Jailed On 5 Charges

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — A Wilmington man was in jail this morning on five charges after a policeman's pistol was taken in a struggle and a police cruiser was stolen. Eugene Blanding was charged with disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, auto larceny, assault on an officer and robbery. Wilmington policemen L. T. DeBose and F. N. Norris answered a disorderly-conduct complaint at 8:45 p.m. Monday at a Wilmington house. A police department spokesman said Blanding was arrested at the house on the disorderly-conduct charge and that Blanding began fighting with the policeman. During the struggle, the spokesman said, the pistol was snatched from Norris, a shot was fired at the policeman, the patrol cruiser was stolen and officer DeBose fired a shot at the police car as it sped away. No one was wounded.

GOOD-BYE CLYDE — Jull English, 11, tries hard to hold back the tears as Clyde, the Indiana State Fair Grand Champion steer, is auctioned for $2,800. Jull also received a $1,500 Scholarship from the buyer. Clyde weighed in at 1,096 pounds. Jull at 89. (AP Wirephoto)

ASC Offices Can Answer Freeze Queries

All residents of Pitt County may obtain answers to questions on operation and interpretation of the Presidential order of Aug. 15 on prices, rents, wages and salaries from the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office, according to W. F. Tyson, chairman of the county ASC committee. County ASCS offices throughout the United States have been chosen as information centers to answer questions from all citizens on President Nixon's executive order which is designed to stem inflation and strengthen the national economy. The Pitt County ASCS office is located at 225 Evans St. The mailing address is P. O. Box 1926 and the telephone number is 752-6112.

$141,299 Goal Approved By United Fund Directors

A goal of $141,299.04 was adopted for the coming year's Pitt County United Fund drive by the UF Board of Directors last night. The 1972 drive will be kicked off the week of October 6 with Ed Warren of Greenville as chairman. Two new agencies were added: The Boys' Club of Greenville and Pitt County, and the Greenville-Pitt County Council on Aging. The Boys' Club was approved after evidence was shown that it is extending its services out into the county, bringing boys into the Greenville Club from Winterville and making plans for a limited program in Farmville. It was allocated $4,500. The Council on Aging is being brought in this year in the amount of $1,200, but its director, Mrs. J. B. Spilman, said the Council hopes to have other means of support after this year.

The amount recommended for each agency in every case is more than last year, although not so much as was requested. The amounts other agencies are as follows: Red Cross — $21,095.40; Boy Scouts — $21,035.60; Girl Scouts — $9,572.31; Mental Health — $8,641.81; Salvation Army — $24,303.69; Association for the Blind — $3,250; Retarded children — $1,508.75; 4-H Club —

$860.50; Local Community Services — $10,237.77; and North Carolina United, which includes the Children's Home Society of North Carolina, the Florence Crittendon Services, the N. C. Mental Health Association, the N. C. United Community Services, and the United Service Organization — $7,823.08. Office expense for the Pitt County United Fund was set at $18,026.30 and $9,243.83 was reserved to cover collection losses. The Board heard a letter from Ed Yancey on behalf of the North Carolina 4-H Club, which plans to raise about $5,000 in Pitt County in the next five years for capital improvements to 4-H property. It was recommended that this raising of money be accepted. Dave Speir of Bethel

Charges Foe In Senate

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos charged on nationwide television today that a leading opposition senator has been financing and arming Communist groups that are bent on destroying the government. Marcos read what he called military intelligence reports detailing more than a score of meetings between Sen. Benigno Aquino Jr. and leaders of Marxist and Maoist rebel forces. He accused Aquino of giving them money and weapons during the past six years. Aquino said in a radio interview afterwards: "The President has finally come out with these rumors." The 39-year-old Liberal party secretary-general said he had been expecting Marcos to make these "very serious charges," and said he hoped that he would be treated like any other citizen and be given "my day in court to confront" the accusations.

Bombers Active

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers attacking another anti-aircraft battery in North Vietnam triggered numerous secondary explosions, the U.S. Command reported today and B52 heavy bombers dropped nearly 600 tons of explosives along the demilitarized zone. Fighting continued for the 12th day along the DMZ Monday, with 37 North Vietnamese reported killed. Many of them were the victims of U.S. fighter-bombers and artillery. Four South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and 25 wounded. Viet Cong forces shelled the big U.S. helicopter base at Phu Loi, 12 miles north of Saigon. The U.S. Command said less than five rockets hit the base, wounding some Americans but causing no fatalities. Field reports said a few helicopters were damaged. The air attack inside North Vietnam Monday afternoon, two miles north of the DMZ, was the 52nd so-called "protective reaction" strike against North Vietnam this year. Capt. James D'Entremont of the U.S. Command said the anti-aircraft battery fired on an unarmed American reconnaissance jet and the two F4 Phantom fighter-bombers escorting the photo plane attacked the battery.

Alerted To Viet Disorder

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command put the 220,000 American troops in Vietnam on the second highest state of alert tonight, expecting political unrest and terror attacks in the South Vietnamese lower house elections next Sunday. A "gray" alert that had begun at dawn was increased to "yellow" shortly after dusk. Both alerts had the effect of confining American troops, including 22,000 in Saigon, to their places of duty and barracks, and restricting travel in cities and towns to official business only in official military vehicles. The "yellow" alert put some troops in defensive guard positions at some billets and installations. The only alert higher than "yellow" is "red," which means an attack is under way. The order from Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander, applies to all four military regions in South Vietnam ranging from the Mekong Delta to the demilitarized zone. The order is aimed at keeping U.S. servicemen from getting involved in possible antigovernment and anti-American demonstrations by veterans' groups, militant Buddhists and students during the current political crisis. It also will lessen the chance of GIs being hurt in Viet Cong terrorist attacks aimed at further deepening the political crisis and disrupting the election. Meanwhile, sources close to President Nguyen Van Thieu said he had rejected Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky's proposal that they both resign so that a successor could call a new election.

questioned whether the Salvation Army extends its services out into the county from Greenville. Several other members gave examples of how they believed it does. There was considerable comment that fund raising by agencies within the United Fund should be quite limited, in order that the major claim of the Fund — that this is a one-time pledge to support community services — not be made less effective. It was stressed that most agencies that do raise money in other ways do so for capital improvements, not for sustaining the operations of the agency, for which the United Fund provides support. The new drive chairman, Ed Warren is a Greenville businessman and a former public school principal.

Warns Of New Losses

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — King Hussein of Jordan warned today that another war soon between the Arabs and Israel would lead the Arabs to another disaster and the loss of more territory to Israel. Hussein indicated he is willing to consider an interim settlement with Israel over Jerusalem but gave no details. "The disarray and weakness of the Arab world have never been worse," the king said in an interview with the Beirut newspaper Al Nahar. "The Arab countries are not yet strong enough to take on Israel." The king's warning appeared to be directed at Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who has vowed to resolve the Middle East crisis this year, either peacefully or by war. Hussein advocated a continuation of the present cease-fire "until the Arab states coordinate their policies and build up a joint force capable of exerting effective political and military pressure on Israel."

Mayor Visiting Offices Of HUD

Mayor S. Eugene West left today for Atlanta, Ga. to visit the Housing and Urban Development regional office. He said he will try to secure money for the Newtown Housing Project and also hopes to get final approval and the release of planning funds for the Southside Renewal Project. Federal funds for all such projects nationwide have been frozen for the past six months. Mayor West said he believes that money for Greenville projects and others should be released shortly and he wants to be sure that this city is not bypassed. He expects to return to Greenville Thursday, he said.

Hopes Education Issue

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — State School Supt. Craig Phillips said Monday night he hopes North Carolina's political candidates will make education a positive issue during the 1972 campaigns. "Hopefully, whoever becomes governor will make education an issue — and a positive one, not a negative one," Phillips said.

Phillips made the comments in an interview telecast by MUNC-TV. "I hope the candidates will talk about what needs to be done to improve education, such as more career oriented programs," Phillips said. He urged candidates to "move away from dead issues like busing and race."

File Treason Charges

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — State treason charges have been filed against 11 black separatists in connection with the death of a policeman in a shootout last week. The treason charges were announced Monday after a preliminary hearing in which the 11 were bound over to the Hinds County Grand Jury on other charges that included murder and attempted murder. The charges stem from the death last Wednesday of Jackson police Lt. William L. Skinner, 36, outside the headquarters of the Republic of New Africa here. Another policeman and an FBI agent were wounded. The defendants, including RNA President Dmari Obadefe, were held without bond.

Governor Hails New Bogue Sound Bridge

EMERALD ISLE, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said today a new $3 million bridge over Bogue Sound to Emerald Isle marks the beginning of an "era of rapid transportation" to this beach resort area. "The bridge will further enhance and promote development of the unique recreational assets of this section of coastal Carolina," Scott said in a speech prepared for ceremonies dedicating the B. Cameron Langston Bridge. He said the bridge, placed in operation last May, "unstops a bottleneck which has existed for many years on a 20-mile stretch of the Outer Banks." "Traffic now flows freely to Emerald Isle, Salter Path, Pine Knoll Shores, Atlantic Beach and Fort Mcaon," he added. Scott noted that the three ferries which the bridge replaced carried one million persons across Bogue Sound last year. "The sheer volume of traffic demanded the demise of the ferries and the building of the bridge," he said. The bridge was named in honor of B. Cameron Langston, a former member of the state Highway Commission. The dedication came at the end of a leisurely visit to the coastal area by Scott, Mrs. Scott and their 8-year-old daughter, Jan. Scott made many stops along the way to talk to people and let their children take rides in his No. 1 limousine. Several hundred children were taken for rides during the tour which began last Friday afternoon.

Young Diabetics Learn In Mountain Summer Camp

By ROGER D. JOLLEY
Associated Press Writer
BREVARD, N.C. (AP) —
Children attending summer camp at Eagle's Nest Camp last week learned to swim, ride horses and hike. They also learned to give themselves insulin with a hypodermic needle, test their urine four times a day and perform other duties needed to keep themselves alive and active.

The children, numbering about 110 and ranging in age from six to sixteen, are all diabetics and most can't attend the normal summer camps

which dot this section of the North Carolina mountains.
For them, the two-week camp operated by the Greenville Lay Society of the South Carolina Diabetic Association with assistance from the North Carolina Diabetes Association, is more than an opportunity to get away from home for two weeks.

The camp offers them the skills they need to try to overcome the disease, which affect their pancreas so they don't get enough insulin naturally. They learn to avoid, at least most of the time, the rapid changes in blood sugar level that can leave them sick, listless and irritable or even in a potentially fatal coma.

summer camp for diabetic children in the North Carolina Mountains. (AP

The camp came into being after parents of diabetic children in Greenville, S.C., found the usual summer camps wouldn't accept their children because of the extra care they required.

Led by sales representative
Adam Fisher, they formed the Greenville Lay Society and ultimately the South Carolina Diabetic Association, and held their own camp at Greenville in 1968. Nineteen campers attended.

Since then the camp has been held in Eagle's Nest and the enrollment has grown to capacity.
According to Fisher the camp is run on an ability-to-pay basis, ranging from $165 a week to nothing. The campers include children from wealthy families and from poor and broken homes. There are blacks as well as whites.

"We try to make it a happy camp time with a minimum of interference," said Dr. Harry Delcher of Durham's Veteran's Administration Hospital, chief medical staffer at the camp.
"If they learn something about themselves it just happens."
But Delcher and his medical staff of 14 try to see that the youngsters have an opportunity to learn about their affliction.
Each child is encouraged to give himself his required insulin injection. Meal planning to regulate sugar is explained in detail and question-and-answer sessions are held before meals.

Nine-year-old Robert Williams of Southern Pines, N.C., was already giving himself insulin injections before coming to the camp, but he said the desire to "do like the others" encourages many of the younger campers to make the first shaky needle punch into their own arm or leg.

"I think I've learned a lot," he said, "Like controlling my diet. And I don't feel so different now."
On the fourth day of the camp, Terry Lee Fowler, 9, of Piedmont, S.C., Tim Kirkland,
9, of Moore, S.C., Tony Caddell, 10, of Cameron, N.C., and Ricky Berry, 8, of Mooresville, N.C., were swimming in the camp's lake. Eleven-year-old Amelia Harvin of Southern Pines, N.C., and Sara Owens, 7, of Whiteville, N.C., were making rock animals at the crafts center and other campers were scattered about the grounds playing tennis, learning to dance or loafing.

For most of them, it was the first time they had been to a summer camp of any kind.
Ten-year-old Malcolm Anglin of Hampton, Va., wasn't as lucky.
He had had a hypoglycemic, or low blood sugar, episode and was in the camp infirmary, vomiting, sweating and only semiconscious at times. Camp doctors were giving him saline solution intravenously and trying to get sugar-loaded food into him.
A few hours later he was ical staffers are students at Duke University Medical School and Bowman Gray Medical School.

