Thousands Fleeing 'Edith' Showdown

CAMERON, La. (AP) — Thousands of lowland residents jammed the highways heading inland during the night as Hurricane Edith drove high tides toward Louisiana's low western coast.

A hurricane warning was up from this town of 2,500 to Morgan City, La., some 120 miles to the east.

The 6 a.m., EDT, report said Edith was "moving on a track toward Cameron," on the coast 25 miles east of the Texas line.

Top winds were estimated at 100 miles per hour and likely to increase. Her center was reported near Latitude 29.1 north and Longitude 93.9 west, or about 60 miles southwest of here. She was moving northeast at 15 to 18 miles an hour.

"Winds will continue to increase quite rapidly on the West Louisiana coast and reach hurricane force this morning," the New Orleans Weather Bureau said. Tides of up to 12 feet were expected near the center.

The center of Edith should cross the extreme west Louisiana coast this morning, the forecast added.

Cameron Parish (county), which has about 5,000 residents, was virtually deserted. So was much of the coastal area to the east and west.

In 1957 Hurricane Audrey killed 390 people at Cameron with a surge of water from the Gulf of Mexico 12 feet high. In this area, barely above sea level, the drowning tides raged inland for miles.

During the night a steady stream of cars loaded with people and trucks loaded with cattle moved along the lone highway which heads north out of Cameron Parish.

The exodus also included thousands from the coastal area between Cameron and Morgan City. Public shelters were set up in the cities near the coast.

Tornado conditions extending up to 80 miles inland were forecast along the breadth of the hurricane warning area.

Except for Cameron, the evacuation pace was slower than civil defense officials liked in some areas. Inland water backed up by the rising sea flowed shallowly over highways in some areas when evacuation got under way.

Evacuation of Sabine Pass, Tex., was ordered as Edith pounded by. The town of 2,000 people, on an exposed promontory and only four feet above sea level at its highest point, is 30 miles from Cameron.

Now Ten Charged With High School's Bombing

Three 17-year-olds were arrested here yesterday afternoon on charges stemming from last week's bombing of the Ayden-Grifton High School, according to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Michael W. Epps of Wilmington and Donald McKinley Smith of Route 1, Ayden were charged with bombing an occupied building, the Sheriff reported, while Henry Earl Bullock of Greenville was charged with aiding and abetting in transportation of the bomb.

Yesterdays arrests brought the total number of persons arrested in connection with the bombing to 10. Seven persons, ranging in age from 14 to 20 were taken into custody last Thursday and Friday and charged with aiding and abetting in bombing and transportation of a bomb. All are black.

The sheriff indicated more arrests may come in the case which, he emphasized, is still under investigation.

Also under investigation, according to Sheriff Tyson, are seven other bombings that occurred in the Ayden area as blacks protested the August 6 shooting of a Negro by a Highway Patrolman.

In addition to the seven other explosions — two at the Ayden Sport Shop, and others at a pickle plant in Ayden, two highway bridges, a tobacco barn and the Chicod School — unexploded dynamite has been found at two different locations near Ayden, and on top of the G and W Boats plant in Greenville.

The explosion at the school came when some 800 students and 47 staff members were in the building. No one was injured, but an estimated $15,000 to $25,000 damage resulted. Relatively little damage was caused by the other seven blasts.

Participating in the investigation of the bombings and in the arrests have been members of the Sheriff's Department, the State Bureau of Investigation and agents of the U.S. Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division, the sheriff noted.

Two Pitt UF Division Chairmen Are Named

Two more division chairmen for the Pitt County United Fund drive have been announced by Ed Warren, president of the Pitt County Chapter for the current year.

Dr. Allen Taylor, radiologist at Pitt Memorial Hospital, heads the Professional A Division. The Elizabeth City native is a graduate of Greenville High School, Duke University and Duke Medical School. At one time a medical officer in the North Carolina National Guard, Dr. Taylor has completed his term of service with the military unit.

He is married to the former Dorothy Ehrlich of Mohrungen, Germany. The Taylors have five young pre-teen children, all girls. A member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, Dr. Taylor is a director of the East Carolina Art Society and is on the board of directors of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Professionally, he is a past president of Pitt County Medical Society, is a diplomate on the American Board of Radiology and is a member of the American College of Radiology. "The United Fund," Dr. Taylor commented, "provides support for a number of indispensable programs for all ages and groups in our city and county. I anticipate that the professional donations will show a significant increase over the

Multi-Million Dollar Facilities New Plant For Farmville

FARMVILLE — Officials of A. C. Monk & Co., Inc., tobacco processors and suppliers, have announced that new corporate offices and processing factory are now under construction. They said that the multi-million dollar facilities are scheduled for completion in July of 1972. When complete, the complex will cover ten acres on a 55-acre site and have some 428,000 square feet of space.

Company officials reported that the factory is to be furnished with advanced processing equipment, including two redrying machines scheduled for use upon completion. A third is planned for later.

Initial tipping and threshing installation will more than double the present capacity, it was announced, and modern laboratories will be incorporated to insure quality control testing.

Concern For Draft Vote

DRAFT CALLS UNDER NIXON — This chart indicates the number of draft calls under President Nixon from beginning of 1969 through 1971. (AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon was reported ready to lend his personal support today in the crucial hours before a Senate vote on tabling the draft-extension bill, a move he said to believe would signal a weakness in national defense preparedness.

At a news briefing Wednesday, a White House aide said Nixon, worried over the bill's fate, was considering personally telephoning some senators before the vote on the tabling motion by Sen. Gordon Allot, R-Colo.

Allot is leading the fight to have $300 million added to the $2.4-billion military pay increase provided in the bill.

Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, admits the bill's chances are dim if the tabling motion carries.

"Let's see if we can't give a little and take a little ... and pass a bill that almost everyone thinks is necessary this year," the Mississippi Democrat told the Senate in a last-ditch appeal for support.

Formed out of bills passed earlier by both chambers, the compromise version was passed by the House after a conference committee watered down an amendment by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield calling for withdrawal of all forces from Vietnam within nine months after enactment. The compromise, urging Nixon

Governor Scott Orders Pay Increase Be Paid To All N.C. Teachers

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said today he was instructing state officials to authorize immediate payment of a 5 per cent pay increase granted by the 1971 General Assembly to all of North Carolina's teachers.

Scott, in a statement released by his office, said he was taking the action after obtaining "sufficient information from the Cost of Living Council and the Office of Emergency Preparedness" to make certain the increase would not violate President Nixon's wage-price freeze.

The governor was in Puerto Rico attending the National Governor's Conference.

State Department of Public Instruction officials said Tuesday they had asked local school boards to hold up payment of the increases for teachers who had begun work after Aug. 14, the effective date of the freeze.

Scott's statement followed receipt of a telegram from Arnold Weber, director of the Cost of Living Council in Washington. The council was created by President Nixon to oversee operation of the freeze.

The governor said he obtained help in getting the answer from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Receive Grant

The Pitt County Board of Education has received approval of a grant totaling $335,622 from Health, Education and Welfare under the "School Emergency Assistance Program."

The announcement was made this morning by First District Congressman Walter B. Jones.

Pitt County Schools Superintendent Arthur Alford said the Pitt County Board of Education had requested a total of $1,001,142.

The major area that money was requested was in instructional services which totaled $702,000. Within the instructional services the money requested was for the following: special community programs, $98,000; pupil personnel services, $30,000; special curriculum revision programs, $372,000; teacher preparation, $60,000; special student-to-student programs, $46,000; and comprehensive planning, $96,000.

"We are talking basically about upgrading the instructional program in each of these areas as it relates within the community with pupils, curriculum, teacher preparation, and all of these areas will receive emphasis," Alford explained, "as contributing to the instructional program."

"For several weeks now I have tried to obtain an answer from Washington officials on whether or not the state of North Carolina can properly pay the teacher salary increase appropriated by the 1971 General Assembly," Scott said.

"I met with the Vice President at the National Governor's Conference and asked his assistance in speeding up a reply to the North Carolina questions. Today, I received a telegram in answer to my letter of Sept. 9 which answers specific questions with respect to the North Carolina situation.

"I am determining today as a result of this reply that North Carolina teachers are eligible for this pay increase," Scott said.

"The North Carolina Association of Educators, which claims a membership of about 56,000 school employees, said Tuesday it had wired Scott demanding immediate release of the money.

Look Magazine Unable Survive

NEW YORK (AP) — Look magazine will cease publication with the issue of Oct. 19, it was announced today.

Mounting costs, particularly postal rates, and declining advertising revenue were cited as the reasons by Gardner Cowles, chairman of the board and editor in chief of Cowles Communications, publishers of the magazine.

Cowles said that Look had 28 million readers, and the response to subscription offers and renewals during the first nine months of 1971 was the best in the magazine's history.

"But reader interest and desire for a publication like Look is not enough to insure its survival if advertising volume is insufficient and costs continue to rise," he said in a statement.

Prices on practically all grades were steady on the Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday.

"Quality of offerings were not as good as Monday or Tuesday," said Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville Market. "More than half the

Clown Fever Made Maudie Flippen A First Timer

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The lights come up, the bands burst into a rousing tune, 18 elephants lumber around the ring and chorus girls in exotic gypsy costumes sway gracefully to the music.

All except one. She is wearing huge clod-hoppers instead of ballet slippers. She smiles, raises her tambourine at the wrong time, stumbles over her feet and falls flat. The crowd roars.

