Right-Of-Way Queries Raised At Hearing On Street Improvements

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Comments and questions mostly regarding right-of-way clarification were voiced by several property owners Thursday during the State Highway Commission's public hearing on improvements of Cotanche and Charles Streets.

The hearing, held at City Hall, was conducted for the purpose of publicly explaining the project format and offering interested citizens the opportunity to comment or ask questions pertaining to the project.

Highway Commission officials conducted the hearing and explained that the project involves a widening of Cotanche Street between 10th and 11th Streets, a relocation from Cotanche to Charles between 11th and 12th, and the widening of Charles from 12th to the U.S. 264 bypass. Specifically, the project, running south, begins on Cotanche at 10th and runs along Cotanche to 11th Street. At 11th, the street will take a southeasterly direction to Charles just east of 12th and then run along Charles to the bypass.

N. G. Raynor, one of the owners of a warehouse on the corner of Charles and 14th Streets, questioned when the right-of-way was acquired on the Charles Street side of his property. He said that he understood the acquisitions had already been made and he had not been contacted again concerning the matter.

Officials reported that initial contact was made with Raynor and now appraisals are being made on the property. It was explained that the right-of-way has not been acquired on the Raynor property and he would be contacted after appraisals are made.

R. W. McGowan, assistant chief engineer, said also that the project involving the raising of the railroad bridge over Charles Street would involve construction on land right-of-way already owned by the Norfolk Southern Railway and should not involve the Raynor property. J. F. Arthur, land owner on Charles, said that the 20 feet the Highway Commission proposed to acquire on his property would include trees that it took many years to grow.

Dr. Earl Trevathan, Greenville physician, pointed out that there is a large amount of student pedestrian traffic in the area of the proposed improvements. He said that he assumed there was no provision in the right-of-ways for pedestrian traffic.

McGowan said that the construction of sidewalks for the pedestrian traffic would have to be handled by the property owners or the city. Very little sidewalk construction is undertaken by the commission unless it involves replacing sections torn up during road projects or similar situations, the engineer explained.

Several other residents, including various city officials, were on hand to hear the presentation and offer their observations and views.

Mayor S. Eugene West said that, "It looks good to me. I see nothing wrong with it."

City engineer Charles Holliday also offered his endorsement of the project, noting that he had followed the proposed plans for some time.

Persons attending were able to view color-keyed plans on the project showing right-of-ways and other specifications. Plans are also available for public view at the Highway Commission's division office here.

The proposed federal-aid project, with construction and right-of-way costs estimated at $800,000, will offer four lanes of travel and a turning lane, it was explained. There will be no limitation of access.

Funding will be 50 per cent state and 50 per cent federal and road maintenance will be handled entirely by the Highway Commission. The project will involve just over a mile of roadway.

McGowan told the gathering that studies show the existing street now handles as high as 9,200 cars a day. Projected figures indicate that in 20 years as high as 20,500 cars a day may use the road.

The official noted that construction should begin during 1972.

Plan Apartment For The Elderly

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Salvation Army has announced that it plans to build in downtown Charlotte a 110-story apartment building for elderly persons of limited income.

The 195-unit apartment is expected to cost between $4 million and $5 million, and is to be fully financed by federal funds.

Food Prices Saw Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest drop in food prices in four years sharply slowed September's over-all rise of living costs in the first full month of President Nixon's freeze on prices and wages, the government said today.

Grocery prices fell one per cent and the decline in automobile prices also helped to hold down last month's consumer price average, said the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The government's Consumer Price Index, measuring prices of food, clothing, housing, transportation, medical care and recreation, averaged two-tenths of one per cent higher—about half the average monthly rise so far this year—the bureau said.

The reports included some price hikes from before the freeze, which began Aug. 15, and the exact effect of the freeze on over-all living prices could not be precisely measured, the report said.

The rise brought the price index up to 122.4 in September, meaning it took $12.24 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases in the base period four years ago.

The bureau also reported that average weekly earnings of some 45 million rank-and-file workers dropped 27 cents to $128.76 because of shorter average work week.

The average pay check was still 5.9 per cent above a year earlier, but after allowance for the 4.2 per cent rise in living costs since then, the gain in purchasing power was about 3 per cent, the bureau said.

The report said that in the third quarter of 1971 ending in September, prices rose at an annual rate of 3.3 per cent, the lowest for any quarter since 1967 except for the first quarter of the year when mortgage interest rates dropped sharply.

Prices of fresh fruits and vegetables, eggs and coffee, dropped sharply while prices rose for processed fruits and vegetables, beef, margarine and salad oils, the bureau said.

The report said that most of the September rise in prices reflected either items that rose in price before the freeze was imposed, or was due to seasonal or other factors under which price hikes are permissible under the freeze.

As an example of prices that went up before the freeze, the bureau said it prices college tuition only once a year, in September, and it was up nearly nine per cent this year.

College tuition is exempt from the freeze.

Mortgage interest and property taxes, also exempt, went up last month.

The report added that higher prices of imported goods subject to Nixon's special 10 per cent tax surcharge went up and accounted for about one-fourth of the over-all rise in living costs last month.

"Most of this was due to higher prices for imported apparel items and cars," the bureau said.

It said that a special analysis of prices measured for the index in the nation's five largest cities, less than eight per cent increased, 87 per cent showed no change and nearly six per cent declined in price.

Scott Asks Lawyers For Reform Help

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott called on Tar Heel lawyers today to help reform the state's automobile liability insurance program.

In a speech prepared for the annual convention of the North Carolina State Bar, Scott announced that he soon will name his appointees to a continuing study committee on auto insurance authorized by the 1971 General Assembly.

"In keeping with the assembly's instructions, this committee will study all aspects of auto liability insurance with a specific duty to include a study of the laws and practices pertinent to 'no fault' automobile insurance," he said.

"The North Carolina State Bar and the North Carolina Bar Association could render valuable public service by co-operating with and supporting the continuing work of the Governor's Study Committee on Automobile Liability Insurance and Rates."

"I feel that a thorough study by the continuing Governor's Committee, with your support, will enable North Carolina to take effective and reasoned steps in the 1973 session of the General Assembly," he said.

Scott thanked the group for its efforts in the area of prison reform, noting that some recommendations made by the Bar Association's Penal System Study Committee have already been acted on by the legislature or prison administrators.

Scott said the lawyers could play a similar role in auto insurance reform. He noted that, "A direct result of such efforts could be reduced court dockets and a more efficient administration of justice in our judicial system."

Later in the day the bar group was to hear a talk by David J. Sargent, a professor at Suffolk University Law School and one of the nation's foremost authorities on auto insurance plans and negligence laws. Sargent was to discuss no-fault insurance.

The group also was to hear an address by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

Gales Hampering Rescue Workers

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Howling gales hampered rescue workers today as they worked through wreckage of the shopping center where a gas explosion Thursday killed at least 12 persons.

Police said another 59 persons were injured by the mid-afternoon blast, many of them seriously. Most of the victims were women.

Ronald Parker, chairman of the Scottish Gas board, said it was the "worst gas accident ever in Scotland. At this stage we just don't know what happened."

The government ordered an investigation. Workmen had been trying for two days to locate a gas leak reported by residents along Busby Street, in the prosperous Clarkston Toll district of Glasgow, Scotland's commercial center. Thursday was pay day for many in the city, and Busby Street, where the shopping center was built six years ago, was at its busiest when the gas exploded. It destroyed 15 one-story shops.

Doctors, nurses, police, firemen and 40 ambulances rushed to the scene. Police ordered complete quiet so they could find persons trapped beneath the rubble. For five minutes nothing was heard but the cries of the injured and buried.

A little girl, her tattered doll in her arms, found her mother half under the wreckage. Before rescuers could reach her, the woman was dead.

One man died walking his dog. Another was decapitated. Four women in the middle of the road were tossed onto the sidewalk but survived. The owner of a bakery in the shopping center could find only three of his six female assistants.

Some of the injured were aboard a passing double-decker bus. Six passengers were blown through the windows and the top deck was smashed.

Queen Elizabeth II sent a message of sympathy from Turkey, where she and Prince Philip are on a state visit.

Storms lashed Glasgow through the night. Police said several house roofs collapsed, and a 3-month-old child was injured in one home struck by gale winds.

Some Sympathy In Marathon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon got a little sympathy during a marathon handshaking session with members of the National Federation of Republican Women.

"I'm not going to shake your hand—it's so tired," one woman told the First Lady during a reception Thursday for almost 2,000 party faithful.

Nixon's Nominees Generally Praised

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's nomination of Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist to the Supreme Court has left battle-primed Senate Democrats without their expected targets.

The President disclosed his choices for the two court vacancies in a television-radio address to the nation Thursday night. The immediate reaction, in and out of Congress, indicated they may escape bruising battles that have divided the Senate in the recent past.

Powell, 64, a Richmond, Va., trial lawyer, and Rehnquist, 47, an assistant attorney general, were described by Nixon as judicial conservatives like himself. He indicated he expects them to correct what he called a shift in the balance of power in American society against "the peace forces."

He said, however, that "their sole obligation is to the Constitution and the American people and not to the President who appointed them."

Republicans in Congress were generally quick to laud the President's selections. And even such Democratic senators as Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Birch Bayh of Indiana, who had been blasting Nixon's rumored choices, had no fault to voice.

Bayh said Powell and Rehnquist "appear to be significantly better qualified" than some of the names that had been leaked as under consideration to fill the vacancies created by retirement of John M. Harlan and the late Hugo L. Black.

"It is ironic that the President did not send down these names earlier but rather tried to make these nominations political footballs—sort of a three-ring circus in which there was a little bit for everybody," Bayh said.

Kennedy said he is pleased "that the President has pulled back from the brink he was approaching," an apparent allusion to the fact neither Powell nor Rehnquist was among the six possible nominees Nixon had submitted for screening to the American Bar Association's Committee on the Federal Judiciary.

Kennedy had called the list "one of the greatest insults to the Supreme Court" in its history.

Bayh led the fights that ended in defeat of Nixon's nominations of two Southern judges, Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. of South Carolina and G. Harrold Carswell of Florida, for an earlier vacancy on the Supreme Court.

Twenty-Five Marchers Plead Guilty, Pay Costs

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — Twenty-five protestors who took part in an October 4 march here pled guilty and paid court costs in District Court here yesterday while another 14 entered a plea of guilty but through their attorney gave notice of appeal to Superior Court.

The 39 were among a group of 69 persons arrested on charges of parading without a permit following a 10:45 p.m. march here. The march was in connection with a series of protests in Pitt County over the shooting of a black farm worker by a Highway Patrolman near Ayden August 6.

After the 14 who appealed to Superior Court entered pleas of guilty, District Court Judge Charles H. Whedbee ordered them to pay costs of court. However through their attorney Jerry Paul, the group gave notice of appeal.

The remaining 30 cases were continued until the November 4 term of District Court here as were 19 cases each against Southern Christian Leadership Conference field secretary Golden Frinks, and Frinks' aides George Kirby and Willie Fleming. Frinks, Fleming and Kirby are charged with 19 counts each of contributing to the delinquency of minors, a charge also stemming from the October 4 march.

