ALL-AMERICA ROSE SELECTIONS . . . for 1972 are both hybrid tea roses. "Apollo", shown at the top, is a soft yellow rose. "Portrait", a warm pink hybrid, is the first winner by an amateur rose breeder.

All-America Rose Selections

Two new hybrid tea roses, "Apollo" and "Portrait" have been declared the 1972 award winners in the All-American Rose selections.

"Apollo" is described by its introducers as "a hybrid tea rose of soft, sunrise yellow, delicately infused at the base with shadowy infiltrations of crimson, like the dawn of a misty morn. Farther out in the petals, the yellow strengthens and deepens, but always retains its soft tones throughout all stages of the bloom."

It is called a magnificant rose for cutting and show purposes, with the large open flowers attaining a diameter of five to six inches. "Apollo" is a cross between "High Time" and "Imperial Gold", made by Dr. David L. Armstrong.

The second award winner, "Portrait", hybridized by Carl Meyer, an amateur rose breeder, is the first rose produced by an amateur ever to win an All-American Rose Selection award.

"Portrait" is said to be "a warm, radiant pink hybrid tea with urn-shaped, deep pink buds, opening to a soft, almost creamy white bloom, edged with a delightful blush pink."

The new rose has over 50 petals and is touted as possessing a "rewarding 'sniff me' invitation." The bush is tall and strong. "Portrait" is the descendant of three All-American winners — "Charlotte Armstrong," "Peace" and "Pink Parfait."

Committee Overruled By House In Unusual Action

RALEIGH (AP) — In a rare action, the House has voted to overrule the decision of one of its committees.

This came Thursday when the House voted 83-21 to bring to the floor for debate two auto insurance measures that its insurance committee had killed by a 9-7 vote.

The bills, sponsored by Rep. John Ingram, D-Randolph, would forbid discriminating against youths in fixing rates for auto liability and collision insurance.

Ingram told the House that under present insurance rates youths with safe driving records have to pay more for liability and collision insurance than persons who have been convicted of drunken driving.

In other action, the House approved again and sent the Senate a bill to give retired servicemen a big break on their state income taxes. The bill would exempt for the tax the first $3,000 of a former serviceman's retirement pay. The bill is similar to one already passed by the Senate, but the Senate measure would not allow the exemption until the retiree had reached age 60.

The House debated briefly and then voted 50-49 to let this Judiciary 1 Committee work over a bill to crack down on drinking drivers. Rep. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, sponsored the measure that would make it illegal to drive a car with a blood alcohol content measuring between 0.05 and 0.10 per cent. This would not be sufficient to be charged with drunken driving.

The House approved without debate and sent the Senate a measure designed to ensure that sanitary and health facilities at mass gatherings such as rock festivals meet minimum standards. Promoters of such mass gatherings for profit would be required to get permits from health directors.

New legislation included a bill by Smith to amend the state constitution so as to permit six-man juries in civil cases.

Rep. C. Dempsey McDaniel, R-Forsyth, sponsored a measure that would give local school boards "absolute and final authority in the selection of textbooks."

The Senate gave tenative approval to a bill aimed at ending the conflict of interest among members of the Board of Water and Air Resources. The bill was held for a final Senate vote Monday night.

Sen. Zebulon Alley, D-Haywood, sponsored of the measure, said it was a watered-down version of what he wanted and what Gov. Bob Scott asked for in his environmental message.

But Alley said even the compromise bill would end the present domination of the board by representatives of pollution-prone industries and municipalities.

Plan Aid To Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said today he expects the House Ways and Means Committee he heads to develop a plan for massive aid to cities different from President Nixon's revenue sharing proposals.

While Mills said "it is much too early to tell what shape it might take," he is known to have discussed with several mayors, governors and Democratic party leaders possible components of what could be a $3.5-billion program.

The aid could be in the form of ordinary appropriations or conceivably drawing rights for the cities in a special fund set apart by the Treasury but in either case for a limited number of years. Congress would specify the general municipal purposes for which it could be used.

This method would meet several objections Mills has raised to the Nixon program: that it permanently relinquishes congressional control over part of the tax base and turns funds over to cities and states with no strings tied.

The aid would be directed to cities, not states—most of which stand to gain if legislation leagely federalizing the welfare program becomes law. Moreover, a factor of need, absent from the Nixon revenue sharing formula, would be worked into the distribution plan.

Union Rejected Contract Offer

TARBORO, N.C. (AP) — Union members have rejected a new contract offer of the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. by a better than two-to-one margin, a spokesman for the Communications Workers of America said today.

The spokesman, who preferred not to be identified, said the vote was 1,240 against accepting the offer and 502 in favor. Those voting work in the plant and traffic departments of the company, which has some 2,000 employes.

Aycock Junior High's Principal Resigning For Montgomery Post

John T. Jones, for the last three years principal of E. B. Aycock Junior High School, will resign his position with the Greenville City Schools effective June 30, 1971.

Jones is resigning to accept the post of Superintendent of Montgomery County (N.C.) public schools beginning July 1, 1971.

In making the announcement, Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, Superintendent of Greenville City Schools, expressed regret that Jones is resigning, along "with appreciation for a job well done here and congratulations on a well-deserved promotion."

Dr. Cleetwood said, "When we approached a new junior high school situation here in Greenville some years ago, we wanted the best available man to take the lead in making this the finest school in North Carolina.

"We were successful in that objective," Dr. Cleetwood remarked. "John Jones met the challenge and justified our confidence in him. Now that he moves to a higher level of responsibility which he so richly deserves, we recognize with gratitude the leadership he exercised over these crucial and developmental years."

When asked about a replacement, Dr. Cleetwood indicated that the Montgomery County Board of Education made its decision just yesterday and that plans for the recruitment and naming of a successor to Jones are incomplete.

"As before," Dr. Cleetwood commented, "the goal will be to obtain the best possible administrator to carry on the important work of this fine school."

Tar Heel Mission To Red China Gearing Up To Develop Markets

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina is wasting no time in taking advantage of the thaw in trade relations with mainland China.

Gov. Bob Scott announced Thursday that preparations are being made to mount a Tar Heel trade mission to China in hopes of developing extensive markets for North Carolina agricultural products.

Scott said Ronald E. McCowen, export coordinator for the N.C. Department of Conservation and Development, was en route to Ottawa Thursday to obtain visa applications from China's ambassador to Canada.

"A resumption of limited trade between our country and the People's Republic of China seems almost inevitable," Scott said, "and if this is to be the case, and national policy, we feel that North Carolina businessmen should benefit from this new policy."

North Carolina could gain much from sale of tobacco, soybeans and other agricultural products to mainland China. This market has been closed since 1950, after the outbreak of the Korean War.

Prior to the trade ban in 1950, China had been the second top importer of American tobacco, the major money crop of North Carolina agriculture.

"If trade relations are to be re-established, even if only on a limited basis, we want to be in on that early in order to give North Carolina manufacturers and processors the earliest and best advantage," Scott said.

Trade missions abroad are not new to North Carolina. More than 10 years ago then Gov. Luther H. Hodges led several trade missions to Europe that proved very beneficial to the Tar Heel economy.

North Carolina's efforts to promote trade with China were endorsed by state Republican Chairman Jim Holshouser, R-Watauga, who joined a delegation to Washington last month to seek inclusion of tobacco on the White House-approved list of commodities that could be traded with the Chinese.

Holshouser cautioned, however, that even if China agreed to import tobacco "it could take several years for the volume of exports to reach a level high enough to materially improve the lot of our North Carolina tobacco farmers."

In addition to tobacco and soybeans, the trade mission would also promote peanuts, textiles and furniture.

Tremors Shake Caribbean Isles

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP)—An earth tremor rippled across the north-central Caribbean today, rocking Puerto Rico and parts of the Dominican Republic.

There were no reports of victims or heavy losses.

Buildings shook in San Juan and other parts of Puerto Rico. A few buildings suffered cracks in the Dominican Republic, which shares the island of Hispaniola with Haiti.

Many office workers, who had just arrived at their jobs in San Juan, rushed out of the buildings.

"I was talking to a college professor when I saw this building move and I thought it would fall," said Rosa Villarini.

"The professor had to sit down because he got dizzy," she added.

Moisses Vazquez, director of the geophysical observatory at Cayey, estimated the tremor's strength at 6.5 or 7 on the Richter scale. A magnitude of 4.5 is considered potentially dangerous. The Los Angeles earthquake in February was 6 to 6.6.

The Puerto Rico Police Department's emergency telephone number was swamped with calls.

Mayaguez, the third largest city in Puerto Rico, seemed to have been the worst hit. Many tall buildings were evacuated and witnesses reported several of them had swayed considerably.

Dent Will Seek Chairmanship

RALEIGH (AP) — Former state Sen. Ted Dent of Buncombe County said today he will seek the chairmanship of the North Carolina Republican party at the state convention in Charlotte in November.

"In seeking this responsible position," Dent said in a prepared statement, "I would like to emphasize that I am not running against anyone but rather running for an opportunity to strengthen the Republican party.

Pakistani Army Said Inciting Wave Of Terror

CALCUTTA (AP) — The Pakistani army is inciting neighbor against neighbor in a new wave of terror sweeping East Pakistan, refugees escaping to India report.

Hindus are bearing the brunt of the wide-scale killing, burning and looting, but the troops are encouraging the local populace to do the dirty work for them, the refugees say.

Foreign relief workers who have interviewed hundreds of refugees in border areas are convinced the Pakistani government is determined to make East Pakistan exclusively Moslem.

According to official Indian figures, 5,441,683 refugees have fled from Pakistan since the civil war in March, and they are still coming at the rate of about 100,000 a day. A big new influx is anticipated as the army extends its area of control.

The Rev. John Hastings, a British relief worker who has spent 19 years in Bengal, reports the army's tactics everywhere follow a similar pattern: As the troops move into an area, the local people are called together and told to declare their loyalty—to President Mohammed Agha Yahya Khan or to Sheik Mujibur Rahman, jailed leader of the outlawed Awami League.

Although the Awami league got 73 per cent of the vote in East Pakistan in the general election last December, few will risk death by admitting to have supported it. The Bengalis then are ordered to weed out the "traitors" and are promised a share of the loot if they take the law into their own hands. The eight million Hindu Bengalis in East Pakistan are a natural target for the violence of Moslem mobs.

Hindu refugees tell of entire villages being burned, their daughters raped and kidnaped, and hundreds massacred.

Relief workers are told of troops decapitating their victims rather than shooting them in order to save ammunition and of children being used for bayonet practice.

One large group of Hindus escaping from the industrial city of Khulna was stopped by villagers on the way to India, surrounded and systematically butchered, the Rev. Mr. Hastings says.

From interviews with survivors, he estimates 400 died in the massacre.

Indian intelligence officers report the Pakistani army now has 100,000 troops—four divisions plus—in the eastern province.

Entertainer Don Ho Has Proud Parents

HONOLULU (AP) — Honey Ho says she never really thought her son would get to the "cold places"—the way she thinks of the mainland—but now when he's there she follows happily, recipes in hand.

"That boy just loves Hawaiian food," she says. "That boy" is entertainer Don Ho, 40, who began his career in Honey's Bar 10 years ago, rose to popularity in Waikiki and now makes frequent tours of the mainland. In addition to his own TV specials, he also has appeared on the Dean Martin Show, Andy Williams Show, Laugh-In and the Glen Campbell Show.

"Nearly every time that Don has been on the mainland for a long engagement, a month or longer, he sends for his dad and me a couple of weeks before he's due to come home," she says. She adds that Don tires quickly of restaurant food so she goes prepared to turn out home-cooked meals.

Honey, now 58, and her husband, Jim, started their little country bar in Kaneohe, on the far side of Oahu from Waikiki, in 1939. It was one of three bars in the small town then and was surrounded by taro patches and banana groves.

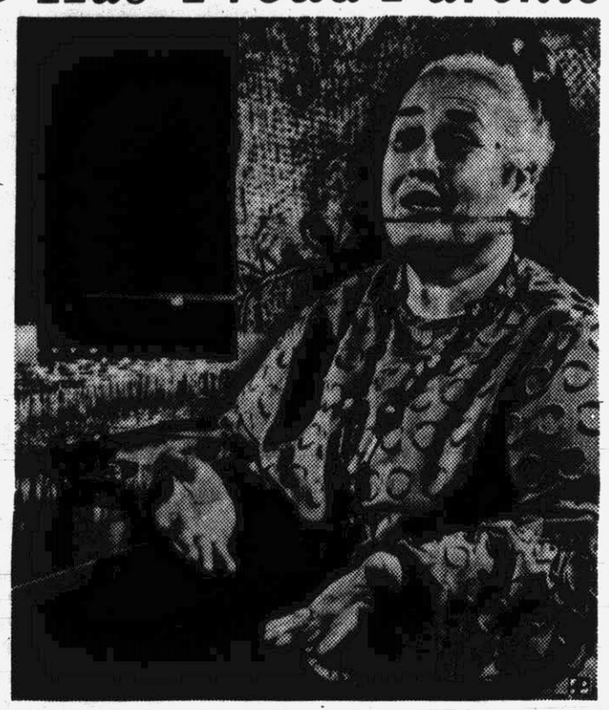

"Then when the war started, the other two bars lost their licenses because they were owned by aliens (Japanese)," Mrs. Ho said.

