

Toll Yet Unknown

NEW DELHI (AP) — The tidal wave and cyclonic storm that struck the Bengal coast last weekend devastated an area of 1,000 square miles where nearly five million persons lived.

The United News of India, in a dispatch from one of the hardest hit districts in eastern Orissa State, reported that 10,000 families were feared to have perished in the coastal regions and that two million persons were missing.

The official death toll was 3,391, most of them East Pakistani refugees who had been moved to the offshore island of Jambu, about 200 miles southwest of Calcutta.

However, this figure was based on sketchy preliminary reports from the few villages and islands that had managed to make some contact—often by runners—with the state government in Bhubaneswar.

Press reports said that bodies were floating in the flood-swollen rivers in many rural areas.

Orissa Revenue Minister Pratap Chandra Mohanty said the entire districts of Cuttack and Balasore, with a combined population of about 4.6 million, had been devastated by the cyclone and the floods that the 16-foot tidal wave touched off.

The storm did most of its damage, according to initial reports, in the low coastal areas known as the Orissa rice bowl. The entire crop, that was due to be harvested shortly, was destroyed.

Officials said the salt water flooding the area was also ruining the farm land for years to come.

The storm also killed an estimated 5,000 head of cattle and destroyed much of the new Paradip port, used by international shipping lines which want to avoid the congestion at Calcutta, 200 miles to the northeast.

Selective Service To Set Up New Deferment Classification Plan

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service created a new draft deferment classification today to enable the service to "do business with people likely to be drafted and let the other people go about their business."

Deputy Director Daniel J. Cronin said the new rules, expected to go into effect in December, establish a "1H" holding classification for most 18-year-olds and some men over 18 and abolish the old "1Y" catch-all category. The proposed rules also establish new procedures for draft board exemption and deferment hearings designed to enable a young man to make "a fair representation of his claim" without permitting protesters to clog up the system, draft officials said.

The new draft law requires that the rules be published in the Federal Register 30 days before they go into effect to permit comments or suggestions.

Unless they ask for special classification, 18-year-olds will be put in the holding group until their lottery numbers are drawn during the year they reach 19. If they have high numbers and are safe from the draft, they'll remain 1H and save bother for both them and their draft boards.

The 1Y classification is to be eliminated because it raised many objections by lumping various draft-exempt men such as homosexuals, criminals and borderline physical cases into one category.

In the future, men are to be classified 1A-A0, meaning acceptance undetermined, or 1A-RI, meaning their cases are being adjudicated. Temporary physical disqualifications, such as bone fractures, would put men in the 1A-RI classification.

The new hearing procedures permit a young man to appear with witnesses before his local board to press his claim for deferment or exemption.

"Normally 15 minutes shall be deemed appropriate for this purpose," the rules say, and "not more than three witnesses can be presented."

Cronin said draft boards may permit more time or witnesses but will be able to cut off any effort to disrupt their work by men presenting voluminous claims.

Previously, applicants for exemption or deferment could appear before their local boards but were not allowed witnesses. The new rules also will allow personal appearances before state or presidential boards but without witnesses.

Rep. Edith Green Named Speaker At Commencement

By WILLIAM A. SHIRES

President Leo W. Jenkins announced today that U.S. Rep. Edith Green, D-Oregon, author of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963, will be the speaker for Commencement exercises at East Carolina University next Spring.

East Carolina thus becomes one of the first, if not the first, major universities in the nation to have a woman as Commencement Speaker. The university expects to award more than 2,000 degrees in the ceremonies May 28. It will be ECU's 63rd Commencement.

Dr. Jenkins extended the invitation to Mrs. Greene during a recent White House Conference on higher education.

"I was exceedingly impressed by her knowledge, astuteness and her thoroughness" in matters concerning higher education, Jenkins said. "These are matters which concern us all."

"I felt that she is the type of person that we should get and that our students should hear."

"We are indeed fortunate that she has accepted our invitation to come to Greenville. I was told that not only is she a great woman but one of America's great people."

Jenkins added that it was "long overdue" for a diversified industry to recognize a woman of such stature and experience to make the annual Commencement address. "We are very proud," he said.

Mrs. Green has served in Congress since 1954. Her activities in the field of higher education include authorship of the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963 and the Higher Education Acts of 1965 and 1968, and co-sponsorship of the Educational Professions Development Act of 1967.

She introduced the College Assistance Act of 1969 and the Omnibus Post Secondary Education Act of 1970 before the 91st Congress.

Twenty-three American educational institutions, including Yale, Alaska, Georgetown and South Florida Universities, have conferred honorary doctoral degrees upon her.

She has been instrumental in several congressional acts involving equal pay for equal work, aid for the handicapped and mentally ill, arms control and disarmament, national health insurance, social security improvements and compensation for injured public servants.

Among political activities have been leading roles in the presidential campaigns of John and Robert Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson.

REP. EDITH GREEN

Rep. Green received her undergraduate degree from the University of Oregon and did graduate study at Stanford University.

She is the mother of two sons.

Missile Nest Hit

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Navy fighter-bomber today made the 70th strike inside North Vietnam this year after two surface-to-air missiles were fired at it, the U.S. Command announced.

The command said there was no damage to the A6 Intruder in the exchange of missiles 105 miles north of the demilitarized zone. The plane fired one missile at the SAM site, but the result was not known, the command said.

The A6 was bombing the Ho Chi Minh trail in neighboring Laos when the SAMs were fired at it from a site 33 miles north of the Mu Gia Pass, the command reported.

Enemy gunners shot down two U.S. helicopters in the central highlands, raising announced American aircraft losses in the Indochina war to 8,004.

Mansfield Insists Full Overhaul For Foreign Aid Must Be Devised

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House lobbyists are trying to pry from Congress as much money as they can to rescue the foreign-aid program.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he is prepared to see the whole program halted if that is what it takes to force a total overhaul of the foreign-assistance system.

The United States, he said, is spending twice as much on military as on economic and technical assistance, and "we ought to stop, look and listen," then reform the program.

Mansfield said in an interview he would not be averse to seeing it lapse while reform is

Dr. Monroe Given Expanded Role In ECU Health Field

Dr. Edwin Monroe was named vice president for health affairs of East Carolina University by action of the executive committee of the ECU Board of Trustees yesterday.

Dr. Monroe, who had headed the development of the ECU Medical School, will be responsible in his new capacity for developing all medical and paramedical program on campus. Part of his responsibility will be the supervision of the further development of the medical school.

ECU President Dr. Leo Jenkins said, "I am very happy that the executive committee of the Board has taken this action. Dr. Monroe is well suited by experience and training to do an exemplary job in his new capacity. I know that with the cooperation of all our people, we will see develop under his direction a model medical center here in Eastern North Carolina."

Monroe's previous titles were Dean of Allied Health and Social Professions and Coordinator of Health Affairs. The Laurinburg native went to East Carolina University in 1968, after having had a private internal medicine practice in Greenville since 1956. He is a Davidson College graduate, who received his Doctor of Medicine degree at the University of Pennsylvania and did his internship at the Medical College of Virginia and his residency at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill.

Dr. Monroe said, "I am gratified that we will have the opportunity to better coordinate the health programs on campus with the regional developments in the health field, so that a true partnership between these related efforts to provide better medical care may follow."

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird met with President Nixon for an hour Monday; and said afterwards rejection of the foreign-aid program would jeopardize the U.S. program of withdrawal from South Vietnam.

"The success of the American withdrawal action from Vietnam and the whole negotiations field will be affected by such an action," Laird said.

He said economic aid to South Vietnam is essential to create the conditions for U.S. withdrawal. The bill the Senate rejected included $565 million in aid to go along with the $1.8 billion in military assistance provided South Vietnam in separate legislation.

Tentatively OK Drawing For Hospital

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday gave tentative approval to schematic drawings of the proposed new hospital and approved issuance of $750,000 in bond anticipation notes as a means of temporarily financing expenses expected until hospital revenue bonds can be sold.

Pitt Memorial Hospital administrator Jack Richardson presented the schematic drawings of the proposed new facility to commissioners who then voted their approval of the proposed design, provided it can be constructed within available funds.

The proposed design presented yesterday included plans for a ground-level structure to house various patient service areas such as operating rooms, laboratory facilities, x-ray rooms, intensive care areas and administrative offices. This single-story building would be supplemented by multi-story towers housing patient rooms and nursing stations.

After giving tentative approval to the concept, commissioners approved payment of $84,024 to project architects

Freeman and White.

The board then approved sale of $750,000 in bond anticipation notes — to be dated November 24 — to cover expenditures anticipated until the hospital bonds can be sold sometime next year.

Odell McLawhorn and Charles G. Langley were appointed to the Ayden Planning Board for three years terms at the request of the Town of Ayden, and the Health Department's Sanitarian Supervisor was named as an ex officio member of the Pitt County Planning Board by commissioners.

In other business yesterday afternoon, county commissioners met with Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson to discuss compensating deputies for overtime work during periods of crisis. A committee was appointed to work out details for a plan.

Commissioners also set December 6 as the date for presentation of a portrait of the late Judge William J. Bundy to the county.

Judge Bundy, resident superior court jurist, died last year. His portrait will be presented on behalf of his wife and will be hung in the Superior Court Room.

Rep. Martin Is Appointed Judge

RALEIGH (AP) — The leader in the legislative battle for Gov. Bob Scott's restructuring of higher education—Rep. Perry Martin, D-Northampton—was appointed today judge of Superior Court in the 6th Judicial District.

Scott named Martin to succeed Superior Court Judge Joseph Parker of Windsor.

Parker retired Monday and took an oath as an emergency judge, qualifying him to return to the bench when needed. The retirement brought immediate speculation that Martin would get the post.

Martin, a Rich Square attorney, served as chairman of the House Higher Education Committee during the 1971 session.

Secretary of State Thad Eure, in confirming Parker's decision to retire, noted the speculation about Martin.

"That leaves the governor a chance to use some of his green stamps," Eure said. He was referring to reimbursement for favors. The term "green stamps" gained wide usage during the legislative debate and negotiations for support of Scott's higher education program.

Designate Areas Growth Centers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wilmington, New Bern and Rocky Mount, N.C., are among 34 areas in 16 states designated as economic growth centers.

The selections were made by the states' governors and announced Monday by the Federal Highway Administration. It said they are urban centers in rural areas that are growing faster than neighboring sections and therefore a possible influence on the surrounding regions.

