

VC Proposal Said Unacceptable In Its Present Form

By DAVID MASON
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The United States said today the Viet Cong proposal for a U.S. troop withdrawal by the end of the year in exchange for the release of war prisoners is unacceptable in its present form.

In their prepared speeches at the Paris peace talks, the Communist delegates made no direct reply to the U.S. stand. But the North Vietnamese said the plan offers an opportunity to the United States to get out of Vietnam with safety and honor.

The Viet Cong reiterated its position that the sooner U.S. forces withdraw, the sooner the prisoners of war can return to their families.

Ambassador David K.E. Bruce commented that the Viet Cong plan present last Thursday has "some new elements" that the United States and South Vietnam want to explore with the Communists.

Bruce suggested that the 121st session of the talks next Thursday be restricted—that is mainly secret—"free from the glare of publicity and without the need to make public statements except to the degree we mutually agree upon."

Both Bruce and South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam said a week-long analysis of the peace package did not show changes in the basic Communist demands. But Bruce said that if the proposals mean Hanoi and the Viet Cong are ready for serious negotiations, this is welcome.

Bruce said the demands for withdrawal of all U.S. and other non-Vietnamese forces by the end of the year "are so sweeping and categorical in nature that we cannot possibly accept your arbitrary determination that they must be agreed to by us without any discussion or negotiation upon them."

In demanding the U.S. troop withdrawal, the Viet Cong said this must be done "without posing any condition whatsoever."

Bruce said the Communist "offer to 'agree on the modalities' of safe withdrawal and release of prisoners after a date for withdrawal has been named is unclear and may be merely a variation of your previous statement that the parties 'will engage at once in discussion' on these questions, not necessarily committing you to the course of action implied this point, as well as others you have presented, requires clarification."

Bruce emphasized that the United States is ready to discuss any points raised by the Communists and expects them to take the same attitude. "These meetings," Bruce said, "must stop being used by you simply for propaganda purposes and must be devoted instead to constructive interchanges."

"On the prisoners of war issue itself," Bruce continued, "we note that you do not deal with the release of those prisoners captured by your forces or forces under your control in Laos and Cambodia. We continue to hold you responsible for the release of these men and for the provision of whatever information you have on all of our men captured and missing in action throughout Indochina."

Bruce said that examination of the Viet Cong plan "makes it evident that questions arising from their contents necessitate serious negotiation between all parties concerned. We will wish to explore them further with you and in subsequent meetings we will be seeking clarification on specific points."

"You have asserted that your proposals are intended as major initiatives," he added, "and we recognize that they deal with matters requiring serious discussion. You cannot, however, insist that they form the only basis for such discussions."

Lam countered the Viet Cong plan with a call for immediate and unconditional release of all prisoners of war, establishment of a general cease-fire "and a timetable for the withdrawal of all the external forces," meaning North Vietnamese in South Vietnam as well as the Americans and other foreign troops fighting on Saigon's side.

The South Vietnamese delegate told the Viet Cong's Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh her peace plan was "faulty because of its ambiguity on what you would be prepared to do." He posed a series of questions:

Police Chief H. E. Williamson, while acknowledging the school's role in Negro demands during the violence, said he had no concrete link between the racial killings and continuing racial tension.

"We've just got a regular homicide investigation going," he said. "All avenues are open."

Williamson said there was no apparent robbery, either of the guards or of the equipment in the school cafeteria. He said his officers had uncovered no signs of forcible entry or struggle during their three-hour search of the scene with State Bureau of Investigation agents.

The chief said the New Hanover County Board of Education hired Pinkerton guards for three schools in Negro neighborhoods last month in an attempt to reduce vandalism during summer vacation. A number of windows were broken at Williston.

Pinkerton officials said it was company policy for the three teams of school guards to patrol armed only with nightsticks.

Williamson said Pinkerton Sgt. Edward Miedzienewski went to the school after a call from Padrick's wife, who asked why her husband had not returned from his shift ending at 5 a.m.

He said the last contact with the two guards before their deaths was about 9 p.m. Tuesday, when they telephoned police headquarters to say they were entering the school.

New Hanover Coroner Starr McMillan estimated that the two were killed somewhere between 11 p.m. Tuesday and 1 a.m. Wednesday.

law enforcement, teacher assistants, fire service, agricultural equipment for public school vocational teachers, small engine repair, health occupations, and in-the-plant training for various industries.

"The key has to be flexibility and innovation that can come only from a staff and faculty that makes every effort to respond to requests for courses and individual needs," Dr. Fulford commented when asked what accounts for the excellent response to the program.

A second session of summer school is planned to begin on July 16. Interested persons should visit Pitt Technical Institute for additional information or telephone 776-3130.

Hospital, School And 2 Homes Hit By Rockets Fired By Arab Terrorists

By HAL MCCLURE
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas from Jordan were blamed for a rocket attack Wednesday night that killed two persons and wounded 20 others in a town nine miles west of Tel Aviv.

One of the rockets made a direct hit on a hospital for the chronically ill and three others ripped into a school and two houses in Petach Tikvah, a community of 80,000 residents. A 5-year-old girl and a woman were killed.

"The terrorists have found themselves incapable of attacking military targets and they don't seem to care where their shells fall," said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, who visited the scene.

Townpeople mobbed him, shouting for revenge. Dayan told newsmen the 130mm rockets had an average range of 14 miles and could have been fired from any of hundreds of uninhabited areas.

"The terrorists most probably came from Jordan," he said, "and probably had support from Arabs on the West bank." The Jordanian territory west of the Jordan River which Israel seized in the 1967 war starts five miles west of Petach Tikvah.

"As long as the state of war continues and terrorist activities persist," Dayan said, "it will be difficult to insure that things of this kind don't happen."

In case more rockets were fired fire-fighting units and ambulances sped to the scene. The rockets fell in an area 200 yards square. The worst damage was at the hospital, where one of the shells hit a three-bed ward. A woman lost a leg in that explosion. One rocket did not explode, and army experts defused it.

It was the heaviest attack on a civilian target inside Israel since the Arab guerrilla bombing of Tel Aviv's bus station last November.

Greene Bd. Tentatively OKs $1.8 Million Budget

SNOW HILL — Greene County Commissioners Tuesday gave tentative approval to a $1,831,897 budget for the 1971-1972 fiscal year. Final approval of the proposed budget is expected at the commissioners' August 2 meeting.

The new $1.83 million budget represents an increase of some $388,311 over the $1,443,586 budget approved by the board for the 1970-1971 fiscal period. With an increase of $1.5 million in assessed valuation of property in the county over the past year, Commissioners were able to maintain the $1.75 per $100 valuation tax rate used for the 1970-1971 fiscal year.

County officials said largest increases in expenditures will come from increased participation in school and Social Service Department programs.

Of the $388,311 increase in the budget, $364,688 will come from sources other than tax levy, according to George Mewborn, Greene County auditor.

Modest salary increases for county employees — raises averaging about five per cent — account for part of the increased budget, too.

According to Mewborn, commissioners are planning several capital improvement projects, hopefully to be accomplished on a pay-as-you-go basis by using revenue from the one per cent local option sales tax.

Projects being planned by commissioners include installation of an exterior steel fire escape for the county jail and court room; renovations to the jail; and air conditioning the court room.

By using sales tax revenues, commissioners hope to complete the improvement projects as funds become available — without having to levy additional taxes.

The Soviet exercise was accomplished "without detriment to current widespread Soviet naval operations in the Atlantic elsewhere," the newspaper said Wednesday, quoting "reliable Navy sources."

The exercise, monitored by American, British, Norwegian and Dutch aircraft, also simulated the elimination of NATO bases in Norway, it said.

The newspaper said an amphibious task force of 31 ships conducted landings during the simulated attack on NATO forces near Iceland. The Navy source said the landings were simulating the elimination of NATO bases.

The source said the exercises were just recently completed, the newspaper reported.

R.D. Stokes Named To School Board

Members of the Pitt County Board of Education Tuesday approved the appointment of a new member of the Board of Education, an Art Supervisor for the county schools, and a high school supervisor.

Robert D. Stokes was named to the school board to fill the unexpired term of Roland Brinson. Brinson, who has served as a board member since April, 1965, resigned his position. Stokes will represent the Grimesland, Chicod and Swift Creek Townships, until the next general elections in November 1972.

Martin's Tax Rate Increased

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners Tuesday tentatively approved the 1971-72 fiscal budget, which totals slightly over $4 million. Tax valuation rates have been increased from last year's base of $1.50 per $100 valuation to a new rate of $1.63. Of this figure, approximately 95 cents will be earmarked for general county funds, 63 cents for county schools, and five cents for the Martin Technical Institute.

Property evaluation for the county now is estimated at a total of $125 million.

In other action by the commissioners at their July meeting, the rate for the Special Fire District for Griffin Township was set at six cents. Approval was also given to establish a Bear Grass Fire District that would take in a four mile radius from the town.

Nat Johnson of Oak City was named to the ABC Board to replace Lawrence Hyman.

Commissioners passed a resolution directed to the North Carolina State Highway Commission requesting construction of a four lane highway on U.S. 64 west from Williamston to the Pitt County line near Bethel. The same resolution also calls for improvements of U.S. 64 east to the Washington County line, just outside the town of Plymouth.

Worst 'Red Tide' Outbreak Hits Florida Gulf Beaches

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The worst outbreak of red tide in Florida waters in almost a quarter-century has left miles of Gulf Coast beaches littered with dead fish and many tourist-related businesses in a deep slump.

Called "poison water" by ancients who first noted it in 208 B.C., the red tide is a plant-like organism. It collects in patches and tints the water reddish-brown.

A toxin put off by the organism as it dies paralyzes fish which come in contact with it. It is not harmful to humans unless they eat fish of shellfish which have ingested the poison.

Murky waters of the latest outbreak stretch 100 miles, from St. Petersburg south to Fort Myers. Resort motels report empty rooms and cancellations as tourists move inland to escape the stench of rotting fish.

St. Petersburg officials estimate the cost of disposing of dead fish at $10,000 a day. More than 500 tons were collected Wednesday.

St. Petersburg officials banned oyster and clam fishing Wednesday.

A red tide invaded Florida waters for three months beginning in November 1947. At its peak, patches of the murky slime extended from Miami, on the Atlantic coast, around the tip of Florida and north up the Gulf coast to Tarpon Springs, some 350 miles.

Millions of pounds of game and sport fish were killed by the tide before a hurricane dispersed the build-up.

Two Unarmed School Guards Gunned Down

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer
WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) —

Police say two unarmed Pinkerton agents were gunned down as they guarded a school considered a focal point for the racial unrest plaguing this city since February.

The guards, identified as Irving L. Padrick, 68, of Wilmington, and James D. Flowers, 29, of nearby Leland, were discovered Wednesday morning by a fellow Pinkerton agent. Police have no clues to their killers.

Padrick, a retired city fireman, was found lying face down in a hallway with a large caliber bullet between his shoulder blades. His only weapon, a nightstick, was hanging on a chair outside the school.

Flowers was found about 35 feet away with a large bullet wound in his mouth. He was lying on the floor of the school cafeteria near a door opening into the hallway where Padrick was found.

The victims, both white, were without firearms. They were on all-night patrol at Williston Junior High School, a former all-Negro high school on Wilmington's predominantly black south side.

Its desegregation last fall under a court-approved plan brought angry demands from Negroes seeking a black community school. The ensuing racial tension boiled into violence last winter.

A Negro youth and a white man were killed last February in disruptions which were quelled with help from National Guard troops and highway patrolmen. A second Negro youth was killed later when he answered a knock at the door during a gathering at a Negro

DEAR ABBY: Why do people give money to reciprocate a kindness? It spoils everything.

Yesterday a friend gave me a check for $10 for a small kindness I showed her. [I picked up her mail and brought it to her at the hospital for three weeks.] Abby, I was terribly hurt and didn't want to accept money for something which I did out of the kindness of my heart, so I tore up the check in front of her.

She looked as tho I had struck her and tears came to her eyes. I wanted to die. Was I wrong?

HURTING

DEAR HURTING: Yes. To destroy something publicly shows contempt for it. You should have either returned the check or destroyed it privately. People give money to reciprocate a kindness because either they are unable to shop for a gift or they don't know what to buy.

Your friend wanted to reward you for your kindness. You wanted no reward. Unfortunately, you misunderstood each other.

DEAR ABBY: I need help. My husband is 91, and for the last two years Arnold has had no desire for sex, and I am only 73 and I still need a man.

Arnold is a jealous person and he follows me everywhere so there is no chance of even meeting anyone else. Is there something the doctor can give him to pep him up a little? If that is hopeless, maybe the doctor can give me something to quiet me down. It is no good this way. YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR YOUNG: It might be easier to quiet your desire than to rekindle Arnold's. Ask your doctor.

DEAR ABBY: Please spell out the responsibilities of a daughter in law when she comes to visit with her two children who are both under 3 years old. The children are not accustomed to being in a playpen in their own home, but I have one here for them because I don't want them

One Of The Great Ones Passes

The world of entertainment has lost one of its giants with the passing of Louis Armstrong, who died Tuesday, the day after his 71st birthday. Sachmo's trumpet won him fame, and his flair for showmanship kept winning him fans as new generations came along. Thus at his death this week he was known and idolized throughout the world—in Europe and Africa, behind the Iron Curtain and certainly in his own United States.

