Landlords Urged To Avoid Raising Rents

By MIKE SHANAHAN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission has given General Motors, the nation's biggest auto maker, permission to raise prices by 2.5 per cent. GM's request to raise prices of its 1972 cars, trucks and optional equipment was the last from major domestic auto manufacturers to be considered by the panel.

The final average of the Big Four auto makers' price hikes okayed by the commission was 3.1 per cent. In each case the commission said it considered gains in productivity and the firms profits last year compared with a previous base-year period.

Turning to another major sector of the economy Tuesday, the commission urged landlords not to raise rents even though some increases might be permitted under present Phase 2 guidelines.

Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said the newly formed Rent Advisory Board is working on a new set of recommendations for residential properties.

In the meantime, Grayson warned that "rollbacks of increased rents will be necessary if those rents are not consistent with new policy."

Under existing Phase 2 guidelines, rents on apartments, for example, may be raised to the costs of similar units in the same building or complex before the freeze began Aug. 15.

In Washington, notices have already gone out to some tenants that their rents are going up about 5 per cent.

Companies caught in the middle of special low prices when the freeze began Aug. 15 were given some help by the commission.

It said base prices used in requests for increases to the commission need not include temporary special deals or allowances if they were announced before the freeze and were intended to be in effect no longer than 90 days.

Fault-Finding In Others Is Easy, Reminds Morgan

By BLANCHE HARDEE Reflector Staff Writer

"The meeting here today is a clear indication that you are concerned about what is going on...and that you want to do something about it," North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan told community leaders gathered for a human relations seminar at D. H. Conley High School yesterday.

More than 300 persons attended the afternoon and evening session entitled "Community Leadership in Human Relations", sponsored by Pitt Technical Institute, in cooperation with the City of Greenville and other agencies. The program yesterday was the combined effort of local school people, law enforcement officers, social agencies and chamber of commerce members.

"I wish I had clear cut answers to give you about solving your problems," Morgan said, "but the answers aren't that simple. Working together we can find the solutions."

Morgan continued, "I was impressed this afternoon that most of us see clearly the splinter in our brother's eye but not see the log in our own eye."

"Some here placed the problem on law enforcement officers, others placed the problem on ministers, and so on. It is so easy for us to see what is wrong with someone else and not see our own faults."

Morgan said, "I had the intention when I came here tonight not to mention the Day-Murphy case, but after listening to the discussions, I would be remiss if I did not mention aspects of the matter."

(The Day-Murphy case referred to by Morgan involved the shooting of William Earl Murphy by Highway Patrolman Billy Day near Ayden Aug. 6 and sparked demonstrations in the county which so far have resulted in some 900 arrests.)

"As we look back on the incident, there is not anyone here who would not have done differently than what was done," Morgan emphasized.

"The officer would probably have taken different precautions. If we could relive the past, we never would have allowed Murphy to walk along the highway in the condition he was in or may have been in," the attorney general explained.

"If I were making the investigation tonight, I would make it different than it was done that night. There are not many reports I receive about cases across the state that I do not have some suggestions for the investigation."

"In a democratic society we must live by the system...correct errors and omissions of the past," noted Morgan. "We can do this through such groups as this one here tonight. We must make sure we understand the system and the judicial process."

"I have been told the SBI report in the Day-Murphy case might clear the air and eliminate some fears and doubts," stated the attorney general. "Suppose we make this report public and not make a report in another case public. There would be some indication that we were trying to hide something from the public."

"In investigating and preparing reports, it is necessary to interview witness after witness after witness and record all the information that we receive. The information should not be made public unless it is substantial, correct and there is a need for the public to know," explained Morgan.

"As much as I can recognize the merit to argument, in the long run, justice will not be served by making the report public."

"If we are going to clear the air...clear the community of fear and doubt...if we improve the community...we must work together to keep open the avenues of communication," emphasized Morgan.

"The government must make sure it is responsive to the people and doesn't leave the impression that we are hiding the situation from the people."

Morgan said, "There are law enforcement officers, as well as teachers, ministers, doctors, lawyers, who are incompetent. We cannot judge the whole group by these few."

"It is easy for us to find fault of those who enforce the law," Morgan said. "We need to improve and upgrade law enforcement at every level."

"You, the people of Pitt County, will have to solve the problems of your community. You will have to promote greater understanding between your people, public officials and law enforcement officers."

"We must remember there are two sides to every case, not just the Day-Murphy case, but every case," Morgan noted.

Dr. William E. Fulford, president of Pitt Technical Institute, during his opening remarks, told the group, "we appreciate your presence and your willingness to help the county strive for better human relations."

TALKING DURING SESSION . . . North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan and Pitt Technical Institute President Dr. W. E. Fulford look over the program during yesterday's conference on human relations.

different color and philosophies," Fulford said. "Before we can be 'problem solvers' we must first be part of the solution rather than the problem," the PTTI president said. "We must develop a better understanding of the problems and draw upon the experiences, talents and expertise of those who have had similar experiences. Today we intend to do that."

"We can go to the moon — but can't get along with our neighbors. We build planes that break the sound barrier but cannot control crime and violence that occur in our community."

Fulford continued, "If the citizens are not law abiding, it is not because they are criminals, but maybe because the system of justice has grown lax. The problem can be solved by refusing to suspend or abridge sentences, by increasing the police force and by passing stronger laws."

"If violence is rewarded and committers of violence are not properly dealt with, it will flourish in America," Fulford pointed out.

"Lack of communication is a serious threat to solving problems of human relations. It is a prerequisite to understanding. I don't mean that I just communicate with you — but that you also communicate with me."

Three individual sessions were held during the afternoon yesterday with panels in each available to answer questions about solving problems in the community.

The teams included the following panelists:

Team I — Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation; W. W. Finlator, minister, State Civil Rights Commission; Dudley Flood, State Department of Public Instruction; and Leonard Wiggins, Good Neighbor Council, Rocky Mount.

