

Communist China Entry Voted Nationalist China Expelled From UN

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly voted Monday night to admit Communist China to the United Nations and expel Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime in a major defeat for the United States.

By a vote of 76 to 35, with 17 abstentions, the assembly adopted an Albanian resolution recognizing representatives of the People's Republic of China as "the only legitimate representatives of China" to the United Nations and expelling "forthwith the representatives of Chiang Kai-shek."

Earlier in the night the assembly voted 59 to 55, with 15 abstentions, to reject a U.S. resolution to make expulsion of the Nationalists an "important question" requiring a two-thirds majority for adoption.

Among the U.S. allies who broke with Washington and voted against the U.S. resolution were Britain, Canada, Denmark, France, Norway and Pakistan. Belgium and Italy abstained.

As it turned out, the Albanian resolution got more than a two-thirds majority. Its adoption killed a rival U.S. resolution to provide "dual representation," for both the Communists and the Nationalists, a situation Peking said repeatedly it would not accept.

accept.

The Nationalists did not wait for the final vote. After defeat of the "important question" resolution, Foreign Minister Chow Shu-kai led his delegation out, ending the Chinese Republic's 26 years as a charter member of the United Nations.

"We have severed our connection with this building," said a member of the delegation from Taiwan.

Less than an hour after the Albanian resolution was adopted at 11:17 p.m. EDT, Secretary-General U Thant cabled the text to Peking as notification that the People's Republic was finally in after 22 years of trying.

There was no immediate response or comment from Peking. From the rostrum, Vice Foreign Minister Reis Malile of Albania called the outcome "a victory for the peace-loving peoples and a great defeat for the United States of America." Sir Colin Crowe of Britain termed it a "return to reality."

U.S. Ambassador George Bush told reporters: "The U.N. has crossed a dangerous bridge, the bridge of expulsion... I hope the U.N. will not relive this moment of infamy."

Bush said Nationalist China would survive outside the United Nations, but American public reaction would be bad and he did not know what Congress would do.

Addresses General Assembly

Scott Strongly Endorses Restructuring Measure

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott today strongly endorsed a committee-approved higher education restructuring bill because "it will do the job that so badly needs doing in North Carolina."

And "it removes higher education from the political thicket," Scott said in a speech prepared for a joint session of the General Assembly, which is considering restructuring of higher education in the state.

"It is not a consolidated university bill, although it does contain many of the ingredients insisted on by the university leadership," Scott said of the bill that would create a strong, 32-member board to govern all state-supported universities.

"It is not a bill of the regional universities although they, too, can find much to their liking in its essential features," Scott continued.

"It is not the governor's bill, although I find it contains what I believe to be the cardinal elements for any new structure," he said.

And, he added, "I am further convinced that this method can save money" by providing "a single, unified budget for all public senior institutions—a budget based on the best educational advice as to what is most needed for the good of higher education as a whole."

"This method of budgeting will have the further advantage of removing from the legislative and political arena educational decisions that can best be made by educational administrators," the governor declared.

Scott sought to allay the fears of some blacks that the new plan was intended "to phase out what have traditionally been known as black institutions — our predominantly Negro universities."

"Nothing could be further from the truth," he said. "There need be no fear on this score on the part of any institution — black, white or Indian — or on the part of the six consolidated university branches, or on the part of the school of the arts, or on the part of the nine other institutions."

"None of them will lose their identity," he said. "None of them will be swallowed-up by the system. On the contrary the new system will promote diversity and individual identity."

Scott noted that some friends of the regional universities want the bill to spell out the powers of the trustees of the individual institutions.

"Although this bill does not specifically designate these powers," Scott said, "I can assure you that one of the first orders of business for the new board of governors will be to delegate appropriate powers to the institutional boards."

Scott said these powers should be diverse, "including authority to administer endowments and trusts; handle campus-oriented scholarships; make all appointments below the level of those having permanent tenure; advise with the board of governors on major appointments; regulate student conduct; operate athletic programs; recommend building needs; determine questions concerning admissions and the awarding of earned degrees within broad policies established by the board of governors; and most importantly, serve as a composite advisor to the board of governors."

In closing, Scott recalled the words of former Gov. O. Max Gardner, who pushed university consolidation through the General Assembly 40 years ago.

"It does not require an expert to discern the inherent wastefulness, both in energy and resources, of the present trend... our institutions are supported out of one treasury; I can see no valid reason why they should not be under one executive management and one board of control... We need the united support of North Carolina behind one great, unified, coordinated, and intelligently directed educational enterprise," Gardner told the 1931 General Assembly.

"Consolidation was a good concept then," Scott said. "It is a good concept now. We must extend it."

Adviser Returns

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)

— Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger returned to the United States today after a trip to Peking.

He and his party flew on to Washington, after their Boeing 707 was refused, to report to President Nixon on arrangements made for the forthcoming presidential visit to mainland China.

A spokesman for Kissinger's group said the flight from Shanghai to Anchorage was the first such flight from mainland China to the United States since before World War II.

The Yugoslav news agency Tanjug had reported Kissinger's departure from the Chinese capital.

The Tanjug correspondent in Peking said that the extension of Kissinger's stay there for two extra days aroused much speculation and was also linked by observers to the vote on Chinese representation in the United Nations.

The report said there were no comments in Peking on the outcome of the vote.

Wachovia Plans Large Building

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The Wachovia Corp. reportedly plans a 36-story office building in downtown Charlotte.

It will have about 600,000 square feet of rentable space. Another bank, North Carolina National Bank Corp., announced earlier this month that it is planning an office building with more than 600,000 square feet of rentable space.

Air Force Is Preparing For Pullout Orders

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Nixon's troop withdrawal announcement only weeks away, the Air Force has told personnel some Vietnam tours may be cut short and men awaiting orders for Southeast Asia may receive different assignments.

An Air Force message to all commands advises that future "operational programing in Southeast Asia may result in considerable turbulence in the assignment of personnel to and within that area."

"It cannot be predicted at this time just how much our normal assignment policies and procedures will be affected," the message said. "However, it is to our advantage to prepare Air Force personnel for any contingency by alerting them to some of the measures which may become necessary... on a short notice."

Although the Air Force emphasized that the message, sent Sept. 17, was "precautionary in nature," it included detailed instructions on how to handle men whose orders are changed or cancelled at the last minute.

Pentagon officials said word had not yet come from the White House on how large a withdrawal to expect from Nixon, who has promised an announcement about Nov. 15.

Nevertheless, the message—the first sent by the Air Force prior to a pullout announcement—was seen as one more indication Nixon may be preparing something dramatic.

Until now it had been widely assumed that most Air Force units would remain behind in support of the South Vietnamese after the withdrawal of U.S. ground troops.

Current troop withdrawals have been averaging about 15,000 men a month. A speedup of 20,000 would leave 40,000 men in Vietnam by the end of June, which has long been expected by most observers.

But there have been hints in recent weeks of an even faster pullout. In an Oct. 13 news conference, Nixon said that by the time of his visit to Moscow in May "we trust that we will have accomplished that goal (of ending U.S. involvement in Vietnam), or at least have made significant progress toward accomplishing that goal."

U.S. troop strength in Vietnam now stands at about 202,000, of which about 35,000 are Air Force personnel.

In its message, the Air Force said volunteers for Thailand and Vietnam "may be diverted at the last moment," or reassigned even after arriving at their new posts; "overseas reassignments may be cancelled at the last moment"; and "there may be instances where personnel will not serve the full RVN (Republic of Vietnam) or Thailand tour for which selected."

Bethel Mayor Resigns; Dupree Fills Vacancy

BETHEL — J. M. Butterworth, the man who has been mayor of Bethel for more than ten years, resigned his office last night at a special call meeting of the Town Board.

The former mayor, stating the board met last night at his request, tendered his resignation "for personal reasons."

For two terms a town commissioner in the late 1950s,

Butterworth first became mayor of this north Pitt town in 1961 when he replaced former Mayor C. W. Everett, at the time Everett became a state legislator.

To replace Butterworth, commissioners elected James Dupree, a member of the Bethel Town Board, as the new mayor.

"I will endeavor to do my best with your help," Dupree told members of the town board at the time of his election. "Bethel is a very promising town, and I want to be a part of making it grow."

A native of Pitt County, Dupree is a farmer-businessman. He is with Blount Enterprises, and serves on the boards of some of the diverse operations of the corporation. He is a veteran and served with the 101st Airborne during the Korean situation.

A member of the Bethel Rotary Club, he was at one time president of that organization. He is a member of the Bethel Baptist Church and for several years served as a board member and treasurer of the church. He is also currently a member of the school board of the Greenville Christian Academy.

Dupree is married to the former Frances Mayo of Belvoir. They have two children, Kim and Connie.

B. F. Manning, Jr. was elected as the new town commissioner to replace Dupree. This is the first time the Bethel native, proprietor and operator of Manning Radio Service, has served on the Town Board.

Manning served with the Air Force in World War II, and is married to the former Miran Barnhill of Bethel.

Moore To Head Attorneys Case Is Not Prossed

Leland (Lee) Moore has been named Campaign Director for the forthcoming 1972 March of Dimes drive against birth defects.

Junius H. Rose, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Health Foundation which sponsors the drive each year, made the announcement.

Moore, a native of Madison, has been in Greenville since early 1969 with Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, where he is currently an Estate Consultant with the Trust Department.

In preparation for the campaign, which will begin nationwide in January of 1972, Moore and two East Carolina University students — AFROTC Cadet Captain Clyde Cruseberry and Angel Fight member Miss Ruth Elmore — recently attended a national conference held in Atlanta.

In Greenville, the AFROTC and Blue Angel have traditionally been active in sponsoring and supporting activities and programs connected with the annual March of Dimes drive.

Last year, Captain Gary Schaal of the ECU AFROTC faculty headed the drive which resulted in a collection of $8,088.91. The AFROTC Cadet Captain Clyde Cruseberry and Angel Fight member Miss Ruth Elmore — recently attended a national conference held in Atlanta.

Moore, as campaign director, will be organizing campaign plans between now and the end of the year. In late December, the Pitt County Chapter will publish a figure showing the amount of money spent during the year for all polio cases and treatment of birth defects in children.

The local chapter also contributes money to North Carolina's two birth defect centers, one in Chapel Hill and one in Morganton.

Attorneys Case Is Not Prossed

AYDEN — The case against Greenville attorney Jerry Paul, charged with assaulting an officer here September 21, has been not prossed in District Court.

The action was taken after solicitor Bill Barker, prosecuting attorney for the state, indicated there was insufficient evidence to bring the case to trial.

District Judge J. W. H. Roberts was presiding at the October 14 court session at which the case was not prossed.

Paul, 28, had been charged by Ayden police sergeant J. W. Pridgen who alleged the attorney hit him with the door of an automobile.

The attorney has been defending civil rights protestors who have been demonstrating in Ayden over the past two months.

By JIM ADAMS
WASHINGTON (AP) — A fight to slash America's money to the United Nations for expelling Taiwan was shaping in the Senate today with more advance votes lined up against it than for it.

Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., announced immediately after the 75-35 U.N. expulsion vote Monday night that he is drafting legislation for a "major reduction" of the U.S. financial contribution. An effort to tack the fund cut onto the foreign aid bill before the Senate in the next two weeks is a possibility, his office said.

"This will do no more than reflect a major downgrading of the U.N.'s role in the eyes of most Americans," Buckley said in a statement issued in New York.

Buckley and 20 other senators issued a declaration last month that the United States should "reassess its financial and moral support of the United Nations" if Taiwan was ousted, but 32 senators issued a letter Monday denouncing a fund cut.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., charging America was handed the defeat after paying 35 per cent of the United Nations' support, joined Buckley's drive.