Bob Childs, a fourth-year medical student at Duke and himself a diabetic for the last 10 years, said that as a future doctor he has benefitted most from being around doctors like Delcher, who work closely with diabetics, and from watching the children and their reaction to their disease.
The Morgantown, W. Va., na-clude a 3½-hour session for the parents during which the medical staff would explain what went on at the camp and answer questions.

Urges Investigation Of Govm't Food Inspection

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep.
Benjamin S. Rosenthal has urged a congressional investigation of federal food-inspection programs because of the discovery twice in two months of soup contaminated with botulism toxin.

The New York Democrat, who was chairman of a consumer investigative subcommittee until reorganization killed the panel this year, accused the agencies Monday of "an incredible abuse of their responsibility to protect the consumer from unsafe products."

Campbell Soup Co. announced Sunday it was recalling 200,000 cans of chicken vegetable soup packed July 15 and found contaminated with botulism toxin.
Vichyssoise packed by Bon Vi-vant on May 21 was blamed for the botulism death a month later of a New York man.

The Food and Drug Administration, which is responsible for general sanitation and manufacturing practices at food plants, had not inspected the Campbell plant in Paris, Tex., for two years. The Bon Vivant plant in Newark, N.J., had gone uninspected for four years.

USDA, responsible for continuous inspection during packing of canned goods containing certain percentages of meat and poultry, had two inspectors present in the Campbell plant while the soup was processed.
Although USDA was not responsible for the Bon Vivant vichyssoise, an inspector was in the plant the day before the tainted soup was packed on equipment which the FDA later said was accidentally set up to under-cook food.

Rosenthal said Campbell had packed another lot of chicken vegetable July 2 and by July 10 federal officials were aware of swollen cans—an indication of improper processing. Campbell recalled the lot, but USDA permitted the July 15 batch to go out, Rosenthal said.

USDA officials were not available for comment on Rosental's charge. Campbell denied the July 2 soup was involved in a general recall. A Campbell spokesman said some July 2 soup was picked up from consumers because of complaints about its taste, but tests showed the soup to be no health hazard.

Kenneth E. Clair, director of Campbell's information services, said in Paris that between the end of July and just recently, there had been some problems with swelling cans.
This, he said, prompted the testing that turned up botulism toxin Sunday.

Two Injured In Four Accidents

An estimated $3,450 property damage resulted and two persons were reported injured in a series of four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police yesterday.

Mewborn, 21, of Grifton.
Damage was set by officers at $800 to the Mills car and $600 to the Mewborn auto.

Cars driven by Primus
Outlaw, 41, of Route 1, Stokes and Kelly Lee Darden, 44, of 212
Cadillac St. were involved in a 12:30 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fourth and Pitt Streets.

Police estimated damages at $200 to the Outlaw car and $150 to the Darden auto.

Darden was charged with failing to yield the right of way.
Herbert Benjamin Crumpler, 49, of Route 2, Goldsboro was charged with failing to keep a proper lookout while backing following investigation of a 4:20 p.m. mishap on Cross St., 30 feet North of the Broad St. intersection.

Miss Roberts is one of 25 students enrolling this year in the three-year course offered by the Lenoir Memorial Hospital School of Nursing.

Investigation of a 1:10 p.m. mishap on Greene Street a half-mile North of the First Street intersection resulted in the driver of one of the cars involved, Fred Laron Mills, 42, of Route 2, Greenville, being charged with driving under the influence.

Investigators said the truck driven by Crumpler collided with a car driven by Mildred Bland Mazingo of 300 Paris Ave. causing an estimated $150 damage to the car and no damage to the Crumpler truck.

Miss Roberts will report to the school Aug. 30 for a one-week orientation course. This will include the traditional
"Welcome To Kinston" day sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, during which she and the other students will be given a tour of Kinston and entertained at lunch. She will live in the Nurses' Residence.

Driver of the second vehicle was identified as Entima Jean

One passenger in the Mazingo car was listed as injured.

In addition to nursing training,
she will take college level courses in basic sciences including chemistry, anatomy, physiology, microbiology and the social sciences.
Miss Roberts is a 1966 graduate of Rose High School.

Teachers Entertained

TEACHERS ENTERTAINED — Yvonne Godette and Bob Karl are welcomed into the Greenville City

Schools System by Faye Creegan, Barbara Tyson and J. B. Smith.

The Greenville Unit of the North Carolina Association of Educators, the Association of Classroom Teachers, and the Association of Childhood Education, entertained the new teachers in the city schools system at a coffee hour at the Holiday Inn Monday morning from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m.

Approximately 20 new teachers attended the event.
They were welcomed by J. B.
Smith, Faye Creegan and Barbara Tyson, local unit presidents of NCAE, ACT and ACE respectively. Staff representatives from the Central Office included Dr. Cleet C.
Cleetwood, Bob Sigmon, Charles Dickens and Preager Sanders. A number of local principals also attended the coffee hour.

Kentucky Gains 3rd Law School

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)— Kentucky has gained its third law school with the merger of the Cincinnati, Ohio, Salmon P.
Chase College of Law which was merged with Northern Kentucky State College, across the Ohio River from Cincinnati to Covington, Ky.

The state also operates law schools at the University of

Martin-Garris Vows Said The Office Flirt In Wednesday Ceremony Made A Good Wife

GRIFTON — The marriage of Miss Harriet Jane Garris and Oscar Lumis Martin III was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock at St. Jude's Catholic Church here. The Rev. Robert Shea officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Garris of Rt. 1 Ayden. The bridegroom is the son of Oscar Lumis Martin Jr. of Fort Worth, Tex.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Sue Gaskins of Ayden. The sanctuary of the church was decorated with two seven branched arched candelabrum and a background of bridal palms, white gladioli and mums. The pew was marked with a white bridal bow.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white pea de soie gown designed by Alfred-Angelo. The scalloped neckline of re-embroidered alencon lace on English net was accented with seed pearls. The gown was empire style with a bow in the center, the long self-button sleeves were enhanced with lace appliques which were also featured on the front panel and the train.

The bride used a three lace petaled headpiece edged with rhinestones and seed pearls attached to an elbow length bridal illusion veil. The bride carried a formal semi-cascade bouquet of white roses and sprays of English ivy tied with a white and tropicana bow.

The maid of honor was Miss Cynthia Garris, sister of the bride. She wore a floor length Grecian style gown of baby blue crepe. Her headpiece was a matching bow and shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Miss Vickie Little of Ayden, cousin of the bride, was a bridesmaid. She wore a mint green gown identical to the maid of honor.

Vernon Stocks of Havelock, uncle of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Milton Garris and Hugh Garris, brothers of the bride, Gregory Garris, brother of the bride, assisted Fr. Shea.

MRS. OSCAR LUMIS MARTIN III

Mrs. Garris chose for her daughter's wedding, a sleeveless ensemble of pink embroidered crepe imported from England with matching accessories. She wore a pink orchid.

Honorary attendants were Miss Eileen McAllister of Ayden, Misses Jacqueline and Helen Gray of Norfolk, Virginia, cousins of the bride. They wore pastel street length dresses. The bride is a graduate of Ayden High School and Hamlet School of Nursing.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Forth Worth High School, Tex. He is employed by Fort Worth Demolition Railroad.

For travel the bride changed into a pink knit dress with matching accessories and a corsage lifted from her bouquet. The couple will honeymoon on their way to their residence in Fort Worth, Tex.

Reception

Following the ceremony, a reception was given by the parents of the bride in the parish hall. The receiving line was composed of the parents and grandmothers of the bride, the bridal couple and the bride's attendants.

The refreshment table was overlaid with a white lace cloth. It was centered with a yellow and gold floral arrangement. For opposite ends of the table Mrs. Stuart Tripp, aunt of the bride, poured punch from a cut glass punch bowl. Mrs. Jeffrey McAllister served the cake after the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slice. Mrs. Wesley Green, aunt of the bride, assisted with the cake cutting.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Karachun Jr. presided at the register and said the good-byes. Mrs. John Condon Sr. of Grifton directed the wedding.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the Martin-Garris wedding party and out-of-town guests included an after-rehearsal luncheon held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton L. Gray, aunt of the bride, of Kinston.

DEAR ABBY: My story which my wife and I have agreed never to mention, might help others:

"Torchy" (fictitious name) was the most attractive young gal in our office, and all the men, including myself, shared her "favors" with which she was very generous. [I was a swinging young bachelor in those days.]

Next thing Torchy informed us that one of us had impregnated her! Now who would want to marry such a situation? Her attempts to pin the deed on each one of us terminated her charms overnight. Torchy played it cool and continued to work, growing bigger right before our guilty eyes. My conscience got the better of me and I married the Office Problem.

The baby was born and he is the cutest kid you've ever seen. Furthermore, he is the living image of ME!

Now, the most important part. Torchy straightened herself out and became the kind of wife and mother every man hopes for. We have moved to another city, leaving our pasts behind us. And now every time I look at that beautiful kid I think of how close I came to walking out on my responsibility as well as handing my own son over to someone else. Sign me,

DUPLICATE IN UTAH

DEAR DUPLICATE: You were one of the luckier ones. The moral of your story is, "Never fish off the company dock."

DEAR ABBY: Last week my eldest son [whom I shall call "Jimmy"] had his seventh birthday and I had a little party for him. My mother-in-law came with a present for Jimmy, and another one exactly like it for his younger brother, Billy, who is five. Needless to say, the birthday boy's nose was a little out of joint.

Now I am not saying that my mother-in-law was out of line to have brought a gift for Billy, too, but I don't think a child's birthday should have to be shared with brothers or sisters. It is HIS day, and the others will have their day when their birthday comes.

Am I wrong to feel this way? Or is my mother-in-law?

BETWIXT

DEAR BETWIXT: I think it's a rather thoughtful gesture to bring the other child a little something, but your mother-in-law went overboard in bringing the younger boy a gift identical to the birthday boy's.

DEAR ABBY: A Pennsylvania minister asked you to spread the word about how difficult it is to get those tiny multi-colored tissue paper hearts off trees and church property. [They're used to throw at married couples after weddings.] He suggested going back to throwing RICE!

Ever try getting rice and confetti off carpeting half an hour before a funeral!

Our pastor here in Indian Orchard, Mass., has a better solution. He informs the bridal couple that there is a $25 "cleaning service charge" for cleaning up after the wedding. This must be paid BEFORE the wedding, and if there is no litter [confetti, rice, or anything else thrown at the bridal couple] inside or outside the church, the service charge is refunded.

We haven't seen any litter from weddings since.

NEW ENGLANDER

DEAR NEW ENGLANDER: Smart pastor you have there.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos "litter" after weddings: I've attended several weddings where wild bird seed was passed among the guests to throw at the bride and groom.

It solved everyone's problem; nothing to clean up afterwards, no waste, and a gay spirit prevailed.

WILLIAMSTOWN

DEAR WILLIAMSTOWN: One might say such weddings are "for the birds."

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Greenville Writers Attend Tar Heel Writers' Roundtable

Improvement of their writing skill and how to get their efforts published are the two major concerns of writers, regardless of their experience or their genre.

Four Greenville writers participated in the Tar Heel Writers' Roundtable in Raleigh Friday and Saturday, each with these aims in mind. They are Mrs. Betty Casey, an article writer, Dr. Ruby Barnes, who writes mainly articles related to her field, nursing education; Mrs. Antoinette Jenkins, a retired East Carolina University professor who is currently working on a family history; and Mrs. Carol Tyer, a Daily Reflector staff writer.

The Roundtable, held for the past seven years the third weekend in August, was founded and is directed by Mrs. Bernadette Hoyle of Raleigh. She gathers each year a varied group of successful writers who tell of their experiences and give advice to fledglings.

Dwayne Wall, author of "The Chickenbone Special," told how he became so involved with his first book that he has now resigned as a reporter of many years standing to devote all his time to turning out non-fiction.

Mrs. Shirley Cochrane, a housewife and fiction writer, told of her good fortune at breaking into "Good Housekeeping." Her novelette in the April issue made her $10,000 richer.

Bugs Barringer of Rocky Mount gave advice on putting together columns. Jack McLarn of Charlotte likened writing to industrial engineering with the need for quality control, production control, and cost control. John Foster West, author of "Time Was," who is an Appalachian State University professor, spoke about novel-writing. Mrs. Margaret Clayton, author of hundreds of magazine and newspaper features, gave a capsule view of the lecture material she uses for a private course in article-writing. Mrs. Ina Faubus, author of several children's books, the latest of which is "Tawny's Trick," related how her characters develop their own personality and her ideals about not writing down to children. Mrs. Helen Bevington, a poet of renown and a teacher of poetry at Duke University, spoke of trends in her genre.

