you don't think of one in street clothes standing before the Justice of the Peace." Dr. Grand stated. Psychiatrist Albert Buyten-dorp has a different idea. "What makes the bride beautiful? The groom, I guess!"

He Wants Friend With Lots To Offer

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 66-year-old man, in excellent health. My dear wife of over 40 years died four years ago and I am very lonely. I would like to find myself a lady friend, but I have a rather strange preference for heavy women. I would like a woman who weighs anywhere from 250 to 300 pounds, and with a huge bust. Her age could be from 50 to 65 years old. Where could I find such a woman? Is there a club in California I could join? I am not a prejudiced person. The lady could be any color.

DEAR BORN: I know of no club that specializes in large women, but you should have no trouble if you have only one head. Just let a few friends know that you are in the market for a woman who is at least 250 pounds on the hoof, and wait for the stampede.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with a gentleman I'll call "John" for three years. He wants to marry me and honeymoon in Europe. My problem is that when I first met John, I told him that I was only a year older than he, which is not true. I will need a passport and visa, which of course will bear my real age. While traveling together, a passport will be very difficult to conceal from John. Should I tell him my real age now? Should I wait until after we are married? Or should I try to keep it from him as long as possible? He may not want to marry me when he finds out how old I really am.

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Tell him now and take your chances. If age makes that much difference to John, if you marry him first, he might terminate the marriage after he learns the truth.

DEAR ABBY: You said that you find "well-manicured" beards extremely attractive. For your information, you can no more manicure a beard than you can give your fingernails a haircut.

DEAR RAY: Landscape artists speak of "manicuring" a lawn, so if a lawn can be "manicured"—why not a beard?

DEAR ABBY: The lady who signed herself, "CRUSHED WALLFLOWER" has a lot more self-control than I have. If my husband went off and left me sitting while he danced with someone else, he wouldn't have found me sitting there when he came back.

Once a strange woman asked my husband to dance with her. He looked at me for approval. I said, NO! And he didn't dance with her either. Not until she cornered him when he was coming back from the men's room. Then he couldn't get out of it. But she didn't get a hold of him again.

My husband is a good dancer, too. But I figure that after 27 years I have earned the right to dance with him myself, not sit while he dances with somebody else.

A woman who asks a man to dance has the gall of a brass billy goat. As far as I'm concerned, she can either dance with her own husband or sit there and grow roots! "HUNKIE'S WIFE"

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Use Caution On Those Spots

NEW YORK (UPI)—Home spot removal remedies should be used with caution advise the spot specialists at the National Institute of Drycleaning. For example, there is one now circulating which suggests the use of hair spray to remove ball point ink stains. The alcohol found in all hair sprays will remove a ball point ink stain. But specialists warn the alcohol also can cause many acetate dyes to bleed. If you want to try this remedy, make a spot test on a hidden corner or seam of the stained garment first.

Changing Roles At Resort

BRILON, West Germany (WNS) — Young and old couples who spend a weekend at this Sauerland Resort are offered free beauty treatments and physical fitness programs. The gym exercises were intended for "him" and the beauty treatments were meant for "her," but do not always work out that way. "Men want to be prettier, and women want to be as strong as he," reported a hotel official. "We're doing our best to please both sexes."

Suburban Beauty Hints from Clara Garriss

DOUBLE YOUR CHEWING!
How would you like chewing five sticks of gum at one time? Fashion models do — every day! This is a wonderful exercise for the throat and neck muscles. It also discourages a double chin. Nothing adds more to a woman's loveliness as a trim neck and chin! "Double your chewing instead of your chin!"
The chin strap is another beauty aid. They are adjustable and made of elastic. Try wearing one at night or while watching TV.
Beauty masks are excellent for uplifting and tightening muscles! Come in for consultation. Have one of our beauty facials. You'll love the feel of feel-lifting treatment! Our beauty aids will make you look your loveliest. And, looking lovely does marvelous things for your disposition, too!

Sister Beata Entertained

Sister Beata was honored at a floating tea Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Wesley Carter. Mrs. Donald Corey Mann was assisting hostess. Sister Beata is leaving Greenville after seven years of service at St. Raphael School. The honoree was presented a corsage of pink roses and a camera for her trip abroad this summer. Spring flowers were used on the serving table and throughout the house. Approximately 55 guests were invited included mothers of former students of Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Mann when they taught at St. Raphael.

Spring Luncheon Honors Members

The Dig 'N Delve Garden Club held its annual spring luncheon meeting at the home of Mrs. Jack Edwards. Assisting Mrs. Edwards as co-hostesses were Mrs. Skip Rand, Mrs. Fred Mattox, Mrs. Ira Hardy, Mrs. Joe Murad, Mrs. J. B. Kittrell and Mrs. Roger Mann. A business meeting followed the luncheon. Members were commended on the start made in beautifying the area in front of the Elm Street Gym. Additional plans were made to continue the project throughout the year. Mrs. Jack Welch, Mrs. Joe Davis, Mrs. Nancy Baker, Mrs. Don Wilkerson and Mrs. Bob Henly were guests for the luncheon.

Wedding Invitation

Mr. and Mrs. Elton D. Reel request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Gwendolyn Kaye, to Richard Lee Tippett, on Sunday, May 30, 1971, at 3:00 p.m. at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville.

FAMILY DINNER

Gladys Najer's Spaghetti with Meat Balls
Salad Bowl Italian Bread
Fruit Cookies
GLADYS NAJER'S SPAGHETTI WITH MEAT BALLS
Youngsters like this dish, and so do oldsters.
1 pound lean ground beef
1-3rd cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 egg
1 medium onion, finely grated (pulp and juice)
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 garlic cloves, crushed
1 can (1 pound, 4 ounces) Italian peeled tomatoes
1 can (6 ounces) tomato paste
1/2 teaspoon crushed dried basil
1 package (8 ounces) thin spaghetti
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Mix together the beef, crumbs, egg, onion, parsley, 1 teaspoon of the salt and the pepper. Shape into 16 to 20 small balls. In a 4- or 5-quart saucepot heat the oil; add meat balls and slowly brown; remove balls and set aside. To the saucepot add the garlic, tomatoes, tomato paste, the paste can full of water, basil and remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil; simmer, stirring often, for 1/2 hour. Add meat balls and simmer another 1/2 hour. Cook spaghetti according to package directions; drain and place on platter. Ladle sauce and meat balls over spaghetti; sprinkle with cheese. Serve at once. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Scrub textured plastic upholstery, such as matelasse, with a well-lathered soft brush to remove soil from crevices.
Lead-based paint has been outlawed for interior use in New York City since 1959, but it is usually found in dilapidated pre-war housing.

Proffer Nothing Constructive

It is difficult to see how anything constructive could come from proposed legislation which would prohibit the state from purchasing Bald Head Island.

If the legislature is to take any action at all on the matter of acquisition of the controversial island, it should be on the proposal to purchase the island, not a proposal to leave it alone.

It is significant that the proposal to prohibit state purchase of Bald Head came from Brunswick County's representative in the Senate. It must be assumed that the proposal reflects the feeling of most of the citizens of that county in which the island is located. And what Sen. Bunn Frink has said in support of his bill has not fallen on completely deaf ears around the state. He asserted that private development of the island as a plush resort would greatly enhance the economic situation in a poor county where most of the land is owned by timber companies.

Not one question the economic value of Bald Head so far as Brunswick County is concerned. The question has been and still is whether Bald Head is more valuable to the state as an island in its natural state which furnished a breeding ground for a considerable amount of sea life.

It is our view that the island is considerably more valuable to the state in its natural condition than as a plush resort. And we have the feeling that in the long run it is more valuable from an economic standpoint to Brunswick County as well.

If it is the feeling of the General Assembly that the state should not acquire Bald Head, that sentiment should be expressed by defeating a bill which proposes the positive step of purchasing the island, rather than by enactment of a bill which would prohibit the state from taking a step so many North Carolinians feel should be taken.

A Continuing Effort By Individuals Needed

The fortunes (good, bad and indifferent) of the Red Cross Blood Bank in Pitt County seldom fail to inspire a certain amount of wonder.

On occasion, the Bloodmobile's cup seemeth to overflow; then there are times when it seems to have lost a perennial struggle.

This year, according to Chairman Douglas Morgan, was a little bit better than last...having missed its quota by something around 300 pints.

We are frequently reminded that Pitt County has a continuing demand, a heavy demand, for blood among its sick and injured. There are occasional efforts to dramatize the need, and often these are regarded by a quota-busting visit, but you can't do that every time...even earnestness, dramatics, a sense of urgency or crisis can be overplayed to the point of self-defeat.

The need is for a calm spirit of continuity. Pitt County can and should meet its goals for each visit of the bloodmobile without straining or prodding. As in so many community efforts it is logically reduced to a lot of individual efforts.

Gardner Lobby Gains Recruits

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Partly because of massive anti-war lobbying by John Gardner's Common Cause, the White House is far more concerned over an end-the-war amendment to the 1971 military procurement bill in the House than it admits.

