Assembly Opens Doors For Expansion Program

By JERRY RAYNOR

Expressions of pleasure with the overall legislative funding for capital improvement projects at East Carolina University, and disappointment over deletion and curtailment were voiced by ECU president Dr. Leo Jenkins today.

The N. C. General Assembly yesterday, in shaping up funds for capital improvements for North Carolina institutions of higher education, deleted an item of $1.3 on the ECU budget agenda for the Speech and Drama Department, earmarking that amount and new funds of $700,000 to provide for the partial construction of the proposed $3,740,000 building for the School of Art.

"We are very pleased about action of the General Assembly and are now in a position to embark on an approximately $9 million expansion program," Dr. Jenkins remarked.

The major items included in the expansion and services program include an addition to the library, $3,200,000; the art building at $2,010,000; and provision for air conditioning three dormitories, $1,145,000. Also in the overall program is $2,945,000 for a new student union building, a carry over item from the 1969 budgeting. Both the air conditioning of dormitories and the student union building funding is to be provided for by self-liquidating bonds.

"We are especially enthusiastic about the new wing for the library as this will benefit all areas of academic activity," Dr. Jenkins said, "We are of course disappointed that the renovation of Wahl-Coates School, which would have made possible a modern facility for the Speech and Drama Department, was not funded."

On the lesser amount budgeted for the School of Art building, Dr. Jenkins said "We are also disappointed that the Art Building will not be as large as requested."

"We realize, however," he added, "that members of the General Assembly had many more requests for capital improvements and services than could be funded."

The ECU president expressed his gratitude to the legislators for their "understanding and assistance for what we are trying to do here at ECU. We are particularly grateful to the representatives of Pitt County."

The university president says he "feels confident that both the Speech and Drama Department and the art building would have been fully funded had the money been available."

With reference to the next General Assembly, Dr. Jenkins commented "We are again going to take action to seek these and all other needed facilities at the next session of the General Assembly."

Dr. Wellington Gray, Chairman of the School of Art at ECU, said he was disappointed in getting only part of the building, but expressed satisfaction the School of Art would be able to get a start on the art building.

"What we will do apparently is to build half what we intended in the beginning," the chairman commented. "This will permit us to probably include major studios for drawing, painting, sculpture, ceramics and drawing into the new building."

Dr. Gray pointed out this would probably "leave art education, print-making, commercial art, photography and administrative offices and library located in the third floor of Rawl Building."

He noted this will allow the School of Art to get out of the current scattered locations in five different buildings and concentrate its facilities into two places — the new building and the third floor of Rawl Hall.

"We need to get together, so that each department can see what people in the other departments are doing, so that we can learn from each other and lean on each other," Dr. Gray said. He also said when the remaining portion of the planned art building is financed and built, this will result in total common resources, where each department can make use of tools and equipment housed in one facility.

Representative Horton Rountree, commenting on the decision to concentrate on funds for the Art Building, said, "The general idea behind this is the pressing need for classroom space. Money for the art building on the agenda was

Hugh Morton Surveys Pitt

Hugh Morton, a possible candidate for governor in 1972, met with several local area residents here this morning to sample the political climate in the county and get some estimate of the support he might expect if he decided to enter the political ring.

Pitt is the 38th county Morton has visited on his swing across the state which he began June 27.

"I truthfully feel I have a foot-hold in every county and in some cases an overwhelming foothold," Morton noted. "I'm not a regional candidate..."

Morton, born in Wilmington in 1921, has been in the land development business in that area for years. He has also been a long-time promoter of Grandfather Mountain in the West, where he developed family-owned properties.

The possible candidate has served as president of the Wilmington Azalea Festival and as Chairman of the U.S.S. North Carolina Battleship Commission and served on the Board of Conservation and Development for 10 years under governors W. Kerr Scott, William B. Umstead and Luther H. Hodges.

Morton also served as North Carolina Chairman for the drive to raise funds for the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library in 1964 — a drive which raised more money for the library than any state except Massachusetts where the library will be located.

Morton, who contends he will not enter the race for the governorship "unless I am sure I have a good chance to win," noted, "20 years ago...when Gov. Scott appointed me to the first of my three terms on the Board of Conservation and Development, I was told I was selected because I represented both East and West and because I was also well regarded in the area in between."

"I believe that this is just as true today, because everything that I have done in the 20 years that have transpired since Gov. Scott first expressed confidence in me has been carried out with a statewide viewpoint."

Morton continued, "If I see I can be elected Governor, I will run, and I will devote a great deal of effort to producing the teamwork which will make all of our people participants in pulling together for a better state." Higher education, Morton noted, "...is getting most of the headlines right now, but if I were to pinpoint the most serious problem facing North Carolina today, I would say it is how can we properly preserve free public quality education at the elementary school and high school levels."

Pitt Legislators Win Victory For Medically Needy

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County representatives and senators from this district went to bat for the medically needy in nursing homes throughout the state this week and yesterday won an upset victory.

In what must have been record time, a committee substitute bill to appropriate funds to provide for special nursing care for persons who receive income of more than $115 and less than $225 became law. The substitute bill, the original of which had been introduced Monday by Sen. Vernon White of Pitt and Sen. Julian Allsbrook of Halifax and Rep. Sam D. Bundy and Rep. Horton Rountree, both of Pitt, was passed first by the Senate and then by the House of Representatives at 5:45 p.m. yesterday. The time element surpassed even its proponents' predictions that it would go through the House yesterday afternoon or last night and the Senate this morning.

The amount of $1,700,000 was appropriated from the General Fund to the Department of Social Services to be used to provide the State of North Carolina's matching portion for special nursing requirements. The counties will provide their matching shares, 15 percent of the balance not paid by federal funds, unless another bill to take this burden off the counties is enacted today.

Bundy and Rountree and White and Allsbrook's original bill had asked for $1,735,000 per year to pay for the entire difference in the cost of nursing home care and the amount received from Social Security benefits, etc. by each patient. However, the appropriations committee which met yesterday morning did set the upper income limit at $225 per month. It was recommended that the individual patients' counties pay the difference.

Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Home Administrator Mayo Allen said that only one person in his nursing home would now be ineligible because of the $225 ceiling. This man, a 28-year-old victim of muscular dystrophy, has a veteran's pension of over $300, but has no family capable of helping him financially. According to the General Assembly recommendations, Greene County would be asked to pay the remainder of his bill.

House Votes Kill Retirement Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — The House today voted 80-17 to give final approval to a bill repealing the entire legislative retirement system, but the measure's fate was uncertain as it headed for the Senate.

Supporters of the bill, introduced by Rep. John Ingram, D-Randolph, said they would try to keep the bill out of the hostile Senate Calendar committee and get it on the floor for immediate consideration. The Calendar committee Tuesday killed a similar bill by Sen. Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, D-Guilford.

Bowles said that if Ingram's bill passed the House he would "fight with everything I can" to get it through.

At stake is an amended retirement plan that would pay retired legislators $25 a month, at age 65, for each term served. To qualify, they must have served four terms and contributed 5 per cent of their legislative salaries.

The amendment also extended the pension to former legislators, many of whom earned only $600 a term and could qualify by contributing $120. In exchange, they'd get a minimum of $100 per month for life.

Current legislators receive $2,400 a term.

There was doubt on when the expanded program could take effect. The House Monday night killed a $40,000 appropriations bill that would have funded the expanded program.

The House gave tentative approval 65-36 Tuesday to Ingram's bill repealing the entire program. Ingram introduced the bill on the opening day of the 1971 session, but it remained in committee with an unfavorable report until the House voted Monday night to resurrect it.

A similar fate struck Bowles' bills. One was watered down by a committee substitute and another received an unfavorable report in a committee he heads.

"You look around and you can see why they've kept it bottled up," Bowles said, glancing hurriedly around the Senate.

"If we could ever get it to a roll call vote, I'm certain repeal would be approved. But they're all hedging."

Bowing Out?

RALEIGH (AP) — The chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Party, Eugene Simmons, is expected to officially resign his party job at a news conference Thursday, according to the Greensboro Daily News.

Simmons is a tobacco auctioneer from Tarboro who doubles as seating clerk in the North Carolina Senate. He was busy with those Senate duties today and was not available for comment.

The Daily News said it learned of Simmons' plans to resign from his close associates. The newspaper said the resignation would come "immediately" and most likely at the Thursday afternoon news conference.

Simmons is in line for a choice appointment to any one of several top government positions on the state cabinet level, the Daily News said.

ARVN Troops Push New Cambodia Operation To Curb Red Infiltration

SAIGON (AP) — With support from U.S. helicopter gunships and B52 bombers, 10,000-man South Vietnamese troops pushed a new operation in Eastern Cambodia today designed to prevent the North Vietnamese from disrupting the National Assembly elections in South Vietnam next month.

The task force encountered no immediate resistance. B52 bombing raids preceded the drive.

The commander of the operation, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, said he hoped to smash the North Vietnamese 7th Division, numbering about 4,000 men, which has long operated across the border from South Vietnam's Tay Ninh Province.

"Our mission is to cut off North Vietnamese infiltration into South Vietnam, to prevent the enemy from sabotaging the elections," said Minh. "We must provide security for the election campaign."

The legislative elections are scheduled Aug. 29 and the presidential election Oct. 3.

Minh said his forces are operating about 20 miles inside Cambodia and 10 miles north of Highway 7, between the towns of Krek and Mimot and northward.

Minh said the 10,000 troops involved in the operation were already positioned at bases inside Cambodia, but he sent in a

Kill Bottle Tax

RALEIGH (AP) — A Senate committee today killed legislation that would have imposed a 10-cent per bottle tax on liquor to fund state takeover of county Medicaid costs.

The Senate Calendar Committee postponed indefinitely any action on the bill passed by the House Tuesday. Committee members said they took the action because the measure, which evied a new tax, required Senate action on two separate days. The measure 200-vehicle armored column to reinforce them.

Associated Press Correspondent George Esper reported from the front that Minh also was saturating the area with fire from 66 artillery pieces, including 105mm and 155mm guns.

It is the largest operation launched by Minh since he took command last February of the 3rd Military Region, the 11 provinces around Saigon. He had been criticized recently for allowing the North Vietnamese to push his troops into a defensive posture along Highway 7.

Minh called off a 3,000-man operation in the Parrot's Beak sector of Cambodia—60 miles southwest of the new operational area—earlier this month after it encountered virtually no enemy resistance. He pulled most of the troops out, leaving 500 men at a new fire base south of Highway 1. The battlefield lull persisted in South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command said B52 bombers flew four missions in northernmost Quang Tri and Thua Thien provinces. But there were no reports of fresh enemy activity in that region following three shelling attacks Tuesday against South Vietnamese fire bases guarding the demilitarized zone.

Military sources in Laos reported that government troops had found about 890 tons of enemy supplies in the Plain of Jars. The caches included 763 tons of rice, and the informants estimated it would take the North Vietnamese a month to replace their loss when the rainy season ends in November.

Final Checkups For Space Crew

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts receive their final major physical examination today as police and civic officials prepare to handle the crush of more than one million visitors expected for Monday's moon launching.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden planned several hours with space agency doctors, who will determine their fitness for flight and gather medical data for in-flight and post-flight comparison.

Exams on June 25 and July 12 found all three astronauts in excellent health.

Since July 6, they have been in medical isolation, which restricts them generally to three areas of the Kennedy Space Center—their crew quarters, the training building and the launch pad.

Only 102 persons here are authorized to work directly with them. All, including the astronauts, were immunized against nine common diseases.

The preflight isolation was instituted after exposure to measles forced a switch of one crew man the day before the Apollo 13 launch last year.

Following the physicals, Scott, Irwin and Worden planned to practice abort procedures in spacecraft simulators.

Meanwhile, the vanguard of a hoard of rocket watchers—mainly newsmen and tourists—is pouring into the Cape Kennedy area. More than 2,000 newsmen are expected to cover the start of man's fourth moonlanding expedition.

The Florida Highway Patrol estimated that 1.2 million persons would jam highways and vantage points along the beaches Monday. The largest crowd for any launch was the approximately one million who witnessed the liftoff of Apollo 11, the first moon-landing journey, two years ago.

Florida Highway Safety Director Ralph Davis said 20 troopers are coming from elsewhere in the state to aid the 24 who normally patrol Brevard County roads.

Pitt County's Kindergarten and Early Childhood Center is to be located at Grifton School, County School Superintendent Arthur Alford announced today.

Alford said the State Department of Public Instruction in Raleigh approved the establishment of 35 new kindergarten and early childhood centers throughout the state, and that Pitt County was one of the 35 named.

Under the state sponsored arrangement, funds will be provided for the employment of two kindergarten teachers, two teacher aides materials and supplies, funds for staff and curriculum development and for transportation. Budget for the Grifton center is $31,750.

The superintendent noted also that ESEA Title I funds is providing for one kindergarten teacher in each of the 11 county schools, which means that Grifton will have a full program with three teachers and three teacher aides while each of the other elementary schools will have one kindergarten teacher and teacher aide.

Alford noted that ESEA Title I funds also provide for transportation for the kindergarten teachers.

The Grifton program will accommodate a total of 69 kindergarten pupils — 23 for each teacher and teacher aide. The kindergarten programs in other schools will be limited to 23 pupils.

