Two New Satellites

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Two new satellites hurtled into orbit aboard a single rocket today—one to test the Apollo tracking network, the other to probe the sun by creating its own solar eclipses.

Because of a control problem with the second stage of the Delta rocket, the payloads were injected into elliptical rather than the desired circular orbits. This might reduce the effectiveness of the solar observatory.

The two-stage Delta vaulted skyward at 5:45 a.m., EDT and performed perfectly through first and second stage flight of about 10 minutes. Then, after an 18-minute coast, the second stage reignited for six seconds in a maneuver intended to place the satellites into circular paths 345 miles high.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that when the engine restarted the stage experienced an altitude control problem and was pointed slightly off course. As a result, the payloads were kicked into elliptical paths ranging from about 225 to 355 miles high.

Pledges Aid Priority

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representatives of the nation's governors say they have been assured by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., that the House Ways and Means Committee will give priority next year to some form of federal aid for local governments.

half meeting with Mills "quite encouraged."

"Revenue sharing is very much alive." But Moore indicated the governors did not press for that label on whatever legislation the committee may produce.

Mills has said repeatedly the committee will not approve President Nixon's proposal to earmark a portion of federal revenues for apportionment among states, cities and other local governments.

Agnew Given Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will visit Turkey and Greece in September to confer with the two NATO allies, the White House has announced.

Agnew will visit Turkey Oct. 11-13 while en route to Iran's 2,500th birthday party Oct. 13-16, press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Tuesday. Agnew will be the official United States representative at the gala Iranian fete. He will then proceed to Greece Oct. 16-18, staying there afterwards for a brief private visit, Ziegler said.

Agnew will not be carrying any special messages to either government, Ziegler said, but will be "talking to leaders of both countries about NATO matters."

Press 'Too Sensitive'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House says the press is too sensitive to criticism by government officials like that recently made by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"In well over two years, I don't think there was any instance that the administration showed anything but respect for the free press," presidential press secretary Ronald Ziegler said Tuesday.

The issue came up when newsmen questioned Ziegler about American Civil Liberties Union complaints that Agnew's statements Monday in Anaheim, Calif., about coverage of the recent Attica, N.Y., prison riot constituted intimidation of the press. Ziegler said he would not comment on what Agnew said, but he backed the vice president's "right to express himself."

He said the government should be open to criticism and the press should also.

Hirohito In Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Japan's Emperor Hirohito arrived in Belgium for a three-day state visit today, renewing acquaintance with a country he visited 50 years ago as a crown prince.

When Hirohito visited Belgium in 1921 he was a guest of Baudouin's grandfather, King Albert.

The Belgian radio marked the Japanese emperor's visit with a morning program of Japanese tunes and comments on Japanese life.

Hirohito's European tour marks the first time a reigning Japanese emperor has left the Japanese islands.

Seek Avoid Fare War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. airlines have appealed to the government to avert an air-fare war in the once friendly skies over the North Atlantic.

what they say are disastrous fare cuts be forced on carriers.

Pan American and Trans World, both with scheduled transatlantic service, made the appeal in a private meeting with the Civil Aeronautics Board. Airline officials pleaded for action before Oct. 15, lest

The first stirrings of the ticket-counter battle came when the German airline Lufthansa refused to go along with North Atlantic air-fare levels agreed upon by the International Air Transport Association. Lufthansa proposed price slashes instead.

Smoky Exhausts

RALEIGH (AP) — Motorists with smoky vehicle exhausts have won a breathing spell, but state officials say those clouds of pollutants may be on their last gasp.

North Carolina's General Assembly effected a law July 1 virtually outlawing any visible smoke, or other pollutants, from the exhaust of automobiles and trucks. Legislators put the prime enforcement burden on officers still to be trained.

William S. Knight, air quality control director for the Department of Water and Air Resources, says prosecution has been essentially nonexistent during the first two months.

Ginger Aims At N.C. Coast

HURRICANE WATCH — The entire coastline of North Carolina is under a hurricane watch as Hurricane Ginger takes a northwest course. The shaded area is the coastline under the watch. (AP Wirephoto Map)

MIAMI (AP)—Hurricane Ginger, "a very fickle storm," aimed her fury at the North Carolina coast today but weathermen said she could change course again before hitting land.

At 9 a.m., EDT Ginger was packing winds of 90 miles-per-hour as she moved through the Atlantic about 300 miles southeast of the Wilmington-Cape Hatteras area at about 10 miles an hour, the National Hurricane Center in Miami said.

Her position was Latitude 31.5 north, Longitude 73.5 west.

"Ginger is a very fickle storm," said forecaster Joe Pelissier. "We don't know exactly where she will zero in so a hurricane watch is in effect for a large area of the North Carolina coast."

Pelissier said a hurricane warning would be issued 24 hours before Ginger was expected to hit land.

"She is not in the same category as Hurricane Edith when she hit Nicaragua and Honduras," Pelissier added. "Edith was packing 125 miles-per-hour winds. It is the winds that do the damage and at the moment Ginger is not a really strong storm in that sense."

The center said Ginger was triggering northeasterly winds of 30 to 40 m.p.h. just off the North Carolina coast and winds of gale force were expected over most of the state's coastal area by late tonight.

"There is a possibility that winds may reach hurricane force of 75 m.p.h. by early Thursday," the center added.

Pelissier said Ginger could change course completely before reaching land.

"That is why no hurricane warnings have been issued yet," he added.

Forecaster Ray Kraft said Ginger's size was expected to remain about the same with gales stretching out 275 miles in all directions.

Her eye was 80-miles wide. But the amount of moisture in the oldest Atlantic hurricane on the center's record books was in doubt.

"She was a pretty dry storm when she crossed over Bermuda last week, but sometimes those kind get out to sea again and become very wet," Kraft said. "It's a huge storm in area but it's not as strong as its size would indicate."

Ignore Peace Pleas

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen of the underground Irish Republican Army stepped up their campaign of bullets, bombs and terror today despite a call by three prime ministers for an end to violence in Northern Ireland.

Terrorists fired a bazooka at an army post, blew up a bus station and fired at troops. IRA leaders warned that war in the streets will grind on in a bid to drive the British out of Northern Ireland.

A call for peace was issued by Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic and Edward Heath of Britain after the first such joint conference in 46 years. The summit, which ended Tuesday, produced no dramatic new measures to end terror in the North but issued an appeal against "any form of violence as an instrument of political pressure."

Cathal Goulding, Dublin chief of the "official" IRA division, derided the summit talks as "inconclusive" and said his men would continue to use guns and bombs "to defend nationalist areas in Northern Ireland."

The IRA technically is outlawed in both the North and the Irish Republic to the south but Goulding appeared openly on television in Dublin the Republic's capital, to issue his threat.

The Dublin boss of the IRA's militant "Provisional" division, Sean MacStofan, said the campaign of violence would be "continued and intensified."

The upheaval between the North's Roman Catholics and Protestants has claimed 110 lives in the past two years—24 of them British troops sent in to keep the peace.

But so far as seeking to prosecute anyone yet, obviously we have not," Knight said.

Counteroffensive On Vietnam Border

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese reinforcements and scores of U.S. bombers launched a counteroffensive along the South Vietnamese-Cambodian border today to reopen a 30-mile stretch of highway cut by North Vietnamese forces threatening to overrun a half dozen allied positions.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, commander of South Vietnamese forces in the 3rd Military Region, said initial reports indicated ground contact with the enemy was light.

The 3rd Region includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces and shares 231 miles of border with Cambodia. The northwestern sector of the region above Tay Ninh city has been under heavy pressure since Sunday.

Minh said two North Vietnamese divisions have launched a three-pronged campaign aimed at overrunning South Vietnamese troops along the frontier, stepping up sapper and shelling attacks in the region and exploiting the current political unrest in Saigon.

One South Vietnamese base, Tran Hung Dao, 18 miles north of Tay Ninh city, was in danger of being overrun and U.S. B52 bombers and smaller tactical fighter-bombers hit at North Vietnamese troop concentrations and gun positions within 1,000 yards of the base.

Other B52s bombed within a few miles of the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Krek, seven miles from the Vietnamese border, where other Saigon forces are threatened by the North Vietnamese 5th Division.

Four U.S. and four South Vietnamese generals met in Tay Ninh to discuss the threats to the allied positions including a U.S. artillery base.

Minh and Lt. Gen. Nguyen Xuan Thinh, his deputy, said that after the heavy U.S. air strikes, the enemy rocket and mortar attacks had tapered off.

The Saigon command reported nine shelling Tuesday with a total bombardment of 600 rocket and mortars against South Vietnamese positions around Krek and in northern Tay Ninh Province. Informants said four South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 14 were wounded.

Shoot To Kill Order

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu today ordered police to "shoot to kill" antigovernment rioters who throw firebombs or otherwise endanger lives.

Government spokesman Vu Khanh, confirming Thieu's order, said the president told police officials, "We are living in a period of political danger and turmoil. It is the duty of police to keep order. It is their duty to react to any violence."

"Whoever creates violence in the streets for the purpose of terrorism must be severely punished. Those who are caught red-handed burning autos must be shot on the spot if necessary."

Thieu made no mention of continuing demonstrations against his unopposed candidacy in Sunday's presidential election.

Another Coed Is Assaulted In Wooded Area

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
An 18-year-old East Carolina University co-ed was assaulted and raped in a wooded area between Tenth and 14th Streets here yesterday afternoon, according to local police.

The assault occurred about 2 p.m. Police Chief Glenn Cannon said, as the victim, Hulda Mae Miller of Colerain, walked along a railroad spur track between Tenth and 14th Streets on her way to Minges Coliseum.

Officers quoted Miss Miller as saying she was approached from behind by a Negro who grabbed her, placed his hand over her mouth and told her to be quiet.

The assailant then pushed her to the ground beside the railroad. She screamed and was strangled, police noted. She was then forced into a wooded area beside the tracks, forced to disrobe under threats to kill her, and criminally assaulted. Police said she apparently was unconscious during the attack.

At one point, according to officers, the victim was struck on the back of the head by her assailant and knocked to the ground. She suffered scratches and bruises on her face.

Following the attack, the man let Miss Miller go, warning her not to call police.

Another girl, walking down the railroad saw the man come from the woods just before Miss Miller. Bloodhounds from the Department of Correction center in Greene County were called in an effort to track the attacker.

According to Chief Cannon, the attacker was described as wearing a long-sleeved pink shirt with a green undershirt and dark trousers.

Yesterday's attack was the latest in a series of incidents involving attacks on co-eds near the university campus in the past two years. Most have occurred at night, although one Rose High School girl was assaulted as she walked through a wooded area behind the school last year.

Other girls have reported incidents along the railroad where yesterday's assault occurred, in past years.

New Member Of Board Sworn In

Kenneth Dews of Winterville was sworn in Tuesday as a member of the Pitt County Board of Education.

Dews will fill the unexpired term of A. D. McLawhorn Jr. who resigned this month because of business and personal responsibilities.

A native of Georgia, Dews has lived in Pitt County for the past 22 years. He is a member of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees and has served as vice chairman and acting chairman on that board. He is also a board member of Home Savings and Loan Association.

A veteran of World War II and a member of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, Dews received his education at the University of Georgia and N. C. State University at Raleigh.

He is a member of the Winterville Kiwanis Club.

Dews, a farmer, is a member of the Winterville Baptist Church where he serves as chairman of the board of deacons.

Dews is married to the former Mamie McLawhorn of Winterville and they have four children, Kenneth Jr., a junior at East Carolina University; badly enough to include warnings," Knight said.

Alexine, an ECU freshman; Madge Gay, a junior at D. H. Conley High School; and Catherine, a fifth grader at A. G. Cox School, Winterville.

So far, most of the warnings have been issued by agents of the Water and Air Resources Department. The task of training Highway Patrolmen, who will handle the major share of enforcement is just beginning.

"We are making progress," Knight said, "and a schedule has been worked out for training Highway Patrol personnel to read visible emissions. "We would expect to have enough law enforcement personnel of the state trained by the first of the year so that we could have valid enforcement."

"But so far as seeking to prosecute anyone yet, obviously we have not," Knight said.

The Highway Patrol plans to include instruction on smoke readings in its troop-by-troop briefings on changes in motor vehicle laws.

"We have in-service schools scheduled for all our personnel," said Lt. R. J. Provo, the patrol's training officer.

Instruction of the troopers and other law enforcement officers will be handled by the water and air resources agents, utilizing a specially prepared machine that produces smoke of known intensity.

Under the law, motorists driving smoky vehicles will be warned their auto is in violation and given 30 days to have it repaired. Those who fail to do so will be subject to a fine.

District Governor Visits Pilot Club Monday Night

The Greenville Pilot Club celebrated its 14th birthday and members welcomed Mrs. Shirley J. McGinnis, governor of District Six of Pilot International, at their Monday night dinner meeting.

Afterward Governor McGinnis was honored at a social hour for the members hosted by club president, Mrs. Janie Gold Starling, at her Twin Elms home.

At the meeting, following recital of the pledge of allegiance, each member answered the roll call by naming her club classification. Annual reports given by club officers and committee chairmen outlined a productive year and future plans.

Mrs. Nancy Warren reported on the successes of the club's Safety Town project at Agnes Fullilove School. Miss Camille Clark displayed a large nylon flag to be presented later to Sadie Sautler school.

Attention was called to the write-up and picture in The Pilot Log, the official publication, of the clubs highly successful and unique "do your own thing" money-raising affair.

A "Yuletide Creations" fund-raising project was outlined by Mrs. Sue Smith and Mrs. Juanita McCarthy announced plans for an International Tea honoring foreigners in the community.

Mrs. Winona Daniel reported that the club had welcomed nine new members during the past year, and Miss Ruth White announced that space has been

Robbery Attempt Ended In Tatters

PARIS (WNS) — Catherine Cristol, 30, returned home to her fifth-floor apartment and found burglar Jean Zerouali, 26, rifling the place. The hefty robber knocked her down and ran for the stairway. Mme. Cristol tackled him before he got to the fourth floor and ripped his jacket off. At the third floor she tackled him again and got his shirt. By the time the poor man reached street level, his trousers were in tatters, too. Two policemen were at the front door, one to arrest Zerouali, the other to attend to Mme. Cristol's bloody nose and to offer her his coat. "The poor lady was in tatters, and could have been arrested for indecent exposure," explained the proprietor of The Truckers Rendezvous, the cafe on the main floor.

provided in the N.C. Room at the ECU Library for a file to house Pilot Club documents and memorabilia.

Mrs. Doris Marlowe read an original poem in the devotional and Mrs. Hila Johnson reported on community service contributions and services

Announcements were made concerning the District Pilot Workshop to be held Oct. 9-10 at the Ramada Inn, New Bern and the October meeting which will celebrate Founder's Day for the 50th Anniversary of Pilot International.

Governor McGinnis complimented the club on their past work and challenged the members to greater accomplishments. "We are here today," she said, "because 50 years ago a small group of women had a dream and a vision . . . and our fine organization had its birth."

Wants Mother To Stop Working

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: How can I tell my mother [age 47] that if she doesn't quit her job and start spending more time with my father [age 52] she is going to lose him?

I am married now and my parents are alone again. Mother has now started selling real estate like the very bread on their table depended upon it, which it does not, as Dad has always made a very good living.

I didn't realize the seriousness of the situation until Dad came along with my husband and me one evening. We ran into a girl friend of mine, now newly divorced, and I saw Dad actually encourage this divorcee's attentions.

He is not a dirty old man, Abby. He is just very lonely and looking for something to do with his spare time, which is a dangerous combination. How can I tell my mother she had better start being a wife again before it's too late?

CONCERNED DAUGHTER

DEAR CONCERNED: Tell her, just the way you told me.

DEAR ABBY: We have a cow on our farm named Helen Mae and she hates women. Helen Mae is a beautiful Guernsey with soft brown eyes and a gentle manner, but she won't let a woman within 20 feet of her. She is very friendly to all men whether she's seen them before or not, but any woman who has tried to milk her has had to run for her life. You can't fool Helen Mae either. She can tell women from men regardless of how they're dressed.

Is there any explanation for this? And if you can find out if there is some way to get Helen Mae to let a woman milk her, I'd appreciate it, as my husband can't always get to her at milking time.

