TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION

90th Year NO. 241 GREENVILLE, N.C. FRIDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 8, 1971 12 Pages Today Price 10 Cents

Some Restraints Planned In Phase 2; Cooperation Is Key

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has outlined a second-phase attack on inflation, based on wage-and-price controls and "voluntary cooperation of the American people."

There will be no ceiling on profits. But Nixon said his administration will call for cancellation of price increases that might result in profit windfalls.

The President wants standby power to control interest rates and corporation dividends—but only "as a safeguard." He will ask Congress shortly for that authority and for a one-year extension of the Economic Stabilization Act under which he froze prices, wages and rents on Aug. 15, and on which he is basing Phase 2.

He announced in a nationally televised address Thursday night that he will appoint two new quasi-independent bodies — a 15-member Pay Board with three representatives each from labor, industry and the public, and a Price Commission of seven public members to administer price-wage-and-rent controls when the current 90-day freeze ends Nov. 13.

The President's anti-inflation goal, said the White House, is to hold consumer prices to a 2-to-3-per-cent annual rate of rise by the end of 1972.

Some economists said that could mean a guideline of 5 to 6 per cent a year for average wage increases, but the White House did not confirm that estimate.

Nixon's address disappointed many who had hoped to hear from him the new guidelines for permitted wage-and-price increases. Officials explained: The guidelines don't yet exist. The new boards still must draft them.

The Cost of Living Council headed by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally, will keep the top-level supervisory role it is exercising over Phase 1. The two new boards will be "quasi-autonomous," a White House official said, but the council can overrule their price or wage criteria if it feels they would not meet the anti-inflation goal.

Reaction to the presidential message generally was restrained. Economists said they found his battle plans encouraging but probably hard to administer. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said the President "has done what he feels he had to do," but it called for return to "a free economy without inflation" as soon as possible.

Labor's reaction was almost nil. AFL-CIO President George Meany and many other top union leaders simply refused to comment. Even so, Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans said he is confident Meany, a persistent critic of Nixon's economic policies, will be asked to serve on the Pay Board.

Members of Congress indicated they plan some rewriting of the stabilization law, instead of granting Nixon's request for a simple extension. But some indicated there was a scarcity of Capitol Hill comment on Phase 2 because the lawmakers didn't see much to comment about.

Profits will not be controlled, Nixon said, because "higher profits in the American economy would be good for every person in America.

"Windfall profits, however, are quite another matter," he went on.

"When wages and other costs are held down, even though prices are also held down, circumstances could arise in some cases that might generate exorbitant profits," Nixon said. He disposed of congressional proposals for an excess-profits tax with the next sentence:

"In the few cases where this happens, rather than tax such profits, the Price Commission's policy will be that business should pass along a fair share of its cost savings to the consumer by cutting prices."

Asked whether that means a policy of rolling back prices to curb excessive profits, a White House official replied: "Yes."

Nixon said he does not expect to use the requested standby power to control interest and dividends. And while the Phase 2 controls will be backed up by the strong court-enforcement provisions which have prevailed during the freeze, Nixon said, "We will rely primarily on the good faith and voluntary cooperation of the American people.

"But we will not hestiate to take action against any part of the economy that fails to comply," he added. Another top official said privately: "We think the possibility of sanctions is the thing that makes voluntarism work."

News Briefs

A Blow To Tradition

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State University students have decided to do away with an old college tradition — the homecoming queen.

The Student Senate voted 32-24 Wednesday night not to provide funds for a queen contest this year.

The student newspaper, The Technician, said in an editorial this week that "on a large university campus, the selection of an ideal female based on an examination of her picture is neither relevant nor dignified.

"Any woman who would subject herself to such exploitation ought to be run off campus, not idealized, " it added.

Student Body President Gus Gusler said he was "overwhelmed and very happy" about the Student Senate's decision.

"The homecoming queen tradition has been dying for the past several years and there is now very little interest among students or alumni," Gusler said.

Assaulter Sentenced

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Roderick Kirby, a 19-year-old black civil rights activist, has been sentenced to a year in a youthful offenders' camp after being convicted Thursday of assaulting a policeman following a high school football game.

Fight among spectators at the game last Friday night were followed by almost a week of racial violence in this port city.

Kirby, assistant pastor of the youth-oriented Church of the Black Messiah, was released on $500 bond after filing notice that he would appeal the state District Court conviction to Superior Court.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. Ben Chavis, 24, was arrested Wednesday night.

Foes Prepare Inquiry

SAIGON (AP) — Senate opponents of President Nguyen Van Thieu began efforts today to create a special committee to investigate rigging allegations in last Sunday's presidential election.

Sen. Vu Van Mau, leading Senate spokesman for the anti-government An Quang Buddhists, told the Senate: "The Vietnamese people don't believe the results.

"If the committee found the elections to have been dishonest, then President Thieu should resign to pave the way for a new election."

Charges that the election was rigged arose after the vote counted reported that Thieu, running unopposed, collected 94.3 per cent of the votes cast.

The government confiscated editions of eight Saigon dailies and suspended two Vietnamese news agencies—some of them for speculating that the vice president-elect had tried to commit suicide, government sources said.

Accompanying Nixon

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — President Nixon, who will attend a tribute to Billy Graham in the 53-year-old evangelist's native city of Charlotte next Friday, will be accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and his long-time friend, Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, sponsors of the even: have announced.

The Charlotte Chamber of Commerce said Thursday Secretary of the Treasury John Connolly and Mrs. Connolly also may accompany the President, and Texas computer millionaire Ross Perot will attend.

The President and Graham are old friends. Both will speak at the Charlotte Coliseum, which seats 13,000, and the President will unveil a plaque honoring the evangelist. The plaque later will be placed at the home where Graham was born.

VC Release Prisoner

TAY NINH, Vietnam (AP) — An American soldier, held prisoner by the Viet Cong for more than two years, was set free early today and walked barefoot eight hours to safety at an allied base camp 70 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command in Saigon identified him as Staff Sgt. John C. Sexton Jr., 23, of Warren, Mich. They said he was captured Aug. 12, 1969, when his armored unit was ambushed near An Loc, about 15 miles from where he was freed.

He was pronounced in "generally good" condition after being examined at an Army hospital. But field officers who saw Sexton said he looked "a little drawn" and his feet were cut and sore.

There also was some indication he may have suffered an arm wound, they said.

Clean Up Most Of Spilled Oil

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Most of the 200,000 gallons of fuel oil spilled into the lower Saginaw Pier Wednesday had been cleaned up by today, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

Capt. Frederick Raumer, monitoring the cleanup operations, says booms have been laid at strategic locations.

Workmen used vacuum trucks to recover the oil at a rate of 15,000 gallons per hour.

ORDERS RETURN

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dock union leader Harry Bridges has ordered 15,000 West Coast longshoremen back to work Saturday in compliance with a court order obtained after President Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley Act.

McGrath, Dansey Sworn; City Council Approves Annexation

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The two new members of the City Council, Councilwoman Mrs. Mildred McGrath and Councilman William (Bill) Dansey took the oath of office in a brief ceremony prior to the beginning of the October meeting of the City Council last night.

Judge Charles Whedbee administered the oath.

Today Greenville is 5.3 acres larger and has gained a few more people as the result of the council's approval of annexation of that amount of land adjacent to the Greenfield Terrace Subdivision. Approval followed some doubts on whether to stipulate that property owners would be required to provide curb and gutter prior to being accepted. The area was voted for annexation without such a stipulation. No objections were raised at the public hearing regarding this volunteer annexation.

In the matter of other annexations, public hearings will be held at two future dates. On October 28 a special call meeting has been scheduled for public hearing on areas designated as area five, north of Mumford Road, and area six, commonly referred to as the Dudley property, adjacent to the Pitt Fairgrounds, N. C. 11 and Tar River. Other areas under discussion for annexation will be considered at a public hearing at the regular meeting of the council on November 4.

Mayor S. Eugene West asked Mrs. McGrath, Dansey and John Taylor to work with Greenville Utilities Commission Director Charles Horne on a question raised at the meeting concerning installation of wooden utility poles along the site of new construction on Tenth Street. The question arose when Councilwoman Mrs. McGrath noted it was her understanding that a city ordinance called for placing utility wires underground. Dansey said it was his interpretation of the ordinance that underground requirements applied to widening of thoroughfares as well as for new construction. Councilman Percy Cox observed that the only time he could recall the Utilities Commission checking with the City Council on a decision of whether or not to go underground was in the case of 14th Street.

In connection with the Tenth Street project, council members approved placing of metal poles for traffic signals at two points — the intersection of Fifth and Tenth Streets and at College Hill Drive. The State Highway Commission had planned to use wooden poles but will honor a supplemental agreement to provide the city the $1,180 cost for two wooden poles to be applied toward the higher costs of metal poles. The State will provide signals and connections.

A report from the Green Mill Run Committee was presented. Because new members and several older members are not altogether familiar with past developments, Mayor West asked Cox to arrange for a council workshop to be followed by a meeting with representatives of the Corps of Engineers prior to taking further action on the report which calls for acceptance of the engineer plan with certain modifications.

A number of items were scheduled for public hearing for the November council meeting. These include rezoning of an area of Greenfield Terrace Subdivision; withdrawal from dedication of a portion of Eleventh Street; withdrawal from dedication of portions of East Eighth Street, Charles Street, East Seventh Street and a 20 foot alley, all related to the planned new construction at East Carolina university; and requests for a mobile home permit by Richard Grimes and Willie Lee Brannon.

Agenda items approved at last night's meeting included street assessment rolls for portions of May, Norris, Griffin, First and Thirteenth Streets; rezoning of the Harris Supermarket

Collision Injures Two Drivers

TWO HURT . . . Rescuers work to remove the driver of car from his vehicle at scene of wreck near Farmville early today. The driver of the truck was also injured. (Reflector Staff Photo)

FARMVILLE — Two persons were injured, one of them seriously, when a tractor-trailer truck and a car collided at Langs Cross Roads, where U.S. 264 and U.S. 264A intersect four miles East of here about 1:05 a.m. today.

Roy William Ownes, 65, of Columbia was reported in serious condition.

According to Highway Patrolman W. L. Thames, Owens was driving a car which allegedly pulled from U.S. 264A into the path of the East bound truck traveling along U.S. 264.

Driver of the truck, who was also taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of his injuries, was identified as Johnnie Dale Parrish, 21, of Wilson.

Trooper Thames said the truck and car traveled for 219 feet after the impact and came to rest in a roadside ditch.

Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $2,500 each.

Investigation of the mishap is continuing.

