

More Than Seasonal Causes Alone Unemployment Total Dips

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dropped by 0.2 per cent to 5.8 per cent of the work force last month for the second decline in a row, the government said today.

The total number of job-holders rose to a record 79.8 million and the number of job-seekers fell 270,000 to 4.6 million, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

The number of unemployed persons normally declines somewhat in October, but the BLS said last month's drop was 135,000 more than might be expected from seasonal causes alone.

The unemployment rate has hovered between 5.6 per cent and 6.2 per cent for the last 12 months.

It was 5.8 per cent in July, 6.1 per cent in August and 6.0 per cent in September. The October 1970 rate was 5.5 per cent.

The BLS attributed the September decline in total unemployment to a reduction in adult males who had lost their jobs earlier. The rate for adult men declined from 4.5 per cent in September to 4.3 per cent last month, and the rate for married men dropped from 3.3 per cent to 3.0 per cent—the lowest in a year, the BLS said.

The rate for adult women dropped 0.1 per cent to 5.5 per cent and the rate for teenagers edged down to 17.0 per cent.

The rate for blue-collar workers dropped dramatically from 8.0 per cent to 7.2 per cent, but for white-collar workers it edged up from 3.3 per cent to 3.4 per cent.

The rate for whites slipped down from 5.4 per cent to 5.3 per cent last month, but the rate for blacks and other non-whites edged up from 10.5 per cent to 10.7 per cent.

Greenville Tobacco Mart Completes 'Successful' Year

DISCUSSING THE 1971 SEASON . . . Harold Watson of Stokes, president of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, and J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor for the Greenville Tobacco

Market, discuss the 1971 selling season which ended at the close of sales yesterday.

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Tobacco Market ended its 1971 selling season yesterday and a "very successful year" was completed.

The Greenville market averaged $78.22 per hundred pounds for the season selling 46,203,489 pounds of tobacco for $36,142,603. This year's average is $5.19 higher than the $73.04 averaged on the market last year.

Last year the Greenville market sold 52,066,187 pounds of leaf for $38,606,741.

"The 1971 selling season included 37 sales days while 42 sales days were held during the 1970 selling season," J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor for the Greenville Tobacco Market, stated.

Bryan said the systematic scheduling of tobacco on the Greenville market has been a prime factor in making the 1971 season such a successful one.

"Farmers have been well pleased with the efforts made by the Greenville warehousemen in assigning them a specific time to market their tobacco," Bryan explained. "The result has been an almost complete elimination of the congestion problems of former years."

Bryan said the 1971 season has recorded the highest prices in its 81 years of selling.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone in the tobacco industry — companies, warehousemen and farmers — for helping to make the 1971 season one of the most successful in the history of the Greenville market," noted Bryan.

Bryan added, "I would also like to suggest to the tobacco farmers that they schedule their tobacco with the warehousemen of their choice in Greenville for the 1972 season as early as possible after receiving their marketing cards to make the operation next year as successful as the 1971 marketing year."

Annexation Plans Step-Up In Argued At Session Withdrawal

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The addition of 765.43 acres of land to the city of Greenville by annexation of nine separate plots contained in four basic areas was the subject of public hearings at the November meeting of the City Council Thursday night.

No objections were voiced on six of the areas — the 50 acre block known as the Blount property located between Greenville Boulevard and Evans Street across Greenville Boulevard from Pitt Plaza; a 33 acre area, bordered by Evans Street, Greenville Boulevard and Plaza Drive, called the C. W. S. J., Inc. Development; the Sunoco property of 5.4 acres at the northeast intersection of Greenville Boulevard and South Evans Street extended; a small area of less than one acre in the same area, known as the B and D Trailer Sales Lot; a 26 acre property directly behind Pitt Plaza Shopping Center, bordered on three sides by the city limits; and the Brown Farm, bordering Tar River north of First Street.

Interested persons were on hand to voice objections to annexation of three areas. Attorney M. E. Cavendish, speaking for Hugh Winslow, told the council Winslow strenuously objected to the inclusion of his 108 acre farm along Hooker Road into the city. The Winslow farm constitutes more than 25 percent of the 417 acre tract along Hooker Road and continuing south across Memorial Drive being considered for annexation. The 417 acre area also includes the WNCT television property.

"Mr. Winslow is, so to speak, being brought in by the heel, screaming, hollering and protesting," Cavendish remarked. "This action would nearly double his taxes, and there are no plans to develop the area." Cavendish noted that Winslow has taken action as of today to close the big parlor on the farm.

Kenneth Dews, owner of farm land south of Greenville Boulevard also voiced objections to annexation of land being currently used for farming purposes.

Objections to annexation of two areas lying south of Red Banks Road, one of 17 acres and the other comprising 10.2 acres, were voiced by Mrs. S. A. Tucker, Melvin Buck and Jack Taylor.

Further council action on annexation cannot be taken until at least seven days have lapsed following last night's public hearing. A decision must be made, however, not later than 60 days.

The council found itself in a dilemma concerning action on the public hearing of Willie Lee Brannon's request for placement of a mobile home at 504 Church Street for rental purposes.

"I know it's unusual," Mayor S. Eugene West said after discussion of the situation, "but let the chair make a motion. I move that we grant Brannon permission to locate both trailers subject to permits being taken care of and approved by the building inspector after they are properly located on the lot." (The second mobile home is Brannon's residence at 500 Church Street.)

"I also state we do not get in this position again through carelessness or otherwise," the mayor remarked, "so that we do not set a precedent for someone else to use to get trailers located in residential areas for rental purposes."

The awkward situation arose from the fact last night was the third successive appearance Brannon had made before the City Council with his request to place a trailer at 504 Church Street for rental purposes.

Councilmen John Taylor and Percy Cox both pointed out that somehow council members had not thought to point out to Brannon that permits are not granted for rental purposes in R-6 or other residential areas. The granting of one year permits applies only to use of trailers for personal use and not for rental purposes. "I don't feel we should have encouraged Brannon if we are not ready to break the rules," Taylor commented.

"We have an obligation since we let this go three months," Cox stated, "what bothers me is that this could grow into something much larger than we could handle."

Cox stressed that approval of the trailer for rental purposes for one year could not be taken by others as a signal to seek rental permits. "We know there are some who received original permits for personal use who have moved out since and are now renting," Cox commented.

Cox said last night's exception did not mean persons in this category could expect exceptions for rental purposes at permit renewal time. He also told Brannon that on the one year expiration of the permit granted last night it would be doubtful if the exception made last night would be renewed.

Councilman Dr. Frank Fuller and councilwoman Mrs. Mildred McGrath voted against making the exception to the permit.

The public hearing on a request for permit to place a mobile home for personal, non-rental purpose, made by Richard Grimes, was approved. The mobile home is to be at 605 Howell Street.

A request for placement of a mobile home on an emergency basis, made by Mrs. Alphonso Lassiter of 310 Hooker Road, was approved.

No objection was voiced on the petition for withdrawal of a portion of Eleventh Street in the vicinity of Greenville Tobacco Company. The request was a technical requirement to reconfirm a similar action taken 20 years ago. The portion of the street in question has never been used as a public street and was withdrawn earlier in 1952.

The public hearing to rezone Greenfield Terrace Subdivision to R-9 residential from the present R-6 and Unoffensive Industry zonings was approved. City Engineer C. A. Holliday informed the council the subdivision met all the R-9 requirements in lot size and met other requirements also.

The council approved placement of the sidewalk proposed for East Fifth Street in the vicinity of Wahl-Coates Elementary School on the north side of the street instead of the south side as originally proposed.

Street Decorations Going Up Early, But Action A Necessity

Christmas is still set for Dec. 25, no earlier.

Although the Greenville Utilities Commission is putting up Christmas lights some two weeks ahead of the normal holiday schedule this year, GUCO director Charles Horne notes that there is a reason.

Horne pointed out that the lights are being installed earlier this year in order to utilize a work crew that normally is involved in underground maintenance and installations but is inactive due to wet grounds.

The director said that the Chamber Merchants Association had asked GUCO to put up lights around the middle of November but the availability of the crew necessitated the early installations. Horne noted that the lights would not be turned on, however, until the association gives the word.

A new style light is being utilized this year, Horne added, and the changes should be more practical. He said the first-year experience with the new lights is another reason for getting an early start.

Horne reported that he had received several calls already questioning the early installations but he wanted to emphasize the necessity of the action and note that there has not been a change in policy.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The embattled Pay Board is described as "down to the nuts and bolts" stage of negotiating a Phase 2 wage increase formula, with hopes of agreement by Monday.

But the board found itself in a cross-fire of angry charges between President Nixon and Congress Thursday, and the Phase 2 program wound up deep in politics.

