Labor Groups And Policemen Suits Challenging Freeze

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two labor groups and Boston policemen have filed lawsuits challenging the constitutionality of President Nixon's wage-price freeze, especially as it applies to deferred pay raises and government employees.

The Justice Department, replying Tuesday to a similar suit brought last week by four Catholic University professors in Washington, said an injunction against the 90-day freeze would result "in the irreparable dislocation of the President's program to stem inflation, reduce unemployment and reduce our trade deficit."

Although the professors contended the Economic Stabilization Act under which Nixon acted is unconstitutional because Congress gave its legislative powers to the executive branch, the administration replied the law meets constitutional standards.

The new challenges were filed Tuesday in Washington by postal unions representing 650,000 workers; in Kansas City by Local 124, AFL-CIO International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers with about 2,000 members, and in Boston by the Boston Police Patrolmen's Association.

The postal unions seek a court order to thaw a $250 pay raise due Oct. 21 plus automatic in-grade raises. They assert the law creating the new U.S. Postal Service exempts contracts with its employees from any other congressional act.

Electricians in the Kansas City area construction industry seek a court order forcing contractors to honor a pact negotiated a year ago, calling for an 85-cent hourly pay boost plus 15 cents an hour more in fringe benefits, effective today.

Boston policemen, in their suit, claim the law authorizing a freeze is not applicable to government employees and exceeds Congress' power to regulate interstate commerce.

Meanwhile, the administration continued to define terms of the freeze and Congress gathered more information on what might be done after the freeze expires Nov. 13.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Lyndon B. Johnson, agreed with labor's complaint that the freeze unfairly benefits big business more than consumers.

A carefully planned policy must be shaped with labor's help to ease the nation out of the freeze, he said, but an excess-profits tax as proposed by some "is a lousy tax and full of inequities."

California Case Generates Steam Federal School Aid Is Revived

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A California court decision striking down the state's system of financing its public schools has generated new steam behind a push for increased federal aid to education.

"The prospects for a general school aid bill never looked better," Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., chairman of the House general education subcommittee said Tuesday.

Pucinski is sponsor of one of three general aid bills now before the full Education and Labor Committee. He said he will hold hearings on them as soon as possible after Congress returns from its summer recess Sept. 8.

The California ruling, which is subject to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, held that use of local property taxes to finance public schools is unconstitutional because it provides more money for rich children than for poor.

Every state but Hawaii, which has a fully state-funded system, relies heavily on the local property tax to raise school funds. Thus the California court decision, if upheld, could revolutionize the financing of education.

The most likely alternative to the present system would be for the states to assume the major responsibility for providing school funds, in which case they undoubtedly would look to the federal government for help.

"The California decision is going to force Congress to take a new look at the whole federal-aid-to-education question," Pucinski said. "The states are going to have to assume the major costs and it is clear they can't carry the burden themselves."

Pucinski's bill provides for increasing the federal share of elementary and secondary school financing from its present rate slightly under 7 per cent to 10 per cent next year, 20 per cent the following year and 33.3 per cent thereafter. The cost to the federal government would go up from the present $3 billion to $12 billion a year.

Another bill, by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., would level off the federal share at 25 per cent and provide specifically that the federal aid could be used to replace funds raised by the property tax.

$76.04 Leaf Average

The average price per hundred pounds of leaf sold on the Greenville Tobacco Market Tuesday was $76.04, placing it in fourth place among the four markets which sold over a million pounds of tobacco yesterday.

Wilson, which sold 1,492,656 pounds of tobacco for $1,156,003 averaging $77.45 per hundred pounds, topped the four big markets as far as poundage.

Rocky Mount and Kinston, which both sold more than one million pounds of tobacco yesterday, averaged $76.27 and $76.90 respectively.

The highest average price on the Eastern Belt yesterday was set on the Williamston market where 293,522 pounds of tobacco sold for $229,801, yielding an average of $78.29 per hundred pounds.

The Cooperative Stabilization Corporation yesterday received 59,936 pounds of leaf on the Greenville market accounting for 4.11 per cent of gross sales.

A tabulation of sales on the various markets in the Eastern Belt as reported by the Federal State Market News Service includes:

Roy Sowers Says State Programs Failing Need To Keep Young People

ASHEVILLE (AP) — Conservation and Development Director Roy Sowers says he is about convinced that existing programs "hardly even make a dent in the serious endeavor to save from death many of our rural North Carolina communities."

Sowers told an Asheville civic club Tuesday that more "searching and probing" is needed to keep these communities alive and keep the young people from leaving them.

He said the state has failed thousands of young people who leave every year to search for a better life in the ghettos of the North.

"Because of our failure, we are losing some of our brightest, strongest and youngest citizens... (who) want to stay in North Carolina and to be a productive part of our Tar, Heel society," he said.

Sowers said that with a per capita income of only $3,188 a year, "we know that people are suffering," and with manufacturing wages at the bottom of the states, "we know that families are going without the proper diets, good homes and warm winter clothing."

"And when our rural young people are forced to flee our state, it only makes a mockery out of the platitudes many of us utter ritualistically about democracy and private enterprise."

He said the problem will take "a massive, coordinated effort... a complete understanding from the people who have 'made it' and are now willing to help others 'make it.'"

Sowers, who will become secretary of the new Department of Natural and Economic Resources when it goes into operation Oct. 1, said the new organization of state government should "be able to move more effectively and firmly in providing opportunity for our people."

Viet Election Date Stands

SAIGON (AP) — The government announced tonight that the presidential election will be held Oct. 3 as scheduled with President Nguyen Van Thieu as the only candidate.

The announcement appeared to dash all U.S. hopes and efforts by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker to make the presidential election a multiple race. Bunker had met two straight nights with Thieu in seeking a solution.

The announcement from the office of Acting Premier Nguyen Luu Vien noted that the Supreme Court on Tuesday had removed the name of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky from the presidential ballot, making the Oct. 3 election legally a one-man race.

Ky had been on the ballot on a technicality, but had asked that his name be removed. He charged that the election was rigged by Thieu and he would not participate.

The communique from Vien was read by an announcer on national television in advance of the official start of the presidential campaign Friday.

"The government agencies concerned must go ahead with preparations for the election scheduled Oct. 3," the communique said.

Thieu told newsmen Sunday that the election would go ahead as scheduled. The announcement put the official stamp on it. It undoubtedly had the approval of Thieu himself.

In another development, Gen. Duong Van Minh fired another blast at Bunker, accusing him of slander, insolence and having a colonialist attitude.

Crash Victim

FORBES, N.D. (AP) — The body of a North Carolina woman has been found in the wreckage of a light plane, which apparently crashed Monday afternoon in hilly country in southeastern North Dakota.

Authorities identified the woman as Margaret McCarthy, 27, of Grifton in Pitt County. She was en route from Huron to Devils Lake, N.D., for a one-night stopover on a trip to Great Falls, Mont.

The FAA said the plane, a Cessna, was owned by Selby Corbett of Goldsboro, N.C., and Charles Smithwick of Grifton.

The wreckage was spotted from the air Tuesday about 10 miles northwest of Forbes. The sheriff's office said the plane apparently crashed during Monday's fog and drizzle.

Dollar Gaining Against Mark, Franc; Holds Steady Against The Yen

By DONALD FORBES
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar gained strength against the West German mark and the French franc today while holding steady against the Japanese yen.

The wave of monetary changes in the wake of President Nixon's New Economic Policy finally reached Moscow. The Soviet government increased the value in rubles of 15 foreign currencies but maintained the previous dollar rate of $1.11 to the ruble.

On the Frankfurt money market, the dollar opened at 3.4 marks compared with 3.3965 at the close Tuesday. Dealers said the improvement was due to a strong demand for dollars. The opening price represented a 7.1 per cent upward revaluation of the mark against the dollar's official 3.66 parity, a rate abandoned last May when the mark was set free to float.

On the Paris free market, the dollar recovered from Tuesday's sharp slump to trade for 5.33 to 5.35 francs, equivalent to a devaluation of about 3.8 per cent from the official parity of 5.55 francs.

The dollar had closed Tuesday at 5.31 francs, its lowest level since the French set up a two-tier market Aug. 23.

On the official market, in bank-to-bank trading, the dollar pulled slightly off the floor level of 5.5125.

On the Tokyo market, the dollar opened and closed at the same interbank rate, 338.60 yen, equivalent to a 6.5 per cent decline from the dollar's official rate of 360 yen.

The dollar bought 40.71 pence in London, down slightly Tuesday. The official quotation was $2.456 to the pound compared with $2.4525 at Tuesday night's close.

The changes in the value of the ruble were intended to cover currency transactions inside the Soviet Union for the month of September. The upward revaluation was not expected to affect Soviet trade, which is calculated in dollars at the arbitrary rate of $1.11.

City Sees Gain In Retail Sales

For the January through May period of this year, Greenville recorded an increase in retail sales of 14.4 per cent, according to figures released by the N. C. Department of Revenue Statistics.

The department announced that Greenville's gross retail sales increased from $40,189,823 in January-May of 1970 to $45,970,801 during the same period this year.

Goldsboro, with an increase of 15.9 per cent following a rise from $49,622,821 in 1970 to $57,495,647 this year, ranked ahead of Greenville in the tabulations compiled for eight Eastern North Carolina cities.

Ranking behind Greenville in size of increase was New Bern with 12.3 per cent on figures of $35,533,112 for the January through May period of 1970, compared with the increase to $39,894,285 this year. Washington also had an increase of above ten per cent as sales rose from $21,160,570 last year to $23,643,168 during this year's period, an increase of 11.7 per cent.

Other cities and their increases included: Wilson, 9.3 per cent as sales rose to $42,707,059 this year from $39,076,180 last year; Kinston 8.7 per cent as sales increased from $43,621,105 in 1970 to $47,424,440 this year; Rocky Mount, 8.3 per cent on figures of $61,824,885 this year compared to $57,091,425 last year; and Jacksonville, one per cent increase on sales of $42,108,815 over $41,684,499 in 1970.

San Quentin Guards Resign

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — San Quentin Prison officials say eight guards have resigned since a bloody escape attempt Aug. 21 which took the lives of three guards and three convicts, including black militant George Jackson.

Since the escape attempt, the Department of Corrections has authorized the employment of 30 new guards at San Quentin, which now has a guard force of 300.

Area Residents Give 85 Pints To Bloodmobile

Eighty-five Greenville area persons gave blood to the Pitt County Red Cross Bloodmobile which collected at the Moose Lodge here yesterday.

According to Bloodmobile chairman, Douglas Morgan, 60 of the donors said they were replacing blood given to Greenville. City Councilman Johnnie Edwards.

One of the donors was his daughter, Mrs. Norman Sutton. She reported that her father, who recently underwent open heart surgery at Duke University Medical Center is improving and is sitting up some. Pitt County's being a member of the Tidewater Blood Bank saved him the cost of blood, which can run as high as $60 a pint, with processing. Morgan said. The only cost to any Pitt County recipient is the processing fee, he said.

Yesterday's goal was 140 pints of blood. Morgan said. Eight who were willing to give were rejected after their routine physical examinations were given, he said.

Morgan expressed appreciation to all donors and persons who offered to give. He cited two Greenville men, James Case and R. L. Taylor, for having completed their third gallon of blood given over a period of years. Case took time off from his job with the Greenville Utilities Commission, and Taylor, who manages the men's department of Blount-Harvey's Department Store, did the same. About a third of the blood collected yesterday came from Greenville Utilities, Prepshirt, and Union Carbide employees. Morgan said.

He thanked members of the Greenville Service League for their assistance and also the Moose Lodge for providing the facilities and lunch for Bloodmobile workers.

Farmville 'Steady'

FARMVILLE — Quality and prices continued good for the second sale day on the Farmville Tobacco Market.

According to Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade Sales Supervisor Louis Williams, offerings and grades continued along the same pattern as Monday. Prices varied very little for the first two selling days. Better grades of cutters accounted for the top price of 85 cents per pound.

Many grades sold for well above the support price, Williams said.

A total of 609,371 pounds of tobacco was sold yesterday for $469,756.43, yielding an average of $77.09 per hundred pounds.

For the first two sale days, the total for the Farmville Market was 1,217,388 pounds selling for an average of $77.22 per hundred pounds.

Fifteen More Persons Jailed For Protest March

AYDEN — Fifteen persons were jailed without incident early this morning as they staged a protest march — the sixth in a series of protests that until last night has resulted in more than 240 arrests for illegal marching.

The arrests during the night followed two days of relative calm, marred only when an Ayden Police car was struck by a bullet about 9:15 p.m. Monday. An 8:30 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. curfew imposed by town officials last Thursday following the bombing of an Ayden sporting goods store and a series of protest marches that resulted in the arrest of more than 200 persons, was lifted Monday.

Golden Frinks, state field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and an organizer of the Ayden marches said Monday he would not violate the town's curfew but noted if the curfew was lifted, the protests would continue at night. A march Frinks said would be held Tuesday afternoon in Ayden failed to materialize.

The arrests this morning came shortly after midnight as the Negroes left a meeting at the St. Paul's Christian Church where the other marches have originated.

The Pitt County Good Neighbor Council is scheduled to meet tonight in Greenville to discuss the unrest in the county and attempt to open lines of communication to all citizens.

A march from Greenville to Raleigh is still being planned, Frinks said yesterday. Marchers, he said, will leave Greenville about 11 a.m. Sunday and travel to Kinston and on to the capital city. The march, according to Frinks will take five days.

A state-wide rally is scheduled for Saturday in Greenville. Frinks said the meeting, to kick off the Sunday march, will be held at Guy Smith Stadium.

Greenville officials confirmed that the stadium has been reserved from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. for the meeting.

The protests are over the August 6 shooting of a Negro by a Highway Patrolman.

Professor Wants People To Feel Good Wines Are Not Always Costly They Are Worthy Of Being Loved

By BERNIE MOSS
Salt Lake Tribune Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — When you sell yourself as a person to love, it's like selling a car or a home.

You need to emphasize the good. But somewhere along the line you have to let it be known there are a few bad traits too.

"You can't give a phony impression or you just might have the product returned," said Dr. Alan Haynes, assistant professor of sociology at the University of Utah.