Senate and House

Republican leaders Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Gerald R. Ford of Michigan issued a statement over the weekend saying the United Nations could not expect the degree of its present U.S. support if it expelled Taiwan.

But the 32 senators repudiating Buckley's cut included Republican National Chairman Robert Dole of Kansas and all four major potential Democratic

if Chiang Kai-shek's government was expelled. Congress has already appropriated America's $107 million for the United Nations and related programs this year but a small amount of U.N. program money is in the foreign aid appropriation still in Passman's subcommittee.

It is the House-passed $3.2 billion authorization for this appropriation that is now before the Senate.

Three-fourths of the House, 336 members, joined 67 senators in urging that Taiwan be kept in the United Nations but only 33 House members joined the 21 senators in suggesting U.S. money be cut

if Chiang Kai-shek's government was expelled. Congress has already appropriated America's $107 million for the United Nations and related programs this year but a small amount of U.N. program money is in the foreign aid appropriation still in Passman's subcommittee.

Farmville Town Office Opens In New Quarters

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Town Office opened Monday morning in a newly renovated building across the street from the old office.

Decorated with deep brown paneling and turquoise tweed throughout, the new building houses Town Administrator Carl Beaman's office. Others working there include Beaman's newly hired secretary, Mrs. Patricia Thigpen, plus three veteran employees, Andy Martin, Mrs. Sylvia Fisher, and Mrs. Margie Tripp.

Besides the front offices, there are a conference room, a billing room, and a storage area, all connecting to a hall that runs the length of the building.

The Water and Light Department, headed by J. A. "Bub" Wooten, and a building inspector's office will use the space vacated in the old town office building. Magistrate Joney Taylor probably will occupy the office vacated by Wooten, and his office will be used by the Police Department.

An open house is planned, but it probably will not be held until the recovery of Beaman, who is now a patient at Duke University Medical Center, Martin said.

A building inspector probably will be chosen at the November town meeting.

TGS Steers Win 5 State Fair Awards

Steers owned by Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. won five awards at last week's North Carolina State Fair in Raleigh, according to the firm's farm manager, Hayes Gregory.

Gregory reported that most of the awards were won by crossbreeds raised on Texas Gulf's farming operation near Aurora.

The manager announced that an Angus-Simmental cross took first place in the carcass class. This award, he said, is based on the excellence of carcass after slaughter.

Texas Gulf also captured a first place award in the pen-of-three category with all three steers of the straight Angus breed. Second place in the pen-of-five went to the Company's Angus-Simmental cross, Gregory added.

Among the feeder calves,

Texas Gulf won first place in the pen-of-five with its Angus-Hereford cross and second place with its Angus-Simmental cross, it was reported.

Gregory explained that the purpose of Texas Gulf's beef cattle program is to utilize the land both before and after mining and to provide information for others interested in beef cattle production in Eastern North Carolina. Currently, the farm has 1,600 cattle, said, with the majority Black Angus. Some 400 are Herford-Angus crossbreeds, 160 Angus-Simmental crossbreeds and 40 Limousine-Angus crossbreeds.

Two 'Incidents' Are Investigated

Greenville and East Carolina University police are continuing their investigation into two incidents where co-eds were reportedly assaulted last week.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Greenville officers are continuing their hunt for a white male who allegedly grabbed an ECU co-ed around the neck while the girl walked along Cotanche Street near Eighth Street about 10 p.m. October 20.

College police are investigating an assault reported about 6:30 p.m. Friday which occurred in the area of Slay Dorm.

British Troops In Border Fight

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops fought a gunbattle with snipers across the Irish border today.

Army headquarters said snipers opened fire on British soldiers blowing up a road into the Irish Republic to the south. The troops returned fire across the frontier in a 45-minute skirmish.

None of the soldiers was hit. The army is blowing up frontier roads to cut down arms smuggling into the north.

The gunfight followed a night of street battles and shooting in the north, and a riot in the Longkesh internment camp where prisoners seized four hostages and battled British troops firing nausea gas. The hostages were freed unharmed. About 260 suspected guerrillas are being held without trial in the camp.

In Belfast, police found the gagged and blindfolded body of a young man shot through the head in an alleyway. Detectives said he was evidently killed by the Irish Republican Army—the IRA—whose guerrilla gunmen wreak vengeance on informers or lawbreakers in unpoliced Roman Catholic neighborhoods. He was the 134th victim of two years of violence in Northern Ireland.

The usual IRA punishment is tarring and feathering, but the underground army has now warned that anyone giving information to the British army will be "dealt with."

In England, two former crew members of the luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2, both Irishmen, were charged with having 37 hand grenades aboard the ship.

Six suitcases full of arms for the IRA were found last week in Cork, Ireland, after the ship called there.

In Dublin, a 23-year-old Irish girl wanted by Dutch and British police in connection with three tons of Czechoslovakian arms captured at Amsterdam airport sidestepped questions about arms smuggling.

Brunette Maria Maguire said she and IRA official David O'Connell, also wanted by Dutch police, "were just seeing the sights and enjoying ourselves."

O'Connell admitted in an earlier interview that he had been shopping for arms for the IRA and said Miss Maguire, a linguist, had helped the negotiations as his interpreter.

Miss Maguire said the couple escaped a European police dragnet by hitchhiking through Holland, Belgium and France and at the frontiers, "All I had to do was smile at the gendarmes and they let us through."

The trouble at the Longkesh camp, 12 miles from Belfast, started with a protest against living conditions by about 250 inmates who seized four guards as hostages.

Masses of prisoners ran toward the wire wall surrounding the camp, but troops from a nearby camp moved in to drive them back. The battle lasted two hours.

A dining hall and a recreation hall was set afire and the army said a number of internees suffered head injuries. It did not report any casualties among the troops.

The camp was opened in August to house persons suspected as members of the Irish Republican Army, rounded up by British troops and Ulster constabulary and held without charges. The men claim that the living facilities are inadequate.

Earlier in the day, a woman was hospitalized after exchanging shots with British troops on an arms search in West Belfast. Another was hit by plainclothes police who said she was part of a team that planted a bomb in a crowded nightclub Sunday night. Her male companion was shot and killed.

Security forces said the IRA is using girl guerrillas in front-line action because its manpower has been depleted by casualties and internment.

On Saturday, two sisters were killed by British troops in an IRA stronghold in Belfast. The army said the women were in a car from which shots were fired at British troops. Friends of the women denied this and said they were sounding a fog-horn to warn residents of searching troops.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

Boards Meet On Thursday

Both the Greenville Board of Adjustments and the City-County Board of Adjustments are scheduled to meet Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

The Greenville Board has five items listed for its agenda. These are a request for special use permit by Hodges-Bell Oil Company; and four public hearings — on a special use permits by Progressive Oil Company; on a special use permit by Pump 'n Pay, Inc.; a special use permit by Paul J. Spangler; and one for Noah's Ark Church.

The City-County Board of Adjustments will consider three agenda items. Two are public hearings; both special use permits requested by Allied Petroleum Corporation; one for a location on the Washington Highway adjacent to Hardee's Creek; the other on N.C. Highway 30 west.

The third item is a consideration of a request for special use and variance by John H. Wellons.

The Stereo Repairman Is A Lady Flame Rekindled, No Marriage Spark

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Tuesday, October 26, 1971—3

BEAVERTON, Ore. (AP) — When Valerie Miller sits down at the workbench at Audio Service Co., it's not to watch her husband working nearby. For some six years she has been repairing stereos, tape recorders and similar gadgets. Only two women have passed the certified electronic technician examination given by the National Electronics Association.

She is one of them. She recently became the first woman licensed to service audio equipment by the State of Oregon.

She was a registered medical technician when she married and says she could have gone back to the laboratory when her six children grew up.

"And I would have been better paid," she says.

"I don't think I would have ever become involved if Vern hadn't been in the service business, but I'm intrigued by it."

It began, she says, as she watched her husband servicing equipment.

"I would watch Vern do something and then ask why he did it and how he knew he should do it."

"When Vern tired of answering my questions, he would hand me a book and say, 'Here, go read this.' I'd spend half the night reading, then be back in the morning with more questions."

When her husband opened his own shop about six years ago, she helped him build some of the diagnostic equipment he needed.

"One day Vern came in and found me working on a set. 'How do you know what to do?' he asked. I told him what I had found."

"He said, 'Go ahead.' 'When I finished, I turned the set over to him. 'Here, see if it works,' I said."

"Go ahead, plug it in," he answered.

"How do I know it won't blow up in my face?" I asked.

"Vern showed me how to check for shorts, which I did and found none, and when I plugged the set in it worked. No explosion. Just music, nice and clear."

She says she still studies even though she passed the examination last August on her first try.

"There's lots of things I want to know."

"Transistor approximation, for instance. That's a way of diagnosing an ailing transistor. Helps you understand better what a transistor does, how it works."

"I want to know all about transistors. And so many other things."

SHE'S NOT JUST WATCHING — Valerie Miller is working at her husband's Audio Service Co. She was the first woman licensed to service audio equipment by the state of Oregon.

Charladies Want More Style

LONDON (WNS) — The 4,000 cleaning women who tidy up the British government's offices have called for sweeping changes in their overalls. "We don't want Dior evening gowns, but we would like to look attractive while cleaning up," said Margaret Morrison, chairman of the Civil Service Union Committee. Mrs. Morrison has now written in "The Whip," the civil-service magazine, "We are forced to look like characters from a play. The days of the baggy old bag must go." The committee is not sure what it wants as a replacement but has asked for "experimental new designs."

DEAR ABBY: Forty-two years ago, a man caught my eye and I caught his, but we were both married at the time so there was nothing we could do about it. I moved away but I never forgot Mac. And he never forgot me, and when he came to see me the other day I just about fell over dead!

My husband had died only three months before. Mac said he had kept track of me all these years, that his wife had died four years ago and he was just waiting for me to be free.

Here's the catch. Mac wants me to come live with him. No marriage. He has plenty of money and I could sure use an easy life because mine has been hard, but I am not going to live in sin with anybody no matter how much money he has.

Mac is 73 and has grown children and grandchildren. I am 69 and am in the same situation. He suggested we go away for a trial weekend, but sin is sin. How can I get him to offer marriage?

CHRISTIAN WOMAN

DEAR CHRISTIAN: You may not be able to. But don't hand out any free samples or you'll never sell the package.

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a 15-year-old girl. I would like to ask her out but I'm afraid of what her parents might think because I am 25, and used to date her older sister. [I am also a good friend of her brother.] The older sister went away to college and I find the younger one extremely attractive and remarkably mature for her age.

I've been tempted to call this girl but have hesitated because I don't want to upset her parents by courting a daughter whom they might think is too young for me. I would appreciate your thinking. IN LOVE BUT "TOO OLD"

DEAR "IN": "In love" with a girl you've never even dated? Wouldn't it be more appropriate to say you are "very much attracted" to her? I suspect you miss her older sister and think the younger girl would make a handy substitute, but I think you ought to find someone nearer your own vintage.

DEAR ABBY: A member of my husband's social club was invited to our home for dinner. Later in the evening he discovered a large snag in his suit coat, and expressed much concern over it, but could produce no evidence as to what he had caught it on. He did make a point of saying, "I didn't have it when I first got here."

This man insists that we are obligated to have it repaired or replace the coat since it happened in our house. Are we?

DEAR BEING: Call your insurance agent and ask him if you're covered for this type of accident. [If you aren't, and your signature reflects your feelings, ignore the fellow, and let him sue you for damages.]

Are YOU registered to vote? If you don't know where to register, telephone either the DEMOCRATIC or REPUBLICAN headquarters. They will tell you. Then find out who is running for what, and try to learn as much about the candidates as possible. [The party headquarters will be glad to provide you with such information.] If he is running for re-election, find out all you can about his voting record. How "absent" was he, and how did he vote when he voted. Finally. VOTE!