She's Maudie Flippen, the first girl clown with the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Maudie admits she would do almost anything for a laugh when she was a youngster. "A light bulb lit up—bing!—over my lunch break in Westland, Mich., to see Howdy Doody and Soupy Sales and later, when she acted in local drama in Omaha, everything somehow turned into comedy.

Now at 24, Maudie starts her work day with a painstaking 40 minutes at the makeup table, and comes out with a shocking red mop of hair, green squares for eyebrows and bulbous nose hanging precariously over a huge clown's grin.

Eight times a day she runs in and out of the three rings—slipping, tumbling and pulling off atrocious gags: tightwalking a length of rope lying on the ground, straying off and falling when she looks down.

It all started five years ago when she went to the circus. "It was like in the comics," she said in an interview. "A light bulb lit up—bing!—over my head and I decided I was going to be a clown."

"Two years ago the Ringling circus came to Omaha and I said 'Oh, please, let me clown just one show.'"

She got her wish and clown fever really set in.

"As soon as I learned about the clown college (Ringling's college for clowns) I gave notice at my job and ran down to Florida."

After a graduation night gag show Maudie was hired for the Ringling Bros. show. "I was shocked," she said.

There were no problems with other clowns when she started out in the traditionally male profession, she said.

"They didn't just judge me right away—they gave me a chance and really helped me out. Oh, it takes years and years to know what you're doing. They looked and said

maybe if you do it this way or that way

"I just love it. I'm going to be a clown forever!"

Refrigerator Cheese Cake Is Inviting

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A nutrition-conscious friend of ours always uses wheat germ in the crust when she makes cheese cake. So we decided to follow suit.

If you try this recipe, don't expect the usual solid-type cheese cake. This one is refrigerator style—made with ricotta cheese and gelatin plus the flavorings often used in desserts in Italian cuisine. Its texture is so light and airy that it reminded us of the molded dessert called Spanish Cream.

ITALIAN-STYLE REFRIGERATOR CHEESE CAKE

1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
1/4 cup wheat germ
1-3rd cup butter, melted
Ricotta Filling

In a small mixing bowl stir together the wafer crumbs, wheat germ and butter. Press on bottom of a 9-inch spring form pan. Add Ricotta Filling.

If desired sprinkle with grated semi-sweet chocolate. Refrigerate until firm — about 1/2 hours. Remove sides from pan. Makes 16 servings.

RICOTTA FILLING
4 large eggs, separated
1 cup milk
2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
3/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 pounds (4 cups) ricotta

cheese
2 squares finely chopped semi-sweet chocolate
1/4 cup finely chopped mixed candied fruit
1/4 cup finely chopped blanched almonds
1/4 cup orange juice or orange liqueur

1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a medium saucepan beat together the egg yolks and milk. In a cup stir together the gelatin, 1/4 cup of the sugar and the salt; add to egg mixture.

Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly—about 5 minutes. Remove from heat.

In a large mixing bowl beat ricotta until smooth. Mix gelatin mixture into cheese. Stir in remaining ingredients except egg whites and 1/2 cup sugar.

In a medium mixing bowl, with clean beater, beat egg whites until they form soft peaks. Gradually add remaining 1/2 cup sugar, continuing to beat until stiff peaks form. Fold into gelatin mixture.

Readers Give Pros And Cons

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for putting that letter in your column saying doctors can treat kids for V. D. without telling the kids' parents. I never knew that. I am a 16-year-old boy who has been worried about having V. D. for the past 4 months but I was afraid to do anything about it.

After I read your article in the paper I called our family doctor and asked him if he would see me without telling my folks. He said to come right away and it would be confidential. I went, I did have V. D. and that wonderful doctor treated me for it. He didn't charge me anything, but I am saving my money and he is going to get a very fine present from me. Thank you, too, Abby.

NOT WORRIED ANYMORE

DEAR NOT: And if there are other young readers out there who are reluctant to see a doctor about the possibility of V. D., telephone your public health department (the number is in your telephone directory), level with them and they will help you.

DEAR ABBY: I am a minor and I have been treated for V. D. [two types]. I learned about the seriousness of V. D. while being treated for it.

Sex sure messed me up and now I know I will never go in for it again outside of marriage. The girls who appear least likely to infect you are just the ones who can.

When you realize one in five teen-agers will have V. D. before they graduate from high school, it is scary. V. D. is curable, so as a service to your readers could you please print the symptoms so kids can catch it before it has a chance to go to work on them? God bless you.

SEVENTEEN

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for your answer to "PAR-ENTS OF A MINOR" who were angry with the doctor who had treated their 15-year-old son for V. D. without telling them. I agree, they ought to kiss that doctor—not reproach him.

I am not a bad girl, I'm just human, and last summer I thought I was infected with V. D. Believe me, it was hard enough to confess my fears to a doctor, and had it been necessary to tell my parents I wouldn't have gone to a doctor at all. It would have killed them, and I wouldn't want to hurt my parents as I'm sure many kids would hate to do.

I thank God every day for having found I was clean, and I add a special thanks to my doctor.

Mail Speedup A Hopeful Sign

It is hopeful news to us that the Postal Service will inaugurate overnight delivery of first class mail originating in the Greenville area to nine contiguous areas.

Postmaster Lloyd Mill said the areas include 527 post offices.

The areas to which overnight delivery will be accomplished are those with the first three digit of their zip code as follows: 270, 275, 278, 279, 280, 283, 284, 285 and 297.

The new service is a part of goals unveiled by Postmaster General Winton Blount to provide overnight delivery of first class mail deposited by 5 p.m.

Postal officials say that the program will affect more than half of the first-class letter mail sent in the United States.

There has long been discussion on speeding up the mails and streamlining the operations of the post office. The new Postal Service was inaugurated some months back and, if this overnight area service, can be accomplished by the Oct. 31 deadline, then the postal patron will be able to see some tangible result of the reorganization.

It is also not too soon to think of overnight service from most areas into the major cities of the nation. With the availability of frequent scheduled air service and the provision of efficient overland transportation of the mails, it seems likely that in the not too distant future letters mailed most places in the county could reach major cities the next day.

At any rate over night delivery to area post offices will be helpful.

A Prestigious Salute To The ECU Chapter

For the second year the American Chemical Society has cited the East Carolina University chapter for excellence.

The university was notified of this by Dr. J. Trygve Jensen of Wagner College, ACS chairman. The ACS program is aimed at developing attitudes of professionalism among students interested in chemistry as a career.

The American Chemical Society is prestigious and certainly this citation, awarded to only 42 of 535 chapters is meaningful. The honor is gratifying in that it shows the progress that has been made in building science programs at ECU in only a few years.

Mecklenburg In All-Out War

By JOHN KILGRO

A Nov. 5 vote on liquor-by-the-drink has set off a full-scale war between the wets and dries in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County.

The two men heading the opposing campaigns are direct opposites. Insurance executive Raymond King is head of the committee which is seeking to win voter approval for liquor-by-the-drink in Charlotte-Mecklenburg. The General of the dries is Allen A. Bailey, one of North Carolina's most successful trial lawyers.

King, a Georgia native, has been in the middle of Mecklenburg Democratic Party politics for years. He is by nature a low-key man and in most of his speaking engagements he seeks to point out figures that would show the consumption of liquor has not increased in communities which recently adopted liquor-by-the-drink laws. King says the liquor-by-the-drink matter is not a moral issue.

Bailey disagrees. A teetotaler himself, Bailey is a man of flashy tastes. He prefers silk suits, drives a big car, lives in one of Charlotte's most exclusive neighborhoods, which is a world apart from his upbringing on an Eastern North Carolina farm. He says liquor itself is a moral issue.

Both sides seem to have plenty of money behind their campaigns. The dries have set a budget of $150,000 and Bailey says they are "doing very well" in raising the money. The wets have the support of most of Charlotte's business community and while they haven't said how much money they plan to spend, it should be no big problem in raising what is necessary.

The political leadership in Charlotte-Mecklenburg is mostly on the side of the wets. King is in the process of naming a 100-man committee which favors liquor-by-the-drink as a means of controlling alcohol. Some members of that committee include State Sen. Eddie Knox, Rep. Lawrence Cobb, and Mecklenburg County Commissioner Charles Lowe. A majority of the Mecklenburg County Commission and a majority of Charlotte's City Council favor liquor-by-the-drink.

King is calling on members of his committee to speak to every civic club that will hear them. They try to get across the message in their talks that liquor-by-the-drink would not lead to barrooms, that the amount of alcohol consumed would not be increased, and that this would be a much better way to control liquor than the present system of brown-bagging.

In accepting a position on King's committee, Commissioner Lowe said: "I wish they didn't make liquor, sell liquor or drink liquor. But they do make it, they do sell it and they do drink it. I think liquor-by-the-drink is the best way to control alcohol in this community."

Bailey got his first real taste of politics in 1964 when he headed the gubernatorial campaign of I. Beverly Lake. Bailey is now a very close personal friend of Attorney General Robert Morgan.

He led a recent campaign to defeat the consolidation of Charlotte and Mecklenburg governments and succeeded by a margin of better than 2 to 1. But Bailey will find this fight harder. Charlotte is a rapidly-growing urban center with a downtown that has buildings going up on every corner. A civic center is about to be started and the cry is that liquor-by-the-drink will bring more conventions to Charlotte, increase business expansion and thereby give home owners some relief from a soaring

2nd Look At Air Bags

A couple of months ago, back in July, I delivered myself of a lightweight column on the matter of air bags, the new safety devices that have been proposed for 1974 model automobiles. It wasn't a definitive piece, and didn't pretend to be; its purpose was to summarize the government's response to the well-publicized opposition of the Ford Motor Company.

