Hearing Held On Closing Of Old County Schools

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

No one appeared at a hearing held yesterday afternoon by the Pitt County Board of Education on the closing of the high schools in the Ayden, Grifton and Farmville areas.

Schools involved in the hearing were: H. B. Sugg, South Ayden, Ayden High School, Farmville High and Grifton High.

The hearing was required by law before the discontinuance or consolidation of high schools.

The law requires the county board of education to hold a public hearing, conduct a thorough study with the state board of education on the discontinuance or consolidation plan before approving same, and to have the plan formally approved by the state board of education.

County Superintendent Arthur Alford reported to the board on the 1971-1972 budget as approved by the Pitt County Commissioners on July 28.

The official said the schools received the largest slice of the county's $6.5 million budget, including $21,140,949 for current expenses and $450,659 earmarked for capital outlay.

Capital outlay items funded in the budget include air conditioning D. H. Conley, Ayden-Grifton, Farmville Central and North Pitt High Schools ($34,503); gymnasium bleachers and science furnishings for Farmville Central and Ayden-Grifton schools. ($60,928); grading and drainage of the remaining part of North Pitt, Conley, Ayden-Grifton and Farmville Central school campuses ($47,996); and other items such as furnishings at the Ayden-Grifton and Farmville schools and renovations at H. B. Sugg, G. R. Whitfield, W. H. Robinson and Farmville Junior High.

Alford discussed the recommendations from the various local advisory councils for the disbursement of the special district funds.

Recommendations from the councils suggested the funds be used for such items as secretarial salaries, coaching supplements, travel expenses for principals and assistant principals, typewriters, equipment for home economics courses, welding, and drafting. The recommendations were approved by the board on a yearly basis.

The appointment of Mrs. Gloria Allen Daggs of Greenville as Supervisor of Special Education for Pitt County Schools was approved.

A graduate of Eppes High School, Mrs. Daggs earned her B.A. degree from Livingstone College. She attended A & T State University, New York University, Bowie State College and the University of Maryland. She has taught for 15 years in Jacksonville, Pitt County, New York and Maryland.

The board adopted a school fee schedule of $8.25 for elementary students (includes $3.25 for insurance) and $6.25 for high school students for grade and subject fee.

Special fees for high school students include: Science, agriculture, home economics, industrial arts and shop fees, $2 each; typing, $7.50 per semester; distributive education (Farmville Central), $4.50;

Aviation Science (Conley and Farmville Central), $15 to $20; physical education (locks), 25 cents.

Caps and gowns, diplomas and gym uniforms will be available to the students at cost.

Board members approved early dismissal for first graders and kindergarten students.

All first graders who desire to walk home or be picked up by parents will be allowed to be dismissed at 2:15 p.m. It was stated that the request for early dismissal should be made at the beginning of the school year.

The students who will not participate in the early dismissal will remain under supervision of the classroom teacher until school is dismissed.

The morning session of the kindergarten class will arrive at the school from the regular bus routes and will remain until after lunch. Buses will begin picking up students for the afternoon session about 10:30 a.m. and arrive on campus about 11:30 a.m. in order to allow the students to have lunch at school. Transportation will be provided for the first kindergarten session to return home immediately after lunch. The second session will remain at school until buses leave for the afternoon on their regular routes with the exception of the Grifton area.

There will be two state supported and one Title I kindergartens at Grifton which will arrive at school on the regular bus route and will be dismissed no earlier than 1:30 p.m. in order that the buses may return to the school for the regular runs.

Robert D. Stokes was sworn in as a new member of the board by Clerk of Superior Court H. L. Lewis. He was named to fill the unexpired term of Roland Brinston, who resigned last month because of business reasons.

Board members approved a resolution of respect for Brinson, a member of the Pitt County Board of Education from April 5, 1965 to July 6, 1971, for his services rendered during that time.

The board agreed to pay for the installation and operation of individual air conditioning units given to the schools by either clubs or individuals. The air conditioning unit would then become the property of the board of education. However, if the individual or groups pay for the installation, they would keep ownership of the unit.

According to past policy, the board would pay for operating the units of the clubs or individuals would purchase the unit and pay for installation.

Joe Fowler, executive director of the Ayden Economic Council, met with the board to discuss a possible plan for the utilization of the South Ayden School facility.

The board agreed to have a committee investigate the possibility of industrial as well as a community center use of the property.

The utilization of occupational resources as developed by Carl Toot, vocational coordinator, and school principals, was approved.

The plan includes:

—at least one agriculture trained teacher will be employed in each high school for 12 months; all other occupational personnel will be employed for nine and one-fourth months.

—Occupational programs offered in each school will be at the discretion of the principal and Local Advisory Council. Significant changes requiring the purchase of equipment and materials are discouraged at this time unless it can be funded by the local school.

—Toot must be involved and approve plans for the use of man months and programs to be offered.

—teachers are encouraged to attend summer conferences and workshops.

Sealed bids on milk for the Pitt County schools beginning August, 1971, and ending at the close of school in June, 1972, will be received in the office of Supt. Alford on or before noon on Aug. 16.

It is estimated that 2,250,000 half-pints of milk will be used during the 1971-72 school year.

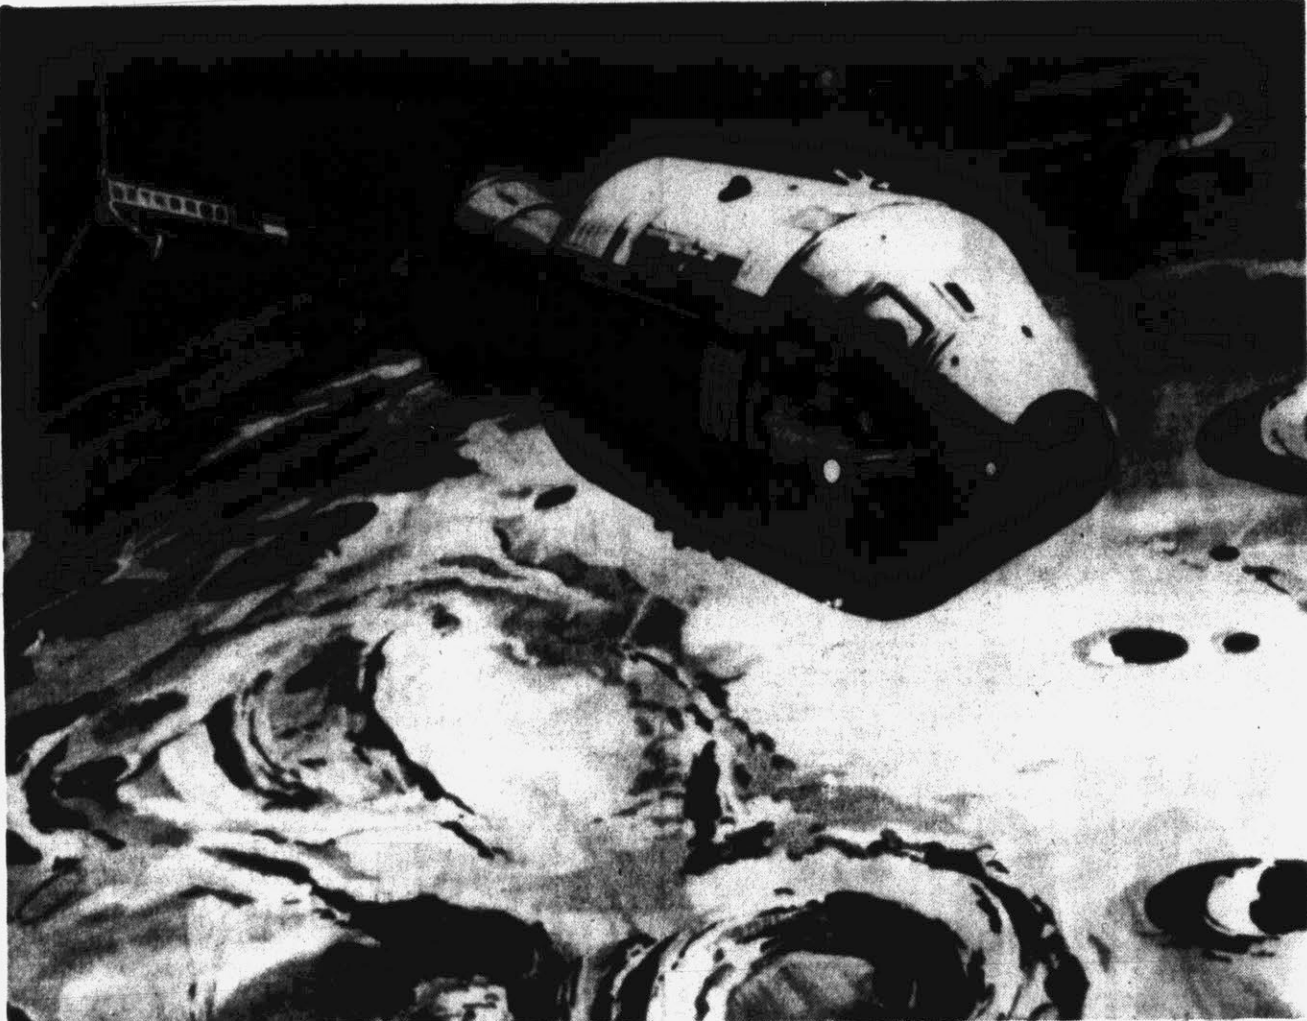

Proposals are invited for supplying LP gas for heating, cooking and other uses at the four new high schools and Pactolus Elementary.

The contracts will be for two years, 1971-72 and 1972-73.

The bids should be received by the Pitt County School Maintenance office no later than 2 p.m. Aug. 16.

It is estimated the schools will use approximately 7,000-8,000 gallons per month.

The next meeting of the board of education will be held Sept. 14 instead of Sept. 7 in observance of the Labor Day holiday.

After Moon Exploration
Astronauts To Head Home

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 15's astronauts neared the end of six days of moon exploration today and prepared to fire out of lunar orbit for the trip home and man's farthest-out space walk.

Before they leave, they'll add another dimension to one of history's greatest scientific expeditions. They'll eject into orbit a small satellite to probe additional moon secrets.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden will complete the experiments in their flying science lab when they kick the satellite loose at 4:10 p.m. EDT

At 5:20 p.m. they plan to trigger the engine of their spaceship Endeavour to break away from the grip of lunar gravity and start the three-day journey back to earth.

The astronauts were quiet today as they busily aimed their cameras and scientific instruments at the bleak surface 70 miles below, trying to squeeze as much knowledge as possible out of the alien moon.

In one brief exchange Mission Control told them: "It's been raining a lot in Houston, and you guys will have a lot of grass-cutting to do when you get back down here."

"The weather's been good up here," Scott commented.

At Mission Control Center, experts today remotely switched on the television camera which Scott and Irwin left on the moon, mounted on their moon buggy.

They swung it back and forth and it relayed a sharp picture of the landscape at Hadley Base, including the lower half of the lunar lander Falcon and the experiments left on the surface.

"Looks like Boot Hill from a distance," one controller said. The instruments in the distance looked like tombstones.

After 14 minutes, the camera suddenly ceased transmitting. Efforts to restart it failed. Experts had no immediate explanation for the loss. Its batteries may have given out.

Scientists had hoped the camera would retain power at least until Friday to view an eclipse of the sun as seen from the moon.

Worden will take the space walk Thursday—about 196,000 miles from earth and more than 40,000 miles from the moon—to retrieve film canisters from an equipment bay at the rear of the Endeavour.

Because the hatch will be opened, all three men will be exposed to the vacuum of space and will wear pressurized suits.

Before they retired Tuesday night, capsule communicator Bob Parker asked them if they had taken sleeping pills the night before.

Astronauts traditionally have been reluctant to take medicine on space flights and Scott replied a bit testily: "No, there's been no medication taken by anybody on the flight."

Parker: "Okay. However, we down here would like to recommend for all three of you to take one tonight just to make sure we get another good night's sleep."

Scott: "I think that's unnecessary."

Parker: "Well, that's our recommendation anyway."

Farmville Citizen Delegation Asks That Zoning Be Changed Back

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — A delegation of citizens from West Wilson Street and the vicinity appeared at the Town Commissioners' meeting here Tuesday night to protest the rezoning of several blocks of the street from residential to business.

The amendment to the Town's zoning ordinance had been enacted at a call Board meeting following a public hearing on the matter Tuesday, July 27. It, in effect, allowed certain businesses among the homes along the north side of West Wilson for most of the 200 block through part of the 400 block.

A petition was presented asking for a rehearing on the matter. The petitioners contended that, although some of them were present at the public hearing, they did not understand that they could object at that time. After much discussion, it was decided that, in order to think of changing the zoning back to what it was originally, R-6, the regular procedure for rezoning would have to be followed—referring the matter to the Town Planning Board, advertising for 15 days for a public hearing. Town Attorney Jack Lewis said, in order to expedite the matter, the two could be done simultaneously, advertising could begin today and the Planning Board could act in the meantime.

Willie Gray Allen, part-owner of Crestlawn Cemetery near Farmville, offered the town an option to buy the cemetery for $55,000 minus almost $12,000 held in escrow. There are approximately 10 acres in the cemetery, five of which are developed with curbs, roads, a watering system, etc., he said. The Commissioners requested the Planning Board to study the offer.

