

Appropriations Bill Reported Out; Adjournment Tuesday?

RALEIGH (AP) — The joint appropriations subcommittee paved the way toward possible adjournment of the 1971 General Assembly Tuesday by reporting out a $4.3 billion appropriations bill. It exceeded Advisory Budget Commission recommendations by $14.3 million.

The full House-Senate Appropriations Committee, composed of half the legislative membership, is scheduled to vote on the money package at 8 a.m. Thursday.

Once out of the full committee, it is usually only a few days until the session adjourns.

Adjournment this year will most likely be only a 60 to 90 day recess, however, for the lawmakers will still have the higher education issue before them. Gov. Bob Scott and legislative leaders reached an accord Tuesday whereby this politically and emotionally boiling issue will be put on the back burner to simmer while the legislators take a brief vacation.

The subcommittee deleted $52 million in items that had been recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission and added $66.3 million, making net additions $14.3 million.

Major capital construction projects which were deleted included a $6.7 million state office building, $2 million for the State Museum of Art; $2.5 million for a new dramatic arts building at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, $5.2 million for an academic building at N.C. State University in Raleigh; $1.3 million for the Governor Morehead School in Raleigh; $1.2 million for a laundry building at Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh; and $1.4 million for new ports, facilities at Wilmington.

The subcommittee added a $3.1 million dock for the state port at Morehead City and added $4.7 million for an elementary school at a new central Piedmont school for the deaf, $1.2 million for a new water system at Appalachian State University in Boone, and $508,000 for a new health building at Elizabeth City

State University.

The largest additional appropriation in the operating budget was $12.377 million to provide $10 per month hospital insurance for all state employees and teachers during the second year of the biennium. And there was an additional of $3.7 million for $3 per month disability insurance during the second year.

Scott's recommended five per cent pay raise in each hear of the biennium for teachers and state employees got the stamp of approval from the appropriations group.

Teachers immediately set up a howl. Leaders of the North Carolina Association of Educators said that was less than a cost-of-living raise and predicted that many teachers would seek greener pastures.

The subcommittee recommended $1.4 million for the proposed first-year medical school at East Carolina University and $350,000 for a health library.

Medical Training Sum In ECU Budget

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Reflector Managing Editor Funds for the first year of medical training were included in ECU's proposed budget which was made public by the Legislative Joint Appropriations subcommittee yesterday.

The budget now goes to the full committee, which is expected to act Thursday, and then to both Houses of the Legislature. Few changes are generally made once the subcommittee makes its report.

The budget provides $767,629 for the first year and $692,187 for the second year of the biennium to plan and initiate a program of first year medical education at ECU. It also provides for $350,000 reserve to expand the allied health professions library. The school has already begun a medical library and these funds are expected to expand it to serve the growing enrollment in health fields.

Inclusion of the funds for one year of medical training fulfilled an agreement made by the governor to support the one year concept of physician training.

ECU had been authorized to prepare for a two year medical school and had assembled a staff to begin the operation. The program ran into opposition this year and the Board of Higher Education recommended the one year program with transfer to the Chapel Hill medical school assured for those who satisfactorily complete the ECU program. A study was made by UNC and ECU representatives and they determined that the transfer arrangement was feasible.

No major new facilities were required since a medical accrediting committee was laudatory of the new science facilities which were planned as interim space for beginning the two year program.

The subcommittee reduced the budgeted enrollment for ECU by 465 students the first year of the biennium and 655 the second year. This results in a decrease in budget funds of $111,459 the first year and $268,321 the second. However, the subcommittee approved an increase in academic funds of $109,412 to reduce the teacher student ratio from 16.4 to 1 to 16 to 1.

The budget also provides $28,640 the first year and $25,667 the second to replace support for the Regional Development Institute which has been coming from federal funds.

Operating reserves for new facilities were reduced by $10,564.

The subcommittee left intact the capital improvements budget, with one minor exception. A reduction of $100,000 was made in the $3.2 million library addition. The funds were cut from the moveable equipment figure.

The capital improvements budget also includes $1,310,000 for renovation of Wahl-Coates School for use as a drama and speech department. The elementary school will be moved out of the building upon completion (Continued on page 14)

Mental Health Center Chief Is Resigning

Dr. Walter P. Savage, for three years director of the Coastal Plain Mental Health Center here, has resigned effective July 16.

He said his family will move to Louisville, Ky., where he will join a friend, Dr. Arthur Daus, in the private practice of psychiatry.

Born in Pennsylvania and having grown up in New York City, Dr. Savage came to Greenville as director of the Mental Health Center in February, 1968. Since that time he has served both as administrator and as psychiatrist for the clinic.

"We are distressed that Dr. Savage finds it necessary to resign as director of our mental health center," said Dr. John Bell, chairman of the Mental Health Authority, appointed by the County Commissioners to take responsibility for the Clinic's operation.

He went on, "Dr. Savage has served the community well in providing administrative direction and clinical services and has given a sense of direction for future development. He is a competent clinician and will do well in private practice as he has in public service. On behalf of the Mental Health Authority, I wish the best and for the people of this area, I express gratitude for his untiring service."

Health Center. A psychiatrist hired to replace Dr. Savage will be able to devote his efforts full-time to the clinical care of clients of the clinic," he explained.

Negotiations are now being made with a qualified person to fill the program director's position on or before August 16. A psychiatrist is being sought.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Welfare reform, including the first federally guaranteed minimum family income, has won House approval along with far-reaching Social Security changes.

The massive legislative package, touching in one way or another the lives of most Americans, now goes to the Senate where its fate won't be decided until at least late this year.

The House Tuesday turned back, 234 to 187 an unusual conservative-liberal coalition's attempt to eliminate the bill's welfare section. Then the measure was passed unchanged, 288 to 132.

The winners, like the losers, represented an extraordinary combination: President Nixon's emissaries working closely with Democratic leaders.

The bill would sweep away the present state welfare system, with its 54 different sets of benefit levels, eligibility rules and procedures, and substitute a federally administered plan.

It would assure a minimum annual income of $2,400 for a family of four and include the working poor, possibly adding as many as 10 million persons to the current 15 million welfare recipients.

States could supplement the federal payments—many already pay more—but would not be required to do so.

Welfare reform would cost the federal government an estimated $5.6 billion and save states $1.6 billion at present support levels.

The Social Security provisions would boost benefits for more than 27 million recipients and hike payroll taxes, all fill the program director's position on or before August 16. A psychiatrist is being sought.

A 5 per cent across-the-board benefit increase would be effective in June 1972, and benefits, and taxes, would go up in future years to keep pace with living costs and average wage levels.

Benefits would be liberalized also for widows, persons continuing to earn money after retirement, men retiring early and low-earning couples. Medicare, now available only to those over 65, would be extended to persons retired for disability.

Effect Example

WASHINGTON (AP) — This example of how the House-passed Social Security bill might affect retirement prospects was compiled by Social Security statisticians.

The example is for a man who will retire in January 1985 at the age of 65, and his wife of the same age. He is assumed to be earning at the median point of the Social Security-covered wage scale. The example takes into account the automatic cost-of-living increases provided in the bill, so it involves estimates of future inflation and also of average wage increases.

	Present Law	Monthly Benefit
1985	Worker Couple	$234.70 $352.10
1987		234.70 352.10
1989		234.70 352.10
1991		234.70 352.10
1993		234.70 352.10
1995		234.70 352.10
1997		234.70 352.10

	House Bill	Monthly Benefit
1985	Worker Couple	$364.80 $547.20
1987		382.00 573.00
1989		400.00 600.00
1991		418.80 628.20

1995		459.20 688.80
1997		480.80 721.20

If the retired worker should die in January 1998, aged 78, his widow would be eligible for an initial benefit estimated at $503.40. Under present law the figure would be $193.70.

Agree To Bid On Convention

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A committee of city, county and GOP officials has agreed in principle to make a $1.5 million bid to host the Republican party's 1972 national convention.

"With a bid like this, the chances are very good that San Diego will get the convention," Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke said Tuesday after a two-hour, closed-door session.

Ecological Threat From Poisons In Burned Warehouses

FARMVILLE — The million dollar fire that destroyed two agricultural warehouses of Royster Chemical Company Friday night now poses a threat to the local environment. Residue of insecticides and herbicides were washed out of the buildings by the fire department in the efforts to control the blazes.

Approximately 25 experts from the State Board of Health, State Department of Water and Air Resources, and the Agriculture Department started work on the problem of containing the poisons in the immediate area of the fire Tuesday.

Following the fire in which some 61 chemicals of varying toxicity were exposed to hundreds of thousands of gallons of water, the water was contained in diked ditches.

A test was conducted in a ditch using runoff water. Test fish put into the ditch died very quickly. Fish tested beyond barricades erected in the ditches to trap the contaminated water survived the same test, said W. A. Williams, pesticides project coordinator with the Board of Health.

If the dikes had not been constructed in time to stop the flow of the water, the pesticides could have done damage to Middle Swamp, Little Contentnea Creek, Contentnea Creek, and the Neuse River, according to State officials.

Experts are considering using a carbon absorption tower to extract chemicals from the water. The water is run through question of restructuring North Carolina's system of higher education.

He said a bill would be introduced soon, with his blessings, that would prescribe creation of a single, statewide board to govern all 16 institutions — including those six now in the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Scott previously had given unqualified support to the Warren Commission majority report recommending a board of regents that would coordinate—but not control—activities of the 15 universities and the North Carolina School of the Arts.

Tuesday, Scott said his support of the Warren plan was "the very minimum" he could offer. Instead, he said, his true interest lay in a much stronger statewide board similar to that in effect in Georgia, where the state regents directly control each state university.

The governor's declaration came four days after his call for immediate action on the Warren report appeared to be facing certain doom. That developed Friday when Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover, possibly the most influential member of the legislature, introduced a bill signed by 28 of the 50 senators that would have delayed consideration of higher education and its bills for at least two years.

Scott said no, his action wasn't a result of the Burney bill. But, nevertheless, until Friday the Capitol reverberated with demands, suggestions and pleas that the legislature follow the recommendation of study commission chairman Lindsay Warren: "Act and do it now."

Tuesday Scott said it would be too much to ask the legislature to grapple with higher education during the rush toward adjournment. Scott, whose term will expire before the next regular session, and his supporters had earlier contended that delay would be harmful.

Although no date was set for the fall session, it still would fall within the second year of Scott's term—when he still could not be considered a political lame duck.

Scott has a bevy of his so-called "green stamps"—plums for the political favorites—left up his sleeve. Included are eight judicial appointments that can be filled during his term.

Pleads Guilty

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Claude E. Vealey, key defendant in the triple slayings 1½ years ago of United Mine Workers insurgent Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski and his wife and daughter, pleaded guilty to murder today in Washington County Common Pleas Court.

Vealey, 27, spoke softly as he entered the plea before Judge Charles G. Sweet. He had been led into the old stone Washington County courthouse from the county jail — across a small courtyard — about 10 minutes before in handcuffs and under heavy guard.

Common Market And Britain Come To Terms

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — Britain and the six Common Market nations came to terms early today on Britain's admission to the European Economic Community. Now Prime Minister Edward Heath has to sell it to the British Parliament.

"We have broken the back of the negotiations. It is an historic day for Europe," Geoffrey Rippon, Britain's negotiator, told newsmen after an all-night bargaining session with the six Continental foreign ministers ended with champagne toasts at 4 a.m.

The agreement also cleared the way for negotiations with Norway, Denmark and Ireland on their applications to join the customs union formed in 1958 by France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

The remaining major issues in Britain's 10-year bid for membership were resolved when the negotiators put together a package that included concessions to Britain's trade with New Zealand, the amount of Britain's first contributions to the joint Common Market budget and help for British coastal fishermen and hill farmers.

But with polls showing 60 per cent of the British public opposed to Market membership and members of both the Labor and Conservative parties divided on the issue, Heath faces a stiff battle selling the terms in Parliament in the fall. His target is membership by Jan. 1, 1973.

Political sources in London estimate that if the vote is "free," with a member permitted to vote his convictions and not as the party majority decides, Heath could win by a comfortable 70 or 80 votes. But if the opposition Labor party decides against Market membership and party discipline is enforced, abstentions by anti-Market Conservatives might be too much for Heath.

Former Prime Minister Harold Wilson, the leader of the Labor party, is likely to hold the key. He has said repeatedly he would be in favor of joining Europe "if the terms are right," but he has shown signs recently of moving into the anti-Market camp.

Opponents of Market membership fear Britain will lose some of its national sovereignty and face an ever higher cost of living because food prices will be geared to the higher prices charged by continental farmers.

Non-Binding Withdrawal Amendment 'On Record'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has gone on record favoring withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Indochina in nine months provided all American prisoners of war are freed.

But the White House says Tuesday's 57-42 passage of the non-binding pullout amendment won't affect war policy. And House Armed Services Committee Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., indicated the measure would die in a House Senate conference anyway.

The amendment originally was drafted by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana. It was attached to a bill to extend the military draft.

The Mansfield amendment was adopted after stronger measures foundered. It "urges and requests the President to begin immediate negotiations of a ceasefire in North Vietnam, as well as mutual troop withdrawals and prisoner releases over a nine-month period from the date the measure is enacted."

The withdrawals and releases would come in stages until there are no more American prisoners in enemy hands.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler dismissed the amendment as merely "what 57 senators think our policy should be."

"It is not the view of the Congress as a whole," he added.

As if to underscore that, Hebert said he, as leader of House conferees on the draft bill, would refuse to tack any end-the-war proposal onto it. The House reaffirmed its stand against such proposals last week, shouting down an amendment similar to Mansfield's by voice vote and rejecting a Dec. 31 pullout date 254 to 158.

In Paris, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations to the peace talks had no immediate comment on the Senate vote.

The long-standing Communist position has been that discussions on the release of U.S. prisoners could begin only after the United States agrees to a pullout by a reasonable date. Mansfield said his measure passed even though many senators were reluctant to invade the authority the President claims in time of war.

It's Christmas In The Summer

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Our next door neighbors still have their Christmas decorations up! It's not just a wreath or a Christmas tree. They have a huge Noel sign across the front of their house, and on the lawn there's a life-sized Santa Claus in a sleigh with a woodcut of reindeers.

