

ECU Students Set Drive To Register New, Young Voters

By JERRY RAYNOR, Reflector Staff Writer

A mass voter registration campaign primarily aimed at the new body of young North Carolina voters was revealed Monday afternoon by East Carolina University Student Government Association president Glenn R. Croshaw.

"We feel this campaign will provide a channel for change for young people, and it is a much more legitimate and effective exercise than that of various possible demonstrations," Croshaw stated in a prepared speech.

Among steps outlined to be taken by the ECU SGA to foster interest by young voters is to make "all state and local laws concerning registration... available and highly publicized so that each and every student has access to this information."

In this connection, Croshaw said, "Greenville voter registration places and times will be made available as well as locations and times in all of the cities and counties in North Carolina for the benefit of those students who must register in their parents' residence."

One part of the over-all plan calls for the compilation of "a political scorecard completely objective in nature reporting various candidates' views on issues of concern to young voters in this state."

Acknowledging that the primary focus of the SGA campaign is the 7,000 registered voters "we anticipate on our campus alone," Croshaw indicated that SGA would be most willing to cooperate with any community civic group, League of Women Voters or any other concerned group in making information available to voting age high school students and other non-university young people of the community.

Croshaw noted that East Carolina University is "the first major university in this state to formulate plans for such a drive," and that the SGA at ECU "hopes to work with other student governments throughout North Carolina to insure that young voters are given the opportunity to exercise their most fundamental right, that of voting for the candidate who will best serve their interest."

In addition to the 7,000 expected to be registered at ECU, Croshaw noted the "potential across the state reaches at least 75,000 in number."

The SGA president said that the voter registration subject was slated to be discussed at a meeting of state-wide SGA's to be held in Chapel Hill in August. Endorsement of candidates by the SGA group, Croshaw commented, is a matter of "not endorsing any one candidate or party."

Pitt Native Is New Principal Of Junior High

Paul H. Rasberry, a Pitt County native of Bell Arthur was approved by the Greenville City School Board as principal for Aycock Junior High for the 1971-1972 school year.

Rasberry will succeed John Jones, who resigned effective June 30 to take the position of BEIRUT (AP) - Sudan's new pro-Communist military rulers formed a seven-man Revolutionary Council today, moved Africa's largest nation farther to the left and promised autonomy to the rebellious blacks in the south.

Pro-Red Coup

Maj. Hashem el Atta, who led the bloodless coup Monday, was named vice chairman of the ruling council and commander of the 30,000-man army.

The chairman is Col. Babikr al Nur Osman and the other members are Maj. Farouk Osman Hamdalla, two other majors and two captains.

Atta, Osman and Hamdalla all were fired from the military government last November because of their connections with the Sudanese Communist party. Atta and Osman had been vice premiers and Hamdalla was interior minister.

Although Atta was allotted the No. 2 spot on the council, he appeared to be the top figure in the coup.

A 1950 graduate of Arthur High School in Bell Arthur, Rasberry spent three years in the military as a member of the U. S. Air Force. In 1958 he earned the B. S. degree at East Carolina University, and in 1962 received the M. A. degree, also at ECU. He has been awarded the Advance Certificate Work certificate from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

He is married to the former Hazel Mitchell of Vancouver, B. C., Canada. The Rasberry's have three children, aged 17, 15, and 10.

Rasberry is the son of Mrs. P. S. Rasberry and the late Mr. Rasberry of Bell Arthur.

ECU Med Program Given Unanimous Senate Vote

RALEIGH - The North Carolina Senate yesterday gave unanimous approval to a bill to fund a one-year medical education program at East Carolina University. Yesterday's Senate action, and ratification of the bill today by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate, were the final steps in officially inaugurating a one-year medical school at ECU.

Some controversy flared up yesterday over wording in the bill that says, "this course of action is recognized as a significant step in a statewide plan for medical education, as well as a step in development of an expanded medical school at East Carolina University..."

Sen. Herman Moore (D-Mecklenburg) moved to have that language deleted, saying the work "initial" seemed to indicate the General Assembly was committing itself to something bigger in the future.

Countering, Pitt Sen. Vernon White said Moore's change would "knock out any intent to expand the school," and the amendment lost 14 to 26 on a roll call vote.

Gov. Bob Scott offered his support for the one-year medical education program earlier this year. The governor said the one-year program was possibly the best and most feasible action to eventually establish a four-year medical school at ECU and is not to be viewed as a dead end street in medical education.

The medical school funding bill was approved by the House of Representatives last week.

Money for the one-year program - some $1.8 million - received approval earlier when the Senate and House approved the 1971-1973 state (Continued on page 8)

State Senate Comes Through Sum For Rehabilitation Center

RALEIGH - A $375,000 appropriation to fund the state's share of a regional rehabilitation center in Greenville was approved by the North Carolina Senate yesterday.

According to Pitt Sen. Vernon White, the Senate approved $25,000 in planning money and $350,000 for the state's share for construction.

The center is scheduled to be planned as a part of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital complex and should provide about 50 beds.

A federal grant of about $1.14 million would fund about 61 per cent of the cost of the center, while Pitt County funds and the money approved by the Senate yesterday would finance the remainder of the project, expected to cost about $1,875,000.

The House of Representatives approved the appropriations bill last week and ratification by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate sometime today is "a formality", Sen. White noted.

The rehabilitation center is one of five such facilities planned for the state and recommended by the State Board of Education for its Division of Vocational Rehabilitation earlier this year after a comprehensive study requested by the 1969 General Assembly.

Rehabilitation centers are currently under development in Asheville, Winston-Salem and Charlotte. The Greenville center would be the next step in the regional plan, followed by a regional treatment facility in Fayetteville and a state rehabilitation institute at Chapel Hill.

Pitt County commissioners have looked with favor on the rehabilitation center proposal for several reasons.

One basic plus in their view is the fact that it will help build beds for the new hospital. Many of the beds in the rehabilitation wing would be available for use by county patients. These beds would cost the county far less than if the county had to finance the total construction cost.

Committed To 2nd Junior High School Board Reconfirms School Goal

By JERRY RAYNOR, Reflector Staff Writer

A reconfirmation to move ahead with plans for a second junior high school in Greenville was made by members of the Greenville School Board Monday night.

Dr. Badger Clark's motion "to reiterate our motion of April 1970 to direct the school administration to come up with concrete proposals as rapidly as possible and that a school committee be formed to consider buying land" was approved unanimously.

Clark's motion followed a lengthy airing of the issue, which included an appearance by Dr. J. L. Pierce, Director, Division of School Planning. Dr. Pierce, basing his observations on population projections for Greenville, economic considerations, and studies for the generally most effective operating sizes of schools, recommended the idea of a second junior high school for Greenville.

"Our recommendation on the basis of the best information available," Dr. Pierce remarked, "assuming considerable growth, is that two junior high schools would give you a high degree of flexibility."

Board member Dr. James Bearden questioned Dr. Cleetwood, superintendent of the city schools, about additional reports on the pros and cons of a second junior high facility, saying he understood the superintendent was to have new reports for the school board to consider. Dr. Clark noted he felt Dr. Bearden was "confusing two meetings, one which was a workshop when we did not accept Dr. Pierce's earlier recommendation."

Board member Henry Dunn Jr. brought up the school board's decision of April 1970, in which the board went on record at that time opting for a second junior high school.

A review by Dr. Cleetwood of the 1971-1972 budget situation for the city schools budget revealed that based on a conference he had with County Manager Reginald Gray, the County Commissioners would have to trim the amount requested for the current expense portion of the budget by $26,716.73.

To offset this amount, Dr. Cleetwood listed three options open to the board. The first is to go carefully through the budget and delete items that would total this amount.

A second alternative is to "place the burden of responsibility on the County Commissioners to increase the ad valorem levy to meet the $26,716.73 deficit." This would entail, Dr. Cleetwood explained, waiting until the County Commissioners informed the board of their final intent.

A third alternative would involve an understanding in which the County Commissioners would "stretch the additional sales tax income" in conjunction with the board of education's cooperation by amending the local budget to provide the $26,716.73 by reducing the operating budget."

Dr. Cleetwood pointed out the budget submitted "represented a critical low" current expense budget, and that in the event of necessary cuts he felt only items such as supplies could be considered, as personnel commitments were already firm.

"Actually this is a tight budget," the superintendent commented, "and no teachers or supplies can be cut without seriously impairing our operations for the coming year."

Board members expressed a reluctance to dip again into the operating balance in current expense funds. This amount now stands at approximately $70,000. Last year some $48,000 from what was then a $119,000 operating balance was used to cover a budget deficit for the school year just ended.

Lawmakers To Aid Of Nursing Homes' Needy disabled persons who had provided for their old age or other disability insofar as they were able by building up substantial Social Security or other retirement benefits. If it is at all possible, we are going to see that the right thing is done."