President George Meany of the AFL-CIO voiced hope of a settlement by Monday after the House Banking Committee dealt itself a hand in the tense, three-way bargaining session of the 15-man labor-public-man-agement Pay Board. The negotiations were to resume today.

The House committee voted amendments to Nixon's Phase 2 control bill which would give unions substantially what Meany demands—the full pay increases negotiated before the wage-price freeze, except for "grossly disproportionate" boosts, plus retroactive payment of increases that were blocked during the freeze.

In quick reaction, Nixon read a statement to reporters at the White House:

"The committee's action is clearly inconsistent with the purposes of the economic stabilization program," he said. "It would provide for a piecemeal approach to the development of the programs . . .

"The amendments would provide for special treatment to one segment of the American economy."

Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., retorted that Nixon had decided to turn a bipartisan program "into a political attack on the Democrats . . . The President's party apparently has mapped a campaign to use the wage-price program for partisan purposes."

The Pay Board's deliberations were disrupted by the committee votes. The five management and five public members asked and obtained two 90-minute recesses of the session. They reconvened, but darkness had long settled before the delayed session ended.

Faculty And Staff Of ECU Surpass Goal In Pitt UF Campaign

East Carolina University faculty and staff members have surpassed the goal set for their part of the United Fund of Pitt County, Drive chairman Ed N. Warren said today.

$12,104.24 has been collected by Karl Faser, ECU chairman. Faser commented, "Naturally, I am pleased to have chaired the East Carolina University Division of the United Fund Campaign to a successful conclusion. In a voluntary effort of this nature, the interest and awareness of all of the people at our University of the values of the United Fund to the community is what makes for success: a genuine desire to help others who are less fortunate. The significant factor in exceeding the goal this year was the enthusiastic support ren-

Protest Leader Found Guilty On Three Counts

FARMVILLE — George Kirby of Wilmington, was convicted in District Court here yesterday of disturbing a school, disorderly conduct, and trespassing. The charges stemmed from Kirby's participation in black protests here.

Judge Robert D. Wheeler handed Kirby six-month jail terms in each of the cases, then set bond at $800 when notice of appeal in the cases were given.

Kirby has acted as an organizer, with Southern Christian Leadership Conference field secretary Golden Frinks, in staging protest here and in other areas of the county over the August 6 shooting of a black man by a Highway Patrolman.

Charges of trespassing and disorderly conduct were filed against Kirby following an October 2 incident at the St. James Baptist Church.

Church officers testified that Kirby was asked to leave the building when they found he was holding an unauthorized meeting there.

The charges of disrupting a school came following a September 29 incident at Farmville Central High School.

Witnesses told the court that Kirby drove a rental truck to the school and discharged six people who then went onto the school grounds.

Hearing of 54 charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors against Kirby, Frinks and Willie Fleming was postponed for two weeks. These charges stemmed from a nighttime march here which resulted in 69 persons being jailed.

Ten defendants who were charged with marching without a permit in the October 4 night protest had their cases transferred to Pitt County Superior Court.

Bright Notes In N.C. Economy

A bright spot in the economic news is the report by Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. economists that North Carolina's economy moved upward in September.

"Prospects appear much better for a faster economic recovery than North Carolinians have been anticipating in recent months," it was reported.

The North Carolina index rose from 114.6 in August to a preliminary figure of 115.3 in Sep-

They'll Review The Hot Spot

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH — The crossing point for politics and the public schools is the local school board.

That "X" marks the hot spot for the 970 men and women who serve on North Carolina's 152 county and city school boards. They must deal with the frustration of charting policy for schools under the pressure of social change, grappling with financial problems not of

The role of the association is to provide the meeting ground for school boards in pursuit of objectives. Founded in 1937 by the late Dr. Guy B. Phillips, father of Supt. of Public Instruction Craig Phillips, it functioned largely for exchange of information and advice until Dr. Dingman became its first full-time executive.

Legislative Effort Launched
Through his efforts, it established a lobbying beachhead during this year's General Assembly. He spoke directly to legislators on matters affecting school boards.

A keen disappointment out of the session was the defeat of a $200 million bond issue proposal for school construction. It passed the House overwhelmingly, and died by one vote in the Senate Appropriations Committee.

A resolution to take the matter back to the '73 session will come out of next week's convention.

Present and projected building needs, taking into account expansion of public kindergarten program, total $770 million worth of construction, Dr. Dingman said. Based on past experience, he added, each dollar of state aid will generate three dollars in local and federal funds. Thus, the $200 million bond issue could bridge the gap.

Teacher Tenure Enacted
Perhaps the most far-reaching piece of education legislation out of the session was the teacher tenure law, Dr. Dingman said.

It is imperative, he added, that local boards and administrators become familiar with its provisions before it goes into effect next July 1. The law will get detailed discussion and attention at the convention.

Basically, it sets up the category of career teacher for one with three years' continuous employment. A career teacher dismissed for causes other than 12 spelled out in the law has recourse to an appeal procedure, ultimately a hearing before the board and access to the courts.

"It is a very complicated law," said Dr. Dingman. "It can create real problems if it is not fully understood."

The association opposed the law. Although 32 other states have some kind of teacher tenure, Dr. Dingman said, the present trend is away from it.

"Those who oppose teacher tenure say it perpetuates mediocrity; those who favor it say it permits the teacher to perform without fear of arbitrary dismissal," he said. "There are two sides to the question."

tember. This was 2.6 above a year ago.

There was an increase in non-agricultural employment and unemployment dropped during September.

There were other bright notes in the report:
—Manufacturing employment in durable goods was up 1.5 percent while employment in non-durable goods was up slightly.

—Chemical goods employment was at its highest level since January.

—Furniture employment was highest since January, 1970.

—Lumber employment increases were seen.

—Services and government sectors showed increases.

Spending by individuals and businesses were slightly down but remained strong.

In the important retail sales category there was a good report with sales running ten percent ahead of last year. "It appears that 1972 will be a record year for Tar Heel retail sales with gains even exceeding those of 1971," the report said.

Building permits were up by 20 percent in 16 major cities and new car sales were up 27 percent.

All in all it was a good report on North Carolina's economic health and it comes after some so-so months in the state.

Growth makes jobs and our state needs the new jobs being created to take care of returning veterans, youth moving into the labor market and individuals being forced off the farms by mechanization.

High School Voter Is Generally Overlooked

It is not always recognized that many high schools students now have a vote as the result of the lowering of the voting age to 18.

Dr. James Bearden, dean of the ECU School of Business, offered a reminder of that fact in a recent talk.

He estimated that 152,000 high school pupils could become eligible to vote next year. They even outnumber the eligible college student vote in the state.

Thus many high school students will get a practical lesson in civic affairs as they decide how they will vote next year.

Daley System Baffles Foes

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CHICAGO — Mayor Richard J. Daley is poised to demonstrate again the flexibility that has so contributed to the survival of his regular Democratic organization by endorsing an outsider for governor, thereby avoiding a bloody confrontation which Daley's enemies have eagerly awaited.

Although a last-minute change in plans is conceivable, the regular party slate to be selected by Daley and his lieutenants in early November will likely list Lt. Gov. Paul Simon, a highly respected downstate weekly editor with a long record as a reformer, for governor.

That is the worst news for Daley's enemies. For fully a year, they had been hoping that Daley would succumb to temptation and pick a party stalwart to trigger a bitter, confusing Democratic primary fight next March. The beneficiaries of the Armageddon would be Republican Gov. Richard Ogilvie, fighting an uphill struggle for reelection, and the anti-Daley Democratic reformers.

But the avoidance of self-damaging confrontations is a major reason why the Daley machine prospers while other big city organizations are in disarray. Daley tries to coopt local reform politicians into the organization. When Adlai Stevenson III considered leading an anti-Daley reform movement, Daley (against the wishes of many organization lieutenants) awarded him the Senate nomination to shunt him off to Washington. Daley preempted the reformers by pushing for direct election of 1972 national convention delegates in accord with McGovern Commission guidelines (while quietly insuring that Presidential hopefuls would not challenge his uncommitted delegates.)

The imminent endorsement of Simon for governor is particularly instructive of the Daley system. When we reported from here last May, stalwarts of the Daley organization viewed Simon as a suspect outsider and talked instead about Thomas Foran, famed as the hard-boiled prosecutor of the Chicago Seven, for governor.

Over five months, however, the attitude in the organization has been transformed. The same Daley stalwarts now say Simon is the strongest possible choice for governor with far more popular support than Foran.

