

Commission OKs Future Building Plans For ECU

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer

Long-range university plans to build a new Student Union Building and to extend the library had another of the many required steps completed Wednesday night with recommended approval by the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission for the abandonment of portions of certain streets adjoining the university.

October with a public hearing most likely scheduled for November.

The city manager noted that satisfactory arrangements must be worked out between the university and the Greenville Utilities Commission for certain by-passes and modifications to existing utility distribution system facilities in the area of the streets recommended for abandonment.

A final plat of the development of property east of South Evans Street and north of Greenville Boulevard, known as the Greenville-American Land Company (G.A.L.C.) was approved by commissioners after hearing the plans presented by Phillip Carroll.

Approval was given to the revised plans for a proposed apartment complex to be erected north of Eastwood Subdivision. The current plan call for construction of 180 apartments in an 18 acre area adjacent to Eastwood. City Engineer C. A. Holliday informed commissioners that street widths, storm drainage and other factors were all in keeping with city requirements.

The 18 acre site adjacent to Eastwood is part of a 60 acre area east of U.S. 264 by-pass originally slated for a shopping center area, with later action rezoning the 18 acre section.

A request for rezoning of Greenfield Terrace plus an additional area immediately west of Greenfield from R-6 residential to R-9 residential was recommended for approval. The additional area, outside the city limits, is now zoned for industrial use, but has one house already constructed and another under construction.

Another proposed apartment complex, that to be known as King's Row, saw revised plans approved by the commission. The revised plans will increase street widths from 20 to 36 feet back-to-back with all parking requirements to be met. The site involved is on the north side of 10th Street west of the Ford company. As planned, it will consist of 108 units.

A petition for the abandonment of a street was considered and recommended for approval by the City Council. E. B. Aycock Jr. representing the Greenville Tobacco Company, petitioned for the withdrawal from dedication a portion of Eleventh Street in the vicinity of Clark Street.

It was pointed out this portion of Eleventh Street has never been developed or opened to the public. The petition referred to abandonment action of this street in 1952.

Arrest 2 More For Bombings

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer

Arrests in connection with various bombing incidents in the county since late August now stand at 12 following the apprehension of two more persons. According to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, officers arrested Jerry Edward Bizzell, 20 of Rt. 2, Grifton on charges stemming from bombing incidents at the Lutz and Schramm pickle plant in Ayden and at a highway bridge on N.C. 102.

Charged with bombing the Chicod Elementary School on Sept. 2 are Curtis Thigpen; William Thigpen; Meldon Leon Barrett, 19 of Rt. 2, Ayden; and Donald Smith.

The sheriff noted that Smith and the 15-year-old juvenile have been specifically charged with the bombing of an occupied building in connection with the Ayden-Grifton High School blast on Sept. 8.

Eight others, he said, have been charged with aiding and abetting and transporting of the bomb following investigation of the school incident. They are Ricky Lee Dixon, 17 of Rt. 1, Ayden; Bill Bright, 18 of Rt. 2, Grifton; Henry Earl Bullock, 16 of Greenville; Curtis Thigpen; Marvin Brown, 17 of Rt. 2, Ayden; Meldon Barrett; Johnnie Mike Barrow, 18 of Rt. 1, Grifton; and a 14-year-old juvenile.

Investigation of the bombing of the Swift Creek Bridge on rural paved road 1753 on Aug. 28 resulted in charges against Curtis Thigpen, William Thigpen, Meldon Barrett and Marvin Brown, the Sheriff stated.

In addition, the Sheriff's Department also arrested a 14-year-old Rt. 1, Winterville girl on charges of making a false report concerning a destructive device following investigation of a bomb threat at Ayden Junior High School on Sept. 14.

Sheriff Tyson said that hearings for those charged in connection with the bombings have been scheduled for Oct. 5.

Senator Charges Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern charged today that rioters who hurled firebombs and stones at him in Saigon last week were hired by the government of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

McGovern's charge was contained in a statement prepared for a Washington news conference to discuss his 10-day trip to Paris, Saigon and Tokyo.

In Saigon, there was no comment immediately by Thieu's government. However, the day after the incident, Saigon's mayor said the demonstrators were mostly members of the Peoples Self-Defense Force, a government-organized neighborhood militia. Saigon's police chief claimed that Viet Cong agents were at the meeting McGovern attended.

The South Dakota senator, the only declared candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, also said the U.S. Army in South Vietnam is "inflicted by a mounting tide of boredom, disgust, antiwar sentiment, racism and drug addiction."

McGovern's charge was contained in a statement prepared for a Washington news conference to discuss his 10-day trip to Paris, Saigon and Tokyo.

Medina Will Leave Army

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Capt. Ernest L. Medina, acquitted of My Lai massacre charges, says he has no bitterness toward the Army but still plans to leave it.

The 35-year-old career officer who commanded a U.S. company which swept through My Lai on March 16, 1968, was acquitted Wednesday of murder, involuntary manslaughter and assault after a court-martial jury of five Vietnam veterans deliberated an hour.

"It is my duty as president of this court to advise you that the court in closed session and upon secret ballot has found you not guilty of all specifications and charges," Proctor told Medina, who stood at attention.

The trim, black-haired Medina appeared stunned by the verdict. He saluted again and then looked toward his sobbing wife Barbara, who had sat on the front row each day since the trial began Aug. 15.

"I am extremely happy," Medina said later, his usually expressionless face broken by a wide grin. "I have always had complete faith in the military and the military justice system. I always felt I'd be found innocent."

Medina, who joined the National Guard when he was 15 and has been an officer for seven years, said he still plans to resign from the army.

Asked if he felt any bitterness toward the Army, he replied, "None whatsoever." During the trial, Medina testified in his own behalf and maintained that he was not aware of atrocities at the time of the massacre.

"Reflecting back now, I know I lost control because there were noncombatants killed by my company," he testified. "If I had been aware of it that day, I would have stopped it."

The jury also said it was convinced Medina was not aware of civilian deaths.

Col. Robert E. Nelson, one of the jurors, said the verdict does not signify that the jury believes no war crimes were committed at My Lai.

"In the case of Capt. Medina, the jury was convinced he did not commit war crimes."

Senate's Pentagon Critics Back Off From New Fight

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In sharp contrast to the past two years, the Senate's Pentagon critics have decided on a limited, almost token challenge to the $21 billion bill authorizing funds for military hardware and research.

As a result, barring a long fight over the new version of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment to set a date for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, the debate will be considerably shorter than those of recent years, improving prospects for early congressional adjournment in November.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who is organizing the drive to cut the bill, predicted in an interview the bill could be acted on within three weeks. It took twice as long a year ago, and eight weeks in 1969.

The new mood became evident Wednesday, the first full day of debate on the bill, when Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., agreed to a voice vote, rather than a roll-call tally, after just three hours of debate on an amendment to cut $339 million of the $370 million in the bill for the B1 advanced bomber.

"We made a head count and it showed we didn't have the votes," McGovern said. "I just don't see the point of going through a lengthy exercise."

Similarly, there are indications that two bitter unsuccessful efforts to stop the Safeguard missile defense system have taken their toll and that this year, only a limited effort will be made to slow antiballistic missile (ABM) defense deployment. Time limits will be accepted on most amendments, Proxmire said.

Those close to the military procurement debate say many senators feel another lengthy debate on the military procurement bill would be futile, noting that in the past major efforts to trim the Pentagon budget have been beaten.

In addition, the Armed Services Committee is giving increasingly strict scrutiny to Pentagon requests, limiting some major projects and echoing the call by critics for economy in defense spending.

Nixon's Tax Program In New Economic Plans Revised By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax portion of President Nixon's new economic program has won the crucial approval of the House Ways and Means Committee — but in sharply revised form that gives business less and individuals more short-range tax relief.

By rough preliminary estimates, the Democratic-controlled committee's decisions would mean about $4.9 billion less in tax breaks over a three-year span for business and about $3.4 billion more for individuals than Nixon recommended.

In the long run, the business relief could increase somewhat.

There is at least a little income tax relief for all individuals in the package approved by the committee Wednesday and scheduled to be voted on by the House about Oct. 6. It would begin showing up in the returns due next April.

Much more relief proportionately would go to low-income taxpayers, those at poverty levels or close to them.

For business, the package includes an investment credit allowing 7 per cent of the cost of equipment to be charged off against taxes and special help for exporters. But the committee would take back part of the gains for business by trimming the special depreciation advantages the Treasury already had put in effect without new legislation.

The 7 per cent excise tax on automobiles and 10 per cent excise tax on light trucks also would be repealed under the bill.

Bloodmobile Given 447 Units; 560 People Came

Citizens of Greenville and Pitt County met the challenge for blood donations in full measure Tuesday and Wednesday when a record total of 447 units of blood were donated to the American Red Cross Pitt County Bloodmobile.

"It seems like everybody we contacted or asked seemed willing to help," Mayo Allen, governor of the Greenville Moose Lodge and one of the three persons coordinating the big drive for a record turn-out, commented. "For some reason everybody was willing to step forward."

Lacy Harrell headed the special booster drive for the Lodge sponsored two day collection effort, and was assisted by Leon Smith Jr. and Allen.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive Director of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, reported 560 donors showed up during the two days. "We also had 21 people who could not be considered for donations for different reasons, some because they did not meet the 110 pound weight minimum, others because eight weeks had not elapsed since their last donation of blood."

Allen remarked it was "most encouraging that many donors gave for the first time, including a large number of young people. It's really good, the spirit shown by our citizens at a time like this."

Mrs. Taylor noted that yet another Pitt County citizen, Christy Wylie of Ayden, completed the eight gallon or 64 unit contribution mark yesterday. From the scoreboard kept at the Moose Lodge, the composition of the number of employees from various Greenville and Pitt County firms, agencies, and organizations show Burrough Wellcome leading in a total of 84 employees reporting in. Other figures are: Moose Lodge 53, Pitt Memorial Hospital 38, East Carolina University 28, Greenville Utilities Commission and Greenville Nursing Center (ECF), 25 each. Pitt Tech Student Nurses 24, Fieldcrest Mills 22, Cox Armature Works and N.C. State Highway Commission, 16 each, Union Carbide 15, Wachovia Bank 14, Worsley-Dupont, 11 each, and Department of Social Services, 8.

Other firms, organizations and agencies represented and the total of employees signing in at the Moose Lodge are: Seven each — Pitt County Courthouse, Winterville Machine Works, The Daily Reflector, and the American Red Cross. Five each — The Post office, Heilig-Myers Company, and Carolina Sales Corporation. Four each — Peaden Tire Service and Greenville Police Department. Three each — WNCT Radio, Lion's Club, N. C. Highway Patrol, Greenville Granite Marble Company, Home Credit, the I.C.T. of Rose High School, King's Department Store, ABC Moving and Storage, and the National Guard. Two each — Empire Brush Company, Glendale Court Apartments, Garner-Wynn-Manning, Durham Life Insurance Company, the Pizza Hut, E. F. Craven Company, the Book Barn, Greenville Jaycees.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hugo L. Black's condition weakened today and he was placed on the "very serious" list at the Bethesda Naval Hospital.

An official statement said the prognosis for the 85-year-old former Supreme Court justice was poor.

Black entered Bethesda Aug. 28 with what his office described on Sept. 15 as "an inflammatory condition of the blood vessels." He retired from the court Sept. 17.

The new hospital statement said Black's condition worsened Sunday when he suffered a fairly severe stroke.

Christmas Seal Campaign Begun

The initial stage of the 1971 Christmas Seal campaign of the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association is now underway.

This year, Dr. Bruce E. Whitaker, president of Chowan College in Murfreesboro, has been named chairman of the annual campaign. Miss Carolyn Fulghum, president of the Eastern Association, said Dr. Whitaker will take over his duties immediately to prepare for the campaign.

As president of Chowan College, Dr. Whitaker has promoted the growth and development of the college and of eastern North Carolina by his interest in college youth. He has served as president of the North Carolina Conference for Social Services; president, Association of Eastern North Carolina Colleges; member of the N.C. State Board of Mental Health; director of N. C. Family Life Council; and member of the National Council on Family Relations, among a long list of public services. A past "Tar Heel of the Week," Dr. Whitaker says the annual Christmas Seal Campaign is now underway.

AYDEN — One hundred and fifty-four cases stemming from recent protests here were docketed for trial today in district court here.

Hearing of the cases, including parading without permits and violation of curfew charges, were set to begin afternoon today.

There were no incidents reported last night as town officials again imposed a curfew in an effort to quiet the unrest in the community.

The curfew came after 33 persons were arrested shortly after midnight Wednesday for parading without a permit.

Hearing On Cotanche, Charles Sts. On Oct. 21

The North Carolina Highway Commission will hold a public hearing on the improvements of Cotanche and Charles Streets Thursday, Oct. 21, at 2 p.m.

The hearing, scheduled to be held in the municipal building in Greenville, will be for the proposed design of the widening of Cotanche Street between 10th and 11th Streets, a relocation from Cotanche Street to Charles Street between 11th and 12th Streets and the widening of Charles Street from 12th Street to the U.S. 264 bypass.

According to Area Highway Commissioner W. Arthur Tripp, the street will be widened to a 64-foot face-to-face of curb section.

The right of way will be variable to contain the construction. The existing right of way from Sanford Drive to U.S. 264 bypass is sufficient for the proposed roadway.

A set of plans setting forth the proposed project is available for public review at the N.C. Highway Commission division office here.

The hearing will consist of an explanation of the project, right of way requirements and procedures and relocation advisory assistance. The hearing will be opened to those present for any questions, statements or comments. R. W. McGowan, assistant chief engineer, preconstruction, will head the hearing.

Tripp said the Highway Commission recently entered into contract with Norfolk-Southern Railway to raise the railroad bridge over Charles Street beyond the 14th Street intersection.

Three-Time Widow Thinks She's A Jinx

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 57-year-old man who is absolutely crazy, mad, wild and dizzy over a 55-year-old widow who makes me feel like a teen-ager!

This woman is beautiful, warm, responsive, intelligent, and she says she loves me as much as I love her. So what's the problem? She won't marry me!

Her reason: She has buried three husbands, and she says she is a "jinx" to a man. She says she will continue to date me, she will travel with me, and she will even "play house" with me, but she won't marry me or anybody else as long as she lives because she cannot go thru burying another husband. Abby, I am in perfect health, and I am not planning on dying.

So what advice have you for a man who wants a wife and not a mistress?
—WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: Keep walking.

DEAR ABBY: This problem concerns my wife. She thinks it is against the Bible to have sex in the day time. And it has got to be real dark or it's no go.

Another thing, when she goes outside, no matter what the weather is like she buttons herself up and always has a coat on. I am losing patience with this woman. Can you help me?
—HAD IT IN THE SOONER STATE

DEAR HAD IT: Ask your wife to show you where in the Bible it says sex is forbidden in the day time. And since she's religious, maybe your clergyman can talk to her. And it wouldn't hurt to have the doctor check her over, too.

DEAR ABBY: The many letters you print from widows who complain that they are lonely, neglected and forgotten, prompts me to write.

I lost my husband nearly a year ago. We had been married for 35 years, and, Abby, there are not enough hours in the day to do all the things I'd like to do. Since his death [he had been ill for two years] I have returned to church activities, volunteer work and keep busy with lectures, art, antiques and helping others.

I invite my friends in for dinner, and I'm not hung up on having a balanced table with an equal number of men and women. I am more concerned with good companionship and conversation. I'm not looking for dates, but if I were, I'm sure that wouldn't be a problem.

I am not saying I never have moments of loneliness. I have. But no widow has to be chronically lonely if she makes an effort to keep busy and active instead of sitting home and expecting others to invite her out.
—NO TIME FOR LONELINESS

DEAR NO TIME: Not every widow has your get up and go, but thank you for an inspiring letter.

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for the 14-year-old adopted girl who wrote the letter exploding the myth about the "other" mother.

Too many bad movies, tearful novels and hysterical TV shows have depicted the adopted child as traumatically disappearing into the foggy night to search for his or her "real" mother.

Baloney!
I, too, was adopted—over 40 years ago when I was an infant. My "real" parents were those two wonderful people who gave me their name, their home, their loving care and their discipline. That they were not my biological parents mattered not one bit.