Team II — Gene Causy State Department of Public Instruction; Evangeline Grant, television personality; Lt. O. H. Leake, High Point Police Department; Herb McKim, Wilmington businessman; and Dr. Andrew Best, Greenville physician.

Team III — Tom Young, Rocky Mount attorney; Tom I. Davis, State Department of Public Instruction; and Clarence Wiggins, member of the Rocky Mount Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose of the conference was to create a better

Settling War Not Nixon Goal In China Mission

By FRANK CORMIER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key aide says President Nixon's week-long February visit to Communist China, his longest stay in any country, aims at promoting mutual understanding—not an instant settlement of the Vietnam war.

The White House announced Tuesday that Nixon and wife Pat will be in mainland China Feb. 21-28 and will visit the capital city of Peking; Shanghai, the country's largest city, and Hang Chou, a much smaller place judged a suitable site for "conversations in a less hectic atmosphere."

Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the president's assistant for national security affairs, later had this to say about the purpose of Nixon's planned meetings with chairman Mao Tse-tung, Premier Chou En-Lai and others: "There has been an agreement to discuss issues that have to do with the relaxation of tensions between the United States and the Peoples' Republic of China...the minimum we expect to get out of this trip is a better understanding by both sides of each other's positions and a continuing means of remaining informed about these positions...."

Asked if Nixon would raise the Vietnam issue, Kissinger ducked a direct reply but said: "We expect to settle the war in Indochina either through the progress of Vietnamization or direct negotiations with Hanoi. We do not expect to settle it in Peking."

Kissinger also said the future of the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan would be discussed. But he added, "Our position is that the ultimate disposition, the ultimate relationship of Taiwan to the Peoples' Republic of China, should be settled by direct negotiations between Taiwan and the Peoples' Republic of China."

While saying both the United States and China have agreed to talk about ways to relax tensions between them, "there is no commitment by either side to any detailed agenda."

At another point, Kissinger said there would be "a free-wheeling nature to (the) discussions" and it is "clearly understood that each leader will be free to raise whatever topic he feels is urgent."

The foreign policy aide said Nixon would spend at least four days in Peking mainly in conversations with the Chinese leader.

Wilbur Mills Discloses Own State-Aid Proposal

By EDMOND LeBRETON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, foe of President Nixon's revenue-sharing plan, has introduced his counterproposal: a $5.3-billion-a-year aid program for states and localities, limited to five years and retaining some congressional control.

The administration greeted with restrained enthusiasm the move by the Arkansas Democrat, who as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee has kept revenue-sharing bottled up.

But in Honolulu, Mills' proposal drew eager support from many mayors attending the National League of Cities' annual congress.

"I'm delighted," said Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City.

Mayor Richard G. Lugar of Indianapolis said Mills "has done something positive in recognizing the problems of the cities."

Introduction of the bill by Mills, a potential contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, virtually assures that the general subject will come before Congress next year.

Mills' formula would provide $3.5 billion a year to cities and other local governments and $1.8 billion a year to states, to be spent in broadly designated fields.

The allocation to local governments would be weighted according to the proportion of low-income residents as well as total population.

The payments to the states would be on a basis encouraging them to emphasize state income taxes in their budgets.

The program would be limited to five years, during which Congress would review to end, continue or modify it.

The Nixon proposal would involve a permanent dedication of part of the federal income tax to states and localities, initially about $5 billion. The division would be based on population and tax effort, without a need factor, and there would be no strings on how the money might be spent.

Under Mills' proposal, funds for local government would be divided by states and within each state on a formula taking into account population, urbanization and the proportion of low-income families.

These funds could be used for public safety, environmental protection, public transportation, youth recreation, health and financial administration.

Award Record Road Contracts

RALEIGH (AP) — The biggest highway contract in North Carolina's history—more than $13 million—was expected to be awarded today by the State Highway Commission.

Blythe Bros. of Charlotte was low bidder Tuesday at $13,783,198 for construction of 5.2 miles of Interstate 77 north of Charlotte and resurfacing more than a mile of Interstate 85 at the same location.

Hussein Urges Showdown

AMMAN (AP) — King Hussein called on the Arab states today to mobilize their armies for a showdown with Israel "because force is the only means that can resolve the Middle East conflict."

In a 55-minute speech opening the Jordanian parliament, the 36-year-old monarch said that Israel "believes only in force, so force must be our way to peace."

The militant tone of the king's policy speech indicated he is moving closer to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

'Parade' Again Delays Start Of Raleigh March

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

"They offered us a ride...we didn't want to ride. We should have the right to walk," Golden Frinks said yesterday as he was being booked into the Pitt County jail.

A Southern Christian Leadership Conference field secretary, Frinks was one of 33 persons arrested about 12:40 p.m. on charges of parading without a permit after they marched for two blocks along West Fifth Street, from St. Gabriel's Catholic Church. The arrests followed a march late Monday morning which saw 62 persons arrested, including Frinks on similar charges.

Both marches had been billed by Frinks as the beginning of a trek to Raleigh to protest "police brutality" in general, and the shooting of a black man by a Highway Patrolman in Ayden on August 6, in particular.

According to Police Chief Glenn Cannon, yesterday's arrests could have been prevented.

Explaining, he said he offered to let the demonstrators walk out of town in pairs, 10 to 15 feet apart, but without carrying signs or singing. He indicated such action would not violate the city's parade ordinance which requires a permit which must be applied for in writing 72 hours in advance of the parade, or demonstration.

Chief Cannon said Frinks at first agreed to the proposal, but as the group moved off the St. Gabriel's Church yard, they carried signs and walked close together.

He said he again attempted to prevent the arrests by offering to transport the demonstrators to the city limits in buses. Frinks, Chief Cannon said, answered this proposal by telling the group to move off the street and onto a parking lot where they sat and chanted and sang songs.

