Propose Federal Pay-Cut Example

WASHINGTON (AP) — An armed-forces-oriented magazine proposes military and federal civilian workers set an example for the rest of the nation by taking a 5-to-10-per-cent pay cut as a step in controlling inflation.

Although the magazine says this would be "grossly unfair" to the workers, it argues salary cuts would save thousands of government jobs that otherwise might be abolished by the Nixon administration to trim spending.

The proposal, suggested in an editorial in the July issue of Armed Forces Journal, was picked up and given wide circulation in the Capitol Wednesday by the Washington Evening Star.

Most government workers gave it the cold shoulder. "Let the nut who is proposing this take the first cut," suggested Joseph McDavid, an Agriculture Department employee. "We're altruistic, but not that much," said Sylvester Pranger, Agriculture's personnel director. "We fought too long for pay comparability (to private industry) to give it up."

"How, in these days of spiraling inflation, can we take a pay cut?" asked John Becker, a Pentagon worker.

The Journal, a privately owned publication which bills itself as "spokesman of the services since 1863," said the alternative to salary cuts would be major cutbacks in civilian and military personnel because of expected reductions in military spending.

If federal salaries are cut, the Journal said, "the administration and Congress should at the same time institute wage and price freezes to halt inflation while government and industry work together on a wide-sweeping reform of the entire economy—and that's what is really needed."

A spokesman for the Government Employees Council of AFL-CIO, which represents 34 unions with 3 million government workers, called it unfair to reduce workers' wages "when they're victims of inflation itself."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is on the way to piling up the worst back-to-back deficits in federal government operations since 1945-46.

But administration officials shrug off the two deficits, expected to total more than $40 billion in fiscal 1971 and 1972, saying they are fiscally responsible.

The reason, they say, is that the budget spending is pegged to the amount of tax revenues the government would expect to receive in times of high prosperity.

In fiscal 1945, the federal deficit, ballooned by wartime spending, was $45 billion. As peace returned, the deficit dropped to $18 billion the following year.

The treasury Department reported Wednesday the deficit for fiscal 1971, which ended June 30, climbed to $23.2 billion, second highest one-year deficit of the post-World War II era.

Officially, the White House says, the deficit for fiscal 1972 will be $11.6 billion. But already administration officials have acknowledged publicly it will be closer to $18.6 billion.

The largest back-to-back deficits in the past 25 years were those in fiscal 1967 and 1968 when President Lyndon B. Johnson was in office.

But the Nixon deficits are more responsible than those, say administration officials, including Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a Democrat and close political associate of Johnson.

The fiscal 1971 budget actually showed a $2.5-billion surplus on a full-employment basis, Conally and George P. Shultz, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said. It was the third year in a row a full-employment balance or surplus has been achieved.

"This record is in sharp contrast to that of fiscal years 1966 through 1968, when full-employment deficits totaled more than $40 billion," they said.

Full employment is defined as a 4-per-cent jobless rate. The unemployment rate during the fiscal year averaged 5.7 per cent—and got bigger as the year went along.

As the federal budget floundered deeper in the red, so did the nation's trade position.

In June, the Commerce Department said, the nation recorded its third straight monthly deficit in trade, with imports exceeding exports by $363 million, raising the figure for the first six months of the year to $373 billion. This was the first time this had happened in the 25 years the government has been keeping trade figures on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans says the balance could drop to zero this year for the first time since 1893.

'Savannah' Will Be Mothballed

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Preparations began Wednesday to entomb the N. S. Savannah, the world's first nuclear powered merchantman, in mothballs.

The $54 million vessel has fallen victim to the spiraling cost of living in the 1970s.

Crewmen at Todd Shipyards started preparations for the actual defueling process which begins in September prior to mothballing the 2,500 ton vessel, according to R. R. Allen, project manager for the ship.

The 595-foot ship will be mothballed at Orange, probably next June, Allen said, exactly 10 years after the Savannah went to sea as the pride of the American merchant fleet.

But soaring operating costs, a dwindling shipping industry and the Savannah's tonnage limitations conspired to scuttle her.

Allen said the Savannah was too costly to operate and has been too costly to retire.

The defueling process involves removing the ship's uranium and nuclear generating plant.

There have been efforts to mothball the Savannah since 1967 but public outcry each time gave her a renewed lease on life.

Many foreign ports balked at accepting her because of her nuclear assembly.

The Savannah was built and went to sea in 1962 by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Maritime Administration.

Allen said several government offers to sell the ship met blank stares from shipping companies who cited the ship's high operating costs and limited capacity.

The Savannah carried cargo and up to 60 passengers and 100 crewmen.

A budget of $6,521,733.59 for Pitt County was adopted by Pitt County Commissioners after a three hour final review and study Wednesday night.

The 1971-1972 Pitt County budget, $812,246 higher than last year's budget, is based on a total tax base of $226,272,767. This is about $19,000,000 over the tax base for the fiscal year just ended, and represents primarily new construction such as Burroughs-Wellcome and other industries throughout the county.

A tax rate of $1.52 was again maintained for this fiscal year, the same as the previous year. Commissioner R. L. Martin of Bethel, commented, however, "The reason the ad valorem tax rate was not increased is that no hospital bonds as yet have been issued. If the bonds had been issued, as was expected, we would have had to raise the ad valorem rate."

The school systems account for the biggest single item in the

Lunar Orbit Firing Today

SPACE CENTER, Houston

(AP) — The Apollo 15 astronauts, their commander a newly qualified space plumber, zeroed in on the moon with a brief engine burst today and were ready to fire into lunar orbit using a new technique that will require split-second manual control.

The one-second course change maneuver at 11:04 a.m. EDT nudged the spaceship onto a more precise path that will take it within 65 miles of the moon's surface later in the day.

Scott, who used a wrench Wednesday night to fix a water leak in the cabin, reported "I guess you can see it was a nice smooth burn."

Apollo 15 was 14,294 miles from the moon, traveling 2,691 miles an hour.

As the astronauts make their close approach to the moon, they will execute a new engine ignition procedure to shoot into orbit.

The new firing procedure is necessary to by-pass a short circuit that developed in the engine system shortly after Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden were launched from Cape Kennedy Monday on their moon-landing expedition.

The commander of the Apollo 15 backup crew worked out the technique in a computer-driven simulator here and passed up instructions to Apollo 15 Wednesday night.

First trial of the procedure is set for 4:05 p.m. EDT today when Apollo 15 sweeps behind the backside of the moon and fires into orbit about 70 miles

Steel Strike?

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a steel strike deadline two days away, the United Steelworkers Union says its members have authorized a walkout by a 93 per cent vote.

The industry had made no offer up to Wednesday, informed sources said, but a proposal was expected by the midnight Saturday deadline.

The union has said it will not extend contracts beyond then.

"They're still talking," sources said of the contract negotiations involving nine major steel firms with 350,000 workers in steel manufacturing.

The talks broke off Tuesday, informed sources said, over the industry's resistance to the union's demand for unlimited cost-of-living pay.

board with responsibility for governance of higher education."

He added, "I'm confident the legislators agree to this." Scott said the restructuring plan should be enacted and then a constitutional amendment added "to lock it in" and guard it from tampering by future legislatures.

Scott also said at the news conference:

—That his administration has begun steps to try to raise about $5 million through pri-

The short is in one of two electrical circuits which the astronauts can use to trigger the 20,500-pound thrust engine on their command ship Endeavour.

It indicates the firing mechanism on one bank has been armed and that the use of a computer to fire the engine might ignite it prematurely. Mission Control does not believe the engine actually is armed, but it isn't sure and doesn't want to take chances.

The second circuit is in good condition, but at least six more firings of the engine are planned and to use the second bank for all six might deteriorate it.

Under the procedures worked out by Gordon, Apollo 15 will use computer control and the good circuit for the most critical burns. A hybrid maneuver employing both circuits under manual control will be used for the firings requiring less, but still extremely accurate, precision, such as the one firing them into moon orbit.

Not Even Running

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five senators launched a campaign today to strengthen American defense posture, saying the Soviet Union may soon become militarily superior to the United States.

Sen. William E. Brock, R-Tenn., who organized the defense of arms strength, said the Russians are bolstering their military capability while entering into arms negotiations with the United States.

"The range of options among which the United States can choose at the negotiating table has narrowed considerably in recent years," Brock charged, "especially since the balance of power began changing rapidly in favor of the Soviet Union."

"Four years ago," he said, "Russia had 550 intercontinental ballistic missiles. Today they have over 1,400."

"Four years ago, the United States had 1,056 ICBMs. Today we have 1,056," he added.

"How can there be an arms race when one of the contestants isn't even running?" he asked.

"Whether we deal with the Soviet Union, the People's Republic of China, or an uncommitted nation, our basic strength is our ability to back up what we say."

new budget, totaling $3,261,706.93. Of this amount, $2,140,949.03 goes for the current expense budget of Pitt County Schools, with $450,659.64 earmarked for capital outlay. Greenville City Schools get $381,364.27 for current expenses and $120,500 in capital outlay funds. Pitt Technical Institute's total budget from the county amounts to $168,233.99.

Public services and assistance in various programs continues to be a major item in the budget, requiring an outlay of $1,589,819.86. The public assistance (or the welfare program) portion of this is $1,010,172.90. The Health Department figure is $358,531.98; that for Mental Health, $177,469.19; and Outside Poor and Relief, $40,745.79. The County Home budget is $2,900.00.

The total budget for the county's General Fund stands at $1,135,538.60. In this fund, some of the major items are: the Sheriff's Department $213,520; Data Processing $145,890.65; Tax Department $83,352.65; County Buildings $93,953.24; Rural Fire Protection $43,819.00; and the Pitt County Extension Service $56,629.84.

A miscellaneous fund of $139,740.00 covers, among other items, county contributions to a number of cultural, civic, and regional activities such as $45,571.00 for Sheppard Library; $1,000 to the Greenville Art Center; $250.00 to Pitt County Historical Society; $8,219 to the Mid-East Economic Development Commission and $100 to the Good Neighbor Council.

Other funds provided for in the 1971-1972 budget are: Dog fund, $21,515.00; Hospital Fund, $76,303.00 (to cover a deficit in the operation of Pitt Memorial Hospital); Industrial Development Commission, $35,417.00; reserve funds for the tax revaluation project, $141,584.80; Ambulance Fund, $43,957.40, which includes money for a $13,500 deficit and provision for the purchase of a new ambulance at $15,000; and a Facilities fee fund, $42,000.

The County Debt Service budget this year has been set at $173,891.00. Of this total, $138,891.00 is for bond interest and commissions, with $35,000 for bond principal.

In addition to adopting the budget ordinance for the county, the commissioners also approved the supplemental levies for the county school districts. One, the Arthur District, increased its rate from 10 to 15 cents. Two other districts, Ayden and Winterville, increased their rate by one penny, with Ayden going from 19 to 20 cents; and Winterville from 14 to 15 cents. All other districts remain the same. Belvoir, Chicod, Bethel, Fountain and Stokes are all using the 20 cents rate. Farmville, Grifton, Grimesland and Pactolus remain at 15 cents.

No More Discount For Early Payers Of County Taxes

It was announced today by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners that no discounts would be allowed for early payment of 1971 county taxes.

In adopting the resolution which eliminates discounts for those paying early, the commissioners noted that: "The 1971 General Assembly repealed the former law which permitted discounts, thereby setting a state wide policy to discontinue discounts on ad-valorem taxes."

Taking cognizance of the fact that provision for discounts could have been adopted, the commissioners stated in their resolution: "The only way discounts could be allowed for 1971 and subsequent years was by resolution of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and submitted to the State Board of Assessments for their approval."

Explaining their action, the resolution stated: "The board decided not to adopt a resolution allowing discounts which would have been contrary to State and Federal policy and not being in the best interest of the Pitt County Government and the majority of its citizens."

The standard penalty rates for late payment still remain in effect, however. This is in accordance with state laws which sets a standard rate of penalty clauses applicable to collections of ad-valorem taxes paid after certain specified dates.

Earlier, members of Greenville's City Council submitted a resolution to the State Board of Assessments that would provide for another year the granting of discounts for those making early payment of city taxes.

Prince Finishes RAF Training

POOLE, England (AP) — Prince Charles has completed Royal Air Force training with a parachute jump into the English Channel.

In the first parachute jump by an heir to the British throne, 22-year-old Charles floated 1,200 feet down from an RAF plane, dipped under the water briefly, then was picked up by Royal Marines in an assault boat 15 seconds after landing.

Scott said the state still has no firm offer by Carolina Cape Fear Corp. to sell Bald Head Island near Southport, but initial preparations have been made for a fund-raising drive to get the money for state purchase of the island.

"As long as I am governor, there will be no (private) development on Bald Head Island if I can prevent it," he said.

Scott said he is still considering condemnation of the island, but would prefer to use it only as a last resort.

Gov. Scott Opines Rift Not So Wide On Restructuring Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Gov. Bob Scott says he will talk to university trustees and administrators and legislators in the coming weeks to bolster support for his plan to restructure higher education in the state.

He told a news conference Wednesday that he and his major legislative opponents are "closer together in principle than most people believe" on the issue.

The governor's main task will be to try to swing a majority of the 100-member University of North Carolina Board of Trustees over to his side before the special session of the General Assembly convenes Oct. 26.

UNC forces have been the strongest opponents of Scott's plan to create a single governing board to control all 16 statesupported universities, including the six campuses of UNC.

Scott confirmed reports that he felt he had the approval of William C. Friday, UNC president, and Cameron West, director of the state Board of Higher Education, when he first made his call for restructuring of higher education.

"I would never have opened up the question to begin with unless I felt I had the support of the president of UNC and the director of the Board of Higher Education," Scott said.

Asked why Friday later withdrew his public support, Scott said the directive "came from the executive committee of the board of trustees of the university."

The governor's uncle—Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance—said Saturday the pressure on Friday came from four powerful members of the executive committee—Archie K. Davis of Winston-Salem, Watts Hill Sr. of Durham, Tom White of Kingston and Victor Bryant of Durham.

Scott told reporters he was not wedded to any particular plan, but he said it is essential that the state "must have one board with responsibility for governance of higher education."

He added, "I'm confident the legislators agree to this."

Scott said the restructuring plan should be enacted and then a constitutional amendment added "to lock it in" and guard it from tampering by future legislatures.

