500,000 Workers Walk Out On Bell

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bell System was struck by up to 500,000 telephone workers today as phone companies kept service going but prepared to halt repair service and installations. Supervisory personnel filled in at switchboards after members of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers of America walked out at 6 a.m. EDT. A union spokesman said the virtually nationwide walkout would last at least two weeks because of complicated labor ratification procedures. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said it was too early to determine the effects.

"But people can expect to hear a lot of male voices when calling the operator," said information officer Chuck Dynes. Because telephones are so highly automated, most calls will continue to go through until lack of maintenance causes breakdowns. In strike-affected areas many new telephone installations were halted, as was repair service on all but government-operated telephones essential for national security. The strike by the CWA and allied unions is over wages and fringe issues, including the CWA's demand for an agency shop and the company's alleged "antifeminist" job policies.

Reorganization Of N.C. Govm't Structure Due To Start On October 1

RALEIGH (AP) — The General Assembly Tuesday enacted legislation providing for reorganization of North Carolina's government into 17 departments utilizing the concept of grouping together all agencies with similar functions. Designed for efficiency and economy in government, the restructuring program is scheduled to start Oct. 1 with new makeups for departments headed by Council of State members. The Departments of Administration and Revenue also will be reorganized by Oct. 1. Seven new departments — all headed by administrators to be appointed by Gov. Bob Scott — would be organized and functional no later than Jan. 1, 1973. In all, the reorganization brings together 233 agencies, boards, divisions and departments now operating independently within the state government framework. One existing organization, the Department of Local Affairs, would be abolished and its functions absorbed by other units of the government. Sponsors of the reorganization, which was approved in principle by voters in a 1969 referendum, said some $50 million annually could be saved after the first two or three years of operation. Legislative approval came in the form of adoption by the Senate and the House of a conference committee's plan reconciling differences in amendments passed by the two houses.

One difference resolved by the committee lay in a conflict between a Senate amendment that gave the Advisory Budget Commission control over salaries for top state personnel and the recently enacted Mohn law giving such salary control to the General Assembly. Under the compromise, the budget commission will set the salaries for top personnel and members of the governor's staff subject to review by the legislature in 1973. Rep. J. F. Mohn, D-Onslow, sponsor of the law bearing his name, accepted the committee report although he expressed reservations. His law would have been superceded if the reorganization amendment had been passed by the House. "I'm not satisfied," Mohn said, but "I believe it is the best the committee could come up with. I will concur."

Bald Head Isle Curb Killed Off

RALEIGH (AP) — A bill aimed at blocking any move by the Scott administration to acquire Bald Head Island for the state by condemnation was killed Tuesday by the House Calendar Committee. The committee did this when it voted on motion of Rep. Richard Lane Brown, D-Stanly, to postpone the Senate-passed measure indefinitely. When Rep. William Watkins, D-Granville, committee chairman, put the motion to a voice vote, it appeared close, but Watkins ruled "the ayes have it." The ruling stood when no one on the committee asked for a head count. The administration of Gov. Bob Scott had worked energetically to kill the measure sponsored by Sen. Bunn Frink, D-Brunswick. The governor has called for state acquisition of the semi-tropical island near Southport and has said that it should be preserved largely in its natural state. So far, the governor has not found any state funds to purchase the island. Frink's measure would have forbidden the state to condemn the island. This would have cleared the way for development of the island by its private owner, the Carolina Cape Fear Co. The firm has announced plans to develop a plush resort. When the calendar committee prepared to vote on the Frink measure, Rep. George Rountree, R-New Hanover, moved for a favorable report. Rountree said he thought state acquisition of the island "seems to provide the greater opportunity for abuse." He said the state could leave Bald Head as a "mosquito-infested island or it could spend millions and millions of dollars to clean it up as a park. He said state acquisition could cost as much as $15 to $20 million. Brown then made a substitute motion that the bill be postponed indefinitely.

Two Camp Out In Gas Masks

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Two teen-agers have donned gas masks and are camping out at a busy San Diego intersection to protest air pollution and failure by government and industry to clean it up. "We realize how small we are in the face of the giant auto industry and the government," said Gary Stoefen "but we have to start somewhere." Stoefen, 19, and Bill Malashock, 18, began their protest camp-in Sunday night and plan to call it quits Thursday.

Utilities Commissioners Tuesday night gave tentative approval to a $7,875,000 operating and capital improvement budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year. The budget is expected to come up for final approval at the July meeting. Director Charles Horne explained that $6,150,000 in electric revenue is anticipated for the fiscal year; $435,000 in water revenue; $800,000 in gas revenue; $275,000 in sewer revenue; $140,000 in other revenue and $75,000 from subdivision water and sewer construction.

The budget foresees $5,222,212 in electric expenses; $385,900 in water department expenses; $746,037 in gas expenses and $270,450 for sanitary sewer expenses. Net income before depreciation is expected to be $1,990,400. Using the net income, the budget calls for capital improvements of $1,130,400 for all departments during the fiscal year. This includes: electric, $675,000; water, $180,000; sanitary sewer, $124,500; gas, $100,000; equipment, $50,900.

The budget also anticipates retiring $230,000 in bonds and turnover to the city government has been computed at $436,016. Among major items in the capital improvements budgets are funds for utilities work in the Central Business District area and amounts for improvements and extension of electric, water and sewer lines. The commission will also be carrying on projects with a $4 million bond program voted by local citizens. A report showed that $2,250,000 of the revenue bonds has already been sold and

$1,057,832 has been spent to date. Included in the bond program are expansion of the water and sewage disposal plants, extension of sanitary sewer, water and gas lines and electric improvements including upgrading the city street lighting system. Also planned is the purchase of land for new electric substations at Winterville and Parkers Chapel. In the final financial report for the fiscal year the commissioners learned that net income before depreciation for 1970-71 was below the estimates for the year. The figure had been estimated at $1,688,134, but actually came to $1,334,368. However, it was explained that a retroactive increase in wholesale electric rates from Veeco was charged off during the year and the commission paid $250,000 for the Wachovia bank building. Extraordinary expenses were also incurred in repairing damages left by an ice storm during the winter. Totals income for the fiscal year was $6,609,469 compared with an estimate of $6,315,000. The major single item of expense for the fiscal year was $3,111,869 for purchase of electric power. This included the retroactive amount owed to Veeco.

County Plans Hold Valuation Tax Rate, Eye Salary Increases

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners last night indicated they plan to hold the current $1.52 per $100 valuation tax rate for another year, if possible. At the special budget session, commissioners indicated they favor giving county employees a five per cent pay increase, as well as holding the current $1.52 per $100 valuation rate used for taxes for the past two years. The Finance Committee, operating within guidelines set by the entire board, has reviewed the budget over the past several weeks and trimmed most of the fat from the fiscal expenditure list so it may be possible to hold the $1.52 tax rate. Although no exact total was immediately available, the finance committee said the 1971-72 budget may amount to $6 million or more, as compared with the $5.6 million budget for the 1970-71 fiscal year which ended June 30. Although still tentative, commissioners are considering using about $44,400 of the local one per cent sales tax revenue for general fund expenses; $140,000 for debt service payments (enough to cover interest on about half of the bonds for the new hospital, assuming that portion of the bonds will be sold during the current fiscal year); and the remaining $309,300 expected for the schools. The one per cent local option sales tax went into effect July 1. Although the county and municipal governments expect to receive about $1.036 million per year from the special tax, they will receive only three quarterly payments during the 1971-1972 fiscal year. The county government's share of the tax, to be divided among the local governmental units on a per capita basis, is expected to be $658,000 per year. The finance committee and other commissioners, have been looking at a school budget which would give the schools (including both the county and city of Greenville systems) about $1.7 million — an amount between $475,000 and $480,000 more than they received in last year's budget. Unless major revisions are made, the county school system would receive about $350,000 more than they received last year, but about $389,000 less than they initially requested. The city system would have $128,000 more than last year or some $26,700 less than they requested. The city school system receives about one-third of all funds levied on a county-wide basis for schools, based on a per-pupil distribution formula. Commissioners are scheduled to hold their next budget session during the week of July 26-30.

Vote On School Bonds Is Killed By Committee

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Legislation to let the people of North Carolina vote on the issuance of $150 million in bonds to aid local units in school construction was killed Tuesday by the Senate Appropriations Committee. The committee voted an unfavorable report to the measure, which received overwhelming House approval several weeks ago, after it adopted an amendment by Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, to reduce the proposed bond issue from $200 million to $150 million. A few minutes later, the committee voted approval of a measure to let the people vote on issuing $2 million in bonds for construction of a state zoo. In voting on the school bond measure, the committee first defeated a motion by Sen. Charles B. Deane, Jr., D-Richmond, to give the bill a favorable report and then carried a motion by Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, to postpone the measure indefinitely.

Strickland pointed out that a bill pending in the General Assembly would let the people vote on issuance of $150 million in bonds for construction of water and sewer facilities. He told the committee it is a "question of which is the more important, schools for children, or water and sewers." As the committee was discussing the zoo bond bill, Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, said, "I cannot see how we can stand here today and vote down school houses and then vote for something to house a bunch of monkeys." Sen. L.P. McLendon Jr., D-Guilford, told the committee that spending state money for a zoo would be "no departure" in policy since the state already is spending for such things as parks, historical sites and museums. He called the zoo "a good investment."

Tensions Build

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Police chief H. E. Williamson said Tuesday a weeklong investigation has failed to turn up any tangible evidence in the slaying of two unarmed Pinkerton guards at Williston Junior High School. Williamson said racial tension appeared to be increasing in the city, which underwent several days of violence in February. "I have had telephone calls from white and black citizens, and I've been visited by several delegations of blacks. They are very concerned about this case and they want it solved," Williamson said. Williamson said the Southern Christian Leadership Conference reported one of its cars was forced off a road by whites last Friday. The bodies of guards Irving L. Padrick, 68, and James D. Flowers, 28, were found in the school cafeteria last Wednesday. They were among a group of security guards hired by the New Hanover Board of Education to prevent vandalism in the schools.

