Pres. Nixon To Visit Mainland China

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has announced he will visit Peking within 10 months at the invitation of Communist China's premier, Chou En-lai. The President said he would seek a "normalization" of U.S.-mainland China relations.

The visit was arranged last weekend by Chou and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's adviser for national security affairs who made a secret stop in Peking during a 10-day trip around the world.

The President's unexpected announcement was made Thursday night on nationwide television and radio.

Speaking for five minutes from the National Broadcasting Co. studios in Burbank, Nixon said the purpose of his mission behind the bamboo curtain "is to seek a normalization of relations between the two countries and also to exchange views on questions of concern to the two sides."

Nixon's disclosure drew a quick protest from Taipei, where Nationalist Chinese leaders were called into an emergency meeting. "The Chinese government has lodged a strong protest to the government of the United States," Chinese spokesman James Wei said after the session.

The Nixon journey is expected to have an impact on the 1972 presidential campaign in the United States and may have an influence on the search for a negotiated peace in Vietnam.

Now it is more widely assumed than ever that the Nixon administration will not challenge the bid this fall for admission of mainland China, to the United Nations.

In fact, the chief executive's reference to "normalization of relations" seemed to suggest that his visit to Peking will be climaxed by establishment of full diplomatic relations between the United States and the Communist government which took over mainland China 22 years ago.

Said Nixon, "I will undertake what I deeply hope will become a journey for peace—peace not just for our generation, but for future generations on this earth we share together."

The President quoted from a joint announcement, made simultaneously in Peking.

"Knowing of President Nixon's expressed desire to visit the People's Republic of China, Premier Chou En-lai, on behalf of the government of the People's Republic of China, has extended an invitation to President Nixon to visit China at an appropriate date before May 1972. President Nixon has accepted the invitation with pleasure."

Many congressional Democrats, including a number of Nixon's most likely 1972 election challengers, were quick to welcome the development.

Secret Mission Aired

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry Kissinger's clandestine trip to Peking for President Nixon was one of the most closely held secrets in U.S. diplomacy.

While the President's national-security-affairs adviser was reported recovering from a stomach indisposition in the mountains of Pakistan July 9-11, in reality he was in China confering with Premier Chou En-lai.

And with all the speculation about what Kissinger was up to during his 12-day 'round-the-world trip, there was none even remotely touching on a visit to China.

The administration is extremely close-mouthed about the Kissinger mission, but it is possible to piece together outlines of the clandestine trip.

On the morning of July 9 it was announced in Pakistan Kissinger had become ill with stomach problems.

He canceled a formal dinner with President Agha Yahya Khan scheduled for that evening and was reported to have gone to the Nathiagali Hill Station little more than 50 miles from Rawalpindi to recover.

However, Kissinger flew from Rawalpindi in his own large jet and Asian diplomats say the hill station cannot receive such large planes. Thus, they indicated, Kissinger left directly for Peking.

Officials here feel only Yahya knew of the trip.

From the 9th to the 11th, a Sunday, Kissinger was reported in the Pakistani mountains. It was announced Saturday he was staying an extra day in Pakistan because of his illness.

In truth, that extra day was spent still in Peking.

Kissinger was next reported to have resumed his schedule late Sunday, flying to Paris for a stopover visit with the American peace-talk delegation. He then returned to the United States for intensive talks with Nixon.

The extreme secrecy marking the China visit carried over until 10:30 p.m. EDT Thursday when Nixon went on the air to tell the nation: "Premier Chou En-lai and Dr. Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, held talks in Peking from July 9 to 11, 1971."

Not even the United States' best friends knew until moments before. Speculation among senior British officials at the embassy here Thursday was that Kissinger may have spent his time in contact with officials of the rebel movement in East Pakistan.

Talks Go On, But 2 Railroads Struck

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cabinet, railroad and union officials bargained through the night but failed to head off a strike today against two major railroads.

The strike is on against the Union Pacific and Southern railroads, said Charles Luna, president of the AFL-CIO United Transportation Union.

"We're still bargaining," he said. "We're going to get some rest."

Luna was joined in the extraordinary summit session which began at 7 p.m. Thursday by Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe and five railroad presidents.

Labor Undersecretary Laurence Silberman, acting for absent Secretary James D. Hodgson, said the all-night bargaining session had been "very constructive" even though it didn't head off the strike.

"We were unsuccessful in averting a strike. However, we believe the issues were clarified and narrowed," he said.

He said the department's top labor troubleshooter, Asst. Secretary W. J. Usery Jr., would attempt to round up all the parties for further talks after they had rested.

Volpe said, "None of us can predict how long it will last."

The Southern Railway's headquarters in Washington reported pickets up in several locations, including Knoxville, Tenn., and Asheville, N.C. The Southern was first to be hit, with the Union Pacific targeted for several hours later, at 6 a.m. local time in the West.

School Desegregation Guidelines Extension May Force Revisions

RALEIGH (AP) — Federal extension of guidelines imposed by the U.S. Supreme Court in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school desegregation case may force wholesale revisions in pupil assignments across North Carolina next fall.

Public school officials said in interviews early today that the figure of 100,000 children was being discussed unofficially as the potential number of pupils that might be added to the transportation lists as a result of new directives from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Robert E. Strother, human relations director for State Department of Public Instruction, said the 100,000 figure "was purely speculative at this point" and could run much lower when all of the HEW directives have been received.

"We have about 20 (school) units involved now," he said.

State School Supt. Craig Phillips, reached in Greensboro where he was attending a meeting, said his office "has had a pretty steady flow of correspondence from Atlanta to the local schools, stating the implications of the Mecklenburg ruling for the specific system."

Phillips said most of the HEW letters deal with assignment ratios of blacks and whites.

In discussions this week with HEW officials, Strother said he was told "that, as a rule of thumb, the racial ratio in a school shouldn't deviate more than 10 per cent from that of the system under any circumstances and that when I talk to the units, to tell them it couldn't be more than 5 per cent."

Strother said all of the units involved had not been identified, but so far correspondence has been directed at schools in Fayetteville, Shelby and Wilson and in the counties of Wayne, Alamance, Columbus, Montgomery and Wake.

Phillips said his office expected some extension of HEW desegregation guidelines and attempted to prepare for additional transportation costs in seeking funds for 1971-73. "We think we've got provisions in the coming biennium to cover the operation," he said.

However, Phillips did express mild surprise at the spreading use of the Mecklenburg decision.

"The Supreme Court, I thought, said it was not a landmark case of any sort, but it is being used by the civil rights folks as a bench mark," Phillips said.

"This application will certainly create more confusion and unrest in the communities that have been through some pretty traumatic experiences already."

Thieu And Ky Allegedly Using Drug Traffic To Pay For Campaigning

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky had no immediate comment today on a report that the illegal drug traffic is helping to finance their presidential campaigns.

Phil Brady, a National Broadcasting Co. correspondent in Saigon, said his report was based on information from Vietnamese sources. It was broadcast Thursday on NBC Nightly News.

Brady said the sources told him that many illegal drugs are brought in by the Vietnamese air force with the "blessing" of Ky, a former commander of the air force.

The sources, Brady said, claimed Ky made a fortune smuggling gold and opium and "went on to say since becoming vice president Ky left the job to trusted subordinates in the air force but still shares in the profits. And, they added, Ky needs the money more than ever before for his presidential campaign chest."

Ky, who has announced he will oppose Thieu in the Oct. 3 election, has denied previous allegations that he smuggled narcotics and gold.

Brady said Thieu is obsessed with being re-elected and because he needs money for the campaign he is "not asking where it comes from."

Brady quoted his sources as saying "another outfit pushing drugs is the Vietnamese national police," commanded by Maj. Gen. Tran Thanh Phong, who "is said to also be raising money for the presidential race."

"The biggest pusher is said to be Lt. Gen. Dang Van Quang," Brady reported adding that Quang was relieved of his command for corruption several years ago but "today Quang is Thieu's closest adviser" and has "filled Thieu's campaign chest."

Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., told a House subcommittee in Washington last week that Maj. Gen. Ngo Dzu, military commander in the central highlands and central coastal region, was a major trafficker in narcotics. But Brady said that "according to extremely reliable sources," Dzu "is being framed by others higher up who are involved in drugs." Brady said Vietnamese and American officials have the evidence.

Dzu, who has denied Steele's allegation, said today he believes one man seeking "personal revenge" is behind the charges against him. He would not name the man, but sources close to Dzu said he had in mind Lt. Gen. Lu Lan, whom Dzu replaced.

Inching Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy advanced steadily but unspectacularly in the April-June period, but inflation slackened to the lowest rate in three years, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the Gross National Product, output of the nation's goods and services, scored a $19.7-billion increase in the second quarter, but more than half of the eight per cent climb was attributed to price increases.

The department said GNP reached a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.040 trillion in the quarter from April through June, with consumer spending leading the advance.

The increase fell short of the Nixon administration's forecast, and was a main reason why the President's advisers abandoned the target of an average $1.065 trillion GNP for all of 1971. The increase failed to match a $30 billion gain in the first three months of the year.

The department said the rate of inflation dropped to 4.2 per cent in the April-June period, down from the 5.3 per cent of the first quarter

White, Rountree And Bundy Said Unaware Of Medicaid Vote Impact

By CAROL TYER

Relatives of persons to be removed from the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent home went to Raleigh to appeal to their representatives at the General Assembly yesterday, but were given no assurance of relief from their plight.

