Rash Of Fires Burning In Albuquerque Violence

A rash of fires, many of which city officials said were touched off by fire bombs, burned in widely scattered areas of Albuquerque early today after violence flared anew between authorities and crowds of young people.

Two days of disorders in this desert city of 300,000 left 15 persons wounded by gunfire, more than 250 persons arrested, police equipment destroyed and businesses looted and burned. Fire damage was unofficially estimated at almost $3 million. The disturbances were touched off Sunday when police attempted to arrest some young people in crowded Roosevelt Park for public drinking. At the height of the renewed violence Monday afternoon police, state troopers and National Guardsmen routed a cursing, missile-hurling crowd from the park.

Young people massed in the park hurled gasoline bombs and other missiles at the police and guardsmen, who responded with tear gas and a charge that sent most of the crowd in retreat. Police made 100 arrests.

The confrontation came at Chicano Hill in the park. Chicano is the name given to Mexican-Americans.

Five persons, including two guardsmen, were injured during the clash at the park and a disturbance with marching young people earlier Monday on a corner of the University of New Mexico campus.

One young man was shot in the back by police in the campus area, police said. He was reported in serious condition.

"After the combined efforts of all law enforcement agencies, including the New Mexico National Guard, the park has been cleared," Deputy Police Chief Don Daniel said Monday night. "It is quiet."

With darkness, however, came the fires. Guardsmen and police patrolled city streets but reported no organized disturbances involving large groups.

Early today fire officials reported eight fires burning and attributed most to firebombs thrown from cars.

"It's much, much worse than Sunday night," Ray Kuhn, city fire chief, told newsmen. He said a number of bomb threats also had been reported.

"We've had 24 fire alarms since 6 p.m.," he said. The only major blaze was reported at an apartment construction site on the outskirts of the city.

Asked if it was a confirmed fire bombing, he replied: "I don't think we're in a position to say, but we are suspicious."

Open Housing Policy Is Being Toughened

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a toughened interpretation of President Nixon's open-housing policy, administration officials say communities barring subsidized housing for the poor will be denied federal aid, for such projects as water and sewer construction, planning, and renewal.

In other strengthening steps, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell announced filing Monday of a long-delayed federal suit against the St. Louis suburb of Black Jack, Mo., for allegedly rezoning a tract to exclude a racially integrated, townhouse apartment complex.

And Housing Secretary George Romney said subsidized housing projects planned in suburbs will receive clear funding priority—rather than limited priority as stated by White House officials last week—over developments that fail to break up racial concentrations.

In a joint news conference with Mitchell, Romney announced proposed regulations to insure minority groups equal access to subsidized suburban housing. The U.S. Civil Rights Commission accused the administration last week of condoning lily-white suburban housing and black inner-city dwellings under the major 235 mortgage subsidy program.

In addition, Romney announced an agreement with the General Services Administration giving the Department of Housing and Urban Development greater say, but not a veto, over location of many federal buildings and installations. HUD will determine if the community picked for the federal project has, or intends to build, an adequate supply of low- and moderate-income housing available on a nondiscriminatory basis.

The volley of administration initiatives on housing discrimination coincided with opening of three days of hearings by the Civil Rights Commission to examine government open-housing enforcement.

Romney will be questioned today and Mitchell on Wednesday.

In probably the most significant reinterpretation of emphasis of the President's message last Friday, Romney pointed to a paragraph not included in the section Nixon entitled "Policies of this Administration."

The paragraph reads: "To qualify for federal assistance, the law requires a local housing or community development project to be part of a plan that expands the supply of low- and moderate-income housing in a racially nondiscriminatory way."

In answer to a question, Romney said this means federal aid for water and sewers, urban renewal and planning activity will not be approved for any community rejecting subsidized housing.

"That is the policy we have followed, are following and will follow," he said.

By contrast, White House officials last week stressed sections of the message emphasizing limitations of federal power. An example: "This administration will not attempt to impose federally assisted housing upon any community."

Only 2 Babies Survive

SYDNEY (AP) — Only two of the nine babies born to Mrs. Leonard Brodrick remained alive today, 60 hours after their birth, and the condition of the surviving boy and girl continued to cause concern, the hospital reported.

Two more of the nonuplets died early today and Monday night. Both were girls, one of them the first-born girl who weighed 2 pounds, 2 ounces and had appeared to have the best chance of survival.

Since the multiple birth early Sunday, each hospital bulletin had said her condition was "satisfactory considering her size." This was not said of the other surviving babies.

Two boys were stillborn, and two boys and a girl died Sunday night.

The latest hospital bulletin said the condition of the two surviving infants was unchanged, meaning they were still having breathing difficulties. The boy weighed 12 ounces and the girl about one pound.

The 29-year-old mother was bearing up well, a spokesman for the Royal Hospital for Women said.

Doctors said earlier Mrs. Brodrick suffered no medical complications as a result of the record multiple birth.

Informed sources said earlier that the babies were two months premature, but a hospital bulletin today said the period was 12 weeks. It said the babies were between six and eight inches long at birth.

Mrs. Brodrick and her 32-year-old husband, a meat salesman, have two other daughters, 5 and 4 years old. She had taken a Swedish fertility drug for a hormonal disorder.

Fire Is Uncurbed

STUMPY POINT, N.C. (AP) — Firefighters reported this morning they still had not controlled a week-old blaze which has burned more than 7,100 acres in Dare County.

Their efforts were hampered when one of the two water bomber planes used in fighting the fire was knocked out of service.

The plane hit a tree while flying low and damaged a wing, but pilot Joe Braswell of Kingston was able to return to Manteo for a safe landing.

The planes have been used to drop water and a clay-fertilizer mixture on the flames.

The fire started by lightning June 8 was considered under control by the end of last week, but it broke past fire workers Friday. It was burning over pine woods and swampy land about eight miles north of Stumpy Point.

FINAL VOTE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise bill loaded with political potential and $5.5 billion for public works was lined up for a final House vote today that could send the measure to the White House for an expected veto.

Revised Development Plans In Shore Drive Area Submitted

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A revised set of site plans, floor plans and elevations submitted by the architectural firm of Dudley & Shoe detailing the projected development of a parcel in the Shore Drive area was approved Monday night by Redevelopment Commissioners. Appearing before the commission, George Shoe briefly presented plans calling for the development of parcel 16B on a two-phase timetable. A revision of earlier plans for an office building was necessitated by difficulties in obtaining financing and locating suitable tenants, Shoe pointed out.

According to Shoe, the firm now plans to construct an office complex in two, two-story phases. The first part of the complex will be built now and will house the architectural partnership on one floor and a tenant or tenants on the second floor, the partner noted. Original plans called for a three-story complex on the land.

Total space in the building, to be constructed on the parcel located on the northwest corner of the block bounded by First, Cotanche, Second and Reade Streets, is projected to be some 6,700 square feet.

The development plan would offer suitable parking, Shoe emphasized, and a second, adjoining part of the complex would be built when prospective tenants could be lined up.

Commission real estate officer Kirby Boyd reported that the sale of parcels 26, 33A and 38 (on Reade Street) to East Carolina University had been completed and deed transactions with the county for the recently demolished Edwards Building and Buck house have been finalized.

Boyd said that second appraisals on the Raul property, located across from the Post Office on Pitt Street were far apart. The commission earlier dissolved a not-to-be-acquired agreement with the property owners and is proceeding with plans to purchase the tract.

Commissioners voted to authorize a third appraisal on the property.

Central Business District

project manager Lawrence D. Holt reported that two more parcels have been acquired in the project and options have been secured for four more parcels.

Holt said that two contract offers were received from firms for the development and preparation of a Critical Path Method and Program Evaluation and Review Technique, which is now required by HUD.

The project manager explained that the plans are essentially a projection of what will be done in the CBD project, drawn up on a timetable that indicates various phases that will be carried out and enabling the commission staff to keep abreast of the entire project.

Commissioners approved a contract with James Baldwin of Project Management Consultants Inc. of Atlanta for $5,200. The contract calls for the plans to be completed within 60 calendar days from approval and be projected over the life of

Goldwater Reveals His Futile 1964 Proposal

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he suggested to former President Lyndon B. Johnson during the 1964 White House campaign they jointly tell the American people the Vietnam war would have to be widened with bombing and troops—no matter who won the presidency.

Goldwater, the 1964 Republican presidential nominee, said if Johnson had agreed, had "leveled with the American people" about the war, "he would have beaten me worse."

As it was, Johnson won in the nation's greatest landslide, with nearly 43 million votes to Goldwater's 12 million. Goldwater disclosed his 1964 proposal in an interview Monday after the New York Times published a report indicating the Johnson administration agreed Sept. 7, 1964 — during the campaign — that it probably would be necessary to bomb North Vietnam early in 1965.

Among considerations in that timing, the study said, was that "the President was in the midst of an election campaign in which he was presenting himself as the candidate of reason and restraint as opposed to the quixotic Barry Goldwater."

Goldwater said he knew even before his formal campaign began that North Vietnam would be bombed eventually and at least 500,000 American troops would have to be sent to South Vietnam.

Goldwater, who left his Arizona Senate seat to run for the White House and was elected to the Senate again in 1968, said his knowledge of the outlook in South Vietnam came not from the Johnson administration, but from his own contacts.

"I knew that there were plans being made for expansion of the war ...," he said. "By putting two and two together, we came up with pretty much of a scenario of what Johnson was going to do."

"I could have opened my mouth. I was being pictured as bomb-happy. I was on the short end and I knew it. But to talk about it, I would have had to use secret information ... And, frankly, who would have believed me? So I kept my mouth shut ..."

Goldwater said he does not regret his decision. He said his election showing would have been better—although the outcome would not have been changed—had he disclosed in the campaign what he knew to be the likely course of the administration.

"But I couldn't have lived with myself," he said.

Certain Recreation Facilities Opened To Rose High Students

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

An arrangement for students of Rose High School to use certain Recreation Center facilities was approved by members of the recreation Commission at their monthly meeting for June, held last night.

Recreation Department Director Boyd Lee, who at the May meeting had been asked to work out arrangements with Rose High principal Robert Alligood, was assisted by commissioners Dr. Ralph Steele and Sidney Carraway.

Tennis, the main concern of the Rose curriculum planners, will be taught next year, with students having four of the six courts reserved for them beginning October 1 and continuing through December 31. Hours will be from 12:00 noon to 3:30 each Monday and Wednesday; and all day on Tuesday, Thursdays and Friday during that period, a cold weather one.

In addition, other facilities, such as the Elm Street Gym, can be used by Rose High students at any time such use would not conflict with scheduled Recreation Department activities.

Lee commented this agreement serves "to straighten out certain points, among them an understanding that physical education instructors would not be permitted to use the facilities in the event there was any abuse of facilities."

The Childrens Summer Theater, which has the approval of the Recreation Commission, although no monetary support is being given, still needs, according to Lee, considerable support from the community at large before it can get a head start.

Lee noted that Mrs. Laura Beth Cayton, who heads up the program, reported that of about 300 letters sent to possible contributors, she had received responses from 14 people, with a total of $161 in contributions received. Lee said that with support from the public, he feels the program will soon make good headway.

One part of the summer program, that of baseball for the young boys of Greenville, received an enormous response. Lee said that over 200 boys signed up on Monday, the first day of registration. The boys, all between seven and 12 years of age, are candidates for the Small Fry, Big Fry, and the Big Four Leagues.

