

President And Japanese Emperor Meet

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — President Nixon and Japan's 70-year-old Emperor Hirohito stood stiffly at attention as red-jacketed U.S. Marines, heirs to men who fought Japan on dozens of Pacific battlefields in World War II, passed in review.

Nixon and the Emperor—the first reigning Japanese monarch ever to leave his homeland—met for more than an hour on American soil late Sunday night. For those present, it clearly was a moving and historic moment, symbolizing the postwar alliance of onetime enemies.

As Hirohito later boarded his American-made jet transport for an over-the-pole flight to Copenhagen, the Alaskan night sky was illuminated brilliantly by a spectacular display of the Northern Lights.

Before the Emperor's arrival Nixon attended a reception at the Anchorage home of Walter J. Hickel, the man he dismissed as interior secretary less than a year ago.

Nixon made an 8,140-mile round trip to Alaska to become the first U.S. president ever to meet with an emperor of Japan.

Their talks were general in nature—a circumstance dictated by the Emperor's position as one whose influence on Japanese policy can be exercised only in subtle ways.

There was no immediate word on the content of any of the talks, however, and no communique was issued at the conclusion of the royal visit.

The President, welcoming Hirohito at Elmendorf Air Force Base, said:

"Your journey to Alaska symbolizes Japan's growing position in world affairs. We meet in... a place which is approximately the same distance between Tokyo and Washington D.C. This fact reminds us that for the past quarter century that we have built a structure on political, economic and cultural ties which spans the space between our two countries..."

Nixon said he hoped their meeting would "demonstrate for all the years to come a determination of our two great people to work together in friendship for peace and prosperity for the Pacific and for all people in the world."

Hirohito said he was "deeply moved" that the President and Mrs. Nixon had undertaken a long journey to meet the Emperor and Empress Nagako on what was ostensibly a simple refueling stop en route to Europe.

The Emperor, who was commander in chief of Japanese forces that invaded and occupied parts of Alaska's Aleutian Islands chain nearly 30 years ago, expressed "my most sincere gratitude" for what he termed America's "unstinted assistance, materially and morally, after the end of the war in the restoration and building up of our country."

The Nixon-Hirohito meeting was heavy with protocol and ceremony. For the occasion, Army and Marine Corps musical units were flown in from Washington; and the Army "Herald Trumpets" greeted Hirohito by playing a special fanfare composed in his honor by their director.

The formal meeting between the President and Emperor took place at the floodlit two story frame residence of Elmendorf's

The route between their meeting place and the emperor's commanding general.

With their wives, they sat patiently on beige and white brocade armchairs while photographers filed through their sitting room in four waves.

"Bad custom," Mrs. Nixon remarked to the Emperor by way of explaining the procession of lensmen. As interpreter translated her comment and Hirohito giggled. The Emperor, in fact, laughed with increasing frequency as more and more photographers came and went.

As the seating arrangements were laid out, the Emperor and Empress sat on either side of an American flag which stood in a brass standard. The Nixons were separated by the Rising Sun emblem of Japan.

The route between their meeting place and the emperor's chartered airliner was lined by troops standing at attention and alternately holding American and Japanese flags.

Although the occasion was longer on ceremony than substance, aides to the President and the Emperor—headed by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Japanese Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda—conferred separately and presumably dealt with significant issues.

At the moment, major differences between the United States and Japan center on international economic matters, particularly Nixon's new economic policy of Aug. 15 which is aimed in part at restraining Japanese exports to this country.

While Hirohito headed off to begin a seven-nation European tour, the Nixons spent the night in Anchorage before flying back to Washington.

ACLU Asks Case Review By Grand Jury

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Officials of the Greenville Chapter of the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union have requested that the Pitt County Grand Jury hear evidence in connection with the August 6 shooting of William Earl Murphy near Ayden.

Murphy, a black, was shot by a Highway Patrolman after being placed under arrest on a public drunkenness charge.

A coroner's jury last month ruled the officer, Ptl. Billy Day, acted in self defense and recommended no criminal action be taken in the case.

District Solicitor Eli Bloom seemed to agree with the coroner's jury after studying a report of the investigation of the case made by the State Bureau of Investigation. Bloom said Saturday the SBI report contained "no evidence... which would warrant or support further criminal action being taken in this matter."

Bloom did say, however, that should a request be made, "we will summon the Pitt County Grand Jury at the next possible term of Pitt County Superior Court at which time they would be permitted... to produce... any evidence which they might have and which they feel supports their demand for criminal action in this matter."

Cain, in a letter to Bloom, said "The Greenville Chapter of the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union supports other requests to your office that you arrange a Grand Jury hearing in order that all available evidence pertaining to the... death... can be submitted... for its careful scrutiny during the term of Superior Court beginning on October 4."

"According to statements attributed to you in newspaper reports of September 26, only partial evidence was made available to the coroner's jury at the August 27 inquest. From our knowledge of the case, we agree with your assessment. The clear deficiencies in the pre-inquest investigations have led seriously diminished respect for law enforcement agencies and to decreased confidence in due process among important segments of the public. Moreover, because the full facts were not made available to the coroner's jury many serious questions remain in the public mind and have deeply shadowed the career of Trooper Day."

Cain's letter concluded, "In response to our own communications, our organization has obtained the assurances of Attorney General Robert Morgan and of SBI Director Charles Dunn that the post-inquest investigation would be thorough and complete. We are pleased to see that you consider the final SBI report to be a "very thorough report" and we are confident that, if you are correct, these disturbing questions can be laid to rest by the Grand Jury's review. This would be an important step toward restoring tranquility to Pitt County."

Bloom Saturday emphasized that the part of the SBI report not available at the coroner's inquest "contained no evidence therein which would warrant or support further criminal action being taken..."

Golden Frinks, field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said Sunday that the SBI investigation, as was the coroner's inquest, is "unacceptable" and said officials are "in for a rude awakening" if they think the SBI report will be accepted by blacks.

"We will march and demonstrate day and night until justice and our demands are met," he said.

So far protests over the shooting have led to the arrest of more than 300 persons in the Ayden area over the past several weeks.

A series of bombings, including the bombing of the Ayden-Grifton High School while classes were in session, have also been linked with the protests.

Deficit In Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's import surcharge, the U.S. balance in trade ran in the red for the fifth month in a row in August as Americans imported $259.7 million more in goods than they exported.

The deficit was slightly improved from July, when it ran to $304 million. But the total deficit for 1971 so far stands at $936.1 million, which compares with a $2.2 billion surplus for the same period a year earlier.

Unfavorable trade figures were among the chief reasons for President Nixon's new economic policy announced Aug. 15. The policy includes a 10 per cent added tax on most imports, a tax which the administration is using as a bargaining tool to seek a realignment of international currency rates to help correct the trade deficit.

It had not been expected that August trade figures would show the effects of the surcharge because it was announced in mid-month and did not apply to goods that were in shipment at that time.

U.S. Surcharge Under Pressure At Fund Meet

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, put pressure today on the United States for quick removal of its 10 per cent import surcharge.

Schweitzer also called on the major industrialized countries to get a new set of values for their currencies to help resolve the international monetary deadlock.

In his opening address to the opening session of the annual IMF meeting, Schweitzer also urged all nations concerned to contribute to currency realignment.

The United States has been resisting devaluation of the dollar in terms of gold, action which many countries believe should be the United States' contribution to settling the impasse.

"The surcharge can be justified as a means of improving the U.S. balance of payments only until it is possible to supplant it by effective action in the exchange rate field," Schweitzer said. "Let me stress the importance of moving to an agreed solution on these two issues without delay."

The major 10 industrialized non-Communist nations agreed Sunday on a plan to resolve the international crisis by the end of the year, with meetings scheduled in mid-October and late November focusing first on currency realignment and removal of the surcharge.

Report On China

HONG KONG (AP) — Canton television has announced it will make a "special and important" newscast Tuesday night about "circumstances of the commemoration of the 22nd anniversary of the founding of the Peoples Republic of China."

Observers in Hong Kong believed the telecast probably would give Peking official reasons for unexpectedly cancelling the traditional Oct. 1 celebration and parade in the capital.

The massive parade has been staged in Peking and attended by Chinese Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung since the Communists took over the mainland in 1949. Cancellation of the affair had triggered rumors that Mao was seriously ill or dead.

A Chinese traveler just back from Canton said Sunday's announcement described the upcoming telecast as "of great importance to the people" and urged that "all persons should make arrangements to see and hear it."

British Warn Spies Must Go Despite Talk Of Retaliation

LONDON (AP) — Britain said today 105 Russians branded as spies will be ejected despite a Soviet warning of retaliation.

A Foreign Office spokesman told a news conference the expulsion order stands as the first official reply to a Soviet government demand that it be canceled.

The accused Soviet spies seemed in no hurry to move. They have been given two weeks to get out. A half-empty Soviet jetliner took off during the day for Moscow.

Aeroflot, the Soviet national airline named by the British Foreign Office as part of a spy ring, had announced earlier that

Mahalia Is In Hospital

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — A spokesman for American gospel singer Mahalia Jackson says she is being treated in a U.S. Army hospital here for a serious circulatory ailment.

"She was in considerable pain when she was admitted to the hospital Friday," the spokesman said Sunday. "She has a history of a heart ailment and has been consulting physicians for some days about her condition."

The singer, 59, was on a concert tour of Switzerland and Germany when admitted to the hospital.

Predicts Extended Effort To Cure U.S. Economy

By TOM WELLS
Associated Press Writer

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — The president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Archie K. Davis of Winston-Salem, says, "It is going to take some time to get out" of this nation's serious economic fix."

But Davis, who was among 11 business leaders who met with President Nixon recently, said in an interview that the President's economic recovery plan including a freeze on wage and price increases, so far is a sound one.

Davis was reluctant to say how long it might take the country "to get back to the free market process," or to guess what the President plans to do further regarding the wage price spiral.

He did say, however, that the business leaders advised Nixon, upon his request, about what the President should do.

That advice included the gearing of the President's plan, whatever it might be, to continued wage-price controls after the current freeze expires in mid-November, Davis said.

"There will have to be a reasonable continuation of the wage-price controls," Davis said. "No one can say, but it ought to be related to the production curve or to the consumer-price index, or to a combination of both."

The reason for the country's economic jam, Davis said, is wages have been going up "so much faster than productivity."

The productivity curve, he said "has been running at the rate of about 3 per cent, and the consumer price index has been running about 4½ per cent."

The consumer-price index reflects the trend of wages in addition to prices. The so-called productivity curve reflects industrial production per man hour.

Asked how serious he regarded the nation's economic problems, Davis said, "I think they're very serious. I don't think the President would have moved with the totality that he did if they weren't serious."

Those problems, he said, included "a number of trends that have been going in the wrong direction for some time — the continuing rise in the consumer-price index, rising unemployment, reduced foreign trade, the balance of payments deficits and our foreign relations."

"But most important," he added, "is the spending excesses on the part of our Congress. You either have to cut spending or raise taxes. And people don't want more taxes."

He declined to suggest where Congress should start cutting its spending.

Asked what he thought of the President's economic plan, Davis said, "I cannot conceive under the existing circumstances how you could have come up with a better plan on balance — and I emphasize that — on balance."

In addition to the wage-price freeze, the President has proposed an investment tax credit of 10 per cent for industry for the next year and then a reduction to 5 per cent.

The House Finance Committee has since proposed a straight 7 per cent credit rather than the President's two-step suggestion.

Davis said Nixon "is in phase one" of the plan to get the economy back on its feet. "And as I see it, phase one is sort of moratorium while figuring what to do in phase two. He (Nixon) emphasized this in his meeting with us (the 11 business leaders)."

Davis said the President gave no indication during that meeting what phase two of the plan would be and that he wouldn't hazard a guess as to what Nixon would do.

"But no one is going to cure these problems overnight," Davis said. "Davis is chairman of Wachovia Bank and Trust, the largest bank in the South.

Cites Promise Of New Reactor

By JACK MAYNE
Associated Press Writer
RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — President Nixon says a new test facility under construction at the Hanford Atomic Works gives promise of producing abundant nuclear energy that is both inexpensive and nonpolluting as measured against the use of fossil fuels for power generation.

He said the work is being undertaken by the Atomic Energy Commission in cooperation with the electric power industry, which he said has pledged $200 million to support a demonstration plant in the largest single commitment to research and development in its history.

The power industry's response to development of a prototype fast breeder reactor has been so encouraging, the President said, that the federal government's program to develop a new generation of nuclear reactors will be expanded.

Two prototypes will be developed by 1980, Nixon said, but he declined to say where the prototypes will be located.

"We're not ready to drop the other shoe yet and say where," Nixon told a crowd of 14,000 at the atomic works near here Sunday. "But this area has so many brains it has a role to play." Nixon made the announcement as he stopped off in this Central Washington city en route to Anchorage, Alaska, and his meeting with Emperor Hirohito of Japan, whose nation has been the only country to suffer the fury of the atomic bomb.