The amendment, sponsored by Democratic Rep. Lucien Nedzi of Michigan and Republican Rep. Charles Whalen of Ohio, would prohibit the use by American soldiers of any war materials authorized in the procurement bill in Vietnam, Laos, or Cambodia after Dec. 31, 1971. The obvious effect: all U.S. troops would have to be withdrawn by that date.

No one at the White House worries that the amendment might actually pass. The Democrats alone, far more anti-war than the Republicans, have not been able to get their caucus to approve any such drastic restriction.

But President Nixon wants to keep the vote for the Nedzi-Whalen amendment respectfully low, and it now looks as though it will get at least 150 votes, mostly Democrats.

But the grassroots lobby effort by Common Cause is gaining recruits. Run with the technical help of Matt Reese and Associates, professional political consultants, this lobbying is concentrated not in Washington but back in the districts of fence-sitting Congressmen.

Out of the first ten districts spotted for a massive telephone campaign, in which voters were asked to write or wire their Congressmen to support the amendment, five of the target Congressmen have now agreed to do so: Republican Reps. Florence Dwyer and William Widnall of New Jersey, William Broomfield and Jack McDonald of Michigan, and Democratic Rep. Martha Griffiths of Michigan.

In addition, seven Democrats who voted no in the March 31 party caucus on a Dec. 31 troop withdrawal deadline (defeated by one vote) have not switched. White House operatives who are long-time students of lobbying give Gardner's lobby much of the credit. They worry about further inroads before the procurement bill is voted on.

The depressing, starkly realistic study of declining U.S. economic power abroad by White House assistant Peter G. Peterson has so impressed President Nixon that he ordered Peterson to give a closed-door briefing to all Republican members of Congress on Thursday.

Peterson, the 44-year-old former chairman of the board of Bell & Howell, has also given confidential briefings, at Mr. Nixon's orders, to senior staffers in the White House and to House and Senate Republican leaders. Peterson has made no hard proposals to the President yet (Continued on page 5)

Council Could Be Key Target

By BRYAN HISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — The Council of State, traditional roosting ground for gubernatorial appointees, may open up next year as a target range for ambitious office-seekers.

It looks like quite a switch from the pattern of the past when an incumbent Council member, appointed by one Governor, could count on occupancy and automatic reelection until removed by death when another Governor would name his successor. Now, one year ahead of the Democratic primary, rumblings are heard that serious challenges will emerge for two or three present tenants in the second echelon of elective state executive positions.

Predictions are made that black candidates may take aim on one or more of the officers. It's rumored that a feminine aspirant of statewide strength may come forward. Beyond the party primary, prospects are good that Republicans will take a new look at fielding capable contenders in the fall general election.

New Surge of Interest
What happened to bring the surge of interest in these jobs — Secretary of State, Attorney General, Auditor, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Treasurer, Commissioners of Agriculture, Insurance, Labor — which previously caused little excitement for either politicians or voters?

The answer is Robert Morgan. The Lillington attorney and former state legislator blazed a trail in 1968, running successfully against Wade Bruton, the incumbent Attorney General. Morgan not only proved a Council of State office could be won; he went on to show how it can be used as a launching platform for higher things. His performance in office, particularly in consumer protection, has attracted a wide following and projected him as a prime possibility next year for the Democratic nomination for Governor or U.S. Senator (or, of course, another term as Attorney General).

The Morgan example prompted closer examination of the Council of State offices as rungs on the political ladder. It's expected to inspire a good turn-out of candidates in the primary next spring.

Few Specific Names
So far few names are in currency for specific offices.

The surprising exception, and evidence that established politicians also see Council possibilities, is the report that Governor Bob Scott has thought about running for State Treasurer.

However serious the thought, it got wide circulation and raised a lot of eyebrows (including those of the present Treasurer).

Senator William W. Staton of Lee would run for Attorney General, should Morgan decide to go for another office; so, in all probability, would a number of others.

Black Democrats may shift strategy next year. Rather than make a futile try for the governorship, as in the past, candidates may file for lesser state office such as lieutenant governor or a Council of State position.

Mayor Howard Lee of Chapel Hill, State Representatives Henry Frye of Guilford and Joy Johnson of Roberson are among those who could fill such a role.

Mrs. Margaret S. Harper of Southport, who ran for lieutenant governor in 1968, may make that race again. As Democratic vice chairman for women, she has said often there are women capable of filling top state elective office, and they ought to get out and run.

None Likely To Retire
For those eager for a Council of State seat, there is one small hitch. None of the present incumbents is likely to give up without a fight.

It might be reasoned that age makes some of them vulnerable (five of the eight are past 60), but experience and long-time party ties might make those most difficult to dislodge.

Secretary of State Thad Eure, senior in tenure (since 1936), said he'll run again if he's living. At 71, Eure cherishes his role as "oldest rat in the Democratic barn."

Treasurer Edwin Gill also is 71, a few months older than Eure. He's not ready to say, but no one doubts he'll run again.

Insurance Commissioner Edwin S. Lanier, 70 said he's thought about it but made no decision. "It's too early to decide," he said.

Labor Commissioner Frank Crane, 63, said he would wait until the legislature is out of town before making up his mind. "I'll think about it then. I expect a lot of other folks will be thinking, too, don't you?" he commented.

Auditor Henry Bridges, 63, has given no indication of his plans but likely would be a candidate for another term. Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham, 50, likes his job and would be hard to turn out. Dr. Craig Phillips, 49, won election in 1968 as Superintendent of Public Instruction and seems secure for a second term.

Proxmire Right Again?

They used to tell the story of a circuit judge, down in Tidewater Virginia, who was reversed fourteen times hand running by the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals. But there came a day in May when a court reporter in Richmond telephoned the judge to say that in a certain case his decision had just been upheld. A long and thoughtful silence followed. "Well," said the judge at last, "I still think I'm right." It has been an uncomfortable experience for some of us on the conservative side, opposed to further funding of the SST, to find ourselves in bed these past few months with William Proxmire. The lean and handsome Senator from Wisconsin is a certified liberal; he is rated 93 percent pure by the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education, which puts him in a class with such awful people as Hartke, McGovern and Javits; and we sturdy defenders of the sound doctrine do not ordinarily consort with men of this ilk. But the unsettling confession has to be made: Proxmire is right again. It seems impossible. In his hard-hitting criticism of the President's proposal to bail out Lockheed Aircraft, the Senator is advancing arguments that ring every conservative chime. He sounds as Republican as the late Bill McKinley.

Proxmire summed up his position in a powerful speech last week to the Nations Federation of Independent Business, meeting out at the Statler-Hilton. When he got into a detailed denunciation of the shortcomings of Lockheed's giant transport, the C5A, a little old lady from Georgia was so overcome by indignation that she half arose from her seat to cry "no! no!", but the Senator would not be deterred.

The proposal now pending on the Hill would require the taxpayers of the United States to guarantee repayment of a $250 million private loan to Lockheed. This new capital, it is said, would permit the floundering company to negotiate a new deal with Rolls Royce in England, and this in turn would permit Lockheed to proceed with its beautiful and costly new Airbus, the L-1011 Tristar. Administration spokesmen defend the proposed guarantee largely on the grounds that if Lockheed slides into bankruptcy, at least 24,000 jobs will slide out of existence also.

Proxmire, the liberal Democrat, responds to all this with the firmness of a (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Goose's Golden Egg

(The Shelby Star)

LEGISLATORS are sitting on the golden egg that the goose of higher education, especially private colleges and universities, has laid. The white of the egg is a student aid bill that allocates variable amounts of money to students so that they may attend non-state college; the yellow is the companion and not-unlike bill that would allocate funds directly to private colleges for taking students who otherwise would attend a state-supported college. Either way the egg is cracked, all of North Carolina would benefit.

We have noted previously that our view of state aid to private education has changed just about 180 degrees in the last few months. We started out opposed to such a plan, but have come around to the view that the cost of a private education bill will be less than that of supporting public higher education expansion. An additional factor is the leveling off of student enrollments at all levels of education. It seems foolish to us to build a dormitory at any state university that would house students who could be sent to a private university for less tax outlay than a state university, not counting the saving in capital expenditure.

However, let us warn here and not that the goose with the golden egg can be smothered if, in two years, the private colleges are back knocking on the door of opportunity for more funds. No doubt, a two-year trial run on either of the two plans before the General Assembly may lead the legislature to request more funds. But private higher education can harm itself by selling its wares too loudly at the Legislative Building. Either of the two bills before the legislature is acceptable, in our view. They each accomplish the goal of saving tax funds for support of a student by having him able to attend a private university.

THE BILL which allocates state funds directly to private colleges and universities is certainly the least obtuse of the two bills. As a result it is more controversial since that bill gives state aid directly to such areas as church-sponsored campuses. Nonetheless, the aid to students bill would accomplish the same aim through a more circuitous route. We suggest that the bills' sponsors come up with a single plan among them and ride the one bill for all its worth. To taxpayers, that could be a fortune.

