

Profits Off For Utilities In Past Year

By ALVIN TAYLOR
Reflector Managing Editor
Greenville Utilities had an operating profit (from electric, water, gas and sewer operations) of $606,192.21 for the fiscal year 1970-71.

The figure was down by $382,000 from the preceding fiscal year. After adjustments for miscellaneous income and expenses and deducting the $423,173.18 in turnover to the city government...

Proctor's figures showed that the electric department's operating profit was $380,397.88, down $400,932 from the preceding year. Water department operating profit was $114,924.25, down by $3,000...

The decreases in profit were accounted for mainly by the fact that a retroactive increase in rates from Virginia Electric and Power, which supplies the local utilities, was charged off during the fiscal year.

Over all revenues were up for the year to $6,537,570.63 an increase of $875,445.96. However, expenses at $5,931,278.42 were up over the previous fiscal year by $1,257,602.56.

Proctor reported that there was an increase of 22.7 percent in kilowatt hours sold to customers in 1970-71 over the previous year.

He found property, plant and equipment valued at $15,232,379.70, less accumulated depreciation, and he noted that bonds payable amounted to $3,160,000. Proctor told the commissioners that he found the utilities records "in very good order." He noted that the commissioners were aware of the problem of increased costs and "you've done something about that."

In other business, Director Charles Horne told the commissioners that North Carolina Natural Gas has said it can handle gas requirements for Greenville this year.

The commissioners approved purchase of two utility trucks from Hastings Ford whose low bid was $7,215.81 each and one pickup at the low bid of $2,302.32.

A stake body truck was purchased from Smith-Waldrop at the low bid of $3,397.91 and a truck was purchased from Phelps Chevrolet at the low bid of $2,007.26.

Chairman Hoover Taft appointed a committee to study whether Greenville Utilities should attempt to give sewer service to Sunnyside Eggs. The firm's plant is within the GUCO service area recently established in an agreement with Winterville.

Serving on the committee will be Ray Minges, Harry Hagerty and George Coffman.

The commissioners also approved calling for bids for a deep water well to be constructed off Hooker Road on city-owned property. The well will be the sixth operated by the commission. Water is also taken from the Tar River and treated at the local plant, which is to be doubled in capacity.

Larry Brown reported that of the $4 million in authorized bonds, $2,250,000 have been sold and $1,265,826.26 has been spent. There is an $984,173.74 balance on hand, $184,173.74 in checking account and $800,000 invested.

Source Of Wounds Unexplained
Bullets Killed Attica Hostages

By BERNARD COHEN
Associated Press Writer
ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) - State Corrections Commissioner Russell G. Oswald has confirmed that the hostages slain in the Attica Prison revolt died of gunshot wounds. But the source of the wounds remained officially unexplained today.

The death toll from the four days of rebellion rose to 42 today when officials at a Buffalo hospital confirmed that a critically wounded Attica inmate had died. The total includes 10 guards and prison employees and 32 prisoners.

Reaction among guards at some other New York State prisons grew into dissension today. Correction officers at Great Meadow Prison in northeastern New York have voted to call for Oswald's ouster. State police said troopers had been called in to patrol the walls at Clinton Prison in Danamora.

Autopsies contradicted earlier official reports that inmates had slit the throats of hostages as police began an assault Monday on the rebel-held areas of the maximum-security Attica prison.

But Hollis Chase, president of a union local that represents corrections officers at the prison, insisted that the original story was correct and that the hostages' throats had been slit. He said officials had photographs showing the bodies with cut throats.

In a statement to newsmen late Tuesday, Oswald said one question was how any of the hostages could have been killed by gunfire.

"The most important and obvious answer is the fact that the inmates had dressed all hostages in prison garb to insure difficulty of identification between inmate and hostage," he said.

"Additionally, hostages could very well have been used as shields or forced forward into gunfire ..."

He released a list of weapons found in the prison after the rebellious inmates were routed. The list included gasoline bombs, sharpened spears, metal pipes, straight razors and spiked baseball bats—but no guns.

He declined to answer questions from newsmen.

The commissioner's statement came several hours after disclosure by Dr. John F. Edland, Monroe County medical examiner, that the hostages all died of gunshot wounds and that none had had his throat slashed.

"There were no cut throats or any kind of mutilation," Edland said after examining eight bodies of hostages. "All eight cases died of gunshot wounds."

A ninth hostage killed during the assault had previously been established as a gunshot victim.

Oswald maintained that "there have been two misstatements of facts" concerning what happened to the hostages. He said the first was that all the hostages had cut throats and the second was that none had a slashed throat. During the evacuation of the dead and wounded after the assault, Oswald said, "a number of those evacuated had slashed throats; it has been verified that there were at least two with lacerated throats."

He offered no further elaboration and did not mention any source of information other than the report of the "forensic pathologist," a reference to Edland.

Oswald said one reason for the erroneous reports about throats being slit was that several corrections officers "positively stated that they had seen hostages dropped as their throats were apparently being cut."

He added that there was confusion when 30 other hostages were evacuated and that those involved reported in the heat of the situation things that might have been erroneous. Oswald said a preliminary inspection of the bodies prior to any autopsies showed slashes on necks, puncture wounds, apparent broken arms, battered faces and abrasions.

Edland said his medical examination did find abrasions and other evidence of beatings on some bodies of hostages. But he said only one hostage was cut on the neck, and that wound was a small hole in the back of the neck.

The medical examiner said "There were two types of missiles found in both the inmates and the hostages. Some were buckshot. Some were larger caliber missiles."

State police who charged the prison carried shotguns and rifles. The rebellion erupted last Thursday and the inmates took 38 guards and prison employees as hostages. One guard died Saturday of injuries suffered in the first surge of violence. The rebels were crushed Monday when heavily armed state police, guards, sheriff's deputies and National Guardsmen moved into the prison under a cloud of tear gas.

After the assault, 40 bodies were found. The dead included 31 inmates and nine hostages. Several inmates could not be accounted for and prison officials suggested they might have been killed and buried.

In other developments related to the uprising and the decision to storm the prison: -A federal judge in Buffalo vacated an earlier order that had authorized a group of lawyers, doctors and nurses to enter the prison. State corrections officials successfully fought the order on the grounds that there

Foreign Pressure Rises To Devalue The Dollar

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) - The United States was under increased pressure to devalue the dollar as 10 of the major industrial nations gathered today for monetary talks.

America's leading trading partners also were virtually certain to urge an early end of the 10 per cent import surcharge imposed by President Nixon as part of his new economic policy.

The Nixon administration has resisted pressure to devalue U.S. currency but sources said a compromise agreement between the United States and the "Group of 10" still was possible. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally is representing the United States at the two-day meeting.

Britain added its support Tuesday to a call by the six-nation European Common Market for devaluation of the dollar. The development also had the informal backing of Japan and Canada, sources said.

Finance ministers and bankers attending today's meeting are seeking a way out of the global monetary and trade crisis triggered Aug. 15 when President Nixon imposed the import surcharge and cut the dollar's tie to gold.

The Common Market countries are committed to seeking both an end to the surcharge and a dollar devaluation as part of a general realignment of the world's leading currencies.

Washington alone in its approach to the crisis categorically opposes devaluing the dollar. Keystone of its economic recovery program is, instead, a demand that major foreign currencies revalue upwards.

One reason the United States wants a revaluation of other currencies is that imports from America's commercial rivals would become more costly. This would in time help America's balance of payments deficit and strengthen the dollar.

If this happened, other nations' trade balances would dwindle, and that would be deflationary for them as well as expensive politically at home. Some have expressed alarm at the size of revaluations Washington has suggested, well above the floating rates reached so far.

These nations see the surcharge in a similar light and contend they are under no obligation to help America out of a payments deficit which they feel is caused in large part by U.S. investments abroad and the Vietnam war.

Despite the opposing views financial experts believe there is room for compromise at the London meeting. Connally said before leaving Washington that the London talks would be "more exploratory than final."

More Soldiers Shot In Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland

(AP) - Terrorists shot and killed two British soldiers and seriously wounded five others during the night in different parts of Northern Ireland. At the same time, bombings and outbreaks of shooting at British army patrols and observation posts were reported in Belfast, Londonderry and Dungannon.

One civilian seen aiming a rifle at an army post in Londonderry was shot by troops. A military spokesman said the man fell and was dragged away by sympathizers from the Roman Catholic districts of Creggan and Bogside.

The two soldiers were killed in Belfast and the market town of Dungiven. The other soldiers were wounded in Londonderry. The deaths brought to 104 the number killed in two years in Northern Ireland. Twenty-two soldiers have been killed this year.

Security authorities expressed concern that the wave of attacks could mark the beginning of a new offensive by the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The IRA, seeking to force the British out of the northern province ruled by Protestants for the past century, had threatened to start an offensive last week.

It gave Prime Minister Brian Faulkner's government until midnight Sept. 8 to give up effective power—or face an upsurge in violence.

The deadline passed without any apparently concerted offensive by the gunmen.

Gerry Fitt, leader of Ulster's opposition Social and Democratic Labor party, meanwhile assailed the IRA's militant provisional wing as "madmen living in a world of hate and inhumanity."

Fitt, in a statement issued from the Dublin hospital where he is being treated for a slipped disc, condemned what he called the "brutal rejection" by the provisionals of a peace appeal by Roman Catholic Church leaders in the North.

"If I am to be true to my political principles then when I condemn the use of British bayonets in Northern Ireland I must also condemn the political use of an IRA bomb."

Viets Uncover Supply Caches

SAIGON (AP) - South Vietnamese troops sweeping the Khe Sanh area near the Laotian border uncovered a major North Vietnamese supply base today and the biggest single cache of munitions in recent months, the South Vietnamese command reported.

Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien of the command said a patrol of Hac Bao, or Black Panther, troops found a complex of 20 structures that contained more than 400,000 rounds of ammunition, large amounts of wire and fuel and five tons of rice.

Hien said South Vietnamese rangers, also operating near Khe Sanh, found a smaller cache of North Vietnamese munitions. Together, the finds were the largest uncovered since 13,500 South Vietnamese troops launched a major operation Sept. 5 in the northwest corner of the country below the demilitarized zone.

The munitions and supply stores apparently had been abandoned by North Vietnamese troops when they pulled back into Laos and across the DMZ recently under heavy raids by U.S. B52 bombers. Only scant ground action was reported by the South Vietnamese command.

In four scattered skirmishes, the command said, South Vietnamese forces killed 27 enemy and lost four killed. The U.S. Command reported a dozen more B52 bomber strikes in the northern sector, half of them in the southern part of the DMZ. The bombers dropped 360 tons of explosives on suspected North Vietnamese troop locations, anti-aircraft gun sites and storage areas.

One of the objectives of the 10-day old South Vietnamese drive below the DMZ is to destroy enemy supply depots along the Laotian border at outlets of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The U.S. command announced that two more American Army units, with combined authorized strength of 350 men, had ceased combat operations in preparation for withdrawal from Vietnam. Current U.S. troop strength in Vietnam is 215,000 men and is scheduled to be cut to 184,000 by Dec. 1.

Arrest Hoaxer

A 14-year-old Rt. 1, Winterville girl was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Pitt County deputies following investigation of a telephoned bomb threat to an Ayden school.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said the girl, who was released in custody of her parents yesterday, is charged with telephoning the Ayden Junior High School and reporting that a bomb would go off there.

Sheriff Tyson stated that the school received the call shortly after 12 noon and notified the Sheriff's Department at 12:38. He added that, through modern equipment, the caller was identified soon after the threat and the arrest made.

The girl, charged specifically with making a false report concerning a destructive device, is scheduled to appear at a hearing in Juvenile Court at 9:30 a.m. Oct. 7, the sheriff reported.

He said that the school was evacuated and a search made following the call. Nothing was turned up in the investigation, he reported.

Attica Incident Shocks Foreign Commentators

LONDON (AP) - "I am sickened by America," wrote a British newsman who visited New York's Attica prison after the riot that took the lives of 41 convicts and prison employees.

Newspapers throughout Europe published lengthy accounts of the bloody end to the jail mutiny under headlines reflecting horror and dismay.

Several commentators blamed the rebellion on racial pressures inside the prison. One said the penal system "drove the inmates to their desperate uprising."

Another accused President Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of murder. And another called it the consequences of taking a soft line with criminals. Ivor Key of the London Daily Express, the newsman who said America sickens him, reported from New York: "For the first time in four years of living and working here I am shocked to the point where I seriously question whether this is the country I want to raise my children in."

"True," Key added, "a nation's pulse cannot be taken from the thousand hardened criminals who took over the jail."

"But my fear is that the courts and politicians, mainly for their own ends, have become so liberal to the criminal that we are on the verge of wholesale anarchy."

Key said he did not believe the Attica incident could happen anywhere else in the world.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said in a dispatch from New York that the U.S. public "received the news of the brutal massacre ... with wrath and indignation."

It said the "unbearable conditions, brutality and terror of the prison authorities" had brought the prison inmates to despair and they took the situation into their own hands.

"But the authorities of the State of New York, with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller at the head, replied to these just demands with shots, bayonets and tear gas."

The Financial Times, Britain's business daily, commented: "The revolt was instigated not just by rebellious convicts but by inmates who were, almost to a man, black and Puerto Rican."

"It was, in many ways, as naked a racial confrontation as were any of the riots in America's cities in the late sixties."

Torben Krogh, editor of the Danish Daily Information, made this assessment: "The United States has had its My Lai inside its own border and this time there is no doubt that the responsibility must be placed at the top."

"By publicly supporting the action against the convicts in Attica State Prison, Nelson Rockefeller and Richard Nixon have declared themselves guilty of first degree murder."

Claim McGovern Met Terrorists

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) - City officials claimed today Sen. George S. McGovern unknowingly was meeting with a Viet Cong terrorist group when he was endangered by a rock and fire-bomb barrage against Saigon church. The senator protested to President Nguyen Van Thieu that the claim was a "personal insult."