The new facility—known as a liquid metal fast breeder reactor, LMFR—converts uranium into plutonium during the process of nuclear fission.

Some of the uranium is expended in fission process, but more plutonium is produced at the same time. It is then used for fuel. The process, which depends more on plutonium for fission than current reactors, thus is constantly renewing its fuel supply in part.

The new generation of reactors will use liquid sodium for coolant, rather than water. Water will still be used in the new process to cool the sodium. Steam from the secondary cooling will drive electric generators.

James Schlesinger, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, told newsmen it would be about one year before there is a selection of a site for the first experimental reactor. It will be about six months, he said, before a contractor is selected to build the first facility.

Continuing Evaluation

This month Greenville-Pitt League of Women Voters will continue its evaluation of the U. S. Congress, a study begun last winter in order to help improve the representative system by promoting knowledge and interest concerning Congress.

Conducted by Mrs. J. G. Boyette after extensive research, the unit meetings to be held on Sept. 28 and 29 will deal first with determining criteria for judging the responsiveness of legislative processes. Then related topics, make-up Congress, the role of political parties in Congress, Congressional leadership, and the committee structure, will be discussed.

The unit meetings are scheduled to take place: Tuesday, Sept. 28, 8:00 p.m., Misses Mary and Pat Daugherty, 212 N. Library St. Wednesday, Sept. 29, 10:00 a.m., Mrs. T. Ito, 2008 Pinecrest Dr., and 8:00 p.m., Mrs. R. J. Hursey, 208 Crestline Blvd.

N.C. Counts 15 Traffic Deaths

by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
One of the 15 persons killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina over the weekend was a 63-year-old man who died in a wreck that injured nine children and four adults.

The victim of the wreck was Lawrence A. Worthy, of West End. A car struck a panel truck head-on on N.C. 211, about half a mile west of Pinehurst.

The 15 weekend fatalities brought the year's toll to 1,265, 32 more than at the same time last year.

Other weekend fatalities included two men involved in a head-on collision on U.S. 70 three miles west of New Bern. The victims were Calvin B. Gardner, 20, of Vanceboro, and Jerry A. White, 21, of New Bern.

A man from Rt. 1, Greenville, S.C., was killed when his car ran off U.S. 17, 1 1/2 miles north of Pollocksville and hit a bridge culvert. The victim was Richard Lafayette Franklin, 37.

A car ran off a rural dirt road about eight miles south of Elizabethtown and overturned, killing Charles Odell Ripley, 15, of Rt. 1, Clarkton.

Norman Michael Chandler, Jr., 18, of Rt. 3, Mars Hill, was killed when his car ran off U.S. 23 about two miles north of Mars Hill and hit a sign.

The Highway Patrol said high speed was a factor in the death of Joseph K. Langley, 23, of Rt. 1, Fountain, when his car ran off a rural paved road two miles east of Fountain and struck a tree.

The accelerator on a car stuck, sending the car out of control and causing it to overturn one mile north of Selma. A passenger in the car, David Allen Garner, 12, of rural Selma, was killed.

A head-on collision on U.S. 17 a half mile south of Jacksonville killed William F. Martin, 20, of Jacksonville.

A passenger on a motorcycle was killed when a hit-and-run driver struck the motorcycle on a rural paved road three miles

Grateful For Football Game Surveillance

"Perhaps we are returning to a point where athletic games can indeed be relaxing and thoroughly enjoyable, regardless of the outcome of the game," Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, remarked this morning.

The superintendent, officials and coaches of Rose High School all joined in expressing appreciation for the "outstanding job of traffic direction and general surveillance at Friday night's home football game and after the game."

The school officials added their gratitude to parents and church groups for the better supervision of young people at the game. The church groups and other volunteers made available cross-town transportation for many of the students attending the game.

Army Helicopters Fly Civilian Aid Missions

By DAVID AMMONS
Associated Press Writer
FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — Minutes after the state patrol called, an Army helicopter was airborne to aid two persons critically injured in an auto accident.

Mist, approaching darkness and high timber obscured the remote accident scene, but radar at nearby McChord Air Force Base guided the copter to the scene.

"A man and woman were near death," said CWO Lindsay Gow, 23-year-old pilot of the copter. "After putting them aboard I pushed the craft to full throttle—about 140 miles an hour—and made it to St. Joseph Hospital in short order."

The woman was revived three times during the flight by medic Spec. 5 Manuel Garcia. She arrived alive at the hospital but died the next morning. A state trooper accompanying the crew used cardiac massage to sustain the life of the man who survived.

The flight was one of the more than 80 similar missions flown from Ft. Lewis in the past year under the Military Assistance to Safety and Traffic (MAST) program.

The Department of Transportation recently announced the demonstration project—designed to augment civilian capability to respond to medical emergencies—will be continued at six posts in the country.

"We're usually dealing with life and death cases," said Gow. "We're not just in the business of transporting free. We pride ourselves in getting the victims to the hospital alive."

Five rotating crews from the Third Armored Cavalry are on ready status 24 hours a day. The helicopters are equipped with radio gear, oxygen, respirator, suction pumps, intravenous fluid apparatus, blankets and bandages. Mechanical hoists enable crews to pick up the injured while the craft is hovering.

"Working with MAST is the most worthwhile job on the post," said Spec. 5 Lloyd Bostwick, 23, of Detroit. "Our biggest reward is getting a letter from the people we've helped or calling the hospital the day after a rescue and hearing the victim will be OK."

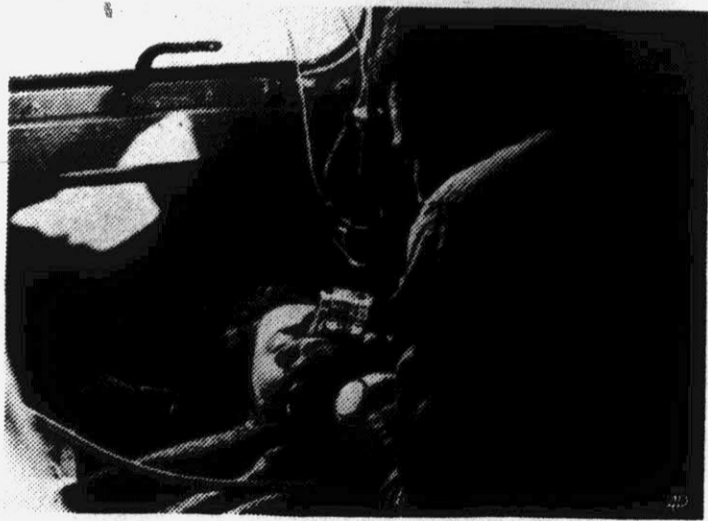

Calls come from the state patrol, sheriffs, the Coast Guard, park rangers and hospitals.

Injured or seriously ill persons can be flown to one of 12 hospitals in the program's 100 mile radius of Ft. Lewis.

"We're also called on for some freeway accidents," said Gow. "Some places it's a long way to the nearest hospital and furthermore we can clear off the roadway quickly. Our copter can lift cars if it has to."

The extension of the demonstration phase is to allow time to determine the feasibility of the military's efforts and to learn how military assistance can complement civilian efforts.

"We're not trying to take over anyone's business," Gow said. "We're just trying to save a life."

Avers Congress Should Unveil Its Secrets, Too

by DANIEL RAPOPORT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The new chairman of the House "Freedom of Information" subcommittee has taken a stand that may not endear him to his colleagues. He thinks Congress ought to be as free of secrets as it wants the government to be.

Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., did not blare out his positions, he did not even volunteer it. It came in response to a reporter's question and was expressed in a soft somewhat hesitating voice.

What he suggested was that the legislative branch of the federal government be covered by the provisions of the freedom of information act, the same as the executive branch.

The proposition may seem logical to outsiders but to lawmakers it is literally unthinkable. Congress specifically exempted itself when it drafted and approved the bill in 1966 and the odds are heavily against Moorhead if he ever tries to put his theory in practice.

For Moorhead that would be nothing new. Though personally combative — shy would be a better word — the 48-year-old lawmaker has a way of now and then getting in battles with congressional powerhouses.

Back in 1969 he calmly remarked on a television interview that some members of Congress had dealt so long with the Pentagon and its contractors that they no longer could see their faults. The late Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, was outraged. He virtually ordered Moorhead to appear before his committee and back up his charge.

Moorhead, who at the time was carrying on a campaign against the Air Force's C5 transport, accepted the offer. Rivers backed down.

In that same year Moorhead infuriated another powerful defender of the military, Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Calif., with information prepared by his staff. Moorhead surprised and annoyed Holifield by utilizing a hearing of Holifield's government operations subcommittee to raise some embarrassing questions about the C5 with Air Force witnesses.

"Bill is a lot tougher than he appears," says one congressional friend.

Moorhead reflects his background. He comes from a well established Pittsburgh family, and in Washington he lives in fashionable Georgetown. His education is pure Eastern establishment — Phillips Andover Academy, Yale, and Harvard Law School.

His political ideology is solid liberal Democrat. The Conservative Americans for Constitutional Action examined his 12-year voting record and gave him an approval rating of 6 out of 100.

Moorhead took over the reins of the "Freedom of Information" subcommittee this year when its first and only chairman, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., was forced to step down because of a Democratic rule limiting Democrats to one legislative subcommittee chairmanship.

Known officially as the Foreign Operations and Government Information subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee, the panel was created in 1956. Its purpose is to serve as a watchdog over government information practices and protect the public's right to know.

Billy Graham Ends Big Dallas Crusade

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham closed his 10-day Greater Southwest Crusades Sunday before an audience of 48,400, bringing the total attendance to about 456,000.

Graham cited the radical scientific and social changes predicted for this world in the book "Future Shocks" by Alvin Toffler.

"The real shock will not be in one produced from science, but one produced by Almighty God and it will strike the hardest to those outside Jesus Christ."

Graham said Toffler forecast no place for family in the world to come and that marriage would be out of date. In the entire sweeping of the future outlook in the book, Graham said, "There is never a reference to God. He is left out of the picture."

"The atomic bomb didn't make me decide not to marry, and man going to the moon didn't change my concept of God," Graham said. "Natural law won't change. It was put there by God. Human longings and yearnings won't change."

Predicting a day in which there is going to be a shock "greater than anything that has ever rocked this world," Graham turned to Bible prophecies of an antichrist, when a "beast" with supernatural power of the devil, will win over the people with his cry of peace, while all the time he's planning war.

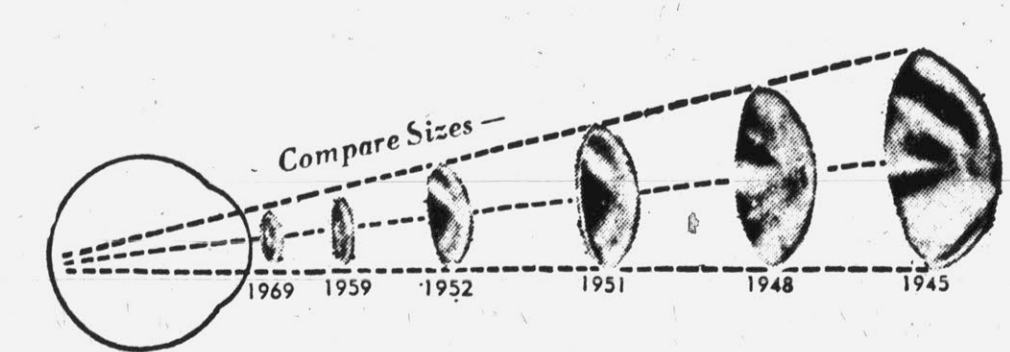

"There will come a day of wrath," warned the evangelist. "God isn't going to let the sins of man go on forever. Some day judgement will come upon the earth because of our sins."

Couple Exchanges Vows On Sunday Afternoon

On Sunday at 3:00 p.m., Miss Beatrice Elaine Stokes became the bride of Mack Vernon Dixon Jr. at the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. R. M. Stewart officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Ruby M. Stokes of Rt. 3, Greenville, and the late Mr. John B. Stokes, and Mr. and Mrs. Mack Vernon Dixon of Rt. 3, Greenville.

The church was decorated with the traditional green and white decorations. Pyramidal and seven branched candelabra, emerald greenery and gladioli were used in the background. At the altar was a bridal arch with a prie-dieu where the vows were spoken, rings exchanged and knelt for the wedding prayer and benedictions. Pews were marked with white satin bows. A white isle runner was rolled out as the bridal party entered the church.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. R. M. Stewart, pianist, and Rev. Roy F. Sharrett, who sang, "The Sweetest Story Ever Told," "O Perfect Love," and "The Wedding Prayer," as the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Jimmy Stokes of Greenville, wore a portrait gown of champagne white silk organza over taffeta. The bodice was attached to a bouffant skirt, enhanced with a large obi bow in back and panels ending in a chapel train. The dress was styled with a chantilly lace bolero featuring long, puffed sleeves, a scalloped waistline, and mandarin collar. Pearl buttons accented the cuffs.