All of the speakers were present during the entire two-day meeting and they and others who are established in their writing fields, were always available to answer questions and advise. Many read and criticized material brought by others and the autographing of books was going on constantly.

Mrs. Eva McKenna was the luncheon speaker. She told of her many faux pas in living with the writer "The Sand Pebbles," her husband, the late Richard McKenna. The two met when she

High Protein Bread Is A Reader Request

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I read in a nutrition column in a newspaper that you could increase the protein value of bread by using nonfat dry milk solids in the dough. Although I have never baked with yeast, the column stirred my interest and now I want to bake this high-protein loaf. Can you give me a recipe for it?—NEW BAKER.

DEAR NEW BAKER: Adding nonfat dry milk solids to bread dough does indeed bestow protein of excellent quality on the bread. Although you are new at yeast-baking, I think you'll find the following Hi-protein Bread recipe easy to follow. The yeast is added to the dry ingredients (instead of being dissolved in some of the liquid) and so this method saves a step. When we soaked the bread in our test kitchen we found its texture soft and spongy—fine to use for sandwiches and to toast.—C.B.

HI-PROTEIN BREAD

5 to 6 cups unsifted flour
1 tablespoon sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¾ cup instant nonfat dry milk solids
1 package active dry yeast
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened
2 cups very hot tap water

In a large mixing bowl thoroughly stir together 2 cups flour, the sugar, salt, dry milk solids and undissolved yeast. Add butter.

Gradually stir in the water; beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl a few times. Stir in ¾ cup flour or enough to make a thick batter. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl several times. Stir in enough additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes.

Place in buttered medium bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in a warm draft-free place until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour.

Punch down dough; turn out onto lightly floured smooth surface. Divide dough in half and shape into loaves. Place in 2 greased loaf pans (each 8½ by 4½ by 2½ inches). Cover; let rise as previously until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour.

Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven about 30 minutes. Turn out of pans and cool on wire racks.

Makes 2 loaves.

Prospect Proves Fascinating

Nothing seems to fascinate political observers in the Tar Heel state more these days than the prospects of a presidential preference primary next year.

The primary was authorized by the General Assembly and will be held May 2. It is still too early to guess who will be running

No Other Has N.C. Formula

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Tar Heels launch out next year on what may be the wave of the future in the nomination of presidential candidates.

BRYAN HAISLIP

When North Carolina inaugurates its preferential primary next spring, it will be one of 22 states — nearly half the 50 — using the method to signal voter sentiment on aspirants for the top office in the land.

It may be 20 years away, but Executive Secretary Alex Brock of the State Board of Elections sees a national primary as inevitable. The North Carolina primary, he added, is a sound, functional model to follow.

"It's got to come," Brock said. "The national convention process with its ridiculous antics and circus atmosphere is losing the respect of the general public."

The contest for those seeking the presidential nomination will coincide with the general party primaries next May 2. That date saves the state the expense of a separate election, and also should serve to boost voter turnout for the state races, Brock said.

All-Star Cast
Names on the ballot can only be guessed at this time, but inquiries already have reached the state elections board from those considered major contenders. The outlook, Brock commented, is for an all-star cast and a first-rate show.

While the presidential primary idea was endorsed by the state Democratic executive committee and enacted by the Democrat-controlled General Assembly, not everybody agrees it will be a good thing for the majority party.

A dissenter is Sam J. Ervin, Jr., the state's venerable senior U.S. Senator. Senator Sam rumbled that he fears the presidential jousting will have an unhappy effect on state and local primaries.

"We have enough divisive things without adding a phantom race between four or five presidential candidates," he remarked.

Ervin said he wouldn't urge his personal choice for the nomination, Senator Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson of Washington, to enter the Tar Heel sweepstakes. "Nobody will be able to win," he said. Neither, said Ervin, will he allow his name on the ballot as a favorite son candidate.

All the same, there are indications that Jackson, who reconnoitered the North Carolina political scene recently, may be in the primary.

Hats In The Ring
Other Democrats from whom interest has been expressed, directly or by supporters, include Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, only announced candidate for the Democratic nomination; Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana; Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine (Gov. Bob Scott's favorite); Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, House Ways and Means Chairman; and Governor George Wallace of Alabama.

Republican party officials have asked details of the primary, presumably with the aim of getting President Nixon's name on the ballot. There's the chance, too, of a place for Rep. Paul McCloskey, the California Republican trying to fuel a "dump Nixon" drive.

Senator Ervin's negative primary sentiments got an echo from Frank A. Rouse of Winston, a Republican leader running for state chairman of his party. He said the presidential primary will be a blood-letting for the Democrats and a boon for the GOP.

"By the time they bring in the 'dirty dozen' and parade them through the state," said Rouse, gleefully, "they will have spent all their November money and set things up for us."

Meaningful Features
Features of the primary which make it meaningful for voters and candidates are provisions to screen out frivolous and reluctant candidates and to reward those who finish first.

"The objective," Brock explained, "is a free and open primary, yet maintaining internal integrity."

Next Feb. 21, the elections board will nominate candidates for all parties (Democratic, Republican, and American in North Carolina) from nationally recognized probable contenders. They will be notified by registered mail.

If they want to run, they will return a $1,000 filing fee within 15 days. If they choose to stay out, they simply do not file.

Those not nominated by the board can get on the ballot through the petition route. It takes, 10,000 signatures of registered voters. No filing fee is required, but payment must be made for certification of names on the petition.

After voting, the top four finishers in each party's primary will be assured a percentage of the first ballot votes cast by the North Carolina delegation to the respective national convention. No obligation extends past the first ballot.

"No other state has a formula like this," Brock said. "Some are merely popularity contests. Ours is about as sound as we can make it."

in the primary but it is already being hailed at a bellweather indicator of the strength of the various candidates seeking party nominations.

As North Carolina goes, so goes the south, is one slogan that is being heard and this might well prove to be true.

Alex Brock of the State Board of Elections has predicted, "We're going to have a very active primary."

The primary election will be more than a straw vote for the candidates since the four top vote-getters will receive the backing of the state delegation on the first ballot at the National Convention. The votes will be divided according to the percentage of primary votes each candidate receives.

There are, of course, other state primaries — 22 of them — but the one next year will be a first for North Carolina and it is already being built up as being one of the more meaningful.

North Carolina voters should be prepared for considerable attention from the presidential hopefuls in the months leading up to the May 2 primary. Particularly on the Democratic side, where no candidate is dominant will there be considerable activity as the candidates attempt to snare a large share of the convention votes.

We should receive attention from presidential hopefuls such as seldom has been seen in North Carolina. It should be an interesting experience.

New Bogue Bridge Is One Traffic-Solver

The new bridge across Bogue Sound to Emerald Isle was dedicated today and it should greatly improve traffic conditions in the resort area.

The bridge, which is 4,500 feet long and cost $3 million to build went into service last May.

That end of the island was served by ferry service until the bridge was completed.

The Emerald Isle area has been developing rapidly and with the completion of the new bridge access to the area is greatly improved.

Second Stage Yet Undecided

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The need for speed and secrecy was so paramount during the crucial Camp David talks which led to President Nixon's dramatic 90-day freeze on prices and wages that virtually no consideration at all was given to the crucial question: what next?

The President's economic advisers started grappling with the next stage at a meeting in the White House on Wednesday afternoon. The problem: what to do after the 90-day freeze expires Nov. 12 without resorting to the compulsive, OPA-type mechanism so detested by Richard M. Nixon? One tentative answer (though Mr. Nixon remains totally uncommitted on post-freeze policy): a national wage-price stabilization commission "for voluntary compliance."

At Wednesday's meeting (with Mr. Nixon not present), there was strong support for using the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee, set up on March 29, as a prototype for policing wages nationwide.

But that commission handles only wages, not prices. With President George Meany and the AFL-CIO assailing the President's wage-price freeze, some mechanism to hold down price increases is a political imperative. Thus, the stabilization commission would have to be broadened to include price guidelines — an extremely delicate operation.

Nevertheless, despite the blast from Meany (far angrier than the White House had anticipated), most members of the new Cost of Living Council are convinced a strong-arm but voluntary incomes policy, making full use of Presidential persuasion and public opinion, simply must follow the 90-day freeze.

Top Administration policymakers hope that a rise in the economy (with revised second-quarter statistics showing a solid 4 per cent real growth) will so generate higher productivity that inflationary pressures will be deflated — a rose-colored theory attracting considerable skepticism from economists. The skeptics feel the stimulative tax cuts and import levies asked by the President might, on the contrary, heat up the inflationary pot still more.

In any event, nobody in the Administration believes that the 90-day freeze can be followed by a return to the hands-off policy enunciated by Mr. Nixon in January 1969. Rather, they are now eyeing a voluntary stabilization commission as a far lesser evil than a compulsory OPA and one that just might work, based on construction industry experience.

Although the record of the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee is mixed, it has lately gained major concessions from craft unions.

When established last March, the going rate of wage hikes was astronomical — nearly 20 per cent for the first year of a three-year contract. That has been reduced in literally hundreds of recent contracts to about 10 per cent for the first year, and lesser increases for the next two. Moreover, the heavy pressure of the committee has given labor leaders a subtle assist in resisting runaway wage demands from

REMOTE SOURCES

A group of men were discussing together the damage to a large building which had come about through a leaking roof. For months they were not able to find the leak. At last they discovered it far from the place where most of the damage occurred.

A physician who was one of the men discussing the damage said, "You know, disease is often the result of a very remote cause. Something happens in one part of the body and after months and sometimes years of searching specialists find that there is a very remote cause of the trouble, and if the remote cause can be removed, the disease is cured."

It was once said by a wise philosopher that nothing ever happens to a man that is not of the nature of himself. Something happens in our lives and we begin immediately pointing out certain things or certain persons as the cause. But wait. Look more deeply into the situation. The cause of the trouble may be much more remote than you suspect. Your problem may have its origin in circumstances long since past. It may not be somebody else who has caused your trouble but some perversity or evil within yourself.

If you can't find a immediate cause for troublesome situations, start exploring. The cause may be very remote. It may be hidden far away, far back, far within.

Spotlight For Connally

"The history of the world," said Carlyle, "is but the biography of great men." We are witnessing the truth of that aphorism these days in the explosive emergence of John B. Connally as Secretary of the Treasury. Zowie! What a guy!

Forgive the bang-marks. It is not often — it is just about never — that a political figure comes along who captivates our jaded press corps. As they say, we do not captivate easily. But over these past six months, since his boffo performance before the Senate Finance Committee at confirmation time, Connally has arrived on stage like Englebert Humperdinck at a Pi Phi convention. His 50-minute press conference of August 16 had 'em hollering sis-boom-bah.

The reaction will come as no surprise to newspapermen of Texas, who have known their former Governor since way back when. The relatively few reporters who covered the Pentagon ten years ago, when Connally was here as Secretary of the Navy, now are boasting that they saw his potential then. Even so, he was just the New Boy to most of us when he turned up in February. Now he's the president of the senior class.

Goodness knows we have had plenty of colorful Texans in town before, most recently the One Great Scoutmaster of Us All. The mind wanders back to Tom T. Connally (no kinsman), W. Lee O'Daniel, Maury Maverick, Hatton Sumners, Martin Dies, and Speaker Sam. We had Tom Clark over on the high co't. (The trouble with writing about Texans is that after a while you start writin' Taixas.) But John B. Connally seems to have something special.

Part of his appeal doubtless arises from the contrast he brings to his drab surroundings. The Nixon administration has its merits, but pizzazz it has not. Except for Martha Mitchell and Dr. Henry Svengali, these three years have been mostly a committee of guys named Romney. Vice President Agnew has helped, but he hasn't helped much.

Now comes Connally, six-foot-two, silver-haired, with a handsome phiz and a he-man tan. He stands straight as the shaft of a six-iron. In private conversation — even in a press conference — he looks you straight in the eye, but it is not like it was with Lyndon. Mr. Johnson had the flinty eye of a faro dealer. Connally has the friendly gaze of a good coach or a parish priest. Want to buy a used car? This guy could sell an old Toyota to Henry Ford.

To watch Connally before a congressional committee is to watch a master at work. As Richard Whalen remarked in last month's Harper's, Connally makes "a congressman feel important. It's a novel sensation. He is

Other Editors Say Teachers

EDITOR'S NOTE — The following editorial was written by Harold Sugg, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Sugg, Sr., of Greenville. He is now editor of the Roanoke (Va.) Times.