"The whole purpose of having value is being able to project it. Your openness to love is having the insight to put forth those qualities in you which are worth loving."

This demands some ego, he continued. "When you can realize, 'I'm worth being loved' then you can say, 'Damn it, you're missing out if you don't love me.' It's an ego trip, but it's a healthy ego trip."

In this regard, he said, you're loved when somebody besides yourself says you're valuable, that you have worth. And because of this, you go in search of someone who recognizes your worth.

"I don't believe I have to agree with someone in order to accept or love them," he added. "Nor does someone have to agree with me to love me."

Haynes said that to declare your worth you have to have an honest evaluation. "It takes humility—to me the closest word defining humility is honesty," he said. "Humility is an honest evaluation of who and what you really are. To proclaim your greatest points, you must also realize your weaker ones.

"When you have the humility to know how important you are, your self-confidence is increased.

"Man has to say, 'I need to be needed, cared for and loved.' With that he has to be able to say, 'I'm worth it.' To admit you need to be loved is to admit you're human."

Unfortunately, Haynes pointed out, too many people are ashamed to be human. "We just don't like to admit we're weak, and some people have the idea to be loved or having the need to love, is weak.

"Our admiration for man has been misplaced. We just don't give dignity to a man who is sensitive."

Noting that often our idea of recognizing when we are loved is misguided, Haynes said, "We think we're loved only when we're told we're loved. And how many times we're told makes a difference. Sometimes we rely too much on the verbiage.

"It's difficult for most men to say, 'I love you.' I suppose they take it as a sign of humanness and therefore as a weakness.

"There's more to love than just saying it. We need to be more sensitive to understanding the way we're loved. All people express love differently."

Haynes believes it's wrong to set up a goal or an image of the kind of person we want to love.

"In doing this we decide what we're going to allow ourselves to love," he said. "We set limitations for caring. We need to care for someone because he has worth, not because he meets our expectations.

"Are you willing to love a person for himself, or for what he is, what he does or what he looks like?"

"If I decided I wanted to marry someone just like my mother I could spend the rest of my life looking for that person.

"What parents often parade as love is pure selfishness," he said. "Rather than loving the child for himself, the parents will love the image they have projected of him. When the child discovers this love they have for him only applies as long as he lives his life on their terms, he is likely to look to his peers for an acceptance and love.

"Generally in his attempt to be loved by a group he will conform to what the group will accept," he said. "Teen-agers have been fooled into thinking they'll be loved by conforming, and this is a fallacy. Some people never learn the lesson."

In saying that hate also is a form of love, Haynes said that at least when you hate someone you've made them important enough for a feeling.

"You have to care about a person you hate. I would rather be hated than ignored. The worst thing you can do to a person is ignore them, to treat them as if they're not there," he said.

"If you're worth hating, then you're worth loving. You're ultimately worth caring about."

For many Americans, Bordeaux wines are identified with the expensive potions of the Grand Cru category, which is somewhat inaccurate.

To correct this impression, the Bordeaux industry held a recent New York wine tasting under the guidance of Margaret Dorseny who knows as much about the produce of this great French region as anyone I have met. The accent was on moderately priced wines.

Of the thousands of wines produced annually in this area, our hosts chose 13 ranging from the full bodied reds like Chateau Le Bourdieu Haut Medoc of 1966 vintage to the sweet "liqueureux" Sauternes like Chateau Bel Air

The offerings were well received by the guests, most of them wine and food writers who are pretty demanding when it comes to appraising wine.

But after all, it is difficult to go wrong when selecting from these vast vineyards which are among the best known in the world. The produce of Bordeaux runs from dry to semidry to sweet in both red and white.

The grape output of this 60-mile-long area centering around the Gironde Garonne and Dordogne Rivers has been famous as far back as early Roman days.

Wine, unlike whiskey and other spirits, continue to age in the bottle. In fact, some do not improve in wooden casks and are apt to pick up the taste of oak in a couple of years.

So the wines you buy at a modest price today and keep bottled in your closet or cellar may increase considerably in value in a couple of years. But you must not keep them too long. Wines, especially the light whites, can go bad after two or three years.

The success of the Bordeaux tasting referred to above was helped in no small measure by the array of food spread out on the tables. For those accustomed to a few cubes of cheese to accompany their wine, it was a treat.

The menu, billed as typical Bordelaise, included dishes like roast baby lamb, sauteed duck livers with raisins and eels in claret.

Here is the recipe for the duck:

12 duck livers, cleaned
1 teaspoon Four Spices
1 teaspoon salt
dash of pepper
1 ounce brandy
5 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 ounces Corinthe raisins
4 ounces Madeira half cup Brown Sauce
Combine Four Spices, salt, pepper and brandy. Marinate duck livers in the mixture for three hours.

Put two tablespoons melted butter and the oil in large skillet and allow to get very hot. Saute livers quickly and remove. They should be medium rare.

Pour 3 tablespoons melted butter into same skillet. Get it hot. Add raisins and saute 2 to 3 minutes. Add Madeira and reduce to half. Add Brown Sauce and cook five minutes more. Correct seasonings, if necessary. Return livers to sauce and warm through. Serve at once.

As appetizers serves 4 persons. As an entree, serves 2.

This Girl Is A Karate Star

By THOMAS P. MILLER
Reading Eagle Staff Writer

READING, Pa. (AP) — In these liberated 70s it is no surprise to find a girl like Kim Fritz with two four-foot-high trophies and over 40 other awards, for—of all things—her karate talents.

In fact Kim, a recent high school graduate, is the No. 1 karate competitor in the United States, and she only began studying karate two years ago. She wanted a little knowledge of self defense, but found she

Her first competition came after three months of training. At first she hesitated to compete in the rough New York International because she was afraid of getting hurt. She does not hesitate to say, "I don't like pain."

Her efforts resulted in her taking second place in kata, which is the competition for form; and fourth place in free-sparring. Since that first foray into karate contests, she has amassed 45 trophies. She holds a first degree brown belt, too.

In this "age of the body," as Kim puts it, karate develops a tremendous amount of mental as well as physical awareness and discipline. Balance and mind-over-matter are the keys to the exercises that teach the student to strike with full body weight.

The remarkable thing is that there is no physical contact in karate. "It takes quite a bit of self-control to pull a punch three inches from someone's nose, or kick past an ear, disturbing only a few hairs," Kim remarked.

Karate is as much a state of mind as of physical strength, she pointed out. Related to Eastern mysticism, karate demands that the karate ka, the term for a student of the art, be mentally conditioned not to feel pain.

Kim also explains that women usually pick up karate faster than men, since men have to unlearn so many fighting techniques which are not acceptable in karate. Women are usually in better physical shape too, since they keep themselves physically active doing housework.

Kim reports women enjoy the karate exercises, not only because they are slimming, but also because they are similar to ballet exercises and produce grace and coordination.

Plans Fail After Failure To Pay

LONDON (WNS) — Ann Summers, 29, opened England's first sex supermarket last year in order to "help people with their love lives." The shop attracted such crowds that the shapely blonde quickly announced that she would have a chain of 100 sex boutiques within a year. Quite the contrary. Miss Summers is now unable to pay her creditors and has left the sex-supermarket business. "But there is still a real need for a service of this kind here," she insisted.

DEAR CECILY: When I have cooked a large piece of beef—either in the oven or on top of the range—I've had lots of the meat leftover. Can you suggest a way to use it?—THRIFTY COOK.

DEAR THRIFTY COOK: Families usually enjoy Beef Pot Pie and so you might like to try the following recipe. The pastry for this pie is the cornmeal variety so it will have a crunchy texture—good contrast for the filling. But one tip: don't roll out the topping until you are ready to use it because cornmeal pastry has a tendency to become crumbly if it stands and dries out.—C.B.

stock; quickly stir into beef mixture. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour into an ungreased shallow baking dish (about 10 by 10 by 2 inches).

On a floured pastry cloth, with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out Cornmeal Pastry to fit top of baking dish; cut slashes in top of pastry to allow steam to escape. Place over beef filling.

Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven until filling bubbles and pastry is browned—about 30 minutes.

Makes 8 servings.

CORNMEAL PASTRY
1/2 cup enriched white or yellow cornmeal
3/4 cup sifted flour
3/4 teaspoon salt
1-3rd cup shortening
3 to 4 tablespoons cold water

Into a medium mixing bowl sift together the cornmeal, flour and salt.

With a pastry blender cut in the shortening until particles are fine.

Add water, a tablespoon at a time, stirring lightly with a fork just until dry ingredients are dampened. Form into a ball. Cover tightly with transparent plastic wrap. Use as directed in recipe for Beef Pot Pie.

HEART PROTECTION.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The body's fatty tissue may be working to protect the heart by helping to keep the cholesterol levels in check, say two Canadian scientists. Drs. Aubie Angel and Jane Farkas of the University of Toronto's Department of Medicine, suggested that adipose tissue (fat deposits throughout the body) may normally collect excessive amounts of cholesterol in the circulation and store it during short episodes of over-feeding with cholesterol-rich foods, or when the liver or intestine manufactures too much of the substance.

Before following any recipe, check to see if you have all the ingredients. Put them all together in the place where you are going to work.

Said the bride: "I tried living on land for a week, but the noise and tush and traffic dangers frightened me almost to death."

Way Of Flirting Ended In Arrest

LONDON (WNS) — Gustavo Tramontano, 38, was arrested at Wimbledon for patting the bottoms of mini-skirted tennis players who passed by. "In my native Italy this is not an offence but a harmless way of flirting," he pleaded in court. Lady judge Joan Lovell agreed that he should be given another chance, especially since he was returning home to Turin at once. "No fine, but I had to pay my court interpreter $15," grumbled Tramontano.

Former Executive Mansion Housekeeper Says Keeping House Is Harder Today

By PEACE STERLING
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Any woman who was food coordinator and housekeeper at the White House for four years believes that housekeeping is women's rightful duty — that a house should be always immaculate, from its dust-free floors past its smudge-free walls to its sparkling windows — right?

Wrong — that is, if she's Mary Kaltman, who during the Johnson administration did indeed keep house at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., and who now has written a book about keeping house in your own home called "Keeping Up With Keeping House."

"So few women today have now nobody has gardens — much less space for storing. So you trot off to the grocery store every few days, which in itself

"Fifty years ago everyone had vegetable gardens and their cellars were full of stored food, time to keep house," Miss Kaltman says. "Either they work eight hours a day, or they're an unofficial partner in their husband's business, or they're heavily involved in charity."

And to the doubting men of the world, who think that all those gadgets must make the job of housekeeping practically nonexistent, Miss Kaltman said it just isn't so.

"It takes longer to do almost everything today," she states, "takes longer than it used to."

"And even a few years ago, you could call a repairman if something broke, and he's come immediately and fix it," she continues. "Now you're lucky if he comes after four calls. Also women have to ferry children everywhere now, and you never used to worry if they walked two or three miles."

Besides which, Miss Kaltman says, people spend a lot of time and energy just absorbing the tensions of the times. "Houses aren't big enough for families these days," she says, "and in less space, people feel a little bit insecure."

Her point made, Miss Kalt-man, a petite blonde whose poise and friendliness never seem to leave her, went on to say how it's still possible for a woman to keep house without having her chores drain all her energy.

"It should no longer be your whole aim to keep an immaculate house," she insists, "so you have to take short cuts. It's still very important though, that the house be a comfortable and restful place where everybody comes home to lick their wounds."

There are three areas, Miss Kaltman says, that should be taken care of first — "the dishes should be done, the beds made and the bathroom cleaned, but after that you have to choose chores you will do to fit the way you like to live."

She suggests cleaning one room at a time — with as simple cleaning supplies as one can buy, always planning ahead — deciding which chore can wait, which should be done immediately, training children to pick up after themselves and doing any chore in a concentrated period of time, so it doesn't go on and on.

In addition, she advocates using packaged convenience foods wisely, "jazzing them up a bit yourself," getting family meals down to a meat, vegetables and/or salad, with a very simple dessert, using synthetic materials in the home that need little or no ironing.

A moderate on women's lib — she thinks equality of job opportunities and equal pay for women should be a fact, but she doesn't go in for crashing men's bars — Miss Kaltman still thinks life was simpler and better when women stayed at home.

"But it deprived a great many talented women of expressing themselves," she notes. "The trouble is now, so many women still feel terribly guilty if things aren't just right in their home but they do all the new things too."

Recreation Break For Prisoner

BUDRIO, Italy (WNS) — Sentenced to prison for three years, 34-year-old Rudolfo Bovenzi could not live without feminine company and bribed jailer Salvatore Gattuso to take him to local night clubs. Both men were caught and convicted — Bovenzi for escaping and Gattuso for aiding him. The court of appeals called off both sentences. Govenzi, ruled the judge, could not be charged with escaping because he always returned to his cell after the striptease shows.

Reader Request For Reuben Sandwiches

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR CECILY: Can you give me a recipe for Reuben Sandwiches made with corned beef, sauerkraut and Swiss cheese? You may have had it in the newspaper, but I didn't try it, thinking I wouldn't like it. While traveling I had it and love it. So please help me out now. —Changeable.

DEAR CHANGEABLE: Yes, I've featured Reuben-style Sandwiches, but I'm delighted to give you a delicious new version. It comes from "The Randolph-Macon Sandwich Book" compiled and published by the New York City Chapter of the Randolph-Macon College Alumnae Association. The book gives recipes for cold, hot and fancy sandwiches and has a chapter on canapes as well as one on sandwich dressings. By

Peace Lovers And Thieves Use Keys

MUNICH, West Germany (WNS) — A factory that manufactures silent, "non-rattling" plastic keys was accused of playing into the hands of house thieves. Management promptly explained that the keys work only in locks and are intended primarily for husbands who return home late and don't want to wake up their wives. "Our keys are designed to bring peace and eliminate problems," said the announcement.

the way, you'll be interested to know that the original Reuben Sandwich comes from Reuben's restaurant in New York City, famous also for its cheese cake.—C.B.

RICHMOND REUBEN SANDWICHES

(Adapted from "The Randolph-Macon Sandwich Book.")