Plant Addition Contract Bids Win Approval

Utilities commissioners Tuesday night approved a $496,377 contract for water filtration plant additions, subject to the approval of the Economic Development Administration. The work which will double the capacity of the water treatment plant, is being financed with bond funds and a federal grant. Crain and Denbo, Inc. of Durham received the contracts for general construction at $166,600, and filter plant equipment at $257,900. Heath Electric got the electric contract with a bid of $48,497. Jones Cooling and Heating, Inc. of Wilson received the heating and air conditioning contract at $4,800. Kinston Plumbing and Heating, Inc. was awarded the plumbing contract at $8,480. Pumping equipment contract went to Sydnor Hydrodynamics at $10,100. Acceptance of the bids was recommended by the consulting engineer. Commissioners also approved the low bid of Hendrix Barnhill Co. of Greenville at $408,605.00 for water main additions. This is subject also to EDA approval, since the project includes a federal grant. The commission approved the purchase of a portable transformer based on the $129,090 low bid of Westinghouse. Director Charles Horne informed the commission that Veeco, which supplies electric power to Greenville Utilities, has requested and been granted a new residential increase of three percent in Virginia. He said he anticipated that the increase will also be requested in North Carolina, which would have a new effect on Greenville's rates. He suggested that the commission prepare for increasing retail rates by the time the wholesale increase goes into effect. Horne also reported that an increase in wholesale gas rates is anticipated in the fall, which will mean an increase in retail rates. The commission discussed the need for a change in special rates to all-electric schools, with any new rate to be effective in 1972. To be affected would be the summer rate for air conditioned schools. A committee was named to work with Winterville on the boundary lines between the two utilities service areas. The areas now meet in the vicinity of Pitt Tech. Commissioners wrote off uncollectable accounts for the year 1966 of $17,610. Business Manager Curtis Howell reported that this was 47 percent of sales for that year. The commission adopted a policy which requires that two-thirds of employees be signed up for any special payroll deduction plan. Also adopted was a personnel policy plan change which included: —Salary adjustments for cost of living and some merit increases. —Semi-monthly pay plan changed to bi-weekly. —Overtime rate for working during "natural disasters" set at one and a half times regular rate. —Petty leave increased from 12 to 24 hours per year with option to take up to four hours at a time. —Memorial Day added as

Return $6,580

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Simpson were helping his mother move to another residence Sunday, when a secret compartment on a dresser drawer popped open and $6,580 in cash dropped out. "We were stunned," Mrs. Simpson said Tuesday, "but we knew it wasn't ours." After staring at the windfall for a long moment, the Simpsons called the Chelan County sheriff's office and reported they had purchased the dresser and other furniture from a woman's estate three years ago. The cash 100, 20, 10 and 5 dollar bills—is being returned to the estate. Collier said that long distance calling out of this area does not seem to be hampered so far. Automated direct distance dialing equipment is responsible, he said.

Unaffected By Bell Walkout

The local telephone system has not been affected so far by the nationwide Communication Workers of America strike which began at 6 a.m. today. Carolina Telephone Company, which operates here, several days ago reached an agreement with the Union. It hopefully will be ratified by mail balloting in the near future, Carolina officials said, and in the meantime there has been no stoppage of work. Collier said that long distance calling out of this area does not seem to be hampered so far. Automated direct distance dialing equipment is responsible, he said.

Officer Draws A Fine, Reprimand

LAKENEATH, England (AP) — A U.S. Air Force court-martial fined Capt. Thomas Culver $1,000 and gave him a reprimand today for participating in an antiwar demonstration at the U.S. Embassy in London on Memorial Day. Culver could have received a maximum penalty of four years in prison, loss of pay and a dishonorable discharge. But the court decided against jail.

Cancel General Election Plans

RALEIGH (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today legislation canceling a general election that had been scheduled for November. A constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 had been scheduled for a referendum in November. That became unnecessary when the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution was ratified.

House Auto-Insurance Revisions Sent Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — The House has passed and sent the Senate legislation to revise North Carolina's auto liability insurance laws. The bill would rewrite provisions for the assigned risk plan, make it more difficult for companies to cancel auto liability policies and make a number of changes in the safe driver reward plan. The Senate Insurance Committee approved an identical measure. Rep. Jack Rhyne, D-Gaston, told the House that under the proposed changes, persons under assigned risk could obtain more insurance than is available to them now. Rhyne also told the House that the bill would direct the state insurance commissioner to come up with a "balanced" safe driver reward plan. It would call for higher insurance rates for those with poor driving records and lower rates for those with good driving records. The bill would require an insurance company to give written notice when it planned to cancel a policy and to give its reason for the cancellation. The insured could seek a hearing on the cancellation before the state insurance commissioner.

Yes, N.C. Has Its Alligators

It may be surprising to Tar Heels to learn that there are 1,000 to 1,500 alligators in the state. The figure came out after a six foot alligator was captured near Wendell recently. The creature was later transported to a protected area in Brunswick County.

Possibility Of Reform Moves

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Legislative reform, more often talked than tackled, may be on the horizon. It won't be easy. It shouldn't be piecemeal. It can't be done without the interest and demand of the public.

The 1971 General Assembly appears in the mood to start the job. Stung by a rating of 47th among the 50 states, legislators first said it wasn't so. Then they agreed there is room for improvement. Now they're ready to look for means to achieve it.

Approval is imminent for creation of a study group of lawmakers to recommend changes in time to re-tool machinery for the 1973 session. Rep. Robert A. Jones of Rutherford, sponsor of the study bill, said the charge is broad enough to deal with the general operation of the legislative branch.

A prime objective, in his view, is organization and staffing to give the General Assembly greater independence from the executive branch.

"We're supposed to have three equal branches of government. What we've got is 2 1/2," said Jones. The missing one-half, he explained, is staffing for the legislative.

Staff For Independence

"To introduce a bill affecting the state agency, we have to go to the agency head for information and drafting of the bill," Jones continued. "Sure, the Governor doesn't have the veto but the legislative still is dependent upon the executive."

Legislative independence was a criteria, Jones reminded, which brought down North Carolina's rating in the evaluation by the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures.

There already is in existence a Legislative Citizens' Advisory Commission, set up by resolution of the 1969 session and due to report to the 1973 General Assembly. Its chairman is Gordon Hanes of Winston-Salem, an industrialist and former State Senator.

"Any study would be desirable," said Lt. Gov. H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr. Two in the field would not necessarily conflict, he added, but could work together.

Taylor has served as Representative (six terms), House Speaker, and now presides over the Senate, an unmatched depth of legislative experience.

"Legislative reform is a lot like ecology," Taylor philosophized. "Everyone is for it, but if anything meaningful is going to be done people have to be willing to make sacrifices."

Premise For Reform

He laid down some basic premises for legislative reform.

"It will be difficult," he cautioned. "It has to be understood that there must be some substantial changes, and that no procedure is sacred."

"Legislative reform is not just one thing — annual sessions, or professional staff, or continuity of leadership — but the whole package."

"The public must be totally behind any movement for reform. There must be the support of the people, the Governor, the news media, in order to be successful."

Then he summed it all up. "There must be an understanding of what the role of the legislature is. Until you determine that, you cannot decide on organization."

Facilities, Pay Provided

Past efforts to equip the legislative branch for its function largely have concerned facilities and compensation. The State Legislative Building, first occupied in '63, gives ample and stylish quarters. Upgrading pay has brought Tar Heel lawmakers from a skimpy per-day, limited-days-per-session basis to year-round salaries and expense. A start has been made in providing professional staff for research and services.

Now, more and more attention is turned to the way the legislature is organized for business, the number of committees, the lack of continuity in leadership and committee membership, demands for secretarial assistance.

The Jones' study bill would create a 16-member commission, drawn equally from House and Senate. Present presiding officers (House Speaker Phil Godwin, Lt. Gov. Taylor) would name three each; Democratic leaders of House and Senate would name three each; Republican leaders of the two chambers would name two each.

Legislators best can deal with legislative reform, Jones suggested. "I think it would be difficult for outsiders to tell those who have served here what to do," he said. His own service (two terms) produced the frustrations and insights which showed the need for revisions in the process.

A reporting date of Dec. 1, 1972, is fixed for the study group. At that time, Jones said, presiding officers for the '73 session will be mapping plans. They can promptly put into effect recommendations produced by the study.

Darrell Louder of the Inland Fisheries Division of the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission cautioned that it is unlawful to possess American alligators or their eggs at any time.

It seems the species is endangered and Louder explained that the alligator is valuable to the environment. One of the things the alligator does is wallow out holes in swamps where fish and other aquatic life can survive during drought periods.

Alligators are seldom seen in North Carolina and it is somewhat surprising to learn that the state has a permanent alligator population.

If the species is not preserved, however, there will be none in the future. It is estimated that the population has declined by 500 during the last five years.

House Should Endorse Campaign On Cancer

The U.S. Senate has approved an agency charged with making a final breakthrough in the war on cancer and certainly the House should act favorably, also.

The U.S. government spends huge amounts of money on research every year, much of it defense oriented. Surely any funds spent to relieve the great suffering caused by cancer will be of great benefit to mankind.

Finding the causes and cures for cancer may be difficult, but with the proper emphasis the nation which developed the atomic bomb and which put men on the moon can solve this health problem, too.

Experimenting In Economics

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WARSAW — The threat of unsolved economic problems in Poland, such as those which collapsed the old Gomulka regime last December, has convinced the Soviet Union to encourage the new Gierek regime to make economic experiments unthinkable in the past.

The reason: the Kremlin must have a relatively stable Poland on its western frontier. A repetition of last December's spontaneous workers' revolt could conceivably lead both to civil war and Soviet intervention which could, in turn, produce what one Polish politician termed a "Soviet Vietnam."

That explains what happened last spring. Resourceful, pragmatic Edward Gierek, who once worked as a coal miner in France and who — in the words of one top party official — "hates paper but likes people," was forced to rescind the food price increase imposed by Gomulka for a promised two years. Responding, Moscow quickly filled the national income gap with a $100 million hard-currency loan and a million tons of Russian wheat.

Likewise, when Polish economic planners drafting the new five-year plan asked Moscow for more crude oil, the oil-shy Russians did not say nyet but instead advised the Poles for the first time since Poland came under the Communist party to seek its needed oil from the capitalists—that is, on the world market. Polish oil-hunters quickly began negotiations with the British Producers and signed a ten-year contract starting in 1975 for three million tons of crude oil a year at a total cost close to half a billion dollars.

To process that crude oil, the Poles will build a new refinery at the Baltic seaport of Gdansk (Danzig). Much of the refined products, it is hoped by Gierek's economic planners (some of whom are outside the Communist party), will fuel Polish-made automobiles. Under the new but not yet announced five-year plan, the 50,000 Polish-made Fiats being produced today will be more than doubled. New Contracts for another automobile plant will soon be announced.

This heavy emphasis on the development of light industry is the keystone of the new five-year plan. In addition to automobiles, Gierek's planners talk of doubling cement production for new housing, while investment in heavy industry is severely curtailed.

The Gierek target is an increase in real wages of 4 percent a year, more than double the tepid pace of the past five years which led to the workers' revolt in December. But whether he can reach that ambitious goal may depend very largely on the Russians. For example, almost two million extra workers will be coming into the job market in the next five years, the first large post-war crop of babies in a country that did not recover from its multi-million losses until the 1950s.

Typically, Gierek's first edict in the economic mess he inherited was to force-feed Polish farmer with profits in a way unthinkable in the doctrine and intellectually sterile days of Gomulka. To put profit into farming, Gierek ended the production-defeating system of tax progression (the higher the production, the larger the taxes), raised state prices paid to farmers for their output, made it easier for farmers to get investment loans (for a new barn, for example), and ended the tyrannical system of compulsory deliveries (which prevented profitable specialization).

If the efforts to make farmers out of peasants actually work, Poland will have the freest, most profitable farm economy in Eastern Europe. But as one top policymaker in the new regime told us: "We are not advertising these changes as any brave new economic plan. We're sneaking into them as quietly as we can."

Despite this obvious play to Moscow, it is highly doubtful that Big Brother Kremlin is (Cont'd on Page 9)

Strength For Today

AND MORE ON PRAYER

There is a popular figure on television who often ends his program with the statement: "God bless you good." A bit ungrammatical but effective nonetheless.