Jobless Figure Is Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment dipped slightly last month while total employment rose substantially, the government reported today.

Most of the gain, however, was among part-time workers and millions of Americans suffered a drop in weekly earnings because of a shorter average work week, the Labor Department said.

Total unemployment edged down by 221,000 to 4.8 million and the jobless rate inched down from 6.1 to 6 per cent of the nation's work force and the Bureau of Labor Statistics called it "virtually unchanged."

Total employment actually edged down 1.4 million, but on a seasonally adjusted basis the bureau figured it at an increase of 300,000 because it usually drops more as youths working for the summer return to school.

Friday Accepts Restructuring Plan Proposed By Gov. Scott

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott has won his battle to get the powerful University of North Carolina executive committee to drop its opposition to his plans for restructuring higher education.

UNC President William Friday announced Thursday — with the blessings of the executive committee — that he will ask his 100-member Board of Trustees at its meeting Oct. 18 to back a statewide governing board for all public universities.

Friday's announcement came at a meeting of a subcommittee of the legislature's Joint Higher Education Committee. The group was to meet again today to try to hammer out a restructuring bill to present to the General Assembly when it reconvenes Oct. 25.

Friday appeared before the subcommittee to suggest that the new higher education system be created by merging the state's nine regional university boards with the UNC Board of Trustees over a two-year period. This would give the initial governing board almost 200 members.

Friday told the group the state already has "an organization that could serve as the nucleus for a transition" in higher education, but he said it should not be viewed as merely "extending the Consolidated University."

He proposed that the 12-man boards of five of the regional universities be merged with the 100-member UNC board in 1971-72, with one trustee for each board going onto the 15-member UNC executive committee.

Judge Rouse Reduces Bonds For Frinks And Kirby

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Bonds for two protest leaders jailed in Farmville Tuesday night were reduced by Superior Court Judge Robert Rouse following a hearing in Greenville yesterday afternoon.

Three civil rights workers, Golden Frinks, George Kirby and Willie Fleming, were arrested on 44 counts each of contributing to the delinquency of minors Tuesday. The arrests stemmed from a Monday night protest march in Farmville, where 69 persons were jailed for parading without a permit.

All three had been held under $8,800 bond each — $200 on each of the 44 counts.

Judge Rouse, after hearing testimony, reduced Frinks and Fleming's bond to $2,200 each— $50 on each count — and Frinks was soon released from jail.

The judge refused to reduce Kirby's bond in light of evidence of a criminal record involving charges other than those stemming from civil rights protests.

Greenville attorney Jerry Paul in his bid to have his lients bond reduced said it was "excessively high" and questioned, "whether bond is to be used to kill a movement . . or to insure appearance in court."

He said they "can't be organizing a protest if in jail."

Frinks, Paul said, "looks forward to showing up in court . . ." where the constitutionality of the statutes can be challenged. "That's the way the game is played," he added.

Paul noted that "without the support of the people of Farmville, the demonstrations won't continue, there".

Assistant solicitor Jim Mills, arguing the case for the state, said the $200 bond in each case was not excessive.

Judge Rouse, in announcing the bond reduction said although the bond in each case is a reasonable bond "in totality it is too much," in the Frinks and Fleming cases.

Paul also asked the court to have the three defendants moved from the Farmville jail to the custody of the Pitt County Sheriff in Greenville.

He said conditions in the county jail are better and the three would be safer in Greenville.

The attorney noted that his clients had been "maced" (exposed to a form of tear gas) three times since being jailed in Farmville.

Fleming and Kirby remained in the Pitt County jail this morning.

District Deputies Visit Eastern Star Chapter

Greenville Chapter No. 149, Order of the Eastern Star, was honored Tuesday evening by a visit of District Deputies.

Mrs. Glenn Whitfield Garner, District Deputy Matron, and Roy E. Hatch, District Deputy Grand Patron, were making their official inspection visit at this stated meeting.

The eight o'clock meeting was called to order by Bryce W. Tharp, Worthy Patron, and was presided over by Mrs. Jean K. Tharp, Worthy Matron.

Distinguished guests present were: Mrs. Robbie Frederick, Grand Representative of Indiana in North Carolina; Mrs. Garner, District Deputy Grand Matron, and Roy Eugene Hatch, District Deputy Grand Patron, of the seventh district.

Several Grand Chapter committee members; two Worthy Matrons, Mrs. Marie Ray, Ayden Chapter No. 52, and Mrs. Daisy King, Kinston Chapter No. 53; Herbert Johnson, Worthy Patron, Kinston Chapter No. 53; and many past Matrons and past Patrons.

Guests were present from Ayden, Farmville, Goldsboro, Havelock, Kinston, Mount Olive, and Washington.

The Worthy Matron recognized Rudolph L. Garner, husband of the District Deputy Grand Matron.

The chapter room was decorated with motifs representing the theme chosen by the District Deputies for the year — "Friendship Trails." The Worthy Matron's chosen emblem for the year, a broken column, was standing in the west.

After commending the officers for their work, Mrs. Garner, D. D. G. M., explained the Worthy Grand Matron's Program for the year and exemplified some phases of the work. She closed her remarks by reading a poem on friendship. Hatch, D. D. G. P., then spoke briefly about the Masonic and Eastern Star home in Greensboro and Eastern Star projects to help support it.

A program was presented honoring the district deputies in verse and song. Honorary memberships were presented to them by Mrs. Nell Moore, Past Matron, and Mrs. Eva Corbett. They were presented gifts from the chapter by Mrs. Queenie Clark and Clifton Stokes. Following these presentations, a friendship program was presented, at which time small tokens were passed out to all present.

Mrs. Garner, D. D. G. M., announced that she had 25 year membership certificates for Mrs. Pecolia Ayers, Mrs. Bertha Branch, Mrs. Frances Forrest, Mrs. Erestine Garner, Alfred Kennedy, Mrs. Mary Barnhill Taylor, and Mrs. Pauline Whitehurst. Those of the group who were present were escorted to the east and presented with their certificates.

A love offering was collected to be used for maintenance of the Masonic and Eastern Star home, Greensboro, after which the meeting was closed.

Immediately following the meeting, a reception was held in the Sugg-Whichard dining room. The refreshment table was covered with a white organdy cloth centered by a small broken column in a display of grapes, flanked by silver candelabra.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pauline Mooney, Chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth Ewell, Mrs. Sara Shannonhouse, Mrs. Blanche Jackson, Mrs. Laura Little, Mrs. Mary Lucy Taylor, and Mrs. Eunice Tetterton.

There were approximately 80 present and they were greeted and made welcome by the following hospitality committee: Mrs. Nell Moore, P.M.; Mrs. Queenie Clark; Mrs. Pattie Mizelle; Mrs. Eva Corbett, Mrs. Hannah Brown; Rev. Adrian Brown; Mrs. Byrdie Williams; and Clifton Perry.

Not Meticulous In His Filing

CHAZE, France (WNS) — Leafing through documents at city hall, Suzanne Poutier, 83, was surprised to discover that she is officially listed as dead and buried. Mme. Andree Antoine, her neighbor, was upset to learn that she is listed as married to a lady in the next town. Investigation revealed that 47-year-old Hubert Vignais, secretary at city hall, had also mixed girls with boys in the military service records, had filed unopened government letters in the toilet, and had stashed checks intended for local citizens in the voting urns. Now fired, Vignais apologized, "I'm really a shoemaker but inherited this job from my father ten years ago. This position really should be filled by a woman. They are better than men when it comes to paper work."

CoupleObserving 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Van Wagenen, of 104 E. 13th St., are celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary today. They were married in Greenville on Oct 8.

They have five children, Mrs. W. E. Hall of Norfolk, Va., Mrs. Rodger Hill of Denver, Col., John A. Van Wagenen Jr. and Mrs. Gardner Carlyle of Greenville and Byron Van Wagenen of Ayden. They also have eight grandchildren and one great grandchild.

They will be honored tonight at a small family party.

A Good Weather Guesser Is Nobody's Witch

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: You probably will think I am putting you on, but I swear this is true. My wife can predict the weather better than any weather forecaster you ever heard of. No matter what the weatherman says, Dolly will say, "Well, we are going to have rain tomorrow," and sure enough we have rain!

Dolly not only predicts rain, but she can tell you if there is going to be a change in the weather 24 hours in advance. She says when her collarbone aches [it was broken once] it means we are going to have a change of weather, and when her corns start to hurt it means we will have rain or snow.

The guys who forecast the weather on the television are wrong every once in a while, but my Dolly's predictions are never wrong. Tell me, Abby, is she just a good guesser, or am I married to some kind of witch? DOLLY'S MAN

DEAR MAN: Neither. Dolly's no witch. Lots of people can predict the weather accurately by their aches and pains.

DEAR ABBY: We sent our children to a Christian camp about 70 miles from home. They were there for one week, but here is the problem: While they were there, their uncle went to the camp and took them out for an evening without asking us first. Well, I told him that I thought he had a lot of nerve to take our children out of camp without our permission and now his whole family [except my husband] are up in arms because I rebuffed this uncle.

Was I wrong or was this uncle? MAD IN MAINE

DEAR MAD: Unless you disapprove of this uncle, or have good reasons to believe that your children would have been better off in camp, I think you are needlessly over exercised.

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 years old and am so lonely for company I could die. I know I am no raving beauty, but lots of girls who aren't as nice-looking as I am seem to have boy friends. I have nice clothes, money in the bank and a new car with only one more payment to make, but there must be more to life than what I have.

I am 5 feet 2 and never go beyond 100 pounds. I have long hair, blonde, which I keep clean and curled. My complexion has cleared up and I don't use too much make-up. I am told I have a pleasant personality and I am not shy, neither am I forward, so what is wrong with me?

I really don't come into contact with many young people. I work in an isolated office with no one anywhere near my age. I've tried to get transferred to where the action is but there haven't been any openings. I feel like I am doomed to die alone. Please help me. Thanks for listening. It has helped to write this. I guess maybe I will just have to help myself.

22 AND LONELY

DEAR "22": Don't waste too much more time in an "isolated" office. Even if you have to work for less, get to where the action is.

Have you looked into young adult groups? Evening classes in art, religion [church groups?], politics or where ever your interests lie? How about volunteer work?

I never met a person, young or old, who didn't get more than he gave when he volunteered to help the helpless.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Three Traffic Collisions Here

One person was reported injured and an estimated $1,250 property damage set in three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police yesterday.

Heaviest damage resulted from an 11:45 a.m. mishap on Fifth Street 100 feet West of the Harding Street intersection and involved cars driven by Ernestine McPhail Wells, Route 3, Greenville and Rowland Preston Harris II, 23, of 1208 Charles St.