An adopted child with loving parents has no "other" mother.

She Wins Honors In Accountants Field

TORONTO (AP) — Rayanne Niven says a feminist banner appears to come with what she's doing, but she doesn't really want to run out and march with it.

Miss Niven, 22, has won the intermediate medal of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario. With one year left to go before she is a CA, she has topped a field of several hundred students.

A spokesman for the institute says he believes it is the first time a girl has taken top honors. He says there are about 8,500 chartered accountants in Ontario, about 85 of them women.

Miss Niven is from Niagara-on-the-lake, Ont. She graduated from the University of Waterloo with a bachelor of mathematics degree, in computer science.

She says her decision to become a CA was made quickly after talking it over with people in the field.

"I can't really say that people tried to discourage me, although they said it might be difficult. It's been a man's field for a long time, like the legal profession."

She says what she is doing while she studies with Deloitte, Haskins and Sells is basically auditing.

"People are surprised when they meet me, that's the initial reaction."

She says the surprise soon fades, but the surprise, comments and questions have made her conscious of feminism.

"The banner kind of comes with it. But for women I know who are entering professions, it's a job and we're going to do the best we can. I think that's the only way to be accepted. I don't think marching can help."

"Someone my age has difficulty evaluating the situation. We seem to be in the last half of the transition. I don't think things are perfect, but I think the worst is over."

Miss Niven says she wants to keep working whether she marries or not.

"By the time you put in four years in university and three years more study, you've invested a lot of time."

Eric Slaughter Gives Garden Club Program

The Dig 'n' Delve Garden Club held their first meeting of the fall at the home of Mrs. Joe Murad. Eric Slaughter was guest speaker and explained to the club the plans for flood control of the Green Mill Run.

The proposed methods the Corp of Engineers plan to use, the probable cost to the city, and the ways the citizens of Greenville could help beautify this project with parks and gardens were explained.

Mrs. Jack Edwards presided at the business meeting which followed. Mrs. Al Weimer's project committee was commended for their work during the summer on the beautification of a plot of ground in front of Elm Street Gym.

Money-raising projects were discussed in order that the club could continue to maintain this plot.

Mrs. Jean Dilly was a guest and joined the members for refreshments served by Mrs. Murad and co-hostess, Mrs. Roger Mann.

Hot Pants Knock Time Watcher Cold

"I was just trying to see the time," he explained to the doctor who brought him to. The watch, it turned out, was pinned onto the back of a pair of hot pants being worn by a former Miss Tyrell beauty queen. "It's all the fad to have the time on you," she explained.

Must Restrain Actions Of Few

The city board of education and city officials have made a good move in deciding to continue playing football games at night as they are presently scheduled.

The board was optimistic that the games could be continued after hearing a letter from Mayor S. Eugene West.

"It is my opinion that the game should be played as scheduled," Mayor West said. "I do not feel that we can let a minority, whether they be juveniles or adults, create incidents of damage and possible injury to the majority of our people, and through their efforts of violence and destruction cause this game or our athletic program to be cancelled.

The mayor was replying to an inquiry from school officials about the next scheduled football games, following some problems at a previous home game.

Mayor West continued, "Should this game be played as scheduled, I have instructed, through the city manager, that our police be prepared and that they take any action necessary to see that the health, safety and welfare of all our citizens be protected from the small minority that might try to disrupt."

The board of education members were unanimous in favoring continuing of night football, and we think they are right.

The easy way might be to cancel the football game or change it to the afternoon. But then the little group which wants to make trouble would find some other way, and perhaps some other school or city event would have to be cancelled.

Sports events have a long tradition at Rose and Eppes High, which are now merged into one school. We believe that the young people want this tradition continued and that adults of the community will support a well rounded sports program. Football games on the high school level draw their best crowds at night, because that is when most people have the time to attend.

The actions of a few could ruin high school sports here for the student athletes and for the loyal fans who attend the games. We should not let this happen, however. It appears that the board of education and city officials are not going to let it happen.

Something To Learn Abroad

By BRYAN HAINSLIP
RALEIGH, Scotland Yard and the London barrister have something to teach North Carolina about the administration of justice.

Two members of Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan's staff will get the lessons first-hand under a foreign study program which gets launched this fall.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Sidney Eagles and SBI Agent David Beal will go to Europe to

Self Examination Process
What this amounted to, Morgan explained, was a searching self-examination of present practices and concrete suggestions for improvement.

"We will carefully review all the papers, digest the ideas they contain, and distribute them throughout the staff," he said. The result may well be adaptation of new approaches to the agency's role in criminal justice.

Aspects of criminal justice in England which impressed Morgan included speedy trial for defendants, programs for police training and education, and the experiment with a weaponless police force.

As a deterrent to crime, he noted, it may be more important that justice be swift and certain than that punishment be severe. In this country, the time between arrest and trial can drag to one or two years; in England, the period is more likely to be three or four weeks.

He found police officers in England carefully instructed in criminal law, and seldom in doubt as to limits of their authority. They also learn new and different methods of crime prevention, he said.

Police-Public Confidence
Basic to good law enforcement is a bridge of communication between police and public, the attorney general said. In England, he continued, "I was struck by the feeling that this necessary bond of confidence does exist there between police and community."

Seeing Is Learning
"I have tried to share my experience abroad with as many persons as possible for I believed the things I learned while in England to be invaluable," he said. "But to gain the full measure of benefit, a person must go and see for himself."

He drafted a program for the selection of a staff attorney and an SBI agent for exposure to the English systems. He approached foundations for funds to make the project a reality.

Support came from the Hanes Foundation of Winston-Salem and the Burlington Industries Foundation of Greensboro. The Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem also has shown interest. Total funds involved amount to some $5,000, a modest amount which Morgan feels will pay disproportionate dividends.

In fact, he said, the program is paying off even before the first recipients depart. Staff members applying for the study fellowships were required to write a paper on crime prevention, setting forth their ideas on how the state might more effectively deal with the subject. Thirteen SBI agents and 13 attorneys on the staff prepared papers.

observe and participate in the day-to-day operation of the English judicial and police systems. They leave early in October, taking their families along for a six-week stay in London.

Their departure brings to fruition an idea Morgan brought home from a trip abroad in the fall of 1970.

He traveled to England and the Scandinavian countries, observing closely their legal systems and prisons. What he saw convinced him that exchange of information and ideas could help in striving for the goal of better law enforcement and criminal justice back home in North Carolina.

North Carolina has much to gain, he added, if it can import some of the techniques and concepts which foster such confidence. Eagles, from Walstonburg, and Beal, who is stationed at Mt. Airy, were chosen by a panel including two judges, two lawyers, and a layman.

The panel members were Federal Judge Eugene Gordon of Burlington, Associate Justice Joseph Branch of the State Supreme Court, Attorney Wade Smith of Raleigh, State Sen. Tommy Strickland of Wayne, and Joe Doster, Raleigh correspondent for the Winston-Salem Journal-Sentinel.

Eagles will spend his time in the office of Lord Chancellor, the agency which administers the criminal justice system. Beal will work in the Home Office, which is responsible for law enforcement, including Scotland Yard.

They will report weekly during their stay. In addition, when they come back home they will summarize their findings and recommendations in a fuller report.

Hawkins Only Needs Money

By JOHN KILGO
While everyone seems to be talking and writing about the Big Four, Charlotte dentist Reginald A. Hawkins — a black man — is moving about the state, getting ready for the gubernatorial campaign.

"I have not definitely decided to make the race," Dr. Hawkins told me. "But I will say things look brighter than they ever have. The decision will be mine but much pressure is being put on me to run."

There will be a black candidate in the Democratic gubernatorial primary next May. And at this point, it appears that candidate will be Dr. Hawkins. He made a run at it in 1968 and picked up nearly 130,000 votes.

"I would be much stronger politically this time," Hawkins says. "There is an awareness in the black community that we need leadership at the top. Young people are registering to vote and the women will play a large part in the next campaign. Put 'em together... the blacks, the young and the women and we're now a majority."

Hawkins says he's not too impressed with the four men mentioned as gubernatorial candidates, Skipper Bowles, Pat Taylor, Bob Morgan and Hugh Morton.

"I look at that field and think I can win," he says. Hawkins says his biggest problem now is financing the campaign.

"The only thing that deters us is money," he says. "But that situation looks much brighter than it did a year ago. We're talking with state and national leaders about financing. Raising money will take a lot of sacrifices on the part of many people but I believe they are willing to make the sacrifices."

Hawkins has moved about the state in recent weeks, talking with people, speaking on college campuses, seeing where his support would come from. He says he is receiving heavy support from newly-enfranchised college voters. "By letter, by personal conversation and by my visits to the colleges," Dr. Hawkins says, "the college students are telling me they want me to run. Now I've got to look at the situation financially and from a personal standpoint and decide if I can make the race. It looks very good."

I tried to pin down Hawkins on when he would be willing to make a public announcement, one way or the other. His only reply to that was: "I'm not going to do like Hugh Morton and give you a date and then back off of it. I'll let you know in due time. Right now there's a lot of work being done by the grapevine."

Hawkins has long been a controversial figure in Charlotte politics. His 1968 race for Governor was the first time he had run for office on a state-wide basis.

"I learned a lot from that campaign," Hawkins said. "and I would be a stronger candidate in 1972. All I can tell you today is that I'm encouraged about running next year, tremendously encouraged."

Strength For Today

WAITING FOR THE GREAT DAY
During the war we heard a great deal about the underground in occupied countries. As the conqueror moved in a silent army of millions of committed men and women began cutting the ground from under his feet. The underground workers were a courageous and noble group.

An underground leader said in a lecture recently that the most amazing thing was the way in which many rather colorless people who enlisted in the service of the underground rose to majestic heights. He told of an insignificant village physician who stirred the whole of France with his insistence that the underground be more bold and that the Allies give them more assistance. He finally disappeared into a concentration camp and was never heard of again.

A great cause will make a little man a big man, an insignificant man a hero. Some of the most amazing stories of history are told of individuals living in obscurity who responded to the challenge of a great cause and became heroes. Joan of Arc was one of these. Abraham Lincoln, doing his best as a grocery clerk but thinking deep thoughts of great things, was another such. And greatest of all was the Carpenter of Nazareth who for thirty silent years did his daily work and waited for God's call.

MISSING INGREDIENT!

By J.J. KILPATRICK

Busing 'Madness' View

It has been an exercise in futility, these past 17 years, for a Southerner to raise his voice against any requirement having to do with the desegregation of public schools. He is licked before he starts. It is as if John Roche, of General Motors, were to expound an objective view of Ralph Nader.

Senator Robert C. Byrd, though he was born in North Carolina, suffers from no such bill of attainder. He was reared in the Yankee hills of West Virginia. He has devoted his life to public service in that distinctly non-Southern State. Byrd holds a rating of 65 from the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, which puts him in a class with such moderates as Mathias of Maryland and Case of New Jersey. He won his post as assistant majority leader with liberal support.

Byrd's speech of September 3 in Houston, before the national convention of Young Americans for Freedom, thus qualifies as the expression of a veteran lawmaker whose personal or political motives cannot be challenged. His devastating attack on what he terms the "madness" of compulsory busing is clear and convincing.

Simply on its merits, apart from the law, mass busing strikes the West Virginian as a "senseless" waste of money. He deplores its effect upon the cities: "When children are going to be hauled willy-nilly away from their homes and neighborhoods, it lessens the chances for improvement of the inner-city schools which are most in need of improvement."

Far from enhancing "quality education," in Byrd's view, busing tends to destroy education especially for the black children whose needs are paramount. He sees only "increasing mediocrity in education" as a consequence of the "nonsensical obsession these days with racial quotas." Byrd flatly denies the contention that forced integration will teach children of different races to live in harmony together. "Polarization of the races is intensified when neighborhood and school identities are destroyed."

Byrd is a lawyer. He has steadfastly supported the Supreme Court's landmark decision of 1954, holding that children cannot lawfully be assigned to schools by reason of their race. He continues to defend that proposition. But he looks at the Court's recent line of decisions, upholding the busing of children by reason of their race, and he sees a perversion of the Fourteenth Amendment: "What a distorted, twisted interpretation of the equal protection clause!"

In Byrd's view, "the equal protection clause forbids segregation but it does not command integration." That distinction seems to him fundamental. He agrees with the Court — the Court of 1954 (Continued On Page 5)

East Carolina Teachers College will begin its 23rd year of work during the week of Sept. 28 with an enrollment that now promises to tax its maximum capacity. While East Carolina has been coeducational since its establishment in 1909 it has never enrolled a large number of men that it expected this year.

Philco radio dealers from all over Eastern Carolina convened in a meeting today in Greenville with their distributor the Carolina Kelvinator Co. Inc. The meeting was presided over by James T. Little.

Test Offshore Plant Chances

By ELMER ROESSNER
New Jersey's Public Service Electric and Gas Company has announced what it considers to be two ideal locations for floating nuclear power generating stations. One is east of Harvey Cedars and the other is off shore of the Brigantine National Wildlife Refuge.

Tentative plans call for putting the plants in 45 to 55 feet of water and anchoring them. They would be surrounded by breakwaters 300 feet wide at the bottom tapering to 50 feet at the top and could withstand 300 mile-an-hour winds and 50 foot waves.

COMMENT: The announcement is a trial balloon to test which way public opinion is blowing. The utilities have come under heavy fire in their efforts to build land-based atomic-powered plants. Nearby communities and ecology enthusiasts have waged protest campaigns and filed court suits. The utilities hope that offshore plants may be the answer. But they don't want to go too far if they get the same opposition. Hence the pinpointing of the two sites by PSE&G. It is a good chance to see the public reaction and get a feel for the legalities, that may be involved in an ocean operation.

Fare Shakeups
Atlantic air fares will be coming down. The main disagreement is how much and in what way. The International Air Transport Association hammered out a proposal which the Germans balked at, but only as to the means, not the end. Now, in Miami, IATA is meeting to determine other air fares in the world. There is a good chance that these air fares will be higher, at least in Europe and from Europe to the Middle East.

COMMENT: The trend will be for lower fares on the long flights and higher fares on the short, except in special cases. The reason is that the charter plane operators are hurting the scheduled airlines and most charter flights are long hauls.

Tourist Hurdle
Reports indicate that the American traveler abroad is finding he gets less in exchanging his dollars and travelers checks than the listing in the daily papers indicate he should. This is true of all currencies and all travelers. But the American and the dollar are taking the worst beating. Almost all money changers, from the corner hustler on up to the central banks, but at substantial discounts on small transactions. This is partly to cover possible losses due to exchange rate fluctuations and partly to make quick money.

COMMENT: Americans are hit hardest because they aren't accustomed to shopping around or haggling for a good price and because of the dollar's weakness. If instability in the money markets continues for an extended period of time it could affect U. S. tourism abroad.

No one wants to spend a good part of his trip trying to get the best deal for his money, in just the right amounts, and then find he was gypped anyway. But, stuck with their large stocks of devalued dollars, Europeans probably won't miss us much anyway.

Local Girl New Four People Injured As Cars Crash Near Chicod Ass'n Secretary

A Greenville girl, Miss Sharlene Dunn, was elected recording secretary of the North Carolina Youth Association for Retarded Children in Charlotte recently.

Those members from Greenville attending the convention of 26 local YARC units from throughout the state were Gary Butts, Judy Dunn, Betsy Gidley, Carolyn Mills, and Sharlene Dunn. Miss Mills gave the Western Carolina Center, Caswell Center, Murdock Center, O'Berry Center, the N. C. Sheltered Workshop Association, and the Christmas Card Program.

CHICOD — Four persons were injured here last night when a Highway Patrol car and another vehicle collided. Two of those hurt were jurors from Pitt County seated in a murder trial in Carteret County Superior Court.

Lemmond, who investigated the collision, Trooper W. C. Hinson, 29, of Morehead City, was driving the patrol vehicle. Driver of the other car involved was listed as Walter Loftin Jr., 41, of Route 2, Ayden.

Loftin was traveling east on a rural road and ran into the path of the north-bound patrol vehicle, Sgt. Lemmond said. Both drivers were injured as were two passengers in the Highway Patrol car, Mary L. Brooks of Farmville and Johnny L. Rouse Jr., of Route 2, Farmville.

