Students Question Where They Can Cast Vote

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

Now that a constitutional amendment has given persons 18 to 21 the right to vote, some students in North Carolina are mobilizing for a struggle over a new question: Where can they exercise that right?

Many college students want to vote in the towns where they go to school. If current rules are changed to allow this, their vote might have an enormous impact in towns where college students outnumber other voters.

Greenville, for instance, has 9,086 registered voters and East Carolina University at Greenville has about 10,000 students. Chapel Hill has nearly 20,000 registered voters, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill has almost that many students.

When the courts declared North Carolina's one-year residency requirement unconstitutional and lowered it to 30 days, they removed one of the major barriers to massive electoral participation in local politics by students.

Alex Brock, executive secretary of the state Board of Elections, said the major obstacle left is the present interpretation of the domicile rule.

"We consider a person's intent in taking up residence in a particular area," Brock said. "If a student comes to a community simply to attend school, he is still a resident, for voting purposes, of the town from which he came."

The board's reasoning, Brock added, is that temporary residents should not help decide issues that ultimately will not affect them.

"A group of students could vote to approve school bonds, leave the area after their studies, then never pay a nickel in taxes on those bonds," Brock said.

He said his board is not concerned with the political repercussions of its decisions. But he admits there are "a lot of local government people who want to make sure our interpretation stands."

Many student leaders across the state want to change the board's mind. The Student Government Association at UNC-CH is sponsoring a voter registration project to encourage students to register. At the same time, students are preparing strategy aimed at winning them the right to register where they attend school.

Student presidents, newspaper editors, and others from many state colleges plan to meet in Chapel Hill Aug. 13-15. Rod Fonda, a UNC student who has been working on the registration project, said they will probably decide to challenge the state residency ruling with a test case.

"For many of us," Fonda said, "the main interest is in national and state affairs. We just think more students will participate in the political process if voting is made as easy as possible. But there are others whose main interest lies in the possibility of wielding local power."

The students base their demand for college residency voting partly on the mobility of today's society. Said Fonda: "Very few people anymore can claim they intend to stay in one place very long. A student knows he'll be around for four years, and I think that's about as much as the society can expect."

Students who register in their hometowns can vote through absentee ballots only in general elections. "The primary is often more important," Fonda said, "and only military personnel are given absentee ballots for it. Students would have to drive home in May, just when the academic load is heaviest."

Fonda admits that, should his plan succeed, the possibility of students influencing local affairs in their home towns would be lost. "But considering the difficulties in transportation or absentee voting, combined with the average student's lack of touch with hometown politics, I don't think many of us would vote anyway. Not nearly as many as would vote in their college towns," he said.

At present, local election boards contacted in an Associated Press survey are following the state directive and making it difficult for students to register in their temporary districts.

Most of the local boards ask a prospective voter his occupation. If the answer is student or soldier, the person must prove his intent to remain a resident after his studies or his time in service are over.

For a student, this entails a sworn statement in some cases. In others, he must appear before the local board and satisfy its member of his intent.

A career soldier, Brock says, generally has a slightly easier time proving his intent. He said the judgment generally applies only to the particular individual.

Mrs. Caroline Cody, the elections registrar in Chapel Hill, said she considers the type of housing a student occupies. "If he lives in a dormitory, he is not eligible," Mrs. Cody said. "But if they live off-campus, we generally accept them."

Although the young people won the right to vote through a constitutional amendment, there are no federal guidelines on the domicile question. Each state must confront the problem individually.

In Massachusetts, Atty. Gen. Robert Quinn ruled July 21 that students could choose their own domicile after passing a six-month residency requirement.

Glenn Croshaw, student president at East Carolina University, said he doesn't think the voting trends would change appreciably if the Massachusetts ruling were applied in North Carolina.

"Students here," he said, "would vote in much the same way the general population does, if they voted at all."

Planning-Zoning Group Listens To Objections To Various Annexations

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The Planning and Zoning Commission's public hearing on annexation of six separate tracts on Wednesday night drew a scattering of interested individuals, all representing opposition to annexation proposals.

The six areas currently under study for possible annexation action are:

Area No. 1A — The Marvin K. Blount property between Pitt Plaza Shopping Center and Evans Street; 1B — The S. Eugene West property between Shoney's and the Beef Barn on Greenville Boulevard; 1C — The Sunoco property at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and South Evans Street; 1D — the B and D Trailer Sales Lot near the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Evans Street; and 1E — property directly behind Pitt Plaza Shopping Center.

Area No. 2 — Land west of the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, east of Hooker Road extending across Greenville Boulevard to a point 450 feet south of the boulevard, plus a 400 foot strip on the west side of Tar Road and the WNCT TV Studio property.

Area No. 3 — The Brown Farm on the Tar River in east Greenville.

Area No. 4A — An area lying south of Red Banks Road; and 4B — a second area south of Red Banks Road directly south of Dellwood Drive.

Area No. 5 — The area of Meadowbrook known as the Mills Subdivision; another area north and east of Meadowbrook including the N.C. State Highway Commission property, the Prepshirt Manufacturing Company property, the Greenville Livestock Sales property, the Brewer and Marshall Concrete Products Company property and other sites.

Area No. 6 — The Dudley Farm, north of Tar River.

would mean an end to Winslow's farming operations, especially the raising of pigs.

Winslow spoke briefly, noting that when the city limits were extended some years ago, he gladly gave right of way as he was interested in the city's progress, but that he does not want to be annexed at this time.

Plato Evans and J. F. Arthur also expressed opposition to the inclusion of Area Number 2 within the city limits.

On areas 4A and 4B, Melvin Buck and Mrs. Simon B. Tucker spoke in opposition to inclusion of land south of Red Banks Road within the city limits. Mrs. Tucker noted that hers was farm and woodland.

The public hearing held last night, Chairman H. T. Chapin Jr. reminded those attending, was an unofficial one. The City Council will later conduct an official hearing prior to any action being taken for annexation.

Because only two members, Clarence Tugwell and I. A. Artis were present for the special call meeting, the meeting was adjourned without action on any of the regular agenda items.

Far From Earth Deep Spacewalk Occurs Today

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Astronaut Alfred M. Worden stepped out of the streaking Apollo 15 spacecraft nearly 200,000 miles from earth today to make man's first walk in deep space.

Bundled in a stiff pressure suit and attached to a 25-foot lifeline, Worden eased out of the open hatch of the command ship endeavour for a hand-over-hand trip about 15 feet to an equipment bay at the rear of the spacecraft to retrieve two film canisters.

The canisters contain nearly two miles of high resolution film covering nearly 20 per cent of the lunar surface, including what are expected to be the best pictures yet of the hidden backside.

With the hatch open, David R. Scott and James B. Irwin also wore pressure suits as protection against the vacuum of space. Irwin was to emerge partially from the spacecraft to assist Worden.

Earlier, the astronauts canceled a course change maneuver because Apollo 15 was on an accurate course as it sped back toward the earth.

At 7:49 a.m., they sped through a "twilight zone" where they escaped the influence of lunar gravity and fell into the sphere of earth gravity. They were 204,138 miles from earth and 38,410 miles from the moon and began picking up speed.

A television camera is mounted outside to relay pictures to earth as Worden moves into a silent, weightless world which has been braved previously by only nine men—six Americans and three Russians. All were in earth orbit.

In addition, eight Americans now have walked on the moon, which has a gravity field one-sixth that of earth's.

Worden's stroll is necessary because the bay is jettisoned before re-entry and does not return to earth with the astronauts.

The spacemen concluded man's greatest lunar expedition late Wednesday when they fired the Endeavour out of moon orbit on a near-perfect course that will carry them to a splashdown in the Pacific Ocean 285 miles north of Hawaii at 4:46 p.m. Saturday.

Scientists here are eagerly awaiting the approximately 175 pounds of rocks Scott and Irwin gathered during three days on the moon.

Before heading for home, Apollo 15 ejected into lunar orbit a 78.5-pound science satellite intended to send back data for at least a year on the precise shape of the moon and on magnetic, gravity and electrical fields.

Earth stations immediately began receiving strong signals from the new lunar explorer.

Apollo 15 was on its 74th orbit of the moon. As the astronauts were about to whip around the backside, out of radio contact, for the last time, capsule communicator Joseph Allen told them:

"Set your sails for home. We're predicting good weather, a strong tail wind and we'll be waiting on the dock."

Prisoner Return Talk Brings Many Denials

STOCKHOLM (AP) — A report that American military officials in Germany had asked the Scandinavian airline to fly 187 American prisoners of war from Laos to Europe brought a flood of official denials today from both American and North Vietnamese officials.

Later an official of the airline in Rome said the request for the flight had come from a "private individual" in Germany, that it had been a "tentative request" and that it "has been called off."

The airline official said he had talked with the Stockholm office of SAS, the Scandinavian airline, and the management there "made it emphatically clear that they did not deal with U.S. military authorities."

The official said he did not know the name or nationality of the individual who requested the charter flight.

An SAS spokesman in Stockholm had said earlier that U.S. military authorities in West Germany had asked to charter a DC8 to airlift 187 POWs from Vientiane, the Laotian capital to Rome by way of Bangkok.

"There has not yet been any contract signed, and therefore no fixed time for the transport," an SAS spokesman said. The Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter, which first reported that the flight would be made, said it would be on Aug. 12.

Persons Sought For Vacancies

Both the Pitt County Health Department and the Coastal Plain Mental Health Clinic are without directors, but persons to fill both positions are sought, according to County Manager Reginald Gray.

The Health Department position has been vacant since July, 1970. It has been "almost filled" several times in the past few months, but none of the physicians who have shown interest have ultimately decided to take the job, Gray said. He added that he received this morning another application for the job and that an interview with the applicant will be set up immediately.

Since the resignation of Dr. R.E. Fox, who has since died, Dr. Earl Trevathan, a local pediatrician, has been acting director. Mrs. Violet Jones has had charge of the nursing division and Linwood Kilpatrick has been responsible for the sanitation division.

A program director for the Mental Health Clinic has been hired. Joseph Frankfurt, a former director of Social Work Studies for the Charlotte City Schools, is slated to begin work about the middle of August. According to Dr. John Ball, chairman of the Mental Health Authority, there are leads as to possible applicants for the resident psychiatrist's position, but nothing concrete to report yet. Dr. Alfred Yongue, a psychiatrist in private practice here, has been retained on an interim basis until the services of a full-time man may be obtained, he said.