On the status of negotiations for the Recreation Department to purchase a site approximately 260 by 340 feet at the site of Eppes High School, Lee reported he is now awaiting reaction from the Greenville City School Board. The board will consider this as part of their agenda, at a forth coming meeting. The area in which the Recreation Department is interested in contains the school gymnasium.

The Eppes Gymnasium was also the center of discussion of an item not on the agenda. City Manager Harry Hagerty reported on a request by Revs. B. B. Felder, W. B. Moore, W. L. Jones and other Greenville Negro ministers. The ministers are seeking to conduct a summer recreation program, not officially connected with the Recreation Department, for residents of the West Fifth

Retired Settlement Director Says Much Left Undone

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Helen Hall came to Henry Street Settlement as director in 1933, the lower east side of New York was decaying, plagued with disease and rats and filled with dark, dank tenements. There was no Social Security, no health care insurance, and, since it was during the Depression, unemployment and hunger were the two main problems.

When Miss Hall retired in 1967, Medicare and the Social Security Act had been put into effect. But the tenements, rats and disease still were prevalent in the neighborhood and the major problem had changed to drug addiction.

Throughout those 34 years, Miss Hall alternately was encouraged and discouraged, but she left Henry Street thinking that, above all, there is much left to do. And now, she has written a book about her experiences titled, "Unfinished Business."

"The settlement also is a general practitioner. We're there to see the total picture and not deal with any one problem," she continued. "And in an age of growing specialization, the settlement is increasingly important in that role."

Miss Hall thinks of her days at Henry Street in terms of several periods and their most striking problems. First was the Depression, when "it was difficult to think of anything else but that people were starving." Then came the war years and afterwards, Miss Hall said, there were 10 years of disruption of the neighborhood and gang warfare.

"When the soldiers came back, housing was hard to find," Miss Hall explained. "And the neighborhood was changing, with new groups, Negroes from the South and Puerto Ricans moving in. When any new people come in like this in large numbers, they are apt to be met with resentment and violence, which leads the more stable population to move out. Deterioration then sets in at a very rapid rate."

Towards the end of the period of gang warfare, Miss Hall said, drug abuse crept into the area. She feels the draft has played some part both in the formation of gangs and in the use of drugs. "It left the neighborhood without the right proportion of the more stable ages, and a younger group took over," she said. "They were without the emotional maturity of the older teens, who had left for the Army."

Henry Street began dealing with the drug problem in the mid-50s. "It has been a long, hard pull to make the general public really know how devastating drug addiction is," Miss Hall noted. "And not only to the addict, but to his family, friends and the whole neighborhood. As we were struggling to get help for the addict, we were trying to get his story over in every way possible."

One of the ways Henry Street did this was to put into book form Ralph Teffteller's recorded conversations with addicts. The result was the best-seller, "The Addict in the Street."

Miss Hall thinks the best, most successful treatment yet to be found for drug addiction is methadone. "Of course it isn't ideal to have to take it for the rest of your life, but it is infinitely to be preferred to returning to jail."

In addition to fighting the drug problem, the top priority now, the author maintains, is doing away with war. "When I hear over the radio how many U.S. soldiers were killed in Vietnam, and then almost as an afterthought, how many were wounded, I think of those wounded men paying for war the rest of their lives. And I sometimes can not believe that civilized people can continue in this horrible pattern," she said.

Miss Hall was hopeful about the founding of the United Nations. "But," she said, "the American people have to insist on more focus on it, and more resources. I certainly don't feel we put the same power and pressure into the U.N. that we do into waging war."

Henry Street Settlement had a Citizens of the World children's group for a number of years after the founding of the United Nations. Its members entertained delegates' families, talked to other groups in the settlement about the U.N. and visited its headquarters.

"It gave me a great satisfaction to see these children learning about the United Nations, and their ready acceptance, interest in and fascination with the organization. The potential is there and you wonder how long it's going to remain just potential," Miss Hall said.

Miss Hall says she also regrets a lot of the violence of the present period. "I feel much of it has hurt the cause of social justice for minority groups and has sometimes hurt the cause of peace," she said. "But at the same time I would have to admit that only violence makes some people listen and this is very sad."

Retired Mama Wants Place Of Her Own

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The mother of a friend of mine is a lovely lady of 85. She is sweet, gentle, alert and is not ailing physically. She takes turns living with her children who love her dearly, but she is very unhappy.

She feels that she is "in the way," but whenever she mentions going to a retirement home, her children insist that elderly parents belong with their families, not in "institutions with strangers."

The little lady appreciates everything her children do for her but she says she would like a place of her own, however tiny. She wants to feel "independent." Her children are well-to-do and could afford to keep her in a very nice retirement home, but they refuse to consider it. Will you please comment, Abby? The elderly lady says her children read your column.

AN ADMIRER

DEAR ADMIRER: Aging parents who are in good health and sound mind "belong" where they want to be, if they have a choice. The children may be well-intentioned, but they are selfish. [They also may prefer to keep Mamma at home because they fear their friends will say, "they put the poor old soul in a home to get rid of her."] I hope the children reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reply to "FAT FANNY," who complained about chairs in restaurants being too small. I am also fat and have been for several years. Instead of complaining about the chairs being too small for big me, I am now trying to make myself fit onto chairs. After being a glutton, it suddenly struck me that there was more to life than food. Without the help of one diet pill, I lost 28 pounds in 10 weeks.

Fat people always have an excuse for overeating. They're lonely, unloved, depressed, etc. Well, I'm divorced and have two children whose father refuses to support them. I live on welfare, have no job and my future looks bleak, but I am determined to make it a bright, skinny future.

"Fat Fanny" should shape up and slim down, and quit complaining about restaurant chairs that are made for the average person, not elephants. If I can do it, she can do it.

73 POUNDS TO GO

DEAR "73": Good for you! I want to hear from you 73 pounds from now. I have a hunch you'll make it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a shoplifter. I started out as a teenager. I always took small things and got away with it. I kept telling myself it would be the last time, but I just couldn't stop. I prayed to God to help me stop and I thought I had because I didn't take anything for over a year, then tonight it happened again. I just had to take something, and just as I was walking out of the store they came after me. They caught me with less than a dollar's worth, but I ended up paying a $40 fine plus the hurt to my family, myself and mostly to God.

I have promised God and myself that I will never again steal as much as one bobby pin, and I think now I can keep that promise.

This letter is for everyone who thinks it is not so bad to shoplift an item or two. Never Start! It can get to be a habit, or a game, and it's hard to stop. Please correct my mistakes in spelling, Abby, but print this. It may help someone. Thank you. Sign me.

SHOPLIFTER

DEAR FORMER SHOPLIFTER: You have paid the price, so drop the label. There is a lot of good in one who wants to help others thru his own sad experiences. Thank you for writing. God bless.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO MUCH PRIDE" IN EL PASO: You are being foolish. If he doesn't ask you—you ask him!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Miss Dottie Gaskins Is Bride

GRIFTON — Miss Dottie Gaskins, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lee Edward Gaskins of Ayden, and Mitchell Oakley, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Oakley Jr. of Ayden, were united in marriage at the United Methodist Church here on Saturday, June 5.

The Rev. W.M. Ellis officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. James Gregory of Greenville, organist, and Miss Mary Ann Ippock of Vanceboro, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Steve Abbott of Grifton, wore a formal floor length gown of silk organza with an A-line skirt edged in imported lace. The empire waistline featured a lace ruffle with fitted lace bodice and high neckline. The full sleeves were banded in lace and a chapel length train extended from the shoulder.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and seed pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and pixie carnations tied with streamers of satin and tulle.

Miss Brenda Gaskins served her sister as maid of honor and only attendant. Mr. Oakley, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Danny Rhodes of Ayden and Charles Parrisher of Greenville.

Mrs. Jack Dail of Rt. 1, Winterville, directed the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Grifton High School and East Carolina University, where she majored in intermediate education. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ayden High School and Wayne Community College. He is presently employed as city of the Ayden News Leader, Ayden.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside at Rt. 1, Ayden.

After the rehearsal of the Oakley-Gaskins wedding on Friday evening, the wedding party was entertained at an after-rehearsal party in the fellowship hall of the church.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jack Dail, Mrs. S.M. Edwards Jr., Mrs. William Burke and Mrs. Tillmon Chauncey.

Jim Thornton Dies In Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP) — Hillbilly entertainer Jim Thornton of Raleigh died Monday of heart failure in a hospital here. He was 57 years old.

Thornton, known as "The bashful boy from Broadslab", rose to fame in the 30s and early 60s as one of the state's best known hillbilly television personalities. He was also the owner of "Jim Thornton's Dance Club," a popular Raleigh night-spot, which was torn down last year to make room for a restaurant.

His trademark as a television entertainer was high-bibbed overalls, loud shirts and bare feet.

Born and raised on a farm in Broadslab, a crossroads community four miles from Benson in Johnston County, Thornton said he got fed up with farming one day and told his brother, "If I come back down this row, it's gonna be in a Cadillac."

He often did return to the home of his youth—and always in a Cadillac, a pink one, which was another trademark.

Thornton was credited with bringing the first go-go girls to Raleigh, which he said was "two years before the police ever knew about it."

He said he hired a lookout who knew every policeman in the county, who sat in a car outside his dance hall and gave him a buzz through a concealed wire whenever any officer approached.

"I'd flash the lights on white under the girls while they were performing and they'd dash into the john long before the cops got to the door. I paid the lookout $15 a night."

Governors Will Gather

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Democratic governors will meet Saturday in Omaha, Neb., to select an unnamed former Democratic governor to represent them at Democratic Party policy sessions in Washington.

Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina announced the meeting date Monday. Scott is chairman of the national Caucus of Democratic Governors.

The meeting will be the first for the governors since they proclaimed an interest in gaining a stronger voice in the party's campaign strategy for the forthcoming national elections.

Selection of a governors' representative to work with the Democratic National Committee is an outgrowth of the governors' talks in St. Louis March 27-28 with party chairman Lawrence O'Brien.

O'Brien was told on that occasion that the governors want to be directly involved in party affairs. Since then, he has taken them into his confidence, holding two meetings in Washington during recent weeks with governors and Democratic mayors.

Other items expected to come from the caucus in Omaha include reports on federal-state revenue sharing, discussions on welfare problems and a look at the nation's agricultural economy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court decision allowing the closing of public swimming pools in Jackson, Miss., was the third major setback for Negroes in the court in less than two weeks.

Justice Hugo L. Black, author of the majority opinion in the 5-4 decision, went out of his way Monday to caution from the bench that it does not signal approval of "any subterfuge" aimed at weakening school integration.

Still, this month, the court has declared apportionment plans fashioned by federal judges are outside the reach of the 1965 and 1970 voting rights law, that inner-city blacks do not have a right to their own legislative districts and now that Jackson could close its pools to avoid integrating them.

William M. Kuntzler, the New York lawyer who had argued before the court the pool closings were "a badge of slavery," described the ruling as "unspeakably tragic" and

"proof that black slavery is dead in name only."

Earlier this term the Supreme Court unanimously approved mass busing of public school children to accomplish desegregation and banned job tests that locked blacks into lesser jobs without proving they were disqualified for advancement.

These rulings, Kuntzler said in an interview, were in a "meaningless area."

"To blacks," he said, "being kept out of city pools is telling them they are beings of an inferior order. The Supreme Court has given a message to black people that says 'you are slaves'."