Hinson was on special assignment — bringing Mrs. Brooks and Rouse to Greenville — at the time of the crash. Mrs. Brooks and Rouse, he explained, had been members from a special venire of prospective jurors from Pitt County seated in a murder case being heard in Carteret County Superior Court. They were being returned to Greenville, he said, to pick up their belongings before being returned to Carteret County for the duration of the trial. Trooper Hinson, Mrs. Brooks and Rouse were treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for their injuries and released. Loftin was admitted for treatment of head injuries.

According to Sgt. Lemmond, Loftin will be charged with failing to stop for a stop sign and driving under the influence.

SHARLENE DUNN

the invocation at the opening session.

Having the theme, "Let's Put It All Together," the convention agenda included tours of the Nevins Center and the Center for Human Development in Charlotte. A pre-conference training session dealt with goals and municipal recreation for the handicapped.

A report on the Developmental Disabilities Services Act was given by several interested agencies. Workshops on education; on fund-raising, and on group homes and alternatives to residential care were held. Speakers included Miss Ellen Weston, YARC state president; Miss Diane McLean, and Dr. Donald J. Stedman, past president of the NCARC.

Resource and information booths were provided by the Junior Division of the N. C. Federation of Woman's Clubs, — that a State violates the Constitution when it undertakes to treat children differently because of the color of their skin. He is thus baffled by the Court's 180-degree turn: Now the States are told they must treat children differently because of the color of their skin. This is lunacy, says Bryd; and many will agree.

What is to be done? "Voices must be raised throughout the country which will move this Nation's highest tribunal to the realization that its position... is going to impair public support of the public school system and will continue to produce chaos in the public schools." But Byrd acknowledges that the Court has been unanimous in its racial opinions. Mere protest, however widespread and eloquent, may accomplish little.

One takes a long breath. Constitutional amendment is like matrimony, not to be entered into lightly. Yet amendment may now offer the only effective recourse. Since his speech in Houston, the assistant majority leader has endorsed a resolution sponsored by Brock of Tennessee and eight others. It would write this into the Constitution:

"No public school student shall, because of race, creed or color, be assigned to or required to attend a particular school."

That is Senate Joint Resolution 112. It demands prayerful thought. As the "madness" spreads beyond the South, to California, to Michigan, to Indiana, perhaps the Judiciary Committee will hold hearings on the resolution's drastic response to drastic error.

U.S. Officials Perplexed By China Developments

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials are as perplexed as anyone about the mysterious events in Red China but they tend to believe that not even the death of Mao Tse-tung would bring about the cancellation of Richard Nixon's trip to Peking.

Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-lai has invited Nixon to visit the Chinese capital sometime before next May. It is believed here that the invitation was the result of a carefully thought out, and undoubtedly thoroughly debated, decision by the Communist Party central committee.

It appears unlikely the new and important line of seeking a rapprochement with the United States would be altered by the passing or indisposition of any individual leader, no matter how highly placed.

If, on the other hand, the unusual developments of the past few days are due to a power struggle within the party, the question of Nixon's visit could very well be an element well-placed sources are quick to add.

The Chinese have announced that the traditional parade of half million people through

More Recruits In Modern Scouts

LONDON (AP) — Nearly 17,000 new recruits joined the Boy Scouts during the past year, following the scrapping of their "bare knees and big hats" image, a Scout census shows.

The Scouts modernized their image three years ago, replacing shorts and "Mountie" hats with long pants and berets.

Tien An Men (Gate of Heavenly Peace) Square for annual Oct. 1 national day celebrations has been called off. This, coupled with reports that all military furloughs have been cancelled and soldiers called back from home leave, has intrigued and puzzled American experts whose job it is to watch the China scene.

The fact that all civilian and military air flights also are said to have been cancelled during a three-day period last week adds another incomprehensible note to the situation.

Chinese explanations that it was decided to downgrade the anniversary celebrations and make them less formal than heretofore might hold water under normal circumstances. For several years after formation of the peoples republic in 1949 May Day celebrations were marked by similar parades which later were discontinued. What lends mystery to the Anniversary Day decision is in abruptness. Visible preparations were vigorously underway up to the middle of last week, then were halted without explanation.

Intelligence sources here have found no evidence of any sizeable Chinese troop movements, a fact which suggests that the crisis—if there is one—is internal.

There are a number of possible explanations for the Chinese moves. One of them is that Mao has called a full-dress meeting of the party central committee to discuss some important question of policy. This would explain the fact that civilian and military passenger planes were pulled out of service last week. Just before the start of the 1966-69 Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution, Mao dispatched planes to bring widely scattered central committee members to Peking for a meeting which started President Liu Shao-chi on the road to disgrace and ruin.

If the central committee already has met and carried out a drastic shakeup in the party lineup, this would explain both the decision to substitute informal celebrations on Oct. 1 for the usual parade and the move to put the army in some state of alert for possible trouble.

The parades have been staged for 21 years with Mao and the party hierarchy ranged on either side of him in the reviewing stand. The presence or absence of party leaders, and their order of precedence, have given a generally accurate indication of their standing.

Though it cannot be entirely discounted, there is little inclination here to believe that Mao is dead or gravely ill. The Chinese are nearly as good as the Nixon administration at keeping secrets but a major development of this sort would be difficult to suppress. Too many people, both inside and outside China, would be vitally affected for it to remain hidden for long.

Kept His Cool In Evacuation

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Chairman Joseph Swidler kept his cool Wednesday when a bomb threat was telephoned to the Public Service Commission building in the midst of a hearing on natural gas shortages.

Swidler corralled the recording stenographer and invited all parties outside to the parking lot where he resumed the hearing in balmy sunshine.

About 30 minutes later, police said their search found no bomb and Swidler led the group back indoors.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Only one of every four newly eligible voters between 18 and 21 has registered to vote in Baltimore, according to the Board of Election Supervisors.

Thousands Yearly Visit N.C. Museum Of History

By H. G. JONES, Director
N.C. Dept. of Archives and History

Written for Associated Press
RALEIGH (AP) — Thousands of children and adults each year visit the North Carolina Museum of History in Raleigh.

But many times that number have never seen the collection of exhibits depicting "North Carolina: Stone Age to Space Age."

Since 1968, the museum has been located in the new Archives and History State Library Building in the heart of Raleigh's capitol complex. It dates back to 1887, when Col. Fred A. Olds began a modest collection of North Carolina memorabilia in a small room of the old State Agriculture Building.

The collection of what was then the Hall of History rapidly outgrew its original quarters. In 1914 it was moved to the State Administration Building, where it remained for 25 years. In 1939 the Hall of History was moved to the State Office Building, later renamed the Education Building. That location at the northeast corner of Capitol Square was the museum's home for 29 years preceding the completion of the new Archives and History Building between the Executive Mansion and the new State Legislative Building.

Though not yet completed in its new location, the museum is open. Eventually will occupy portions of three floors.

Two organizations that no longer exist in name but whose works are still much in evidence first became associated with the Hall of History, known since 1966 as the North Carolina Museum of History, was placed in custody of the North Carolina Historical Commission, the parent organization of the present state Department of Archives and History.

Michigan Sees Expensive Fires

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — More than 88,000 fires cost Michigan 260 lives and $114.6 million in property damage during 1970, reports the Michigan State Police.

The number one cause of fires was carelessness, the Fire Marshal Division said. Improper rubbish burning started 9,703 fires and another 6,036 were caused by negligent smoking and careless use of matches.

In addition to Olds, prominent officials of the museum have included Mrs. Mattie Erma Parker, who recently retired from state government as editor of the Colonial Records Project, and Carlyle Sitterson, chancellor of the University of North Carolina.

They both held the title of "collector" for the Hall of History.

Mrs. Joye E. Jordan took over as administrator of the museum, which had a staff of one at the time, in 1945. She now heads the Department of Archives and History's Division of Historic Sites and Museums.

The display of today's modern museum bears little resemblance to the meager collection of relics begun nearly 100 years ago and originally composed substantially of Old's personal collection and souvenirs brought home by North Carolina veterans returning from Cuba and the Philippines.

Prominent among the many exhibits is one depicting the story of communications, an elaborate electronic presentation given the state by Southern Bell Telephone Co. and an exhibit entitled "The Evolution of Firearms," which includes the "Carbine" Williams gun collection and workshop.

The Williams gun collection features the four beautifully finished rifles he made by hand from scrap materials while serving time in Caledonia Prison Farm.

A unique temporary exhibit in the museum's lobby depicts North Carolina's contribution to the space exploration effort. It includes particles of moon dust and a small North Carolina flag hat has been to the moon.

The North Carolina Museum of History is open to the public days, from 9 to 5 Saturdays and free from 8:30 to 5:30 week- from 2 to 5 Sundays.

PTI Preparing New Self-Study

Pitt Technical Institute is preparing to undertake an in-depth and qualitative self-study of its purposes, objectives and programs, as well as its effectiveness in reaching them, according to Pitt Tech President Dr. William E. Fulford Jr.

Barry Mellinger of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, visited the institute Tuesday for the purpose of assisting the faculty in initiating the study for reaffirmation of accreditation.

In a meeting with the staff and faculty, Mellinger discussed the self-study, its purpose and its involvement. He said that only 30 technical institutes in the country were accredited.

Dr. Fulford reiterated to the staff and faculty that one of the school's major goals for the year was the continuance of membership in the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.

"We feel this self-study will not only result in the reaffirmation of accreditation but will also result in something far greater—that of improving the quality of education at Pitt Tech, further enabling the institution in fulfilling its obligations in meeting the needs of Pitt County's citizens," Fulford said.

Pitt Tech was fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools in December, 1969. The Association requires that a self-study be conducted by an institution within four years after its initial accreditation. The self-study which Pitt Tech will be engaged in will be one of the major criteria used by the Association to determine continued accreditation.

New Home Health Agency Service Is OK'd By Medicare

CERTIFIED — Social Security Representative Bill Shaw presents a plaque from the Social Security Administration to Mrs. Patricia Capehart, certifying Eastern Carolina Home Health Services as a participant in the Medicare Program.

Social Security Representative Bill Shaw announced Wednesday a needed service has been brought to Beaufort and Pitt counties as a part of the Medicare program known as Home Health Benefits.

A) or medical insurance (Part B); but noted "Medicare can cover home health care only when it is needed because of a medical condition."

Patients feeling they might qualify for such services are advised to ask their doctor about referral to Eastern Carolina Home Health Services. The agency is a private non-profit organization and provides home health aide care, skilled nursing and physical therapy to home-bound medicare patients.

Eastern Carolina Home Health services are located at 400 East Main St., Washington, N.C. Their services are now available in both Greenville and Washington.

Further information can be obtained by calling 758-5932 for Greenville callers, or 946-7145 on the Washington exchange.

Alcoholic Beverage Policy Is Proposed

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Students of legal age at the six campuses of the University of North Carolina would be permitted to drink any alcoholic beverage in the privacy of their dormitory rooms under a proposal worked out Wednesday by student leaders and administrative personnel.

consultation with the state attorney general's office.

Robinson said the attorney general has ruled that dormitories are secondary residences for students since a student does not require a legal domicile when he reaches the age of 18.

The North Carolina State University assistant dean of men, Don Solomon, said the proposed policy applied to all alcoholic beverages.

Solomon said the group sought to avoid adopting a policy that would prove unenforceable.

"It's no secret that drinking goes on in those rooms now,"

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — "I just wanted to live. I kept thinking of home and my parents and all the people I love. I wouldn't allow myself to die."

But despite her efforts, two of Pamela Sullivan's companions perished while on a survival training exercise in the rugged Three Sisters Wilderness of Central Oregon early this month.

Pamela, 18, gave a written statement on her ordeal shortly after being rescued to officials of Outward Bound, sponsor of the exercise. The statement, released Wednesday, told of a harrowing struggle during the first week of September and of how Joyce Howden, 21, Fall Creek, Ore., and Lorene Lahr-hette, 17, of Sudbury, Mass., died of hypothermia—lowering of the body temperature—in the snow-covered Three Sisters Mountains.

"Halfway up the ridge, Joyce could no longer make it," Pamela's statement said. "We headed back for the shelter. Then couldn't find it. We dropped our packs, took our sleeping bags and headed for trees. Joyce just couldn't make it. I pulled and pushed, but she couldn't get to the trees. Also, she was losing her sight and hearing and kept asking us where we were when we were only a few feet away.

"At this time Lorene went for help.

"I wrapped Joyce in all three wet sleeping bags and liners. Then I laid over her with my poncho. Shortly after this she began breathing hard, lost total awareness, went delirious and in about 10 minutes stopped breathing.

"I tried mouth to mouth resuscitation, but no good. After this I stayed around camp maybe five minutes, then I went after Lorene, following her tracks in the snow. I finally caught up with her about 6 p.m. She had sacked out near a lake with her poncho on

"We packed into some trees. Then I found out she had lost the map and compass ... We huddled together trying to create warmth ... Lorene kept saying she just couldn't move. As we talked more, her speech kept getting slurred. I put my wool cap on her, laid myself on her and tried to keep her coherent.

"Her breath kept getting more labored. I kept yelling her name in her ear but she didn't answer. Her eyes were wide open. After about two hours her breathing stopped altogether. I tried artificial resuscitation and chest massage. It did no good.

"I used her body warmth and stayed there 'til Friday morning."

On Friday morning Pamela left Lorene's body in the snow and followed their tracks back to the original camp, arriving that afternoon.

"Now the weather was beautiful and clear," she said.

"I was very tired and cold so I took my clothes off and laid in the sun. The next day was Saturday (Sept. 4). I got some honey and ate it . . . I laid down to sleep . . . When I woke up Vern (Vern Bush, an Outward Bound instructor) found me and we hiked out."

Evaluating her companions' efforts, Pamela said: "Joyce stayed pretty together. She never got too depressed, but she never fully realized the situation . . ."

"Lorene was really scared and kept yelling: 'This — weather!' By Wednesday she was pretty depressed and stopped eating. By Thursday she was pretty much giving up."

"Me—I just wanted to live."

The three girls were a subgroup of 43 young women enrolled in Northwest Outward Bound, a Eugene-based school which trains young people in outdoor survival.

For two weeks in August they were trained in the wilderness by eight instructors. Then they divided into small teams. Without instructors, the teams were to cross the snow-covered mountains and rendezvous on Aug. 26 near Chambers Lakes east of Eugene.

It was to have been their graduation exercise.

Guard To Aim At Grass Roots

HONOLULU (AP) — Maj. Gen. L. E. Weber, new director of the Army National Guard, says community service at the grass roots level will be stressed in an effort to make the organization more appealing to youth and to help it solve recruiting problems.

The Guard also will try to recruit more blacks, he added. Weber said in an interview Tuesday that the Guard will emphasize work in federal Head Start and other programs as an incentive for signing up. It also will organize community groups for tackling pollution and other related problems.

But Weber, here for a convention, said that recruiting of blacks is of prime importance.

"This is probably the biggest single problem we face for the moment," said Weber, a veteran of World War II and Korea whose military career began as a Marine private in 1942. He was adjutant general for Oklahoma when selected for his new post.

He hopes to get more blacks into the Guard by working with national black organizations.

"If we can get blacks to accept the Guard on that level, and if it trickles down from them to the local level, that should go a long way in solving the problem," Weber said. The Guard's long-range goal is to have the same percentage of black members in a unit as there are in the general population for a particular geographical area, he added. Now, only a little over 1 per cent of the Guard is made up of black members, a Guard spokesman said.

The general said that riot control would not get special stress in the future. But he added: "The National Guard has a multiple role, and civil disturbance is just one task that probably doesn't deserve any emphasis over others.

"We can't deny the importance of the civil disturbance role, but there are others, such as the Guard's role in disasters, that are of equal importance."

New Breed Of Prisoner Is Challenging Authorities

By MARK BROWN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Politically aware and increasingly militant, a new breed of prisoner is challenging the right of prison authorities to subject him to privation and brutality.

Although in a growing number of cases defiant prison inmates are finding an ally in the courts, more are turning to violence to gain redress of grievances, real and imagined.