Her bouffant silk illusion veil was attached to a headpiece of lilies-of-the-valley. The bride carried a Bible with a bouquet of phalaenopsis and white orchids, sprays of English ivy showered with narrow streamers.

Mrs. Brenda Stencil of Tarboro, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a formal length gown of lime green antique satin, fashioned with long sleeves and empire waistline. Green, orange, and gold berry trimming accented the waist and down the front. Her headpiece was matching looped bows attached to a silk illusion veil.

The matron of honor carried a colonial bouquet consisting of orchid, lavender, purple, gold and orange tones of miniature carnations, baby's breath, daisies and pom poms tied with orange bows with long streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sylvia Rose Dixon of Greenville, Mrs. Donna Hammond of Dunn, sisters of the bridegroom, Miss Diane Mills of Grimesland, Miss Lou Mills of Kinston, and Miss Susan Mills of Warner Robbins, Ga., cousins of the bride. Their gowns and headpieces were antique gold in color and styled identical to those of the honor attendant. They carried bouquets similar to that of the honor attendant.

Serving as flower girls were Miss Jennifer Dixon, sister of the bridegroom, and Sheri Stokes, niece of the bride. They wore formal length dresses of lime green styled identical to that of the honor attendant. Their headpieces were identical to that of the honor attendant and smaller in size.

The flower girls carried white baskets filled with petals with sprays of flowers tied with orange bows.

Evans, Kelly Mills, Riley Mills, Billy Evans, all of Greenville, and Rev. J. T. Hammond of Dunn.

At the bridal register was Mrs. Curtis Williams, sister of the bride. Mrs. Marie Cox of Greenville directed the wedding.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stokes chose a royal blue ensemble. Her matching sheath and coat were complemented with navy accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Dixon selected for her son's wedding, a mauve knit dress with matching accessories. She wore a white orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's maternal grandmother wore a lavender knit dress with matching accessories. His paternal grandmother chose a blue ensemble with matching accessories. They wore white orchid corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple received in the hall of the church. At the head of the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Joe Dixon of Greenville.

A reception, given by the bride's family, was held in the fellowship hall. Mr. and Mrs. Jean Adams, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, welcomed guests.

The table was centered with an arrangement of white carnations, baby's breath and pom poms designed in a five branched silver candelabra. The table cloth was white lace over green lime.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional slice of wedding cake, Mrs. William Hinson served and Mrs. Johnny Wilson poured punch. Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dixon. Steve Williams, nephew of the bride, served as rice bearer.

For travel the bride changed into a light blue pantsuit with navy accessories. She wore the white orchid lifted from her bouquet.

Children's Fanciful Tales Can Damage Candlelight Ceremony Sunday Person's Reputation

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to the parents of the 10-year-old girl who claimed she was molested by a neighbor was dangerously wrong.

You suggest the parents talk to the man—and threaten him with exposure to his wife and/or the authorities unless he submit at once to a psychiatric examination and treatment. All of this due to the quite elaborate and unverified story of a 10-year-old girl.

Many good men have been damaged by fanciful stories told by little girls. In your haste to find the man guilty, you overlook the possibility that the girl could be the one needing psychiatric help. Your advice could be harmful to an innocent man. Sign me

DOUBTFUL

DEAR DOUBTFUL: Thank you for your intelligent letter. You could be right. But what "harm" could be done to an innocent man by insisting that he have a psychiatric examination? If he denied the story, then a confrontation with his young accuser would follow, and soon one or the other would be tripped up in his (or her) lies.

If you think my solution is "harmful," then please suggest a better one.

DEAR ABBY: Some "Worried Parents" wrote in saying their 10-year-old daughter had told them that a neighbor man had shown her some dirty books, tried to "wrestle" with her, and told her some dirty jokes in an attempt to take advantage of her. You advised the parents to talk to the man, calmly, tell him that no healthy-minded man behaves in that manner, and if he didn't voluntarily submit to a psychiatric examination, to threaten to tell his wife and the authorities. Do you realize, Dear Abby, that you are suggesting blackmail?

Did it ever occur to you that the little girl could have made up that story about the man and that he could be innocent? The only thing the parents have to go on is what their 10-year-old daughter told them. And some children have very wild imaginations.

INCENSED IN N. Y.

DEAR INCENSED: Yes, it occurred to me that the child could have been lying. That's why I advised the parents to talk to the man and give him a chance to defend himself, if indeed he could. Please read the following letter, received today:

DEAR ABBY: The best advice you ever gave was to the woman whose 10-year-old daughter was approached by a neighbor.

I wish someone had given me that advice when my 13-year-old daughter was taken advantage of by a neighbor. I made the terrible mistake of telling my husband about it. Instead of handling the situation in a calm, logical manner, as you suggested, my half-crazed husband ran over and beat the man, injuring him permanently. This resulted in the imprisonment of my husband.

As a result of the publicity and the trial, my daughter ran away from home at 16, and I haven't seen her for two years. She writes and calls occasionally, but she will never live at home with us again.

I can't help thinking that if I would have received your wise advice our family might still be together today. Keep it up, Abby.

LONESOME AND WAITING

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HAD THE SAME EXPERIENCE IN OMAHA": Your letter was one of many from readers who disclosed similar stories which had been locked away in their memories for over 40 years. The case of the 10-year-old girl who reported that a middle-aged neighbor man had taken indecent liberties with her was typical.

Unfortunately, statistics of child molesting are sadly incomplete because many parents would prefer to hush it up and let it go than face the publicity and subject their child to the embarrassment of retelling the details of the ugly incident. It's a fair estimate that 90 per cent of all child molesters have been a member of the child's family, a friend of the family, or a friendly neighbor.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 6970, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

AUBURN, Ala.—Miss Laura Marie Piersol became the bride of Thomas Milton Bailey Jr. in a candlelight ceremony Sunday at 7:00 p.m. in the chapel of St. Dunston of Canterbury here.

The gown was fashioned with an empire waist, long tapered sleeves with a shaped band at the wrist ending in a calla points. The neckline and sleeves were trimmed in a wide band of pearls and seed pearls.

She wore a headpiece of petals and bows which matched her gown, attached to a long silk illusion veil edged in lace and pearls. She carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses, champagne carnations and baby's breath with ivy tied with ribbon matching her gown.

The bridegroom is the son of Col. and Mrs. Thomas Milton Bailey of Columbia, S. C.

College Still Opens The Doors

There has been talk recently of a surplus of college graduates. In many cases this is causing some young people, otherwise qualified for college to think twice about spending four years obtaining a college education with the prospect of no jobs being available.

It is true that some fields are now overcrowded for college graduates. However, the State Board of Higher Education in a recent survey found that jobs are available for college graduates actively seeking them.

Thus, the real problem that the young man or woman beginning college this year has to confront is which field to choose that will assure him or her of employment in the years ahead.

While things could change in four years the board's findings could be helpful to today's beginning college student.

It was found that there are "excellent" opportunities in the fields of health care, accounting, elementary and special education, mechanical and chemical engineer, food science, operators research and correctional science.

Some other fields in the report: business administration and economics, good; wood and science technology, good; art, good-fair; geology, good-fair and textiles, good-fair.

The study did find job prospects in history, geography, civics, business education, English and foreign language to be poor at present. As might be expected the outlook for employment in aeronautical and aerospace engineering is presently rated as poor.

Dr. Cameron West, the board's director, questions whether there is a surplus of college graduates. "If inability to acquire jobs implies a 'surplus,' then there appears to be no 'surplus' of college graduates," he said. The college graduate group has the lowest unemployment rate in the United States. Statistics show that the more formal education one has, the greater is his opportunity for employment. However, it may be true that some graduates are working in lesser fields than that for which they are trained.

It still looks, though, that the college degree opens doors for young people and we suspect that this will continue to be true.

Lindsay Maps 1972 Strategy

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

NEW YORK — The fact that Democratic Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York has now accepted a glittering invitation to travel the state of Indiana for two days next month, extended by old-pro state party chairman Gordon St. Angelo, tells much about Lindsay's long, long-odds strategy to capture the Presidential nomination.

St. Angelo's invitation was cleared with Sen. Birch Bayh, on grounds that mayoral candidates in six Indiana cities want his help in their campaigns.

But Bayh, an unannounced Presidential candidate himself, can hardly appreciate this intrusion by an out-of-state Presidential hopeful who has more star quality than any other candidate now in the field.

For example, Bayh's home-state primary on May 2 is one of the half a dozen Presidential primary states that Lindsay is now giving serious thought to entering. Indiana is also one of the ten primary states in which Lindsay is now spending close to $100,000 in systematic polling to help him choose which ones to enter if, as fully expected, he announces his own candidacy early next year.

The Lindsay tactic of raising money for 1971 Democratic candidates and state party organizations across the nation is the first phase of his overall strategy. It is designed to win him broad party acceptance as a bona fide Democrat willing to lend his prestige and popular appeal to almost any Democrat who asks.

At the same time, if he does as well elsewhere as St. Angelo is convinced he will do for his mayoral candidates in Indiana, Lindsay will gain two assets vital for the primary battles next spring: political IOUs and broad public exposure.

The first test of this strategy came last week when Lindsay's No. 1 booster,

New York state chairman John Burns, brought him to Syracuse for a major Onondaga County fundraiser. Chairmen from 30 other counties showed up, along with Democratic legislative leaders, and the take was $30,000.

Not a single county chairman or elected Democrat at that Syracuse affair (Lindsay's first real exposure as a worker in the Democratic vineyard) wanted him to run for President, and several went out of their way to tell him so. But Lindsay intimates expected no different. The first phase of his grand strategy is to ingratiate himself with his new party.

Thus, Lindsay has agreed to be principal speaker at the Arizona state Democratic convention on Sunday (Sept. 26), then on to Los Angeles (for a poorly-organized Democratic party luncheon) and to San Francisco, where he will be the star attraction before the California League of Cities.

California state chairman Charles Manatt wants Lindsay back in his state for two party fund-raisers in mid-October, but Lindsay's commitment to St. Angelo may rule that out.

The heavy Lindsay emphasis in the next few weeks will be here in New York, where Lindsay has already scheduled political tours that will take him to most up-state cities, through Westchester County and into unfriendly territory on Long Island.

Lindsay's gamble in his New York tour is obvious: to transform himself from highly unpopular mayor (who won in 1969 with only 42 per cent of the vote) to state party leader with credible national aspirations. For Lindsay, that gamble must be won outright. His barely visible prospect either to win the Presidential nomination or to exert major influence on the July 10 Democratic convention in Miami directly depends on his winning his

Strength For Today

NEVER GIVE UP
The New Testament makes it very plain that our Lord's contemporaries were a very religious group of people. What Jesus denounced in the life of scribes and Pharisees was that religion for most of these Church leaders was an external rather than an internal matter. Against such mistaken religion Jesus reacted with violence and anger.

Violence? Yes, real violence. On one occasion He overturned the tables of the money-changers and drove out of the temple those who were corrupting its holy precincts with noisy trade. Those who believed that Jesus was always a soft-spoken and never indignant person have not read the New Testament with discernment. Jesus was frequently angry. He maintained that the only goodness which is genuine in the sight of God and in the sight of good men is a disinterested type of goodness. It is goodness we practice not because of any reward we shall receive for such practice but simply because to do certain things is right and to do other things is wrong — and to help people on all occasions is forever the highest and best of activities. Is the Church on its way out? Has the Church lost its power over people? The answer to both these queries is No. The loss of members in all branches of the Church is discouraging to say the least. But it does not mean national and international ruin. Little by little the world gets better. Moral progress in the Church is slow but sure. The Church has its problems — but so does government, business, industry.

School Busing In Paris

WASHINGTON — Many politicians talk about school busing, but it is doubtful that any of them has ever ridden on one under actual combat conditions.

Only those who have been on a school bus mission know what busing is all about.

Once took a school bus ride from St. Germain-en-Laye to Paris years ago, and to this day whenever the climate gets damp, my wounds start to ache.

This is what happened. It seems that a group of American mothers who lived in the suburbs of Paris discovered there was no bus to take their children to the American school in town. So they went out and rented one, which would pick up the students in the morning and bring them home in the afternoon.

The first year they tried it without chaperones, and so many bus drivers quit that the bus company said they wouldn't rent them another bus again unless an adult other than the bus driver accompanied the children.