By CAROL TYER, Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County legislators have come to the aid of the medically needy in skilled nursing homes in this state by introducing a bill to appropriate money out of the General Fund to provide for their care.

If the bill is passed in the House this afternoon or tonight and in the Senate tomorrow, as is anticipated, it will unless changed in Committee, appropriate to the State Department of Social Services for the express use for eligible medically needy persons $1,735,000 for the fiscal year 1971-72 and $1,735,000 for 1972-73. It would become effective upon ratification.

It is to be introduced in the House of Representatives by Rep. Sam Bundy and Rep. Horton Rountree, both of Pitt, and in the Senate by Sen. Vernon White of Pitt and Sen. Julian Allsbrook of Halifax County. There were several other signatures on the House Bill, Rep. Bundy said.

The Pitt legislators, Sen. Allsbrook, and other interested persons met yesterday with Social Services Commissioner Clifton M. Craig to draft the bill. Both Sen. White and Rep. Bundy had informed themselves fully while they were home during the weekend and went back to Raleigh early to begin work on the measure. Both contacted Mayo Allen, administrator of the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Home, which had 15 patients affected, and Bundy visited several of the families involved at the nursing home.

"This situation has disturbed me more than any issue since I've been in the legislature," Rep. Bundy said. "It just was not fair to penalize these

A blanket appropriations bill passed earlier had removed from the rolls of Medicaid all skilled nursing home patients having incomes from any source of more than $115. Persons eligible for public assistance were to be provided for in full.

A meeting was to be held this morning by the Pitt legislators with Sen. John Henley and Rep. Kenneth Royall, heads of the appropriation committees of their respective houses, to work out the financial particulars of the new bill.

Julie Preparing Fla. Apartment

ATLANTIC BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Julie Nixon Eisenhower - President's daughter, Navy wife and soon to be school teacher - is busily preparing a garage apartment just off the Atlantic Ocean for the arrival of her husband from duty in the Mediterranean.

Secret Service men confirmed the arrival of President Nixon's daughter Monday, but newsmen were barred from interviewing or photographing her.

A neighbor said she saw the 23-year-old Mrs. Eisenhower moving boxes on a balcony of the deluxe apartment which she and her husband David rented several weeks ago.

Application Of Extra Ten-Cent Liquor Tax Is Argued By House

RALEIGH (AP) - Final House action was expected today on legislation that would slap an extra 10-cent-per-bottle tax on liquor to raise money for a state takeover of all non-federal costs of Medicaid.

The bill was approved on a 54-39 vote Monday despite notice from Speaker Phil Godwin that it probably did not have time to clear both houses of the legislature before the planned adjournment at noon Wednesday.

Tax bills must be approved on two separate days by each house. If the bill passes the House, it will probably be sent to the calendar or appropriations committee in the Senate before it goes to the floor of that chamber for two votes.

Rep. Marvin Johnson, D-Johnston, the bill's sponsor, introduced a bill late Monday that would instruct ABC boards to raise liquor prices 10 cents per bottle instead of levying the 10-cent tax. He thought this might be a way of getting around the time requirement on voting. The bill was sent to the House Calendar Committee.

Before giving the tax bill tentative approval Monday, the House adopted two major amendments and rejected a move to send the bill back to the House Appropriations Committee.

One amendment sponsored by

Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Enoir, provided that all money collected from the 10-cent tax would go to the state.

Johnson supported the change, although his original bill would have split the proceeds between the state and the counties.

Rep. Robert Beard, R-Catawba, opposed the amendment, saying that the state was already getting the "lion's share" of ABC profits.

Rep. Ike Andrews, D-Chat-ham, replied that although the tax money would be sent to the state, it would be allocated to the Department of Social Services to take over the counties' entire share of the Medicaid burden.

The budget for the coming biennium already provides for the state to pay 85 per cent of the non-federal costs of the Medicaid program. Johnson's bill would provide the $8.4 million needed to relieve the counties of the other 15 per cent of the costs.

Lilley's amendment passed 46-30. The House then approved on a voice vote an amendment sent forward by Johnson to appropriate the revenues from the tax to the Department of Social Services.

Rep. Clarence Leatherman, D-Lincoln, tried to get the bill sent to the appropriations committee after Johnson's amendment was added, but the House rejected the motion 48-41.

Johnson said the counties have been counting on being relieved of all Medicaid costs since Gov. Bob Scott included a complete state takeover of the cost in his proposed budget.

However, Rep. Perry Martin, D-Northampton, said, there were a lot of things, including improving teacher pay, that he would like to have done this session of money had been available. He said the House should not slap a tax on liquor "in the waning hours of the General Assembly."

Rep. Sneed High, D-Cumberland, also opposed the bill, saying that liquor tax revenues should be earmarked for rehabilitation of alcoholics until that need is met.

Magazine Airs Nuclear Device 'Contingency Plans'

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Review has published what it says are secret government documents on Vietnam which show that the U.S. Defense department had a contingency plan for the "demonstration drop" of a nuclear device in Indochina as early as 1954.

The conservative magazine said the use of nuclear weapons was again proposed by the military in 1962 and that another document, dated Feb. 12, 1965, indicates the proposal "remained alive within the military as well as at least one section of the intelligence communities."

Titled "The Secret Papers They Didn't Publish," July 27 issue of the magazine said the documents were from far more extensive files and had not been among the Pentagon Papers in the New York Times and the Washington Post. However, the National Review did not say whether its documents were part of the Pentagon study of the Vietnam war which Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara initiated.

A statement accompanying the issue said the documents were made available "in protest against what the informant held to be distorted impressions conveyed by the documents published in The New York Times." It added that editor of the National Review, columnist William F. Buckley Jr., "is out of town and is not available for comment."

One document, said to be a memorandum from the Joint Chiefs of Staff to McNamara on Jan. 13, 1962, proposed a number of "sharply escalated measures that have been proposed and studied and for which contingency plans have long existed." They were:

—The demonstration drop of a nuclear device, followed by the use "of nuclear bombs and devices where militarily suitable" if North Vietnam failed to respond.

—The closing of Haiphong and Sihanoukville harbors and the blockade of the North Vietnamese and Cambodian coasts.

—Rapid destruction of all North Vietnamese thermal power installations.

—Destruction of the rail lines linking North Vietnam and China.

—Destruction of the Red River dikes and irrigation systems, thus destroying a primary North Vietnamese food source.

—Neutralization of Communist China's Hainan Island.

As a reference for the proposal to drop a warning nuclear bomb, the document cited a memorandum of May 26, 1954, from Admiral Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson titled "Studies with Respect to Possible US Action Regarding Indochina." The report said it included the recommendation "employing atomic weapons, whenever possible."

The memorandum was dated three weeks after the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu, when there were no U.S. troops in Vietnam. Later there were reports that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had offered the atomic bomb to the French for use against the forces besieging Dien Bien Phu. The late historian Bernard B. Fall, in a book in 1967 on the 56-day siege, examined these reports and conflicting evidence whether the use of atomic weapons was ever considered seriously. He concluded that Dulles did make such an offer but that French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault declined the offer because bombs would destroy the French garrison as well as the enemy.

The National Review also reprinted a telegram which it said Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, sent to the Joint Chiefs of Staff on Feb. 12, 1965. It said Sharp's command "concur" that there would be an increased "risk of tension" with Moscow and Peking from a "demonstration drop." The telegram added that the impact on the North Vietnamese leadership of a successful high altitude drop off Haiphong harbor "was impossible to estimate directly."

Another of the 14 documents in National Review was reported to be a handwritten summary by Secretary of State Dean Rusk of a conference on Feb. 10, 1965, that resulted in the decision not to ask Congress for a declaration of war against the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front and North Vietnam.

Train Strike Poses A Risk For Poultry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If the Southern Railway System strike lasts a few more days, a poultry business spokesman says, chickens in Georgia and North Carolina could begin starving because of a food shortage.

Frank Frazier of Washington, D.C., vice president of the National Broiler Council, said that corn and protein concentrates used to feed chickens are shipped entirely by rail.

"We have received reports here that some people are already running short of corn to go into chicken feed and others say their supply will last only until the middle of the week," he said.

Set Program On Beauty

The world of a beauty clinic is the subject of the third in a series of four Young Adults programs scheduled for the Moyewood Neighborhood Service Center for each Wednesday night during the month of July.

On July 21 at 7:30 and until 8:30 p. m., the "Beauty Clinic" subject will be explored by La Monte Edwards of Greenville's Salon de Beaute' de La Monte, who will demonstrate "the natural look" in cosmetics and hairstyling.

Males are invited to attend the session, and samples of cosmetics will be available at the meeting.

Sponsored by Sheppard Memorial Library, the quartet of weekly programs is under the supervision of Mrs. Brenda Lewis, extension librarian for the city library system.

Again background music (on records) will be provided before and after the lecture-demonstration. The music to be featured Wednesday night is that of Watts 103rd Street Rhythm Band and Chicago.