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said "The Supreme Court today made, in my opinion, an illogical and dangerous decision ..."

Tobias Simon, a civil rights lawyer in Miami, said he was "aghast at the decision."

"The court is proceeding to erase many of the gains that we have fought for over 20 years," he said. "It is getting into the same kind of repressive era that we had in the 1870s and it is going to be hard for everybody."

The direct impact of the ruling was not immediately clear. The question is whether officials elsewhere would attempt to close down pools or other facilities.

In Jackson, Mayor Russell Davis said the ruling may have cleared the way for the city to build 10 new pools. He said the voters might be asked to approve bonds this fall.

Black's opinion rejected any notion the pool closings, following an integration order, were evidence of "illegal motivation" against Negroes or illegal "state action" to further segregation.

He said there seemed to be some signs the pools were closed because of ideological opposition to integration. But, he said, there also was substantial evidence the pools were closed because the Jackson city council felt they could not be operated safely and economically on an integrated basis.

"If the time ever comes when Jackson attempts to run segregated public pools either directly or indirectly, or participates in a subterfuge whereby pools are nominally run by 'private parties' but actually by the city, relief will be available in the federal courts," he said.

But Justice Byron R. White, in a lengthy dissent, said the pool closing "was every bit as much an official endorsement of the notion that Negroes are not equal to whites as was the use of state National Guard troops in 1957 to bar the entry of nine Negro students into Little Rock's Central High School, a public facility that was ordered desegregated."

White said "both types of state actions reflect implementation of the same official conclusion: Negroes cannot be permitted to associate with whites."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart and Harry A. Blackmun backed Black. Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented along with White.

Playing By Rules Of The Game

Whatever is wrong with higher education in North Carolina today has roots that go far back into the past.

It is important for the average citizen to realize that higher education today is not in a shambles, as some would have us believe. In fact the North Carolina taxpayer is still getting his money's worth from higher education expenditures.

However, with the present system of administration, a shambles can develop. We have had a situation where campuses are in the Consolidated University, presumably eligible for unlimited development, while East Carolina with years of building and development would have been denied the same horizons.

Thus we have reached the point where an entirely new organization of higher education is needed if all the state's universities are to meet their maximum potential.

Why has this situation developed? It is mainly because politicking on behalf of various state institutions of higher learning goes back many years to the time when ECU was ECTC and made hardly a ripple in Raleigh waters.

Dwayne Walls recently did a thoughtful analysis of the situation in The Charlotte Observer. He quoted an observer of higher education as describing as "garbage" the idea that the situation all boils down to two warring factions — one led by Dr. Leo Jenkins and the other personified by President William Friday of the Consolidated University.

"Leo Jenkins didn't create the mess we're in now anymore than anyone else created it," the observer was quoted as saying.

"The real cause of the problem is a system which says to each college president: 'If you want your share of the state dollar, you have to by-pass the rules and regulations.'"

"Leo knows what the real game is. He knows that Chapel Hill had the power and that the only way he could get any of it was to play the power game better than Chapel Hill could play it — that is, by going to the legislature."

In that kind of situation, he concluded, somebody is going to take it on the chin.

Those close to higher education have known for years that Jenkins and those supporting East Carolina University's causes have only been playing the game by the rules that they found. ECU never made the rules.

To stay on the outside would have meant that the entire eastern portion of the state would have been locked out from higher education development because the real significant programs were reserved for the Consolidated University.

ECU earned its place as a full fledged university. It can live within the system of regents proposed by Gov. Scott and the Warren Commission, so long as it is given the chance to meet the needs of the people of the East and the entire state. Playing the political game was a necessity because that was the way the rules were written. Now there is no reason to believe that ECU cannot continue to develop under the state wide administrative approach.

Agnew Friends Dropping Hints

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON

Increasing talk at high Republican levels that Vice President Spiro Agnew may bow off the 1972 Republican Presidential ticket has its source not among Agnew-haters but in the very bosom of the Vice President's political family.

Two of Agnew's long-time intimates — Stanley Blair, top Vice Presidential aide before he ran unsuccessfully for governor of Maryland, and Agnew fund-raiser J. Water Jones, a rich Baltimore businessman — have been dropping hints that Agnew may not want to be Vice President another term.

One theory for these obviously Agnew-inspired leaks is that Agnew may be trying to light a backfire against himself — Agnew campaigns by Republican liberals who regard him as a dangerous 1972 hazard. Thus, political speculation that Agnew is seriously considering not running is easily converted by the Vice President's passionate devotees into an apparent effort to undermine him.

That, in turn, could become the catalyst for a massive counterattack by conservatives to force President Nixon to keep Agnew on the ticket.

Just such a counterattack under a bold "Agnew Must Stay" headline dominates page one of the June issue of Battle Line, the publication of the American Conservative Union whose chairman is M. Stanton Evans, editor of the Indianapolis News.

"The time has come to say what should not have to be said at all," proclaims Battle Line. "The dumping of Vice President Spiro Agnew from the 1972 Republican ticket would be unacceptable to American conservatives."

But there is reason to be skeptical about the theory that Agnew himself is trying to light a pro-Agnew backfire. That reason goes to the character and personality of Agnew himself, a unique figure in contemporary American politics who seldom plays by accepted political rules and who, having rocketed to the Vice Presidency from political obscurity in 1968, regards himself as something of a political accident.

Thus, at lunch with a friendly Republican Senator recently, Agnew emphasized what he says privately to his own staff: that he couldn't care less about another four years in the Vice Presidency. To this routine disclaimer, he often adds wistfully that he wants to make money while there is still time. He has been told that as a political commentator, wearing the mantle of what he has attacked as "the small and unelected elite" of the television media, he could gross up to half a million dollars a year.

In short, the prospect of the Republican party's most prolific fund-raiser in history becoming a fund-raiser for himself is taken seriously inside the Agnew camp.

But far more important to a possible Agnew withdrawal is (Continued on page 8)

Strength For Today

CONCERNING ETERNAL LIFE

What is eternal life? Before we try to answer that question we had best ask ourselves, "What is time?" Does it have any reality? Some of the wisest philosophers, among them Immanuel Kant, claim that time is only a category of the mind. We cannot think of anything except in terms of time and space. Even Einstein's latest formula, and many findings of science, questioned old ideas of time.

The Bible speaks of time as if in God's realm time is something quite different from what it is here on earth. In fact, there appears to be no time in the spiritual realm; or rather there is eternity of time.

But the significant thing about eternal life is not its duration but its quality. Through Jesus Christ we are promised a quality of life here on earth which, if we cherish it, will be continued to God's glory and our happiness forever and ever. If eternal life meant only endless existence, it might not be anything for which we would necessarily crave. It might, indeed, be the most terrifying of all possible alternatives. The endless life has to be an endless good to be good at all.

We know little about heaven, but one thing we know is that time, as we are familiar with it here on earth, has no place there. Eternal life is endless in duration and radiantly glorious in quality.

Felix Should Be Living

Looking over the Supreme Court's opinions last week in a batch of reapportionment cases, one is minded to paraphrase Wordsworth's famous apostrophe to Milton: Felix Frankfurter! Thou shouldst be living at this hour.

It is a phenomenal thing. It is a judicial version of the king's horses and the king's men, who marched up the hill and back down again. More than nine years ago, in one of the most brilliant dissenting opinions of his long career, Justice Frankfurter clearly perceived the folly of the course on which his brothers had embarked. If there is some quiet chamber in the Great Hereafter, set aside for judges who have passed the final bar, Frankfurter must be smiling there today.

The whole bizarre parade began on March 26, 1962, in Baker vs. Carr, the Tennessee case, when the Supreme Court ruled for the first time that inequality among voting districts is a justiciable issue. That was the start of "one man, one vote." Justice Brennan wrote the court's majority opinion; Justice Clark, concurring, whooped it up for judicial supremacy.

The Tennessee case was toe-in-the-water. "No one," said Clark, "contends that mathematical equality among voters is required by the Equal Protection Clause." A year later, when Justice Douglas spoke for the Court in Gray vs. Sanders, the king's men had climbed a little higher. In February of 1964, when Justice Black wrote Wesberry vs. Sanders, they reached the plateau of "as nearly as practicable."

On June 15, 1964, the Court exploded with a burst of energy. This time it was Chief Justice Warren, asserting hoity-toity that "legislators represent people, not trees or acres. Legislators are elected by voters, not farms or cities or economic interests." In cases from Alabama, Colorado, Maryland, Delaware and New York, the Court held that legislative districts must be defined on one standard only — one person, one vote. Yet even at this stage, "mathematical nicety is not a constitutional requirement."

The troops had farther still to go. Just two years ago, on April 7, 1969, they reached the summit. In cases from New York and Missouri, Brennan laid down the ultimately doctrinaire rule: They must justify every variation from the ideal, "no matter how small."

There were mutinous members of the band: Frank- (Continued on page 8)

Other Editors Say Final Solution

(Greensboro Daily News)

What ever happened to Bald Head Island, the 12,000-acre piece of coastal real estate that recently generated such a controversy between conservationists and developers?

The answer is: nothing; the island is still sitting there at the mouth of the Cape Fear River. But although legislative battles over such issues as capital punishment, liquor by the drink and higher education have crowded it out of the headlines, Bald Head may soon make a comeback.

According to the Greensboro-Raleigh grapevine, a group of farsighted legislators has been working quietly on the Bald Head problem. Their plan is for the state to buy it and turn it into a new kind of wildlife sanctuary — a staging ground for rock festivals. The idea is to restrict these festivals in North Carolina to Bald Head Island.

Conservationists probably will object that rock fans congregating on the island would contribute to the pollution of the surrounding waters to the detriment of the fish, shellfish and other marine life in the area. Fiscal purists may object to tapping the state treasury for five or six million dollars to pay for Bald Head.

Those objections have some validity, but not enough to worry about. This could be a classic example of fighting pollution with pollution. It might make the fish and the oysters sick, but it would certainly protect the eardrums of Tar Heels living on the mainland and go a long way toward abating noise pollution in the state. Anyhow, the fish probably are full of mercury already and it is said that eating too many shellfish can bring on a case of the hives.

Altogether, the idea of quarantining rock festivals to a coastal wilderness strikes us as eminently sound, esthetically and financially. About all we have to suggest is that the legislature seriously consider specifying in the law that the rock festival season on Bald Head must coincide with the hurricane season.

$1-A-Gallon Gas Tax Offered

By ELMER ROESSNER

Wunderbar von Garfinkel, the old promoter, has come up with a neat solution to the air pollution problem. In a single stroke he would eliminate most smog, carbon monoxide, sulfur and other contaminants from the atmosphere. The solution is so simple that it is surprising that it has never been proposed.

It is to levy a federal tax of $1 a gallon on gasoline. The tax could be remitted on farm and other off-highway vehicles, just as federal and most state gasoline taxes are now, at least for a period of years.

The tax would immediately discourage the use of automobiles except for the most urgent uses. People would be forced to use buses, subways, commuter trains and bicycles to get to and from work. Shoppers would have to walk to stores or telephone their orders. Instead of a thousand autos swarming around a shopping center, one or two delivery trucks would pollute the air.

Other Curtailment

Trips to suburbia for dinner at tasty joints or from the suburbs to swank downtown restaurants by auto would be eliminated. Gourmets would have to use mass transportation.