At first the mothers tried to hire chaperones, but they couldn't take it, so finally it was decided a different mother would ride the bus each day, trying to maintain some semblance of order. To give them a certain esprit de corps they called themselves the Mother Riders of School Bus No. 5. As a young newspaperman on the Paris Herald Tribune, I was always volunteering for dangerous assignments, and when the editor of the paper asked for someone to write a story about what it was like to ride an American school bus in Paris, I asked to go on the mission.

The Mother of the Day was a Mrs. Richard Edelstein, whose husband worked for Paramount Pictures. She had ridden No. 5 six times, which she told me was the equivalent of 50 bombing raids over Dusseldorf during World War II.

We picked up our charges, about 35 girls and boys at 3:15. The bus was fairly quiet when we first started off because most of the students thought I was a detective who had been hired by the parents to keep them in line. (This was a possibility because the school had gone through four bus drivers in five months, and the mothers had threatened to hire a detective after the last driver had slipped on a banana peel on the steps of the bus and broken his back.)

But when they found I was nothing more than a reporter, the wraps were off. The students in the back of the bus started hitting the students in front of them with their school books. The injured retaliated by swinging their

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Dentists aren't likely to have an unemployment problem soon. Despite the spread of preventive dentistry, Americans still have a billion untreated dental cavities—about five for every person. About one out of eight persons—25 million—have lost all their teeth. It wouldn't hurt hippies and teen-agers to heed this advice from wise old Benjamin Franklin: "Eat to please thyself, but dress to please others."

The venomous little black widow spider's poison is more powerful than that of a rattlesnake but is rarely fatal. Only four or five of the 1,000 or more persons bitten annually by these spiders died.

Quotable notables: "The worm fattens on the apple, the young goose fattens on the wormy fruit, the man fattens on the young goose, the worm awaits the man."—E. B. White. Sweet peril: The death rate from diabetes rose dramatically even tripling in some countries — during a recent 12-year period, according to a World Health Organization study. Physicians cited the rising use of carbohydrates in the diet as a major cause.

Out on a limb: What is the best shade tree? Basing their choices on artistic preference, disease resistance, and success in planting, a group of landscapers listed these as the top 10 shade trees: pin oak, red maple, honey locust, sugar maple, red oak, linden, ash, Norway maple, sweet gum and birch. Other Editors Say Not For Bombing

(Gastonia Gazette)

With characteristic tunnel vision, many young protesters have singled out banks as a symbol of the Establishment to attack. They see banks as repositories of the nation's wealth in the midst of poverty, standing coldly aloof from society's needs never mind that much of their assets may represent the sum total of many widows' mites.

The view is shared, though not in its extreme form, by many others. A study of the banking industry by the Harris organization found, in fact, that "the public now demands the bankers take on a new role of leading the way toward the solution of the larger problems of society."

In response to this challenge, the two largest banking trade associations — the Foundation for Full Service Banks and the American Banking Association — have launched a joint program to stimulate bank involvement in community affairs.

Examples of this new commitment are beginning to accumulate, such as the 100 playgrounds established in one day by a bank in Atlanta, the $10,000 grant a Portland, Ore., bank makes each summer to black high school students to set up a manufacturing enterprise and the business loans based on "sweat equity" which many banks are issuing to people unable to obtain loans under normal standards.

Many banks are granting low-rate loans to businesses seeking to end pollution. Banks across Kansas took part in a project to give away thousands of trees to anyone who would plant them. But as A. W. Clausen, president of the Bank of America, has put it, "Nobody can expect to make profits — if the whole fabric of society is being torn to shreds."

Clausen knows whereof he speaks. His bank's branches have been the targets of more than 100 acts of arson or other vandalism.

Unemployment Rate Should Drop

By ELMER ROESSNER
Despite the wage-price freeze, the consumer price index for September will probably show an increase.

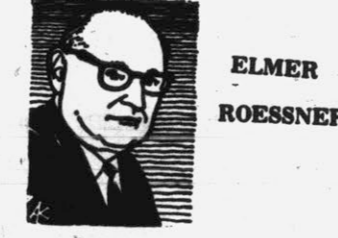

The rate of unemployment will probably decline.

The price index will rise because the surtax on imported goods will be passed on to consumers, because prices of unprocessed farm products are not frozen, and because there has been some fudging by retailers. However, the rise will be small, perhaps the lowest in many months.

The unemployment total will decline because of the return of many young job-seekers to schools and colleges, the seasonal pickup in business, and because of some improvement in industry. Steel orders, for instance, are showing some increase by the auto industry which until recently has been living off large inventories accumulated in fear of a steel strike.

The strength of auto sales, aided by promises of refunds of federal excise taxes, is brightening the industrial picture. So does the continuation of the housing boom, which also affects furniture, furnishings, landscaping and other related sales.

Return Of The Natives
The decline of the dollar will soon start causing a return of many American expatriates who have been living on pensions and dividends. Their dollars are buying less abroad, especially in Germany, France and England. Little affect, however, are those who have retired to Greece, Italy and Spain, where the cost of living is still a bargain. Those who have returned to native lands for retirement will also stay put. Foreign assignments will lose some of the glamor as living abroad becomes equivalent to a pay cut.

The 10 per cent tip is coming back, replacing the 15 per cent of easy money days. It has started in Europe where employees servicing middle-class Americans, knowing that many Americans have been hurt by the floating dollars, are grateful for 10 percent.

It is also spreading to resorts in America. Just as many Americans are taking fall vacations, but resort owners report that stays are shorter.

Significant
Amtrak may be only postponing the end of the railroad passenger service in America. Conceding that its present rolling stock is "old and battered," Amtrak is buying 1,500 cars. But it is not buying 1971 models. It is buying "the best available" from railroads.

It is buying the cars for $14,000 each, a bargain for Amtrak but a windfall for the nine railroads it is purchasing the cars from. They could bring only $2,000 as scrap, and there is little market for them elsewhere. In addition, Amtrak will pay to have them reconditioned.

The choice to buy second-hand cars instead of new ones, such as Metroliners, suggests Amtrak doesn't expect to be in business 20 years from now.

Scuba Divers Find Lost World War II Aircraft

By WILLIAM HELTON
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Scuba divers here are opening the ocean graves of World War II airplanes resting under the waters of the Pacific Ocean.

Some of the planes may have been shot down during the attack on Pearl Harbor. Others fell into the sea in accidents afterwards.

For many divers, the treasure is the thrill of taking a coral-encrusted propeller or instrument panel. At least one plane has been brought to the surface.

on the ocean floor have spread a diving fever throughout the Hawaiian Islands.

Scuba clubs have been formed here by members of the armed forces and by local residents.

Long-time island residents provide many of the clues in finding sunken war machines and military accounts also have proved to be valuable.

The Pearl Divers scuba club checked out one report and dropped the boat anchor only 10 feet from an upside-down fighter plane.

or structural damage and speculate it was probably ditched because of engineer failure. Thus far no bodies have been found in the planes.

No sunken Japanese planes is rumored that they are prized objective of the divers. Some of the found planes are left in the ocean intact.

"It was utterly astonishing," said Cmdr. Malcolm MacDonald, a member of the Pearl Divers.

MacDonald said the club salvaged the plane's bent propeller and a 500-pound bomb. The Navy Pacific Service Force, although not a diving club, found and salvaged an Army Air Corps P47 Thunderbolt in 20 feet of water off the island of Oahu. It will be displayed in the Hawaii Air National Guard Museum.

Divers said they were unable to find bullet holes in the plane.

Grower Hopes Rare Fruits To Catch On

VISTA, Calif. (AP) — Not many years ago, the avocado, then called the alligator pear, was an exotic fruit in the United States. Before that so were oranges, lemons and tangerines.

Now all are major industries in Southern California.

Paul H. "Rare Fruit" Thomson wouldn't mind if the same popularity overtook cherimoyas, caramobolas and jaboticabas, to say nothing of the mamey, longans, sapodillas, the capulin and wampt.

They are among 96 varieties of foreign fruit the 55-year-old retired Marine lieutenant is growing at his two small orchards in San Diego County.

"There's no telling when one of them might prove to be a winner," Thomson says. He produces mangos and cherimoyas for the Southern California market.

"Cherimoyas, a fruit with a flavor like sweet custard, are native to Peru and Ecuador," he says. "There's no reason why we can't develop a commercial crop in the United States."

"Mangos have been grown in California for 100 years, yet I don't imagine there are more than 300 to 400 mango trees in the entire state. And more mangos are eaten in the world than apples."

Three years ago, Thomson and John Riley, a Santa Clara aerospace engineer, founded the California Rare Fruit Growers, which has grown to a membership of 230 in 15 states, Mexico, Puerto Rico, England, Canada and the Philippines.

"It's a group of experimenters like myself, interested in introducing new fruits to this country."

lunch boxes at the attackers' heads. Mrs. Edelstein went back to break it up when a boy in the front produced a live frog, which he dropped down a 12-year-old girl's dress.

Her screams brought Mrs. Edelstein to the front of the bus, which gave the students in the middle an opportunity to kick the ones sitting in front of them.

A fire base for spitballs had been set up in the last row, which was targeted in on the bus driver, who like all French drivers, was barreling through the narrow streets of Paris at 60 miles an hour.

Every 10 minutes the bus screeched to a halt to discharge some human cargo, which gave the other riders a chance to throw orange peels at pedestrians.

Mrs. Edelstein walked up and down the bus, first threatening, then offering bribes of candy and finally making the driver stop until all her charges had quieted down.

Miraculously we had arrived at the end of the line with no serious casualties. The only one shaken by the trip, besides myself, was the bus driver.

Mrs. Edelstein who eventually was voted Mother Rider of the Year with an oak leaf cluster told me, "If you think this was bad, you should have ridden with me through the Bois de Boulogne last week."

home-state Presidential primary three weeks earlier.

The polls now being taken by Lindsay point to at least four other probable primaries he will enter — Florida, Wisconsin, Oregon and California — with Massachusetts and Indiana as strong possibilities. They also show a remarkable "parallel track" between the appeal of Lindsay and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (regarded by Lindsay operatives as the single most powerful political force not among Democratic voters).

Hence the great risk in Lindsay's strategy: even if he converts this Kennedy sentiment into Lindsay primary votes, a big "if," and knocks out the front-runner, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, the convention would almost certainly turn not to Lindsay but perhaps to Kennedy himself.

Decisions Face Oil Capital Also God's Country Area Producers

By EDWIN L. YANCEY
County Extension Chairman

According to T. E. Nichols, Jr., Grain Marketing Specialist, with the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service, corn and soybean producers are now facing some critical marketing decisions. Should these crops be stored or sold? With limited storage which crop should be held—corn or soybeans?

Current indications are that N.C. will produce 98.5 million bushels of corn this year, 46 percent above 1970. This record crop, which is exceeded only by the 105 million bushel crop in 1967, is due to an 11 percent increase in acreage and favorable growing conditions. For soybeans an 8 percent increase in acreage and a record high 27 bushel yield have pushed production prospects to 25.5 million bushels. This output has been exceeded only once—1967 when 27.3 million bushels were harvested.

Nationally, the corn crop is forecast at a record 5,266 million bushels, 28 percent above 1970 and 11 percent above the previous high set in 1967. U.S. soybeans may total 1,186 million bushels compared with 1,136 million in 1970.

Although grain carryover stocks are much lower this fall than in recent years, thus freeing additional storage space for new crop grain, the large crops of corn and soybeans coming to market are putting pressure on cash prices. Corn prices in eastern North Carolina have tumbled 45 cents per bushel over the past 6 weeks and producers are now averaging about $1.13 for No. 2, 15.5 percent moisture corn. Soybeans at $3.11 per bushel are 11 cent lower than on August 1 in eastern North Carolina. Both corn and soybean prices could work lower due to the size of the crops, lack of storage facilities and threat of the Atlantic and Gulf ports dock strike of Oc-

How rapid corn and soybean prices will recover from harvest and how high they will go is not known. However, for corn it appears that this year will be similar to 1967 when average prices in eastern North Carolina dipped to $1.05 per bushel at harvest and reached a high of $1.20 in March, 1968. Soybeans may also follow a similar pattern as in 1967 when prices were higher at harvest than they were in the following summer. Storing beans for the long run unhedged could be quite risky this year.

When harvest prices of corn have dropped below the loan rate of $1.22, North Carolina farmers should consider taking advantage of the loan program and hold their crop off the market at least until prices recover. Because of the tight soybean supply-demand situation, prices for this crop are not expected to dip much below $3.00 per bushel even during the peak of the harvest.

Senator Jordan Disappointed By Revisions

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., says he is disappointed in the revised amendment which Congress adopted last week about withdrawal from the war in southeast Asia.

Jordan said in a report to the people made public today he feels it is imperative that Congress "keep trying to pass a clear statement of policy for withdrawal in a stated period of time because I think the people of this nation want it."

