Pay Board Left Loophole That May Be 'Stretched'

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board has left itself a loophole that may stretch wide enough to squeeze a 12-per-cent pay raise through. But it may take months to find out.

The board's general rule is that raises in new contracts can't exceed 5.5 per cent a year, and raises in old contracts might be rolled back if "unreasonably inconsistent" with that guide.

But the initial policy adopted Monday night also contains what one source calls "the reality clause," or loophole.

It says this: "In reviewing new contracts and pay practices, the Pay Board shall consider ongoing collective bargaining and pay practices and the equitable position of the employes involved, including the impact of recent changes in the cost of living upon employe's compensation." An identical loophole is supplied for existing contracts as well.

What that means, exactly, is unclear.

But, according to briefers who allow themselves to be identified only as "informed sources" or "sources in a position to know," the purpose is to allow the board to approve higher raises when circumstances warrant.

How high or under what circumstances still is unknown. The board has made no decisions on specific cases, and won't consider any for a while yet, the sources said.

But they conceded, when questioned by a newsman, that the loophole might well have enough stretch in it to pass through recent settlements in the rail industry, calling for raises of one per cent per month for 42 months.

Although the rail settlements are more than double the 5.5-per-cent guide, they came after the rail workers had gone through a long period of rapidly rising prices with no raise at all.

Furthermore, as one source voluntarily pointed out, the rail agreements in some cases replace work rules that meant extra pay.

The source said the board had set no figure for what would be an "unreasonably inconsistent" raise in an existing contract, like the rail agreements. However, figures of 7 and 8 per cent were discussed before the board decided not to pin itself down, a source said.

The sources said the Pay Board does not expect many businessmen to appeal for rollbacks of scheduled pay increases, because this might needlessly antagonize unions.

But the board allows five or more of its own members to initiate a rollback appeal.

RETIREMENT SET

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Finlator, deputy director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs since 1969, will retire Jan. 1, it was announced today.

Claim Attacks

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — Indian troops supported by artillery attacked three Pakistani border positions, but 57 of the attackers were killed, a Pakistani army source claimed today.

The source said the Indians attacked positions at Jatiapura and Lalgarah, on East Pakistan's southern border with India's Tripura State and near the northern border at Panihat.

Three Pakistani soldiers were killed, the source reported. He also claimed that Indian artillery fired nearly 2,100 shells into several Pakistani villages and killed 28 civilians.

New Formula For Training

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has handed President Nixon a $3.8-billion plan to speed training of doctors and nurses under a new formula that designers say would end a "disaster-derby competition for medical-school funds."

Although the two-bill package would authorize about twice what Nixon had sought, congressional sponsors say they expect the President will sign the legislation in view of what they call serious health-manpower shortages and widespread financial trouble experienced by the nation's medical schools.

The House completed congressional action Tuesday on the proposed three-year federal spending program. It includes special incentives for institutions to shorten training by a year while boosting enrollments and developing new types of health workers such as doctors' assistants.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chief drafters of the massive measures to help the nation's 106 medical schools, described the legislation as a major response to a health-care crisis.

'Fraternizing' Cost Her Hair

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — Members of the Irish Republican Army tied a 19-year-old girl to a lamp post Tuesday night, shaved her head and poured tar over it for fraternizing with a British soldier.

Earlier, at dusk in Londonderry's Catholic Bogside district, snipers fired into an army observation post and killed a British soldier. He was the 36th soldier to die in Northern Ireland this year.

A jeering crowd yelled "soldier lover" as IRA men dragged Martha Doherty from her home in the Bogside and three masked girls went to work on her.

Martha stood for 30 minutes, her head bowed and her face blackened, before she was cut loose and taken away to be cleaned up.

Tarring and feathering is a traditional punishment for lesser offenders against the IRA. Martha, the first girl to get the treatment, escaped the feathers.

Another girl from the Bogside said three masked men came to her home and warned her she would be shot if seen talking to British troops again. A few minutes later, six girls showed up and cropped her shoulder-length hair to the skin.

"I realized that I was going to get punished, and it is more sensible to accept the situation than resist it," she said. "I shan't be seeing any soldiers any more."

Utilities Take Action To Safeguard Maps Of Distribution System

Greenville Utilities has taken steps to protect its distribution system maps.

The question of map security was raised at last month's commission meeting. Director Charles Horne reported to the commission Tuesday night that copies of maps are now stored in two different locations.

Chairman Hoover Taft also pointed out that the maps will be stored in fire proof vaults when the commission moves into the Wachovia building, which it has purchased.

Chairman Taft read letters of appreciation from Voice of America and the mayor of New Bern.

New Bern expressed appreciation to Greenville Utilities for sending a crew to assist during recent hurricane damage. The Voice of America thanked the utilities for assisting when a main electric supply line burned out at Site C.

The commission gave interim approval for rural fire departments to use fire hydrants at the Burroughs Wellcome plant pending a committee study. The firm had contracted with the city for fire fighting protection, but the contract was recently ended.

The county fire warden also requested that the commission give permission for any rural departments to draw water from city hydrants in event of an emergency.

The committee, to be appointed, will study this request also.

Commissioners decided not to participate in a program to provided extra credits for military service in the retirement plan. Director Horne reported that the state and most municipal units were not participating because the cost factor is unknown.

Commissioners approved the purchase of three trucks from International Harvester at a total cost of $8,248.42. Included is $187.21 in taxes which will be refunded.

Commissioners authorized negotiation with Ayden for trading two sections of rural electric lines, each with about a dozen customers. Horne explained that the sections each jut into the areas of the opposite utilities and the trade would even up the service areas.

A contribution of $250 was approved to help finance the trip by local citizens for the All American cities presentation in Atlanta next week.

Sales Ended On Farmville Mart

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco market's auction season ended after sales Tuesday.

"The quality of offerings was much better than on Monday," stated Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market. "Sales amounted to 42,231 pounds of tobacco being sold for $30,788.76 Tuesday, giving an average of $74.67 per hundred pounds."

Williams said the quality of this year's tobacco crop was one of the best on record.

"The amount of pounds sold was lighter than last year, as was expected, due to the fact that less tobacco was planted this year," Williams said.

The average this year was much higher than the 1970 average and stabilization receipts this season were less than in 1970.

The season this year ran for 39 selling days as compared with 44 last year.

The Farmville market sold 20,509,939 pounds of tobacco this year as compared to 23,238,830 pounds sold last year. The average for the 1971 selling season was $79.16 per hundred pounds, a total of $4.86 cents per hundred pounds higher than the $74.30 average for the 1970 selling season.

"The 1971 acution season was the most orderly on record due to a new booking system adopted by all warehouse firms," Williams said.

"The Farmville finished second among averages obtained in the Eastern Belt for the 1971 season," Williams added.

The Rocky Mount market also closed at the end of sales Tuesday. The Wilson market, the only remaining market open in the Eastern Belt, has announced plans to close after sales on Nov. 16.

Request Report

The Greenville chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union has asked that Superior Court Judge Robert Rouse order the release of a confidential State Bureau of Investigation report of their investigation into the death of William Earl Murphy.

Murphy, a black man, was shot by a Highway Patrolman August 6. The shooting sparked protests in the county that have resulted in several hundred arrests for such violations as parading without permits and contributing to the deliquency of mniors.

The October 24 letter to Judge Rouse urged that the SBI report be made available to the pulbic.

The letter said that because the SBI report was incomplete when a coroner's jury met August 27 and ruled the shooting was in self-defense, "widespread doubt" has arisen and "was the principal cause of the civil unrest which Pitt County has experienced since the inquest."

Judge Rouse, holding court in Craven County this week, was unavailable for comment this morning.

Cares For CARE

Because of a day home from school and a television commercial that caught his eye, seven-year-old Jack Mann has started a one-boy campaign for the international relief agency CARE.

Jack's effort has netted $1.90 for CARE so far, but his interest and enthusiasm have attracted the attention of the multi-million dollar agency.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Roger L. Mann, said the youngster was home watching television one day a month ago because he was sick. That's when he saw a CARE commercial and decided to help out, she said.

Jack wrote CARE in New York, enclosed a dollar saved from his small allowance, and said: "I like your people. I like you people so much I could kiss them."

Mrs. Mann said he told them he was writing to CARE, but "he did it on his own."

Jack said he got a letter back from CARE saying, "Someone really cares."

Since, then he has raised 90 cents more, hitting his father and about seven neighbors for contributions.

Now, he says he will save more money from his allowance of "about a quarter" until he gets $9 for CARE.

His father said his son "is a very unusual boy. He takes an interest in people that's almost amazing."

Mrs. Mann described her second-grade son as a "Dennis the Meance who can be mighty sweet."

UAW President Assails Rehnquist Nomination

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers union, has assailed Supreme Court nominee William H. Rehnquist as possessing "neither the breadth of vision nor the humanity which is required of a Supreme Court justice."

In testimony prepared for the Senate Judiciary Committee today, Woodcock said Rehnquist's record is "consistently far-right."

As an example, the union president's testimony went on, Rehnquist once took exception to a Washington newspaper editorial opposing nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the high court.

Woodcock said Rehnquist felt the paper sought a "restoration of the (Earl) Warren court's majority," which "would have the result of not merely further expansion of the constitutional recognition of civil rights, but also of further expansion of the constitutional rights of criminal defendants, of pornographers and of demonstrators."

Woodcock said: "We submit that these hyperbolic and loaded words tell the Senate a good deal more about who uttered them than they do about the Warren court.

Woodcock's remarks were delivered to the committee by William H. Dodds, director of the UAW Citizenship Department.

Lewis F. Powell Jr., the second nominee of President Nixon, was noted by Woodcock as having commanded much respect from many who do not agree with his views, "but who finds his discussion of legal issues to be thoughtful, scholarly and moderate."

Sen. McGovern Here Nov. 18-19

Sen George McGovern (D-S.D.) will be in Greenville and at East Carolina University Nov. 18-19 for speeches, press conferences and television appearances.

McGovern is scheduled to arrive at the Pitt-Greenville Airport at 2 p.m. Nov. 18 and speak on America's rural economy in ECU's Wright Auditorium at 2:30. Following his address, McGovern will hold a press conference in the Conference Room of the ECU Administration Building.

At 8 p.m. Dr. and Mrs. Leo Jenkins will host a reception for McGovern at their home on Fifth St.

On Nov. 19 the Senator will appear on "Carolina Today," the regular morning program of WNCT-TV, Channel 9, Greenville.

Other appearances, as yet unsheduled, will be announced later.

The Greenville stop is the Senator's first North Carolina appearance since he announced his candidacy for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Arrangements for his visit here were made by Janice Hardison of the ECU Department of English and other campus supporters of McGovern.

Plan Voter Registration For Students

Student government presidents from five area high schools met yesterday to start plans for a voter registration drive in their schools.

They met with Rob Lusiana and Robert Twilley, students from East Carolina University who are helping to spearhead the Pitt County Voter Registration Drive.

Lusiana and Twilley provided the student leaders with copies of basic North Carolina Election Laws, suggested means for publicizing and involving fellow students in the drive and offered ways that they could lend assistance.

"The Pitt County Voter Registration Drive is a non-partisan effort to help young voters become aware of registration procedures and more politically knowledgeable," Lusiana explained.

Arthur S. Alford, Superintendent of Pitt County Schools, helped to arrange the meeting and commented that, "Voter registration is one of the best ways there is of channeling student discontent into positive action citizenship."

Lusiana told the high school presidents that a new state law now makes it possible for voters to register for the county, state and national elections and also be eligible for city elections. Registration to vote will be held from March 3 to April 10, 1972.

"If you will turn 18 before 21 days prior to the November 3 election, you can vote," said Lusiana. "This means that 17-year-olds will be allowed to register in the spring.

Student government presidents attending were: Margie Barnette, Farmville Central; Christie Speir and Jean Council, North Pitt; Carlton McCarter and Chuck Babington, Ayden-Grifton; Bryant Hines, D. H. Conley, and Mike Van Dyke of Rose High. Mrs. Diane Rees represented the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters.

Miss Vonnie Williamson Weds

AYDEN — Miss Vonnie Williamson became the bride of Dennis R. Jones on Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in the Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Norman Ard and the Rev. Kemery Ard. A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Sue Gaskins, organist. Bruce Jones sang "More" and "Whither Thou Goest." Mrs. Norman Ard sang the "Wedding Prayer."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Williamson of Ayden, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of satin with an empire bodice and short puff sleeves. Chantilly lace trimmed the bodice, sleeves and detachable train.

Her headpiece was an illusion veil attached to a cluster of satin flowers and leaves. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Jones of Rt. 6, Greenville.

Miss Pattie Williamson of Ayden, sister of the bride was maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of lavender polyester crepe trimmed with lavender braid. She wore a matching veil and carried a bouquet of white pom pons with lavender satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Jones and Miss Karen Jones, both of Greenville, sisters of the bridegroom. They wore floor length gowns of green polyester crepe styled similar to that of the honor attendant. They wore matching veils and carried bouquets of yellow pom pons tied with green and yellow satin streamers.