A spotlight is to be erected at the intersection of Barrett and Belcher Streets and Acting Police Chief Carl Tanner was asked to stringently enforce the speed limit along Belcher. Belcher Street has become one of the main arteries into Farmville from the Fountain Highway, yet there are many homes with small children just off the Street. Discussion and the ordering of the traffic light was prompted by a letter read by Commissioner Irving Morgan from Mrs. Theodora A. McCracken, a young mother living in the Belcher-Barrett Street vicinity.

Joe Joyner, a trustee of the Farmville United Methodist Church, proposed to the Board that the Town consider buying the church property soon to be vacated by his church for a town hall. There is about one acre of land, he said, and the corner location would be an advantage.

Joyner also suggested that the Board consider buying a public address system for use during its meetings. It is difficult for persons attending the meetings to hear what is being said around the Board table, he said.

Perhaps this problem accounted for the confusion about the rezoning of West Wilson Street discussed earlier in the evening, he suggested.

Fire Chief H.P. Norman told the Board that the Fire Department would like to use any radio equipment discarded by the Police Department at any time.

D.L. Scott Jr. reported on the Town's recreation program.

Town Engineer Jack McDavid reported that all sewer lines are in. He urged the Commissioners to reconsider the widening of Turnage Street from Wilson Street to Church Street. This street is a bottleneck which causes more congestion every year, he said, especially during tobacco marketing season. The town has the right of way, but has hesitated to use it because several front yards along the block would be severely cut. No action was taken.

The hiring of a police chief and also of a building inspector were discussed with no action.

Growers Hopes High
Following Mart Openings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hopes were still high among tobacco growers today following Tuesday's record opening sales on the South Carolina and Border North Carolina Tobacco Belt markets.

Sharp competition and price averages of $74 to $75 per hundred pounds were reported Tuesday. The Federal-State Markets News Service said most sheets in early auctions were selling from $72 to $80 per hundred.

Volume was extremely heavy with all markets reported blocked.

On the first day of the 1970 season, 10,337,907 pounds of leaf brought a record high average of $71.09 per hundred.

"It looks very good," said Morris Daniels, an owner of the Planters Warehouse in Fairmont. "I think we're going to average about 75 cents per pound. It looks like all the companies were buying tobacco today, and the government is getting a very small per cent."

The Stabilization Corp. received an estimated 10 to 14 per cent of early sales on various markets, compared to 26.3 per cent placed under government loan on opening day last year.

Hogan Teater, owner of Star Warehouse in Lumberton, also estimated an average of about $75 per hundred and said the volume was "running maximum."

Jake Campbell of Rt. 1, Angier, in Johnston County, said he sold 122 sheets — about 21,000 pounds — during the morning at Planters in Fairmont, mostly lugs and some second pullings. "It sold good," Campbell said. "It brought from 70 to 83 cents per pound."

John Cyrus, marketing specialist with the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, said the quality of offerings was very good for opening day.

Cyrus said the markets would continue to operate with full sales quotas.

U.S. Working
For Red China
U.N. Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP) — The United States worked behind the scenes today to line up support for resolutions that would invite Red China to join the United Nations and at the same time prevent the expulsion of Nationalist China.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Chief Delegate George Bush outlined the two resolutions and asked for cosponsors at a meeting of representatives from about 20 delegations Tuesday at his office opposite U.N. headquarters.

The sources said the resolutions would be submitted for the General Assembly session opening Sept. 21 as soon as the delegations determined whether their governments would become cosponsors.

The first resolution would offer the Communist regime in Peking a seat in the United Nations, would specify that the Nationalist government on Formosa would continue to be seated and would direct the specialized U.N. agencies to take the decision into account.

Amendment
Seen To Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House appeared ready today to approve an antiwar amendment as the price for extending the draft two more years.

But while House approval was expected with little trouble, antiwar senators said they will not even have to filibuster to block enactment of the draft bill until at least September.

House Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., says the Indochina war language worked out by House-Senate conferees "will not tie the President's hands."

Daughter Likes Older Men

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: We have a 17-year-old daughter who prefers to date older men. Last year it was a 21-year-old, and when we found out how old he was we put a stop to it immediately.

Last month we learned that she was seeing a 24-year-old man behind our backs. When we confronted her with it she said if we tried to stop her from dating him she would run away.

Abby, she tells us now that if we don't allow her to openly date whomever she wants, and if we don't make him welcome in our home, she will leave. She is our only daughter and we don't want her hurt, but I guess we just don't know how to handle her. Can you give us an outside opinion? Please hurry your answer.

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Don't automatically turn thumbs down on older fellows. Some are more responsible than the younger ones. The important factor here is the degree of maturity your daughter has achieved at 17. Threatening to "run away" unless she has her own way strikes me as being immature. But insisting that she be able to bring her dates home for you to meet sounds quite mature. Let her bring her dates home, then meet them, and judge them on their personalities—not their ages.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a son who writes to his mother and tells her how long she can stay when she visits him?

In the four years my son has been married I have visited him only once, and that was at Christmas two years ago. I stayed for eight days.

I plan to visit again in September, and the following is a quote from a letter I received from my son yesterday: "We hope you will come to visit us, but, Mom, please don't plan on staying any longer than five days as that is our time limit for guests."

Abby, since when is a mother a guest? I never get in their way and I thought we got along fine. They have a spare bedroom and I never made any extra work for anybody.

I felt so badly when I got this letter I considered not going at all, but I got so lonesome for my son as he is my only child and I am a widow.

It's not an easy trip as I have a lame back and it's 10 hours on a bus. Please tell me what to do. HURT IN OHIO

DEAR HURT: If you were to deny yourself the trip you would punish yourself more than your son. Make the trip. Mother, and stay five days.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to, "Can't Forget in Minnesota." He married an unwed mother who told him who the baby's father was and all the sordid details of her mistake. Then he said he had wished a thousand times that she had never told him. Well, I will lay you odds that she has wished 2,000 times that she had never told him.

The letter didn't say how long they've been married, but if he still makes her pay daily for her mistake by letting her know that he "can't forget," I sincerely hope she looks herself in the mirror soon and says, "I have had enough. He will never change." And then leaves him. It will not be the end of the world. Sign me. BEEN THERE

CONFIDENTIAL TO "OLD MAID IN ORLANDO": If you label yourself "Old Maid" everyone else will. A very wise Frenchman once said, "No woman under 40 can possibly have acquired the experience, wisdom and emotional maturity to be interesting to a mature man."

Hignite-Warren Vows Exchanged On Sunday

AYDEN — Miss Janet Maria Warren became the bride of Darrell Keith Hignite Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Liberty Free Will Baptist Church here.

The Rev. Raymond Gaskins officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon W. Warren of Ayden. Mr. Hignite is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Hignite of Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Sue Branch of Ayden, organist, and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Manning of Ayden, who sang "Love Story", "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length wedding gown of pearly lace and chantilly lace. The empire bodice and bishop sleeves were of chantilly lace while the Victorian neckline and cuffs carried a seed pearl design. The bodice was joined to a redingote skirt over lace. A chapel length train was highlighted with lace appliques down the center.

The bride's elbow length veil was of silk illusion attached to a coronet of seed pearls and lace. The bride carried a bouquet of white bridal roses with pink Georgianna orchids.

The chancel of the church was decorated on each side with fifteen branched spiral candelabra, a background of jade greenery and baskets of white gladioli and pom poms. A fifteen branched arched candelabra centered the altar where the couple knelt for the benediction on a white satin prie-dieu. The family pews were marked with white satin bows accented with stephanotis and greenery.

The maid of honor was Miss Iris Carraway of Ayden. Mrs. Ellen Hignite of Jacksonville, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. They wore floor length dresses of pink and blue organza, with scooped necklines and short sleeves. The dresses were accented by large picture hats of white bridal braid.

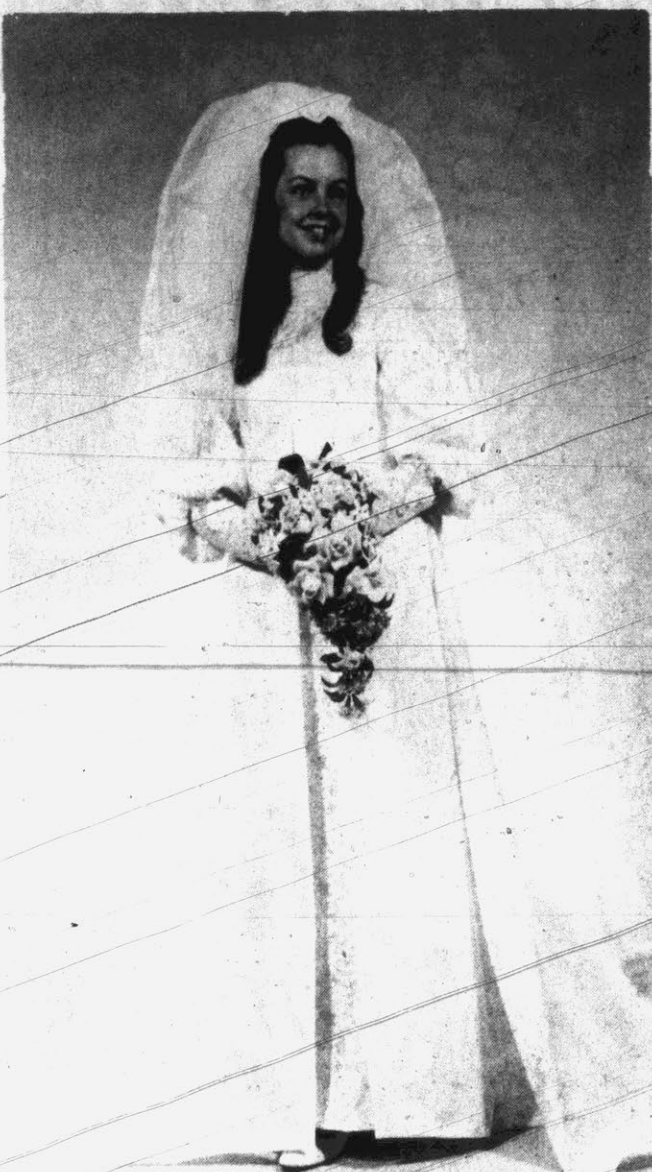

Bridesmaids were Miss Cathy Booth and Miss Debbie Carter of Ayden. Miss Wanda West of Grifton, and Miss Tammy Jones of Greenville. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Shirley Warren, sister of the bride, Miss Beth Hignite, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Theresa Manning of Kinston, cousin of the bride. They all wore dresses identical to the honor attendants. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of pink gladioli.

Miss Terry Stokes of Greenville was flower girl. Her dress was identical to the other attendants. She carried a basket of rose petals and sprinkled them along the bride's path.

Chris McLawhorn of Ayden served as ring bearer.

Leonard E. Hignite, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Ron Hignite, Randy Hignite of Greenville, and Baron Hignite of Jacksonville, all brothers of the bridegroom. Vernon Ray Warren of Ayden, brother of the bride, Ray Harris of Winterville, cousin of the bride, and Jim Cox of Wilmington, cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding, an ensemble of blue linen featuring a lace coat and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a dress of pink silk shantung with jeweled neckline and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden High School.

The bridegroom is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and attended East Carolina University, Greenville, and is now employed with Productive Communications.

For a wedding trip to Miami, Fla., and the Bahamas, the bride changed into a mint green crepe dress with matching accessories. She wore the pink orchid lifted from her bouquet. After the wedding trip the couple will reside in Ayden.

Reception

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the parents of the bride at the Ayden Golf and Country Club.

The guests were welcomed in the foyer by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Booth, who directed them to the dining area.

The bride's table was covered with a white bridal cloth and centered with long stemmed white roses and pink carnations in a silver epergne.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slice of the four tiered wedding cake, Mrs. Pat Ray and Mrs. Christine Cox served the cake. Mrs. Doris Faulkner and Mrs. Dean Manning poured punch.

Mrs. Linda Jones and Mrs. Jennie Williams presided at the register. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Manning. On Saturday, a bridesmaids' luncheon honoring Miss Janet Warren was held at the Holiday Inn in Greenville. Hostesses were Mrs. David Bosse, Mrs. Carl Rouse and Mrs. J. A. Butler.

A pre-rehearsal dinner was held on Saturday evening for the wedding party at the Three Steers given by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Hignite of Greenville, parents of the bridegroom. An after-rehearsal party was given at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Gov. Carr's Papers Important

The East Carolina University manuscript collection has received a major addition with the papers of Gov. Elias Carr, who served from 1893 to 1897.

The governor's papers were presented to the university by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elias Carr III of Tarboro. Moving of the collection from Bracebridge Hall was supervised by Mrs. Carr and her daughter Mrs. William H. Fillmore.

Included in the priceless collection are 10,000 items covering the period from 1860 to 1900.

The Carr papers were described as a "fantastic find" by Collection director Don Lennon. They will be placed with other collections in the J. Y. Joyner Library on the campus. There they will be available to students and historians who wish to study this period in North Carolina and national history.

The addition of the Gov. Carr papers to the ECU manuscript collection is of great importance to historians studying this period. In the Joyner library they will be carefully preserved for future generations.

Legislators, Press Have Gap

By PHIL KIRK
The Salisbury Post Staff Writer

(Editor's Note: Senator Phil Kirk of Rowan, Republican and youngest member of the General Assembly, has been both legislator and news reporter. In this guest column, he describes this double view of the legislative process.)

SALISBURY — Members of the General Assembly don't understand the North Carolina press and members of the press don't understand the General Assembly.