Damage to the Wells car was set at $200 while damage to the Harris car was placed at $350.

Harris was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Mark Hassell Smith Jr., 16, of Route 1, Greenville was reported injured when the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car operated by Lillie King Dantignac of 1305 Colonial Ave., about 7:20 p.m. at the intersection of Third and Tyson Streets.

Officers set damage to the motorcycle at $300 and placed damage to the car at $100. Mrs. Dantignac was charged with failing to yield the right of way.

An estimated $150 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 1:13 p.m. collision at the intersection of Paris Avenue and Chestnut Street.

Drivers involved were identified as Alice Elks Dail of Grimesland and Carolyn Bibbs Hardee of Route 1, Grimesland.

Miss Hardee was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Hold Rummage Sale Saturday

A rummage sale of fall clothes will be conducted at downtown Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. between the church and Gulf Station on Dickinson Avenue.

Sponsored by the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service, the sale will be headed up by Mrs. F. E. Lansche.

Plans Discussed At PTA Meeting

At the first South Greenville Elementary School PTA meeting of the new school year, 175 of 288 registered parents attended the event.

Plans for improving conditions at the school were discussed, with suggestions for projects such as painting the interior of the school and planting shrubbery mentioned. Persons willing to volunteer are asked to contact Mrs. Paul Erckman or Frank Layne in order to arrange a schedule for the projects. A supper later in the year to raise funds was approved.

Following the business meeting, parents toured the classrooms at South Greenville.

Tobacco Prices Remain Steady

FARMVILLE — Grade for grade prices yesterday were steady compared with previous sale days on the Farmville tobacco market this week, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

"More variegated grades of leaf were marketed than on any previous day this season," Williams said. "Leaf grades accounted for more than half of gross sales. Volume of cutter grades was lighter than on other days this week. The appearance of more unsound grades was noted. Some 588,286 pounds were sold for $472,421.01 for an average of $80.30 per hundred pounds. So far this season, 13,523,565 pounds have been sold for $10,779,563, an average of $79.71."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Eight of ♠

West got off to the only lead to give his side a chance today in defending against South's three no trump contract—but it was up to East to find the right answer or else his partner's inspiration would have gone for naught.

North jumped to three diamonds after his partner opened with one no trump. If partner has a four card major suit, he may be expected to show it at this point. When South merely returned to no trump, North graciously subsided.

West opened the eight of spades, the deuce was played from dummy and it is East's play to the first trick that makes or breaks the defense on the deal. The natural procedure appears to be to put in the ten, for altho this allows South to win the trick with the queen—by so doing, East retains the ace-jack behind dummy's king. On the other hand, if East plays the ace on the opening lead, it establishes three tricks in the suit for the declarer.

Observe the effect of permitting declarer to win the first trick. South leads the queen of diamonds at trick two for a finesse. East is in with the king, but even if he shifts to the jack of clubs, his opponent is in position to assume control of the proceedings. South merely puts up the ace and then cashes out five diamonds, three hearts, one spade and one club for 10 tricks.

East paused to assess the situation after his partner had made the opening lead and what impressed him most, was the imposing nature of dummy's diamond suit. With all the high cards appearing in the North hand opposite an opening no trump bidder, it did not take much thinking to visualize declarer being able to cash out at least nine tricks once the king of diamonds was dislodged.

The spade suit did not present nearly the threat that the diamonds did, so even tho he was establishing a few tricks for his opponent, East put up the ace of spades at trick one to shift to the jack of clubs—the only suit in which the defense had an opportunity to score quickly.

South played the ace of clubs and led the queen of diamonds for the finesse. East won the trick with the king and put the ten of clubs thru. There was no way that declarer could avoid losing three club tricks, which added to those taken in spades and diamonds, spelled a one trick setback on the deal.

Two Blasts In Belfast

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Two bomb blasts wrecked a three-story police station under construction in downtown Belfast today. No injuries were reported.

The explosions followed Britain's announcement Thursday that it would send three more battalions of soldiers—1,750 men—to Northern Ireland to fight the outlawed Irish Republican Army and help keep the peace between the feuding Protestant majority and the Roman Catholic minority.

The agreement to send more troops was hammered out in London by prime minister Brian Faulkner of Northern Ireland and Britain's prime minister, Edward Heath.

The additional troops will bring British strength in the province to 13,850, the highest it has been since the army took control of security in Northern Ireland in August 1969.

The Defense Ministry said the troops will move from bases in Britain starting Oct. 16.

They are to enable Gen. Harry Tuzo, British commander in the province, to strengthen control of the 260-mile border with the Irish Republic, which security officials say is the IRA's main source of arms and explosives.

Baby Finally Loses His Fight For Life

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Ty White, described last month by his doctors as "the baby who refused to die," fought many battles to survive. He lost the last one.

Ty, who would have been five months old Oct. 15, died Wednesday night at Memorial Hospital Medical Center. Cause of death was tentatively listed as pneumonia with congestive heart failure.

"We just hoped for one miracle too many," said a hospital spokesman.

Bolstered by what Dr. Selden C. Beebe termed a "psychological will to live," Ty had survived four operations, two near-fatal diseases, surgical complications and almost 50 blood transfusions.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White Jr. of nearby Westminster, Ty was born 2½ months prematurely by Caesarian section last May 15. He was hospitalized until Sept. 16 when he was described as apparently normal and released.

However, he contracted pneumonia and was returned to the hospital six days later. Additional tests showed the youngster's right pulmonary artery had not developed properly, halting blood flow from the heart to the right lung.

Dr. Harry W. Orm, director of the hospital children's center, said Ty's heart was overworked from trying to push blood through the defective artery.

CBD But One Of The Projects

The suit brought against the city by former Mayor Frank M. Wooten and others has been dismissed by the Supreme Court and hopefully this will clear the way for continuing to move along on the Central Business District project.

Actually the Redevelopment Commission was not restrained from continuing the work while the suit was pending and planning and some acquisition has been going on for some time.

Priority has been given to clearing the right-of-way for the loop street around the south side of the downtown area and some property has already been acquired. Authorities are hoping that bids can be let for a portion of the loop early next year.

It is important to remember that the CBD is but one of a number of public projects now underway that will improve traffic conditions throughout the city. All contracts have been let by the State Highway Commission for a multilane Greenville Boulevard (U.S. 264). Work is now underway on E. Tenth Street which will make this a multilane facility to Contanche Street. A public hearing is scheduled on the improvements to Charles Street from Greenville Boulevard and then on a new right-of way to Cotanche at Tenth and this project, too, will be multilane.

Then it is expected that the city will widen Cotanche from Tenth to the new loop street. If this section is four laned then Greenville will have a boulevard system giving quick access between the downtown area and the Pitt Plaza-Kings-Kroger's shopping areas. People coming from the east will aslo have easy access to downtown by way of Tenth Street to Cotanche and then on the loop street.

All these various projects must move along together if we are to have adequate arteries to move traffic to all the shopping areas.

Greenville suffered through some lean years insofar as highway projects were concerned. Now we have the good fortune of seeing a number of badly needed projects underway at the same time.

The street work in the Central Business district is very much a part of the overall thoroughfare system which is currently being developed throughout the city. We would not wish to see any delay in carrying out the city's portion of the construction.

Craftsman Has Earned Repute

By BRYAN HAISLIP

ROCKY MOUNT — A craftsman loves his work, and works for the love of his craft.

P. A. Moore is a master craftsman. From the inward vision of his imagination and the skill of his hands, he fashions wood from raw material into finished articles of furniture with enduring beauty and usefulness.

BRYAN HAISLIP

Sometimes it seems he's among the last of his kind. It's harder and harder to find help for the cabinet shop his father started 50 years ago.

"Too many people are just making hours at their job. They get no pride or pleasure out of what they're doing," he said.

"That's what's wrong with the country today. At least, that's the way I look at it."

Moore, rugged as a slab of walnut, is not effusive with words. The shine of his eyes and the caress of his fingertips on a table's surface tell more eloquently how he feels about his occupation. He wouldn't do anything else.

Reputation For Excellence

His work has won wide recognition, in North Carolina and beyond. Three tall, glass-doored bookcases made by him enhance the Governor's Mansion in Raleigh. He has repaired and put in shape antiques for many restorations, as well as for private individuals and dealers.

Among discerning owners of antique furniture throughout the state, the concensus is that if you've got a valued piece which needs repair, the man to see is P. A. Moore.

"One good thing about this line of business is that you get the chance to work for the nicest people in the country," said Moore. People come first as customers, and come back as friends.

Many small businesses have trouble collecting, and carry overdue accounts on the books. "That's never been a problem for me," said Moore. "The people I've worked for pay on delivery or when I send a bill."

Moore grew up on a farm in Halifax County. His father took up the carpentry trade, doing some contract building and working as a trim carpenter.

Baby Carriage Era

The family settled in Rocky Mount in the 1920s. In those days, every household had a big carriage to wheel the baby in. The vehicles often needed repair, and the senior Moore opened a shop for the purpose.

Eventually, the auto and the stroller ended the baby carriage era. Moore's father made the transition to antiques, repairing, buying and selling, and making reproductions.

Coming along through high school, Moore worked in the shop but his heart wasn't in it. He got serious when he took on the nitty-gritty responsibilities of making a living. His experience as a cabinetmaker, he said, parallels the 35 years of his marriage.

Mastery comes slowly. "You have to work at it a long time before you can do it right," he explained.

His work has the perfection of detail and elegance of line that distinguishes furniture of the 18th century, when the craft was at its zenith. In time, his exact copies may themselves turn up in antique shops.

Moore has the craftsman's instinctive appreciation for his peers, though separated by time and culture. Antique furniture gives him pleasure, and kindles the desire to match its craftsmanship.

Chinese ceramics and art objects are favorite accessories. "I love oriental things," he said. "The Chinese were the smartest people who ever lived."

He Recognizes Quality

His eyes for quality is employed on buying trips, less frequently now than in the past, for the stock of antiques he offers for sale. Over the years, he's observed a steep and steady rise in the market. Some prices have gone up three times in five years, he said.

That makes antiques a prime investment, Moore noted. "Land and art are the two best investments you can make," he advised. "They aren't making any more of either one."

The artist's joy is creation, not possession. It gives him no qualms to sell a piece he has found or made. "I probably would have sold some out of the house, if my wife hadn't put her foot down," he chuckled.

Loving what you make, and making it for someone you love, is the best reward of all. Not only his own house, but those of two married daughters (the third and youngest is still at home) are embellished with furniture from the Moore workship.