She recalled how the soldiers bivouacked around the lone bar and stood in line "over a half-mile long" to get into Honey's for a beer. "We only got 20 cases a day as our ration, and the place only held about 50 people," she said.

"I used to do most of the cooking—all Hawaiian food, home style," she added. "The soldiers from the mainland loved fried aku (fish) with cabbage and shoyu (soy sauce). They used to ask me up to the station on Fridays when they had fish to cook dinner for them."

Mrs. Ho recalls proudly that Don was captain of Kamehameha High School's football, baseball and basketball teams before he graduated in 1949.

"He really learned to sing at Kam, too," she said. "He used to fool around with piano and guitar and some ukulele at home, and we always sang a lot, but the real training came from school. Of course, he used to hear the jukebox at Honey's a lot too."

HONEY'S PRIDE — Honey Ho, 58, talks proudly of her son, island entertainer Don Ho, who began his singing career in 1961 in his parents' little bar named Honey's. "He had a better voice then," Mrs. Ho says, "you know, younger, sweeter, not so grown up."

Doctor Says Its A Lethal Weed

PARIS (WNS) — Dr. Andre Dufour has called up on the National Academy of Medicine to help women fight the battle against tobacco. During the past five years the percentage of Frenchwomen who smoke in Paris has risen from 34 to 50. Dr. Dufour claims that 20 per cent of spontanious abortions are now the result of tobacco. "Cancers and lung deseases among women have doubled," declaired the Frenchman. "Sixteen to 20 per cent of non-smoking people are allergic to tobacco smoke and risk serious troubles by inhaling it in public places. Dr. Dufour wants tobacco forbidden to pregnant women and new mothers, an end to cigarette advertising, and prohibition of smoking in public places.

She's Not An Old Maid At Age Of 13

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about my sister. She is 13 years old and she hasn't had one date yet. She's no beauty, but she's not a mess either. She's tried the most exotic perfumes and she dresses in the latest styles, but it hasn't helped her. I am thinking of asking some of the boys at school to please date my sister to get her started to lift her spirits. I would even be glad to give the guy five bucks.

What do you think of this approach?

HER 15-YEAR-OLD BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER: A 13-year-old girl who hasn't had one date yet is hardly an "old maid." Don't offer to pay a guy to date your sister or he'll wonder what's wrong with her. If she hasn't had a date by the time she's 16, you might arrange a "blind date" for her. But don't ask anyone who knows her to take her out at 13. [It's unlucky!]

DEAR ABBY: This is not a letter seeking advice, it is a statement of horror at the vulnerability of the female species. After reading a best seller which instructs women on how to be "sensuous," I have concluded that I am certainly not sensuous, nor do I want to be!

If a man has to take a woman for a "trial run" as if she were an automobile, I'll probably be called back to the factory due to a leaky fuel pump. And according to the author's more descriptive passages, I'd say she is well on her way to her 50th six-thousand-mile check-up. I hope her muffler falls off!

It gives me a pain in the pocketbook to realize that I spent $1.25 for that book. Sign me.

SENSIBLE, NOT SENSUOUS

DEAR SENSIBLE: You're beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, we agreed that we would have no children. We were both in our early twenties at the time. He came from a poor family and struggled thru college and medical school on scholarships. I came from a broken home and wanted to be certain our marriage would work before bringing children into the world.

My husband is now a physician and I am teaching, and we could easily support a family, but my husband doesn't want children. He feels that they would tie us down.

He is a devoted husband and I'm sure he'd make a fine father. We are good friends as well as lovers and enjoy traveling and a sense of freedom only childless couples know.

When I mention children, he says he is happy without them. I have considered getting pregnant and then facing the issue. Should I honor his wishes and my promise, or become pregnant and hope that he will be as happy as I, once the baby comes? I am 31 and time is running out.

SOMETHING MISSING

DEAR SOMETHING: Don't trick him into fatherhood. He may never forgive you—or the child. If you can't persuade him that children would enrich your lives, better to content yourself with "something missing" than to betray him with "something added."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LUCKY" IN OMAHA: Thanks for letting me know that all is well. Sometimes a good scare can do more for a girl than 10 lectures.

Soft Drink Tax Debate Stirs Parliamentary Fight

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — A parliamentary battle between supporters of soft drink tax repeal and the chairman of the House Finance committee has left the repeal issue all but dead for this General Assembly session.

Repeal supporters played their last card Thursday in an attempt to bring the issue up for an immediate vote, but the maneuver failed by two votes.

The three-day battle over repeal of the one-cent crown tax ended in a personal contest between the main repeal supporter — Rep. Sneed High, D-Cumberland — and the committee chairman — Rep. Dwight Quinn, D-Cabarrus.

Quinn overruled a motion by High calling for a reconsideration of a vote by which action in the bill was delayed until June 24. Then High appealed the chairman's decision to the full committee. Quinn said it would take a two-thirds vote to overrule him.

Opponents of tax repeal, led by Rep. Perry Martin, D-Northampton, declared the motion was a challenge to Quinn's integrity and a threat to the committee system. Repeal supporters demanded fair play and said Quinn had used two days of heavy-handed maneuvers to stifle a vote on the issue.

The committee voted 31 to 18 to overrule Quinn, but Quinn said it would have taken 33 votes to overrule him.

The action which High wanted reconsidered was a disputed 24-23 vote taken on Tuesday delaying action on the bill until June 24 — after the budget is put in final form. The delay is considered certain to kill the bill.

Wednesday, repeal supporters were all ready to attempt a call for reconsideration of the delaying vote, but Quinn abruptly cancelled the meeting and declared that it would be too late to reconsider the vote Thursday. House rules say reconsideration must come on the "next legislative day."

High appealed Thursday for "fair procedural play" and said Secretary of State Thad Eure had agreed that the next day meant the next possible time the vote could be reconsidered, or the next meeting of the group.

But Quinn said Eure was not a committee member and he overruled High. High challenged the chairman.

Martin opposed the challenge, saying it would be "an insult to the integrity and dignity" of Quinn.

Martin said the bottling industry had been demanding too much special consideration from the committee and the legislature and was "trying to put this committee in an embarrassing situation."

He looked out at the industry lobbyists lining the room and declared, "You have had more consideration than any group in North Carolina as concerns a major tax bill."

But Rep. William R. Roberson, D-Beaufort, a bottler, said Martin's remarks were "uncalled for." He asked the committee to either pass or kill the bill because "holding it until the 24th is just slow death."

Rep. Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell, said in his three terms in the legislature, "I've never seen anything handled like this was handled." He said the meeting was called off Wednesday on the pretense that the only bill on the scheduled needed technical amendments, when it was "perfectly plain to me" that there were no such amendments.

High told the committee he was not making a personal attack on Quinn and said he had appealed decisions by some of the finest judges in North Carolina's courts without impugning their integrity.

Small Wonder The Voice Is Familiar In The Commercials

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — That voice announcing the commercial—isn't that Henry Fonda? No, it couldn't be. Why would Henry Fonda announce a commercial?

For television viewers who have had such a reaction upon hearing that familiar voice, the answer is yes, that was Henry Fonda plugging a headache remedy.

Why should Fonda and other famous actors lend their voices to the selling of pills, savings banks and automobiles? The answer is simple: money.

Says Charlest Stern, whose agency books well-known actors for commercials: "The pay is good and the work is easy. One of my most successful clients is Barry Sullivan, who has been the voice for Continental Airlines, Pabst beer, carnation and other sponsors.

"The commercials can bring Barry upwards of $125,000 a year for 10 to 15 days' work. That's a pretty nice financial base on which to add the rest of his annual income from acting."

The use of famous "voice-overs" for television and radio commercials—with the star not pictured or the voice identified—has become more and more prevalent with advertisers seeking to attract notice to their meassages. Says Farlan Myers, vice president and Hollywood office manager for the nation's biggest ad agency, J. Walter Thompson:

"There is a provocative quality about using a voice that is familiar to the public; it has the same kind of shock value of when important stars play cameo roles in movies without being billed. People are inclined to listen more carefully and are pleased to be able to say: 'That's Howard Duff.'

"Some advertising people think that the use of familiar voices is destructive, that the public listens to the voice but doesn't hear the message. But the majority feel the device grabs the listeners' attention."

No one is more pleased with the trend than actors.

Says Duff: "I did one for Mastercharge, and I'd love to do more. It took me back to the days when I was playing 'Sam Spade' on radio; you come to the studio, read your lines and get paid royally. It's almost like stealing money."

Richard Boone was sought for the voice of Simba, a new soft drink. The advertiser flew the actor here from his Hawaii home. His pay for one day's work was reported at $75,000.

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (AP) — M. Sgt. William Higdon, convicted of stealing funds and collecting kickbacks while running Army clubs in Vietnam, has been spared a prison sentence by a military jury.

The jury instead sentenced the 41-year-old East Point, Ga., career soldier Thursday to a dishonorable discharge, forfeiture of all pay and allowances and levied a $25,000 fine.

He could have been sentenced to eight years in prison.

"I've been a soldier over 24 years," said Higdon after the sentencing. "And until after the appeal process, I am still a soldier."

His conviction will be automatically appealed through military channels, a process that could take as long as 16 months.

The Army said he would remain on duty until the appeal is completed.

The jury of five young officers, four of them Vietnam veterans, deliberated the sentence for four hours.

The jury had returned its guilty verdict earlier in the day after eight hours of deliberations which began Wednesday.

Higdon, who figured in a congressional investigation into fraud and corruption in Army clubs, did not take the stand during his month-long court-martial.

He briefly took the stand during the sentencing phase to answer questions from defense lawyer Edward Hopper.

The sergeant said he did not testify because of his involvement in a federal conspiracy case in which he and seven others will stand trial this fall.

Higdon, former sergeant major of the Army William Wooldridge and several civilians have been indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles on charges of conspiring to defraud Army clubs through Maredem Ltd.

Witnesses testified at Higdon's trial that the sergeant was a Maredem partner. The Army charged that Higdon used the alias of Georg Schell to funnel theft and kickback money into the bank account of Maredum as well as his own coded Swiss bank account.

The activities of Maredem, which sold goods to Army clubs in Southeast Asia, were examined by a Senate subcommittee during its investigation of the club systems.

Higdon and Wooldridge both testified before the panel in the fall of 1969.

Higdon is the only soldier to be tried by the Army on charges stemming from the investigation.

The military jury convicted Higdon of stealing $7,200 in cigarette promotion funds and taking $723 in kickback. He was not convicted of two other alleged kickback offenses. The government charged that he took more than $25,000 in kickback while running clubs for noncommissioned officers and enlisted men at Long Binh in 1968.

The Army alleged that Higdon demanded kickback in exchange for awarding a civilian firm a refrigeration maintenance contract with the Long Binh clubs.

Amend,Approve Change In N.C. Residency Rule

RALEIGH (AP) — A House committee amended and then approved a Republican bill today that would cut North Carolina's residency requirements for local elections to six months.

The House Committee on Constitutional Amendments voted to give the bill by Rep. Charles Taylor, R-Transylvania, a favorable report after extending the residency period from 90 days to six months.

Voting regulations now require a person to live in North Carolina for one year before he can cast a ballot in local or state elections.

The amendment to Taylor's bill was offered by Rep. Robert Jones, D-Rutherford.

Over 200 North Pitt Seniors Received Diplomas Last Night

About 210 North Pitt High School seniors received their diplomas at graduation exercises at the school last night.

The commencement program marked the close of the first year of operation for the consolidated school — the first of four new high school facilities to open in the county.

A capacity crowd packed the school gymnasium to see the members of the class of 1971, dressed in blue caps and gowns, participate in their final high school activity, and to listen to student speakers who conducted the program.

Honor students taking part in the service included Deanie Harris and Mildred Sneed, Student Government Association co-presidents; Lenny Heath, Willie Andrews, Avis Purvis, Elaine Dewar, Wilda Whitehurst and Jerelene Weldon.

Presentation of diplomas to the students was made by principal Walter Latham and assistant principals Ernest McNair and Farmey Moore.