The column stirred up an astonishing mail, almost all of it harshly critical of the government's position. In recent weeks this criticism has mounted. The American Automobile Association has stepped up its furious opposition to the air bag regulation. Leading automobile magazines have joined the cry. The American Safety Belt Council has jumped into the act.

Perhaps as a result of all this, the Department of Transportation last week was drafting an order to permit another year's delay in its requirement for passive restraint devices. Apparently the air bags—or whatever—will not now be required until 1975 models come on the market in August of 1974.

The topic is important, not only on its merits but also in terms of its larger implications. More than 90 million passenger cars are on the roads. More than 50,000 persons die in them every year. Any regulation affecting the design and cost of an auto affects almost everyone.

The proposed regulation would not require air bags as such; it would require only that new cars be equipped with some approved device to protect persons in the front seat from the hazard of head-on collisions. For all practical purposes, this has appeared to mean the air bag. Lap-and-shoulder belts admittedly are better, but these are not "passive" restraints; passengers have to buckle themselves up, and only 5 percent of them do.

To the Department of Transportation, the air bag has seemed the next best thing for the kind of accidents the device is intended to protect against. The bag is a nylon affair. On sufficient impact, sensors fire an explosive charge, instantly releasing air under heavy pressure; the bag inflates in 4-10ths of a second to the size of two pillows, forming a cushion between the passengers and the windshield-instrument panel. In repeated experiments with dummies and baboons, according to the DOT, the bags have proved both reliable and effective.

But the critics make an excellent case. The arguments are well summarized in the September issue of the AAA's American Motorist. The device, in the AAA's expert view, is "extremely complicated." I would add perhaps $100 to the cost of a car. The AAA is not at all persuaded of the air bag's reliability in mass production over a period of years. The research has been "shoddy."

Other critics also have

Other Editors Say Valuable Project

(The Raleigh Times)

Secretary of State Thad Eure will perform a real service for the state if he is able to go through with his plans to bring the 1913 North Carolina Manual up to date and publish a revised edition. That revised edition would include the names of all state officials, congressmen, legislators, senators and judges since 1776, plus other valuable data not now available anywhere in convenient form.

The 1913 Manual, which includes all that information from 1776 to 1913, has been the rarest of rare books for years. Only occasionally does one become available, and then it is snapped up at a high price.

Eure has been trying for several sessions of the legislature to secure approval to begin work on this big project. The 1971 General Assembly gave him just enough money for research on the project and to do the work in developing a format. He wants to get the job far enough along so that he can make a showing to the 1973 General Assembly and get enough money to print such a manual.

Now, he is seeking advice of librarians, educators, historians, legislators, etc., on what should be included. "I don't want to do something this important and then have people pointing out things I should have included," Eure says.

The Secretary of State has been publishing the North Carolina Manual every two years since he took office in the mid-1930's. It is an invaluable book and Eure does an excellent job of compiling it. The only big fault in the Manual's publication scheme is that the legislature has never made it possible for the general public to subscribe in advance for it, thus enabling Eure to increase the size of the press run and make available copies to citizens who would like to buy the volume every two years.

The 1973 General Assembly should appropriate the funds needed to publish an updated 1913 Manual. And, it should make provision for cash-in-hand advance subscriptions from interested citizens who would be willing to dig down deep into their wallets for a volume such as Secretary Eure plans to publish. It would be an invaluable reference volume.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: You can tell a person's character by his taste in flowers. For example, if his favorite flower is the rose, he probably is stodgy, conventional, prosaic and hides his money in a mattress or a hole in the back yard. On the other hand, if his favorite flower is the dandelion, he probably is adventurous, romantic, imaginative, chivalrous and hasn't saved any money at all. It's all in how you say a thing. Few men like to be praised for their prejudices, but all like to be admired for the People grumble that most of our modern gadgets, from automobiles to television sets, wear out before they should. But at least two of man's tools have resisted this trend toward planned obsolescence and last about as long as they ever did. They are the toothpick and the old-fashioned fly swatter.

Sept. 16, 1931

It is circus day in Greenville and hundreds of kiddies and grownups alike tumbled from their beds early this morning to witness the arrival of Barnett Bros. Circus. A parade of the circus people and animals was then dispatched over the main streets of the city after the erection of the tents.

The cast of characters for the "Womanless Wedding" to be staged at the State Theatre Thursday evening was announced today. The leading roles of bride and groom will be played by E. W. Griffin and Jack Spain respectively. Playing later on in the evening will be the screen movie production of "The Woman Between."

Members of the local Order of Pochontas who were guests of E. B. Ferguson at the Capitol Theatre last night today expressed their appreciation of the courtesy. The members of the organization participated in the Red Men's parade during the early part of the evening.

Strength For Today

THE RIGHT SIDE—AND THE WRONG

In his Epistle to the Romans, Paul raises the question: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" (Romans 8:31). Generations of baffled Christian believers have had to support themselves in fair weather and foul, through light and darkness, through doubts that threaten to destroy whatever faith they have—be it great or small.

Life is a conflict, whether we want it that way or not. Life is a pilgrimage whereby we start out and seek whatever light there may be in this dark world. Conflict and pilgrimage—yet who would have it different?

The world in which we live is not the best of all possible worlds. It is weak, ignorant, bigoted and filled with plenty of unhappiness. This all means that if we are to achieve peace of mind, peace between nations, more light in dark places, then we will have to be prepared to confront a lot of things we don't like. There is no denying the fact that evil often appears to be gaining a victory over righteousness. If politicians, statesmen, teachers and mistaken leaders in the fields of business and industry would just hand over the running of world affairs to us, we feel we could set everything straight. But how would you like to be in charge of world affairs for one day, for one hour, for sixty seconds? The more confident we are that we could set world matters right, the more does it appear that we would be overwhelmed in our endeavors if we tried to manage more than we do.

Natural Gas For Cars? Not Yet

By ELMER ROESSNER

A West Coast utility and a major oil corporation plan to test market natural gas—not gasoline—as an automobile fuel. They claim that it is cheaper in the long run and reduces polluting emissions by 90 per cent. It is also said to cut operating costs.

COMMENT: They are wasting their time. Only the most avid ecology bug will pay the $300 necessary to convert the engine. The fuel saving is based largely on natural gas being exempt from motor vehicle fuel taxes, which would not last long if the use of gas became widespread. Besides, few motorists will want to drive around with compressed gas bottles in the trunk of the car.

One would think the natural gas industry is having enough trouble supplying their traditional home and industry customers without looking for new markets. And developing the market would involve getting motorists to make a drastic switch when they cannot even be changed over to unleaded gasoline, or to diesel engines with their cheap, safe, readily available fuel.

Move On Credit

A leading van line will try out a new service wherein a householder can move his worldly goods to another state and charge it on his credit card. The fairly complicated process includes the person moving getting the mover's agreement. Then the van line must obtain the credit card company's approval of the deal. Finally, the credit card company must pay the mover's full charges no matter what the difference between the original estimate and the final moving bill.

COMMENT: Conceding that the credit card companies will do most anything in their efforts to replace money, it is still hard to imagine why two of them became involved in this arrangement. The complications of interstate litigation, should it come up, are tremendous. Moreover, the credit card companies will become the target for many of the complaints that have been directed against the van lines. Finally, any person who can pass the double scrutiny involved can probably get a straight bank loan for the move anyway, possibly at lower interest.

Break For Blacks?

A proposal that blacks be allowed to retire early with Social Security benefits has been put forward in a Senate Special Committee on Aging report. The committee noted that in the 55 to 64 age group the mortality rate is about 100 per cent higher for black women and 10 per cent higher for black men compared with their white counterparts.

The report states that fewer blacks receive full benefit from past contributions to the S.S. fund and earlier payments, therefore, are desirable.

COMMENT: Basically, Social Security is an insurance type arrangement whereby the group covered collectively assures some security for all of the individuals in the group. Benefits are based on worker "inputs" only in a limited way. If a special case is to be made for blacks it should also be made for other higher risk groups such as men, who live shorter lives than women. Ditto: some other minorities, coal miners, steeplejacks, acrobats, and on and on. Similar inequities exist in other areas such as residual benefits for retirees' dependent survivors, but none where retirees have no dependent survivors.

Senate Passes 1950 Law Repeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed and sent to President Nixon today a bill to repeal a 1950 law authorizing suspected spies and saboteurs to be rounded up and held in detention camps during war or an insurrection.

With less than half a dozen members present, the Senate quickly accepted without objection the bill the House passed by a 356-49 vote Tuesday after two days of heated debate.

The measure specifically prohibits the government from establishing detention camps without the consent of Congress.

emphasized the lack of any "real-world" experience with the device. They are justly skeptical of the industry's ability to achieve spaceship perfection in so delicate an installation. They point out that the bags, even if they worked on initial impact, would deflate too swiftly to protect against secondary impacts. They cite some gruesome studies conducted in Germany by Mercedes-Benz, using cadavers only three hours dead, which indicate dangers not revealed in tests with plastic dummies.