How long he can keep the shop going is the question. Materials are scarce and expensive. Three men who worked with him all his 35 years in business have been lost by retirement and poor health, and replacements are hard to find.

"I don't know how much longer I can keep it going," he said. "But, then, there's nothing else I know how to do."

Pres. Nixon's Biggest Win

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The intensity of President Nixon's commitment to his new economic policy (NEP) was revealed when he secretly appealed to eight Southern Democratic Congressmen to support him in Monday's House vote on his six-month delay of a huge government pay increase.

In total privacy, Mr. Nixon invited the powerful chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, Rep. George Mahon of Texas, and other influential Southerners to the White House to hear this warning:

A House veto of his six-month postponement (from Jan. 1 to July 1) of $2.6 billion in higher Federal pay would leave his Phase Two wage-control program in shambles.

To some of those present, Mr. Nixon's warning dramatized a hard political fact: if the House, led by the Democratic establishment, voted to permit a single union (the Federation of Government Employees) to pierce the still-secret Phase Two wage formula, Mr. Nixon would have penetrating ammunition in next fall's Presidential campaign. He could blame the Democrats for possible failure of his whole anti-inflation program.

With this argument by Mr. Nixon added to his own passionate fears about runaway government spending, Mahon came out of that White House meeting with his mind made up to buck his party leadership. His decision was an essential element in the vote that defeated the veto effort, 207 to 174.

Although that private session in the Oval Office was followed by a stern Presidential warning from Key Biscayne, most of the vicious battle leading up to the crucial vote was hidden from public view.

To grease the ways for the veto of the six-month pay delay, the Democratic leadership secretly decided to go all out for a bill by Democratic Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona. Udall's shrewd tactic was a simple bill to restrict the government pay increase to whatever wage-control guidelines Mr. Nixon decrees for Phase Two of the NEP.

Without warning, Democrats on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, where Udall ranks third, were summoned by House Speaker Carl Albert to a Sept. 27 committee meeting and asked to vote immediately on the Udall bill. There were no hearings. Speed was essential because the Udall bill would have to be ready for floor action on Oct. 6, the scheduled day of the vote to veto the six-month pay delay.

Every single Democrat showed up for that committee session on Monday morning, a day when most members are back home campaigning. The only Republican present, Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa, complained bitterly but was overwhelmed.

Albert's strategy backfired, however. The Republican leader, Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, contrived to force the vote on the veto on Oct. 4, two days earlier than planned. That ploy caught the Udall bill still in the House Rules Committee while the veto resolution was on the floor.

But stranger still was the role of labor. Although AFL-CIO president George Meany is fiercely opposed to rigid wage guidelines for Phase Two, labor lobbyists swarmed the House corridors late last week drumming up support for the Udall bill containing those very guidelines.

They wanted the Udall bill only as a wedge to help pass

Strength For Today

PRIVILEGE AND PERIL

Medical healing a century or more ago was almost as primitive as it had been a thousand years ago. Anesthesia has been a recently discovered blessing. The scientific discoveries of medicine were for centuries hidden under a blanket of darkness.

Communication was indescribably slow until recent decades. George Washington served his second term as President in Philadelphia and as often as possible during his term of office paid a visit to his beloved Mount Vernon, only a short distance from the present city of Washington. Yet the best time Washington ever made on his journey from Philadelphia to Mount Vernon was six days.

Peace had been signed following the War of 1812, yet news moved so slowly that the battle of New Orleans was fought with a large loss of life on both sides before the knowledge of the signing of the peace treaty reached this country.

We make progress, but we make it slowly. President Washington was tremendously interested in canals and did everything in his power to multiply them throughout the new republic over which he presided.

To be living in the twentieth century in a free country and with our hopes for a better world growing each day, we should render thanks to God. Anyone who does not like American and its ways should be given an opportunity to go somewhere else and live. How would any of us like to live in Russia or in any communist country?

This is a privileged age but a perilous age also. We have to take privilege and peril and make the best of them — and that best is something about which we can be truly thankful and hopeful.

A Washington Exodus?

WASHINGTON — The Washington Senators baseball team, after playing in the Capital for 71 years, has left for Texas. The elation in Dallas and Fort Worth over this turn of events can only be ascribed to the fact that no one in that part of the country has ever seen the Senators play.

The reason for the exodus was poor attendance, which Mr. Robert Short, the owner of the team, said was costing him a fortune. What worries people here is that the Senators may be the first of many institutions that might decide to pull out.

Perhaps in the next few years we will be reading the following press releases:

WASHINGTON, D. C. — House Speaker Carl Albert announced today that he was moving Congress to Fort Wayne, Ind., at the end of the season. "The Washington fans just don't seem to want to support Congress," Albert said at a press conference. "At our last night session we had only five people in the gallery and our cafeteria has been running a deficit for two years. Fort Wayne is very excited about having a major branch of the U. S. government in its town, and we're looking forward to playing there for many years to come."

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The British Embassy has just made it official. It is moving from Washington, D. C., to Palm Beach, Fla. A spokesman for the embassy said the decision was made reluctantly by the ambassador but the turnouts at the Queen's birthday part reception had been so poor that he had no choice. "It's obvious to us that Washington doesn't want a British Embassy, despite all the talk," the spokesman said. "We've had offers from all over the country to move our team and we've decided on Palm Beach because they've guaranteed a full turnout for every one of our receptions."

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Mayor Byron Lovemaster has just confirmed that Las Vegas has finalized a deal to bring the U. S. Supreme Court to Las Vegas. The mayor told Hank Greenspun of the Las Vegas Sun that he considers the Supreme Court one of the best tourist attractions in the country, as it will bring in lawyers and defendants from all over the land.

"We sent a delegation to Washington, and we think we made the best presentation. Miami and San Juan, P. R., both made bids for the court, but we won out when we promised to build an all-weather Supreme Court building with Astroturf in each of the justices' chambers. We can get 50,000 people in the new court building at one time."

(Chief Justice Burger confirmed Mayor Lovemaster's announcement. "We're going to miss Washington," he said on the Today Show. "But while most people here said they were behind the Supreme Court, they wouldn't come out for our decision. Las Vegas sounds like a great Supreme Court town.")

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A blue-ribbon delegation consisting of lawyer Edward Bennett Williams, Mayor Walter Washington and City Council Chairman Gilbert Hahn paid a visit to President Nixon this morning in a last-minute effort to persuade him not to move the White House to Lincoln, Neb. Mr. Nixon said he had no choice. The people in Washington did not

Other Editors Say Litter Cost Up

(Smithfield Herald)

Here's a rising tax that's welcome. Well, it may not be exactly a tax. It's a penalty — the fine imposed on people who litter North Carolina's highways. On September 1, the littering fine advances from $50 to $200.

Raising the fine won't mean much unless the law receives more enforcement than it has in past years. The evidence that the law's enforcement has been grossly inadequate lies along many highway stretches throughout the state.

An increase in enforcement at least commensurate to the increase in the fine for littering is desirable. Perhaps a four-fold step-up in arrests, coupled with assessment of $200 instead of $50 fines against offenders, might begin to get the message across to the careless defacers of highway cleanliness and beauty that they are doing something wrong and their wrongdoing can be quite costly to their pocketbooks or bank accounts.

The litterers not only spoil the landscape. They also are adding an extra burden to the shoulders of North Carolina taxpayers, since the State is spending approximately $3.5 million annually to clean up the mess made by the litterbugs.

Highway maintenance crews, we are told, do most of the clean-up work twice a year, in the spring and fall. The litter crop is a bumper crop across the state every year. In one highway division alone last spring, maintenance men picked up 698 loads of trash.

The tax — or penalty — on littering should be high enough (and collected enough) to pay for clearing up the paper, the beverage cans, and the rest of the garbage deposited beside our roads. Unlike most regular tax impositions, this tax is based upon the long-range objective of smaller and smaller tax collections accompanying smaller and smaller deposits of trash along the highways.

The rising tax on littering doesn't have to be a burden on anyone. The people can avoid the pinch of it by doing their part to keep North Carolina clean and beautiful.

Prey On Little Enterprisers

By ELMER ROESSNER

An inventive fellow divised a new gadget. Let's say it was a device that, when attached to a television set, would silence the taped laughter but not live-audience laughter. A patent attorney agreed to apply for a patent.

The inventor started making his gadget in his garage. He got a local television store to sell it and he displayed it at the next electronics show. He got quite a few orders from dealers and spent the next month enlarging his garage, getting a few more machines, and training new workers.

The day he got production stepped up, he saw an advertisement for "Hush Doggies, the device that silences canned TV laughter." He rushed out to buy one. He didn't have far to go, almost every TV store in town has a Hush Doggie. So, as he was soon to learn, did half the TV stores in the nation. And the device was exactly like his. He raced to his patent attorney.

No Recourse

"So the knockers-off took you!" the attorney remarked. "You should have sold your idea to a big manufacturer."

"I tried, but they would give me only peanuts. I am going to sue."

"It won't do you much good," said the patent attorney. "It will cost you all your savings and two years of your life, and even then you may not win. And if you do win, you'll get a judgment against a company with no assets."

"But the packaging shows this is made by a big corporation."

"Probably under a contract with a shadow company. I can refer you to an attorney-at-law if you wish. But my advice is to invent something else."

The inventor is just one of hundreds whose invention is knocked off every year.

The Hunters

This is the time of year for the merchandise shows, for hardware, premiums, stationery, gifts, boutique items, notions and electronics, local, regional and national. And the knockers-off prowl them. Sometimes they come with credentials from a small retail store, sometimes as writers for nonexistant magazines, sometimes as representatives of imaginary buying offices.

When they spot a new item that smells like fast sales they rush off and have the same gadget made with a new name and a new design. And it is made by a manufacturer that has a fast-moving, national sales organization.

Sometimes, the manufacturer himself is the knocker-offer, operating through a dummy company that will disappear in six months.

Sometimes the inventor will sue. Sometimes he will get a judgment or a settlement when he can prove the manufacturer and the distributor liable.

But most of the time he has been knocked off.

Boyle Views Life

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The thing a woman who has just turned 30 envies and resents most in life is a bubbly, enthusiastic girl who has just turned 20. The older woman is too forcibly reminded of something that has gone from her own world forever.

One of the hardest things to borrow in an office is a shoe lace.

The prettiest sight on earth is a red-haired, hazel-eyed girl in a green bikini fussing with a broken strap.

The younger generation is probably the first one in the history of America of which it could be said that probably a majority never in their lifetime had said "giddyap" or "whoa" to a real, live horse.