A diploma was awarded posthumously to Bobbie E. Williams by Latham.

Williams of Route 4, Greenville, was drowned while swimming in a pond Monday.

A member of his family accepted the diploma.

Among North Pitt graduates receiving scholarships to further their education were Deanie Harris, Lenny Heath and Cherry Fleming.

Miss Harris, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Harris Jr. of Pactolus, has been awarded scholarships totaling about $3,000 per year at Wake Forest University, while Heath, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L.S. Heath, of Bethel received a $1,000 National Merit scholarship, a $250 Westinghouse Science Award and a $225 tuition scholarship from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Miss Fleming, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burney M. Fleming of Stokes, has been granted a $500 National Defense Loan, a $500 work-study grant and a $500 university grant at North Carolian State University at Raleigh.

School Of Music Offers Summer String Program

Children who have studied the violin, viola or cello, or who wish to begin these instruments, may take lessons during the last two weeks of June in a special summer string program offered by the East Carolina University School of Music.

The program, which runs June 14-25, is part of the School of Music's Pilot String Project and Youth Orchestra activities, directed by ECU faculty member Rodney Schmidt.

Students already enrolled in the Project and beginners in grades one through nine are eligible to participate in the program for a nominal tuition fee.

Parents who are interested in enrolling their children should telephone the ECU School of Music office or Rodney Schmidt immediately.

Rule Nightclub ABC Suspension Was 'Proper'

RALEIGH (AP) — Although the decision may have been rendered moot because the nightclub burned down about two weeks ago, the State Supreme Court ruled Thursday that the suspension of the alcoholic beverage license at Charlotte's C'est Bon Club was proper

The license had been suspended by the State ABC Board on grounds that the club had served whisky to one of its employes, had permitted drunks to loiter on its premises and had failed to maintain proper supervision.

In the high court's opinion, Justice Dan K. Moore rejected contentions of the club operators that the ABC Board had "acted arbitrarily or capriciously."

Moore wrote that there was "no evidence of fraud, manifest abuse of discretion or conduct in excess of lawful authority."

Remove Tablets In CD Supplies

COLUMBIA (AP)—All phenobarbital tablets have been removed from medical supplies in Civil Defense shelters in South Carolina.

Director Fred Craft of the state's Civil Defense system said national CD headquarters ordered the removal because of thefts from stocks of 600 million tablets in shelters around the country.

Craft said during the past five years there have been occasional thefts from stocks in this state. He estimated as many as 100,000 tablets may have been taken from a stock of approximately six million.

"It has been a problem," he said. "Mostly, high school kids were taking them. In many cases, we recovered stolen tablets."

Little Reason To Oppose Plan

After a long and torturous route the bill to establish a one year medical program is at least on its way in the Legislature.

The Bill provides for an appropriation of $1,802,816 to finance the operation of a one year medical program at ECU for the next two years.

There should be little reason for anyone to oppose this program. ECU has followed all the proceedures it knows to follow and the program has the endorsement of the governor, the State Board of Higher Education and the transfer arrangements have been declared feasible by representatives of Chapel Hill Medical School and those from ECU.

The plan will start medical students off in the east, send them to Chapel Hill for second and third year training and then return them to eastern hospitals for the final year. Hopefully it will mean that many of the young men and women who enter this program will return to the east to practice.

It is expected that the appropriations for the program will be made available in the state's tight budget.

East Carolina did not get the two year program it wanted. However, this program can serve as a beginning, it can be done at minimum cost and it will mesh well with the state's medical education program now being carried on at Chapel Hill. The program can also be a basis for new cooperation between institutions of higher learning in the state. There is no question that it should be approved.

3-Stage Plan By Strickland

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Restructure of higher education would be accomplished in three stages, with a voice for the people in the decision, under a plan offered by Senator Thomas E. Strickland of Wayne.

The heart of the plan is an amendment to the North Carolina Constitution, to place in the state's basic document the authority for a board to coordinate all higher education institutions.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Two purposes would be served by such an approach: (1) A Constitutional barrier would be erected against some of the legislative meddling which is acknowledged as a prime cause for present problems; and (2) The required referendum on a Constitutional amendment would assure public debate and participation in ultimate disposition of the issue.

"Putting it in the Constitution seems to me the only sensible way we can restructure higher education and make it stick," said Strickland.

He evolved his plan, set forth in several separate bills, while contemplating how the General Assembly might deal constructively with recommendations of Governor Bob Scott and his study commission on higher education structure and organization.

Issue Is Divisive

Division in the commission on proposals to promote efficiency and coordination in higher education has been reflected in the General Assembly. Despite consensus that something needs to be done in the area, there are wide differences in what to do and how to go about it.

The major point of contention, of course, is the recommendation of the commission majority that a single Board of Regents be set for all 16 institutions. This would replace the present Board of Higher Education and the Board of Trustees and administrative office of the Consolidated University of North Carolina. Strong opposition has been registered to the breaking up of the six campuses now constituting the consolidated university.

Senator Strickland would open the way to full implementation of the recommendations urged by Governor Scott and the commission majority, but by stages and with the opportunity for full thrashing out of the issue.

Here are elements of the Strickland plan:

Three-Phase Process

1. Legislation to immediately strengthen the present Board of Higher Education, giving it a firm hand to plan and coordinate programs at the 16 institutions.

2. The Constitutional amendment, to be submitted to the voters next November.

3. Implementation of the Governor's recommendations, effective Jan. 1, 1972, and contingent upon approval of the Constitutional amendment.

Step one would meet the argument that something needs to be done now to resolve confusion in higher education. It would carry out ideas developed by an appropriations subcommittee headed by Rep. Julian Fenner of Nash, before the study commission's report and Gov. Scott's recommendations were presented.

The second step would avoid the onus of precipitious action, allow time for both sides to argue their case to the public, and provide a firm foundation for a new structure in the event the amendment should be approved.

The third step would place on the books machinery for a new Board of Regents to take over the task of planning and directing the state's efforts in higher education. Should the amendment pass, from November to January would be allowed for orderly transition. If the amendment failed, the back-stop protection of step one would remain in force.

Many Ideas Pending

The Strickland plan is one in a welter of higher education proposals before the legislature. Whether it will please everyone, no one, or even a simple majority, remains to be seen. Its basic premise — amendment to the Constitution with the concomitant public vote — is being explored cautiously as a possible ground for compromise.

Best chances for the Strickland plan would come in the event of deadlock between those who want to immediately enact the Governor's recommendations, and those advocating postponement of the issue until 1973.

It's coincidence that Strickland holds the Senate seat filled in 1969 by Lindsay C. Warren, Jr., of Goldsboro, chairman of the Governor's higher education study commission. They're from the same town and hold each other in mutual respect, but they have not discussed the higher education issue.

Strickland's interest in higher education structure was sparked months ago when he attended a Southern Regional Education Board session at Hilton Head Island, S. C., on the subject. For a couple of days, he listened to experts explain what other states had done to meet problems of orderly growth and management.

Politics and regional interests will remain a part of decisions in higher education, he surmised. Their influence would best be moderated, he added, by the protection of a constitutional mandate.

Tobacco Men Face Big Selling Job In China

China was once one of the United States' prime customers for flue cured tobacco. It can be again.

Tobacco trade with China should be prompted, for this is a market which can consume a considerable part of our production.

Fear Runaway Budget Ahead

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The prospect of the Federal Budget running dangerously out of control, long viewed inside the Nixon administration as a potential catastrophe only for future years, is now becoming an imminent menace to the economy.

The truth, carefully shielded by high Administration officials, is that the bleak picture contained in President Nixon's budget message, Jan. 29, has grown steadily bleaker. In four months, the President's estimated $30.2 billion in deficit spending over two years has grown to an astounding $40-billion plus, according to independent Congressional staff experts.

This spreading glut of red ink comes at a time when top economic officials in the Administration privately admit that inflationary expectations have returned to the business world. Such expectations are a major cause of the unexpected and unwelcome rise in long-term interest rates, which bodes no good for full economic recovery. In the opinion of some Nixon economic advisers, the projected, eye-popping deficity could further fuel inflationary expectations.

Moreover, the long-range rendezvous with a national fiscal crisis has been hastened by the speed of the deficit's growth. Thus, the time is approaching when the annual growth regular and avoidable Federal spending will outstrip the extra revenue generated by economic growth.

This scenario of the Federal government losing control of the budgetary process aroused skepticism from Nixon policymakers when first enunciated in the fall of 1970 by Alan Greenspan, a private conservative economists close to the Nixon administration. But increasingly, economists in the White House, the Office of Management and Budget, and the Treasury are coming around to Greenspan's concept of the runaway budget.

Actually, nobody ever took fully seriously Mr. Nixon's forecast of a $11.6 billion deficit for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971, based as it was on unrealistically rosy predictions of prosperity. Private economists now agree that the probable size of that deficit is $23 billion.

The real stunner, however, is what has happened in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971. Originally forecast by the President as a surplus, it was trimmed back to an $18.6 billion deficit by the President in last January's budget message. That was considered realistic.

However, Congressional staff experts several weeks ago decided that higher spending and lower revenues would push that deficit to $20.3 billion.

In recent days, however, they have calculated an additional $600 million rise in spending and an additional drop in revenue of $1.9 billion — adding up to a deficit of $22.8 billion for fiscal 1971. The two-year deficit: $45.8 billion, a total never before experienced in two consecutive years at a time when the nation was not engaged in all-out war.

To economists, the steady creep of spending is far more disconcerting than the more pronounced drop in revenues. That creep, they believe, foretells year after year of double-figure deficits carrying some form of perpetual inflation.

A graphic example is the

TRUE HEROISM

They were seated at a table in a club dining room—a middle-aged man and a young woman in a wheel chair. We had a brief Hello session, then on to the elevator. Downstairs the young lady sat alone in her wheel chair. I asked if it was polio that had rendered her thus helpless. "No," she replied, "I was in the Algerian rebellion, my job being to carry ammunition. One day there was a mishap and I had both my legs blown off at the hips."

Now there is a tragedy for you If we don't stop complaining about this little thing and that they ought to send us either to jail or to the insane asylum. The young lady is now back in Algeria and is everywhere regarded as a national hero. Wherever she goes she has diplomatic status. If she leaves the country for a few days, she is attended as a queen might be. Everybody loves her. The kids are taught to revere her as someone of almost supernatural significance.

Now several observations: There are still people in the world willing to die for their convictions. Our young people today make plenty of mistakes, but we stand before them in amazement. The young Algerian girl who had her legs blown off is regarded with veneration—almost adoration. She must have moments of regret and loneliness, but it makes no difference. Her nation loves her and she loves her nation. Her affliction was a little something she could do for friends, neighbors and country she loves.

The world is full of goodness—never forget that.

Other Editors Say Don't Rush Change

(The Shelby Star)

THERE IS, in our opinion, no rhyme nor reason for the transfer of the State Highway Patrol to the office of the attorney general. We have no beef with Attorney General Morgan nor with his office or with whomever occupies it. That's not the point: The point is, what is the point of the transfer? All sorts of wild-eyed excuses have been offered, such as the highway patrol assisting the State Bureau of Investigation, but few reasons. There's more here than meets the eye.

It seems plausible to us that better reasons be given for change before change is made. The State Highway Patrol cannot be separated from the highway safety endeavors, and that would mean an additional transfer that is in direct contrast to the reorganization of state government that Gov. Scott has proposed. Similarly, it has to be questionable why a change in administration for the Highway Patrol should be proposed in a manner separate and apart from government reorganization.

A legislative committee is now studying state government reorganization. If a change in the proposed Department of Transportation and Highway Safety is called for, then the legislative discussion on reorganization is the place to do it. No end runs are necessary when the blocking is already set up for an off-tackle play.

But the question still plagues us as to why the transfer has been proposed, and, worse yet, why a committee of the legislature would approve such a bill without even consulting either the attorney general or the State Department of Motor Vehicles. No study has been given to the matter, quite apparently, even though committees are supposed to get to the bottom of all legislation. The action almost seems as if it is will-o;-the-wisp, form without substance. Without more basic reasoning the bill ought to be defeated. At best, it should be considered in some detail and not rushed through to a Wednesday vote as is now planned by the committee.

CERTAIN features of the bill are worth considering, however, in any event, even if the bill is defeated. One portion would assure state highway patrolmen of riot duty pay, which is good and proper in our times. Another would allow patrolmen to act in a civilian identity capacity, in concert with the SBI. Such a cooperative effort is possible, even though the Patrol itself is hard-pressed to have enough men on the highways at the right place at the right time.