Officers then countered the group's passive resistance by picking each of the marchers up and loading them onto the waiting buses for the trip to jail.

Officials, who said no incidents occurred during the arrests, noted that the demonstrators caused heavy damage to the interior of a North Carolina Department of Corrections bus used to transport them to jail. Seats in the bus were cut, padding was pulled from several seats, and interior lights were broken, officers explained.

A dozen other protestors were arrested during the afternoon after staging demonstrations at Five Points.

According to Chief Cannon, four blacks were taken into custody about 1 p.m. on charges of impeding traffic after they began bouncing basketballs in the intersection and interfering with traffic.

Eight others were arrested about 2:10 p.m. when they began bouncing balls and playing jump-rope in the busy intersection.

According to police, only three of the 62 marchers arrested Monday gave Greenville addresses while eight of the 33 arrested for parading yesterday were from Greenville.

Frinks earlier this week said demonstrators would march each day in Greenville until allowed to march out of (Continued On Page 14)

Couple Weds In Double Ring Ceremony Sunday

AYDEN — In a double ring ceremony Sunday at 2:00 p.m., Freddie Williams became the bride of George Randolph Mumford.

The Rev. Jim Trader performed the ceremony in the First Baptist Church here. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. John Blackwell, organist, and Mrs. Simmons Hill, soloist, who sang "More" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, Ronnie Foster, the bride wore a soft blue gown of silk organza over taffeta. She wore a veil of net attached to a crown of seed pearls and lace. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white pom poms and lily-of-the-valley tied with streamers of white satin and tulle.

The couple knelt for their vows on a gold and white pre-dried amid a setting of bridal palms and candelabra. The altar was centered with a basket of mixed flowers in pastel shades.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fred Foster and the late Mr. Foster. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Mumford Sr. of Hopewell, Va. Matron of honor was Mrs. Bruce Adams, sister of the bride. She wore a long sleeved dress of pink organza over taffeta and her headpiece was a pink cluster of flowers. She carried a nosegay of pom poms in shades of pink with matching satin streamers.

The bridegroom's father was best man.

MRS. GEORGE RANDOLPH MUMFORD

Mrs. Harry Mumford directed the wedding.

The bride is employed as business manager at Pinner-White Chevrolet, Ayden. The bridegroom is co-owner of Mumfords Market, Ayden. The couple will reside in Ayden.

She Danced To Live During 'Good Old Days'

By DAVID GOELLER
Associated Press Writer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Good Old Days mean different things to different people. To Betty Rector, they are sore feet but soaring spirits during weeks of waltzing and Lindy Hopping in a Depression-era dance marathon.

In those days of the early 1930s, Mrs. Rector of Glen Burnie, Md., was Betty Moore, a 96-pound wisp of a girl who danced much of the time with the dozing hulk of a partner draped over her shoulders.

"I was in the marathons because I liked to dance," said Mrs. Rector, who served as the unpaid expert consultant to University of Maryland students who staged a 52-hour marathon recently to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America.

To Mrs. Rector, a 52-hour marathon would have been a short warm-up jog.

She danced in 20 dance contests beginning in Philadelphia in 1931 and continuing in a circuit stretching from Massachusetts to Cumberland in Western Maryland.

Her longest marathon performance was three months of 'round-the-clock dancing, and she still did not win.

"I never won any of them," she recalled. "They always gave prizes to the last four couples, and when we got down to five or six couples left, I'd get bored and move on to another one."

"Mrs. Rector, now 58, said that marathon dancers got 10-minute breaks every hour, ate or snacked six times a day and were given massages by trainers.

"We did our sleeping on the dance floor," said Mrs. Rector, who was nicknamed the "Sugar Nymph" during her marathon days.

She said she worked for a promoter named Zeke Youngblood who paid travel and expenses for dancers on the marathon circuit. Her usual partner was Eddie Kish.

"I'd love to get in touch with some of the people I danced with," she said.

Mrs. Rector recalled her first marathon.

"The first week I couldn't sleep, and half the time I didn't know where I was. When I came to and found out where I was, I was shocked. But then the whole thing was a lot of fun.

"The first week our feet were killing us," she continued. "We had to put them first in hot water and then ice. It sort of toughened your feet up."

Mrs. Rector said the hardest part of the marathons was "carrying those heavy partners

Following the rehearsal Saturday night, Mrs. Bruce Adams, Mrs. Eddie Stocks and Mrs. Ronnie Foster entertained at an after-rehearsal party in the educational building of the church.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow and white mums.

Mrs. G. R. Mumford served the wedding cake and Mrs. Ronnie Foster poured punch.

Bloomer Girl Is Bashful

CALTANISSETTA, Italy (WNS) — Constantino di Legami, 42, did not want other men looking at his wife's legs. When he ordered her to wear long, flannel bloomers, she refused. Constantino then beat his beloved Concetta, 39, every night until police heard the screams and arrested him. Mrs. di Legami said she was too bashful to complain about the beatings and that she will be frightened living alone if he is sent to jail for five years. "Let him go, and I'll wear the bloomers," she promised.

around." But "I haven't danced for 35 years—ever since I got married," she said. "My husband didn't dance."

Grandparents Shouldn't Go Overboard

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Why do some grandparents feel that they can give their grandchildren anything they want for Christmas without even consulting the parents?

Our children have more toys than they know what to do with, and my parents have just told us what they plan to give their grandchildren for Christmas and we have told them that we disapprove. In the first place, we think the gifts are very inappropriate for our children, they are far too expensive, and we have no place to store them.

My parents say they are not asking us, they are telling us. Abby, don't you think they should respect our wishes? And what can we do about it? UPSET IN PA.