Louis Armstrong would play his trumpet anywhere and one of his many one night stands was in Greenville for a warehouse dance some years ago. They loved him here just as they did everywhere else.

One of the great ones is gone, but fortunately those in the entertainment world who make music are able to leave their legacy behind. We have little doubt that the recordings left by Louis Armstrong will be loved by many generations of the future. He will be a legend.

Trend Toward No-Party Rule

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — A political transition may be moving North Carolina from one-party state to no-party politics.

The two-party system often predicted by observers and students of politics, under which Democrats and Republicans from relative positions of strength compete for votes on the basis of philosophy, does not appear to be developing.

In fact, ideological lines between the parties are blurring. The body of independent voters is growing. More and more, the outcome yes-or-no question, said Rep. James E. Holsouser, Jr., of Watauga.

Labels Less Important
"Party labels are not as important as they used to be," agreed Holsouser, GOP state chairman and likely candidate for its gubernatorial nomination next year. "That doesn't mean, he quickly added, that parties are obsolete.

"The party is a vehicle. It puts the candidate before the people. It brings together the organization for a campaign," he said. "You could get on the ballot as an independent, but it would be a lot harder than through a party."

of elections depends upon candidate personality and appeal rather than party label.

The trend seems certain to accelerate as the voting age is lowered to 18, bringing into the electorate young people even less inhibited by tradition than their elders.

Signs of the times: Campaigns in which billboards and brochures show the candidate's smiling face but omit reference to party affiliation.

Candidates who wear the party emblem, but freely disavow its platform.

Voters, regardless of registration, who make it a point of pride to say they "vote for the man and not the party."

Where From Here?
That the current is running is clear; where it leads for the future is the unsettled question.

It may make partisanship archaic, said Senator Norman H. Joyner of Iredell. He was elected, a Republican in a nominally Democratic district. He feels greater responsibility to the people who voted for him than to the party on whose ticket he ran.

"The way I can build the Republican party is by conscientiously carrying out the duties of my office," he explained. Candidly, he said he puts party position secondary to his personal convictions.

That tends to align like-minded men of opposing parties. "There are Democratic Senators I would not campaign against, if I were asked to do so to assist a Republican candidate," Joyner said.

This is the attitude of no-party politics, in which party discipline becomes ineffective and voter loyalty wavering.

Whether no-party politics is the wave of the future is not a

North Carolina will remain a state of political parties, assured Senator Hargrove Bowles, Jr., of Guilford. "A growing number of people say to me, 'I vote for the man,' but the great bulk of voters still take the party into consideration in making up their minds," he said.

What the trends may point to is more meaningful campaigns, said Bowles, who may be waging one next spring for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Party No Screen
"I don't believe a candidate can run with the party label as a screen any more," he said. "People won't vote for him just because he's a Democrat or Republican. They want to know the kind of man he is, and what he plans to do if he's elected."

In the sense, he added, the trends are healthy for the state of Tar Heel politics.

Young people see individuals and not donkeys and elephants, said Senator Phil Kirk of Rowan, at 26 the youngest General Assembly member.

"Candidate personality is important to young voters," said Kirk, a Republican. The insistent eye of television also is a factor in emphasizing the personal appeal of candidates, he added.

A greater degree of independence in voting habits, resulting from the youth vote, means challenge for the parties, said Kirk.

The propensity to cross party lines is growing down East, said Senator Tom Strickland of Wayne, but that does not necessarily mean a two-party system. "A lot of people now are just doing in state elections what they have been doing for years in the Presidential election," he suggested.

Strickland, a Democrat, said GOP gains in his area tend to indicate candidate popularity rather than rising party strength. For example, Goldsboro has a Republican mayor elected in a non-partisan election; his victory recognizes his personal appeal and capability rather than a shift from the Democratic party.

Air Conditioning Part Of School Necessities

Air conditioning of Aycock Junior High should make the building a much nicer facility for carrying on its educational program.

The city school board last week accepted low bids for installing air conditioning in the school, which is located on Red Bank Road.

The job may not be completed in time for opening of school this fall. However, when it is finished the classrooms and offices should be more comfortable in the spring and fall weeks. It is during this time that temperatures are higher outside and students become more restless.

Air conditioning should be an accepted part of school facilities in this area now.

Looking Over The Candidates

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — With the North Carolina legislature on the verge of adjourning, you will see the candidates for Governor starting their campaigns in earnest within the next few weeks.

Today, we take the four men most likely to run in the Democratic gubernatorial primary and examine their strengths and weaknesses.

Robert Morgan. Strengths: His name is well-known across the State. Even his critics admit that he had done a superb job as attorney general. People feel that he'll fight for the little guy and isn't afraid to slam a fist into the face of big business. He is an expert campaigner and so is his wife. Morgan is handsome, a good speaker, has the guts to say something. He would be Babe Ruth in the East and people in other sections of the State are now talking about his "political growth." People believe Morgan is "on fire" and they like to tag on with a winner.

Morgan weaknesses: He would have a hard time raising the minimum $1 million that it would take to finance a gubernatorial campaign. Is tied to many controversies that deal with East Carolina University. His close association with the East might hurt him in the West and Piedmont. He worked prominently in the Beverly Lake campaigns and that might come back to haunt him in some areas of the State. Many business leaders, some of them quite powerful, would be very cool to his candidacy.

Pat Taylor. Strengths: He has advanced up the political ladder. Member of the State House, House Speaker, Lieutenant Governor. His political career is free of scandal and he had made it a point of staying away from controversy. He obviously can raise the money to run a good campaign. Bob Scott will be for him and handled properly that will be an asset. Taylor has a keen sense of humor and would do well in personal campaigning. Also comes across well on television. He has the ability to communicate with all elements, rich and poor.

Taylor Weaknesses: The North Carolina press is rapidly tiring of his dilly-dallying. He needs to take a stand on issues of importance. This is likely to be a long campaign and his speech writer must get better. Taylor seems to be strong in the West and Piedmont but the East is a problem area. Taylor is a worrier and the campaign won't be perfect. This is something he'll have to learn to live with.

Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles. Strengths: One of his chief assets is that many North Carolina politicians underestimate his potential strength. He's a handsome man, makes a good talk, looks good on television, has the money to spend and is making every effort to surround himself with talented people. He will be strong in the Piedmont and might surprise some people in the East. Bowles has been through one gubernatorial campaign (with Sanford) and is willing to work hard to win. Sanford will be with him in a quiet sort of way.

Bowles Weaknesses: Will be considered too liberal by some. Appears to be having difficulty building a base in the West. He could have an image problem of rich boy wanting to be Governor. The current session of the legislature doesn't appear to have helped him much. He'll get no help from Gov. Scott. Might have trouble identifying with the "average" man.

Hugh Morton. Strengths: Has a sincerity of purpose that will wear well in a long campaign. Business leaders like and trust him. He too, has money and will be able to finance a campaign. Is not associated with any political machine. Can claim both East (Wilmington) and West (Linville) as home. Morton is respected by North Carolina press. Can also call on some good people to help him in a campaign. Distinguished looking and an expert organizer. Has served on Board of Conservation and Development.

Morton Weaknesses: Like Bowles, he might face the image problem of wealthy man wanting to be Governor. He hasn't run for elective office before and making the Governor's race his first step

A Not So Glorious Day

WASHINGTON — Let me come back one last time, at the risk of trying your patience, to this whole troublesome business of The New York Times, the Washington Post, the Pentagon Papers, and the Supreme Court's decision. Unhappily, there is less here than meets the eye.

On the afternoon of June 30, when word of the 6-3 verdict came chattering on the wire, newsmen and editors around the country erupted with jubilation. At least that was the reaction here, and on First Amendment freedoms, reporters hold about the same convictions everywhere. By 5 o'clock drinking time, we were toasting the glorious triumph.

After dinner, feeling comfortably rosy, we got around to reading the texts.

Well, it wasn't a glorious triumph. Our side won, but we didn't win much. We had hoped for something approaching the Aeropagitic—for a great opinion of truly Miltonian sweep. What we got from the Court as a court—and that is what counts—were three paragraphs of legalese and a terse "so ordered." We also got nine separate opinions, six concurring and three dissenting, but these were individual expressions and carry no precedential weight.

The one great point at issue was the power of the government to impose "prior restraint" on the press. This was the power the Nixon administration sought to exercise on Monday, June 14, when it rushed into court seeking to enjoin the Times from further publication of the Pentagon Papers. To those of us whose lives are bound up in a free press, the implicit peril of this suit instantly transcended the substance of the Vietnam disclosures themselves.

This is not easily explained. Newspapers are born with George Mason's great principle of free government embedded in the marrow of their bones: "That the freedom of the press is one of the great bulwarks of liberty, and can never be restrained but by despotic governments." That was the language of the Virginia Declaration of Rights in 1776, antedating the First Amendment by 13 years. To restrain the press—to prevent us from publishing—is to this day the despotism that cannot be tolerated and must be furiously resisted.

The government's action that Monday thus triggered a galvanic reaction. The leak

Other Editors Say Getting Involved

(Washington Daily News)

The American way all too often today seems to be that of offering criticism without offering better solutions.

We look at various boards which serve people, and we find men and women trying hard to serve their fellow citizens. So often they make great sacrifices to serve, and so often their service becomes a subject of great criticism among many people.

Objective criticism is wholesome, but when it comes, we ought to have something better to offer. It is ever so easy to criticize a local board of education or a local county commissioner group. In many actions we see directions taken which we might not like. But what would we do if we were sitting there in the making of the decision at hand?

In this matter of the board of education as it applies all over North Carolina, we find dedicated men and women serving sometimes under constant pressure and threats from the very public they seek to serve. So often, a course of action taken by a board of education is not really what the board wants to take but what the federal government says must be taken. There is really no other choice. But then some bystander will say "those fellows are crazy; they are going totally against the will of the people." It is much easier to criticize than it is to make the decision. Too much and too often we tend to shoot from the hip rather than get the necessary information upon which to base our opinions.

We say to ourselves "well, somebody has to serve in an unpopular position." And that is a true statement. But more and more over North Carolina today we are finding some public positions such as that of service upon a school board going begging. In some counties not enough candidates filed for school board to fill the positions being vacated. In that event it meant going out and trying to induce good people to run for this office.

We ought to take a good look at this matter of getting involved. We perhaps enjoy attending a football game, but somehow we shun the meetings of the PTA. We attend a fish fry given to announce some public project, but we never took the time to help work out the many details in advance which would make the public announcement possible.

Maybe we can pass it all off by saying "well, this is human nature." It might be exactly that. But it is also more. Criticism of itself is not enough.

Status Has Its Clues

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Are you on the escalator of success or the toboggan of failure? Now and then it is wise to make a self-checkup. But how can you tell for sure whether your life's star is brightening or fading? Well, some of the signs are pretty obvious.

For example, you can quit worrying about your status if— You have "his" and "her" tennis courts on your estate. The workmen digging a big-

During National Brotherhood Week you make it a policy always to invite the U.S. secretary of the Treasury to lunch and listen to his troubles.

If you stay home with a heavy cold for more than two days, the New York Stock Exchange falls five points—and you receive get-well cards from several hundred worried brokers.

You average an honorary degree from a different college every year, and the board of education in your old home town names a high school after you.

40 Years Ago Today

Within the walls of his 8,000 acre Pocantico Hills estate which oil millions built, John D. Rockefeller today observed his 92nd birthday.

It was revealed in a letter received recently by a family here that the Daily Reflector is appreciated by former Greenville people living in the nation's capital. Every day when J. J. Gilbert, a former Greenville resident, receives his paper he saves it for Mrs. Parks Crater, also a former Greenville resident. After absorbing the happenings of the Pitt County town, Mrs. Crater always consigns the paper to the wastebasket. One day she noticed that her maid always rescued the paper from the wastebasket and inquired why she did so. The woman replied that she was from Farmville, North Carolina and enjoyed reading about the activities of the people in that community. Thereafter, instead of the paper going to the wastebasket, it was saved for the resident of Farmville who likes to read about the happenings in her home town.

Strength For Today

ANTIQUITY
Archaeological discovery is not so important as some of the moral problems we are facing today. Why do we have war and how can we stop it? There are hungry people in the world (unfortunately many are in our own nation), and hungry mouths need to be filled. Medical science is working today to discover the cause and cure of cancer. Our educational system needs to be revamped so that everybody will get as much education as he is willing to work for. Transportation from continent to continent is more than just a scientific matter. It has to do with the coming together of nations and races to the ends of the earth.

Antiquity is important, if it teaches us knowledge that can be used to make our present life better, happier and more efficient.

Business Hangs On Computers

By ELMER ROESSNER
The damaging of 100 key computers could paralyze American business for months, Eugene Fuss, chief security engineer for Honeywell, told an American Management Association conference.

"So much marketing, production, investment and security information is packed into computers," the loss of 100 key ones in business, banking and government could "hamstring the American economy for months," he said. For many companies, computers and their tapes are their most valuable single asset, he added.