A prison revolt at Attica, N.Y., and what officials call an escape attempt in San Quentin, Calif., have left 48 persons dead in the past month. In California prisons, officials report, the seven guards murdered so far this year outnumber the total for the entire period 1953-70.

"There is a new breed of prisoner," says a leading Senate expert on prisons, Republican Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska. "He is younger, more intelligent and more aggressive."

At the root of prison unrest is a correction system that, in the judgment of federal authorities, is failing to rehabilitate criminals or protect the public.

Subhuman squalor in cells built 50 or more years ago, sadistic brutality at the hands of keepers or fellow convicts, inadequate rehabilitation facilities or none at all: these are the lot of prisoners across the country in a system that one federal law enforcement official has called "a national disgrace" and President Nixon himself has condemned as "a convincing case of failure."

Building on and adding to grievances among all convicts is a new factor: a growing conviction, particularly among blacks who make up a far greater proportion of inmate populations than they do of the total population, that imprisonment is political repression rather than punishment for a crime.

"There are still some blacks here who consider themselves criminals—but not many," wrote the late George Jackson in his book "Soledad Brother." Jackson, shot to death in the San Quentin incident, had spent 10 of his 28 years in prison for a 70 robbery.

Paradoxically, the rising militance comes at a time when national leaders, including President Nixon and Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, have signaled an unprecedented call for prison reform.

It also is a time when the courts are abandoning their traditional hands-off policy to declare substandard prison conditions unconstitutional, and to expand legal rights of prisoners.

To Ellis McDougal, Georgia's director of corrections and a past president of the American Correctional Association, prison revolts reflect conditions on the outside.

"No one should be surprised," McDougal said. "What's true in society is true in its institutions. Any problems that develop in the streets wind up six months later in the prisons."

With expansion of probation and parole, America's prison population has declined from a peak of 213,000 in 1960 to slightly less than 200,000.

The offenders still behind bars are likely to be those who have committed the most serious crimes: murder, rape, robbery and assault.

Throughout the American criminal justice system, blacks are disproportionately represented in relation to their percentage of the total population.

FBI crime statistics for 1970 indicate blacks comprise 53.3 per cent of all persons arrested for the violent crimes of murder, rape, robbery and assault, and for 32.8 per cent of arrests for the property crimes of burglary, larceny and auto theft. Yet blacks comprise only 12 per cent of the total U.S. population.

The imbalance is even more evident in the prisons. In New York state prisons, for example, blacks comprise 70 per cent of the inmate population.

In a philosophical sense, at least, some prison administrators sympathize with black inmates' claims that they are "political prisoners."

"I can see a hell of a lot of truth to it," said Leighton W. Dudley, Maryland's deputy secretary for correctional services. Noting that many of the state's inmates grew up in Baltimore's black ghetto, he describes them as "Victims of a rotten social system."

Whether or not prisoners are developing, as radical California lawyer Fay Stender contends, "a consciousness of themselves as a convicted class," the effects of a new militance are being felt in prisons around the country.

"It used to be that if an offender was recalcitrant, he was placed in disciplinary segregation and didn't get out until he played the game," Dudley said.

On the inside, according to Heywood Burns, executive director of the National Conference of Black Lawyers, such groups as the Black Muslims and the Black Panthers are helping to create an "increased awareness on the part of the black prisoners of the nature and extent of their victimization."

Furniture Men Gear Up With Housing Boom

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Now that new housing is rising at a record rate of more than two million units a year, the furniture industry is gearing up for a boom such as few other industries can look forward to.

Maybe the boom will never be heard: similar forecasts have been made for other industries only to be thwarted by reluctant consumers and unforeseen twists in the market. But the prospects are unusually good.

Everything considered, a number of different factors are falling into place.

The population mix, savings rate, incomes, and personal styles are important elements in the outlook.

Internal changes, such as mergers and new distribution methods, are exploiting these elements.

The most important factor, as usual, is the number of housing units going up. Traditionally, furniture sales have shown a curve similar to housing after a lag of one to 1½ years.

Now there are indications that furniture sales may rise even more than housing starts.

Among the reasons:

—Should the economy be restabilized and inflation wrung out, the buying power of many Americans may rise even faster than incomes.

—The savings rate is at an unusually high level, better than 8 per cent of take-home pay. While consumers remain reluctant to lower that rate—spend the money, that is—experience suggests they cannot hold out much longer.

—Compared with recent years, the ratio of installment debt to income is relatively low. Just as there are savings in the bank, there is credit at the bank too.

Moreover, a study by the Chase Manhattan Bank notes:

—The number of households in the 25-34 age group, the highest spenders on home furnishings, will increase by 52 per cent in the decade of the 1970s.

—The percentage of families with incomes of more than $15,000 will almost double from 22 per cent in 1970 to 38 per cent in 1980. And those are comparable—not inflated—dollars.

—The number of families in the 25-34 age group with incomes of more than $15,000 is projected to surge from 1.6 million to 6 million in 1980.

Presented with such demographic and income factors, the industry is gradually modernizing. Attempts are being made to speed deliveries which, as most purchasers know, can be maddeningly slow and inefficient.

Delays of three months or so are still common, partly because of the small size of many manufacturers. The Chase study found 6,700 companies making carpets, beds and furniture, and three-fifths of them employed fewer than 20 workers.

New marketing methods already are evident in newspaper ads. Entire rooms are being sold instead of individual items. Because of their greater size, single manufacturers soon will be able to market pictures, rugs and lamps as well as the bed, dresser and nightables.

Moslem Claims Discouragement

SINGAPORE (UPI)—"If Prophet Mohammed were alive today he would be disappointed and shocked to see the state of backwardness among the world's Moslems," says Singapore's Minister of State for Foreign Affairs.

Rahim Bin Ishak, a Moslem of Malay descent, said forerunners of modern progress and science were introduced by the Arabs 500 years after the death of Christ but Moslems in most parts of the world now are backward.

By DONALD E. MULLEN
NEW YORK (UPI)—A neutralized Germany and Japan could be the key to peace between the United States and the world's two Communist giants, China and the Soviet Union, a political historian believes.

Alfred R. Tyrner-Tyrnauer, journalist and political analyst who teaches at New York's New School for Social Research, contends that the future U.S. role in Europe and Asia will be to help guarantee that neither Germany nor Japan builds a nuclear arsenal.

In exchange for such a guarantee, the Soviet Union could be willing to take its chances with a reunified Germany. Communist China, in turn, might choose to ignore the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa, Tyrnauer said in an interview.

After World War II, Stalin's plan "was to establish a Communist government in Germany as a whole and bring it under Russian tutelage," Tyrnauer said. "It wasn't successful. The Marshall Plan and NATO strengthened Western Europe and West Germany. Now West Germany has become the most important member of NATO in Europe."

He said that today the Soviet Union, with an eye toward rising nationalism in other Eastern European satellites, is "not quite so sure about Eastern Germany."

"The Russians don't really believe that the Communist regime in Germany might be pliable forever, and would greatly prefer a neutral belt consisting of the Germanys, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, as has been indicated in various plans put forward in recent years."

While the United States was once opposed to mutual withdrawal of troops from Central Europe, today the situation has changed, he said.

"NATO is willing to reduce its commitment in armed forces in Europe, and the NATO of today is no longer as strong or as reliable as it was 15 or 20 years ago.

"A reunification of Germany is and will remain a political issue, although nobody believes it will happen very soon," said Tyrnauer, who was arrested and expelled from his native Austria by Nazi Germany in 1938. "But I am convinced that in both East and West Germany it will be one of the main problems with which the two governments have to contend."

"Of course," he added, "peaceful reunification could be only a loose confederation that would provide autonomy for East and West Germany. But it is not impossible."

"Russia's greatest worry is that Germany as well as Japan might get the nuclear bomb. Therefore, neutralization and guaranteed non-proliferation is for Russia of far greater value than is a part of Germany under Communist government."

Tyrnauer said that the same idea applies to Communist China—"a guaranteed neutrality and non-nuclear Japan is of greater value than the immediate annexation of Taiwan."

"Provided no new development complicates the planned meeting of Nixon and Mao, American strategy vis-a-vis the Soviet Union will be considerably strengthened when the People's Republic of China, revitalized by large-scale imports from capitalist America, increases pressure along the 4,000-mile frontier between the two Communist giants," he said.

"I don't believe China would start a war against Russia, because Russia is far more industrialized and far better equipped than China. Chou En-lai recently admitted that China is still in 'the initial phase of industrialization.'" He also indicated that he regards Japan—should it be remilitarized and equipped with nuclear weapons—far more dangerous than either the United States and the Soviet Union."

Sonar Is Used To Track Fish

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (AP) University of Maryland scientists now are using sonar to determine the ecological balance of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canals.

The sonar is used to track fish.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers contracted for a comprehensive three year research program to determine the nature and probable magnitude of the biological efforts of widening and deepening the 19 mile long C & D Canal.

So the researchers net a number of fish, primarily striped bass, and tag them with identification offering a reward if the fish is returned to the Chesapeake Biological Laboratory.

Then a sonic signal sender is placed deep in the fish's stomach.

After the fish is released, the scientists track him through the "beep beep" being broadcast from his stomach, recording where he rests and where he feeds.

A number of parallel surveys also are under way.

Other marine researchers are collecting fish eggs and larvae to find out how nursery areas and young fish react to the canal's enlargement.

The migration patterns, seasons and life stages of crabs and shellfish also are being investigated.

Scientists know some environmental changes occurred during the widening of the canal, which may be one of the world's most intensively used waterways as a vital link in a short water route between Philadelphia and Baltimore, and between New York City and Baltimore.

When concluded, however, the study should provide a glimpse into exactly how the environmental balance has been changed.

Arabs Display Concern For An End To Rivalry

By GERARD LOUGHRAN
BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—One joke recently current in Beirut tells much of why no one can predict what will happen next in the Middle East.

According to the story, a reporter asks Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan: "When will the Arabs start fighting Israel?" Dayan replies, with a shrug: "When they can spare the time."

Certainly the Arabs have dedicated more energy this summer to fighting each other than to the much-heralded war to liberate Palestine from the Jews.

One reflection of how much this concerns the Arabs themselves is the newly-formed loose union of Egypt, Syria and Libya announced after referendums in the three countries Sept. 1.

This Federation of Arab Republics, as it's been called, emerges in a situation that has seen an increasing identification of enmity with violence in the Arab world.

In Morocco about 100 persons were killed, according to unofficial figures, when rebel officers stormed King Hassan's palace July 10. Within 48 hours a further 20 rebels were executed.

In Sudan, official funerals for some 38 soldiers killed by left-wingers July 22 were scarcely over when judicial executions began and 14 persons were hanged or shot. An undisclosed number was also killed in fighting around the presidential palace when Maj. Gen. Jaafar Numeiry returned to power.

During the July fighting in Jordan, a Fatah leader, Salah Khalaf, said 2,000 Palestinian guerrillas were killed or wounded. Experienced Amman political sources said the figure was exaggerated, but there were persistent claims of prisoners being shot and dragged behind trucks.

Repercussions of events in these countries throughout the Arab world have been considerable.

Libyan support for the Moroccan rebels led to a break in relations between Tripoli and Rabat.

Says Artist Must Be A Businessman

By CARL HILLIARD
Associated Press Writer
DENVER, Colo. (AP)—The art world was an abstract dream to Tony Bernardi when he undertook the solid reality of premedical studies, and then engineering, at the University of California at Berkeley.

Now, over 20 years later, he's a nationally recognized sculptor who counts psychiatrists and architects among his best customers.

In between, the 45-year-old Bernardi job-hopped as a reporter, television writer and aerospace systems engineer. Eight years ago, he chucked it all to work in metallic art.

"There was this motivation I had for sculpture," he said, "but my wife and I knew I couldn't make a living at it. Then we decided I could."

He hasn't been out of work since, and his work reflects his new freedom.

"A lot of my stuff has wings on it," he said, "it reaches out—expresses freedom."

A spiral of brass birds circles upward in the airy workshop-gallery he operates in South Denver. And a massive Prometheus, now in front of a public library in suburban Englewood, reaches up, away from earthly restrictions.

"I've lost myself for 10 or 12 hours at a time and haven't even been aware of the time," he said. "This can involve just thinking about a project, too. You've got to look at it from every side."

Bernardi's wife, Beryl, also an artist, creates with stained glass and they've managed to skillfully combine their works.

Plunging into art for a living at middle age has its advantages, Bernardi explained.

"I've got one hell of an advantage over the real young ones," he said. "I've learned to say 'no.'"

"Here's a piece priced at $450. If I'm starving and some hardnose comes in here and has $250 in cash, a kid will capitulate. I won't. I figure if I can't get that—then to sell it for $250 isn't going to solve my problem. It's just going to put it off."

During his eight years as a sculptor, Bernardi said, he's learned that "every success is related to luck," and that the real artist today must also be a sound businessman.

Rampants Play Host To Jacksonville

Rose High School's Rampants return home after two weeks away Friday night, seeking to even their record at 2-2 for the year.

The Rampants split a pair of road games after dropping their opener to Farmville Central. They beat Washington, 19-0, then fell last week to Wilson's Fike High School, 28-7, in an outstanding defensive game.

"We played over our heads," Coach Dave Bumgarner said. "We were real keyed up for the game, and we played a good one."

The Rampant defense was the shining point of the game, despite the score. Two of the Wilson scores were set up by their defense, once turning over the ball on the Rose seven, and the other time taking a pass interception 65 yards for the score. The other two came on offensive drives, one the first of the game, and the other right at the end.

In between, the Rampant defense did a fine job on the Titans, once holding them for three downs inside the five yard line without a score.

The offense, however, couldn't get moving and wound up with minus rushing yardage for the game. "We moved the ball well in the first half," Bumgarner said, "but we just couldn't score. We are still not blocking sharply, and the backs are missing the holes. We just haven't got our offense going enough."

Only once did the Rampants really get a drive going against Wilson, and that was late in the game, when they scored on the final play of the game.

"We keep improving every ball game," the coach said. "But it's been slow. I think our defense played a heck of a game except for the three letdown passes. But we did better than anyone else against them."

Wilson went into the game, scoring 90 points against two opponents, 41 against one and 49 against another. They had allowed 13 in their opener and none in the second game.

The Rampants came away from the game in good physical condition, although they have been bothered by some colds and flu this week. All are expected to be ready to play tomorrow night.

"This week has been somewhat anti-climactic," Bumgarner said. "We were so high for Wilson. I don't know how well we'll be up for Jacksonville."

The Cardinals provide a non-conference foe for the Rampants, but their first non-league 4-A opponent. Both Farmville and Washington were 3-A teams.

Jacksonville comes into the game with a 2-1 record. They beat White Oak, 38-0, in the opener, and whipped New Hanover, 27-0, last weekend. In between, they fell to Kinston, 12-6, in a real surprise contest. "Jacksonville had over 200

Beman Says His Size Has Helped

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer ROBINSON, III. (AP) — Deane Beman says his relative lack of size and strength may have helped him to become a better golfer.

"I'm not sure," mused the thoughtful, intelligent little guy, "but if I were bigger, stronger, hit the ball harder, maybe I wouldn't have worked so hard at it."

Beman, despite his 5-foot-7 frame and 145 pounds, was one of the favorites for the $20,000 first prize in the $100,000 Robinson Open Golf Tournament that got underway today.

NFL Jury In Recess

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal grand jury probe of the National Football League for possible antitrust violations was recessed Wednesday until next month to allow the jury to consider other matters.

The jury heard testimony Wednesday from John North, offensive backfield coach for the Detroit Lions, who said he was asked about the practice of blackballing, or blacklisting players.

North said he had never heard of any player being blacklisted and added, "Most of the guys who are let go are over the hill—they just don't have the natural ability anymore."

as an amateur—winner of two U.S. and one British amateur titles—scored his third professional victory last week in the satellite Quad Cities Open.

It boosted his earnings to more than $54,000 for the season, marked the third consecutive year that he's won a tour title and stamped him as a strong contender in this 72-hole event on the short 6,585 yard Crawford County Country Club course.

Does the size of the course, relatively tiny by the usual tour standards, favor his game, make it his kind of course? "If it's got a hole in every green, it's my kind of course," said the undaunted Beman, who gave up a career as an insurance executive in Bethesda, Md. five years ago to turn pro at the age of 27.