Possible Bureaucratic Monster

By ELMER ROESSNER

Two years ago Congress gave President Nixon power to freeze wages and prices Since then, public opinion polls have indicated a majority of Americans favor a freeze. George Meany, AFL-CIO president, has favored a wage freeze if prices are also frozen. Business groups have declared in favor of a price freeze if wages were frozen. Congress is now extending the President's freezing power for two years.

Mr. Nixon remains firm in his refusal to act.

It is probable that his advisors have convinced him that inflation can be choked by other means.

Unspoken Reason

There may be another puissant reason.

A freeze would create an enormous bureaucracy, as was shown in World War II.

To control prices then, an Office of Price Administration was set up. It was vast and constantly becoming larger because there were so many things to control and each group of things had to have experts. There were experts on buttonhole making, on honey, on sheep, on steel and how long it took to catch a codfish.

ELMER ROESSNER

Some experts were academicians but most were recruited from the industry they were to oversee and were industry-minded and permissive. So there was a layer above them to review their decisions.

Other Troubles

It was also necessary to expand the bureaucracy to control wages. Many employers, needing manpower, insisted their work was essential. Others offered other advantages to lure men from other industries. It was during the war that fringe benefits became an accepted part of the American economy.

There were other ways of avoiding the wage freeze, such as upgrading men and arranging a certain amount of overtime. The latter led to numerous strikes after the war as workers sought to prevent reductions in take-home pay, demanding raises on regular pay to equal former overtime.

Despite price controls and wage controls, prices and wages rose steadily through the war, although less than they would have risen without controls.

And with wage and price controls, it became expedient to control credit controls. Many economists today say that credit controls now would be more effective in checking inflation than wage and price controls.

Controls today would require even more thousands of bureaucrats than during the war. There was considerable compliance then; people were supporting the war and the government. But today there is a large group that would resist controls, perhaps to the point of bombing control offices.

In addition, there are many more products to control today; many products were not made during World War II. And there are millions more employers and workers than there were then.

And, as Mr. Nixon knows, the cost of maintaining another army of bureaucrats would be enormous, requiring more taxes and-or deficits. And once controls are imposed, they intend to linger. New York City still maintains rent controls imposed during World War II.

And if it became feasible to end controls, there would be a new unemployment problem.

Few Surprises In Nixon List Of China Trade Items

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's list of U.S. exports that may be sold inside mainland China contains few surprises, but officials say it will be expanded if Peking becomes more receptive to trade.

"It's a fairly sizable and meaningful list," said one administration official who helped prepare it. "It's a step forward. I expect other items will be added to the list."

With a few differences, the export list Nixon announced Thursday closely parallels the allowable items for trade with the Soviet Union without specific government approval.

In line with his policy of establishing closer ties with Peking, Nixon broke a 21-year ban on trade with mainland China by disclosing a broad range of American-made products that can be shipped to the Communist country.

Included are automobiles, a large number of consumer goods such as stoves and refrigerators, some industrial machinery, and a large number of raw materials, such as textiles and rubber.

Left off were jet aircraft and diesel locomotives, items the United States considers might have military uses. Officials conceded there was considerable debate within the administration over whether they should be included.

U.S. industry, however, can still apply for specific licenses to ship these and other products left off the list to mainland China.

U.S. officials doubted the list would open up significant trade with China soon.

"We do not anticipate significant trade developments with either China or the Soviet Union in the immediate future," said Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon "looks upon these measures as a significant step to improved communications with a land of 800 million people after a 20-year freeze in our relations."

Nixon also lifted a ban on imports from China and dropped a requirement imposed by former President John F. Kennedy in 1963 that at least half of U.S. grain exports to Russia, Eastern Europe and China be carried in American ships.

The administration said the new shipping requirement could eventually help U.S. exporters get some of the estimated $300 million a year in wheat shipments the Soviets buy elsewhere. The requirement has put U.S. grain at a competitive disadvantage in such sales because American shipping costs more.

But AFL-CIO President George Meany denounced the action, saying it was a breach of faith and a repudiation of commitments he said were made to U.S. seamen by Kennedy and former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

In Congress, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., said Nixon's move in publishing the list of exports "will greatly enhance our ability to compete with other nations for a fair share of the world market."

But Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said he had "very great reservations as to the wisdom of liberalizing trade with Red China or any of the Communist nations which pose a threat to world peace."

Industry's first reaction was cautious.

"We've said right along that we are always interested in doing business with any country where it is not prohibited by the government," said a spokesman for Chrysler Corp. "But there are economic prohibitions to be faced." He cited customs duties and tariffs that may frustrate trade.

Officials in the tobacco industry reacted favorably. Tobacco was put on the general export list. John M. Berry, president of the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-op, said the "prospect of use of American burley is very favorable throughout the Orient."

The textile industry, already troubled with cheaper imports from Japan and other Asian countries, appeared unhappy.

"The American textile industry has a great deal more to lose than gain as the result of the trade liberalization with Red China," said Howard Richmond, chairman of the International Trade Committee of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute.

Nixon's list includes most farm, fish and forestry products, tobacco, fertilizers, coal, selected inorganic chemicals, rubber, textiles, some metals, agricultural, industrial and office equipment, household appliances, electrical products in general use, some electronic equipment, automotive equipment, and most consumer goods.

Some Hand-Made Pottery May Be Health Hazard To The User

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Department of Agriculture has warned Tar Heel consumers to check their hand-made pottery to make sure it is safe for use.

The department warned Thursday that it had found that use of some made-in-North Carolina pottery for containing food and beverage "may present a health hazard to the user."

The pottery it has checked was made in the Seagrove-Sanford area. "Pottery from these several firms has been found susceptible to lead or cadmium released in the presence of acidic foods" such as fruit juices, coffee, soft drinks or vinegar.

Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham said the firms were working with North Carolina State University to ensure that glazes and firing conditions used in the future will guarantee products presenting no public health hazard.

Graham emphasized "that all pottery items from these businesses are not considered hazardous."

Firms and susceptible products cited by the department were:

Pine State Pottery, Sanford — orange, medium to dark brown, and reddish-brown tumblers, orange bowls, orange and green bowls, green cups; M. L. Owen Pottery, Seagrove — all green items, grey sugar bowls, cream colored sugar bowls, medium-brown mugs; Ben Owen Pottery, Seagrove — all medium to dark brown items, orange and brown teacups; and J. B. Cole Pottery, Seagrove — bronze mugs, avocado sugar bowls; A. R. Cole Pottery, Sanford — all deep red and all orange items; Seagrove Pottery, Seagrove — green coffee mugs, greenish-brown coffee mugs; Joe Owen Pottery, Seagrove — green bean pots with lid.

Dr. William Cobb, state chemist, said the study of pottery had included around 400 samples. The study started in the Seagrove-Sanford area because the glazing methods employed there were in large part handed down for generations and were suspected of potential danger.

The trigger for the study apparently was recent discoveries of lead poisoning attributable to glazes on imported Mexican pottery.

Anyone who suspects he had purchased the potentially dangerous products should have them analyzed or refired under proper kiln conditions. If this is not possible, the safest procedure would be to use the pottery for decorative purposes only, or to destroy it.

Double Murder, Suicide Ruled In Three Deaths

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Police say the shooting deaths of a Jacksonville couple and a Camp Lejeune Marine warrant officer have been ruled double murder and suicide.

The victims were identified as W. C. "Buck" Amos, 27; his estranged wife, Faye, 26; and CWO-2 Paul E. Smith, 30.

Jacksonville detective C. D. Sisk said Amos, an IBM field engineer, shot his wife and Smith at her apartment Thursday. The Marine was found lying on his back in the street near his car with ignition key still in his hand. He had been shot seven times with .22 caliber pistol.

Mrs. Amos, police said, was found in the kitchen with a bullet wound in her head. She died minutes after arriving at Onslow Memorial Hospital.

Raise Interest On N.C. Funds

RALEIGH (AP) — The interest rate which the state charges banks for the privilege of keeping state money on deposit was raised by the Council of State Thursday from 4 3-8 per cent to 4 3-4 per cent.

The higher rate, based on the yield available on U.S. Treasury obligations, became effective today.

Administration's own long-range spending forecast for calendar year 1975. The guess made in January, 1970, was $206 billion. Just one year later, in January, 1971, the Administration raised that estimate exactly $10 billion to $216 billion, thanks to new legislation passed by Congress and a rise in interest rates on the national debt. By the time 1975 actually is here, the spending figure doubtless will be higher still.

To prevent this, the government and Congress can slow down the runaway budget by one of two courses: cut back sharply on spending or raise taxes. Since there seems little inclination to take either course, the safer prediction is simply continuation of a permanent inflation to the peril of the nation.

Herein lies Mr. Nixon's economic Catch-22. To stop the recession, he has set off on an expansive budgetary policy insuring large deficits. But those deficits, inflationary as they are, may help push up interest rates which slow down economic recovery. Thus, the Nixon men no longer are shrugging off all that red ink. They seem still to be trapped in that worst of all worlds — simultaneous inflation and recession.

"Shylock was satisfied with one pound of flesh. So how many do you want, Mr. Big Shot? Two pounds? Three pounds? Maybe a ton?"

"Bill, it's that bill collector here again—Harry Leech. Shall I pay him $5 on account? On account of that's all I found left in your pockets last night after you staggered home from that bar."

"As your wife, Harry Leech, I can tell you right now that if you don't get busy collecting more of those bills you are supposed to, there'll be an army of bill collectors pounding on our door and asking us to pay up."

"When you send your mother flowers on Mothers Day, Mr. Leech, how soon after do you show up with the bill?"

"If it's money you want, get a gun and go rob a bank. That's where they keep the stuff."

"So you're still after my husband? Well, look for a frumpy, dumpy middle-aged blonde with mascara leaking all over her face. That's the tramp in the next apartment that he ran off with."

"Before you stick your foot in that door, Harry Leech, get the hole in your shoe fixed—and the one in your head, too!"

Riot Charges

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The field secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference is facing riot charges stemming from vandalism of Wilmington stores.

Golden Frinks, 51, of Edenton, was arrested Thursday by Wilmington police on two charges of inciting to riot and two charges of engaging in rioting. Bond was set at $1,000.

Police said the vandals overturned tables, shelves and display racks, causing extensive damage.

The charges against Frinks grew out of damage at the Piece Goods Stores and J. M. Fields Department Store, police said.

Evangelist To Be Here

Dr. Hyman Appleman, known worldwide as a Christian evangelist, will conduct a series of special meetings at Grace Church here June 14-20.

Born in White Russia of Jewish parents, he went to Chicago when he was 13. Obliged to begin grade school all over, he finished in two years, graduated from high school, got his A.B. degree from Northwestern University and his L.L.B. and L.L.M. degrees from De Paul University. He practiced law in Chicago before his conversion to Christianity. His doctorate is honorary.

Having visited Russia and other "Iron Curtain" countries a number of times and having studied Communism intensively he is considered an authority on world affairs. The author of 42 books and numerous artilces and sermons in Christian periodicals, he preaches nearly every night and often several times a day.

The public is invited to hear this evangelist with such a wealth of experience and knowledge from which to draw his sermons, Grace Church pastor, the Rev. Chester Phillips.

Services begin at 7:30 each night. Special music will be led by Doug Randlett, and a nursery will be available.

Priests Ask Law Change

GREENSBORO (AP) — The North Carolina Priests' Association has called for an immediate change in laws of the Roman Catholic Church to allow priests to marry.

The association, which claims over half of the state's priests as members, overwhelmingly endorsed a statement on the priesthood prepared by the National Federation of Priests' Councils.

The state group met in Greensboro Tuesday and announced its action Thursday.

The announcement acknowledged clerical celibacy as a "previous tradition" of the church and said it must be preserved. However, the statement said the tradition's value would be enhanced by being freely chosen rather than being a requirement of the priesthood.

A former president of the association, the Rev. H. Charles Mulholland of Greenville, said the group acted because of recent negative responses to calls for change and church reform elsewhere in the country.

The association elected the Rev. J. Paul Byron of Jacksonville president and the Rev. Roderick O'Connor of Raleigh vice president.

Pandora's Box May Be Opened At Convention

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Southern Presbyterians go into a meeting this Sunday that could rip open a Pandora's box that is troubling many of the nation's major denomination—the rise within them of warring factions.

Emerging as a dissonant backlash to the general ecumenical movement for Christian unity, the polarization has hit harder in some church bodies than others, raising occasional threats of schism.

It particularly has buffeted the million-member Presbyterian Church U.S. (Southern) and the 2.8-million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, both comparatively conservative in doctrine and social stance.

Both are crackling with friction, and both are holding governing conventions this summer, the Presbyterians next week in Massanetta Springs, Va., and the Missouri Synod Lutherans July 9-16 in Milwaukee.