8 slices rye bread
Butter
1/2 cup real mayonnaise
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/4 cup drained beef and butter pickles, chopped
4 slices Swiss cheese
4 slices corned beef
1 cup sauerkraut, drained
Butter one side of each slice of bread

Mix mayonnaise, chili sauce and pickles. Spread some of the mixture on unbuttered side of 4 slices of the bread; store the remaining dressing in the refrigerator for use another time.

Top with cheese, corned beef and a layer of sauerkraut.

Cover with remaining 4 slices bread, buttered side up. Pan grill each sandwich slowly over medium heat 3 to 5 minutes or until cheese is melted and bread is lightly browned or grill in an electric sandwich grill 3 to 5 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Periodic checkups by a veterinarian and regularly scheduled inoculations are very important for dogs, especially pups.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been acting funny for the last few months, so I finally wormed out of him what was bothering him. Willie said it all started when he gave his bookkeeper a few kisses because he couldn't afford to give her a raise.

Willie says now she isn't satisfied with a few kisses, and she's after him to meet her someplace. He swears he doesn't want to get involved with her, and I believe him because she is pushing 60 and still an old maid.

Willie says he can't let her go because she's an excellent bookkeeper and he couldn't run his business without her. How should this be handled? WILLIE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell Willie the cheapest solution would be to give the woman a raise.

DEAR ABBY: What does it mean when a person puts a stamp upside-down on an envelope? DELAWARE

DEAR DELAWARE: It could mean, "I love you," "I'm in a hurry," or "I need glasses."

DEAR ABBY: Seeing as how I was new in town, I stopped a nice-looking man on the street and asked him for directions. He said it wasn't far and since he was going that way he would walk me there. Before we parted he asked me if he could see me again and I said yes.

To make a long story short, George and I started going together, and now, six months later we are very much in love, and have even talked about marriage some time in the future.

Abby, George never talks about his parents, his life or anything to do with his past. He says he has no living relatives. No parents, no sisters or brothers. He doesn't talk about his job either. He just says he "sells" for a living.

I am 28 and have never been married. George says he is 32 and has never been married either. He has been to my flat but I have never been to his. (I don't even know where he lives!)

Is it possible that he has no living relatives? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Possible, but not probable. Before you invest more time in this mysterious character, find out what it is he "sells" and for whom. Then check up on him. I have a hunch it's a line you don't need.

DEAR ABBY: Shall we write "finis" to the foolish squabble about whether a "PhD" should use his title with this amusing story.

The late Stephen Leacock had just received his PhD in economics and being quite proud of his new title, listed himself as "Dr. Leacock" on the passenger list of the ship on which he sailed for England.

One morning, the steward burst into Leacock's cabin and said, "Dr. Leacock, come quickly, there's been an accident!" Leacock was about to explain that he wasn't a medical doctor when the steward added, "A beautiful young lady passenger fell and hurt her hip."

Leacock thought that since he had had some first aid training, he would try to help the lady—and perhaps get to know her better, so he rushed to the injured lady, but alas, he was too late. Two Doctors of Divinity and an Optometrist got there ahead of him. G. R. E.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Miss Laura Marie Piersol, bride-elect, was honored Saturday morning at a coffee hour given by Mrs. Robert B. Dominick at her home.

Guests were greeted by the hostess and honoree. The bride-elect was remembered with a corsage of white daisies and wedding bells.

A theme of pink and white was carried out. The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of white baby's breath, pink snapdragons, white and pink daisies and pom poms.

Coffee was poured by the honoree's mother, Mrs. Harlan L. Piersol. The bride-elect was remembered with a gift of silver and a gift of china.

Superb Spokesman For Ayden

Ayden's Mayor Ross Persinger had made an outstanding spokesman for his town during a time of strife.

He made suggestions to Ayden's citizens which, if applied all over the county, will see us through another attempt to divide our people and bring about turmoil.

Among Mayor Persinger suggestions:

Republicans In Hopeful Mood

BY BRYAN HAISLIP
WINSTON-SALEM
North Carolina Republicans are sniffing the wind for signs of a turning of the tide in their quest for the prizes of political power.

They look to '72 as an unparalleled opportunity to seize a major state office, gain another Congressman.

and strengthen their position at the local level.

"It's there for the taking," said William T. (Bill) Graham, one of those who professes to scent big victories in the offing.

He engineered the party's ascendancy in Forsyth County, the state's fourth most populous, and now aspires for similar state leadership. He's going after the job of GOP chairman.

Rep. Jim Holshouser of Watauga confirmed recently he will give up the chairmanship when the state convention meets in Charlotte, Nov. 19-20. He didn't say he will do so to run for governor, but the assumption is that he will.

Graham, a 37-year-old attorney, and Frank A. Rouse of Kinston are emerging as principal contenders for the post. Ted Dent of Asheville, former state senator, also is a candidate.

Chairman's Role Significant
What gives the post significance is the role the chairman will play in planning and directing the '72 campaign.

In itself, a contest for the chairmanship is a novelty for Tar Heel Republicans. More often than not, it's been a question in the past of who would scrap for it.

Democrats may comfort themselves with the prospect of GOP in-fighting, but Republican leaders tend to view it as a good omen. If being chairman is worth fighting for, they reason, it must hold promise. They look for the spirited race to stimulate interest and motivate participation instead of fragmenting the troops.

How the race is developing is difficult to assess at this point. Holshouser has declared a hands-off policy, leaving the decision to the party membership. Graham and Rouse, both active in contacts across the state, report encouragement and express confidence.

Some indications will come out of precinct meetings from now until Sept. 23. That sets off a chain of party gatherings — county conventions, Sept. 25 — Oct. 9, and Congressional district conventions, Oct. 23—Nov. 6 — for selection of the state convention delegates who will elect the chairman.

Regional Aspects Cited
Graham played down regional connotations of the race. He is from the northwestern Piedmont; Rouse hails from the East.

"We have to be a statewide party," Graham insisted. His support includes eastern Republicans, among them Mayor Tommy Gibson of Goldsboro.

Boosters for Graham put emphasis on his experience in building a victory machine. When he took over as Forsyth chairman in 1966, there was one Republican county official. In the two elections of '66 and '68, that turned around to a full party slate in the county's legislative delegation (two Senators, five Representatives) and board of county commissioners, five of eight county school board members, and five district judges.

Graham gave up the chairmanship for an unsuccessful run for Winston-Salem mayor in '70, but the party's gains stuck. Of 20 GOP candidates at the county level, 19 were elected.

Strategy For Success
The strategy, Graham said, was to get competent candidates on the ballot, finance them adequately, and give them maximum exposure through the news media.

He beat the bushes for money ("it's hard to get, but it can be done") and called news conferences at the drop of a hat or less to show off the ticket. Campaigns were tightly coordinated, so that all candidates knew what others were doing and saying.

The same approach will work statewide, Graham said confidently.

He's a Virginian and a Duke University graduate who married a Winston-Salem girl (Nancy Kent Hill) and settled in her hometown. His Republican credentials come by heritage as well as action: a prized possession is the badge his maternal great-grandfather wore to the '04 Gop National Convention which nominated President Teddy Roosevelt.

Next year looks rosy to Graham. "We can take it all," he said.

The U.S. Senate seat now held by Sen. B. Everett Jordan is "there on a silver platter for us to take," he declared, whether the Democratic nominee is Jordan or someone else. The Fourth District Congressional seat "looks just beautiful," he added.

The governorship will be more difficult, Graham conceded, "but it's winnable."

Once that prize is attained, he added, "the Republican party will have come of age in North Carolina."

divide our citizenry or cause damage to our town.
—Check out all statements made by strangers to obtain full truth.

—Pay no attention to rumors.
Over the past decade Pitt Countians have rejected one attempt after another to divide us into racial camps. On the contrary, we have been blessed with a moderate people and moderate leadership and our citizens have adjusted well to the social changes that have come about, as well we should.

No one can deny there are still many problems. There are too many poor, too many without jobs. On the other hand, with this session, our schools are totally desegregated and county high school students are attending four new schools located around the county.

Blacks today hold jobs that were not open to them a little more than a decade past and in most cases they are performing these duties well.

As Ayden Mayor Persinger pointed out, relations between blacks and whites in that community have been "that of peace."

"That relationship must continue," he declared.

Many times over the years agitators, sometimes white sometimes black, have attempted to split our citizens into antagonistic racial groups. Every time these attempts have failed. The failure has come because the efforts were rejected by all our citizens.

Life will go on in Pitt County even after the professionals depart. We who live, work and make our homes here will continue to work together to solve our own problems and build a better community. Through some troublesome times we have done a pretty good job of it so far. We believe this excellent spirit will continue into the future.

Hurricanes Are Never To Be Taken Lightly

Tropical Storm Doria passed across the coast of North Carolina last week.

It did no major damage and never even attained the awesome title of hurricane.

However, the storm is a reminder that our coastal areas are vulnerable to these mighty storms. They can come up the coast and do huge damage to our area. Those who remember the series of hurricanes which struck some years ago can attest to that.

The approach of hurricanes should not be taken lightly. They can be killers and they certainly are dangerous.

Glum Prospect For Vietnam

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
SAIGON — The farce just played out by South Vietnam's national politicians has quickly transformed restrained optimism by realistic Vietnamese and American officials into gloom and foreboding over what lies ahead.

This new pessimism exists despite general agreement that the recent game of political tag resulting in a President Nguyen Van Thieu's running virtually uncontested for reelection Oct. 3 has made little impression on the country's long-suffering masses. Still, there is equally strong agreement here that the political charade will in time grievously undercut the war effort.

What makes this so tragic is that the military and economic situations here are vastly better than is publicly understood back in the United States. But the gains of the last three years are now endangered by political ineptitude. And ironically, having paid so dearly in blood, torment and money here, the Americans have proved utterly unable to influence either Thieu or his opposition.

The alarmists feel Thieu's conduct has set in motion the same degenerative process that led to Ngo Dinh Diem's fall in 1963 and brought the Communists to the brink of victory. In Saigon, say some old Vietnamese and American hands, the mood has the feel and smell of 1963.

According to this theory, isolation of the Thieu regime is becoming the dominant fact of life here, resulting in disaffection first from local officials and later from the peasantry. The upshot: a political coup. To these alarmists, the abrupt rise last week in the price of rice was an indicator of crisis ahead.

But such extreme forecasts of disaster are almost surely premature. As we travelled into the countryside late last week, we found none of Saigon's political panic. Moreover, province and district officers were adamant against a coup, arguing it would hand the Communists the victory they could not win on the battlefield.

That view is held even by army officers not known as admirers of Thieu — such as one province chief with strongly nationalist views and a rare reputation for incorruptibility. Whatever Thieu's failings, this colonel said, he is far less responsible for the political farce than his

Strength For Today

WHAT IS HAPPINESS?

Many people believe that idolatry is a thing of the past. Many centuries ago people fashioned idols out of wood and stone and bowed before them in worship. There is still some of that kind of idolatry in the world. Most civilized countries, however, have given up the gross form of idolatry, but that does not mean that they have given up idolatry itself.

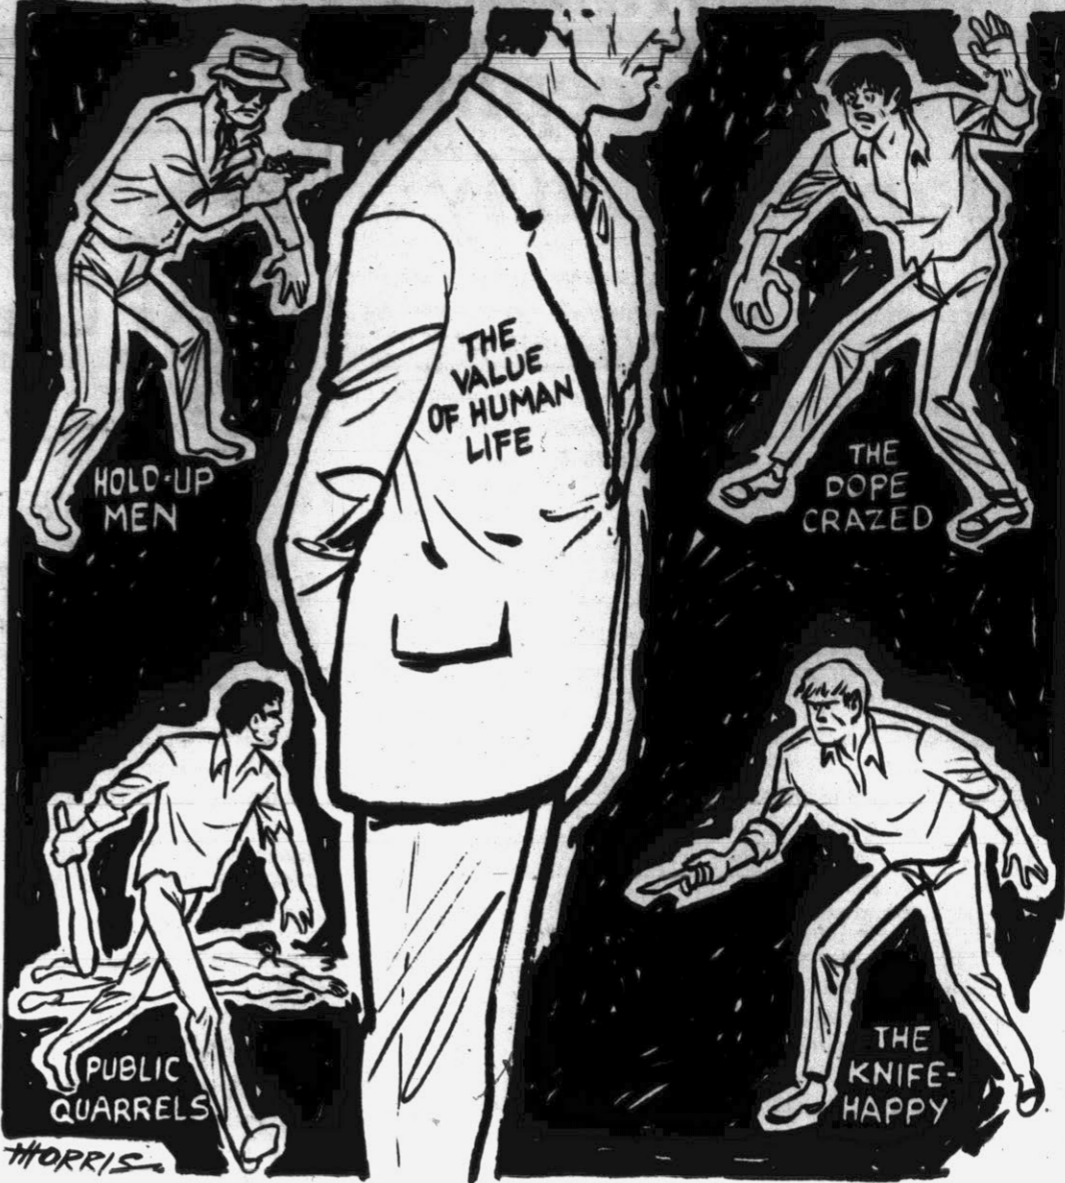

We have plenty of idolatry in the world today, and it is ruinous to life at its best. We do not worship idols of wood and stone. Instead, we worship bank balances, a free and easy life without restraints attached. Idolatry is the religion of worldliness. Many people settle down in the midst of the luxuries of today. This is a great age in which to be happy — if you call our love of worldly living by the word "happiness."