These are not captious criticisms. Whatever Ralph Nader may say, through his "Center for Auto Safety," the experience and the expertise of the AAA have to be given heavy weight. Speaking simply as one observer, after hearing both sides, I am persuaded that the DOT's proposed requirement is an error.

The larger question ought to be considered also. Government surely has both the power and the duty to protect the traveling public at large from highway risks. But it is highly doubtful that government should involve itself in mandatory safety requirements aimed at individual protection in this costly and untried degree. There is a limit on what government ought to do, and another limit on what government can do well. The air bag requirement, I submit, transgresses both lines.

India's exports during 1970 amounted to $2 million, an increase of 10.5 per cent over the previous year.

Will Send Mars Weather Report

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 9, streaking toward Mars, is expected to send back information describing the planet's daily and seasonal weather patterns, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration says.

The spacecraft is programmed to gather and send back 15 times as much information about the planet's terrain, climate and atmosphere as was learned from the two Mariner flybys in 1969, NASA officials said Wednesday.

Mariner 9 should arrive at the planet Nov. 13 and orbit for at least three months.

A television camera board is capable of sending back 5,000 pictures daily, Robert H. Steinbacher, Mariner 9 project scientist. The two previous missions yielded 227 pictures of Mars.

A newspaper poll taken last week indicated that Charlotte-Mecklenburg voters favor liquor-by-the-drink by a margin of 52 to 32 per cent, with 16 per cent undecided.

Bailey's group has four mass rallies planned for the Charlotte Coliseum. The first will be held on Sept. 28 and the guest performer will be singing star Johnny Cash. Bailey says he hopes to be able to videotape the show and show it on television.

The drys are appealing to churches for help. Bailey preached at one church last Sunday, saying liquor-by-the-drink was being pushed by "a business community which is looking to make a dollar out of it."

"They say it will bring more conventions to Charlotte," Bailey said. "Well, if it takes more liquor than we already have, then I say we don't need the conventions."

Both sides also plan extensive media advertising to get their point across.

After all the rhetoric is over, Charlotte-Mecklenburg voters will go to the polls on Nov. 5 to decide the issue. Both sides think a heavy vote will help them, so they're out now trying to get new voters to register. Local Jaycees, who favor liquor-by-the-drink, are particularly interested in getting 18 to 20-year-olds registered. They believe the young people will be on their side.

The Rev. Jack Hudson, pastor of Northside Baptist Church in Charlotte, is bitterly opposed to liquor-by-the-drink. He said recently: "God is on our side. Let's win this fight for God."

And in Charlotte-Mecklenburg, liquor-by-the-drink has caused an old-fashioned neighborhood brawl, and the heavy artillery hasn't been used yet.

Quality Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Less than one-fifth of the Army's recent "true volunteers" scored high in intelligence-aptitude tests, raising doubts the United States can field a quality all-volunteer force.

Army officials said they plan to concentrate on selective enlistment, but stressed it will take more than military pay increases to attract men equipped to handle today's complex military gear.

"There's got to be a dramatic change in the public's acceptance of the military," one general said.

One reason Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has urged renewal of the draft law for two more years is to stem "the decline in the quality of personnel needed to meet highly technical training requirements."

Officials long have acknowledged that, under the threat of being drafted, many talented young men have signed up for military service they otherwise would have shunned.

Therefore, considerable importance is attached to the "true volunteer" as distinguished from draftable men who volunteer in order to get a good assignment.

Army officials concerned about the quality problem cited the results of Armed Forces qualifications tests given to "true volunteers" in June and July.

Jenkins Position

ECU President Leo Jenkins expressed a desire for local autonomy in whatever system of administration which evolves from current discussions on higher education reorganization.

"The form of organization is not nearly as important as dedication, and devotion to excellence," he said. "Creativity, scholarly accomplishment and effective teaching are nurtured by freedom, confidence and respect. Our faculties, our administrations, are present boards and our students believe this, and function well under this philosophy."

"History has shown that governments which govern least, govern best. I therefore feel that whatever system finally evolves, it should be one with much local autonomy. Each

Sanford Plan: Expand UNC To All 15 Universities

RALEIGH (AP) — The idea of expanding the University of North Carolina system to include all 15 state universities has won applause from legislators, but major partisans in the higher education controversy are withholding comment until the weekend.

Gov. Bob Scott, who started the controversy last spring by calling for a single coordinating board to run all the universities, will return Saturday from the National Governors' Conference in Puerto Rico.

Scott will be handed at least one new compromise plan to look over when he returns.

The chancellors and presidents of all the public universities gathered in Durham Wednesday and came up with a restructuring plan which a majority agreed on. The group, headed by East Carolina University president Leo Jenkins, agreed not to release details until the plan has been presented to Scott.

The weekend will also bring two meetings sponsored by major opponents of Scott's plan. Sen. John Burney, D-New Hanover, will host 38 senators at a get-together at Wrightsville Beach, and Rep. Ike Andrews, D-Chatham, has asked House members to a meeting in High Point.

Burney said Wednesday that he and Andrews have a plan to unveil which does not go as far in restructuring as the "super UNC" plan advanced by Duke University President Terry Sanford.

Sanford, a former North Carolina governor, put forth his detailed plan at a hearing before House and Senate Higher Education committees Wednesday.

Sanford proposed that the 15 universities "be brought together on a scheduled as established by the General Assembly, beginning with the six campuses of the Consolidated University upon enactment at this session ..."

He suggested four additional institutions be added next July 1 — Appalachian State, North Carolina Central, Fayetteville State and Pembroke State. The remaining five, he said, could come in on Jan. 1, 1973 — East Carolina, Western Carolina, A&T State, Elizabeth City State and Winston-Salem State.

Sanford proposed that a central governing board named the "Board of Trustees of North Carolina Colleges and Universities" be given complete budget control over the institutions and have authority to name the president of the new system and the chancellors of the several schools.

Local boards would be appointed for each campus to handle faculty appointments, student affairs and internal management.

"I would contend," Sanford said, "that reorganization somewhat in this fashion would not damage the capabilities or impair the future development of the institutions involved."

Dr. Cameron West, director of the state Board of Higher Education, also endorsed a central governing board or agency and said an expanded consolidated university system might be the proper vehicle.

West said he would favor the consolidated university approach as long as the other schools are brought in "honorably and not as second class citizens."

West said the proposed governing board should have the power to review programs and to "send forth a single budget."

Sanford's plan brought applause from about 30 legislators at the hearing, which was held in preparation for a session of the legislature convening Oct. 26 to deal with higher education.

Sen. Russell Kirby, D-Wilson, chairman of the Senate committee, predicted the Sanford approach would be the solution adopted by the October session.

Burney, however, found fault with the Sanford approach saying the strong budget control feature "bothers me." He said he and Andrews would unveil this weekend a plan that does not go as far as Sanford's.

"I just don't think any institution ought to be forced into one board," Burney said.

UNC President William Friday declined to comment on the Sanford plan. Jake Froelich of High Point, who is heading a UNC trustee subcommittee attempting to find a compromise on restructuring, said it was too early to say whether a "super UNC" plan would prevail.

He said his group is waiting to "see what happens" at Wrightsville Beach and High Point this weekend.

Also Wednesday, the faculty advisory committee of UNC in Chapel Hill announced that it was endorsing the idea of expanding UNC by taking in two or three universities every two years until all public institutions are consolidated into the system.

The group, which said it did not consult with Friday, suggested a single governing board with power over programs, budgets, personnel and property.

Fifteen of the 17 members of the North Carolina Council of Presidents of State-supported universities, including Friday, were present at the meeting Wednesday in Durham.

Jenkins said a majority of those present approved the compromise idea on an item-by-item vote. He said there would be no minority report from the group.

Set $3 Million Plant Expansion

YADKINVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Unifi Inc. of Greensboro will build a $3 million expansion to its textile manufacturing plant at Yadkinville.

The firm announced Wednesday that the 54,000 square feet of space will be completed early next year and will provide employment for about 100 persons.

The expansion will mark the firm's entry into the warp knitting industry. The cloth produced at the Yadkinville plant will be dyed and finished at the company's Rocky Mount plant.

Claims Can End Poverty

RALEIGH (AP) — Former Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Wilbur Cohen says a reordering of the nation's priorities could bring an end to poverty within the next decade.

"We've managed to cut the number of those considered in the poverty class from 40 million to 25 million since 1960," he said Wednesday.

Cohen said if the federal government perseveres in its anti-poverty efforts, poverty due to income deficiencies can be wiped out in 10 years.

His remarks came in a speech to about 13,000 members of the American Public Welfare Association meeting in Raleigh for a four-day regional conference.

Cohen, who is now dean and professor of the University of Michigan School of Education, urged support for the omnibus welfare and national health insurance bill before Congress.

"In 1929, the most unlikely, most impossible event imaginable was going to the moon," he said. "We made a commitment to go to the moon and we did it. We can now make a commitment that we will end poverty in 10 years and fulfill that commitment."

To Cut Share

RALEIGH (AP) — Proposed guidelines for federal school lunch monies would reduce North Carolina's share of the funds by $12 million, state officials said Wednesday.

The Department of Public Instruction said 114,000 pupils would be eliminated from the free or reduced-price lunch program if the federal money is lost.

A department spokesman said the local school systems have continued to provide the lunches to 359,500 children pending a definite statement from the federal government.

Forty-four U.S. senators asked President Nixon earlier this week to change the guidelines.