Let us always remember that God sent his Son into the world to condemn the world but that the world through him might be saved (John 3:17)

Some people live in constant fear of God. When the Bible uses the term "fear of God" it does not mean a cringing, terrifying sort of fear (unless we are engaged in activities that should terrify us). God is love (I John 4:8). If we may use the term "substance" in speaking of God, then we can say with confidence that love is the substance of which God is made. The thing we call love (parents for children, men and women for each other, love for one's country) is a manifestation of love. God puts love into our hearts and expects us to respond favorably to the divine advances which, among other things, reveal to us the nature of God. He is not just waiting to get his hands on us and punish us (much as we may deserve it), but He is anxious to "bless us good." We need to fear God only when we are doing something of an evil nature that makes us cringe. God should be our delight, and will be, if we allow Him to enter our lives and take possession thereof.

A Prayer For Tourists

LONDON — According to The Times of London, the Greek Orthodox Church has just issued a new prayer asking the Lord to protect the Greek people from tourists. The prayer, which is to be said by monks and nuns every morning and every evening, goes like this: "Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, have mercy on the cities, the island and the villages of our Orthodox fatherland, as well as the holy monasteries, which are scourged by the worldly touristic wave.

"Grace us with a solution to this dramatic problem and protect our brethren who are sorely tried by the modernistic spirit of these contemporary Western invaders."

Now it's only fair if the monks and nuns are beseeching the Lord with antitourist prayers that the tourists get equal time. So I have written a prayer for tourists which they must recite when they get up in the morning and go to bed at night.

It goes like this:

Other Editors Say Guaranteed Ruin

(Henderson Dispatch)

Many who look the stern economic facts of life straight in the eye are warning against a guaranteed annual wage of $2,400 a year, which is included in the welfare reform program before Congress.

One such is Archie K. Davis, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, who is chairman of the board of Wachovia Bank & Trust Company of Winston-Salem.

The "family assistance plan," as it is designated, was approved by the House some days ago, and is awaiting action in the Senate where it will probably be approved.

President Nixon will most likely sign the measure when it reaches him. Davis spoke in Chicago before the convention of the Printing Industries of America.

Davis said what others have thought, that while the initial $2,400 for a family of four is but a starter, there is already talk, even before it becomes law, of increasing the handout to $6,500 a year.

Authorization of such a fantastic, fanatical scheme is usually but the beginning. Look at Social Security, for example. When that was railroaded through Congress by President Roosevelt during the depression of the 1930s, he said no one would ever pay more than $30 a year to support the program.

Davis said another feature of the bill would raise the combined Social Security tax to $2,086 by 1980, or 157 per cent higher than the current rate.

Davis mentioned three problems which weaken our competitive position in the world and will ultimately threaten our standard of living unless we wake up to reality.

These problems, he said, are more capable competition from abroad, chronic inflation, and continual deficit spending.

"If we yield to the siren song of protectionism and run away from the fight, it will be the beginning of the end for the supremacy of the American standard of living."

It's time and long past for Americans to become conscious of the hazards of the dead-end road down which they are traveling at breakneck speed.

We may bury our heads in the sand in the thought that these cares and worries will, like the proverbial Arabs, fold their tents and silently steal away. But it's not that simple. It's a genuine imminent threat to the nation's very existence.

Corporations and the United States government itself have to pay similarly high interest to restore the true value of the lenders' money. More Inflation Slashes But the rugged effects of inflation are widespread. Items:

Inflation causes strikes. The General Motors strike last year, which deepened the recession, was a blow because the Auto Workers were being robbed of buying power by inflation. They were determined to get additional paper dollars to keep up, and possibly increase, their families' buying power. Inflation is toughening the attitude of the United Steelworkers who see the buying power of their wages shrinking, and their strike, come August, could plunge the country into another recession.

Inflation slows down business spending. Corporations, not knowing what the cost of a new plant will be by the time it is finished, postpone commitments.

Consumers are speeding up purchases for immediate needs and postponing buying of major products because they know prices are going up but don't know how much.

Pensioners, Workers The government is being forced to increase Social Security benefits and pensions because the beneficiaries are losing buying power. This will eventually mean higher taxes for the rest of us.

Inflation is increasing unemployment, regardless of what government figures pretend to show. Unemployment has been and will continue to rise because employers, facing rising labor and materials costs, are laying off as many workers as they can, even closing unproductive plants.

Planning by corporations, cities, states and families is

Newest Status Guide

By BOB HARING
Associated Press Writer
EAST BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Suburban status is a lot of garbage.

No longer is ranking among subdivision peers determined by the number of bathrooms in the house, the number of cars shared with the finance company or the size of the family boat.

In these days of ecology over all, it's garbage that carries the weight.

How you pack your garbage cans, the kind of bag you use or even if you use a bag tell your story.

Even the quality of the garbage—that is, what you throw away—is a factor.

The newcomer to suburbia is labeled by his bright new cans. Whether they are colorful plastic or shiny metal tells a lot about the family, even before you meet the wife, see the dog and break up the first fight with the kids.

It says a lot more if they bring along the old garbage cans—from the old neighborhood, packed with books or tools or last summer's clothes. For one thing, that probably means the company didn't pay for this move.

Then there is the numbers game. It is better to cram your garbage into a single large can, which in its loneliness on the curb bespeaks of a tidy, thrifty housekeeper who wastes not and wants not? That also carries the prestigious implication that you're saving cans and bottles and rags and papers for recycling. It also means you probably cannot safely walk through the basement for all the cans and bottles and rags and papers, but the neighbors don't know that—unless they're also saving for recycling.

Or is it better to display the remains of your good life in four or five heaping cans?

Opening lead: King of ♠ Today's hand provoked a great deal of comment when it was dealt in a recent tournament because most of the North-South pairs that played it arrived at a contract of only four spades. After West opened the king of clubs and then continued the suit, South ruffed in and proceeded to draw trump and claim 12 tricks inasmuch as he had more than enough heart ruffs and diamond discards to dispose of his remaining losers.

At most tables the first three bids were the same as those presented in the diagram above. South was looking at a hand worth 13 points [10 in high cards, two for the singleton and one for the fifth spade once that suit had been supported]. In a slam such as partner's jump raise announces 17 to 19 points, it appeared that the requirements for a small slam [33] were a bit beyond reach and many of the South players were content to merely proceed to four spades. There was considerable discussion, of course, when the deal was concluded as to why the partnership had not bid the slam.

Some Souths contended that North should have jumped to four spades on the second round. This actually occurred at a few tables with mixed results. Over four spades, South cue bid the ace of diamonds. A few Norths felt by this time that they had done their full duty on a holding worth 18 points in support, counting high cards and distribution [the jump rebid to four spades announces 20 points in support] and they signed off at five spades which South passed.

At a couple of tables, North bid five hearts over five diamonds to show the ace of hearts and South, holding a singleton club, now bid the slam in spades.

While we have no objection to a four spade call since South needs only a four card spade suit headed by the king-queen to give himself a reasonable play for game, we favor the bidding sequence given in the diagram. This auction occurred at most of the tables where the slam was actually bid.

Altho South has only an average hand in high card content, he has added values in the form of a good suit and outside controls including a fitting honor in partner's suit. North has promised four spades by virtue of the jump raise. If he has a long diamond suit as well, slam may well be in the offing.

A cue bid of four diamonds cannot cost anything, inasmuch as South is making his try below the game level. When North cue bids the ace of hearts, South is temporarily obliged to sign off at four spades, since he has nothing extra.

North can visualize the possibility of slam at this point if his partner does not have two club losers. South should have either the king or queen of spades to warrant his try—and if he has the club control, a six spade contract will hinge on a trump finesse, at the worst. North's five spade call asks about the only unbid suit, clubs. Inasmuch as South has a singleton, it becomes routine for him to bid the slam and after the opening lead, the play becomes equally routine.

And how about bags? The good old brown paper supermarket sack, now made hardy against the perils of sippy garbage, competes with the plastic bag, tied neatly at the top but splitting its bottom seam.

Changes in garbage patterns can be significant.

Checking Hearts On Battlefield

REHOVOT, Israel (AP) — An Israeli scientist has invented a device for measuring the heart-beat under battlefield conditions.

The apparatus is intended to solve a problem which has long vexed doctors and medics: determining which of a number of seriously injured accident victims to treat first.

Prof. David Danon calls his invention the "toy" because of its small size, but it is known officially as the Heart Potential Detector (HPD).

MANILA (UPI)—Anti-smuggling operatives seized untaxed items, including transistorized radios, stereo phonographs, playing cards, whisky and perfumes valued at about $165,000, aboard a foreign vessel. The items were contained in boxes labeled "fish."

NEW YORK (AP) — Traffic deaths, injuries and accidents in the United States during April were $51 million higher in economic losses than in April of 1970, reports the Insurance Information Institute.

The total economic loss was $1.1 billion. About 1.70 million automobile drivers were involved in April accidents.

House Shelves CBS Contempt Citation Showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has indirectly killed the CBS "Selling of the Pentagon" contempt citation without cutting to the constitutional heart of the subpoena dispute.

"The 1st Amendment towers over this proceeding like a colossus, and no esprit de corps, no tenderness of one member for another should cause us to topple over this monument to our liberties," House dean and Judiciary Committee Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said Tuesday during the debate. But instead of going to a direct floor vote that could have forced a court fight between broadcast journalists and legislators, the House laid the case to rest with a parliamentary maneuver that avoided outright rejection of a committee recommendation. "I feel that this is a sad day for the American people," Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said after the House, by a 226-181 vote, returned the citation to his panel. That committee had urged contempt action against the Columbia Broadcasting System for refusing to supply untelevised material from the news documentary. Staggers pronounced the citation dead. "We could do a lot of things, but I don't see any sense in it. It would just be a futile effort." Staggers said he plans no new effort to cite CBS for contempt.

"The vote today showed the awesome power of the television networks and the news media brought to bear on the House," he said. He insisted again he was not attacking the 1st Amendment press freedom in his bid to obtain film leftovers from the documentary that criticized Pentagon public-relations spending.

"This whole thing has been turned around entirely by the news media of this country," he said, adding that eventually something "will have to be done, in some way, to assure the American people that what they are seeing on their home television screens is not calculated deception."

Fischer Wins His 4th Match

DENVER (AP) — U.S. chess expert Bobby Fischer continued his winning streak Tuesday when he forced Bent Larsen of Denmark to resign after 33 moves in the fourth game of their match.

Fischer now leads 4-0 and needs only 1½ points in the remaining six games with Larsen to clinch the match.

Staggers had sought the citation against CBS and network president Frank Stanton in an effort to obtain the outtakes to check out charges questions and answers were mismatched through electronic manipulation unnoticed by the viewer.

Nguyen Ky 'Disassociates' From Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky kicked off his campaign to replace President Nguyen Van Thieu with an open letter today accusing Thieu of wholesale renegeing on campaign promises, dictatorial practices and trying to rig the coming election.

Ky said he was disassociating himself from Thieu, making official a split that has been apparent for months, and would run against him in the Oct. 3 election.

There was no immediate comment from the Presidential Palace. With a lull continuing in the war, Ky's letter shifted attention to politics.

The vice president said he was Thieu's running mate four years ago because he wanted to inspire the people and the army "by this expression of unity at the leadership level."

"I had then no other hope than to see you achieve the national objectives which you had defined yourself," Ky continued. "However, none of those objectives has been attained today."