One-hundred-per-cent atheists are few in number. This does not mean that the population of the world has given up idolatry. It only means that we have changed our idols. We would be horrified if people told us we were atheists and idol worshippers — but many people today are just that. They say that the life of pleasure is the only life worth living. "Let us eat, drink and be merry — for tomorrow we die." And they go in for every type of pleasure and indulgence to which their passions and preferences have called them. Cocktail parties, beautiful clothes, familiarity with people of high social standing, places of position in state and industry — these are often today the objects of our worship.

Watch out for the precipice. It is only a short way down the street or along the calendar.

Some Answers For You

WASHINGTON — Here are some questions which you have probably been asking concerning the Nixon Administration's wage-price freeze:

Q — Why is there a wage-price freeze in the United States?

A — Because President Nixon's economic game plan didn't work.

Q — What was his economic game plan?

A — To lock inflation by having a reasonable amount of unemployment.

Q — What happened?

A — He was only successful in 50 per cent of his goals. He didn't lick inflation, but he did manage to have a lot of unemployment.

Q — Who is affected by this wage-and-price freeze?

A — Everyone but banks and insurance companies.

Q — Why are they not affected?

A — Because they are hardship cases.

Q — What about schoolteachers, policemen, firemen and government employees?

A — They are not exempted because they can weather a wage-price freeze much easier than banks and insurance companies.

Q — Did President Nixon devalue the dollar?

A — Absolutely not. He asked Germany, France and Japan to devalue it for him. The dollar is floating.

Q — Where is it floating?

A — Probably at sea. Two things can happen now. The dollar can be rescued or it can sink.

Q — Who will decide what happens to the dollar?

A — The gnomes in Switzerland.

Q — Who are the gnomes in Switzerland?

A — They're tiny little men, three feet tall, who buy and sell dollars all over the world.

Q — Can President Nixon do anything about the gnomes in Switzerland?

A — He can. Just before the elections, he will announce that if he is re-elected he will go to Zurich.

Q — Could President Nixon have done anything to avoid a wage-price freeze?

A — Yes. He could have sold Alaska. As a matter of fact there is a rumor he might still do it. That's why he asked Emperor Hirohito to meet him there, so Japan could make him an offer.

Q — How will the wage-price freeze affect poor people?

A — They have nothing to fear from it. It's been set up in such a way that their poverty will be protected.

Q — Why did the stock market go up so high when the President clamped the freeze on?

A — Many top-flight Wall Street investors and brokers were called back from their vacations. They figured as long as they were there and didn't have to go home to dinner, they might as well buy stocks. As soon as their wives come home they'll probably sell.

Q — If my boss promised me a raise and he can't give it to me because of the wage freeze, what does that make

Approximately a million pounds of tobacco was in evidence when the Greenville tobacco market swung open on the 1931-32 season this morning. The unofficial price average on the first hours of selling ranged from 7 to 7½ cents a pound.

Now playing at the State Theatre is "Sporting Blood" starring Clark Gable and Madge Evans.

The twenty-second annual camp meeting will begin at Piney Grove Camp Ground Thursday, Sept. 3.

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of the Carolina Kelvinator Company of this city as distributor of the Philco radio for Eastern Carolina.

Turbulence Seen In September

By ELMER ROESSNER

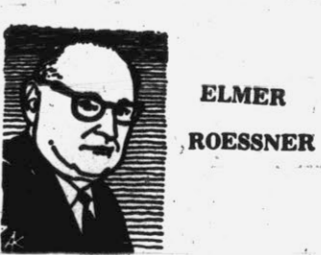

On cold nights in camel country, a camel is said to try to get its nose under the edge of a tent. By morning, the entire camel is inside and the owner may be pushed out the other. On the basis of that, September may go down in American history as the nose-under-the-edge-of-the-tent month.

If you have a sense of humor or a sense of pain, watch the show. Industry after industry, corporation after corporation, union after union will try to get its nose under the tent where exemptions from price and wage controls are meted out. And nation after nation, foreign industry after foreign industry, and importer after importer will try to get a nose under the tent where exemptions from the 10 per cent surtax are ladeled out.

President Nixon probably will not be shoved out the other side of the tent. But an awful lot of camels will get in to share in the favors of exemption from controls and surcharges.

Congress Into The Act
The economic camels will have an abundance of drivers assisting them. There will be Democratic Congressmen eager to embarrass the President, other Congressmen trying to protect corporations and industries in their own states and districts; importers who will raise the cry of imminent bankruptcy, union leaders seeking to gain pay rises for their dues-paying members, propagandists from the left who think Mr. Nixon went too far; agitators from the right who think he didn't go far enough and why didn't he bust those damn unions when he had a chance.

The pressures — or the shoves tentward by the camels — have already begun. Foreign nations are charging betrayal and double-crosses; Democrats, especially the several hundreds running for President, are declaring the Nixon game plan is a gamey plan and a scheme to crush labor, the poor, women and children; the renegade Republicans who would like a shot at either Mr. Nixon's or Mr. Agnew's job, the importers who find they will have to sell harder to break even, and the communists and others who would like to see democracy fall — all will be pushing.

Maizie Doakes, the great American housewife, is neutral at the moment. If food prices remain level, without too many exceptions, she will defend President Nixon to her last trading stamp. If they go up, she'll join the Nixon damnations.

Keep Your Cool
If the average American looks upon the coming show as a show, an Atlantic to the Pacific stage on which one of the most interesting, if not exciting and amusing spectacles of our time is enacted, he might be entertained and a bit educated. But if he becomes involved in the play, he can grow an ulcer bigger than a September watermelon.

He might reconcile himself to these facts: that prices will keep on rising, although at a slower rate than they have been for the last two years; that wages will keep on going up, though at a slower rate than in the last two years; that more and more reasons will be found why the surtax should not be applied to certain imports; and that taxes will rise simply because they always do.

The freeze, punctured like a sieve, will continue beyond the 90-day period; Congress will be in tumult over that man in the White House but, in the end, will give him most of what he wants, and you can get an argument on either side at any bar or tavern in town.

two erstwhile opponents. Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and retired Gen. Duong Van Minh. They, he said, put personal interest over national interest by withdrawing from the election. Significantly, however, this province chief agreed with just about everybody else in Vietnam that their pullout was deeply damaging, not because it immediately threatens a coup but for its impact abroad. "The Vietnamese have made themselves look like a bunch of clowns in the eyes of the world," one high U. S. official told us.

More to the point, the Thieu government has handed the antiwar bloc in the U. S. Congress new arguments for reductions in U. S. military aid. With Communist troops now threatening a new offensive in the northern provinces, even the hint of reduced arms and money from Washington is demoralizing.

Furthermore, the Saigon political intrigue that in years past undermined the conduct of the war is resurfacing. Prime Minister Tran Thien Khieu, for instance, has taken a leave for the avowed purpose of helping manage Thieu's campaign. Yet, an aide to Khieu whispered to a U. S. official last week that the Prime Minister's leave was really a sign of his displeasure with Thieu's political tactics.

Junior officials in the huge American establishment here privately assail their superiors, including the esteemed Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, for contributing to this state of affairs. They claim Bunker—who understandably prefers Thieu's relatively competent government to the alternatives—of tacitly favoring Thieu and underestimating the catastrophe of an untested candidacy.

But as American troops leave Vietnam, Bunker is no longer an all-powerful proconsul. Both Minh and Ky rejected his requests last week that they contest the presidency for the sake of their country. Earlier, Thieu was impervious to U. S. embassy advice not to rub out his opposition through pressure tactics.

Even optimists here have always put forth this caveat: remarkable progress made since 1968 against both Vietcong insurgents and North Vietnamese regulars could be nullified by political instability in Saigon. With Thieu finding himself alone as a presidential candidate, the first twitches of that dreaded instability may be at hand.

Parents Invited To PTA Participation

The Rose High School Parent-Teacher's Association is now circulating a letter inviting parents and other interested persons to join and giving the year's schedule of meetings.

According to Mrs. Jack Wilkerson, president, the meetings and their programs are as follows: Tuesday, Sept. 14 — curriculum, guidance, and Student Government; Thursday, Nov. 18 — mathematics and science departments; Thursday, Jan. 20 — art, music, and physical education departments; Thursday, March 16 — home economics, business education, and the occupational departments; and Thursday, May 18 — English, social studies, and foreign language departments.

Dues are one dollar per family and may be paid at the first meeting, Mrs. Wilkerson said. Enclosed in the invitational letter is a list of committees for which members are needed, with an explanation of the function of each, and a checklist of needs and programs in the school for the membership applicant to point out ones about which he would like to know more.

"In return for your participation in the PTA, we offer you a better school for your children because you know and understand Rose High, its problems, its strengths, and its needs," Mrs. Wilkerson said.

Signing the letter with the president are James "Pete" Hagans, vice president, Mrs. William Guthrie, treasurer, and Mrs. Troy Barrett, secretary.

Discloses Other Fire Incidents

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The sheriff's department says four school fires aren't the only cases of recent arson or suspected arson in Henderson County.

It says that in the last nine weeks, since June 24, there have been four others, at two churches, a summer-camp dormitory, and a restaurant-store. The school fires have occurred in the last two weeks. There have been no arrests.

Fortune In Checks And Money Orders Found

By MICHAEL ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — "Dear Mr. Powell," the scrawled letter began. "I sent you $10 and I've been writing to you for weeks but so far I still don't have my license plates."

Like many others, the letter was folded inside a registration form. Pinned to it was a personal check for $10.

Since Monday, thousands of uncashed checks and money orders for vehicle licenses and auto sales taxes have been discovered crammed into 16 dog-eared cardboard boxes belonging to an aide to the late Secretary of State Paul Powell.

Four of the boxes were found in and near the aide's apartment, 12 in a nearby garage.

Powell, at the time of his death in October, was the big-daddy-style kingpin of Southern Illinois Democrats.

Two months after he died, it was disclosed that Powell kept $850,000 in cash stuffed in shoeboxes, trunks and valises, much of it reportedly in a closet of his suite in the St. Nicholas Hotel in Springfield.

Discovery of the hoard touched off a series of state and federal investigations.

In the early morning hours Monday, more discoveries popped up.

Acting on a telephone tip, state investigators dug into the basement laundry room of a Springfield apartment house. From a storage bin they pulled three boxes stuffed with uncashed checks, money orders, letters and state forms.

That afternoon, they went through the upstairs apartment of William Glenn, 53, a former supervisor in Powell's Motor Vehicle Division who was fired April 2 during a large-scale patronage turnover. Found was another box of checks, money orders and letters. A special assistant attorney general announced late Tuesday that 12 more boxes, similarly stuffed with checks, money orders and documents were found by employees of the Illinois National Bank in the garage of an apartment building once occupied by Glenn. The bank took over the property when it went into receivership.

"It's like London after the blitz," a state house observer said. "They kept finding those unexploded bombs. They'll be finding Paul Powell stuff for years."

Officials did not have an immediate estimate of the face value of the checks and money orders, but newsmen who thumbed through some of checks said the total face value could top $100,000. Many of them were dated from 1966 and 1967.

Some of the letters and newspapers were addressed to Glenn. The largest check found so far was one for $1,160 from a trucking company for registration plates.

where the national residential customer uses an average of 6,000 kilowatt hours per year, the consumer in Greenville averages some 7,500 kilowatt hours per year. He cautioned that "when average use here runs higher than the national average, it is time for us to think about conservation of electrical energy. There are so many ways that we can enjoy electricity without wasting it."

Among the areas the booklet stresses are guidelines for the efficient operation of electrical equipment, proper insulation in avoiding wastes, thermostat settings, air conditioner usage, do-it yourself economy measures, using appliances efficiently, and conserving hot water, among other items.

Horne urged residents to pick up their copies and follow suggestions offered in the booklet. He added that persons having questions should call the commission for further information.

The director reminded that

Utilities Providing Efficiency Advice

The Greenville Utilities Commission is furnishing a booklet for general distribution containing tips and suggestions on ways to make the most efficient use of electricity and cut down on electric bills.

The booklet, prepared with the cooperation of Carolina Power & Light Co., is available without charge wherever local citizens pay their utilities bills.

GUCO director Charles Horne pointed out that the purpose of the information is to stress the importance of conserving electrical energy and avoiding unnecessary usage.

Horne explained that electrical consumption has increased greatly with the national consumer average jumping some 50 per cent in the past five years. He added, however, that the local consumer average has gone up more than 80 per cent in a ten year period.

The participants broke up into 13 groups divided according to the geographic locations of their homes — the 13 mental health areas in the East. Each brought back ideas as to what the former alcoholic's role in a comprehension alcoholism program is.

Some proposals for working on the local level included the formation "alumni" associations for the ARC, working with local mental health centers to identify needs and solutions in the local community, provision of transportation for alcoholics needing it, and the establishment of detoxification centers and halfway houses in local communities.

The group determined to contribute to a welfare fund for patients' minor needs like snacks, razor blades, etc. when they do not have the money for these things, Watson said.

David Getter Tuck, 54, of Longhurst was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of an 11:28 a. m. mishap here yesterday at the intersection of N. C. 11 and U. S. 264.