FARMER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: None of my farm experts have studied psy-cow-ology, but they tell me that cows have their hangups just like humans. However, I'll milk my readers and try to come up with an udder opinion.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
3 large eggs, separated
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 cup lemon juice

Do not prick pie shell; bake in a preheated 450-degree oven, on rack below center, for 5 minutes; cool. In a medium mixing bowl stir together the sugar and flour. In a small mixing bowl beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon color; add buttermilk, lemon rind and lemon juice and beat to blend; add to sugar-flour mixture and beat to blend. In a small clean mixing bowl, with clean beater, beat egg whites until they hold stiff straight peaks; add to lemon mixture and beat gently just until blended. Pour into pie shell. Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven for 10 minutes; reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until top is light brown and filling firm—25 minutes or longer. (Top will crack.) Cool before cutting.

Women Prefer Fridays Off

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — Monday, the traditional washday, used to be the worst day of the week for absenteeism of female employees here. Now, report six coeds who studied the matter for six months, Friday is taking over as "flee-the-office day." "Many women can't resist shopping for clothes toward the end of the week," declared Antoinette Dubois, 21. "Others are eager to get away for a vacation weekend. Almost nobody bothers about washday any more."

The amount of fish or shellfish to buy per serving varies with the recipe to be used, size of serving, and amount of bone or shell in the product. Allow approximately three ounces of cooked, boneless fish or shellfish per serving—a little less for small children and a bit more for adolescent boys and men.

Logical Choices; No Precedent

Mrs. Mildred McGrath and Mr. William Dansey should make their contribution to our city government.

Mr. Dansey and Mrs. McGrath were chosen by the City Council last week to serve on the council. Two new members had to be elected by the council to fill the positions vacated by Jerry Sutherland and Johnny Edwards. Sutherland took a job in another city and Edwards resigned for health reasons.

Mrs. McGrath will be the only woman on the council and possibly the only woman ever to serve on the governing board in Greenville. Dansey is in construction and development of apartment complexes. He is currently expanding Tar River Estates here.

Mrs. McGrath was seventh in the race for the six council seats last spring and Dansey ran eighth, so it is natural that theirs were among the first names mentioned when vacancies occurred. The city code requires only that the City Council shall fill vacancies that occur on the council and it does not limit the councilmen to nominating the next highest candidates. While we feel the choices were logical in this case, it should not be considered a precedent in all future vacancies, since the code does not require this.

Greenville now has a council of varying backgrounds. All shades of local thinking should be represented and this should be good for city government.

All of the council members should remember, however, that their jobs are not to represent any particular groups so much as it is to see that the best interest of all Greenville citizens is protected. They should pledge themselves to see that tax dollars are conservatively spent, while at the same time the most pressing needs of all our citizens are met. While there is a variety of background among the council members, all should remember that they are elected on city-wide basis and the needs of the most remote citizen are as important as any other's.

We feel that Mrs. McGrath and Mr. Dansey will become valuable members of our City Council. It is regrettable that two councilmen had to resign at the same time, but with these two additions there is no reason why Greenville's tradition of good government cannot be continued.

Partnerships Seen Inevitable

By BRYAN HANSLIP

RALEIGH — On the horizon ahead is the day when the candidates for governor and lieutenant governor will run as a team in North Carolina.

An evolving partnership between the offices, the climbing cost of campaigns, the political realities of succession — all combine to make it inevitable.

Those likely to be running for lieutenant governor in next spring's Democratic primary see it coming, but they say the time is not yet. A clear disavowal of any coalition was voiced recently by Rep. Allen Barbee of Nash, the only announced candidate.

Barbee said he has warm and equal regard for the four men mentioned most often as the party's gubernatorial contenders — Lt. Gov. H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr., Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, State Sen. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, Jr., and Hugh Morton, Wilmington and Linville businessman — but he will keep his campaign unhitched from any of them.

"I frankly am not interested in riding anybody's coat tails to Raleigh next year," Barbee declared.

Posture Of Independence

Similar independence characterized the posture of Jim Hunt, Wilson attorney, who is busily putting together the organization to go after the state's number two job. "I have talked to those considering the governor's race, simply as a matter of courtesy and information. There will be no question of any tying-in of campaigns," said Hunt.

"Our people will stay out of the governor's race," added Miles Smith of Salisbury, slated for a key place in the Hunt campaign.

At one time rumors circulated that C&D Director Roy Sowers would run for lieutenant governor in tandem with Morgan's governorship bid.

The reports were way off base, replied Wallace Hyde of Asheville, a close political associate of the Attorney General. There are no alliances, he said.

Sowers indicated he is close to a formal plunge into the second-place sweepstakes. He had contemplated an announcement around the first of the year, but developments may move forward his timetable.

House Speaker Phil Godwin, holding off an official start until after the October adjourned session of the legislature, let the homefolks know his eye is on the lieutenant governor's job. He told an impromptu Gates County rally he's had encouragement from travels across the state and a mailing of 1,000 letters.

More Candidates Likely

Barbee, Hunt, Sowers and Godwin seem certain to be in the field for the lieutenant governor's nomination. Other candidates are likely: perhaps a woman and a black. The crowded track assures a spirited contest with a second primary a good possibility.

A simultaneous gubernatorial race, equally heated, may make it difficult to keep clear distinctions between campaigns.

Traditionally, there has been little overt involvement of campaigns for governor and lieutenant governor in North Carolina. Factors are at work to change that, whether it comes next year or in later campaigns.

In the past, the governor and lieutenant governor operated pretty much in separate spheres. The governor ran the executive branch, and the lieutenant governor's only assigned duties were in the legislative area as Senate presiding officer. That is in the process of change, with the lieutenant governor moving into the executive realm.

Next time around, the lieutenant governor will be a full-time official (salary, $30,000) with duties assigned by the governor. What the next lieutenant governor does will depend directly on who is elected governor.

New Style Teamwork

That will demand a new level of teamwork between the two. It may well give impetus for candidates to run as a ticket in the future.

Ticket-teaming is a logical development, agreed Hunt, but it probably will come about after experience with the new, closer relationship between the offices.

Godwin said he can see the possibility of governor-lieutenant governor ticket, but only in the future. Voters themselves, he added, may be reluctant to accept the concept.

As the cost of campaigning rises, candidates will look for ways to make money go further. Insiders talk about $400,000 as a minimum figure for the lieutenant governor's race, while $1½ million or more is the price tag put on a gubernatorial campaign.

Sooner or later, politicians will ponder whether or not two might not run as cheaply as one.

Gov. Bob Scott, by moving up through the number two job, eroded the idea of the lieutenant governorship as an end in itself. Now it is seen as a stepping stone. That pathway of succession could foster political alliances, and bring on the day of teaming the two offices on the ballot.

The Whipsaw Used By Hanoi

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The whipsaw now being used so effectively by Hanoi to undercut President Nixon's negotiating posture at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, already near rock-bottom, has now severed the last strand of credibility here in what the Communists seem to be saying in Paris.

Indeed, the deliberately misleading, ambiguous triple-speak emanating from the peace negotiators at Paris, who represent both Hanoi and the Vietcong "Provisional Government" in South Vietnam, run a surprising confession of mental anguish from the Washington Post's John Randall at the Sept. 16 briefing by Hanoi's Nguyen Thanh Le.

Pressing Le for an explanation of the stark contradiction between what South Dakota Sen. George McGovern said he had learned about the Communist settlement plan a few days earlier, and what chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy had said to U.S. Ambassador William Porter on Sept. 16, Randall exclaimed to Nguyen Thanh Le:

"Do you understand why we no longer understand anything, do you understand the confusion in our minds? Either things are not clear or I am a fool, and if I am a fool I am ready to withdraw from active life."

Randall, the Post's chief correspondent in Paris, is no fool. His mental anguish accurately reflected the growing credibility gap between what the Communists have been telling such unofficial peace-seekers as McGovern, a Democratic Presidential candidate, and what they have been telling Porter and the U.S. government.

Ever since the unveiling on July 1 of Hanoi's seven-point peace plan, peace-bloc leaders in the U.S. Senate such as McGovern have been hounding President Nixon to set a date for U.S. troop withdrawals, as demanded by Point One of the peace plan. If he would only do that, they proclaim, the Communists would release U.S. prisoners of war in a percentage ratio equal to U.S. troop withdrawals.

Thus, emerging from his negotiating sessions with Xuan Thuy and Thuy's Vietcong colleagues on Sept. 10 and 11, McGovern said: "There is no doubt in my mind whatsoever that our prisoners will be released if we withdraw our forces. Mr. Xuan Thuy ... confirms the July 7 New York Times statement by Mr. Le Duc Tho (a Hanoi politburo member) that such an arrangement can be carried out before consideration of a new government in Saigon" ... which is demand number two of the Communist peace plan.

It has been the official U.S. position since July 1 that Hanoi in fact was demanding U.S. agreement on both Points One and Two as preconditions for the release of American POWs but always, in ex parte negotiations with U.S. politicians and interviews with the press, the Communists had gone far out of their way to encourage the view that troop withdrawals alone would lead to prisoner release. By seizing on just such wisps of encouragement, as McGovern did in his Sept. 12 press conference and many other politicians have similarly done, unofficial negotiators have led the American people to believe that Mr. Nixon was deliberately stalling the July 1 Communist peace overture.

Thus, McGovern said on Sept. 13: "It is not the other (Continued on page A-5)

QUESTIONABLE ASSISTANCE

Never Like It Really Is

WASHINGTON — We're never going to close the credibility gap in this country until the television programs become more honest. No TV show tells it like it is.

If the TV producers were really mirroring life, this is how some of their programs would go:

"Chief, I'm stumped on the Logan murder case. We've tracked down every possible clue and hit a dead end. There are no motives, no fingerprints and the guy had no enemies. It's baffling."

"Did you check the wife's whereabouts on the night of the crime?"

"I didn't have time to. It meant going out to her aunt's house on Staten Island, and so I said the hell with it."

"What about Logan's business partner?"

"We asked the West Coast police to check out his alibi. They never replied to our query."

"Any women in his life?"

"There was a Miss Fan Fan La Tulipe who danced at the Pink Gypsy. Kelly was supposed to find out her connection with the victim, but he was suspended last week during the draft scandal in the 12th precinct."

"From what you've told me, you seem to have done a thorough enough job. I guess we'll put this down as an unsolved murder. If we spent all our time on one murder, we'd never get anything done around here."

"I was hoping you'd say

that, Chief. The case was really becoming a drag."

Other Editors Say Takes Cooperation

(Wilson Times)

U. S. Chamber of Commerce President Archie K. Davis of Winston-Salem is convincing in his approach to the nation's economic problems. He is one of the business leaders who met with the President and he backs the President's present wage-price freeze.

Mr. Davis does not say how long it will take the economy to recover, for it has taken it some time to get in its present condition. He does say there must be a reasonable continuation but he does not say for how long. He makes the point that the wage-price controls must be geared to the production curve, or to the consumer-price index.

From other sources you read that the President's one objective is for rapid economic growth and controls are just a means to that end. Nixon's objective is a booming economy, low unemployment, and controls to hold inflation while the government stimulates the economy.

This sound just about impossible to accomplish and it would be, so say the economists, without the restraints, inflation would skyrocket. And without stimulation business will simply creep along.

All this is not working now, as the public is not spending. Some are waiting to see what comes next on controls. The future is not clear, except all say there is a change for the better on the way.

The forecasters are banking on growing confidence on the part of consumers. They think the President's program will curb inflation and this will bring people rushing in to the market to buy.

There is already a boom in housing and there will be more starts in 1972. Add the government spending, and tax cuts and the economy is predicted to grow 9 or 10 per cent in 1972. The gross national product is to rise $90-$100 billion during the year, biggest one-year jump in six years. The rate of inflation will be cut to 3-3½ per cent by a year from now, down from the present 5 per cent, and unemployment will be reduced.

Now all that is necessary is for some of this to begin. And it has, as shown in the latest figures on retail trade in this section of the state. It is good to see that retail trade in Wilson is on the increase.

Prosperity Has Changed Spain

By ELMER ROESSNER

Many years ago when he was a youth, my old friend Jack Boylan went to sea. While his ship was laid up in a Spanish port, he boarded with a Spanish family. One day he offered to escort the daughter on an errand into town.

When they returned, the family was in an uproar. Half shouted that he had compromised the girl and should marry her immediately, or as soon as the banns could be published in church. The other half contended they had done nothing wrong. The first half agreed, but declared he had compromised the girl by appearing in public with her. When it was finally decided that no friends had seen them together, Jack was freed of any obligation to marry the girl.

Times, friends, have changed in Spain. Public Spooking

At the Vendimia, the sherry harvest festival at Jerez de la Frontera, I saw dozens of teen-age couples walking in the streets with arms about each other. In the heart of Madrid, in the doorway of a shop closed for the 1:30 to 4:40 p.m. siesta break, I was a young couple hungrily kissing each other and no passerby was shocked. All over Spain, I'm told, there has been a relaxation of the old-time, rigid mores.

An American told me of seeing girls wearing slacks to church, though not many of them. The new permissiveness, he added, has not noticeably lowered Spain's high standards of morality.

Youths are wearing their hair longer, not as long as in Boston, but it often touches their shirt collars.

There are hippies in Spain, but Spaniards told me they are not Spanish but wanderers from the United States and other countries, seen mostly along the Mediterranean coast.

There has been no increase in crime. I remarked to an American resident that one could leave his shoes outside his hotel room door at night and they would still be there in the morning, shined.

"Well, shoes might be stolen," he said. "but a girl can walk along at midnight in any town in Spain without fear of being molested." Cause Of Change

In a week in Spain, once noted for the plumpness of its women, I saw only two faties.

The changes on the plains in Spain may be part of the worldwide permissiveness, but Americans there say that it is mostly due to the improved economic conditions. The per capita income, I was told, was $250 a year in 1960; it is now $1,000 a year. People

Sparks Erupt Rioting

By DONALD FORBES

Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — In a tinder box of sectarian hatred like Belfast, a riot erupts from a trivial spark. A schoolboy's stone glancing off a police prowler or a badly aimed gelignite bomb bursting harmlessly near a British army patrol swiftly ignites street-fighting passions.

Northern Ireland's Protestant-based government on Aug. 9 ordered the internment without trial of terrorist suspects. Spokesmen for the Roman Catholic minority contend this is aimed exclusively at them. In any event, riots have been a daily affair according to the police and army.

An outbreak can be a brief skirmish or an ugly clash stretching over several hours and causing thousands of dollars in damage.

On any day in Belfast, trouble is not hard to find. Take the Catholic New Lodge area at 3:10 one afternoon.

A British army patrol, each trooper hefting a high-velocity rifle that can kill at 600 yards, tramps past a block of new apartments. A sudden burst of shots and a nail bomb are aimed at the soldiers.

Within minutes, surrounding streets are full of kids, and a few adults, pelting the soldiers as they try to locate sniper nests.

A volley of rubber bullets—big enough to inflict a nasty bruise but not lethal—disperses the children.

Order is restored within minutes and while the more daring youngsters pick through the debris and broken glass from shattered windows, for rubber bullets—prized souvenirs—an army snatch squad collars two

Sept. 29, 1931

A seventy year old farmer, residing about seven miles west of Greenville, was recovering today from a wound inflicted by a highwaymen in a holdup on the Greenville-Farmville highway about two miles from the city last night. The farmer had spent yesterday in Greenville and was returning home in his horse and buggy when the attack occurred. The assailants took his small amount of change and then mounted the buggy and drove off down the road.

Senator Kenneth D. McKellar of Tennessee was endorsed for the State Democratic leadership last night in Rogersville, Tennessee but announced that he would support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York as "a man, who if nominated will be elected."

It was announced this morning from the office of the sheriff that county officers captured a steam whiskey distilling plant in the eastern part of Greenville township yesterday afternoon. The raid netted approximately 1,500 gallons of beer which was being held in preparation for distillation.

feel freer: there is less need to seek comfort in religion and tradition.

Youths have more money to spend and they spend it as youth does the world around: on girls, motorcycles and girls. With higher incomes, people are eating more proteins and less fattening starches. The huge influx of tourists and the many American businessmen and servicemen are having a subtle influence on life in Spain.

Cities, Counties Must Now Meet Minimum Wages

Commerce Clearing House is warning clients that as long as the wage-price freeze lasts, cities and counties paying less than the federal minimum wage will be ineligible for their share of the $1 billion emergency public employment assistance. The law says cities and counties must pay prevailing rates to such employees or the minimum rate, whichever is higher.