The highway administration said they are eligible for more money to improve roads on the federal-aid primary system.

Martin, 43, a native of Conway, N.C., served in the state Senate in 1957 and 1963 and was a member of the House in 1969. He is a graduate of the Wake Forest University Law School and a former solicitor of the Northampton County Recorder's Court.

Prizes For Two

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Two German-educated scientists who emigrated west during the rise of Nazism and now work in the United States and Canada won the 1971 Nobel prizes for physics and chemistry today.

Dr. Dennis Gabor of Stamford, Conn., received the physics award for his invention of a three-dimensional lensless system of photography—an idea he says came to him while he was watching a tennis match.

The chemistry prize went to another physicist, Dr. Gerhard Herzberg of the Canadian National Research Council in Ottawa, for his contributions to knowledge of how the tiny particles called molecules are composed.

Gabor is 71 and Herzberg 66. Each will receive $88,000.

Herzberg was in the Soviet Union when the award was announced. Gabor telephoned by a woman reporter, quipped: "If you were here I'd kiss you."

Gabor is the third scholar working in the United States to win a 1971 Nobel award. The others, announced earlier, were Dr. Earl W. Sutherland Jr. of Vanderbilt University in medicine, and Dr. Simon Kuznets of Harvard University in economics.

Muskie To Speak In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Democratic presidential contender Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine will be in Charlotte Nov. 18 to speak to a local party fundraising dinner.

He would be the fourth Democratic candidate to visit Charlotte this year.

Housing Authority commissioners Monday night passed a resolution approving the financial report of the Authority for the year ending Sept. 30.

The report, submitted each year for approval by assistant director J. C. Lamm, contains itemized data and information pertaining to the financial situation of the Authority for the yearly period.

Lamm issued copies of the lengthy report to each commissioner and discussed various sections for clarification. A figure that is always of interest, the amount of payments in lieu of taxes the Authority pays the City of Greenville, was reported to be $14,927.95 for the year ending on Sept. 30.

According to the occupancy report, submitted by Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter, director of tenant affairs, all but one unit in the four housing areas run by the Authority were rented on the first of the month.

In N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook), all 65 units were occupied and residents paid an average of $38.35 in rent for the month of October.

Residents of N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park) averaged $44.82 in rent for the month, Mrs. Streeter reported, and all but one of the 160 units were in occupancy. Rent averaged $45.39 in N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood), the director submitted and all 188 units were rented. The N.C. 22-4 section of Moyewood had total occupancy in 40 housing units and residents of that area paid $41.40 in average October rent.

Most of the month was spent working on quarterly reports, Mrs. Streeter noted, and continued occupancy reports are now being filed by housing residents.

In another matter on a short agenda, executive director Col. A. E. Dubber told commissioners that a local firm had expressed an interest in building housing units here on a turnkey basis and further discussions with the firm would be held.

In a turnkey operation, a contractor would handle the entire matter up through the construction of the unit, including acquisition of land, and the Authority would then assume control of the completed units. Normally, the Authority would have its own units constructed.

The question was raised as to whether turnkey housing could be constructed on land already owned by the Authority and answers to that matter will be sought from HUD.

Dubber reported that six officials of the HUD area office in Greensboro are expected to be in town Wednesday to look over the city and meet with local personnel.

Candidate Bowles Says Auto Insurance Is Issue

RALEIGH (AP) — Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, who has resigned as state senator to campaign for governor, says he believes auto liability insurance will be a major issue in the primary campaigns in North Carolina.

"In fact, I'm going to make it one," said Bowles, a champion of no-fault auto insurance. He resigned his legislative seat Monday to devote full time to his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The Guilford County Democrat submitted his resignation in a letter to Secretary of State Thad Eure. He had pledged last month to step down from the $250-a-month senatorial post after the special legislative session that adjourned Saturday.

"For the next 12 months," Bowles said in the letter, "the majority of my time will be spent on the campaign trail and I will not be available to the people of my district to help with their day-to-day problems. The people are paying for this service and I feel they deserve to have someone readily available who is not a candidate for statewide office."

Bowles, who will be 52 Nov. 16, served in the House one term and was completing his second term in the Senate. Bowles said he hopes that restructuring of higher education, enacted by the legislature last week, "will be left out of the campaign."

He added, "I hope we can let it alone. I also hope the next legislature doesn't take it up so that it can have a chance to work."

The Guilford County Democratic Executive Committee will name Bowles' successor. There is speculation that Rep. McNeil Smith, D-Guilford, will be given the appointment.

Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, the only other announced Democratic gubernatorial candidate, said Sunday he probably will remain in office during his campaign.

Miss Elaine Streeter of Route 1, Greenville graduated last week from the McKinney Job Corps Center for Women in McKinney, Tex.

A Health Occupation graduate, she is transferring this week to the YWCA in Philadelphia, Pa. where she will ELAINE STREETER continue her studies in the same field.

While enrolled in Job Corps, Miss Streeter served as junior corpsman, a resident advisor assistant, and a member of the student government. She participated in church-related activities and attended entertainment events like the Ice Capades, The Cotton Bowl game, and a personal appearance of The Platters. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin W. Streeter of Route 1, Greenville.

According to Mrs. Jack Wilkerson, director of the WICS-Job Corps Screening Office in Greenville, which enrolled her, Miss Streeter writes that she has thoroughly enjoyed the work and opportunities provided her through Job Corps and that she urges young people from 16-21 to "give Job Corps a try."

Bread And Jethro Tull At ECU

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, are home-coming days at East Carolina University for 1971.

Events are planned to make it a time of music before and after the homecoming game on Saturday.

At 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, the ECU football team, after two stunning victories over N.C. State and Furman, will face Davidson in the annual homecoming game at Ficklen Stadium.

On Friday, the music group Bread will be heard at Minges

Coliseum beginning at 8:15 p.m.

Bread, a quartet of young male performer, has Robb Royer as lead guitarist, Robb plays by using the pick or finger-picking. He also plays keyboard instruments and the flute. A second member, James Griffin, is the group's lead singer. Instrumentally, he fills in basically on the rhythm guitar, but also plays bass and lead guitar, as well as keyboard instruments.

A new member of the group is Mike Botts, the group's drummer, who joined the former trio when they needed a drummer for a public appearance schedule.

The leader of Bread is David Gates, usually the bass player but also working on the lead guitar. Gates sings some of the songs, such as "Make It With You" and "The Other Side of Life."

Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. a second homecoming music concert, that of the personal appearance of the noted British heavy rock quintet, Jethro Tull, will take place on stage at Minges Coliseum.

Jethro Tull, lead by flutist Ian Anderson, is now on an extended American tour, playing the university circuit as well as concert halls. The group is best known for its album "Aqualung" which has been a hit both in the U.S. and in Europe.

Tickets for both concerts are available at Central Ticket Office, and public tickets are available at the Record Bar.

Cigarette Sales Up Despite Ad Curbs

RALEIGH (AP) — A leading tobacco official says that despite the ban on radio and television cigarette ads, sales of cigarettes were up 2.9 per cent during the first nine months of this year.

Curtis H. Judge, president of P. Lorillard Division of Loews Corp., told a group of tobacco men Monday "this is a healthy, viable industry. We will be buying tobacco from you, your children when they grow up, and your grandchildren when they grow up."

Judge spoke at the 13th annual meeting of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee.

Joseph R. Williams of the U.S. Foreign Agricultural Service, said concern over health aspects has spread around the world and has led to emphasis on low tar and nicotine cigarettes.

"To meet these law standards," he said, "we find increasing evidence that high-quality American tobacco is being diluted with an increasing percentage of neutral foreign tobacco."

Williams said the health issue is of concern to millions of Americans. He added the tobacco industry should be commended "in recognizing that it must be in the forefront of the removal of this cloud through positive and objective research."

Williams will become president of Tobacco Associates Inc. Jan. 1, succeeding John D. Palmer.

Carl T. Hicks was re-elected president of the Tobacco Growers Information Committee. He told the group tobacco interests have contributed more money toward health research on tobacco than any federal agency or voluntary health organization—$40 million.

The international trips are sponsored by the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund which is supported by Girl Scouts and Girl Guides from around the world.

Bank Robbed At Ft. Bragg

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's 30th bank robbery of the year occurred Monday when three armed men held up a bank on the Ft. Bragg reservation.

They escaped with an undetermined amount of money in an exchange of shots with military policemen.

Police said the men wore civilian clothes and entered the First Citizens Bank and Trust Co. branch just before noon. Shots were fired as they left and afterward as a Spring Lake policeman chased their car north toward Harnett County.

Officer Stephen North said he believed the men fired at him with military M16 rifles.

A search was under way late Monday in the Harnett-Cumberland County area.

The Ft. Bragg bank was robbed of $115,000 on June 1 by three men who wounded an MP during a shootout afterward. Two men are still being sought, by the FBI and a man and a woman have been convicted in that robbery.

The battleship Texas was the first vessel to have an airplane launched from its decks.

International Center Is Home Away From Home For Foreigners

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Life at a foreign university can be devastating. It's not that any of life's little miseries are inflicted on the outsider intentionally. It's just that many people unwittingly show little consideration for the lifestyle and cultural preferences of a foreign guest.

That's why it was such a happy day when the new International Center opened this fall at Purdue.

The large white residential structure will be a home away from home for many foreign students and their wives. And it's only the beginning, says Linda Graebner, math major who heads Purdue's student Government International. "So many people have worked so long to make this a reality. I'm so glad to see we finally have a place where foreign students and American students can meet and exchange ideas. The students really like it. They come at first reluctantly, but then they see we do have a worthwhile program and they all pitch in and help."

The center is not a 'live-in' situation for students, though a limited number of upper apartments are rented to provide income for rent and maintenance. Rather, it is a place to rest and study or play. And it is a place to sign up for campus activities as well as those arranged by the center. The house is furnished with items contributed by Lafayette and West Lafayette citizens. Older pieces of furniture have been sanded and refinished by a host of students. An electrical engineering student worked on electrical equipment and a Purdue custodian volunteered his services when it came time to clean and polish floors.

Dating Wives Give Singles Competition

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: We single girls would have more dates if the married women would stop going around with the single men.

I am only 20 and have no intentions of getting married in the near future anyway, but I enjoy an occasional date to a nightclub or movie, which is hard to get because most eligible men are dating married women.

