

Okinawa To Be Restored To Japanese

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States signed an historic treaty with Japan today, restoring the island base of Okinawa to Japanese sovereignty after 27 years of postwar occupation but retaining 88 military base facilities.

The treaty, signed simultaneously in Washington and Tokyo by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign Minister Kiichi Aichi, goes into effect two months after ratification by the Japanese Diet and the U.S. Senate.

The formal agreement includes assurances from President Nixon and Prime Minister Eisaku Sato that the United States in effect will not exercise the right to store nuclear weapons on Okinawa when the island is turned back to Japan sometime next year. Explaining this nuclear assurance, Undersecretary of State Alexis Johnson, former U.S. ambassador to Japan, said the understanding "carefully preserves our right to consult with Japan if, in the case of an exceptional situation, we would feel it necessary to do so and this applies specifically to nuclear weapons."

Prime Minister Sato praised Nixon for "the highest degree of statesmanship" in agreeing to the peaceful return of territory won by the United States in World War II.

The treaty provides for Japan to pay $320 million to the United States in compensation for U.S. investment. Besides the 88 bases retained by the United States, it lists 46 bases including the Naha Airport and some 12,000 acres of land to be handed back to Japan.

Corn Blight Is Spreading; No Epidemic Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corn blight has popped up in 72 more counties in six new states but the Agriculture Department says the infection has not developed into an epidemic.

The updated count was announced Wednesday in the department's regular weekly summary on corn blight. On June 9, blight was reported in 52 counties located in a dozen states.

Now, says USDA, 124 counties in 18 states have some degree of blight. Most of the infection thus far is confined to "trace amounts" and is mostly in volunteer corn or plants coming up from last year's field grain.

The new blight states and counties are:

Virginia—Nelson county; Michigan—Kalamazoo and Montcalm; South Carolina—Charleston and Georgetown; Indiana—Tippecanoe, Hamilton, Clay, Monroe, Gibson, Pike, Vanderburgh, Warrick, Clark, LaPorte, Marion, Parke, Vigo, Johnson, Sullivan, Daviess, Orange, Harrison and Posey; Delaware—Kent-and Sussex; and Wisconsin—Grant.

In addition, the report said, blight was found in more counties in Kentucky, Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Florida, Alabama, North Carolina and Georgia.

Last year blight spread rapidly by wind from the southeast into the northern Corn belt.

There is no evidence that this has occurred so far in 1971, officials say.

The department also said a scheduled test project using remote sensing devices in aircraft began last Monday to see if blight can be detected from aerial photographs in coordination with ground inspections.

Some 223 sites involving corn planted in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and Michigan will be studied during the season.

Twisters Injure 3

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — A tornado injured three persons as it skipped through a rural area in Cabarrus County near Concord Wednesday night. Another twister half an hour later in Robeson County near Lumberton more than 100 miles to the east caused no injuries but was accompanied by hail and rain which heavily damaged crops.

In Robeson County, some farmers reported their entire tobacco crop was destroyed and others said their corn was knocked down. The tornado hit in a semicircle from Pembroke to Rowland to Fairmont, and telephone and power lines were downed.

Kinkajou Is Home Again

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

"FOUND: unusual furry animal," a classified ad in The Daily Reflector read this week.

The placing of this ad by Dr. Jean Lowery of the East Carolina Geology Department was almost the culmination of events that began Saturday night when Bob Harrington of 500 West Fifth Street saw him peering into their window.

The students told Dr. Lowery they saw an animal clinging to the window screen watching them. After they realized it wasn't a cat and it wasn't a squirrel or any animal they had seen before, they began to observe him and found that he was quite tame. So they let him in through the window.

One in the group knew what he was, having seen one in a zoo once, and commented that he must be someone's pet. The group was then preparing to leave town, so they took him to the Police Department. Someone thought of calling Dr. Lowery since she is known to be interested in animals and to have kept monkeys in the past.

She took charge of the kinkajou. "I was just crazy about him," she said. "He's a beautiful little thing with honey-colored fur, and a triangular face — rather like a good-natured weasel, I'd say. Another name for a kinkajou is 'Honey bear,' you know. He and I got along fabulously because he's nocturnal and so am I. He'd sleep on my back porch during the day and be ready to play at night."

"I kept hoping no one would claim him, but I knew he must belong to someone because a tame animal native to the Amazon area just doesn't appear on the streets of Greenville for no reason. I placed ads on the radio and in the paper and secretly hoped they wouldn't be answered."

But Bob Harrington, a senior philosophy major at East Carolina University, appeared at her office Tuesday and she sent him by her home to pick up his pet. "I was really relieved to get Faust back," Bob said. "Although he usually stays in his cage when I'm not right with him, he had crept out a broken door pane in the room and from there out an open door."

"He loves to play in the trees. His prehensile tail allows him to swing from limb to limb. Sometimes I take him out to play and once or twice he's got away, but soon he comes right back."

I worry about his being out, though. He is not at all vicious and I'm afraid he wouldn't even fight if a dog or something got after him. I'm going to get him a harness and tie him if he's out at all, even when I'm with him. I'm glad about this article because now, if he does get away again, maybe people will readily recognize him and return him to me."

Bob said a girl he did work with at a local department store gave Faust to him. "I don't know why she ever tired of him, because he's such an affectionate and playful pet and he's very little trouble to keep. I'm glad she did, though, because in the month and a half I've had him, we've become the best of friends and I plan to keep him as long as he lives."

The life expectancy of kinkajous is about 18 years. Faust is two years old.

Job Placement Needs Growing

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Registration with the University of North Carolina Placement Service is at an all-time high, up 19 per cent above a year ago.

The largest single increase was in "alumni registration," reflecting both the large number of recent graduates unable to find jobs and the increasing number of recent graduates returning from military service and experienced alumni being released from present jobs.

Adults At 18

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Legislation to lower from 21 to 18 the age at which young people reach legal adulthood was enacted Wednesday when it was approved by the House.

However, the bill will not take effect until the voting age in North Carolina is lowered to 18.

Rep. James Ramsey, D-Person, told the House that the measure would permit 18-year-olds to enter valid contracts and sue and be sued.

In supporting the bill, Ramsey said a recent study had showed 18-year-olds are just as mature as 24-year-olds.

He pointed out that 188 North Carolina statutes specify age 21 at the time when young persons are eligible to perform a variety of acts—including buying liquor.

Ramsey said he expects legislation to be introduced later and the General Assembly can decide when it wishes the age to be lower to 18 in these statutes.

Bacterial Scourge Infests Lake In Florida

WINTER GARDEN, Fla. (AP) — Dying Lake Apopka's thousands of wildlife victims succumbed to a bacterial scourge capable of dissolving tissues in the infected animals, scientists studying the mystery plague say.

An "aeromonas infection" in which bacteria become able to break down the tissues of alligators, turtles, fish and birds is the culprit responsible for carcasses strewn along the shores of Lake Apopka, Dr. Frank Hayes, head of the University of Georgia School of Veterinary Medicine, said Wednesday.

Even as the team announced its findings, the 31,000-acre central Florida lake experienced a major fish kill, apparently due to oxygen depletion. It was the latest in a series which began in the summer of 1947 when heavy loads of fertilizers and muck began pouring into its waters from farms on the northern shore.

The investigation indicated that enrichment by the muck farms set the stage for a speedup in the growth of bacteria and a change in the eating styles of fish and wildlife as they consumed larger amounts of the bacteria-filled prey.

Also contributing, the team said, was "stress" caused by a buildup of organic ooze on the lake bottom and overcrowding.

Hayes said the bacteria are present in healthy water's too, but they have not multiplied to such an extent in other Florida lakes because other conditions in Lake Apopka are not present.

Dr. Wilfred Fisk, director of the Orange County Health Department, said there are 48 recorded cases of humans contracting the disease.

Their conditions were connected with other causes, he said, but the lake could be dangerous for water sports such as skiing.

Twenty-one alligators, hundreds of turtles and thousands of fish have died in the lake in recent weeks. Commercial fishermen believe the epidemic was sparked by a recent three-week drawdown of the lake level by the Southeast Florida Water Management District.

The drawdown was undertaken in an effort to reduce excessive nutrient content.

War Amendment Is Given Scant Chance

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — An amendment to cut off money for the Vietnam war headed for a House vote today, given less chance of passage than a tougher move that failed in the Senate Wednesday.

Sponsors estimated 150 to 170 of the 434 House members would vote for the Nedzi-Whalen amendment to prohibit spending for war weapons after Dec. 31, 1971.

Wednesday's Senate votes against two amendments that would have cut off funds at year's end for all U.S. operations in Indochina represented a major victory for the Nixon administration. But even in losing, the idea of setting a firm date for ending American fighting in Southeast Asia picked up five votes over a similar measure defeated nine months ago.

In Wednesday's first vote, the Senate turned aside a last-minute substitute by freshman Sen. Lawton M. Chiles Jr., D-Fla., to set a June 1, 1972, deadline contingent on North Vietnam's release of all U.S. prisoners 60 days earlier. The vote was 52 to 44.

Then, by a count of 55 to 42, the Senate rejected the original amendment by Sens. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., and George S. McGovern, D-S.D., for a Dec. 31, 1971 fund cutoff. This would have provided a possible 60-day extension should North Vietnam fail to agree promptly to release U.S. prisoners.

Last year, the Senate rejected a similar Hatfield-McGovern amendment 55 to 39.

One immediate result of the Senate action was to increase chances of extended debate against the two-year draft extension, vehicle for the antiwar amendments.

Hatfield said there is "a very good likelihood" of a filibuster against the draft bill itself. Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, who has threatened to talk the measure to death, said the vote "merely strengthens" his resolve to do so.

Hatfield and McGovern, sensing their amendment would fail, spent much of Wednesday in behind-the-scenes negotiations with Chiles, who had announced plans for a different substitute proposal, and a group of moderate Republicans who oppose the war but have been reluctant to set a deadline.

"This is running out," Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee, declared. "It will plague us for decades to come."

But Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said: "We've done our share. It's time to get out."

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, chairman of the Republican National Committee, called the Chiles proposal "a vote of no confidence in the President."

Will Seek Wednesday Vote On Restructured Higher Education

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of the House Committee on Higher Education, Rep. Perry Martin, D-Northampton, says he will press for vote on higher education restructuring next Wednesday.

