Ky's Refusal Ignites New Saigon Crisis

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's refusal to participate in the Oct. 3 presidential election plunged South Vietnam today into its gravest political crisis since the Buddhist uprisings of 1966.

Ky proposed that he and President Nguyen Van Thieu both resign from office to pave the way for a new election. He said this was the only way "to avoid the prospects of dark days in the history of the nation."

There was no immediate comment from the presidential palace, but political observers doubted that Thieu would agree to Ky's proposal.

The U. S. Embassy, which successfully maneuvered Ky back on the ballot after Gen. Duong Van Minh's withdrawal from the race left Thieu unopposed, issued a brief statement saying it regretted the vice president's decision. Officials at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., also expressed regret but indicated the U. S. government still hopes Thieu will face more than token opposition.

Radio Hanoi said the Supreme Court's reversal putting Ky back on the ballot was a "farce ordered by President Nixon in a vain attempt to give the appearance of legality" to the election.

"Nixon has already declared that Thieu is to be re-elected," Hanoi said. "But to make it look like a true and legal election Nixon had to have two candidates. So he ordered the puppet regime court that had thrown Ky out to put Ky back in."

Despite Ky's refusal to campaign, his name will appear on the ballot in accordance with the election law's provision that "candidates do not have the right to withdraw" after the Supreme Court's final posting of the election list.

Opening Harem

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The fabulous harem of the Turkish sultans will be opened to the public for the first time Sept. 1 and among the visitors will be Queen Elizabeth II of Britain, officials announced today.

The queen is coming to Turkey for an official visit Oct. 18. On her program is a tour of the 380-room harem, which was the forbidden power of the Ottoman empire.

For almost four centuries, the harem section of Topkapi Palace in Istanbul was the home of the sultans, their mothers, royal princes, hundreds of beautiful girls and a corps of black and white eunuchs.

The harem was disbanded in 1922 when the last sultan, Mehmet VI, sailed away from Istanbul in a British warship and Turkey became a republic.

Opening of the harem comes after 12 years of restoration work. Visitors will see:

—Plush, brocaded furniture on which the sultans were entertained.

—Tiled, and gilt-decorated walls within which intrigue led to the strangling of rival princes by deaf-mute eunuchs with bowstrings.

—"The Cage," a virtual prison apartment where the heir was kept confined to protect him from plots and keep him from plotting.

—The canopied throne, inlaid with mother of pearl, from which the sultans watched dancing girls and ruled an empire stretching from Casablanca to Bagdad and Khartoum to Budapest.

Budding Storm Being Watched

MIAMI (AP) — A weak tropical depression christened Chloe before it was downgraded from a tropical storm Sunday was located today about 200 miles south of Grand Cayman Islands and moving north-westward, the National Hurricane Center reported.

Center forecasters here said the potentially potent depression's ill-defined center was estimated near Latitude 16.5 North, Longitude 81.5 West. It was moving about 10 miles an hour.

Packing winds of 30 m.p.h., forecasters said: "It's future is uncertain but the possibility still exists that Chloe may again attain tropical storm intensity as it turns on a more northwesterly course at about the same forward speed through the northwestern Caribbean Sea."

Meanwhile, a new tropical wave centered just east of the Lesser Antilles at midnight was forecast to dump heavy showers on the Northern Windward and Leeward Islands today. The wave, centered near Latitude 15 North, Longitude 58 West, was moving westward at about 10 m.p.h. with sustained winds of 20 to 30 m.p.h. and higher gusts in squalls.

"Rainfall will be locally heavy and so flooding is likely," the Center cautioned island residents.

Air Force reconnaissance planes were being used to monitor both Chloe and the budding storm. A weather watching satellite, the ATSS, burned out Friday and forced forecasters to revert to a by-gone method of predicting the weather, said Center Director Dr. Robert Simpson.

Arrest 25, More Sought Nab Draft Office Raiders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
FBI agents broke up raids by antiwar activists on federal offices in New Jersey and New York over the weekend. Twenty-five persons were arrested, including two Roman Catholic priests and a Lutheran minister.

Six other persons were being sought. Acting on information supplied by an informer, FBI agents nabbed eight persons at the Camden, N.J., draft office early Sunday and arrested 12 others elsewhere in the city.

Government warrants for the arrest of six other persons on conspiracy charges were issued.

In Buffalo, N.Y., an FBI agent making a security check on the Post Office building Saturday discovered a break-in at the Selective Service office. Three young men and two women were arrested as they attempted to carry draft records away in canvas bags.

Although the FBI would not comment on a possible link between the Buffalo and Camden arrests, a Justice Department spokesman in Washington said: "I'm sure there will be an investigation to see if the two are related."

The informant told the FBI that plans for the Camden break-in included the use of nine cars and a van spotted around the Post Office building, in which the draft office is located.

The FBI said the eight-member burglary team, which the informant said had been picked at a meeting on Aug. 14, arrived at the Post Office in the van, put up a ladder and climbed to the second floor fire escape to avoid a burglar alarm on the ground floor.

Some draft records had been destroyed by the intruders, the FBI said, and others had been stuffed into mail bags and lowered to the ground from the fifth floor before the arrests were made.

The six men and two women arrested in the Post Office building were equipped with binoculars, two way radios, pry bars and flashlights with the lenses taped to emit a thin beam of light, agents said.

The three young men and two women arrested at gunpoint in Buffalo were barefoot and clad in dark shirts and shorts, the FBI said. In addition, all exposed skin had been smeared with charcoal.

They were charged with theft and the destruction of government property.

The 20 arrested at Camden were charged with conspiracy, theft and destruction of government records, violation of the Selective Service Act of 1967 and breaking and entering.

U.S. Magistrate Charles Rudd set bail and recognizance bonds for the 20 ranging from $5,000 to $150,000.

In Buffalo, U.S. Magistrate Edmund F. Maxwell set bail ranging from $15,000 to $35,000 for the five arrested there.

In arraignment proceedings at Camden on Sunday, the government said the raid on the draft office in the Post Office building there had been planned for five months.

To Set Goal

A goal will be set and final approval of each agency's request will be made at a meeting of the Pitt County United Fund board of directors tonight.

The meeting will be held in the Wachovia Bank Board Room at 7:45 p. m., according to William Glidewell, president.

Surprising Strength In The Dollar

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar showed unexpected strength today as Europe's foreign exchanges opened after a week-long shutdown brought on by President Nixon's new monetary policies.

While the dollar eased in such European markets as London, Zurich and Brussels, the declines were relatively minor. Dealers were cautious and turnover was relatively light, as some of the experts had predicted. Uncertainty was the reason.

For the first time in 27 years, the exchanges were operating without an internationally agreed set of rules. This was because the dollar had been cut loose from gold, and the American currency had been the basis of the international agreement.

In London, the pound sterling bought between $2.44 and $2.46, a cut in the value of the American currency of about 3 per cent. The last quotation before President Nixon's action cutting the ties between the dollar and gold was $2.4194 at the close of business Aug. 13.

Dealers said trading was quiet and hesitant. "No one is at all certain just where things will go," one dealer said.

Uncertainty about the European markets inhibited trading on the Tokyo exchange, where the market closed before the European markets opened because of the time difference. Trading was calm, and the Bank of Japan bought only about $10 million, compared to hundreds of millions absorbed on most days after President Nixon's bombshell announcement. The dollar sold at 357.50 yen, down only slightly from the official rate of 360.

Japanese government spokesmen continued to maintain that the yen would not be revalued, but uncertainty pushed prices on the Tokyo stock exchange down again. The exchange index closed at 160.55, down 4.19 per cent, but trading was only moderate.

In Frankfurt, which has had a free market since the monetary crisis last May, the dollar fell back to about the level it held on Aug. 13—3.4250 marks compared with 3.4225. This indicated a sharp strengthening of the dollar in West Germany compared to the rate of 3.3875 marks that banks and travel agencies were giving tourists at the close of business on Friday.

Frankfurt dealers said trading was very slow.

Put Finishing Touches On Berlin Accord

BERLIN (AP) — The Big Four ambassadors to Germany met for the 33rd time today in an attempt to put the finishing touches on a Berlin agreement insuring Western access to the divided city.

It appeared that U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Rush and the British, French and Soviet ambassadors had completed their drafting in six sessions in the last two weeks, and their governments had given them the green light to conclude their work.

At stake are such things as easier access to and from West Berlin, the movement of West Berliners across the wall into East Berlin, the West German political presence in West Berlin, representation of the West Berliners abroad and establishment of Soviet consulate in West Berlin.

The four envoys have been working on a so-called umbrella agreement, and the East and West Germans would work out the details. With speculation mounting that this would be the last meeting in the series that began 17 months ago, allied sources cautioned that whatever resulted would have to be referred to the various capitals for consideration.

It was also pointed out that details of any agreement would have to be worked out by the East and West Germans, and these negotiations could prove difficult.

Unconfirmed German accounts said the Russians have agreed to share responsibility for civilian traffic in and out of West Berlin with the other three powers, but the word guarantee was said to be missing from the draft agreement.

The West has been seeking a Berlin access guarantee, Soviet endorsement of West Berlin's economic ties to West Germany and West German representation of West Berliners abroad.

DMZ Scene Of New Air Blows

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers flew nearly 20 more strikes just below the demilitarized zone today, and South Vietnamese infantrymen reported finding bodies of 76 North Vietnamese killed by earlier B52 raids.

Despite the heavy raids along the northern frontier, the South Vietnamese Command reported three more North Vietnamese rocket and mortar attacks on forward bases below the DMZ and two other shellings in the northern provinces. But a military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said there were no casualties.

Hien said a company from the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division found bodies of 76 North Vietnamese soldiers about 15 miles south of the DMZ in an area where B52 bombers hit earlier. He said the infantrymen also found nine machine guns, four rocket launchers and 10 assault rifles.

The spokesman reported only one ground action in the area below the DMZ, a fight near Fire Base Alpha 4. Hien said government troops killed four North Vietnamese and suffered two men killed and 14 wounded.

The U.S. Command announced that three American fighter-bombers attacked anti-aircraft and missile sites inside North Vietnam Sunday in two separate strikes. A communiqué said results of the strikes were not known, but the American planes were not damaged.

The strikes were the 50th and 51st "protective reaction" attacks reported in North Vietnam this year.

The U.S. planes hit at gun and missile sites 38 and 115 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone, military spokesmen said. Two of the U.S. planes were on a bombing mission over Laos when they were fired upon by anti-aircraft guns inside North Vietnam, spokesmen said. The third plane also was flying a mission over Laos and attacked when it detected by electronic means that a North Vietnamese missile site was tracking it with radar preparatory to firing, the U.S. Command said.

The U.S. Command also reported that American troop strength in Vietnam was reduced another 2,800 men last week to 220,100 men, the lowest since February 1966.

Geo. Wallace Sees 'Excellent Chance' In 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace says he thinks he will have "an excellent chance" if he runs for President again next year and "the least we could do is tie up the election to determine who would become President."

Wallace, still noncommittal on whether he will run, said Sunday that "one way to make me run or consider running more so" is for the Nixon administration to allow massive busing of pupils to continue in the nation's schools.

The governor, who carried five states as a third party candidate in the 1968 presidential election, appeared on NBC's "Meet The Press" television show. He was reminded of a statement by the Rev. Donald Jackson of Buffalo, N.Y., a black minister who said he worked for Wallace in 1968 and would like to be considered as a vice presidential running mate next year if Wallace gets into the campaign.

Asked about the possibility of a Negro running with him, Wallace said he would "consider anybody who wants to run on my ticket ... that means red, black, yellow or white."

The governor said he plans to issue more antibusing orders for Alabama schools like those he has handed down in the past two weeks to challenge the Nixon administration and the federal courts on busing. Repeatedly he has said the President has come out against busing and, "I'm trying to help him carry out his wishes."

Wallace said Sunday that if his executive orders are set aside by the federal courts and busing is permitted to continue, "then we will have to obey whatever the courts say."

"But," he added, "a political reckoning day will come. We will have some political disobediences in 1972 because I think that that's where we are going to solve this matter, politically."

And, he said, "If Mr. Nixon doesn't stop this busing, he's going to have a tough time in the southern part of the United States."

Wallace said he has in his recent executive orders that if the President really means what he said about busing, all he has to do is to stop the attorney general and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) from going into the courts and asking for busing orders.

The White House has said the President already has given such instructions to avoid busing except where necessary and that some government officials may lose their jobs if they fail to carry out the President's policy.

Pridgen-Pruit Vows Exchanged

NEWPORT — The wedding of Miss Anne McCarter Pruit and Clyde Earl Pridgen of Greenville was solemnized Sunday at 3:00 p.m. at the Saint James United Methodist Church. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leland Pruit of Newport, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full length gown of white silk organza and alencon lace styled with a lace banded neckline and full bishop sleeves ending in wide cuffs with tiny covered buttons. The fitted empire bodice extended into an A-line applique with re-embroidered alencon lace and bordered with a band of scalloped lace. The flowing detachable chapel train was bordered with re-embroidered appliques of alencon lace.