My 18-year-old cousin, whose husband travels a lot, never stays home one night when her husband is away. She takes off her rings, makes a date with an eligible man, and goes her merry way, while I sit home waiting for the telephone to ring.

There is one guy who dates me one time, and her the next. Should I tell him she's married? JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: No. [P. 8. The chances are, he already knows.]

DEAR ABBY: I'm the type of person who would never drop in on anyone [not even my own mother] without some kind of advance notice. To me, that is the epitome of rudeness.

At 6 P. M. one Friday evening this summer, I received a phone call from relatives who were "passing thru." They were "in the neighborhood," and asked for directions to my house, obviously expecting to spend the night.

Fortunately we had no plans for the weekend, and enjoyed visiting with them, but I was amazed to learn that they had traveled 1,000 miles and stayed with friends and relatives all along the way. They said they were "lucky" that everyone they called was home and "not busy."

When they mentioned that they might stop again on their way home, I asked them to please phone when they were about 100 miles away so I'd know when to expect them.

A week later, at 10 P. M. they rang my bell! [No advance notice.] This time I was unable to conceal my irritation.

I recently received a note thanking me for my hospitality and apologizing for not phoning in advance. They gave the impression that they were welcomed with open arms by everyone except me. The excuse they gave for just dropping in was this was their vacation and they didn't want to have to be at a certain place at a certain time. Frankly, I think that's a lousy excuse.

I am fond of these relatives and don't want to alienate them, yet I do not like "drop in" company. Am I too uptight about it? Or do most women agree with me? IRRITATED HOSTESS

DEAR IRRITATED: Most women prefer a little notice in order to prepare for guests. And I think it's an imposition to pop in on folks unexpectedly. What if they've made other plans?

DEAR ABBY: For the lady who was concerned because her son wanted to quit college to enroll in a trade school because he liked to work with his hands: In John Gardner's book, "Excellence," he emphasizes the need for everyone to perform his task to the best of his ability, no matter how humble that task may be. He offers the following example:

"An excellent plumber is infinitely more admirable than an incompetent philosopher. The society which scorns excellence in plumbing because plumbing is a humble activity, and tolerates shoddiness in philosophy because it is an exalted activity, will have neither good plumbing nor good philosophy. Neither its pipes nor its theories will hold water." AN EDUCATOR, OLYMPIA, WASH.

One-Man Vigil For Stag Court

WASHINGTON (WNS) — How times have changed! Nobody but nobody in public life seems willing to be quoted against appointing a woman to the Supreme Court.

The only exception may be Harry Britton of Erie, Pennsylvania, an eccentric who has conducted a one-man vigil against "women's lib and women's lip" in front of the White House for the past several months. Plastered with homemade signs from his hatband to his shabby coattails, Harry wants women in the home.

Harry says his own wife walked out on him back home in Erie which may be one reason he embarked on his present crusade in front of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. — Dorothy Marks

Wall Covering Leads To Business Venture

By PATRICIA E. DAVIS NEW YORK (UPI) — Several months ago, a former Internal Revenue Service agent and a Moroccan businessman opened a plush Moroccan restaurant in midtown Manhattan.

They were surprised to notice their patrons running their hands up and down the walls of the restaurant — which were covered with elegant cut-velvet.

The patrons' repeated requests for information on where to buy similar velvet spurred the partners to enter a field about which they knew nothing — dress designing and production.

Five months ago, the former IRS agent, Arthur Kettler, and his partner, Hassan Barrada, formed Creation Mondiale Ltd. and hired a young Moroccan economist — also with no fashion experience — to run it.

"We are a young company and we are still unsure what direction to take," said Taoufik Gen Romdhane, the firm's 30-year-old-bachelor president.

"We have a diverse line and everything is made in Morocco of Moroccan fabric. We have learned that there is a demand for ready-to-wear that has Moroccan identity. We combine the Moroccan fabrics — many with prints based on carpet patterns and dating back many hundreds of years — and the modern American look."

The fashions are designed by Ben Romdhane and the patterns cut in New York City. But the manufacturing is done in Casablanca, where the company employs more than 150 persons.

The use of lower priced manpower results in prices far below the American norm. For a line featuring heavily gilt and silver embroidered caftans and richly elegant cut velvet opera suits, the highest suggested retail price is $49.95.

"We are not trying to abuse our labor or to put American manufacturers out of business," Ben Romdhane said. "Our purpose is, we believe Morocco has a potential."

"Morocco is just now beginning to develop industrially and we feel that our look, potential and art have not been exposed. We want to expose them in a simple manner, not to compete. Our satisfaction is to walk into our factory and say 'Look, here is another order,' because so many of our people are waiting for work."

"Other designers make caftans," he said, "but for us it is not really a commercial venture — for us it is pride. We are proud to see people wearing our creations. And we feel that this is the most direct thing we can do for our people — to get them full time work. And to make garments Morocco can be proud of."

Ben Romdhane said the fledgling firm already has received orders from 300 stores across the United States.

Ben Romdhane, who studied at Heidelberg University in Germany and the University of Chicago, returns to Morocco once a month to supervise manufacturing operations and "visit our museums to get design ideas from our art works and from the designs in our magnificent carpets."

On a recent visit he discovered what has to date been the only snag in his operation.

"Our seamstresses are illiterate. I found they had the habit of sewing the labels on upside-down because they couldn't read them."

Going In The Same Direction

Resturcture of higher education in North Carolina is now a fact, at least on paper.

The new law written by the legislature in its special session last week probably is not entirely to the liking of any of the partisan factions in higher education, in the legislature or elsewhere in the state. But at least therein it meets the old standard which says the best compromise is one with which neither side is entirely happy.

Although there was great fighting, tough political pressures and much maneuvering in Raleigh last week as the legislature undertook the important task of restructure, there never seemed any doubt that the legislators were determined to restructure the state's system of higher education. It was evident from the outset they recognized the need for restructure and it was a matter of working out the mechanics in the best interest of the state as a whole.

In the final analysis, this is what the special session did.

The important thing now is for all the forces in the state interested in better higher education to put aside partisan feelings and work as harmoniously as possible to make the new system work.

The new board which will govern North Carolina's higher education system beginning next July will have far more power than any other such board ever created by the legislature. It represents a bold new step by North Carolina to bring to its system of higher education the kind of governance which will serve the best interest of all the state and all its people. In doing so, it will also serve the best interests of all the 16 institutions which make up the state's higher education system.

With a balance of 16 members initially coming from the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University and another 16 from regional university boards of trustees, the new governing board is balanced as fairly as it could possibly be. The new system cannot help but accomplish its purpose if those who make up the governing board undertake their new responsibilities with the view not of serving the interest of this institution or that, but of serving the best interest of the state as a whole and all its institutions.

The leadership of Gov. Scott in bringing about restructure of higher education will go down as one of the most important accomplishments in higher education in decades. It was a tough emotional political issue and one filled with complications. Yet it was an issue which the governor obviously felt must be resolved if the state is to shape its system of higher education to meet the needs of its people.

Citizens of North Carolina should be grateful that Gov. Scott had the kind of political courage to insist that the issue be met head-on and that a solution be found.

Where does North Carolina go from here? In the same direction it has been going, only with better controls, better coordination, better planning and greater efficiency to building a continually better system of higher education to serve the needs of this state and its people.

The new higher education law written by the special session of the General Assembly last week provides an adequate and reasonable framework through which that goal can be realized.

Race Enlivens Tar Heel GOP

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N.C. — A down-to-the-wire race is on for chairman of the North Carolina Republican Party.

Contenders for the GOP leadership mantle are spending money and logging hours in a campaign that is tightening and taking on a keen edge.

The three-man field

"If capable men are willing to spend money and fight for the party leadership, it must be worth something," he observed.

As outgoing chairman and a likely candidate for GOP nomination as governor, Holshouser claims a sideline seat for the race and an attitude of confidence whichever one of the three wins.

On the surface, the infighting for chairman has not developed along the factional lines of "Old Guard" and "New Wing." While Graham is somewhat identified with the former, and Rouse as an easterner with the latter, both count supporters across the lines. Neither has spoken critically of Holshouser's record, though both talk of stronger state leadership.

An immediate task for the new chairman will be what to do about a recently completed study on the state of the Republican Party in North Carolina.

Need To Communicate
Sen. Phil Kirk of Rowan, chairman for the 20-member committee which spent seven months on the study, said it showed a "communications gap" between state headquarters and party membership in the field.

Those participating in a series of public forums conducted across the state, Kirk reported, said the party needs to be vocal, speaking to crucial issues and enunciating clearly its philosophy to the citizenry, including the elderly, minority groups, and the young.

An obvious lack of money, Kirk said. Among the 50 states, only Nevada spends less than North Carolina Republicans for a state office staff and operation, he said.

More fun as well as more funds is needed, the youthful Senator continued. His group recommended that the GOP copy the Democrats to the extent of staging annually at least two good-time, fund-raising events. They would enrich the treasury, and also counter the dour image too many people have of the Republican party, he explained.

The study committee report made plain that finances, as well as recruiting candidates and planning the '72 campaign, will be major assignments for the new chairman.

Final pre-convention politicking for the position unwinds this week as the GOP concludes its schedule of district conventions, following county conventions held in September. Partisans of Rouse, Graham, and Dent will be active to corral delegate votes.

Then it will be on to Charlotte, the convention, and the shootout.

BRYAN HAISLIP

represents east, piedmont and west: Frank A. Rouse, Kinston businessman; William T. (Bill) Graham, Winston-Salem attorney; and Ted Dent of Asheville, former state legislator.

Rouse and Graham are the most aggressive scrappers. Most observers rate them neck-and-neck, but don't count out Dent who holds some mountain troops which could swing the decision.

Some say Rouse is ahead in commitments, and may have enough to win. Others feel it's still an open ball game, with the outside change that a Rouse-Graham deadlock could turn the tide to Dent.

Boost For Convention
Whatever else, the contest is certain to boost attendance and enliven proceedings at the Republican State Convention in Charlotte, Nov. 19-20. Delegates assembled there will cast the votes to elect the new state chairman.

What the winner gets, aside from prestige and the satisfaction of winning, is chief cook and bottle-washer responsibility for a party yeasty and ready to rise. Republican ranks have been stirring since the 1970 general election. Despite visits by President Nixon and Vice President Agnew; the balloting fell short of GOP expectations and actually thinned its delegation to the state legislature. Murmurs became outspoken that the party needed strong leadership at the top and relevancy to the times and issues.