Strength For Today

WATCH THE HOURS

How are we going to look at leisure time — and most important of all, how are we going to use it?

The housewife may ask derisively what we mean by leisure time. With a family to take care of leisure is practically unknown in some households. Don't get bitter about this. The outstanding leaders of this generation (and research would indicate, of all generations) are working their fingernails' ends off trying to get somewhere in the world and make the world a better place in which to live. Some, however, try to make life a series of picnics. Life is not of this nature, never has been and never will be. For this we can thank God. Too much work is lethal, for we can literally work ourselves to death. Heart attacks and strokes usually come about with people plunging from one job to another, attempting to pile achievement upon achievement.

As we read the Bible — especially the New Testament — we find a group of socially inconsequential persons performing miracles and quietly pressing on from one triumph to another.

There are few ways in which moral character may be more completely destroyed than in the wrong use of one's leisure time. The idle rich constitute one or two per cent of the population of the United States. There are places in the world where practically no one has leisure. Dawn to darkness in the salt mines is the variety of life which most people confront.

Life is good — wonderful, inspiring. Make the most of it and give thanks.

Allocation Of Funds 'Top Issue', Reminds Jenkins

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, September 29, 1971—A-6

CHAPEL HILL — The president of East Carolina University called last night for an "orderly and equitable formula" for allocating funds to North Carolina's state-supported institutions of higher education.

The ECU president, Dr. Leo Jenkins, speaking out on the current problem of restructuring the state's higher educational system, said, "I sincerely believe that the fairness of allocation of funds is more crucial to improved educational opportunities for our young people and to the efficient use of our tax dollars than is the organization for administering higher education."

"The real issue," Dr. Jenkins said, "is money, and the need for a system of equitable distribution of that which is available."

"The time has come for us to stop skirting this reality and face up to it."

Addressing the Young Democrats Club here, Jenkins pledged "my complete support to Governor Scott in his efforts to improve higher education" in North Carolina.

Jenkins said he was speaking "strictly for myself and not expressing the viewpoint of our faculty or our Board of Trustees."

"I believe that the form of organization is not nearly as important as dedication and devotion to excellence," Jenkins said. "Creativity, scholarly accomplishment and effective teaching are nurtured by freedom, confidence and respect. Our faculties, our administrations, our present boards and our students believe this, and function well under this philosophy."

Jenkins said he feels that whatever system is evolved should be one with as much local autonomy as possible. "No system should be adopted that carelessly dispenses with the valuable services that have been given in the past by institutional boards of trustees."

The goal of higher education in North Carolina, Jenkins said, "should be to educate as many people as possible to the end that they will have a fuller life and a better living, and this must be done as economically as possible."

Although money is tight, he said, "we need to get more students into college. Their lack of education leads to their economic deprivation.... the root of the state's low income. The state's short resources tempt us to cut back on education. We cannot. We dare not do it. But to break this cycle we need to provide education to many who have not been getting it."

Jenkins called for active new programs inviting to students who have shunned college, and said the programs must be easily accessible. He said there is "academic machinery" to assure the quality of programs.

"Concept for more orderly and equitable allocations of resources will prevent waste," Jenkins said.

Jenkins said such a formula should include as factors the number of people to be taught, the level on which they are taught, what they are taught and the procedures to be followed in establishing new programs. He said, "this formula should abolish second class instruction to any group" and urged the same level of instruction, accomplishment and excellence in any basic discipline.

Jenkins said, "The idea of a pyramid of education, with the red carpet treatment at one or two universities and a descending scale down to subsistence level at the community college, is undemocratic. This is not to say that we should not maintain the excellence of education in North Carolina; we should maintain it and extend it. It is simply to say that much of the competition over the distribution of funds would end if the General Assembly adopted a formula which assures that the same kind of instruction receives the same public support in every State institution. It is only by such equitable treatment that we will attract more young people into higher education and advance education in this State."

"I am not suggesting that the formula, by giving money on the basis of students enrolled in each program, should freeze the status quo into the future. There should, of course, be provision, on an equitable basis, for allocations to institutions for new programs. Money for capital improvements should be determined by utilization studies and needs associated with new academic programs.

"Let the presidents and chancellors and the trustees that govern institutions expend the funds awarded on whatever mix of resources best accomplishes the agreed upon objectives. The presidents and chancellors of institutions of higher education in North Carolina are well paid and they should not be relegated to the role of puppets. It is a waste of tax money to pay a troop of puppets. They should and can, with the direction and advice of their governing boards and their faculties, make decisions that may mean the beginning or modification of educational programs as long as their decisions are consistent with the objectives mutually agreed upon and do not exceed the monies allocated to them."

Annual Area Dinner Of Ducks Unlimited Scheduled Oct. 12

The annual Greenville area Ducks Unlimited dinner will be held Oct. 12 at the Greenville Moose Lodge, according to area chairman Roger Collins III.

Collins said that the meeting will be kicked off with a 6:30 p.m. social hour, followed by dinner and the annual program including remarks by a visiting DU director and the showing of one of the popular Ducks Unlimited movies.

The chairman pointed out that in order to insure reservations for persons planning to attend, tickets for the dinner must be purchased in advance. Tickets this year, available from any member of the area committee, entitles the purchaser to membership in Ducks Unlimited.

Area sportsmen who are interested in joining Ducks Unlimited and who need tickets for the dinner may contact Collins, Melvin Hoot, Frank Edmunson III, Tom Baines, John R. Farley, Fred Stokes or Henry Riddick.

Collins added that in addition to a drawing following dinner, an auction for several quality wildlife reproductions and valuable sportsman merchandise will be held. All profits from the meeting, he said, will go to further the work of Ducks Unlimited.

This year, Dr. David Wesley, newly appointed DU director for the South Atlantic Region, will be on hand for the meeting and will make brief remarks.

The film scheduled, "Sprigtail," will offer a 30-minute look into the life and habitat of the popular Pintail.

Collins also pointed out that persons attending will have an opportunity to view various displays furnished by the manufacturers of several lines of sporting goods.

In addition to the local committee personnel, Dr. J. Edwin Clement of Greenville is the Eastern North Carolina sponsor chairman. Sen. Herman Moore of Mecklenburg County is state chairman.

Ducks Unlimited Inc., with headquarters in Chicago, is a private non-profit membership organization dedicated to the conservation and propagation of North America's waterfowl as a valuable natural resource. The organization was founded by a group of sportsmen and incorporated by them in 1937. The local chapter is an active part of the national organization. Funds raised locally and at other DU dinners and meetings are channeled into the national fund for work involving the immediate and long range welfare of the waterfowl population.

side (the Communists) which links Point One and Point Two in the seven-point program. Those two points... are linked by the Nixon administration but not by the (Communist) delegates with whom we discussed this matter yesterday."

That was Sept. 12. Just four days later, Reporter Randall made his confession of mental anguish. Its root cause was Nguyen Thanh Le's flat assertion in the press briefing: "There are two fundamental problems: the military (withdrawal of U.S. troops) and the political (an end of U.S. support for the present government in Saigon) which are tied to one another."

In other words, no prisoner release until Mr. Nixon (1) sets a date for total withdrawal and (2) agrees publicly to end U.S. support for the present government in Saigon. That's not what McGovern thought he was told, but it stands as the official Communist position until the whipsawing starts on something else.

Pfc. Earnest L. Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius L. Jones of Greenville, was recently assigned to the First Cavalry Division in Vietnam. Jones is a switchboard operator in the 12th Cavalry of the Division's 3rd Bde. He entered the Army in March of this year and completed basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

Spec. 5 Banbus Glenn Wetherington Jr., (above) son of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Wetherington Sr. of Rt. 2, Ayden, was promoted to his present rank in August. Wetherington, who served a one-year tour of duty in Vietnam in 1969-70, is currently on leave with his parents prior to leaving for a two-year assignment in Germany on Oct. 15. The specialist graduated from Winterville High School.

Col. Edward Batchelor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Batchelor Sr. of Greenville, has been decorated with the Joint Service Commendation Medal at U-Tapao Airfield, Thailand. Batchelor, who is serving as chief of intelligence for the 307th Strategic Wing, received the medal for his service as deputy chief of staff, headquarters, SAC and the joint strategic target planning staff at Offutt AFB, Neb. The colonel, a 1943 graduate of Greenville High School, received his B.S. degree and commission from the U.S. Military Academy in 1950.

Pvt. Danny L. Casper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Casper of Rt. 6, Greenville, is serving at the Marine Barracks, Ft. George G. Meade, Md.

Sgt. Joshua L. Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Powell of Rt. 1, Grimesland, took part in a recent joint Air Force-Army training exercise in Alaska. Powell, a fuels specialist in the 21st Supply Squadron's fuels section at Elmendorf AFB, helped provide support for aircrews flying in the two-week maneuvers. The exercise was conducted to train Alaskan-based Army and Air Force units in tactical military air support and to familiarize augmenting forces from other states with operations in Alaska. He is a 1968 graduate of W. G. Whitfield High School.

James N. Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy R. Ashby of Greenville, was promoted to first lieutenant while serving as a maintenance and assembly team section commander with the 74th Army Artillery Detachment at Schwabstadl, Germany. Ashby entered the Army in July of 1970 and was stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga. before arriving overseas in November of 1970. He is a 1965 graduate of Rose High School and a 1970 graduate of North Carolina State University.

Airman I.C. John H. Roberson, son of Mrs. Harvey L. Roberson of Robersonville, is a member of a Pentagon-based unit that has earned the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Roberson, an electronics communications equipment repairman in the 2044th Communications Group, will wear a service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit. The airman is a 1965 graduate of Robersonville High School and attended East Carolina University and Virginia Commonwealth University. He is married to the former Patsy Wynne of Williamston.

Pvt. Phillip W. Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Page of Greenville, has completed eight weeks of basic training at the Army Training Center, Infantry, Ft. Polk, La. During training, Page received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Mark E. Holstius, (above) son of Dr. and Mrs. Elvin A. Holstius of Greenville, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex. Holstius, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to Columbus AFB, Miss. for pilot training. The lieutenant received a B. S. degree in zoology in 1970 from Michigan State University.

Pfc. D. L. Spell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius A. Murphy of Rt. 6, Greenville, is part of the Battalion Landing Team 1-6 from Camp Lejeune now undergoing training with the Dutch Marines in Vieques, Puerto Rico.

P.O.3.C. William B. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey B. Taylor of Greenville, is serving aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Sampson, now operating with the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. Taylor is scheduled to return to Charleston in October when his ship completes operations with the Sixth Fleet.

Airman Jimmie W. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davis of Rt. 2, Grifton, has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. Davis has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill. for training in aircraft maintenance. He is a 1971 graduate of Grifton High School.

Airman David E. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billie O. Howard of Rt. 1, Bethel, has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. Howard has been assigned to Sheppard AFB, Tex. for training as a corrosion control specialist. He attended Bethel Union High School and North Pitt High School.

Woman Wins $2.50 Judgment

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A Mountain Home, Idaho woman has won a $2.50 judgment for a roll of film after three hours of testimony before a magistrate. Carolyn Mugar claimed Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright illegally confiscated the film at a demonstration against Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland in Boise last month.

Judge Edward Johnson also ordered Sheriff Bright to pay $8.25 in court costs.

Okay Buying Engineers Say 2,235 Acres No To Dam Plan

RALEIGH (AP) — The Council of State has approved the purchase of 2,235 acres in Currituck County to add to a new wildlife management area authorized by the 1971 General Assembly.

The council, which reviews all state government land transactions, Tuesday approved the action of the Wildlife Commission, which paid $300,000 for the "Ferebee Tract" from the estate of P. P. Gregory.

The wildlife management area near the town of Coinjock will contain nearly 8,500 acres.

The council also approved acceptance of a gift of 115 acres of beach land in Brunswick County near Shallotte which will be used by the Department of Natural and Economic Resources for "estuarine preservation purposes."

The land was given by former legislator Odell Williamson.

RALEIGH (AP) — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has rejected proposals for either a dam or a channelization project on the Northeast Cape Fear River in Duplin County because of what it called "serious environmental problems."

Instead the district corps office in Wilmington has recommended that the flood control and water supply needs of the area be met by controlling construction in the river basin and sinking more wells.

The engineers' survey rejected construction of a dam and reservoir near the town of Kornegay and also recommended against an alternative proposal for dredging 19.9 miles of the river channel in the county.

District Corps Engineer Col. Albert Costanzo of Wilmington said the channelization was ruled out because it would cost more than it would be worth.

He said the proposed lake was rejected because the water in it would be of the "black-water" type found in the swampy areas which flank the river from its beginnings to its confluence with the Cape Fear north of Wilmington.

"There would be a lot of organic matter in the reservoir... the basic problem would be the quality of the water," he said.

The survey said that until additional research of environmental problems is made, "the most practical, feasible and economic means for solving the

Bandits Ran Out

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A ringing telephone apparently frightened off two armed robbers at a Charlotte area bank Tuesday, but not before they made their getaway with $5,372.

The two men wore stocking masks when they robbed the bank, a branch of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. at about 12:30 p.m. A bank spokesman said the bandits left "a few extra dollars" when they rushed out the door as the telephone rang.

water resource problems of the (river basin) are increased development of ground water sources and flood plain management."

Constanzo said it is not unusual for the corps to reject projects, and he said that 52 per cent of the projects studied by his district were rejected.

However, the corps has been widely criticized for its emphasis on dam construction, and project rejections based primarily on environmental considerations have been rare.

Northern Demos Fighting Vote

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Northern Democrats, caught in the school desegregation controversy for the first time, are trying to block House action on a bill that would force them to vote on the busing issue.

Mostly liberals with good civil-rights records, they are caught between pro-busing civil-rights forces and growing anti-busing sentiment in their home districts.

The bill they would like to bury is President Nixon's $1.5-billion emergency school aid program.

Using every parliamentary device available they thwarted efforts in the Education and Labor Committee to force a vote on the bill this week, the unofficial deadline for completing committee action on legislation to be considered this year.

The bill has been knocking about in Congress for nearly 18 months since Nixon asked for it as an emergency measure to help Southern schools meet an August, 1970 desegregation deadline set by the Supreme Court.

Largely ignored by Northerners, whose districts wouldn't get much money, and viewed tepidly by Southerners who would like the money but not the federal presence that goes with it, it has been befriended mainly by administration supporters and civil-rights groups.

This support was weakened, however, by Nixon's decree last August that none of the money be used to pay for busing pupils.

The decree also has made it certain busing will be the chief issue if the bill ever reaches the House floor. With that certainty and with busing now a white-hot issue in many Northern cities, a concerted effort is being made in the committee to bottle up the bill.

The action erupted publicly Tuesday while the committee was working on a big higher-education bill pushed in ahead of the desegregation bill.

A request by Rep. James H. Scheuer, D-N.Y., that consideration of a key section of the higher-education bill be put off until Thursday because of today's Jewish holiday produced a parliamentary free-for-all.

Supporters of the desegregation bill, suspicious of requests for any delay, refused to grant it.

A majority of the committee voted for the postponement requested by Scheuer. But Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., chief advocate of the desegregation bill, promptly moved to set 10:15 a.m. Thursday as the deadline for a final vote on the higher-education bill so the committee still would have time to consider the school-aid program.