Alford commented that Nelson Baldree, principal of Grifton School, kindergarten teachers Mrs. Nannelle Congleton, Mrs. Dottie Oakley and the Title I teacher, Mrs. Jackie Parks, along with teacher aides, are now in a five week training program at the Regional Kindergarten Center at Chocowinity.

Teens Feel Hot Pants Are 'In' "Betty Boop" Is A Minister These Days

By MARGARET STEVENS
"But if you bend over, too much shows," exclaims Kathryn Rowlett, referring to hot pants, the fashion fad this summer. Along with halter tops, tank shirts, midriff blouses, peasant dresses, and cut-off jeans, hot pants are "what's happening" for Greenville teens during the warm months. Knee-length shorts now seem to be definitely "out" for casual wear. In commenting on the fads, Sherry Pinkston said, "people in bermudas look funny. But I don't think hot pants are for mothers with teenage daughters." Susie Still thinks hot pants are best suited for those between the ages of 15 and 25. Though she agrees that 25 may be a good age limit, Jan Kleinert explains that a good figure should be the main requirement for hot pants wearers.

With the possible exception of peasant-look outfits, some girls feel that dresses are seldom suitable except for Sundays and special occasions.

"I never put on a dress except to wear to church," says Nancy Cleetwood. "I even wear pant suits to church and on other dressy occasions with my parents' permission."

Susie Still usually wears dresses on dates. According to another Greenville teenager, "boys love hot pants as long as they aren't on their own dates. That's different."

"I like hot pants and I like wearing them, but I think too much emphasis has been put on the words 'hot pants'," says Val Hooper. "My father doesn't object if I wear them unless I tell him I'm wearing hot pants. He hates the words."

Val usually wears one-piece jumpsuits. "I wear dresses to work, but on dates I like to wear casual clothes that don't look casual, such as a dress over hot pants."

Footwear Fad
"As for footwear," Val remarks, "I like either flat or slight-heeled sandals for dates or casual wear."

Marilyn Stevenson prefers Hercules sandals that strap around the leg. "I like summer boots, too," Marilyn adds. "They have holes all the way up the boot."

Marilyn prefers half tops, choker tops and close-fitting body blouses for sporty wear.

"I've been wearing long dresses and long skirts with midriff tops this summer," remarks Josie Rawl. "It has been a long time since I put a

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Although Ann Rothschild quit being the voice of a famous animated cartoon character to go into the ministry more than 25 years ago, she's still perfect at doing the high, childish voice most people quickly recognize as "Betty Boop."

Mrs. Rothschild did the "Betty Boop" voice and made personal appearances as Betty Boop from 1933 to 1945. Before that, she was in vaudeville as "Miss Little Ann Little."

Now the 4-foot-11-inch tall short dress on. Josie commented that most bathing suits this year are "skimpy bikinis."

"I like hot pants because they are cool and comfortable and don't get in the way," remarks Myra Cox. She believes that hot pants will stay around for awhile.

Though some Greenville teens think hot pants are just another passing fad, Mamie May sums up the feeling of many.

"Hot pants are in and here to stay!" she exclaims.

Mrs. Rothschild lives in a condominium development and loves it, "because the people are my age, and they knew me and want me to sing at all the parties."

She said as "Betty Boop" she made about 18 cartoons a year and traveled throughout the country making personal appearances, in which she tap danced, sang and did comedy sketches.

Mrs. Rothschild has a collection of publicity photographs from her "Betty Boop" days.

She admitted "Betty Boop" was the only cartoon voice she could do because, although she tried to change her voice, it was so distinctive, producers told her it would have been recognized.

Mrs. Rothschild left show business in 1946 to study for the ministry and later was ordained a Christian Unity minister.

She said she quit the entertainment field also because her husband retired and they moved to Florida.

But in 1948 her first husband died. She decided to set up the "Betty Boop School of Dancing" in St. Petersburg to teach dancing, singing and elocution. Her most famous pupil was actress Carroll Baker, whom she taught for three years. Then, in 1951, she closed her school and came to Fort Myers to set up a Christian Unity Church.

She maintains show business and the ministry are the same thing. "In show business you try to lift people up so they can forget their problems, and it's the same in religion. You try to lift their minds off their problems and put it on God."

For A Song, She Purchased Rug

SHOREHAM, England (WNS) — Leonard Shipton attracted female crowds to his furniture store when he displayed a rug in the show window and advertised its price as "$3 or three choruses of 'Singing in the Rain.'" There was singing with wrong lyrics all morning until Eva Hermans, 45, got the words right and won the 9-foot-square carpet. "It's pleasant to hear women sing, and 'Singing in the Rain' is my favorite old melody," explained Shipton.

Mrs. Latting Is Elected Mayor Of Oklahoma City

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — The council chamber was jammed as the mayor-elect recited the oath of office, strands of greying hair reflecting in the glare of television lights.

The judge finished intoning the official vows, then kissed the cheek of the city's new chief executive.

With that, her honor, Mayor Patience Sewell Latting, announced, "The mayor of Oklahoma City has just been kissed by a judge," and her town became the largest in the nation with a lady at the helm.

But becoming mayor was Mrs. Latting's second "first" in her brief political career. She had become the first Oklahoma City councilwoman in 1967. And as the city's first woman mayor, she also became the only female mayor of a city in the United States with a population of more than 200,000.

During her four-year city council term Councilwoman Latting often was at loggerheads with other local officials. She fought the city administration for stricter enforcement of the city housing and building codes and she encouraged the participation of blacks in the municipal government.

The road to Mrs. Latting's own political participation began in 1919, with her birth in Texhoma, Okla. In 1927, the family moved to Oklahoma City when her father was elected to the Oklahoma House of Representatives. Patience Latting then was a graduate of the University of Oklahoma with a bachelor's degree in mathematics and membership in Phi Beta Kappa. A year later she received her master's degree in statistics and mathematics from Columbia University in New York.

After working a year in New York, she returned to Oklahoma and married Trimble B. Latting. The couple had four children.

Mrs. Latting did not, however, devote her life exclusively to household chores. A federal court appointed her to apply mathematical tests to a plan for fair legislative reapportionment for Oklahoma in 1964. She also served as a legislative chairman of the state Parent-Teacher Association, was a board member of the Oklahoma Institute for Justice and was also a board member of the Oklahoma City League of Women Voters.

Her rise in city government was swift. In February, she announced for the mayor's office and she survived the primary to meet Councilman Bill Bishop in a run-off. Her platform had five main planks: competitive bidding on all city projects, strict enforcement of the fire and building codes, legislative prohibiting conflict of interest with the city boards and its trusts, open meetings of city boards and commissions and the distribution of city architectural and engineering contracts over a greater number of qualified firms.

She won by 32,000 to 22,000 and her opponent said, "Running against a woman is the most impossible thing I've ever had to do."

Mayor Latting has definite ideas about other problems in the political arena too. She favors revenue sharing, saying, "It gives local officials the opportunity to make funding decisions on the basis of local needs."

She is against strikes by municipal employees and does not favor collective bargaining by city workers. "If at all possible, we try to handle problems so as to avoid strikes or collective bargaining," she said.

To overcome racial friction, she says, "We will have to work to maintain a spirit of community." She wants to improve the quality of life in Oklahoma City by working to prevent "undue pollution" and by developing parks and "green areas."

The city pays Mayor Latting $2,000 a year for her work. The city manager, who shoulders most of the municipal work load, gets $29,000.

Of her political future, Mayor Latting says, "I'm keeping my mind on this matter. I have four years to serve as mayor. I haven't considered any other office."

Mrs. Latting couldn't become the first congresswoman from Oklahoma. There already has been one.

But there have been no lady senators or governors.

Bride Selects Hot Pants Outfit

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is being married soon. She will have a formal church wedding followed by a reception. Toward the end of the reception she plans to change into her going away clothes, for which she has selected a HotPants outfit. Abby, I have nothing against HotPants, but don't you think she could have selected something a little more appropriate?

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Possibly not.

DEAR ABBY: That anecdote you printed about the hippie couple taking advantage of government services and then protesting the establishment made a good point, but was somewhat inaccurate. I hope you give equal time to the other side.

In 10 weeks I'll receive a Master of Science degree, and I never could have made it without free clinics, government loans, a grant, and food stamps. I am grateful to the government for these services but cannot condone all the government does. That same government allows the right to free speech, assembly, and the right to dress the way I choose. Some people think anyone who wears Indian love beads and sandals is against the country. It just isn't so!

The youth movement has a violent minority [who, of course, are the ones we hear about on the news] that I can't agree with, just as the establishment has some narrow-minded citizens who would like to see all long-haired, bearded youths in jail or worse.

The real issues at stake involve so much more. [I've never seen a demonstration against the establishment; but lots for peace, women's rights, ecology.]

If only the young could benefit from the mistakes of their elders, and the old could listen to the fresh ideas of the young! How can we ever work together for peace, the environment, etc., when people like you pit one side against the other by printing that story?

"UNDER 25" IN LOMA LINDA

DEAR "UNDER 25": It is not my intention to "pit" one side against the other, but the same freedom of speech which made it possible for "Over 30" to be heard, now makes it possible for you to be heard. Fair enough?

DEAR ABBY: Thank you from the bottom of my heart for recommending "A Doctor Speaks Out on Sexual Expression in Marriage" by Donald W. Hastings. Only by the grace of God did my wife and I manage to remain faithful to each other for 30 years. Our most intimate moments were marred because of my extreme insensitivity, and my beloved wife's shyness. In short, we were both extremely ignorant about sexual expression in marriage. Thanks to this excellent little book, we are finding life more beautiful every day.

Women's Lib Leads According To Report

EAST BERLIN (WNS) — The Democratic German Report, a Communist newsletter, insists that East Germany beats the west in Women's Liberation. The publication points out that in some cases an East German woman can be responsible for the maintenance of her divorced husband. Half of the nation's laborers are women, and 1,300 ladies head important industrial firms. Boys and girls in school take the same subjects, even when the subjects are dressmaking and metal work. The newsletter also mentions that in East Germany, God is not even admitted to be a man.

Lisa Williams, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Williams of Fayetteville, is recuperating at her home, 5220 Chesapeake Rd., after having surgery in Chapel Hill.

Style Of Sunglasses Should Match Face

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It sometimes is difficult to separate the sunglasses from the girl, and the image that emerges can look more like a koala-bear. Or if she isn't wearing those over-sized eye frames that give a little face a lost little-bear look, she may be wearing frames that give her the look of a startled fawn.

Sunglasses are a definite part of the fashion picture. But there is a vast difference between the effect of fad glasses that are worn for fun and sun glasses that are selected as an accessory to enhance a fashion wardrobe.

The trend is to darker tinted lenses including brown, grey, dark blue. And there are glasses that flatter the sports-minded. Chic boating-blue lenses in gold-finished thin wire frames seem to provide a just-right accessory to the sailing whites of the boating crowd. And for the girl who follows the Grand Prix there are big silvery frames with pierced metal racing temples, a unisex item.

Although a great many maxi sunglasses are available to provide the bug-eyed look, the trend is toward smaller circles, ovals and the geometrics—hexagonals, octagonals, rectangles and squares.

The style of frames may have a lot to do with facial contours. If you want to choose the proper style glasses for your particular look, decide whether your face is oval, square, heart-shaped, a diamond triangle or long and narrow. For example, a round-faced girl wearing round frames isn't giving herself a beauty break. One should match one's face to the most flattering frame shape and then decide on lens color and frames.

Here is a handy guide to making the choice:

Long, narrow face: Pick rectangular or oval shapes to span your face horizontally. The idea is to give the illusion of width.

Oval: The ideal face preferred by artists and photographers because of its naturally good proportions. She can wear any shape. If eyes, nose mouth are less than perfect, she can get an assist from lens sizes—large lenses tend to minimize large noses and mouths: medium to small lenses make the eyes look larger.

Square: Round-shaped lenses soften the angles.

Round: Squarish or geometric shapes help reduce fullness.

Diamond-triangle face: Flat tops are particularly suitable, but you might select sunglasses that are wider on top than on the bottom.

Preacher's Son Has Advantage

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Childhood as a preacher's son is good preparation for politics.

You learn to prove yourself. Always being suspected of the worst, you become adept at defending your record before your peers and critical adults of the congregation. Life teaches you early to make the best of misfortune, real or imagined.

A Methodist minister's boy has particular advantages. Moving every four years gives exposure to enough people to elect you to office, provided they remember you favorably.

That background is one of the assets for Senator B. Everett Jordan as he runs for a third six-year term.

Only one; he also has significant seniority in the U.S. Senate, excellent standing in the Tar Heel business and industrial fraternity as a successful textile executive, and wide family connections including Governor Bob Scott as a distant cousin.

In addition, Jordan has the edge of incumbency over those who aspire to his office. While they spend time making up their minds whether to run in next spring's Democratic primary, he's hustling.

Fit and Frisky

Moving frisky, talking folksy, looking fit and every inch energetic office-holder and campaigning politician, Senator Jordan came before the Raleigh Kiwanis Club last week. It was one of the routine civic club appearances on every elected official's calendar, but Jordan's manner and the themes he struck invested the occasion with portents of the campaign to come.

Getting out of Vietnam took precedence in Jordan's listing of problems bothering the American people. "They want out of this war, and they want out bad," he asserted. Drugs, pollution, rampant crime, welfare reform were among issues touched on by the Senator from a moderate-conservative point of view comfortable to his middle-class, business and professional listeners.