Martin, a strong supporter of Gov. Bob Scott's proposal to place all 16 state universities under a single board of regents, expressed the opinion the committee would vote for the regents plan.

The Northampton legislator told newsmen that the higher education issue had been studied long enough and the time for action was at hand.

Martin thus sought to counter arguments by Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor and House Speaker Phil Godwin that the General Assembly should put off restructuring of higher education and not act on the touchy issue during the hectic closing days of the legislative session.

Public Drinking Illegal

Drinking alcoholic beverages on public streets and other public areas within the city of Greenville is illegal and persons drinking or offering drinks to others are now subject to arrest.

Acting Chief of Police E. G. Cannon, in commenting on a recently passed city ordinance, said the local department has had a number of complaints regarding persons drinking on streets, sidewalks, and at public gatherings such as ball games. He said the city code, as adopted by the Greenville City Council, now makes such activity illegal.

Capt. Cannon, quoting from the ordinance, said the new regulation makes it "unlawful for any person to drink alcoholic beverages or to offer a drink to another person, or persons, whether accepted or not on any public road or street, parking lot, sidewalk or other publicly owned or leased place within the City."

The police official noted the law includes persons riding in cars on public streets, and persons attending athletic events at public facilities.

Under the ordinance, "alcoholic beverages," Capt. Cannon said, includes beer, lager beer, ale, porter and other brewed or fermented beverages containing one-half of one percent of alcohol by volume, but not more than five per cent of alcohol by weight; wines having an alcoholic content of from five per cent by volume; and whiskey.

"I think we should stay here until we finish," Martin said. Asked if he felt Sen. Russell Kirby, D-Wilson, would agree to his time table, Martin said he believed he would.

Martin said he would be willing to meet Saturday and early Monday if necessary to wind up public hearings which began last week and continued Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Board of Regents plan was recommended by a study committee headed by former State Sen. Lindsay Warren Jr. of Goldsboro. It calls for elimination of the present Consolidated University of North Carolina structure and the state Board of Higher Education.

Supporters of the regents plan told the Senate and House Higher Education Committees Wednesday that if the consolidated university setup had been good for the six UNC units why shouldn't the benefits of consolidation be extended to the remaining 10 institutions?

N.Y. Times To Court On Classified Papers

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times goes to court today to argue against a government move to inspect the secret Pentagon documents on which the newspaper based its articles on U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Murray I. Gurfein scheduled a 10 a.m. hearing after the government Wednesday made a new effort to obtain the papers and "other classified documents" it believes are in the Times' possession.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Michael Hess asserted that examination of the papers "is important to the proper presentation of the government's case" in seeking an injunction against further publication of the controversial series.

Gurfein denied a government plea for recovery of the documents Tuesday when he ordered the Times to suspend the series for four days pending a Friday hearing on the injunction.

The Times said it would not voluntarily surrender the documents. On Tuesday it expressed concern that through scientific tests to government might be able to trace the source that gave it the documents.

The Times argued that the First Amendment shields newspapers from disclosing confidential sources and noted that other copies of the 7,000-page study are available to the government.

Fifteen copies of the 47-volume study entitled "History of United States Decision Making Process on Vietnam Policy" were disseminated. The study of Pentagon documents was done on orders of then-Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in 1967-68.

The Times published three installments in its series, beginning Sunday, before the government obtained the restraining order citing a law which makes it a criminal offense for any person "having unauthorized possession" of classified documents to communicate, deliver or transmit such documents "to any person not entitled to receive it."

Meanwhile, controversy over the case continued to grow. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said in Los Angeles that he questioned the judgment and reliability of the Times in publishing the articles.

"The Nixon administration has a great deal more confidence in the judgment of the elected officials of this country than in the judgment of the New York Times," he said. "A country does not conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, flew home from a London business trip and told newsmen at Kennedy Airport that he did not believe the publication had endangered national security, as the government claimed in seeking the injunction.

Sulzberger said the documents are "a part of history that should have been made available long ago."

Pentagon Secrets Said Revealed By Researcher

NEW YORK (AP) — A former New York Times reporter said Wednesday night that the secret Pentagon report on the Vietnam war was given to the Times by Daniel Ellsberg, a former Defense Department employe now a senior research associate at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Sidney Zion, the former Timesman and former deputy U.S. attorney in New Jersey, named Ellsberg in an interview broadcast locally over WMCA radio.

Zion refused to say where he got the information, but said he considered his sources "very impeccable."

The Times had no comment on Zion's statements.

"I called everybody I knew ... for the last day and a half ... it just pieced together finally and then I knew it for sure ... I didn't sense anything. The only thing I did sense, what I was sure about was that it wasn't anybody that was a household word," Zion said.

On Sunday, the Times began publishing excerpts from the 47-volume Pentagon study en-itled "History of United States Decision Making Process on Vietnam Policy." After the third installment in the series was published, the government asked a federal court in New York to block further publication. Under a restraining order in effect until Saturday, the Times has run no more copy.

The case is to be argued Friday.

The government has launched an investigation into the leak.

Zion said he attempted but failed to reach Ellsberg at his Cambridge address all Wednesday afternoon.

In Cambridge, no one was at the Ellsberg home near Harvard Square today, but mail addressed to Daniel and Patricia Ellsberg was piling up at the door. No one answered the telephone.

Zion said Ellsberg, "at a young age got a very hot position at the Defense Department working in something called the international security affairs division" under John McNaughton.

He said Ellsberg turned dovish on the war in 1965 after a trip to Vietnam and thereafter wrote numerous memos against American involvement there.

Zion said Ellsberg came into possession of the completed secret Pentagon report after he left government service and while working for the Rand Corp. There was no immediate comment from Rand, which has conducted defense and other studies for the government.

Zion said Ellsberg turned the report over to Neil Sheehan of the Times "sometime in late March."

In Washington, the Justice Department declined to comment directly on Zion's allegation or published reports that the FBI knows two or three individuals who may have been involved in giving the material to the Times.

"We are making substantial progress in the investigation," Mitchell said through an aide.

The aide, John W. Husheer, said that the department is "not ruling out criminal prosecution" of either the Times or the person or persons who leaked the documents to the newspaper.

Wind Chimes Annoy Neighbor

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor's wind chimes are driving me batty! I listened to those chimes all last summer and if I have to listen to them again this summer I'll go mad, but what can I do? This neighbor has hung the chimes on a tree which is right outside my bedroom window. She has air-conditioning and I don't, so I have to raise my window when I retire and all I can hear is tinkling and clanging and clanging until I could just about jump out of my skin!

Of what earthly good are those chimes anyway? I have a good relationship with this neighbor, who is very nice, and I don't want to get her angry with me, so please help me solve this problem peacefully.

GOING BATTY

DEAR GOING: Tell your neighbor that her chimes are a source of annoyance to you, and if she is a "nice" person and you have a good relationship with each other, she will remove them promptly. It's as simple as that! [P. S. And if she's not so "nice" as you thought she was, and refuses to remove the chimes, there are laws against disturbing the peace.]

DEAR ABBY: There is an attractive woman in our social circle who certainly looks and acts the part of a "lady." Altho she's a grandmother she is very young looking for her age.

This woman is married to a well-to-do man who treats her like a queen. She has a beautiful home, her own car, expensive clothes and plenty of money. The problem: This so-called lady has been telephoning several men in her social circle and asking them to meet her to discuss something "very important." Then she asks their "advice and counsel" on what to do about her frustrations over a loveless, sexless marriage.

Now a man would have to be stupid not to know what she is after. Men talk, Abby, and I'm afraid this is going to get back to her husband. He's a good friend of mine, a sweet guy, and deserves better.

Please print this. She might see it and realize she is on thin ice. This is no joke. I was—

"ALSO APPROACHED"

DEAR ALSO: And what if she doesn't see it? If you really want to do your friend a favor, tell his wife to cool it because people are talking.

DEAR ABBY: I am afraid I am a pushover for young people. Three young employees who work with me have borrowed money from me to meet personal emergencies. The smallest amount was $200. Not one of those who owes me has ever mentioned the debt, not made any effort to repay even a part of it. One debt is two years old. [By the way, I didn't ask for any interest on my money, nor did I ask anyone to sign a note.]

All three co-workers are very friendly to me, and none seems embarrassed about his nonpayments. I am far from wealthy and could use the cash myself as I shall be retiring soon. How shall I handle this?

OLD ENOUGH TO KNOW BETTER

DEAR OLD ENOUGH: Try this: "Look, my young friend, you have owed me $ for months. I've said nothing, hoping you would recognize the importance of keeping your credit good. You will hurt yourself in the future more than you hurt me now if you don't pay your honest debts. How about it?"

CONFIDENTIAL TO "PRIVATE ANSWER, PLEASE": A girl who doesn't know how old a girl has to be before she can leave home is too young to try it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

No Rocking The Revenue Boat

Action by the House Finance Committee over proposed repeal of the state's soft drink tax leaves little room for doubt that the committee's leadership is determined to hold the state's present tax structure as nearly intact as possible.

By postponing further consideration of repeal of the soft drink tax until after appropriations recommendations are heard, the committee virtually killed the bill without directly voting on it.

It will be late this month before the Joint Appropriations Committee makes its report. When it does, the final figure probably will leave no room for reducing state revenues during the next biennium. And by then the legislature, with adjournment fever getting higher, probably will be in no mood to try to restructure the state's anticipated revenues.

The determination of the House Finance Committee's leadership to hold the present revenue package was evidenced by disputed votes within the committee, the rejection of pleas for reconsideration, and disputed rulings by the committee chairman on parliamentary maneuvers by proponents of repeal of the crown tax.

Although proponents of the tax repeal may make a new effort later this month, what occurred in the committee last week appears to have set the tone for the 1971 General Assembly so far as changes in the present tax structure is concerned.

With the possible exception of a few minor changes, no major revenue items will be deleted from the present structure and no new ones will be added. The crown tax, like many others, is expected to produce more revenue in the next biennium than it has in the current biennium. To delete one major revenue item would mean it would have to be replaced by some new levy or by hiking the tax rate on other items.

The 1971 General Assembly appears at this point determined not to allow such a can of worms to be opened during the current session.

Permanent Restraint Appears Unwarranted

We can see no justification for permanently restraining The New York Times for publishing the remainder of the material in a secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam war.

While the papers were stamped top secret, there is considerable question from what has been published so far that matters of national security were involved in the report.

