Prison Officials Again In Control

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — Officials are again in control of Rahway State Prison after reaching a peaceful agreement with 500 rebellious inmates who held two wings of the maximum security prison for 24 hours.

The prisoners released their remaining five hostages on Thanksgiving night in return for a promise of no reprisals against them. They also were permitted to air their grievances to three newsmen who entered the prison.

Officials pledged full negotiations on the grievances.

A team of eight attorneys headed by State Public Defender Stanley C. Van Ness planned to meet with prisoners this morning.

Under the agreement, the inmates were returned to their cells as fellow prisoners watched to ensure against possible reprisals.

The prisoners' demands included better medical care, better food, prompter parole hearings and an end to alleged racism by white officers.

Gov. William T. Cahill, who sought the release of the hostages without bloodshed, told newsmen, "I can't relate Attica to this situation. Each man that is confronted with the situation has to make the best decision under the circumstances."

In September, 43 persons died when armed troopers and corrections officers broke up a rebellion at Attica State Prison in upstate New York with gunfire and tear gas.

The Rahway hostages included U. Samuel Vukcevic, the prison superintendent. He was treated at Rahway Hospital for cuts, apparently caused by stab wounds, and injuries to the pelvis and spine.

Prisoners contended that Vukcevic, 43, was stabbed by a prison guard who pulled a switchblade knife when fighting began Wednesday night. The prisoners released a statement purportedly signed by the superintendent in which he said the inmates did not harm him and sought medical attention for him.

Two of the guards held hostage were hospitalized with injuries that included a possible fractured arm to one. Authorities said the injuries were not serious.

The prisoners originally took seven men hostage. One was released Wednesday, one Thursday afternoon, a third before newsmen were permitted to enter the prison, and the remaining four just before the meeting with newsmen ended.

The unvalued, X-shaped prison houses 1,143 inmates, 75 per cent of them black, in its four wings. The rebellious prisoners seized control of two wings after a movie in the prison auditorium.

Many Thanksgiving Day Activities Upset By Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The day after Thanksgiving is leftover turkey, happiness for Nebraska fans and memories of driving snow for thousands of Easterners whose day was disrupted by the season's first major storm.

From New England south along the Eastern Seaboard as far as Virginia, Thanksgiving activities in many areas were curtailed by a major snowstorm that ploughed up the coast.

Thousands of cars were stranded by snowfalls of up to 20 inches on Interstate routes in New York, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Two hundred persons who planned to have Thanksgiving dinner on Nantucket Island were left on the mainland when wind-whipped, 8-foot seas halted steamer ship service.

New York City escaped the snow but rain and wind gusts grounded 11 giant balloons that were to have been in Macy's 45th annual Thanksgiving parade.

Despite the weather, bands played, dancers danced and majorettes from as far away as Texas and Georgia smiled bravely through strings of wet hair. It all looked great seen on

Soviet Trade Looms

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans said today he considers his visit to the Soviet Union a "watershed" in the development of Russian-American trade.

Stans, the first Commerce secretary to visit the Soviet Union in an official capacity, said he had encountered among Soviet leaders the "cordial desire to do more business."

Since his arrival Saturday, Stans has met Premier Alexei Kosygin, Foreign Trade Minister Nikolai S. Patolichev and several other Cabinet ministers.

The secretary will hold further discussions Monday before a windup session Tuesday with Patolichev.

The talks are aimed at expanding trade and economic cooperation.

Sources said the Soviet and U.S. officials were thinking in terms of a 10-fold increase in bilateral trade turnover by the mid-1970s. They said a target of $2 billion a year by then had been accepted as a rule of thumb.

Last year's turnover, according to Soviet Trade Ministry figures, was $177 million.

Prominent in Stans' discussions, sources said, were obstacles in the path of developing trade and economic cooperation, an inventory of possible goods to be exchanged and the question of joint ventures where U.S. firms would take part in Soviet economic development.

Sources said the Soviets considered the main impediments to be absence of most-favored-nation treatment for the Soviet Union and a lack of U.S. credits to finance Soviet imports from the United States.

As for what could be traded, the Soviets expressed interest in U.S. machine tools, consumer goods, agricultural products and computer software, the informants added.

The United States, the informants said, was looking into possible purchases of natural gas, oil, copper and pulp and paper and rare minerals.

More Cutbacks In S. Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the cutback of 13 more Army units with a total strength of 3,233 troops in a continued pre-Christmas speedup of withdrawals from Vietnam.

The units included another battalion of the 101st Airborne Division, the last remaining combat division in Vietnam, and nine helicopter and fixed-wing aviation companies.

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Pakistani army claimed today it has halted Indian troops it says have been advancing on five fronts into East Pakistan.

At the same time, President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan acknowledged the existence of political unrest in West Pakistan by banning the National Awami party. He accused it of "trying to foment revolt in West Pakistan," Radio Pakistan reported.

A dispatch from Dacca said an army spokesman reported that forces repulsed Indian attacks in border areas at Jessore, Benapole, Comilla, Chittagong and Sylhet. Dacca is the capital of East Pakistan province.

He said the Indians were "badly mauled," suffering more than 330 men killed—including some 200 in Comilla alone—and losing a huge quantity of arms and ammunition.

Indian officials here have consistently denied that any government troops are fighting in East Pakistan on a sustained basis.

In the Rajshahi district at Sardah, Indian troops have been seen digging trenches and laying antipersonnel and antitank mines, the Pakistani spokesman said, adding that more reinforcements are being brought in to be deployed on the borders.

In the Sylhet area the Indian attack was launched by the 5th Gurkha Regiment at Jantiapur but was halted Thursday and the area littered with the bodies of Indian soldiers, he said.

In the Comilla area, the Pakistani army spokesman said, all Indian maneuvers failed to gain any ground.

A major offensive came from the Indian side at Hilli in East Pakistan's northern sector but the Indians were "dislodged from the area" where they had earlier gained a small portion of territory.

The battle at Hilli had been raging during the night and continued through the early hours of the day, the army source said.

The national Awami party banned by Yahya Khan had emerged as the largest single political group in last December's provincial elections.

The party won 13 of 40 seats in the northwest frontier provincial elections, eight out of 20 in Baluchistan and six seats in the National Assembly.

It was not immediately clear whether any party members had been arrested or whether the party's legislators would be unseated.

The provincial assemblies elected last December never met because of the East Pakistan crisis that erupted in March. The assembly was to have drawn up a constitution creating a civilian government to replace the military regime headed by Yahya Khan.

"Some of its leaders are in collaboration with the enemy," said a statement broadcast by the government radio.

"The aims adopted by this party are identical of those of the enemy. It is trying to foment revolt in West Pakistan."

The National Awami party is the second to be banned by the president this year. He outlawed the East Pakistan Awami League March 25, accusing it of treason for its secessionist policies.

Shortly after that, the army took control in the East and fighting broke out between government troops and the rebels. The Indians claim the current battles are between the army and Mukti Bahini or independence fighters.

Justice Department To File Suit Today Against Striking Dock Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said it will file suit today in 12 East and Gulf Coast port cities to force 45,000 striking dock workers to return to their jobs under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The department said the primary suit against the International Longshoremen's Union will be filed in a New York court. But, since employers refused to be considered as a single group, suits for an 80-day injunction against the strike will have to be sought in other port cities as well.

The other cities where suits are expected to be filed later today or on Saturday include Boston, Philadelphia, Alexandria, Va., Baltimore, Augusta, Miami, Mobile, Houston, Providence, R.I., Portland Maine, and New Orleans.

The department acted on an order by President Nixon.

In a letter Thursday from the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., Nixon ordered Atty. Gen. John Mitchell to seek an injunction against the 57-day strike under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

"The necessary papers are being prepared," a Justice Department spokesman said following the White House announcement. "The civil division undoubtedly expected something like this. We will be ready to move tomorrow (Friday)."

Nixon acted after a special board of inquiry, reconvened at his request, reported there was little chance of a quick settlement between the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and shipping industry representatives.

ILA headquarters spokesmen were not available for comment, but Ralph Massey, president of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast ILA district expressed disappointment at the decision.

"It just postpones the thing for 80 days," Massey said.

Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley Act Oct. 4 to end a three-month strike by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union on the West Coast.

The board of inquiry, which worked through the night Wednesday to assess the situation, concluded that the East and Gulf Coast negotiations had broken down over two "very sticky issues"—minimum pension guarantees and welfare contributions.

In addition to the longshoremen, the strike has idled 30,000 other union dock workers from Maine to Texas since Oct. 1.

Funds totaling $116,300 will be allocated to Pitt County by the U.S. Department of Labor as part of a $932,000 package aimed at expanding public service jobs in areas with high unemployment in the state.

According to Secretary of Administration W. L. Turner, who made the announcement Thursday, Pitt is one of 19 North Carolina counties and municipalities receiving allocations.

Turner said that the funds were allocated under a formula that gave equal weight to the amount of unemployment and to its severity.

All jobs established with the funds will be local governmental units rather than state agencies, he said.

Greene County has been earmarked for $42,800, the secretary added, and neighboring Martin County will receive $41,100 in allocated funds.

How They Fare

WASHINGTON (AP) — One out of four elderly Americans lives on $2,000 a year or less, the Senate Special Committee on Aging says.

In a report prepared for next week's White House Conference on Aging, the committee said 4.7 million people over 64 now are in the $2,000-or-less income group, and their number has grown 100,000 in three years.

The report recommended legislation providing Social Security benefit increases in favor of the elderly and federal income supplements to raise all elderly persons above the poverty line, now set at $1,852 a year for individuals 65 and over and $2,328 for couples.

More than 52 million dozen were broken by processors under the new federal Egg Products Inspection Act which went into effect this year, the department said.

Egg-Processing Up 6 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of eggs used in processing jumped six per cent during the month ended Oct. 16, says the Agriculture Department.

Shazli told newsmen after the conference that all "delegates voiced full desire to participate in the battle, with each country contributing what it can afford."

To Stay Lost

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A century-long search for the legendary Lost Dutchman Gold Mine may be nearing an end.

The U.S. Forest Service has proposed a five-step management plan which would virtually halt exploration on the western slopes of the Superstition Mountains, a rugged, desolate range east of Phoenix.

Legend has it that an old Dutchman, Jake Walzer, blasted the mine's entrance closed in the 1870s because he realized he was dying and could never return to his treasures.

Some stories say he left millions of dollars in solid gold bars which had been stolen earlier in the century. Others say he tucked Spanish treasures into the tunnels, or that he discovered solid veins of pure gold while carving his way into the Superstitions.

Whatever is there—if anything—the Forest Service says it has interested too many persons, and that fortune seekers using everything from bulldozers to shovels are scarring the barren mountain range.

The Forest Service proposal would prohibit campers and prospectors from living in the area and establish rigid guidelines to control treasure hunters.

television from a warm living room chair.

In the afternoon many of those same sets were tuned to the Nebraska-Oklahoma football clash that lived up to its billing as a college classic.

Nebraska won, 35-31, making the No. 1-ranked Cornhuskers fans happy. And both coaches received telephone calls from President Nixon who watched the contest from his San Clemente, Calif., home. He said it was a great game.

Earlier the President phoned holiday best wishes to political figures and sent a statement to the armed forces saying in part: "None have contributed more to America than our servicemen. All of us have enjoyed freedom, but you have stood ready to fight for it—you have protected it."

During the day there were scattered protests by antiwar veterans across the nation. And a group of six Indians braved the weather at Plymouth Rock to protest "broken treaties, the loss of our lands and centuries of cultural repression."

The traditional Pilgrims Progress in Plymouth, Mass., a costumed parade from the waterfront to First Church in town square, was washed out by the heavy rains.

Grandparents Should Let Young Man Learn Lesson

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When our son reached his 18th birthday, he announced that he was his own boss and could do as he pleased. He started skipping school, lying and staying out all night.

We tried to talk to him, but it did no good. After six months of this, we told him to either abide by our rules or find another place to sleep, which is all he ever came home for anyway.

He promptly packed up and left. Since then he has quit school, wrecked his car, bummed around and picked up odd jobs here and there.

Recently, my parents who live right next door, have been providing our son with food, shelter, and pocket money. Their door is left open all night, and if he doesn't come home, no questions are asked. We know they love him, and think they are helping him. We love him, too, but feel they are hurting him. Can we demand that they withdraw their help?

DEAR PARENTS: You can't demand anything, but you surely can explain to your parents that in their eagerness to "help" the boy, they are depriving him of a learning experience he desperately needs if he is ever to face life, meet its challenges, and be a man.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a "kissing bug." He has to kiss me hello, goodbye, good morning, good night. You name it, he has a kiss for it, no matter where we are.

Last Friday I was in the beauty shop getting a permanent and my husband stopped in to leave me some money, and before he left he put his face in the shampoo bowl to kiss me goodbye! I felt so foolish. Even on street corners if we are going our separate ways for an hour, he has to kiss me goodbye.