MRS. DENNIS R. JONES

The mother of the bride wore a street length blue dress with matching accessories and a white mum corsage. The mother of the bridegroom was dressed in a street length lavender dress with matching accessories and white mum corsage.

Mrs. Dewitt Landen directed the wedding. Miss Donna Briley and Miss Lila Wingate of Ayden presided at the guest register.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Stephen McLawhorn of Ayden, cousin of the bride, Randall Williamson of Ayden, brother of the bride, Ronnie Manning and Rusty Tingen, both of Snow Hill, cousins of the bridegroom.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Copperas Cove, Tex.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Belvoir-Falkland High School and is presently serving in the U.S. Army.

An after-rehearsal party was given by the parents of the bride in the Elm Grove Education Building of the church.

Guests included members of the wedding party, families and close friends.

Assisting were Mrs. Bill Jones, Mrs. William E. McLawhorn, both aunts of the bride, Mrs. Charles Hart, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. J. T. Beddard of Ayden.

Engagement Announced

MISS LINETTE MARIE McKINNEY . . . is the daughter of Mrs. Vicey Marie McKinney of Greenville and the late Mr. Arthur Lee McKinney, who announces her engagement to John Daniel Nicks, son of the Rev. and Mrs. B. B. Nicks of Statesville. The wedding date has not been set.

Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Sherry Myers, bride-to-be of A. J. Stancill, was honored Friday night at a shower at Parkers Chapel Church.

Hostesses were Mrs. William Stancill, mother of the bridegroom-elect, Mrs. Ed Ward and Mrs. Marion Sumerlin, aunts of the bridegroom-elect.

Mrs. Dalton Knox and Miss Linda McGowan received and registered the guests.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of red and yellow mums flanked by two candles on either side.

Mrs. Sumerlin poured punch and Mrs. Ward served cake.

Miss Myers and Mr. Stancill will be married on Dec. 19 in the New Philadelphia Church, Winston-Salem.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ellis of Plymouth announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Louise, to Mack Saunders Leggett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Saunders Leggett of Rt. 2, Williamston. The wedding will take place Nov. 21.

Marriage Announced

MSgt. and Mrs. Jessie R. Nobles of Billerica, Mass., announce the marriage of their daughter, Brenda Kay, of Greenville, to Marvin Douglas Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ross of Ayden, on Saturday.

Frank Answer For Angler Mother

BLYTHE, England (WNS) — Irene Simpson, 45, took up fishing so that she could join her sons Peter and Michael on weekend outings. Mother became a better angler than the boys, who sponsored her for membership in the North Blyth Sea Anglers Club so that she can compete in the championship contest. Joseph Brooks, the club secretary, announced that women are barred from membership and explained, "It would be embarrassing if she beat the men, wouldn't it?"

Show Your Love, But Not In Public

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote in saying she and her husband were embarrassed by a friend who carried on with his girl friend in public, "kissing, hugging, smooching and what not." She claimed it was bad manners, and you advised, "Tell Loverboy to knock off the love scenes in public."

I think you were both wrong! I see nothing wrong with showing affection in public. If people waited until they had total privacy, there would be very little affection shown. And if children were not exposed to displays of affection, they would grow up without knowing what "love" is.

My father is 57, and Mom is 48, and he has always kissed her whenever he felt like it. It didn't matter if we had company or not. And it wasn't a little peck on the cheek. He'd take her in his arms and really kiss her! And not lightly, and not just once, either. And it's the same today.

Once Mom joked, "You've mussed my hair and smeared my lipstick!" And Dad grabbed her again and said, "Who has a better right?" And that, in my opinion, is the right attitude. RAISED RIGHT

DEAR RAISED: Hold it! I was also raised right, having seen my father hug and kiss my mother, plus giving her an occasional affectionate whack on the backside. But good taste demands limits. And limits we had in our house. Kids grow up knowing what "love" is without having seen it demonstrated thru to the last act.

DEAR ABBY: George and I have been dating regularly and we really get along very well, but he has one habit which drives me up a wall!

When we eat together, before he even TASTES the food, George gets busy with the salt and pepper, and he really lays it on! He does this when we are eating at my home, at the homes of others, or when we're eating out.

Now, Abby, I pride myself on being a pretty good cook, and I know how to season food properly, and I feel insulted when I see him add salt and pepper before he even knows if the food needs it or not.

Can I come right out and tell George it's bad manners? Or should I just ask him to cut it out because it irritates me? I have even thought of making a stew and drowning it in salt and pepper just to teach him a lesson. What is your advice? GEORGE'S LADYFRIEND

DEAR LADYFRIEND: Why waste good food? Simply tell George to please taste the food first, and then if he thinks it needs more salt and pepper to add it. [P. S. And if this is George's biggest fault, you're a lucky lady.]

DEAR ABBY: I am only 20 years old and I am married to a guy who can't get enough sleep. We've been married for two years and he's been this way for the last year, and he's getting worse. I used to have to start begging him on Thursday to take me out on Saturday night. Now it's such a chore I don't even bother. I just sit and watch the Saturday night movie on TV all by myself while he sleeps.

As for sex, he can take it or leave it alone, but he mostly leaves it alone. Is this normal for a 23-year-old guy? I still get whistled at when I walk down the street, so I know it's not ME!

He told me he had a physical at the plant where he works and he came out A-O. K. Please tell me how I can wake up this Rip Van Winkle? RIP'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It is not normal for a 23-year-old man to be so disinterested in sex. And anyone who sleeps as much as your husband should wake up and get a thoro going over by another doctor. Don't let him put it off. It could be serious.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

May Not For May Tickle

ZURICH, Switzerland (WNS) — May Berman, 27, has her husband's permission to use her maiden name on her job as hostess and language interpreter. "I just married a man named Robert Tickle, and I don't want men to get the wrong idea by reading May Tickle on the name plate on my desk."

GRAPE JELLY MUFFINS

The jelly adds a surprise!

¼ cup butter
1¾ cups unsifted flour, stir to aerate before measuring
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup milk
¼ cup grape jelly

Melt butter; set aside to cool. In a medium mixing bowl thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. In a small mixing bowl, beat egg slightly; beat in milk and butter; add to flour mixture and stir quickly and lightly just until dry ingredients are moistened. Spoon 1 tablespoon batter into each of 12 well-greased 1-3rd-cup capacity muffin cups spreading batter to cover bottom of cup. Add 1 teaspoon grape jelly placing it directly in the center of batter. Cover grape jelly with remaining batter. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until golden brown—20 to 25 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12.

Full Fire Protection Is Ahead

A group of small Pitt County communities are working to form a fire department which will cover the last area in the county presently without adequate fire protection.

Gardnerville, Clayroot, Honolulu, Coxville and Stokestown residents have received an incorporation authority to establish a rural fire department.

This will be the 18th rural fire department for the county and it will perform the same valuable service that the other fire departments have given to other areas of the county.

The work of all the departments is coordinated through the county fire marshall's office; however, all of the rural firemen are volunteers.

Over the past few years we have seen county fire protection grow from almost nothing to the point where nearly the entire county is covered. With the establishment of the department in Gardnerville full coverage of the county should be a fact.

The Responsibility Is Not For Youth Alone

Dr. Leo Jenkins has cited the responsibilities that students must assume to go along with recently won rights.

"I believe we have reached the point where students must become more aware that the recent removal of restraints and the extension of participating opportunities carry with them corresponding responsibilities not only to help shape the university's mission and program but to carry them out," Jenkins said in a recent talk. "It is one thing to be a reformer; quite another to be a constructive, persistent and faithful implementor of those reforms. The student now bears for the first time a heavy long-term responsibility."

Pretty good advice for students, but it can also be applied to all citizens. Freedom carries with it the responsibility of not abusing the rights of others. In a free society the human spirit can grow because we shoulder the responsibilities that go with freedoms.

Dark Horse In Young Voters

By BRYAN HAISLIP

A dark horse in the '72 elections could influence the outcome of every race.

Not a candidate but a voter, the dark horse is the 18-20 age segment of the electorate going to the polls for the first time.

The metaphor for the newly-enfranchised youth vote was used by Dr. James H. Bearden, dean of the school of business at East Carolina University.

Political parties and politicians are simply in the dark about the directions in which this untested force is likely to move, he explained. Will significant numbers take the necessary first step of registration? Then, will there be the motivation for them to vote? If so, will they split along the lines of adult participation or display a streak of independence?

While furor about the youth vote has centered on college campuses, the deciding voice for the answers lies in the high school, Dr. Bearden claimed.

Where They Are

Of the 314,000 newly enfranchised voters, he said, an estimated 100,000 are 18-year-olds in high school and 112,805 are in college, with the remainder at work, in military service, or elsewhere than in school.

Another 104,000 citizens now 17 years old figure in the picture. It's estimated that half of them will reach their 18th birthday before Nov. 6, 1972, the general election date, and thus will be eligible to vote in the spring primaries as well.

That means a total of 152,000 Tar Heels in the high school age range — half again as many as the new voters in college — can participate in the '72 elections.

"The number of newly eligible voters in high schools alone in North Carolina exceeds the margin by which the incumbent U.S. Senator and the incumbent governor were elected during their last race," Dr. Bearden told a high school audience recently.

Youth Holds Balance

"You hold a balance of power. You put a whole new set of pressures on the incumbent and the challengers."

Those running already are sensitive to the dark horse's tramping feet.

Candidates had key roles last month when the adjourned session of the General Assembly authorized absentee ballots for the primary next spring, and moved the voting day back to Saturday. Both actions were aimed at making it convenient for young people to exercise the ballot privilege.

Sen. Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles, Jr. of Guilford and Lt. Gov. H. P. (Pat) Taylor, Jr., both seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, helped the bills through the Senate. Rep. Allen Barbee of Nash, a Democrat aspiring for lieutenant governor, and Rep. Jim Holshouser of Watauga, Republican hopeful for governor, were active for the cause in the House.

Non-legisative candidates, it should be noted, were vocal in urging the changes in the interest of the youth vote.

Sen. Phil Kirk, Rowan Republican and the state's junior lawmaker, claimed his party gave the catalyst for enactment of the legislation although he acknowledged its non-partisan nature.

Whether Republicans get more than campaign rhetoric out of it remains to be seen.

Parents' Party Preferred

A 1966 Michigan study cited by Dr. Bearden showed three-fourths of high school seniors expressed the same party preference as their parents. North Carolina registration is four-to-one Democratic.

Also, party affiliation determines participation in the primary, and the Democrats have the kind of contests going likely to intrigue the younger set.

The youth vote, lacking labels, could bring a sharper focus to campaign issues, Dr. Bearden told high school students.

"You are a tough audience for the candidates — tough in the sense that it is difficult to appeal to you. Your economic status is yet to be decided; your career option is still in the formative states. In other words, the 'young people vote' does not represent the typical special interest group such as the farm vote, the teacher vote, the labor vote, and the like.

"The promise of one piece of legislation or one piece of pie does not interest you — you can ask about the whole pie — the whole spectrum of issues."

The dark horse is in the stall; getting it to the gate requires a massive registration drive. High school students, as the dominant group, out to take leadership in doing so, Dr. Bearden advised.

HHH Ambush In California

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

LOS ANGELES — The still-secret decision by California's most powerful black politician to support Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey for President is part of a swiftly changing Democratic climate here which carries potential menace for front-running Sen. Edmund S. Muskie.

Visiting California last weekend, Muskie set aside time to chat with State Sen. Mervyn Dymally of Los Angeles, the most potent political leader in southern California's big Negro community. But, in fact, Dymally — still steaming over Muskie's statement against a Negro Vice President — had already decided to back Humphrey.

Dymally's prospective endorsement means Humphrey, having cornered important Jewish money here and collected unpublicized endorsements among state legislators, has shown his first progress toward mass support against Muskie in next June's vital California primary. Thus, Muskie has squandered away the unequalled opportunity to wrap up California over the past nine months when he had no serious opposition.

Now, however, Humphrey has suddenly emerged here as a full-blown candidate carrying a June ambush for Muskie. If Muskie cannot clinch the nomination by winning early primaries (which remains a quite realistic prospect) he cannot count on California positively to recoup losses elsewhere. Among all high-population industrialized states, California is now Muskie's weakest.

Humphrey seems viable in California whereas few key Democrats take him seriously elsewhere mainly because of one tenacious Humphreyite: Eugene Wyman, the high-powered Beverly Hills lawyer and prodigious fund-raiser. Wyman long ago separated Muskie from big Jewish money sources here and reserved them for Humphrey. More recently, he has been moving quietly in political circles.

Wyman recruited political professional Joseph Cerrell, who had been offered a job in the Muskie operation, to run a statewide Humphrey campaign. Wyman helped get the still-unannounced endorsement of state Assembly majority leader Walter Karabian, leaning toward Muskie earlier this year but now to become Humphrey's southern California chairman. And Wyman, significantly, is a longtime ally of Sen. Dymally.

Moreover, Wyman has short-circuited Muskie support. Muskie men here complain that State. Sen. George Moscone, senate majority leader, was ready to endorse Muskie until Wyman intervened. Their theory: Moscone, one of many 1974 candidates for governor, was not about to alienate Wyman-connected money.