Police reported the truck driven by Tuck collided with a car operated by Wannie Lee Dixon, 23, of Route 2, Grimesland causing an estimated $900 damage to the car. No damage resulted to the truck and no injuries were reported.

Actor Edmond O'Brien Under Hospital Care

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Academy Award winning actor Edmond O'Brien is in a hospital's intensive coronary care unit after being stricken while making a film in the desert near San Bernardino.

A spokesman for San Bernardino Community Hospital said O'Brien was "under observation for a cardiac condition," describing his condition as guarded. The hospital said he was resting comfortably.

O'Brien, 50, known for his earthy portrayals of tough Irishmen, had just completed shooting final scenes in the movie, "The Faith Healer," produced by Clover Films, when he became ill Tuesday. O'Brien won his Oscar in 1954 for his supporting role as a press agent in "The Barefoot Contessa."

Prison Deaths Charged Lawyer

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — Authorities have issued an all-points bulletin for Stephen M. Bingham and charged the 29-year-old lawyer with five counts of murder in connection with a San Quentin prison escape attempt Aug. 21.

Marin County Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales accused Bingham of smuggling a gun to George Jackson, a black militant convict killed in the attempt, which also took five other lives. "I have reached the conclusion that there is no way Jackson could have obtained the death gun, except during his visit with Bingham just before the killings commenced," Bales said Tuesday.

Bales said the pistol was found with five clips of live ammunition on Jackson's body after murder of a white guard at Soledad prison, pulled a pistol from a wig and took a guard hostage after returning from the visit with Bingham.

The complaint stated that within half an hour after Jackson pulled the gun, three guards were dead in Jackson's cell. Two were killed by gunshot wounds in the back of the head, and one by throat slash.

The bodies of two inmates were found in the cell area, killed by deep cuts to the throat.

Bales said the charges against Bingham are based on the same California complicity law under which black militant Angela Davis is accused of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in an Aug. 7, 1970, shootout that took four lives at the Marin County courthouse. One of those killed was Jackson's 17-year-old brother, Jonathan.

Miss Davis is accused of supplying the guns and helping plot an escape attempt by three convicts from a trial session but she was not accused of being present at the shootout.

Bales said additional evidence discovered over the weekend appeared to "rule out the unknown or innocent transportation of the gun into the prison by Bingham." He didn't elaborate.

The possibility of innocent involvement had been advanced by Bingham's father, Alfred M. Bingham, 66, a semi-retired attorney of Salem, Conn.

Young Bingham grandson of the late Connecticut Gov. and U.S. Sen. Hiram Bingham, is a graduate of Yale University and the Boalt Hall Law School of the University of California at Berkeley. He practices law in Oakland Calif.

Bales said he had no plans now to issue further complaints but that when he takes the case before the county grand jury some of the convicts in the area where Jackson was housed may be involved. He gave no names.

Safety Council Meets Thursday

The Pitt County Safety Council will meet at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Greenville Golf and Country Club for a dutch luncheon.

According to Mrs. P. L. Fields, president of the safety council, meetings of the group are open to the public and anyone interested in safety of any kind is urged to attend.

Columbus Day Is Proclaimed

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon has proclaimed Monday Oct. 11 as Columbus Day and urged display of the American flag and other ceremonies to honor the discoverer of America.

Columbus Day normally falls on Oct. 12, but is being celebrated earlier under new legislation which creates three-day holiday weekends.

Preservation Work Has Big Museum Role

EYEBALL-TO-EYEBALL — Dennis Walters restores the plaster cast of the Antonio Canova statue of George Washington. The cast is now in the lobby of the Archives and History building in Raleigh. (AP Wirephoto)

By H. G. JONES, Director N.C. Department of Archives and History

For the Associated Press RALEIGH (AP) — The casual visitor to a museum often is unaware of many important, behind-the-scenes functions that make the exhibits possible.

Prominent among these are the special preservation techniques used on artifacts.

At the North Carolina Museum of History in Raleigh, for instance, artifacts are received in various stages of deterioration, in many cases, would continue to deteriorate rapidly without proper handling.

Every item acquired by the museum initially goes to the well-equipped preservation laboratory. There conservator Dennis A. Walters Jr. gives it attention ranging from a simple cleaning to complete disassembly, restoration and reconstruction.

In addition to the initial evaluation and treatment of each museum artifact, the laboratory is equipped to provide continuing care for all items in the museum's large collection. In addition, it cares for items on display at the 15 state historic sites also administered by the Department of Archives and History.

Though no dollar value is usually set on the museum's artifacts, they include items that are "priceless" in that they are of a kind and could not be replaced for any amount of money.

Many of the tools used by Walters in the preservation laboratory are like those in less specialized workshops. They include others, however, like a large walk-in fumigating vault and an electrolysis unit for removing rust from iron and steel or tarnish from the nonferrous metals such as brass, lead, and tin.

A large drying oven that ranges to 2,000 degrees is used to remove moisture completely from all types of metals.

A special sealed cabinet called a "fume hood" is equipped with water and gas jets and expels noxious chemical odors and gases with exhaust fans and filters.

A device called a "cleaning table," more elaborate than the name implies, uses compressed air and suction and a filter unit to remove dust and dirt from cloth and paper.

Among the more interesting major preservation projects undertaken in the last few years was the restoration of the plaster cast of the Antonio Canova statue of George Washington that now stands in the lobby of the Archives and History Building in Raleigh.

The unblemished appearance of the copy of the famous statue in the rotunda of the Capitol gives no clue that it was once broken in several places, was dirty in spite of several coats of white paint that covered much of its detail, and was generally unfit for display.

The most recent major undertaking in the preservation laboratory was the handling of more than 3,500 individual items in the "Carbine" Williams gun collection and workshop. They were donated to the state and are displayed in the North Carolina Museum of History.

Each item, including about 45 weapons, had to be disassembled, cleaned and treated with special preservation techniques.

The items include the four hand-made rifles Williams made while in prison during the 1920s.

The bright finish of the metal and the beautiful workmanship give little indication that the barrels are made from T-Model Ford truck axles and that the stocks are hand carved from walnut fence posts.

Though the preservation laboratory is not open to the public, the work done there is very much in evidence.

The equipment in the laboratory and the expertise of its operator insure that the historical artifacts owned by the State Department of Archives and History are maintained to benefit and please the people of North Carolina.

Pizza Really Has Roman Origins

NEW YORK (UPI)—The origin of pizza really is Italian. In Rome, in the days before the thermometer, a thin layer of bread was placed in the baking ovens to determine the correct heat. When these were cooked, they were removed and given to the poor people who then added tomato sauce and cheese for flavor.

Pizza was brought to this country by U.S. servicemen returning from World War II, and has steadily increased in popularity. Shakey's, Inc., pizza parlor chain, alone reports selling more than 21 million pizzas in 1970.

Employment Figures Off

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina labor statistics for July show that employment in 15 categories dropped 16,100 during the month, but the losses were offset by 6,000 gains, most of them in seasonal jobs.

July lay-offs included 7,800 in schools due to summer vacations, 2,600 in communications and public utilities due to strikes and 1,900 in textile mill products due to vacations.

The largest employment gain during the month was 4,000 in services, mostly jobs in vacation and resort facilities.

Labor Commissioner Frank Crane reported Tuesday that nonfarm employment totaled 1,765,500, down 800 from July last year. Factory employment totaled 704,700, down 3,500 from June and 4,300 from July a year ago.

Average hourly wages of factory workers advanced one cent to $2.60 while the average work week dropped fractionally to 40 hours. Weekly earnings were down 38 cents to an average of $104.

President And Emperor Plan 50-Minute Talk

TOKYO (AP) — President Nixon and Emperor Hirohito will meet for 50 minutes on Sept. 26 when the Japanese monarch's special jetliner stops at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska, en route to Europe, the Imperial Household Agency reported today.

The meeting will be the first ever between a president of the United States and an emperor of Japan.

Nixon announced Aug. 20 that he and Mrs. Nixon would greet Hirohito and Empress Nagako on what would be the first foreign tour by a reigning Japanese monarch.

From Alaska, Hirohito will fly to Denmark. His European trip will also include visits to Belgium, Britain, West Germany, France, the Netherlands and Switzerland.

Saved 5 Years, Bought A Lemon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eddie Campos said he saved for five years for the "dream car."

He bought one new last year for $6,500. But, he said, it turned out to be a "lemon."

"It has been towed in for repairs 10,000 times," he explained to sheriff's officers. He said he could never get the car running properly.

On Tuesday he drove the auto onto the front lawn of the maker's company plant in suburban Pico Rivera, doused the car's interior and set it afire. The car was destroyed.

The sheriff's office said it was mulling whether to seek a criminal complaint against Campos. He said he would continue to make payments on the car.

Investigate Pitt Series Of Break-Ins

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating a rash of break-ins that occurred in the county early this week, resulting in the theft of over $1,000 in cash and merchandise.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, deputies are investigating a break-in at Howard Bullock's service station at Belvoir on Rt. 4, Greenville that was reported Monday morning. The Sheriff said that the owner reported an assortment of merchandise and approximately $80 in cash missing with the total value set at $702.

In addition, damage to the store was estimated at $10, Sheriff Tyson added. The incident reportedly happened on Sunday night.

A break-in at a service station operated by Warren Hardee at Stokestown on Rt. 2, Ayden was reported to the department Tuesday morning. The sheriff said that $80 in cash and various items of merchandise were reported missing. Total value of the items and money was set at $289, he said.

Entrance to the store, it was pointed out, was gained after a rear door was forced open. Total damage to the store was estimated at $50.

Approximately $50 in merchandise and change was reported missing following a break-in Monday night at the E. C. Carter station on Rt. 1, Grifton, Sheriff Tyson continued.

Merchandise, including a radio, assorted cigarettes, and chewing tobacco and approximately $5 in change was taken, the owner reported. Entrance to the store was gained after double locks on the front Persons encouraging or counseling any child to be absent from school are in violation of state law, according to Pitt County School superintendent Arthur S. Alford.

Alford's comment came today as he reported attendance on the second day of school "is still good." He noted, "Students are still coming in, primarily due to completing their work in harvesting tobacco."

The school official said 12,000 students are expected to attend school in the county system this year.

"There is no indication of any boycott by students as has been suggested by some of the leaders as a means of calling attention to the matter involving the shooting of a Negro by a Highway Patrolman near Ayden August 6.

"Hopefully, students will not be counseled by any person to be unlawfully absent from school," Alford said, but added "should there be any indication that this is being done, then those who may be found guilty of doing so will be punished to the extent of the law."

Alford explained that a law amended by the last General Assembly "prohibits any person from encouraging or counseling any child to be unlawfully absent from school."

According to Alford, "I understand some of the concern relative to the death of William Murphy. I was in attendance at the coronor's inquest... and there were many questions left unanswered in my mind as to what actually took place.

"However, the students should not be used by adults as a means of pressing for impartial and equal treatment under the law for all persons.

He continued, "The student's education is too important and again, the superintendent's office will seek to bring charges against anyone found to be encouraging unlawful absences."

Stabilization Corp. receipts on the Eastern belt Monday amounted to 5.4 per cent, compared with last year's opening day figure of 14.8 per cent. Receipts on South Carolina and Border North Carolina sales were 5.6 per cent Monday and stand at 5.7 per cent for the season.

Tuesday's sales amounted to $697,029 pounds for an average of $76.81. Monday's opening day figure for 10,362,518 pounds was $3.91 higher than last year's first day sales and bettered the previous record of $75.75 set in 1950.

Most grade prices were lower Tuesday on South Carolina and Border North Carolina markets, with losses ranging from $1 to $3. Monday's sales were the lightest of the season — 8,817,061 pounds. The average price, however, was $77.09, up $1.74 from last Thursday's sales.

Course content will cover the elements of music, the orchestra, choral music, and music of the 20th Century. A considerable amount of the time allotted to each class period will be spent listening to records and discussing them.

Cost of the course will be $3.30.

Antiques Course Offered By PTI

Pitt Technical Institute will offer a course in Antiques (Early American furniture) beginning tonight at 7 p.m. in room seven.

The course will introduce 17th and 18th century American furniture and the following areas will be covered: elements of design, craftsmanship, fundamentals, history of Early American furniture, illustration of furniture, fabrics and collecting antiques.

Cost of the course is $3.30.

Boundary Is Given Okay

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Planning and Zoning Board has approved the zoning and utility boundary between Greenville and Winterville.

The boundary resulted from a conference between representatives of the two municipalities.

The group recommended a line from Cannon's Cross Roads west along White Road to N.C. 11. It would then run north along N.C. 11 to Reedy Branch Road, then south to the H. L. Bowen property and then west along the southern property line to Swift Creek.

If the city limits of either town are extended over the line, representatives will meet again to consider possible revisions.

Final approval will have to come from the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission, the City Council, and the Winterville Board of Aldermen.

The matter will be discussed at the Winterville town board meeting Monday night.

Door were prized open. Damage to the door was set at $50.

Sheriff Tyson said that deputies are also investigating an attempted break-in at the B. T. McLawhorn store on Tar Road, Rt. 1, Ayden.

Noted Specialist Added To Staff

A nationally known heart and kidney specialist has joined the staff of the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

Dr. Wallace Wooles, dean of the new school, announced the appointment of Dr. William Howard Waugh, who comes to Greenville from the University of Kentucky College of Medicine at Lexington as director of clinical medicine.

Dr. Waugh brings with him a four-year grant worth $120,000 from the National Institutes of Health, for the study of the human blood vessel system.

The author of more than 60 abstracts and publications, Dr. Waugh is on the editorial board of the American Journal of Physiology, the Journal of Applied Physiology, and the Internal Medicine Digest. He is a founding member of the Medical Advisory Board of the Kidney Foundation of Kentucky, a Fellow in the American College of Physicians and was holder of the Kentucky Heart Association chair of Cardiovascular Research from 1963 until moving to East Carolina University.

A graduate of Tufts Medical School, Dr. Waugh was professor of medicine at Kentucky until he joined the ECU staff.

Eastern Belt Changes Little

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gains and losses were about evenly divided among grades, and held mainly to $1 per hundred pounds, in Tuesday's tobacco sales on the Eastern North Carolina belt.

Meanwhile, the Federal-State Market News Service reported that the season-opening sales on the belt Monday hit a record high opening day average of $77.29 per hundred pounds.