DEAR UPSET: Yes, I think your wishes should be respected. You could threaten to return any unapproved gifts and make good your threat if they insist on sending them anyway. But this would undoubtedly make it "rough sledding" for your relationship at Christmas, so I don't recommend it.

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those unfortunate women who had only sons. Out of six children, I never had one daughter. Talk about rotten luck. That was the worst. I know what I am talking about because last Christmas I knew what a broken heart felt like.

The five older boys are married, and on Christmas and Thanksgiving, too, each went to HER mother's.

My younger son has a girl friend, and he went to HER house. Not one of my sons asked me if I had plans.

I am not a whining, complaining, clinging vine type. I am self-supporting, and can look after myself. This was the first Christmas without my husband, and I thought surely one of my boys would invite me to spend Christmas with him. I'm sure if I had had daughters, things would have been different. What do you think? MOTHER OF SONS

DEAR MOTHER: It's hard to tell. Some mothers have received the same treatment from their daughters. And some sons treat their mothers like queens. The little verse, "A son is a son 'til he takes a wife, but a daughter is a daughter all her life," "ain't" necessarily so!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old man [divorced] who has been single for five years, with no desire to marry again until I met a charming 45-year-old woman [also divorced]. I plan to ask her to marry me and feel confident that she will accept. My problem: I don't feel I should buy her an engagement ring because she is already wearing diamonds on both her hands which would put to shame any diamond I could afford to buy her.

How could I handle this? UNSURE IN OAKLAND

DEAR UNSURE: Skip the engagement diamond and make up for it with a more elaborate wedding ring.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "AMAZED AT YOU AND YOUR FILTHY MIND": I DID consult with psychiatrists before publishing my answer, and they agreed unanimously that no healthy-minded mother sleeps with her 11-year-old son. [And in one twin bed, yet!]

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Married Couples Have 13-Year-Itch

LONDON (WNS) — In England and Wales, 13 is the dangerous wedding anniversary for married couples under 45 years old. Register General Michael Reed, who prepared a government report after studying 39,067 divorces during the past five years, calls it the 13-year-itch. Couples married in Anglican churches stay married longer than those wed in Catholic churches or civil ceremonies. The Jewish marriages that end in divorce break up soonest, but the Jewish divorce rate is lowest.

OPEN DAILY 10 A.M. UNTIL 5:30 P.M. AND FRIDAY NIGHTS UNTIL 9

Annual Salvation Army Doll Show Will Continue Through Saturday

An array of brightly dressed dolls, numbering 300, are being displayed in the annual Salvation Army Doll Show.

The show, which opened yesterday at 10 a.m. is being held in a mobile unit parked at Pitt Plaza, and will continue through Saturday. The daily hours are 10 a.m. until 9 p.m.

The dolls have been placed in displays carrying out various themes. The Mental Retardation Association was this year's first place winner.

Having the theme "reflections of Christmas," the display is lighted by a collage designed by the Trainable Class of Aycock Junior High School.

The winning display shows three ideas, a manger scene, carolers and a Christmas tree being decorated.

The First Christian Church won second place and third place was awarded to Greenville Utilities.

Judges for this year's show were Judy Tungstall and Linda, East Carolina University students. The show is sponsored by the Salvation Army Ladies Auxiliary and Mrs. W. M. Smith Jr. was chairman assisted by Mrs. Little Little and Mrs. Capt. Alvin Smith.

The dolls are dressed in fashions ranging from bride dolls, baby dolls, little girls, elegant ladies, Red Riding Hood and other story book characters.

The Salvation Army Service Unit in Farmville, headed by Jack Tyson, chairman, will exhibit the dolls in Farmville next week at the Atlantic Credit Co.

The dolls, dressed by church women, Pitt County Extension Homemakers and ECU School of Home Economics students, will be placed in the Salvation Army's Toy Shop and will be given to needy children in Pitt County on Dec. 23. Following the closing of the Toy Show, remaining dolls will be given to little girl patients in Pitt Memorial Hospital for Christmas gifts.

REFLECTIONS OF CHRISTMAS, highlighted by a collage designed by the Trainable Class at Aycock Junior High School, was included in the first place winning display arranged by the Mental Retardation Association.

Encores Never Stop At Dorothee Bis

By IRIS HARTMAN
PARIS (WNS) — Arrivals in Paris used to head for the elegant shopping street, the Faubourg St. Honore. Now they go first to the rue de Sevres on the Left Bank to see what's new at Dorothee Bis.

There's always plenty that's new at DB — a feeling of endless creativity. It is three boutiques in one, and has become the fashion mecca for young Parisiennes as well as for style-minded tourists from everywhere. In its windows sit life-sized rag dolls, twisted into the most outlandish positions, wearing clothes that proclaim the fact that dressing can be fun, witty and gay.

And that is just the way owner Elie Jacobson wants it. The dynamic "Mr. Dorothee Bis" insists "Dressing should be perpetual fun."

Like Topsy
Mr. Jacobson opened his shop on the rue de Sevres as a purely retail operation, with one small boutique which he named Dorothee. Its quick success brought about the opening, next door, of a sister shop which Jacobson decided to call Dorothee bis (bis means encore in the theater, in this case it means, the second), as a show-case for more far-out garb. Then appeared, next to next door, a third boutique, nameless, for funny furs and extravagances. But it was the name Dorothee bis that caught on. Now the three shops are joined under the one name and there are to date 37 Dorothee bis boutiques in the world, with more coming.

Elie Jacobson's credo of perpetual fun in clothes has meant perpetual sales. But it has required a lot of do-it-yourself on his part. As a retailer, he knew what he wanted to serve to his public. He wanted togs that were whimsical, young, "a bit kitsch — for cute birds." Brimming with ideas, Jacobson started creating his own colors, having manufacturers dye up coordinated things especially for him. Often his colors were pastels instead of the rusts and browns of the usual round. Soon, not able always to find the kitsch clothes he wanted, he started suggesting ideas to the manufacturers.