Anxious To Be Army Chaplain

MOORSTOWN, N.J. (AP) — The Rev. Colin P. Kelly III, son of America's first hero pilot of World War II, has resigned his parish post as an Episcopal priest after eight months because of slowness in becoming an Army chaplain.

The Rev. Bruce Weatherly, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, disclosed the resignation Monday. "One of his biggest problems is the fact that the Army doesn't need as many chaplains today as it did," the rector said of the Rev. Mr. Kelly's resignation.

The Rev. Mr. Kelly, 30, and the father of three, was reported vacationing in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania and unavailable for comment.

Frazier said that the quality of broilers and the volume of egg production will drop off if chickens start going hungry.

The strike by the United Transportation Union against the Southern Railway and Union Pacific began last Friday.

Georgia poultry businessmen said no alternative to rail delivery has been found to solve the shortage.

"We've been trying to find trucks to bring it in, but there aren't enough trucks available to do any good," said Newt Stepp of Southland Milling Co. in Gainesville.

Stepp's operation requires grain shipments of 10,500 bushels a week. Stepp said that "in two or three days we'll be out of grain."

L. R. Tucker, head of L. R. Tucker Co. in Royston, said, "We haven't got a day's supply here."

Vallee Resigns Traffic Office

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rudy Vallee, the veteran entertainer who wanted the street where he lives renamed Rue de Vallee, has resigned from the city Traffic Commission because "I don't want to be humiliated and lambasted by city councilmen."

Vallee, 69, said he resigned Monday two days before the council was to consider his five-year reappointment by Mayor Sam Yorty to the policymaking body.

Several councilmen have criticized Vallee for the proposed street name change, saying it would appear to taxpayers that a member of a city commission was exerting improper influence.

"At my age and status I don't have to take a lot of baloney from some councilmen," said Vallee. He said the street name change affected only nine persons in a small residential area—six of whom favor Vallee's proposal.

The bridegroom graduated from Hargrave Military Academy, Chatham, Va., and attended Elon College. He is also continuing his education at East Carolina University.

Daughter Should Obey The Rules

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: What can a mother do when she has a 19-year-old daughter who comes in at 7:30 a. m. and expects to be greeted with open arms? If I raise my voice she tells me I'm crazy.

I can't throw her out as she has no job, no money and no husband. She has a 10-month-old baby I love very much. I take care of the baby while she sleeps all day.

My daughter is a beautiful girl with a nice figure and she doesn't hesitate to tell you so. I only wish her brain was the same.

Your column is the only thing she ever reads in the paper. Maybe if you printed this, it might wake her up.

DEAR MOM: She's up! Somebody should wake you up. As long as you continue to look after her child while she sleeps all day and stays out all night, nothing will change. Why should I? She's got it made. A child [of any age or marital status], while living in her parents' home, should be made to abide by the standard of that home—or vamoose!

DEAR ABBY: I am a very warm-blooded girl who craves affection, and I am married to a very cold touch-me-not type man. We have two children. Don't ask me how they got here. They were both accidents. But accidents like that don't happen to us very often.

The big blowup came last night when he took me to a drive-in movie. It was a romantic film so I snuggled up close to him and he kept moving away from me until he was practically on the fender. I asked him to kiss me, and he said, "No, not here." [We were all alone in a closed car, and it was pitch dark.] Well, it ruined my whole evening.

I know I am not all that bad, Abby. He keeps telling me he "loves" me, so why doesn't he show me?

DEAR HUNGRY: Your man doesn't know how to give love because he has never been taught, and he probably hadn't received much love in his early life. Teach him. But not in a drive-in.

DEAR ABBY: Where did you ever get the idea that it's a wife's "duty" to get her husband up in the morning? If a man is old enough to get married he should be old enough to get himself up.

I can remember my mother "getting my father up" every morning, and there was a fight in our house that lasted 20 years because of it. It used to start my mother's day off wrong and my father used to go to work irritated and resentful.

Before I was married my mother told me to never be a man's alarm clock, and I took her advice. My husband has to get himself up. And he's been late only once and then he had only himself to blame.

DEAR NO ALARM: There are two lessons to be learned here. [1] Never be a man's alarm clock. [2] It's much easier to tell someone else what to do than to do it oneself.

DEAR ABBY: With summer here will you please say a word to housewives who have clothes dryers, but insist upon hanging clothes outdoors every weekend?

When we have guests for a cookout and are sitting on our patio having cocktails it is not the most appetizing sight to see a pair of 46 bloomers flapping in the breeze. Thank you!

DEAR "SIZE 10": Aw, kitcher bragging. An eyesore is an eyesore. What has size to do with it?

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Women Of 1971 Should Sew

PARIS (WNS)—Mme. Michel d'Ornano, who is listed among the world's five best-dressed women in international polls, has become honorary president of the Association For The Promotion of Personal Couture. The association held its first meeting at the Hotel Intercontinental here and voted unanimously for "the little, inexpensive dress made at home." Spokeswomen declared that Paris haute-couture is producing such odd fashions these days that elegant ladies may be forced to design their own clothes. Mme. d'Ornano, whose husband is mayor of fashionable Deauville and deputy in the French National Assembly, added that all women in 1971 should learn how to sew their own clothes.

Miss Josetta Godette Weds In Saturday Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Josetta Devon Godette to John Isaac Williams took place Saturday, July 10, in the York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Methodist Church.

The Rev. L. A. Miller and the Rev. A. W. Washington officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Godette Sr. of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Anna Mae Williams of Edenton and the late James Leroy Williams.

A program of wedding music was presented by Johnny A. Wooten, organist, and John Clark and Mrs. Mavis G. Murrell, soloists.

Allowed To Give Up Her Drinking

MELBOURNE, Australia (WNS)—Mrs. Jonathan Paine, 30, has been allowed to give up alcohol now that she has given birth to a 7-pound baby boy. Her doctors prescribed drink two months ago to reduce contractions that might cause premature birth. "I'm not a drinker and was constantly drunk for the sake of the baby," she reported. "How nice to be able to go on the wagon!"

WHAT EVERY NEWBORN NEEDS... Clothes That Wash As Well As They Wear... The arrival of a new baby — any new baby — is a joyous event. You may want to celebrate it with a very special gift for the child. But remember your gift is for the mother too. When you visit the infant department of a store, here are some things to consider before you get carried away by the adorable creations now available for newborns! Is the new outfit pink or blue? Chances are that the newborn girl has been inundated with pink presents; the little boy fully outfitted in blue. Why not think of green, yellow, orange or other bright shades? Babies love color and their mothers appreciate variety in a first wardrobe. Is the gift practical? Consider the size of the baby and the season of the year. Short pants for small boys look pretty, but a crawling baby needs to have his knees covered. Even little girls need the protection of pants once they reach the active stage. New one-piece jumpsuits in colorful knit plaids or patterns are both pretty and practical. Will your gift look just as attractive several washings from now as it does in its gift box? The best gifts wash as well as they wear. If that beautiful outfit can be popped into a washer and then tumble dried it undoubtedly will be appreciated. Read the hangtags for care instructions before you buy. You'll discover that even the frilliest confections for newborns are often machine-washable and dryable—and many are permanent press, too! Your care and consideration in selecting a baby gift will endear you to the new mother and provide the infant with an outfit he can wear and wear.

The most serious objection mothers have to a "security blanket" is that it looks so bedraggled. That can be overcome by washing it often. If baby won't let it out of his sight, let him help squeeze the warm soapsuds through the blanket. After a while, washing the blanket may be more fun than cuddling it.

Sheets Decorate Bathroom

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer The lady of the house might match her refurbishing skills to those of the family do-it-yourselfer. For example, she can rejuvenate a bathroom in a day using her seamstress skills, bed sheets and tape. There is nothing to saw, hammer or drill. Sheets go on windows, walls, ceilings, shower and basin area and they might even hide some wall blemishes. Best of all, they can be removed easily, washed and put back in place.

Here's how one bathroom was designed using permanent press cotton sheets. A lively pink, red, violet and green on a bright white background was used with a sheet pattern in a stripe of a contrasting color for a charming effect. Here's how: Walls and ceilings: Cut off the solid color hems of three queen size sheets (90 by 115). Measure wall and ceiling dimensions and cut sheet allowing 1/4 inches to fold under raw edges. If sheets need to be sewed together, match the pattern carefully. You can turn in the 1/4 inch hem and hem it to 1 1/2, or 2-inch heavy duty double-face tape (that will stick to the wall).

Some people may prefer to press tape to the wall or ceiling and then press the sheet to the tape. Follow directions given with the tape used. Hemming the sheet provides a firm hold and sharp edges at corners. Shower curtain: Use a queen-size sheet of the floral pattern. Put a hem at the bottom of the sheet. You can make holes for the curtain rings by using a grommet kit that may be purchased at local hardware stores. Hang the curtain over the plastic liner.