Strength For Today

THE NATURE OF LAW

How far can law go in the settlement of domestic, national and international problems? A small percentage of our people have to be dealt with according to law — and sometimes severe law. We cannot, however, legislate the kingdom of heaven into existence or settle basic problems by passing a few laws. The statement that there ought to be a law is good so far as it goes, but it does not go very far — certainly not the whole distance. Law has its place in life but so do other factors. Communism settles everything with a heavy hand and with a lot of promises made and broken. Law is a factor in life, and a very important factor — but it is not the whole of life.

Many of us have learned a lot about constitutional rights as we have watched television and heard an arresting officer say: "You don't have to answer these questions. If you do speak, what you say may be used against you. You have a right to have a lawyer." The Constitution of the United States would never have been able to operate had it not been for the appending later on of what has come to be called The Bill of Rights. Parades of protest are common today. Such protest has its place in life, but if it stirs up lawlessness the protestors have to be given a taste of what law means.

Let us stop laughing at one another's throats and begin living in a neighborly fashion. It can be done. It is being done all the time by millions of people in our free and beloved country. But there is more yet to be done. Added taxes, more policemen, motorcycle cops giving us a ticket — we don't like it but it is part of the process of governing ourselves.

Doubletalking, If You—

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) —

You're a doubletalker if you say one thing while you're thinking another.

Everyone doubletalks except very young children who haven't yet learned that telling the truth isn't always either politic or wise. Your skill at doubletalking usually is a measure of your social grace.

For the beginner who needs practice, here are a few typical examples of doubletalk. What the person said is in quotes, followed in each case by what he actually thought.

"How can you be so bright and fresh so early in the morning, Alice?"—She looks like she was in a car accident last night.

"Cooks may come and cooks may go, but no one can bake biscuits like you do, Mabel."—What did you cook these with—a blowtorch?

"When it comes to Martinis, I can take them or leave them alone."—Pour, brother, pour. Let's don't waste time talking.

"What can money really do for you in the last analysis?"

Who needs a million dollars to be happy?"—Me.

"Well," the old saying goes, 'Beauty is only skin deep.'"—So, isn't it a shame you have such a thin skin, darling?

"Will all you passengers kindly move to the rear of the bus, please?"—And then jump out the window.

"And if I'm not telling you the literal and exact truth, may heaven strike me dead!"—Don't do it, Lord. I've got my fingers crossed.

"I can't think of a way to repay you for all the things you've done for me."—So I won't even try.

"It's pure nonsense for us to go on with this silly feuding. Why don't we let bygones be bygones and bury the hatchet?"—In your back would be a nice place.

"Baby, I could really go for you. You've got a million-dollar body."—And a 10-cent mind.

"I haven't seen you in ages. Where in the world have you been hiding?"—Wherever it

Egypt Plans Peace

By C. C. MINICLIER
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO (AP) — Although President Anwar Sadat has repeatedly declared that 1971 will be a year of decision—peace or war in the Middle East—his nonmilitary planners are banking on peace.

Peace is vital to Egypt's internal development, foreign investment, oil production and tourism, while war is a heavy drain on a country which already devotes one quarter of its budget to defense.

All four nonmilitary areas have received substantial encouragement in recent months in the form of higher wages, bonuses for workers, a liberalized investment law, increasing oil production and expansive plans for tourism. This week the government announced it is reviewing a $2.3 billion plan to revitalize agriculture, pushing back the encroaching desert from previously reclaimed lands.

Sadat's 10-year plan, being unveiled in stages, envisages doubling the national income. He rejected a wage freeze last summer, reportedly saying it was "necessary to strike a balance between the needs of the coming battle and the essential necessities of man." Wage increases followed.

Egypt proved several years ago it could get along without U.S. foreign aid, and is now embarked on a wide-scale effort to attract others to invest in Egypt's future.

In 1966 Egypt and the United States signed an agreement providing Egypt with $55 million worth of foodstuffs, including 750,000 tons of wheat and 20,000 tons of vegetable oil. But when Egypt broke relations with Washington in June 1967, the food and millions of dollars in

Christ A Leader In Novelties

But use of the Micky Mouse name or character must be arranged with Walt Disney Productions. Mickey has long been a lucrative property of the company. Licensing has probably yielded more profit than almost any other venture, including "Snow White."

The Micky Mouse revival is partly due to the excitement of the new Walt Disney World in Florida, where the mouse is the most prominent character. A new Mickey Mouse watch will be the official timepiece there and at Disneyland in California.

The current wave of nostalgia has helped, as has the fact that original Mickey Mouse watches, once $1.98 items, are worth hundreds of dollars to collectors.

There are new Mickey Mouse watches, toys, games, novelties. And the expected continuing success of the Disney venture in Florida should serve to keep the interest alive.

Other characters will be exploited, too. For example, Elgin is bringing out a new watch featuring Goofy, Mickey's flop-eared canine friend. Naturally, the watch runs backward, like the clock in the bar in the old Overseas Press Club in New York.

What has happened is a typical adjustment to reality by the Daley organization. Prominent organization figures had been implicated in a race track stock scandal, and this was no time to risk confrontation. Simon's unimpeachably clean record and non-politician image would be an immense advantage amid public hostility toward professional politicians.

Moreover, the organization now takes slightly more seriously the campaign for governor by Daniel Walker, who resigned as general counsel of Montgomery Ward to crusade against the Daley machine. Although no serious politician gives Walker any chance to actually win in the March primary, his well-publicized walk across the state might make the outcome relatively close if his opponent were an organization product.

Finally, Simon himself subtly pressured the organization. While not openly challenging Daley's endorsing process, Simon told friends that if he were not endorsed he would enter the primary against the organization candidate and Walker. Would he really run? The regulars could not be certain.

With Simon as the designated organization candidate, Walker's anti-Daley crusade loses its thrust. The state's prominent independent Democratic politicians will line up for Simon on grounds that, even if he is not quite the independent Simon of years past, he will be much freer of dictation from Chicago's city hall than the last elected Democratic governor, Otto Kerner.

Thus, Daley hopes to get the best of both worlds in the Simon endorsement. Although no Kerner, Simon clearly would not enter the governor's office hostile to the mayor. Besides, a Daley lieutenant, Cook County (Chicago) board member John Touny, is likely to be Simon's running-mate as lieutenant-governor.

Most important, however, for the organization is what the embrace between Simon and the Daley organization does to reform efforts to oust Daley's machine hacks from the state legislature. Simon has little choice but to give his blessing to even the most unsavory candidates on the organization slate in the primary. Indeed, Simon enhances the entire Democratic ticket in the general election, including the politically vital post of state's attorney for Cook County.

Confusing political battle lines has been a masterful Daley tactic. Whereas regulars in New York, Cleveland and elsewhere have impaled themselves by charging the reformers head-on, Daley confounds them by coopting reform leaders. The Chicago Democratic organization may be an anachronism that will not long survive a Dick Daley's eventual departure. But it cannot be interred as long as it rebuffs its own products and selects a Paul Simon for governor.

DEAR ABBY: What does a person do when she comes face to face for the first time with a friend (or acquaintance) who has had cosmetic surgery—like a nose job or a face-lift?

I recently ran into a woman who had just had a face-lift, and with absolute sincerity, I said, "Your recent surgery has improved your appearance 100 per cent!"

She gave me an icy stare and walked away without even saying thank you. I felt like 2 cents.

Another time, I pretended I didn't notice that a friend's daughter had recently had a nose job. It was obvious, but I said nothing.

Finally, she said, "Don't you notice anything different about me?" I felt foolish. Of course, I'd noticed, but after having learned my lesson with the face-lift lady, I didn't want to mention it.

So please tell me, Dear Abby, what is a person supposed to do?

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: Since vanity prompts most people to have cosmetic surgery, to ignore it is unkind. But to rave too enthusiastically over the "improvement" may give the impression that her (or his) former appearance was dreadful, which is worse.

If the change is conspicuously for the best, say, "My, you look great!" They'll get the message without having to decode it.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old, and am in love with an 18-year-old boy. We've been going steady for seven months and were planning on getting married in about a year from now.

We have gone all the way to express our love several times. My mother found out about it and carried on something awful, and now she is making us get married as soon as my boy friend gets his next paycheck.

Abby, we don't have any furniture, and we don't even have a place to live. My mother won't let me see my boy friend, and says I am to stay strictly in the house until I am married.

I love my mother and don't want to hurt her, but she is hurting me more by making me get married with nothing except the love I have for my boy friend.

Do you think she is right in forcing us to marry right now with nothing?

LOUISIANA GIRL

DEAR GIRL: To force two ill-prepared young people into marriage in order to punish them, is, I think, very shortsighted. Worse yet, your 18-year-old boy friend is bound to feel trapped and resentful, and an unwilling bridegroom makes a very poor husband.

DEAR ABBY: I have had the same hairdresser for years. She does nice work and I had always looked forward to my weekly appointment.