The flowers have begun to bloom and the grass is green already, and this Santa in his sleigh makes the whole neighborhood look ridiculous. What should we do?

THE FOLKS NEXT DOOR

DEAR FOLKS: In the first place, your neighbors make only themselves look ridiculous, so don't do anything. Besides, it could be to your advantage. When giving directions on how to get to your home, just say, "It's the house next to the one with the Noel across the front and the Santa on the lawn. You can't miss it!"

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column where someone said if a girl in a small town proved to be "easy" for the guys, if she wanted to get married, she had better leave town because guys talk.

Well, girls talk about guys who take them out for only one thing, and if the guys don't have to leave town, why should the girls?

JUST ASKING

DEAR JUST: Because in spite of all the women's "libbing it up"—it's still a man's world.

DEAR ABBY: I have two very close girl friends. I'll call them "Blondie" and "Red." My problem is that these girls are not speaking to each other. It's not just a little spat that might blow over soon, they have been bitter enemies for a long time. I am going to be married soon and I want them both in my wedding party. [I was maid of honor for both of them.]

Blondie says if Red is in the wedding party, I can count HER out. On the other hand, Red says she doesn't care if Blondie is in the wedding party or not, but she'll ignore her if she is. Abby, I hate to leave either one of my friends out, so what should I do?

IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: Don't let Blondie force you to make a decision. Tell her that you want her in your wedding party, but you intend to invite whomever else you want, and if she chooses to accept or decline, the decision is HERS!

DEAR ABBY: It's a cinch that bachelor who would like to marry a woman with children doesn't live in Phoenix! I am a divorcee with three school-age children, a pretty good job and not quite enough support money, but I don't feel that my children need a live-in father, and I am not suffering for need of a husband.

Every time I meet a man and he finds out I have three children, he bolts for the nearest door. What an inflated ego he has to believe that I would want to marry HIM! I don't dislike men [on the contrary!], but the man who can sweet-talk me into trading my new-found freedom for another dunking in the cesspool of marriage will have to be some man!

Shower Given Bridal Couple

ASHEBORO — Mr. and Mrs. Terry Eugene Beane of Greenville were honored at a floating bridal shower Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Clifton Beane, mother of the bridegroom.

Hostesses were Mrs. Fred Hill, Mrs. Samuel Cagle and Mrs. Arlan Coble, aunts of the bridegroom.

The refreshment table was covered with a beige lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white daisies flanked by ivory candles.

The bride, dressed in a pale yellow voile dress with light green and blue flowers, was presented a yellow mum corsage.

Approximately 30 guests were present for the event.

Recruiters Say It's Easy To Sell Army Advantages

By PEACE STERLING

AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What's a girl like you doing in the Army?

"If you're a college graduate, you're making full use of your ability, with no discrimination. You're an officer and you're doing the same jobs men do, except you can't bear combat arms," answers Capt. Doris Kessler, who looks more like a model than an Army recruiter.

"And if you aren't a college graduate, you're being trained for a particular job, and you're learning new skills," adds Capt. Beverly Baruth, a slow-talking, honey-voiced blonde who also is a recruiter.

The two women work in New York. Capt. Kessler herself joined the Army after going through a mixed bag of jobs that included teaching English, working for the poverty program, doing opinion research and holding a political office. She says she felt the Army would be the best place to use all her skills and to keep moving and learning.

For Capt. Baruth, the decision was more awkward. "I accidentally knocked down an Army recruiter on my university campus," she explained. "And when I took her for coffee to apologize, she recruited me."

Although a recruiter's job is to sell the Army, the captains explained that for women's recruiting, it works both ways. "We turn down lots of applicants," Capt. Kessler notes.

"We want a girl who's got a good head on her shoulders, who's poised and who isn't a reject. She should be reasonably attractive, and her weight must be in accordance with our height-weight chart."

She explained that the first step a woman who wants to join the Army should take is to talk to a Women's Army Corps counselor. A girl can file an application then, and if she does, she must submit five character references. Until recently, an applicant had to be single. Now a married applicant can get a waiver and still join.

"When I interview a girl, I want to find out why she's joining," Capt. Kessler says. "If she doesn't have any motives, and doesn't have any idea why she wants to be in the Army, I'll turn her down. And if she's afraid of change, I may discourage her, because in the Army you're constantly changing assignments."

She says it is not hard to sell the advantages of being in the Army, like having 30 days vacation a year, no limits on sick leave, and usually being able to take a three-day weekend once a month. And there are others,

Asserts GOP Needs Leader

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — What North Carolina Republicans need is a leader who can bump heads together, halt shadow boxing over petty issues, and weld factions into a party able to win elections.

The analysis comes from Rep. Thomas J. Harrelson of Brunswick, the youngest member of the House of Representatives and the eastern-most GOP legislator in the 1971 General Assembly.

BRYAN HAISLIP

He said the party should take to heart recent criticisms, and act to keep itself open to progressive ideas and attractive to young voters.

"We need someone who can be a catalyst between the two elements of the party, and bring them together even if it takes head-knocking," Rep. Harrelson asserted.

He had in mind the division between the Old Guard, whose party credentials go back a generation or so, and the converts and newcomers who came in principally through the 69 gubernatorial campaign of Jim Gardner, Rocky Mount businessman. Geographically the first group has its base in the Piedmont and west while the second made inroads in the Democratic east.

Recognition Due Gardner

"The Old Guard, or establishment, ignores the fact that Jim Gardner ever ran," Harrelson said. "Maybe he made mistakes — I'm not apologizing for him — but what he and his followers did for the party needs to be recognized."

Harrelson's expression of views was prompted by the resignation of Mrs. Sharon Lentz of Raleigh as Young Republican national committeewoman. She quit the post and the party with a lament for mediocre leadership, lack of initiative in politics, and absence of constructive proposals on issues.

Her prime target was Rep. James E. Holshouser, Jr., of Watauga, state GOP chairman. Mrs. Lentz said Holshouser presents a low profile as a leader, and called it a depressing prospect that he appears the front-runner for the Republican gubernatorial nomination next year.

Regrets at the departure of Mrs. Lentz, and a hope for her return, was expressed in a statement by Harrelson and Rep. George Rountree, III, of New Hanover.

"We have personally enjoyed our working relationship with Mrs. Lentz and feel that because she is the kind of person she is, highly dedicated, hard-working and progressive, she is the type of person we can the least afford to lose," they said.

Corrective Action Urged

"We feel further that most of Mrs. Lentz' criticisms were constructive and well-founded and urge the party to accept these criticisms for what they are and to take those measures necessary to correct the conditions Mrs. Lentz has so forcefully pointed out."

Tactfully, Harrelson and Rountree left off any mention by name of Rep. Holshouser, their fellow legislator. Still, their statement could only be taken as a further indication of dissatisfaction with his role as chairman.

Another legislator, Rep. James C. Johnson, Jr., of Cabarrus, earlier suggested Holshouser lay aside the mantle of party leadership. The resignation of Mrs. Lentz, Rep. Johnson commented, simply served to illustrate the validity of his suggestion.

Vigorous support for the chairman was expressed by Senator Phil Kirk of Rowan. He said Holshouser has worked hard and the party has grown as a result of his labors.

Holshouser Record Lauded

"I wouldn't criticize anyone who has given the long hours to the Republican party that he has put in over the past five or six years," said Kirk.

The Senator, youngest member of the legislature, pooh-poohed the idea that Holshouser gives a negative impression to young people. Further, Kirk said, painting a dead-end picture of the Tar Heel GOP just doesn't fit the facts. The April state convention of Young Republicans in Winston-Salem had 465 delegates registered; last year, attendance was 120.

"I find more unity than at anytime in the last 10 years," he said. "Everywhere I go, I hear people talking optimism."

"Of course," he added, "I must not be seeing the same people Mrs. Lentz has been talking to."

Not ready to personally commit himself, Senator Kirk nonetheless said Holshouser is the best qualified candidate the party could run for governor. With the organization, he could win, Kirk added.

There's little chance Holshouser will resign the party chairmanship under pressure. However, most observers expect him to relinquish the job when the party holds its state convention next fall. Unless the outlook changes, he then will take on the role of active contender for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

that is the matter of raising funds necessary to continued operation. As the board of directors president Dr. M. W. Aldridge put it at a recent meeting, "We are broke."

Somehow a way must be found to provide the sustained financial support that Boys Club needs to continue operating here. The work that the club does is too important to Greenville to allow it to lapse. It is our hope that the organization's board of directors can work out some method of raising the needed funds and avoiding the frequent crises which seem to plague the club.

Return Of Okinawa Is A Good Move By U.S.

The restoration of Okinawa to Japan by a treaty which the United States and Japanese leaders signed is indeed historic.

The U.S. acquired control of the territory following the bitter conflict between the two nations in World War II.

Japan has long since become a full partner with the United States in world affairs. It has also made enormous economic strides since arising from the rubble of warfare and is now one of the leading industrial nations of the world.

The U.S. possession of Okinawa must have been a constant reminder to Japan of the bitterness of a war fought long ago. Now Okinawa is rightfully being returned to Japan. It is a good move on our part.

Deadlock Has Blocked Funds

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The dangerous deadlock between two Democrats — Sen. Walter (Fritz) Mondale of Minnesota, a crusader for integration, and Rep. Roman Pucinski of Chicago, who advocates a moderate approach — over President Nixon's $1.5 billion emergency school-integration fund has now prevented Congressional action in time for the new school term.

Elliot Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW), has been making confidential trips to Capitol Hill, most recently last Tuesday, to promote a compromise between the Senate and House managers of the $1.5 billion bill. To date, all his efforts have failed.

Richardson is also pressing for a summit meeting between Mondale, Pucinski, and the senior Republicans on the two education subcommittees: Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York and Rep. Alphonzo Bell of California. But even if a summit is arranged, the split between the Mondale bill passed by the Senate April 26 (and endorsed by Richardson) and the version that Pucinski is working on is so deep that they cannot be wedded.

Mondale, for example, wants to use the $1.5 billion fund to push massive integration of school systems in the North (where part of the money would go to improve the quality of education in all-black slums). Thus, a Northern school district with de facto segregation (that is, permitted so far by the courts) could not qualify for emergency funds under the Mondale bill unless it met precise desegregation standards.

In the South, no district could qualify unless one of its schools was desegregated in a black-white ratio that matched the racial composition of the whole district. That collides with Pucinski's whole approach.

No desegregation zealot, Pucinski claims that resegregation is now sweeping the South, as white children enter private academies. Instead of pushing for more integration, Pucinski's plan is to use the $1.5 billion as an incentive to keep desegregation at least at present levels.

Pucinski is also in a lingering slow burn from the Senate's refusal to take his House-passed bill late last year. Mondale rejected it partly on grounds that it lacked safeguards to protect the rights of black students and teachers, partly because he feared it could be used as a political slush-fund in the South.

That means President Nixon must decide almost at once whether to forget the $1.5 billion for this year and ask Congress to pass a simple continuing resolution allowing emergency spending at the present rate of $75 million a year.

With such large Southern school systems as Austin, Tex., and Nashville, Tenn., about to start massive pupil busing to meet the Supreme Court's latest mandate, emergency funds are vitally needed for the September school opening. Thus, Mr. Nixon almost surely will go the safe but highly limited route of asking for a continuing resolution, while Mondale and Pucinski fight it out.

Muskie's Bloop

The two top officials of the Democratic National Committee, Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien and Treasurer Robert Strauss, are annoyed over what they feel was heavy-handed interference by Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine with their plans to limit spending for Presidential primaries.

Fearful that unusually numerous Democratic hopefuls in unusually numerous primaries would badly deplete the party's meager treasury, O'Brien and Strauss had hoped to negotiate a voluntary spending limit. But before negotiations could begin, Muskie's well-publicized

Strength For Today

THE REAL ARTICLE

What is true philanthropy? The dictionary defines it as "love for mankind; devotion to human welfare; good will to all men." The word "philanthropy" has too often been associated with relief of the poor. It is more than this and should be employed in preventing calamity of any sort before such calamity arises.

A philanthropist is a person whose heart is open to the human race as a whole and to needy individuals in specific instances. Some philanthropists are wealthy, and much as the wealthy are maligned, the fact remains that most wealthy persons are honest persons who want to spread their good fortune to others as lavishly as possible. There are evil people among the rich and evil people also among the poor. As regards giving, the Bible instructs us not to let our right hand know what our left hand is doing (Matthew 6:3). When obituaries are written, one of the finest things to be said about a departed person is that he or she was philanthropic. We can be philanthropic with a piece of bread or with a million dollars, and while the million dollars may have wide and enduring social significance, it is no more significant that a piece of bread shared with the hungry.

The planet on which we live is probably millions (or billions) of years old. We can be mean if we want to be so and probably end up with more dollars than the meek and lowly of heart, but people will make an ugly face and raise their eyebrows when the name of a thoroughly mean person is mentioned.

Limited To Eyes—Only

WASHINGTON — In dealing with the question of whether the New York Times was correct in printing excerpts from the top secret Pentagon report as to how we got involved in Vietnam, one must understand the entire question of classifying government documents.

To begin with, all branches of the government classify documents. The more classified documents a department has in its files, the more important it considers the work it is doing.

The lowest government classification for a classified document is LOU which stands for Limited Official Use. This classification could be stamped on a document to announce a softball game, an office party, the vacation schedule of department heads or what one must do in case of a nuclear bombing attack. (After the attack, report to your nearest post office and wait for instructions.) Almost anyone in the government family has access to LOUs, and you'll usually find mail-room boys reading them on elevators between deliveries of interoffice mail.

The next designation is CONFIDENTIAL which is really between LOU and SECRET. CONFIDENTIAL could have some security information in it, (for example, not only would it give the time of the softball game, but who was pitching for the other side.) Fewer people are allowed to see a CONFIDENTIAL memo than a LOU. (In the case of a nuclear bombing attack, a CONFIDENTIAL memo might tell you what to do if the post office wasn't there.)