COMMENT: Perhaps Fuss shouldn't have tipped the Weathermen and others trying to disrupt the government to this fact.

However, as most people dealing with computers know, a single error can raise hob with a computer. Computers rarely err, but operators do. When an error is made, a supplier may not get paid for months or, as I have discovered, a magazine may stop coming.

Explosion Only A Pop
The Census Bureau on the basis of the last count reports that the average American family is composed of a husband, a wife and two children in their late teens. This is slightly smaller than families have only two children, we have reached Zero Population Growth, except for immigration. If we halted immigration and maintained the present fecundity, there would be plenty of room for all Americans in America for eternity.

Costlier Beef Or DES
The Department of Agriculture concludes that if diethylstilbestrol (DES) is prohibited in commercial cattle feeding, the retail price of beef may go up 3 1/2 cents a pound.

COMMENT: The use of DES has been criticized on the grounds that it may enter the flesh of cattle and thus be transmitted to humans with effects not yet fully determined. It would seem wise to forbid DES until consequences are determined. Since DES is a growth stimulant, it may result in producing a race of basketball players. And in stimulating growth, it would increase demands for proteins and that could push up the price of meat more than 3 1/2 cents a pound.

DES or not, the price of meat will go up more than 3 1/2 cents a pound anyway. Wait and see.

Seen Through A Glass Darkly
"It is clear at midyear that the pace of economic activity continues to strengthen," says a release from the Department of Commerce.

COMMENT: Clear? Unemployment appears to be rising, worsened by layoffs at Bethlehem, Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet because of shortages of orders; layoffs of 1,400 men announced by General Electric for its Freemont, Calif., plant; threatening strikes in copper; strikes against Union Pacific, Chicago and North Western and Southern Railways, and a walkout of 15,000 West Coast longshoremen.

Advance reports are that corporations' second-quarter earnings will be better than first quarter, not because of increased sales but because of firings and cuts in services.

And over it all hangs the threat of a steel strike in less than a month. Is that clarity?

Scott 'Committed' To Acquiring Bald Head Island

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says he is firmly committed to acquiring Bald Head Island for public use despite Senate-approved legislation encouraging private development of the subtropical sand and marshland complex.

Scott has called publicly for state efforts to condemn or purchase the 12,000-acre island system in the mouth of the Cape Fear River to preserve its ecology and its natural resources.

Nevertheless, the Scott administration made only a token effort to block a proposal by Sen. Bunn Frink, D-Brunswick, that prohibits state condemnation of Bald Head.

"The administration is very definitely still interested and still has every intention of acquiring Bald Head, or Smith Island as it should be called, for public use," Scott said Wednesday.

Scott said "there was no need to oppose" Frink's bill because the senator "had the votes locked up to get it out of the Senate." The Frink measure is now in the hands of the House Calendar Committee.

Scott, in response to questions from the Associated Press, declined to say how he planned to acquire Bald Head. "There is another way we're going about this which I'm not prepared to reveal at this time. I think you'll see evidence of it when the time comes," Scott said.

Frink expressed surprise at Scott's firm commitment to his plan to acquire Bald Head.

"I waited four months for him to make some effort to acquire Bald Head and nothing was done. I felt it was time for something to be done, and that's why I introduced my bill," Frink said. "I hope he (Scott) will not interfere with it now."

Bald Head is in Frink's senatorial district. The 72-year-old Democrat has lived within a few miles of the island most of his life.

"It will be the most wonderful place in the world for an FORD STOCKHOLDERS DETROIT (UPI) — RD Motor Co. has 372,500 stockholders, about 3 per cent fewer than the 384,000 a year ago.

all-year-round resort, and we need that," Frink said. He added some type of development is needed, by the state or by a private developer, to preserve the island.

"I know that marine life is being killed daily by the pollution. I know that if something isn't done it's going to kill itself. The creeks are stopping up daily," he said. "It's time somebody does something about it. I hope the state doesn't try to stop my effort."

The Carolina Cape Fear Corp., headed by High Point business executive William R. Henderson, owns the Bald Head complex. Henderson has announced plans to develop it on a push, subtropical resort that eventually would accommodate 60,000 persons.

Lying just off shore from Southport on North Carolina's southern coast, Bald Head consists of three islands and some 9,000 acres of marshland. Scott and the state have claimed title to the marshlands.

Frink said Henderson told him last week that, if the legislation now before the House becomes law, "the corporation would convey to the state all right, title and interest it had in any of the marshlands."

Two years ago he received the promise of a $5 million loan from Nature Conservancy, a Washington-based organization that helps governments finance ecological projects, but that effort was halted when Carolina

Cape Fear Corp. obtained control of Bald Head. Scott, himself, ruled out the immediate use of state money, comparing the Bald Head effort to that to obtain money for a proposed state zoo. "It just ain't there," he said.

There was no indication what alternative Scott was considering to acquire Bald Head by the state.

became a hemorrhage. The Times and the Post fought back. An epic confrontation thundered toward resolution. And we hoped, as I say, that the high court would resolve it with an epic opinion.

Not so. A close reading of the individual opinions reveals that six of the nine justices, given a sharper set of facts and a stronger statutory law, might very well go along with the despotism we so abhor. Burger, Blackmun and Harlan dissented outright from last week's decision. Marshall went to pains to say that "in some situations," prior restraint may be imposed. White and Stewart agreed that there might be "circumstances" that would "permit an injunction against publishing information about government plans or operations."

We wind up with flat champagne. If Mr. Justice Brennan had been able to muster four colleagues in support of his separate concurring opinion, we might have had something. Brennan has served on the Court for 15 years. This was his finest hour.

"The error which has pervaded these cases from the outset," he wrote, "was the granting of any injunctive relief whatsoever, interim or otherwise... The First Amendment tolerates absolutely no prior judicial restraints of the press predicated upon surmise or conjecture that untoward consequences may result."

But that was not the Court speaking; that was Brennan speaking. What emerges from the crisis is a decision that surely is useful, but is very loosely binding. The facts were bad, as everyone recognized. By the time the Court spoke, the formerly top secret papers had circulated like fire sale fliers. Plainly, the bulk of the papers were not all that top secret anyhow. The applicable statute, Title 18, Section 793 (e), turned out to be so much cream of wheat. The Court was tired; it was time to go home. Sic transit gloria Monday. We should have had something better to drink to.

Stassen Says Nixon Favored Intervention

HAROLD STASSEN in an interview says Richard Nixon urged American military intervention in Indochina in the spring of 1954. (AP Wirephoto)

By D. STEVEN RUTKUS Associated Press Writer PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harold Stassen, an adviser in the Eisenhower administration, says President Eisenhower decided by the early summer of 1954 never to intervene militarily in Indochina, despite the urging of his vice president, Richard M. Nixon, to do so.

According to Stassen, Nixon had urged Eisenhower during top level conferences in the spring of 1954 to send American ground troops into Indochina. Nixon made headlines in April 1954 when he told an off-the-record meeting of editors that American forces should be used to save Indochina in what he said was the unlikely event that the French pulled out.

Stassen, director of the Mutual Security Administration and later the Foreign Operations Administration in 1953-55, attended weekly meetings of the National Security Council. A four-time candidate for the Republican presidential nomination and former governor of Minnesota, Stassen gave his views during an interview requested by a newsman. On related subjects, Stassen said: —Eisenhower had hinted it was solely the disapproval of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that prevented the United States from granting diplomatic recognition to North Vietnam after the Geneva Conference in 1954.

—Eisenhower, despite the contrary reports of the secret Pentagon study of the Indochina war, favored internationally supervised elections in North and South Vietnam. —The basic fault of the Pentagon study is that it "confuses the views of Nixon, Dulles and Radford"—Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—with the policy decisions of Eisenhower. Stassen said Nixon, Dulles and Radford wanted "the president to approve a U.S. combat mission" in Vietnam. In April 1954, Stassen said, the three backed military proposals in the National Security Council that included "the sending of air, navy and ground combat forces."

4th Robbery In Ten Days

CHARLOTTE (AP) — An 86-year-old Charlotte man was robbed Wednesday for the fourth time in 10 days.

Grocer C. Clary had been beaten and robbed in his house only the day before, and twice last week burglars broke into his home. Wednesday's incident had a different ending. A roomer heard the victim call for help, rushed downstairs and fired a pistol at the young assailants. Police said one youth was found wounded several blocks away a short time later. He was hospitalized under arrest. Five others, three of them juveniles, were also held on charges of robbing Clary on three of the occasions.

Clary, a retired barber, said he was dozing on his screened, locked porch Wednesday when some youths broke in and hit him. Before fleeing they got "every dime I had," Clary said.

The shots that chased the youngsters away were fired by L. A. Knight, 72. Clary also had a gun with him but was unable to use it because he had not been able to find his bullets.

He said he's thinking of moving in with relatives.

New Protection Provided For Tar Heel Consumers

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Tar Heel consumers who buy goods and services on credit now have some new tools to protect themselves from fraud, unfair practices and shoddy merchandise.

The General Assembly Wednesday enacted into law a bill by Rep. Richard Clark, D-Union, designed to put the buyer on an equal footing with the seller in installment sales transactions. The bill will take effect Jan. 1.

For the first time: —Merchants will be limited in the finance charges they can add to a credit purchase.

—Banks and finance companies which buy credit contracts from merchants will no longer be able to disclaim responsibility for the quality of goods and services bought under the contracts.

—Housewives will have three days in which to change their minds about installment contracts signed with door-to-door salesmen.

—A furniture, appliance or car dealer will no longer be able to take a mortgage on a home or other real property to provide security for an installment sale of consumer goods.

—A person who purchases many items over a long period of time from a merchant on the same credit contract does not have to fear that all the goods will be repossessed if he misses some payments.

—Courts will have the right to void "unconscionable" contracts—those that would be "totally unreasonable" to any person of average intelligence.

—The law will outlaw referral sales, limit balloon payments and regulate insurance, deferral and default charges, consolidation and refinancing fees, rebates for prepayment, length of payment terms and most other practices involved in credit sales.

The law will not apply to bank or department store credit cards and revolving charge accounts, which are already limited to a maximum annual interest of 18 per cent.

In all other installment sales of goods or services, the highest rate that can be charged will be 22 per cent per year where the amount financed is less than $1,500; 20 per cent where it is less than $2,000; 18 per cent where it is less than $3,000; 16 per cent where it is less than $5,000; and 14 per cent where it is $5,000 or more.

The amount financed is the amount left to pay after the downpayment or any trade-in is subtracted from the selling price.

An exception to the rates is any credit contract secured by a mortgage on a home or other real property, such as a contract for home improvement work. In these transactions, the finance charge could not exceed 12 per cent.

The only other exception will be for used cars three or more years old where the amount financed does not exceed $1,500. A finance charge of up to 29 per cent can be added, provided the contract is not to be paid off in less than six installments.

The new law will also limit what Clark and other consumer advocates consider one of the most vicious of all credit practices—the "holder in due course."

The holder or assignee is the third party which provides financial backing for merchants by buying their credit contracts at a percentage of the contracts' full collectable value. This gives the merchant immediate capital and gives the bank or finance company a long-term profit.

The abuse comes in a phrase inserted in the fine print of almost all installment contracts: "We agree not to assert against any assignee hereof any claim or defense which we may have against the seller." This means that the buyer agrees to pay the contract in full no matter what, whether the goods are shoddy or the services are never performed.

Under the new law, any installment contract backed by a mortgage on a home or land may not include a clause like that, and if it does, the clause is invalid.

Take the case of a couple who signs a contract to have aluminum siding put on their home and agree to put their home up as security. The work is poorly done, and the fly-by-night contractor can't be found to fix it. The couple stops making payments.

Then a notice arrives from an out-of-state finance company saying that it now owns the contract and if the couple doesn't pay, it will foreclose on their home. Under current law, the couple has no legal recourse.

Under Clark's bill, the holder of the contract will be fully responsible for upholding the original seller's end of the deal. The "holder in due course" practice was not eliminated as completely in sales of consumer goods. If a person buys a car and finds it is a lemon, he has only 30 days from the time the contract is sold to a third party to notify that assignee that he is asserting a claim against the holder of the contract.

After that period, the person must continue payments whether the seller's end of the contract is ever fulfilled or not. The bank or finance company must notify the buyer that it has bought the contract and that he has only 30 days to assert defenses.

However, defenses are never waived for "fraud in the inducement"—such as when a used car dealer says the car has a 1963 engine and 60 days later the buyer discovers it is really a 1959 engine.

Another major portion of the bill is the so-called "first-in-first-out" provision. If a person keeps buying furniture and appliances from the same store over a long period of time, adding all items on to the old installment contract, he can now lose everything if he fails to make a payment, no matter how much he has already paid.

The new law provides that in case of a default or a repossession, the merchant must apply the amount already paid on the contract on a pro rata basis to the items purchased, so that the consumer is allowed to keep merchandise of a value equal to what he has already paid on the contract.

Another feature of the law provides that a person may cancel in writing within three days any installment contract signed with a door-to-door salesman who comes to his home uninvited. This does not apply to sales of motor vehicles, farm equipment or furnishings.