Food Prices Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale food prices dropped in July, but a broad range of industrial raw materials and manufactured products posted the biggest seasonally adjusted cost increase in 15 years, the government said today.

Council Agenda Reported

The City Council's monthly meeting at 8:00 p.m. tonight has 15 items on the agenda for the mayor and city councilmen to consider.

Items of old business include two public hearings on requests for mobile home permits, one by Mrs. Queenie Evans and the other by Floyd Nichols; Eric Slaughter reporting on the Green Mill Run; a report by Robert L. Martin on the status of the bus transportation survey for the city of Greenville; a request by Mrs. Eliza Underwood for renewal of a mobile home permit; and James L. Smith's request to operate a pool table at the Atlas Service Station.

New items of business will cover a resolution to amend the May 2, 1968 resolution on housing code enforcement; another resolution, one to authorize submission of an application for recertification of the Workable Program; a report on capital improvements budget; Arthur House's request for a mobile home permit; consideration of Planning and Zoning Commission recommendations relative to annexation of areas to the City of Greenville and the same body's recommendations concerning Zoning Ordinance No. 322; the payment of legal fees to the city attorney in connection with the defense of Barley Phillips; purchase of police vehicles; and a request for refund by Quality Oil Company for money paid for advertising notices never advertised.

Georgia-Florida Prices Show Increase Wednesday

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — Prices on the Georgia-Florida fine-cured tobacco markets increased Wednesday to an average of $75.04 after an opening day record high of $75 a hundred pounds, the U.S. Department of Agriculture Market News Service reported today.

Both volume and money showed gains over sale for the comparable day last season.

For the 28-market belt, more than 12 million pounds were sold Wednesday, and brought growers more than $9.4 million. The figures were compared with more than 11 million pounds and $8 million last year, when the average was only $72.42.

High averages held throughout most of the markets, with prices exceeding $77 a hundredweight at Adel, Douglas and Waycross.

The average at Waycross was reported at $77.91 a hundred. Tuesday's opening day sales grossed $14,190,277, which amounted to an average of $75 a hundred and was $1.78 per hundred over first day sales last year, according to the Federal-State Market News Service.

Receipts of the Stabilization Corporation amounted to about six per cent of gross sales, compared to 15.1 per cent on the first day of 1970.

During Wednesday's sales, a few primings and nondescript grades gained $1 per hundred, but the increases were mostly offset by losses for some leaf and lugs.

Two Farmville Veterans Named To New Positions

FARMVILLE — Two veteran town employees, Carl L. Beaman and Carl C. Tanner, were appointed yesterday as town administrator and police chief respectively.

A Farmville native, Beaman has been tax collector, treasurer, and town clerk for the past seven years. As Farmville's first administrator, he will serve as a liaison person between the Town Board of Commissioners and the various departments. He will also be a financial officer. The new position should demand a higher salary, but Beaman said the amount has not yet been discussed.

A farmer who has also worked with the public for many years, Beaman is married to the former Lula Hardy of Institute, now a third grade teacher at Sam D. Bundy School here. Tanner, who was promoted to chief from rank of lieutenant, has served on the Farmville Police Force for 25 years, since his discharge from the Armed Services just after World War II.

The Edgecombe County native has availed himself of various inservice training programs at the Pitt Technical Institute and the Coastal Plains Law Enforcement Academy in Wilson. His wife, the former Laura Miller of Pamlico County, is a retired chief from rank of lieutenant, Farmville High School teacher.

Miss Candice Coe Weds Duncan Terrell Burt

ROBERSONVILLE — In a garden ceremony on Saturday at 4:00 p.m., Miss Candice Hilary Coe became the bride of Duncan Terrell Burt at her home here. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Dell Coe of Robersonville and Mr. Robert Coe of New York City. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Lafayette Burt of Winston-Salem.

The Rev. James O. Hagwood, of the First Baptist Church of Robersonville, performed the single ring ceremony.

White damask aisle carpeting flowed from the living room doorway beneath a topiary arch to the elevated altar area, bordered by tall wrought iron aisle posts. Each post was adorned with a wicker basket filled with white daisies, gypsophila and entwined with garlands of teal and daisies.

The ceremony was performed beneath a semi-canopy of teal leaf garlands and flowers formed overhead by a white wrought iron archway. On either side were arrangements of white gladioli, snapdragons, bridal roses and white daisies. Woodwardia palm and white azaleas surrounded the sides and foreground of the setting. The topiaries in the garden were adorned by garlands of greenery, ribbons and daisies. Perry Walton of Greenville provided a program of organ music.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza over English tulle. The bodice, basque effect, short sleeves, high neckline and hem were appliqued with Guipere lace and pearls.

Her full length veil of silk illusion fell from an organza bow of Guipere lace and seed pearls. She carried a traditional bouquet of long-stemmed daisies.

Miss Pamela Coe, sister of the bride, was honor attendant. She wore a two-piece Edwardian gown of turquoise, salmon, black and white floral organdy designed with a long sleeved ruffled bodice and a self-tie. She carried a contemporary clutch bouquet of salmon sweetheart roses and daisies. She wore a wide brimmed hat of imported straw with a matching floral band.

The mother of the bride selected a maize silk and worsted original ornamented with jeweled trim, imported from the House of Kahaner. She wore a matching self-bow in her hair with jewel trim.

The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a floral crepe afternoon dress featuring princess lines. She wore an Australian hat designed by J. Smith.

Dr. Burt served his son as best man. Ushers were Jon Burt of Charlotte, brother of the bridegroom, and Carl Darden of Greenville.

Mrs. Wiley B. Rogerson was mistress of ceremonies.

The bride graduated from East Carolina University, where she received her B.S. and M.A. degrees. She was a member of Kappa Delta Pi honorary society. The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University and was a member of Pi Kappa Phi fraternity and Epsilon Tau honorary fraternity.

Following a wedding trip to Switzerland and surrounding countries, the couple will reside in Alexandria, Va.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the garden, which was enhanced by a water fall.

The three serving tables were decorated with garlands of greenery and daisies. The main table was covered with a hand-made organza ruffled cloth and centered with a heirloom wicker fireside basket filled with yellow snapdragons, white roses, white daisies and gypsophila enhanced by yellow tulle.

After the bride and bridegroom proposed a toast and cut the first slice, Mrs. T. Jack Warren, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. McAlvin Turner served the cake and directed guests to the other tables.

Mrs. Donald Cherry poured punch from a table decorated with a champagne fountain complimented by a miniature basket. The base of the fountain was encircled by clusters of frosted grapes and teal leaf greenery.

Gifts were displayed in a dollhouse decorated with daisies and ribbons inside and with

NOW YOU KNOW WHAT CAN HAPPEN!

No doubt you have read about the recent releases on the vichyssoise (soup) tragedy resulting in at least one death and critical condition of another. Underprocessing the product has been cited as the cause for the presence of the organism, clostridium botulinum, which caused the food poisoning known as botulism. The organism itself is harmless but the toxin gas it produces in canned meats and in canned low-acid vegetables that are not adequately heated may be fatal even when taken in minute amounts. The most common cause of intoxication is improperly home-canned foods.

Home canning is now in its peak season and I hope you will use all precautions and process your foods properly.

More vegetables are low in acid. The steam pressure canner should be used for canning all vegetables except tomatoes and pickled vegetables. Vegetables require a processing temperature higher (240 degrees F) than can be reached in a boiling water bath. Therefore, the pressure canner is used to be sure of killing bacteria that cause dangerous spoilage.

The pressure canner should be checked before each canning season to make sure it is in good working order and the pressure gauge is accurate.

The pressure canner should be used to process beans (lima, butter, wax, green snap, etc.) peas (green, blackeye, crowder, field, etc.), beets, carrots, corn, potatoes, pumpkin, squash, leafy green vegetables, etc.

Maybe in the past you have used the old method of boiling your canned vegetables for several hours and you have not had any food spoilage accidents but you have been "lucky". Don't let your "luck" run out start now using the pressure canner.

The Pitt County Extension Service has pressure canners you may borrow. Agents are available to provide you instructions and demonstrations on proper use of the pressure canner and we also have instructions, leaflets and books on different methods of food conservation. Please call 758-1196 or write P.O. Box 1426, Greenville or visit 203 W. Third Street, if we can be of any help to you in your food conservation endeavors.

Teacher Says Tone Is 70 Per Cent Of The Message

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If you have been married two years or more, beware of the "taming of the shrew" voice that is a harbinger of things to come—the fight or flight syndrome, says Dorothy Sarnoff, former actress and singer, who is now a speech teacher and "image worker."

"A wife with a strident voice sets her husband's teeth on edge every time she speaks, she points out. But there are other annoying voices too—whispers, mumblers, foghorns—as she calls them. People don't realize that tone is about 70 per cent of the message.

And now there are the teenagers with their speed talking, a sort of speech shorthand.

In the last five years Miss Sarnoff has offered reassurances to people—performers, politicians, clergymen, psychiatrists and others in a variety of careers—who need speech help.

To prove her theory that personal style can be greatly enhanced by the way people communicate, she flips on her closed circuit television and shows a number of students, before and after her lessons.

There is the executive who heads up the sales force of a large company. He has nervous mannerisms, faltering speech, country bumpkin hairdo and clothes. Six lessons later he is suave, sophisticated, master of his topic, and with a new grooming image compatible with his new speech.

There is the national beauty contest winner who must tour the country to meet people, the unsophisticated girl from a little town, she becomes a speech charmer with her own sweet personality blended in (Miss Sarnoff admits she had something to work with.)

And there is the European woman who neither communicates well through her guttural tongue nor presents an attractive image. She comes off delightfully attuned to the new image that has been created for her.

How does Miss Sarnoff accomplish the changes so quickly?

"It is as simple as looking at yourself, and mastering a few tricks," she says. "Most people don't realize how they sound or look. A great deal can be accomplished with a tape recorder and a mirror at home," she points out. In her book, "Speech Can Change Your Life," she provides many clues.

"Miss Sarnoff's television is a particularly effective tool because corrections can be made as a lesson is in progress. A student must ask "what do I say that must be acknowledged," "what do I say that must be eliminated," "what do I say that must be added." They must always find something to acknowledge so they do not become discouraged.

As for formal speeches—"I try to tell people that every speech should be a conversation that has been enlarged," Miss Sarnoff says. "And that if you stand on your feet to speak, you should know the conclusion before you say anything."