Nevertheless, Muskie's leaders insist that Wyman's Humphrey Campaign is topheavy with fat cats and second-rank politicians with no grass roots underpinning. In truth, public enthusiasm for Humphrey is as invisible in California as elsewhere. The Muskie assessment that the biggest threat comes from Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, not Humphrey, has a sound basis.

That's why Dymally's prospective endorsement of Humphrey eclipses all the others. California polls reveal the huge lead among Democrats by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (who will not enter the primary) is built on

Strength For Today

WE MUST FACE IT

This matter of habit-forming drugs is growing into such monstrous proportions that we will either control it or addiction may control us or our loved ones.

Most of us believe that medicine prescribed by a doctor performs real service. Others maintain that the need for medicine is an illusion.

But everyone knows that a habit-forming drug prescribed not to alleviate pain or cure illness is an evil of such proportions that we stand aghast in its presence. The soft drugs that only have a slight effect will lead to the use of hard drugs that constitute bondage.

Drug abuse in our high schools today, in social clubs, is leading to the use of drugs that will destroy life. Yes, aimed at your children and the children of every one of us. The little becomes great. The thrill grows into an addiction. Something must be done about this, and you and I are the people that must do it. Law can handle some aspects of the situation but not all. The concerned parent, the wise teacher, the informed specialist who can explain drug addiction in all its tortuous evils — these are probably the most effective factors in this awful situation.

No, we are not making a mountain out of a mole hill. We are sounding the trumpet, we are calling to all who will listen. The word "fix" has a definite meaning to the drug addict. It has to us, also. We are "in a fix" the like of which our nation has never before experienced.

God give us wisdom, power, commitment.

The Unthinkable Is Here

WASHINGTON — It had to come sooner or later. The unthinkable has become thinkable. The U.S. Navy is asking for ONE BILLION DOLLARS to build ONE aircraft carrier.

No one thought it would happen for five years, but when the word got out there was jubilation in all the military services at the Pentagon.

An Army general said, "I never thought the Navy would have the guts to ask for it, but now that they've broken the sound barrier, we're all free to ask for a billion dollars for our favorite weapon."

"Then you're not mad at the Navy for asking for that kind of money for an aircraft carrier?" I asked.

"Why should we be mad?" the general answered. "We've been piddling around with $100 million here, $100 million there on a new piece of hardware, when everyone knows you really can't get a bang for a buck less than a billion.

"But we didn't know how Congress would react until the Navy asked for the billion for a carrier. It didn't faze them in the least, so now if the Navy can get a billion for an aircraft carrier, we can get a billion for something we've wanted to build for some time."

"What is that?"

"It's a giant tank," he said, "and it takes up eight football fields. It's the greatest advance in military hardware since the invention of the Gatling gun."

"A billion dollars for one tank?"

"It's not just a tank, you

fool," the general said. "Look at this model. The top of the tank is flat so bombers can take off and land on it. On the sides you have missiles and in the front and rear you have four 16-inch guns."

"But even with all those things it doesn't seem as if it would cost a billion dollars."

"Aha, that's the surprise," he chuckled. "You see this here on the bottom?"

"It looks like a keel."

"Exactly. This is a floating nuclear airborne tank, something the U.S. Army cannot do without."

"But it looks just like an aircraft carrier," I said.

The general took the model away angrily. "How can it look like an aircraft carrier?" he said. "It's painted brown!"

The Air Force was also celebrating the Navy's billion-dollar breakthrough. An Air Force colonel in research and development showed me the latest plane the Air Force wants to build.

"This is the greatest bomber ever designed by man," he said. "It flies at 60,000 feet, floats on water and can cut its way through a jungle so silently that not even birds can hear it."

"But it looks like a tank," I

Other Editors Say Flee Paradise

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

Fidel Castro's decision to terminate the exodus of Cubans to the U.S. raises some interesting questions. Even though these "freedom flights" are financed by the U.S., Castro has evidently decided that too many people in his Caribbean paradise are thirsting for the inflation, unemployment, racial conflict and other general unpleasantness of mainland United States.

Since November, 1965, when an agreement was reached with Cuba, some 250,000 Cubans have elected to choose life in the U.S. via twice-daily five-day-a-week flights. Apparently this is just too many Cubans for Castro who once grandly announced that Cuba would be glad, if not proud, to get rid of those countrymen who had shown disdain for the Marxist regime he had inaugurated.

Castro's regime has declared that once it processes the last 1,000 Cubans now awaiting shipment to the U.S., it is lowering the boom. It is clear that more Cubans than Castro had ever imagined are disenchanted with his utopia. It would be interesting to learn whether the U.S. radical youngsters who used to volunteer to harvest his sugar cane have dwindled in numbers.

In any case, Castro's decision bodes no good for those who must remain under Communist restraints in his dictatorship. These are facts which American leftists selectively ignore. The Castro decision and their Berlin Wall reveal the unwillingness of Marxist regimes to allow their victims the freedom to escape them; yet this is the brand of unfreedom which American leftists would import here.

Surcharge Doesn't Halt Japan

By ELMER ROESSNER

The 10 per cent surcharge on imports and negotiated quotas on certain goods are hurting business and threatening unemployment in Japan. Nevertheless, Japanese imports continue to be a problem for American business and American workers.

ITEM: The Treasury has begun an investigation of charges that Japan is dumping deflection yokes used in television sets in the United States at less than fair value. A total of $1.25 million worth was imported into the U.S. in the first six months of this year.

ITEM: The Treasury has also ordered customs to hold up imports of asbestos-cement pipe from Japan pending determination of whether it is being imported in violation of the Anti-Dumping Act.

ITEM: Seven U.S manufacturers of welded stainless steel pipe have complained to the Treasury that Japan is dumping such pipe in the U.S., noting that imported pipe has gained 23 per cent of the market.

Jobs Exported

ITEM: The Labor Department has certified 400 workers at the Shreveport, La., plant of Libby-Owens-Ford as eligible for adjusted assistance as a result of being laid off because of imports of sheet glass. All were laid off because of a plant shutdown resulting from competition of glass from Japan, and will get paid while learning a new trade. Several other sheet glass plants have been shut down.

ITEM: Workers laid off at the Conover-Cable Piano plant at Oregon, Ill., have been similarly certified. Several other piano factories have curtailed operation because of Japanese imports.

ITEM: About 500 workers from the Whittier Mills at Atlanta were certified for similar assistance a few days ago. The mill, which made coarse sheeting, was closed in May because of competition of Japanese imports.

There have been many other closings in the textile field because of imports from Japan and also from Taiwan, Hong Kong and many other low-wage countries.

In Electronics

The electronics situation is also serious. A large part of American television, radio and other electronic sets and components are being made in Japan, Taiwan and Mexico. This could result in a critical situation if war should ever cut off imports of components, many of which are used in military equipment.

It's a complicated matter. If tariffs and quotas should cut Japanese imports to a trickle Japan, lacking dollars, would be forced to cut purchases of farm, mine and forest products in the U.S., creating as much unemployment, perhaps, as it would cure.

And the Japanese, Chinese and others bear no guilt for the export of employment from America. American corporations, pressed by rising wages, have encouraged low-wage countries to produce goods at low cost. Many of the plants in low-wage areas have been built with American money, the workers trained by American technicians, and the enterprises partly owned by American corporations.

Women See Addiction Up

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Pennsylvania physician says the number of women addicted to narcotics during their childbearing years "has more than tripled in the past five years."

Dr. James F. Connaughton of the University of Pennsylvania Hospital called for "total care in all addicted mothers" in a report to the clinical meeting of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

Connaughton and three colleagues reported on studies comparing heroin addicts who had at least some prenatal care plus drug addition therapy with another group receiving no treatment.

"In the untreated group, the outstanding complication observed was that of low birth weight," the report said. "In the treated group, only three of the 18 mothers delivered babies premature by weight."

All but two of the 18 infants in the untreated group "required some therapy for withdrawal for at least 10 days," the report said, while in the treated group, eight required no therapy at all because the mother had been treated for addiction.

NEW YORK (AP) — Allen Swift, a leading voice specialist in radio and TV commercials, believes his gift of mimicry came from boredom as a child.

Swift daydreamed a lot and populated his dreams with interesting people. He would carry on conversations with all of them. "I had been practicing mimicry all my life so when the opportunity came to use it commercially, I was way out ahead," says Swift.

overwhelming Negro support. The blacks, lukewarm toward Muskie, could decide the primary outcome. Thus, Dymally's endorsement may be a first Humphrey step toward popular backing.

But these possibilities for Humphrey would not exist had Muskie's California campaign been less faltering. Uncommitted Democratic politicians are singularly unimpressed with both candidate and campaign structure.

Small bobbles have become endemic. Visiting San Diego recently, Muskie passed up a meeting with campaign contributors in order to be shouted at by Mexican-American firebrands. He provoked party leaders by cancelling out of a long-scheduled fund-raiser in Los Angeles last month.

And there is the nationwide Muskie campaign trend of over-emphasis toward the left. Much effort has been spent here contesting Sen. George McGovern for the left fringe of the California Democratic party. Partly because of this, the Muskie campaign has given a prominent place to Stephen Reinhardt, California's leftish Democratic national committeeman, at the cost of alienating state legislators (some of whom now are backing Humphrey.)

When 1971 began, the California hopes of Humphrey diehard Wyman seemed ludicrously pathetic against the unstoppable Muskie. The emergence now of a Humphrey campaign accompanied by a perceived Muskie slump raises the possibility of even greater changes between now and June. Sen. Muskie might be well advised to have the nomination pinned down before voting day comes in California.

Autobahn Is A Nightmare For Drivers

By JOHN O. KOEHLER
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — If you think driving on the Los Angeles Freeway or the Long Island Expressway on a Friday night is hard on the nerves, try the Autobahn in West Germany.

Bumper-to-bumper traffic zooming along without a speed limit is almost normal. It's almost like playing Russian Roulette with all the chambers loaded.

But the West Germans are prepared. Every few miles along the four-lane super highway, there are aid stations. On weekends, business for the emergency surgeons is especially good. They have portable operating rooms that can be driven or airlifted by helicopter to the scene of a particularly bad wreck within minutes and the surgeon goes to work on the side of the road.

Volunteer patrolmen of the automobile club roar along the road on their yellow motorcycles ready to offer assistance and police in white uniforms driving white Porsches look out for the particularly flagrant violators.

But there is no speed limit and if you have an Opel that can do only 70 miles an hour, you'd better watch for the blinking lights of the Mercedes that hog the road at speeds of 95 or more.

Automobile accidents in 1970 caused more than 19,000 deaths and a half-million injuries. The year before, more than 16,500 motorists were killed and injuries amounted to more than 470,000.

With 89,861,000 cars and 19,138,000 trucks registered in the United States, the National Safety Council recorded 54,800 highway deaths in 1970. There were two million injuries.

The latest count by the Ministry of Transport showed 17 million automobiles registered, one for every four West Germans. Joining the 17 million cars on the roads are 1.1 million trucks.

This leads at times to mammoth traffic jams, especially during the summer vacation months, when thousands of Scandinavians, Belgians and Dutchmen head for the sunny shores of southern Europe. The Autobahns are the major north-south routes.

The worst nationwide traffic jam in history occurred last July 31. The country's newspapers reported it with boldface headlines as if West Germany had been struck by a major catastrophe.

"An avalanche of tin rolls southward," reported the mass circulation Bildzeitung.

The tieup was caused when schools closed in north Germany and the giant Volkswagen works with 140,000 workers shut down for summer vacation.

The death toll for that one day along the 2,800 miles of super highways was recorded at 50 and police said 180 persons were seriously injured. There were 830 accidents.

The West German government has periodically considered a speed limit for all highways. This was rejected, however, because it was feared that cutting the speeds now would lead to immense congestions because of the lack of main roads.

Present planning by the Bonn government calls for more than 17,000 miles of additional major highways, to be completed by 1985.

In the meantime, Transport Minister Georg Leber has announced that he would ask parliamentary approval to establish a 62 m.p.h. speed limit for all two-lane highways and country roads.

But the majority of West German drivers still are against all speed limits.

Holding Charter Banquet Friday

The newly organized Greenville Luncheon Optimist Club will have a charter banquet Friday at 7 p.m. at the Moose Lodge here.

The club was organized by past president, Bob Stewart, and is sponsored by the Evening Optimist Club of Greenville. The new president, Gene Brown, will accept the charter, bell, and gavel.

Guest speaker will be Bob Howe, past State Optimist Club governor. Many out-of-town guests and dignitaries will attend, including Leon Carlisle, State Optimist Club lieutenant governor.

The new club's regular meeting time will be Wednesdays at 1 p.m. at Parker's Barbecue Restaurant.

Nixon Symbolically Starts Re-Election Campaign

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — President Nixon has launched his 1972 campaign symbolically but unofficially with a tribute for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. But he stopped well short of promising Agnew a place on the Republican ticket.