A buyer who has not received the goods or services contracted for in such a sale within 30 days will also have the right to cancel the contract and receive a refund of all payments.

Backers Hunt

By James Hunt

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 34-year-old Wilson attorney, James B. Hunt, said in Charlotte Wednesday he'll announce before the end of the month whether he will run for lieutenant governor next year.

Hunt was in Charlotte to sound out support for his candidacy. He is a 34-year-old Democratic official.

in the fine print of contracts will also be prohibited, such as "confession of judgement" and "disclaimer of warranty." A confession of judgement clause means that the person who signs the contract agrees in advance that if he ever for any reason doesn't make his payment on time, any court is authorized to attach his property to satisfy the debt without giving him a chance to present a defense.

A disclaimer of warrants is a contract provision modifying or taking away an express warranty given by the seller to the buyer.

A consumer who goes to court against a merchant or seller for violations under the new law will be able to get the court to assign his attorney's fees to the seller if the court rules in favor of the consumer.

Tries, Fails To Stir Discussion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., pointing to a former ambassador's testimony of validating bomb targets, has failed to draw a top State Department witness into discussing air strikes in Laos.

"I'm not an expert on Laos, and if you want to use TV time to belabor the State Department on that, do it with a witness who is qualified to talk about," Deputy Undersecretary of State William Macomber Jr. told McCloskey at a House hearing Wednesday.

The exchange took place shortly after the House killed 261 to 118, a McCloskey resolution that would have directed the secretary of state to supply the House with information on U.S. operations in Laos.

McCloskey, who has accused President Nixon of doubling the bombing in Laos, said William Sullivan, ex-ambassador to Laos, has told the Senate refugees subcommittee of validating targets and that some villages had been struck in error.

McCloskey quoted Sullivan as saying "it took all my time" to work on such U.S. bombing matters.

When McCloskey, questioning Macomber at a hearing on government document-secrecy practices, started asking whether U.S. ambassadors control air strikes, the State Department witness replied: "I'm not any expert on Laos, I'm not going to get into discussions on that."

"I don't happen to be an expert on what's going on in Laos, I came here to answer questions on classification," Macomber said. There are specialists, he added, who "will be glad to talk to you about that."

Pressed by McCloskey, Macomber fired back: "The State Department is not bombing villages in Northern Laos."

McCloskey asked: "Don't they validate all targets?"

When Macomber again said he was no expert, Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., broke in to say it "is out of order to question him on this if he is not prepared to testify."

Diploma For 79-Year-Old

EDGEFIELD, S.C. (AP) — It took Thomas Reardon of the Pleasant Lane section of Edgefield County four years to get his high school diploma — at the age of 79.

He recently received it in the bedroom of his home, illness having prevented him from attending ceremonies at the Pleasant Lane School where he had gone through the 10th grade in the early 1900s.

"This is something I am real proud of," he said.

He started over, again four years ago at the same school, but this time in night classes for adults. He had the full encouragement of Mrs. Reardon, 70, and their nine children, all of whom have completed high school, and four of whom have college degrees.

The Reardons live in a log cabin on a 100-acre tract of land that he farmed until a few years ago.

Mrs. Hattie Ruth Waldo, a daughter who teaches in the county, said family reunions once or twice a year were "a great influence on father in deciding to go back to school."

He did his homework by the light from a bare, 40-watt bulb over a table.

"I'd go to bed and leave him there alone at the table," Mrs. Reardon says. "He wouldn't go to bed until that homework was finished."

She said she didn't think he would finish the course, but now that he has, "I think it's just wonderful."

Blooming Sino-British Relations On Shaky Footing

By WILLIAM F. WRIGHT
LONDON (UPI)—Confucius wrote "when a flower blooms, contemplate the beauty of nature, dwell not on its mystery."

The ancient philosopher's advice can easily apply to the British as they contemplate their blooming relations with Communist China and the inscrutable smiles of her leaders.

In Peking Chinese workers have completely rebuilt, without charge, the inside of the British mission, gutted and ransacked in 1967 by Red Guards who beat the then charge d'affaires, Donald Hopson, and his staff.

Yellow flowers now decorate the front of the red brick building on Glorious China Street (Kuan Hua Lu) in the old diplomatic quarter of the former Forbidden City and Chinese trade officials call frequently at the red front door.

British journalists stroll through Peking where almost four years ago Red Guards forced British correspondent Anthony Grey to kowtow painfully before them, killed his cat, Ming Ming, dangled its body before him and placed him in solitary confinement in his home. Grey was released more than two years later.

In London the Chinese charge d'affaires, Pei Tsien-Chang, frequently entertains British officials at his residence near Regents Park, where members of his mission attacked police with axes and clubs four years ago.

Philippines Try To Save Giant Eagles

DAVAO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Charles Lindbergh gazed into the cage in admiration of the proud eagle that stared imperiously back at him.

"A magnificent bird," Lindbergh said softly. "Let's hope it can be saved."

This was a monkey-eating eagle, a vanishing species of which myths have been made. It is the largest eagle in the world and the most fierce.

Hopefully, this young eagle-raised amid the din of Davao City's 720,000 population and handfed raw meat and vitamin capsules—would be able to help save the species by going back into the wilderness.

Less than 50 of the birds are known in the world—all in the Philippines—and if hunters continue to kill at the rate of recent years, the species could become extinct by 1975.

The monkey-eating eagle has been shot down, sometimes out of fear, but usually so its great body could be mounted as a trophy: the wings spread to their full 10 feet, the inch-long talons dug into a log, the dark round eyes made to glisten unblinkingly above the sharply curving beak.

Surveys in the 1960s showed the birds were being killed at a rate of 19.6 a year, says Jesus Alvarez, director of the Philippines Park and Wildlife Commission.

But two years ago, Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos took a strong stand to protect the bird. With famous pilot and conservationist Lindbergh lending inspiration and his prestigious name, Marcos decreed that killing or trapping the eagle was forbidden and punishable by law.

Now 20 pairs of the eagles are known in Mindanao, the Philippines' rugged southern island, and two others pairs are in the Sierra Madre Mountains of Luzon.

Stopping the slaughter of the birds, however, was feared inadequate to ensure their preservation, because they had dwindled to so few. "Finding a mate is the eagles' main problem," Alvarez said. "They take one mate for life and produce just one egg a year. Incidentally they mate in the air at about 2,000 feet. Just about everything they do is spectacular."

As Lindbergh and Alvarez watched, the caged eagle in Davao emitted a series of low cries, arched its wings and made a floating leap to a table at the opposite end of its 20-foot-long cage.

Only 16 months old, about halfway to maturity, the bird's tawny brown body already measures two feet from head to tail feathers and its wings span six feet.

It had been recovered from a nest high in a tree after a professional hunter killed its mother as she tried to avoid a volley of gunfire to reach her 6-week-old fledgling.

Pei, clad in a Mao tunic instead of traditional top hat and tails, recently attended England's fashionable Ascot turf-classic, sitting in the royal enclosure with Queen Elizabeth and other diplomats. His government cabled greetings to the queen on her official birthday earlier this month.

In Hong Kong eight British soldiers who strayed over the frontier May 19 were wined and dined by the Chinese Communists and released the same day.

"Two years ago God knows how long they would have been held," a British official said.

Lavish hospitality greeted British table tennis players when they visited Communist China in May in the first flush of Peking's ping-pong diplomacy.

Trade between the two countries is picking up, raising Britain's hopes of regaining more of the lucrative commerce it enjoyed as the dominant foreign power in China in the 18th Century.

British officials forecast that exports to China this year will exceed the 44 million pounds ($105.6 million) worth of goods shipped in 1970. British salesmen are pressing Peking to buy British airliners instead of American commercial jets.

For all the new-found friendship, Britain's diplomatic ties with Red China remain on a shaky footing.

On Jan. 6, 1949, Britain formally recognized the People's Republic of China on grounds that the Communists controlled the mainland.

But British hopes of protecting their vast commercial interests in China quickly died. British businesses there closed and Britons left the mainland in droves. Today only a handful of Britons reside permanently in China, including four in prison.

Not until 1954, after the Korean War, did Red China finally agree to open a mission in London under a charge d'affaires.

Britain has supported Communist China's admission to the United Nations and the expulsion of Nationalist China from the world body.

Yet the Chinese Communists have rebuffed British overtures to establish relations at the ambassadorial level and, in fact, technically regard British diplomats in Peking as representatives who are there only to negotiate ambassadorial ties when Peking feels the "time is ripe."

What rankles the Chinese Communists is what they say is the British duplicity of "raising one hand only to knock it down with the other" in maintaining a consulate in Formosa. London insists this does not imply recognition of Nationalist China.

"If this obstacle is removed,"

Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai said in an interview in 1960, "Sino-British relations will improve at once and trade and cultural exchanges between the two countries will also develop."

Diplomatic sources, arguing that London has maintained a consulate in Formosa since 1860, say it will probably remain there.

Another stumbling block is Hong Kong.

Peking maintains that the prosperous Crown Colony is "one of the subjects to be discussed" in any negotiations leading to ambassadorial relations.

Red China has never formally laid claim to the colony but neither does Peking recognize the 1841 treaty under which Britain obtained a lease in perpetuity of Hong Kong Island, nor the 1898 convention giving Britain a 99-year lease over the colony's mainland "new territories."

British officials concede that Hong Kong could not be defended against direct attack from China nor could Britain recover it if it were lost. Yet British officials appear outwardly confident that Peking will continue to tolerate the colony on grounds that it remains the principal single source of China's foreign exchange earnings, and that it will heed another Confucian proverb:

"Let the dragon not bite the hand that feeds it."

POWER FAILURE . . . Malcolm Green, assistant director of the Greenville Utilities Commission holds broken insulator and new one to compare damage caused by lightning. The insulator held a 34,000 volt transmission line and was blown apart by lightning bolt. (Reflector Staff Writer)

Insulator Was Struck By Bolt

An estimated 1,200 Greenville Utilities Commission electric customers as well as East Carolina University, Winterville and Ayden consumers were without power for some time yesterday when lightning struck a utility pole supporting primary transmission lines, near the Ayden Sub-station.

According to Malcolm Green, assistant director of the utilities commission, power to ECU, the Hollywood Substation, Winterville and Ayden was interrupted when the lightning bolt struck a pole a half-mile North of the Ayden substation on N.C. 11 about 4:45 or 4:50 p.m.

The lightning bolt destroyed an insulator on a 34,000 volt line and burned away a five-foot long section of the primary transmission line.

Power to ECU and the area served by the Hollywood Substation was restored in about 35 minutes while power to Winterville and Ayden was out for about 80 minutes.

The Bastille was destroyed July 14, 1789.

James Earl Ray May 'Mingle'

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — Brushy Mountain State Prison officials say James Earl Ray, the confessed slayer of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., is free to mingle with other inmates of the maximum security facility.

They said Wednesday that the 40-year-old Ray, serving a 99-year sentence for the murder of King, "will be allowed the same privileges as other prisoners." Since his arrest in London in June 1968 Ray has been kept in isolation under tight security.

Ray has petitioned both state and federal courts for a new trial, without success, on grounds his guilty plea to the sniper slaying was entered under pressure from his attorneys.

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston's tentative budget for the new fiscal year was revealed at the meeting of the Town Board on Tuesday to be approximately $700,000. This represents an increase of about $30,000 over last year's budget. The tax rate was set at $1.86 per $100 valuation, the same as last year. Included in the increased budget is a general salary increase of five percent for city employees.

Charles Bagley, representing about 35 businessmen, presented a petition requesting the town board member to rescind or repeal the recently enacted ordinance requiring privilege licenses. Board members voted against changing the ordinance, but noted that adjustments on rates would be studied from time-to-time.

Department heads were named for the next two years. These are: Town attorney, Danny Manning; Town Administrator-Clerk-Treasurer, J. B. Godwin; Tax Collector, King Leggett; Superintendent of Water-Sewer-Street Department, R. F. Gurganus; Superintendent of Sanitation, H. T. Daniels; Chief of Police, John L. Swain; Chief of Fire Department, James W. Thrower; Zoning Administrator, Edward Beach; Administrative Assistant, Mrs. Nan Boykin.

Tax refunds to two firms, one in the amount of $781 and the other for $2,819, were approved. A request was received from Kerr-McGee Chemical Corporation, located near the Roanoke River bridge, for a sewer line to be run to the plant. The firm now had to dump waste into the river, and wants to be placed on the town's sewer system. Rivers and Associates of Greenville has estimated the cost of extension to be about $34,000. The board asked the Water, Sewer and Street committee to study the request and to meet with officials of the firm.

Cherry, Riggs To Head Staffs For 1971 Boys Home All-Star Game, Set August 7

Dick Cherry

Jim Boyette

Dave Riggs

Jerry McGuire

Four of the state's most outstanding high school coaches have been selected to coach the North and South teams in the Ninth Annual Boys Home All-Star Game on August 7. The annual football classic is sponsored by the North Carolina Jaycees with proceeds going to Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw. The coaches are selected on the basis of their record, ability and sportsmanship.

Dick Cherry of Washington High School will head the South team while Dave Riggs of Raleigh's Needham Broughton High will direct the North squad.