Her four tiered veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a Juliet cap covered with seed pearls. She carried a prayerbook covered in lace with a white orchid, French carnations and daisies showered with lace and satin streamers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Earl Pridgen of Swepsonville.

The Rev. Peleg D. Midgett officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Edith Lockey of Newport, organist, and Mrs. William E. Travis of Norlina, sister of the bridegroom, soloist.

Mrs. Douglas Ray Whiteside of Newport was maid of honor. She was attired in a formal length Sylvia Ann Original gown. The lilac organza bodice featured puff sleeves and a high roll collar. The empire waistline was defined with a matching tie-band which overlapped the printed organza skirt.

She wore a picture hat of lilac horsehair braid with scattered appliques of darker lilac flowers. The velvet lilac ribbon which encircled the open crown featured a bow with flowing streamers. She carried a white basket filled with summer flowers and matching streamers of satin ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Carl Gaskill Pruitt of Williams AFB, Ariz., sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. David Briley and Miss Glenda Cruise, both of Greenville, Miss Willada Bailey of Newport, Mrs. J. R. Jones of Kinston, and Mrs. Tony Summer of Wallace.

They were dressed identical to the matron of honor.

Miss Nancy Ellen Pruit of Williams AFB, Ariz., niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of lilac organza styled identically as those worn by the bridesmaids. Her headdress was of a matching lilac satin cluster of ribbon with flower streamers. She carried a white basket with daisies, sea foam static and rose petals.

The mother of the bride selected a formal length floor gown of worsted silk in dior blue with a jeweled neckline and fitted princess lines. She wore matching accessories and a white orchid.

The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a formal floor length gown of pink worsted silk with a jeweled rehr collar and fitted princess lines. She wore a white orchid.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Capt. Carl Gaskill Pruitt of Williams AFB, Ariz., brother of the bride, Larry Mallard, David Briley, Tommy Nelson and Gary Hess, all of Greenville, and John Seitter of Morehead City.

For a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the bride changed into a dacron ensemble of chocolate brown and off white with matching accessories. Her corsage was an orchid lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is employed by the Greenville City Schools as a second grade teacher at Eastern Elementary School.

The bridegroom served with the U.S. Air Force and is now a student at East Carolina University.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride given by her parents.

As guests arrived they were greeted by Valverta Garner and Johnny Thrower. Mr. and Mrs. Moses Howard introduced guests to the receiving line.

Guests were then invited into the dining room by Mrs. Clarence Smith of Camp Lejeune and Mrs. Vance Forrester of Burlington.

The reception table was covered with a scalloped white cloth and centered with an arrangement of Baker's fern, shasta daisies, asters and sea foam static in a silver bowl flanked by two three branch candelabra which held burning tapers.

Pouring punch were Mrs. John Thrower and Mrs. John Tomlinson. After the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slice of cake, Mrs. Valverta Garner and Mrs. Paul Beachem served wedding cake to the guests.

Miss Paula Beachem and Miss Phyllis Reim invited guests into the gift room, where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Gibbie Sanderson of Morehead City. Mrs. Carl Gaskill of Beaufort, grandmother of the bride, was hostess at large.

Mrs. Richard Briggs presided at the bride's table which held the register and a portrait of the bride. Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Orville Gaskill of Beaufort, aunt and uncle of the bride.

Is Wonderful Man Still In Shock?

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Our mother is engaged to a wonderful man who tells her he is deeply in love with her.

This man's wife died a few months ago under tragic circumstances, and evidently it must have left quite a wound because all he can talk about is his dead wife. Two minutes after our mother introduces him to people, he tells them about his dead wife and shows them her picture.

This hurts mother because she feels if he really loved her he wouldn't be constantly talking about his dead wife. Once when mother was in his car, he drove to the cemetery to visit his wife's grave. My mother had no idea where they were going until they got there.

Do you think this man really loves our mother? Or could he just be very lonely? WE CARE

DEAR WE: I suspect the man hasn't yet recovered from the shock of his wife's death. It's difficult to believe he could be "deeply in love" with your mother, and talk constantly about his dead wife. If I were your mother I wouldn't rush into anything.

DEAR ABBY: A 21-gun salute to the secretary who has been on the job for 20 years with no trouble. I wish there were more like her.

As a boss of an insurance company office I would like to say a few things to all secretaries who pull a sour face when the boss gets a phone call from his wife:

(1) I am a firm believer in "what's mine is hers, and what's hers is mine," so remember, it is also my wife's money paying you.

(2) If my wife calls and asks me what I want for dinner, or asks my advice concerning a problem with the children, I am not annoyed. She is trying to do her job, the same as you are trying to do yours.

(3) If my wife calls just to say she is thinking of me, that's all right, too. Her phone call is just as refreshing to me as your coffee break is to you.

And finally, please get over the idea all bosses have wives who don't understand them. My wife understands me perfectly; I love her and our children, and there are millions of other bosses just like me. THE BOSS

DEAR BOSS: All right, but don't holler. You sound burned up. Are you?

SHERRIED CHICKEN

A top-of-the-range recipe.
3-pound broiler-fryer, cut up
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup butter
¼ cup heavy cream
¼ cup fat-free chicken stock
¼ cup sherry
Wash and drain chicken on paper toweling. Mix flour, salt and pepper; coat chicken with flour mixture. In a 12-inch skillet melt butter; add chicken and brown on both sides; cover skillet tightly and cook, turning as necessary, until tender—about 30 minutes. Remove chicken and keep hot. Tip skillet and spoon off most of fat. Add cream and stock to skillet and over low heat stir with a wooden spoon to get up brown particles. Stir in sherry; sauce will be thin. Serve chicken with sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Advance Planning Should Help

Advance planning by Governor Scott and legislative leaders concerning restructuring of the state's higher education system is certain to ease the task of the special legislative session slated for October 26.

It must not be expected that the question of restructuring will be a cut-and-dried issue when the legislature meets. It is probably too much even to hope that legislative committees or any other group can come up with a plan which will be endorsed by all segments of the state's higher education establishment before the special session convenes.

On the other hand, work on the matter of higher education restructure between now and late October can eliminate the necessity of a lengthy special session. Many points of controversy may be resolved at least at the committee level which should pave their way to resolution when the General Assembly reconvenes.

If further public hearings are necessary on the subject, perhaps they can be arranged in advance even if they are not actually held until the legislature convenes. The intervening period affords legislators who will make the final decision time to consider various alternatives open to them in the restructure matter.

Without considerable work in advance, the legislature could not be expected to come up with an intelligent and viable restructure plan in a few days or even a week. And most legislative leaders have expressed the hope the special session will not last much more than one week.

By renewing work on the restructure question now, Gov. Scott is setting the pace which will allow sufficient time for further careful consideration of this important matter before the legislature reconvenes.

Restructure of the state's higher education system is urgent if the state's colleges and universities are to meet the demands being made upon them. Restructure is urgently needed if the state is to afford its people the best possible dollar value for what it can afford to put into higher education year after year.

As he has done in past months, Gov. Scott is continuing to exert sound leadership in seeking to resolve this question which is of utmost importance to all North Carolinians.

Maybe Dreams Open Window?

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — This is a true story.

I tell it, names disguised but facts unaltered, as it was told to me by someone whose veracity and integrity is above question. What you make of it is up to you.

John Doe, Jr. lives in Raleigh. His parents live bothering you."

"I don't want to go to the ocean tomorrow. If I do, I'll never come back," he said.

"Oh, pshaw," the mother said. "You'll have a good time, and your daddy is counting on it. You'll be home before dark."

So he went. The next afternoon as he and his cousin played in the surf, a treacherous undertow caught him. He cried out desperately. His father, only a few yards away, could not reach him.

His body washed up on the sand five miles away next morning.

"After that, I'd be sitting with Mama in the porch swing about dusk in the summer and she'd start up with her arms outreached," our friend said.

"What's wrong, Mama?" I asked her. "I saw J. C. coming up the walk," she said. "I reached out to touch him and he went away."

"I tell you, that gave me a feeling I can't describe. It was like a cold wind on the back of your neck."

A Family Discussion

We talked about it in the family. Can dreams somehow bridge the gap between present and future, life and death, and bring glimpses of a world dimly sensed but unseen?

I said I didn't think so. "It isn't logical," I insisted. What these incidents show is the long arm of coincidence. We remember premonitions which come true and forget those that don't work out."

Besides, I said, if there were anything to it, everybody would be able to discern future events in dreams and not just a favored few.

Zesely didn't agree. "That's like saying if one person can be a champion swimmer, everybody can," he argued. "People are different in physical abilities. Why not in psychicability?"

His own experience made him a believer. Last summer he went to basketball camp. The dorm where he roomed had a vaguely familiar air. One night, the boys rolled empty soft drink cans down the hall until the counselors called them outside.

One burly counselor singled Zesely out. "You did it," he bullied. "Admit you did it."

The scene came back to him in a flash. Months before, he had dreamed the whole incident — the unjust accusation, his own denial, even the beetle-brown face of his accuser.

"Yes," Zesely said. "I believe there is more than we have dreamed of in the ability of the human mind to sense the unknown."

What do you think?

BRYAN HAISLIP

several states away. His paternal grandmother, a woman in her 90s but of alert and sensible mind, lives in another distant state.

Since her husband's death some 20 years ago, the elderly Mrs. Doe has had a recurring dream. In it she sees her deceased husband in the misty distance. She calls to him. He does not move or reply. Then she awakens.

Two weeks ago the dream returned. This time, her son stood beside her husband.

"Come to me, come to me," she called. Neither one moved or answered.

"Johnny, you come. Come to me," she implored her son. Again, there was no response from the two.

Reassurance At Dawn

She awoke distraught. The family comforted her. The son was in good health, they reassured her, recently retired from business and enjoying his new freedom.

Two days later, Joe Doe, Sr. and his wife ate dinner at their home and prepared to go out for the evening. Suddenly, Mrs. Doe became aware something was wrong. Her husband had difficulty speaking or moving. She called an ambulance.

He died soon after reaching the hospital.

Was the dream an inexplicable forewarning? Who can tell?

When I told the story in a group later, it stirred memories for one of those present.

She grew up in southeastern North Carolina, she said. It was her father's custom, when crops were laid by in late summer, to take her brother and a cousin to the beach for a day.

Foreboding At Evening

The night before the trip in his 16th summer, her brother moped silently about the kitchen. "What's the matter with you, J. C.?" the mother asked.

"If I tell, you'll laugh at me," he said.

"No, I won't," the mother said. "Tell me what's

Jackson Sets Himself Apart

By GREGG HERRINGTON

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, seeking to establish himself as the Democratic presidential hopeful who's different, is trying to drum up support these days in the South, West, union halls and Jewish communities.

With the nominating convention 11 months away, the field of Democrats anxious to challenge President Nixon next year is the largest in recent history. And Jackson, 59, a veteran of three decades in Congress, appears intent on setting himself apart.

So far, he is getting plenty of cooperation from other Democratic contenders who, unlike Jackson, have supported congressional efforts to force an end to the Vietnam war and aren't as likely to go along with his support of the antiballistic-missile system and other Pentagon requests for new weapons.

At Raleigh, N.C., cocktail party in his honor he told dozens of party workers and office holders he supports Nixon's Vietnam policy and is strong on national defense. "I'm neither a hawk nor a dove," he said. "I just don't want my country to become a pigeon."

Four days later he launched a new campaign theme as he told 1,300 New York State labor leaders that extremist Democrats could take over the party in 1972 and leave it in ruins for years.

Jackson said those "absolutists of the left" attend fashionable cocktail parties and tell 'snide jokes about 'hardhats' and 'ethnics' ... and regard the law-and-order issue as phony, demagogic and unclean." The speech drew warm applause.

His current strategy calls for repeating the anti-extremism theme and attacking "those who say 'law and order' is a code word for racism and repression."

Jackson, who is expected to announce formally his candidacy by mid-October, says he would enter presidential primary elections throughout the country but particularly in the South and West where he believes his stands on national defense are popular.

In recent weeks Jackson and campaign aides have visited Florida, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, New Mexico, New Hampshire, New York and Oregon.

American Jews will provide a bloc of support, Jackson hopes, thanks to his urgings for more U.S. aid to Israel. "Thank God, there's a great ally," Jackson told a Raleigh news conference. "They can take care of anyone over there except for Mother Russia."

While Jackson seems increasingly successful at separating himself from other Democratic hopefuls, his attacks on Nixon have centered on unemployment and inflation.

Following Nixon's economic message Sunday night that included a 90-day wage-price freeze, Jackson joined most other Democrats in calling it "too late." But, Jackson told a Dallas audience, he will work in the Senate to help Nixon achieve his objectives.