In addition to the contributing to delinquency charges, Kirby faces charges of attempting to disrupt a Farmville school, disorderly conduct, parading without a permit, and trespassing in connection with other activities connected with the protest movement in Farmville. Those cases are also scheduled for November 4 trial.

Frankie Joyner, charged with attempting to disrupt school at Farmville Central High School and with telephoning a bomb threat to the school was found guilty by Judge Whedbee yesterday. Whedbee, after hearing testimony in the school disrupting case, sentenced Joyner to six months in jail. The judge handed Joyner a two-year prison term on the bomb threat charge after attorneys for the state and defense waived hearing of evidence in the case.

Notice of appeal to Superior Court were given in both cases by Joyner's attorney, Paul.

spent for the very purpose for which you are here tonight. "I see no reason why we could not prevail upon the next General Assembly to correct this situation. It is only right, and should be done as a matter of equity."

Touching briefly on the tobacco lobby, Jones recalled the late Senator Robert Kennedy's campaign about the evils of tobacco that attracted nationwide publicity. "During that time I wrote him a letter questioning his concern over tobacco while showing a total indifference to the results of excessive alcoholism," the congressman said, "and used the often advanced argument that as bad as tobacco might be, I had never heard of it causing a highway death."

"I did this," Jones said, "for as many of you know, the Kennedy family had long had the import rights over much of the Scotch whiskey industry. In this case, I can only conclude that the late senator was functioning with a mistaken priority."

Saying that in priorities "there are those who are concerned with our ecology . . . better housing, improved highways and many others," the congressman added, "but somehow I am convinced that the individual human life is far more important."

Walter Jones Raises Priority On Alcoholism

WILMINGTON —

Congressman Walter Jones, in his speech before the 1971 Eastern Regional Meeting on Alcohol in Wilmington last night, spoke of priorities needed in the nationwide programs to alleviate the dangers of growing alcoholism.

The congressman recalled the efforts of Senator Harold Hughes, a man he lauded as showing "intense concern with the same problem to which you have dedicated your energies and efforts." Senator Hughes in 1970 introduced Public Law 91-616, Jones said, "which changed the then existing Division of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism to the status of Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism."

"I hope it is of interest to you to know," Jones observed "that from 1966 to the present, the appropriations are now 28 times the amount first approved for this purpose."

Jones pointed out a feature of Hughes bill was instrumental in creating a new atmosphere in the treatment of alcoholics. "One feature . . . provides that 'alcohol abusers and alcoholics shall be admitted to and treated in private and public general hospital which receive federal funds for alcoholic treatment programs . . . and shall not be discriminated against solely because of alcoholism.'"

Jones noted that not many years ago many hospitals in this area "refused to admit patients for the treatment of alcoholism."

On the $117,720 grant for the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center in Greenville, Congressman Jones said "I was extremely happy . . . to announce a training grant from the National Institute of Mental Health to the center in Greenville in the amount of $117,720."

Referring to the five cents per bottle bill he introduced in the State of North Carolina, Jones remarked "I made a serious mistake in introducing this bill. I should have provided that all proceeds from the nickle would be channeled and reserved and

Son's Visits Cause Worries For Mother

By Abigail Van Buren
[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: Our only child is 14. I was 38, and my husband was 52 when he was born. He has always been a joy to us.

We've never had any trouble with him until this summer, when he became enamored of a 13-year-old girl. The girl's mother is a twice-divorced lady bartender who leaves her 13-year-old to baby-sit for her four younger children.

We allow our son to stay out until 10 p. m., and he always abides by our wishes, but we know he goes to see this girl every evening and I am worried about what may happen.

I feel it is a very unhealthy situation. Dynamite, in fact. I even telephoned the girl's mother and told her I didn't want my son over there. She said, "So, keep him home."

My husband feels the boy will outgrow this fascination. I think he should have a talk with the boy and positively forbid him to see that girl.

What do you think?

DEAR WORRIED: Forbidding him to see the girl is not the answer. To a 14-year-old boy, having a "girl friend" is exciting, and if you "forbid" him to see her, he'll become resentful, and he'll probably see her anyway. His father should have a talk with him to be sure he knows everything a boy should know when he first becomes "enamored" of a girl.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have been a Baptist all my life, until about two years ago when I started studying with Jehovah's Witnesses. Six months later, I decided that this should be my religion, and ever since then I have been persecuted by my family. They think I am "confused" and they insist that I should quit going to the Jehovah's Witness church and go back to the Baptist church.

Do you think it is fair of my parents to try to keep me from going to the church of my choice?

DEAR CAGED: I think everyone should be allowed to serve God in his own way.

DEAR ABBY: How would you suggest I handle a sister in law who offers unsolicited advice on my marriage, how I run my home, and how I handle my finances?

She makes my personal business her concern. I would rather keep my affairs private. If she were not my dear husband's sister, I wouldn't worry about diplomacy. Any suggestions?

DEAR BOILING: You need not hold still for any unsolicited advice unless you want it. When she proceeds to offer it, simply tell her that you appreciate her interest and concern, but prefer to do things in your own way. Then change the subject.

DEAR ABBY: Any waitress will tell you that men are much easier to wait on than women. Also, men are more appreciative of good service, and their tips show it.

Also, nurses who have worked in both men's and women's wards will tell you that men patients are far more considerate of each other than women are.

Furthermore, salespeople [both men and women] will tell you they would much rather wait on a man than a woman.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

It's smart to make your home as washable as possible. Scrubbable wall and floor coverings, no-iron curtains, draperies and slip covers and stain-resistant washable table-tops add to easy housekeeping.

Dinah Shore: Singer, Tennis Bum, Dedicated Kitchen Buff

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) —When Dinah Shore finished with "Tennis anyone?", she almost always follows with "Dinner anyone?"

For this singing-actress of television and the movies is as much a dedicated kitchen buff as tennis bum.

"At our house, we have hot and cold running meals," said Miss Shore. "We're known around Beverly Hills as Dinah's Bar and Grill."

What happens, she explained, is that after tennis matches, friends spill over from the Beverly Hills Hotel to her place in the heart of the movie colony residential area. Why? Dinah's traded lob for lobster bisque and assorted other culinary creations for their pleasure.

"Tennis players will eat anything," said the Tennessee-born Miss Shore, whose Saturdays and Sundays (days off from taping her current television show) usually are spent on the courts.

It was on her "dear tennis bums" that Miss Shore tested most of the recipes included in her first cookbook just out and called, what else but, "Someone's in the Kitchen with Dinah." (Doubleday).

During a visit to New York to promote the book, Miss Shore talked of how the book came about and of her daytime television show on NBC on which she cooks, sings and interviews personalities in the news.

"My mother was an excellent cook," said the actress who was born in Winchester, Tenn., and grew up in Nashville. "I've always cooked and collected recipes. I love to entertain."

How the blonde star keeps her figure trim with all the food that seems to be around her baffles me. She doesn't count calories and some of the recipes are loaded with them — like her fresh peach pie in an almond and flaked coconut shell with both sour cream and whipping cream as part of the

ECU Chaplain Is Speaker For Jarvis WSCS

Father Charles Mulholland, an East Carolina University chaplain, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Monday.

His subject was "Christian Witness in Greenville."

"Christian life grows on what the world calls faith and to get someone to become a Christian, that person wants to see a life style that is meaningful and worthwhile," Father Mulholland explained.

"How can we witness as Christians to a poor person in our county whose major concern is her hungry family and finding a means of transportation to Greenville where the only food stamp center is located," he explained.

An example of real Christian witness, according to Father Mulholland, would be if Christians went before the City Council and County Commissioners urging them to furnish bus transportation to Greenville for the less fortunate people in our county, so they would have a means of receiving food stamps that would help feed their families.

makings. It must be the tennis (and golf) that keeps the shape shapely, although Miss Shore concedes that she'll never be in the championship class of a Billie Jean King or Rosemary Casals.

"I can sing before 10 thousand people, cook before 10 million viewers, but put me on a tennis court with 200 people in the stands and I absolutely freeze," she said.

Dinah Shore was born Frances Rose Shore and first began thinking of a singing career while she was at Hume Fogg High School in Nashville. She started voice study, and also took on as cheerleader at football games. The cheerleading didn't help the Shore voice in the way her teacher thought it should so the two parted amicably.

"My original lyric soprano had changed to contralto," she recalled.

During her sophomore year at Vanderbilt University, Miss Shore auditioned for a radio spot and was given a 15-minute show of her own on WSM, Nashville.

Her opening song was "Dinah." Martin Block, for whom she auditioned several years later using the same song, called her Dinah when he couldn't remember Frances. Dinah eventually stuck.

The actress since has compiled a staggering record of kudos for every medium in which she works. She's won 19 gold records, symbols of recording success of over one million sales for each, has starred in 444 fifteen-minute television shows and about 140 hour-long shows, has won television's Emmy several times, been named to best dressed lists, honored for her tours to entertain GIs during World War II and for her more than 300 broadcasts for the Armed Forces Radio.

In private life, the actress has married twice, at present is free, and has two children, Melissa Ann, 22 and married and John David, 17, in a private school in Connecticut.

Her cookbook has anecdotes surrounding many of the recipes. And many of the recipes read Bea's such-and-such, such as Bea's Brownies or Bea's wilted Spinach Salad. Bea, she said, is a longtime friend who also loves to cook. The other someone in the kitchen with Dinah is generally Pauline Bumann, who's been with Miss Shore for 20 years.

Some of Miss Shore's recipes are adapted from recipes given her by Frank Sinatra (she once teamed with him on a New York radio show).

Here is the Sinatra recipe for Sausage and Peppers:

You'll need 1 pound hot Italian sausages, 3 green peppers, ¾ cup red wine, 3 tablespoons olive oil, and a dash of salt and pepper (optional).

Remove stems and seeds from peppers and cut into large chunks. In an ovenproof baking dish that can be used on top of the stove, saute green peppers in oil until they begin to soften. Sprinkle with a little salt. Lift the green peppers out of the dish and set aside. Brown the sausages in the same dish. When browned, add the red wine. Cover pan with foil and bake the sausages in wine in a 350 degree oven for 40 minutes. (Ovens vary so cook until the sausage is no longer pink).

Uncover and add the green peppers. Bake for an additional 30 minutes and serve in the same baking dish. Serves 4.

Program By Glassblower

Owen Kingsbury, research glassblower for the chemistry department at East Carolina University and southeastern director of the American Scientific Glassblowers Society, presented the program for a joint meeting of the Seira and Round Table Book Clubs Tuesday at the Baptist Student Center.

As Kingsbury made numerous glass articles, he explained the process of making the articles. Later these articles were given to the book club members. He discussed many facts about his profession.

The Baptist Student Center was decorated with berries, fall flowers, and Halloween decorations.

Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. W. A. Heymann and Mrs. D. R. Taylor.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. J. O. Derrick and Mrs. G. W. Everett. Guests were Mrs. Owen Kingsbury, Mrs. James Davenport, Mrs. John Long, Mrs. David Stevens, Mrs. Ernest Holt, Mrs. Ernest Stine and Mrs. Kim Brown.

Underground Lines A Good Goal

While it is obvious that utilities lines cannot always be installed underground, the present policies which encourage underground installation are sound.

There is a city ordinance which requires that all electric and telephone lines be placed underground whenever street construction requires moving or rebuilding lines. There is provision for exceptions to be made, however, when it is deemed unwise to go

Uniting Force Of Consumers

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Ben Franklin's dictum that we hang together or we all hang separately is the philosophy behind the North Carolina Consumers Council.

It exists as a uniting force for those who go into the marketplace to buy. Through education, policing and agitation, it attempts to aid the shopper in spending his money wisely and with confidence.

One of those responsible for hanging together the consumer interests represented on the council will be applauded next Tuesday (Oct. 26).

Rep. Richard S. Clark of Union, legislative consumer champion and the council's past president, will be honor guest at an appreciation dinner.

Laudatory speakers will include Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, whose activity in consumer protection roughly parallels the council's three-year existence, and Rep. Carl Stewart of Gaston, House Banking Committee chairman and Clark's General Assembly colleague.

In last spring's session Clark authored and steered to enactment against heavy odds a consumer finance law with broad new safeguards, a landmark in consumer protection legislation.

No Anti-Business Bias
A first misconception about the council to clear away is that it's anti-business, said Mrs. Peggy Shriver of Raleigh, the current president. Honest businessmen and informed consumers are in partnership, not conflict, under the American free enterprise system.

Somehow, she conceded, an impression to the contrary gets around. "You hear talk of 'consumerism' as though it were some kind of disease," she said.

"Well, if it is a disease, everybody's got it. When he leaves his office, the businessman becomes a consumer, too."

A tide of consumer frustration brought the council into being. People felt powerless in the marketplace, confused by pricing and packaging, misled by advertising. They looked for a place to turn for accurate information and reliable guidance.

Betty Furness Helped
The N. C. Consumers Council got its charter in March, 1968. Betty Furness, then Presidential advisor on consumer affairs, came down in May as speaker for its first annual meeting. An aide from her Washington office also helped with organization.

Today, individual membership number approximately 500. Across the state there also are corporate memberships, such as the state AFL-CIO, the Credit Union League, the Tar Heel Electric Membership Association, women's club organizations, and others. An annual dues structure provides the income, not enough for a paid staff, but sufficient for a newsletter, lobbying activity, and some modest research and study projects.

The tide that led to the council's formation is running and rising, Mrs. Shriver said. It could either give the impetus for effective action, she speculated, or else turn to apathy in further frustration.

Restive consumers make waves and stir political currents. Candidates for public office are alert to the issue, and eager to find a place on the bandwagon.

It's been noised about that Clark has further political ambitions, perhaps to run for attorney general when Morgan gets into the race for governor. As candidates both likely would give emphasis to their consumer protection activity.

Non-Partisan Role
The council itself is non-partisan and non-political, in the sense of supporting particular candidates, Mrs. Shriver said.

The 25-member board of directors includes Rep. Charles Taylor of Transylvania, a Republican, as well as Rep. Clark, a Democrat.

"We couldn't very well get ourselves involved in political campaigns," she noted.

Board membership is a cross-section of interests, including housewives, businessmen, academic types, a labor union leader, with more than token representation of blacks and women. "It's a good mix. We don't always agree on the approach," said Mrs. Shriver, "but we have the benefit of many points of view."

A primary role for the council is that of coordinator and stimulator, providing information and initiating action. It seeks to educate the public on available avenues of consumer protection, as well as developing needed laws and programs.

"Let the buyer beware" was the old slogan. The N. C. Consumers Council operates on the new doctrine: "Let the buyer be informed."

Armed with knowledge, Mrs. Shriver said, the consumer can make his choice with assurance that he gets what he pays for. That, she added, ought to be the goal for a sound, fair system.

underground.

We would assume that it would be impractical for the Utilities Commission to place lines underground where only a few blocks are involved or where the cost of the work would be prohibitive.

Recently some members of the council have raised the question of whether power lines currently being moved back on Tenth Street should not have gone underground.

The Utilities answer was that the cost of moving the lines was about $17,000, while underground lines would have cost $750,000. The position was that the Utilities Commission could not afford to spend that much money on this one project at one time. However, officials say that ducts are being installed at intersections so that they will be in place when the lines do go underground.

Greenville has made much progress in getting utilities lines underground in recent years. Most of the newest subdivisions have underground lines. Downtown and shopping centers have mostly underground lines.

Authorities with the Utilities Commission say that they would recommend against installing transmission lines underground because of the danger of trouble which could cause power outages interrupting service to thousands of customers for hours at the time.

As we understood the ordinance adopted by the city some years ago, underground construction was required for new lines or lines which we are being moved; however, exceptions could be granted.

We think the ordinance is a good one since it establishes the intent of working toward underground lines. If, however, there are still questions arising about individual projects of unusually high cost, or where underground construction is impractical, then the City Council and the Utilities Commission should attempt to resolve these differences.

Lindsay Failed His Audiences

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

INDIANAPOLIS — The dreams long cherished by his ambitious aides at New York City hall of making Johy V. Lindsay the Democratic nominee for President received only thin nourishment on the mayor's first outing as a Democrat.

Here for a two-day Indiana swing last week at the invitation of the shrewd state party chairman, Gordon St. Angelo, Lindsay drew full houses at exuberant party rallies in Gary, South Chicago, Ft. Wayne and Evansville. But he failed to exploit the potential of his captive audiences. The political idiom of a blue-blood, Manhattan sophisticate trying to educate blue-collar blacks and rural whites on the crisis of the cities fell flat, leaving most of his audiences restive and slightly embarrassed.

Indeed, the political tour de force of transforming Lindsay from lifelong Republican to national leader of the Democratic party is not so simple as the bright young men at city hall have imagined. Indiana, for example, is — thanks to St. Angelo — the only Midwestern state where he is truly welcome. Neither Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago nor Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio want him around.

But in Indiana, transplanting the Lindsay charisma encountered resistant soil. At Gary, Lindsay seemed taken aback by the thumping crowd of steel mill blacks when a hot soul band stopped playing and he was suddenly introduced, long before he should have been. Instead of giving the brothers the raw meat they wanted, Lindsay floundered, praising a housing project he had just visited called Annabelle.

"Good Lord," whispered a top state party official, "has John lost his marbles? To these cats Annabelle smacks of a racial joke."

Moreover, Lindsay's rhetoric was packed with clichés of Eastern-style drawing-room politics. His allusions to "reallocation of resources," to "building strength" for his new party, to the "upward thrusts" of his own programs in New York City, interspersed with "by golly" and "marvelous," lost many in the audiences that came ready to be charmed.

He left hundreds of students at Valparaiso University, who had given him a roaring reception, apathetic with a long-winded answer to a simple question about extension of the draft.

"He feels he has to give them the whole shebang for every question," one local politician fumed. "They want red meat and he's dishing up fancy hors d'oeuvres."

Finally, his Hoosier outing raised a legitimate question: Can Lindsay run for President in 1972 and run New York City at the same time? Lacking even the rudiments of a national political organization, Lindsay arrived in Indiana with a single aide, press secretary Tom Morgan, and a bodyguard. On several occasions, he rushed to a telephone to handle crises back home in New York.

If Lindsay enters the primaries early next year, he cannot begin to do it without a full Presidential campaign staff which must include a ranking city hall official travelling with him competent to take minute-by-minute crises off Lindsay's back.

Furthermore, his political staff must do the essential advance work for him that local party officials, even those with St. Angelo's competence, cannot possibly handle.

Strength For Today

TIMES OF CRISIS

One of the key words of modern life is "change." If people who lived a hundred years ago could return and see what has transpired in these past one hundred years they would be astonished beyond description.

One hundred years ago the swiftest form of communication was the written word. Canals played a great part in the development of a country essentially new in most respects. Then all of a sudden the discovery of steam motive power changed the whole picture. Today we fly around the world with ease, get to the moon and look with expectation to discoveries that will be made on nearby planets if we ever reach them — which we probably will.

Change, change, change. The astounding thing about our present world is that it is so different from what humanity has known before. Not only do we get from place to place with astounding rapidity, there are also problems confronting us utterly unlike those of the past. Politically, the world is in upheaval. Socially, young people have come into a place of leadership and are telling their elders a thing or two. Drug addiction has become a menace, and we are horrified to find its moral degradation tearing at the very vitals of human life not only in our own country but throughout the world.

But we have survived crises in the past and will survive even more serious ones in the decades ahead. By Earl L. Douglass

Voting Isn't For Women

NEW YORK — A group of male chauvinist sexist pigs met here recently at a black-tie stag dinner to see if they could do anything about stopping the Women's Lib movement.

As the only newspaperman present I was sworn not to reveal the names of the participants. But I was told that I could print anything I wanted regarding the discussion.

The men, all in their early forties and mostly in the communications and financial fields, felt the only chance that they had of reversing what they considered this country's "permissive" attitude toward women, was to repeal the 19th Amendment — which gives the female sex the right to vote.

They said all the problems now confronting the United

Other Editors Say Down With Slots

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Coming in for much criticism in recent times from a variety of sources and for numerous reasons, the Army is certainly deserving of praise for its decision to remove all slot machines from every Army base and post around the world.

What the Army is doing, through this decision, is opting for people instead of profit, a temptation a great number of people and organizations too often fail to resist.

For the Army calls slot machines a "corruptive influence" and that is precisely what they are, although they have been bringing in about $23 million a year from soldiers' pockets. Army Secretary Robert Froehke said in announcing the move that the slot machines "too often brought unhealthy pressures and temptations."

In noting the evil influence of the slot machines, the Army chief also admitted that the money brought in from their use has been used for "worthwhile purposes within the Army community," and so the Army is to be commended even further for giving up this source of funds for such worthwhile uses.

The principle here, however, is that money used for whatever good purposes, is wrongly acquired, just as money used to pay for an emergency operation is still tainted money if it came from a bank holdup. No real good can ever come from money so acquired.

And so the Army, recognizing this, is willing to accept an interim money problem in order to solve a "people problem."

Slot machines have been banned from domestic posts for many years, and they were removed from bases in Vietnam earlier this year.

They have been popular at bases in other parts of the world, particularly Germany. But drugs and prostitution are also popular in such places, and these evils are the ones many of our young men in uniform are being exposed to, particularly in Vietnam where the drug problem has become an epidemic.

Congressional investigations in the past two years produced testimony of mismanagement, kickbacks and other irregularities in the operation of officer and noncommissioned officers' messes in Vietnam, Germany and elsewhere. But such abuses naturally arise where vice is prevalent.

Freeze Won't Stop Inflation

By ELMER ROESSNER

Just as geysers break through frozen ground in Iceland, so will inflation burst through the wage and price freeze. It won't melt the freeze completely, but it will raise the cost of living.