Frail Male Types

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — All those liberated women demanding that men do their fair share of the housework obviously have never seen the male of the species on the scrub line. Even if the spirit is willing, the flesh is weak. And slow. And inefficient.

Take my friend's situation, for example. She is blessed—or burdened as the case may be—with a cooperative husband.

When she announces it's house-cleaning time, he volunteers to help—after he's finished whatever else he happens to be doing, usually a lengthy endeavor.

Unfortunately his and her ideas of house cleaning differ. She's a "sweep-it-under-the-rug" cleaner. He's an Army-conditioned "not-a-speck of dust" type.

Tops of cabinets, bottoms of tables, backs of bookcases. All must be spotless.

Ignoring specific requests for help—"How about taking out the garbage dear?"—super-spouse begins cleaning by marshaling forces for a major assault on one room—usually the bathroom.

Cleaners, mops and brushes are assembled. Everything movable is moved out of the target room—and dumped right in the middle of the just-waxed hall.

Having lived in his current home only five years, husband, of course, doesn't know where anything is kept.

Dimly, over the roar of the vacuum cleaner, my friend hears a cry for help. Off with the vacuum, into the bathroom, find out what's needed.

"Where's the pail?"
"Under the sink where it's always been."

Back to the living room, on with the vacuum.

Another dim cry.

Strength For Today

WORD OF POWER

"Thus saith the Lord."

How long has it been since you have heard any religious leader anywhere speak with an authority such as this? We generally look upon the prophets of the Old Testament as men who foretold things, and certainly some of them did foretell primarily preachers. Occasionally they foretold; continually they proclaimed. And their proclamations either began or ended with the words, "Thus saith the Lord."

We should never get the idea into our minds that because the Bible is a completed book all God's revelation has ceased. It has not by any means. It goes on today as it has always gone on. The words, "Thus saith the Lord," are meant to be as vital in the life of today as they were twenty-seven hundred years ago. God still speaks through men who put themselves in His hands with a surrender akin to that of the ancient prophets.

God is speaking to every one of us today. God will speak through any minister or Sunday School teacher or parent who meets the spiritual requirements, which are surrender to God and faith in His power and love.

"Thus saith the Lord." This is a mighty and eternal combination of words, as mighty now as ever. The significance of religion abides in its authority. Its truths must have behind them the power of God. "Thus saith the Lord."

Imitation Meat Already Reality

By ELMER ROESSNER

The day may be not long in coming when the average American family, like those in many other countries, eat real meat only once a week or, perhaps, on father's birthday.

Imitation meat is already a reality. Both the Food and Drug Administration and a Senate subcommittee have already held hearings on proposed standards for it. Many things people buy as meat now are only partly real meat.

The Department of Agriculture has compiled a "consumer reference list" of minimum amounts of meat in prepared foods under USDA regulations. For example, frankfurters, bologna and other cooked sausages may contain as little as 30 1/2 per cent meat. They may contain up to 30 per cent fat, 10 per cent added water, 2 per cent corn syrup, 15 per cent poultry and 3 1/2 per cent cereal and nonfat dry milk. It's Still Baloney However, if cereal and nonfat dry milk are added, it must be indicated by the product name. More than 15 per cent poultry may be used if that is indicated by the product name. However, if the products are called "all meat," only muscle tissue with "natural amounts of fat may be used and "all beef" meats must be made of meat of beef animals only.

In practice, most processors use only "cutter" beef, which consists of meat from old cows and bulls and which sold for 45-48 cents a pound on the Chicago market last week. And bologna sells for from 59 cents to more than $1 a pound in supermarkets.

Other minimum amounts of meat required in prepared foods are: chili con carne, 40 per cent; chili con carne with beans, 25 per cent; hash, 35 per cent; frozen breakfasts, 15 per cent; frozen dinners, 25 per cent, not counting appetizer, bread and dessert; stews, 25 per cent.

Protein Substitutes
Vegetable proteins are the usual bases for meat substitutes. Dr. Walter A. Compton, president of Miles Laboratories, told Congress that soy-protein can be produced at a rate of about 450 pounds an acre, while animal protein yield is only 43 pounds an acre.

In an interview, Dr. Frank Hildebrand, a General Mills vice president, said imitation chicken is a king can't be told from the real thing and that imitation ground beef is good, especially with chili or other sauce.

The Nestle Co. offers food processors two vegetable protein powders to add meat flavor to prepared foods without the use of glutamates. One has a roast beef flavor, the other roast chicken.

Sunday Store Openings
Boost Sales 9 Per Cent

A survey of 666 stores by the International Council of Shopping Centers shows that Sunday openings increase sales by 9 per cent. The survey was made in the 32 states and the District of Columbia where Sunday openings are legal.

Discount and variety stores reported the largest gain, 16 per cent; supermarkets, 10 per cent; giftwares, 10 per cent; apparel, 10 per cent; department stores, 8.7 per cent; and curtain and drapery stores, 6 per cent.

Prepare Airport Safety Standards

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in its 39-year history the Federal Aviation Administration is setting minimum standards for airport safety.

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe today announced proposed regulations to set the safety standards in line with legislation signed over a year ago by President Nixon.

Basic physical safety needs must be met under the proposals, though the provisions do not extend to such areas as navigational aids and air traffic loads—among the main hazards to aviation.

The only portion of the rules proposed today that deals with overcrowding, or heavy air traffic, is a section which says airports must establish "appropriate procedure...informing

Charge Brooklyn Man in Holdup

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI said Monday that George Washington Phifer, 37, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was arrested at his home and charged with robbing a bank at Derita, near Charlotte, N.C. of $26,000 nearly 1½ years ago.

The FBI said Phifer was indicted a year ago in Asheville in the Jan. 24, 1970, holdup of Piedmont Bank and Trust Co.

mossback Republican. For 200 years, he notes, "our economic system has been founded on the principle of free and open competition." The system exerts a harsh but useful discipline on business: Efficient and well-managed firms are regarded, inefficient and poorly managed firms are penalized. Some of them go broke.

"The freedom to fail," says Proxmire, "may at times appear to be an overly painful solution — particularly to the firm going out of business. But business failures serve a higher public purpose. They are the means by which our economy discards obsolete or inefficient ways of doing business. In this way, the overall efficiency of our economy is improved. Business failures are not tragic events to be prevented — they are the sign of a healthy and productive economy."

In Proxmire's view, these cherished economic principles would be seriously compromised by the Lockheed loan guarantee. The effect would be to regard inefficiency, to perpetuate poor management, and to give Lockheed an unfair advantage over its competitors. A precedent also would be set for similar subsidies to large companies in the future. And if to large companies, why not to small companies?

Philosophically speaking, the arguments are clearly sound, and if they leave the Senator just two points removed from the true north of Ayn Rand, perhaps the Senator is uncomfortable also. If England's Conservative government was willing to see Rolls Royce go into receivership, why should a Republican administration take a less principled position on Lockheed?

Mr. Nixon's lame but honest answer is that there are times when philosophy must yield to practical politics. The aerospace industry is in deep trouble. Lockheed's bankruptcy would compound that trouble. If a loan guarantee will save the nation's largest defense contractor, perhaps the risk can be justified in the name of national security. But the pending bill surely cannot be justified in the name of Republican principles. It's too bad a liberal Democrat must tell us so.

Scholarships Are Given 2 Elected SGA Co-Presidents

FARMVILLE — Lizzie Tyson and Amelia Mulkey, juniors at H. B. Sugg High School, are the recipients of academic scholarships to attend the High School Workshop in Critical Thinking and Education to be held during the summer at the National College of Education in Evanston, Ill.

Scholarships are given to outstanding students on the basis of academic achievement and financial need. The winners who will be attending the workshop are among the most outstanding students from all parts of the country.

Acceptance to the workshop is contingent upon scholarship and potential, leadership contributions, and membership in activities that contribute to the lives of others.

In addition to paying full tuition, the scholarships pay for transportation to and from the school. The program lasts from August 1 to August 22.

LESS CRIME HERE
BARTONVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The crime rate here dropped during 1970.

Jay Helmick, police chief of this village of 8,423 persons, said arrests numbered 610, down from 864 arrests in 1969. Juvenile arrests were 37, compared to last year's 76.

Christie Speir and Jean Council were elected co-presidents of the Student Government Association at North Pitt High School Friday.

Climaxing a week of campaigning, the two juniors head a slate of all-girl officers. Minnie Hollis and Donna Gonzalez were elected vice presidents. Jessie Murchison and Jackie Nelson will serve as secretaries while Edna Howard and Linda Corey will be treasurers. Reporters elected were Terrie Briley and Mary Stanley.

North Pitt has a dual system of SGA and class office officials. The system has been in force throughout the first year of the school's operation and was requested by the student body.

However, club president J. W. Johnson Jr. of Wilmington announced jointly with CP&L general counsel Sherwood Smith yesterday that a settlement had been reached.