In the Senate, Jackson is described as a consistent lawmaker who does his homework and is a staunch supporter of liberal domestic issues. He boasts he has voted for all civil rights measures before the Senate.

But Jackson's support of most Pentagon weapons requests and Nixon's Vietnam policy "so long as the war isn't broadened" leave him unpopular with a large segment of the Democratic Party.

Former Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein of New York now head of Americans for Democratic Action, said last week Jackson's nomination next year would be suicide for the party — the same thing Jackson says will happen if what he calls the radical left takes over.

Some observers here predict Jackson will have just enough support from party conservatives by next July's Democratic National Con-

Strength For Today

THE CHURCH'S BUSINESS
Some people will say that the Church has no business meddling in business affairs and that it ought to stick to its business of preaching and teaching the gospel.

We can be pretty sure, however, that there is something wrong with our business affairs if we can't carry them into our Christian belief. When people rig up some sort of scheme whereby they can leave their religion within the Church itself and walk out on the pavement and live another kind of life, they are definitely mistaken. The Church is not full of hypocrites. It is full of honest, aspiring people who frequently fall but who definitely get up and press forward, then they are not religious in the true sense of the term and might as well face the fact. Religion has to fit into the whole of life, and if it does not do so, then there is either something the matter with our religion or with our life.

The Church does not meddle when it gets angry over certain injustices in life and tries to do something about them. That something they try to do is not the whole of religion, but it is a definite part of religion. There are two parts to The Great Commandment. One is that we must love God and the other is that we must love our neighbor as ourselves. Either one without the other is fragmentary — useless.

The latest thing in flying is, Group Discount Economy Fares. It seems that if you're a member of any kind of club which consists of 25 people or more, you get a group discount which can save you as much as $200 a person on a trip to Paris. To qualify for group travel, your club must have been in existence for six months before your departure date. It doesn't make any difference what the club is all about.

This latest sales scheme to sell airline tickets is bound to make everyone even more club-conscious than they are now, and many new clubs will be formed just for the sake of taking advantage of the low fare.

But because of this there can also be complications.

Let us say some people in Hollis, N.Y., where I used to live, form a club called the Public School 35 Alumni Assn., and they get 25 members to join. They meet faithfully every week for six months, and now the day before their departure has arrived. Everyone is very excited, everyone, that is,

A delegation is sent to Buzzy's house, where he's sitting in the living room.

"I don't like Sheldon."

"For heaven's sake! Nobody likes Sheldon, but that's no reason to cancel out now."

"Sheldon's always making fun of me at the meetings. In fact he always made fun of me even when I was in Public School 35."

"But, Buzzy, the whole idea of the club is to get an airfare reduction. We can't let personal feelings get involved."

"That's what you say. But it so happens I joined the club because I always wanted to belong to a club. I believe in this club. It could become something wonderful. But not with Sheldon in it."

"Don't you understand, Buzzy? If you don't go with us we can't go. You're the 25th member. We've worked and slaved for six months just for tomorrow. You can't let the

By ELMER ROESSNER

When the wage-price freeze ends Nov. 14, there will probably be another freeze. However, it will be considerably modified. In fact, the present freeze will undergo many alterations by that time.

The Administration is under pressure from both labor and Congress. It was no accident that President Nixon announced the freeze when he did. Congress was in recess. If he had announced it while Congress was in session, every detail of his plan would have been subject to Congressional review.

The Democrats control Congress. They and dissenting Republicans would have no desire to see Mr. Nixon become a second Franklin Roosevelt. There would be denunciatory speeches and restrictive legislation. Congress, as it has demonstrated, has power to override a veto.

But as it is, Mr. Nixon has a month in which to work without Congressional challenge.

Labor's Unhappiness

He is, of course, being challenged elsewhere. Labor is protesting the wage freeze and the no-strike appeal. Importers, dealers in foreign cars and beverages against the tariff boost. However, if labor is angry, its wives and all other wives will probably be happy to see the ever-rising cost of living slowed down if not arrested.

Meanwhile, there will be constant adjustments in the rules of the game. Where freezes are manifestly unjust, exceptions and changes will be made. Changes will also be made where pressures are greatest.

By the time Congress resumes, the rough points will be sanded down a bit. However, Congress will then generate its own pressures. And the adjustments will continue.

Despite criticism and protests, Mr. Nixon will probably win and hold public support. Americans like bold leaders and if the new isolationism creates more jobs, the public will tolerate the freeze.

Comes November— However, it will probably be necessary to continue most of the features of the Nixon plan after the 90 days. Otherwise, there will be an explosive rise in prices and turbulence in labor. All the pent-up hunger for more money will explode in demands for more.

Some of this is likely to become evident before the end of the 90 days, unless it is made clear that there will be a continuation of the freeze. As the date approaches, there will be more attempts to push up prices and to gain pay increases. These efforts to circumvent the plan will signal both the Administration and the public that a continuation of the freeze is necessary.

Of course, anything can happen. Mr. Nixon has asked Congress for considerable legislation to make his plan effective. Congress can balk. It can even upset the entire plan. Other nations can bring pressure on the U.S. to modify certain aspects of the plan. But as of today, the chances are that Congress will cooperate and enough of the plan will succeed to hold popular support.

Some Inconsistencies In Reaction To U.S. Moves

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Is there something inconsistent in the reactions to the new economic game plan of lower taxes, a floating dollar, higher import duties and wage-price freeze? It seems so. And while some of the inconsistencies are more apparent than real, some of them are real indeed. Some foreign criticism, for example, contradicts itself. For several years some foreign governments, France especially, had demanded that the United States get its house in order by slowing inflation, boosting exports and reducing its balance of payments deficit. But now that an attempt has been made to meet those demands some foreign business and government officials are furious. They realize that the only way we can correct our deficit is to reduce their surpluses of payments.

Didn't they realize this all the time? Of course, says Gaylord Freeman, chairman of the First National Bank of Chicago, who completed a detailed study of the situation just weeks before the crisis. "They were indulging themselves in criticism of the United States," he said, "but no nation except Germany came forward to help. Until May they had hoped that some magic could be found to reduce the pain. They urged us to get out payments into surplus, but none of them offered to turn their own surpluses into deficits."

Now the United States may force them to do so. Foreign nations will find it more difficult to sell to the biggest consumer market in the world, the United States. And U.S. goods should have an easier time in foreign markets. Domestically, many people think they observe an inconsistent attitude on the part of George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, and Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson. Earlier this month, Meany commented that "the one way, the only way, I know to stop inflation at this time is by imposition of controls."

At that time the Nixon administration was standing pat, arguing that the economy was responding to less extreme measures and that wage and price controls not only weren't needed but would be disruptive. "Our thinking is that wage and price controls don't work in a peace economy," said Hodgson to a meeting of the AFL-CIO earlier this month. Now Hodgson is defending controls and Meany is highly critical of the measures taken by the administration and, in fact, refuses to lend his backing to them. Hodgson's position is inconsistent. It is a complete reversal from his earlier stand, a posture he shares with the entire Nixon administration. But Meany's office maintains that his position is entirely consistent. "There is a difference between a freeze and controls," a spokesman noted. "Controls have an effective enforcement mechanism and a mechanism also to resolve inequities. A freeze has neither."

A freeze should also be applied across the board, he said, to include profits, interest and dividends, as well as wages, prices and rents. "It should include executive goodies also, such as expense accounts," he said, noting that the present freeze also excludes stock prices, capital gains and land speculation.

Herrington . . .

vention to cancel out support for the most liberal candidates. They include Sens. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Birch Bayh of Indiana and Fred Harris of Oklahoma and possibly New York Mayor John V. Lindsay. In that case, the observers believe, the nomination of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine or Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, each considered at the party's center, would be assured.

Jackson entered public life at age 26 when he won elections as Snohomish County Wash., prosecutor. Riding in the back of a jet on his recent trip through North Carolina, Jackson said "the toughest thing I ever had to do" was send a man to the gallows.

But, he added, he thinks capital punishment is necessary and complained about "people jumping on the bandwagon of current rhetoric and saying capital punishment 'is no deterrent to crime'."

In 1940 Jackson won his first of six House terms and in 1952 was elected to the Senate.

Before a group of Charlotte, N.C., businessmen he noted his chairmanship of the Senate Interior Committee and said he believes in "continued economic development and more jobs as well as a clean environment."

He is for school busing, Jackson said, if it means a better education for the children and students don't have to spend too much time being transported. He supports the FBI but thinks the Subversive Activities Control Board should be abolished.

LPN Class Has Banquet

The first graduating class of License Practical Nurses held their banquet at Parkers Restaurant on Friday night.

A color scheme of white and gold was carried out. On the speakers table was an arrangement of white mums and gold chrysanthemums. The place cards were a copy of nursing hats, white with a gold band.

Dr. Emmett J. Walsh, urologist from Pitt County Memorial Hospital, was the keynote speaker for the evening.

A gift of brass candlesticks and a white linen table cloth was presented for the next classes to use at their capping ceremonies.

Mrs. Janice Leggett and Judith Kuykendall, instructors for the 12 month course, were each presented a silver Revere bowl.

President Peggy Roberson presented Mrs. Leggett with a gavel for the incoming presidents to use in conducting their meetings.

Among the guests present were Jack Richardson, hospital administrator, C. D. Ward, retired administrator, Miss Jean Owens, director of nursing, Mrs. Helen Abbott, assistant director of nursing.

Those attending from Pitt Technical Institute were George McRorie, director of student personnel, Edward B. Bright, dean of instruction and John Guy, director of faculty.

Store Robbed

A quantity of merchandise was reported taken from Saigon Sam's Army Surplus Store at 626 Albemarle Ave. in a 1:57 a.m. break-in today. Officers said from 12 to 14 young persons were seen coming from the building carrying merchandise. A search of the area failed to uncover any of the alleged thieves immediately following the incident.

Included among items missing were six machetes, a dozen hunting knives, eight night sticks, one pair of hand cuffs, 11 pairs of new boots, a number of pairs of old boots, and several shirts and hats. Investigation of the incident is continuing.

rest of us down."

"That's the trouble with all of you. You think more about your trip than you do about the club. But the club means more to me than the trip. Sheldon knows that. That's why he hates me."

"Sheldon doesn't hate you."

"Well, he's always knocking down my ideas. I thought it would be nice if we had a clubhouse where we could meet, and maybe even a golf course, and we could have dinner dances every week and really be a club."

"Maybe we can, Buzzy, after we all come back from Europe. We could talk about it then."

"Sure we can talk about it, but Sheldon will veto it. He's always against everything I'm for."

"But you don't have to travel with him. All you have to do is take the same plane with him. Once you get to Paris you're on your own."

"You mean we won't travel as a club?"

"No. We don't have to. We just have to be a club to get the fare reduction."

"Well what good is that if you've got a club and you don't want to see each other when you go abroad? What's the sense of having a club? I thought we had some ideals. That's why I joined. I thought we believed in the same things. But apparently I was wrong. I don't want to be on the same plane with people who don't put the club first."

"You're right, Buzzy, absolutely right. The rest of us have been selfish, thinking of ourselves instead of the club. Sheldon is the one who has blinded us to the facts. I'll tell you what we'll do. As soon as we get back we'll vote Sheldon out of the club."

"He won't like it."

"Too bad for Sheldon. We have to think of the club, not of any individual in it. The club is bigger than all of us."

"You can say that again."

Lawyer Sought In San Quentin Breakout Attempt

By JEANNINE YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer
SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco Chronicle reported today that an Oakland attorney is being sought for questioning in the investigation into Saturday's bloody breakout try at San Quentin Prison in which Soledad Brother George Jackson and five others died.

The paper said prison authorities identified him as Stephen Mitchell Bingham, 29, and said he was the lawyer who visited Jackson Saturday afternoon. The Chronicle said prison authorities reported that Jackson, minutes after leaving Bingham in the visiting room, produced a 9mm pistol and launched his abortive escape attempt.

Bruce Bales, Marin County district attorney, confirmed that Bingham was being sought, the Chronicle said. Bales would not say precisely why. The Chronicle said Bingham is a grandson of the late Hiram Bingham who served as Connecticut governor and U.S. senator before his death in 1956.

The paper quoted prison sources as saying: "We know he (Jackson) was clean when he entered the visiting room—he underwent a skin search—and that on leaving he was not out of the sight of his guards. "And he was hot—he had a gun—when the guards were about to search him again." Prison officials say they now believe a San Quentin sergeant's concerned curiosity may have triggered Jackson into starting the escape try earlier than he and fellow convicts had planned.

The sergeant and Jackson were among six men killed Saturday in what prison officers call San Quentin's "blackest, bloodiest day." Sgt. Jere Graham was shot in the forehead when he went inside the maximum security adjustment center apparently to check on why other guards had failed to emerge. Associate Warden James Park said Sunday.