Sen. Vernon White, Rep. Horton Rountree, and Rep. Sam Bundy all had to be told the situation as each said he was unaware that a bill each had voted for had disqualified anyone having an income of more than $115 a month for Medicaid benefits to keep him in a skilled nursing home.

"I've said so many times before," Sen. Vernon White told a Pitt County delegation, "that the middle-income person is the one caught in the squeeze. He is the one that does the tax-paying that hurts, yet he cannot receive most of the services the state offers its population that pays little or no taxes." He added that he was not on the appropriations subcommittee that dealt with health care and did not even know the elimination of the medically needy was included in Senate Bill 33. Sen. John Henley, who heads the joint appropriations committee, says there's no chance of its being reconsidered.

Bundy and Rountree each said they had received calls about the problem the day before, but that neither knew how the situation came about. Rep. Rountree found a copy of the ratified bill and read the Special Provisions, Section 7 which dealt with eligibility for different services provided by Medicaid. The only two sections completely eliminated for the medically needy were nursing home care and chiropractic treatment.

According to Pitt County Social Services director Miss Dorothy Bolton, a "categorically needy person is one who qualified for public assistance by having income from no source of more than $115 per month. A medically needy person is one who has an income of more than $115 per month, whether the source be financial help from his family, Social Security benefits, a Veterans pension, or some income from a job-related or other retirement plan. A person who falls in the under-$115 a-month bracket may have his whole nursing home bill paid for him regardless of what his costs are, while the over-$115 receives nothing. The average cost of keeping a person in a nursing home today is $420 a month, according to Jim Burns, public information officer of the State Department of Social Services.

Those who went to Raleigh yesterday were Guy Cuthrell, who has a son at the nursing home; Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Cady of Falkland, who have a sister and brother-in-law who will be separated by the action, since the sister, Mrs. Martha Moore, qualified to remain at the nursing home but her husband, Forrest Moore, does not; and Joe McKoy of Greenville, whose mother is a terminal cancer patient at the nursing home.

All the representatives could tell these people was that the bill was already law and it was doubtful it could be changed before the General Assembly adjourns next Wednesday. They knew of no alternatives, they said. And none promised to try to have the matter reconsidered.

"It's a matter of cutting Medicaid costs and cutting them big," Burns said. "A subcommittee on Mediciad recommended these changes because there had to be a big slice cut out of the state's matching funds for federal Medicaid program. If they had eliminated filling teeth, the cut would have been in the thousands. Here it's in the millions. There was also the big-cut idea of limiting hospital care for Medicaid recipients to ten days per spell of illness. This went into the ratified bill, but it's already been changed because of the pressure put on the legislature. I don't know whether those affected by the nursing home measure have time enough to apply such pressure, or where the cut would be put if they did. Probably the counties' share of the bill would be increased.

"The individual county's paying the bill for these patients that cannot make up the difference in their income and their nursing home bills is the only

Leo Edwards reported that his brother spent a comfortable night, and that doctors have told the family "that everything looks encouraging. The next 24 to 72 hous should tell the story," Leo Edwards commented, referring to the extent to which Edwards' heart may be damaged.

Pitt Property Revaluation For Tax Purposes Is Now Underway

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Work toward revaluation of property in Pitt County for tax purposes has begun, and property owners are urged to cooperate with officials working on the revaluation.

R. S. Moye, Pitt County Tax Supervisor said today that employers of Associated Surveys of Greensboro, began work in the county several weeks ago and are now in the process of making preliminary surveys, measuring and inspecting individual residences.

Associated Surveys was awarded the revaluation contract in March after they entered the low bid of $175,000 for the work last February.

The revaluation, required by North Carolina law every eight years, is scheduled to be completed by October 1, 1972, in time to be listed on tax books by January 1, 1973.

According to Moye, "We are asking all property owners to cooperate as much as they can. We don't want to impose but where possible, the workers would like to go inside the various residences when they make their preliminary surveys.

"This," Moye noted, "will help insure a complete and accurate revaluation."

The tax supervisor emphasized that all appraisers working with Associated Surveys will be carrying proper identification.

"If there is any question persons may call the Tax Supervisors office at 752-4711 or Associated Surveys' office at 758-2047 for clarification."

Moye noted that the appraisers will visit all properties in the county.

He noted that appraisers visiting residential buildings will not concern themselves with personal property, but simply are trying to get a fair picture of the building, both inside and out.

Lloyd Stevens, project manager for Associated Surveys' work in Pitt County said that at the present time, the company has five men in the field and six office workers.

When the firm's work reaches its peak, they will employ 15 to 18 persons in the county, with all but about four or five working in the field.

Stevens said the preliminary work now includes measuring and inspecting residential units.

He noted that preliminary work has almost been completed in Farmville and Fountain, while four men are currently doing preliminary survey work in the City of Greenville.

"We have had extremely good cooperation from property owners up to this point," Stevens said. "The better cooperation we have, the better job we can do." And he emphasized, "all of our men carry identification."

Stevens explained the need for entering individual homes.

"We need to find out about the plumbing... heating... air conditioning... whether there is a fire place... any modernizing or remodeling..." By entering the home, "we are better able to determine what kind of condition the building is in..."

Associated Surveys, according to Stevens, has recently completed revaluations in Wayne, Caldwell, Haywood, Montgomery, Moore and Johnston Counties.

Author Writes First Book At 40

By PHIL THOMAS
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Vivacious Lolah Burford had an idea for a book when she was 18, but she didn't find time to put it down on paper until she was nearing 40.

Then, finding she still had time on her hands, she sat down and wrote another five books—all within a year's span.

"That's imagination," says the articulate Mrs. Burford. "Something sparks it off and the imagination works. Sometimes I'd work from 8 a.m. to 2 a.m. with just brief stops."

It took Mrs. Burford three years to find a publisher for her first book, "Vice Avenged: A Moral Tale." Mrs. Burford describes the novel as "an 18th century fairy tale, frankly unserious, frankly unrealistic, for a realistic, serious age."

The second novel, dealing with 7th century Ireland, has been sold and, says Mrs. Burford with a smile, "my agent has four other books, I have three in manuscript and I'm working on two more."

Mrs. Burford is the mother of three daughters, 14, 11, and 9—"all of them taller than me and all very beautiful, in my opinion." Her husband is poet William Burford. The family currently lives in Fort Worth, Tex., but it was while her husband was teaching at the University of Montana at Missoula from the spring of 1967 to mid-1968 that she wrote her first six books.

LOLAH BURFORD

"Missoula is an enclosed place," she says. "There is little social life. I had time. Time I'd never had before. When you realize this, you use it.

"I'd go to the library and I noticed that a good many other people were doing the same thing. I was looking for books that would not leave me depressed, that would make me feel less bored, less lonely, less isolated. I thought the others were looking for the same thing, so I decided to give it to them.

"I thought we could do with a good story. Not one with an ax to grind or to reveal the author's hangups. I live life, I don't like to read it in fiction."

The idea for "Vice Avenged" occurred to Mrs. Burford when she was 18 and read about the betting clubs in 18th century England. "I invented this story way back then to amuse myself," she said. "I see nothing wrong with amusing myself and other people."

She wrote the book, as she does all her work, in longhand, typed the manuscript herself, mailed it off to a publisher, and immediately began work on her second novel.

As to her writing, she says, "I either hear the story or I don't. I put myself at the service of the story and listen to the characters. The imagination sweeps in on you. I hear the characters, and, obviously, they want their story told, and I tell it. Writing is very complicated—a mixture of concentration and relaxation."

Mrs. Burford said she drew much of her inspiration from observing people and from reading. "I observe and I listen," she said. "And I read, and read, and read.

"I have this wild sense of humor and I have this imagination, and I thought I'd let it out and see if anyone wanted it.

"Some people sing. Some people play tennis. Me' I write."

Couple Leave Suburbia For Fulltime Life On Sailboat

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — What's it like to stop the world and get off —to forsake a 10-room house, two-car garage and all the conveniences of modern suburbia —for a full-time life aboard a 30-foot sloop?

Janet Groene and her husband, Gordon, have been finding out for the past four years, and now Mrs. Groene says they have no thoughts of returning to the life they left behind.

"We enjoy being together, and since Gordon was a corporation pilot, we were being separated a lot," Mrs. Groene explains. "And it seemed we were having to generate to a lot of income to pay for a life we didn't really like.

"So," she continues, "we got out." It took the couple about a year to make the necessary arrangements. They settled on a boat because they wanted a low-cost way of life. And although sailing was new to both, Mrs. Groene says her husband picked it up naturally—"he just pulled the right strings and we went. I think sailing comes almost like second nature to pilots," she adds.

But Mrs. Groene had to learn a lot of things herself—like, where do you do laundry on a sailboat? How do you plan meals for 21 days or more without refrigeration? And once planned, how do you cook on a sailboat?

"As we went along, I learned a lot for myself, and a lot from other people," Mrs. Groene says. And now she has written a book to share her knowledge with others, "Cooking on the Go."

