Nixon Pledges 'Phase II' To Cover Entire Economy

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) - President Nixon promises that wage-price restraints to take effect Nov. 14 will "cover the whole economy" and - depending on interest rate trends - could encompass regulation of rates on consumer credit.

The hour-long quiz was broadcast nationally by some radio networks. At a Sept. 9 news conference, Nixon spoke of wage-price restraints on major industries following the Nov. 13 expiration of the current freeze.

restraints, could contribute most strongly to continued inflation. The chief executive was asked by one member of a 10-man panel how soon he planned to return to a "free economy."

several thousand demonstrators paraded for a variety of causes. Some opposed the freeze, some the Vietnam war, some the handling of the Attica, N.Y., prison revolt.

Furlough-Winberry Vows Exchanged In Ceremony

ROBERSONVILLE — Miss Brenda Kay Winberry became the bride of Thomas Eugene Furlough Sunday, at three o'clock at the First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Paul Mears officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lee Winberry of Robersonville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guilford Eugene Furlough of Hamilton.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Robert Adkins, organist, of Robersonville, and Mrs. William E. Thomas of Hamilton, who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "O Perfect Love." The bride and bridegroom sang "May the Grace of Christ Our Savior" as the benediction.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length wedding gown of peau de soie and chantilly lace. The empire bodice and the full length bishop sleeves were of chantilly lace while the Victorian neckline and cuffs carried a seed pearl design. The bodice was joined with a chapel length train highlighted with lace appliques. The bride wore a cathedral length mantilla of illusion with a border of lace matching that of her train.

The church was decorated on each side with nine branched candelabra with a background of jade greenery and arrangements of yellow mums, daisies and gladioli. The couple knelt for prayer on a prie-dieu after taking Communion.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Jimmy Lee Keel of Chamblee, Ga., sister of the bride. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Gladys Furlough of Hamilton, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. William E. Thomas of Hamilton, Mrs. Jimmy Rogerson of Williamston, aunts of the bridegroom, Miss Jennifer Stalls of Robersonville, Miss Sue Winberry of Alexandria, Va., and Miss Sue Ellen Meeks of Robersonville, cousins of the bride.

They wore empire floor length dresses of maize highlighted with a Victorian neckline and long puffed sleeves with Venise lace. The dresses were accented by matching headpieces of veil illusion. Each carried a long-stemmed yellow rose.

Miss Penny Meeks of Robersonville and Miss Lisa Thomas of Hamilton carried the bride's train. Their dresses were identical to the other attendants.

Brian Thomas of Hamilton, cousin of the bridegroom, served as the ring bearer.

Guilford Eugene Furlough, father of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were

MRS. THOMAS EUGENE FURLOUGH

William E. Thomas of Hamilton, uncle of the bridegroom, Jimmy Lee Keel of Chamblee, Ga., the bride's brother-in-law, Harry Douglas Stalls of Robersonville, Melvin O'ell Crisp Jr., Gregory Baxter White, both of Raleigh, and Gregory Wayne Taylor of Williamston, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. James E. Gray III of Raleigh, cousin of the bride, directed the wedding.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Winberry chose an apricot dress trimmed with matching lace. The bridegroom's mother selected a pink ensemble with a crepe dress and a matching chiffon coat. Matching accessories completed her outfit. Both mothers wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Louis T. Winberry, grandmother of the bride, wore a beige ensemble with matching attire. Mrs. David Furlough, grandmother of the bridegroom, of Creswell, selected a navy blue dress with matching accessories. Both grandmothers wore white orchids.

For traveling, the bride changed into a royal blue dress with matching accessories. She wore the orchid lifted off from her bridal bouquet of yellow roses. The bride is a graduate of Robersonville High School and Chowan College School of Nursing.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Oak City High School and North Carolina State University. After a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Hamilton.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall which was decorated with yellow mums and daisies.

Mrs. Thurman Stalls of Robersonville presided at the bridal registry. After the bridal couple cut the first traditional slice of cake, refreshments were served. Good-byes were said by Mrs. Lucille Ward of Hamilton.

Following the rehearsal Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meeks Jr. and Mrs. Ellis Haislip of Robersonville entertained at an after-rehearsal party held at the fellowship hall of the church.

Guests were greeted and refreshments were served. The bridal couple presented their attendants with gifts during the evening.

'The Princess' Needs To Help Keep The 'Castle'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by CHICAGO TRIBUNE-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have a grown daughter whom I shall call "The Princess." She works full-time and lives at home. We both love her very much, but here's the problem.

The Princess never misses a meal at home, gets free room and board, her own TV, and my wife even buys her toothpaste and shampoo, besides doing her laundry.

In turn, The Princess monopolizes the bathroom, keeps a sloppy room and leaves her cosmetics and clothing scattered all over the place from h— to breakfast.

I maintain she should contribute to her food expense. My wife thinks I am "Cruel." She says the girl is insecure, and it's all MY fault. Is it? —DADDY

DEAR DADDY: I don't know, but if she is insecure, what difference does it make whose fault it is? One way to reduce her insecurity is by helping her to build her self-respect. Start by insisting that The Princess contribute something, if only her cooperation, around the "castle."

DEAR ABBY: There are some Europeans who think that garlic and onions are "healthy." I have a friend who even rubs raw onions and raw garlic on heating equipment such as stoves, ovens, ductwork and anything that heats up because he honestly believes that the smell of onions and garlic kills germs. Does it? —NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: No. But it could test a lot of friendships.

DEAR ABBY: You had a letter in your column from a woman who had been married for 18 years to a man who still flirts. Well, I have her beat. I've been married for 55 years to a man who still flirts. He is over 80, and I don't see any signs of him slowing up.

You once compared an old man who chases women to a dog that chases cars. How did that one go anyway? —CHASER'S WIFE: HAGERSTOWN, MD.

DEAR WIFE: I said: "An old man who chases women is like a dog that chases cars. If he ever caught one he wouldn't know what to do with it."

DEAR ABBY: I don't write to columnists as a rule, but after reading all the comments about wedding gifts, I decided to send this on to you:

With the invitation to a wedding of a young California couple came this note: "There are millions of the poor who are cold and hungry. There is still war and ever-increasing ravages of war. This makes us aware of our riches and makes us want to find meaning for ourselves and for our marriage in somehow changing things. Therefore, if you had planned to give us a gift, we would especially appreciate a contribution to the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the American Friends Service Committee, the Committee to Aid Hungry Americans or some other cause, so that because of our marriage life for others may be a little better."

After I read the above, I guess it made my day a little better. I am divorced, but should I ever marry again, I think I will follow in the footsteps of these beautiful young people. Maybe if you print this, others will, too. —"TOUCHED" IN MICHIGAN

DEAR TOUCHED: I, too, am touched. Thank you for sharing a truly noble attitude in a generally selfish and materialistic world.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

UNC-G Alumni Seek To Push Ten-Year Fund Raising Effort

GREENSBORO — The Alumni Annual Giving Program is now entering its 10th year at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and the 1971-72 goal will be to top the $1 million mark in total money raised through the annual campaign over the 10-year period.

The goal was established Tuesday at a campus meeting of the Alumni Annual Giving Council, headed by Mrs. Edwin Holt of Summit, N. J., chairman. The Council also approved as part of its 1971-72 goal the encouraging of alumni to increase their pledges to UNC-G by 10 per cent this year.

During the past nine years, a total of $872,922 has been contributed through the Alumni Annual Giving Program. Thus, to go over $1 million for the 10-year period, at least $127,078 must be raised during 1971-72.

Last year, a record-breaking amount of $150,571 was given through the program and at its meeting, the Council heard a final report on that campaign by George W. Hamer, UNC-G's director of development.

The establishment of a goal for the 1971-72 campaign sets the stage for kicking off the personal visitation phase of the fund drive. In the weeks ahead more than 50 UNC-G alumni groups in North Carolina and other states will be starting their fund-raising work.

At its meeting, the Alumni Annual Giving Council took the following actions:

Approved recommendations by UNC-G Chancellor James Ferguson for allocating $26,795 in remaining unrestricted funds contributed to last year's annual giving program.

Re-elected Mrs. Holt to a second term as chairman of the Council. Though now living in Summit, N. J., Mrs. Holt originally lived in Smithfield. Welcomed seven newly-elected members to the Council. They are Mrs. Katherine Crouch Sledge of Whiteville; John Pinnix of Reidsville; Mrs. Sadie Moyle Suggs of Gastonia; Miss Ruth C. Wilson of Raleigh and Miss Merib Mossman, UNC-G professor who is the new faculty representative to the council; Larry Saffotti and Patricia Potter, UNC-G student representatives.

Of the $150,571 contributed to UNC-G through the alumni campaign last year, $64,874 of it was in designated gifts. A total of $49,902 of the remainder was allocated last May 29 for the alumni operating budget and salaried positions associated with the alumni program. That left $26,795 to be allocated by the Council at its recent meeting.

The bulk of it, $21,000, was assigned to the UNC-G Alumni Scholarship program. This program last year provided 32 undergraduate scholarships ranging in value from $225 to $1,000.

Other allocations included $1,000, teaching excellence awards; $1,500, faculty and student travel; $500, China year lecture program. In addition, transferred from reserves were $1,899 to the Kathleen Hawkins Student Aid Fund, $1,000 to the Special Student Employment Fund and $500 to the Residential College for equipment needs.

The Council also received a report on the $64,874 given in designated gifts. This money went to 49 different projects, the majority of which were special scholarships funds.

Those members who ended terms on the Alumni Annual Giving Council Tuesday included Mrs. Mary Cecile Higgins Bridges of Greensboro; Mrs. Gladys Strawn Bullard of Raleigh; Mrs. Mary Delia Rankin Jarman of Gastonia, Dr. Laura Anderton, UNC-G faculty representative and Tim Kauffman of Mebane, student representative.

Cautious Hopes Raised North Ireland May See Joint Govm't

By RONALD THOMSON
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — A concession by Northern Ireland's main opposition party raised cautious hopes today that Protestant and Roman Catholic politicians may soon be ready to cooperate in governing the troubled province.