DEAR ABBY: It's not surprising the waitress in Cypress takes home only $1 an hour.

She complained about having to write separate checks for a party of 12. No more work is involved in writing separate checks than in writing one big one. In fact it's easier. The same amount of writing is required, and adding two or three items on each check is easier than adding 20 or 30 items on one.

An efficient waitress organizes the checks to correspond to the seating arrangement of the party, and pays the same way.

Can you imagine a party of 12 yelling back and forth [or worse yet, grabbing the check] to see how much each one owes? And invariably each one wants to pay his or her share with a $20 bill. This takes much more time than separate checks. Sign me

PARIS (WNS) — Mme. Albina de Boisrouvray, president of a major French movie company, decided that she was wasting too many business hours tied up in Paris traffic in her chauffeured limousine. Now she is the first head of an important French company to trade in her limousine for a motorcycle, which also comes equipped with a chauffeur. "Other executives are already following my example," she reported. "I need the driver to find parking places and watch the motorcycle while I attend business meetings on time." COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

Associated Press Food Editor

We had a pre-Halloween rehearsal. We tested Creamy Orange Punch and Halloween Cookies before October 31 so we could pass along the recipes to you well ahead of the merry-making occasion.

Both the drink and the cookies were thoroughly enjoyed by our tasters. However, if you want to skip making the creamy beverage, consider serving orange-flavor Hawaiian punch just as it comes from the can. It is a blend of seven natural fruit juices and has the same amount of vitamin C as a comparable amount of orange juice. It's such a brilliant orange color that it is right in tune with Halloween.

CREAMY ORANGE PUNCH

2 cups orange-flavor Hawaiian punch, chilled from a 46-ounce can

1 quart vanilla ice cream

1 pint orange sherbet

Put half the punch, half the ice cream and half the sherbet in an electric blender; blend until ice cream and sherbet are melted.

Pour into glasses. Repeat, using remaining ingredients. Serve at once with straws.

Makes about eight 1-cup servings.

HALLOWEEN COOKIES

2½ cups unsifted flour

1 teaspoon baking powder

½ teaspoon salt

½ cup ¼-pound stick butter or margarine

½ cup vegetable shortening

1 cup firmly packed light brown sugar

1 egg

1 cup very finely chopped walnuts

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder and salt.

In a large mixing bowl cream butter, shortening and brown sugar; beat in egg. Stir in flour mixture and walnuts. Wrap dough in transparent plastic wrap and chill until firm enough to roll — about 1 hour.

On a floured pastry cloth, with a floured stockinet-covered rolling pin, roll out the dough ¼ at a time to ¼-inch thickness. Cut out with Halloween cookie cutters — owl, pumpkin, cat or other appropriate shapes. Place

Grant Will Broaden Efforts

A federal grant of $117,720 to the Walter Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center has been announced by Congressman Jones and it will establish an entirely new program here.

Rep. Jones said the funds will provide for training professional personnel in the alcoholic rehabilitation field. Included will be training in an area of early detection, education, counseling, referrals, treatment, rehabilitation, research and evaluation.

Chairmen Feel Morgan Ahead

By BRYAN HAISLIP

ASHEBORO — A poll of Democratic county chairmen across North Carolina gauging the present status of developing contests in next spring's primary showed these results:

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, who hasn't said definitely he will run, is leading for the party's nomination for governor.

Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, the choice of Gov. Bob Scott, is favored for Presidential nomination.

Jim Hunt, Wilson attorney making a first bid for office, is ahead of the pack in the race for lieutenant governor.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan is out front for another term, but faces a challenge from Rep. Nick Galifianakis, Fourth District Congressman.

The poll was made by W. Clyde Lucas of Asheboro, a former Randolph County Democratic chairman and an avid follower of political affairs.

Early this month, Lucas wrote to the 100 county chairmen asking them to size up sentiment on the races in their areas. He got back 75 replies, three-fourths of the total and representative of all sections of the state.

Politics As A Hobby

"Politics is my hobby," explained Lucas, currently a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee. He's uncommitted to any candidate, and had no partisan motive in making the poll. "I thought it would be interesting to see how things were coming along," he said.

He reasoned county chairmen out to know, since it's their business to keep a finger on the public pulse. The number of replies and the obvious care chairmen took in answering, Lucas said, indicates interest is rising fast in the '72 campaigns.

"County chairmen are on the ball," he noted. "I believe they're alert and aware of the challenges before the party next year."

Here's the tabulation on the governor's race:

Morgan, 40 per cent; Lt. Gov. H. P. (Pat) Taylor Jr., 33 per cent; State Sen. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, Jr., 15 per cent; and Hugh Morton, Wilmington and Linville businessman, 11 per cent. Others shared the other one per cent. Taylor and Bowles are the only two announced candidates.

The presidential breakdown:

Teddy Rated Third

Muskie, 38 per cent; Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, 21 per cent; Sen. Ted Kennedy of Massachusetts, 15 per cent; Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, '68 Democratic presidential nominee, 13 per cent; Sens. George McGovern and Fred Harris, 4 per cent each; others, 5 per cent.

For lieutenant governor: Hunt, 34 per cent; Roy Sowers, state director of Natural and Economic Resources, 24 per cent; House Speaker Phil Godwin, 19 per cent; Rep. Allen Barbee of Nash, 10 per cent; Mrs. Margaret S. Harper of Southport, state Democratic vice chairman and a '68 candidate for the post, 9 per cent; others, 4 per cent. Only Hunt and Barbee are announced candidates.

Sen. Jordan led in his race with 58 per cent. Galifianakis, who has not announced as a candidate, received 32 per cent. Dr. Eugene Grace of Durham got 3 per cent; and Dr. John Gamble of Lincolnton, 2 per cent. The latter two both have announced as candidates.

A tabulation of the results was mailed to the 100 chairmen and to all the candidates. "Even Gov. Wallace," Lucas remarked. A candidate who saw the results observed that it was right in line with two or three professional polls which have been made in the state recently, Lucas added.

Campaigns Taking Shape

Although the primary is nearly seven months away, some candidates already are shaping their campaigns. Several have opened offices, hired staff, and started recruiting an organization. The outcome of the poll of county chairmen probably reflected this activity by some candidates, and lack of it by others.

For example, Hunt has set the pace in preparing for the lieutenant governor's race. He has billboards up, maintains a full travel schedule, and has drawn together a corps of supporters including some party leaders of influence.

On the other hand, Morgan acts the part of a candidate without committing himself irrevocably to the role. He has said he will wait until around the first of the year to announce his intentions.

Galifianakis has been covering the state to assess his chances in a race against Jordan. Most observers look for him to run. A reading of 32 per cent, at this preliminary stage, might well give him encouragement.

Lucas agreed that conclusions from a poll at this time are tentative. He plans another next February, when campaigns are really rolling. That should give a closer reading, he added, on the likely outcome.

The congressman said the grant sets the stage for the first phase of a five year state-wide pilot program to be implemented in Eastern North Carolina. While this is the first of its kind, federal grants are planned for similar programs in other states.

Since it was established as the result of a bill guided through the State Legislature by Congressman Jones, the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center has tackled an acute problem. With this new grant, announced by Jones who has since gone to Congress, the center has the opportunity to develop a new program which can be of great benefit in working with alcoholics.

All of us who have been interested in the establishment of the center here and its work with alcoholism should welcome this grant and the challenge it offers.

Endorsement May See A Spurring Of Funds

Hopefully the resolution passed by the Mid-East Economic Development Commission favoring a grant for the East Carolina Regional Institute building will speed things along.

The institute, under its director Thomas W. Willis, has already proven its value in serving the counties and communities of Eastern North Carolina.

Now adequate facilities are needed if the institute is to play its full role in developing a richer life for all of us here in the east.

A building for the institute is already planned and once funds become available it can be constructed. It is to be hoped that the Mid-East Economic Development Commission's stand will bring about the federal grant which is needed for this project.

Sen. Muskie's Midwesterner

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The public embrace of Donald Peterson, the incendiary Democratic committeeman from Wisconsin, by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's Presidential campaign strengthens belief among Democratic professionals that the Muskie forces have abandoned good sense in their effort to appease the party's left wing.

Indeed, the announcement of Peterson as Muskie's "Midwest Coordinator" left Democratic politicians incredulous. Having a few days earlier suffered humiliating defeat at the hands of Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien inside the Democratic National Committee over control of convention machinery, the Muskie camp's embrace of Peterson was a second pointed insult hurled at O'Brien. All year, Peterson has been personally harassing O'Brien with guerrilla warfare over party reform.

But Muskie's campaign staff — particularly John F. English, Democratic national committeeman from New York — is preoccupied with appeasing the party's left. As an original dump — LBJ leader in 1968, Peterson would unquestionably improve Muskie's credentials with the left.

Moreover, Peterson was eager to mount the Muskie bandwagon, but there was one little problem back home in Wisconsin where Peterson's enemies are legion. David Carley, the high-powered businessman-politician who is Muskie's chairman in that critical primary election state, made clear he would tolerate no Wisconsin role whatever for Peterson.

The solution is a most peculiar one. Peterson will be barred from activity in his own state of Wisconsin, but will push Muskie's cause in Midwestern states — Minnesota, Iowa, the Dakotas, among them — which he visits as a salesman for his pizza company. Peterson will deal not with party regulars but only with his old companions of the 1968 McCarthy campaign.

If kept quiet, that arrangement might have made some sense. Instead, Muskie headquarters trumpeted Peterson's appointment. Although English had wanted to name Peterson "field coordinator," the press release removed the restricting adjective and made him "coordinator" for the Midwest. Unbelieving Democratic politicians surmised Muskie had named Don Peterson his top man in the crucial Midwest.

The reason for politicians' hostility toward him stems from Peterson's style as much as his ideology. A case in point occurred after Peterson (and the Muskie forces) had been trounced by O'Brien in the National Committee meeting here on selection of a credentials committee chairman. Peterson approached O'Brien, the target of his year-long attacks, and offered to bury the hatchet. O'Brien graciously accepted.

But moments later, dining with a few other National Committee members, Peterson unleashed a blistering attack on O'Brien. What makes this remarkable is that Peterson knew his appointment as a Muskie coordinator was soon to be announced and that his anti-O'Brien utterances would be attributed to Muskie himself.

Salvaging A Useful UN

UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council last week adopted a windy resolution on South West Africa. The General Assembly this week will vote on the Chinese question. To the players on the scene, these are absorbing struggles, and the decisions doubtless carry a certain symbolic meaning. But in their effect upon the real world, do these infinite debates, strategems and full-blown resolves carry significant weight? Do they matter? The candid answer is, no. These are popover resolutions, crusty on the outside, so much hot air within. South Africa will pay no more attention to Wednesday's pronouncement than a truck driver pays to a fly on his sleeve. China will do as China will do. The world's greatest hope for peace has become the world's most flattulent bore.

What is to be done with the United Nations? Earl Warren, in an address at Belgrade last summer, started off with some sensible recommendations, but the former chief Justice cannot stay sensible long. Before he had finished, he had wandered off in the same old follies. He was once again demanding that member nations provide the UN "with standing forces to carry out peacekeeping functions." He was urging that member nations "accept the jurisdiction" of the World Court.

Now, granted, Warren's premises are valid. They are the same premises propounded for many years by such thoughtful men as Norman Cousins and Charles Rhyne — in brief, that "national" measures no longer suffice on a planet troubled by problems that are international in scope: pollution of the seas, pollution of the winds, global communications, the extinction of species, and so on.

Yet none of the global thinkers, it seems to me, takes into sufficient account the facts of political life today. In their vision of nations as they ought to be, the one-worlders lose sight of nations as they are.