After CONFIDENTIAL comes SECRET. A SECRET document is so categorized on a N to K basis (Need to Know). Only those people who are actually involved in the project are supposed to have access to SECRET documents. They have an urgency to them that demands: "Deal with this before coffee break."

The next classification is TOP SECRET. It's hard for someone in the government to tell the difference between SECRET and TOP SECRET, other than when reading a TOP SECRET message your palms sweat more.

The final classification is LIM DIS, standing for Limited Distribution. A LIM DIS is TOP SECRET with hair on it. The highest classification known publicly is LIM DIS FEO (For Eyes Only). If you get one of those, it means you were in some way responsible for the nuclear attack. (See paragraph 3 for this article.)

Now the important thing to understand is why people in the government classify their documents. Here is a

Other Editors Say Court Inefficiency

(The Raleigh Times)

A witness sat for four hours waiting to be called in a case in Wake District Court and was told to go home and check back with the court. Since then he has been summoned five times and the case has still not been heard.

A deputy sheriff who investigated a break-in on November 5 and has been called to court five times since, still has not testified. An attorney appointed to serve in an indigent's case on Feb. 18 didn't get his official order from the court until April 2. The first he knew of his appointment was when he received a letter from the defendant's mother.

These are but a few of the alarming ills which plague the district courts here only two and one-half years after the system was instituted as part of a state-wide program for a more efficient judicial system. Responsibility for the poorly operating system which chiefly victimizes the people who are called as witnesses and the officers who are called to testify cannot be laid at one doorstep.

A major defect appears to be the lack of staff for the solicitor. The Wake district last year had 63,688 cases, a case load which on a per solicitor basis was the third highest in the state. Chief Judge George Bason says a part of the problem is due to the fact that the criminal cases in the area are handled by a small group of experienced criminal attorneys.

Some local attorneys believe the poor performance of the courts is due to a lack of discipline in case where defendants fail to appear. They feel also that the courts should adopt a strict policy of trying the cases in which the principals are present rather than leaving those sitting while they scurry about trying to locate defendants and witnesses who are not present for their scheduled case.

No doubt all these factors contribute to the sad conditions of the court system as Wake citizens see it. Certainly, the public image of the courts is poor. Many share in the responsibility for the total inefficiency but most of the responsibility must rest with the judges and the solicitors. The solicitor needs help. He should have asked for two assistants from the legislature if he needed two — not just the one he has requested.

And the solicitor should see that his courts operate for the convenience of the public — not primarily for attorneys who are involved in the cases.

It's time that all involved units in a concentrated effort to minimize the great inefficiency and inconvenience which characterize the courts here.

The Boom Is In The Pop Bottles

By ELMER ROESSNER
Soft drink sales are increasing at a rate of more than 10 per cent a year, according to Rheingold Corp., based on a survey by a security analyst organization.

If the boom comes back, the prospects will be even better, according to the survey.

Rheingold is playing both sides of the fence or, more aptly, both cliffs of the generation gap. Rheingold not only brews a nationally known beer — the name escapes me at the moment — but is more than ankle deep in pop.

Of the six major companies in the soft-drink field, Coca-Cola has about 38 per cent of the market and Pepsico has 16 per cent. All others have less.

Rheingold is the world's largest bottler of Pepsi. It has held Pepsi and other soft-drink franchises in Southern California, Mexico City and Puerto Rico for more than 10 years.

Again, Both Sides

Rheingold, in addition to being a franchisee, is also a franchiser. A division, Flavette Co. of Camden,

ELMER ROESSNER

Ark., produces a line of flavors, extracts, syrups and concentrates for grape, orange, lemon, lime, root beer and other carbonated soft drinks. It franchises bottlers for such drinks as "Lemonette," "Lymette," "Old Red Eye," "Mr. Root Beer," "Dr. Wells," and

"Sunburst."

Thirty per cent of Rheingold's profits come from soft drinks.

The Rheingold names, with the possible exception of Old Red Eye, seem to lack the imagination of an earlier America.

When I was 16, with three others my own age, I took a Fourth of July weekend off from my job as whistle punk in a lumber camp and climbed Mount Lassen in California.

There Was Imagination!

We emerged from Lassen Park parched. One of our group, Herb Dickey, had insisted we put iodine into all water from springs and rivers to kill germs, so we would not drink the water.

Across from the exit was a small soft-drink store. The back wall was lined with bottles of syrup from which soft drinks were made. There

Better Taste Buds

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Five years ago, my husband the Texan thought a fancy meal was one where you served barbecued ribs and chili.

Today, he wants to know whether the pate is rough or smooth, he complains if there isn't a cheese course and he prefers at least two kinds of wine with any meal.

It's not my cooking that's improved. Just his taste buds.

The making of a gourmet actually started because of my lack of culinary ability. We had to eat out a lot and sooner or later it was bound to happen.

Texas discovered French cooking.

At first he sneered at snails and frowned at frogs' legs, demanding with a drawl, "Just a steak, please."

Then he discovered the steak tasted better with a sauce. When barbecue sauce wasn't available he was induced to try braise.

Next came duckling in orange sauce, then veal, then a pate—a rough pate, please with Dijon mustard on the side.

Along with the experiments in food, came adventures in wine.

Beer went by the wayside. He was induced to try rose wine—a safe choice with just about anything.

Then he was talked into a white wine and a friendly head-waiter supplied a book about the grape. Other times followed and soon he was sniffing bouquets appreciatively.

His vocabulary became sprinkled with strange terms—vintage, cru and sommelier. He read wine labels the way some people read the fine print in legal contracts.

By this time we had acquired a wine rack, several corkscrews—including one filched

Senator M. K. Blount and Representatives E. G. Flanagan and J. W. Holmes will be honored at a barbecue dinner given by the citizens of Greenville and Farmville at the Greenville Country Club July 15. The affair is being staged as an expression of appreciation of the important part which the legislators played in the passage of legislation during the last sitting of the General Assembly.

Work of clearing away the debris on the site of the Star Warehouse will be practically completed by nightfall today and in a few days construction of the new building to replace the burned structure will get under way.

The fast stepping baseball club of Macesfield will meet the local club of the Tobacco Belt League here tomorrow at 4 o'clock on the Third Street School lot. Greenville will play Winterville this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

W. Hill Horne, grand commander of the North Carolina Knights Templar, left Saturday night for Minneapolis to attend the grand encampment of the national organization. He will be away for ten days.

letter to O'Brien on June 12, calling for an overall limit and an outright ban on television spot announcements, upset everything.

Because he is best-known nationally, Muskie has least to gain from heavy TV spots. Thus, Muskie's sponsorship made it easy for his lesser-known foes to reject the spending limit. Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, planning a well-financed campaign to get better known, rejected Muskie's bid out of hand. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who like Bayh has a good war chest but no name identification, is not interested either.

Despite the setback, O'Brien and Strauss still hope to get the financial backers of all the Democratic candidates together to make a non-suicide pact for 1972.

The same man who used to say, "I eat when I'm hungry. I don't care about food," now spends 20 minutes deciding whether a Marsala or a wine sauce would be better on the veal and weighing the merits of a grand marnier soufflé as opposed to floating island.

We still eat out a lot. My culinary talents are still pretty meager. But I'm learning to cover up my failures—with wine sauce, of course.

scientific breakdown of reasons and percentages. The reasons a paper is classified are:

1—To make the person who wrote the document look important — 10 per cent.

2—To make the person reading the document think he is more important than he really is — 10 per cent.

3—To keep secretaries and file clerks busy during slack periods — 15 per cent.

4—To be on record in case someone ever calls you on a mistake someone else in the department made — 10 per cent.

5—To make sure the press will take it seriously when the document is leaked to them — 15 per cent.

6—To impress the public with your frankness when you declassify it — 10 per cent.

7—To protect the person (or persons) who were responsible for making the mistake(s) — 25 per cent.

8—National security — 5 per cent.

What one must always keep in mind when dealing with something as dicey as the McNamara Pentagon report is that it may taste like national security to some people, but others say it's spinach and the hell with it.

AMA Rejects Anti-Cigarette Ad Campaign

ATLANTIC CITY (AP) — The American Medical Association rejected a move Tuesday to work for an eventual ban on cigarette advertising in the mass media. Instead it reaffirmed a general policy against smoking it has had since 1968.

A resolution that the AMA "dedicate its efforts to secure the eventual ban of cigarette advertising from all media" was brought before the House of Delegates, the AMA's governing body, at the medical organization's convention here.

But the House, acting on the recommendation of a committee which had studied the resolution, turned it down. It supported instead a policy it adopted in 1968 and 1969 for "a strong stand against smoking by every means at its command."

'Grandpa Jones' Welcomed Back

By NANCY SHIPLEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Grandpa Jones, the dude in the tiny wire-rimmed glasses, has been welcomed back on the set of "Hee Haw" video tapings.

Jones, 57, a singer, guitarist, banjo picker, comedian and regular on the show, underwent open heart surgery April 15. "Before the operation I couldn't walk a half block without puffing like a steam engine," he says. "It got so I couldn't even sing a song."

The Henderson County-born entertainer suffered a heart attack last October and had been able to work only about two weeks from then until this month.

He had predicted soon after the surgery that he'd "be back picking and singing for the friends and neighbors by June."

Born Louis Marshall Jones, he got into the music business in 1929.

The Jones family had moved to Akron, Ohio, and young Jones, then only a teen-ager, entered a talent show. First prize was $50. He copped that—over 450 other contestants—and bought a new guitar which helped him gain a number of radio jobs.

By 1935, Jones had a growing reputation as a musician that won him a job with veteran folk-country artist Bradley Kincaid. He joined Kincaid's group which was being featured on the National Barn Dance on a Chicago station.

Until that time, Jones had played it straight—without the "grandpa" makeup that was to become a sort of trademark.

Listeners started writing to the Barn Dance about the new performer inquiring, especially, about his age since he sounded much older than his 23 years.

That gave him an idea to start his own act, with himself as Grandpa. He put on special makeup, grew a bushy mustache, wore old clothes and began concentrating on playing the banjo.

Jones debuted with his new act—billed as "Grandpa Jones and his Grandchildren"—in 1937 in Wheeling, W. Va. He delighted audiences with his jumps and kicks to emphasize the humor in his songs, such as "Good Ole Mountain Dew" and "Eight More Miles to Louisville."

Jones took his new act to Cincinnati in 1938 as part of the new WLW Boone County Jamboree. He stayed there until 1944 when he joined the Army.

He wound up in Germany performing for the troops in addition to his regular duties.

Grandpa Jones became a regular on the famed Grand Ole Opry in 1946.

Randome Notes ...
Pretty Connie Smith, a native of Elkhart, Ind., has become the 59th member of the Grand Ole Opry.

She says that when she was five, she kept saying to herself, "I'm going to be on the Grand Ole Opry someday."

She recalls, "I was bashful when I was a kid, but my ambition was to sing on the Opry."

Beauty Queen Wouldn't Repeat

CASTRO VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The retiring Miss California, Karin Kascher, has served a year as reigning state beauty queen but wouldn't do it again.

"If a good friend of mine wanted my advice," the 19-year-old beauty said, "I would discourage her from entering." Beauty queens are exploited and coached in being phonies, the Castro Valley girl said after her successor was crowned last Saturday night.

like continuing your education, with the Army paying for 75 per cent of the cost towards getting a graduate degree.

"Most Army jobs, which include such work as personnel management, administrative fields and air traffic controlling, are eight hours a day, Monday through Friday, just like the civilian world," Capt. Kessler noted. "And after work, a girl's time is of course, her own."

"Also, while a girl is in the Army, she is encouraged strongly to continue her education. She may even be able to go to school full-time. However, for every year she does this, she is committed to the Army for two more years."

Often the recruiters must answer awkward questions—like what about WAC's morals. "They always ask me that," Capt. Kessler notes. She says she tells the applicants that an Army woman whose actions were out of line would be reprimanded.

Capt. Baruth admits that when she joined the Army, the response from her friends was less than encouraging. "They all thought the job would be too demanding," she says. "And since I had sort of a reputation as the class clown, they really couldn't believe it."

"But when I saw them after I'd been in the Army, they changed their tune, and thought I was much more self-reliant." Capt. Baruth is married to a Marine recruiting officer and she says it is no problem for a husband and wife in the service to receive assignments in the same location.

The recruiters say their hardest job is public education—letting girls know what options are available. And they say their best publicity comes from a satisfied enlistee.

"If a girl comes back happy, this is the best we can do," Capt. Kessler says. "And if she's not satisfied, it's the worst."

Suggests Pay To Stay In School

ATLANTA (UPI) — How about paying a student to stay in school?

It might help him to like school and even behave if he thought he would be rewarded with a salary at the end of the month, suggests Dr. Edward T. Ladd, professor at Emory University's Division of Educational Studies. He feels schools should provide "alternate incentives" for behavioral control rather than punishment.

Opening lead: Eight of ♦ The blind lead of a singleton against a six no trump contract is seldom recommended and today we have a case in point where such a play guided declarer into a somewhat unnatural line of play that salvaged his contract.

The bidding requires little comment. North's jump to four no trump is a natural call—a raise requesting partner to go on if he has any extra values. Altho South's two no trump response was based on 13 points, ostensibly a minimum, he promoted his holding because of the excellent five card suit and carried on to slam.

West opened the eight of diamonds—a dubious choice inasmuch as dummy had bid that suit and the play might readily trap partner's holding if the declarer has a high card in the suit. The nine was played from dummy, East covered with the ten and South won the trick with the ace.

The opening lead made it perfectly clear to South that the diamond finesse would not succeed. He had 11 top tricks—five clubs, two diamonds and four hearts. He could try leading toward the king of spades for a 12th—in the hope that East held the ace, but he spotted another route that offered complete assurance of success provided that East held either the ace or queen of spades.
By cashing his winners, he could force East to discard virtually everything to protect his queen of diamonds.

South started with four rounds of hearts, East giving up a club and declarer a diamond on the last heart.
Next came the club suit, declarer overtaking dummy's queen to play five rounds.
North discarded two diamonds and one spade, while East gave up one diamond and two spades. Here was the situation at trick 11:

South calmly exited with the five of spades. West could not afford to play the ace, for that would establish his opponent's king. East accordingly won the trick with the queen of spades and his forced return of a diamond presented dummy with the last two tricks and the contract.