Most people are nervous because they don't realize every speech should be a three-phase effort, she says.

Phase One—Before you put it on paper it should be tried out in conversational style and written that way.

Phase Two—You should read the speech aloud at least six times.

Phase Three—Are the speech cues you hold in your hand. Properly organized, you can look down and tell one whole clause from the abbreviated notes, and you can look as if you are speaking off the cuff.

You should have no problems conveying the proper meaning if you rehearse the speech six times. You and the cue cards should be friends.

Miss Sarnoff studied speech at Cornell where she received her BA degree. She studied singing in Europe and had a featured role in the Broadway production of "The King and I." Later she was a featured soloist with opera companies and sang on the upper club circuit. Five years ago she began her successful speech tutoring.

She Should Solve Problem

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Why are you so fair in everything else, but when it comes to the subject of OBESITY, you are completely without mercy!

A mother wrote she was "heartsick" because her 21-year-old son brought his 20-year-old fiancée home, and she was fat!

Why didn't you tell that mother to encourage her son to stick with pride by the girl he loved, no matter what, even if she had one eye in the middle of her head? Instead, you recommended the mother get her son aside and instruct him to tell the girl she should do something about her weight while she was still young.

If I were that young man, I would be more concerned about my mamma's set of values than my girl's bulk.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Aw, come on, now. No one can help being born with one eye in the middle of his head, but a girl who is so fat she can hardly fit into the largest chair in the room, and then eats as if there's no tomorrow has a problem. And someone who loves her should encourage her to solve it.

DEAR ABBY: I read the letter signed "WEAK AND TEMPTED" from the man who was hooked on prostitutes. He claimed he was happily married and his wife lacked nothing in that department.

I agree with you, he needs a head doctor, but I have a better solution that could solve his problem and save his marriage. If he gets pleasure out of paying for his sex life, tell him to hand his wife the usual fee. She will be happy and he will be satisfied. Some people don't place any value on something unless they pay for it.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. READER

DEAR READER: That might solve HIS problem, but what if his wife prefers to maintain her amateur standing?

DEAR ABBY: This is for the heartsick mother whose son brought home a fat fiancée. Some men prefer fat women. To them fat is beautiful.

Mamma should leave her son alone. Some of the happiest marriages I know are those of thin men and fat, jolly wives. Heartsick mother should rejoice. Her son is getting at least twice as much woman!

CECLE

DEAR ABBY: Why didn't you tell "HEARTSICK MOM" to mind her own business when her son brought home a fat girl and introduced her as his fiancée?

That's the trouble with everybody today. All they care about is what a person looks like on the outside. So what if she didn't have a nice shape, maybe she's a wonderful person with a good heart. Besides, fat girls make the best wives. They are usually the best cooks, and they know they can't get by on their looks so they try harder.

FAT AND MARRIED

DEAR ABBY: I am permanently confined to a wheelchair. A small boy I had never seen before asked his mother in my presence why I was in a wheelchair. She simply replied, "Because she is more comfortable that way."

The mother was also a stranger to me, but I was so grateful to her for having satisfied her son's curiosity and avoiding what could have been an awkward situation.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

EASY PIZZA — English muffins are used for the base and a variety of ingredients make the topping.

Make Pizza In Ersatz Fashion

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

My sister Phyllis makes wonderful ersatz pizza. I call it ersatz because for the base she uses English muffins instead of bread dough.

Phyll puts everything possible on the muffins, and does everything taste good! She uses a canned pizza sauce because she has found one that is excellent. It comes in a 15½-ounce can and is made with tomatoes, basil and salt. You can do likewise or make the sauce given in the following recipe.

One tip: here in New York English muffins are on supermarket shelves holding different kinds of bread. But in Florida I found the muffins in a freezer case. So if you don't see the muffins at first glance, look around.

PHYLL'S EVERYTHING PIZZA

Tomato Sauce, see recipe
2 tablespoons corn oil
2½ medium onions (peeled, sliced and separated into rings)

1 large green pepper, seeded and cut in strips
4 English muffins
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

8 fairly thin slices mozzarella cheese, from an 8-ounce package

8 flat anchovies, from a 2-ounce can Thinly sliced pepperoni

Prepare Tomato Sauce.

In a 1½-quart saucepan over medium heat, heat the oil; add onion and green pepper; cover and cook, stirring a few times, just until tender-crisp but not brown—5 to 10 minutes.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees.

Split muffins by piercing them all around with fork tines and then gently pulling apart. Toast lightly.

Spread about 1 tablespoon of the tomato sauce on each muffin half, then sprinkle with about 1 teaspoon Parmesan. Add 1 slice mozzarella, another tablespoon of tomato sauce, then some of the cooked onion and pepper and 1 anchovy.

Bake in the preheated 425-degree oven from 5 to 10 minutes. Top each pizza with pepperoni—as much as you want. Continue baking until thoroughly heated—about 5 minutes longer.

Makes 4 servings—2 muffin halves per portion. Serve with forks and knives.

NOTE: Canned pizza sauce may be substituted for the homemade sauce. Store any leftover canned sauce in the freezer, if you like, so it will be ready for other pizza making.

TOMATO SAUCE

1 tablespoon corn oil
½ medium onion, finely diced

1 clove garlic, minced
1 can (1 pound) tomatoes

¼ teaspoon dried crushed basil

¼ teaspoon dried crushed oregano

In a 1-quart saucepan over moderately low heat, heat the oil. Add onion and garlic; cook, stirring often until onion is golden. Add undrained tomatoes, basil and oregano. Bring to a boil; reduce heat to low and boil, stirring occasionally, until thick—about 20 minutes. Taste sauce and add more oregano if desired. Keep hot or reheat. Makes about 1 cup.

Outstanding College Girl Wants Better Communications For All

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — If people would only talk TO each other instead of AT each other, there would be greater understanding not only between generations but between all groups, insists Lucretia Taylor, who has worked in many areas to bridge the communication gap.

The 21-year-old June graduate of Western College, Oxford, Ohio, was a leader in the Sisterhood, an organization for black students aimed at fostering understanding and cooperation and at helping its members move smoothly and effectively into campus life.

Last summer she worked in a Health, Education and Welfare Dept. project visiting colleges and interviewing faculty and students, seeking ways to establish a better relationship between the federal government and the student community.

"In talking to faculty members, deans, chaplains and university presidents, I found them very aware, very involved, very concerned, with what was going on in the nation as well as on the campus," Miss Taylor said on a visit to New York to be honored as one of Glamour Magazine's "Ten Outstanding College Girls of 1971."

The sparkling-eyed, dimpled Miss Taylor and nine other winners, chosen from 300 entrants by a panel of Glamour editors, were awarded a 10-day trip to Portugal and are featured in the August issue of the magazine.

The psychology and sociology major believes the communication problem results in part from lumping all students together and categorizing them as anti-establishment, when in reality they are very diverse and represent every facet of American society.

"Basically the problems are the same on all campuses though the flavor changes," she reported. "The students think the administration is not telling the truth: the administration thinks the students are exaggerating. When they try to talk with each other there is always that barrier of distrust."

"Students are becoming more vocal and more active and want a part of what's happening to them academically and socially," she went on. "They even want to be able to screen the people who will be teaching them, and I think they are in a good position to tell who they can best learn from."

Miss Taylor thinks universities will have to make such concessions if they want to continue to attract students, since "the educational system as it presently exists seems to be unrelated to the reality of life."

She also thinks there should be more interrelation between town and gown. "For so long college students have been placed on a pedestal and their life style has been so estranged

Outstanding Young Women Are Named

Mrs. Kay Tice and Mrs. Kay Ullom of Greenville have been selected Outstanding Young Women for 1971.

The announcement was made today by the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville. They were nominated by the organization earlier this year on the basis of their achievements.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program, now in its seventh year, was conceived by the leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. The program recognizes young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions and country.

Each year over 6,000 young women are nominated as Outstanding Young Women of America by leading women's organizations, college alumni associations and churches across the country. Complete biographical sketches of all nominees are featured in the national volume, "Outstanding Young Women of America." Publication date for the 1971 awards volume is November.

Electric Growth Problems Seen

It is almost impossible to conceive that electric power demands on one of North Carolina's power companies will double in the next five years and triple by the end of the decade.

Yet, that is the outlook predicted by the president of Carolina Power and Light Company. It must be assumed that other power companies serving much of this state will face comparable increased demands for electricity. CP&L's President Shearon Harris pointed out that the electric industry nationally is doubling every nine to ten years, meaning electric demands for the area served by his company are growing at a considerably more rapid rate.

Small wonder then, that power companies in North Carolina are faced with growing pains and that some areas are faced with critical power situations during periods of peak demand.

Most citizens these days take electricity for granted. When they flip a switch, whether to turn on a light or a 100 horsepower motor, they assume the energy will be there to perform the service desired.

About the only time they give a second thought to the matter is either when the light doesn't burn or the motor doesn't come on, or at the end of the month when they look over the bill.

Whether it be a private power company, a cooperative electric system or a municipally owned system, most producers and distributors of electricity today are facing grave problems in meeting demands being made upon them. The statement by Carolina's president gives consumers some idea of the magnitude of the problem faced by power firms in meeting today's demands and those of tomorrow.

It would be a sad day for all of us if suddenly we found next year or a decade from now that the electric companies' facilities were grossly inadequate to meet public demands for power.

Record Tobacco Sales Should Be Hopeful

Record prices on opening day of the Border and the Georgia-Florida Belts should be encouraging to tobacco growers on the big Eastern Belt who are now harvesting their crop.

Usually it follows that a strong average on the belts south of us, means a good opening for the Eastern Belt, assuming tobacco is of equal quality in both areas.

Sadly, tobacco growers need record prices each year if they are to survive the crunch of inflation which increasingly grips them.

With steadily rising costs, a bad year would be disastrous for the tobacco farmer. This year seems to have a good start and we hope that bids well for the Eastern Belt.

Sadat Is Seen Solidly Perched

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CAIRO — Notwithstanding glaring setbacks for Egypt's President Anwar Sadat in U. S. failure thus far to budge Israel, he has sent a private message to Washington asking continued mediation for an interim Suez Canal settlement.

That message tells much about Sadat, considering the fact that his gamble on U. S. peace efforts has not paid off one measly piaster since last summer's ceasefire. It tells, first, that he is now solidly perched, surrounded by trusted advisers and unconcerned by political enemies. It also signals President Nixon that, despite some precarious Washington-Cairo diplomacy, Sadat is still unwilling to believe that the U. S. cannot persuade little Israel to begin to liquidate the 1967 takeover.