Scott also said at the news conference:

—That his administration has begun steps to try to raise about $5 million through private sources and public donations to finance state purchase of Bald Head Island.

—That he was generally pleased with the 1971 legislation although it deleted his requests for an expanded state park system and construction of a criminal justice academy and "did not deal adequately with the problem of auto liability insurance."

—Taxes will be a vital issue in the 1973 session, with increases or new levies a certainty.

—He is considering an in-itation to North Carolina industries to let their executives take over the new posts of department heads under state government reorganization on a $1-a-year basis if necessary until January, 1973. He said otherwise appointments of qualified people would be difficult since their terms would be subject to the next governor's choice.

—Annual legislative sessions should be considered, especially to deal with budget matters.

This New Magazine Goes After The Liberated 'New Woman'

Don't Be Wailing Wall For Parents

By LUCIANNE GOLDBERG
FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (WNS) — ZAP! You're suddenly liberated! You've got your own cigarette, pill, pay and hot pants — now you've got your own liberated magazine.

None of that "Forty Ways to Hold Your Husband, Fold a Diaper and Cook Hamburger" stuff for the new women of the Seventies.

With its third issue on the stands in August, New Woman, "The Magazine for Thinking Women," is aiming head-on at the emerging liberated lady.

As New Woman sees its typical reader, she is college educated, spends most of her money on herself, entertains, travels, smokes, drinks, makes love in style and most importantly — she thinks.

While sleek old ladies like Vogue and Harper's Bazaar cry the blues over the terminal stages of elegance and add recipes and dress patterns to their pages, New Woman is serving up a brain-twisting hot buffet of articles aimed at jolting you out of the kitchen. Sample New Woman fare — "Four in a Bed — Will You Hate Yourself Afterward," "The Lesbian Myth" and a spoof entitled, "Are You Too Proud to Let Your Husband Work." The first issue in June featured a full-color fold out nude — male species.

Owner

The magazine is owned and published by Allied Publishing, which prints are books and house organs for large corporations. It is put together in a bustling plantation-style building done in beige and flowering chintz in Ft. Lauderdale, Florida. It's publisher, Margaret Harold, is married to the owner of Allied and does not permit herself to be interviewed. ("Mrs. Harold does not have time for the good work of the world and being interviewed too," explained a loyal staffer.) Mrs. Harold prefers to have to magazine's over-all image projected by Jill Dover whose title is "New Woman At Large."

Jill, a striking blonde with a just-right figure and an almost non-stop smile is the divorced mother of two. "I found my divorce a rebirth, a renaissance in my life," she said. "One of the things we hope to do is to prove to the newly divorced woman that she doesn't have to resort to the scotch bottle in the afternoon because her man is gone.

"We want to open the door for a woman to go back to school, go into business, or if she likes, go back to marriage. If she is single we want to show her that the old marriage life style isn't necessarily for everybody. We want a woman to maintain her femininity as well as her sense of humor and purpose. We also feel that women should be brave enough to be friends with other women and not always seek the companionship of men."

Few Taboos

There are few areas that New Woman will not explore journalistically.

We plan to take those areas that are still taboo and glamorize them," said New Woman's articles editor Barbara Malone. "Actually, out thinking came ahead of women's lib. Plans for this magazine have been on the drawing boards for five years. We think it is naive to put down the fact that women are sex-objects. Everyone is a sex-object.

"Women are entitled to more options than they have had in the past. The women we are appealing to do not need a political movement to set them free. They have been free spirits all along; all they needed was for society to catch up with the life style they wanted for themselves.

Is New Woman a Playboy for the ladies?

"Not necessarily," says Jill Dover. "We don't drench our pages with sex nor do we pander to our readers' fantasies." Elements of fantasy do seep through the pages of New Woman, however. The glossy layouts done in full color on 50-pound paper weave something of a playgirl dream to those who ride the subway, push a typewriter or stand behind a counter.

A male secretary illustrates a story entitled "Take a Letter, Fred," an exquisite chrome and plexiglass bar for your bachelorette pad illustrates that a bar in the office is a "MUST" for today's girl on the way up, and equipment for a champagne-kid with the girls suggests embroidered linen stitched by Portuguese nuns and Porthault lap-pillows. An early article salutes fifty women who make $35,000 to $50,000 a year which necessitates the exclusion of about 99 per cent of American women — liberated or not.

If New Woman makes it — and the prospects so far look good — it will make it almost entirely through womanpower. Unlike other women's magazines, where the aroma of cigar smoke can be detected in the publisher's office and the board room, there are no male super-executives who pull the strings here. Throughout the shop it's a mix of perfume and printer's ink, femininity and efficiency — and from one of the plush offices I am sure I overheard, "Take a letter, Fred."

Officers Elected By Cosmetologist

New officers were elected at the meeting of the Pitt County Cosmetologist Association held Tuesday night at Mitchell's Hair Styling Academy.

Officers are President, Debra Hardee, First Vice President, Janet Garris, Secretary-Treasurer, Edna Hodges and Historian, Lois Johnson.

President Patsy Paramore discussed the Delegate Session to be held Aug. 29-30 at the Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh. Local delegates will be Mrs. Paramore, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Hardee, Mrs. Garris and Mrs. Bessie Dixon.

The program was given by Mrs. Garris with Melanie Moore as her model. She demonstrated the new fall trend "The Touchable Collection for Fall," presented this month by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association.

The next meeting of the local group will be held at Dixon's Beauty Shop, Black Jack, at 7 p.m. with a covered-dish supper. New officers will be installed.

The program will be presented by Miss Connie Boyce, who will do a chemical relaxer demonstration.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a wife and the mother of teen-agers, but my biggest problem is my parents! They have never got along, and I hear it every day from both sides. Especially my mother. If she isn't here complaining in person, she's on the phone. She starts out with, "Now I don't want you to think less of your father, but as our daughter you have a right to know what's going on." Then she proceeds to tear him to shreds. I'm not the only one in the family she complains to, but I am the favorite wailing-wall.

I have sat them both down and begged them to get professional help and quit running to relatives, but they don't want help. They'd rather complain and make everyone else as miserable as they are.

Abby, I may lay awake nights worrying about my teen-agers, but my parents will never hear a word. Why should I burden them with my problems? They aren't going to solve them for me. On the other hand, I try to keep my parents' problems from my husband and children. I feel like a sponge being sopped from both sides and never allowed to drip.

I know a daughter can't disown her own parents, but if only they realized what they were doing to me, maybe they would let up. In the meantime, how can I keep my sanity—or what's left of it?

DEAR DAUGHTER: If you really want to preserve your sanity, you will shut off your parents' complaints in whatever ways are necessary. And don't feel guilty!

DEAR ABBY: With so much talk about controlling the population by means of the men having vasectomies, I want to ask you a question: How come I had this simple little 15-minute operation done in a doctor's office in 1962 and it cost me only $25, and today they are charging $250 for the very same operation?

Just because doctors have a license to practice medicine doesn't mean they have a license to steal.

DEAR DEARBORN: Nothing is as cheap today as it was in 1952. But if the doctor who performed your surgery for $25 is now charging $250, why don't you ask him?

DEAR ABBY: Because it is a habit to read the death notices in my hometown paper, I turned to the obits in the newspaper while traveling thru that city.

In funeral notices I saw someone I had known died at the home of a "Sally So and So, a very dear friend, after a lingering illness."

Not that it's any of my dang business, but is it now considered proper to announce to the world that one's sleeping partner has succumbed? Or do you suppose "Sally So and So" was using the obits to let the local townspeople know that she was looking for a relief pitcher? TEXAN

DEAR TEXAN: How do you know what the sleeping arrangements were? Perhaps "Sally So and So" was indeed a "dear friend" and nothing more.

Italian Maids Are Joining The Union

By ODETTE MENGIN
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Italy has a two-pronged maid problem. In the first place, there's a shortage of domestic help. And then — what maids there are have become increasingly organized and militant.

It's all very troublesome and new in a once-poor country that has leaped into the consumer age.

Other countries have had problems finding maids for half a century. The French have had to employ legions of Spanish and Portuguese girls for home chores. In the United States, a maid is usually a luxury for the wealthy alone.

But in Italy, maids were readily available just 25 years ago.

It was not unusual for rich families to have 100 or more domestic employees, living in servitude, earning meager wages and ill-protected by the law.

In 1946, Maria T., a capable young widow from the countryside, found a job as a live-in maid, sleeping in the kitchen, for 2,000 lire monthly. At the time, a pair of shoes cost 500 lire and a kilo of bread on the black market about 100 lire.

"We were treated like slaves," Maria recalls. "Even shop girls looked down on us because we were 'serve' servants."

Now the word "serva" is no longer used. A maid is known as a "donna," which in Italian means woman, or even lady. Those belonging to the Catholic workers' union, ACLI, have even chosen to be known as "collaborators of the family," COLF for short.

Wages and working conditions have improved dramatically, too. A 1958 law, revised in 1970, regulates relations between employers and servants. It guarantees social security benefits and holidays for maids.

Salaries are sometimes higher than those of a woman factory worker or shop clerk. A maid earns from $128 to $192 monthly, plus room and board. Ten years ago a good salary for a live-in maid was $48 dollars a month.

Furthermore, employers now have to give their maid an extra month's salary at the end of each year, known as the "tredecima," the 13th month. They must pay food costs for vacations and days off, pay for social security, and give the servant half a month's wage for every year of service when she leaves.

In spite of the tremendous improvement — due to both a general raise in the standard of living and to the 1958 law — Italian families now have trouble in finding service.

Newspaper advertisements show that for every three persons looking for domestic help only one maid is offering services. Employment agencies — seldom advertising as such — are often regarded with suspicion both by servants and employers. And their fees are high.

The major reason for the shortage probably is that some still consider the job of maid as degrading.

"One of our maids left us because her fiancé thought her work was beneath her," an Italian professional man laments.

Carla Faccincani, national secretary of the ACLI's COLF, says: Some working girls do not want to be maids, even for high salaries. They still have to overcome "an inferiority complex."

In a country that holds the world record for strikes, a few maids have begun drifting toward organized labor. The Italian federation of auxiliary employees, FILAI, groups about 2,000 maids out of about a million in the country. FILAI belongs to the big Communist-run labor federation.

The union presses for a national contract for maids, and helps members who believe they have been mistreated by employers.

"Strikes are one of the things we have to do," says Franco della Rosa, secretary of FILAI. "But they are a little difficult to organize." There has not been one yet.

For some, the union drive is a dilemma.

Carla Faccincani, of the Catholic workers' group, says: "To bring unions into the home could represent a disintegrating influence and have a negative influence on relations between maid and family. But to leave this category outside union rules could worsen the situation of some employees."

Employers, meanwhile, formed an association two years ago to protect its members. The secretary general of the Rome branch, Franco Nardeschi, says there is an average of one law suit a day between maids and their employers. Often they deal with allegations of stealing, or of fulfillment of agreements.

To face the maid shortage, Italians have begun to employ foreigners — a revolutionary novelty.

Were You Late? Maybe Time Standards Were Wrong

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm late, I'm late," cried the little white rabbit in Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" back in 19th century England. Pity the poor bunny had the Carroll classic been cast in 20th century America.

According to Egbert Van Haaften, director of Bulova Watch Co.'s Timer Laboratory, there is a great disparity in the accuracy of the time standards used by the average American in setting his watch.

"Of all of the checks available by which to set your watch," Van Haaften points out, "the National Bureau of Standards offers the greatest accuracy.

Through its North American Radio Station WWV, continuous signals are broadcast which are accurate to within a few thousandths of a second a day. To pick up these signals requires a short wave radio, but unfortunately very few Americans own one."

In some areas with local telephone company time-service, highly accurate time checks are available, where their time services are synchronized with the National Bureau of Standards. But at present, only about 70 major metropolitan areas in the U.S. provide this service. In most areas, telephone company time services are not synchronized with the National Bureau of Standards.

Van Haaften notes that power companies maintain a reliable frequency of 60 cycles a minute, which serves to regulate and correct plug-in electric clocks. In some areas the accuracy provided by this time standard is within four seconds a day, because the 60 cycle frequency is corrected several times daily.

In the larger metropolitan areas these companies compensate for frequency irregularities on a continuous basis. "In smaller suburban and rural areas, where compensations are not made, and in cities where power cutbacks and blackouts have been faced, the accuracy of plug-in electric timepieces may be severely affected," Van Haaften added.

What then is the answer? "People in search of an accurate time standard would be well advised to check their local radio station," according to Van Haaften. In a recent survey of radio broadcasters 36 per cent of the respondents indicated that they use the National Bureau of Standards radio signals, while 33.4 per cent check with their local telephone service in broadcasting time checks. An additional 6.7 per cent depended on the line frequency of local power companies and the remaining respondents listed a variety of standards.

Van Haaften advises the public to be consistent in setting its watches. "The key is to set or check your watch to the same standard every day and not jump from telephone time checks to radio broadcasts and back again," he said. "You should find out which time service in your area is the most accurate and then use it consistently."

German Actress Makes U.S. Debut, Stars Opposite Steve McQueen

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Elga Andersen, blonde, blue-eyed, small-boned but with all the right curves, wandered about her flower-filled New York hotel suite—singing, answering the telephone, explaining how she turned a pair of old jeans into hot pants and talking about how lucky she is.

A lot of women would agree with her, since Miss Andersen, a German-born actress, recently made her American film debut in "Le Mans," starring opposite none other than Steve McQueen.

But her luck didn't start there. It began with her first film role. "I had never thought of being an actress," she explains, her German accent unmistakable, but her English perfect. "I'd thought of being an interpreter, maybe dancer. But a friend introduced me to a director, Marcel Camus, who was looking for a girl to star in a movie. He had drawn a picture of her and I just looked like it."

The film was "The Pioneers," and from there Miss Andersen went on to "Elevator to Death," with Jeanne Moreau, "The Black Monicle" and "The Eye of the Black Monicle," all French films.

"It was very tough at first," she says, settling down on the couch and stretching her long legs onto the coffee table. "Everything new is that way if you don't like to be an amateur. I was projected right into a lead, and it was very confusing."

So confusing, in fact, that after a few more films, Miss Andersen called a halt to her career. "I stopped for two years, because I just had to think about it. I didn't want to be 50 one day, and be emotionally 25," she says. "I had to step back and look at myself, decide what I really wanted. It's most important not to get involved in a huge ego trip."