"Plans were developed for making the lake available for use by the public," said Johnson. "These plans will include a paved access road and parking lot, a boat ramp and a picnic area."

Smith said costs of the improvements would be borne by CP&L. The recreation area would be maintained by the State Wildlife Resources Commission.

Gulch May Save Town Near Etna

SANT'ALFIO, Sicily (AP) — The lava flow from erupting Mt. Etna today menaced the crossroads village of Fornazzo, but there was hope a shallow gulch would channel it past the village.

Traveling at the rate of 50-60 yards an hour down the dry bed of the Sambuco torrent, the molten rock was 500 yards from Fornazzo as the crowd filed. But it had to travel at least twice that far over the uneven terrain.

If the flaming stream remained in the shallow Sambuco gulch, it would narrowly skirt Fornazzo's northern edge. But if the gully failed to hold the lava, it could spill over into built up areas.

Judge Rules Readmission

Federal Judge John Larkins has signed a temporary restraining order directing that Robert Thonen, former editor of the East Carolina University newspaper, Fountainhead, be permitted to re-enter the university.

Judge Larkins, according to Andrew Vanore, an assistant attorney general in the office of the State Attorney General in Raleigh, said the temporary order was signed by Judge Larkins at four o'clock Monday afternoon.

The temporary restraining order requiring the university to readmit Thonen is valid for a ten day period.

Thonen was suspended on May 10 following a hearing before the university's board of appeals, composed of faculty and student members.

ECU president Dr. Leo Jenkins this morning said he had no comment to make on the order, as he has not yet received a copy.

Kidnap 'Enemy'

ROSARIO, Argentina (AP) — The leftist kidnapers of Swift executive Stanley E. M. Sylvester have described him as an enemy of the people because he works for one of the North American companies the kidnapers said exploit the Argentine working man.

In their second communique since the kidnaping Sunday, the Revolutionary Army of the People, or ERP, took issue with a statement by Sylvester's wife that "he has no enemies."

"It is the people who have enemies," said the communique Monday night. "Their enemies are the exploiters, the large North American companies and the military dictatorship who sink our country in misery, injustice and oppression, and Mr. Sylvester is one of those enemies of the people."

There was no other information or ransom demand accompanying the communique. There were unconfirmed reports that Swift had agreed to meet any ransom demand ERP might make.

Sylvester, 58, managing director of the Swift meat packing plant here and the honorary British Consul, was abducted outside his home by three gunmen of the Trotskyite Communist group. The ERP's first communique, left in a downtown bar Sunday, made no ransom demand but said Sylvester was being turned over to the "people's justice."

A woman identifying herself as an ERP member telephoned Sylvester's wife Monday and

No Comment About Scott's Complaints

East Carolina University president, Dr. Leo Jenkins said he had no comment this morning on Gov. Bob Scott's recent remark accusing him and two other educators of "behaving like children" in reacting to proposals for restructuring higher education.

Dr. Jenkins pointed out that he did not want to make a statement on the matter until he heard the governor's address today before a joint session of the legislature.

During a press conference in Chapel Hill Monday, Scott repeated comments he had made Saturday at Wrightsville Beach concerning Dr. Jenkins, University of North Carolina president William Friday, and higher education director Cameron West.

Scott said Monday that the three men "....are like kids scrambling to get ahead of each other in line.....maneuvering to be heard first and last." He asserted that they were men of "strong and good will who battle hard for their institutions..." but that their "in-fighting" was not good for education.

The governor was scheduled to outline his proposals for restructuring higher education today before the legislature. Dr. Jenkins said that he would be in Raleigh to hear the address.

Calaveras Fed Up

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — The annual Jumping Frog Jubilee, inspired by a humorous Mark Twain tale, has drawn such large crowds that some people in rural Calaveras County want to call the whole thing off.

"Very frightening and completely out of control" is the way Ernest Bernasconi, chairman of the county Board of Supervisors, describes the May 13-16 weekend in which one person died, 141 were injured and 60 were arrested, many on narcotics charges.

"We just can't allow it again, and we won't," Bernasconi vowed Monday after Sheriff Russell Leach told the supervisors an "almost intolerable" weekend when some 50,000 people packed this community of about 1,500. The entire county has about 14,000 residents.

A petition with 350 signatures was presented to the supervisors, demanding an end to the frog jumping event that was begun as a tourist attraction in 1928.

VC Shot Down Two Generals In Copter

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong marksmen shot down a U.S. helicopter carrying an American general and a South Vietnamese general today, but a third general in an accompanying helicopter rescued them unhurt.

Aboard the downed helicopter were Maj. Gen. John H. Cushman, commander of the Military Assistance Command in the Mekong Delta, and Maj. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, commanding general in the delta military region.

Their chopper was hit by small arms fire while over the northern part of the U Minh forest, about 145 miles southwest of Saigon.

The U.S. pilot and his crew were wounded, a U.S. military spokesman reported, but all the passengers escaped unhurt.

They were rescued in a few minutes by a helicopter carrying Maj. Gen. Nguyen Vinh Nghi, commander of the South Vietnamese 21st Infantry division, which has been conducting a large sweep operation in the U Minh forest since Dec. 1.

A U.S. spokesman, Maj. Richard Gardner, said Gen. Cushman and Gen. Truong were on a "routine visit to military posts" in the Ca Mau peninsula.

Aides of Gen. Truong said it was the fifth time in the war he told her he was in good health. She refused to answer Mrs. Sylvester's questions and then hung up.

Some 3,500 police, including a special antiguerrilla detachment from Buenos Aires, continued the hunt for Sylvester and his kidnapers. About 50 persons were rounded up for questioning, but no one was charged.

Sylvester has been honorary British consul here for 10 years. He was born in Rosario and holds dual Argentine and British citizenship.

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Army Col. Oran K. Henderson, accused in the alleged coverup of the My Lai massacre, says: "Every brigade in Vietnam has had its My Lai—not of the same size and scope—but the brigade commander doesn't know."

Henderson, 50, also told newsmen Monday during a break in an evidence hearing concerning his case that he also offered to take the blame for the My Lai incident but was turned down by the Army.

Henderson, who commanded the 11th Infantry Brigade when one of its companies swept through My Lai, said he made the offer in a letter Dec. 10, 1969 to Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the Army chief of staff.

When asked if Westmoreland answered the letter, Henderson said "It was a very blunt reply:

"I received your letter and don't plan taking any action." Henderson, a native of Indianapolis, was one of 14 men later ordered court-martialed following a Pentagon inquiry into the handling of My Lai field reports and investigations. Charges against all the others have been dropped.

Film-Makers Win Awards

Four East Carolina University student film-makers were awarded cash prizes for their entries in the annual ECU Fine Arts Film Festival Saturday, May 22.

The first prize award of $125 was given to Bruce McKeown for a 16-millimeter black-and-white film entitled "Many Thanks Mr. Skinner." Second prize, a $100 award, was won by Albert Dulin for "Return to Plenty," an eight-millimeter color film.

Third and fourth prize awards, $75 and $50, went to Cliff Lane for "Search" and to Paul Dulin for "Untitled," both eight-millimeter color films.

"The Partisan" by Steve Foley and Kit Hunter and "Ayrton Mann" by Ray Brown and Frank Lowe were cited for Honorable Mention awards.

Judges for the Film Festival competition were Franc White, cinematographer for the ECU News Bureau, and three faculty members in the ECU School of Art: Norman Keller, Robert Rasch and Melvin Stanfort.

Awards were based on several criteria, including craftsmanship, effectiveness of photography and technical excellence.

Break-In Is Charged Trio

Three local residents were taken into custody at 706 W. Fifth St. Saturday afternoon on charges of breaking and entering.

Robert R. Thonen, 23 and Mrs. Deborah Jo Thonen, 20, of 122-A Woodlawn Ave., and Charlie G. Prigen, 23 of 801 E. Third St. were charged in warrants signed by M. B. Hearne, owner of the apartment house.

Officers said the three were found in a vacant apartment by Hearne, who held the three there until police arrived.

Thonen, a former editor of the East Carolina University student newspaper the Fountainhead, is a sophomore at the school.

He was suspended from the university May 10 following a hearing. He had been charged with violating the campus code by allowing four letter words to be printed in the newspaper.

U.S. District Judge John Larkins yesterday ordered Thonen reinstated pending a hearing in federal court.

Thonen filed a complaint against ECU officials seeking to prevent his suspension.

Two Items On Board's Agenda

At their regular May meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m., Greenville Board of Adjustment members will take up two agenda items.

The first is a public hearing on a request for special use permit and variance by Little Mint, Inc., located on East 14th Street. The request is to construct a principal use sign in a neighborhood commercial zone.

A second public hearing is on a request by Ollie Harrington, for variance on lot size to construct a duplex apartment at 609 Elm Street.

of murdering 22 civilians at My Lai and is awaiting the outcome of appeals in his case.

Henderson is accused of giving false information to a Pentagon inquiry board headed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers and of failing to properly investigate atrocity reports from My Lai.