The guarded statement by Gerry Fitt, leader of the Social Democratic and Labor party—SDLP—in Ulster, brought cheers in the British House of Commons Thursday night. During the closing stages of a two-day emergency debate on the Irish crisis, Fitt said his party is "willing and anxious to enter into negotiations to bring about a satisfactory solution to the Northern Ireland problem." But he stressed one vital condition—that Prime Minister Brian Faulkner's Protestant-based government must abandon its policy of internment suspected republican terrorists without trial.

Faulkner already has offered to negotiate with opposition groups, mostly supported by the Catholic minority, on giving them more say in framing government policy. But the SDLP and others spurned the offer by withdrawing from the northern parliament and planning to set up their own unofficial assembly next month.

Fitt's statement was hailed as a breakthrough by James Callaghan, home secretary in Britain's previous Labor government.

In winding up the Commons debate, Prime Minister Edward Heath urged the Northern Ireland opposition parties to accept Faulkner's offer of "genuine participation" in government.

But he said the internment of 219 suspected subversives had helped to prevent the North from sliding into civil war.

The prime minister also announced that officials of the international Red Cross will visit the camp near Belfast where the internees are being held. Relatives have complained about the conditions there.

In Belfast two teen-agers, a boy and a girl, were killed in an explosion that demolished a house in the Catholic Lower Falls area.

Their deaths brought two-year toll in Northern Ireland's violence to 110.

British troops trying to investigate the explosion in Merion Street were held back by a hostile crowd. There was speculation that the teen-agers may have accidentally set off the explosion.

The house was in an area where soldiers often searched for arms and explosives of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

Exchanges of fire between troops and IRA snipers were reported in other areas of the capital during the night, but no casualties were recorded.

Prison Reform Pleases Scott

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott revisited grim Central Prison Thursday and said he is pleased with reforms being made by the State Department of Corrections.

During his surprise visit to the prison, Scott made a 90-minute tour and paused long enough to get a haircut from a visibly nervous inmate.

The trim came when the governor inspected the prison's new barber training school.

"What's the going price, Dave?" he asked David Evans, who along with William E. McLand operates the barber school.

Inmate Ronald Shealy of Greensboro gave Scott a free trim, although he told a newsman, "Nervous? Yes sir, there's no doubt about it."

After his first visit to the prison in June, 1970, Scott called for a thorough going investigation of the North Carolina penal system by a select committee of the state bar association.

The panel recommended changes last March. Most of them have been put into effect.

Prison officials set a brisk pace for the governor who constantly hailed inmates with a "Hi, how are you? and kept up a steady flow of questions.

As he walked out the east gate of the prison, Scott told a reporter that taken as a whole he saw many changes for the better since his last visit. One of the improvements was the barber school.

Scott noted under construction nearby the new 72-bed mental health and receiving building scheduled for occupation this year. The 1971 General Assembly authorized a companion building for the prison.

"Yet," Scott said, "there are still many unmet needs that will require appropriations from the General Assembly, the ever-presenting and continuing need for modern facilities. When three guards are responsible for a cellblock, they are almost at the mercy of the prisoners."

Private School Attendance Up

RALEIGH (AP) — Figures released today by the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction show that the number of students attending private schools continues to increase, although they still represent only 4 per cent of the state's students.

Some 49,016 students are now enrolled in 257 private schools in North Carolina, from kindergarten to 12th grade.

The department's consultant for non-public schools, Calvin Criner, said the figures are tentative and subject to change.

"The private schools are continuing to appear," Criner said, "and the new ones, so far, are staying open."

Out of 152 school districts in the state, only 15 have private school enrollments above 1,000. Charlotte-Mecklenburg leads with 6,563 and Winston-Salem-Forsyth is second with 5,436.

The other figures, as of Sept. 21, include: Wake 3,207; Guilford, 2,808; Buncombe 2,298; Wayne 2,175; Lenoir 1,619; Durham 1,474; Asheville 1,405; Wilson 1,247; New Hanover 1,228; Craven 1,102; and Cumberland 1,019.

Unofficial figures show that the number of private schools and their enrollments have increased steadily in the state in recent years. In September, 1968, there were 21,803 students in 174 private schools; in 1969 there were 27,471 pupils in 201 schools; and in 1970 the figure had jumped to 231 schools and 36,820 students.

New Board Introduced

The new director and new board members of Operation Sunshine were introduced at a meeting Wednesday night.

Mrs. Ricky Odom is the activities coordinator for the coming year and East Carolina University student, Miss Clara Fearington, will be her assistant. New board members are Mrs. W. M. Myers, Mrs. P. W. Moore, Mrs. Don Clemens, Roger M. Collins III, Mrs. James Moye, Dr. Robert G. Deyton Jr., and Doug Mewborn.

Outgoing board members recognized by Mrs. Melvin L. Hoot, the summer director, were William Moore, Dr. Malene Irons, David Barnhill, Mrs. Leo Jenkins, Mrs. George Jenkins, Jimmy Sutton, and Father Charles Mulholland.

Mrs. Odom told of planned projects for the girls' activities center at the corner of West Third and Greene Streets and she also reported on arrangements with the Boys' Club to share transportation and arts and crafts facilities. She invited volunteers willing to work regularly at the Sunshine Center to call her for more information.

Operation Sunshine is open to all Greenville girls between eight and 12 years old. The center's hours are weekdays after school until 5 p.m. and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Again Tried 'Assembly'

A small number of Aycock students again this morning attempted to stage an assembly in the hallways at the beginning of school.

Principal Paul Rasberry said the group, "far less than those involved yesterday," started out again this morning by refusing to go to class. "After I warned them, all but seven or eight went on to their classes," the principal commented. "We know now who the people are we need to deal with."

The last hold outs, according to Rasberry, reluctantly reported to their classes when he reminded them it was a matter of going to class or leaving the premises.

Rasberry had security officers check by. After staying a few minutes, the officers left.

Surgeon Giving Program

Dr. Winfield L. Thompson of Goldsboro will present a program to the Greenville chapter of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International Saturday, Sept. 25, at 7:30 p.m.

He will give his witness to Jesus Christ following a special program of music. The meeting will be held in the Masonic Temple here located at 1119 South Charles Street. Admission is free to interested persons and in the local communities.

Dr. Thompson is a surgeon practicing in the Goldsboro area. He is a past president of the Wayne County Medical Society and is active in a number of civic and professional organizations. He is also a member of the Goldsboro Episcopal Church.

Leaf Offerings Steady On Farmville Mart

FARMVILLE — Leaf offerings have remained steady during the entire week on the Farmville Tobacco Market, according to Louis Williams, supervisor.

Leaf grades continue to account for approximately 60 per cent of the total sales volume, Williams reported. No major changes in quality were reported.

Stabilization receipts amounted to 2.52 per cent of the gross sales.

The mayor further notes he feels "the highest ideals and aspirations of this country are closely allied to the hopes and aims of peoples everywhere."

"I urge all citizens of Greenville," the proclamation concludes, "to use that day for community programs which will serve to stimulate a realistic understanding of the purposes, achievements, and limitations of the United Nations and its family of agencies."

After signing the proclamation, Mayor West remarked that "Mrs. Humber has always done an excellent job in heading the programs to bring the United Nations to the attention of our people. I sincerely hope the citizens of Greenville will show their interest in the programs being planned by taking part in the different activities."

This year, as in the past several years, programs planned for UN observance will include dinners, programs in schools, in churches, a TV appearance by foreign nationals living in Greenville, and the sale of UN Christmas cards.

The market Thursday sold 533,782 pounds for $429,148.84, an average of $80.40 per hundred pounds. Williams said season totals now stand at 9,281,195 pounds for $7,340,549, an average so far of $79.09.

Why Not Off-Shore Airport?

Well, why not an off-shore airport for New York, and in time other coastal cities as well?

The Federal Aviation Agency has proposed the off-shore facility for New York as a tentative solution to the city's growing traffic problem at its three existing airports. Without some solution, an FAA spokesman said, the time will come when New York's airports will be overflowed in favor of better, less congested facilities elsewhere.

Certainly such a solution would be costly... present estimates pegged at about $8 billion. There would be engineering and access problems aplenty in building an airport three miles out in the Atlantic off Jones Beach. But none of these problems, as we see them, are insurmountable. And certainly without some such far-reaching project, New York's air traffic problem will soon become impossible.

Officials who have studied the problem envision an off-shore airport capable of handling some 600 landings and takeoffs an hour compared with the present 173 at Kennedy, LaGuardia and Newark airports combined. The limited access airport, they say, would be reached only with trucks and highspeed trains using a causeway or tunnel.

As much as half the anticipated cost of the project may be retired through the sale of the 4,900 acres of Kennedy airport alone.

An off-shore airport is an imaginative program, and one which seems to have considerable merit. It would deal not just with the increasing traffic problems, but with environmental problems as well.

This Kind Of Effort Is Needed Every Time

The 447 pints of blood which were contributed during the two-day Red Cross Bloodmobile visit this week should be a great help in bringing the county along on its annual quota.

The response was superb for the Moose-sponsored visit. It was reported that 560 donors came, with some being rejected for physical reasons.

The Moose Lodge and everyone else connected with the drive did an outstanding job. It is the kind of effort that is needed on every visit, if we are to maintain an adequate blood supply for Pitt County.

Frustrated By Requirements

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — Less than nine months from now I will become the father of a voter. That puts me in the same boat with all those North Carolina parents whose sons and daughters reach their 18th birthday before Nov. 6, 1972, the date of the next general election.

The prospect rouses anticipation and apprehension. It's a good feeling to know your progeny is reaching the cut classes to cast a ballot. Quick Solution Talked

Some talk has been heard on the college campuses of attempting to get the question before the General Assembly at its adjourned session next month.

Alex Brock, executive secretary of the State Board of Elections, discounted the possibility of success for such a move.

A primary absentee ballot bill, sponsored by Sen. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, Jr. of Guilford, was defeated last spring, Brock noted. Parliamentary rules forbid consideration of the same matter twice in the same session. The October meeting is simply an extension of the '71 session, not a new or special session, so the rule would apply.

Brock is caught in the center of controversy over residency in the registration of students. There have been charges that a restrictive policy is followed in the definition of residency.

Brock said the board follows what has been the law all along.