Ky said those "unfulfilled promises" were responsible for a state of "stagnation and of regression which has weakened the efforts of this nation in its fight against Communism."

"Moreover, because of your excessive attachment to power, you have indulged in dictatorial practices—preferring the flatteries of sycophants over the advices of honest counsels. This is the reason why my voice has not been heard. This is the reason why unconstitutional, illegal and repressive actions have continually developed."

Ky said he had decided to run for the presidency to bring "appropriate reparation to the mistakes which have been made during the past four years, and to respond to the expectations of the people and the army."

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court ruled constitutional the amendment to the electoral law which Thieu sponsored to restrict the number of presidential candidates drastically. Ky in his letter said the amendment violates the constitution and Thieu four years ago had "ardently opposed" just such restrictions.

"As the country prepares itself for the election," Ky wrote Thieu, "you now silence the opposition and muzzle the press. Furthermore, you apply pressure on members of the Congress, of the municipal and provincial councils to prevent them from sponsoring the candidates who you fear. Indeed, I know of no instances when ar-

Seeks Repeal

RALEIGH (AP) — A Wake County senator says he will make an attempt to change a new law giving North Carolina's citizens 18 to 21 years old the right to buy liquor.

Sen. Ruffin Bailey introduced a bill Tuesday calling for the repeal of a law passed earlier this year lowering the age of majority to 18.

The bill, which became effective when the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution was ratified, extended the full rights of adulthood to citizens down to age 18.

Bailey said he and other senators would attempt to make technical corrections in the bill but also planned to seek a new law restoring to 21 the minimum age for purchases in ABC stores.

He said changes also would be sought in provisions dealing with tax exemptions.

Actor Sues CBS For $25 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Robert Stack has filed a $25 million damage suit against CBS in connection with the network's controversial documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

The suit, filed Tuesday in Superior Court, said the documentary depicted Stack as supporting U.S. military involvement in Vietnam when he actually opposed it.

The actor said the film implied he was one of several performers who received large sums of money for appearing in movies intended to induce the public to back the U.S. military in the Vietnam war.

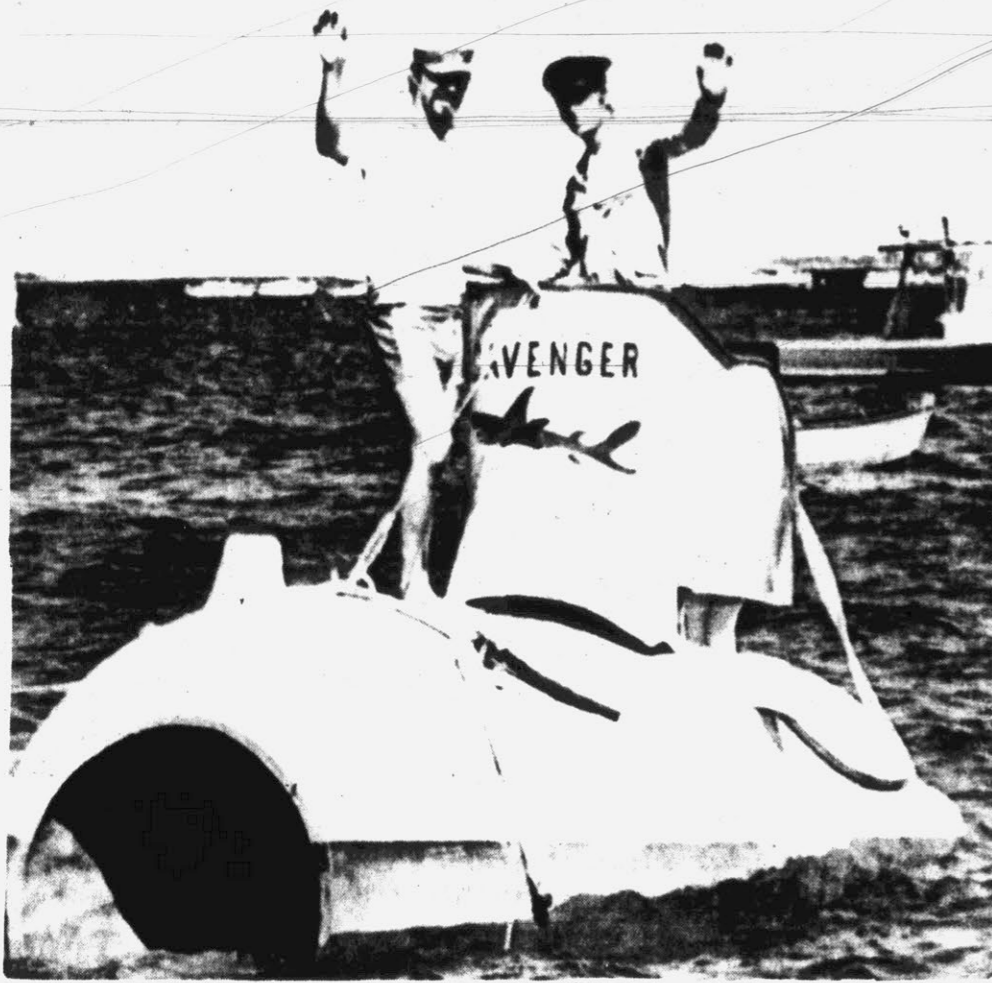

He said he received no compensation for his work in an Air Force training film, a few seconds of which appeared in the documentary.

Polk Approves One-Cent Levy

COLUMBUS, N.C. (AP) — Polk County has approved a one-cent sales tax for local purposes.

The tax, which will be in addition to the statewide 3 per cent tax, won 877-301 in a special election Tuesday.

The western North Carolina county has more than 5,000 registered voters.

HOPE TO RECOVER TREASURE — Michael Cushman, right, and Roger Prechette wave from deck of two-man submarine after the craft was launched at Beverly, Mass. in preparation for start of sea trials. Cushman built the 18-foot fiberglass and cement sub in his backyard in hopes the submarine will be seeworthy for salvage operations on the Italian liner Andrea Doria which went to the bottom of Nantucket in 1956. Cushman hopes to start diving operations next spring. (AP Wirephoto)

Changes For Nat'l Guard

RALEIGH (AP) — Three major command changes in the North Carolina Army National Guard resulting from retirements were announced Tuesday by Adjutant Gen. Ferd Davis.

Davis announced that Lt. Col. Bious Williamson Jr. of Hamlet has been named commanding officer of the 205th Medical Detachment (Dental Service), located at the Raleigh-Durham Airport, succeeding Col. Thomas E. Perry of Raleigh.

Lt. Col. James M. Potter Jr. of Zebulon has been appointed commander of the 5th Battalion, 113th Artillery, headquartered in Louisburg, succeeding Lt. Col. John B. Fleming of Raleigh.

Lt. Col. Edward H. Wade of Cary has been appointed commander of the 1st Squadron, 196th Cavalry, headquartered in Concord, succeeding Lt. Col. James E. Harrington Jr. of Pinehurst.

First Vote For Young Voters

Voters 18 to 21 years old balloted for the first time in North Carolina Tuesday at Black Mountain, near Asheville, voters approved legal liquor sales. The unofficial count was 556 to 485 votes in favor of establishing an ABC liquor store.

At Spruce Pine in Mitchell County, Mayor Albert L. Canipe, who was unopposed, and the town's three aldermen were reelected.

Voted Against Liquor Stores

THOMASVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Citizens of Thomasville have voted against opening the first ABC liquor stores in Davidson County.

Legalization of the sale of liquor in the city lost 1,803-1,655 Tuesday. The county is dry on all counts, beer and wine as well as liquor.

Berrigans To Col. George W. Seek Parole Gillette Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Board of Parole has announced it will hear parole applications July 28 by imprisoned antiwar priests Philip and Daniel Berrigan.

The Berrigans are in the Federal Correctional Institute at Danbury, Conn., for destroying draft records.

Philip, who began serving his sentence July 5, 1968, becomes eligible for parole Sept. 14. He is serving concurrent six-and three-year sentences.

Daniel, who began serving his three-year sentence Aug. 11, 1970 is eligible for parole Aug. 2.

Philip was named in a federal indictment as the mastermind of an alleged plot to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and blow up heating tunnels for Washington buildings in an effort to force an end to the Vietnam war. He refused to plead to the charges and a plea of innocent was entered for him in proceedings in Harrisburg, Pa.

Daniel was named a co-conspirator but not a defendant in the original indictment but his name was dropped when the grand jury drew up a new indictment.

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Col. George William Gillette, who was internationally known as an engineer and economic consultant for ports, harbors and waterways, is dead at the age of 83.

Gillette, who served with the U.S. Corps of Army Engineers from 1916 until his retirement in 1948, died Tuesday at a Wilmington hospital after an illness.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at St. James Episcopal Church in Wilmington.

After World War I, Gillette served as the Corps of Engineers division engineer in the New England and South Atlantic divisions. Upon retirement he became the first director of the North Carolina State Ports Authority.

He is credited with a study during his military service prior to World War II that led to the establishment of the Camp Lejeune Marine Base near Jacksonville, N.C. He also was regarded as the first military man to study and recommend the establishment of Ft. Bragg near Fayetteville, N.C., described as the world's largest military post.

As the first ports authority director, he planned and supervised design of the state ports at Wilmington and Morehead City and operated the two facilities until he resigned in 1954.

He then became a consultant and visited most of the major ports and waterways of the world.

He is survived by one son, George W. Gillette Jr. of Laurinburg, N.C., and a daughter, Mrs. J. A. Miller of Falmouth, Mass. Another son, Douglas Wiley Gillette, a naval officer, was killed in the Battle of the Coral Sea aboard the aircraft carrier Hornet in 1942.

Ethics Bill Is Killed Off

RALEIGH (AP) — The Senate Calendar Committee killed Tuesday a legislative ethics bill that would have applied only to members of the House of Representatives.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake, had 70 House signatures on it and had passed the House without a dissenting vote. Sen. Ruffin Bailey, D-Wake, succeeded in getting the bill referred to the Senate committee and then convinced that committee to kill it.

Bailey said he regarded the suggestion that a code of ethics is needed as unjustified criticism of the legislators. The Senate killed a similar bill, that applied to both chambers, in 1969. Twigg had intentionally left the Senate out of this year's bill, which would have called for a bipartisan board to study the need for a code of ethics that could be adopted as part of the House rules in 1973.

All Historic Sites To Be Authentic

By H. G. Jones, Director
N.C. Department of Archives and History

For the Associated Press
RALEIGH (AP) — An attempt is being made to document the authenticity of every historic place in North Carolina, whether it is of national, state, or local interest.

This is a long-range project of the state Department of Archives and History. The purpose is to record correctly — in many cases for the first time — the background of the state's historic properties.

The survey is roughly following North Carolina's lines of settlement from the coast to the mountains. However, some documentation already has been assembled for almost every part of the state.

The survey seven-member staff, part of the department's Division of Historic Sites and Museums, includes a supervisor, an architectural historian, two researchers, an editorial assistant, a photographer and a secretary.

Approximately 2,000 North Carolina properties already have been researched, and the more significant ones are scheduled to be nominated for inclusion on the National Register of Historic Places.

More than 125 properties have been nominated so far for inclusion on the register, but more than 1,000 places in North Carolina are expected to be listed eventually.