"The dollar-a-gallon tax would cause some disruption in the economy," Mr. von Wunderbar admitted in an interview. "It would cut the demand for new cars, resulting in layoffs of a large number of workers. However, it would cut in half the number of auto accident deaths, which now run around 50,000 a year."

"In cutting the demand for gasoline, it would cut the need for crude oil. That would make us less dependent on Middle East oil, freeing our hands for more decisive diplomatic action in the Israeli-Arab conflict. There would be fewer oil spills from tanker accidents and offshore drilling, doing even more for the ecology.

"I need not point out that Russia does not waste its national wealth by providing every family with a car and the gas and oil to make it go. Consequently, Russia can afford to maintain large armies among its satellites, extend its sway into Egypt and the Arab nations, into Cuba, Chile, North Vietnam, Africa and Berkeley, Calif. Bicycle Boom

"While such a tax would cut demand for automobiles, it would boom the demand for bicycles. Thus the tax would increase American health two ways: first by reducing air pollution; second by getting people to exercise more."

"I suggest that the tax

Wilson Nips Greenville In 13th Frame

WILSON — Bad luck continued to follow Russ Smith, pitcher for Greenville's American Legion baseball team. Last night, Smith tossed 12-plus innings against Wilson's Post 13, only to come out on the short end of a 4-3 score in the 13th. Smith struck out 16 in going the distance and walked only one. He scattered nine hits and only two of the runs against him were earned. Greenville also picked up nine hits off three Wilson hurlers, but they were not able to get them when they counted.

It was one of the unearned runs in the final inning that cut the Greenville team down, handing them their second Area One defeat in four games.

Wilson jumped on Smith early, scoring two runs in the first, but after that, he held the hosts in check most of the rest of the way. Aside from the two scoring innings in the remaining 12 frames, only three saw runners get into scoring position.

Robbie Ivey led off the first with a single to center. Dennis Wilkerson followed with another hit, putting two on. With one away, Greg Fulghum slapped a single to right, driving in both Ivey and Wilkerson for a 2-0 lead.

Greenville got its first run in the third. With two away, J. C. Daniels reached on an error, taking second on the play. Bill Lee singled to score him and cut the lead to 2-1.

Wilson came right back in the bottom of the frame with another run. Ivey reached when his outfield fly was dropped. A balk moved him to second and an attempted pickoff play there was missed, letting Ivey go to third. He scored when Jimmy DeRatt grounded out.

That was the final Wilson run, however, until the 13th frame. They got a runner as far as second in the fifth and seventh innings, and one reached third in the eighth, but they got no tallies.

Greenville threatened in the fourth, and fifth innings without scoring. Phil Blount doubled and gained third on an out in the fourth, but was unable to score. Timmy James doubled to open the fifth, but never got off the base.

Finally, in the ninth, Greenville came up with two to tie it and force extra innings. Blount walked and Roland Hooks also got a walk. Larry Hatton then replaced him as a pinch runner. James followed with a triple to right center, scoring both runners. But the next batter fanned to end the threat, leaving Greenville just a base away from the win.

Greenville got off threats in the 11th, 12th, and 13th without success. Blount reached second in the 11th on a single and a sacrifice. Smith walked and moved up on another in the 12th, and then in the 13th, Joe West doubled with two away, but again there was no score.

Wilson then came up with the winning run in the 13th. With two

Pepsi-Cola, College View Pick Up Victories In Babe Ruth Loop

Pepsi-Cola and College View gained ground on the leader last night in the Babe Ruth League. Pepsi knocked off league leader North Carolina National Bank, 4-2, while College View romped over Home Builders, 18-6.

NCNB holds the lead with a 6-3 record, while Carolina Dairy is second with a 5-3 mark. They are followed by Pepsi, 5-4, College View and Home Builders, both 4-5, and Planters Bank, 2-6.

In the opener, Pepsi pushed into the lead in the third inning. Pete Cullop walked and Al Salisbury also got a free trip. Both advanced on a passed ball and T.J. Payne sacrificed to score Cullop.

In the fourth, NCNB came up with a run to tie it up. That came on a leadoff homer by Gil Whitford.

In the sixth, Pepsi went back into the lead with a homer. Bobby Dough got the solo shot to make it 2-1.

But in the bottom of the frame, NCNB came right back with a run to tie it up again. That also was on a homer as Phil Dash did the honors.

Pepsi wouldn't give up its victory however, and charged back for two runs in the top of the seventh. Curtis Lee singled and moved up on a passed ball. Salisbury then cracked the fourth homer of the game, scoring both runs to give Pepsi the win.

Lee led the Pepsi hitting with two, while Dash had three and Steve Fuchs had two for NCNB. College View wiped out Home Builders in the top of the first inning, scoring seven big runs. Bobby Kittrell doubled and Donald Cannon reached on an error, moving Kittrell to third. Cannon stole second and Robert Boles sacrificed in Kittrell. Ken Tetterton then doubled to score Cannon and Jimmy Buck got a hit. Lee Moore walked to load the bases and Jimmy Averett reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Tetterton. Jay Jester then singled to right, scoring Buck and Moore. Kittrell walked and another to Cannon brought in Averett. Boles also walked, scoring Jester with the seventh run.

In the second, Home Builders pushed over two. Danny Geisler walked and Mike McCormock singled. Leon Guthrie walked, and so did Jon West, scoring Geisler. A passed ball let McCormick score.

In the third, College View exploded again, this time getting 10 runs to push out to a 17-2 lead. Jester reached on an error and Keith Jones made it on a fielder's choice. Kittrell also reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Cannon walked to score Jester and Boles reached on an error, bringing in Jones. A wild pitch scored Kittrell, and Buck got a hit to drive in Cannon. Moore walked and Averett reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Boles, but getting Moore at second. Connor Merritt walked to reload the bases and Jones doubled to score Buck and Averett. Kittrell singled in Jones after Merritt had come across on a passed ball. Cannon walked and Boles got a hit to score Kittrell with the 17th run.

College View added its final run in the fifth, while Home Builders got one in the third, a homer by Skip Fowler, one in the fourth and two in the fifth.

Kittrell had three hits and Buck had two for College View. Fowler had two for Home Builders.

Jaycees Ease Past R.C. Cola

The Jaycees avoided elimination from the North State Little League race yesterday with an 8-5 victory over R. C. Cola.

The Optimists lead the league with a 9-1 record, while the Kiwanis are in second place with a 7-3 mark. They are followed by the Jaycees and R. C., both 5-6, and Coca-Cola, 4-6. The Lions bring up the rear, 1-9.

R. C. pushed over two runs in the top of the first inning. Doug Burbage doubled and Bryant Morton singled. A passed ball scored Burbage, and Morton scored when Ricky Bolonde reached on an error.

In the bottom of the first, the Jaycees came back with two to tie it up. Bill Collier doubled and Bill Myers slapped a homer to right for the 2-2 deadlock.

In the third, the Jaycees pushed back into the lead with a run. Bolonde walked and moved up on singles by Charley Hayek and Billy Tugwell. He scored on Joe Shoe's hit.

But the Jaycees came right back with two to grab the lead, 4-3. Collier singled and Holt singled. Myers reached on a fielder's choice, and an error let Collier score. Holt then stole home for the lead.

In the fourth, R. C. came back to gain the lead again, scoring two runs. Morton singled and Bolonde slapped the second homer of the game for a 5-4 lead.

The Jaycees then sewed it up in the bottom of the fourth with four runs. Lance Worthington singled and moved up on an out. Joey Mathies was hit by a pitch and Collier doubled in Worthington. Holt singled and Myers got a hit to score Mathies, but Collier was caught going home. Danny Boyd then singled to score both Holt and Myers and close out the scoring.

Pepsi-Cola Nips Moose By 3-1

Pepsi-Cola eliminated the Moose from the Tar Heel Little League title race yesterday with a 3-1 victory.

The Graniters lead the league with a 9-1 record, while Pepsi is in second place at 7-4. They are followed by the Elks, 5-5, the Moose, 4-7 and Integon and Exchange, both 3-7.

Pepsi pushed over a run in the top of the first to take the lead. Michael Shank singled to center and went on to third when the ball was errored. Another error on the relay allowed him to finish the trip around the bases for a 1-0 lead.

The Moose came right back with a run to tie it up. Henry Baker reached on an error, moving to second on the play. Baker moved to third on an out, and scored on an error on the play.

Pepsi pushed back into the lead for good in the third inning as again Shank did the damage. He doubled to left and moved to third on Dana Kendrick's hit. A passed ball let Shank score the go-ahead run.

The final run came in the sixth. Kendrick doubled to center and Mark Conway reached on an error, scoring Kendrick.

Jacklin Wants To Break Jinx

By RALPH BERNSTEIN Associated Press Sports Writer ARDMORE, Pa., (AP) — Nobody has been able to win consecutive U.S. Open Golf championships since Ben Hogan did it in 1950 and 1951. Can England's Tony Jacklin break through the jinx that seems to be handing over the defending champion?

"I'm still hungry and there is nothing else I want to do but play golf," said Jacklin before a practice round Monday over the 6,544 yard Merion Golf Club course, scene of this week's 71st annual U.S. Open, starting Thursday.

Jacklin isn't concerned with history or jinxes, or even courses. "If I'm playing well I have a good chance," he said. "That's my problem, playing well." He said he wasn't concerned that he had never seen, let alone played Merion. "It doesn't matter. I've won on all sorts of courses."

Jacklin's main concern is that he has been in a slump. He's been in slumps before, but he says his latest one has lasted longer than any of the others.

Jacklin, who won at Hazletine last year by seven strokes with a 281, feels his game has been distracted because of the personal appearances resulting from his Open triumph.

"It's been difficult to keep my mind on my game," he said. His highest finish this year has been a tie for seventh in the Greensboro Open.

Jacklin also has been worried by a threat upon his life, and another to bomb his wife's home in Belfast. He said that he had received a cable from a newspaper that it had an anonymous call making the threats against Jacklin if he played in the Gallagher Ulster Tournament.

Jacklin is taking no chances. He has withdrawn from the Ulster Tournament scheduled for later this month. He explained that if he played it would attract a lot of attention and that he would need a police guard and there would be letters. "and besides they might do it," he added.

Jacklin is extremely impressed with Merion's 36-34-70 course. He believes a good driving game is necessary to stay out of trouble. He describes the greens as fantastic, noting that to win he will have to putt very well.

Most of the players were out on the course Monday despite periods of heavy rain. Billy Casper, who won the Open in 1959 and again in 1966, said of Merion, "Many modern day golf architects could take a good lesson from this course."

Southern Aids Special Transfers

MYRTLE BEACH, S. C. (AP) — Athletic directors of the Southern Conference have recommended that a student who transfers to a conference school from a school which drops a sport be eligible in that sport immediately.

At present he must wait a year.

The recommendation will be up for a vote at the December meeting of the conference in Charleston.

The athletic directors also recommended Monday that the conference retain in its present form the hardship rule concerning football players hurt in preseason practice or in the first game of the season and then being unable to play the rest of the season. The directors voted that such players continue to be granted a full year of eligibility, turning down a proposal that the extra year be extended to players hurt in the second or third game of the season.

The directors met with Commissioner Lloyd Jordan today, and will end their gathering Wednesday.

They voted to declare baseball co-champions if two teams tie for the title, but to arrange a best-of-three playoff if an NCAA tournament bid is at stake. A playoff would be only for the NCAA representative, and league co-champions still would be recognized.