VACATION CARE FOR APPLIANCES
Cleanliness Keeps Unwelcome
"Critters" Away

Before going off on vacation, the homemaker of the family can usually be seen clutching checklists, hoping that she won't forget anything important. One subtitle under "House: should be "Care for Appliances."

According to the Cleanliness Bureau common sense and good housekeeping are the guidelines. But in the flurry of planning and packing, little things can be overlooked. So line up the particulars:

1. Plan to clean appliances thoroughly or risk returning to find that bugs have decided to vacation in your home—drawn by crumbs and spills. Besides, it is a nice welcome home present to have everything in clean, ready-to-go condition.

2. Other members in the family can help. While you clean the oven, someone else can wash away stickiness on the electric can opener; wash off refrigerator walls and racks while you dispose of perishables that won't last through vacation; and de-crumbs the toaster while you send the last of the laundry through the washing machine.

3. On the day of departure, make the last ritual hearty, but prepared ahead or taken out of the freezer so that a once-over-lightly on range, counters and sink will get you out of the kitchen quickly.

4. Don't leave soiled dishes in the dishwasher or sink. And do leave a dishwasher lid or door open slightly so air can circulate.

5. Run cold water through a food waste disposer for several minutes after the food is ground to thoroughly clean the unit.

6. Make a note of anything that is to be disconnected or turned off. Actually nothing has to be disconnected — except a dehumidifier that does not have a drain hose or an automatic shut-off when the pan is full. But some things you'll probably want to turn off, such as, air conditioners. It is also a good idea to shut off the water supply to outdoor faucets, the washing machine and an ice maker in a refrigerator-freezer. And though pulling plugs isn't necessary, in your final tour through the house before leaving, be sure controls on non-use appliances are set at "off." If you will be away a long time, you may want to empty the refrigerator, disconnect, and clean it thoroughly. Then leave the door slightly ajar to allow for some air circulation.

7. If possible, have a neighbor check your house every few days. Aside from watering plants or feeding the fish, they can note any irregularities. This person should also have instructions as to what to do if a problem arises — fuses to check, or perhaps an electrician or plumber to call.

Oxford Union On Last Legs

By TIMOTHY G. SMITH
OXFORD, England (UPI)—One of the most famous debating societies in the world, the Oxford Union, is on the danger list. Since 1825 it has been a training ground for future prime ministers and members of Parliament, a center of political controversy, and an undergraduate gentlemen's club. It appears that 1971, however, may be the Union's last year—at least in its present form.

The Union is $72,000 in the red and is faced with steadily declining membership. Despite a 50 per cent reduction in the society's dues, last year's membership drive found only 200 new members in Oxford University's student population of over 11,000.

Recently an open meeting of more than 500 students called for the buildings and facilities of the Union to be turned over to the Students Representative Council for use as a central students' union similar to those at other universities.

The demise of the Union has been front page news in British newspapers. For all its troubles and diminished status, it remains a revered institution.

Its history is studded with famous names of Union officers who went on to political success—prime ministers such as William Gladstone, Herbert Asquith, Harold MacMillan and Edward Heath. And other British political figures such as Michael Foot, Jeremy Thorpe and Roy Jenkins.

Its debates have had worldwide political effects. In 1933 the Union resolved that under no circumstances would it fight for "King and Country." Some analysts have claimed that the Union's stance affected Germany's evaluation of Britain's willingness to fight. Winston Churchill later charged that this debate helped bring Mussolini to the side of Hitler.

Traditionally an invitation to speak at the Union has been akin to a request for a royal command performance. Lloyd-George was summoned in 1913, Winston Churchill in 1920. W.B. Yeats debated the relative merits of Byron and Shelley here and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy appeared in 1967 to explain his views on the Vietnam War.

The quality of speakers and the attendance at debates has gradually declined, however. Recently a speaker pulled out a guitar and sang his speech to a half-full hall.

One explanation for the Union's decline lies in the changing nature of the student population at Oxford.

"There are fewer so-called gentlemen coming up these days," said Leofranc Holdford-Stevens, a member of the Union's standing committee. "And so there is less of a perceived need for a gentlemen's club."

Actually the Union has had women members since 1963. Its current president, Sue Richards, is the second woman to head the Union. Another recent president was a former blue collar worker and the son of a manservant. But there is still a growing feeling that the Union in its present form is an elitist hangover from a more aristocratic Oxford era.

The most persistently-voiced reform is for the replacement of the current Union by a central student union to which all undergraduates would automatically belong.

Mike House, Union president last year, took the position that Oxford needed a central student union for political reasons: "We need a body which can represent student views with authority to the academic staff."

Other proposals for the Union's future have included a plan to lease most of its facilities to a commercial firm and a scheme to hold on until the society's 150th anniversary in 1973 when a fund-raising appeal could conceivably come to the rescue.

"The Union reminds me of a great mansion where nobody lives anymore," one American Rhodes scholar said here.

Despite the fond memories, the Oxford Union seems unlikely to last out the year—a victim of new student styles, rising costs and of changing times.

Plastic Bottle Use Is Growing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Plastic bottles, which now package about 1 per cent of food and beverages in the United States will package about 25 per cent of these products by 1980, says the Plastic Bottle Division of the Society of the Plastics Industry.

Surveys show that plastic bottles for cosmetics, drugs, and household chemical products will also find wider acceptance. The plastic bottle industry ships more than 5 billion containers a year, and by 1980 expects to be shipping close to 20 billion bottles.

Slain Student Said 'Pusher' And Drug-User

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The president of Shaw University said the faculty would take "firm steps" to see that drug traffic is eliminated from the Raleigh campus in the wake of the shooting death of a student from Charleston, S.C.

Police said the victim, Eugene James Simmons, 24, had needle marks on his arm and that preliminary examination indicated "the deceased was using some type of drug that was injected."

Simmons was shot in the stomach Monday night with a small caliber pistol. A friend who heard him shout that he had been shot, saw a man in a dark sweatshirt run down a nearby staircase.

No arrest has been made and the weapon has not been found.

In a news conference the day after the slaying, President Dr. Carchie Hargraves said, "It has come to our attention that Mr. Simmons is alleged to have been a user and pusher. Found in his room after the killing were packets suspected of containing heroin," said Dr. Hargraves, as well as "a dirty needle, syringes and a table-spoon" and "a roll of bills of various denominations big enough to choke a horse."

Dr. Hargraves said persons caught "pushing or using drugs" would be "dismissed immediately"; the university would aid addicts who voluntarily come forward; the university physician will intensify the screening of "persons manifesting objective signs of addiction."

4-H's Home With 46 Camping Awards

Eighteen Pitt County 4-H's brought home 46 camping awards from Swannanoa 4-H Camp last week.

Superior camping awards were given to Odgen Braxton and George Franke. Debbie Allen and Stuart Long received half a mile swimming badges.

Other youths receiving awards in swimming, handicraft or wildlife were: Ronald Howell; Assisa Moore; Kathy Savage; Jeff Christopher; Donald Freeman; Jay Brumbelee; Clyde Owens; Ruth Carol Savage; Patti Dawson; Debbie Twigg; Melody Moore; Godfrey Little; Vickie Corbett; and Rodwick Nobles.

Other youth attending camp were: Sharman Perkins; Angela Jones; Rosalyn Jones; Pam Smithwick; Colette T. Clemmons; Brenda Faye Joyner;

Michelle McDowell; Cindy Christopher; Gail Wooten; Gloria Moore; Jeffery Lawrence; Leah Long; Johnnie

Ray Bayan; Wanda James; Melba, Elvie and Regina Willoughby; Kim and Vickie Bundy; Micheal Keller; and Teresa Harrington.

Adults attending camp with the youths were: Mrs. Nancy Allen, 4-H leader, Grifton; Miss Addie R. Gore, home economics extension agent; and Henry Riddick, assistant agricultural extension agent.

Boosts Role Of Tobacco

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP) — The president of Tobacco Associates told members of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association Tuesday that "our government must see that tobacco is accorded the importance it deserves."

John D. Palmer said it was up to the tobacco industry to impress upon Congress the importance of tobacco to the economy.

And he said that United States tobacco sales in the Far East have reached an all-time high, with stepped up exports to Japan and Thailand.

Sales to Japan now total $61 million annually, he said, adding that Thailand, which normally purchases about $18 million worth of U.S. tobacco annually, is completing "its biggest purchase in history of U.S. flue-cured and burley" tobacco.

The association, which is holding its annual meeting at Nags Head, represents warehousemen in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Play Closed By N.C. ABC Law

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A play has been closed at a nearby dinner theater because of an objection from the state liquor control board. One of the actors was a 7-year-old girl, and the board cited a state law prohibiting minors from working where alcoholic beverages are served.

The girl, Miranda Lynn, and her mother, whose stage name is Bunny Ballance, were members of the cast of the comedy "King of Hearts," about an egotistical cartoonist who is full of notions about child care.

The Pineville Dinner Theater said the cast, minus Miranda would open in a new play shortly.

MOREAU IN "CANNIBALS" HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—French star Jeanne Moreau will star in "The Cannibals in Sicily," playing a bored wife who finds romance with a young Sicilian.

Jenkins Suggests 'Operation Happiness' Project

East Carolina University president Leo Jenkins today announced a local community project which he calls "Operation Happiness."

It is a "very fascinating" idea, Jenkins said, and he urged maximum community support. The idea is to broaden audience participation and attendance at performances of the East Carolina Summer Theater. He mentioned specifically the poor and underprivileged.

Jenkins is asking, in letters now being mailed, hundreds of local area people to buy an extra Summer Theater season ticket and turn it over to a charitable agency such as the Salvation Army, Good Neighbor Council, the Jaycees Committee for the Underprivileged, the Boys Club of Greenville, and the Operation Sunshine Club. This in turn will permit five different people to see at least one production for each ticket donated, Jenkins said.

"There are hundreds of people in our community who have few cultural opportunities and who have probably never seen a Broadway musical. Our Summer Theater will present five beautiful productions this season.

"I am satisfied that the enjoyment of anyone attending these shows will be more than doubled if he realizes that someone else is also enjoying it because of his efforts. "It would be indeed wonderful if we could make this type of thing possible for at least a thousand of the underprivileged people in our community," Jenkins said.

East Carolina University consistently has been a leader in cultural and educational opportunity and initiative in this area.

Summer School Work Reported

Greenville's summer school program was reported on at the City School Board meeting Monday night by school staff members in charge of the various programs.

Mrs. Betty Forrest, principal at Elmhurst Elementary School said the kindergarten through the sixth grade program at Elmhurst was a success, with "things not done before, being done this summer." She pointed out that the 140 children attending summer classes were divided into three groups — the kindergarten; one group of first, second and third graders studying together; and another group of fourth, fifth and sixth graders. She termed it an individualized as well as a group program, saying "every child has been given an individual reading inventory."

Robert Alligood, principal at Rose High School, noted that about 150 students are in the summer program for junior high and senior high students. The students are putting in a 150 hour time requirement, with English, math, and social studies being offered. In addition, the driver education program, both the classroom and the in-car instructional program, is being carried out at Rose.

Reports were also given by Charles Ross and Bob Sigmon, in charge of the workshops being

Still Further Desegregation Seen Likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has told eight school districts in North Carolina they probably will have to desegregate further this fall.

They are Shelby, Fayetteville, Lumberton, New Bern, Kinston city districts, and Wake, Alamance and Pender counties.

J. Stanley Pottinger, director of the Office of Civil Rights of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said they have one or more schools "substantially disproportionate in their racial composition."

They were among 39 districts in 11 Southern and border states similarly notified.

The action represents HEW's first move to apply the April 20 probusing decision by the Supreme Court in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County case to school districts which have desegregated under voluntary plans rather than court orders.

VETERAN ACTOR DIES

conducted, one at Elmhurst, the other at Aycock Junior High, in connection with the curriculum planning programs for the city schools.

Researcher Given Grant

Dr. Ramesh C. Ajmera of the East Carolina University Physics Department has been awarded a grant to assist him in his research on "Active Microwave Systems for Plasma Studies."

The grant was made by the Society of Sigma Xi, an organization of scientists from throughout the United States and Canada, which publishes "American Scientist" and provides many awards in support of research.

According to Dr. Harold G. Cassidy, chairman of the committee which chose Dr. Ajmera as a recipient, "Sigma Xi each year makes a number of grants to promising scientists at critical points in their research careers. We recognize that many needs are relatively too small for the large foundations to consider, yet to the scientist himself the need may be critical."

Dr. Ajmera said the project for which the grant was given him is one he is continuing from work begun at the University of Maryland. He will complete his first full year of teaching at ECU in September.

Reversal On Riot Control

GREENSBORO (AP) — A three judge federal panel has reversed itself, vacating a Feb. 23 order in which it declared parts of the North Carolina Riot Control Act of 1969 unconstitutional.

The reversal, filed in U.S. District Court Tuesday, had the effect of ruling against Howard Fuller, a Negro activist, and four others in a case in which they challenged portions of the controversial law.

Fuller, who heads the Malcolm X Liberation University in Greensboro, and several others were charged with disorderly conduct under the riot law during a strike of service employees at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in November, 1969.

The panel pointed out in its reversal that on the day of its Feb. 23 decision, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that in the matter of state laws governing fundamental constitutional rights "federal courts must abstain unless there is a showing of bad faith or harassment."

Tuesday's opinion added that there was nothing to indicate "bad faith" in enforcement of the riot law and that it had not been used in "any threatening or harassing manner against the plaintiffs or anyone else."

The panel was made up of Braxton Graven of the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals and U.S. District Judges Woodrow Jones and Eugene A. Gordon.

Testify In Vote Fraud

WHITEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A woman recorded as voting in last November's legislative election testified Tuesday that neither she nor her husband cast ballots.

Lillie Ward testified at the Superior Court trial of South Lees precinct official Alma Ward on charges of voting irregularities. Alma Ward, a precinct judge for 20 years and registrar for the last three, has pleaded innocent.