Beyond that, it is the government's responsibility to protect the papers which its considers classified. If, as we are told there were only a few copies of this particular report in existence, there is much cause to wonder how this copy reached The New York Times.

Whatever the source of the papers, it would be an unwarranted violation of freedom of the press to permanently restrain The New York Times at this point from continuing publication.

Sen. Jackson Begins Quest

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — When Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington sat down to dinner last Wednesday night in a private room of the Nashville City Club, his shadow Presidential candidacy was visibly transforming itself into a serious, viable quest for the Democratic nomination.

Around the table were Democratic powers of the state legislature. Potent state Senators present (such as James H. Roberson, Jerry Agee, and Edward Blank) made clear they are ready to back Jackson all the way in the state's newly enacted May 4 Presidential primary. The election of a Republican governor in 1970 created a Democratic power void, making the lineup amassed at the City Club highly significant.

With such aid, dispassionate politicians here feel Jackson will be favored in the Tennessee primary against the national frontrunner, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine. One key Democrat predicts six of the nine Congressional districts (clinching approximately 36 of 49 delegates). What's more, a victory in Tennessee is a vital component of the newly-emerging Jackson game plan.

Scarcely realized back in Washington is the fact that the shadow candidacy days of Scoop Jackson wandering aimlessly around the country, garment bag over his shoulder, and rambling speech in pocket, are over. He is ready to go for the Presidential nomination with a game plan that makes him the most interesting of the dark horses.

Like all Democratic possibilities except the big three (Muskie, Hubert H. Humphrey, and Edward M. Kennedy), Jackson has no name identification. Unlike them, however, he has a distinctive line: heavy and overdue emphasis on President Nixon's economic failures, a strong national defense, and a strong anti-leftist ideological tone. This distinction from his sound-alike leftist rivals, Jacksonmen figure, will enable him to finish second to Muskie in some early primaries (with Humphrey and Kennedy not running) and actually win three Southern primaries: Florida, North Carolina, and Tennessee. From that beginning, Jackson would gain name identification for the critical later primaries.

To play out this game plan, Jackson is about to open a campaign headquarters in Washington and take on organizers, advance men, and speechwriters. More important, in contrast to imprecise speechmaking earlier this year, Jackson has devised a concise, oratorical pattern.

It was set forth in Jackson's May 20 speech at San Diego, Calif., bearing the unmistakable imprint of Ben J. Wattenberg (co-author with (Continued on page 8)

Strength For Today

ROOT SYSTEMS

White birch trees constitute a problem for anyone who tries to transplant them and to bring them to full growth. They have a shallow root system to begin with, and when they are transplanted they often wither and die. On the other hand, trees with a fairly good root system can be lifted and replanted under most unfavorable conditions. It is the root system which counts, and the way we handle it.

In like manner it is possible to transplant almost any shrub at any time of the year if a person knows how to go about it, and going about it means keeping the root system from being too badly disturbed in the process of transplanting. If we can lift a plant out of the earth without fundamentally damaging its root system, we can do almost anything we want to do with it, provided we do it quickly.

All this, as you see, is a parable on the importance of root systems. Sunshine and rain, clement weather, fertile soil — all these are important. But the one thing absolutely imperative when we plant — be it a grain of wheat or a seedling oak — is the root system.

So it is with our souls. How far do our roots go down? Do they penetrate only the top soil of expediency and immediate gain, or do they go deeper and draw their strength from the hidden powers of the earth?

Good root systems count — in soul growth as in plant growth. In fact, nothing else counts for much.

At The Bargaining Table

The National Education Association, world's largest professional trade union, recently has been embroiled in a knockdown and drag-out fight with the union representing its own staff employees. The dispute has featured a strike, unruly pickets, a scab list — the whole works — and the affair has its remarkable aspects.

It is remarkable, first, because professional people truly are not supposed to behave in this unseemly fashion; and second, because of the light it sheds upon the changing nature of the teaching trade. In the breath-taking demands of the staff union, one catches a glimpse of what the teachers themselves may soon be asking of school boards.

Time was — it seems a century ago — when the NEA was a prim and peaceful federation of State teacher associations. The national office helped with conventions, undertook great quantities of research, compiled data on pay scales, and operated in a haze of respectable chalk dust somewhere in Washington. Times changed. All of a sudden a new breed of militant teachers came along. The AFL-CIO began attracting members to its own teachers' union, and the NEA affiliates responded with a startling new emphasis upon union tactics.

It was not altogether surprising, therefore, when employees at the home office two years ago set up their own union, the National Education Association Staff Organization. The union, known as NEASO, signed up some 600 of NEA's 839 employees, entered into collective bargaining, and won a two-year contract. That contract expired May 31. In the absence of a new contract, union members hit the bricks.

The impasse may have resulted from the astonishing demands made by the union in April. A fed-up NEASO member, completely out of sympathy with the whole affair, has slipped me a copy of the new one-year contract the union negotiators at first proposed. It runs to 20 pages, single-spaced, and it is a lulu.

Salarywise, as they say, the union demanded a complete reclassification of all workers into eight pay groups. At the very bottom, in jobs requiring the least skills, NEASO asked $7,000 the first year, ranging to $10,400 in the third year. In Group VIII, at the top, the union proposed $32,472 to start, ranging (Continued on page 8)

Public Forum

(Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words)

To The Editor:

I think these statements are pertinent to our problems today: A kindly old gentleman with a badly scarred face was asked if his disfigurement was the result of an auto accident. "No," he replied. "I got these cuts in Paris a long time ago when I dived through a plate glass window." Asked why, he answered, "Well, it was Armistice night, and it seemed like a good idea at the time."

A lot of foolish things people do are done simply because they seem like "a good idea at the time." The resulting scars are carried through life. A boy quits school before finishing his education and, when he can't get the job he'd like, lives to regret it. A student experiments with drugs "just to see what it's like" and ends up in a mental hospital. A girl who doesn't want to be considered a "prude" winds up with an unwanted baby and blighted future. Older people plunge into ill-considered ventures, lose their painfully accumulated savings, and spend their remaining years in despair.

Most of us like to think we plan our lives; not many do. It is our acts — some pretty impulsive — that are the architects of our lives.

Because parents love their children and can see further, they sometimes disappoint them and often seem unreasonable as they inflict transient unhappiness to guard them from future misery.

It takes love and courage for parents to stand up to their children sometimes. It would be far easier for them to let their children have their own way, and shut their eyes to the possible consequences. But parents who really love their children are willing to risk what they may think about them today in the hope that someday their sons and daughters will understand and think better of them.

Of course well-meaning parents sometimes confuse prejudices with principles. What seems to them to be strength of character may be only strength of whim. Sometimes stubbornness can be mistaken for courage of convictions. When there is doubt it would be well, perhaps, for parents to consider thoughtfully what they will think of themselves ten years from now.

Student Fare Problem Grows

By ELMER ROESSNER

Transatlantic airlines' troubles worsen.

The basic trouble is those big 747s, which are costly to operate, costly to pay for and costly to fill to the break-even point. And the passenger pattern is changing. The wealthy still fly. The middle-class and the expense-account passengers, long the golden spring of airline revenue, have sharply cut flying. But the student vacationers are stampeding to the airports.

The only trouble is that the youth passengers haven't much money and if airlines want what little they have they have to reduce rates or lose the traffic to the charter flights.

Air France has already put into effect a $200 round-trip fare between New York and Boston and Paris. Sabena has previously offered a $200 round trip fare between New York and Brussels. Pan American has met the cut and BOAC and Alitalia are known to be in favor of low student rates, but want them established through the

ELMER ROESSNER

International Air Transport Association, which meets in Montreal June 28.

COMMENT: With other transatlantic airlines opposed, a row is certain to develop and it may be sharp enough to split IATA. John R. Baldwin, president of Air Canada, has already declared that his line will go it alone if the cartel does not agree.

Most of the proposals for youth fares would require cash-on-the-barrelhead reservations several months in advance, with no refunds for no-shows.

This proposal is to prevent a recurrence of a gimmick used by students who have been entitled to discount fares on a stand-by basis. It has been a practice of making a series of reservations in fictitious names on a given flight. When the imaginary people do not show up, the students are on hand to take the unsold seats as stand-bys.

If the proposal is accepted, it would lead to a new kind of air insurance: policies providing payment of 80 per cent of lost payments in event of illness, death in family, arrest or other legitimate reasons for cancelling.

Nixon's Drug Drive

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is putting his political prestige behind a four-front "national offensive" against traffic in illegal narcotics.

After weeks of debate within the administration—one sticky point being whether to acknowledge and deal with the extent of drug abuse among American troops stationed in South Vietnam—Nixon drafted a special message on the subject for presentation to Congress today.

Besides asking for more money to combat narcotics trade and rehabilitate hard-drug addicts, Nixon wants to create a new White House office of drug abuse prevention to concentrate on research and education in the area.

He also formulated a specific plan for dealing with drug-addicted U.S. servicemen overseas and, perhaps less specifically, one for discouraging the production and transportation here of illegal narcotics harvested in foreign countries.

With public and congressional concern about the rise of GI drug addiction in South Vietnam, West Germany and elsewhere, Nixon proposes identifying and treating addicts-uniform before they are returned to civilian life. Congressional legislation will be needed to extend the service terms of some uniformed men and women if extra time is necessary to wear them away from narcotics before they receive honorable discharges.

At a June 1 news conference, Nixon said "A national offensive on this problem" is needed. He promised to "step up our national program on four fronts."

June 17, 1931 The Star Warehouse, one of the largest leaf tobacco warehouses in the state, was completely destroyed by fire here this morning. The loss was estimated at $100,000. The fire threatened to spread to the Ficklen Tobacco Company and adjoining residential property but aid was sent by the Washington and Farmville fire departments. The building contained 76,000 square feet of floor space and was the property of G. V. Smith and B. B. Sugg.

The interior of the local post office is receiving a new coat of paint this week. It is the first time since erection in 1914 that the building has been repainted. The color is being changed from green to a dark cream.

Study Fails Turn Up Adverse Effects From Parathion Use

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A scientific distant early warning system indicates that North Carolina tobacco harvesters face little likelihood of danger from fields properly treated with the controversial insecticide parathion.

That was the word Wednesday from scientists studying the results of tests conducted on tobacco harvest workers in $63,360 in the fifth year; and if it seems to you odd that professionals at that salary level should be represented by a union, it will just have to seem to you odd.