The register includes districts, buildings, structures, and objects significant in American history and architecture.

As a result of the survey staff's work, a wide variety of properties has been nominated for inclusion on the National Register.

Representative of the variety are Orton Plantation near Southport, the Cupola House in Edenton, the Capitol in Raleigh, St. Thomas Church in Bath, a cotton press on the Tarboro town square, the old Yates Mill in Wake County, the old Wilkes County Jail where Tom Dula was held for a time and the town of Flat Rock — which is being considered as a historic district.

The diversification is intended to give future generations a comprehensive view of the state's history without undue emphasis on the finer plantation homes and mansions.

In addition to contributing to a general historical awareness, listing on the National Register provides limited protection for the property.

A federally funded project that would alter or destroy a listed site must be reviewed by the federal government.

A law passed by the 1971 General Assembly requires a review by the North Carolina Advisory Council on Historic Preservation when any state-funded or state-licensed project endangers a property on the National Register.

Cooperation of residents of a locality will play a large role in locating historic properties in their areas.

Participation of individuals and organizations also will be essential after properties have been researched and documented to assure they are properly preserved.

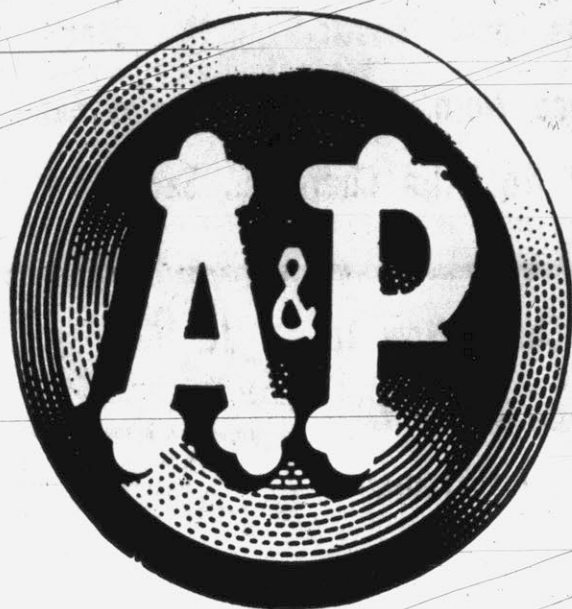

Hula Hoop Nat'l Contest Slated

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — School's out and since the hula hoop's not dead, the national Hula Hoop Championships will take place in August, says Irv Lander, director.

Some 800,000 youngsters are expected to participate in neighborhood contests at park and recreation centers nationwide. Lander says the hoop's not dead because each year since the contest started in 1967 more than 100,000 additional youngsters participated.

Have Neighbor Check Premises

NEW YORK (UPI) — Before going on vacation and leaving home or apartment vacant, try to arrange to have a neighbor check the premises every few days. Aside from watering plants and feeding the fish, they can note any irregularities. This person should have instructions on what to do if a problem arises — fuses to check, or a plumber, electrician or a policeman to call.

Horse 'Flu' Is Watched

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — A disease akin to sleeping sickness has caused flu-like illnesses in several Texans and several thousand Mexicans. It has been blamed for the deaths of 3,000 horses in Mexico and is known to have struck more than 100 horses in Texas.
 Efforts under way in Texas to halt the disease—called Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis, or VEE—include a program to vaccinate horses, a quarantine of all horses in the state, and the spraying of an insecticide to kill mosquitoes that spread it.
 Officials say VEE is spread by three or four varieties of mosquitoes and strikes the central nervous systems of horses. It can spread to humans if a mosquito bites an infected horse and then bites a human.
 In Mexico Tuesday, President Luis Echeverria visited an area where the disease has killed 3,000 horses and has made 90 per cent of the 5,000 residents ill in less than eight days.
 "All the horses have died and we don't have anything to work with," a farmer told Echeverria. "The fields have not been sown and we have no hope."
 Dr. James Peavy of the Texas Health Department said seven persons have been hospitalized at Brownsville with VEE symptoms. A hospital spokesman said three remained hospitalized Tuesday.
 Officials said observable signs of the disease in horses include fever, loss of appetite, disorientation and "circling"—the horse cannot remain still and walks in circles, often around a small tree or cactus plant.

 The Reservation, located on both sides of the Pamlico River some ten miles east of Washington, is part of a land development program started in 1966 by the East Carolina Council, Boy Scouts of America, in an effort to develop adequate camping facilities.
 According to George Watson, chairman of the dedication committee, the ceremonies will be held on the south side of the river. Signs will be set up to guide persons to the site, Watson pointed out. A route along Highway 33 east from Chocowinity approximately five miles out to a paved road turning left at the Hill Point Fort historical marker will lead visitors to the camping site.

Teacher Pay Ayden Board Holds Funds Voted Monthly Meeting

RALEIGH (AP) — The Joint Appropriations Committee voted another $4.3 million today to extend the term of school teachers' employment by two days.
 This came as the committee approved an amendment by Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, to up the recommendation of a joint subcommittee by one day.

AYDEN — At the Ayden town board's monthly meeting Monday it was announced that Harry Mumford would again be named to serve the town as mayor pro-tem and Bob Booth was retained as town attorney. Ross S. Persinger is mayor.
 The board covered several other areas of business. The section of land that is between Highway 11 and the bypass has been changed from zone RA10, a residential-agricultural zoning, to an industrial zone.

 Edge Road and an unnamed road in Belaire Estates were named public streets and annexed into the town of Ayden. The board also passed a resolution to pave Thrower Street.
 It was resolved that the Community Building, which has been renting for $5 without the kitchen and $6 with, would be renovated. The new prices will be: $8 without kitchen and $10 with for Ayden residents; $15 without kitchen and $17 with for out-of-town residents.
 It was decided that the carport of the library is surplus material, and consequently will be sold by bids at a later date.
 The board adopted two new policies — the open ditch policy and the sidewalk policy. In order for the town to install pipes in a ditch, a petition with the signatures from 70 percent of the land owners affected must be submitted. The ditch must either be the town's ditch that drains public property, or a ditch on private property that also serves the town.
 The sidewalk policy makes it mandatory for 70 percent of the land owners involved and the owners of 70 percent of the lineal footage of the property involved to sign a petition.

Schools-Closing Hearing Is Set

 At 4:00 p.m. on Tuesday, August 3, a public hearing will be conducted on the closing of Sugg, Farmville, Ayden and Grifton High Schools.
 The hearing will be held in the board room of the Pitt County Board of Education office on the third floor of the annex of the Pitt County Courthouse.

Morrison Award Given Director

MANTEO, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott presented the Morrison Award to director and choreographer Joe Layton before Tuesday evening's performance of "The Lost Colony."
 Layton has been director of the outdoor drama for the past eight years. He has won "Emmy" and "Tony" awards for his work in New York City, where he makes his permanent home.
 The Morrison award is named for a North Carolina patron of the arts, Fred W. Morrison, and has frequently been presented to artists connected with "The Lost Colony."

Pickets Appear

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Pickets appeared at most Southern Bell and Western Electric installations in North Carolina this morning as the state's members of Communications Workers of America joined a nationwide strike against the Bell System.
 Union officials said early today they could not judge the effectiveness of the strike. The pickets were posted shortly after the 6 a.m. strike deadline.
 Bell spokesmen said they expected little difficulty during the beginning stages of the strike because most of the telephone equipment is automatic. However, they expressed fears that a prolonged strike might lead to breakdowns.
 Managements personnel were being used to fill positions vacated by the strikers.

Home Runs Power AL Stars Past NL In 6-4 Game

By KEN RAPPOPORT
DETROIT (AP) — After eight years of All-Star frustration the American League finally found the silver lining...and it came like a bolt out of the blue.

Reggie Jackson's bolt, not Vida Blue's.

While the fans came to see the sensation AL Blue pitch, they all went home talking about Jackson's really-sparking home run that helped the Americans stop an eight-game losing streak with a 6-4 victory over the Nationals in Tuesday night's 42nd All-Star Game.

"That ball really took off and I thought it was going to knock the light tower down," said National League catcher Johnny Bench about Jackson's gigantic, two-run pinch-hit wallop that highlighted a four-run third inning.

Jackson's blast off National League starter Dock Ellis, estimated at close to 600 feet since it hammered against the facade over the upper deck of Tiger Stadium's right-center field, touched off an American League power spree.

Frank Robinson delivered a two-run shot later in the inning and Harmon Killebrew followed with the clincher, another two-run smash in the sixth.

The Jackson shot helped the American League wipe out an early 3-0 National League advantage, built on two homers off Blue, the Oakland A's usually untouchable 17-game winner.

"Good pitching doesn't always stop good hitting," said Blue, referring to the old baseball adage.

He spoke from experience. Blue, who came into the contest touted as baseball's best pitcher, breezed through the first three batters before dealing a gopher pitch to Bench, who smacked a two-run homer in the National League second.

Blue then gave up another homer in the third inning, this time to Hank Aaron.

Despite an unparalleled 17-3 record and 188 strikeouts just halfway through the season, the Blue Blazer admitted he's only human.

"I'm no super All-Star," said Blue, who said he was "nervous before I threw the first pitch" in his first performance in an All-Star game.

So Blue was saddled with a quick three-run deficit and the partisan 53,559 fans in the Detroit Tigers' ancient park probably wondered if their American League heroes would ever win a game and cut into the National League's 23-17 advantage.

Then light-hitting shortstop Luis Aparacio hit a sharp single in the third and Jackson came in to bat for Blue, his Oakland teammate.

Jackson, a last-minute replacement for injured All-Star Tony Oliva, had two strikes on him before he knew it.

The next pitch sailed off Jackson's bat like a bullet and was greeted by a thunderous ovation as the home fans applauded the American League's first two runs. The Nationals didn't know it at the time, but it was all over.

While the American stars pounded the cover off the ball, Weaver still wasn't sure about the outcome until third baseman Brooks Robinson pocketed Bench's popup for the last out.

"You always feel like you'll blow the lead," said Baltimore's spunky, little manager. "You've got to have a pitcher ready. I'm nervous as hell, and I just can't relax until the ball's caught for the final out."

Weaver lad hometown favorite Mickey Lolich in the bullpen to calm his nerves. The Detroit pitcher was touched for the National League's last run, a homer by Roberto Clemente, before he retired the final five batters.

"It was a hitters' night," said National League Manager Sparky Anderson. "I've seen both Dock Ellis and Vida Blue a lot sharper."

Little Mint, Coke Take Wins In Tourney Games

Little Mint, the regular season champ in the Ladies Softball League, opened tournament play last night with a 11-4 win over Piggly Wiggly. Coke also moved into the winner's bracket with a 19-2 trouncing of Wachovia.

In the opening game, both teams started slowly and were tied 1-1 going into the fourth. Joyce Martin's hit, a fielders choice on Jan Moore grounder and an error brought in one run for Piggly Wiggly to give them a short lead in the first inning.

Little Mint tied it up in their half of the inning on singles by Dorcus Carter and Linda Tripp and a double by Laura Kilpatrick.

Piggly Wiggly pushed over three runs in the fourth inning but Little Mint provided some frameworks of their own when they came to bat. Margie Harris singled for PW but was thrown out when Mary Strauss hit into a fielder's choice. Strauss then came around to score on a hit by Marie Mayo and another single by Sherry Mills brought Mayo home. Mills scored on a hit by Martin.