But the tensions, to varying degrees, also are current in other major Protestant denominations, we well as Roman Catholicism.

A "storm has broken upon the local churches, the denominations and the conciliar efforts of our time with quiet but devastating force," writes a noted Methodist minister, the Rev. Dr. Harold A. Bosley of New York.

He adds, in the Christian Century, that the churches have weathered worse storms before, but the present strife can seriously damage the Christian enterprise.

Generally, it pits advocates of innovation, renewal, Christian unity and social action in the world against defenders of traditional ways who criticize social action and want the emphasis on evangelism and personal salvation.

Opposing blocs have arisen within denominations to press the differing positions.

For Southern Presbyterians, their annual assembly comes against a backdrop of warnings, accusations and rebukes from both sides.

The Rev. Dr. William A. Benfield of Charleston, W.Va., the denomination's current moderator, says "pressure groups" within it are "tearing our Church apart."

"I have to compare what is taking place in our denomination with the activities of guerrilla groups in our nation today," he said on another occasion, adding that if the cleavage continues it will send the Church "down the drain."

Final Preparations Underway In White House For Wedding

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the bachelor dinner and bridal party out of the way, Tricia Nixon and Ed Cox step through final rehearsals today for their wedding Saturday, hopefully in the White House Rose Garden.

The weather remains a problem. The Weather Bureau called for partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 80s Saturday with the latest prospect for rain set at 30 per cent.

While the half-century-old Rose Garden was the center of attention today, a rehearsal also was set for inside the mansion, where the ceremony will be if it does rain.

Workmen were putting down a wood platform to be covered by a 90-foot white carpet down the center of the Rose Garden to the altar. The rest of the 390-foot route from the White House Blue Room will be carpeted in green.

The afternoon rehearsal is sandwiched between a luncheon for 100 hosted by Eddie's godfather, Hugh McKean, and the rehearsal dinner tonight for President and Mrs. Nixon, the entire wedding party, friends and relatives.

Eddie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Cox of New York, are hosts for the filet of beef dinner at historic Blair House across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

President Nixon got out of the way Thursday night and took a Potomac River dinner cruise with aides when Tricia entertained for her bridesmaids and Eddie attended a bachelor dinner at a private club. But first, they all gathered for a White House tour.

Tricia took the wedding party to the Executive Office Building next door to the White House to show them the wedding gifts on display in the famed Indian Treaty Room.

No one was giving out any information about the gifts, who sent them or what they were. Press Secretary Constance Stuart said it was a private matter.

After the tour, the bachelor party went its way and Tricia gave her 13 women guests, including her mother and Mrs. Cox, a buffet dinner followed by a movie in the White House theater. The film, made in 1956, was, "The Swan," starring Grace Kelly.

Cox was proving as privacy-prone as his fiance. He and his best man, brother Howard Cox Jr., got to the "F" Street Club bachelor dinner an hour and a half ahead of the scheduled time, beating all the reporters there, then afterwards slipped out, avoiding the press.

Delegation Head Named

LAKE JUNALUSKA, N.C. (AP) — The Western North Carolina United Methodist Conference has chosen a Negro to head its clerical delegation to the General Conference in Atlanta next year.

He is Dr. James C. Peters of Winston-Salem. By being chosen first, he will head the ministerial delegation, the first black in the history of the conference to do so.

The election of two women lay delegates also was a first. Traditionally, conference has elected only one, the president of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Twenty-four delegates are being elected. The first five chosen Thursday were Dr. Peters, the Rev. Jerry Murray of Statesville, Dr. Charles D. White of Gastonia, Mrs. Carl King and Mrs. Leslie Barhardt, both of Charlotte.

The conference, which has offices in Statesville and Charlotte, tabled until next year a decision on whether they should be consolidated, and if so, in what city.

Revises Law On Annulments

(AP) — Pope Paul VI announced changes today in the marriage annulment procedure to speed up the process.

One expert on canon law said the changes should reduce the waiting period for annulments to about seven months. Previously such cases could take three to seven years to settle.

The pontiff issued a seven-page apostolic letter revising the canon law pertaining to Catholic marriage. The changes are effective Oct. 1.

President Thieu 'Clearing Decks'

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu has fired seven members of his Cabinet, government sources reported today.

Thieu also was reported replacing several major military commanders, including at least two divisions commanders, the commander of the capital military district around Saigon and possibly a corps commander.

Observers viewed the shakeups as moves to "clear the decks" for the presidential election in October. Sources said the timing, just before Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker goes to Washington Sunday for consultations.

Women May Be Deacons

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP) — The General Synod of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church has declined to allow women to be ordained as ministers and elders.

However, it has paved the way for them to be ordained as deacons. It approved Thursday a new constitution which allows this if local churches rule they are eligible. The constitution, now goes to the synod's seven presbyteries for ratification.

Delegates rejected a proposal to allow ARP churches to merge with churches of other denominations in bodies with dual allegiance.

The synod responded to appeals that youth be given a greater role. It deleted a clause that would have permitted officials of local churches to set a minimum age for voting privileges for their members.

Dr. J.M. Lesesne, president emeritus of the denomination's Erskine College at Due West, S.C., who had been named moderator-elect Wednesday night, declined Thursday for health reasons. In his place, Charles Carlisle, vice president for finance at the college, was elected.

The annual meeting of the synod ended at noon today.

Revival Series Begins Monday

Revival services will begin at the Church of God of Prophecy, located on Mumford Road, Sunday.

The Rev. Calvin Russell of Washington will be the evangelist. Services will begin at 7:45 p.m.

The Rev. Vernon Morris, pastor of the church, said that the public is invited to attend.

A BOY THAT MISUNDERSTOOD

As a boy, I was always disturbed by this Biblical passage in Matthew: "For I have come to set a man against his father and a daughter against her mother . . . He who loves father and mother more than me is not worthy of me."

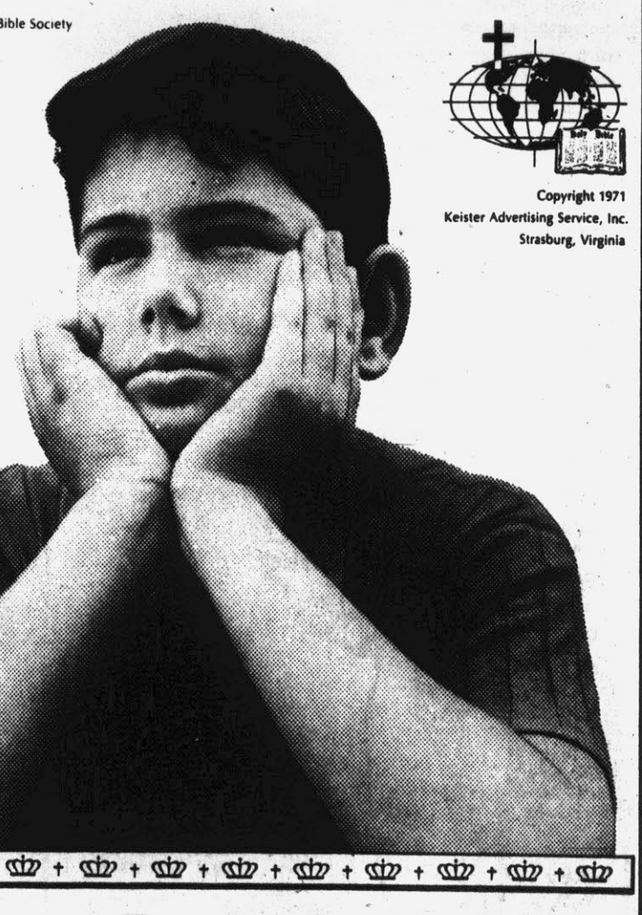

In those days of innocence, it seemed that my greatest love should go to Mother and Father. They gave me life, love and visible physical needs that seemed all-important.

But what I did not understand was that this life of mine came directly from God through my parents. I had tried to separate God's love from the love of Mother and Father. It was through Him that they received the great gift of human love. And because a mother has God's love implanted in her heart, she will instinctively love me. Matthew was emphasizing the fact that God's love must come first and that human love will then follow in its proper perspective.

Take your child with you to church and church school so that both may gain a better understanding of God's will. One who really loves God supremely will invariably develop a deeper love for family, friends and neighbors.

Tangsins Defy Reason; They Run Barefoot Over Fiery Coals

By FRANK N. HAWKINS JR.

TJIKARANG, Indonesia (AP) — Yo Eng Giok took the day off from his family grocery to bathe in boiling coconut oil or boiling sugar. But he and some 20 others called it off. They had had enough.

No wonder. Under a blazing West Java tropical sun, they had just run barefoot over a 15-foot long bed of burning coals hot enough to roast a full grown ox.

Then they had gone inside the Lim Tay Su Kong temple here to slice their tongues and burn their blood after smearing it on special prayer paper to honor the temple's patron spirit.

The men, all of Chinese origin, are known as tangsins, those believed in the Chinese communities to have special powers enabling them to offer themselves for these sorts of torture to pay homage to the gods and gain face for their temples.

For the Lim Tay Su Kong temple, such a hot affair comes seldom.

In this case it was the 90th anniversary of the founding of the temple, a one story building in a back alley of this small farming town southeast of Jakarta.

Running over hot coals and bathing in hot oil are standard activities for the tangsins whose titles come from a word in the Chinese Fukinese dialect derived from a Mandarin word meaning "half-god."

Most respectable Chinese temples in Indonesia and other parts of Southeast Asia have their own tangsins who, among other things, are believed to have the power to recall the souls of ancestors and bring them into their own bodies so they can speak with relatives. In addition, tangsins are widely regarded as having healing powers.

The tangsins, who are usually laborers, farmers or small merchants, occasionally have been criticized for using their talents in side show fashion to raise money, a deviation from their avowed purpose of pleasing the gods.

But at this ceremony no money was collected.

Some 1,000 persons, many of them Javanese Moslems from the town, crowded into the temple's broiling courtyard to watch.

Dressed in light blue pants, bright red cloth belts and simple white shirts, the tangsins, who came from many parts of West Java to take part, ran yelping over the red hot coals kicking up hot ash and sparks.

A steady rhythmic pounding of drums and cymbals came from the temple.

Excitement grew. Several tangsins went into apparent trances—a common feature of Indonesian dances and entertainment—and had to be restrained from dashing back onto the coals.

For Giok, 19, a grocer in Tjikarang, the event was special because it was his first appearance at his own temple as a tangsin and only his second time over the coals.

Why did he feel the need to punish and possibly hurt himself? "It comes from the heart. It's the will of the see who protects me," he replied after his dash through the smoldering charcoal. Another tangsin answered, "Just because I like it."

The bottoms of Yo's thick skinned feet were smudged but showed no sign of injury. One visitor speculated that the young man's feet were probably pretoughened by years of walking over the hot pavements of Java.

But this was not necessarily enough. One tangsin stumbled and fell into the glowing ash.

The stench of burned flesh followed him out as his friends carried him into the temple. The skin on his arms and legs was burned away in at least second degree and possibly third degree burns.

"He didn't have enough conviction," remarked a tangsin casually. "He was a newcomer."

Inside, before a dimly lit altar other tangsins attempted to sooth the young man's wounds and ward off evil spirits. Blood cut from their own tongues with knives and white wine from the Chinese mainland was spat onto the burns.

Finally, the young man was carried from the temple to his home.

One of the temple elders, a toothless old man dressed in pajamas, glanced over his shoulder at the dark one foot high figure seated in a chair at the top of the altar. This was the image of Lim Tay Su Kong, brought from the mainland city of Amoy nearly a century ago.

"There are too many evil spirits here today," the old man proclaimed.

The planned oil boiling was called off.

U.S. Quitting Weather Bases

OTTAWA (UPI) —The United States, as part of its plan to reduce its unfavorable balance of payments, has decided to withdraw from participation in five joint U.S.-Canadian weather stations in the Arctic islands.

The weather stations were established in the early 1940s by the two governments to monitor weather conditions in the Far North. One station, 500 miles from the North Pole, is the world's northernmost settlement.

Television Political Consultant Is Looking To 1972 Campaigning

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This is an off-year for political consultant Roger E. Ailes, whose thoughts are already dwelling on the television campaign of 1972.

Ailes, 30, who devised the highly successful "man in the arena" television appearances for President Nixon in 1968, thinks the scenario might go like this:

—"The Democrats will save every dime and go on television at every opportunity."

—"My own guess is that Nixon will not campaign very much but will be the President. I think he will resist campaigning as long as he can."

—"I think you will see a spontaneous limitation of the political commercial. The man who comes through on live television will win."