Last week's dumbshow in the matter of South West Africa offers a timely case in point. The Security Council insists upon referring to the old mandated territory as "Namibia." But Namibia does not exist. There is no such thing. It is like Camelot, the Land of Oz, and Yoknapatawpha County. It is fiction; and the point is that everyone knows this.

The Council's resolution demands that South Africa yield to an advisory opinion of the World Court. The notion is that a rule of law must be obeyed. But in the context of the World Court, the notion fails, for most of the members of the Court are no more than ventriloquist's dummies. South Africa will continue to administer the affairs of South West Africa; the UN is powerless in the matter; and everyone knows this.

So it is on a larger scale. Is it seriously imagined that the Soviet Union would surrender its imperative political and territorial interests to the United Nations? Come closer home: Is it seriously imagined that the United States would yield in any vital matter? Plainly not. That is why the veto exists. That is why the old Connally Resolution will not be repealed.

More Than Money

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you think all it takes to marry off a daughter is money, you're wrong.

You also need a groom, and he's got to be at the wedding—which is where I ran into problems.

To get the whole happy expensive mess into proper focus we turn back to last year after my miss and her fella, senior classmates at Temple University, got engaged and set the date.

He had just joined the Army Reserves and was awaiting call-up for five months of active duty, hoping to time it to make the wedding, finish some courses for a B.A. degree and start law school.

Weeks passed, then months, but no Army orders. Time was critical. Too late an Army reporting date would mean my prospective son-in-law would miss classes and the wedding date.

"You know people," my worried wife said. "Call the Army, call your senator, call anybody."

I already had, zeroing in on the Defense Department and its military red tape through Pennsylvania's two U.S. senators, Hugh Scott and Richard Schweiker. After all, the young man wasn't trying to get out of the Army, he was trying to get in and having no luck.

My wife was getting frantic, and so was my daughter. The caterer, the florist, the photographer and the orchestra leader also might have been concerned if they knew the dilemma and how it might cut them out of a big payoff in a cancellation or elopement.

About this time a year ago, President Nixon was on the election trail and planning a quick Pennsylvania stopover at Lancaster to plug a candidate for governor who never made it. I took the missus along on the assignment hoping to get her mind off a wedding still seven months away.

Good thinking? Well . . . not exactly the way it was originally figured. Women just won't listen.

When the President, after his speech, moved past newsmen on the way to the White House helicopter, my wife stuck out a hand to say hello, and Nixon grabbed it. She wouldn't let go.

"Mr. President, can you help a young man get called to active duty in the Army?" she asked—a determined mother, cool, calm and collected.

That demolished me, usually cool, calm and collected.

"Who is this young man?" Nixon asked.

"The man my daughter is go-

Strength For Today

THE END NOT YET

We appear to be living in an age of violence. Why? Undoubtedly there are many reasons, some of which are embedded so deeply in human nature and charged with such emotion that the cause of such violence would be hard to specify.

There are certain things, however, of which we can assure ourselves. One is that government of the people, for the people and by the people means that people are taking an interest in government never taken before. There are, of course, many things the matter with government, industry and social conditions that need to be remedied. The first glance might assure us that all we need to do is take off our coats, roll up our sleeves and get busy. This is not true. There are times when such procedure might be indicated but not usually. Historians a hundred years from now looking back upon the present era will have explanations for the present age of violence — some of which will be right and some distorted and wrong.

The words of Jesus were: "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." (John 14:27).

People being as they are, violence is never going to dry up and blow away. There will always be somebody striving for one thing or another. Whether we want to be or not we will be partisans in many areas of modern life.

The end is not yet.

It's No Way To Run A Business

By ELMER ROESSNER

It would be maddening if you went into Macy's and saw a raincoat and asked a salesgirl, "How much is this coat?" and she answered, "That depends. Are you under 21? Or perhaps over 65? Are you going to wear it for 28 days this winter? Or 45 days? It can cost you from $19 to $78, depending on your answers."

If you didn't strangle the salesgirl on the spot, you'd probably rush screaming from the store. Yet that is the mad, mad way airlines are running their business, and wondering why they are losing money. Macy's would be losing at that rate, too.

To take a live body from New York to London and back, plus 60 pounds of baggage, an airline will charge from $190 to $782. And $2 extra each way to listen to the sound track on the movie. Screwy Scales

Let's take a 747 leaving Kennedy Airport, New York, for London today. Among the almost 400 passengers are these people and what they are paying for round trips: A Mrs. Rockefeller, flying first class, $782.

Gus Seller, flying basic economy, $452.

Rev. Gluyas Jones, on a 28-day excursion, $322.

Father Pat McCool, on a 45-day excursion, $272.

Mrs. Luther Bunker, flying with a group from an established organization, $237.

Robert Kaye, flying with an "Affinity group," put together by the airline, $217.

Eloise Lyon, a Vassar student who was on stand-by, $190. People 65 may soon get the same rate as "senior citizens."

Pvt. G. I. Linehan, a GI standby, $228.40

These are all rates approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board and charged by Pan American, TWA and most foreign lines. Icelandic Airlines, not being a member of the International Air Transport Association, makes its own rates, but they have to be approved by the CAB.

In fact, it may cost a 110-pound person four times as much to fly the Atlantic as another 225-pounder.

And flying to London, the 747 may pass a chartered airline with a group paying anything less than $217 each.

The same crazy ratio of fares applies to most transoceanic routes.

And things may get worse. Or better.

The Air Trust

IATA, an international cartel if there ever was one, although it has sent me nasty letters saying it wasn't, met earlier this year in Montreal to fix rates starting next Feb. 1. Lufthansa, the German airline, wouldn't go along with the rest and announced it would charge what it darned pleased. So no agreement was reached.

A new meeting has been called for Lausanne, Switzerland, for today. If the transatlantic lines do not agree on a scale of fares, the variations may be almost as bad as they are today.

Is that any way to run an airline? You bet it isn't.

Convicts Go Into Classrooms, Tell What It's Like

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Charles Williams sat calmly in a high school classroom here and told about 50 students that "I'm serving a life sentence for first degree murder."

The man next to him, Leroy George, told the class the same thing.

The men were not handcuffed. They didn't wear prison uniforms. And there were no armed guards present.

They are members of a speakers' bureau at the Oregon State Penitentiary. In the past year the group has delivered 293 talks in 69 Oregon cities. They tell high school students and civic organizations "what it's like" at the penitentiary.

Cons Answer Questions

Though the speakers include every kind of criminal from a bad check writer to first degree murderers, not one has yet caused the State Corrections Division any embarrassment.

The inmates talk briefly to students—usually a modern problems class—then open up to a "no-restrictions" question period.

The two most popular topics are drug abuse and life in Oregon's "Big House."

"How's the food?" asked a student from North Salem High School during a recent session.

Say He Didn't Kill

"The food is probably just like you have here," replied George.

The class groaned.

"This is kind of personal," another student asked hesitatingly, "but why did you kill the man?"

"I didn't," Williams replied.

Calls System Unfair

G. Handley Barker, the corrections employee who shepherds the prisoners from school to school around the state, said the only taboo is "trying the man's case."

Otherwise the prisoners respond frankly with such answers as "sure there are drugs inside the walls." "No, I don't think the prison system is fair."

One inmate regularly tells students he believes marijuana should be legalized.

One-third of the 75 men involved in the community speaking program the past year are members of the penitentiary's "Lifer's Club."

Membership in any of the prison's 15 inmate clubs helps get a man on the speaking circuit because his club recommendation weighs heavily on the superintendent's decision as to who goes.

His men are doing so well on their rehabilitation programs, Barker complains, "that I keep losing my best speakers on parole."

A high school teacher asked Williams "What makes you decide to change, to participate?"

Replied Williams, "you look at the wall and you know you can't break it down with your head—it's gonna outlast you. So you decide to go along."

Barker said most inmates feel they are getting more out of the classroom exposure than the kids are.

Revolving Wardrobe

This exposure sometimes changes a prisoner's attitude. "He's telling the kids so often about how he's going to go straight, that pretty soon he believes it," according to Barker.

Barker recalls a time he introduced an inmate to a Chamber of Commerce president, who was also manager of a supermarket. The inmate later said, "this is the first time I ever met a supermarket manager except at the end of a gun."

The penitentiary has a revolving wardrobe for men—so they can choose the clothing they want to wear when they go out.

"Sometimes," Barker explains, "the kids get to wondering how bad off the prisoners are, when they see them well-dressed, and they hear about how many clubs they have in prison."

Expect To See Guards

"But when the men tell students that their day begins at 5:45 in the morning, that's enough to run off any teenager."

Some small towns in Oregon at first are apprehensive about allowing prisoners from the penitentiary to visit their school. There was the instance of a high school principal who wanted to know if state police would be posted as guards at each door of the school.

Often, as students file into a classroom where the prisoners are waiting to speak, the young people look apprehensively around the room, trying to find the armed guards, or expecting to see handcuffed prisoners.

On one recent trip two murderers were kept overnight in a small county jail which up to them had never held anyone for a crime more serious than bad checks. "The jailer was so impressed," Barker recalls, "that the next morning the jailer's wife baked two pies for the men."

Barker usually is the only escort for each two inmate-speakers, except on overnight trips out of town when he is accompanied by another officer.

"Each time we leave the penitentiary," Barker joked, Supt. Hoyt Cupp tells the inmates 'bring Barker back.' And they always do."

The answer, it seems to me, is to preserve those things the UN can do, and to abandon those things the UN cannot do. There is indeed a great and useful role for the UN as a service agency, as a conference center, as a forum for coping with some of the problems Earl Warren mentioned. If the UN confined its labor to preserving the seas, it might be respected; but so long as it blusters around with impotent demands that South Africa withdraw from a territory vital to South Africa, the UN will be treated with contempt.

Any such recasting of the UN would demand a complete rewriting of the charter—but so what? Surely it would be better for the UN to be effective in modest areas than to be futile in large.

Democratic Congressmen who had joined the anti-war forces in last June's Vietnam vote had second thoughts.

Coaxed along by the White House (including a private session with President Nixon), some 10 Congressmen dropped their previous support of the Mansfield amendment, a vital—if only partial—offset for 20 switches in the other direction. Most important was Rep. Harley Staggers of West Virginia, chairman of the House Commerce Committee. Another was Rep. John Murphey who represents the conservative Staten Island district in New York City. Nevertheless the White House is pessimistic about the growing Mansfield amendment support in the House.

A footnote: Although House Democratic leaders did not solicit votes against the Mansfield amendment, Majority Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana displayed courage in voting against it, bucking 2-to-1 sentiment in his own party.

Lindsay Politics

Foremost behind Leon E. Panetta's decision to leave Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York last week for law practice in California is Lindsay's preoccupation with Presidential politics.

Fired as the Nixon administration's chief school desegregation official, liberal Republican Panetta joined the Lindsay administration in hopes of fighting for civil rights. He soon found, however, the Mayor and his top aides were preoccupied with a Lindsay Presidential campaign, starting with Lindsay's switch to the Democratic party.

Frank Jackson's bank is getting married and moving to Richmond.

To Frank, his bank is Carolyn James. He couldn't care less about our size and strength. He only uses seven of our services, so the other 94 are the furthest thing from his mind. And he doesn't give a hoot about our 145 offices in 53 cities. He only knows that his bank is a nice person who does her job right. And who asks after Mrs. Jackson's arthritis. Who pretends not to notice, when he pretends that he forgot to prepare his own deposit slip. Again.

Who asked for his advice about buying a stereo. And took it. So when Carolyn leaves in January, Frank's bank goes. But not for long. Because Lisa Kent is being trained right now. And she's a nice person who does her job right. Doing all our jobs right is how we got to be the biggest bank in the state. It's how we mean to stay there. Wachovia Bank & Trust, N.A.