Here are the reasons for that conclusion:

The price of food has been rising since mid-August despite the freeze. A Census Bureau survey from Sept. 24 to Oct. 2 showed that of 2,216 persons queried, only 33 per cent said food prices had not risen.

Some clothing prices, especially on new styles, appear to have gone up, although the broad picture is obscured because there seems to be considerable distress merchandise on the market offered at lower prices.

Rising food prices, most of which are not frozen, will create demands for higher wages.

Postponed Pay Hikes

When phase two of the New Economic Plan begins Nov. 15, the control boards will have a choice of granting, at least in part, wage increases agreed to before Aug. 15 and increases to match the rise in the cost of living.

Wage increases will, of course, lead to price increases in the industries affected.

The 10 per cent surcharge on imported goods, while it will keep out huge amounts of imported goods, will increase prices of those items still in sufficient demand to be imported.

The United States will probably find it expedient to lower the surcharge barrier against Canadian products or force Canada into a grave depression or into the communist trade orbit.

Congressmen, fearing an election year ahead, are sensitive to tremendous pressures for escapes from both wage and price freeze. And Congress, which gave President Nixon power to impose the wage-price freeze, has power to take it away or modify it. It is more likely to do the latter than the former.

Break For Teachers

It is very likely that wages of teachers contracted before Aug. 15 will be approved. So will wages of government employees, if Congress insists.

Industries in which pressure is building up for higher prices, usually because of wage increases that went into effect before the freeze but for which prices were not adjusted, include automobiles, steel, coal, natural gas, railroad

Seven People Hurt During Firebombing

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Seven white persons were burned early today when three homemade firebombs were tossed into a tavern as racial violence continued in Memphis, police said.

Police said the bombs exploded in the Red Lantern Lounge hours after a 3-year-old Negro boy had been struck and killed by a police cruiser en route to another firebombing.

It was the third successive night of violence, disorder and vandalism which followed the death a week ago of a black teen-ager who had been arrested after a police chase. The district attorney has ruled his death a homicide.

Officials said five of the seven remained hospitalized.

Police inspector John Barger said he was uncertain whether the firebombing of the tavern was related to the death of Robert Reed Jr., 3.

Barger said some witnesses told police the persons who threw the bombs were white. But other witnesses said they were black, police said.

Barger said the Reed boy was killed when a police car answering an emergency call turned a corner and the child darted into its path.

The boy's aunt, Mrs. Mary Washington, said she had just picked him up at the home of relatives to return him to his parents.

"My sister was taking him out to the car when he broke away and dashed into the

Re-Election Ruled Legal

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's Supreme Court ruled today that President Nguyen Van Thieu's unopposed re-election on Oct. 3 was legal.

The decision—generally expected—cleared the way for the inauguration of Thieu on Oct. 31 for a second four-year term.

In a brief decision issued without amplification, the nine-judge court announced it had rejected bids of two opposition groups to have the election declared illegal. The groups were backed by Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, the two challengers who quit the presidential race charging that Thieu had rigged the election.

By an 8 to 1 vote, the court certified election returns, showing 5,975,018 out of 6,331,918 eligible voters cast their ballots for the "democracy slate" of Thieu and his vice presidential running mate, former Premier Tran Van Huong.

The remaining 356,900 registered voters either abstained from voting or spoiled their ballots.

There also was heavy emphasis on firearms training, she said.

Goff said the prime goal of the organization was "to build a base in the working class and the military."

He said members of the group "are dedicated, willing to sacrifice their life if need be in violently overthrowing the government."

Said Dedicated To Overthrowing

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two ex-missionaries say they once worked with the FBI to infiltrate a pro-Maoist organization they described as highly disciplined, well armed and dedicated to the overthrow of the U.S. government.

They said the organization, the Revolutionary Union, has "close ties with Red China."

"We were considered great converts," Lawrence L. Goff of Lemoore, Calif., told the House Internal Security Committee Thursday.

Goff, 30, and his 28-year-old wife, Betty Sue, said leaders of the organization demanded "extremely strict discipline—our time, our house and our family were not our own."

"Our children were considered property of RU, the RU took care of them, and I'd find strangers with the children," Mrs. Goff testified. "They tried to indoctrinate children. I didn't agree but I put up with it."

There also was heavy emphasis on firearms training, she said.

Goff said the prime goal of the organization was "to build a base in the working class and the military."

He said members of the group "are dedicated, willing to sacrifice their life if need be in violently overthrowing the government."

Their most painful personal experience, Goff said, came when they were pressured "to curse the Bible and blaspheme God."

Goff, now a gunsmith, said he and his wife spent several years in Mexico and Central America as Christian missionaries among primitive tribes.

He said he became associated with the Revolutionary Union in the fall of 1969, and his wife said she joined in July 1970.

They dropped out in late March and early April this year, he said, "after we were found out."

Goff said his San Jose chapter had about 50 members, that backers claimed to have 400 returned from Liechtenstein reported that women in that country did not have the vote, and he found them to be the happiest people in Europe.

"All the women smiled at me as they churned their butter," he reported. "They laughed as they milked their cows and sang as they dumped grapes into the huge wine vats. And the men — from their mountain vastnesses to their fertile valleys, from their sun-dappled slopes or wherever they lived, the men of Liechtenstein stood fast. We're bigger than Liechtenstein, stronger, more easily spelled. Surely our women deserve to be as happy as their women. They can be, providing they don't vote."

An art director held up a poster he had just designed which read "Stop and Think — What Would Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Rutherford B. Hayes have thought about entering a political dialogue with Bella Abzug? Makes you wonder, doesn't it? ... Could Bella have happened back in the days when we had only 18 amendments? or better still, 17? ... 'Let 'em vote,' they said. 'What harm can it do?' ... well, now we know!"

The entire room rose as one to toast the poster.

Finally, a man who identified himself only as general secretary of the Bull Moose Party got on his feet. "We are not opposed to Women's Lib," he said as everyone gasped. "We say equal pay for equal work...unconstrained bosoms, if that's the way they want them... day care centers for every child in America ... free beer for ladies at the men's bar at the Baltimore — they can have 'em all and tiparillos, too ... BUT NOT THE VOTE!!!!"

"Political thinking is peculiarly masculine. It involves game plans, Southern strategies and Phases I and II through God knows what. Women are not up to understanding these things. What's happening to the Supreme Court could happen to all of us. STOP THE ROT."

Our subconscious minds sometimes gives us warnings. For example if you have a hard time remembering your best girl's telephone number, maybe that's a mental hint she's not the right number for you.

You can be sure a man is an old-timer if he still puts salt in his beer. Few bartenders now even keep a salt shaker on the bar.

Show me a man who really likes broccoli, and I'll show you a man who also can be talked into making a down payment on the purchase of the Brooklyn Bridge.

and school children who dominated the audience, was the same speech he made to a far more politically sensitive crowd that night in Evansville. Likewise, he was drastically overscheduled in Gary, making three separate appearances for Mayor Richard Hatcher in a campaign that Hatcher cannot conceivably lose.

With all these shortfalls, however, Lindsay did leave top party men here impressed. He polished his credentials as one of the few national Democrats with glamor enough to turn out big crowds and raise party funds ($150,000 for Indiana Democratic mayoral candidates) and he won important political IOUs to be collected in the Indiana Presidential primary, should he decide to enter.

For Lindsay, the lesson to be learned from Indiana is twofold: the immediate need of a national organization and the hard fact that a political style shaped in Manhattan could be the kiss of death out in what the New York slickers call the sticks.

Plans Made By Republican Club

Plans for Pitt County Republican Party chairman Dixie Greene to attend the First District Republican Convention were made last night.

At the monthly meeting of the local Republican club, on Thursday night plans were made for Greene to attend the First District Republican Convention to be held at the Beaufort County Courthouse in Washington, N.C. Saturday.

Other plans made at the monthly meeting included ones for attendance by a large delegation from Pitt County at the Republican State Convention in Charlotte on November 19 and 20.

As a final action of the meeting, the Executive Committee unanimously passed a resolution supporting the president's nominations to the United States Supreme Court of Louis Powell and William Renquist.

Drop Charges Of Negligence

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A judge has quashed an indictment charging J. H. Belton, captain of the Durham County prison unit, with negligence in the escape of a prisoner from an unguarded work detail.

Judge Thomas Lee of state District Court accepted a defense motion Thursday that the indictment returned by the Durham County grand jury in August be dismissed.

Joe Louis Lea escaped July 20, a day after he had been questioned by detectives in the slaying of a bottling company official, Raymond Norris of Durham. He was recaptured two weeks later and is in Durham County Jail awaiting trial on a murder charge.

Fugitive Takes Own Life As FBI Closes In

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — An escapee from a county jail in North Carolina fatally shot himself in the head Thursday after FBI agents and city police surrounded his apartment.

Police identified the dead man as Robert Kenneth Fowler, 43, of Birmingham, Ala. The FBI said Fowler was wanted in connection with an escape from the Randolph County Jail at Ashborough, N.C. in 1970.

Police said Fowler shot himself with a .38 pistol after FBI agents fired tear gas into his apartment and ordered him to surrender.

As agents started to close in they heard a shot. Cochran said that when they entered the apartment they found Fowler's body in a bathroom.

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two spiritual leaders from India, pondering the Western religious landscape, are convinced that it is gradually being revitalized with "leaven" from the East.

"Millions of people in the West now are responding to Eastern thought," says Swami Ranganathananda, a monastic leader of the Hindu Ramakrishna order. "It's having a deepening influence."

This doesn't imply or necessitate any shift of Westerners away from Judeo-Christianity to Eastern faiths, he points out, and adds:

"Once they've come through experience with Eastern ideas, they will find it makes their Christianity more real, that they understand their own religion better."

Muni Shri Chirabhanu, the first Jainist muni—saintly one—to leave the soil of India, also says that newly inspired directions are at work in the West which has become "sick with dogmatic religion."

The two Easterners, here for interreligious conferences at Princeton Theological Seminary this week and at Harvard Divinity School last week, said in a joint interview that Western faiths are suffering from stifling formalism.

"It's a failure of Western religion to express itself in experiential terms," said Swami Ranganathananda, 63, a gentle, articulate man in saffron-hued mantle whose headquarters is in Belur Math near Calcutta.

He said mankind is "moving away from formal religious institutionalism. It's just decaying all around us—there's no doubt about it." But at the same time, he added, "religion now is only beginning."

"Human evolution is psychic, not organic," he added. "It is the next stage. Never in the history of man has there been so much spiritual hunger as today, so much seeking and searching. That is the happy sign."

The interfaith conferences in this country, involving scholars representing Christianity, Islam, Buddhism, Judaism, Hinduism, Jainism and Chinese faiths, are under the auspices of the Temple of Understanding.

This is an interfaith organization, founded by Mrs. Dickerman Hollister of Greenville, Conn., to develop a center in Washington D.C., for inter-religious study and dialogue.

Greenville Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills reminded today the main post office and the East Carolina University station will be closed Monday, Veterans Day.