He is recognized as one of the game's finest students, an excellent fairway woods player, good with short irons and an excellent putter. He's one of the very, very few Jack Nicklaus will go to for advice.

Nixon To Pull For The Angels

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels may capitalize on the shift of the Washington Senators to Dallas-Ft. Worth by hosting the 1972 presidential opener, replete with right-hander Dick Nixon throwing out the first ball.

The White House phoned Anaheim Wednesday with President Nixon suggesting a presidential opener for the Big A. Nixon also said that since Washington was now bereft of a major league franchise, he was adopting the Angels as his home team.

As a sometime resident of nearby San Clemente, the president additionally qualifies by birthright. He was born in Yorba Linda, another Orange County community.

"We have a lot of obstacles to overcome but we're going to make every effort to set things up for April," an Angel official said Wednesday.

An official announcement of next year's plans may be revealed this week in Washington, the White House said.

The American League schedule, already drawn up for the 1972 season, had the Cleveland Indians due in Washington for the opener. It is not known whether the Indians would be involved in the Anaheim game.

yards in penalties in that game, and they lost four fumbles. Their own mistakes beat them," Bumgarner said.

Otherwise, the Cardinals have a good team, and will be out to prevent such a lapse again. "They should be on a par with Wilson, and they're rated one of the top teams in Division One," the coach said. "They have a good passing game and a good kicking game. They have good running backs, and one scout has said they have the best 22 ballplayers in eastern North Carolina."

Offensively, their quarterback, Tyrone Willingham, is a good thrower and runner. He rates better than Wilson's Dennis Wilkerson by many observers. They also have running power from Greg Mazua and Bob Sanders, running out of the slot-I formation.

Their defense is also strong, as shown by the fact that they have given up only 12 points in three games. "But we're kind of uncertain what they'll throw at us," Bumgarner said. "They used a five-man front for the first two games, then switched to a four-man for their game with New Hanover. We kind of expect a four-man since that's what we've faced all year, and we've had trouble with it."

For Rose, there are no changes in the lineup this week. At the offensive ends will be

Pirate Freshmen Open Year Against Wolflets

East Carolina University's freshman football team will open its season Friday night at Carter Stadium in Raleigh with the N. C. State Wolflets.

The Baby Pirates, like the varsity, boast a new coach with National Football League credentials. George Rose, a former All-American at Auburn and defensive back with three NFL teams, will be at the helm of the Pirates' ship opening night.

Rose was drafted by the Minnesota Vikings and also played with San Francisco and New Orleans before retiring because of an injury.

As new head coach, Rose hopes to improve on last year's 0-5 record. But, the Baby Pirates, like the varsity, may be plagued by a serious lack of depth.

Hignite Is Winner

Ron Hignite captured the Greenville Tennis Club's men's championship yesterday.

Hignite defeated his partner in the doubles championship, Wes Hankins, 7-5 and 8-6, for the title, making him the only double winner in this year's tournament.

The club will hold its annual meeting tonight at 6:30 p.m. at the Tar River Estates. A buffet supper will be served, and trophies will be presented to the winners in each flight. New officers will also be elected.

Offensively, the Baby Pirates will run basically the same attack as the varsity. Bob Bailey (6-1, 180 from Bloomingdale, N. J.) will start at quarterback.

Backing him up is Ricky Cheatham (6-3, 180 from Columbus, Ga.).

The starting running backs will be Steve Clark (6-0, 180), who also doubles as the punter, and Jimmy Howe (5-10, 180). Bruce Rutledge (6-0, 185) will alternate with the two.

The offensive line will see Addison Bass (5-11, 200) and Chuck Craddock (5-11, 195) at guards; Jan Derr (6-3, 220) and John Coleman (6-5, 200) at tackles; and Billy Tart (5-11, 185) at center.

Wilburn Williamson (6-1, 175) will open at split end and Vic Wilfore (6-1, 170) gets the nod at flanker. Benny Gibson (6-2, 195) will start at tight end.

Defensively, the Baby Pirates expect to have good speed though depth will be a problem in the interior line. Alan Strawderman (6-2, 200) and Buddy Lowery (6-1, 210) will start at ends while Derr will start at one tackle. Rose is not yet sure who the other tackle will be.

Linebackers will be Buddy Thompson (5-10, 190); Nelson Strother (5-10, 190); Danny Kepley (5-11, 190); and Billy Hibbs (6-0, 190).

In the secondary, Mike Jones (6-2, 170) leads the way at safety. At the halfbacks will be Dave Berry (5-9, 155) and Joe Pulley (5-10, 180).

Handling the kicking duties for the Baby Pirates will be either Steve Herring (6-2, 210) or Jim Woody (6-0, 160).

Rounding out the Baby Pirate schedule will be William and Mary, home, Oct. 8; Fork Union, away, Oct. 22; The Citadel, home, Oct. 29; and Richmond, home, Nov. 12.

Derek Dunn and Lonnie Payton, Sid Shearin and Lee Cherry will be at tackles, David Mathias and Maurice Sheppard at guards, Phil Ragazzo at center, Bob Barrett at quarterback, Al Hunter and Calvin Moore at running backs, and Robbie Cox, who was named Player of the Week for his work against Fike, at flanker.

Defensively, Rose will start Matthew Clark and Todd Pair at ends, John Calhoun and Cherry at tackles, Kim Hodges, Mike Harris, Ragazzo and George Price at linebackers, and Hunter, Moore and Cox in the secondary.

Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

Last weekend was the first full weekend of conference play, with all six teams involved in three league games. Besides the Rose-Jacksonville game, Rocky Mount hosts Raleigh Broughton, Wilson goes to Durham, Goldsboro is at Southern Wayne, Kinston is at New Hanover, and New Bern hosts Washington.

This week, all teams are involved in non-loop games. Besides the Rose-Jacksonville game, Rocky Mount hosts Raleigh Broughton, Wilson goes to Durham, Goldsboro is at Southern Wayne, Kinston is at New Hanover, and New Bern hosts Washington.

While Corks Pop In Pittsburgh Giants Inch Away From Dodgers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The corks popped, the champagne spilled and the superlatives flowed.

This was title-clinching time for Pittsburgh Pirates.

"On to the World Series," crooned big Willie Stargell, leading the celebration after the Pirates nailed down the National League's Eastern Division championship with a 5-1 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday night.

Stargell jerked open a champagne bottle and jettisoned a stream of teammates, sparking a crossfire in the euphoric clubhouse.

If Stargell and the rest of the Pirates were happy, they were also a little relieved to shake off the mounting pressure of pennant-chasing.

"This club had pressure on it," said Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh, "but it responded well. We went into a little slump and came out of it."

The "little" slump to which Murtaugh referred was a string of two losses Sunday and Tuesday as the Pirates failed to cinch the title while lugging the champagne around. But everyone knew it would come sooner or later, right Mr. Stargell? "It's been a team effort," said the slugging outfielder in the time-worn baseball tradition. "We couldn't have gone all the way without every man on this club."

While Pittsburgh locked up the East, the Western Division remained a hot item although in better perspective than in recent days. The front-running San Francisco Giants topped the Houston Astros 3-1 and moved their lead to 2½ games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who lost 4-1 to the Cincinnati Reds.

The third-place Atlanta Braves, meanwhile, were mathematically eliminated after losing 7-3 to the San Diego Padres.

In the other National games, the Chicago Cubs bounced the New York Mets 4-1 and the Montreal Expos bested the Philadelphia Phillies 2-0.

The Eastern title was the second straight for the Pirates, who lost last year's National League playoffs to the Cincinnati Reds and watched the World Series on television.

"To a great extent, winning the title was a lot like last year," said Pittsburgh third baseman Richie Hebner. "Only this time, I hope we're around to go to the World Series."

Luke Walker and Dave Giusti combined for a six-hitter as the Pirates clinched the division title five days earlier than last season. Walker pitched the first six innings and yielded four singles while Giusti finished up for his 29th save.

The winning run, the Pirates' second tally in the fourth, was scored when Stargell opened with a walk and Robertson and Manny Sanguillen delivered singles.

Bobby Bonds knocked in two runs, including a tie-breaking homer in the fifth inning and Juan Marichal pitched a six-hitter in San Francisco's victory that gave the Giants a little breathing room over the Dodgers.

"It puts us closer to where we're going," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox. "We just broke out of our slump. We got some hits."

The Giants' slump has been something, all right. Prior to Wednesday night, they had lost 13 of 16 games and most of a once-commanding 8½-game lead over Los Angeles.

Gary Nolan pitched a five-hitter and George Foster smacked a two-run double as Cincinnati dealt a blow to the Dodgers' pennant hopes.

"We've been playing 10-11 games over the .500 mark all year, and now everyone expects us to win six out of seven games at the end," said a disconsolate Walt Alton, the Dodgers manager. "I know it looks like we're not trying to win it—but believe me, we are."

San Diego snuffed Atlanta's flickering pennant hopes as Ed Acosta scattered eight hits and Clarence Gaston, Don Mason and Nate Colbert hit home runs.

Pitcher Bill Hands drilled a three-run double and spaced eight hits as Chicago beat New York and Bill Stoneman also allowed eight hits, pitching Montreal over Philadelphia.

Stargell and the rest of the Pirates were happy, they were also a little relieved to shake off the mounting pressure of pennant-chasing.

"This club had pressure on it," said Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh, "but it responded well. We went into a little slump and came out of it."

The "little" slump to which Murtaugh referred was a string of two losses Sunday and Tuesday as the Pirates failed to cinch the title while lugging the champagne around. But everyone knew it would come sooner or later, right Mr. Stargell? "It's been a team effort," said the slugging outfielder in the time-worn baseball tradition. Powell Slams Pair As Orioles Clinch Tie For American East

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boog Powell, the massive Baltimore Oriole first baseman, has been playing with two sore wrists and a sore hand, and he says it hurts to swing a bat. However, he has not been hurting himself recently ... only the New York Yankees.

The 6-4, 250-pound slugger slammed his 20th and 21st home runs of the season Wednesday night, each a two-run shot, as the Orioles pounded the Yankees 10-1 and clinched a tie for the American League's East Division title.

One more Baltimore victory in seven games or one more loss by second-place Detroit in six games will make the Orioles East Division champions for the third straight year and put them into the AL playoffs against Oakland's West Division winners. Both East teams are idle today, so the earliest pennant clinching could be Friday when the Orioles play the Indians in a two-night doubleheader at Cleveland, and the Tigers entertain the Yankees.

The Tigers' pennant chances were virtually extinguished Wednesday night when they dropped a 3-2 decision to Boston. Elsewhere in the AL, Chicago blanked Oakland 3-0; Kansas City walloped California 10-3; Washington edged Cleveland 3-2, and the Milwaukee at Minnesota game was rained out.

Powell's two homers boosted his runs batted in total for the season to 87 and his batting average to .251, the first time he has been over the .250 mark this year. However, he still is far behind last year's figures of .297, 35 homers and 114 RBI which enabled him to win the AL's Most Valuable Player Award.

Powell was just getting over an injury to his right hand, which was hurt in a slide, when he was hit by a pitch on the hand last week in Detroit.

"It's still sore," he said, "but rest won't help. I just have to keep playing. I can't lay off now and be ready for the playoffs," which are scheduled to begin Oct. 2 in Baltimore.

Powell was not the only Orioles' hitting star. Rookie Bobby Grich hit his first major league homer, a three-run shot in the fifth, and Ellie Hendricks collected four hits, drove in two runs and scored one.

The Orioles power barrage helped Jim Palmer win his 19th game. He scattered six hits.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said Palmer will get a chance for his 20th victory Sunday against Cleveland. Weaver also said the other Baltimore starters—20-game winner Dave McNally and 19-game winners Mike Cuellar and Pat Dobson—each would work twice more. If each manages to win 20, the Orioles would be the first team with four 20-game winners since the 1920 White Sox.

Detroit's Mickey Lolich, the winningest pitcher in the majors, was foiled in his bid for his 26th victory when Boston rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to overcome a 2-0 Tiger lead.

Singles by Billy Conigliaro and Duane Josephson and a successful bunt by pinch hitter Phil Gagliano filled the bases. The first Boston run scored on Doug Griffin's force out, and the tying and winning runs came home on Luis Aparicio's double down the left field line.

Lolich, 25-12, went the distance in lifting his league-leading totals to 27 complete games and 359 innings pitched.

Oakland's Vida Blue, the league's No. 2 winner with 23 victories, worked five scoreless innings in the A's loss to Chicago. Blue, tuning up for the playoffs, allowed only two hits and struck out three.

The White Sox broke through against reliever Jim Roland in the seventh on Rick Reichart's homer. They added two runs in the eighth off Mudcat Grant on a single by winning pitcher Tom Bradley, a sacrifice and singles by Rich McKinney and Bill Melton.

Bradley shutting out the A's for the third time this season, permitted four hits in winning his 15th game.

Lynch May Be In There Soon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Before Southern Conference football teams even began pre-season practice, coach Red Parker of The Citadel said "if I had enough guts to start sophomore Harry Lynch at quarterback, we might be better off later on."

Parker hasn't started Lynch yet—but you get the distinct impression it won't be long before the sophomore might be at the controls. It might not be Saturday night when the Bulldogs entertain Boston University, but Parker admits Lynch "is very close to starting" in the near future.

The reason is Lynch's performance in The Citadel's 38-35 victory at Bucknell last Saturday after the Bulldogs dropped their season opener to defending Southern Conference champion William and Mary 35-28.

Lynch came on in the fourth quarter at Bucknell and threw touchdown passes of 30 yards to Brian Baima and 60 yards to Champ Reiley that rallied the Bulldogs from a 35-24 deficit after they once led by 24-7.

By his performance in the first two games, Lynch "certainly has warranted a shot at the starting position," says Parker.

The Bulldog coach told his weekly news conference somewhat laughingly that Lynch completed all seven passes he threw at Bucknell—"not a one hit the ground." He added, of course, that Bucknell intercepted two—but the other five were on target, including the two game-winners.

Meanwhile, William and Mary coach Lou Holtz said Wednesday that defensive back Harry Walters and tight end Jack Hurley might see action Saturday night against Davidson. Both missed last week's game against East Carolina because of leg injuries.

Coach Frank Jones of Richmond announced that starting offensive tackle Russ Croom will be lost for the remainder of the season.

Croom, a senior injured in the North Carolina game, has undergone knee surgery.

Furman's football Paladins staged a rugged two-hour drill Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's game with Wofford.

The Paladins offensive unit ran against the expected Terrier defensive alignment while the defense concentrated on stopping Wofford's triple option attack.

Virginia Has 3rd Big Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Our attitude is still good. We know we have what it takes to win. It's just a matter of putting it all together."

The speaker was Sil Cornachione, offensive coordinator of the Virginia Cavaliers, an Atlantic Coast Conference team which has lost its only two games this season, and one of them a 56-0 rout by Michigan.

But now, Cornachione says the Cavaliers are offensively on schedule for the Duke game at Charlottesville, Va., Saturday.

Following a workout Wednesday, Cornachione said the same offensive lineup which started in last week's shutout by Michigan will start against the Blue Devils.

Meanwhile, wet weather hampered the Blue Devils for the second consecutive day Wednesday.

Duke will be without the services of defensive tackle Bruce Mills, who suffered a broken ankle in the South Carolina game last week and will be out the remainder of the season. In addition, tailback Art Bosetti and defensive end Mel Parker are listed as doubtful for the Cavalier clash.

The North Carolina Tar Heels returned to practice Wednesday after Tuesday's session was called off so the players could attend a memorial service for Bill Arnold, the UNC football player who died Tuesday of heat stroke.

Six persons, including senior defensive end Bill Brafford, were to represent the university at the funeral in Staten Island, N. Y., today.

North Carolina State Coach Al Michaels is worried about his defense and he says something has to be done about it.

Michaels told a press luncheon he would know more about any possible personnel changes following Wednesday night's practice.

Clemson prepared for Saturday's contest with Georgia by working out in light gear Wednesday.

"We wanted to get some polish in our offensive and defensive formations," said Coach Hootie Ingram.