It was decided that the standings for the Commissioners Cup rewarding overall sports excellence will be determined by giving eight points to a school finishing first in a sport, seven for the second team, down to one point for the school finishing last. In basketball, points will be awarded on standings over the regular season, not in the tournament.

Karate Course

A Karate program sponsored by the Farmville Department of Recreation will begin on Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. The classes will be held at the high school gym. There will be no age limit for those interested in registering.

Instructor will be T. S. Peric, state representative of Karate International who is currently teaching in the Greenville and Washington areas. For further information please contact H. A. (Hap) Nichola at 753-3710 (Farmville) or Peric, at 756-0922 (Greenville).

Player Takes Cautious View

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — South African Gary Player takes a cautious approach to the United States Open Golf championship.

"You don't want to be too cocky going into something like this," the muscular little rancher from Johannesburg said Monday before his first practice round over the historic Marion Golf Club course.

"I am playing very well right now," said 34-year-old physical fitness addict added, then couldn't suppress a smile that crept across his handsome face:

"Just look at the record, at the money winnings, at the stroke average. That tells the story."

And it's a story that makes the diminutive superstar with the powerful, sloping shoulders one of the prime candidates for the title in the most prestigious of all the world's golf tournaments, a 72-hole test that begins Thursday.

Player, one of only four men ever to sweep all four of the world's major professional titles, is enjoying one of his best years on the American circuit.

He scored consecutive victories in the Jacksonville and National Airlines Opens, was second in the Tournament of Champions, missed a tie for first in the Atlanta Classic by a single stroke, was fourth in the PGA national championship, sixth in the Masters and lost in a playoff last weekend for the Kemper Open title.

His winnings of more than $118,000 is the second best he's had in 15 years on the tour and has him closing in on fourth place on the all-time list. His stroke average is a remarkable 70.6.

Player, the 1965 Open champion, played sparingly in the next three years, then made a longer tour the last couple of years, each time winning more than $100,000.

He's played only 11 tournaments in the U.S. this season, also hitting circuits in Australia and South Africa and spending as much time as possible with his family on the horse ranch outside Johannesburg.

Costly Error For The Angels

The throw from the outfield of the single by John Kennedy, Boston Red Sox shortstop, to California Angels catcher Jerry Moses was right on target but Moses let it pop out of his glove permitting Duane Josephson of the Red Sox to score in the second inning of their game in Anaheim last night. The Red Sox won the game in the 15th inning, 4-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Taylor Makes Impressive Debut With The Tigers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers have a new Taylor with an old habit.

Tony Taylor, who helped the Philadelphia Phillies win many games in 11 years with the National League club, now is sewing up victories with his new team at Detroit.

Taylor, traded last week, made an impressive debut Sunday with three hits in a winning effort and Monday night, banged two more — including the game-winner — as the Tigers shaded the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 10 innings.

"I'm very happy to have this kind of start in Detroit," said Taylor.

Taylor almost delivered the winning hit two innings earlier when he rifled a grass-cutter to the right side with men on first and second. But second baseman Rich McKinney made a diving stop for the final out.

The Minnesota Twins turned back the Cleveland Indians 3-1; the Kansas City Royals cut down the New York Yankees 4-1 and the Boston Red Sox tripped the California Angels 5-4 in 15 innings in the American League's other games Monday night. Milwaukee at Baltimore was postponed because of rain.

In the National League, it was Chicago Cubs 3, Atlanta Braves 2; Philadelphia Phillies 9, San Francisco Giants 4; Los Angeles Dodgers 3, New York Mets 2; San Diego Padres 2, Montreal Expos 1; Houston Astros 5, Pittsburgh Pirates 4 and Cincinnati Reds 7, St. Louis Cardinals 2.

Taylor, admittedly jolted by the recent trade, is finding a home in Detroit.

"It was a shock after being traded after 11 years in Philadelphia," said Taylor, "but I've been happy in the little time I've been here."

Taylor has temporarily moved in with teammates Aurelio Rodriguez and Cesar Gutierrez and is getting briefed from others on how to handle certain American League pitchers.

He sliced a 1-0 pitch just inside the right field foul line for a dramatic two-out double, chasing home Al Kaline with the winning run. It was a typical, opposite-field shot for the punch-hitting second baseman.

Dick McAuliffe's run-scoring single in the sixth inning pulled Detroit into a 3-3 tie, setting the stage for the Taylor-made victory.

Jim Perry fired a six-hitter and fanned 11 batters and Tony Oliva ripped a three-run homer in the first inning to pace the Minnesota success.

"I'm not a strikeout artist," Perry insisted, "sometimes you strike out 10 a game and the next time you don't get any. My fastball — I had good control of it early in the game and I hit some pretty good spots. This is my best game for all nine innings this year."

Tony Oliva, who also had a single to go along with his 14th homer, said: "I hit the single harder than the home run, but I hit the home run pretty hard, too."

Streaking Kansas City erupted for five singles and four runs before anyone was out in the sixth and went on to bounce New York for its sixth straight victory and 12th in 13 games.

Paul Schaaf and Amos Otis singled before Chuck Harrison's single scored Schaaf with the tying run. Lou Piniella beat out a bunt, loading the bases, Otis scored on a wild pitch with Harrison charging to third and Piniella to second. Bob Oliver then produced the final runs of the outburst with a single.

The victory left the Royals only 4½ games behind Oakland in the American League West.

Doug Griffin's single in the last of the 15th inning sent home pinch-runner Luis Aparicio with the winning run for Boston.

Rico Petrocelli singled with one out to open the rally and took second on a wild pitch.

Aparicio, running for Petrocelli, held second as George Scott walked, then came home when Griffin delivered a line-drive shot to left.

June Bugs Continue To Put Bite On Giants

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Monday being Flag Day, the San Francisco Giants continued waver.

The beleaguered Giants, still unable to shake the June bugs, lost for the 10th time in 13 games this month, bowing to Philadelphia 9-4. Combined with Los Angeles' 3-2 victory over the New York Mets, it pared the Giants' lead in the National League West to five games. It stood at 10½ on June 1.

Elsewhere, Houston nipped Pittsburgh 5-4, Cincinnati whipped St. Louis 7-2, the Chicago Cubs edged Atlanta 3-2 and San Diego shaded Montreal 2-1.

American League scores: Detroit 4, Chicago White Sox 3 in 10 innings; Boston 4, California 3 in 15; Kansas City 4, New York Yankees 1 and Minnesota 3, Cleveland 1. Baltimore and Milwaukee were rained out, Oakland and Washington were not scheduled.

The day started out badly for the Giants with the announcement that slugging Willie McCovey will have his ailing knees re-examined when the team returns home Thursday and may need an operation. It didn't take long for things to get worse.

Utilityman Frank Johnson was struck in the face by a ball during infield practice and was unconscious for at least 10 minutes. X-rays were negative but Johnson was said to be suffering from "ataxia to the right," which means he veers to the right when he walks.

The Phillies then gave Gaylord Perry a severe case of ataxia to the showers. Willie Montanez started it with a first inning homer and the Phils exploded for six runs in the second, their biggest outburst of the season.

Roger Freed singled in the tie-breaking run, pitcher Rick Wise hammered a three-run homer and Tim McCarver delivered a two-run shot. Oscar Gamble connected in the fifth.

The Dodgers used a solo homer by Willie Davis in the first inning and Bobby Valentine's two-run double in the third to beat the Mets and ace Tom Seaver. Jim Brewer relieved starter Don Sutton after the Mets scored both their runs in the seventh and snuffed out the rally.

It was the Dodgers' fourth consecutive victory and 13th in their last 17 games.

"Momentum," said Sutton. "We've got the momentum now."

"We think about winning this thing," said Richie Allen, who walked and then beat close plays at second and third to ignite the Dodgers' two-run third.

Houston climbed to within eight games of the Giants in the West and prevented Pittsburgh from increasing its 2½-game bulge over the Mets in the East when Joe Morgan walked with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning, forcing in the winning run.

The Pirates had tied the score in the top of the ninth on Dave Cash's two-run single. The Astros had taken the lead in the sixth on Cesar Cedeno's triple, Bob Watson's sacrifice fly and Denis Menke's first home run of the season.

Lee May drove in four runs with a two-run homer and double as the Reds stretched St. Louis' losing streak to seven games. Hal McRae also stroked a two-run double for the winners.

Joe Pepitone's three-run homer off Phil Niekro with two out in the eighth inning lifted the Cubs past the Braves. Phil Regan, getting his first start since August 1967, pitched eight innings and picked up the win.

Clarence Gaston doubled home both San Diego runs with two out in the ninth inning to give the Padres their triumph over the Expos. Angel Bravo walked with one out. Larry Stahl singled and Dave Campbell hit into a force play before Gaston connected up the alley in right-center, spoiling Carl Morton's shutout bid.

San Diego starter Clay Kirby allowed three hits and struck out nine in eight-innings.

Bobby By $100,000

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Allison has joined Richard Petty in the $100,000 club for stock car drivers.

They are the only two NAS-CAR competitors ever to win more than $100,000 in a single season. Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., has a total of $100,680, with the winners' purses in recent races at Charlotte, N.C., Dover, Del., and Irish Hills, Mich., accounting for most of that.

Petty has won $140,255 this season. He is the all-time NAS-CAR money-winner and has received more than $1 million in his career.

The pair is at Riverside, Calif., for the Golden State 400 Sunday.

In the Winston Cup point standings, Petty has the edge over everybody else. He leads Grand National competitors James Hylton, Elmo Langley, Cecil Gordon and Allison.

Johnson Says Ruiz Had Gun

ANAHEIM (AP) — California Angels outfielder Alex Johnson was quoted Monday by the team's general manager, Dick Walsh, as saying teammate Chico Ruiz aimed a handgun at him in the clubhouse Sunday.

Walsh added that Ruiz called the account "preposterous."

Walsh called a news conference Monday after Bud Tucker of the San Gabriel Valley Tribune reported the alleged incident in his sports column. The writer said he learned of the incident from a reliable source.

Walsh said he spoke with both players before Monday night's game with the Boston Red Sox. Both were in uniform for the game, but neither was in the starting lineup. During the game, Johnson sat on the Angels' bench and Ruiz, a utility infielder, sat in the bullpen.

Johnson, Walsh said, told him that during the ninth inning of Sunday's game with Washington, after both he and Ruiz had appeared as pinch hitters, "Ruiz produced a handgun and aimed it in his direction while both were sitting in front of their respective lockers."

"Johnson said no verbal threat was made," Walsh said. "He also said Ruiz then put the weapon in the back pocket of his uniform and went back to the dugout."

The general manager quoted Ruiz as telling him, "It did not take place. If you think it happened, produce a witness."

Johnson had told him there was no witness, Walsh said. The outfielder told him he had notified a park security guard, who has not been questioned, Walsh said.

"There was no search and no weapon discovered," Walsh told reporters. He said police had not been notified.

The players were not available for comment.

further, of course; Harlan, at every step of the way; Stewart and Fortas in cases from Texas and Missouri; even Clark in the Colorado decision. But by and large, the Court was driven by what Harlan last week described as "deep personal commitments by some members to the principles of pure majoritarian democracy." At the cost of common sense and sound constitutional construction, the Court's egalitarian ideologies were determined to have their way.