Jackson, 29, brandishing a foreign-made pistol, was cut down by rifle fire from a guard tower as he and another black convict dashed into a sunlit courtyard toward a 20-foot wall, prison authorities said.

Four other victims—two guards and two convicts—were found covered with blood in Jackson's cell, some with their throats cut. All but Jackson were white.

Prison officials earlier reported that all five white victims, including Graham, had been slashed to death.

Tel Aviv Is Being Given Extra Color

By MARCUS ELIASON
TEL AVIV (AP) — They're painting the town red. And blue and yellow, green and orange.

It's part of an effort to brighten the squat gray skyline of Tel Aviv by splurging it in psychedelia.

The idea came from a municipal Beautify-Tel Aviv committee, after complaints from Tel Aviv's 390,000 residents that their city, the largest in Israel, was an eyesore.

Artists and architects were consulted, and soon a small army of house painters with outsize brushes was put to work.

First target was Tel Aviv's seedy seafont, a bastion of ugliness described by one newspaper as so shabby that it should be kept off-limits to tourists.

Now the water front buildings are being daubed with bright slashes and spheres.

Also in line for a paint job are the bomb shelters of Ramat Aviv, a northern suburb.

"We're going to have the world's most beautiful bomb shelters," said one artist.

The city's sprawling vegetable market has been decorated with pop art splashed on concrete walls.

"We are going to color every dark, ugly spot in the city," said a municipality spokesman.

But not everywhere is the psychedelic operation readily accepted.

One of the main opponents was the French embassy, whose building is on the water front.

"We told them we didn't mind them painting our building," said an embassy spokesman. "But we told them: not in a fancy way. No bright reds and yellows. After all, we are an embassy. I am sure the Israeli parliament would also object to being painted psychedelically."

The embassy has remained untouched.

Transportation 'Crisis' Said Largely Neglected

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI)—Transportation in the United States is in a mess. Everybody knows it and everybody talks about it and swears at it.

in the view of John Burby, with wall-to-wall traffic snarls, overloaded and unsafe highways, failing railroads and transportation-choked cities.

United States and the Bureau of Public Roads estimates there will be 200 million cars, trucks and buses on the road by the year 2000. Pessimists say the number might be as high as 350 million.

to work at speeds from 5 to 65 miles an hour.

American Motion Sickness Or Why You Can't Get There From Here" (Little, Brown).

Burby's real interest in transportation began when he found, after several years away from the newspaper business, that he could not get a newspaper job in Washington in 1967 and instead went to work for the newly formed Department of Transportation. Looking back he said:

about transportation that the red means stop and green means go. I tried to find some primer material. But all I could find was 'The little Engine That Could,' then a big gap, then books by systems analysts for systems analysts.

transportation as an entity, the lack of central planning and coordination."

The crime is nothing is being done about it.

Neglect of the American transportation system is one of the great failures of our time.

—Between the hours of 7:15 and 8:15 a.m. on weekdays about 40 million Americans are on some highway trying to get

This and much more Burby details in a book, "The Great Highway builders think in terms of motor vehicles, railroad men about railroads and so on. No one thinks about transportation as a whole."

"I didn't know any more

"The lack of material on transportation is a reflection of the lack of thinking about

"Some of it is dangerous," he said. "For instance, the railroads are in trouble—almost all the major lines except the Southern and Union Pacific. Certainly the eastern roads are, with the Penn Central already bankrupt, and four or five others waiting in line.

"Sometimes the difference between income and operating costs is made up by cutting maintenance. There was a big wreck in Indiana two or three years ago. The cause was a loose piece of track that would have cost $50 to repair.

"Highways in major metropolitan areas carry 2,000 cars in a lane designed for 1,500 and that doesn't help our highway accident tolls."

While he criticizes all facets of transportation for the national traffic snarl, his number one public enemy is the automobile.

"It's simply because the automobile is such a dear thing," Burby said. "People love cars."

The trouble is, he said, cars need road space and particularly in metropolitan areas it is becoming increasingly undesirable—and unfeasible—to build more roads, eat up more land needed for people, and for bearing taxes.

"New York is one of the cities that isn't going to build any more highways," he said. "Chicago, ditto. Both have all they can take. Los Angeles unfortunately can't stop—the whole city is built around highways.

"One of the major problems is that people have made decisions on where to locate homes, factories, office buildings, without worrying about what this will do to the transportation network. The transportation follows the building but it doesn't have to be that way. You can shape growth by the way you build transportation.

"There has to be national planning. I'm a Federalist, not a Nationalist. I'd hate to get to the point where the President of the United States comes to the people on Long Island and says, 'Sorry, this land next to your house is the best place for an airport.' But it could come to that unless there is study and planning."

Burby believes that nothing much will be done until people stop complaining to their wives and neighbors and begin demanding that those in charge do a better job.

Once the need for streamlining the transportation network is recognized, the next step will be to collect information, Burby said, and learning just what is needed where.

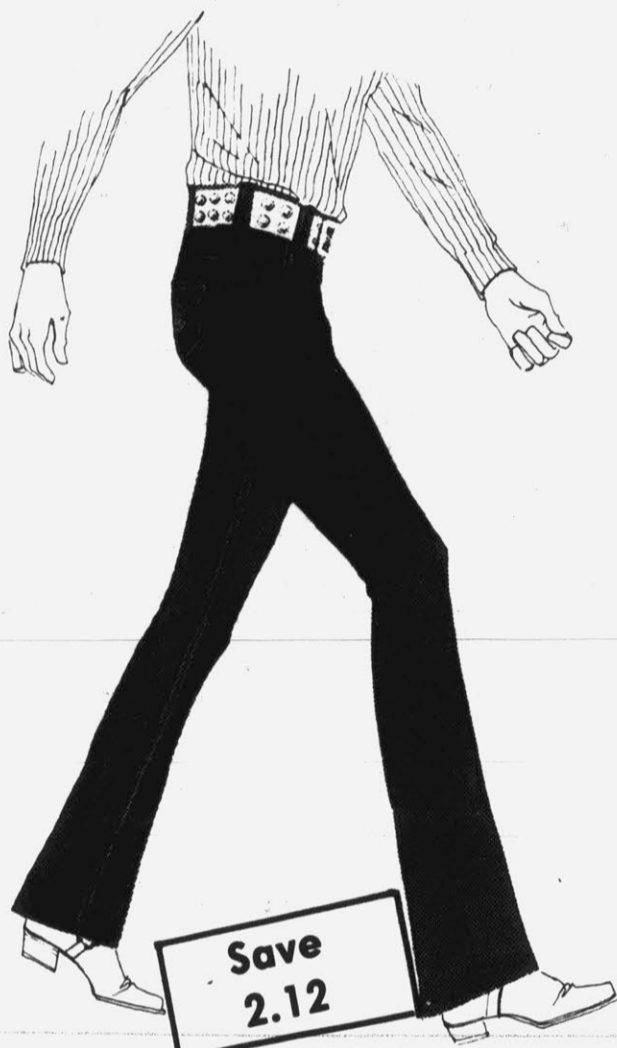

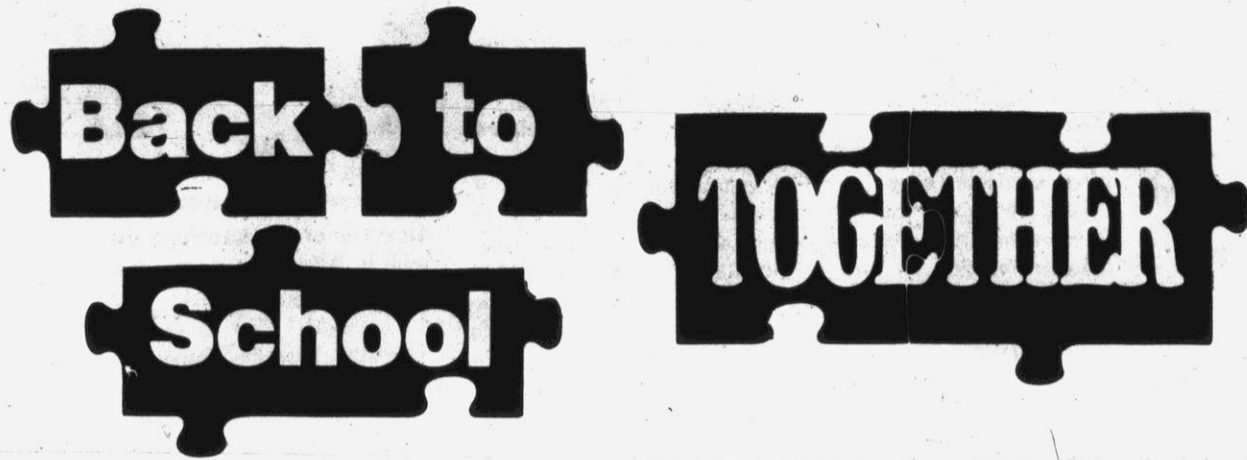

"The railroads are very bad, people say," Burby continued. "Well, there has never been a systems analysis of the railroads. They can't even say one part works well, another poorly and here's how to fix it. They don't even know where all their boxcars are every day. The railroads spend millions of dollars filing reports with the ICC (Interstate Commerce Commission) but it's no use, they're dealing with the wrong data.

"That's one of the places to begin—just to learn what we have in the way of transportation, where it works, where it doesn't, and what we need now and in the future."

Seek Donors For Operation Sunshine Wraps Up Program

The Randolph Emergency Fund, a non-profit organization here, is appealing for donations to cover funeral expenses of Mrs. Mary Louise Randolph, who died August 19.

Mrs. Randolph's survivors include 11 children, aged one to 19, a sister and a critically ill mother who live in Philadelphia, Pa., according to Moses Teel, president of the Fund. It is hoped that some $500 can be raised, he said. Anyone wishing to obtain further information may call 752-2536 or 752-5177.

MISS SUMMER SUNSHINE — Anita Daniels (left) is congratulated by Mrs. Arlene Hoot, director of the summer girls' activities program of which Miss Daniels was named the most outstanding participant.

Orientation Will Begin Tuesday

Orientation begins at Ayden Grafton High School Tuesday morning, August 31 and continues through Wednesday.

The schedule is as follows, according to William C. Wiggins, principal of the new consolidated school. Tuesday from 8:30 to 11:35 a.m. — senior orientation; Tuesday from 12:35 to 3:35 p.m. — junior orientation; Wednesday from 8:30 to 11:35 a.m. — sophomore orientation; and Wednesday from 12:35 to 3:35 p.m. — freshman orientation.

During these two orientation days, students are requested to provide their own transportation to and from school as the high school buses will not operate until Thursday, Wiggins said.

Operation Sunshine closed its summer program Friday, but will begin the fall program September 13, using a week-days-after-school and Saturday morning schedule.

Miss Jo An Dixon will direct the fall program, taking the reins from Mrs. Arlene Hoot. Some 35 girls have participated this summer in the activities program. They have visited Raleigh, Fort Macon and Atlantic Beach, the Kinston Airport, Bath, New Bern, and Cliffs of the Neuse.

They used Sheppard Memorial Library twice a week, toured other public places in Greenville, and were instructed in sewing, karate, music, table manners, child care, arts and crafts, cooking, and household techniques.

Each week a "Sunshine Girl of the Week" was chosen by a committee. The winners have been Janie Reddick, Darlene Payton, Myra Nelson, Mary Carmon, Cecelia Worthington, Anita Daniels, Bernadette Payton, Jackie Atkinson, Cheryl Clemons, Kathy Carr, and Lora Arrington.

The last day of the summer program one girl from the weekly Sunshine Girl was named Miss Summer Sunshine. She is Miss Anita Daniels. Mrs. Hoot said Anita was chosen on

Citadel Coach May Be Glad To See End Of Season

By WOODY PEELE
(One of a series)

The 1971 football season is drawing close, and Coach Red Parker of The Citadel may be glad to see it.

Or then again, he may not. "I alternate in feeling we'll be real good and in feeling we'll be real bad," he said.

"I think our defensively secondary, our offensive receivers and tackles will be good," he said. "I thought our running backs would be good, too, but we've had some problems there."

Parker lost heavily in this position through graduation, and his replacements are largely untested.

"Our problems will be our linebackers, quickness in the defensive line, and possibly in the strength of our interior line on offense," Parker added.

"I think we'll have more depth, and I look for more consistency in our passing this year. Our punter can be pretty good, but he is a little slow in getting the ball away. Place kicking should not be a problem."

At the quarterback position, Parker looks for improvement. "We felt that if we got by 1970 we'd be okay because of so many sophomores in our lineup. This year, we'll have few sophomores in our starting lineup," Parker said.

But one of these may be the quarterback. Currently he's looking at 6-1, 185-pound Harry Lynch, whom Parker feels is a "Brilliant runner, with an extremely strong arm."

"If he starts," the coach said, "we may be stronger later. He's a gambler, and the type of fellow the kids rally around." But getting over being a sophomore may tell the tale.