Jordan looked ready for a race, and he said he was.

"Of course, I'd rather run unopposed but I've had opposition every time before," he remarked.

"It's a free country. If anybody wants to run, he certainly can."

Morgan Looks Elsewhere

One who may not after months of speculation that he might be Attorney General Robert Morgan. Reports in political circles last week said Morgan now is concentrating his interest on the Governor's office in next year's elections.

Undoubtedly, Morgan could have mounted a stiff challenge and the Senator and friends may well breathe easier to have his attention elsewhere.

Still, the track is not clear and may well be crowded by next May's primary. Congressman Nick Galifianakis, whose Fourth District was severely altered by the legislature, is pondering the race. State Senator Herman Moore of Charlotte is doing the same. Other candidates are likely to come forward in the months ahead.

Jordan, whose 75th birthday comes in September, put to rest rumors he had been urged by some democratic leaders to retire rather than run again. "Nothing to it," he said. "I had a telephone call, saying some sort of delegation was coming to see me. I said I was running, and I never heard anything else from it."

The theory advanced was that Jordan, by reasons of age and health, would be vulnerable. A hard-fought Democratic primary for the seat, whoever the winner, could leave the party weak against the Republicans in the fall. Congressman James T. Broyhill of Lenoir is often mentioned as a prospective GOP contender though he has not clearly indicated whether he would give up a relatively safe seat as a Representative for the risk of running for Senate.

Candid On Health

Jordan demonstrated to the Raleigh Kiwanians the candor and humor with which he treats the issue of his personal health.

Reporting his support for a federal crash program of cancer research, he related his personal encounter with the disease. In the course of a check-up at Duke Hospital, he said, doctors discovered a growth on his intestines.

"It had done no damage. They chopped it out. Now both ends are all right," Jordan said. His audience applauded.

Certainly the schedule he sets belies both years and impairment to health. He came to Raleigh from Waynesville where he helped the mountain town celebrate its centennial. Since the July 4th holiday, he's ridden in two weekend wagon trains.

While years in age may hamper voter appeal, years in service is an enhancement. Since he went to the U.S. Senate in 1958 (named by former Governor Luther Hodges upon the death of W. Kerr Scott, father of the present Governor), Jordan has risen in ranks of seniority, prestige and influence. He's vice chairman of the Agriculture Committee, a sensitive post for North Carolina's farm economy and it's beleaguered tobacco crop. Farm voters won't like to give that up.

operations of the school and for a medical library had already been included in the 1971-73 budget.

The implementing bill, introduced by Rep. Horton Rountree and others in the House, moved quickly through the House last week. Monday it came up on the Senate calendar for final consideration.

Since the bill calls for initiating a curriculum for the ECU School of Medicine, an attempt was made by Sen. Herman Moore of Mecklenburg to amend the bill, specifying that the authority was only for a one year school.

The amendment was beaten down and as Sen. Jyles Coggins of Wake County said the matter was simply one of semantics. "We should not stifle the hopes of any institution," he declared.

So now ECU is on the way toward development of its first year of physician training with an appropriation of $1.4 million for planning and operations and $350,000 for adding to the medical library.

Representatives of UNC Medical School and ECU have conducted a study and concluded that a transfer arrangement is feasible. The law spells out that transfer to Chapel Hill will be guaranteed for the students who complete the one-year ECU program satisfactorily. This is expected to be approximately 20 to 30 students per year and the first class will be admitted at ECU in the fall of 1972. Many of these students will be coming back for the final year of clinical training to Pitt Memorial and other nearby hospitals. A $500,000 fund was established to enable UNC to establish such a program in the east.

North Carolina's universities have frequently been accused of squabbling over funds and programs to the point where they might not serve the best interest of the taxpayers. While this may have been exaggerated, here is a splendid opportunity for UNC-Chapel Hill and ECU to show all the people of North Carolina that cooperation is possible between our institutions of higher learning. This program can be made to work, if there is full cooperation all around. Most important, if it does what we think it can do, it can eventually mean that more physicians will find their way into practice in Eastern North Carolina, where the need is so critical.

Governorship Is Morgan Aim

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Attorney General Robert Morgan — still boyish looking at 44 — sat down in his black chair in the spacious office in the Justice Building, draped one leg over the arm rest, put his other foot in the chair and said: "To be honest with you, I'm giving more consideration to the issues that will come out in the Governor's race than I am to any other political campaign."

For all who have been guessing about Morgan's political plans for '72 — U.S. Senate, Governor, Attorney General — that's as close as they'll get to an official announcement for a few months to come.

But Morgan has made up his mind and he is running for Governor. The decision was made about two weeks ago.

The fact that Morgan is considered a tower of strength in Tar Heel politics is an amazing story. And his decision to run for Governor comes 18 months after he said: "I look out my window and see that Bob Scott has the worst job in Raleigh."

Morgan was raised on a farm in Harnett County outside of Lillington. His parents were of very modest means and while his farmer father voted for Democrats, he didn't dabble in politics.

Robert got off the farm and went to undergraduate school at UNC Chapel Hill and East Carolina. There was a hitch in the Navy and law school at Wake Forest.

While in his last year of law school, Gov. Kerr Scott appointed the Clerk of Court of Harnett County to a position on the Superior Court. A delegation went to see Morgan, asked him to take the Clerk's job and Morgan agreed. But Judge Clawson Williams was to make the appointment and he told Morgan: "I'm not appointing you because you'd never finish law school if I did."

The post came up in the March 1950 election and Morgan, at the age of 24, entered the race. He went to school at Wake Forest Monday through Friday and did his campaigning on weekends. He won the election and in addition to being Clerk, he was also judge of juvenile and probate courts.

"That job had more than anything to do with moulding my thinking," Morgan says. "The hardest thing I ever had to do in my life was order mental patients to jail and I had to do it every day. It was a picture that I've never gotten over and I'll never understand how we as a society can say that we can't afford to give these people proper care. It was in those days that I came in contact with the real needs of the people."

After serving one four-year term as Clerk of Court, Morgan ran for the State Senate in 1955. His opponent was a veteran politician who campaigned in a green Lincoln and printed up poster that read: "Don't Send A Plover Boy To Raleigh To Do A Man's Job."

Morgan won and had barely taken his seat in the Senate before he was in a running feud with the late John Umstead about the care of mental patients.

"I had committed mental patients to jail because there was no other place for them," Morgan said, "and I felt what Mr. Umstead was proposing didn't go far enough to correct the problem. Mr.

Strength For Today

WITHOUT CEASING

"And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name," said Jesus, "that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son. If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it" (John 14:12-14).

"Anything?" That's what the Good Book says. "Can I ask for a million dollars and get it?" That depends, of course, on whether you really need it or not. Will it make you a better person? Will it advance God's purpose in the world?

Of this you can be sure — God is more anxious to give us his good gifts than we are to receive them. "No" is sometimes a blessed answer to prayer. "Wait" is another merciful answer. But mostly the answers will be "Yes, and here is something you forgot to ask for."

God is a Father. If we know how to give good gifts to our children, how much more will God give his greatest of gifts to us.

More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. That has been said in the past, and it is as true today as it ever was. Jesus was a man of prayer. His great prayer the night before he was captured and sent to the cross was that this cup of suffering might pass from him. "Yet not my will but thine, be done" (Matthew 26:39; Luke 22:42). The answer was "No," but the world got a Saviour as the result of that divine decision.

Pray without ceasing (I Thessalonians 5:17).

Unauthorized To Leak

WASHINGTON — No one seems to be more distraught over the release of the Pentagon Papers than the famed Hawk columnist Joseph Wallstop.

When I visited Joe in his bunker underneath his house in Georgetown, Joe was frothing at the mouth.

"They were my papers," Joe cried. "The New York Times and Washington Post had no right to use them."

I look confused. "How could they be your papers, Joe? I thought they belonged to the Pentagon."

"I have had a deal with three administrations to get first crack at all top secret classified documents."

"Why you, Joe?"

"Because I am a friend of the Pentagon, because I believe in the war, because when they leak a document to me they know it will be printed the way they wrote it. Now everyone has access to top secret material. It's not fair."

"Are you trying to tell me, Joe, that the Pentagon Papers aren't the first classified documents that got into the papers?"

"You must be a fool," Joe replied contemptuously "every one of my columns is based on top secret information."

"The Administration's quarrel with the leaking of the Pentagon Papers is not with what was revealed in them, but who printed them."

"Joe, if I hear you right, the government has been leaking classified documents to friendly newspapermen for years."

I don't know how I can make it any clearer," Joe said in his usual irritated voice.

"Then what did The New York Times and Washington Post do that was so wrong?"

"They printed unauthorized leaks of classified documents. The leaks that I have printed have been authorized by the highest men in government. When they give me a top secret paper I know they want to see it in the papers. For one thing it shows them in a good light which is very important if you're a high government official. The Pentagon Papers show high officials in a bad light and that, my friend, no matter how you look at it, is treason."

"Maybe Daniel Ellsberg didn't know The New York Times and Washington Post were unauthorized to receive government secrets."

"He knew it all right," Joe said. "And if there was any question he should have checked with the Joint Chiefs of Staff. They have a top secret list of newspapermen who can have access to classified documents. I can assure you that no one from The New York Times or The Washington Post is on that list."

"I can understand why you're mad, Joe. But is there anything you can do about it?"

"I certainly can. Since the Pentagon Papers were printed I have received hundreds of top secret classified documents from sources I cannot reveal, proving the Pentagon Papers are wrong."

"But how does the reader know your top secret papers are more accurate than Ellsberg's top secret papers?"

"Because mine were leaked to me by responsible men who have no ax to grind except to prove the decisions they made were right," Joe said.

"That makes sense. Wouldn't the government be wise to list the newspaper- (Continued On Page 5)

Compete For Wayward Dollars

By ELMER ROESSNER

All around the world there are countries which, in return for fees, commissions and perhaps a bit of cumshaw to local politicians, will save enterprisers thousands or millions of dollars.

Liberia, Honduras and Panama will register foreign-owned ships, give them the right to sail the seven seas under their flags, and to take advantage of their beneficent conditions, including the payment of starvation wages.

And there are dozens of vest-pocket countries that, in exchange for modest fees, commissions to the local elite, and a few dollars scattered in a controlled pattern, will provide tax havens. Their clients run from gangsters with blood money to conservative and elegant corporations determined to avoid a variety of taxes.

Vision, the European magazine, reports that competition for wayward and dishonest dollars and other valuta is so great that there is great rivalry among these nations and they are increasingly adapting their laws to the needs of, shall we say? depositors.

Rating System

The current issue rates the various havens, noting that American firms tend to head to havens in Central Europe, while Europeans send their wealth to the Caribbean.

In a summary of tax havens, it reports: Switzerland: Still the favored spot, despite foreign-source income is subject to some tax.

Bermuda: Still a haven for the discriminating.

Panama: A favorite for those in a hurry to form specialized companies. Formalities take little time.

Assisi, Italy: An excellent short-term haven for specialists. A 1957 law suspended all taxes on turnover and consumption until 1972 to protect the city's "historical, monumental and artistic nature." Ah, what culture!

In Sterling Area

There are many havens in the sterling area:

British Virgin Islands: A 10-year tax holiday for hotels and pilot industries is in effect.

Cayman Islands: A new haven, especially for sterling holders, "a model of stability."

Channel Islands: Another

new haven where some outrageous promoters have recently been operating.

Bahamas: Another place for quick corporate formation, but made risky by the political instability and the activities of the "Bay Street Boys," who form businesses by putting up a plaque on Bay Street Nassau.

Curacao: Specializing in only one type of haven, for oil companies, with a low rate of taxation.

Aruba: Ditto.

Singapore: Working on new laws to make it the tax haven of the Far East.

Malta: Trying to get into the act. Last February it announced partial tax exemption on incomes of commercial banks and funds raised abroad.

Other areas trying to get into the act are Hong Kong, the New Hebrides, Surinam, French St. Martin and Dubai on the Persian Gulf.

"I don't think you have to go that far," Joe said.

Umstead did more than any man in this State's history to improve the care of mental patients and the two of us became very close friends."

Morgan went to the State Senate five times and in 1968 he challenged Attorney General Wade Bruton and won in a landslide.

As attorney general Morgan has championed consumers rights and has been in the news almost daily. His political star has been on the rise and many thought he would be in the race for the U.S. Senate next year.

But Morgan's thoughts have changed. He no longer thinks the Governor's office is a political dead end and like everyone else who is going to enter that race, he thinks he can win.

He will be labeled a sectional candidate, coming from the East as he does.

"I view that as no handicap," Morgan says. "No one can look at my record and accuse me of being regional in my outlook. My name was on the bill to make Charlotte College a four-year school. And it was on the bill to make Charlotte College a branch of the Consolidated University."

Looking ahead to the Governor's race, Morgan says he doesn't think the restructuring of higher education will be an issue.

"There's nothing basically wrong with higher education in this State," he says. "It is not in chaos as some have charged. We've done more for higher education in the last 15 years than we did in the preceeding 50 and when you move that fast, you're bound to have some controversy."