Unfortunately, someone gave her a small portable television for a gift. She then started bringing it to work so she could watch a program on her lunch time. Fine. Soon she started to watch the program which followed it. Then the next. And the next. Until now she's got it on all afternoon.

I am not only speaking for myself because other customers have told me that since she's had the TV set in her booth her work is slipping. Also, she is very unpleasant and cranky. If someone speaks to her, she goes, "Shhhhh, I want to hear this."

She is a faithful reader of your column. How can I let her know I miss her formerly friendly chit chat?

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: After this hits print, you may not have to. [P.S. She must own her own shop. I can't imagine the boss putting up with this.]

Tito Gives Big Party In Ottawa

OTTAWA (AP) — President Tito of Yugoslavia climaxed his last night in Ottawa by throwing a large party at which government dignitaries had to share the spotlight with three Canadian sports celebrities.

The guests from the sports world, each of Yugoslav extraction, talked briefly with Tito at the Thursday night reception. They were Frank and Peter Mahovlich of the Montreal Canadiens hockey team and George Chuvalo of Toronto, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion.

Approximately 1,000 persons attended the reception, including Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Governor-General and Mrs. Roland Michener, hosts to President Tito and his wife for their three-day state visit which ends today.

Heavy Drinks Vote Turnout In Charlotte-Mecklenburg Seen

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Residents of Mecklenburg County (Charlotte) and Moore County (Pinehurst and Southern Pines) voted today on whether mixed drinks may legally be sold for the first time in 62 years.

Heavy voting was predicted as citizens decided whether liquor may be sold by the drink as well as in state-owned package stores.

The legislature, in passing the enabling legislation for urban Mecklenburg County, the state's most populous with 354,000 residents, and the golfing resort area of Moore County with 39,000 residents, indicated the referendums would be pilot projects. The results would be evaluated with all North Carolina's 100 counties in mind.

Election officials predicted a turnout of 60,000 to 70,000 voters in Mecklenburg. This would be the heaviest ever for a non-candidate election, and represents about half the registered voters.

In Moore County, officials said as many as 10,000 of the 16,000 registered voters likely would cast ballots.

Mixed drinks have been illegal since a state law became effective in January of 1909 following a prohibition referendum. State package stores, outlawed in the same election, were re-established in 1937 on a local option basis, and 85 counties now have them.

Court action clouds the issue in Mecklenburg. A Superior Court judge has ruled that mixed drinks, if passed, may be served only in government-owned facilities such as the Charlotte Coliseum, and not in private restaurants and hotels, since historically the control of liquor has been a governmental function in North Carolina. The ruling has been appealed to the state Supreme Court but a decision is not expected until at least next month.

State legislators from Mecklenburg County have obtained passage of a bill nullifying the referendum if Superior Court Judge W. K. McLean's ruling is upheld.

A companion issue on the Mecklenburg ballots, but not in Moore County's, is whether brown-bagging should be retained.

If liquor-by-the-drink passes, bartenders in Moore County would be allowed to pour directly from regular bottles. Those in Mecklenburg could be allowed to use only 1.6-ounce miniatures, opened at the customer's table.

Citizen groups in both counties campaigned vigorously for and against mixed drinks.

Raymond E. King, chairman of the pro-mixed drinks Mecklenburg Citizens for Progress, said:

"Consumption of alcoholic beverages is a fact of life, one which will not change. There-

Allen A. Bailey, chairman of Residents for Meaningful Alcohol Control, spoke for Mecklenburg residents against mixed drinks. He said:

"To many, it is a moral and spiritual matter. By taking liquor out of the exclusive control of the state and placing it in the hands of the businessman for resale, we are creating an atmosphere, condition and the right climate for organized crime to move into our city."

Mecklenburg County kept its package stores open during the voting, taking advantage of a new state law requiring liquor stores to close only for general or statewide elections. But Moore County closed its liquor stores for the referendum.

British Missionaries Seek New Role; Traditional Concept Dies

By BRIAN JEFFRIES
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — British missionaries are in a quandary. Like Britain, they have lost an empire and are still searching for a new role.

The idea of the Christian striding through Africa or India, Bible in one hand and a medicine chest in the other, to bring the one true religion to a pagan people is a thing of the past.

The concept "was finally snuffed out by the winds of change that raged through the colonial world after World War II, ushering in independence for a multitude of nations.

For Anglicans and Roman Catholics this has resulted in a reappraisal of aims and outlook. New guidelines are still being formulated. Gone is the arrogance and certainty. In its place is emerging a new and refreshing humility.

"We are not uncertain about our own religion, but we are uncertain about our judgment of other religions," said the Rev. Hans Burman, vicar general of the Roman Catholic Mill Hill Society, which has 1,000 members scattered around the world engaged in missionary work.

"We are still searching around. We are asking ourselves whether all the accent

New Pastor Will Speak

On Sunday, John Reece will preach his first sermon as pastor of the Red Oak Christian Church, located at the western juncture of Highway 264 business and 264 By-pass.

Reece has a varied background which includes active participation in four Protestant denominations: Baptist; Methodist; Presbyterian; and Disciples of Christ. He has served as pastor of the Vanceboro Methodist Church, the Pollockville Presbyterian Church and the Mill Creek Christian Church.

His formal education includes the following degrees: B.A., Emory and Henry College; M.A., Presbyterian School of Christian Education; M. Div., Union Theological Seminary in Virginia; and two years of study at the Divinity School, Duke University.

Reece and his wife, Ruth, are the parents of two girls: Debbie, age 15, and Diana, age eight. The Receses are relatives of Rev. and Mrs. M. D. McPherson, who reside at 204 Brinkley Rd., Greenville.

JOHN REECE

on dogma, ritualistic observances and church membership is really necessary. Is that what Christ wanted? There is a lot of evidence that he didn't.

"Today we say, right, if someone finds his inspiration to do good is another religion—OK—so long as he does it well.

"Our hope is that if only we go on doing what we should the right convictions will come floating to the top," said Father Burman, who recently was elected to his post following a conference at which members of the society attempted to redefine their aims.

The ultimate aim of missionaries is still to bring "others to Christ." But the idea of the dramatic conversion and using the number of new converts as a yardstick of success has been jettisoned by many churches.

Now it is more a matter of illustrating through example to others that "if people are Christian in the real sense of the word it is easier for them to find a way out of the troubles which confront them," said Father Burman.

Similar changes have occurred for U.S. missionaries.

But for Britain, perhaps more than any other nation, missionaries were tied up with the concept of empire and the paternalism that went with it. The difficulties of adjusting to a changed situations have consequently been that much more difficult.

The British Church Missionary Society, a voluntary

Anglican organization with 600 missionaries in 23 countries, recently commissioned two agnostics to prepare a report on its work.

A spokesman for the CMS said they now put the accent on service and being attuned to the needs of the society they were working in.

Dr. Brooks Will Speak

Dr. Frederick P. Brooks Jr., professor and chairman of the Department of Computer Science at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, will be the guest speaker at the fifth anniversary services to be held at the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church Sunday at 11 a.m.

Dr. Brooks is a native of Greenville, the son of the late Dr. F. Philip Brooks Sr. and Mrs. Octavia Brooks of Durham. He received his A. Friday Notes A New Approach

DURHAM (AP) — William C. Friday, president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, says in its approach to education the state is moving from the "coordination principle" to a "system of governors." This was an allusion to the single board of governors for all 16 state-supported universities agreed to in the recent restructuring of higher education.

Friday spoke to the 46th annual meeting of the North Carolina and South Carolina Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers Thursday.

He said putting the new governing system into effect "will require a substantial amount of patience."

Durham Campus Hears Jackson

DURHAM (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson, director of Operation Breadbasket for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, spoke at North Carolina Central University's Founder's Day exercises today.

Operation Breadbasket seeks to have Negroes patronize establishments which provide jobs for blacks. Headquarters are in Chicago. Jackson was born in Greenville, S. C., 31 years ago and is a graduate of North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro.

DREAMS ARE THE DAWN OF TOMORROW

And like the first light of a new day they seem distant, unreal. Yet out of our dreams we often fashion tomorrow.

The dreams of the daylight hours are not in the subconscious. Rather they project our hopes on a screen of reality. They grow into goals and aims and ambitions.

Whether tomorrow will fulfill those dreams depends on certain values which must be acquired today. Ideals, standards, moral principles, religious faith—these inspire dreams worth dreaming, and help us to translate them to reality.

Never worry about your daughter's daydreaming. Be concerned about her opportunities for spiritual development. The Church shares that concern. It can help you do something constructive about it.

Mittie Thompson Slade Starting Her 2nd Century

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
WILLIAMSTON — At the end of a full century of living, Mrs. Mittie Thompson Slade repeatedly harks back to the joy of having known lots of people, black and white.