McGovern said he told Thieu about the allegations at a meeting later in the day and quoted the president as expressing surprise at the police version of the melee at a Roman Catholic church.

He said Thieu promised he would "look into it immediately."

McGovern lodged his protest during a 45-minute meeting with Thieu that came just after Saigon city officials issued statements claiming that McGovern had unknowingly met with Viet Cong cadre at the church.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was also present at the meeting with Thieu.

The South Dakota Democrat, an announced presidential aspirant in 1972, said he is confident the persons who attended the church meeting were not Viet Cong, but persons interested in prison reform and allegedly unjust legal procedures.

"I told him (Thieu) I thought it was outrageous that a police chief of this city would imply that a U.S. senator was here meeting with agents of the Viet Cong," McGovern told newsmen, "and that it was ridiculous on the surface that a police chief would make such a charge and does nothing about it."

"If the police chief knew about this he should have moved in."

McGovern was referring to statements by Col. Trang Si Tan, Saigon's police chief, and Col. Do Kien Nhieu, the mayor, that some participants in the meeting that triggered the disturbance Tuesday were members of a Viet Cong-backed "student attack group."

Nhieu named 18 persons, some of whom he said had been responsible for recent fire bombings of American vehicles in Saigon.

"The people we talked to," said McGovern, "were Catholic priests, Buddhist priests, lawyers, doctors, housewives, students. The only thing they had in common was a concern about the attitude of this government toward the way political prisoners are treated and the way the prisons are conducted."

In a communique, the mayor said the meeting was illegal because the group had not obtained a permit required when more than 20 persons gather.

Couple Speaks Vows In Candlelight Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony, Miss Kaye Woolard and James Melvin Warren were married in the Tranters Creek Church of Christ Saturday afternoon at four o'clock. The double ring ceremony was performed by Lenuel Hardison, minister.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Preston Woolard of Rt. 5, Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Julius M. Warren of Stokes are parents of the bridegroom.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Ronald Crisp, pianist, and Mrs. Rae Dickerson, soloist, who sang "More," "The Theme From Love Story" and "Wedding Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar.

The church was arranged with floor baskets of pink gladioli, mums and pom poms against a background of fern, palm and magnolia. The couple will reside on Rt. 1, Robersonville.

After-Rehearsal Party
Following the wedding rehearsal, the Warren-Woolard wedding party was entertained at a cake cutting in the social hall of the church given by the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolard greeted guests and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Whitehurst presided at the guest register. The register table was decorated with an arrangement of variegated pink flowers and lighter pink tapers.

The bride-elect was dressed in a pink organza dress complemented by a pink aster corsage.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink asters and lace fern flanked by burning white tapers in crystal candelabra. The punch bowl was encircled with ivy and pink pom poms.

After the traditional slice of cake was cut by the bridal couple, the mother of the bride served cake and the mother of the bridegroom poured punch.

The couple remembered their attendants with gifts during the evening.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jackson.

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Western-style foods are catching on in Japan for the same reason that convenience foods find a ready market in the United States. Both make less work for mother.

In an interview here, Mrs. Chieko Akiyama, a television news commentator in Tokyo, said many urban families eat a ham, eggs and toast breakfast because it takes less time to prepare than a traditional Japanese meal built around rice.

Mrs. Akiyama was here with the fourth annual Japanese housewives tour, which is based on an essay contest sponsored by the Japanese subsidiary of the Johnson Wax Co. The tour is designed to acquaint Japanese women with American customs.

Now, about that breakfast from the traditional rice breakfast, Mrs. Akiyama explained: "The wife has to get up early in the morning—which she doesn't like to do—to cook rice. Even with an electric steamer, it takes 40 to 45 minutes. It used to take an hour over a wood fire."

"In my childhood, for every breakfast, we had white rice, soybean soup, seaweed and a raw egg over the rice. Soy sauce, too, and pickles."

She said the pickles were made from various ingredients, including cucumbers, horseradish or cabbage or, in summer, eggplant.

The American-style salad that her three grown children now eat with their Western breakfast apparently is a substitute for the pickles. She said it consisted of tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce and sometimes, celery, with either French oil and vinegar dressing or mayonnaise.

"We have white rice at every dinner," Mrs. Akiyama said. The main course consists of such things as steak or hamburger or thin pork cutlet, breaded and deep-fried in Japanese fashion.

But it's children's tastes that really are changing, she said. Like their American counterparts, primary and middle school, or first through ninth grade, pupils lunch at school. A typical meal includes milk, a beverage that was alien to Oriental diets until recent times, plus Western hamburgers or Chinese food or fried fish. There's bread instead of rice, and it's most white bread.

Daily cooking shows food commercials on each of Tokyo's six television stations help create an appetite for Western and other foreign foods. She said that the cooking shows demonstrate all kinds of cuisines, including Japanese, Chinese, French, German, American and Italian.

"Spaghetti and pizza are very popular in Japan and Chinese food has been popular there for a long time," she said.

Her elder son is very much a part of the new food scene. He's a "French" chef in a Tokyo restaurant and would like some day to own a restaurant of his own, featuring French food, of course.

While tastes in food are changing, some old customs prevail. Because homes don't usually have big freezers, women still shop daily. And they haven't yet acquired the Western custom of women's lunches as social events. Mrs. Akiyama said women rarely entertain at lunch or any other meal at home, unless they have school matters to discuss.

She said she was surprised to see, on an earlier visit to the United States, that men eat so many very sweet things, and that desserts are served right after a meal.

"We separate sweet things from the meal. In Japan, all families have three o'clock tea with sweets at home. Just for the family, no guests."

Celebrities Have Tasty Luncheon

By TOM HOGG
Associated Press Writer

There was a calorie-laden chocolate-honey pie that was the brainchild of conductor Skitch Henderson and a volatile brandy and banana cocktail conceived by Mrs. Clyde Newhouse, well known to television viewers as Maggi McNellis.

They were among half a dozen celebrities who recently traded recipes at a roundtable luncheon in New York given by the National Association for the Specialty Food Trade.

The fondness for good food that they all shared was evidenced in the dishes prepared from their recipes by St. Regis Hotel chef Diethard Loess.

A recipe for salmon tartare was submitted by Mrs. Mark Hatfield, wife of the senator from Oregon. The sauce, a subtle blend of mayonnaise, sour cream, horseradish and spices, was out of this world.

Henderson rivaled Mrs. Hatfield's bid for the most unusual recipe of the day with his honey and chocolate pie which was about as rich a dish as I have sampled in some time.

William Talbert, former Wimbledon and Davis Cup champion, weighed in with a recipe for something called "tennis salad" which was all right, but seemed much like any other salad to me.

Lucy Jarvis, who does television specials on great painters, contributed a recipe for caviar blinis, and the Romanoff company contributed the Beluga giant-grained caviar which had that delicate nutty flavor that only strictly fresh sturgeon eggs possess.

The main course was tournedos of beef served with baby carrots and artichoke hearts that had not been conceived by any celebrity but was a high point of the meal.

"Our guests were all chosen because they know how to prepare good foods as well as enjoy them," said Romanoff president Arnold Hansen-Sturm who was host to the gathering. "Any meal can be special, if you know what you are doing and put your heart into it."

Sure enough—especially after a couple of goblets of the Maggi McNellis cocktail which is tasty and potent within safe bounds. Here's the recipe for that admirable drink.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our mid-thirties, so don't get the idea we are a pair of old fogies when you read this.

Our problem is another couple with whom we go out at least once a week. The man has been our good friend for many years. His wife died two years ago and now he is going with a woman who seems to have changed him. He used to act like a perfect gentleman, but not any more. He carries on in public with this girl—kissing, hugging, smooching and what not. This they do in front of children, in restaurants, in the bowling alley, at the beach. Anywhere at all. They act as if they are all alone.

I suppose you could say, "They're in love," but Abby, that's no excuse for bad manners. We have hinted, but it hasn't worked. We would hate to end our friendship with this wonderful guy, but his behavior is just too embarrassing. What do you suggest?

GOOD FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: Quit hinting and tell loverboy to knock off the love scenes in public. And if he doesn't, simply put the friendship in cold storage for a while. P. S. He'll be back. This affair is too hot not to cool down.

DEAR ABBY: What would you say about a man who goes to church every Sunday and can never tell you what the sermon was about, but he can tell you what everybody wore?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: I'd say he's better at looking than listening.

DEAR ABBY: I have an 11-year-old son and a 10-year-old daughter. Last week I came home from the store and found the boy dressed in his sister's clothes. I was so mad I made him sit on the porch so everyone could see him. After about an hour I called him in and asked him why he did it. He said because he wanted to see how he would look dressed as a girl. Abby, now my daughter tells me her brother has been after her to let him wear her clothes. She has told him no, but she knows he has worn them anyway while she wasn't around.

Now my daughter is setting his hair and he likes it. I am getting confused because he makes a prettier girl than his sister, but I don't think he should be encouraged in this, do you? Will he outgrow it in time? Please help me. He has no daddy.

TROUBLED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Get in touch with your local mental health clinic and make an appointment for your son. Boys should be boys and girls should be girls, and the tendencies to be otherwise are rarely outgrown.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is married to a woman who is obsessed with the belief her family is superior to ours because her ancestors supposedly came over on the Mayflower.

This claim has been pounded into our grandchildren, and they have been taught to look down on us because we are foreign-born and speak with an accent.

It is ironic that due to hard work and thrift we own our own home and have helped our son and his snobbish wife buy theirs, while her supposedly aristocratic parents have never achieved anything for themselves, nor have they helped their children financially.

We are sick of hearing about their pure American heritage. Abby, please set some people straight about who the real Americans are.

AMERICAN, BUT FOREIGN-BORN

DEAR AMERICAN: I thought everyone knew technically the only real Americans were the American Indians. And if you want to read an authoritative, well-documented book on American history from the Indian point of view, get "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee," by Dee Brown.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Tragedy Of Attica Compounded

The tragedy at Attica Prison has brought comments from around the nation, some feeling that authorities did what they had to do; others believing that patience would have averted the bloodshed.

Comments ranged from President Nixon's support of Gov. Rockefeller's position in refusing to grant prisoners' demand for amnesty for acts committed during the riots, to a criminologist's condemnation of the slaughter.

Dr. Vernon Fox of Florida State University called it "an appalling massacre."

"The state legitimizing murder," he said. "There was no reason to kill anybody. Another 24 hours of talking wouldn't have done any harm and it might have saved the lives of 28 inmates and nine guards."

Many governors interviewed at the National Governor's Conference—any of whom could have been faced with the same situation—supported the action.

It is going to be difficult to separate fact from bias as the investigation of this tragedy proceeds. Certainly it appears that the authorities had been patient in negotiating with the prisoners. They had, perhaps, made concessions that should not have been made and thus stiffened the prisoner's will to resist.

There are those who believe that waiting on the part of authorities might have eventually brought the prisoners around. And certainly the prisoners could not have held out forever. On the other hand, some of the worst of society was housed in this prison unit and it was known that they were capable of anything, including massacring all the hostages if they so decided.

Conflicting reports as to what happened inside the prison walls when the move was made to restore control, make assessments difficult.

A thought that occurs to us is that only a few years back the authorities might have waited out the prisoners, whatever the risks. Public opinion would not have allowed the same move that was made this week. But public opinion shifts and authorities now feel that it is necessary to meet force with force, in such situations.

It is a tragedy when even one person dies in a confrontation with authority and certainly the occurrence at Attica was a tragedy compounded many times.

We suspect, though, that this is not the last time that authorities will get tough in a situation such as this, because that is the way many politicians now believe most people feel such crises must be handled.

Rising Student Religious Note

By BRYAN HANSLIP
RALEIGH — God is alive and well on the college campus, but the church may be in trouble.

Student interest in religion is rising, said Dr. Donald W. Shriver, Jr., as young people look for meaning in a technological society whose institutions seem to them reluctant to make. Today's students have an objective basis to be fearful for the future, Dr. Shriver said. They came of age with the possibility for ultimate destruction.

The Bomb's Shadow
His son, then eight years old, watched on television the explosion of a hydrogen bomb.

"I hope I grow up to be an adult," he remarked wistfully.

"I could never have said such a thing as a child," said the father.

Technology itself creates further uncertainty. The college degree, once good for a life-time, now represents knowledge which will be obsolete in ten years. The graduate goes out to face tomorrow educated for yesterday.

Shriver served as pastor of a Gastonia church for several years before coming to NCSU in 1962 as Presbyterian campus minister. With time out to earn a Ph.D. from Harvard, he has continued on the Raleigh campus.

Over the past half-dozen years he has directed a series of programs, each one growing out of the former, concerned with the relationship of science and technology to religion and ethics.

Explorers In Ethics
He has found students eager and articulate in exploration of the ethical dimension of contemporary life. "The engineering student is no longer simply a slide rule swinging problem-solver," said Shriver. "He is asking those of us in sociology, philosophy and religion how to make socially responsible decisions."

"Frankly, we're not always well equipped to answer," he added ruefully. The Jesus movement is a valid religious current among the young, he said. It is a search for the personal element in religion, an attempt to simplify structure and return emphasis to the individual.

"It's very close to the camp meetings of the 19th century," he observed. "I see it as the old-time religion in a modern setting."

Francis of Assisi went out of the monastery into the city and became a saint, which his brother monks shunned and inherited oblivion, Dr. Shriver reminded.

"This generation can make a better society," he said. "If they are willing to give society a chance and if society is willing to change."

BRYAN HANSLIP

faceless monsters grinding individuals into computer cards.

"This generation is not content to look forward to making money, raising a family, and calling it quits with life," he said. "They want to know how the community will be affected by what they do."

"They are asking: 'What does it all add up to? What is the total package worth?'"

