Ceasefire, Unification Election Offer Renewed

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government today renewed its proposal for a cease-fire and the reunification elections with North Vietnam that President Ngo Dinh Diem refused to hold 1 year ago. Although both the government and a U.S. Embassy spokesman said it was reaffirmation of proposals made in 1969 and July 8, by South Vietnam, the renewal of the bid took on new significance in light of other moves aimed at a peaceful settlement.

These include a new seven-point peace package put forth by the Viet Cong at the Paris peace talks July 1 and President Nixon's forthcoming visit to mainland China to confer with Red Chinese leaders. At the daily briefing for news correspondents, U.S. Embassy spokesman Roy W. Johnson was asked if the United States saw anything new in the South Vietnamese proposal.

"So far, we haven't found anything new in it," Johnson replied. "It is a reaffirmation of a statement made in 1969. It is also a reaffirmation of two points of the five-point proposal made July 8 in Paris. We see nothing new in it."

There was no immediate comment from the State Department in Washington. However, sources familiar with the peace negotiations said they expect North Vietnamese and Viet Cong envoys to rebuff the Saigon proposal.

The latest South Vietnamese statement was made in a communique issued by the Foreign Ministry to mark the 17th anniversary of the 1954 Geneva agreements that ended the French war in Indochina, divided Vietnam at the 17th Parallel and provided for reunification elections. The South Vietnamese government refused to sign the agreements but observes the anniversary as National Grif Day.

Probably Resuming Oct. 25

Legislators Eye Adjournment

RALEIGH (AP) — Legislative leaders are looking forward to adjournment of the 1971 General Assembly this Wednesday, but the adjournment will not be final.

Traditionally, the assembly adjourns "sine die," or "without day." That means that no certain day is set for them to come back to Raleigh.

However, this year the legislators will likely adjourn to a day certain, probably to October 25. That is the date chosen by Gov. Bob Scott and legislative leaders for reconvening the assembly to take up the question of restructuring the state-supported system of higher education. There had been a movement afoot to postpone the while higher education question until 1973, but leaders behind that movement said Saturday that they had abandoned those plans and would go along with the October 25 session.

Rep. Ike Andrews, D-Chat-ham, leader of the forces in the House backing the Consolidated University of North Carolina in the restructuring fight, said the reconvening of the assembly "would be rather a perfunctory thing."

Andrews was the House leader for a movement supporting legislation introduced by Sen.

John Burney, D-New Hanover, that would delay any permanent restructuring until after a two-year study. This bill, supported by more than half of the Senate, also would give more budget review authority to the State Board of Higher Education while leaving the Consolidated University of North Carolina intact.

"We do intend to introduce our bill in the House," said Andrews. "As of right now I rather believe any of the other plans will lack less than a majority of the support. I believe this plan (the Burney plan) will be the one most likely to be adhered to."

Bloodmobile Is Coming Here On Wednesday

On Wednesday, the first drive of the American Red Cross — Pitt County Bloodmobile for the 1971-72 season will be held at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Bloodmobile director Douglas Morgan says the hours of collection will begin at 11:30 a.m. and continue until 5:30 p.m. with members of the Greenville Service League and Women of the Moose assisting.

Morgan mentioned he understands an effort is being made by members of a church softball league to get contributors from among their members to donate blood in the name of a player who recently suffered a ruptured spleen and used several units of blood.

Another citizen, a man scheduled for open heart surgery, Morgan commented, is making efforts to line up friends to give blood in his name.

"Now that it's summer, with more people traveling," Morgan said, "there will probably be a greater need for blood than at any other time of the year."

Allied Envoys Line Up To See Sec. Rogers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign envoys queued up to see Secretary of State William P. Rogers today for clues to how President Nixon's Peking trip may affect their countries.

Most concerned were Asian ambassadors from nations whose defenses are linked to the United States.

"Just what is the meaning of 'old friend'?" asked one Asian diplomat privately as he waited his turn on Rogers' overflowing appointments schedule.

Nixon used the term in his brief trip announcement Thursday, trying especially to reassure America's allies on the Communist mainland rim from South Korea to Thailand.

"Our action in seeking a new relationship with the People's Republic of China will not be at the expense of our old friends," Nixon said.

But the Asian allies want to know more as they assess how heavily they want to lean in the future on Washington commitments stemming from cold-war days when Peking was rated here as a militant threat to its non-Communist neighbors.

Nixon's journey is widely seen in Asian eyes as U.S. recognition of Red China as a big power, even though establishment of formal Washington-Peking diplomatic relations is still some time off.

Nationalist China's ambassador, James C.H. Shen, already has lodged a stiff protest with the State Department. He was among the half dozen or more Asians on Rogers' visitors list.

Expecting the heavy diplomatic traffic, Rogers canceled a speaking date in London tonight to give the briefings personally. He returned to Washington late Sunday with Nixon from San Clemente, Calif.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, returning from a 17-day visit to Japan and South Korea, was asked about past statements that Communist China might become a nuclear blackmail threat to its neighbors.

"We must maintain our realistic deterrent as we go forward with President Nixon's quest for peace," Laird told newsmen.

Rogers' questioners also hoped for some guidance on another major decision the State Department is slated to disclose shortly: what the United States will do about Peking's proposed entry into the United Nations.

Nixon's announcement he will visit Peking before next May has boosted momentum at the United Nations for admitting Red China this fall, even if it means kicking out Nationalist China.

The Nixon administration oppose seating Peking at the expense of Taiwan. But a number of U.S. officials now doubt they can stem the tide.

Parleys See No Progress

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Negotiations aimed at ending strikes against Southern Bell and Southern Railway continued today with no noticeable progress reported during the bargaining.

Sunday night negotiations, however, were highlighted by nationwide rumors that representatives of the Communications Workers of America were on the verge of making a move toward settlement.

But both sides said nothing was anticipated immediately.

Southern Bell spokesmen, meanwhile, said industrial vandalism against the company dropped off during the weekend after a $5,000 reward was posted for information leading to the source of such damage.

On another strike front, there were indications southern industries this week might begin feeling the pinch from Southern Railway's shutdown of freight service Saturday.

Southern's Atlanta office has ceased taking shipping orders in response to the strike by the United Transportation Union.

Railroad officials said the strike could have weighty effects on the construction industry, especially operations depending on timber, concrete, sand, cement and other such vital materials transported by rails.

Senator Sees U.S. Timetable In Nixon Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott says the timing of President Nixon's visit to China indicates the United States will have no combat troops in Vietnam by May 1, 1972.

Going a step further, the Pennsylvania senator said Nixon's announcement he will visit Peking by next May implies possibly there would be no U.S. forces at all in Vietnam by that time, "except those necessary to carry out such agreements, as, hopefully, have been made."

"Do you think it is feasible that an American president can go to China while there are any troops left in South Vietnam?" Scott was asked Sunday on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

"I think that he could go if the reason for keeping some troops in South Vietnam is coupled with the prisoner-of-war issue at that time."

Scott said—as he often has—that he thinks Nixon has set a withdrawal plan but not a firm date for total U.S. pullout from Vietnam.

Under Nixon's announced withdrawal plan all but 184,000 of the U.S. contingent in Vietnam is due out by Dec. 1. The President's next timetable is expected to be announced in mid-November and could involve all the remaining force.

The closest Nixon has come to announcing a flat-out end to U.S. involvement in the war was his April 7 press conference statement: "In my campaign for the presidency, I pledged to end American involvement in this war. I am keeping that pledge. You should hold me accountable if I fail . . ."

Meanwhile, Rep. Paul N.

McCloskey of California, who says he will challenge Nixon in next year's Republican primaries, said the President's visit to Peking could have a salutary effect on the Paris peace talks only if the Nixon administration drops its insistence on preserving the Thieu-Ky government in South Vietnam.

"I think if the President will abandon that . . . negotiating position that we can settle the Vietnam war within 30 to 60 days," McCloskey said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Another potential candidate for the White House, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., told a Tampa, Fla., news conference he hopes communications with China will lead to a cease-fire in Vietnam and that Peking will be brought into the arms-limitation talks.

NEW YORK (AP) — James Reston, columnist and vice president of The New York Times, is reported recuperating from an emergency appendectomy in Peking.

The Times said Sunday that Reston was stricken Friday and was taken to the Anti-Imperialist Hospital in Peking, where Chinese doctors diagnosed his condition as acute.

He was operated on Saturday with a local anesthetic, the Times said, and Mrs. Reston later reported that there were no complications and his temperature and blood pressure had returned to normal.

Luna responded by saying: "If they are determined to force a national issue that they walk out over a common provision of every strike-ending contract, then I guess neither logic nor reason will bring them back."

When strike started Friday, unstruck lines put into effect even more sweeping changes in work rules than the ones the union had refused to accept in pre-strike talks.

Only the two rail lines are affected directly by the walkout of some 48,000 union members, but the outcome of the bargaining will touch all major carriers.

The tougher rules ordered after the strike began include elimination of all special pay except for overtime and changes in existing seniority rules and promotion regulations.

Friends Today, Foes Tomorrow?

Jordan's Conflict Breaks Arab Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Iraq broke diplomatic relations with Jordan Sunday as King Hussein's army pushed ahead with its mopup of Palestinian guerrillas.

Sudan also denounced Jordanian repression of the guerrillas, and a Cairo newspaper accused Hussein of being "an obedient tool" for the Israelis.

Both Iraq and Sudan appealed to other Arab nations to isolate Jordan. But there was no official statement from Egypt, where President Anwar Sadat has been trying to mediate the Jordanian conflict and avoid further divisions in the Arab world.

Iraq is the second Arab government to sever relations with Jordan. Libya recalled its diplomats from Amman at the height of Jordan's civil war last September, after Hussein decided he had to control the guerrillas or be overthrown.

A Jordanian military spokesman said the army had pinned down the remnants of small guerrilla bands in northern Jordan.

At least 50 of the Palestinians fled into Israel and surrendered. The Jordanian spokesman said they were infiltrators trained by Israel who were returning "to their masters." But a guerrilla official in Beirut said they were forced to flee because of many wounded, lack of water and constant shelling by the army.