What makes a man want to kiss so much? He can't possibly get anything out of those little token pecks. Or can he?

DEAR KISSED: Are you bragging or complaining? A kiss is a statement. It says, "I like you" or "I love you." It's a physical expression of approval or affection. The time to write a Dear Abby letter is when he STOPS kissing you.

DEAR ABBY: At a wedding reception, my husband and I were dancing together when this lady, a total stranger, came on the dance floor and tapped ME on the shoulder, indicating that she wanted to dance with my husband.

My husband was quite surprised, but he took his arms from around me and proceeded to dance with HER, leaving me stranded on the dance floor. Not knowing which way to turn, I then went to sit with friends.

I felt very humiliated to think that I was cast aside for a complete stranger. My husband had never seen that lady before!

When we discussed it at home later my husband said he couldn't understand why I was so upset. He said he danced with her to avoid making a scene on the dance floor.

Abby, what do you think should have been done in that situation? Wasn't that woman entirely out of line?

DEAR LEFT: The woman was indeed out of line. But oftentimes when an unexpected situation arises, we are so astonished we act on the impulse, which is probably what your husband did. I doubt the situation will arise again.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ROCKY MARRIAGE IN S. F.": No, I don't think agreeing to "swing" will help. It's not a Miss Reva Lynn McDermott became the bride of Robert Green Brown Thursday at 4:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Richard Rhea Gammon officiated at the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Leo McDermott of Ayden and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Watson Brown of Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length white satin organza gown flocked with a white chantilly lace floral motif. The high neckline featured a Peter Pan collar with miniature satin buttons extending down the bodice front. A white satin ribbon accentuated the natural waistline and finished in the back with a bow and streamers. The long sheer sleeves featured buttoned cuffs.

She wore a buffont veil attached to a double bow headpiece of matching flocked organza. The bride carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias tied with ivory satin.

Miss Michelle McDermott of Ayden, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown designed with a candlelight chiffon bodice and olive green velvet skirt. The high Victorian neckline was edged in miniature olive Venise lace flowers. Ruffled chiffon edged in matching lace extended from the back of the gown over the shoulders to the empire waistline forming a V panel. Tiny buttons in candlelight chiffon trimmed the bodice front. The long sheer sleeves were gathered at the wrist and were finished in ruffled cuffs edged in olive lace.

The maid of honor wore an olive velvet ribbon bow with streamers centered with a miniature gold pom pon as a headpiece. She carried a nosegay of miniature bronze and gold mums tied with a gold bow.

Other attendants were Miss Ann Brown, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Michael L. Aldridge, Miss Ginger Minges, all of Greenville, and Miss Pat Thompson of Windsor. They were dressed as the honor attendant.

Twin sister and brother of the bride, Patricia Dean McDermott and Michael Andy McDermott were flower girl and ring bearer respectively.

She was dressed in a candlelight chiffon formal length gown. The high neckline was edged in miniature olive Venise lace flowers as were the ruffled sleeves. The empire waisted gown was trimmed with an olive velvet sash that finished in the back with a bow and streamers. She carried a nosegay of miniature bronze and gold mums tied with a gold bow.

The mother of the bride selected a yellow chiffon dress with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a pink gabardine dress with matching accessories and a white orchid.

Grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Pat McDermott, of Ayden, and Mrs. H. S. Baker of Windsor, and grandmother of the bridegroom, Mrs. C. L. Green, wore white orchid corsages.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were William Sherrard Brown and Donald Claude Brown, brothers of the bridegroom, James Leo McDermott Jr., brother of the bride, of Ayden and Michael Lee Aldridge and William Ray Cannon, both of Greenville.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Robert Irwin, organist, and Steve Goest.

Mrs. Marie Cox directed the wedding.

Following a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Rose High School. She is a senior majoring in early childhood education at East Carolina University and will graduate in June. He is associated with Brown-Wood Inc., and attended East Carolina University.

After the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the ladies parlor.

The bridesmaids placed their bouquets on the center table encircling the five tiered wedding cake. The table was covered with a white organza cloth and centered with an arrangement of white pom pons and carnations designed in a five branched silver candelabra.

Assisting in serving wedding cake and pouring punch were Mrs. Pat McDermott of Ayden, Mrs. Basil Anderson of Chesapeake, Va., and Mrs. H. B. Smith of Ayden.

Others assisting were Mrs. Ray Cobb and Mrs. Sherwood Bass, both of Windsor, Mrs. T. L. Broodrick, Mrs. H. H. Bryant, Mrs. R. W. Leith, Mrs. Ray Minges, Mrs. W. E. Roseveare and Mrs. F. H. Sugg, all of Greenville.

Mrs. Mitchell Jones directed guests to the register.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson of Windsor.

Pre-nuptial activities honoring the bride couple and guests included an after-rehearsal dinner party Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown.

The bride couple and guests were entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Webb. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Wayne Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Plato Garis Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perkins Gaskins, Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft Ficklen Mosley.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foster Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson Rivers, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bruce Sugg Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fordyce Harding Sugg, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilbur Wilkerson.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. D. E. Green. Hostesses were Mrs. C. L. Green Sr., Mrs. C. L. Green Jr., and Mrs. W. M. Green, all of Robersonville.

Guests included the bridesmaids, honor attendant and mothers of the bride couple.

Miss McDermott presented gifts to her attendants.

Miss Cathy Lyn Langston, daughter of Mrs. Joyce Langston of Ayden and Mr. Ervin Travis Langston of Grifton, became the bride of Henry Randolph Hudson in a candlelight ceremony on Thursday at 4:00 p.m. in the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Henry Hudson of Rt. 3, Greenville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry A. Jones. A program of nuptial music was presented by Randy Buck, organist, and Jimmy Page, soloist, who sang "Wither Thou Goest," "Because" and the "Wedding Prayer."

A fifteen branch candelabra with gold candles centered the chancel of the church. Fifteen branch spiral candelabras with gold candles were on each side of the altar. Honor pews were marked with hurricane candelabras and gold ribbons. Vows were taken on a silhouette prie-dieu.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length white satin gown designed with chantilly lace and pearls encircling the high neckline and accentuating the empire bodice. Panels of lace and pearls were featured on the

A-line skirt which extended to an attached chapel length train. The full bishop sleeves were also trimmed in the lace and pearls with satin buttoned cuffs.

Her full length matching mantilla was attached to a satin bow headpiece. She carried a colonial bouquet of button pom pons, miniature carnations and centered with a white cattleya orchid, accented with velvet bows of gold.

Miss Patsy Loftin of Ayden, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Mrs. John Richard Buck of Ayden, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. They wore formal length Nile green chiffon gowns styled with bodices and sleeves of emerald velvet. The high neckline was encircled with emerald Venise lace over Nile chiffon with a bib effect bodice of the same overlay. The deep bishop cuffs also featured the lace trim. Their headpieces were emerald velvet bows. They carried autumn nosegays of gold pom pons accented with gold velvet bows.

Bridesmaids were Miss Donna Wilson, cousin of the bride, Miss Cheryl Claybrook, Miss Polly Dail and Miss Louise Mumford, all of Ayden. They were dressed identical to the honor attendants and carried identical nosegays.

Flower girl was Miss Michelle Kittrell, niece of the bridegroom. She wore a full length emerald velvet dress fashioned as that of the honor attendants and carried a small fireside basket of gold pom pons with gold velvet ribbons.

The bridegrooms father served as best man. Keith Langston, brother of the bride, served as ring bearer. Ushers were Randy Spain, Randy Dixon, Tal Dixon and Wayne Buck, all of Rt. 3, Greenville. Junior ushers were Billy Kittrell, nephew of the bridegroom, and Kenny Langston, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a pink ensemble featuring matching Venise lace banding that framed the collar and closing of the princess line coat. Lace was also repeated on the dress waistline. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of orchids.

The mother of the bridegroom was dressed in a coat and dress ensemble featuring a rose crepe dress styled with a mandarin collar. The matching lace coat was designed with long sheer lantern sleeves. She wore a rose floral hat with velvet petals and a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. M. R. Buck, grandmother of the bride, wore a navy dress and coat and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. William Frederick Cox of Grifton, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding.

The couple will reside at Rt. 3, Greenville.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Mrs. Eugene Jackson of Kinston, great aunt of the bride, served cake and punch was served by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. M. R. Buck of Ayden.

Mr. and Mrs. William Frederick Cox presided at the guest register and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kittrell said good-byes.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Walter Loftin, Miss Lois Mills, Mrs. Jimmy Mobley and Mrs. Horace Wilson.

Following the Hudson-Langston wedding rehearsal on Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. L. Henry Hudson, parents of the bridegroom, entertained members of the wedding party and guests at an after-rehearsal party at the Cherry Educational Building.

After the bride couple cut the first slice of wedding cake, Mrs. Joyce Langston, mother of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. Henry Hudson, mother of the bridegroom served cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kittrell said good-byes.

Former Dope Addict Gets A New Start In Life From Cop

By JAMES SHELLEDY
Associated Press Writer
PAYETTE, Idaho (AP) — Chuck Wells, a former dope addict and ex-convict, is getting a new start in life—all because of a smalltown cop.

Police Chief Stan Sower, 39, opened the prison door for the 25-year-old Wells, got him a job and set him up in an apartment in this small southwestern Idaho community.

Three years ago Sower arrested Wells for burglarizing a doctor's office.

"He's a good kid," Sower said of Wells. "He wasn't even armed when he broke into the medical clinic. He went right by two safes. He just needed a fix." While in prison Wells kicked the drug habit and joined a team of inmates who held "rap" sessions on narcotics with numerous organizations on the outside.

Last September Wells received a parole date. The only condition was that he have a job and a place to live. He was ready to head for his Tacoma, Wash., home.

But early this month a prison counselor told Wells he had talked with his parents and that they didn't want him to come home. No explanations.

That's when Chief Sower stepped in. He learned of Wells' plight after another inmate told of it in a letter to a newspaper. Sower arranged for a job at a food processing plant and paid the first months rent on an apartment for Wells.

"I have only one aim and that's to not let him down," Wells said in an interview. "If there were more policemen like Sower, the prisons wouldn't be as crowded."

Wells will be a guest at Sower's home today for Thanksgiving dinner.

"I feel there's a heck of a lot of hope in Chuck," Sower said. "He has a real good chance of helping himself. He just needs a start and to be accepted."

Why did he take an interest in Wells?

A policeman's primary job is that of helping, says Sower, who resigned his radio executive's job four years ago to become police chief of Payette, a town of 5,000 persons.

"In a small town like Payette, it's only about 5 per cent law enforcement," Sower added.

Boy Burned In Argument

NORFOLK (AP) — A 16-year-old boy was set on fire during a family argument Thursday over what to drink for dinner, police report.

Police said Mrs. Ruby Coker, 25, told them her 29-year-old husband Alfred scuffled with the victim, her brother Lorenzo Brooks, after the argument and became further annoyed when the boy went back to his bedroom and flopped on his bed.

The husband obtained a jug of gasoline, drenched the teenager and set him on fire, police said. The boy ran outside where neighbors and police put the fire out.

Brooks was taken to the burn unit at Norfolk General Hospital suffering from second and third degree burns over 50 per cent of his body.

He was listed in critical condition. Police charged the husband with felonious assault and daytime arson and held him in lieu of $15,000 bond.

Mary Pickford Wins By Default

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mary Pickford, after 47 years, has won by default a battle against a gas tank that offended her when she reigned as Hollywood's movie queen.

In 1924, the Los Angeles Gas & Electric Co. erected a 224-foot high holding tank behind the now gone United Artists Studio on North Formosa Avenue.

Miss Pickford, an owner as well as star of UA, was outraged because the tank marred a studio scene that was supposed to be a French provincial street.

She demanded that the utility company remove the tank, but it refused.

Now, the utility company's successor, Southern California Gas Co., has dismantled the tower. The company says it took down the tank because underground facilities can now store the gas.

The Student Government discussed homecoming and decided Dec. 17 would be the date for the event.

Ronnie Briley was chosen all conference for his outstanding playing in football this year at North Pitt. Wayne Pearce and Lionel Carney, two other football players, received honorable mention.

Three scrimmage games were played last week. The Panther boys played host to Tarboro on Wednesday night. A pep rally was held for the "Big Orange Machine" on the following afternoon.

The Panther girls slaughtered Pantego in a scrimmage game that night.

Friday afternoon the Junior Varsity Panthers played a good practice game against Williamston. The first official game was Monday night with D. H. Conley. The North Pitt girls won 54-25, while the North Pitt boys lost 70-52, and the Junior Varsity lost.

North Pitt has different guests visiting the school each week. The purpose is to improve the public relations by letting people from the community come in and tour the school. The visitors this week were the Rev. William Butler, the Rev. Hugh Mullholland and Johnnie Carris.