In Little Mint's half of the inning, eight runs came around and the game was out of reach for Piggly Wiggly. Kilpatrick started things off with a single and Kelly, Harris and Jones all got hits to score three runs. A hit by Dorris Garish brought in Jones with the fourth run and another single by Winkie Phillips scored Garish. Carol Manuel was safe on a fielder's choice and a double by Carter scored Phillips. A homer by Linda Tripp brought in the final two runs of the inning.

Little Mint added two more runs in the sixth on singles by Phillips, Carter, Tripp and Kilpatrick. Piggly was unable to score following the fourth inning.

In the second game, Coke scored five runs in the bottom of the first inning and coasted the rest of the way. Elva Worthington was safe on an error. Mary Cole tripled in Worthington and scored on Liz Samsel's hit. Linda Summerlin was safe on a miscue and Gay Garris' hit brought in Samsel with the third run. Following two grounders that moved the runners up, Ronda Mills got a hit to score the final two runs.

Wachovia came up with one run in the second on singles by Lois Harris, Libby Epley and Anne Beale but Coke pushed across seven more in the bottom of the inning to ice the game. Coke added seven more runs in the fourth inning to finish up the scoring for them and Wachovia got a single run in the sixth inning.

Games Thursday night will put Little Mint against Foodland and Piggly Wiggly against Coke.

HOME RUN HITTERS — Frank Robinson, Harmon Killebrew and Reggie Jackson, left to right, are all smiles in clubhouse after their home runs defeated the National League 6-4 in

All Star game in Detroit Tuesday night. Each hit a home run with a man on, with Killebrew's blow in sixth inning proving to be winning runs. (AP Wirephoto)

Long Hits Anticipated By Downcast Anderson

By CHARLES C. CAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP) — American League Manager Earl Weaver came up with a new victory formula Tuesday night as his home-run conscious team cashed in on the long ball to nip the National League 6-4.

"I had a meeting with the team before the game and reminded them they still have a major share of the American League race left and I cautioned them not to take chances or to get hurt, even though we wanted to win the game."

The American Leaguers, seeking to avoid the possibility of a base runner being injured in trying to stretch a hit, did their scoring the easy way as all six of their runs jogged across the plate as a result of home run wallops.

"I'd expected to see some long-ball hitting in this park," said Sparky Anderson, somewhat downcast manager of the National League team whose eight-year domination of the annual All-Star classic came to an end in the action-packed meeting at Tiger Stadium.

Anderson, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, expressed surprise, however, that all runs scored in the long-hitting game scampers across the plate as a result of home runs.

He conceded that both starting pitchers, fireballing Vida Blue of the Oakland A's and Dock Ellis of Pittsburgh's National League club, got roughed up more than he had anticipated.

Blue was tagged for three runs, on home run shots by Johnny Bench and Hank Aaron, in his three-inning opening stint but he still wound up the winning pitcher as the American Leaguers came to life with a four-run outburst against Ellis in a third inning ignited by a pair of home runs.

Reggie Jackson, in the game as a pinch hitter for Blue, hit the first homer off the blazing-fast Ellis. It was a tremendous line shot to right-center field that bounded off a light tower high atop the third deck at Tiger Stadium as 53,559 fans reacted in amazement.

Bench, whose own two-run homer had started the NL on its scoring for the night, was more interested in talking about Jackson's drive.

"That ball really took off and I thought it was going to knock the light tower down," he said with a grin. "Seriously, if the ball hadn't hit the tower it probably would be still rolling."

Jackson, nibbling on a piece of pizza as a swarm of newsmen surrounded him in the AL dressing room, said his tape-measure wallop came on a slider. "I hit it pretty good," he said in an understatement.

Into 2nd Round

St. James advanced into the second round of the American League Tournament last night by trouncing First Christian 18-8. In the other game, Meadowbrook won by a forfeit over Trinity.

St. James, the regular season champs, scored two in the first but First Christian came back in their half of the inning to take the lead with five runs. Billy Rivels reached on an error and advanced to second on the paly. Jeff Wilson drove him in with a home run. Sheron Bennett and Dave Davis both reached on singles and another homer by Dave Marvin Hunt allowed them to score.

St. James went ahead in the third on four runs and went ahead to stay by adding five more in the fifth. Bill Shaw reached on an error and moved up on hits by Ed Smith and Ricky Chambers. A double by Ron Vincent scored Shaw and Smith and a home run by Charles Vincent drove in Ron Vincent. St. James added one in the fifth, four in the sixth, and one in the seventh.

St. James will face the winner of the Presbyterian contest next Monday night at 9:00 while Trinity takes on First Christian Friday in the losers bracket.

Bob Galloway Leading By Stroke In Carolinas Open

HELP FOR A FRIEND—Lee Trevino, recent British Open winner, sees his suggestions put to use as Chi-Chi Rodriguez puts during practice round in Chicago suburban Olympia Fields. Associated Press Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE (AP) — Before the Carolinas Open Golf Tournament began at the Carolina Golf and Country Club, host pro Rob Landham expressed the opinion that the four par three holes on the 6,300-yard, par 70 course would be critical in the 54-hole event.

They are rugged little holes, three measuring over 200 yards. Just when first round leader Bob Galloway appeared to have mastered them Tuesday with two birdies and a par in his first three skirmishes with the mighty mites, he stubbed his toe on No. 9—his final hole of a round in which he began play on the 10th tee.

Galloway overshot the green on the 202-yard ninth, the ball bounding into a trap, and he wound up with his only bogey of a 35-32-67 round.

That left him with a one-shot lead over Tommy Card, Carolinas PGA president from Raleigh, going into today's second round of the $15,000 tournament, worth $2,500 to the top pro.

Card had played the par fours in two under, finishing with eight pars for his 34-34-68 over a course that was steaming like an oven in the heat.

Only two other players in the record field of 227 that took over the course from 8 a. m. to 8:15 p. m. managed to break par. Charlotte pro Dick Tiddy and amateur Scott Irby of Washington, N. C., each carded

69. Three players equalled par 70, two of them amateurs—Bobby Edgerton of Raleigh and David Watkins of Anderson, S. C. Pro Larry Parker of Charlotte joined them at that figure.

Galloway, playing out of the Westport Club at Denver, N. C., never has won a major tournament, although long recognized as one of the better players in North Carolina from his collegiate playing days at the University of North Carolina. In 1960 he was an NCAA semi-finalist. A few years later he had a brief whirl on the PGA tour and his best finish was 10th in the 1965 Memphis Open. He regards that as his top golf achievement.

Landry To Play Out Option

DETROIT (AP) — Piqued by what he termed a "ludicrous" contract offer from the Detroit Lions, quarterback Greg Landry has served notice that he will play out his option and become a free agent after the 1971-72 National Football League season.

The 24-year-old NFL veteran, who led the Lions to a position in the post-season playoffs last year, divulged his plans at a morning news conference prior to reporting to the Lions' Cranbrook training camp.

Executioner won the Flamingo at Hialeah and ran second to Eastern Fleet in the Florida Derby at Gulfstream.

"I think I'm good enough to win one, if I put it all together," he commented after his four-birdie round that was featured by a 30-foot birdie putt and a 40-footer for a par after he overshot the 14th green.

Three times in a row, starting at No. 6, he saved pars with brilliant chips that left him short putts after he had missed the greens.

Fourteen players were knotted at 71, including such contenders as Greensboro amateurs Bill Harvey and Joe Inman, High Point amateur Dale Morey, and Badin pro Johnny Palmer, winner of the title in 1949-50. Morey was five over after five holes, then shot 71 with a back nine 32. The 72 group included Brad Anderson of Charlotte, winner two years ago, and Furman Hayes of Gastonia, the 1958 champion.

Defending champion Norman Flynn of Lexington, S. C., opened with a shaky 74. Two other former champions, Sonny Ridenhour of Kernersville and Randy Glover of Summerville, S. C., shot 76s.

Luke Veasey of Durham shot a 41 on the back nine, then moved to the front side for a 32 to win comeback honors with his 73.

The field will be trimmed to the low 100 for Thursday's final round.

Wadkins Is Now A Pro

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — U. S. amateur golf champion Lanny Wadkins said Tuesday night he has turned professional and has filed application as a pro for the Virginia State Golf Association Open championship scheduled here July 30-Aug. 1.

Wadkins, who had a year of eligibility left at Wake Forest University, said he had fulfilled the two main requirements for professional entry in the Virginia tournament.

He told the Richmond Times-Dispatch from his apartment in Winston-Salem, N. C., that "under VSGA rules, I qualify as a resident. And I meet the other main qualification in that I will be on the staff of a member club of the VSGA."

Robinson, Jackson: 2 Heroes

DETROIT (AP) — Over the winter Frank Robinson helped straighten out Reggie Jackson's hitting problems by patting him on the back.

Tuesday night they combined to straighten out the American League's losing problem and now both are getting pats on the back.

They each hit two-run homers in the third inning off Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis and later Minnesota's Hamon Killebrew added another two-run shot which powered the American League to a 6-4 victory over the National League in the 42nd annual All-Star Game.

"Jackson got us close, Frank put us ahead, and Killebrew made it easy," summed up Earl Weaver of Baltimore, manager of the victors. Robinson was voted most valuable player of the game by newsmen.

Robinson and Jackson must be considered dual heroes in the slugfest, which stopped the AL's All-Star losing streak at eight. And afterwards they each lauded the other for his performance.

"If I could walk in his image it would be tremendous," the Oakland outfielder said of Robinson in the AL clubhouse.

"I'm not saying he's a god or a saint. But he's the best I've ever seen."

Jackson credited the Baltimore superstar for helping him come back this year from a slumping 1970 season.

Last year Jackson's batting average dropped from .275 to .237, his home run count from 47 to 23 and his RBI total from 118 to 66.

This year he became an All-Star at Weaver's selection only after Tony Oliva of Minnesota decided not to play because of injury.

Trevino Prays Pace Continues

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — "I just hope the wheels don't come off."

Streking Lee Trevino was talking about his phenomenal string of golf championships, capped by his victory in last week's British Open.

"I don't know what's happening, but I hope it doesn't stop," Trevino said today as he prepared for Thursday's first round in the $150,000 Western Open.

"I just hope it keeps going, that this wagon keeps rolling. I like winning golf tournaments."

"I'd gone 13 months without winning. I'd been right up there a lot of times, but something always happened," he said.

"But then, all of a sudden, it just started happening."

He won five tournaments in just over two months, lost another in a playoff and completed an unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles in Southport, England only last Saturday.

His fantastic performance vaulted the 31-year-old Super Mex alongside Jack Nicklaus as the two dominant figures in the game today and stamped him as the man to beat in the 72 hole chase for the $30,000 first prize here.

Probably his chief opposition is Billy Casper, the 1970 Player of the Year but a nonwinner this season. Casper, winner of more than $1 million in prize money, was a late entrant.

He had planned to skip this old event and spend two weeks in Morocco as the guest of King Hassan II, but changed arrangements after bloody political upheavals in that country last weekend.