"The hardest thing was adjusting to the lack of space," she recalls. "There's no counter room, and I have only two burners." She says her pressure cooker has been invaluable because it makes the best use of fuel. Her other utensils are a covered aluminum skillet which also serves as an oven, a sauce pan and a tea kettle.

"One thing that's important is to have good, heavy, durable pots and pans," Mrs. Groene says. "This isn't easy cooking, and you need the very best."

In meal planning, rather than deciding on specific menus, Mrs. Groene says, she plans around meal values. "I know if I want to plan for three weeks, that means 21 dinners, 21 meat values, 21 vegetable values, and so on," she explains. "Under that system you can be flexible. I believe in having our lockers full of the right things, but not deciding what we want to eat until meal time."

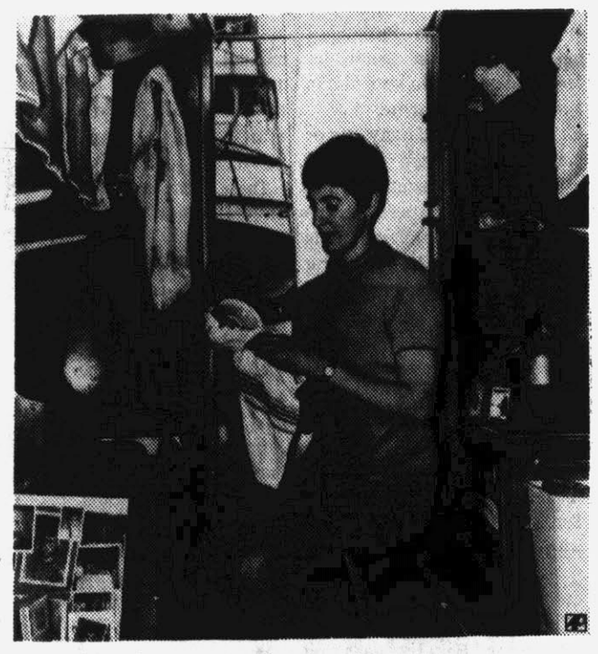

The one thing people are most interested in, Mrs. Groene says is how it is possible to live without refrigeration, and she has developed some interesting techniques to meet the situation —like making mayonnaise substitutes and devising cake recipes without eggs.

And she also has learned how to extend the life of fresh eggs. "Anything that seals the shells will prolong freshness," she notes. "Ideally you should begin with eggs that have never been refrigerated. But if you begin with supermarket eggs, warm them completely. Then, when they've stopped sweating and are dry, oil them or put vaseline on them. Or they can be dipped in boiling water for two or three seconds. Afterwards put them back into the carton with the small end down." She says she has found that eggs treated thus can be kept from six to eight weeks.

The Groenes use dry or canned milk, they can their own meat, reconstitute powdered creamers and when they buy margarine, they remove it from its paper wrapping and store it in a tightly-lidded pastic container.

But food isn't the only problem. "When I left suburbia, I left my own washer and dryer," Mrs. Groene says. "And suddenly there I was, wondering where in the world to do laundry on a boat.

"For the first couple of years I carried buckets," she relates. "But I discovered you can get a 36-inch inflatable swimming pool for about 50 cents, and that makes a great roomy laundry tub."

"COOKING ON THE GO" is the title of Janet Groene's book, and it's apt, since Mrs. Groene cooks most of her meals in the tiny galley of the 30-foot sloop she and her husband live on. In the four years since the Groene's left suburbia, the author has devised numerous recipes that call for the use of only two burners, no oven, and a minimum of cooking utensils.

White wrought iron five branch candelabra were used on the punch tables and the buffet table featured an arrangement of summer flowers flanked by the candelabra tied with varigated ribbon streamers.

Nuns Make Cosmetics

MELBOURNE (AP) — Thirty-six women here spend five hours a day making cosmetics, but not one of them ever uses any.

Each day they gather in their two room brick laboratory and mix potions for the beautification of women.

The 36 are Sisters of the Carmelite order—an order of nuns which emphasises silence and contemplation—and they have no need for the luxuries of modern day woman.

The sisters went into the cosmetic business in 1966 when they found the upkeep of their monastery was becoming too much for their finances. The Mother Prioress says: "We needed money to maintain our monastery, and after hearing that the Cistercian order of monks was making and selling cosmetics in England we decided to give it a try."

They have their own special formula and their products have the brand name Monastique.

Among them are Cardinal after shave and talc for men, and Fleur de Carmel perfumes and skin lotions for women.

All told they have 36 items in their range and Sister Ellen-Marie, 25, confessed that "very occasionally we do try a little perfume and skin lotion, but never the makeup."

The Mother Prioress said: "It's all very methodical and organized. We know what we're doing and we don't get flustered."

Mother Not Only One Who Needs Help

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: A year ago my father passed away. He was 69 years old. Since then my mother has been carrying on until she has me half crazy. You would think she was the only women ever to lose a husband. She had a good life with him and she should be grateful she had him that long.

However, my real problem is that I live only a block away from her. I run over every day, but it's not enough for her. She spends every free hour at my house, saying she has nothing to live for and she is going to take an "overdose."

She keeps saying she can't live alone. [I think she wants to move in with me and that would be the end of me.] She is not disabled in any way, but she complains and whines constantly until I am about to have a nervous breakdown.

I have no privacy. She has brothers and sisters, but she is here all the time, or else she's at home calling me to come over. She won't even turn on her TV. She'd rather sit and feel sorry for herself.

She criticizes everything and tears everyone to pieces. My husband is thinking of asking for a transfer so we can move away. What else can we do? SMOTHERED

DEAR SMOTHERED: You can take your mother to a doctor. Your mother needs professional help in handling her grief. And YOU need some help in learning how to handle your mother.

DEAR ABBY: A 19-year-old man [if you can call him that] was recently found guilty of beating two of his girl friend's children, and he was given the maximum penalty of 180 days in the workhouse. The children, ages 4 and 5, were taken to the hospital and treated for numerous lacerations and welts across their backs, which the state claimed were inflicted by a knotted electric cord.

The mother of these battered tots was 17 years old, and she had three other children—one per year beginning when she was 12 years old!

Now if this isn't a case in favor of planned parenthood, I don't know what is. APPALLED IN ST. PAUL

DEAR APPALLED: Amen!

DEAR ABBY: This problem has been on my mind for several years and I hope you can help me.

Many years ago I obtained a divorce from a man, but before the divorce was final, I married again. We both knew my divorce was not final at the time, but we had to get married, so we did. I have had my final papers for years but we've never renewed our vows. My question is, how legal is this marriage? TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Some states recognize common law marriages, but I wouldn't bet on that as a solution to this problem. I advise you to quietly get married without broadly proclaiming the fact that your first marriage was invalid. But before you do anything, I advise you to see a competent lawyer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WHERE DID WE GO WRONG" IN WHEELING, W. VA.: From your letter I would say you did your best. Some parents "train up a child in the way he should go," and out of sheer rebellion, the child deliberately departs from it.

Ready To Take Bitter Medicine

A friendly word for wage and price controls by a top union official may be an indication of how dangerous the price-wage spiral is becoming in this nation.

AFl-CIO president George Meany said on NBC's Meet the Press last weekend that if he were President Nixon he would impose wage and price controls to fight inflation.

"I don't see any other way that this situation is going to get under control," the union head stated.

While he said his labor organizations is not advocating controls, Meany continued, "If he makes a decision that international situation is such, or the domestic situation is such that he needs to impose controls, we have said time and time again . . . we are saying it now, that we will go along."

"We will accept wage and price controls provided they are shared equally to cover all forms of income and . . . provided the sacrifice is equal to everybody concerned."

Meany said the country is in an inflationary psychology period with prices going up when there is no reason. Even though unemployment is high, prices have gone up, by 4.2 percent in 1968, 5.4 per cent in 1969, and 5.9 percent in 1970.

This points to controls, he contended. "I don't see any other answer."

Wage and price controls have never been popular with labor or industry, both of which prefer free bargaining for labor and the setting of prices through competition.

However, depsite some perilous times for our economy during the past two years, with disaster threatening at times, inflation is still not under control. It perhaps represents the biggest threat to our economy. Unless there is improvement we may soon see more labor leaders and industrialists, as well as economists, agreeing that controls are going to be necessary to halt the spiral.

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Part of Celia Herring Middleton's heart is on the other side of the world.

Scenes so dear to her childhood were interior China, at Tsining, Chantung, where her father, David Wells Herring, was a Southern Baptist missionary. A brother is buried there. She and her husband, Gordon K. Middleton, spent the first six years of their married life at Honan, near the Yellow River, again with the Christian missionary effort.

"You don't leave that many years in a country without leaving something of yourself," she said, pensively.

As all U.S. citizens today, and more than most, Gordon and Celia Middleton are sensitive to the headlines which chronicle shifts in relations between this country and China.

Rustlings of the Bamboo Curtain and echoes of ping-pong diplomacy stir their hopes for an eventual re-opening of mainland China, and a renewal of the ties of Chinese-U.S. friendship which indelibily imprinted their lives.

Faith Still Strong

They have faith that the missionary investment of men, money and prayers in China was not wasted; that the church, though underground and non-institutional, yet retains strength among the people.

Their love for the Chinese — a people friendly, strongly ethical in code and conduct, capable of hard work with self respect and without grumbling — remains steadfast despite mistrust of present rulers.