The discontent undoubtedly has fueled the race for chairman. Next year's battles, from White House to the courthouse, raise a challenge and opportunity that Tar Heel Republicans at the grassroots want to see fulfilled.

Good Omen For Party
Rep. James E. Holshouser, Jr. of Watauga, current chairman, said the fight for his successor is a good omen. It shows vitality in the party, he said.

NERVE RACKING, TO SAY THE LEAST!

One More For Sen. Sam

If Sam Ervin did not exist, as Voltaire once remarked of God, it would be necessary to invent him. In a Senate that is mostly in the way, the Constitution is mostly in the way. Not to Sam Ervin. He speaks of the Constitution in the same loving accents by which a man speaks of his wife, his mother, his child or, for that matter, his Redeemer. We had an old scholar once at Virginia who felt the same way about Shakespeare. It is a feeling kindled out of the affection that is deeper than love — and out of a sense of the marvelous also. Always something new! Some perfection never grasped before! Yet not perfection. Like mother, wife and child, the Constitution has its failings. The procedures for electing a President are sorely in need of repair. The grand ambiguities of the general welfare clause provide endless trouble. There are other broken parts and patches of rust. And it is the peculiar role of Senator Sam to put things right.

uncle-by-marriage, a visitor who has to be tolerated but not really welcomed. The Constitution is mostly in the way. Not to Sam Ervin. He speaks of the Constitution in the same loving accents by which a man speaks of his wife, his mother, his child or, for that matter, his Redeemer. We had an old scholar once at Virginia who felt the same way about Shakespeare. It is a feeling kindled out of the affection that is deeper than love — and out of a sense of the marvelous also. Always something new! Some perfection never grasped before! Yet not perfection. Like mother, wife and child, the Constitution has its failings. The procedures for electing a President are sorely in need of repair. The grand ambiguities of the general welfare clause provide endless trouble. There are other broken parts and patches of rust. And it is the peculiar role of Senator Sam to put things right.

Thus, he was tinkering around two weeks ago with Article V. This is the section of the Constitution that deals with amendment of the Constitution. If you care about these matters, you will know the familiar process: A resolution is introduced in Congress proposing some amendment of our basic law; if the resolution wins approval by a two-thirds margin in both House and Senate, it goes out to the States for ratification; and if three-fourths of the States ratify, the amendment becomes part of the Constitution.

That is the familiar process. Every amendment has been adopted in this same fashion. But it is one of the marvelous aspects of the Constitution, reflecting the framers' intuitive distrust of the Congress, that Article V offers an alternative route to amendment. This route never has been taken all the way. It provides that, upon the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, the Congress "shall call a convention for proposing amendments."

A constitutional convention? We haven't had one since 1787. But off and on through the years, States have talked of using the bypass route. By Ervin's count, at least 304 such "applications" have been received, dealing with 251 different proposals for amendment. Over the past 20 years, in a latter-day revival of Calhounian gospel, such applications have become more numerous. Between 1957 and 1969, no fewer than 33 States — just one short of the magic two-thirds — asked for a convention to propose an amendment on reapportionment.

Suppose a 34th application had been received? Article V is not self-executing. It says that "congress shall call." Call how? Call whom? Senator Sam found the uncertainties a delightful problem. Four years ago he set upon repairs. On October 19, his bill passed. When the

About Being Sixty

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What is it like to be 60?

When I reached this epic anniversary earlier this year, I wasn't sure whether I should give up completely or simply buy myself a ready-made suit of sackcloth and ashes and make the best of it. But like most things you dread ahead of time, being 60 has turned out to be quite endurable—although I certainly wouldn't recommend it for anyone under 59.

One of the glum things about hitting 60 is that you get very little sympathy from others when you complain about the pangs of a new disease, such as hardening of the arteries or falling of the arches.

"At your age," they tell you breezily, "what did you expect—mumps?"

Whatever it is, you are expected to be grateful that it isn't something worse, like athlete's foot between the ears.

There are some people who insist after turning 60 that they feel as well as before or maybe even a mite better. But everybody knows what they are: liars.

By and large, however, reaching the age of 60 has some compensations that make it less fearful than anticipated.

For example: While age is regarded as almost immoral in this country, many of your best friends still go on speaking to you just as if you hadn't done anything to lower their regard for you. They realize it isn't altogether your fault.

Teen-agers don't treat you any worse at 60 than when you were 40. To them, of course, anyone over 30 is regarded as an impossible dodo and walking relic.

Unbuttoning White House?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — An incident at the White House on the night of Oct. 21, shortly after President Nixon revealed his Supreme Court nominations, has encouraged hope that the Berlin Wall built around him by White House major domo H. R. (Bob) Haldeman may be breaking down.

Eight Republican Senators, most of them members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, were brought to the White House that evening by chief White House lobbyist Clark MacGregor for an advance glimpse of the surprise selections. But the Senatorial mood was bleak. The Senators grumbled that they should have been consulted during the long, chaotic selection process. Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Senate Republican leader, was particularly unhappy about being ignored.

At that point, MacGregor made the decision to usher the Senators into Mr. Nixon's office once the speech was completed. The President agreed, and Senatorial wrath was assuaged.

The incident might seem trivial in itself, but it suggests to some hopeful White House aides that the buttoned-up White House may be unbuttoning. For eight Senators to be ushered into the Nixon Oval Office on the spur of the moment without fastidious staff preparation is a violation of the super-organized Haldeman system, designed to protect the President's privacy and time by limiting the flow of visitors.

It also represents a greater willingness by Mr. Nixon to deal personally with the outside world, particularly Congress. He agreed two weeks ago to requests from his lobbying staff to meet personally with middle-road House Democrats to ask their support against the Mansfield end-of-the-war amendment, an effort that may have provided the margin to defeat it. A few months ago, Mr. Nixon would have strongly resisted any such request.

In general, there are signs that the Nixon White House, though still over-organized, is a little looser than it was even four months ago. Much to Haldeman's displeasure, deadlines are not being met, paper work gets confused and there is a little bit more improvising. To politicians on the President's staff hopeful

Strength For Today

ADVENTURE
We live in an age of books. Thousands of books are produced every year by publishers, and they are not trash by any means. Some of them are. Other books are degrading. Once in a while a book is published that appears to change the course of history. PILGRIMS PROGRESS, the works of Shakespeare, and going back for many centuries, the writings of Greek and Roman thinkers.

Some people would look down on television and claim it is a cheap way of learning world news and entertaining oneself. It is nothing of the sort. It is a truly great invention and when used to proper ends is certainly destined to have immeasurably fine results.

The book that can be sketched over with an evening's reading may not be significant — and then again it may be. The woman who wrote GONE WITH THE WIND made a million dollars and her publishers were said to have made the same. The newspapers of the United States require acres of wood pulp every day to keep them going. Youngsters can be taught to read at an early age and frequently their reading is of vast significance.

What makes a good book? First, an interesting subject discussed. In the second place, the material arranged in an interesting and intriguing fashion. In the third place, the discussion of something worth discussing. There are actually people who read the equivalent of a book a day. Some of these are ignorant with all their reading. World geniuses have generally not read much but they have read with discernment. Paperbacks have put reading within the reach of all financially.

Get good glasses, a good light, a comfortable chair — and you may be off to an evening of adventure.

By ELMER ROESSNER
November will be a confused month for business as October was.

A disturbing factor in the first two weeks will be the phase two rules of the New Economic plan. Equally disturbing will be the effects of these rules in the subsequent two weeks.

While there will be some pretty good guesses, nobody knows for sure just what phase two will bring. As predicted here, there will probably be some tilting of the lid on wages and more tilting of the lid on prices. But these tilts can be limited.

A negative effect of these tilts will be that they will drag on for some time. The controllers have indicated that decisions will drag on into next year, upsetting plans for Christmas hiring and selling.

There will be a slight rise in unemployment. Closing of obsolete and unprofitable plants will continue as it has in October.

Comparisons Asked
A further increase in confusion will be caused by comparison with year-ago figures. In November, 1970, the nation was hard hit by the General Motors strike. This will make many of the series this month look bullish by comparison. All comparisons that suggest boom in November should be carefully adjusted for the GM strike and its effects.

Even the stock market will continue the erratic course it has taken in recent weeks. There will be a lot of selling to register losses for tax purposes; there will be a lot of buying by bargain hunters. Mutual funds, arranging their equities for year-end statements, will be doing a lot of both.

The market will be further confused by third-quarter statements. Some, like the General Motors figures that foretell an all-time record year, will be encouraging; others, like the steel companies that took the strike lumps this year, will seem discouraging. The market will be a mixed bag.

Interest rates will be further upsetting. Prime rates have been trimmed and many observers expect a decline in interest banks pay for savings. However, corporations will need large amounts of short-term funds for year-end adjustments and taxes and the government must borrow about $8 billion in the next few months, which would tend to push interest rates up.

A Puzzlement
Manufacturers Hanover Trust in its current newsletter says: "Most aspects of phase two programs are still quite obscure, but no part of the policy outlook is more obscure or less likely to be clarified in the near future than the role of the federal Reserve monetary policy."

An until President Nixon announces otherwise, fears will continue whether phase two involves an excess profit tax, limitations on corporate income or dividends, or controls over consumer credit.

In short: In a period where anything can happen, everything does.

Craig Proposes State Take Over Welfare Program

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's commissioner of social services said today some counties in the state are doing "a poor job" of administering the welfare program.

Clifton M. Craig declined to identify the counties but said they are "inefficient" in administering the laws governing public assistance.

He proposed that the state take over administration of the program now handled by county departments of social services. He said this would result in considerable saving to taxpayers. Thirty-two states have state-operated welfare systems.

Craig, who retired as a Marine colonel after 22 years, said in an interview, "We know that from time to time fraud exists in the welfare program. But dishonesty does not restrict itself to the poor."

He said he could find no fault with the laws governing public assistance.

"The laws are good," he explained. "The fault lies in the way they are administered. There are 100 different attitudes between counties in handling the welfare program, and a difference of attitude exists in social workers."

Craig emphasized that many counties in North Carolina are doing an excellent job, "but some are not."

He indicated that all too often social workers let their feelings enter into welfare cases and ineligible persons are placed on welfare.

"The community attitude in many instances keeps eligible persons off the welfare rolls even though they are in need and meet all eligibility requirements," Craig said.

"Frequently," he added, "county departments of social services are not given adequate money and personnel by the county boards of commissioners."