There will be no deliveries by rural or city carriers except for Special Delivery mail delivered within the city, there will be no window service but lock box service will be provided.

Mills said a city-wide collection will be made from all street letter boxes beginning at 5:00 p.m. Monday, with all outgoing mail dispatched as usual.

Employment Figures Up

RALEIGH (AP) — Nonfarm employment in North Carolina during September totaled 1,796,100, an increase of 10,500 over the same month a year ago.

Labor commissioner Frank Crane reported Thursday that the employment figure was a gain of 25,700 over August, mainly due to seasonal job gains in schools and tobacco stemmeries.

He said factory employment for September totaled 716,200, up 6,000 from August but 7,300 below the total for September, 1970. Non-manufacturing jobs totaled 1,079,900 last month, an increase of 19,100 from August and 17,800 higher than in the same month last year.

Hourly earnings of factory workers were up a penny to an average of $2.62 in September, Crane said. The work week held firm at 40.3 hours, while weekly earnings increased 41 cents to a September average of $105.59.

Suspect Wider Use Of Heroin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee reported Thursday that the use of heroin by American soldiers in Vietnam is probably at least twice as high as the 5 per cent estimated by the Army.

The subcommittee, which includes Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., spent 17 days touring South Vietnam, Thailand, Hong Kong and Japan.

Kid brothers who snoop are bad enough. Kid brothers who take notes while they snoop — they could grow up to be blackmailers!

Yet, Joey doesn't think what he's doing is really wrong. He's just having a little fun at Sis's expense. And that notebook will come in handy the next time she threatens to "squeal" on him.

Part of growing-up is learning what is fair and what is unfair. Part of growing-up, too, is learning to forgive someone who has been unfair to us.

Never underestimate the immediate value of religious training in the Church. Obviously it provides a sound moral and spiritual foundation for later adult life. But, right now, it is molding the attitudes and decisions which will influence his life today.

Nominees Offer Stronger Stand On Criminal Law

Powell Regards Himself As Basically A Lawyer

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Lewis Franklin Powell Jr., a tall graying man trying to keep up with ringing telephones and doorbells, says his only regret about being nominated to the Supreme Court is that he will have to end his role as an active lawyer if he is confirmed by the Senate.

"I essentially regard myself as a lawyer," he said Thursday night shortly after President Nixon nominated him for one of two vacancies on the high court. "We have to have lawyers to make the system work."

Powell, 64, a former American Bar Association president, greeted newsmen at his door with, "Welcome to our home." He sat in a high-backed easy chair in the living room of his five-bedroom home overlooking the James River and indicated no concern for the examination he is likely to receive as a nominee for the high court.

He puts his trust in the constitutional system he said he "deeply believes in."

The Richmond lawyer, cited by fellow Virginians as a fair-minded realist on racial matters, shrugged off the suggestion he might be in for more than average scrutiny by the Senate because he is a Southerner.

"I think the Senate is a very fair-minded body and will consider the nominations on the merits of the individuals," he said.

His booming law practice—his firm employs 60 lawyers—has concentrated recent years on corporate law and antitrust problems. He did aid the state attorney general earlier this year, however, in filing a brief before the Supreme Court in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N.C., school case. That case led to the high court ruling that upheld busing as a desegregation tool.

Powell is described by fellow lawyers as a quiet scholarly man—a lawyer's lawyer. But as he alternately answered questions and stepped over Piper, the family terrier, to answer the telephone in the adjacent library, he exchanged lighthearted banter with his wife Josephine.

Mrs. Powell relayed messages from the telephone and Powell, after listening to a story of one unknown caller who just wanted to talk to a Supreme Court nominee, questioned the advisability of letting others answer the telephone.

"I don't want to be inaccessible to my fellow citizens," he told Mrs. Powell. Powell shuns labels such as "strict constructionist," choosing instead to "consider myself as a lawyer who believes in the judicial system."

He has served in various advisory capacities to Virginia governors and was on the presidential commission appointed by Nixon that became known as the Blue Ribbon Panel on

Sen. Church To Keynote

GREENSBORO (AP) — The keynote speaker for the 39th annual convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina will be U.S. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

The convention is scheduled Oct. 29-30 in Greensboro. Church will speak at the opening session Oct. 29.

State YDC President Charles Winberry announced Thursday that Gov. Bob Scott will be honored at a banquet and dance that concludes the convention Oct. 30.

More than 500 Tar Heel Young Democrats are expected to attend. An announced candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, state Sen. Hargrove Bowles, D-Guilford, and Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan have accepted invitations to address the convention on the second day.

Powell has met Nixon "perhaps twice"—once at an American Bar Association meeting and once at the White House, but "not in connection with the nomination."

Powell watched the President's address on television and said he agreed with Nixon's statements concerning criticism of the nation's highest court.

"It is terribly important to draw a distinction between criticism of the court as an institution and criticism of individual decisions," he said. "This is the rule of law. In a democracy there are ways to effect change through lawful means. Fortunately, this is the system our people have followed since our Constitution was adopted."

Mrs. Powell admitted more visitors, well-wishers this time, and Powell took another telephone call, agreeing to see a film crew that would not reach his well-hidden house until midnight.

In addition to all the people trying to see him, he confessed, there was work on his desk brought home from the office.

Economy Is Seen Pivotal

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina Congressman Nick Galifianakis says he is convinced that the outcome of President Nixon's economic policy and not his trips to Peking and Moscow will shape the 1972 election.

The Democratic congressman also said he believes Nixon will continue to get support from Congress and the electorate "for his actions to reverse the economic crisis for which our nation was surely heading."

His comments came in a speech Thursday to the Sanford Kiwanis Club.

Galifianakis said the rate of the nation's industrial production is "continuing to stagnate" while "seasonably adjusted housing starts also fell 12 and a half per cent last month."

He noted that the September index of the Federal Reserve Board showed an industrial production rise of only 0.5 per cent in September.

"I am afraid this is not a good indicator that our sluggish economy is rebounding to the presidential stimulus," he said.

He expressed hope "the situation will begin to show a more positive trend, because we have at stake the future direction of the United States economy for years to come."

FCC Member To Run For Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Wells, a member of the Federal Communications Commission for two years, is resigning to return to his home state of Kansas, where he is expected to seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Wells, 52, is a former Garden City, Kan., radio and newspaper executive. His resignation is effective Nov. 1.

President Nixon, who named Wells to the FCC, told him in a letter dated Wednesday that his "distinguished service for the past two years as a member of this important agency has justly earned you the gratitude of your fellow citizens."

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court could be expected to take a harder stand on criminal law if Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist are confirmed to take the seats vacated by Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan.

President Nixon, in announcing their nominations, described Powell and Rehnquist as judicial conservatives and indicated he hopes they will redress "the balance of power" within society back toward "the peace forces."

This is "law-and-order" talk. Their records and background indicate that both the soft-spoken, aristocratic Powell and the younger Rehnquist are apt choices of an administration with that aim in mind.

Powell is close politically to Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., Rehnquist to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst. Goldwater and Byrd, to a lesser extent, are virtual folk-heroes to conservatives. Kleindienst is one of the toughest law-and-order exponents in the Justice Department.

Neither Powell nor Rehnquist has been a judge, so there are no rulings and opinions to probe for insights into their philosophies. The best sources, then, would appear to be what they have said and written.

Powell, a 64-year-old Virginian, said in 1965 as he stepped down as president of the American Bar Association: "The key problem is one of balance. While the safeguards of a fair trial must surely be preserved, the right of society in general and of each individual in particular to be protected from crime must never be subordinated to other rights."

In a recent article he described as "standard leftist propaganda" allegations that repression of civil liberties is widespread. He supported government wiretapping of "the radical left" without a warrant and said it is "sheer nonsense" to claim that dissent is suppressed and free speech denied.

This suggests that Powell may not be so chary as Harlan of electronic surveillance or as sensitive as Black to allegations of threats to free speech.

Rehnquist, 47, has been instrumental in developing the Justice Department's position that the president has an inherent right to use wiretaps against domestic radicals. He has called radical protesters "new barbarians" and once criticized the Supreme Court as lacking "common sense" in criminal cases.

Like Powell, then, he probably will support the administration as it seeks to win court endorsement of its wiretap policies. There is no sign, either, that the 1st Amendment will find in him a new champion.

As they reach the threshold of the court, the old liberal majority once headed by Earl Warren as chief justice is already shattered. Only Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall remain of the framers of landmark rulings safeguarding the rights of people accused of crime.

In the center position, with considerable voting influence, are Justices Potter Stewart and Byron R. White, dissenters from major criminal-law rulings but occasional supporters of the Warren majority on selected issues.

On the right are Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun, both put on the bench by Nixon and consistently reluctant to upset a conviction, invalidate a legislative act or chart a new judicial course.

Powell and Rehnquist appear more closely in tune with Burger and Blackmun than with either of the two other groupings. Their nomination makes emergence of a "Nixon" court that much more imminent.

No Doubts As To Where Wm. Rehnquist Stands

By JAMES PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer who left his practice in Phoenix, Ariz., to follow his law-and-order conservatism to the Nixon administration's Justice Department stands today a Senate vote away from the U.S. Supreme Court.

The President who nominated him Thursday night thinks William H. Rehnquist is "fantastic."

Rehnquist, an assistant attorney general, wasn't saying what he thought of the nomination. "You can't be shot for what you didn't say," he told questioners, declining further comment until after the Senate has acted.

In Rehnquist, the President found a nominee about whose legal stance there could be little doubt. He has been interpreting law for the administration since 1969 as chief of the Department's Office of Legal Counsel.

Nixon nominated Lewis Powell Jr., a Richmond, Va., lawyer, to fill a second vacancy on the high bench.

Rehnquist is neither a stranger to the private halls of the court, nor an unqualified admirer of its product.

He served as clerk to Justice Robert Jackson, 1952-53, and once declared the court lacked common sense.

As Justice, he is considered a protégé of Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard D. Kleindienst, one of the toughest law-and-order men in the administration, and has been instrumental in developing the administration's position on wiretaps.

He has said, for example, that a president has the unfettered right to employ electronic surveillance against political extremists even without court approval.

No Restrictions On N.C. Horses

RALEIGH (AP) — All restrictions on the movement of horses in North Carolina have been lifted.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham announced Thursday that the free movement was being reinstated because most horses in the state had been vaccinated against the viral disease Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis.

VEE caused the death of hundreds of horses in Texas and Mexico during the summer. Graham noted there had been no further VEE outbreaks in the nation outside Texas.

He also noted that the mosquito season was nearing an end, and mosquitoes are a prime factor in spreading the disease.

Ervin Predicts Senate Approval

GREENSBORO (AP) — Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has praised President Nixon's two nominees for the Supreme Court and predicted they will win Senate approval.

He said both nominees, lawyer Lewis Powell of Richmond, Va., and William Rehnquist of Phoenix, Ariz., assistant U.S. attorney general, are well known to him and he considers both well qualified.

Ervin made the comments in answers to questions by newsmen before he spoke at nearby Guilford College Thursday night.