You have to admire the courage—if not the common sense of any man who tries to tell a funny story the first day the dentist installs a new set of dentures in his mouth.

Few things annoy a man more than watching a woman put on mascara. It raises dark doubts in his mind as to whether anything about her or women in general is entirely free of phoniness.

Poet John Masefield once wrote that days that make us happy also make us wise. Most people, however, tend to feel the other way. It is the bruises we get, not the pleasures we have, that turn us all into unwilling philosophers.

Here's a difference between the sexes. When a man is flustered and wants to avoid looking self-conscious, he fumbles at his pockets or frowns and fidgets with his wrist watch. A woman merely smiles vaguely

Tutorial Reading Program Now Recruiting Helpers

CHECKING TEACHING KITS . . . during a coffee at the home of Mrs. Kay Whichard are (left to right) Mrs. Whichard, chairman and Aycock Jr. High representative; Mrs. Elizabeth Leconte, executive secretary of the Pitt County Mental Health Association, which sponsors the tutoring program; Mrs. Mary Wasson, Wahl-Coates representative; Mrs. Carole Bowman, Eastern representative; and Mrs. Ann Whitehurst, Elmhurst representative. "Special helpers" for the Greenville elementary and junior high school children who need extra attention to correct reading problems are now being recruited, according to Mrs. Kay Whichard, chairman of the City Schools' Tutorial Reading Program.

A workshop for parents who wish to participate will be held next Tuesday from 9 a.m. to noon at St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Letters advising parents as to what the program involves and asking them to attend the workshop and participate in the program were mailed Monday, Mrs. Whichard said.

The project, which proved successful during its first trial from January through May of last school year, is an effort to have one adult assist one child in need of extra attention in learning to read better. The intersensory reading method developed by Dr. Cecelia Pollock was and will continue to be used for the elementary school children.

Dr. Pollock's "Hip Reader" developed for junior high or older students with reading difficulties will be used in the new Junior High School extension of the program., Mrs. Whichard is representing the junior high program.

Representatives for the Elementary Schools are Mrs. Ann Whitehurst, Elmhurst; Mrs. Carolyn Daughtry, South Greenville; Mrs. Mary Wasson, Wahl-Coates; Mrs. Carol Bowman, Eastern; Mrs. Raymond Barnes, Third Street; and Mrs. Jean Cashwell, Sadie Saulter. These are the persons with whom anyone wishing to help children at a certain school should get in touch.

Tutor and student meet twice a week for an hour.

Children in the program are referred by teachers and are screened by counselors. Mrs. Ann Harrison, who coordinates the program, said a mean gain of seven months of reading achievement was averaged by participating students at the end of last year's program. Twenty-five of the 75 children showed significant gains of one year or more during the four months the program was in operation.

Teachers reported many positive results from the time each child spent with his "special helper." "Not only were there gains in reading, but attendance became more regular and children's self concepts improved," one teacher commented.

A tutor said, "I feel the program was beneficial for me because it gave me deeper insight into the ways children learn and increased my appreciation of individual differences. Of course, my relationship with the child and my pleasure at seeing the child progress was enriching, too," she added.

the veto measure. Then the Udall measure would have been quietly buried in the Senate and the full increase for government workers — estimated at above 5.5 per cent — would have taken effect Jan. 1 no matter what guidelines are ordered by the President.

Strangest of all is the fact that government workers led every single national category in percentage salary hikes for 1969 and 1970. At 14.6 per cent, their average wage hikes have been almost twice the nearest competitor — state and local government employes — and far above manufacturing.

It is true that much of this record-high wage increase was designed as catch-up pay. But if Mr. Nixon had lost the House vote, no union would have settled for less in Phase Two than the Federal employes.

Now, having held the line on the toughest economic issue he has faced since his NEP was proclaimed, Mr. Nixon is immeasurably stronger for other battles.

A wife who boasts that she never lets her husband smoke a cigar in the house is merely cutting off her nose to spite her face. She is simply giving him another good sound reason for staying away from home.

Most of the people who say they like to read a good book over and over are fibbing. When you discover a really good book, your impulse isn't to keep it to yourself. The first thing you want to do is lend it to a friend so he can enjoy it, too. And since it is well known that good friends never return a book, you never get a chance to read a good book more than once. Most of the books that stay on your shelves are dogs—so bad that no one will borrow them.

Monday Will Be Postal Holiday

Greenville Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills today reminded the main post office and the ECU station will be closed on Monday, Columbus Day.

The regular holiday schedule will be in effect, with no deliveries by rural or city carriers and no window service.

However, Mills said Special Delivery mail will be delivered within the city, lock box service will be provided, and a city-wide collection from all street letter boxes will begin at 5:00 p.m. All outgoing mail will be dispatched as usual.

appreciate a President in their town, and he blamed criticism by the news media for the lack of support for the present Administration. Mr. Nixon said:

"It's always a tragedy when a city loses a White House, but there are other things that have to be taken into consideration. Nebraska has the No. 1 football team in the country, and I believe a President of the United States should always be in the town with the No. 1 team."

His dejected face slumps under a shabby hat. We don't know who he is.
But we know what he is.
He is a MAN. One of us!
To his loved ones he may be a disappointment. To himself he may be a failure. To society he may be useless.
But to God he is a SOUL – like each of us!
And therefore his whole life can change . . . when one day he'll discover the power and strength and hope with which every soul is endowed.
Quietly, behind the closed doors of a pastor's study, the Church is daily helping men to come to grips with their problems. Sunday by Sunday its pulpits are imparting faith and courage for those secret inner struggles.
The century-old Christian concept of the dignity of man has never rested simply on who and what we are. It is founded on the vision of what – with God's help – we can become.

DAV Plans Selling 'Forget-Me-Nots'

Saturday the Disabled American Veterans Chapter No. 37 of Greenville will have a "forget-me-not" campaign in Greenville and surrounding communities, offering forget-me-not flowers for donations.

Funds realized from sale of the flowers of remembrance will be used by the D.A.V. chapter locally in rehabilitation and service programs for disabled veterans, according to Johnnie P. Pearson, commander.

D. A. V. is a national organization, organized in 1920 and Congressionally chartered in 1932 to work for the physical, mental, social, and economic rehabilitation of the more than 300,000 veterans disabled during World War I. Today there are more than 300,000 active members throughout the nation, veterans of all America's 20th Century wars.

Chapter 37 is newly organized and is the first chapter in the First Congressional District. Roland Smith of Grifton is district commander. Local officers besides Cmdr. Pearson, are Woodrow Boyd Sr. and James Briley Jr., vice commanders; C. H. Branton, adjutant; and Milton Adams, treasurer.

Response to a membership drive from throughout the First District has been overwhelmingly great, Cmdr. Pearson said.

property on South Memorial Drive from highway commercial to shopping center zoning; adoption of amendments to Housing Ordinance No. 207 which results in the ordinance meeting state building code standards; renewal for one year of mobile home permits for William F. Bullock, Sr., and George P. James; and approval of renewal of an ordinance granting the Raleigh City Coach Lines a franchise to operate a transportation service for students and staff of East Carolina University.

Petitions for curb and gutter and paving were accepted and placed on the chronological list to be accomplished for portions of Church Street, Allen Street and Gum Road.

Also approved at the monthly meeting were an ordinance adopting a container policy for the city; overtime pay in the amount of $473.00 for policemen for time spent in court over a three month period; and the lease-purchase of a container truck and a front end loader for the Public Works Department.

The council approved a resolution designating the Mid-East Economic Development Commission as the Regional Lead Agency for Region "Q" to which Pitt County and the City of Greenville belong.

Pay Hike Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has won a crucial congressional victory for his anti-inflation program—Senate agreement on his decision to delay federal workers' pay raises.

Hours before Nixon announced the machinery to administer Phase 2 of his economic program Thursday night, the Senate voted 51 to 32 to back the President's six-month postponement of wage boosts for more than four million federal workers, including the military.

The vote was the first in the Senate on any phase of Nixon's new economic policy. The House rejected a resolution last Monday, 207 to 174, to override the President's decision to delay the raises from Jan. 1 to July 1. Either chamber of Congress could have overruled the decision.

Nixon had said delaying the pay boosts to save $1.3 billion over the six months was necessary to his economic program.

Seven Slain In Sept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven police officers were killed in the line of duty in September, raising to 87 the number of county and state law enforcement officers gunned down by armed criminals during the first nine months of this year, the FBI announced today.

The monthly figure compares to nine killed during September 1970 and 76 slain during the first nine months of last year.

Ninety-seven per cent of the killings were committed with firearms, the FBI said, and handguns accounted for three-quarters of those deaths.

Of the officers killed this year, the FBI said, 14 died in "ambush type attacks," 18 were killed answering robbery and burglary calls, 11 died making traffic stops and the others performing other types of police duties.

Church Union Consultation To Begin Sunday

A Consultation on Church Union will be held in the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Conference Room for four consecutive Sundays, beginning this Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Participants will include local United Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Disciples of Christ, and AME Zion Churches. Those present will examine a document designed to unite the denominations and will voice their opinion of the points made in it.

This movement for church union began in Texas about 10 years ago and has had a national outreach, including into Eastern North Carolina.

The public is invited to each of the discussions planned for Oct. 10, 17, 24, and 31.

Massive Water Lines Opened

GORMAN, Calif. (AP) — After 20 years of planning and building with a price tag of $3 million, Southern California is getting its first water from the massive California Water Project.

Gov. Ronald Reagan shouted, "Start the motors," Thursday and water was pushed up 2,000-foot mountains here and propelled toward the south.

From start to finish, the water will travel 444 miles through the Tehachapi Mountain, starting 100 miles north of Sacramento in a manmade river.

The northern keystone is the giant Oroville Dam on the Feather River. In the south, farmlands and more than 120 cities will be helped.

Bucs Seek Second Win Against Richmond

Running Back Les Strayhorn

The University of Richmond hasn't won a football game this year. But they are coming into East Carolina University's Ficklen Stadium as the favorite in Saturday night's game.

The Spiders have bowed to North Carolina, West Virginia and Boston College, three of the tougher opponents on the East Coast. They have allowed 68 points, while collecting only three, on a field goal against West Virginia.

They rank eighth in total offense and rushing in the Southern Conference, and are sixth in passing. They are last in scoring. Defensively, they are fifth in total defense, seventh in rushing and first in passing defense, and fifth in defense against the score.

But they are the favorite.

East Carolina comes into the game with its first victory behind it, a 31-25 win over The Citadel last weekend, snapping a three-game losing streak. That streak is to Toledo, William & Mary and Bowling Green, three teams that go into Saturday's games without a blemish on their record.