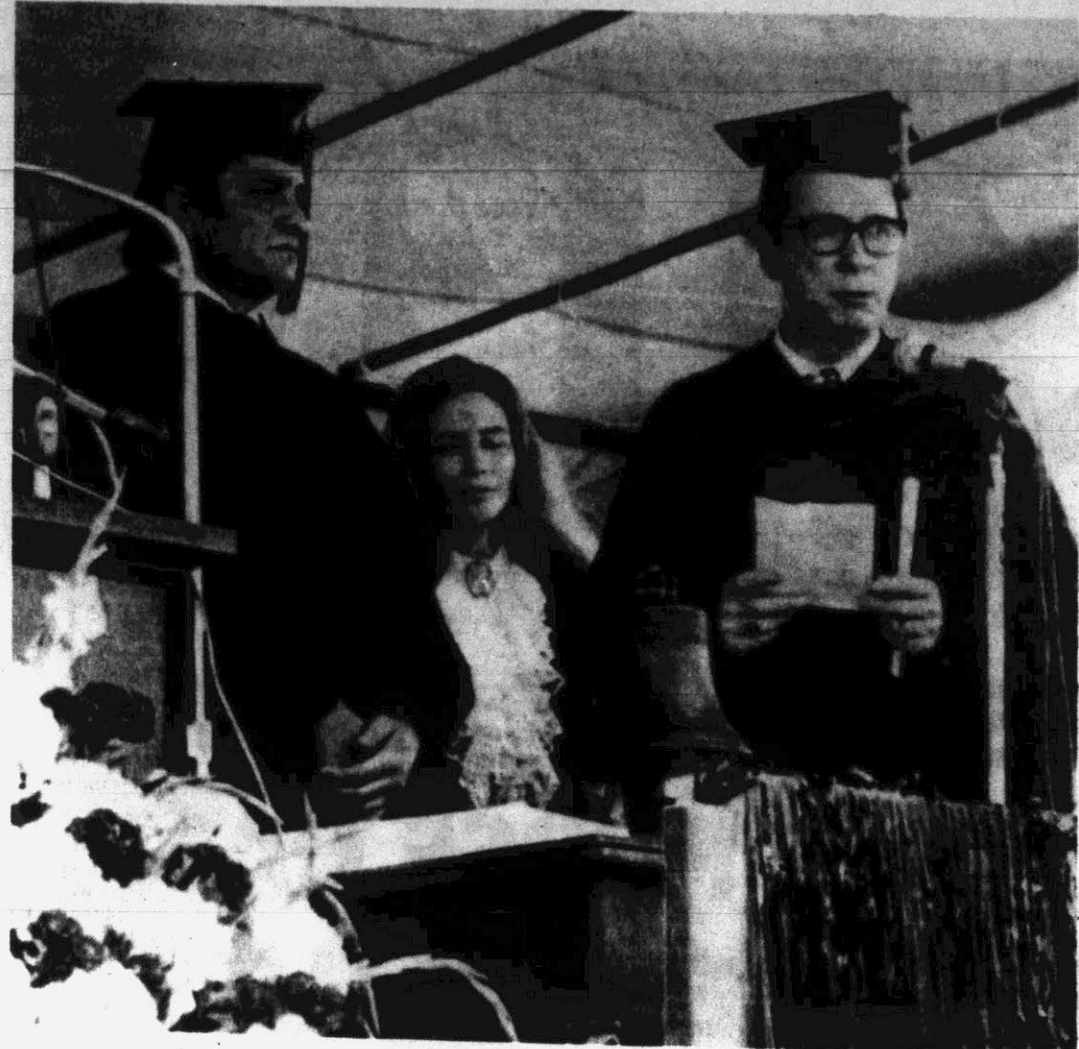

Many motions, points of order and barbed exchanges later, Quie's motion was adopted.

only to be thrown out because a quorum was no longer present. On that angry note the committee broke up, scheduled to resume battle today.

Honorary Degree Given Helper Of Downtrodden

BOILING SPRINGS, N.C. (AP) — Universities usually save their honorary doctoral degrees for statesmen, but Tuesday a North Carolina college bestowed the honor on singer Johnny Cash in recognition of his love for America's downtrodden.

Cash received the honorary degree at Gardner-Webb College, a Baptist affiliated school with 1,500 students.

He has never negotiated an international peace settlement, but, said Gardner-Webb trustees chairman Lloyd C. Bost, the balladeer helped a stranded family obtain a tire.

Bost reminded the college crowd that Cash "is the man who donated $10,000 for a kidney machine so a humble black man might live."

The country-and-western singer treated 150 poor youngsters to Memorial Day at the circus and has remembered the lonely aged with flowers and gifts.

Bost said the degree also was conferred "on behalf of the humble and the poor, whose who are the victims of drugs and alcohol, and thousands locked behind prison walls."

Cash looked strangely out of place dressed in an academic cap and flowing gown. But he was the same Johnny Cash as he looked out at the hundreds of students and college officials who often remain isolated from the day-to-day grief of America's lower class.

He said no prison reform legislation or program is "worth two cents unless you care."

And there were no 10-dollar words when he reminded the audience that rehabilitation of prisoners is often said to have failed when, in truth, it has never been correctly applied.

Cash sat silently by as Bost heaped praise on him during the ceremony. The college official said Cash is active in the Evangel Temple Church in Nashville, Tenn., and has participated in such organizations as the Peace Corps Committee, the Georgia Sheriff's Boy's Ranch and Hire Youth.

"He has answered thousands of lowly pleas for help, never

Restaurant Is Bombed

SAIGON (AP) — A terrorist bomb exploded outside a crowded restaurant in a Saigon suburb Wednesday, wounding at least 24 persons. Most of the victims were policemen and South Vietnamese soldiers.

The restaurant in Gia Dinh on the northern edge of Saigon was jammed with lunchtime customers when the blast went off, apparently from a plastic charge fixed to a bicycle. Reports indicated there were no deaths.

Col. Le Van Tu, province chief of Gia Dinh, said five policemen and 14 soldiers were among the wounded. He said two children, two women and a man also were injured. All of the casualties were Vietnamese.

It was the fourth major bomb blast in the Saigon area in two weeks.

The restaurant is about 10 yards from the Gia Dinh police station.

Police sources said the bicycle had been parked in an alleyway next to the restaurant.

asking anything in return," Bost said. "For the many thousands of youths caught up in the grip of drugs, Johnny Cash brings a concern born of his own near fatal experience with this pervasive evil."

"Only he and his God know how much of his talent and fortune he has poured into this battle alone," Bost added.

Cash gave a free concert before the ceremony for a crowd estimated at 10,000 to 12,000 cheering spectators. He was accompanied by his wife, June Carter Cash; his mother-in-law, "Mama" Maybell Carter, and his troupe of singers.

Later, he and his family drove to Charlotte for another free concert. That one was on behalf of a committee campaigning against the legalization of mixed drink sales in an upcoming referendum in Mecklenburg County.

Prefers This Year's Fashions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon says this year's fashions are prettier than last year and it's easier to buy clothes. In fact, she says, she's done all her fall shopping already.

Mrs. Nixon said Tuesday she did most of her shopping on a trip to New York in July.

Clad in a periwinkle-blue wool dress by Adele Simpson, Mrs. Nixon repeated her preference for a knee-length hemline. "If you are all cut off, you can't tell what a fashion is like. You have to keep watching your knees."

Security And Comfort Not Compatible

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The trouble with you, the financial manager of your household, is that you want a better standard of living and security at the same time.

Quite often they engage you in a tug-of-war. You know that you have the down payment for a big car. But should you really so indulge yourself?

Think back a few years ago when things were lean. You told yourself that as soon as you got a bundle of cash together you were going to splurge. And now you have the bundle.

So what do you do? You deny yourself. Your affluence is not easy to accept. You feel insecure. You decide against the big car and instead you trade down to a compact. And you might even increase your insurance.

But the battle between comfort and security isn't over that easily. You install an air-conditioner.

This is a generalization of what has been occurring in thousands of households. It isn't fiction. Both compacts and automobile air-conditioning, are among the hottest consumer items in years.

To George Katona, the dean of behavioral economists, this battle is one of the outstanding characteristics of modern life.

The pervasiveness of this feeling permits Katona, one of the founders of the famous Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, to forecast a continuation of a high savings rate well into the 1970s.

Currently the rate is about 8.4 per cent of takehome pay, the highest in 25 years and a figure that most economists believe cannot be maintained for long. A variety of factors, they say will bring it down to "normal," or somewhere between 4.5 per cent and 6.5 percent.

But, says Katona, "The surge in the savings rate is not just because of the recession. It will remain because of general insecurity. It will not stay at 8.4 per cent but it will be higher in the 1970s than 10 years before."

"In relation to our grandfathers and to foreigners we are rich," Katona explains. "But we are not rich in our own view. Even those making $20,000 to $25,000 don't feel rich. They budget carefully. They must always compromise."

And compromise, you will remember, is what you used to do when you were poor and swore that you wouldn't do when you became richer. But insecurity, it seems, is the shadow of riches.

That shadow is not associated solely with financial matters either. Katona reminds, but includes distress about the whole range of social problems—poverty, pollution, war, racism and so on. Feelings about the dollar and about one's fellow man cannot be divorced in studying consumer attitudes, he argues. The study is of a whole rather than fragments.

And while supposing that there is a misconception also about his own area of expertise—it is not a science, he says, but an art with scientific ingredients—he hazards this forecast for the immediate future:

Less inflation; a slow reduction of unemployment "but no disappearance of it;" and insecurity.

Finds Use For Discarded Bras

MELBOURNE (AP) — An official of the international Red Cross has found a use for those bras women's libbers don't want.

He cuts them in half, down the middle, and uses them to hold rice and flour.

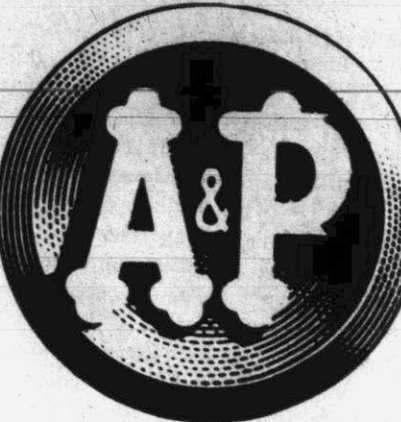

Robert Pierrepont, a self-proclaimed "resourceful fellow," hit upon the idea while feeding refugees in East Pakistan.

FIND 1660 YACHT
LONDON (AP) — Britain's first Royal Yacht, built by the Dutch in 1660 for King Charles II, has been found under the Irish Sea.

The 52-foot-long, 100-ton "Mary" sank off Northwest Wales in March, 1675 with the loss of all 35 passengers and crew.

WELFARE DECLINES
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky reports its welfare rolls down by 4,300 persons from April 1970 to March 1971. Spokesmen said part of the decline is due to a program under which private citizens help find work for qualified welfare clients.

Heavy Smoke Damage To Local Super Market

Heavy smoke damage resulted from a fire at Harris Super Market on North Greene Street here last night.

Officers reported fire units were called at 7:55 p.m. to the new metal-and-masonry building when a fire was reported there.

The blaze, fire officers explained, was confined to a small storage room at the rear of the store, but heavy smoke damage was caused by smoke pouring through a rear wall into the main portion of the building.

The fire burned out the storage room and burned a portion of the rear wall.

Cause of the fire was listed as "undetermined", although investigation of the incident is continuing.

No estimate of damage to the grocery store, which opened for business last week, was available this morning.

The firm, however, was opened for business today.

The Harris' fire was the second grocery store fire reported yesterday.

Fire units were sent to the Country Store at 122 East Fifth St. about 5:40 p.m.

Officers said minor damage resulted to the floor of the building from the blaze which may have been caused by a cigarette.

Lindsay Inching Near Candidacy

By BILL STALL

Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York is closer to being a candidate for president today after spending 51 hours in California, an aide says.

Tom Morgan, the mayor's press aide and adviser, said one key development was Lindsay's declaration at a news conference that he would enter presidential primary contests if, when decision time arrives, he thinks that is his "role."

"We didn't leave New York planning to say that," Morgan said.

The reaction of party regulars to the Lindsay foray, as a newcomer to the Democratic party, was mixed. But Morgan said that was not unexpected.

Lindsay's "soundings out here" reinforced his belief that he has a role to play in 1972, perhaps as a Democratic candidate for the White House, Morgan said.

He said Lindsay was pleased with the trip, built around a long-standing commitment to address the League of California Cities, and the discovery that in some quarters there is "more than a little interest in the kind of politics he represents."

Lindsay aides were encouraged by the reception he received during a 1½-hour meeting Tuesday with union officials in the Fairmont Hotel on Nob Hill.

Among those present was Harry Bridges, head of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, who was noncommittal when he left the meeting. But others openly acknowledged that they liked Lindsay's talk about forming a coalition involving young people and labor unions.

"I'm very impressed with him," said Tom Twomey of the Hospital Workers Union.

Marijuana Load Is Confiscated

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Officers said they confiscated 14 pounds of green marijuana Tuesday night when they arrested three young men as they drove down a rural road near Shelby.

They said the marijuana appeared to have been grown locally. Its value was estimated by officers at $2,000.

Those charged with possession of marijuana were identified by State Bureau of Investigation agents and Cleveland County deputies as William C. Parker, 24, Kenneth Ray Putnam, 24, and Howard Phillip Pitchford, 20, all of Shelby.

The U.S. Coast Guard was established Aug. 4, 1790.

The meeting was arranged by San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto who is engaged in a tough re-election campaign—a campaign that won the hearty endorsement of Lindsay at an Alioto rally Monday night.

Lindsay said Tuesday, "I learned a good deal about the problems of the working man on the West Coast."

When he left California, his position still was that he is not a candidate and does not plan to be one but that should he decide to enter the contest he would go into the primaries.

"I would have no hesitation, I want to assure you, of running in primaries if I thought that would be the best role I could play and the most effective way to get a message across," Lindsay said.

Ex-Ambassador Board Chairman

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles W. Yost, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, has been named chairman of the National Advertising Review Board, an industry group that will serve as a "court of appeals" for complaints of misleading or untruthful advertising.

The board's 50 members include people from advertising agencies, advertisers and the public. Yost described himself Tuesday as representing the consumer.

The board will judge cases referred to it by the National Advertising Division of the Council of Better Business Bureaus.

Yost said: "Our principle purpose is to avoid bringing matters to public controversy and government intervention. If we are successful, the need for government intervention will be reduced."

$80.52 Average On Leaf Mart

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tobacco Market Tuesday averaged $80.52 per hundred pounds when 501,480 pounds of leaf went for $404,090.80.

"Quality leaf and smoking leaf accounted for the highest price," stated Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Stabilization receipts accounted for 3.35 percent of gross sales yesterday. Cutters accounted for most of the Stabilization receipts, Williams explained.

SALAD SALE.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church will have a chicken salad sale at the church Saturday at 3 p.m.

The chicken salad will be sold at $1.00 per pound.

Trio Still Unbeaten In League Play

Three members of the Eastern Carolina Conference still are unbeaten in league play, but North Lenoir continues to lead the pack.

The Hawks have rolled up a 3-0 league mark, to remain atop the heap. Both Southern Wayne and Farmville Central, each 2-0-1 are their closest challengers so far.

Two more teams joined the beaten list last week in league play, Eastern Wayne and Ayden-Grifton.

The three leaders all look toward easier games this weekend, with only Southern Wayne having the prospects of a rough night.

In last week's results, Greene Central downed Charles B. Aycock, 19-0, North Lenoir surprised Eastern Wayne, 16-10, Southern Nash got its first win with a 44-0 rout of North Pitt, and Farmville Central nipped Ayden-Grifton, 7-0.

In non-conference play, Southern Wayne lost to Goldsboro, 14-0 and D. H. Conley got its first win with a 25-0 romp over West Craven.

This week, everyone returns to league play, with five games scheduled. The biggest battle appears to shape up in the Ayden-Grifton contest at Eastern Wayne and the Southern Wayne at Aycock duel. Most of the rest are not expected to be as tough. They include Greene Central at Conley, Southern Nash at North Lenoir, and North Pitt at Farmville.

About the happiest of the area coaches this week is George Wheeler of Conley, who got his first win last weekend. But it was hard to come by.

"We finally convinced our kids at halftime that they could do the job," he said. "We came on strong in the second half, and ran away with it. They were hurt and had a lot of inexperienced kids and we took advantage of it."

Wheeler said the team came through the game in good condition. He had special praise for the play of Stencil Hines, who had seven solo and eight assisted tackles. Wheeler also singled out Stacey Evans, Calvin Clemmons, Willie Hawkins and Charlie Spright for their play.

This week, the Vikings take on Greene Central, one of the teams which was a pre-season pick in

Eastern Carolina Standings

	Conference	Overall
North Lenoir	3 0 0	3 1 0
Southern Wayne	2 0 1	2 1 1
Farmville Cent.	2 0 1	3 0 1
Greene Central	2 1 0	3 1 0
Eastern Wayne	1 1 1	1 2 1
Ayden-Grifton	1 1 1	2 1 1
C. B. Aycock	1 2 0	2 2 0
Southern Nash	1 2 0	1 3 0
Conley	0 3 0	1 3 0
North Pitt	0 3 0	0 3 0

the league, but currently a game out of first. "They have a real good team," Wheeler said. "They are not big, but they are very quick. They know the game, and they go after you. They're well-coached."