Having just completed my first term as a member of the Senate, I do not pose as an expert on press-legislator relations. Because of my nine years of summer and weekend work as a reporter for the Salisbury Post and four years of teaching journalism in the Salisbury City Schools, I have had the unique opportunity of viewing from both sides.

There are exceptions to the general misunderstanding, of course. Reporters who have been covering the General Assembly for many years grow in their ability to comprehend the extremely complicated legislative process. Veteran legislators grow in their knowledge of the purposes of the press and learn which reporters they can have confidence in.

Press-Politician Mistrust
Generally speaking, there is a basic mistrust between reporters and legislators. This applied to the relationship between reporters and other occupations, especially connected with government at any level.

Politicians particularly are concerned as to how something is going to sound in print. Once a politician is wronged, most often unintentionally, by the press, it is virtually impossible to ever change his opinion about the fourth estate. A serious mistake made by one newspaper often can turn a politician against all newspapers.

This was brought clearly into focus in the debate on the "open meetings" bill. Senator Ruffin Bailey, D-Wake, was the sharpest critic of the measure. His opposition logically could be traced to his personal dislike for a Raleigh newspaper. How vehement his opposition would have been after several state and local newspapers took him to task for killing an ethics bill applying only to the House is frightening to think about! On the Senate floor, the powerful Wake County Senator questioned me concerning my quoting a statement made by the Governor as reported in a Raleigh newspaper. He asked me if I believed "everything" I read in a newspaper.

Exceptions Weakened Law
I nearly voted against the

"open meetings" bill because the many, many exceptions added by the committee and on the floor nearly made a mockery of the title. However, I felt that some legislation in this field to force some governmental units to do the public's business in the open was better than no legislation at all.

On the other side of the coin, some newspaper reporters give the entire press corps a bad reputation because of their biases and frequently inaccurate stories.

Poor or incomplete reporting of activities in the General Assembly results from several causes. Most newspapers rely on the wire services. While they do an excellent job, space and time requirements hinder "complete" stories. Also there is a lack of interpretive stories in most papers.

The Appropriations subcommittee which makes the decisions regarding the budget meets in closed session. Reporters must get their facts about the meetings from friendly legislators and then compare notes with each other. Many times legislators hedge on answers or refuse to comment.

Frankness Best Policy
I have found on numerous occasions that it is better to tell the entire story to a reporter exactly as it happened because chances are good that he is going to write the story any way based on information which he will be able to secure from various sources, reliable and unreliable.

There appears to be no organized coordination or cooperation between the General Assembly and the press, which, I feel, did an exceptionally accurate job in covering the past session. And maybe there shouldn't be. Maybe each member of the press and each member of the legislature should continue to go his own way with little or no thought about how to make his work easier and more effective.

I think the Legislative Services Office should consider hiring a press officer to brief members of the press corps each morning and also to coordinate and plan the series of news conferences which occur every day, sometimes without all reporters being aware of some of them.

Reporters also should consider a brief hour or two session at the beginning of the Assembly to teach legislators which is news and to let us know how we can help them in their work.

Cooperation is a two-way street. North Carolina would be a better state with a better press and a better legislature if the two enjoyed a closer working relationship in the future. It's an area which has received no attention in the past as far as I know.

Discount Is Ended; Tax Raise For Some

Thousands of Pitt Counties just had their property taxes raised. There'll be no more discount for paying early... a policy that has saved many a dollar for taxpayers over the years.

There's no point in blaming anybody, though. The General Assembly was cognizant that the discount policy was not a general one, and in the interests of uniformity ruled it out. They left a possible loophole, but the Pitt Commissioners decided to shrug it off and abide by State and Federal standards.

So much for property tax discounts. Conformity does carry a price tag.

Jackson Most Feared By Nixon?

By ROWLAND EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Despite all the propaganda pouring from the White House about how much Richard Nixon fears another Nixon-Kennedy race in 1972, the truth is that the Democrat the President believes would run best against him is Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington.

In private conversations with top political aides, President Nixon makes clear he feels Jackson's combination of bread-and-butter liberalism and hard-line anti-Communism would be toughest for him to defeat. While generating defections on the Democratic left, the President feels, Jackson would eat heavily into Republican strength and retain two pillars of Democratic power: labor union support and the Jewish vote.

This contrasts sharply with the carefully orchestrated progression of leaks from the White House about how formidable Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts would be as Democratic nominee. One high-level Presidential aide avowing great respect for Kennedy's prowess, even places suitably modest bets that he will be the Democratic nominee.

Such talk derives from Br'er Rabbit and the briar patch. In truth, the President and his closest advisers feel Kennedy would be the easiest foe they could possibly come up against and are aching to see him nominated. Their reasoning: instead of Mr. Nixon's economic failure, the campaign would revolve around Chappaquiddick.

Moreover, Democrat-w-atchers at the White House believe Mr. Nixon's opponent most likely will be either Kennedy or Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota. They continue to downgrade front-running Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, viewing him as a Democratic version of George W. Romney. As for Jackson, the White House is certain that the Democratic party has gone much too far to the left to ever nominate him.

A Footnote: Although his public opinion ratings continue to be microscopic, Jackson is gaining with Democratic pros. The continuing poll of the party's state chairmen, National Committeemen and Governors conducted by Martin Hagan of Oklahoma City shows Muskie slipping 17 percentage points to 39 per cent with second-place Jackson picking up 4 percentage points to 15 per cent. The next highest possibility has 8 per cent.

Displaying the increasing velocity of the Muskie bandwagon, his political operatives now have close to a firm commitment from Bob Moretti, powerful Speaker of the California Assembly, to endorse Muskie sometime this fall.

A the same time, Moretti has delivered an ultimatum to his close friend, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana. Unless Bayh's sputtering campaign can show some tangible accomplishments by mid-October (a highly unlikely prospect), Moretti has told Bayh, he will have to abandon him and support Muskie.

This represents a remarkable change of climate since January, when Muskie and Bayh both attended the Democratic state convention in Sacramento. At that time, Moretti was singing Bayh's praises and complaining that Muskie seemed old, lugubrious and unresponsive during an unfortunate dinner meeting with state legislators.

But Moretti now has private assurances from Muskie men that, if and when he makes his endorsement, he will somersault over the heads of earlier Muskie boosters as the Senator's top man in California. Secretary of State Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown, a rival of Moretti's for the 1974 nomination for Governor who endorsed Muskie several months ago, may not be too happy with such a development.

Mills and the Governors
Gov. Warren Hearnes, of Missouri, chairman of the National Governors' Conference, is hounding a reluctant Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas to attend the annual conference in San Juan, Puerto Rico, Sept. 12 and face Governors' demands for a piece of revenue-sharing.

So, far, Hearnes has sent two separate emissaries to (Continued on Page 5)

Strength For Today

KEEP COOL

Keep cool. Few jobs are done better for being rushed. Think things through and make the right decision. The time you save by rushing in helter-skelter will probably have to be spent in regretting what you did. The time you lose in stopping to collect yourself will probably be made up by your greater efficiency when you do begin.

Even emergencies are better handled coolly and calmly. The building may be burning, but the firemen pause while the chief plans a course of action which will be safest and most effective. The driver who slams on his brakes on an icy road is more likely to have a wreck than the man who thinks first and drives cautiously.

The pace of the modern world tends to shove us along faster and faster. Resist it. Create an island of intelligent calm around yourself and keep your balance. Mental institutions are crowded with people who tried to outrace the tempo of living.

The same principle is true in spiritual life. The man who comes steaming into church fifteen minutes late and sits with his eye on his watch waiting for the service to end gets nothing out of it when you pray, take time to pray slowly. The God of Peace must be worshipped in a calm, collected, reverent spirit.

A Slow Boat To China

WASHINGTON — One of the greatest penalties the American people will have to pay for any detente with Red China will be sitting through hours of television film and reading hundreds of articles by American correspondents who have been lucky enough to get a Chinese visa.

Since we have had no reporting from China in 20 years, the media is going to make it up to us in one big gulp and we'd better be prepared for the results.

These are some of the exciting things we can expect to learn about China in the next year — over and over again:

The Chinese people have enough to eat and seem to be well-clothed though there is no variety in their choice of clothes.

The children smile a lot and look very happy in their schools.

The Great Wall of China is breathtaking and goes on for miles.

The factories are primitive but are producing goods.

The complexion of Chinese girls is healthy, particularly those who work in the fields.

The streets are very clean.

Foreigners are considered a curiosity.

The Chinese have an abiding fear of the Soviet Union.

There are many parks in China where families go to picnic.

There are no rickshaw boys in Shanghai.

Chinese people like to go to the movies.

The Cultural Revolution was responsible for many changes in the country.

You see a lot of soldiers on the streets.

Chinese footwear does not compare to anything in the West, but is adequate.

Mao Tse-tung is given credit for the Great Leap Forward.

Chinese government officials are polite, but do not open up to Western correspondents.

Ping-Pong is the number one sport in China.

Hotels and restaurants in Peking are surprisingly

To The Editor:

As famous North Carolinian's, Asheville had the late Thomas Wolfe, Chapel Hill claims Paul Greene and Greenville has the very versatile Charles Harry Whedbee.

For those who really know Charles Whedbee, they can testify to his humble, sincere and proud smile. He has one of the best radio voices in the business. He became a community institution as a panelist on the "Carolina Today" program on channel 9 in Greenville. He has proven his ability as a good attorney, judge, commentator, panelist and now as an author in the fifth printing, with another on the way.

His book, "Legends of the Outer Banks", held my attention like the famous "Silas Marner" and "Treasure Island", two great classics. He has the ability, if properly directed, to place characters, events and human interest to equal those among the best.

It is a natural instinct to promote ourselves and this is known as ambition. Something goes beyond this instinct when an individual is just as interested in helping the other fellow. It has been my personal experience to find both these qualities in Mr. Whedbee.

A good wife is necessary in complete fulfillment, therefore, Mrs. Whedbee must be given full consideration in whatever part she has played.

Greenville, North Carolina is the outstanding city in Eastern North Carolina and it should be very proud of this son.

Next Boom Nine Years Away?

By ELMER ROESSNER

Those businessmen who believe that sunspots affect business and other forms of human endeavor — and you would be surprised at how many believers there are — can expect three more years of business decline and then an upturn that will peak with glorious prosperity in 1980.

Sunspots are enormous gaseous flares on the sun, rising thousands of miles into the sky. There is a large body of evidence that sunspot cycles correspond to cycles of human activities and a lot of other phenomena on earth. The theory is based on the belief that those eruptions on the sun generate cosmic and other rays.

Of course, scientists will tell you that anything of a cyclic nature can be deduced to have a relationship between any other cyclic phenomenon, but the sunspot cycles coincide with a large number of other cycles.

Hafan True Stetson, the famous scientist, in "Sunspots and Their Effects," published by McGraw-Hill in 1937, demonstrated a large number of coincidences between sunspot cycles and numerous, rainfall increased. Droughts were frequent in years with few sunspots.

If cosmic rays are strong it is possible that they increase rainfall and that would increase plant growth, the number of animals, and a rise in food production. And, since no nation goes to war with an empty larder, it might intensify belligerency as well as business.

Dr. Stetson correlated sunspots and business activity between 1925 and 1937. He showed that the number of sunspots rose to a high in 1928 then declined to almost none in 1933, then rose to another high in 1937. Business indexes maintained a high level until 1929, then dived precipitately to the Depression low in 1932. The business index lagged slightly behind sunspot numbers by about a year. Both were near a peak in 1937, when Dr. Stetson went to press.

Others in Rhythm

Building contracts and auto sales moved in the same cycle. The relation between sunspots and radio reception has been observed since the earliest day of distance radio, the old "DX." In periods of high sunspot activity, something was hitting those radio waves as they went through the air.

Sunspot highs coincided with World War I and World War II and the start of the Vietnam War.

There are several sunspot cycles, the strongest of which is an 11-year cycle. The last 11-year cycle came to a peak in 1969 (as did business) and then started to decline. According to astronomers, it will continue to decline until sometime in 1975, then get stronger until the end of 1980, which may be another peak. In business terms, we are

The tax rate for Pitt County this year will be 94 cents on the $1.00 valuation, a reduction of 41 cents under the rate of $1.35 last year, or a total cut of $6,000,000. This decision was reached at the regular meeting of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners when the budget for the year was adopted.

Light opening breaks, varying prices and poorer grade offerings today greeted the opening of the South Carolina bright leaf and border belt tobacco markets. Thirteen North and South Carolina markets reported prices ranging from as low as one cent for sand lugs and poor grade first primings to 50 cents for extra good leaf.

Martin Board Hears Report

WILLIAMSTON — The Martin County Board of Education, Monday, heard reports from sub-committees of the county Better Education Committee.

Most attention was focused on the field of discipline, with reports indicating a desire to tighten discipline and to establish specific guidelines for student conduct. Board members expressed a favorable reception for the reports, which will be used to help determine a policy code for behavior and discipline in all the county schools.

Robert Jones was elected by the board as the new principal of Jamesville High School. In addition to Jones, 20 new personnel, mostly teachers, were elected for the coming school year.

Local district supplemental taxes for the five school districts were approved by the board of education. Rates range from 10 to 20 cents for the various districts.

Negotiations are still underway, and Superintendent Eugene Rogers was authorized to continue seeking terms with the owners of property in Jamesville to be purchased as additional land for the school site there.