And they are the underdogs.

But Coach Sonny Randle isn't unhappy about his position at all. And he admits that Richmond will be a tough nut to crack.

"I thought we got a real fine effort on the part of each and every one of our players who got into the game last week," Randle said. "But we still made four mistakes that cost us dearly."

Randle made a total of eight changes in his starting lineup on offense and defense, but he said that he didn't feel that this meant the difference. "In some cases, the old starter got back in there and played well," he said. He'll stick with the same starting lineups, however.

Randle admitted that he was awfully worried there at the end of the game when the Pirates failed to control the ball and The Citadel came roaring back from a 31-17 deficit and nearly pulled out a victory. "I hate to keep talking about the offense and defense separately, but with eight minutes to go we had a good lead and the ball and just didn't do anything on our last two series. I guess we just didn't realize how important it was to keep the ball."

But Randle is greatly pleased with the way the four Pirate running backs are coming along. He feels the Bucs are in a unique position to have four of such caliber on the team. "And we get a tremendous reaction from them. They don't mope when the other two are in there, but just chomp at the bit to get back on the field. And we can mix them up in any combination and still get results."

Randle said that Les Strayhorn, who led the rushing and scored a touchdown that got the Bucs going in the first half, has come into his own. "He's been coming along all the time, but he's had to feel his way. He has the potential to be a great back, and when he puts it in gear ... Billy Wallace did some great blocking out there as well as running with the ball. Rusty Scales gave us some big plays.

"Just having (Carlester) Crumpler on the field puts us in gear. He does things that no one else can," Randle added.

Randle noted that the team spirit this week is excellent. "We're not cocky. We don't have anything to be cocky about, and we're going to have to hit hard this week to win."

Randle pointed out that Richmond had West Virginia as close as 6-3 late in the third period before the Mountaineers broke the game open. "They're coming out of three real tough games. Remember that last year, they had lost five in a row coming into our game, and they beat us 38-12. They could just as easily do it again."

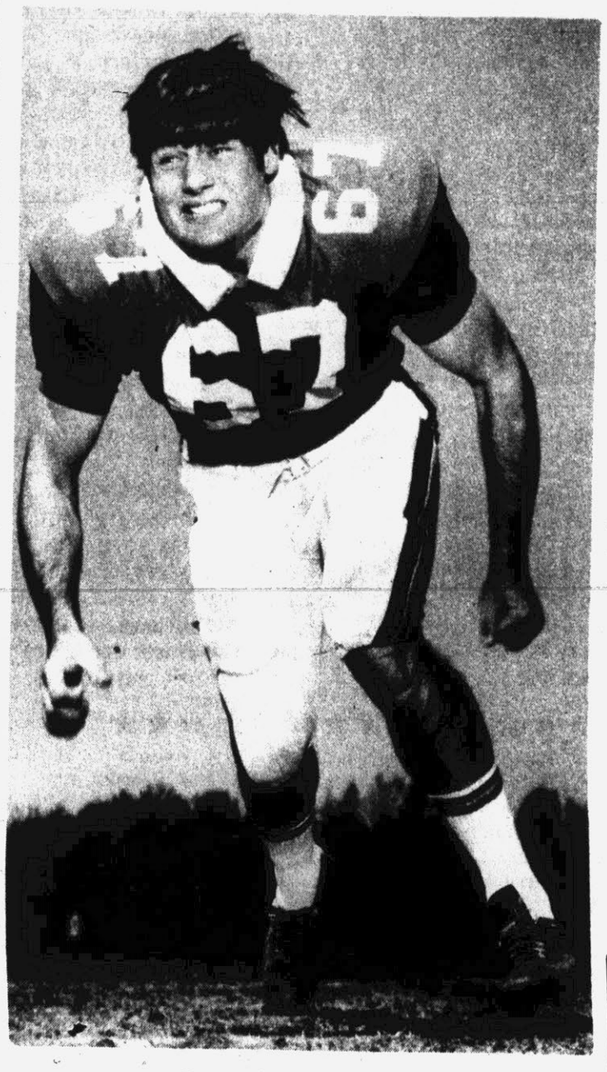

The big threat for the Spiders is the hard-running fullback Barty Smith. He's the leading rusher on the team with 189 yards in 48 caries, 4.0 average. He also leads in total offense with the same figure.

Quarterback Rich Muscarella came into the game last week and did the job, moving out Ken Nichols from the spot. Until the game last week, Richmond had not been able to crank up its passing game, the phase that Coach Frank Jones considers his bread-and-butter. Muscarella has hit on 17 of 34 attempts for 151 yards, thus showing that he can get the job done, and giving the Pirate defense something else to worry about.

"They have good receivers in Jerry Haynes (9 for 46 yards) and Ken Popovich (6 for 75), and Smith (8 for 50)," Randle said.

Randle also considers Richmond's defense excellent. "They are just basic, but they are tough. They're a physical team that comes after you," he said.

Leading the secondary is All-Southern cornerback Ray Easterling, but Randle admits liking for two of their linebackers, Larry Pochucha and Pat Kelly. "They're all over the place," he said.

Guard Ron Peed

The Bucs come into the game with a little better health situation, but key players are still hobbling. They include linebackers Monty Kiernan and Ralph Betesh, and running back Crumpler. Defensive tackle Rich Peeler, still recovering from an elbow injury, is considered doubtful.

"We're going to have to have every bit of the effort we had against The Citadel, and we're going to have to eliminate our costly mistakes. Richmond is just as good as William & Mary, or anyone else in the conference," Randle said.

And Jones himself emphasized this earlier in the week. William & Mary, with a 3-0 mark in the league has only two more games to play, with VMI in two weeks, and with Richmond in the final game of the year. Jones feels that Richmond has an excellent chance to win the title. By playing six games, one more than the Indians, Richmond could lose one along the way, then beat William & Mary and take the title.

Jones would like to start his quest this weekend against the Bucs.

Randle would like to insure that he'll go away from Greenville with one of those losses.

Saturday at 7:30 p.m. is kickoff time in the oldest Southern Conference rivalry the Pirates have. As usual, it promises to be one of their toughest games of the year.

Ellis Still Figured To Be Pirate Starter

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh may find himself biting a little deeper into the cigar he's always chomping on, but as of now he's sticking with problem-plagued Dock Ellis as his starter for Saturday's World Series opener against the Baltimore Orioles.

Ellis, besides his normal difficulty finding hotel accommodations to suit his style, has a tender right elbow that doesn't suit his efficiency on the mound. But Murtaugh still is sticking with his original decision to go with Ellis against Oriole left-hander Dave McNally.

"I've named Dock to start," the Murtaugh explained. "I've not named a replacement if Dock isn't able to go."

And it's not likely that a final decision will be made much before Saturday's 1 p.m., EDT, starting time, following the pattern Murtaugh set during the National League playoffs when he waited until 12 minutes before the game time to replace Nelson Briles with Bob Johnson.

Ellis, meanwhile, had some difficulty when he checked out his hotel room after arriving here with the club Thursday. He and his wife took one look at the accommodations and, before you could say "The Pirates pinch pennies," Ellis had changed rooms.

Murtaugh agreed with Ellis' assessment of the rooming situation, acknowledging they were "not too spiffy," but added: "What the hell's a bed—just a place to lie on, right?"

In that manner, Murtaugh indicated he was more concerned with Ellis' arm than his bed. And even Ellis may have been, for once he straightened out his accommodations to his satisfaction he left for the ball park to see if his elbow would respond to his satisfaction.

It did.

"My arm didn't hurt," he said. "It felt good. I'm ready to go."

Then, when told that Las Vegas oddsmakers have refused to quote a price on the game because of his questionnable condition, the controversial right-hander laughingly acknowledged his spreading fame.

"I'm messing up Las Vegas?" he said with a smile. "I'm really getting around."

While Las Vegas shied away, New York oddsmakers established the Orioles as 7½-5 favorites to win their third world championship in the last six years and their second in succession.

They also made the Orioles' slight favorites to win the opener behind McNally, who was 21-5 during the regular season compared to 19-9 for Ellis, the Pirates' big winner.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver, as concerned about first baseman Boog Powell as Murtaugh is about Ellis, doesn't have Murtaugh's pitching problems, however. He has named right-hander Jim Palmer and left-hander Mike Cuellar to go after McNally.

Powell, who has been bothered by an ailing right hand, had X-rays taken Thursday while the Orioles worked out. They proved negative but did show torn fibers in the back of his hand.

Powell, along with the two Robinsons—Brooks and Frank—is a key in a Baltimore offense that hit at a .261 clip with 158 home runs during the regular season compared to .274 and 154 homers for a Pittsburg team led by outfielder Willie Stargell.

Stargell led the majors in homers with 48, but had a disastrous series against San Francisco in the National League playoffs, going hitless in 14 trips.

But while on paper the two teams appear similar in the hitting department there is a vast difference in pitching. Ellis was Pittsburgh's big winner while Baltimore had four 20-game winners—McNally, Palmer, Cuellar and Pat Dobson.

Wilson Nips Aycock By 8-0

WILSON — E. B. Aycock Junior High School dropped its second straight game Thursday, falling to Wilson, 8-0.

Aycock failed to get off a single threat in the game, as the Wilson defense dominated their play. Aycock managed only a total of 89 yards in total offense, as compared to 163 for Wilson.

The lone touchdown came in the second period of play. Jack Bunn tossed a 37-yard aerial to John Dough for the score. Bunn then ran over the two-point conversion for the 8-0 score that stood up the rest of the way.

Wilson had one other touchdown in the game, but it was nullified by a penalty.

Aycock, now 1-2, will hope to play turnaround next Thursday, when it entertains Wilson.

The blood you give today could save your great-great grandson's life.