Assessment of China's foreign policy must take into account Communist aims and strategy, Mrs. Middleton reminded. For example, the recent ping-pong team visit obviously was carefully arranged and staged. "I had the feeling they were laughing up their sleeves at us for making such a flap over it," she said.

The Red Guard movement a few years ago, with its excesses of cultural treasures destroyed and elderly people mistreated, was typical of Communism but against the grain of Chinese character, she asserted.

"You may say we are anti-Communist," she added, smiling at her own understatement.

Forty-five years have passed since the Middletons left China for what they expected to be a one-year furlough. Return was delayed while he earned his doctrate, then postponed indefinitely as internal upheaval and world war closed China's doors.

No Certain News

Word from Christians inside China is scanty and sometimes contradictory. As the Communist regime tightened down, a friend sent word by a round-about route: "Please don't try to communicate with me."

"We've had glimpses inside the tragedy of those who have escaped, leaving family and possessions behind," Mrs. Middleton said, sadly. "Their attitude is stoic, but you sense the heartbreak beneath."

There are reports that while there is no church as an institution, the number of believers continues to grow. Other reports indicate that indoctrination has all but eradicated the faith among the young. Still another tells of a family happy over the near-miracle of a son accepting Christ in spite of social and peer group pressures.

Middleton, whose family roots in Duplin County predate the American Revolution, graduated from N.C. State University in 1917. He met his bride while she was in North Carolina, her father's native state, attending Meredith College.

His speciality is small grain research. He worked on Weat varieties in China. He was on the N.C. State staff 32 years before retirement in 1961. Retirement is only partial; he commutes regularly to Laurinburg as a consultant to McNair Seed Company.

Friends Among Students

The Middletons have kept Chinese friends through contact with students at N.C. State. A Bible class for the students met at their home some 15 years, and moved to the Forest Hills Bapist Church nearer the campus six or seven years ago.

From the students, they know there are Chinese in this country who pray their homeland will be re-opened for missionary work. When the time comes, there will be a new thrust to the mission program.

"Chinese Christians are saying, frankly, that this time they want to be the ones taking the Gospel to their people," Mrs. Middleton explained. "They would be better accepted and able to accomplish more than Americans. I certainly agree with them."

So far only a crack in the door appears, but renewed travel to mainland China is a possibility. Would she go?

"It's been so many years ... Yes, I just might do that," she said, eyes dreamy. Then the straightened in her chair. "But there's no chance of that, though I think about it very often."

N.C. Shouldn't Give Up Options On Island

No one knows what the fate of Bald Head Island will be now, but the House Calandar Committee was wise to kill off a bill blocking the state from acquiring the island.

Since the state presently has no funds appropriated for purchasing the island, killing the bill will not stop private development. At least, though, the state is not precluded from acquisition if funds should become available.

Certainly North Carolina should not give up its options so far as the island is concerned, and this is what the bill would have done.

Hanoi's Offer Fully As Hard

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — An agonizing dilemma has been created for President Nixon by the Communists' new seven-point peace proposal which, when read carefully be expert eyes, is fully as hard and perhaps just a bit harder than what has preceded it from Hanoi.

What makes North Vietnam's ploy so clever is that the seven points seem softer. That places Mr. Nixon under growing pressure from the Democratic opposition, worried Republican politicians, some Administration officials, and the American public to generally accept the seven points.

But careful analysis shows that even the grudging White House response (relayed through press secretary Ron Ziegler) that the seven points contain "positive, as well as clearly unacceptable, elements" is overly charitable. Rather, Hanoi's new peace plan contains no assurance that American prisoners of war will be automatically released because of an immediate U.S. troop pullout. Hanoi still appears to be demanding a new government in Saigon as the ultimate ransom price for the P.O.W.'s.

Thus, the dilemma for the President: to negotiate seriously on the seven points undercuts the Saigon regime's hope for survival; to reject the seven points out of hand threatens Mr. Nixon's paper-thin popular support in a war-weary nation. Moreover, this dilemma is tinged with a double irony.

First, the intense political pressure undercutting the anti-Communist effort in South Vietnam coincides with continued military difficulties for Communist forces. Suffering acute problems of morale and logistics, Hanoi's legions could not soon achieve a military victory over South Vietnamese forces still supplied by the U.S.

Second, the beguiling nature of Hanoi's seven points can be traced partly to the White House. Against the better judgment of some State Department officials, the President tied the highly emotional P.O.W. question to the Paris negotiations. For months, experts here have expected Hanoi to exploit this by, in effect, asking a high ransom for the prisoners. Now, the worst expectations of the experts have been realized.

Actually, the seven points do not significantly enlarge on Hanoi's past offers merely to "discuss" P.O.W. release if the U.S. sets a troop withdrawal deadline. Point No. 1 merely says that if the U.S. sets a date "for the withdrawal from South Vietnam in 1971 of the totality of U.S. forces," then "the parties will at the same time agree" on a release of the prisoners. To hardheaded analysts, this wording does not guarantee an automatic freeing of the P.O.W.'s.

Strength For Today

TODAY

"The Church if full of hypocrites." "Officeholders for the most part are a lot of crooks."

A resounding "NO" needs to be given to both these statements. Anyone who has had experience in Church work realizes how unjust the accusation is that the Church is full of hypocrites. The Church is full of weak but aspiring people. Ministers and laymen alike know how far they fall behind in the ideals for which religion stands. Also, we can be sure that although there are crooked officeholders and politicians, the vast number of people engaged in political endeavor are honest and trying indeed to make the world a better place in which to live.

Let us stop knocking. Let us get the gloom out of our speech and our attitudes. Let us know that there is more good in the world than there is evil. Let us support our churches and come down hard on any officeholder who really is unworthy.

In human history no generation has lived under governments and officeholders who tried as hard as our present-day officeholders do to establish justice and to be generous with open hands. An ancient Hebrew prophet who lived centuries ago put it in these words: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" (Micah 6:8). "Put that in your pipe and smoke it." That was a statement some decades ago. "Chew on that for a while and see how it tastes." That's for today.

Man With No Secrets

WASHINGTON — After being away from Washington for 17 days I found the town completely changed. Everywhere I went people were trading secret pentagon papers to each other.

The first place I stopped was the National Press Club bar. It was jammed with correspondents holding up Zeroxed copies in their hands.

"I'll give you two Henry Cabot Lodge memos for one McNamara position paper," someone yelled.

"I've got a Walt Rostow pre-Tonkin Gulf evaluation I'll trade for a Tet offensive report."

"How about a Joint Chiefs of Staff contingency plan for the invasion of Manchuria?"

I drank in embarrassed silence. Finally a New York Times man next to me said, "You don't have any Dean Rusk memos to Maxwell Taylor to complete my collection?"

I replied, "I don't have any papers at all."

"I thought you were a newspaperman," he said.

"I am, but I was out of the country when Daniel Ellsberg was handing out the documents."

He turned away from me with suspicion.

I tapped him on the shoulder. "You wouldn't let me see one, would you?" I asked.

"I should say not," he said indignantly. "These are classified documents."

I saw a friend of mine from the Washington Post.

"Murray," I said, "I don't know how to put this to you, but I was wondering if I could borrow a stolen Pentagon paper until I get paid on Thursday."

Murray said, "I'd like to help you, but I need every one I've got. I know the guy from the Boston Globe has some extra McGeorge Bundy cables. Why don't you ask him?"

I went down the bar to the Boston Globe man. "Healy," I said, "I'm plumb out of Pentagon papers. Could you spare a couple until I can make contact with a traitor from the Rand Corp.?"

"You know I'd do anything for you," Healy said, "but according to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, these papers could compromise the government. I would be betraying a trust if I gave them to somebody from the press."

"Healy," I said, "I don't like to beg, but I'm the only guy in town that doesn't have a single stolen document. How can I hold up my head in this profession if I don't have a Pentagon paper to my name?"

Healy replied, "Look, we're dealing with 'top secret' stuff here. I know you wouldn't do anything with the

Legislative Mischief

(Greensboro Daily News)

In every General Assembly, there is a small but fortunately unrepresentative group of mischief-makers who divert themselves with petty-minded stabs at the University of North Carolina. Usually their bills are quietly buried in committee.

But this time, with the General Assembly seriously concerned with questions of student cost and tuition, there were votes enough to gratify the spiteful with a large and thoughtless out-of-state tuition increase. In two stages, over two years, out of state tuition will be nearly doubled. The usual line is that this will deter a few "agitators" from the gates. It is more likely that these outlandish increases will diminish the quality of the university, by putting up a sort of tariff wall against undergraduates who contribute, out of all proportion to their numbers, to the academic and undergraduate life of the institutions. These big boosts will not, of course, send away children of means; they will make it impossible for deserving students who lack means to come. They will also gravely complicate the problem of recruiting graduate instructors.

There is a plausible argument, with which we do not agree, to the effect that everyone whose means permit should pay full tuition, but no such fine distinctions are drawn in the tuition-boost bill. Indeed, the resulting revenues are not to be used by higher education, but to extend the terms of public school teachers. The teachers ought to have more pay, but to take it out of the hide of the institutions of higher education is divisive and self-defeating, though it probably explains where the votes for this vicious measure came from.