Window shade: Use a single sheet (72 inches by 90 inches) and a laminating kit that will provide easy-does-it directions. Basin skirts: Use material left over from the shower curtain sheet for an undershirt for the basin counter top. Measure perimeter of the basin. Hem floral sheet to fit it. A striped sheet might be fitted over it and then cut into panels that may be sewed. The two skirts are then sewed together and each striped panel is tied, Victorian style. You can vary this idea as you wish.

Bonnie Cashin continues the layered look in her fall and winter collection. "You who have followed these ideas for a long time know the concept, borrowed from ancient China," she said. "The concept goes like this—It's a two shirt day, or a seven shirt day and so on. Layers give insulation. Modern pieces work well together and simplify trans-seasonal dression via addition or subtraction."

Enormous Potential For Nixon

President Nixon's announced visit to Peking before next May 1, has enormous potential for settling some of the Far Eastern problems that have plagued this nation over a period of two decades.

It would be a mistake to conclude that the presidential trip will solve all our problems in the Far East. At the same time the trip is the kind of event which in the past has changed the course of history.

Since the withdrawal of Nationalist China to Taiwan the United States has had virtually no contact with the Chinese mainland. Trade has been entirely cut off and the only diplomatic contacts have been through other than normal channels.

Suddenly, in the course of world events, the president of our country is invited to visit the nation with which even now we have no diplomatic relations.

The turn of events is mind boggling. We must recognize, of course, that the mainland Chinese have their reasons for wanting to improve relations with the United States. Undoubtedly they involve the deteriorated relations with their Communist neighbor the Soviet Union.

Whatever the reasons it is obviously a great chance for the U. S. to re-establish contacts with this huge nation. Out of it could come the opportunity to settle the complex issues which keep the Vietnam war droning on. It could mean trade and cultural exchanges which will be beneficial to the two parts of the world.

"I will undertake what I deeply hope will become a journey for peace — peace not just for our generation, but for future generations on this earth we share together," President Nixon said in making the announcement.

If we are to have worldwide peace into the foreseeable future, then mainland China must be a part of the planning. Thus the presidential trip to Peking is well worth any diplomatic risks it may bring about.

The Ice Man Came Sunday

By PERRY MORGAN
The Charlotte News

CHARLOTTE — In that other time and place when ice was king of a poor realm, July was a month of feasting and resting, preaching and politicking, and waiting eagerly for the ice man.

The ice man came on Sunday, hot and sweating in his yellow truck, to those families which had ice boxes instead of refrigerators. I remember still the miraculous rash of the cool air that came when he lifted the canvas cover from the precious cargo that glistened white in the sun.

He had no scales, only a quick eye that measured off your money's worth, a pick that cleaved the huge blocks, and tongs with which he deposited the ice in the box on the back porch. There, and without a moment lost, the ice was packed in newspapers and buried in sawdust to retard its melting.

The ice man always came on Sunday and he always came before dinner; otherwise there was no dinner in a proper sense because the meal was centered around iced tea. Farm families did very well during the week drinking milk cooled by suspension in wells. Tea set Sunday apart, made special a menu that otherwise was unvaried.

Abundant Summer Menu
In that other time, it was not chicken every Sunday but chicken every day for by July all the biddies of spring were frying size. And the fields were full of vegetables for which the family that planted them was the only market.

One did his best, particularly if he was a plowboy, to make a dint in an abundance of roasting ears, speckled peas, green beans, butter beans, tomatoes, onions, potatoes, squash, cucumbers, peppers, okra, turnip greens, red melons and yellow melons, cantaloupes, peaches fresh and peaches pickled.

But in the years when the rains were good no family could cope with the riches of its garden. Eventually, to prevent rotting in the fields, the excess had to be picked and toled to the hoglot where it brought squeals of delight and, not incidentally, made a tidy investment to be realized in winter.

Sunday Dinner Visitors
The preachers, like the ice man, also came on Sunday, willing to do justice, and to sit not very humbly down, to dinner. Visiting reverends who came to conduct a "big meeting" were, after all, about prayed out after hour-long exhortations putting down gambling, drinking and snuff-dipping in churches hotter than the rhetorical hells they summoned up as alternatives to Beulah land.

I remember the churches well, white boxes with steepled bells and dark, varnished benches with racks for palm leaf or cardboard fans, the latter embossed with pictures of Jesus and assurances of courteous service by the nearest undertaker. But a boon they were when the air was heavy, hot and musty with the odor of hymn books, and wasps drifted in and droned about the ceiling, and perspiration glued starched white trousers to the benches.

July, in that other place, was a world of time, when woodlands were the main source of music. The whippoorwill was my favorite musician. Hearing him now I think him deserving of his reputation of melancholia. Hearing him in that other time I was grateful for the variety and suspense he contributed to long, hot nights.

July Soul Singer
His first call at dusk promised relief from the monotonous rasping of July flies. And if he was solely a blues singer, and knew only one song, he was capable of riffs — grieving gently and distantly at first, then clearly and compellingly.

Moving closer through the night, deepening his cry into mellow liquidness that would end at first light with a tone of beseeching, the unseen bird could command one's sense and imagination before yielding down to the roosters.

Meantime, unheard in the night, King Cotton worked, thriving on the heat. The more intense the heat, the faster the squares pointed upward, opening flowers that were white the first day, pink the next, purple the next. On the fourth day the flower fell off and the boll appeared. Those blooms that survived untimely rains and made bolls that resisted the weevils would by late August require us subjects to kneel.

King Cotton's was a realm of labor, but in July there was ease and plenty and the knowledge, needing no articulation, that if he owned little else, man was deeply invested in a world that was clean and natural and by strength of sun and sudden storm, majestic.

Voters Should Think Now About Bond Issue

By act of the Legislature last week Tar Heel voters will be deciding the fate of a $150 million bond issue to help finance local water supply and sewage treatment facilities.

Using the funds with local and federal money work can be accomplished with a total value of $700 million.

Voters should begin thinking about this bond proposal now. While it can be looked on as just another bond issue, we should remember that if we want clean water we must pay the bill.

White House Was Opposed

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The abrupt switch by Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader, that doomed the contempt of Congress citation against the Columbia Broadcasting System was dictated by the White House.

Senior presidential aides felt it would be most unwise to prosecute CBS and its president, Dr. Frank Stanton, for refusing to give the House Commerce Committee unused film shot for the documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon." Consequently, they convinced Ford he should oppose the citation he had earlier endorsed. That switch, combined with equally unexpected opposition from House Democratic leaders, killed the contempt citation which had been considered a certainty.

Stemming from this is deep bitterness among rank-and-file Congressmen of both parties who feel their leaders needlessly humiliated the contempt citation's sponsors: Rep. Harley Staggers of West Virginia, chairman of the Commerce Committee, and Rep. William Springer of Illinois, the committee's senior Republican. In the Republican cloakroom, the bitterness is mixed with surprise, considering Ford's established pattern of backing Republican committee leaders.

On the night before the vote, Ford and Springer spent nearly two hours together at the White House during a meeting on another matter. Ford said nothing about the contempt citation. Nor did White House aides indicate their opposition.

But the next morning was another matter. "The guys at the White House don't feel this should go through," Ford explained to colleagues on the House floor.

Springer protested, contending he was informed weeks ago, at the highest level, that President Nixon had no objection to the contempt citation. But with Mr. Nixon in San Clemente last week, Springer could not appeal the staff's decision. Ford's switch may have made the difference. All but one of his fellow Michigan Republicans voted against the citation, including some who had been most vocal in the cloakrooms inveighing against CBS.

A footnote: Despite the defeat of the contempt citation, anti-CBS feeling is running high in Congress — particularly after what was regarded as an arrogant victory statement by the network. Whether this becomes a vendetta between the House Commerce Committee and CBS may hinge on a secret peace meeting to be scheduled soon between Dr. Stanton and Chairman Staggers.

Finch For Governor
Sharply reversing past plans, Presidential counselor Robert Finch is now telling close associates he is more likely in 1974 to run for Governor of California than against Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston.

The main political reason: Finch and his advisers for the first time are taking seriously talk from Gov. Ronald Reagan's aides that he will run for the Senate. However much he has slipped lately, Reagan is unbeatable in a California Republican primary.

But a personal reason may be more decisive. Finch's wife, Carol, has not enjoyed life in Washington and wants to return to the Coast. Consequently, Finch may enter a crowded Governor's race which should go through. (Continued on Page 5)

Strength For Today

GABRIEL'S HORN

Our country is the busiest and most progressive spot on the globe. And why shouldn't it be? We have a tremendous area, which befits an important nation. Occasionally, we have riot and general disorder over an issue that may extend to the ends of the earth. We have made our mistakes, and plenty of them. We continue making mistakes and will do so until Gabriel blows his horn. We believe that straitened circumstances, and even poverty, are more endurable here than it would be any place else. To be living in a free country in the latter half of the twentieth century is one of the greatest privileges humanity has ever known. A thousand years ago people were dying wholesale as the result of diseases which have been conquered. We will find the cure for cancer some day and the chances are that a physician or some bright guy in a laboratory will stumble on this earth-shaking discovery. There are a hundred thousand million billion bodies in our galaxy alone. What's going on over there? The stars we see at night are suns. How many planets do they have revolving about them? Are they watching us as we watch them?