The board approved the appointment of Leroy Harrison, former chairman of the Martin County Board of Education as the board's representative to serve on the Board of Directors of the Martin County Community Action. William Manson was named to replace Sammy Carson as attendance counselor for county schools.

The ESEA Title I budget prepared by the school staff was approved for submission to Raleigh.

In a final action, the board approved the appointment of two new members to the Williamston Local School Committee. The two approved are P.C. Bryant and Ernest Wiggins.

Extensive Microfiche Library On U.S. History Added At ECU

"The Library of American Civilization," a new microfiche library of about 19,000 volumes on the subject of America from its beginning to the outbreak of World War I, has been added to Joyner Library at East Carolina University.

More than 150 college and university libraries are currently receiving this collection of resource titles, published by Library Resources, Inc., of Chicago, a subsidiary of Encyclopaedia Britannica.

"Many of the books in this collection are rare, others are out of print, and not all are available in even the finest libraries," said Wendell W. Smiley, ECU's Director of Library Services.

"This gives our students the resources found only in select libraries of the nation."

Each volume in the Microbook Library is reproduced on a single 3 x 5-inch Microbook film card, a form of microfiche. There are up to 1,000 pages on a single fiche, an achievement of high reduction photography which reduces individual pages 55 to 90 times.

Each fiche in the Microbook Library can be stored, retrieved, and circulated as are most actual books. Ordinarily the 19,000 volumes in the Microbook Library would occupy 2,000 feet of shelf space.

In Microbook form the entire collection is stored in 30 card files which measure less than eight cubic feet.

Microbook titles are read on a desk reader or a small, portable reader. Most material displayed on the desk reader is enlarged to greater than original size on an 8½ x 12-inch screen, making it easier to read than the original volume.

Hard copies of Microbook pages, similar to Xerox copies of printed pages, can be made using a special reader-printer which will shortly be available in the ECU library.

Future collections, now in the development stage, include a collection of English literature, featuring microform reproductions of medieval manuscripts and early printed folio and quarto editions of Shakespeare's plays.

According to Ernest Connelly, director of Joyner Library's Public Services, ECU will purchase each forthcoming microfiche collection as soon as it becomes available.

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Many executives and professional persons these days are receiving offers of $5,000 loans for as long as five years from strangers merely for fixing their signatures to an application. Thousands are doing so.

The offers, which are made through the mail, require no security. The questionnaire may take only 10 minutes to fill out. The applicant's business associates may not be checked. The reason for the loan may not be verified.

Understandably, business seems to be thriving. Substantial companies are involved in the lending, and the record to date suggests that not only is demand high but that profits can be even higher.

Who borrows? Universal C.I.T. Credit Co., which entered the field three years ago, reports that doctors are the most frequent borrowers, followed in order by bankers, business executives, certified public accountants and dentists.

"We really don't care what they want the money for except that it must be for a legitimate purpose," said Edward W. May, vice president of the C.I.T. subsidiary.

The important thing to the lenders is that the borrower is not overextended, that the loan is for a reasonable amount and for a good purpose, and that the borrower has a good, steady income above $15,000 a year.

Despite the lack of security, almost all loans are repaid properly. May reports that out of many hundreds of loans made since his company entered the business he is currently concerned about only two, both to doctors.

In one instance the doctor lost his license and went to jail. "The other is going hippie on us; he joined a commune," said May.

Most loans to doctors are made only after the applicant has been in business many years. Many young doctors are overextended, May has found.

Bankers are frequent customers because of an old tradition that they not borrow from their own bank and because of a desire for confidentiality that would be breached by borrowing from a competitor.

They pay well for their loans, 18 per cent a year on the unpaid balance, or 1.5 per cent a month. That means a $5,000 loan paid back in 48 monthly installments costs $2,049.28 in

Conservation Treatment Done

Worthington Farms, Inc., has recently completed conservation treatment on 300 acres of land, according to David Hardee, Soil Conservationist.

A number of practices were used to treat the land, including 1.7 miles of open drainage ditch, and 10,000 feet of five-inch drains. This type of drainage system filters water and cuts down on pollution, Hardee explained.

"Three wet pockets, that often contained stagnate water, were filled," Hardee said. "This helped control mosquitoes that pose a health hazard to any community."

The Worthington brothers then seeded field borders on both sides of the main canal to stabilize its sides and filter out soil that would run over the side of the channel.

"This practice keeps top soil from polluting water downstream in the Tar River. It also enables Worthington Farms to grow a cheaper and better crop of corn," explained the soil conservationist.

In the final operation, the Worthington brothers ran a landplane over the entire surface of the field to put a smooth surface on every acre. Small depressions are eliminated that hold water and create partial drowning and low quality crops. The work was part of Worthington Farms' Conservation Plan which was assisted by the Soil Conservation Service in developing.

New Pill Is Seen Ahead

EDITOR'S NOTE —Under the pressure of a still-growing world population, scientists are seeking new, better and safer methods of contraception. In the following first of two articles on Contraception '71, AP Science Editor Alton Blakeslee tells what may soon be coming out of laboratories to help in the fight against the population explosion.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Just around the corner now looms a fabulous new once-a-month birth control pill.

It would act upon the pituitary gland in the brain, preventing it from releasing hormones necessary for conception to occur, and for pregnancy to be maintained.

It would thus act like a rifle bullet, preventing conception without producing any other effects on the body.

The current pill is more like a shotgun. While it prevents conception, the female hormone-type chemicals in the pill affect other cells and systems of the body as well.

The new pill now promised involves a fantastic chemical, called Gonadotropin Releasing Factor—GRF—produced in the hypothalamus area of the brain. The GRF tells the nearby pituitary gland when to release the hormones responsible for a woman's releasing an egg, and for pregnancy to continue.

Now, two teams of scientists have synthesized this releasing factor, a chemical so powerful that a few thousandths of one millionth of a gram—one gram is 1-28th of an ounce—is enough to start the chain of hormone release.

This feat has just been achieved by Dr. Andrew V. Schalley and associates of the Veterans Administration Hospital and Tulane University Medical Center, New Orleans, and by Dr. Roger Guillemin and his collaborators at the Salk Institute here.

A next step is to make a phony GRF, one that would be fooled by the pituitary gland, but which would block that gland from releasing its hormones. Such analogues, as they are called, have already been prepared by the scientific teams, and they might be fully tested for safety and effectiveness within two or three years. The day of the rifle-bullet contraceptive would be here.

The GRF is only one prospect in intensified research to find new contraceptives beyond the present pill, which came under a cloud of public worry during congressional hearings early last year. Pill use was associated with some increased risk of blood clots and other untoward effects.

Those alarms—unjustified in the opinion of some leading experts—prompted hundreds of thousands of women to turn from the pill, but a majority may have resumed its use.

Pill sales went down initially, but recovered as women resumed its use, or other women took it up. Statistics in some major American cities showed a slight increase in birth rate a year after the hearings, but officials are loath to attribute this simply to abandonment of the pill.

The majority of physicians and experts on birth control consider the pill as remarkably safe—safer than childbirth for example—and totally effective if taken regularly.

But the pill is not perfection, not the ultimate, hence the quest for even better methods, including a variety of methods that could suit everyone desiring of limiting family size.

Researchers are working upon minipills, hormone injections or implants that might be good for a year, pills that would induce abortion if a woman had conceived but didn't yet realize it, and pills for men. And there are the IUD's—intrauterine devices—made more effective through a small content of copper. There are also techniques to sterilize men or women, techniques that may be made reversible if the person should later desire parenthood.

Much research focuses upon the basic physiology of human reproduction, the miracle and mystery of procreating new life. Such knowledge might permit many childless couples to have the babies they want, as well as bring new, safe methods of contraception to be used by either women or men.

Animal experiments have turned up at least three chemicals that can suppress sperm production, but they may be too toxic for human use. Low doses of progesterone, one of the female hormones, can interfere with sperm maturation and mobility, but again there are questions of safety and practical application.

And some research is concerned with the capacitation factor—a chemical agent in the female reproductive tract that somehow alters sperm so they become able to penetrate the egg. A chemical that neutralized the capacitation factor might be an effective and simply contraceptive.

The present pill prevents ovulation by block the releasing factors in the hypothalamus. But the hormones in the pill affect other systems, too, and have been compared to "killing a mosquito with a sledgehammer."

That is why the concept of utilizing the GRF is so appealing. The only effect would be upon the pituitary gland to inhibit hormone release.

Moore's Opens Locally Soon

Moore's Super Stores Inc. of Roanoke, Va. is opening a new cash and carry building supply store here this month at 329 W. Greenville Blvd.

According to an announcement, the new facility will have 8,200 square feet of floor space, with the interior remodeled for self-service shopping.

The Moore's Greenville firm will be the 46th store in the chain of building supply stores and the tenth Moore's store to be opened in North Carolina. Moore's is a division of Evans Products Co., a major manufacturer of building supplies.

Merchandise in the new facility will consist of self-service items for the do-it-yourself shopper or home handyman. Items will be mass displayed on the floor with a price ticket on each item, it was pointed out.

The firm revealed that specially designed shopping carts will be available to help customers in shopping and in transporting merchandise to their cars. Customers will also have access to Moore's utility trailer or car top carriers and delivery arrangements may also be made.

The Greenville store will offer a stock of building supplies, lumber, hardware, and home products.

Group's Medical Costs Halved

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)—The state of Kentucky was able to cut in half the medical costs of 36 welfare recipients by assigning them to one physician and one pharmacy.

The cost for the group averaged $91.56 before the project and $46.51 afterwards. The 36 welfare recipients were chosen because their medical bills paid by the state were higher than state average of $15.89 per welfare client.

SAMOANS NOT CITIZENS

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (UPI)—The 28,000 residents of American Samoa are U.S. nationals, but they are not citizens, do not have the right to vote in national elections and are not subject to draft laws.

However, they pay federal income taxes because their representatives in the territorial legislature voted that American Samoans should adhere to the Internal Revenue Code, with some modifications.

Meany May Break Over China

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany, generally a supporter of President Nixon's foreign policies, appears headed toward a major break with the White House over Nixon's overtures to Communist China.

The issue, along with the big labor federation's bitter criticism of Nixon's economic policies, could become a part of the AFL-CIO's extensive politicking among its own 13.6 million members and other voters against Nixon's expected 1972 re-election bid.

However, some members of the 35-man executive council of the 122-union AFL-CIO reportedly have reservations about the wisdom of attacking Nixon's new China policy at least until after his planned visit to Peking, preferring to see if any good comes of the trip.

"I give Nixon a plus for winding down the war in Indochina and that ends the plusses," the 76-year-old Meany said recently in a broad hint at a forthcoming blast at Nixon's China move.

The issue is expected to come to a head at the AFL-CIO's executive council meeting opening in San Francisco next Monday.

While Nixon's overall relations with organized labor in general and the AFL-CIO in particular have never been of the best, he has enjoyed labor support on most aspects of his conduct of foreign policy. Meany has steadfastly supported Nixon's Vietnam war

Conn. Man Faces Charges

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A Connecticut man arrested recently on a narcotics charge has been charged additionally in a gunshot slaying in Wilmington, N.C., last winter while he was visiting his mother.

He is Allen Harper, 25, who was arrested in his apartment in Waterbury a week ago and charged with possessing heroin and resisting arrest.

He is in jail in New Haven under $10,000 bond. And Tuesday the FBI served a warrant charging him with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in the slaying of Velgamon Stanley Rivers, 36, during an argument in Wilmington. Rivers was shot last Feb. 25 and died about a month later. Police in Wilmington had charged Harper with murder.

policies, as he did with previous Democratic presidents. A sharp AFL-CIO attack on Nixon over the China issue could have some impact among blue-collar workers who Nixon has tried to woo away from the traditional ties with the Democratic party.

In another speech, Meany said Nixon's planned visit to China could damage U.S. dealings with Israel, West Germany and other countries afraid of any warming of U.S.-Communist relations.

Meany questioned whether Nixon's Peking visit would help win freedom for U.S. prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

"What is Red China's contribution to the cause of peace in our time? Are they going to put a little pressure on their junior partners in Hanoi to look at the prisoners-of-war issue in a humanitarian way?" Meany asked.

Meany raised some of his questions before Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced Monday the United States is dropping its longstanding opposition to admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

But the labor chief's position reportedly has hardened since. He told a union convention after Rogers' announcement that the labor federation had supported much of Nixon's foreign policy—"up to now."

Broyhill Is Challenged

BELMONT, N. C. (AP) — State Rep. Jack Rhyne announced Tuesday his candidacy for the 10th congressional district seat held the last 10 years by Rep. James Broyhill, a Republican member of the Broyhill furniture family of Lenoir.

Rhyne, the first Democrat to announce, did so after conferring with State Sen. Marshall Rauch, also of Gaston County, who had expressed interest in entering the congressional campaign.

Broyhill said in Washington that he is not running for any office other than the House, and would like to squelch rumors that he might run for the Senate next year against 74-year-old Democrat B. Everett Jordan.

The 10th district, as redrawn by the 1971 General Assembly, includes Gaston, Cleveland, Catawba, Burke, Alexander and Caldwell counties.

DARWINIAN DEFENSE WINS — Dianne Doerphinghaus, 18, from Greensboro made a telling point, convinced a judge and won her case. She had been charged with carrying her kitten, "April Katsup" on the boardwalk of Ocean City, N. J. An ordinance forbids it. For cats, dogs, any animal. But the girl argued, "Man is an animal, too." The judge pondered, smiled, declared girl and kitten not guilty and ordered the $25 bail she posted given back. (AP Wirephoto)

Appointments Are Made Mon.