She says she learned she has to relax. "I don't think you can do anything in life unless you can do that," she says, and relaxed she looks—dressed in faded jeans and a T-shirt, a red beaded belt around her waist.

"It's all a question of balance," Miss Andersen adds. "You always need in your life a door in the wall where you can go." She says her door leads to deep-sea fishing and skin diving, pursuits she's done well in, since not long ago she caught a world-record-sized kingfish, and since she learned skin-diving on her first trip underwater.

"In Acapulco there was a diving school," she says. "They showed me how to dive and I understood right away. I went down 100 feet, didn't hear for a while, but I loved it."

But she hasn't had much time for diving or fishing lately. In addition to taking a publicity trip for "Le Mans," she just finished a film in Italy, tentatively titled, "The Yellow Circle," which she says is about the small line "between craziness and being normal." And before "Le Mans," Miss Andersen completed six segments of a new French television series.

The actress says she has passed through the United States many times, but she reserves comment on this country because "I'm just a foreigner." She does admit she finds New York City exciting, but that she would just as soon avoid personal appearances before crowds.

"I like one to one talks better," she says. "When there are more than six or eight people around, it makes me panicky."

Important to her now, Miss Andersen says, is being herself, having her real friends, and she adds "one thing I am thinking about every day is to beware of what you want, because you just may get it."

Flag-Planting Is Not Enough

It's going to take more than flag-planting by a Georgia legislator to force North Carolina and Tennessee to give up some 200 square miles of territory to the Peach State.

More Study By Special Groups

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Despite evidence of frustration with the technique, the 1971 General Assembly continued to use the study commission as a tool for developing proposed legislation.

More than two dozen subjects were earmarked for further study, either by special groups created for the purpose or by the Legislative Research Commission.

Some have been studied before. Some will be studied again. All are issues which lawmakers could not or would not meet head-on at this session.

Clyde Ball, legislative services officer, said the study commission is a useful device to research problems and recommend solutions. It's been around a long time, he said, and likely will hold a place in the legislative scheme of things.

Even so, Ball added, "it's possible to disconcert less willingness on the part of legislators to accept study commission recommendations without independent investigation."

What that reflects, Ball said, is the feeling that the legislature need its own research staff to provide information free of bias and unweighed by any particular point of view.

More Legislative Involvement

This is evident in the enlarging role of the Legislative Research Commission. Its members are Representatives and Senators named by the House Speaker and the Senate President Pro Tempore, both elected legislative leaders in good standing with their peers.

The session's dramatic illustration of the trend to independence in legislative research capability was creation of a fiscal watchdog agency. It will check on state spending, scrutinize budgets, and attempt to give legislators an objective analysis of the state's fiscal experience. It has the potential for far-reaching significance in the relationship of legislative and executive branches.

While the role of the watchdog agency is not the same as that of a study commission, it is similar in that its purpose is to develop information for the General Assembly.

Information, Please
Lack of information, or mistrust of information available, has been a sore point for many lawmakers in recent sessions.

Obviously, the individual legislator is limited in what he can do in the way of research while a session is going on. Just as clearly, many complex contemporary issues cannot be settled without serious consideration.

The study commission is the answer; except, when its report contains bad political vibrations or fails to stir legislative enthusiasm.

For example, Governor Scott appointed a distinguished group of Tar Heels to study the structure of higher education. They brought in a report, but divided on recommendations.

The General Assembly balked at the Governor's urging to accept the majority view. Instead, it opted for a summer recess and a special fall meeting on the subject. Meanwhile, legislative committees will plow over much of the ground covered by the study commission.

It isn't beyond the realm of possibility that the decision then may be to give the whole subject back to another study commission. Higher education has been studied off and on over the past decade or so.

Not all reports of study commissions fared so poorly in the '71 session. Altogether, approximately 20 study groups had recommendations to the General Assembly.

Positive Results Cited
Out of them came a new state law covering pesticides, a revision of ABC laws, creation of an advocacy board for children and youth, a plan for student financial aid, among others.

Some study commissions, continued from session to session, gain a status approaching that of a fixed legislative agency. In this group are commissions dealing with tax laws, local government, and courts structure.

The study commission flowered in the administration of Former Governor Luther H. Hodges. It had been employed before, but not on the same scale. Hodges' business experience made him big on research and development. Reorganizing the structure of government for better service was a persistent goal.

Experience with study commissions has led the legislature to develop its own staff capable of research, and it will be expanded in the years ahead.

Still, Ball suggested, the need will remain for study commissions of broad public membership to deal with major policy questions.

Topics to be covered in the new crop of study commissions include: abuses of the election and voting process, treatment of mentally ill in state hospitals, employment and education of women, public health services, operation of the State Fair, teacher licensing, rewrite of motor vehicle laws, and a revision of the state's criminal code.

backed by a volume of resolutions by the Georgia legislature, it still rubs many Tar Heels — and we presume Tennessees as well — the wrong way for Georgia flags to pop up in increasing numbers on their territory.

Rep. Thomason claims the supposed course of the 35th parallel, the boundary between the three states, is inaccurate because of the inaccurate location of two old markers. Because of the error made years ago, he asserts, North Carolina and Tennessee have some 200 square miles of territory which is rightfully Georgia soil. Included, he declares, is a good part of the city of Chattanooga, Tenn.

We seriously doubt Tennessee wants to give up Chattanooga or any part of it. We are certain North Carolina will not be inclined to give up any of the territory in its southwestern tip even though few of its citizens may live in the disputed area.

If Rep. Thomason wants to wave flags in the legislative halls of Georgia, or before his constituents, that's fine so far as we are concerned. But he has already planted too many Georgia flags in North Carolina and someone should put a stop to it.

Summer Theatre Has Proven Itself An Asset

That East Carolina University's Summer Theatre continues to be a great asset to North Carolina is shown by the fact that an attendance record has been set for the first two productions.

Some 13,000 patrons viewed the first two shows staged by the company.

The third production, "Girl Crazy," is now underway and among the audience Tuesday night was Gov. Robert Scott and his family. They quietly came to town to see the show.

The ECU Summer Theatre is furnishing entertainment that is unique in Eastern North Carolina. It deserves full support.

Seek Undercut Nixon Policies

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Internal memoranda show that a conference on the Pentagon papers arranged by militant antiwar Democratic Congressmen has a partially hidden motive of trying to deflect in Richard M. Nixon's direction some of the political shrapnel coming from the documents.

The Group, an informal organization of 13 prominent left-liberal Democratic House members, which is sponsoring the conference on the Pentagon papers, includes Congressmen unhappy that the political fallout from the Pentagon papers has hit the last two Democratic Presidents, John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, and not President Nixon. That's not a case of loving Mr. Johnson more but of loving Mr. Nixon considerably less.

Late in June, shortly after the Pentagon papers were leaked, the question was raised at a meeting of two New York members of The Group, Reps. John Dow and William F. Ryan, with staffers. A July 6 memorandum to that meeting reveals they proposed a conference on the Pentagon papers with the purpose of "arousing public pressure on the Congress" for a Vietnam pull-out resolution.

"An inquiry aimed specifically at the policies and decision-making processes of the Nixon administration," says the memorandum on the Dow-Ryan meeting, "could effectively transfer the public outrage from the past tense of the Kennedy and Johnson administrations into the present tense of the current Administration."

The agenda for the weekly meeting of The Group on July 7 makes this strategy explicit:

"The political focus must be shifted away from the Kennedy-Johnson administration. Nixon will argue in 1972 that he ended the war that the Democrats got the country into. It is critical that he not succeed. Only by undermining his present policies and by obtaining a Democratically sponsored Congressional action forcing the acceptance of the present Vietnam proposal can we recover lost ground."

The same theme is followed through in The Group's list of potential participants for the conference on the Pentagon papers—as in the case of Melvin Gurtov, one of the authors of the Pentagon papers who has just resigned as an analyst for the Rand Corp. think-tank. In suggesting Gurtov, a staff memorandum notes that he has been "highly critical of the Nixon administration and says it is following the same policy as previous Administrations."

A footnote: Some members of The Group told us that the sole purpose of their forthcoming conference is to improve public understanding of the Pentagon papers and that the memoranda indicating a political motive reflect only the overactive imaginations of young staffers. Other members of the group, however, confided to us that they regard as accurate the intent of the conference as outlined in the memoranda.

Strength For Today

HOPE

The North American continent is certainly the most amazing area on the face of the earth. It has everything in the line of natural resources excepting perhaps a few primary substances. This lack is viewed with concern, and should be, but the broad fields covering so great an area stand alone in magnitude and appeal. Our problems are such that we have to take one step at a time. We fear the treachery and encroachment of communism, but we can deal with it adequately. It is a crying shame that nations still lunge at one another's throats. We could have perpetual peace on the earth, but how to go about it is a problem. Let us be assured, however, that unless we solve some of our basic problems we are in for a bad time.

Our problems appear to be both material and political. If we could see with sufficient penetration we would probably conclude that most of our problems are spiritual in nature. Get the heart of man right and most of his environmental problems will cease to exist. This means an increased loyalty to the Church and the human projects to which it is committed.

The Church is not perfect and never has been because the people who make up its membership are not perfect. But let us determine never to fall into a state of hopelessness that would make us all a burden to our country and to the whole of mankind.

Hope, hope, hope. Our problems are great, but they can be solved. The Creator is still in charge of his creation.

Court Gamesmanship

Attorney General John Mitchell spoke for less than 20 minutes in London the other day, but he packed into his measured reproach to the bench and bar some words of solid wisdom on the sickness of America's criminal justice today.

For the record, Mitchell was speaking only to visiting members of the American Bar Association, but his listeners were mostly fat cats of corporate practice and luminaries of the appellate courts. Not more than a handful of them had tried a criminal case in years. More to the point, Mitchell was speaking over their grey heads to a host of other lawyers and judges back home. His purpose was to coax them out of a fog of legalisms and back on the course of justice.

He had a deeper purpose. What Mitchell clearly fears — and he is not alone — is a crisis of confidence in our whole system of criminal courts. If that critical point has not been reached already, it is dangerously close at hand. It is not necessary to look to public opinion polls, which typically show that only 23 percent of the adult population think the system is working well. It suffices to look at the dreary picture of the criminal courts themselves.

There are exceptions, to be sure, but by and large one sees a picture not of justice served, but of justice perverted. One sees a kind of "courtroom gamesmanship," as Mitchell said, in which the object is not to seek truth or to determine guilt, but mainly to get a case out of the way. In a swamp of postponements and plea-bargaining, the public interest drowns.

How did we get in this fix? Mitchell's blunt answer — though he was not this blunt in his speech — was to blame the situation in large part on those distortions of "due process" that have emerged like so many exotic butterflies from the cocoons that were spun by the Warren Court.

Other factors, of course, have entered in. The physical machinery of justice has not expanded to keep up with the number of defendants it is called upon to process. Our courts are numbed by "meticulous requirements that can only be characterized as ritual for its own sake." The whole concept of a speedy trial, guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment, is being devoured by "the Hydra of excess proceduralisms, archaic formalisms, pretrial motions, post-trial motions, appeals, postponements, continuances, collateral attacks, which can have the effect of dragging justice to death and stealing the very life out of the law."

In daily practice, many cases that should be tried simply are not tried; they are bargained away. When

Count 2,500 Years

By PARVIS RAEIN
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Preparations for the 25th centenary of the world's oldest monarchy go far beyond the luxury encampment in the desert where kings and world leaders will be entertained next October.

Building or nearing completion are 2,500 schools—one for each year of the monarchy—four hotels, a 37-mile freeway, a $10-million monument, a $20-million Olympic stadium and a $550-million microwave communications system that will link almost every village in Iran.

All will perform some internal role in the celebrations, but also will provide benefits for ordinary Iranians in years to come, officials say.

The French decorator Jansen is bringing in the last of his crockery, chandeliers and other trimmings for the luxury royal encampment in the desert. Protocol officials are holding daily classes for the dozens of Iranian beauties who will minister there to the needs of 43 kings, presidents and world leaders.

The Shah of Iran, who will play host, with the Empress Frah at his side, has strongly criticized some Western newspapers for calling the event "the greatest show on earth" and "the entertainment of the century."

In fact, said the Shah, it will be a "cultural revival" held by the people of Iran.

The organizing committee says the expense is being met either privately or as part of the country's fourth five-year development plan, which would have been carried out regardless of the anniversary.

The committee says reception expenses for guests have been met privately, while the $10 million monument will take the form of a museum of Iranian history and, along with the freeway, hotels and communications system, will later help boost Iran's tourist industry.

A national appeal to build the 2,500 schools in remote villages was so successful, the committee says that more than 4,500 were now planned.

The royal cultural affairs undersecretary, Shojaddin Shafa, says 250 historians, philosophers and archeologists from five continents are coming here for the occasion.

Someday, A Rich China Trade

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is a great rush by American business to share in trade with China if, as and when President Nixon succeeds in re-establishing trade as well as diplomatic relations with the mainland country. Some companies are considering establishing subsidiaries in Canada, Australia, Hong Kong and Japan in efforts to get representatives into the red nation early. Others are recruiting Chinese-speaking employees.

COMMENT: China trade may not be much of a bonanza after all. The Red government is not likely to tolerate the exploitation of China's resources as White Devils did in the old days. All deals will be on Mao's terms. Furthermore, China lacks dollars and other Western currency with which to buy any great quantities of American goods and can gain dollars only selling products to the West.

Most important of all, Red China, as far as is known, has no great surpluses to export. The amount of jade and lich nuts it can sell the U.S. is somewhat limited.

China will not be likely to shift purchases of wheat to the U.S. from Canada, which has supplied the nation for two decades. An Australian trade delegation, after a month in the People's Republic, found few opportunities to increase trade.

China's cheap labor can be exploited to make products saleable in the U.S., but it will take years to establish factories there and train workers to make, say, television sets. It will also take years to develop a lucrative travel industry that will appeal to Americans.

And what valuta the Chinese can accumulate will probably be used by government direct, first for food its swelling population requires, and then for basic heavy industries, such as making trucks, building generators, etc., and for the purchase of technical knowledge.

P.O. Box Fees Rising
The Post Office has announced it is increasing its charges for post office box services used by companies with heavy mail usage.

COMMENT: More inflation.

Furthermore it begins to look as if recent boosts in mail rates will not be enough. In our lifetime we will pay a quarter to write Aunt Hattie for her recipe for dumplings.