Jordan said he was disappointed in the revised Mansfield Amendment "because I felt it had been severely weakened in two major ways." He said the first was the elimination of a fixed time for withdrawal and the second was the change from a statement of policy to a less effective "sense of Congress" measure.

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Tulsa, proud of its self-anointed "Oil Capital of the World" status and its new role as head port of the 440-mile Arkansas River navigation system, is also a mecca for conservative church people.

Evangelist Billy James Hargis, an anti-Communist crusader who says he no longer is concerned with conspiratorial problems but internal moral problems, operates from here. He is convinced the fundamentalist influence in Tulsa has kept the city "virtually free of unemployment, racial tension, student dissidents or other Communist agitation."

Not far from the Hargis headquarters is Oral Roberts university, named for the founder, evangelist and former faith healer. The institution is doing well.

Students are clamoring to get into the $50 million, six-year-old school, which won regional accreditation last year and was admitted earlier this month to the National Collegiate Athletic Association small college division.

Others are spotting Tulsa for potential church headquarters. The Pentecostal Church of America Inc., holding its annual convention here in July, was so taken with the "friendliness of Tulsans" its General Board was given the authority to make a bid "substantially higher" than any others for the former Sinclair Research Center which it would convert into a church headquarters. It is a modern building on expensive real estate in affluent southeast Tulsa.

The Pentecostals aren't the only contenders for the center. The Episcopal Church of America was asked less than one month earlier by its Oklahoma Diocese to make Tulsa the international headquarters city. Hargis also wants the center, possibly for expanding his two-year-old American Christian College. He will need room somewhere to take care of the expanding applications.

Tulsa apparently is just the place. "I wouldn't trade Tulsa for any city in America," Hargis says. "It's a friction-free city. It's safe to walk the streets at night. There is less agitation among the minorities, less graft, less political chicanery, less hatred and friction. It's free of revolutionary activists."

Arrest 3 On Drug Counts

Pitt County Sheriff's deputies and ABC officers arrested three men here late Saturday night on drug law violation charges.

The three charged in connection with an 11:35 p.m. raid on a house at 1402 Dickinson Ave. were identified as Preston E. Garraghty, 22, of Salem, Va.; Herscher Paul Chittum, 29, of 1402 Dickinson Ave.; and Paul Husztek, 25, of 1402 Dickinson.

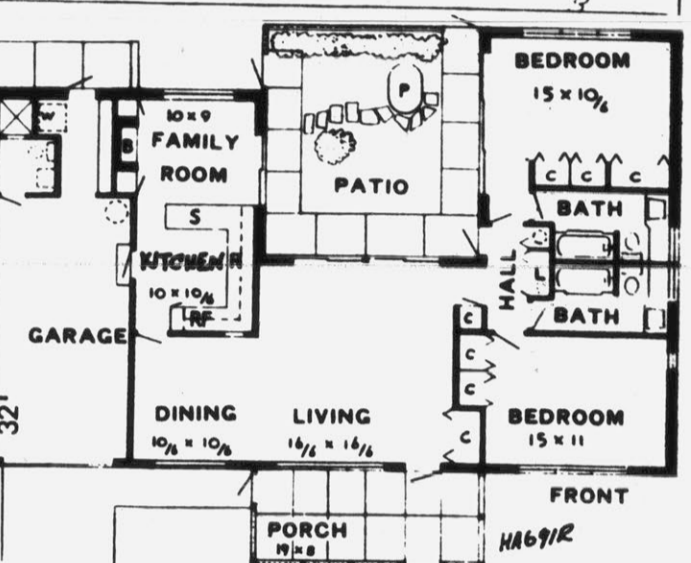

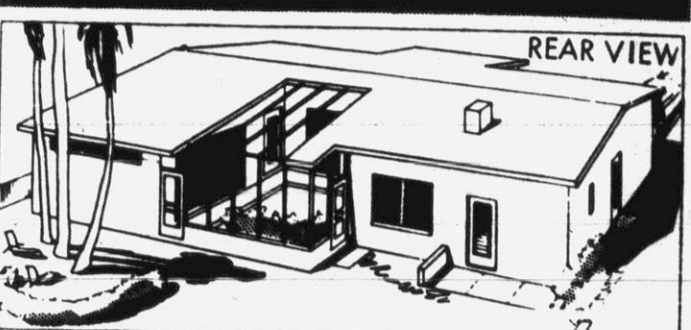

Garraghty, a senior at East Carolina University, was charged with possessing marijuana and LSD while Husztek, a student at Pitt Technical Institute was charged with possessing marijuana and a sawed-off .22 caliber rifle. Chittum was arrested on charges of possessing marijuana.

Officers said about seven ounces of marijuana, 484 tabs of LSD and a quantity of Phenylidone was found in the house.

Garraghty's bond was set at $5,000 while Chittum's bond was placed at $2,500. Bond for Husztek was placed at $2,600.

Paul VI Points To Synod Role

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI says the Third World Synod of Bishops of the Roman Catholic Church opening here Thursday will be "an important hour for the Church."

The pontiff told a sun-drenched crowd in St. Peter's Square Sunday that the synod, which probably will run through October, will "study serious problems which concern the Church intimately and which concern its mission in the world."

The day marked the Pope's 74th birthday, but he made no reference to that, and the Vatican said that he carried on his usual work with no special observance of the date.

The synod is to consider problems of the priesthood, including the issue of celibacy, and of social justice.

Connally Hopes Gold Will Lose Glitter

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally says gold should lose its glitter as a world currency standard, declaring that a dollar-devaluing boost in its price would fail to break the international monetary deadlock.

But, while downplaying the role of gold as the keystone to the world monetary system, Connally left the devaluation issue unsettled, dodging a direct question on whether it is a negotiable item in international discussions.

The gold-price question dominated as delegates to the 118-nation International Monetary Fund gathered today for what may turn out to be its most important meeting in its 27-year history.

President Nixon ripped the foundation from the monetary system by cutting the dollar loose from its tie with gold on Aug. 15. The President also imposed a 10-per-cent import surcharge in an effort to reduce the nation's growing balance-of-payments deficit.

"The United States has no hangup, no fixation, with gold," Connally told newsmen Sunday. "We're not committed to the mythology of gold. We would hope that the role of gold in the IMF would indeed be diminished."

The secretary, however, may find that wishful thinking for the moment. In Europe and Japan, there is almost unanimous pressure for a dollar devaluation through raising the price of gold to help achieve currency realignments. But the United States appeared to win at least one concession on the gold-price question at a meeting of the "Group of Ten," the finance ministers and central bankers from the major non-Communist nations.

In hammering out a three-sided approach to resolving the monetary impasse by the end of the year, the officials focused on currency realignment as the top priority without mentioning the price of gold. The major U.S. trading partners also appeared to have won a concession from the American delegation. One of the key issues agreed upon for discussion this year is elimination of the import surcharge.

President Nixon said last week the United States will not remove the surcharge until a permanent solution to the world monetary system is found. Connally said the United States is prepared to remove the surcharge "when we become convinced that a formula is reached that would rectify our balance-of-payments deficit."

North Vietnam Food Supplies Seriously Hit

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence reports that floods have destroyed about 800,000 tons of North Vietnam's rice, 10 per cent of this year's crop.

As a result, these sources said, the North Vietnamese government has had to dig into food stocks earmarked for next year in order to cope with the emergency situation.

Communist China and Russia are delivering additional construction supplies and medical materials to the North Vietnamese, and are expected to increase food shipments, intelligence sources said.

However, U.S. analysts suggested China's response to North Vietnam's flood-caused food difficulties could be slowed if rumors of internal political crisis in Peking are true.

Russia has been a major supplier of wheat and flour, agricultural equipment and fertilizers to North Vietnam. But recent reports indicate Russia's harvest may fall about seven million tons short of last year's 150 million tons.

At the same time, American analysts said, the Russians find themselves with insufficient reserves of bread grains because significant stocks have spoiled under improper storage and because much more wheat is being fed to livestock in a campaign to ease a domestic meat shortage in the Soviet Union. U.S. sources say this all means the Kremlin may have to raise its own wheat imports to meet the requirements of its people, with North Vietnam's food problem an added burden.

In addition to ruining North Vietnamese rice, the heavy rains and floods over the past several months reportedly have set back construction of a new truck fuel pipeline between the main port of Haiphong and the important supply trans-shipment base at Vinh.

American intelligence says the four-inch pipeline would eliminate a need to carry oil and gasoline between Haiphong and Vinh by truck or barge. In the long run, U.S. experts said, this would release North Vietnamese manpower for other tasks.

The new section would tie in to an already extensive pipeline system which North Vietnam has constructed gradually in recent years for pumping truck fuel southward through the North Vietnamese panhandle and on into Laos.

This fuel powers the thousands of North Vietnamese trucks which shuttle along the Ho Chi Minh trail during the dry season carrying arms, ammunition and other supplies for Communist troops fighting in South Vietnam, Cambodia and southern Laos.

Plan Boost Pay Scales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate Labor Committee says his panel will start next week to draw up a bill that will boost the minimum wage to $2.25 even though such an increase may run afoul of President Nixon's economic program.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said in a statement Sunday the committee "will have to see what impact the President's program will have on our legislation when it is announced."

"But," he said, "we still see a strong need for a higher minimum wage. The present minimum does not even provide a poverty-level income." The present minimum wage is $1.60 an hour.

Congress almost certainly will not complete action on such a bill before the present wage-price freeze expires Nov. 13. But there have been indications Nixon's Phase 2 of the program will include wage stabilization measures.

Under the Williams' bill, the new floor would take effect in two steps, $2 after 60 days and $2.25 one year after that.

Prevention Will Be Keynote Of Crime Institute

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A crime prevention institute will open its doors at the University of Louisville Kentucky next week.

Its dean, John C. Klotter, said he decided to start the institute after visiting eight U.S. police departments and finding not one person responsible for crime prevention.

Twenty-seven officers in the first three-week course will study burglar alarms, security systems, architecture (police should be consulted, he believes), lighting, closed-circuit television monitors, race relations and theft insurance.

Klotter, interim dean of the school of police administration at Louisville, announced the new program Sunday at the 87th conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Credited With Popular Prayer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "O God, give us serenity to accept what cannot be changed, courage to change what should be changed, and wisdom to know the difference."

Printed reproductions of that prayer often say "Author Unknown" or "Anonymous," but the Rev. Dr. Elson Ruff, editor of a denominational weekly, the Lutheran, reports it was written by the late famed theologian Reinhold Niebuhr, who first used it in a church in Heath, Mass., in 1934.

A listener asked him for a copy, and Niebuhr handed him a card on which he had written it out, saying he had no further use for it, Dr. Ruff relates.

Practicing Said 'Hardest Part'

LONDON (AP) — A survey among Roman Catholic students at the University of London showed that most thought the hardest thing about being a Christian was "practicing what you preach."

The easiest part of being a Christian was listed as "religious observance"—attending Mass or a church service.

Birthday At Smithsonian

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution, observing its 125th birthday, today opens its own post office that is almost as old.

The building that housed the Smithsonian, W.Va., post office from the early 1860s until 1914 has been reconstructed in the Smithsonian's Museum of History and Technology.

It will be an operating post office, providing card and letter service for the millions of tourists and local residents who visit the Smithsonian every year. Personnel will wear costumes typical of the 19th century.

It will have its own postmark: "The National Museum of History and Technology, Smithsonian Station."

The principal ceremony in connection with the Smithsonian's 125th anniversary of the date it received its charter from Congress was observed Sunday with greetings from President Nixon.

Lord Cromer, the British ambassador, was present as a gesture of recognition of James Smithson, the British scientist who gave the money to establish the Smithsonian.

Defies Ban On Serape Vestment

SAN YSIDRO, Calif. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest who works with striking farm workers has again donned a serape vestment that his bishop had forbidden him to wear.

The Rev. Victor Salandini said Mass for members of Cesar Chavez' AFL-CIO United Farm Workers Organizing Committee Sunday in a serape-bearing UFWOC's black eagle emblem.

Father Salandini, who recently was suspended for a week, partly for wearing the unorthodox vestment, said he used it again because Bishop Leo T. Maher of San Diego "told me he would support the striking workers with food and he didn't keep his word."

Bishop John R. Quinn said Maher, who is on vacation, had encouraged gifts of food in the parishes.

"I think the bishop's interest in the workers also is indicated by the fact that he freed Father Salandini from other duties so he could work full time with the workers this summer," he said.

FOUNTAIN — One person was killed and three others injured in a 1:25 a.m. mishap on a rural road near here Sunday. Highway Patrolman W. F. Pridden of Rocky Mount, who investigated the mishap just inside Edgecomb County, reported that Joseph K. Langley, 23 of Route 1, Fountain, apparently died instantly. He was identified as the driver of the car.