WILLIAMSTON — Appointments and reappointments to various boards and commissions were the order of the day at the meeting of the Williamston Town Board on Monday.

For the Code and Code Enforcement Committee, two members — J. E. Landi and Paul Hartman were reappointed to four year terms. James W.
Thrower, Jr. was appointed to replace Wilbur Edwards in an expired term that ends in 1974.

Three members — Rev.
Claude McDonald, Van Lee Beel and James Bennett were reappointed to three year terms on the Citizens Advisory Committee, and W. I. Skinner, Jr.

was reappointed to the Urban Renewal Commission for a five year period.

Mrs. Louie P. Martin asked the board to rezone her property at the corner of Carolina and Whitside Streets. The property, now zoned Industrial Unof-fensive, is being requested for a change to R-6 residential. The board set a public hearing for the September meeting on the request.

An amendment to the town's ordinance on sale of beer was approved. The amendment brings the town ordinance into line with the recently passed legislation permitting the sale of beer at certain hours on Sunday.

Discussions were held on the possibility of making two small alley type street — Baltimore Street and the unnamed street between Belk Tyler and Tar Heel Apartments — into one-way streets. The city attorney was asked to check into the status of ownership to determine future action.

Following a discussion of the possibility of parking for one side only of Simmons Avenue, board members decided to request residents to submit a petition stating their desire on the matter.

A resolution was adopted that will give tax-payers a discount for the early payment of city taxes. Under a new state law, towns and county units must pass a resolution before early payment discounts can be given.

Approval was given to the Junior Chamber of Commerce to use the vacant lot on the site of the former Roanoke-Dixie Warehouse to hold their annual fund-drive rides carnival.

Pastor Prefers Drag-Racing

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Rev. Jerome Leake doesn't drag out a sermon if he can help it.

When his part of the Sunday services at Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church in Aurora, Ill., is finished, he climbs into a souped-up car, variously nicknamed "Padre's
Goat" and "The Friendly Persuader," and goes drag racing, says the National Enquirer. The car has been clocked at 12.8 seconds for the quarter-mile.

Hippodrome Set Tonight At Gym

At 7:30 o'clock tonight in Memorial Gymnasium on the ECU campus the Holiday
Hippodrome from Sarasota, Florida will present a 90 minute spectacle for young and old alike.

Acrobats, jugglers and a broad range of variety acts will be featured in Holiday Hippodrome, which is to be staged with colorful costumes and music.

Ed Dixon, project chairman of Holiday Hippodrome, which is being sponsored by the Optimist Club of Greenville, noted that tickets for admission are $1.00 each, regardless of age.

"You could definitely say the Holiday Hippodrome is rated G," Dixon remarked in saying its fare is suitable for all members of the family.

Parking will be available in the ECU parking lots, and tickets can be bought at the box office to be established at the gym prior to the hour of the show.

Proceeds from the one-night stand of Holiday Hippodrome will be donated by the Optimist Club to the Boys' Club of Greenville.

sprig Centipede grass to hold the soil along the Pamlico River bank on the camp grounds.

The Juniors and Cadettes stayed overnight and all the campers participated in a cookout. Mrs. James Davenport
Jr. was the camp director.

AIRPORTS AND MOTELS
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—
An important factor in the growth of motels in the United States has been the construction of new airports, says
Stewart Bain, president of Quality Motels. More than 500
U.S. cities now have regularly scheduled air service.

CATS OF THE LIBRARY — A mother cat peers from an air vent underneath the Miami public Library as her lonely kitten sits beneath.
The cats are two of some 85 that have lived beneath the library for years. Some workers in the library claim that fleas from the furry felines are responsible for an itchy, irritating infestation of Ctenocephalus felis on the first two floors of the library, in the heart of the city. (AP

New York Stock Market Suffers A Big Setback

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market suffered one of its worst setbacks of the year
Tuesday as prices plummeted amid speculation about an increase in the prime lending rate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 14.89 points to 850.03, its lowest closing level since Jan. 20, when it ended the day at 849.95.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, declines outpaced advances by about 5 to 1. Trading volume reached 13.49 million shares.

On the American Stock Exchange, where 3.6 million shares changed hands, the price-change index dropped .35 to 24.37.

Analysts said the sharp decline was triggered by speculation about a possible increase in the prime rate, which is the interest commercial banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate borrowers. They said the prime rate was of concern to investors because most other bank interest rates are scaled upward from it. The prime rate currently is 6 per cent.

Secretary of the Treasury
John B. Connally told newsmen in Washington he was distressed at reports of a possible increase in the prime rate.

"Further unjustified increases in interest rates, already high by historical standards, might well jeopardize the strength of the business recovery," Connally said.

U.S. Postal Service Now Has Solid Competitor

By RON JENKINS
Associated Press Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP) — "Now you have a choice—IPSA's mail or Uncle Sam's," the slogan says.

IPSA? The acronym for Independent Postal Service of America may not be a household word and the idea of getting bags of mail hung on door knobs may be a bit startling. But officers of IPSA say the U.S. Postal Service now has a solid competitor and a possible unofficial, future partner.

Thomas L. Murray, president of the firm since it was founded 3½ years ago, says IPSA carriers will be delivering mail to residents in every city with 50,000 or more residents by 1975.

The service deals in third-class mail, or so-called "junk mail" although the term is taboo among IPSA employees. It now delivers the material at cheaper rates than the Postal Service in hundreds of cities in 19 states and Canada.

And it has other projects in the works:

—Construction of permanent post office buildings in 15 locations, stretching from Oklahoma City to Buffalo, N.Y.

—Expanded use of the "IP-SAGram," a modern version of the telegram. It uses facsimile transmission, which lets customers send messages in their own handwriting.

—Attempts to corral what could be its most lucrative business—wide-scale delivery of magazines and other publications.

—Public service projects in certain areas, such as free mail from taxpayers to their congressmen and five-cent rates for intricacy delivery of Christmas cards.

"We're playing post office for real now," says Murray, recalling the firm's somewhat shaky start.

"Since the first of the year we have been able to get all the financing we need," he added in an interview. "We didn't get this in the past and it caused problems—operating on a cash flow basis."

Murray, who immigrated from Ireland 17 years ago, points to two other factors for the upswing in business.

One was the recent rate increase by the Postal Service. IPSA currently charges $33 to $34 for 1,000 saturation-type third-class mailings. The national service gets $40 per 1,000 mailings up to 250,000 pieces. After that, the U.S. rate jumps to $42 per 1,000. IPSA's rate does not change and customers are guaranteed that the mail will arrive on the specified day.

"Uncle Sam is the only person in the business world who penalizes his clients for doing more business for him," one IPSA official commented.

Murray also contended that IPSA was helped, ironically, by passage of the Postal Reform

Act. "They could have about put us out of business if they had true postal reform, but they didn't," he said.

Murray said the postal reform as passed caused widespread dissatisfaction among the nation's biggest users of mail, adding: "The lobbyists for the magazines and other concerns saw all their years of efforts go down the drain." IPSA wants to get into the business of delivering magazines on a national scale someday and has been negotiating with several publishing companies. A spokesman for one firm, publisher of the top five national magazines in circulation, declined to elaborate but said of IPSA: "We've used them in the past and expect to use them more in the future." IPSA now lists many major retail corporations and business firms among its clients, including Sears-Roebuck, Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Montgomery Ward. The state of Kansas has expressed interest in doing business with IPSA because of the cost for official correspondence under the new postal rates.

Under federal law, IPSA employees are barred from using residential mail boxes, so they hang plastic bags of letters around door knobs. The law has never been fully challenged in the courts by IPSA for several reasons, Murray said. "First, in the beginning, we didn't feel we were big enough to take on the post office. Also there was the problem of mail thefts, there are thousands of thefts everyday and we didn't want to take the blame. Then we didn't want to open the mail boxes to every Tom, Dick and Harry just as we were getting started."

IPSA attorneys have advised that they think the U.S. law on mail boxes is not valid, because it regulates the use of private property. While IPSA officials speak only in glowing terms about the company's future, they admit to facing several obstacles. IPSA's future will likely depend on gaining recognition—both from the public and the U.S. Postal Service. Orville DeClaire, IPSA vice president and general manager hopes official recognition of the U.S. Post Office will come in time. "We're interested in handling all types of mail—second-third and fourth-class—and we hope someday to reach a cooperative agreement with the post office," he said.

As one IPSA official put it: "We can help the post office become a better organization by taking some of their business off their hands."

Rate Decision Is Awaited

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission wants a final decision in its squabble with railroads over freight rates on shipments within North Carolina.

The commission says it must approve such rates. The railroads say they can bypass the commission and seek rate increases directly from the Interstate Commerce Commission when the state agency forces them to charge lower rates on in-state shipments than they charge on shipments across state lines.

Some time ago, the railroads became dissatisfied with utilities commission suspension of their rate hike proposals and took their rate pleas to the ICC's Division 2, a three-man subcommittee. It recently ruled in favor of one group of increases sought by the carriers.

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners Monday approved an amount of $3,000 to be paid to the Department of Local Affairs during the fiscal year 1971-1972. This money is earmarked for planning purpose studies to be conducted by the department.

The commissioners also approved a relief order for tax relief. The total for this item comes to $3,364.

Father Killed With Shotgun

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A couple had just returned from a marriage counselor when the husband beat his wife and was dragging her down the hall of their house trailer, police said.

They added that the couple's 12-year-old son pointed a shotgun at his father Tuesday, told him to stop, and pulled the trigger when the father grabbed for the gun.

The father, Kenneth J. Mayfield, 33, a housepainter, was shot in the face and killed.

The boy was put in the custody of his mother pending a hearing in Juvenile Court.

Police quoted the mother as saying her husband had refused to cooperate with the marriage counselor.

RALEIGH (AP) — A study that will include a check on the amount of fish the Russians and other foreign fishermen are catching off the North Carolina Coast was announced Tuesday by Dr. Thomas Linton, state fisheries commissioner.

Linton said that one phase calls for the state's fishery research vessel the Dan Moore, to spend considerable time fishing alongside foreign vessels to document their catches.

He said state and federal governments will cooperate in the $460,000 three-year study of anadromous fish—those that live in the ocean and migrate up fresh water streams to spawn.

These fish include the river herring which some North Carolina fishermen say foreign fishermen are catching in large quantities off the coast. Others will include the American and hickory shad, striped bass and sturgeon.

The objective of the study, Dr. Linton said is to learn as much as possible about the life history of these fish—migration, spawning, growth—so that management measures may be taken.

And, he said, the state needs the facts on the foreign fishermen who have been operating on the high seas off the Tar Heel coast.

WILMINGTON—Greenville's storming back after Monday American Legion team came night's 14-13 loss and scored

Woody's Ramblin's

Chips and putts from area golf courses:

Robersonville

Cecil Warner has taken over the reigns as the new professional at the Robersonville Golf and Country Club. He comes to Robersonville from Sanford Golf Club.

Former Pro Labron Briggs has moved to become the pro at River Bend Country Club near New Bern.

Ayden

Sindey Roberson and Harry Allsbrook captured first place in the recent Member-Guest Tournament held at the Ayden Golf and Country Club. They finished the two-day round with a net of 121, 23 under par.

Second place went to the team of Tim Merritt and J. D. Andrews who had a 123. Third was J. C. Pollard and Fred Lee at 124.

Tied for fourth at 125 were the following teams: Joe Pinner and Don White, Nelson Gravatt and Jim Abrams, Don Baker and Jerry Earp, and Billy Dunn and Tommy Dunn. Tied for the next spot with 126s were Bill Loftin and John Moye, Charlie Davis and Don Johnson, and Woody Smith and Jerry Abrams.

Brook Valley

Paul McMahon picked up an ace at the 152-yard par three 12th hole at Brook Valley Country Club recently. McMahon used a seven-iron for the shot. He was playing with Gene Ward, John Lautares and Cecil Heath when he made the shot.

J. D. Allen fired his best round, an 86, while playing with Tommy Lane and Jim Harris.

Macon Moye picked up an eagle two at the ninth hole.

three runs in the ninth inning to break a tie and beat Wilmington's Post 10 4-1.

Wilmington got the bases loaded in the first but Greenville pitcher Glenn Forbes struck out the last man to get out of the inning.

In the second, Wilmington took up where they left off by bringing in a run. Robert Billingsly led off with a double and was sacrificed to third by Van Lewis. Joe Johnson then hit a long triple driving in Billingsly.

Greenville finally got on the scoreboard in the fourth as they pushed over a solo run. Bill Lee walked and went to second on a ground out. He scored when Jimmy Paige hit a long triple to deep left-center field.

Neither team could score for the next four innings although they put men on base. Then in the ninth Greenville exploded for the three runs that gave them the win. Phil Blount opened the frame with a single to right. Timmy James got a hit. Joe West doubled driving in Blount and moving James to third. After an out, Jimmy Bond popped a single to center driving in James and West.

Bond had three hits to lead in that department. James and Tommy Durham had two apiece. For Wilmington, Johnson and Bill Smith had two each.

The win evens the series at 1-1. The play offs move to Greenville Thursday with the fourth, and fifth games to be played here also. Game time is 7:30 at Harrington Field.

Duane Thomas Eludes Patriots; Goes West

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Duane Thomas is alive and kicking and living in Los Angeles—probably.