Some Benefits Despite A Diplomatic Defeat In UN

An AP News Analysis
By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The expulsion of the Nationalist Chinese from the United Nations is a major defeat for the Nixon administration, but the United States might obtain some benefits in the long run.

As a point of fact, the 76-35
vote Monday night throwing the Taiwan government out of the world organization will not affect relations with the Nationalist regime.

The United States has a defense treaty with Taiwan as well as other diplomatic and commercial commitments.

These will be maintained, according to U.S. officials.

These officials also point out the United States still recognizes the Chiang Kai-shek government, and will continue to do so, while there are still no official U.S. relations with the Communist regime on the mainland.

And while the U.N. defeat is harsh medicine for a world power to swallow, some diplomatic sources say the final result may be a healthier world climate.

They explain the absence of the Nationalists from the U.N.
may make it a bit easier for President Nixon in his effort to improve U.S. relations with Peking, even though his administration fought hard against Taiwan's expulsion.

"It's one less obstacle the mainland government can bring up when Nixon goes to Peking," one official of an Asian nation said.

The vote also makes it likelier Peking will accept the U.N.
seat, a goal Nixon sought by sponsoring a resolution calling for membership for the mainland government.

Even the tough U.S. fight to avoid expulsion won't be held against Nixon too much, another diplomat said, pointing to the mainland trip taken by presidential adviser Henry Kissinger while the membership debate was going on.

The administration still has problems, some of which may be intensified by the U.N. vote.
One will be convincing Taiwan
it means what it says in reaffirming previous commitments.

Another will be handling a budding congressional move to cut back the large American financial contribution for the United Nations.

A bill to that effect is being prepared by New York's Republican-Conservative Sen.
James Buckley. And, while the administration was ambivalent about such a threat earlier this month, officials recently have said they would oppose such a reduction.

One diplomat at the U.N.
summed up the situation when he said at the outset of the debate, "Expulsion of the Nationalists will give America a black eye, but all black eyes eventually go away."

Security Conference Is Apparently Major Topic

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The Soviet proposal for a European security conference appeared to be the major topic of discussion
today as Soviet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev and President Georges Pompidou continue their talks in Paris.
Both men emphasized the conference proposal in speeches

Monday night, the first evening of Brezhnev's official visit to Paris. Pompidou broke new ground for France in calling for a start to firm preparations for the conference "as soon as possible."

Pompidou reminded Brezhnev that France's attachment to the West and its alliances
"are an integral part of its policies." But he said in a dinner toast: "We think there is no obstacle to the opening in Helsinki, as soon as possible, of the multilateral phase of preparations for the conference."

He said this has been made possible by West Germany's border treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland, the conclusion of a Big Four agreement on Berlin, and the start of talks between the two Ger-manies to implement the Berlin pact.

Brezhnev noted that the Russians first proposed the conference five years ago. With an increasing number of countries favoring such talks, he said, the organization of the meeting is now the prime question.

Brezhnev shortly after his arrival made a veiled bid for a new friendship treaty with France, saying he came "with the sincere desire to do everything possible to continue to promote Franco-Soviet relations, to raise them to a still higher level."

Diplomats interpreted this as a public appeal for a treaty similar to the one Moscow
signed with India in August, which commits the two nations to refrain from aiding any nation involved in hostilities with the other. But the French are not interested because it would mean a break with the North Atlantic alliance.

As they did Monday, Pom-pidou and Brezhnev were meeting today with only interpreters present. Other officials, including Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, will join them
Wednesday.

Young right-wing demonstrators set fire Monday night to about 20 of the Soviet flags hanging from lampposts on the Champs Elysees. They engaged in running skirmishes with police who outnumbered them, and 30 youths were arrested.

Jewish militants briefly occupied the Franco-Soviet Friendship Society's headquarters, picketed the Soviet airline and tourist offices, and chained themselves to subway station railings.

Cloud-Ownership Query Raised

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) —
"Who owns the clouds?"

The question was posed by Dr. Louis Battan of the University of Arizona's Institute of Atmospheric Physics.

"If I take my share of rain from a cloud and you don't get yours, what happens?" Battan asked Monday at a meeting of the National Biological Congress.

"These are questions that become real as weather modification becomes real."

During a discussion of man's attempts to control the weather, Battan said there were some forms of weather modification to which no one would object.

"As far as I know, the tornado does no good whatsoever, and it kills a lot of people," the Arizona meteorologist said.

"But even in hail suppression research, there are differences of opinion."

"The wheat farmer doesn't want hail on his crops, but the cattle rancher doesn't care if it falls in 200-pound blocks as long as it doesn't hit his cows. He just wants the water."

Dr. Cecil Gentry of the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration also provided a question with a potentially sticky answer.

In Project Stormfury which he heads, scientists have succeeded in reducing the strength of hurricanes by bombing them with chemicals, but they are wary that their efforts might cause the big storms to change direction, Gentry said.

Then he asked:

"If a hurricane headed for New Orleans was seeded and then headed for Galveston, Tex., who pays the bill for the damage, who comforts Galveston?"

The right to make rain became a real problem for residents of South Florida during a prolonged drought last winter and spring.

Federal scientists succeeded in producing rain with cloud seeding operations. The rain eased drought conditions, but it also drew complaints from tomato drew complaints from destroy their ripe crops.

Minor Attacks By Viet Cong

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong made five small attacks north of Saigon today and Monday, including a daylight ambush of a U.S. convoy.

Eighteen South Vietnamese troops, one U.S. soldier and one of the enemy were reported killed, and 17 South Vietnamese and two U.S. soldiers were wounded.

Two of the three 10-ton trucks in the American convoy were destroyed when about 40 of the enemy opened fire with mortars, bazooka-type rockets, machine guns and rifles this morning 50 miles northeast of Saigon. Enemy losses were not known.

A South Vietnamese convoy carrying a payroll of between $7,000 and $10,000 to a forward camp was ambushed 40 miles north of Saigon and eight soldiers were killed. A Jeep was destroyed and two trucks were heavily damaged, but reports from the field said ground reinforcements, artillery and helicopter gunships drove the enemy off and saved the payroll.

Enemy casualties were not known.

Five miles to the south, Viet Cong sappers slipped into an outpost manned by about 30 government militiamen. Hurling Satchel charges and grenades, they killed eight militiamen and wounded eight others, then fled, apparently without any casualties.

Viet Cong gunners fired 25 rounds of mortars and rocket grenades into a hamlet 45 miles north of Saigon, killing two Vietnamese, wounding four and badly damaging the office of the hamlet government.

A terrorist threw a hand grenade into a police station in Tam Binh village, seven miles north of Saigon, wounding five persons. The terrorist escaped.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Minh, commander of the 3rd Military Region, said that four regiments of about 2,500 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have been ordered to increase attacks in the region, which includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces.

In Saigon, the Jeep of a U.S. adviser to the national police was firebombed and damaged. No one was injured. It was the 36th U.S. military or civilian vehicle firebombed in Saigon since early September. All are believed the work of students protesting the American military presence in Vietnam and the U.S. government's support of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Along South Vietnam's northern coast, U.S. and South Vietnamese troops continued a massive relief and rebuilding operation in the wake of killer Typhoon Hester. Government officials put the Vietnamese death toll from the typhoon Saturday at 100 and estimated that 200,000 persons were homeless. They said more than 55,000 homes were damaged or destroyed, more than 45 per cent of the food crop was wiped out and 40 per cent of the livestock were killed.

Despite the disruption to life in the area and the diversion of military forces to relief operations, there was no upsurge of enemy attacks in the region.

Senate's War Critics Resume Efforts To Force Withdrawal

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's war critics are launching the next step in their drive to force U.S. withdrawal from Indochina amid indications the issue could become the single biggest stumbling block to adjournment of Congress by Dec. 1.

The battle this time revolves around an amendment to the $3.2 billion foreign aid authorization bill that calls for withdrawal of U.S. troops in six months. It also bars spending on U.S. military activity in Indochina except for withdrawal and protecting withdrawing forces from "imminent danger."

Debate on the bill starts today.

This amendment, unlike others, has been included in the aid bill by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Therefore, the burden will be on President Nixon's backers to remove or delete it.

The antiwar forces on the Foreign Relations panel have included a number of other amendments, including a $250 million ceiling on U.S. activities in Cambodia similar to the $350 million limit on American activities in Laos voted in the military procurement bill last month.

Committee members say they are confident the Senate will uphold the dual antiwar amendment. Approval of the fund cut-off provision by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, would make it the first time the Senate has ever cut off money for the war.

critics hope that one of these times, possibly on the foreign aid measure, the House will finally go along.

Another factor in debate over the bill may be President Nixon's troop withdrawal announcement Nov. 15. Pentagon sources have said he might schedule a total withdrawal by July, but the White House has not indicated the magnitude of the announcement.

Besides the foreign aid authorization, and the later appropriations bill, the Senate will have to pass a $70 billion-plus defense appropriations bill before it can conclude the session.

Congressional leaders are determined to end the present session by Dec. 1, and all indications are that resolution of the war issue may determine how successful they are.

Yellowstone Park Sees Series Of Big Changes

By JIM KLAHN
Associated Press Writer

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — The most active of Yellowstone National Park's famed cauldrons, fueled deep in the earth and pushed to the surface to bubble in mud pots and erupt in geysers, are going through some radical changes.

Park geologists and naturalists say the present level of change in thermal phenomena in the Norris Geyser Basin is the greatest since the Hege Lake earthquake shook the northern part of the 2,221,000-acre park in the summer of 1959 and killed 28 persons.

Bill Dunmire, the park's naturalist, said there appeared no threat of earthquakes or more dangerous thermal activity. But there is speculation the fluctuations in geysers, hot springs and pools may create more permanent alterations by the time the park marks its 100th anniversary next year.

The most recent fluctuation in the basin came when a hot pool suddenly erupted to about 30 feet. The pool continued to spout hot water and steam for a few minutes, then settled back to its placid self.

Park authorities said the changes began in early September, with fluctuations noted in more than 100 steaming geysers, mud pots, hot springs and pools. On one occasion, they said, almost every significant feature in a portion of the Norris basin, about 30 miles north of famous Old Faithful, bubbled and turned murky.

Despite widespread changes in the 80-acre Norris area, no noticeable changes were reported in other regions of the park.

A new mud pot, accompanied by a nearby hot spring, appeared near a nature trail, slowly growing to its present size of 6 by 4 feet. Park personnel have unofficially dubbed the phenomenon "Muddy Sneaker" for the way in which it grew.

Some of the hot pools and geysers might give future visitors to the basin reason to ponder their once-fitting names. "Emerald Spring" is acting more like a chameleon, alternating from bright green to murky gray, and dark brown mud has replaced the clear water that once flowed from "Green Dragon Spring."

Dunmire said the changes apparently were caused by a shift in the way heat from the molten core, estimated to be two miles below the surface in the Norris area, is allowed to flow to the surface.

Whether the changes will remain for the park's centennial is still speculation.

Dunmire predicted that some changes would remain while others would slowly allow the tourist attractions to return to their former configurations.

Silkscreening Course Planned

Pitt Technical Institute is receiving applications for a 24-hour course in silkscreening. When sufficient applications (12 or more) have been made, an organizational meeting will be conducted.

There will be one three-hour session weekly for eight weeks. Cost will be $2.40 plus supplies. Emphasis in this introductory course will be given to the process of cut paper stencils, cut film stencils, and brush applied blackout stencils. Illustrations, posters, and fabric decoration will be done.

Interested persons should visit Pitt Tech or phone 756-3130, Ext. 38 to make applications, according to Ola L. Porter, Director of Adult Education.

Arrest Three Men In Southern Pines

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP) — Three white men were arrested Monday night in racially tense Southern Pines and charged with carrying concealed weapons, police reported.