(Roanoke, Va., Times)

Mrs. Maude Bowen interested me in Shakespeare; Miss Rachel Scarborough (now Mrs. Ficklen Arthur) started me off in history, properly beginning with ancient history and fortunately not calling it "social studies." Mrs. Picklesimer taught a course in chemistry in 1932 which lasted until nuclear fission changed the whole subject.

All this in the little town of Greenville, N.C., which had about 9,000 people between 1929 and 1932.

"There aren't teachers like that anymore. They are not dedicated" — this from my brother, resigned from the school board after spending five years being beat-on-the-head over the integration problem. The school superintendent of 1932 agreed but for a different reason.

Still strait as a ramrod at age 80, June Rose said: "The teachers think they have to be relevant. They are all sold on having the child relate to the subject instead of teaching him the facts of life."

Maybe he is right; maybe only partly right; I don't know. But if young people are coming out of high schools nowadays without a few teachers they will remember, and be thankful to for 30 years or more, then the public school system really is in a bad shape. —HS.

prices for their product, and there will be a 10 per cent tariff boost. The tariff increase can be passed on to Americans, but the higher

ELMER ROESSNER

basic cost can't. Blow To Scotch Drinkers

The same squeeze will be applied to scotch whisky. The 10 per cent increase in tariff may be passed along to American customers, but the increase in dollar prices charged by distillers, estimated at from 10 to 15 per cent, can't be. This will mean less scotch consumed and more domestic bourbon, rye, gin and vodka.

This may bring the return of that horrible drink of World War II, scotch-type whiskey, made in the U. S. A. The freeze may not prevent states from raising sales taxes, which will automatically increase the cost of living. Incidentally, one of the reasons the consumer price index has been rising is the frequent increases of sales taxes. Not only do they raise the price of consumer items but they have been base for demands for higher wages.

President Nixon has asked Congress to cut the 7 per cent federal tax on autos, but states and cities will continue to collect sales taxes on the retail price. In New York City this is 7 per cent.

Travel Authority
A travel authority tells me that while the United States can freeze fares on flights by U. S. airlines leaving the country, it cannot legally impose a freeze on foreign-owned lines. This might be a boon for U. S. lines, but cost competitors business unless they cut rates.

At the moment, people in Europe, where the dollar is being discounted, can save money by having U. S. travel agents buy roundtrip tickets here. Furthermore, Eurorail passes can be purchased

City School Openings Readied Job-Skill Training For Veterans To Be Pushed

Greenville City Schools open Friday with orientation and a short schedule. Opening arrangements were explained by Supt. C. C. Cleetwood.

At 8:15 a.m. the school day begins for elementary grades one through six with a 10:30 a.m. dismissal time. The secondary grades seven through twelve will begin at 8:45 a.m. with an 11:45 dismissal.

Monday is the first regular school day. That day and thereafter elementary grades will begin at 8:15 a.m. which is considered tardy time for students. Dismissal time will be 3 p.m. for grades two through six. *First graders will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m. until Friday, September 10, after which their dismissal time will be 2:30 p.m.

For grades seven through 12, the school day will begin at 8:45 a.m. (tardy time for students) and end at 3:30 p.m.

Rose High School homeroom assignments have been mailed. Students will report to their designated homerooms, where they will receive schedules, general information, and opening day instructions. ** Students at Aycock Junior High School will report to the following entrance areas to receive homeroom assignment: seventh graders — entrances facing Red Banks Road; eighth graders — the front entrance facing the parking lot; and ninth graders — the back entrance facing the bus-loading zone.

All elementary schools — Eastern, Elmhurst, Sadie Saulter, South Greenville, Third Street, and Wahl-Coates — have mailed their homeroom

the rank-and-file which they themselves know are pie-in-the-sky.

One key element in this planning for the second stage of the new Nixonomics is at least some cooperation from labor. So far, labor's reaction to the wage-price freeze has been ominous. AFL-CIO headquarters claims that thousands of telegrams are coming in berating President Nixon, some demanding that Meany call a national strike.

Thus, labor has abruptly changed tone. Meany and his AFL-CIO council strongly backed the Congressional action in 1970 that gave Mr. Nixon the power to control wages and prices but, now that the President has imposed his 90-day freeze, Meany complains that the freeze falls far short of real controls. "Fortunes were made on the stock market this week," an AFL-CIO official told us, "but our unions can't even collect on their cost-of-living escalation clauses."

It is too soon to predict whether this truculent, anti-Administration attitude reflects mere waspish rhetoric (as White House advisers hope) or hard conviction. But one fact is certain: for the second stage of the Nixon program to work once the 90-day freeze expires, big labor must be a willing and active participant.

The prototype of the Construction Industry Stabilization Committee now being studied could not operate without voluntary cooperation by union presidents. Without it Mr. Nixon would contemplate a grim alternative after the freeze: ineffectual jawboning or the hard compulsion of a new OPA.

Phrenology—the telling of a person's character and mental faculties by the conformation of his skull—was more popular among young lovers than astrology. After all, it was more fun to feel the bumps on each other's heads than to read about their stars.

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Spurred by President Nixon, the Pentagon has ordered a 50-percent increase in a program to prepare undereducated and unskilled servicemen for civilian jobs after discharge.

Pentagon officials indicated about 75,000 men, many of them combat troops, will receive special skill training under the expanded Project Transition that may cost $100 million or more.

The Army recently was directed to send a task force "to establish Transition in Vietnam on a crash basis." And stepped up efforts will be made in other overseas areas and in the United States.

Job counseling, educational help, vocational training and job-finding aid will be provided to men who volunteer for the program in advance of their discharge from the service. Along with the rest, it will be open to men being treated for drug abuse.

Priority goes to men with less than a high school education or its equivalent and to those "who have served in a combat or other occupational specialty whose job prospects are poor because of the lack of a civilian skill."

After screening, volunteers will be sent to a number of skill centers to be established by the Army, Navy and Air Force in the United States. Men may be pulled off their normal military assignments for this special help 60 days before discharge. Or, if they wish, they may remain in service up to 60 days beyond their normal discharge date for fulltime job training.

The Pentagon acknowledged that Project Transition "does put an additional burden on the services under severely restricted manpower conditions."

Received Degree At WCU Friday

CULLOWHEE — Paul T. Williams of Great Falls, S.C., was among 341 students receiving degrees from Western Carolina University at summer commencement exercises Friday.

Williams received the master of arts in education degree, with a major in educational administration.

He is married to the former Ruth Fleming of Greenville. He teaches history and social studies at Great Falls High School, and Mrs. Williams teaches at Great Falls Elementary School.

But it denied readiness of the armed forces will be significantly affected by the accelerated job-preparation program.

The wellspring for the broadened Transition effort was a statement by Nixon last June underscoring the "serious need for increasing employment opportunities for our returning veterans."

The President said he was "deeply concerned at the evidence that the most serious problem is experienced by those with educational deficiencies or other disabilities."

Nixon assigned the highest priority to preparing homecoming GIs for civilian employment and mustered the resources of a number of federal agencies, including the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments, and the Veterans Administration. Private industry also is pitching in with training experts.

equally effective with our local lords of the press. It is Peter, Carl, and Bill and Chuck, but it is yes, ma'am, to the ladies. He has even ensorceled the Star's Miss Mary McGrory, a feat more difficult, if you happen to be part of the Nixon administration, than filling an inside straight.

There is more to Connally that "swagger, gusto and humor," to borrow the McGrory appraisal. There is strength and conviction as well. And here in Credibility Gulch, he possesses one attribute more precious than nuggets of gold — the appearance of absolute candor. He is quite capable of making the grand history that Carlyle had in mind.

But how? Where does he go from here? The obvious speculation, of course — and the speculation has shot up like Monday's market in the past ten days — is that Nixon will offer him the vice-presidential spot on next year's Republican ticket.

It makes a kind of cocktail sense: Nixon will need the South, and he especially will need the 26 votes of Texas. If it's euthanasia for Mr. Agnew, a true-blue conservative must be resurrected in his place. This couldn't be Ronald Regan — the Constitution effectively prohibits two inhabitants of California from running together — and New York's Senator James Buckley needs a few more years in the majors. No other names spring immediately to mind. Why not Connally, the Democrat?

Unfortunately, this is most cocktail sense. Bipartisanship is one thing in the Cabinet — this goes back to Stimson and Knox under FDR. It's quite another thing at a national party convention. But Connally, at 54, has the look of eagles; and he is flying high to somewhere.

RIGHT NOW, AMERICAN MOTORS WILL REFUND THE 7% FEDERAL EXCISE TAX ON ANY '71 YOU BUY. NO MATTER WHAT CONGRESS DECIDES TO DO.

Make a deal with your dealer. Then American Motors will send you a check for $100 to $200.

On August 15, the President recommended that the 7% Federal Excise Tax on automobiles be repealed.

But it won't become official until Congress votes on the recommendation sometime next month. And nobody knows exactly what they'll do.

But, right now, American Motors is refunding the tax, no matter what happens.

So, when you buy a '71 from us, you won't have to wonder what's going to happen.

And, at a time when American Motors dealers are making their best deals of the year, we're making it an even better deal.

When you settle on a price with him, he sends us a card. Then we'll send you a check for $100 to $200, depending on the price of the car you buy.

This offer is valid on all our 1971 Gremlins, Sportabouts, Hornets, Javelins, Matadors and Ambassadors. It's also good on all Jeep models, except trucks.

And, if you bought a new '71 from one of our dealers on or after August 16, see him about your refund from the company.

So, while all the other car companies are waiting around for Congress to act, American Motors is acting.

See your dealer now. With the deals he's giving, plus the refund we're giving, this could be the best automobile buy in history.

Suspect Major Break-Out Was Planned

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—The abortive San Quentin Prison escape try which took six lives may have been part of a large-scale breakout plan using uniforms of slain guards, the head of California's state prisons says.

"It was more than just George Jackson and John (Larry) Spain trying to escape," prisons chief Raymond K. Procnier said at a news conference Monday. "It's my suspicion there were many more who were supposed to go with them."

Only Jackson, 29, who was shot fatally by a tower guard, and Spain, 22, who was captured in a prison courtyard, ran from the San Quentin adjustment center, where three guards and two white honor inmates had been killed, prison officials reported.

"It may have come off prematurely," Procnier said. "We don't know if it was a plot throughout the system."

He said rumors of a massive prison escape attempt by "revolutionary types" had been circulating for months in California prisons and had caused him to meet a week ago with top state prison officials to discuss security measures to prevent violence.

Procnier said the discovery of a 9mm foreign-made automatic in the Afro-style hairdo of Jackson, one of the so-called Soledad Brothers, may have started the break prematurely Saturday.

Jackson had just returned to the maximum security adjustment center after talking with attorney Stephen M. Bingham, when the gun was found during a routine "skin search," Procnier said.

After Jackson grabbed the pistol and "got the drop on the guard," he ordered several officers to the floor and made one guard release 25 other prisoners in the first floor cells, prison officials said.

They included John Clutchette, 28, and Fleeta Drumgo, 26, the two other Soledad Brothers awaiting trial with Jackson on charges of slaying a Soledad Prison guard.

There was also Ruchell Magee, 32, indicted along with black militant Angela Davis on charges of murder, kidnap and conspiracy in an Aug. 7, 1970 Marin County Civic Center shootout in which a judge, two convicts and Jackson's brother, Jonathan, 17, were slain.

Procnier said he believes at least several prisoners may have planned to masquerade with clothes from slain guards, because two of the dead guards had been found stripped to their underwear. He said bullets in soap possessed by convicts and a partially completed gun fashioned from a water pipe were discovered later in a search of the 2,000-man prison on San Francisco Bay.

"I don't see any master conspiracy," Procnier added. "I think we hit the apex here at San Quentin."

Meanwhile, authorities were searching Oakland and Berkeley for Bingham, 29, who worked with the Berkeley Neighborhood Legal Service and more recently the Berkeley law firm of Franck, Hill, Stender, Ziegler & Hendon. The firm said it had not heard from Bingham since Friday. Bingham is a nephew of Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y.

"When he surfaces, we want to talk to him," said Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales, who added that neither an arrest warrant nor an all-point bulletin has been issued for Bingham.

"The case has not been turned over to me yet," he said late Monday. "We are looking for him to question him because I have been told he was the last and only person to visit George Jackson on Saturday. Obviously, he is a key witness."

Associate Warden James Park said guards searched Bingham opened his briefcase but failed to check a small tape recorder. Park told reporters he believed "the gun was brought in a tape recorder."

Reaction to the slayings came from all quarters of the state.