In testimony Tuesday, Lillie Ward said her name and that of her invalid husband were listed among those who voted. She testified that neither went to the polls or arranged for anyone else to vote for them.

The precinct official is accused of two counts of forgery, removing a page from the poll book, making a false entry in the poll book, making an erasure on the tally sheet, failure to administer oaths to vote counters and failure to keep ballot boxes under her control.

The charges stemmed from an investigation following the Nov. 3 election to determine a state representative from Columbus and Brunswick Counties. After a three-day hearing, the State Board of Elections last January declared Republican Thomas Harrellson of Southport the winner over incumbent Democrat Arthur Williamson of Cerro Gordo.

NCSU Alumni President

RALEIGH (AP) — The election of George E. Norman Jr. of Greensboro as president of the North Carolina State University Alumni Association was announced today.

The association said Norman, a Burlington Industries vice president, was chosen in a mail ballot to succeed C. A. Dillon Jr. of Raleigh.

E. Demming Smith of Goldsboro was chosen vice president and G. M. "Jimmy" Mitchell of High Point was elected to the NCSU Athletics Council.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady.

Supplies fully adequate. Demand fair.

Prices paid producers and handlers for consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites: 42½ to 43.

Medium, whites: 32 to 33.

Small, whites: 23 to 25.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bargain hunting sparked a rally in today's slow trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 4.30 to 878.72.

Advances held a 2-4-1 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Lockheed Aircraft rose ¾ to 10½. The chairman of the Senate Banking Committee predicted Tuesday that a government loan guarantee to save Lockheed from bankruptcy would be approved.

Bit Board prices, included Kinney National Service, up 2 at 33½. Natomas, up 1¼ at 94; Abbott Laboratories, up 1¼ at 43.

Appropriations

It proposed adding $1 million for the biennium for an expanded kindergarten program, which would provide for an enrollment of 2.5 million by 1973, or four times the current enrollment.

The subcommittee recommended that the lieutenant governor's job be put on a full-time basis and that his salary be increased by $13,843 to $30,000 during the second year of the biennium.

It also proposed that the governor be given a 10 per cent pay hike and an extra $6,500 in expenses, and that all members of the Council of State be given pay increases to $30,000.

The subcommittee also:

- Added $3 million to the Department of Community Colleges to provide matching funds for construction of two-year schools.
- Reduced public school funds by $6.9 million due to revised enrollment projections.
- Added $3.1 million to continue the Medicaid program at a reduced level in the first year of the biennium and took away $2 million the second year.
- Approved 12 more investigation agents for the State Bureau of Investigation during the biennium at a cost of $275,000 and an extra $50,000 for a narcotics division.
- Added $4 million for the Department of Community Colleges to provide for more enrollment.
- The subcommittee also recommend that the state pay 90 per cent of the Medicaid costs for the next biennium and the counties provide 10 per cent. Scott had proposed the state assume all the costs.

of a new school building on E. Fifth Street.

Funds are also included for extending heating lines to Minges Coliseum ($70,000), science equipment for Flanagan building ($88,000) and air conditioning three dormitories ($1,145,000).

A major renovation program is now underway in Flanagan which will be used for chemistry and industrial arts. The equipment funds will complete this project.

Funds for air conditioning the dorms will come from self liquidating bonds.

The fact that only minor cuts were made in the capital improvements budget was favorable since the subcommittee deleted several capital improvements recommendations for other institutions and departments. The recommendations came from the Advisory Budget Commission.

However, ECU partisans had been hoping that a $3.7 million School of Art building would be authorized. A bill was introduced yesterday by Sens. Vernon White and Julian Allsbrook and Reps. Sam Bundy and Horton Rountree calling for such an appropriation. Getting such a bill passed is considered an uphill battle, however, now that the subcommittee's budget report is out.

The reduction in student projections for 1971-73 means that ECU now expects an average of 9,005 students next year rather than 9,470. For 1972-73 an average of 8,995 is expected rather than 9,650. The figures are averages for the three quarters rather than the peak fall quarter enrollment.

With the changes proposed by the subcommittee the ECU budget shows an increase over that proposed by the Advisory Budget Commission. The increase is $1,017,246 the first year of the biennium and $558,945 the second.

Pedestrian Was Struck By Car

A 73-year-old Greenville man was injured Tuesday afternoon when he was struck by a car while crossing Memorial Drive at Maxwell Street intersection.

Arthur B. Johnson of 700 Skinner Street was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment following the 4:10 p. m. accident that involved a car driven by Carl Franklin Parrish of Rt. 5, Durham.

Investigating officers preferred no charges against the driver and reported no damages to the automobile.

NEW YORK CITY — The Rev. Peter T. Chapman, a Free Will Baptist minister who lived most of his life in Ayden, died here where he had lived for the past eight years.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 8 p. m. at Mount Nebo Baptist Church on the corner of 127th Street and Eighth Avenue in New York City. The Rev. W. B. Gardner will officiate and burial will be in a New York cemetery.

The son of the late Harvey and Mrs. Marona Chapman, Rev. Chapman was born and reared in the Gardenville community of Pitt County.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Viola Gardner Daniels Chapman of New York; a son, Peter T. Chapman Jr. of Baltimore, Md.; four stepdaughters; three stepsons; and a grandchild.

Messages of sympathy may be sent to Mrs. Chapman's home at 776 Howard Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Beau Brummel and George Washington were among its earlier users.

Now, manufacturers and salesmen say, little old ladies, hardhats and students are helping create a snuff boom.

Most of them are "dippers" — they put a pinch of the pulverized, brown tobacco flour under their tongues or inside their cheeks and leave it there until the flavor vanishes.

Some, in the 18th century fashion, put a few dabs on the wrist and inhale.

Twenty-seven million pounds of snuff were sold in the United States last year, accounting for $76 million in retail revenue.

"We are experiencing an unusual increase in what is normally a rather stable product," says Gerry Gilmartin, "and one of the reasons is, no doubt, the health question."

Gilmartin, director of the Smokeless Tobacco Safety Bureau and the Smokeless Tobacco Council of New York City, believes cigarette smokers are turning to snuff in great numbers.

An official of the American Cancer Society, Dr. Melvin Shiffman, says snuff reduces the chances of lung cancer but increases the possibility of oral cancer.

Snuff use dates to the 16th century, where explorers saw natives of tropical America inhaling crudely powdered tobacco through long, hollow tubes.

Beau Brummel, snuff legend tells, was the first to use a handkerchief to brush small particles of tobacco from his waistcoat. George Washington was said to carry a snuff mill on surveying trips to Virginia.

Women are big snuff customers.

"The little old ladies that live up on the hill just love it," says one Southern California tobacco salesman. "I never ask why — I'm afraid they'll tell me."

Gordon Weiss, a tobacconist whose shop is across from a college campus, says: "A lot of young people want to go back to the olden times."

In the 18th century, snuff was recommended as a chest rub when mixed with grease, and as a toothpowder guaranteed to reduce cavities.

'Exterminator' Is Arrested

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department arrested an Ayden man Tuesday and charged him with spraying several area houses for termites without a license.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Charlie Jones, 47, of 1101 S. Lee Street was arrested following investigation of several complaints charging Jones with quoting a price before treating a house for termites and then charging a higher price following completion of the job.

The Sheriff added that Jones was in jail under $200 bond pending a hearing in District Court here on July 7.

Graniteers Win Third TH Title

The Graniteers won their third straight Tar Heel Little League title yesterday by taking a 12-2 victory over the Elks.

The victory raised the Graniteer record to 11-2. Pepsi-Cola is the second place team with an 8-5 record and now cannot catch the leaders. They are followed by the Elks, 7-6; the Exchange, 5-8; the Moose, 4-8; and Integon, 3-9.

The Graniteers pushed over four runs in the top of the first. Kevin Haut walked and took second on a wild pitch. Howard Vainright also walked, as did Jay Chenier. Joel Clark reached on a fielder's choice that scored Haut and Vainright. A passed ball scored Chenier and Clark scored when Steve Manning grounded out.

In the second, two more Graniteer runs scored. Chenier walked and Clark slapped a home run for a 6-0 lead.

The Elks picked up their first run in the third. David Randle walked and moved up on two outs. He scored on Ricky Skinner's hit.

The Graniteers added three more in the fourth. Clark doubled and Manning reached on an error. Chris Moye was also safe on an error as Clark scored. Timmy Allen fled out scoring Manning, and Moye scored on Henry Wooten's out.

In the fifth, three more scored. Vainright singled and Chenier walked. Clark singled to score Vainright and Manning sacrificed in Chenier. Allen reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Clark with the 12th Graniteer run.

The other Elk run came in the sixth. Frank Davis singled and moved up on Joe Godette's hit. He scored on a hit by Jarvis Campbell.

Carolina Dairy Loses; NCNB Back In Lead Tie

It's getting so that being on top of the Babe Ruth League has its hazards. Last night, last place Planters Bank knocked off the latest leader, Carolina Dairy, 7-5. North Carolina National Bank, knocked off the top Monday night, got back a share with a 5-1 win over College View.

NCNB and Carolina Dairy are now 7-4 in league play, with Pepsi-Cola right behind at 6-5. They are followed by Home Builders, 5-6; College View, 4-6; and Planters, 3-7.

In the opener, College View pushed over its only run in the top of the first. Bobby Kittrell reached on an error and stole second. He moved to third on Ken Tetterton's errored grounder, and scored on a passed ball.

NCNB tied it up with a run in the bottom of the first. That came on a lead-off homer by Steve Fuchs.

Then, in the third, NCNB took the lead with another run. Donnie Haddock reached on a fielder's choice and stole second. He scored when Wesley Puryear singled.

The other three runs came in the sixth. Puryear walked and took second on a wild pitch. Pat Clark singled him to third, then stole second. Both came around to score on Jack Jenkins' hit. Jenkins moved to second on an out and gained third on Kelly Heath's single. A balk then brought Jenkins over with the four runs in the first inning to take the lead in the second game. Greg Coward walked and William Carraway reached the same way. Greg Jester doubled, scoring Coward. Dennis Cristiano reached on an error, scoring both Carraway and Jester. A passed ball put Cristiano on third and he scored on an error.

Carolina Dairy came back with two runs in the second. Ronnie Garris walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Bobby Jones and Wesley Deal also walked, loading the bases. Edwin Clark also walked, scoring Garris. David Clifton reached on a fielder's choice, which got Jones at the plate. A passed ball then scored Deal with the second run.

Planters added two more in the third. Jester was hit by a pitch and Cristiano reached on an error. Tom Gibbs was also safe on an error, loading the bases. Bobby Sasser reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Jester. James Weeks then got a hit to drive in Cristiano to make it 6-2.

In the top of the fourth, Carolina Dairy came up with two more runs to close the gap to 6-4. Danny Bowman singled and Clifton slapped a two-run homer.

Planters got its final run in the bottom of the fourth. Robert Brinkley walked and stole both second and third. He scored on Cristiano's single.

Carolina Dairy got its final run in the sixth. John Causey singled and took second on Griff Garner's hit. Dickie Johnson reached on an error, scoring Causey.

No one on either team had more than one hit.

St. James Wins; Regains Lead

St. James Methodist climbed back into the lead in the American Division of the Church Softball League last night with a 10-6 victory over Meadowbrook. In the other game, Piney Grove downed Black Jack, 4-0.

In the American Division, St. James holds a 12-2 record, while Meadowbrook is now 13-3. Presbyterian is close behind with a 12-3 mark. They are followed by Belvoir, 8-8; Christian, 4-11; St. Gabriel, 3-13; and Trinity, 2-13.

Immanuel heads the National Division with a 9-5 mark, with Oakmont, 10-6, close behind. They are followed by Grace, 9-7; Piney Grove, 8-7; Mt. Pleasant, 7-7; Black Jack, 8-9; and Maranatha, 2-13.

In the opener, Piney Grove got all the scoring it needed when it pused over a run in the first inning. Jimmy Evans tripled and came on on a single by William Nichols.

Another scored in the second. Tommy Meeks doubled, moving up on a hit by Jay Boswell. Piney Grove then added single advanced on an infield out, and Rich McMahan followed with a single that brought in both runners.

But it wasn't to be for the Bucs as Campbell came back to put the game out of reach for them with six runs in the bottom of the second. After retiring the first batter, the Bucs were tagged for three straight singles by Glenn Warren. Kent Heintzelman and Al McRae, loading the bases.

Bob Young drew a walk, scoring Warren. Then, with two away, Bill Ellington got a single, scoring Heintzelman. Ron Hawley then hit what appeared to be a routine single, but the ball bounced over the head of the Pirate fielder and rolled all the way to the fence. By the time it was retrieved, all four runners had circled the bases for a grand-slam homer, upping the score to 6-2.

Campbell added its final run in the fourth. Joey Davis singled and stole second. He scored when Ellington singled.

The Bucs weren't able to come up with another run until the ninth inning, and got off only a few threats in the meantime. In the fourth, two walks put a man into scoring position. A leadoff single did the same in the sixth.

But in the seventh and eighth, the Bucs had good chances that went by the board. In the seventh, two fielder's choices after a single left them with one on and two away. Another batter walked, and it still looked like an opportunity for the Bucs, but the last batter fled out to end the threat.

Then, in the eighth, Ralph Lamm and Ronnie Leggett both walked and Troy Eason singled, loading the bases with two away, but McRae fanned the final batter to get out of that jam.

The run finally came in the ninth, but didn't really help much. Mike Bradshaw led off, but was cut down at second when Matt Walker grounded to short. Larry Walters then doubled to score Walker with the third and last Buc run.

The Pirates return home tonight to play host to the University of North Carolina. Game time at Harrington Field is 7:30 p.m.

Foodland Ties For Ladies Lead

Foodland pulled into a tie with Little Mint in the Ladies Softball League, by downing Wachovia, 22-4, last night. In the other game, Piggly-Wiggly beat Coca-Cola, 12-6.

Foodland and the Little Mint are now tied for the top with 8-1 records, with three games left, including a rain-out meeting between the two. Piggly-Wiggly is third with a 5-5 mark, followed by Coke, 3-7, and Wachovia, 0-10.