Charge Attempt Smuggle Gilas

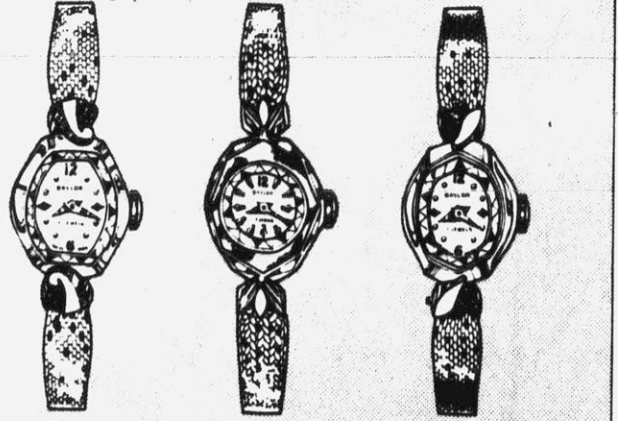

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A North Carolina man has been arrested on a charge of trying to smuggle two Gila monsters and 17 rattlesnakes out of Arizona.

David E. Burge Jr., 27, of Cullowhee, N. C., who had a permit to collect one Gila monster, was quoted by police as saying he was taking the snakes and lizards to Western Carolina University at Cullowhee.

Police said Burge was arrested at Tucson International Airport Tuesday for exceeding the limit specified on the permit. They said all but five of the snakes were dead, but the Gila monsters were alive.

Some Revisions In Freeze Orders

The initial confusion resulting from the President's wage, price, and rent freeze has subsided, and some of the early interpretations of the order pertaining to real estate are now being revised by more considered opinions, Louis E. Clark, president of the Greenville-Pitt Board of Realtors, said today.

Through continuing conferences with officials of the Office of Emergency Preparedness and the Cost of market. Now, conditions have changed to such a degree that I have a chance to sell it at $32,000. Am I bound to the $30,000 at which the house was originally offered?

A. No, you would not be bound by the earlier price. In a revision of an earlier interpretation of the freeze order, the OEP says that if you can establish that $32,000 is the fair market price, then that is the figure that will be lawful.

Living Council, the National Association of Real Estate Boards, with which the Greenville-Pitt Board of Realtors is affiliated, has compiled additional questions and answers designed to assist the public in interpreting individual situations.

Some of these alter or reverse earlier announced interpretations. Clark pointed out:

Q. I had my house for sale in July for $30,000 and could not sell it so I withdrew it from the listing. The price you ask, however, must be the fair market value of the home at the time you place it on the market.

Q. I understand that I may increase the rent on apartment units I own on which "substantial improvements" have been made. What are "substantial improvements?" By how much can the rents be raised over the rent prevailing during the base period?

A. While you may increase the rent on a rental unit on which substantial improvements have been made, there are certain guidelines that must be followed. "Substantial improvements" are capital improvements as classified by the Internal Revenue Service.

Exhibition Sees More Visitors

MONTREAL (AP) -- The Man and His World exhibition attracted 7,027,749 visitors during 1971, compared with 6,267,733 in 1970.

The most popular exhibit was the U.S. pavillion, which attracted 330,431 people.

an expenditure equal to at least three months' rent and, in any event, must cost at least $250. The increase in the monthly rent may not be more than 1.5 per cent of the amount spent for capital improvements, you could raise a $200 monthly rental by $15 — in effect, a 7.5 per cent increase in the rent.

The same situation would exist on the leasing of an apartment which had been vacant for some time so that repairs or improvements could be made. In this case, the same criterion for substantial improvements is used, and the rent would be based on rents for similar apartments in similar conditions of repair or improvement. (This is an expansion on the answers to two questions in last week's summary.)

Q. The rent I pay on the store space I lease is a set figure plus a percentage of the gross receipts. Thus, in September, I will be paying more rent than I did in the period prior to Aug. 14. Is this permitted by the freeze order?

A. Yes, it is. The basic rent, if any, and the percentage rate is frozen by the order, but not the total resulting from the application of the percentage provision.

Q. I own several rental units, and the leases on each contain tax escalation clauses which provide for rent increases if the property taxes increase. Are these escalation clauses effective under the rent freeze order?

A. No, they are not. The opinions and interpretations issued in respect to tax escalation clauses in leases were indicative of the confusion which reigned in Washington when the wage, price, and rent freeze was first announced by President Nixon. Initially, it was felt that these clauses would not be effective and that rents could not be raised to the degree necessary to take care of the property tax boost. Soon after that opinion, another was rendered which said that rents could be increased. The Cost of Living Council has now reversed the second opinion and declared that rents may not be increased to cover rises in property taxes, so the original interpretation stands.

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern said today he is returning to the Senate next week to reintroduce legislation to cut off funds for U.S. military operations in Indochina by the end of this year or early next year.

He also said President Nguyen Van Thieu told him that U.S. air support would be involved in Vietnam indefinitely and that he did not envision the withdrawal of American ground forces for at least another year. The South Dakota Democrat, a candidate for his party's presidential nomination, also said that Communist negotiators in Paris indicated to him they have hardened their stand on the periodic release of small groups of U.S. prisoners because of the unsuccessful American commando raid on the Son Tay POW camp near Hanoi last November.

The Communist side has released 23 prisoners of war since the end of 1967.

"My impression is that the raid complicated matters," McGovern told a news conference. "It is my personal belief it didn't help the cause of prisoner releases. There has been an obvious slowdown."

McGovern said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong representatives had asked him not to disclose the substance of their talks on prisoners during six hours of private meetings in Paris last week.

McGovern said he would reintroduce his proposal to cut off military funds after conferring with Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore. A similar proposal by them was defeated in July.

Asked if he got any feeling for the willingness of the Thieu government to negotiate a settlement of the war, McGovern said:

"No, as a matter of fact, what President Thieu seemed to have on his mind was the military prosecution of the war to destroy the Communist apparatus in this country

"And he went on so far as to say that if we cut off economic assistance, as is now being discussed in the Congress of the United States, he would resign. He said if his continuance in office handicaps in any way the fight against communism he will resign."

McGovern and his party left Saigon shortly before noon for a three-day stop in Tokyo before returning to Washington next week.

Doubts Role Of Primaries

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says next year's presidential primaries won't play a major role in picking the Democratic nominee.

The Minnesota Democrat said in an interview Wednesday he is continuing to give serious thought to becoming a candidate and will come to a final decision by the end of the year.

Humphrey said he hasn't ruled out entering the presidential primaries, "but I surely would rule out, under any circumstances, entering a large number of them."

"I consider them far too expensive," Humphrey said.

In Humphrey's view, a high-spending tussle in the primaries is bad for the Democratic party.

"It's my judgment that while primaries are important, particularly for persons seeking some national identity, I do not believe that the primaries will be conclusive."

"The only way they could be is if any one man were to sweep them, and as I see it now that's unlikely."

Home-School Association Met Last Night

The new school principal, Sister Imelda, addressed the meeting and outlined a new reading program.

Lt. Paul Jewett of the Greenville Police Department explained the new traffic pattern for approaching the school at dismissal time.

The attendance trophy was shared by the 3rd and 5th grades.

Gene Brown was elected president of the Luncheon Optimist Club of Greenville at the official organization meeting of the new service club Wednesday night at the Moose Lodge.

The club, formed by some 30 business, industry and professional men of Greenville, will hold regular luncheon meetings each Wednesday, 1 p.m. at Parkers Barbecue. The new organization joins the more than 2,700 Optimist clubs throughout the nation and Canada engaged in youth and community service projects.

Riner Fletcher, field representative of the international service club organization headquartered in St. Louis, Mo., presided over the meeting and will be conducting indoctrination sessions with the new club's officers and committees.

The new club was sponsored by the Evening Optimist Club of Greenville and representatives of the sponsoring organization attended the meeting.

Offers Advice

RALEIGH (AP) — A former state senator who headed a special study commission on higher education says no university system can work effectively unless the legislature leaves it alone.

Lindsey Warren of Goldsboro said legislative tempering produced defects his commission found in the state's existing university system. He listed the defects as an ineffective state board, no coordination of degree programs, institutional rivalry for funds and the "system within a system" created by the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

In an address to the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night, Warren said proposals to restructure higher education must depend on the General Assembly.

"Whatever board you come up with, the General Assembly will have to exercise a degree of self-discipline it hasn't been willing to exercise in the past," he said.

"We just cannot continue to run higher education like we have in the past. We're living in different times," Warren said.

Williams said the demand continued strong on all grades.

"Growers placed .98 percent of gross sales under government loan. For the first three sales days of this week, stabilization receipts have been less than one percent of gross sales," Williams said.

A total of 603,989 pounds of leaf was sold on the Farmville market for $477,567, yielding an average of $79.07 per hundred pounds.

A tabulation of sales yesterday on the individual markets of the Eastern Belt, according to the Federal-State Market News Service, includes:

Running Battles

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops clashed early today with rioters protesting Northern Ireland's clampdown on the Irish Republican Army.

Bombs exploded in scattered sectors of Belfast, an electricity tower was blown down near Omagh and another blast shattered the front of a police station at Lisburn, injuring a young constable.

The string of incidents came in apparent response to Prime Minister Brian Faulkner's decision, announced Wednesday, to keep suspected IRA terrorists under indefinite internment without trial. The IRA wants to bring down Faulkner's Protestant-based government by force and reunite the British province with the Roman Catholic-dominated Irish Republic to the south.