Gov. Ronald Reagan blamed "revolutionary elements" and urged prison officials to take whatever steps are necessary to halt the violence.

Black Panther party chairman Bobby Seale urged a "people's investigation" of Jackson's slaying, while the United Prisoners Union, an organization of former convicts, demanded a similar inquiry by state legislators, the union and newsmen.

The slain correctional officers were Sgt. Jere Graham, 39; Paul Krasnes, 52; and Frank P. De Leon, 44. All three suffered knife or razor wounds, and Krasnes and Graham had been shot once each.

The dead inmates besides Jackson were John Lynn, 29, Ventura, Calif., and Ronald Kane, 28, Fresno, Calif. Both had their throats slit.

IRS Office Is Getting Queries

Area residents trying to call the Greenville Internal Revenue Service Office for wage-price control information may have had some difficulty.

The local number is not listed in the telephone directory, according to H.E. Boyd, who heads the local IRS office.

Boyd explained that the IRS established a central telephone exchange to handle toll-free telephone calls regarding tax questions about a year ago. Since that time, local IRS numbers in the state have not been listed. All callers have been given the toll-free 800-822-8800 number.

Boyd, who said the Greenville IRS office number is 752-6218, explained the toll-free service number is designed to give better service to North Carolina residents by allowing more persons the opportunity to receive free tax information. He said such toll free service allows persons in rural areas not served by a near-by IRS office to have access to free service.

The toll-free information centers were established in only two districts in the United States, Boyd explained, on a trial basis. The Greensboro district (including Greenville) was selected because of its large rural area, and the urban Milwaukee, Wisconsin, area.

The Greenville IRS office received about a half-dozen wage-price-rent calls Monday.

According to Boyd, persons in the Greenville area having questions about the wage-price-rent regulations may call either the local office or the toll-free 800 number.

Chicago Univ. Prof Only 22 Years Old

By P. J. HELLER
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—At the age of 22, Charles L. Fefferman is a professor of mathematics at the University of Chicago, the youngest full professor in the history of the school.

The appointment caps a whirlwind education for the Maryland man in which he went directly from junior high school into the University of Maryland, skipping the normal senior high school years.

The top faculty rank at Chicago, conferred upon him this month, carries with it lifetime tenure.

University officials said Monday that Fefferman, from Silver Spring, Md., may well be the youngest full professor at any U.S. college.

Alberto Calderon, chairman of the mathematics department at the university, said Fefferman is "the best man to have appeared in the area of his specialty in the last 10 or 20 years." His field is harmonic analysis and Fourier series.

Fefferman enrolled at the University of Maryland in 1963 at the age of 14 after completing junior high school. Three years later, he emerged with a bachelor of science degree. He was also given a high school diploma.

Students lacking high school diplomas are normally for bidden by Maryland law to enter state universities. But the faculty at Maryland was so impressed with Fefferman that he was exempted from the requirement.

Fefferman celebrated his 20th birthday in 1969, the same year he received his doctorate from Princeton. He served as a lecturer in mathematics at the Ivy League school in 1970 and joined the Chicago faculty soon afterwards.

He is currently attending a conference at the University of California at Berkeley.

Montreal's Eighth Straight Is Help To Giants In Upping Lead

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The hottest team in the National League wins even in cold weather.

Montreal's fired-up Expos ignored some gusty breezes and warmed up their Canadian faithful Monday night with a 12-6 victory over Los Angeles that gave them an eight-game winning streak, their best ever.

Elsewhere in the National League Monday, Pittsburgh belted Atlanta twice 15-4 and 4-3 to open a five-game lead in the East Division, Chicago dumped Cincinnati 6-3, San Francisco topped New York 5-4, St. Louis nipped Houston 3-2 and Philadelphia dropped San Diego 3-1.

In the only American League games scheduled, Detroit trimmed Minnesota 4-2 and Oakland walloped the New York Yankees 8-2.

The Canadian cool agreed with Boots Day and Rusty Staub, who destroyed the Dodgers with nine runs batted in between them.

Day had a two-run single in the second inning and a two-run homer in the fourth as Montreal built an early lead. Staub drove in an early run with a sacrifice fly and then climaxed Montreal's assault with a grand slam homer in the eighth, giving him five RBIs for the night.

Los Angeles, which slipped 7½ games back of San Francisco in the West Division race, grabbed an early 3-0 lead with Pitcher Don Sutton driving in two of the runs.

But the Expos bounced back with five runs to grab the lead in the second inning with John Bateman's bases-loaded single chasing the first two across and then Day's single and Staub's sacrifice fly capping the rally.

Day tagged his two-run homer in the fourth and Ron Fairly followed the issue with his bases-loaded blast in the eighth.

The Giants took advantage of Montreal's victory over the pursuing Dodgers by beating the Mets and adding another game to their West Division edge.

Bobby Bonds paced the Giants' victory, hammering a homer and a double to lead the attack. Jerry Johnson came out of the bullpen to save the victory for rookie Don Carrithers, 3-2. It was the 14th save for Johnson, ace of the Giant bullpen. He also had 12 victories.

Bonds' 24th homer helped the Giants to an early 3-0 edge, then he doubled in one run and scored another in the sixth as the lead built to 5-0. The Mets kayoed Carrithers in the bottom of the sixth but Johnson shut off the rally and held New York at Bay after that.

Pittsburgh snapped out of an extended slump with its sweep against Atlanta.

Manny Sanguillen drove in two runs with a double and scored two others as the Pirates took the first game. Then Pittsburgh resorted to the long ball with Al Oliver crashing two homers and Roberto Clemente and Bob Robertson adding one apiece in the nightcap.

Oliver's triple and Clemente's 13th homer of the year were the big blows in a five-run third inning that put Pittsburgh in control in the second game.

Oliver finished with four hits in the game and called the sweep "a big thing for the club."

The sweep enabled Pittsburgh to gain one-half game on pursuing Chicago. The Cubs whipped Cincinnati in a day game with Juan Pizarro's five-hitter doing the job.

Ron Santo ripped three hits and drove in three runs for Chicago and Cleo James also had three hits including a two-run homer.

Bob Gibson pitched a seven-hitter and drove in the winning run with a ninth inning single as the Cardinals beat Houston, tagging Don Wilson with his first loss since July 18.

Hot-hitting Joe Torre drove in the first two Cardinal runs with a single and a double but the Astros rallied to tie the score before Gibson's ninth inning hit decided it.

Tim McCarver doubled home two runs and Rick Wise pitched Philadelphia past San Diego.

McCarver's fifth inning double snapped a scoreless tie and Willie Montanez drove in the Phillies' other run with a six-inning single as Wise won his 13th game.

McAuliffe Leads Detroit Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Welcome home, Dick McAuliffe, you've been away too long.

After a season of ups and downs, mostly downs, the Detroit second baseman is prospering with a home plate-hugging hitting style.

"Right now, I feel I can hit anything—outside or inside," exclaimed McAuliffe after slugging a three-run homer in Detroit's 4-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday night.

McAuliffe also had a double, his sixth hit in the last three games, to bring his batting average up to .206. That may not seem like much, but it's not bad considering he was only hitting .180 a month ago.

"I was in a bad slump because I was pulling away from the ball," declared McAuliffe, who was a .253 lifetime hitter before this year. "But I knew what I was doing wrong—and I corrected it."

Instead of backing off, McAuliffe dug in and leaned on home plate with a newfound aggressive determination that exploded into a three-hit day Saturday and one Sunday before Monday night's game.

In the American League's only other contest, the Oakland A's pounded the New York Yankees 8-2.

The Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Atlanta Braves, 4-3 and 15-4; the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Houston Astros 3-2; the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 6-3; the Montreal Expos defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 12-6; the Philadelphia Phillies turned back the San Diego Padres 3-1 and the San Francisco Giants stopped the New York Mets 5-4 in the National League.

Despite his embarrassing batting average, McAuliffe has made his 79 hits count. He's got 16 home runs and 53 runs batted in—not bad for a .200 hitter.

Detroit Manager Billy Martin kept the faith all along, even if McAuliffe didn't. "I always had the confidence in him, even though he was down on himself," said Martin. "He's aggressive with the bat now."

Tommy Davis, rookie Angel Mangual and Dick Green each knocked in two runs and Chuck Dobson notched his 13th victory as runaway Oakland bounced New York and moved its Western Division lead to 16 games over second place Kansas City. Davis contributed run-scoring grounders to two rallies—a three-run fourth inning and a three-run seventh. Mangual doubled home two in the seventh and Green had a sacrifice fly in the fourth and his 12th homer in the eighth inning.

To be eligible to play in the Senior Amateur golf championship a player must be at least 55 years of age on the date set for sectional qualifying.

Sonny Randle kicked off his first fall as head football coach at East Carolina University, sending his charges through two practice sessions.

It was the opening of drills for the 1971 season, and 69 varsity players reported for duty.

The Bucs spent the morning session going through various conditioning drills and timing checks. Then, at the afternoon session, they began to rough out some of their plays, working on passing, punting and pass defense.

Under National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) rules, the Bucs must spend their first three days in light equipment, with no contact work allowed. These three days are spent mostly in conditioning.

Randle plans to put the Bucs into heavy gear on Thursday, and get immediately down to hard work. A scrimmage session has been scheduled for Saturday.

The Pirates will work twice a day through September 8, then switch to once a day as classes for the fall quarter begin. They open the season three days later, on the 11th, entertaining Toledo. The Rockets will bring the nation's current longest winning streak, 23 games, into Ficklen Stadium for the contest.

Randle said that he was quite pleased with the condition of the players, and was especially pleased with the attitude. "They are very enthusiastic, and ready to go to work," Randle said.

The biggest problem facing Randle during the three short weeks until the first game is the building of depth. "We've got fifteen or sixteen men on offense and fifteen or sixteen on defense who can play with anybody. If we bet too many injuries in any one area; however, we could be in trouble," he said. But baring those injuries, Randle and his crew hope to spend Christmas in Florida nibbling on tangerines.

While the depth may be somewhat limited, the talent there is of top caliber. The Bucs may have one of the most explosive backfields in the Southeast.

Calling the signals will be 6-5 sophomore Carl Summerell, whom Norman Snead called "the best college quarterback I've ever seen." He is an ace thrower and can run when called on.

But judging by who is carrying the ball, Summerell may not get that running call often.

In the backfield with him are two All-Conference players with plenty of experience, Billy Wallace and Les Strayhorn. And both of them are quite busy looking over their shoulders.

For right in there battling with them is another sophomore, Carlester Crumpler, the 6-5, 215-pound speedster who has already been named one of the nation's top sophomores by Playboy magazine.

And when the Bucs go to the air, they have a fine receiving corps, headed by 6-5 Carl Gordon, another All-Conference probability.

The offensive line is big and quick. It is anchored by tackles Paul Haug and Grover Truslow, whom Randle feels are the tops in the league.

Defensively, however, there are some new faces. Team captain Rich Peeler will lead the defensive line, which last season was the best in the conference.

Backing up the line are two veteran linebackers, Monty Kiernan and Ralph Betesh. The secondary is inexperienced, but quick, with converted quarterback Jack Pittcher at safety, and Will Mitchell and sophomore Rusty Markland leading the way.

Fagg Hoping Davidson Plays Last 2 Minutes

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

For Davidson College last year, the season was just a little too long. Well, maybe not the season so much as every game.

"We lost six of our games last year in the last two minutes," Coach Dave Fagg said. Those 12 minutes could have easily made Davidson an 8-2 team instead of an 2-8 loser.

"We have many problems," Fagg said. "Motivation is a key word for us, and rebuilding is our name." Besides losing those games, Davidson also lost some top personnel. Eight of the 11 defensive players are gone, along with much of the offense.

"On offense, we are going to try and spread 'em (the opposition) out, and make them play one-on-one. We'll run from the pro slot with a split backfield. We'll probably shift from an I to the split."

But just because Davidson football has lost some of its bite of two seasons ago when the Wildcats surprised everyone and won the title, don't think they're out of it.

"You'd better be ready for us," Fagg warns. "We're going out to win, and we're not going to give up anywhere along the way. If we don't get hurt, we're going to be interesting."

For the past several seasons Davidson has had a potent passing attack under such bombers as Gordon Slade, Jimmy Poole and their fine receiver Mike Mikolayunas. This year, they hope to turn in a more potent running attack, but they're not about to give up the pass.

"Our quarterbacks, Scotty Shipp and Rick Kemmerlin, both look good," Fagg said. "Shipp is a triple threat, he can run, pass and kick."

"We have a good receiver in junior end Andy Davis, whom I consider a definite All-Conference prospect," Fagg said. Also high on Fagg's list is end Randy Parker, along with a pair of flankers, Walt Walker and Richard Neal. Neal can also handle the fullback slot if necessary.