Piggly-Wiggly pushed over two runs in the first to take the lead, but Coke came back to tie it up with two in the top of the second.

Piggly-Wiggly then scored four in the second to grab the lead and hold it. Sherry Mills reached on a fielder's choice and Velma Cannon singled. Shirley Davis and Joyce Martin both singled and errors brought them around to make it 6-2.

Piggly-Wiggly then added three more in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth for its 12-run total. Coke picked up one in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth.

In the other game, Foodland pushed over two to take the lead for good. Joyce Sawyer tripled and scored when Carolyn Hardy reached on an error. Additional miscues brought her around for a 2-0 lead.

Foodland then added five in the third, including a homer by Sandra Hardee, seven in the fourth, with a homer by Diane Hurley, and eight in the fourth with Sawyer homering. Wachovia scored three in the third and one in the fourth.

Nolan Captures Second Victory

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati's Gary Nolan, who couldn't get even a little help from his friends a few weeks ago, is beginning to pick up support in double doses.

Nolan, who has pitched in bad luck for most of the season, tossed a six-hitter Tuesday night to beat Philadelphia 6-1 with the backing of timely doubles by Tony Perez, Hal McRae and George Foster.

It was the second successive complete game victory for the 23-year-old right-hander, who had lost five in a row from May 19 to June 8 as his team scored a total of three runs behind him.

In other National League action, the New York Mets topped Pittsburgh 3-2; Atlanta trimmed Montreal 4-0; San Francisco blanked the Chicago Cubs 2-0; St. Louis shaded Los Angeles 6-5 and Houston beat San Diego 4-2.

Rookie Charlie Williams blanked Pittsburgh on three hits for eight innings and reliever Danny Frisella choked off a two-run Pirate rally in the ninth as the Mets gained ground in the East Division race.

Jerry Grote's run-scoring single in the eighth proved decisive for the Mets, who trail first-place Pittsburgh by 3½ games.

Ron Reed fired a three-hitter and the Braves struck for four runs in the third to top Montreal. Reed blanked the Expos on—1 hit—an infield single by losing pitcher Steve Renko—until the ninth.

Chris Speier's run-scoring single in the sixth sparked the Giants to their sixth straight victory for a 7½-game lead in the West.

Farmville

Jimmy Hillard of Farmville captured the 12th annual Pitt County Golf Tournament held at the Farmville Golf and Country Club this weekend. Hillard had rounds of 69 and 74 for his total of 143. He finished eight strokes ahead of the second place finisher, Ralph Wingate.

Third place went to Richard Hunsucker with a 152 and fourth was Emmitt Koonce with a 152.

Other flight winners included, Sparky McCaskill, first flight; Dr. Bert Warren, second; Larry Lewis, third; Chester Outland Jr., fourth; and Nelson Tugwell, fifth flight.

Grifton

Grifton Golf and Country Club pro Joe Bullins recorded a double eagle at the club last week. He hit his second shot, a three-wood into the hole on the par five, 460-yard second hole.

Playing with him at the time were Dave Phillips and Jim Israel.

Robersonville

The Robersonville Golf and Country Club will hold its club championship tournament Sunday. It will be a one-day, medal play event. Bobby Mobley is the defending champion.

Brook Valley

Mike Bach Jr. picked up an ace on the 200-yard par three fifth hole at Brook Valley Monday. He used a six-iron for the shot. Playing with him were Mike Bach Sr., John Lopez and Paul McMahan. It is believed to be the first ace scored on the hole.

Carol Thomas turned in her best nine-hole round a 41.

In the club championship, the finals will be held this weekend, with a party Sunday afternoon for the contestants.

In the championship flight, Jimmy Hillard defeated Hodges Hackney and Dick Evans beat Don Conley for the final berths.

Other flight results in the semi-finals include: first, Gene Ward over Steve Jones, Critz Hillard over Paul McMahan; second, Reynolds May over Clarence Kelcey, John Proctor over John Lautares; third, Charles Mitchell over Glenn Cox, Cecil Heath over Johnnie Pinner; fourth, Percy Ashby over Jim Marlowe, John Lautares Jr. over Junius Budacz; fifth, Bob Tate over John Taylor, Ott Alford over Jimmy Rogers; sixth, Elwood Goodson over Frank Baker, John Reynolds over Joe Pinner; seventh, Don McGlohon over Scrappy Proctor Sr., (McGlohon will meet the winner of the Bill Wright-Carl Reese match); eighth, Bill Snead over Andy Boles, Joe Clark over Les Turnage; ninth, Larry Norwood meets Ed Dixon for the title.

Ayden

The club championship tournament at Ayden Golf and Country Club continues. Championship flight results include Hugh Wallace over Richard Hunsucker, Sidney Roberson over Pete Bryant, and Brooks Barwick over Dean Wingate.

John Chapman scored his first hole-in-one at the club Sunday. He hit a pitching wedge in on the fourth hole. Playing with him were Steve Nobles, Cecil Hinnant and Dave Manning.

Ray Kite turned in his best round over the weekend, a 79.

TUESDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PITCHING — Ron Reed, BATTING — Rich Reese, Braves, allowed just three hits, two of them in the ninth inning — in blanking Montreal 4-0. Twins, crashed two homers and a single, driving in three runs in a 10-1 romp over Oakland.

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

With a starting pitching rotation that had produced 30 complete games in 2½ months, the one thing the Baltimore Orioles didn't seem to need was another starting pitcher.

But Earl Weaver, the dandy little manager of the Orioles, handed the baseball to a new starter Tuesday night and now Grant Jackson has given the pitching-rich Birds another wing.

Jackson and Tom Dukes combined for a seven-hit shutout Tuesday night as Baltimore blanked Washington 2-0, earning a split of their twin-night doubleheader. The Senators had taken the first game 8-6.

In other American League action Tuesday, Minnesota welcomed Oakland 10-1, Chicago rapped Kansas City 11-6, Detroit split a doubleheader with New York, winning 7-4 and then losing 2-1, and Cleveland divided a pair with Boston, winning 9-3 before losing 2-0. California's game at Milwaukee was rained out.

In the National League, Atlanta shut out Montreal 4-0, New York trimmed Pittsburgh 3-2, Cincinnati downed Philadelphia 6-1, San Francisco shut out Chicago 2-0, Houston dropped San Diego 4-2 and St. Louis trimmed Los Angeles 6-5.

Weaver has stuck with a rotation of Jim Palmer, Mike Cuellar, Dave McNally and Pat Dobson all season and Jackson's start in Tuesday's nightcap was the first this year for any Oriole pitcher other than those four.

In fact Jackson, acquired in a winter trade with Philadelphia, had worked in only nine games, pitched just 14 innings all season before getting his start. That was a far call from what he was used to in Philadelphia where he worked 403 innings in the last two seasons.

Minnesota backed Jim Perry's three-hit pitching with a four home run assault that destroyed Oakland.

Rich Reese stroke two homers and Tony Oliva and Harmon Killebrew tagged one apiece as the Twins made Perry's 11th victory easy. Reggie Jackson had two of the A's three hits including his 16th homer.

Chicago exploded for eight runs in the second inning with Bill Melton's two-run homer capping the rally and the White Sox ripped Kansas City.

Jay Johnstone had doubled two runs home and Rich McKinney singled two more across before Melton's shot as the Sox scored all their runs in the inning before a man was retired.

Sonny Siebert notched his 100th major league victory, a six-hitter, that eased Boston past Cleveland in the second game of their doubleheader. The victory was Siebert's 10th this season and ended a four-game losing streak for the Red Sox pitcher.

George Scott's two run homer was enough to give Siebert his first victory in more than three weeks.

In the opener, Cleveland exploded for seven runs in the sixth inning with Chris Chambliss delivering two hits and pinch hitter Frank Baker ripping a bases-loaded double to key the big inning.

Stan Bahnsen hurled his sixth straight complete game victory, beating Detroit to earn a split of the doubleheader for the Yankees. New York got Bahnsen two quick runs on Jerry Kenney's double and singles by Bobby Murcer and Jake Gibbs and the right-hander made them stand up for his seventh victory of the season.

Dick McAuliffe's two-run homer touched off a four-run Detroit rally in the ninth inning of the opener that wiped out a 3-2 Yankee lead.

Norm Cash also homered for the Tigers and Ron Woods connected for New York.

Heat Put On NCAA Golfers

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The real competition began today in the NCAA golf championship at the Tucson National Golf Club after the East-West tournament and the long drive competition Tuesday.

Many of the players in the field of 217 complained Tuesday of the stifling heat during playing hours. The high temperature was 105 degrees, and the thermometer read above 100 from mid-morning to sunset.

And more of that heat was forecast for the rest of the 72-hole tournament.

Jim Simon, one of the favorites to take individual honors, said he was having some difficulty with his game because of the heat.

"This heat is exhausting," Simons said during the middle of his round in the East-West competition.

Simons, Wake Forest, is a favorite for the individual title off his showing in the U.S. Open last week. The blonde senior finished fifth in the open with a 3-over-par 283 and led after the third round.

Wake Forest, with another top golfer, could shoot its way to the NCAA title.

Lanny Wadkins, who finished second last year in the NCAA tournament and three strokes behind teammate Simons at the U.S. Open last week, gives Wake Forest two of the top college golfers in the country.

Thirty-six other teams will vie for the Maxwell Cup, symbol of college golf supremacy.

In the East-West meet, the West won 11-6-1. The victory gave the West a 14-13-1 edge in the series.

In the long drive championship, David Sheff of Arizona State University broke the previous record for the longest drive, when he stroked the ball 342 yards down the first fairway at Tucson National.

The old record, held by Steve Satterstrom of New Mexico, was a 331-yard drive in 1968.

Rick BenDall of the University of Maryland won the trophy for the best average on three drives. He also broke the previ-

Kinston In Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS It was an entirely new balgame for Kinston Tuesday night as the Carolina League started the second half of its current season.

The first-half pennant winners suffered a 3-1 defeat at the hands of Winston-Salem. The Red Sox won the game in the eighth inning, when they exploded for two runs.

Dwight Evans' two-out single, his third hit of the game, ignited the Red Sox rally. Frank Mannerio followed with a double and then came home on Bill Brown's single.

In other games, Peninsula beat Raleigh-Durham 6-0, Lynchburg defeated Rocky Mount 3-1 and Burlington beat Salem 8-6.

Pitcher Mike Coble was a one-man show for Peninsula. He gave up only three hits, two of them in the ninth inning. At the plate he doubles, homered and drove in three runs.

Raleigh-Durham turned in a triple play in the fourth inning after Al Matson and Jim Essian led off with singles. Don Kinzel lashed a liner to shortstop McCartney, who threw to second for the second out. Second baseman Walt Ransom fired to first before Essian returned there, for the third out.

Steve Greenberg, son of famous former major leaguer Hank Greenberg, cracked a homer and a double to lead Burlington to its victory over Salem.

Tonight's games: Raleigh-Durham at Peninsula, Lynchburg at Rocky Mount, Kinston at Winston-Salem.

Rewriting Property Tax Laws Now Nearer Reality

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The House knocked out a provision a member said would benefit "fat cats" and held for further action today a bill that would revise and rewrite North Carolina's property tax laws.

Before approving the bill 103-0 Tuesday, the House adopted an amendment offered by Rep. Richard Lane Brown, D-Stanly.

The amendment would strike from the bill a provision that would exempt from property taxes goods which had been sold to a nonresident but was still being held as of Jan. 1 on the premises of the seller.

Brown told the House the exemption would be a big boost to textile manufacturers but would bring a big cut in the property tax revenues of many North Carolina counties. He said previous general assemblies had rejected the proposal.

Brown said the exemption would cost Alamance County $87,000 a year, Guilford $25,000, Stanly $19,000 and Wake County $10,000.

"If we don't pass this amendment, it's going to leave a fat cat situation," said Rep. Jim Johnson, R-Cabarrus.

Johnson told the House unless the exemption were approved, they would have to go back home and "tell your people they are going to have to pay more taxes while big industries don't."

The bill was recommended by a study commission and would make a number of changes in the state's property tax laws.

These would include a change from the first Monday in October to the first day in September the due date for property taxes.

The bill would permit, but would not require, local governments to allow discounts for prepayment of property taxes. These discounts would be set by the local governments with the approval of the State Board of Assessment.

Interest charges for failure to pay taxes on time would be boosted to 2 per cent for the first month plus 1 per cent thereafter. The charge is now 1 per cent for the first month and ½ per cent per month thereafter.

The bill also would amend state law dealing with property taxes on public service companies.

In other action, the House voted 92-16 to pass and send the Senate a bill that would place bank taxes on the same basis as other businesses in North Carolina.

The banking industry is seeking passage of the measure and has told the General Assembly the change would not reduce the banks' total tax bill. They said it would cut their state taxes somewhat but boost their taxes to local governments by about the same amount.

Rep. Ronald E. Mason, D-Carteret and Sen. Zebulon Al-ley, D-Haywood, sponsored bills to provide every legislator with a private secretary beginning in 1973. Mason's bill was signed by 98 of 120 House members and Alley's by 35 of 50 senators.

At present, only committee chairmen have private secretaries and other lawmakers obtain secretarial services through a pool arrangement.

Another new bill would appropriate $3.7 million for erecting a school of art building at East Carolina University. Sens. Vernon E. White, D-Pitt and

Stiff Penalties In New Measure

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Halloween sadists who hand out candy and apples filled with crushed glass or pins would face heavy prison sentences under a bill approved by the Michigan House.

The measure would make it a felony punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 or up to 10 years in prison, or both, to purposely dispense food containing dangerous material.

Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, and Reps. Sam Bundy, and Horton Rountree, both D-Pitt, sponsored the measure.

Sen. Hector McGeachy, D-Cumberland, sponsored a bill to appropriate $5 million to the state Board of Water and Air Resources. The money would be used to match federal grants to assist local governments in constructing sewage treatment facilities.

Rep. Charles Taylor, R-Transylvania, sponsored bills that would give the General Assembly three choices of "no fault" auto liability insurance plans. Under a "no fault" plan, a motorist's own insurance company pays his claims for damages resulting from auto accidents.