Appearing at Republican fund-raising dinners in New York and Chicago Tuesday night, Nixon also called for renewal of the embattled foreign aid program.

And in Chicago he defended his decision to go ahead with last Saturday's Amchitka nuclear test as being vital to national security. Noting the test had been challenged by many environmentalists, he said:

"Unless we have an adequate program to defend the United States, we won't have any environment to protect."

Nixon and Agnew made one of their rare joint appearances at the Chicago dinner, where the President noted that Agnew was celebrating his 53rd birthday, and said:

" ... This country is fortunate in having as its vice president a man who is loyal, a man who is courageous, and a man who is competent in handling his duties at home, and a man who with great dignity and great ability has represented America in 25 countries since he has been vice president."

Nixon made no mention of Agnew's political future, the subject of recurrent speculation. But for that matter, neither did the President acknowledge his own anticipated role as head of the 1972 GOP ticket.

In Atlanta, Sen. Barry Goldwater said Agnew should not and will not be replaced as Nixon's running mate.

"If I had to guess right now, I'd have to guess Agnew was more popular in the Republican party than Mr. Nixon," Goldwater told a news conference.

The senator from Arizona, 1964 GOP presidential standard-bearer, was in Atlanta for one of the 18 nationwide Republican dinners connected by closed-circuit television with the $500-a-plate Chicago and New York gatherings.

Agnew told diners in Chicago that the occasion marked the proper time "to launch a united effort to urge a great President to seek a second term."

The vice president also called for the election of a Republican-controlled Congress in 1972.

Within four hours, Nixon appeared at two "Salute to the President" dinners 1,000 miles apart and spoke via closed-circuit television to GOP contributors in 18 other cities.

The exercise—"cross-country heartburn," master of ceremonies Bob Hope termed it—was part of an effort to raise $5 million for the party's war chest.

The symbolic inaugural of Nixon's re-election campaign was underscored by Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the Republican national chairman, who appeared with him both in New York and Chicago.

"This will be our launching pad," said Dole, who predicted the GOP theme next year would be "peace and prosperity."

Nixon referred to the series of dinners as "the biggest event of its kind" to be sponsored by either major political party in a nonelection year.

The President, however, soft-pedaled partisanship, except when chiding the Democratic-controlled Congress, and talked about a nonpartisan agenda for the country.

His defense of foreign aid was more pointed in New York, perhaps because he departed frequently from his notes in the two cities he visited.

In New York he said:

"There are no constituencies for foreign aid. We know that. But let us recognize this: If the United States at this particular time should determine that it will discontinue its programs of mutual assistance for countries abroad ... it can only mean that the world will become much more unstable, that the dangers of war in the world will greatly increase and that the United States will no longer be a world power."

About 1,400 attended each of the dinners at which Nixon spoke.

Initial Sermon Scheduled For Sunday Evening

Collins Lenward Kornegay of Ayden will preach his initial sermon Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at New Convenant Temple Holy Church, Grifton.

Kornegay is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Collins Earl Kornegay of Ayden.

A 1971 graduate of South Ayden High School, Kornegay was valedictorian of his senior class. He is a student at East Carolina University.

He presently serves as chairman of the Tract Porgram for the New Bern District Evangelistical Crusade, and a 1971 recipient of the New Bern District Scholarship.

He serves as musician for various churches in the Grifton, Greenville and Vanceboro areas.

Castro Planning Visit Hungary

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba has accepted an invitation to visit Hungary, according to Havana radio.

The invitation was extended by a visiting Communist party official from Hungary, Nichol Jastay, according to a broadcast monitored here Tuesday.

The date of the visit is to be set at a mutually convenient time.

Open To All

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina adjutant Gen. Ferd L. Davis says his recruitment policy for the National Guard has always been to "obtain the best men available without regard to ethnic considerations."

Davis said in a statement Tuesday a statewide recruiting campaign is under way this week to "assure residents of all communities that Guard membership is open to the members of all races without regard to ethnic origin."

Davis said blacks constitute less than 1 per cent of the statewide Guard membership. He said there would be no change in his basic policy because of last month's Pentagon announcement of plans to double the number of Blacks in the National Guard to 11,964 or 4.6 per cent.

Davis said 100 of 11,559 Tar Heel guardsmen are black. While terming the figure "strikingly low," he said it was probably higher than the percentage of blacks in Raleigh civic clubs.

Inviting Over 100 Firms Join Jobs-For-Vets Fair

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

More than one hundred businesses, industries, manufacturers and firms from ten eastern North Carolina counties will be receiving invitations to consider participation in the Jobs For Veterans Fair to be held early in December at Greenville's National Guard Armory.

Originally scheduled for Greenville and Pitt County, members of Mayor S. Eugene West's Job For Veterans Task Force have decided that the fair would serve a more useful purpose and reach a larger number of veterans and employers by expanding the scope to include a complete representative cross section of potential emploters located in counties adjacent to Pitt.

Firms and business in the ten counties that will be invited to take part in the forthcoming Jobs For Veterans Fair and the county in which they are located are:

— Beaufort County — Edinburg Industries, J. A. Hackney and Son, National Spinning Company, Scovill Manufacturing Company — Hamilton Beach Division, and Texas Gulf Sulphur Company.

—Craven County — Arant Lumber Company, Azalea Meats Corporation, Barbour Boats Works, Maola Milk and Ice Cream Comany, New Bern Shipyards, Sagner, Inc. — Plant 4, Stanley Power Tools — Division of Stanley Works, and Weyerhaeuser Company.

Edgecombe County — Abbott Laboratories, Anaconda Wire and Cable Company, Black and Decker Manufacturing Company, Burlington Industries, Carolina Enterprises, Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, Gleniot Mills, Independent Tobacco Services Corporation, Liggett and Meyers Tobacco Company, Long Manufacturing Company, Mayo Knitting Mills, Phoenix Works, Planters Industries, and Runnymede Mills.

—Greene County — J. P. Stevens and Company.

—Lenoir County — Albain Shirt Company, Austin Carolina Company, E.I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, Glen Raven Cotton Mills, — Plant 2, Hammary Manufacturing Corporation — Plant 2, Hardy and Newson, J and R Shirt Company, Kinston Shirt Company, and Texfi Industries.

— Martin County — Beaunit Mills, Central Soya of Robersonville, Jefferson Mills, W.I. Skinner and Company, Weyerhaeuser Company, and Williamston Plywood Corporation.

— Nash County — Amercian Bakeries Company, Burlington Industries — Drapery Plant, Burlington Industries — Finishing Plant, Burlington Industries — Weaving Plant, China American Tobacco Company, Hardee's Food Systems, W. B. Lea Tobacco Company, Quality Textiles, Rocky Mount Cord Company, Rocky Mount Instruments, Rocky Mount Mills, A. Schottland, Inc., Superior Cable Corporation, Thorpe and Ricks, Inc., and Ward Baking Company.

— Pitt County — Collins and Aikman Corporation, International Paper Company, Florence Mayo Company, A.C. Monk and Company, Inc., Blount Fertilizer Company, Inc., Burroughs Wellcome and Company, Carolina Dairy Products, Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company, Coastal Chemical Corporation, Cox Rebuilders, Inc., The Daily Reflector, Inc., Empire Brush, Inc., Fieldcrest Mills, Morgan Printers, National Boat Works, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, Union Carbide Consumer Products Company, Vermont American Corporation, Cox Trailers and Campers, and Winterville Machine Works.

— Wayne County — Barry of Goldsboro, Boling Chair Company, Borden Manifacturing Company, Burlington Industries, Coble Dairy Products Cooperative, Dewey Brothers, Franklin Baking Company, General Electric Company, Hevi-Duty Electric Division, Kemp Furniture Company, Lori Manufacturing Corporation, Murray Corporation, J. P. Stevens and Company, and J. P. Taylor Company.

— Wilson County — Alton Box Board Company, Blue Bell, Inc., Burlington Industires, Carolina Fiberglass Products Company, Export Leaf Tobacco Company, Food Processors, Inc., Goshen Rubber Company, Hackney Brothers Body Company, Imperial Tobzcco Company, Ltd., James I. Miller Tobacco Company, and Tobacco Processors, Inc.

While planners do not necessarily expect each of the more than 100 firms and industires receiving an invitation to find it feasible to participate this time, they have expressed the hope that a sizeable percentage will be able to send a representative to talk to veterans about job possibilities and requirements needed for employment.

In initial stage of planning, a preliminary plan called for the erecting of booths within the National Gurad Armory. However, with expansion of the area to be covered, plans are now being developed to arrange a series of tables for use by each firm or business who will agree to be represented at the Job for Veterans Fair.

Group To Sing At Ass'n Convention

The East Carolina University Chamber Singers will leave Greenville Thursday night to perform at the Southern Division American Choral Director Association Convention.

On Saturday, November 13, at 9:00 a.m., the Chamber Singers are scheduled to perform the Laud to the Nativity by Ottorino Respighi. The composition has roles for three soloists and an instrumental ensemble.

Dr. Paul A. Aliapoulios, conductor of the Chamber Singers, said, "We are extremely honored to have been selected to perform at the convention." Selection of three groups to perform at the convention was made by judges who listened to audition tapes in the spring of 1971. The other two groups invited to attend and perform are the University Chorale of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, and the Florida State Chamber Singers.

ECU' Chamber Singers, comprising 22 vocalists and an instrumental ensemble, are selected for membership in the organization by audition.

Instrumentalists are Nancy Neidlinger and Ron Rudkin, flute; Eugene Isabelle, oboe; Randy Robinson, English horn; Beverly Ervine and Craig Mills, bassoon; and Robert Sullivan and Brett Watson, piano.

Vocalists are: soprano — Cheryl Berry, Debbie Johnson, June Laine, Jan Laurents, Sheila Marlowe, Debbie Stokes. Tenor — Jerry Cribbs, Jim Gutekunst, Jim Powers, Charles Townsend, Gene Yeargin. One-Room School Seen Step To Modern Education

By ED ROWLAND
Associated Press Writer

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — Residents of isolated Ocracoke Island see their new one-room school as a step into modern education, not a step backwards in time.

All of the island's 68 school-age youngsters attend grades one through 12 in the new $100,000 juniper wood structure. The building has a central, common-use room and alcoves on four sides.

The faculty of five, including principal John R. Tucker, thinks its ungraded concept is an indication of progress.

Visitors, Tucker says, see confusion, "but there is a pattern of formality. It's taken the first few weeks to get accustomed to it."

Until last spring Ocracoke youngsters went to a five-room, frame school. There was one teacher for each three grades.

Now the 27 pupils in the first seven grades are in one area with two teachers, while the older youths are taught in two groups by three teachers.

Ocracoke's isolation has always limited the education of island youngsters. The sandy strip of land lies 75 miles off the North Carolina coast, across Pamlico Sound from the Hyde County seat of Swan Quarter.

The 540 persons who live on the four-mile-long island can reach the mainland only by ferry.

Scott Coble, Hyde County schools superintendent, said one parent told him his 9-year-old son had to be almost driven to school before the new building was erected, but this year he can't keep him away.

"In this situation it's the only way to go. Ocracoke is being brought up to date, really," Coble said.

"One large room in the center is the library. Around it are the classrooms. Students are free to move from the general room to the others to study, use audiovisual aids and the like," Tucker said.

He gave this explanation of study for pupils above the elementary grades:

A pupil selects the courses he is interested in, then selects material to be used from the school's collections.

The pupil and his teacher go over the program, make any adjustments necessary to comply with state rules, then list objectives to be reached within an agreed time limit.

"He and the teacher review the work at times to keep it on the track. If the objectives are accomplished within the period or ahead of time, the pupils is entitled to free time to read on related subjects," the principal said.

Tucker said there is much more guidance in the elementary grades.

New Surcharge On Imports Is Money-Raiser

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 10-per-cent import surcharge is proving to be a productive money-raiser, bringing $99 million into the Treasury in its first 45 days of life, it has been learned.

The surcharge might have brought in much more had the government not exempted about $1.5 billion worth of imports either en route to the United States or tied up by a dock strike when President Nixon imposed the levy Aug. 15.

The administration has officially estimated the surcharge would bring in about $2.1 billion in revenue if maintained on imports for an entire year. The surtax applies only to dutiable imports not covered by mandatory quotas.

The $99 million collected from Aug. 16 to Sept. 30 falls short of that estimated annual pace, possibly because of the huge one-time exemption on imports in transit and because of the uncertainty that followed imposition of the tax.

Officials say the uncertainty may have caused some importers to hold back on shipments until it was cleared up.

The Treasury plans to release later this week a breakdown showing that the surtax by itself is hardly enough to achieve the $13-billion balance-of-payments-deficit turnaround sought by the Nixon administration. The administration has said the surcharge will be lifted when there are assurances the deficit can be erased.

But it is proving a powerful economic tool, collectable quickly, and apparently achieving its purpose of boosting the price of foreign goods coming into the country. It could be said that the surcharge increased the price of imported goods by $99 million from Aug. 16 to Sept. 30.

The surcharge can be legally passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices despite the price freeze.