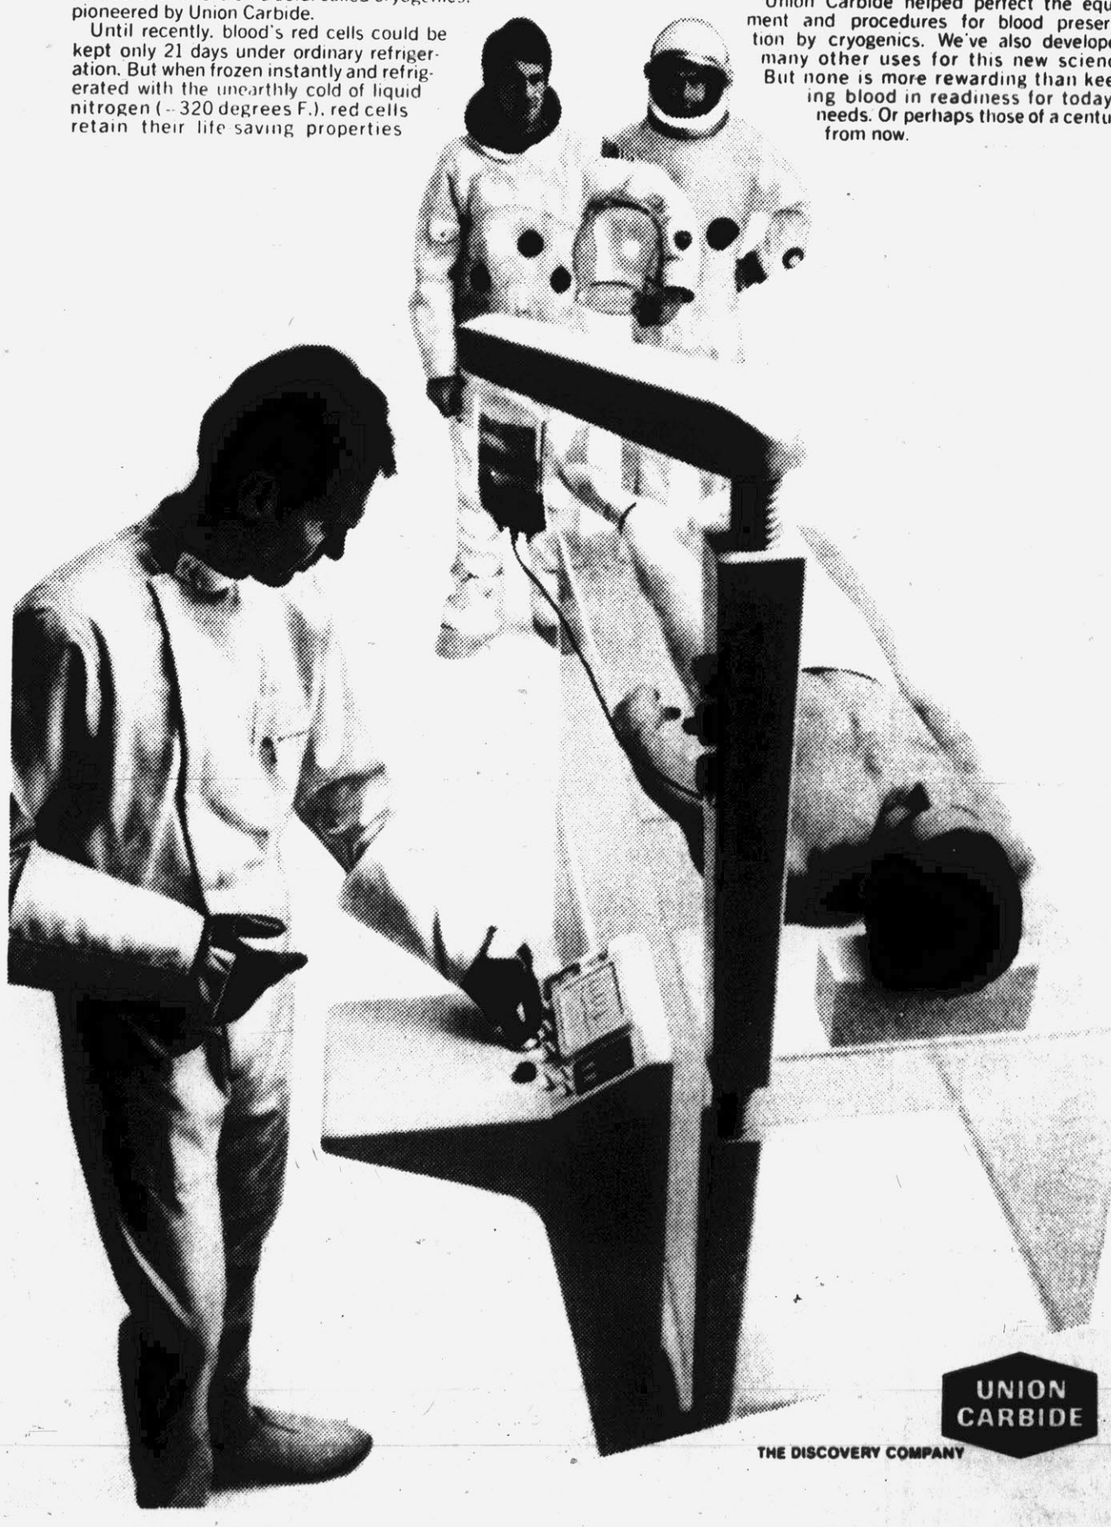

Science fiction? Not at all. For authorities believe that blood or its red cells – can now be stored for a century or more and remain as good as the day when taken from a donor.

This revolutionary prospect comes from advances in the new science of extreme cold, called cryogenics, pioneered by Union Carbide.

Until recently, blood's red cells could be kept only 21 days under ordinary refrigeration. But when frozen instantly and refrigerated with the unearthly cold of liquid nitrogen (–320 degrees F.), red cells retain their life saving properties indefinitely.

This breakthrough makes possible the storage of vast supplies of blood so that even the rarest and most desperately needed types need never again be in short supply.

Union Carbide helped perfect the equipment and procedures for blood preservation by cryogenics. We've also developed many other uses for this new science. But none is more rewarding than keeping blood in readiness for today's needs. Or perhaps those of a century from now.

Averages Tumble After Weekend's Rash Of Upsets; Baines In Lead

That loud rumbling and the trembling of the earth last Saturday wasn't an earthquake. It was just the crushing of this column's dreams as prediction after prediction fell by the wayside.

There was almost an aftershock on Monday night, but in the last seconds, that one came true, although we're not really that happy about it.

In the big race for the trophy (?) among the six peerless prognosticators, Tom Baines of the newsroom has vaulted into a very slim lead. He's come up with a 7-5 week, which left him in a 19-5 overall record.

This writer is second with a 6-6 week and an 18-6 overall mark. Others last week with 6-6 marks included Lauren Riddick and Jack Whichard. John Trotman had the best week with an 8-4 pick, while George Holland sank to 5-7.

This week, there isn't that much division in the picks, although I've gone the other way on two just to try and generate something.

The percentages so far: Bains, 19-5, .792; Peele, 18-6, .750; Trotman, 17-7, .708; Holland and Whichard, 15-9, .625; Riddick, 14-10, .583.

First, before getting into the poll, let's look at the high school action.

North Pitt travels to Greene Central still looking for its first touchdown, let alone its first victory. The Rams had their troubles in a close game with Conley, but they should be able to win this one easily.

Farmville Central travels to Southern Wayne in a key contest, with second place or maybe even first at stake. The Jaguars are unbeaten, while Southern has lost only to Goldsboro. It ranks as a tough one, but we'll give the nod to the Saints as the home team.

Rapidly-improving Conley entertains conference leader North Lenoir with hopes of getting an upset. The Hawks, overlooked by almost everyone in the pre-season choices, have led the league since the second week and haven't lost inside the loop. They may be ready for an upset, and Conley is hoping to be the one. But I say it still a little ways off. North Lenoir to take this one.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Ayden-Grifton entertains Charles B. Aycock in another league game. The Chargers are putting it all together now, and should be able to handle the Falcons in this one.

Robersonville goes to Belhaven, seeking to improve its lead in the Tobacco Belt Conference. The Eagles should win easily.

Williamston hosts Gates County in the top Albemarle Conference game. The two are tied for the lead in the league, and it should be quite a contest. We'll stick with Williamston.

This afternoon's game between Rose and New Hanover has drawn some divergent choices from the poll. New Hanover has had its troubles on the field, but this so has Rose. The Rampants almost put it together against Rocky Mount last week, and they might pull it out this time. The consensus says no. Four pick New Hanover, two pick Rose.

East Carolina University, after its heart-stopping victory over The Citadel, faces Richmond this weekend. The Spiders haven't won, and haven't scored a touchdown. They have only a field goal to their credit in three games.

But those three have been against North Carolina, West Virginia and Boston College, three real roughies. They may be ready to put it all together this week. They have a fine defense, and the Pirates will have to be at their best to stop them. They can't be taken lightly.

The consensus is that the Pirates will do it, five seek the Bucs, one takes Richmond.

The full poll follows:

Foyt To Be Far Back At Start

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A. J. Foyt has led only 329 of a possible 2,500 laps in NASCAR racing this year, but the Texas has banked more money for the time he has spent on the track than any other driver.

Though he has raced against his Southern bretheren only five times since the season opened, he ranks fourth on the money list with $87,430. He counts two major victories, a second and a third place finish and has been a thorn in the side of the NASCAR regulars.

Furthermore, all of his starts this year have been either from the pole position or from a shotgun spot in the top five.

But Sunday's National 500, a $107,000 early fall classic, is going to be different. The veteran Foyt is going to have to start this one from somewhere near the rear of the pack.

The best he can do is 25th in the 40-car starting order, and he will have to dot that today, or time will run out.

Foyt missed the first two days of qualifying at Charlotte Motor Speedway — Wednesday because his car had not arrived, and Thursday because of ignition problems that cause the engine to cut off in the turns.

"I have been in worse spots before," the cagey veteran said. "And I have won races from the rear of the field, though not against hotshots like the Pettys, Allisons and Yarboroughs. We'll just have to see what happens."

Foyt watched Thursday as ex-Detroit cabbie Benny Parsons nailed the 13th spot in the order, driving a Mercury at 153.636 miles per hour around the banked 1.5 mile trioval. His speed, considered to be somewhere near what the actual race pace will be, was four miles off the pole speed of 157.885 posted Wednesday by Charlie Glotzbach in a Chevrolet.

Buc Booters Nip Wesleyan

East Carolina University's soccer team had to go into overtime to down N.C. Wesleyan, 3-2, Wednesday.

Wesleyan grabbed the lead in the match, 1-0, in the first period of play. Rich Lindbaum scored the goal after 18:30 of the first quarter.

That held up until the final period of play, when East Carolina finally pushed through a goal. Tom O'Shea got the kick with 10:00 gone, on an assist from Rich Adams.

Regulation time ended with the score still tied, and the two teams went into the required two five-minute overtimes. East Carolina quickly put two goals through to wrap up the win. Larry Anderson scored after two minutes, and O'Shea hit his second goal after another minute and a half.

Winston King picked up the other Wesleyan goal in the second overtime period.