"Those are religious questions," Dr. Shriver, an ordained Presbyterian minister, has observed a decade of students at North Carolina State University where he is director of the Urban Policy Study and associate professor of religion.

His presence on campus is evidence of the University's concern for the ethical consequences of science and technology. One of the courses he teaches, with an engineering professor (who happens to be a Presbyterian elder), is titled Technology and Human Values.

Students Are People
Students are a mixed bag. Neither length of hair (boys and girls) nor the cut of opinions is standardized. A basic protest against the older generation, Dr. Shriver noted, is the tendency to lump them together in the same mold.

Still, there are general characteristics to the student viewpoint. Fundamental aspects are apprehension for the future and mistrust of institutions.

"I have witnessed an increasing student interest in religion, along with a decline in their concern for religious organization, particularly the church," he said.

The church seems to the young to be one of society's institutions which are rigid in structure, complex and impersonal. It asks for a long-range commitment they are

'Unrealistic' Rule Of Thumb

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The most autocratic and unrealistic rules under which people conduct their financial affairs are the rules of thumb. Like folklore medicine, such rules offer some help but often fail the big test.

While the origins of some rules of thumb may be self-serving, many people adhere to them as they would hold to a life preserver. As they explain, "They may be poor guides, but what else do we have?"

A banker was asked for a rule of thumb on how much mortgage debt a working person could assume. Quickly he replied: "Two and one-half times his income." "Net or gross?" he was asked. He grinned. "I guess what you're getting at is that we used to use the same formula before people had big deductions for taxes, Social Security, insurance and so on," he said.

"How much life insurance should a person own?" an insurance agent was asked. "How can I say without knowing the individual," he replied. "But as a rule of thumb he should have a minimum of four to five times his annual income."

The fallacy of such a generalization, as the insurance man knew, is that a young family may need more than that and a retired couple less, and that a family with few debts may need less than the family with a mortgage on the house.

"How much should a family have in savings?" a banker was asked. "Twenty-five per cent of net income," he answered. "Impossible," the questioner replied. "Any family capable of saving that much each week or month or year is either performing a miracle or unnecessarily depriving itself of the finer things of life."

"You must remember," he explained, "that I define savings not simply as an account at the bank but additions to the cash value of insurance, increases in home equity and the build-up of pension values."

"That's still a lot," he was told. "How much of that should be in liquid savings, such as savings accounts and savings bonds?" he was asked.

"Probably one-third of the total," he said, which might sound right to a banker but seems an astonishingly high figure to millions of Americans.

Another rule of thumb for savings: You should have savings equivalent to six months of income. Such an amount is needed, it is said, in order to assure yourself of a minimum standard of living in case of job loss or other emergencies.

This rule has been expounded for decades, during which job security has become stronger, unemployment compensation has been developed, Social Security has spread to almost all workers and medical insurance plans have flourished.

But undeterred, the rule remains the same.

Strength For Today

WHAT OF RELIGION?

It is interesting to note that the early Christian Church had no creeds. They had a conviction (namely, that Jesus was Lord) and through centuries of mistake and violence Christian believers have clung to a belief in the Lordship of Jesus. The Man who taught his contemporaries the gospel of peace and went to the cross as a result is still in the world. Creeds did not appear among early Christian believers until centuries had passed. The Church lived on a Conviction — a belief in the Lordship of Jesus. The Church believed this and taught this truth and clung to it as humanity's only hope.

We have made a lot of mistakes through the centuries. Christian believers have persecuted one another and frequently in the sincere belief that through persecution and strife they were advancing the cause of truth. More people have died in "religious wars" than in any other variety of human strife. The Enemy has frequently been the person (or persons) who differed from us in the field of religious conviction. Nothing could be more contradictory or insane than the way certain groups have attempted to make the world safe for The Prince of Peace.

Yet the mistakes we have made should not drive us to despair. The Cause of righteousness has not been defeated and never will be. The little girl's prayer that God would make the bad people good and the good people nice just about sums up some very important situations in life that we have to confront day by day.

The question we need to ask ourselves is whether our "Religion" is making us better or just more intolerant.

One Dreams Of Glory

WASHINGTON — Recent stories out of Saigon indicate that the United States offered huge sums of money — through Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker — to Vice President Ky and Gen. "Big" Minh if they would run against President Thieu in the October elections. The United States, which has a big stake in "free" elections, was worried that if no one ran against Thieu some people might suspect the elections were rigged.

I am constantly searching for new dreams of glory and thanks to the press dispatches from Saigon here is my latest one:

It is midnight in the summer of 1972 and suddenly there is a knock on the door of my house in Washington. Putting on a bathrobe I stumble to the door. "Who is it?" I ask.

"Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker," comes the voice from outside.

I unlatch the door. "Ambassador, what the devil are you doing here at this hour?"

"I didn't want anyone to see me. I have to talk to you on some urgent business." Bunker comes in with a satchel in his hand, the size of a medicine bag.

"I don't have much time," he says, "so I'll get to the point. As you know, the Democrats could not agree on a candidate to run for President at their convention in Miami last month."

"I am well aware of it," I say. "It ended in a dead heat and everyone went home mad. They decided not to run anyone. It was all in my column."

"Yes, well, nevertheless, President Nixon is very upset about not having any opposition during an election year."

"I also wrote that. I said if he had no one to run against but himself, it could turn into one of the dirtiest campaigns in political history."

"Well, be that as it may, the President is very concerned that if he has no opponent this fall, many people around the world will think the election was rigged."

"That's certainly the impression the Democrats would like to give," I say. "Therefore," says Bunker, "I have been asked by Mr. Nixon himself to urge you to run against him for the Presidency of the United States."

"But why me?" I protest. "Because, Sir, the President feels you would be the ideal opponent. You have the qualities of Jefferson, Lincoln and Eisenhower. You put principle before power, the country's good before personal gain. It's all in your FBI folder."

"Heck," I say blushing. "Is nothing sacred?" Bunker picks up the medicine bag and opens it. "The President has authorized me to give you $25 million in nontaxable unaccountable funds if you will run against him in the fall."

Space Needle Liked

By CATHY CASTILLO
Associated Press Writer
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Seattle's No. 1 tourist attraction, the 607-foot Space Needle, has been copied from San Antonio to Calgary. But manager George Johnson doesn't mind. "We love it," he says. "It's a sign of success."

Since its construction for the Seattle World's Fair nine years ago, the Space Needle has drawn millions of visitors, including the Shah of Iran and Prince Philip of Britain.

It has been a favorite spot for publicity seekers, and Johnson says he remembers only too well the time a group of Chinese hung a 200-foot long string of firecrackers down the side of the needle to celebrate the Chinese New Year.

"We were cleaning up for two weeks afterward," Johnson recalled Tuesday.

At least six weddings and "hundreds" of engagements have taken place in the restaurant-lounge atop the needle.

"We've delivered rings in martinis, on cakes and in the meat sauce," said Johnson.

The restaurant-lounge, which seats 280, revolves once an hour on a ball-bearing track driven by a one-horsepower motor, smaller than the motor in most home vacuum cleaners.

On clear days, the restaurant offers a spectacular view of Puget Sound, the Cascade and Olympic mountains and the entire city.

"Looking up from the ground it doesn't look very safe," admits Johnson. "But when you look out from the top it's more like an apartment building."

The needle trembled a little during a 1965 earthquake that registered 6.5 on the Richter scale, and the elevators were shut down during a 1962 storm when hurricane force winds swept through the Seattle area, but the only thing that has stopped the needle very long has been the cold—the pipes froze.

The 1,000-ton tower is anchored 30 feet below the ground surface in 5,600 tons of concrete.

Three special glass front elevators carry 30-35 passengers up the center of the needle at 800 feet per minute.

So far, said Johnson, anything needed for the restaurant has been small enough to fit into the elevators. But if something big like an air conditioner had to be replaced, there might be trouble.

"I suppose we'd ferry it in by helicopter, but I don't know where it would land," he said.

Future Farm Exports Clouded

By ELMER ROESSNER
U.S. agricultural exports reached a new high of more than $14 billion during the first half of this year, rising 15 per cent above the previous six-month period.

Cotton deliveries led the rise, going from $185 million to $303 million. The gain might have been even more substantial, according to "Commerce Today," but for a shortage here of the type of cotton foreign mills require. Wheat shipments, however, only held steady. And rice and corn exports dropped sharply, the latter more than 15 per cent to $353 million. Of the major food categories, only soybeans improved with an increase of $29 million to $667 million.

Grain's weak showing is cause for concern. Little improvement is likely in the near term, barring unusually poor growing conditions or the opening of a new market in mainland China. Tougher Market

Britain's joining in the European Economic Community in the near future will inhibit sales in Europe as the British economy becomes more closely tied to the EEC and as the Community's trade is integrated.

ELMER ROESSNER

In addition, the Green Revolution is shrivelling many former U.S. food markets. A number of needy countries are now on the road to food self-sufficiency or have already arrived because of the new varieties of high-yield rice and wheat. Some could even become marginal competitors with increased use of improved seedstock, better farming methods, fertilizer, irrigation, and double cropping.

India is an example. Just a few years ago it was importing hundreds of thousands of tons of foodgrains annually.

Yet India has just announced that this year it will halt foodgrain imports. This despite an estimated 7 million additional refugee guests from East Pakistan at the dinner table.

Sizable Reserve
The confidence is not misplaced. India holds 8.5 million tons of buffer grain stocks and farm output is rising rapidly.

Even developing countries which are not direct customers affect U.S. sales. As their needs decline under the impact of rising output, their traditional suppliers will intensify competition for U.S. outlets.

Moreover, suppliers, themselves, are taking advantage of improved varieties and farming techniques to become more competitive.

What is happening in wheat, corn and rice will eventually happen to other products. In a month, year or decade we could well see better varieties of soybeans, sorghum, cotton, peanuts, garden vegetables, fruits and what-have-you. The improvements will not just be in yields, but also involve adapting food plants to climes where they have previously been unsuccessful.

Governor Urged Give Pay Boost To All Teachers

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Association of Educators is urging Gov. Bob Scott to order that all teachers be given their 5 per cent pay raises.

"We are appalled to learn that superintendents are being instructed to withhold salary increases from North Carolina teachers pending a decision on the matter which has been requested by you," the NCAE said in a telegram to Scott Tuesday.

that we got a couple of weeks ago verbally," Davis said, referring to Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan's announcement that the Cost of Living Council had approved the higher pay level.

"But it's up to the local board on how they want to do it. Some are paying on the schedule which we think will be approved and others are paying on last year's schedule," Davis said.

He said the letter was sent out because local education officials were seeking guidance. He said those who chose to pay the raises "may have to take them back" if Gov. Scott is informed that the wage-freeze applies to North Carolina teacher pay.

Scott has requested a formal, written order from the Cost of Living Council.

NCAE President Ruth Jones of Rocky Mount said the association would explore the possibility of taking the pay issue to the General Assembly in October.

The group said in its telegram to Scott: "The National Education Association informs us that many states and districts are abiding by the rulings and are paying salary increases. The North Carolina teachers are counting on a favorable action from you."

Scott is in Puerto Rico for the National Governors' Conference.

The wire was sent in response to a letter from the state Board of Education to local school superintendents recommending that they not pay the 5 per cent hike except to teachers who were actually on the job prior to the Aug. 14 wage-price freeze.

Tom Davis, public information director for the Department of Public Instruction, said the choice of paying the increase was left to the discretion of the local superintendents.

But they were advised to use split pay roster until Nov. 12 when the freeze expires, paying teachers who began work after the freeze under the old salary scale, without the 5 per cent raise.

Suggests Fields Of Service For Rotary

Three areas of community concern were discussed before Greenville Rotarians by Dr. Louis C. LaMotte, of Maxton, Governor of District 773, Rotary International, in an address Monday evening.

Dr. LaMotte was in this city on the occasion of his official visit to the Greenville Rotary Club, one of 43 clubs in 38 southeastern counties of North Carolina.

Invest in youth, work together in reconciliation, and co-operate in improving the structure of correctional institutions, declared District Governor LaMotte.

Financial aid and scholarships to youth will bring greater dividends than can be measured in economic terms, said Dr. LaMotte. He drew upon his experience as president of Presbyterian Junior College and his association with St. Andrews Presbyterian College at Laurinburg and at Carolina Military Academy at Maxton.

Improvement of facilities at correctional institutions will advance the cause of crime reduction and improved law and order, Dr. LaMotte emphasized, as he urged Rotarians to give their co-operation to efforts in this direction.

In his address to Rotarians he noted the advance of this service club in "bridging gaps" in international relations, citing the contributions of more than 1,800 Rotarians in this district, and of 704,500 Rotarians in 14,929 Rotary Clubs in 149 countries and geographical divisions.

Dr. C. Fred Irons, Greenville club president, presided and introduced Governor LaMotte.

Prior to the club meeting, an assembly headed by Dr. Irons and Club Secretary-Treasurer James G. Sullivan with major committee chairmen, was conducted by Dr. LaMotte.

Limited Ferry Service Begun

OAK ISLAND, N. C. (AP) — The Highway Commission has opened limited two-way ferry service for vehicles between the mainland and Oak Island.

The ferry "Toby Tillet" made a trial run from the mainland early Tuesday with truckloads of groceries and gasoline.

A barge knocked out the island's only highway link with the mainland last week when it rammed a bridge across the Intracoastal Waterway.

Two other ferries are operating from the island's eastern tip, taking school children and workers from the Coast Guard docks to Southport.

Appointed To Committee

DURHAM (AP) — John A. McMahon, president of North Carolina Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Inc., has been appointed to President Nixon's Committee on Health Education.

He and the other 15 members of the advisory group met with Nixon Tuesday to develop plans for a new program to provide better health education.

Voted Against 1950 Act Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of North Carolina's representatives voted Tuesday against repealing the 1950 Emergency Detention Act.