Sadat's good faith cannot be questioned at this moment, whatever the dispute about his demand for a total Israeli withdrawal from one-tenth of Egypt's territory.

But his private message to Washington is revealing in other ways. Even if he wanted to assault Israeli positions along the Suez Canal in force, he could do little more than draw a pinprick of blood. His army has not even engaged in maneuvers above the brigade level. Coordination between his infantry divisions and his six armored and mechanized divisions, vital to a major cross-canal operation, scarcely exists. His air force, so much feared by Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, has had disastrous trouble with its aerial combat training exercises because of accidents and mistakes.

The highly touted Soviet-made MIG-23 numbers fewer than six in this country and they are apparently here for Soviet test flying, not Egyptian aggression. Moreover, there is reason to believe that Moscow has laid down a hard rule here which may be summed up in one phrase: "No surprises!"

The Russians know what would happen if Sadat tried force on Israel. Without Soviet air power on the east bank of the canal (an intervention Moscow will not underwrite), the Israelis would slaughter Egyptians, as in 1967. The balance of power, indeed, is confirmed to us by many independent sources as running at least as strongly in Israel's favor today as then.

The underlying reason for that is not so much hardware as the technological ability to master it. Israel is a fully developed country. Egypt is not.

Combine all those factors and Sadat's bid for continuing U. S. mediation is a wise one. Other choices are not available.

In his talks with hard-driving Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco in May, Sadat referred to Egyptian refusal to allow Egyptian soldiers on the east bank after Israeli withdrawals and sarcastically asked Sisco: "Do you want us to keep the cokes cold for an Israeli return to the canal?" Such bitter asides expose the Egyptian suspicion that the U. S. is not doing all it could with Israel, but they are still secondary. U. S. help is still needed and wanted, because without it Egypt can only threaten and bluster.

Sadat, however, will not always enjoy the luxury of patience at home and making concessions. Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, who is universally rated the second most influential man in Egypt today and who is strongly pro-U. S., told a friend last week: "I will become a Communist myself if that is the only way to get the Israelis off the Sinai." Heikal has no such intention, but his words nevertheless are revealing of what lies below the surface but will not stay there forever.

As of today, war is the last thing Sadat and Heikal want. Even the Russians seem to be planning for a non-war future in which they will need means other than military to hold their place here. They have committed themselves to a

Strength For Today

BATTLE STATIONS
Everybody born into the world in past ages, everybody living in the world today and everybody who ever will live has some definite place in God's plan. Nobody can fill that place except this one particular person. You may look at yourself and declare that you are utterly worthless in the world, of no value to anybody. All right, then, stop to ask in what a queer position this puts the Almighty, for He then has placed people in the world without any purpose. This is all contrary to reason and to everything we read in the Bible.

Jesus said that the very hairs of our heads are numbered. He said that the Heavenly Father notes the fall of a sparrow. He declared that men are of more value than any of the creatures of field or forest. His ministry was definitely based on the conviction that everybody is put into the world for a purpose and that purpose is part of a great divine scheme.

Every man on a battleship has a battle station. You and I have battle stations in life. Something will go wrong with the whole divine scheme if we are not where we ought to be, when we ought to be, and doing what we ought to do.

Don't fail to show up at your battle station. Nobody can take your place — nobody.

Indifference To Security

Seven members of the United States Senate went to a good deal of trouble one day last week, in an effort to voice a collective warning against the alarming decline in America's military power. They arranged a special order; they prepared their speeches with care; they released the texts in advance; and they held the Senate floor for more than an hour.

But to judge from local reaction, they might with equal effectiveness have hurled their Catonian cries upon the summer wind. There was no local reaction. The national security has become — not a bore, exactly; but it has become a matter of sullen indifference. Members of Congress, by and large, do not want to talk about it; they do not want to hear about it. Their ears are numb and their senses dulled. They want to go home.

It will be small consolation, one of these days, to call a roll of those who were right in 1971. Unless their warnings are heeded — and not merely heeded, but acted upon swiftly — the United States assuredly will wind up as Number Two among the powers of the world. The implications of that somber prospect cannot be precisely defined but they can be vividly imagined.

These were the seven who spoke on Thursday: Thurmond of South Carolina, Byrd of Virginia, Dominick of Colorado, Gurney of Florida, Buckley of New York, Curtis of Nebraska, and Brock of Tennessee. Other senators, of course, have spoken to the same effect on other days; one thinks especially of Henry Jackson of Washington, Barry Goldwater of Arizona, John Stennis of Mississippi.

The warnings they have delivered in the Senate have been buttressed by outside authorities. Nearly a year ago, the President's "Blue Ribbon Defense Panel" raised an urgent cry of alarm. The American Security Council has grown hoarse with protest. Such respected magazines as Life and Reader's Digest have devoted pages to expert analysis of the deteriorating situation. On the very day the seven senators spoke, the authoritative Jane's Fighting Ships released a chilling report on Soviet gains and American declines.

Yet the erosion continues. One is hard put to identify the reasons. The war in Vietnam — this exhausting, inconclusive, wretched war — doubtless is the primary cause; it has left death and debt and disenchantment in its wake. The high cost of preparedness is another factor, especially at a time of deficit finance and heavy obligations here at home. The anti-militarism of leading intellectuals and dissident youth surely has contributed. And the Pentagon itself, by creating an image of ineptitude and waste, has hurt its own cause.

It is not so important to fix the blame; but it is critically important that the American people understand what is happening. In terms of both

To The Editor:

By this time it is no secret that the East Carolina Summer Theatre has lost its state funds for remodeling McGinnis Auditorium into a more workable and attractive theatre. The heavy demands on state revenue for the coming biennium and the inflationary nature of the economy in general made it impossible for the Legislature to fund all requests, and our theatre money was reallocated. As General Manager of the Summer Theatre, I would like to take this opportunity to apologize to our patrons for promising them a new theatre both in the souvenir program and in pre-season publicity. We will all have to remain a little uncomfortable for a few more years and hope for a brighter future.

Unfortunately, it is a lesser known fact that the Summer Theatre has also lost its small annual subsidy which it received in past years. In other words, we must now be completely self-supporting from our box office sales — a precarious situation for any professional theatre operation. As a newcomer to this area, and as a person who has seen summer theatre in many other parts of the country, I feel this area is blessed by a calibre of theatre practically unheard of anywhere in the country. Quite frankly, it could and should be better supported than it is. If Eastern North Carolina is to continue to expand and develop at the rate of the past few years, it must match its growth with a greater cultural awareness which makes any society a finer place in which to live. I believe that the Summer Theatre is a major attraction to this part of the State, and I urge East Carolinians to demonstrate their support by attending our remaining productions this summer.

Uncle Sam Is Now Daddy Sam

By ELMER ROESSNER
Many Americans lack confidence that the government will solve problems of inflation and unemployment, Jay Schmiedeskamp, University of Michigan economist, told a breakfast meeting of government officials. This is a major reason why consumers have continued to keep a tight rein on their purse strings, he said, slightly mixing his metaphor. "What the government does or does not do has a powerful influence on consumers willingness to go into debt or to use their savings to make major expenditures."

COMMENT: Prof. Schmiedeskamp's analysis points out a terrible truth: Americans are getting soft. They depend on the government for medical care, for help when they are broke, for lunches for the children, for telling them what to grow and not grow, for what to eat, for what kind of television shows they should be exposed to, for straightening out local traffic problems and for just about everything except wiping their noses, although they do expect the Food and Drug Administration, the Federal Trade Commission and several other government agencies to make sure the tissue is nonirritating and honestly advertised.

A lot of history shows that when one nation gets soft, some other nation takes over. Daniel Boone never wrote to Washington for a chart on how to butcher a deer.

ELMER ROESSNER

New Kind of Razor Coming
Gillette Co. is about to introduce a new kind of razor for wet shaving. The head has two blades, one behind the other for more efficient dewhiskering. It may be advertised on world series programs.

COMMENT: It looks as if another razor war will break out, similar to the one between electric and hand-pulled razors and among the various kinds of improved blades. Consumers should be thankful that there is one industry at least in which competition still flourishes. However, the intense competition hasn't reduced the cost of shaving equipment, or hadn't you noticed?

Congress To Act On Steel
Several bills are pending in Congress to limit steel imports, either by firm quotas or higher tariffs.

COMMENT: Congress is likely to take some action to protect the American market from further losses to foreign producers. But nothing Congress can do short of paying export subsidies can prevent the further loss of foreign markets to American steel producers. Loss of these markets can mean further imbalance of foreign trade and more unemployment in the U.S.

Cheaper steel abroad as well as cheaper automotive labor is giving foreign auto makers great advantages in capturing ever-larger shares of the American market.

A movement looking to the organization of a chamber of commerce was launched at the "house warming" celebration given by the Greenville Merchants Association last night. Scores of prominent business and professional men assisted in the launching of numbers of them made speeches setting forth the need of a departmentalized chamber of commerce to aid in the continued expansion of the city and community.

Several hundred English sparrows were either electrocuted or drowned during the terrific thunderstorm which swept over Greenville last Friday. Mrs. J. S. North Carolina Economy Marked Time In June RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's economy mostly marked time in June, showing little tendency to expand or decline.

The Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. reported that its North Carolina Business Index advanced only 0.1 per cent in June over the May figure and stood at a preliminary level of 114.9. This was just 1.8 per cent higher than the June, 1970, figure.

Among the three seasonally adjusted components of the Index, Wachovia reported only one, bank debits, showed a gain while non-agricultural employment and manufacturing man hours showed small declines.

Bank debits, which measure checkbook spending by individuals and businesses shot up a rousing 12.2 per cent in June on a seasonally adjusted basis. Bank debits reached an all-time high of $7.85 billion for the month.

After expanding somewhat in the previous three months, manufacturing employment showed a drop in June on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Furniture and lumber employment continued a recent Damage was set at $1,400 to the Wood car and about $150 to the Stokes auto.

Mrs. Stokes and a passenger in the Wood vehicle were reported injured in the collision.

Wood was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of the mishap by officers.

An expired fly entombed in the dead center of a piece of dried up apple pie served by a frumpy waitress with dyed blonde hair in a roadside diner with a great big hole in its front door screen and a greasy-stained sign over its battered cash register saying, "In God We Trust—All Others Cash," and a sign next to that one saying, "Eat Here and Keep Your Wife for a Pet."