A few centuries ago the eastern seaboard states claimed territory right across the United States to the Pacific Ocean. We bought the sites of great cities for a good rifle. A set of beads and twenty four dollars would buy areas that are now incalculable in value.

Hallelujah! But watch your step. Some day old Gabriel will toot his horn. Or someone may press the wrong button. By Earl L. Douglas

How The Wind Blows

Local liberals are aghast, which is a good way to keep them, at President Nixon's action in breathing life back into the moribund Subversive Activities Control Board. By contrast, persons who prefer to live in the real world — a world in which real anarchists throw real bombs — are not aghast at all. They will be cheering the President on.

This is a bold move on Nixon's part. At long last, he is putting his administration on the offensive against those violent organizations who seek by criminal means to "halt the government" and to deny civil rights to law-abiding men. In one sense, Nixon's move is not much of an offensive: His weapons are publicity, exposure, and at some remote point, perhaps, inclusion on the Attorney General's list of subversive organizations. But these may be useful weapons in a war that cannot be awaged effectively in the criminal courts.

What Nixon has done, by executive order, is to delegate to the SACB certain duties that have been performed in the past, if at all, by the FBI and the Attorney General. These duties have to do with the compiling of the "Attorney General's List" of organizations found to be subversive. The List, numbering about 300 outfits, last was updated in 1955. It has been little used in recent years, but at one time it provided a helpful caution light in areas of Federal employment. The job applicant who acknowledged membership in a listed organization was an applicant to be considered with special care.

Liberal always have denounced the Attorney General's List out of hand. They have seen it as a gross violation of First Amendment rights of free speech and free association. They have condemned it as a kind of bill of attainder. They have objected that the List, in effect, punishes ideas instead of overt acts. And they have complained that in proscribing, say, the Ku Klux Klan or the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, The Attorney General has acted ex parte as investigator, prosecutor, jury and judge.

The President's executive order of July 2 will do nothing to quiet most of these cries of outrage. The order, indeed, is nicely calculated to spread apoplexy through the ranks of the ACLU and to drive Joe Rauh to an early grave. Mr. Rauh, vice chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, already is hollering lawsuit. But the order would overcome the last of the liberals' objections — it would guarantee to suspect organizations certain forms of due process — and it would give the Subversive Activities Control Board something to do.

The SACB has virtually nothing to do now. Under the 1950 act, the Board's sole duty is to determine, after hearings conducted at the request of the Attorney General, whether particular organizations or individuals are agencies of the Soviet Communist Party. But apparently there is nothing in the 1950 act to prevent the Board, at the President's request, from serving in an advisory capacity in other areas. That is what is proposed in Nixon's audacious executive order. He is asking the SACB to advise the Attorney General in an updating of the 1955 List.

And why not? The order would authorize the Board, at the Attorney General's request, to "conduct appropriate hearings to determine whether any organization is totalitarian, fascist, communist, subversive, or whether it has adopted a policy of unlawfully advocating the commission of acts of force or violence to deny others their rights under the Constitution or laws of the United States." Other Editors Say Ice Cream Jubilee

(Christian Science Monitor)

Being little given to celebrating anniversaries, we blithely skip over most of the rubrics on our wall calendar reminding us that a particular day marks the unteenth anniversary of Kierkegaard's birth, or Napoleon's entry into Moscow, or the signing of the Treaty of Portsmouth.

But we could not so easily glide over the notation that on July 23, 1904, the ice cream cone was invented in St. Louis, Missouri. What an event! And with what delicious reverberations for millions upon untold millions of sticky-fingered kids down through the ensuing generations!

One wonders if the anonymous inventor of that geometrically perfect delicacy even began to suspect the memories, intimations and associations that would crowd the unconscious of millions at the mere suggestion, "Hey, let's go down and get a cone." Indeed, the ice cream cone is to us common folk what the madeleine and tea were to Marcel Proust, conjuring up shadowy, fleeting, half-remembered flashes of bygone scenes. Far less refined, perhaps, but surely no less evocative — lounging on the street corner, sitting by the pond in the park, walking along Main Street with deft tongue darting out to catch a pendulous drop of maple fudge. Or the intimations of tragedy implicit in the awful catastrophe of an empty cone in hand and a glob of pistachio lying in a pool of green at one's feet.

Surely, July 23 should rank among the most auspicious historic events on our calendar. In observance of which, we call for appropriate commemorative exercises on the part of all true ice cream "conisseurs." Cherry jubilee, anyone?

Pitt County farmers have raised plenty of food crops this year and they believe in sharing them with needy persons. This fact was revealed this morning when Mrs. J. L. The growers responded so generously that an entire Ford car was loaded with fruits and vegetables.

Delegates from France, Germany, Belgium and Italy arrived in London today for the Seven-Power Conference at which they hope to evolve a scheme for relieving Germany's economic distress.

A True Inflation Index Needed

By ELMER ROESSNER

This country needs an Inflation Index, a scientifically compiled table that would show monthly, weekly or preferably daily exactly how much the currency has been inflated (or even deflated) and exactly how much the dollar is worth.

It would alert Congress to exactly how much their actions are wasting away the dollar, warn the Administration of how much it was piddling away the dollar's value, and help the public realize how it is being robbed.

There is no such index now. There is, of course, the Consumer Price Index, sometimes called the "cost-of-living index." But this is neither an inflation index nor a cost-of-living index. It is, as the Bureau of Labor Statistics clearly states, an index that "measures the average change in prices of goods and services purchased by urban wage earners and clerical families and single persons living alone."

Shifting Base
Furthermore, the base necessarily keeps shifting.

Color TV sets are a factor today but weren't 20 years ago; hotpants are an element this year but not last. There's another broad change. The base is now 1967 prices, which makes the dollar appear to be worth 67 cents; it was formerly 1967-59, which would make the dollar appear worth 75 cents; before that it was 1935-39, which would make the dollar worth about 32 cents today.

There are a number of reasons for these changes, one of which is that the newer ones do not remind the public how much the dollar has been chipped away in value.

There is also a monthly Wholesale Price Index, which measures inflation only in the wholesale market.

More And More
And there are many more indexes, covering hourly wages; hourly wages adjusted for taxes and decline in purchasing power; the weekly Treasury report; pages and pages of Federal Reserve tables monthly; occasional reports on the money supply and scores of other indexes. Verily, statistical navel contemplation is a big occupation in the United States. An Inflation Index would encompass all of these factors. It should include not only the change in prices charged working families but also the Rockefeller brothers'; government agents should check changes in prices at Tiffany's as well as at Safeway markets.

It should take in the money supply, the gold at Fort Knox, the national debt, the interest rate, bank credit and consumer credit (which are inflationary), labor rates, tax levies and a hundred other factors.

It would be quite a job, but then everybody would know exactly what this thing called the dollar really is.

It will never be done, though. To establish such an index would be to create an enormous public demand for a stable currency, and that's the last thing the new economists and the politicians want.

Firm City School Calendar Set Targets On DMZ

Drop Appeals

RALEIGH (AP) — Carolina Power & Light Co. and Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan have dropped their appeals of a February order of the North Carolina Utilities Commission giving CP&L an 11.86 per cent rate increase. The power company had appealed on grounds that the commission should have approved the full 14 per cent increase it requested. The attorney general had appealed on grounds that the 11.86 per cent was too much. By abandoning the appeal the way has been cleared for the attorney general's office to attack so-called "emergency" rate increases requested by CP&L and by Duke Power Co. and approved by the commission two weeks ago. The commission, in 4-1 decisions, gave the utilities all the "emergency" rate increase that they sought, 5.63 per cent for CP&L and 7.10 per cent for Duke. The attorney general contends that the utilities commission is without authority to grant such "emergency" increases.

A firm school calendar, the acceptance of six teacher resignations, the election of seven teachers, and a principal for Aycock Junior High School, were all approved by the Greenville School board Monday night. Friday, August 27, as announced at an earlier meeting, is pupil orientation day with the first full day of school slated for Monday, August 30. Holidays named for the school year are: Monday, September 6, Labor Day; Thursday and Friday, November 25 and 26, Thanksgiving holidays; Monday, December 20 through Friday, December 31 inclusive, Christmas holidays; and Thursday and Friday, March 30 and 31, and Monday and Tuesday, April 3 and 4, Easter holidays. As New Year for 1972 falls on Saturday, this will mean that school commences again after Christmas holidays on Monday, January 3. Two student holidays are slated, one for Tuesday, November 2, the date set for the NCAE District meeting; and Monday, January 24, the fourth teacher work day. Resignations accepted by the board are: Della P. Dayson, and William E. Humphrey, Aycock Junior High School; Magdalene W. Grimes, Eastern Elementary; Doreen K. Richter, Elmhurst Elementary; Judith P. Troutner, South Greenville Elementary; and Ellen Potter, speech-hearing therapist. Election of new teachers are: Susan R. Brown, speech-hearing therapists; William L. Byrd, Jr., Sarah R. Rogerson, Alice J. Singletary, and Earl C. Wilson, all for Aycock Junior High School; Robert J. Karl, Rose High School; and Karen L. Ciampa, for the elementary schools.