Nixon imposed the surcharge and announced the United States would no longer redeem dollars for gold, thus floating the dollar against other currencies, as part of his economic plan announced Aug. 15.

The two moves are designed to achieve upward revaluation of currencies and convince the nation's major trading partners that trade barriers should be dismantled.

File Atomic Plant Data

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission has received supplemental environmental reports from Carolina Power & Light Co. on two nuclear power stations.

Pat Howe, CP&L's manager for environmental services, said Tuesday copies were delivered by truck to the AEC in Bethesda, Md.

"We worked 18 hours a day on these reports," he said. The reports cover a broader range of environmental impact than was first considered by the AEC when construction and operating licenses were issued to electric utilities.

A spokesman for Duke Power Co. said a supplemental report on the Oconee nuclear station near Clemson, S.C., was filed last month with the AEC "to get ahead of the thundering herd."

The CP&L reports covered the Robinson No. 2 nuclear unit at Hartsville, S.C., and the uncompleted Brunswick station near Southport.

Amended AEC regulations were issued after the U.S. appellate court in Washington ruled last summer that the agency interpretation of the National Environmental Policy Act was unacceptable.

"We don't anticipate any amendment or abridging of our permits," Howe said.

Trumans Voted On Tax Levy

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President and Mrs. Harry S. Truman cast their ballots Tuesday in the city's school tax election.

The 87-year-old Truman sat in his car across from the polling place and a ballot was brought to him. Mrs. Truman voted inside the building. The clerk said she inquired about the turnout and expressed pleasure to learn 222 persons had voted by the time she arrived.

In the election voters for the third time this year—and the seventh time over-all—defeated a proposal to increase the school property tax levy by 95 cents. Schools have been closed since Nov. 1 because school officials said they lacked funds to pay teachers.

Italians and Germans drink an average of 16 quarts of bottled water a year.

Denies Dressing Just For Shock

LONDON (AP) — Sonia McMahon, the 39-year-old blonde wife of the Australian prime minister, says people are wrong if they say she dresses to shock.

Mrs. McMahon said it was her 63-year-old husband William who picked out the stunning white dress with ankle-to-thigh slit that caused a stir at a White House reception last week.

"I don't see it as part of my job to try and brighten up the political scene with glamorous dresses," Mrs. McMahon said Tuesday. "I bought the dress I wore at the White House after my husband and I saw it in a Sydney shop window and he said he liked it."

The McMahons are now in London, where the Australian leader is having talks with the British government.

Pitt Alumni Hear Duke President Tell Changes

Members of the Pitt County Chapter of the Duke Alumni Association heard President Terry Sanford Tuesday night speak about changes at Duke University that have been made under his administration. Sanford was guest speaker at the annual fall meeting of the alumni, held in the South Cafeteria at East Carolina University.

After being introduced by Jasper Smith of Bethel, Sanford mentioned a variety of options available for students at Duke. He described the new semester system, the new summer session program, a variety of residential opportunities, and a deferred tuition program.

A new feature of this year's alumni dinner was the inclusion of Duke students as speakers. President Sanford introduced Jane Goodfellow, a senior from California, who described four new living arrangements at Duke.

Miss Goodfellow said the main advantage of this arrangement is that it "allows for association of men and women students on more than just the rather superficial dating basis."

Tom Drew of Anderson, S. C., described changes made in student government, where the emphasis is now on services to the student rather than legislation.

Sanford stressed the importance of a fully involved student body, "participating at every level of decision-making within the University." He said "Duke's primary business is students, and we are working to see that leadership and creativity are the keynotes of our new programs."

Turning to other changes at Duke, Sanford described some of the innovative programs at the Medical Center, improvements in the Law School, and the recent rating of the Divinity School by Time magazine as one of the top seven seminaries in the nation.

New construction at Duke was discussed, with Sanford listing eight new projects currently underway, including expansion of the Marine Science Lab at Beaufort.

Pitt County Duke Alumni number more than three hundred alumni living in the county. The meeting last evening was the highlight of this year's activity in the area.

Fruitcake Sale Is Begun By Civitans

FIRST FOR 71 — Ben Gibbs (left) president of Greenville Civitan Club, sells the first fruit cake of the annual fruit cake sale to Dan W. Maddox, District Governor of N.C. District East of Civitan International.

The annual Civitan fruit cake sale, for 20 years a harbinger of the coming Christmas season in Greenville, is again underway.

Ben Gibbs, president of Greenville Civitan Club, inaugurated this year's sales by selling the first cake of the season to Dan W. Maddox, District Governor of North Carolina District East of Civitan International. Maddox was in Greenville visiting the local club to assist in the "kick off" of this year's campaign.

Members of the Greenville Civitan Club this week begin selling Claxton fruit cakes, as they have every Christmas season since the project first began in 1952.

Profits from the sale of fruit cakes are used by the Greenville Civitan to help the mentally retarded program locally and nationally. This program is known as "Builders of Good Citizenship." In addition, profits also go to help support the Boys' Club of Greenville-Pitt County, with some financial support going to the Boys' Home at Lake Waccamaw.

Fruit cakes offered by the Civitan Club are Claxton Fruit Cakes baked in Claxton, Georgia. They may be obtained from any Civitan member, from several local businesses or by calling 758-4171 or 752-7055. The cakes come packaged for mailing.

City Counts 2 Accidents

One person was reported injured and an estimated $1,200 property damage caused in two traffic mishaps here yesterday, according to police.

Harold Wayne Ross, 18, of 210 Nichols Dr. was reported injured when the car he was driving collided with an asphalt packer owned by Barrus Construction Co. about 6:30 p.m. on U.S. 264 at the Adams Boulevard intersection.

No charges were made by officers who estimated damage to the Ross car at $700. No damage resulted to the piece of construction equipment, investigators said.

An estimated $250 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 12:05 p.m. collision at the intersection of Chestnut Street and Memorial Drive, officers reported.

Drivers involved in the mishap were identified as Thomas Critcher Rowlett, 45, of 1702 South Elm St. and Willie Allen Roundtree, 19, of Ayden.

Roundtree was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety.

Organizational Meet Thursday

A meeting to organize a Northeastern Tarheel Chapter of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers will be held here tomorrow night.

According to AIIE officials, the meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Beef Barn on the 264 Bypass. They urged the attendance of qualified industrial engineers at the organizational session.

Coed Reports 5th St. Assault

A 23-year-old East Carolina University co-ed, Sylvia Jordon, was allegedly assaulted as she walked along East Fifth Street in front of the Methodist Student Center near the Holly Street intersection about 6:30 p.m. yesterday.

Miss Jordan told police, according to Chief Glenn Cannon, that she was grabbed from behind by a man wearing a toboggan pulled over his forehead.

She screamed and the man ran, Chief Cannon noted.

Investigation of the incident is underway.

Free Concert By Jazz Ensemble

Area jazz fans Thursday will have the East Carolina University Jazz Ensemble performing in its first public concert of the season at 8:15 in Wright Auditorium.

There will be no admission charge.

The 19-member Ensemble, under the direction of jazz trombonist Joe Hambrick, will present a varied program of jazz numbers, ranging from selections reminiscent of the "big band" sound of the forties to more comtemporary renditions in the stlye and tempt of Count Basie.

Featuerd performer of the evening is jazz artist Rich Matteson, noted arranger and soloist on low brass. He has performed and arranged music for Joe Morello, Louis Armstrong, Harry James and Doc Servinsen, and was solo performer at the Kansas City Jazz Festival and in the nationally televised Univeristy of Alabama halftime show.

Matteson will be rehearsing and leading clinics for students in the Jazz Ensemble.

Plan Seminar For Counselors

Representatives from the counseling staff of the North Carolina Advancement School will conduct an inservice training session for Pitt County School Counselors on Friday, November 12.

According to Mrs. Katheryn Lewis, Director of Pupil Personnel Services, the three hour seminar will center around working with under-achievers and slow learners.

Dinner Party For Sorority

Mrs. Edna Branch entertained members of Gamma Delta Sorority and their husbands at a dinner party Thursday night.

The making of paper flowers to be sold Saturday, Nov. 13, at a rummage sale was held. The rummage sale will be held at 1902 Chestnut St. from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Casazza, Kiernan Get Southern Honors

East Carolina University's Pirates pulled off a first this week when it came to the selections of the Southern Conference Players of the Week.

The Bucs went out and got them both. John Casazza was named as the league's top offensive player for the week, while Monty Kiernan grabbed off the defensive honors.

It was the first time this year that both players had gone to the game team, and it marked the second appearance for Kiernan this year, another first. So far he's the only player to have been named twice.

The two starred in East Carolina's come-from-behind-keep-coming-from-behind victory over fired-up Davidson last Saturday afternoon, 27-26.

Casazza set a new East Carolina University single game total offense record in the contest. He finished with 63 yards rushing, unusual for him, and 196 passing, for a total of 259 yards. That broke former star Bill Cline's record of 257 which had stood since 1964.

Casazza's four and 10 touchdown pass to Tim Dameron pulled the Pirates out of the fire with just over two minutes left in the game. But it was his two-point conversion run at the previous touchdown that really sealed it for the Bucs.

Twice during the long touchdown drive that won the game, Casazza had to go to top receiver Tim Dameron for fourth and long situations, and both times the two connected.

Kiernan had another outstanding afternoon in menacing the opposition. He was credited with 19 tackles during the game, and pulled off two fourth quarter interceptions that helped to swing the momentum away from the Wildcats.

Kiernan has consistantly been the outstanding member of the defensive team, drawing the praise of everyone he has played against.

"Both these young men have meant a great deal to our ball club this year," Coach Sonny Randle said.

"John Casazza, a starter last year, appeared in a second team role for our first three ball games. However he battled back into the starting slot and has performed well enough to keep it. This shows what kind of young man he is. A lot of ball players would have become discouraged, but not John Casazza," the coach added.

"I said earlier in the season that Monty Kiernan was possibly the best linebacker in the Southeast. I think his consistantly great performances tend to bear this out. His average of over 19 tackles a game is almost twice the national average. Anyone who has seen him play knows that this average is no fluke. He senses where the ball is going and makes a point of being there."

The two will have their work cut out for them this weekend, however, as they travel with the rest of the Pirates to Tampa, Florida, to meet the Spartans of the University of Tampa, one of the top small-college powers in the nation.

South Edgecombe Bops Bear Grass

BEAR GRASS — South Edgecombe High School swept a pair of games from Bear Grass last night. The girls of Bear Grass fell, 57-15, while the boys were on the short end of an 82-42 score. It was the first games of the season for the Bears.

In the girls game, South Edgecombe shot away from Bear Grass in the opening period, building up a 10-point lead, 16-6. They continued the same pace in the second period as both teams got the same scores they had in the first, leaving South Edgecombe in control, 32-12 at halftime.

Things got no better for the Lady Bears in the second half. In the third period, South Edgecombe outscored them, 12-1, and boosted the lead to 44-13. Then, in the final frame, they dumped Bear Grass, 13-2, to wrap it up.

Nancy Morris and Terry Webb led the South Edgecombe scoring with 10 points each.

The situation didn't change much in the boys game, as South Edgecombe shot away to the same early lead their girls had, 16-6. Bear Grass managed to make a comeback in the second half, dumping in 19 points, but they could cut only one off the South Edgecombe lead, as they got 18. That left South Edgecombe ahead, 34-25.

In the second half, however, South Edgecombe began to pull away again. In the third quarter, they outhit the Bears, 23-12, and pulled away into a 57-37 lead. They then outhit the Bears, 25-5, in the final period to complete the romp.

Douglas Bynum and James Johnson each had 19 points to lead South Edgecombe's scoring. Van Rogerson had 15 points to pace Bear Grass, while Charles Mobley added 10.

The Bears travel to Creswell next Tuesday for their next game.

Crump Fifth In Scoring Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ever since Clayton Deskins of Appalachian State took over the football scoring lead in the Southern Conference, he's been challenged by a player from The Citadel—but it's his good luck the competition changes every now and then.

Running back Bob Carson had been the major contender for the last few weeks, and now the player in pursuit of Deskins is Bulldog split end Brian Baima.

The shift in challengers actually boosted Deskins' lead last weekend, for the Mountaineer ace scored one touchdown for a season total of 12 and 72 points as Appalachian bombed Florence State 59-6.

Baima caught two scoring passes in The Citadel's 21-11 victory at Richmond and moved into the runner-up spot with 10 touchdowns and a 60-point total — four ahead of Carson, who failed to score against the Spiders. Carson has nine touchdowns and a two-point conversion.

Running back Phil Mosser of William and Mary is fourth with nine touchdowns and 54 points after scoring once in the Indians 36-29 defeat at Wake Forest.

Tied for fifth with eight touchdowns and 48 points each are Dennis Cambal of William and Mary, who was blanked, and Carlester Crumpler of East Carolina, who scored twice in the Pirates' 27-26 victory over Davidson.

Quarterback Harry Lynch of The Citadel is seventh with 46 points, followed by William and Mary kicking specialist Mike Dodds with 38 and Mac Bowman of Virginia Military and Johnny Ribet of Davidson with 36 each. Ribet had three touchdowns in the loss at East Carolina.