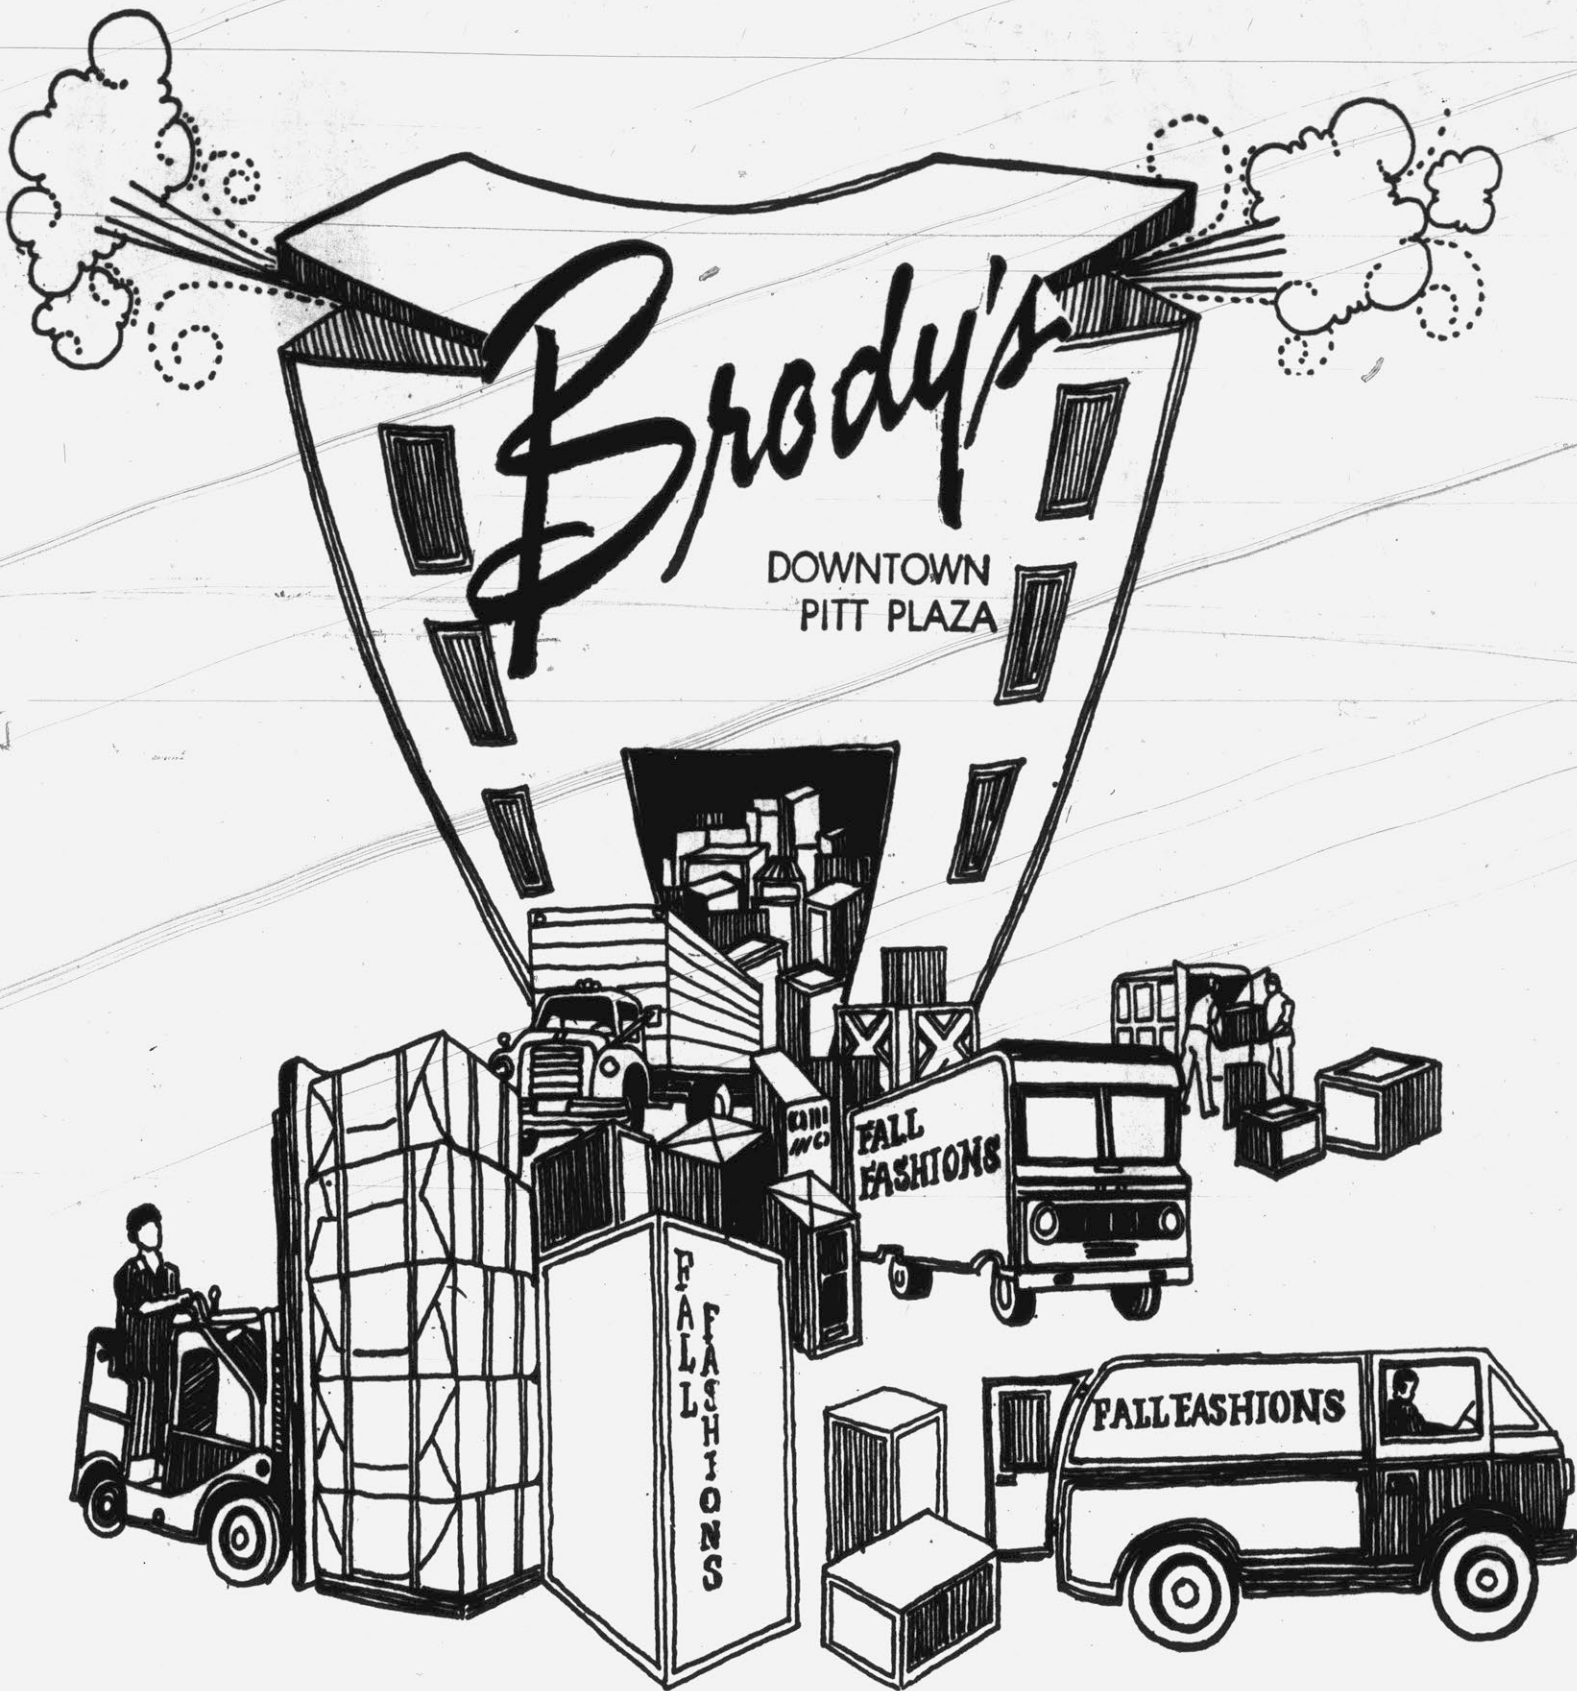

Morgan will hit hard in his campaign at helping the mentally ill and the mentally retarded. He also believes the State should do a better job at vocational rehabilitation. He will also push for better highways from small towns to large cities so people can work in an urban center without necessarily having to live there.

Some people say it will take $1.7 million to run for Governor next year.

"I don't have that kind of money," Morgan says. "If it takes that much to run I'll be left by the roadside. But I believe the people will be more interested in the man and what he stands for, rather than how professional his television commercials are."

Morgan smiles and says: "If I run, maybe it'll be the green Lincoln and the Plow Boy posters all over again. But I will discuss the issues and that will make it a better campaign."

Nixon And Wilbur Mills Appear At Breaking Point

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Relations appear at the breaking point between President Nixon and Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, who holds a big congressional club over top-priority administration legislation.
The tension over policy is having a side effect on efforts by some of Mills' colleagues to push him as a serious candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination. The Arkansas congressman no longer automatically brushes aside suggestions of his candidacy.

A long period of Nixon-Mills strain culminated Tuesday in a public put-down of Mills' role in arranging voluntary limitation of Italian shoe imports. It was delivered to newsmen by Nixon's international policy assistant, Peter G. Peterson.

A coldly furious Mills telephoned Peterson his opinion of that statement, then told newsmen: "It seems evident the White House is not interested in me cooperating."

As chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Mills presides over all trade legislation. Also in his jurisdiction is revenue sharing—and he has already pronounced Nixon's version of that proposal dead. An administration proposal for a national health plan will come before the committee later, along with alternatives.

In a more cordial atmosphere earlier this year, Mills steered House passage of a welfare-reform bill tailored largely to Nixon's specifications, and the White House lavished praise on him. But the program faces probable rewriting in the Senate—and Mills will lead the House contingent in the conference to determine the final shape of the bill.

Within the past few days, Mills challenged Nixon to reverse present policy and back wage-price guidelines as a condition for an economy-stimulating tax cut.

So the stage is amply furnished for a full-dress confrontation between the Republican President and one of Congress' most powerful Democrats.

The breakdown in communications between the White House and the Victorian Ways and Means conference room began with a falling-out over legislation sought by the administration to set import quotas on textiles. Mills used private contacts to arrange a voluntary limitation with the Japanese textile industry. The administration reacted with irritation and criticism of the limitation as inadequate. The spotlight now has shifted to shoe imports. Again, a voluntary agreement was reached, this time with Italy, and stories appeared crediting Mills for the feat. That produced Tuesday's blowoff.

Influx Of Reds In Mekong Delta

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence reports many small Communist military units may be slipping from Cambodia into the Mekong Delta region of South Vietnam, possibly in preparation for an upsurge in enemy attacks this fall.

Communist activity in the Delta and provinces around Saigon has been at a low level since U.S. and South Vietnamese troops invaded long-time enemy sanctuaries in neighboring Cambodia last year.

Major North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units were pushed deeper into Cambodia, and U.S.-allied forces claimed to have cut off chief sources of supply and reinforcement for Communist troops still operating in the Delta.

Intelligence specialists say they have learned from enemy deserters, prisoners and other sources that many company-sized and smaller Communist units have been crossing the Cambodian border and moving into the Delta, the rice-growing area where the VC once were in virtual control.

More than 2,200 enemy soldiers are estimated to have infiltrated in recent months into the U Minh Forest, long guerrilla stronghold in the Delta.

U.S. military analysts say the influx of enemy troops may represent an effort to replenish weakened Communist forces in southern South Vietnam.

But the analysts give considerable weight to the possibility the enemy is gearing up for offensive action against government positions and villages this fall when the rains end and the South Vietnamese prepare to vote in presidential elections the Communists would like to disrupt.

There no longer are any U.S. ground-combat units in the Delta and only a little more than a brigade of American Army fighters in the Saigon region.

On the political level the Viet Cong are reported working to strengthen their network of local cadremes in the region around Saigon and in the Delta.

Doctors Oppose Diet Pill Use

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The Mecklenburg County Medical Society adopted a resolution Tuesday night opposing the use of amphetamines for weight control.

It is believed one of the first medical groups in the country to take the step against the diet pills.

The action was taken on recommendation of Dr. George Barrett, chairman of the society's committee on drug abuse. He estimated that in Charlotte far more persons use amphetamines excessively than heroin.

He said a person can get hooked on amphetamines, which give a high when injected.

2 Accidents On Tuesday

An estimated $1,700 property damage resulted from two traffic mishaps investigated here yesterday around mid-day.

Officers reported an estimated $900 damage resulted to a car driven by Johnnie Nelson Hardy, 21, of Washington D.C. when the vehicle collided with a utility pole at the intersection of Tenth Street and Dickinson Avenue about 11:45 a.m.

Hardy was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety and with no operators license.

John H. Jones, 24, of Kingsport, Tenn., was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:30 p.m. mishap on Tenth Street, 200 feet East of the Dickinson Avenue intersection.

Officers reported the Jones car collided with a vehicle operated by Irene Venters Joyner of 2533 Memorial Drive. Damage was set at $500 to the Jones vehicle and $300 to the Joyner car.

No injuries were reported in the collisions.