"We played a pretty good game," Coach John Lovstedt said. "We led them 28-15 in shots on the goal, and dominated the game. They had some good goalies, and the field conditions weren't very good either and aided them in stopping up for so long."

Lovstedt singled out the play of Bob Dickens, Brad Smith, Dave Shayler and O'Shea as outstanding.

East Carolina travels to Appalachian for a match on Saturday.

Offensive Leaders Meeting In Clash Between Citadel, Keydets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Citadel, ranked No. 3 in preseason speculation, already is almost out of contention in the Southern Conference football race and Virginia Military is only one defeat away, yet the Bulldogs and Keydets could stage one of the year's most exciting games Saturday at Lexington, Va.

Defeats by defending champion William and Mary and East Carolina's Pirates have just about ended The Citadel's hopes, while VMI's chances took a nosedive in a 14-0 defeat last week at Furman that dropped VMI to 1-1.

But three of the conference's individual statistical leaders will be in appearance in Lexington for the battle of the two military schools.

The Citadel has the total offense leader in sophomore quarterback Harry Lynch, 620 yards for a per-game average of 155, and split end Brian Baima, 26 pass receptions for 507 yards. VMI's Mac Bowman is the leading rusher with 320 yards in 73 carries for a per-game average of 106.7.

"We can't expect to get any better offensively," says coach Red Parker of The Citadel, but "we do expect to see an improvement on defense." VMI's Bob Thalman says "it goes without saying that we have a great deal of respect for The Citadel."

Richmond's Spiders who have yet to score a touchdown in three outside defeats, make their conference debut Saturday night at East Carolina, 1-1 as a result of the Pirates' 31-25 victory over The Citadel—their first in four starts over-all.

The headliner of four nonconference games finds William and Mary's Indians seeking to become the first W&M team in history to win its first five games. W&M is at home against West Virginia's Mountaineers, a team the Indians never have beaten in 14 starts.

Davidson, 0-4, goes to Bucknell for an afternoon scrap, while a pair of night encounters have Appalachian State, 2-1-1, at home against Lenoir Rhyne and Furman, 1-2-1, playing host to Western Carolina.

For the West Virginia game, the Indians will regain All-Southern fullback Phil Mosser, who missed last week's 14-3 victory over Tulane, and several other injured Indians also may be ready.

Coach Lou Holtz of the Indians say West Virginia's 20 - 9 victory over Pitt last week will put the Mountaineers "at an emotional peak." But West Virginia coach Bobby Bowden says "it would be natural for our kids to have an emotional letdown after the Pitt game."

Saturday afternoon will tell which is right.

Although Davidson has given up more than 30 points per game, coach Dave Fagg isn't sure the defense is all that bad. He points out the defense gave the ball to the offense five teams on turnovers against Appalachian last week, but the Wildcats came up with just 10 points.

Kentucky craftsmen made Old Crow famous. Back in 1835, our people figured out the formula that made Bourbon taste mellow, bottle after bottle, and later they hand-made the first sour mash Bourbon.

We still use our hands in making Old Crow Bourbon.

The Worry Clinic

Real Asset In Musical Skills

Bobby's case shows the value of early training in good music. Shakespeare said that the person who hath no music in himself is fit for treason, strategems and spoils; So encourage your child to play some musical instrument. Rarely do musicians become criminals or school dropouts!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Case R-583: Bobby Speaker, aged 9½, intrigued my interest.

It was on a Sunday last Spring when I had delivered the address from Dr. William Thompson's Presbyterian pulpit at Indianapolis.

At noon we drove to the delightful Hansel and Gretel restaurant for dinner.

Bobby was seated at the organ, playing for the assembled diners.

He isn't very large for his age.

And to see a boy operating the various keyboards of an organ and moving his feet around so skillfully on those many pedals, astounded me.

"Who is the organist?" I asked.

So I was promised an introduction to Bobby after our dinner was over.

We went over to the organ where Bobby graciously acknowledged the introductions to Mrs. Crane and me.

But meanwhile he kept playing, without any interruption.

He even turned halfway around on the organ seat to talk to Mrs. Crane, but his nimble fingers raced across the various keyboards without missing a note.

"Bobby," I asked, "how often do you come here to entertain the dinner guests with your music?"

"Well, Dr. Crane," he replied, "I usually am here only on Sunday but a few times I have played during the week."

Later we learned that Bobby regards this Sunday organ task as a happy diversion.

For he may dine for a little while on the soup or salad course and then stroll back to the organ for a few minutes of music.

So I complimented him sincerely on his unusual hobby.

And reminded him of John Erskine's remark, namely:

"Music is the only language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing."

There is also an old Scottish proverb that says:

"Everything will perish save love and music."

And Auerback has neatly stated:

"Music washes away from the soul the dust of everyday life."

But my primary purpose in citing Bobby's musical skill is to contrast him with the lazy modern hippie guitar strummers who learn a few chords in an hour and then try to compose inane lyrics to accompany them.

Obviously, such juvenile attempts at music will fade rapidly.

Like many of the salacious "best sellers" among novels, they will be forgotten within 5 years.

For those permanent contributions to art, music, literature and science, must be the product of many years of diligent study and toil.

Beethovan and Bach, Chopin and Wagner, didn't attain fame from merely an hour's drill on 3 or 4 chords played on a guitar!

True musicians should take heart, for juvenile music will not last.

And a reversion to jungle rhythms may please those of low I.Q. but will soon disappear, like the miniskirt and other bizarre fashions.

In Chapter X of my college textbook, "Psychology Applied," I describe the psychologocial experiments that proved the greater lasting qualities of good music.

Both types were played over and over (25 times) and the observers suffered less boredom or dislike from classical than from the jazz records.

So encourage your kiddies to produce good music!

Laymen Will Lead Service

Charles L. McCullers will be the guest speaker for Laymen's Day services to be held at the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church Sunday at 11 a.m.

McCullers is director of Stewardship Education of the Board of the Laity for the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church.

The special services will be conducted in the library of the Aycock Junior High School on Red Banks Road. The entire services Sunday will be led by laymen of the church. Dr. David H. Giles, of the Department of Special Education, ECU, and church lay leader, will be the presiding officer.

McCullers is a former district governor of Rotary International and has been active in civic work for a number of years. He was secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Kinston when DuPont Company decided to locate their dacron plant nearby. He recently retired as the director of public relations for Methodist College, Fayetteville. He and his wife, Margaret, are presently residing in Dunn.

The public is invited to attend the service.

Bundy Given Study Role

Rep. Sam Bundy of Farmville has been appointed by Speaker of the House Phil Godwin to a commission to study the operation of the North Carolina State Fair.

A former public school principal, Rep. Bundy was presented last Monday night with a certificate of recognition from Phi Delta Kappa honorary fraternity. The certificate cited his "distinguished service to education" and his "leadership in relating the aims, purposes, and objectives of Phi Delta Kappa to public relations."

Next Monday night Rep. Bundy will speak on the highlights of the 1971 General Assembly to the Pactolus Ruritan Club. The following Monday he will be master of ceremonies at the Nash County Democratic Rally to be held at Northern Nash School. Monday, Oct. 25, he will be featured speaker at the Shine Ruritan Club's Ladies' Night to be held at Parker's Restaurant in Wilson.

Christmas Seal 'Stuffing' Set

The Christmas Seal Association will hold its annual Stuffing Day October 9 from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Greenville National Guard Armory.

Anyone interested in helping to stuff the 130,000 Christmas Seal letters on that day is asked to come to the Armory and to bring a lunch since dining facilities are not available in the immediate area.

The letters, sent for the Eastern Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, must be in the mail by October 22.

Open House At School Sunday

AYDEN — The Ayden-Grifton Advisory Council will host an open house Sunday, Oct. 10 from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the new Ayden-Grifton High School.

Special guests for the open house will be members of the Pitt County Board of Education.

A guided tour of the building will be conducted and students will assist with the tour, parking, and serving refreshments.

Guests are to sign a guest book which will be preserved for the school's history.

Leslie Smith by Deed from W. J. Bundy, Commissioner, of record in Book T-23, Page 532, of the Pitt County Public Registry, and being the identical land described in Deed from J. H. Smith, Sr., et ux to M. R. Walker, trading as Walker Lumber Company, by Deed of record in Book C-33, Page 542, Pitt County Public Registry.

Also an easement or right of way twenty (20) feet in width, being ten feet on either side of the following line: BEGINNING at a point in the center of the road leading from Dupree Cross Roads to N. C. Highway No. 43 and runs thence from the center of said road, N. 35-33 E. 327.5 feet; thence N. 59-10 E. 122 feet; thence S. 68-30 E. 49 feet; thence N. 73-15 E. 173 feet; thence S. 43-25 E. 125 feet; thence S. 63-40 E. 147 feet to the lands of James H. Smith, Sr. The easement conveying said right of way to James H. Smith, Sr. appears of record in Book B-33, Page 395, of the Pitt County Public Registry.

The aforesaid Deeds of Trust and Chattel Mortgages were executed by Maurice R. Walker and Ruth Elizabeth Arrington Walker, Individually and Maurice R. Walker D-B-A Walker Lumber Company to secure payment of a debt evidenced by a certain promissory Note dated March 24, 1967, in the principal amount of $100,000.00, payable to the order of Small Business Administration, default having been made in the payment of the said indebtedness, Small Business Administration has demanded full payment of same and has demanded foreclosure of the Deeds of Trust and Chattel Mortgages.

The bidder on real estate will be required to make a cash deposit of 10 per cent of the amount of the bid up to and including $1,000, plus 5 percent of any excess over $1,000. The highest and best bidder on personal property will be required to make payment in full by cash, cashiers check or certified check.

The proceeds of the sale will be applied first, to the expenses of the sale, and then to the secured indebtedness, and the balance, if any, will be paid to such parties as by law are entitled thereto. The property will be sold subject to the following:

1. Validly liened ad valorem taxes against same.
2. Provisions for upset bids stated in General Statutes of North Carolina, Sec. 45-21, 27 as regards real estate.
3. Land listed above as PARCELS No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, and No. 4 subject to prior lien of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Rocky Mount, North Carolina.

All property will be sold with reserve on an "as is, where is" basis, without representation, warranty or recourse, express or implied upon the undersigned which specifically reserves the right to cancel or continue (postpone) any part or all of the sale at any time. If cancelled or postponed, a notice thereof will be posted at the appropriate county courthouse.

All inquiries should be addressed to Mr. Lester D. McDaniel, Loan officer, Small Business Administration, 222 So. Church Street, Charlotte, North Carolina, 28202, telephone 372-0711 ext. 446.