The army spokesman said about 100 soldiers had been killed in six days of fighting, and he estimated guerrilla losses at more than 200.

About 500 surviving guerrillas were pushed into four new positions on exposed slopes between the Jordan River cease-fire line with Israel and the rocky heights overlooking the river valley. The Jordanian government said 800 others were taken prisoner and about 1,000 fled to Syria.

Confident it had gained control, Hussein's government announced it would no longer recognize the Cairo agreement worked out during the September fighting by Arab mediators. The pact regulated relations between the guerrillas and the government and stated where the commandos could place their men and arms.

The Iraqi government called on the Arab world to join in political and economic sanctions against Jordan "to stop the current massacre of the Palestinian resistance movement." The Sudanese Foreign Ministry said the Jordanian army's campaign against the guerrillas was "a very serious development which should not be tolerated."

$2,000 Bonus Is Considered For Reservists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's manpower chief planned to test congressional sentiment today on offering bonuses ranging over $2,000 for re-enlistment in the National Guard or Reserve.

Guard sources said Asst. Secretary of Defense Roger T. Kelley arranged for a secret session with a House Armed Services subcommittee to discuss formal proposals that may be included in the next defense budget in January.

Pentagon officials refused to provide details. But it is known both enlistment and re-enlistment bonuses are included in an "incentive package" designed to maintain the strength of the Guard and Reserve as draft calls go down.

The proposal is said to involve enlistment bonuses—only after the draft expires—averaging more than $500 and re-enlistment bonuses averaging more than $1,700.

Amounts would depend on the length of hitch and, in the case of re-enlistment bonus, on a man's military skill as well.

The top re-enlistment bonus, would total more than $2,000 for a six-year re-enlistment in the Guard or Reserve, sources said.

Other items in the "incentive package" are believed to cover survivor benefits, medical and dental provisions, and possibly inclusion of Guardsmen and Reservists in GI mortgage insurance coverage now available to regular service veterans.

Found Burning Body By Road

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A body engulfed in flames was found Sunday beside a rural road near Goldsboro, Wayne County Sheriff W. I. Adams reported Today.

Adams said his office received a call from a passing motorist about 2:20 a.m. Sunday that a body was burning on a dead-end road off N.C. 581, about three miles west of Goldsboro.

He said a deputy found the corpse on a quilt or blanket with flames shooting about four feet in the air. The deputy used a fire extinguisher to douse the flames, Adams said.

Sheriff Adams said the identity of the body, a white male around six feet tall and weighing between 175 and 200 pounds, has not been determined.

The body was sent to North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill where an autopsy will be performed and attempts will be made to establish identification, Adams said.

The sheriff said the body apparently was doused with gasoline or some flammable liquid. He said the man was burned beyond recognition and only the feet were not badly burned.

Adams said the victim did not have any teeth, but officials were able to obtain fingerprints. A check revealed no record of the prints in Raleigh, but Adams said the prints had been sent to the FBI in Washington.

The sheriff noted that the pavement near the body had been swept clean, indicating a struggle may have occurred before the man was set afire.

Adams said he has four or five men working on the investigation and that the State Bureau of Investigation is assisting in the case.

Threaten Prolong Rail Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Railroad and union officials have traded charges over work-rules changes that threaten to prolong a four-day-old selected walkout against two major rail lines.

The exchange between John P. Hiltz, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference, and Charles Luna, president of the United Transportation Union, came Sunday as talks aimed at settling the strike broke off without any signs of progress.

The talks were to resume today under auspices of the Labor Department.

Hiltz first released a statement saying the UTU had introduced new "insurmountable" demands into the negotiations by insisting that under any settlement "all UTU members be paid and treated as though the rules which were promulgated by the carriers following the July 16 whipsaw strike against the Southern Railway and Union Pacific Railroad had never been put into effect."

Luna responded by saying: "If they are determined to force a national issue that they walk out over a common provision of every strike-ending contract, then I guess neither logic nor reason will bring them back."

When strike started Friday, unstruck lines put into effect even more sweeping changes in work rules than the ones the union had refused to accept in pre-strike talks.

Hat Designer Has A New Career

PARIS (WNS) — Jane Blanchot, who was France's most famous hat designer between the wars, had celebrated her 80th birthday with a new career as painter and sculptor. The city of Paris and the Galliera Museum have already bought three of her works. Her star status at the Perrin art gallery on the Rue Royale is titled "The Impossible Dream" and represents Jacques Brel, who starred locally in "The Man of La Mancha." Mme. Blanchot, whose customers ranged from Sarah Bernhardt to Mistinguett, now admits that such ladies never paid for their hats. "They didn't have to," she said. "As soon as they wore them, I received a hundred orders from other women for the same hat."

Now married and the mother of five children, she has finally hit the jackpot. Brother Jean Vacquier has been found in Carcassone, and brother Georges is working not far away at the air base in Bordeaux. "Only a woman would keep up the search this long," commented Georges. "My brother and I gave it up years ago."

Agnew Not Told Of Nixon's China Plans

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon gave Vice President Spiro T. Agnew no advance word of his plan to visit Communist China, says an informed White House source.

Agnew, according to the informant, was excluded from all advance planning and knew nothing of Nixon's dramatic move until Thursday night when the President publicly announced his intentions.

This may account for Agnew's refusal to comment when first contacted by newsmen about the announcement. The vice president was in Africa at the time on one of the final legs of a month-long around-the-world trip which took him away from the councils of government during final negotiations on an agreement for Nixon to visit Peking.

Agnew is known to have displeased the White House earlier this year when he described the visit of an American table-tennis team to Peking as a disaster for the United States and a propaganda victory for Red China.

Nixon set up separate meetings today with bipartisan leaders of Congress and Cabinet members to report on his diplomatic approaches to mainland China.

Returning Sunday night from a 12-day stay in California, the President was greeted by some 300 people at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., including representatives of the Cabinet and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The White House said the welcome was spontaneous.

With Nixon were Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the presidential aide who secretly visited Peking July 9-11 to nail down a preliminary agreement with Premier Chou En-lai for Nixon's planned visit.

During the flight from California, Kissinger suggested to a small group of newsmen aboard Air Force One that the Nixon trip might well occur next spring.

While saying no date is fixed, he cautioned that necessary detailed negotiations in preparation for the journey could hardly be completed early in the fall. And he noted that, as he put it, the winter weather in China is brutal.

Kissinger, in his first attributable public remarks on his own travels to China, said he was accompanied by two Secret Service agents charged with making certain the classified documents he took with him were never unguarded.

One of the agents did not even know he was bound for Peking, said Kissinger, until a Chinese navigator boarded the plane.

There has been no word on what nationality or type aircraft was used but informants in Saigon said Kissinger flew from Pakistan to Peking on a commercial airliner under an assumed name and under a foreign passport, probably German.

The Chinese agreed to total secrecy, Kissinger said, and lived up to their pledge, taking him from the airport into the city in an auto equipped with silk-draped rear windows. Kissinger told his host he was at a disadvantage in discussing the remarks because, due to his travels, he had read only press accounts of them.

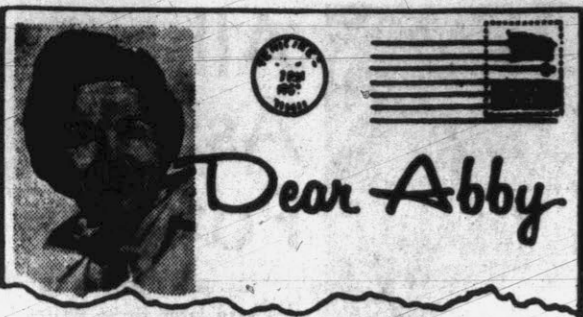

singer said he could see out, but no one could see in.

The President's assistant for national security affairs reported he was very impressed with Chou. Kissinger said the Chinese premier was well enough informed on events in the United States to ask pertinent questions about a Nixon talk July 6 to newspaper and broadcast executives in Kansas City.

Kissinger told his host he was at a disadvantage in discussing the remarks because, due to his travels, he had read only press accounts of them.

The next morning, Kissinger said, he was delivered a full text of the speech, in English, with marginal notes by Chou.

Kissinger said the Chinese asked him to return it, claiming it was their only copy.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations for the excellent advice you gave to "Help me, help my mother in Houston," concerning wearing a hearing aid.

There are some 20 million people in this country with hearing problems. Most of them could and should wear aids.

Some say, "I'll wait until I need one. . . ." If you have even a slight problem, you need one now! It is important to first have your hearing checked by a doctor to see if your loss is one that can be corrected. Many people wait until it is too late to help what might have been a simple medical problem in the beginning. If nothing can be done to help your loss, and if the tests show an aid can help you, then by all means get one.

The woman who feels that wearing an aid will attract attention to the hearing loss, fools only herself, and is usually a pain in the neck to everyone she comes in contact with. There are a dozen ways of letting others know one can't hear. Turning the head to one side, cupping a hand behind the ear, asking people to speak up or repeat things, asking for special seating arrangements in restaurants or other public places, etc. Everyone knows you have a problem, and everyone wonders why you don't do something about it.

Most importantly, people look at our eyes or our mouth when they talk to us, not our ears. Unless of course we make them aware of the fact that we do not hear well. Then they will surely look to see if we have done anything about our problem.

I have worn hearing aids for years so I know the problems of vanity, despair, adjustment, irritation, . . . the list goes on and on. But I do not try to hide my aids, and interestingly enough, most people do not notice I wear one and sometimes two. . . . even on TV. A dear friend opened my eyes about wearing an aid. Many years ago she told me I was being very selfish by making others cope with what was my problem alone. She was right. I had to do something about my hearing, not expect my family and friends to speak louder than was comfortable for them, or repeat things I had missed, turn the TV up very loud, etc.

If you suspect you have a problem, do something about it. See an audiologist or a doctor or even a reputable hearing aid dealer. Be sure to get all the necessary tests. No reputable dealer will sell you an aid or even try to without first making sure there is no way to correct your loss, and that an aid will really help you. And he'll put it in writing, if he is honest.

Thank you, Abby. Keep saying the words so others can hear.