Gary Powers Still Flying

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Francis Gary Powers, the American U2 spy plane pilot shot down over the Soviet Union in 1960, has a new job—a skywatch traffic reporter observing freeway congestion from a single-engine plane for a radio station.

"Well, I'm used to flying planes at a higher altitude and I didn't see much traffic on the ground," he said Tuesday. "But this is a lot more fun."

Powers, 41, was hired this week by station KGIL as a vacation replacement pilot, flying a Cessna over the Los Angeles freeway system and radioing live reports on the traffic conditions.

Powers was laid off last year as a research pilot for Lockheed Aircraft, manufacturer of the U2. Captured and imprisoned by the Soviet Union after parachuting from his spy plane, Powers was released in 1962 in exchange for Rudolf Abel, convicted in the United States of spying for the Russians.

He co-authored a book, "Operation Overflight," about his experience.

Postal Union Leaders Accept, Sign Contract

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal Union leaders have signed their first agreement with the new U.S. Postal Service, a $1-billion contract carrying more than $1,700 in pay increases for the average employee over the next two years.

Meanwhile, the United Steelworkers of America ordered locals to conduct strike-authorizations. The first to do so, Local 2633 in Johnstown, Pa., approved a walkout. The union has told the nine major producers it will not extend the present contract beyond the 12:01 a.m. Aug. 1 expiration date.

Railroad and United Transportation Union negotiators kept at their bargaining trying to end a dispute largely over work rules. The UTU strike against the Southern and Union Pacific roads went into a sixth day, and a strike deadline still stands Saturday for nine other railroads.

Bell system telephone workers came back to work as they moved into the long mail ratification process. In New York, 26 local leaders voted not to return, having voiced dissatisfaction with vacation and pension provisions of the tentative agreement. In Phoenix, Ariz., more than 1,000 members of Local 8519 said they would stay off the job until the contract is ratified.

Asst. Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr., mediator in the six months of postal bargaining, said leaders of the seven unions, representing 650,000 employees, got job protection—no layoffs—in exchange for the management option to implement any technological improvements to make the Postal Service more efficient.

The $1,700 wage improvement breaks down to a $300 lump payment for all employees with more than six months on the job, five raises of $250 each over the next two years, and a cost-of-living clause, providing increases up to $160 a year.

Publications Given Library

A gift of geological books and bulletins has been presented to East Carolina University's Joyner Library by H. V. Donahoe, vice president of Texas Gulf Sulfur Co., Raleigh. The donation includes American Association of Petroleum Geologists bulletins and bulletins of Economic Geology as well as other publications.

According to Dr. A. Ray Jennings, chairman of the department of geology at ECU, the publications will provide valuable research and reference materials for geology students and faculty.

Sell $100 Million In Power Bonds

NEW YORK (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority has sold an additional $100 million in power bonds, increasing its bond sales since 1960 to $775 million.

A nationwide underwriting group bought the latest issue Tuesday, at an interest rate of 7.31 per cent.

TVA plans to use the funds in financing its electric power program.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Arab chorus of outrage at Jordan's suppression of the Palestine guerrillas mounted today, but King Hussein appeared to have eliminated, for the time being at least, the commandos' threat to his throne.

Egypt endorsed Libya's call for an Arab summit meeting to support the guerrillas. Cairo announced that President Anwar Sadat was sending a personal envoy, Hassan Sabry el Kholi, to Damascus with Foreign Minister Omar Sakkaf of Saudi Arabia to confer with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Syria, which for the past week had been trying to mediate between the guerrillas and Hussein's army, charged the Jordanians with shelling Syrian border posts. Radio Damascus said Syria would "take whatever measures are needed to support the Palestinian commando movement."

Iraq, which closed its border with Jordan early this week and ordered its ambassador home from Amman, asked Hussein to withdraw his ambassador from Baghdad.

Kuwait and Lebanon welcomed Libya's call for an Arab summit, as did guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat, directing what looked like his forces' last stand in Jordan from the Syrian border town of Deraa. The guerrilla radio in Baghdad said much more than a summit conference was needed.

"You must close the borders, ports and airports to Jordan," it told Libyan strongman Muammar Kaddafi. "You must act immediately to close Jordanian embassies and interests in the capitals."

Saudi Arabia was an exception to the angry outcries.

Eckerd's Drug Store

Amman Radio said the oil kingdom had paid the Jordanian government $9.6 million Tuesday as an installment on the annual subsidy King Faisal has made to Jordan since the 1967 Middle East war.

All sizable guerrilla resistance inside Jordan appeared over Israel's near the Israeli-Jordanian border told of seeing Jordanian troops chase a band of guerrillas along the Jordan valley Tuesday and kill six of them. But no other fighting was reported.

Hussein's government reacted to the mounting criticism by declaring that two agreements regulating relations between the Jordanian army and the guerrillas were still valid. Jordan had renounced them two days earlier.

The agreements, reached after the army's first crackdown on the commandos last September, set forth terms of coexistence so that the guerrillas could continue to operate against Israel from bases in Jordan.

The President was accompanied on the surprise visit by his wife and their younger daughter, Julie Eisenhower.

Correction

In the last paragraph of the story on the Monday meeting of the City School Board, the statement by Dr. James Bearden should have read "I think it should be designed for the drop-out, for the people the door has been closed on to public high school."

The statement is in reference to Dr. Bearden's opposition to the draft position statement of an agreement between Rose High School and Pitt Technical Institute.

Hussein's government reacted to the mounting criticism by declaring that two agreements regulating relations between the Jordanian army and the guerrillas were still valid. Jordan had renounced them two days earlier.

Earns Scholarship For Roundtable Of Tar Heel Writers

RALEIGH — Greenville feature writer Mrs. Betty Casey has been awarded a scholarship to the Seventh Annual Tar Heel Writers Roundtable, for a two day meeting to be held in Raleigh on August 20-21.

Mrs. Casey's article about the 1970 Roundtable, which appeared in "The Daily Reflector" newspaper, won for her the scholarship that includes tuition and also makes her eligible to enter the 1971 writing contest sponsored annually by the Roundtable. She will be a guest at the Awards Luncheon.

Among speakers scheduled this year for the Tar Heel Writers Roundtable are John Foster West, novelist and teacher of creative writing; poet and novelist Helen Bevington; columnist Bugs Barringer; Matthew Hodgson, Director the University of North Carolina Press; Dwayne Walls, author of "The Chicken Bone Special"; fiction writer Shirley Cochrane; H.G. Jones, Director of the State Department of Archives and History; and Margaret McCauley Clayton, teacher of feature writing who has had over 750 articles published in the past 12 years.

Eva McKenna, wife of the late novelist Richard McKenna, will be the luncheon speaker and will talk on "How To Live With A Writer."

About 100 published and unpublished writers, book club members, librarians, teachers, students and others interested in writers and writing are expected to attend this year's annual Roundtable, according to information received from Bernadette Hoyle, director.

Individuals interested in attending the Roundtable should write to Bernadette Hoyle, Tar Heel Writers Roundtable, P.O. Box 5393, Raleigh, N.C. 27607.

Haiti-Hopping Can Be Exciting

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI)—Getting around in Haiti can be even more fun than getting there. Taxis and chauffeured cars are always available. So are "publiques" — jitneys that go anywhere in Port-au-Prince for less than 1 gourde (20 cents). Buses, which follow established routes, are colorful trucks with seats in the back. Then there are the camiones, known locally as "tap-taps" from the sound of venerable engines. They are brightly colored truck-buses for long hauls between the capital and the suburbs.

Opening lead: Six of ♣.
A virtuoso performance on defense by East led to a substantial swing for his side in defending against South's three no trump contract which was reached at both tables in a recent team of four contest.

The opening lead in both cases was the six of clubs. East played the ten and South won the trick with the queen — concealing the jack. A small diamond was led to the jack. East was in with the king and he returned the deuce of clubs. South played the seven and West won cheaply with the eight.

It was obvious to West that South had both the ace and jack of clubs left, because if East held the jack he would have returned it when he was in instead of the deuce. In the hope of hitting his partner's suit West chose to shift to the deuce of hearts. The ace was played from dummy and a diamond was led. East put up the ace, dropping his partner's ten and returned a heart.

South played the king of hearts and cashed out. In all, he took three diamonds and two tricks in each of the other suits to make three no trump.

At the other table, the play was the same for the first two tricks. When East was in with the king of diamonds, he paused to assess the situation. His partner's lead of the six of clubs clearly indicated that the latter had a maximum of five cards in the suit, inasmuch as the five of clubs was the only other lower spot not in clear view. Since South was marked with at least four clubs, it appeared more than likely that he held further protection in that suit.

In the hope of striking richer territory elsewhere, East shifted to the jack of hearts. South won the trick in dummy with the ace and played the six of diamonds. East, without a flicker, followed with the three. South remembered that West had followed to the first diamond with the eight, so that there were three possibilities existent. West might have begun with the doubleton king, the doubleton eight or a singleton. If he had both the king and ten, it didn't matter what card declarer played.

The correct play, if West has either a singleton or the lone king left—is to let the six of diamonds ride, and that is what South chose to do. Unfortunately for him, the six lost to the ten and West returned the queen of hearts to dislodge declarer's king. A third round of diamonds cleared the suit, but East was in and he proceeded to cash three hearts to set South down by two. The 200 point profit scored by East and West added to the 600 netted by their North-South teammates at the other table swelled the total swing to 800 on the deal.

Objectives Outlined By Cleetwood

Four objectives as part of a plan to create better school-community relations were named by Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, in a proposal he outlined for consideration by Board of Education members.

Stating that "efforts to restore confidence in the public schools are needed," Dr. Cleetwood said "it is our continual responsibility to inform the public of our goals, our needs and our problems."

As a first step in achieving this, Dr. Cleetwood listed four primary objectives.

—The developing of a school board policy manual, which would codify various policies now in effect but never codified.

—A commitment by the school board to continue use of a Citizens Advisory Committee, possibly a newly structured committee based on residential area representation.

—A published report to the people in May of each school year, one containing all facets of the year's operations — the achievements as well as the failures; and —A commitment to ultimately include a Director of Public Relations within the staff of the administration.

Dr. Cleetwood asked board members to give thought to his proposals and to consider discussing these and any proposals they as members might have at a future board meeting.

Scout Earns Eagle Badge

THOMAS STARK

WILMINGTON — Thomas Haywood Stark, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Stark of 311 Eastern Street, Greenville, and son of Rev. and Mrs. Rufus Stark of Wilmington, recently received the Eagle Rank Badge at a ceremony held at Camp Tuscarora near Goldsboro.

The Eagle Scout is serving as a member of the teaching staff at Camp Tuscarora this summer. He teaches Indian lore, archery, and cooking. He also helps on the waterfront as a life guard.

Health Vacation Has Been Reborn

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UPI) —The "health vacation" has been reborn. Increasing numbers of tourists are flocking here to drink the water and take the baths of America's only European-styled spa.

Hernando DeSoto is believed to be the first European to drink from the famous Mountain Valley mineral spring in 1541, according to records of his explorations. He found Cherokee, Ouachita and Osage Indians living at peace drinking the healthful waters. By common agreement, DeSoto and the Indians shared the spring.

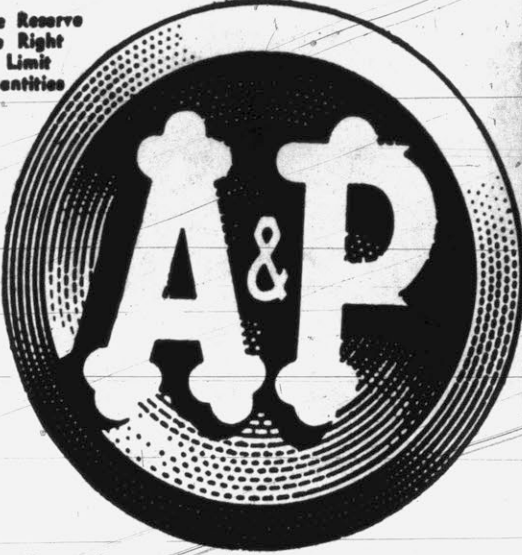

Life In Future To Be Depicted

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Creativity and electronic communications, developed by a pair of old pros, will depict the impact of living in the future at the Walt Disney World entertainment and recreation complex that will open here later this year.

The exhibit will feature a multi-media showing of how future advances in computers and other electronic communications, wired in by RCA technicians, will affect peoples' lives at and away from home in the years to come. The display will be housed in the Tomorrowland area of Disney World.

Morton . . .

(Continued from page 1) government orders on busing and other matters have contributed to the crisis, with some families feeling they must withdraw their children from the public schools. Needless to say, when pupils are withdrawn, a certain amount of support is withdrawn, and this can escalate to cause school bond issues not to pass, and teacher supplements not to pass, and parents to stay away from the PTA meetings.

"All of the level-headed people of our state — the poor and the rich, the Black and the White — all of us must work together to see that North Carolina's system of public education is nothing but the best."

In addition to Morton, other possible candidates being talked about for the 1972 race for the governors mansion include Attorney General (and chairman of the Board of Trustees of East Carolina University) Robert Morgan; Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor of Wadesboro; and State Sen. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles of Greensboro.

Morton indicated this morning that from his travels over the past few weeks, the real battle for governor may end up as a Morton-Morgan confrontation.