Jenkins is "enthused about the program," and added that "anyone with ideas about politics ought to be impressed with what we're attempting to do." Although the major registration drive will not get underway until September, the SGA president indicated that groundwork is already underway for shaping up the campaign through the collection and preparation of information. "We will use all means available to disperse all the information possible," he commented, saying that this would include the passing out of mimeographed sheets with information to all the students, as well as periodic press conferences to make reports on progress being made. On another subject Croshaw was asked by a newsman if the visitation subject might cause a hassle on the opening of school this year, Croshaw said "I feel that visitation is not of pressing importance. In my opinion, there are other things more important." Croshaw commented, "We've gotten more questions on visitation from freshmen than from other students." On the effectiveness of the student boycott of Greenville merchants, the SGA president said he felt "it was effective in that it held down tension. As a political instrument I think it damaged most those of least influence. To this extent, I don't know whether it was fair or not."

ich could include Lt. Gov. Edward Reinecke, State Atty. Gen. Evette Younger, and State Controller Houston Flournoy all seeking the Republican nomination. A footnote: Finch privately talks about a 1974 ticket that would include John G. Veneman, Under Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, for lieutenant governor and Robert L. Meyer, U.S. Attorney in Los Angeles, for attorney general (assuming Younger runs for Governor).

Griffin's Problem

At a recent secret conference in Nixon reelection headquarters at 1701 Pennsylvania Ave. here, President Nixon's top political operatives tried — without success — to talk conservative Robert Huber out of waging a 1972 third-party campaign in Michigan against Sen. Robert Griffin, the Senate majority whip. Huber, a millionaire Detroit industrialist who nearly upset Lenore Romney in the 1970 Republican primary for the Senate, is organizing a new state Conservative Party. Its first project may be Huber's candidacy for the Senate, blighting Griffin's uphill race for reelection. In response to the Nixon men, Huber conceded that Griffin had been a loyal Republican but insisted that systematic exclusion of conservatives from Michigan Republican party leadership made a new party essential. A footnote: Contacted by Huber for advice, leaders of the New York Conservative Party (which elected Sen. James Buckley last year) discouraged both formation of the party and a campaign against Griffin on grounds that the New York and Michigan situations are wholly dissimilar.

At such hearings, the defendant organizations could appear if they wished (the Board could not summon them by subpoena), with full rights of counsel and cross examination. Judicial review would follow a Board determination. To give Joe Rauh his due, yes, the plan does entail dangers. But it is a dangerous world we live in. The wind that blows from the Weatherman's way is a wind of death and destruction. Those Mayday "demonstrators" were not flower children; they were creatures of violence whose totalitarian purpose was to deny the rights of everyone else. If these outfits should be put to Board hearings, let them complain of rights abridged. Such hearings might be a most appropriate undertaking for a Department of Poetic Justice.

'Sudden Sam' Vents His Frustrations On Angels

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Suddenly, Sam's wallet was a lot thinner. And just as suddenly, so were some of California's hopes of a sustained drive towards the top of the American League West.

Sudden Sam McDowell, slapped with a $1,000 fine Sunday by Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark for "rowdiness" on the team bus, vented some of his frustrations on California's reviving Angels, slapping them down with a seven-hit 3-1 triumph Monday night.

The big left-hander fanned seven Angels and blanked them until second baseman Eddie Leon dropped what would have been the game-ending popup, allowing Syd O'Brien to scoot all the way home from first.

Rick Clark silenced the Tribe on just six hits through eight innings before McDowell and Ted Uhlaender opened the ninth with bunt singles. A bases-loaded walk to Chris Chambliss, an error and an infield out sent in Cleveland's runs.

In other American League games Monday, the Chicago White Sox swept a twilight doubleheader from the New York Yankees, 8-3 in 10 innings and 3-1, Baltimore topped Oakland 4-2 in an afternoon game and, under the lights, Detroit whipped Kansas City 5-2 and Washington clipped Minnesota by the same score. Milwaukee's game at Boston was rained out.

In the National League, Los Angeles snapped Pittsburgh's 11-game winning string with a 10-4 triumph, the New York Mets beat St. Louis 5-2, San Francisco outlasted Atlanta 11-8, San Diego edged Cincinnati 4-3, Montreal tripped the Chicago Cubs 5-3 and Philadelphia nosed out Houston 3-2 in 11 innings.

The Angels, ripped apart earlier this season by dissension, had been putting their game together since the suspension of

Ellis Claims In Shape

HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Ellis says he's in such shape for his scheduled 12-round bout here Monday with Muhammad Ali he's going to start tapering off training.

He put in a brisk 45-minute workout Monday, boxed four rounds with different sparring partners and went two rounds on the speed bag.

He said he would start cutting down today on his workout schedule and "might not box but two rounds ... or I might not box at all."

Ali confined his training Monday to one round of shadow boxing, two rounds on the heavy bag and five more on the speed bag.

He also crawled out of bed at 4 a.m. before the Houston heat built up and put in 40 minutes of running.

Ali planned a morning trip to a crippled children's hospital today before working out in the afternoon at the Astrodome, next door to the Astrodome where the fight will be staged.

moody Alex Johnson and the retirement of disappointing Tony Conigliaro.

McDowell, who went through a spring training salary dispute and early-season pitching problems, boosted his record to 9-3 as he shrugged off the whipping fine.

The team bus incident reportedly involved McDowell's use of abrasive language on a ride from Los Angeles International Airport to Anaheim and a Cleveland official said the pitcher also committed "other indiscreet acts," including swearing loudly at Dark.

The hurler and manager clashed recently when McDowell, selected as a pitcher for the All-Star Game, was scratched by Dark due to a sore shoulder.

The White Sox pounced on Mel Stottlemyre for five runs in the 10th inning of their first game with Bill Melton's bases-loaded single and Ed Herrmann's three-run homer the big hits while three relievers blanked the Yanks on four hits through the final 9 2-3 innings.

In the second game, Tommy John weaved a four-hitter for his own and Carlos May drove in all of Chicago's runs with a

Wants Open Competition

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Cliff Richey says the Davis Cup tournament should be made an open competition because the ban on contract pros has made it an unimportant event.

Richey, the top-ranked tennis player in the United States and No. 1 man on the U.S. Davis Cup team, warned Monday however that "the smaller countries don't want it that way; they have a tough time competing as it is."

Richey is in Winston-Salem for the $25,000 Tanglewood International Tennis Classic at nearby Clemmons. He is an independent professional under the jurisdiction of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

The USLTA is a member of the international Law Tennis Federation, ILTF, which controls Davis Cup play. Contract players in Lamar Hunt's touring World Championship Tennis group and the ILTF are engaged in what Richey called a "total war."

He said the war was warmed recently by Hunt's announcement that he would not let his players compete at Wimbledon next year.

Cepeda Balks Pinch-Hitting

ATLANTA (AP) — Orlando Cepeda says he wants no part of a pinch-hitting role and prefers to undergo immediate surgery if it will enable him to play regularly.

"I don't want to be a pinch hitter," said Cepeda, who has not been a regular in the Atlanta Braves' lineup since June 27 because of an injured left knee. "If I can't play every day, I don't want to play. I want to earn my money."

"I will do everything I can to get my knee well ... I will do anything they say," he added Monday.

homer and a tie-breaking, two-run single.

Pat Dobson boosted his record to 12-4 with his ninth successive victory as he scattered seven hits, including Rick Monday's two-run homer for the A's. Paul Blair and Dave Johnson hit solo round-trippers for the Orioles.

Mickey Lolich gained his 15th victory with an eight-hitter and led the Tigers at the plate as well, ripping a double and two singles and driving in a pair of runs against the Royals.

Dick Billings' two-run homer capped the Senators' four-run uprising in the third while Harmon Killebrew's sixth-inning single scored both of the Twins' runs.

Unitas Can Pass; Starr Cannot

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bart Starr and John Unitas, two of the National Football League's all-time great quarterbacks, made the news out of pro football's training camps Monday.

For Unitas the news was good, but for Starr, not so good. Unitas, who underwent surgery after rupturing his right Achilles tendon playing paddle ball April 7, threw hard passes for 15 minutes at the Baltimore Colts training camp in Westminster, Md.

It was the first time Unitas, 38, had set up and thrown to receivers since camp opened July 11. Unitas is under doctor's orders not to do any running until August.