Auto Insurance Deduction Sought

Forty Congressmen have introduced legislation to make the first $150 of auto insurance deductible on income tax returns.

COMMENT: There must be other ways to make auto insurance less burdensome, such as no-fault insurance plans, government insurance, better supervision of insurance companies.

U. S. Trade Found Fading
The U.S. competitive position in world trade this year will slip to its lowest point in 34 years, Commerce Department predicts. It added that exports will exceed imports by only $500 million in 1971.

COMMENT: And our trade balance will slip into a deficit in future years unless inflation is checked. Inflation prices American products out of foreign markets, largely because higher wages to keep up with higher domestic costs of living make our products costly. Our lavish spending on foreign travel doesn't help either.

sending out letters last week setting up what amounts to a revival of the President's Club of the LBJ era.

Strauss sent his letter to prominent, well-heeled Democrats, inviting them to join a new '72 Sponsors' Club. Membership requires a payment of $75 a month for one year, totaling $864. In return, the Sponsor's Club members receive the same sort of harmless exclusive privileges granted to members of the now defunct President's Club at the 1964 national convention—a big cocktail party at the 1972 convention, plush clubrooms in Miami Beach, and special seating at the convention hall.

But the recommendations of the O'Hara reform commission on rules, which would make the management of a national convention most difficult, include a specific prohibition against any special convention privileges for rich contributors. Thus, the new Sponsors' Club may hasten what seems an inevitable confrontation over convention procedures between Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien and Strauss on the one hand and the O'Hara commission on the other.

A footnote: Revenue from the Sponsors' Club, hopefully more than $850,000, will not be applied to the party's $9 million debt but he earmarked for the campaign war chest of the 1972 Presidential nominee.

No Extension For Drug-Users

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. military command announced today that American servicemen wishing to extend their tour of duty in Vietnam must undergo urinalysis tests for narcotics.

Until now, only servicemen returning to the United States or another assignment outside Vietnam were given the tests.

The command said Servicemen found to be drug users would not be permitted to extend their tours beyond the prescribed year.

They will undergo detoxification treatment to rid their system of drugs and be returned to the United States, the command announcement said.

elity for this country. About 1,000 maids in Italy come from the Capo Verde islands or from Ethiopia. Others are "imported" from Spain and number around 2,000. Many people also try to get girls from Northern Europe.

Foreign maids often find that Italy is not such a good bargain. "In many cases employers who paid for the journey deduct the expense from their wages," says Miss Faccinani. They also receive much lower pay—around $48—do not benefit from social security and find it almost impossible to get another job, she said.

Employers complain that maids—foreign or Italian—will often refuse to work in a family that has young children. Some girls find the work too hard.

They no longer want to scrub the laundry or beat carpets but must have washing machines and vacuum cleaners, the homeowners say.

prosecution is actively pursued, the pursuit proves exhausting. The new rules that have been spun from the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Amendments, going chiefly to the admissibility of evidence and to the role of counsel, have opened such legalistic chasms that "a gulf of obscurity separates the law from the people."

What can be done about the law's delays? Mitchell reviewed a dozen proposals. One approach is "simply to dismiss all criminal cases if they are not brought to trial in a given period," but this he sees as a "non-solution." Innocent defendants are not vindicated by outright acquittal; guilty defendants are set free on society for the commission of further crimes. As for providing more of everything — more judges, more courtrooms, more prosecutors — "these are just more buckets to bail out the boat, rather than plugging the hole."

The remedy, in Mitchell's view, lies partly with defense lawyers, who have ethical obligations not only to their clients but also to the courts. But the remedy lies even more clearly in the hands of judges, at the trial level and especially at the appellate level.

"The judiciary," said Mitchell, "can recognize that perhaps it has been too preoccupied with the exhilarating adventure of making new law and new public policy from the bench, and that this function of the courts has outdistanced the more sober task of judging guilt and innocence."

All that Mitchell is asking, in the name of justice, is "courtroom common sense." The British have managed to bring this to their own criminal courts. Why can't we?

within commuting distance of the University to earn their first two years of college credit toward the Baccalaureate Degree or to take occasional courses by attending classes at the University at night. Many individuals may enroll for day classes through the University College. It is also possible for students to transfer from the University College to the regular day program at ECU.

Students over 21 years of age need not take an entrance examination to be admitted to the University College.

Application for admission should be made by August 25.

Educational offerings for the fall term include basic courses in biology, business, English, geography, history, math, political science, and psychology. Four and five-hour credit courses will meet twice weekly from 6:30-9:00 p. m., while three-hour credit courses will meet once weekly from 6:30-9:30 p. m. Courses are offered Monday through Thursday evenings. Courses for the fall term begin September 8.

It's Harder To Keep Wraps On Secret Laotian War

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Day by day and leak by leak, the secret war in Laos is becoming more and more difficult to hide.

Georgia First

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia tobacco warehousemen have been warned that their licenses will be revoked if they market more than their quota of out-of-state tobacco when the marketing begins Aug. 3. Agriculture Commissioner Thomas T. Irvin Wednesday told the warehousemen that the quota for non-Georgia sales is 60 per cent of the average of out-of-state tobacco quantities sold during the past five years. Some of the warehousemen complained that the new formula would hurt their business. "You had better drum up some Georgia business," replied Irvin. "I take care of the Georgia farmers first." The impact of the new formula will be felt mostly in Statesboro, Metter, Swainsboro, Vidalia and Claxton — locations where warehouses have sold high quantities of the out-of-state leaf from Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Democratic and Republican have refused to discuss the extent of U.S. involvement in Laos, a small, landlocked and officially neutral country whose borders touch China, North and South Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand and Burma.

The question is not whether the United States provides military and economic aid to the neutralist government of Laos, but whether Americans are actually engaged in fighting.

The official response, as enunciated by President Nixon when asked during a Sept. 26, 1969, news conference about American involvement in the war, is: "There are no American combat forces in Laos."

A year later, an Associated Press dispatch from Saigon quoted a military source as saying casualties for U.S. Special Forces troops in Laos were 1 or 2 killed and 3 to 10 wounded each month.

Asked about the figures, a U.S. command spokesman in Saigon said, "There are no U.S. combat troops in Laos."

Slowly, over a long series of hearings, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has disclosed some of the U.S. involvement in Laos. Other information has come from such sources as the Pentagon papers, present and former government officials, and field dispatches.

Among the disclosures: —There are 4,800 Thai troops led by a Thai general and supported entirely by U.S. funds fighting in Laos despite an act of Congress prohibiting support of mercenaries.

—Cambodian troops, trained by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency have been fighting in Laos. Forty Cambodians were killed and an undisclosed number wounded in recent heavy fighting for the Bolovens Plateau.

—Current budget figures show the United States spending $90 million for military and $52 million for economic aid to Laos. The correct figure, congressional sources claim, is nearly $500 million most of which is channeled through the CIA.

—Congressional source estimates $2 billion is being spent each year bombing that part of the Ho Chi Minh Trail, principal Communist supply route from North to South Vietnam, that runs through Laos.

—Since 1964, the United States also has conducted bombing raids in support of the Royal Laotian Army. While the number of sorties is classified, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., has said "a handful" in 1964 increased a hundredfold in 1965, then nearly doubled again in 1966.

—As of Jan. 27, 1971, according to the State Department, there were 1,034 Americans in Laos, including 395 employees of the Agency for International Development, 244 with the military attaché's office, and 300 employed by Air America and Continental Air Services International, two air lines supported by the CIA.

—Since 1961, the CIA has had an undisclosed number of agents working principally with Meo tribesmen in northern Laos and more recently with the Thai forces.

When John F. Kennedy became President in 1961, Laos was the United States' most pressing problem in Southeast Asia.

In President Dwight D. Eisenhower's view "the fall of Laos to Communism could mean the subsequent fall—like a tumbling row of dominoes—of its still-free neighbors."

Eisenhower supported the pro-Western government of Premier Boua Oum. With Boua Oum's army taking a beating from the pro-Communist Pathet Lao and their North Vietnamese allies, American advisers were sent into Laos to try to shore up the faltering Laotian Army.

Kennedy sought instead to defuse the situation through formation of a Laotian coalition government led by neutralist Souvanna Phouma.

Negotiations began in Geneva in May 1961 with W. Averell Harriman heading the U.S. delegation. The so-called Geneva accords were signed in July 1962. They declared Laos a neutral country and called for withdrawal of all foreign troops through designated checkpoints.

In an interview, Harriman said the North Vietnamese who had about 10,000 troops in Laos "did not keep the Laos agreement for a single day." Intelligence sources believe the North Vietnamese eventually reduced their forces to about 5,000 troops without bothering with checkpoints.

The United States withdrew about 750 Americans. Whether any Americans stayed behind in Laos is uncertain.

Harriman and Roger Hillman, a State Department specialist in the area during the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, say the United States adhered meticulously to the requirement for total withdrawal. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader and a recognized authority on Southeast Asia, said in an interview: "The CIA was in Laos before the Geneva accords and they stayed after 1962."

When the North Vietnamese resumed their offensive a year later, Souvanna Phouma, now Laos' prime minister, asked the United States for supplies and ammunition to help his forces counter the Communists. He also asked the United States to say as little as possible about the assistance.

United States aid flowed into Laos, but the focus was changing. South Vietnam had become the Southeast Asian crisis point, and American policy makers began to view Laos in relation to the Vietnam war.

According to a State Department source: "North Vietnamese utilization of the trail area overwhelmed other concerns." On Dec. 10, 1964, Souvanna gave his government's permission for the start of U.S. air strikes against the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

According to the Pentagon papers the National Security Council on Dec. 12 decided "there would be no public operations statements about armed reconnaissance in Laos unless a plane were lost. In such an event ... the government should continue to insist that we were merely escorting reconnaissance flights as requested by the Laotian government."

It wasn't until May 1966 that the Pentagon publicly acknowledged 19 Americans most of them airmen, had died in Laos since 1961. In August 1966 the figure was updated to 30 killed.

Three months later, an unnamed military source in Saigon acknowledged: we already have quite a number of Special Forces people operating in Laos.

Corn Blight Is Spreading

RALEIGH (AP) — The hot, muggy weather across North Carolina in recent weeks has aided the spread of corn blight to 65 of the state's 100 counties, including all those in the coastal plains region.

A plant pathologist at North Carolina State University, J.C. Wells, said Wednesday the situation "is worsening but not nearly as serious as it was last year this time."

"Some individual farmers apparently are in trouble, but statewide the situation is not critical," Wells said.

"The degree of infection at this time indicates there will be some yield reduction from blight."

"Just how important an economic factor the disease will be is difficult to estimate at this time. Much will depend on how much of the state crop is planted to resistant corn," he said.

Wells said the susceptible strains of corn are heavily infected in many stances. He said one study showed that only 3 per cent of the state's corn fields consisted of susceptible varieties, with the remainder being either resistant varieties or blends.

Berrigan Brothers Told Wait On Paroles Appeal

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Board of Parole has decided the brothers Berrigan, antiwar Roman Catholic priests, must remain in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn., for at least another 16 months.

Philip, 47, and Daniel, 49, were refused parole Wednesday.

The board decreed Daniel must serve out the rest of his three-year sentence for destruction of draft records at Catonsville, Md., in 1968. With time off for good behavior, he could be released Nov. 23, 1972.

Philip Berrigan, accused of plotting to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger as part of escalating antiwar activity, will be reheard by the board in January 1973. He is serving concurrent sentences that could keep him in prison until September of 1975. Philip's sentences stem from convictions for destruction of draft records at Catonsville and Baltimore in 1967.

Parole Board Chairman George J. Reed said the decision was made "after full review of both cases." The board's session took place behind closed doors and Reed offered no explanation of its decision.

A probable factor in the decision was the indictments accusing Philip of masterminding the alleged Kissinger kidnap plot from his cell at the federal prison in Lewisburg, Pa. The brothers were both taken to Danbury last August after Daniel, who eluded FBI agents for four months after jumping bond, was captured at the home of friends on Block Island, R.I.

Philip Berrigan started serving the six-year sentence he received on the Baltimore conviction in July of 1968, but was let out on appeal in December of that year. He remained out on bond and writs for more than a year.

He was scheduled to report to federal authorities April 9, 1970, but both he and Daniel went underground.

Philip was captured by FBI agents 12 days later, but Daniel was a fugitive for more than four months.

Among the offenses alleged in the Kissinger kidnap indictment were infractions of prison rules by Philip in smuggling letters out of Lewisburg. At the same time, he sent word through friends that he was being mistreated.

UN Tips On Eating Out

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Even the rawest newcomer to U.N. service may manage to eat out in Manhattan and yet not spend a fortune, with a little luck and a handy guide prepared by the Staff Activities and Housing Section here.

The 12-page guide, fittingly titled "Eating Out in Manhattan," remarks that a complete meal at a coffee shop "might cost from $1.50 to $3" and that cafeterias "generally are the least expensive places to eat."

It lists 81 restaurants—"places where you can have a more leisurely meal and where liquor may be served"—which "will provide a complete meal for less than $5," or so it says.

In case you want to eat in restaurants not on the list, the guide points out many post their menus in their windows.

"Those which are expensive generally do not display their bill of fare," it says. "If you enter a restaurant that does not have a menu posted, ask to see it before you sit down; check prices."

The pamphlet also lists 13 places for "Evening Snacks and Drinks." They carry such descriptions as "Banjo-plucking palace," "Gathering place for young single people" and "Swinging bar for young New Yorkers."

It advises against having meals in such places, saying, "This can become quite expensive."

Maps Campaign
Against Drinks

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Allen A. Bailey, Charlotte lawyer who is directing a campaign against mixed drinks in North Carolina, says he has begun legal research to determine what form of court action will be taken.

Coy C. Privette, president of the North Carolina Christian Action League, announced Wednesday that Bailey would be chief counsel for the forces contesting the constitutionality of local option laws allowing referendums on mixed drinks in Moore and Mecklenburg counties. The league is the statewide organization against liquor by the drink.

Union Accepts Contract Terms

TARBORO, N. C. (AP) — The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. has announced that its unionized employees have voted to accept a three-year contract which raises wages and fringe benefits nearly 30 per cent during the period.

The Communications Workers of America represents about 3,000 employees in the plant and traffic departments. The company had headquarters in Tarboro and district offices in Rocky Mount, Fayetteville and New Bern. It serves 40 counties in North Carolina.

Robeson County, and aerial spraying of the area beings today in an attempt to eliminate a possible threat to the state's forests.