Sincerely,
NANETTE FABRAY

DEAR ABBY: I am sick and tired of being told that hard of hearing people who refuse to wear a hearing aid are selfish. Abby, I happen to be deaf, and there is no hearing aid in the world that can help me. I have had surgery, too, and many of the world's finest doctors have confirmed the fact that I am totally deaf and nothing can be done to restore any part of my hearing.

I ask you to please print this, in all fairness to others who share my helplessness. We are not selfish. . . . We are,
BEYOND HELP

DEAR ABBY: Approximately 20 million people belong to an organization called the "HOH" (Hard of Hearing.) Simple communication—as easy as breathing to others—is a constant frustrating experience to the HOH.

If the general public will practice four basic rules with those who have a hearing problem, we would be eternally grateful:

- 1. Get his attention.
- 2. Face to face visiting.
- 3. Good enunciation, rather than shouting.
- 4. Avoid long-winded detailed stories . . . even about your grandchildren.

Respectfully,
DER PROFESSOR, PRESIDENT.

DEAR PROFESSOR: Hear! Hear!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

AA Meeting Set July 22

Six speakers are slated for the 24th annual convention of the North Carolina Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) to be held this year from July 22 through July 25 at the Durham Hotel and Motel in Durham.

The speakers, all members of Alcoholics Anonymous, come from Mississippi, New York, Texas, Massachusetts, and Louisiana.

Lawrence Campbell, of the Committee on Public Information, notes that there is an active AA membership of 2,700 in North Carolina, and that over 1,100 of these members will attend the 24th state convention.

Campbell, claims "there are today more people addicted to the drug alcohol in North Carolina than all other drugs combined." He says that "Alcoholics Anonymous in our state offers one source of help to the still-suffering alcoholic."

Within North Carolina alone, according to Campbell, "There are something over 100,000 problem drinkers in varying states of progression of the illness." In labeling alcoholism as an illness, the committee member notes "the American Medical Society has recognized alcoholism as a disease," one that is recognizable as such "only in the latter stages of the disease."

Her Replacement 'Should Be Man'

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Furness says her replacement as chairman of the state's Consumer Protection Board should be man—a "young lawyer type" who can deal with politicians.

She said such an individual's abilities would be valuable in dealing with business-oriented legislators. When she resigned from her position last week she said she was frustrated because legislators had failed to pass consumer protection legislation she advocated.

Regulations Require Changes

If the regulations regarding "medically needy" patients in nursing homes is as it appears, the General Assembly should make some changes before the members head for home.

A Daily Reflector story Thursday revealed that nursing home residents receiving $115 or more per month were ineligible for Social Services assistance, under recent enacted law.

As we understand it, this means that a disabled person, now in a nursing home, who is receiving funds in excess of the $115 limit will have to leave the home because public assistance which made up the difference will be cut off.

Miss Dorothy Bolton, Pitt Social Services Director, said, "It seems that the person who has prepared for his old age or disability by having some type of retirement plan, who made enough while he was working to have a Social Security Check of more than $115, or who receives a veteran's pensions is the one affected."

It is also a paradox that those who are removed from nursing homes under this provision will still be in need of constant care. This means that hospital care, is the only alternative where unlimited Medicaid care will pay the bill. Thus the public will pay $35 per day for hospital care, as opposed to the $14 per day nursing home care.

The "categorically needy" with incomes under the limit will not be affected.

It does not take much figuring to see that a bedridden person with a total income of more than $115 per month still will not have enough to pay the full cost of nursing home care. If he has no other source of income in sight, then he is just as needy as the person getting the same care who has no income at all. The public has actually been coming out better on the "medically needy" person because his limited income is at least paying part of the bill.

If public assistance is going to be offered to anyone then certainly the person who has worked hard all his life, only to find himself bedridden and with too little income to pay for care should have some consideration.

The Legislature should take another look at these regulations before adjournment.

Drowning Need Never Happen

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Water is a friendly element. It quenches thirst, cleans that which is soiled, and gives cooling relief from the heat.

It also kills. And in North Carolina, as elsewhere, as summer temperatures rise so do deaths by drowning.

"In every Monday's papers now," said State Health Director Jacob Koomen, sadly, "we read the tragic harvest of another hot Saturday and Sunday."

Sometimes it's one or two, sometimes half a dozen; but hardly a weekend goes by this season that does not claim its victims in river, lake, or pond. June, July, and August are the months when most drownings occur; in 1970 the toll for the year was 204.

It's sad, because they are accidents which should never happen. A basic knowledge of how to behave in water, the simplest skill in staying afloat, could have saved a life in the great majority of cases.

"We think they are preventable; certainly most drownings are," said Dr. Koomen, whose department's accident prevention section promotes safety efforts.

Panic Creates Danger
In too many cases, he said, people take chances or invite danger in the water, then panic when it develops. Actually, he went on, it's not necessary that you know how to swim, or swim well, to save your life in the water. There are, he noted, simple techniques for staying afloat (more about that later).

Conversely, even excellent swimmers drown when they lose their heads or take foolish risks.

Other than motor vehicle accidents, drownings rank as the third cause of accidental deaths in North Carolina (behind falls and fires). In a typical year, more than one-half the drownings occur in the July-August quarter; more than four-fifths of the total comes in the six months from April through September.

The 204 total last year was the same as 1969; ten years earlier, in 1959, drownings took 141 lives. That's an increase well ahead of the population gain.

Rapid expansion of water recreation opportunities, unmatched by corresponding availability of water safety instruction, is a factor, said Nettie L. Day, chief of the health department's accident prevention section. "Kids who never saw more water than a creek suddenly have a nice, big impounded lake to jump in," she said.

Water Safety Promotion
Her section serves as a "pump primer" for safety information and instruction, encouraging youth groups, other agencies and organizations to promote water safety efforts.

"Education would be the answer," agreed Miss Day. "If every child learned to read water, undoubtedly many drownings never would happen."

It's the young males—the unwary, and the unlearned, who drown. Health department statistics show few drownings where a lifeguard is on duty, or among those engaged in scuba diving, surfing and other activities demanding a high degree of water skill.

A study of drownings for the July 1, 1965-June 30, 1966 year showed that of 233 deaths, one occurred at a public swimming pool; 176 took place at rivers, lakes, and ponds; 15 at the ocean.

Now, here's the Survival-Float, a technique taught by the U.S. Navy to its trainees. Whether or not you swim (you could be too tired to swim), you should learn this simple method of personal life saving and teach it to your family.

Six Steps To Safety
Step 1. Take a deep breath, hold it, and let yourself slide underwater. Relax. You'll sink, but as long as your lungs hold air, you'll come back to the surface.

Step 2. Still relaxed, slowly bring both arms forward. If it helps, lift one leg a bit, too.

Step 3. Now, slow and easy, push your arms and legs downward. Raise your head just enough to get your face above the water. Keep the rest of your body below the surface, and let the water continue to support most of your weight.

Step 4. When your head goes above the surface, give a slightly stronger push with your hands; this will hold you up long enough to breathe in, slowly, through your mouth. Stay relaxed, take a single breath; don't gulp or you could choke.

Step 5. After taking a breath, hold it; stop pushing against the water and relax. Your body will sink naturally, water resistance will lift your arms into position for the next push. In a couple of seconds, your body will rise to the surface and you can repeat the steps. Keep relaxed, set up a natural rhythm; you'll find you can proceed, slowly but surely, in any direction you choose.

There it is. If it gives one person confidence in the water, and prevents one drowning, it's worth it.

Fiscal Horror Story Is Told

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Behind President Nixon's seemingly imperturbable decision to stand pat on his economic policy without a tax cut is a terrifying forecast from his chief budget expert that the deficit for the new fiscal year just begun might reach the outlandish peak of $35 billion.

That unbelievable possibility was reported to Mr. Nixon by George Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), during the Nixon economic team's Camp David session that decided to take no action about the sluggish economy. Indeed, the unprecedented, uncontrolled rise of red-ink spending is why the Nixon team decided a tax cut, further widening the deficit, was out of the question.

Thus, Mr. Nixon is staking everything — the economy, his reelection, the state of the nation — on this tactic: by coolly refusing to either increase Federal spending or lower Federal taxes, he aims to reduce inflationary expectations and thereby hold down interest rates sufficiently to perk up economic recovery.

But the gargantuan size of deficit spending that led Mr. Nixon to decide against stimulating the economy militates against his tactic. Economists disagree whether red-ink spending in itself boosts interest rates. But they agree its psychological impact, sooner or later, will be lethally inflationary.

The true budgetary mess, largely concealed by the Administration, is a fiscal horror story certain to frighten the wits out of American businessmen. The $11.6 billion deficit for the present fiscal year forecast six months ago by the President was never taken seriously. But few expected revenue would fall so short of estimates or Federal spending would increase so rapidly (a possible increase in the year's expenditures from the budgeted $229 billion to an astonishing $250 billion, according to one non-Administration expert).

So rapid is budgetary disintegration that events outpace estimates. On June 6, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, predicted a two-year deficit ending July 1, 1972, of $45 billion (requiring $55 billion of cash borrowing). Now, six weeks later, he recalculates the deficit $5 billion higher.

Meanwhile, experts at OMB have been talking unofficially about a deficit for the present fiscal year in the $20 billion to $25 billion range and perhaps up to $30 billion. Their boss, Dr. Shultz, topped that with his private warning to the President of a $35 billion deficit maximum — requiring $45 billion in cash borrowing.

Nor does this seem to be some temporary aberration. Rather, out-of-control spending assures huge deficits far into the future. One governmental adviser confided to us that, no matter how big the deficit is for the present fiscal year, it probably will be topped by next year's.

The inflationary potential of such talk is incalculable. Shultz's $35 billion horror story spread around official Washington and, from there, seeped into Wall Street. This threatens any business confidence nourished by John B. Connally, Secretary of the Treasury, in his purposely negative statement, June 29, announcing no change in policy.

In their candid moments, Administration officials admit the egregious consequences if the stand-pat policy does not halt inflation and is swamped by the runaway budget: high interest rates, business bankruptcies, consumer resistance. That combination spells a new recession, with unemployment exceeding 7 percent.