Three carloads of North Pitt students departed for Raleigh Thursday morning in hopes of seeing Senator Muskie, a possible candidate for president in 1972. Due to unfortunate circumstances, Muskie did not reach Raleigh. Already half way to Raleigh before they heard he would not make the trip, the students decided to go on to Raleigh anyway.

A group of North Pitt students toured Fort Bragg Army base Friday.

North Pitt began a five-minute news broadcast on radio station WOOW this week. Some of the Student Government members will present the broadcast each week.

Donna Gonzalez, Christie Speir and Jean Council presented the broadcast this week at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

The students regret that a well-liked business teacher, Mrs. Shirley Moore, left North Pitt after the Thanksgiving holidays to continue her education at East Carolina University.

Finally, the North Pitt students received their deserved rest — the Thanksgiving holidays.

Governorship Race Is Changed

The announcement by Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan that he will not seek the Democratic gubernatorial nomination puts the race in an entirely new light.

Women's Caucus Planned Dec. 4

By BRYAN HAISLIP

CHAPEL HILL — Women want a share of the political action. In the inner councils of the parties and on the ballot, representation in the jobs and appointments to policy-making boards that is political patronage. They're fed up with discrimination on the basis of sex in education and employment.

What can be done about it, and how to do it, will be the topic for a meeting of North elective and political office.

Some Who Will Attend

Democratic and Republican women will put aside partisanship for the meeting. Mrs. Margaret S. Harper of Southport, state Democratic vice chairman, will be present along with her GOP counterpart, Mrs. Grace Rherer of Winston-Salem.

Mrs. R. A. Griffin of Asheville, a presidential appointee to the National Commission on the Status of Women, has indicated her support for the conference. She has Dr. Ellen Winston of Raleigh, a pioneer in the ranks of women administrators in state and federal government.

Rep. Nancy Winbon Chase of Wayne, five-term state legislator, will attend. Rep. Mary Horne Odom of Scotland, the other current woman legislator, has expressed her support. Mrs. Henry Frye of Greensboro, whose husband was the state's first black legislator since Reconstruction, is expected to be present.

Women bear some of the blame for their meager ranks in government and unequal standing in business; they haven't been pushy enough about their rights. Their trouble, Mrs. McKay said, is a low level of motivation and a high degree of frustration.

Encouragement In Unity

Banding together can cure the first with encouragement for women to run for office, and ease the second with pressure for equal opportunity enforcement.

"Certainly a prime objective is to get women on the ballot, for statewide office and also at the Congressional, district and county level," she said. "Not just any women, but good candidates who can win."

Another goal is a state arm with the enforcement power to end discrimination on the basis of sex. "Several women have asked how to file complaints when they experience discrimination in compensation and upward mobility in their jobs," Mrs. McKay reported. "They need technical assistance in securing rights already theirs."

She has been in the smoke-filled rooms of politics. She sat in on strategy sessions for Terry Sanford's campaign for governor, then served as Democratic national committeewoman.

A political tactician told her then that women in politics are multi-issue oriented, while men react to a single issue, usually the pocketbook.

"That's the strength we can give. Women care about many things," she said. "We want to be people. We want to have a part in what happens because of our intelligence and ability, not just because we're women."

There is the possibility they could be joined by ECU President Leo Jenkins, who had always said he would not run against Morgan and stood aside when it appeared that Morgan would run.

Thus there is still quite an array of talent in the running for the nomination and there could be more before the filing deadline passes.

It is safe to assume that the announced candidates were more than happy with Morgan's decision not to seek the governorship. He was perhaps the front runner at the time of his withdrawal and now that he is out, Morgan's early supporters will be moving into other camps. Much of the campaign money which was reserved for Morgan will also find its way to other gubernatorial candidates.

The campaigning for governor started unusually early this year and this was one reason for Morgan's decision. He described the political activity at this time as "without precedent in North Carolina."

"In this year's peculiar political climate, I cannot delay a decision until these things are accomplished, as I had once hoped I could," he said, referring to his aims as attorney general.

Even with Morgan out of the gubernatorial race it appears that one of the most vigorous campaigns in some time is shaping up. It will be lengthy and because of this it might become heated.

We must also remember that once the Democratic nominee is decided the Republican candidate will be waiting in the wings and a major general election campaign can be expected.

Rides A Wave Of Discontent

By JOHN KIGO

CHARLOTTE — Two years ago attorney William Booe was elected to a six-year term on the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School Board, as he rode a wave of discontent created by a federal court order to bus children all over the county to get a racial balance in the schools.

And now Booe is hoping the "forcible busing" issue will help put him in the halls of the U.S. Senate.

A recent convert from the Democratic Party, Booe is running for the U.S. Senate as a Republican. His two main issues: "Forced busing and law and order with justice. I like to include justice in there."

Booe's tenure on the Charlotte-Mecklenburg School Board has been marked with controversy and a conservative stance that's as stout as granite. Most people figured Booe was making talk when he first started talking about a race for the Senate. But he's not joking around.

"I don't feel I'm behind anybody at this stage of the game," Booe says. "I will talk about the issues with people in every corner of North Carolina. I plan to campaign actively in all 100 counties."

Booe is happy that Jim Gardner didn't seek to run for the Senate but he says he's in the race to stay. He hopes he won't face opposition in the primary but if it comes, he says he's ready for it.

"When a candidate talks about forced busing and law and order with justice," Booe said in an interview, "some people automatically say he's a radical. That's unfortunate, very sad, because those two issues are national ones, important to people all over this country. I think Sen. (Everett) Jordan is taking a hypocritical approach to forced busing. He sat up there and did nothing about it but when he saw how upset the people were about it, he started coming out against it. I don't think the people will swallow that."

The busing of school students out of their neighborhood hasn't slowed in Mecklenburg since Booe took his seat on the school board but he has been an outspoken foe of the plan.

In discussing his campaign plans, Booe says other issues will be:

—Fiscal policy: "I remember when 8 o'clock coffee used to be about 18 cents a pound. Now it's more than a dollar. Run away inflation is killing the average man, especially those on fixed incomes."

—Compulsory Retirement of Supreme Court Justices: "I think this is a must. While I haven't decided on an exact age, I would say that Justices certainly shouldn't sit on the court after the age of 72."

If Sen. Jordan makes it through the Democratic primary, Booe says he will talk about Jordan's record.

"I'm going to talk about what he hasn't done," Booe said. "I'm not going to make any big deal about Jordan's age but it's going to hurt him. He would be 81 at the end of his next term, if he were reelected. I think the voters will recognize this and it will work to his disadvantage in a campaign. But in this day and time, thanks mainly to the media, the voters want to hear the issues discussed and solutions to problems offered. That's the kind of campaign I plan to run."

Booe says money is coming in at a good clip.

"A man just walked out of my office," he said, "and left $25 on my desk. A lady walked up to me at the Republican convention last week and handed me a check for $100. And we'll have much volunteer help from all over the state."

While Booe is busy with his own campaign, some other Republicans are trying their best to draft 10th District Congressman Jim Broyhill as a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate. Broyhill has said he wouldn't run for the Senate but politicians have been known to change their minds, haven't they Bobby Morgan?

A PICKET IN FRONT OF YOUR HOUSE!

Explaining Thanksgiving

(Every Thanksgiving Day the French ambassador to the United States delivers a strong note to the State Department demanding to know why all the government offices in Washington are closed. A fourth secretary on the duty desk at State hands him the following reply in a language the French ambassador will understand.)

WASHINGTON — One of our most important holidays is Thanksgiving Day (known in France as le jour de merci donnont).

Le jour de merci donnont was first started by a group of Pilgrims (pelerins) who fled from l'Angleterre before the McCarran Act to found a colony in the new world (le nouveau monde), where they could shoot Indians (les peaux-rouges) and eat turkey (dinde) to their heart's content. They landed at a place called Plymouth (now a famous voiture Americaine) in a wooden sailing ship called the Mayflower (or Fleur de mai) in 1620. But while the pelerins were killing the dinde, the peaux-rouges were killing the pelerins, and there were several hard winters ahead for both of them. The only way the peaux-rouges helped the pelerins was when they taught them to grow corn (mais). The reason they did this was because they liked corn with their pelerins.

In 1623, after another harsh year, the pelerins' crops were so good that they decided to have a celebration and give thanks because more mais was raised by the pelerins than pelerins were killed by les peaux-rouges.

Every year on the jour de merci donnont, parents tell their children an amusing story about the first celebration.

It concerns a brave capitaine named Miles Standish (known in France as Kilometres Deboutish) and a young, shy lieutenant named Jean Alden. Both of them were in love with a flower of Plymouth called Priscilla Mullens (no translation). The vieux capitaine said to the jeune lieutenant:

"Go to the damsel Priscilla (allez tres vite chez Priscilla), the loveliest maiden of Plymouth (la plus jolie demoiselle de Plymouth). Say that a blunt old captain, a man not of words but of action (un vieux Fanfan la Tulipe), offers his hand and his heart, the hand and heart of a soldier. Not in these words, you know, but this, in short, is my meaning. 'I am a maker of war (je suis un fabricant de la guerre) and not a maker of phrases. You, bred as a scholar (vous, qui etes pain comme un etudiant), can say it in elegant language, such as you read in your books of the pleadings and wooings of lovers, such as you think best adapted to win the heart of the maiden.'"

Although Jean was fit to be tied (convenable a etre emballé), friendship prevailed over love and he went to do his duty. But in- (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Don't Build Hopes

(The Raleigh Times)

Can a bill outlawing forced busing and establishing a freedom of choice plan for integration stand a Supreme Court test?

That's the question which should be asked by any citizen who seeks comfort from a recent statement by Senator Everett Jordan that he and Senator Sam Ervin are working on legislation which they hope will derail a Supreme Court ruling which has led to forced busing of school children to achieve racial balance. There has been too much confusion about busing, confusion brought on by various Nixon administration statements in Washington, to welcome any further confusion and false hopes from any source.

Senator Jordan said that the proposal would provide that when a school board established a freedom of choice assignment plan, neither the federal courts nor any agency of the government could interfere with the arrangements. Senator Ervin said he has 17 cosponsors for the bill and added that "I think it's completely constitutional."

Senator Ervin is a justly famed constitutional lawyer. He may be right in his estimate of this bill.

But, first it would have to pass Congress. Then it would have to be upheld by the federal courts before it could be known whether Senator Ervin was right on this constitutional question.

It should be remembered that the old freedom of choice idea was knocked out as a desegregation device some years ago. In most cases, there was virtually no freedom and virtually no choice, and the burden had to be borne by the black people involved. All too often, the black parents who exercised freedom of choice to send their children to white schools were subjected to threats or to economic reprisal.

Then, it should be remembered that the Supreme Court itself, while not specifically upholding busing, did say it was a suitable device for desegregation.

So many parents are seeking desperately for a way out of busing, and their concern is understandable. But, they shouldn't let any statements by any candidates allow them to build up hopes before the bill is enacted into law and approved by the courts.

Day Of Little Desire

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The day after Thanksgiving isn't exactly a day when a fellow sets out to perform mighty feats.

He may not know exactly what he wants to do, but he is pretty confident that he knows some of the things he doesn't want to do.

So, lying here with aspirins and stomach pills just a reach away. I wrote down a list of things I don't plan to do today. I certainly have no desire to—

To work.
Climb a tree.
Or see another turkey.
Win a war.

Fight city hall.
Point to with pride.
Or view with alarm.

Give a blood transfusion to a whale.

Milk a tiger.
Succor a flea,
or see another turkey.
Count the gray hairs in a centenarian's beard.

Send a polar bear to sea.
Or see another turkey.

Write a letter to the man in the moon.
Bowl down a herd of lemmings.

Or see another turkey.
Read a brand new thesaurus.
Rid a sick fish of ichthyophthirius,
Or see another turkey.
Brand a gnat.

Demand law and order.
Fan a six-gun.
Pass a miracle.
Create a maxim.
Set the table.
Open the refrigerator.
And see that same old turkey.
Tomorrow will be better.

The Greenville High School football team concluded the season in a blaze of glory Thanksgiving by walloping the strong Farmville team by a score of 19 to 0. It was a fitting climax to a season that produced many wins.

Playing at the State Theatre is "The Gay Bachelor" starring Hoot Gibson.

The Indian Summer weather which Greenville has been enjoying the last month has come to an end. The lowered temperatures were accompanied by a slight drizzle of rain last night and today. A haze hung over the entire countryside this morning making traffic difficult and hazardous. The temperature showed an upward trend this morning with slight change being noted at the noon hour.

Strength For Today

IN HOPE, NOT DESPAIR

Duty is, and always has been, a serious — and sometimes a burdensome — word. The word "duty" means "conduct due superiors in obedience or submission." There are millions of people throughout the world living their lives on the basis of duty. Every day they may have to endure situations they dislike. They may continually be reminded of a lower state into which they were dropped by the loss of money. Those who aspire to political positions have to confront the grim reality that promotions do not come as fast as they would like to have them come and that often a coveted job goes to someone who little deserves it.