Joe Torre Easily Whips Stargell In National's Most Valuable Vote

By PAUL LeBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "Over the years I think it's gone to the right player," said Joe Torre, who Tuesday climaxed an 11-season major league baseball career with his selection as the National League's Most Valuable Player.

But, Torre added, "to win it so overwhelmingly is a surprise. You definitely think about it; you know that the voting is done as soon as the season's over. I had a feeling I'd get it."

The 6-foot-1, 200-pound Torre, only the third third baseman to win the award, also became the 10th St. Louis Cardinal to snare an honor Stan Musial won three times.

His margin over runnerup Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the majors' home run king, was 318-222 in balloting points by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Torre received 21 of the committee's 24 first-place votes, Stargell polling the other three. Third place went to the Atlanta Braves' inveterate Hank Aaron.

"What hurt Stargell in voting, I think, was that it was tough to single out a player on Pittsburgh's ball club," the 31-year-old Torre said.

"I never considered this kind of year," said Torre, who batted .363 to lead the majors and had 137 RBI, 230 hits and 352 total bases for other leading marks.

"There is more than one reason for why it happened, I think, but the only thing I was conscious of that was different from any other year was concentration.

"I've never had this kind of concentration," said Torre, who hit safely in 133 of 161 games in which he played. "I think the reason is that I got away from catching. You don't realize it until you get away from it that catching takes so much away."

An All-Star catcher while with the Atlanta Braves eight seasons, Torre called his 1969 trade to the Cards while involved in a salary dispute "like being reborn."

"Over in Atlanta they thought I was a home run hitter," noted Torre, who in 1966 slugged 36 home runs. "I changed when I came over here. A good deal of it had to do with the ball park."

With the Cards, Torre has had RBI totals of 101 in 1969, 100 in 1970 and the 137 of last season, a high total for the club since Johnny Mize equaled the figure in 1937.

Another key to his upswing in batting, he said, was a water diet responsible for the loss of 25 pounds in his playing weight during spring training in 1970. "It made me quicker," he said.

After surging to a .325 batting mark in 1970, Torre was rewarded with a contract for the 1971 season calling for an estimated $115,000.

"I don't think there's going to be any trouble this year," he said in regard to his 1972 pay. "As far as a contract goes, it's secondary to the ball club. When you get to be 31 and going on 32 time is beginning to run out and I've never played for a pennant winner.

"I felt that I could knock in 110 runs with Lou Brock and Matty Alou batting in front of me," said Torre, who produced 21 game-winning RBI and achieved a .566 percentage in driving across runners in scoring position.

"With our club you don't need a home run," said Torre, whose 24 circuit clouts included only nine in Busch Stadium. "To me it's more difficult to hit a single with a man on second base than it is to hit a home run."

Bobby Bonds of San Francisco finished fourth followed by Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente, the Los Angeles Dodgers' Maury Wills and Cy Young Award winner Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs in the MVP balloting.

"I'm very excited, even though I never show emotion," Torre said at a news conference.

Orioles Claim Another Win

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP) — Don Buford stole two bases and batted in three runs as the American League champion Baltimore Orioles shaded Japan's Central League combination of the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants and the Hiroshima Toyo Carp 4-2 today.

Buford's fifth-inning two-run homer broke a scoreless tie and his sharp infield hit in the ninth gave the visitors their fourth run.

After two were out in the top of the fifth, Dave Johnson walked to set the stage for Buford's two-run circuit blast, his fourth in Japan, off the second Japanese hurler, Yoshitaka Kihara.

The Orioles scored their only other tally when Boog Powell singled with two men on in the eighth. Johnson, who had walked and moved to second on another walk by Buford, scampered home from second base.

The Japanese rapped out 11 hits off southpaw Mike Cuellar in 8 1-3 innings. Baltimore was only able to collect five hits off five Japanese hurlers.

Baltimore boosted its record in Japan to nine triumphs against one loss and three ties.

AspromonteNew Indian Manager

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Ken Aspromonte, former Cleveland Indians player and a manager in the Tribe's farm system, has been given the task of trying to turn the Indians around after one of the most dismal seasons in the team's history.

Aspromonte was named manager of the Indians Tuesday at a reported $27,000 salary. He succeeds Johnny Lipon, who was not rehired after finishing the season for Alvin Dark who was fired July 30.

"Any club that lost as many games as the Indians did last season is bound to be down," said Aspromonte. "We're going to work hard on morale and on motivation ... to get the players thinking right again."

The new manager said he plans to spend a lot of time over the winter traveling around the country to talk to members of the team.

The 40-year-old Aspromonte said he is aggressive "and I expect my players to be just as aggressive. I like to win. I have a phobia about losing."

Aspromonte said he "can be tough" and promised a strenuous spring training program starting Feb. 28 at Tucson, Ariz.

The Indians lost 102 games this past season.

Bucks Rally To Edge Phoenix

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Phoenix Suns scared the daylights out of the Milwaukee Bucks, but the National Basketball Association champions prevailed in a fierce struggle that seemed like a playoff game in March.

"Phoenix played a fantastic game, they really wanted this one," said Milwaukee coach Larry Costello Tuesday night after the Bucks had pulled out a 118-113 victory after trailing by seven points at 97-90 early in the last quarter.

It took a 44-point performance by Kareem Jabbar and two key steals by Lucius Allen and Bob Dandridge in the last minute with the Bucks ahead 115-113 for the NBA champions to win their 16th straight on their home court. The score was tied 14 times and the lead changed hands 10 times.

The Golden State Warriors whipped Houston 115-99, Los Angeles downed Chicago 122-109 and Buffalo defeated Portland 109-100 in the other NBA games scheduled.

"The Suns hustled, hit the open man and had an awful lot of layups, particularly in the third quarter," Costello commented.

As for Cotton Fitzsimmons, the Phoenix coach, he said, "Jabbar takes all the fun out of coaching for me. Here we screen, we pick, we pass and all they have to do is throw it to the big safety valve and he drops it in."

"When we were up 97-90, "Fitzsimmons continued. "We let him get the ball too much. And when the pressure was on, our playmaking left something to be desired. The Bucks play with a little more confidence than the Suns when they're behind. I think that was the whole story."

A three-point play by Jabbar tied the score at 106-106 with 4:10 left to play and with 3:38 on the clock a hook by Jabbar put the Bucks ahead for good at 108-106. Connie Hawkins was high for the suns with 28.

Houston, led by Stu Lantz the game's high scorer with 30 points, opened a 15-point bulge in the first half before the Warriors erupted after halftime. Cazzie Russell sparked the rally with 12 points in the third period. He finished with 23.

The victory kept the Warriors on the heels of the first place Lakers in the Pacific Division. Jim McMillian led the Lakers over the Bulls with 28 points. Bob Love topped Chicago with 25.

Elmore Smith, Buffalo's 7-foot rookie, was a major factor in Buffalo's victory over Portland. He grabbed 17 rebounds and blocked 11 shots, in addition to scoring 12 points. Bob Kauffman topped Buffalo scorers with 30 points. Sidney Wicks paced the Trail Blazers with 34 and 12 rebounds.

Coach's Plan Works For Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mark Binstein's "M-plan" is working like magic.

That was evident Tuesday night as Binstein's Pittsburgh Condors beat the Indiana Pacers 133-123 in their American Basketball Association game.

The victory was the Condors' third in four games since Binstein replaced Jack McMahon as coach and boosted their over-all record to 7-7.

Binstein's game plan called for guard George Thompson to play up front against Indiana's forwards, and forwards John Brisker and Stew Johnson to switch to the backcourt against the Pacers' smaller guards.

Thompson led all scorers with 33 points and Brisker followed with 31. Brisker collected 14 points against the mismatch and Johnson got all 16 of his points from his unaccustomed guard position.

Rick Mount paced Indiana with 27 points, while rookie George McGinnis contributed 26 points and a game-high 25 rebounds.

Elsewhere in the ABA, Dallas held off New York 90-86, Kentucky downed Denver 106-96, and Utah edged Memphis 93-90.

Dallas, with the help of Steve Jones' 10 consecutive field goals, built an 81-67 third-quarter lead against New York. But in the final period, the Chaparrals hit on only two of 20 floor shots and scored just nine points. Still, the Nets couldn't catch them.

Jones finished with 22 points. Rick Barry was high for New York with 24, and Bill Melchionni added 22.

Kentucky overcame a 54-44 Denver halftime lead by scoring 16 straight points in the first four minutes of the third period, then watched the Rockets pull even at 60-60 before going ahead to stay on Lou Dampier's three-point play.

The Colonels' Cincy Powell topped all scorers with 37 points. Ralph Simpson led Denver with 28 points.

The Kentucky-Denver game was the opener of a doubleheader at Memphis. In the nightcap, Zelmo Beaty's layup with 1:51 remaining and Jimmy Jones free throw 13 seconds later clinched Utah's victory over Memphis.

Beaty and Glen Combs each scored 20 points for the Stars. Bobby Warren paced the Pros with 24 points.

Brockington Is Offensive Pick

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)— John Brockington, The Associated Press' Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League, has a simple but irrefutable approach to the game.

"If you're running slow, you get hit; and, if you're running fast, you're going to get hit; so you might as well run fast and hard," said Brockington, the Green Bay Packer rookie who rushed for 142 yards in 30 carries to spark a 17-14 victory over the Chicago Bears Sunday.

Brockington, the Packers' top draft choice, has three 100-or-more-yard games this season and 602 yards total for a brilliant 5.28-yards-per-carry average. He has a shot at both rookie of the year and membership in the exclusive 1,000-yard club.

Brockington is the hub of a running game which has emerged as a power in Dan Devine's first year as Green Bay coach. Donny Anderson has 483 yards and a 4.2 average, and Dave Hampton is 199 and 5.0.

Tackle Francis Peay says Brockington "doesn't hit the hole that much quicker than Anderson or Hampton; but, when he does, he just seems to explode through it."

The perfectionist Devine expects even greater things from Brockington.

"He certainly ran extremely well, but he could have been better in other phases of play," Devine said. "He'll do anything, however. He loves to block and tackle. He just has many things to learn in his first year."

Brockington won Offensive Player of the Week honors over Baltimore veteran Tom Matte, who rushed for 97 yards and for touchdowns on runs of 4 and 23 yards in 19 carries in the Colts' 24-17 victory over Los Angeles Monday night. Matte, 32, an 11-year veteran, was filling in for injured star Norm Bulaich.

Also considered for Offensive Player of the Week honors were Mercury Morris of Miami, Fran Tarkenton and Charlie Evans of the New York Giants and John Fuqua of Pittsburgh.

Morris, subbing for the injured Jim Kiick, ran 13 times for 116 yards in Miami's 34-0 victory over Buffalo. The Giants beat San Diego 35-17 as Tarkenton completed 16 of 20 passes for 260 yards and a touchdown

Player Predicts High Scores For World Cup

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player sloshed around PGA National Golf Club and predicted "a four-under-par total will win on the longest, toughest course ever to host the World Cup."

The Johannesburg mini-brute is paired with Harold Henning for Thursday's teeoff featuring two-man entries from 46 nations in team and individual competition.

"Scores will be the highest in World Cup history," said the 34-year-old Player. "You'll see a lot of rounds in the 80s, a few in the 90s and maybe some even higher."

The Player—Henning team won the World Cup for South Africa in 1965.

The 6,096-yard east course is water-logged from recent rains and Player said Tuesday that the fluffy Bermuda grass in the rough "is much tougher than it was for the PGA championship."

Jack Nicklaus, winner of the PGA in February, was sleeping off the drain of a 31-hour flight from Australia. His lakeside home is only 10 minutes from the course.

Nicklaus is the U.S. representative along with U.S. Open king Lee Trevino. "The U.S. is the unquestioned favorite"' said Player. "Nicklaus on a good day is unbeatable, and he's been playing awfully well."

While Trevino was virtually locking up the money title on the $7 million American tour, Nicklaus was capturing the less-profitable events on the international prestige trail in Australia.

Player and Nicklaus were flying companions on the Monday journey from Sydney that included stops in the Fiji Islands, Hawaii, Dallas and Atlanta.

"Jack couldn't get himself out of bed this morning," Player said, splashing up the fairway during Tuesday's practice round. "I've battled the severe time change problem for a long while. I think Nicklaus is doing it wrong . . . you should get on the local time as quickly as possible, even if it knocks you for a loop."

Player said most of the World Cup entries would be using the smaller British ball "which goes farther and cuts into the wind like you have in Florida."

The American-made balls are said to be easier to control.

According to tournament supervisor Jack Tuthill, golfers will be permitted to switch back and forth between the different sizes from hole to hole.

Heels Still Seek Fullback

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina, 7-2 and angling for a football bowl bid, is undecided who will start at fullback at Virginia Saturday if the injured Ike Oglesby isn't ready.

The Tar Heels have used four different starters at the position in the last four games. They were Ted Leverenz, Geof Hamlin, Billy Hite and Lewis Jolley.