In his four seasons at Washington, Cherry's teams have posted a 23-15-2 record including a 7-3 mark in 1969 and an outstanding 8-2 record last year. Cherry will be assisted by Jim Boyette, the fine young mentor of Seventy-First in Fayetteville.

Riggs brings a dynamic first year record into the game, won last year by the South 27-18. The former Carolina star coached Broughton to the state 4A title in his first season as head coach. Riggs' assistant for the game will be Jerry McGuire of West Wilkes High.

Doug Mewborn of Greenville, chairman for the game stated that with the very fine coaches selected for this year's game, it should be a most exciting one. "We are most honored," he said, "to have such outstanding coaches participating in our game."

Vida Blue Heads American Loop Pitchers; Jim Perry Is Chosen

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Vida Blue, the Oakland Athletics' brilliant young southpaw, heads a nine-man pitching staff named by Baltimore manager Earl Weaver today to the American League All-Star team.

Weaver picked two of his aces, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer, and one pitcher each from seven other clubs for the 42nd All-Star Game with the National League next Tuesday in Detroit.

Leading the American League for the second consecutive year as manager of the champion Orioles, Weaver again ignored relief specialists, naming nine regular starters.

His failure to pick a couple of top relievers was blamed by many observers last year for the American League's eighth loss in a row, 5-4 in 12 innings.

Chosen with Blue, Cuellar and Palmer were Mickey Lol-ich of the Detroit Tigers, Sam McDowell of the Cleveland Indians, Sonny Siebert of the Boston Red Sox, Jim Perry of the Minnesota Twins, Andy Messersmith of the California Angels and Marty Pattin of the Milwaukee Brewers.

McDowell, however, has been sidelined with arm difficulties, and there were indications that Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark would ask Weaver to replace him.

Blue, Cuellar, Lolich and McDowell are left-handers with a combined record of 50 victories and 17 losses this season in games through Tuesday.

Palmer, Siebert, Perry, Messersmith and Pattin are right-handers with a 48-32 record.

Earning All-Star honors in his first full season with Oakland, the 21-year-old Blue seems well on the way to the charmed 30-victory mark with a fabulous 17-3 record.

Cuellar, who pitched in the All-Star Game for the National League while with Houston in 1967, was named to the AL squad for the second time. He has won 12 of 13 decisions for the Orioles this season.

McDowell was chosen for the sixth time despite an 8-7 record. Perry, a 24-game winner en route to the Cy Young Award in 1970, was picked for the third time. He has a 12-7 mark.

Lolich, 13-6; Palmer, 10-4; and Siebert, 12-4, were named for the second time. It will be the first appearance for both Messersmith, 7-8 and Pattin, 7-9.

With starters voted by fans,

Baltimore is assured of four representatives in the midsummer classic.

Joining Cuellar and Palmer will be third baseman Brooks Robinson and outfielder Frank Robinson.

First baseman Boog Powell was voted to the team but had to withdraw because of a wrist injury Wednesday. Powell was replaced by Detroit's Norm Cash.

Eleven reserves will be named by Weaver to round out the 28-player squad. Each of the league's 12 teams must be represented by at least one player.

Teams Hold To Church Chances

Immanuel and Meadowbrook kept their chances alive in the Church Softball League with wins last night. Immanuel nipped Oakmont, 5-2, while Meadowbrook downed First Christian, 17-2. In other games, Mt. Pleasant nipped Piney Grove, 10-9, and Presbyterian beat Belvoir, 22-7.

In the American Division, St. James leads the league with a 15-2 mark, with Meadowbrook right on their heels, 16-3. The two are the only ones in contention for the title. Following them in the division, the final position already set, are Presbyterian, 13-5; Belvoir, 8-11; Christian, 6-13; St. Gabriel, 4-14; and Trinity 2-15.

Grace leads the National Division with a 12-7 mark, while Immanuel, 10-7, can at best, tie them. They are followed by Mt. Pleasant, 10-8; Oakmont, 10-9; Black Jack and Piney Grove, 9-9; and Maranatha, 3-15.

Immanuel pushed ahead in its game in the second inning, scoring a pair of runs. Charles Camp singled and Sandy McIver got a hit. They came around to score on a hit by Butch Ricks for a 2-0 lead.

Immanuel then added one in the fourth and two in the fifth. Oakmont scored one each in the fourth and fifth.

Presbyterian pushed ahead with four runs in the first inning. Brazel Moore singled and Bill Glidewell doubled. Don Owen doubled and Larry Graham tripled. Graham came in on an out for the 4-0 lead.

Presbyterian then added seven in the second, three in the third, three in the fourth on Boyd Lee's homer, two in the fifth and three in the sixth. Belvoir scored one in the first, one in the second two in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Meadowbrook also moved into the lead in the first, scoring all they needed, five runs. Gordon Bunting singled and Linwood Owens got a hit. Bob Harris singled and Dwight Foster got a hit. Wayne Nelson doubled and scored the fifth run on Vic Wade's hit.

Meadowbrook added three in the third, three in the fourth on homers by Bunting and Harris, and got six more in the fifth with Carl Powell homering. Christian scored two runs in the second.

In the final game, Piney Grove pushed over two in the first as Dickie Allen homered, but Mt. Pleasant scored three in the bottom of the first. Piney Grove tied it up with one in the second, but Mt. Pleasant matched that in the bottom of the frame for a 4-3 lead. Piney Grove tied it again with another in the third, but Mt. Pleasant moved back ahead with two in the third, 6-4.

Piney Grove came up with three in the sixth to take a 7-6 lead, but Mt. Pleasant tied it with one in the bottom of the inning. Both teams pushed over two runs in the seventh, leading it in a 9-9 tie.

Then, in the eighth, Buddy Teel led off with a single for Mt. Pleasant and Travis Daughtry got a hit. Alton Jones reached on interference to load the bases and Poe Worthington hit a sacrifice fly to drive in Teel with the game-winning run.

The Church League is scheduled to wind up its regular season with games tonight and Friday.

Graniteers Win Opening Contest

The Graniteers, out to defend the City Little League title they won last year, got off to a good start yesterday with an 8-0 victory over the Optimists.

The Graniteers got a three-hitter out of pitcher Joel Clark, who hurled a no-hitter against Integon in his last outing.

The Tar Heel league champs jumped into the lead in the third inning, scoring two runs. Kevin Haut walked and Howard Vainright reached on a fielder's choice. Jay Chenier walked, loading the bases. Clark then virtually won his own game with a double that drove in Haut and Vainright.

It stayed 2-0 until the sixth, when the Graniteers exploded for six more runs to put the game out of reach for the Optimists. Tim Allen walked and moved up on an infield out. A passed ball moved him to third and Haut walked and stole second. Vainright singled to score Allen and Chenier walked. Clark reached on an error, scoring Haut and Vainright. Steve Manning singled to score Chenier and Clark, and errors allowed Manning to come the rest of the way around with the final run.

Clark, in his three-hitter, didn't allow a hit until the fourth inning. The other tow came in the fifth. He struck out 11 and walked two during the game.

The second game of the best-of-three series is slated for this afternoon at 6 p.m. at Elm Street Park. A Graniteer win would wrap it up while an Optimist victory would send it into a final game on Friday.

Humiliated Giants Gain Ground

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Willie? No, he won't.
So Willie Mays was lifted for a pinch-hitter for the first time in his illustrious career with the San Francisco Giants.

Rookie Ed Goodson struck out for Mays—but it didn't matter because the back-peddaling Giants were enroute to an 18-4 humiliation by the Houston Astros Wednesday.

"You can't expect one man to carry you for 162 games," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox after lifting Mays in the fifth inning with the Giants trailing 12-3.

Mays, the Giants' best clutch hitter since coming up in 1951, had never left a regular season game for a pinch-hitter, according to a team spokesman.

San Francisco's 40-year-old wonder player, the National League's starting centerfielder in next Tuesday's All-Star game, had a single in two at-bats before leaving the game. After a hot start this season, Mays has slipped to a .288 batting average and has just five hits and one run batted in during the last 13 games.

Despite the loss, the Giants gained ground on runnerup Los Angeles in the National League West as the Dodgers dropped a two-night doubleheader, 6-5 and 4-3 to the Chicago Cubs. San Francisco, which has lost nine of its last 12 games, now leads Los Angeles by four games.

The Montreal Expos rocked the New York Mets 12-7; the Pittsburgh Pirates clouted the Cincinnati Reds 9-3; the Atlanta Braves stopped the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2 and the San Diego Padres turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 in the National League's other games.

American League scores: Baltimore 4, Washington 0; New York 5, Detroit 3 in 11 innings; Chicago 2, Oakland 1; Milwaukee 8, Kansas City 2; California 3, Minnesota 1; Boston 4, Cleveland 0 in the first game and Cleveland 4, Boston 3 in the second game of a two-night doubleheader.

While Mays made news by sitting out, the Astros made hay against the San Francisco pitching staff with a 10-run, fourth-inning explosion and a six-run sixth.

Cesar Cedeño singled and smacked a two-run double in the fourth and slugged a two-run double in the sixth as the Astros poked 17 hits. The run production established a club record and every Houston starter except pitcher Larry Dierker had at least one hit, one run scored and one run batted in.

Jim Hickman drove in four runs with a three-run homer and single and Phil Regan provided ninth-inning relief help as Chicago beat Los Angeles in the first game. Hickman's bat helped build a 6-1 lead, but the Dodgers came back with a four-run ninth before Regan cut the rally short.

Billy Williams socked a two-run homer and reliever Oray Newman cut down a late Los Angeles uprising to give the Cubs their second-game victory. Williams' shot in the fifth inning gave the Cubs a 4-0 lead and their eventual winning margin. Veteran Juan Pizarro, pitching in his first major league game this year, walked two men with two out in the eighth before Newman came on to preserve the southpaw's victory.

Pitcher Carl Morton drove in two runs with a single and a home run as Montreal handed tailspinning New York its seventh loss in eight games. The Mets, who dropped 6½ games behind front-running Pittsburgh in the East, contributed two errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball to Montreal's attack.

Gene Alley's two-run single highlighted a five-run first inning for Pittsburgh as the Pirates took their third straight game and saddled Cincinnati with its sixth consecutive loss. Roberto Clemente had a double and two singles for the Pirates, giving him 2,804 career hits and moving him into a tie with Zack Wheat for 10th place on the all-time National League list.

Rookie Earl Williams ripped two home runs and Ron Reed pitched a four-hitter for Atlanta. Williams delivered a score-tying solo shot in the second inning, then blasted a two-run homer in the fourth to break a 2-2 deadlock and put the Braves in front for good.

Clay Kirby fired a three-hitter and batterymate Fred Kendall put San Diego ahead to stay with his first major league homer as the Padres turned back St. Louis ace Boo Gibson, who lost his eighth game in 13 decisions.

Dobson Takes Fourth Straight For Birds

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pat Dobson's winning streak has reached six games and where it will stop nobody knows. In fact, Dobson thinks it may never end.

After stopping Washington 4-0 with a four-hitter Wednesday night, the 29-year-old right-hander of the Baltimore Orioles was asked how many he should win in the second half of the season.

"All of them, the way I'm pitching," was the reply.

If Dobson wins his next start on Sunday, he'll join the Big Three of the Orioles' pitching staff—Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer—as double-figure winners at the All-Star break.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston blanked Cleveland 4-0 on Ray Culp's two-hitter but the Indians took the nightcap 4-3, the New York Yankees beat Detroit 5-3 in 11 innings, the Chicago White Sox nipped Oakland 2-1, Milwaukee trounced Kansas City 8-2 and California downed Minnesota 3-1.

In the National League, Houston mauled San Francisco 18-4, the Chicago Cubs took two from Los Angeles 6-5 and 4-3, Pittsburgh trimmed Cincinnati 9-3, Montreal outslugged the New York Mets 12-7, Atlanta defeated Philadelphia 4-2 and San Diego whipped St. Louis 4-1.

The only trouble Dobson had with the Senators came in the seventh when he retired Tom McCraw and Del Unser with runners at second and third and one out. Frank Robinson had four hits for the Orioles, including his 12th home run.

The Red Sox fell three games behind Baltimore in the AL East when Cleveland pounded Luis Tiant for four runs in the first inning of the nightcap, including Chuck Hinton's three-run homer, and held on.

In the opener, Carl Yastrzemski slammed a three-run homer in the first inning and Culp held the Indians hitless until Graig Nettles singled in the sixth. Reggie Smith homered in the ninth for Boston.

Bobby Murcer's fourth hit, a two-run double with two out in the 11th inning, enabled the Yankees to beat the Tigers. Horace Clarke singled off Bill Denehy with two away and Thurman Munson walked before Murcer came through with his first four-hit game in the majors.

Three of Murcer's hits were doubles, including one in the first inning when the Yanks raked Mike Kilkenny for three runs. A pair of homers by Bill Freehan off Fritz Peterson pulled Detroit even.

Pinch runner Lee Richard raced all the way home from second on Rich McKinney's sacrifice fly in the seventh inning to snap a tie and lift the White Sox over the A's. McKinney, batting for winning pitcher Tommy John, flied deep to center and the speedy Richard sped home ahead of shortstop Larry Brown's relay from Angel Mangual. Sal Bando homered for Oakland's run.