The proposed contract demanded a basic 30 percent increase by way of getting started on the new scales, with larger increases for those with five to 20 years of service. This was only the beginning. If you will draw a long breath, the union demanded:

Travel insurance, reimbursement at 17 cents a mile for use of private cars, full moving expenses, first-class fares on all flights, and a trip-credit plan that would permit the staff member "to take his family or any other person of his choice" on an occasional trip; a basic four-day, 28-hour work week, with two 15-minute breaks a day and triple time for work on holidays.

The union also demanded 19 paid holidays, including the employee's birthday, 26 days of annual leave, five days of paid leave for new fathers, eight weeks of fully paid leave for pregnant females, and six days of additional paid leave each year "for the purpose of transacting personal business and attending to family matters." On top of this, "any employee after having completed five consecutive years of service shall be entitled to one year of sabbatical leave."

The proposed contract demanded an agency shop arrangement, by which non-members of NEASO would have to pay the union the equivalent of union dues. The union asked for in-service education programs, free books and tuition fees for outside education, full medical and hospital insurance, free dental care and free glasses, $20,000 of life insurance and a fully paid retirement program.

There was lots more; and if all this shocked the top officials of NEA, it may have been a very good thing. It is one thing to sit on the union side of a bargaining table, and quite another to sit on management's side. They say that teaching is a constant process of learning. These negotiations have provided hard lessons all around.

Florida. The study failed to turn up any adverse effects from the insecticide. Health authorities said they found no pesticide-related illnesses or abnormalities among 45 workers checked over a six-week period.

Workers ranging in age from 17 to 65 were checked. They were exposed to the parathion through their work in fields where cigar-wrapping tobacco

Richard Scammon of "The Real Majority", a new volunteer Jackson adviser. Jackson's thesis: the Democrats may lose in 1972 because "the American workingman is threatened not only by the failures of this Republican administration. He also finds that his well-being is threatened and his sensibilities offended by an absolute radical left fringe that is attempting to steal the Democratic party from the people."

On his five-hour visit here last week, Jackson played variations on this theme. Addressing a statewide collection of Democratic leaders, he attacked Mr. Nixon on the economy and the "absolute left" for "denigrating the country." Afterward, Tennessee Democrats concluded that only Jackson or Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas can beat Mr. Nixon here in 1972, but they do not regard Mills as a serious possibility.

Jackson is far behind his rivals in organization and planning. He arrived in Nashville without thick intelligence reports about local politicians that Muskie would bring into the state. Thus, Jackson did not know enemies from friends, heavyweights from lightweights.

For instance, he was excessively cordial to former Gov. Buford Ellington, anathema to party loyalists for non-support of the 1970 ticket (including defeated Sen. Albert Gore). "If you get in bed with Buford, Senator," an exercised state legislator told Jackson driving back to the airport, "you can kiss this state goodbye." It was the first Jackson had heard of Ellington's political ostracism.

But what Jackson did show here was an appreciation, unique among Democratic Presidential hopefuls, that many rank-and-file Democrats (especially in the South but not limited there) are not all that liberal and worry more about inflation and jobs than Vietnam, the arms race, and J. Edgar Hoover. It means Scoop Jackson may be the longshot rival Ed Muskie should worry about most.

Tuesday, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford cited what he termed the four main points of the Nixon plan:

1. A new attempt to dry up overseas sources of supply—a decade-old undertaking that has borne scant fruit heretofore. Ford noted the President discussed the subject for nearly two hours Monday with American ambassadors to South Vietnam, Thailand, Turkey, Mexico and France—all countries figuring prominently in the international narcotics pipeline.

2. Increased efforts to enforce the law effectively against sellers of illegal drugs.

3. A greatly-expanded campaign to detoxify GI addicts before they are discharged and put them in a readjustment program that could extend their terms of service.

4. An antidrug educational drive aimed principally at young people.

The new White House Office of Drug Abuse Prevention, as Nixon sees it, will concentrate on research and education. If Congress approves, he will name as its head Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, Chicago pharmacologist noted for methadone treatment of heroin addicts. He now directs a statewide drug-abuse program in Illinois.

than is used on the type grown in North Carolina. Thus, if the insecticide is dangerous when used properly, it should have shown up in Florida, the scientists said.

Cooperating in the study were the Gadsden County (Florida) Health Department, Rex Hospital in Raleigh, the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station, the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and N. C. State University.

Controversy developed over parathion last summer when it was linked with two deaths and many illnesses on North Carolina tobacco farms.

Agricultural officials tended to blame the tragedies on misuse of the chemical.

Dr. Frank Guthrie, professor of entomology at N.C. State University and coordinator of the Florida project, said the study "lends strong clinical support to the viewpoint that

State Grant To Aid Airport

RALEIGH (AP) — The state has provided a $50,000 grant to Columbus County to aid in airport construction.

Roy Sawers, director of the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development, announced the grant Wednesday. The money would be added to $96,000 raised in Columbus County and the total of the two sums would be matched by a federal grant so that $291,000 would be available for runway construction.

parathion can be used safely." Guthrie stressed, however, that the results "should not lull the farmer into carelessness, for parathion is a very dangerous material. It should be mixed with care, never permitted around children, and workers should avoid getting into treated fields for five days after treatment." Guthrie said the study was conducted in Florida, where the tobacco season is earlier, in order to discover any problems that should be called to the attention of North Carolina farmers. Also, cigar-wrapper tobacco growers use from six to 10 times more parathion per acre than do flue-cured growers, making the test conditions more severe than would normally be experienced in North Carolina farming. Guthrie said further tests would have been made in North Carolina should the Florida tests not have proved so conclusive. Tobacco growers use parathion to control aphids and flea beetles. While the material is very poisonous during and immediately after application, it degrades rapidly and thus has no long-term bad effect on the environment as do long-lived insecticides.

Old Gunboat's Luck Is Fading

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer
PASCAGOULA, Miss. (AP) — A Civil War Yankee gunboat, cared for by Mississippi money since it was raised from its watery grave in 1964, faces a shortened second life unless new funds are found, possibly from the federal government.

The Cairo, last of the Civil War ironclads, is being kept from complete deterioration from dry rot by having its wood sprayed with water 24 hours a day.

The cost of maintenance at the shipyard runs about $3,000 a month. However, Mississippi officials indicate they may no longer support the costs to keep it from decaying.

The ship was sunk in 1862 during a Union maneuver against Vicksburg. It was discovered at the bottom of the Yazoo River in 1955.

After nine years of planning and salvage, the 512-ton, 176-foot-long warship was raised and brought here to the Litton-Ingalls Shipyard, where it is a crumbled mass of junk waiting for help.

It is almost unrecognizable as a ship — sitting in two heaps with its paddlewheel a tangle of pipes, its superstructure eroded like driftwood, and its hull crumbling and propped up by crude wooden braces. Its iron armor, apparently a stack of railroad tracks piled against the cabin, is in surprisingly good condition despite signs of rust.

Lying beneath a gentle spray of water, it sits open to the elements on the edge of a bay at this Gulf Coast town — far from the mid-state location where it went down.

Restoring it for public display will cost $2.5 million, and neither the governor nor the state has been willing to go that far.

The Mississippi legislature reduced the appropriation for Cairo preservation to $15,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and a spokesman for the Agricultural and Industrial Board, which has title to the vessel, said it is doubtful the board will ask for any money the year after.

The state's Congressional delegation is pushing for the $2.5 million no easy chore since the National Park Service last year placed the vessel in a low priority category.

The park service set the Cairo renovation for the end of the Vietnamese conflict, plus three years.

It would seem the Cairo's luck is running out for the second time.

The first time was in December, 1862, when she was sunk just months after being completed in St. Louis by James B. Eads.

The flat-bottomed vessel, topped with delta shaped armor-plated housing, drew seven feet of water and was created specifically for the Union's interior Navy.

The newly commissioned Cairo was sent down the Yazoo River, which meets the Mississippi just above Vicksburg, to look for mines.

She found them. One struck the bow and 12 minutes after the tall plume of muddy water shot skyward, the board had settled in the mud and silt in 25 feet of water.

The 160-man crew managed to escape.

"We moved off just in time to escape being swallowed up in a seething cauldron of foaming water," reads the diary left by George R. Yost, a 16-year-old member of the Cairo's crew.

The crew pulled off the smokestack and flagpole so the enemy would not discover the vessel and salvage the 13 cannon aboard. That did the trick for about 96 years before Vicksburg historian Edwin Bears became curious and began looking through military papers. Bears and two others began a search and almost immediately were successful in finding the ironclad.

The Cairo was raised in 1964 and more than 4,000 artifacts were recover — pistols, uniforms, keged tobacco, and even a glass negative, that when processed, made an attractive photograph of a woman and her child.

The artifacts are clean, protected in glass, and on display at the battlefield museum in Vicksburg.

The hulk of the gunboat, meanwhile, fights the only battle of its career — that of deterioration.

The Cairo is losing.

Faculty Members Join Music Festival Today

GREENSBORO — Faculty members of East Carolina University's School of Music once more taking part in the Eastern Music Festival that opens today on Guilford College campus. Dr. Robert Hause, conductor of the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra, will be conducting concerts at the festival. He has been on hand several summers in Greensboro in that capacity. Some of his concerts in past years have been televised. Dr. John Peter Dundon, cellist and a professor in the School of Music, is another ECU faculty member participating in the annual music program. Although not a faculty member, Mrs. Karen Hause, wife of Dr. Hause, is another Greenville resident active in the Eastern Music Festival. Mrs. Hause often accompanies ECU students and faculty members in ECU recitals. This summer's program marks the tenth anniversary of the Eastern Music Festival. Termed Project "Listen", the program is geared to bring serious music to children, young people and adults through a series of performances at Dana Auditorium and by concerts at various places in the Greensboro area. Groups of listeners are being sponsored by the YMCA, the Salvation Army Boys Club, the YWCA and other Greensboro organizations. In addition, musicians will travel in the Greensboro area in a series of concerts known as "out-reach" programs. The performers will visit the Winston-Salem Children's Home for handicapped children, the Juvenile Detention Home, the Cerebral Palsy School, among other places. The program will include, in addition to concerts, "lecture-demonstrations" to permit children to get to "meet" the musical instruments up close, to have music explained to them, and to ask questions about music and instruments.