Gets 15 Years For Robberies

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Stephen Moore, 18, of Denver, Colo., has been sentenced to 15 years for two bank robberies in the Charlotte area.

He pleaded guilty Thursday to robbing a branch of the Piedmont Bank & Trust Co. in Derita last Feb. 23 and a branch of the American Bank & Trust Co. in Waxhaw on May 13. About $13,000 was stolen in the two robberies.

Judge Wilson Warlick of U.S. District Court sentenced him to 15 years for each robbery, the sentences to run concurrently.

Judge Warlick also sentenced Willie Lee Goss, 33, to 10 years for a $26,000 robbery at the Derita bank on Jan. 24, 1970. Goss also pleaded guilty. The FBI arrested him last month at his home in the Harlem section of New York City.

Intervene New Hope Dam Suit

GREENSBORO (AP) — Ten eastern North Carolina cities and counties have been allowed to intervene on the side of those opposing an attempt by conservationists to prevent construction of the New Hope Dam.

They are Fayetteville, Cumberland County, Elizabethtown, Bladen County, Wilmington, New Hanover County, Dunn, Erwin, Lillington and Harnett County.

Judge Edwin M. Stanley of U.S. Middle District Court signed an order Thursday allowing them to intervene on the side of the defendant, the Army Corps of Engineers. All had filed documents in support of their argument that the dam, scheduled to be built in Chatham County, would provide flood control on the Cape Fear River, which flows from Chatham County eastward to Southport.

Magnate Weds Wife's Sister

PARIS (AP) — Stavros Niarchos, the Greek shipping magnate, got a new wife Thursday but the same mother-in-law. He married Tina Livanos, sister of his late wife and ex-wife of Aristotle Onassis and the Marquis of Blandford.

The wedding took place in the town hall of the 8th Ward of Paris. Mayor Roger Monnet officiated. The bride's mother was the only witness.

Niarchos was cleared of any wrongdoing after the death last year of his wife Eugenia, Tina's sister. He previously was married to Charlotte Ford. They were divorced in 1967.

Tina, about 41, was formerly married to Aristotle Onassis, who married President John F. Kennedy's widow, Jacqueline. Tina's divorce from the Marquis of Blandford, the eldest son of the Duke of Marlborough, was final in May.

The scroll was signed by all the heads of the specialized agencies affiliated with the United Nations. His fellow executives gave it to him Thursday.

Plans To Resign

RALEIGH (AP) — Sen. Har- grove "Skipper" Bowles, D-Guilford, announced today he will resign his legislative post as soon as next week's special session is over to devote all his time to running for governor.

"My decision to resign from the Senate at the end of the special session — whenever that may be — is based on my firm belief that the people deserve the representation they are paying for," Bowles said in a prepared statement.

"It's a simple matter of ethics," he said. "I will attend to my Senate duties during the special session that begins on Tuesday. After the session is over, I intend to use all my time running for governor."

"Therefore, I cannot, in good conscience, accept money from the taxpayers — $250 per month — and be so busy with the campaign that I cannot help the people in my district with their specific, day-to-day problems."

"Although between the sessions the legislator's duties are light, the people need someone who is available to them, not someone who is on the campaign trail," Bowles said. "I will, however, stay with the special session as long as it lasts."

LBJ Shows Up At A Reception

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson made a surprise appearance to praise the work of state Sen. Barbara Jordan at a reception.

"She proved that black is beautiful before we knew what it meant," Johnson told a crowd of about 600.

The reception Thursday night was billed as a boost to urge Mrs. Jordan, a Democrat to run for Congress in the new 18th District.

Mrs. Jordan said she would make a decision by mid-November.

The reception had been under way about 30 minutes when a violinist struck up "Hail to the Chief," and Johnson came to the speaker's platform.

No Emotion On Verdict

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles "Tex" Watson, a small-town high school star athlete who became enmeshed in a love-murder cult, accepted calmly a sentence of death for the seven Tate-La Bianca slayings.

Watson, 25, showed no emotion Thursday when a jury of six men and six women returned the verdict after deliberating 4½ hours.

Under California law, a person sentenced to death is granted an automatic appeal to the state Supreme Court.

Watson is the fourth follower of Charles Manson, 36, to be sentenced to die in the gas chamber for the 1969 murders of pregnant actress Sharon Tate and six others. Manson and three women followers, tried together—also were convicted and sentenced to death for the crimes.

Defense attorneys had depicted Watson as a mindless robot controlled by Manson and drugs at the slaying scene.

Watson had said, "I was doing what Charlie told me to do," in admitting that he stabbed and shot victims on Aug. 9 and 10, 1969.

Watson's trial was delayed because he fought extradition from his hometown in Texas for one year and was committed to a mental hospital in California before being ruled able to stand trial.

Bucs, 'Pack Meet In Emotional Game

Linebacker Terry Stoughton

Doctor To Be At Heel Drills

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson of the University of North Carolina says that a physician will be present at all future UNC football practices.

Sitterson released a written statement Thursday in which he noted that several suggestions made by the Faculty Athletic Committee and others in the wake of the death of football player Bill Arnold were being put into effect.

Arnold, an offensive guard from Staten Island, N. Y., collapsed from a heart stroke after football practice Sept. 6 and died Sept. 21. A report issued by the faculty committee Oct. 8 cleared coach Bill Dooley and his staff of negligence in the death.

However, student and faculty leaders and a group of former UNC athletes have criticized various aspects of the report and called for a further investigation of the death and the entire athletic program.

Sitterson said in his statement that the faculty committee would make a "continuing" study of the policies of the athletic program and "reports will be made as these studies are completed and recommendations made."

It is a continuing thing, something that we long have been studying," Sitterson said later. "There are lots of questions (about athletic policies) that we would like to answer."

He said the study would include policies of red-shirting (withdrawal of athletes from varsity competition for a year); athletic grants-in-aid; dormitory life of athletes; and the relationship between student athletes and the rest of the student body.

Sitterson said other recommendations of the faculty committee which are being put into effect include special clinics for coaches in basic conditioning and training factors. He said a study will also be made of the desirability of setting up a sports medicine department at UNC.

He said UNC "is going to be a pioneer in the United States in relating medicine to athletics. Right now we are accumulating information in this area."

"We want to find out what others are doing and what are the advantages and disadvantages of their programs," Sitterson added.

Blue Devils To Be Minus Jones

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Duke's workhorse fullback, Steve Jones, who was injured in an automobile accident, won't play against Navy Saturday, the third football game he will have missed.

Coach Mike McGee made the announcement as the Blue Devils worked on their game plan Thursday in their last drill before flying to Annapolis this afternoon. Jones is still suffering from the effects of a ruptured breast bone.

The 19th-ranked Blue Devils have won five games and lost only one, a 3-0 upset by Clemson.

Elsewhere around Atlantic Coast Conference camps:

Ike Oglesby, North Carolina fullback who has missed the last two games with leg cramps, took part in Thursday's workout but did not appear to be running at full speed. Coach Bill Dooley said he probably wouldn't know until near kickoff time whether Oglesby will be able to play in the home game against Wake Forest. The game will be tele-

Emotion.

Perhaps all of the Pirates hopes for the season may be wrapped up in that one word. East Carolina University is 1-5 right now, but if they get enough emotion going for them, they could come away with a victory Saturday that would make the year for them.

The Pirates are playing another 1-5 team, the Wolfpack of N.C. State, but Buc Coach Sonny Randle warns that all similarity ends right there.

"They've had their problems, sure," he said. "But they are big and strong, a lot more physical, and they have more people to work with. They are a better team."

But Randle probably wants this game more than any other on the Pirate schedule the entire year. "It's definitely the biggest game of the year as far as prestige and overall importance are concerned," he said. "Furman and Davidson (the two Southern Conference teams left to be played) will be awfully big too." But there is a note in his voice that means the State game ranks head and shoulders above the rest.

But to beat the Wolfpack, regardless of the emotion, the Pirates will have to cut down on their mistakes. "We can't hope to eliminate them," Randle said. "We just can't help making them. We can only hope to make fewer than we did last Saturday."

Last Saturday, against West Virginia University, the Pirates made seven obvious ones, fumbling away the ball twice, and five times having it intercepted, tying a school record with the latter.

"It wasn't just the mistakes," Randle said. "They are too good a football team. They had more talent, and were bigger and stronger. It's the same thing we run into week after week. Of course, the mistakes hurt; it would have been closer otherwise."

West Virginia actually drove the ball a long distance only once, going 80 yards for a field goal. The rest of the time, the Bucs turned the ball over in good field position.

Injuries will also be a problem for the Pirates. Without adequate depth, they are scraping the bottom of the barrel for replacements for hurt players — or else players are playing with their injuries. "We're still beat up bad," Randle said. "We hope that everyone will be in condition to play by Saturday. But we've been rattled so many times, we're starting to fall apart (physically)."

Randle was pleased with the output of three of his running backs, Les Strayhorn, Billy Wallace and Rusty Scales. "They give what they have, and you can't ask for more," he said.

"Our receiving was still pitiful," Randle said. "You go over everything you can in practice, but it's still musical chairs out there, we're just trying to find someone who can catch the ball. It's pathetic the number of balls we've dropped."

Randle did feel that Carl Summerell did spark the team when he came in the game. It was his first appearance since the William & Mary contest. He ran the ball well, but was injured and John Casazza returned. Randle also felt he did a good job after coming back in.

"We don't know who will start at quarterback yet. We'll probably decide early Saturday."

But while State has the horses, "120 scholarships to 73," according to Randle, the game will revolve around emotion. "This will play a big part in the game. We're going to have to execute better and cut down on our mistakes, too," he added.

Randle also felt the Pirates were going to have to learn to pull together after making a mistake. "When we fumble, we seem to fall apart instead of buckling down to get the job done."

There has also been talk about State having nothing to gain and everything to lose in the game, while the opposite was true for the Pirates. But Randle doubts this.

"It's not realistic to think that they have nothing to gain, and it's certainly not realistic to say that we have nothing to lose. We have prestige, recruiting, and pride to lose," Randle said.

The biggest problems the Pirates will have to overcome will be the four sophomores that N.C. State will be starting in its backfield. Bruce Shaw will be at quarterback after a fine performance against Duke last week. In two games, Shaw has hit on 18 of 38 passes for 180 yards and a touchdown.

The running back positions belong to Willie Burden, State's Supersoph, and another fine runner, Charley Young. Burden had picked up 465 yards in 115 carries, a 4.0 average. Young has 267 yards in 44 carries, a 6.1 average.

The fourth sophomore in the backfield will be wingback Mike Stultz, who has caught eight passes for 145 yards. Joining him as a receiver is Steve Lester, the split end, who caught a record-setting 10 passes against Duke. He's got 15 on the year for 165 yards. Burden also has caught 13 passes for 157 yards.

"They are an explosive group," Randle said. "Those sophs are all full of fire."

Earlier in the year, many referred to the State-ECU game as the Battle of the Supersophs. Burden is living up to his reputation, but except for his play in The Citadel game, ECU's Carlester Crumpler has been showing only occasional flashes of his former greatness.