In fact, the Connally statement was badly received by business, failing to quell inflationary fears but reducing confidence in

Strength For Today

THE GOOD OLD PLACE
The old home town. No place like it. You may go around the world seven times, to the moon and perhaps to other planets if you could land without being burned up or frozen to death.

And why this attachment to the old home town? Because that was where we grew up. We hammered our companions and they hammered us. We went to a nearby school or perhaps, if the purse strings were properly set, we went to the preparatory school. But it was the old home town. Once in a while a teacher might punish us or send us to the principal's office, but that was okay. Now when we get together with our buddies of some decades ago, we laugh about the disciplines (usually painful) to which we had to submit. And the kids we grew up with. Even though we have moved to another community, we think of the youngsters who sat on either side of us in school. Occasionally the teacher lost her temper and everybody held his mouth or hers tight shut while the culprit was getting what was coming to him (or to her).

If you live in some other part of the country you will undoubtedly be back some day. Don't be disappointed over the fact that most of your classmates have passed on.

The older we get, the more we give ourselves to reminiscing and boasting. "Remember the day I gave you a good thrashing and sent you home yelling?" "What are you talking about? I thrashed you. You've got a poor memory."

The Tax-Free Weekend

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service has ruled a summer weekend at a country home, or a resort, is tax deductible as entertainment, providing business is discussed during the period in question. The host must be able to prove a logical business relationship with the person entertained, and the weekend invitation was not just for pleasure.

While the IRS cited no examples as to what would constitute a tax deductible weekend, we believe the following would be acceptable:

"Well, Miss Goodheart, I guess you're wondering why I brought you out here to the Secret Valley Hotel for the weekend."
"The idea did pass through my head, Mr. Rathbone."
"Drink?"
"Thank you, I'll have a teensy weensy double vodka on the rocks."
"Miss Goodheart, I was wondering if you had any ideas on how we could increase our sales on hydraulic turbine fluids."
"I've only been with the company two weeks Mr. Rathbone, and being in the secretarial pool I really haven't had much chance to think about it."

"Would you care for another drink?"

little more vodka."
"Miss Goodhart, has anyone told you you're a very, very beautiful and warm person?"

"Oh, Mr. Rathbone. You do have a way with words."
"I'm going to ask you something very personal now, Miss Goodheart, and you don't have to answer if you don't want to."
"Yes, Mr. Rathbone?"

"If we were going to set up a Midwest sales office for the company should we do it in Akron, Ohio, or Springfield, Ill.?"

"Gosh, Mr. Rathbone, they both sound great to me."
"Forgive me if I take notes. Miss Goodheart, has anyone told you that you have lovely skin? Sitting here under the stars with the violins playing in the dining room you remind me of a Greek goddess."
"I'll admit it's better than typing."
"Miss Goodheart, I knew when I first saw you that you had a head for business. Tell me something. If we merged with Cleary Plastics and spun

Public Forum

(Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words)

To the editor:

Last Thursday our legislature passed a bill which has devastated some of us. It was passed without our being informed, so we could have voiced an opinion. It happened so near the end of the session that we have little time to do anything now.

This bill states that anyone who received assistance from any source over $115 a month is no longer eligible for aid through Medicaid no matter what the circumstances.

My husband, 33, has been in a nursing home for the past 1 1/2 years. He is totally disabled — can neither stand, walk, feed nor dress himself nor verbally ask for help. He receives from Social Security $217 a month. The nursing home basically costs $420 a month, not to mention the cost of his abundant drugs. Now his Medicaid assistance has been cut off completely.

We have two children and I work to support them and myself, just making ends meet. He can't be taken care of at home, and since our hospitals are crowded now, they don't want a chronic case where no medical means will help. Where does my husband go from here?

Five years ago he was a rising young bank executive. Because of his salary then, his Social Security is now over $115. Had he not worked hard, he would be completely covered by the existing Medicaid bill. Is it right to deprive this man for being an asset to his state and community and pay for the man who has done nothing?

Look at yourself. Would your present job status prevent you from receiving help if you were disabled?

My husband cannot speak for himself. But I can and so can other North Carolina citizens. Please help him and all like him. Mrs. William Joseph Cutrell, Greenville

Albert Asserts Power

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

Speaker Carl Albert is showing signs that he may be ready to assert the kind of firm leadership his supporters hoped for when they put him into the top House job six months ago.

Twice last week Albert confronted committee chairmen who have long been used to exercising independent power in the House, and twice he came out on top.

In the case of Rep. Harley O. Staggers D-W.Va., chairman of the Commerce Committee, it took a slug fest on the floor to put down Staggers' bid for House support in his effort to cite the Columbia Broadcasting System for contempt.

Albert used more subtle methods to pry out of Rep. William M. Colmer's Rules Committee a civil rights bill the Mississippi Democrat detests.

Both performances have won wide praise for Albert and stilled, at least for the moment, members who have been criticizing him for a lack of leadership.

Although there were members on both sides of the CBS citation issue who wanted it brought to a head on the floor, the vast majority was grateful for the solution Albert engineered, which effectively killed the contempt resolution without forcing a showdown.

Albert tried to ease the blow to Staggers by first proposing the resolution be sent to the Judiciary Committee, on grounds the constitutional issue of freedom of the press that it raised should be studied by that committee of lawyers.

When Staggers balked and insisted on getting a vote on the floor, Albert worked with Republican leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and defeated Staggers 226 to 181.

"I would have won easily if it hadn't been for the leaders," a bitter Staggers commented afterwards. He had 12 committee chairmen and most of what passes for the House establishment with him.

In getting the Rules Committee to release a bill to greatly expand jurisdiction and powers of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, Albert succeeded where his predecessor, John W. McCormack, failed last year.

The bill had passed the Senate and McCormack wanted to crown his career as speaker by getting it through the House but Colmer wouldn't budget and it died with the end of the 91st Congress.

Pan Am-TWA Merger An Issue

By ELMER ROESSNER

The proposed merger of Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airlines will have tough going.

There are arguments for it. It would mean savings by the lines of up to $100 million a year; it would eliminate duplication of routes and flights, thereby helping to fill those 747's; it would give the United States a big, single competitor in the transatlantic competition, and it would give Pan Am access to the domestic market.

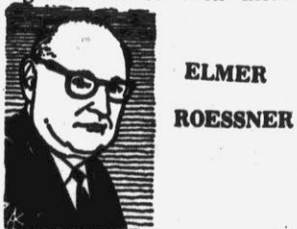

But the opposition would be terrific. All other American airlines would protest that the Pan Am-TWA system would offer oppressive competition. United, American and other domestic lines would demand transatlantic routes. It would create fear and resistance by foreign airlines, who would ask their governments to limit reciprocity with the American giant.

Further, the merger could not be consummated until 1972, which is an election year and would expose President Nixon to additional charges of favoring big business.

Unemployment Figures To Rise

The July unemployment figures will be even more disappointing than the June figures. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that 5.6 percent of labor force was unemployed in mid-June, compared with 6.2 percent a month earlier. But the number of unemployed total was 5,490,000 in June, compared with 4,394,000 in May.

The decline in percentage was simply due to the increase in "seasonal adjustment." Actually, the labor force increased by about 2.7 million, but after adjustment, it declined by 1 million. Ask your Congressman for an explanation, not me.

The real unemployment figures for July will be even higher because all those collegiate job-seekers, who were graduated too late to be counted in June, will be counted in July.

Furthermore, the rash of strikes will add to the unemployed. Strikers, though really unemployed, are not counted because they are "not actively seeking work." But strikes cause layoffs in related industries. The West Coast longshoremen's strike has, for example, caused layoffs of hundreds in related industries. This week one count showed 376 strikes in progress, involving 160,000 workers, and communications.

Layoffs are adding to the unemployed, and they are counted. In addition to those laid off because of related strikes, the auto industry is laying off thousands as it prepares for model changes, and the steel industry is laying off thousands more because of lack of orders. Their customers have been stockpiling in fear of a strike.

Meanwhile, uncertainty plagues retailers.

Total sales in June, seasonally adjusted by the Department of Commerce, were 2 per cent higher than in May and 8 per cent higher than in June, 1970.

A survey of 10,000 families by National Family Opinion, Inc., for the Conference Board shows a definite drop in consumer buying intentions since two months ago.

Some 7.8 per cent plan to buy a new or used car in the next six months, down from 8.8 per cent in March and April. Plans for new cars dropped to 4.8 per cent from 5.6 per cent.

Plans to buy major appliances fell from 40 to 36 per cent. Some 44 per cent plan to take vacations in the next six months, down from 46 per cent two months ago. Home-buying plans remained steady at 3.1 per cent.

New Warning System Is Slated For Civil Defense

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Civil Defense, the agency that brought you Conelrad and EBS, will soon offer DIDS—a new nationwide network to alert the public to an impending nuclear attack or natural disaster.

Civil Defense Director John E. Davis announced Friday award of a $2.7 million contract to Westinghouse Electric Corp. to begin work on the new system, which he described as being faster and more reliable than the existing warning network.

Davis and DIDS—Decision Information Distribution System—involves placing special radio receivers in the offices of law enforcement agencies, firehouses and various state and local agencies which would, in turn, notify the public of an emergency.

In the event of disaster, the warning control officer at the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) headquarters at Cheyenne Mountain, Colo., would automatically activate 11 low-frequency radio transmitters around the country.

Within 30 seconds the transmitters would flash a warning message to the radio receivers. The receivers would automatically activate air raid sirens.

Robert B. Martin, DIDS project manager, said the entire system will cost $49 million and be completed by 1977.

"The complete DIDS system, plus a possible later tie-in with TV sets in American homes, could save many additional millions of lives in case of nuclear attack," Davis said.

The system will consist of 30,000 radio receivers, including 10,000 for radio and television stations. But Civil Defense officials said details would have to be worked out with the Federal Communications Commission before any decision could be made to tie broadcasting stations directly into the warning system.

Martin explained DIDS will be completely automatic and will parallel the present Emergency Broadcast System (EBS).

The effectiveness of EBS has been in question following the sending of a false alert message last February. Most broadcast stations ignored the warning without knowing whether it was true.