Hitchhiker Got 10 Days

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — "The first thing I do when I leave here is get out of this state and not come back again," says a 19-year-old Cary, Ill., Marine serving a 10-day jail sentence for hitchhiking on Interstate 95. Donald P. Thull was convicted in Henrico County Court Wednesday after being arrested by a Virginia state trooper on I-95 near the Richmond city limits. Thull said he was hitchhiking from Baltimore to Cherry Point, N. C., where he's stationed, when he was picked up by the state trooper early Monday morning. Thull said the man with whom he had been riding began drinking just north of Richmond and Thull asked to get out. He said he decided to risk hitchhiking but "the next guy that stopped was a patrol car." Thull said he had $3.50 at the time of the arrest and was unable to post a bond of $20.25. Judge H. Ratcliffe Turner said Thull and two others now in jail were the first I-95 hitchhikers to whom he had applied the maximum jail penalty under Virginia law, but denied he was "cracking down" on hitchhikers. When Thull and the two others appeared before the judge without money, "I just decided at that point I wouldn't impose fines because they couldn't pay them," Turner said.

Reduction In Ranks Of Sky Marshals Is Ahead

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a new rash of air piracy and the first slaying of a passenger on a hijacked plane, the chief of U.S. sky marshals says his force may be cut late next year. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, director of civil aviation security, says a 75 per cent trimming of his 1,200-man force is foreseeable if airport ground security continues to improve. "It is likely that we will always have to have sky marshals to prevent air crimes," Davis said in an interview. "But I would think there would be about one-fourth the number we have now." Davis, a retired Air Force lieutenant general, said displaced marshals could go to other government security jobs. Putting armed marshals aboard planes is a hazard and unpopular with the government, airlines and passengers, but essential for the time being, Davis said. He called "shocking, extremely disturbing" the fatal shooting of a 65-year-old Connecticut businessman aboard a hijacked Trans World Airlines jetliner at Chicago's O'Hare Field last Friday. "Nevertheless, the solution toward which we are all pushing remains, and it is complete security on the ground—keeping dangerous person off aircraft," Davis said. Citing an example of ground security efforts, Davis said one major airline has spent $750,000 to buy enough weapon-detection devices to cover every boarding gates at every airport it serves. At a closed May 25 meeting of the American Association of Airport Executives, he outlined these previously undisclosed security slips at different major airports: —Two teenagers running away from home walked aboard a parked jet airliner with plans to stay away, and were found asleep there. —An insurance investigator testing the effectiveness of cargo security measures climbed aboard a parked Boeing 747 jumbo jet, wandered about and took pictures without being challenged. —Drunks rummaged through three parked 727s looking for liquor. —A security survey of an important airport in March disclosed instances of motorists lost on runways at night and of horseback riders, hunters, sightseers and cyclists on restricted airport roads. Abram Roberson, both of Washington. The body will be at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home until it is carried to the church at noon Sunday.

Goldberg Back To Washington

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg says he will leave a New York law firm to return to law practice in Washington July 1. Goldberg, the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor of New York last year, was a labor union lawyer in Washington from 1948 until his appointment as secretary of labor in 1961. He was named to the Supreme Court in 1962, but resigned in 1965 to become ambassador to the United Nations. After leaving the U.N. post in 1968, he joined the New York law firm of Paul, Weiss, Goldberg, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison.

2nd Largest Applebaum Will Be Featured For Next 3 Days

East Carolina University has enrolled 4,305 students in 1971 summer school classes, the second largest summer school enrollment total in ECU's history. Worth E. Baker, ECU Registrar, said additional enrollment in a large number of summer school workshops may very well push the 1971 enrollment figure above the record 4,698 students on campus in the summer of 1968. By the end of the summer sessions, Baker said, "we probably will have an all time high summer school enrollment." Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, "Hyman Appleman Days" will be featured at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church on Watuga Avenue. The services begin at 7:30 and are over by 9 p.m. Doctor Appleman will speak Friday evening on "From a Jewish Lawyer to a Gospel Minister—the Appleman Story—Russia-America-the World." Saturday the message will be "The Second Coming of Christ—Jews-Arabs." Sunday, Appleman will preach the sermon and conduct the Sunday school lessons beginning at 9:45 a.m. At 7:30 p.m., Appleman will speak on "When Communism Rules the World." At 7 p.m. Saturday evening, Doctor Appleman will host the youth of the community in a cook-out. Admission is free for all under 21 years of age.

Dickens' 2-Hitter Beats Tarboro, 8-1

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

TARBORO — Byron Dickens weaved a fine two-hitter last night as he led the Greenville Post 39 American Legion baseball team to an 8-1 victory over Tarboro.

Dickens didn't give up the lone run scored against him until the ninth inning, when he tired. Two walks, a fielder's choice and the second hit off him did the damage. But he had already let Tarboro know that he had them in his pocket. During the nine innings, he walked just four batters, two of them in the ninth. And he struck out 19.

Only 10 of the 33 batters he faced got wood on the ball, and the only two that got out of the infield were the two hits against him.

The last could have easily not been a hit at all. But the batter, Bruce Caldwell, hit to the opposite side caught Greenville's second baseman, J. C. Daniels, holding the runner on at second for a fluke hit.

Greenville, meanwhile, battered two Tarboro pitchers, including ace Mason Lilly, for 10 hits. Lilly was chased after walking three and allowing three hits in the fourth inning. He had been hit hard by nearly all of the Greenville batters who faced him.

Greenville got a threat off in the second inning when Joey Moore walked and Joe West hit a ball to right that went through the wire fence there for a ground-ruled double. But an attempted squeeze play went awry and Moore was caught in a run-down.

Finally, in the fourth, Greenville picked up its first run. Daniels reached on a one-out single to right-center. Moore drew his second walk of the evening and Stanley Cobb ripped a singled through the middle, scoring Daniels. Moore, however, was thrown out going to third on the play.

Greenville came back with another run in the fifth. Dickens led off with a single to center and Roland Hooks walked. Dickens went to third on a fly out to right-center, but was caught off third in an attempted double steal that saw Hooks take second. A passed ball moved Hooks to third and Phil Blount walked. Blount took off for second and stopped to get caught in another run down, but the ball got through the Tarboro shortstop at second, and Hooks trotted home easily to score.

In the second, Greenville came up with two more runs. Dickens reached on an error and Hooks singled. Both advanced on a passed ball and Jimmy Paige reached on an error, scoring both runners.

Greenville finished things off with four runs in the eighth inning. With two outs, Cobb walked and Dickens singled to center. Hooks tripled to right to score both runners. Bill Lee and Blount both walked, loading the bases and Paige single to center, scoring both Hooks and Lee with the final Greenville runs.

The lone Tarboro threat came in the ninth, when they scored their only run. Stanley Letchworth and Ronnie Crisp both walked to open the inning. Dickens struck out the next man, and the following batter, Bruce Bullock grounded to third, getting Letchworth there. But Bruce Caldwell hit one through

Exchange Upsets Graniteers, 4-3

The Exchange handed the Graniteers their second loss of the season yesterday, downing the league leader, 4-3.

The Graniteers, however, held on to the Tar Heel Little League lead with a 9-2 record. Pepsi-Cola is second with a 7-4 mark, followed by the Elks, 6-5, the Moose and Exchange, both 4-7, and Integon, 3-8.

The Graniteers opened the scoring in the first inning, getting a run. Timmy Allen and Howard Vainright both walked. Chris Moyer singled to score Allen for a 1-0 lead.

The Graniteers then added two more in the second for a 3-0 margin. Kevin Haut singled and took second on a passed ball. Henry Wooten singled and H. L. Austin sacrificed to score Haut.

Allen hit a sacrifice fly to score Wooten with the third Graniteer run.

The Exchange started its rally in the third, scoring a run. Thil Hurley was hit by a pitch and took second on a passed ball. Darrell Roebuck doubled to drive him in.

Then, in the fifth, the Exchange charged into the lead. Tom Bunch was hit by a pitch and Alston Daniels reached on a fielder's choice. Bobby Boseman singled, loading the bases. Joel Hargett walked to bring in Bunch and Hurley walked, scoring Daniels with the tying run. Boseman then scored on a passed ball with the winning run.

Kiwanis Slip Past The Lions

The Kiwanis inched past the Lions, 4-3, yesterday in the North State Little League, keeping their fading title hopes alive.

The Optimists lead the league with a 10-1 record, while the Kiwanis are 8-3. They are followed by the Jaycees and R. C. Cola, both 5-6, and Coca-Cola, 4-7, and the Lions, 1-10.

The Kiwanis put the first run across in the first inning. David Middleton singled and moved to third on two outs. He scored when Randy Britt singled.

In the second, three more Kiwanis runs came across, making it 4-0. Greg Dail walked and Chris Randolph was hit by a pitch. Danny Hester doubled to score both runners, and Hester came across on an error.

In the third, the Lions started their comeback. Dale Steele doubled and moved up on Wright Hooks' double. Phillip Gibbs grounded out scoring Steele.

The other two Lion runs came in the fourth. Steve Harris singled and moved to third on passed balls, scoring on an error. Mike Adams walked and stole both second on third, scoring on a passed ball.

But the scoring ended there, and the Lions were unable to pull back even.

Archie Mosley singled and Joe DeLoach got a hit. Dan Leggett reached on an error and Phil Martin singled. Ernest Carraway reached on a fielder's choice and Nash Love was safe on an error. Danny Singleton got a hit and came around on a hit by Moseley to score the 10th run.

Black Jack tried to rally, coming up with two in the seventh, including a homer by J. T. Mills, but fell just short.

Dairymen Pull Into Lead Tie; Pepsi Wins

Carolina Dairy pulled back into a tie for first place in the Babe Ruth League last night with a 4-3 victory over Home Builders. Pepsi-Cola nipped Planters Bank, 6-5, in 10 innings in the other game.

Carolina Dairy and North Carolina National Bank are tied for the lead with 6-3 records, while Pepsi is right behind at 6-4. They are followed by College View, 4-5, Home Builders 4-6, and Planters, 2-7.

Home Builders pushed across off three of its runs in the bottom of the first inning. Leon Guthrie walked and stole second. Jon West singled to score him. Jeff Beamon walked and Jeff Daniels doubled to drive in West. Skip Fowler got a hit to drive in Beamon.