"I feel every officer of the U.S. Army is derelict at one time or the other," Henderson said at the news conference, the first he has held since he was charged. "There aren't enough hours in the day to do the things we have to do."

"With the reports of My Lai I had at the time, I felt I did an adequate job. With what I know now, the answer is no."

Parish Picnic Was Held Sunday

St. Peter's Parish held its spring picnic on the school grounds Sunday afternoon with approximately 300 attending.

Each family brought their "Favorite gourmet dish" to the event and included Irish, Italian, German, Hungarian, Polish, French, Russian, Northern and Southern cuisine.

The arrangements for the affair were made by Mrs. Dina Dorney and Mrs. Ann Butler.

May Register On Wednesday

Kindergarten registration for eligible children in the Belvoir attendance area will be held Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon in the school library.

The kindergarten to be held during the 1971-72 school year, will be open to children who are five years old on or before October 16. Inoculations for whooping cough, tetanus, polio, and smallpox are required. Birth certificates are also required at pre-registration.

St. Gabriel Pulls Upset

Black Jack downed Belvoir, 13-3; St. James ripped Maranatha, 15-1; Immanuel Baptist rolled to a 24-3 victory over Trinity; and St. Gabriel surprised Mt. Pleasant, 15-11 in the Church Softball League last night.

In the American Division, St. James leads with a 7-1 record, followed by Meadowbrook, 6-2, and Presbyterian, 5-2. They are trailed by Belvoir, 4-5; Christian, 2-5; St. Gabriel, 2-7, and Trinity, 1-8.

Immanuel regained lone control of first in the National League, 7-2, followed by Piney Grove, 6-2; Mt. Pleasant, 5-3; Oakmont, 4-4; Black Jack, 4-5; Grace, 3-5; and Maranatha, 1-7.

Black Jack pushed over three runs in the first inning and never lost control after that. Steve Peele reached on an error and Hugh Hardee was safe on a fielder's choice. Randy Dixon then got a hit to score then, and he later scored with the third run.

Black Jack came back to score 10 runs in the third, including a homer by Wayne Dixon. Belvoir scored one in the fourth and two in the fifth, with Earl Tripp homering.

St. James pushed over four runs in the first inning of its game to score all it needed. Ricky Chambers reached on an error and Ronald Vincent singled. Charles Vincent got a hit and Jimmy Smith singled. Rusty Jacobs walked and Bill Porter reached on an error, scoring Smith with the final run. St. James added one in the second, one in the fourth, five in the fifth, three in the sixth and one in the seventh for its 15-run total. Maranatha scored once in the seventh.

Immanuel pushed over a run in the first inning, then came up with another in the second. Trinity scored twice in the bottom of the second to tie it up.

But in the third, Immanuel scored two more runs for a 4-2 lead, one which was not overcome. Bill Dickens singled and Jimmy Grimsley homered for the lead.

Immanuel scored six more in the fourth, with David Hahn homering, while eight more crossed in the sixth, and six scored in the seventh. Trinity added its final run in the fourth.

In the final game, St. Gabriel exploded for eight runs in the first inning and never trailed in beating Mt. Pleasant. Trel walked, as did Richards. Dilday reached on an error and Redrick walked. Jenkins got a hit and McKilley reached on an error. Alder singled and Quick walked. McReynolds walked and Moore singled in Quick with the final run.

St. Gabriel went on, adding three in the second, three in the third and one in the fourth. Mt. Pleasant scored five in the bottom of the first, then got two in the fourth, two in the fifth and one each in the sixth and seventh.

R. C. Cola In Win Over Lions

R. C. Cola downed the Lions, 10-6, yesterday in the North State Little League.

The Optimists lead the league with a 4-0 record, followed by the Kiwanis, 3-1. They are followed by the Jaycees, 2-2; R. C. Cola, 2-3; Coca-Cola, 1-3, and the Lions, 1-4.

R. C. charged into the lead in the first inning, picking up three runs. Doug Burbage singled and scored when Mike Brown doubled. Ricky Bolonde singled and stole second. Both runners came over to score when Charley Hayek singled.

In the second, R. C. pushed over six more runs for a 9-0 lead. Bill Tugwell singled and Billy Ellington got a hit. Burbage singled to load the bases, and Mike Brown reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Tugwell. Bolonde reached on an error, with Ellington coming in, and Bryant Morton also was safe on a miscue, with Burbage and Brown scoring. Hayek doubled, driving in Bolonde and Morton with the eighth and ninth runs.

The Lions got on the board with five runs in the bottom of the second. Phil Gibb walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Tommy Carpenter also walked, and both advanced on a pass. A passed ball scored Gibb. Carpenter took third on a passed ball and Ray Kilpatrick walked. Mike Adams also walked, loading the bases. Dale Steele then doubled, scoring Carpenter and Kilpatrick. Passed balls allowed both Adams and Steele to score.

In the third, R. C. picked up its last run, while the final Lion run came in the sixth.

Now For A Little Racing Luck

Caldwell Outstanding ACC Baseball Player

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Mike Caldwell, North Carolina State senior lefthander with a 9-0 record, has been voted Atlantic Coast Conference baseball Player of the Year.

Another pitcher, Rusty Gerhardt of Clemson, 11-3, was runnerup.

They and third baseman Chris Cammack of North Carolina State, who won the honor last year and finished third this time, also made the all-conference team.

The voting in both categories was by 120 players—15 on each of the eight teams—with players not allowed to vote for teammates. The Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association supervised the voting.

Champion Maryland and runnerup Clemson each placed three players on the 10-man all-conference team. Cammack topped this voting with 104 points, earning a first-team spot for the fourth year in a row.

His .381 batting average led the conference.

Runnerup with 103 votes was Maryland second baseman Dave Sauve, a sophomore, who made the team for the second year.

His coach, Sam Esposito, says he is one of the smartest college pitchers he has seen. "He has excellent control and doesn't waste many pitches in a game. He doesn't have a blazing fast ball but he keeps the batters off balance with plenty of know-how."

Caldwell is one of the quickest workers in the conference. "I feel that if I take too much time between pitches, the other players on the field tend to relax too much, and that's when mistakes start happening," he says.

He picked up three victories in the world amateur championships last summer while pitching for the United States team which finished second to winner Cuba.

The all-conference infield is Jim Norris of Maryland at first base, Sauve at second, Mike Cubbage of Virginia at shortstop and Cammack at third. Morris made the team as an outfielder in 1968 and 1969.

Petty Has Big Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Plymouth-driving Richard Petty, following races over the weekend at Asheville, N.C., and Kingsport, Tenn., commands a 79-point lead in the NASCAR Winston Cup standings.

Closest rival James Hylton, Grand National driver from Inman, S.C., must finish 27 positions in front of Petty in Sunday's World 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway, N.C., in order to win the first leg of the Winston Cup Point Standings.

This would mean the difference between $10,000 and $5,000 for Hylton.

Petty's aggregate for the year is 1,589 points, while Hylton has 1,510. The World 600 awards 150 points to the winner with a drop of three points per position.

Malloy Could Make Folks Eat Their Words

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Malloy quit an $800 a month job in Denver four years ago to become a race driver, and if he wins Saturday's Indianapolis 500 mile race a lot of people are going to have to eat some harsh words.

Including, Malloy says, his wife Diana.

"I had had a long day at the Martin Co. office that day," Malloy recalled Monday. "I made up my mind I'd had it. So I locked the desk at 5 o'clock and told them I wasn't coming back."

"At home, I told Diana I was going racing. I left her $100 and I had $120 myself. I've never regretted it, though racing can get pretty frustrating at times."

Malloy, 36, will start Saturday's $1 million 500-mile race on the inside of the fourth row. He considers himself lucky to be in the lineup at all.

He came to Indy at the beginning of May assigned to a car owned by Dick Cecil and admits he had little chance of qualifying the machine. But what he said was a "link in my chain of luck" occurred on the Friday before the first day of qualifying May 15.

Southern stock car ace Lee Roy Yarbrough had wrecked the No. 2 car on Dan Gurney's All-American Racing team. Yarbrough received burns on the neck that prevented him wearing a helmet.

"Dan asked me at 4 o'clock if I'd like to try his No. 42 Eagle. I got about 20 laps of practice, all the time pinching myself because of my good fortune."

Malloy qualified the car at 171,838 miles per hour, one of the most solid of the first day efforts, but since has had the machine up to 173 m.p.h. in practice.

It will be his third Indianapolis start, finishing 22nd in 1968 and 11th in 1969.

Last year was a different story. The talkative Denver native, who says he is the least known driver around the Speedway, had qualified ninth in the field. But a wheel support gave way as the cars came out of the fourth turn on the pace lap and Malloy hit the wall.

He was credited with a last place finish for which he received $13,677.48.

Malloy and the 33 other drivers who will start this year's event played golf at the Speedway course Monday while their mechanics started putting new engines into their machines.

The drivers will participate in carburetion runs Wednesday, when for the first time in Speedway history spectators will be allowed in to watch. They'll pay $1 each for the privilege.