Pit. Pridden said the Langley car was headed South on a rural road off N.C. 222 West of Fountain. The officer explained that the car went out of control and traveled for 540 feet before leaving the ground and crashing into a pine tree about 10 feet off the ground.

Injured in the crash were Langley's wife, Mrs. Peggy Nichols Langley and Langley's brother and his brother's wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Langley of Fountain. They were taken to a Wilson hospital for treatment.

Damage to the 1969 model car was set at $2,500. Pit. Pridden described the vehicle as a total loss.

Women Judges Are Silent On Chances

By ANN BLACKMAN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The three women President Nixon has appointed to the federal bench are exercising judicious, if not judicial, discretion, each declining to comment on her chances of becoming the first female Supreme Court justice.

Although no one can be sure of the President's support, Mrs. Nixon told reporters Thursday she was "talking it up" with her husband to appoint a woman to the high court. She mentioned that the President had appointed three women to federal courts—Cornelia G. Kennedy of the U.S. District Court in Michigan and Sylvia Bacon and Normalie Holloway Johnson, both of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia.

In case "they don't get one this time," Mrs. Nixon said, "they're grooming them. They'll be moved up to other courts."

The next day, Mrs. Nixon said the White House is giving careful consideration to the idea of a woman on the court but added: "The trouble is, the best qualified women are too old."

In addition to the three women singled out by Mrs. Nixon, others being mentioned in speculation include Shirley M. Hufstetler, who as a member of

'Sound Advice' By HST Cited

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — President Harry S. Truman is giving sound advice these days, according to Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien.

O'Brien visited Truman and his wife at their home here Saturday and said the 87-year-old former president relayed this familiar-sounding political advice: "Give 'em hell."

O'Brien, who stopped off here on his way to a Truman Day dinner in St. Louis, said: "We were just talking up a storm and could have gone on forever."

He said the talk centered on politics and added that Truman felt a large number of potential presidential candidates was a good thing for the Democratic party. Truman expressed no preference for any one contender, O'Brien said.

Dedicate Novel School

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — A new one-room school building for Ocracoke Island, formally dedicated Sunday, contains alcoves for individual instruction of its 70 pupils.

State Superintendent of Schools Craig Phillips told the 250 persons who attended the dedication, "You have the most beautiful school building in North Carolina. It is the most beautiful not only because of the special design, but because it is working proof of what a community as small as 450 people can do for their children."

Phillips said the building and its equipment should be a show place and laboratory. All 12 grades will be taught in the one large room costing $103,000.

Individual instruction will be supplanted by small group instruction, independent study and individual projects.

Nine persons are in this year's senior class. Tommy Alston, the only person in the fifth grade, also started the first grade by himself.

Behanding Was Dubious Honor

CHICAGO (UPI) — In the old days when an Englishman lost his head it meant he had status.

Behanding, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, usually was reserved for offenders of high rank. From the 15th century, victims of the axe included some of the highest personages in the kingdom.

One of these was Thomas of Lancaster. He was sentenced to be hanged, drawn and beheaded. But because of his high birth he was pardoned from all but the behanding.

W&M Plays Next 3 Games Outside Conference

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

William and Mary's defending champion Indians, who coach Lou Holtz says "can possibly be a decent football team," play their next three games outside the Southern Conference—and if you think that doesn't make the league's six other title-eligible coaches happy, guess again.

The Indians now stand an imposing 3-0 in defense of their title following a 40-14 romp Saturday over Davidson's Wildcats, and they won't be seen around the league again until they entertain Virginia Military of Oct. 23.

While the Indians are away battling the likes of Tulane, West Virginia and Virginia Tech, the conference's other members will have a go at trying to remain in—or get back into—contention. One of two Saturday night games this week has The Citadel at East Carolina, and the loser—both already have been beaten by William and Mary—is almost certain to fall by the way-side. The other has VMI, 1-0 in the conference, at Furman, making its league debut after a disappointing 0-2-1 start.

Only The Citadel emerged a winner as six league teams took on outsiders Saturday and Saturday night. The Bulldogs came from behind in the final period behind sophomore quarterback Harry Lynch for the second week in a row and whipped Boston University 44-37.

VMI gave up touchdowns the first two times Villanova had the ball, then blanked the Wildcats the rest of the way in what was an impressive 13-3 defeat—if a loss can be impressive. And Richmond's Spiders, while not generating much offense, lost by only 16-3 for former league member West Virginia.

It wasn't that good elsewhere as East Carolina took a 47-21 thumping at Bowling Green, Ohio. Furman went down to a 27-0 licking at Wofford and Appalachian State was handed a 26-0 whipping by Western Carolina.

A third meeting Saturday of conference teams has Appalachian going against Davidson at Charlotte, N. C., but it doesn't count in the league standings. Richmond entertains Bost College in the afternoon, and William and Mary will be the underdog for the first time in a night game at Tulane.

"We made some great individual plays, but we didn't play with the spirit and enthusiasm with which our team has played before," said Holtz of William and Mary's victory over Davidson. "We'll have to improve . . ."

Davidson's Dave Fagg was more complimentary, comparing the Indians to Atlantic Coast Conference champion Wake Forest, which earlier had beaten the Wildcats 27-7 after trailing 7-0 for three quarters.

"Both teams have two running backs anybody in the nation would like to have," said Fagg.

"If you can split the difference, you're better than I am."

Despite three straight defeats, Fagg said "Wildcat football is not extinct. We're going to fight like hell. We're going to hang in there. Anybody who believes different should talk to me."

William and Mary had all kinds of stars in its victory—quarterback Steve Regan, fullback Phil Mosser, split end David Knight, defensive safety Paul Sclaro and a large supporting cast.

Regan hit on nine of 15 passes for 169 yards and a 42-yard touchdown to John Beck. Mosser ran for 76 yards in 17 carries, returned a kickoff 34 yards, caught a pass for 11 and scored once; Knight caught four passes for 83 yards, including two sensational grabs for 68 of the 83 yards in the Indians' first scoring drive, and Sclaro blocked a punt that tackle Andre Polly ran 14 yards for a score, intercepted a pass and had a hand in six tackles.

Split end Brian Baima caught a 26-yard pass from Lynch with 19 seconds left that won for The Citadel, which scored 21 points in the last quarter to overcome a 29-23 Boston U. lead. Baima had another scoring catch, while Bob Carson scored three times, including a school-record 95-yard run.

Mike Cole's 30-yard field goal provided the only score for VMI, which couldn't cash in on five fumble recoveries and two pass interceptions. Keydet coach Bob Thalman said "we should have scored more points. I'm disappointed we didn't win. But, he said, "we've got nine more games to play."

Coach Frank Jones was proud of Richmond's defense, which finally tired in the second half against West Virginia. And, said Jones, "we're going to get better on offense. The offense is just so young. They get so excited and make so many mistakes."

East Carolina was down by 33-7 at Bowling Green and even the passing of John Casazza which led to two touchdowns in the third period couldn't save the Pirates from their third defeat.

That inconsistent Furman offense produced just 85 total yards against Wofford, which whipped the Paladins for the sixth straight time. Steve Crislip got all but eight of Furman's 52 yards on the ground on 19 carries.

Fumble recoveries set up a touchdown and field goal and tackle Mike Cater returned an intercepted pass 53 yards for another score for Western Carolina, which limited Appalachian to 86 yards rushing.

Butch Hartman Wins A Big One

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

Butch Hartman won only two auto races this year, the first one he entered and the last one, but today he is the stock car champion of the United States Auto Club.

Hartman, 31, of North Zanesville, Ohio, drove a Dodge to victory in the Pennsylvania 500 at Mount Pocono, Pa. Saturday to pick up about $15,000 in prize money—the largest single payoff in his spotty career—and earned enough points to beat out perennial champion Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz. for the driving title.

Meantime, Bobby Isaac returned to action after setting 28 land speed records in Utah, to win the 250-mile race for NASCAR Grand Title Sedans at Martinsville, Va.

Denis Hulme, who had suffered the agony of defeat in a dozen outings since early June, finally got his team McLaren untracked Sunday and won the eighth race in the 1971 Can-Am series at Edmonton, Alta. in Canada.

He was home free after leader Jackie Stewart spun his Lola Chevrolet 11 laps from the finish, allowing Hulme to triumph for the first time since the series opened June 19.

A 300-mile race for Indianapolis-type cars was postponed at Trenton, N. J. because of rain. The Marlboro-300 was reset for next Sunday.

Hartman, who races only part time while operating a truck-sales agency in Ohio, led 131 of the 200 laps in the Penn 500 and counted among his victims such notables as A.J. Foyt, Bobby and Al Unser, Gary Bettenhausen and Leroy Yarborough, winner of $500,000 on Southern tracks Foyt came in second, Don White was third, Lem Blankenship fourth and Jack Bowsher fourth.

The order of finish behind the 1970 Grand National champion Isaac at Martinsville sounded like a who's who in Dixie racing.

Bobby Allison, a $194,000 winner this year, was second in a Mercury, one lap behind; Richard Petty, NASCAR's only one million dollar winner, was third, while Charlie Glotzbach and Donnie Allison came in fourth and fifth, respectively.

Hulme's victory at Edmonton was his 19th in Can-Am racing in five seasons and the $18,000 in prize money carried him past the $400,000 mark for this series alone.

He almost didn't make it however. Stewart, the wily Scot who set out at the start of the season to throw a monkey wrench in McLaren's domination of the series, led most of the way until he spun off the course. He lost 26 seconds getting his car back into action, but Hulme already had disappeared towards victory circle.

Cougars Split 2 With Bullets

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association opened up their preseason exhibition series during the weekend by splitting a pair of games with the Baltimore Bullets.

The Cougars downed the National Basketball Association Bullets, 108-98, Saturday night to avenge a 106-104 loss the night before.

The Cougars took a 54-44 half-time lead Saturday after the Bullets' Earl Monroe was ejected with two technical fouls in the second period.

Gene Littles and Jim McDaniels paced the Cougars with 18 points each.

Wounded And Wobbly Giants Hanging In There

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants, wounded and wobbly, are hanging in there in the wild and whacky National League West. They may win it yet—that is, if they can finish the season with the same cast.

"This team reminds me of the Spirit of '76 with all our injuries," said San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox after the pain-plagued Giants smacked the Cincinnati Reds 12-5 Sunday and maintained a shaky one-game lead over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat Atlanta 5-2.

Fox has a point, you must admit. With Willie McCovey's tortured knees and ripped hand and beanball victim Dick Dietz' bandaged head, the baseball season has resembled a war for the Giants. Those are some injuries, there have been others.

"Sunday was the first time that we've had our regular lineup together for a long time, maybe three or four weeks," said Fox. "In fact, I don't think we've had our regular lineup together for 50 per cent of the season."

McCovey, held together most of the season with pain-killing shots and leg harnesses because of arthritic knees and a torn cartilage, complicated matters recently when he suffered a gash in one hand during a game. Dietz took 10 stitches in his head after being hit by a pitch last Tuesday and wasn't able to start until Saturday because he couldn't fit a batting helmet over the swelling.

"It was bothering me a little Sunday," said Dietz, but apparently not too much because he drilled a grand slam home run and knocked in five runs.

While the Giants were winning a key game, the hot Dodgers kept things interesting by whipping the Braves for the third straight day as Richie Allen and Duke Sims hit home runs.

The Dodgers and Giants each have three games left in the regular season, which winds up Thursday.

In Sunday's other National League games, the New York Mets trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1; the St. Louis Cardinals turned back the Montreal Expos 7-1 and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Chicago Cubs 5-1.

Dietz was a sight for sore eyes, running from under his hat and displaying a wig of white bandages as he circled the bases with the second slam of his career.

"I was wearing the biggest hat and biggest helmet of anyone on the club," said Dietz, grinning through the pain. "I borrowed Gaylord Perry's."

The tough Giant catcher knew that Wayne Granger's pitch was out of sight when he made contact.

"I knew it was gone," said Dietz, "I hit it so hard, if it didn't go out, I was hurting. Maybe I ought to wear those bandages all the time."

Dietz also had two other hits, including a run-scoring single in the ninth.

"I think Dietz' grand slam did it," said Fox, with the understatement of the day. "This was a real, real big game for us and this changes everyone's attitude. There's no question that everyone on this club was getting up tight."

Willie Mays and Bobby Bonds applied the crusher with two-run homers in a four-run Giant Sixth.

Allen launched the Dodgers into a 1-0 lead in the second inning with his 23rd homer and Sims hit his fifth of the year, a solo shot in the third. The Dodgers scored the eventual winning run on an unearned tally in the fourth.

Hoyt Wilhelm and Jim Brewer then pitched effectively the last three innings in relief of Los Angeles starter Claude Osteen, who gave up Hank Aaron's 47th homer of the year and 639th lifetime blast.