Finding two small lifeless mice in a kitchen trap set out to catch and kill a big rat.

The expression, "Well, I swam!" It is usually uttered by elderly rural people as an exclamation of surprise. But what does it mean?

Having to climb out of a comfortable reclining chair and go to the door and tell the wistful little girl down the hall that your own small daughter has gone to the playground with a young male imp both the girls are courting.

Being asked to give a toast at a nudists' picnic and finding yourself unable to think of anything else to say except, "Bottoms Up!"

Listening to a traveler undressing, in the hotel room above yours drop three heavy shoes to the floor—thump, thump thump!—and then spending the rest of the night wondering what he must look like in person.

From these vexations and other disturbances of aplomb, deliver us, Amen.

upward trend. Textile employment which had remained steady from March through May, showed an 0.8 per cent drop in June and was 2.7 per cent below the June, 1970 level. Paper, tobacco and food industry employment also showed small declines.

Employment in trade industries continued a downward trend and is about 1.3 per cent below the level at the start of the year. Services employment declined slightly in June and government jobs showed no significant change, standing about 2.8 per cent ahead of June of last year.

Average weekly wages in manufacturing increased at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent during June and reached $104.31 — a gain of 8.2 per cent from

They would need it. Towering Soviet gains over the U. S. in the Arab Middle East are squarely built on the Arab-Israeli conflict. When the U. S. can compete on equal terms — not before Israeli withdraws from the Sinai peninsula — the Russians will badly need such economic aid programs. But until then, the Russians have only one way to go in Arab esteem here — up.

Kilpatrick . . .

In two classifications only — in aircraft carriers, and in missile-launching submarines — the United States retains a superior position. There is not much comfort here. With its prodigious land mass, the Soviet Union has seen no reason to invest in mobile carriers. Our dominance in nuclear subs (we have 41 with Polaris-Poseidon missile capability) probably will be lost by 1975.

Everywhere else the picture is bleak. Senator Curtis devoted his speech to the uncertain future of our new B-1 manned bomber. It is intended eventually to replace the aging B-52 — but that eventually is at least seven years in the future. "For some obscure reason," said Curtis, "every heavy bomber ever built by the United States has fought its stiffest battle in Congress." The B-1 is no exception.

Dominick dispassionately reviewed the astonishing growth of the Soviet navy. Thurmond implored his colleagues to ponder the meaning of Soviet first-strike missile installations. Buckley pleaded the need for a whole "new strategy." Brock urged that the spectre of an "arms race" be disregarded: "How can there be a 'race,'" he asked, "when one of the contestants isn't even running?"

The long colloquy provoked no debate in the Senate. It drew scarcely a line in the local papers. What is required, one asks in despair, to wake up the Congress, to wake up the people?

Western, which she attended on scholarship, attracts an exceptionally large number of foreign students, she pointed out, and she finds that the intercultural emphasis program there broadened her perspective.

"I've learned that the problems we as black people face and we as a nation face in the world are not unique," she explained. "They exist everywhere." As for her feelings about women's lib, she said, "There's lots to be said for it but I can't deal with women's liberation; I have to deal first with black liberation. Once that's accomplished black women will be liberated women."

But she believes there is still a long way to go. "I don't think attitudes or people have changed. Only laws have changed."

Each has two or more sets of buyers, and had asked the expanded services to cover an additional sale.

But the department, in announcing the rejection Wednesday, said inspectors now assigned are available to grade tobacco more hours of each day and more days a week. "Consequently, it is evident that the available inspection and price support services are not fully utilized and are not preventing the markets from increasing their sales volume."

The department also said, "The tobacco industry itself has sharply limited the volume sold each week by restricting all auction markets' sales day and sales hours."

The agency's services, he continued, added a record $5,000,000 to resources available for housing, farming and community facilities in the county last year. At year's end, the outstanding loan total in the county had climbed to $9,630,873 and was providing direct benefits to 2,200 families in the area, Dean said.

The FHA loan services are carried on in Pitt County through the agency's office at S. Evans Street in the Federal Building. Housing loans may be made for homes in the rural countryside, and in all towns of the county except Greenville and its urbanized surrounding areas. Community facility projects may include service to rural towns of not more than 5,500 population.

Willard R. Dean Jr., county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, announced that Farmers Home has helped some 152 farmers finance operating expenses as part of a three-point attack on rural problems.

Dean said that these loan programs, supervised by the rural credit arm of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will be repaid, with interest.

In addition to the farmer programs, two others, loans for home ownership and for water and sewer systems, are also operating in Pitt County, the supervisor added.

Dean pointed out that during the past year, 238 families in Pitt County secured housing loans and 833 families in two communities now have pure water piped into their homes for the first time.

Sowers Speaker At Snow Hill

SNOW HILL, N. C. (AP) — Roy G. Sowers Jr. says in his new job as North Carolina's first secretary of natural and economic resources he will seek to develop the state "within the framework of a protected natural environment."

Sowers said this as he spoke at the dedication of the Granet Glove Corp. plant at Snow Hill. It was his first speech since Gov. Bob Scott appointed him to head the new Department of Natural and Economic Resources. Sowers was the first of nine new department heads to be named under government reorganization legislation. "Our over-riding objectives will be to streamline all the functions to be housed in the new department...to remove duplications where they exist, and to mold the organization into a workable unit with all its facets reflecting a single policy objective—the economic development of North Carolina within the framework of a protected natural environment," Sowers said.

Sowers, who formerly headed the state Department of Conservation and Development, said the state's industry hunters "are working with 80 very active industrial prospects," trying to get them to locate in Eastern North Carolina.

"Undoubtedly all 80 prospects we are currently working with will not locate in North Carolina," Sowers said. "But we are making every effort to attract these good companies, and you here are helping us by being ready to receive good industrial prospects."

SNOW HILL — The Snow Hill town board meeting was held Tuesday night. Reports on the Police Department were presented by Mayor Melvin Oliver and Police Chief Walter L. Heath.

Mayor Oliver informed the board that there would be a change in water rates. He also stated that there is a possibility of an industrial plant being built near the town.

A report on the progress of the water and sewer installation now underway was also given by the mayor. It is hoped that the installation will be completed within 60 days.

ECU Has Developed Into A Dynamic Institution

By FRANCEINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau
 From its modest beginnings 64 years ago, as East Carolina Teachers Training School, East Carolina University has rapidly developed into a dynamic and constantly growing multi-disciplinary university.

A prime factor in this swift upward rise has been the desire of East Carolina's leaders to enlarge its scope and improve its programs.

The metamorphosis of a little two-year teachers' training school into a four-year teachers' college into a liberal arts college into, finally, a university has been by no means a smooth and easy one.

But Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president since 1960 and his predecessors have readily accepted the challenge to work for the growth of their institution, and when necessary, struggle against formidable obstacles to its progress.

This fall, with an expected enrollment of more than 10,000 students from all parts of North Carolina, nearly all the other states and a good number of foreign countries, East Carolina University will begin the 1971-72 academic year. Many evidences of ECU's recent growth will be apparent.

About two-thirds of the faculty will hold doctoral degrees, a percentage which has climbed steadily during the past decade.

Classroom instruction on the Greenville campus will benefit from greater use of effective teaching methods. New techniques involving the use of multi-media instruction, student responder systems, closed circuit TV and computer resources will be incorporated into the traditional lecture presentation.

Besides classroom work with students, ECU's faculty will be more than ever before engaged in scholarship and independent research. During the academic year 1971-72 more than $3,000,000 in funds from state and national agencies and private foundations will finance a variety of active grants undertaken by ECU professors.

ECU's curriculum offerings have increased and become more flexible. General education requirements have been revised for freshmen and sophomores in order to meet the needs of the individual student.

The School of Allied Health and Social Professions will add degree programs in occupational therapy and school and community health, and a new School of Technology will begin its operations this fall.

Another new program, in effect for the first time, will be ECU's unique European Area Studies. Thirty-five students will fly to the overseas campus at Bonn, West Germany, to spend the year in study and observation of European society and culture.

Continuing the trend of the past several years, ECU's Graduate School enrollment will increase, with the addition of federally funded fellowships in physics and biology.

And ECU's long-awaited medical studies program will begin class for its first students next fall, a preliminary step leading to the eventual establishment of a four-year School of Medicine at Greenville.

Joyner Library at ECU will show considerable progress. It already ranks second among libraries in North Carolina's institutions of higher learning in microfilm holdings, third in microfiche holdings, fifth in periodicals and sixth in bound volumes.

Library expenditures at ECU have expanded three times since 1964, and during this fiscal year exceed one million dollars. Only two other universities in North Carolina have higher annual operating expenditures in library operations.

More readily perceived are the significant changes in the physical aspect of ECU's campus. Construction valued at over $4,000,000 is now at various stages of completion, and recent land acquisitions from three donations have considerably increased the size of the campus.

An essential part of ECU's role, as indicated by its motto "To Serve," lies in its outreach programs.

Most notable of these are the Developmental Evaluation Clinic, a service and training facility for handicapped persons and those who work with them; the Regional Development Institute, an agency which seeks to increase the growth of eastern North Carolina; the Bureau of Business Research, a resource for interchange of ideas and methods between School of Business professors and local and regional groups; the Marine Science Center on Roanoke Island, Dare County; and the Division of Continuing Education.

The ECU Division of Continuing Education will again sponsor a wide variety of courses for adults who are unable to enroll in regular campus programs. Last year more than 14,000 persons were registered for Continuing Education course offerings.

A very noteworthy indication of ECU's transition from a teachers' college to a many-faceted university is the rise in its non-teaching degree programs.

About three-fourths of the total degree programs at ECU are non-teaching degree programs, and sixty percent of last year's student body were pursuing degrees in fields other than education.

Therefore, while ECU still leads the South in teacher preparation, it has meanwhile acquired great diversity in professional and academic preparation for a number of careers.

Most importantly, the student body will benefit from and attest to recent developments at ECU. Recruiting programs and orientation procedures have been recently revised and improved.

This fall, about 3,000 freshmen and transfer students—brighter and better informed than any previous group of incoming students—will become a part of the campus community and take advantage of the widened scope of ECU's instructional programs and facilities.

As Author, Jerry Lewis Talked Book On Tape

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jerry Lewis, author?

The comedian himself was surprised when Random House proposed that he produce a book about his film theories. Don't write it, he was told—talk it.