Some other leading contenders include Masters champ Charles Coody, also a late entrant, defending title-holder Hugh Royer, Gene Littler, George Archer, Miller Barber, Bert Yancey, Doug Sanders, Tom Weiskopf, Frank Beard and Dave Eichelberger, winner of last week's Milwaukee Open.

Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer are taking some time off. Also among the missing are South African Gary Player and England's Tony Jacklin. Former PGA champ Dave Stockton withdrew because of an eye infection.

Tar Heel Gangsters Enjoy A Loose 'Association'

An AP News Special By TOM WELLS Associated Press Writer

There apparently are no oath-taking members of the Cosa Nostra working actively in North Carolina, but law enforcers say Tar Heels are victimized by gangsters who organize murder-for-hire, thievery and other crimes.

Because they form a loose association with locally powerful criminals in other Southern states, the South is said to have a "Dixie Mafia."

Law enforcement officials say the criminals themselves, probably realizing they are strictly small-timers compared to the Cosa Nostra, may have come up with the term "Dixie Mafia" simply to enhance their status in the underworld.

North Carolina has several bosses, but one appears to officers to have a wider range of operations and more power than the others in the state.

The State Bureau of Investigation's Intelligence Division, Max Bryan, says this particular crime boss does not confine his operations to North Carolina and is known to work up and down the eastern seaboard.

The director of the SBI, Charles Dunn, said the gangster is known to run a shoplifting gang and is suspected of being the brains behind robberies, hijackings and even murder for hire.

This crime boss, like others in the so-called Dixie Mafia in the South, has no jealously guarded territories, rakeoffs and wholesale gangland slayings such as the real Mafia, Dunn said.

But that doesn't mean North Carolina's most powerful criminal doesn't hold the power of life and death, the SBI chief said. Dunn quoted one former associate of "the man" as saying he would kill for "the big man" if ordered to do so.

"He holds that much power," Dunn said.

And Bryan, who follows the North Carolina gangsters perhaps as closely as anyone in the state, said those who work for the crime bosses have little doubt that they would be killed

"if they didn't do what they were told."

This particular boss has a long arrest record, but one that includes nothing that has put him out of action for very long.

Bryan said he started out as a flimflammer, making a few bucks here and there through his boldness, cleverness and ability to put on a good act.

And he is known to have had as much as $2 million at one time.

He deals in practically all money-making areas of crime, Bryan said, including narcotics, safe burglaries and even running his own shoplifting ring.

Dunn said he would consider a single year of his job a complete success if he could put this crime boss in prison for good.

"I'd rather lose my job than lose him," Dunn said.

Like other crime bosses in the state, the man knows where he can get narcotics out of state from the Mafia, where he can sell bootleg cigarettes in New York, where he can "fence" stolen jewels and other merchandise in another state, or who to get in contact with if he needs a special job pulled.

Dunn says the man operates this way:

He will get a tip, for example, that a particular doctor in a small town has a very valuable coin collection.

The boss sends in a scout who determines whether the burglary is worth it, when the owner and his family will be away from home, where the coin collection is kept and what kind of safe it might be in.

Then, a burglar is sent in to do the job. Often, an expert is brought in from out of state if the safe requires special handling because of anticipated difficulty in opening it.

The man who masterminds all of this then contacts an out-of-state "fence", someone who will buy the coins and probably resell them to legitimate coin dealers.

The SBI said the shoplifting ring is another area of operation for North Carolina's most successful criminal. Shoplifters move from state to state, the officers said, and are always looking for a job when they come through North Carolina.

A "boss" can give it to them — along with a place to stay, perhaps a house of an associate in the town being hit — and also a guarantee to buy the goods they steal.

The shoplifters, Bryan said, usually are drug addicts and will take what little they are paid with no complaints. They usually deal in narcotics themselves to help support their own habit.

Again, Bryan said, the organizer disposes of the goods out of state. Dunn says the shoplifting ring operates almost exclusively in Charlotte, Durham, Fayetteville. Winston-Salem and Greensboro.

Yet another area of operation for the crime leader's gang is bank burglaries, Dunn said. He selects the town, always a small one, and brings in safe experts from such places as Atlanta or Memphis.

They have been 19 bank burglaries in North Carolina in the last 2½ years, with this particular gangster believed by police to be behind many of them.

He also is suspected of giving the orders on some murders. Bryan said. One was the murder of a man in the western part of the state and owed some money for heroin and wouldn't pay up.

Drought In Old Dust Bowl Sees Undertone Of Fear

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
ALHART, Tex. (AP) — There is a grim humor about drought and hardship among the men who farm this old Dust Bowl area where 35 years ago great black clouds ripped billions of tons of topsoil from the plains.

Cowards, they say, never settled here; the weak never survived.

But talking today to these men, now struggling against the worst drought in the Southwest since the mid-1950s, you sense an uneasiness, an undertone of fear.

The farmers, those who cannot irrigate, talk more of past droughts than this one, recalling how, eventually, the good rains finally came and made the wheat and milo fields productive again.

The point is made. This drought too will end. But the question is will it end in time to prevent massive crop failures this year.

So far, that's strictly the farmer's problem. But if the drought continues, and expands outside those areas of Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas already stricken, the city consumer soon will share his burden.

In addition to the wheat and milo farmers, the giant cattle industry of the area is in dire need of relief. Sustained rains could bring it, but if the rains don't come, lack of grass for breeding herds could force wholesale slaughter.

That would mean, at first, surplus meat and lower prices for consumers. Later, because ranchers had fewer cows, it would bring beef shortages, and soaring prices.

Nothing like this has happened yet, but, cattlemen insist the Southwest is on the verge of such a catastrophe, and marketing experts back them up.

Drought is only part of the story. Another fact is lack of credit in a tight money market to meet the financial demands of modern agriculture; demands complicated by inflation that has the farmer caught in a crunch between rising operating costs and stagnant prices.

Nixon administration experts say inflation is the biggest enemy, and there is evidence that this is so. But its impact is multiplied a hundred-fold by drought. Bills for feed, seed, fertilizer, water, land payments and equipment continue whether it rains or not.

To some, like Harold H. Hogue, neither the drought nor tight credit are critical problems. He farms 12,000 acres in the Panhandle, Hogue has erected defenses against both.

Hogue said his multi-million-dollar investment returns only 2.5 per cent in a years time, less than half of what he could get by investing in savings and loan securities.

"If I had to pay for it all with borrowed money, I wouldn't make it today," Hogue said. "Even in a good year I can expect to make only three to four per cent on what I have."

And there is the crux of the problem for thousands of farmers, including many large commercial operators. As a whole, farmers operate on borrowed capital, betting a low income spring on a bumper crop in the fall. These are the men on the brink of failure.

The drought in the Southwest was six months old before the plight of the area's farmers and ranchers gained national publicity.

President Nixon focused public attention on the problem when he ordered emergency government relief last April.

Since then, the federal government has extended aid through a variety of programs, including loans by the Farmers Home Administration and sales of government-owned feed to cattlemen at reduced prices.

Whether the government had done enough is a subject of debate. Here in Texas, Agricultural Commissioner John C. White voices the prevailing sentiment that much more is needed and that the administration should begin the massive "presidential disaster" programs used to help rehabilitate areas devastated by natural disasters.

In Washington, spokesman for the administration say the problem at this time isn't sufficiently severe to warrant such vast, expensive aid.

The universal question among farmers, in good times and bad, is why can't the government provide larger pools of credit in local or regional areas so they can borrow what they need to survive when local conditions force the banks to get tight?

Various proposals for making more farm credit available are under consideration in Congress. Bankers and cooperative lending agencies give the same reply to the farmer's question: Money is tight, but we generally take care of our good customers, the people who are good managers.

So far, the Southwest drought has not spread into the vast areas held by sun and dust in the 1950s or the '30s.

But the fear that it might happen is very real. Dry weather stresses already have shown up in small areas of Colorado and Kansas. No region in Texas since last fall has received much more than half its normal rainfall.

A Deep Hole For A-Blast

By ROBERT H. MOTTRAM
Associated Press Writer
AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska
(AP) — Raucous blasts of a horn echo painfully on the eardrums in the tall, metal shack on Amchitka Island as a powerful winch begins to draw a human cargo from a room more than a mile below the surface.

The room, slowly taking shape from volcanic rock, will be both a laboratory and a tomb for a nuclear bomb named "Cannikin."

Hard-hatted miners, waiting to go down the hole, seek protection from the chilling wind which never stops blowing across this speck of land in the frigid waters off Alaska.

Outside the shack, about a mile north, lies the icy Bering Sea. Two miles south is the stormy Pacific. East and west of the island the waters of the two seas thunder together in foaming collision.

Suddenly, the 12-minute journey at the end, a small wire cage and a muck skip—a metal container for hauling out mud—slide from the vertical shaft inside the shack. Four mud-covered miners step from the cage, clothing sticking to their bodies like wet bathing suits, throwing clouds of steam into the cold air.

The men are digging the hole for the Atomic Energy Commission. In it, sometime this fall, the AEC will explode the most powerful nuclear bomb ever detonated underground in North America. It will burst with the force of about 5 million tons of TNT. There are critics who fear after affects. The AEC refutes them.

Why will it happen here? Because few places in the world are more remote than Amchitka, part of a thousand-mile chain of Aleutian Islands which stretch from the Alaska Peninsula toward Siberia.

Jumping-off point for Amchitka is Anchorage, from where jet aircraft chartered by the AEC make two round-trip flights weekly.

Near Amchitka, the plane descends through heavy overcast, banks over the ocean and settles toward an airstrip built for World War II bombers in the drive against the Japanese in the western Aleutians.

The ghosts of battles long finished stare through the mists of the island. Airstrips and taxiways, dilapidated warehouses and docks, hundreds of crumbling quonset huts, rusting oil drums and pieces of combat aircraft two wars old lie scattered over the southeastern end of the island, telling a silent story of men who suffered here three decades ago to fight an enemy who now is a friend.

But, amidst the decaying remnants of the past, new voices curse the weather and the work. At the AEC base camp near the airstrip terminal, nearly 600 men live in modular housing units joined together by walkways enclosed by sheet metal.

About 10 miles northwest of the lonely camp is Cannikin. Its remoteness hasn't prevented protests by American and Canadian citizens who fear the explosion may cause a powerful earthquake in this seismically active area, or send a giant tidal wave to wreak havoc along the Pacific rim.

The reasons for the blast are classified. So are the precise power of the bomb and its purpose. Alaskan officials attempting a cost-benefit analysis don't know the benefits; and many, including Gov. William A. Egan and U.S. Sen. Mike Gravel, say they oppose it.

The Atomic Energy Commission discounts the possibility of danger. Dr. Melvin L. Merritt, effects scientist for the AEC, says an earthquake is unlikely, and the chance of tidal wave is even more remote. He says that sand, plastic and cement plugs in the 5,875-foot shaft will mean that "the radioactivity from Cannikin will be wholly or almost wholly contained underground."

Cannikin will be the third nuclear bomb detonated at Amchitka. In 1965, the Defense Department exploded a device of about 80 kilotons, codenamed "Longshot," in a seismic detection experiment.

In 1969, the AEC detonated "Milrow," a blast of about one megaton, to determine whether the island was suitable for Cannikin.

The AEC said it was, and now, after 420 days of drilling, miners are digging the spherical room at the bottom of their shaft.