In actuality, he added, the problem is not new, does not affect the entire group of 18-to-21 year olds (only one-third are away from home as students), and is not limited to the student population alone.

One-Time Situation

Besides, in all probability it will be a one-time situation, he said.

The State Board of Elections itself intends to recommend to the '73 legislature the use of absentee ballots in the primary. That endorsement should enhance prospects for enactment.

"We recognize there are groups, among them students, traveling salesmen, truck drivers and others likely to be out-of-place on the primary date who are precluded from voting except by absentee ballot," he acknowledged. Present laws will give adequate safeguards against misuse, he said.

Flagrant abuses in years past led to the ban on absentee ballots in party primaries.

Some 17-year-olds will vote next spring. They are those, among them my son Zesely, whose 18th birthday comes after May but before the November general election. They can register not more than 60 nor less than 21 days before the primary.

Zesely said he certainly planned to vote.

"Who will you vote for?" I asked.

"I'll make up my mind after I hear what the ones who are running have to say," he replied.

I've an idea young voters are going to do all right.

BRYAN HAISLIP

time to practice what you've tried to teach about good citizenship.

But will they accept responsibly the right to vote? Will they go a separate way and cancel our vote?

More important, will they be able to exercise the privilege of the ballot what has been extended to them?

Residency requirements make that last question crucial for the thousands of young Tar Heels who will be away from home on college campuses when next spring's primary is held. As a rule, under present law, they must register and vote in the community where their parents live. The absentee ballot can be used in the general election, but not in the primary.

Frustration Gives Concern

"I am concerned that young people not be frustrated in their enthusiasm to participate fully in the democratic process," said Mrs. E. K. (Sybil) Powe, Jr. of Durham.

Her concern is both parental and political. She has three daughters who will be eligible to vote for the first time next year. She also is secretary of the state Democratic party and keenly aware of the potential clout of the 300,000 new voters in the 18-21 category.

The absentee ballot for primary use is the remedy favored by Charles Winberry of Rocky Mount, state Democratic vice chairman for youth and president of Young Democratic Clubs.

"I feel the legislature did not realize the full thrust of lowering the voting age while retaining the prohibition against absentee ballots in the primary," said Winberry.

What gives the issue urgency for the '72 primary is the shift of voting day from Saturday to Tuesday, accomplished by the recent legislature. In the past, college students could make a weekend trip home to vote; next spring, they may have to headquarters one block from the White House (officially styled "The Committee for the Re-election of the President").

Accordingly, with Mitchell's departure from Justice now set for early January, the Kleindienst problem has suddenly moved off the back burner and powerful anti-Kleindienst factions are beginning to work on both Mitchell and the White House, led by the moderate National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Thus, Clarence Mitchell, who runs the NAACP's Washington office and has close ties to liberal Republican Senators, blames Kleindienst more than Mitchell or Mr. Nixon for the President's two Supreme Court fiascos: the nominations of Clement Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell, both rejected by the Senate.

Perhaps more to the point, Clarence Mitchell and the NAACP claim that Kleindienst personally vetoed New Jersey Republican Sen. Clifford Case's campaign to win a seat on the Third Circuit Court of Appeals for Clarence C. Ferguson, former dean of the law school at Howard University. Ferguson would have replaced another Negro, retiring Judge William H. Hastie last spring.

Likewise, Kleindienst has run afoul of powerful newspaper and television executives, partly as a result of his actions during the bitter litigation over publication of the Pentagon papers.

Such implacable opponents of Kleindienst have allies in Congress for entirely non-ideological reasons, based on nothing more than Kleindienst's power to make or withhold recommendations of all Federal judgeships. A stickler for form, Kleindienst has leaned heavily on the WASHINGTON — A backstage struggle at the White House with possibly serious repercussions on the 1972 Presidential election has now broken out over the future status of Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, with the anti-Kleindienst faction now holding a clear edge.

Boiled down, the question is whether President Nixon should risk a mean Senate confirmation fight and nominate Kleindienst as Attorney General in January. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and Mr. Nixon have now privately reached solid agreement that Mitchell will leave in early January to take active leadership of the Nixon reelection campaign.

That agreement between the President and Mitchell by itself represents a concession to political reality. There was serious talk several weeks ago that, to avoid the potentially messy question of Mitchell's successor at Justice, he would stay on as Attorney General until well into next spring, running the President's campaign from his hip pocket in his panelled office at the Justice Department.

Under that arrangement, with Mitchell's departure long delayed, Kleindienst might have been given Mitchell's job with the title of "Acting" Attorney General, thus avoiding either a Senate confirmation battle or a humiliation to Kleindienst by the appointment of someone else. There is ample precedent for long tenures at Justice as "acting" boss, with Nicholas Katzenbach holding the modern record of almost six months.

But Mitchell rejected that untidy solution. With the New Hampshire primary only a little more than five months away, party politicians around the country have been clamoring for him to take command of the plush offices of the Nixon campaign

COMMUNISM THRIVES ON MISERY

Sometimes we find it hard to understand how people can ever be deceived by communism. This is because we live in a free economy under a free government. Practically everybody in the United States has plenty to eat and a roof over his head. There are almost as many automobiles in this country as there are households. People from other countries coming here may not like certain of our customs, but they are overwhelmed by the grandeur of our free institutions and the plenty which everywhere abounds. Freedom and plenty do not obtain throughout the world. The Russians have lived in servitude as far back as their

U.S. Sunday Afternoon

WASHINGTON — "Harry... Harry will you stop looking at that stupid football game and listen to me? There's a very suspicious man lurking in front of the house... What do you mean find out what he wants? You find out what he wants... You're the man in this house... Harry, I think he's getting into your car... Yes, he is getting into your car... Let's call the police."

"How can you say that Harry? Even if the car is insured you should at least make some effort to stop a thief... I don't care if it is fourth down and one to go, you can't let somebody just up and steal your car... Look Harry he's getting out now and opening the hood... He's probably trying to get it started... I think you should at least yell at him... "All right, so the Redskins made a first down... But if you just come to the window... Look he's got the motor started... Please, Harry, call the police... What?... It will ruin your afternoon if the police come... Yes, I know you have your heart set on watching the game, but what are we going to do for a car?... I'm not distracting you... How can you say I always think of ways of interrupting you when you're watching a football game... Am I supposed to let someone steal your car without telling you... Harry you're getting up from your chair... What happened?... Oh, it's a commercial... No, the car's gone now... The man drove it off... Are you going to report it? After the Kansas City game which ends at 7 o'clock?... Well, you've certainly made a contribution to law and order today... "All right, I promise I won't bother you again... Go back to your game... "Harry, there's a cab pulling up to the house... Harry it's our son Jimmy who has been in the Navy for two years... I didn't even know he was back in this country... Oh, my goodness, he looks so brown and tall... Come Harry, let's greet him at the door... Harry, you don't want to greet your son after he fought for his country?... "Oh you can't leave the set now because the Cardinals have just fumbled?... No, don't worry, I'll ask Jimmy to come in the side door so he won't disturb you... Why are you yelling at me?... Be mad at the Navy. They're the ones who let Jimmy come home on Sunday.

"Harry, I know you told me not to bother you, and I've let you alone for the entire quarter, but something has come up I think you should know about... Our daughter Gertrude has just called from the hospital and she's about to give birth to a baby... Will you stop screaming at me?... I know it isn't a big thing to have a baby, Harry... Women have them all the time. Ordinarily it isn't worth interrupting a football game to tell you about it, but I would like to remind you of one thing, Harry... Gertrude isn't married!... This could be a very traumatic experience (Continued On Page 5)

You're Getting Older

NEW YORK (AP) — You're getting middle-aged if—
You can think of more people you'd like to leave out of a will than put in it.
Every dawning when you awake you lie in bed for 5 full minutes trying to think of a good worthwhile reason for getting up and facing life. There is none. Habit is all that gets you up.

You decide it is high time you taught your wife how to put up the storm windows herself. After all, that's what she'd have to do if something ever happened to you.

One fine morning you study your face in the mirror and your heart leaps with horror as you detect a hair growing in your ear. The color of the hair is gray.

You quit sending away box tops because you can't think of anything you really want back.

For everything that makes you smile there are two that make you frown and five that make you yawn.

Every personal letter you write contains some comment on the current state of the weather, and the comment is rarely laudatory.

When you get a cold, it hangs on two days longer than it used to—and takes one more bottle of bourbon to cure.

You suspect that not one but three of your fellow workers at the office are secretly trying to get your job, and now and then you get a little melancholy over the fact that this world holds such treachery.

It is difficult to find anyone to have a discussion with, because they are either too old and opinionated or too young and callow to take seriously.

Even with the help of your bifocals it becomes increasingly difficult to read the fine print (Continued on page 5)

New Products A Coincidence?

By ELMER ROESSNER

Eastman Kodak's barrage of new products is purely coincidental and is not a preliminary to new financing or a stock split. I have been assured by a company spokesman.

Within the last six weeks Kodak has announced:

Two new super 8 movie cameras.

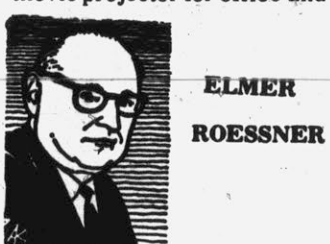

A new movie film that makes natural, life-like color movies in existing light practical for the first time, making it possible to take home movies indoors, with movie lights.

The new cameras are designated XL 33 and XL 55, XL standing for existing light. The new film is Ektachrome 160. It can take pictures in as little as seven footcandles of illumination and with as little as 3 1/2 footcandles for special effects. It is said to improve the performance of many

Instantatic movie cameras. Another Movie Film

A new general-purpose movie film, Ektachrome 4 type A, which can also be used in the new cameras.

An all-new Ektographic movie projector for office and conference room use. Film can be threaded instantly and many other features are incorporated.

A new series of disposable kits which in as little as 30 minutes can detect certain drugs, amino acids, sugars and other compounds in biological fluids. Using principles hitherto employed only in specialists' laboratories, the Chromat-O-Screen kits can permit fast mass testing. They can be used for quick identification, through blood or urine tests, of drugs that have made victims unconscious, indicating appropriate treatment. They can also help determine best methods of prevention and treatment of mental retardation or colic in babies. They can also detect tumors in adrenal glands of adults.