That was easy for him. He took a half-million feet of audio tape from the film class he conducted at the University of Southern California and compressed it into a 208-page book, "The Total Film-Maker."

The result is typical Jerry Lewis—frenetic, profane, disconnected, and yet fascinating in what it reveals of this unquestionably talented film maker.

He tells how he became a movie director:

"I had this drive and I was curious. Of course, I was already a Jewish movie star and that helped get me on the lot. But in front of the camera, acting like a movie star. Not behind it!

"Then one day at Paramount, long ago, I was missing. They found me crawling around a catwalk over the sound stage. I had to know if the catwalks, where the electricians and grips do things and sleep, were made of two-by-fours. Were they built on a temporary basis? How did they hang them?"

His native curiosity pushed him through every studio department until he learned everything he could absorb about filming. Then he had to direct. And write, and produce.

He became, like Charlie Chaplin, the total filmmaker. Jean Martin — Lewis' comedy partner until they parted bitterly—once remarked that Jerry was ruined by reading a book about Chaplin. Incidentally, Martin's name does not appear in the Lewis book.

Lewis reveals his natural sensitivity to the needs of actors: "They are so like children. If they see a director talking to a crew member, momentarily ignoring them, they may pout. In the next scene, they won't even listen."

Lewis' expoundings on his movie methods will interest film students, but the most valuable part of the book to ordinary readers is his second comedy. Particularly his comments about fellow comedians:

Stan Laurel—"Probably a near genius as a comic."

Jack Benny—"Best in the world at what he does, yet he is not a film comedian."

Bob Hope—"Has little competition at stand-up comedy ... depends on character more than visuals."

Lenny Bruce—"The most infuriating man I ever met in my life because he preferred to make his way with four-letter words."

The great comedians, according to Lewis: Chaplin, Laurel, Jackie Gleason, in that order.

Lewis' film career has been in a slump lately, as has all movie business. But he remarks in his book: "Whatever direction the industry takes in this time of change, I won't abandon comedy."

That's good news. The world needs laughter, and Lewis has proved his ability to supply it. The French have always appreciated him more than his homeland—director Jean Luc Godard termed him "better than Chaplin or Keaton."

Perhaps, as with Keaton, it will require a new generation for American critics to recognize Lewis' worth.

Meat Appetite Keeps Prices Rising

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An awesome consumer appetite for red meat, seemingly at any price, is keeping pace with record production and causing headaches for the government's retail-price watchers. The Agriculture Department says food prices are rising a bit faster than earlier forecast but still expects grocery prices for all of 1971 to gain about 3 per cent, well below the 5.1-per-cent jump last year. However, farmers have been turning out a record supply of beef and pork with little price benefit to consumers. A super-size pig crop last year caused hog prices paid farmers to plummet last fall and winter. The Bureau of Labor Statistics says pork chops in June averaged $1.06 per pound at retail stores, compared with about $1.01 last January when the pork surplus was hitting the market. Last summer, before the farm price break, they were about $1.17 per pound. Farmers are cutting back on hog production now and the outlook is for their prices to improve, meaning higher pork prices at stores. Beef prices also are on the way up despite record-large cattle output. In June, hamburger cost 68.7 cents a pound, up more than two cents from a year earlier, the BLS said. Round steak averaged nearly $1.38 per pound, compared with less than $1.30 a year earlier. Beef and pork account for most of the meat consumed by Americans. And meat takes up around 30 per cent of a family's food budget.

Prison Escapee Is Recaptured

An escapee from the N.C. Department of Correction Prison Unit at Mt. Pleasant was apprehended here Wednesday night and is currently in Pitt County Jail on an assortment of charges.

According to the Sheriff's Department, Leroy Johnson, 27, of 800 S. George Street, Farmville, was arrested here by the Highway Patrol following a series of incidents.

The Sheriff's Department reported that Johnson escaped from the prison unit on Wednesday and allegedly stole a car at gun point in Cabarrus County.

Johnson was later involved in a one-car wreck around 10:30 Wednesday night on the Stantonsburg Road near here and was apprehended at Pitt Memorial Hospital by a highway patrolman, it was reported. The escapee was charged with breaking into the home of W.F. Tyson of Stokes between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. Wednesday night.

In addition to the breaking-entering and larceny charges preferred against Johnson, the Highway Patrol charged him with have no operator's license, failing to report an accident, and larceny of a bicycle on the Stantonsburg Road.

The Sheriff's Department, who reported that some $25 and a radio was recovered in connection with the break-in, reported that Johnson is also charged with armed robbery in Cabarrus County.

A hearing for Johnson, who is being held under $5,300 bond, has been scheduled for Aug. 25 in District Court here.

Greene Board Adopts Budget

SNOW HILL — The Green County Board of Commissioners adopted their budget for the upcoming year Monday.

There were some modifications in the tentative due to the change of state policies on Medicaid.

It was tentatively decided that the same tax rate used last year, $1.75, would be adopted.

Burt Hall, the County Superintendent of the Farmers' Home Administration reported to the board that he had made a pre-application for assistance. He also stated that with the $27,400 allocated by the county and a $48,000 loan, the county would be able to install a system of garbage and waste administration that would meet with the recommendations of the State Health Department. The loan will involve a voter-submitted bond referendum. County officials with responsibility in this area were appointed to look into the correct procedures.

The board approved a raise from 9 cents to 10 cents a mile reimbursement for county employees driving private cars. The increase was in proportion

Labor Rally Is Planned

RALEIGH (AP) — State AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby announced Wednesday plans for a labor rally in Wilson Sunday.

Hobby said the state AFL-CIO and the Tobacco Workers International Union will hold a strike support rally for seasonal workers in eastern North Carolina tobacco processing plants.

Speakers in addition to Hobby will include Walter Mergler, first vice president of the Tobacco Workers International Union; Walter Waddy, regional director of the AFL-CIO, and State Rep. Joy Johnson, D-Robeson.

Hobby said the rally would be "the kick-off in our campaign to bring economic justice to the thousands of low wage employees in Eastern North Carolina."

Must Wait For Increase

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Utilities Commission has told the Virginia Electric and Power Co. it will have to wait a while for an interim rate increase it sought to put into effect last Sunday.

The boost would have increased VEPCO's gross revenues by $1.37 million annually and would have raised the power bills of many residential customers between 5 and 8.9 per cent, depending on their electrical usage.

The commission set Sept. 2 as the date for hearing of the interim rate boost and scheduled a full hearing for next Jan. 11.

Galifianakis Sees Policy Conflict

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N.C., says the Nixon administration is pursuing conflicting policies on the controversial issue of force bussing of school children.

The North Carolina congressman asserted in a statement Wednesday that the administration was guilty of "breaking faith with the American people."

"On the one hand," he said, "through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the President is pressing in rigorous pursuit of the Supreme Court ruling in the matter; while on the other hand, through the Justice Department, he is appealing a court-approved plan in which the provisions fall far short of the HEW required guidelines."

"The president must be made to understand that there are no two sides to this issue," Galifianakis stated. He reiterated his own opposition to forced bussing, says "My experience has been that this practice is an irritant to all races."

Time To Say Goodbye To Three Days On Moon

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — It was time to say goodbye. To let that silver moon shrink in the distance. To relegate to memory those three days of climbing lunar mountains, peering into deep canyons, dodging craters in a dune buggy.

It's time to go home, as Mission Control said, to "come back again to the homes of men, on the cool green hills of earth." It's time to acknowledge, as Dave Scott did, "We're ready too." But to add with mild regret, "It's been great. It's a fabulous place up here."

And Jim Irwin holds a rock in his gloved hand, and says he thinks it's great and adds: "Hope it's green when we get home." What do you say about a world where you can't even trust your sense of color?

Rolling Toward 200th who pitched a seven-hitter, became the third active in the majors owning 200 or more wins. The others are Jim Bunning of Philadelphia and Juan Marichal of the Giants. (AP Wirephoto)

Houston Ends Dodger Streak; Gibson Wins

By HAL BOCK
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 The Los Angeles Dodgers forgot Ken Forsch once before, but they remember him now. Forsch, a rookie right-hander, hurled a four-hitter for Houston Wednesday night, shutting out the Dodgers 2-0 and ending a five-game LA winning streak. It was the youngster's first major league shutout and it came against a team that once professed interest in Forsch—all of one phone call's worth.

Forsch, an outstanding pitcher at Oregon State, was drafted by the Astros in 1968. But before the draft, the Dodgers apparently were thinking about the youngster.

"The night before the draft, I got a phone call from somebody with the Dodgers," Forsch said. "They asked if I was interested and I said yes. That's the last I heard from them. Just one phone call, that's all."

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, Cincinnati shut out New York 1-0, Atlanta trimmed Philadelphia 5-3, Montreal nipped Pittsburgh 4-3 in 11 innings, St. Louis downed San Francisco 7-2 and Chicago won two from San Diego, 6-4 in the completion of a suspended game and then 3-0 in the regularly scheduled contest.

In the American League, New York rapped Cleveland 7-3, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Minnesota 2-1 and 3-0, Detroit topped Washington 2-1, Baltimore downed Boston 5-4 in 10 innings, Chicago bombed California 10-3 and Oakland beat Milwaukee 6-5.

Forsch, 6-5, struck out nine Dodgers and ended a personal four-game losing streak. He had not won since July 4.

The tall rookie was locked in a scoreless duel with veteran

Al Downing until the sixth inning when the Astros struck for both their runs, ending a 21-inning scoreless streak.

Roger Metzger started the winning rally with a single and Joe Morgan worked Downing for the Astros' only walk. Jim Wynn sacrificed the runners along and Cesar Cedeno drilled a two-run single.

The loss cost the Dodgers a chance to pick up ground on San Francisco, the NL's Western Division leaders. The Giants fell victim to Bob Gibson's 200th career victory, bowing on a seven-hitter.

Ted Kubiak slugged a three-run homer for the Cardinals as Gibson beat San Francisco for the 10th consecutive time. Only two other active pitchers, Juan Marichal of the Giants and Philadelphia's Jim Bunning, have passed the 200-victory plateau.

Gary Sutherland drilled an 11th-inning pinch single to move Montreal past Pittsburgh's Eastern Division leaders. Boots Day and Ron Brand had singled in front of Sutherland's deciding hit.

Bob Bailey drove in the Expos' first three runs with a sacrifice fly in the third inning and a bases-loaded single in the fifth. Manny Sanguillen homered for the Pirates.