Furthermore, Craig said, some counties are lax in making a follow-up every six months to determine whether persons on relief rolls still meet eligibility requirements.

He cited a case where a woman had been dead for several months, but her old age assistance check had continued to be sent to her address.

Craig released figures showing that $232.1 million was spent in North Carolina on welfare programs during the 1970-71 fiscal year. This was more than $635,000 per day. The federal government paid $165.8 million or 71.46 per cent, the state $32.1 million and the counties $34.1 million.

There are three major public assistance programs in North Carolina: (1) old age assistance to those over 65, (2) aid to permanently and totally disabled persons, and (3) aid to dependent children.

Some 213,000 persons, or 4 per cent of the state's population, were on welfare rolls during the past fiscal year. This included 36,000 in the old age category, 29,000 permanently and totally disabled, and 148,000 who received aid to dependent children. The latter category included 111,000 children and 37,000 adults.

Craig said the aid to families with dependent children "is the most misunderstood assistance program."

"The program," he explained, "is designed to benefit children but we cannot make payments to children. Payments must be made to guardians or a parent. To be eligible for assistance, children must be deprived of one or both parents."

Craig said the average AFDC recipient is a mother with three children. They can receive up to $169 a month.

He noted that persons eligible for medical assistance include those who receive a monthly public assistance check for living expenses under the aid to aged, disabled, blind, and families with dependent children.

Others might be eligible if they meet certain requirements. These include the aged, blind, disabled and families with dependent children who can meet living expenses but need help with medical costs only. The county departments of social services determine who is eligible.

Since becoming commissioner of social services in November 1966, Craig has tried to improve administrative procedures in the counties.

He views his department's role as a supervisory and coordination agency for county welfare departments.

Time Of Limbo For TV Actors

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — David Wayne is one of many actors in a special kind of limbo. Between now and the middle of the month he will learn whether he is employed or unemployed as NBC reaches its mid-season programming decisions. He probably anticipates the worst.

His situation is peculiar to television. Motion pictures are filmed and released, and performers, work ended, can sit back and hope for a hit. Broadway shows open and either close quickly or survive.

But the actor committed by contract to a role in a television series—particularly a new series—has no options. He is unable to make new commitments until he knows the fate of the old one—and sometimes it takes months.

Wayne, a two-time Tony winner for his Broadway performances as the leprechaun in "Finnian's Rainbow" and as Ens Pulver in "Mr. Roberts," is currently a costar in NBC's comedy, "The Good Life." And "The Good Life" has serious ratings troubles.

With Larry Hagman, star of the series, in Australia during a break in shooting, Wayne was tagged for a nationwide personal appearance tour designed to stir up some interest in the show.

"I've been filling in time putting together a one-man show based on the works of H. L. Mencken," Wayne said during his New York stopover. "We've finished 15 episodes in our series and we ought to know any day now if we go back for more shows or if it's all over."

Wayne has made a number of pilots over the years but has remained as a popular guest star instead of a series regular until now.

"On Broadway it is a matter of fighting with your best, for survival," he said. "In television it seems that people want the familiar. I just don't understand what makes a TV series a winner."

There was a holiday atmosphere around ABC this week. For the first time in six years the network emerged as Nielsen ratings winner during a week in the first quarter of a season. CBS, the previous front-runner, was a close second, a drop occasioned by a full evening devoted to actuality shows, which almost always attract small audiences.

NBC's "Flip Wilson Show" and ABC's "Marcus Welby, M.D." led the hit parade for the week ending Oct. 24. ABC's "Owen Marshall, Counselor-at-Law" moved up fast into third place with the second part of a story started earlier on a Thursday night on the network's "Longstreet," which was in fifth position.

cally crumble all at once. If you drink one less martini at lunch and get half an hour more sleep at night, you probably won't even have to step up your daily ration of anticid pills.

It isn't necessary to buy expensive clothing or have it cleaned and pressed as often. People expect you to become somewhat dilapidated and seedy-looking. It annoys them if you try to look like a fashion plate.

You don't have to waste mental energy trying to think of something sensible to say, as nobody pays any attention to what you say whether it is sensible or not.

Your wife doesn't ask you to take her out to dinner so often. She knows that if she does she'll have to listen to you raise hell for the next three days over how much restaurants charge these days.

No longer do you have to fret and scheme about ways to ambush the boss into giving you a merit raise. It is easier for a hen to grow molars than it is for the average office worker to get a merit raise after 60.

There's also no point in pondering how to make that tired feeling go away that you wake up with every day. There is no way to make it go away—so why not relax and enjoy it more by doing less?

for a third term. But Peterson's image is poor because of increased state taxes, and Hill would be at least a 50-50 bet to beat him in a primary. Moreover, Hill's old friend, Richard Nixon, might give Peterson a Federal job, perhaps an ambassadorship, thus paving the way for Hill.

Despite these prospects, Hill's friends in New Hampshire have sent him this warning: get back and start campaigning now, not next year. A native of New York, Hill needs much grass-roots voter cultivation.

Rocky's Future
Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York has quietly passed word to his new friend in the White House, Richard Nixon, that he is not interested in being Vice President on a Nixon ticket.

What Rockefeller wants, he confides to Presidential intimates, is a top spot in the second Nixon administration: Secretary of State or, possibly, Secretary of Defense.

At State Rockefeller might find himself under the thumb of his onetime protegee, Henry M. Kissinger, who is widely regarded as Mr. Nixon's Over Secretary of State. That would not phase Dr. Kissinger, but Rockefeller might not like it. So, the Governor's first choice might be the Pentagon, which Melvin R. Laird will vacate after 1972.

The bill defines State applications, provides for a convention, prevents a runaway body, and carefully safeguards the process as a whole. It is a nice piece of probably useless work; and Mr. Madison, one imagines, would be pleased.

All supplies for the northeast moved over this bridge. (AP Wirephoto)

More Employers Fall Under Insurance Laws

An estimated 33,000 additional employers in North Carolina will be liable for unemployment insurance tax payments to state and federal governments Jan. 1, according to Lloyd Nooe, manager of the Greenville Local Office of the Employment Security Commission.

Although he has no estimate of the number of employers in the Pitt County area who will come under provisions of the new law, Nooe stated that most small employers, such as realtors, grocery store operators, service station operators, doctors and many others will be liable for payroll taxes for the first time. Certain non-profit organizations will be taxed for the first time.

The current unemployment insurance law requires a federal-state payroll tax on most companies and firms employing four or more workers during 20 weeks. The new law, which was enacted by the 1971 General Assembly to bring North Carolina into compliance with federal statutes, extends coverage to most employers of one or more persons in 20 calendar weeks, thus adding approximately 138,000 extra workers to the unemployment program.

For newly covered employers, the law requires a 2.7 percent state tax and a .5 percent federal tax on the first $4,200 paid each covered worker.

The Employment Security Commission this week completed mailing status questionnaires to all employers who previously were not covered by the unemployment insurance law, and Nooe states that it is "imperative that employers complete these forms and return them to the ESC central office immediately."

Failure to return the questionnaires could result in a late determination, or no determination at all, which eventually would mean an assessment of back taxes.

Employers uncertain about their liability under the new law, or those with questions, are urged by Nooe to contact the field representative at the Greenville local ESC office.

Since hearts are worth more than diamonds, most North-South contestants tried for the major suit slam when today's hand was dealt in a recent tournament. An unfortunate block in the diamond suit led to disaster for these pairs and we will leave it to the reader's judgment whether or not this is an illustration of: "Greed not paying off."

Where the bidding proceeded as depicted in the diagram, North and South reached the impregnable contract of six diamonds. North opened the bidding with one heart—and South made a two over one response. North's holding was worth 19 points in support of partner's suit, and he properly jumped to four diamonds. South could do no more at this point than show his heart support by returning to four hearts.

When his partner made a slam try by cue bidding the ace of clubs, South accepted but in a way that presented a choice of contracts. While the five spade bid would normally indicate first round control in spades, the partnership appeared to be solid elsewhere and it was South's intention to reassure North that two immediate spade losers were not in the offing.

Rather than pick the suit himself, South resolved to leave the decision to North. When the latter proceeded to six diamonds, South passed.

The play was routine, no matter what was led. Where West opened the king of clubs, the ace was played from dummy. Trumps were drawn in three rounds. Five rounds of hearts were cashed, discarding the eight and jack of clubs from the closed hand and one trick was conceded to the ace of spades.

At several tables, either South or North proceeded to six hearts to obtain the benefit of the higher score awarded to a major suit contract. The block that developed in the diamond suit proved fatal to this endeavor. Where East led the ace and another spade, declarer usually drew three rounds of trumps and then cashed the king and queen of diamonds. If the jack drops on either the first or second round, North can continue safely with the ten, and then overtake the eight with dummy's ace to play off South's long card and shed declarer's deuce of clubs.

When the jack does not drop early, however, South must win the third lead with the ace and now North's eight of diamonds blocks the suit and there is no way to reach dummy's seven for the necessary club discard. With either a club or spade lead, declarer cannot avoid losing one trick in each black suit and must go down to defeat.

Hill Will Run
Robert C. Hill will quit as U. S. ambassador to Spain soon to run for governor of New Hampshire next year, ending a long period of soul-searching and moving the veteran political operator into elective politics for the first time.

Hill was a member of the very first Nixon-for-President group and became a key pre-election foreign policy adviser. His political credentials, however, are far broader than parochial Republican politics. As Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Congressional affairs in the Eisenhower administration, he made important points with then majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson and other Democratic Senators.

In New Hampshire, Hill's prospects are clouded by the fact that Republican Gov. Walter Peterson wants to run

Meet On School Racial Clashes

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Members of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School Board scheduled a meeting this afternoon with community leaders, school principals and police to discuss racial disturbances.

The meeting was called by school board chairman William F. Poe to give a "fairly broad base" of the county's leaders a first-hand account of how disturbances are being handled and what other measures may be taken.

Three high schools reported new unrest Monday and a fight and several bomb threats occurred at a junior high. The high schools — Myers Park, South Mecklenburg and East Mecklenburg — had more serious trouble last week.

Meanwhile, police said they issued warrants against 26 pupils at Myers Park for committing various offenses Wednesday. Some of the youths are charged with riot, which has a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine.

The pupils were being contacted and told to come to police headquarters, where they would be released without bond if accompanied by their parents. No trial dates were set.