Kodak has also announced that it has now 40 centers for microfilming services for small businesses.

Competition For Polaroid

Kodak has long been rumored to be working on a hush-hush photo-print system that would compete with Land Polaroid. It would be a completely new system, avoiding infringement on Land patents.

Mike Sullivan, Kodak's

public relations chief, in explaining that the new products were announced coincidentally near the same time, said each was developed by a different team of researchers and that they happened to come to fruition close together. However, the new cameras and film were announced in good time for the Christmas market.

Eastman Kodak stock has been close to its high for the year, 88%, since the new products were announced.

Space Shuttle Uses Stressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has placed strong emphasis for the first time on the potential military value of the space shuttle in the next decade.

The apparent intent is to win congressional support for the multi-billion-dollar program, a key element in the use of large space stations and in the deployment and maintenance of unmanned spacecraft.

Dr. James C. Fletcher, NASA administrator, told the National Security Industrial Association annual meeting Thursday that half of the payloads carried by a reusable space shuttle would be military.

"It is important that the American people who are paying the bill fully understand that the basic purpose of the space shuttle is to sharply upgrade the capabilities of this nation to use space, for both civilian and military purposes, and for both national and international missions, over a period of several decades.

"The multi-purpose shuttle will eventually be available for any appropriate national or international use, scientific, practical, military or commercial. Fifty per cent of the payloads will be military payloads," he said.

Fletcher said NASA plans to call for bids on the shuttle by December letting contracts next spring.

RALEIGH (AP) — A joint legislative committee planned to begin a straw vote today on 16 questions preparatory to drafting a bill to restructure higher education in North Carolina.

The questions include: Do we need a strong centralized board or agency? Should each campus have its own board? Should the agency have responsibility for preparing a long-range plan?

The questions were submitted Thursday after the Senate-House committee heard former State Sen. Lindsay Warren recommend that a proposed governing board be given strong powers to control budgets and programs and to plan higher education.

President William Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina and Director Cameron West of the state Board of Higher Education were to appear before the committee today.

The committee adopted a motion Thursday by Sen. O'Neil Jones, D-Anson, that Friday and West be asked to appear to explain "what programs are being effectively utilized at the institutions and which ones aren't."

Warren, a Goldsboro attorney, headed a commission which spent several months studying the issue of restructuring higher education.

He added the legislature could make some of the appointments, with the governor also having powers to appoint members.

"You've got a lot of options to work with," he explained. "I think it would be better if the General Assembly members did not serve on it. It would make the legislator's job a whole lot easier."

Warren pointed out that those who had appeared before the committee were in agreement that a central board should be created.

recommendations of local bar associations, only to find himself on the receiving end of outraged Senators whose own judicial preferences have been overridden.

To this active opposition must be added Presidential advisers who have no specific grievance against Kleindienst but who fear the political impact of an all-out confirmation fight on the eve of the President's reelection campaign. With one of the two or three highest jobs in the Federal government about to open up, they want Mr. Nixon to milk the appointment for every political advantage he can find in it.

As of today, these advisers have a clear edge, and Mitchell, whose opinion may well be the controlling one, seems to be leaning that way too. That poses the strong possibility that Mr. Nixon will pass up Kleindienst in still another affront to his own right wing on the theory that the right has nowhere else to go.

Resistance To School Busing Sees Varying Forms

By CHARLES C. CAIN
Associated Press Writer
PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Bus bombings and boycotts have hampered efforts by this Northern industrial city to achieve racial balance in its schools by busing.

Thursday leaders of the anti-busing movement called off their 13-day boycott, conceding it was losing effectiveness, and also canceled an appeal for a one-day boycott of schools statewide Oct. 1 in support of the antibusing fight.

Cause of the controversy is an order by U.S. District Court Judge Damon S. Keith of Detroit directing that about one-third of Pontiac's 24,000 public school pupils be bused to achieve racial balance.

The plan affected every section of this city of 83,000, about 22,000 of whom are black. Some of the schools here were 90 per cent white or all black last year.

The fight against busing is being led by the National Action Group—NAG—which claims 8,000 members. A leader of the group, Irene McCabe, contended that 50 per cent of the pupils scheduled to be bused did not attend classes on opening day, Sept. 7.

By the sixth day of classes, official figures showed that 19 per cent of the pupils had failed to enroll and that some children who were enrolled were being kept home.

Martha Mitchell Sees A Victory

Other than the courts, in fact, there are very few who openly endorse mandated busing.

There have been incidents, but nothing like the nighttime raid on a parking lot that left 23 school buses destroyed by bombs and fire and another 15 damaged Feb. 5, 1970.

Tension is mounting again, however, and some foresee the possibility of renewed violence before Thanksgiving.

U.S. District Court Judge William E. Doyle has guided the balking school board through a maze of court orders to the point where 22 of the city's 121 public schools are involved in bus-oriented integration programs, primarily in northeast Denver.

Two elementary schools, Stedman and Hallett, are to be added Nov. 1, while the board and an apparent minority of busing advocates await a U.S. Supreme Court decision before progressing further.

“The President and I haven't decided what we are going to do with Mr. Mitchell.”

When a reporter described her as the “most political” of the Nixon cabinet wives, she said:

“Why do you say that? I don't know anything about politics.”

It was obvious that she enjoyed plugging her ticket as she spent more than two hours mingling with the ticket-holders.

A large group of Republican leaders at the reception included State Rep. Jim Holshouser, R-Watauga, and three North Carolina Republican congressmen, Reps. Charles R. Jonas, James T. Broyhill and Earl Ruth.

ANSWERS ALL CALLS
NEW YORK (AP) — Actor-announcer Allen Swift says he helped a number of his Army buddies during World War II roll calls. Allen often imitated the voices of others during his service days. Now he does it for a living with radio and TV commercials.

Mrs. Mitchell made her comments at a news conference held in advance of a $100-a-couple reception at a Raleigh motel.

More than 120 couples paid to attend. They were served cocktails and hors d'oeuvres and conversed with Mrs. Mitchell by an enclosed swimming pool.

Mrs. Mitchell refused to rise to several baited questions.

But she was very sure of two things—the re-election of Mr. Nixon and her desire that the President name a woman to one of the two vacancies on the Supreme Court.

But she drew laughs from the newsmen with a few of her answers.

Asked if her husband, the President's closest political associate, would step down from his cabinet post to run the 1972 Nixon campaign, she replied:

Hispanics have not become enrolled in busing, although the courts have noted their educational standards are not up to par.

But Bert Gallegos, chairman of the Denver Public Schools Hispano Advisory Committee, says his people want no part of it.

Dr. Dana Whitmer, Pontiac's school superintendent, expressed sympathy with parents who found it impossible at the moment to accept the integration plan, but said that in the final analysis the court order must be carried out.

On the seventh day of classes, he warned that parents who failed to enroll their children would be warned by letter that they face possible prosecution.

Hundreds of parents manned picket lines during the first week at the Pontiac school bus yard—where 10 buses had been dynamited Aug. 30—and at various schools around the city. They paraded, carried flags and in some cases exchanged shouts and insults with busing supporters—mostly blacks.

The FBI disclosed in federal court in Detroit that it had planted an undercover agent in the Michigan KKK and that he had provided information which led to six federal indictments against KKK members accused of conspiracy in the bus bombings.

The Pontiac Board of Education went into federal court in Detroit and asked for an order restraining anyone from interfering with the busing and prohibiting mass gatherings.

NAACP officials, who filed the original suit seeking an end to racial imbalance in Pontiac schools, went a step further and asked for immediate assignment of federal marshals to Pontiac to preserve order and safeguard pupils.

The antibusing group went into the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati and asked that the busing order be set aside temporarily. In another action, the group contended the buses are unsafe and drivers improperly trained.

The National Action Group, which claims 8,000 members, drew support from an unexpected quarter when the Pontiac Police Officers' Association voted a $300 donation. After the NAACP charged that the action supported its claim of discrimination in law enforcement, the police association made a similar $300 donation to the NAACP.

Mass picketing by NAG outside the General Motors Fisher Body plant in Pontiac closed that operation for the day last Tuesday. An adjoining Pontiac General Motors plant also shut down its final assembly line when it ran out of parts.

Mrs. McCabe said the demonstration was staged to get GM to use its influence and “political clout” to oppose busing.

How are the pupils getting along?

There have been scattered incidents of racial fighting but none of them serious.

Jacqueline Heubel, one of 11 white faculty members at a school which also has six black teachers, explained:

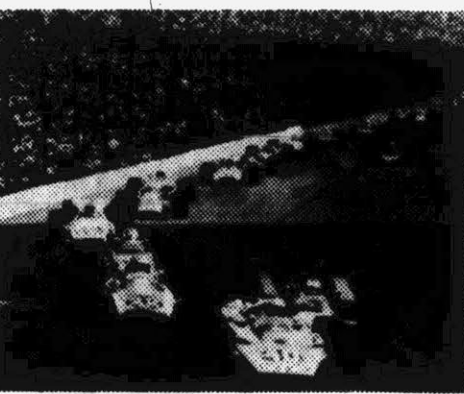

“Kids are kids. They accept one another. The little girls like to touch each other but that is the only reaction I have seen. As far as learning goes, they seem more attentive and more interested.”

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The caldron surrounding court-ordered busing to achieve racial balance in public schools boiled into violence here 20 months ago. But a continuing legal struggle and restraint have prevented any more disorders.