Icelanders Say Diet Is Factor

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —Icelanders live longer than almost any other people in the world, with an average life expectancy of 76.2 years for women and 70.8 years for men.

The people attribute their longevity to Iceland's rich stocks of as yet uncontaminated ocean fish which make up a good portion of the national diet and to the fact they drink more than a pint of milk per person per day.

U.S. Diem-Policy Debate Aired By Chicago Paper

CHICAGO (AP) — A State Department official recommended in an official memo in August 1963 that South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem be overthrown if he entered into negotiations with North Vietnam. The Chicago Sun-Times said today.

The memo, dated Aug. 30, and another dated Sept. 16 were written by Roger Hilman, assistant secretary of state under Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the newspaper said.

The memos, plus documents from a Pentagon history of the Vietnam war, reveal "a battle over Diem's fate with the State Department urging his ouster and the Pentagon insisting that the United States stick with him," the Sun-Times said in a copyright story.

The newspaper said the Hilman memos were declassified by President Johnson in 1968 but until now were "tightly held." It said it obtained the memos from the Citizens Commission of Inquiry into U.S. War Crimes in Vietnam.

The newspaper did not reveal the source of its information on material contained in the Pentagon documents. But James F. Hoge Jr., editor, said part of the material came from the same top-secret Pentagon report that has been published in part by The New York Times, The Washington Post and The Boston Globe.

The memos and the Pentagon documents show that the late President John F. Kennedy and his leading advisers were intimately involved in the maneuvering that led to Diem's downfall Nov. 1, 1963, the Sun-Times said.

The newspaper said Hilman's Aug. 30 memo proposed certain U.S. responses to courses of action that Diem and his brother-in-law, Ngo Dinh Nhu, might take to maintain themselves in power, the newspaper said.

Should Diem and Nhu move toward North Vietnam by a gesture "such as opening of neutralization negotiations, or rumors and indirect threats of such a move," the quoted memo says, the United States should "encourage the generals to move promptly with a coup."

The documents combined, the Sun-Times said, show that Hilman wrote the Aug. 30 memo when U.S. officials believed a military coup—or action by Diem against the military—was imminent.

All the documents show, the paper said, that from the end of August until early October, the United States struggled to decide how to keep Diem as president but get rid of Nhu.

The Sun-Times said that at a National Security Council meeting Sept. 17, 1963, it was decided to send Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor on a fact-finding mission to Vietnam.

They reported back Oct. 2, the paper said, and from that point the documents indicate there was a growing consensus at the top of the administration that it would not be possible to get rid of Nhu without also getting rid of Diem. Diem was ousted and both he and his brother died in a coup that took place in November 1963.

The Sun-Times said the documents indicate that a decision also was made at the NSC meeting to identify and begin cultivating alternative leadership—believed to mean the generals who were thought to oppose Diem and Nhu.

College Selects Next President

SWANNANOVA, N. C. (AP) — Dr. Reuben A. Holden, secretary of Yale University, will be the next president of Warren Wilson College.

His appointment was announced Tuesday by Dr. William Faulds, chairman of the school's board of trustees.

Holden will succeed Dr. Arthur M. Bannerman, who has headed the institution since 1942. The appointment is effective Aug. 1.

Senators Split Vote On Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Carolina's Sen. B. Everett Jordan voted for and Sen. Sam Ervin against as the Senate adopted, 57-42, a draft bill amendment Tuesday. Both are Democrats.

The amendment urged President Nixon to establish a date for withdrawal of all U. S. forces from Indochina contingent upon North Vietnam's release of prisoners of war.

How They Voted On Welfare Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is how North Carolina congressmen voted Tuesday as the House refused, 288-152, to delete welfare reform from a Social Security bill (a vote for was a vote to delete):

Democrats for: Fountain, Henderson, Jones, Lennon.

Republicans for: Broyhill, Jonas, Mizell, Ruth.

Democrats against: Galifianakis, Preyer.

Rep. Taylor, a Democrat, was absent because of illness.

"CARBINE" — David Marshall (Carbine) Williams, firearms inventor, is shown with the light military rifle he invented. (AP Wirephoto)

'Carbine' Had To Have Place

By H. G. JONES, Director
N.C. Department of Archives and History

For the Associated Press
RALEIGH (AP) — A new permanent exhibit entitled "The Evolution of Firearms" opens today at the North Carolina Museum of History.

One section in the exhibit depicts the development of firearms in general.

The other features the "Carbine" Williams gun collection and workshop, which were recently given to the people of North Carolina by Williams.

The exhibit features his workshop restored to its condition of the late 1950s, three display cases containing the four guns he made while at Caledonia Prison Farm, production models of weapons using his two major inventions—the floating chamber and the short stroke piston—and items from his childhood.

They include a handmade wooden pistol that fires. A photographic collage depicts "Carbine" Williams from his teenage years until now.

David Marshall "Carbine" Williams was born in Godwin, N.C., on Nov. 13, 1900, one of eleven children of a prominent cotton and tobacco farmer.

He displayed an early interest in firearms and an aptitude for designing and making them.

As a young married man, he worked as a railroad section hand. But he turned to making and selling whiskey—an activity many people at the time thought shouldn't be restricted by the government.

On July 22, 1921, six law officers raided his still. Deputy Sheriff Al Pate was killed in an exchange of shots that followed.

Though always maintaining his innocence in the shooting, Williams, as owner of the moonshine operation, was charged with first-degree murder.

The charge carried a mandatory death sentence on conviction. His helpers in the operation got off with a few months' sentence.

Williams' trial ended in disagreement among the jury. A second trial never was held. On the advice of his lawyers Williams accepted the state's offer of a lighter sentence in return for his pleading guilty to second-degree murder. His sentence was thirty years at hard labor.

In 1923, during his second year in the North Carolina prison system, his interest in gun design was rekindled.

Working as a trustee in the blacksmith shop at Caledonia Prison Farm, he developed a rifle breech mechanism that would not jam in rain, mud, or sand.

He went on to develop the revolutionary principle of the short stroke piston and the floating chamber that have been used widely by the military.

He was pardoned in 1929 by Governor Angus MacLean and returned to Godwin.

With the help of his brothers, he built the machine shop that now is in the North Carolina Museum of History.

Rose Breeders Hunt Flowers Of The Future

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
 Associated Press Writer
 LONDON (AP) — Europe's major rose breeders, like scientists pursuing new inventions, are searching for flowers of the future—brilliant new colors, fewer thorns, more blooms, more health, vigor and resistance to disease.

From the bright south of France to breezy east England, flower experts the public rarely hears of are coming closer to developing perfect roses, Britain's Royal National Rose Society reports. Their research could mean more colorful gardens throughout the world.

Most modern roses, says the annual report of the society—which represents 99,330 avid growers in Britain—are descended from the Gallica strain grown in the Middle East more than 2,000 years ago.

Gallica type roses have been found entombed in the labyrinth pyramid in upper Egypt and appeared in Botticelli's painting of the "Birth of Venus."

French physicians used Gallica petals boiled in white wine to treat gunshot wounds and others prescribed them as heart medicine.

Four dozen different strains of Gallica roses grow in England today, but the search for new blossoms has gone far beyond Gallicas.

Saluting "the men behind the new roses," art dealer and amateur grower Nigel Raban in an article in the report selected five outstanding breeders.

Jean Gaujard of France, 68, whose ancestors worked with flowers at Versailles as far back as 1648, runs a research station at St. Remy in Provence where 30,000 seedlings a year are produced to send just three or four types onto the commercial market.

Gaujard, who has won "the most beautiful rose in France" award seven times, is now pursuing new red colors that do not shade to blue, and oranges that do not fade. He believes the "Guitare" rose, coming from "Golden Slippers" and crossed with unnamed seedlings, may produce the blooms he wants.

Roses are named by the growers who breed them, and the names are registered internationally to prevent duplication.

William Kordes, the 80-year-old German whose "Crimson Glory" in 1935 was greeted as a classic rose and parent of modern times, now produces four million rose plants annually.

"Koredesii" perpetual flowering climbers are one of Kordes' major successes in a lifetime of hybridizing. Kordes believes a challenge of the future is to reduce the number of thorns appearing on some new varieties, by selecting the proper parents.

Edward Le Grice of England seeks self colors and perfume in hybrid tea roses, such as his "City of Hereford," "Incense" and "Ellen Mary." For the future, he wants "a tall, unfading golden variety, either hybrid team or floribunda, but despite hundreds of crosses and thousands of seedlings, the goal seems as elusive as ever." Le Grice, 69, has been following his trial and error method of rose breeding since 1920.

Louis Lens of Belgium, whose hybrid tea "Pascali" won the All America award in 1969, looks for attractive form with emphasis on cut flower work. Working with various crossings, Lens prefers elegance in moderate-sized blooms to the bright colors sought across the border in France.

Sam McGredy started out haphazardly at his greenhouses in Northern Ireland, mixing all the best new European and American roses he could find and scattering pollen "to see what would come out."

Painstaking years later he developed a series of remontant climbers, crossbred from Kordes' "Heidelberg" shrub. Fellow growers say the resulting "Galway Bay," "Swan Lake," "Handel," and "Santa Catalina" are spectacular. McGredy's latest strain is the hardy, free-flowering "Hand-painted" series, the first one called "Picasso."

Britain is so interested in flower growing that an Act of Parliament in 1964 set up the Plant Variety Rights Office to encourage, protect and reward innovation in plant breeding, and provide royalties for growing licences.

Britain imports 40 million rose bushes a year, and the Royal Society has 1,000 affiliated local societies, each holding a flower show annually, plus the society's own show and countless village displays and competitions.

Now the society is planning to fly its members to New Zealand in November for the International Rose Convention.

Top Performers At Music Fair

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Spring and summer shows at the Westbury Music Fair are in their 17th season.

Top stars of the show world listed for spring appearances and who were sold out months in advance include the Alan King Show with Lena Horne and a six-day appearance for Engelbert Humperdinck.

Performers with their own shows in July and August include Lana Turner, Sherry Greene, Mickey Rooney, Tony Bennett, Sergio Franchi with Pat Cooper, Robert Goulet, Carol Channing and Jane Morgan.

Miss Morgan will be featured in "Hello Dolly" Aug. 30-Sept. 12.

Grants Made By Foundation

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation has made 14 grants totaling $2,012,100 for 1971-72 in two categories — education, and health and medical improvement programs.

William R. Lybrook, president of the foundation, said Tuesday the education grants total $1,171,700 and go to six colleges and universities.

They include $50,000 to Appalachian State University, $65,000 to Mars Hill College, $31,700 to the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, $750,000 to the Babcock Graduate School of Management of Wake Forest University, $200,000 on a matching basis to St. Augustine's College in Raleigh, and $75,000 to Sacred Heart College in Belmont.

Major grants for health and medical programs were $210,000 to Reynolds Memorial Hospital, $500,000 to Duke University and $50,000 to Lincoln Community Health Center in Lincolnton.

Miscellaneous grants in other fields total $80,000.

The Appalachian State University grant is to continue its Valle Crucis project seeking new understanding of the learning process in elementary schools.

The grant to Mars Hill College is to further the school's work on its four-year model teacher education program. The UNC-Greensboro grant is for its teenage parents education project. It is aimed at enabling young mothers who quit school because of pregnancy to continue their high school education.

The St. Augustine's grant is for faculty improvement. And the Sacred Heart College grant is for library support.

Duke University's grant is for the start of a regional eye center.

Snowden Is Top Camper

Casals Receives Degree In Guadalajara

TERRY SNOWDEN

A Rose High School student who plans to study forestry or wildlife management upon graduation was recently named the top camper attending a 4-H Forestry Camp near Rockingham.

Terry Snowden, son of Mrs. Louise Snowden of York Rd., Greenville, was honored after he made the highest score among 92 campers taking an exam that covered all subjects taught during the week-long session at Camp Millstone.

Snowden, who will be a junior at Rose this fall, represented Pitt County at the five-day camp, held for boys interested in forestry. Boys representing 92 counties attended the 17th annual camp.

Sponsored by Southern Bell Telephone Co., the camp is conducted by the Forestry Extension Section at North Carolina State University in Raleigh. The local youth plans to attend N.C. State following graduation from Rose.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Pablo Casals has received an honorary doctor of music degree from the University of Guadalajara at a ceremony in the school's auditorium.

Jalisco State Gov. Alberto Orozco Romero presented the diploma to Casals, who remained seated during the presentation Tuesday night and his brief acceptance speech. The governor and university officials urged the 94-year-old cellist not to stand and Casals agreed, saying he was tired from the activity of the Casals festival in Guadalajara, which ended Sunday.

The world-famous cellist said, "The children in all the countries of the world should be instilled with the thought that they are a miracle of God, that they are very powerful as intelligent human beings and that they can kill and be killed, which is the horror that our eyes are beholding every day all over the world."

Marge, Gower Are Separated

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marge and Gower Champion, dancing partners for 25 years and married for 24, have separated, a spokesman says.

A statement issued Tuesday said the separation was made with regret, no other persons were involved, and that the entertainers would not comment further. They have two sons, Greg, 14, and Blake, 9.

Champion has been active recently as a director and choreographer.

When New York City draw bridges were opened and left unattended during a recent strike, three bridegenders were suspended.

Two Accidents Here Yesterday

Over $2,200 in damages resulted from two traffic accidents investigated in the city Tuesday by Greenville Police.

Heaviest damages occurred in a wreck at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Raleigh Avenue involving cars driven by Catherine Angeline Booth of 712 W. Fifth Street, Ayden, and Howell Ashley Hudson of 165 Garnet Street, Broomfield, Colo.

Officers, who charged Hudson with failing to see a safe movement could be made, reported damages estimated at $600 to the Booth car, $400 to the Hudson vehicle, and $800 damages to a fire hydrant and freshly poured sidewalk owned by the City of Greenville.

No injuries resulted from the 12:07 p. m. mishap.

A 5:50 p. m. wreck at the North Memorial Drive-Airport Road intersection caused total damages estimated at $425 to the two cars involved.

A car driven by Richard A. Beacham of Rt. 2, Box 374, Greenville sustained damages set at $75 while a vehicle operated by Carl Clifton Allen of Box 733, Plymouth was damaged an estimated $350.