But while Unitas was able to throw without pain, Starr was not. The Green Bay Packer veteran, who came up with a sore arm late last season, felt pain in his throwing arm and will have to stop passing for the foreseeable future, according to Coach Dan Devine.

Devine said he was not ready to push the panic button and start a trade for a quarterback. The Packers have veteran Zeke Bratkowski, attempting a comeback at 39 after two years as an assistant coach; rookie Scott Hunter, a number six draft pick from Alabama; and second year man Frank Patrick, a converted tight end. "They probably are a lot better than anyone who is available," Devine said.

The other major news revolved around Larry Csonka, Jim Kick, Ron Johnson and Jerry Brown, four of the leading young running backs in pro football seeking more money, and have yet to sign 1971 contracts.

Csonka and Kick combined to gain 1,532 yards rushing last season, and now they have combined to hold out for more money. Each reportedly earned less than $35,000 last year and each is said to be seeking upwards of $55,000.

Johnson, who became the first New York Giant runner to gain over 1,000 yards in one season when he totalled 1,027 last year, is said to be asking for $100,000, a $50,000 raise. Brown, the NFL's leading ground gainer in 1970, is reportedly asking upwards of $100,000 from the Washington Redskins.

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Hanratty suffered a minor ankle sprain in a Steeler workout. St. Louis Cardinal reserve quarterback Dave Olivo will have to undergo surgery to repair knee ligaments torn in a car accident last week.

In player transactions, Atlanta signed veteran placekicker Booth Lusteg, Green Bay released seven players in-

Women's Western Golf Tourney Starting Today

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Girl watchers looked forward to predicted warmer weather today as the Women's Western Amateur Golf Tournament swung into the first round of match play.

The Flossmoor Country Club course was swept by cold winds during Monday's qualifying round for 32 places in the championship flight. As a result, most of the girls wore slacks and it wasn't a banner day for the girls' spectators.

Nancy Porter, 22-year-old high school teacher at Lansdowne-Alden near Philadelphia, was second-low qualifier with 79, featuring an eight-foot eagle three putt. Her mother, Dorothy Germain Porter, won this tournament in 1944 and 1943.

Jane Bastanchury of Whittier, Calif., seeking her third straight Western title qualified with 82. Bessie Anthony won the Western Amateur in 1901, 1902, and 1903 and no one since has duplicated this three-year string.

Miss Bastanchury's first opponent is 20-year-old Kay Beard of Campbellsville, Ky., who was runnerup in the recent Kentucky State tourney and qualified with an 85, one stroke under the limit.

Miss Lauer faces the meet's youngest player, 14-year-old Nancy Lopez of Roswell, N.M.

Throughbred racing drew 44,854,675 fans while harness racing attracted 29,177,742 followers. Football, both college and pro, drew a record 40,486,217. Major and minor baseball league games attracted 39,727,256 people. College and pro basketball drew 30,327,414 fans.

It is believed auto racing drew an estimated 42.5 million spectators.

Angels Are Stuck With 5,000 Alex Johnson Bats $29.95

ANAHEIM (AP) — An engraved "autographed" baseball bat is a prized possession of many youngsters. Baseball teams print them up and proudly hand them out every season, publicizing the name of an idolized star.

A problem has arisen, however in the case of Alex Johnson, the Angel with the tarnished halo. His employers, the California Angels, have 5,000 bats in the process of Anaheim Stadium that bears the legend, "Alex Johnson, 1970 American League Batting Champion."

Johnson has been suspended for lack of hustle.

Dallas Starter Now 'Retired'

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Blaine Nye, starting offensive right guard for the Dallas Cowboys, announced his retirement Monday, a team spokesman said.

Nye, 25, is a three-year veteran from Stanford. He moved into the starting lineup last season and was expected to start again this year.

Nye hadn't yet signed a contract for the upcoming season at Cowboy Tom Landry said he didn't think a salary dispute was involved.

"Blaine told us the contract he had been offered was fair," Landry said. "But he said when he first went into football he made up his mind that if he wasn't making a certain amount of dollars in his fourth year he was going to retire."

The Angel brass has indicated Johnson may never play for them again. If he had been traded, the club might sell the bats to his new team. With Johnson suspended, the bats remain in limbo.

The problem arose a year ago when the Angels held a Bat Day and ran out of bats—a situation no baseball team ever wishes to encounter because it means explaining to a tearful boy why he didn't get the souvenir he traveled 100 miles for.

To head off that situation this year, the Angels ordered an oversupply, figuring they'd get used somehow.

Rained Out

All games in the city Church League Tournament were rained out last night. Those games will be made up tonight with Piney Grove meeting Black Jack at 7:30 and Mt. Pleasant playing Fannin at 9:00. First Christian will play Presbyterian on the old field at 9:00.

About 25,000 were given out; 5,000 remained.

"Two or three years ago we had leftover bats with all kinds of names on them—Bobby Knoop, Tom Satriano, Bubba Morton, Jay Johnstone," recalls Angel publicist George Lederer, mentioning names of former Angels who had been traded.

"We gave them away anyway. What the hell, a bat's a bat. Two years ago we even had some Hal Lanier bats sneak in somehow. I don't know how that happened," Lederer says. Lanier of the San Francisco Giants, has never played for the Angels.

But with Johnson, the case is different. The bats represent about $5,000 so throwing them away would be foolish. And in Alex' present state of disfavor, the club has no intention of giving them to fans.

Worry Clinic Remedies For A Poor Reader

Arnold changed from a poor reader into an "A" student. And all within a few months! For his parents used the ingenious methods below to make the printed page an exciting game. It also furnished him spending money, as well as ego inflation. So use this technique to prevent school dropouts!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case R-510: Arnold B., age 8, was a poor reader.

"Dr. Crane," his mother began, "we had his eyes tested to make sure that wasn't the trouble."
"It wasn't."
"Then we found out he hadn't been taught the phonetic sounds, so I made up a set of flash cards, as per your column's suggestion."
"We drilled Arnold thereon and in 6 weeks he had made a surprising improvement."
"But then his daddy and I found another 'gimmick' that appealed to him greatly.

"As you doubtless have observed, occasionally a typographical error occurs in newspaper copy."
"Arnold happened to point one out to us."
"So his daddy told Arnold he'd pay him a penny for every mistake he found in the daily newspaper."
"Arnold made 17 cents the very first day!"
"For he not only relished earning spending money in this fashion."
"But it made him feel important to detect errors that grown men in the printing trade had committed.

"Now Arnold scans the entire paper, much as the hired proofreaders."
"Dr. Crane, don't you think this is a good way to stimulate a child's reading, as well as his spelling, too?"
Reading Games
Yes, Arnold's mother and daddy deserve unusual praise. Mrs. Crane and I had also used this method on our 5 Crane youngsters.
For I'd ask them to proofread my typewritten copies of this "Worry Clinic" column before I sent them to the Syndicate Office.

And they detected many typographical errors, for I am a 2-finger typist and often strike the wrong keys.
But so do the professional linotype operators, too!

The United States retained its hold on the Bermuda Bowl by defeating France in the finals of the World Contract Bridge Team Championship held in Taipei, Taiwan, May 6th-17th. Australia finished third and China (who captured the runnerup position the last two years) was fourth.

The Dallas Aces, one of the two teams representing the United States of America, and the French survived the qualifying rounds and met in the 128-deal finals. Three substantial swings gained in the first quarter of the match, got the Americans off to a lead they never relinquished. One of the hands that produced this advantage is presented today.
The bidding was the same at both tables and the opening lead by West against the final contract of three no trump was the seven of clubs.

The French declarer put up the queen from dummy, which won the trick. South could count seven top tricks, one club, one diamond and five hearts. He decided to work on the spades and he led the four from the dummy at trick two. East alertly put up the ace and returned the ten of clubs. South covered with the king and West proceeded to cash out four clubs to send the declarer down to a 100 point setback on the deal.

At the other table, Bob Goldman was the declarer when the Americans held the North-South cards. He observed that two additional tricks could be obtained in the diamond suit provided that East held the king. Since the location of the spade ace would not matter if the diamond finesse succeeded, declarer chose to rely on the red suit to bring his trick total up to nine.

A small diamond was led from dummy. East followed with the nine and declarer put in the jack. When this card held, he crossed over to the ace of hearts to play another diamond. East produced the king and Goldman covered with the ace. He proceeded to cash the queen of diamonds followed by four hearts. With nine tricks in, he was home free. East won the spade shift and a club return gave the defense the balance. The six hundred point profit scored by the United States for making three no trump added to the 100 point set scored by their East-West teammates at the other table netted a 700 point swing.

Housing Hopes High In South

NEW YORK (UPI)—A survey of 100 local housing analysts and economists indicates the Southern states should expect a 12 per cent increase in new housing starts in 1971 over 1970, say Allan W. Cox, marketing director for Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp.
Four cities particularly hard hit by last year's housing downturn — Fort Lauderdale, Louisville, Miami and Nashville — all look for substantial improvement during 1971, according to the survey.