Tuesday's sales amounted to 9,697,029 pounds for an average of $76.81. Monday's opening day figure for 10,362,518 pounds was $3.91 higher than last year's first day sales and bettered the previous record of $75.75 set in 1950.

Area High Schools To Open Grid Year

Friday evening will see a new athletic Conference open play as the Eastern Carolinas Conference sends its first teams against each other.

The loop's 10 teams will be in action for the most part in season openers over the weekend, although one team opened with a non-conference foe last weekend.

In that game, Eastern Wayne bowed to 4-A Goldsboro, 20-2, in a hard-fought contest.

Eastern Wayne, and another member of the league, North Pitt, will be the only teams who will not see action on Friday.

Farmville Central travels to Greenville to meet Rose High, while Ayden-Grifton is scheduled to entertain Weldon.

D. H. Conley plays the only league contest, meeting Southern Wayne near Dudley.

Other contests pit Greene Central against Pamlico County, North Johnson against Charles B. Aycock, Vaiden-Whitley against Southern Nash and South Lenoir against North Lenoir.

The conference is a new one, formed mostly by members of the old Eastern Plains Conference. Coming in from that group are Greene Central, Southern Wayne, Aycock, Southern Nash and North Lenoir. Joining them are Eastern Wayne, Ayden-Grifton, Conley and North Pitt. Farmville Central, a newly consolidated unit, was a member of the old conference as Farmville High School.

Elsewhere in the area, one other game is scheduled, with Robersonville visiting Williamston.

Actually, Ayden-Grifton's game is still in the air somewhat. It is scheduled for the new A-G field at 8 p.m. Friday, but there is a possibility that the field may not be ready in time. A final decision is to be reached sometime Thursday.

"Everything is really going against us," Nelson Gravatt of Ayden-Grifton said. "We are not in school full time this week, and it's making it hard for us to get together to practice."

A-G lost one of its players for the season last Saturday in a scrimmage with Rose High School. Out is Mike Jackson. "We've also got a few boys ill, and we don't know their status for the game."

Gravatt said that the Chargers had scouted their foe, Weldon, in a scrimmage against Roanoke Rapids, last week. "They have a big 215-pound fullback that they like to give the ball to. He has good speed and can run inside and outside. They are a good hitting club, and will give us a good test."

Conley goes into the lone league game with a little bit of nervousness. It will be the first varsity game for the Vikings, who started football last year on a junior varsity basis.

"We'll be as prepared as much as possible," Coach George Wheeler said. "We know what they'll do, and we've tried to get ready for time. Their line is a little slow, but they have a very fast backfield."

Wheeler said that Conley's losing a scrimmage game last weekend due to the rain hurt the preparedness of the team. "We really needed to get that workout in," he said. "We expect to have a lot of first game mistakes. It really is our first game."

Wheeler said he didn't mind opening against a conference team, however. "It's just a matter of opening. We know we've never played on a varsity level before, so we don't know what our kids are going to do. It's just a matter of getting accustomed to the game. If we can keep them from running all over us early in the game, we may do all right."

Greene Central Coach Stuart Smith is optimistic about his team's chances for the year, but notes that he has a tough opener.

"Pamlico is always big. They run from the wing-T, and we know that they'll use various six-man defenses. They lost about 13 lettermen, so we should have a little more experience on our squad."

Smith looks to a solid group of experienced players to lead his team, one of the favorites in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

Farmville, meanwhile, will have its hands full with 4-A Rose High. "It'll be a good test for us," Coach Gene Brewer said.

"We have a lot of inexperienced boys and maybe we should be playing someone else."

Brewer said that Rose had plenty of size, and that their experience backfield would be a definite problem for the Jaguar defenses. "I look for a lot of power plays from their big backs," the coach said.

"It's hard to say whether we're ready or not. Not being in school full time this week hurts us in not being able to get together for practice."

Next week, all 10 schools join in the action, with five conference games on tap.

Chips and putts from area golf courses:

Farmville

The Pitt County Ladies Golf League will resume activities this Friday at the Farmville Golf and Country Club. Play is set to get underway at 9:30 p.m.

The league consists of the women from the various clubs in Pitt County and alternates between the different clubs.

Greenville

Entries will close on Friday for the annual W. S. Moye Golf Tournament to be held Saturday through Monday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. All members wishing to play in the 54-hole medal play tournament must sign up by Friday.

Si Moye had one of his better rounds of recent years when he carded a 74 while playing with Howard Waldrop, Bob Abbott and Frank Hill. Moye holed out a wedge shot on the sixth hole for an eagle during the round.

Grifton

A one-day junior golf tournament was held Monday at the Grifton Golf and Country Club.

Billy Langston claimed first place in the tournament, but had to go to the 20th hole before defeating Debbie Adams, who finished second.

Brook Valley

Col. Dave Stevens had his first hole-in-one on the fifth hole at Brook Valley. He used a five-iron on the 155-yard hole. He was playing with his two sons and Don Whitehurst at the time.

Bill Shelton picked up his first eagle on the 16th hole.

Friday is the closing date for entries into the second annual Reynolds May Four-Ball Tournament. The tournament is set for September 11 and 12 at Brook Valley.

Sour Note For Bucs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern Conference football teams, pointing to season opening games within two weeks, sweated through practice Tuesday with some praise from some coaches and at least one sour note coming from Greenville, N.C.

That's where Coach Sonny Randle put his East Carolina Pirates through two practice sessions and then a Tuesday night session in the film room.

Randle, after viewing with the team the films of Monday's scrimmage, labeled it "an extremely poor exhibition of football."

He said, "both the players and the coaches realize we are a long way from being ready for the University of Toledo Sept. 11."

Greene Central May Offer Challenge

By WOODY PEELE

Reflector Sports Editor

(One of a series)

SNOW HILL — Greene Central High School coach Stuart Smith exudes quiet optimism when talking about his 1971 Rams.

The team is in a new conference this year, the Eastern Carolinas Conference, and Smith would like nothing better than to walk off with the inaugural crown. And he's already picking up some support from some of his opposing coaches.

There are 13 lettermen back for the Rams this season, but there are also a number of boys who didn't letter who have picked up quite a bit of experience. All of the returning lettermen are starters.

"Last year we had only three lettermen back, but now we're fairly well experienced. There were only three seniors on last year's team, so we didn't lose many people."

Smith noted that he has 34 players on the roster this year, more than in the past several years, so that the team has a good deal more depth. "We're at least two deep in experience at every position, and three deep all over."

And what does just having all the extra depth mean to Smith and the team? "It gives us a heck of a lot more confidence. We have more strength than we had last year."

The Rams lack size, but they make up for it with quickness. "We only have four players over 170 pounds," Smith said. The largest is 205. "But our quickness should more than offset our size. Our speed is just fair, however. There is no great speed, no breakaway stuff. We'll grind it out from three to five yards at a time."

Greene Central's running game is its forte. They seldom use the pass, and mostly as a surprise weapon. "Our running game far outweighs the passing at back. I think we can run against most anyone," Smith said. "Our passing is poor, but we haven't put much emphasis on it yet. It can be better. We have the ability, it's just a question of working on it."

"But what we really like to do is control the ball on the ground," he added. The Rams will attack from the I-formation.

Even though he has only two days remaining until the first kickoff, Smith admits that his starting lineup is still up in the air. "We just have a lot of people who are capable of getting in there."

There are three candidates for the quarterback slot, and any one of them could end up taking the reins. They are Lonnie Carraway, Johnny Earl Johnson and Stevie Williamson.

At running back, there are five candidates for the two positions, and all five are good runners. They are Ricky Hart, Elbert Forbes, Robbie Ivey, Sammy Cunningham and Miles Briggs. "There's a degree of success in all of them," the coach pointed out.

At the flanker could be Mike Perry, Malcolm Albritton or Keny Williams or any of the fullbacks. This is mostly a blocking position.

"Our backfield is very versatile," Smith said. "Anybody can play two or more positions."

Among those going for the end positions are Billy Williamson, Danny Whitley, Jerry Jones, Lafan Forbes and Richard Holloman. The tackle candidates are Ralph Lanier, Steve Galloway, Kim Rouse and James Hooker. At the guards, it could be Mitchell Fields, Clint Braswell, Jeff Letchworth or Harper Shackelford. J. S. Hardy, last year's center, has a broken arm and will be out. Johnny McLawhorn and Edward Jones are battling for his spot.

"Our line experience is very good, and quickness is our greatest asset. But our downfield blocking leaves something to be desired."

Defensively, the Rams are just as strong, if not stronger. "We have our secondary and our linebackers back," Smith said. "In fact, only one tackle and one end will be new. There is really a lot of competition for the spots, however, and some of the old starters will probably be beaten out."

The defensive alignment is just as up in the air as the offensive. Alvin Brown, Lafan Forbes and Whitley are battling for the end spots, Hooker, Galloway and Rouse for tackles; Jimmy Thompson, Clint Braswell and Shackelford for the guards.

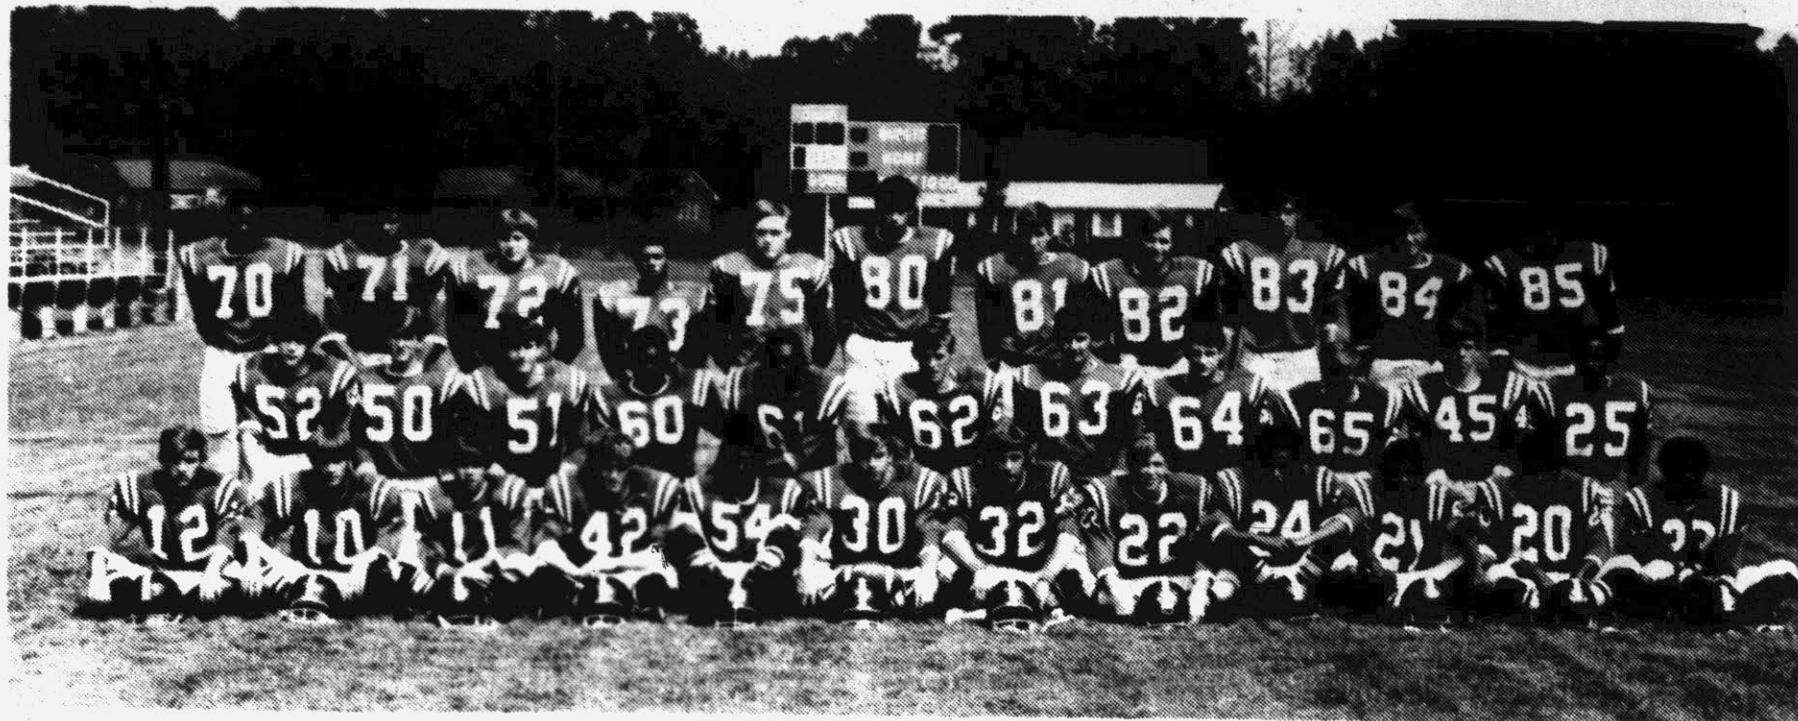

Hart and Letchworth are the middle linebacker candidates, with Fields, Elbert Forbes, Johnny Cox and Ed Grant as the corners. Johnson, Williamson and Ivey make up the secondary.

"We might just put our secondary back there, and use them right through and keep our other backs as fresh as possible. We need to be ready in the fourth quarter. This is what hurt us last year."

But Smith feels that this might be the year. The Rams have never won a conference title, and their best year was 6-4 in 1966. "I really can't see any obstacle. I'm quite optimistic. I think this will be the best team we've ever had."

"But we can't think about the title until after our first three games (Pamlico, Southern Nash and Southern Wayne). Then, maybe...."

Torre Grabs RBI Lead; Perry Gets Victory; Dodgers Take Win

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Joe Torre has bunted once this season and the way he's swinging the bat once is enough.

Torre's St. Louis Cardinals were locked in a 1-1 tie with the New York Mets Tuesday night—Torre singled home a first-inning run and took over the major league RBI lead from Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell 113-112—when Matty Alou opened the ninth inning with a bunt single off reliever Danny Frisella. That brought up Torre.