Rule Ginsberg 'Must Be Tried'

TERNI, Italy (AP) — Allen Ginsberg must be tried on an obscenity charge for a 1967 poetry reading at the Spoleto Festival of Two Worlds, an appeals court has ruled.

The ruling Saturday overturned a March 1968 decision by a lower court that Ginsberg's readings "did not constitute a crime."

Court officials said they had no notice as to whether Ginsberg, an American poet, would come to Italy for trial.

Celebrate 100th Anniversary Of Diamond Mine

By ERIK VAN EES
KIMBERLEY, South Africa (UPI)—Here at the site of the "Big Hole" they are celebrating the 100th anniversary of the first Kimberley diamond.

It was on July 16, 1871, that an African army cook named Damon found three shiny pebbles on a farm. He took them to his boss, named Fleetwood Rawstone, who knew the "pebbles" for what they were.

And it didn't take long before the word spread.

off our interest in Alpha Containers do you think the Justice Department would give us any trouble?"

"I say do what you want as you only live once. My, Mr. Rathbone, your hands are warm."

"You do something to me, Miss Goodheart. I've never felt this way about a woman before."

"I don't want you to get any ideas, Mr. Rathbone, that just because I came to the Secret Valley Hotel with you for the weekend, that I can be trifled with."

"And I respect you for it, Miss Goodheart. I want you to know I brought you out here because I see in you a person who can make a great contribution to the company. You're young and fresh and pink-cheeked and that's what the company needs."

"We want new blood, with strong minds and firm bodies."

"Mr. Rathbone, you're chewing on my earring."

"Sorry. What I'm trying to find out from you is a way we can cut costs, up production and still compete with the Japanese."

"That's a big question, Mr. Rathbone. Maybe we should sleep on it."

"Miss Goodheart, you have made me and my accountant the happiest men in this world."

Within a year there were 50,000 diggers at Kimberley, 50 hotels, and 128 bars—one of which, the "Diggers Rest Saloon," has been restored as part of museum village that shows the mining camp as it was a century ago. Alas, the barman is a dummy, and the Diggers Rest is only for looking, not drinking.

The legend of Kimberley invokes many names of the famous and the lucky ones who became very rich—Cecil John Rhodes, and such men as Barney Barnato and Werner Beit who took incredible fortunes out of the open cast diggings.

Those eager miners of 100 years ago dug, before they were through, the biggest man-made hole in the world. The "Big Hole" is still a feature of Kimberley today. Roughly circular, it covers an area of some 28 acres, and in places is 1,200 feet deep.

The "Big Hole" was generous in its yield. In the 44 years of its working life, it gave up 15 million carats of diamonds—about three tons.

recovery. Although he has said nothing publicly, Mills is known to feel the Connally statement was a blunder of the first order.

Such criticism is expected to be put on the record by Mills in a keenly-awaited speech on the economy (to a Democratic party fundraiser) at Ogden, Utah. Whether written into the speech or not, Mills also feels the President should stimulate the economy by reducing taxes while confronting inflation by cutting Federal expenditures (probably through an overall spending limit). To many Republican politicians, at least that is a more politically palatable response to the behemoth budget deficit than just standing pat.

title as the world "diamond capital," headquarters of the giant De Beers Consolidated mining camp, the first diamond discovered in South Africa actually was found at Hopetown, about 70 miles to the south, in 1866.

At Hopetown, farmer Schalk Van Niekerk found a pretty stone which he thought might be a diamond. According to the tale as diamond diggers tell it, Van Niekerk took his stone to a local bar where he showed it to some drinking companions. He scratched his name on the bar window with the stone to prove it was a diamond. His friends, perhaps well into their cups, were not impressed. One picked up the stone and, with a laugh, threw it out into the street.

Van Niekerk was not, however, to be cheated. He hotfooted it out of the saloon and after a short hunt, found his diamond. And diamond it was—2 1/4 carats worth, as it turned out. It was eventually sold for $2,500 to the governor of Cape Town province, Sir Philip Wodehouse.

This was not Van Niekerk's last stroke of good fortune. A couple of years later he heard about a witchdoctor in the vicinity who had a remarkable "charm" that he claimed gave him great powers. The farmer sought out the witchdoctor and offered him roughly $1,000 worth of cattle for his charm.

The deal was made. And Van Niekerk came into possession of a diamond of 8 3/4 carats that he eventually sold for $56,000. That diamond is now known as "The Star of Africa."

Group Opposes Visit To Peking

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Rhode Island Young Americans for Freedom say they strongly oppose President Nixon's planned visit to Communist China because the hold on the country by the government there "would be legitimized by the de facto recognition implicit in the President's visit."

"The President's visit would strengthen a weakening totalitarian regime which has resorted to massive purges over the last 20 years in order to stay in power," the group's secretary, Carl Pickering, said Sunday.

Horse Vaccinations Set For 5 Southern States

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — All horses in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico and Louisiana are to be vaccinated against a mosquito-carried disease that kills about half the horses it strikes.

A quarantine that was imposed on horses in Texas after the disease spread into the United States from Mexico and South America has been extended to the other four states, and the federal government has made $5 million and additional manpower available.

A regional emergency headquarters opens today in Houston to coordinate efforts in five states to fight the disease.

Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis, or VEE. Plans for the five-state program were developed Sunday at a meeting in Dallas of federal officials, state veterinarians and other animal health leaders from the states.

The $5 million in federal funds and additional manpower became available Friday after Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin declared the VEE outbreak a national emergency.

Dr. R. E. Omohundro, assistant director of the animal health division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, will head the regional emergency headquarters. He said it will coordinate immunization of horses, mosquito abatement, disease diagnosis and the maintenance of quarantine.

He said enough doses of a new vaccine found effective in preventing the disease will be available by the end of the week for the approximately 1.5 million horses in the five states.

Authorities say fewer than 50 per cent of the horses who contract the disease survive. An afflicted horse typically runs a high temperature and begins to walk dazedly in an ever-diminishing circle until he collapses and dies after experiencing a violent spasm.

The disease produces flu-like symptoms in humans, and officials say 43 persons have been treated in the two South Texas counties where the outbreak has been concentrated.

Luke Walker ALMOST Pitched Into Record Books

Almost

NO REGRETS—Pirates left-hander Luke Walker, who came within three outs of pitching the first no-hitter in Pittsburgh, has time for a laugh after the one-hitter spoiled by Los Angeles rookie catcher Joe Ferguson's ninth inning home run. It came in the second game of a double header played Sunday evening in Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium. (AP Wirephoto)

By BERT ROSENTHAL, Associated Press Sports Writer
 Luke Walker walked into the Pirates' locker room after having come within three outs of hurling the first no-hitter in Pittsburgh in 64 years.

Steve Blass, another member of the Pirates' underrated pitching staff and the club's top comedian, shouted across the crowded room, "Walker, I know the solution for you—start you every three weeks."

It was meant to be funny, but it wasn't to Walker. The 27-year-old left-hander, the Pirates' big winner last season with 15 victories, hadn't started a game since June 29, until he faced the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday.

Walker enhanced his chances of regaining a regular starting berth—and nearly pitched himself into the record books—handcuffing the Dodgers on one hit—Joe Ferguson's leadoff homer in the ninth—as the Pirates completed a doubleheader sweep with a 7-1 victory, extending their winning streak to 11 games—longest in the majors this season.

The Pirates, who increased their National League East lead to 11½ games over second-place Chicago, won the opener 3-2.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago trimmed Montreal 8-4; St. Louis dropped the staggering New York Mets 8-5; San Francisco split with Atlanta, winning the opener 5-4 in 12 innings and losing the nightcap 4-2; Philadelphia and Houston also divided, the Phillies taking the first game 1-0 and the Astros winning the second game 10-7, and Cincinnati blanked San Diego 3-0 in their 5½-inning rain-shortened opener of a scheduled twinbill.

In the American League, New York swept a doubleheader from Chicago, 3-2 and 6-1; Milwaukee edged Boston 5-4; Baltimore trounced Oakland 7-3; Washington shaded Minnesota 3-2; Kansas City beat Detroit twice, 8-2 and 4-3 in 10 innings and California beat Cleveland 3-1.

Walker had no regrets about losing his no-hitter and Ferguson had no remorse about breaking it up.

"Sure, I've dreamed of a no-hitter," said Walker. "I'm sure every pitcher does. But there's nothing to feel bad about. If his homer had won it, then it would have hurt."

The Pirate southpaw, bidding to become the first hurler to throw a no-hitter in Pittsburgh since the Pirates' Nicholas Maddox did it against the Brooklyn Dodgers on Sept. 20, 1907 in a 2-1 victory at old Exposition Park, had allowed only three baserunners until Ferguson slammed the first pitch in the ninth over the left field wall for his first major league homer.

The Pirates moved into Forbes Field on June 30, 1909, and a no-hit game never was pitched there in 61 years. They moved into Three Rivers Stadium on July 16, 1970.

Walker's victory, his first since June 23 and his first complete game since April 8, raised his record to 4-7.

In the opener, the Pirates broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth when Gene Alley led off with a triple, held third while Renaldo Stennett beat out an infield hit and Bill Mazerowski was intentionally walked and raced home with the winning run on Gene Clines' bouncer to second base.

Cubs' rookie Ray Newman pitched perfect relief over the last five innings and gained his first major league victory as Chicago pounded Montreal with a 17-hit barrage. The Cubs snapped a 4-4 tie in the bottom of the fifth, with Ron Santo's single delivering one run and Jim Hickman's sacrifice fly driving in another. Don Kessinger and Glenn Beckert singled in insurance runs in the eighth.

Dick Dietz, who had doubled in the eighth and scored the tying run on Ken Henderson's double, won the opener for the Giants with a 12th inning homer off Atlanta's Bob Priddy. Four San Francisco relievers combined to retire the last 19 Braves' batters.

In the nightcap, the Braves built an early 4-0 lead, then held on despite Willie May's two-run homer, the 643rd of his career. A three-base error by Henderson in the fifth cost the Giants two runs.

The split enabled the Giants to increase their West lead over Los Angeles to seven games.