"I love people," she said several times in recalling by-gone friends and acquaintances and younger friends still living.

"All mama's friends and relatives from long ago are all gone now," Mrs. Louella Slade Purvis observed. "She has always loved people more than anything and wants someone around her all the time."

Mrs. Purvis is one of four daughters living with their centenarian mother in a comfortable, well-furnished two story house on North Elm Street in Williamston.

"Everybody's been good to me," Mrs. Slade's eyes registered delight about all the attention she received on her 100th birthday on October 22. It is the warm, expressive eyes that speak so eloquently of ten decades of caring about people. Still strong in body and spirit, Mrs. Slade's memory also remains remarkable clear. Her voice is low and quiet, and soft laughter comes easily.

If a question requires a lengthy answer, she points to one of her daughters. "She can tell you." But she listens with obvious interest to whatever it is a daughter is telling and is alert to add a note herself if she feels it is called for.

This reporter, who grew up in the same neighborhood that has been home to Mrs. Slade for 100 years, mentioned several older citizens, remembered from childhood, now all dead. Most of those mentioned turned out to be people she had known. It was with expressions of pleasure she repeated the names, adding a word or two about where they had lived, who they had worked for, or point out a connection with her family.

"I remember," she smiled, "it's been a long, long time."

The fact she grew up in the atmosphere of widespread bitterness surrounding the post-Civil War years; that she has lived a century that has witnessed the Spanish-American War, World War I, World War II and the involvements of recent years; and that her life-span has encompassed a dramatic era of change from mule and cart days through landing on the moon does not seem to concern this noble woman whose concern has remained focused on people — the individual, white or black, touching her daily life.

"Mama's memory is best when it comes to people. It's easier for her to remember people than things that took place," Mrs. Narcissus Slade Coffield, another daughter, observed.

Mrs. Slade motioned to her daughters. "Show the man the cards." The cards are many — a birthday card from President and Mrs. Richard Nixon, signed personally by the President; a poetic congratulatory letter from Governor Robert Scott, a letter from Williamston's Mayor N. C. Green; and cards, letters and notes from family members, friends, relatives and well-wishers.

"There were telephone calls too," she added. Mrs. Purvis said the phone was busy on Friday, October 22, with calls coming in from New York, Philadelphia and many other distant points.

A gift from Governor Scott particularly intrigues her. It is the little gold pin of the underside of a foot with a black spot on the heel — the Tar Heel symbol. "It's so little," she laughed, holding it between her fingers, then carefully returning it to the box it came in.

Later, she insisted on showing gifts she had received. A church circle had sent a honey colored hand-made shawl. Several soft nightgowns and boxes of powder were among various gifts displayed on a large table.

A guest book, signed by the children, grandchildren and great grandchildren who were present for her festive 100th birthday; and signed also by scores of visitors — friends, black and white, who came by to see her that day, is a source of pride to the centenarian.

It was on October 22, 1871 that Mittie Thompson was born in Williamston, the daughter of Alexander Thompson and Margaret Mizelle Thompson. Mrs. Slade is the youngest of four children, two boys and two girls. All her life has been spent in Williamston except for a few years on the Mary Cherry farm a few miles out of town on the Hamilton highway.

Her husband, Edmond Slade, died in 1946. "He was born about 1860," she recalls.

Of descendants, there are six daughters and one son. Besides Mrs. Purvis and Mrs. Coffield, two other daughters live with her in Williamston. Miss Essie Slade and Miss Carrie Slade. One daughter, Mrs. Anna Bell Mitchell lives in Jamaica,

New York, which is also the home of her son, Alexander Slade. The other daughter, Mrs. Lucille Bell, makes her home in Washington, D. C.

Three grandchildren, seven great grandchildren and four great great grandchildren comprise the centenarian's direct descendants.

Many of the activities in past years that Mrs. Slade devoted long periods of time and energy to revolved around her church, the Williams Chapel A.M.E. Zion Church in Williamston.

"Mama loves church," Mrs. Coffield said, which drew a quick affirmation of "true, true" from Mrs. Slade.

Mrs. Purvis said her mother had been president of the Stewardess Board for 25 years and a deaconess in the church until very recent years.

"She can't go anymore, but the pastor brings communion here to her," Mrs. Purvis added.

At 100, Mrs. Slade is no longer permitted to travel. "But long as she could go," Mrs. Coffield said, "mama went anytime she had a chance."

"I've been everywhere," Mrs. Slade confirmed her daughter's statements. Everywhere has meant trips to New York, Washington, Philadelphia and other places where children or friends live.

"Mama still loves to eat, and eats well," Mrs. Purvis pointed out. "She especially likes fruits, collard greens, string beans, corn and tomatoes. She's real good about not being picky over her food and will eat just about anything we fix."

Work still rates high on the things Mrs. Slade keeps an active interest in. "I can make my bed," she confided, her eyes twinkling like a child announcing a mischievous secret.

"That she can," Mrs. Purvis overheard the remark. "In fact, we have to watch her so she don't over tire herself. Mama wants to help in everything. She'll close her door and make up her bed before we realize what she's doing."

This indomitable spirit, the determination to be useful may well be one of the reasons Mrs. Slade has endured the span of a century to reach a landmark in human existence few attain.

There's no doubt that here is a woman sustained by a keen interest in all that goes on around her as she begins a second century of living.

MRS. MITTIE THOMPSON SLADE . . . of Williamston, who on October 22, celebrated her 100th birthday.

Craft Classes Will Plan For Yuletide

The Greenville Recreation Department will begin its annual classes in Pine Cone Wreaths and Silk Screened Christmas cards beginning Tuesday and Wednesday.

Persons interested in making Pine Cone Wreaths should bring firm, brown pine cones which have fallen this fall. Pine cones, sweat gum balls, acorns, and nuts should be washed in a half cup clorox to a sink-full of water. Pine cones, and sweat gum balls should be placed in a 150-200 degree oven for several hours. This kills small insects and also opens the pine cones for cutting. Frames, wire, and ribbon will be available. Persons should bring needle-nose pliers to class.

The Silk Screened Christmas Card class will be held during the following hours: Tuesday and Wednesdays from 2:00 until 4:30 p.m. for day classes; and Tuesday and Wednesdays from 7:30 until 10:00 p.m. for night classes. The Recreation Department will furnish all the needed supplies for hand cut film stencils and printing inks. Persons taking the course will need to bring old Christmas cards for ideas, and also a jar with tight fitting lid. The cost of this program is $5.00. Registration is limited, call or contact the Craft Instructor at 752-2355 for sign-up no later than Tuesday.

The School of Allied Health and Social Professions at East Carolina University has announced plans for a new curriculum in environmental health, leading to the bachelor of science (BS) degree.

The main service performed by qualified environmentalists is the inspection of public and private water supplies, sewage disposal systems, and food processing and serving concerns, including restaurants, hospitals, convalescent homes dairies and slaughterhouses.

In large industrial operations, environmentalists are employed as industrial hygienists.

Similar positions are currently held by persons whose undergraduate training was not specifically in the field of environmental health. Graduate environmentalists are therefore in considerable demand by government agencies and by industry.

According to Russell Miller, acting chairman of ECU's new environmental health program, the curriculum includes allied health courses and a heavy concentration of courses in chemistry and microbiology.

Miller holds the BS and MS degrees in environmental health from East Tennessee State University, the first institution in the U.S. to offer the M.S. in Environmental Health. The establishment of ECU's program is supported by a grant of $48,295 from the U. S. Bureau of Allied Health Manpower, a division of HEW.

Classroom and laboratory facilities for the environmental health program will be located in the new ECU Allied Health Building, now in the final stages of construction.

Bucs Out To Halt Homecoming String

Defensive End Kirk Doll

Saturday afternoon, 24 East Carolina seniors step onto the turf of Ficklen Stadium for the last time. It's Homecoming, and they hope to end a Homecoming trend which goes back to 1966.

The Pirates of East Carolina University haven't won a Homecoming game since then. Oh, they've put forward some great halves during that time, and looked like winners, but not since 1966 have they managed to last through the game.

"Sometimes you feel like the pendulum will never swing the other way," Buc coach Sonny Randle said. "But if these 24 seniors aren't ready for this game, I don't think they can ever get ready for one."

The Bucs will be playing host to Davidson's Wildcats, who spoiled Homecoming two years ago. The Bucs led in that one at the half, but Davidson's fine passing attack came through in the second half and the Wildcats walked away with the victory and went on to win the Southern Conference championship that year.