In another feature that highlights the petty-mindedness of the legislation, amendments were accepted exempting out-of-state athletes. Apparently the legislators can digest potential harm to the academic vitality of the institutions, and the risk of provinciality, more easily than the prospect of harm to the football or basketball teams.

Cassette Magazine Is Popular

By ELMER ROESSNER

If you hear someone talking in the boss's private office, it may be the voice of Jack Vellbrecht, Aerojet president, or Donald Kendall, Pepsico chairman. And it will probably mean that the boss is a subscriber, at $80 a year, to the world's only cassette magazine, the Executive Voice, now seven months old.

The magazine is published by Time, Inc., and runs an hour in playing. As the name suggests, it is for business executives and carries the line "From Fortune."

Each issue consists of a half dozen Fortune-type interviews with business leaders.

The sound magazine's circulation is 10,000, contrasted with 5,080,000 for Fortune and 7,000,000 for Life.

The cassettes, whose price figures to be $6.67 each, may be played in an office, on an automobile tape-player, in a plane or at home. They are promoted as means of profiting from what otherwise may be lost time.

Gutsy, Iconoclastic

The interviews, which sound as if they were well rehearsed, are gutsy and iconoclastic, resembling more the raw-meat articles in Fortune than that magazine's encyclopedic take-outs.

The July Voice, for example, has these interviews:

Jack Vollbrecht, president of Aerojet-General, on "why I threw out the computers." He says that computers can't make decisions; they cause subordinates to pass the buck rather than make decisions, and they inhibit creative thinking. Vollbrecht concedes they are all right for storing data but that Aerojet doesn't even use them for making payrolls. It let's a bank do it.

Donald Kendall, chairman of Pepsico and chairman of the Emergency Committee for American Trade on "it's time to get tough with Japan." Linowitz, who left the Xerox presidency to work in government and civic affairs, holds that corporations have an obligation to improve life in the cities, and that the conditions they complain of are overtaking them in suburbia and exurbia.

'Adulthood' Indecision In The Senate

Law Or No Law; Draft Lottery Set In August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service System says the 1972 draft lottery, postponed once because of congressional delay in extending the draft act, will be held next month—law or no law.

"We think it's important to have the lottery because the kids are anxious to know what their numbers are," a Selective Service spokesman said Thursday. "We don't know when Congress is going to act and that's why we're going ahead with it."

Aug. 5 tentatively has been set for the lottery to determine the order in which young men will be drafted into the Army in 1972.

Originally scheduled for July 1, the lottery was postponed after House-Senate conferees deadlocked over legislation to extend the draft act two years.

The stalemate is over an amendment calling for a U.S. pullout from Vietnam within nine months after Hanoi agrees to release American prisoners of war.

At the time the deadlock developed, a Selective Service spokesman said Draft Director Curtis Tarr could have held the lottery as scheduled but did not want to appear acting without approval from Congress.

Tarr now apparently has decided to go ahead, since there are indications Congress may not reach a compromise until the fall.

A spokesman said it wouldn't be fair to wait any longer for the thousands of young men who want to make plans with a new school year drawing near.

Although Selective Service will go ahead with the lottery, the June 30 expiration of the draft act has forced a delay in calling up 16,000 men requested by the Defense Department for the Army in July and August.

However, the 500,000 men who were deferred when the old law was in effect but are otherwise eligible could be drafted, but there has been no decision on this by the Nixon administration.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has said he is "not in favor of using such an unfair method to select the people for the July and August call."

RALEIGH (AP) — Confusion over the age of majority in North Carolina has spread into the State Senate, where proposed legislation is pending that would roll back a newly enacted law extending adulthood to some 325,000 persons 18 to 21 years old.

The Senate adopted an amendment to the bill Thursday that, instead of repealing outright, would delay the effective date of the adulthood change until July 1973. Included in the amendment by Sen. Ruffin Bailey, D-Wake, were provisions in validating any contracts or legal obligations incurred by the "new adults" since July 5.

Bailey also introduced the original bill to repeal the adulthood law—Senate Bill 4. He told the Senate that, by lowering the age of majority from 21 to 18, the legislature had put "the State of North Carolina in judicial turmoil."

He has introduced a resolution that would authorize a study of problems relating to changes in the age of majority. A report and recommendations were called for during the 1973 legislative session.

Bailey said complications brought on by dropping the age of majority were causing massive problems for clerks of court over wills, bequests and property settlements based on the legal definition of a minor.

Also at stake are such questions as the sale of liquor. Senate Bill 4 has been interpreted by state legal experts as making it legitimate for the 18-to-21 year old group to buy and possess liquor, but other laws prohibit ABC stores from selling to them.

Sen. Zebulon Alley, D-Haywood, who sponsored the adulthood bill, argued against the Senate vote on Bailey's amendment Thursday.

"These people became adults on July 5, and many of them have entered into contracts, many of them have bought businesses. I say we can't cut off these rights with five minutes notice," Alley said.

Alley's motion to delay any action on the Bailey amendment was beaten by a vote of 18-28.

Alley contended that an omnibus bill pending in the Senate would "take care of most of the problems" cited by Bailey. The bill makes some 200 statutory changes relating to the age of majority.

Head-On Crash Killed Cyclist

ANGIER, N. C. (AP) — An 18-year-old Harnett County youth was killed and another teen-ager seriously injured Thursday night when two motorcycles collided head-on a rural road two miles east of Angier.

The Highway Patrol identified the dead youth as Harvey Lewis Massey of Rt. 1, Angier. Injured was Julian Mabrey Jr., 15, of Rt. 2, Angier.

Troopers said one of the motorcycles was traveling on the wrong side of the road.

Pollution Suits Ready

RALEIGH (AP) — Federal antipollution suits have been prepared against the town of Hertford and two individuals accused of damaging public waterways.

U.S. Atty. Warren H. Colidge said Thursday the suits would be filed formally in Eastern District Court today. Coolidge said a fourth suit, against the City of New Bern, has been prepared but would be withheld pending completion of negotiations between the city and the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Hertford suit accused the town of dumping its refuse into wooded swampland along the Perquimans River for the past three years. It seeks an injunction requiring the town to clean up the pollution or be assessed $750,000 in damages.

Names in the other suits were C. B. Jennette of Swan Quarter, owner of the Rose Bay Oyster Co., and Carteret County farmer Clarence Oglesby of Morehead City.

The suits said Jennette had been filling navigable waters of Rose Bay with sand and dirt. Oglesby was called to have poured concrete into Dill Creek in an effort to fill it.

The court was asked to instruct the two men to clean up the creeks, or assess Oglesby $20,000 and Jennette $10,000.

Coolidge said the suit pending against New Bern would seek $2 million in alleged damages resulting from partial construction of a 160-acre park.

The attorney's office contends the park would destroy the marshland.

Collidge said disposition of the prepared suit would be decided after the city completes its talks with the Corps of Engineers, which must give final approval for the construction to be completed.

Pickets At Terminals

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Members of the United Transportation Union in North Carolina began picketing Southern Railroad terminals in several cities this morning.

The 110 members of the Charlotte local walked off their jobs at 6 a.m., the deadline for a strike against the railroad throughout its territory.

Other cities where Southern was picketed were Asheville, Raleigh and Winston-Salem.

J. E. Bell, secretary-treasurer of Local 1166 of the UTU at Charlotte, said members of other unions were observing the picket lines and that he expected trains to be halted as a result.

Southern officials in Charlotte referred inquiries to the company's Washington headquarters. Spokesmen there said passenger service has ended and that freight service would continue for 24 hours with the use of supervisory personnel.

$100,000 Package Found In Joint Raid

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A joint agency raid on a Wilmington apartment Wednesday netted what officers said was enough cocaine to be worth $100,000 when sold on the street.

Nine-tenths of a pound of the drug was seized by police, deputies, U.S. Customs and SBI agents and an alcoholic control officer. Curtis Register, coordinator of the Wilmington drug control squad, said the drug was found in a package on a closet shelf in an apartment.

He said Michael Leon Johnson and Jo Ann Haynes, both 24, were arrested on charges of possessing and selling drugs. Johnson was jailed under $25,000 bond and the woman on $10,000 bond.

A state district court hearing was scheduled for July 29.

MURDERS TRIPLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Murders in the last decade have tripled in New York City, the police report.

The city had 1,117 murders last year compared with 390 in 1960.

Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate defeated 71-10 Thursday a proposal to eliminate government price supports for tobacco farmers.

"This is an effort to take the food out of the mouths and the clothes off the backs of 650,000 families," said Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

The proposal, an amendment to the Agriculture Appropriations Bill, was offered by Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah.

meaning of "totality of U.S. forces." Hanoi is not talking about merely U.S. soldiers and airmen but also "weapons and war materials of the United States" and "all U.S. bases in South Vietnam." In other words, Mr. Nixon would have to condemn to death the huge, Westernized military machine of South Vietnam which had been built to Washington's specifications.

The crucial Point No. 1 also begins with a demand for the U.S. to "put an end to its war of aggression in Vietnam." Does that mean no more sponsorship of Saigon's military activity and, therefore, require a purge of President Nguyen Van Thieu? Almost surely, Hanoi will demand precisely that before P.O.W.'s are released.