Joining Lynch at quarterback is the returning starter from last year, John Rosa, but he is not likely to see action early because of an injury. So it looks like Terry Widie is the toughest hurdle for Lynch right now.

Also in the backfield will be Jon Hall, 5-9, 185, at one of the running backs. "He's going to be a fine one," Parker said. With him will be either Bill Paine, Bob Carson or Gordon Lunsford.

With the "Citadel veer" offense, Parker needs a good quarterback, however, and around him revolves the Bulldog offense.

The receivers appear to be Brian Baima, Billy Watson, Champ Reiley and Tom Skordal, any two of them breaking into the starting lineup. Bryon Hodgins is the best bet for the tight end job.

Joe Croman returns at center, with vets Pat Hutto and Don Pope at the guards. Parker feels the offensive tackle positions are critical, but sees much potential for Gerald Engleman and Mike Davitt.

On defense, The Citadel had heavy losses, and except for the secondary, Parker rates it as inexperienced.

At ends, he looks for Allen Melton and Neal Rumble to provide the punch, with Kyle Reiser at middle guard. Tony Cicoria and Terry Marinko held the tackle positions during spring drills.

But the question in the line is still there in how fast these men come around, Parker notes.

At linebackers, Jeff Martin and Tommy Rhodes appear set, and Parker feels both can do a good job. The secondary sports Jeff Varnadoe, Bob Freeman and Lee Sheppard back from last year, with George Coleman taking the other position.

James Hughes and Rusty Simpson are handling the punting, but both have problems, Hughes of consistency, and Simpson in speed. Simpson will probably also handle the placements.

"We'll be better," Parker feels, "but whether we'll be better enough to be competitive will be up to how much we improve on our weaknesses. We will score, and the triple option has been a real benefit to us." There won't be any room for mistakes, however, if The Citadel is to rank among the best in the league. They open against defending champion William & Mary, and the best thing about that is that the game is in Charleston. They take on Bucknell and Boston University the next two weeks, then travel to meet East Carolina.

VMI follows, along with Presbyterian, Chattanooga, Illinois State, Richmond, Furman and Davidson.

"We'll put a lot into our opener," Parker said. But at the same time he feels that the conference is going to be more balanced this year, so no one need look far ahead. "Our non-conference schedule is more suitable for us this year, not as tough as in the past," he added.

But for now, Red Parker is looking forward to September 11 and his meeting with the Indians. Just so he can see how good — or bad — the Bulldogs are.

Oilers Have Only Changed A Little

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Practically the only thing that hasn't changed about the Houston Oilers is the oil derrick emblem on the sides of their helmets.

And from the shakeup new head coach Ed Hughes has undertaken, even that may not be safe.

Last season's 3-10-1 finish must have told Oiler owner Bud Adams something. The Oilers have been revamped from general manager to trainer.

Hughes replaced Wally Lemm as head coach, brought in almost a completely new staff and fell right in with the overhaul. He's shown no quarter in making trades he feels will help mold the Oilers into a fighting outfit.

Hughes biggest shocker was trading the team's most exciting player, Jerry Levias to the San Diego Chargers for defensive tackles Ron Billingsley and Gene Ferguson.

Many fans gasped. Levias was about the only thing they had to cheer about in 1970. "I just bought my season ticket," one fan said, "and the only reason was to see Jerry Levias."

But Hughes reasoned that excitement didn't always win football games. He needed to fill

Cuba Slips By U.S. Team; Will Play In Olympics

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba beat the United States 3-1 Sunday night to become champion of the North-Central American and Caribbean volleyball tournament and play in the 1972 Olympic Games in Munich, Radio Havana reported.

The United States took the first set 15-8 before a capacity crowd of 20,000 at the Sports Coliseum in Havana, the Miami-monitored broadcast said.

In the second set, Cuba came from behind, scoring seven consecutive points to win 15-10, the radio said. Cuba smashed an uncoordinated U.S. defense to take the third set 15-6, according to the broadcast.

Despite a great offensive by Larry Wendell of the United States, Cuba took the fourth set 15-8, the radio said.

The Cuban volleyball team defeated the United States for the gold medal in the Pan American Game held recently in Cali, Colombia.

The Havana tournament started Tuesday, ending Sunday night with Cuba and the United States both going into the playoff with three straight victories.

Cuba's victory left the United States in second place and Mexico third.

$200,000 Pinehurst Championship To Be Held This Week

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and other top professionals begin shaking golf's money tree Wednesday at Pinehurst in the $200,000 U. S. Professional Match Play championship.

First prize is $35,000.

The tournament, the first of its kind on the pro tour since 1958, pairs players in the competition. Half the field will be eliminated the first day, half of those survivors the second day and so on.

The championship is Sunday over the 6,973-yard, par-72 Country Club of North Carolina course. The winner of each match each day will be determined by the lowest 18-hole score instead of the number of holes won.

The 64 competitors are either leaders in the pro tour or have won at least one tournament this year.

Lee Trevino, the tour's leading money winner this year, will miss the tournament because of recent surgery. That leaves Nicklaus with top ranking in the tournament.

A system of seeding is employed so that the top eight players will play golfers ranked 32nd through 38th. The

Weiskopf Had To Beat Himself To Win Classic

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) —

Tom Weiskopf said the toughest guy he had to beat in the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic was himself.

Weiskopf shot rounds of 67-71-66-70-274; Hill 68-68-71-68-275, and Nicklaus 66-73-70-67-276.

"I won on sheer determination and desire and it was the most rewarding tournament I've ever won except maybe for my first," said the 28-year-old Ohioan after shooting a 14 under par 274 to win the $30,000 first prize by one stroke over Dave Hill and two better than Jack Nicklaus.

"I proved something to myself," said Weiskopf, who after taking a double bogey and a triple bogey on the last two holes at Sutton, Mass., a week ago, almost decided to forget tournament golf.

He recalls having second thoughts that quitting the tour would be the easy way out and not the right thing to do. So, he packed his clubs and came to Whitmarsh Valley Country Club for the Philadelphia tournament.

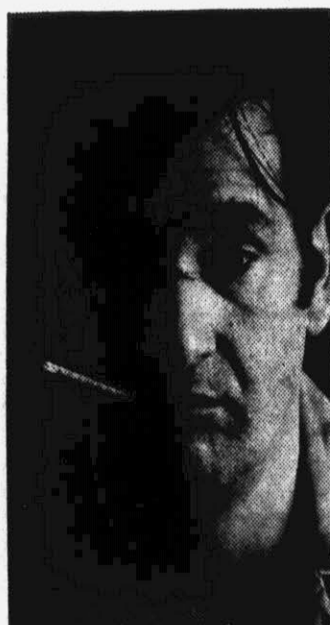

The crucial hole for Weiskopf was the 485 yard par five 17th. Hill hit that green in two and rolled in a three foot putt for an Eagle to tie Weiskopf at 13 under par. Hill went on to par the 18th and finish at 13 under par 275. Weiskopf, however, matched the eagle with a 10 foot putt to take a two stroke lead.

Weiskopf, who won the Kemper Open earlier this year, wasn't about to be psyched out of his day by an amusing incident shortly before he teed off. Nicklaus' eight-year-old son walked past a room where Weiskopf and three golf writers were watching a professional football game on television. The youngster stopped, looked in, and spying Weiskopf said, "Did you play yet Tom?"

The boy, of course, didn't realize that as the leader after three rounds, and the man his dad had to beat, Weiskopf was in the final twosome of the day.

Nicklaus earned $10,755 here, including $105 in the Pro-Am, boosting his earning to $205,568—$5,998 off his all-time 1967 money winning record of $211,566.

Are you the Volkswagen Type 3 type?

Don't let the fact that this car might look like Indy 500 material throw you off the track.

Those racing stripes are a con. That sports car back is a front.

The Volkswagen Type 3 can no more fly down a racetrack than it can fly through the clouds.

What, then, can it do, and who, then is it for?

If you're more concerned with slowing down than speeding up, it has standard front disc brakes.

All 4 wheels are independently suspended so it holds the road better when cornering.

It has the most advanced system of distributing gasoline in the engine: electronic fuel injection.

Shifting on the VW Type 3 is less sticky; 4-speed synchromesh transmission is standard.

And in keeping with Volkswagen standards, it gets around 26 miles to a gallon of gas, uses very little oil, and even less water or antifreeze—none.

But contrary to Volkswagen tradition, it isn't bad looking. In fact, equipped with all the options as you see it in the picture, you can make it look like the menacing, overpowering creature of the road that it isn't.

So if you're looking for a racy little sports car, look somewhere else.

If you're in the market for just an economy sedan, this isn't it.

But if you're the type who wants a racy, economical, little, sporty sedan, eureka!

Allison Slides Thru Wreck To Win Bama 500

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
Bobby Allison won a finger-banging 500 mile race in Alabama Sunday and if there was an election today he probably could beat George Wallace for governor.

And among the sports car crowd, Jackie Stewart would make Allison a good running mate, though his residential status would be a problem.

Stewart, the wet Scot and current world driving champion, bested Team McLaren drivers Denis Hulme and Pete Revson in a Can-Am race at the Mid-Ohio course near Lexington but probably doesn't have the story to tell that Allison does.

Allison, of Hueytown, Ala., beat Richard Petty across the finish line by 2.1 seconds. He did it after shaking loose from a final lap collision between Petty and Pete Hamilton that sent Hamilton out of the race.

Allison and Petty admitted there had been considerable fender-banging at 185 miles per hour as the three drivers battled side-by-side and bumper-to-bumper the last 50 miles of the race.

The victory was worth $21,065 for Allison, bringing his total for the season to $171,435. Petty collected $10,340 for second place and now has become NASCAR's first $200,000 season winner with $210,065.

There were 53 lead changes among six drivers before Allison gained control with only eight laps to go.

Among the first to drop from the race was brother Donnie Allison, the pole winner at a speed of 187.323 m.p.h. His Mercury led three times before the engine failed after 44 laps.

Buddy Baker, another leader, and Charlie Glotzbach also were put out by engine failures.

Baker's car caught fire and spun onto the grassy apron. He suffered minor burns on the left hand and arm.

Allison averaged 145.915 miles per hour.

Stewart took the lead from McLaren's Revson on the 72nd lap of the Mid-Ohio Can-Am and coasted home to his second victory in five races this year. Swiss star Jo Siffert was second, Tony Adamowicz third, Herb Mueller fourth and Chuck Parsons fifth.

In other weekend activity, Roger McCluskey won his fifth straight USAC stock car victory before 21,480 at Milwaukee, averaging 96.468 m.p.h. for the 200 laps around the mile oval.

Lem Blankenship was second, Norm Nelson third, Verlin Eaker fourth and Sal Tovella fifth.

Grid Camp Tour Starts This Week

RALEIGH (AP) — The 17th annual tour of Atlantic Coast Conference football camps begins Tuesday for a group of sports writers and television sportscasters.

The week-long "Operation Football ACC" will wind up Aug. 31 at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The first visit Tuesday is to North Carolina State. The group will move to Duke Wednesday, Maryland Thursday, Virginia Friday and Wake Forest

Saturday. After Sunday off in Winston-Salem, the writers and sportscasters will visit Clemson Aug. 30.

ACC Commissioner Bob James and ACC Service Bureau Director Marvin Francis will accompany the group, which represents newspapers in four states and the District of Columbia and six television stations.

Pete Murphy of Washington, D.C., will captain Yale's 1972 crew.

Carolina League Scores

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Lynchburg defeated Winston-Salem 3-1 in Carolina League play Sunday night to drop the faltering Red Sox into a tie with Kinston for second place in the standings.

Mark Carlson clouted three hits and scored three runs and Dan Vossler hurled his 10th win of the season as Lynchburg scored its second straight triumph over the Red Sox.

Lynchburg slipped ahead of Burlington for fifth place in the standings when the Senators lost a 3-2 decision to league-leading Peninsula. Peninsula needed only four hits and two unearned runs to chalk up the triumph.

Rocky Mount snapped a four-game losing streak with a two-run rally in the last of the ninth that gave it a 3-2 win over hapless Raleigh-Durham, Kinston at Salem was rained out.

Tonight's schedule: Winston-Salem at Lynchburg, Kinston at Salem, Rocky Mount at Raleigh-Durham and Burlington at Peninsula.

Division Leaders Are Having Doubts About Being Able To Win

By HERSHEL NISSENON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Pittsburgh Pirates and San Francisco Giants can't win for losing . . . or can they?

The National League's divisional leaders — the Pirates have been on top since June 11, the Giants since April 12 — took it on the chin again Sunday by identical 6-3 counts from Cincinnati and Montreal, respectively.

But again they didn't lose any ground when the runners-up also lost — the East Division Chicago Cubs bowing to Houston 4-3 and the West's Los Angeles Dodgers falling to Philadelphia 3-2.