Mike Lum's two-out, two-run single in the ninth inning gave Atlanta its victory over Philadelphia. Lum delivered his winning hit after the Braves had loaded the bases on a single by winning pitcher Mike Queen and walks to Ralph Garr and Hank Aaron.

Felix Millan's two-run double had tied the game for Atlanta in the seventh after Roger Freed's two-run homer helped the Phillies build an early 2-0 lead.

Pete Rose's eighth inning double drove in the only run of the game and gave Cincinnati its victory over the Mets. Gary Nolan earned the victory with last-out help from Clay Carroll, besting New York's Gary Gentry, who had a career-high 11 strikeouts.

The Cubs completed a victory over San Diego in a game that was suspended after six innings on May 16 and then beat the Padres again in the regularly scheduled game. Ron Santo's two-run double in the fifth inning back in May turned out to be the deciding hit in the suspended game.

Then Milt Pappas scattered eight hits and shutout the Padres for his 12th victory of the year. Joe Pepitone stroked a single and double to lead the Cubs' attack.

Wood Settles NASCAR Feud

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Glenn Wood says that NASCAR is allowing him to use a larger spoiler and a carburetor restrictor plate with a bigger opening on his Mercury.

The car owner from Stuart, Va., said Wednesday that he had settled his differences with Bill France, president of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, and therefore would continue in racing.

"I can make most of the big events left on the schedule," Wood said.

The car has been driven to $150,000 in prize money this year by A. J. Foyt and Donnie Allison. Wood said the next start will be in France's 500-mile race at Talladega, Ala., Aug. 28.

Wood had said at the Dixie 500 at Atlanta last week the car would not run again until NASCAR revised its rule on spoilers and carburetor restrictor plates.

One of his complaints was that the rules did not allow an adequate rear spoiler for his own Mercury and the other Ford products.

"France has agreed that we can carry a larger spoiler on the car that should put us on an even basis with Dodge and Plymouth," Wood said.

As a result of his talks with France, Wood said, the Ford products now will be able to use 1969 medium high-riser heads on their wedge-type engines and thus qualify for carburetor restrictor plates with one and five-eighth inch openings.

Until now, Dodge and Plymouth racers using wedge engines could use the one and five-eighth inch plates while Mercury and Ford machines with similar wedge engines were required to use one and one-half inch plates.

Wood also said France agreed to bring the whole issue of carburetor restrictor plates before a meeting later this month of the Auto Competition Committee of the U. S. (ACCUS).

"What we'd like to see the ACCUS do is find some way we could use the Boss 429 Ford and Chrysler 426 hemi engines which we all have in stock. What is needed is for everybody to have the same size restrictor plates, if we are required to use any at all," Wood said.

Fitzmorris Composes Two-Hitter For Royals

By KEN RAPPOPORT
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 After writing and singing songs, what can Al Fitzmorris do for an encore?

How about a two-hitter. Fitzmorris, Kansas City's singing pitcher, hit the high note of his baseball career with a 3-0 waltz Wednesday over the heavy-hitting Minnesota Twins after the Royals won the opener of a two-night doubleheader, 2-1.

"This is the best game of my career—by far, the best," said Fitzmorris, who has done considerable song-writing and singing for several years during the off-season.

Fitzmorris was flirting with a no-hitter when Harmon Killebrew singled to lead off the seventh inning.

In the other American League games, the New York Yankees blasted the Cleveland Indians 7-3; the Detroit Tigers tripped the Washington Senators 2-1; the Baltimore Orioles topped the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 10 innings in the opener of a two-night doubleheader before rain washed out the nightcap; the Chicago White Sox buried the California Angels 10-3 and the Oakland A's nudged the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5.

National League scores: Cincinnati 1, New York 0, Atlanta 5, Philadelphia 3; Montreal 4, Pittsburgh 3 in 11 innings; Houston 2, Los Angeles 0; St. Louis 7, San Francisco 2; Chicago 6, San Diego 0 in the regularly-scheduled contest.

Until Killebrew broke the spell, Fitzmorris knew full well what was happening.

"Sure, I knew what was going on," said Fitzmorris, "pitchers always say they aren't aware they're pitching a no-hitter. I doubt that. No-hitters don't come along often enough not to be aware of them."

Fitzmorris hasn't had too much experience with victories, let alone no-hitters, in his three-year major league career. Used primarily as a relief pitcher, his triumph Wednesday night was only the 12th in three seasons. Until his two-hit beauty, Fitzmorris hadn't had that much success against Minnesota.

"I think this is the first time I ever pitched against the Twins that Killebrew didn't hit a homer off me," said Fitzmorris.

Fitzmorris' brilliance Wednesday was almost matched by Minnesota's Ray Corbin, who had allowed only three hits before coming unstruck in the Kansas City eighth.

In the opener, Dick Drago bested Bert Blyleven in a tough pitching duel. Hopkins knocked in the winning run to climax a two-run first inning for Kansas City.

Roy White slammed a two-run homer and Danny Cater drove in three runs without a hit in New York's victory that gave the Yankees a sweep of their three-games series with Cleveland. White staked winner Stan Bahnsen to a 2-0 lead in the first with his two-run homer, and Cater followed with RBI on a groundout in the fourth, a bases-loaded walk in the sixth and a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Mickey Lolich notched his 17th victory, striking out 14, as Detroit stopped Washington. Al Kaline tripled and scored the first run in the first, then homered in the third for the winning tally.

Merv Rettenmund's 10th-inning single—his fourth hit of the game—chased home Baltimore's winning run as the Orioles rallied for a victory over Boston, the runnerup team in the American League East. The victory boosted Baltimore's lead to 5½ games over the Red Sox.

Rich McKinney drove in two runs as Chicago scored six in the first two innings and kayoed California ace Andy Messersmith. Tommy John went the route for the White Sox despite giving up 12 hits.

Sal Bando hit a grand slam homer and Reggie Jackson also connected with a solo blast to power Oakland over Milwaukee.

Thomas Returned To The Cowboys

By EARL GERHEIM
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Controversial running back Duane Thomas, the fleet-footed ace who led the Dallas Cowboys in rushing last season, has covered a lot of ground this past week but doesn't seem to have made any headway.

Thomas was traded by the Cowboys to the New England Patriots last weekend after he tossed several verbal barbs at Dallas management and requested that he be swapped. Under terms of the transaction, New England sent halfback Carl Garrett and the Patriots' No. 1 draft pick next year to Dallas and also received lineman Halvor Hagen and wide receiver Honor Jackson from the Cowboys.

Dallas President Tex Schramm, who has been a target of Thomas' fiery criticism, announced Wednesday that part of the deal had been cancelled. Thomas was coming back to Dallas, Garrett was returning to the Patriots and New England could keep Hagen and Johnson in exchange for two undisclosed draft choices, he said.

Thomas deserted the Patriots training camp Monday.

Schramm said the cancellation had been prompted by questions raised about Thomas' condition by the New England team physician.

The Patriots issued a statement which said:

"The Patriot team physician, in the course of his physical examination of Duane Thomas when he arrived at training camp, developed certain questions concerning Thomas' general condition." The team neglected to elaborate but said, "These concerns were confirmed in the brief practice that followed. Mr. Thomas has since withdrawn from training camp after declining to complete his physical examination."

Elsewhere in the NFL, the Philadelphia Eagles retreated under a threatened lawsuit and recalled waivers on defensive back Ron Medved. The veteran player was placed on waivers Monday and charged the Eagles had dealt with him in bad faith because he was waived while waiting for an injured ankle to heal.

Eagles General Manager Pete Retzlaff rejected Medved's contention and said a doctor had pronounced the player physically fit.

Ulcer-Making, Nail-Biting Time Underway At Television Networks

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — With a little more than a month until the new television season starts, it is ulcer-making and nail-biting time around the networks and the big film studios. Once the stepchild of the film industry, television today dominates it and is keeping many of the big studios going. Fewer than 10 theatrical films are in local production while more than 110 television series, movies-for-TV and specials are in the works. Actors and actresses who once ignored or scorned the young medium have become available—for series, for guest shots, and for leads in the long filmed features the medium calls "movies." Production of fall shows is proceeding full steam, but nobody knows whether he has a hit or a disaster until it is much too late to do anything about it. Those involved in returning series, especially series coming back in new times periods, are as uptight as the newcomers. Can "Mod Squad" buck the new, tough competition from

Glen Campbell and "Ironside"? Will the early Wednesday evening audience—more youngsters—love Carol Burnett as much as the late viewers did on Monday? There is considerable evidence that few people believe this is a season to be bold and experimental. Money is tight, cigarette sponsors have departed and each network has, by federal order, lost a valuable half hour of evening prime time. Variety shows have succumbed to last season's over-exposure, and the wheel has turned so that law-and-order shows and situation comedies—escape and relaxation—are once again in style. "Relevancy," which was last season's favorite word, is out of television's 1971-72 vocabulary. Gone with it are those overdone themes of disaffected youth, environment and drugs. What kind of season will it be? Nobody really knows, but it's safe to say that few series or even specials will be controversial. Thomas Jefferson was born April 13, 1743, at Shadwell, Va.

Professional Wrestling One Way To Keep The Family Together

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — A housewife can pick up any newspaper or magazine these days and see at least one article advising her how to "keep her family together." But putting her name on a professional wrestling card is hardly the solution she typically chooses.

Barbara Nichols is a slim blonde mama at home, but she's a tiger in the ring. She started wrestling professionally five years ago after a schoolgirl interest in athletics prompted her to seek out a promoter, who sent her to girls' wrestling school in Columbia, S.C., and on to start her career at age 19.

She quit temporarily two years later to marry a veteran wrestler, George Becker, whom she met "on the job." Barbara was content to remain at home until their little boy, Craig Alan, was a year old, and then returned to wrestling so she could "keep the family together while my husband is on the road."

The Beckers travel to various matches by car, always taking little Craig along. "He's too precious to leave at home," says his mother.

The couple owns a permanent home in Charlotte, N.C., where Barbara and Craig spend all but two or three nights a week, when she is on the wrestling circuit.

"Traveling more often than that is hard when you have a family," she says. Her husband is on the road five nights a week and doesn't get back until after midnight.

"Wrestling gives me more time with my husband, because we can travel together," Barbara explains.

Though you'd think a woman wrestler would be among the original advocates of women's liberation, this one isn't.