Dave May blasted a three-run homer and Phil Roof slammed a bases-loaded triple to power the Brewers past the Royals. Rookie Bill Parsons scattered eight hits for his eighth victory. One of the KC hits was Amos Otis' 14th homer.

Billy Cowan doubled home the tie-breaking run as the Angels scored twice in the eighth inning to beat the Twins. Eddie Fisher held Minnesota to two hits in five scoreless innings of relief.

Cowan also doubled and scored in the second inning. The game was delayed 83 minutes by rain at the start of the fifth.

Nicklaus Still Not Discouraged

By JOHN FARROW
Associated Press Sports Writer
SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Jack Nicklaus headed into the second round of the British Open golf championship today smiling ruefully but still speaking with confidence about his chances of picking up the ancient crown for the third time.

"If you can take bogey sixes on the last two holes and still be only two shots behind the leaders, then it can't be all bad," said Nicklaus, who won the title last year in a playoff against Doug Sanders.

"Frankly I don't want to discuss the greens. We all know what they're like. It's the golf course we came to play, so let's play it."

The greens at Royal Birkdale drew criticism earlier this week for being too wet and soft. By midday, footprints of golfers who played the course in the early morning have dried, causing bumpy spots on the putting surface.

Nicklaus shot a 71 in Wednesday's first round over the 7,080-yard, par 35-38-73 layout and found himself two shots behind the man who beat him in the playoff for the U.S. Open at Merion in Ardmore, Pa.—Lee Trevino.

Nicklaus and Trevino were bracketed as 4-1 joint favorites for the title involving most of the top names in golf.

Trevino, Howie Johnson of Palm Desert, Calif., who is playing in his first British Open at the age of 46, Britain's Tony Jacklin, winner of the U.S. and British Opens two years ago, and Argentina's Vicente Fernandez shared the lead with four-under-par 69s.

Australia's Peter Thomson, bidding for his sixth victory in the British Open, shot a 70, as did former U.S. Open Champion Billy Casper and Kel Nagle, the veteran Aussie who won the title at St. Andrews in 1960.

Two men whose names don't often crop up in world golf also were at 70. They were John O'Leary of Ireland and Liang Huan Lu of Taiwan, who has won the Philippines and Thailand Opens.

Gary Player and Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina were two shots off the pace with 71s. Charles Coody, the U.S. Masters champion, slipped to a 74 along with Dave Stockton, winner of the U.S. PGA title in 1970.

The field will be cut to the low 80 after today's second round. Then it will be reduced to the low 60 for the climactic round Saturday.

Comebacks For Hurlers

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pitching comebacks by Juan Marichal of San Francisco and Steve Carlton of St. Louis have landed them on the National League squad for baseball's 1971 All-Star Game.

Marichal, 10-5 with the Giants and Carlton, 11-5 for the Cardinals, were among the eight pitchers named Wednesday by Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, who will direct the National League against the American League All-Stars next Tuesday in Detroit.

Probably by the most notable omission by Anderson is Los Angeles left-hander Al Downing, who has bounced back from oblivion in the American League to lead the Dodgers' staff in victories this season.

Marichal, the veteran right-hander of the Giants, was named to the All-Star team a ninth time. He was left off the team last year, when he struggled to a 12-10 record.

Carlton, 10-19 last year, will be making his third trip to an All-Star Game. He's the only left-hander on the 1971 pitching staff.

The other National League pitchers will be Tom Seaver of New York, Larry Dierker of Houston, Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago, Dock Ellis of Philadelphia and Clay Carroll of Cincinnati.

Seaver is the only returnee from the National League staff of last year. He has been on the All-Star team all five of his seasons with the Mets and shows a 10-4 record this year.

Ellis, Wise and Carroll are first-time All-Star selections. Carroll is the only relief pitcher named to the 1971 squad.

Flood Goes To Supreme Court

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Curt Flood, the controversial outfielder who sued baseball for $3.1 million, has asked the Supreme Court to invalidate the sport's reserve clause.

In a brief filed by his attorneys, Flood said organized baseball has violated the anti-trust laws with its reserve system, which binds a player to one club for life unless he is traded or sold.

"It needs no argument to demonstrate that organized baseball is now interstate commerce," said Flood's lawyers in argument against baseball's exemption from antitrust laws. They said the Supreme Court had ruled against other professional sports in that area.

"No reason exists why baseball should be treated differently," they said.

Flood was represented by Arthur J. Goldberg, former Supreme Court Justice and Ambassador to the United Nations, and Jay H. Topkis of New York City.

The 33-year-old Flood, now believed to be living in Spain, played baseball for 12 years with the St. Louis Cardinals and was considered one of the best outfielders in the business.

His suit against baseball came in 1970 when he refused to report to the Philadelphia Phillies after he was traded by the Cardinals. He sat out one year, living in Copenhagen, Denmark, but was lured out of retirement by Washington Senators owner Bob Short with a contract calling for $115,000. But on April 27, Flood unexpectedly left the Senators.

Flood's suit against baseball was dismissed by District Judge Irving Ben Cooper. That decision was affirmed by a three-judge U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

He alleged in those courts, as before the Supreme Court, that nationwide baseball agreements among clubs restrict players to contract negotiations with the first club that employs or "reserves" them or with assignee clubs—in other words, clubs to which they may be traded.

'Blue Angels' Perform At Cherry Point Saturday

MCAS CHERRY POINT: The Second Marine Aircraft Wing will celebrate its 30th anniversary here Saturday with a public display of its airpower and a performance by the famed Blue Angels flight demonstration team.

The Blue Angels' performance will highlight a 70-minute aerial display, set to begin at 1 p.m. Cherry Point gates will open at 12 noon to begin the birthday open house activities.

Second Marine Aircraft Wing units will participate in an aerial demonstration featuring the AV-8 Harrier, the newest addition to the Marine Corps weapons inventory; an in-flight refueling of a Phantom and an TA-4 Skyhawk jet fighter by a DC-130 Hercules refueler 8 transport; high performance takeoffs by an F4 Phantom and a Hercules; and a fly-by by 32 other aircraft.

Prior to the aerial demonstrations, the Second Marine Aircraft Wing Band will conduct a recital and Major General George C. Axtell, Commanding General of the Cherry Point based Wing, will speak and cut a huge anniversary cake.

A static display including 15 different aircraft which are operated by the Wing, plus various pieces of technical equipment will also be available for visitors.

The band recital will begin at 12:15 p.m. then resume following Gen. Axtell's 12:30 p.m. address. The Second Wing was

At the end of the war, the Second Wing took over duties in the occupation of Japan. On March 6, 1946, the Wing returned to the United States and made Cherry Point its home base. Other Second Marine Aircraft Wing units are stationed at Beaufort, S. C. and New River,

Team, was organized in July, 1946. The Blue Angels, in their wept-wing Mach 2 Phantoms, utilize two basic formations for their performances: the echelon, in which the planes are stacked down and back from the leader's left or right wing at a 45-degree angle, and the famous Blue Angel Diamond, in which there is a wingman on each of the leader's wings and a "slot man" flying directly behind and below the leader's engine exhausts, between the two wingmen. The Blue Angel pilots slide their Phantoms together in the sky until only a yard separates wingtip from canopy, with wings overlapping completely.

At the close of their performance, the Blue Angels' pilots will hold a post-flight autograph session.

Set Putt-Putt Tournament

A Putt-Putt Golf tournament for children of ages seven through 12 has been revealed by the Greenville Jaycees for July 31, with two "clinic" days preceding the big event.

The tournament, to be held at the Putt-Putt Golf Course on the Washington Highway — just past Hastings Motors — is open now for registration to all children in this age group. An entry fee of $1.00 provides for five free games as well as the entry fee for the July 31 contest.

On July 29, the first of the two clinics are to be held, with hours scheduled as follows: 9:00 a.m., children seven and eight years old; 10:00 a.m., the nine and ten year old group; and 11:00 a.m., for eleven and twelve year old children.

For the second clinic day, July 30, hours and age groups are the same as for July 29. Emphasis on the second day is on the driving range.

The Jaycees are offering a number of prizes to winners. There will be first and second prizes for each age group; a booby prize for the highest score; a prize for most holes-in-one; and several other prizes in various categories.

The contest gets underway on Saturday, July 31. All children in Greenville are invited to make plans to take part in this tournament.

African Coffee Exports Rising

COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) — Africa's share of West Germany's coffee supply is increasing while Latin America's is off, according to the International Exhibition of Fine Foods and Provisions.

German imports of raw coffee in 1970 totaled 308,335 tons. The bulk, 230,589 tons, came from Central and South America. But that area's share of the total declined from 78.7 per cent to 74.8 per cent, while imports from Africa rose to 22.763 tons, or 23.6 per cent of the total compared with 20 per cent in 1969.

Costing More To Enforce Law

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — State expenditures for police, prisons and courts have been increasing by 10 to 15 per cent a year, the Council of State Governments, a clearing house for information on the activities of the 50 states, reports. The increase has been recorded for the past five years, the Council said, with 1969 expenditures totaling $6.6 billion.

Pet Foods Avoid Any Recession

NEW YORK (UPI) — The $3 billion pet food industry has successfully resisted any recession, says Selection & Opinion of Value Line, an investment research and advisory service.

In 1970, when most other areas of the domestic economy were adversely affected, the dog and cat food market kept right on flourishing at an increasing rate of 11 per cent annually. With about 600 million domestic pets in the United States and the overall pet census rising about 3 per cent a year, Value Line foresees a likely near-future boost in pet food consumption to above $2 billion a year.

Local Boys Take Honors In 2-State Competition

Thirteen young boys from the Greenville Boys Club walked away with a whopping portion of the honors at the recently held North Carolina-South Carolina Boy's Club Championship for game room activities.

The meet, held in Durham at the Salvation Army Club, had representatives from a number of North and South Carolina clubs taking part in this annual summer activity.

Greenville's boys scored 38 points out of a possible total of 60 points for the events. Second highest scorer was East Winston-Salem with 16 points. Durham placed third with a score of 14. Last year, Greenville was third place winner in this series.

As the team with the highest total score, Greenville's Boys' Club brought home a team trophy, a gold statuette of an athlete holding aloft a victory wreath. First place winners in individual events — seven from Greenville — also received individual trophies. As a result, Greenville's boys returned home with a total of eight trophies.

Individuals in various age groups and categories of games taking first place were: Table tennis, 11-13 age group — singles, Reginald Peterson; doubles, Gerald Braxton and Jace Hagans; 14-16 age group — singles, Jeffrey Hagans; 17-18 age group — singles, Carlos Ebron; doubles Carlos Ebron and Matthew Ward.

In checkers, Gary Wooten placed first in the 11-13 age group and Julius Nobles first in the 14-16 age group.

Second place winners were Lewis Ward in the 11-13 age group for par four golf; Glenn Anthony for the 11-13 age group in bumper pool; and Wilbur Wilkes in the 14-16 age group for bumper pool.

In the 14-16 age group, James Willoughby and Butch Foust place third for doubles in table tennis.

Partnership In One Enterprise

FARMVILLE — Marvin Speight Jr. of Farmville has pointed out, in relation to a story in the Friday, July 2 issue of The Daily Reflector, that he is a business partner only with J. Irving Morgan, Jr. in the Morgan Oil and Refining Company of Farmville.

"Morgan has no interest whatsoever in either Speight Service Center or in Speight Auto Parts," Speight commented.

The Friday story dealt with the swearing in of Farmville's mayor and town commissioners. One comment in the story was to the effect that Morgan, one of the new commissioners, has an interest in Speight Service Center.

Red Ink Awaits Performing Arts

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal survey indicates the country's 187 largest professional, nonprofit performing-arts organizations will spend $160 million this season and wind up $7.1 million in the red despite hefty contributions.

It estimates these groups during the 1970-71 season will have earned income from box-office sales, fees for services and other sources of $90.5 million, for a gross deficit of $70 million.

This will be offset in part, the study finds, by $62.9 million in contributions from individuals, foundations, corporations, united art campaigns, grants from public agencies and endowment income.

The study made for the National Endowment for the Arts covered the 187 groups with annual budgets of more than $100,000.

The total included 20 ballet and contemporary dance companies, 31 resident theaters, 35 opera companies and 101 orchestras, including 28 major

Historical Appeal Was Retained

NEW YORK (AP) — When Calvert Vaux planned the terrace and Bethesda fountain in Central Park in 1858, its elaborate architecture and piazza were designed to set off one of the park's most appealing vistas. symphonies. For the 1969-70 season, the study says, these organizations had expenditures of $144 million, earned income of $79.6 million and other income of $58.7 million, for a net deficit after donations of $5.8 million.

Attendance in the 1969-70 season was 19.9 million; for the current season it is estimated at 20.5 million.

"It is important to note that the net deficit figures do not comprehensively reflect the 'condition' of the performing arts since low salaries in some fields, short performance seasons in others and inability to raise artistic standards cannot be indicated in graphic financial terms," the study says.