Yet duty stands like a sentry before our minds and souls. We owe duties to our country whether we entirely approve of its policies or not. In fact, our duty may occasionally consist in strident protest against certain public policies. Some people forsake duty and become traitors. Most people accept duty and go about their housework or their duties in office or workshop, or endure the burden of a mistaken marriage.

There is lots of gladness in life and lots of disappointment. Perhaps we took a wrong turn at a certain point and have been regretting it ever since. The way to live with our disappointments is to accept them, make the best of them, press on to the crest of the mountain or the end of the road — but in hope, not despair.

Small Town Bankers Are Shrewd

By ELMER ROESSNER

Small-town bankers are generally regarded as shrewd, but a study by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston suggests they may be shrewder than a lot of big-city bankers.

City banks, like almost every other industry in the country, have been on a binge of expansion in recent years. Because of banking laws, methods by which banks can expand are restricted. A solvent bank may take over a failing bank to protect the latter's depositors. A bank may establish branches within certain limitations, or a bank may form a holding company to take over the bank and other smaller banks.

Branches have been proliferating. For example, in New York State, the law at one time used to restrict branches to a bank's own banking district. This was intended to protect rural banks from big city banks. But under the administration of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, himself former head of Chase Manhattan Bank, the third largest in the United States, the state was made a single banking district, permitting an explosive increase in branches. Nelson's brother Winthrop now runs Chase.

Many Mergers

At the same time, acquisitions through bank holding companies have gone on apace throughout the nation. The Boston Fed had Prof. Thomas R. Piper of Harvard Business School and Steven J. Weiss, a Fed assistant vice president and economist, make a study of 102 such acquisitions.

They found the acquisitions generally more of a boon to the stockholders of the merged (or submerged) bank than to the parent companies.

Of the 102 acquisitions, there were more unprofitable ones, 54, than profitable ones, they found. And "acquisitions, on average, failed to improve the trend in earnings per share of the holding companies."

Piper and Weiss found that although "the opportunities to enhance bank profitability sufficiently to offset high purchase prices seem to have been quite limited, competition among holding companies to acquire additional banks drove up prices of the stocks of possible acquisitions."

While Piper and Weiss did not so report, it is probable that those small-town bankers simply played one holding company off against another and in so doing made some very fine deals.

Median premiums accruing to stockholders of the acquired banks, Piper and Weiss found, ranged from 12 to a fat 53 per cent. Furthermore, opportunities to raise profitability enough to offset the high purchase prices were small, they found, since the acquired banks were generally already quite successful and because costs, especially employee and managerial salaries and fringe benefits, increased. "It is necessary for management of holding companies to plan their acquisitions with care," Piper and Weiss concluded. And, they could have added, don't underestimate those small-town bankers.

Hijacker And $200,000 In Cash Have Disappeared

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A hijacker who apparently knew precisely what he wanted to do and how to do it has vanished after bailing out of a commandeered jet airliner with $200,000.

The pilot of the Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 said he believed the hijacker "took leave of us" in the Woodland, Wash., area 25 miles north of here as the plane flew low and slow from Seattle to Reno, Nev., en route to the man's demanded destination, Mexico.

Helicopters and airplanes crisscrossed over the brushy and timbered foothills of the Cascade Mountains most of Thursday before the weather closed in. The hunt resumes today.

Authorities held out little hope, however, that the hijacker would be found soon.

"He's probably long gone," a Clark County, Wash., sheriff's deputy said.

It was the first time an aircraft hijacker had used a parachute to make his escape and it was the largest sum of money an air pirate had ever escaped with in the United States.

Described as a tall, slim man in his mid 40s, the hijacker took control of the three-engine jetliner Wednesday as it flew from Portland to Seattle on the last leg of a flight originating in Washington, D.C.

He told a stewardess he had a bomb and that he wanted to go to Mexico. He also demanded four parachutes and $200,000.

The FBI said he had used the name D. B. Cooper when he boarded the plane in Portland.

"That's the name he used when he bought his ticket," an FBI agent said. "But he's probably no more D. B. Cooper than I am."

When the parachutes and the cash were delivered to him at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, he allowed the 36 other passengers and two stewardesses to disembark. The pilot, Capt. William Scott, and three other crew members were ordered to remain aboard.

Airborne for a refueling at Reno, the hijacker ordered Scott to fly no higher than 10,000 feet, with flaps and landing gear down to keep the airliner's speed at about 200 miles per hour.

He also directed that the rear exit door of the 727 be left open, with the stairs extended as they would be in taking on or discharging passengers on the ground.

And somewhere between Seattle and Reno he departed. Also gone were the $200,000 and two of the four parachutes he had been given.

Scott said during the flight that indicator lights in the cockpit showed the rear stairwell was being operated.

Airline and Boeing officials explained that the low flight would permit the aircraft to fly with the rear door open without cabin pressurization.

"It would be a very safe drop," Boeing's John Wheeler said of a parachute jump from the rear door. "He'd be away from the flaps and other engines and go straight down."

The 727 is one of the few commercial aircraft models with an exit at its extreme rear, under the tail.

Two of the 'chutes delivered to the hijacker were military types and two were sport parachutes.

The military 'chutes normally operate with a static line which rips them open almost immediately after the jumper leaves his aircraft. The sports 'chutes permit a free fall until the jumper himself decides to release them.

Officials said three Air Force planes trailed the 727 after it left Seattle, but they refused to say whether a parachute was seen. They did say that a man using a sports parachute in a free fall could easily have been missed.

Officials refused to say what type of parachutes were found in the plane after it landed at Reno.

The hijacker confined Scott, flight officers William Rataczak and H. E. Anderson and stewardess Tina Mucklow in the cockpit after the 727 reached flight altitude on leaving Seattle.

He remained alone in the passenger compartment, where the temperature dropped to 7 degrees below zero with the rear entry door open.

His last communication with the crew came shortly after 8 p.m. Wednesday and he is believed to have bailed out of the aircraft at about 8:13 p.m., the FBI said.

That would have been 36 minutes after liftoff at Seattle.

The Clark County sheriff's office said that if the hijacker had indeed bailed out at 8:13 p.m. he would have landed between the two hamlets of View and Ariel, Wash.

The four crew members were flown to their homes in the Minneapolis area and were ordered to make no public statements until a debriefing session with the FBI and Federal Aviation Administration officials.

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

Things were really buzzing around Conley this week as the new school newspaper, THE SHIELD, went out. Mrs. Helen McClanahan, the newspaper's advisor, did a fine job on the newspaper with the overall effort of all the newspaper staff.

Howard Hughes Sells First Lot Of Nevada Land

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Howard Hughes, a year after leaving Las Vegas, has sold the first piece of the multimillion-dollar empire he began erecting in Nevada in 1966.

A Hughes Tool Co. spokesman said Thursday that a 10-acre parking lot next to Caesars Palace on the Strip was sold to a local liquor distributor, Stephen Wynn. The price was not disclosed.

The spokesman denied speculation that the sale marked the start of a disbanding of Hughes' $300-million investments in casinos, hotels and mines.

"This property is simply a parking lot," the spokesman said, adding that the Hughes Tool Co. had "no present use for the property."

The spokesman made the announcement of the sale Thanksgiving, one year and a day after Hughes secretly left the city.

Hughes executives say the reclusive billionaire lives in a well guarded hotel suite in the Bahamas.

Will Testify At Hearing On Folk Life Foundation

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music stars Roy Acuff, Bill Monroe, Billy Edd Wheeler and Minnie Pearl may be among the witnesses at a Senate hearing scheduled for the Grand Ole Opry House Dec. 4.

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., will conduct the hearing on his bill to create an American Folk Life Foundation. It would have authority to conceive and implement a national policy of support for American folklore by encouraging art forms that express customs, beliefs and crafts common to ethnic groups of Americans.

The hearing will be broadcast live by WSM, originating station of the Opry, before its regular Saturday night program, Harris said, and a tape will be inserted in the Congressional Record.

Youth Group Plans Weekend Activities

The members of the Youth Group of Sycamore Hill Baptist Church will sponsor its annual week of activities Monday through Sunday, Nov. 29-Dec. 5.

The theme for the week is "God's Goodness Should Stir the Young People to Gratitude and Worship."

Kenneth Hammond, a junior at East Carolina University will be the guest speaker Monday night, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Marion Jones, a member of the North Pitt High School faculty, will be the guest soloist.

The Rev. John Mendez, a senior from the School of Religion at Shaw University, Raleigh, will speak Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. This has been planned as revival night.

A "parade of talent" from the youth group will be held Thursday night at 7:30. The FFA group from Oak City, under the direction of Richard Johnson, will be the guests.

Mrs. Rhonda Banks, presently enrolled at Shaw University and one of last year's speakers for Rose High School commencement ceremonies, will be the youth day speaker Sunday at 11 a.m. Mickey Terry will play the organ and Mamie Maye will play the piano.

"Miss Sycamore Hill" will be crowned Sunday night at 7:30. Mrs. Jean Darden, instructor at Rose High, will be the guest speaker.

Participating for the title of "Miss Sycamore Hill" are: Wanda James; Angela Randolph; Debra Cherry; Jackie Ferebee; Kathy Streeter; Deborah Hall; Canary Joyner; Sonya Smith; Miriam Banks; Hannah Cherry; and Mamie Maye.

Dissatisfaction Is Rife Among Clergy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Most Protestant clergymen, particularly in the older categories, are satisfied in their profession. But they feel they're underpaid. And many are chaffing under parish pressures.

As in the Roman Catholic priesthood, an increasing number of them seem to be opting out.

These are among the findings of a variety of studies, surveys and symposiums conducted recently in an effort to gauge the mood and problems in the ministry.

Garrett Theological Seminary, a United Methodist institution in Evanston, Ill., made a survey of 4,472 alumni and found that most clergymen enjoy their work and have a sense of accomplishment about it.

But this attitude prevails more among older clergy than among the young.

Seventy per cent of those graduated in 1930s are "highly satisfied" in their work, while only 55 per cent of the graduates of the 1960s feel that way about it.

However, another survey of 4,984 clergymen in 21 denominations, made by the Society for the Advancement of Continuing Education for Ministers, found that 88 per cent of the total feel they are underpaid.

The median annual income for those polled was $8,037, including housing and other allowances. Although they have to spend nearly as many years of study preparing for their profession as doctors or lawyers, they earn less than a third as much on the average.

Nevertheless, only 9 per cent of them said they were "dissatisfied with being in the ministry."

On the other hand, recent studies indicate the exodus from the ministry is increasing, both among Protestants and Roman Catholics.

The Rev. Dr. E.A. Vordery, of Atlanta, Ga., told a meeting of Southern Baptist home missions leaders in Ridgecrest, N.C., that estimates put the total leaving as high as 10,000 pastors and priests each year.

Among them are some of the best clergymen, he said, adding that common reasons for their departures include inadequate salaries, the general apathy of congregations and unreasonable pressures and expectations placed on them.

Many go into depression, he said, under pressures from denominational administrators, divergent expectations of members for making the church prosper and because of the inability to satisfy the often conflicting demands.

In the Roman Catholic Church, its bishops consider the loss of priests from their vocations as the most urgent problem in the Church, according to a survey by Gallagher Report, an authoritative business publication.

It found that 83 per cent of 31 bishops questioned regard the shrinkage of priestly vocations as the Church's No. 1 problem.

City Manager Is Back On Job

City Manager Harry Hagerty is back on his job in City Hall. For the past two weeks, following a convalescent period after a heart attack, doctors have permitted the city manager to work for a two hour period each morning.

He is hopeful of being able soon to increase his working day, and will be informed within a few days by doctors of the extent he can increase his working hours.

Slain Over A Children's Game

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A man was shot and killed Thanksgiving night in an argument with a neighbor which grew out of a children's game of marbles, police said.

The victim was Alvin Capel, 30.

Bernard Brice, 27, was charged with murder.

the citizens of Maryland against smugglers and pirates."

It has produced such naval heroes as Commodore Stephen Decatur ("My country, May she ever be right, but right or wrong, my country.") and Adm. Franklin Buchanan, first superintendent of the Naval Academy.

As a matter of fact, members of the Maryland Navy, officially known as the Naval Militia, have served in every declared American war.

Its main duty today, in addition to its youth training program, is search and rescue missions throughout the bay area.

Reunion Set For Sunday

FARMVILLE — The 51st annual reunion of the Tyson-May families will be held Sunday beginning at 10:30 a.m. in the Major Benjamin May DAR chapter house here.

The Tyson family reunion was organized in 1921 by the late Grigg Tyson, who became the first president of the reunion. In 1932, the Mays were invited to join the Tysons and the reunion became formally known as the Tyson-May reunion.