Indeed, some experts outside the government even disagree with the Central Intelligence Agency's assessment that, at the least, the Communists no longer demand a coalition government in Saigon. The CIA view is contradicted by a South Vietnamese Communist spokesman who declared, just after the seven points were unveiled, that the coalition government remains an essential goal.

Nor is any serious credence given to present promises by North Vietnamese officials that they merely want "an independent neutral South Vietnam." In fact, no serious Hanoiologist doubts the permanent goal of a united Communist Vietnam in the immediate future. North Vietnamese leader Pham Van Dong recently expressed hope that the city of Hanoi "proves itself worthy of being the capital of the socialist north at present and of being the capital of the entire country in the future."

The Communists count on American war-weariness to overlook these ambiguities and contradictions and, instead, swallow the seven points whole. So far, they have been entirely correct. That establishes a painful test whether Mr. Nixon can continue his courageous consistency on Vietnam in the face of American public opinion open to Hanoi's blandishments and uninterested in past national commitments.

papers, and Murray knows you wouldn't do anything to compromise the country. But does J. Edgar Hoover know it?"

A man from the Los Angeles Times said, "Does anyone want to trade the CIA's estimate of Madame Nhu for the plans of a military coup in Laos?"

"I'll do it," the bartender said, bringing out some papers from behind the bar.

"You have papers, too?" I asked in surprise.

"Sure," he said. "All my tips for the past month have been in stolen Pentagon papers."

"You wouldn't sell any, would you?"

"Not on your life. These papers were given to me on the condition I would never show them to strangers."

I left the bar trying not to hear the taunts of the drinkers.

A Chicago Sun Times man said, loudly enough for me to hear, "We ought to keep an eye on who comes into this place or our papers will be leaked all over town."

AdjournmentOn WednesdayEyed

RALEIGH (AP) — The latest word from North Carolina's legislative leaders on when the General Assembly will wind up its longest session in history is: Noon Wednesday.

As House Speaker Phil Godwin put it Thursday, "Noon Wednesday is the earliest realistic time we can pick."

The assembly, going into its 157th working day, had been toying with a plan that called for sessions Saturday and Sunday if it appeared the legislators could finish up their work by that time.

Godwin put an end to that, however, telling staff members to count on taking the weekend off and be back at work Monday afternoon.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Ace of ♡

West opened the ace of hearts against South's four spade contract, which is not the recommended procedure holding four trumps, for West can reasonably expect to score his spade tricks naturally—without the benefit of ruffs. He switched to a club at trick two and the ace was p'ayed from dummy.

South cashed the king of diamonds, followed by a diamond to the ace and then a third round which was ruffed with the deuce of spades, as both opponents followed suit. The ace of spades was played next followed by the four. If the suit divided three-two—as is the normal expectation — South planned on going up with the king and then to begin running the hearts. Even if the queen of spades did not drop, declarer figured he would lose at most three tricks—one each in spades, hearts and diamonds.

When East showed out on the second spade, South realized that West was assured of scoring two trump tricks. Declarer attempted to cash the king of hearts, but West ruffed in and played the queen of diamonds to complete the defensive book. The queen of spades subsequently sent South down to defeat.

Declarer could have made his contract in one of two ways. After he ruffs the third diamond and plays the ace of spades, if he returns to his hand by ruffing a club, he can successfully trump his fourth diamond with the four of spades, because altho East is out of diamonds he also has no more trumps. This gives South a tenth trick.

Another successful line of play is to ruff out dummy's clubs. At trick three a club is trumped. Dummy is entered with the king of diamonds to ruff another club. The ace of diamonds is cashed followed by a diamond ruff. A fourth club is led and trumped with the eight of spades. South now has seven tricks in. He can lead a fourth diamond and trump with the ace of spades. A heart is led to the king which West ruffs, but he must now lead away from his trump holding into South's king-jack to present the latter with his ninth and tenth tricks.

Taking a chance

That's a high fence for a young man to walk, but take a good look at his face, and you'll see that he's not only determined to do it, but confident that he can.

Chances are, with this attitude, he won't slip. At least, he'll have far less chance of slipping than if he approached "fence-walking" plagued by self-doubt.

So many of us approach tasks, challenges, opportunities, with a nagging conviction of our own failure, even before we begin. We need more faith in ourselves. Self-faith comes only from a far greater faith! Faith in God.

Face up to your own "fence-walking." In the course of life, we all have to do quite a bit of it. Find the courage to start by listening to what your church has to say to you.

Ayden Man Free On Bond In 2 Charges

AYDEN — An Ayden man has been released from jail on $1,300 bond following his arrest this morning on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill and illegal transportation of non-tax paid whisky.

According to the Ayden Police Department, Otis Williams was arrested after Sgt. J. W. Pridgen stopped a car just outside of Ayden around 6 a.m. today.

Sgt Pridgen reported that when he stopped the 1956 model car, two men fled on foot with one of them firing a pistol at the officer and hitting the police car.

The sergeant reported that Williams was apprehended a short time later in Ayden and charged with the two offenses.

The Pitt County ABC office was notified and representatives of the office, along with a deputy sheriff, found a quantity of non-tax paid whisky in the car.

Investigation of the incident is continuing. Williams has been scheduled for a hearing in Ayden District Court on Aug. 12.

possible solution I can see now if their families cannot come through.

"Putting the patients into hospitals is the other alternative. Many really cannot be kept at home because of the need of life-sustaining care and equipment. This is going to be an expensive proposition and one that will crowd hospitals unnecessarily.

"Also, the legislature specified that this entire bill is a closed-end appropriation. Absolutely no more money than what has been appropriated for the two-year period can be spent. I don't know who will miss out at toward the end when funds run out, which is what undoubtedly will happen when these nursing home patients are afforded hospital care which is much more expensive."

The Pitt County group also met with Ben Roney, administrative assistant to Gov. Bob Scott. Roney appeared sympathetic and promised to take the matter up with the Governor this morning. However, he expressed doubt that the governor could prevail upon the legislators to consider the matter before they adjourn.

Ga.-Fla. Late Start

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Georgia-Florida sales of flue-cured tobacco will open late this year — Aug. 3 — but the crop is expected to be one of the finest Georgia has ever produced.

Tommy Irvin, Georgia Commissioner of Agriculture, announced the opening date Thursday.

Bad weather early in the growing season set the crop back and forced an August opening—only the third time in the history of the auction markets it has been this late.

Florida must also set a date, but it usually is the same as Georgia's because 23 of the 28 markets in the belt are in Georgia.

Indications are that the state's flue-cured crop will be smaller than last year's. The Georgia Crop Reporting Service said that only about 29 per cent of the crop had been harvested by last weekend.

The maturing of the plants was retarded by a drought in many areas of south Georgia. In other regions, entire fields were damaged by hail.

The local tax collection had not begun in Pitt in June.

Worth Some Sacrifice To See 'Mame'

If you did not see "Mame" at McGinnis Auditorium last night, or do not have a ticket to take it in during its run here, drop everything and get to the ticket office, even if you have to go hungry for a day or two to afford the price. It's well worth the sacrifice to see Denise Lor in the role of "Mame".

For two hours this lovely actress transforms a marvelous role into an experience that is unforgettable, bringing into play every subtle facet of her magnificant voice — strong and lustrous and rich. And the lady's a dream to look at.

Miss Lor has the kind of support a star must dream about. Richard Cray, the younger Patrick Dennis, is a fine child actor, reflecting and complementing Miss Lor's superb characterization of "Mame".

Baillie Gerstein in the role of the dowdy Agnes Gooch who eventually blossoms for a brief period into a femme fatale, wrings the most out of a number of hilarious situations. There are a few instances when perhaps Miss Gerstein over-acts, but that is a minor sin compared to all the laughs she brings forth.

Mame's faithful side-kick, Vera Charles, is wonderfully astringent as portrayed by Camille Hardy, a slender slip of a blond endowed with a beautifully husky voice.

Michael Hardy, the new general manager for the Summer Theater, makes an effective ECU acting and singing debut as the older Patrick Dennis, and who will not long remember the two bits by Pamela Kalis — as Madame Branislowski and as Mother Burnside — both polished to perfection.

Paul Bucke does justice to the role of Dwight Babcock, whose unhappy fate is that of trying to keep Mame in line with accepted social conventions. Robert Severa is properly dignified as the publisher M. Lindsay Woolsey.

Stuart Aronson as Beauregard Jackson Picket Burnside; Randy Jones as the puppet-like Ito; Mark Ramsey as the Elevator Boy and again as Uncle Jeff; Christopher Camille's southern belle, Sally Cato; and Lauren J. Eager, Leonard Wolpe and Susan Johnson in the roles of the Upsons; are all outstanding performers.

A large measure of the happy impact of "Mame" is in the dances — a goodly number of them. Mavis Ray has once more scored triumphantly in choreographing the dances in "Mame" which are always exhilirating. Robert Williams, in his sets, has captured the full nostalgic flavor of a colorful period, and Barry Shank seems to be getting better all the time as musical director.

There are few musicals of the American stage on a par with "Mame." Stan Page, directing this production, has fully realized that elusive quality of magic that places the Summer Theater Playhouse "Mame" in that rare circle of winners, worthy of being called superb entertainment. — Jerry Raynor

Injured By Boat Blast

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A 49-year-old retired Air Force colonel was reported in "serious but satisfactory condition" today after being seriously burned in an explosion on his new 34-foot cabin cruiser about five miles east of New Point Comfort.