In the running game, Fagg looks to two fine backs in Johnny Ribet and Bill Bracken. "Both of them are All-Conference types," Fagg said. Ribet grounded out 625 yards for the Wildcats last season, while Bracken was just behind with 610.

"Our backs are encouraging to us. They are not great ones, but they are loyal and tough." But the offensive line may tell the tale as far as Davidson's scoring ability is concerned. Fagg has some fine candidates around, including guard Jim Ellison, guard Robert Elliott, and tackle Larry Spears.

"We are extremely young and shallow in the line," the coach said. The other tackle position will probably go to Garry

Coulter, while Bill Nicklas will handle the shaping duties.

But turning to defense, Fagg says, "I'm embarrassed. We have got to play better defense. I thought we would be good last year, but injuries killed us. We've had a lot of losses, but we do have some back." There is only one lineman returning from last year, but there are nine lettermen back in the secondary.

One of the bright spots in the defense may be an area product, Williamson's Jimmy Hardison. The 6-2, 181-pound junior, is expected to hold down one of the defensive end positions.

"He started some last year after those ahead of him got hurt," Fagg said. "He's just a great young man. He's making the adjustment to a down position very well, and is a good competitor." The coach recalled that when he asked Hardison whether he wanted to switch to end, he told him, "I like to play and I want to start."

Greg Sikes will hold down the other end slot, with Bill Garrett and Mike McFarland at the tackles. Woody Montgomery, Robert Norris, John Barbee and Joe Poteat hold down the linebacking slots, with John Maloney and Tom Vandiver at the half backs. Terry Woodlief is returning to his safety position. "I think we have a good defensive secondary," Fagg said. "It depends on our line, again, here."

Harold Wilkerson will handle the kinking for the Wildcats, and Fagg says that he's "a pro type."

Davidson won't have an easy schedule either. They open with the highly regarded Wake Forest Deacons, then take on VMI, William & Mary and Appalachian. They move on to Bucknell, Furman, Wofford, East Carolina, and Richmond, then finish up with The Citadel.

Davidson has also had some problems financially. Their program operates without money from its campus; it is raised each year by drives. "We had good response last year with a short drive," Fagg said, "raising about $80,000. So far this year we're doing well, but it concerns me and others who care about Davidson football. We have to raise between $130,000 and $150,000."

"It's a hard time to go out to get money, but we have to have it, and we have to have the very best football possible."

"It's hard to imagine any school without football," Fagg said, "especially Davidson. We're just going to have to raise that money."

Volleyballers Made Friends

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — America's volleyball "diplomats" more than one friend during 10 days in Castro's Cuba.

"A woman said she loved the American way and would be rooting for us," said Dan Patterson of Malibu, Calif. "She kept looking around, making sure nobody overheard."

The USA's team was back home today after losing the finals to Cuba 3-1 in a hemispherical tournament to decide a berth for the 1972 Olympics at Munich, Germany.

"We went to a beach one day," recalled 6-foot-7 Bill Wardrop of Manhattan Beach, Calif.

"People smiled and offered us beer and soda pop. They told us how much they adored their system."

The streets of Havana were lined with Communist propaganda, even one giant billboard asking that black American militant Angela Davis be freed from jail.

"People seemed to be under pressure," said Wardrop. "Truthfully, I'm not sure what I saw ... because I never saw Cuba in the old days. Those people, many of them, may have been even poorer and hungrier."

Havana's fashions left the USA athletes cold.

"We saw just one chick with makeup on her face and wearing a miniskirt," said Larry Millikin of Santa Monica, Calif.

"That girl turned out to be a secretary visiting from Mexico City."

Wardrop, a stylish Californian in flair trousers, said he saw nothing hip about the way Cubans dress.

"I learned that Castro has a rule against long hair and big mustaches," said Millikin.

Wardrop made his way to the Cuban dictator before the final tournament game, slapping a USA Pan-Am games souvenir pin on his chest.

The Cuban volleyball team also routed the Yanks in Cali, Colombia, at the Pan-American Games earlier this month.

"I was struck in the back by something thrown out of the stands at Cali," said Patterson, a slightly-built man with a mustache. "After that, we worried about what might be happening in Cuba."

Match Play Golf Returns

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, the top two seeds, face formidable opponents Wednesday when match play returns to the pro golf tour after a 14-year absence.

No. 1 Nicklaus faces Ray Floyd and No. 2 Palmer has Australian Bruce Devlin in the first round of the $200,000 United States Match Play Championship.

The five-day tournament, which was an 18-hole final round scheduled Sunday, is the first official pro tour event to be played at match play since Lionel Hebert won the 1957 PGA national championship. The PGA went to stroke play in 1958.

Hebert is one of only three players in the field of 64 pros who have competed in official match-play tournaments in this country. The others are Art Wall and Gene Littler.

Several others, however, have competed in match-play tournaments abroad with Nicklaus the current titleholder in the Piccadilly World Match Play Championship played last fall in England.

Among the missing who originally were eligible are Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and Jerry McGee. Trevino, the current U.S., Canadian and British Open champion, and McGee both are recovering from surgery. Casper, the 1970 Player of the Year, was knocked out by a heavy cold.

The format calls for three rounds of head-to-head competition beginning Wednesday with half the field being eliminated each day.

Two 18-hole rounds, the quarter-finals and semifinals, are scheduled Saturday with the survivors meeting Sunday for the $35,000 first prize.

Although this is on a head-to-head basis, scoring will be on a stroke basis—rather than by holes—and each match will go a full 18 holes.

The field is made up of tour winners from the past 12 months and was filled out to a total of 64 off the official money list.

It's on that basis that Nicklaus, the season's leading money winner and tops on the official list, got the No. 1 spot. He will play Floyd, the 33rd ranking player and former PGA champion. Palmer, No. 2, gets Devlin, a three-time winner in 1970 but 34th on the list this year.

Other top matches include No. 3 Gary Player against Romero Blancas, No. 4 Miller Barber vs. Julius Boros, No. 5 Jerry Heard vs. Lee Elder, No. 6 Bruce Crampton vs. Bob Rosburg, No. 7 Littler vs. Dan Sikes and No. 8 Frank Bears vs. Lou Graham.

Putting The Breaks On Phillips

Cincinnati Bengals' Jess Phillips got nowhere on this off-tackle play when he was grabbed and ridden to the ground by Pittsburgh's Chuck Allen (58) and Burt Askson (75) on the Bengals 31-yard line of an NFL exhibition game in Riverfront stadium in Cincinnati Monday night. The Bengals won, 20-13. (AP Wirephoto)

Pittsburgh Feels It Can Be In The Race

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers may become a winner if the offense finally matches the defense. "We have lacked the offensive weapons in the past," says Coach Chuck Noll. "We've never had a Gale Sayers, and we've always been known as a physical team. "But I see this as a year of great progress for us. There is no reason now why we can't be in the thick of things." The Steelers have not had a winning season since 1963. In 38 years, they have never won a championship. Last year they were 5-9 and finished in third place in the Central Division of the American Conference. Terry Bradshaw, the top draft choice in 1970, was a zealous rookie quarterback last season. Terry Hanratty was in his second season. Their combined passing percentage of 39 per cent reflected their lack of experience. "Our quarterbacks are much further ahead of last year," said Noll. "This is the area I expect the most improvement." However, the Steelers' rushing game remains questionable. John Fuqua, who rushed for 691 yards last year, mostly in the last half of the season, was a pleasant surprise. And he is being counted on heavily this year to carry the brunt of the attack. Warren Bankston could take up the slack of the retirement of Dick Hoak if he can stay healthy. He was out most of last season with injuries. But defense should be the Steelers' strong point again. Last year, the Steelers allowed only eight touchdowns by rushing, 12 by passing. Joe Greene and Chuck Hinton are the keys to the interior line but 6-foot-5 L.C. Greenwood will see more action this season at left defensive end. Rookie Dwight White shows promise on the right side and may give Ben McGee a battle. An interesting fight may develop at the left linebacker spot between rookie Jack Ham of Penn State and veteran Henry Davis. Rookies Mike Wagner and Glen Edwards will see plenty of action in the defensive backfield and Edwards may have won a job as a kickoff and punt return specialist on the basis of his performance in the Steelers' first preseason game. He returned two kickoffs 50 and 51 yards and had a 95-yard punt return called back because of a clipping penalty. Jon Kolb, John Brown and Rick Sharp form the nucleus of the offensive line at the tackle spots. Frank Lewis, the club's top draft choice in 1971, will team with Ron Shanklin at the wide receiver positions. Last year, the Steelers split victories with their three divisional opponents. "We have to win both games with them this year," said Noll. "That's the only way we can expect to do well in our division."

Sports Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Laurel Race Course will be represented in England and Ireland by David Hedges of the International Racing Bureau, Laurel President John D. Schapiro has announced. Schapiro also said Monday the Washington D.C. International will be run Monday, Oct. 25 this year. MONTREAL (AP) — Boxing promoter Regis Levesque said Monday world heavyweight champion Joe Frazier will referee a 10-round fight here Sept. 2 as part of a benefit night for the family of a Jamaican boxer who died last month following a bout here. Levesque said Frazier will referee a nontitle bout between Reynald Cantin of Montreal, Canadian junior welterweight champion, and Nino Cosma of New York. Proceeds from the fight will go to the family of Danny Tucker who died July 27. OSHAWA, Ont. (AP) — Rookie General Manager Garry Young of the California Golden Seals says he expects most of his players will seek arbitration before signing 1971-72 contracts with the National Hockey League club. The team has invited more than 80 players to training camp which opens here Sept. 13. Only six are under contract for the coming season. Young defends his hard-line approach to salary negotiations by pointing to the Seals' dismal finish last season. BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins have signed their No. 1 choice in the amateur draft conducted by the National Hockey League last June. Ron Jones, 20, an outstanding defenseman with the Edmonton Oil Kings for five years, agreed Monday to a two-year contract. The 6-foot-2, 185-pound prospect will report to the Bruins' training camp next month at London, Ont. Cathy Diane Calhoun, 13, of Alhambra, Calif., is the youngest member of the United States team in the Pan-American Games. She swims 800 meters freestyle.

Manning Sidelined; 49er Goes Canadian

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The New Orleans Saints aren't taking any chances with their No. 1 draft choice. The San Francisco 49ers are wondering what happened to theirs. The Saints, winless in National Football League preseason play, began practice Monday for their fourth game, Saturday night at San Diego, but did so without quarterback Archie Manning. Their top pick from Mississippi, who suffered a foot injury in last weekend's loss to Kansas City, will be kept out of training "until it is completely well," a team spokesman said. He said Manning is walking normally but has been advised by doctors to rest the foot as much as possible. The Saints also did without another quarterback. They traded Jim Ward to the Philadelphia Eagles for cornerback Richard Harvey.

The 49ers, meanwhile, will have to do without Tim Anderson for a long, long time. Their top draft selection, a 22-year-old defensive back from Ohio State University, turned up in Toronto Monday as the newest member of the Argonauts of the Canadian Football League. He was introduced by Coach Leo Cahill, the persuasive recruiter who has already lured four other United States star-quarterbacks Joe Theismann and Greg Barton, running back Leon McQuay and defensive lineman Jim Stillwagon—across the border. Cincinnati turned up with something nice, too—an early display of offensive power and a solid fourth-quarter defense that brought the Bengals a 20-13 triumph over Pittsburgh in Monday night's only exhibition action. Virgil Carter engineered the victory, hitting 19 of 27 passes for 191 yards, including a 10-yard scoring strike to Bob Trumpy. Doug Dressler scampered 35 yards for the Bengals' other touchdown and Horst Muhlmann booted field goals of 42 and 16 yards as Cincinnati opened a 20-0 lead. Terry Bradshaw plowed over from the one-yard line and Paul Rogers kicked three-pointers of 45 and 22 yards before the Bengals' defense stiffened. In other notable activity, the Oakland Raiders learned that Hewritt Dixon, their veteran running back who piled up 861 yards last season, will be out of action with knee injuries for six to eight weeks. The Chicago Bears signed running back Jim Grabowski, who signed for a big bonus with Green Bay in 1965 but was slowed by recurring injuries, was placed on waivers recently by the Packers.