Police preferred no charges following investigation of the wreck and reported no injuries.

Student Graduated With Top Marks

Kenneth Richard Wright, a 1971 graduate of East Carolina University, has been named Most Outstanding Male Senior of the graduating class.

Wright, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Wright of Washington, N.C., graduated with highest honors. The award, a lamp of knowledge, is aimed at recognizing and encouraging academic achievement for male students, and is presented annually by the Phi Sigma Pi honorary scholarship fraternity at the Senior banquet.

A committee of faculty members from each department containing male students reviews the records of those who meet the qualifications of leadership and fellowship as well as scholarship during their college career.

Wright, who made only two B's during his four years, maintained an academic grade point average of 4.0 in his psychology major and 3.94 overall.

Planning Bd. Held Meet

WINTERVILLE — The Planning Board held its monthly supper meeting in the Community Building Monday.

Representatives from Carl B. Pace Academy requested that a portion of land within one mile of the city limits on the north side of town be rezoned for a private school. The board decided that the land was already adequately zoned and wouldn't interfere with the school's construction.

A letter of appreciation was sent to Ralph Willoughby, who served Winterville as the community planner for two years. Garry C. Mercer, the new community planner was present.

Mercer is from the Department of Local Affairs, Division of Community Planning. He holds an AB degree in History from ACC and a MA degree in History from ECU.

Send Bill To Senate Floor

RALEIGH (AP) — A controversial bill to require attendants at all locations where self-service gasoline pumps are available to the public was given a favorable report Tuesday by a Senate committee.

The Manufacturing, Labor and Commerce Committee voted 5-2 to send the bill to the Senate floor.

The bill, introduced by Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover, has the backing of the Independent Gas Station Owners Association of North Carolina. Proponents of the bill claim unattended pumps constitute a safety hazard.

Several members of the committee said they did not like the bill but voted for a favorable report to get it before the full Senate. Among such voters were freshmen Sen. Eddie Knox, D-Mecklenburg, and Zebulon Alley, D-Haywood.

Those opposing the bill say its primary intent is to force self-service stations out of business.

'Lost Colony' To Begin Season

MANTEO, N. C. (AP) — "The Lost Colony" begins its 31st season at Waterside Theater tonight with many new faces in the cast of the outdoor drama based on the first English settlement in America.

Lead roles of Eleanor Dare and John Borden are played by Rita Ballard of Jacksonville, Fla., and Carlos Castanon of St. Augustine, Fla.

The play was written by Paul Green of Chapel Hill and is directed by Broadway director Joe Layton.

Performances will be held nightly except Sunday through Aug. 28. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Half of Morocco's industrial force now works in Casablanca.

Professional speakers (and salesmen) often bark out their answers to questions so fast and so completely that they mow down the timid questioner. Suppose one of the snide critics of Ellen's talk thought he would show her up by a difficult query. Ellen could then reply: "Mr. Martin, that is a very discerning question that you have asked. In fact, it is so good that I wish you'd stand up and repeat it for the benefit of those on the rear rows (or in the balcony)." Notice what this does! It inflates the ego of the questioner by thus giving him a verbal pat on the back from the public platform. Even if he were hostile at the outset, Ellen would now have spiked his guns, as it were, by offering him her compliment. Meanwhile, too, she could be trying to figure out the proper answer. But after the "Pause and Praise" strategy, then resort to Christ's "Reversible Why" technique.

For Jesus often answered a question with a question, which is what I mean by the "Reversible Why." Thus, when His critics tried to entrap him with their query about paying tribute to Caesar, Jesus held up a coin and asked: "Whose image and superscription are on this coin?" So Ellen can then casually speak to the class as follows: "It is very likely that some of you members of the audience have also experienced the very same problem that Mr. Martin has mentioned. "So we shall let any of you give your own personal solution, if you wish."

Very often somebody in the crowd will then stand up and answer the challenging inquiry that Mr. Martin raised. But by using the "Reversible Why," Ellen can thus enlist more audience participation and meanwhile let others help solve the problem.

If others thus do the job for her, she can merely sum up the consensus.

If not, she can then try to give a full reply. Or say she doesn't have all the facts available, so she must defer her answer till later.

In any event, she has avoided a head-on violent quarrel and has probably so mollified her opponent that he feels friendly to her.

So send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Airports Report Air Cargoes Off

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—Air cargo shipments were down 16.5 per cent and air mail shipments down 8.8 per cent at Michigan's 21 air carrier airports during the first quarter of 1971 when compared with the same period last year.

Statistics compiled by the Michigan Department of Commerce show 60.3 million pounds of cargo were shipped and received by air in the first three months of the year. Both air mail and first class mail were down from 14.3 million pounds in the first three months of 1970 to 13 million pounds in the first quarter this year.

Female cougars usually have two to three kittens in a litter.

Laughs No Joke To Psychiatrist

By DUSTON HARVEY
STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Laughter is no joke to Dr. William Fry Jr. Fry has devoted 18 years of research to chortles, giggles and guffaws, learning, among other things, that they disrupt breathing, increase the heart rate and interfere with brain waves. But laughter also helps human handle their frustrations and fears.

Fry, a psychiatrist who is in private practice and also on the clinical staff of Stanford University School of Medicine, believes humor is "one of our major coping mechanisms."

"It helps us cope with things distressful and challenging, with potential violence, and with reconciling new elements in our thinking," he said. "That's why most people who teach or lecture use humor as a vehicle for education."

It also plays a stimulating role in life "because it is the essence of humor to be creative—in the sense of its revealing hidden and unexpected relationships, its connecting apparent disparate or conflicting elements and reconciling what may seem illogical and in disarray," Fry said.

Despite their obvious importance, he said, laughter and humor have received little scientific scrutiny.

Fry's own studies started in 1953, with emphasis on the mental and logical processes involved in humor. One method was to tell jokes to volunteers and have them rate their "funniness," a technique he found too subjective and ambiguous.

Three years ago, while serving as a comedy consultant with the American Conservatory Theatre in San Francisco, the psychiatrist watched director William Ball teach young actors how to simulate various kinds of laughs.

He decided that if performers could learn laughing styles, there must be common qualities for various laughs. Fry decided to develop "an objective tool for humor research" by determining what happens to different body systems during laughter, which he labeled the "end point of mirth and the objective of humor."

Volunteers were wired to physiological measuring devices and then fed taped comedy routines through earphones. Among the findings:

—Each person has an individual style of laughing.

—Laughter causes a complete disruption of the normal respiratory cycle, and the return to normal breathing patterns is gradual—often taking more than 10 seconds.

—Heart rates increase in direct correlation to the duration and intensity of laughter, reaching 120 beats a minute with more prolonged or intense laughter.

—The brain's alpha rhythm is disrupted and the sympathetic nervous system activated.

Fry plans to begin research this fall on other physical reactions to laughter. Clinical work is needed, he suggested, on the relation of mirth to heart attacks, strokes and ulcers.

The psychiatrist also is studying the evolution of humor—which is why he once climbed into a cage with three young chimpanzees and found they enjoy being tickled.

His experience with the chimps at a Stanford Research Institute lab has convinced Fry that chimps laugh in a human way. He agrees with other researchers who contended gorillas were ticklish and even played practical jokes on one another.

Fry also is studying some of laughter's contemporary suppliers—the professional comedy writers of Hollywood. He and his wife, who interviewed several last summer, will collect information on the psychology and family background of several more gag writers this year.

He and his fellow laugh researchers even have a name for their fledgling science: gelotology, which comes from gelos, the Greek word for laughter.

Now, that's funny.

We're Not Miracle Workers

We cannot take a man whose abilities are limited to $10,000, and train him to make twice that amount — but we can help a man who has a $20,000 potential in achieving this financial level in a relatively short period of time (1-3 years).

The reason we can do so, is because the recession-proof quality products manufactured by Certified Laboratories are rapidly consumed and repeatedly used in all areas of industrial, institutional, municipal and commercial operations.

We look for the individual who has a record of success; an individual who is capable of directing his own activities; an individual who wants to be rewarded in direct proportion to his effort, but for reasons beyond his control, has limited possibilities in his present position.

If there is a similarity between you and what we are looking for, Certified Laboratories offers an outstanding opportunity, not miracles.

Soldier Didn't Know Narcotics Hazards In Vietnam

By Edward Cody
Associated Press Writer
FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) —
Pic. John P. says he volunteered for action in Vietnam because he was afraid of getting hooked in the drug culture around Ft. Bragg and the Army town of Fayetteville.

Last week John (not his real name) returned here addicted to heroin. His savings were ravaged and his body was drained by months of furtively taking heroin in Vietnam.

"I hadn't heard about drugs being the main problem over there," he said. "I hadn't heard of anybody coming back from over there in bad shape from drugs."

Three congressmen back from a study trip to the war zone estimated — about the time a witness John arrived back at Ft. Bragg — that 60,000 American soldiers have shared his bitter lesson. Most are about John's age, 19.

The GIs have learned that the powder offered for sale by Vietnamese outside virtually any base brings the promised escape from an ugly war — but with it, according to John, chills, sweat, debilitation and addiction.

John arrived in Vietnam in April of last year, 11 months after he enlisted fresh from graduation from a suburban San Juan, P. R., high school.

He manned an M60 machine gun atop an armored personnel carrier based at Bon Son, about 250 flying miles north of Saigon.

One one patrol he was blasted from his perch by an exploding mine and landed uninjured on soft ground. It was his closest brush with death.

Determined, John touched no drugs for the first three months. He had come to the war zone because his experiments with heroin at Ft. Bragg had frightened him.

Then the loneliness. "Being so far away from home ... on your birthday ... on Christmas ... you thought of that all the time."

In July his resolve buckled. First some marijuana to put a rosy pale over the solitude, a few days later some heroin, within a week — regular snorts.

About three weeks later he tried — and failed — to snap back.

"One day I wanted to go without any because we had to go out on a mission on foot that was important and I didn't want to take any. I didn't make it."

"I started sweat, chills — in other words, the 'Joneses.' I suddenly realized I was hooked. 'You feel tired. You feel drowsy. Your back aches. Chills. Sweaty. You sweat a lot, a hell of a lot. Then your mind starts to work on you. You say you're getting sick, you're getting sick, you're getting sick. And you just turn around and do it. Right on the spot. You just drop whatever you're doing and take your snort.'"

By the time John turned 19 Aug. 5, he was a combat veteran and a dope addict.

Finding heroin to feed the craving was easy. You walked out of camp and down to the nearby Bon Son River and handed $3.50 to the girls who also sold Cokes.

That was the first time. John learned within 24 hours that the white powder could be purchased still more cheaply. He bought a carton of cigarettes at the post exchange for $1.70 and traded it for an inch-high plastic vial of 90 per cent pure heroin.

"This went on and then I started buying two or three, and sometimes it came to where I had five or 10 vials in my pocket, just for my own personal use and for the others around."

Taking it was just as easy. At the low prices, you could afford to snort it up your nostrils, even on patrol when the sergeant wasn't looking — or at night, even smoke it.

"You work high, you don't mind working. You have your leisure time and your high, and you don't mind what you're doing. No hassle. No trouble. Hardly anyone notices it."

Detection was a remote worry. Sergeants and junior officers often looked the other way, according to John.

"Just about everybody's got a little hangup," said John. "The one who didn't use smack smokes marijuana. And the one who doesn't smoke marijuana drinks."

A staff sergeant commanding John's tank-like personnel carrier one night ordered him to direct machine gun fire at a hill thought to have an enemy mortar nest. His unit was guarding a bridge.

And John was high on heroin. "I fired up the hill. He (the sergeant) told me, 'I wonder how you can function when you're all screwed up.' I said, 'Big deal. All I have to do is shoot up a hill.' Every time I had to function, I could function no matter how messed up I was."

"Yeah, but he didn't say anything because he used to smoke a little marijuana himself. He knew if he said anything, I had him by the tail, you know."

John paid for his five to eight vials a day by selling cases of soft drinks, rain ponchos, C-rations, most of them stolen.

"It's so easy over there. So easy. You just steal it from the other guys. Once you got a habit of your own, you just forget the other guys. You think about yourself."

He sent nearly his whole paycheck to his family in Puerto Rico, amassing $700 in his account by the time his 13-month tour ended.

He said he didn't really need the money from the paychecks while in Vietnam, "just enough to get started in business."

The business was reselling marijuana and other drugs to GIs in rear bases after buying it in the more remote areas, where sneaking away from the camp perimeter was easier and the prices were lower.

The prices mounted drastically when John arrived home in Puerto Rico last month for a 30-day leave at the end of his Vietnam tour.

He brought back 15 vials of heroin in his pockets. But they were soon consumed and John began draining his $700 bank account.

"I had to spend $20 a day just to get off," he said. "For what I was getting for $1.70 over there, I was paying $25, and here in Fayetteville, you have to pay $40."

By the time John arrived at Ft. Bragg last week he had spent his savings, about $400 of it on drugs. He showed up at the base with $50 and spent it the same night to stave off the agony of withdrawal.

The next day, broke, chained to his habit and facing another year in the Army, John walked into Ft. Bragg's drug treatment center, the "Ferretory Cerebrum."

After four days of Army-administered methadone, a heroin substitute, John was declared physically free of his addiction. He was given calman pills to last four days after his last methadone shot.

"And after the pills, I'll just be on my own," he said.

Not really. Ft. Bragg's treatment center will offer continuing counseling to help John over the physiological hump. He can join "rap sessions" and get treatment in "mental hygiene" at the base hospital.

He says he has quite for good and wants to study law at the University of Puerto Rico, perhaps to become a politician's aide and "work with the people." His 21-year-old finance and his mother are waiting for him to return. Both know of his drug problem.

"I promised them both I would go in treatment," he said. "So I did. And I will stick to it."

But statistically his chances are bad. Though they lack precise follow-up figures, counselors at the center believe most of their patients return to addiction.

The statistics available indicate many of those treated got addicted by routes similar to John's. He tried marijuana at weekend parties while he was in high school. Then he stumbled onto hard drugs during his first stay at Ft. Bragg, not enough to get addicted but enough to learn the pleasure.