Tampa Ranked 13th On Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Dakota State, which ran its regular season victory string to 37 with a 28-12 triumph over Montana State last Saturday, grabbed the No. 1 spot in the first Associated Press college division football poll of the year today.

The Bison, who lost half their 1970 team which finished 9-0-1 and third in the final AP poll, received eight first place votes and 275 points from a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Arkansas State, No. 1 and 11-0 last year under Coach Bennie Ellender, was bumped to No. 2 with five first place votes and 207 points. The Indians' 17 returning starters and new coach Bill Davidson barely squeezed past rebuilt Wichita State, which lost several players in an airplane crash last season.

Grambling, which is trying to run Coach Eddie Robinson's victories to 200, chalked up the 194th and 195th already and took the No. 3 spot in the poll after winding up 16th last year.

Montana, which lost to North Dakota State in the Camellia Bowl last season, is No. 4 and Eastern Michigan, which finished 19th last year, is No. 5.

Bucs Celebrate Eastern Title

By PAUL LeBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Beating him makes us feel like we earned it," said a jovial Willie Stargell from the din of the Pittsburgh Pirates' raucous clubhouse Wednesday night.

Stargell's reference was to Bob Gibson, whom the Pirates tagged in beating the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1 for a repeat National League East Division title.

In contrast to a three-way battle for the division title they sewed up with only three days left in 1970, the Pirates breezed home with a week to spare.

Only the Cardinals and, fleetingly, the Chicago Cubs were in the race after the Pirates, frontrunners from early June, won 11 straight games before and after the All-Star break.

The Cardinals crept four games back Aug. 15, one day after Gibson fired a no-hitter in Pittsburgh, but quickly fell off the pace again in a five-game spin.

Successive losses to the Philadelphia Phillies left the Cardinals 7½ games back last week, and the race for all practical purposes was over when Pittsburgh knocked them off twice to open a 9½-game lead.

"It's been a team effort," said Stargell, his uniform drenched from champagne, beer and water tossed and sprayed across the clubhouse.

"We couldn't have gone all the way without every man on this club. Now it's our turn to make it to the World Series."

In reference to Gibson, who had humbled the Pirates 11-0 with his no-hitter, Stargell noted, "He didn't have tonight what he had that night, but he's a tremendous competitor."

Bob Robertson, who stroked two hits off Gibson and like Stargell drove in a run, echoed the sentiment, declaring "It's always great to get it off someone like Gibson. He's probably the best pitcher in the league."

"I wanted this game so bad I could taste it," said Robertson, who quickly joined his teammates in a running battle with Pirates coaches and manager Danny Murtaugh, champagne bottles serving as spray guns.

None escaped the buckets of water and shower of beverages, including sports writers and sportscasters, Pirates general manager Joe Brown and club board chairman John W. Galbreath.

Pitcher Steve Blass, who has a 15-7 record and the club's best ERA among starters at 2.83, started the celebration by leaping into the tub holding the champagne bottles.

Stargell poured champagne over Blass, and the merriment was on. "This wasn't quite like last year," Robertson observed, "because we had the big lead, but it'll do."

More Men Turn To Vasectomy

CHICAGO (AP) — Make love, not babies. This seems to be the attitude of the modern American male. The number of men undergoing vasectomy—the male sterilization operation—has shown a "sensational increase" recently, says John R. Rague, executive director of the Association for Voluntary Sterilization in New York City. He estimated 750,000 American males had vasectomies in 1970. That's up from an estimated 200,000 the year before.

And Rague predicted in an interview that the 1971 figure will be even greater than 1970's.

So far, an estimated three million men in the United States have had sterilization surgery—a simple procedure, done often in the doctor's office in a few minutes. The American male is not alone.

In India, where reduction in the birth rate is a major concern, an estimated 8.2 million men have been sterilized. In Great Britain some 20,000 men underwent vasectomies last year and it is estimated the figure will be double for 1971.

Rague said his association offered $30,000 in October 1969 to any New York hospital which would open a vasectomy clinic. There were no takers. The money went to the Margaret Sanger Research Bureau, which did open such a clinic.

Since then, Rague said, 154 vasectomy clinics have opened in 36 states. Among them are 82 hospitals which do vasectomies in their outpatient departments.

Rague, as well as medical authorities, attributes the recent upsurge in requests for male vasectomies to fears about possible adverse side-effects from the contraceptive pills taken by women.

Develop Aid For Blind Typists

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Braille verifier for blind typists is under development at West Virginia University and the first prototype has been completed.

The verifier, which can be attached to standard manual or electric typewriters, enables a blind secretary to check for errors by touch reading each line by means of Braille displays.

There is also, he said, "a finer understanding of human sexuality, especially among the young," so that males are willing to take responsibility for preventing pregnancy.

And "the Puritanism which has been a strong influence in the development of the United States" has been declining in the past decades especially among those under age 30, Rague said.

An obstacle to male sterilization has been the popular misconception that the operation makes the man less masculine, less able to perform sexually.

This is untrue. In fact a survey by the Association for Voluntary Sterilization of 25,000 men who had had vasectomies found that 85 per cent of the men felt that their sexual performances were better, 13 per cent felt it was about the same, and 2 per cent felt that it had declined.

In the last group, Rague noted, the aging process could have been a factor.

The male sterilization operation is much simpler and less expensive to perform than that for females, which requires hospitalization. Vasectomies are performed under local anesthetic, with little or no pain.

Vasectomy interrupts the flow of sperm into the ejaculatory system. The sperm, which are microscopic in size, continue to be manufactured, but they deteriorate and are absorbed with no danger to the body.

Encourage More Bible Reading

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Bible Society encourages wider reading of the Scriptures in three major ways: it publishes annually a daily Bible reading plan, promotes Worldwide Bible Reading Month, from Thanksgiving to Christmas, and endorses observance of National Bible Week, Nov. 21-28, and Bible Sunday, the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

BUSINESS END OF A MOSQUITO — The stinger or proboscis of a mosquito may have felt this big as it penetrated your skin on a summer night. This greatly magnified photograph of the member of the Culicidae family was made by biologists at Argonne National Laboratory using a scanning electron microscope. The proboscis is inserted into the victim to suck blood. (AP Wirephoto)

Museum To Have Native Music

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — American anthropologist Dr. Margaret Mead plans to send traditional music from a remote New Guinean island to the American Museum of Natural History.

Dr. Mead has asked the government radio station at Wewak for a tape recording of the music of Ponam Island in the Manus Island group.

She has made a special study of the Manus Islands and has published two books on her several visits to the area since 1928.

Urban Renewal Finding Singapore's Chinatown

By MORT ROSENBLUM SINGAPORE (AP) — Chinatown, a three-story tangle of pushcarts, eating stalls, funeral parlors, mah jong tables, laundry out to dry and flower sellers, is slowly coming down.

Once stretching for block after block in downtown Singapore, old Chinatown now huddles in a corner off New Bridge Road in the shadow of the concrete People's Park Complex, a modernistic shopping, office and amusement center.

A few death houses remain on Sago Lane, where old men in tee-shirts hammer together coffins for aging tenants living in upstairs rooms. The occasional hollow-eyed Chinese still shows signs of the now rare opium pipe.

Secret society members collect a bit in organized crime and extortion but they are only a dim shadow of the unchecked gangs who ruled the city almost from its founding in 1819.

Sheets of barbecued pork and mounds of noodles line the crowded streets, but many sidewalk chefs have moved to hygienic stainless steel stalls elsewhere.

Perhaps half of old Chinatown fell to the wrecker's ball and to fires since the middle 1960s when urban renewal began in full swing.

Government programs, which have put one-third of Singapore's two million inhabitants in low rent, high-rise apartments at the edge of town, drew heavily from Chinatown.

Vast "squatter areas" where Chinese lived in slum conditions at the outskirts of Chinatown were cleared away. The old market was replaced by the People's Park center.

There are still a half dozen streets of streaked buildings with business downstairs and living space upstairs. Streets are clogged with fruit sellers, peddle rickshaws, black mortuary vans and people bustling from place to place.

More than three-quarters of Singapore's population is Chinese but most live evenly spread around the island, from the rambling colonial style mansions off Holland Road to the rural areas of the east and south.

Chinatown mushroomed as soon as Singapore was Singapore. Junks from the South China ports of Amoy and Canton landed thousands of Chinese traders and laborers who immediately sought the security and familiarity of the neighborhood.

Through the years, it was the social and business center of the predominantly Chinese population.

"Tuberculosis still rates as the third greatest communicable disease found in North Carolina," Miss Fulghum said, "and the incidence rate is high in eastern North Carolina with 227 cases diagnosed in 1970."

Of contributions realized through sale of Christmas seals, 70 per cent remain in the association's area to provide direct patient services such as mechanical breathing devices for emphysema patients; drugs; and transportation for respiratory disease victims.

Pitt County citizens serving on the Board of Directors in addition to Miss Fulghum are J. T. Snowden, Jr., Curtis Hendrix, John Bizzell, Sam Bundy, Dr. Dan Jordan, Dr. Earl Trevathan, Jr., Dr. Donald Tucker, Dr. Allen Taylor and Mrs. Lib Eagles.

Within the next few weeks, the preparation and addressing of envelopes for the mailing list of 130,000 seals will be performed in the Greenville office, headquarters for the 22 county area.

Volunteers, both individuals and groups, are urgently needed to help stuff Christmas seal letters. Interested persons are asked to contact the office at 112 South Pitt Street, across from the main Greenville Post Office.

Local ACLU Hears Reports At Meeting

A report on the investigation of the death of William Earl Murphy and a review of bail bond procedures were heard at a meeting of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union Tuesday night.

The local chapter previously had authorized that a letter be written to Charles Dunn, State Director of the State Bureau of Investigation, detailing the deficiencies in the investigation of the shooting of Murphy by Highway Patrolman Billy Day as it was reported at the Coroner's inquest held Aug. 27. A telegram from Dunn dated Sept. 9 was read. It assured the ACLU chapter that the investigation is not closed and that a full report will be given to the proper authorities and later made public only at the discretion of local authorities.

Reports were given on attempts to provide bail for local citizens being held in the Pitt County jail on charges of violating parade ordinances in Ayden. Details of alleged inconsistencies and apparently arbitrary procedures were reported.

The chapter voted unanimously to request that the full report on the shooting of Murphy be made public as soon as possible. This is needed, the membership feels, to restore full confidence in law enforcement agencies.

The chapter also endorsed a motion inviting authorities governing magistrate and bail bond procedures to explain this part of the judicial system and the means of reviewing its operation.

A special called meeting of the local ACLU Chapter will be held Tuesday, Oct. 5, to receive reports on the two matters, it was reported.

Arrest 25 In Raleigh Tuesday On Drug Counts

RALEIGH (AP) — Officers reported Wednesday they had arrested 25 persons in the biggest drive against illegal drugs in the history of Wake County. They said another 14 persons were being sought.

About 25 officers took part in the arrests that began Tuesday night. They included Raleigh police, Wake County deputies and agents of the SBI.

The officers said some of the drug charges resulted from the work of Raleigh detective Norris Privette, who worked for five months as an undercover agent, making contacts and purchasing drugs.

Deaths Due Poor Diets Remain High

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT
 GENEVA (UPI)—Half of the children born in developing countries die before reaching school age.

Those that survive seldom reach physical and mental growth potentials. The reason is mainly malnutrition—not enough to eat or more often not enough of the right kind of food.

Dr. Kenneth V. Bailey, an Australian who is adviser on nutrition to the World Health Organization (WHO), said in an interview that education is the primary cause of the problem. Health workers sent to the developing countries use Western guidelines which cannot be adapted to different conditions. Nutrition literature does not exist for faraway poor countries.

As a result, very few of the developing nations show proper concern about malnutrition despite it being the main cause of death among children, Dr. Bailey said. The signs are either shrinking because of marasmus, which is slow starvation, or bloating with kwashiorkor, which is a lack of protein. There is widespread growth retardation because of protein-calorie insufficiency. Malnutrition also lowers resistance to infection, so there are high death rates from such minor illnesses as measles and diarrhead. "Malnutrition in fact begins in the pre-natal age," Dr. Bailey said. "There is growing evidence that malnourished mothers give birth to infants who are already nine months along a life track of malnutrition."

He said "irrational" diet restrictions among the population, with governments doing nothing to educate the people, lessen a child's chance to live.

In some areas of Southeast Asia, for example, seafood, eggs and fruit are taboo during pregnancy, because of superstitions. In the Philippines, it is believed by many that if a pregnant woman eats eggs she will lose her baby.