Wheeler said the biggest weapon of the Rams is their great quickness and the speed of several running backs. "Their line is also quite quick, and they know how to block well. We'll try to throw more against them, I guess."

Another happy coach is Farmville Central's Gene Brewer, who's team checked the strong Ayden-Grifton Chargers and held them scoreless.

"It kept us in contention," Brewer said. "I thought our defense played exceptionally well, but our offense sputtered." He wasn't at all pleased with the offensive play. "You can look at the statistics and see that we didn't play well. Anytime you don't get 100 yards you're not doing a lot."

Brewer actually looked for more scoring in the game, but is happy that the lone score in the game belonged to his Jaguars.

The Jaguars also have some injuries this week. Jimmy Langley missed the game with an injury, while Chuck Finklea and Lee Johnson both played with hurts. All three are questionable for this weekend.

And rather than singling out any one player for praise,

Brewer cited his entire defense for the job they did.

This week against North Pitt, Farmville starts a new cross-county rivalry. It's the first meeting for the two schools, and Brewer feels that the Panthers will be up for the contest.

Despite the fact that North Pitt hasn't scored yet, Brewer feels that anything can happen.

The Ayden-Grifton coach, Nelson Gravatt, wasn't pleased with the outcome of the game, naturally. "A few mistakes hurt us," he said. "I thought we played an outstanding game, but we just couldn't score. We were stopped fourth and goal at the four and at the one-foot line. Farmville has a real good club, but we had an 80-yard touch-down called back, and this killed us."

But the biggest problem to come out of the game was the loss of Ken Cleaton, the A-G quarterback with a shoulder injury. He's out for the season. Leroy Sumpter is also still sidelined with an ankle injury.

Gravatt expects to start either Robbie Pinner or Chuck Babbington at the quarterback slot this weekend, and will probably go with Pinner.

He also noted that Milton Brown, Ricky Adams, Terry Carmon, Derander Holton, Eddie Hooker, Demetrius Edwards, and Babbington all did a good job in the game.

This week, against Eastern Wayne, Gravatt looks for another tough game. "They like to throw, and they have a fine passer. They are fairly good sized, and a good team. Their loss to North Lenoir was about as frustrating as ours. They had three touchdowns called back."

Another unhappy coach was Danny Wilmer of North Pitt. "They just ran all over us," he said of Southern Nash. "They got us in a hole on the opening kickoff of the first half, and another one right away in the second half, and we never got out. And it seemed like every time we'd have a good run to get moving, a penalty would stop us."

Wilmer had praise for two of his defensive players, Ronnie Briley and Mike Burroughs. "Mike just came out, and he did a real fine job." He also singled out Charles Young and Clarence Mooring for their offensive play.

Against Farmville, Wilmer feels that the Panthers must be at their best. "They are a real good team, and we just have to try and stay in there with them. We could give them a decent game if we don't make a lot of the type mistakes we've been making."

Robersonville, the leader in the Tobacco Belt Conference, will be going against an outside foe this weekend, when they take on Elm City. Williamston, atop the Albemarle loop, goes for another conference win against Northwest High School.

Cougars Are Off To Good Start; Play Kentucky Here Friday Night

Tom Meschery's bushy grin told the story!

The Carolina Cougars gave him his first win as a pro head coach, and he savored every rebound of it.

The Cougars whopped the NBA Baltimore Bullets 109-98 Saturday night in Greensboro and the win had "team victory" written all over it.

"You can have these guys that pump in 40 points while the rest of their teammates stand around and watch," said Meschery. "Give me that balanced scoring and I'll usually give you a win."

Playing with just nine men, Meschery saw five of his players hit double figures and three of them share the rebounding load with double digits.

"We played very well in spots but what impressed me the most was the fact that our guys didn't quit when they got behind by nine early in the first half."

"Our starting center (Randy Denton) was out with an injury and we have had no use of All ABA performer Joe Caldwell this season yet. To top this off we had to suspend our starting guard, George Lehmann, for an unexcused absence."

Despite the adversity, the Cougars managed to hand the Bullets their third defeat in four games with ABA teams.

"This Cougar team is a good basketball team," said Bullets head coach Gene Shue. "I believe that they can stand in there with any of the teams we have played so far."

The Bullets have had pre-season games with the New York Knicks, the Kentucky Colonels and the Floridians besides the pair they split with the Cougars.

The Cougars now head into the meat of their pre-season play with a game tonight against the high flying Kentucky Colonels at Goettge Field House in Camp Lejeune, N. C. Then it's a quick trip for a date the next night as the opening game in a doubleheader against the New York Nets (Kentucky plays Virginia in the nightcap) at Roanoke and a return to Carolina for a date with the Kentucky Colonels at Greenville on Friday.

The Colonels are again the foe on Saturday in Owensboro, Ky., before the Cougars take a break in preparation for their next NBA foe, the Boston Celtics in Charlotte on Wednesday, October 5.

The pre-season schedule concludes with dates against the Kentucky Colonels at Jacksonville, Fla. (Artis Gilmore's spawning grounds) on October 6 and the Floridians at St. Petersburg, Fla. on Oct. 8.

A game with the Memphis Pros, originally set for Oct. 10 in Nashville, is being held in abeyance while the Pros attempt to arrange an alternate site. Bowling Green, Ky., and Greenville, S. C. are being considered.

Big Jim McDaniels, the million-dollar baby from Western Kentucky, has been the most proficient among the Cougar roster players thus far in a pair of pre-season games.

Big Mac has averaged 19.5 points and 13.5 rebounds and as Meschery puts it, "I have been very pleased with the way he has gone to the boards."

Terps, Deacons Emphasize Pass

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wake Forest is working on its passing attack in preparation for its football game Saturday with Maryland, but the Terrapins have something in store for Wake Forest in the passing department, too.

Maryland's not-so-secret weapon in the Atlantic Coast Conference wars is end Dan Bungori, who caught six passes against North Carolina last week and became the first player to score a touchdown against the Tar Heels this season.

He has been named the Sophomore of the Week in the ACC. The six catches by the 5-11, 165-pound Maryland player accounted for 69 yards of the 199 Maryland gained in the air against North Carolina. The Tar Heels won, 35-14.

If Maryland puts its emphasis upon passing again this Saturday, the airways at College Park are going to be crowded, for Wake Forest apparently plans to throw the ball.

"I don't think we can run on Maryland," said coach Cal Stoll, "so we're going to have to be ready to pass."

North Carolina meanwhile will be facing a stiff challenge from North Carolina State Saturday in Raleigh, according to Tar Heel coach Bill Dooley.

"They may be 0-3," Dooley said of the Wolfpack, "but they have great talent. It's just a matter of when they jell. And they're capable of doing that this week."

One man to watch for the Wolfpack will be Pat Kennedy, who regained a first-team berth Tuesday. He scored N. C. State's only touchdown in the loss to South Carolina last Saturday.

Kennedy, a wingback replaces sophomore Mike Stultz. Duke held another long work-out Tuesday in preparation for this Saturday's clash with powerful Stanford at Palo Alto, Calif.

Clemson also travels outside of the conference this Saturday in a game with Georgia Tech in Atlanta.

Chips and putts from area golf courses:

Ayden

Mack Carmichael picked up his first hole-in-one at the Ayden Golf and Country Club. He aced the ninth hole, a 175-yarder, using a five-iron. Playing with him at the time were Tim Merritt and Bobby Brown.

The annual Jamie Lang Memorial Tournament will be held this weekend. The single round of handicap play may be recorded on either Saturday or Sunday.

Brook Valley

G. W. (Wally) Snyder put together a pair of birdies back to back in a recent round at Brook Valley. He got them on the par four fourth and the par three fifth holes.

Mrs. Ralph Sullivan recently got her first birdie, getting a two on the par three 18th.

Mack Back had a 71 while playing with J. C. Proctor, J. B. Boyd and Earl Brinkley.

Three tournaments are upcoming at Brook Valley. A Scotch foursome is set for October 10. The Brook Valley Men's Invitational is scheduled for October 30-31, and the Ladies Invitational is to be played on November 2-3.

Farmville

Work is moving along in the construction of the back nine at Farmville Golf and Country Club. Most of the fairways have been cleared, according to pro Graham Anderson, and he looks forward to seeing the work finished. He notes that the par five, dog-leg 10th hole is going to be a real challenge.

The Farmville Jaycees are sponsoring the Jaycee Tournament next weekend. Five flights of play will be held in the tournament, which is open to all golfers. The entry deadline is this Saturday.

Two members of the Farmville club were among winners in a tournament in Morehead City last weekend. They were Robert Hunt and Vance Taylor.

Stanford Picked Over Blue Devils

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "We're still waiting to play the best teams on our schedule—Colorado and Oklahoma."

The author of that statement is top-ranked Nebraska's Bob Devaney. This week he does not play Colorado or Oklahoma, but rather Utah State, which, like Nebraska, has a 3-0 record, but is unranked.

Coach Chuck Mills of the Aggies does not intend to plaster Devaney's remark all over the Utah State locker room.

"Far be it from me to refute Bob Devaney," say Mills. "What if it's true? We're just gonna go into Lincoln, Neb., and trade our blue jerseys for red ones like Nebraska wears and hope the fans get all mixed up."

"We're not gonna resort to psychology or do anything different. I think it just creates more problems for the kids if you do crazy things. Besides, we're in the great position of not being supposed to win."

"No, wait a minute; I'll trade positions with Bob Devaney. I'd like to be the one they're all shooting at. This is survival week for us. We'll have to check the kids' adrenalin and the dilation of their pupils. If they're not dilated we're in real trouble."

One undiluted vote for ... NEBRASKA.

Oregon at Texas—Was Donnie Wigginton's classy performance in place of the injured Eddie Phillips last week really that much of a surprise? After all, Wigginton overshadowed Phillips in the Longhorn's spring game, directing four long scoring drives. Oregon's quarterback, Dan Fouts, is hurting. TEXAS.

Michigan State at Notre Dame—Notre Dame this week and Michigan next. Now you know why they call Michigan State the Spartans. NOTRE DAME.

Kansas State at Colorado—Buffaloes have beaten Louisiana State and Ohio State on the road. Besides, they lost to Kansas State by a point last year. Not only are the Buffs ranked sixth in the nation but they're out for revenge, too. COLORADO.

Two Bulldogs Lead Scoring

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Of the eight football teams in the Southern Conference, only The Citadel's Bulldogs and William and Mary's defending champion Indians have scored more than 1 point, so it's not surprising the individual scoring race is strictly a battle among players from those two clubs.

With three weeks of the season gone, fullback Bob Carson and split end Brian Baima of The Citadel are out in front with five touchdowns and 30 points each to four touchdowns and 24 points for William and Mary fullback Phil Mosser, last season's conference athlete of the year.

Carson scored three times, including a school-record 95-yard run, and Baima caught two scoring passes as the Bulldogs last Saturday came from behind for the second week in a row for a 44-37 victory over Boston U.

Meanwhile, Mosser—who had been tied with Baima for the lead a week ago—scored just once in the Indians' 40-14 rout of Davidson in which the Indians spread their scoring around.

Not surprisingly, the next three highest scorers also are from William and Mary and The Citadel.

Soccer-style kicker Mike Dodds of the Indians is fourth with 19 points on 13 conversion kicks and two field goals, while Bill Gardner of the Indians and Ruff Simpson of the Bulldogs are tied with 18 each. Gardner has three touchdowns, Simpson 12 conversion kicks and two field goals.

Six players have scored 12 points each—Clayton Deskins and Tom Alexander of Appalachian State, Champ Reiley of The Citadel, Mike Cole and Mac Bowman of VMI and Steve Regan of William and Mary.

In practice sessions around the circuit Tuesday, injuries and lineup shuffles were the main item on the agenda.

At Virginia Military, which will face Furman Saturday, defensive end John Durst was rated a doubtful starter because of a mild shoulder ailment sustained in last weekend's 13-3 loss to Villanova.

East Carolina coach Sonny Randle said senior John Casazza would replace sophomore Carl Summerell at quarterback against The Citadel Saturday night. Summerell had started the first three games—all losses. Randle also said linebackers Monty Kiernan and Ralph Betesh and running back Carlester Crumpler are doubtful starters because of injuries.

University of Richmond linebacker Pat Kelly, the conference defensive player of the week, drew praise from coaches for his work in Tuesday practice while fullback John Wolfmorn and running back Steve Crislip were standouts in a Furman scrimmage.

Johnson Gets Pay From Angels

ANAHEIM (AP)—The general manager of the California Angels, says an arbitration board ruling that the club must pay the salary of suspended outfielder Alex Johnson is "completely without justification."

Johnson himself says, "I don't consider it a victory at all." The Angels suspended Johnson without pay Jun. 8-26 for "not showing the proper mental attitude" and fined him $3,750 for misconduct.

The arbitration board's ruling Tuesday in New York says that Johnson's behavior was caused by emotional disturbance, and ordered him placed on the disabled list, with full pay, like players suffering from physical injuries. It ordered the American League club to pay Johnson the salary due him, $29,970, but it upheld the disciplinary fines. The decision is binding. General Manager Dick Walsh called the ruling inconsistent and asked: If Johnson was not responsible for his actions, why allow the fines to stand? If he was, why not uphold the suspension?

"Either Johnson was or was not responsible for his actions," Walsh said. "If he was responsible, then the suspension and fines were justified."

Johnson, reached Tuesday at his home in Detroit, said he is confident he will resume his baseball career but "probably not, more than likely not," with California.

"Maybe they learned something by this," he said.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, and a member of the arbitration panel, said the finding is historic.

"It means that a man who is emotionally disturbed is just as ill as one who has sustained an injury or has an ailment."

Giants, Dodgers Both Post Wins; Two Games Remain In Tight Race

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
One year after Chris Speier was born, Maury Wills was playing his first season of professional baseball.

Tuesday night the two shortstops—Speier, the 21-year-old rookie with the San Francisco Giants and the 38-year-old Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers—had the key hits for their teams as the National League's sizzling West Division race continued to boil.

Speier whacked a three-run homer, leading San Francisco to a 7-1 victory over San Diego, keeping the Giants one game ahead of the Dodgers with two games remaining.

Wills cracked a run-scoring single, breaking a tie in the eighth inning and giving the Dodgers a 2-1 triumph over the Houston Astros.

"The best way to play the game is when everything you do means something," said Speier, who was not even on the Giants' roster at the start of spring training. "I like that. Sure, there's pressure but you try to put it out of your mind."

Asked how he felt being a rookie in a tingling pennant battle, he answered: "I wouldn't want it any other way. This is the biggest education I could get. I could play 20 years more and might not be in this situation again. I really enjoy it."

Wills, who already has played 20 years of professional baseball, including 13 in the majors, admitted he still gets nervous before a game.

"If you don't get butterflies anymore it means you're getting a little blasé or you don't care."

Wills can't be accused of either. "He's the guy who is really holding us together," said Manager Walt Alston. "He's been playing every day."

The Dodgers were locked in a 1-1 struggle with Houston and had been held to two hits by Don Wilson when Wills came to bat in the eighth inning with Bobby Valentine on second after drawing a one-out walk and being sacrificed by pitcher Bill Singer.

Wills then singled sharply off the glove of shortstop Roger Metzger. The ball rolled behind Metzger and into short center field as Valentine raced home with the decisive run.

The Dodgers' other run came on Duke Sims' homer leading off the sixth inning.

Wilson, 16-10, and Singer, 10-17, both finished with three-hitters in the rapidly played game which lasted only one hour and 37 minutes.

While the Giants and Dodgers were continuing their torrid duel for the West championship, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 6-3, Atlanta blanked Cincinnati 4-0, Montreal edged Chicago 5-4 and St. Louis downed New York 5-2 in other National League games.

Singer, who has been hampered by arm injuries through most of the season, called his performance against the Astros one of the best games he has ever pitched. "I knew it was a pressure game," he commented.

The only run Houston managed off the Dodgers' right-hander came in the fourth inning when Joe Morgan walked, took third on Cesar Cedeno's single and scored on Bob Watson's hit. Cedeno, who had taken second on a passed ball by Sims, also tried to score on the play but was thrown out by center fielder Willie Davis.

Speier's homer, his eighth of the season, capped a four-run San Francisco uprising in the sixth inning and eased Gaylord Perry's 16th victory.