Carolina Dairy started its comeback in the second with a run. Bobby Jones walked and moved up when Dickie Johnson reached on a fielder's choice. Jones moved to third on a passed ball and scored on an error.

In the fifth, the Dairymen added another run. Chris Garrett walked and Jon Causey singled. Mike Parker then got a hit to drive in Garrett.

The tying run scored in the sixth. Johnson singled and stole both second and third. Garrett and David Clifton walked to load the bases and Causey reached on an error, scoring Johnson.

The winning run came in the seventh. Parker reached on an error and moved up on a wild pitch. Jones reached on another error and Johnson sacrificed to score Parker with the winning run.

Daniels had two hits for Home Builders, while no one had more than one for Carolina Dairy.

Pepsi pushed ahead in the bottom of the first inning, scoring four runs. T.J. Payne walked and Curtis Lee singled. Pete Cullop's hit brought in Payne and Bobby Dough walked, loading the bases. Doug Causey singled to drive in both Lee and Cullop and Dough scored on an error.

Dave Hill Likes Open Course, Or He'd Say So

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — "Hi, Dave. How do you like the course?"

Dave Hill lifted his eyebrows, looked the questioner right in the eye and replied, "I like it, and if I didn't, I'd say so."

Nobody will let dark-haired Hill forget his description of last year's U.S. Open Golf Championship site as a cow pasture.

The tempestuous Hill was asked to compare Hazletine in Chaska, Minn., with Merion Golf Club, the course over which 150 golfers started the 1971 U.S. Open Championship today.

"This is a fair golf course," said Hill of the 6,544-yard Merion course, a short but tricky layout in suburban Philadelphia. "A short hitter has as good a chance as a long hitter. As a matter of fact the short hitter will be in the fairway more often."

"But how does it compare with Hazletine?" someone persisted.

"I don't remember Hazletine," retorted Hill, who despite his dislike for the course finished second to winner Tony Jacklin in the 1970 Open.

"I don't intend to go back to Hazletine. It's a dead issue. It's gone," he said of the course that cost him a heavy fine for his unkind words.

Hill doesn't think too much of his chances to beat a field which includes Jacklin, the favored Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player, Lee Trevino, last week's tour winner Tom Weiskopf, 1969 winner Orville Moody, Frank Beard, George Archer, Miller Barber, Bob Murphy, Ray Floyd, Gene Littler and all the other big names in golf.

"I haven't been playing well for a year, said Hill. 'I've been playing like Andy Gump a comic strip character.'"

Hill said he has been working on his tempo, explaining that he has been swinging too fast from the top of his swing to the ball.

Hill predicted that a two-over-par 282 would win the 72-hole tournament over the historic Merion course, the scene of Bobby Jones' Grand-Slam climax in 1930, and of two previous U.S. Open Championships.

He cautioned, however, that it could be five or six over if it gets hot and the undulating greens dry out.

Two days of intermittent rains let up Wednesday and the sun came out at times. The rather cool weather was warming up and the outlook was for some typical hot summer weather the next four days.

Hill, who is suing the Professional Golfers' Association for placing him on a year's probation for deliberately mis-signing a scorecard, says he doesn't regret anything he has said or done in his controversial 13-year career.

"You should never regret something you can't get back," he said. "You can't undo it."

Stoneman Hurls 1-Hit Victory For Montreal

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Here's Today's baseball quiz: What's the difference between the no-hitter Montreal's Bill Stoneman pitched against Philadelphia in 1969 and the one-hitter he threw at San Diego Wednesday night?

That's easy. One hit, right?

Wrong. The difference, says manager Gene Mauch, is "six walks and 2½ years' experience."

That's wrong, too. The difference, if you really want to know, is four walks and 26 months' experience.

At any rate, Stoneman, a 27-year-old right-hander, ran his record to 9-4 by blanking the Padres 2-0, tying his own club record of 14 strikeouts and allowing only three baserunners.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia downed San Francisco 6-3, the New York Mets whipped Los Angeles 7-2, Pittsburgh beat Houston 6-4, Cincinnati nipped St. Louis 1-0 and Atlanta edged the Chicago Cubs 6-5.

Stoneman finally is consistently displaying the form the Expos have been waiting for after seasons of 11-19 and 7-15. In his no-hitter, which came in the ninth game ever played by the expansion Expos, he walked five and struck out eight.

Wednesday night he walked only one and his 14 strikeouts gave him the NL lead with 122. "Sure," Stoneman admitted, "I knew I had a no-hitter going, but I wasn't worried about it. It was my best game of the year. It went the way I planned it. In snapping their five-game losing streak, the Expos nipped Dave Roberts for both their runs in the fifth inning on a walk, sacrifice, Clyde Mashore's double and a single by Stoneman.

"I've learned that you don't start working on a hitter's weakness from the first pitch," Stoneman said. "Last year, I was doing that and trying to nibble at corners with my fast ball. Now I ride my best stuff down the middle and say, 'Here, try to handle that.' I know when I'm throwing my best I'll beat them more than they'll beat me."

The Giants lost another game—11 of 15 this month—but for a change they didn't lose any ground to the Dodgers. Tim McCarver hit a two-run homer as the Phillies scored four times in the second inning and doubled to key a two-run seventh in beating the Giants.

McCarver's homer followed a two-run, two-out throwing error by third baseman Alan Gallagher. Tito Fuentes homered for the Giants.

But the Dodgers saw their five-game winning string ended by the Mets as Mike Jorgensen hit two solo home runs and Bud Harrelson delivered a two-run single in the sixth, breaking open a close game. The Giants maintained their five-game lead.

Roberto Clemente's tie-breaking two-run homer in the seventh inning lifted the Pirates past the Astros and kept them 3½ games in front of the Mets in the NL East.

The winning blow came after the Astros, held hitless for five innings by Dock Ellis, erupted for five hits and four runs in the sixth to tie the score. Ellis' 10th victory tied him with three others as the NL's winningest pitcher. Clemente also drove in a run with a third-inning single.

Don Gullett hurled a four-hitter and made Lee May's run-scoring single in the first inning stand up as the Reds shaded the Cards. Gullett needed only 89 pitches Stoneman used 114 and said it was "the best I've thrown, no doubt about it."

Hank Aaron's two-run double highlighted a five-run Atlanta explosion in the fifth inning following an error by Chicago pitcher Ken Holtzman. Aaron then singled home what proved to be the winning run in the seventh after Sonny Jackson's triple.

In the other American League games, the Minnesota Twins nudged the Cleveland Indians 3-2; the Baltimore Orioles ripped the Milwaukee Brewers 8-3; the New York Yankees turned back the Kansas City Royals 3-2; the Detroit Tigers shaded the Chicago White Sox 6-5 and the Boston Red Sox topped the California Angels 4-1.

Epstein and relief pitcher Darrold Knowles were traded to the A's for Linblad, first baseman Don Mincher and catcher Frank Fernandez on May 8.

The homer spree, which tied him with several major leaguers, was particularly satisfying to Epstein, who hit the shots in a pitcher's park—Oakland Coliseum.

Joe Rudi also hit two solo homers and Dave Duncan crashed another in the five-homer assault on Washington pitching as McLain dropped his 12th game in 16 decisions.

Blue boosted his mark to 14-2, striking out eight enroute to his 14th complete game as he continued to top the majors with his stunning victory total:

Cesar Tovar drove in a run with a single and Rich Reese knocked in the decisive tally with a sacrifice fly as Minnesota came up with two runs in the ninth to beat Cleveland. The Indians had a ninth inning rally, too, scoring their second run on Graig Nettles' single before reliever Stan Williams shut the door.

Nettles, incidentally, had five hits, including a double in the first inning that sparked the Indians' first run. Rod Carew had four hits for Minnesota, including a triple in the ninth when he scored on Tovar's single.

Paul Blair and Brooks Robinson smashed two-run homers, helping Dave McNally gain his 10th victory for Baltimore.

Blair connected in the opening inning following a single by Don Buford. Robinson's blow came in the sixth with Frank Robinson aboard. McNally, seeking his fourth straight 20-victory season, doubled home a run later in the sixth.

Stan Bahnsen, who flew to Kansas City from two-week military duty, pitched his fifth straight complete game victory with a four-hitter as New York beat the Royals.

The Yankees, responsible for Kansas City's only three losses in 15 games, scored the winning run on a bases-loaded fielder's choice in the eighth inning. Felipe Alou knocked in the run after singles by Jerry Kenney and Bobby Murcer and a walk to Roy White.

Ed Brinkman delivered the tying run with a sacrifice fly and Aurelio Rodriguez cashed in the winner with a bases-loaded, squeeze bunt in the eighth inning as Detroit took an uphill fight from Chicago.

The White Sox had broken a 4-4 tie with a run in their half of the eighth on Carlos May's sacrifice fly prior to the Tigers' rally.

Jim Lonborg capped a two-run rally with a run-scoring single and pitched out of repeated trouble to lead the Boston triumph. Lonborg gave up nine hits and six walks and had runners on base in every inning, but stiffened in crucial situations. He stranded 14 runners in all to win his second game in five decisions.

Trojans Meet For The Title

By DAN EVEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Can Southern California's ace pitcher stop hard-hitting Southern Illinois? The 1971 College World Series title hinges on the question and the answer will come tonight when the two clash at 8 p.m.

Defending champion Southern Cal edged fourth-ranked Tulsa (3-2) Wednesday night on pitcher Mark Sogge's ninth-inning single and gained the title showdown with No. 3 Southern Illinois (43-8).

"We feel we have a score to settle and can't wait for the ballgame tomorrow night," said USC Coach Rod Dedeaux, whose team lost to Southern Illinois 9-3 in the second round of the double-elimination tournament last Sunday.

Top-ranked Southern Cal (52-13) will be bidding for its eighth title—and third in four years.

Dedeaux will start junior all-America Steve Busby (10-2) who was touched for six hits and all of SIU's runs in the second game.

Southern Illinois Coach Richard Jones said he would start righthander Dick Langdon (12-1) who has given up three earned runs in 11 series innings.

Sogge, a junior righthander now 13-1, excelled wherever the Trojans needed him against Tulsa, which lost for the second straight night to Southern Cal.

He scattered eight hits, struck out five, and came up with a crafty eighth inning pickup move that ended a one-out, bases-loaded Tulsa threat.

Tulsa, which came to the tournament fourth-ranked out-hit Southern Cal eight to seven. The Golden Hurricane bowed out with a 35-12 record.