THRU THE MILL

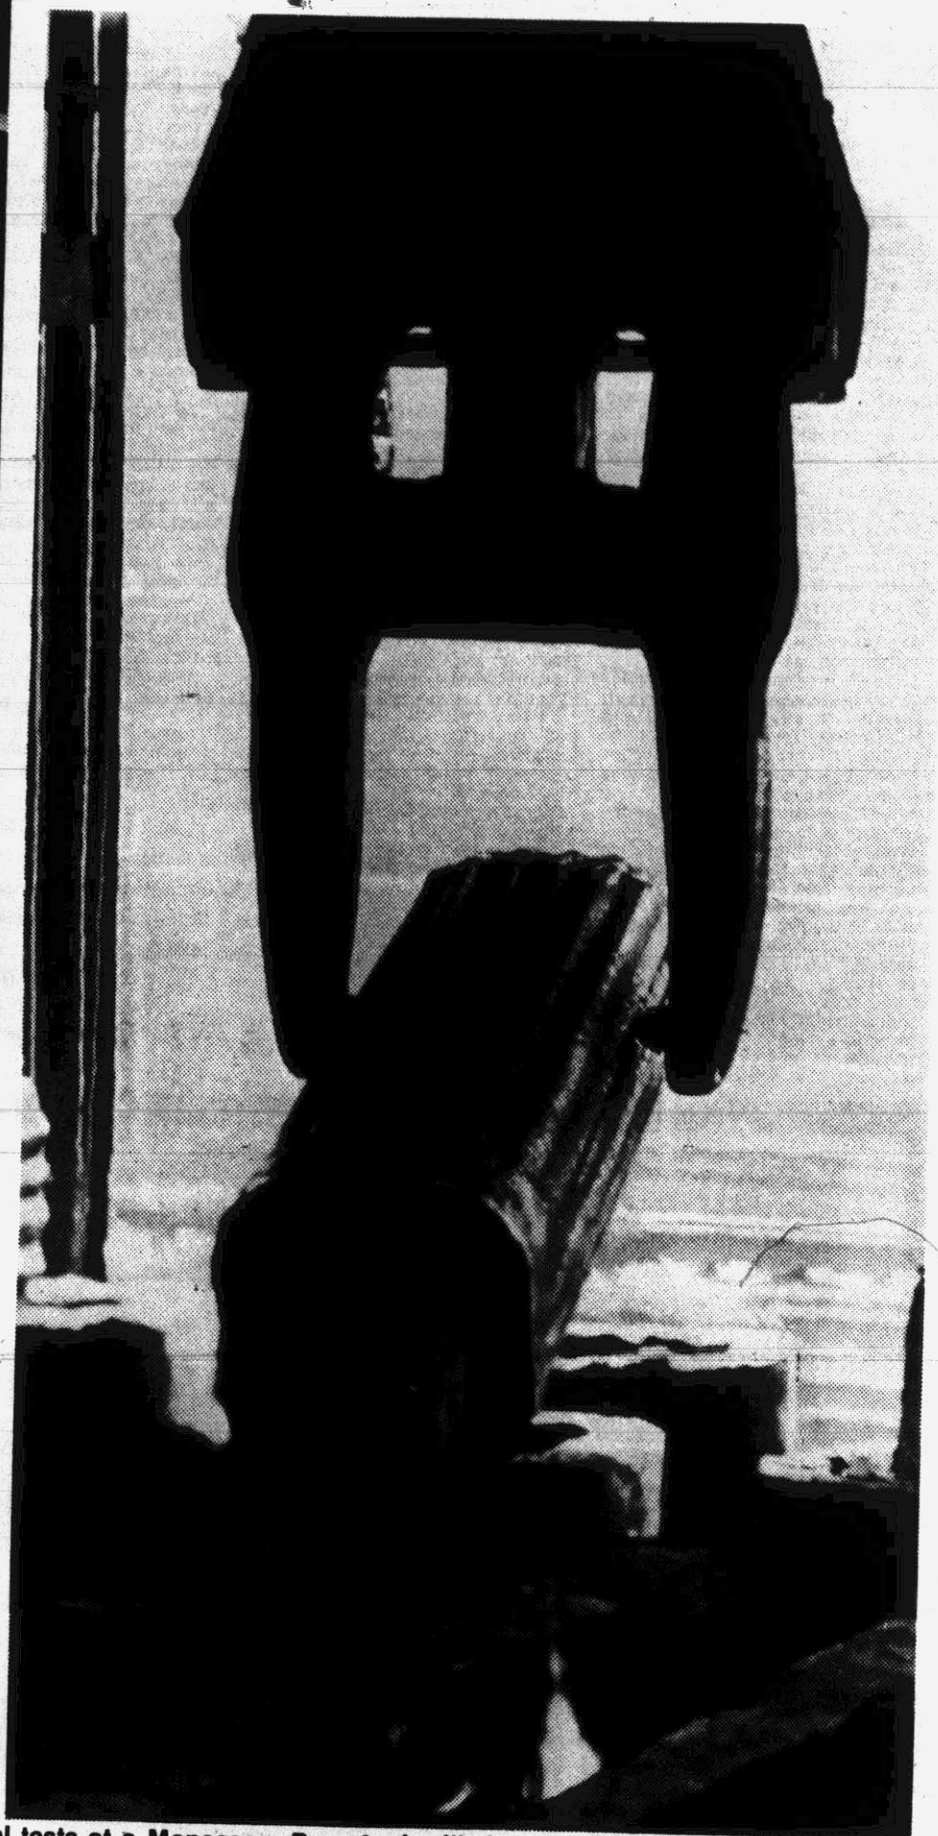

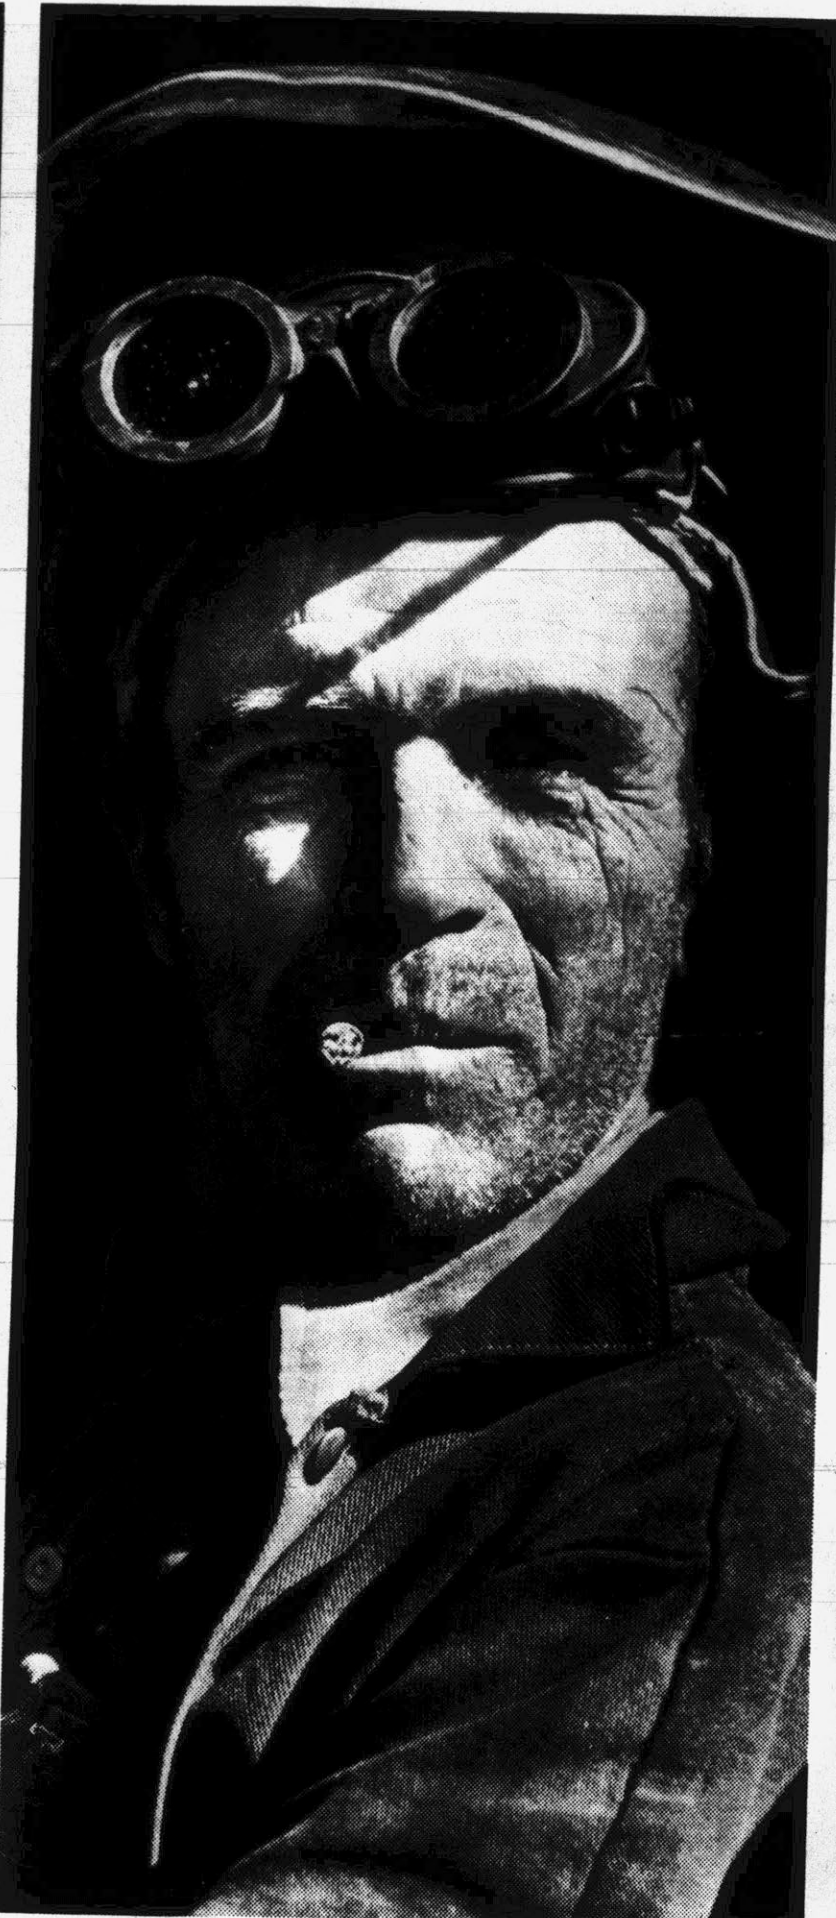

Above, air quivers with heat wave distortion from steel tubes on their way from one milling process to another.

Steelmaking is a drama of awesome proportions. Tons of raw materials and mighty natural forces come into play with huge machines and precision electronics, all guided by the skill of the steelmaker. From this interaction comes the steel which is the backbone of our civilization.

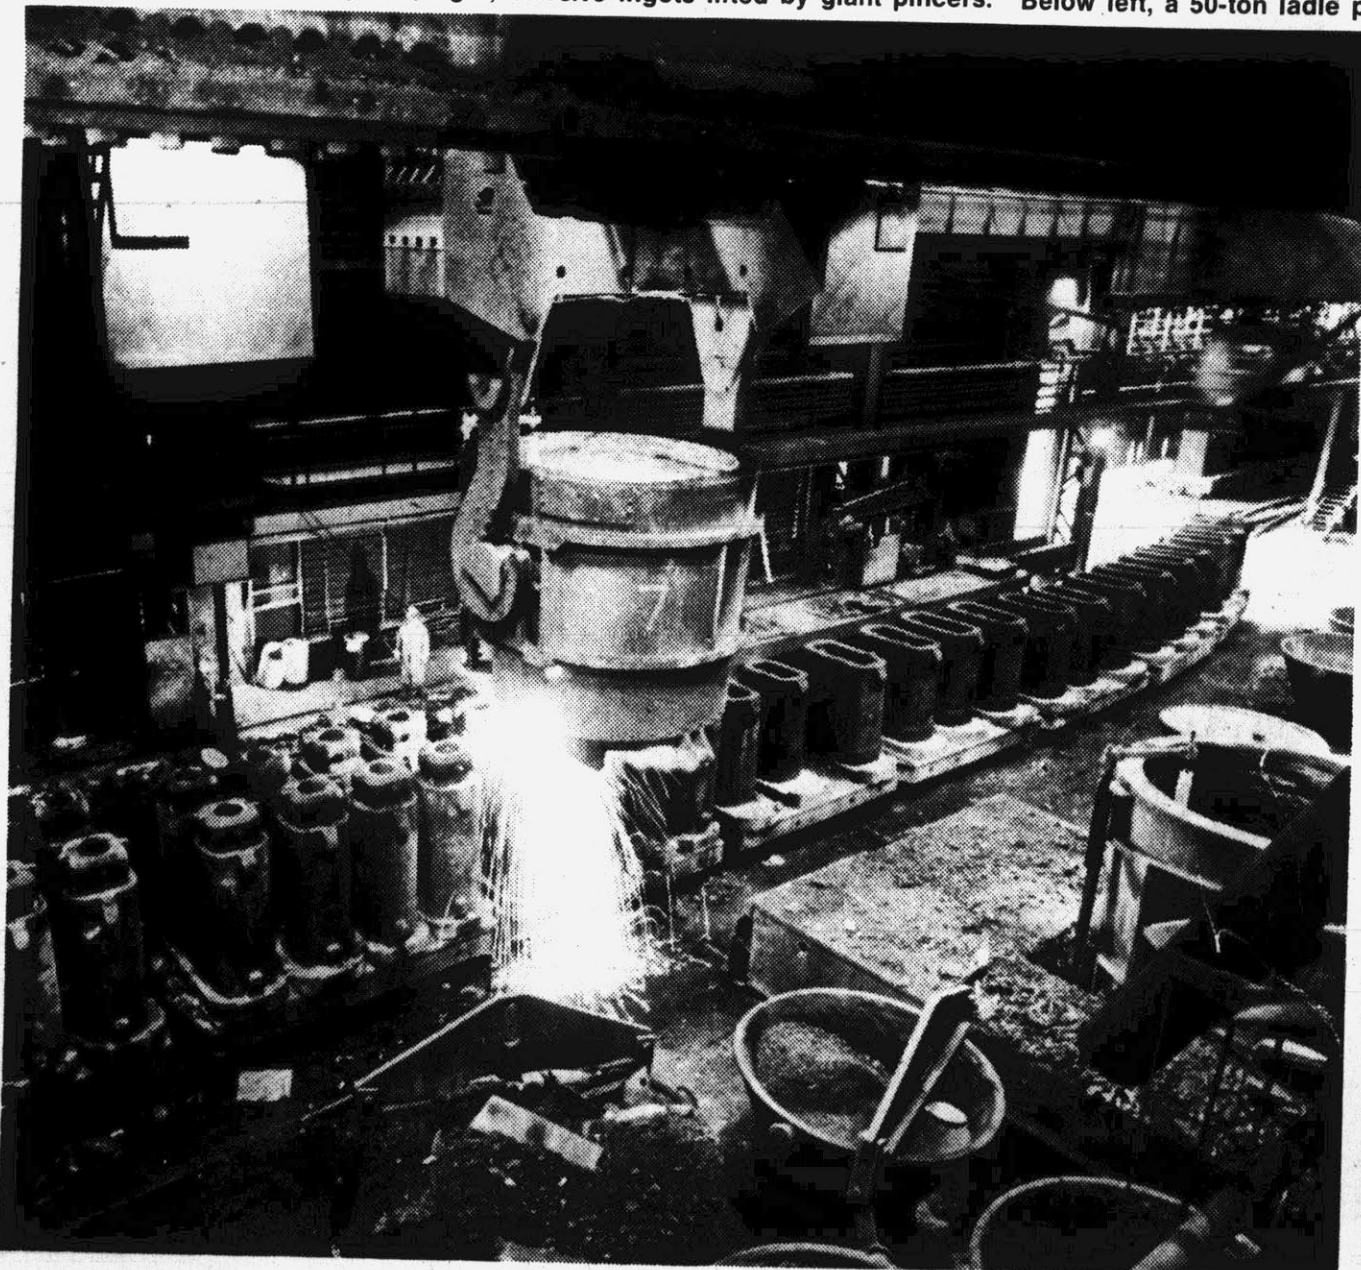

Steelmaking had changed little this century until a few years ago when a near-revolution began: the use of the "basic oxygen furnace." It's many times faster than the old, open hearth method, cleaner and more efficient. Now its use is rapidly overtaking the old method.

The key to its speed and precision is the oxygen blow—a torrent of purifying oxygen pumped through a molten bath of iron in the basic oxygen furnace, creating violent combustion. The duration of the blow determines the carbon content of the steel inside the oxygen furnace—high carbon steel is the purest. After the bath has been analyzed and tested for quality it is poured into ingot molds. The ingots are cooled, extracted and transported to soaking pits where they are reheated to a workable temperature. They go on to be rolled and pressed into various sizes of stock, and then finally to the finishing mills. The photographs on this page were taken in a steel mill in Monessen, Pa.

My Lai Cases End With Only Lt. Calley Convicted

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

Private Talk In Anchorage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emperor Hirohito, the first reigning Japanese monarch to leave home soil, will meet privately with President Nixon for 30 to 40 minutes when he touches down at Anchorage, Alaska, Sunday night en route to Europe.

The White House said Wednesday that Hirohito and Empress Nagako are scheduled to land at Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage about 10 p.m. to a welcome by the President, Mrs. Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

The party will then go to the air base home of Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Robert G. Ruegg. Mrs. Nixon and the empress will remain with the emperor and the President for a few minutes, then leave them in private conversation.

Wants Broader Excise Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N. C., has called on President Nixon to broaden his request for removal of the 7 per cent excise tax on automobiles to include trucks, campers and trailers up to one ton in weight.

Galifianakis said this would give "the little man more of the break he needs and further stimulate the economy by increasing the dollar flow."

Sight is the strongest of human senses.

24, a lieutenant in the United States Army, leader of an infantry platoon in the assault on My Lai.

There were Sgts. David Mitchell and Charles Hutto, squad leader and machine gunner. There was Cap. Eugene M. Kotouc, round-faced and pixie-ish, the intelligence officer for the attacking force.

And then Ernest Medina, with bearing and manner that shouted pride of uniform and rank, the captain who commanded Charlie Company that bloody morning in South Vietnam.

Thirteen had been charged with crimes of assault and murder. These five were tried. Only Rusty Calley stood branded a mass murderer when the gavel dropped Wednesday for the last time at Medina's trial, the last trial of the men who fought at My Lai. Separate courts-martial decreed Mitchell and Hutto not guilty of assaulting respectively 30 and six Vietnamese civilians with intent to murder; Kotouc not guilty of maiming a prisoner by cutting off a finger; Medina innocent of killing a woman, assaulting a Viet Cong suspect or involuntary manslaughter in the death of 100.

But Calley was pictured at his trial as ordering his men to fire into two groups of old men, women and children, then spraying round after round of M-16 ammunition into the screaming mass. The jury convicted him of at least 22 murders and sentenced him to life in prison after the longest court-martial in history.

The verdict brought a national outcry of "scapegoat," a presidential promise of review, and later reduction in sentence to 20 years at hard labor with opportunity for still a lesser sentence in appeal.

There remains for the Army only some final blame-fixing and in-house punishment stemming from the slaughter at My Lai 3½ years ago.

Col. Oran K. Henderson, a quiet Hoosier with 30 years of service and a chestful of ribbons for valor still is on trial at Ft. Meade, Md.—not for what happened at My Lai, but its aftermath.