James B. Hunt Jr., Wilson attorney, will be the principal speaker at this year's reunion. Ralph Brake Jr. of Rocky Mount is president of the reunion and Mrs. Henry T. Smith of Rt. 1, Fountain, is the treasurer. Mrs. John B. Wright Jr. of Farmville serves as secretary and the vice president is Albert F. Tyson of Kinston.

Claude Barrett of Kinston will give the invocation and conduct the memorial service.

The presidency of the reunion is alternated annually between the Tysons and Mays.

Music Program Slated Sunday

A program of gospel and spiritual music will be presented Sunday at 1:30 p.m. at the Roxy Theatre, Albemarle Ave.

Sponsored by the Bachelor Benedict Club, the program will feature such groups as the Gospel Trio of Tarboro and the Rock Island Singers, Fountain.

Bar Floats From Parade

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Two floats were barred from the Holiday Jubilee parade in Greensboro Thanksgiving Day. Sponsors of one of the floats protested the action by parade chairmen Mal Goldbeck and Jim Foxworth.

Brian O'Conner and Larry York, spokesmen from the Greensboro chapter of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, said they will confer with the American Civil Liberties Union about possible legal action in the barring of the organization's float.

The other group barred from the parade, the Black Assassins Auto Club, made no protest.

Goldbeck said the VVAW float was barred because "a group claiming to be Vietnam veterans wanted to march with the float, not properly wearing military uniforms."

He said the Black Assassins Auto Club float was barred because it was only a float with a car on it, having nothing to identify it with the parade's Christmas theme.

Goldbeck said he and Foxworth jointly made the decision barring the two floats. The parade is sponsored by the Holiday Jubilee Association.

Farmville Plant Ordered Rehire Fired Employee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Labor Relations Board trial examiner has ordered the Collins & Aikman Co. to rehire an employee who was fired at the textile firm's Farmville, N.C., plant.

Examiner George J. Bott, in a ruling released Thursday, held that the company used a pretext that he falsified an employment application to fire James D. Denton on March 18.

Bott ruled that Collins & Aikman actually discharged Denton for activity on behalf of the Allied and Technical Workers of the U.S. and Canada union.

The examiner said Denton must be offered his job back and be reimbursed for any lost wages. The ruling may be appealed to the full NLRB.

Everybody and his cousin too... notice the lone man in the foreground of the picture. He must be wondering if he will ever get his shopping done. Even with his back to us he looks confused and bewildered.

Most of us have felt the pangs of loneliness in the midst of a crowd. Surrounded by people, we couldn't escape that feeling of utter desolation. It may engulf us in a busy department store, a crowded supermarket, a jam-packed subway, but suddenly it strikes... this feeling that no one cares about us or about our burdens.

When our hearts cry out for assurance that somebody cares, we can always turn to the truth and love revealed by the Holy Word of God: "Lo, I am with you alway."

At the heart of the universe there are great resources of strength. Discover them for yourself by worshipping each week in the church of your choice.

Way Open To Name Advisory Committee Members

A plan to develop a Citizens Advisory Committee as a body to advise members of the Greenville School Board on issues relevant to the public schools was approved at the November meeting of the City School Board.

Following this approval, the way is now open for 26 communities within Greenville (listed in the table below), to begin formulating plans for each community to select the person to represent them on the Citizens Advisory Committee. In all except four instances, each community will have one representative. Four communities will have two. Representation is based on the number of school pupils living within each individual area.

Individuals or groups wishing to initiate plans within their area for the selection of a representative are encouraged to contact Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, (telephone 752-4192), Glenn Cox at the same number, or any member of the school staff for detailed description of boundary lines encompassing each area.

School officials stress that choice of individuals will be entirely a matter for each community to decide on, and that the school staff or school board will not be involved in any of the choices made.

Superior Court

Judge A. Pilston Godwin, Jr., disposed of the following cases in the November 9 session of Pitt County Superior Court.

Ben Kinion, public drunkenness, 20 days.

Robert Harrington, public drunkenness, 30 days to 6 months.

Willie Williams, Jr., public drunkenness, 30 days to six months.

William Loomis Jr., disorderly conduct, nol pros.

Jimmy Williams, driving under the influence, six months, driving while license revoked, nol pros.

Mark Calvin Olds, murder, pled guilty to involuntary manslaughter, 6-8 years suspended on five years probation and payment of $1,000 and costs.

Michael John Koenig, possession of narcotics, three years probation, pay costs.

Billy Ray Mozingo, driving under the influence, 90 days jail.

Leroy King, breaking and entering, two counts, 10 years jail.

George Washington, breaking and entering, 60 days jail.

'Keystone Kop' Survivor Dies

SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Hank Mann, believed to be the last survivor of Mack Sennette's original Keystone Kops, has died here at the age of 84.

Entering motion pictures in 1912, Mann played one of the bumbling, bowler-hatted policemen in numerous movies and made occasional character actor appearances as late as 1960.

He died Thursday at the Braewood Convalescent Hospital. Funeral services were not announced and will be private.

He is survived by his widow, Dolly.

Eccentrics Have One Defender

LONDON (AP) — Too many old-style English eccentrics are being packed off to mental hospitals when they only need humoring by their families, a British physician said today.

"What's wrong with having the odd eccentric in the family," demanded Dr. William Edwards, writing in medical magazine "Pulse."

"If your wife likes to bark like a dog, give her a dog biscuit," he says.

Nat'l Guard Faces Change

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Adjutant Gen. Ferd Davis has announced the North Carolina Army National Guard will undergo a major reorganization Dec. 1.

Davis emphasized Thursday the guard's authorized troop strength will be 10,900, virtually the same as it is now, and that all communities with guard units will still have guard units. The guard commander also said that communities awaiting the construction of new armories will remain on the list as originally scheduled.

The reorganization will not affect the North Carolina Air National Guard.

Davis said the most noticeable change under the reorganization will be the formation of support companies for the three mechanized infantry battalions and two armor battalions. The support companies will be formed from existing units, Davis said.

A few numerical designations of units will be changed, new units will be added in some cities and some units will be switched among cities.

These include the mainnance company in Greensboro, which is being redesignated and stationed in Winston-Salem, an aviation company in Winston-Salem, which will move to Greensboro, and a transportation company in Asheville which will move to Lenoir.

In other changes, a three-man detachment in Kinston will be deactivated and a public information detachment will be formed in Raleigh.

Summonses Are Police Greeting

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Police have begun issuing 50,000 special traffic summonses—wishing motorists "a most joyous and rewarding holiday season."

The summonses look like an ordinary parking ticket but the reverse side contains a message surrounded by a green holly border. They will be given to motorists who leave their cars unlocked or valuable articles inside.

"Lock your car, pocket the keys," urges each summons, which explains larcenies of and from automobiles increase during the holiday season.

The special tickets are not used as a penalty, just a reminder.

N.C. Holiday Traffic Toll Still Rising

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least 10 persons have been killed on North Carolina highways so far over the 4 1/2-day Thanksgiving holiday.

If the rate continues, the 30 deaths predicted by the North Carolina State Motor Club will be reached.

The count is for 102 hours, from 6 p.m. Wednesday until midnight Sunday.

The Highway Patrol said one of the victims, Thomas Wayne McKay, 17, of Mooresville was the driver of a car that was being chased by police. It hit two utility poles on U.S. 601 a mile and one-half north of Salisbury. Two passengers were injured.

Franklyn Earl Rhinehart, 26, of Greenville, N.C., died when his car overturned at Salter Path in Carteret County.

There were three pedestrian victims.

The highway death toll for the year rose to 1,600.

The pedestrian victims were Edward Willard, 51, of Jamestown near Greensboro, hit by a car on U.S. 64 about 10 miles east of Mocksville; Dennis Graham Smith, 51, of Atkinson in Pender County, hit by an automobile near Atkinson and Rabe Floyd Callahan, 36, of near Shelby, hit by a car near that Cleveland County town.

Jane Carrington Suddarth, 44, of Lexington was fatally injured when the car in which she was riding collided head-on with another six miles south of Oxford.

Charles Kenneth Pinfold, 7, of Rt. 4, Wilson, died when the car in which he was riding overturned just east of Ervin in Harnett County.

Shelton Scott Mills, 17, of Ay-dlett in Currituck County died when the car in which he was a passenger hit a utility pole in that northeastern county.

Two 17-year-old youths, Bruce Green and Henry Branch, were killed when a train hit their automobile in their hometown of Franklinton.

South Viets Expect Big Fight Only Days Away

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A 25,000-man South Vietnamese offensive into eastern Cambodia picked up momentum in its fifth day today with a ranger thrust into the rubber plantation of Mimot. Only light contact was reported.

It marked the first time in six months that South Vietnam-was a veteran of World War II. Military rites will be conducted at the grave site.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marjorie M. Clark of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Barbara Kennedy of Baltimore, Md.; his mother, Mrs. Edna Clark Southerland of Greenville; two sisters, Mrs. Emma K. Harper of Baltimore, Md., and Miss Patricia Dixon of Washington, D.C.; two grandchildren.

The body will remain at the Norcott & Co. Downtown Chapel from 5 p.m. Saturday until the funeral hour. The family visitation at the chapel will be from 8-9 p.m. Saturday. The family will be at the home of his mother, Mrs. Southerland, 1704 S. Pitt St., Greenville.

Outlaw

Mr. William Outlaw, formerly of Greenville, died Tuesday in Baltimore, Md. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Henry Moore officiating. Burial will follow in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Outlaw was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Outlaw. He was born in Pitt County but had made his home in Baltimore, Md., for the past several years.

Surviving are one son, William Outlaw Jr.; four sisters, Mrs. Jane Hopkins of Greenville, Mrs. Lizzie Mayo of Baltimore, Md., Mrs. Christabelle Parker of Stokes and Mrs. Mable Daniels of New Haven, Conn.; two brothers, Sylvester Outlaw and George Outlaw, both of New Haven, Conn.; three grandchildren; four great grandchildren.

The body will be at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home.

Stocks

HOOKERTON — Mrs. Winnie M. Stocks, 82, died Thursday morning in the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Center. She was a retired merchant and school teacher and was a member of the first graduating class at East Carolina Teachers College.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning, 11 a.m. at Farmer Funeral Chapel with the Rev. David Hansley and the Rev. C. H. Overman officiating. Burial will follow in Pine Lawn Memorial Park in Kinston.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Marie Vandiford of Hookerton, Mrs. Alice Erwin of Snow Hill; one son, James Stocks of Hookerton; three brothers, C. W. Merritt of Goldsboro, Lenuel and G. W. Merritt, both of Dover; two sisters, Mrs. Charlie Ewell of Tuscarora, and Mrs. Bertha Griffin of New Bern; and six grandchildren.

ese forces had swept into Mimot, a key North Vietnamese staging area for thrusts toward Saigon. It is 25 miles southwest of Snuol, from which South Vietnamese forces were driven in May with more than 500 casualties.

Other government troops were poised along the border apparently ready for similar thrusts into Snuol itself.

It appeared that North Vietnamese forces from the 5th and 7th divisions, who normally operate around Mimot, had pulled back.

They had plenty of advance warning since the South Vietnamese announced two days ago that Mimot and Snuol would be targets of the offensive.

Despite the advance announcement, a senior South Vietnamese field commander declared: "We believe the North Vietnamese are trying to regroup and figure out what our targets are. We expect big fighting within the next five to seven days."

Field reports said that the entire offensive was being conducted with minimum U.S. helicopter support. There are no American helicopters flying South Vietnamese troops across the border, but they are flying reconnaissance and gunship support.

The U.S. Command in Saigon disclosed that in the past two days, American helicopters had flown 320 missions in eastern Cambodia in support of the South Vietnamese. A spokesman said most of these were gunship missions.

New Sidewalk Near Completion

The approximately 2100 foot long new sidewalk on the north side of East Fifth Street is nearing completion. City Engineer C. A. Holliday reports this morning.

If the weather holds good, Holliday noted, work will be completed on the five foot wide sidewalk, next week. The sidewalk is being constructed 35 feet from the center line of East Fifth Street.

Authorized by the City Council to serve children who will be walking to and from the soon to be opened Wahl-Coates Elementary School, the sidewalk begins at Ash Street and continues on to Hickory Street.

Bear Grass Girls Lack Height; Have Only Four Veterans Back

(Sixth of a series)

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass High School has four starters back from last year, but experience comes to an end right there. And Coach Jerry Rogerson feels that this might be the biggest hurdle the team may have to overcome.

Back from last year's team are Lucinda Williamson, Eva Knox, Gloria Wobbleton and Anna Mizelle. Williamson is just a sophomore, while Wobbleton is a junior. Knox and Mizelle are both seniors.

"I'd say we have fair experience," Rogerson said. "but after those four, we are completely inexperienced. We have no bench strength at all."