They were L. H. Fountain, a Democrat, and Charles Jonas, a Republican. Voting to repeal were Democrats Nick Galifianakis, David Henderson, Walter Jones, Alton Lennon, Richardson Preyer and Roy Taylor; and Republicans James Broyles, Wilmer Mizell and Earl Ruth.

The House voted 356 to 49 to repeal the law establishing detention centers for suspected subversives, a law which never has been invoked. The bill went to the Senate.

"All right," I say, putting the money back in the bag. "But the day after the election I want to go back to being just plain John Q. Citizen."

"Have no fear," says Bunker, putting on his homburg and walking toward the door.

As he gets into his limousine a thought suddenly occurs to me and I yell, "Hey, suppose I win?"

But Bunker drives off. Apparently he doesn't hear me.

Computer May Improve Justice, Readying Laws

By CHARLOTTE G. MOULT WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress and the courts eventually may find the computer an invaluable ally in readying legislation and dispensing justice.

Despite the push-button age, neither branch of government depends very much on computers. The executive branch has about 5,600 computer systems but most are used for unexciting payroll and inventory work.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and his predecessor, Earl Warren, have put in a good word at every opportunity for adoption of modern techniques to help untangle the court snarl.

The Supreme Court requested $104,000 this year to start computerizing its torrent of cases, but Congress said "no." So far as the lawmakers' own work is concerned, Rep. John C. Culver, D-Iowa, a member of the house government activities subcommittee says Congress is living in the "technological dark ages."

"The vast potential of the modern electronic data processing computer must be committed to the solution of the nation's social problems," he said recently in a press statement.

"All too often committee hearings have been echo chambers in which pat positions are rehearsed and ratified in which no effort is made to draw on outside sources or to build up an independent perspective and body of knowledge."

The subcommittee held hearings on computers earlier this year and expects to report in September. The House Committee on Administration also has an expert studying the computer situation from the legislative standpoint.

Meanwhile a computer technician, Charles Nasem of Annandale, Va., has come up with a scheme for solving all these problems and a lot more. He proposed a national center for law information in the nation's capital.

If Nasem, a native of Peshawar, India, could win congressional approval, the center would have almost instant access to the U.S. legal code, state laws, local ordinances, precedent-setting court decisions, rulings of administrative agencies and sociological and economic information.

Both government and private sectors of the economy would draw on this vast store of data. Nasem believes the center would be used also by universities, U.S. embassies abroad, commercial banks and countless other institutions. He even visualizes citizens using it to vote in a national election.

Public libraries, for instance, could use the system to show individuals how to behave in traffic court or to explain a newly enacted law, dealing perhaps with civil rights or truth in packaging.

Nasem has drawn up a two-inch thick book on his proposal. The reactions range all the way from ho-hum to downright enthusiasm.

Spokesmen from both government and business discount the Utopian character of Nasem's dream but they see it materializing on a less grandiose scale.

Among those present at a mid-August hearing granted Nasem by the staff of the Senate Judiciary Committee was Col. Alexander Palenscar, director of the Defense Department's Legal Information Through Electronics (LITE) project.

The LITE computer is equipped with the U.S. code, certain opinions of the comptroller general, U.S. Claims Court opinions since 1956, court-martial reports, department regulations and about 105 million key words for use in retrieving desired information.

LITE, which has been working six years for the Defense Department, "validates" Nasem's concept, Palenscar said. It could be the prototype for his proposed information center.

If the nation could "get out of the high stool, eye shade era" of court administration, the colonel told UPI, the resulting smoother operation of courts might cut down the kind of disrespect for law and order which begets crime.

The Federal Judicial Center, created by Congress in 1967 to improve the operation of the U.S. courts, was non-committal on NASSEM's idea. The Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) gave the idea the brushoff. LEAA currently is funding a multi-state project for computerizing the criminal history of persons still active in their areas, with a proposed central index in the FBI.

But the Federal Bar Association, an organization of government attorneys, plans to support the idea of a National Law Information Center. And at least one law school is seriously looking into its possibilities. The American Bar Association, which has traditionally concentrated on the professional rather than the business side of the law, has done nothing to promote use of computers in law research.

No Advocate Of 'Quick Arrests'

By GENE COSTELLO HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Connecticut's new state police commissioner is a man who believes law enforcement needs to be mixed with a little more discretion and understanding by police officers.

A veteran of 25 years with the state police department, Commissioner Cleveland B. Fuessenich, 52, tells his troopers it isn't necessary to make an instant arrest the moment there's an infraction of the law. He wants them to adopt the attitude of the "old time cop on the beat."

Years ago, Fuessenich explained, the copy on the beat knew the people of his area, was familiar with their problems and often decided on the spot whether an arrest should be made. "He used his own discretion," the commissioner said. "This program boils down to the same thing."

"We want the troopers to use their own discretion and take whatever action they think is best. They will have more responsibility. They will have to make decisions."

There has been controversy over the commissioner's methods, and some hostility, possibly because his predecessor for 12 years, Leo J. Mulcahy, had gained a reputation as a tough cop who advocated a policy of strict law enforcement.

Fuessenich says his way does not mean a slackening of law enforcement. "We're not becoming softies," he said. "The law will be enforced. We are going to find the causes of the violation rather than just punish the person. We will evaluate each case and see what the causes are. Arrests won't just be automatic."

The new commissioner let it be known at the time of his appointment in March, that he did not necessarily share

Mulcahy's views and that changes would be forthcoming.

"I do feel strongly that the state police must reflect very clearly my philosophy and my approach to law enforcement if I am to meet the heavy responsibility which has been placed on my shoulders," Fuessenich said.

The commissioner said the new arrest policy has caused some misunderstanding among his men because they have been trained for so long to automatically arrest all lawbreakers.

He said the general reaction among the troopers has been "very good" but added that it will take considerable retraining to make the policy work.

"We have to instruct the officers what discretion is and show them why an arrest should only be made if they believe it is absolutely necessary. We must clarify our position."

Fuessenich plans a major retraining program that will involve not only the state police but, he hopes, local police as well.

Ass'n Seeking More Equality

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Dr. Judith G. Pool, a senior scientist at the Stanford University School of Medicine, has been elected co-president of the Association of Women in Science.

She shares the association's presidency with Dr. Neena P. Schwartz, professor of neuroendocrinology at the University of Illinois College of Medicine.

The association was organized in Chicago by a group of women "to promote equal opportunities for women to enter the professions and to achieve career goals," Dr. Pool explained.

Among those present at a mid-August hearing granted Nasem by the staff of the Senate Judiciary Committee was Col. Alexander Palenscar, director of the Defense Department's Legal Information Through Electronics (LITE) project.

The LITE computer is equipped with the U.S. code, certain opinions of the comptroller general, U.S. Claims Court opinions since 1956, court-martial reports, department regulations and about 105 million key words for use in retrieving desired information.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C., says the Appalachian Regional Commission has approved $175,390 in loans for planning 435 low and moderate income housing units in five North Carolina counties.

Steady Prices On Farmville Leaf Market

FARMVILLE — Prices on the Farmville Tobacco Market remained steady yesterday.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade, an increase in quality grades of leaf was responsible for the largest gains. Top practical price was 86 cents per pound.

"Most of the volume on yesterday's sale was leaf grade," Williams said. "The volume of primings continued to decline and nondescript grades accounted for a small volume of sales."

The volume of gross sales going to government loan programs continued far below the record of last year with receipts yesterday totaling only .78 percent of gross sales.

The Farmville market yesterday averaged $79.72 per hundred pounds yesterday when 642,465 pounds of leaf was sold for $512,195.56.

Hickel Eyes Pesticides And Third Party Cancer Linked?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, clearly disenchanted with President Nixon, says the time may be ripe for a third-party coalition of new, independent and dissatisfied voters to capture the presidency.

A former governor of Alaska and Republican national committeeman, Hickel campaigned hard for Nixon in 1968 and for Republican candidates in 1970. He was fired from Nixon's Cabinet last November.

In a book entitled "Who Owns America?" (published by Prentice-Hall), Hickel says "the people are looking for something new in leadership." The book was officially scheduled for publication Oct. 4 but was on sale in some Washington bookstores Tuesday.

In it, Hickel says the public is "fed up with being represented by those who only play the partisan political game.... It may be time for a people's party to emerge every four years to offer an alternative candidate for president."

Trio Failed To Appear In Court

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Three persons charged with defrauding Southern Bell Telephone Co., by telling readers of an underground newspaper how to use a fictitious credit card number for free phone calls failed to appear in court Tuesday. The judge doubled their bonds.

The three, free under $1,000 bond each, had been scheduled for a preliminary hearing in state District Court to determine whether there was sufficient evidence for their cases to be tried in Superior Court.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A family of pesticides widely used on fruits and vegetables has been linked to cancer in animals by the Food and Drug Administration.

Spurred by the FDA findings, the Environmental Protection Agency is considering whether a ban, or lesser restrictions, should be imposed on some or all of these fungicides known as carbamates.

No decision has been reached, according to Dr. William M. Upholt, EPA's deputy assistant administrator for pesticides programs. He said there appears to be "no clear-cut evidence of imminent hazard to man" from the carbamates.

Dr. Virgil O. Wodicka, director of the FDA's Bureau of Foods, wrote Upholt Aug. 23 that agency scientists had confirmed the chemical ethylene thiourea (ETU) causes cancer of the thyroid gland when fed to rats. A copy of the letter, which was not made public, has been obtained by The Associated Press.

ETU is one of the chemicals that carbamates split into naturally after being sprayed on fruits, vegetables, grass, flowers, bushes and trees.

Traces of carbamate, and presumably ETU, remain on treated fruits and vegetables purchased at food stores, Wodicka said, although the extent is unknown.

"The whole thing is too new" to evaluate the Risk, Wodicka said in an interview. "If we find its a problem, we will speak in a louder voice."

Meanwhile, two scientists reported that chemicals used to make bug-killers work better may extend their effect to humans.

Three Tied For Eastern Carolina Lead

After two surprising ties in last week's contests, the Eastern Carolina conference continues its wars this weekend, with the teams hoping to weed out the contenders a little.

Right now a three-way tie has developed for first place between Greene Central, Charles B. Aycock and North Lenoir. Southern Wayne is just a fraction behind them with only a tie against Ayden-Grifton holding the team out of sole possession of first place.

In last week's action, the two ties came when Ayden-Grifton and Southern Wayne wound up in a 22-22 deadlock and Eastern Wayne and Farmville Central finished at 14-14. Elsewhere Greene Central downed Southern Nash, 18-0, Aycock whipped Conley, 19-0, and North Lenoir beat North Pitt, 12-0.

This week's contests send Greene Central to Southern Wayne, North Lenoir to C. B. Aycock, North Pitt to Eastern Wayne, Farmville to Southern Nash and Conley to Ayden-Grifton.

"We just had an off-night," Ayden-Grifton's Nelson Gravatt said of his team's tie. "We had a lot going against us. It was supposed to be our home game and we had to move it. Our mental attitude just wasn't right for football." Gravatt feels, however, that things will straighten out this weekend. "I thought we had the game under control when we went ahead, 22-14," the coach said. "But they came back and pushed it right down the field. And even then, I thought we could keep them from scoring the conversion and still win it. Our defensive line just didn't charge out."

Gravatt singled out quarterback Ken Cleaton and kicker Mike Tripp for their play in the game. Cleaton, however, was injured in the game, and probably will miss the contest. Either Robbie Pinner or Chuck Babbington will substitute for him. Also out will be Leroy Sumpter, with an ankle injury.

"We don't look for Conley to throw a lot," Gravatt said. "They run a basic 5-3 defense, but we really haven't scouted them too much. As for us, we need to work on our timing and precision in our ballhandling. It's just not up to par."

His opponent for the coming week, George Wheeler, felt his team did a good job against Aycock, despite the loss. "We hit well, and I was well pleased," he said. "Injuries hurt us a lot," he added. "We went through two of our quarterbacks and the one we have in there now is just a freshman and still has a lot to learn. We don't expect any of the eight that were hurt to be back for this one."

Wheeler noted that his team did play well, causing eight fumbles and recovering six of them. But Aycock proved too tough when the Vikings went on offense, and that was the story of the game.

"We showed a tremendous improvement," Wheeler said, "we cut out a lot of our mistakes."

The coach praised Ted Carmon, defensive end, for his fine play, along with linebacker Roger Cates, and tailback Calvin Clemons.

"We know A-G has a good, strong team, one of the best. They have strength, depth, speed and size, but we're going to try and stay in there with them. We'll go after them," he said.

Gene Brewer of Farmville Central felt his team didn't play well in its 14-14 tie with Eastern Wayne. "We made a number of mistakes that we thought we'd make against Rose," he said.

Brewer praised Eastern Wayne for not giving up and battling back from a 14-0 deficit. "They could have won it," he added. "They did a few things we weren't looking for, but we really expected more new things.

Brewer said the Jaguars came through the game in good physical condition.

This week, the Jaguars take on the Southern Nash Firebirds. "They are about the same size as us, and they have some quick backs. They hustle a lot and they don't loaf." Despite this, however, the Firebirds haven't had a lot of success and are winless so far this year, their fourth.

"We look for them to run mostly, but they are throwing the ball well," Brewer said.

North Pitt Coach Danny Wilmer felt that his team went after North Lenoir well, but that experience was the big factor in the game. It was the Panthers' first varsity contest ever. "It just goes back to not enough practice," Wilmer said.

He pointed out that until school started, the Panthers had trouble in getting enough players out for practices every day. "Things are better now," he said, "but we're about two weeks behind. I think our personnel was better than North Lenoir."

He noted that the passing game of the Panthers was what really hurt, but said that this again, was from the lack of practice.

Wilmer singled out safety Ronnie Briley, defensive half-back Andrew Daniels, quarterback Charles Young and guards Johnny Vines and John Moody for their play.