Now, whether the head-to-head battle occurs is another story. "Both of them will certainly be on display," Randle said. "But as to whether the battle develops is a question mark."

Despite the problems that beset the Pirate leader, he doesn't believe that the season is over. He feels that with the proper attitude and a good effort, the Pirates can beat State, and go on to win all of the rest.

"We're getting a little closer as a team," he said. "The offense is showing this. But we have to execute," he said again, "and we have to cut down on our mistakes."

Pirates Vie For State Running

RALIEGH — The individual race for first place will attract more attention than the team battle as Duke is a strong favorite to capture the 23rd annual North Carolina State Collegiate Cross-Country championship here Saturday.

A field of 107 runners and 12 teams are entered in the meet which will be run over the five-mile North Carolina State University cross-country course at 4 p.m. The start and finish will be on the Wolfpack's intra-mural fields behind the Carmichael Gymnasium.

Duke has the same team back that won the meet last year, with one exception, but coach Al Buehler picks up freshman Scott Eden, who was one of the nation's leading high school distance runners a year ago.

Heading the Blue Devil runners is 1970 Atlantic Coast Conference champion, Bob Wheeler, a sophomore who is undefeated this year. But back is defending meet champion Tony Waldrop of North Carolina.

Wheeler and Waldrop will have to face stiff challenges to enter the winner's circle from North Carolina State's Jimmy Wilkins, third in last year's ACC meet and ninth in the collegiate championships, and the Tar Heels' Larry Widgeon.

"Duke has to be the pre-meet favorite," says Wolfpack coach Jim Wescott, the meet director. "However, North Carolina will enter the strongest three front runners in Waldrop, Widgeon and Reggie McAfee, the 1970 National Junior College cross-country champion. But the Blue Devils have the needed depth to win."

Other top contestants include State's Neil Ackley, the Blue Duke's Roger Beardmore and Western Carolina's Terry Helms.

While Duke and North Carolina are pretty much certainties to finish one-two, a close third place race should develop between N.C. State, East Carolina, Western Carolina and Appalachian. Others entered are Pembroke State, Wake Forest, North Carolina A&T, Fayetteville State, High Point and Campbell College.

Sports Department Returns To Lead By Slim One-Game Margin

Last week's results had a very pleasing effect on the sports department. So much in fact that we're tempted to end the contest right here and now.

The 8-4 record posted by Sports, along with a similar mark by Jack Whichard, pushed us back into the lead in the week's "Pick 'Em" chart.

Nobody else fared very well. John Trotman had a 6-6 week, while George Holland, Lauren Riddick and Tom Baines all fall off to 5-7.

Overall, that puts this writer back on top with a 31-17 mark for a .646 average. That compares with a 71-35 (.670) mark for all games during the season.

There is a three-way deadlock for second between Trotman, Baines and Whichard, all 30-18, .625. Riddick is 27-21 for a .563 mark, while Holland is 26-22, .542.

This week, there are a lot of similarities, but enough differences to make things interesting, and to cause a few shifts in the standings.

But first, a look at the high school games around the area.

Farmville plays host to Greene Central in a key Eastern Carolina Conference game. Greene Central shot into the lead of the league last week with its surprise win over Ayden-Grifton. Farmville can pull back into a tie with a victory in the run for the wire. It promises to be a tough game, between two good defenses. We'll take Greene Central in this one.

North Pitt travels to Conley looking for its first win. Conley lost a heartbreaker to Eastern Wayne last week, and may not be expecting much of a battle from the Panthers. This could cause things to get rough for the Vikings. But I'll go with Conley to win it.

Southern Nash visits Ayden-Grifton in another tough game. The Firebirds are fresh from an upset win, and the Chargers come out of an upset loss. The question is which team is going to be up for it. Both are capable of winning. We'll stick with the Chargers.

Robersonville visits Saratoga in another non-league game. The Golden Eagles are rolling along now, and Saratoga should not be able to handle them.

Williamston visits Perquimans in an Albemarle Conference game, seeking to keep close in the race for the title. The Tigers should gain another win here.

Turning to our poll, Rose High plays host to Raleigh Enloe in a game that promises to be an exciting one. The Rampants, winning one after two almosts, hope to keep rolling. Enloe, off to a slow start, is rolling now too. The full poll leans toward Enloe, on a 4-2 basis, with, as last week, only this writer and Whichard picking the Rampants.

East Carolina visits N.C. State in THE game. At stake for State (1-5) is face, while the Pirates (1-5) have everything to gain and not a thing to lose in this one. It could be a real humdinger. I want to pick the Pirates, but.... The poll says State — all six votes.

Casper, Trevino Leading Kaiser

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper and Lee Trevino each think they're ready to start grabbing gold on the golfing fairways again.

"I think I found it out there today," said Casper Thursday after a first-round 67 in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

"I think I'm ready to start playing golf again," said Trevino, who shot a 69.

Casper and Trevino headed a huge field of tightly bunched challengers to Georgia natives Hugh Royer and Tom Aaron, who had six-under-par 66s Thursday for the first-round lead.

Casper was just a stroke back and Trevino was well within striking distance as the touring pros took advantage of ideal playing conditions to make a mockery of par 72 on the North and South courses at the Silverado Country Club.

The other at 67 were J. C. Snead, Al Geiberger, Mike Bill, Jim Colbert and Larry White.

Eight more followed at 68 with Trevino and 17 others at 69. That left 34 players within three strokes of each other. In all, 85 players, more than half the field, matched or bettered par.

Traffic Jam At Rockingham

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — A traffic jam of drivers hoping to get up-front berths in the American 500 starting field developed at North Carolina Motor Speedway today.

Rain forced a 24-hour postponement of the first round of time trials Thursday, leaving 30 spots in Sunday's 40-car order to be filled in two qualifying periods today. The list of drivers waiting for a shot at the pole position included all of NASCAR's top regulars, plus long-time competitor A. J. Foyt.

Foyt, however, had to abandon Banjo Matthews' poppy red Chevrolet temporarily. The Houston, Tex., veteran also is committed to drive in a 150-mile race for Indianapolis-type cars in Phoenix, Ariz., Saturday and had to leave Rockingham for practice there.

Matthews said another driver would be selected to put the car in the lineup, but that Foyt would return in time to drive all but the first lap Sunday. NASCAR Rules require that the qualifying driver must start the race.

Favorites for today's pole position were almost a dime a dozen. At least nine drivers, including Foyt, had turned practice laps above 135 miles per hour. Most observers figured 136 m.p.h. around the one-mile oval would be needed to get the inside front row spot.

The track's one-lap qualifying record is 139.048 m.p.h., set in March, 1970, by Bobby Allison in a Dodge. Since then, however, the stock sedans have been throttled down somewhat by carburetor restrictor devices.

The Mixed Doubles Tournament of the Greenville Tennis Club wound up yesterday at the Elm Street Park Tennis Courts. The team of Sis East and Wilkins Winn captured first place in the match, defeating the

Only Two American Leaguers On 1971 Baseball All-Star Squad

By DICK JOYCE
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National League dominated the 1971 Associated Press Major League All-Star baseball team by landing players on all but two berths on the 10-man squad.

Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers was named the left-handed pitcher ahead of Vida Blue of the Oakland A's and Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins was chosen to one of the outfield spots as the AL representatives.

The world champion Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs each placed two players in the annual poll of sports writers and sportscasters announced Thursday in which 285 participated prior to the league playoffs and World Series.

The Pirates landed outfielder Willie Stargell and catcher Manny Sanguillen on the squad while the Cubs are represented by second baseman Glenn Beckert and right-handed pitcher Ferguson Jenkins. The Chicago hurler beat out Tom Seaver of the New York Mets. The other outfield berth went to slugger Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves while the rest of the infield consisted of first baseman Lee May of the Cincinnati Reds, third baseman Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals and shortstop Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Aaron, who enjoyed a banner season with a .327 batting average, a career high 47 homers and 118 runs batted in, drew the most votes, 230. Stargell, the National League home run king with 48, was next in the outfield voting with 208. Oliva, the American League batting champion with a .337 average, was far back in third place with a 180 votes.

Beckert, who batted .342 ran away with the second base berth, drawing 223 while runner-up Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals collected 15. Beckert is the lone repeater from last year.

In the closest balloting, Wills, who batted .281 and was a Dodger sparkplug, nipped Fred Patek of the Royals, 66-53.

Baltimore, the American League champion, failed to place a player on the first team. Third baseman Brooks Robinson and outfielder Frank Robinson, though, made the second team.

Roberto Clemente, who led the Pirates to their World Series triumph, placed fourth in the outfield voting with 92. He was followed by Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees, 56, and Frank Robinson, 36.

Sanguillen, another Pirate Series star and .319 hitter during the regular season, won the catching spot by drawing 180 votes to 51 for Johnny Bench of the Reds. Torre, the NL's Leading Hitter (.363) and RBI-man (137), collected 212 votes at third base compared to 57 for Brooks Robinson.

May, the Cincinnati slugger who batted .278, outdrew Detroit Tiger first baseman Norm Cash, 88-51.

Lolich, who won 25 and lost 14, paced the AL in strikeouts (308) and compiled a 2.92 earned run average, outpolled Blue, the early season sensation, 143-123.

Blue finished with the best ERA in the AL, 1.82, and registered a 24-8 won-lost record along with 301 strikeouts.

Jenkins, who had a 24-13 record and 263 strikeouts, drew 127 votes compared to Seaver's 84 for the righty pitching berth. Seaver led the NL in strikeouts with 289 and ERA with 1.76 while rolling up a 20-10 mark.

Regional Universities Will Fight 'Super UNC'

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Regional university trustees have lined up solidly in support of a new system of higher education, but not if it means being drawn into the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

and former board chairman for Appalachian State University. Trustees of other regional universities contacted in an Associated Press poll were less adamant, but all expressed opposition to the "Super UNC" restructuring plan proposed by William Friday, president of the consolidated university. The UNC expansion plan, endorsed by the consolidated university's 100-member trustee board Monday, will be a major factor in debate expected when the General Assembly meets next week to consider restructuring of the higher education system. A legislative committee last Friday approved a plan calling for creation of a 33-member board of governors to control all 15 state universities — including the six campuses in the UNC system — and the North Carolina School of Arts. The committee's plans, however, left to the governing board authority to delegate powers to be exercised by institutional trustees. By doing so, the committee exposed the plan to opposition from the regional universities, whose trustees are fearful they will be left virtually powerless.

John S. Stewart of Durham, chairman of North Carolina A&T trustees, said his board favors the legislative restructuring plan but would prefer a strong local board. "We all recognize there must be some coordinating, or governing board, to move in on the duplication and to provide a more organized system. But a college president needs a cabinet to help him," Stewart said.

The A&T trustees adopted a resolution this week stating that any restructuring should include adequate minority representation on the state board and should provide sufficient authority for local boards "to control the local operations of the institutions."