Although the Pirates have dropped three in a row and 20 of their last 29 starts, they still lead the Cubs by 4½ games.

The Giants also have lost three straight and 11 of 18 but are 6½ games in front of the Dodgers.

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis crushed Atlanta 13-4 and the New York Mets downed San Diego 4-2.

In the American League, Baltimore trimmed Minnesota 6-3, Oakland took two from Boston 9-3 and 2-1, Milwaukee nipped

Detroit 2-1, Kansas City defeated Washington 4-1, California zeroed the New York Yankees 3-0 and the Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland 5-3.

The Pirates jumped to a quick 2-0 lead over Cincinnati when Bob Robertson smacked a bases-loaded single off Gary Nolan in the first inning. It didn't last long.

Tony Perez singled home a Cincinnati run in the last of the first and, after Pittsburgh made it 3-1 in the third, Hal McRae's double, Lee May's triple and an infield out knotted the score in the Reds' half.

Pete Rose snapped the deadlock in the fourth with a two run homer, his 10th of the season and 100th of his career, as the surging Reds won for the 11th time in 14 meetings this month with the top four teams in the NL East.

The Big Red Machine, still hoping for a miracle finish after a horrible start, is only five games out of second place in the NL West and 11½ behind the Giants.

Rusty Staub drove in four runs with a double and three run homer and rookie Ernie McAnally tossed a seven-hitter as the Expos turned back the Giants and ran their winning streak to seven games, a club record.

The Expos also took all six games from the Giants at Jarry Park — another first — and they did it before their second largest home crowd of the season, 28,102.

Staub's home run in the fifth wiped out a 3-2 Giant lead, which included a two-run homer by Alan Gallagher.

McAnally fanned Ken Henderson — the potential tying run — to end the game following pinch singles by Willie Mays and Willie McCovey.

Houston pushed across an eighth-inning run on Doug Rader's double, Jack Hiatt's single and Roger Metzger's infield out to edge the Cubs. Bob Watson helped the Astros to a 3-1 lead with three hits, including a run-scoring single and his sixth home run, before the Cubs rallied for two runs in the sixth on singles by Glenn Beckert, Billy Williams and Joe Pepitone.

Ron Santo's sacrifice fly and Cleo James' squeeze bunt — they trail Pittsburgh by 5½ — snapped a five-game losing streak by thumping Atlanta as Joe Torre drove in four runs with his 21st homer and a double.

Jose Cruz also homered in the Redbirds, 14-hit attack and Lou Brock scored five times.

John Vukovich singled home two runs in the fourth inning and the Phillies held on to edge the Dodgers behind Billy Wilson's clutch relief pitching.

Bill Russell homered in the sixth for the Dodgers and pinch hitter Bobby Valentine singled a run across in the seventh. Wilson relieved Ken Reynolds with one out and two runners aboard in the eighth and got Richie Allen to hit into a double play for the second time.

The Mets chased San Diego's Steve Arlin with a tie-breaking three-run rally in the fifth inning, including a run-scoring triple by Cleon Jones and singles by Art Shamsky, Ken Boswell and Ed Kranepool. Kranepool also singled home the Mets' first run while Nate Colbert tripled and scored in the fourth for the Padres and homered in the ninth, his 23rd. Gary Gentry needed last-out relief from Tug McGraw.

This Guy Wants To Stay Home

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
A recent trend has seen many Americans decide against a chance of playing in the National Football League and opt for a football career in Canada. Vic Washington hopes to change the flow of traffic.

Washington, who played three years in the Canadian Football League after starting for two varsity seasons at the University of Wyoming, has come back over the border and is trying to make it with the San Francisco 49ers of the NFL.

The flash 5-11, 190-pounder from Plainfield, N. J., enhanced his chance for a spot on the roster by scoring on runs of 13 and 10 yards Sunday as the 49ers beat the San Diego Chargers 28-17 in an exhibition game at San Francisco.

In other Sunday preseason contests, Detroit edged Baltimore 23-20; the New York Jets trimmed the New York Giants 27-14, and Buffalo whipped New England 28-14.

On Saturday, it was Kansas City 27 New Orleans 7; Atlanta 21 Denver 10; Green Bay 10 Miami 7; Minnesota 34 Chicago 14; Houston 21 Philadelphia 17, and Oakland 20 Los Angeles 7.

In Friday's only game, Dallas nipped Cleveland 16-15.

The exhibition weekend will be completed tonight with Pittsburgh at Cincinnati.

The versatile Washington, who also plays wide receiver, defensive back and runs back punts and kickoffs, called his performance against the Chargers "a very important day for me."

"A lot of people said I wouldn't make it as a running back in the NFL because I'm not big enough," he added.

"But the only thing that matters is how big your heart is. After three years in Canada two with Ottawa and one with Vancouver, I thought I'd have a problem in adjusting. But I'm not."

At Wyoming, Washington led the nation in punt returns as a sophomore and was second as a junior, while playing both offense and defense. He also was a triple jumper on the track team and holds the school indoor and outdoor records in that event.

However, after his junior year, he had academic problems and went to play in Canada. When his class graduated in 1970 the 49ers made him their fourth draft choice, but contractual matters kept him in Canada until this year.

Now, he's come back to the United States going in the opposite directions of such 1970 All-Americans as Steve Worster of Texas, Joe Theisman of Notre Dame, Jim Stillwagon of Ohio State and Rock Perdoni of Georgia Tech, all of whom elected to play in Canada this year.

SPORT SHORT
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Pete Liske, of the Philadelphia Eagles, will miss at least two exhibition games, the Eagles announced Sunday.

Liske sustained a knee injury in Saturday's 21-17 loss to the Houston Oilers in the Astrodome. Medical diagnosis showed the 29-year-old quarterback strained a medial collateral ligament in his right knee.

Wants Britain Honor Old Debt

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Monday, August 23, 1971—11 fishermen would be allowed to fish closer inshore than boats from other Common Market countries." The time has come for Britain, which owes the maintenance of its monarchy to Bruges, to redeem an historic debt," he said.

By HERMAN J. SAEN
BRUGES, Belgium (UPI)—Britain may think it has enough problems over inshore fishing rights in the final stage of its negotiations to join the European Common Market, but there's still a 300-year-old royal promise to Bruges fishermen to be settled.

An old crusader is preparing another campaign to force Britons to honor the promise made by King Charles II in 1666 that gave free fishing rights for 50 Bruges fishing boats in British coastal waters as long as the monarchy remains.

While British and Common Market negotiators wrestle with the problem of who can fish where after Britain joins the market, Belgian Victor DePaep is drafting his own proposals to send to Queen Elizabeth II.

"I hope that Britain, within the framework of the Common Market negotiations, will now honor its historic pledge to the fisherman of Bruges," DePaep said in an interview.

DePaep, 49, has spent the past 10 years trying to win official British recognition that the "fishing privilege" is still valid.

The British monarch granted the privilege to thank the people for their hospitality while he was in exile during the Cromwell era. DePaep found out about the privilege in 1961 while leafing through old editions of a British magazine, which printed a story about it.

After years of painstaking research DePaep found proof that Bruges fishermen originally made use of the privilege.

He launched a press campaign to win support for his fight and even went to London's Hyde Park corner where he made a speech to startled Londoners about King Charles II's pledge.

Finally he collected enough money to buy an old fishing boat, christened it "Charles II," and in 1963 sent Queen Elizabeth II a telegram saying:

"I'm coming."
"I do not come as a pirate, because I disapprove of all kinds of piracy, but I come to claim these rights as a friend," DePaep cabled Buckingham Palace.

But once inside Britain's six-mile fishing limit, the "Charles II" was boarded by British coastguard officers, and DePaep hauled before the court at Lewes.

The court, however, declared itself incompetent to judge the case. So did the London court and the high court, from whom DePaep sought an official ruling that the privilege of the Bruges fishermen was still valid.

The only recourse left was to take the case before the House of Lords. But by then DePaep had run out of funds.

"I spent 378,000 francs ($7,650) and I would have needed another 450,000 francs ($9,000) to carry the case further," DePaep said. "But I hope that now, on the basis of the privilege, that 50 Bruges fishing boats will be given more favorable treatment by Britain than other Common Market fishermen," he said.

"The privilege could be adapted in a way that Bruges

Remote Nepal Has A Hamburger Stand

By HARIHAR KRISHNAN
KATMANDU (UPI)—The humble hamburger, America's gift (?) to the world's culinary culture, finally has made it to the remote mountain country of Nepal.

Katmandu, capital of this kingdom wedged between India and China in the snowy Himalayas, now has a typical American cheeseburger and hamburger restaurant called "Aunt Jane's."

The chief source of customers is a colony of nostalgic Americans stationed in Nepal. And though the burgers are made from buffalo meat rather than beef, they taste almost like the ones in Kansas City.

"Aunt Jane's" opened July 1 in Katmandu's fashionable—by Nepal standards—district of Ganga Path. It has become an instant success, thronged by members of the diplomatic corps from both sides of the Iron Curtain, bell-bottomed youngsters, hippies, students and journalists.

The proprietor is Mrs. Jane Elliott Martin, mother of two girls and wife of James H. Martin, the director of the Peace Corps in Nepal.

"It must seem funny that a woman who set out to find a career in theater in America has now ended up opening a hamburger joint—of all places—in Katmandu," Mrs. Martin said.

The Martins were active for 10 years in local Republican politics in Albany, N.Y. James Martin was a member of the Albany County Board of Supervisors and ran for the state senate as a Republican.

Finally giving up politics and their home in Albany, they joined the Peace Corps, and Katmandu has been their home for the last nine months.

Bolivia's New Course Still In Doubt

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia's new government of military men and civilian politicians appears certain to move to the right, but how far remains to be seen.

Col. Hugo Banzer gave little indication of his future policy in a 10-minute speech Sunday after he was named president by the forces that ousted President Juan Jose Torres and his leftist military regime.

Banzer promised to follow in the steps of German Busch, Gualberto Villarroel and Rene Barrientos, three of Bolivia's better know presidents in the past 35 years. Barrientos, a populist who was killed in a helicopter crash in 1969, was a frequent target of the left-wingers who became the chief supporters of the Torres government.

Speaking from the balcony of the presidential palace to cheering thousands, the new president said "left and right" would be erased from the Bolivian political vocabulary and "we will talk only of nationalism." But the rebel officers' chief complaint against Torres was that he was letting the country drift toward communism.

Banzer made no mention of elections, which were promised earlier by other leaders of the three-day rebellion. However, reliable sources said military backers of the new government want elections called before next May.

Banzer's cabinet is made up of two military men and 10 civilians from the two political parties which supported the rebellion, the National Revolutionary Movement, or MNR, and the Bolivian Socialist Falange, or FSB. Col. Andres Selich, commander of the army's crack Ranger regiment, was named interior minister, in charge of the police.

Friends describe Banzer himself as an "institutional" army officer.

The two political parties have been bitter enemies in the past, but they appeared to have patched up their differences, at least for the present. The MNR has traditionally been a leftist Roman Catholic party, while the FSB has been trying to shed its conservative image. But there were doubts the coalition would last.

The new government also can count on the stiff opposition of the leftist workers, Marxist politicians and student extremists who formed the bulk of Torres' support. Spokesmen for the leftist unions already have labeled the new government "fascist", supported by the "the United States, Argentina and Brazil."

The direction taken by the new government is sure to draw close attention from neighboring Argentina, whose military leaders recently decided to call for elections and return the country to constitutional government after five years.

Even more interested will be Chile, where an elected Marxist, Salvador Allende, heads the government, and Peru, ruled by a nationalist military government which ousted a constitutional president in 1968.

The MNR announced that its titular head, former President Victor Paz Estenssoro, would return today from Lima, Peru, where he has been in exile since Barrientos ousted him in 1964. Banzer commanded the national military academy until last January, when Torres charged him with leading a plot to overthrow the government. The government arrested him and other dissidents on Wednesday, and this touched off a demonstration Thursday in Santa Cruz, the country's second city in eastern Bolivia, that mushroomed into the rebellion.

The revolt spread rapidly, and President Torres fled from the presidential palace and went into hiding Saturday night after hard fighting in La Paz in which more than 50 persons were killed and 100 were injured.

Roberson
BETHEL — Funeral services for Mrs. Effie Bryant Roberson, 82, who died Sunday, will be conducted Tuesday at 4 p.m. at Johnson Memorial Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Thomas Byrd, assisted by the Rev. Jim Lee.

Burial will be in Conetoe Cemetery.

Surviving her are four sons, Walter and Marvin Roberson, both of Conetoe, Clayton Roberson of Greenville, and Raymond Roberson of Keego Harbor, Mich.; two daughters, Mrs. Haywood Whitehurst of Route 1, Tarboro and Mrs. Edna Zuskoishi of Royal Oak, Mich.; eight brothers, John and Fletcher Bryant, both of Durham, Cary Bryant of Farmville, Earl Bryant of Robersonville, Jack Bryant of Greenville; Wiley Bryant of Bethel, Robert Bryant of Oak City, and Vernon Bryant of Pennsylvania; two sisters, Mrs. Joseph H. Keel of Bethel and Mrs. Haywood Brown of Richmond, Va.; nine grandchildren; and eight great grandchildren.