"We know Eastern Wayne is very tough," Wilmer said. "They have a real good quarterback, good size and speed. We expect them to do right much passing, especially since this was what hurt us so much last week."

In addition to the Eastern Carolina conference games, both Robersonville and Williamston will be in action. Robersonville, a 54-0 victory over Chocowinity, takes on another Tobacco Belt Conference foe Friday night when they travel to Aurora. This is expected to be one of the chief foes in the Eagles' route to a hoped-for title.

Williamston, which downed Northampton last week in an Albarmar Conference contest, gets another test when it travels to Scotland Neck, another league foe.

Indians Get Nod Over Bucs

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — As usual, Notre Dame is concerned with Who's No. 1? But right now, as the Fighting Irish prepare to open their season Saturday against Northwestern, it's not No. 1 in the country but No. 1 at quarterback.

The answer probably won't be known until Friday. Senior Bill Etter, junior Pat Steenberge and sophomore Cliff Brown shared the position in last weekend's scrimmage. The reason for the decision delay is that Etter has a hip pointer and Steenberge a hamstring pull.

Whoever wins out will be expected to lead the Irish to a national championship. Anything else doesn't make the Notre Dame faithful very happy, since they don't belong to a conference and don't have a league title to battle for.

The unnamed quarterback will be joined by most of the starters from last year's 10-1 squad which ended Texas' 30-game winning streak in the Cotton Bowl and finished second in the national rankings. The Irish are still second, although they led the preseason poll only to be passed by Nebraska, which opened impressively last weekend.

They shouldn't drop any lower, even though Northwestern outplayed Michigan during the first half of its early opener but came away a 21-6 loser. Only one Northwestern coach has had Notre Dame's number, beating the Irish four in a row from 1959-62. His name was Ara Parseghian and he now coaches at ... NOTRE DAME.

Texas at UCLA - if UCLA was looking past Pitt a week ago, the object of their attention was Texas. The Longhorns pulled out last year's thriller 20-17 on a miraculous 45-yard pass with 12 seconds left. What can they do for an encore? How about an easier win? TEXAS.

Oklahoma State at Arkansas - Watch out for the Cowboys' great soph next year. Watch out for the Razorbacks this Saturday. ARKANSAS.

Southern Methodist at Oklahoma - Can super athlete Gary Hammond, now a quarterback after two years as a receiver and running back, outshine the Sooners: all veteran backfield? Unh-unh. OKLAHOMA.

Joe Bullard and his Bandits against George super soph quarterback Andy Johnson. Bulldogs bite bandits. GEORGIA.

Wisconsin at Syracuse - This looked like Wisconsin's explosive offense against the rugged Syracuse defense ... until the Orangemen's own attack scintillated in its final scrimmage. SYRACUSE.

Houston at Arizona State - This is the weekend's only match-up between Top Twenty teams. Cougars are 20th, Sun Devils 16th ... and counting. ARIZONA STATE.

Michigan State at Georgia Tech - Big game for both teams, with even bigger ones just around the corner. Healthy Spartans on the road back after rash of 1970 injuries. MICHIGAN STATE.

South Carolina at Duke - Were the Gamecocks for real in beating Georgia Tech? Were the Blue Devils for real in beating Florida? Something's gotta give. DUKE.

Villanova at Toledo - Rockets' 24-game winning streak, longest in the land, is in danger against pass-catcher Mike Siani & Co. A victory for Toledo probably means another unbeaten campaign. So be it. TOLEDO.

Purdue at Washington - Boilermakers have a date next week with Notre Dame. Sonny Sixkiller becomes Sonny Purduekiller. WASHINGTON.

Wilson Fike Making Title Noises Again

Shades of Crumpler and Company begin to spread over Fike High School after two weeks of play in the 1971 season. Coach Bob Paroli's club rolled to their second straight win, a 49-0 victory over Hoggard and have now rolled up 90 points in two games.

It was Jimmy Knight Night Friday as the swift back scored five touchdowns and ran for a two point conversion for 32 points all by himself. In the first period Knight scored on a 3 yard run and Larry Barnes went in on an 8 yard pass. Knight scored in the second quarter on a five yard run and duplicated the feat later in the period, he scored in the third period on a 34 yard scamper and wound up the night's activity with a 9 yard scoot in the final period. Isear Briggs scored the other Titan touchdown in the fourth quarter to make the final count 49-0. Knight picked up 237 yards in 223 attempts and also took over the division scoring lead with room to spare. Ronald Mincey paced the rugged Titan defense as Paroli's machine rolled along.

Rose High of Greenville moved into the win column for the first time with a 19-0 win over 3-A Washington at Kugler Field in Washington. The Rampant defense set up their first two scores as linebacker George Price intercepted a Rodney Perry pass in the first quarter and ran 20 yards for a 6-0 lead. Halfback Calvin Moore intercepted another Perry pass in the second period and raced to the 25 yard line; a 15 yard penalty and finally quarterback Bob Barrett went in from the one to make it 12-0 at the half. Al Hunter completed the scoring in the third period on a two yard run with Phil Ragazzo booting the extra point for a 19-0 win.

The Kinston Vikings scored one of the most impressive wins in the Division with a 12-6 win over Jacksonville, one of the highly regarded teams in the state. The Vikings dropped behind in the second period when James Harris scored for the Cardinals on a 2 yard run. They tied it up in the same quarter as Darryl King sneaked in from the one to make it a 6-6 game at the half. The Vikings won it in the final quarter on a King to Kearney Bryant pass good for four yards at the victory. Lamar Lofton led the stubborn Viking defense while Darryl King paced the offense.

The Gryphons of Rocky Mount won their first game of the year nipping New Hanover 7-3 down at Wilmington. They trailed 3-0 going into the final quarter recovering a New Hanover fumble on the 35 and Roscoe Batts and Cleveland Howard teamed up to take the ball down where Batts scored from the one with about 9 minutes remaining. New Hanover out-statisticed the Gryphons but didn't outscore them and Rocky Mount is now 1-1 for the year.

West Carteret clipped the New Bern Bears 14-6 to hand the Bears their first loss. Joe Edwards scored the only New Bern touchdown in the final quarter after the Bears trailed 14-0. The Patriots had scored single touchdowns in the third and fourth periods to go ahead.

This Friday it will be all family affair for the first time this year. The Roaring Titans of Fike High will be home to the Rampants of Rose High, Kinston fresh from their initial win will travel to Goldsboro while Rocky Mount will be at New Bern.

Dodgers Do It Again; Lead Now One

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

... And then there was one. One game separates them—and from now on, it'll be up to the rest of the National League West to decide whether the Los Angeles Dodgers or San Francisco Giants wear the crown.

Or maybe they'll still have to work it out themselves. They've had to do it before—twice in 20 years—and in each case the Giants have come out on top.

But when these two teams collide, it's not just another game.

"It was like a World Series game," Los Angeles Manager Walter Alton said after his scrambling, clawing Dodgers won their eighth in a row and 13th in 15 games, stunning the Giants 6-5 on Manny Mota's three-run pinch double in the top of the ninth inning.

It was also their eighth straight triumph this year over San Francisco and gave the hard-charging Dodgers the season series 12-6 against the Giants, who less than two weeks ago commanded what seemed to be an all-but-invincible 8½-game margin before losing nine of 10.

"I wasn't discouraged," said the unemotional Alton, referring to the ninth inning, when the Dodgers came up trailing 5-3. "I've been around long enough to know you can't give up too soon."

The Dodgers didn't. They loaded the bases with nobody out on singles by Duke Sims, pinch-hitter Bull Sudakis and Maury Wills, setting up Mota's liner that sailed just inches over third baseman Alan Gallagher's glove, sending all three runners scurrying across the plate.

The two-bagger obliterated the San Francisco lead built on Bobby Bonds' second home run of the game, a three-run blast in the seventh inning coming only minutes after Chris Speier had hit a solo shot which started the rally.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs 4-3 to open a 7½-game East lead over St. Louis, which lost 5-4 to Philadelphia, Atlanta rode Hank Aaron's two home runs to a 5-2 victory over Cincinnati. Montreal split a doubleheader with the New York Mets, winning the opener 12-1 before losing 6-3, and San Diego topped Houston 5-2.

"We threw everything we had at them," a downcast Giants Manager Charlie Fox muttered.

"We got five runs—you'd think we could get three outs in the ninth." They got them—one double and three runs too late.

"Six inches lower and we might have had a triple play," he said of Mota's liner. Then, his gaze turning to a defiant glare, he added: "We're still one game ahead with 14 left to play. We're not going to pack up and quit!"

"Now we can start worrying about the Cards," Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh said after his Cubs beat the Dodgers on Richie Hebner's triple and a passed ball in the sixth inning, tagging 21-game winner Ferguson Jenkins with his 13th loss.

"We've got five big games against St. Louis in the next eight," Murtaugh said, "and that's the way it should be—the two contenders going against each other."

Rick Wise of the Phils helped win his own game at the plate, driving in two runs with a single in the five-run second inning that flipped the Cards.

Aaron's five runs batted in with his 42nd and 43rd homers of the season moved him past Stan Musial into fourth place on the all-time RBI list with 1, 953, just one behind the late Ty Cobb.

He hit a three-run job in the first inning following singles by Felix Millan and Ralph Garr, then unloaded in the fifth after winning pitcher Ron Reed bunted his way on base. It was the 53rd time Aaron has hit two or more homers in a game and gave him 635 career round-trippers.

Ron Fairly drove in five runs for the Expos in their opening game romp by Wayne Garrett and Ed Kranepool countered with homers in the nightcap for the Mets. Rusty Staub had one in each game for Montreal.

Ed Acosta tamed the Astros on five hits and got all the runs he needed when the Padres struck for five in the first inning.

Oakland Can Clinch Western Flag Tonight With Win Over Chicago

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Oakland A's, playing it cool, can clinch the American League's West Division pennant tonight in owner Charles O. Finley's backyard—Chicago.

The A's had a chance to wrap it all up Tuesday night in Kansas City but the Royals used six innings of shutout relief pitching by rookie Monty Montgomery to delay the clinching, 2-0.

There was no evidence of champagne or other celebration paraphernalia in the A's dressing room. Apparently, Finley had decided Kansas City would be no place to celebrate a title for his A's, who fled that town for Oakland in 1968.

The A's play a two-night doubleheader against Chicago tonight and a sweep or a split combined with a KC loss against California would clinch the crown for Finley, whose insurance company is headquartered in Chicago.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, New York rapped Boston 6-3, Detroit belted Baltimore 6-1, Milwaukee trimmed Chicago 5-4, and Cleveland topped Washington, 3-1 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was suspended after 16 innings by a local curfew, tied at 5-5.

Montgomery, making his major league debut, relieved Kansas City starter Paul Splittorff in the fourth inning after Splittorff was struck on the right kneecap by a line drive. The youngster, who had spent this season with Elmira in the Eastern League, permitted the A's just four hits and earned the victory.

Diego Segui, 9-7, was locked in a scoreless duel with young Montgomery until the seventh when Amos Otis led off with a single for KC.

Otis stole second—his 50th stolen base of the season, tops in the American League—and went to third when catcher Dave Duncan threw the ball into center field for an error. Then Joe Keough singled off first baseman Mike Epstein's glove, scoring Otis.

An inning later, the A's had another run when Bobby Knoop singled, moved up on Montgomery's sacrifice and scored on Freddie Patek's triple.

That was enough to beat the A's and delay the celebration they weren't really planning to have in Kansas City anyway.

It was a bad night all around for the A's. Their ace left-hander Vida Blue, is now baseball's second winningest pitcher after Detroit's Mickey Lolich earned his 24th victory with a six-hitter against Baltimore.

Lolich turned in his 25th complete game of the season and increased his innings pitched total to a whopping 342—highest in the majors since Robin Roberts pitched 347 innings in 1953.

The stylish left-hander got home run help from Bill Freehan and Mickey Stanley. Aurelio Rodriguez and Gates Brown contributed three hits apiece for the Tigers, who beat Jim Palmer, 18-8.

The Yankees crept to within one game of third place Boston in the AL East, beating the Red Sox behind Mel Stottlemyre.

Stottlemyre, who hurled a seven hitter, contributed an RBI-single to a five-run sixth inning that put New York in command. Thurman Munson drew two walks in the big inning, scoring one run and forcing in another.

Felipe Alou drove in two runs for the Yanks with a single and a double.

Dave May cracked a three-run homer and doubled home the winner as Milwaukee shaded Chicago. Darrell Porter also homered for the Brewers, who roared from behind after the White Sox jumped off to a 4-0 lead against winner Bill Parsons, 13-15.

Parsons walked to open the seventh inning and moved up on a sacrifice before May's ground rule double delivered the deciding run.

Vince Colbert fired a four-hitter as Cleveland took the first game of its doubleheader against Washington. The game was played in one hour, 54 minutes—fastest game this season for the Indians.

The nightcap was just the opposite, lasting five hours—longest this season for Cleveland—before being ended by a curfew after 16 innings. Dick Billings drove in three runs for the Senators including two in the ninth as Washington rallied to tie it. Craig Nettles had four RBIs for the Indians.

Wake Facing Second Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Atlantic Coast Conference football teams began working Tuesday on weaknesses discovered in Saturday's season openers.

For coach Cal Stoll of Wake Forest, the coming weekend will be like "having two opening games in a row."

Stoll explained that Virginia Tech, Wake's opponent Saturday, hasn't played a game yet. In addition, Charlie Coffey is a new coach at Tech and Stoll said he doesn't know "what they are going to do."

The Deacons took it relatively easy Monday, then held a rough workout Tuesday. They beat Davidson 27-7 last week.

Clemson doesn't have another game until its Sept. 25 contest with Georgia, but Coach Hootie Ingram was running his players through the fundamentals Tuesday.

"Although we had some good individual punt coverage against Kentucky," Ingram said, "the team as a whole was not up to par." Clemson dropped its opener to Kentucky, 13-10.