The team also lacks in height. Yvonne Cooper, a reserve is the tallest girl on the team, and she's only 5-8. "Everyone we play is bigger than we are," Rogerson said. "We have no big girls at all, and Knox, Wobbleton and Williamson are barely five feet tall."

This causes a great problem in rebounding, naturally. "Mizelle does her share on the boards," the coach said. "And Carolyn Hodges (the other starter) gets her hands on a lot of ball. Those she doesn't get control of, she usually ends up tying up and forcing a jump ball. But still, overall, rebounding is one of our major problems."

The team also doesn't have a great deal of speed. "Wobbleton can run the fast break very well if she gets a step on anyone, and Mizelle's speed is average. But the rest are not fast at all," Rogerson said.

The coach rates Knox as a pretty good shooter when she can get open. "But with her short height, that's not too easy," he said. "Wobbleton is a good shot on the drive, and she can shoot layups quite well with either hand."

"But overall, I'd say that we have to get inside to score," he said. Right now, Rogerson isn't too pleased with his defense. "We've been giving up too many points. But then too, everyone we've played so far has been unbeaten. That makes a lot of difference too."

Rogerson, so far, is starting his four returnees along with Hodges. He lists his chief reserves as Karen Price, Barbara Cratt and Vickie Beach.

Rogerson likes the new rules in girls basketball which allows five girls on the floor instead of six and permits full court play. "It's the best improvement in girls basketball in years," he said. "Now all five of them have to know how to do everything, not just specialize in one phase of the game. I'm sure the fans like it more, and there is not as much standing around."

In the Martin County Conference race, Rogerson looks to Robersonville to be the team to beat.

"To be a contender, we've got to cut down on our turnovers and score more. We're losing the ball too much. If we can begin to handle the ball, we'll begin to win."

Eastern Race Remains Tight

Dan Issel and Artis Gilmore combined for 65 points to lead Kentucky to victory but Charlie Scott had 41 of his own to keep Virginia on the Colonels' tail in the American Basketball Association's East Division.

The Colonels defeated the New York Nets 133-117 to maintain their three-game lead over the runner-up Squires, 131-118 victors over the Pittsburgh Condors, in Thursday night's only ABA action.

Kentucky never trailed against the Nets, who fell 5½ games off the pace, opening up a 22-point lead in the second quarter.

New York pulled within four in the third period but by the start of the fourth the margin was 11 and the Colonels coasted home.

Rick Barry, with 31 points, and Bill Melchionni, with 26, paced the Nets. Darel Carrier added 29 for Kentucky.

The Squires, who dropped the Condors into fifth place, six games back, broke open the game with a 43-point second period that gave them a commanding 76-22 halftime lead.

Julius Erving added 31 points for Virginia while George Thompson had 32, George Carter 22 and John Brisker 21 for Pittsburgh.

Nebraska Beats Oklahoma Using Sooners' Own Game—Rush Attack

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Nebraska beat Oklahoma ... at its own game.

Not only did the Cornhuskers defeat Oklahoma's volatile Wishbone attack, but they out-rushed the nation's best rushing team 297 yards to 279, and they did it on five fewer carries.

That was the story of Thursday's classic see-saw showdown, which wound up with top-ranked Nebraska's defending national champions turning back runner-up Oklahoma 35-31 on Jeff Kinney's fourth touchdown of the game, a two-yard thrust off left tackle with 1:38 left to play, capping a 74-yard, 5½-minute drive.

Nebraska's top rated defense, although it was stretched for 467 yards by the nation's most offensive-minded team, never snapped, and, in fact, took away the fuse that ignites the Sooner attack—the end sweeps by speedy Greg Pruitt.

Meanwhile, the Nebraska offense discovered the Oklahoma defenders were vulnerable to a power play off tackle and the Cornhuskers sent Kinney smashing for 154 yards in the second half.

"The only thing they took away from our defense was that we didn't break any 70-yards," said quarterback Jack Mildren, Oklahoma's star performer with 30 carries for 130 yards and two touchdowns and five of 10 passes for 137 yards and two more scores.

"They kept us from going wide with Pruitt."

"They just weren't giving us the pitchout," said Pruitt, who gained 53 yards on 10 carries, only twice running the feared pitchout-sweep that made him the most explosive running back in the country.

In effect, the only thing Nebraska took away from Oklahoma's offense was the sparkplug. It was enough.

Nebraska's defensive ends, Willie Harper and John Adkins, played wide to shut off Oklahoma's pitchouts.

"We knew they had to," said Coach Bob Devaney. "They were turning the play back into our other people. The way the defensive ends played the pitchout we copied from Missouri, which defended Oklahoma very well. We also copied some things that Southern Cal did well against them. We looked at eight or nine different game films and tried to incorporate the best of them."

"But we were very cautious to get our defensive ends wide enough. You might not have noticed them as the ones doing the job, but they were. I talked to John McKay of Southern Cal and he said their defensive ends probably underestimated Oklahoma's speed. So we played it wider."

The Cornhusker offense, which had planned to run wide but managed only 67 yards in the first half, took the fight directly to Oklahoma after trailing 17-14 at the half.

"In the first half, we kind of had to figure out where we could move the ball," explained Devaney. "In the second half, we decided to go right at them. We found we could move the ball on the ground and we relied a little more on our ground game in the second half. Oklahoma has a fine ground game but ours was certainly great today."

"We beat them physically in the second half," said quarterback Jerry Tagge. "One play, a power play off tackle, was going very well. When they lined up strong to one side, we just ran it to the other side. I called quite a few audibles."

The nation's 1-2 teams took turns thrilling a sellout crowd of 61,826 and a national television audience.

Nebraska's Johnny Rodgers zipped 72 yards on a punt return with only 3½ minutes gone and, following a 30-yard field goal by Oklahoma's John Carroll, the Cornhuskers took a 14-3 lead early in the second quarter on the first of Kinney's four short touchdown plunges.

That's when Oklahoma proved its own worth. Twice the Sooners battled back from an 11-point deficit. This time they went 80 yards, with Mildren scoring on a three-yard keeper, and they exploded 78 yards in only four plays and 46 seconds just before halftime to nose ahead 17-14.

Behind for the first time in this 11-0 season, Nebraska wasn't about to be denied. Kinney capped drives of 53 and 62 yards with third-period touchdowns to make it 28-17. But again the Sooners tilted the roller coaster in their direction.

Mildren scored on a two-yard run at the end of a 73-yard strike that featured a 51-yard bomb from Jon Harrison, who grabbed Mildren's two touchdown passes, to Albert Chandler and Mildren lofted a 17-yarder to Harrison with 7:10 remaining.

Threatened with having their 20-game winning streak and 29-game unbeaten skin broken, the Cornhuskers went 74 yards for the winner, with Kinney covering 50 yards on seven carries and Rodgers making a diving catch of an 11-yard third-down Tagge pass at the Oklahoma 35.

Nixon Calls Coaches

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Winning Coach Bob Devaney and loser Chuck Fairbanks both received telephone calls from President Nixon Thursday after top-ranked Nebraska's 35-31 victory over second-ranked Oklahoma.

The calls were about 20 minutes apart. The President failed to make connections on his initial attempt to reach each coach, and Devaney and Fairbanks had to return the call from a pay station.

Nixon asked Devaney about the exciting game, and the Nebraska coach replied:

"Yes, sir, they sold a lot of popcorn today. Nobody left."

Nixon also asked about Nebraska's Jan. 1 Orange Bowl game with Alabama.

"Alabama is a fine team, but I don't think our boys are looking past Hawaii next week," Devaney returned.

Fairbanks, dejected when he heard about Nixon's call, smiled when the connection was finally made.

Jackson ACC's Player Of Year

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Duke's durable, versatile and exciting Ernie Jackson is the Atlantic Coast Conference football player-of-the-year.

The 5-10, 165-pound senior engineering student from Hopkins, S.C., won the honor on the votes of 41 of 86 members of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writer Association.

Jackson was named defensive player of the week in the ACC three times and made history by also being named offensive back of the week after rushing for 187 yards against Navy.

When Duke was beset by injuries, coach Mike McGee pressed Jackson into action as a tailback. Although he continued to play on defense, Jackson averaged 5.5 yards on 65 carries and scored five touchdowns.

Earlier in the season Jackson was the difference as Duke defeated South Carolina. He returned a punt for 74 yards and an interception 31 yards for touchdowns. He also thwarted Gamecock comeback efforts with an interception in the end zone.

Jackson's 54-yard touchdown run after an interception was the only touchdown of the game as Duke upset nationally ranked Stanford 9-3 in the ACC's biggest outside win of the season.

Jackson, who was a starter in the Duke defensive backfield as a sophomore, always was assigned to the opponent's most dangerous pass receiver.

Jackson was far out front in the voting. The conference rushing leader, Larry Hopkins of Wake Forest, got 15 votes while North Carolina quarterback Paul Miller, the ACC's total offense leader, had 14. The Tar Heels' versatile halfback, Lewis Jolley, had 10.

Sharing the remaining six votes were linebacker John Bunting of North Carolina, quarterback Larry Russell of Wake Forest, halfback William Burden of N.C. State and end Bill Davis of Virginia.

Aggies Ax Stallings

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Texas' 34-14 Thanksgiving Day victory over the Texas Aggies gave the Horns an unprecedented fourth straight Southwest Conference football championship but it marked the end of an era for the Aggies.

Several hours after the Longhorns had rolled over A&M, the A&M board of directors announced that Athletic Director and head football coach Gene Stallings would be relieved of all his responsibilities effective Dec. 1.

Marvin Tate, associate athletic director, was named acting athletic director.

In seven years, Stallings compiled a 27-45-1 record. He took the Aggies to the Southwest Conference championship in 1967 and a 20-16 Cotton Bowl victory over Alabama. It was the Aggies' only winning season under Stallings.

Casazza Leads Attack On ECU Record Book

East Carolina University's football Pirates, as in past years, collected another pocketful of school records during the past season.

Some of them are the kind the Bucs are proud of, and some are not.

John Casazza, who transferred into East Carolina at the start of his junior year, practically rewrote the passing record book at East Carolina, breaking 11 during his two year career. Most of those broken were set by former Pirate great Bill Cline, who spent three years on the field for the Bucs.

Casazza also set one other record that is only partly connected to passing, the single game total offense mark. That came against Davidson when he picked up 259 yards to break Cline's 1964 mark of 257 against West Chester.

Casazza also broke four other career records this year. These include most passes attempted, 454 (old, 283—Cline); passes completed, 194 (153—Cline); most yards gained passing, 2,506 (2,425—Cline) and most passes had intercepted 35. Casazza had broken the old record last year with 20, which is also a single season mark.

Other records he set, though not this year are most passes attempted and completed in a single game, 43 and 21, respectively, against Richmond. Season records include 227 attempts, 122 completions, 1,512 yards, and 20 interceptions, all last season.

The passing marks cracked this year include a total of 23 interceptions for the year (old—22), and a tie of the single game interception mark, with five picked off by West Virginia.

In the receiving department, Tim Dameron tied two records and broke another. He tied the marks for touchdowns receiving in a single game, two, and for the most in a season, five. His new mark is the single season yardage record for receivers, 531 (521—Dick Corrada, 1970).

Jack Patterson set two new records in punt returns, and tied another. His five returns against N.C. State tied the single game record. And his 26 returns for 220 yards for the season broke George Whitley's marks of 20 and 191 set last year.

Rusty Scales also set two new single game marks, returning eight kickoffs against Bowling Green. The old mark of five was held by four players. His yardage in that game, 185 yards, also broke the old record of 124, set by Cline against Presbyterian in 1964.

The eight by Scales also tied the team mark, and the total team returns for the season, 50, broke last year's record of 45. Bob Kilbourne, who still has another year to go, tied the single season field goal mark of three, and is just one short of the career mark.

Under miscellaneous records, the Pirates added a few more. Carlester Crumpler's 55-yard run against Davidson was the longest non-scoring run by a Buc. The old mark was 54 by Tom Michel against Wofford in 1962.

Clark Davis' punt of 64 yards against Toledo was the longest, breaking Mike Herring's mark of 63 against George Washington in 1966.

And Kilbourne's 38-yard field goal against N.C. State cracked the 37-yard mark held by Don Tyson against Furman in 1968.

Three other records are not those that one likes to brag about, but still must go into the books. The 43-7 defeat handed the Bucs by Tampa was the worst in which they scored. The 35-2 Toledo loss last year was the previous mark.

The five fumbles against Furman tied an all-times mark set in 1954 against Catawba.

And the 4-6 season of the Pirates was the fourth losing year in a row for the Bucs, cracking the old mark of three, set first in 1932-34, and tied on three other occasions.

Coach Sonny Randle and his staff and players will be out to break more records next year, but are hoping that the last will stay at four forever.

Alabama Must Beat Auburn To Set Up National Championship

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer Will there be a national college football championship game on New Year's Day?