Running battles between soldiers, gunmen and rampaging youths went on into the early hours of the morning in Belfast.

Rampants Get Stern Test From Wilson

Rose High School's Rampants, with a 19-0 victory over Washington—under their belts, head for Division II Conference action tomorrow, with their sternest test of the season on top.

The Rampants will travel to Wilson to take on the offensive minded Fike High School Titans. And the Rampant defense will have to be at its sharpest if the Rose team wishes to chalk up its second win.

Fike comes into the game with a 2-0 record, having romped to easy victories over their two previous opponents, Chapel Hill and Wilmington Hoggard. The Titans ripped Chapel Hill, 41-13, then crushed Hoggard, 49-0. That gives Wilson 90 points in the two games, while allowing just 13.

Rose, meanwhile, has allowed 21 points and scored 25, and all but seven of those must be credited to the Rampant defense, which either scored or set up three of the four Rose touchdowns.

That was the case in the victory over Washington, where the Rampants got off only one real drive in the game, and that was helped along by penalties. Twice the defense provided interceptions which brought scores. One came when George Price pulled in an interception and carried it back for a score, and another came when Calvin Moore got an interception and his return set up a 12-yard scoring drive.

Price, for his play in the game, was named the Athlete of the Week by the Rose coaching staff.

"Our defense played a good game," Coach Dave Bumgarner said. "But there are still some things that we are not pleased with. Our line didn't charge out like it should. But now some of the younger players, like Dave Mathias, are coming around, and they'll help rest some of those who are going both ways."

Another player, Al Hunter, is now fully recovered from the flu which handicapped him last week, and is expected to be ready to go at full speed. Hunter, who goes both ways, has been shifted to fullback on offense, with Moore stepping into his halfback spot. "This should make our offense a little stronger."

During the week, Bumgarner and his staff have worked on sharpening the defenses, looking for a wide open type game. "Wilson scored five touchdowns off the pass in the first game, and then one of their players ran for five in the second, so their offense is versatile," the coach said. "We really look for a lot of scoring one way or the other."

Offensively, Bumgarner is still not satisfied with his team's play. "We saw some things that went well," he said, "but not enough. We are beginning to get used to running against a four-man front, and our running game should be improved. Our passing game also looked better. We went more for the short gainer rather than long passes."

"We don't plan any great changes, however, both on offense or defense. We'll make a few personnel changes but these will be mostly spotted to give others some rest," Bumgarner said. He included Mathias and Harding Sugg (spelling Phil Ragazzo) in these plans.

"We know they have a good offense and defense, that is well-balanced," the coach said. "They are bigger than we are and we'll definitely be the underdogs."

Wilson will be led into the game by their fine quarterback, Dennis Wilkerson, whom Bumgarner lists as a good thrower and team leader. "He's a real smart quarterback," the coach said. He has a good receiver in Larry Barnes, who caught seven passes and two for scores against Chapel Hill.

The big man last week against Hoggard was Jimmy Knight, who ran for five touchdowns.

"They have real good speed, and they hit the off-tackle hole real well," Bumgarner said.

"They have a potent offense and move the ball well," he added. "The question will be whether our defense can get in there and crack them. We haven't beaten Wilson since we've gone 4-A, and this would be as good a time as any."

Bumgarner was miffed, however, at some former Wilson players who did some unofficial scouting against the Rampants earlier in the week. He said he found several with pages of notes on the team watching the Rampants go through their drills.

The game is set for 8 p.m. in the Fike Stadium, located beside the school.

Probably starting players for Rose include Lonnie Payton and Derek Dunn at ends, Lee Cherry and Sidney Shearin at tackles, John Calhoun and Maurice Sheppard at tackles, Phil Ragazzo at Center, Bob Barrett at quarterback, Robbie Cox at flanker, Calvin Moore at halfback and Al Hunter at fullback.

Defensively, Rose will start Matthew Clark and Todd Pair at ends, Cherry and Calhoun at tackles, Mike Harris, Dunn, Ragazzo and George Price at linebackers, and Hunter, Moore and Cox in the secondary.

Elsewhere in the Division last week, the most surprising victory was Kinston's 12-6 upset of Jacksonville, rated the strongboy of Division I. Rocky Mount nipped New Hanover, 7-3, and New Bern fell to West Carteret, 14-6, in other action. This week, everything is within the league. Besides the Rose-Wilson encounter, Rocky Mount is at New Bern and Kinston is at Goldsboro. It is the first weekend of conference play.

Oakland Nails Down AL's West Flag

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Nice little hit there, bud," Charles O. Finley smiled, patting Sal Bando on the back.

The hit was anything but little, though. It was big in distance—a two-run homer in the eighth inning—and big in meaning, powering Oakland to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Wednesday to give the A's the American League West championship.

Actually, Bando didn't give it to them. Kansas City did. The runner-up Royals, by winning against California, would have held onto a mathematical chance of tying Oakland for the flag, particularly after the A's lost 7-3 to the White Sox in the second half of their two-night doubleheader.

But the Royals eliminated themselves from contention while Oakland was halfway through its second game, losing 6-2 to the Angels and giving the A's their first title since 1931 when Connie Mack piloted the Philadelphia Athletics to the American League pennant.

In other American League action, the New York Yankees beat Baltimore 4-2, Boston edged Cleveland 6-5, Detroit topped Washington 4-2 and Minnesota squeezed by Milwaukee 1-0.

"Just winning it, getting it all over with, was a big relief to all of us," Bando said after his blast, which followed Reggie Jackson's double, handed 20-game winner Wilbur Wood his 12th loss and gave the triumph to recently reacquired Jim "Mudcat" Grant.

"We were trying too hard and not scoring any runs lately," Bando said. The A's had lost seven of their previous 12 games. "We were spinning our wheels and standing still."

With 13 games still to go before the A's enter the American League playoffs—presumably against Baltimore—Bando said there are two ways of looking at the rest of the season.

"First, it's true we may not stay real sharp mentally. But secondly, it gives us a lot of time to rest up and get our pitching primed and ready."

Jackson threw Manager Dick Williams into a shower after the twin-bill, then went after Finley, the A's flamboyant owner who bought the club in 1961 and moved them from Kansas City to Oakland in 1968. But Finley stopped his young outfielder with the remark: "Let's wait'll we win every thing—then you can do what you want."

Andy Messersmith fired a four-hitter for the Angels and sparked their four-run second inning with a two-run homer.

California also collected five singles off Bruce Dal Canton in the uprising.

Ken Berry knocked in the Angels' final two runs with an eighth-inning double. Messersmith, boosting his record to 17-13 with his sixth victory in seven starts, limited the Royals to unearned runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

Bobby Murcer snapped a seventh-inning 1-1 tie against Baltimore's 18-game winner, Mike Cuellar, with his 24th home run of the year, then Ron Swoboda wrapped up the Yankees' victory with a two-run single in the ninth. Ron Hansen also homered for the Yanks and Brooks Robinson had one for the Orioles.

Joe Lahoud's two-out runscoring double in the top of the ninth gave the Red Sox their victory after the Indians tied it in the eighth on Ted Uhlaender's RBI single. Rico Petrocelli hit a two-run homer for the Red Sox.

Denny McLain, a 31-game winner with Detroit three years ago before being traded to Washington, became the major league's first 20-game loser this season as his former Tiger teammates rode homers by Aurelio Rodriguez and Jim Northrup to their triumph over the Senators.

The Twins, held to one hit through 8 2-3 innings by Skip Lockwood, beat the Brewers on a walk to Harmon Killebrew and Steve Braun's triple. Bert Blyleven scattered six hits for the Minnesota victory.

Padres Halt Dodgers; Giants Fail To Gain

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
There won't be any payoff or World Series money for San Diego's Dave Roberts but the Padres' tough left-hander looms as a big mah in the National League West pennant race.

Roberts pitched San Diego a 2-1 victory over Los Angeles Wednesday night, keeping the Dodgers a game back of the West-leading San Francisco Giants, who lost 4-2 to Cincinnati. And he did it a day ahead of schedule.

Manager Preston Gomez moved Roberts up a day in his pitching rotation so that his ace lefty will be able to pitch twice in the six games the Padres have left with the Giants.

Roberts' record is only 13-15 but it's with a club that has a 56-93 mark—and his 1.92 earned run average is second only to New York's Tom Seaver among NL starters.

While the West race remained unchanged, Pittsburgh took a big step toward the East flag by beating St. Louis 4-1 and opening up an 8 1/2-game bulge over the second-place Cardinals.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago swept the New York Mets 6-2 and 3-2, Atlanta topped Houston 4-2 and Montreal edged Philadelphia 1-0.

"It's no disgrace losing to a guy like him," Los Angeles Manager Walt Alston said after Roberts scattered eight hits and pitched out of a bases loaded jam in the third inning to snap the Dodgers' winning streak at eight games.

The Padres, beating the Dodgers for only the fourth time in 17 meetings, took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Leron Lee and Larry Stahl singled and Lee scored when pitcher Don Sutton threw wild after fielding a bunt.

Stahl homered in the sixth after the Dodgers had tied it in the second on Sutton's RBI infield single.

Pete Rose's run-scoring triple and Lee May's RBI single in the fifth snapped a 1-1 tie and sent the Giants to their third straight loss and 10th in 11 games. The Reds' Jim McGlothlin held the stumbling Giants to six hits, including homers by Willie McCovey and Dick Dietz.