This year, the Wildcats are not the same team, although they still believe in the aerial attack. Coming into the game, the 'Cats have won just one of seven games, a 20-8 upset of Bucknell. They haven't won against a Southern Conference school yet, bowing to VMI, 27-3, William & Mary, 40-14, and Furman, 41-6. But the Davidson crew has put together some shockers, too. They were neck and neck with Wake Forest going into the fourth quarter, only to bow 27-7. And only a field goal two weeks ago by Wofford enabled the strong Terriers to get by, 23-22.

"We'll certainly have to play as well as we know how," Randle said. "They can catch up in a hurry with their type of offense, and they've had two weeks to get ready for us. We expect to see some new things from them, both offensively and defensively."

The Pirates come into the game with two straight wins, and a 3-5 record. They are striving mightily to finish with a 5-5 mark and prove that they are a better team than their early season performances would indicate. "There is a little more pressure on us this week," Randle said. "When you are supposed to win, you have a different outlook on the game."

Last week, the game with Furman was rated much of a toss-up. Some forecasters were picking Furman and some went with East Carolina. In the first half, it looked like the Paladin-pickers were the ones in the know.

"We did a little soul-searching at halftime," Randle said. "We just decided that we wanted to execute better and carry out our assignments. We realized that we had to play ball if we wanted to win."

The Pirates then came back on the field and completely dominated the rest of the action, rolling to a 26-13 victory.

The Buc mentor was also pleased with the passing game, despite the fact that the Pirates didn't have a good percentage throwing. "It was more effective than it has been. When we wanted to throw we could. But we still want it to improve as we do other phases of the game."

Another big factor in the game was the running of Carlester Crumpler. Limited to only 10 yards in the first half of the contest, Crump broke loose for 100 in the second and scored two touchdowns. This week, he'll get a starting berth, due both to his running and the fact that Les Strayhorn will be sidelined with a shoulder injury. "He'll be available if he's needed," Randle added.

But referring to Crumpler's running, Randle pointed out that there hasn't been any great change in the sophomore's attitude toward the game. "He's healthy now. That makes a great difference. It's amazing what he can do when he's well."

Besides Strayhorn, two other Pirates will miss the game, linebacker Jim Post, out for the rest of the year, and Mike Stephens, number one reserve man in the secondary, who has had the flu all week.

Everyone else is expected to be ready to go.

Randle expects that Davidson is going to be especially after the Pirates because of some things the Bucs did last year in their 36-18 victory over the Wildcats. That was the playing of two kicking specialists in the defensive line late in the game. Davidson Coach Dave Fagg was greatly upset at the insult to his offensive line, and let it be known afterwards.

"While I didn't agree with what was done," Randle said. "We're going to have to pay for it. They're going to be coming in here with fire in their eyes."

The Wildcats will rely on the running of Johnny Ribet who is their leading ground gainer with 377 yards in 99 carries. He's scored three touchdowns.

There are two quarterbacks for the Bucs to be wary of, Scotty Shipp, who leads the Southern in passing. He's hit 61 of 150 attempts for 654 yards. Rick Kemmerlin, who is tied with Ribet in scoring with three, has hit on 33 of 71 passes for 432 yards.

But a big factor for Davidson has been turnovers. The 'Cats have had 17 passes intercepted, and have lost 12 fumbles. These have greatly hurt the Davidson attack.

If they avoid these mistakes, however, the Wildcats could claw their way to a victory, and a big upset. "It would be their whole year to them," Randle said. "It would compare to our victory over State."

But attitude may be the key factor. "If we go out there and are lackadaisical, we're going to be in for a long afternoon," Randle said. "We shouldn't be cocky, just confident."

"The Furman game proved one point. We can't just go out there and stagger around. But if we put our minds to it, we can do it all. It's going to be a wide open game, and in that type of contest, you have to be ready right from the start."

Jurgensen To Return To Duty With 'Skins

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sonny Jurgensen, the Washington Redskins' No. 1 quarterback until he broke his shoulder in an exhibition game, is expected to be activated today.

To make room for the 37-year-old signal-caller on the Redskins' roster, back-up quarterback Sam Wyche will be placed on the move list.

Although Jurgensen will be in uniform for Sunday's National Football League clash between the Redskins and the Philadelphia Eagles, Coach George Allen emphasized Bill Kilmer is still his No. 1 quarterback.

"He's done a great job," Allen said of Kilmer, who was obtained from the New Orleans Saints to be Jurgensen's reserve.

"I'm not a two-quarterback man," Allen said. "We go with one quarterback, one center, one linebacker, one right tackle. I don't believe in shoving people all around."

Allen had been piqued all week whenever someone asked him if Jurgensen would be activated. "I'll activate him when I think he's ready," he said repeatedly.

Jurgensen came to the Redskins in 1964 in a trade that sent quarterback Norm Snead and Claude Crabb to the Philadelphia Eagles. In 1966, he was runnerup to Bart Starr for the National Football League passing title, winning the laurels the following year.

In 1969, he won the passing championship again, completing 274 passes in 442 attempts for 3,102 yards and 22 touchdowns. He is the only passer ever to gain more than 3,000 yards in a season five times.

Jurgensen has spent seven weeks on the move list, the maximum allowed under league rules. If Allen decides to put him on the list again, Jurgensen will miss a minimum of two more weeks.

Emphasizing Kilmer would continue to start, Allen said the addition of Jurgensen to the squad "should make us strong."

The coach, alluding to the quarterback troubles at Dallas and Baltimore, said, "there's going to be no problems" with Jurgensen in a back-up role.

The veteran quarterback went through his first full-scale workout with the team Wednesday, hitting both short and long passes with accuracy.

Jacksonville Kicks Pirates

The University of Jacksonville broke open a tight match early in the second half and rolled to a 9-0 victory of the East Carolina Pirates yesterday in a soccer match.

The two teams went scoreless in the first quarter of play with the Pirates more or less dominating play then. They took seven shots on the goal as compared to two by the Dolphins.

But in the second period, Jacksonville got a score by Shannon on a penalty kick, and after that, the Pirates seemed to collapse, and the Dolphins began to pull away. They added another goal in the period and led 2-0 at the half.

They went on from there and scored four in the third period and three in the fourth for the final 9-0 score.

Shannon finished with two goals, while Bloomquist, Wieden, Myers, Miller, Wallingford, Collin and Sham each had one.

The Bucs are now 4-6-2 overall and 1-1-1 in the Southern Conference. They play host to William & Mary Saturday at 10 a.m. in the game that will decide the Northern Champion of the conference.

The winner of the match will meet Southern champion Davidson for the overall conference championship. That match will be played at the site of the Northern champ next Saturday.

Sports Back On Top In Poll

When you're hot, you're hot!
So goes the current popular song. It follows however that "When you're not, you're not!"
And we bravely hope that only the first words will be applied for the next couple of weeks.

After slipping off the top of the "Peerless Prognosticators Poll" last week, this writer had to come up with something special to regain the top. We did.

When the smoke had cleared, we had predicted a perfect 12-0 record in the poll. Coupled with that was a 5-0 mark on the other high school games for a fine 17-0 mark for the week. We don't understand how it could have happened, but we're certainly not going to try and follow it up.

At any rate, we shot past the newsroom's Tom Baines, who had an 8-4 week to regain first place. The poll mark for us is now 49-23, for a .681 mark. The overall mark is now 98-42, or an even .700.

Baines holds to second with a 47-25 mark, two games ahead of Jack Whichard, 45-27. George Holland with a 9-3 mark last week, climbed into Ficklen Stadium began to look more like Medical Center last night as Rose High School closed out the 1971 season. And that might be the best thing that can be said about the game—that it was the last of the year. The Rampants were overwhelmed by Goldsboro's Cougars, 28-8, but it could have been worse if not for a string of penalties against the Cougars. Rose opened the game with three of their starters on the sidelines; number one running back Al Hunter, linebacker John Conway and tackle John Calhoun.

Fullback Matthew Clark, who took Hunter's place, came out of the game early with possible rib injuries. Then, center-linebacker Phil Ragazzo left the contest with a knee injury. On the following play, the other regular starting running back, Calvin Moore, was shaken up on a tackle, and played only briefly during the rest of the game.

He did manage to make the lone Rose touchdown; going for 24 yards in the opening series of the second half. But it served only to bring the Rampants within striking distance.

Goldsboro scored twice in the first half, once a 34-yard romp by Melvin Woodard, and the other time on a four-yard pass from Ronnie Percise to Mike Hardy.

The other two scores came in the second half, with Charles Coley going six yards and Rodney Parks cracking over from the two. Tim Frazier added four extra points to finish off the scoring.

Goldsboro opened the game with a march that threatened to go in for the first score. They moved quickly from their own 42 down to the Rose 22 for a first down, including key gains of 11 and 16 yards. But a flip from Percise to Parks went astray and although he eluded a number of tacklers, Parks still was caught for a 15 yard loss and that killed the drive.