Meantime, there was one switch in driver assignments. Dick Simon, the Salt Lake City businessman, announced he would take over the No. 44 Travelodge Special Vollstedt-Ford qualified in 27th position by John Mahler of Bettendorf, Iowa. Because of the change, he'll drop to 33rd starting position.

Simon owns the car and in one of the unusual happenings at the Speedway was bumped from the lineup by Mahler after qualifying his own car.

Pepsi Claims First Victory

Pepsi-Cola picked up its first win of the year yesterday, defeating Integon, 7-5. Pepsi was the last winless team in the Tar Heel Little League.

The Granters continue to lead the league with a 4-0 record, followed by the Elks, 2-1. They are trailed by the Exchange, 2-2; Integon, 2-3; and the Moose and Pepsi, both 1-3.

Integon pushed over two runs in the top of the first. Worth Albea walked and moved up on an out. John Miles singled, and an error on his hit allowed Albea to score. Tim Lancaster than singled to score Miles.

Pepsi, however, came back with three runs to take the lead, 3-2. McDonald Avery reached on an error and Dana Kendrick singled. Mark Conway pushed Pepsi into the lead with a three-run homer.

But it didn't last. Integon came back with three runs in the top of the second for a 5-3 lead. Jim Miles walked and moved around to third on passed balls. Mert Sutton was hit by a pitch and Buddy Boyd walked to load the bases. Albea reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Miles. Sandy Abbott then reached on an error, scoring Sutton and Boyd.

Pepsi tied it up in the third inning, scoring two more runs. Conway doubled and Joey Cherry hit the second round-tripper for Pepsi, making it 5-5.

The winning runs came over in the fifth. John Coffman walked and took second on a passed ball. David Huguelet singled him to third and then stole second. Avery grounded out, but Coffman scored on the play. Michael Shank reached on an error, scoring Huguelet with the final run.

Kendrick, in hurling the win, allowed only two hits. He struck out 13 and walked eight.

When your neighbor is on his third lawnmower, you may still be on your AMF Orange!

Our riding mowers are built for lasting. So you'll spend more time taking them for granted. And less time taking them for repairs. Because they aren't loaded with plastic gadgets and fancy frills to go on the fritz later on.

They're a long term investment, so when other people are changing mowers, you'll probably be changing blades. That's the way we build them. Material and workmanship, yes. Gadgets, no.

Bonallack Vows British Will Win Back Walker Cup This Year

By THOMAS A. REEDY
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)
— Mike Bonallack, the kind of reticent Englishman who never admits the sun is shining until he sees it, vowed today his British team would win back the Walker Cup from the United States this week for the first time since 1938.

"We've got such a good team, all 10 of them, that I don't know who to play and who to leave out," said the 37-year-old British amateur champion and captain.

"We are at least even in the betting and I would put it just a little above that."

On the record this was a long shot.

The British and American amateur golf teams square away Wednesday in a two-day tussel of foursomes and singles matches—24 altogether—in the golden jubilee of the unique competition.

The Americans have won 22 times and lost only once in the biennial battle played on both sides of the water. This time the United States sent here a remarkable combination of age and youth that looks good enough to give a bookmaker the willies.

"I don't care about the odds," said Bonallack, who has beaten the top Americans himself a half dozen times.

"We can, and I think we will, get the cup back."

John Winters, of Tulsa, Okla., the non-playing American captain, countered this brave talk with the comment that "we can adapt ourselves to these conditions even though seven of our team never have seen them."

The conditions he was talking about involved rain and cold descending on the fickle St. Andrews course, 6,951 yards long and par-72 which turns from pussycat to tiger from hour to hour.

Washington Whips Red Sox To Snap Five-Game Losing String

By HERSHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ted Williams, once a .400 hitter for the Boston Red Sox, is now a .500 manager against them.

Williams' Washington Senators, cellar-dwellers in the American League East, turned on the front-running Red Sox 6-5 Monday night, snapping an eight-game losing streak.

The victory was the 20th in 40 games for the one-time Boston hero as a manager against the Red Sox and sliced their lead to 2½ games over idle Baltimore.

The only other major league action saw San Diego kayo Bob Gibson in the fourth inning and rout St. Louis 12-3, Philadelphia edged Cincinnati 2-1 and Atlanta whip Montreal 9-4.

The Senators rolled—if that's the word—into Boston having lost 18 of their previous 21 games and having scored one lone run while dropping a four-game weekend series in Detroit.

That changed quickly. With Frank Howard belting a two-run homer, his first in Boston since 1969, the Senators jumped on Bill Lee for five runs in the first inning. If you think it was all smooth sailing thereafter, you don't know the Washington Senators.

The Red Sox clipped Casey Cox for a run in their half of the first and shelled him in the third with Carl Yastrzemski hitting a two-run homer and Billy Conigliaro a three-run job.

Williams violated the unwritten rule that says you don't pitch left-handers in Fenway

Park, where the Red Sox devour them as between-innings snacks.

But Joe Zenzola allowed only one hit in three innings before leaving for a pinch hitter "We figured he'd just about had it," said Williams and Paul Lindblad worked three hitless frames.

"I figured I'd bring in Lindblad to face Reggie Smith and Carl Yastrzemski and see how he did. I also had Horacio Pina, a right-hander, warmed up."

In the immortal words of Casey Stengel, Lindblad done splendid. He walked Smith but got Yaz to hit into a double play and retired the Red Sox in order after that.

Meanwhile, the Senators nixed Bob Bolin for the tying run in the sixth on a single by Tim Cullen and Toby Harrah's bloop double and got the winner in the seventh on doubles by Joe Foy and Paul Casanova.

Clarence Gaston and Dave Campbell led San Diego's assault against St. Louis and prevented the Cardinals from moving into first place in the National League East. They trail the idle New York Mets by one-half game.

Gaston drove in four runs with three singles while Campbell also had four RBI with his fifth homer, a two-run triple and bases-loaded walk. Gibson, 4-5, was raked for nine hits and seven runs in three innings-plus.

Philadelphia's Denny Doyle has hit four home runs in his big league career. Only two, however, have gone out of the park and both have come off Cincinnati's Gary Nolan. Doyle connected with a runner aboard in the second inning Tuesday night, enabling the Phils to nip the Reds 2-1 behind the six-hit pitching of Rick Wise.

Doyle's blow was the only hit off the Cincinnati right-hander in his seven innings of work.

Orlando Cepeda broke a 3-all tie with a two-run homer in the fifth inning and Felix Millan doubled home three runs in the ninth as the Braves trounced the Expos. Ron Fairly and Gary Sutherland homered for Montreal.

Peninsula Nips Kinston In 12th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The top rivals in the Carolina League standings battled each other for 12 innings last night, with league-leading Peninsula coming up the winner 5-3 over Kinston.

Peninsula scored twice in the 12th, once on a bizarre play. With the bases loaded and nobody out, George Hodge lofted a fly to shallow centerfield. The infield fly rule was invoked, but centerfielder Nordhagen dropped the ball and Stirling Howard sped home from third.

Howard was safe when the Kinston catcher, thinking he had a force play at the plate, failed to make the tag. Rich Giallella later scored on an infield grounder.

In other Carolina League games, Salem beat Lynchburg 7-3, Winston-Salem defeated Rocky Mount 9-3 and Raleigh-Durham beat Burlington 4-2.

Salem rallied for four runs in the fourth inning, and that was all that was necessary to take the victory.

Dwight Evans and Flash Cooper slammed back-to-back home runs to power Winston-Salem in a seven-run seventh inning that tied up their victory over Rocky Mount.

Burlington relief pitcher Kim Hillstrom balked home what proved to be the winning run in the top of the eighth.

First baseman Larry Dixon hit a two-run homer for the Senators in the seventh for the home team's only scores.

Domingo Appellaniz led off the Raleigh-Durham eighth on Pete MacKanin's error at second. Phil Bushman bumped a single to center, sending Appellaniz to third. Hillstrom then balked, which sent Appellaniz home with the tie-breaking run.

Tonight's games: Raleigh-Durham at Salem, Lynchburg at Rocky Mount, Winston-Salem at Peninsula, and Kinston at Burlington.

NFL Owners Open Meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League owners began meeting here Tuesday in Operation Clean-up, seeking to finish the work left over from their earlier meetings this spring.

One of the items scheduled to be discussed was negotiations with the players. Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys, head of the owners' negotiating committee, was scheduled to report on the status of negotiations.

Talks between the owners and the players have been stalled since the Players' Association filed an unfair labor practices grievance against the owners with the National Labor Relations Board.

The owners also are scheduled to wrestle with a revised procedure for breaking ties to determine post-season playoff spots and consider possible rules changes involving penalties on plays where there is a change of possession.

In considering the breaking of ties for playoff spots the owners will be looking for additional competitive factors to break such ties in order to make the coin flip procedure as remote as possible.

The rules change being considered involves a change of possession in which each team commits a foul after the ball has changed hands but while the play still is being concluded.