Ailes also believes that when the time comes he will be asked to resume full-time duties as Nixon's television consultant.

Ailes is one of the few masters of the imprecise science of guiding a candidate through the mysteries of the electronic campaign. He remains a part-time consultant to President Nixon for special projects and last fall worked with Republican candidates on several gubernatorial and senatorial campaigns.

Ailes returned to television production "to keep my sanity," but as a political consultant he "sort of hangs around and kicks the tires" now and then.

The use of political commercials kicked up quite a furor in 1970 and added new fuel to the argument that the imagemakers package and market candidates like soap. Ailes, who relies largely on live programming, said he looks for a reduction in the use of commercials.

"I prefer live television," said Ailes, who was executive producer of the "Mike Douglas Show" at 25. "It's more honest. It challenges you to do better. It makes the candidate better, too, and that's a plus."

A native of Warren, Ohio, Ailes went into television while a student at Ohio University and after graduation plunged in full time.

In 1967, Richard A. Nixon was a guest on the "Mike Douglas Show" and he and Ailes fell to discussing the impact of television on campaigns. Ailes said he told Nixon—who believed one reason for his defeat by John F. Kennedy for president in 1960 was the television debates—that a candidate had to learn to use the medium. When Nixon once again became a candidate, Ailes was asked to join the campaign as television consultant. He quit his $60,000-a-year job and signed aboard.

"People talk about the change in Nixon," Ailes said. "The big change was inside the man between 1962 and 1968. He asked himself where he had gone wrong with television and he knew he had to learn to master the medium."

One of the first things he did was devise "the man in the arena" concept, in which Nixon fielded questions live from the audience. The phrase is from a speech by Teddy Roosevelt, who said, "It's not the critic who counts, but the man in the arena, whose face is covered by dirt, sweat and blood ... "

Since the election, he has done special projects for Nixon, such as setting up the format for his conversations with television newsmen and arranging for the split screen showing both the Apollo 11 astronauts on the moon and Nixon talking to them.

DDT Remains Epidemic Curb

NEW YORK (UPI)—If DDT production were to stop, many large-scale epidemics would result, the World Health Organization (WHO) reports.

WHO said events in Ceylon illustrate this. By 1963 endemic malaria had virtually disappeared but when, for a variety of reasons, insecticide spraying with DDT came to a halt, there was a malaria flareup. During 1968-69 there were more than 2 million cases.

Varied Projects Keep Them Busy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Linda Swain, 17, of Modesto, Calif., heads a teen-age board that won Seventeen magazine's $1,500 grand prize for communitywide projects involving students from fourth grade through college.

Their activities ranged from an ecology poster contest to the establishment of recycling centers for glass and aluminum cans and culminated in a day-long ecology fair—the Carvinal of Life. At the carnival, teenagers in booths taught everything from how to cook natural foods to how to make ecology puppets.

Longevity Will Bring Problems

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI)—The average life span may soon be 96 years, according to a scientist at a conference at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions here. Dr. Donald G. Carpenter of the U.S. Air Force Academy says the longer life span may cause more generation gap problems.

Most Northern Manpower Base

INUVIK, Northwest Territoris (UPI)—This town of 5,600 on the Arctic Ocean has become the site of the most northern Canadian manpower center.

Many new residents have been attracted by a boom in oil and mineral exploration. The center was set up to place workers in the rapidly expanding economy.

Support Women As Bartenders

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The state senate has voted to repeal a post-Prohibition ban against women bartenders by permitting them to mix as well as serve drinks.

"If we let young ladies go around half-naked to serve drinks, then we should allow women fully clothed to tend bar," said the bill's author, Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson.

Montreal Hands Giants A Jolt

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

It took a while to charge Montreal's battery, but when Carl Morton and John Bateman got the current flowing the San Francisco Giants were in for another June jolt.

Morton's clutch pitching and a tie-breaking double by catcher Bateman sparked the Expos to a 3-1 victory over San Francisco Thursday night that pinned the National League West Division leaders with their eighth setback in nine games this month.

Montreal fell behind in the first inning the result of a wild pitch by Morton and a wild throw by Bateman—and then clawed back to complete a sweep of the three-game series against the tottering Giants.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh downed St. Louis 3-1; San Diego toppled the New York Mets 4-2; Philadelphia tripped Los Angeles 4-2 and Atlanta edged Houston 2-1.

The Expos came from behind in the fifth inning on singles by ex-Giant Ron Hunt and Rusty Staub, a sacrifice fly by Bob Bailey and Bateman's run-scoring double.

Morton, who had worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the third, stranded runners on second and third in the eighth and then delivered a Montreal insurance run with a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the inning.

He checked the Giants on seven hits to snap a personal three-game losing string for an over-all pitching mark of 5-8.

Steve Blass scattered seven hits and Bob Robertson crashed his 12th homer of the season as the Pirates spilled the Cards to move within one percentage point of first-place New York in the East Division.

It was the seventh loss in 10 games for St. Louis which dropped to third place in the topsy-turvy Eastern race.

San Diego's Clay Kirby fired a four-hitter and struck out 13—a club record—in throttling the Mets.

Ollie Brown and Nate Colbert backed Kirby with homers off Nolan Ryan. Ed Kranepool homered for the Mets.

Terry Harmon scored twice and knocked in another run as the Phillies prevented second-place Los Angeles from gaining ground on the Giants in the West.

Rick Wise limited the Dodgers to seven hits, including Willie Davis' first homer of the year.

Tom Kelley held Houston hitless until Cesar Cedeno beat out a seventh inning bunt, gave up another hit in the eighth and then got relief help from Cecil Upshaw after a walk and two singles spoiled his shutout bid in the ninth.

Hank Aaron tripled home one run and scored on Orlando Cepeda's single in the first to decide the duel between Kelley and Astros' ace Larry Dierker.

Porter Signing Going To Court

NEW YORK (AP) — The issue of whether Howard Porter will play basketball for the Pittsburgh Condors or Chicago Bulls has left the negotiating table and entered the courtroom.

The American Basketball Association Condors filed suit Thursday in U.S. District Court here, seeking an injunction to prevent the former Villanova star from playing with the National Basketball Association Bulls and also asking punitive damages.

Last month, Porter, the most valuable player in the last NCAA tournament, signed a multi-year contract with the Bulls calling for a reported $1.5 million.

But the Condors contend that Porter signed a contract to play with them last Dec. 16 while he still was playing for Villanova. And, although the Condors did not produce a contract when they held a news conference in the spring to announce the signing, they indicated in the suit a contract will be filed with the court as supporting evidence.

The suit came after negotiations between the two clubs in an effort to solve the dispute over Porter.

Porter's attorney, Richard Phillips, said in Philadelphia he would have no comment until he has a chance to read the Condors' brief in the case.

Should the Condors win the suit, Villanova, runner-up to UCLA in the NCAA tournament, would have to forfeit all games played after Porter had signed a contract including the NCAA appearance, and would have to return some $65,000 from the NCAA games.

Cash's Homer Powers Tigers To 3-2 Win Over Milwaukee

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cash register continues to ring for Detroit City while moving toward the top of the all-time Tiger hit parade.

That's Norm Cash, spinning sweet music with his swing.

Cash clouted another game-winning home run, powering Detroit past Milwaukee 3-2 Thursday night, and pulled into a second-place tie with Hank Greenberg on the team's career list with 310 blasts.

"It's great to tie Greenberg because he was a heck of a ballplayer, "said Cash, who also delivered a three-run shot in Wednesday night's 3-0 victory over the Brewers.

Based on his hottest start in years, Cash inevitably will soon move into second place all by himself behind teammate Al Kaline, who has 355.

Cash has been carrying the Tigers this season, including a number of game-winning hits in his team-leading 31 runs batted in and 13 homers.

The Cleveland Indians swamped the Chicago White Sox 9-0; the Baltimore Orioles walloped the Minnesota Twins 12-0 and the New York Yankees clipped the California Angels 3-2 in the night's other American League games. Rain washed the contest between Washington and Kansas City.

National League scores: San Diego Padres 4, New York Mets 2; Philadelphia Phillies 4, Los Angeles Dodgers 2; Montreal Expos 3, San Francisco Giants 1; Atlanta Braves 2, Houston Astros 1 and Pittsburgh Pirates 3, St. Louis Cardinals 1.

Just before Cash's two-run shot in the sixth inning that erased a 2-1 Milwaukee lead, Brewer Manager Dave Bristol went out to talk to pitcher Skip Lockwood.

"I told Skip that this might be the ballgame ... I was just trying to settle him down," said Bristol," and it turned out that it was the ballgame after all."

The Tigers had scored their first run in the second inning on a single by Mickey Stanley and triple by Bill Freehan before the Brewers came back to sock winner Joe Coleman with Bill Voss' two-run homer in the fourth.

Ray Fosse's three-run homer and Ted Uhlaender's two-run double backed Ray Lamb's five-hit pitching as Cleveland took Chicago to complete a sweep of their three-game series.

Uhlaender's double capped a three-run first inning for the Indians and Fosse slugged his fourth homer of the season for three more runs in the second. Lamb pitched out of his only jam in the seventh, when he had men on second and third.

Frank Robinson, saddled with an early-season slump, continued his recent hot streak by driving in five runs on a homer and two singles for Baltimore.

Robinson singled home the first of two Oriole runs in the first inning, swatted a two-run homer to cap a four-run rally in the second and singled home two more tallies in the third.

In the past seven games, Robby has been batting .500 with 14 hits, including four homers and 11 runs batted in. The streak inflated his average to .314.

Streaking Stan Bahnsen kept his hand hot with a five-hitter to lead the New York success. It was the fourth straight complete-game victory for the Yankee right-hander, who was stuck in a 1-6 won-lost rut earlier.

Bahnsen, who started his winning string with a five-hitter against the Angels on May 29, brought his record to 5-6 with Thursday night's performance.

American Team Wins All-Stars

The American Division rolled to a 14-9 victory over the Nationals in the Church Softball League All-Star game last night.

The National Division, however, pushed out into the lead in the first inning, scoring five runs. Lewis Hardee reached on a single and Jim Grimsley got a hit. Mack Roebuck singled to bring in Hardee. Danny Singleton doubled to bring in both Grimsley and Roebuck. William Nichols followed with another double, scoring Singleton. A hit by J. T. Mills brought in Nichols with the fifth run.

The American Division came right back with five runs of its own to tie the score. Roy Carawan opened with a triple and Boyd Lee singled. Ronald Vincent then homered to cut the lead to 5-3. John Huber followed with a hit as did Brazel Moore. Both scored on a hit by John Richards, tieing it at 5-5.

The Nationals went back into the lead in the second, however, as Bill Dickens homered.

The Americans took the lead for the first time in the third inning, scoring three runs for a 8-6 lead. Vincent opened the third with his second straight homer, tieing it. Huber followed with a double and scored on Bill Glidewell's double. John Richards singled to score him.

The Nationals cut it back to 8-7 with another run in the fifth. That came on a homer by Lewis Hardee.

The Americans put the game away in the sixth inning, however, coming up with six runs to run out to a 14-7 lead. Linwood Owens walked and scored on Smith Worthington's triple. Ray Reddrick singled him in and Brooks Beddingfield got a hit. Carawan doubled both in and he scored on Charles Vincent's sacrifice fly. Ronald Vincent followed with his third homer of the envening, closing out the American scoring.

The National picked up another run in the seventh. Abe Corey singled and moved up on Dickens' hit. He scored when Archie Moseley reached on a fielder's choice.

The final National run came in the eighth. Wayne Avery tripled and scored when Mike Cox reached on an error.

Beach Is Suing Browns And NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cleveland Browns and National Football League conspired to deny Walter Beach a job "because of his race" and political views, said the former Brown defensive back in a suit against the club and the league.

Beach, a black, who played with the Browns from 1962 through 1967 and resides in New Haven, Conn., charges a conspiracy to restrain trade in violation of the Sherman Act and seeks triple damages, unspecified, to cover potential pay and pension benefits plus costs of the suit.

The NFL had no comment, but Arthur B. Modell, Browns' president, said: "I welcome this opportunity to have a full public airing of this."

"A series of racially oriented incidents related to plaintiff's political preferences incurred the displeasure of Modell," the suit contends.

The papers also charge that in the wake of a Cleveland Plain Dealer story in which Beach gave his "views on certain social and economic issues" after riots in Cleveland's Hough section in 1966, ... "Modell suggested that the plaintiff concern himself more with football and less with commentary on social problems."

Beach contends that the Browns placed him on waivers and recalled him when New Orleans claimed him, then put him on waivers again and when no team claimed him he became a free agent.

The suit was filed in U.S. District Court here May 28.