At Raleigh, the N.C. State Wolfpack worked on its passing game in preparation for Saturday's game at Maryland.

End Steve Lester and wing-backs Mike Sultz and Pat Kenney were singled out for praise in the passing drills.

Virginia's Cavaliers had a one-day layoff caused by rain and a power failure Monday, but returned to the practice field Tuesday with what offensive coordinator Sil Cornachione said was enthusiasm despite Saturday's 10-6 loss to Navy.

Virginia takes on No. 4-ranked Michigan at Ann Arbor this Saturday.

Coaches said Greg Dickert-hoof, who replaced injured Gary Helman in the second half of the Navy game, continued to show improvement Tuesday.

North Carolina coach Bill Dooley said his offensive squad will face a tough test Saturday when the Tar Heels play Il-

Wilkes 400 Is Sunday

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Sunday's Wilkes 400 stock car race at North Wilkesboro should set a number of firsts for NASCAR-sanctioned races.

The race will be the first time "pony" cars of the Camaro and Mustang class have been matched against the bigger Grand National machines on a course of more than one-half mile.

In addition, it will be the first time the pony cars have gone up against a full field of NASCAR's top drivers, including Richard Petty, Bobby Allison and Charlie Glotzbach.

It also will be the first time the Grand National cars have used the new carburetor "sleeving" device that replaced the controversial carburetor restrictor plate.

The race offers $28,000 in prize money for the chase over the five-eighths mile, high banked track.

The starting field will be limited to 32 cars, and there are no restrictions on which type of car earns the places. Qualifying trials begin Friday and continue through Saturday.

Isaac, of Catawba, N.C., was not hurt, and the only damage to the car was a broken windshield.

Before the accident, Isaac was clocked at 190.8 miles per hour to beat the 187.6 miles per hour record for 100 kilometers set by Ab Jenkins in the Mormon Meteor in 1951.

Isaac is trying to break 32 national and world speed records during his stay at the Salt Flats.

Monday, he set a new flying mile record of 216.3 miles per hour.

But, said Isaac Tuesday, "Running on the salt is tougher than any dirt track I've ever driven. If it doesn't get better, Jenkins' record for the 100-mile may last another 20 years."

Isaac plans to try again for that record today or Thursday.

Isaac Gets One, Loses Another

WENDOVER, Utah (AP) — Stock car champion Bobby Isaac broke the 100-kilometer world speed record at the Bonneville Salt Flats Tuesday.

But the 1970 NASCAR champion later lost control of his car while trying for the 100-mile record.

The 1969 Dodge Charger lost a tire from a tire, veered off the course, hit a course marker and went back on the course before slowing down.

South Ayden School Area Is Rezoned

Appointments Made By Martin County Board

AYDEN — The South Ayden School property has been rezoned from residential to light industrial.

The action was taken at a public hearing held Monday night at the Ayden Town Hall in conjunction with the board of commissioners' regular monthly meeting.

The property, located between W. Barwick and Ormond Streets, was rezoned so that industry could be located in the back portion of the South Ayden School building. The front portion of the building will be used for a community center.

In other business Monday night, the commissioners set Oct. 13 as the date for a public hearing on the annexation of property located along state road 1122 (Juanita Avenue extension).

The hearing has been set for 7:30 p.m. in the courtroom of the new Ayden Town Hall.

James Ross, chief of police in Ayden, appeared before the board to explain his reason for denying a parade permit application for Aug. 29.

Chief Ross explained that due to the emergency as proclaimed by Mayor Ross Persinger at that time, the permit to parade in the town of Ayden from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Aug. 29 was denied.

Don Russell, Ayden town manager, explained that a town ordinance allows the applicant to appeal the police decision. The request is then brought before the Ayden Board of Commissioners for further study.

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners Monday made a number of appointments and considered a variety of agenda items in the September meeting.

Two representatives of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) appeared before commissioners with a report of FHA progress in Martin County during the past year. Commissioners also approved a FHA application for a solid waste disposal facility.

A resolution was passed that approves the Bear Grass Fire Department in order that it might be rated with the North Carolina Fire Insurance Rating Bureau.

A request by a delegation of merchants outside the Williamston city limits was presented, asking that authority be granted for the sale of beer on Sunday. Commissioners are taking the matter under advisement.

Highways were twice a matter of discussion, with Jimmy Lee and Earl Bailey appearing to request action on paving the Jimmy Lee Road. Robert Nelson of Robersonville also is seeking action to have one foot added to each side of Road 1002 between the villages of Gold Point and Oak City.

In a series of appointments, commissioner Russell Griffin was named to represent the County, Commissioners on the Board of the Martin County Airport Commission. Mike Roberson of Robersonville was named the County Fire Commissioner.

Other appointments were: Kenneth Perry of the Farm Life area, named to the County Recreation Committee; Charles Wilson of Robersonville, C. F. Harris, Slade White and Thomas Bennett of Williamston and John Lilley of Jamesville, all appointed to the County Airport Adjustment Board; and seven additional members were named to the committee representing Martin County on the Mid-East Economic Development — J. Everett Hamilton; William Cherry, Robersonville; Haywood Harris, Fred Taylor, Eddie Pepper, Russell Griffin and Paul Barber, all of Williamston. This brings to 12 the total number of members serving on the committee from Martin County on the Mid-East Commission.

Hearings, No Approval

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission plans to proceed with hearings on rate increases requested by utilities, but it won't approve any during the 90-day wage-price freeze.

The commission reiterated its stand Tuesday after studying the effects of a state law which allows a utility to put a requested rate hike into effect in full if the commission doesn't take action within 270 days.

The agency said it could not come up with a definite answer on how the freeze affects the 270-day law.

But the commission said it would proceed with public hearings to obtain full records and "fix a just and reasonable rate in the event the price freeze should be ended or extensively modified on Nov. 14, 1971...to prevent full rates, as filed, from going into effect at the end of the 270 days..."

At the time the freeze took effect, the commission had 14 rate applications from various utility companies.

Report Six Die In Fire

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A fire swept through a nursing home early today and officials reported six persons killed and 11 injured.

Police said 18 persons were in the Lil Haven nursing home when the blaze broke out on the second floor of the 2½-story brick and wood building. All but one of the 12 survivors was hospitalized.

Their conditions were not known.

The fire was put out in 30 minutes. City Fire Marshal Ben Andrus said an investigation of the cause would begin today.

"I went through yelling, 'Fire, fire,' but some of them wouldn't get out," said the nursing home manager, Monte Waldron.

Neighbors said some of the patients couldn't speak English.

"There weren't any old people, some were war veterans," said Lorna Boozer, a neighbor. "Some were handicapped and two were bed-ridden. It's sort of a special nursing home."

The owner of the nursing home, Lillian Waldron, was visiting relatives in Chattanooga, Tenn., her husband said.

American Diet Termed A 'National Disaster'

By C. G. MCDANIEL, AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of California nutritionist says the American diet is a "national disaster."

Dr. George M. Briggs, chairman of the university's department of nutritional sciences, said malnutrition is a fact in the United States and shows up as physical deficiencies, mental problems, work loss, obesity, heart disease, dental decay and alcoholism.

He spoke Tuesday at a seminar for editors and writers sponsored by the Vitamin Information Bureau of New York City.

The cost of malnutrition, he said, is greater than the cost of crime or automobile accidents or narcotics addiction.

Briggs estimated the cost in California at $3 billion a year, and said the total for the nation might be $30 billion, since California has a tenth of the population.

He attributed malnutrition to poverty, negative social and cultural practices such as vegetarianism and macrobiotic diets, the failure of the food industry to fortify foods adequately, lack of education, lack of motivation and the lack of nutrition education.

"The American public is eating a strange diet," Briggs said, adding that Americans eat more sugar, pure fat and wheat flour than their entire intake of other foods.

He said the American diet annually includes 102 pounds of sugar per capita, 53 pounds of fats such as salad oil, 100 pounds of white flour, 14 pounds of corn sugar and 7 pounds of white rice—a total of 276 pounds.

He said the dry weights of other foods consumed annually includes 74 pounds of red meat, 18 pounds of poultry and fish, 14 pounds of eggs, 34 pounds of milk, 7 pounds of cheese, 5 pounds of ice cream, 25 pounds of potatoes, 24 pounds of other vegetables, 18 pounds of fruit, 21 pounds of whole cereal and 19 pounds of beans, peanuts and other legumes—total 259 pounds.

"This is a terrible diet," Briggs said. "I wouldn't feed it to my cat or dog, let alone to livestock or poultry."

Revival Series

Revival services will be held Wednesday through Sunday nights at the Carson Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church.

The Rev. Raymond Hoggard Jr. will be the guest minister and his two sisters will provide special singing.

Services will begin at 7:45. The church is located on the Pactolus Highway.

Sympathetic To Attica's Rebels Mayor To Join Formal Opening Here Thursday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Demonstrators in two cities have rallied in support of the inmates at New York's Attica State Prison as reaction continues to the bloody end of its prisoner rebellion.

About 150 persons paraded through the midday, 90-degree heat in Los Angeles Tuesday to show support for what they called the "Attica-1200" and to voice demands for nationwide prison reform.

In an orderly rally attended by many members of the Black Panthers and the Angela Davis Defense Committee, one speaker described the Attica inmates as "heroic brothers ... laying down their lives to human dignity."

At the University of Oklahoma in Norman about 75 black students blockaded a one-way street for about two hours to show sympathy. About 85 percent of the Attica inmates are black or Puerto Rican.

"There is one way ... the right way ... but it ain't the white way," the protesters chanted. They posted a sign reading: "30 brothers dead, and things go on as usual."

In Buffalo, N.Y., state Assemblyman Arthur O. Eve wept as he told a State University audience that the inmates had refused to kill their hostages even when the police assault began.

"Those were nonviolent men in there," Eve said. "When the attack began, they refused to plunge knives into their hostages. Even when the gas came, they refused to kill them. Even when the shooting began, they refused to kill them."

Eve, a black legislator who served on a mediating committee requested by the rebellious inmates, said he blamed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the tragic outcome.

Rockefeller was supported by Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan of California who said in Sacramento that bargaining with convicts holding hostages would sentence "every prison employe and guard ... to the possibility of death."

Reagan compared the Attica riot with the bloody escape attempt Aug. 21 at San Quentin Prison in which three guards and three inmates died.

"In both instances it reflects the revolutionary tactic of taking the revolution into the prison and attacking the establishment there," he said.

William L. Kunstler, the activist lawyer who also was among the Attica mediators, told a gathering at Stout State University in Menomonie, Wis., that the inmates "were real men who had legitimate grievances." He said the riot was "the only way they had to bring their grievances to the attention of authorities."

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell told a Republican fund-raising dinner at Millburn, N.J., that the Attica rebellion and its bloody aftermath was a "most unfortunate situation," but he declined to make any more specific comment.

Mayor S. Eugene West is scheduled to participate in ribbon cutting ceremonies tomorrow afternoon marking the grand opening of the new Harris Super Market on N. Greene Street.

According to Durwood M. Harris, president-treasurer, the activities are set to begin at 3 p.m. with the mayor performing the honors. The Rev. Bob Hufford, pastor of Hooker Memorial Christian Church, will also take part in the ceremonies.

Harris, who is co-owner of Harris Super Markets Inc. with his brother, S. Ed Harris, vice president-secretary, pointed out that the new store is the fourth Harris facility to be located in Greenville. The super market is located behind the old Wachovia Bank building.

Harris pointed out that Joe Edwards will manage the new store and will be assisted by Thomas Dail, market manager; Carson Thomas, produce manager; and Andrew Humphrey, meat merchandiser and supervisor. Some 15 local employees will work in the store, he reported.

The facility has over 15,000 square feet of space, Harris said, and will "offer a complete line of frozen food, fresh produce, meats and staple groceries."

Hours for the N. Greene Street market will be the same as the other three Greenville stores, the president added. For opening day only, hours will be from 3 p.m. until 9 p.m. Regular hours will be: Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. until 8:30 p.m.; and Saturday, 8 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Will Ask Probe In Prison Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Georgia Jackson, mother of slain San Quentin convict George Jackson, says she will ask the United Nations to probe the death of her son at the California prison Aug. 21.

One of the so-called Soledad Brothers, Jackson was shot to death in what prison officials have called an abortive escape attempt. Two other convicts and three guards were also killed.

Judge Bars Two Of Medina Witnesses

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — The military judge in the Capt. Ernest Medina murder trial refused today to allow the testimony of two witnesses, dealing the defense a major blow.

The Judge, Col. Kenneth Howard, ruled that the testimony of Capt. Robert L. Hicks of Ft. Benning, Ga., and Capt. Eugene M. Kotouc, Humboldt, Neb., could not be admitted before the jury on the basis that the testimony was hearsay.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey objected vigorously, calling the judge's ruling "erroneous." Hicks told the court earlier in the absence of the jury that Lt. William L. Calley Jr., had told him after the My Lai slayings that Medina was surprised that civilians had been shot.

The judge, commenting on his ruling, said that the fact that Hicks had told the court that Calley was relating "war stories" was an element in his ruling.

Bailey flared heatedly at this statement. "He knows now it was not a war story as the whole country now knows," declared Bailey.

Kotouc was asked to recount for the jury Tuesday any discussion he had with Medina about interrogation methods. The assault charge against Medina is based on his interrogation of a prisoner.

Williamston Bd. Okays Day-Care Center Grant

WILLIAMSTON — The Williamston Board of Commissioners has approved a $2,000 financial assistance grant for a day-care center operated by the Martin County Community Action Agency.

This action was taken following a report by the director of the agency, Haywood Harris, who appeared before the town commissioners at their September meeting.

Also approved were three parts of a four part proposal

Vote Repeal By 356-45

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to repeal a law permitting detention centers for suspected spies and subversives during wartime.