The Army charges that by failing to follow on orders for thorough investigation and reporting the incident to higher command Brigade Commander Henderson helped in the cover-up. And, it charges, he lied to a high-level board of inquiry when the story finally became public 1½ years after the action. Henderson was one of 13 officers charged with whitewash as a result of that Pentagon investigation. None of the others was brought to trial, however. The division commander, Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, was stripped of one star and his assistant, Brig. Gen. George H. Young, was reprimanded. Some of the others still face administrative sanctions.

But with Medina's acquittal, the government closed the legal books on participants in the assault.

The men of Charlie Company who returned to civilian life are out of the Army's reach and no civilian court has jurisdiction. The enlisted men who were charged but not brought to trial have been let out of the service. And the statute of limitations has run out for any further cover-up trials.

In the 4½ months of Calley's trial at Ft. Benning, the story of My Lai became well known.

Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, commander of the task force named for him, briefed his company commanders the day before the assault. Col. Henderson, who had moved up from executive officer to brigade commander that day, was at the meeting and stressed aggressiveness.

Medina, in turn, briefed his Charlie Company—the spearhead of the assault. Calley's 1st platoon took the south half of the village, the 2nd platoon was in the north part and the 3rd platoon was to mop up, burning the hooches. A standard search-and-destroy operation in such a Viet Cong-infested area as the My Lai hamlets of Son My village.

Medina testified at Calley's and his own trial that he told his men to use common sense if they were confronted by civilians. Calley said Medina ordered everyone killed and that he relayed instructions to "waste them."

Charlie Company met no enemy resistance that day. Medina testified while his men were in the village he thought they were battling the Viet Cong, that he heard nothing about civilians being shot, that he saw 20-28 bodies and thought they were killed by artillery or helicopter fire.

But a helicopter pilot returned to his base and reported indiscriminate shooting of civilians and a confrontation with Calley. The word was passed to Barker and two days later to Henderson. Some six weeks later, Henderson reported that 128 Viet Cong were killed, along with 20-28 civilians who got in the way of artillery and gunships.

The saga of My Lai became barracks-room talk among Americans in Vietnam, but none of it reached official ears until a former G.I.—who hadn't been there—wrote congressmen in March 1969 about what he'd heard. He spoke of "something rather dark and bloody."

Then the Pentagon investigated and brought its charges.

Weird Things Turning Up On 'Night Gallery'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Some weird things are turning up on Rod Serling's "Night Gallery," this season expanded into a weekly series.

Tacked on the end of NBC's Wednesday night schedule, the hour seems to be the flip side of "Love, American Style," a number of short, unrelated pieces but with the macabre substituted for love and gruesomeness for comedy.

The most recent contribution, penned with E. G. Marshall playing a gentle funeral home proprietor who collected corpses. Another long segment had Vincent Price play a professor training a seminar of robot students to become racists and bigots. Its message was lost in the shuffle.

There were two short black-ones. One, which telegraphed its ending early, had Imogene Coca building herself a suicide cell. The other, presumably designed for grisly humor, involved cannibalism.

Maybe the whole thing is in fun. But for some the program seemed a tasteless exercise in horror, light years away from the sort of thing Alfred Hitchcock produced with sly grace.

Earlier, also on NBC, Marshall Sam McCloud reappeared—still a determined, match-chewing country lawman outwitting the big city criminals and even the city police department to which he is temporarily assigned.

Dennis Weaver's show, now 90 minutes long, is one of the three rotating segments "Mystery Movie." The gimmick of McCloud is the innocent deceptive way the New Mexico marshal questions the suspects. However, the awkward dialogue given to Weaver would have made even a juvenile delinquent suspect, what he was up to.

The first of the season's McCloud shows had the hero exposing a complicated scheme involving an astrologer, his wealthy wife, a kidnaper and a time bomb. Sebastian Cabot played the villain, but it was hard to believe in him after all those seasons when he was the lovable gentlemen's gentleman of "Family Affair."

Carol Burnett and her company of comedians have moved to an earlier time period on CBS but are keeping the same format. It opens with her question-and-answer period with the audience and moves into a show strong in sketches laced with musical numbers. Most pleasant interlude of the evening Wednesday was a Burt Bacharach medley by Carol and the Carpenters. Driest was an operating room sketch with Tim Conway overdoing things as a senile, palsied surgeon.

Carol's clothes, a highlight for the female audience, are more chic and elegant than ever.

Carolinians Nine Manufacturers Of Plumbing Fixtures Sued

VIENNA (AP) — Thirty-five Charlotte, N.C., business and government leaders are visiting Europe this week to drum up new industry and fresh methods for running their city. They report the reception has been encouraging.

"Everything looks rosy for Charlotte everywhere we go," said Irwin Belk, a retail store owner.

Belk a former state legislator, indicated the delegation has talked with representatives of textile, furniture and tobacco concerns—the primary North Carolina industries—and has had "a very fine reception everywhere we go."

The trade mission is an annual function but this is only the group's second trip outside the United States. Last year it visited Denver.

Belk, Fred Alexander, Charlotte mayor pro-tem, and Joe Withrow, a City councilman, said they were especially impressed with a huge shopping mall in Cologne, Germany, and plan to urge Charlotte to consider a similar project.

"I think it has lots of promise," Withrow said. "It's a great benefit to get rid of the automobile" in shopping areas, he added.

The men were among five delegates who are on a side trip to Vienna to observe solid waste disposal techniques.

Other contingents are visiting European headquarters of firms with offices in the Charlotte area.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The State of North Carolina has filed a suit against nine manufacturers of plumbing fixtures and their professional association, alleging price fixing and asking for treble damages.

The suit was brought by Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy on behalf of all individual consumers and public agencies in North Carolina that purchased enameled cast iron or vitreous china plumbing fixtures between 1962 and 1966.

If the state wins the suit, state agencies and individuals who bought plumbing fixtures made by the defendants during the specified time period could recover damages threefold.

A companion suit was expected to be filed in U.S. District Court in Columbia, S.C., by the South Carolina attorney general. A number of other states have elected to settle their cases out of court.

Enameled cast iron fixtures described in the suit include bathtubs, lavatories and sinks while the vitreous china type usually are water closets, some lavatories and urinals.

Named as defendants were: American Standard Inc., New York; Kohler Co., Kohler, Wis.; Crane Co., New York; Universal-Rundle Corp., New Castle, Pa.; Rheem Manufacturing Co., New York; Borg-Warner Corp., Chicago; Wallace Murray Corp., New York; and Briggs Manufacturing Co., Warren, Mich.

Also listed as a defendant was the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association, (PFMA) an unincorporated organization with offices in Washington.

PFMA secretary William E. Kramer was named in the suit as a coconspirator in the alleged price fixing but not as a defendant.

The state's suit claimed that the defendants attended PFMA meetings at which they:

- Agreed to increase the prices of their plumbing fixtures.
- Established limitations on maximum discounts and published prices of the fixtures.

- Threatened one another with retaliatory action for reported deviations from the maximum discounts and published prices.
- Agreed to discontinue making regular enameled cast iron plumbing fixtures.
- Agreed to seek and to obtain, as part of the agreement to stop making such fixtures, the revision of the Enameled Cast Iron Commercial Standard to provide for only acid resistant enameled cast iron fixtures.

"As a result of the violations of the antitrust laws," the suit said, "the plaintiff and members of the class have been injured and financially damaged in an amount not yet ascertained."

Negroes See More Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Substantial gains are reported in Negro employment by five of the nation's largest textile firms, including three that were once threatened with the loss of defense contracts.

A review by the Pentagon's Contracts Compliance Office, released Wednesday, showed that total minority employment between 1968 and 1971 increased from 21,031 to 31,182 at plants, laboratories and offices of the five firms in the Southeast.

The Pentagon identified the five firms covered by the study as Burlington Industries, Dan River Mills, J. P. Stevens, Fieldcrest Mills and Springs Mills.

Burlington, Dan River and J. P. Stevens faced possible loss of defense contracts in 1969 when the government said the firms had not fully complied with civil rights provisions in the matter of hiring practices.

The Pentagon said Wednesday a review of the hiring practices of the five firms during the last four years show a gain of 25.5 per cent in the hiring of black males, and an increase of 118 per cent for black women employees.

DA's Son Faces An Indictment

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 24-year-old son of San Mateo County Dist. Atty. Keith Sorenson has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of refusing to report for induction.

The indictment returned Wednesday charges Thomas Keith Sorenson, a former senior at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, failed to appear for induction as ordered Nov. 12, 1970, at Oakland Induction Center. He resides with his family in suburban Redwood City.

James C. Browning Jr., who served as a prosecutor on the elder Sorenson's staff before being appointed U.S. attorney by President Nixon, signed the indictment.

Deer Crashes In Indiana School

MARION, Ind. (AP) — Police received a report of a loud, crashing noise Wednesday night, went to a Marion elementary school, discovered an intruder and noisily ejected the guilty party—a deer.

The animal had crashed through a plate glass window. It was taken to a nearby wooded area and released.

The Worry Clinic Tips Toward A Happy Family

Velma's Junior High class were vitally interested in reducing the "generation gap" and producing far more happy family camaraderie. So check the 8-point formula outlined below. And if you are able to read easily, rate yourselves on the "Behavior Tests for Teen-Agers."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case R-570: Velma D., aged 12, is in Junior High School.
When I visit a city for a banquet address, I tell my sponsoring organization that I will also gladly speak to high school or college convocations during the day.
So I may thus address 2 or 3 youth groups before the main event at 8 P.M.
After my talk to Velma's Junior High assembly, her Guidance Counselor invited me to visit a class of about 30 who were dealing with family problems.
"Dr. Crane," Velma asked, "how can parents and children produce a happy family?"
So I quickly outlined these

- salient points:
- (1) Encourage friendly discussion and even debates at the dinner table.
For this helps bridge that "generation gap."
And also lets the children whet their wits on each other's, as our pioneer psychologist, Professor William James, stated concerning his own boyhood.
For when you take a positive stand in your dinner table remarks, then your siblings may challenge you, so you learn to think fast and more logically.
 - (2) Try to get the entire family in active participation in the same church.

For when daddy and mother accompany their youngsters to Sunday School, we find very few cases of delinquency resulting. And such parents rarely get a divorce!
(3) Start my "Compliment Club" and report the reactions of people to whom you have offered honest praise during the day.
Also, use a few compliments on your own family, too.
When I asked Velma's classmates how many had paid a compliment to either parent that morning, not one hand went up!
For we tend to take love and care and sacrifices for granted, but even our home folks are perked up in morale by a bit of praise.
So I quoted Benjamin Franklin's wise adage, "As we must account for every idle word, so we must for every idle silence!"
And it is your silence that often causes heartbreak, inferiority complexes in our comrades, and even suicide!
(4) Organize all-family recreation, as picnics, visits to the zoo or amusement park, swimming parties, ball games, etc.
(5) Assume your share of household chores instead of letting Mamma pick up after you, as if you are an adult infant!
(6) Take the executive's outlook and plan your work ahead, even writing down tomorrow's agenda before you go to bed tonight.
Thus, you can accomplish far more, without dawdling or killing time trying to figure out what to do next after one chore is finished.

(7) Don't ask for a free cash allowance, but work for your spending money, just as adults must do.
For gift money makes you develop the "dole" psychology and predisposes to undue dependence on parents; then later on Uncle Sam for welfare.
(8) Don't feel unduly inferior because of secret fears of snakes or lightning or mice, etc., for everybody has had some such terrors.
Send for my "Behavior Tests for Teen-Agers," enclosing long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. Discuss them in school, too.
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, ad-executive secretary in the overseas material aid agency.

three rounds. He had 12 top tricks—three spades, five hearts, three diamonds and one club. There appeared to South to be three possibilities to score the 13er—dropping jack of diamonds, taking a successful club finesse or squeezing one of the opponents if that player held the protection in both minor suits.
Three rounds of spades were cashed to which every one followed. South led his remaining hearts discarding two clubs on dummy. West gave up one diamond and the eight of clubs while East shed two more clubs.
The king of diamonds was led, followed by a small diamond to the ace on which East showed out, parting with the seven of clubs.
South cashed the queen of diamonds on which East threw his last spade. When declarer led a club at trick 12 and West followed with the jack, South realized the futility of finessing inasmuch as his left hand opponent was known to still have the jack of diamonds. The ace of clubs was played from dummy on which East contributed the ten. The queen of clubs lost the final trick to East's king.
South had overlooked one additional possibility on the deal—a dummy reversal. Suppose he wins the first heart in his hand and crosses over to the ace of clubs to ruff a club with the queen of hearts. The deuce of hearts is led over to the nine and if both opponents follow suit, South is well on his way, another club is trumped with the heart king.
A spade is led to the king and North's last club is ruffed with the ace of hearts. A diamond puts dummy in with the ace and the ten of hearts draws West's remaining trump as South discards the ten of diamonds. The last four tricks are taken by South with his high spades and diamonds.
In all, South scores, the ace of clubs and three club ruffs, two hearts in his hand and one in dummy, three diamonds and three spades.

South had nearly enough for a demand opening bid—23 points in high cards and distribution plus three tens—but he contented himself with a mere one heart call. When North jumped to two no trump, South was determined to reach a slam. He temporized by bidding three diamonds and when this got a preference back to hearts, he launched a Blackwood inquiry. North announced possession of both missing aces and one king. It was reasonable from South's spade holding to assume that North's king was in that suit, inasmuch as the two no trump response announces stoppers in all unbid suits. If he has the jack of diamonds, the odds are heavily in South's favor. All things considered, the grand slam undertaking appears reasonable. South put the hand in seven hearts, presumably to cash his 100 honors.
West led the four of hearts and declarer drew trumps in

'Pacification' Seeing Setback

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — For the first time since the enemy Tet offensive of 1968, Saigon's control of the South Vietnamese countryside has slipped and U.S. experts attribute this largely to efforts to get President Nguyen Van Thieu re-elected.

Statistics released Thursday show a nationwide three-tenths of one per cent reduction in government control of the population. With a corresponding increase of one-tenth of one per cent in persons living in contested areas and one-tenth of a per cent in persons living in hamlets under Viet Cong control. The other tenth of a per cent was not evaluated.

N.C. Council For Controls

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Consumers Council favors continuation of wage and price controls after President Nixon's 90-day freeze has ended and says they should be "so shaped and administered to be as fair to the consumer, farmer and worker as to business and industry."

The council board's executive committee also called for the creation of an impartial, non-partisan board to "review the controls, determine what changes are needed to make the controls more equitable and rule on increases in either wages or prices, or both, until the national economy recovers from its present precarious position."

"Controls on profits, interest, dividends, rents and fees should be as stringent as controls on wages," it said, adding that no special considerations should be given industry "in the name of stimulating the economy which would defeat the objectives of wage-price controls and which would not be balanced by considerations as favorable to the consumer, farmer and worker."

The committee adopted a stand for the council in response to an inquiry from Mrs. Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's special assistant for consumer affairs.

counted the slippage as not great enough to be significant, a senior official of the U.S. pacification advisory program termed it "disturbing" because it reversed the government's steady upward trend of the last three years.

At the same time, American analysts said the preoccupation of South Vietnamese officials with getting Thieu re-elected Oct. 3 had pushed aside most other priorities and plunged the pacification effort into a three-month state of "virtual paralysis." Thieu is unopposed in the election, but he has said he will step down if he gets less than 30 per cent of the vote.

While enemy political activity is considered to be a factor in the deterioration, the election is said by many Americans in the U.S. pacification advisory unit to be much more important.

"Nobody at the province level or below seems to give a damn about anything except making sure Thieu makes a good showing," said one U.S. expert.

"They are putting all their efforts into that. Their jobs depend on it. Meanwhile, pacification is going to hell."

Classify Kilt As Female Wear

SYDNEY (AP) — Allan Fraser asked the Australian Customs Department the tariff on uniforms imported from Scotland for a highland band.

"Not only did the rate of duty shock me," he says, "but the news that the department officially classifies the kilt as female apparel."

CHURCH MUSEUM
MANILA (UPI) — A museum containing historical relics dating back to the 16th century has been opened at the San Augustin Roman Catholic Church in Manila. The museum contains manuscripts, old books, sculpture and religious art objects tracing the 400 years of Spain's colonization of the Philippines.

The eastern shore of Lake Michigan has a famous peach belt.

security situation had deteriorated to the point where, in his view, nothing was moving forward in South Vietnam "except the Viet Cong."