Probe Theft Of Materials At Project Site

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating the theft of some $3,000 worth of curbing material from a construction project in the Red Oak Subdivision.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Randolph Construction Co. of Kinston reported the theft of 50 pieces of curbing face forms from the area. The material was taken sometime during Monday night and reported around 9 a.m. Tuesday, he said.

The sheriff said that the department is also investigating the theft of three wheelbarrows, valued at $105, from Haddocks Chapel Church at Haddocks Crossroads.

The wheelbarrows, property of Pitt Technical Institute, were reported missing yesterday morning.

Soldier Beaten While Asleep

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — A Charlotte, N. C., soldier, assaulted in his sleep Monday night at the U. S. Disciplinary Barracks parole unit at Ft. Leavenworth, was in critical condition Tuesday.

Army officials identified the victim as Paul Frazier, 20. He was at the University of Kansas Medical Center, where doctors operated for a skull fracture and other injuries. The Army said no weapons or witnesses had been found to the incident.

Frazier was sentenced to the disciplinary barracks in November for two years after being convicted at Ft. Polk, La., of striking a superior officer.

Expansion . . .

Rountree said it was felt the renovation of Wahl-Coates for a Drama and Speech Building could be deferred at least two years. The representative said he regretted very much that renovation of Wahl-Coates would not be made at this time, "because it is needed, and a theater means a lot, not only to the university, but to the people of all eastern North Carolina. However, we feel we can get by and then come back to this."

Being able to put all the classrooms for the School of Art in one building, Rountree noted, was a very strong point. "This will relieve the pressure of the School of Art being scattered on other departments, as the School of Art is using classroom space in several buildings on campus." Rountree said the $700,000 in new funds plus the $1,310,000 from the deleted renovation funds meant that "construction can now proceed on the classroom portion of the new art building."

Border Belt Plans Set Opening Today

DECKED OUT — After long hours of work on the flight deck of the USS Enterprise, a weary sailor rests against the front landing wheel of one of the carriers fighter bombers. The Enterprise recently took up station in the Gulf of Tonkin and flies missions over South Vietnam and Laos. It is the fifth time on Yankee Station for the carrier. (AP Wirephoto)

WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Border Belt Warehouse Association planned to meet today to set an official opening date for the eight North Carolina tobacco markets of the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt.

The general pattern of opening date for all five flue-cured belts was pretty well set July 15 when Georgia Agriculture Commissioner Tommy Irvin announced markets in that state would open the auction season Tuesday, Aug. 3.

All belt and marketing areas are expected to get late starts because of the late opening in Georgia-Florida.

Meanwhile, the industrywide

Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee voted Tuesday at Raleigh to seek a way to provide additional sales time for the eight North Carolina markets of the Border Belt.

With adjustments for July crop forecasts, the committee approved a schedule which leaves each belt with the same proportionate share of selling time as was provided in a program approved last month.

However, more of the Border Belt area's time was moved up to the early weeks of the season.

Buyers do not become available for sales in eastern North Carolina until Georgia auctions have been virtually completed. Similarly, the North Carolina Middle Belt and the North Carolina-Virginia Old Belt must await buyers from South Carolina and the Border before their seasons open.

Elmer Burt, a grower from Fuquay-Varina, charged that the schedule adopted by the committee "does little to alleviate the problems of farmers" in the Eastern, Middle and Old belts.

W.A. Allen, a grower from Farmville, agreed with Burt. He said markets to the south would be filled to capacity each day from opening day on. He added this would put a "tight squeeze" on farmers.

Frank Williamson of Darlington, S.C., said the committee should have acted on opening dates prior to independent action in Georgia.

Frank Pidcock III of Moultrie, Ga., said Georgia markets have usually sold over 30 million pounds of North Carolina tobacco year, but under the 1971 schedule the belt's sales of out-of-state leaf will be limited to about 18 million pounds.

He added the committee had given Georgia and Florida no policing power "to stop the flow of out-of-state tobacco into our area."

The committee originally attempted to limit weekly sales volume to 75 million pounds. The adjusted schedule provides for a volume in excess of 79 million pounds during several weeks of the season. Maximum scheduled volume is 85.4 million pounds during the first week of November, when is not likely that much leaf will be available to sell.

Tobacco Barn Fires Mount

Tobacco barn fires in Pitt County are beginning to mount daily in numbers as the harvest season moves into the peak weeks of activity.

Fire Marshall Bobby Joyner reports the following fires, most of them total losses at an estimated value of $2,000 per fire, for the period July 19 through the early hours of Wednesday, July 21.

July 19 — 4:15 p.m., loss of a barn on the R. M. Allbert farm at Renston. Winterville Fire Department responded. At 4:23 p.m., Bruce Tripp lost a barn near Pactolus. The Pactolus Fire Department answered the call. Also at 4:23 p.m., the Bethel Fire Department responded to a call for a barn fire on the Vance Bunting farm near Bethel.

Joyner noted the three fires, all shortly after 4:00 p.m. on the 19th occurred during a heavy thunderstorm.

At 9:33 p.m. the Bell Arthur

Fire Department answered an alarm for a barn fire on the Fred Harris farm. In this instance, the barn was saved. Damage to tobacco was estimated at $700.

July 20 — A barn fire on the James Brown farm, reported at 1:15 a.m. resulted in a total loss. Belvoir Fire Department went to the scene. Another total loss was a barn on the Henry Dixon farm, to which the Black Jack Fire Department responded.

July 21 — Two fires, one a barn fire on the Charles Harris farm have been reported for today. The alarm, received at 6:52 a.m. was answered by Staton-House Fire Department. The structure was saved, but the tobacco lost, with a loss estimated at $1,000. At 8:08 p.m., Staton House reported to the Joseph Stancill farm to fight a tractor fire. Estimated fire damage to the tractor was set at $100.

Raleigh Accepts Busing Terms

RALEIGH (AP) — The city school board Tuesday adopted without change a desegregation plan that will require busing of up to 11,300 pupils next fall to achieve a court-ordered racial balance in classrooms.

U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins Jr. approved the busing plan last week after discarding Raleigh's existing neighborhood assignment schedule.

Larkins ordered the school system to achieve a 70-30, white-to-black ratio in all schools.

Accept Wife In Degree Program

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Marianna Woodward of Charlottesville, Va., is the first woman to be accepted in the degree program at Davidson College.

The rising junior who is majoring in art qualifies for regular work at the Presbyterian-supported liberal arts college because her husband, Kesler Woodward of Aiken, S.C., is a student. The school's trustees voted this spring to accept wives of students and wives and daughters of faculty members as regular students.

Previously, women could only be special student.

Legion Wins First Series Game By 7-6

Greenville's American Legion team pushed across a run in the bottom half of the ninth inning here last night to nip Rocky Mount 7-6 and take the first game of a best-of-five series.

The local squad rallied for an eighth-inning run to tie the game, then put together two hits in the next frame to edge the visiting Post 58 team.

Greenville got on the scoreboard first with a single run in the third inning. Joe West doubled and Jimmy Bond followed with a walk. J. C. Daniels delivered a single to lead the sacks. When Bill Lee attempted a suicide squeeze, the bunt was missed but Stanley Cobb, running for West, dived under the tag and all runners were safe on the unusual triple steal.

The visitors came right back with three runs in the top of the fourth. Pete Thompson was hit by a pitch, Mike Ruffin walked and Randy Warrick got a double to score Thompson and Ruffin. Warrick moved to third on the throw in and scored as Greg Bunn's grounder was errored.

Greenville struck back in their half of the inning to push over four runs and regain the lead. Jimmy Paige led off with a bunt single. Timmy James walked and Jimmy Bond singled to load the bases. Byron Dickens then drove a triple to center to score the three runners ahead of him and the Greenville pitcher scored easily on Daniels' double to right.

Post 58 refused to play dead, however, and tied the score with two runs in the fifth inning. Earl Warren led off with a walk. Thompson followed with an infield hit and Ruffin singled to left to load the bases. Sonny Wooten singled to center to score Warren but Thompson was caught as Warrick grounded into a fielder's choice to leave the bases loaded. Bunn singled to left to score Ruffin but Wooten, who had crossed home plate on the play, was called out on an appeal for not tagging third base.

Rocky Mount added a run in Greenville's sixth. The Rockies scored on a single by Lee, ss, 5-0-10. Thompson, lf, 4-1-2-0. Ruffin, lb, 5-2-2-0. Wooten, 3b, 5-0-1-1. Warrick, ss, 5-1-1-2. Bunn, rf, 5-0-1-1. McCull, c, 3-1-2-0. Bell, p, 1-0-0-0. Cockrell, p, 1-0-0-0. Totals 35 7 13 6. Rockies 38 6 18 5. Greenville 35 7 13 6. Rockies 38 6 18 5. Greenville 35 7 13 6. Rockies 38 6 18 5.

the eighth to go ahead. Howard McCullough led off with a single and was sacrificed to second. Warren then got a single to drive in Warren with the go-ahead tally.

The locals fought back to tie the game in the bottom of the inning as Jimmy Bond homered over the left field wall. After the visiting squad failed to add to their total in the ninth, Greenville went to work to get the winning run. Jimmy Paige beat out an infield hit and James came through with a double to send in the run.

Dickens scattered ten hits and struck out nine to get the win. The left-hander also aided his own cause with the bat, getting two hits and driving in three runs.

The series is scheduled to continue tonight at Harrington Field with the third and fourth games set to be played in Rocky Mount Thursday and Friday nights. If a fifth game is necessary to decide the series, it will be played here Saturday night at Harrington.

Seven Alarm Clocks For Lee Trevino

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Lee Trevino comes into the Westchester Golf Classic armed with brimming confidence, an undiminished thirst for victory—and seven alarm clocks.

"I was on a late TV program the night before the first round last year, talking about my chances of winning," Trevino recalled today.

"And I slept right through my tee time the next day."

He was disqualified from the $250,000 event, the richest of the season on the pro golf tour.

"That was the most expensive hour's sleep I ever had," Trevino said. "I slept away a chance to win $50,000."

"Since then people have given me a bunch of alarm clocks, seven of 'em. I'll guarantee you I'll be there on time this year."

Trevino, unprecedented winner of the U.S., Canadian and British Open titles, and PGA champ Jack Nicklaus are the co-favorites in the 72 hole event that begins Thursday on the tight little Westchester Country Club course, a 6,700 yard, par 72 layout in suburban New York.

Heavy rains Monday postponed qualifying rounds until Tuesday, and only a handful of exempt players were able to get in a practice round.

Trevino hit balls on the practice range for about an hour, then went fishing.

Trevino, who has taken five titles and is the season's leading money winner with more than $196,000, has played in 13 consecutive tournaments but said he isn't tired.

Nicklaus, back from a week's rest, is the year's No. 2 money winner despite an abbreviated schedule and is anxious to meet Trevino's challenge to his role as the world's premier performer.

Arnold Palmer, out of action for two weeks, was scheduled to arrive today as the big prize lured most of the great names of the game.

The only top players missing are Billy Casper, South African Gary Player and England's Tony Jacklin.

The contenders include Australian Bruce Crampton, the defending champion and winner of last week's Western Open, and a pair of neophyte pros—Steve Melnyk and Lanny Wadkins, the current British and American amateur champions.

Both announced their change to a professional status last week, and will be playing in their first event as pros.

Set For Area II Tourney

The Greenville Little League All-Star team open play tomorrow in the Area II Tournament in Warrenton.

The North State All-Stars will open play at 3 p.m., facing the winner of today's Warren County-Roanoke Rapids game.

Then, at 5 p.m., the Tar Heel stars will meet the winner of today's Robersonville-Tarboro game.

The winners of Thursday's game play Friday at 5 p.m. for the area title.

Then, next week, the area winners will meet in Warsaw for the District IV title. The Area I and Area III winners meet Thursday, July 29 for the right to play the Area II winner on Friday, July 30.

The winner of the tournament will advance to the state tournament the next week.

First Christian, Piney Grove, Immanuel Win

Three more teams moved up last night in Church League Tournament play while two others were eliminated as they suffered their second loss.

Piney Grove eliminated Black Jack with an 18-5 thumping, Immanuel trimmed Mt. Pleasant, 10-4, and streaking First Christian handed First Presbyterian their second loss, nipping them 7-6.

In a 7:30 game, Piney Grove stayed alive in the losers bracket by scoring their runs in bunches. After getting two runs in the first on a single by Jimmy Evans, a double by Jimmy Mills, and a single by Jay Boswell, they came up with three more in the third to set the stage for two big innings.

Black Jack got a run in the fifth, another in the sixth and three in the seventh but Piney Grove, after adding a run in the fifth, exploded for five in the sixth and seven in the seventh to win going away.

Mt. Pleasant and Immanuel locked up in a tight game until the late innings. Immanuel got a run in the first to go ahead and, after Mt. Pleasant scored two in the second to go out in front, Immanuel added a run to tie the game. Mt. Pleasant then

Frazier Will Get A Share

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joe Frazier, the world heavyweight boxing champion, revealed Tuesday that he will get a percentage of television receipts of a fight next week involving Muhammad Ali, the man he beat for the right to call himself the undisputed titleholder.

Just two weeks ago Frazier's comment on the fight next Monday in Houston between Ali and Jimmy Ellis was:

"Wow, a man fighting his own sparring partner. That's rough."

Frazier was deriding the fact that Ellis, former World Boxing Association champ, once trained with Ali when Ali was heavyweight king.