Carroll
Funeral services for Mr. William Jennings Carroll Sr., 63, will be conducted at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. John C. Andrews. Burial will be in the Winterville Cemetery. Mr. Carroll died Friday afternoon near Ormondville.

Mr. Carroll was born and reared in Winterville and attended the Winterville Schools and a college in Indiana. For the past twenty-three years he had been a merchant in the Hookerton Community and had made his home in Maury.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Blanche Waters Carroll; a son, William Jennings Carroll Jr. of Rocky Mount; a brother, Dr. B.S. Carroll of Jacksonville, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

Harris
Funeral services for Mr. Harry W. Harris, 50, were conducted Monday at 2:00 p.m. at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. William Brown, Baptist minister of Grifton. Burial was in Evergreen Memorial Garden.

Mr. Harris died Saturday near his home in the Grifton community. He was a veteran of World War II and was a retired auto mechanic.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. G. Harley Jackson of near Greenville; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman D. Harris of the St. John's community; two brothers, Floyd G. and W. Roger Harris, both of Grifton; a sister, Mrs. Burgeon B. McLawhorn of Grifton; and one grandson.

FARMVILLE COLLISION — A car was overturned in the front yard of a home at the corner of West Pine and South Walnut Streets Saturday afternoon. Police identified drivers involved as Bobby Ray Anderson, 21, and Mickie Ray Fields, 16, both of Farmville.

Jeffrey Fields, 12, brother of the driver, was the only seriously injured person. Both cars were total losses. Anderson was charged with failure to stop for a stop sign. (Reflector Photo)

PART OF THE SOLUTION: PART I

Tell us what's bugging you about auto insurance. Then maybe we can help get rid of some of the bugs.

It seems pretty obvious that something is not quite right with automobile insurance in North Carolina. We know some of the problem areas. But not all.

We want to know what's bugging you. You see, your Independent Insurance Agent is interested in any insurance problem affecting you. Because the problems that affect you, affect us. Naturally, we're interested in any approach that will keep the insurance market open to our customers—and keep costs at a reasonable level.

Because we are interested, your Independent Agents are undertaking a comprehensive study of the automobile insurance situation in North Carolina.

We're going to talk with company people. With our clients.

With members of our organization, the insurance commissioner's office and the Governor's new study commission. We're going to ask questions. Hundreds of questions.

And we're going to get some answers. When we find the best solution, we're going to urge the next General Assembly to enact laws that are in the best interest of the public, and those who serve the public.

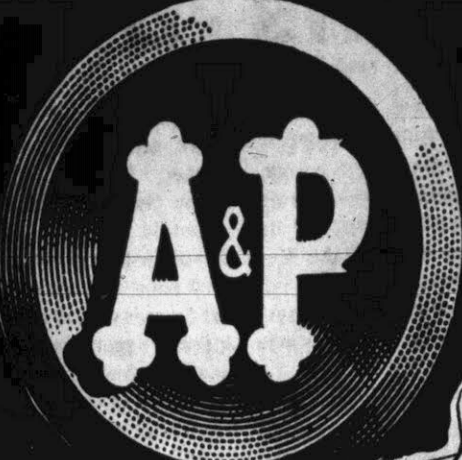

Why are we doing this? Well, there's a maxim that goes something like this: If you're not part of the solution, then you're part of the problem.

We want to be part of the solution to the auto insurance problems in North Carolina.

Worry Clinic Morality Isn't Inborn Quality

Mary's account of thievery in the Gary Steel Mills shows that people can be adult in their physical development, yet be juvenile emotionally. Thieves should thus be forced to parade in diapers! Analyze the creatures below to determine which symbolize Communism vs. our "free enterprise" system!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D. M. d.
Case R-540: Mary X., aged 28, is a secretary at the Gary Steel Mills.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "we have had a couple of thefts in our building.

"For example, an electric typewriter was stolen the first night.

"But a little later, another electric typewriter was missing, plus an electric wall clock.

"Since nobody was allowed in this building after hours, except management, then we assume one of our executive staff must be guilty.

"Isn't it a shame, however, that such juvenile immorality exists in our great country?"

Golden Rule

Alas, morality is not innate or inborn!

It must be taught to a child even from the toddler stage.

For morality, as well as music, mathematics and religion, are learned products of the human brain.

Animals don't demonstrate them.

And feeble-minded human beings usually show little sense of property rights.

Even a smart dog has no scruples about stealing meat from the neighbor's back porch, for its I.Q. is too low to understand that fences mean private ownership.

A toddler also starts out in life with that same tendency to pick up anything in a store that intrigues its interest.

And it will take the tricycle from the neighboring lawn with no sense of guilt.

For children and feeble-minded adults are more like the dog in their belief that whatever they can grab, is theirs.

But with rigid religious home training, even morions can become fairly honest men and women.

Constant moral tutelage can ultimately give a child a sense of what is right vs. wrong.

When grammar schoolers, or children in Senior High School and college, still purloin the property of other people, that suggests they are still emotionally at the toddler level.

In fact, they might very properly be punished by our courts by being forced to parade in public in diapers!

For thievery of the sort indicated in Mary's report suggests a "diaper" emotional outlook!

A person can be a physical adult and possess a high I.Q., or even be a college graduate, yet be emotionally retarded!

Many divorces occur because of this same emotional juvenility even in adult husbands and wives.

And millions of voters are likewise so naive and immature in their economic outlook that they stampede to vote for anybody who promises them a free beer or higher Social Security checks and other political bribes.

Communism itself is also a juvenile political system!

For it holds that you can take the property of others, even though you loaf and produce.

Squirrels and busy ants or bees typify our "free enterprise" system.

But grasshoppers and butterflies symbolize the communists who want the hard workers to share with the shiftless.

Unlimited Loans Help Recruit Spies For Reds

By ROON LEWALD
Associated Press Writer
BONN, Germany (AP) — East German spymasters have come up with a new gimmick to recruit spies in West Germany—unlimited loans at 3 per cent. The attempt is aimed mainly at the West German government and military personnel.

The loan company, which gives an East Berlin address, asked potential clients to complete a return-mail answer card giving reasons for requested funds.

Those who gave "reasons I would prefer not to discuss" had the best prospects of obtaining money.

They would be hired unobtrusively by Communist East Germany's espionage service, according to a report by the West German Federal Office for State Security.

If clients seemed unwilling or unsuited to pass on secret information to East Germany, their loan applications would be refused.

Nobody knows how many spies are operating in West Germany today but new incidents are reported almost every month.

The security office report for 1970 gives the number of known acts of espionage ordered by East European countries last year as 1,320—of which 571 were actually carried out.

Known espionage recruits last year totaled 768, 31 per cent more than the previous year. But the activity uncovered by West German counter spies is believed to represent only the tip of a much larger iceberg.

About 80 per cent of the spies rendered harmless last year were under orders from the Communist half of divided Germany.

The East German state security minister, Erich Mielke, recently claimed his spy service has contributed to European security "by discovering and exposing West German preparations to produce atomic weapons as well as biological and chemical mass destruction instruments."

Money remains the favorite bait to recruit informants. A new method by the East Germans is to approach needy students, who often are ideologically sympathetic, for use as so-called "perspective candidates."

The future spies lie low while completing their studies with financial help.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
[© 1971, By The Chicago Tribune]

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Both vulnerable. East opens with three hearts and as South you hold:
♠AKQJ97 ♣7 ♦AQ109 ♣62
What do you bid?

A.—Gambling on partner to have as little as the king of diamonds you should bid four spades. If you overcall with only three spades partner may obtain the impression that you are merely putting up some kind of fight and may take no action that he has slight values.

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10 ♣7 ♦A104 ♠AK976532
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
3 ♠ Dble. Pass ?
What do you bid?

A.—The adverse preempt has made it impossible for you to approach this hand with complete scientific accuracy but there seems little doubt that you will have a good play for 12 tricks and you should bid six clubs.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠J1098 ♣KJ7654 ♦A ♠AK
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass ?
What is your response?

A.—Unless partner has two losing spades, this is a certain slam and the proper way to flash the slam signal is by jump shift. The proper response is three clubs. A three heart response is not the correct procedure. Such a response is used only where game can be seen, not slam.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK1064 ♣Q ♠642 ♠AKJ5
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
4 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid?

A.—There is no scientific way to handle this situation. Our recommendation is a bid of six hearts. You surely have 12 tricks if the defense does not cash two diamond tricks at once. First of all you will have to guess the lead, and furthermore partner might have a singleton.

Q. 5—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK72 ♣5 ♦AK643 ♠KJ5
The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—There is no reason for undue excitement despite your high card strength because of the lack of any fit. Take it easy with a simple rebid of one spade. It is true that such a bid is not forcing, but if partner elects to pass you may be quite sure that you have reached the correct final contract.

Q. 6—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K86 ♣QJ8532 ♦KJ104
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Since game prospects are bright some bid should be chosen which will insure keeping the bidding alive for one more round. A simple raise in spades will not do it, and a jump bid in hearts is not recommended since the suit itself is not strong enough. The way to postpone the decision is by naming a new suit. This forces partner to bid again and the choice is two diamonds. After partner's next response, hearts should be rebid.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AKQJ752 ♦AQ54 ♣52
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid?

A.—A jump shift, contrary to popular belief, may be made even with no support in partner's suit, if your holding is of such type that slam seems probable. The recommended bid is two spades. Unless that immediate slam signal is given, you will find it extremely difficult to do justice to this hand on later rounds.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J742 ♣653 ♦A9654 ♣2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

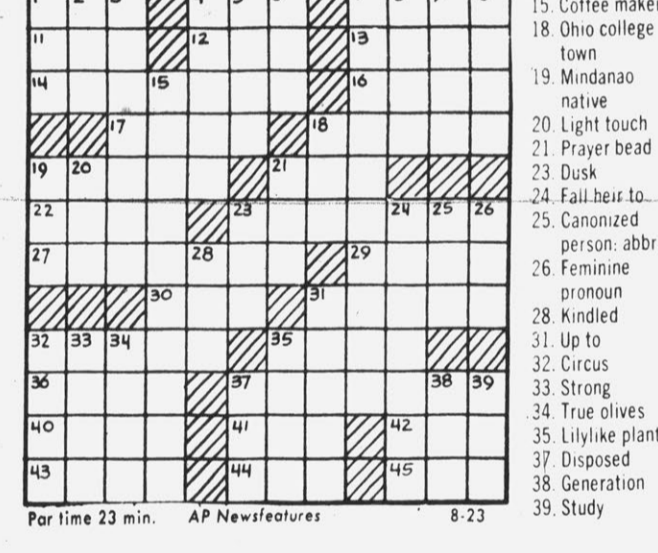

A.—Four spades. It would not be sound reasoning for you to pass on the theory that you have already shown your full strength. The fact remains that if this hand is played at no trump most of your values will have disappeared into thin air. To preserve your assets it is imperative that you return to spades.

Peanut Crop Is Showing Effect

By HENRY RIDDICK

The county's peanut crop is beginning to show effects of the heavy rainfall of July and early August. Most evident is the yellowing of the foliage, which may or may not be directly caused by water. There are three main causes of this yellowing.

First, excessive amounts of water will cause the nitrogen forming bacteria in the nodules of the plants to drown; therefore, the plant will be unable to produce any nitrogen. To determine this, pull several plants and check the nodules on the roots. The nodules on actively growing plants will be a dark pink when cut open. To correct this deficiency of nitrogen, nitrate nitrogen may be broadcast over the plants at a rate of not more than 25 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre. Tests have shown that excessive amounts of nitrogen at this stage have increased the amount of pod rot.

Another cause of yellowing related to water is magnesium deficiency. This is caused by the lack of root development and the inability of the plant to absorb enough magnesium. Magnesium deficiency shows up as light yellow cast on the leaves. Chlorosis on the margin of older leaflets turns orange in later stages. This deficiency may be corrected by applying soluble magnesium.

The third cause of yellowing and probably the easiest to eliminate is insect damage. This, a lot of times, is indirectly caused by water as conditions may be too wet to apply insecticides, or rain washes away the insecticides as soon as they are applied. Insects causing damage are thrips and leaf hoppers.

Thrips — damage is first observed in the young unfolded leaves which have a sand drowned appearance. Close examination will show that the upper surface of the leaflets have been rasped by the insect leaving a scarred surface, whitish in color. The injured leaflets usually are cupped upward.

Leafhopper — affected leaflet at first turn yellow near the tip. This yellowing progresses toward the base of the leaflets and some of the tips may appear burned. No definite halo effect as is the case with leafspot develops.