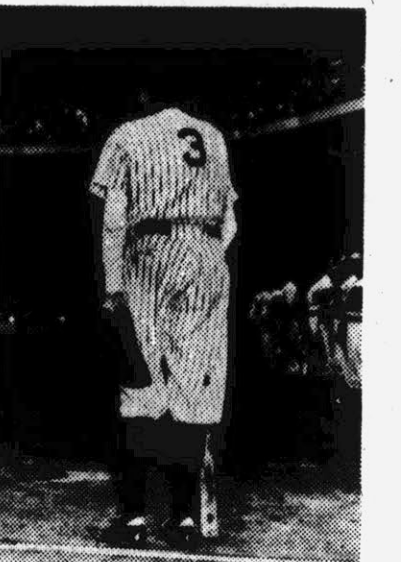

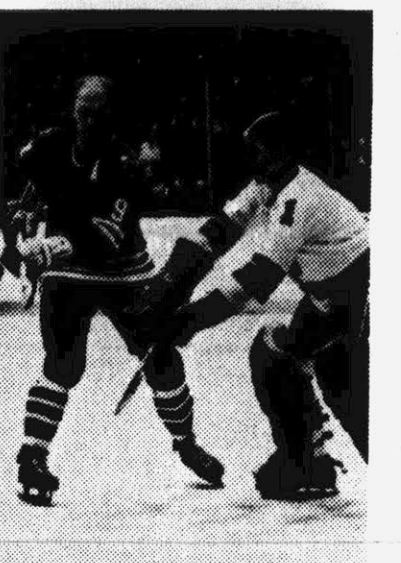

Instead of battling in the streets, busing opponents have stalled implementation at various stages through court action.

Sheriff Points To N.C. Law Banning Weapons At School

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson Thursday called attention to a bill enacted by the 1971 North Carolina General Assembly aimed at protecting persons on the property of any public or private educational institution from persons carrying firearms or other weapons.

The bill states that "It shall be unlawful for any person to possess, or carry, whether openly or concealed, any gun, rifle, pistol, dynamite cartridge, bomb, grenade, mine, powerful explosive... bowie knife, dirk, dagger, slingshot, leaded cane, switch-blade knife, blackjack, metallic knuckles or any other weapon... not used solely for instructional or school sanctioned purposes...."

The statute specifies that the mentioned items shall not be carried "... in any public or private school building or bus, on any public or private school campus, grounds, recreation area, athletic field, or other property owned, used or operated by any board of education, school, college, or university board of trustees or directors...."

Persons violating the provisions of the act, it stated, "shall be guilty of a misdeemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished in the discretion of the Court by fine or imprisonment or by both fine and imprisonment, not to exceed $500 fine or six months imprisonment."

Donald G. Torrence, area supervisor with the Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division, said that it is against Federal law to have dynamite stored on the premises without complying with Federal and State regulations pertaining to storage and security of the explosive material.

Torrence, who is in charge of the northeast sector of the state for ATF, urged persons having questions concerning the storage or security of dynamite on their property to call the ATF office in Williamston or check with the Pitt Sheriff's Department for information.

Sheriff Tyson, who reported that the investigation of the recent bombing incidents is continuing, expressed his appreciation to the ATF agents who have been working in this area since the incidents began, the SBI, local and area police departments and to people in the community, "both black and white," for their cooperation in the investigations.

Synod Of Bishops Will Take Up Celibacy Issue

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — On touchy problems, the Roman Catholic Church edges up on them, by stops and starts, by pulling back, then moving ahead again, by partial, tentative steps that often eventually become the norm.

That pattern was discernible this week as the Church's leaders prepared to gather in Rome for an international Synod of Bishops beginning next Thursday.

They'll take up, for full-scale analysis, a bristling subject that until recently was banned from their official discussion—the requirement of celibacy for priests.

Although Pope Paul VI has authorized consideration only of the possibility of ordaining some married men in areas of acute need, taking up that limited aspect, in effect, opens up the whole celibacy question.

This now is the clear prospect, as urged by several national hierarchies, including those of Canada, Japan, the Netherlands, and as highlighted in preparatory studies made for U.S. bishops.

Only last year, after the Dutch bishops called for a full airing of the topic, Pope Paul issued a letter saying priestly celibacy is an essential law of the Church and "it cannot be subjected to argument."

But as ferment over the matter swelled, he tempered his stand to make room for bringing up the subject under the question of whether to permit, in special circumstances, ordination to the priesthood of some married men.

If this is done, as is widely expected, it still wouldn't give already ordained priests the option to marry, nor would it allow those who have left the ministry to marry the right to return to it.

But it would be a related step in that direction. And this is the way, by cautious, limited adjustments that the Church often gets where it is going.

As a recent example, when the Second Vatican Council of 1962-65 authorized the ordaining of married men as permanent deacons, a rank just below the priesthood, it was done to juggle particular shortages of clergy in Asia and Africa.

But within three years, U.S. bishops had gained permission to institute the practice in this country—and they now have a bigger program for ordaining married deacons than the areas for which it was first intended.

Carwash Slated Saturday

A car wash is being sponsored by a group of students from E. B. Aycock Junior High School on Saturday at the Phillips 66 Service Station on East Tenth Street.

Members of the first period ninth grade class of the Future Homemakers of America will be washing cars on that date. The cost of a complete car wash, according to the group's advisor, Mrs. Miriam G. Wilkes, will be $1.25.

Boy Peanut Vendor Is Helping Family

By LYLE EDWARDS
Gastonia Gazette Writer
Written for The AP
GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — "Peanuts, get your hot peanuts!"

The voice is boyish and goes with a boyish smile.

But the methods of Haven Haskett, 13, who hawks peanuts in the Gastonia City Hall and the courthouse, is all business.

And business is good for Haven.

"Everybody buys a bag of peanuts," said a policeman at City Hall, "whether they want them or not."

Peanuts are important to Haven. He's shelling out his money to help support his father, a cripple, his mother and a 5-year-old sister.

As soon as school is out, he fills his basket with parched peanuts and starts looking for customers. He usually works two hours each afternoon. On Saturdays he works all day.

Haven also knits. He's sold about 50 pairs of knitted bed-room slippers this year. They bring $3 a pair. He's working out a handbag design and he's also learning to crochet.

"Mrs. Crouse, the bus driver's wife, is teaching me," he explained.

But the best profits are in peanuts. He parches them in the stove at home and bags them 20 to a bag. He sells the bags for a dime, but many of his customers give him quarters and tell him to keep the change.

Haven said most days' he clears $2.50 profit.

"I give it to my mother."

"All of it?"

"Well," he said, "sometimes I keep 50 cents for myself."

Haven mows lawns, too. He says he'll do any kind of work for money.

"You don't know anybody who needs help on a paper route, do you?" he asked a reporter.

Haven is a seventh-grade student. His teachers say his grades are above average. Haven says his schooling is hurt some by his outside activities.

What does he want to do when he's older?

"Well, sir," he said, "I think I'd like to be a baseball player. But I don't know if I'll make it. I don't find any time to practice."

Cloistered Nuns Deny Escapism

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — No daily newspapers come to the big mansion in the Druid Hills section of Atlanta, a place of ornate houses, old woods and once the scene of some of the city's largest social affairs.

Television and radio sets are not present.

But the 10 cloistered nuns who pursue a contemplative life in what is now the Monastery of Visitation say they are not "escapists" and keep informed of secular problems such as drug abuse, racial tension and war.

"We are not escapists," said Mother Superior Eulalia. "This life is not just a secluded, quiet life for ourselves but a life for the world. We are here for the salvation of the world. We are here to help people by our prayers."

The Roman Catholic archbishop of Atlanta, the Most Rev. Thomas A. Donnellan, and the sisters of the monastery allowed the Atlanta Journal a rare glimpse of life within the monastery's walls recently.

There is no idleness in the rambling house, kept spotless by the sisters who range in age from 22 to past 70. All have special tasks which help support their existence.

Some make elaborate vestments, embroider altar cloths or sew fancy monograms. Others hand-letter diplomas. One of the most important project is the baking of altar bread which is sent to 50 churches in Georgia.

Although they shun the short habit for nuns, evidencing little desire to follow new trends within the Church, Mother Superior Eulalia says, "Don't leave people with the impression that we go around with long faces or spend all our time on our knees."

Little conversation takes place inside the sparsely furnished monastery. Silence is observed during meals.

The day beings at 5:30 a.m. and ends a little before 10 p.m., filled with prayers, spiritual readings and other religious activities.

Life is governed by a democracy. A new mother superior is elected every three years and can be re-elected only once. The sisters also vote in cases where agreement cannot be reached easily, and the majority rules.

"We are not forced to remain in the cloistered order," said Sister Mary Immaculata, a vivacious, 41-year-old nun who composes both secular and sacred music in her spare time.

True, the doors are locked, she said, "but from the inside."

Graham Sees Evil Revival

DALLAS (AP) — A "devil's revival" is in progress and people are possessed by demons of pride, sex perversion, lying, anger, drink and drugs, evangelist Billy Graham declared Thursday night.

He spoke to 43,600 persons at his Southwest Crusade in Texas Stadium and a national television audience.

It was the third "youth night" in Graham's services, and young people helped swell the turnout through seven evenings to 296,400. Aides said 9,365 have made commitments to Christ.

"The devil has been here since the Garden of Eden, and he's stirring up the demons of greed, lust, violence, hate and jealousy in the hearts of people," the Southern Baptist minister said.

"He's been here since the beginning, and the only power to overcome him is Jesus Christ."

Coach Tom Landry of pro football's Dallas Cowboys and Miss Black Teen-Age America, June Kelly of Fort Worth, were guests of Graham.

"Bible study transformed me from a churchgoer to a Christian," Landry told the crowd.

Homecoming To Be Observed

AYDEN — Annual homecoming will be observed at the Ormondville Free Will Baptist Church, Rt. 1, Ayden, Sunday.

The day's services will begin with Sunday School at 10 a.m. conducted by the superintendent, Jesse L. Tripp. The homecoming message will be delivered by the pastor, Rev. Clifton Rice, at the morning worship hour.

Following the message, a memorial service conducted by Danny Bowen will be held for deceased members. The service will close with a picnic lunch served on the church grounds.

The pastor and church members extend to former pastors, former members and friends an invitation to attend.

Lodge To Hold Annual Fish Fry

The Mt. Hermon Masonic Lodge will hold its annual fish fry Saturday from 10:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. at the Masonic Hall at the intersection of Fifth and Sheppard Streets.

Proceeds from the fish fry will be used for Lodge projects.

NAACP To Hold Youth Meeting

The Pitt County Branch of NAACP will have a meeting for all Pitt County youth at York Memorial AME Zion Church, 614 Albemarle Ave., Sunday at 5 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to organize a county-wide youth chapter of NAACP.