Under current rules, the play is nullified with the penalties offsetting each other. There is a strong feeling that if the change of possession precedes the penalties the team getting the ball should be allowed to keep it.

Unitas Expected For Colt Camp

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — As of today, the No. 1 quarterback for the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts still is Johnny Unitas—limp and all. But when he will be able to play is the unanswered question.

"We're expecting him back, but I don't know if he'll be ready by the time training camp opens July 11," said Coach Don McCafferty. "I doubt that he'll be back for the College All Star game (July 30)."

"I don't know the timetable. He got rid of the cast and crutches last week and he's limping around now. You can guess Nov. 1 or you might be right saying Sept. 1. I just don't know."

However, McCafferty is preparing for the possibility that age and injury might mean the Colts will be forced to do without Unitas for one of the few times in the past 16 years. At age 38 with a torn Achilles tendon, Unitas might be through.

"John's age and the time that he injured the foot will be his toughest problem," said Coach Web Ewbank of the New York Jets, who coached Unitas at Baltimore. "He might have trouble setting up and then pushing off to pass."

"The worst thing that can happen would be that Unitas can't come back and Sam Havrilak and Karl Douglas don't pan out," McCafferty said. "Then we would only have Earl Morrall. Then we'd be looking for another quarterback. But right now, we're not looking."

Unitas, who holds numerous National Football League passing records as perhaps the greatest quarterback in history, tore the tendon in late March giving him less than four months to recover.

It took six weeks to get the cast off and now he is undergoing therapy.

Local Swimmers Place In Meet

RALEIGH — Several Greenville swimmers were among those competing in the North Carolina AAU Junior Olympics held in Raleigh at North Carolina State University over the weekend.

Among them were Barbara and Ellen Bond, Suzanne Martinez, Cathy Collie, Kevin, John and Ann Richards, and Don, Susan, Lynn and Michael Tucker.

Big Ten Begins Hunt For Leader

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
IOWA CITY, (AP) — A Big Ten search committee started hunting Tuesday for "the best available man in the country" as successor to conference Commissioner William R. (Bill) Reed, who died last week at 55.

The league faculty representatives, opening a regular spring session with athletic directors Monday, named a five-man search committee and simultaneously appointed as interim commissioner, John Dewey, Reed's assistant the past decade.

Dewey, primarily the Big Ten's sleuth against financial aid violations, immediately requested to be eliminated as a candidate for the permanent commissioner's job.

The conference athletic leaders, although reluctant to show disrespectful haste in replacing Reed, designated a screening committee of three faculty representatives and two athletic directors, stressing that there was no immediate deadline for picking a new commissioner.

Marcus Plante of Michigan, faculty spokesman, said the committee would consult the directors for a qualified nominee who then would be recommended to the Council of Ten school presidents for final consideration.

"The ultimate choice is not restricted to anybody in the Big Ten," said Plante.

"We will try to get the best man available in the country. There is no time limit placed on the selection."

Plante conceded the choice could be made before the conference's no-agenda summer meeting at Petoskey, Mich., Aug. 9-12.

Athletes Train In Thinner Air

By GEOFFREY MILLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
LONDON (AP) — If athletes used to low altitudes perform poorly at high elevations, it figures those trained at a high level will do better at lower heights, right?

That's what Great Britain thinks, anyway. So the British Olympic Association is trying to raise $36,000 to send 140 athletes to St. Moritz for three weeks' training in the Swiss Alps for the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich.

A number of other nations—Russia, East Germany, Italy, Belgium and The Netherlands—have the same idea.

But some British track and field officials oppose the plan, as do a pair of Britain's marathon medalist hopes, Ron Hill and Don Faircloth.

The plan is designed to avert a repeat of the 1968 Mexico City Olympic Games where performances were generally below-par in the 7,800-foot-high city.

The athletes—swimmers, boxers, wrestlers and others as well as runners—would train about 6,000 feet above sea level, then head for the games about a week later in 1,700-foot-high Munich.

A number of British administrators feel their athletes should have a chance to undergo the same kind of preparation as those of other countries. But Sandy Duncan, British delegate to the International Olympic Committee, is against it and some officials have asked the IOC to ban the practice.

Dr. Raymond Owen, official doctor for the BOA, attended a symposium last year on altitude training and said tests showed that 3,000-meter runners working out for three weeks at high elevations ran on an average of 11 seconds faster than those trained at sea level.

Worry Clinic Dreams Offer Intriguing Field

Dreams are fascinating to psychologists. Do you dream in color or black and white? Are your dreams largely reproductions of existing situations? Or do you invent and create new scenes that have never taken place in real life? Unmarried girls often have a symbolic sex dream about being chased by savages who hurl spears at them.

By GEORGE W. Crane

Case Q-562: My father died in 1960, after having been a wheel chair stroke victim for two years previously.

My mother was holding his right hand while I held his left and was feeling his pulse as it slowed down to a halt.

Even then, I restarted his heart twice, but I knew it was futile.

For our medical code requires us to fight Death to the finish and never voluntarily relinquish a patient, regardless.

Last night I dreamed of my father and saw him striding up and down in the living room, alive and protesting about the last political election.

He looked fine and I realized in my dream that he had come back to life.

"This is a miracle of God," I thought, for in my dream I realized that he had been dead 11 years and was now reincarnated.

I recall feeling ineffable delight at finding him alive and well again.

But in my dream I kept wondering if the Almighty reactivated my dad's heart and previous physiological system.

"Or does God merely use some form of radiant energy to make us function after death?" I asked myself.

So, in my dream, I decided to see if my dad's heart was still beating.

Thus, I took him by the wrist and tried to find the radial artery, but felt no pulse.

Then I shifted my palpating finger and suddenly I felt my dad's heart beating.

It appears that South, the declarer at six hearts, must go down to defeat, inasmuch as he must lose a club trick and the heart queen is off-side. South overcame the adverse distribution by resorting to a trump reducing campaign that enabled him to lump his losers together.

West opened the three of spades, dummy followed with the deuce and East put up the ten to dislodge declarer's ace. An examination of the combined holdings revealed that the fate of the contract appeared to hinge on two finesses—one in clubs and the other in the trump suit. South tested the clubs first by leading a small one from his hand and covering West's ten with the queen. When this play succeeded the first ob-

Whitley Is Appointed

A. B. Whitley of Greenville was appointed this week as national chairman of the Specifications Committee of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America.

The announcement was made by Mr. Martin C. Devries, national president of the contractors. The duties of the Specifications Committee will be to work closely with architects across the nation in planning and drawing of painting and decorating specifications.

Whitley is President of A. B. Whitley, Inc. of Greenville. For the past two years he has served as President of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of North and South Carolina.

See Answer In Salt Mountains

BONN (UPI)—The possibility of making mountains of the 12,000 tons of salt dumped into the Rhine river daily by French potash mining companies and an almost equal amount by German firms is being studied by the International Commission to Protect the Rhine from Pollution.

Because it is economically not feasible to eliminate the salt any other way, the commission decided piling it up in huge hills may be the best solution, the German government told Parliament. The question has become serious because the Dutch downriver draw much of their drinking water from the Rhine.

RESCUED IN TOWER FALL

WENDELL, N.C. (AP) — A 21-year-old painter who suffered serious back injuries when his supporting apparatus broke and dumped him into an empty water tower was listed in satisfactory condition in a Raleigh hospital.

Burt Vernon of Madison lay helpless in a water tower for three hours Monday until an Air Force helicopter could be brought here from Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro.

When the aircraft arrived, a rescue team medic strapped Vernon in an orthopedic stretcher, and he was hoisted from the bottom of the tank through an 18-inch square opening in the top of the tank.

A Highway Patrol sergeant who was at the police station, near the tower, said when Vernon fell, "it sounded like the whole tank broke. It was echoing and echoing."

Racial Brawling Hit Travis AFB

By BRENDAN RILEY

Associated Press Writer

TRAVIS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — More than 600 servicemen brawled Monday night in fighting which a base spokesman said grew out of a racial incident in a mess hall.

It was a third day of racial disorders at this Northern California base, a major embarkation point for Southeast Asia.

A civilian fireman at the base died Monday night fighting a blaze which partially destroyed a barracks for transient officers. Another fireman was hospitalized with facial burns and a base spokesman said, at least five men were treated at the base hospital for injuries received in the fights but were not admitted.

At least 100 military personnel were detained by military police, the spokesman said.

The brawling men were dispersed by 11 p.m. after 300 military security police, plus 78 men from the Solano and Napa county sheriff's offices and four area police departments converged on them in a "large show of force." The spokesman said no shots were fired and no tear gas used.

The dead fireman was identified as James T. Marshberger, 47, of nearby Napa, employed at the base fire department.

The injured fireman's name was not released.

The base commander, Col.

John Blake, sealed off the base to all visitors and summoned off-duty military police. The base is 45 miles northeast of San Francisco.