Speier said he tried to call time just before Padres' rookie Ed Acosta threw the pitch which he smashed over the left field wall, but the plate umpire apparently didn't hear him.

"As soon as I saw the ball I swung," he said. "It's one of my biggest hits so far."

Perry, 16-12, checked the Padres on seven hits. "I know

I've been depended on so I've reached back lately," said the veteran right-hander who has allowed only six earned runs in his last 48 innings. "It's really helped."

Two-run homers by Deron Johnson and Greg Luzinski plus a solo shot by Mike Anderson helped Philadelphia's Rick Wise post his 17th victory as he beat Pittsburgh with a nine-hitter, fanning Dock Ellis' bid for his 20th victory. The Pirates' Willie Stargell walloped his 48th homer and regained the major league lead.

Knuckleballer Phil Niekro baffled Cincinnati on three hits and Ralph Garr extended his hitting streak to 22 games as Atlanta beat the Reds and clinched third place in the West. Garr doubled home the only run Niekro needed in the ninth inning, then Earl Williams doubled in two more runs in the eighth and scored on Dusty Baker's double.

Rusty Staub's run-scoring single in the bottom of the ninth carried Montreal past Chicago. The Expos' Ron Hunt tied a 75-year-old major league record when he was hit by a pitch for the 49th time this season.

Steve Carlton, a 19-game loser last year, became a 20-game winner for St. Louis this season, stopping the Mets on seven hits. Ted Simmons' two-run single was the big hit for the Cards.

Divisional Play To Resume Again

In a non league week, the leaders continued on their merry way with Wilson Fike and Goldsboro rolling along undefeated as they prepare for this week's family affairs.

The Titans of Fike rolled over Durham 42-6 with Larry Barnes opening up the scoring in the first quarter taking a 42 yard Dennis Wilkerson pass for the 6-0 lead. The Bulldogs tied it up but Jimmy Knight untied it with a 3 yard romp and Mickey Traficanti booted a 22 yard field goal to make the margin 15-6 at the half. The Titans rolled in the second with Wilkerson moving in from the one and Knight from the seven in the third period and tight end Rick Horton took an 11 yard pass from Wilkerson while Barnes gathered in a pass from the senior quarterback with the play covering 35 yards to wind up the scoring.

The Goldsboro Cougars had a rougher time but eased past Southern Wayne 14-0 in a neighborhood scrap. Mike Hardy opened the scoring for the winners in the second period on a 60 yard pass play from Alan Hollowell and Rodney Parks closed the scoring with a one yard plunge in the third period with Tim Frazier booting both extra points. Coach Gerald Whisenhunt club now is 4-0.

Jacksonville romped over the Rose High Ramapants at Ficklen Stadium in Greenville 41-0 to hand the Ramapants their third loss in four starts. The Cardinals started fast and easily controlled the ball game.

The New Bern Bears eased past old rival Washington 12-6 on Friday as Willie Harvey ran for five yards in the final quarter to give Roger Thrifts club the win. The run came with 30 seconds left to play to record the win for the Bears. Both teams scored in the first quarter with Eli Smith romping over after a 55 yard punt return and the Pam Pack getting on the scoreboard with a five yard run by Billy Woolard. The Bear defense tightened up in the second half to provide the margin of victory.

In other games involving Division Two teams New Hanover rolled over the Kinston Vikings 23-0 scoring single touchdowns in the first and third periods and twice in the second quarter. The Vikings couldn't unleash their scoring attack at all, and lost their third game in four starts.

The Rocky Mount Gryphons chalked up third win of the year with a 17-0 win over Broughton of Raleigh. Alvis Battle opened the Gryphon scoring with a 9 yard skirt of end in the first quarter to lead 7-0. Battle scored his second six pointer in the second quarter on a one yard plunge to up the margin to 14-0 at the half. The Gryphons closed the scoring in the final quarter on a 23 field goal by Harold McCullough.

Friday Oct. 1 it's back to the family circle with three games on tap. The top three teams will play the so called second division with Goldsboro at New Bern, Rose High at Rocky Mount and Fike at Kinston. If form holds true ... all three will remain undefeated in league play.

"IN YEARS BACK," . . . said Lyman Evans, "we used gourds cut out like this for dippers." (Photos by Betty Casey)

Pumpkins Are Ready Before The Frost

By BETTY CASEY

Long before the "frost is on the pumpkin," Eastern North Carolinians display splendid specimens of plump orange pumpkins on porches and in yards along with ornamental gourds — crooked necks, straight necks and Mexican hats, to name a few.

"I've been growing these and several other types since years back," said Lyman Evans, a longtime resident who has lived on a farm three miles from Greenville on Hwy. 43 since 1916.

An assortment of samples are displayed for sale in colorful, sculptured mounds on his front yard. These pumpkins are not likely to turn into carriages — as one did for Cinderella — but many are destined to be made into tasty, spicy pies.

"They make mighty good eating," Evans declared. "The real big pumpkins are out back in the patch — not quite ripe," he went on, leading the way around the house. Basking in the sunlight amid large leafed vines, the scattering of orange beauties ranged from light weight fist-size to 60-pounders.

Nearby a tangled mass of vines cascading from some large trees were decorated with hanging two-foot long gourds — some straight necked and some which seemed to have prominent Adam's apples. Evans described a bonus factor in raising gourds.

"They serve a good purpose," he declared. "Where they grow they don't have to worry about having rats, mice or snakes. I don't know why, unless maybe they can't stand the gourd smell."

On the back porch he displayed a dried straight-necked gourd which had a hole cut in the side. "Some people use these for birds to nest in," he said, but back in the old days when he got our water from a well with a rope and bucket, we used them for dippers." He recalled that when one would split, during the winter when new ones were not available, his mother would soften it in water and sew up the split with a needle and thread.

A small granddaughter came racing around the house, "Somebody wants to buy something," she called

World's Only Doctor Of Abacus

TOKYO (AP) — At 74, Prof. Yoemon Yamazaki is almost blind in one eye and is getting out.

In the front yard, Evans looked over a big display of pumpkins and explained to a small would-be customer squatting beside him who said his name was Joseph Mills, "We call these Mexican hat gourds." Evan's grandson, Junior Lofton and grand daughter, Sharon Ann Evans, looked on.

hard of hearing.

Still, he keeps in top shape and lectures before 15 classes every week at five different colleges in Tokyo.

Japan's first and perhaps the world's only doctor of the abacus, Yamazaki lectures on the history of the Soroban—the Japanese counting device. He maintains skilled use of it will help many developing Asian countries.

"It may sound funny to some people but the Soroban goes along with the electronic computer of modern times," he says. "The Soroban cannot calculate the orbital flight of a scientific satellite but it works effectively to solve budget problems for small-to-medium enterprises which the computer is just too huge to handle," Yamazaki ads.

Yamazaki authored a new theory on the Soroban, breaking from the previously accepted conception that its origin dated back to the Han Dynasty of China. The Japanese Ministry of Education, recognizing his effort, awarded him a Doctorate of Commerce in 1954 for his abacus research and work.

Yamazaki maintains the abacus first was invented for practical use in Mesopotamia about 50 to 60 centuries ago and was brought to the Orient by Chinese traders.

"For the last 400 years," he says, "it has been the traditional counting and calculating device of Japan."

MEXICAN HAT GOURDS . . . are explained to a prospective customer, Joseph Mills, and grandchildren, Junior Lofton and Sharon Ann Evans, by Lyman Evans.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case R-575: Esther V., aged 20, is a college senior.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "I've recently joined your famous 'Compliment Club' and it has been wonderful in gaining me new friends.

"So I shall now give you a personal compliment that may surprise you!"
"My mother divorced my father when I was 4 years old. She then moved back to live with my maternal grandparents. And their hometown paper carried your 'Worry Clinic.'"
"So she began reading it faithfully and sent for several of your educational booklets."
"Soon she decided she was really more guilty than my father for the breakup of their home."
"So she sent him a letter of apology."
"He wrote back and within 6 months they were remarried.

thus making my homelife much happier!"
"Dr. Crane, I thought you'd like to have this specific instance of the way a newspaper can prevent social maladjustment and family unhappiness!"
Heed Confucius

This compliment is really an illustration of a famous statement made by Confucius. "If you give a hungry man a fish," Confucius warned, "you feed him for a day. But if you teach him how to fish, you feed him for 100 years!"
At the risk of patting myself on the back, may I remind you readers that several sparkling "advice" columns now offer clever answers and witty wisecracks to your serious domestic problems. But that is figuratively offering a hungry man a fish! In this scientific column we try to show you the background factors that produce divorce or delinquency, school dropouts, alcoholism, etc.

Thus, we analyze the entire situation, thereby teaching you how to avoid such pitfalls throughout the rest of your life.

So this "Worry Clinic" symbolizes the advice of Confucius about "teaching the hungry man how to fish."

Indeed, that is also the basic aim of our public and parochial schools.

As well as churches, newspapers, and even the medical profession.

We human beings are supposed to grow self-reliant so we can cope with the wide variety of experiences we shall face throughout a long lifespan.

Dentistry thus teaches kiddies how to brush their teeth and ward off decay via orange juice, milk, fresh vegetables, etc.

Medicine is likewise supposed to teach you how to be healthy so you will not be running to your physician all the time for your daily or weekly medical "fish."

Alas, modern Americans are becoming too dependent on their M.D., whom they often enshrine as a little god and almost worship uncritically!

That's why "hospitalitis" is our national epidemic and why hospitals are jammed with patients. 50 percent of whom should not be there at all!

In early days, people stood on their own feet and used their "horse sense," instead of being herded by propagandists or faddists into sheeplike stampedes for miniskirts, pornographic movies, use of drugs, or even Socialized Medicine!

This column has helped give you deeper insights, so it has banished much of woman's age-old dread of the menopause.

It has explained the "Ponce de Leon" complex in men past 40, has exposed the different sexual ratio between men vs. women; has explained why fever is one of your greatest medical aids, etc., etc.

And the letter-service has sent millions of helpful educational booklets into homes to "teach you how to fish."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this 'newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Italian Farmers Wife-Hunting

TROMELLO, Italy (AP) — A group of north Italian farmers who have had celibacy thrust upon them by a shortage of girls in their town are organizing a wife-hunting expedition to another Italian region.

They distributed leaflets in this agricultural center south of Milan saying: "It is easier to find a mushroom in Milan's public gardens than a farmer's wife in Tromello."

Copenhagen means "merchant's haven."

Find 1718 Ship In Hudson Bay

RANKIN INLET, N.W.T. (AP) — A team of seven explorers says it has found the frigate Albany, lost more than 250 years ago in Hudson Bay, on a trading and exploration expedition.

Eric Disley of Toronto, a spokesman for the team, said the group found the frigate intact in 27 feet of water and is confident the sloop Discovery is nearby.

The ships left England about 1718, equipped for a three-year search for a northwest passage, and sank a year later during a storm on Rankin Inlet on Hudson Bay, about 900 miles north of Winnipeg.

Question Boost In Phone Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina attorney general's office is questioning the legality of rate increases implemented by Southern Bell Telephone Co. during the wage-price freeze.

The director of the office's Consumer Protection Division, Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy, said Tuesday that his agency has asked the Cost of Living Council for a ruling on the increases.

The North Carolina Utilities Commission last month approved higher rates for Southern Bell customers and set effective dates of Aug. 7 and Aug. 9 for the new billings.

But President Nixon's wage-price freeze took effect Aug. 14, well before the increase showed up on many customers' bills.

Benoy said the state had obtained a tentative ruling—that apparently allowed the hikes to be put into effect, but he added, "It has never been satisfactorily answered."

Maurice Horne, a staff attorney for the Utilities Commission, said his office takes the position that the hikes became effective "prior to the freeze" and were valid.

But Benoy said, the Cost of Living Council "told us the price freeze would not permit such increases unless a substantial number of billings had already gone out, and set the figure at about 10 per cent."

"But they didn't say 10 per cent of what — new customers, revenue, all customers of what," Benoy added.

Southern Bell uses a cycle billing system, sending out notices over several days of each month. Customers billed early each month received their higher bills in September.

The company is also charging higher rates on the charges levied 30 days in advance on local station phone service. Benoy challenged that part of the increase, contending the service had not been performed at the time the freeze was ordered.

"If you can stretch your imagination enough, you could allow it," he said.

Institute Is Given Land

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The chairman of the trustees of the Technical Institute of Alamance announced Tuesday that Gov. Bob Scott and his aunt, Mrs. George L. Carrington, are giving the school a $130,000 site for relocation.

Attorney W. Clary Holt, the chairman, said the board will build a $2 million campus if the Alamance County commissioners approve a referendum to provide construction funds.

Holt announced last May that, in order to expand, the school needed to move from the site in Burlington which it occupied in 1959 as the first of the state's technical training institutes.

Holt said Mrs. Carrington, wife of a Burlington physician, offered a 60-acre tract last May, but the trustees decided land held by Scott on an I-85 interchange would be more suitable. Scott agreed to take Mrs. Carrington's 60 acres, Holt said, in exchange for the more valuable 48-acre plot on the interstate.

The Burlington Board of Relators, Holt said, figured the governor's portion of the donation at 53 per cent.

Holt said that last year the Technical Institute of Alamance provided training for 8,400 persons.

Cops And Criminals Dominate Tuesday Night's TV Scene

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Cops and criminals reign supreme on television on Tuesday nights. At one point this Tuesday, all three networks were showing suspense stories.

ABC's "Mod Squad," after three seasons, is beginning to show signs of fatigue. Even the three young principals look rather mature and the show's scripts definitely have lost that fine flush of youth.

This week's story was pegged on the drug traffic, now becoming a cliché. This time Pete—with little help from his undercover colleagues Linc and Julie—was on the trail of an addict who was a cop killer.

The trap was baited with a girl who was an ex-addict and afraid of getting hooked again. Cameron Mitchell played the killer with so much scenery chewing that Michael Coles' Pete seemed even more silent and brooding than usual. As if to make up for the lack of a good story, the background of an amusement park provided color and interest.

A quick twist of the dial to CBS brought on "Hawaii Five-O," with square-jawed right-thinking Steve McGarrett was on the trail of a psychotic strangler. The killer put make-up on his five women victims so they looked like painted dolls—a bit macabre in color. There was a surprise twist at the end as McGarrett tracked down the madman and incidentally solved another killing at the same time.

The star of the series continues to be the lush background of Hawaii, since most of the shows are shot on location. They give the police action series a special excitement and individuality.

In spite of the vogue for law-and-order shows, the networks are still nervous about injecting too much fighting and gunplay. The result is a large assortment of off-beat bad guys. For the true whodunit or suspense fans, however, sick drug addicts and madmen make unsatisfactory villains. Perhaps they are a little too close to reality and thus are threatening figures. Uncomplicated heavies who seem to have fun blowing safes, hijacking cargo or stealing secret government documents are infinitely more relaxing to watch.

ABC will start a story on Oct. 19 on "Marcus Welby, M.D." and finish it Oct. 21 on "Owen Marshall, Counselor-at-Law." NBC had something of the same idea earlier this month, spreading one story between "Ironside" and "Sarge."

Growing Acceptance For 'Gold Is Dead' Attitude

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The "gold-is-dead" movement is gaining widespread acceptance

Speaking At Revival Here

BETHEL — Revival services began at the Pentecostal Holiness Church here on Monday and will continue through Friday. Services will begin each night at 7:30.

The invited evangelist, W. Otis Callahan, assisted by his wife who has taught in public schools for the past 18 years, are natives of Waycross, Ga.

The Rev. Callahan is a member of the Florida Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church. He has attended Holmes Bible College and the University of Miami and has graduated from Emmanuel College and received his B.S. Degree in education at the University of Georgia.

He has pastored seven years and for the past 18 years has served as general evangelist. His ministry has carried him to Cuba, Haiti, Costa Rica, Mexico, Egypt and many places in the United States.

Rev. Callahan states that he has noted a great spirit of revival among young and old as he has spoken on college campuses and as he has spoken to prayer groups made up from the historic churches.

The theme of his message will be "how all people of all churches may exercise their faith in God's word to get their deliverance from sin, sickness, fear and suffering, and how they may receive the Holy Spirit."

The pastor, Rev. Tim B. Henry extends an invitation to the public to attend this revival.

REV. W. O. CALLAHAN

among the major industrialized nations of the non-Communist world.