"We shifted Jolley from wingback to tailback last week to give us more outside speed," coach Bill Dooley told his weekly news conference Tuesday. "We haven't decided who will play there this week. Of course, we hope Ike will be ready to go on a fulltime basis."

Dooley said Virginia is better than its 2-7 record would indicate, and has good personnel at key positions. He said that the Cavaliers' Kent Merritt and Gary Helman are outstanding backs and that he understood that Helman, who has been injured most of the year, will be ready this week.

At Virginia, coach Don Lawrence said that offensive tackle Bill Farrell probably will not start because of a concussion he suffered in the game against Virginia Tech last week, but probably would be available for reserve action against North Carolina. Virginia held a heavy drill in preparation for league-leading North Carolina, which is undefeated in their four conference games. It will be the last home game of the season for Virginia, which finishes up at Maryland the following week.

Elsewhere around Atlantic Coast Conference practice fields Tuesday:

An afternoon snowstorm did not stop Wake Forest, which is getting ready for the home game against Duke. The defensive unit tried for quick recognition of Duke's offensive sets.

Duke's quarterback Dennis Satyshur, who injured a shoulder against West Virginia last week, returned to practice. Coach Mike McGee praised the work of defensive back Ernie Jackson and linebacker Ed Newman during the practice session.

Clemson ended its workout with a 15-minute scrimmage. Coach Hootie Ingram said he planned a similar format today, the last contact work before the home game against Maryland.

Overhauls Racing Events

DAYTONE BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The National Association for Stock Car Racing (NASCAR) has overhauled its format for 1972 to include 32 big-track events worth about $2 million and two new short-track divisions.

The new divisions, Grand National East and Grand National West, will have separate schedules of races of no more than 150 miles each.

The big-track events will be known as the Winston Cup Grand National series. No race in this division will be less than 250 miles. Each will carry a minimum purse to be set later but probably no less than $30,000.

NASCAR, in announcing the new format Tuesday, said Winston cigarettes will post $100,000 in championship bonus money for the big track division and $15,000 for each of the short track divisions.

The Winston Cup cars will be limited to the last three model years, 1970 through 1972, and the series probably will have a separate set of engine specifications and restrictions.

Eligible for the short-track divisions will be cars of the last four model years, 1969 through 1972, and so-called pony cars of the Javelin, Mustang and Camaro class.

Bill France, founder and president of NASCAR, said separation of the big and small track divisions "will make it possible for more top drivers and teams to pursue the Winston Cup," which will pay $100,000 in bonus money.

He added, "It also will make it easier for the teams to obtain sponsors because of the broader exposure of the division."

The 32-race schedule will be announced after a meeting of the Auto Competition Committee of the U. S. (ACCUS) in New York next week. It is expected to include two events each at such long tracks as Charlotte, N. C.; Daytona Beach; Talladega, Ala.; Darlington, S. C.; Atlanta, Ga.; Jackson, Mich.; Bryan, Tex.; Riverside and Ontario, Calif.; Dover, Del., and Rockingham, N. C. Short tracks, most of them half-milers, include Martinsville and Richmond, Va.; Nashville and Bristol, Tenn.; Byron, Ga., and North Wilkesboro, N. C.

France said drivers will be eligible to compete in both the big track and small track divisions, providing their cars meet the specifications.

Pair To Split Up

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Two of the most successful men in the automobile racing business, car builders and promoters John Holman and Ralph Moody, say they are parting because of incompatability.

Holman, 51, and Moody, 50, founded their firm in 1957, starting with 10 employes in a rented garage. The multimillion-dollar business now has 250 employes and has expanded into marine engine work.

Holman, who owns 51 per cent of the firm, said Tuesday it will continue to build and operate racing cars, with a final split expected after the racing season ends in December.

The Holman-Moody firm has built Ford and Mercury cars for the NASCAR circuit and has employed such drivers as Bobby Allison, David Pearson, Fred Lorenzen, Mario Andretti and the late Curtis Turner.

Auburn Gets Nod Over Georgia; Tampa Picked

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It's look-ahead time in the college football world with Nebraska, Oklahoma, Michigan and Alabama all undergoing final tune-ups before their biggest games of the season. But it's NOW time for Auburn and Georgia.

Those Southeastern Conference titans, two of the nine unbeaten teams in the land, clash at Athens, Ga., in a game that will go a long way not only in deciding the SEC champion, but a couple of bowl berths, as well.

Both teams will be in post-season action somewhere. The loser will drop out of contention for the national championship, which will probably be decided in the Orange or Sugar Bowl, but may wind up in the Cotton Bowl.

The Georgia defense has chalked up four shutouts in the last eight games and allowed only seven points in each of the four others. But they haven't faced a quarterback who's having the kind of year Auburn's Pat Sullivan is having.

None of Georgia's previous opponents is in the Top Twenty. Auburn survived a 10-9 scare at Tennessee earlier in the season. Buoyed by the knowledge that the big SEC games—Auburn at Tennessee, Alabama at Louisiana State—have gone to the visitors, one shaky vote is cast for ... AUBURN.

Nebraska at Kansas State—Next ... Oklahoma. The Cornhuskers throttled Iowa State 37-0 last Saturday and now go after K-State's Dennis Morrison, who is coming off a 363-yard passing effort. NEBRASKA.

Kansas at Oklahoma—Next ... Nebraska. The Sooners were held to 20 points by Missouri, but Kansas has been jolted for 30 by Florida State, 38 by Minnesota, 55 by Nebraska, 40 by Iowa State and 35 by Colorado. OKLAHOMA.

Miami, Fla. at Alabama—Next ... Auburn. And coming off the dramatic conquest of LSU, this would be the perfect time for a letdown, especially with ace runner Johnny Musso sidelined. But Bear Bryant doesn't have many letdowns. ALABAMA. North Carolina State at Penn State—N.C. State's Al Michaels was a star quarterback at Penn State during his playing days and as assistant coach from 1935-53. The Lions wouldn't want to show an alumnus a losing team. PENN STATE.

Texas Christian at Texas—A victory last week put TCU in the Southwest Conference lead and the Horned Frogs have been on an emotional binge since the death of Coach Jim Pittman. This also will be an emotional time for Darrell Royal, of Texas, who was Pittman's boss for 12 years at Mississippi State, Washington and . . . TEXAS.

Southern California at Washington—Someone's three-game winning streak is going to get busted. USC's Sam Cunningham is hurt. Washington's Sonny Sixkiller isn't. WASHINGTON.

Northwestern at Ohio State—Where, oh, where has the Buckeyes' offense gone? Hello, Columbus. Goodby, Northwestern. OHIO STATE.

Cornell at Dartmouth—A Cornell victory clinches the Ivy League title for the Big Red. A Dartmouth triumph throws the two teams into a tie again, just as they were before the Indians lost to Columbia last weekend. Upset Special—mild upset, that is—of the Week ... DARTMOUTH.

Florida State at Georgia Tech—FSU has never beaten the Yellow Jackets, although they've played one tie in eight previous meetings. No time like the present. FLORIDA STATE.

Other games:

EAST—Pitt over Army, Boston College over Northern Illinois, Brown over Harvard, Columbia over Penn, Colgate over Lafayette, Syracuse over Navy, Princeton over Yale, Holy Cross over Rutgers, Temple over William & Mary, West irginia over VMI.

SOUTH—Toledo over Marshall, Louisiana State over Mississippi State, The Citadel over Furman, Maryland over Clemson, Richmond over Davidson, Florida over Kentucky, Southern Mississippi over Louisiana Tech, Louisville over Southern Illinois, Memphis State over North Texas State, Mississippi over Chattanooga, Tampa over East Carolina, North Carolina over Virginia, Wake Forest over Duke.

MIDWEST—Notre Dame over Tulane, Colorado over Oklahoma State, Bowling Green over Xavier, Villanova over Dayton, Iowa over Indiana, Iowa State over Missouri, Miami, Ohio over Kent State, Michigan State over Minnesota, Ohio U. over Cincinnati, Air Force over Tulsa, Western Michigan over Pacific, New Mexico State over Wichita State, Wisconsin over Illinois.

Manual School Students Tackling Unique Projects

By TOM SIEBERT
Associated Press Writer

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Under their own corporations, teams of students from Denver's Manual High School are running a gas station, remodeling a dilapidated two-story house, designing miniparks for an urban renewal area and putting down more than two miles of sidewalks.

The projects are unique, most of them unlike anything being tried elsewhere in the country, say Manual's teachers.

The idea is to give the vocational students—many of them poor blacks from disadvantaged backgrounds—a running start in their career fields through actual job experience, said Alfred Prudhomme, Manual's coordinator of instruction.

"It's a head start program in the world of work, and one of the biggest byproducts has been enthusiasm," he added.

Steve Moore, a 16-year-old junior in the drafting course and one of eight students manning the gas station's pumps five days a week, bears him out.

"I used to come up here just for the fun of it," said Moore, "but now I'm glad I'm working full-time.

"You really get to be friends with a lot of people and you get to learn how to deal with them. Besides, it's going to help me too when I get my own car."

A co-worker, Ken Bryant, 17, hopes to manage just such a station himself when he graduates next year.

"I've learned a lot more than I ever thought I would in the auto mechanics course," said Bryant. "Sometimes we make mistakes handling credit cards and we've gotten some bum checks, but not often."

The station, which sports a prominent "Operated by the Students of Manual High" sign, is on one of Denver's busiest streets. Eighteen months ago it was leased by one of the student corporations, Manual Standard, Inc., and has been running, with several breaks to iron out financial problems, ever since.

"For the students, it's terrific," said Arch Jefferies, the school's vocational coordinator. "Learning becomes a necessity. They see why they need decimals and fractions and such, because you can't change a set of plugs or points without it."

This past summer the station was run with the aid of a grant from the Neighborhood Youth Corps, with the students paid $1.60 per hour. During the last school year, the students worked it on a part-time basis, getting part academic credit and paid from its sometimes slim profits. Jefferies said it's hoped the NYC grant can be partly continued through the coming year to help keep the station out of the red.

A second student corporation, Creative Urban Living Environments, Inc. (CULE), has three other projects currently under way.

Presided over by 17-year-old Melvin Brooks, its president, and an eight-man board of directors, CULE has 55 student workers.

"I think it's really fine work and helps prepare you for life," says Brooks.

Four English students are publishing a free neighborhood newsletter, the Mitchell Legend, and doing public relations work under a $5,000 contract with the Denver Urban Renewal Authority (DURA). Another 10 from the drafting course are designing four miniparks for a blighted area under a $10,000 DURA contract, and the balance are handling two construction projects under several more contracts totaling $50,000.

So far, the students are breaking about even on the construction work, their teacher-supervisors say. Their costs include subcontracting electrical and plumbing work in the house they are renovating, and paying for ready-mixed concrete for 21 blocks of sidewalks being laid in the neighborhood.

CULE pays its workmen $1.75 per hour and is planning a 75 cents per hour bonus at the end of the jobs for outstanding performance.

But the big bonus for the 56 teen-agers is not just the money but the pride they have taken in themselves, said Jim Watson, an industrial arts teacher who doubles as the construction boss.

"They can take pride they're pouring as fine a sidewalk as anyone in the city, and group pride in working together, steadily and on time, and accomplishing the job," he said.

"If anything, many of these kids are strictly marginal or below students," said Clifford Lewis, an attorney who teaches social studies at Manual.

"Most of them are overachieving. They're highly motivated because it's not just a matter of learning how to lay cement or repair a house. They learn to run their own companies."

Consumption Of Red Meats Up

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumption of red meats is increasing significantly in high income countries where small abattoirs are being displaced by large industrialized packers.

The trend is creating a demand for dehairers, cutting machines, rendering systems and process meat formers, according to the Bureau of International Commerce.

VOTE BY A WHISPER

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — "Whisper votes" with pictures of candidates are to be used in next year's House of Assembly general election. Illiterate villagers will be able to point to the picture of a candidate and whisper to an official that he is his choice.

Dentists Keep Plugging Away At Those Toothaches

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —You're on the way to the dentist—with throbbing pain in the swollen jaw. A cavity, gum disease or other ailments of the dental field have you down.

"Wouldn't it be nice," you say to yourself," if someone invented a shot that could immunize me against tooth decay the way shots immunize me against mumps and some other disorders?

"Well, if not that, I'd settle for something to paint over the teeth, a sealant of some kind so cavities wouldn't develop."

While such things aren't in the mainstream of the practice of dentistry, research projects are aiming in that direction, according to reports delivered at the annual meeting of the American Dental Association here.

—Painting a sealant on the teeth has resulted in a major reduction in dental decay of the biting surfaces, an Eastman Dental Center scientist reported. The sealants do not cover the sides of the teeth, only the tops, and therefore would not protect against smooth-surface or gum-line cavities. The American Dental Association has cautioned that although the studies appear promising, more clinical work must be conducted before the sealant can be recommended for general use. The report was made by Dr. Michael Buonocore of Rochester, N.Y. "It is felt that adhesive sealing of pits and fissures could be an important adjunct in a caries preventive program since it is intended for those caries susceptible areas least benefited by fluoride."