Police Chief E. S. Seawell said two of the men had pistols and the other a shotgun, a machete, a chain and gasoline. He said they were arrested at separate times in their automobiles.

In addition, five persons were arrested during the night on a charge of violating a curfew which has been in effect since Sunday. The difficulties started with fights for unexplained reasons among white and Negro pupils last week at Pinecrest High School near Southern Pines, which has since been closed.

Mayor E. Earl Hubbard proclaimed an 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. curfew, and a state of emergency which restricts sale or possession of explosives and dangerous weapons, alcoholic beverages, kerosene and gasoline.

He did so after a crowd threw rocks and bottles at a police cruiser early Sunday.

The curfew later was imposed in Aberdeen, Pinehurst and Carthage. Officials of these towns said they did so as a preventive measure. The towns and Southern Pines are in the heart of North Carolina's Sandhills golfing resort area, which attracts visitors from all over the United States during the fall and winter.

Southern Pines police reported 19 persons arrested Sunday night and early Monday, mostly for curfew violations.

Pinecrest High held short sessions after the fights Thursday and Friday, and was closed all day Monday. The Moore County Board of Education has announced that it will remain closed today and that school officials will meet this afternoon to determine whether it will open Wednesday. The school has 1,600 pupils, about 600 of them black.

Southern Pines police have been augmented by state troopers and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Church Begins Revival Series

Revival services began last night at the Hopewell Pentecostal Holiness Church at 7:45 and will continue through Sunday night.

The Rev. R. H. Brafford is the guest evangelist.

There will be special music each night and the pastor, Rev. Lotis Joyner, invites the public to attend.

The church is located nine miles south of Greenville on the Black Jack Highway.

Minnesota Frustrates Baltimore Colts, 10-3

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Ed Sharockman grimly remembered what he called the early days of the Minnesota Vikings—days when Johnny Unitas and the Baltimore Colts used to burn him with long passes.

But Sharockman, and such an inanimate object as the goal post, doused Baltimore's touchdown flames Monday night, 10-3, in a National Football League defensive struggle decided in the final minute.

Unitas, who came into the game with 10:35 to play and the Colts down 10-0, grazed the underside of the goalpost on a fourth down play from the Minnesota two with 42 seconds to play. Ed Hinton, the intended receiver, was open but couldn't get to the ball that fluttered short of his diving attempt.

That was one of six times

Baltimore reached the doorstep but couldn't climb in except for Jim O'Brien's 40-yard field goal in the fourth period. Sharockman helped stop three of the efforts.

Sharockman, a 10-year veteran from Pittsburgh also intercepted a Morrall pass at the Baltimore 29 to set up Minnesota's touchdown—a two-yard run by Dave Osborne.

With the help of the goalpost, Sharockman and the Vikings strengthened their hold on the NFC Central Division lead with a 5-1 record. The loss dropped the Colts, who won the total offense battle 276-153, behind Miami in the AFC-East with a 4-2 record.

Unitas said he had to improvise on the goal post play, which could have set off a wild controversy that Hinton caught the ball. A ball deflecting the post is ruled a dead ball.

The Vikings' offense never really got untracked until Gary Cuozzo, a former Colt, passed 26 yards to Oscar Reed and 20 yards to Stu Voigt to set up a 32-yard field goal by Fred Cox in the third period.

O'Brien, who had kicked 11 straight regular season field goals without a miss, was off target for the first time in 1971 with a 45-yard attempt in the second period. A holding penalty also nullified a 36-yard Morrall to Hinton pass to the Viking two in the same quarter.

Thompson said the disease would have killed Hughes eventually.

The doctors said that Hughes' collision with two Bears players three plays prior to his collapse did not precipitate the heart attack "except that it may have provided more stress."

It is also undetermined whether Hughes' death is related to a Sept. 4 pre-season game injury which led the player to complain of abdominal pains. A complete checkup—including cardiogram and arteriogram—following his injury failed to reveal any heart problems, Guise said.

However, Guise said, it is "unfortunately very routine to miss symptoms of arteriosclerotic disease (artery hardening)." He said Hughes himself probably did not know he had the illness.

Hughes was not taking any medication or drugs, the doctors reported. All medication prescriptions for players must be signed either by Guise or Thompson.

Neither doctor felt additional equipment or faster transportation to the hospital would have saved Hughes. Extra equipment at the stadium would be more helpful to spectators, who regularly suffer heart attacks at games, than to players, they said.

Pair Tie In Contest

Jay Paul of 119 N. Elm Street, Number 4, and Roy E. Bush of Lot 50-D, Shady Knoll Trailer Park, both of Greenville, have tied as the winners of this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Both Bush and Paul correctly picked the winners in 28 of the 31 games included in the contest. The Rose-Enloe game, played Monday night, was not counted in the contest due to its lateness.

The tie developed with both picking 80 points as the most that would be scored in any of the contest games. The actual total was 103 points in Oklahoma's 75-28 victory over Kansas State.

Two other people also picked 28 correctly, but were further off the point total.

This week's contest appears on pages 10 and 11.

The explosive running of Jim Bass and Julius Branch led Raleigh's Enloe High School to a 22-8 victory over the Rose High School Rampants last night.

The game was not nearly as close as the score would indicate as Enloe completely dominated the contest. They rolled up 403 yards in total offense, while holding the Rampants to a mere 108 nearly one fourth of their total.

Bass scored two of the touchdowns, on runs of two and 15 yards, the last coming on a clutch fourth down play that sewed it up for the Eagles. Branch got one touchdown, racing 40 yards for the score.

The lone Rose touchdown came on a 16 yard run by Al Hunter in the lone drive Rose was able to mount.

Bass finished the contest with 191 yards, while Branch was close behind him with a total of 173. That combined for 364 of the 403 the Eagles collected.

For the Rampants it was a frustrating evening as Enloe constantly came up with the big play that kept the Rose team in trouble all the way. About the only defensive bright spot came in the third period, when Rose held Enloe for four downs inside the four.

But aside from the opening touchdown drive at the start of the second half, the Rampants didn't see much of the ball. Enloe's ground control game kept the ball for 34 plays in the half, while Rose had it for only 12 plays.

Perhaps the unsung hero for Enloe was fullback Larry Brooks, who carried but once. His blocking, however, was tremendous, as he constantly broke Branch and Bass loose for gains.

Enloe took the ball in for the score on its first possession of the game, marching 64 yards for the touchdown.

Branch and Bass did all the work, moving it in nine plays. From the 36, Branch picked up six to open the drive. Bass then went through the middle for 15 to the Rose 43. Branch carried twice for 14 yards, and then Bass broke away for 18 more down to the 11. Three plays from there netted just nine yards, but on fourth down, Bass cracked through the middle standing up for the score, giving Enloe a 6-0 lead.

The extra point kick was no good, however, and with 8:10 left, the Rampants got their first try.

They were unable to move, but after an exchange of punts, got a break with a pass interference call. That put the ball on the Eagle 48, and then slowly moved it down inside the 25. Enloe dug in there, however, and then on fourth and five at the 23, the Rose blocking bowed and quarterback Bob Barrett was thrown for a loss back to the 33, where Enloe took over.

From there, Enloe drove for its second touchdown. Branch gained five yards, and then he and Bass each picked up eight as the quarter came to an end. With the ball at the Rose 47, Branch picked up eight. A penalty pushed it back to the 44, and two plays moved it to the 40.

And from there, on third and 11, Branch took an option from quarterback Ricky Gammon, and dashed around left end. Blocks from Gammon and Brooks sprung him loose, and he moved all the way from there for the second touchdown.

With 9:12 left, Gammon hit Dwight Perry with a two-point conversion pass, making it 14-0.

Enloe got off one more threat in the half, driving from its own 16 to the Rose 11 before a fumble stunted the drive. The big play was a 59 yard scramble by Bass, who broke through right tackle and then nearly got away for the score. Calvin Moore finally managed to catch him and drag him down on the Rose 19.

The Rampants took the opening kickoff in the second half and marched 60 yards for a score, pulling within striking distance.

Al Hunter broke through to gain 15 to the Enloe 45. Moore added four and then Barrett hit Lonnie Payton on a nine-yard aerial. Moore was thrown for a four-yard loss on the next play, but a six yard gain by Hunter, and a 14-yard pass to him gave Rose a first down on the 16. Hunter then cracked through the middle for the score, putting Rose back in the game.

Rose tried for two, but failed. An offside penalty, however, gave them a second try, and Hunter bulled him way across the goal to make it 14-8 with 9:01 left in the quarter.

That was the last time in the quarter that Rose saw the ball however, as Enloe held it the rest of the period on a nearly successful drive.

They started on their own 28, and moved the ball 20 times. Key gains on the drive included runs of 13, 11 and 15 yards by Branch, and 10 yards by Bass. They picked up a first down on a four yard fourth down gain at the five. But from there they were held at the one on four downs, as Rose was able to stop them.

The Rampants were unable to move the ball however, and punted away. Enloe took over on its own 41 and went in for the clincher from there.

After a one yard gain on the first play, Branch took an option down to the Rose 25 before George Price hauled him down. Bass added nine more, and after a first down at the 15, Enloe was backed up by a penalty. They got back to the 15, and on fourth down and 10, Bass went wide, outracing the Rose defense to the end zone.

Branch ran over the two-point conversion and with 4:27 left, Enloe had it wrapped up, 22-8.

Rose ran only one more play in the game, as Perry picked off Barrett's first down pass, and Enloe just ran out the block from there.

Robbie Cox did the punting for Rose in the game, and did an excellent job. His four kicks averaged 38.5 yards. Enloe punted just once, and that was a seldom seen quick kick which covered 42 yards.

The Rampants, now 2-6, travel to New Bern for their last road game of the year on Friday night.

Chargers Rip Southern Nash

LITTLETON — Ayden-Grifton High School gained a 14-0 victory over Southern Nash High School last night. The Charger defense stood out in the contest, holding the Firebirds to a mere 16 yards in total offense.

Southern Nash managed to get 22 yards through the air, but was held to minus six yards on the ground.

Only once in the contest did the Firebirds offer a challenge to Ayden-Grifton, and when they did it could have turned the game around. That came late in the first period with both teams still scoreless. The Chargers fumbled a punt and Southern Nash recovered on the A-G 17. They pushed the ball down to the three before the defense finally held them on fourth down and turned the ball over.

After that, however, the Firebirds ran out of steam and never offered any other threat. Ayden-Grifton pushed into the lead in the game in the second period. That came when Ken Cleaton tossed a five-yard pass to Tom Craft for the touchdown. Cleaton ran over the two-point conversion, and A-G held an 8-0 lead.

It remained that way until the fourth period, when Ayden-Grifton finally scored its other touchdown. Leroy Sumpter did the damage this time, going in on a 25-yard scamper.

The Chargers offered one more threat, driving deep into Southern Nash territory late in the game before a missed field goal ended the contest.

The Chargers travel to North Pitt on Friday night.

Williamston Bops Hertford

HERTFORD — Williamston High School moved into sole possession of second place in the Albemarle Conference last night with a 20-6 victory over Perquimans High School.

The Tigers dominated the game most of the way, with Perquimans' touchdown drive the only threat they offered the entire game. The Tiger defense held Perquimans to only four first downs in the game, and all of these came in the second half.

Williamston took the lead in the first quarter of the game, scoring their first touchdown. That came on a 25-yard run by Mike Bundy. The two-point conversion try failed, and Williamston led, 6-0.

The Tigers came back with another touchdown in the second period to wrap it up. Don Lee scored that one from four yards out, and then he ran the two-pointer over to up the score to 14-0.

In the second half, Perquimans finally managed to get something going, but it was a bomb that put them on the scoreboard. Quarterback Finard Tillett fired a 55-yard aerial to Luther Overton for the touchdown, cutting the score to 14-6.