No more. Last week the Court — with Brennan sputtering all the way — marched back down again. In the old draconian days, a majority might have been mustered to impose immediate redistricting, by judicial fiat, upon foot-dragging Arizona. But no now. In a case from Rockland County, N.Y., Justice Marshall — of all people — agreed that "long tradition" could justify a 12 per cent spread from perfect equality. In other equal protection cases from Indian and West Virginia, the Court retreated from the untenable positions that unreason once would have compelled a majority to hold.

Harlan could not resist a rebel yell of triumph. The several decisions, he said, amounted to an implicit rejection of the old majoritarianism. The Court at last was emerging from "the haze of slogans and numerology" which had obscured its vision. The Idiana decision alone "is nothing short of a complete vindication of Mr. Justice Frankfurter's warning ten years ago."

Last week's four opinions may also be viewed as further evidence of the Court's new direction under Chief Justice Burger. The Chief was at his best in renouncing pure democracy in the West Virginia case; and he had Justide Blackmun with him all the way. All in all, it was one of the Court's better days of this term. It's a pity that Frankfurter, who retired in 1962 and died in 1965, couldn't have been around to enjoy it.

new political intelligence that he would in fact be a liability, not an asset, on the Nixon 1972 ticket. Top party leaders are studying a Michigan poll, for example, which shows Agnew costing Mr. Nixon heavily in votes, not unexpected in a liberal state.

In Kansas, however, a Midwest Republican cradle, a recent Oliver Quayle poll shows a decline in Agnew's "favorable" rating from 58 percent to 46 percent between September 1970 and last month. The President dropped only from 66 to 59 percent.

Even in large part of the Dixie stronghold of Nixon Republicanism, where Agnew's name glitters, the President now outruns his Vice President. Party professionals interpret this as meaning one thing: that despite Agnew's singular popularity, Mr. Nixon has now built himself a political base solid enough to run well without Agnew. As one Deep South Republican chairman told us: "With Nixon as strong as he is, we might even sell a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket here. That fellow Rockefeller (New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller) doesn't wear horns any longer."

Finally, Agnew himself is studying polls showing that the new youth vote — which will reach a potential 27 million by November 1972 — may go Democratic as high as seven-to-one. Agnew correctly worries that his presence on the ticket would be no help there.

By quietly planting the seed now of a possible voluntary exit from the 1972 ticket, Agnew buys important psychological protection against an involuntary exit dictated by Mr. Nixon. If and when that times comes in a secret huddle between Messrs. Nixon and Agnew, the Vice President can emerge with the word that the decision to bow out was his, not the President's.

EDITOR'S NOTE — For years two superpowers have been arrayed in a tug of war, Moscow vs. Washington. Now China is about to make it a three-way competition, and the original contestants must speculate how the pulling and hauling will go under the gathering clouds of potential destruction. Some things the development may mean are discussed in this analysis, first of two articles, by a writer who has closely watched Communist maneuvers as World War II turned into cold war and evolved into the era of ABM and SALT.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
One of these days—perhaps fairly soon—Red China is expected to lob an intercontinental ballistic missile into the sea.

It will make an enormous splash. As the innocent click of Ping Pong paddles did politically, its ominous roar militarily will remind the world that the perilous game of world power politics has become a triangular affair. China has broken out of her shell and is taking a hand.

"The shadow of that missile arc will be permanent," says Dr. Ralph Lapp, a noted nuclear physicist long associated with the study of the problems involved with superweaponry. He feels Red China, unlike the two secondary nuclear club members, Britain and France, will be a truly credible nuclear power because of her vastness, staking a claim to superpower status.

This is bound to have an immense impact on the shape of things to come in the remaining three decades of the 20th century.

Travel Success Requires Plans

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most travel experts agree the success of your long-awaited vacation trip depends on the amount of planning you do, the Blue Cross Association says.

The association says often overlooked, however, is planning for the possibility of sickness or injury during your travels.

ry. China, believed by experts ready to test her ICBM when the moment is right psychologically, already is a spectral third party at SALT, the Soviet-American talks on strategic arms limitation.

China's missile will add a new dimension to what, for years, has been a two-way competition between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The world, not without some terrifying moments, survived the first quarter-century of the nuclear age. President Nixon expressed hope for a shift from confrontation to an era of negotiation. There is much talk of limiting strategic arms, establishing European security, restoring Asian peace and fruitful discourse among nations.

But while there are hopeful signs, today's confrontation jargon remains frightening.

Today's world is one in which three huge nations eye one another with suspicion. If any of the three makes even a hesitant gesture toward another, the third invariably reacts with alarm.

This is the sort of world which now is looking at the beginning of a new stage of power alignment. For decades, while the contest was mainly between Russians and Americans, the main theater was the Atlantic afford the things that make life gracious, interesting, and amusing."—Lewis Mumford.

Word Game: Crossword puzzles were invented in 1917 by Arthur Wynne, a New York newspaper editor, who originally called them word-cross puzzles.

Payoff in safety: A recent survey found that teen-age drivers who took a school course in driving had 58 per cent fewer accidents than untrained young motorists.

Naughty, naughty: The joys are at it again: Are you one of those in-between eaters who like to raid the refrigerator for midnight snacks? Well, you'd better stop it. A dietician says these raids indicate insecurity and a desire for maternal reassurance. You are mistaking the refrigerator for your mommy.

Genius in pain: Do you tend to use ill health or handicaps as an excuse for not achieving success? Well, Thomas A. Edison, in addition to his deafness, was sick almost half his life with insomnia, bad digestion, diabetes and gastric ulcers.

Beethoven, the composer, and Dryden, the poet, were deaf. Milton was blind. Pope was an invalid who had to wear a corset to keep his spine upright. Heine wrote some of his most lyric verse while bedridden.

Following the ceremony, officers, guests and their ladies were served a luncheon at the lodge.

Flag Day Rites Are Observed By Elks Lodge

Flag Day, June 14th, was commemorated Monday by members of Greenville Lodge Number 1645 of the Benevolent Protection, Order of Elks.

Edward W. Turcotte, Exalted Ruler, presided over the ceremonies held in the Elks Lodge in Greenville. The oration concerning the flag was given by Judge J. W. H. Roberts.

Turcotte said this rite was a mandatory one for the Elks each year, and that to the best of his knowledge the Elks is the only fraternity that honors the flag each year on Flag Day.

Following the ceremony, officers, guests and their ladies were served a luncheon at the lodge.

area. Now the focus seems to be shifting toward a Pacific cockpit complicated by an eager and dynamic Japan seeking leverage for aims of her own in Asia.

Veteran observers of Communist affairs think China's increasing role as counterweight between the two military giants is posing an urgent need for careful reassessment of U.S. power positions.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, a frequent adviser in Washington on Communist policy, wrote in the periodical Foreign Policy: "Washington has been clearly jolted by the sudden rush of recognition of the Peking government and by the high probability that Peking may soon be seated in the United Nations at the expense of the Nationalist Chinese government."

Now, he wrote, the Nixon administration has the problem of devising strategy to meet the dilemma in the light of the emergent relationship among Washington, Peking and Moscow.

"The various unilateral gestures so far adopted by the Nixon administration can therefore be seen as an effort to obtain eventually some flexibility in that triangular relationship, even if these gestures by themselves do not materially improve the American-Chinese relationship in the short run. The administration certainly realizes that in such a triangular relationship, intense hostility between any two automatically benefits the third. This puts a premium on restraint on the part of all three toward one another."

Perhaps that is a hopeful aspect of the three powers' relationship, a sort of built-in deterrent against rash policy.

Nixon says he has taken notice of the "significant change" among U.N. members on the issue of Chinese admission; his administration is analyzing the situation in consultation with the Chiang government before deciding a position. Whatever it decides, the going is likely to be difficult, since Red China's position seems to be getting stronger all the time.

In the long run, whether China's emergence is good or bad from the American standpoint is going to depend on interactions in the power triangle. One thing it clearly will do will be to remind both Russians and Americans that a third party stands by, ready and willing to pick up the pieces if the two giants should collide.

Cuke Harvester Now Operating

CUCUMBER HARVESTING . . . is underway in the photo above on an area farm but hand labor is not required in the process as machines handle the chores.

Machines designed to eliminate all hand labor in the harvesting of cucumbers are now in operation in Pitt County, according to assistant agricultural extension agent Henry Riddick.

Riddick said that currently there are three harvesting machines in this area; two owned by Aunt Janes Pickles, a division of Borden Foods Inc., and another purchased recently by Tom Andrews, farmer in the Bethel area.

The agent pointed out that for the harvester to operate efficiently cucumbers must be planted on a "bed" utilizing a plant population of some 87,000 per acre.

Riddick noted that Paul Cullifer, a cucumber producer and buyer in Bethel, reported satisfactory operation of the machine in the Bethel area with cucumber yields good under the relatively dry weather conditions.

Approve 2 Special Use Permits Here

Two public hearings, both for special use permits, heard Monday afternoon by the Greenville Board of Adjustments, resulted in the board's granting approval of the two requests.

The first was a request for a special use permit by T and T Cleaners. The establishment was seeking permission to use the vacant Wachovia Bank Branch building located at 1100 North Greene Street (north of the river) for a dry cleaning establishment. This property is zoned Highway Commercial.

The second request for special use permit, that of JA's Uniform Shop, was one for the use of a portion of a building located at 1203 South Evans Street for a uniform sales store. The property in this area is zoned Downtown Commercial Fringe.

In both instances, there were no citizens present to voice opposition to the proposed special uses.

Following the public hearings, City Planner Dillion Watson briefed members of the Board of Adjustments on proposed amendments to the current zoning regulations of the City of Greenville.

Watson explained that the Planning and Zoning Commission had appointed a committee to study a number of proposed amendments, which will be presented to the City Council for consideration. In the event the amendments are approved by the City Council, Watson noted this would eliminate many of the hearings now being conducted by the Board of Adjustments on certain types of special use permits.

Complain Prime Minister Snubs Diplomat Corps

LONDON (AP) — Three members of Queen Elizabeth's household have accused Prime Minister Edward Heath of snubbing diplomats by racing his sailboat instead of attending a royal ceremony in London.

Heath was racing his yacht Morning Cloud last Saturday during the trooping the color ceremony marking the queen's 45th birthday. The prime minister traditionally acts as host to the diplomatic corps at the ceremony.

The angry parliamentarians were Alan Fitch, John Silkin and Charles Morris, all members of the royal household as former managers of the opposition Labor party.

They indicated Monday they would carry the complaint to the House of Commons. There was no reply from Heath, who had the queen's permission to take part in the race, which he won.

Scholarship To Honor Mamie

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scholarship fund honoring Mamie Doud Eisenhower will be established at Eisenhower College in Seneca Falls, N.Y., a Washington broadcaster's group says.

Mrs. Eisenhower visited Republican National Headquarters Monday and learned of plans for the fund, sponsored by the Washington, D.C., chapter of American Women in Radio and Television.

Marie Smith Schwartz, a trustee of the college, said 14 members of the Eisenhower Cabinet will attend a fund-raising party to aid the scholarship program. It will be Sept. 28 to mark the 75th birthday of the former first lady.

Optometric Soc. Names Officers

ASHEVILLE (AP) — The North Carolina State Optometric Society has elected Dr. Frank B. Day of Raleigh its president, succeeding Dr. Robert Sosnik of Winston-Salem.