Spokesmen for the department said late Monday that not all of the Myers Park pupils had been notified of the warrants against them.

A group of about 50 to 75 whites, some of them former pupils, picketed near Myers Park Monday. They were protesting the way last week's disturbance was handled.

No violence was reported, in contrast to Wednesday, when a clash between blacks and whites resulted in injuries to 16 pupils and six policemen.

Officers patrolled the three high schools Monday.

Local Moose Hear Activities Reports

Reports on the clothing bank drive, the double-feature Halloween party program and an area officers' meeting in Wilson highlighted Monday night's Moose meeting.

Chairman John Simonowich said last Wednesday's clothing collection was most satisfying, and thanked Boy Scouts and lodge members who worked on the drive. He added that there was always room for more articles of clothing, and that members could still bring in items that were not immediately available at the time of the collection. Area residents having used, but still wearable clothing, may also contribute them. They may telephone the Moose office (PL6-4370) and arrangements will be made for a pickup.

The clothing will be cleaned and later distributed among the needy Pitt County families.

Co-chairman Tom Jameison termed the Halloween party for children one of the most successful. "There were more children here than I've ever seen before," he said.

Up In Arms Over Designation

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The United Daughters of the Confederacy is up in arms over a bill designating the Civil War prison camp at Andersonville, Ga., a national historic site.

The UDC says much of the notoriety attached to the prison camp is the result of federal propaganda and that the camp's new status will allow the perpetuation of the "official propaganda."

It has asked Georgia's congressional delegation either to seek the bill's repeal or stop funding of the historic site until Southern groups are allowed to put up their own markers.

There are more than 12,000 graves at the southwest Georgia camp. As many as 30,000 Yankee prisoners were crowded into 16 1/2 acres.

Grant Loophole May Be Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Charles R. Jonas, whose district includes Mecklenburg County, thinks he may have found a way to restore the $1.3 million grant the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school system lost by selling used classroom furniture to private, segregated academies. The grant would have been to assist in desegregating schools.

Jonas, a Republican, says the law containing the restriction of grants in such cases expired last June 30, and the program now is being funded under a continuing resolution. He claims this absolves the school board.

Foreign Trade Steps Working

By LAURANCE F. STUNTZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The economic steps taken by President Nixon to improve America's foreign trade are having their hoped-for effect.

American exports are higher and imports lower despite a general slowdown in international trade.

With Phase 1 of the economic policy coming to a close, here are its trade effects:

—The United States is selling more overseas than it is buying. However, with war and other expenses, it is still spending more than it earns.

—Foreigners are increasing their investment in America.

—Farmers are finding less competition from imported meat.

—Machinery builders are increasing sales at home as well as abroad.

These advantages have been gained at the expense of other countries. A "worrying slowdown" in international commerce is hurting European countries and Japan. Their export volume is down and their unemployment is growing.

This is not entirely due to the world recession, which has been incubating for months. But a lot of it, in the words of London banker Frederic Seeborn, is due "to a heavy reduction of international trade which is happening now and is very worrying."

The United States' apparent immunity to the worst of this is proven by last week's trade figures which showed it sold a quarter billion dollars more than it bought in September.

Some of the big gain in exports—$4.51 billion compared to $3.68 billion in August—was due to a hasty shipment of goods before the dock strike started.

However, in general the floating exchange rates and the 10 per cent extra duty on imports seems to be having the effect President Nixon expected when he put them in Aug. 15. The float reduced the cost of American goods sold overseas.

For instance, the United States is selling more machinery abroad. Industry Week, a Cleveland magazine, quotes one exporter as saying his prices now are 10 per cent below comparable European and Japanese products. "Early returns on exports are good news," the magazine commented.

Volkswagen is starting to buy front wheel bearings from American makers and in an effort to beat the surcharge Sony Corp. of Japan is starting an electronics factory in California.

American farmers are helped because the surcharge applies to some kinds of imported meats. About 380 million pounds of imported meat is subject to the higher duty. Since it costs more than it did before, American cattlemen have a better chance to fill this market.

State Department officials estimated that more than 1,000 attended the reception at the Century Plaza Hotel, his last scheduled event during his visit to Los Angeles.

The 79-year-old president, speaking in his native tongue, said his government is moving to unite all the constituent republics of Yugoslavia by allowing them more rights. On that note, he urged Yugoslav-Americans to remember that although their ancestors may have been Serbs, Croats or members of other factions, they should remember they are first Americans and then Yugoslavs.

His remarks were translated for reporters by a member of the official party.

Emotion ran high during the speech, with enthusiastic applause.

Earlier, Tito had greeted a delegation of movie stars at another large reception and had spoken to the World Affairs Council, a civic group.

During his speech to the civic group, Tito urged the United States to continue aid to underdeveloped countries.

Tito arrived in the United States Thursday. His schedule calls for him to be in Des Moines, Iowa, and Ottawa today.

Bethel Telephone Changes Set Nov. 7

BETHEL—Numerous changes related to telephone service in Bethel will become effective at 2:01 a.m. on Sunday, November 7.

These changes were outlined this week by Don Collier, Greenville commercial manager for Carolina Telephone, who, on that date, will also become manager for the Bethel area.

Collier said that after November 7, Bethel subscribers will be served by the Greenville business office, rather than by the Rocky Mount office as in the past. The Greenville office is located at 401 W. Fifth Street, and may be reached by telephone at 758-9111.

The company's collection agent in Bethel, J. W. Rook and Son, will remain the same. Other changes in Bethel telephone service are:

Direct Distance Dialing — To initiate a D.D.D. call in the future, Bethel customers will dial "11" instead of "120" as in the past.

Directory Assistance — Bethel telephone users will dial "1411."

Repair Service — Subscribers in Bethel will dial "1611."

Collier said that a telephone directory sticker explaining these changes is being sent to all Bethel customers.

Virginia Among New Pirate Opponents

East Carolina University Athletic Director, Clarence Stasavich announced future Pirate football schedules Monday. A joint announcement released with the 1972, 1973 and 1974 schedules made public the confirmation of the University of Virginia on the 1975 schedule. Stasavich also indicated that the University of South Carolina would be added in 1977.

Next year's slate is as follows: Sept. 9, at V.M.I. Sept. 16, Southern Illinois Sept. 30, Davidson Oct. 7, at Richmond Oct. 14, The Citadel Oct. 21, at N. C. State Oct. 28, at Furman Nov. 4, Chattanooga Nov. 11, at William and Mary Nov. 18, at Dayton Nov. 25, at North Carolina

The schedule for 1973 and 1974 are similar to that of 1972 with only the following changes: in 1973 Southern Miss will be added in place of Dayton; in 1974, Bowling Green will replace Southern Miss and Dayton will reappear in lieu of Chattanooga. Pirate coach Sonny Randle reacted with mixed emotions to the announcements.

"We look forward to playing the caliber teams which have been added to our schedule," Randle commented. "Surely, this is the direction we want our program to go. At the same time," he added, "people must realize that you cannot go to war with cap pistols. If we are to be competitive on the field with the ACC teams and others of their stature, we must be competitive in recruiting with them. We have approximately 50 less scholarships than the ACC schools and only a fraction of their recruiting budget. Let's face it, we've got to have at least an equal chance at the same blue-chippers they are trying to recruit. I think our recruiting deficit is the only factor which separates East Carolina from the Big Four or any other Atlantic Coast team. We must eliminate that deficit if we plan to play them and win."

Safety Jack Patterson

Patterson Gets Defensive Honor

For the second consecutive week and the fourth time this season two East Carolina gridders were honored by the Southern Conference for outstanding performances. Defensive back Jack Patterson was named Southern Conference Defensive Player of the Week and runningback Carlester Crumpler was selected as runner-up Offensive Player of the Week for their part in a 26-12 win over Furman. Patterson's pass interception late in the second quarter set the stage for the first Pirate touchdown which came only two plays later on a 72-yard bomb from John Casazza to Tim Dameron. In the third quarter, the senior free safety returned a missed field goal 45 yards to set up the second Buc score which broke a 7-7 deadlock.

Patterson added another punt return of 9 yards and was credited with six individual tackles and five assists. Carlester Crumpler, a 6-5, 215 supersoph unleashed his potential, rushing 21 times for 110 yards and two touchdowns. The Wilson, N. C. native ran the ball sparingly in the first half, but ground out 100 of his yards in the final stanza. He consistently came up with big yardage in crucial situations. The recognition was not the first of the season for either of the Pirates, as Patterson was defensive runner-up last week for his game against N. C. State, and Crumpler was offensive runner-up for his performance against The Citadel earlier in the year.

Less Injuries On Real Turf

WASHINGTON (AP) — Witnesses before the House subcommittee on commerce and finance have told Congress injury seems a high price to pay for artificial turf no matter what its advantages. Manufacturers of the synthetic playing surfaces were to appear with their responses today.

But on Monday, the subcommittee heard Dr. James G. Garrick of the Division of Sports Medicine at the University of Washington say "synthetic playing surfaces offer a myriad of advantages, ranging from more effective land usage to a dependably level field surface."

But, he added, higher injury rates "would seem a high price to pay" regardless of the advantages. A number of witnesses called for a halt in use of the artificial turf until studies were completed on its relationship to injuries, particularly in football.

Mistakes Keep Lions From Pushing Past Green Bay, Settle For Tie

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Detroit Lions, haunted for eight days by the emotional nightmare of teammate Chuck Hughes' death, emerged Monday night in professional football's emotional twilight zone—with a 14-14 tie with the Green Bay Packers.

It was the Lions' first start since Hughes, a reserve wide receiver, suffered a fatal heart attack in a game at Detroit Oct. 24.

If they needed any more incentive, it was the need to stay within range of Minnesota in the National Conference's Central Division.

But hopes of victory died at the hands of four crucial mistakes, and the gusty winds that swirled sheets of rain at Milwaukee County Stadium and took away the Lions' passing game.

It took a 49-yard touchdown pass from Greg Landry to Charlie Sanders with 17 seconds left in the first half for Detroit to salvage the tie with the Packers. The second half was scoreless.

The Lions fell to third place with a 4-2-1 record, trailing Minnesota at 6-1. Green Bay, which had lost three straight, is 2-4-1.

"I think we were trying very hard to do well because Chuck's wife, Sharon, had set such a strong example," Landry said.

"All you have to do is see the black arm bands we were wearing and you know Chuck is missing," Landry said. "He was always around, patting people on the back and cheering people up."