The 356 to 45 vote Tuesday came after two days of debate in which the bill's supporters recalled the imprisonment of 112,000 Japanese-Americans living on the West Coast during World War II.

The Nixon administration supported repeal of the 1950 law to quiet what it described as unfounded rumors that the law might be used to imprison political dissidents.

The bill, which must still be acted on by the Senate, also prohibits establishment of detention centers without congressional approval. Detention of the Japanese-Americans was ordered by President Franklin D. Roosevelt under his executive powers.

Before voting to repeal the act, the House beat back two amendments from the Internal Security Committee designed to preserve the act in amended form and to permit detention centers to be set up without congressional approval.

presented to town commissioners by Wilbur D. Edwards, Police Commissioner. The approved portion will provide insurance to protect policemen against suits in the event of false arrests; permit retired policemen to work part time so that they can maintain hospital and life insurance; and allow a policeman at his retirement to keep his revolver and badge as a token of appreciation for service. Not approved, but tabled for further discussion is a request by the police commissioner to pay, in the event of a policeman's death, one year's salary to the policeman's family after a man has served on the force for ten years and the payment of two year's salary if death occurs following 15 or more years of service.

A request for daily pickup of garbage from the city schools, made by Eugene Rogers, Superintendent of Martin County Schools was referred to the Sanitation Department. Commissioners indicated that if a daily service involves additional costs, the schools would pay the additional fees.

Further discussion was made on efforts to come up with a waste disposal system for Williamston. A letter from Tom Harwell of Rivers and Associates in Greenville was read, which suggested commissioners consider two basic approaches. One is an aeration system at an estimated cost of $321,000; the second approach is the expansion of the present facility, which would cost about $194,000. Commissioners are studying the recommendations and will take the matter up again at a later date.

Commissioners directed the submission of the recertification of the Workable Program for the town. This report is submitted annually to HUD in Atlanta.

One appointment was made by commissioners. Robert B. Goddard, a town commissioner, was named as the town's representative to the Martin County Community Action.

Found Body Of Teacher

SYLVA, N.C. (AP) — The body of Miss June Love Barker, 22, a home economics teacher at Sylva-Webster High School, was found late Tuesday afternoon near a little-traveled state highway. She had been shot with a shotgun.

Jackson County Sheriff Brad Holcomb said he has uncovered no clues in the shooting. He said the FBI is helping in the investigation.

Holcomb said Miss Barker, a recent graduate of Western Carolina University, left her home in Tuckaseegee, near Cullowhee, about 8 p.m. Monday. He said when she didn't return, a search was begun by his deputies, the family and a rescue squad.

The sheriff said Miss Barker's car was found abandoned late Monday night.

The body was found 44 feet away from N.C. 107, down an embankment. Holcomb said it was discovered when a passer-by spotted blood on the pavement and checked for the cause.

Miss Barker was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Barker and was living at home, the sheriff said. Her body was fully clothed when found.

Computer Study For Explorers

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Members of Explorer Scout Post 1224 meet weekly in small groups to study the operation of advanced computers.

The computer study has resulted in a waiting list of about 100 to join the 35-member post.

"Classes are over by 7:30 and most of the time I have trouble getting them out the door by 9," said Bradley J. Bean, program chairman.

Bean, 26, heads a science-research group of Teledyne-Ryan Aeronautical, and the explorer post is an offshoot of the firm, with all eight instructors computer experts.

For many a young person has these two dangerous diseases simultaneously.
Despite our modern antibiotics, venereal diseases still can cause permanent sterility in both women as well as men, plus damage to the heart and brain, even to the extent of insanity.
And a syphilitic pregnant woman can infect her child before its birth, unless she has been treated regularly by physicians.
(2) The "pill" may stave off pregnancy but does not protect its victims from venereal disease, plus guilty consciences and often later unhappiness if they marry.
For a devoted husband who adores his wife, often disdains her when he learns of her former affairs with casual boy friends, some of whom may now be his employees and drunkenly boast of her sexy episodes with them.

(3) Unless closely observed by her physician, the woman who uses the "pill" may develop inflammation of veins (phlebitis) and die from a floating blood clot in the brain or in her heart's coronary arteries.
Even when normally intelligent young folks are fully taught the hazards of illicit sexual affairs, if they start drinking highballs at a party, they drop down to a temporary feeble-minded level.
Then they may indulge in sexual affairs that lead to the same dire results that now make Lola grief-stricken and permanently sterile.

showed out, discarding the five of hearts. Since it was now apparent that no additional tricks could be developed in diamonds, South put up the ace from dummy and paused to reassess the situation.
He could count eight tricks—three spades, one heart, two diamonds and two clubs. Dummy's long spade might produce a ninth trick, depending upon how the suit divided. South cashed the king of spades, on which East followed with the eight and West the six.
Declarer now attempted to reconstruct West's distribution. His original lead of the three of clubs marked him with no more than four cards in that suit, inasmuch as dummy had the deuce. West held only a singleton in diamonds which meant that he presumably had eight cards in the major suits. If one was five cards in length, it was reasonable to assume that West would have led that suit instead of a club. He must therefore have started with four spades and four hearts.
On this line of reasoning, South crossed back to his own hand with the ace of hearts, played the eight of spades and when West followed with the nine declarer put in the ten from dummy. East showed out and the queen of spades was cashed followed by a club to South's queen for the ninth trick.
East could have defeated the contract by shifting to the ten of hearts at trick two. By dislodging declarer's ace of that suit while East retains the king of diamonds, the defense can establish five tricks before South has time to take his nine.

Reconstructing his opponent's distribution on the basis of the evidence that appeared in the play proved highly rewarding to South, the declarer at three no trump.
Had West opened a heart, it would have led to a quick decision in favor of the defenders, for when East gets in with the king of diamonds, a heart return thru South's jack enables their side to cash three tricks in that suit to complete book. The ace of clubs subsequently scores the setting trick.
West chose, instead to lead a club—a suit in which he held better intermediate cards. East put up the ace and returned the six which South won with the king. A diamond was led to dummy's jack and East played the five, permitting declarer to win the trick.
The closed hand was reentered with the ace of spades and another diamond was led. This time, West

Monkey Grabbed Shopper's Wig

PORT HARCOURT, Nigeria (AP) There are enough problems in Port Harcourt's expensive department stores without having to put up with monkeyshines of real monkeys.
One Nigerian housewife was upset when a playful monkey perched over the store entrance and scampered off with her wig. About 10 minutes later, after a merry chase witnessed by chuckling but sympathetic on-lookers, the young lady retrieved her wig, put it back on and walked away embarrassed but stylish again.

Cambodian Seaport Is Victim Of War Divers Marry At 25 Feet Under Water

By BARNEY SEIBERT
KOMPONG SOM, Cambodia (UPI)—War has left Kompong Som a seaport virtually without ships, a railroad without trains, a highway junction without traffic, a resort without tourists.

The fine concrete streets—unusual in Asia—are blackening with the mold of disuse. The docks of the deepwater port—built 15 years ago by the French—are empty. The excellent highway 4 to Phnom Penh is open only to truck convoys under heavily armed escort and hazardous even for them. Railroad service to the capital has been closed for more than a year and the tracks in the marshalling yard adjoining the deepwater port are coated with rust.

Kompong Som's showplace eight-story Independence Hotel sits idle, its dining rooms closed, its swimming pool drained of all but a foot of rainwater left by the monsoons, its children's playground overgrown by weeds. Would-be guests stroll through vacant lobbies, salons and conference rooms in search of a desk clerk, only to be told: "Hardly anyone stays here anymore." The government is offering to lease the hotel, sources say, but has found no takers.

A 100-unit seaside motel built by the government tourist agency remains open but rarely are more than four rooms rented. The lovely sandy beach is deserted; weeds peep through the cracks in the surface of its tennis courts.

A line of hilltop bars overlooking the central market, where French rubber planters once paused at sidewalk tables for an aperitif and a whiff of sea breeze, are shuttered and locked. The few bars and restaurants remaining open shut down daily at 6 p.m., three hours before curfew.

Kompong Som's only thriving establishments are the seaside gambling casino and its one movie theater. Two shows daily at the movie tend to feature old—late TV type—films. Audiences run to mostly children and soldiers.

The gambling casino, which features roulette, is usually crowded but the manager complains, "they are the same faces every day." Asked how the same people, mostly Chinese, can afford to spend the daylight hours gambling each day (the casino also closes at 6 p.m.), the manager shrugs.

Store shelves are half empty and owners complaining that the people cannot afford to buy the little that remains. Many stores have closed. Only two of the 15 pork butchers in the central market are still operating, and at least 20 of the market's vegetable stands have closed for lack of vegetables. The few vegetables available are flown to the city in the cargo planes which carry Kompong Som's daily fishing catch to the capital.

The only stores still well stocked are hardware and jewelry stores. No one buys jewelry anymore and the hardware stores had an overstock when the war began 18 months ago to meet a construction boom which then immediately collapsed.

village at the edge of a beautiful 25 mile bay enclosed by rock headlands. Then the French colonial rulers built a deepwater port for French-owned rubber plantations, away from the Communists who were taking control in Vietnam. Later, the Americans matched the French gesture with a fine highway from the bay 144 miles through the mountains to Phnom Penh. The "Friend Highway" drew fire from foreign aid critics in the U.S. Congress as a road to nowhere, but it was built.

The result was a handsome port which was named Sihanoukville in honor of Cambodia's then ruler, Prime Minister Prince Norodom Sihanouk (the name was changed back to Kompong Som after Sihanouk was deposed on March 18, 1970).

At 25 Feet Under Water

By FREDERICK H. MARKS
TOGA, Japan (UPI)—The bride's veil kept trying to float away during the wedding reception and the participants weren't talking to each other. But enthusiasm among the guests wasn't dampened at all.

After waiting six years, Katsuhisa Kumagai and his wife Tae, both 29, finally were married Aug. 15. The couple had registered to live as man and wife six years ago, but they didn't have the money for a formal wedding ceremony. This happens often among couples in Japan.

The Kumagais, both professional divers, decided to add a touch of the bizarre to their wedding ceremony by holding it 25 feet under the water of a small cove in northern Japan. Fifteen guests were invited to attend the ceremony, nearly all dressed in black wet suits and wearing scuba tanks on their backs. The one exception was a diver friend of the Kumagais who wore his hard hat suit, the dress worn by deep sea divers.

The guests dove to the bottom of the cove first. When all were in their places, the bride and groom floated down. Mrs. Kumagai was dressed in a colorful burnt orange wet suit and yellow flippers and wore a white veil on her head. She carried a bouquet of plastic pink roses.

Friends of the couple had placed several tables on the floor of the cove. On one table an arrangement of plastic flowers waved eerily in the currents of the water.

A second table served as an altar for the Shinto wedding. The third table, by far the largest, was used for the reception. Cases of soft drinks and beer were laid out on the table.

The Kumagais exchanged their vows and signed the proper forms, which had been transcribed on a sheet of plastic, and then the reception began. Bottles of soft drinks were opened and the guests, one after the other, raised their soda and beer in toasts to the couple.

As each toast was made—silently—the participants, removed their mouthpieces and drank their soda.

The ceremony lasted about 45 minutes. When it was over the guests joined hands in a large circle and slowly floated to the surface.

Funds Go To Riot Gear

RALEIGH (AP)—Three-fourths of North Carolina's towns and counties have used federal anti-crime funds to buy tear gas, gas masks, weapons and other riot gear, according to a Department of Local Affairs official.

Budget Officer Dan Frye estimated Tuesday that 75 per cent of the local governments have used funds from the Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets Act of 1968 to purchase police hardware.

But the administrator of the department's law and order division, Bill Julian, said that actually only a small percentage of the crime funds are being used for this purpose.

"For example, only $100,000 has been spent for such equipment this year from the $8.3 million authorized for all programs in North Carolina for 1970-71 under the Omnibus Crime and Safe Streets Act," he said.

The rest of the money is available for crime prevention projects, rehabilitation, upgrading courts, improving jails and juveniles projects.

Woman Drowns

OREGON INLET, N.C. (AP)—A Suffolk, Va. woman drowned and another was in critical condition after a wave capsized their boat in the ocean near Oregon Inlet Tuesday.

The Coast Guard reported two other passengers on the 18-foot boat were in good condition.

The dead woman was Mrs. Betty Parker Wright. Her husband, Billy Wright, operator of the boat, told rescuers that the four were unable to reach life jackets when a wave toppled them from the boat.

Mrs. Edith Brown, also of Suffolk, Va., was taken from the Oregon Inlet Coast Guard station by a helicopter to an Elizabeth City hospital, where she was reported in critical condition.

Her husband, Howard, was reported in good condition.

Bobby Fischer Psyching Up For World Chess Title

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Thud. Thud. Bobby Fischer slams his chessmen across a plastic foldup board with the intensity of a boxer training on the heavy bag.

The 28-year-old chess star is psyching himself up for the big one—a pawn-to-pawn confrontation with the Russians for the world championship in chess.

In the style of the lone American hero, he sees himself laying siege singlehandedly to the entire Russian chess establishment. If he wins, he'll be the first American to ever hold the official title and the first non-Russian victor in 25 years.

"There's one way to deal with the Russians—with power. That's all they understand," said Fischer.

He visits a Russian bookstore on occasion to buy chess books and rifle through newspapers looking for an article on himself.

"I read Russian. I know what they're saying about me, the creeps," he said. One story called him lucky in his last match. "Yeah, I picked up the right piece by accident."

Accident is not the word for the unheard-of wallopings he has delivered this year. After seven straight victories at the qualifying matches in Spain, Fischer went on to smash Russia's Mark Taimanov 6 to 0 and defeat Denmark's Bent Larsen 6 to 0.

Fischer has brought excitement, drama and hope to American chess since he was a prodigy from Brooklyn at age 14. Once considered the enfant terrible of chess, he has put aside temperament and quarrels with officials in his bid to take the title. He competes in a mind-twisting board game where tense competition has made men cry with disappointment or clutch their nervous stomachs.