Gypsy moths are considered one of the most dangerous insects for American forests. In 1970 more than 800,000 acres of trees were defoliated by the pests in their caterpillar stage in forests from New Jersey to Canada.

Al Elder, state entomologist with the Department of Agriculture, said Wednesday, "Infestations of the moths are just exploding up north. We had anticipated finding some moths here, but we hoped that day would have been several years away."

The moth was found July 20 in a special moth trap at a roadside rest area south of Fayetteville in Robeson County.

State agricultural officials received a positive identification of the moth from the U.S. Department of Agriculture Friday. Three more moths found in the same area have been forwarded to the USDA for identification.

"It's definitely not an established infestation yet," Elder said, "The male moth could have latched onto a camper trailer and been driven down here. But if we find there are females in the area, there is the possibility of an established infestation."

Today a 14-acre wooded area in Robeson County was to be sprayed from the air with four pounds of chemically treated confetti doused with a "sex scent" that attracts the male moths. Elder said the moths would be attracted but would be unable to locate the source of the small and would "just fly around in confused circles."

"Our goal is to stop females from laying fertile eggs," he said.

Until recently the moths were kept under control with sprayings of DDT, and Elder said once DDT was banned the destruction by the months began increasing at a "phenomenal rate."

The moths do their damage while in the larval or caterpillar stage. A large caterpillar, about two inches in length, can eat about one square foot of leaf surface in 24 hours.

"The caterpillar is a voracious feeder," Elder said. "They can completely defoliate a tree. It's really quite an environmental pollutant, when you consider it takes one defoliation to kill a hardwood tree and two to kill a softwood."

N.C. Truckers Booming, Thanks To Railroad Strike

By ROGER D. JOLLEY
Associated Press Writer
The trucking industry in North Carolina is booming, thanks to the strike against major railroads, but it may be too much of a good thing.

Has Magazine Editorial Role

Sally Boyette, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyette of Greenville, will share the responsibility of preparing the layout of a Governor's School literary magazine with Bill Cathey.

The magazine is currently being readied for publication and distribution to the 400 Governor's School students. Staff members have titled the magazine "Undiffaestinum", and accepted submissions on both art and written form.

Miss Boyette is a rising senior at Rose High School. While at the Governor's School, she is concentrating her studies in English.

petition out of business temporarily, trucking firms find themselves with about as much business as they can handle.

One trucking company official, however, called the situation "a side-sided coin." If the rail strike strangles industries to the point where they must close up shop, he noted, the trucking industry will lose some of its regular customers.

At present, many industries, particularly cigarette manufacturers and poultry producers in western North Carolina, are making use of trucks to get raw materials and to move their finished products to railheads not affected by the strike.

The United Transportation Workers are on strike against four railroads, including Southern Railway and the Norfolk and Western Railroad, which serve industries primarily in the western parts of North Carolina and South Carolina.

George Young, marketing manager for Hennis Freight Lines of Winston-Salem, said the trucking industry "has enjoyed quite a bit of rail-diverted traffic."

Young said Hennis is not using all of its available trucks but has experienced unprecedented growth in business since the rail strike began two weeks ago.

Coast Slips Into Gulf Of Mexico

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Every year one or two inches of a large chunk of Mexico's east coast slips into the Gulf of Mexico, government scientists say. The 75,000-square mile landslide has been happening for two million years.

A recent study conducted by the U.S. Geological Survey and Mexican scientific organizations showed that earth layers beneath the gulf's seafloor are crumpled in a pattern similar to that found at the base of large landslides, said George Moore, a government geologist.

ckers by causing temporary shutdowns by regular customers.

A spokesman for Thurston Motor Lines in Charlotte said business has picked up so much the firm is having trouble meeting requirements. She said 420,000 pounds of goods were standing on the docks at Norfolk awaiting trucks to take them to markets.

The spokesman cited similar backlogs of goods in Columbia, Atlanta and Fayetteville.

At McLean Trucking Co. in Winston-Salem, George E. Spaulding, director of advertising and public relations, said the firm's business has increased "somewhat." "We know some of the business is due to the strike, but we don't know how much," he said.

Spaulding said as far as he knew the firm had not had to refuse service when it was requested.

Old Dominion Freight Line of High Point said if its load of new business becomes any heavier it will have to embargo certain items so it can satisfy its regular customers.

William E. Chestnutt, vice president for operations of Old Dominion, said his firm has become "burdened" with traffic since the strike began. He estimated traffic in July was running 10 per cent above the previous month including a week following July 4th when many firms were closed for vacation.

Children's Theater Play Saturday Night

The Greenville Children's Theater will present a three-act play entitled Young Alec and the Magic Voice, a biography of Alexander Graham Bell, Saturday at 8:15 at the Methodist Student Center.

The Children's Theater, directed by Mrs. Beth Cayton, has entertained full houses this summer with a variety of plays.

Young Alec will be performed as a reader's theater piece. The actors will be dressed in black and white and the set will be done in black and white. The emphasis will be on characterization rather than stage movement, Mrs. Cayton said.

The play will be interpreted by Dorsey Sanderson and Connie Merritt, narrators and sound people. The actors are Joseph Gibbs as Young Alec; Emmett Walsh as Melville Bell, his brother; Beth Lancaster, as Eliza Bell, his mother; Jimmy Riggs as Alexander Bell II, his father; Becky Dixon as Mrs. McLaren, his teacher; Lindy Pollard as Alexander Bell I, his grandfather; and Tammy Moore as Miss Beth, the housekeeper.

Pit Dickson, as Alec as a young man; Chris Dickson, as Melvy as a young man; and Al Alston as Mr. Watson, Alec's assistant.

The admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

The rail strike in the South hit poultry producers especially hard.

Ed Woodhouse, executive secretary of the North Carolina Poultry Federation, termed the situation "critical" in the industry.

He said a recent survey showed the areas of Moore and Wilkes counties and the city of Morganton face a critical shortage of chicken feed, which is normally brought in from the Midwest by Southern Railway.

"Many of the areas are having to truck the grain in from other places," he said. "Some are having trouble getting trucks" and the grain supplies in some areas will be nearly depleted by the end of the week, he said.

Also hard hit was R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. of Winston-Salem, which has relied on railroads to bring in raw materials and carry out finished tobacco products.

A spokesman said the firm is using trucks to carry the products to the town of Midway near Winston-Salem, where they are loaded on the Winston-Salem Southbound Railroad, which is not being struck.

Reynolds told its employees shortly after the rail strike began that it might have to shut down its Winston-Salem plant or at least curtail production.

A spokesman said this week such moves have not been necessary. He said the company is using "quite a few" trucking firms to handle its needs.

Dr. Adler To Yugoslavia

Dr. Philip J. Adler, associate professor in history at East Carolina University and specialist in East European history, leaves soon for Europe to begin a research program on September 1; made available by a Fulbright Faculty Research Grant.

The grant, of six months duration, will take Dr. Adler to Yugoslavia, where he will carry out studies on 18th century Serbian history. For six centuries a vassal of Turkey, Serbia became an independent kingdom in 1878. Following World War I, Serbia was incorporated into what is now modern Yugoslavia.

A veteran of military service in Europe between 1954 and 1956, the Philadelphia native has been a faculty member at East Carolina since 1966. Before coming here he taught at the University of Maryland.

For Dr. Adler, one of seven American faculty members to receive a Fulbright grant for study in Yugoslavia, this will be his fifth trip into that country since 1959. The last trip he made there was in the summer of 1970. After completion of the grant, the history professor will return to East Carolina University to resume his teaching post for the spring quarter. The grant ends on February 28, 1972.

Rate Increase For Gas Okayed

RALEIGH (AP) — The Utilities Commission has turned down a request by the Public Service Co. of North Carolina, a natural gas supplier, for a rate increase that would have cost the average customer an extra 15 cents a month.

Public Service, which serves 22 counties in the Piedmont area, asked last Friday for a 0.7 per cent rate hike to offset rising prices charged by its supplier, Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corp.

City Counted 2 Accidents

One person was injured and an estimated $1,000 in damages occurred in two traffic accidents investigated Wednesday afternoon by Greenville Police.

Officers reported that Joe John Lang of 903 Legion Street was injured when the car he was operating was involved in a collision with an automobile driven by Linwood Earl Everett of Rt. 1, Winterville on Memorial Drive near the W. Third Street intersection.

Damage was estimated at $600 to the Lang car and $150 to the Everett vehicle.

Lang, who was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment, was charged with following too closely following investigation of the 3:54 p.m. wreck.

Brian Lafayette Heffner Jr. of 1126 W. Davis Street, Burlington, was charged with having improper brakes following a collision on W. Fifth Street west of the Pitt Street intersection.

Police reported that Heffner's car was damaged an estimated $150 and a car driven by Julian Carr Lamm Jr. of 1122 S. Overlook Drive had damages totaling $100.

No injuries were reported in the 1:30 p.m. accident.

Convict 110 In Coup Murders

JAKARTA (AP) — Military courts have convicted 110 military men in the past five years for a part in the murder of six army generals during the 1965 attempted Communist coup, an army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said 10 of the men were sentenced to death, 20 to life terms and the other 80 to prison terms ranging from 15 to 20 years. He refused to say how many of the 10 have been executed.

Reagan Spurns Nomination

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California says he would not accept the Republican nomination for vice president even if the GOP denied the nomination to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The Californian said he thought he could do more in his present position.

"I don't have political ambitions to go any further," Reagan said in a televised interview with William F. Buckley. "Much can be done and much has been done in California. Forty-nine other states really keep an eye on California. California is kind of a microcosm and has been a pacesetter."

The program, "Firing Line," was taped in Sacramento.

Five Men Chosen For Medina's Courtmartial

By KATHRYN JOHNSON Associated Press Writer FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Capt. Ernest L. Medina will be judged by five superior officers, all of them Vietnam veterans, when his courtmartial resumes Aug. 16.

The jurors were agreed upon Wednesday, after three days of questioning in a tiny, paneled courtroom at this headquarters post of the 3rd Army. Five is the bare minimum required to hear the case.

The military judge, Col Kenneth Howard, then asked Medina how he pleaded. Medina's defense lawyer, F. Lee Bailey, answered for the captain.

"Not guilty to everything, your honor," said Bailey, standing before the judge with Medina.

Then, the court-martial was recessed for 18 days to allow the government time to subpoena 48 witnesses and arrange for their transportation here.

Those who will try Medina, who was commander of the assault force at My Lai, include two colonels, two lieutenant colonels and one major. Four are combat veterans of either Vietnam of Korea and the fifth served on a noncombat tour in Vietnam.

One juror is black, the first to be included on any jury in the trials involving the American infantrymen who swept through My Lai March 16, 1968.

In all, 10 officers were examined as prospective jurors. A sixth juror who was tentatively accepted was eliminated Wednesday by the prosecution, which exercised its lone peremptory challenge against him.

Urges Moving Of Entire Town

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — A Papuan member of the New Guinea House of Representatives appealed to the Australian administration today to move the entire town of Rabaul to a site 20 miles away because of the danger of volcanic eruptions.

Matthias Toliman said Rabaul's people are threatened by eruptions and tidal waves as a result of hundreds of earthquakes since July 14. Two persons have died.

Toliman proposed that the townspeople be moved 20 miles east to the small settlement of Kokopo. There was no immediate reaction from the administration.

Rabaul, a town of more than 5,000 people at the northeast end of New Britain island, is surrounded by volcanoes, and an eruption in 1937 killed 600 persons.

No Damage Yet From Rainfall

Although a total of 1.13 inches of rain has fallen over the Pitt County area since Monday, no apparent damage to the tobacco crop has been seen.

According to Ed Yancey, chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, no drowned tobacco has been observed in this area yet.

"The effects of Wednesday's rain are not known at this time," Yancey explained, "but we haven't seen any drowning yet."

"The rain will cause tobacco to ripen faster because it leaches nutrients out of the soil," Yancey noted. "If it continues to rain, some drowning will probably occur."

Warm humid weather provides ideal growing conditions for corn blight and causes the disease to be more severe.

"By and large," Yancey added, "the rain is really helping to make the corn crop." Yancey continued, "Everywhere we have seen fields with T-Cytoplasm seed planted, we have observed the leaf blight in practically all of those plantings. To date, however, no southern corn blight has been identified where N-Normal Cytoplasm was planted."

Yancey said farmers should keep their peanuts sprayed or dusted for leaf spot because this humid weather is ideal for the growth and spread of this disease in peanuts.

According to the Greenville Utilities Commission, .9 of an inch of rainfall fell over the area Wednesday, with .07 of an inch Tuesday and .16 of an inch for Monday.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending this morning at 8 o'clock was 89 degrees and the low for that period was 69 degrees. The temperature this morning at 8 o'clock was 71 degrees.

Suit Dropped

NEW YORK (AP) — Television talk show host Johnny Carson has withdrawn a suit in which he sought to prohibit early morning window washing activities which disturbed his slumber.

A spokesman for the cooperative where Carson has a $375,000 apartment would say Wednesday only that an amicable settlement of the dispute had been reached. Carson was not available for comment.

Walker Stops Dodgers Again

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

It has taken Luke Walker quite a while to convince Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh that his arm is sound. While Murtaugh has just become a believer, the Los Angeles Dodgers were sure of it 11 days ago.

Walker, slowed by elbow problems this season, pitched his second straight strong game—both against the Dodgers—stopping Los Angeles 4-0 on four hits Wednesday night.

It was his first start since he one-hit Los Angeles 7-1 July 18, losing his no-hit bid in the ninth inning on a leadoff homer by rookie Joe Ferguson.

While Walker was shacking the Dodgers for the second consecutive time, Ferguson Jenkins, the National League's top winner, posted his 17th victory as the Chicago Cubs trounced Montreal 10-2.

Elsewhere in the NL, San Diego downed Cincinnati 4-2; Houston defeated Philadelphia 6-3; San Francisco edged Atlanta 2-1, and St. Louis trimmed New York 6-3.

In the American League, Detroit overcame Kansas City 8-7; Chicago overtook New York 5-4; Washington whipped Minnesota 7-1; Milwaukee blanked Boston 5-0; Baltimore shaded Oakland 3-2, and California clipped Cleveland 5-1.