LIGHTED WINDOWS

It's after hours. Yet most of the windows are bright. Perhaps the cleaning crew is at work, or a few executives catching up on their mail.

Whatever the reason, the lighted windows glow with purpose. The dark windows are blank, austere and forbidding. What difference one flick of a light switch can make!

People are like the windows of this building. Some, radiant with the joy of living, find days full, happy and useful. They are fun to be around. Others, gloomy and sad, find life lonely and meaningless. Their company is tedious.

What makes the difference? Where can you turn if life seems troublesome? You can't flick a switch to change an attitude.

The secret is in your church. Worship and study there, and welcome the living presence of God into your heart and mind. Your whole life will be lighted and your days filled with new happiness.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market produced a mild rally today in response to indications that President Nixon does not favor profit controls after the wage-price freeze ends.
 The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.65 at 894.93. Advances on the New York Stock Exchange led dealers by better than 5 to 2. Trading was moderate.
 The upturn came in the wake of four straight sessions of decline, which analysts had attributed largely to uncertainty about the second phase of the Nixon anti-inflation program.
 A little of that uncertainty was removed Thursday night, they said, when President Nixon indicated there would be no profit controls after the freeze expires next Nov. 13.
 Gains ran through motors, rubber issues, airlines, building materials and glamour stocks. Aircrafts were lower. All other groups were mixed.
 RCA was up 1/4 in active trading. The stock had risen 4 1/2 points over the past four sessions. The company announced last Friday it would quit the computer business, a move which analysts expect to enhance RCA's long term profitability.
 General Motors, which reported a large sales increase for the middle 10 days of September, was up 1/4 at 83 1/2 in active trading.

Frinks . . .
 then said, "as I see the law, you are guilty on your own testimony."
 "You have caused a lot of good people to become involved with the law," Frinks' bond was set at $1,300 for appearance in Superior Court.
 The other cases stemming from the August 29 protest march were continued until the December 9 term of District Court. This, presumably, would give defense attorneys time to be heard in Federal Court on the question of removing the cases from State Court jurisdiction.
 Earlier yesterday afternoon, Judge Roberts entered a verdict of "not guilty" in a case in which Bennie Rountree of Greenville was charged with resisting arrest. This case also stemmed from the August 29 arrest of the protestors.
 Rountree was charged by Ayden Police Sgt. J. W. Pridgen with resisting officers as he was being moved from one prison bus to another vehicle to be transported to jail after his arrest for parading without a permit.
 Testifying in his own behalf, Rountree told the court he heard no one tell him to get off the first bus.
 The August 29 parade and others in a series of protests in Ayden have stemmed from the August 6 shooting of a black by a Highway Patrolman on a rural road south of here.
 District Solicitor Eli Bloom said yesterday he has received a report from the State Bureau of Investigation on its probe of the shooting.
 Bloom, in Beaufort trying a murder case in Carteret County Superior Court, said it may be next week before he has an opportunity to read the SBI investigation report.

Unwelcome

LONDON (AP) - A senior Soviet intelligence agent defected to Britain with documents on a Russian spy network, the Foreign Office announced today.
 The Foreign Office ordered 105 Soviet employees of the embassy, the trade delegation, the Moscow Bank and the Aeroflot airline to leave Britain.
 Ninety of the Russians currently on duty here were given two weeks to leave. Another 15, currently abroad, will be denied permission to return to London.

The subject of higher education restructuring dominated the panel discussion Thursday night in Greenville in which State Senators Julian Allsbrook and Vernon White and Representatives Horton Rountree and Sam D. Bundy joined forces.
 The four legislators were guests of the Pitt County Democratic Women at their annual dinner meeting held at Holiday Inn.

Mrs. William Shires, formerly a representative and state senator from western North Carolina, and now living in Greenville, introduced the four legislators to the Democratic women, and served as panel moderator.
 Allsbrook, the first to speak, made reference to a 1967 proposal which would have made East Carolina University a part of the greater consolidated university. "If this had been enacted, we would not have had the real problems we have today," he remarked.
 "That was the beginning of the tremendous problem we will be trying to solve on October 26," October 26 is the date Governor Robert Scott has set for legislators to meet in efforts to solve the state's higher education restructuring problems.

Rountree warned that it is necessary to take the right steps in protecting the best interests of East Carolina University.
 The Pitt representative said that "the key to the whole thing is economics. No one wants to hurt the University of North Carolina, but something must be done." Rountree emphasized that "East Carolina University has an interesting place in restructuring," pointing out it is the third largest university in the state, after the University of North Carolina and North Carolina State. "ECU is also in the position of utilizing its space more effectively than any other higher education institution in the state."
 "The real basic issues," would do so."

 Arthur S. Alford, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, said, "I have talked to both Taylor and Moore and they have assured me that they had nothing to do with the preparation of or the distribution of the leaflets."
 "Further more, they have advised me that they were not contacted about the use of their names on the leaflets and that they have not given approval for use of their names," Alford said.
 Alford added, "Personally, I cannot and do not support this effort or any other effort which might tend to pit one group of people against another."
 "It has been stated that the SBI has concluded its investigation and because Gov. Scott said to me personally, an honest job would be done, I will accept the SBI report regardless of what the report might contain as to the issues surrounding the tension found in Pitt County today," explained Alford.

McGee Is UPI Coach Of Week

Mike McGee, rookie head football coach at Duke University, has been named coach of the week by United Press International for guiding the Blue Devils to an upset win Saturday over the University of South Carolina.
 UPI credited McGee's defensive game plan as the key to the win over the previously top-20 ranked Gamecocks in naming him the top coach.
 The Duke coach, a former National Football League player, returned to the Durham university last spring after one season as head coach for East Carolina University.

NET INCOME

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - The Tennessee Valley Authority reported today a net income of $119 million on its power operations for the fiscal year ended June 30.

Rountree commented, "are the items of programming and budgeting." In this connection he observed that careful consideration must be given to the needs for all the programs and the need for buildings. "It's a give and take proposition."
 White told the Democratic Women that he and the other legislators who have been meeting in pre-session work to formulate ideas had yesterday "received a list of 16 questions dealing with the higher education problem." The questions, briefly enumerated by Rountree, cover all possible combinations, compromises, and rearrangements of boards that might come before the legislators for study when they meet on October 26.

Bundy, making remarks on all levels of education in the state, noted, "We didn't get what we wanted or what we needed, but we did get for the first time a number of fringe benefits."
 During the question and answer session following the remarks of the legislators, Rountree confirmed Allsbrook's opinion relative to the failure of the 1967 effort to have ECU become part of a consolidated university system. "If that had passed, with ECU having equal representation, there would perhaps be no big problem such as we have today."

Bucs To Face Another Unbeaten Team

If there was a simple answer to what happened in last week's East Carolina-William & Mary football game, Coach Sonny Randle can easily find the answer: injuries and mistakes. The injuries were two-fold. The Pirates lost the best of their offensive and defensive players midway through the game, and it proved to be telling. The mistakes were even more numerous. They included three lost fumbles and four interceptions. They both started and finished the Buc problems. "When we lost (Carlester) Crumpler and (Rich) Peeler," Randle said, "we were deflated. That was it."

Randle and his Pirates came out of the dressing room at halftime with only one question on their minds. They knew who was going to win the game — the Pirates. The only question for them was by how much? But when they returned to the sidelines, trainer Ron Compton informed Randle that Crumpler had an ankle injury and would not be able to play in the second half.

Then, on the second defensive series, tackle Peeler suffered a dislocated elbow. That injury started William & Mary on the way to two more scoring drives, and it was the end of the Pirate hopes.

"This was the turning point of the game," Randle stated.

Peeler will probably miss four or five weeks. Crumpler may or may not be able to play this weekend. That was to be decided before the team left for Bowling Green this morning.

"Of course, you can't give the ball up seven times and hope to win," Randle said. "As long as we do this, we're behind before we start."

The Bucs gave up the ball to William & Mary twice in the early minutes of the game, first on a fumble on the kickoff, which the Indians converted into their first score. Then, minutes later, on their first play from scrimmage, they fumbled again and W&M recovered and took it in for the second touchdown.

Those mistakes can be corrected against this week's opponent, Bowling Green University.

But the injured cannot be replaced. "I said at the start of the season that if we got someone hurt we'd be in big trouble. Well, we're in big trouble now," Randle said.

The injury to Peeler will bring about the only starting lineup change for the Bucs, with Greg Burke moving into his spot. He was the swing tackle prior to Peeler getting hurt.

And what about this week's opponent, the Falcons of Bowling Green? Currently they are atop the Mid-American Conference standings, having beaten Ohio University, 20-19, last weekend. They stand as the biggest threat to Toledo, the defending champion, which beat the Bucs 45-0 in the season opener for both teams.

It's the third straight week the Pirates have faced an unbeaten team. And it's getting to be an unenviable position. "They are no Toledo," Randle said, "but they are on top now. They are better than William & Mary, really a typical Mid-American team."

The Falcons have an explosive offense, led by a sophomore who came off the bench last week after the first and second string quarterbacks were injured, Reid Lamport. He hit on 13 of 20 passes for 162 yards and a touchdown. "They had the finest freshman team in their history last year," Randle said. "And if he's the third string quarterback, I'd hate to see the first two. He's in there to stay."

And besides a good passing attack, they have a fine running game in fullback Jerry Fields and tailback Paul Miles. Miles led the rushing last week with 115 yards in 27 carries, while Fields had 58 yards in 15 lugs.

Another threat would be in wingback Tony Bell, who carried only once last week, but picked up 57 yards.

The Falcons also have a wealth of good receivers. Rick Newman caught three passes for 59 yards, while Greg Meczka got three more for 43.

Overall in the game with Ohio, the Falcons picked up 418 yards in total offense, while holding Ohio to 227, in just five less plays.

"They are big, too," Randle said, pointing out that both of their starting offensive tackles were 6-5, 240 pounds. "With their balanced offense, they can hit you from all directions."

Defensively, Bowling Green is solid also. "They have no one who really stands out, but they just line up and play football. They're strong against both the run and the pass."

Randle felt that the Pirates did a good job against the Indians on defense last week until the injury to Peeler. "With his leadership gone, it hurt us," Randle said. Peeler will make the trip with the Bucs and take part in the coin toss, but, of course, will be unable to play.