The Tigers finished things off with one more touchdown in the final period. Jimmy Raiford did the scoring this time, on a two-yard drive.

Williamston, now 7-1 overall and 6-1 in the Albemarle Conference, returns home on Friday night to entertain Plymouth at Homecoming.

Virginia Or State Must Improve Record

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
Virginia, North Carolina State and Maryland are staggering under 1-6 football records this season.

At least one of the three should notch its second victory — barring a tie — when Virginia plays at North Carolina State in an Atlantic Coast Conference game Saturday afternoon.

In recent years the Cavaliers have been the favorite victims of the State Wolfpack. It has beaten Virginia 11 years in succession and won 12 of their last 13 meetings for a 16-5-1 edge in a series begun in 1904.

During the current string of successes, Al Michaels was defensive coordinator for State. He must have done his job well. Six times in those 11 games Virginia was held to less than 10 points and was shut out three times.

Now Michaels is preparing to meet Virginia for the first time as head coach of the Wolfpack, which is 1-3 in ACC play and ranked sixth, just ahead of the 0-2 Cavaliers.

Michaels gave his team a day off from practice Monday, explaining, "It will give the boys some free time and it might help us to regroup."

Regrouping is in order. Michaels employed an all-soph backfield in an effort to find a winning combination against East Carolina of the Southern Conference Saturday night, but wound up on the short end of a 31-15 score.

Michaels held a squad meeting Monday night to show films and give the scouting report on Virginia. The Cavaliers also went to the movies Monday, having the mistakes they made in a 14-9 loss at Army pointed out. They also drilled against North Carolina State formations.

The only other league game Saturday was Wake Forest playing at Clemson in a game the defending champion Deacons must win if they are to retain even a faint chance of keeping the title. Their 7-3 loss to North Carolina dropped them to 1-2 and a fourth-place tie with Maryland.

Fullback Larry Hopkins of Wake Forest goes into the Clemson game as the winner of the Brian Piccolo Award, given annually in memory of the late Deacon and Chicago Bear back. He was announced as the 1971 winner Monday. Despite the loss to North Carolina, Hopkins netted 143 yards in 34 carries on a muddy field.

Clemson, which needs a victory to tie North Carolina for the league lead, was warned Monday by Coach Hootie Ingram that it will have its hands full with the Deacons.

North Carolina began preparations for Saturday's home game against William and Mary of the Southern Conference by welcoming back top runner Ike Oglesby. The tailback missed the last three games with sore leg muscles and his mates lost twice.

Duke, knocked from the 19th national ranking by losing to Navy, began work for the game at Georgia Tech with a long workout in which mistakes were reviewed.

Maryland renews acquaintances with Virginia Military, a Southern Conference team the Terps haven't played since 1945. It will be homecoming day for Maryland, loser of five straight since splitting its first two games.

Fullback Billy Wallace

Wallace Named Back Of Week

Billy Wallace, who scored the clincher in the East Carolina University victory over N.C. State University Saturday night, was named as the Southern Conference Offensive Player of the Week today for his play.

Wallace, a 190-pound fullback from Edenton, capped his career against the Wolfpack with 117 yards in 20 carries. The chief lug in that was his 57-yard run that resulted in the final touchdown of the game in the last period. The score pushed the Pirates out into a 31-15 lead and closed the door in the face of the Wolfpack.

The touchdown came only one play after State had scored to close the gap to 25-15. The Wolfpack attempted an on-side kick but the ball went out of bounds at the Pirate 43. Wallace zipped through the middle on the first play from scrimmage to go all the way.

The Pirate fullback also had several other good runs against the Wolfpack during the evening, and Coach Sonny Randle also had praise for him for his blocking.

The performance for Wallace was the third outstanding one against the Wolfpack. He had picked up nearly 200 yards as a freshman in the Pirates' first meeting with the Wolflets three years ago. Then, last year, he gained 104 yards in a losing cause.

By virtue of his performance, Wallace also moved into sixth place on the all-time Pirate rushing list with 1,342 yards. He still has three more games to play as a Buc.

Jack Patterson, who had two fine punt returns and a pass interception, was named as runner-up for the week as the Defensive Player of the Week. Jeff Varnadoe of The Citadel took top honors, returning a kickoff and a punt for touchdowns against Chattanooga.

Title Picture To Be Cleared

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Vicente Rondon stars tonight in "Act One" of the world light heavyweight boxing championship, crawling into the ring a juicy 8-to-1 favorite against old-timer Gomeo Brennan.

Bob Foster moves onstage later this week. "We can settle this confused title," said Rondon's manager, Felix Zabala. "All the Foster people must do is guarantee at least $100,000 and we'll have ourselves a showdown."

Foster handlers have offered $60,000.

The light heavyweight picture became muddled in January when the World Boxing Association stripped Foster of the title, claiming the Tampa, Fla., fighter inadequately defended the crown.

Rondon kayoed Jimmy DuPre in Caracas Feb. 27 to capture the vacant WBA championship, but Foster remains recognized in areas not governed by the association.

"This is no title fight," Foster said of the Rondon-Brennan match at Miami Beach Convention Hall. "I'm still the champion. Nobody takes the crown until they beat me ... in the ring."

Foster risks his share of the glory Saturday night in Scranton, Pa., against schoolteacher Tommy Hicks in "Act Two" of the fistic drama.

Rondon, 27-year-old son of a Venezuelan fruit picker, has a 34-5-1 record for his pro career. Since knocking out DuPre for the title, Rondon has defended successfully against Piero Del Papa and Eddie "Bossman" Jones.

Brennan, 34, moved to the United States 20 years ago from his native Bimini where Gomeo learned to defend himself in "battle royals" against Bahamian pals. They battled blindfolded until only one was left standing.

"All the Bahamas will be watching their first chance ever at a world championship," said the two-time British Empire middleweight king.

Rondon predicted, "I'll knock him out by the eighth round." A crowd of 5,000 was anticipated at Miami Beach Convention Hall, paying a $20 top with Rondon to receive 40 per cent of the gate and Brennan 20 per cent.

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central's Jimmy Langley went on a rampage last night, intercepting a pass, recovering a fumble and scoring all of the Jaguar points as Farmville downed Greene Central, 14-6, in a key Eastern Carolina Conference game.

The win knocked the Rams out of first place in the conference and put the Jaguars back into a tie for first. Southern Wayne shares the lead after a 36-0 blitzing of North Lenoir.

The Jaguars took the ball in on their first possession, marching 94 yards on a drive that used up most of the time in the first quarter. Jimmy Langley capped the series by diving over from the two.

The Rams tied it up just before the half ended after getting the ball on a punt at the Farmville 43. Lonnie Carraway hit Danny Whitley in the end zone with less than a minute to go in the half.

Both teams moved the ball well in the second half but could not come up with a score. The Jaguars got the clincher, however, as Langley grabbed a GC fumble at the 11 and three plays later took it in for the TD. He also added the extra points as he gave Farmville the win.

The Jaguars had to start their first series backed up against their own end zone. The kick had rolled out of bounds on the six. On the first play, Langley picked up six over right tackle and added seven more on the second down. Robert Tripp got two and Cloyce Wilson took a pitch-out gaining nine to the Farmville 30. After two short pick-ups GC was penalized 15 yards giving the Jaguars a first down on the Ram 47. Langley again popped up the middle for eight but Farmville lost five of them on a penalty. Mitchell Carmon got four and

Wilson got a first down on an 11 yard run.

Greene Central held on the next two plays but on third and ten, quarterback Chip Venters finding no one open, kept the ball carrying down to the Ram 21. Tripp kept the drive going as he bulled up the middle for four to the 17.

Wilson moved the Jaguars to the five on carries of four and nine yards. On first and goal, Tripp drove down to the two and from there Langley took it in for the score. The conversion pass attempt failed.

The Jaguars held the Rams to four plays and got the ball back on the GC 43, but the Ram defense forced the Jags to fumble at the Farmville 45.

The ball changed hands twice on punts with Greene Central getting the ball on the Farmville 45 after Miles Briggs returned it from the 50. Farmville drew a flag two plays later as one of the linemen jumped offsides. Carraway threw to Jack Southerland for a short gain and got five more as Farmville was again penalized, this time five yards.

Carraway hit Danny Whitley for seven and Briggs added nine to the Farmville 14. On two carries, Briggs got the Rams to the six and another flag added five more. Then on fourth down, Carraway found Whitley all alone to tie the game at 6-6. The kick failed.

Neither team could sustain a scoring drive in the second half although Farmville got to the GC 29 where they ran out of downs.

The Jaguars regained possession in the third quarter as they held the Rams on downs. Starting from their own 17, Tripp carried up the middle for gains of nine and four yards. Venters added four. Langley carried three straight times for a first down but at their 39 the Rams held forcing a punt.

Ricky Hart tried to follow his tackle on a quick opener but fumbled. Langley came out of nowhere to grab the ball the the Jaguars. Three plays later Langley had the TD after a run of five and two runs of three yards. He ran the same play he had scored on to get the extra point.

The Rams tried to go to the air but Tripp tipped it and Langley hauled the ball in. He raced to the 40 but the Jaguars could not take it in again.

The Jaugars are at home again next Friday as they take on the Vikings of D.H. Conley in Farmville's annual Homecoming game.

Indians Are A Good Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Despite two defeats and a narrow 12-7 victory over three-touchdown underdog Virginia Military in their last three starts, coach Lou Holtz believes his William and Mary Indians are "capable of playing with quite a few football teams in this country."

"I'm not saying we're a good football team," Holtz observed after the Indians barely escaped beating beaten by VMI in a rain-soaked encounter last Saturday that ran the Indians' record to 4-0 in defense of their Southern Conference championship.

At the same time, Holtz said the Indians are "anxious to get a shot at Carolina," referring to this Saturday's encounter against North Carolina's Tar Heels, who are leading the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The Indians appeared "down" against VMI after successive defeats at the hands of West Virginia, 28-23 and Virginia Tech, 41-30—a couple of games that could have gone either way.

Holtz didn't see it that way, saying "I've never felt we were down for a ball game." But he admitted the Indians "were not particularly up."

Sophomore John Gargano went all the way at quarterback under the miserable playing conditions because senior starter Steve Regan was out with an ankle injury. Regan is expected back for the Carolina game, however.

The Indians got some bad news Monday, however, when they learned that senior defensive end Bruce Hanson suffered a broken arm against VMI and will be lost for the rest of the season.

Tackle Vic Moye, middle guard Milt Ignatius and line-backer Pat Kelly were standouts in Richmond's drills as the Spiders began preparing for Saturday night's game at Southern Mississippi.

Virginia Military spent 15 minutes in running drills and the rest of its Monday session learning the game plans for Saturday's encounter at Maryland of the ACC.

The freshmen ran Illinois State plays against the varsity at The Citadel, which plays host Saturday to the Illinois club.

Furman received a scouting report on Saturday night's conference opponent, East Carolina, which beat N.C. State 31-15 last weekend. Assistant coach Woody

Dillard called the Pirates "a real fine aggressive football team" and said "it's going to be 'rugged' to beat them on their home field."

Celtics Off To Flying Start

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, who won 11 National Basketball Association championships with Bill Russell and a flock of other talent, are counting upon bench experience for a "now" future.

After missing the playoffs the last two years with Russell in retirement, the Celtics are sporting a new-old look under Coach Tommy Heinsohn, a former Boston star.

Heinsohn, given solid backing by his old coach, Red Auerbach, now the Celtics' president and general manager, has molded youth with experience—and the team is flying with four consecutive victories after an opening loss.

The Celtics, who lack great height, fell 14 points behind the tall Atlanta Hawks in the first period, but bounced back Monday for a 136-116 romp before a matinee crowd of 10,311 at the Garden.