New Office For Bulgar Premier

VIENNA (AP) — Todor Zhivkov has resigned as premier of Bulgaria and the Bulgarian National Assembly has elected him state president a post created by a new constitution.

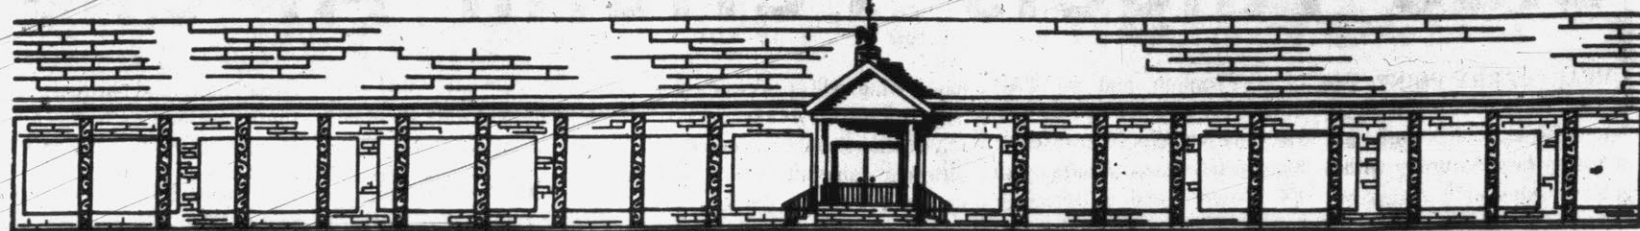

The Bulgarian news agency BTA said Wednesday that the chief of the Communist-dominated Fatherland Front was replaced as premier by Stanko Todorov, a 50-year-old economist and No. 2 party man under Zhivkov.

The Fatherland Front received 99.9 per cent of the vote in recent general elections. Zhivkov had served as premier since 1962.

Waste Discharge Permits Are Hidden By Secrecy

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, preparing to issue thousands of permits for industrial waste discharge, has quietly barred the public from seeing whether those permit holders will pollute the nation's water.

"The public has no way of keeping us honest," a key official of the permit program said in an interview. "That's a chance they have to take."

Government officials and the industries will know how the permits stack up against water quality standards. But the public is being forced out of the game on a double play:

Guidelines commissioned by the Environmental Protection Agency set discharge standards in terms of industry's input of raw materials or its output of products. And the White House Office of Management and Budget has ordered these crucial input-output data be kept secret if that's the way an industry wants it.

Bert Printz, acting permit program director for EPA, conceded in an interview that the combination allows the public no way to see whether the conditions EPA writes into permits match its new antipollution guidelines.

"They (the public) can't tell

Princess Anne Had Operation

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne is reported in satisfactory condition after surgery for the removal of an inflamed ovarian cyst and doctors say the daughter of Queen Elizabeth should be out of the hospital in a week to 10 days.

A London specialist said after the operation Wednesday night that the operation would have no future effect on the ovary, a statement taken to mean that the 20-year-old princess' ability to bear children would not be impaired.

The Eiffel Tower in Paris was erected in 1889.

Capp Granted A Continuance

BOSTON (AP) — Cartoonist Al Capp, creator of Li'l Abner, has been granted a continuance to Sept. 28 of a rendition hearing involving morals charges filed in Wisconsin.

Chief Justice Elijah Adlow granted the delay Wednesday in Boston Municipal Court at the request of Detective Sgt. Herbert Lynch. Lynch said Gov. Francis W. Sargent has not signed rendition papers by which Wisconsin asked Massachusetts to surrender Capp for prosecution.

Justice Adlow released Capp in personal recognizance.

A warrant for Capp's arrest issued in Eau Claire, Wis., charged him with sodomy, attempted adultery and indecent exposure. Capp has denied the charges.

they don't have access to the relating information."

The planned guidelines are the missing link between 1965 federal-state standards governing the quality of water in rivers, streams and lakes, and the government's regulatory power over discharges into those waterways.

An 1899 law designed to protect navigation has been interpreted by the courts in recent years as banning direct indus-

British To See Rich Farm Crop

LONDON (AP) — Vegetable, flower and fruit crops in Britain, not counting potatoes, will have a farm market value this year of $542 million, the Central Office of Information reports.

British farmers dedicate 700,000 acres to horticulture, exclusive of potatoes, 470,000 to vegetables, 207,000 to fruit, 36,000 to flowers and nursery stock and 4,500 acres to glass greenhouses.

trial waste discharges into waterways without a permit from the Army Corps of Engineers.

That part of the act had not been enforced until President Nixon ordered the Corps last Dec. 23 to start requiring and issuing permits, and gave the Environmental Protection Agency veto power over permits for environmentally harmful discharges.

To qualify for a permit, an industry must comply with state water-quality standards, most of which call for "secondary waste treatment or its equivalent." The forthcoming guidelines are meant to answer the question: "What is the industrial equivalent of municipal 'secondary treatment'?"

EPA contracted for preparation of the guidelines by private firms, specifying that they "be stated in terms of pollutants produced with units of production or unit of raw material ... ; for example, pounds of suspended solids per ton of steel." Meanwhile, the Corps of Engineers and EPA were hastily drafting the application forms industry had to file by July 1.

Early in May, government officials held a public meeting with industry spokesmen to discuss what should be on the application form. Then, in a closed discussion, government officials decided plant input and output figures should be considered business secrets if that's how an applicant wants it.

In other words, the standard might be pounds of pollution per ton of steel, but the public need not be told how many tons of steel a plant uses or produces.

J.J. Lankhorst, the Corps' assistant general counsel, who participated in those meetings, said: "The Office of Management and Budget insisted on this, that this type of information should be protected."

That office has statutory authority over contents of federal forms. Lankhorst said he was unaware the EPA "effluent guidelines" were being based on these input-output figures.

EPA sources said the first guidelines are nearing publication to cover three major industries: petroleum refining, dairy product processing and fruit and vegetable canning and preserving. Guidelines on 15 other major industries are being prepared.

Many Billions Await Claimants United Nations Helping Develop River System

By WILEY MALONEY
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—There is an estimated $25 billion treasure trove in this country waiting to be claimed. The estimate is that of William J. Linhart, 56, who is making a profitable career mining a mother lode of "abandoned" wealth in a search for heirs unaware the money waits.

"When I was a private detective," Linhart said, "I maybe had to work on one or two cases at a time and the practice was nasty. Now I'm trying to find maybe 10,000 persons and making them happy. It pays off. I generally find 10 per cent of those I'm hunting."

Linhart searches the estates of people who have died and left no wills, or estates where people have left wills but the heirs can't be located. He also searches the records of bank accounts of depositors who have disappeared, where corporate securities have piled up dividends of stockholders who can't be found.

"Somebody — and not the state, banks, lawyers or politicians—actually is entitled to this money," Linhart said. "It's my happy job to find what belongs to whom."

Linhart delves through old city directories, old telephone books, the dusty files in libraries which he calls "the clues closet."

"It is a sad fact that the money is there, but the right persons may never have a chance to spend it—the chances are that you also may die

Japanese Trade Continues Grow

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Trade with Japan handled by the ports of the San Francisco Customs District continues to rise, according to a statistical report by the United States-Japan Trade Council.

In 1970, exports to Japan from San Francisco totaled $701.9 million, up 3 per cent from 1969. Imports from Japan were $428 million, up 9 per cent over the year before.

without ever knowing you had money coming," he said.

"When the statute of limitations runs out the state simply gets the money. California, I estimate, claimed more than $7 million in such funds last year. The same situation must be true in other states."

One case he is working on now, Linhart said, is "a woman in Chicago who has $47,000 coming for her. I found this case in probate court records. Her brother died about three years ago and willed his sister the $47,000. It's ready and waiting. All that I know is that her maiden name was 'Azarov' and that she once married a Chicago doctor. It is possible, of course, that she may be dead, but her heirs, then, are entitled to the money."

Linhart has been a private detective for 26 years and is assisted by his son, James Edward, 22, as well as several other full time and part time assistants. He works on a contingency basis, usually 30 per cent of the "find" but sometimes up to 50 per cent depending on the time and effort. But he asks for a contract in advance before he'll disclose the source of the funds.

"I contact those who have money coming," he said, "but I don't tell them where it is until a contract is signed. Hell, if I told them first a good many would go out and try to beat me out of commission. They do, you know."

The telephone is Linhart's most useful too, and particularly long distance operators, he said. He cited the case of a man who left a small fortune and once had been a grocer in California's Tulare County.

Linhart called the numbers of grocery stores, checked with the sheriff and other authorities. No luck. He then asked the long distance operator if she knew the country well. She did. He told her the name of the man he was seeking.

"Sure, I know him well," the operator said. "He's my brother's best friend."

The man was located in Bakersfield and, incidentally, turned out to be a millionaire. But he took the bequest even though it was comparatively small.

"Everybody needs some money," Linhart said.

By PHILIP DOPOULS
SALONIKA, Greece (AP)—Nearly 2,300 years after Alexander the Great died in Babylon while planning a drainage and irrigation system for the plains of the river Euphrates, the United Nations is aiding a similar project to develop a river system that flows from Yugoslavia through Greece close by the birthplace of the former Macedonian king.

Alexander, a scientist as well as a military adventurer, was born in 356 B.C., less than 10 miles from where the Greek side of the project is planned.

Work began in June on the two-nation multipurpose study of the hydro-electric potential, and irrigation and flood control projects on the river. Called the Vardar at its source in Yugoslavia and the Aios (worthy) in Greece, the river eventually drains into the Aegean Sea after its long meandering course.

The United Nations Development Program (UNDP) has allocated $1.14 million to the three-year scheme to prepare a master development plan which could lead to a water sharing agreement for the river. The Greek and Yugoslav governments together are making available the equivalent of $2.5 million to the project.

The Vardar finds its source not far from the southern Yugoslav city of Skopje and flood risk is found essentially in the Yugoslav portion of the basin. The UNDP already has assisted a flood control project to protect the city and its 28,000 inhabitants.

The flow of the river where it crosses the Greek-Yugoslav border varies from an extreme low of eight cubic meters per second in the dry season to a recorded torrential 4,200 cubic meters a second at the peak of the spring and autumn floods. The low discharge in the dry season causes severe problems for Greek agriculture particularly, and their minimum requirement at these times is 50 cubic meters a second.

The development plan prepared during the upcoming project will play an important part in the efforts to regulate and put to use the waters of the Vardar-Aios. Greece is heavily dependent on the plan to increase its agricultural output providing greater amounts of fresh produce for export.

Near his city in northern Greece, the nation's second largest major industrial center, project experts will also investigate ground-water resources as an alternative to surface water to meet future requirements. The city's population is expected to double to more than one million by the year 200.

Over-all, the multipurpose scheme is expected to eventually benefit more than two million people in the immediate area.

Limited irrigation schemes already are under way or have been completed along the river. The UN-aided project aims for major new storage works to retain enough water to irrigate all arable lands on both sides of the river basin.

Plans for a reservoir containing up to one billion cubic meters of water already have been prepared and the new project calls for even larger reservoirs holding 2 to 2.5 billion cubic meters, half of the annual discharge of the river.

The importance of the Vardar-Aios project is underlined by the fact that the total foreseeable demand for water in Greece is estimated at 600 million cubic meters annually, and in Yugoslavia, at 1.7 billion cubic meters a year.

In Greece, irrigation has been sown to boost the average family earnings from small farms by two to three times, and similar increases in production have been reported in Yugoslavia.

The increase of supplies of water will provide a major impetus to agriculture in both countries, and particularly in Greece which is emphasizing the export of fruit and vegetable crops and animal husbandry.

The project will also investigate the hydro-electric potential of the river since the demand for power in Yugoslavia and Greece is expected to increase dramatically in the next 20 years. Hydro-power will help supplement thermal production in Yugoslavia and Greece, but the total power availability will depend on the final relationship between the irrigation, regulation and power aspects of the over-all scheme.

Still Active

LEADVILLE, Colo. (AP)—The highest incorporated city in the United States—at 10,152 feet in the central Rockies—this city was founded in 1859 as a result of gold discoveries and boomed when lead and silver were found in the 1880's.

Now, with 7,000 population, its mines are still working, supplying some of the rarest metals on earth.

Chinatown's Past Preserved In Wax

By CLIFFORD P. CHENEY
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The tong wars and hatchet men, the sing-song girls, the seething shops and underground opium dens of the largest Chinese settlement outside of Asia are just fading memories in San Francisco's Chinatown.

Chinatown today is a curious blend of ghetto and tourist attraction where only the ancient ones among the district's 16,000 residents still remember how it was in the old days.

But the vice and violence, the desperation and hope and grueling work which were old Chinatown still live in an unusual wax museum recently opened here by Sinclair Louie, a longtime Chinatown merchant.

"My wife and I wanted to show the part played in the growth and progress of California by the Chinese," said Louie.

The 115 wax figures aren't all set in scenes of Chinese community boosterism, however. Some of the 31 carefully authenticated scenes at the Chinatown Wax Museum depict the darker side of the days before the 1906 Earthquake.