Petty Is Near Title ACC Gridders Opening Drills

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard Petty, to no one's surprise, is virtually assured of winning the Winston Cup as the top NASCAR Grand National Driver this season. The Randleman, N.C., Plymouth driver finished second in the Talladega 500 Sunday and pushed his point total to 3,304, compared to 3,078 for No. 2 man James Hylton. Cecil Gordon of Arden, N.C., is third. In the Grand American standings, Buddy Baker of Charlotte and defending champion Tiny Lund of Cross, S.C., are almost neck-and-neck in this week's results. Baker has 702 points, Lund 700 and Wayne Andrews of Siler City, N.C., third with 689.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Six of the seven Atlantic Coast Conference football teams began practice Monday, pointing toward their first games Sept. 11. Only Clemson began drills earlier, under an NCAA regulation that permits sessions sooner if classes open in advance of other schools. Defending ACC champion Wake Forest went through practice without pads as did the others. Coach Cal Stoll said his staff started to look for weaknesses and to see how changes in assignments made since spring are working out. The Deacons open play against Davidson of the Southern Conference at Winston-Salem. Three new coaches in the conference watched their charges Monday: Mike McGee at Duke, Don Lawrence at Virginia and Al Michaels at N.C. State. McGee's Blue Devils open against Florida at Tampa. Lawrence sends his team against Navy at Charlottesville and Michaels' players face Kent State at Kent.

Royal Bugged Against Irish

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out some pre-season college football wash. It could be called The Agony and the Ecstasy. The actual title is Notre Dame and Texas: The Wishbone Incident. At any rate, it's an unusual show about last January's Cotton Bowl games in which Notre Dame ended Texas' 30-game winning streak. It will be shown over ABC-TV on Wednesday from 9:30-10:30 p.m., EDT. You'll see all the big plays, including the notorious Texas Wishbone offense. Notre Dame's mirrored Wishbone defense, however, is missing. It's about the only thing that is. There are some unusual scenes, particularly of Darrell Royal and the Texas team in the dressing room before and after the game and Royal along the sidelines during the action. You'll see and hear Royal's last-minute pre-game talk to his team and if you're expecting some of that Pat O'Brien "Get out there and fight, fight, fight!" you're going to be disappointed. You'll listen to Royal's off-the-cuff remarks during the game, remarks such as, "I'll be damned; what else is going to happen to us?" after one of the Longhorns' numerous fumbles. And you'll remember for a long time Royal's speech to a downcast group of athletes after the defeat in which he tells them to hold their heads high and act like gentlemen during Notre Dame's moment of glory. "Royal was unbelievable," says Dick Snider of NCAA Films, who produced and directed the show. "Our sound man, Bill Cooper, knows a lot about sound but not too much about coaches. We put a microphone on Royal, but early in the first quarter it was evident that it wasn't working. "I asked Cooper to go down to the field to see if he could fix it. Now, Cooper, who knows considerable more about sound than he does about the temperament of coaches during a game, went down and walked right up to Royal. By this time, Notre Dame was driving for its second touchdown and when I saw Bill approach Darrell I thought we would have a murder on our hands. "But when Bill explained the situation to Darrell, he replied, 'Well, I guess you want to try to fix it.' Royal stood docilely while Cooper removed the mike from his shirt and the power unit from his hip pocket. The problem was solved. In the meantime, Notre Dame scored again. When Bill finished, he went back to Darrell who stood still while the equipment was re-installed. One word describes Royal: Class." Eddie Phillips, the Texas quarterback, and Tom Greenwood, Notre Dame's wide receiver, were in town last week for a preview of the film. Phillips said it wasn't the Notre Dame defense—essentially a nine-man front—that beat Texas but rather the Notre Dame players. "By the time we played Notre Dame," he said, "we'd seen just about every defense possible. It's not your alignment that wins games but what you do with your alignment." Phillips also said he never doubted Texas could pull it out, even when the Longhorns trailed at halftime by the eventual final score of 24-11. "If anything," he said, "I was overconfident at the start of the second half." Some 40 barbers showed up Monday for Stanford's football practice but Coach John Ralston wasn't insisting on haircuts for his players. Stanford invited the barbers for a clinic, practice session, barbecue and golf. They were given ticket application forms and the one who sells the most will be Stanford's guest at the Duke game. "For the next few weeks, there'll be more talk about football in this area than about anything else," said Bob Murphy, Stanford's sports information director and a man who obviously knows his barbers. "Besides," he added, "they don't always bug you for tickets. Saturday is their biggest work day." Gary Adams, a junior defensive back, has an athletic scholarship to Kansas but gives the total amount of the grant back to the KU Endowment Association as a contribution. He can afford it. His father is K.S. "Boots" Adams, retire chairman of the board of the Phillips Petroleum Co., and his brother is K.S. "Bud" Adams, president of the Houston Oilers. Gary and two older brothers own a franchise for Quick Kick, a high energy beverage, and one of their clients is the Kansas football team. Normal area for their franchise is Oklahoma and northern Texas.

Worry Clinic An Emotional Bias Is Taught

Analyze David's diagnosis of the "Pedagogical Oedipus Complex." For it may explain why liberal college profs create hatred among their impressionable students for masculine Alma Pater who supports their Alma Mater on luxurious campuses. Such illogic must be due to an emotional bias!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.C.

Case R-541: Dr. David Crane is my son, who spent a year in Vietnam as the Army's roving psychiatrist.

Since he also holds a law degree (J.D.) he was asked to come to Georgia to testify in the Lieut. Calley trial.

For David felt Lieut. Calley should not have been charged with premeditated murder but only with manslaughter.

Recently I visited him at Indianapolis and as he took me to the airport, he commented about the anti-establishment views of many teen-agers.

"Dad," he began, "those students often derive their hostility to our 'free enterprise' system from some of their liberal professors.

"Such teachers are guilty of a Pedagogical Oedipus Complex!"

"For when those professors were young college students themselves, they became unduly enamored of Alma Mater!"

"But jealous of what we might call Alma Pater; namely, our rugged economic system that furnishes the money to support Alma Mater on luxurious campuses.

"Thus, when these students, receive their diplomas, they have become so emotionally fixated on Alma Mater that they don't wish to leave her.

"So they enter graduate school to win a Ph.D.

"Then they even become guilty of professorial incest for they wish to 'marry' Alma Mater by permanently remaining with her as professors.

"Meanwhile, their Oedipus Complex is further demonstrated by the fact they prejudice impressionable students against masculine Alma Pater; namely our business and industrial system."

Feminine Socialism Socialism really is a feminine system which opposes our "free enterprise" economic competition.

Yet competition is distinctly a masculine characteristic! That may even explain why some sissy seminaries now attack our "free enterprise" system, though they are thus biting the generous hand that feeds them!

For what other system remotely compares with ours? Does British Socialism furnish the "Santa Claus" funds to support the small, impoverished nations?

Are churches flourishing in Communist Russia and Red China?

Remember, our free grammar and high schools, plus the plush colleges and universities, are just one of the "fringe benefits" of our American economic system.

For they derive their support from the generous contribution of business, industry and the taxes of our "free enterprise" employees.

Since college professors all have a high I.Q., but many of them are so illogical as to stimulate hatred for Alma Pater who feeds them and Alma Mater, then they must be blinded by a hidden emotional bias.

David's "Pedagogical Oedipus Complex" may be a perfect diagnosis, don't you agree? So send for our booklet

Jimmy Stewart An Island Of Calm In Hectic TV World

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In the uptight television world, James Stewart is an island of calm. During almost four decades of film making and close to 100 pictures, he has learned to concentrate on his job—acting—and let trusted associates do the rest of the work and worrying.

NBC nailed one of Hollywood's perennial favorites as the star of its new series, "The Jimmy Stewart Show," figured to be very rough competition in a Sunday night spot between the network's Disney hour and "Bonanza."

Stewart, 63, seems solely interested in his involvement in a new medium. On a recent morning he was relaxing between scenes wandering contentedly around the set, finally alighting in his mobile dressing room parked close to the sound stage.

"This isn't as hectic as they say it is," he said. "You do have to work fast. It's a deadline racket and you don't have much of a chance to cover yourself or to experiment. The things you have to depend on are instinct and experience."

NBC is counting heavily on Stewart's great appeal to audiences of all ages. Jimmy himself thinks that he has a whole new generation of fans picked up by all those old movies in circulation.

With most people involved in television selling their new product with the fervor of used-car salesmen, Stewart's soft understatement is refreshing.

"It's really nothing very new," he said. "We're making a family show with comedy—and a little wild humor through it."

He plays a professor—"for- getful and sort of mentally un- coordinated"—with wife and a couple of children, even a grandson. "Most times we take a trivial but typical family situation and build a half hour around it," he said. In recent years Stewart has made pictures only when a script appealed to him and has done a lot of leisurely traveling with his wife, Gloria. Having committed himself to the series, Stewart now puts in a 10-hour working day, arriving at the studio at 8 and leaving at 6. His evenings and his week-

Snowy Owls Are Multiplying

SANDY, England (AP) — A pair of snowy owls, Britain's rarest breeding bird, have hatched four young recently on their remote reserve in the Shetland Islands.

An official of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, said the birds from the Arctic tundra have reared 13 young since first coming to Britain in 1967.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN [c 1971: by The Chicago Tribune] Both vulnerable. South deals.

NORTH ♠ 876 ♣ AK 10 9 2 ♦ 3 ♠ A Q 3 2 WEST ♠ Void ♣ K J 9 4 3 ♦ Q J 6 5 3 ♠ J 10 9 4 ♣ J 10 9 8 ♠ 7 4

SOUTH ♠ A Q 10 5 2 ♠ Void ♣ A K 8 7 6 ♠ K 6 5

The bidding: South West North East 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass 6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠ South was the victim of an extremely adverse trump break in today's six spade contract, however a careful study of the remaining distribution enabled him to uncover a line of play that succeeded in overcoming mother nature's unfortunate division in the spade suit.

The first three calls were routine and North chose to temporize by giving a spade preference over three diamonds in order to establish the trump suit before making a try for bigger things. When South rebid four diamonds, North cue bid the ace of clubs. This was all South needed to hear to proceed directly to slam. East showed excellent restraint in not doubling.

West opened the jack of clubs and the ace was played from dummy. A spade was led, East followed with the three and South put in the ten. When West discarded a heart, revealing the 5-0 division in trumps, declarer was apparently confronted with an insurmountable obstacle. He studied the layout for a long time and finally observed that the hand was not hopeless—provided that East's original distribution was 5-3-3-2, including three diamonds.

The ace and king of diamonds were cashed and then a diamond was ruffed with the seven of spades as East followed suit with the queen. The ace, king of hearts came next on which South discarded one diamond and the king of clubs. Shedding a club winner was an essential ingredient of his campaign as will become apparent in a moment.

A third round of hearts was trumped with the deuce of spades as East continued to follow suit each time. With eight tricks in, this was the position:

NORTH ♠ 8 ♠ 10 9 ♠ Void ♠ Q 3 WEST ♠ Void ♠ K J 9 4 ♠ Q ♠ J ♠ Void ♠ 10 9 8 ♠ 7

SOUTH ♠ A Q 5 ♠ Void ♠ 8 ♠ 6

The six of clubs was led over to the queen and when this too lived, South was set for his winning end position. A heart was led from dummy. In order to prevent declarer from obtaining a cheap ruff, East trumped with the nine of spades. Declarer overruffed with the queen and led the eight of diamonds which he trumped with dummy's eight of spades. East overtrumped with the jack—leaving him with the king-four of spades and South with the ace-five.

On the forced trump return, declarer merely covered East's spot as cheaply as possible to win the last two tricks. All he lost on the deal was one spade trick—the jack.

WEST NORTH EAST ♠ Void ♠ K J 9 4 ♠ Q ♠ J ♠ Void ♠ 10 9 8 ♠ 7

SOUTH ♠ A Q 5 ♠ Void ♠ 8 ♠ 6

Pollution Worsens In Darkest Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Pollution in darkest Africa? Yes indeed, and it's getting steadily worse.

Raw sewage is flushed into the Zambezi River from both banks near spectacular Victoria Falls. It's dumped by the town of Livingstone in Zambia and into gorges on the Rhodesian side by an African village, a hotel and a gambling casino. Parliament has been told.

In the remote mountain kingdom of Swaziland some 23 million liters of soapy effluent surged down the Usutu River when a dam burst recently at a pulp mill. Thousands of fish were killed and one worried Sqazi was quoted as saying "is the river god angry with us?"

Oil pollution turned the Blue Lagoon at Durban, on South Africa's Indian Ocean coast, into a black pool of death for marine and bird life. Source of the poison could not be traced despite a $140 reward by the Wildlife Society.

Swimming pools now are popular around Durban, an area once famed for bathing in sparkling surf. Pollution of beaches by oil and other debris from ships and other sources is one reason.

Authorities say that a key river in Kruger National Park is laden with DDT. "In the last couple of years we have noticed that fish, particularly the bigger fish, have died out in the winter," said researcher Piet van Wyk.