Thomas O. Ware, 49, of Punta Gorda, Fla., was taken off the vessel Thursday along with his wife and son by a Coast Guard helicopter.

The Coast Guard said Ware's wife and son suffered minor burns on their faces.

Ware's family believed the explosion occurred in the boat's engine compartment but were not sure of the cause. Damage to the boat was reported to be slight.

The Wares had bought the craft somewhere near Cape Cod, a Coast Guard spokesman said, and were taking it back to Florida when the explosion took place.

Ware was taken to the Norfolk Naval Hospital initially but was later transferred to the U.S. Public Health Hospital in Portsmouth.

Resignation By Aging Churchman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, who will be 75 on Sunday, has submitted his resignation to Pope Paul VI.

Although a 1968 directive of the Roman Curia "earnestly requested" that bishops offer their resignations at the beginning of their 75th year, Cardinal O'Boyle said he has had no response from the Vatican since the resignation was submitted last month.

Cardinal O'Boyle, who is in his 24th year as spiritual head of 400,000 Roman Catholics in the Washington Archdiocese, stirred deep Church controversy in 1968 when he imposed stiff punishment on 39 priests who refused to accept Pope Paul's antibirth-control encyclical.

Belk brought along a honk-honk horn and gave it frequent toots between the time and temperature announcements, a plug for safe driving, some music and banter with Knight. When 9 a.m. came and Belk finished, he said, "When I started I wasn't quite sure what was going on, and now that it's over, I'm still not sure."

Clemente's 17th Inning Homer Wins For Pirates

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

"The game's not over till the last man is out."

Nobody knows just who first coined that famous remark about the grand, old game of baseball. But manager Danny Murtaugh believes it. Oh, does he ever believe it.

Murtaugh watched his Pittsburgh Pirates work their way dangerously close to their last out three times Thursday night, only to bounce back each time against San Diego. The Pirates eventually beat the Padres 4-3 with Roberto Clemente's 17th inning home run ending the longest game of the National League season.

Elsewhere in the NL Thursday, Los Angeles shut out Atlanta 6-0, New York defeated Houston 9-4, Chicago edged Philadelphia 7-6, Cincinnati shaded San Francisco 2-1 and St. Louis split a doubleheader with Montreal, winning 7-3 and then losing 6-4.

In the American League, Milwaukee blanked New York 1-0, Boston shut out Minnesota 3-0 in 13 innings, Washington whipped Chicago 8-3, Kansas City blanked Cleveland 1-0, Baltimore edged California 4-3 and Oakland nipped Detroit 8-7.

The Pirates simply refused to give up against the Padres and as a result, stretched their winning streak to seven games. Forgive Murtaugh if there were a couple of moments when he figured the streak was over.

San Diego nursed a 1-0 lead into the ninth inning and the way starter Dave Roberts was pitching, it looked like enough. But the Pirates scratched out the tying run on a walk, a bouncing single by Jose Pagan and Gene Alley's sacrifice fly.

Roberts, who had struck out slugger Willie Stargell four times, left in the 10th and three innings later, Stargell got even.

The Padres had taken the lead in the top of the 13th on a pinch homer by Ivan Murrell. Reliever Al Severinsen struck out the first two batters in the bottom half of the inning and that left only Stargell.

The big slugger walloped his 31st homer over the wall, tying the game again. In the 16th, the Padres tried again, pushing across the tie-breaking run again, this time on a wild pitch.

But again, the Pirates refused to fold. This time there was only one out in the bottom half of the inning when Richie Hebner tagged his 14th homer of the year, tying it again.

If by now the Padres' spirit was broken, they could hardly be blamed. Clemente then gave them a mercifully quick finish, hammering a one-out homer in the 17th to end the 4-hour, 12-minute marathon.

Los Angeles chopped a game off San Francisco's West Division lead, blanking Atlanta while the Giants were dropping a tough one in Cincinnati.

The Dodgers used home runs by Jim Lefebvre, Willie Davis and Richie Allen for four runs and that was plenty for Claude Osteen, who hurled a six-hitter. Davis also contributed a single and a triple to LA's attack.

Tony Perez ripped his 15th homer of the year and third in the last two games to give the Reds their fifth straight victory and beat San Francisco. Perez' shot broke a 1-1 tie with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning. Lee May's 24th homer accounted for Cincinnati's other run.

The Mets spotted Houston as early 4-0 lead but bounced back to overtake the Astros. Cleon Jones' two-run homer gave New York the lead in the seventh and Tug McGraw pitched six shut out innings in relief to earn the victory.

Joe Pepitone's leadoff homer touched off a six-run Chicago explosion and the Cubs roared from behind to ship Philadelphia.

Chicago was trailing 6-1 in the sixth inning when Pepitone homered. Then Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert contributed a couple of triples as the Cubs rallied.

The season's two no-hit pitchers, Philadelphia's Rick Wise and Ken Holtzman of the Cubs, were the opposing starters but neither lasted past the fourth inning.

Matty Alou and Ted Simmons cracked three hits each and Joe Torre drove in three runs with a pair of singles as St. Louis whacked Montreal in the first game of their doubleheader for Steve Carlton's 13th victory.

The Expos took the nightcap behind Bill Stoneman; exploding for four runs in the fourth inning to halt a four-game losing streak and a five-game St. Louis winning string.

Local Legion Team Rallies To Tie Ahoskie Series; One Each

AHOSKIE — Greenville's American Legion team spotted Ahoskie three first-inning runs Thursday night but rallied behind strong hurling by Byron Dickens to take a 7-3 win and even the series at one game apiece.

The deciding game will be held tonight in Ahoskie beginning at 7:30. Since the third game was originally planned for Greenville, the local squad will act as the home team in tonight's tilt.

Ray Andrews got things started for Ahoskie with one away in the first inning by beating out an infield hit. Andrews moved down to second when John Barrow also got an infield safety. Dickens hit Kenny Mizzell with a pitch to load the bases and Don Lee followed with the third hit of the inning to score Andrews and Barrow. When the relay in was misplayed, Mizzell scampered home with the third, and final, run for Ahoskie.

Greenville came back with two runs in the second as Timmy James was hit by a pitch and Tommy Durham reached on an error. Joe West drew a walk to load the bases and James Bond's sacrifice fly scored James, with Durham moving down to third. Dickens delivered a sacrifice fly to drive in Durham with the second run.

The locals pushed across the tying run in the fifth when Bill Lee led off with a triple to left and scored on a sacrifice fly by Stanley Cobb.

The score remained tied until the ninth although both teams offered threats. With two away in the ninth, Lee walked and Cobb got a free pass. Jimmy Paige hit back to the pitcher and the throw was muffed to load the bases. James was hit by a pitch scoring Lee and Durham got a single to center to score Cobb and Paige. James scored as Durham's hit was misplayed in centerfield.

In getting the win, Dickens struck out 20, walked one and gave up only six singles, three of those of the infield variety.

East Carolina Blanked, 3-0, By Wilmington; Sixth Loss In Row

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina's Pirates dropped their sixth straight game last night as they were shut out by the Seahawks of the University of North Carolina at Wilmington 3-0.

East Carolina's record falls to 6-9 while the win boosts the Seahawks to mark of 10-6. Winning pitcher Eddie Booth is undefeated having thrown four wins against no losses.

The Pirates went to work in the first inning. Mike Bradshaw led off with a walk but was caught at second when Mike Aldridge grounded into a fielder's choice.

In the second, it looked like the Pirates were going to score. With one out, John Narron singled as did Rick McMahon. But the next batter hit into a double play erasing the threat.

Pitcher Sonny Robinson opened the third with a hit. After Bradshaw struck out, Matt Walker hit into a force play getting Robinson at second. The next batter flied out leaving Walker at first.

In the next inning, Ralph Lamm singled and moved to second on a wild pitch but could not come around.

East Carolina put men on in the fifth and seventh innings but failed to push over a run. In the eighth, Bradshaw led off with a hit but another fielder's choice erased any hopes of a rally.

Wilmington also got started in the first on a walk but a double play ended the early threat. Robinson struck out the side in the second.

In the fourth, Bill Hutchinson reached on a fielder's choice and moved to third on a double by Howie Edgerton. Second baseman Ronnie Leggett made a good play going to his left to rob Bruce Cavenaugh of a hit and to retire the side.

In the seventh, the Seahawks scored what proved to be the winning runs. Booth singled but Aldridge, who was playing for the out, overran the ball allowing Booth to go all the way to third. Eddie Higgins reached and went to second on an error that scored Booth. A passed ball moved Higgins to third and he came over on a sacrifice fly.

Wilmington added another in the ninth to ice the win.

Loser Robinson who is now 0-2 on the year, struck out seven and walked five. Booth struck out eight and walked two in going the distance.

The Pirates host the Camels of Campbell College tonight in a double header at 6:30 at Harrington field.

Black Jack, Grace Win In Church League Play

Black Jack stayed alive in Church League Tournament play last night with a 16-6 elimination win over Oakmont while Grace eliminated Maranatha by posting an 18-4 victory.