Philadelphia rookie Ken Reynolds stymied Houston on four hits in the opener and got the only run he needed in the first inning on singles by Denny Doyle, Larry Bowa and Willie Montanez. Hard-luck loser Don Wilson allowed only five hits.

In the second game, Jim Wynn, Doug Rader, and pitcher Wade Blasingame and Jesus Alou each drove in two runs as Houston amassed an early 8-0 lead and was able to survive a seven-run Philadelphia fifth, highlighted by Deron Johnson's three-run homer.

St. Louis, climbing into third place in the East ahead of the Mets, beat New York with a four-run seventh. Ted Simmons' infield hit with the bases loaded broke a 4-4 tie, then Joe Torre followed with a bases-clearing double. The setback was the Mets 14th in 16 games.

Rookie Ross Grimsley limited San Diego to three hits and Pat Corrales belted a two-run single in the Reds' abbreviated game against San Diego. The second game, of course, was rained out and will be made up next month.

Crampton Wins Western Open

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN, Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Bruce Crampton, 35-year-old Australian, is a philosophical golfer who believes if you are destined to win a tournament, you will do it, no matter what.

He was in four traps, missed seven fairways with his tee shots and was among trees about as much as a lumberjack Sunday—but he won the Western Open Golf Championship and its $30,000 award. A closing 34-37-71 for a five-under-par 279 did it.

The slightly-built but sturdy Aussie, who forsook his parents' wishes that he become a tennis player like themselves, how has won 10 tournaments since coming to these shores in 1957 and has passed a half million dollars in winnings.

The Western, however, was his first victory since taking the $50,000 jackpot in the Westchester Open a year ago. His best finish previously this season was third in the recent Milwaukee Open.

In the next month and a half, Crampton will have shots at a pair of $50,000 winning plums.

Women Starting In Invitational

LINVILLE, N. C. (AP)—The Linville Women's Invitational Golf Tournament opens with a qualifying round today at Linville Golf Club, with the low 16 moving into championship flight play Tuesday.

The 18-hole finals are scheduled Friday.

Mrs. Joe Byars of Tampa, Fla., is defending her title. Former champion Mrs. James Poul of Charlotte; Nancy Holmes of Nashville, Tenn.; Jessie Finucan of Summerville, S. C.; Paty Johnson of Spartanburg, S. C.; and Mrs. William Prevost of Hazelwood are expected to be among the top challengers.

DRAW MATCH
MIAMI (AP)—The United States and El Salvador played to a 1-1 draw in a first-round soccer match of the Caribbean-North American Continent qualifying round for the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich.

And by winning the Western, he qualified for the World Series of Golf in Akron in September, playing for the $50,000 first prize against Lee Trevino, the U.S., Canadian and British Open king; Jack Nicklaus, the PGA champ, and Charles Coody, the Masters winner.

"I'm all excited about this victory and will get a lot of calls from friends here and abroad," said Crampton. "When this phase passes, then I'll be ready mentally to take on Westchester."

"As for winning it again—I just don't know. But Super Mex kept winning and maybe Super Kangaroo can, too."

Crampton referred to Trevino and his fantastic victory streak in the last month. Trevino cooled off at Olympia Fields, however, closing with a 70 for 291 and a share of 32nd place.

He won $870 and gave his caddy $200.

Bobby Nichols skidded to a 38 on the front side and came back strongly before bogeying the 17th to close with 35 for a 73 and total 281 for second place. It was worth $17,100.

Young Jerry Heard and Tommy Aaron, each with 71, shared third place with 282 and collected $8,850. Dick Lotz, who made an eagle on the second hole and then flew apart, wound up with 75 for 283 and fifth place worth $6,150.

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Cesar Sanuda, winner of the 1970 Azalea Open at Wilmington, and Bill Garrett, winner of the 1970 Coral Springs Open, say they will play in the $200,000 U. S. Professional Match Play Championship Aug. 25-29 at the Country Club of North Carolina.

The top 64 touring pros will compete for the first prize money of $35,000.

African Stars Prove Prowess In Distance Running

Semi-Pros Swept By Babe Ruth All-Stars In High-Scoring Game

Greenville's Semi-Pro team ran by the Babe Ruth All-Stars last night 18-11.

The Semi-Pros scored first. Ronald Vincent led off with a single and stole second and went to third as Charles Meeks reached on an error. Both runners scored when Grant Jarman unloaded a home run.

The All-Stars got their first run in the third inning. Jerry Griffin reached on an error and stole second. A single by Bobby Kittrel brought Griffin around. The Semi-Pros got a run in the fifth and were never threatened. They pushed over four in the fifth and were never threatened. Russel Cayton led off the fifth getting on by an error. He advanced as Kenny Beamon was also safe on an error. Kent Leggett got a hit scoring Cayton and a hit by Jarman drove in Howard Leggett. The Semi-Pros got another run in the sixth, three in the seventh, one in the eighth, and two in the ninth for their sixteen point total.

The All-Stars added three in the sixth. Griff Garner walked and scored on a homer by David Clifton. Al Salisbury tripled and scored on a hit by Donald Cannon.

The All-Stars tried to rally in the eighth and came up with five runs. Robert Brinkley struck out but was safe at first as the ball got by the catcher. Clifton got a hit and Cannon walked leading the bases. A double by Donnie Haddock drove in Brinkley and Clifton. Cannon scored when Salisbury was safe on an error that let him come all the way around. John Causey also reached and came all the way around on an error.

The All-Stars pushed over two more in the ninth.

Ali Floored Three Times

HOUSTON (AP) — Muhammad Ali, who hit the canvas three times in training Sunday, will not be sparring today in preparation for his July 26 fight here with Jimmy Ellis.

Ellis, who took Saturday and Sunday off, will be back in the ring for more training.

Ali went a round-and-a-half Sunday with sparring partner Eddie Brooks and went down once in the first round and twice in the second before the training was stopped.

Brooks has put Ali down now five times in training, but some observers say that perhaps Ali is just trying to hypo the gate a little bit and has not really been knocked down.

Ali said Sunday after training stopped and while holding an ice bag to his head that he wasn't doing any faking. Ali said he was going to have to stop "playing around" with Brooks when they are sparring and tend to business.

Whitlinger Wins Junior Division

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Twelfth-seeded John Whitlinger battled his way back from a first set loss and won the title in the National Junior Clay Court Championship's 18-and-under singles division Sunday.

The Neenah, Wis., native dropped the first set 2-6, but reversed form to claim 6-3, 6-3 victories over Pat DuPre of Birmingham, Ala.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — African distance runners, who shocked the world in the rarified air of Mexico City in the 1968 Olympics, proved they could do as well near sea level over the weekend at the Pan-Africa-U.S.A. track meet.

Led by established stars like Kenyans Ben Jipcho and Kipcho Keino, and buoyed by newcomer Mirus Ifter of Ethiopia, the Africans humbled the United States' best in every race from 800 to 10,000 meters.

However, American teams won both the men's and women's team competition.

The men displayed strength in the field events and sprints, posting a 111-78 victory over the 14-nation Pan Africa team and the women turned back a team of world stars 79-53.

The only American breakthrough in the distance events came in the 5,000 meters, and it was inconclusive because of a freak error. Ifter, with a substantial lead, miscounted the laps and stopped with one to go, thinking the race was over.

Oregon's Steve Prefontaine passed him by and went on to win.

After came back on Saturday to nip Florida's Frank Shorter in the 10,000 meters. Keino had no competition in the 1500 meters. Jipcho won handily in the 3,000 meter steeplechase and 20-year-old Robert Duke ran around a box in the backstretch to take the 800.

What makes Kenya, with a population of 11 million, produce such a large share of the world's finest distance runners?

Most track authorities share the view held by Awo Eleyae, a Nigerian who coached the combined African squad at Durham.

"It is the altitude of Kenya, about 4,000 feet, combined with the lifestyle of the athletes," Eleyae said. "Living at that height, their lungs become more efficient. And many of them run as a means of transportation or a part of their work from the time they are little boys."

The Kenyans themselves disagree. "We are dedicated to running in much the same way that Americans are dedicated to football. It is a very popular sport in which most schoolboys participate," Ouko said. "If I trained at sea level, I would do just as well; I think."

Keino has little regard for the theory that he and his countrymen possess any unusual natural gifts. "We are human beings, like everyone else. How well you do depends on how you train."

Yet compared to the distances run in practice by leading American and European distance runners, the Africans don't put in an extraordinary amount of time on the track.

Keino said he jogs between 30 and 50 miles per week. Ouko's workouts amount to about eight miles, four days per week. And Ifter, from neighboring Ethiopia, said through an interpreter that in his average workout on a track, he runs about four miles.

By comparison, Prefontaine runs 70 miles each week when seriously training, and Shorter has been known for totals approaching 120 miles.

Moreover, the Africans freely admit that they have had very little formal coaching. Most of them train by themselves. "I think," Ouko said, "that I would be a better runner with coaches, facilities, and workouts like the Americans have. So I really couldn't say why we have beaten them."

Running against the Africans left a sour taste in the mouth of Steve Prefontaine. "You can't take their accomplishments away from them," Prefontaine said. "But I don't have a great deal of respect for some of them as runners."

The handful of men who are world-class distance runners from a tight coterie with their own code of ethics. According to Prefontaine, the Africans, perhaps because of their relative newness to international competition, do not subscribe.

"They really worked me over in the 5,000," he said referring to the three Africans who ran against him. They made the pace very erratic and they used their elbows when they passed. "And in the 10,000, Ifter let Shorter set the pace all the way, which is hard to do. Most runners understand that the work of setting the pace has to be shared."

"And then in the 1500, Naftali Bon ran the first 800 meters to set the pace for Keino, then just dropped out, without even going through the motions of finishing. I think that when we meet them again, things are going to be different."

Prefontaine may have to wait until the Olympics next year in Munich to get his chance. Although their plans are not final the Africans feel that Keino will probably run the 1500 and 5000 meters. Jipcho will be joined by Amos Biwott in the steeplechase, and Ifter will get competition from Mohammed Gammoudi of Tunisia in the longer distances.

Both Biwott and Gammoudi were gold medalists at Mexico City, but injuries sidelined them Friday and Saturday.