Tom Seaver allowed one hit.

Vic Davalillo's seventh-inning single, as the New York ace notched his 19th victory in the Mets' triumph over Eastern Division champion Pittsburgh.

Rookie Jorge Roque, playing his first game this season for St. Louis, banged three singles to help the Cardinals defeat Montreal.

Roger Freed knocked in four runs with a home run and double, leading Philadelphia over Chicago.

Terp Mentor Concedes UNC Has 'A Good Team'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"They're a good team," commented Maryland Coach Ray Lester after the North Carolina Tar Heels had romped to a 35-14 win Saturday over his Terrapins.

The Tar Heels and the Duke Blue Devils are the only undefeated teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference following Saturday's first real round of intraconference warfare.

Prior to Saturday, Maryland had been the only ACC team to taste a conference victory, downing N. C. State in the only ACC game played.

Duke took an easy 28-0 win from Virginia Saturday, but the other league members didn't fare very well against outside competition. Clemson lost to Georgia, 28-0; Miami, Fla., upset Wake Forest, 29-10, and North Carolina State lost to former conference member South Carolina, 24-6.

Despite the North Carolina win, John Bunting, who starred on defense and scored a touchdown on one of his two pass interceptions, wasn't very happy.

"The defense had a letdown," suggested Bunting. "They were burning us on those short, outside pass patterns. Our mental lapses led to their touchdowns."

Maryland's two touchdowns, which had the game tied 14-14 in the third period, came on fumbles by Ike Oglesby, who moaned: "I got so tense thinking about keeping the ball I couldn't hold on."

Virginia is still looking for its first touchdown following the weekend action. But Duke found the going rougher Saturday than many expected.

"We found we were in for a game in the first half," said Duke right linebacker Lanny Murdock. The Cavaliers thrust deep into Duke territory during the first half, but the Blue Devils were able to blunt the attack.

Clemson Coach Hootie Ingram thought a controversial pass call was the critical turning point in his team's 28-0 loss to Georgia.

Defensive end Wayne Baker had caught a deflected Georgia pass in the third period with Georgia leading 7-0, but the official ruled the ball had hit the ground first. On the next play, Georgia kicked and Clemson was pushed into a hole from which it never escaped.

"I don't think Baker caught the ball, I know he caught it," said Ingram.

Miami held Wake Forest to 137 yards offense to hand the Deacons their first loss of the season. Miami rolled for 467 yards.

Wake led 10-7 at halftime, but Miami added 22 points in the second half, 19 of them in the last period.

A tough South Carolina defense held N. C. State at bay until the last period, when the Wolfpack hit paydirt for the first time.

South Carolina Coach Paul Dietzel heaped praise on Gamecock quarterback Glenn Morris following the game. Morris completed eight of 15 passes for 104 yards.

"Every game he's played, he's looked better and he should improve every time out. He's my quarterback...there's no doubt about that," said Dietzel.

Duke goes up against No. 13 ranked Stanford Saturday to test its No. 20 ranking. That game will be at Stanford.

Clemson plays at Georgia Tech and Virginia hosts Vanderbilt, while league games have North Carolina at N. C. State in a regionally televised contest and Wake Forest at Maryland.

North Viets Inflict Heavy Losses In Border War

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces mounted heavy attacks today along South Vietnam's border with Cambodia for the second day, reportedly inflicting heavy losses on South Vietnamese forces.

Two U.S. aircraft supporting the South Vietnamese were shot down with five Americans wounded, the U.S. Command said. Field reports said the South Vietnamese lost at least 20 men killed, about 100 wounded and a number of artillery pieces, tanks and armored cars destroyed, some of them apparently by sappers who broke into the government positions hurling satchel charges.

The South Vietnamese Command reported that 92 North Vietnamese troops were killed, many of them by U.S. helicopter gunships, fighter-bombers and artillery.

On the outskirts of Saigon, two Viet Cong sappers were detected attempting to penetrate an ammunition depot near Tan Son Nhut air base, South Vietnamese headquarters said. One of them was killed and the second escaped, a communique said. A series of explosions ripped through a section of the dump a week ago, destroying 300 tons of ammunition.

Viet Cong sappers used a mine to blow up a train traveling from Qui Nhon to Tuy Hoa on the central coast. The Saigon Command said one civilian was killed and six were wounded, adding that the locomotive was destroyed and three cars were damaged.

U.S. officers said the attacks along the Cambodian border and the increase in sapper activity are probably timed to take advantage of political unrest and divisiveness among the South Vietnamese.

The apparent military objective is to drive South Vietnamese troops from defensive positions along Highways 1, 7 and 22 along the border with Cambodia.

North Vietnamese troops from two divisions pounded 11 South Vietnamese positions and one U.S. base on the Vietnamese side of the border Sunday from dawn to dusk with up to 1,000 rounds of rockets and mortars. They followed up two of the attacks with infantry and sapper assaults.

The attacks were the heaviest in the border region in nearly four months.

Field reports said about 20

South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and three to four times as many wounded. Seven Cambodian and a handful of American troops were wounded.

The Saigon command said 58 North Vietnamese troops were killed.

Officers in the field said that the South Vietnamese had held all of their positions and that enemy action had died down this morning.

Most of the attacks centered in and around the Cambodian town of Krek on Highway 7, five miles from the border. South Vietnamese officers said every position along the road was attacked.

The South Vietnamese are positioned there to keep North Vietnamese forces from infiltrating into South Vietnam's 3rd Military Region to disrupt the presidential election next Sunday. The 3rd Region includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces.

The heavy shelling attacks indicated that the North Vietnamese were trying to keep Saigon troops pinned down and diverted while they slipped infiltrators across the border.

U.S. rocket-firing helicopter gunships, tactical fighter-bombers and artillery joined in support of the South Vietnamese, bombarding enemy gun sites and troop positions.

U.S. B52 bombers also carried out raids against North Vietnamese supply depots to the rear.

One American officer said the attacks "are probably connected with the election, the demonstrations in Saigon and the mood. Now is the time for the enemy to gain."

Anti-government demonstrations broke out today in Qui Nhon and Da Nang on the central and northern coasts, and in Can Tho in the Mekong Delta.

The protests, which have spread from Saigon, are against the Oct. 3 election in which President Nguyen Van Thieu is running unopposed. Several groups, mainly disabled veterans and students, have called for his resignation.

Top Level Talk Held On Ireland

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The prime ministers of Britain, Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic meet today in an effort to defuse growing violence in Ulster, but all three caution against any quick solution.

which is 95 per cent Roman Catholic.

Lynch said Sunday he expects nothing spectacular to result, but added he is optimistic. "What we are looking for," he said, "is some means of opening the way to peace in the north and, I hope, the ultimate unification of Ireland."

He said he would be willing to return for similar talks "even if these talks go against me." Today's session is the first of its kind since 1925, when the border between Northern Ireland and the republic was defined.

British officials said Heath has no new ideas to offer in the talks.

They gave the impression that Heath will be happy if the session reaches Tuesday's scheduled close without any explosive walkouts.

On the eve of the three-way talks Faulkner's government was shaken by a key minister's walkout. Community Relations Minister David Bleakley quit to protest the government's internment without trial of suspected IRA terrorists. Lynch also opposes internment.

Britain's Edward Heath is hosting the talks at his country estate, Chequers outside London. He hopes to find some common ground between Northern Ireland's Brian Faulkner and Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic.

The turmoil in the British province has cost 110 dead and hundreds wounded in the past two years. Those killed include 24 British soldiers sent to Ulster to keep the peace.

The rate of killing—more than 50 in the past two months—has increased drastically as the urban guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican Army have stepped up their campaign for a united Ireland.

The guerrillas have sworn that predominantly Protestant Northern Ireland must be merged with Lynch's republic,

Scott To Speak To Faculty Club

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott will speak in support of his plan for restructuring higher education in an address to the University of North Carolina Faculty Club Oct. 5.

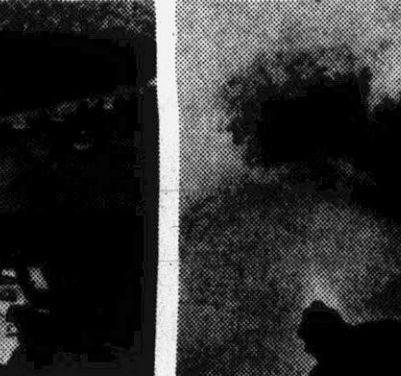

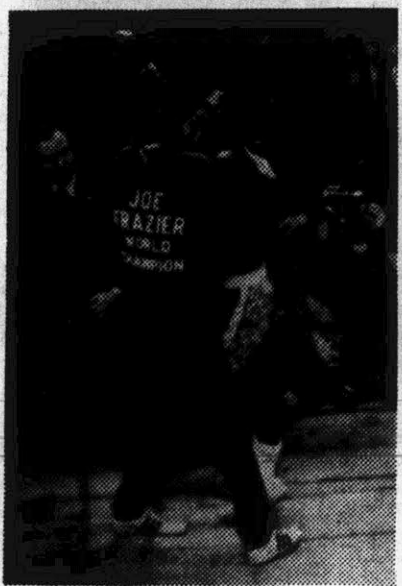

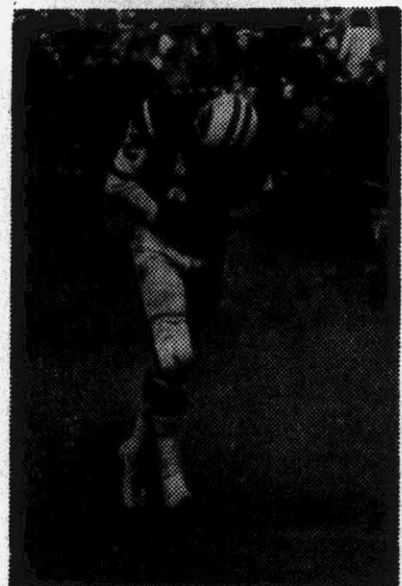

The gathering at 12:30 p.m. at the Carolina Inn will be the first meeting of the Chapel Hill faculty this year.

Trustees and other supporters of the consolidated university, especially those with ties to the Chapel Hill campus, have been among the most adamant opponents of Scott's plan which calls for dismantling the present six-campus UNC and putting the 16 state universities under a single strong governing board.

Police weren't sure how the 1964 car, stolen from in front of Bischoff's home, wound up on the Caribbean island. But they said it was impounded at Puerto Neuvo, and he could pick it up any time.

THE ARMY NURSE

One of today's nurses, 1st Lt. Kathy Cabell, carrying on the labor of compassion begun 70 years ago.

World War I Army nurses in France do their laundry in the field.

Seventy years of compassionate labor is a record to be proud of. It is a record which the Army Nurse Corps celebrates this year and which Picture Show marks with a historical review in photographs.

When the Corps was established in 1901 it was the first women's component of the U.S. Armed Forces, as well as being the first military nurse corps in the world. It came into being as a result of the efforts of civilian nurses who were employed by the Army to care for the sick and wounded during the Spanish-American War. Ever since, the all-officer corps has had as its mission the providing of safe and effective nursing services to military personnel and their families in peace and in war. Today 4,700 Army nurses serve at home and abroad—and some 1,060 of them are men, a development dating from 1955.

The Worry Clinic

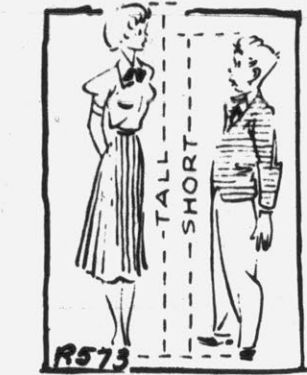

Siblings Often Are Different

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Ada wonders why Tricia Nixon was shorter in height than her sister Julie. Look around and see if the first-born child isn't more likely to be shorter than its sibling of the same sex who is the 2nd in the sibling sequence. Then read the medical reasons outlined below. And send for that "Pregnancy" booklet!

Case R-573: Ada Z., aged 22, is a graduate student in psychology.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I was very much interested in your talk today before our seminar.

"For you mentioned that heredity can be modified considerably by the environment, even regarding height.

"Then you cited Tricia and Julie Nixon as possible examples.

"Would you please explain that point a little more fully?"

Sibling Sequence

You readers have probably observed that the order of birth may predispose children toward introversion vs. extroversion.

For example, if the first two youngsters are of the same sex and within 2 or 3 years of each other in age, which is likely to be the more quiet and persevering?

Which, by contrast, is usually more sociable and the talkative or "salesman" type?

The Prodigal Son and his older brother are a classical example of the difference in temperament that results when you are the first-born vs. the 2nd sibling.

But "sibling sequence" is not limited only to psychological factors.

It even is reflected in physical measurements, too.