The National Football League's rookie of the year in the National Conference, traded by Dallas to the New England Patriots after leading the Cowboys to the Super Bowl, vanished from the Pats' training camp Tuesday and flew to the West Coast.

Thomas eluded newsmen at Los Angeles International Airport and was apparently ensconced in his Los Angeles apartment today.

"They don't want me. They asked me to leave," was all the 23-year-old running back said at Boston's Logan Airport after packing his bags and departing from camp at the University of Massachusetts in nearby Amherst.

Patriot's General Manager Upton Bell would only comment:

"On advice of our lawyers, I cannot say any more about this situation at this time. I will say only that this is not due to contract negotiations."

It was a contract dispute that brought Thomas to the Pats. He refused to report to Dallas' training camp, seeking renegotiation of his three-year contract, reportedly for $80,000 a year. The Cowboys said no.

Then they traded Thomas and two other players to the Pats for running back Carl Garrett and New England's No. 1 draft choice in 1972.

Garrett, meanwhile, left the Cowboys' training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif., but for a different reason. He returned to Boston to fulfill a military reserve commitment. Several other players were also on the move Tuesday.

The New Orleans Saints traded seven-year tight end Ray Poage to Atlanta, the Falcons acquired second-year defensive back Tony Plummer from St. Louis and the Kansas City Chiefs sent veteran safety Goldie Sellers to Houston, all for undisclosed draft choices.

Oakland's star receiver Warren Wells, absent from the Raiders' camp Monday, was back with the team without explaining his one-day disappearance.

And Dave Parks, New Orleans' No. 1 tight end last season, reported to the Saints' camp but refused to sign a contract and did not practice.

Jack, Arnie To Chase Money

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, two of pro golf's millionaires, have a chance to seize the 1971 money winning lead in the $150,000 American Golf Classic starting Thursday.

A field of 103 will tee off in the first of four rounds in the 72-hole tournament over the par 70, 7,180-yard Firestone South course.

The low 70 and ties will survive the 36-hole cut Friday and the final round Sunday will be nationally-televized (ABC).

While No. 1 1971 money earner Lee Trevino is getting a Texas hero's welcome this week in El Paso, Nicklaus and Palmer both have a shot at passing him on the PGA dollar list.

Nicklaus, second with $187,763 to Trevino's $197,219, can move on top with the $30,000 first prize, $17,100 for second or $10,450 third place money.

Palmer, third with $184,799 in winnings this year, needs a first or second to move past Trevino. All of the former Classic champions except 1961 winner Jay Hebert will take part in the 10-year-old tournament.

Besides Trevino and Hebert, No. 4 money winner Gary Player will bypass this stop. Player is resting at his South African home. Billy Casper, the third golfing millionaire, also is not competing here.

Frank Beard won the 1970 title with a four-under-par 276 despite no practice rounds. Beard was home in Louisville while his wife had a baby the Tuesday of the tournament.

The field will be completed with the top five finishers in the satellite Little American Golf Classic, which wound up its 54 holes today on the Firestone North layout.

Arlin Hurls Padres To Win Over Cards

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Steve Arlin, the pitching dentist, took some of the bite out of the St. Louis Cardinals and it turned up, of all places, in the bats of the San Diego Padres.

Arlin hurled a four-hitter Tuesday night and got some unusually lusty hitting from the Padres to beat the Cardinals 6-1.

Elsewhere in the National League Tuesday, Pittsburgh ripped Montreal 10-6, Chicago shut out Houston 5-0, Philadelphia edged Atlanta 3-2, Los Angeles blitzed San Francisco 9-1 and Cincinnati split a doubleheader in New York, winning 5-2 before losing 9-4.

In the American League,

New York clipped Cleveland 8-1, Oakland took Kansas City 7-1, Minnesota nipped Chicago 4-3 in 10 innings, Washington trimmed Detroit 4-2 and Milwaukee shut out California 2-0. Boston at Baltimore was rained out.

Arlin's sharp performance against the Cardinals was the 10th complete game in the last 16 starts for the Padres' staff. But San Diego has won only six of those games. In 69 games since May 23, the San Diego pitching staff has a 2.97 earned run average. Yet the club's won-lost mark was 27-42 over that span. Blame the batters.

But the Padres managed 13 hits Tuesday night and gave Arlin four runs in the first four innings. That was enough for the ex-Ohio State star, who boosted his record to 6-13 and needed just 98 pitches to do the job.

Arlin made it to spring training for the first time this year. Previous springs were devoted to his dental studies at Ohio State. They were completed last June and now Arlin can pull teeth when he's not pitching.

Unbeaten Bob Veale earned the victory in relief, running his record to 6-0.

Rookie John Vukovich, who carried a .157 batting average into the game, drove home two Philadelphia runs including the winner with a single and a double as the Phillies knocked off Atlanta.

Hank Aaron's 31st homer of the season and 623rd of his career had balanced rookie Willie Montanez' early homer but Vukovich put the Phillies ahead with a seventh inning single after Don Money had doubled.

Rookie Earl Williams tied it again for the Braves in the ninth, jolting a two-out homer. But the Phillies bounced back with Roger Freed singling and Vukovich drilling a double to score pinch runner Larry Bowa with the winning tally.

Bill Hands tossed a five-hitter and Ron Santo hammered his 17th home run, helping the Cubs past Houston.

Santo's homer was the game's only run until the ninth when Chicago ganged up on reliever Fred Gladding for four more. J. C. Martin drove in two of the runs with a single.

Doyle Alexander hurled a six-hitter and the Dodgers exploded for four runs in the first inning and whipped San Francisco.

Steve Garvey, whose three-run homer beat the Giants in the ninth inning the night before, singled in two of the Dodgers' early runs as LA trimmed San Francisco's National League West lead to seven games.

Tony Perez hammered a three-run homer, climaxing a four-run Cincinnati rally in the sixth inning as the Reds knocked off the Mets in the first game of their doubleheader. Lee May also homered for the Reds.

In the nightcap, New York collected 12 hits as Charlie Williams pitched his first major league complete game. Rookie Tim Lincecum drove in three of the Met runs with a pair of doubles as winless Jim Merritt absorbed his 11th consecutive loss.

loss.

Trevino Given Welcome Home

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — "Welcome home, Lee Trevino. Girl's panties, 2 for $1."

It was a sign on the marquee of a shopping center in suburban El Paso. The second line may not have been entirely in keeping with the spirit of the occasion, but the message was there.

It was a spontaneous outpouring of affection for the have-not who made it big, this Lee Trevino Day in El Paso and neighboring Juarez, Mexico.

The officials were there, the U.S. ambassador who read a congratulatory letter from President Nixon, the governor of Texas, the mayor of El Paso, generals from nearby Fort Bliss, Hollywood celebrities.

But mostly it was "los popes," the poor ones, the have-nots, who celebrated Tuesday as El Paso welcomed Lee Trevino, back home for the first time since he swept the U.S., Canadian and British Open golf titles—a feat without precedent.

They lined the streets five deep, hung out of second-story windows, clung by their fingernails from the sloping rows of houses, climbed high onto rooftop advertising signs to get a glimpse of the guy who came from nowhere to the front rank of pro golf's superstars.

There was a 20-car motorcade through El Paso and Juarez, with kids busting through police lines to pat Trevino on the back, beg his autograph as the open car went by, the boys and girls trotting along side as he scribbled his signature over and over again.

"This is home," he said. "I moved here in 1966 and the people accepted me immediately, even before I did anything big. They're always accepted me for what I am."

"I thought I'd had some thrills before, like winning the U.S. Open, or the British, but this is something else."

It was his first trip home in almost four months, four months in which he had competed almost constantly, week after week in three countries.

"I don't even know where I live," he said. "Since I've been gone, my wife sold our old house, bought a new one and moved in and I don't even know the address."

In 1966, when he moved here from Dallas, Tex., the address was a second-hand house trailer parked on the grounds of the Horizon City Golf Course, the driving range where he worked as a $35-a-week assistant. He was a Mexican-American from a poverty background, a seventh-grade dropout who went into the Marines to earn a living, a golf course hustler scraping up $2 bets to make his way.

Since then have come a pair of U.S. Open titles, more money than he knew existed, five victories this year, the leading money winner, the Vardon Trophy champion.

American Talks Washington

CHICAGO (AP) — The American League is expected to discuss the financially troubled Washington baseball franchise Wednesday when the joint baseball meetings are expected to end.

"We didn't discuss the Washington situation at all today, said President Joe Cronin Tuesday night. "But we expect to bring up the subject tomorrow. In fact we didn't take up any league matters, we simply discussed the commissioner's agenda."

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn held a joint meeting of the American and National Leagues Tuesday in which a variety of topics were discussed including promotions, films, drug education, broadcast, the performance bonus rule and cutting down on spring training.

"The only matter on which action is expected," said Kuhn, "is the shortening of spring training."

When the American League continues its meeting Wednesday, Kuhn expects to be called in when the Washington matter comes up.

However, he added he didn't expect any definite action to come up in the Washington matter.

Fighter Waits For Jail Return

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

CALI, Colombia (AP) — When Bobby Lee Hunter steps into the ring at the Pan American Games, he can always look over the ropes and see a burly, dark-haired man from Columbia, S.C., sitting in the front row.

The man is waiting to take Bobby Lee back to jail.

From his corner, Bobby Lee throws a smile in the man's direction and the man responds with an encouraging gesture.

Who would imagine that the fighter is a convict, serving a 16-year sentence for manslaughter and the man at the ringside is a cop technically here to see he doesn't run away.

"It's more like father and son although their skins are a different color," says the U.S. boxing team manager James McCarron.

"The kid loves the guy."

Bobby Lee is black. The man, corrections officer Ray Satterfield, 35 is white.

It's truly one of the most bizarre and poignant stories of these or any other games.

Bobby Lee was just 17, a wild kid on the streets of Charleston, S.C., four years ago when one night got into a shoving match with an older man in a neighborhood store. A girl was involved.

"The man swung at the girl and hit me," Bobby Lee explains. "I got mad and pulled a knife."

Before it was over the other man was dead and Bobby Lee, although his defenders argued aggravated assault, was in the Carolina Correctional Institute on a 16-year sentence.

Bobby Lee worked in the laundry. He took up boxing as recreation. He was good with his fists. Although small, 112 pounds, he hits like a hammer.

He started going to tournaments and winning them. He won the 1971 National AAU flyweight class. This qualified him for the Pan Am Trials. He won there, too.

"It put us in a rather uncomfortable situation," said Clifford Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee. "We debated a long time whether we should permit him to represent us. We were worried about our international image."

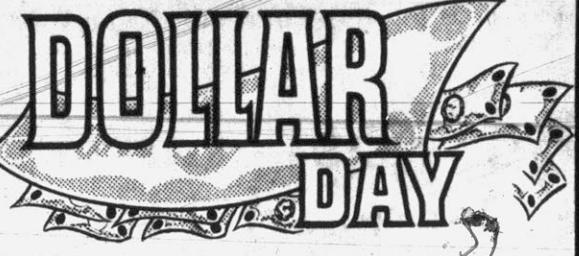

"But we got some very nice letters praising the man. One from Senator Fritz Hollings. Another from Warden W. T. Cave of the correctional institute. We decided if we could invite him to our trials we would have to let him compete."

Another complication arose. Bobby Lee is a prisoner. Should he be let out alone? It was decided a corrections officer should go along.

"Bobby Lee asked for Satterfield himself," explained McCarron. "He had befriended the youngster. Bobby Lee said he wouldn't go without him."

So the venture began—back on July 9. It ends Aug. 14 when Bobby Lee and Satterfield are to return to Columbia.

Bobby Lee won his quarter-final bout Tuesday night, outpointing Daniel Lopez of Panama.

Mark Ramsey Closely Associated With ECU Theatre

Thin almost to the point of gauntness, the young actor has the type of dark luminous eyes that immediately draw attention. Anyone unaware of his dedication to the theater and his continuing years of apprenticeship on the stage would nevertheless make a mental note that Mark Ramsey is one of those rare individuals whose eyes and facial features register an amazing range of expressiveness.

A veteran of both the East Carolina Summer Theater and the East Carolina Playhouse that operates at ECU during the non-summer season, Mark Ramsey has become the one actor perhaps most closely associated in the public mind with ECU theater.

"I've been here five years," the actor remarked, "acting and attending school." He mentioned that involvement with acting has somewhat prolonged the process of completing his education, but the Raleigh native is steadily stowing away an enviable procession of good roles along with formal studies.

Ramsey's love affair with the stage is a case of being smitten at an early age. "I first started acting with the Children's Theater in Raleigh when I was in the fifth grade," he recalled. "I've always known that I wanted to act."

The capital city of North Carolina provided the young aspirant with a number of opportunities to appear on stage.

"I had parts in productions at the Little Theater," he said, "and at colleges in and around Raleigh." He noted that Meredith and St. Mary's College were often able to provide roles. Out of state theater goers have also had a chance to see Ramsey in action, as he spent one summer in summer stock in Missouri.

Ramsey fell in love with a girl who also had found the world of entertainment the focus of her life. "Susan is more interested in opera and opera theater," Ramsey said. He added, however, "she's here in summer plays now, and has been in several productions at ECU." Mrs. Ramsey is the former Susan Zachary of Asheboro.

Asked about singing roles, the actor smiled and stated "I'm not a singer. When I accept a singing role it requires some extra time working on the music. Susan helps me on this. There's lots of little tricks an actor can use when he doesn't have a good singing voice." Judging from the effectiveness of his non-singing style of singing in several roles on stage here, the little tricks work quite well.