238,000 Fans Cheered Pele

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — With a tear-stained face and the tribute of 238,000 fans ringing in his ears, the man considered the world's greatest soccer player twirled his famed No. 10 jersey above his head Sunday and retired from Brazil's national team.

Pele, the Black Pearl who posted 1,086 career goals, was choked with emotion as he told newsmen he decided to retire after his 110th game to give his nation a chance to develop younger players.

"It is all too overwhelming," he said, half sobbing, about his farewell. "I had tried to imagine what this would be like, but it surpassed anything I could think of."

But he has not left soccer forever—he still plans to play with Santos, his professional team.

Pele played the first half of Brazil's match against Yugoslavia and then sat out the last half as his former teammates erased a 1-0 deficit for a 2-2 tie.

Throughout the first half, Pele's teammates tried to maneuver him into scoring position but the tenacity of the Yugoslav defense blocked his efforts to notch one final goal.

Mobbed by admirers at the intermission, Pele jogged around Maracana Stadium to the strains of "Para Frente Brazil" (Forward Brazil) and "Obrigado Pele" (Thank You Pele). The two songs have become symbolic of Brazilian soccer superiority since Brazil garnered the World Cup last year.

Hundreds of spectators wept openly and shouted for Pele not to retire as he trotted around the field.

Soccer fans throughout the world watched on television Sunday as Pele bade farewell. In Seville, Spain, officials canceled the bullfights so fans could witness Pele's performance on television.

In London, the Daily Mirror called Pele "unique, irreplaceable. He is one legend that will never diminish."

Are you the Volkswagen Type 3 type?

Don't let the fact that this car might look like Indy 500 material throw you off the track.

Those racing stripes are a con. That sports car back is a front.

The Volkswagen Type 3 can no more fly down a racetrack than it can fly through the clouds.

What, then, can it do, and who, then is it for?

If you're more concerned with slowing down than speeding up, it has standard front disc brakes.

All 4 wheels are independently suspended so it holds the road better when cornering.

It has the most advanced system of distributing gasoline in the engine: electronic fuel injection.

Shifting on the VW Type 3 is less sticky; 4-speed synchromesh transmission is standard.

And in keeping with Volkswagen standards, it gets around 26 miles to a gallon of gas, uses very little oil, and even less water or antifreeze—none.

But contrary to Volkswagen tradition, it isn't bad looking. In fact, equipped with all the options as you see it in the picture, you can make it look like the menacing, overpowering creature of the road that it isn't.

So if you're looking for a racy little sports car, look somewhere else.

If you're in the market for just an economy sedan, this isn't it.

But if you're the type who wants a racy, economical, little, sporty sedan, eureka!

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I am worried about my parents! In fact, I can't study properly because of this fear that they are going to get a divorce."

"For I love them both but they are beginning to fight like cats and dogs."

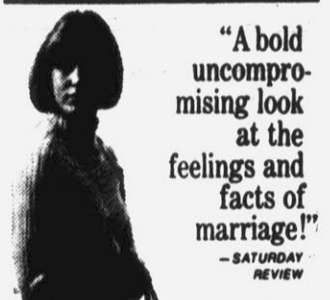

"Why does the divorce rate strike so many marriages of people in their middle 40s?"

"Mr. Morris Hursh, our Minnesota State Welfare Commissioner, predicts our welfare costs will run over $800 million for the next two years, starting this month."

"And he says the biggest slice of that $800 million goes for aid for dependent children."

"For he argues we need an extra $71 million for that purpose and says 58 per cent goes to families broken by divorce, legal separation and desertion."

fight fire with fire and out-siren her husband's paramour!
Figuratively, the schools and colleges have fiddled while Rome burned, as regards the divorce and delinquency records of America.
But your newspaper does not fiddle!
It offers you sound, sure-fire sexual and moral advice by which to salvage your marriage and thus reduce the emotional trauma to your innocent children which a divorce inevitably produces.
For when I have taken polls of children, even of grammar school age, they have shown a desire for their parents to remain together, despite the cat-and-dog feuding between papa and mamma.
But that bickering can soon be stopped if you parents will start the "Compliment Club" project, even for 30 days.
And especially if you will learn the proper facts about the sex differences between the male vs. the human female.
So send for the booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long-stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.
"Dr. Crane," many divorcees have mournfully admitted, "if I had read that booklet early in my marriage, I'd never be divorced today."
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Friends Gather For Billie Sol

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The wife of Billie Sol Estes says he was "just really overwhelmed" by a reception at their home attended by about 600 friends and well-wishers.
Estes was released on parole last week after serving more than six years of a 15-year sentence to federal prison. He was convicted of fraud in connection with the collapse of his activities as a fertilizer magnate and farm financier.
"We know now we still have a lot of friends," Patsy Estes said Sunday. "They came from several states and some drove over 500 miles."
The reception Saturday night also celebrated the Estes' 25th wedding anniversary.
Family members said they sent 350 invitations and Estes sent another 250 while in prison. The congregations of two churches of Christ in Abilene also were invited.

Costs Undercut Working Mother

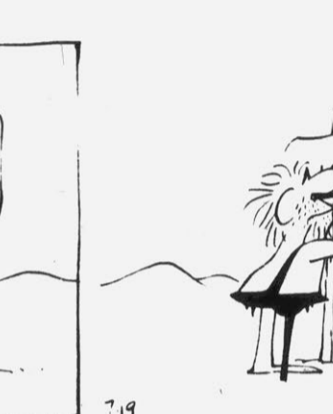

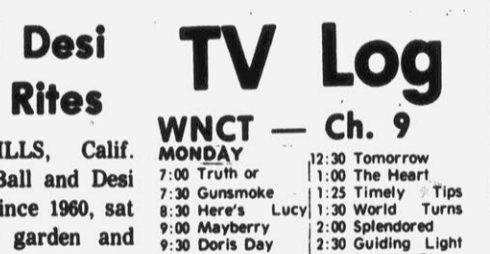

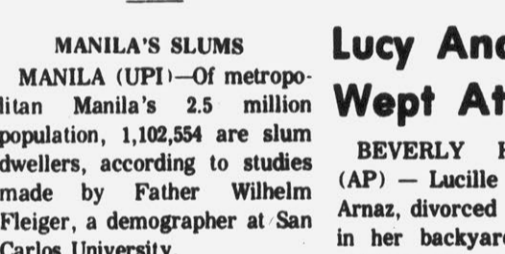

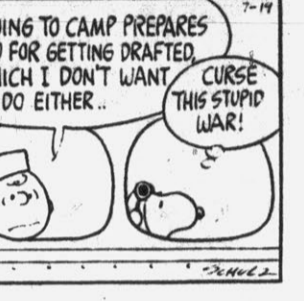

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — By the time she pays for babysitting or day care, clothes and transportation, a mother of three could find her job earnings chopped by 50 to 80 per cent, the University of Michigan's dean of the school of education reports.

The dean, Wilbur J. Cohen, formerly was U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. He was then and is now in favor of liberalized child care deductions on tax returns.

Lucy And Desi Wept At Rites

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, divorced since 1960, sat in her backyard garden and wept as they watched their daughter's wedding.
"I swore I wasn't going to cry," Miss Ball said after the ceremony Saturday, "but I couldn't help myself."
Arnaz, whose hair has whitened since the days when he starred with Miss Ball on the "I Love Lucy" television series, said, "I couldn't stop crying."
Their daughter, Lucille Desiree Arnaz, was married on her 20th birthday to Philip Vandervort Menegaux, 26, a film producer.
The number of wildlife species on the official endangered list jumped from 89 to 102 in the last year.

Tobacco TIPS

Farm Scene

By S.J. WEEKS

Tobacco diseases reduce the potential income from our tobacco crop more than any other single factor. Quite often disease or diseases cause damage to the tobacco plant when it is not detected by the tobacco grower. Also, there are some fields that one disease can be detected yet an entirely different disease is causing more loss or damage to the crop than the disease that can be recognized. For example, recently I visited a field which had a high infestation of mosaic. Only the top leaves were contaminated with mosaic on most of the plants in the field. There was not enough mosaic to cause the severe stunting that was very noticeable throughout the field. By close examination, it was determined that black shank was causing the severe stunting of the black resistant variety that was being grown. Once the disease or diseases are correctly diagnosed then a good tobacco disease control program can be designed for this field for future years.

In order to plan an effective tobacco disease control program for your farm, it is very important that you know what disease or diseases is present. If you have difficulty in determining the disease present, we will be glad to show you how to make this determination. The time to do this important job is now while the tobacco plants are in the field. It is next to impossible to determine a tobacco disease without the diseased plant to examine. Call our office-telephone 758-1196, if we can be of help to you.

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A75 ♥5 ♦KQJ92 ♣KJ72

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♣ Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♥

1 NT Pass 3 ♣ Pass

3 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—A bid of three spades is recommended. Partner's free rebid of one no trump denotes a good hand. Slam prospects are bright indeed and the spade control should be shown at this point. Partner's response to this bid will help you to determine what action to take next round.

Q. 2—East-West vulnerable. As South you hold:

♠942 ♥K107 ♦AKJ74 ♣J4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♥ Pass 2 ♦ Pass

3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has shown a strong hand by rebidding at the level of three and your hand has bright prospects. A mere preference bid of three hearts even in combination with the two diamond response and therefore an aggressive sequence, would not do justice to the holding, and the recommended bid is four hearts. No fear should be entertained that partner has a four card heart suit. Holding four hearts and four clubs, partner would no doubt have opened with one club.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable. As South you hold:

♠AK7 ♥64 ♦AQ32 ♣A1032

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass

1 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs, in the hope that this will elicit one more bid from partner. It is true that the hand is distinctly of the no trump type but with 17 points, it is much too strong for a rebid of one no trump and it lacks by two points the strength for a jump rebid of two no trump. If partner bids again, no trump can be tried on the next round.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KJ94 ♥A102 ♦8753 ♣Q8

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1 ♣ Pass

1 ♣ Pass 4 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have distinctly more than you might have had for your response of one spade, and furthermore enjoy the assurance that every one of your high cards

Seeks Learn Malta Role

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Defense Minister Lord Carrington, flew to Malta today for talks with Prime Minister Dom Mintoff on a new defense agreement for the Mediterranean island.