Oakmont scored once in the first inning to grab the lead as Don Parrott reached on an error, moved to second on the play, and scored when Danny Singleton's grounder was mishandled.

Black Jack came back with five in their half of the inning and then won going away. Randy Dixon singled and Tal Adams tripled him in. Hugh Hardee followed with another triple to score Adams and when J. T. Mills reached on an error, Hardee came in to score. A home run by Steve Peele brought in the final two runs of the inning.

The winners went on to add two more runs in the second inning, two in the third, two in the fourth and five in the sixth for their total.

Oakmont narrowed the gap to three runs in the third inning by scoring three but they fell short as Black Jack came up with two of their own in the inning. Two more runs came across for Oakmont in the seventh but not enough to save them from tournament elimination.

Grace scored four runs in the first inning against Maranatha and coasted the rest of the way. Robbin Conggins slammed a homer to lead off for Grace and D. R. Daniels followed with a hit. After Lindsey Hardee's grounder was errored, Sammy Pugh got a single to score Daniels. After a ground out, Redden Jones got a hit to drive across the final two runs.

Grace got another run in the second inning and wrapped up the game with ten in the fifth and three in the seventh. Maranatha got a run in the third and three more in the seventh.

Old Crow's good taste begins with men who love to work with their hands.

Anthony Clark has a big responsibility. One false move of his hands and he's mixed the wrong measure of grain for the Old Crow formula. Does he ever miss? The proof is in the good taste of our Bourbon.

Making Bourbon which tastes good, bottle after bottle, made Old Crow famous. Back in 1835, our people figured out the formula that took Bourbon-making out of the hit-or-miss category. Later, they handmade the first sour mash Bourbon. We still use our hands in making Old Crow.

After work, most of our men keep on using their hands. Anthony Clark calls on the same craftsmanship mixing grain as he does tying fishing flies.

Over the years, craftsmanship like this has made Old Crow America's best-tasting Bourbon.

Worry Clinic

Tact Required For Correcting

Thelma wonders how she can save the nurses a lot of unwarranted criticism at the hospital. So study my answer to her. It requires a deft technique to avoid ill will when you wish to correct anybody else, so use those "Tests for Employers and Employees," as mentioned below. And sandwich each criticism between two compliments!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case R-508: Thelma T., aged 24, is a Registered Nurse.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my profession is wonderfully rewarding because of our aid to sick and suffering patients.

"But occasionally we encounter doctors who make our life miserable.

"For some physicians are chronic buck-passers!

"They blame us nurses for everything that goes wrong, though we may actually not be at fault in the slightest degree.

"Others have a chronic negative outlook and keep looking for faults so they can 'chew out' the nurses.

"We are alsways supposed to smile and meekly accept all criticisms, even if the latter are unmerited.

"So what can we do to vent our inner ire at such injustices?

Test For Employers

Hospitals regularly have Staff Meetings of the doctors.

It would be a good idea to let the nurses submit their personal gripes to the Superintendent of Nurses, who could compile them.

Then she might pass these along to the Staff Meeting so the doctors could rate themselves!

For this would let some of those buck-passing, critical physicians see themselves as others view them.

Yet no nurse's identity would be revealed, so the girls would all be protected by such a composite test.

In every organization, it is helpful for the boss to learn the attitude of his workers.

Which is why I compiled "Tests for Employers and Employees" as outlined below.

The confidential reports of 1,348 workers formed the basis of this "Test for Employers," which contains the 50 most common complaints of employees and also their 50 most frequent compliments of their bosses.

Among the complaints (Demerits) were these sample items:

A chronic buck-passer.

Afflicted with halitosis from tobacco, alcohol, garlic, etc.

Too affectionate with women employees.

Poor letter dictator (mumbles, or speaks with cigar in mouth).

Chisels salesmen for personal "rake off."

Curses at workers or telephone operators.

Plays favorites.

Waits till nearly quitting time to dictate a lot of "rush" letters.

An office "bearcat" but meek "housecat" with his wife.

Wants workers to do errands for him after working hours.

Contrast those with such sample Merits or virtues as:

Pleasant and courteous; always says "Good Morning" cheerfully.

Goes to bat for his workers.

Never scolds a worker till they are alone.

Calls his workers by their names and is interested in their families.

Encourages workers to take night classes and move upward.

Accommodating; let's you off early for important engagement.

Considerate of new workers; doesn't "ride" them.

Tactful; phrases orders as suggestions.

Good sense of humor; laughs at jokes on himself.

Loyal and devoted to his wife.

Send for the complete "Test for Employers and Employees," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus, 20 cents.

They help reduce unnecessary discord between management and labor, so are widely used in American industry nowadays for self-evaluation or rating by others.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Senate Compromises On Redistricting

RALEIGH (AP) — A late-hour conference in Lt. Gov. Paty Taylor's office produced a compromise redistricting plan that finally won Senate approval Thursday, realigning North Carolina's 50 senators among 27 districts.

The lineup, if approved as expected by the House, completes legislative reapportionment necessitated by the population shifts reflected by the 1970 Census.

Approval of the reapportionment plan marked a limited victory for Sen. I. C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, who succeeded in winning acceptance of his third attempt to amend a plan reported out by the Senate's Legislative Redistricting Committee.

As passed Thursday, the plan leaves intact a committee proposal lumping together the two districts now served by Sens. Carl Killian, D-Jackson, and Zebulon Alley, D-Haywood. Crawford's first two attempts to change the bill kept the districts separate.

Alley told the Senate a merger of the two districts would make it as large as a congressional district with the "roughest terrain in the United States."

Two senators will be elected from the new district embracing Haywood, Henderson, Polk, Cherokee, Clay, Graham, Jackson, Macon, Swain and Transylvania counties.

The conference between Crawford, committee chairman Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, and Taylor also produced a change sought by the Buncombe senator that would put Rutherford County in new 25th District.

The original bill had included Rutherford with Bubcombe's district, a move strongly opposed by Crawford and Sen. Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe. Gudger told the Senate Wednesday the two counties had nothing in common "historically or politically."

Moore objected to the Crawford plan, telling the Senate it jeopardized the legality of the redistricting proposal because it created a larger population deviation between districts.

The western plan, Moore said, was drawn "just for their convenience, not for political survival."

RALEIGH (AP) — Here is a complete list of the Senate districts approved Thursday by the Senate and sent to the House, showing county and number of senators:

John Wayne Clark, 36, of Route 3, Washington was charged with following too closely after investigation of a 7:55 a.m. mishap here yesterday on 14th Street, 300 feet East of the U.S. 264 intersection.

Police reported Mrs. Haynie was injured in the mishap.

Form 'Co-Ops' To Buy Drugs

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

Some of North Carolina's biggest narcotics dealers have banded into "co-ops" so they can buy more drugs and get them cheaper.

Max Bryan, head of the State Bureau of Investigation's Intelligence Division, explained that the more drugs a dealer buys, the cheaper they are. So three or four dealers pool their money for big purchases of drugs, principally heroin.

Bryan said the co-ops appear to be the extent of any real organization of drug traffic in the state. He said their only apparent link with the Mafia is that they sometimes buy drugs from the national syndicate.

The Mafia, Bryan said, smuggles drugs into the country and sells them in large metropolitan areas. The state co-ops buy them there.

SBI Director Charles Dunn says two groups in the state obtain drugs from New York, New Jersey, Washington, Atlanta and sometimes even Greenville, S.C.

But he says a third group has a direct contact in Thailand and uses its own couriers to smuggle heroin into the state.

Bryan said his intelligence division has found that a favorite way of getting drugs directly into the state from overseas is to pay servicemen returning home to stash drugs in their personal belongings.

Large numbers of U.S. servicemen return to Ft. Bragg from the war in Southeast Asia.

Bryan said Fayetteville, near Ft. Bragg, has become one of the worst areas in the state for drug traffic. He said one of the state's criminals with his own organization recently moved into the eastern part of the state where he had not been know to operate previously.

"He is doing quite well for himself in the narcotics business," Bryan said.

Bryan said the capture of five principal drug dealers in the state would "wrap up the drug business in North Carolina until someone replaced them."

Asked how long it would be before the drug traffic would get rolling again if the five were rounded up, Bryan replied, "About a day."

He said the SBI has learned that there is hardly a town in the state where a person can't buy some sort of drugs illegally.

Heroin purchases can be made in even the smallest of towns, he said.

Dealers, Bryan said, are the middlemen in a drug chain that begins with the Mafia. The Cosa Nostra sells the drugs to the dealers. The dealers hand them over to the so-called "lieutenants" who work on a commission basis.

The lieutenants sell them to the pushers, the street salesmen who peddle to the addicts. The pushers are usually addicts themselves, Bryan said, while the dealers and the lieutenants aren't usually hooked.

The pushers are frequently in their teens, Bryan said, but persons in their 60s can be found pushing drugs to high school pupils and even to junior high school pupils.

TVA Stockpile Of Coal Shrinks

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The United Mine Workers Union's four-week holiday, now in its third week, has lowered the Tennessee Valley Authority's coal stockpile to about 7.8 million tons.

The agency said Thursday it has on hand at its steam plants enough coal to last 78 days at the expected rate of burn. This is down from an 86-day supply before the holiday began.

The first sulphur deposit in the United States was discovered in Louisiana in 1869.