There is the murder of vice czar Little Pete in a Chinatown barber's chair in 1894, and a secret tong blood oath initiation. Among the gorier scenes from earlier Chinese history are the beheading of a scholar who dared oppose the bookburning of Emperor Shih Huang Ti, and a couple of almost too realistic depictions of ancient Oriental torture techniques.

But the $1.5 million museum also offers a glimpse of the day-to-day life of the thousands of Chinese who helped to build California—shrimpers working in their camps on the shore of San Francisco Bay, laborers hewing the first transcontinental railroad through the granite of the Sierra Nevada, families working together in laundries and lantern factories and celebrating the traditional festivals, which survive today only as vestiges for the tourist trade.

"We want to entertain people as well as to show them the long way the Chinese people have come since the old days of poverty and discrimination," said Louie.

Great Demand By Electronics

SYOSSET, N.Y. (UPI)—The electronics industry makes greater demands on high technology than U.S. industry in general, according to an industry executive.

"Research and development expenditures for electronics companies in 1971 are expected to grow by 11 per cent over 1970, while R&D for all industry is expected to increase by only 6 per cent," said Howard Rothenstein, president of Micronics Industries, Inc. "Adaptability to changing technologies in a fluid society is a must in today's competitive business environment."

Worry Clinic Learn To Put Burdens Down

Note how I was given the handshake and initiated into the fraternity of American go-getters! And heed the shrewd advice of Dr. Pollard, medical professor at the University of Michigan. Learn to lay your worries down at night and on the Sabbath! I also use the "Agenda" method and relax when I cross off my day's output.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D. M. D.

Case R-502: About 20 years ago I was the banquet speaker for the employees of the U.S. Slicing Machine Co.

Its President came in a few minutes early.

As soon as he sat down, he started drumming on the table with his fingers.

"Waiter, waiter!" he abruptly called.

In a moment a waiter arrived. "Please bring me a glass of milk at once!" ordered the President.

"So you have an ulcer, too, do you, Dr. Crane?" he asked.

"Did anybody ever give you the ulcerite's handshake and thus initiate you into the fraternity?"

When I shook my head, he smiled and stood up.

Then with his left hand pressing over his stomach, he bent forward slightly at the waist and shook hands with his fight.

Ulcer patients often grow snarlish in the middle of the morning and at mid afternoon.

But instead of drinking coffee or caffeine beverages, they should take milk or an antacid tablet or a glass of hot jello.

Beware, for caffeine seems to stimulate extra hydrochloric acid in the stomach and it is this acid that burns the raw spot (ulcer).

You wives of high pressure executives should have learned long ago not to keep such a man waiting for his meals!

If you must add frills and delay dinner while you scallop the edges of the grapefruit, at least have a platter of cheese and crackers beside your hubby's easy chair so he can chomp on some protein to neutralize the burning acid of his stomach!

And ideal pre-dinner cocktail for peptic ulcer patients is a glass of hot jello!

In fact, that is also a superb drink for old folks and those with gastroenteritis.

For the jello is chiefly protein with a little sugar, plus flavoring.

It is thus easily digested, with no raw vegetable fibers to scratch the ulcer or irritate your intestines.

My preference is hot cherry jello, for it seems to retain its distinctive flavor better than lemon, raspberry or the other varieties.

Cold jello is also an excellent food to give you quick strength and avoid gastric irritation.

But millions apparently haven't thought about the hot jello drink, though we doctors prescribe it routinely.

Since go-getters are necessarily keyed up, and this tension extends to their glands (thus producing more secretions), that explains why executives are more likely to complain of peptic ulcer.

But members of the "Society of Ulcerites" make superior workers.

Dr. H. M. Pollard, medical professor at the University of Michigan, thus advises:

"If you want a good associate, pick a man with an ulcer!"

Many negative emotions, such as fear, anger, hate and jealousy, can also predispose you to peptic ulcer, so learn to team-up with God Almighty and thus leave business worries at the office!

Also, join my "Compliment Club," which will soon make you less fearful in meeting people, so send for that booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

$925 Given To Local Boys Club

A birthday party celebration has resulted in the Boys' Club of Greenville being $925 richer.

This amount was presented recently in Wilmington to Greenville Boys' Club executive director J. Richard Ullom.

Charles B. Lewis of Raleigh, made the presentation in a ceremony at which two members, Matthew Lewis Ward, mayor of the Boys Club, and Matthew Ward, boy of the year, were present.

The contribution comes from the Combined Insurance Company as a birthday salute to W. Clement Stone, president of the company and long active as a member of the national Boys' Club of America board of directors. Stone is also chairman of the Chicago Boys' Club organization.

The idea of a contribution to Boys' Club is the result of the company's sales force deciding to pass up the usual Presidential Birthday sales prizes in favor of a contribution to the Boys' Club.

When informed of the idea, Stone announced he would match the agents' gift with one of his own from the W. Clement and Jessie V. Stone Foundation.

The Greenville Boys' Club was chosen for the recipient club in North Carolina this year. Regional manager for the southeast area is Lewis, who made the presentation.

In expressing his appreciation for this contribution, Ullom pointed out this is the second

Opening lead: Ten of ♣

The first of a series of five Championship Bridge Matches was inaugurated on a nationwide television recently when a team of Goren Stars challenged the Dallas Aces, winners of the 1970 Bermuda Bowl. The initial match was close with the lead constantly changing hands and the issue was not decided until the 20th and final deal which we are presenting today.

The bidding shown in the diagram occurred at the table where the Dallas Aces held the North-South cards. North opened the bidding with one spade and East overcalled with two diamonds. A word of explanation is required to explain South's double. In the methods used by the Aces' partnership, this call is conventional—is termed a "negative double"—and is not intended for penalties. It is merely a means of showing distributed values on certain holdings where no convenient constructive bid may be available.

It appears that North might have considered passing to play for a penalty. Even if West should rescue his partner to two hearts, he can be limited to six tricks at that contract and a 300 point sting inflicted on the East-West partnership. North chose instead to rebid two spades. South, in the hope that the king-queen of spades would fill out partner's suit, jumped aggressively to three no trump.

West opened the ten of clubs and North's queen won the first trick. [Observe that a heart lead would not have been any more effective, because the suit blocks and West has no side entry once the hearts are established.]

With only five top tricks available, it was apparent to South that dummy's suit would have to provide the bulk of his requirements. A spade was led and when East followed with the four, South's queen won. He continued with the king and had the good fortune to find West with a doubleton jack. With the appearance of that card, North's spot cards all became promoted to equal rank and the ace became the defenses' only stopper in the suit.

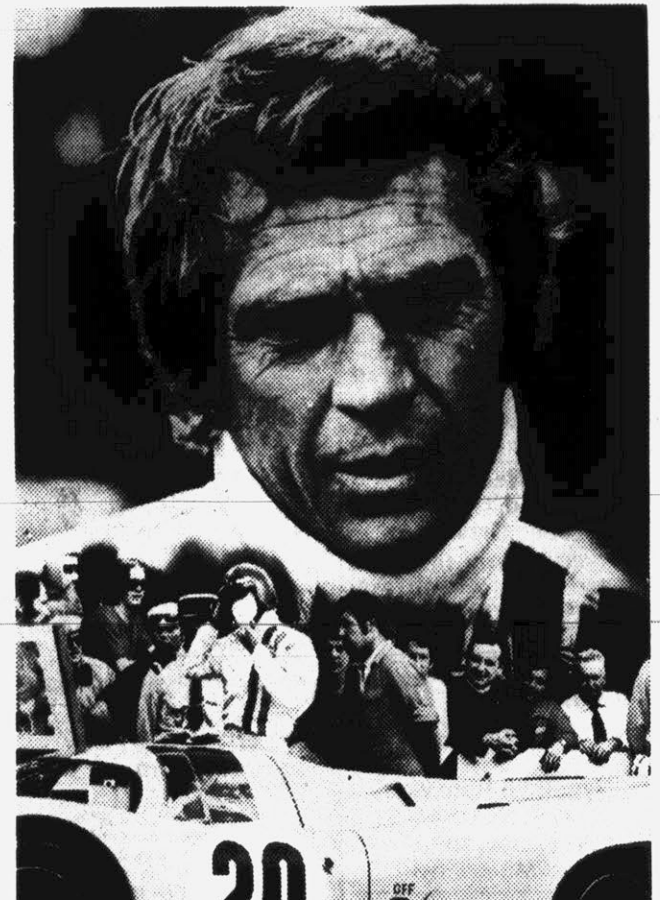

East held off on the second spade, so dummy was entered with the king of clubs to lead the ten of spades. East put up the ace on which both South and West discarded hearts. The exit was with a fourth round of spades and declarer proceeded to cash out dummy's long cards in that suit.

The only remaining problem was to get back to the closed hand to run the clubs. The king of diamonds was led from dummy and East put up the ace and shifted to the king of hearts. North was in with the ace and the queen of diamonds provided a reentry to the closed hand to cash the vital club tricks. Had West been dealt a guarded ace of diamonds, he could have locked South out of his hand by permitting dummy's king of diamonds to hold.

In all, declarer took four spades, one heart, one diamond and four clubs. When the deal was replayed at the other table, the Goren Team held the North-South cards and they stopped at two no trump. The same 10 tricks were scored on the deal, but the game bonus gained by the Aces proved to be enough to enable them to nose out their opponents and emerge victorious in the first match of the series.

Foreign Service Costs May Drop

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Foreign Office estimates that the cost of running the foreign service will drop by $24 million in the next fiscal year.

The cost reduction will come from increased receipts from the insurance of passports and visas, and from smaller payments for special services including defense aid, military assistance and training for commonwealth countries and former colonial territories.

Couple Charged In 2-Year-Old Slaying

GREENSBORO (AP) — A man and his wife were held in Guilford County jail today without bond on charges in the death of the woman's former husband.

charged as an accessory after the fact in transporting and burying the body. They make their home in Sanford.

A blanket-wrapped body was removed from a grave in a wooded area of Moore County Wednesday. An autopsy is being performed at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

J. P. Worrell, sheriff's department investigator, said Goins, 22, surrendered to Lee County sheriff's deputies in Sanford Tuesday night and told of the slaying. The surrender was said to have followed a domestic quarrel.

Mrs. Goins, 28, mother of five, was taken into custody by Lee County officers later Tuesday night.

Goins accompanied Lee, Moore and Guilford county officers Wednesday to the remove spot in Moore County where the body was unearthed.

Worrell said the date of the slaying had been established as June 13, 1969. He said that at the time the Carrolls were living in a trailer park on Greensboro's outskirts. Goins was a resident of Sanford at the time.

Goins and Mrs. Carroll later married and lived out of the state for a time before moving to Sanford.

North Carolina Planning For New Highway Signs

RALEIGH — Highway signs — those painted metal instructions that tell drivers what's ahead and what they can and cannot do — will undergo a radical change during the next three years in North Carolina, and in the other 49 states as well.

Signs carrying printed words will give way to signs showing symbols, and the motorist is going to have to learn what those symbols mean if he is to drive intelligently and safely.

It's all a part of an attempt by the Federal Government to standardize signs all over the country, and to do so the Department of Transportation has adopted a modified version of the international road signs for use in the United States.

This will be no small task in North Carolina, where an estimated one million signs will have to be replaced. But it isn't going to bankrupt the state treasury because there isn't going to be any mass movement to take down the old signs and put up the new.

Rather, the state will adopt a general policy of replacing a sign that wears out or is shot up by vandals (seen any of these lately?) with one of the new symbols. Some of this has already started and more and more of the new signs will be seen in the weeks and months ahead. The state has until 1974 to complete the project.

There is a definite safety factor in the project to change the signs, if the experts are correct. Motorists, they say, can react more quickly to a symbol they understand than they can to a sign that carries a printed message, saving maybe three or four car lengths at 55 miles per hour.

Some of the new signs won't be any trouble to recognize. The old sign that says "School Crossing" will be replaced by a pentagonal sign with a picture of two children crossing the highway. Only signs dealing with schools are pentagonal.

Motorists will have to learn that a sign showing a red circle means "don't do that". For instance, a sign with an arrow curving to the right but with the red circle and slash imposed upon it means "No Right Turn". If it shows the slash, circle and a U-Turn sign, it means "No U-Turn".

A sign that says "Deer Crossing" will be replaced by a symbol showing a bounding deer. A sign that says "Hill" will be replaced by a sign showing a truck going down a steep incline. And so on.

The actual work of replacing the signs will be under the supervision of the Traffic Engineering Department of the State Highway Commission, but many other state agencies will be involved.

The Department of Motor Vehicles, for instance, which gives tests to driver's license applicants, will have to revise those tests to include the new symbols.

And there will be a huge educational program on the part of the state, with the assistance of the news media, to see that the motoring public becomes familiar with the new driving guides.

At the present time, Pitt County motorists will have to look hard to find any of the new signs.

State Highway officials said new "Yield" signs at a few locations along the newly-opened four-lane N.C. 11 South of Greenville, are the only new standard signs yet installed in Pitt.

But, they explained more new signs will be going up in the near future.

They said that for a while, the new signs will be displayed with the old signs as part of an educational program to get motorists accustomed to seeing the new standard signals. Eventually the old signs will be done away with and only the new will remain.