It was Carrington's second attempt to visit Malta. His trip had been fixed for last Wednesday but was called off 10 minutes before takeoff because of a misunderstanding over the scope of negotiations.

The Socialist premier, who has renounced the British-Maltese defense pact of 1954, thought Carrington would be able to negotiate a new agreement. London made clear he would have to report back to Prime Minister Edward Heath's Cabinet.

At stake is the British base on Malta, which helps keep track of Soviet activities in the Mediterranean, and an unofficial headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on the island.

Florence-Mayo Jet Fan Curer

NO HEAT SPREADERS REQUIRED FOR F-M SPECIAL & SUPER JET OIL CURERS

The FM Jet Fan Curer is superior to small fan curers on the market and costs less than other makes. This is not a small capacity fan unit. It is equipped with a 1/4 H.P. motor 1725 RPM and a 18" fan blade to deliver 4,000 cubic feet of air per minute. For all standard size barns up to 20' x 20'.

Forced air will dry tobacco more even and faster than air by conventional method. Will kill out quicker and saves fuel. Use 7" air intake pipe above or below first tier for long life of motor to supply air from outside of barn.

When forced air is used in a barn, it is important that the barn be tight at the lower level with two 8" x 16" house vents to each side of the barn with adjustable shutters located near the ground for positive control of incoming air. Use FM roof ventilators to control outlet.

A large capacity fan means much more efficiency than a fan with a small motor using a small fan blade.

The design of Florence-Mayo's Jet Oil Curer heat exchanger is much better designed to be used with a fan with other curer heat exchangers on the market. 8-4x12 heat exchangers — large outlets — no overheating — better heat distribution. IMPORTANT—Use Florence-Mayo Ventilators for Higher Efficiency and Economy.

Balanced Troop Cutbacks Delayed By Differences

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Differences within the Nixon administration are holding up American plans for a program of balanced East-West troop cuts in Central Europe.

U.S. officials are saying some authorities favor a general cutback of 10 per cent at the start while others are questioning the whole concept of reductions that could upset the balance of power. As a result the plans promised to the North Atlantic alliance — NATO — by early July will be about a month late. The official expectation is that President Nixon's intervention will be needed to resolve the dispute which is likely to come before the National Security Council in the next few weeks.

Complex issues, with strategic and political implications, are involved, including the future of Berlin, East Germany's status, Soviet motives and security arrangements.

As informants representing the main schools of thought within the administration explained things, the lineup looks like this:

1. Some key authorities want the United States, and NATO, to stand by a 1968 offer to negotiate what the jargon calls "mutual balanced force reductions," or MBFR, with the Communist powers. The cuts would take place in Central Europe.

2. Other high-level Americans say monkeying around with force levels now could imperil the finely poised power balance built up so laboriously in post-war Europe between East and West. They say that power balance, resting on American nuclear strength, is the best way of preserving peace and any disturbance could jeopardize prospects to agree on Berlin, German affairs, limitation of strategic arms and other issues.

Complicating this philosophical tug-o-war between the diplomatic and strategic planners of the two sides is the mood of Congress.

New demands are building for reduction of the 300,000 strong U.S. garrison in Europe. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has complained publicly that the U.S. economy is not strong enough to continue shouldering so heavy a burden.

There is for the United States and NATO another major consideration.

Not long ago, after years of argument and education, the Americans finally got NATO to adopt the strategy of flexible response.

In infancy terms this means U.S. allies agreed to depend, in the first place, on conventional power to repel an aggressor. If that fails they could use tactical nuclear weapons to push the attacker back. Ultimately, the full weight of Allied strategic nuclear power could be invoked.

But to be able to react so flexibly against an invader NATO had to accept the reality that more men and nonnuclear guns are needed. The NATO armies now are far below required levels.

Those administration elements favoring cuts have these ideas in mind:

—As a starting point, an across-the-board cut of about 10 per cent in the troops and armament of NATO and Communist forces in Central Europe.

—Foreign, as well as local, forces would be affected although even this has yet to be determined. The foreigners would include Americans and Russians and, so far as U.S. troops are concerned, it would mean release of about 18,000 from Europe, hardly enough to satisfy Congress.

—The thinning-out process would be coupled with buildup of a sophisticated system of verification and inspection to guard against cheating, possibly including use of spy-camera-equipped space satellites.

Administration officials hostile to any big program of troop cuts have deployed political as well as military objections:

—An MBFR negotiation between NATO and Communist Warsaw Pact nations could result in enhancing the status of East Germany, throwing away the West's strongest card in current efforts with the Russians to reach a Berlin agreement. In these efforts the West has set out, essentially, to trade a measure of recognition of East Germany for improved arrangements for West Berliners.

—To go much beyond a symbolic one-time 10-per-cent cut would leave NATO forces relatively less able than now to stand up to the larger Communist armies.

—There is a built-in asymmetry between NATO and Communist forces. All sorts of factors come into the equation, including training, equipment, morale, distance from home bases which, in the case of Americans, are an ocean's width away, availability of reserves and so on. Thus, sending 1,000 U.S. and Russian troops home from their stations in the two parts of Germany would leave the Soviets at an advantage.

Eyes Blinked By Unborn Babies

NEW YORK (AP) — An unborn baby blinks his eyes and moves his eyelids three months before birth, reports Dr. Alden N. Hafner, optometric consultant to the Society for Visual Care.

The society recommends thorough professional eye examinations for children when they are 3 years old.

EASIER ALL THE TIME

MADISON, Wis. (UPI)—The University of Wisconsin in Madison has reacted to change by altering degree requirements and curriculum in the College of Letters and Science (L & S) and other schools.

The new L & S curriculum includes provisions for students to complete degree requirements in less than eight semesters, the usual number, through credits-by-examination and advanced high school work; to develop individual majors; to do more independent study; and to complete foreign language and mathematics requirements in high school.

Then a meeting of deputy NATO foreign ministers will meet in Brussels late September or early October to coordinate all the ideas into a single package.

Acheson Says JFK 'Out Of His Depth'

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson says in an interview published in Life magazine that John F. Kennedy was "out of his depth" in the presidency.

The Life article, published Sunday, is a partial text of an interview Acheson gave the British Broadcasting Corp. It has not been televised yet. "He did not have incisiveness and he was out of his depth where he was," Acheson said of the late president. "I hate to say this because I know it's going to be misunderstood, but his reputation is greater because of the tragedy of his death than it would have been if he had lived out two terms."

Acheson said Kennedy "did not seem to me to be in any sense a great man. I did not think he knew a great deal about any of the matters which it's desirable that a chief of state or a president of the United States should know about. He was not decisive."

When the interviewer, Kenneth Harris, said there was a "legend that he was a very decisive man indeed" during the Cuban missile crisis, Acheson replied, "Well, it is a legend, it is not the fact."

The former secretary of state, who served under Harry S. Truman, was sent to France by Kennedy to keep President Charles de Gaulle informed about the crisis.

Acheson, now a Washington lawyer, was also critical of the president's brother, the late Robert F. Kennedy, then attorney general.

Reporting that Robert Kennedy had said a decision to bomb Soviet missiles in Cuba would be a "Pearl Harbor in reverse," Acheson characterized the opinion as "high school thought."

"This is not really what I was looking for in the leadership of my country at this point," he declared.

LAIRD RETURNS—Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird tells a Washington news conference late Sunday the United States must continue to build militarily even while seeking to normalize U.S.-China relations through President Nixon's trip to Peking. Laird met with newsmen briefly after returning to Washington from a 17-day trip to Japan and South Korea. (AP Wirephoto)

N.C. Counted 16 Holiday Victims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The North Carolina Highway Patrol says the state's highway death toll for the year climbed to 887 with the deaths of 16 persons in traffic accidents during the weekend.

At this time last year, 861 persons had died in traffic accidents in the state.

The following deaths were reported by the patrol during the weekend:

Two Ft. Bragg soldiers, Jerry Don Gran, 30, and Walter Leon, 20, were killed when a car being driven by Gran struck a bridge on a rural road two miles north of Raeford in Hoke County. The car was traveling at high speed at the time of the crash, the patrol said.

Nineteen-year-old Bennett Allen Tyson of Rt. 1, Ayden, was killed when the car he was driving ran off N.C. 102 one and one half miles west of Ayden and struck a utility pole.

Howard Dudley, 59, of Rt. 4, Wilson, was killed when the car he was driving ran through a stop sign at the intersection of two rural roads two miles east of Winterville in Pitt County and struck another car in the side.

The patrol said Benjamin Sanks, 19, of St. Augustine, Fla., was killed when he was struck by a hit and run driver on U.S. 158 one mile east of Belcross in Camden County.

Separate accidents killed two persons in Mecklenburg County. Avalon Clarence Hawkins, 27, of Washington, D.C., died in an accident on U.S. 571 at the Pineville town limits, and Charles G. Hagler, 29, of Huntersville, was killed in a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of two rural roads about 10 miles north of Charlotte.

Two men, Jerry Delane Sellars, 23, of Clarendon, and Malcolm J. Strickland, 34, of Ft. Bragg, were killed when the car being driven by Sellars went out of control at high speed and hit a utility pole on a rural road about five miles north of Tabor City in Columbus County.

A 23-year-old Rt. 2, Gibsonville man, Jimmy Lee Byrd, died when a car ran a stop sign on a rural road five miles south of Greensboro and smashed into the side of his car.

Tyrone Powell Evans, 16, of Valdosta, Ga., and Thomas Miller, 17, and Edward Cade, 16, both of High Point, were killed when their car ran off Interstate 85, struck an embankment near Salisbury and hurtled 20 feet through the air.

Dennis Caonner, 21, an airman stationed at Ft. Fisher, was killed when the car in which he was a passenger overturned at high speed on U.S. 421 three miles south of Kure Beach in New Hanover County.

Gary Seago, 21, of Sylva died when he lost control of his car and it ran off a Sylva street and struck a signpost.

A 34-year-old Salisbury woman, Hazel Archie Sides, was killed when the car in which she was riding ran off a rural road in Rowan County, one mile north of Salisbury and overturned.