"I think if we go to play, we can beat them," Randle said. "But we can't make mistakes and give the ball away."

Randle said he thought quarterback Carl Summerell had a fine game against the Indians, picking up a good deal of yardage both on the ground and through the air. "He called an excellent game," Randle said. "Now if we can just get him some receivers, we'll be in fine shape offensively."

With their victory over the Bucs last week, the Indians of William & Mary took a giant step toward the Southern Conference title. The 28-10 victory was their second in as many weeks in league competition and left them way ahead in the title race.

Two surprises occurred during last week's game, however, as Presbyterian upset Furman, 35-14, and Davidson was shocked by Virginia Military Institute, 27-3.

In the other game, The Citadel beat Bucknell, 38-35, in the final seconds. Richmond had an open date.

This weekend, The Citadel hosts Boston University, Davidson is at William & Mary, Furman goes to Wofford, Richmond hosts West Virginia, and VMI travels to Villanova.

Pirate Kickers Open Against St. Andrews

The East Carolina University soccer team will open its season Saturday, and Buc Coach John Lovstedt makes no bones about it. He wants the Southern Conference title this year.

"We should have a pretty good year," he says, despite the fact that some of his top players are not returning due to graduation and transfers. "We've got an excellent crop of freshman in and several junior college transfers who are really going to make the difference," he said.

Lovstedt expects eight of the newcomers to gain starting positions on the team. "It's just about a whole new team."

Chief returning players include goalie Rick Lindsay, and Dave Shayler, Will Mealey and Lee Mayhew.

The main losses were Steve Luquire, Mike McFadden and Eric Schandelmeier.

"I'm more optimistic this year, despite the inexperience of collegiate players. Most of these men have experience in high school or clubs. Injuries killed our chances last year, but we have more depth this year, and it could make the difference."

And Lovstedt is honest about it. "We think we can win it this year," he said in reference to the Southern Conference title.

Some of the outstanding freshmen include Brad Smith, Bob Poser, "Junebug" Hylton, Bob Dickens, Winston Chin and Tom O'Shea. Steve Megna is an outstanding junior college transfer.

"We'll probably be very strong defensively," Lovstedt said. "If we have a weakness, it's probably in the line, and we may find it hard to score because of this."

The Bucs open their season in Laurinburg, playing St. Andrews. Their home opener is Wednesday against Methodist College.

Runners Face Two Opponents

East Carolina University's cross-country team takes on two new opponents this Saturday, seeking to extend its winning streak to three in a row.

The Bucs travel to Charleston, S. C., for a double-dual meet against Baptist College and The Citadel. The meeting with the Bulldogs will be the first Southern Conference competition for the Pirates, who disposed of Pembroke last week.

"Baptist has a pretty good team," ECU Coach Bill Carson said. Returning is the top runner for the Baptists, Kenny Lane, who will lead them against the Bucs. "They have several good people, and are capable of winning the meet," Carson said.

The Citadel won't be as big a threat to the Bucs, but do possess several top quality runners, but lack the depth.

"We've looked good this week in practice," Carson said, "and I expect us to run well. Everyone is healthy now, although Lannie Davis, Jim Kidd and Rusty Carraway are still behind the rest due to early injuries."

The Bucs next go to Blacksburg, Va., for a meeting with Virginia Tech and Southern champ William & Mary.

Rose Host To Cards

Rose High School's Rampants will play host to Jacksonville High School tonight. The Cardinals will bring a 2-1 record into Ficklen Stadium against the Rampants.

Rose currently holds a 1-2 record, and will be seeking to chalk up their second victory of the season.

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Picking The Winners—Six Heads May Prove To Be Better Than One

I've been wanting to do this for some time now, but I haven't been able to convince enough people that I need help.

But in the last two weeks, they've finally seen the light and agreed. So starting this week, on the Rose and collegiate games, we're going to have a little fun.

From now on, instead of this writer alone picking the results we're going to have six different people. Each makes his own choice separately, and then turns them in. They will be compiled here and recorded. Then at the end of the season, we'll see...

For the record, those picking are: this writer, representing the sports department; Tom Baines of the newsroom staff; Jack Whichard, representing management; John Trotman, representing the advertising department; Lauren Riddick, who'll add the feminine touch to things; and George Holland of the composing room.

Between the six of us, maybe we can get a few winners for you.

For most of the area high school games, however, I'll continue to provide information.

So on these games, here's how it looks.

Aycock is at Greene Central in a key Eastern Carolina game. Both must win to stay close to the top, and it should be a tough game. Ill stick with the Rams in this one.

Ayden-Grifton travels to Farmville Central in a real tough contest. It's a traditional contest, despite new names, and should be a real battle. Ill pick the Chargers to win this one.

West Craven is at Conley, and the Vikings will be looking for a win in this one. West Craven is new to football and doesn't have a lot of manpower. Conley could take this one.

Bath is visiting tough Robersonville, and the Golden Eagles are on the move. Bath won't be able to stop them.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Weldon visits Williamston in a key Albemarle Conference game. Williamston is unbeaten, but will have to struggle to stay that way. We'll stick with the Tigers, however.

Finally, Southern Nash hosts North Pitt. Both are winless, but the Firebirds have a little more experience than does North Pitt. We'll pick Southern Nash in this one.

Now, we turn to the new part of the schedule. That slate is made up of 12 games, two of which are right in the neighborhood, so to speak.

First, Rose is host to Jacksonville in a non-conference league game. The Rampants have a good defense, but haven't been able to get cranked up offensively. Jacksonville is tough both ways. There's little disagreement here, with five of the six choosing Jacksonville.

There's even less disagreement over the East Carolina-Bowling Green contest. The Bucs have lost a big man in their offense in Crumpler, and without Rich Peeler, the defense will suffer. Bowling Green has a lot of sophomores, but they handled tough Ohio last week. There's not a dissenting vote in the crowd. All six pick Bowling Green.

Dodger Hopes Dwindle As Giants Beat Astros

By KEN RARRPOPT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Break up the San Francisco Giants ... and wake up the Los Angeles Dodgers.

With just a week to go in the nervous National League West race, it appears the Dodgers need a more-than-giant effort to catch front-running San Francisco.

"I don't think Los Angeles can overcome their lead," said Houston Manager Harry Walker after the Giants knocked off his Astros 2-1 Thursday night and took a reasonably comfortable three-game lead.

You know, he could be right: Each team has six games left and any combination of four San Francisco victories or Los Angeles defeats will hand the Giants their first title since 1962, when they won the National League pennant.

"This victory has got to be a big break for us," said Gaylor Perry, the big San Francisco right-hander who pitched a stunning three-hitter. "Especially big in the Astrodome, where we haven't won much the last few years."

Perry's power pitching followed a superlative performance by Juan Marichal, who spun a six-hit, one-run job Wednesday night.

It gave hope to the Giants' stretch run. "Those two can win it for us," said Manager Charlie Fox of the Giants. "Pitching is the name of the game."

In the other National League, games the Pittsburgh Pirates bounced the St. Louis Cardinals 5-0; the New York Mets beat the Chicago Cubs 5-4 and the Philadelphia Phillies tripped the Montreal Expos 6-4.

The Chicago White Sox white-washed the California Angels 5-0 and the Oakland A's nipped the Milwaukee Brewers 5-4 in American League games.

Winning in the Astrodome not only boosted the Giants' lead in the West, but also gave them a spiritual lift. They had won only five of 30 games at Houston before winning two of their three-game set.

The two straight victories, incidentally, composed San Francisco's longest winning streak since early September before the Giants started a slide that cost them most of a once-commanding 8½-game lead over the Dodgers.

"It's been a tough two weeks for us," said Perry. "We got together and talked about tonight's game. We wanted to make sure everyone talked it up on the bench and made the plays on the field."

"Things are just going the Giants' way now," said Walker.

Things went their way right away Thursday night when of-ten-injured Willie McCovey smashed his 18th home run in the fourth inning to give the Giants a 1-0 lead. They scored the winning run when McCovey was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded, forcing in a fifth-inning tally.

Perry then gave up one of his three hits, a home run to light-hitting John Mayberry in the bottom of the fifth.

The Giants now move to Cincinnati for a three-game set starting tonight and finish up the regular season with a three-game series at San Diego. The Dodgers take on Atlanta Friday, Saturday and Sunday and wind up with a three-game series at home with Houston.

Willie Stargell drilled a two-run homer, his 46th, and Nelson Briles pitched a six-hitter as Pittsburgh beat St. Louis. Stargell's 420-foot blast pulled him into a tie with Atlanta's Hank Aaron for the National League Home run lead.

Bob Aspromonte's two-run, tie-breaking single in the eighth inning carried New York over Chicago and snapped the Cubs' string of six straight victories over the Mets.

Greg Luzinski's two-run single in the ninth inning scored the tying and winning runs as Philadelphia rallied for four runs in their victory over Montreal.

Wilbur Wood notched his 21st victory of the year with a five-hitter, leading Chicago over California. Lee Richard and Carlos May hit homers for the White Sox.

Angel Mangual walked with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth inning, forcing in the winning run for Oakland. Rick Monday, who homered in the third, doubled to lead off the ninth and eventually scored the winning run.

A Warning To Athletes

RALEIGH (AP) — Willis Casey, athletic director at North Carolina State University, has cautioned NCSU athletes that the use of drugs "will not be condoned by the athletic department."

He warned them that if "an athlete is accused of such an offense, the situation will be taken very seriously."

Casey did not specify what "very seriously" means, but he did say that if athletes on scholarships are found guilty of drug use, action will be taken.

"I just reaffirmed what has always been in existence," Casey said Thursday when asked

Military Pay Hike In 'Squeeze'

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The $2.4 billion military pay raise just approved by Congress may be caught in a wage-price squeeze play.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., has threatened to fight for scheduled but frozen pay raises for civilian federal employees unless military compensation is frozen on the same basis.
Pay raises for government employees have been frozen until next July 1, and McGee, chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, said the military should be subject to the same rules, "as a matter of simple equity."