Rose, aided five penalties against the Cougars got a drive going that pushed into Cougar territory. They moved down to the 29, but a penalty for a clip pushed them back, and they couldn't recover either.

Coley put Goldsboro in good position again on the next series, taking the first play down to the Rose 34, a 28-yard pick up, but Todd Fair cracked through to throw Percise for a 14-yard loss and that stopped the Cougars again.

Finally, early in the second period, Goldsboro got the ball on its own 20 following a 51-yard punt into the end zone by Jim McDermott. Three short gains netted a first down at the 43, after Rose was tagged with a 15-yard penalty. Parks moved the ball across midfield to the 48, and two plays later, the Cougars got a first down at the 44. Percise hit Jimmy Tunsall for 10 to the 34, and the draw play gave the ball to Woodard, who went all the way from there.

Frazier added the extra point and Goldsboro held a 7-0 lead with 6:14 left in the half.

Late in the half, Goldsboro got another big play as Hardy ran back a punt 39 yards to the Rose 18, setting up the second touchdown. Percise hit Hardy at the six on the first play, but three yards from there netted but two yards. On fourth down, however, Hardy broke away from the Rose defense and Percise hit him for the score just as the clock ran out. Frazier again kicked and it was 14-0.

Rose came right back on the first series of the second half to push over its only touchdown of the evening. The Cougars apparently had held the Rampants at their own 47, but a roughing the kicker penalty, the second of the night against the Cougars, gave Rose a first down at the Goldsboro 43.

Reggie Perkins picked up six yards and Dean Phillips added three. Moore was thrown for a yard loss, but Perkins went off led tackle for six yards on the fourth down play, keeping the drive alive. Five more yards were tackled against Goldsboro for being offside on the next play, down to the 24. Moore then went around left end and outran the Cougar secondary into the end zone for the Rose score. Perkins carried over the two-point conversion to put Rose within striking distance with plenty of time left.

Goldsboro nearly broke it open just a few plays later, however, when Hardy returned a punt 43 yards for an apparent touchdown. But another penalty cancelled it and returned the ball to the Rampants.

Three plays later, however, Phillips dropped back to pass, and his throw was intercepted by Joe Surratt, who carried it down to the 12, then lateraled to Eddie Jernigan who moved it on down to the six.

On the first play from scrimmage from there, Coley went over right tackle for the score, and Goldsboro pushed its lead out to 21-8 with 32 seconds left in the period.

It took just 35 seconds for Goldsboro to push another score over. The Cougars tried the onside kick, but Rose got it, as Lee Cherry gathered in the ball, then fumbled when he was hit, and Goldsboro's Kenneth Wilson recovered on the Cougar 49.

Coley broke through right tackle and raced 49 yards down to the two, and on the first play of the final period, Parks pushed the ball over to run the score to 28-8 with 11:57 to go.

In the final period of play, Goldsboro stayed in Rose territory, but substituted freely, and that kept the Cougars from really turning it into a rout. In the final frame, Rose ran only 16 plays, as compared to 15 for the Cougars. Six of those Rose plays came in the final two minutes of the game after a 40-yard field goal attempt by Frazier fell short. The Rampants managed only 10 plays in the first 10 minutes of the period.

Except for the final play of the game, the entire period was played on the Rose side of the 50.

The loss finished the season for Rose with a 2-8 mark. Goldsboro is 8-2, but must await the results of tonight's Rocky Mount-Wilson contest to see whether it is finished for the season. A Wilson victory sends the Titans into the state 4-A playoffs, while a Rocky Mount victory would mean a three-way deadlock between Wilson, Rocky Mount and Goldsboro, and a vote of the coaches in the conference would decide the playoff berth.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics has reprimanded South Carolina State College of Orangeburg for laxity in enforcing NAIA rules and standards.

Shorter College of Rome, Ga., also was reprimanded Thursday as the result of investigations by the districts and the executive committee of the association.

fourth place with a 44-28 mark, while John Trotman, 5-7, fell off to 41-31. Lauren Riddick is closing in on him with a 40-32.

But there are some toughies ahead this week and we'll look at them in a minute. First there are the final high school games of the year to be picked.

Eastern Wayne visits Greene Central in a game that could only have meaning if a couple of other wild upsets occur. But it is a big game for the two, anyway, as they look for good years. The Rams still have that outside chance at the title, but they must win to have that. They won't win the title, but they should win the game.

Farmville Central travels to C. B. Aycock. The Jaguars will do no worse than tie for the title if they win. Aycock is down, but could pop back up for Farmville. It might be a sticky game, but the Jaguars get our nod.

Southern Nash invades ever improving Conley. The Vikings gave Farmville fits before finally bowing, but Southern Nash is another vastly improved team. We'll have to choose the Firebirds to win this one.

North Lenoir visits Ayden-Grifton in another fine game. The Chargers are rolling along now, while North Lenoir continues to have its troubles. Ayden-Grifton should be the winner.

West Craven is at Robersonville in a non-league game. The Golden Eagles are headed for a playoff berth in the Class A ranks, while West Craven is having a lot of troubles. The Eagles should fly by

Faber, Franklin Are Pirate Cage Captains

Two juniors have been named as co-captains of the East Carolina University basketball squad for 1971-72. Al Faber, a 6'10" center and Dave Franklin, a 6'5" forward were selected this week by their teammates.

In making the announcement, ECU cage coach Tom Quinn remarked, "I am very pleased with the team's selection. Both Faber and Franklin are fine athletes and fine young men. I feel that they will demonstrate the type of leadership ability that will be required of them."

Faber, a native of North Haledon, N.J., is the only returnee on the Pirate squad who started the entire 1970-71 season. He finished the year with an average of 13.7 points per game and 12.2 rebounds per game. He was also named to the Southern Conference All-Conference Sophomore Team. Franklin broke into the starting five at midseason when starter Jim Fairley suffered an injury. A real hustler from Richmond, Va., he seems determined to keep the starting slot as Fairley returns to action this year. Franklin finished last year with a 6.0 rebound average and an 11.0 scoring average.

Open Meetings Law Is Regarded As Ambiguous

RALEIGH (AP) — The state attorney general's office says the language in North Carolina's open meetings law, which went into effect July 1, "is rather ambiguous."

Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and Deputy Atty. Gen. Andrew Vanore said this in a letter to William H. Booe, a Charlotte attorney and member of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School Board.

Morgan and Vanore said, "If a majority of the members of the board hold a social meeting or other informal meeting which is not called for the specific purpose of conducting business but, through the social conversation, some business is discussed, I do not think this would be a violation of the act."

"Unless, of course, one could prove that the majority of the board called it a social meeting simply for the purpose of evading the 'spirit' of the act."

The law requires that most public boards hold opening meetings.

"To say the least, the language (of the law) is rather ambiguous and it would be simply a matter of proof as to whether or not the member of the board held a 'social meeting' for the purpose of evading the act," Morgan and Vanore said.

Booe said he asked for an opinion after word from the school board's attorney did not satisfy him. He said he had been at odds with the other eight board members over frequent closed sessions. He added he felt these meetings conflicted with the open meetings law.

Boards are permitted under the law to hold closed sessions under certain circumstances such as discussing personnel matters.

Booe said he believes the school board did not meet any of the exceptions permitted in the law.

Vanore said the letter to Booe was not an "opinion" from the attorney general's office but merely a review "of an opinion rendered by the attorney for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School Board."

Julie To Attend Stamp Issuance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower will attend first day ceremonies when the Postal Service issues its annual Christmas stamps Wednesday, the day before the two eight-cent stamps go on sale in post offices across the nation.

The White House announced Thursday that the President's younger daughter would take part in the ceremonies launching the stamps. Christmas stamps have been issued yearly since 1962.

One of this year's stamps features "a partridge in a pear tree" painting by artist Jamie Wyeth of Chadds Ford, Pa., based on an old English Christmas ballad. The other is a Nativity scene from the 16th century work "Adoration of the Shepherds" by Italian painter Giorgione.

Two billion of the Christmas stamps are being printed this year.

The C5 Galaxy still surprises you when you see it, they say—no matter how much you've heard about its size. In the air, the C5, the world's largest plane and the Air Force's newest cargo plane, has an angle of climb seemingly impossible for something so big. On the ground it needs an acre of land to park, while the T-type tail rises 65 feet into the air, the height of a six-story building.