If so, it will take place in Miami on the night of Jan. 1, when Nebraska and Alabama clash in the Orange Bowl.

Nebraska maintained its position on top of the heap by defeating second-ranked Oklahoma 35-31 Thursday. Fullback Jeff Kinney, who scored four touchdowns for the Cornhuskers, climaxed a 74-yard march in the closing moments of the fourth quarter with a two-yard touchdown plunge to give unbeaten Nebraska its 11th victory of the season.

Alabama, 10-0 and ranked third, could move up a notch Saturday. But the Crimson Tide has to get past fifth-ranked Auburn, and its Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Pat Sullivan, in their battle at Birmingham, Ala.

In Thursday's other big games, No. 12 Texas 8-2, clinched the Southwest Conference championship and a berth in the Cotton Bowl against Penn State by scoring four first half touchdowns and going on to defeat Texas A&M 34-14.

Mississippi, 9-2, ranked 18th and head for the Peach Bowl against Georgia Tech, exploded for six touchdowns in the second period—three of them scored on runs by tailback Gregg Ainsworth—and whipped Mississippi State 48-0.

In Thursday night's top game, seventh-ranked Georgia, 10-1, came from behind to defeat Georgia Tech 28-24. Georgia's sophomore quarterback, Andy Johnson, led his team on a 65-yard scoring drive in the final 1:29. Jimmy Poulos scoring the winning touchdown from one yard out with 14 seconds left on the clock.

But the biggest game of the day was played in Norman, Okla. The Sooners' vaunted Wishbone-T proved it could move the ball against the Nebraska defense—which had been rated first in the nation—before Nebraska showed that its offense was nothing to be ashamed of.

Kinney, who carried the ball 22 times for 154 yards in the second half, scored on touchdowns runs of one, three, one and two yards. His coach, Bob Devaney, called it "as fine a job of carrying the football as I've ever seen."

Both quarterbacks, Jerry Tagge of Nebraska and Jack Mildren of Oklahoma, distinguished themselves. Tagge maintained his poise throughout the game, coolly leading his team down the field in the final period, come-from-behind drive. Mildren was the heart of the Oklahoma attack, completing six of 11 passes for 188 yards and two touchdowns and running the Sooners offense for 279 yards on the ground, running for two touchdowns and over 100 yards himself.

The victory, Nebraska's 21st in succession, extended its string of games without defeat to 30. The Cornhuskers travel to Hawaii for their final game of the regular season next Saturday, then prepare for their Orange Bowl date against Bear Bryant's Alabama squad, led by running back Johnny Musso.

The Alabama-Auburn clash is the highlight of Saturday's program. Alabama, with Musso heading a flock of outstanding running backs, likes to stick to the ground, while Auburn, with one of the nation's top passing combinations in Sullivan and Terry Beasley, takes to the air more often.

Also on Saturday's schedule is the traditional inter-service battle between Army and Navy in Philadelphia. Both the Army-Navy game, at 1 p.m. (EST), and the Alabama-Auburn clash, at 4 p.m. (EST), will be nationally televised by ABC.

In other traditional rivalries Saturday, Arizona is at No. 9 Arizona State, Tulane plays at No. 10 Louisiana State, Vanderbilt visits No. 11 Tennessee and Florida plays at Miami (Fla.). In other major games, Iowa State journeys to San Diego State and Morgan State plays at Rutgers.

Sims Leads In Viking Victory

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Cary Sims likes to run with the football and it's just possible he was a little more determined than ever after a highly controversial pass interference call against him.

The interference penalty had given Winston-Salem's Rams the ball at Elizabeth City's one-yard line early in the second period of Thursday's playoff for the CIAA championship, and the Rams' Marvin Morrison scored on the next play to cut Elizabeth City's lead to 7-6.

Sims took the ensuing kickoff on his eight, went up the middle, then broke down the left sidelines and went 92 yards to boost the Vikings' lead back to 13-6. The Rams never got closer than a touchdown again as Elizabeth City went on to win the game and the title 33-22.

If Sims broke the game open, however, it was Elizabeth City quarterback Lawrence Harrell who kept it that way, passing for three touchdowns and running for a fourth as the Vikings avenged a 13-12 regular season defeat in winding up a 7-3 season. Winston-Salem finished 6-4.

It was the second year in a row the Northern Division's second best team had won the title, for Elizabeth City actually finished behind Virginia State. But the Trojans were forced to forfeit two games and the title for using an ineligible player.

Virginia State, the Northern Division's runner-up team, had won last year's championship playoff when the division winner, Morgan State, declined to take part in the title game.

Harrell broke a scoreless tie with just 18 seconds left in the first period with a 57-yard pass play to Jessie Parker, and the same combination clicked for nine yards and a 20-6 halftime lead for the Vikings just 53 seconds before intermission.

Winston-Salem, led by the running of Cornell Davis and Morrison and the passing of Londell McClary, twice closed to within a touchdown, but Harrell ran nine yards for one touchdown and passed 10 to Maurice Harrod for another to keep the Rams out of range.

Harrell hit eight of 14 passes for 114 yards, while Lindsey Riddick ran for 70 yards on 20 carries for the Vikings. Davis had 71 yards on 22 carries and Morrison had 66 yards and two scores on 20 carries for the losing Rams.

Fumbles, interceptions, poor kicks and penalties played a large part in the scoring, and Winston-Salem had 73 yards in offense wiped out by rules infractions on one series of downs.

Baseball Begins Winter Meeting

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The official business gets underway Monday morning sharp—but that won't be the only business at this year's winter baseball meetings.

Along with a rash of week-long sessions, including the annual draft of minor league players, there'll be behind-the-scenes intrigue involving trades.

And this, the biggest of all baseball's marketplaces, will provide a shopping bonanza for some of the 24 major league teams.

Some want power, some want infielders, but most all need pitching—including the World Champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rumored to be available at the right price are New York Yankee ace right-hander Mel Stottlemyre; Cleveland Indians' star southpaw Sam McDowell and New York Mets' fast ball king Nolan Ryan.

The Yankees are in the market for a power-hitting third baseman, something the Mets would also like. And Chicago's Ron Santo appears to be on his way out. He's among Cub players who didn't see eye-to-eye with Manager Leo Durocher last season.

Of course, the Indians could use anyone to bolster their talent-poor squad, which sorely needs a right-handed power hitter.

The Atlanta Braves are reportedly willing to part with first baseman Orlando Cepeda and the Philadelphia Phillies would deal Deron Johnson, who hit 33 homers last year but is getting older. Frank Howard, the onetime American League homer king, might also be unloaded by the new Texas Rangers.

Third baseman Richie Hebner and outfielder-first baseman Al Oliver, who has expressed wishes to be traded, could be swapped for another starting pitcher for Pittsburgh. The Pirates won the National League pennant without a 20-game winner before beating Baltimore in the World Series.

Cowboys Tighten Grip In Eastern

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer The Dallas Cowboys have tightened their grasp on the National Conference East lead and, by doing so, have thrown the West into an even wilder three-way scramble.

The Cowboys beat Los Angeles 28-21 in one of Thursday's National Football League games—Detroit topped Kansas City 32-21 in the other—to open a one-game edge over Washington in the NFC East.

That also sent the Rams skidding back into a virtual deadlock with San Francisco in the West—and Atlanta is only half a game behind the front-runners.

The 49ers can take sole possession of first with a victory over the New York Jets Sunday and the Falcons can stay in the race by turning back Minnesota.

Sunday's other games have Washington at Philadelphia, St. Louis at the New York Giants, New Orleans against Green Bay at Milwaukee, New England at Buffalo, San Diego at Cincinnati, Denver at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at Houston and Baltimore at Oakland. On Monday night, Chicago visits Miami.

"I feel sore but happy," Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach said after scrambling for 33 yards and passing for 176 more. "We won it and it was a big win."

"I wasn't anxious to run a lot, though," he said. "I wasn't looking for any holes to run through." His 11-yard fourth-quarter scamper set up Duane Thomas' game-winning five-yard touchdown run.

Staubach also rifled touchdown passes of 51 yards to Bob Hayes and 21 to Lance Alworth and Isaac Thomas steamed 89 yards with a kickoff return for the Cowboys' other scores.

Roman Gabriel, the Rams' quarterback who struck for touchdown passes of 33 yards to Bob Klein and two yards to Pat Curran, passed for 234 yards but suffered an injury. "It's my normal artificial turf knee," he sighed. "I'm three-for-three on it—two hurt knees and a concussion."

The Rams held a 14-7 lead heading toward halftime but, instead of increasing it, they blew it when a fake field goal backfired.

"I've hit that play a million times in practice," said holder Jerry Rhome, who overthrew a open receiver. On the next play Staubach unleashed his scoring bomb to Hayes.

The Lions, clinging to hopes of catching Minnesota in the NFC Central Division, moved within a game of the Vikings while dealing Kansas City a big setback as the Chiefs fell a full game back of Oakland in the American Conference West.

But despite the loss, Chiefs Coach Hank Stram said: "We're still in good shape for the playoffs." Ed Podolak scored all three Kansas City touchdowns on runs of 2, 5 and 6 yards.

But the Chiefs couldn't shut down Lions quarterback Greg Landry, who passed for 225 yards, including touchdowns of five yards to Charlie Sanders and 17 to Earl McCullouch. Steve Owens, who led all rushers with 79 yards, also bulled over from one yard out for a score and Errol Mann booted three field goals.

Trevino Not Discouraged

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino had a 78 to his credit, including a big eight on a par-three hole, and was 10 strokes off the pace—but his head was up and the grin in place going into today's second round in the $110,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

"I'm not discouraged," the irrepressible Trevino said. "It's the kind of course where you can make up ground fast."

Trevino matched his worst round of the year in his watery effort over the demanding Harbour Town Golf links—hitting four in the water—and trailed first round leader Hale Irwin by 10 strokes.

Irwin, a longshot who hasn't led before this season and has yet to win in four years on the pro tour, fired a solid, three-under-par 68 on the seaside, 6,655-yard layout and took sole control of the top spot when Arnold Palmer bogeyed the final hole.

"I'm generally pretty well satisfied and played reasonably well," said Palmer, who is enjoying one of his better seasons at the age of 42. "But it made me mad as hell to bogey that last hole."

He was tied with Dave Eichelberger, a 28-year-old Texan who has come into his own this season after a five-year struggle. Each had a 69.

Bob Smith and Rod Curl followed at 70 and were the only other players able to break par on the testing, treacherous layout.

Jack Nicklaus, some $20,000 back of Trevino in the race for leading money winning honors, was one of a half dozen at 71.

Nicklaus made the turn two over par, then reeled off four birds in a six hole stretch starting the back nine, only to falter.

Irwin matched one three-putt bogey with a birdie four on the front side, then closed strongly. He hit a sand wedge to six feet for a birdie on the 12th hole, made it from 15 feet on the par five 15th and punched a seven iron to within four feet for another bird on the 16th. He missed from 12 feet for still another birdie on the last hole.

Palmer, winner of four tournaments this year, had it three under par and was tied for the top spot until he hit a one-iron second shot into a hazard on the 45th yard final hole, blasted out and two-putted from 25 feet for a bogey.

Trevino, who has won a record $227,243 this season and already named the PGA's player of the year, made the turn in par figures, but ran into disaster on the 152 yard 15th. He bounced his first two shots off trees and into the water, finally got on in six and two-putted.

'Super Crib' In Child Program

NEW YORK (UPI)—How would you like to spend 12 months of your life behind bars in a three and one-half by five foot cage? Not much, you say? Yet, babies spend the first 12 months of life in such cages—cribs—reports Edcom Systems Inc. of Princeton, N.J.

The firm has come up with a new kind of crib, calling it the cognition crib. It is a new child development program and the crib actually is baby's classroom. It provides baby with a constantly changing environment. The changes are achieved by changing parts of the crib. The parts include push and pull modules, chime and rattle modules, gripper and roller modules. And many more.

Choice Books For Yuletide Gift List

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Does your Christmas shopping list call for a lot of fancy gift books? All the bookstores are crammed these days with choice selections, in addition to the usual flood of fiction.

Most of these gift books have beautiful illustrations, with plenty of color—the quality of the reproductions has been improving in recent years—and although some of the luxury items run $50 or more, there are many attractive items at much less.

It will expedite your shopping if you make note of the exact title, author's name, and publisher's name.

Here are some highlights among the season's gift offerings:

AMERICAN ART

"Edward Hopper" by Lloyd Goodrich (Abrams) is a full biography and its large format includes 246 reproductions from all periods of the artist's work, 88 in color.

Gordon Hendricks' "The Photographs of Thomas Eakins" (Grossman) reproduces nearly 300 surviving photos made by the artist.

Paintings, drawings, watercolors and lithographs from the Gilcrease Institute of American Western Art in Tulsa are shown in "The Art of the Old West" by Paul A. Rossi and David C. Hunt (Knopf).