"It would make no sense to freeze half the employees' pay and increase the other half,"

McGee said Thursday.
The draft extension bill passed by the Senate and sent to President Nixon Tuesday boosts military pay Oct. 1. But the White House has indicated it may be subject to the current 90-day wage-price freeze, which expires Nov. 13.

McGee said he has written the President urging that military pay raises be frozen until July 1.

As part of his new economic policy, Nixon ordered a six-month delay in some $1.3 billion in federal pay raises scheduled for Jan. 1.

The postponement could be overruled by Congress, if action is taken by Oct. 8.

"A failure to freeze military salary increases at once would not only be unfair to civilian federal employees," McGee said, "it would almost certainly result in Congress taking whatever action may be necessary to unfreeze civilian pay levels."

He said that would be a serious blow to the administration effort to halt inflation.

McGee and his Senate panel have been under pressure from organized labor to act to overrule the pay freeze.

"As chairman of the committee," McGee wrote Nixon, "I would have to advise you that without a military pay freeze, I could not continue with clear conscience to ask our committee to hold the line against federal employee pay legislation."

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo.,

however, is sponsoring legislation to further increase the total military pay raise, to some $2.7 billion, with the additional funds concentrated on men in the lowest ranks.

"I'm going to fight to make it effective Nov. 15," Allott said. "The inequities in this situation are not on the side of the government worker, they're on the side of the lower grades in the military."

Allott said a freeze until mid-1972 would jeopardize administration efforts to move from the draft to a volunteer army.

Veterans Day Princess Opens Slated Oct. 25 4-Day Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has issued his annual Veteran's Day proclamation and designated Oct. 4 as Child Health Day.

Veteran's Day will fall on Oct. 25, rather than the more traditional Nov. 11, due to the new congressionally approved system of shifting several holidays to Monday to promote three-day weekends.

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — Princess Margaret and her husband, Lord Snowdon, began a four-day visit to this Manitoba capital Thursday.

The focus of the trip is the official opening of the $4.5 million Winnipeg Art Gallery Saturday. The visit was planned as a low-key affair, with a minimum of government involvement.

Flip Retains A Proven Formula In 2nd Season

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's Thursday night schedule contains two examples of the survival of the fittest: Flip Wilson's and Dean Martin's variety hours.

Wilson, in the second program of his second season, kept within the format that made his program one of last season's few smash hits.

The comedian worked hard with George Gobel and Joan Rivers in the sketches—which are better written and better rehearsed than in many other shows. Flip is at his best, however, when he is playing one of the characters he introduced. As the Reverend Le Roy of the Church of What's Happening Now, Flip delivered a bright monologue in the shape of a sermon exhorting his flock to loosen their purses. He works on his feet like a boxer, punc-

Three Days Of Frontier Raids

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. bombers struck inside North Vietnam and along its frontiers for a third successive day, while other allied aircraft wiped out two of Hanoi's base camps in South Vietnam causing heavy enemy losses, military spokesmen said today.

Cong forces mounted a fourth day of intensified shelling attacks in the South. The South Vietnamese command said a provincial capital and three district towns were shelled. Two South Vietnamese were killed and 11 wounded.

The air attack inside North Vietnam Thursday was triggered, the U.S. Command said, when an anti-aircraft gun fired at two Air Force fighter-bombers on a mission against Hanoi's Ho Chi Minh supply trail in Laos.

The attack occurred in the Ban Karai pass on the Laos-North Vietnam border, about 37 miles north of the demilitarized zone. A command spokesman, Maj. Richard Gardner, said results of the U.S. attack were not known but the American jets were not hit.

It was the 62nd strike by American bombers inside North Vietnam this year under President Nixon's protective reaction policy.

U.S. bombers have stepped up raids against the Ho Chi Minh trail in anticipation of the annual dry season push of war materials into South Vietnam and Cambodia. The monsoons should end next month, and the North Vietnamese are trying to repair the trail.

U.S. B52 bombers pounded North Vietnamese storage depots on both sides of South Vietnam's border with Laos northwest of Saigon and 56 122mm rockets were destroyed. The base northwest of Saigon was believed to be a staging area for a North Vietnamese sapper battalion that attacked the South Vietnamese Tay Ninh truck and 25 Soviet-made base camp Monday.

The Case For Bras, Girdles

Kathy wants the medical facts about the no-bra fads that has stamped many thoughtless coeds. She also inquires about girdles and corsets, especially for pregnant wives or obese women. I used to be the medical consultant for the Formfit Corset Co., so heed these facts.

fasten the breast to the underlying chest wall. A bra thus supports the breast in a more normal position and thus makes its wearer look youthful. Remember, when a cartoonist depicts a married woman, Case R-571: Kathy B., aged 28, teaches hygiene in a Senior High School. "Dr. Crane," she asked, "could you speak to our girls on the medical value of wearing a bra?" "At our recent PTA meeting some of the mothers said their daughters want to adopt the modern fad of dispensing with a bra. "And several mothers also asked for the medical attitude about girdles or even corsets when they are pregnant." Bra and Girdle The female breast is not muscle. Instead, it is mainly fatty tissue, with a few strands of milk secretory cells. Plus some fiber bands that especially a mother, he lowers her bust line. For older women's breasts sag unless supported by a bra. To go without a bra after a girl has reached puberty, is to invite sagging breasts. This is doubly true if the girl engages in violent athletic events such as tennis, where her jumping up and down will stretch those fiber bands that hold the breast in place.

Horseback riding does much the same thing. Obesity and the fuller breasts of a nursing mother, also can stretch those fiber bands and cause a permanent lowering of the bust line. "Since the breast is not muscle tissue, massage will not increase its size, but swimming can enlarge the pectoralis underlying muscles so they will then push the breast outward to a moderate degree. That is the only safe way to enlarge the bust in adult females who are a bit flat chested. A girdle (and later a maternity corset) are of great value to pregnant wives. For they prevent undue stretching of the three sets of muscles that try to bolster the abdominal wall, namely, the oblique, the transverse and the vertical-rectus muscles. God apparently expected mankind to use his superior brain to remedy defects in his anatomy. And God realized that if your breastbone extended down to the pubic bone, like the solid backbone, then you couldn't bend over. You'd be like a stovepipe, rigid in front and rear! In order to permit us to stoop forward, it was thus necessary to leave a gap between breastbone and pubic bone. But an enlarged abdomen, as in obesity as well as pregnancy, then bulges forward, stretching the muscles unduly. A girdle thus serves much as a fourth muscular support for this weak "hinge" in the human forward wall. And it meanwhile rests the other anatomical muscles so they don't lose their tone and then stay flabby, even after you diet or bear a baby. Thus, your bra, plus your girdle or corset, make you look prettier but also are of decided medical value. So beware of the modern brass fads! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The bidding:
 South West North East
 1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠ Today's hand netted a significant swing to the United States Team when it was dealt in an international match against Argentina and illustrates an excellent although unorthodox point of defensive play.

The bidding was the same at both tables and the final contract was three no trump. West opened the six of spades and the seven was played from dummy, but the course of events differed at this point according to East's procedure.

At the table where the Americans held the North-South cards, the Argentine defender seated East, put up the king of spades and returned the ten to drive out the ace. South has only five tricks—two spades and three diamonds and must drive out both the ace of clubs and the ace of hearts to bring his total up to nine. Clubs were led first and East went in with the ace to lead another spade which South won with the queen. A diamond was led to the queen and a heart was returned. When East ducked, South put up the king for the fulfilling trick. The diamonds were cashed, followed by the clubs ending in dummy and another heart was led. East could not prevent South from scoring a 10th trick with the queen of hearts.

At the other table, the American player in the East position, put in the ten of spades at trick one, giving declarer the first trick with the queen. When a club was led to the jack, East played the ace and returned the king of spades to drive out the ace and unblock for his partner. A heart was led from dummy, but East put up the ace and led back the four of spades to West who cashed three spade tricks to defeat the contract.

East was looking at 12 points in his own hand and 11 in the dummy. Since declarer was known to have at least 16, only 1 point is missing, which means that West's suit is headed, at best by the jack. Unless South has a doubleton, therefore, the latter holds two stoppers in the suit. Inasmuch as East has the entry cards, he must make every effort to maintain communications with his partner to put the latter in when the spade suit becomes established.

It is rather interesting to observe that South could have nullified East's deft performance by refusing the first trick. Whether East continues with the king or the four, there is no way to run the entire suit and the defense can take no more than four tricks. We cannot find it in ourselves to charge South with an error on the deal however.

Baby Delivered Aboard Jetliner

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Miami to Detroit jetliner was the delivery room for a baby boy Thursday. Eastern Airlines said Mrs. Bonnie Wilson, a stewardess from Atlanta, delivered the baby while the plane was flying over Augusta, Ga.

The mother requested that her name not be released, an airline spokesman said. The plane was routed to Atlanta and the mother and child were taken to a hospital. Their conditions were reported good. The baby was delivered on the floor of the plane's galley.

Declare Nixon Violated Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — The AFL-CIO says the Nixon administration has violated its own wage-price freeze by charging $5 this year for the Consumer Legislative Monthly Report, previously provided free.

Nixon's consumer adviser, Virginia H. Knauer, said Thursday it was "no longer possible to offer the publication free of charge." "The executive office of the President is breaking the wage-price freeze," said an AFL-CIO spokesman.

IT'S A BIG STATE
 AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texans spent $283 million in new cars in 1970, the Texas Automobile Dealers Association says. With 5.2 million cars and 1.5 million trucks and buses, Texas was exceeded only by California in vehicle registrations last year.

THIS GUARANTEE SAYS SO
American Motors 71 Buyer Protection Plan
1972 New Car Guarantee
When you buy a new 1972 car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship.
This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the 50 United States or Canada and that guaranteed repairs or replacements be made by an American Motors dealer.
This guarantee is in lieu of all other guarantees or warranties, express, implied or implied in law, of American Motors Corporation or others, including implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose.

Smith-Waldrop is now giving away 50 gallons of gasoline with the purchase of any new 1971 car at station of your choice.

You've got a lot to live
Pepsi's got a lot to give

What we mean is this: living isn't always easy, but it never has to be dull. There's too much to see, to do, to enjoy. Put yourself behind a Pepsi-Cola and get started. You've got a lot to live.