The organization ends its annual spring congress today.

Other officers installed Monday night include executive vice president Dr. E. Lee Adams of Goldsboro, vice president Dr. Grover Palmer of Salisbury, and secretary-treasurer Dr. John Costabile of Wilson.

N.Y. Times Refuses Halt Publication

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times say that despite the threat of injunction it "must respectfully decline" a Justice Department request to halt the publication of a secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell asked the newspaper in a telegram Monday evening to refrain from further publication of a the documents on the ground that it will cause "irreparable injury to the defense interests of the United States."

The telegram arrived about an hour after Robert C. Mardian, assistant attorney general in charge of the internal security division, conveyed the department request to Harding F. Bancroft, executive vice president of the Times.

Mardian said that if the Times did not accede "the government would seek to enforce all applicable statutes, including seeking an injunction to stop further publication," a Justice Department spokesman said.

The secret documents are part of a three-year-old, 40-volume study of how the United States became involved in the Indochina war. The third installment of the series appeared in today's editions of the Times.

Replying to Mitchell, the Times said in a statement that it "must respectfully decline the request of the attorney general, believing that it is in the interest of the people of this country to be informed of the material contained in this series of articles."

Regarding a possible injunction, the statement said, "We believe that is properly a matter for the courts to decide. The Times will oppose any request for an injunction for the same reason that led us to publish the articles in the first place."

"We will of course abide by the final decision of the court."

Earlier Monday Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told a Senate committee that the publication of the documents "violates the security regulations of the United States."

The telegram from Mitchell, addressed to Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, said:

"I have been advised by the secretary of defense that the material published in the New York Times on June 13, 14, 1971, captioned 'Key Texts from Pentagon's Vietnam Study' contains information relating to the national defense of the United States and bears a top secret classification."

"As such, publication of this information is directly prohibited by the provisions of the Espionage Law, Title 18, United States Code, Section 793," the telegram said and concluded with a request that the Times return the documents.

Much of section 793 refers to spying on defense installations and to obtaining code books, blueprints, maps or other defense-related documents.

The section also states: "Whoever having unauthorized possession of, access to, or control over any document, writing, code book ... or information relating to the national defense which information the possessor has reason to believe could be used to the injury of the United States or to the advantage of any foreign nation, willfully communicates, delivers, transmits ... the same to any person not entitled to receive it, or willfully retransmits the same and fails to deliver it to the officer or employee of the United States entitled to receive it ... shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than 10 years, or both."

Laird said he did not know who gave the study to the Times but said that because there were a limited number of copies it would not be hard to find out. A Pentagon spokesman put the number at about a dozen.

The first installment of the series dealt with clandestine warfare carried on against North Vietnam before the Tonkin Gulf incident in August 1964.

The second report published Monday quoted the study as saying that Johnson administration reached a "general consensus" in September 1964 that bombing of North Vietnam would begin early in 1965.

Laird complained about the publication both in a Pentagon statement and in an appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He said that despite the articles, as far as he is concerned the study is still secret.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said the fact that he had to read the report in the Times was shocking. He said the study showed that "Congress had not known what was going on."

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said the study tells "a story of almost incredible deception, deception of the Congress and of the American people, by the highest officials of the government, including the President of the United States."

He and his wife, Nancy Peters Snyder, have resided in Greenville with their two children for three years.

Neo-Fascists Gained In Italian Local Elections

By HILMI TOROS Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Strong neo-Fascist gains in Italian local elections Sunday and Monday are expected to increase the pressure on Premier Emilio Colombo for more conservative policies.

Political observers saw no immediate danger to Colombo's center-left coalition government. But right-wingers in the premier's Christian Democratic party and members of the Democratic Socialists, one the smaller coalition parties, already were urging Colombo to get on the anti-Communist, law and order bandwagon which the neo-Fascists rode in their campaign.

By contrast the Socialists, the No. 2 party in the government, urged Colombo to seek support from the masses by fulfilling his commitments for reform legislation and resisting the swing to the right.

The voting was for a regional legislature in Sicily and municipal councils in 158 cities and towns, including Rome, Genoa, Bari and Foggia. About a fifth of Italy's 35 million voters live in the areas that voted.

In their biggest advance since World War II, Mussolini's heirs in the MSI, the Italian Social Movement, doubled or nearly tripled their previous best showing and took over the leadership of the right-wing opposition, eclipsing the Liberals and the Monarchists. Their gains were mostly at the expense of the Christian Democrats, Italy's largest party.

Giorgio Almirante, the MSI's 57-year-old leader and a junior minister in Mussolini's last North Italian Republic, attributed his party's success to its "strong opposition to communism and the ruinous policy of 'the opening to the left,'" the keynote of Christian Democratic policy since 1964.

"The voters want national pacification and order," said Almirante, sounding the other keynote of the MSI campaign.

The neo-Fascists scored their greatest triumph in Sicily, where they increased their vote from 6.6 per cent to 16.3 per cent. In Rome, where the MSI was already the third largest party, its share of the vote almost doubled, from 9.3 to 16 per cent. In Communist-controlled Genoa, the gain was more than 100 per cent, from 2.4 per cent to 5.5.

Upsetting as all this was to the anti-Fascists, the Christian Democrats remained the biggest party, with the Communists still in second place. The center-left coalition led by the Christian Democrats retained control of the regional assembly in Sicily and also remained the majority controlling force in Rome, Bari, Foggia and most of the 155 other cities that elected municipal councils.

The Christian Democrat vote ranged from 25 to 35 per cent, usually a drop of several percentage points. The party's biggest loss was in Sicily, where its vote dropped from 40.1 per cent four years ago to 33.3 per cent.

Policeman Took Traffic Course

Greenville policeman M. E. Cleary last week completed a traffic supervision course, sponsored by the Governor's Committee on Law and Order and the Department of Community Colleges.

The three-week Police Traffic Supervision school course, which began May 26, was held in Jacksonville.

Instruction was given in various areas dealing with the control and supervision of traffic and traffic related investigations.

Ex-Lineman Appointed

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott Monday named the first black in the state's history to the North Carolina Board of Paroles, former professional football player John H. Baker Jr. of Raleigh.

Baker, 36, succeeds Foil Esick, who has resigned effective July 1.

Scott said Baker's youthfulness was expected to be an asset in his dealings with juvenile offenders, and his career as a football player would be an example of the reward for "hard work and merit."

"The young can be encouraged to emulate him, to swap weapons and drugs for footballs or basketballs, to become stimulated by activity, to make something of themselves," Scott said.

A graduate of North Carolina Central University in Durham, Baker played pro football for 11 years as a lineman with the Philadelphia Eagles, the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Detroit Lions.

He worked with the North Carolina Department of Corrections during the off-seasons and, in 1966, became a human relations consultant for the North Carolina Good Neighbor Council.

Mayor Welcomes Visiting Evangelist

WELCOMED TO CITY . . . by Mayor Eugene West (right) is Dr. Hyman Appleman, evangelist.

Greenville Mayor Eugene West last night welcomed Dr. Hyman Appleman to the city.

The world evangelist who is reputed to have brought more people to Christ than any other minister except Billy Graham is preaching at Grace Church here every night this week at 7:30 and three times Sunday at 9:45 and 11 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Appleman was born in Russia, but his family came to the United States in 1914 so the children could get educations denied them as Jews in Russia. He was a practicing lawyer in Chicago when he was converted to Christianity in 1924. Fluent in ten languages and the author of 42 books, he says now his only interest is to "preach the Gospel to more and more and yet more people."

Mayro West said, "Greenville is fortunate to have a world traveler such as Dr. Appleman to share with us his wide experience. Having him in our midst is indeed a privilege."

Candidate For Texas Governor

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes says he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Texas next year.

Long at odds with Gov. Preston Smith, the 33-year-old Barnes told a news conference Monday it has "become increasingly apparent in recent months that our state must have new leadership in the governor's office and fresh, enlightened, vigorous approaches to the critical problems of the 1970s."

Real Birdie On The 18th Hole

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Green Meadow Golf Course has a birdie in residence on the 18th hole. She's expected to be joined soon by five little ones, now in the egg stage.

Club members constructed a makeshift shelter for the flicker's sandtrap nest as a precaution against errant golf balls.

Members say she doesn't seem to mind the flow of golfers through her domain. But anyone without a golf club is a suspect and she takes to the air.

Street Signs For The Birds

UNION, Maine (AP) — Street signs in Union are for the birds—literally.

They're birdhouses, oblong boxes built in varying lengths to accommodate street names that are carved on their sides. And in each end, there's a bluebird-sized hole.

The multipurpose signs, dreamed up by the Maine Community Betterment Program, were installed over the weekend and already have tenants.

Opening lead: Deuce of ♠ West's opening bid of two diamonds is preemptive and is used by some partnerships to describe a good six-card suit of less than opening bid strength. After South bid three hearts, his side reached a six heart contract thru a series of cue bids.

Altho the presentation of a ruff and discard to the declarer is considered to be one of the cardinal sins of defense, failure by East to resort to this strategy enabled South to emerge unscathed in his six heart contract today.

West opened the deuce of spades and the ace was played from dummy. If South could pick up the king of hearts, it appeared that the slam would come safely home because the third diamond can be ruffed in dummy and only a club trick need be conceded.

Inasmuch as West's opening two diamond bid was preemptive, declarer placed most of the missing high card strength with East and he, therefore, decided against taking a heart finesse. A spade was ruffed in the "closed hand and South led the queen of hearts. West followed with the six, and declarer played the ace from dummy. East followed with the four and the king was allowed to remain outstanding.

The remaining spade was trumped and the ace and king of diamonds were cashed. South now resisted the temptation to ruff out his third diamond because West's weak two bid made it a virtual certainty that the latter had a six card suit which meant that East was now void in the suit.

South merely exited with the queen of hearts and East was in with the king. Fearing that a spade return would present his opponent with a ruff and discard, East shifted to the three of clubs and South was confronted with a choice of plays, depending on which opponent he thought held the king of clubs.

Inasmuch as the range of the weak two bid is generally 6 to 12 high card points, and East presumably held the missing spade strength as well as the king of hearts, South chose to play West for the high club. So reasoning, he put in the ten of clubs. When West covered with the king, the hand was over. North won the trick with the ace, a club was ruffed in the closed hand and South trumped his remaining diamond with the ten of hearts.

East could have defeated the contract by making the very play he feared would cost him. A ruff and discard does not help South, because he has two potential losers—a diamond and a club. Observe that if East exits with a spade when he was in with the king of hearts, South has a choice of discarding either a diamond or a club from his hand while he ruffs in dummy with the ten of hearts. Since North has no more trumps, declarer is left with one loser for which there is no elimination and he must eventually concede the setting trick to the opposition.

Impotence Due Mostly Fear

Melvin's sex problem had been complicated by several factors. But even if he stops his tranquilizer drugs and his cigarettes, he will still remain platonic. For FEAR is the greatest cause of impotent husbands! So his wife should become more seductively aggressive. And serve him more cheesecake in the boudoir.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
Case Q-575: Melvin R., aged 42, has a sex problem. "Dr. Crane," his wife began, "Melvin's business reached a crisis last fall. "So he put in long hours and grew so jittery that he started taking tranquilizers.

"And for the last 6 months, our marriage has been platonic. "Could those tranquilizer pills be the cause?"

Drug Impotence
Yes; tranquilizers not only reduce your brain's activity.