Walker, the biggest winner on the Pirate staff last season with 15 victories but now only 5-7, again was in complete command against the slumping Dodgers, who suffered their 15th loss in 21 games. He was nicked for second-inning singles by Wes Parker and Willie Crawford, retired 19 batters in a row, then allowed ninth-inning singles to Manny Mota and Maury Wills.

He walked only one and struck out three. It was his first shutout since April 8 when he beat Philadelphia 2-0 on five hits. After that, Walker lost his next six decisions and was sent to the bullpen.

His one-hitter against the Dodgers was his first victory since June 23 and his first start since June 29. Afterward he said:

"I'd rather pitch the rest of the year than pitch a no-hitter and not pitch any more this season."

There seems little doubt he will get many more starts this season.

Bill Singer, 5-13, and winless since June 12, absorbed his fourth consecutive setback for the Dodgers. He gave up a run in the second on Bob Robertson's 20th homer, a run in the fifth on Al Oliver's double and Roberto Clemente's single, another run in the seventh on Jackie Hernandez' triple and Bill Mazerowski's sacrifice fly, and the final run in the eighth on singles by Clemente and Willie Stargell and a sacrifice fly by Robertson.

Jenkins, 17-8, became the top strikeout artist in the National League, fanning seven Montreal batters for a season's total of 177.

He scattered 10 hits—all singles—and helped win his sixth game in a row with a two-run single, capping a three-run third inning against Carl Morton, 8-12. The Cubs also scored three times in the first off Morton, with Billy Williams and Ron Santo each singling in a run and the other coming home on an error.

Dave Campbell's three-run homer in the fifth inning—his first homer since May 24—carried Clay Kirby and the Padres past Cincinnati. Kirby stopped the Reds on four hits, including Tony Perez' two-run homer, in beating them for the fifth straight time over the past two seasons.

Joe Morgan supported Don Wilson's six-hit, seven-strikeout pitching against Philadelphia with a triple, a single and two runs batted in. Morgan said he believes the Astros, who trail first-place San Francisco by 10 games in the West, can still overtake the Giants.

Alan Gallagher drove in both San Francisco runs against Atlanta, smacking a run-scoring double in the sixth and a tie-breaking single in the eighth. His game-winning hit scored Dick Dietz, who had doubled, and enabled John Cumberland to gain his sixth victory in seven decisions.

Joe Torre, the league's leading batter at .368, cracked a two-run homer and rookie Jose Cruz belted a solo homer, helping St. Louis beat the Mets for Steve Carlton's 14th victory.

Brock Brakes In With Steal

Lou Brock, St. Louis Cards left fielder, slides into third as he steals the base in the first inning against the New York Mets at Shea Stadium Wednesday. Third baseman Bob Aspromonte leaps to take the throw from Mets catcher Duffy Dyer. The umpire is John Kibler. Brock earlier had stolen second. (AP Wirephoto)

Olympic Hopfuls At Pan-American Opening

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CALI, Colombia (AP) — The United States is sending a lot of "hungry kids," pointing toward the 1972 Munich Olympics, into the track and field competition of the sixth Pan American Games, opening Friday.

"For the first time in three Pan Am Games, we will have a true Olympic nucleus and not a track squad we had to beg or persuade to organize," Arthur G. Lentz, U.S. Olympic Committee Executive Director, said on the eve of the western hemisphere athletic shows' kickoff.

Following traditional opening ceremonies Friday in the main Pascual Guerrero Stadium, the six-day track and field competition begins Saturday in the same arena.

This bustling city of almost one million in the Valle del Cauca, some 100 miles inland from the Pacific Ocean has had typical organizational pains in preparing for an influx of 2,800 athletes from 30 countries in North and South America.

But trials and tribulations of athletes crammed into the Pan Am village, better known as Claustrophobia Manor, should subside Friday when two days of inaugural activity culminates with official opening of the games by proclamation of Colombian President Misael Pastrana Borrero. The ceremony actually began Thursday with arrival (5 p.m., EDT) by military escort from Palmira, 25 miles north, of the Olympic torch kept flaming since the 1968 Mexico City Olympics.

The torch was to be placed overnight in an urn in Pan American Park, adjacent to the

Boys Home Game Week

Governor Robert W. Scott has designated Saturday, August 7, as "Boys Home All-Star Game Day in North Carolina."

The Governor proclaimed the day in honor of the Jaycee-sponsored event, which will hold its ninth annual revival in Ficklen Stadium at 8 p.m. on the 7th.

The annual event brings together outstanding high school football players from across the state, and proceeds from the affair goes to help support the Boys Home at Lake Waccamaw.

A total of 672,432 fans paid to see the New York Rangers play in Madison Square Garden during the 1970-71 National Hockey League season.

LOUISBURG — Louisburg Junior College handed the East Carolina Pirates another loss last night in the North Carolina Summer Baseball League, 6-0. The Pirates were unable to push over a run against the hurling of Mike Edwards, who went the distance against them, scattering six hits.

Louisburg meanwhile took advantage of three home runs to push over five of their six runs. The other came on a ground out. The loss was the third in a row for the Pirates, and dropped their record two games below .500, to 11-13. Louisburg is now 12-14.

The Pirates got off a few threats in the game, but nothing ever came of it. They got one double, off the bat of Mike Aldridge, who picked up two of their six hits. The game was a scoreless deadlock through the first three innings, but Louisburg finally broke the ice in the fourth against reliever Mike Van Landingham.

In the fourth, Rich Richardson reached with a two-bagger, then moved on to third on a ground out. Al Barbour walked and Frank Layton also got a free pass, loading the bases. Jerry Suggs then grounded out, but Richardson crossed on the play for a 1-0 lead. It was all Louisburg really needed.

In the fifth, however, they began their home run barrage that brought them five more runs. Sherwood Driver singled to open the inning, and Wayne Ellington upped the score to 3-0 with a homer over the fence in center field.

The seventh-inning saw two more runs come across for the Hurricanes. Ellington was given a walk but Lindsay Etheridge did the honors, cracking a home run to left center, as the score climbed to 5-0.

The last run came in the eighth inning. That was another homer, a solo blast by Alan Sasser.

The Pirates return home tonight to face the last place team in the standings, Campbell, bidding for a halt in their losing streak. Game time at Harrington Field is 7:30 p. m.

All Stars

Try Again

CHICAGO (AP) — There is a popular theory that football games are won between the lines but the recent College All Star battles indicate they are usually lost in the secondary.

The All Stars haven't knocked off the professional champions in this midsummer classic since 1963 and each year it seems that a Joe Namath, Bart Starr or Len Dawson has amazing success in passing against the collegiates.

This year, the All Stars have a host of speedy talent ready to stop Baltimore and Earl Morrall, the 38-year-old quarterback who came off the bench in the Super Bowl and led the Colts to a 16-13 triumph over Dallas.

Blanton Collier, retired coach of the Cleveland Browns, making his debut as All Star mentor, has four cornerbacks to patrol the airways and he says "they all have speed."

This speed—belonging to Len Dunlap of North Texas State, Clarence Scott of Kansas State, Isaac Thomas of Bishop College and Norm Thompson of Utah—will be on display—and on the spot—Friday night at Soldier Field in the 38th renewal of the series. The pros hold a 29-9-2 series edge. The game will be televised nationally by ABC at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

It will be up to Dunlap, Scott, Thomas and Thompson to stop Baltimore's receiving corps of Ray Perkins, Roy Jefferson and Eddie Hinton.

Baseball Is One Or Two Players Short

(Third of a series)

East Carolina University's baseball team suffered its first losing season in 37 years earlier this year. Probably it was just the law of averages catching up with the Pirates.

But there are some who are afraid it might be the teams on the schedule that have caught up with a program that needs to be pushed a little more.

Earl Smith doesn't quite feel that way. Although he admits that the other members of the Southern Conference have greatly improved their baseball programs, he doesn't feel that East Carolina's ready to fold.

"Year in and year out, we're just a little bit ahead of the rest of the teams in the conference," he said. "Now, of course, they are good enough and they'll win their share of them."

Smith feels that East Carolina's program is within one or two players from winning the conference championship every year.

Orioles Rally After Brooks Makes Three Incredible Errors

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"All I ask," Oakland Manager Dick Williams was commenting before the game, "is that my players hustle and not beat themselves."

The Robinsons of Baltimore must have overheard him—with a couple of astonishing results.

Brooks Robinson, the Orioles' vacuum cleaner of a third baseman who has been voted the American League's top man at the hot corner for 11 successive seasons, suddenly turned butterfingers Wednesday night.

He committed three errors on a pair of two-out grounders and slapped into a pair of rally-wrecking double plays that seemed to give Oakland a 2-0 victory.

But in the bottom of the ninth inning it was Frank Robinson to the rescue.

John "Blue Moon" Odom had checked the Orioles on just three hits before singles by Don Buford and Merv Rettenmund knocked him out with none away.

"But every other year, it looks like we're just that one or two players short."

Outside competition is just the opposite. Where the Pirates are normally those one or two players ahead of the Southern competition the outside schools, such as those in the ACC, are one or two ahead of the Bucs. "They have them, and as a result, over a period of ball games, we are going to get beat by those teams."

East Carolina will win its share from time to time, but over the course of a series, ECU will be on the short end of the score.

The reason for this, of course, is economic. "It's true that every year we've raised our budget a little bit. But it's also true that the overall college expenses have gone up, and faster than our scholarships." And because of this, the level of ECU play is slipping slightly.

Ten years ago, East Carolina was able to recruit players for little or nothing. But this is no longer true. Prospective players Big Frank wasted no time against reliever Roland Fingers, who only the night before had been victimized by Brooks' two-out, two-run homer in the ninth that powered Baltimore to a triumph.

Frank pounced on his first pitch, driving it deep into the right field bleachers, catapulting the East Division-leading Orioles to a 3-2 stunner over the A's, front-runners in the West.

In other American League contests, the Chicago White Sox rallied to beat the New York Yankees 5-4, Milwaukee silenced Boston 5-0, California topped Cleveland 5-1, Detroit overhauled Kansas City 8-7 and Washington blitzed Minnesota 7-1.

In the National League, St. Louis whipped the New York Mets 6-3 and San Francisco nipped Atlanta 2-1 in afternoon action, Houston flipped Philadelphia 6-3, the Chicago Cubs bombed Montreal 10-2, San Diego beat Cincinnati 4-2 and Pittsburgh zipped Los Angeles 4-0.

"It just wasn't my night," understated Brooks Robinson, who couldn't recall ever committing three errors in an inning.

Frank, meanwhile, hadn't gotten a hit in 15 at-bats before the climactic clout, his 17th round-tripper of the year, and his average had dipped below the .300 mark, although he was among the league leaders in runs batted in with 60 going into the game.

So when the elated Orioles stormed into the locker room after the victory, Brooks grabbed him and shouted:

"It's about time you were doing something. We've been carrying you for a long time."

Ron Swoboda cracked a two-out homer in the top of the ninth, his first of the year, to put the Yanks ahead 4-3 before the White Sox swarmed back in the bottom of the inning.

Mike Andrew's leadoff walk sent New York starter Fritz Peterson to the showers and pinch singles by Pat Kelly and Carlo May tied it up against Lindy McDaniel.

With one away, Ed Herrmann slapped an apparent double play grounder at shortstop Gene Michael, whose relay to Horace Clarke at second base got the second out of the inning.

But Clarke's toss to first bounced past Danny Cater and Kelly steamed home with the winning run.

Rookie Jim Slaton of the Brewers blanked the Red Sox on just three hits, the 17th shutout by the Milwaukee staff this year.

He got plenty of support as Tommy Harper had a two-run homer and Ted Kubiak smacked a two-run double.

Shortstop Jack Heidemann booted a pair of routine grounders providing the Angels with a pair of fourth-inning runs, the only ones they needed as Rudy May went the route, scattering six Indians hits.

Al Kaline and Gates Brown unloaded two-run homers in the bottom of the ninth to carry the Tigers back from a 7-4 deficit. Chuck Harrison had a three-run blast for the Royals.

Bill Gogolewski had a one-hitter for seven innings before tiring, then Joe Grzenda came on as the two Washington hurlers, backed by Frank Howard's two-run double and a three-run uprising in the ninth, combined for a four-hitter to tame the Twins.

want scholarships. If they can't get them at East Carolina, they can get them somewhere else. Or if they have to go without a scholarship, they can go elsewhere at practically the same costs.

So, for the Bucs to maintain their championship caliber, the program must be brought in line with the expenses. "We need to improve our program until we can put eight, ten or 12 boys on the field that can compete with anybody." And to put them there will take money.

As far as the Southern is concerned, East Carolina is able to compete with anyone in recruiting, but when it comes to the other schools in the area, especially the ACC schools, it is a different story.

Smith pointed out that Maryland, one of the perennial threats in the ACC has 20 scholarships. "N. C. State gives whatever they need to put a good ball club on the field," he noted, adding that South Carolina and Clemson are also doing the same.

Smith also feels that the trend toward specialization is hurting East Carolina's baseball program. "We used to get boys in here for football and basketball who helped us out. But we're getting away from that. The other schools now are continuing to let their football and basketball players play and they are contenders."

But he feels the Bucs program is still basically a good one. "We have been able to compete with some of the best in the country for the past 10 or 15 years in baseball, and we should continue to do so."

He also points out that the Southern has lost its automatic berth in the NCAA Regionals, mainly because the Southern never won it, and its teams usually were the first to go. Without this berth, winning a national title, or even coming close makes it even more imperative that a broader program be instituted to bring the Bucs up to the level of the best in the region which includes the Southern, Southeastern and Atlantic Coast Conference schools.

And that means money. "But where is the money coming from is the next question," Smith ponders. He feels that there may be a saturation point coming shortly in Eastern North Carolina in spending money on athletics. He notes that there are more schools in the area asking for money, and it is therefore being spread thinner than in the past.

"I don't know what the answer is right now. We've got the facilities and we feel like we've got the coaching and we feel like we've got the school. Now what it takes to get the three together with the boy is something else."

Smith added that a large number of scholarships is not really the answer, but that an adequate number could be.

"When a school is successful, people feel like they're giving a lot of scholarships. That might not be true. It's certainly not true here in baseball."

"We've gotten the most out of a minimum," Smith said. "Whether we can continue to do that or not is a question mark."

Swimmers Fall To Kinston Club

East-West All Stars Are Battling Tonight

GREENSBORO (AP) — "We're not planning to try running over those big fellows in the East line," says east coach Jean Worthington of tonight's North Carolina high school all-star football game.