In reply to a question about the type of roles he likes best, Ramsey said "the roles of a character somewhere around my age are ones I like best. But I enjoy the challenge of different roles, the kind I've not worked with before."

Basically a character actor, Ramsey has portrayed on stage a wide range of notable roles. In Raleigh he played Richard in "Ah, Wilderness." Other roles to mention only a few, included those of John in "A Lion in Winter," Clarence, Jr. in "Life With Father," Murray in "A Thousand Clowns," Finian in "Finian's Rainbow," and the king in "Exit The King."

Ramsey fans are familiar with the busy pace he has been keeping this summer as Fagin in "Oliver," dual roles in "Mame" — as the elevator boy and as Gregor; Zoli in "Girl Crazy," and this week he's the inept sheriff Franz in Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill."

His skinniness Ramsey terms an asset. "Being skinny is a great help in getting around, in being nimble," he admitted. It's hardly necessary to add it's a blessing when the services of someone suitable for casting in roles such as a starving poet or a recluse hermit comes along.

Ramsey speaks with admiration of his fellow actors and actresses, and mentioned that in the theater an actor has the pleasure of recrossing the paths of old acquaintances. "Gregory Zittel, for example, started out at ECU. We've kept in contact, and now he's back from New York for this play." (Zittel is "Con" Kidder in "The Red Mill").

Greenville area? "They're great," Ramsey said, "very receptive. They're good listeners and good laughers, both very important to an actor." Just now the actor and his wife have no desire to head for the Mecca of theater — New York. "That may come later," he remarked, "We're going to try for the professional stage, but there are so many good professional and equity groups that we need not feel we must go to New York."

The satisfaction of performing, Ramsey comments, are many. "I find it most pleasing to say a line one way and get laughter, and the same line said in another way will draw an entirely different emotion. When an actor hears the result pay off, it's a great feeling."

"And", Ramsey's smiled, "there's nothing like a good curtain call."

Old Post Card Is Turned Up

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

That the younger generation is fascinated by the discovery for the first time of old scenes of Greenville is borne out by the recent example of a young married couple coming to the newspaper office.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lohmeyer, both students at East Carolina University, showed staff members a beautifully preserved very early 20th century black and white picture card of the type popular at that time.

In the lower left corner of the picture side, the photograph reproduced is one of Evans Street — still recognizable by several identifiable buildings not basically changed in three quarters of a century. The street at that time was a dirt one, rather rutted (as if the picture may have been taken soon after an August rain). A couple of mule and carts parked along the streets gave life to the otherwise empty street.

The card, addressed to Miss Jennie Farthing in Bountville, Tennessee, carried a brief message from someone named "Roby" who noted he (or she) was "back in Littleton." Oldtimers will recall the North Carolina town of Littleton, near the Virginia border was for a long time a major change of station town for train travelers.

Philatelists would note the card bears a finely centered, still fresh copy of the one cent green Franklin stamp of the regular series in use at that time. The card carries two cancellation strikes, one with only the date of Jan 3, 1907 distinguishable, the second, obviously a back-date stamp at the point of receipt, is a circular cancellation reading Blountville, Tenn. Jan 5, 1907. In those years, Post Office personnel commonly postmarked incoming mail so that most mail from the period shows both the date and place of mailing as well as the date and place of receipt — a practice Post Office department personnel of today's rushed times cannot afford to follow.

Mrs. Lohmeyer, the daughter of Colonel William VanHoy of Winston-Salem said that her father collects old post cards and since she's a resident of Greenville felt she'd be interested in having the card showing a view of Greenville.

Sen. Scott On Commission

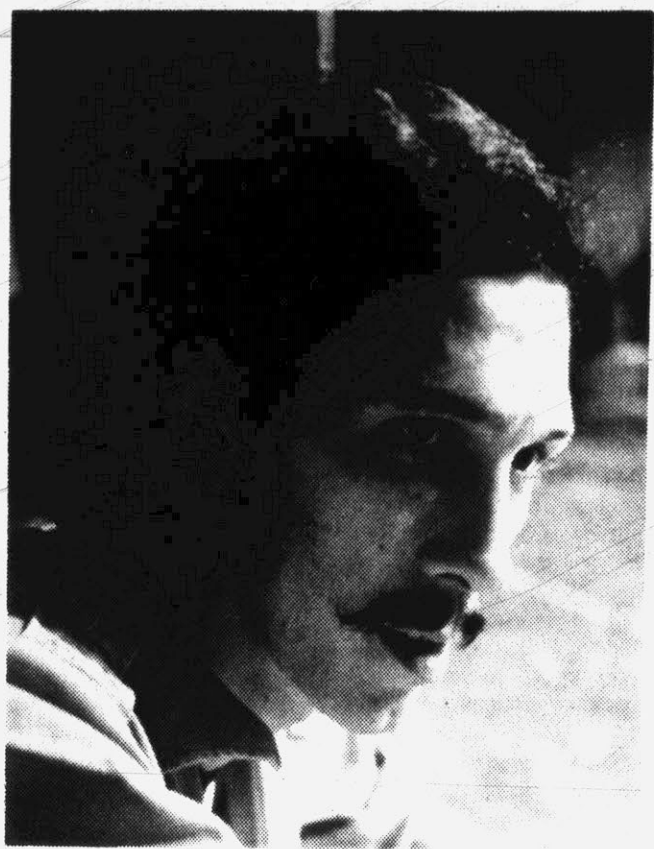

RALEIGH (AP) — State Sen. Ralph Scott D-Alamance will resume his place on the state's Advisory Budget Commission which has a strong voice in state finances.

The Alamance senator was placed on the commission Tuesday by his nephew, Gov. Bob Scott.

The elder Scott had served on the commission from 1967 through 1970 by virtue of being chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, a position to which he was first named by his nephew when he was lieutenant governor.

Prior to that Sen. Scott, had served on the commission from 1961 to 1965 through appointment by former Gov. Berry Sanford.

He succeeds William Kenneth Anderson of Newland and will serve at the pleasure of the governor on the six-member commission.

Southern Bell Studies Decision

ALEIGH (AP) — An assistant attorney general and a Southern Bell Telephone Co. official say they are studying a state Utilities Commission decision granting the phone company a 9 per cent rate boost to decide whether they will appeal to the courts.

"There appear to be some points with which we could disagree and we may appeal," said Asst. Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake Jr. "However, ... at first blush, I am not unhappy with the decision."

In Charlotte, Southern Bell General Manager John J. Ryan said in a statement that the rate boost "is much less than we had asked for and we have since had an additional $9.5 million in wage settlements."

The commission handed down the rate order Monday. It gave Southern Bell an increase of $13.3 million per year instead of the $23 million it requested. The increase is effective Aug. 9.

Lake intervened in the case when the utilities commission was hearing it on the side of the public. He said he believes his intervention may have paid off by saving Bell's customers about $10 million a year in telephone costs.

Winterville Board Has Meeting

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Town Board of Aldermen met Monday night.

It was resolved that the schedule of accounts for the prepayment of taxes that was in effect June 30 will continue through November 1, but no longer.

Robert Releman, Planner from the Department of Local Affairs discussed the adoption of the Minimum Housing Code and Residential Code for the town and one mile outside of town. The board will make a decision on this matter at the next meeting in September.

In accordance with a state law, permission was asked of the local government for the Town Tax Collector to also be the Town Treasurer.

The Board decided to advertise a tax lien sale for delinquent 1970 tax on real property beginning August 13. The tax lien sale will be held at noon September 11 in front of the Winterville Municipal Building.

The Board gave permission for the Rescue Squad members to sell plastic bottles of soap inside the town and for the clerk to attend the Electric-Cities Convention in Pinehurst August 6-8.

Members present were mayor Walter Dail, Aldermen E. C. Hines, Bobby Crawford, and Calvin Henderson.

This Pretty Girl Has A Special Problem In Work

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Fetchingly pretty, Jennie Lancaster has a special problem. She has to think extra carefully about what to wear to work.

Miss Lancaster is a summer intern, the first of her sex to hold the job, at North Carolina's Polk Youth Center in Raleigh. The center houses 450 youthful felons serving sentences ranging from six months to double-life terms.

She's one of two women at the camp, and is the only female having direct contact with the inmates. Jennie says she likes it.

"If I were here just in a female role, it would be the wrong place for me," the 21-year-old North Carolinian said. "But I'm not. I'm here as an individual seeking a total life for myself, and this summer has proven to me that I can have it."

Miss Lancaster was a June graduate of Meredith College in Raleigh, and plans to attend Vanderbilt University's School of Divinity this fall. She wants a degree in pastoral counseling, possibly specializing in correctional work.

"I felt I needed to do my field work in divinity school in some area of corrections," she said, "to see if it was going to be my kind of work."

As an intern, the slim, dark-haired coed is working as a case analyst in the center's diagnostic section.

"She's getting exposure to everything, working directly with each new inmate from the time he gets in here until the first three to four weeks," said Larry Meacham, director of the diagnostic section.

"She's perfect for the job."

Miss Lancaster's parents were killed in an automobile accident when she was 6 years old. She grew up in Wilson with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tyrus Bissett. Her foster father recently retired as Wilson's fire chief.

"They both feel the same anxiety my friends do about my working here," the student said. "It's all because the public as a whole is so unaware of what goes on inside a prison."

He added, "A place like Polk is an artificial environment without women. It's been that way too long. We can't hope to correct these boys in one environment, then send them back to another."

"These boys are just like any other boys," Miss Lancaster said.

Mrs. Johnson Makes Tour

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon Johnson and two other members of an advisory group turned their attention to the Blue Ridge Parkway today, continuing a tour from the mountains to the coast of North Carolina.

With the wife of the former president is Frank Masland, retired industrialist from Carlyle, Pa., and Dr. Durward L. Allen, professor of wildlife ecology at Purdue University.

They are members of the five-member Advisory Board on National Parks, Historic Sites, Buildings and Monuments and are touring the southeast for the Department of the Interior.

Their trip began in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park Monday and will end Monday in Richmond, Va., after a tour of Cape Hatteras, Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island and the Wright Brothers historic site at Kitty Hawk.

They spent Tuesday night in the Cherokee area.

Ship Fire Extinguished

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — The Coast Guard reported early today that the fire aboard the Liberian freighter Lacon has been extinguished while the 37 crewmen who abandoned the vessel off the coast of North Carolina Sunday were enroute here aboard a Venezuelan tanker. The Coast Guard said the fire, which erupted Sunday while the vessel was 400 miles east of Elizabeth City, N.C., was out late Tuesday night, through insulation and debris continued to smoulder.

Crewmen from the Coast Guard cutter Diligence aided the ship's master, second officer and radio officer in fighting the fire as a tug pushed toward the vessel to take her in tow.

Fire killed about 12,200 persons in the United States in 1970.

WASHINGTON (AP) — New bills in Congress and the Federal Aviation Administration's reaction to widespread protests from airport operators indicate new government safety standards for airports will be both diluted and deferred.

Airport officials claim the proposals would double the operating costs of many smaller airports.

"We recognize at this time there will be impossible compliance dates and consideration is being given to that problem," said James T. Morse, chief of FAA's safety operations branch, in an interview. Most of the airport operators' complaints to the FAA are against proposed requirements for crash, fire and rescue equipment and crews. Morse said "we're considering some modification" of those proposals.

Recover Bodies Of Father, Son

RADFORD, Va. (AP) — The bodies of a father and son from Greensboro, N.C., were recovered Tuesday from the New River near where their boat capsized the night before.

The father, Jessie James Cumblee, 39, had his arms around his 7-year-old son, Timothy. They were caught in fishing lines in about 12 feet of water.

A second son, Frankie, 9, is still missing.

The National Association of State Aviation Officials said the crash, fire and rescue proposal alone would cost an average of $100,000 per airport for equipment, or a total of $55 million, plus a like amount each year for operational costs.

The FAA proposed the safety standards last May 14 as required by the Airport and Airways Development Act of 1970. The law sets a May 21, 1972, deadline for the FAA to certify that all airports handling scheduled airlines flights have complied with the regulations.

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., however, introduced an amendment Friday to defer the effective date of the certification procedure for one year. Baker and Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.C., also introduced separate proposals Friday to have the federal government pick up all or most of the cost of meeting the new standards.

FAA administrator John H. Shaffer said in a letter to Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., that "it appears that the proposed airport certification rule, as proposed, will be modified in certain areas." The final version of the rules is expected in late autumn leaving the airports about six months to comply, unless Baker's amendment is passed.

Scout Has Operation

ASAGIRI HEIGHTS, Japan (AP) — Terry Futrell, 15, of Jacksonville, N.C., was rushed from the 13th World Boy Scout Jamboree to a U.S. military hospital Tuesday night, and his appendix was removed.

Jamboree officials said Futrell was getting along well and should rejoin his troop at the jamboree camp 90 miles west of Tokyo next week.

NO WATER, NO PEOPLE
PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (UPI) — Rose Island is the only uninhabited island among the seven islands of this U.S. territory midway between Hawaii and Australia. Rose Island is 125 miles east of Pago Pago and does not have enough water to support human life.

The rules would require airports to have one or more fire vehicles manned by crews trained to get them to the scene of a disaster within three minutes. The amount and capability of the equipment would be at one of five levels, depending on the size of aircraft using the airport.

Airliners could be prohibited from landing at an airport whose fire vehicle was out of order for more than 48 hours.