Own Product
It was necessity and his wife Jacqueline that pushed the retailer into becoming his own stylist. Now, further pushed by life's onward shove, he has gone into manufacturing.

Currently featured in Dorothee bis windows are some happy-looking outfits of knit coordinates in pastel colors. As a suggestion for wearable mixing of a clothes cocktail, one huge rag doll wears a turtle-necked wool sweater and tights in ice cream green. Her cuffed baby pink knee britches are also wool knit. A short-sleeved pullover sweater with V neck repeats the sky blue of her turned-down wool knee socks.

Her big floppy knit beret combines the three colors in its fat pom pom, and that's not all. If the wool mittens are pink, so are the suede grandpa's high-laced shoes. The outfit comes to about $65 and the shoes $30.

Another assemblage of coordinates poses a flannelette dirndl skirt in a rose pattern over blue knit turtle-neck and tights, warmed by a loose little tie-on jacket in plaid fake fur lined in flower-printed rayon, and all topped by the same whopper of a wool beret.

Crazy Fabrics
Actually, most Dorothee bis clothes are sane and wearable but made in combinations of unexpected crazy fabrics that the kids adore. In the front of the boutique next to the tiny sweater bar there are tie-front coats in the flannelette of children's pajamas printed in grandma's roses — these lined with fake fur in a quite different print.

Here they like fake furs and the fakier the better. Eisenhower jackets are made of fake fur printed in multicolor plaid — 6 colors — and lined in flower print cotton. But walk to the back of the boutique and all becomes fairly classic. Pants in velvet and corduroys hang beside rows and rows of classic shirts in plaid or flowered cotton voile.

Go up a few steps and through the little archway to the Dorothee bis super "real fur" boutique. Best seller is a short, sleeveless jacket in thick goatskin dyed almond green, slate blue or rosy red at about $74. This lovable model comes, at twice the price, in "patch" (an imported word that has taken out French citizenship). The patches look intentionally home-made as if from grandma's and auntie's old persian and other conservative coats.

The glamor coat with a 3,900 franc ($735) price tag is long, with no fastening of any kind. It looks to be made in silver fox patches dyed in stained glass window colors. At that price, if it's not silver fox, it is a very reasonable facsimile.

Idea Appears To Make Sense

There obviously are many arguments to be made against high school students serving on juries in criminal cases, but the idea seems to make sense in a case tried in Alaska.

In a case involving a 16-year-old girl charged with drug violations, the judge, prosecutor and defense lawyer agreed that the jury should be made up of 12 members of a high school government class. They further agreed that the verdict of the teenage jury would be binding on the court. The trial was stopped for lack of evidence before a verdict was reached.

There have been other instances in Alaska in which teenage juries have been used, but in those cases the jury rendered advisory opinions which were not binding on the court. This time the jury of high school students had the same authority as adult juries, although the state attorney general has since decided against the plan.

The trial was a smart move, it seems to us. In all probability, a jury of 12 high school students would know more about drugs and drug problems than a random jury of adults. As high school government students, the youngsters who made up the jury probably had about as good an understanding of the working of the courts, obligations under the laws and the responsibility of jury duty as many adults. There is no reason to believe that these younger persons who made up this special jury were any less inclined to be completely fair than a jury made up of older citizens.

While we do not expect to see youngsters of high school age serving on juries as a general rule, there are probably many cases in which the cause of justice would be better served by a jury of youngsters than by a jury of adults.

North Carolina might well profit by trying teenage juries at least on an experimental basis.

Noise Often A Great Polluter

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Stop and listen. What does your environment sound like?

The snarl and whine of traffic. The clatter and throb of machinery. The glare of radio and television. They make up the discordant symphony of life in the 20th century tempo.

The most insidious form of pollution may not be smog and waste disposal at all, but noise. In fact, the time is near when a moment of quiet will be as hard to find as a drink of clean water and a breath of pure air.

For the average Tar Heel, the day is filled with sounds which jangle the nerves, distract the attention and interfere with work or play, and cause varying levels of disquiet and irritability.

It's an old problem noise with a new name (aural pollution) which has government officials and citizens engaged in a frustrating search for solutions.

A survey of legal noise abatement efforts in North Carolina is given by David G. Warren in the latest issue of "Popular Government," the publication of the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

Sporadic, Limited Attack

In sum, Warren said the attack has been sporadic and limited in success. For the most part, attempts to control noise have been marked by the confusion inherent in the definition of those noises to be prohibited.

One generation's noise is another generation's music, as parents of any teenager can testify. As in the case of obscenity, Warren intimated, the crux of the dilemma is identification of those noises which have no "socially redeeming value" and should be forbidden.

Noise abatement is largely the province of local governments, under nuisance statutes. Most North Carolina municipalities have some kind of ordinances prohibiting "loud, unnecessary and disturbing" noises.

That does not turn on the peculiar sensibilities of a person or group, as the courts recognized back in 1875 in holding that a noisome parade celebrating the Emancipation Proclamation was not a nuisance per se or on its facts.

Courts Recognized Problem

Warren, an Institute staff member whose field includes health law, said the courts of North Carolina ruled as early as 1904 that "frightful" noises could injure health and destroy the comfort of one's home. In that case, brought against a cotton mill, the court found a steamwhistle not to be a nuisance but granted that it could be in some cases.

The rule hinger upon degree. Warren quoted from a court opinion:

"Where noise accompanies an otherwise lawful pursuit, whether such a noise is a nuisance depends on the locality, the degree of intensity and disagreeableness of the sound, their times and frequency, and their effect, not on peculiar and unusual individuals but ordinary, normal and reasonable persons of the locality."

A number of North Carolina cities have adopted noise control measures patterned after a model ordinance prepared by the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers (NIMLO). The Greensboro version was upheld by the State Court of Appeals in a case in which five motorcyclists were arrested for disturbing a residential section.