Pittsburgh's Dock Ellis, pitching for the first time in two weeks because of elbow trouble, worked seven innings to run his record to 19-7. Most of his offensive help came in the fourth on Dave Cash's RBI single and Al Oliver's two-run homer.

Ted Simmons homered for St. Louis, which lost for the third time in four games while the Pirates were winning for the ninth time in 11.

Bill Hands pitched a five-hitter and drove in two runs as the Cubs beat the Mets in the opener. Then Burt Hooton yielded only three hits—none for 6 2-3 innings, and Billy Williams hit a ninth-inning homer as Chicago completed the sweep.

Hank Aaron's 14th homer in the last 24 games—his 44th of the season and 636th of his career—and Phil Niekro's four-hit pitching highlighted Atlanta's victory over Houston.

Montreal's victory came on the four-hit pitching of Ernie McAnally and Bobby Wine's sacrifice fly following a three-base error by Philadelphia second baseman Denny Doyle in the eighth inning. The Phillies' Woody Fryman pitched a six-hitter.

Trevino Said Not Strong Yet

By PAUL LeBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lee Trevino was on the sidelines for the morning rounds, but America's non-playing captain Jay Hebert remained confident as biennial Ryder Cup golf matches began today over Old Warson Country Club's 7,272-yard course.

"He's not that strong right now," the 48-year-old Hebert explained in omitting Trevino from the U. S. lineup against Britain's best. Trevino last month underwent an appendectomy.

"He tries to pretend he is," Hebert added in reference to Trevino, who this year made a whirlwind sweep of U. S., Canadian and British Open titles but has since played only sporadically.

"I think if we needed him badly enough he could play the opening round. We've got three days to play, however, and I imagine he'll see enough action."

Those selected to represent the United States during four morning Scotch foursome matches against the British included Billy Casper, paired with Miller Barber; Arnold Palmer, whose partner is Gardner Dickinson; and Jack Nicklaus, paired with Dave Stockton.

The other U. S. twosome consisted of Masters champion Charles Coody, who was to match alternate shots with Frank Beard against Britain's Maurice Bembridge and Peter Butler.

Casper and the meticulous Barber were to lead off against British veterans Christy O'Connor, making his ninth Cup appearance, and Neil Coles, in his sixth biennial test.

Two British youngsters, Peter Townsend and Peter Costerhus, were aligned against Palmer and Dickinson in the second match. Pitted against Nicklaus, whose earnings for the year exceed $207,000, and Stockton were former U. S. and British Open champion Tony Jacklin and 34-year-old Brian

Kicking Can Mean Difference

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Wake Forest coach Cal Stoll says kicking often means the difference between victory and defeat in college football, and he cites last weekend's games as examples.

"Georgia Tech's kicking game gave up 16 or 17 points with a punt return, a blocked kick and a bad snap on a punt, and South Carolina won, 24-7."

"Duke beat Florida, 12-6, on four field goals. And their punter averaged over 44 yards a kick."

"Kent State beat North Carolina State on a field goal."

"And Maryland set up a touchdown on a punt return."

Stoll had his Deacons working on the kicking game Wednesday as they prepared to meet Virginia Tech at Blacksburg, Va., Saturday.

Stoll said Wake's kicking game was weak last week, but he plans to try for improvements before Saturday.

Elsewhere in the Atlantic Coast Conference Wednesday, the Clemson team picked up its pace with a heavy contact workout. Clemson faces Georgia Saturday.

North Carolina coach Bill Dooley bemoaned the coming game with Illinois as his Tar Heels had several busted assignments and missed plays.

"They cause confusion with their many different formations," Dooley said. "This is what happened to us today. We must react better Saturday than we did this afternoon in practice."

The North Carolina State defensive unit worked on its passing game. The defensive unit concentrated on stopping the power attack that Maryland is expected to run.

Coach Don Lawrence, whose Virginia Cavaliers face No. 4 ranked Michigan, said, "It's a real homer for us to be playing them at their place."

He put his offense and defense through tough workouts.

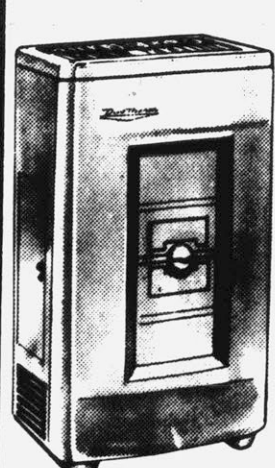

Duke Coach Mike McGee sent his charges through a long afternoon workout in preparation for Saturday's home meeting with South Carolina in Wallace Wade Stadium.

Special Unit New Recruiting Office To Protect Prisoners For Air Force, Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of bloody prison outbreaks at Attica and San Quentin the Justice Department has quietly set up a special unit to protect the civil rights of prison inmates.

Two cases already have been filed charging racial discrimination in the Mississippi State Prison at Parchman and the county jail in Kansas City, Kans., and officials say more may be coming.

"We are going to stress prison reform more than we have in the past," said Jesse H. Queen, 48, director of the new Justice Department unit.

Queen said creation of the new section was not linked to the uprising at the state prison at Attica, N.Y., where 42 men died, or the controversy at San Quentin Prison in California, where six were killed last month.

However, the order setting up the new unit in the Civil Rights Division was signed the same day the Attica rebellion began last week. Queen's group began operations Wednesday.

Queen said no investigation by his unit is under way in either the Attica or the San Quentin disturbances, but he did not rule out future action if the Justice Department should receive a complaint of civil rights violations.

Queen's unit has been named the Office of Institutions and Facilities. It will enforce the civil rights of inmates in other facilities, such as mental hospitals, as well as prisons.

Stumped By 2nd Slaying

SYLVA, N.C. (AP) — Authorities say they are stumped by the second slaying of a young woman in the North Carolina mountains in the last 15 months.

The fully clothed body of Miss June Love Barker, 22, a home economics teacher, was found 44 feet down a bank beside N.C. 107 Tuesday by a passerby who had spotted blood and stopped to investigate. She had been shot with a shotgun. The body was found 16 miles from Sylva.

Miss Barker had been teaching at the Sylva-Webster High School in Sylva since her graduation from Western Carolina University last year.

She had left her home at Tuckaseegee Monday night. Her car was found abandoned just before midnight Monday six miles from where her body was found.

Tuckaseegee is eight miles south of Sylva.

One June 19, 1970, VISTA worker Nancy Morgan of Baton Rouge, La., was found tied and strangled in her car in Madison County, less than 50 miles from Jackson County where the Barker slaying occurred. Miss Morgan's slayer has not been found.

Extra 60 Days For Escape Try

GREENSBORO (AP) — A man who bolted from a North Carolina District Court Tuesday after being sentenced to six months in prison got only two blocks before he was tackled by a police officer. For the escape try he got an additional 60-day term to run concurrently with the earlier sentence for larceny.

Police said Adams Summer, 21, of Greensboro broke away from Deputy Sheriff Tom Shreve, then ran from City Hall and headed downtown.

Police said he made it as far as the midtown square before officer B. N. Turman stationed himself in the middle of the street ahead of him and tackled him.

Nepal Prepares For A Slaughter

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — This Himalayan Hindu kingdom is swapping 16½ tons of chili spice and wheat flour to Communist China for 10,000 goats and sheep to slaughter in honor of its gods, an official spokesman said Wednesday.

The animals will be slaughtered in temples on the final day of the current 10-day Dussehra festival, Nepal's main celebration, which symbolizes the gods' ultimate victory over evil. The animals represent evil.

Canoe birch trees also are known as "ladies of the woods."

A military merger took place in Greenville yesterday with the grand opening of the new combined Air Force and Army Recruiting Office, which opened its doors at 323 South Evans Street.

Civilian and military dignitaries joined forces in a traditional ribbon cutting ceremony officially opening the modern facility which will take the place of the two separate facilities formerly serving the two branches in Greenville.

City Manager Harry R. Hagerty, retired Colonel, U. S. Army, performed the ribbon cutting. Others in the official inaugural party included Major

General John A. Lang, Jr., U.S. Air Force Reserve, currently a vice president at East Carolina University; Colonel John D. Duffus, Professor of Aerospace Studies at ECU; Bill P. Miller, State Probation Officer; Major James C. Carter, U. S. Army Main Recruiting Station, Raleigh; Colonel John D. Duffus, USAF; and Master Sergeant Frank Peterson, Goldsboro Sector Supervisor.

According to Technical Sergeant Leavy Brock, Greenville Air Force Recruiter, "The move is part of the Air Force and Army's modernization designed to meet the new demands for an all volunteer force. Both the Air Force and the Army have increased their manpower requirements in this area."

T-Sgt. Brock is the sole Air Force recruiter now assigned to the Air Force Section of the combined recruiting office. An additional Air Force man is scheduled to be assigned to the office shortly.

The Army section of the combined office consists of Sergeant First Class Jim E. Moore, Station Commander; Sergeant First Class Gordon Heckman, Area Supervisor of the Greenville area; Staff Sergeant George Washington, recruiter; and Sergeant Cathy Kelly, Women's Army Corps Counselor for the Greenville zone. The Army contingent is to be increased by the arrival of three additional recruiter personnel in the near future.

The combined Greenville Recruiting Office will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily Monday through Friday and from 8:00 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Interested persons are invited to visit the new facility.