The huge bird is first and foremost a workhorse. Its worth to the military is its ability to carry virtually every type of Army equipment—fully assembled helicopters, for example, ready to fly in minutes. And there's room for the personnel to man the equipment, too. The payload is up to 265,000 pounds, equal to about 56 station wagons. Six Greyhound buses could park inside, and there's full drive-through capability: the nose flips up and the back opens full width. In addition, the 28 wheels can be partially retracted while the C5 is on the ground, making the plane "kneel" for easier access loading and unloading.

The photographs on this page were taken at Altus Air Force Base, Okla., the only place where crews are trained to fly the C5s.

One C5 Galaxy takes off from Altus Air Force Base, Okla., flying over another of these giant workhorses of the sky on the ground (wingspread 222 feet).

This Week's PICTURE SHOW photographs by Bob Scott.

Above, visor nose opens for full drive-through capability. Inside, below, cargo area is more than a third as long as a football field.

The 247-foot-long C5 carries 318,500 pounds of jet fuel, cruises at 440 knots, can fly 3,050 miles nonstop fully loaded. For takeoff and landing there are 28 wheels to make the going smooth and feather soft.

Maintenance on the grand scale: the C5's tail, above, soaring up 65 feet and, below, one of the four engines, each with 41,000 pounds of thrust.

The Worry Clinic Compliment Buys A Friend

Ray Cron introduced me to 2,000 high schoolers during my four daytime speeches. And my 5-minute "Logical Proof of God" produced the most rapt attention, though I also included many bits of advice on dating problems, how to study, plus the folly of the drug and tobacco habits.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case S-511: Ray Cron is a talented school official in Mercer County, Ohio.
When I was there for an evening Ohio Mental Health lecture at Celina, Ray took me around during the day to four high schools.

And I spoke for an hour at each one, ending my address with my 5-minute "Logical Proof of God."

Despite the fanfare about the hippies and the laxness of modern teen-age morals, it might surprise you readers to know that the high school audiences gave me fascinated, 100 per cent attention on that final 5-minute religious syllogism.
But during the earlier portion of my addresses, I covered a variety of other teenage problems.
"Dr. Crane," a 15-year-old girl mournfully exclaimed, "I don't have any friends."

"Nobody seems to like me, so I am not popular."
To which I replied:
"Why should anybody like you?"

Then I reminded the audiences that we must always BUY popularity and friendships! That sounds ultra mercenary at first glance.
So I explained that I did not refer to gaining friends by the method often employed by shy youngsters in the earlier grades. For it is a common school problem to have such children "buying" popularity by scattering candy and chewing gum freely among their classmates. To obtain such, they frequently steal from mamma's purse at home!
For when a child of 6 or 8 years finds himself ostracized from the games of his classmates, he becomes almost frantic to gain their favor.

In the teens, however, we must buy our friends by smiling and paying them honest compliments.

Since everybody is branded at birth with the tattoo "I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT," then we can take our cue from that.

Nobody is likely to go out of his way to be your friend or vote you tops in popularity until you have thus made him feel more important.
So I reminded those high school audiences of the magical power in honest compliments. A smile is also a compliment but of the "sign language" or non-verbal sort.
For a smile intimates, "I like you. Your presence is pleasing to me so I hope we can be friends. What do you say?"
But follow your cheery smile with a spoken bit of praise. Soon the strangers will warm up to you and actually look forward to your reappearance.
Unpopular people usually try to shout their own virtues and thus utter compliments for themselves.
This is called "Tooting your own horn."
But reach over and toot the other person's horn! Then he will soon reach back and toot your horn, too.
And the music always seems sweeter when somebody else toots our horn!

Indeed, all a wedding consists of, is an original pair of horn-tooters, each of whom tooted the other's horn!
So send for my "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and learn the 5 laws for complimenting.
Industry's need for communications circuits is expected to increase by 230 per cent between 1975 and 1985.

Claims Prison Violates Rights

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A state penitentiary inmate, declaring "enforced sexual segregation" violates his religious freedom, has asked a U.S. district court to order his transfer to the Wisconsin Home for Women at Taycheedah.

Robert McGregor, 40, serving a 10-year term at Waupun State Prison for car theft and robbery, said in a petition filed Wednesday he has a Biblical mission to "be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth."

The bidding:

3 NT Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Four of ♣
An excellent bit of card reading by East enabled him to uncover the killing shift which led to the upset of South's three no trump contract.
West opened the four of clubs, the eight was played from dummy and East put up the king which held the trick as South followed with the five. Before returning his partner's lead, East paused to assess the situation. The play to the first trick revealed that the three of clubs was the only lower ranking card missing in that suit. This meant that West held, at most, five clubs—while South held at least four. Furthermore, inasmuch as West's original lead was such a low card, there was a strong probability that declarer was reasonably well-heeled in the suit.

Proceeding with his analysis of the distribution, East concluded that South held at least four diamonds for his original bid in that suit and three hearts for his raise of North's response. This left him with a maximum of two spades. Now—if West held a spade honor, either the king or the ace—it would be possible to establish three tricks in that suit provided East made an immediate switch.
East accordingly led back the five of spades at trick two. South played the three and West was in with the king. He returned the deuce and when dummy covered with the ten, East ducked. His efforts were rewarded when declarer was obliged to put up the ace. Inasmuch as South had only seven top tricks in spades, hearts and diamonds, he led a club. West played the king and returned a spade which allowed the defense to cash two more tricks and set declarer down by one.

Veterans Farm Cooperative Program Is Offered By PTI

VETERANS FARM PROGRAM . . . Veteran Frank Dale, right, pours corn into a moisture meter to get a moisture reading.

Looking on are William Moore, class instructor, Veteran Luke Lee and George King.

Pitt Technical Institute is now offering a Veterans Farm Cooperative Program for eligible veterans.

A veteran must be engaged in farming on a full-time basis and must qualify with the Veterans Administration to be eligible for enrollment in the program.

The Veterans Farm Program curriculum was planned in such a manner that a veteran may enroll at the beginning of any quarter and does not have to wait until the beginning of a school year. PTI's winter quarter begins November 29.

The course, open to all eligible veterans, is designed to give the student an opportunity to continue farming and at the same time learn more about his farming program. In addition to fitting the needs of students, the courses are also offered concurrently with the students farming programs.

According to William Moore, program Coordinator, the objective of this new curriculum is to provide the managerial and operative training needed for successful farm operations.

"We believe this curriculum provides a training program for developing the basic knowledge and skills needed for the successful operation and management of a general farming operation involving crops and livestock," Moore said.

The veterans program, also known as Agricultural Science and Mechanization, is designed for 36 months. Class hours are arranged with the students for their convenience.

Included in the course schedule are courses relating to tobacco, farm machinery and repair, marketing, fertilizers, welding, animals, crops, forestry, chemicals, records and taxes, construction, and soil and water conservation.

Classroom instruction and extensive use of practical labs are both used in an effort to provide for meaningful learning experiences. Field trips are frequently taken to provide students with first-hand information.

Upon completion of the Agricultural Science and Mechanization program, veterans are awarded a Certificate of Completion. Veterans who are interested in getting an Associate of Applied Science Degree need only to satisfactorily complete a minimum of 18 hours of general education in addition to the technical specialties.

For additional information about this program, veterans should contact William Moore, or the Director of Student Personnel, at Pitt Technical Institute, telephone 756-3130, Greenville.

New Library Story Series

The second of Sheppard Library's series of pre-school story time begins Tuesday. From 2:00 to 2:30 p.m. each Tuesday through December 14, one group will meet, with a second group meeting each Wednesday, beginning November 10 and continuing through December 15. Meeting time on Wednesdays will be from 11:00 to 11:30 a.m.

Both sessions are open to all children ages three to five. Parents who have children planning to attend either of these sessions are being asked to register their children at the first session in order to permit program planning. No pre-registrations will be accepted.

The pre-school story hours, as in the past series, will consist of stories and picture book presentations and songs and games.

Mrs. Margaret Reid, Children's Librarian, has also announced that Tuesday, at 4:00 p.m., the next in the autumn series of music programs will be conducted in the Children's Room in the basement of Sheppard Memorial Library. Eugene Isabelle, a faculty member of the East Carolina School of Music, programs the music sessions presented by ECU musicians in this series.

Teacher Council Talks Projects

WINTERVILLE — The executive council of the Pitt County Unit of Classroom Teachers met Tuesday at the A. G. Cox Grammar School.

The four areas of the county were represented as the teachers discussed projects to undertake for the year. Among the priorities discussed were: orientation for new teachers; fellowship of teachers; teacher evaluations.

Reports on memberships were made by faculty representatives and area coordinators.

Regular meetings have been set for the second Tuesday of each month in the conference room of the Pitt County Court House.

Final plans for the orientation program will be made by President Isabelle Wicker and the four area coordinators, Edith Barnhill, Jasper Woods, Elaine King and Laura Willoughby.