An Air Force spokesman said a fight broke out in a mess hall during the evening meal, with blacks and whites throwing salt and pepper shakers and other tableware.

The number involved grew and the men began milling around an enlisted men's barracks area. It turned into an "all out melee" about 8 p.m., about the time the barracks fire broke out, the spokesman said.

Firemen at one point sprayed water from a high-pressure hose on a surging group of men near the flaming barracks.

The first incident was between groups of black and white servicemen, said base information officer Herb Prouty.

"I'm sure part of it is racial, but it's not all racial," he said.

A free-for-all had erupted Saturday afternoon in an air men's club. A half dozen minor injuries were reported in a series of fights which the spokesman said were racially oriented and which continued Sunday.

Monday had been quiet prior to the mess hall outbreak.

Military police patrolled the base in combat dress with loaded automatic weapons. Civilian police were summoned about 9 p.m. under a mutual aid pact with area law enforcement agencies.

Emerald Isle Suits Filed

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) —

The Town of Emerald Isle and three developers are the latest in a series of defendants in a continuing battle by the U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of North Carolina against alleged polluters of marshlands.

Suits were filed in U.S. District Court here against the mayor and council of Emerald Isle, and against developers William B. McLean, Louis Dow Benton of Ashe and M. C. Gore of Shallotte.

The complaint against McLean and Emerald Isle charged that until last week the town used McLean's land as a dumping point into the marshland. "It's just inconceivable that a town would be deliberately dumping where it was destroying navigable waters," said U.S. Attorney Warren H. Coolidge.

The suit against Benton charged that a causeway being built on marshlands near Calabash is destroying navigable waters, and the suit against Gore arose from construction of a dike at Sunset Waterway.

Reported On Convention

Mrs. Eula Andrews reported on the North Carolina Association of Senior Citizen Club's convention held in New Bern recently at the Greenville Senior Citizen's meeting here Thursday.

The theme of the convention was "May Fun Festival" and was attended by delegates from 30 cities in Districts I, II, and III.

William Gartman presented the club with $50 from the Jaycees.

Mrs. Harriett Rosevere, president, presided during the business session and the Rev. Adrian Brown gave the devotional.

A covered dish luncheon was served to the members and the following guests: Mayor Eugene West, Col. and Mrs. Harry Hagerty, Mr. and Mrs. Gartman, Mrs. Lloyd Tucker, Mrs. Adams and the Recreation Center personnel.

Lawyer Is Found Dead In His Car

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Robert L. Kurtz, 41, Charlotte lawyer and president-elect of the North Carolina B'nai B'rith Jewish service organization, was found dead in his automobile off a road in suburban Charlotte Monday.

Death was attributed to asphyxiation.

He was a native of Newberry, S.C.

Survivors include his widow and two children in Charlotte, and his mother, Mrs. Franke Graber, and a brother, Jack Kurtz, both of Charleston, S.C.

Award Grant For Free Rural Bus

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — The federal government has approved a $56,000 grant to establish a free bus system for poor people in rural areas of Union and Anson counties.

No longer will they have to take taxis costing up to $6 to get to town to buy groceries or see a doctor.

Four minibuses capable of carrying up to eight passengers will be in operation by midsummer.

A similar one-bus system has been in operation since last October in Onslow County in the eastern part of the state.

Judge Studies Possible Retrial Of Seale, Huggins

Referendum On School Bonds Is Proposed

RALEIGH (AP) — A $200 million bond issue for school construction in North Carolina would be submitted to voters in a statewide referendum under legislation introduced in the House and Senate Monday night.

The measure was sponsored in the Senate by Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, while Rep. Jim Beatty, D-Mecklenburg, and others offered it in the House.

Strickland said the legislation was requested by the North Carolina School Boards Association.

If approved by the voters, the money would be distributed to the local school units on a formula based on pupil population and growth.

"Indications are," said Strickland, "that this cost can be met by normal growth of the economy and will not necessitate additional taxes."

He added, "Every school district in this state faces increasing need for building facilities at a time when local funds are increasingly difficult to secure. Within the past year over 75 per cent of the local school bond issues have failed. The reasons for their failures are many and varied, including economic conditions, social unrest and dissatisfaction with federal court orders. Whatever the reasons, we cannot allow them to affect the education of our children."

Strickland said a survey by the state Department of Public Instruction shows there will be a need for 24,104 classrooms in North Carolina in the next decade. The classrooms will be needed to replace obsolete buildings, provide for increased enrollment, reduce overcrowding and implement a full kindergarten program.

Under the bill, the Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools would receive the largest amount, $15,282,893. Winston-Salem-Forsyth would get $8.7 million, Cumberland $5.9 million, Greensboro $5.8 million and Gaston $5.4 million.

If approved by the General Assembly, the referendum would be called by the governor presumably prior to the general election in November, 1972.

Placed First In Auditions

Mrs. Ann Schooley, a former graduate student in the School of Music at East Carolina University, has won first place honors in the professional division at the 18th annual Charleston Symphony auditions.

MRS. ANN SCHOOLEY

Mrs. Schooley, a soprano, was among 25 performers from West Virginia competing in the annual auditions. As the 1971 winner, she will make an appearance as soloist with the Charleston Symphony under the direction of Charles Schiff during the orchestra's 1972 season.

Recently, the singer received another honor. She was a recipient of the Ellen Battell Stoeckel Fellowship for performance at the 1971 Summer Session of the Yale University School in Norfolk, Connecticut. At ECU, Mrs. Schooley was a student of Miss Gladys White and appeared in Opera Theater and ECU Summer Theater productions.

By PETER COWEN
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A judge will weigh today a possible retrial for Black Panthers Bobby G. Seale and Ericka Huggins, whose six-month-long first trial ended with a deadlocked jury.

Superior Court Judge Harold M. Mulvey scheduled a meeting of all parties involved in the case. The defense was expected to request dismissal of the case or an early retrial and the release of the defendants on bond. The prosecution was said ready to ask for a retrial.

Mulvey dismissed a jury of five blacks and seven whites

Monday after it failed to reach a decision in the trial of Seale, 34, Panther national chairman, and Mrs. Huggins, 23, a local party leader. Both were accused of murder-conspiracy in the death of another Panther.

The jury obeyed Mulvey's instructions not to discuss the trial with newsmen after leaving court. He said their comments might jeopardize the chances of finding impartial jurors in the future.

The jury's failure to reach a verdict after 23 hours of deliberations during six days did not come as a complete surprise.

The jurors could be heard angrily talking among themselves just hours before they delivered a note to Mulvey.

The note said: "We still feel we are deadlocked on all nine charges. We feel it is in vain to continue any longer."

Shortly afterwards, Mulvey declared a mistrial and dismissed the panel.

Seale and Mrs. Huggins smiled as state police escorted them from the court where four months was spent assembling the jury.

Seale has been jailed for 14 months and Mrs. Huggins, two years. The Black Panther party issued a statement in Oakland, Calif., on behalf of Huey P. Newton, the organization's minister of defense and cofounder with Seale.

"The law's delay is no new thing to either the Black Panther party or to black and poor people in this country," the statement said. "Chairman Bobby and Ericka have been incarcerated now for nearly two years for a crime they neither committed nor for which they have been declared as guilty."

"We are neither surprised nor shocked," the Panthers said.

Seale and Mrs. Huggins face

two capital charges—kidnaping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder. In addition, they are charged with conspiracy to kidnap and to murder and Mrs. Huggins faces a charge of binding with criminal intent.

The prosecution claims Seale ordered the slaying of Panther Alex Rackley because he suspected him of being an informer. The defense blames the killing on George Sams Jr., who has pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the case. He was the only witness to testify that Seale gave the order to kill Rackley.

Two Graduate At Wingate College

WINGATE — Two Greenville students were among the Wingate College graduates who received their degrees during commencement exercises recently.

The local students are: William Cecil Bilbro, associate in arts, literary, (with honors). His parents reside at 1708 Forest Hills Dr.; Louis Woodson Gaylord III, associate in science, academic, (with honors). His parents reside at 203 Longmeadow Rd.

Rescue Squad Barbecue Sale On Saturday

The Greenville Rescue Squad is sponsoring a barbecue sale Saturday at the city's Central Fire Station from 10:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Cost of the plates is $1.25 each and tickets for the barbecue are now being sold by members of the Rescue Squad.

Plates may be picked up or eaten at the fire station.

Proceeds from the sale will be used for training rescue squad members.

Members of the squad attend the North Carolina Rescue College in Raleigh and the North Carolina Rescue Institute at Chapel Hill each year as well as other schools. Members of the squad also participate in competition between other squads on a state and international basis.

Funds from the barbecue sale will be used to finance the squad's participation in such training activities.

See Decline In Boat Accidents

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Boating accidents in the United States continue to decline, reports the U.S. Coast Guard.

Boating accidents in 1970 totalled 3,803. In 1969 the total was 4,067, while in 1966 the figure was 4,350.

However, fatal accidents were on the rise. There were 1,132 boating deaths in 1970 as compared to 1,058 in 1969.