Exactness Not Required

"The ordinance in question does not define in decibels the intensity of the noise to be prohibited thereby, but such exactness is not required," the court said. "The words loud and unnecessary have a commonly accepted meaning and they give sufficient warning to anyone who has the desire to obey the ordinance."

Nevertheless, Warren added, even if this type of ordinance is not unconstitutionally vague, "it is vague enough to make enforcement more difficult."

That noise is more than an annoyance has been demonstrated by medical research. Prolonged exposure to high levels of sound can produce permanent hearing loss, which is covered under North Carolina's workmen's compensation law.

"Although conclusive proof that noise causes physical ailments other than loss of hearing has not been presented," Warren said, "some physicians have reported a connection between excessive noise and heart disease, migraine headaches, gastro-intestinal disorders, and some allergies."

Psychological damage, though harder to prove, also seems evident. "Some investigators even report a connection between excessive noise and mental disorders," Warren noted.

In the long run, effective measures against noise pollution depend not only upon an aroused public and legislative bodies but also the cooperation of the scientific and industrial community, he said. Control at the source can result, he explained, through "the design and utilization of quiet machines, tools, vehicles, production methods, industrial processes, and other essential and nonessential soundmakers that are part of our environment."

Pompidou Meeting Is A Practical Prelude

Added to the list of world leaders with whom President Nixon plans to meet; is President Georges Pompidou of France.

The two heads of state will meet in the Azores Dec. 13-14 to discuss international questions, it was announced.

Certainly it is appropriate that the president meet with the head of a nation which has long been our friend before making the trips to Peking and Moscow.

Relations between Paris and Washington have not always been smooth in recent years, but the United States and France should remain the closest of nations.

Sen. Muskie's Illinois Coup

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CHICAGO — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie is well on his way toward a coup of the utmost national importance: clinching some 100 of this state's 170 Democratic convention delegates without angering Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago.

Muskie men are quietly planning to run Muskie-pledged national convention delegates in almost all downstate and suburban districts and perhaps some Chicago districts. Riding Muskie's popularity, these delegate-candidates will be strong favorites to give the Senator nearly two-thirds of the big delegation. What's more, the March 21 Illinois primary comes early enough for major impact on the Presidential nomination.

The question mark is Dick Daley, the Celtic Buddha of City Hall veiling his intentions. So far, Muskie's delegate-seeking efforts have encountered no objections from Daley and, in fact, have been privately encouraged by some Daley lieutenants. Nevertheless, Muskie strategists are listening carefully for a veto from the fifth floor of the city-county building.

Muskie's opportunity for a coup in Illinois derives from new primary rules under which 150 of the state's 170 Democratic convention delegates will be elected by district with either his choice for President or an "uncommitted" designation beside each delegate-candidate's name.

Originally, this new procedure was not expected to significantly weaken the iron control over Illinois delegations exercised by Daley the past four conventions. Illinois was one state where Muskie's national strategists planned no challenge against uncommitted delegates.

What changed this was the aggressive campaign here by Sen. George McGovern, running delegates throughout the state. Organization Democrats in some of these districts broke into a cold sweat, fearing that insurgents wearing the McGovern label would defeat uncommitted regulars. Hence, many opted for the Muskie label as a ticket for regular delegates to Miami Beach.

An example is the new 12th Congressional District in Chicago's north suburbs, within the realm of Cook County Democratic chairman Daley. The district's Democratic regulars believe they would be overwhelmed by McGovern delegates and, getting no instructions from chairman Daley, are working with Muskie strategists to form a slate of Muskie-pledged delegates. Only a call from the fifth floor would dissuade them.

The result: the Muskie campaign contemplates delegate races in all 12 downstate Congressional districts, all five suburban

Booing Has Defenders

WASHINGTON —

Washington is still in shock from a booing incident that took place at the last Redskins home football game at RFK Stadium. It seems that the Redskins fans who had been euphoric about the team's early winning streak started to boo Coach George Allen because he refused to replace quarterback Billy Kilmer with Sonny Jurgenson, who had been out with injuries.

The fact that the Redskins fans would boo a team they had been cheering a few games back even shook up President Nixon, who made a surprise visit to the Redskins camp to reassure the players that he was rooting for them.

While most responsible people in Washington deplored the booing, my friend Lem Katcawler defended it.

"Booing is as American as apple pie," he said to me. "If we can't boo at a football game, we're no better than the Russians."

"But Lem," I protested, "you're not supposed to boo your own team."

"That's how much you know about booing. Everyone knows that booing is a form of emotional release. There was a time, I'll admit, when booing the other side was sufficient to get the juices flowing. But in the world we live in today the only real satisfaction fans get is booing their own team."

"It seems awfully cruel," I said.

"Perhaps," said Lem, "but everyone is doing it and not just at football games. Children are booing grownups, grownups are booing long hairs, voters are booing politicians, students are booing speakers and rank-and-file workers are booing their own labor leaders. There is 75 percent more booing going on in this country than there was 20 years ago."

"Why is that?"

"Everybody is mad," said Lem, "and they have to take it out on somebody. All of us have been brought up on the axiom that the only thing that counts in life is to win. So when somebody is losing, the natural thing to do is to boo him."

"But maybe if you cheered, it would help him win," I protested.

"That's old hat," Lem said. "There's so little to cheer about any more that people actually feel silly when they do it. Besides nobody pays any attention to people who cheer. It's the man who boos that everyone worries about."

"I guess I'm old-fashioned," I said, "but I feel much better when I cheer than when I boo."

"Anyone who cheers anything today is living in a fantasy world," Lem said. "What's there to shout about?"

"I don't know, Lem, but there has to be something."