Old Crow's good taste begins with men who love to work with their hands.

Anthony Clark has a big responsibility. One false move of his hands and he's mixed the wrong measure of grain for the Old Crow formula. Does he ever miss? The proof is in the good taste of our Bourbon.

Making Bourbon which tastes good, bottle after bottle, made Old Crow famous. Back in 1835, our people figured out the formula that took Bourbon-making out of the hit-or-miss category. Later, they handmade the first sour mash Bourbon. We still use our hands in making Old Crow.

After work, most of our men keep on using their hands. Anthony Clark calls on the same craftsmanship mixing grain as he does tying fishing flies.

Over the years, craftsmanship like this has made Old Crow America's best-tasting Bourbon.

Boyer Given Fine For Gambling; Is Now Free

NEW YORK (AP) — Clete Boyer, fined $1,000 for betting on football games, and his stormy departure from the Atlanta Braves still a matter of dispute, is free today to pursue his baseball career.

The veteran third baseman was fined Thursday by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for betting on college and pro football games in 1968 and 1969.

The action clears the way for Boyer to seek a deal with another club. All negotiations between Boyer and any team were suspended by Kuhn pending his investigation into the gambling issue.

"It is true that a couple of years ago I made a few bets on football games with a man I thought was a friend. I have never bet on baseball and I have never made any kind of a bet with anyone I knew to be a bookmaker," Boyer said in a statement issued by the office of Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players' Association.

However, the 34-year-old infielder later said, I'm innocent, but I don't see any sense fighting it—the commissioner has shown a very understanding attitude."

With Kuhn's investigation and the fine, believed to be the first in which a player has been fined for betting on another sport, Boyer said he would like to play on the West Coast.

It was learned Oakland has contacted Boyer since his departure from Atlanta. Oakland owner Charles O. Finley was not available for comment Thursday but Manager Dick Williams said:

"We've been running hot and cold on Boyer. If we can make something else work, we'll be better off."

Meanwhile, Miller is seeking to get Boyer his severance pay from Atlanta.

Boyer got into trouble with Atlanta when he said, in print, that "there shouldn't be a place for a guy like (General Manager Paul) Richards in baseball, and the manager (Lum Harris) wouldn't be here unless he was one of Paul's pals. Eddie Matthews (Braves coach) should be the manager—that's how much I think of him."

Richards then questioned Boyer's ability and said he could have his release if, he waived his severance pay, about $15,000. Boyer, hitting .245 with six homers and 19 runs batted in in 30 games until he left May 23, agreed to do so and become a free agent May 28. 28.

Weiskopf Grabs Kemper Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Tom Weiskopf borrowed a putter from a friend in Columbus, Ohio a couple of weeks ago—and the man may have a hard time getting it back.

"It would be like stealing Van Gogh's paint brush," Tall Tom said Thursday after he had carved out a six-under-par 66 for a two stroke lead in the $150,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

It was the first time the 6-foot-3 Weiskopf had led at any stage of any tournament this season.

"I took four months off last year to go hunting," he said. "I didn't play after Labor Day. I think my game suffered from the layoff and I feel I'm just coming back."

The 28-year-old Weiskopf, a non-winner since 1968, had a two-stroke margin over a quartet tied at 68, four-under-par on the longest course the touring pros will play this season, the 7,278-yard Quail Hollow Country Club layout.

They are Jim Colbert, a one-time Kansas State football player, veterans Miller Barber and Charlie Sifford, and Tom Sisolak, a Monday qualifier who has won only $70 this season on the tour.

The group at 69 included Lee Trevino, New Zealand lefty Bob Charles and rookie sensation Hubert Green. Others at that figure are Mason Rudolph, Ron Rief, Bobby Mitchell, Larry Hinson, Rod Funseth and Bob Lunn.

Arnold Palmer, back in action after a three-week layoff, was in position at 70. He didn't make a bogey, had two birdies and missed only one fairway and one green.

Gary Player, the little South African who ranked as a pre-tourney favorite for the $30,000 first prize, only could match par 72 on the long, damp layout.

Masters champion Charles Coody, and England's Tony Jacklin, who defends his United States Open title next week, were well back with a pair of 73s.

"I had the best stroke average on the tour (70.643) and won almost $100,000 (95,287)" said Weiskopf. "I'd never before had the opportunity to take off in a fall, and I had a bunch of hunting trips planned, so I just took off."

The hard-hitting 28-year-old, in his eighth year on the pro tour, said he thought a long hitter had an advantage on the big course, but added "if he's playing well, a long hitter has an advantage on almost any kind of course.

Win Sixth Game, 12-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lynchburg extended its winning streak to six games last night by blasting the Peninsula Pilots 12-1. Righthander Dan Vossler went the distance for the Twins, spreading the Pilots' six hits over five innings and holding them scoreless until the ninth inning.

Every Lynchburg batter got at least one hit, and in the fourth inning, the Twins batted around the order.

Burlington hurler Don Shields held Raleigh-Durham to five hits in leading the Senators to a 5-0 victory over the Triangles.

Salem beat Kinston 4-3 and Rocky Mount defeated Winston-Salem 6-5 in the other Carolina League action last night.

Ron Mitchell's sacrifice fly scored Larry Smith with the deciding run in the top of the ninth for Salem. The Salem victory overshadowed a tremendous hitting exhibition by Kinston's Wayne Nordhagen, who belted three singles and his 10th homer of the season in four times at bat.

The Rocky Mount Leafs pulled their victory out of the fire in the bottom of the ninth. Leftfielder Jim Wosman led off the inning with a walk and went to second as Marvin Lane sacrificed. Then three more walks drove in the winning run.

Tonight's games: Raleigh-Durham at Burlington, Salem at Kinston, Peninsula at Lynchburg, and Winston-Salem at Rocky Mount.

Bench, Aaron, Mays Lead In Early Voting

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench, Cincinnati's super catcher, and venerable sluggers Hank Aaron of Atlanta and Willie Mays of San Francisco are the early pace-setters in voting for the National League All-Star team.

Bench, the NL's most valuable player last season, received 69,506 of the 110,000 votes cast by fans to lead all players in the first week's balloting, according to figures released today by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Aaron, 37, and the 40-year-old Mays also received more than 60,000 votes each to Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell, who leads the league in home runs and runs batted in, is the third outfielder.

The other early leaders are first baseman Willie McCovey of San Francisco, second baseman Glenn Beckert of the Chicago Cubs, shortstop Bud Harrelson of the New York Mets and third baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis.

Ralph Garr, the Atlanta speedster whose name does not appear on the All-Star ballot, received 14,251 write-in votes to rank No. 8 among outfielders.

Aaron picked up 65,206 votes, Mays got 60,040 and Stargell 25,193. Lou Brock of St. Louis, Pete Rose of Cincinnati, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Billy Williams of Chicago also are ahead of Garr.

The closest race is at shortstop, where Harrelson has a 1,688-vote edge over the Cubs' Don Kessinger.

Other runners-up are Atlanta's Orlando Cepeda at first base, St. Louis' Julian Javier at second, Chicago's Ron Santo at third and New York's Jerry Grote behind the plate.

Clete Boyer, released by Atlanta recently, stands fourth in the third base balloting.

Earlier this week, first returns in the American League voting for the July 13 All-Star Game at Detroit showed outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston leading the way.

Other AL leaders were first baseman Boog Powell of Baltimore, second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota, shortstop Luis Aparicio of Boston, third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore, outfielders Tony Oliva of Minnesota and Frank Robinson of Baltimore and catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit.

The fan voting for the All-Star starters, exclusive of pitchers, in each league will continue through June 30. Pitchers and the remainder of the squads will be selected by rival managers Earl Weaver of Baltimore and Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati.

Leaders Pick Up More Wins

The Little Mint and Foodland picked up victories in the Ladies Softball League last night. The Little Mint downed Coca-Cola, 17-2, while Foodland nipped Piggly-Wiggly, 12-11, in a game that sparked a furor and a protest.

The Little Mint continues to lead the league with a 7-0 record, while Foodland is right behind at 6-1. They are followed by Piggly-Wiggly with a 3-4 mark, Coke at 2-6, and Wachovia, 0-7.

The Little Mint pushed ahead in the first inning scoring six runs to take control for good. Winkie Phillips walked and Linda Tripp doubled. Carol Manuel followed with another double and Saundra Kelly singled. Vila Harris doubled and Laura Kilpatrick singled. Nancy Taylor followed with a hit to score Kilpatrick with the final run.

From there the Little Mint added three in the second, five in the third, one in the fourth and two in the sixth for their 17-run total.

Coke picked up both of its runs in the sixth.

Piggly-Wiggly pushed into the lead in the second game with four runs in the first, but Foodland came up with two in the bottom of the second. Piggly-Wiggly added two in the third, and then scored five in the sixth to take an 11-2 lead. Foodland came up with seven in the sixth to close it to 11-9.

Then, in the seventh, three more came over, giving Foodland the win. Joyce Sawyer tripled and Diane Hurley singled. Cathy Anthony tripled and scored on Sandy Hardee's hit, giving Foodland enough to win.

A scoring error, however, caused some confusion and it was believed that the game was tied. Play continued until the 10th, when Piggly-Wiggly supposedly won. Foodland had protested that it had won in the seventh, however, and a Friday morning ruling awarded the game to them.

Biggs Inks Skin Pact

By TOM SEPPY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coach George Allen announced on his arrival in the nation's capital five months ago that he expected to build the Washington Redskins defense immediately so the team would be winners in 1971.

He has just hired his eight new defensive player since his arrival Jan. 7—all-pro defensive end Verlon Biggs, a seven year veteran from Jackson State who played out his option with the New York Jets.

Allen announced Thursday that the 28-year-old Biggs had signed a multi-year contract with the Redskins Tuesday after he was unable to reach agreement with the Jets.

The Redskins coach said he expected Biggs to be his starting right defensive end, playing alongside Diron Talbert who Allen picked up in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams along with Linebackers Myron Pottios, Maxie Baughan and Jack Pardee.

In exchange for Biggs, the Jets will receive the Redskins' first round draft choice next year and a choice in 1973.

Tiny Gimmicks Promote Sales

Hal wants some specific strategy for zooming retail sales. Advertising strategy nowadays is a remarkable form of human persuasion. And there are many minor "gimmicks" that spell the difference between profit vs. bankruptcy. So scrapbook this case and send for the booklet below if you are to "front" before the buying public!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case Q-573: Hal G., aged 27, is the new manager of a super market.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I took the Business and Marketing courses at College.

"We used your 'Psychology Applied' in one of the classes, so I know you are a strong rooter for American advertising and sales methods.

"Since I am now the manager of a new super mart in a big shopping center, I'd like ideas by which to zoom my volume of sales."

Merchandising Psychology

Here are some vital rules for all retail merchants:

(1) Be sure your cashiers, checkout girls and others who "front" for you before the buying public, learn to SMILE!

Teach them to say "Hello" or "Good Morning" with a rising inflection on that final "o" in "Hello" and the "Morn" syllable of "Morning!"

For cheery greetings and the cordiality of your sales staff set the "feeling tone" of your store, bank, gas station or even a doctor's office.

The human element nowadays can tip the scales in your favor, since retail prices don't very greatly.

Rigorous manufacturing competition has made it almost impossible for one firm to undercut another in any significant manner on tensile strenth of steel, or insurance premium rates, or price of grocery items.

Psychology is thus your big chance to overbid your rivals.

For you may beat your competitor in the "feeling tone" by 50 per cent whereas you seldom can surpass him by more than one per cent in the quality of your merchandise or its retail price.

(2) Encourage housewives to do their buying on an empty stomach!

For customers average $2 to $3 more on their total grocery purchases when they are personally hungry!

Thus, run special ads for a sale from 10 a.m. to 12 a.m. or the 3 to 5 p.m.

(3) If you line up patrons, as in a cafeteria, employ a horizontal "U" system so the outside line must wind past the inner row which is loading its trays with food.

Thus, your customers will have a double chance to see the delicious food and whet their appetites before they finally pass the steam tables.

(4) In retail stores, have a few chairs or benches available for the husbands.

Men are often irritable and jittery when their wives seem to delay unduly long in filling the grocery carts.

But if you can offer those husbands a newspaper, plus a free cup of coffee with some cookies, the husbands begin to purr.

And a purring husband will O.K. a lot more time and buying by his wife!

This seems at variance with no. 2 above.

But a hungry, restless man doesn't wish to be kept waiting!

Though a hungry wife will buy $2 more groceries, her irritable husband wants her to shorten her shopping spree!

So good merchandisers learn the art of soothing the irritable husband while they tempt and stimulate the wife!