Only one other camp lies on the island—at the far northwest edge. It is from here that Cannikin will be detonated and monitored, from a command post on wheels like the trailer of a diesel truck.

Here & There
CHICAGO (UPI)—The ampersand is a result of mixed language & it's corrupt.

According to Encyclopaedia Britannica, this sign for "and" is a combination of the letters e and t of the Latin et. The name ampersand is a corruption of the English and Latin phrase "and per se and."

Garbage Can Is Real Offender

NEW YORK (UPI)—The garbage can is one of the worst litter offenders in residential neighborhoods, reports The Litter Letter of the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

The Letter explains that a 1970 survey in five types of urban areas found that only 37 per cent of households had adequate refuse containers. The garbage was spilling out of 67 per cent of them.

"Battered, overflowing containers are enough of a blight in themselves," the Letter states. "Stray animals and gusts of wind compound the problem."

Penny DeHaven Sings Away Her Own Problems

By WELDON GRIMSLEY
 The Nashville Banner
 Written for Associated Press
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Traveling for a female entertainer, especially when her lone traveling companion usually is a Yorkshire Terrier named "Sunshine," can be a trying experience.

Example: Singer Penny DeHaven drove to Charlotte, N.C., for a matinee and had to rush to New York for another appearance shortly afterwards. The only answer was to fly. But this caused complications.

First, she had to arrange traveling accommodations for herself and her dog then get to her plane for the trip. She decided to leave her car in Charlotte. She left the car in Charlotte — with the motor running and the radio blaring — a "minor" oversight, she says. She called Charlotte after arriving in New York, only to find out that police had impounded the car.

And after her arrival, she found the keys in her suitcase were still in the car — which was still in Charlotte — and in the police lot where impounded cars are kept while awaiting their owners. But to make matters worse, she rented a car in Syracuse and proceeded to run into two other autos while trying to leave the airport parking lot. "Yes," she smiles, "it was a trying experience."

Or, take the time when Miss DeHaven toured South Vietnam and saw a man — standing about 25 yards away — blown to pieces by an enemy shell and had to duck for cover as gunfire ripped apart an ammo dump not far from where she was performing for American soldiers.

It all became quite upsetting. But the Winchester, Va., native has an answer for such situations. She swings onto a stage and starts belting out country music with a flair and style that wows audiences everywhere she goes.

Most important, though, Miss DeHaven sings away her own problems and frustrations.

Her biggest show business thrill was that USO tour of Vietnam — a trip that was scheduled for two weeks but stretched out over seven. She loved the reception she received from the GIs, but wasn't too wild about the 26 shots she got from GI medics.

Miss DeHaven also has toured Puerto Rico, Bermuda, Iceland and Hawaii, in addition to traveling more than 100,000 miles a year through mainland America.

The young performer, with dark brown hair topping a shapely figure, has hit the national country music charts with such records as "Down In The Boondocks," "I Feel Fine," "Momma Lou," "Awful Lotta Lovin'," "Landmark Tavern" (a duet with Del Reeves) "First Love" and her newest, "Don't Change On Me."

In addition she performed in the movie "Valley of the Blood" and appeared with Reeves and Buddy Knox in a Canadian film, "Country Music Spectacular."

Her ambitions include the hope of recording a "Rose Garden"-type hit and expanding her career in films. Miss DeHaven's most immediate goals are to own a five-carat diamond ring and a pink mink coat.

Japanese Play Big Role In Economy Of Brazil

SAP PAULO, Brazil (UPI)—In 1945, Tetuhiko Taniguchi, a junior officer who had served in the Imperial Japanese Army in Indochina, returned to his war-ravaged homeland, jobless and with little hope for the future. Tetuhiko enrolled at Tokyo University in an effort to study law.

"Every morning we would gather in a small group, sit in the remaining classrooms and wait for our lessons" he recalls. But every morning an official would come and ask the students to return the next day. "For they had no teachers yet."

In the summer of 1946, Tetuhiko received a letter from his mother's cousin in Brazil, a member of the community that had emigrated to Latin America's largest nation before World War II.

Her letter described the Japanese colony around Sao Paulo. "There are jobs for everyone and land is cheap. We had a warm welcome and although we planned to return to Japan, we feel there is no use in going back to our country. We have decided to stay here and work and we want you to come and join us."

Tetuhiko had no family in Japan so he took his savings and bought a ticket on the first ship out of Yokohama to Brazil.

He joined his cousin and her family in the interior and began working on a coffee plantation.

He worked the land for four years, saving relentlessly, and then moved to Sao Paulo where he took a job in a small foodstore within the Japanese community. After a few years, he bought a share of the store, married a Japanese-Brazilian girl and then began the third major chapter in his life.

Today, Tetuhiko owns two large food stores, four trucks, a new car and a $35,000 home in an exclusive Sao Paulo neighborhood. "I am very happy with my life in Brazil," he said. The story of Tetuhiko is not unusual among the 700,000 Japanese in Brazil who make up the largest Japanese community living outside Japan.

Japanese immigration to Brazil began in 1908 when the SS Kasato Maru tied up in Santos with about 1,000 farm workers destined to work on Brazilian coffee plantations. Today the Japanese are regarded as the agricultural wizards of Brazil. About half of them work in agriculture and the impact of their work (in a country more than 90 million persons), is incredible. In Sao Paul State, for instance, the Japanese represent less than 10 per cent of the agricultural workers in the area yet account for some 30 per cent of the state's total farm production.

It is the Japanese farmers who produce, almost exclusively, mints, tea, strawberries, peppers, peaches and potatoes, commodities almost unknown in the Brazilian diet before the Japanese immigration.

The organizational skills of the Japanese farmers who produce, almost exclusively, mints, tea, strawberries, peppers, peaches and potatoes, commodities almost unknown in the Brazilian diet before the Japanese immigration.

The first major Japanese investment started 16 years ago when the Pilot Pen Company installed a manufacturing plant in Sao Paulo. Since then many of the Japanese industrial giants have moved in, including Mitsubishi, Hitachi, Seiko, Toyota, Toshiba and Mitsui.

The Usiminas steel mill in Minas Gerais State, a joint Japanese-Brazilian venture, received $12 million of Japanese capital, some 40 per cent of the total investment. Ishikawajima Industries have built ships totalling 200,000 dead weight tons, a significant percentage of Brazil's naval construction.

Japan's impact in Brazil is not only in agriculture, but is growing steadily also in commerce and industry. Japanese investments are growing at a remarkable rate of 58 per cent annually, according to official Japanese sources. These investments so far total some $550 million with 70 Japanese financed firms involved in activities ranging from heavy equipment production, fishing, chemical, banking, insurance, import-export and transportation to textile, electronics, construction and many other fields.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Coal will remain king in Kentucky although the trend seems to be shifting from strip to underground mining.

Worry Clinic Poor Rapport Is A Bad Sign

Ronald is an egotistical father who felt he was right and his wife was wrong. But when she let their older children rate them on the "Tests for Good Parents" (as described below), he woke up! Oh, at first he damned the tests. But when he cooled off, he began to realize 1,500 raters couldn't all be wrong!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
Case R-506: Ronald T., aged 34, is a sales manager. "Dr. Crane," his wife began, "Ronald doesn't have good rapport with our four children. For he grew up in an only child in a wealthy home.

"His parents hired a governess and tutors for him till he was in high school. "He lived in the city and was never an active participant in sports or children's rough-and-tumble games.

"So now he expects far too much of our youngsters. "The other night our 6-year-old Janet was sitting at the dinner table with the rest of the family.

"Daddy had been discussing events of the day, but Janet apparently wanted to gain a little attention.

"So she abruptly interrupted her daddy by saying, "Do you know what?"

"He was irritated at being stopped in his monologue, so he asked, "What?" and she really had nothing on the tip of her tongue.

"But Janet then tried to fabricate something to justify her question.

"Daddy was still irked, so he ordered her to keep quiet at the table. But a little later she again broke in on his monologue.

"So he ordered her upstairs to bed without any supper!

"Dr. Crane, how can I show him that he is wrong in this arbitrary way of trying to rear children?"

"For I grew up with several brothers and sisters, so I know the typical American dinner table is not a soap box for Daddy to monopolize!"

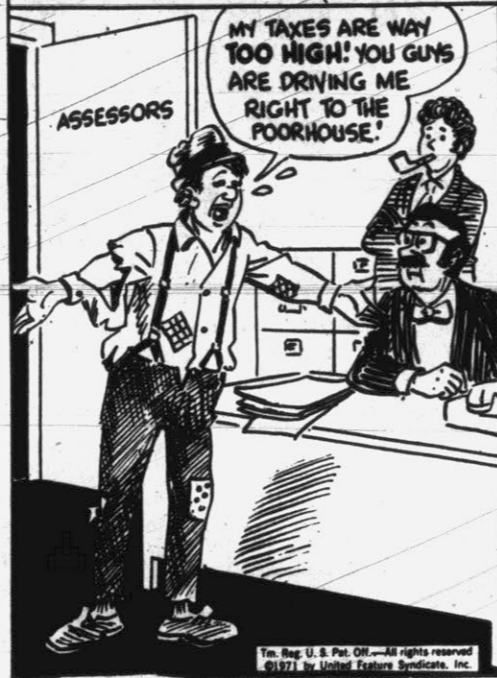

Test For Fathers

Since Ronald has such a warped attitude concerning parent-child relations and dislikes sharing the spotlight with his own kiddies, his wife will have trouble trying to show him his errors. For he holds to the former European attitude that the father is the autocrat of the home and dictator of the dinner table. In such cases, it is wiser to cite outside authority. Most people, though naturally rather egotistical and even bullheaded, still want to measure up to social par. Which is why I constructed the 200-point "Rating Scales for Good Parents," as mentioned below. Thereon, a father can rate himself on 50 of the most common faults (Demerits) of modern American dads. Then he can analyze himself on the 50 Merits or virtues of current fathers. Now subtract his Demerit total from his Merit score, leaving his Raw Score. This can then be compared with a standard set of "Norms" for the typical American male parent. Thus, a Raw Score of 0-15, indicates a Very Poor rating, while 16-27 means Poor; 28-59 is Average; 60-75, Superior; and 76 or above denotes Very Superior fathers. This test is based on 1,500 personal interviews, so Ronald and other dads can't blame their wives if they rate below par! At first they will often damn the test! But when they calm down, they begin to realize the burden of proof is on themselves, so they study that Rating Scale again and begin to modify their behavior accordingly. There is a similar "Test for Mothers," scored the same way. So send for those "Tests for Parents," enclosing a long

Purpose Of Bath Salts Changed

NEW YORK (UPI) —Bath salts, originally intended to soften water, consisted of sodium sesquicarbonate crystals, a combination of sodium carbonate and sodium bicarbonate. Now the object seems to be to provide attractive crystals, either rock salt or sodium thiosulfate. The crystals are transformed into bath crystals by spraying with an alcohol or water solution of dyes and perfumes, says Cosmology Review.

Vacationers To Set New Records

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Americans who hit the road on vacation this year will set new records for mileage and expenditures, according to the American Automobile Association (AAA), which says they will travel 280 billion miles and spend $40 billion. All but $3 billion of the expenditures will be by vacationers using automobiles as their primary transportation, says AAA.