Public Forum

(Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words)

To The Editor:

At the December 2 City Council meeting, Council members will be asked to take a crucial step toward the creation of a Day Care Center at the Moyewood Housing Project for lower income families. Council members will be asked to free $9,000 to start state and federal matching fund operations which would multiply this $9,000 to a total of $72,000 — a sum which would very adequately begin such a program.

The League of Women Voters of Greenville-Pitt County believes the City Council should make this initial investment. We, as a League, have long officially felt that day care facilities are essential if jobs are to replace welfare checks for mothers of young children in these lower income areas. However, we have also officially stated that such programs should be more than custodial care — that child development must be included. The proposed Moyewood program meets both our criteria.

Children will be carefully screened so that children whose mothers stand the best chance of gaining employment will be admitted. The Center itself may provide jobs for some of the mothers through openings for teacher aides — jobs these mothers can be trained to fill.

The child development aspect of Moyewood would be carefully supervised. The director, we understand, hopefully will have a master's degree in child development. Teachers will have college degrees. The Center plans to work closely with the East Carolina University School of Home Economics and its child development program.

The city's contingency fund, we understand, contains $15,000 for Moyewood, if needed. We can think of no greater need for $9,000 of this than the start of a Day Care Center which would serve close to 40 children in the West Greenville area. If one child's life is helped by this $9,000 we feel that it is a small price to pay.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Natalie Clark, President

U.S. Paints Self Into Corner

By ELMER ROESSNER

The United States has painted itself in one corner in its dealings with Japan. We have sold them a Western diet: hamburgers, hot dogs, barbecued chicken and wheat. They like it. In fact, Japan has gone a long way from a rice-eating country to a wheat-eating one.

This has been a boon to American farmers and American business. Japan is a fine market for our huge wheat crop and has enabled the U.S. to get back some of the millions we have been spending there for textiles, electronics and other products.

And while the Japanese have been enjoying bread and buns of wheat, huge surpluses or rice have been building up in Japan. Rice culture is centuries old in Nippon. Generations of the same family have cultivated the same paddies since days lost in time.

In the past, Japan often produced less rice than it needed, and it imported the grain from Thailand, Burma and other nations. But with the preference for wheat, huge surpluses developed.

Burdensome Piles of Rice
For four years, 1967 through 1970, Japan stockpiled its surplus rice. But the costs of the rice and storage became so burdensome that steps were taken to reduce the hoard.

In 1969, according to the U.S. Foreign Agriculture Service, Japan made export agreements with Korea, Indonesia, Pakistan and Okinawa to take 422,000 metric tons of brown (unhulled) rice on bargain terms.

In 1970, Japan agreed to export 1.2 million more to developing countries on deferred-payment terms. Through July of this year, Japan agreed to sell 448,000 tons more. In addition, it decided to sell old-crop rice to its formula feed industry for cattle, hot and poultry feeds.

Unloading Continues
At present, the country is conveying about 120,000 tons a month into feed, suggesting that it is disposing of 1.4 million tons this year, the FAS calculates. The Japanese Feed Agency announced last March that it would release about 2 million tons a year in fiscal 1971, 1972, and 1973.

Meanwhile the government is encouraging farmers to shift from rice to other crops. Progress has been slow, however, and the 1970 crop was only 9 per cent less than the 1969 crop. Now the government offers cash payment for land diverted to other crops or left fallow.

Japanese farmers, however, are no less wily than the American. Like ours, they are tempted to divert part of their land to other crops and fertilize the remainder intensely.

Meanwhile, unleashing the surplus is hurting American farmers. It lowers the price for our rice exports, it cuts into our overseas markets for wheat in poor nations who will eat rice instead, and it reduces our market for feedgrains in Japan.

However, our market for breadgrains in Japan remains strong and, who knows, now we may interest Mainland China in wheat bread and hot dogs.

Strength For Today

THINK IT OVER

We read in the Bible that when Jesus and his disciples had sung a hymn they went out into the Mount of Olives (Matthew 26:30) Would we have liked that music?

Probably not — unless we like what is designated today as "modern music." People stopped their ears and rushed out of the opera house when the music of the famous Richard Wagner was first played. Did you ever watch an Indian war dance and listen to their music? Or maybe you just don't like music.

Everything changes with the passing of time. Everyone remembers the horror of the musician who found that his meat was wrapped up in paper that was obviously musical manuscript. "Oh yes," said the butcher, "one of my ancestors — a guy named Bach — wrote music and we have a lot of it stored up in our attic. When we didn't have enough wrapping paper for our meat we just used that crazy stuff that the ancestor had written."

For thousands of years people read from scrolls which required the use of two hands. At last someone conceived the idea of cutting up the scrolls into pages and making a book. And weren't they amazed at the simplicity of it all! Why hadn't somebody thought of it before?

Some of us have seen dread diseased wiped from the face of the earth. Yes, we know what you are thinking about — and it will come some day and doctors will kick themselves all over the place for not having thought of it sooner.

(Continued From Page 4) districts in Cook County and as many as three of the seven Chicago districts (one a heavily liberal district where McGovern delegates might defeat the organization, the other two districts with high Polish concentration where the regulars actively back Muskie).

These Muskie plans have included opposition from a few downstate regulars (particularly in the southernmost districts) who want to bring uncommitted delegates to Miami Beach. But Muskie may run delegates against them anyway. The Muskie worry comes not from southern Illinois but here in Chicago.

Accordingly, Muskie's Illinois coordinator — businessman-politician Angelo Geocaris, a liberal with good credentials inside the Daley organization — is operating with the utmost care not to offend city hall. He is known to maintain particularly close relations with the highly esteemed president George W. Dunne of the Cook County board, one of the Daley organization's key figures. Presumably, Geocaris would not be lining up Muskie-pledged delegates if Dunne objected.

In fact, however, we found mixed opinion among top Daley lieutenants. Some welcome Muskie's move on grounds that Daley probably will wind up with Muskie anyway. Others believe that Daley would deeply resent going to the convention with only one-third of the Illinois delegation uncommitted and wants the option of giving the whole delegation to his sentimental favorite, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, as the opportunity arises.