But while the armbands and an ambulance on the sidelines containing a cardiac treatment mobile unit were constant reminders of Hughes' death, Lions' Coach Joe Schmidt played down its effect on the outcome.

"We weren't in a state of shock or anything like that," said a bitterly disappointed Schmidt. "All it was was the fumbles and a bad snap from center on the field goal."

Fumbles ruined two scoring opportunities for Detroit.

A Steve Owens' bobble was recovered by Green Bay safety Al Randolph at the Packer 21 in the second quarter. Linebacker Fred Carr tore the ball from the grasp of Altie Taylor at the Packer 17 in the third period.

Then Errol Mann's 32-yard field goal attempt was blocked by Carr in the fourth quarter after a bad snap from center Ed Flanagan.

The Lions took a 7-0 lead after only 2:01 had elapsed in the nationally televised game when Packer rookie quarterback Scott Hunter raised his arm to pass and was hit by Larry Hand.

Bob Bell recovered the fumble and raced 25 yards for the touchdown.

The Packers tied it seven plays later on Dave Hampton's two-yard run, set up by a 41-yard run by John Brockington.

A one-yard sneak by Hunter gave Green Bay a 14-7 lead late in the second quarter after Owens' fumble was recovered by Dave Robinson.

Landry pulled the Lions into a 14-14 tie when he connected with Sandets in the waning seconds of the half.

Rain and mud led to six fumbles, five by Detroit. Both Mann and Green Bay's Lou Michaels missed two field goals apiece.

Schmidt pointed to Mann's second miss—the one Carr blocked—as "the one that iced the ball game."

Mann also missed from 39 yards away in the first quarter.

Michaels tried from 44 yards out in the fourth quarter but kicked the ball into the teeth of the driving rain. It fell far short.

Flanagan Is Winner

Dwight Flanagan of 1809 East Fifth St., Apartment 12, is the winner of this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Flanagan correctly picked the winners in 26 of the 32 games on the slate.

Second place went to Rudolf H. Scheller of Rt. 2, Box 187A, Greenville, who also had 26 correctly picked.

Flanagan took top honors through the point total guess. He had a guess of 77, while Scheller had a guess of 81. The high total was 71, in North Carolina's 36-35 victory over William & Mary.

Three other contestants also had 26 games picked correctly, but they were further off the point total.

This week's new contest appears on the following two pages.

No Changes In Top Seven

By HERSCHEL NISSESON
Associated Press Sports Writer
There was no change this week in the standings of the nation's top seven college football teams, but top-rated Nebraska opened up some breathing room on Oklahoma, Penn State closed in on fifth-place Auburn and Notre Dame returned to the Top Ten.

Nebraska defeated Colorado 31-7 Saturday and the defending national champion Cornhuskers received 34 first-place votes and 1,050 points from a nationwide 55-man panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Runner-up Oklahoma pulled down 17 first-place votes and 1,010 points following a 43-12 trouncing of Iowa State. Nebraska's lead a week ago was only 1,044-1,020.

Third-place Michigan received two of the remaining four top votes, with one each going to No. 5 Auburn and No. 6 Penn State. Michigan, which demolished Indiana 61-7, polled 840 points to 782 for fourth-ranked Alabama, a 41-10 winner over Mississippi State.

Last week, Auburn led Penn State by 637-557, but this time the margin is down to 617-595. Auburn trimmed Florida 40-7 while Penn State drubbed West Virginia 35-7. Georgia, No. 7, posted its third consecutive shutout, blanking South Carolina 24-0.

The top seven teams are all undefeated and untied.

Notre Dame, which skidded from sixth place to 12th a week ago after bowing to Southern California, whipped Navy 21-0 and made it back up to eighth.

Arkansas, last week's No. 8, was upset by Texas A&M 17-9 and dropped to 16th.

Ohio State held off Minnesota 14-12 and inched up from 10th to ninth, replacing Colorado, Nebraska's victim. Arizona State rounded out the Top Ten with a 44-28 whipping of Air Force.

The Second Ten consisted of Tennessee, Stanford, Colorado Toledo, Texas, Arkansas, Southern Cal, Louisiana State, Houston and Washington. Last week, it was LSU, Notre Dame, Arizona State, Texas, Toledo, Tennessee, Stanford, Air Force, Florida State and Southern Cal.

Casazza Has Provided Spark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It may be mere coincidence, but the football fortunes of East Carolina's Pirates appear to have been on the upswing ever since veteran John Casazza moved into the lineup at the quarterback spot.

Coach Sonny Randle started the season with sophomore Carl Summerell at quarterback and the Pirates promptly were bombed by Toledo and beaten by defending conference champion William and Mary.

Casazza came on the midst of a defeat at Bowling Green and threw a pair of scoring passes, and the Pirates have won three of five games since then to begin justifying their preseason ranking as the second best team in the conference.

As a junior last year, Casazza set virtually every passing record at East Carolina. He has yet to make the top five in the league this season, mainly because he hasn't seen as much action as in 1970, but his passing has been the weapon that's made the Pirates' ground game go.

Summerell doubtless has a career in front of him as bright as Randle and others predict, but it was Casazza again last Saturday night who threw bombs of 72 and 31 yards to Tim Dameron as the Pirates climbed to 2-2 in the conference with a 26-13 victory over Furman.

Randle said afterward Casazza "came through like the veteran performer we knew he was."

Both Casazza and Dameron were among the players cited Monday by Randle for their performance against Furman. The others were running back Carlester Crumpler, safety Jack Patterson and linebackers Monty Kiernan and Ralph Betesh.

The Pirates can take over third place alone in the conference with a victory at home Saturday over Davidson, which was idle last week. All drills this week will be light because of injuries, Randle said.

Despite a 28-0 victory last Saturday over Illinois State, coach Red Parker of The Citadel said the Bulldogs didn't play well. He said the team's effort would be reviewed for Saturday night's game at Richmond.

The Spiders were warned by scout Jerry Foshe that The Citadel is "an explosive team."

Scattered Elections Today Seen Warm-Up For '72

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Voters in Kentucky and Mississippi elected governors today, four states chose legislators and scores of cities selected mayors in a warmup to the political heat wave waiting around the turn of the calendar.

Such races as Kentucky's choice of a governor and New Jersey's taste in legislators were being watched as potential bellwethers of the electorate's mood on the eve of a presidential year.

But the best clue probably lay in key mayoral races from Philadelphia to San Francisco where issues have been developed akin to the national interests.

In Philadelphia, former Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo, the Democratic nominee, has paced a law-and-order campaign which made him the favorite in today's voting over Republican Thacher Longstreth, who has picked up moderate and reform Democratic dissenters.

But in Boston, Rep. Louise Day Hicks, who has campaigned for law and order and built a national reputation four years ago with an antibusing campaign, was an underdog to Mayor Kevin White. Both are Democrats.

In San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, under indictment in connection with an alleged fee-sharing arrangement, was fighting for a second term and his political survival.

Alioto was challenged by Board of Supervisors President Dianne Feinstein, who wants to make San Francisco the largest city in the country with a woman mayor; former San Francisco Chronicle executive editor Scott Mewhall; restaurant owner Harold Dobbs; stockbroker Fred Selinger and six others.

Carl B. Stokes, Cleveland's first black mayor, declined to run again, but he took a special interest in the bid of independent Arnold Pinkney, black president of the school board.

A Pinkney victory over Democratic nominee James Carney and Republican Ralph Perk Sr. would go far toward putting Stokes at the head of the nation's first urban-black-oriented political machine strong enough to govern a city.

Indiana Democrats hoped to pick up a score of new mayors' posts. Forty-eight cities in New York elected mayors today, although Yonkers and Rochester were the only big towns involved. Most cities and towns in Massachusetts elected mayors as did Sacramento, Calif., Columbus, Toledo, Youngstown and Akron, Ohio, and New Haven, Hartford and Bridgeport, Conn.

The lone congressional race was in Pittsburgh where ketchup heir H. John Heinz III, Republican, was favored over Democrat John E. Connelly to get the 18th District House seat vacated by the death last April of Republican Rep. Robert J. Corbett.

Democratic nominee Wendell

Ford billed his race for governor of Kentucky as the first step in overturning the national Nixon administration, and he forced Republican Thomas Emberton to defend Nixon. But the national parties have kept hands off the race and its real national implications are uncertain.

In Mississippi, Charles Evers was the state's first black candidate for governor, but was a longshot against Democratic nominee Bill Waller in the face of a 7-3 edge of white voters over black. Virginia was picking a lieutenant-governor.

The New Jersey Legislature also was being watched since its GOP swing in 1967 was one of the leading indicators of the national trends of 1968 and brought the Republicans to a governorship in 1969.

Mississippi, Kentucky and Virginia are filling their state legislatures. Louisiana picks a governor and a new legislature Saturday.

Numerous Items Taken Up By Williamston Bd.

WILLIAMSTON — Renewal of a cable TV franchise and a state request to have mercury seals in the sewage disposal plant replaced were two of the numerous items on the agenda of the Williamston Town Board at its November meeting held Monday.

Attorney Edgar Gurganus, representing the Peninsula Cable TV Corporation of Portsmouth, Virginia, presented a request for the extension of a franchise for an additional two years. The TV corporation, which has been paying the town $2,000 annually as a franchise fee, hopes soon to move ahead on installation of equipment.

Gurganus noted that problems with FCC have held up this action.

A letter from the State Water and Air Resources requests town officials to take action to replace mercury seals in the Williamston sewage disposal plant. The seals, when they become worn, create a danger in the possible disposal of mercury into Roanoke River. This request was assigned to the Williamston Water and Sewer Committee for its action.

Young people of the United Methodist Fellowship presented a petition asking to be permitted to conduct a clean up program that would include repair and painting, in bright colors, with decals, the trash cans in town. This request was placed in the hands of the Sanitation Committee, who have been asked to work with the youngsters.

Changes on water rates and services were approved by the board members. Effective Feb. 1, 1972, the current penalty fee for reconnecting water service that has been discontinued due to non-payment of bills goes from $1.00 to $3.00. For a second reconnecting service, the fee will be $5.00. Also, the present deposit fee of $10.00 for non-property owners will be upped to $15.00.

Tax collector King Leggett presented a list of delinquent taxes for the past 20 years. Most of the list involved people living out of town. The older listings are non-collectable due to statute of limitations. King was advised to make a further study of the list and to recommend action to be taken at the next town board meeting.