Butcher (10-6) was the Tulsa losing pitcher.

STARR IS OWN BOSS GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Quarterback Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers is his own boss when it comes to working for a soft drink firm in the off season.

"He is on his own when it comes to making good will appearances," says Andrall E. Pearson, president of the firm.

Legislature Seeing Its Longest Session In History

Dr. Franklin McNutt Honored By Teacher Education 'Power Plant'

By JERRY RAYNOR
"It's a very touching tribute in the twilight years of my life," Dr. Franklin H. McNutt said about the recently opened Center for Instructional Media (CIM) at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. (UNC-G)

Dr. McNutt, who describes himself "as an active 81", has been living in Greenville since 1963. "I like the town and the people very much," he smiled, "and I still give talks and addresses to the teachers at college occasionally." Until his retirement in 1958, Dr. McNutt was professor of education and Dean of the Graduate School at UNC-G. He noted that from 1958 until 1963 he and Mrs. McNutt lived on a farm they have outside Greensboro. "We came to Greenville in 1963 to be with our daughter and son-in-law, Dr. Charles Adams." (Dr. Adams died earlier this year.)

The center named for Dr. McNutt is described by Wilson Davis of the UNC-G News Bureau as "rather small by comparison with most other buildings at the university. However, in the teacher education program, it has become very large, indeed."

Davis noted, "In fact, faculty members in the School of Education refer to the structure as a 'power plant.'"

Dr. Robert O'Kane, current dean of UNC-G's School of Education, explains, "We have a strong belief that the teacher needs to be supplemented and complemented — not just with theories of instruction and learning, but with adequate technology."

And the McNutt Center for Instructional Media fills that need. "Not only are undergraduate and graduate students responding to the increased emphasis on new technological aids and other media in the classroom," Davis stated, "but public school teachers have been using the structure as a resource center."

The one-story building, consisting of 26,500 square feet was built at a cost of approximately half a million dollars. Inside, the large, library-like materials center is surrounded by related workrooms, laboratories and classrooms.

The McNutt CIM has a graphics laboratory; a television studio and control room; a large, audio-visual equipment storage room; an audio studio; classrooms with two way mirror; conference rooms; a photography darkroom; and faculty offices.

This center is unique in the U.S. and within the past year has been visited by such prominent educators as Dr. James Allen, President Nixon's former U.S. Commissioner of Education.

Davis explained that "the CIM is designed to promote increased use of media of all kinds — technological hardware, printed matter, scale models, etc. — in the classroom. To do this, the structure has assumed the role of a resource center containing the latest in instructional media."

Although it is not a library, the center has over 18,000 books. There are also more than 800 curriculum guides, 500 programmed instructions, 2,200 filmstrips, 600 disc recordings and over 300 tape recordings. These are but a part of the overall inventory.

And the Bucyrus, Ohio native, for whom this advanced concept of instructional centers is named expressed delight that the university where he taught for many years has this new center.

Dr. McNutt also mentioned two retirement activities he is enthusiastic about. "I love gardening and going fishing," he commented. "We have a little place on Broad Creek outside Washington, and its good to go fishing there."

By MELVIN LAND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Any way you look at it, North Carolina's General Assembly is in its longest session in history.
Two years ago the legislature adjourned on July 2 after meeting for 145 working days. That record will be equaled on June 30, and prospects for adjournment anywhere near that date appear slim.
Even Secretary of State Thad Eure, who could qualify as the best walking source on legislative data, says the adjournment date is an unknown quality.
"I don't think either of the presiding officers could tell you and mean it," Eure said in an interview.

"I am confident that they'll have an appropriations bill ratified, even if they have to amend it, by not later than the 30th of this month."

Eure noted that, "Once they have ratified an appropriations bill, they could have a sine die (final) adjournment at any time, but there are some matters that they are going to dispose of after that. And nobody knows what or how many."

Despite early-session pledges by House Speaker Phil Godwin and Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor to speed up the legislative process, the General Assembly has set a slow pace so far this 1971 session.

As of Monday, the legislature had ratified 627 bills. Two years ago, on the comparable date, 914 bills had become law.

There is also a gap in the number of bills introduced—2,218 two years ago, 2,028 this session.

"That looks like slowness," Eure said, "but I wouldn't want to call it that. A lot of it may be due to the consideration given bills, plus a lot of other factors."

Eure's confidence of an appropriations bill, regardless of what form it takes, by June 30 lies in the fact that a new fiscal year begins July 1. Without a bill of some type, the state government would begin the year without funds.

"They must and will pass an appropriations bill by that date," he said.

As for adjournment, however, it could become a new game of guessing after July 1. That's the date North Carolina's new constitution becomes affective, including new controls for legislative sessions.

As it stands now, each house of the General Assembly must meet daily Monday through Saturday and be in session on the same day. In practice, the Saturday sessions are attended by only a handful of legislators.

Under the new constitution, Eure said, "Each house independently of the other can adjourn for a period not to exceed three days. That means they can start on a four-day week if they want to."

The possibilities would be virtually unlimited under such an arrangement. Members of one house could remain home for up to five days without missing a legislative day. The other house could do the same, or remain in session.

At this point, no one is certain what course the House and Senate will take.

Meanwhile, the long hours and innumerable delays began to show last week, especially in the 120-member House.

House Speaker Godwin's irritation was noticeable when, on bill after bill, legislators stood to request delays ranging from a few moments to a week. The excuse usually took the form: "Mr. Speaker, Mr. So-and-So is interested in this bill but isn't present. I move that it be temporarily displaced."

When the trend became apparent, Godwin interrupted one legislator to note: "The way I see it, when a calendar (listing the bills scheduled for action that day) is published, we all ought to take notice of this and should be on the floor at that time."

But Godwin continued to allow the delays, even when Rep. Ernest L. Hicks, D-Mecklenburg, asked that the third and final reading on a bill be postponed until this week.

"A gentleman in Chicago had some questions about this bill which I couldn't answer," Hicks told the House. "However, I did tell him I would object to a third reading."

The Chicago "gentleman" got his time to study the bill.

Hunt Suspect In Beheading

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Officers throughout the state are looking for Charles B. Davis, 30, of Fayetteville, who is charged with murdering a Fayetteville man and cutting off his head.

The body of Theodore Fisher Jr. of Fayetteville was found Wednesday by a Robeson County farmer. Fisher's head was discovered buried nearby.

Robeson deputy D. A. Parnell said Davis was last seen late Tuesday. The deputy said Davis is the operator of a grocery store in Fayetteville and Fisher worked parttime for him.

Another Fayetteville man, Joseph Williams, 32, was in Robeson County jail under $15,000 bond on a charge of being an accessory after the fact of murder.

Robeson Sheriff Malcolm McLeod and his deputies gave this account:

The headless body of Fisher was found early Tuesday in a burned-out car at St. Pauls, a Robeson County town about 20 miles south of Fayetteville. But identification could not be established.

Later Tuesday, Charles H. Burke followed tire tracks on his property to a place where there was fresh dirt. The spot is about 1 1/2 miles from where the car was discovered.

Burke dug into the fresh dirt and found a head.

Fisher's brother identified the victim. An autopsy has been ordered to determine the exact cause of death.

McLeod said bullet wounds were found in the head.

He said the burned car was registered to Davis.

Maria Callas Is Granted Divorce

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — The 22-year marriage of soprano Maria Callas and industrialist Giovanni Meneghini is legally over.

The law permits divorce after five years' separation.

New Golf Bag For Spiro Agnew

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has a new bag.

It's white, clearly marked with a large red cross and is to hold the golf clubs with which he hits balls that in turn have hit three persons.

The golf bag was given to Agnew Wednesday by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors in recognition of his errant shots at the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic at Palm Springs last February.

The drives went astray and hit two persons in the gallery. A year before in the same event one of Agnew's shots bopped pro golfer Doug Sanders on the head.

Agnew smiled broadly, observed the pack of "get well" cards that came with the bag, and suggested he wasn't qualified to receive it.

CP&L Asks New Increase

RALEIGH (AP) — Customers of Carolina Power and Light Company, already paying an 11.86 per cent increase in their electric bills under a February order of the North Carolina Utilities Commission, will pay an additional 5.63 per cent increase if the company gets its way.

CP&L attorney Sherwood H. Smith told the Utilities Commission Wednesday that his company is facing a serious financial crisis and needs an immediate additional rate increase in order to meet expenses rising faster than revenues.

If granted by the commission, the new rate increase would add 3 cents per day to the average residential bill of $16 a month and would generate $7.85 million a year in additional revenue to the company.

CP&L followed by one day a plea by Duke Power Company for interim rate relief amounting to 7.10 per cent, or $18.2 million a year. Both companies are scheduled to receive full hearings on the proposed increases in the fall. The commission could grant them the increases now on an emergency basis, subject to hearing.

Four From Pitt Are Named To Attend Girl's State

Named To Roles In Swine Inspection

County Extension Chairman, Edwin L. Yancey, has announced that beginning July 1, the requirement for the use of hog cholera antiserum for swine moving other than to immediate slaughter will be discontinued. The requirement that feeder pigs and breeder animals be inspected before movement is still in effect, however.

The Pitt County School Superintendent has announced that the following vocational agriculture teachers have been assigned responsibility for swine inspection for the coming summer and next school year: E.P. Bass-Home, 756-3413; Farmville Central High School, 753-3918; Farmville, Fountain, Falkland, and Bell Arthur townships.

J. J. Brown-Home, 746-6467; Ayden-Grifton High School, 746-4183 - Grifton, Ayden, Winterville and Swift Creek townships.

Sam D. Dewar-Home, 825-7321; North Pitt High School, 758-5363 - Belvoir, Bethel, Carolina and Pactolas townships.

Sutton Austin-Home, 752-4734; D. H. Conley High School, 746-3440 - Chicod and Grimesland townships and the area immediately surrounding Greenville.

Also Eugene James, Belvoir; Marion Nobles, Stokes; Milton May, Winterville; and Paul Bradley, Grifton are qualified and willing to render the services within their communities and up to five miles away.

Millie Brown, Gail Worthington, Jane Hall, and Debbie Whichard have been chosen to attend Girl's State June 20-26. The session will be held at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro.

Students On Dean's List

According to Dr. Thomas M. Benton, Dean of Lenoir Community College, 16 students from this area have been named to the Dean's list for the spring quarter.