South Africa, which mines most of it, stands almost alone in contending the metal should live on as the basis for valuing world currencies.

Gold's present role as the underpinning of the international monetary system is attracting few defenders at the crucial 118-nation International Monetary Fund meeting. The delegates are talking increasingly of supplanting gold with Special Drawing Rights, alias SDRs, alias "paper gold."

By whatever name, these artificially created international assets are actually mere book-keeping entries whose value would be based on mutual trust and confidence.

Britain, Japan, Italy and to some extent, France, joined Tuesday in supporting development of a new international money system in which paper gold would dethrone the dollar-gold system as the standard on which all other currencies are valued.

Since 1944, when the IMF was created, the value of the world's money has been related directly to the dollar. And the dollar's value has been tied to gold and its official price of $35 an ounce.

Faced with an international monetary crisis precipitated by a glut of dollars overseas, President Nixon on Aug. 15 cut the dollar loose from its tie with gold, meaning the United States would refuse foreign countries' requests to convert dollars into gold.

In effect, the non-Communist world is now on a dollar standard, without the opportunity to convert dollars into gold. But that may change if Nixon decides later to reopen the gold window, or devalue the dollar by raising the official price of gold.

Major U.S. trading partners are pushing for an increase in the price of gold—in effect a devaluation of the dollar—to achieve immediate realignment of currencies that most all countries agree is needed. The United States wants other currencies revalued upward without cutting the dollar's value, and seeks a diminishing role for gold.

Delegates agree that most currencies are overvalued in relation to the dollar. But they disagree on how the realignment should take place.

Pitt County Tour For C&D Visitors

Representatives of the Commerce and Industry Division of the state Department of Conservation and Development and their wives will get a first hand look at Pitt County on Friday and Saturday.

'No Chance' For '72 Nomination

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — James Farmer, former assistant secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday there is no chance a black will be nominated for vice president on either party's ticket in 1972.

Farmer, in Minneapolis to speak to the national convention of the Conference of Catholic Charities, was asked whether a Negro has a chance to be nominated for vice president next year.

He answered, "None whatever. I don't like to speculate but I would say that in a dozen years or so a black could run for vice president, or even president."

Farmer is a former head of the Congress of Racial Equality.

The representatives are scheduled to visit Pitt for a bus tour of the county and related activities designed to further acquaint the development specialists with the county's resources for growth, both physical and human.

The visit is being coordinated by the Pitt County Development Commission.

According to Jim Horne, executive director of the commission, the bus tour will depart from the Holiday Inn here on Friday and traverse practically all sections of the county before returning to the motel.

A pig pickin' has been scheduled for the group on Friday evening at the Grimes' plantation farm of Sen. Vernon White. The visit will conclude with a golf tournament and luncheon on Saturday.

Horne said that while the men are touring the county, their wives will be honored at a tea to be given by Mrs. Leo Jenkins at the Jenkins' home.

The state group will be led by Robert E. Leak, administrator of the Commerce and Industry Division.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	Pass	1 NT
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠ North was reluctant to open the bidding with one no trump in today's hand because he had two unprotected suits. By bidding one diamond, however, he would have found himself in a very uncomfortable predicament had South responded with one spade. A rebid of one no trump with 17 high card points would have been a drastic understatement and no other call suggests itself.

Fortunately South bid one no trump and the auction proceeded in easy stages to game.

West opened the king of hearts and was allowed to hold the first trick as South followed with the ten. The queen of hearts was continued and declarer was in with the ace. It was obvious that the club suit would have to provide the bulk of the required tricks, so the three of clubs was led, West played the seven and the ten was put in from dummy, losing to East's king.

East paused to consider the situation. South had shown up with the ace of hearts, however the most that he could have in the minor suits is the jack of clubs. He must, therefore, hold the ace of spades, or else how could he carry on to three no trump. A shift to either a spade or a diamond would accordingly surrender a trick and it appears that a club return is indicated.

East went one step further. His opponent was obviously trying to develop his long suit. If the spots were to be believed [South had led the three and West followed with the seven], then declarer held the 4-5-6, if he had one more club, either the eight or the jack, that would give him a five card suit. When he regains the lead, South will be in position to cash North's high clubs, reenter his hand with the ace of spades and cash two long cards for nine tricks—four clubs, three diamonds, one heart and one spade.

There was only one way to foil South and that was to drive out his entry card, before the block in the club suit is eliminated. So reasoning, East shifted to the king of spades, even though this deliberately sacrificed a trick. Declarer played the ace, crossed over to the ace of clubs, cashed the queen and then led the high diamonds. When the jack did not fall, however, South ended up one trick short of his goal.

Analysis may suggest that declarer can frustrate his astute opponent by allowing East to hold the king of spades when that card is led at trick four. The latter will presumably continue with a small spade to North's queen. The ace and queen of clubs are cashed to clear that suit, followed by the A-K-Q of diamonds. East is now thrown back in with the jack of diamonds and since he has only spades left, he must put South back in with the ace of that suit to take the last two tricks. The defense is thereby limited to one trick in each suit.

The only trouble with this analysis is that East does not have to allow himself to be endplayed. If he drops the jack of diamonds under one of dummy's high honors, it surrenders another trick, but at the same time it locks the lead in the North hand. After the diamonds are run, North must play a heart and West wins the last two tricks in that suit to defeat the contract. We must presume that if East could see far enough ahead to sacrifice his king of spades, he could have worked out the unblocking play in diamonds as well—had his opponent put him to the test.

SUPER ANAL?

Question Boost In Phone Rates

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina attorney general's office is questioning the legality of rate increases implemented by Southern Bell Telephone Co. during the wage-price freeze.

The director of the office's Consumer Protection Division, Deputy Atty. Gen. Jean Benoy, said Tuesday that his agency has asked the Cost of Living Council for a ruling on the increases.

The North Carolina Utilities Commission last month approved higher rates for Southern Bell customers and set effective dates of Aug. 7 and Aug. 9 for the new billings.

But President Nixon's wage-price freeze took effect Aug. 14, well before the increase showed up on many customers' bills.

Benoy said the state had obtained a tentative ruling that apparently allowed the hikes to be put into effect, but he added, "It has never been satisfactorily answered."

Maurice Horne, a staff attorney for the Utilities Commission, said his office takes the position that the hikes became effective "prior to the freeze" and were valid.

But Benoy said, the Cost of Living Council "told us the price freeze would not permit such increases unless a substantial number of billings had already gone out, and set the figure at about 10 per cent."

"But they didn't say 10 per cent of what — new customers, revenue, all customers of what," Benoy added.

Southern Bell uses a cycle billing system, sending out notices over several days of each month. Customers billed early each month received their higher bills in September.

The company is also charging higher rates on the charges levied 30 days in advance on local station phone service. Benoy challenged that part of the increase, contending the service had not been performed at the time the freeze was ordered.

"If you can stretch your imagination enough, you could allow it," he said.

Institute Is Given Land

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The chairman of the trustees of the Technical Institute of Alamance announced Tuesday that Gov. Bob Scott and his aunt, Mrs. George L. Carrington, are giving the school a $130,000 site for relocation.

Attorney W. Clary Holt, the chairman, said the board will build a $2 million campus if the Alamance County commissioners approve a referendum to provide construction funds.

Holt announced last May that, in order to expand, the school needed to move from the site in Burlington which it occupied in 1959 as the first of the state's technical training institutes.

Holt said Mrs. Carrington, wife of a Burlington physician, offered a 60-acre tract last May, but the trustees decided land held by Scott on an I-85 interchange would be more suitable. Scott agreed to take Mrs. Carrington's 60 acres, Holt said, in exchange for the more valuable 48-acre plot on the interstate.

The Burlington Board of Relators, Holt said, figured the governor's portion of the donation at 53 per cent.

Holt said that last year the Technical Institute of Alamance provided training for 8,400 persons.

HOMELESS — Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bangert — he's 75 and she's 70 — sit in a Philadelphia police station after they explained they had been wandering, homeless, for the past four weeks. They were carrying their few

Cops And Criminals Dominate Tuesday Night's TV Scene

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Cops and criminals reign supreme on television on Tuesday nights. At one point this Tuesday, all three networks were showing suspense stories.

ABC's "Mod Squad," after three seasons, is beginning to show signs of fatigue. Even the three young principals look rather mature and the show's scripts definitely have lost that fine flush of youth.

This week's story was pegged on the drug traffic, now becoming a cliché. This time Pete—with little help from his undercover colleagues Linc and Julie—was on the trail of an addict who was a cop killer. The trap was baited with a girl who was an ex-addict and afraid of getting hooked again. Cameron Mitchell played the killer with so much scenery chewing that Michael Coles, Pete seemed even more silent and brooding than usual. As if to make up for the lack of a good story, the background of an amusement park provided color and interest.

A quick twist of the dial to CBS brought on "Hawaii Five-O," with square-jawed right-thinking Steve McGarrett was on the trail of a psychotic strangler. The killer put make-up on his five women victims so they looked like painted dolls—a bit macabre in color. There was a surprise twist at the end as McGarrett tracked down the madman and incidentally solved another killing at the same time.

The star of the series continues to be the lush background of Hawaii, since most of the shows are shot on location. They give the police action series a special excitement and individuality.

In spite of the vogue for law-and-order shows, the networks are still nervous about injecting too much fighting and gunplay. The result is a large assortment of off-beat bad guys. For the true whodunit or suspense fans, however, sick drug addicts and madmen make unsatisfactory villains. Perhaps they are a little too close to reality and thus are threatening figures. Uncomplicated heavies who seem to have fun blowing safes, hijacking cargo or stealing secret government documents are infinitely more relaxing to watch.

ABC will start a story on Oct. 19 on "Marcus Welby, M.D." and finish it Oct. 21 on "Owen Marshall, Counselor-at-Law." NBC had something of the same idea earlier this month, spreading one story between "Ironside" and "Sarge."

NEW COURSES LISTED
NEW YORK (AP) — Four new evening and Saturday courses are being held at the Traphagen School of Fashion. Two of the courses are on fashion and two on design.

Growing Acceptance For 'Gold Is Dead' Attitude

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The "gold-is-dead" movement is gaining widespread acceptance

Speaking At Revival Here

BETHEL — Revival services began at the Pentecostal Holiness Church here on Monday and will continue through Friday. Services will begin each night at 7:30.

The invited evangelist, W. Otis Callahan, assisted by his wife who has taught in public schools for the past 18 years, are natives of Waycross, Ga.

The Rev. Callahan is a member of the Florida Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church. He has attended Holmes Bible College and the University of Miami and has graduated from Emmanuel College and received his B.S. Degree in education at the University of Georgia.

He has pastored seven years and for the past 18 years has served as general evangelist. His ministry has carried him to Cuba, Haiti, Costa Rica, Mexico, Egypt and many places in the United States.

Rev. Callahan states that he has noted a great spirit of revival among young and old as he has spoken on college campuses and as he has spoken to prayer groups made up from the historic churches.

The theme of his message will be "how all people of all churches may exercise their faith in God's word to get their deliverance from sin, sickness, fear and suffering, and how they may receive the Holy Spirit."

The pastor, Rev. Tim B. Henry extends an invitation to the public to attend this revival.

REV. W. O. CALLAHAN

among the major industrialized nations of the non-Communist world.

South Africa, which mines most of it, stands almost alone in contending the metal should live on as the basis for valuing world currencies.

Gold's present role as the underpinning of the international monetary system is attracting few defenders at the crucial 118-nation International Monetary Fund meeting. The delegates are talking increasingly of supplanting gold with Special Drawing Rights, alias SDRs, alias "paper gold."

By whatever name, these artificially created international assets are actually mere book-keeping entries whose value would be based on mutual trust and confidence.

Britain, Japan, Italy and to some extent, France, joined Tuesday in supporting development of a new international money system in which paper gold would dethrone the dollar-gold system as the standard on which all other currencies are valued.

Since 1944, when the IMF was created, the value of the world's money has been related directly to the dollar. And the dollar's value has been tied to gold and its official price of $35 an ounce.

Faced with an international monetary crisis precipitated by a glut of dollars overseas, President Nixon on Aug. 15 cut the dollar loose from its tie with gold, meaning the United States would refuse foreign countries' requests to convert dollars into gold.

In effect, the non-Communist world is now on a dollar standard, without the opportunity to convert dollars into gold. But that may change if Nixon decides later to reopen the gold window, or devalue the dollar by raising the official price of gold.

Major U.S. trading partners are pushing for an increase in the price of gold—in effect a devaluation of the dollar—to achieve immediate realignment of currencies that most all countries agree is needed. The United States wants other currencies revalued upward without cutting the dollar's value, and seeks a diminishing role for gold.

Delegates agree that most currencies are overvalued in relation to the dollar. But they disagree on how the realignment should take place.

Pitt County Tour For C&D Visitors

Representatives of the Commerce and Industry Division of the state Department of Conservation and Development and their wives will get a first hand look at Pitt County on Friday and Saturday.

'No Chance' For '72 Nomination

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — James Farmer, former assistant secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said Tuesday there is no chance a black will be nominated for vice president on either party's ticket in 1972.

Farmer, in Minneapolis to speak to the national convention of the Conference of Catholic Charities, was asked whether a Negro has a chance to be nominated for vice president next year.

He answered, "None whatever. I don't like to speculate but I would say that in a dozen years or so a black could run for vice president, or even president."

Farmer is a former head of the Congress of Racial Equality.

The representatives are scheduled to visit Pitt for a bus tour of the county and related activities designed to further acquaint the development specialists with the county's resources for growth, both physical and human.

The visit is being coordinated by the Pitt County Development Commission.

According to Jim Horne, executive director of the commission, the bus tour will depart from the Holiday Inn here on Friday and traverse practically all sections of the county before returning to the motel.

A pig pickin' has been scheduled for the group on Friday evening at the Grimes' plantation farm of Sen. Vernon White. The visit will conclude with a golf tournament and luncheon on Saturday.

Horne said that while the men are touring the county, their wives will be honored at a tea to be given by Mrs. Leo Jenkins at the Jenkins' home.

The state group will be led by Robert E. Leak, administrator of the Commerce and Industry Division.

North was reluctant to open the bidding with one no trump in today's hand because he had two unprotected suits. By bidding one diamond, however, he would have found himself in a very uncomfortable predicament had South responded with one spade. A rebid of one no trump with 17 high card points would have been a drastic understatement and no other call suggests itself.

Fortunately South bid one no trump and the auction proceeded in easy stages to game.

West opened the king of hearts and was allowed to hold the first trick as South followed with the ten. The queen of hearts was continued and declarer was in with the ace. It was obvious that the club suit would have to provide the bulk of the required tricks, so the three of clubs was led. West played the seven and the ten was put in from dummy, losing to East's king.

East paused to consider the situation. South had shown up with the ace of hearts, however the most that he could have in the minor suits is the jack of clubs. He must, therefore, hold the ace of spades, or else how could he carry on to three no trump. A shift to either a spade or a diamond would accordingly surrender a trick and it appears that a club return is indicated.

East went one step further. His opponent was obviously trying to develop his long suit. If the spots were to be believed [South had led the three and West followed with the seven], then declarer held the 4-5-6, if he had one more club, either the eight or the jack, that would give him a five card suit. When he regains the lead, South will be in position to cash North's high clubs, reenter his hand with the ace of spades and cash two long cards for nine tricks—four clubs, three diamonds, one heart and one spade.

There was only one way to foil South and that was to drive out his entry card, before the block in the club suit is eliminated. So reasoning, East shifted to the king of spades, even tho this deliberately sacrificed a trick. Declarer played the ace, crossed over to the ace of clubs, cashed the queen and then led the high diamonds. When the jack did not fall, however, South ended up one trick short of his goal.

Analysis may suggest that declarer can frustrate his astute opponent by allowing East to hold the king of spades when that card is led at trick four. The latter will presumably continue with a small spade to North's queen. The ace and queen of clubs are cashed to clear that suit, followed by the A-K-Q of diamonds. East is now thrown back in with the jack of diamonds and since he has only spades left, he must put South back in with the ace of that suit to take the last two tricks. The defense is thereby limited to one trick in each suit.

The only trouble with this analysis is that East does not have to allow himself to be endplayed. If he drops the jack of diamonds under one of dummy's high honors, it surrenders another trick, but at the same time it locks the lead in the North hand. After the diamonds are run, North must play a heart and West wins the last two tricks in that suit to defeat the contract. We must presume that if East could see far enough ahead to sacrifice his king of spades, he could have worked out the unblocking play in diamonds as well—had his opponent put him to the test.