Action was taken on a number of zoning and rezoning items. A public hearing on a request by Mrs. Louie P. Martin to have a lot at Carolina and Woodside rezoned from Inoffensive Industrial to R-6 was approved. A public hearing was set for rezoning sections of Elm, Sycamore, Washington and Railroad Streets from the present Inoffensive Industrial to Downtown Commercial. A request to rezone a section of Horton Street down to White and Rhodes Streets from R-6 residential to neighborhood commercial was tabled for further study, and a request to rezone a lot on Fisher Street from R-15 residential was set for a public hearing.

The town attorney read an ordinance, which was approved by the board, condemning a metal building on Harrison Street. The ordinance permits the owners to immediately fix the building to meet the standards or else have it torn down.

David Moore made a request for repairs to Pine Street. Town Board members advised Moore that the request, along with other repairs needed throughout town due to rain damage to curb and gutter, would be completed at the earliest possible date.

James Walker, III, manager of Jefferson Mill, sent the board a letter of appreciation for the speed and efficiency maintenance people displayed in repairing a water main damaged in an accident.

The annual agreement with VEPCO officials was signed that permits town officials to utilize light poles for the installation of Christmas decorations for the coming Christmas season.

Winterville Board Names Spoksmen

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Board of Aldermen Monday night named Town Clerk Elwood Nobles and Alderman Bobby Crawford to represent the town of Winterville on the proposed regional waste treatment plant to serve Winterville, Ayden and Grifton.

In addition to serving the sewage disposal needs of the three towns, the system would be designed to handle anticipated industrial, commercial and residential growth in the area from Pitt Technical Institute to the Lenoir County Line.

Nobles said the town fully endorses the proposed project. Board members asked Mayor Dail to obtain an estimate cost for the paving of the Maizefield Subdivision. Curb and gutter has been completed in the subdivision.

Mayor Dail was given permission to advertise for bids for a rescue truck unit as soon as the town was notified by the state officials to do the same.

Alderman Calvin Henderson reported on the North Carolina League of Municipalities annual meeting held in Durham Oct. 10-12.

Board members agreed that the town garbage department would pick up leaves that have been put in bags or containers. Leaves that have been raked in large piles will not be picked up.

Board members also gave the town residents permission to burn their leaves.

The board discussed the condition of the dirt streets within the town limit. They agreed to put the full town force working on the streets, cleaning the ditches for better drainage control and putting sand and rocks on the worse streets. The work will begin as soon as the weather clears.

Board members purchased a $30 ad to be on the Ruritan Birthday calendar.

UN Backed By McGovern

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., said today the United Nations "made the proper choice" in voting to seat Communist China and oust Taiwan.

"I believe the outcome can be a substantive victory for the United States just as much as it was a victory for the supporters of the Albanian resolution," he told a news conference at the United Nations.

"First, it is in our interests for the People's Republic of China to assume its proper role in the United Nations. If this development produces nothing more than better understanding of the issues which divide us, it will begin at last to overcome two decades of myths on both sides...."

"Second, we should read into the vote not a rebuke to the United States and to our vital principles, but a healthy refusal by other nations, great and small, to be bullied or black-mailed by the so-called 'superpowers' into positions which they cannot support on grounds of substance...."

"Finally, I believe the removal of the bar to Peking's entry removes at the same time a major disability of the U.N. to discuss and affect many of the most critical international issues bearing on world peace. The absence of a government representing a quarter of the world's population has been a constant challenge to the legitimacy of the U.N. and its decisions...."

The Democratic presidential contender said responsible U.S. officials should avoid recriminations against the United Nations because of the vote and that "we must firmly reject in-temperate threats to cut back U.S. financial support for the U.N. and its voluntary aid agencies in retaliation for last Monday's decision."

Micronesia comprises about 2,000 islands in the Pacific.

Martin Bd. Met Monday

WILLIAMSTON — Martin County Commissioners had a short agenda for their November meeting held on Monday.

On a request made by Recreation Commission members Wilford Griffin and Willie Manson that consideration be given to purchase of additional land for Keehokee Park, Commissioners appointed Russell Griffin temporary chairman of a purchase study committee that also includes Clarence Griffin for the Lions Club, Dr. E. M. Hunt for Martin Technical Institute, L. T. Fountain for the Recreation Department and William J. Norris for the Planning Board.

A federal grant of $98,218 for Emergency School Funds was noted as being received and the county school budget amended to reflect these funds.

H. B. Glover was appointed by commissioners as supervisor for the removal of graves from right of ways in Martin County.

Three county residents, Mrs. Ann Moore, Mrs. J. L. Peakes and Mrs. Preston, appeared before the commission with requests for paving of dirt roads in the county. The roads for which action is being sought are Belltown Road, RR 1124 and RR 1128.

Open Break For Justice Dept., ABA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like two lovers whose romance has turned sour, the American Bar Association and the Justice Department are mad at each other and they don't care who knows it.

The fight is over "leaks," Washington's way of describing information that gets to the public early enough to embarrass someone.

The information that has the ABA and the department at odds is a list of six potential Supreme Court nominees and a negative assessment of the top two, Herschel H. Friday, a Little Rock lawyer, and Mildred L. Lillie, a California judge.

Twenty-four hours after the list was sent to the ABA for investigation the six names were in the newspapers and on radio and television. The ABA committee's sour reaction to Friday and Mrs. Lillie was in print within 12 hours.

Blaming these "premature" disclosures, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell broke with the ABA even as President Nixon was naming two who were not on the list, Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, for the court. This ended a 15-year partnership in which the ABA's committee on the federal judiciary looked into Supreme Court prospects for the department and the White House.

Late Monday, the 12-member committee made public a report that rekindled the feud. The department itself was the source of the "leaks," the ABA suggested.

Some of the six names to be investigated "had already been made public by the White House or other administration sources" even before they reached the committee, the report said.

Seeking Identity Of Gun Victim

ROWLAND, N.C. (AP) — Robeson County sheriff's deputies were trying to identify the body of a man found bound and hidden near U.S. 301 a mile north of Rowland late Monday afternoon.

Sheriff Malcolm McLeod said a hunter discovered the body about 100 yards from the highway in a rest area. He said the man had been shot.

McLeod said an autopsy was ordered to determine when the man died. He said indications were the shooting occurred somewhere else.

The man, whom McLeod said was about 70 years old, had his hands tied with a belt.

Missing Man's Body Is Found

MOORESVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The body of John Cox of Winston-Salem, who had been missing since Friday, was found Monday floating in Lake Norman. Coroner I. M. Henderson of Iredell County said Cox, a former Salisbury motel operator, had drowned.

It was believed that Cox had slipped while fishing and fallen into the lake.

The Worry Clinic They All Need Boost For Ego

Dr. Peale is one of our modern prophets who compare favorably with ancient Biblical Samuel and Elijah. But they all need to have their ego boosted. For Elijah was once so blue and discouraged that he asked God to let him die! Notice Ruth Peale's early diagnosis of her talented husband!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
Case S-508: Ruth Peale has written a fascinating new book that covers her 40-year marriage to talented Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

PORTANT" is thus the indelible tattoo that is branded on every chest at the moment of birth.

Therein she mentions that in their early marriage, Dr. Peale would ask her for criticisms of his morning sermon.

And is she made any, he seemed downcast and blue. So she learned that creative artists, such as orators, musicians, executives, writers et al., require a heavy dose of compliments from their wives.

"But, Dr. Crane," you may inquire, "sometimes a wife needs to correct her husband, for his own good."

"So how can she do so without deflating his ego or making him surly?"

The best psychological strategy for this delicate situation is to employ my psychological "Sandwich Method."

Therein you start with a sincere bit of praise, which is the "bread" layer of the sandwich.

Then, casually, and with a smile, slide into the meaty (critical) middle layer of this sandwich.

After which, you should then fade out with another big compliment.

Ruth Peale said that even when her distinguished husband asked for her criticisms, she quickly realized he didn't want anything negative.

But in business, as well as the classroom, and even in churches, it may be vital that glaring mistakes be pointed out.

Many people will ask for criticism often blandly saying "I always welcome criticism."

But that's a fib! It is contrary to human nature!

"I WANT TO FEEL IM-

And criticism, correction or reprimand obviously will NOT make us feel more important. But you can administer your criticism and still keep the recipient's ego up to par, by use of that sandwich method.

For your opening praise will inflate his pride.

Then your casual, smiling "meaty" layer will possibly lower his ego below its original starting point.

So fade out with another big dose of sincere praise, for then you will have restored his vanity to normal or even boosted it a few degrees.

Applied to Dr. Peale, here's a possible example that Mrs. Peale might have employed 40 years ago:

1st layer: "Norman, you are such an interesting speaker that I never see anybody dozing while you talk."

Meaty layer (with smile): "Do you know that when you reach a lofty emotional climax, you tend to mask your own feeling by speaking out of the left corner of your mouth in a harsher tone? So don't you think those who are a bit hard of hearing could follow your lips more easily if you spoke in your usual manner?"

Last layer: "For you have such wonderful talent of inspiring all those who come to hear you by your 'parable' method of sermonizing that they always leave the church, uplifted in soul."

Send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

CARPET TILE BOOM
NEW YORK (UPI)—Carpet tiles are tremendously popular. More than 70 million of the handy foam rubber-backed-tiles were sold last year. Most carpet tiles today are pre-past with an adhesive that lets you pick the tile up and over again. If the adhesive gets coated with dust and loses its grip, you can rejuvenate the tile with an aerosol spray adhesive sold in carpet stores.

Divorce Pending, Plans Marriage

DETROIT (AP) — Rep. Charles Diggs Jr. plans to get married in New York next weekend.

The Michigan Democrat has a problem, however. As far as the law's concerned, he still has a wife.

"I don't want to be mean to Charles," said Wayne County Circuit Court Judge George E. Bowles. "But until he reached a property settlement with his wife and I sign the final decree, he's still married in the eyes of the law."

Diggs' divorce action with his wife Anna is pending before Judge Bowles. The judge said he has informally agreed to the divorce, but will not sign the decree until the congressman pays a $5,000 property settlement.

Diggs' attorney said Sunday he hopes final details of the di-orce can be straightened out before the weekend. Diggs' wedding to Janet Elaine Hall of Washington is scheduled for Saturday afternoon at Riverside Church in New York with a reception following at the St. Moritz Hotel.