"A woman's place is in the home," says Barbara, "and I wrestle so I can stay with my husband when he can't be at home."

Though she professes to enjoy wrestling immensely, the future of Barbara's career depends on her family.

"I might decide to wrestle for years and years, and I may retire next month. It depends on whether it takes me away from home too much," she says.

The Beckers want Craig to have lots of brothers and sisters, despite the population explosion.

"We want about six children. They don't all have to be ours, though—we wouldn't mind adopting," Barbara says.

What does it take to be a good woman wrestler?

"Proper training is a must unless you want to really hurt each other," Barbara explains. "It's like any other sport.

Training school takes from three to six months. I spent four months at a girls' wrestling school in Columbia, S.C., where a woman trainer instructed us in ring techniques, exercise, and weight-lifting."

Despite her training, Barbara says being hurt once in a while is inevitable. I had a blood clot in my spine, and the doctor said if I didn't quit wrestling it would paralyze me for life. But after going to the hospital every day for awhile, it cleared up. Besides, I just have the usual bruises," she says.

And Barbara doesn't think her rough behavior in the ring detracts from her femininity:

"I don't really think it matters. Some people would rather see girls wrestle than men" she shrugs.

Barbara's opponent at the Coliseum matches, Tammy Jones, says she's had a few years of nationwide professional wrestling behind her, yet she agrees with Barbara that women's liberation is "for the birds."

"I don't believe in liberation," she says, "A man should be head of his household — and I like to have doors opened for me, and to be treated like a woman."

The wife of a Houston, Tex., lawyer, Tammy has two children and only goes on the road in the summer when they are out of school and can travel with her.

"In the winter I stay home so we can keep the family together," she says. She lives in Charlotte.

Pert, red-haired Tammy says people always think wrestlers weigh a ton. "When the neighbors found out my husband had married a wrestler, they kept peeking out the windows, expecting to see something huge — and I only weighed 120 then," she laughs.

Feminine as she may be, Tammy lets her "redhead wrath" show in the ring. "When I get extra mad I lose all sense, but when I keep my cool I can do a lot better," she admits.

She's had her share of accidents, too: a broken nose, arm and collarbone being the worst. This might scare most women into second thoughts, but Tammy says, "I always get butterflies — beforehand, but I forget once I get into the ring."

Does she feel she's part of a man's world instead of a housewife's?

"No," said Tammy, "I belong to the garden club and the P.T.A. just like everybody else."

Worry Clinic Diabetics Can Live Longer

Kevin and his mother cooperate very well in his daily medical treatment. As a good parent should, she treats his ailment casually though her heart often aches for him. And when, he mentioned the rosier prospects if he had died the previous year, she had to swallow hard before replying!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.
Case R-525: Kevin P., aged 5, has a high I.Q.
"But, Dr. Crane," his mother began, "Kevin was very sick a year ago and we finally learned that he is a diabetic.

explained that thousands of boys and girls also have diabetes.
"One day he shocked me by saying, 'If I had died that time I was so sick, would I be in Heaven now?' and I nodded assent.

"Wistfully he added, 'Then I'd be able to have a basketball and play with other boys, wouldn't I?'"
"At another time he asked me why God ever let him have diabetes!

"So I told him maybe it was to let him grow up to be an expert doctor who could discover how to prevent other boys and girls from getting diabetes.
"He mulled this over for a few seconds; then exclaimed that he was going to be a 'missionary doctor' when he grew up.
"Dr. Crane, what else can I do to help him adjust to his condition?"

Kevin's Dilemma
Kevin's daddy is a talented pastor of a thriving church whose pulpit I had occupied that morning.
A basket dinner was served following the service.
And while I was visiting with his mother, Kevin came up to her, eagerly asking:
"Mother, could I eat half a slice of bread?"
His mother then mentioned that Kevin cooperates splendidly and will not even accept a piece of sugar-free chewing gum without getting her O.K. first.
She also has decided to Opening lead: King of ♠

A careless discard by East presented South with a chance to overcome the adverse distributional break that confronted his five heart contract—and the latter promptly capitalized on his opportunity.

West opened the bidding preemptively with three spades and North made a takeout double, holding 17 high card points. East passed and South bid four hearts. When this got back to East, the latter decided to sacrifice at four spades. Despite the fact that he held five hearts, he was unable to see where his side could take four tricks on the deal, inasmuch as his partner had advertised a weak hand defensively. South was reluctant to settle for what might be a small profit (four spades can be defeated only one trick), and he showed a second suit by bidding five clubs. North returned to five hearts, closing the auction.

West opened the king of spades which East overtook with the ace in order to continue the jack, declarer ruffing in with the three of hearts. A small heart was led to the jack, but West administered a severe jolt to his opponent when he failed to answer the call—discarding a small spade. Since East had more trumps than South did, the latter turned his attentions to the side suits.
The ace of clubs was cashed followed by a small club to the king on which East played the queen. The top three diamonds were played, West discarding a spade on the third round. There appeared to be no point in ruffing a diamond inasmuch as dummy was now the longer hand in trumps, since South had trumped the second spade.
Declarer exited with a club and West went in with the jack on which East chose to discard the ten of diamonds. The forced return was a spade on which North discarded his remaining club. East ruffed with the five of hearts, South overruffed with the nine, cashed the king and took the last two tricks with dummy's ace and queen of trumps.
East erred in discarding on the jack of clubs. If he trumps his partner's trick and exits with the ten of diamonds, dummy is forced to ruff with the deuce of hearts. East is left with three trumps while both North and South have two hearts and one club. East is assured of taking another trump trick to defeat the contract.

SEA YIELDS GIANT GEM — Donald Wobber, left, and Jim Norton polish what is estimated to be the largest piece of jade in North America. Their find, which they have dubbed "Nephroid" is eight-feet long and has an

North Carolina Sheriff Fails To Question Man

BAXLEY, Ga. (AP) — A North Carolina sheriff is returning home without accomplishing his mission of questioning a man in jail here about the strangulation slaying of a young couple near Durham, N.C., last February.

Sheriff J.B. Carter of Baxley said Wednesday he had refused to permit Sheriff C.D. Knight of Orange County, N.C., and an agent of the North Carolina Bureau of Investigation, Fran G. Satterfield Jr., to question William J. Pierce, 39-year-old Georgia man who is charged with murder in nine killings in three states.

"I didn't let him (Knight) talk with him," Carter said. "I just said he had had enough publicity right now."

Carter pointed out that Pierce is scheduled for trial in Baxley soon and "we want to give the man a fair trial."

Pierce is under a murder charge in the slaying of Mrs. Mivian Miles, 60, at her country store near Baxley last January.

"I think they understood the situation," said Carter when questioned about the reaction of the North Carolina officers at being told they could not question Pierce.

"I did not know they were coming," Carter added. "If I had, I could have saved them a

Carter said Sheriff Knight had contacted him previously by phone and that he expected to be in tough with him further.

The Georgia officer said Knight told him by phone "he had two homicides he wanted to question Pierce about."

Presumably Knight was referring to the slaying of Miss Patricia Ann Mann, 20, a nursing student at Watts Hospital in Durham, and Jessie Allen McBane, 19, a student at North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

Drug laws abroad:

If you're touring a foreign country this summer, get set for some hard news.

No matter which way you go, you'll run smack into drug laws that are a whole lot tougher than ours.

You may have heard differently. You may have heard possession and sale of drugs overseas or south of your own border is okay. Or at least tolerated. That's a lie. Drugs are illegal. The same as here. And that's the truth.

Only one thing is different. The penalties are stiffer. In Lebanon, for instance, possession gets you 3 to 5 years in a mental hospital. That's the law. And there's no way around their law.

Drug arrests of Americans overseas have jumped 70% since last year. And nobody can help. Not friends. Or family. Or the smartest lawyer in town. Not the United States government.

That's why there are over 700 American citizens doing time on drug charges in foreign jails.

Those are the facts. "Their drug laws are a whole lot tougher than ours. Check it out."

YOUNG TE

'Funky Chicken' Popular In West Africa, Rufus Thomas Reports

By RANDY SCHMID
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — West Africans dance the "Funky Chicken" as well as Americans, reports soul grandfather Rufus Thomas, back from a recent tour of Liberia.

Thomas, a Memphis disc jockey and recording star who invented dances called "The Push and Pull," "The Chicken" and "The Dog," appeared in a command performance before William Tubman, president of Liberia, who died two weeks ago.

"I was certainly relieved that Africa wasn't like what most of us are used to seeing on television and movies," Thomas said.

He said he feared that his performance before Tubman and other government officials would turn into a formal, stuffed shirt affair, and he was delighted when they got the audience to hand clapping and foot patting in the show.

Thomas said he was warmly received in Monrovia, Liberia's capital, with children flocking to him on the streets for autographs. He also did a series of night club and theater performances there and saw his first rubber tree — an experience he found most exciting.

Next month, Thomas' lovely singing daughter, Carla, will perform in Liberia. She will go there after a tour in Germany.

In a 42-year career Thomas has created three new dances and has been instrumental in launching two recording companies—Sun and Stax. He is widely known as a dancer, singer, comic and songwriter.

Thomas, who is 54, said, "I'm the oldest cat entertaining in this area, I guess." But he quickly added, "I don't feel old. That's all in the mind."

He hit it big in records in the early 1950s after years devoted to dancing and being master of cermonies. His first record was "Bearcat," which sold more than 100,000 copies and helped Sun records get going.

Ten years later Thomas and his daughter walked into a small recording company in a converted movie theater and the two made a record called "Cause I Love You." The company was Stax and the record was a hit.

But Thomas' biggest hit was "Walking the Dog." He followed that with "The Dog" and "Can

Your Monkey Do the Dog?"

Born in Marshall County, Miss., Thomas began dancing and singing when he was 12. He said he kept at it and started as a solo performer and part of a dance team in the Memphis area in the 1940s. He had toured the South in the early 1930s with the Rabbit's Foot

Minstrels. Thomas, who described the Memphis sound as "just pure, unadulterated soul," said he doesn't have any plans to slow down. "I'm really just getting started. "I'm 54, but I'm the most beautiful 54 you'll ever see," he laughed.

Centers Run Around Clock

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Tennessee's Welcome Centers for travelers are operated around the clock, seven days a week, says Bill Vaughan, Director of Tourist Information and Promotion.

"In view of the fact that many tourists prefer to travel during the night hours, we feel it is important to keep our Welcome Centers open on a 24-hour basis," Vaughan said.