STUDENT AVERAGES

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—University of Michigan students have an average age of 23.1 years, nearly one-third are married, and about 40 per cent are graduate-level students. Graduate students are, on the average, 28.5 years old and undergraduates 20.2 years.

One reason why you cannot do a perfect job of proofreading your own copy is the simple fact that you often get carried away by the ideas therein and tend to ignore the printed words.
So it is always wise to have others help proofread your material.
If you have children old enough to read, then reward them by a penny (maybe 5 cents in this age of inflation) for each error they detect.
For this method makes printed copy enjoyable to them.
And that is the first step in producing scholars who will graduate from high school and college.

Home Has Been A Bobbing Sailboat

DETROIT (AP) — The home of 78-year-old Leo Grayson has been a bobbing sailboat on the Detroit River for the past 31 years.
"I just take to the water like some people take to a nice car," he said about his home, a 30-foot-long sailboat called "Arlene."
Formerly a worker at an automobile plant, Grayson now works part-time splicing rope for a marine dealer.
Born on Long Island, Grayson sailed on commercial fishing boats before joining the Navy in 1911. He came here in

Facility Named For Ed Murrow

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — A $2½-million communications facility at Washington State University was named for the late Edward R. Murrow by the institution's board of regents.

Murrow, a 1939 graduate of Washington State who had a distinguished career as a television reporter, news analyst, war correspondent and director of the U.S. Information Agency, died of cancer in 1965 at 57.

Monroe Voices Pleasure Over Final Medical School Approval

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor
Dr. Edwin Monroe, dean of the School of Allied Health today expressed pleasure at the final approval by the Legislature of the one year medical school for ECU.

He expressed confidence that the action will eventually lead to the development of a complete medical school.

"We are gratified that the state has seen fit to agree with us that a medical school is vitally needed in Eastern North Carolina and for the state of North Carolina," he said. "We feel that a one year medical school will be operated during this biennium and we plan to accept our first class of students in September, 1972."

Dr. Monroe said that he would like to have begun a class this fall but it would not be possible to assemble the additional faculty needed in time to do so.

Continuing, he stated, "We view this as the vast majority of the people of the state view it — as a significant step toward operation of a complete medical school. We will move in that direction as rapidly as the state's resources will permit." Monroe said the nucleus of a faculty was assembled during the planning for a two year school, using funds appropriated by the 1969 General Assembly. The curriculum for a one year school has been planned in outline form and have been shared with the UNC medical school group which met with ECU representatives in the early spring.

The outline curriculum has been approved by the Chapel Hill group and by ECU.

"We are in the process now of final negotiations with the necessary additional faculty," he continued. "Several are nationally recognized for their efforts in medical education."

Monroe said the staff additions will be announced as they are retained.

He said he found both the faculty already present and the people with whom ECU is negotiating are enthusiastic. "They don't see this as a dead-end street. They see it as the beginning of a new medical school with different philosophies and goals from some of the more traditional established medical schools in the country."

Monroe reported that the school is receiving inquiries every day from potential students who would like to be admitted to the first class. The inquiries have been coming in for three or four months and he estimated that more than 300 have been received.

Admittance to the first class will begin late this summer and will continue on into the fall. It is expected that 20 to 30 students will be admitted each year.

Monroe said the ECU school would like to admit larger first-year classes — "as many as 40" — but the class size will be limited by the number Chapel Hill can take in the second year.

In addition to planning and admitting its first class, the school will also be busy building up its medical library with the $350,000 appropriated for this purpose by the General Assembly.

Med Program

According to Sen. White, "Sen. Moore tried to have it amended but, we were able to beat that down and the bill came out of the Senate just like we wanted it. I think that in the future it (the one-year school) can grow... when the money is available... into a four year school."

Noting the establishment and funding of the school "is something all of us have been working for hard and long," the senator emphasized. "We are sure that we have the appropriations now, and sure that in the future, if the need is there and we do our part quality wise, we can grow into a full-fledged four year medical school."

No VEE Yet For Carolina

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's state veterinarian says there has been no evidence of the Benzenel horse disease called "VEE" in the state.

Dr. F. F. Zwigart said Monday he is watching the situation and has notified veterinarians in the state to report any horse disease, especially Venezuela equine encephalomyelitis. The disease kills about half the horses it strikes.

Zwigart said there is no vaccine available locally for VEE, but he recommended that horses be vaccinated against eastern and western equine encephalomyelitis. He said cases of the eastern and western virus are reported in North Carolina every year.

A quarantine that was imposed on horses in Texas after the disease spread into the U.S. from Mexico and South America was extended this week to Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico and Louisiana. In addition, Gov. Bob Scott of North Carolina has placed an embargo on Texas horses.

Four Traffic Accidents Counted Here Yesterday

More than $2,700 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville police yesterday afternoon and last night.

Investigators reported heaviest damage resulted from a 7:25 p.m. mishap involving cars driven by Shawnee Josephine Kallweit, 16, of 213 Hardee Cir. and Gary Hurdle Ross, 22, of Edenton.

Police, who said the mishap occurred at the intersection of Third and Evans Streets set damage to the Kallweit auto at $400 and damage to the Ross car at $500. Miss Kallweit was charged with failing to stop for a red light.

A three-car mishap at 4:10 p.m. at the intersection of Charles Street and Berkshire Road involved vehicles driven by Anna Elizabeth White, 17, of 1905 East Fifth St.; Thomas Richard Hayes, 26, of 1410 Chestnut St.; and Thelma Braxton Williams, 308 Manhattan Ave.

No charges were made by police who estimated damages to be $50 to the White car, $350 to the Hayes auto and $400 to the Williams vehicle.

Mary Margaret Morton, 16, of 210 Churchill Dr. was charged with failing to yield the right of way in a 5 p.m. collision on N.C. 43, 250 feet South of the U.S. 264 intersection.

Police reported the Morton car collided with a vehicle operated by Clifton Albert Daniels, 48, of Route 2, Greenville and caused an estimated $250 damage to the Daniels auto about $350 damage to the Morton car.

No charges were reported in a 6:30 p.m. collision at the intersection of N.C. 11 and the Belvoir Highway.

Drivers involved were identified as Billie Bullock Lloyd, 28, of Route 4, Greenville and Bernice Braxton Corbett, 25, of Route 4, Greenville.

Damage was set at $200 to the Lloyd auto and $250 to the Corbett car.

No injuries were reported in the series of collisions.

Scout Speaking Contest Slated

Competition that will produce a local representative to the district level of the National Public Speaking Contest for Boy Scouts and Explorers will be held July 26 at Austin Building on the East Carolina University

Opera Star Lily Pons Honored

PARIS (AP) — Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas presented the insignia of the French Order of Merit, in the grade of commander, Monday to Lily Pons, American opera singer.

The Order of Merit is generally considered France's second highest decoration behind the Legion of Honor.

campus.

The area representatives will go on to an East Carolina Council contest for competition with the winner earning the right to advance toward participation in the finals in Washington, D. C.

According to Tom Butts, Pitt District Scouting Commissioner, the purpose of the speaking contest is to provide a program of interest to all Boy Scouts and Explorer members by bringing to their attention the opportunities offered in scouting.

In addition, the contest should provide opportunity for the more proficient speakers to participate on a contest level and a challenge to those speakers who are determined to improve themselves, he said.

In order to be eligible for participation in the contest Monday night, entrants must be registered Boy Scouts or Explorers, be active members of their troops or posts, and have reached their 15th birthday, but not their 20th, by Feb. 1, 1972.

Persons entering the contest here should be prepared to give an original five to seven minute speech on the subject "Youth's Responsible Involvement," it was pointed out.

Entrants should also be available to make the finals on Feb. 2-3, 1972, and go to Washington, D. C., Feb. 4-11, 1972.

Monday night's contest will be held at 8 p.m. with Karl Faser of the ECU Drama and Speech Department in charge of the judging. Persons needing further information should contact Tom Butts at 752-7073.

Performances By 2 Dolphins

Two 350-pound dolphins named "Splash" and "Happy" are the center of attraction this week at Pitt Plaza as they perform 17 times daily for the benefit of the Greenville Boys Club.

The shows, sponsored by the Luncheon Optimist Club of Greenville, require no admission but donations are accepted on behalf of the Boys Club.

The dolphins and their trainer will put on a 15-minute performance twice every hour until 9 p.m. through Wednesday. The fish are trained to jump through hoops, kiss their friends and play football and basketball in their tank of salt water.

Wayne Morse Is Just Watching

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Former Sen. Wayne Morse, 70, says he wants to see how the candidates line up before deciding whether to run for the Senate in 1972.

Morse, a Democrat, was defeated in 1968 by Republican Bob Packwood. The seat he would seek is now held by Sen. Mark Hatfield, a Republican and opponent of the Vietnam war.