It was the only NBA game scheduled.

Captain John Havlicek, a super star with nine years as a Boston pro, prevented Atlanta from making the game a run-away. Sophomore pro Dave Cowens provided plenty of help.

Art Williams and Tom Sanders, a couple of 32-year-old veterans, came off the bench to provide the big spark. And so did Don Nelson, a youthful 31.

Havlicek, 31, began the real cutting of Atlanta's lead with three baskets early in the second period. Williams turned in a magnificent defensive effort, stealing the ball three times within a minute.

Sanders, an 11-year veteran sidelined most of last season after knee surgery, was fantastic. Entering the game with the Celtics trailing by seven points in the fifth minute of the second period, he hit on two long set shots.

Satch raced around the court like a rookie, putting Boston in front to stay with a layup. He also blocked two layup tries in a row by Walt Bellamy.

"Why with myself, Nelson and Williams on the bench, that must add up to about 60 years of experience," Sanders said.

"The Celtics always depended on bench strength, and now we're building another one. There's a lot of experience to call upon when needed."

Cowens, who gives away height at 6-9, topped Boston scorers with 27 points, also grabbing 19 rebounds. Havlicek scored 25.

The Hawks, who had a 31-point first period wasted in their fifth loss in six starts, were topped by Herm Gilliam with 25 points and Lou Hudson with 23.

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Vicente Rondon stars tonight in "Act One" of the world light heavyweight boxing championship, crawling into the ring a juicy 8-to-1 favorite against old-timer Gomeo Brennan.

Bob Foster moves onstage later this week. "We can settle this confused title," said Rondon's manager, Felix Zabala. "All the Foster people must do is guarantee at least $100,000 and we'll have ourselves a showdown."

Foster handlers have offered $60,000.

The light heavyweight picture became muddled in January when the World Boxing Association stripped Foster of the title, claiming the Tampa, Fla., fighter inadequately defended the crown.

Rondon kayoed Jimmy DuPre in Caracas Feb. 27 to capture the vacant WBA championship, but Foster remains recognized in areas not governed by the association.

"This is no title fight," Foster said of the Rondon-Brennan match at Miami Beach Convention Hall. "I'm still the champion. Nobody takes the

- Thirty-two football games are placed in the ads on these pages. Pick the winner of each game (not the score) and write the team name opposite the advertiser's name on the entry blank. The entrant picking the most correct winners each week will be awarded $15.00. Second place $10.00.
- Pick a number which you think will be the most number of points scored by both teams in any one of the week's games listed and write your answer in the space provided on the entry blank. This will be used to break ties. In the event of a further tie the money will be equally divided between the winning entrants.
- Only one entry per week per person. The contest is open to all except employees of The Daily Reflector and their immediate families.
- Entries must be in The Daily Reflector office not later than 5:00 p.m. Friday or post marked not later than Friday p.m. Address entries to: "FOOTBALL CONTEST", P. O. Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. (Reasonable Facsimiles also accepted)

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Charlie Croom was elected president of the Pitt County Wildlife Club at the group's annual meeting last week.

Croom replaces outgoing president Joe Goodson as head of the sportsman's organization.

Other officers elected at the session include: vice-president Bill Young, secretary-treasurer J. H. Mobley, chaplain Norman Wilkerson and sergeant-at-arms Joe Willoughby.

The wildlife club, organized several years ago in Pitt, maintains a club site, including archery, skeet and rifle ranges near the Tar River between Falkland and Belvoir.

The bidding:

North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 4 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass 6 ♥ Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦
It might be interesting for the reader before he goes on to examine the above diagram and try to determine how South can win 12 tricks at six hearts with the king of diamonds opening lead. As a hint we will reveal that declarer's method involved deliberately setting up a trick for the defense that they could not in the normal course of events have taken. By so doing, South, got back two in return to land the slam.

North's immediate raise to two hearts with only three trumps and a minimum opening bid was the direct cause for the partnership over-reaching itself. A rebid of one no trump would have been more in order. South, holding 19 points, can hardly be faulted for embarking on a Blackwood inquiry. Once all the aces were accounted for, he proceeded to six hearts.

West opened the king of diamonds. (Had he chosen a spade away from the king, declarer's defeat would have become assured, but West is not to be criticized for his selection.) The ace was played from dummy. There were 11 top tricks available — one spade, five hearts, one diamond and four clubs. The best prospect for developing an additional trick lay in the development of the long diamond and South chose to expend his effort in that direction.

A small diamond was led at trick two and ruffed in the closed hand with the three of hearts. The king of hearts was cashed and a small heart was led to the ace — as both opponents followed suit — and then another diamond was trumped with the jack of hearts. A club put North in with the ace to trump a fourth round of diamonds with the queen of hearts — establishing North's long diamond.

East's ten of hearts was now the master trump but this did not deter South. He proceeded to run the clubs discarding spades from dummy. East ruffed the third club with the ten of hearts to return a spade. South put up the ace and cashed the jack of clubs, shedding the eight of spades from dummy, dummy.

He then ruffed a small spade with the eight of hearts for the fulfilling trick on the deal.

Altho South gave East a trick in hearts, he got it back by establishing dummy's long diamond with three ruffs in his hand. The bonus trick was accrued by being able to trump a spade eventually with North's eight of hearts.

Food Business Class Taught

A new class, Food Occupations, is being taught at Farmville Central High School this year.

It teaches the students how a food business is run and tells them what qualifications a food service worker should acquire. Job opportunities in the field are discussed.

Friday the Farmville Central class visited Parker's Barbecue in Greenville. They toured the kitchen and storage rooms and were served a meal, according to their sponsor, Mrs. P. M. Anderson.

Flying The UN Flag

The United Nations flag is flying at the Pitt County Courthouse this week as part of the Greenville observances of United Nations Week.

On Monday morning at 8:00 a.m., in a brief flag raising ceremony, George Franke and Miss Ardith Little, both students at D. H. Conley High School, raised the United Nations flag on the lawn of the Pitt County Courthouse.

The two students are both members of the Rangers 4-H Club. Mrs. Dan Wooten of the Pitt County Home Extension Service, and chairman of the UN Flag Ceremony Committee, was on hand for the early morning ceremony.

Each year young people from one of the youth organizations or groups in Greenville or Pitt County take part in the flag raising ceremony conducted as part of United Nations Week.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market bounced ahead today in a sharp turnabout from its nine-session losing streak. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was moderately active in contrast to Monday's total, which was the lowest in more than 14 months.

The 11 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 5.47 to 853.97.

Gainers took a substantial lead over losers among issues traded on the Big Board.

The advance spread through the motors, mail order-retails, farm implements, chemicals, oils, airlines, and building materials.

Prices among the more actively traded issues included Occidental Petroleum, off 1 1/2 to 12 3/4; TWA, up 1 1/2 to 37 1/2; Eastern Air Lines, up 7/8 to 20 3/4; National Steel, off 1/4 to 36 1/4; General Electric, up 3/4 to 59 1/4; and Western Union, up 1/2 to 44 1/2.

American Stock Exchange prices included Syntex, up 1 1/2 to 68; Champion Home Builders, off 5/8 to 37 1/4; Development Corp. of America, up 5/8 to 27 1/4; and Bio-Dynamics, up 1/2 to 29 1/4.

Obituaries

Rogers
Mr. Earl A. (Shorty) Rogers, 45, died Saturday at his home in New Orleans, La. Funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Robert G. Hufford, pastor of Hooker Memorial Christian Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Rogers, a native of Carson, Va., came to Greenville in 1932, attended Stokes High School and East Carolina University. He was formerly employed by Export Tobacco Company in Greenville and for the past several years he had made his home in New Orleans, La., where he was employed as an accountant with Brown's Velvet Dairy. He was a veteran of World War II.

Surviving are a daughter, Miss Julie Rogers of Booth Bay Harbor, Me.; two brothers, Willie J. and Fred Rogers, both of Greenville; and two sisters, Mrs. Roland L. Fleming of near Greenville, and Mrs. D. Hassell Fleming of Greenville.

Shouts Ignored

PARIS (AP) — Leonid E. Brezhnev ignored scattered shouts of hostility today as he rode in an open car along the Champs Elysees to lay a wreath at the tomb of France's unknown soldier under the Arc de Triomphe.

Several persons in the thin crowds along the avenue were arrested for shouting hostile slogans.

There were more cheers than boos from the sparse crowds along the avenue.

From the arch, Brezhnev drove to the City Hall to greet the Paris Municipal Council. Some 3,000 spectators cheered Brezhnev and there was no sign here of hostile demonstrators.

The Soviet proposal for a European security conference is a major topic in the talks between Brezhnev and Pompidou.

Chrysler's Profits Off

DETROIT (AP) — Reporting its profit picture is not overly bright despite record-breaking third-quarter sales, the Chrysler Corp. has called for an increase in car prices as soon as possible under Phase 2 of President Nixon's economic program.

Lynn A. Townsend, Chrysler board chairman, said the firm had rolled back 100 per cent on price increases it had intended to put on its 1972 cars and trucks.

"The rollback ... has meant that the company was not able to recover any of the increased costs of labor and materials associated with the 1972 line," said Townsend.

"This has had a substantial effect on profits and underlines the need for a price increase after Phase 1 is completed," they said.

The firm's report showed third-quarter sales of $1.9 billion, 12 per cent ahead of the like period a year ago. Net earnings were $6.2 million or 12 cents a share compared with $2.1 million or five cents a share for the same quarter a year ago.

For the full nine months, sales were a record $5.9 billion, 14 per cent ahead of a year ago, with net earnings of $48.4 million, or 67 cents a share, compared with a net loss of $15.2 million, or 31 cents a share, for the opening three quarters of 1970.

Something New For Halloween

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A University of Maryland student who aschews the standard Halloween fare of ghosts and goblins will unleash a full-size monster to terrorize trick-or-treaters at the campus.

Marc Menzie, 20, an electrical engineering student by day, said he "will pump life" into his monster with electrical and sound equipment.

"Nobody ever does anything new for Halloween," Menzie said. "I wanted to do something original."

"It is through community effort that people find a meaning in life," the Rev. Howard Dawkins told members of the American Cancer Society Pitt County Unit at its annual dinner meeting Sunday.

Dr. Charles Gilbert, president, reported that proceeds from the 1971 Crusade amounted to $11,191.52. The Loyal Order of Moose will be in charge of the

Local Lions Hear Principal Raspberry

Aycok Junior High principal Paul H. Raspberry, told the Lions Club last night, that education is the key to understanding between all groups and classes and offers the strongest kind of foundation upon which lasting solutions to human problems can be built.

The principal briefly reviewed the Aycok program, and spoke in favor of a strong and diversified general education, one providing mathematics, science, social studies. He also stressed the importance of appreciation of the language and culture of other peoples.

Raspberry said he feels the problems faced by schools today

Charge Possession Of Stolen Property

Two men have been arrested on charges of receiving stolen property following investigation of a break-in at Cox TV center on Dickinson Avenue yesterday.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, a break-in was discovered at the television sales and service shop before dawn yesterday. Entrance to the building was made by breaking through the front door, and four televisions were allegedly taken from the store, including two color and two black and white models.

Earlier, according to the chief, police officers had stopped a car occupied by James Walter Anderson, 21 of 807 Vanderbuilt St. and Clinton Ray Barrett, 23 of 1002B Bancroft Ave. A television set was found in the vehicle.

After the break-in was discovered, the set was identified as one allegedly taken from the store.

Anderson was taken into custody yesterday while Barrett was arrested this morning.

Chief Cannon said investigation into the Cox theft and a break-in last Friday at Oettinger's Furniture Co. at West End Circle is continuing.

Three televisions and four tape players were reported taken in the Oettinger break-in, last week.