Wallace Hyde of Asheville, trustee chairman at Western Carolina said he "would prefer that the local board retain more authority than obviously it will. Specifically, I'd prefer to see the local board play a dominant role in hiring the president of the university."

He added, "But the overriding issue is the one strong governing board. Personally, I'm willing to sacrifice some of these other things to bring that about."

Hyde said problems would arise regardless of the direction the General Assembly takes in restructuring the system, either going to the UNC plan or by strengthening the existing Board of Higher Education.

"I would prefer the committee plan," he said. "To avoid conflict, you simply ought to wash out both of them — UNC's trustees and the Board of Higher Education — and bring about a new group," Hyde said.

East Carolina University's trustees have not acted on restructuring since Jan. 6, when they adopted a resolution urging consideration of a plan that would strengthen the Board of Higher Education and retain the local boards. The trustees meet in Raleigh Wednesday.

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, chairman of the ECU trustees, declined to state his personal opinion on the restructuring controversy. Morgan is expected to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor next year.

The chairman of North Carolina Central University trustees, Clyde Shreve of Greensboro, predicted his board "will adopt a policy of watchful waiting."

"I have some misgivings about both major plans," Shreve said.

Shreve said he "would certainly prefer that it (North Carolina Central) be merged with a new board" rather than being absorbed by the UNC system.

"But my major concern is to make certain the regional universities maintain to the highest possible degree local autonomy short of budgetary control. . .," he said. "I prefer to reserve the right to select the president and to exercise control over the faculty."

Winfield Blackwell of Winston-Salem said that, "If the central board is going to hire and ship a man to each campus as president, you're not getting much benefit out of men who know the campus and its particular needs." Blackwell, chairman of the trustees of Winston-Salem State University, said his board believes "a single board should have the complete power and authority to have all the dealings with the General Assembly. There should be no direct politicking by presidents, trustees or other representatives of any state university."

He added, "Local boards should have substantial responsibility of how they should conduct the job of educating our young people."

Two legislative allies of the regional universities, Reps. J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell, and Horton Rountree D-Pitt, have indicated they will seek an amendment to the committee bill that would spell out some of the duties reserved for the local trustee boards.

But Huskins and Rountree said they would vote for the committee bill regardless of the amendment's fate.

There are always the waters of the Mekong for a cleanup splash.

It's hard to tell where mud ends and boy begins.

A little modesty . . .

Of course mud is glorious. Children instinctively understand what adults forget: the joy of its soft, cool, moist, accommodating and thoroughly delightful texture. If there's one thing that children everywhere in the world enjoy, it must be mud. Here, in Vientiane, Laos, children use the occasion of a Buddhist festival to turn the richly mudded banks of the broad, meandering Mekong River into a playground.

The banks are liberally wet down to create a properly oozy mudslide. Clothes are discarded and the enthusiastic participants hurl themselves across the slippery surface, crashing and tumbling into each other.

Eventually there's the Mekong River itself, for a blissful splash to wash the traces of the game effortlessly away. The joys of mud were never more joyful.

This week's PICTURE SHOW by AP photographer Jim Bourdier.

Bliss is a mudbath for this Laotian youngster . . .

. . . his enjoyment is shared by an ecstatic crowd of friends.

The Worry Clinic Why Provide A Discount?

Confucius said: "Give a hungry man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach him how to fish and you feed him for 100 years." This column gives the background facts so you can solve your own problems in the future. It explains the reasons why!

Case R-595: Dr. E. Duane Hulse is a very successful pastor of a big church at Madison, Wisconsin.

At the Spring meeting of the Board of Directors of our Scientific Marriage Foundation, he said:

"Dr. Crane, the Farmers Insurance Exchange of Wisconsin recently made a very sensible innovation in insurance rates.

"For it offers a special 10 percent discount on auto insurance to non-smokers!

"In fact, it had earlier pioneered lower life insurance rates, too, for those who do not smoke.

"Isn't this a sensible way to reward the non-smokers?"

Horse Sense

Yes; for the typical one pack-per-day cigarette smoker shortens his life by from 5 to 7 years.

So you non-smokers have had to help pay the insurance claims for those who die prematurely, due to their tobacco habit.

"Dr. Crane," you may inquire, "How does smoking cause more auto accidents?"

"We can see how tobacco would shorten the smoker's lifespan.

"But why should it jeopardize his driving skill at the wheel of a car?"

Well, memorize these reasons:

(1) Many smokers die of sudden coronary attacks or strokes of apoplexy while they are actually at the wheel.

Opening lead: Jack of ♣ Breaking up the defenders' line of communications is frequently the key to success in playing a no trump contract, and the holdup play is declarer's main club. A somewhat off the beaten track application of this principle is presented in today's hand where South was the declarer at three no trump.

West opened the jack of hearts and declarer, unwilling to make an immediate finesse in the suit, put up the dummy's ace. East very alertly unblocked for his partner by dropping the king under the ace. Altho his play establishes North's queen, it facilitates development of partner's suit.

A small club was led from dummy and now East made a second fine play by putting up the ace so that he could return the three of hearts. West covered South's nine with the ten to dislodge the queen. When another club was led to the jack, West won the trick with the king and cashed three heart tricks to set the contract.

East made an excellent play in throwing the king of hearts under the ace, for if he doesn't, the suit will subsequently block provided that South plays low from dummy on the second round of hearts. East, in with the king, is unable to continue the suit and thereby surrenders a valuable unit of time to his opponent. Declarer is able to develop three club tricks which along with three diamonds, two hearts and two spades, enables him to score an overtrick.

Despite his opponent's fine performance, South was in position to nullify the defensive efforts by ducking the first heart and then playing the ace on the second lead. The fact that East's king of hearts drops under the ace is purely coincidental. In fact, it does not matter who holds the king of hearts. South's paramount concern is to protect himself against a five-two division in the suit.

By permitting the opponents to win the first heart trick while he takes the second, South exhausts East of his holding in the suit, so that when he gets in with the ace of clubs—he is unable to return a heart. The suggested play assures declarer of the time required to work on the club suit and develop his ninth trick.

"Who is Harry Kellerman

reports that the driver lost control of his car!

At the autopsy table, however, we medics often find that he was dead before his car ran off the road or into a tree.

So the auto crash was a RESULT instead of a CAUSE of his death!

(2) Your vision is automatically impaired while you are smoking, for you inhale a lot of carbon monoxide.

Even a 3 percent carbon monoxide content reduces acuteness of vision and depth perception.

But in regular smokers, the content may run as high as 10 percent carbon monoxide in the blood!

Even the wreaths of smoke in front of his eyes and the two streams that may snort out of his nostrils, also add an external impairment of his vision.

And smokers often let go of the wheel to fish for a cigarette or then light a match.

Youthful smokers may also drive with one arm around their girl friend and momentarily release the other from the wheel while removing the cigarette from their lips.

Our A.M.A. back in 1959, had warned that after smoking only 3 cigarettes, the oxygen deficiency in the smoker's blood was the equivalent of suddenly being at a 7,500 foot altitude.

Which is an obvious reason, even to you laymen, why heart attacks are so common.

For when a person's heart is barely getting enough oxygen to function moderately well, if he were suddenly deposited on top of Pike's Peak, where oxygen is "thin" in the air, then the heart patient might be unable to survive.

It is thus a belated evidence of "horse sense" for insurance companies to reward the non-smokers with lower insurance rates.

Same is also desirable for the non-drinkers, for drinkers contribute at least 50 percent to auto fatalities!

So send for my booklet "How to Break the Tobacco and Liquor Habits," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Extra Weeks Of Boot Camp

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Boot camp at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here is being expanded from 9 to 11 weeks and officers think it will improve morale.

Recruits presently get a 10-day leave following their nine weeks of basic training, but most must then return to Camp Pendleton for an additional two weeks of combat training.

Under the new plan which takes effect Nov. 1, the combat training at Camp Pendleton will be included in the 11-week boot camp. The new Marines then will get their 10-day leave and report directly to their next duty assignment.

Not having to return to basic training after their leaves "should definitely improve the morale of the recruits," said Col Edmund G. Derring, commander of the MCRD Recruit Training Regiment.

Derring said the program will be conducted on a trial basis here and will not be tried at this time by the recruit training center at Paris Island, S.C.

President Didn't Offer His Nominees To ABA

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, a man of many surprises, may have played a "trick-or-trick" game on the American Bar Association in choosing two nominees for Supreme Court vacancies. In this month of Halloween, Nixon nine days ago submitted to the ABA Judiciary Committee names of six potential nominees. The list did not include his ultimate selections, William H. Rehnquist of Wisconsin and Lewis F. Powell Jr. of Virginia.

After Nixon made his picks known in a television-radio address Thursday night, a knowledgeable White House source said the President had Rehnquist and Powell in mind before submitting any names to the premiere trade association of the organized bar.

Asked why Nixon's ultimate selections were omitted, the source suggested there was little point in submitting a full roster of possible nominees since the initial list of six was reported publicly, by his reckoning, an hour or two after submission to the ABA.

On Wednesday, the ABA committee voted to withhold approval from two of the six on the Nixon list—the two panel apparently deemed most likely to be nominated. Those decisions quickly became public knowledge. Within minutes after Nixon spoke Thursday night, the White House released a statement by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell terminating the administration's agreement to consult with the bar group on Supreme Court nominations. In explaining the action, Mitchell likened the ABA committee to a sieve. The turn of events suggest either that the ABA committee trapped itself or that Nixon and Mitchell trapped the ABA in order to find an escape hatch from an unprecedented consultative collaboration. In either event, the scenario was appropriate for the trick-or-trick season. The truth presumably will become evident in time. For the moment, it is sufficient to say that Nixon reserved his options and initiative—the element of surprise—until he appeared before TV cameras and radio microphones in his Oval Office. The ABA did not stand alone as the source of pre-announcement speculation about Nixon's choices. Senate sources said Wednesday that Nixon very shortly would nominate two of the six on the list given the ABA. They were identified as Mildred Lillie of Los Angeles and Herschel Friday of Little Rock. If it was Nixon's intention from the start to snare critics in selecting Supreme Court nominees, he confounded just about everyone in the process.

Four Persons Hurt In 2-Car Collision

GRIFTON — Four persons reportedly received minor injuries in a two-car collision near here about 4:45 p.m. yesterday. Highway Patrolman G. L. Swanson identified the drivers involved as Mary Oaks, 27 of Dunn, and Doris W. Manning, 26, of Pinewood Trailer Park near Ayden.

The collision occurred about 1.2 miles north of Grifton on old N.C. 11 — now rural road 1939. Trooper Swanson, who charged Mrs. Oaks with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, reported the woman allegedly made a left turn into the path of the Manning auto.

Mrs. Manning and her three children were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for minor injuries they received in the crash. Mrs. Oaks and her two children were not injured, officers said.

Burley Tobacco Loan Rates Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Agriculture has approved loan rates averaging 71.5 cents a pound for burley tobacco.

The rates will range from 44 to 80 cents, increases of one to five cents from last year. Loans will be available through producer cooperative associations.