But on Tuesday, Frazier participated in a special promotion of the fight. He answered the phone at his North Philadelphia gym. It was Ali. The two exchanged competitive remarks, with Ali's responses amplified on a loudspeaker for the benefit of the press.

Afterwards, Frazier, who said he favors Ellis in the fight, denied a sportswriter's suggestion that he was "shilling" for the promoters.

Frazier admitted that he will get a percentage of the receipts at two Philadelphia-area arenas where the fight is being broadcast on closed-circuit television. "I ain't no shill," he quickly added. "My people are promoting the fight here and I get a piece of everything they do. So I would like to see them do well."

Casper Joins

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Billy Casper has joined Lee Trevino, Arnold Palmer and other top professional golfers in the field for the $200,000 U.S. Professional Match Play Championship.

The Aug. 25-29 event will be over the Country Club of North Carolina course at Pinehurst. The top 64 touring pros will compete for the $35,000 first prize in the tournament.

Entrants must have either won a PGA event this year or be a point leader on the tour, such as Casper.

regained the lead in the third with another run.

Immanuel then put together five runs in the fifth inning and three in the sixth while limiting Mt. Pleasant to only a fourth inning marker to gain the win.

Over in American League play, First Christian scored early then held on as First Presbyterian rallied to within one run. First Christian scored two in the first and got five more in the third for what proved to be their winning total.

First Presbyterian, held in check for four innings, got on the board with four in the fifth inning and then pushed over two more in the seventh but the rally died there.

By winning, First Christian moves on to a game tomorrow night when they will meet the loser of tonight's St. James-Meadowbrook tilt. Mt. Pleasant takes on Piney Grove in the opening game.

Aaron 'Guesses' Right; Homer Wins For Atlanta

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

For two nights Hank Aaron couldn't figure out what was going on out on the mound. Then he made a calculated guess.

The result was an explosive home run, a two-run shot with one out in the ninth inning that broke up a duel between Atlanta's Ron Reed and Dave Roberts of the San Diego Padres and powered the Braves to a 3-1 triumph.

"I was guessing fast ball," said Hammerin' Hank of Roberts' offering that wound up beyond the left field fence and brought Chief Noc-A-Homa outa his teepee for a victory dance.

The round-tripper was No. 618 of his career—still a long way behind Babe Ruth's 714—and his 26th of the season, putting him five back of major league leader Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh.

In other National League action, Pittsburgh dumped San Francisco 11-7, Philadelphia breezed by St. Louis 5-1, Cincinnati smothered Los Angeles 7-1, Houston rallied to beat Montreal 4-3 in 10 innings and, in an afternoon game, the Chicago Cubs defeated the New York Mets 4-2.

In the American League, Boston edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4, the New York Yankees slipped by Minnesota 6-5, Kansas City belted Baltimore 7-1, Washington whipped Milwaukee 5-1, California blanked Detroit 2-0 and Oakland stopped Cleveland 6-2.

Aaron, recalling the ball he parked, said it "wasn't too high—but Roberts probably wanted to get it further out. He is a hell of a pitcher."

While Roberts' record slipped to 7-10, Reed's rose to 10-7. The big right-hander limited the Padres to just three hits—but one of them was Ollie Brown's fifth homer of the year that tied the game 2-2 in the seventh.

A pair of errors by San Francisco shortstop Chris Speier opened the way to five unearned Pittsburgh runs as the Giants blew an early 4-1 lead.

Stargell and Al Oliver each knocked out three hits and Bill Mazeroski, Vic Davalillo and Manny Sanguillen had two apiece for the Bucs, who maintained their 11½ game lead atop the National League East. Bob Veale was clobbered for five runs in four relief innings but still managed to pick up the victory, his fourth without a loss. It kept the Giants from widening their seven-game lead in the West.

Chris Short tossed a three-hitter and got more than enough support at the plate from Don Money, and rookie John Vukovich in the Phillies' victory. Money cracked two doubles and a single and scored twice and Vukovich collected three RBI against the Cards.

Johnny Bench, returning to Cincinnati's starting lineup as a catcher for the first time since July 7, when he was injured on a foul tip, drove in a pair of runs with a single and his 19th homer of the year.

But Tommy Helms was the clutch hitter against the Dodgers, cracking a three-run double that keyed the Reds' five-run seventh inning.

Still Stoneman had a one-hitter going for 8 2-3 innings against the Astros, who then erupted for three runs to tie the score before John Boccabella singled home the winning tally in the 10th inning to top the Expos.

The Cubs withstood solo home runs by Tommie Agee and Ed Kranepool of the Mets, got a double and two singles and a pair of RBI from Billy Williams and presented Ferguson Jenkins with his 15th triumph of the season.

Image Can't Be Worse: Ellis

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The way Jimmy Ellis sees it, his image as a fighter has got to improve because it can't get any worse.

"If I knock out Muhammad Ali, they'll probably say Joe Frazier took it all out of him." The former World Boxing Association champion said after a workout session. "The worst has already been written about me. It has to improve."

McGeachyHired By Duke U. To Coach Frosh

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke University has hired the freshman basketball coach at Davidson College as its freshman coach.

Neill McGeachy, 29, who has been on Terry Holland's staff at Davidson for two years, will replace Jack Schalow on Bucky Waters' staff.

At Davidson, McGeachy was a recruiter as well as a coach. In Durham he will be varsity assistant in addition to his freshman coaching duties.

McGeachy is a Statesville native who starred in basketball, football and track at Lenoir Rhyne. In basketball he was all-conference and his senior year he was a Little All-American football player.

Until going to Davidson McGeachy was the Statesville High School basketball coach for three years.

"There's got to be a time for Jimmy Ellis. And I'm going to be the better man on July 26."

Ellis, who meets Ali July 26 in the Astrodome in a 12-round fight that is taking on championship proportions, has fought a battle, outside the ring throughout his heavyweight career to establish his reputation as a champion.

Ellis weighed 186 when he finished Tuesday's workout, which included only two rounds of sparring. He hopes to weigh 191 by fight time.

Trainer Angelo Dundee pointed out that Ellis weighed 202 when he lost to Frazier, 198 in his next fight and 191 in his last fight against George Chuvalo. "You notice he's gone down progressively," Angelo said. "Don't think that weight means might."

Ali had to get on the scales twice Tuesday before he'd believe he had lost five pounds, down to 216. "That's a lot of weight," he said. "You go buy a pound of hamburger meat and hold it in your hand. That's a lot of meat."

Collegiate Golf Team Honored

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1971 All-America collegiate golf team, honored at a dinner Tuesday night in New York, includes a new professional.

The reigning U.S. Amateur champion, Lanny Wadkins of Wake Forest University, one of the nine members of the all-star squad, recently turned professional.

Congratulations, Fred!

Frederick E. Daniel, Franklin General Agent for Greenville and vicinity has just been named the recipient of one of the Company's most exclusive national honors . . . the Key Club. For his outstanding sales record he is being presented with one of Omega's newest time pieces, a watch designed specifically for the Franklin and this production honor.

Fred was also recently named to membership in the Franklin Million Dollar Conference, the Company's elite organization of million-dollar-a-year sales leaders. And it gives us a great deal of pleasure to join with North Carolina Division Manager Henry Grady in saluting him on this remarkable record.

We would like also to take this opportunity to thank you, his fellow Carolinians, for placing your confidence in him, and allowing him to be of service.

Pecking Order Manifest In City Council Chambers

PECKING ORDER
By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The general public may not have noted it, but there's an excellent visible physical manifestation of the well-known "pecking order" in the renovated and refurbished Council Chambers in Greenville's Municipal Building (city hall).

A close study of this local order of "social priority" reveals parallels, in a simplified way, with traditional British parliamentary division of official prestige classifications.

Greenville planners, by not incorporating the use of wigs of office or robes of state for city officials, have missed an opportunity to add that extra dash of color to the official arrangement. Nonetheless, what's retained in the city "pecking order" is interesting.

Beginning at the top — the mayor's chair (the use of the word throne must be resisted), is an impressive creation. It stands four inches higher than any other chair within the official enclosure. The distinctive shape of the mayor's chair also serves to set it off from the second ranking group of chairs, those designated to seat the members of the City Council and the City Manager. Councilmen chairs are four inches lower than the mayor's.

City councilmen's chairs, like the mayor's, are of simulated leather in a restrained quilted pattern. Moving on down to the third level of furniture prestige, chairs for representatives included in this category — the city attorney, city clerk and the secretary, are yet a few inches lower in height and are of a non-quilted design. This group, however, rate chairs that are enclosed on the sides and rest on substantial coasters.

Still within the official enclosure, the fourth order of rank can be noted by the assignment of chairs that are neither quilted, enclosed, or resting on coasters. This fourth ranking group is occupied by members of Greenville's city government

Pitcairn Island Population Down

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A U.N. Secretariat paper on Pitcairn Island in the South Pacific says it has lost 70 people in a decade and now has only 80 descendants of the British sailors and Tahitians who settled there in 1793 after the mutiny on the Bounty.

However, the paper adds, Norfolk Island far to the west has nearly 600 descendants of Pitcairn islanders.

such as the city engineer, fire chief, the police chief and heads of departments. Provision in this category is also made for members of the press and for attorneys and other spokesmen who from time to time temporarily have the privilege of being summoned within the official enclosure.

Structural elevations on two levels within the enclosure are another means of designating prestige levels. The mayor, city councilmen, the city manager and city planner, and officials of departments are placed on a platform a few inches higher than the platform occupied by the city clerk, the secretary, press members and attorneys. In turn, the platform occupied by this latter group rises several inches above the floor level occupied by the spectators, or audience, who must rest as well as they can in hard wooden seats.

An official boundary line between the governing and the governed is marked by a rail of wrought iron enclosing the official area. Two openings, one on the west end and one on the east, permit access from the spectator level — and also provides entry points for officials.

Mentioning east and west recalls that the color scheme is symbolic of associations with eastern and western cultures. All official chairs are of one color, a solemn charcoal black that reflects the dignity of the offices of the city government. Back-wall draperies and carpet is of a warm Chinese Red, which can be said to symbolize the subtle wisdom of Chinese philosophies.

C. A. Holliday, City Engineer, designed the official enclosure — a design that incorporates a circular table, somewhat like the top half of a horseshoe. Placement of the desks for the city clerk, secretary, the press and spokesmen appearing before the mayor and council members are placed strategically so that these individuals face their elected officials.

An Oilman Directs Digging Of Nuclear Test Site

By ELDON BARRETT
ANCHITKA, Alaska (UPI) — The men on this Aleutian Island preparing for an underground nuclear test next fall come in all shapes and sizes from old grizzlers to mod kids with long hair and sideburns.

But the man who stands out among this crew is "The Boss," Glen Stafford.

He came out of the Texas Panhandle by way of Oklahoma A&M, and after spending about half of his 45 years knocking about the oil fields of West Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, North Africa and South America, he took up with the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) three years ago to help test nuclear devices below the surface of the earth.

Unlike most of the other executive types on this barren piece of basalt real estate, Stafford is not a scientist.

"I'm a construction man," he said proudly, folding his muscular arms across his barrel chest. He added that he knows only the things he has to know about the "thing" that will be placed in a mined room his men are carving out of solid rock 6,000 feet below the surface of the island.

This is the heart of Project Cannikin, which will be a nuclear explosion of somewhere around 5 megatons.

Stafford is site manager for this AEC project. It is his job to make sure the test area is properly prepared on time without a waste of the taxpayers' money.

Since he's been with the AEC, Stafford has seen many innovations developed by atomic test hole drillers which have been utilized in oil well drilling, particularly some of those methods used in Alaska's north slope oil fields.

One of the things Stafford is most proud of is the safety record among the 600 or so employees on the Cannikin Project. There have been two deaths, but both from heart ailments.

"There have been the normal amount of injuries," he said. "But the number is well below the national level and far below the AEC level."

Considering the condition down in the "hole," this record is amazing. The cavity in which the device—speculation says it is a nuclear warhead for a Spartan missile—will be detonated is a globe-like room 52 feet in diameter at the bottom of the 6,000-foot shaft.

Stafford said the work will be completed by the middle of July if everything goes well. But the work is not without problems, the main one being water leakage. He estimated the flow at about 45 gallons a minute, but added the pumps were having no problem handling it.

Surprisingly, the water is fresh, although the Bering Sea is only a mile away. "It's better than most in West Texas," Stafford said with a laugh.

The room itself is shored up with wire mesh and rock bolts. It is being carved out of pure basalt of which the island is formed, the result of volcanic action many centuries ago.

The miners, who are paid $7.38 an hour plus a 10 per cent bonus for eight-hour shifts, work three weeks and then take a week off—off the island, as a matter of fact. They stay down below an average of four hours.

The 28 men in the crew below ground work in three shifts around the clock—seven men to a shift. The total work force at the site, 10 miles from base camp, ranges from 78 to 80.

What do the men who work below have to say about their job?

"I've done this kind of work so long I never think about the danger," said Bob Brown, 37, of Juneau. "It makes no difference to me whether it's 6,000 feet or 100 feet. It's all the same."

Frank Bush, 41, of Bakersfield, Calif., said he liked the work.

"For one thing, it feeds my family—that's why I'm here," he said. "It's hot down there (90 degrees fahrenheit with relative humidity around 90 per cent) but this is what we do for a living."