Mindszenty's Return Reflects Coexistence Effort

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Hungary's unyielding anti-Communist primate, was named a prince of the Church in an era when Pope Pius XII excommunicated Communists and Hungary was falling into Red hands.

Now, a quarter of a century later, he has been recalled to Rome by Pope Paul VI in a dramatic demonstration of the pontiff's effort to coexist with Communist governments and negotiate a better life for Roman Catholics under their control.

Mindszenty, the 79-year-old "Cardinal of Steel," bowed reluctantly to Pope Paul's call to leave his asylum in the U.S. Embassy in Budapest and come to Rome under a Communist stipulation that he never return to Hungary. He said quitting his homeland was "perhaps the heaviest cross of my life."

But in an era of negotiations between the Vatican and Communist countries, many came to regard the prelate as an obstacle to better church-state relations and as a problem for bishops left behind—those trying to run the Church under Communist regimes.

All admired his courage. But many wondered in private whether his valor should include a larger measure of discretion.

Cardinal Mindszenty was called a martyr when a Red tribunal sentenced him to life in prison in 1949 for treason. He spent eight years behind bars and refused to run to the West when he was released during the 1956 Hungarian rebellion. "It's wonderful to see my fatherland free," he said during the uprising.

But four days later he sought refuge in the U.S. legation as Soviet tanks crushed the revolt. He stayed there 15 years until his plane trip to Vatican City.

Roman Feat Is Unexplained

BAGINTON, England (AP) — Archaeologists who found a Roman fort here have uncovered evidence of a massive eight-to-10-foot-high palisade with smooth interior walls enclosing a perfectly circular area more than 107 feet in diameter.

They said to complete it the Romans must have removed 1,000 tons of sand and gravel—a feat still unexplained.

on Tuesday.

In the meantime, the papacy changed hands twice, and the Vatican opened its gates to welcome Red heads of state and ministers.

Pope Paul was reported to have reached an agreement for the cardinal's release in a 30-minute talk with Hungarian Foreign Minister Janos Peter last April. The audience marked the start of frequent talks between Vatican and Hungarian officials, with Mindszenty believed high on the agenda.

It was the release of another high-ranking prelate that started a thaw in Vatican relations with Moscow in 1963. The Kremlin allowed Ukrainian Archbishop Josef Slipyj, now a cardinal, to come to Rome after 17 years of forced labor in Siberia.

Two years later, Czechoslovakia freed Archbishop Josef Beran after 17 years of confinement. American Bishop James Walsh spent 15 years in prison in Red China before he was released last year.

The evolving climate has led to limited relations between the Church and the government in Poland. Talks have been resumed with Czechoslovak officials recently after a short-lived illusion of liberty under a liberalized regime in 1968.

The Soviet Union also has allowed the Vatican to establish warm relations with the Russian Orthodox Church as part of Pope Paul's efforts at Christian unity.

But Hungary, where Mindszenty held out at the U.S. mission, has badly disappointed the Church in the past.

A 1964 accord for the nomination of some new bishops and some religious freedom for priests brought few results. Earlier this year, Vatican-Budapest relations were still described by a Catholic publication as "an understanding without warmth."

The Vatican is reported to hope current talks can lead to a new agreement under which bishops would be granted greater freedom and priests and nuns allowed to congregate at will and teach religion in churches and other buildings.

The Vatican exchanged ambassadors with Yugoslavia last year—the first time the Church established diplomatic relations with a Communist regime. But Belgrade has its own independent brand of communism and has been relatively generous in granting freedom to the Roman Catholic Church.

IMPORTED CRIME
COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Most of the foreigners who run afoul of the law in Denmark are involved in narcotics cases, the state's advocates office says. The office reported that between August, 1969, and August, 1970, 703 persons were convicted of narcotics violations, of whom 71 were foreigners.

Political Roadblocks Frustrate Disaster Fighters

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Millions in the Asian subcontinent face widespread famine and plague while political roadblocks frustrate an international search for solutions.

That is the view of qualified observers just back from the scene.

On both Indian and Pakistani sides of the borders of East Pakistan, the crisis generated by the Pakistan government's suppression of a Bengali movement for autonomy is reaching staggering proportions. Since the problems feed on themselves, the situation becomes progressively less susceptible to solution.

In Indian border areas, the refugee population now is estimated at nearly nine million. Thousands cross daily and there could be as many as 12 million by year's end. On the East Pakistan side, a large area is threatened with massive famine within weeks because of a combination of stalled transport, floods, lost crops and generally chaotic conditions.

William R. Davies, of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., was sent to Bengal by the Church World Service to assess the situation. He tells of an uphill battle by a host of agencies—governmental, private, religious and international—to stave off calamity on a huge scale.

Dr. Daniel Ruge of Chicago, who accompanied Davies, reports that severe malnutrition already is a problem among refugees. There is also danger of epidemic when flood waters recede.

Stephen Tripp, special consultant to the U.N. secretariat for Pakistan, reports agencies are bracing for an anticipated food shortage disaster predicted for October in East Pakistan because of civil strife, floods, monsoon storms and cyclones. Transport in East Pakistan is largely paralyzed because of these conditions, so that even when food is available for distribution, it cannot be shipped to backland areas. Davies says converging elements of the crisis—the floods, the epidemic dangers, the loss of crops planted in the spring, the paralysis of transport and the approach of winter—make the situation daily more appalling. But frozen attitudes of governments, international politics, bureaucratic obstacles and ancient fetiches combine to complicate matters.

India, which can ill afford it, bears the brunt of caring for the refugees. The Indians are credited with doing as well as possible within the limits of their resources.

India is urgently asking the world community for $400 million as a stopgap contribution for six months, to assure the barest minimum subsistence for the refugees. The United States is giving $100 million, but men on the scene say there

Policemen Leave Calling Cards

AUCKLAND (AP) — New Zealand police now leave calling cards with people they visit. Each card names three constables who make up each patrol.

"It's much better for the public to be able to ask for a police officer by name if they need to ring the central police station, rather than get the impression they are dealing with a chief impersonal organization," Chief Inspector K. O. Thompson said.

has not been much response from the rest of the world. The State Department is reported ready to ask Congress for an added $250 million to be divided between the Indian and Pakistani governments for relief on their respective sides of the frontier.

India wants to see the refugee situation as temporary. The observers say the situation indeed will be permanent unless political solutions are found. As of now there seems little chance of political solutions.

Davies says he feels the United Nations should take up the refugee question on an emergency basis, seeking long-term solution. But Pakistan, insisting that what goes on in East Pakistan is an internal affair, probably would resist a

Texan Expects Big Depression

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — A North Texas State University professor predicts America will face a depression worse than the 1929 stock market crash once the 1972 elections are over and the economic props are pulled out.

Dr. George Christy, writing in the school publication, "The North Texan," said that as the panic spreads stock and bond markets will collapse and unemployment will soar about the 1970's high water mark.

U.N. role there. India, for her part, wants to use Indians wherever possible to cope with the crisis. Obstacles are thus placed in the way of agencies wanting to help.

Many on the scene feel the refugees never will be willing to return. Most are Hindus. Pakistan is dominated by Moslems. This adds to the problem the old and bitter communal feud between the two creeds.

HOW TO BE A CANNY SAVER

Even though many food prices have risen, canned foods' prices have stayed remarkable steady. There are more than 1,200 different canned foods. They often represent the most economical way to buy table-ready convenience.

In our stores you will find a choice in canned food quality with a comparable choice in price. Wise shoppers buy to suit a particular use. One shopper needs perfect slices of pineapple for a salad; another can save by buying less quality and another style for ingredient use. She chooses a thrifter brand of crushed pineapple for making into a pie.

Brand names are a dependable guide to quality. Try different brands; note the price and quality. When you find a brand you especially like, remember it or make a note on your recipe.

We're very proud of our own brands of canned foods. We guarantee the quality because we test these products and cook with them in our test kitchen. They often are 15% to 20% lower in price and have the same high nutritional value. Look for Farm Charm, Orchard Charm, Garden Charm and Red Gate.

Doctor Strives Overcome Namby-Pamby Tendency

By BOB DI PIETRO

PERTH AMBOY, N.J. (UPI) —To Dr. Max Novich, the word "namby-pamby" is the worst in the English language.

It signifies what he finds most undesirable in today's children.

"The need to compete has been lessened considerably by the affluent society," says the man who began a Sunday boxing school for overprivileged boys in the basement of his South Orange, N.J. home in 1964.

The school began with one pupil but now numbers 25 boys ranging in age from six to 14. Its site has been shifted from the doctor's basement to a professional gym in Orange to accommodate the increased enrollment.

Now Novich wants to introduce the nation to the benefits of "baby gymnastics," a concept developed in postwar Germany of teaching coordination to infants. He hopes to use his school for personal defense as a springboard to the introduction of baby gymnastics.

Novich, an orthopedic surgeon, describes as his "ultimate goal in medicine" the training of infants one month old. He says the Germans were quite successful in preventing curvature of the spine in infants by exercising their limbs.

Novich wants to carry it a step further.

"I say if a child is a more active child, if he can handle himself physically, either by walking, or running, or climbing, or swimming—if you start him early enough, those activities will come more easily," explains the doctor.

"For instance, if you could exercise a child's arms and legs and roll his body up into a bundle, you could make that child fall down easier when he's one year of age so that he doesn't get hurt. We want to teach babies balance and coordination by first starting with their limbs."

Novich proudly points to his own children—Jay 11, Nina, 10 and Bebe, 7½ as outstanding examples of the benefits of baby gymnastics.

"From when they were one week of age my wife Jean and I started exercising our children. Jay, for instance, is a first class athlete. Everything he does he does well. Plays basketball, soccer, swims, boxes, plays tennis. The girls are good in tumbling and gymnastics and ballet. And climbing ropes. Stuff like that."

Novich hopes that when parents come to trust him after seeing how he handles their older youngsters in his personal defense school, they will allow him to exercise their infants.

"Then I'll have whole classes of women doing the same thing at their house that I'm doing in my gym for their babies," contemplates Novich.

Max Novich is a pudgy, fiftyish, ham-handed man who looks like what he was—an ex-

Noble Gesture Cost A Battery

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Steve Nobles saw a man trying to put a battery in a car.

"Do you have a wrench?" the man asked. In a noble gesture, Nobles got his and helped him finish installing the battery.

The man got in his car and drove away.

Nobles then tried to do the same but couldn't.

His battery was gone.

boxer. As a kid, Novich fought in the amateurs at the Mosque Theater in downtown Newark before winning his scholarship. He was Southern Conference 165-pound champion in 1936-37 and NCAA runner-up in that division for both years. In his senior year at Chapel Hill, he helped defray expenses by picking up a few pro fights.

Both his personal defense school—at which Novich hopes to teach wrestling, judo and weight training in addition to boxing—and the baby gymnastics classes are in the planning stages.

For now, the peripatetic doctor has enough to keep him busy. He's returned recently from the Pan-American Games and he plans to be at the 1972 Olympics and the 1973 Maccabiah Games. Novich was chief physician for the 1965 and 1969 U.S. Maccabiah teams and the first alternate physician for the 1956 U.S. Olympic team.

He's also president of the Association of Ringside Physicians, a group organized to promote ring safety, and maintains his medical practice in this port city of over 40,000 people.

Novich has a definite philosophy about youngsters and his concern for them.

"I would like to reject what Dr. Spock has done for kids and do what Dr. Novich would do for kids: MAKE THEM BETTER HUMAN BEINGS.

"I think I can do that by making each child a better physical specimen so that he has more regard for himself. When you have more regard for yourself, you have more regard for your neighbor. If you hate yourself, then you can't expect to be good to your neighbor."

CREATES MORE JOBS

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Louie B. Nunn says new and expanded industry has created 9,000 more jobs in poverty-stricken Eastern Kentucky the past 3½ years.

Israel Fills Ranks By Drafting Girls

SOMEWHERE IN ISRAEL — Like recruits in any army of the world, they brawl and drill and crawl in the mud and sand. These are girl draftees of the Israel Defense Force. (UPI Telephoto)

By JACQUES CIAFIN
SOMEWHERE IN ISRAEL (UPI)—Like recruits in any of the world's armed forces, they brawl and drill and crawl in the sand and mud, toting rifles in sweltering heat.

But most of them close their eyes the first time they squeeze that cold trigger. Sometimes they burst into tears when parents can't make it to graduation ceremonies.

They are the girl draftees of the Israel Defense Forces (IDF) part of Israel's highly sophisticated fighting machine. There is no intention of putting girls in fighting units, even though some become dead shots with rifles and UZI submachineguns. By law women soldiers cannot be stationed closer than 30 kilometers (19 miles) from the line of combat. Instead, the girls work in the rear to release fighting men from the front lines.

Israeli girls, like their brothers, are drafted into the IDF at 18, but they serve only 20 months while the boys do three years. If they specialize, serving in communications, liaison, aircraft electronics or radar maintenance, they serve 24 months.

Those who do not specialize spend their compulsory 20 months typing, driving, nursing, folding parachutes, guarding, substitute teaching, working in civilian welfare, auxiliary police units and new settlements.

Basic pay: 28.90 Israeli pounds ($6.88) a month, the same for all draftees, regardless of sex.

Every six weeks, army life begins for some 800 girls when they step through the doors of Tel Hashomer Hospital, a few miles from Tel Aviv, for medical examination, inoculation, and to be photographed and uniformed.

Then they proceed to a camp such as this sprawling base "somewhere in Israel" that houses recruits of both sexes. They arrive dazzled and bewildered for the six week training stint that turns them into the women of "Chen"—it means charm and is a contraction of the Hebrew words for women's army.

According to the woman lieutenant colonel who commands the distaff booth camp on this base (army regulations prohibit the use of her name), many of the girls who come here have led soft lives and the change is quite sudden.

The woman colonel's office, though, is more homey than martial, despite the maps on the wall. Trophies and plants and dried flowers adorn every corner.

She is a tall, imposing figure with raven black hair worn in bangs and a pageboy. The scar on her lip was not acquired in combat—she has not seen combat in 23 years of military service. Unlike the miniskirted troops that come in and out of her office all day flashing four to five inches of suntanned thigh, she wears her shirts only an inch above the knee. Like her troops, she wears sandals, only a touch of lipstick and no nail polish.

The colonel says that having men and women work and live on the base poses no problem. Barracks are off limits for troops of the opposite sex and promiscuity can draw a discharge.

Single and 41, the colonel spends 16 to 18 hours a day on base. She plans to retire after this command even before the mandatory 55-year-old retirement age.

Like most senior Chen officers, the colonel enlisted in 1948, the year Israel became a nation and fought the first of its three wars against the Arabs. She had been an office worker in the Haganah, the underground Jewish army which became the IDF.

In 1948 it was only natural to join, she said. Now about 40 percent of the potential intake of 18-year-old girls dodges the compulsory draft through marriage or religious deferments.

"I think that the army is a very good school for life," said one of the colonel's troops. Dalya, a 20-year-old lieutenant about to end her stint. "You meet so many people with so many problems."

Tziye, just inducted, says she wants to become an officer and remain in Chen for eight to 10 years "because it's the only place in which I can serve my country. Here we really live."

Her training mate, Tzya, takes a different view of army life. "I don't like firing a rifle. The sound and the pain in your shoulder, it bothers me," she said.

Conveniently she managed to stay away from target practice during a four-day field training exercise "because I'm not feeling well." Asked what was the matter she posed, coughed and said, "it's my spine."

Wide Range

On Reservation

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) — The elevation on the Navajo Reservation in Arizona, New Mexico and Utah ranges from 4,500 feet to 10,416 feet.

The reservation consists of nearly 16 million acres of land, or about 25,000 square miles, area almost the size of Vermont, New Hampshire and Massachusetts combined.

The reservation comprises 1,503,693 acres of wildlands, such as canyons and mesas.

An estimated 135,000 Navajos reside on or near the reservation.

SMOKING GOES UP

AUCKLAND (AP) — New Zealanders are smoking more. Tobacco consumed in 1970 was equal to 5.49 pounds a head against 5.17 pounds in 1969. Cigarette production rose from 4,675 million in 1969 to 5,082 million in 1970.