"I was looking for the bunt sign," said the slugging third baseman. "I really was. I looked down at third base coach Vern Benson for a long time but he didn't give it to me. I got the fork ball three times and I happened to hit the last one up the middle."

Actually, it was a line drive

Mets To Move Out?

NEW YORK (AP) — M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets, said Tuesday he would recommend moving the baseball team to New Jersey if New York City succeeds in forcing the Mets to accept the New York Yankees as co-tenants at Shea Stadium.

Sanford Garelik, president of the City Council, has proposed that the Yankees share Shea Stadium. There has been speculation that the American League club might leave New York if the city fails to purchase and refurbish Yankee Stadium.

The New York Giants of the National Football League, present tenants in Yankee Stadium, recently announced plans to move to a proposed sports complex in New Jersey for the 1975 season.

New York City had announced a plan to buy and renovate Yankee Stadium for $24 million but the Giants' shift has dimmed the proposal.

to center field, sending Alou to third, from where he scored the winning run in a 2-1 victory when Ted Simmons laced an 0-2 pitch from Tug McGraw to left.

That kept the Cards five games behind Pittsburgh, which rallied from a five-run deficit to beat Philadelphia 7-5.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Chicago Cubs edged Montreal 7-6 in 10 innings in the first game of a doubleheader. The nightcap was suspended with the Expos leading 8-1 after six innings and will be completed today. San Francisco trounced Atlanta 9-0, Los Angeles whipped Houston 6-1 and Cincinnati nipped San Diego 2-1.

In the American League, Boston shaded Baltimore 4-3, Detroit downed Cleveland 6-1 but the Indians came back to take the nightcap 6-3, Washington squeezed past the New York Yankees 6-5, Oakland defeated California 4-1, Kansas City beat Milwaukee 6-4 and Minnesota turned back the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 10 innings.

Torre credited the St. Louis Astroturf and the fact that Simmons bats behind him for the fact that he leads the NL in bating average and hits as well as RBIs.

The ex-catcher also made a fine play on Donn Clendenon's slow hopper to end the Mets' ninth with two runners aboard, grabbing it on the short hop and firing to first.

Jerry Reuss went the route for the Cards, striking out 10. New York's Nolan Ryan fanned 12 in six innings.

Deron Johnson and Oscar Gamble drove in two runs apiece as the Phillies piled up a 5-0 bulge over the Pirates. But Rennie Stennett smacked a two-run single in the fifth, Milt May drove in a run in the sixth and Pittsburgh rallied for four in the seventh to win it.

Gene Clines' two-run pinch double tied the score and Manny Sanguillen stroke a bases-loaded single for the final two runs.

Don Kessinger's fifth hit of the game, a bases-loaded single in the 10th inning, gave the Cubs their opening game triumph over the Expos. Brock Davis' RBI single in the seventh tied the score.

Chicago's Ken Holtzman was breezing along on a one-hitter in the nightcap when the Expos exploded for eight runs in the sixth inning before darkness forced the carryover.

The Expos loaded the bases and Ron Woods' double and Ron Hunt's triple produced four runs, Bob Bailey singled a run home, Boots Day delivered a two-run single and John Boccabella, who started it all with a single, singled Day across.

Ken Henderson's three-run homer and two-run singles by Dave Kingman and Chris Speier backed Gaylord Perry's seven-hit hurling as the Giants crushed the Braves and remained eight games in front of Los Angeles in the NL West.

Wes Parker socked a two-run homer as the Dodgers scored three times in the first inning and trounced the Astros behind rookie Doyle Alexander's nine-hit pitching. Alexander also scored the last two Dodgers runs on hits by Willie Davis and Bill Russell.

The Reds pushed across their winning run in the ninth inning on Tommy Helms' infield hit, a walk and Pete Rose's single to edge the Padres, who tied the score in the top of the inning on Leron Lee's double and Larry Stahl's pinch single.

By JOHN M. KENNEDY
CHUGWATER, Wyo. (UPI)—Francis Daellenbach and his wife Muril lives in one of the most unique homes—an abandoned Atlas missile site under the rolling hills of southeast Wyoming.

They have remodeled the now obsolete intercontinental missile silo into a spacious underground home that includes a workshop for Daellenbach's precision instrument business.

The silo is located eight miles south of Chugwater and when it was manned by the Air Force it was worth $11 million. The site and three others were put up for public auction in 1966 and Daellenbach bid high on all four and brought his unusual home for $3,115.

At 52, Daellenbach is a former Cheyenne jeweler who quit the business in 1962 and turned to the manufacture of precision valves.

"We moved out here to live in June of '66 and came out weekends fixing it up.

When the Daellenbach's first bought the silo they found it considerably vandalized. So the arduous task of refurbishing and remodeling began.

Daellenbach built an elevator to take them underground to their home and workshop. What was once a control room is now a spacious living room. The former telephone communications room is a bedroom, and the master bedroom, with its 15-foot ceilings, was the sleeping quarters for the missilemen. On the wall is a handle that would have been used to spring an escape hatch in case the main entrance was blocked by a nuclear explosion.

Separate from the living quarters is the workshop, a cavernous room where Daellenbach plies his trade. That room is the real reason why he first became interested in the silo.

"You run screw machines on precision work, and a four-degree temperature change is the absolute maximum you can have without doing a lot of adjusting," he said. "The specifications for a building permit for a screw machine is a windowless, constantly tem-

Worry Clinic Environment Is Big Factor

Timmy, though but 6, lectured to his class like a polished college professor! So equip your children with a "Mental Tool Kit" in their home. For you parents can predispose your youngsters to moral behavior and better school marks by the methods below.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D. M. D.

Case R-550: Peggy Woods is a dedicated Gary school teacher. During the Apollo 14 flight, one of her 6-year-olds begged her to let him talk.

"All right, Timmy," she assented.

So Timmy went to the blackboard and calmly began to lecture his classmates.

"I think the space craft is now at this position," Timmy added, pointing to a spot on the drawing of the moon.

But another boy protested that he though Timmy was wrong.

So Timmy debated the issue with him.

Meanwhile, the rest of the class listened in fascination.

"Dr. Crane," Mrs. Woods informed me, "I wish you could have been present!"

"For Timmy was as poised as a college professor."

"And it was astonishing how much he knew about the Apollo 14 mission." Mrs. Woods epitomizes the ideal modern school teacher, for she loves her youngsters and they respond to her affection as well as to her deft instruction.

Luckily, she also has a class of kiddies with a high I.Q., which makes her work more stimulating.

Last term she was directing games while her class had a party.

One of her pupils wistfully looked up at her and said:

"Mrs. Woods, it must be nice to be able to boss little kids around!"

"I'll be glad when I am older and can do that, too!"

Perhaps you might wonder how Timmy became so interested in the Apollo 14 moon

"Dr. Crane," Mrs. Woods explained, "Timmy's daddy and his 10-year-old cousin kept taking about the moon flight."

"So Timmy absorbed his interest therein from his home environment."

Which should be a challenge to all parents!

If you surround your kiddies with a stimulating moral and mental atmosphere, you will give them a running head start toward college!

To be specific, if you subscribe to a newspaper, your children will normally make higher grades than those of a non-newspaper family.

If you have a telephone, your youngsters will acquire a better speaking vocabulary, just from hearing more conversation.

Does your home have a mental tool kit for kiddies? It should contain a dictionary.

Plus an Atlas!

And the "Classics. Illustrated" which are comic book formats of the world's leading novels, including Moby Dick, Ivanhoe, Treasure Island and 200 others.

By all means tutor your children in Bible stories, too, for unless you start building character in your youngsters at home, the hippies will do the job for you!

If your child falls behind his class, due to absence from school because of measles or other childhood illnesses, then use the "flash card" method to bring him back up to par in his reading, spelling and arithmetic.

So send for my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

I used the contests thereof to tutor our Crane kiddies on several occasions when they lost a few weeks of grammar school due to illnesses.

And urge your kiddies to read this daily newspaper. Compile a "multiple choice" exam daily, covering 10 different pages, as: "The weatherman predicted a high of 30 — 40 — 60 — 90 degrees."

Do likewise for the front page, sports section, etc. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Little Hope In Burger's Ruling

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Chief Justice Warren Burger's refusal to delay busing in a North Carolina school district offers little hope to school authorities appealing similar busing orders.

But his reminder that racial balance may vary from school to school may indicate more latitude in designing desegregation plans than some officials had realized.

Burger, sitting as district justice for North Carolina — the full court was not in session — denied a stay Tuesday of a busing plan for the Winston-Salem and Forsyth County schools.

The plan provides for the busing of 15,000 to 16,000 students out of the system's 46,000. Several school systems have asked for stays of busing orders, but so far none has received them.

Some other districts, including Nashville, Tenn., are waiting to hear from the court on their appeals.

The chief justice said he was concerned in the Winston-Salem case that the school board mistakenly thought it had to achieve a white-black ratio in every school identical with the over-all district ratio.

Racial balance in individual schools is only one of several methods of determining if segregation exists, Burger said.

John Kiger, chairman of the Winston-Salem school board, said Tuesday he still hopes to get the district's appeal before the entire court. He said he was encouraged by Burger's opinion on the racial balance requirements.

"It remains to be seen what implications this has for use in the future," he said. "But it will have a bearing."

In rejecting the Winston-Salem district's request for a stay, Burger held that the application did not adequately list hardship that allegedly would result from busing.

Specifying those hardships is the issue in a pair of bills which the Alabama Legislature is rushing toward passage at Gov. George Wallace's instigation.

The legislature took steps Tuesday to insure that Wallace's proposed state law restricting court-ordered busing will be acted on by the end of the week. It is almost certain to be approved.

Latest in a series of Wallace moves to outmaneuver federal court busing orders, the proposed law says children may not be forced to ride buses if their parents determine that "time or distance of travel is so great as to risk the health or safety of the child or significantly impinge on the educational process."

That wording comes almost certain from the Supreme Court's landmark decision April 20 upholding busing as a means of desegregation.

More Southern schools opened Tuesday under new desegregation orders. In most cases, compliance with federal mandates was the rule.

The New Hanover County

(Wilmington), N.C., schools began classes and officials said a planned white boycott was ineffective. About 2,000 students there are being bused to gain racial balance.

The Nashville, Tenn., board decided Tuesday to open schools as scheduled on Sept. 7, if the Supreme Court refuses to delay the district's court-ordered busing plan. If the court does grant a stay, the board agreed, school opening will be delayed while last year's attendance system is renewed.

There was a boycott by Negro children in Cocoa, Fla., because of the length of time required by the school board to design a busing plan. A white boycott reduced registration at two formerly black schools in Alexandria, La.

The Chatham County (Savannah) system was told by a federal judge Tuesday to implement what he called a "revolutionary" plan pairing and clustering all but two of the county's 44 elementary schools.

And Superior Court Judge Oscar D. Smith in Muscogee County (Columbus), Ga., said he would stick by his order to halt desegregation under a federally approved plan in spite of an order Monday by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to carry the plan out.

Gastonian Files For Brown Lung Compensation

GASTONIA, N. C. (AP) — Doll Wrenn, 54, who has worked in cotton mills for 32 years, has filed for workmen's compensation, claiming he acquired brown lung or byssinosis in his work.

The card room worker is believed the first person in the textile city of Gastonia to apply for brown lung compensation.

A few workers in other areas of the state have applied. But none of the claims has reached a hearing stage before the North Carolina Industrial Commission, where a legal precedent recognizing brown lung could be established.

Wrenn, who makes $115 a week, says that if he is awarded compensation, which would pay him about 60 percent of his earnings, he will quit his job and try to regain his health.

Tract No. 3 — Lying and being in the Village of Arthur and a portion of Arthur Mumford Subdivision, particularly described as follows:
BEGINNING at a point in R. T.
Strickland's and Mumford and Arthur's line 100 feet from the center line of Norfolk Southern Railroad right of way; running thence in an easterly direction parallel to said right of way about 100 feet to the western boundary of Strickland Street; running thence in a northerly direction with the western boundary of Strickland Street to Smith Street; running thence in a westerly direction with the southern boundary of Smith Street to a ditch; running thence down said ditch to the road, Strickland's line; running thence in a southerly direction with the said Strickland's line to the corner at the beginning and containing four (4) acres more or less."

Tract No. 4 — Situate in Arthur
(formerly Beaver Dam) Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, bounded on the north by C. H. Raspberry land, on the east by John Leggett land, on the south by C. H. Raspberry land, and on the west by Nichols Road, in that part of the Old Hymn Hooker tract and more particularly described as follows: "BEGINNING at a stake on the Nichols Road at C. H. Raspberry's corner, running thence with Raspberry's line south 70 degrees 55 minutes east a distance of 1,493 feet to a stake in said line at John Leggett's northwest corner; running thence with the said John Leggett's line south 13 west 346 feet to said John Leggett's southwest corner, a stake in said Raspberry line, running thence with the Raspberry line north 74 degrees 7 minutes west a distance of 1,600 feet to a stake on the Nichols
Road; thence with the Nichols Road, north 33 degrees 10 minutes east a distance of 430 feet to the beginning containing 13.59 acres of land, more or less, excluding therefrom a parcel of land containing 1/2 acre, more or less, heretofore conveyed therefrom
by R. T. Strickland."

Tract No. 5 — Located in the Town of Bell Arthur and particularly described as follows: Lots 6, 7, 8 and 9 being contiguous to the 1971, survey in map by D. C. James, Civil Engineer, as recorded in Map Book 1 at page 2 in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, Tract No. 1 and No. 2 above conveyed to R. T. Strickland by deed dated May 29, 1906, and recorded in Book 2-8 at page 546; tract No. 3 to R. T. Strickland by deed dated November 14, 1949, which is duly of record in Book M-25 at page 581, all reference being to the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County,

North Carolina.

The aforesaid resale shall be subject to delivery of possession of the property on December 1, 1971, at the expiration of a current farm lease; payment by purchaser of 1971
Pitt County ad valorem taxes, and the highest bidder shall make a deposit of TEN PER CENT (10%) of the high bid, pending confirmation by the Court of the purchase price, and the entire purchase price shall be paid in cash upon confirmation of the sale and delivery of a deed conveying title. The opening bid shall start at
EIGHTEEN THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED FIFTY DOLLARS
($18,950.00).