Praeger is the publisher of "American Still Life Painting" by William H. Gerds and Russell Burke, ranging from the Peale family of Philadelphia to the Pop Art of the 1960's.

"Art of the American Indian" by Norman Feder (Abrams), deals with the perishable art and artifacts of many Indian tribes, most of which were nomadic.

"The Brandywine Heritage" (New York Graphic) is an album of 18 color plates and 80 black and white illustrations reproducing works by Howard Pyle, N. C. Wyeth, Andrew Wyeth and James Wyeth.

MODERN ART

Among the new books on Picasso are "Picasso at 90—The Late Work" by Klaus Gallwitz (Putnam), a large format work covering the period from the end of World War II to 1970, and "Picasso's Posters" (Random) reproducing 310 posters, 140 of them in full-page plates.

Francis Ponge and Pierre Descargues have collaborated on "Georges Braque" (Abrams), which includes a commentary on the artist's work and reproduces 152 items, some of which are presented for the first time.

"Victor Vasarely" by Werner Spies (Abrams) is a heavily illustrated volume of the artist's Op Art works. Dusko Keckemet's "Ivan Mestrovic" (McGraw Hill) is a large volume on the sculptor's life and works.

With 100 color reproductions and 192 in black and white, "Great Modern Paintings" by Bodo Cichy (Putnam) contains profiles of 96 modern artists.

ART—OLD MASTERS
Goya is the subject of two major books. "The Life and Complete Work of Francisco Goya" by Pierre Gassier and Juliet Wilson (Reynal in association with Morrow) is a huge reference work with 2,148 illustrations, many in color, including 48 hand-mounted color plates. "Goya" by Jose Guidol (Tudor Publishing) is a four-volume work of 1,400 pages and contains 1,160 illustrations.

Robert Salvini, Ettore Camasasca and C. L. Ragghianti are the authors of "The Sistine Chapel" (Abrams), a large two-volume work full of hand-tipped plates, mostly in color, recording the Michelangelo ceiling and frescoes by Botticelli, Perugino and others.

"Bruegel," by Max Seidel and Roger H. Marijnissen (Putnam) has 175 monochrome illustrations and 30 hand-tipped color plates.

William Gaunt's "The Great Century of British Painting—From Hogarth to Turner" (Phaidon) shows selected works of major 18th century painters.

ART—GENERAL
"Masters of Naive Art—A History and World Survey" (McGraw-Hill) is a study by Otto Bihajli-Merlin, illustrating more than 400 works of artists in the Americas, Europe and Africa.

Marco Valsecchi surveys the work of 150 artists in "Landscape Painting of the 19th Century" (New York Graphic).

"Ecclesiastes" (Grossman) was handwritten and illustrated by the late Ben Shahn shortly before his death.

An illustrated history, "New England Glass and Glassmaking" by Kenneth M. Wilson (T. Y. Crowell) covers this subject from 1639 to the present.

Two photo-essay books from Viking are "The Creation," containing 106 photos by Ernest Haas, keyed to the text of the Book of Genesis, and "Witness to Nature," a selection of photographs by Alfred Eisenstaedt.

DECORATIVE ARTS
"History of the House," edited by E. Camasasca (Putnam) is a chronicle from prehistoric times to the present, containing 170 color plates, 417 monochrome illustrations and 300 drawings and architectural plans.

Marshall Davidson's "The American Heritage History of Notable American Houses" (American Heritage Press) is a history covering cottages as well as mansions, down to the present day.

"David Hicks on Decoration—With Fabrics" (World Publishing) contains a wide variety of examples of Hicks' skill as a decorator.

The interior decoration, fashions, ceramics, glass and textiles of the 1930's are covered in "The Decorative Thirties" by Martin Battersby (Walker).

"The International Encyclopedia of Dogs," edited by Stanley Dangerfield and Elsworth Howell (McGraw-Hill), with more than 600 illustrations, is aimed at both the amateur and the professional dog fancier.

McGraw-Hill has published a facsimile edition of an early manual of arms, "The Exercise of Armes" by Jacob de Gheyn, with 250 large pages and 117 copper engravings. "Hunting & Shooting," by Michael Brander (Putnam) begins with the bow and arrow and carries down to modern times.

The editors of Automobile Quarterly have collaborated on "The American Car Since 1775" (Dutton), which has 504 pages and more than 500 photos. The same editors have produced "Automobile Quarterly's World of Cars" (Dutton) containing articles on significant automobiles from all eras. "Encyclopedia of Motor Sport," edited by G. N. Georgano (Viking) covers major motor events, organizations and personalities, and contains more than 1,700 illustrations.

PLACES AND PEOPLE
"The American Coast" is an album of photos of the nation's coastal areas, with an introduction by Jean Stafford, published by Scribner.

Two items from Rand McNally are "Nepal," with photographs and text by Toni Hagen, and "The Netherlands," with text by Bas den Ouden and photos by Walter Imber. Rand McNally also is distributing in this country an item published in Hong Kong, titled "Hong Kong—World of Contrasts," an album of color photos with the captions serving as the only text.

New York Graphic is publishing "Seasons of the Eskimo," containing four seasonal essays by Fred Breumner, on the lore and legends of the Eskimos, and "Persia—The Immortal Kingdom," by Roman Grishman, Ramesh Sangvi and Vladimir Minorsky, with photos by William MacQuitty.

"Australia—History and Horizons," by Roderick Cameron (Columbia University Press) has more than 200 illustrations, including 32 color pages.

Eric Robins and Blaine Littell have collaborated on "Africa: Images and Realities" (Praeger); the photos are by Eliot Elisofon and Marvin Newman.

A collection of color photos by Roy Moore, to which have been added quotations from the works of Nikos Kazantzakis, makes up the content of "Reflections on Greece" (Walker).

Bamber Gascoigne's "The Great Moghuls" (Harper) is an illustrated account of India's emperors between 1526 and 1707.

"Silent Cities, Sacred Stones," by Jerry M. Landay (McCall Publishing) is about archeological discoveries in modern Israel.

"Island Ceylon," designed and photographed by Roloff Beny, has a text by John Lindsay Opie and includes an edited anthology of writings on the island and its history.

NATURE AND BIOLOGY
"Louis Agassiz Fuertes and The Singular Beauty of Birds," edited by Frederick George Marcham (Harper) reproduces in color 60 paintings of birds from all parts of the world, plus many sketches; also a text drawn from letters Fuertes wrote on his field trips.

"The Family Life of Birds," with photographs and text by Hans D. Dossentbach (McGraw-Hill) in more than 260 color photographs and drawings depicts the breeding habits of birds in all parts of the world.

A text by poet Jonathan Williams and photographs by Nicholas Dean are combined in "Blues and Roots—Rue and Bluets: A Garland for the Appalachians" (Grossman).

"Slickrock" by Edward Abbey and Phillip Hyde (Sierra Club) is a photographic study of a wilderness area in south-east Utah.

"Wild Wealth" by Marion Rombauer Becker, Frances Jones Poetker and Paul Bigelow Sears (Bobbs-Merrill) is a book about wildflower gardening by an ecologist, a gardener and a florist-botanist.

How much SHOCK can YOU stand?
REMEMBER...you can only DIE once!!

OUR ANNUAL MAD MAD MAD

The Worry Clinic Good Parents Play By Rules

Note Debby's precocious compliment to her grandmother. Perhaps she had witnessed broken homes, divorced neighbors, or hippie rioters, drunken fathers or dissolute mothers before she sent us that curious compliment. So play the parent-child game according to Hoyle! It has definite rules!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.
Case S-528: Debby, aged 9, is one of our grandchildren. On last Mother's Day she sent her grandmother a greeting. And on the blank page, she wished her a happy Mother's Day. Then she scribbled this precocious comment:

"Grandma, you've done a good job rearing your kids."—
Debby's mother was one of those "kids," so this was also a compliment for our daughter Judy.
Judy had 4 brothers, 2 on each side of her in age.
And except for the untimely death of her oldest brother in his Marine jet plane, she'd have had 4 brothers with doctoral degrees.

For George had expected to become a pediatrician and serve as a physician for children. Philip gained his A.M. and Ph.D.; then became an American history professor for several years before being elected to our national Congress. Daniel is a successful dental surgeon (D.D.S.) and President of the Association of American Dentists (A.A.D.).
David, our youngest, holds both the J.D. and M.D. degrees so serves as a psychiatry professor and private medical consultant.

My purpose in citing our children is not mere paternal boasting but to show that when you practice the rules of the parent-child game you don't produce hippies or rioters and anti-establishment nitwits.
For child psychology is a science, which must be followed exactly!
"An investment in knowledge," said wise old Benjamin Franklin, "always pays the best dividends."
My family for generations have thus consisted of teachers and preachers, so we lived on meager incomes.
We all earned our own spending money and worked our way through college.
But my college educated mother stressed moral idealism and reading ability; not desire for wealth or movie fame.
Because we knew the value of money, since we had learned that it is merely minted human life, we were not wastrels.

My 5 children also worked for their spending money, including rigorous manual labor on the farm.

My wife and I also stressed reading ability!
For readers can set their own ceiling as to their future attainment.

Readers also are not as likely to become corrupted by silver tongued demagogues.
Readers are thus far more independent voters.
They tend to do their own thinking, instead of stampeding like sheep.
That's why you adults should encourage daily reading of this newspaper by your own kiddies and grandchildren.
Pay them for all the typographical mistakes they can find, for this will add zest, plus spending money, to the act of reading.

Urge them to compile 10 test items (of the 4-answer sort) on the contents of each day's paper. Include facts from front page stories, editorials, weather, sports, financial data, etc. to diversify their daily newspaper quiz.
For this newspaper is actually your local "University in Print." Your subscription price is merely tuition!
Also, urge your kiddies to borrow library books. Pay them for each one they finish, including $1 for each of the 66 books in the Bible!
And send for my booklet "How

Building Is Ahead Of '70

RALEIGH (AP) — Building activity in North Carolina dipped in October but was still running ahead of last year for the first 10 months of the year.
This was shown Thursday in the monthly building report of Labor Commissioner Frank Crane.
Crane reported that 36 North Carolina cities issued building permits totaling $42.6 million in October. This compared with $51.9 million in permits issued in October of last year.

The report showed the 36 cities issued $542.6 million worth of building permits in the first 10 months of the year. This was an increase of 24 per cent over the $437.7 million issued in the same period of 1970.
Charlotte led the cities with $8.1 million in building permits in October. Greensboro had $7.2 million, Raleigh $7 million, Durham $4.9 million and Gastonia $2.2 million.

REMODELING
MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — The remodeling industry is growing so rapidly that by 1972 it may exceed the $20 billion invested annually in new home construction, according to Morris Marder, president of American Urban Development Corp., a Florida home remodeling firm.

to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Queen of ♠
West opening bid of two spades is the so-called "Weak Two Bid" used by some tournament players. It is employed as a mild preempt to designate a hand of less than normal opening bid strength and is usually based on a good six card suit.
South chose to bid four hearts instead of three, for fear that his partner might feel obliged to pass a mere reopening call, particularly since the latter could not be expected to hold much in hearts. Had South merely bid three hearts, however, it might have induced North to carry on to three no trump, where he has nine running tricks.
West opened the queen of spades and, altho he was aware from the bidding that East must surely be void in the suit, South played the king from dummy with an air of futility. East ruffed in with the four of hearts and shifted to the ten of diamonds which was covered in turn by the jack, queen and dummy's ace. Trumps were drawn in two rounds and South led a spade. West put up the ten and was permitted to hold the trick.

West cashed the king of diamonds and switched to the queen of clubs. East put up the ace for the setting trick — the defense having scored one trick in each side suit as well as the spade ruff.
South began development of the spade suit too late on the deal. If he allows West to win the first trick, he can build up his discard before the opposition has time to regain the initiative.
After the queen of spades holds, West will presumably continue with the jack when his partner takes a discard at trick one. East ruffs away the king of spades and gets out with the ten of diamonds. North is in with the ace and now, after trumps are drawn, dummy retains the ace-nine of spades behind West's 10-6-4-2. A spade is led from the closed hand and a successful finesse is taken against West. Whichever spade he chooses to play, North merely covers and then cashes the ace to discard South's losing diamond.
It does West no good to switch to a diamond at trick two. South puts up the ace from dummy, draws trumps in two rounds and then leads a spade from his hand. West presumably covers with the ten and North plays the king. The closed hand is reentered with a heart to repeat the spade play. Dummy's nine can now be finessed and the diamond jack is then discarded on the ace of spades. South is in position to score his 10th trick by leading toward the king of clubs.

You've got a lot to live Pepsi's got a lot to give

What we mean is this: living isn't always easy, but it never has to be dull. There's too much to see, to do, to enjoy. Put yourself behind a Pepsi-Cola and get started.
You've got a lot to live.