"We want to test them, but our primary offense is to go wide and let them chase us," continued Worthington, of Northern Nash High.

He said he believed his runners, such as Eddie Poole of West Montgomery, Arthur Hawkins of Roanoke Rapids,

WEDNESDAY'S STARS

PITCHING — Jim Slaton, Brewers, hurled Milwaukee's 17th shutout of the season, stopping the Boston Red Sox on three hits 5-0.

HITTING — Frank Robinson, Orioles, slammed a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning, lifting Baltimore to a 3-2 victory over the Oakland A's.

Roland Hooks of Farm Life, Joe Brogden of Northern Durham, Bobby Myrick of Goldsboro and Jimmy Deratt of Saratoga will be able to find some room on either quick openers or sweeps.

The East also has good throwing quarterbacks in Charles Baggett of Fayetteville Smith and Frank Townsend of Fayetteville Sanford. Baggett had a hand in 32 touchdowns during his career, 19 of them as a senior.

The West is coached by W. A. Cline of East Rowan, who will start his own quarterback, C. M. Yates, on offense. Yates is a good passer, as is another West quarterback, Brad Goree of Marion, who threw 23 touchdowns strikes his senior year.

West receivers will be Marcus Mauney of Shelby, Rusty Morton of Eastern Alamance and Ronnie Hoots of Mount Tabor.

The West has won the last three games. This will be the 23rd annual game, and part of the clinic for high school coaches.

The big fellows in the West defensive line are 250-pounders Robert Pulliam of Salisbury, Ronnie Robinson of Burlington Williams, and Gary Cowan of Sylva-Webster. Linebackers Tommy Jones of Concord and Steve Yates of Central Cabarrus will support them.

The defensive line for the East includes ends Robert White of Tarboro and David Lebel of Jacksonville, tackles Charles Smith of Wilmington New Hanover and Ralph Myers of Garner, and middle guard Robert Gray of Whiteville.

Key figures behind them are linebacker Joe Harris of Fayetteville Smith and halfback Joe Brogden of Northern Durham.

The West offensive line includes tackles Felix Setzer of High Point Andrews and Steve Limbo of Pisgah, guards Norris Thomas of Winston-Salem Atkins and Gary Nelson of Brevard, tight end Henry Sigmon of Bandys and center Andy Harris of West Mecklenburg.

West runners include Eagle Moss at left halfback, Ronnie Hoots at slotback and fullback Aubrey Childers of Salisbury.

Both the East and the West plan to platoon offense and defense.

NEW YORK (AP) — The weather was so bad the day the New York Mets opened the National League season here that only 19,848 fans turned out to watch the horses run at Aqueduct.

And less than 8,000 watched the first two harness races at Roosevelt Raceway, 20 miles out on Long Island. The last seven races were called off because of hazardous driving—on the track.

It snowed, it rained and winds were 50 mph but the Mets drew 26,062 top-coated fans and beat the Montreal Expos 4-2 in five innings. It was the first opener they had ever won at Shea Stadium, hard by Flushing Bay.

Eastern Carolina's Largest Saturday Night Round-Up!

If you're touring a foreign country this summer, get set for some hard news.

No matter which way you go, you'll run smack into drug laws that are a whole lot tougher than ours.

You may have heard differently. You may have heard possession and sale of drugs overseas or south of our own border is okay. Or at least tolerated. That's a lie. Drugs are illegal. The same as here. And that's the truth.

Only one thing is different. The penalties are stiffer. In Lebanon, for instance, possession gets you 3 to 5 years in a mental hospital. That's the law. And there's no way around their law.

Drug arrests of Americans overseas have jumped 70% since last year. And nobody can help. Not friends. Or family. Or the smartest lawyer in town. Not the United States government.

That's why there are over 700 American citizens doing time on drug charges in foreign jails.

Those are the facts. And so are these: the drug laws and penalties of 15 foreign countries.

Which one will you be visiting?

Sweden. Possession or sale, up to 19 months and permanent expulsion from the country.
U.S. Embassy: Strandsten 101 Stockholm, Sweden Tel. 63/05/20

Mexico. Possession, 2 to 9 years plus fine. Trafficking, 3 to 10 years plus fine. Illegal import or export of drugs, 6 to 15 years plus fine. Persons arrested on drug charges can expect a minimum of 6 to 12 months pre-trial confinement.
U.S. Embassy: Cor. Danubio and Paseodelaforma 305 Colonia Cuauhtemotz Mexico City, Mexico Tel. 511-7991

Spain. Penalty depends on quantity of drugs involved.
Less than 500 grams, fine and release on bail until trial. More than 500 grams, heavy fine plus minimum of 6 years in jail.
U.S. Embassy: Serrano 75 Madrid, Spain Tel. 276-3400

Italy. Possession or attempted sale, 3 years. Trafficking, 3 to 8 years. Persons arrested on drug charges are not eligible for bail.
U.S. Embassy: Via V. Veneto 119 Rome, Italy Tel. 4674

United Kingdom. Possession of heroin or LSD, 7 years in prison or a fine of $1,000, or both. Possession of Codeine or Cannabis, 5 years imprisonment.
U.S. Embassy: 24/31 Grosvenor Square W.I. London, England Tel. 499-9000

Greece. Possession, minimum 2 years in jail. Trafficking, 5 to 20 years plus fine.
U.S. Embassy: 91 Basilissis Sophia's Blvd. Athens, Greece Tel. 712951

Germany. Possession, 3 years. Law may be changed this summer demanding increased penalty.
U.S. Embassy: Nehlemer Avenue 53 Bonn-Bad Godesberg Bonn, Germany Tel. 02229/1955

Japan. Sentences based on amount of drugs. Recent case involved 600 grams of hashish. Subject was sentenced to 2 years. Deportation follows.
U.S. Embassy: 10-5 Akasaka 1-Chrome Minato-Ku, Tokyo Tel. 583-7141

Lebanon. Possession and use, 1 to 3 years in a mental hospital. Trafficking, 3 to 15 years.
U.S. Embassy: Corniche at Rue Aiv Meisseh, Beirut, Lebanon Tel. 240-800

Jamaica. Possession, minimum of 18 months.
U.S. Embassy: 43 Duke Street Kingston, Jamaica Tel. 26341

France. Possession, varies, but less than for trafficking. Minimum of 3 to 4 months pre-trial confinement. Trafficking, 1 to 5 years.
U.S. Embassy: 19, Rue de Franqueville Paris, France Tel. Anjou 6440

Bahamas. Possession, 3 months to 1 year.
U.S. Embassy: Adderly Building Nassau, Bahamas Tel. 21181

Canada. Possession of narcotics (including marijuana) up to 7 years in prison at the discretion of the judge.
Up to life imprisonment, but not less than 7 years for importation of narcotics (including marijuana) into the country.
U.S. Embassy: 100 Wellington Street Ottawa, Canada Tel. 236-2341

Denmark. For violation of the Law of Euphoria, fine, imprisonment or both, up to 2 years, at the discretion of the court.
The Ministry of Justice has announced that foreigners would be expelled or deported from the country if found in possession of even small amounts of hashish.
U.S. Embassy: Dag Hammarskjolds Alle 24 Copenhagen, Denmark Tel. TRTA 4504

Turkey. Possession, 3 to 15 years. Trafficking, 10 years to life.

Economists Agree Consumer Fearful; Hoards Cash

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — For many weeks now the nearly official line among business economists has been that the consumer has the money to spend but is lacking the willingness to part with his cash.

He fears inflation. He worries about his job. He is concerned with rising taxes. He is, therefore, in no mood to begin new endeavors. Instead, he hoards his money in fear of that proverbial rainy day.

As a result, retail outlets complain that sales are sluggish. Seldom have they had to put forth more effort to spark enthusiasm. And all the time they must fight the tendency of shoppers to buy down to lower price goods.

That's pretty much the consensus. It was recently and typically expressed this way by the Morgan Guaranty Survey, a monthly publication:

"Consumer income—buttressed both last year and this by a series of government actions, including increased Social Security benefits, federal pay hikes, and the end of the income surcharge—has been sufficient to fuel a more vigorous expansion in retail activity than has actually occurred. What's been lacking is not the means but the will to spend."

There is no shortage of statistical evidence to "prove" that the means are there. Personal income rose $6 billion in May. The rate of personal savings is at a 20-year high of 8.4 per cent of take-home pay.

That's what the statistics show. The mail suggests something else—a credibility gap involving the statistics, a growing belief among ordinary people that "they must be talking about somebody else."

Surveys show that regardless of those statistics, a lot of Americans can't discover the increase in personal income, nor can they find those big savings the statistics indicated they have.

"Did it ever occur to you that we consumers are not buying because we don't have any money left after taxes to buy with?" Thus begins a typical complaint from a writer who considers herself an "ordinary" American.

"I need a new refrigerator. Mine is 17 years old and almost shot. I can't afford to buy one. My breakfast set is falling apart after 17 years and we can't replace it."

"My husband is a teacher and makes about $15,000 a year after many years on the job. We don't have stocks or extra property. We have only a home, and we are still paying for it."

"There is nothing left after we have fed our three growing sons. We don't have any loopholes where we can escape federal income taxes, state income taxes, state tax on purchases, real estate taxes—you name the tax, there are more of them."

"My husband and I are in our mid-40s. We suffered through the big depression and my husband was injured in the war. We have never really enjoyed any of the luxuries so many people have had all these prosperous years."

"But we are in the majority, and we are really the common consumer you people talk about. I say again, investigate. We are not buying because we do not have any money to buy with."

"We buy reduced price goods not because of worry about inflation but because we can't buy first quality any more. We are reducing our standard of living because we can't do anything else."

"I recently made a plea for consideration of what taxes are doing to us mentally as well as physically, mistakenly thinking our senator would be concerned. His reply was that it really is too bad that we are having a rough time, but that all there was left to do was to lower our standards."

"Why don't you people print the facts, that people are not buying because someone else is spending the money they earn, and that what's left goes for food—and I mean plain food."

And that concludes a common complaint from an ordinary American who feels that the statistics, the averages, the alphanumeric picture drawn by the computer, fail to portray conditions as they actually are.

Pleasure A Failing Goal

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Those who make happiness and pleasure their main goal in life are "doomed to failure," according to famed psychiatrist Dr. Viktor Frankel of the University of Vienna.

Happiness comes from self-transcending activities, Frankel told a Stanford University audience, while preoccupation with pleasure or with personal reflection can be both frustrating and self-defeating.

Ninety per cent of the cases of sexual frigidity and impotence involve persons who frantically seek pleasure for themselves, Frankel said. The more they seek this end, the more frustrated they become.

A deep sense of meaninglessness now pervades academic youth on both sides of the Iron Curtain, the psychiatrist said.

"Man is no longer told by his driving instincts what he must do, and he is no longer told by traditional values what he should do."

Those who no longer know what they want to do may fall victim either to conformism, doing what others do, or totalitarianism, doing what others want them to do.

For youth to recognize this despair and face it openly should be regarded as an achievement, not "just another neurotic symptom," he said.

"This is a manifestation of your humanness. An ant or a bee won't raise the question of meaning in life."

Other Giraffes 'Just Copying'

DETROIT (AP) — About three months ago, a Detroit Zoo giraffe named Hilda began rolling her tongue frantically around her face. Zoo officials believed she had been poisoned, possibly from chewing on discarded backings of Polaroid film.

When tests proved negative and other giraffes began the same tongue wagging, officials looked closer. They decided Tuesday that Hilda is apparently just playing with a broken tooth—and all the other giraffes, including her baby, are copying her.

Find Lost Ring 16 Years Later

HALES CORNERS, Wis. (AP) — A ring which was lost 16 years ago was found in its owner's backyard—which had been bulldozed, filled, graded and sodded since the band was first missed.

The ring was lost by George Polakowski when he was building his home in 1955, and found recently by his 19-year-old nephew, Dale Demski, as he helped put in a new patio.

"I just couldn't find it after working on the house all day, Polakowski said. "I told my wife that some guy in 100 years would tear the house down and find it."

Experience Shows Weakness In Drunk Driver Laws

By WILLIAM F. NESBIT
Hickory Record Writer
Written for Associated Press
HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — Last Christmas eve a man driving alone hit a parked car on a residential street in Hickory. He got out of his car and sat down on a curb.

He later was arrested on charges of driving under the influence of alcohol and was administered a breathalyzer test on which, police said, he record a 19 blood-to-alcohol content. A breathalyzer score of .10 is considered proof of intoxication in North Carolina.

The man was brought to trial two months later.

An open-and-shut conviction? Hardly. The state took a nol pros (no prosecution) and the man was freed. No witness had actually seen him driving his car.

In Catawba County during the period January through March of 1971, 367 persons were tried for the same offense as this man. Only 250 were convicted.

Thirteen were declared innocent and 104 were freed through the no pros action.

Many law-enforcement officials regard such statistics as indicative of serious shortcomings in present North Carolina General Statutes pertaining to the drunken driving offense.

A study by the Hickory Record of drunken driving cases during three months in Catawba County showed not only that a third of the defendants went free, but also that most of those convicted had but a short wait before they could drive again.

Under North Carolina law, a first-offender's license can be suspended for a year by the state Department of Motor Vehicles.

A second-offender's license can be suspended for four years if the conviction occurs within three years of a prior conviction. An individual's license can be revoked permanently after three or more drunken-driving convictions.

What concerns law-enforcement officials is that a second-offender's license can be renewed after two years of "good behavior" and a third-offender's after three years without a conviction.

The Record's study turned up no permanent revocations.

Presumably, second offenders are considered first offenders if their convictions are more than three years apart, and second offenders are considered first offenders if their convictions are more than five years apart. Therefore, if an individual's convictions were properly spaced out, he could be arrested for drunken driving many times without suffering more sentence than a first-offender.

Adjoined to the power granted the Department of Motor Vehicles in drunken driving cases is of course, that detailed to the judge. In a first-offense case, the judge may impose a fine of $100 to $500 and imprisonment of 30 days to six months (or both); on a second conviction, a fine of $200 to $500 and imprisonment of two months to six months (or both), and on a third conviction, a minimum fine of $500 or imprisonment up to two years.

This penalty imposed by the judge is then coupled with whatever license suspension or revocation penalty is called for by the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The majority of the judgments handed down in the courtrooms in Catawba County bring a fine of a straight $100 combined with a prison sentence suspended for one year.