—A Veterans Administration dental scientist said development of a vaccine against tooth decay hinges on the identification of which oral bacteria are the prime forces behind the development of cavities. In the past few years there have been several reports of studies in which germ-free animals have been immunized against a cariogenic (decay-causing) organism and have been partially protected from caries when infected with the same organism. Dr. Robert J. Fitzgerald, of the VA hospital in Miami, said the main deterrent to a more vigorous attack on the microbial component of caries has been lack of definite information about the specific causative microorganisms in humans. He suggested that future caries research in this field concentrate on the study of agents which inhibit or neutralize acid production from carbohydrates; the search for agents which inhibit plaque formation or which act to remove or disperse existing plaque deposits; and testing of antibiotic or germicidal agents which specifically attack the organisms identified in human caries sites.

—A Swedish and a Japanese dentist cited the advantages of four-handed, sit-down dentistry which can enable the average dentist to treat 50 per cent more patients compared to conventional office procedures. In four-handed dentistry, both the dentist and his assistant are seated while the patient is lying supine in a contour chair. This concept already is gaining wide acceptance in the United States as a means of coping with increasing dental manpower problems.

—Advanced periodontal or gum disease frequently leads to a loss of jaw bone supporting the teeth. Now this bone loss may be corrected in some cases by taking bone grafts from the patient's hip and implanting them in the defective areas, Dr. Robert G. Schallhorn of the University of Colorado Medical Center reported. In all cases observed over a two-year period, the bone marrow when removed from the ilium or crest showed rapid regeneration in the implant sites. Bone marrow is found in the spongy, inner-core portion of bone and is known to possess good regeneration abilities.

—The only hope for preventing gum disease in the near future is the care that the patient provides for himself, a University of Nebraska dental educator reported. Dr. Frank M. Wentz, assistant dean of the university dental school, said to control the disease one must control the bacterial plaque. The only way you can remove it regularly and thoroughly is by educating the patient. The patient must follow a regular oral hygiene technique tailored for him by his dentist.

—A New Jersey dentist, Dr. Kenneth A. Bartlett, of Montclair, reported that hypnosis can be an effective approach in the majority of cases in which the patient has developed an allergy to novocaine. He described the case of a woman patient who came to him after 10 years of dental neglect. She needed extensive restorative treatment but she was allergic to local anesthetics. Hypnosis was a last resort for this patient. It had to work or she faced either loss of her teeth or dentistry under general anesthesia. It worked.

Dentistry in the future? Well, robots, computers and laser beams may "run" routine chores in the dental office in the year 2,000.

A dental efficiency expert, taking that view into the future, envisioned the dentist of the year 2,000 as being primarily occupied with diagnosing and treatment planning while auxiliaries and machines carry out technical duties.

Wagon wheels stopped rolling on the Santa Fe Trail around 1880.

The Worry Clinic

Too Many Are 'Hoodwinking'

Minnie's case was a tear-jerker! So tell it to high school classes and Sunday School youth. For it will then reduce the present ignorant attacks on landlords, merchants and the "establishment." Use this "case method" strategy to insure your children against confidence men and malingers!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Case S-515: Minnie B., aged 34, presents a tragic case.

Recently she drove her automobile into a gasoline station.

"I need 10 gallons," she mournfully informed the attendant. "But I am out of money.

"For our little boy died recently and I was too sick to attend his funeral.

"So today I want to drive out to the cemetery to put some flowers on his grave.

"But I can't pay you today. However, I'll leave you my wedding ring for security, if you wish.

"And then I'll come in next week, after my husband gets his pay check."

Duped Attendant

The attendant quite naturally felt sorry for this woman, so he not only pumped 10 gallons of gasoline into her tank.

But magnanimously refused to take her wedding ring as collateral, saying she could pay him on Monday.

Alas, Minnie never came back with the money.

Several times he met her on the street and asked her about her bill, which she said she'd be sure to pay him by the next day.

Later, he learned from some of the other gasoline stations in the same town that 4 such attendants were holding wedding rings that Minnie had given them as collateral!

Apparently, she would thus go down to the dime store and pick out a brass wedding band every time she wanted a tank of gasoline.

Minnie might thus be termed a "forensic kleptomaniac."

She was a chronic deadbeat!

If some of you idealistic readers think grocers or doctors or landlords are hardhearted, they usually have been "fleeced" in the past and thus consciously develop their "cash on the line" attitude.

If you were to recite the story Minnie told the gas attendants and thus invite comments from high schoolers or Sunday School youth, you'd probably find most of them agreeing to let Minnie have the gasoline.

Indeed, it is wise to tutor kiddies with case studies about idealism but also balance them with some practical "horse sense."

Thousands of Welfare recipients likewise keep hoodwinking taxpayers by feigning imaginary illness to avoid taking jobs.

We doctors call such people "malingerers," who constantly "enjoy poor health," generally for an ulterior purpose.

Even in your own homes, you may often find people who "fish" for sympathy merely by reciting their pain from arthritis, ulcers, or even fallen arches.

Now I don't wish to minimize legitimate pain, but thousands of your close relatives may be twins for Minnie, except they are not hoodwinking merchants.

No; they are malingering to evoke more sympathy.

This becomes increasingly true of elderly folks, who find they can gain more attention and "spotlighting" just by increasing their groaning!

It would be well for all school principals and clergymen to invite the credit managers of your large local firms to give a talk on their varied experiences.

Most people are honest, but some write "rubber checks" and have no more sense of money than 5-year-olds, even though they are married!

HOT ROCK STOLEN

Opening lead: King of ♣

The art of signaling is the key to successful defense on many hands. If partner leads the king of a suit, a player should begin an echo in almost every instance where he has a doubleton unless he has the queen. If his doubleton is headed by the jack, that card should be unloaded promptly except in a case where it may cost a trick—such as dummy's having the ten-nine and some small cards where declarer may hold the ace.

A good illustration is presented in today's hand where West was able to uncover the killing defense because he assumed that his partner's play to the first trick followed conventional practices.

West opened the king of clubs on which North followed with the deuce, East with the three and South with the four. If West was to believe his partner's play, East had begun with a singleton club, for if he had two—it would have been proper to begin a high-low with the jack.

Knowing that he could cash two club tricks as well as the ace of spades, West was assured of being able to take book. If he could get East in, it would be possible to ultimately score a diamond ruff for the setting trick. With this objective in mind, West shifted at trick two to the jack of diamonds placing the lead in dummy.

South was tempted to cross over to his blank ace of hearts and then return to dummy in diamonds to discard his remaining club on the king of hearts. He was suspicious of West's shift, however, and fearing that a ruff was imminent, he hastened to lead trumps. The eight of spades was led and South put up the jack. West was in with the ace and now was the time to put his partner in.

Instead of cashing the ace of clubs, West returned the five, so that East could ruff the trick with the five of spades. A diamond return enabled West to score the killer with the nine of trumps.

Return Land To Tribal Owners

LAE, New Guinea (AP) — An Australian Supreme Court judge has handed back to tribal ownership 500 acres acquired at the turn of the century when Germany controlled what is now the Australian-administered Trust Territory of New Guinea.

The judge said the land had been "inherited" by the Australians when they captured German New Guinea for Britain in 1914, but there was no proof that it had ever been properly acquired by the Germans.

The tribe getting the jungled land held a huge feast and singsing to celebrate.

HARRINGTON STARS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pat Harrington has a starring role in MGM's "Every Little Crook and Nanny," now before the cameras.

Harrington plays Willie Shakespeare, a small-time gambler, in the contemporary fable of the underworld. John Austin, Lynn Redgrave, Victor Mature and Dom Deluise also are in the film.

Hopes Citizenship Loss By Renunciation Is Not A Permanent Condition

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Thomas Glenn Jolley is holding to a thread of hope that he will be allowed to remain in the United States even though he is threatened by deportation after the Supreme Court refused to hear his case.

Jolley, 27, a former Atlanta resident and a native of Greensboro, N. C., renounced his U. S. citizenship four years ago to avoid serving in the Army.

"It is still conceivable that, as one Immigration official said, if they are unable to place me in another country, then I would have to be allowed to remain in the States," said Jolley, who has been employed as a reporter at the Tallahassee, Fla., Democrat.

"I don't know what avenues are open to me at the moment," Jolley said Tuesday.

Asked if he would prefer remaining in the States, Jolley said, "I certainly would."

The unanimous decision by the Supreme Court Tuesday denied Jolley a hearing.

Jolley went to Canada in 1967 to escape the draft and gave up his citizenship in Toronto. He returned to the United States and took an apartment in Atlanta, where he lived for a time with his wife.

He was told by the Immigration and Naturalization Service that he was an alien and could not remain in the country.

The 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the order last April, and Jolley appealed to the Supreme Court.

Jolley's attorneys argued that his renunciation was involuntary since he did so to avoid Army service. They argued that the issue was whether a man could be coerced by his own nation's penal laws into involuntarily giving up his citizenship.

The attorneys cited the high court's decisions which held that Japanese-Americans living in Japan during World War II did not lose their citizenship if drafted by Japan because they were forced into the Japanese Army under penalty.

The government argued that Jolley knowingly and deliberately renounced his allegiance.

"By that act, he acquired alien status as effectively as if he had been born abroad and never been a citizen," the government said.

Commission Is Clearinghouse

The Mid-East Economic Development Commission has been designated Regional Clearinghouse for State Planning Region Q, which consists of the counties of Pitt, Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford and Martin.

The commission announced Tuesday that Gov. Robert W. Scott, in a letter addressed to William H. Page, Mid-East chairman had notified the agency of the regional designation.

Mid-East, as a regional clearinghouse, will be required to review all federal assistance applications of the region and make comment on their consistency with regional plans and objectives.

When inconsistencies appear, it was announced, the applicant will be approached and advised of the clearinghouse's position. The applicant can then either make a change or receive a poor review. At the same time as the regional review, the state clearing house is also making its judgment, which comments considered critical from appropriate state agencies.

The review process, according to Mid-East, will also be concerned with projects that may have an impact on the environment. When this judgment is made of a project, a statement of the nature and extent of the anticipated environmental impact accompanies the application notification. If the impact is determined to be a detriment to the environment, a negative comment accompanies the application, it was explained.

Mid-East is a joint economic development and regional planning organization. Established in 1967, it serves the counties of Pitt, Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford and Martin. Membership is also open to any municipality in the region that desires to join.

Joint Meeting Opens In Raleigh

RALEIGH (AP) — Farmers from North Carolina and South Carolina gathered in Raleigh today for the annual joint meeting of FCX Inc. and the Carolinas Cotton Growers Association.

About 1,500 were expected to attend the session in Memorial Auditorium. The FCX planned to elect four directors and the cotton association three directors.

Also on the program were the annual reports of the general managers of the two cooperatives—A.J. Haynes for FCX and G.D. Arndt for the cotton group.

WANT MORE COCONUTS

MANILA (UPI) —The Philippine Coconuat Research Institute has developed a new kind of fertilizer to boost the yield of the country's fruit-bearing coconut trees.

Enact New Laws For Drunkenness

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts Legislature has enacted and sent to Gov. Francis W. Sargent a bill eliminating the crime of public drunkenness and setting up a network of detoxification centers where alcoholics can sober up.

Sargent has expressed support for the bill and is expected to sign it.

The measure won final approval Monday in the House on a 197-4 roll call. It passed the Senate on a voice vote.

The intent of the bill is to treat alcoholism as a disease rather than a crime and creates a state Division of Alcoholism.

Career Worker To Head Office

RALEIGH (AP) — James S. Stevens Jr., 48, a career state worker, will head the Office of Recreation Resources under North Carolina's state government reorganization.

The appointment of Stevens was announced Tuesday by Roy Sowers Jr., secretary of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

Stevens joined the North Carolina Recreation Commission in 1948 and was head of the recreation division in the old state Department of Local Affairs. The state parks system and the Kerry Reservoir Development Commission will be under Stevens' direction in the new setup.

NOTICE
SEABOARD COAST LINE RAILROAD COMPANY, through the undersigned, hereby gives notice that the North Carolina Utilities Commission has set for hearing on November 19, 1971, at 10:00 A.M. in the Wayne County Courthouse, Courtroom No. 2, Goldsboro, North Carolina, the matter of the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad Company's application to implement the mobile agency concept in the Goldsboro, North Carolina area for a six-month trial period.
The railroad proposes to operate the mobile agency concept out of Goldsboro, North Carolina, serving the following agency and non-agency stations in North Carolina:
Agency Stations — Fremont-Pikeville; Winterville; Ayden; Grifton; Faison; Mt. Olive.
Non-Agency Stations — Loxco; Darg; Nocar; Farmex; Ripaco; Nufarms.
The implementatition of the proposed concept, if authorized, will result in the following changes in agency services:
(1) Agency service will be provided from a mobile van and there will no longer be an agent of the railroad on duty in the railroad station at the above agency stations; and
(2) The buildings at the above stations will not be open to the public during any hours of the day.
Those interested in this proposal are urged to be present at the November 19 hearing.