"To tell the truth, I actually feel safer down there than I do on the freeway."

Godfrey Keeps Doing Homework

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Godfrey Cambridge is a people-watcher and the people he watches often turn up in the characters he plays.

Cambridge stretched across the table and said, "I've seen these guys who come through my life. I've seen the guys who chew cigars and never take their hat off."

"I have to pattern my characters after people I know or people I've observed," he said. "I'm responsible for what goes on that screen. I've got to do my homework."

Cambridge, who shed 165 pounds in recent years, settled back into his chair and took another sip from the big, icy glass of orange juice.

In a two-part show for NBC's "Wonderful World of Disney," he plays Willie Dorsey, a man he describes as a "lovable rascal who manages by hustling and who makes it on his wits."

"I patterned Willie after two guys I know," Cambridge said. "One is a handyman. He's got a college degree, but he says to heck with it, I don't feel like teaching. So he's a handyman with an unlisted phone number and he's really found his satisfaction."

"And I patterned the role after an acquaintance I'll call Shifty. This guy always carries a Chicago bank roll—a $50 bill wrapped around a wad of ones. He says he never has change to pay for anything and he's always taking me over the coals."

Cambridge plays a veteran who uses his mustering out pay to buy a service station—but doesn't have enough money left to stock any gas. He has to talk his customers out of buying gas.

For his role as Grave Digger Jones in "Cotton Comes To Harlem," he spent 16-hours-a-day at the 28th Precinct in Harlem watching policemen and accompanying them on calls.

"In 'Cotton' I never took off my hat. I picked that up from one of the detectives," he said. "I asked him why and he said it was because he was always going in and out of places."

"I wanted to wear cufflinks, but the costume designer said, no, that's too fancy. So one detective I was with made an arrest and he was furious with the guy for breaking his cufflinks. I wore cufflinks."

Awards For Area Women

Three local young women have been selected Outstanding Young Women for 1971, the director of the national awards program announced. They are Mrs. Nancy Freeman Evans of Rt. 2 Box 487, Greenville; Mrs. Madie Bryant Tice of 100 Hilltop Rd.; and Mrs. Rebecca Jarvis Groome of 101 Canterbury Rd.

These women are now being considered for their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year Award, presented annually in all 50 states and the District of Columbia by the Outstanding Women of America Program.

The purpose of this program is to recognize young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their exceptional contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions and country. Nominations are made by women's organizations, universities, churches, and alumni associations. A biographical sketch of each nominee is included in the annual awards volume of Outstanding Young Women of America, which is distributed nationally as a reference publication. The 1971 edition will be published in November.

HOTEL EQUALITY

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — This country's first fully multiracial hotel has been opened at Jan Smuts International Airport near here.

A spokesman said "we are not a political hotel. We obey the laws of the land. But every guest in the hotel will be treated with complete equality. We were asked by the government to build a multiracial hotel and this is what we have."

Arabian Dhows Continue Trade With E. Africa

THE BOUNDING MAIN — The five windows in the stern denote a Ghanjah type sailing dhow. The sailing ships have been plying between the Arabian peninsula and East Africa for over 1,000 years.

By C. C. MINICLIER
MOMBASA, Kenya (AP) — Visions of swashbuckling pirates, raven-haired damsels in distress and cutlasses flashing in anger come to mind as the big ship swings into view. Surely the five windows in the stern must look in upon a captain's cabin with sword, blunderbuss and a good stock of rum close at hand? More likely they look in upon battered oil tins, heavy canvas and more practical goods, although to the novice the ship may resemble a Spanish man of war.

The ship with five windows and the ornate wood carving is a Ghanjah type, which may have come from Sur or Muscat. The experts say many were originally built at Cutch and sold to the Arabs.

It, Arab ships are not referred to as females, was one of the largest and most picturesque of the two score dhows riding impatiently at anchor here recently, waiting for the southwesterly winds to take them home again. Dhows, those ageless sailing ships with tri-cornered sails, have been plying between the Arabian peninsula and East Africa for over 1,000 years, arriving early each year with the northeasterly monsoon winds, known along the coast as "Kaskasi" and starting the return journey in April or May as the winds change.

Mombasa is one of their older ports of call, along with Mogadishu and Zanzibar. Arabs first settled here 1,000 years ago and it was explorer Vasco da Gama in 1498, only six years after Christopher Columbus found "the New World."

Fort Jesus, built by the Portuguese in 1593, fell to Omani Arabs in 1698 after a siege of 33 months. The fort still dominates the entrance to the old harbor and dock workers still unload the dhows a sack at a time, on their backs.

On the other side of Mombasa island huge cranes move along the docks on rails, unloading modern freighters effortlessly, several tons at a time. But here in the old harbor little has changed for the dhows and their crews since the days of Christopher Columbus. Each crewman keeps all his personal possessions in a wooden chest and sleeps on the open deck or on a hard wooden bench.

From a boat alongside the dhows have changed little in appearance, except some now have a metal smokestack protruding upward from the diesel engine—which cuts their trip from weeks to days. Most retain their sail, engine or not.

They bring carpets and dates from Persia, salt and dried fish from Aden, ancient chests from India and go back with Mangrove poles, maize, tea and local produce. Each year there are fewer, as the competing tankers provide faster bulk service.

Ship Built For Arctic Service New Head For King Henry V

SELBY, England (AP) — The 699-ton Polar Shore, a supply vessel built to Lloyds Class 1 standards, is equipped for Arctic conditions and is capable of generating 7,260 hp.

One of the most powerful tug supply boats afloat, the Polar Shore's specifications include variable pitch propellers to facilitate towing operations. She is also equipped with a powerful bow thruster for maximum maneuverability while operating close to oil drilling rigs.

The new vessel is part of the fleet of 42 ships operated by the Offshore Supply Association.

The original silver head—and hands—were stolen in 1546 from an effigy of the king above his tomb in the church where British monarchs are crowned. The new head and hands are being made from polyester resin. They have been designed according to contemporary descriptions and portraits of the king, who died in 1442.

The new "crowning" will be on Oct. 25 with some pomp.

Humphrey Weighs A Nixon Re-Match

By HOWARD FIELDS
WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Jack Miller, R-Iowa, stood on a catwalk high above a stockyard in Sioux City, Iowa, a visiting colleague from Minnesota by his side.

There were no calls of "hi, Jack" or "Hey there, Jack" from the men working in the pens below. Instead it was "Hey, Hubert" or "Hey there Hubert, want to buy a steer?" Asked about the instant recognition he receives wherever he goes, Hubert H. Humphrey grins and says softly, "It's nice."

If recognition and an ability to hold a crowd were the only criteria for winning the Democratic Presidential nomination, Humphrey probably would be Richard M. Nixon's challenger again in 1972.

Nominations are made of other things, of course, including primary victories, winning the hearts and minds of convention delegates and demonstrating an ability to win. But Humphrey feels he can afford the luxury of waiting because of the recognition factor.

Many believe the former vice president already is running hard again for the presidency, but Humphrey dismisses such talk with: "There's more rhetoric than action."

While denying any campaign activity at present, he is careful to keep the door partly ajar, explaining that "I keep a little light through the door." He promises a final decision by the end of the year.

"I am comfortable and pleased with my position," Humphrey said in an interview. "It is not necessary for me to be pushing or be overly active."

The final decision, he added, will be based on two factors:
1. How do I feel personally about it (the presidency). Do I really want it, mentally, physically, spiritually, politically?

2. Do I think I could win. That will be conditioned on whether the people accept me." Except for potshots at the Nixon administration, Humphrey's public political activity so far has been confined to denying the various reports about his candidacy and pooh-poohing speculation about his strength vis-a-vis the other hopefuls.

Press for specifics, Humphrey said, "there are three with the top identity," meaning himself, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, his 1968 running mate.

"We are running about the same," Humphrey said. "The personalities aren't coming through yet. There is no dominating personality."

While he doesn't say so in so many words, Humphrey gives the impression he will let the other half dozen Democratic hopefuls work one another over in the first three months of primaries next year and save himself for June if he decides to run.

"I have no plans to enter any primary," he said. "I believe the primaries that will be the most significant will be the New York and California primaries, highly significant."

In addition to having the biggest bags of delegates, the New York and California primaries come in June after the first round of primaries — which Humphrey feels will be inconclusive — have been held. "At this particular time the man working on delegates and party structure has a leg up. But it will be a wide-open convention," he said.

A columnist reported recently that Humphrey was making telephone calls around the country to get potential contributors to hold onto their money until this time next year, at the expense of those who need to make bids in the early primaries.

"That's childish," Humphrey said of the report. "The only money I talk about on the telephone is to try to raise contributions to the Party."

Humphrey's travels about the country have indicated to him the Kennedy mystique is still very much alive, he said, which leads him to conclude that Ted Kennedy "can have the nomination if he wants it."

Humphrey did not get around to mentioning the other Democratic possibilities: Sens. Birch Bayh of Indiana, Harold Hughes of Iowa, Henry Jackson of Washington, George S. McGovern of South Dakota, the only announced candidate, or Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas.

Humphrey is optimistic about Democratic chances of beating President Nixon in 1972.

Pointing to the weakness of the economy, which Nixon had promised would be turning around by this summer, he said he believed Nixon's situation "is not very promising in terms of 1972 as of now." A realist, Humphrey emphasized "as of now."

He also sees the young and blacks as "quite antagonistic" to Nixon and said the President has lost most of the support of labor.

"He's much more vulnerable than in '68 and the Republican Party has deteriorated since 1970," Humphrey said.

"As I travel around the country, more and more I see how low this man's popularity really is."

Describing what he considers another personal plus, Humphrey said his mail indicates that people consider him the voice of the loyal opposition.

"I get 1,200 to 1,500 letters a day, 6,000 to 9,000 a week, and I get 40 to 60 requests for speeches every day," he said. "I get 100 letters a day from Minnesota urging that I run for president."

He accepts many of the speaking invitations, usually making several speeches a week in various parts of the nation.

At one point, Humphrey pulled a recent poll out of his desk and remarked: "I'm right next to Ted Kennedy in the polls of the youth." He considers this particularly important in light of an April 18 Gallup Poll that showed the "Democrats have the 18-20 age group, 5 to 2."

Asked why some people believe he is unpopular with youth, he replied sharply: "Well, that's because they are wrong. They're wrong. This poll proves it."

Despite Humphrey's feeling that Nixon will be vulnerable in 1972, he also knows that any incumbent President is hard to beat.

He puts little stock in the threatened attempt by Reps. Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, R-Calif., and Don Riegle, R-Mich., to grab the GOP nomination next summer unless Nixon changes his Vietnam policy.

HERE'S HOW TO "COOL IT" — When summer temperatures boiled, little Sherri Pisetsky of Tampa, Fla. found a way to keep her cool. The four-year-old climbed into daddy's wheelbarrow and took the hose with her. (AP Wirephoto)

Worry Clinic Will The Unfit Someday Rule?

Study the statements by Mr. Hursh! For politicians can easily destroy this once great Republic by welfare. It subsidizes the survival of the unfit, who are tax-exempt, free from military draft, fed and medicated so they can further increase their subnormal percentage of the population at the expense of the normal stock!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Case R-511: Morris Hursh is the Minnesota State Welfare Commissioner.

"If you figure a way to stop divorce," he began, "you will be able to save a lot of taxes."

Mr. Hursh said that about 90,000 women and children in Minnesota benefit from welfare aid in cases of divorce and legal separation.

Imagine the much larger number in New York, Illinois and California!

The Minnesota data also showed that many of those children could go off the welfare rolls if welfare and the courts would grant custody to the fathers, said the investigator.

"But," he added, "the welfare departments and the courts bend the law any way they want and the taxpayer has to pay."

Even President Nixon has been quoted as saying the welfare system encourages the breakup of the family.

Taxpayer Revolt
Tax payers in America are threatening to revolt against the constantly rising taxes on those who are gainfully employed.

Thus, young couples now are forced to furnish Uncle Sam and their local governments the wherewithal to support so many youngsters born out of wedlock, or in divorced families, that these healthy, intelligent tax-paying couples defer having children of their own.

Paradoxical as it may seem, thousands of smart young couples, often with college educations, are now compelled to support feeble-minded and defectives, so they go childless.

This is called the "survival of the unfit."

It started on a worldwide scale about 1850.

Up till about that date, the healthy, sound stock was outbreeding the defectives.

Then our churches inculcated a moral code that you were to lend a helping hand to the downtrodden.

Which sounds splendid until you realize it will crumble our once virile Republic and cause us to decay, as Rome did.

If you disbelieve this rapid trend to the survival of the unfit, consider the data from Page 679 of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," as shown below.

It shows the breeding rate of a Subnormal Couple who mate in this year of 1971, in contrast to a Normal Couple, healthy and of good I.Q.

Allowing a mere 4 children per generation among the Subnormals (who usually run much higher) and but 2 kiddies per Normal Couple, watch how soon the good stock will be swamped at the polls:

Subnormal	Normal	Ratio
1971...	2	2:1
1996...	4	2:1
2021...	16	4:1
2046...	64	8:1
2071...	256	16:1

In 1918, Dr. H. H. Goddard estimated our feeble-minded population at 3 percent.

But they have had 2 breeding generations since then, so there are conservatively at least 10,000,000 actual feeble-minded right now in the U.S.A.

Compare their voting with the 5,000,000 present college students!

Those feeble-minded voters are