The above described five (5) tract of land will not be offered separately but shall be sold as one parcel and the highest bidder shall be expected to complete the purchase and pay the balance of the purchase price within fifteen (15) days after the date of the confirmation of any sale.
This the 27th day of August, 1971.

Prove Private Colleges Need Not Run Aground

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH
AP Education Writer
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — The adverse financial tide that threatens to engulf many private colleges nationwide doesn't lap ashore at two Florida institutions near the Gulf of Mexico.

One is Florida Presbyterian College which opened 10 years ago in this haven of retired Americans. The other is six-year-old New College, set next to Ringling Bros. Circus Museum in Sarasota 40 miles south of here.

Neither college has had time to develop an affluent alumni. Yet admission applications are at an all-time high and financial assistance is strong.

Why the success? "I think it is because we have an exciting program... the kind of kid we get here... the enthusiastic support of faculty and very high morale," said Billy Wireman, 39-year-old Florida Presbyterian president. "This place to learn and not to teach," said Dr. John Elmendorf, president of New College. "We have support. I think, because we have an exciting education venture."

Many common threads run through each of the beautiful campuses. 95-acre New College fronting on Sarasota Bay and the 281-acre Florida Presbyterian overlooking Boca Ciega Bay.

Probably the strongest is the freedom of each student to shape his own liberal arts education leading to a bachelor's degree. And students mostly establish their own rules of personal conduct.

Competition to get admitted to either school is keen. New College, with an enrollment of slightly more than 500, admits 210 to 220 new students each year from 1,400 applicants. Hundreds of other small liberal art schools have trouble filling vacant seats.

Talking to faculty and administrators, a visitor at New College hears "excitement... flexibility... independent and interdisciplinary study." Dan Goldberg, of Chicago, who is majoring in mathematics, "summed up his experience at New College this way: "You had to learn to want to learn."

Although never involved in campus violence or confrontation with authorities, students on both campuses are viewed suspiciously by some townspeople.

However, the fledgling liberal arts schools have attracted aggressive trustees.

Millionaire Robert T. Sheen, an original member of Florida Presbyterian's board, says, "A businessman wants to put his money where it will do the most good. There is no better investment, in my opinion, than higher education, not only for our country, our businesses, but for our children."

Kendall Ide Lingle of Chicago and Sarasota, public administration consultant and new member of the New College board, said schools "must change to meet the changing times."

As an example, he said, "there is some ferment for a two-year undergraduate curriculum and then to professional school. As we have more leisure time due to technology, we need to know how to use our leisure time. We need to develop a more rounded individual."

Elmendorf, explaining the philosophy of the New College program, said it "is intended to help students attain a degree of wisdom and general knowledge as well as competence in a particular field."

In a foreword to the school's catalogue, Elmendorf wrote: "The New College teacher... is in essence a stimulator of thought rather than a purveyor of facts."

"There are no grades, no requirements for class attendance, few absolutes of any kind."

"Coupled with this degree of freedom, however, are severe demands for self-discipline, enforced through high standards of performance."

Since its inception, New College has been doing what the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education recommended this year: Reduce the undergraduate education period from four to three years and offer more paths for individual fulfillment.

Has it paid off in a top quality graduate? Administrators say about two-thirds of the four graduating New College classes have been accepted in leading graduate and professional schools for advanced study. Upwards of 25 per cent of the graduates have been recipients of distinguished fellowships.

At New College the academic year is divided in three terms and each graduate must complete three years in residence before getting a degree. Near the end of the final term the student must take a baccalaureate examination.

Florida Presbyterian does grade, but not in the traditional sense. There is a high pass (equivalent to an A), pass and fail. This school puts heavy emphasis on independent study and flexibility in developing a program for the individual student.

Florida Presbyterian uses a fall, winter and spring calendar. The month-long winter term calls for concentration on a single project. Normally a student would take four subjects in the four-month-long fall and spring terms.

Traditional requisites such as math, science, physical education and foreign language have been dropped.

New Roman Ruin In England

By DONALD FORBES
Associated Press Writer
WELWYN, England (AP) — A team of amateur archeologists has unearthed a Roman bath house in the path of a new superhighway—and the road builders have hit on a unique scheme to preserve it.

The ruins of what is a kind of early Turkish bath will be encased in a concrete vault with the highway passing overhead.

The preserved bath house, uncovered in a dig near this rural Hertfordshire town, 20 miles north of London, will be open to tourists and scholars while traffic on the highway rumbles above.

The Ministry for the Environment is paying the $48,000 cost of building the vault.

England is littered with the evidence of Roman colonization which began with Caesar's invasion in 55 B.C. and lasted for around 450 years. But many of the ruins are threatened by the encroachment of modern developments like roads and new towns.

Archeologists are hailing the safeguarding of the Welwyn ruins as a preservation breakthrough. The site is also something of a showpiece of what amateur archeologists can accomplish.

The 1,000 square foot bath house was found by the Lockleys Archeological Society, a group of local enthusiasts who have spent 10 years excavating the site, some of it lying under the playing grounds of a school.

It comprises a changing room, a cold room, a warm room and a hot room, much on the same lines as a present-day Turkish bath. The heat came from a furnace which channeled warm air through ducts.

Nearby are the foundations of two demolished villas and another building.

The amateur archeologists—headed by school teacher Tony Rook and including a bus driver, a public relations consultant and a taxman—are still intrigued by the origins of this complex of buildings.

They could have been the property of a wealthy Roman or perhaps a Romanized Briton.

But Rook believes it is possible the buildings and bath house formed part of an administrative bloc.

He said: "It's tempting to believe that this was a center from where the Romans administered the region."

Rook started the Lockleys Archeological Society when he moved into the area 11 years ago. Excavations at the bath house site began after a tile was found sticking through the soil. Now, the Society has around 150 members.

MONTALBAN ELECTED
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Members of the Motion Picture Academy elected Ricardo Montalban to the Board of Governors.

Jesuit College Makes Changes
CLEVELAND (UPI) — Jesuit-run John Carroll College in University Heights here has made a lot of changes this year.

A rabbi was added to the theology faculty, a new policy permitted guests of the opposite sex to visit in dormitories and beer was served in a student-run rathskeller.

Poland Lavishing Royal Care On Quintuplets

By EDWIN SMITH
GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — They didn't stir the world excitement caused by the birth of the Dionne quintuplets in Canada in 1934, but the Rychert quintuplets—three boys and two girls—have quickly become the darlings of Poland.

The babies born to 32-year-old Mrs. Leokadia Rychert in the Gdansk Maternity Institute on May 12 were the first recorded quintuplets in Poland and the Polish government and public alike reacted with delight.

Delight was not exactly the immediate reaction of the mother and father—Army Staff Sgt. Bronislaw Rychert, 36 —who already had two young sons.

"I had expected perhaps two at the most," Mrs. Rychert said. "When they told me five, I got a headache."

As for Sgt. Rychert, his first thought was "how will we support them?"

Such worries are behind the Rycherts now. Leokadia was promptly given a three-year paid vacation from her job as kitchen supervisor in a Gdansk restaurant. Then the Gdansk municipal authorities moved the family from their small, three-room apartment in the suburb of Pruszcz to a spacious house near the Maternity Institute where they now occupy an entire floor. The house once was the home of Stanislaw Kociolek, former Communist Party First Secretary in Gdansk and one time member of the Politburo.

Along with the new home the Rycherts were provided with 24-hour nurses to help with the infants, and they were given financial help as well. Among official gifts were savings bank books in the name of each child, and each with a deposit of 15,000 zloties ($625).

"Fortunately," the mother said, "we like children very much."

Canal Zone Sees Uncertain Future

CAUGHT IN A SQUEEZE is the narrow strip of water — the Panama Canal — and the 49,000 citizens of this "Little America with its American laws, courts and police. (UPI Telephoto)

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF WASHINGTON (UPI) — Panama is a nation whose most famous feature is a narrow strip of water — the Panama Canal. This corridor is controlled by the United States and for the 49,000 U.S. citizens who live there it is "Little America."

The laws of the Canal Zone are American. The courts are American. The police are American. "Little America" issues its own postage stamps; produces its own license tags. It is the site of an important U.S. military base. Over the years Panama has become increasingly resentful of the arrangement. As a concession, the United States agreed that Panama rightfully can claim "titular sovereignty" over the strip and that its flag may be flown there alongside Old Glory.

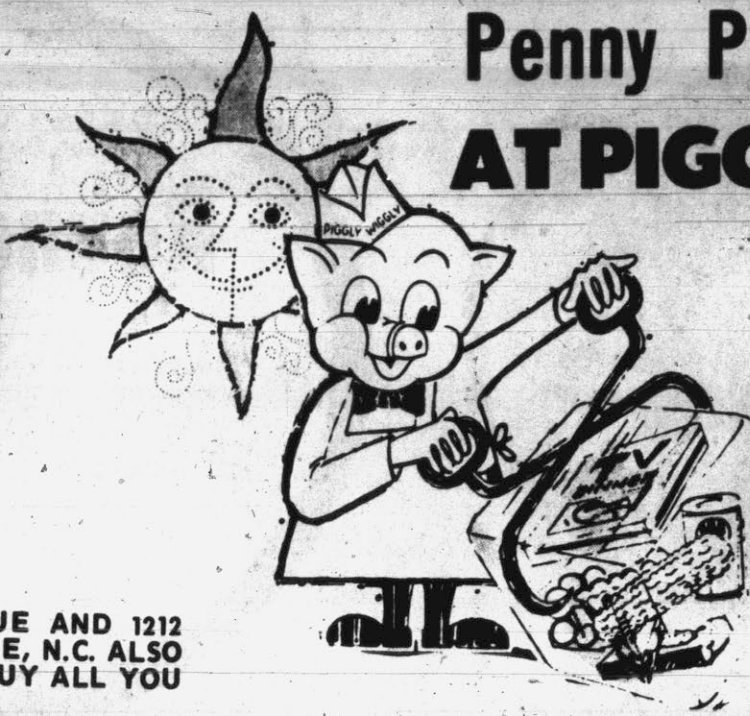

The Little Americans, however, tend to resent what they consider the intrusion of a "foreign power" — Panama — on territory where some of them have lived for decades. On some occasions, the Little Americans have made their point by flying the American flag alone.

Seven years ago a group of Panamanian high school students crossed into Little America and planted their flag in front of an American high school. Then they left, turning over a few garbage cans on their way. At nightfall, mobs crossed over into the strip; rioting broke out. The American governor, realizing that his police could not cope, ceded control to the military commander of the U.S. forces.

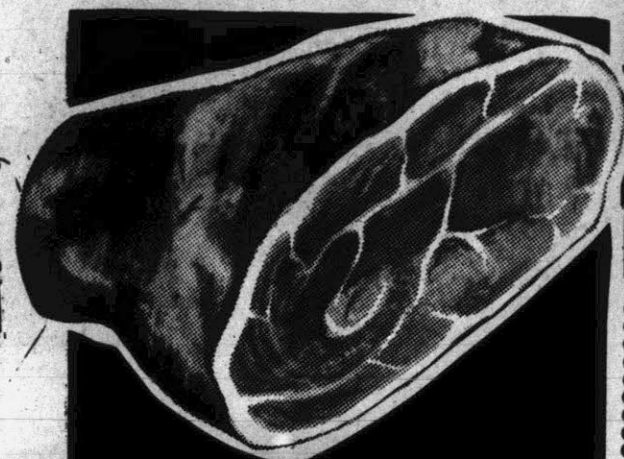

The disturbances escalated. Shots were fired. Some said machine guns were discharged. Some foreigners were killed. The American flag was trampled into the ground. The Panamanian president, in protest, suspended diplomatic relations with the United States. The canal Zone is a strip of land 10-miles wide that has been controlled by the United States since the U.S.-Panama Convention on an Atlantic-Pacific shipping canal came into force in 1904. The government of Panama granted the United States sweeping rights in the canal convention because Washington had indirectly supported the secession of Panama from Colombia the year before. Once again, the two governments are trying to negotiate the status of this colonial holdover. Twice a week or so, Jose de la Ossa, the Panamanian ambassador to Washington, drives up to the diplomatic entrance of the State Department and proceeds to the office of Ambassador John Mundt. There, with chief U.S. negotiator Robert C. Anderson and their aides, the representatives of the United States and Panama exchange views. Since June 29 they have been trying to determine, in a preliminary way, if there is enough similarity in their views to produce a fruitful negotiation. The conversations are cordial and low-key.

The United States, since 1826, had been interested in building a canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Early efforts failed, and when the Compagnie Universelle du Canal Interocéanique de Panam of French Count Ferdinand de Lesseps went bankrupt in 1889, the United States stepped in. The new Panama Canal Company bought out de Lesseps' rights for $40,000,000 in 1902. The Panama Canal Convention was negotiated the following year. For decades the government of Panama has objected to the convention. The grant of the Canal Zone to the United States "in perpetuity" is one of the most objectionable features. The annual payments that the United States makes to Panama is another. Revisions in the agreement were made in 1936 and 1955. In 1963 the United States agreed that the Panamanian flag could fly side by side with the American flag and acknowledged that "residual sovereignty" rested with Panama. As a direct result of the 1964 rioting, the Johnson administration negotiated three new treaties covering canal operations and U.S. defenses. None of the adjustments proved satisfactory. The Johnson administration treaties were never ratified because on Oct. 1, 1968, Brig. Gen. Omar Torrijos, commander of the Panamanian National Guard staged a coup d'etat and later rejected the agreements. A year later, president Demetrio Lakas, who exercises executive authority in the provisional junta government, informed the United States that Panama would like to reopen the Canal Zone issue. In January 1971 formal notification from Panama for restarting negotiations arrived in Washington. Congressional sources have revealed that while the United States seeks an accommodation, the Nixon administration still regards the Panama Canal of great strategic importance to the United States. The State Department's Office of Inter-oceanic Canal Negotiations defined for a number of congressmen the general bedrock of the American position in a letter of June 30, 1971: "President Nixon has established negotiating objectives similar to those of President Johnson in 1964, modified by developments since 1967. Continued U.S. control and defense of the existing canal are non-negotiable U.S. requirements in a new treaty. The rights (without obligation) to expand the existing canal or to build a sea-level canal are essential to U.S. agreement to a new treaty."