Spirits are up. His supporters see his possible victory as a propaganda coup for the United States.

"For years, the Russians have held the world championship. They've said it is evidence of the superiority of the Soviet man and the Soviet system."

"How will they explain how one lone American without any

Has Same Job But A New Title

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mayor Richard G. Lugar's administration is coming in for some kidding about "management of the news."

In the city's proposed 1972 budget the title of Robert Beckmann Jr. has been changed from the mayor's public relations director to "public information manager."

government support is able to defeat the entire Soviet system?" asked E. B. Edmondson, executive director of the U.S. Chess Federation.

Fischer plays Tigran Petrosian, ex-world champ, USSR, in the semifinals later this month. If he wins, he will face Boris Spassky for the world title next spring. Spassky, with three wins, two draws and no losses, has the best record of any Russian grandmaster against Fischer.

It might seem that Fischer is outgunned by the sheer organization and manpower of the Russian machine.

However, his weapons are impressive—eight U.S. championships, starting at age 14—the youngest-ranking international grandmaster at 15—and a long-time, fearsome reputation as one of the most

$1 Million Suit On Strip Mining

CALGARY, Alta. (UPI) — Premier Harry Strom, as trustee of the Alberta government, is faced with a $1 million lawsuit for allowing a strip-mining operation on the eastern edge of Banff National Park.

Calgary lawyer Alfred Harris, who also had papers served on Canmore Mines, Ltd., said the suit was filed because he is concerned about destruction of scenic mountain areas.

brilliant, aggressive players the game has ever seen. He gives credit to his mother's early encouragement and support, but it is said they argued over her single-minded efforts to raise money for his chess trips. She eventually moved to London.

The Russians will fight back with players trained in a system where potential chess stars are culled from elementary schools, trained, financially supported and given research assistants called seconds.

In contrast, Fischer, a high school dropout, generally uses no assistants because, "it's hard to get anyone to do what you want them to."

A bachelor, he lives from hotel to hotel, supporting himself with prize money from chess tournaments and proceeds from his three books.

Prize money for a single tournament can range from $500 to $2,000, not counting his $500 honorarium. He admits he makes considerably more than $18,000, but it must be still a paltry sum compared to the top take in other sports.

Fischer stands to make about $11,000, including honorarium, if he beats Petrosian in the semifinals.

Why does he want to win? "I want the money and the prestige," he said each time. But he adds once, in a quiet voice: "To show them I'm the best."

WHAT'S NEW ABOUT PORK

Some people have old-fashioned ideas about pork. Check yourself.

- "Pork is fat meat." WRONG. Today's pork is especially bred to be leaner and meatier. It has 36% fewer calories and 57% less fat than pork a dozen years ago.
- "Pork is difficult to digest." WRONG. All meat products are nearly completely digestible. Actually pork is perhaps a little more digestible than others.
- "It takes too long to cook pork to make it safe to eat." WRONG. Pork often is overcooked and becomes dried out. Pork has more flavor cooked medium done. Even broiling pork is acceptable and safe now.

If you're looking for economy, variety, good eating and good nutrition, choose pork. A large seasonal supply is coming to market now.

Black Schism New Factor In Baltimore Elections

By DAVID GOELLER
Associated Press Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — A schism among black politicians may have cost Baltimore the chance this year of becoming the most populous city in the United States to elect a black mayor.

Six Democrats—three of them black—and four white Republicans are campaigning for party nominations Sept. 14 to succeed Thomas D'Alesandro III, the one-term Democrat who is not seeking re-election to govern the nation's seventh largest city.

Registered Democrats outnumber Republicans 5 to 1, and the Democratic primary election winner appears assured of being the next mayor of Baltimore, whose 1970 census population of 905,759 was about evenly divided along racial lines.

Four years ago, politicians were saying that D'Alesandro might be the last white mayor Baltimore elected for at least the near future.

This thesis was strengthened last fall when Milton B. Allen, an independent and political novice, bested a field of whites to become state's attorney for Baltimore and one of the few elected black prosecutors in the nation.

Allen, however, was the only black in that race, and political observers—elected officials, editors and campaign aides—do not see a repeat in the 1971 mayoral contest because of the probability of a split black vote.

These observers see William Donald Schaefer, the white City Council president, as a fairly comfortable frontrunner over his two major rivals, both black—state Sen. Clarence Mitchell III and city solicitor and former City Judge George L. Russell Jr.

Given next to no chance in the Democratic voting are Francis J. Valle, Joseph M. Heinle and William E. Roberts, who is black.

The three major Democratic candidates, Schaefer, Russell, and Mitchell, concede that race is a factor in the primary. But each also says he is pitching his campaign toward the entire city.

City politicians surveyed say Mitchell and Russell should cancel each other out in the black precincts, leaving Schaefer only having to worry about a light white turnout or a surprise showing by Valle, or a combination of both.

July 31 was the date for candidates to withdraw officially from the primary, and Mitchell and Russell were being urged to the last minute to step aside.

Neither budged, and their battle is the latest manifestation of a power struggle that has been going on between political factions in the black community for nearly a decade. On one side is the Mitchell family. Clarence's uncle, Parren Mitchell, last year became Maryland's first black congressman; his father is the Washington spokesman for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and his grandmother founded the Maryland branch of the NAACP.

Opposing the Mitchells and backing Russell is the growing political faction headed by State Sen. Verda Welcome and William "Little Willie" Adams, a millionaire businessman who in the early 1950s admitted to a U.S. Senate committee he once was a numbers banker.

The rift between the two rival organizations previously had been felt in district level elections for such offices as City Council and the state legislature where the races were black-against-black.

Russell has received backing from a number of traditional big campaign spenders, and he declines comment on persistent reports that much of his money will be used for a slick television blitz in the final days of the campaign.

Mitchell says he is running a "broke campaign," and he is trying to make an issue of the sources of his opponents' support.

"We're convinced the people are discovering I am the only candidate free enough to deal with people problems," he said. "We're not for sale."

Russell and Schaefer contend they are independent men, and both stress improved education and law and order as the major tasks facing the next mayor.

Russell has been placing greater emphasis on law enforcement than Schaefer, who says political leaders "must change the feelings of people from the negative to the positive."

Russell has been generally silent on Mitchell, but the young senator frequently accuses Russell of having little contact with the average black until starting his campaign.

Although the population of Baltimore is about half Negro, black voter strength is less. No official figures are available, but it is estimated that blacks represent only about 35 to 40 per cent of the approximately 370,000 registered Democrats.

Elderly Man Is Shootout Victim

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Police report an elderly yardworker was killed Monday in a shootout which resulted from an argument over money paid to repair a lawnmower.

He was Will House, 68. Police said another man was questioned and released and a grand jury will decide whether an indictment will be brought.

Safe Route To School Is Advised

NEW YORK (UPI) —Make the back to school route a safe one, giving special caution to the children enrolling for the first time.

Some tips come from the Consumer Insurance Information Bureau (CIIB), sponsored by the 150,000-member National Association of Insurance Agents.

CIIB says that about half the 50 million primary and secondary school children in the United States go to school on some kind of wheels—school bus, auto or bike.

If your child is to be picked up by the local school bus (about 19 million children travel this way), instruct the child to wait for the bus on the sidewalk or well off the road pavement.

Show him how to get on and off safely and instruct him to remain seated inside the bus. Head, arms and hands should be kept inside at all times.

Checks Up on Drivers
Teach the child to respect and obey the driver and bus monitor. Tag him with a card listing his, yours and the school's name, address and phone.

For the return trip, make sure he knows where to wait for the bus and encourage him to find a "buddy" or older child who comes the same way.

Be sure to follow the instructions the school sends home regarding its programs and policies.

Safety in autos means a dependable driver. If you belong to a rotating car pool, make certain the other parents are responsible drivers who obey traffic signals and drive cautiously. Teach the child to behave, and keep seat belts and shoulder harnesses buckled. Decide on pickup points and make sure he waits for a ride. If there is any reason to doubt the capability of car pool drivers or cars used, take the child to school yourself.

Five-year-olds generally will not go to school on bikes unless accompanied by older children. Make sure all are good riders, know traffic rules and signals and cross roads only where they are guarded.

Explain Traffic Dangers
If your child will walk to school, CIIB suggests that you go along the route several times before school opens so that he is familiar with it. Teach him to stay on the sidewalk, to look in both directions, to cross at corners or where there is a traffic guard. Point out the danger of cars turning the corner, even when you're crossing with the light.

If there are no sidewalks, children should be instructed to walk on the left side of the road, well off the pavement to avoid weaving or swerving autos.

On rainy or cloudy days, dress children in bright colored slickers or other clothing easily seen.

Make sure the school has your home number and that a relative or neighbor can be reached if there's an emergency and you're not home.

A child should carry a card with his name, address and phone number on it. Try tacking a dime inside a coat to pay for a phone call—just in case.

Keep Silent On Justice Black

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bethesda Naval Hospital officials and spokesmen for Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black's office refuse to issue any information about his condition or the reason he is under medical care.

The hospital confirmed Sept. 2 that Black was a patient, but all other questions were referred to Black's office. Inquiries have gone unanswered.

Black, at least unofficially, is expected to be on hand when the court reconvenes Oct. 4.

Freed Because All 5 Shackled

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Five men accused of selling marijuana have been released because a courtroom guard refused to unlock shackles by which they were chained together.

State District Judge James Ellis dismissed their cases before they were arraigned after the guard said they couldn't be freed because only two guards were available to watch them.

The chains prevented them from appearing individually before the bench and talking with their lawyers, Ellis said.

The prosecution still can ask for an indictment from a grand jury or appeal Ellis' dismissal.

BIG PIG FARM — It looks just like a normal, small community; but this is the Hansell pig farm, largest private pig farm in the world. (UPI Telephoto)

Vast Private Pig Farm Has Air Conditioning

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
HERMISTON, Ore. (UPI) — When Stafford Hansell air conditioned his pig pens before he air conditioned his own house, his wife was understandably irritated.

But that is only typical of the tender, loving care Hansell gives to his pigs which live in 348 apartments of an old government housing project.

The result has been that in 11 years Hansell has developed the largest private pig farm in the world. The only one larger, he says, is a government operation in Poland.

Hansell raises 20 per cent of the pork in Oregon. A visitor might call it Pig City. Hansell wouldn't. But there they are — the apartments, row upon row. The streets, street lights, water tank, the old PX — the complete community built to house employees of the Umatilla ordnance Depot, just the other side of the freeway.

One might describe the Hansell ranch more as a pig factory than a farm, because the entire operation is run in an assembly line manner.

Hansell markets about 25,000 hogs a year — he prefers to refer to it in terms of 5 million pounds — from his ranch here in the arid country of northeastern Oregon.

When he is attending the state legislature in Salem as a representative, his partner, brother Bill, oversees the 21 employees.

After the Hansells acquired the government-surplus property in the late 1950's they poured concrete floors, built pens around the outside of the apartments, and started to move the pigs in. The pigs have running water and sewers, so that all the waste drains through the system, to a sewage lagoon. Later it is pumped onto the 2,000 acre ranch where the Hansells grow pasture, alfalfa, and 195 worth of beef to the acre.

Separate from the 1,040 pens is the "nursery" — which farmers call a farrowing house. This building was originally a PX and community center. Now it is kept as sterile as possible, and the few visitors allowed there must traipse through an antiseptic solution to make certain they don't track in some disease.

The "nursery" is air conditioned and heated to keep an even year-round temperature between 60 and 70 degrees.

As the sows are brought here to litter — about 55 litters a week — they are scrubbed clean, and then monitored very carefully.

"When we first started out," Hansell recalled "we lost some sows because of the heat. It didn't take us long to figure that we'd be money ahead to install air conditioning."

That was in 1960. Now his home, which occupies two of the apartments on the same street where his pigs live, is air conditioned, too.

Morocco Boasts Sardine Capital

By RAYMOND WILKINSON

SAFI, Morocco (UPI) — Once upon a time the fishermen of Safi caught so many sardines they didn't know what to do with them.

The fish were cheap enough so most folk ate them grilled for breakfast, lunch and dinner and the leftovers were tossed back into the sea.

Then someone invented the tin can — and that put Safi on the map. Today it claims title as the sardine capital of the world.

The 1971 harvest season has just started and by its conclusion in December the fishermen will net around 80,000 tons of sardines, a lot of fish in anyone's language. Local fishing experts say no other place in the world comes near to equalling Safi's harvest.

Safi, 150 miles southwest of Casablanca, owes its wealth to both the tin can and a quirk in ocean currents.

"Off Moroccan shores the tepid American Gulf Stream butts into cold currents," said Mohamed Benhima, a former mayor of Safi and prime minister of Morocco. "A superior feeding ground is created. The sardine thrives by the millions within sight of the town."

Housewives still meet the fleet of 150 boats each morning when they dock with their catch. "Safi people eat them by the boatload," said Benhima, and at about 20 cents for a dozen grilled sardines what is good for the stomach is also good for the pocketbook.

The bulk, however, are whisked into wooden trays and carried, several trays at a time perched precariously on the heads of porters, to waiting trucks, which cart them off to the town's more than 50 canneries.

Safi's ancient harbor has been extended and today bristles with giant cranes and silos. Ocean-going freighters call to carry the tinned sardines to Western Europe, the United States and the Soviet Union.

Many of the sardines are sold abroad under someone else's national label, according to fishing experts here, but it doesn't worry them.

"The cash comes first here," Benhima said.

DIAMOND SALES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sales of gem and industrial diamonds by South Africa's central selling organization in the first half of 1971 totaled $308,087,648, an increase of $27,135,203, or 9.6 per cent over the corresponding period of 1970, it was announced by Harry Oppenheimer, chairman of De Beers Consolidated Mines Limited.