National Transportation Safety Board reports show there were 132 aircraft accidents at or near airports which involved fire between 1955 and 1968. Improved crash, fire and rescue equipment might have saved lives in nine of the accidents in which 200 people were killed, the report says.

Evangelist Life Is Featured

By H. G. Jones, Director
N.C. Dept. Archives & History
Written for Associated Press

RALEIGH (AP) — "God called me when I was a little boy, and he don't make mistakes," said Baxter Franklin McLendon, fiery North and South Carolina evangelist of the 1920s—better known as "Cyclone Mack." He is featured in an article by Dr. Edward Phifer of Morganton in the summer issue of the "North Carolina Historical Review." McLendon was born April 14, 1879, near Little Rock, S.C., and grew up in impoverished circumstances. Phifer says McLendon's father "shifted about" tenant farming for years around Bennettsville, S.C., and Rockingham, N.C.

The boy was exposed early in life to what has been described as the "orgiastic" religion of the era. At 14, he went with his father to hear the traveling evangelist, Beverly Carradine. McLendon later recalled that Carradine "laid his hand on me, a poor illiterate child of a tenant farmer," and from that time McLendon felt called to preach.

Apparently, it took a while for the call to take hold. As he grew older he entered into a "seamy sort of existence, for the most part dominated by gambling, drinking, and bootlegging." At 21, he climaxed an argument with a Bennettsville grocer by shooting him and leaving him for dead. The grocer recovered, and McLendon was not required to stand trial.

Later, he kept books in the store of Col. S. McCall who had recognized him as a "natural-born salesman" and sent him to a business college in Augusta, Ga. In addition to keeping McCall's books, McLendon served as an agent for a photographic firm and was involved in local liquor traffic.

After several brushes with the law, he crossed the state line into Richmond County, N.C., "just ahead of the warrants." After teaching in a writing school and peddling a book referred to as a "business guide," he traveled to Florida where he worked as a bookkeeper, saloon keeper, palmist and gambler before returning to Wadesboro, N.C., and opening a barber shop.

Phifer says the turning point in McLendon's life came in 1907 when he "wandered half drunk into a tent revival meeting where, after 17 nights at the altar, he was converted by Bud Robinson, the cowboy preacher from Pasadena, Calif.

Asserting that "nothing except the Christian religion brings men closer together than booze," McLendon stopped carrying a gun, threw away his cards and dice, vowed to desist from fighting game chickens, and set out to spread the gospel. Many who knew him, however, say he never gave up the use of liquor as an aid in "bringing men together."

The people of Bennettsville, where he had again moved after two months in Wadesboro, raised money to send McLendon to seminaries at Asbury College in Kentucky and Moody Institute in Illinois. But he turned out to be a flop at preaching by book-learned techniques. Finally deciding to abandon conventional methods and "just be myself," he set out on an individualist career speaking at backwoods churches, mill villages, and—whenever invited—at the South Carolina penitentiary.

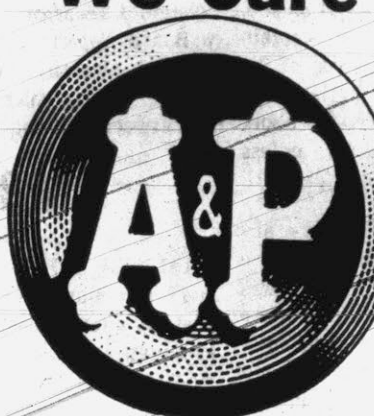

After twelve years of preaching, McLendon was still largely ostracized by his fellow South Carolina Methodists. In search of acceptance, he eased over into North Carolina where, a his biographer puts it, "the flower came into full bloom."

Phifer's article deals primarily with Cyclone Mack's 1920 revival in Morganton, but it relates incidents from other meetings as well. McLendon once interrupted his crusade in Clinton, N.C., to accept the challenge of a carnival wrestler who usually demonstrated his powers on apes rather than evangelists. McLendon reportedly returned to the pulpit and continued his sermon, $15 richer, after his wrestling victory.

The revival in Morganton is said to have attracted large crowds to the 4,000-seat tent almost every night for a month—including at one service the local Ku Klux Klan membership in full regalia. More than 1,000 conversions were claimed, and the collection totaled almost $9,000 and three coon dogs. It was described literally as a howling success.

Cyclone Mack died in 1935 and is buried in Bennettsville.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass
6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠ North and South arrived at a sound contract of six hearts in today's hand, however very careful play was required by the latter to prevent the contract from going on the rocks.

Six diamonds is safer and perhaps North should have jumped to four diamonds on the second round, since South is known to have five diamonds and only four hearts after opening the bidding originally with one diamond. His two heart call is a reverse and shows about 19 points. North's hand is worth 14 points in support and he chose to make his slam try by overbidding the game in hearts. Since South had a wealth of controls, he naturally persisted to six hearts.

Observe that if North supports diamonds, the partnership may be expected to bid the slam in that suit. Only one trick may be lost—in the trump suit—inasmuch as South can ruff out his small club and discard a heart on the queen of spades.

West opened the king of clubs and when the dummy was spread, the outlook appeared to be very bright. If the diamond finesse succeeded, South had visions of taking all 13 tricks.

South took the first trick with the ace and led over to the queen of hearts. A small heart was returned to the king, on which East showed out, discarding a club. A complication had now set in. Even the West's jack of hearts is readily finessable, trump drawing must be postponed until the diamond finesse is taken. There is the further consideration that if the diamond finesse loses, a club return will force the ten of hearts out of dummy—thereby establishing a trump trick for West.

The ace of spades was cashed followed by a spade to the king. The queen was played next on which South disposed of the six of clubs as all hands followed. The ten of diamonds was led next and permitted to ride when East followed with the deuce. West was in with the king, but there was no damaging return he could make.

West attempted to force the dummy by leading the queen of clubs, however South ruffed in his hand and led a heart. West played the nine and North won the trick with the ten. The ace of hearts drew the remaining trump and South took the rest of the tricks with high diamonds.

Worry Clinic

Dorothy Dix Rated Highly

Dorothy Dix wrote the most popular print feature in American journalism till this "Worry Clinic" was launched. It exceeded her, probably because I cover a wider range of "human interest" material, since I shoot at 5 major instincts whereas she stressed but 2. But she really humanized American journalism!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Case R-522: Lillian D., aged 22, is a Journalism student with a propensity for the women's "liberation" movement.

"Dr. Crane," she challenged, "don't you think the greatest newspaper writer of this century was a woman?"

To which I replied that it well could be, but whom did Lillian have in mind?

"I'd nominate Dorothy Dix," she fervently replied.

"For I have worked up my term paper on her and the more I read about her, the more I feel she deserves first place."

"For newspapers were stodgy and lacking in human interest copy prior to her 'Advice to the Lovelorn' column."

"Too much stress was placed on dry topics like the usual rehash of what goes on in Congress, day by day."

"Or the stock market and baseball, with very little attention to love, family and psychological problems."

"Newspapers were produced by men who simply put on the pages the usual things men were interested in."

"But women and children were left out, to a great degree."

"Then the New Orleans newspaper launched Dorothy Dix."

"She produced a revolution in newspaper content, for she used her column to advise people in their most basic instincts, namely love, marriage problems and children."

"As a psychologist, don't you agree with me that Dorothy Dix thus changed the entire concept of what a newspaper should contain?"

Bravo, Dorothy Dix deserved the Pulitzer Prize!

Her column rated first place on reader polls and attracted the heaviest letter input of all syndicated newspaper features prior to this "Worry Clinic."

And quite properly so, for she "humanized" the former intellectual pages of journalism. There are 5 basic human motives (instincts), namely, love, children, ego hunger, health and money (self-preservation).

Before launching my column, however, I decided I better acquire an M. C. degree to go along with my Doctor of Philosophy, so I would then be trained in both "body and mind" dilemmas.

As you might guess, editors say the mail pull to this smorgasbord psychological menu is the heaviest in modern journalism.

Nixon Says School Children Busing To Be Minimal

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Disavowing his administration's action in an Austin, Tex., school desegregation case, President Nixon has promised

Southern cities he will stand for no more busing than "the minimum required by law."

Nixon found faulty under recent Supreme Court decisions a plan submitted by local officials and ordered into effect by a federal judge. And he said Tuesday his administration will not use those Supreme Court decisions to push for extensive busing of pupils to eliminate racial segregation. In appealing the judge's ruling in the Austin case, Nixon said, the administration will back away from an alternative plan drawn up by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare requiring cross-town busing to achieve a racial balance in the city's schools.

Nixon also sought to ensure none of the $1.5 billion he seeks from Congress to ease the trauma of Southern school desegregation will be used to pay for busing—extensive or minimal. He said HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson has submitted to Congress an amendment "that will expressly prohibit the expenditure of any of those funds for busing."

Nixon's statement followed an announcement by Att. Gen. John N. Mitchell that the Justice Department will appeal the July 19 ruling by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Jack B. Roberts in the Austin case.

Roberts rejected the HEW busing plan, favoring instead one drawn up by Austin school officials requiring only part-time integration.

The HEW plan was the first drawn up by the administration following the Supreme Court's ruling in April that busing is a permissible means of achieving school desegregation.

Nixon said in appealing Roberts' ruling, "The Justice Department will disavow the HEW plan on behalf of the government."

He pointedly added: "I have instructed the attorney general and the secretary of health, education and welfare that they are to work with individual school districts to hold busing to the minimum required by law."

Despite Nixon's antibusing

stance and Mitchell's assertion that the appeal "was required because the order of the district court did not comply with prior decisions of higher courts," the action was attacked by Sen. John Tower, R-Tex.

It appears Nixon "does not really oppose forced busing or that he lacks the resolve necessary to control those who pursue it in his name," Tower said.

"I cannot and will not support this action, and I condemn it as inappropriate, unnecessary and inconsistent with announced administration policy," the senator said.

The notice of appeal was filed with the district court in Austin, and it may be 30 days before the Justice Department for the Justice Department submits a brief outlining its position to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

New Weapon Against Disease

RALEIGH (AP) — A new weapon in the fight against gonorrhea is being used by the State Board of Health.

Dr. Lynn Maddry, director of the board's state laboratory, said Tuesday, a new "transgrow" medium is being used to preserve gonococcus organisms while they are being shipped from county health departments to the laboratory.

These gonorrhea germs, he explained, are very delicate and in the past died within a few hours, but "the transgrow medium will keep up to 90 percent of them alive until they reach our lab."

As a result, the lab which handled few gonococcus specimens in the past expects to handle up to 10,000 specimens during the coming year.

"The procedure should enable us to slow the spread of gonorrhea in the state by making quicker identification of the female carrier possible," he said.

The chief of the board's venereal disease control section, Dr. Roy Berry, said that gonorrhea "is getting out of hand" in North Carolina with 20,000 cases reported last year, a 10 per cent increase, and a similar increase expected this year.

"That's why it was so important to try to solve this transportation problem," he said. "Being in a position to isolate gonococcus organisms shipped long distances will go a long way toward helping to curb the spread of the disease via the silent carrier—the female who is infected without knowing it."

Fishing Areas Closed Off

RALEIGH (AP) — Dr. Thomas Linton, state fisheries commissioner, says the division policy of closing off certain coastal fishing areas as nurseries so that marine life can mature apparently has paid off.

Linton said Tuesday that the state's shrimpers caught 240,471 pounds during the first six months of 1971. This was the biggest catch since 1965 for the January-June period and nearly three times the average for that period during the past 10 years.

Despite the big catch, the market for shrimp is holding up well. Jim Tyler, publications editor for the fisheries division, said the price usually drops at this time of year.

"Shrimp fishermen are getting 50 cents per pound," he said. "This is a very good price. It hasn't made it's usual drop. I think it may have dipped to 45 cents this week, but that's still a good price."

Man Killed In Fall

COLUMBIA (AP) — A 25-year-old workman was killed Tuesday when he fell from a new upper tier at Carolina Stadium. He was identified as Jonny Wallace Byrd of Rt. 1, Cheraw, an employee of McDevitt and Street Construction Co. of Charlotte. The fatality was the first in a $5 million expansion program to add 14,000 additional seats to the University of South Carolina facility.

Richland County Coroner Cecil Wiles said Byrd was standing near the top of the new west deck and was pulling a rope, which apparently broke.

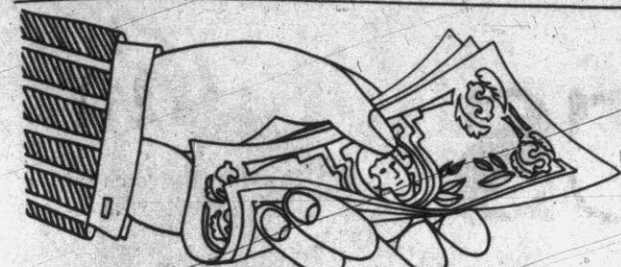

Work at the stadium was suspended for the day. The construction is being pushed so the additional seats can be ready for use for USC's opening football game against Georgia Tech Sept. 11.

Grant Is Made To Hospital

RALEIGH (AP) — An Appalachian Regional Commission grant of $136,000 to the Margaret R. Pardee Memorial Hospital in Hendersonville was announced Tuesday by Gov. Bob Scott.

The hospital will use the grant, along with Hill-Burton Act funds and a local contribution, to build a 40-bed extended care facility for persons over 65.

Scott also said the commission approved a $25,000 grant to Swain County for a solid waste disposal system.