(5) Psychological gimmicks, such as "Limit of 2 to a Customer," also zoom extra sales volume.

The "Trading Stamp" gimmick has been widespread, but it wastes a lot of the clerk's time, whereas other gimmicks often are more efficient.

Send for my booklet "The New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♣ West observed that he could expect to take book in his own hand against South's four spade contract—two aces and the king of trumps, assuming of course, that the ace of spades was in the hand of the opening bidder. In the hope of hitting his partner with one key value in the form of a king or short suit, West chose to open the ace of clubs.

When the dummy was placed on the table, West was obliged to reassess the situation. South was pretty clearly marked with all the missing high card strength—including both major suit aces—to warrant his opening bid. The dummy's strength in the red suits eliminated the possibility of scoring another trick on power. The only remaining hope was that East was short in diamonds.

In an attempt to give his partner a ruff, West shifted to the ace of diamonds and continued the suit after his partner signaled with the eight. The jack of diamonds was played from dummy at trick three and East completed his echo by following with the four—to show a doubleton. A spade was led to the ace and then a small spade was returned, West going in with the king. East once more echoed, playing first the eight of spades and then the seven, to show that he had a third trump.

Inasmuch as both South and East were now out of diamonds, West had only one remaining hope, that East held the jack of spades. West led a third round of diamonds and East put up his jack of spades to good use by trumping in with that card, to score the setting trick inasmuch as South was unable to overruff.

Observe that if West had defended passively by leading a heart originally, the trump promotion would never have developed. After South wins the opening lead, he plays the ace and another spade putting West in with the king. If the latter now switches to the ace and another diamond, East has to follow suit and dummy's queen of spades picks up the jack. South loses one trick each in spades, diamonds and clubs.

Had declarer been aware of what was about to transpire, he could have frustrated his opponents efforts by leading a small spade toward dummy without releasing his ace first.

FTC Rule Stirs TV Incentive

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The idea behind the Federal Communications Commission's order that the networks give up one-half hour of prime viewing time each evening in major marketing areas starting next season was to stimulate local programming and production.

It has caused considerable production and even more sales activity.

Recent surveys of stations affiliated with the three networks indicate that, three months away from the start of the new season, about a third of the stations in the 50 larger communities have not definitely set replacement show—or, if they have, they aren't telling.

Some stations will expand local news programs into prime time, which officially starts at 7:30 p.m. Others are expected to plug the hole with reruns.

The regulation has stimulated great activity among independent producers, hitherto pretty dependent on network sales. And some entertainers—Tommy Smothers, Lassie and Lawrence Welk among them—suddenly are interested in what was once a TV stepchild—syndication. That is a program sold to individual stations rather than to a network.

David Frost who already has a popular nightly talk show, will have a weekly half-hour "David Frost Revue." Tommy Smothers will produce and host a half-hour variety series. Lawrence Welk's company claims it has already lined up more than 150 stations for his syndicated series.

NBC's plan to fill local prime time of the five stations it operates includes reruns of the National Geographic series; "Wild Kingdom," an NBC perennial now in syndication and "Lassie," cancelled by CBS at the end of this season. They also have picked up some action series: "Primus," underwater adventure, and two private-eye series, "Monty Nash" and "Dr. Simon Locke." NBC has outlets in New York, Washington, Chicago, Cleveland and Los Angeles.

CBS station—New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia—are booking programs individually. Among them are a circus series starring Bert Parks; new short programs with the Golddiggers singing group; Johnny Mann's "Stand Up and Cheer" musical series spun off a special this season; "Doctor in the House," a spoof of medical shows, and "Jerry Visits——," with Los Angeles newscaster Jerry Dunphy calling on some film or TV star each week.

ABC's plans are still largely in flux. It has stations in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles and San Francisco. In two cities, there are plans to expand early local news shows, a network spokesman said. At least one station plans a local show with a local TV personality.

GETTING SAFER

OTTAWA (UPI) —Canadian auto drivers broke a 10-year upward trend in holiday accidents over the Easter weekend when only 27 persons died on Canadian roads, says the Canadian Safety Council.

The Council had predicted 65 persons would be killed over the holiday period, a forecast based on the 63 deaths of the year before, and on an increase in cars on the road.

Hayley Mills Finally Wed

LONDON (AP) — Hayley Mills, the child star who suddenly grew up, married 57-year-old movie director Roy Boulting in France this week.

"It just seemed to be the right thing to do," Hayley, now 25, told friends Thursday night.

The couple, now back in London, said they married at Cap d'Ail in the south of France with two friends present. They said Hayley's parents, actor John Mills and his playright wife Mary Hayley Bell, could not be present but sent good wishes.

Hayley hit stardom as the simple child heroine of Walt Disney's "Polyanna" and went on to make a string of Disney hits.

The romance with Boulting started in 1966 when he directed her in "The Family Way."

Hayley is Boulting's fourth wife. They announced after his divorce three years ago that they would marry but decided to wait.

Boulting explained: "There is a considerable disparity between my age and Hayley's and I thought it would have been most unfair to act hastily."

Missing Man's Car Found In Kerr Lake

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — Police have intensified their efforts in the hunt for a missing councilman-elect after finding his station wagon submerged in water 12 feet deep about 50 feet from the shore of Kerr Lake in nearby Virginia.

A fisherman spotted the vehicle's radio antenna sticking out of the water and told two North Carolina highway patrolmen who had stopped for lunch at a nearby restaurant.

The station wagon belonged to James M. White, 30, who disappeared on May 24 after telling his family that he was going to drive to Dundas, Va., to keep an appointment with a business associate.

When the vehicle was pulled from the water, it showed no signs of damage that might indicate that it had accidentally run into the lake, said Police chief W. F. Crocker.

"We know it didn't run off the road," he added. "The guard rail along the highway showed no signs of damage and there was no damage to the vehicle indicating an accident."

Crocker said it appeared to have been driven into the lake from a fishing access area.

Six days before his disappearance, White won a run-off election for a seat in the Henderson City Council. He was to have taken the oath of office last Monday.

"Finding the vehicle like that, there is no question but that we have to proceed under the assumption that there has been foul play," said Crocker, who dispatched four investigators to the area to help Sheriff W. E. Newman of Mecklenburg County, Va., who was conducting the investigation at the site where the vehicle was found.

Crocker said the vehicle was found near Island Creek Dam, on the Virginia side of Kerr Lake, 20 miles north of Henderson and three miles inside Virginia. The spot where it was found was off Highway 39, which Chief Crocker said was "out of the way" for the destination to which White was headed when he disappeared.

White's family and friends have offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to finding him.

Fighting Early Window Washers

NEW YORK (AP) — Late-night TV talk show host Johnny Carson says he likes to sleep until 10 a.m. but window washers are waking him up at 8 a.m. as they descend on a scaffolding from the roof of the building where he has a $375,000 cooperative apartment.

Carson asked Thursday in state Supreme Court for an injunction banning window washing before 10 a.m. on the glass-walled building at 860 United National Plaza.

Justice Samuel R. Rosenberg ordered the management to show cause June 17 why window washing should not be banned before 10 a.m.

Mexican Students And Police Clash

By ELOY O. AGUILAR
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police and demonstrating students battled for hours in Mexico City's streets Thursday, and four or five youths were killed. Calm was restored shortly after midnight.

More than 100 persons were wounded, and police said 159 were arrested. The police claimed they were aided by conservative students opposed to the demonstrators.

Student leaders promised to organize a nationwide university strike.

At midnight, students occupying the National Polytechnic Institute left, and police also withdrew from the area, where the trouble began Thursday afternoon.

Because of the student unrest, President Luis Echevarria postponed "for a few days" an official visit scheduled to begin Sunday by Nicaraguan President Anastazio Somoza Jr.

Police headquarters said there were four dead and that some shots were fired from among the demonstrating students. City hospitals reported five dead Thursday night but later refused to give any information.

Several journalists and photographers were among the injured. Tony Halik of NBC received a head injury. An Associated Press photographer was arrested and his film confiscated.

The demonstrators protested government education policies and demanded the release of persons arrested in student disturbances just before the 1968 Olympic games.

A march Thursday from the polytechnic institute had been planned for weeks to protest new restrictive bylaws at the University of Nuevo Leon. The bylaws were rescinded, and the chancellor of that university and the governor of Nuevo Leon State resigned, but nearly 7,000 students gathered at the institute with placards demanding higher pay for teachers, opposing restrictions on the universities and calling for a student-workers front.

Police intercepted the first group to march out and when the demonstrators refused to disperse used tear gas to scatter them. Authorities said some students joined police to help them disperse the crowd.

For the next five or six hours groups of students roamed through the city, blocking traffic. Shots were heard in several schools. Troops were sent to the central plaza in front of the National Palace, and other troops were positioned around the Polytechnic Institute to help police keep students inside.

Police said those arrested would be fined and released.

Magazine's Survey Indicates Leftward Trend By Students

NEW YORK (AP) — Two polls taken seven years apart on 12 college campuses show that the number of students who describe themselves as radicals has increased from 7 to 17 per cent, according to National Review magazine.

The surveys conducted in 1963 and during the 1969-70 academic year, also showed that the number of students who considered themselves conservatives decreased from 27 to 15 per cent, the magazine said in its current issue.

In both polls, a majority of the students described themselves as political liberals, but the total in the category increased from 51 per cent in 1963 to 59 per cent last year, said the weekly conservative magazine edited by William F. Buckey Jr.

Schools participating in the survey included four described by the magazine as politically liberal or progressive: Sarah Lawrence College, Williams College, Reed College and Brandeis University.

Other schools in the survey were Yale, Marquette University, Boston University, Indiana University, the University of South Carolina, Stanford, Davidson College and predominantly black Howard University.

Among the findings of the polls was an increasing dissatisfaction among students with the two-party system. Last year 33 per cent said they were satisfied with the present system, compared with 58 per cent in 1963.

In another marked turnabout, 69 per cent queried in the latest poll said they favored unilateral suspension of atomic weapons development, while 26 per cent endorsed the idea in 1963.

Almost half the 2,400 students in the recent poll said they favored socialization of basic industries in the United States; about 25 per cent favored full socialization of all industries. Eight per cent favored full socialization in 1963.

Bombers Hit Red Highway

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers today attacked a new North Vietnamese highway leading from Laos into South Vietnam's northern quarter where Hanoi is reportedly building up its supply depots and forces.

The raids came after a U.S. armored column patrolling the southern edge of the demilitarized zone battled North Vietnamese troops for five hours. The U.S. Command said three North Vietnamese troops were killed in the clash Thursday 1½ miles south of the DMZ. U.S. losses were seven men wounded, one armored vehicle destroyed and two damaged.

Nine B52s dropped nearly 100 tons of explosives on supply routes, depots and bunker complexes in the northern quarter of South Vietnam.

Six of the bombers struck two miles and 17 northwest of Khe Sanh, where the North Vietnamese have built a new highway linking up with an abandoned U.S.-built highway to the east that gives Hanoi a new supply route. Three hit bunker complexes in the A Shau valley, a major North Vietnamese trans-shipment point south of Khe Sanh.

The clash involving U.S. forces 1½ miles south of the DMZ broke out while troops of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, were on a security patrol, said Capt. James D'Entremont, a spokesman for the U.S. Command. He said the size of the enemy force was not known. Artillery was called in on the enemy positions.

The command also reported that enemy gunners fired fewer than five rockets into the big Cam Ranh air base, 190 miles northeast of Saigon, and they caused no casualties or damage.

Enemy gunners also fired five mortar rounds into a South Vietnamese district headquarters 24 miles northeast of Saigon. Some South Vietnamese militiamen were wounded, headquarters said.

Elsewhere, the Saigon command reported that 28 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed and nine rifles captured in fighting in the U Minh forest deep in the Mekong Delta.

Seeking Audit By Private Firm

RALEIGH (AP) — Rep. James C. Johnson Jr., R-Cabarrus, introduced a joint resolution today calling for a private auditing firm to study fiscal accounting procedures of the State Highway Commission.

The resolution, coming in the wake of a critical report by the state auditor's office on the Highway Commission procedures, called for a report on the private firm's findings to the 1973 legislature.

Johnson's proposal stipulated that the cost of the audit would be paid out of the Highway Fund.

Display Items Collectors Told

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's a rare individual who isn't a collector of something these days. Whether it's rocks, shells, wood carvings, sculpture, books, coins, glass or fine china, people are travelling and collecting more than ever.

What happens to those collected items once they get in the home is something that concerns Rita Harrold, Westinghouse residential lighting director. She recommends that individual pieces and collections be displayed and lighted so they can be appreciated. "Don't hide away an art object or collection on a shelf and just hope that someone notices it," she said.