During August and September, it is most important to keep peanuts in good shape. Now is the time the plant really develops most of its fruit.

Tobacco TIPS

By S. J. WEEKS

Diseases and insects take a heavy toll from our tobacco crop each year. Cutting tobacco stalks and plowing out the stubbles immediately after harvest reduces mosaic, nematodes, brown spot, hornworms, budworms, and flea beetles. A statewide program has been launched to reduce these six pests. The program is called OPERATION R-6-P (Reduce 6 Pests). Our goal in Pitt County is to get 100 percent participation in 1971.

It is very important that all tobacco stalks and roots are destroyed as soon after harvest of the 1971 crop as possible. Old stalks and roots will decay faster during warm weather than during any other time. The quicker the stalks and roots decay, the quicker the increase of diseases and insect organisms will stop.

Results from research tests have shown that by following this simple practice, the nematode population in the soil can be reduced as much as 75 to 90 percent. In addition to reducing the nematode population, mosaic and brown spot disease organisms would be reduced by decaying tobacco crop refuse. The population of three major insect pests will also be reduced.

Only four steps are required to do this job on your farm:

1. Cut stalks
2. Plow out roots
3. Disk field two weeks after roots have been plowed out, and
4. Seed winter cover crop to prevent erosion.

Remember, it is most important to do the job "right now." The complete operation should be carried out while the soil is still warm so that the rotting and decaying process will take place as soon as possible.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES

Your soybean plant produces about half its total dry matter in 80-90 days after planting.

Total plant weight is divided between vegetation, leaves, stems, and the seed and pods. At low yields 35 bushels, 56 per cent total weight was in vegetation, 44 per cent in seed and pods. At 50 bushel yields, total weight almost balances between plant parts: 51 per cent in seed and pods, 49 per cent in vegetation. At 80 bushels yields, 62 per cent total weight was in seed and pods, only 38 per cent in vegetation.

To insure high yields, your soil must be able to supply all the plant food a crop needs — when it needs it — where it needs it, during the whole growing season.

Plant growth is a continuous process. Top profit yields demand full season feeding — a sure diet all along the way.

High yields take up high levels of plant food. These soybean trails proved that point by taking up 430 pounds of nutrients from each acre the first year, 779 pounds the second year, and 560 pounds the third year. That's a lot of plant food.

PRAYERS

MANILA (UPI)—Philippine Labor Secretary Blas F. Uple, a strong nationalist, has urged Filipinos to say their prayers in the Filipino language.

Remember, it is most important to do the job "right now." The complete operation should be carried out while the soil is still warm so that the rotting and decaying process will take place as soon as possible.

We must return those nutrients to the soil or take the consequences: low yields — poor quality, and little, if any, profit. You can't go wrong taking out hidden hunger insurance.

Slavery Still Persists On World Scene

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — More than 100 years after Abraham Lincoln abolished slavery in the United States, there are still "a few hundred thousand" chattel slaves in the world.

That is the estimate of Col. Patrick Montgomery, secretary of the Anti-Slavery Society of London, which has been fighting all forms of slavery since 1839.

Interviewed here, he noted that the 1956 Geneva Supplementary Convention against slavery and similar practices banned not only chattel slavery but also debt bondage, serfdom, sale of children and servile marriage.

He estimated that persons subjected to all those forms of involuntary servitude except hard-to-prove servile marriage numbered "about 10 million."

He said if servile marriage was counted in, the total would be much higher.

Montgomery, a retired British army officer would not name any of the localities where those practices persisted.

But in testifying earlier before a U.N. body, he said his society had reason to believe that one or another of them was "a recognizable element in the pattern of society in 17 African countries, 15 Asian countries and 6 Latin American countries."

Montgomery said his society has studied one country where impoverished peasants in a remote section were flogged, branded, mutilated and, as a last resort, turned out of their houses to starve if they failed to grow stipulated quantities of illegal opium.

"In the same country chattel slavery too survives," he added, "and children of both sexes are both sold and given as gifts and used both as domestic help and for sexual gratification."

Avers Parents Need Tax Break

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — What parents of college students need is a tax break, says Jerome C. Eppler, chairman of the board of ISI Corp., a national financial services organization based here.

"While deferred tuition plans and government-backed loans are welcome," he said, "a system of tax credits to parents for money spent on education is the only way many children will be able to get college credits for graduation. We are talking about $12,000 to $20,000 for a college education."

Growers Hurt By Berry Imports

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — Strawberry growers in this fruit-rich section of northwestern Washington may lose $130,000 this year because of bad weather and imported Mexican berries.

Agent Nolan Servoss said imported berries have forced the strawberry price down from 16½ cents per pound last year to 15 cents.

HOW ABOUT SHOELACE?

LONDON (AP) — British police chiefs were warned that eccentric modes of dress and long hair should not in themselves be regarded as reasonable grounds to stop and search people for drugs. The home office used the directive.

NOW AVAILABLE FOR PEANUTS! BENLATE®

A New and Unique Fungicide for Peanut Leaf Spot Control

Here's the difference BENLATE can make in your disease control program.

Systemic... BENLATE penetrates plant tissue where rain won't wash it off.

Longer Protection... BENLATE applied every 14 to 21 days gives effective leaf spot control even in bad weather.

Proven... During four years of field testing, BENLATE has proven effective by growers and State Agricultural Experiment Stations.

Extends Harvest... BENLATE keeps plants healthier longer, more pods mature—healthy plants allow extended harvests. Even when optimum harvest time is delayed due to adverse weather conditions, yields are maintained in comparison to standard programs.

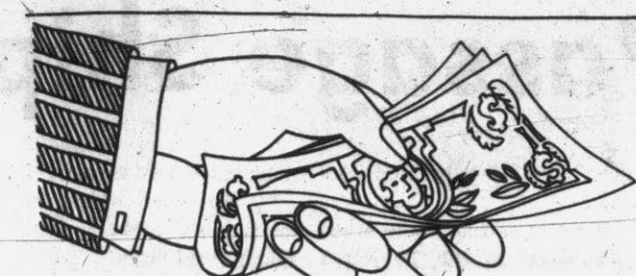

BENLATE makes the difference with as little as ¾ to ½ pound (6 to 8 oz.) per acre.

For more information, ask your dealer for an Agricultural Bulletin on BENLATE.

With any chemical follow labeling instructions and warnings carefully.

San Francisco May Lose Northwest Passage Ship

THE GJOA — a hardy little Norwegian sloop which conquered the Northwest Passage in 1906, is on display in the Golden Gate Park. Now Norway would like it back. (UPI Telephoto)

By JAMES O. CLIFFORD
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The hardy Norwegian sloop Gjoa, the first vessel to conquer the Northwest Passage, may be making the long voyage home.

The 70-foot Gjoa completed the passage in 1906 under the command of the famed Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen who led six crewmen on the three-year, five-month voyage over the top of the world.

The 47-ton ship arrived here in 1906 and after resting almost forgotten for years in a shipyard, the local Norwegian colony bought her and the city placed the Gjoa on land at the edge of Golden Gate Park.

Now Norway wants her back. And there's little opposition to the request.

Few San Franciscans seem to know the story behind the little ship that can be seen easily from the great highway running along the ocean beach at the end of the park. But, the daring of Amundsen and his crew aboard the former merchant vessel is one of the epics of exploration.

The story of the Gjoa began with the search for a waterway to the Indies that absorbed Western Europe in the latter part of the Middle Ages.

After Columbus' voyages to the New World, the European governments turned their attention to exploring the new find but efforts continued in hopes of discovering a passage around the Western Hemisphere to the China trade.

Magellan found the Southwest Passage during his voyage of 1519-1521. But the Northwest Passage was more elusive.

The greatest names in European exploration tried: Da Verazzano, Frobisher, Davys, Hudson, Baffin, Cook and many others.

Even after the economic incentive died, explorers continued the quest.

In 1834 the British launched a well-financed expedition under the command of Sir John Franklin. Two ships were outfitted for three years and manned by 129 officers and men.

The expedition left England for the frozen north in 1845 and was never seen again.

Amundsen hardly had such backing. The heavy oak ship,

Gjoa, launched in 1873, was intended to ride the seas between Norway and Denmark. When Amundsen bought her he reinforced the keel and set sail for Christiania Fjord in June of 1903.

The Gjoa received no fanfare when she slipped out at midnight in a driving rain—Amundsen was dodging a creditor.

Creditors weren't the explorer's only problem. The boat's compass failed near Peel Sound and Amundsen then had to steer by the stars. After the short summer was over, the Gjoa became frozen in solid ice.

Three years later, in July, 1906, the Gjoa forced her way through the last of the ice. One month later she rounded the north coast of Alaska and reached the Bering Straits—all this in a 47-ton sailboat that had a kerosene-powered engine capable of four knots.

San Francisco gave Amundsen a hero's welcome when he arrived. But things haven't gone so well for the little Gjoa since.

She was rotting away when Norwegians in the Bay area raised funds in the 1940s and a restoration program was started.

In 1969, while the huge tanker Manhattan was cutting through the Northwest Passage to the applause of the world, the tiny Gjoa was in trouble again.

Hippies had started living in the boat and the area's Norwegians demanded the city's parks department take better care of her.

The department repaired the fence surrounding the Gjoa and nailed down the hatches.

Bu Rolf B. Schou, who heads the Gjoa foundation, doesn't think that's good enough.

"If she is left where she is, the Gjoa will probably last five years," said Schou.

The group of prominent Norwegians who have made a bid for the Gjoa hope to place her in the famous maritime museum outside Oslo.

The museum has vessels ranging from Viking ships to Thor Heyerdahl's rafts "Kon Tiki" and "Ra."

The Gjoa committee in Norway, which includes several Norwegian shipping line owners, plans to place the Gjoa near the polar vessel Fram in which Amundsen became the first man to reach the South Pole in 1911.

Big Manmade Hole In Britain Is Growing At 20,000 Tons Per Day

By DONALD M. McNICOLL
Associated Press Writer
SHEPTON MALLET, England (AP)—What could become the biggest manmade hole in Britain is growing near ancient Shepton Mallet at the rate of 20,000 tons a day.

To begin with, the hole was just an ordinary little quarry. It produced a few tons of limestone, worth around $2.40 a ton, daily.

But the more the quarrymen drilled and blasted, the more it became clear they were barely scratching the surface of a veritable mine of limestone that was deposited, so they say, 80 million years ago.

Today, the scratching has stopped. Using more than $2.5 million worth of British and American equipment, the vast wealth of the family-owned Foster Yeoman quarry is being fully exploited. Now the quarry claims to be the biggest in Europe. It's three-fourth of a mile across.

Relatively Low Auto Expenses

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP)—West Germans spend an average of $58.47 on their cars monthly, the German Automobile Association reports.

This includes price of the car, repairs, parts, gasoline, insurance and garage.

That's not too much considering some New Yorkers pay $50 a month garage rent.

Tests have shown that there is limestone to a depth of 1,000 feet. Going night and day, it could take up to a century to exhaust the deposits.

It's all being quarried with a sharp eye on the environment.

Bob Green, former Melbourne lawyer who now is marketing manager for the quarry, is a dedicated conservationist.

He has insisted all the boundaries of the quarry be landscaped. All dust is collected instead of being allowed to pollute the air, and the dust is sold to agriculturists. Limestone is used to reduce the acidity of soil.

The quarry is sending the bulk of the stone away by rail. A special rail link has been laid between the quarry and the nationalized British Rail System.

Up to 10,000 tons of limestone a day has been railed out of the quarry.

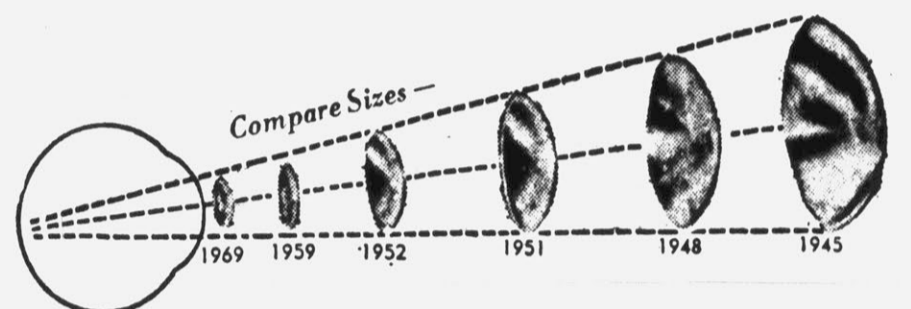

Recently, according to British Rail, the millionth ton of limestone from the quarry was carried away.

Yeoman's managing director, John Yeoman, said: "In our 50 years of existence, we have never had a strike, and in the last 25 years we have never worked short hours or laid men off."

"Our quarry looks like it is becoming the biggest in Europe."

About 65 per cent of the world's sugar output is cane and 35 per cent beet.