Transfer students receiving this honor are Fred W. Davenport and Brenda J. Davis, of Grifton, Paula T. Flake of Greenville, and Charlie L. Hall of Hookerton.

Local technical students are Lois M. Barrow of Farmville; Charles G. House of Greenville, John C. Manning and Donald D. Rouse of Grifton, Gloria M. Wall of Grimesland, and Jerry D. Shackelford of Hookerton.

Local honor students in the vocational department are Kenneth H. Strickland of Farmville, Barnara P. Wiggins and Emma J. Whitehurst of Grifton, Donna N. Smith and Albert Suggs of Ayden, and Alex Smith, Jr. of Hookerton.

Millie Brown and Gail Worthington are rising seniors at Farmville Central High School. Debbie Whichard and Jane Hall are rising seniors at North Pitt and D.H. Conley respectively.

Each girl received a letter explaining that "Tar Heel Girl's State was founded to provide the privilege for high school girls to learn, by their active participation, the rights and responsibilities of an American citizen...This week will be an opportunity for you to study and practice the functions of the government. Chaotic conditions demand that all students be aware of the privilege of living in a great democracy — a democracy in which we have many rights and freedoms which are so often treated lightly."

Millie, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bennie D. Brown has served her school as president of the Future Teachers of America Club, Secretary of the National Honor Society, and a member of the Keyette Club. She has maintained an "A" average throughout high school. Gail, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merom Worthington has also been very active in school activities. Among those she has participated in are the Dramatics Club, Science Club, Future Teachers of America Club, and the National Honor Society.

Debbie Whichard, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eric Whichard of Stokes, has served as secretary of the Student Involvement and president of her homeroom, and has participated in the Future Homemakers of America Club and the Nursing Club. Jane Hall, the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert V. Hall of Winterville, is very active in school activities. She has been a member of the basketball team.

Worry Clinic A Sculptor In Human Lives

Clara Rippl is a devout counselor and community sculptor in human lives! Although she is now a clergyman and has ably filled pulpits in the Methodist Church for 15 years, she previously worked as a counselor and community adviser in the slums of Indianapolis. Note her surprise when curbed by a police squad car!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Case Q-579: Clara Rippl is a vivacious clergyman at Fountainville, Indiana. That village is within the 100-mile radius of our summer home in Indiana, where I donate my Sundays for pulpit invitations. Since Mrs. Crane and I had arrived 30 minutes early, Rev. Rippl took me around to meet all the Sunday School classes and their teachers. "Dr. Crane," she added, "I previously worked for the church in aiding destitute families at Indianapolis. One afternoon a boy, aged 16, walked into her office, for she always left her door open so teen-agers could feel free to consult her.

"But I have always wanted to tell you that your faith in me really changed my life. "For now I am happily married and we have a baby. I have long hoped to see you to let you know, so I trust I didn't shock you by curbing your car." Boys Need Faith Although Rev. Rippl has occupied Methodist pulpits for the past 15 years, she had that he was intent on shooting his dad. "No, you are too good a boy for that," she repeated. "I know the REAL you!" "You put up a rough and tough exterior but I know you are a good boy at heart. "So give me the gun and then you go home tonight and kneel down beside your bed. "Ask God to help the good that is within you, to overcome the bad." He protested that they had no beds at home, but merely a blanket on the floor. "Well," she continued, "you kneel down beside your blanket and pray as I have suggested. "And before I leave this office, I'll also kneel down in our little chapel and pray for you, too.

"For you have a lot of good in you and it can conquer the bad." He finally gave her the gun, with tears in his eyes, and left. Now, 15 years later, she was curbed by that police car. And the handsome driver thereof was this same boy!

Friendly counsel at a teenager's "crossroads" in life often pays rich dividends! Rev. Rippl is a devout sculptor in human lives! Brava! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs

Dble. Pass Pass Pass

Yesterday we presented a hand taken from the Team-of-Four Championship held in Miami Beach during the Southeastern Regional Tournament wherein a difference in approach by the respective declarers in the play of a three no trump contract led to a substantial swing on the deal.

Today, we have another hand which also led to a decisive swing, however, bidding is the main ingredient of this tale. At one table the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram. East opened with one spade and South overcalled with two clubs. The competitive raise to two spades by West and the free bid of three hearts by North are fairly routine. At this point East chose to jump to four spades. South continued the competition by raising his partner to five hearts. Observe that the king-small of trumps is considered adequate support for a partner who has named his own suit at the three level. West carried on to five spades inasmuch as he had little defense and a profitable sacrifice appeared in the offing. North now raised his partner to six clubs and East

They Jog On Carrier Deck

By NEAL ULEVICH
ABOARD USS KITTY HAWK (AP) — Jogging aboard this aircraft carrier can have its pitfalls.

If you aren't careful, you splash into the Gulf of Tonkin off Vietnam.

But joggers like Jack Hilton are a dedicated breed.

Hilton, a lieutenant and at 38 an eight-year Navy veteran, takes his two or three daily miles in stride despite an 1,100-foot flight deck full of obstacles—jets parked and on the move, carts laden with bombs for the Ho Chi Minh trail, and arresting cables that can stop a jet bomber, much less a jogger, in nothing flat.

Hilton, who comes from Chula Vista, Calif., has a plan: "I start from the island, then jog to the bow along the starboard side, then down the port side and across to the angle deck, then down the angle to the stern, then back to the island."

Between 15 and 20 loyal joggers serve aboard the Kitty Hawk. Many are aviators—Hilton is an airborne radar observer—who normally gets less exercise in their missions over Indochina than the musclemen of the flight deck. "They," said the bearded lieutenant, "get such a working moving planes and bombs they don't need to jog."

Other difficulties in the path of naval joggers are flight operations and bad weather, both of which send the dedicated down below to the sheltered hangar deck, not quite as long as the flight deck.

Usually the jogging is peaceful despite the Kitty Hawk's wartime duties. The only problem for Hilton at least, is a lack of competition. Most of the joggers are years his junior.

"I have an open challenge," he said, "to all 38-year-old men aboard this ship."

Necklaces For Twenty Fawns

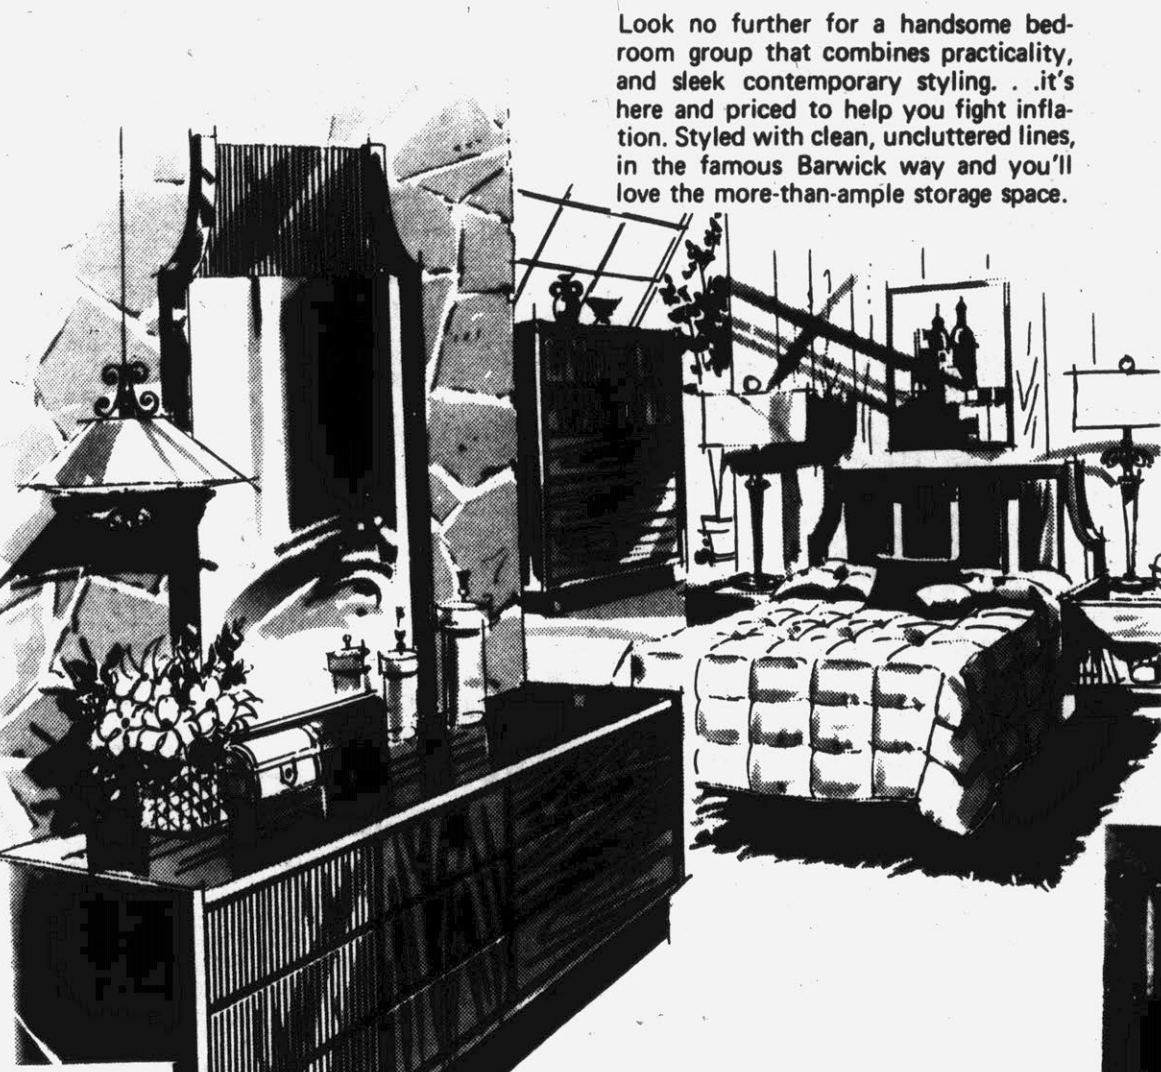

HALLETTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Twenty fawns in Lavaca County are wearing necklaces.

The neck pieces are radio transmitters placed on the fawns by a Texas Parks and Wildlife Department crew to find out what happens to those baby deer which never grow up to be adults.