DDT in the Sabie River is believed to enter the park from upstream where the river is bordered by fruit and vegetable farms. "Of course we used to use DDT in the park as well," he added. "We used it for mosquitos, but we have terminated that."

The 7,340 square mile game reserve also may suffer people pollution. One botanist contends that park administrators "don't think of it in terms of a balanced ecology. They think of it in terms of the number of tourists that can be crammed into

PTI Graduating Class Tonight

The course, taught in conjunction with Pitt County Memorial Hospital, is a one-year vocational course. Seventeen practical nursing students will receive their certificates of completion tonight.

and the revenue that can be earned."

He says Kruger Park is overstocked with animals for the pleasure of tourists and that this endangers rarer and more delicate species.

The increasing number of dams and waterholes do more harm than good, he believes. The water helps sustain an artificially high game population which still has the same amount of vegetation to consume. This leads to overgrazing and the related problem of soil erosion.

One of Africa's bizarre pollution cases occurred this year in Windhoek, capital of South West Africa. City officials said their sewage treatment plant was polluted and had to be shut down.

The plant treats raw sewage with a bacteriological process and produces purified drinking water from it. The problem was caused when a local firm which had gathered and reprocessed used oil from Windhoek filling stations went out of business.

Garages started dumping this waste into sewers. The oil fouled up bacteria at the treatment plant and the whole system had to be drained and scrubbed before it could again produce pure water. There's a fine now for indiscriminate dumping and city tank trucks collect used oil.

Advertising designed to entice tourists describe it as "sunny South Africa." It is a land of impressive natural beauty, but as the continent's most industrialized nation it is also the most polluted.

Steam locomotives still are widely used by the government railroad. In Pretoria, a city of some half a million, these engines puff tons of pollutants into the air daily. Blast furnaces at a Pretoria steel mill can feed 22 tons of solids into the atmosphere every 24 hours.

Family Produced Three Top Artists In A Row

By PHIL THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The family that produces one good artist is a rarity. A family that produces three in a row is a phenomenon called Wyeth.

Newell Convers (N.C.) Wyeth was the first. A noted illustrator and mural painter, his illustrations for the books of such authors as Cooper, Scott and Stevenson provided visual treats for the young early in this century.

N. C.'s son, Andrew N., is, perhaps, the best known of the Wyeths, with his many paintings of the American scene—landscapes, seascapes, fishermen, farmers. Andrew, whose 21-picture exhibit in 1970 was the first one-man show ever held in the White House, has commanded from $65,000 to $100,000 each for his major paintings.

Andrew's son, James, is the third of the Wyeth painters and has been developing steadily as he grows older.

Inspired by this unique, talented family, producer Larry Spangler has decided to make a movie about them, their art, and their country. It's called "Wyeth—An American Family."

Spangler says the movie will be a semidocumentary that will try to trace the history of this nation through the work of the three painting Wyeths.

Spangler hopes to finish the film early in 1972, exhibit it at the Cannes Film Festival next May and "then bring it back here and win an Oscar. Everybody knows I want to win an Oscar with this film."

The bearded, 32-year-old Spangler, began his career selling newspaper space, moved into television sales, and switched to film production in mid-1970. His first feature film, "The Last Rebel," starring footballer Joe Namath, was bought by Columbia Pictures for distribution.

Spangler, intense yet force gases from factory smokestacks to ground level near the chimneys.

"I don't mind having to do the washing again," said one housewife. "I just wish I could wash my lungs out too. At times the smoke is bright orange."

amiable, says, "I'd always wanted to be in the movie business and when you want something you gear your mind, mark your objectives and start leaping in that direction. Right now, I'm five years ahead of schedule."

Spangler said he got the idea for the Wyeth film while chatting one evening with Andrew Wyeth's nephew, Denys McCoy. The two men approached Wyeth with the idea, Spangler says, and the painter agreed to it. McCoy is directing the filming.

Originally planned as a two hour television special, Spangler decided to shift to the movie form. "This is a unique approach to doing a life," he says. "This is a family that is deep in its own heritage. N. C. really got the motors going. He was a Joe Kennedy sort of a guy."

In describing the film, he observes: "Our story will cover all three of these men—the old, the middle, the new. But as we do it, it will also be a story of America. It will range in time from the American Revolution to the moon launch. It will be a history of our country as seen through the eyes of these three men."

The film will interplay between the paintings by the three Wyeths and an acting out of the paintings. One sequence, for example, will be a re-enactment of the American Revolution's Battle of the Brandywine. This will then be followed by a selection of paintings by the Wyeth family depicting that period of the nation's history. In another, the re-enactment of the return home from the war by a Civil War soldier will be followed by a montage of N. C. Wyeth's Civil War paintings.

As the film, and history, move along, Spangler says, "there will be a natural progression from N. C. to Andrew to James."

Spangler regards the movie as "a labor of love. I'm not trying to get wealthy on it. It's not that kind of project. I'm doing this because it should be done."

QUESTIONS I GET ABOUT U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

By SAM SHULSKY

"nest egg" medium is U. S. Savings Bonds.

You can get at the money in a moment; they grow at the rate of 5 percent, plus 1/2 of 1 percent at maturity; they are 100 percent backed by the U. S. Government, AND the accumulation of interest doesn't cost you a penny in Federal income tax until such time as you cash in the E Bonds. (U. S. Savings Bonds are exempt from state and local income and personal property taxes.)

Q. We are in our late 40s, both working now that our three children are grown, and still find that at the start of a new year we're no better off, financially, than we were a year ago. No investments; no savings. Money just seems to dribble through our fingers. What would you suggest?

A. I can't think of any device which would force you into the nearest savings bank on pay day. BUT, I certainly favor a system which would help you put money aside BEFORE you get your wages: A Payroll Savings Plan which would deduct X dollars a week from your wages to be put into Series E Savings Bonds.

The U. S. Treasury is conducting its 1971 Savings Bonds drive. Leading executives of American business and industry are engaged in a campaign to boost 1971 payroll savings deductions for E Bonds by 10 percent over last year's goal.

These men are engaged in a patriotic endeavor—which is fine. What I'm suggesting, however, is that you do something for yourself by building a nest egg this "painless" way; that is, by putting a portion of your wages into tax-deferred E Bonds BEFORE you get it. You'll be surprised at the way the money mounts up.

Q. We are newlyweds, both employed and in a high tax bracket. Our parents argue we ought to build up a nest egg before going into stocks. But the income taxes on the interest cut our effective return down to about 3 percent. Shouldn't we buy low-yield stocks?

A. Not until you acquire a substantial nest egg—as your parents advise. If your joint income puts you into a high tax bracket, your logical

Q. Hasn't the time run out for some of the older E Bonds?

A. No. All outstanding E and H Savings Bonds are still earning interest. The Treasury recently announced a third 10-year extension for E Bonds issued from May 1941 through April 1952, a second 10-year extension for E Bonds issued from May 1952 through January 1957, and a second 10-year extension for H Bonds issued from June 1952 through January 1957. Incidentally, Freedom Shares—sold in combination with E Bonds from May 1967 through June 1970—have been granted a 10-year extension, so they, too, will continue to earn interest.

Q. Should I cash in my old E Bonds and buy new ones paying the higher rate?

A. No. The Treasury Department has advised against this procedure. All outstanding Savings Bonds—regardless of age—have had their yields improved so that they, too, benefit from the "bonus" rate. Further, if you redeemed your older Bonds, you'd be subject to income tax on the accrued interest, and could actually suffer a setback.

Cites Women's Tireless Role

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — There isn't any women's liberation movement in Argentina, the land of the Gauchos, and President Alejandro Lanuse feels women are not fully appreciated.

In a speech on the Argentine economy, Lanuse said "we should also mention the woman, to whom the government has a debt. The woman is the unrecognized and tireless soldier in our great struggle against the cost of living and inflation."

Michigan State University was the nation's first land grant college.

Greenville Tobacco Mart Ready For Record Season

J. N. Bryan, Supervisor of Tobacco Company, Gene Sale, said today that when the Greenville Tobacco Market opens on August 30 that the most sought-after varieties and the most superb quality of tobacco will appear on the warehouse floors. Representatives of all the major tobacco buying companies in the world will be here in Greenville awaiting their chance for competitive bidding for this outstanding quality tobacco to be offered for sale during the 1971 season.

Harold Watson is the newly elected president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade. A. A. Forbes, Jr. is vice president and J. N. Bryan serves as secretary and supervisor of sales.

The following buying companies are located in Greenville (also listed are the presidents and branch managers): American suppliers, Homer Compton, branch manager; Export Leaf Tobacco Company, Joe Gaston, branch manager; Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company, Inc. (E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company Division), William B. Glenn, president; Greenville Tobacco Company, C. W. Howard, Jr., president; Imperial Tobacco Company, Ltd., Paul Dupree, buying supervisor; International Tobacco Company, Inc., P. K. Andresen, president; Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, Luther Pittman, branch manager; J. P. Taylor Company, Carter Bell, buying supervisor; and R. J. Reynolds operation, which was 70 cents per hundred above 1969 and reflected a 20.58 per cent increase in poundage over 1969. The total sales for 1970 were 52,866,225 pounds for $38,606,741, a season's average of $73.04. The Greenville Market paid out over a million dollar per day on 26 of its sales days during the season of 1970, Bryan noted.

The Greenville tobacco market is equipped to sell and process during the 1971 season over 100 million pounds of choice, bright leaf tobacco. There is every indication that 1971 will be an even better season than 1970, which was the most successful season in the history of the Greenville Tobacco Market.

Drug Charges Were A 'Bonus'

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — A state trooper stopped a car after noticing it had a burned-out taillight Sunday and wound up arresting its two occupants on drug charges.

Trooper Bud Hinson said as he began pursuing a car he saw something thrown out. When he stopped the vehicle, he asked the men to get it.

Hinson said the object had 16 bags of marijuana and two water pipes in it.

The pair, was charged with illegal transportation and possession. They were identified as Glen R. Jerman, 21, of Hartford, Ill., and Richard Allen Hixson, 20, of Angola, N.Y.

Georgia Leaf Is Displaced

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Georgia farmers may not be able to sell 15 million to 18 million pounds of tobacco on the Georgia-Florida markets because of out-of-state competition, a state agriculture department official says.

Selling time on the markets, now in their fourth week, has been limited this year by the industry-wide Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee. Assistant State Agriculture Commissioner Henry Mithollin said Monday that North Carolina tobacco is displacing Georgia leaf on warehouse floors, and unless more time is allowed for selling, many local farmers will be unable to market their crops.

The Georgia quota allowed by the marketing committee included 18 million pounds of out-of-state tobacco, but that quantity was sold in the first two weeks of sales and North Carolina leaf continues to pour in.

Agriculture Commissioner Tommy Irvin has asked the committee to allow the markets to remain open until all Georgia tobacco is sold. So far he has been unsuccessful, but agriculture department attorneys have hinted at possible court action if Irvin's appeals fail.

Charlotte Visit By Two Hopefuls

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Within the next month two unannounced presidential hopefuls—both Democrats—will be in Charlotte to talk to local party leaders.

Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma will be in town Monday, and Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana will arrive Sept. 23.

Harris will come from a speech to the state AFL-CIO at Asheville, and Bayh will arrive after a talk at Duke University's Law School.

James Madison was born March 16, 1751, at Port Conway, Va.

School Terms Starts Wednesday For The Junior High Teachers

For Greenville school teachers, school goes into full session on Wednesday, two days before the students give up their vacation months to return to their books and classrooms.

To get the school year started off, group meetings are being held at Aycock Junior High School on Wednesday, August 25, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

The opening session will last from 8:30 until 10:00 a.m. with refreshments being served from 10:00 to 10:30 a.m.

From 10:30 to 12:00, teachers will report to room numbers indicated below for orientation applicable to their particular grades; or in the case of junior and senior high, their subject fields.

Six Tobacco Barn Fires Are Reported

There were six tobacco barn fires reported and one house struck by lightning in the county during the weekend, according to Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner.

Designated as total losses were barns on the John Proctor farm near Seven Pines, which the Farmville Fire Department covered; one on the Bette Lewis farm near Fountain, answered by the Fountain Fire Department; one of the Kenny Warren farm, answered by Staton House Fire Department; and one on the Leroy Best farm near Fountain, answered by the Fountain Department.

A Saturday afternoon fire did $1,200 damage to a barn on the Eli Joyner farm near Farmville, which the Farmville Department answered, and a Sunday afternoon blaze caused $700 damage to Blount farm barn near Penny Hill, covered by the Belvoir Fire Department.

There was no serious damage as the result of a home on the