After January 1, 1972, all motorboats in Texas must be registered with the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Merger Project Is Shaping Up

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Agreement in principle has been reached on a proposed merger of a subsidiary of the Hanes Corp. and the Bali Co., Inc.

Officials of Bali, a lingerie manufacturer, and Hanes, a textile firm specializing in men's underwear and women's hosiery, announced the agreement Wednesday.

Hardee Elected Fraternity Pres.

DURHAM — David W. Hardee, son of Mrs. Anne Lee Hardee of 210 Longmeadow Rd., Greenville, has recently been elected president of Phi Delta Phi Legal Fraternity at the School of Law of Duke University here.

As president, Hardee represented his chapter at the Biennial Convention held in Toronto, Canada, last month.

A 1965 graduate of Rose High School, Hardee graduated from Washington and Lee University in 1969 where he received a B.S. degree with special attainments in commerce.

While attending Duke Law School, Hardee was contributed to the "Duke Law Journal" and has served as research assistant to Dean E. R. Latty. Last spring he won the Dean's Cup Moot Court Competition for oral excellency, arguing in the final round before the Honorable J. Clement Haynsworth, the Honorable Braxton Craven and the Honorable Harrison Winter, all judges of the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Hardee has also served as a governor of the Duke Bar Association, as a member of the Moot Court Board, and as moot court advisor to Professor William Van Alstyne.

For the past two years he has served on the Dean of Men's Staff as a housemaster and resident fellow in the Duke Residence Halls.

He will receive a J.D. degree from Duke University School of Law in May, 1972.

Rocky Openings On TV By Big-Name Film Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — A trio of new series were dropped into the network channels Wednesday night. None seems destined to make history and at least one of the several big-name film stars moving from large to small screen may find the transition much tougher than anticipated.

Police Lt. Columbo, played by Peter Falk in one of the three rotating series that make up NBC's "Mystery Movie," has appeared already in a couple of the network's "World Premiere" features. "Columbo's" gimmick is to permit the viewers to see the crime committed, know the identity of the culprit and then watch the superleuth move in for the solution.

Falk's cigar-chomping, rumpled detective apparently uses a grubby raincoat for a security blanket, wearing it even when whipping up an omelet for a bereaved widow.

Will Speak To Demo Women

GREENSBORO (AP) — John V. Tunney, U.S. Senator from California, and Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York, are scheduled to speak at the 11th annual convention of the Democratic Women of North Carolina Oct. 1-2.

Mrs. Chisholm, the first black woman elected to Congress, will speak at a noon luncheon, Oct. 2 during the convention in Greensboro.

Tunney will speak at a banquet at 7 p.m., Oct. 1. He will be introduced by Gov. Robert Scott.

Mrs. Margaret Harper of Southport, president of the Democratic Women, will preside at the convention.

In the premiere, one member of a mystery writing team, faced with the breakup of their collaboration, has followed a careful plan to murder his partner.

It was a well-produced, generally entertaining 90 minutes. Another diamond-in-the-rough zero making his series bow was Anthony Quinn, playing the Chicanos mayor of a large city in the Southwest. ABC's "The Man and the City" focuses on an overworked, dedicated official willing to drop his regular shores any time his emotions are aroused by a human dilemma.

In the opening program, he became involved in the case of a leafy couple about to lose custody of the normal boy they want to adopt. In an improbable courtroom scene, the mayor made an impromptu appeal that persuaded the authorities to withdraw their objections.

In spite of the attempts to tug at the viewers' hearts, the show seemed artificial, the characters wooden and the dialogue preachy.

Shirley MacLaine of ABC's "Shirley's World" plays a photographer-reporter in a half-hour comedy-adventure series.

The first episode, shot in London, had Shirley assigned to interview a reluctant old party holed up in his club. Our American girl, innocent of British tradition, crashed the men-only stronghold with predictable results. By pluck, imagination and a completely uninspired story line, she got her story.

It was a dismal start. None of Miss MacLaine's talents for comedy was tapped. Not even the sound track or the lighting, was particularly good.

Body Found

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — Pamlico County Sheriff Leyland Brinson said Wednesday a commercial fishing vessel had found the body of a Raleigh man in Pamlico Sound.

Brinson said the man was identified as Norman Thomas, who had been missing since Sunday when a sailboat occupied by him and three other men was caught in a sudden storm. The others reached shore safely.

Celebrate 75th Anniversary

ENTERPRISE, Kan. (AP) — "Always listen to the boss," says 102-year-old Charles Reuter. "I won't quarrel with him," says his 97-year-old wife, Mary.

The formula apparently works because today the Reuters celebrate their 75th wedding anniversary. They were married Sept. 16, 1896 near Sioux City, Iowa. They moved to Enterprise in 1904.

The Reuters' two-story frame farmhouse five miles east of Abilene will be the site of the celebration attended by several of the couple's offspring that include a daughter, two sons, three grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

The Worry Clinic 'Advantages' A Disadvantage

Dr. Jay got some sound psychological advice from the local real estate salesman. Remember, it is often a serious disadvantage to start out in childhood with too many advantages. Money management is the blind spot of our educational system. Never offer children a cash "allowance!"

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Case R-564: Dr. Jay is a young Chicago dentist. Because he had a wife and baby, he decided he'd prefer to live in a smaller city. So he selected a town of 25,000 that was also the location of a branch of the state university. "Here's a good house for you," the local real estate salesman began.

"But it is too large," protested Dr. Jay, "for we'd hardly need more than the downstairs."

"Well," replied the salesman, "there is a housing shortage for college students."

"So you could easily rent out the 4 upstairs bedrooms and get enough from them to meet your entire monthly payments on the house."

"But if you do so, don't rent to the children of wealthy parents!"

"Be sure your tenants come from middle class homes!"

"For they are more responsible than the wealthy kids."

"The latter seem to have no sense of property rights or the value of furniture and fixtures."

"We've heard so many complaints about the sons and daughters of wealthy parents that we now warn property holders accordingly!"

$$$$$ Vs. Sense

Alas, it is a serious disadvantage to grow up with too many advantages!

Wise use of money, plus respect for private property, must be taught to each crop of children, just like music and mathematics.

"There is no royal road to learning!" is the ancient axiom showing that the prince as well as the pauper must diligently acquire knowledge by his own efforts.

For you don't inherit musical or mathematical talent nor the technique of wise money management!

Yet many affluent parents seem to think their youngsters will automatically be deft at handling business or financial problems, just because their daddy was a successful tycoon.

afresh the value of money. This is best acquired via sweat and toil, including calluses on one's palms!

Children of middle and even lower class homes usually have had to work and thus have been impressed with a sense of money values.

Thus, they are less likely to wantonly smash furniture or indulge in rank vandalism, just for kicks! Nor squander cash on liquor and drugs!

So send for my booklet "20 Ways to Earn Spending Money," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

However, such parents realize their kiddies must learn to play the piano or violin by the same, slow, laborious methods of all other children.

So don't make the sad mistake of thinking $$$$$ supplant "horse sense."

Instead, let your children earn their own spending money! Don't offer them a free "allowance," for this promotes the psychology of the dole.

John D. Rockefeller, Senior, thus paid his offspring 15 cents per hour for music practice.

Plus similar rates for chopping wood and household chores.

Yet Mr. Rockefeller was a multi-millionaire.

But he realized the acquired financial skill of a parent cannot be inherited!

Each generation must learn

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♣ Dble. 1 ♥ 2 ♠
Pass 3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠
Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Today's hand produced a standoff when it was dealt in a recent team-of-four contest. The play varied at each table because one defender was more resourceful than the other in anticipating declarer's plan of campaign, but the latter managed to come up with the right answer by merely staying one step ahead of his opponent.

The final contract at both tables was four spades on an identical bidding sequence with South as the declarer. The opening lead was the king of clubs on which East dropped the ten, followed by the ace on which East discarded the three of hearts. West now shifted to a spade and dummy played the ace. Both declarers were convinced from East's discouraging signal in hearts as well as by West's opening bid, that the latter probably held the king of that suit. The only legitimate chance for making the contract appeared to be a stripping operation with the intention of eventually throwing West in to lead a heart away from the king.

Six rounds of trumps were led on which North discarded the seven of clubs and the five of diamonds. At one table, West threw his three small clubs, the eight of diamonds and the four of hearts producing this position:

South now cashed the king of diamonds and then led over to dummy's ace. The jack of clubs was played on which declarer discarded his remaining diamond as West went in with the queen of clubs. The seven of hearts was returned and the queen was put up from the North hand. When this held, declarer was home, having lost three club tricks.

At the other table, West began anticipating the end position well in advance. As the trumps were run, he also gave up his three small clubs, but his remaining discards were the four and seven of hearts. This sequence gave declarer some pause. He proceeded to play the king and ace of diamonds on which West followed with the eight and nine. Of his three remaining cards, South was certain that his opponent had the queen of clubs and the king of hearts (or else East would have given a come-on in hearts at trick two when he showed out of clubs). Was West's remaining card, then, a diamond or a heart?

South finally decided that if West had started with six clubs and four hearts (two diamonds and one spade) originally, he might well have bid three hearts competitively over South's call of two spades. On this basis, it appeared more likely that he started with three hearts and three diamonds, in which case the king of hearts was now blank. Declarer accordingly led the deuce of hearts from dummy and put up the ace. When the king dropped, North's queen of hearts took the fulfilling trick. The result on the deal was a stand off.