In only one of the 367 cases tried during the three-month period in Catawba County was an active sentence imposed.

A Hickory man was arrested for three separate offenses of drunken driving in an 18-day period during November and December of 1970. On Jan. 4 he was convicted of each offense, with each being considered a first offense. In each he was fined $100 and given a four-month prison sentence suspended for one year.

Having been convicted previously—in 1969—of yet another drunken driving offense, he has so far been convicted of four separate offenses while having yet to suffer more than a first-offense penalty.

With regard to the Department of Motor Vehicles, however, regardless of the charge on the warrant, these cases would represent a first, a second, a third and a subsequent offense because they all fall within the time periods set by General Statutes.

The man's license would be revoked permanently—with the option, however, of his being issued a new license at the end of his set period of "good behavior."

Another Hickory man was arrested on Feb. 23 and Feb. 28 of this year for separate drunk-driving offenses.

Tried first for the Feb. 28 offense, he was found guilty of first-offense drunken driving. Tried for the Feb. 23 offense the next month he was again found guilty of first-offense drunken driving.

Chronologically reversing the arrests for trial kept the man from being convicted of a second offense.

He was convicted of a first offense in 1960—a matter not mentioned in either trial.

Regardless of court disposition in this case, the Department of Motor Vehicles, by law, would have considered the two convictions a first and a second offense with appropriate license suspension mandatory. It could not consider the 1960 offense because that one did not occur within a five-year period of the subsequent conviction.

Country Music Fan Fair Slated

By NANCY SHIPLEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — If you're an admitted country music buff, or even if you won't admit it, get ready—there's a treat in store.

Get your pencils sharpened and take those pictures of your favorite stars out of their frames for all those autographs you can collect at the first annual International Country Music Fan Fair, an event planned especially for you—the fan.

The Fan Fair, cosponsored by the Country Music Association and WSM, Inc., is scheduled April 12-15, 1972.

A committee headed by talent agency executive Hubert Long is planning activities—which will include the live shows, syndicated television show taping, a Bluegrass spectacular, business meetings and a joint meeting with various fan club executives and the CMA and WSM officials.

"We have felt for a long time that the country music fan needs an annual country music event designed for him," Long said. "Plans have been arranged so that we can have great shows featuring top artists, tape and autograph sessions."

"It's a giant step forward in the country music industry," Long concluded.

The Fan Fair has the support of major and independent recording companies and leading country artists.

Some of the stars indicating they will perform or attend are Bill Anderson, Jan Howard, Chet Atkins, Danny Davis, Marty Robbins, Loretta Lynn, Conway Twitty, Sonny James, Merle Haggard, Johnny Cash, Lynn Anderson, Roy Clark, Buck Owens, Lester Flatt, Bill Monroe and Earl Scruggs.

The list of artists participating is expected eventually to number 75.

The event is planned at the Nashville city auditorium and the Opryland U.S.A. complex, scheduled for formal opening about two weeks after the Fan Fair.

The Fan Fair is an idea born about a year ago of the Opry Birthday Celebration and CMA annual meeting. The celebration in October draws 6,000 registered guests, and it was felt something for fans should be planned.

Irving Waugh, President of WSM, said, "WSM's original concept in creating the fall festival was to recognize the vital role played by the country music disc jockey and his station and to honor that contribution to country music on the anniversary of the Opry."

"We hope and believe that the Fan Fair will equally and fully give recognition to the fans who have helped make possible the growth and success of this American music form," Waugh said.

be announced later.

Stevens, remembered for the song, "Everything is Beautiful," among others, estimates the over-all cost of the project at more than $250,000.

The 'Freaks' Ruined Island Hideaway For Hippies

By PATRICK BUCKLEY
FORMENTERA, Balearic Islands, Spain (AP) — Hippies are having a tough time keeping one step ahead of tourists as well as police.

Four years ago, the long-haired nomads found good vibrations on Ibiza and on this neighboring island 60 miles off the Spanish mainland.

These were the pioneers, the full-time hippies who really had dropped out. They settled down peacefully. The islanders, although bewildered, seemed to accept them.

For a few months the hippies lived unmolested by police.

Then came the summer "freaks," the trendy jet-setters, the package tours, and business boomed. The freaks ruined the equilibrium. They offended conservative islanders by taking off their clothes, smoking pot, making love, not washing and stealing crops. The islanders found they were bad for business and got in the way of the real tourists.

The whole thing climaxed this month with Ibiza police battling the hippies and the pot smokers and jailing 45 of them, including 21 Americans. The police pistol-whipped and clubbed them.

By this time, however, most of the "real" hippies had left Ibiza. Some went to the Greek islands. Others just sailed to this island, where the cycle is about to repeat itself.

The island two years ago still was unscarred by tourism and it was easy to find a stone hut or a cave near the sea and live for next to nothing.

The first warning shot came in 1969 when islanders discovered several skeletons had been stolen from a cemetery.

Furious people stormed up to the caves, smoked out the residents, and clubbed them as they emerged.

After this incident, those who chose to stay had to register with the police and show some regular income.

The islanders probably will not be worrying much longer. Hotels are being built near the beaches. The ferry from Ibiza is packed with German and Dutch families. Many hippies are turned back as they land in Formentera.

Poachers in medieval England trained pigs to point and retrieve rabbits and other game.

WELL

WISHING

Buckets of coins from the well are collected in wheelbarrows by maintenance men.

Coin "laundromat" washes money mint clean with sand, detergent and water.

Clean coins are fast-dried with a flame thrower before being counted and sorted.

Police officer Eugene Brubaker volunteers to see the money reaches the bank safely!

Sentimental visitors who toss a coin into Luray Caverns' wishing well have a guarantee they help a wish come true. They are well wishers in a good cause—whose offerings are periodically retrieved and donated to charity.

The caverns, in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, attract some 500,000 visitors a year. And visitors' habit of throwing coins into the caverns' natural lake prompted the idea of making it a wishing well for charitable causes.

Recently the lake was drained to remove about two million coins which had accumulated since the last draining in 1966. This is a tedious hand labor job. The water has to be pumped out before maintenance men move in with shovels, buckets, wheelbarrows and brooms to gather up the coins. Next stage is the coin "laundromat"—a cement mixer which washes the "filthy lucre" in a mixture of sand, detergent and water, after which it is taken out and fast-dried with a flame thrower.

Local volunteers help to count, bag the coins and get them to the bank. The money is distributed to various health organizations. The muscular dystrophy fund, for example, will receive $28,000 of the total of over $43,000 recovered from the well this time. Despite the recession this five-year total was more than that for the preceding 12 years. In all, since 1954 more than $87,000 has been collected in small change—pennies to half dollars. And who knows how many wishes have come true?

New underground youth movement: this year young volunteers counted out more than $43,000 for charity recovered from Luray Caverns' wishing well.

Worry Clinic Bifocals May Induce A Stoop

Col. Tom has begun to stoop prematurely, so he has become alarmed. But his poor posture is a result of the "bifocal kyphosis" syndrome in modern medicine. Luckily, Dr. John A. Ross has developed a superb method for using bifocal glasses to keep our backs straight!

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph.D., M.D.
Case R-519: Tom T., aged 47, has a medico-psychological problem.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I formerly had very erect carriage, since I was an Army officer for 20 years.
"But when I finally reached the bifocal glasses age, my wife soon began to criticize my posture.
"For I'd walk around with my head leaning forward.
"Soon thereafter, I also developed a slight stoop of my shoulders.
"And now I am beginning to have the curve in my upper spine that is more typical of men and women past 75.
"So what causes it?"

Bifocal Kyphosis
This condition—I have christened "bifocal kyphosis." Kyphosis refers to the forward stooping of the upper spine. In older people, especially women, a condition called osteoporosis causes them to lose height by this humping between their shoulders.

Osteoporosis indicates a porous or sponge type of bones, due to lack of such chemicals as calcium and fluorine.

So the vertebrae may slowly pancake or collapse and thus tip the upper trunk into a stooping contour.
Alas, once the spine begins to curve, the muscles on the inner (shorter) side of the arc then aggravate the stoop, for the short muscles become stronger than the long muscles on the outer side of that arc.
But bifocal glasses also produce a gradual tipping forward of the head.

For the lower (reading) part of the bifocals is not suitable for looking at the floor or at the TV screen.
So older folks then bend their necks in order to get the TV screen in the upper part of their bifocals.
That is especially true of the usual TV screen which is located at about the level of the ordinary chair seat.
You can partially offset this chronic lowering of the head by placing your TV on a high stand or table!
Beware, too, for when bifocal users develop the habit of lowering their head, this bad habit soon extends to their back-bone so they gradually lose their former youthful posture.
Since bent shoulders are the standard cartoonist's method of depicting an old person, if you are prematurely stooped, then you also begin to look senile.
Bifocals can easily be redesigned, as Dr. John A. Ross has done for my own eye glasses.
For example, when the temple bars are fastened to the frames so they can swivel (as in a socket joint) you can then quickly turn your glasses upside down when watching TV or trying to focus on the ground as you are hiking along the street or in the woods.

And by making the saddle part for the nose so that it works either way, then you can adjust your glasses in a matter of 3 seconds and then have distant vision in the lower half of your bifocals.
But as soon as you need to read or sew, just turn your bifocals upside down!
Dr. Ross's simple device helps stop the tendency of middle-aged people to tip their heads forward. This slows down the smile stooping that most bifocal users soon develop.

It thus makes them look younger and also gives their lungs more room for healthful breathing.
Preventing this "bifocal kyphosis" syndrome thus offers a medico-psychological boon. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Parking Tickets Parliament Is A Late In Arriving Rollcall Of Wild

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — Secretaries at the city Police Department recently found two 50-cent parking tickets in the mail. The tickets were dated Sept. 26 and Sept. 27, 1968.
And one of the tickets had been postmarked at Grand Island Sept. 29, 1968, and the other at Cairo, 13 miles away, on the same date. Each contained the required 50 cents.

ROME (UPI) — Premier Emilio Colombo's last name is the Italian for "dove."
There are parliament members named Leone (lion), Piccioni (pigeons), Bo (dialect for ox), Bufalini (little buffaloes), Capra (goat), Cavalli (horses), De Falco (hawk), Drago (dragon), Galli (roosters), Gatto (cat), Formica (ants), Lepre (hare), Lupis (wolves), Merli (blackbirds), Mosca (fly), Pavon (peacock), Pellicano (pelican), Torelli (bullocks), Tortora (turtle dove), Urso (bear) and Volpe (fox).

Transfusion For Young Gorilla

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A blood transfusion has been given to an 18-month-old gorilla at the Cincinnati Zoo.

The gorilla, Sam, suffers from severe anemia, and zoo officials decided his blood should be built up while further tests are being made to determine the cause of the ailment.

Sam also has been afflicted with internal bleeding and weighs only 30 pounds.

Nearly a pint of blood was taken from Sam's father, Hattari, for the transfusion. His mother is pregnant again and can't give blood.

County Public Registry and being the same property as appears in Survey dated February 23, 1967 prepared by Roger Mann, R. E.

The above property is to be sold subject to unpaid taxes and assessments, if any. The Substituted Trustee may require a deposit of 10 percent at the time of the sale. This is the 8th day of July, 1971. E. HOOPER TAFT, JR. SUBSTITUTED TRUSTEE E. Hooper Taft, Jr., Attorney July 15, 22, 29; August 5

NOTICE SEABOARD COAST LINE RAILROAD COMPANY, through the undersigned hereby gives notice that it will, in not less than 10 days nor more than 20 days from the date of this notice, file formal application with the North Carolina Utilities Commission for authority to implement a mobile agency concept on a six-month trial basis, operating out of Goldsboro, North Carolina, and serving the following agency and non-agency stations in North Carolina:

AGENCY STATION: Fremont-Pikeville, Winterville, Ayden, Grifton, Faison, Mount Olive, NON-AGENCY STATION: Lenoir, Darg, Nocar, Farmex, Ripaco, Nufarms, Calypso, Dudley

The Public is hereby advised that the implementation of this concept will result in the following changes in agency service: (1) Agency service will be provided from a mobile van and the vehicle will not be an agent of Seaboard Coast Line Railroad Company on duty in the railroad station at the above points, and (2) The buildings at the above stations will not be open to the public during any hours of the day.

Anyone desiring to protest the implementation of this concept should advise the Chairman of the North Carolina Utilities Commission, P.O. Box 991, Raleigh, North Carolina.

Richard D. Sanborn, Jr., Assistant to Vice President & General Counsel July 23, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, Aug. 1, 2, 3

NOTICE OF EXECUTOR'S SALE OF REAL PROPERTY Under and by virtue of the power and authority vested in the undersigned executor under Article III of the Will of Luella Lancaster (deceased), late of Pitt County, North Carolina, said executor will expose to sale at public auction for cash at the courthouse door in Greenville, N.C., at 12:00 o'clock, Noon, on Wednesday, the 18th day of August, 1971, the following described real property, to wit:

Lying and being situated in Johnston Heights Subdivision in the Town of Greenville, North Carolina, and being specifically described as follows: Being lot No. 7 in Block "A" in the Subdivision of Johnston Heights as is shown by map of the survey of said subdivision made by Henry L. Rivers, C. E., Greenville, N.C., in June, 1928, and being specifically described as follows: Beginning at an iron stake, the intersection of the southern line of Third Street and running thence North 68 deg. 30 min. West, with Third Street, 103 feet to the line of Chatham Circle Subdivision on Third Street; thence running South 21 deg. 30 min. West, 61 feet with the Chatham Circle line to the corner of Lot No. 6 in the Subdivision of Johnston Heights Subdivision; thence with the line of Lot No. 6, 104.2 feet, to Lewis Street; thence North 20 deg. 15 min. East, with Lewis Street to its intersection with Third Street; the beginning, and being Lot No. 7 in Block "A" of the Subdivision known as Johnston Heights Subdivision, in the Town of Greenville, North Carolina, as is shown by map recorded in Map Book No. 2 at page 231.

The above described property is located at No. 1306 East Third Street, Greenville, N.C. (corner of Third and Lewis Streets). The building thereon — constructed of aluminum siding — has two separate apartments with separate utilities.

Said property will be sold subject to the 1971 taxes thereon; the successful bidder will be required to deposit with the Executor 10 percent of his bid to show good faith in his bidding, and the sale will remain open for 10 days for the filing of upset bids. The executor reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

This is the 16th day of July, 1971.