For example, the first-born is generally shorter in height when he reaches adulthood than is the 2nd child, if both are of the same sex.

Tricia and Julie Nixon typify this general rule.

"Dr. Crane," Ada asked, "if Tricia and Julie both had inherited the same tendency to be tall, how could Tricia's being the first born daughter then make her shorter than Julie?"

Well, here are the medical reasons that can explain this difference:

(1) The mother's uterus (womb) is not as richly supplied by blood with the first pregnancy as is true with later ones.

So the firstborn child thus may not be as well nourished, chemically, as the 2nd in sequence.

You farm folks thus already have noted that a young hen (pullet) does not lay as large eggs at the start as after she has been in production for 6 months.

This initial limited blood supply also explains why a young wife may not be able to nurse her first baby at the breast but then may have ample milk for the 2nd or 3rd.

For the female breasts acquire better blood supply with additional babies, and thus the milk supply increases.

A cow's udder also produces more milk with later calves.

(2) The first born infant also must stretch the mother's pelvic canal, so it may be merely a part of the Almighty's efficiency engineering to have the first baby smaller.

For it is then less likely to suffer brain damage at the time of birth.

(3) In early marriage, the family's income is usually lower than in following years so the mothers may have access to a greater and wider variety of food with their later babies.

In time of famine, for example, the babies are thus likely to be smaller, due largely to the mother's deprivation of gastric calories at the dinner table.

So send for my medical booklet "Facts About Pregnancy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠A10943 ♥Q6542 ♦86 ♣5

Your partner has opened with one heart. What is your response?

A.—Four hearts. Best results on hands of this type are usually attained by an immediate raise to game. Prospects for fulfillment are good and the guess, if any, is put squarely up to the opposition.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠K843 ♥54 ♦1054 ♣K1052

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♣ Pass 1 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. While this hand contains the minimum in high cards you should carry on, the partner's raise is not forcing. The club fit is the determining factor. Reverse the hearts and clubs and a doubtful situation would exist.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, opponents have 60 part score and as South you hold:

♠K9753 ♥62 ♦A93 ♣1052

The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 NT Pass Pass Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Two spades. Under normal conditions, holding more than six points, you should pass the no trump bid for penalties, but in this particular case it pays to be a little more cautious. Since one no trump trumps the enemy "out," partner may have stretched a point to double in order to put up some sort of fight. You should, therefore, keep your powder dry by bidding two spades.

Q. 4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠62 ♥AK1098 ♦53 ♣K95

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♣ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♣ 1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner has announced a strong hand by making a free rebid of one no trump after the adverse spade bid. The suggested call is a raise to three no trump.

Weekend Of TV Saw Two Treats

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This is the season when the television audience is supposed to be sampling the new shows and establishing new viewing habits. The networks are thus reluctant to pre-empt regularly scheduled shows for special programs for the next month or so—a critical period when the annual ratings race is at top speed.

The weekend, however, brought a couple of treats.

CBS invaded the Sunday afternoon precinct which is almost completely reserved for sports events and old movies with a "Young People's Concert" consisting of Bartok's "Concerto for Orchestra" played by the New York Philharmonic. The orchestra was conducted by violinist Yehudi Menuhin, who described the work and reminisced about the composer. He lacks the wit and drama of Leonard Bernstein as commentator but he kept his remarks short, with the result there was more time than usual for the music.

ABC presented the first Jacques Cousteau special of the season on Sunday night. It was a handsome and unusual study of the Sea Otter, seen mostly as it frolicked and hunted food on the ocean floor.

Cousteau and company filmed northern sea otters in the Arctic waters—on land and in the frigid water. They move south to the California coast and filmed them amid undersea forests of kelp, made friends by feeding some of the bolder ones and were even able to show their courting and mating rituals.

Cousteau's gentle philosophizing about the importance of preserving the "chain of nature" was extremely effective.

ing the abalone, also had their say. One felt certain that Cousteau was on the side of the otters in the controversy.

There is evidence that the terrible-tempered Archie Bunker of CBS' "All in the Family" may have simmered down over the summer. In Saturday night's show he was erupting over modern art instead of some ethnic group and, most of the time, he was as funny and lovable as he has been ignorant and close-minded.

Perhaps the producers are moving the series into a new area with greater dimensions. Carroll O'Connor blusters and storms around enthusiastically. In Jean Stapleton, playing his wife, he has a strong and highly effective comedy backstop. It is a series with no middle ground: you love it or you avoid it.

MARY URE IN 'REVENGERS' HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Mary Ure will co-star with William Holden and Ernest Borgnine in Cinema Center Films' "The Revengers."

Driver Charged In Sunday Wreck

Mrs. Lottie Adams Oakley of 1523 Broad St. was charged with failing to use reasonable care to avoid an accident following investigation of a 2:10 p.m. mishap here yesterday.

Officers reported the Oakley car collided with a car owned by David Salyer of 305 Line Ave. and parked on Line Avenue about 20 feet North of the Wilson Street intersection.

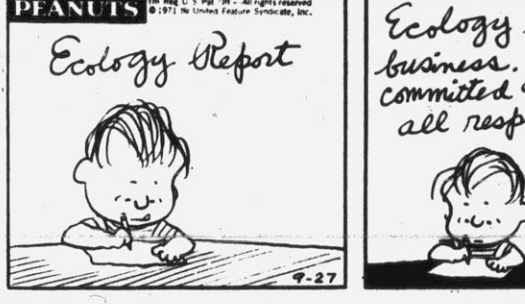

Damage to the parked vehicle was set at $300 while damage to the Oakley car was set at $800.

FOREST TREE SEEDLINGS: Applications are now being accepted for commercial forest tree seedlings with deliveries scheduled to begin around December 1, 1971. The North Carolina Forest Service sells the seedlings, which may be used for forest plantings, erosion control or windbreaks. They are not supplied for ornamental purposes. Applications are due in the State Forester's office at least four weeks before shipment is desired to insure the delivery date.

Seedlings are shipped in bundles of 500 and 1000. A minimum order of 500 is required. All orders must be prepaid. Applications are available from the North Carolina Forest Service, the Soil Conservation Service, or the Agricultural Extension Service.

LAWNS: Fall is the best time of the year to establish a lawn with cool season grasses. It is also the time to begin feeding those grasses in established lawns.

Fescue, the only year-round lawn grass with much chance of success in Pitt County, should be seeded between September 15 and October 15. Seeded one month later fescue has an average of 80 percent chance of establishment. Two months later it has a 50 percent chance.

Italian ryegrass is an annual grass that will give a beautiful lawn in the cool seasons but dies out during the summer. It is widely used for over-seeding warm season grasses. September or October is the time for seeding with the best chance for success.

Soil testing and good soil preparation are needed for long lasting lawn beauty. After your lawn is growing, the cool season grasses should be fertilized with complete fertilizer in September and February (10 lbs. 12-4-8, or 12-25 lbs. 10-10-10 per 1000 sq. ft.). Light feedings of nitrogen (1 lb. actual Nitrogen per 1000 sq. ft.) should be applied October 15, December 1, and April 1.

For more detailed information about lawns and lawn care, write for your copy of Carolina Lawns. The address is Agricultural Extension Service, Box 1427, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

N. C. STATE UNIVERSITY OPEN HOUSE

Tobacco TIPS

By S. J. WEEKS

As the 1971 crop of tobacco is being sold, it is not too early to begin considering ways and making plans to produce the highest net return from your 1972 crop. There are many production practices to consider as you formulate your tobacco production program. The first and one of the most important steps in a good tobacco production program is the plant bed.

Experimental results have shown that a good supply of quality plants at transplanting time will increase the net profit from the tobacco crop. In order to have a good supply of strong, healthy plants, reasonably early in the transplanting season, a well planned plant bed program based on sound and proven production practices must be followed.

Careful attention should be given to the location of the plant bed site. Select a deep, fertile, loamy soil that warms up quickly. The soil should be well drained, but not one that dries too quickly. Avoid using soil that bakes or crusts easily. It is a good idea to locate the bed near a dependable source of water whenever possible, such as a pond or stream. Having plenty of water handy in dry weather may determine whether you have plants ready for an early setting.

Cold and drying winds can cause very serious damage to stands and earliness of plants; therefore, it is a good idea for all beds to have some type of windbreak on the north, northwest, and northeast sides, especially on the north side. Woods, hedgerows, buildings, and fences covered with vines, make good windbreaks. Avoid locating beds in shaded areas.

If you have a permanent plant bed site established and have a cover crop growing, it should be disc'd immediately. By discing in the cover crop now the organic matter will be decayed in time to treat the soil for weed and nematode control in the fall or early winter.

It is very important that you start planning your plant bed program for the 1972 tobacco crop now by selecting your plant bed site, and beginning proper soil management.

If you have not already plowed out your tobacco stubbles, plan to do so "right now."

OPERATION R-6-P (Reduce 6 Pests) will help produce a better crop.

Simple Rites For Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black will be buried with simple honors Tuesday in Arlington National Cemetery after services at Washington Cathedral.

Black, whose populist interpretation of the Bill of Rights increased the individual freedoms of all Americans, died Saturday in Bethesda Naval Hospital, a week after his retirement from the high court.

Hospital spokesmen attributed the 85-year-old jurist's death to "inflammation of the arteries and stroke." Black suffered a stroke Sept. 19 while hospitalized for the blood condition.

Justices of the Supreme Court, active and retired, will serve as honorary pall bearers at the burial services scheduled for 3 p.m.

It is not known whether President Nixon will attend the services, but it is anticipated he will make an announcement after his scheduled return today from his trip to Alaska.

Black's death came while a relatively small part of their operation. Same with General Electric, which dropped computers last year, leaving the business to specialists: IBM, Sperry, Burroughs, Control Data.

These companies, all of which have made money in computers, are somewhat diversified themselves. But all have a tradition in office equipment—it has been a specialty for many years.

—In ceasing publication, Look joins the Saturday Evening Post and Colliers, to name only two of a dozen that have failed in 15 years. But specialty publications are doing well.

Magazines devoted to specific areas of life: to yachting, golf, dining, business, age groups, city dwellers, scientific specialties, family activities, home-making and so on are still making money.

—And the railroads, despite problems, also seem to be finding profits in specialization. The most obvious example is the shedding of passenger service for freight, but specialty haulers, of coal for example, also are in the black.

First-half results reported by the Association of American Railroads show industry profits of $216 million on revenues of $6.5 billion in the first half of the year. That means sales are up 10 per cent, and profits from $19 million to $216 million.

OFFICIALS DOMINATE NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A poll of 7,310 registered representatives to the Southern Baptist convention in St. Louis last June showed that a whopping 84.4 per cent of them were members of a church staff, the wife of a church staff member or denominational worker.

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — Steve Thompson, for three years a professional football player with the New York Jets, says he is quitting the game because he received "direction from the Lord to do something else."

What it will be, he isn't quite sure, perhaps teaching. "I'm not going to bad rap football," he says. "But Jesus Christ is more my life. I want the fullness of life that Jesus offers."

True Picture Not Shown By Failures

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — A powerful electronics company, RCA Corp., falls on its face while attempting to become a profitable manufacturer of computers and is forced to leave the business and take a $250-million loss.

Only a year before, the company was reassuring employees that its future was in computers.

Another in a long series of magazines closes its presses. "Look" had become a household word. It had seemed to be a permanent member of the editorial world.

The Penn Central Railroad, the nation's largest, struggles to maintain order along its thousands of miles of tracks and in its vast real estate empire. But it is bankrupt.

A few years ago the men who headed Penn Central were talking about a future they thought was assured. Now they are out of work.

The failure of such big names sometimes gives the impression that things are bad all over, that computers, magazines and railroads just can't make money for anyone these days.

Wrong. At least four manufacturers of computers are profitable; segments of the publishing industry are thriving; and the railroad industry is having one of its best years since the mid-1960s.

Each of these industries, however, is having unusual problems.

—Computer manufacturers operate under the towering shadow of International Business Machines Corp., the nation's fifth-largest industrial concern, which has developed such a lead that it takes more than 70 per cent of sales.

—Magazines are undergoing a unique change brought about largely by television competition. Picture magazines especially are finding it difficult to produce original material that won't look like static TV, although they maintain the problem isn't a lack of readers but of ad dollars.

—Rail operators are still adjusting to the competition from airlines and trucks and still haven't found their niche. They argue that all other modes of transportation are, to some extent, federally subsidized.

And in each industry the resolution of problems appears to be in specialization.

—RCA is a diversified company, and computers were a relatively small part of their operation. Same with General Electric, which dropped computers last year, leaving the business to specialists: IBM, Sperry, Burroughs, Control Data.

For the second consecutive year a Pepsi Cola advertisement published in The Daily Reflector has been selected by Editor & Publisher Magazine as the BEST IN THE NATION.