But they even kill your gastric hunger at the dinner table. Plus your desire for erotic calories in the boudoir!

But many things are actually tranquilizers, though not considered in the category of such drugs as barbituates or morphine.

For example, a jittery school child prefers chewing gum because it lets him chew vigorously.

And any muscular action drains off surplus nervous energy from the brain, thereby reducing inner tension.

Actually, it would be medically wise if all school teachers thus passed around a stick of chewing gum to every pupil, both in the morning and afternoon, too.

In fact, many psychiatrists prescribe chewing gum for neurotic kiddies.

But tobacco is also a tranquilizer.

As the cigarette is waved back and forth, the muscles of the arm and hand drain off inner tension.

Smokers thus kill much of their gastric appetite. But their hunger for boudoir calories is likewise reduced, which is why many chain smokers are impotent before they pass the age of 40.

In fact, laymen may not have realized it, but one of the reasons why cigarettes were urged upon our men in World War I, and World War II, was to serve as a mild form of chemical castration. For the smokers were thus less likely to get into trouble with the French girls or other native women! Melvin's sex problem, however, actually preceded his use of tranquilizers. For he confessed to me that he had grown progressively platonic even before the crisis at his firm. Then the prolonged worry over threatened bankruptcy merely complicated his erotic decline.

Presbyterian Factions See Barrage Of Demands

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
MASSANETTA SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — A barrage of demands hit the Southern Presbyterian Church, U.S., today, asking it to pull out of moves to unite with its Northern counterpart and other Christian denominations.

In the face of mounting strife between the church's progressives and traditionalists, several groups also proposed that the contending factions formally split and go their separate ways.

A "fair, equitable and peaceful realignment" in two different bodies was urged by one resolution signed by 24 representatives at the church's annual assembly.

However, the new moderator of the million-member denomination, the Rev. Dr. Ben Lacy Rose of Richmond, Va., admonished against such splintering.

"Schism never settled anything," he said.

He appealed for more room for diversity within the church. This drew keen support from youth delegates who pleaded for "loving tolerance which respects differences between brothers."

"Judgment is the sole province of God," the youths declared in a resolution offered by their chairman, Russ Merritt, 21, of Roanoke, Va.

Referring to the liberal-conservative conflict and "dire threat of imminent schism," the youths urged the 450 voting representatives to disavow that which reeks of intolerance.

Dr. Rose, 56, a slim, 6-foot-2 seminary professor, discounted the possibility of any major break in the church but conceded that steps toward Presbyterian reunion may cause a small minority to quit.

Meanwhile, a roundabout maneuver that would portray the prounification forces as leaving the church was introduced by Jack Williamson, a Greenville, Ala., attorney and secretary of an independent conservative groups, Concerned Presbyterians Inc.

He proposed that a sytem be set up whereby those favoring union with the northern sister church, the United Presbyterians, would be allowed to leave the Southern church and join the other denomination.

This would be in line with conservative claims that they want to preserve the Southern church in its original form while the plans for reunion and other steps are designed to change its basic nature and traditions.

In the rash of proposals, which came on the week-long assembly's third day, several would have it disassociate from the National Council of Churches and World Council of Churches.

Two Injured In Accidents

Two persons were reported injured in one of two collisions investigated here yesterday afternoon.

Police reported two passengers in a car driven by James Lewis Perry, 19, of Ayden were injured when the vehicle in which they were riding collided with a car operated by Betty Smith Turner of 615 South Elm St., at the intersection of Third and Evans Streets.

Officers estimated damage to the Perry car at $350 and set damage to the Turner vehicle at $900.

No charges were listed.

Myrtle Lewis Cannon of Route 1, Winterville was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:50 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Sixth Street and Memorial Drive.

Investigators identified the driver of the second vehicle involved as James Thomas Boyd, 43 of 1400 West Fourth St.

Damage was set at $150 to the Boyd car and $300 to the Cannon auto.

Absentee Voting In N.C. Primaries Is Defeated In Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Senate has killed a bill that would have made it easier for college students and citizens who travel during the week to vote in primary elections.

By a 24-18 vote Monday night, the Senate killed a measure to allow absentee balloting in primaries. Absentee voting is now allowed in general elections, but only military personnel may vote absentee in primaries.

The sponsor of the bill, Sen. Hargrove Bowles, D-Guilford, told the Senate that the recent change in the primary date from Saturdays to Tuesdays would make it difficult for many school teachers, college students, truck drivers and salesmen to vote unless they can vote absentee.

But opponents of the bill recalled the memories of the 1936 elections when absentee balloting caused so many abuses that it was abolished in primaries.

Sen Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, called absentee ballots "the greatest vehicle for corruption and tainting of elections."

But Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, said he saw little difference between absentee voting in general elections and in primaries.

A Republican who co-sponsored the bill, Sen. Phil Kirk of Rowan County, also said that if county election boards can supervise abuse of absentee voting in general elections, they can control the practice in primaries.

But Sen. Ruffin Bailey, D-Wake, warned the Democrats in the Senate that the Republicans wanted to use the practice to switch parties and vote in the Democratic primaries.

"This will let these Republicans come in here and dictate who's going to be your nominee and then kill him in the general election," Bailey declared.

H.B. Sugg School's Honor Pupils Named

FARMVILLE — Honors lists at H. B. Sugg School have been released both for the past school year and for the final marking period of the year.

Those making all A's all year were Lizzie Marie Tyson, an eleventh grader, and Jennifer Harris, a seventh grader.

Those on the Principal's List for the year were Douglas Wayne Dupree and Eddie Isler, seniors; Freida Parker and Erlene Williams, juniors; Christine Tyson, a freshman; Howard Ellis and Michael Moore, sixth graders; and Debbie Jean Harris and Wanda Marie Rogers, fifth graders.

Grow-Hair Item Barred

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Department of Agriculture has halted sale of a product advertised to "Grow the Hair 1/4 Inch Per Week or Your Money Back."

State Chemist Dr. William Y. Cobb said the department embargoed about 1,100 jars of Mallard Scalp Treatment, a green, tarlike substance being sold at Walgreen Drug Store and McCrory Variety Store in Raleigh.

Cobb said the product had also been sold in Wilmington and Winston-Salem.

The department has embargo powers, said Cobb, "if we suspect a product is in violation of the law, and we can hold it until a court determines disposition."

Cobb said the seizure took place in cooperation with the Food and Drug Administration, which has been investigating the product in other areas of the South.

Cobb said the stores involved had agreed to take the product off their shelves and hold it until the matter is settled.

"That won't occur until the FDA has taken the manufacturer to court and has challenged it to prove the claims made for the product," he said.

Qualifying for the Principal's List for the sixth reporting period were Jeffery German, Arlene Hagans, and Jackie Tyson, seniors; Sharon Smith, Carlton Ray Harper, Mary Verna Baxter, and Scotty Johnson, juniors; Charlene Edwards and Theodore Harris, sophomores; Charles Edwards, Mary Rasberry, Carolyn White, and Lee Johnson, freshmen; Homer Dupree, Kenneth Joyner, Edward Moye, David Tyson, Linda Forbes, Dorothy Harper, Ceslie Smith, and Doris Washington, eighth graders; Mary Frances Tyson, Evangeline Turnage, Christie Rogers, Vanessa Baker, and Annette Reid, seventh graders; Sylvester Joyner, Vickie Suggs, Tonnie Cannon, Evelyn Lorraine Newton, Thelma Denice Moore, Audry C. Darden, Stephanie L. Blount, Gladys Marie Atkinson, Richard Earl Finch, Donald Tyson, Randy Smith, Scott Hunter, Joel S. Hardy, Jeffery Earl Fields, Alvin Dixon, Reginald B. Dixon, and Willie Braxton, sixth graders; Melvin Thomas Vick, Debbie Ann Dixon, Mary Elaine Ellis, Claude Albert Gorham, and Julius Vines, fifth graders; and Kenneth White, Corlissa Lang and Velecia Smith, fourth graders.

Costly Idea For Saving Bridge

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A train locomotive and several cars lie on the bottom of the Arkansas River here.

They were moved onto a bridge during a 1927 flood, hoping the weight would keep the span from collapsing. The train plunged into the water when the structure gave way.

A FINE YIELD
CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo. (AP) — A discovery here in 1891 is considered one of history's greatest gold strikes, resulting in a $400 million yield from the district.

Archie McMillan Announces He Will Seek Galifianakis Seat

RALEIGH (AP) — Former State Rep. Archie McMillan of Wake County announced Monday that he will run for the seat in Congress now held by Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N.C.

"Since Mr. Galifianakis seems to be running for the U.S. Senate, I feel I ought to let my friends know I mean business," said McMillan.

After hearing about McMillan's announcement, Galifianakis confirmed that he was, indeed, "seriously considering running for the Senate."

He said he would likely make a commitment one way or the other in early fall.

"A great many people throughout North Carolina have encouraged me to seek this important office," said Galifianakis. "I am flattered by the encouragement I have received from friends in the eastern and western parts of the state as well as from the Piedmont," he said.

McMillan said he did not have any organization "at this point, except some individual friends who have been talking to me about it. I need to start early because people will be lining up commitments early."

He will campaign on the issues of world peace, highway safety and conservation, McMillan said.

"We must end this Southeast Asia conflict as quickly as possible," he said.

And he plans to continue on the national level the interest in highway legislation that he displayed during give sessions of the North Carolina General Assembly.

"I'm particularly interested in cutting down the power and speed of automobiles," he said.

"These manufacturers are making them way too fast for ordinary use and it must be stopped."

If Galifianakis decides to make the Senate race, it would be against incumbent B. Everett Jordan, who has already announced that he will seek reelection. Another possibility for the race is Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, who said he would announce his plans for 1972 sometime in August.

Cuba Fines 5 Americans $20,000

MIAMI (AP) — Five Americans have been convicted by Cuban "revolutionary tribunals" of violating Cuban waters and landing illegally on the Communist island. Each was sentenced to pay a $20,000 fine, Radio Havana said today.

In a broadcast monitored in Miami, the Cuban radio identified the five as Fritz Sprandel, an Allentown, Pa., canoe instructor who washed ashore in Cuba May 22 while trying to paddle a canoe from Key West, Fla., to Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula; and Lauren Bender, Michael Bender, Bernard Bender and Thomas Joseph McGuire.

The Benders and McGuire were aboard a 58-foot yacht that apparently entered Cuban waters voluntarily June 6.

The convictions of the American's in Cuba came a week after a U.S. District Court in Key West sentenced four Cuban fishermen to $10,000 fines and six months in jail for poaching in American territorial waters off the Dry Tortugas 60 miles west of Key West.

Those Cuban fishermen are in the Monroe County Jail. Their attorney, Manuel James, said he was awaiting word from the Cuban government to post appeal bonds for their release.

The Havana broadcast monitored said each of the Americans tried in Cuba admitted entering Cuban waters without authorization and landing illegally on the island.

Bender, his two sons and McGuire reportedly were making a Caribbean cruise on the yacht.

type of services which will most capably adapt to the needs and wants of our fellow citizens in this area, and I am most happy as a native of this section to see the full service of Bank of North Carolina join with us in our forward motion.

"While construction of our new building is underway, I invite all our neighbors and friends to visit our present quarters, familiarize themselves with our Bank's procedure of serving all our customers as individuals and not numbers."

Among those present for the opening of the bank were Harry