Moreover, some regulars feel Muskie is getting an unclear picture of feeling inside the organization. Ex-Federal Trade Commissioner John Reilly, a Washington lawyer who is Muskie's out-of-state coordinator for Illinois, is working closely with his friend, Rep. Daniel Rostenkowski. But Rostenkowski is regarded as having dropped several rungs in the organization of late.

If Daley does flash a red light, debate would erupt among Muskie advisers. Geocaris would oppose charging head-on against the organization; Reilly might be more inclined to fight it out. But any veto from the fifth floor must come soon. As long as Daley says nothing, Muskie will go about the business of pinning down the large and prestigious bloc of Illinois delegates.

Chain Plans Johnny Cash Making Pay Boosts Movie About Jesus In The Holy Land

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — J. P. Stevens & Co. Inc., giant textile chain which operates in North Carolina, South Carolina and elsewhere, says it is raising wages for about 40,000 production workers in its 80 plants, according to a newspaper report.

The Charlotte Observer said in Wednesday's editions the firm did not reveal the size of the increase, which is to take effect Dec. 13. Stevens referred to it as an "upward wage adjustment."

The newspaper said a brief statement issued by the company made no reference to the Pay Board, although the firm falls into the category of those required to seek prior approval for pay hikes under President Nixon's economic policy.

The report quoted the company statement as saying notices of the wage adjustment were posted in Stevens plants Tuesday.

Stevens, according to the report, was the last major textile firm to give a wage increase in 1970, but it becomes the first of the big companies to announce a 1971 wage increase.

Burlington Industries of Greensboro and Dan River Inc. of Virginia have announced requests to the Pay Board for wage increases.

Disclaim Gossip Of Romance For Princess Anne

LONDON (AP) — Princess Anne involved in a royal row over a reported romance with a commoner?

"Rubbish," decries Buckingham Palace.

And talk of a romance itself was described today by a palace spokesman as "pure speculative gossip."

U.S. columnist Earl Wilson reported that the daughter of Queen Elizabeth II wanted to marry Richard Meade, an Olympic horseman. He said the queen had forbidden the princess to see Meade.

The royal spokesman said that Princess Anne, 21, had known the 32-year-old Meade for three or four years. "He is numbered among her friends," the spokesman stated.

The princess is a keen horsewoman with aspirations of making Britain's Olympic showjumping team.

Johnny Cash Making Movie About Jesus In The Holy Land

SEA OF GALILEE, Israel (AP) — Johnny Cash is making a 90-minute feature film at Christian holy sites in Israel and occupied Jordan.

"I've never seen a movie about Jesus that I really liked," says the singer. "So I thought I'd make one myself."

Cash says he has spent $500,000 and five weeks in Israel to produce a portrayal of Christ "the man, as a real man, very human, and as a divinity—very divine."

"We show him as a boy, playing with kids, we show him laughing, throwing rocks at the water. A fly lands on his nose he brushes it away. A disciple helps him get a speck of dirt out of his eye. And so on," Cash added.

Jesus is played by a non-professional, blond, bearded Bob Elfstrom, Ridgefield, Conn. The other actors were recruited from among Americans, British and Scandinavian youths on hitchhike tours of Israel.

Dogged by tourists thronging the holy places, Cash frequently improvised. A Garden of Gethsemane scene was done in a copse near the Sea of Galilee.

He filmed Jerusalem scenes in a deserted Palestinian refugee camp, where the abode huts and narrow alleys have a Biblical atmosphere.

But so far, he says, "We've had a goodly share of miracles."

Cash got a storm on the Sea of Galilee the day he needed it, and a calm sea the next days. Jesus' Ascension was filmed with Elfstrom walking toward a clouded sky. As he walked, a hole opened in the clouds. "The telescopic lens turned him out of focus, and he was gone. It was beautiful."

Cash narrates and sings in the movie, and reads passages from Matthew in his rich, growling voice. He is not in the

Slow Count In Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The National party cut the lead of the ruling Colorado party to 9,389 votes today in Uruguay's presidential election, and the Electoral Court announced it would start on Friday to count the 70,000 absentee ballots that will decide the winner.

Official returns from the election Sunday gave the Colorados 591,240 votes, the Nationals 581,851, and the leftist coalition called the Broad Front 269,382.

The Electoral Court said it would work a minimum of six hours a day until the absentee ballots were processed. The registration of each voter must be checked.

The Interior Ministry denied reports that 38 ballot boxes were gone and obtained writ directing the ministry to confirm that all of them had been turned in.

It is the first time in Uruguay's history that a general election has been so close. The remaining contenders in the 11-man race for the presidency are Agriculture Minister Juan M. Bordaberry of the Colorado party, and Sen. Wilson Ferreira Aldunate of the National party.

Most observers feel the odds are with Bordaberry and the Colorado party, which has ruled Uruguay for all except eight of the past 106 years. But according to unofficial tabulations, the party lost ground in the congressional elections also held Sunday.

Savannah Plant Threaten Close

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — American Cyanamid Co. officials say they will be forced to close their Savannah plant unless it receives a permit to dump waste sulfuric acid into the ocean off the Georgia coast.

"Look, when I was young I used to do a lot of cheering myself. I cheered the Flag, I cheered the President, I cheered for my school, I cheered for the sake of cheering. But now that Americans don't know which side they're on any more, the safest thing to do is to boo."

"It's awfully tough on people who are trying their hardest," I said.

"That's too bad," Lem said. "But if I don't boo, people will think I don't care what happens. I'm just one guy, but when they add my boos to everyone else's boos, they're going to have to reckon with us and change their ways."

"Who's they?" I asked.

"Whoever we're booing, stupid."

Fitzgerald said the reason American industry does not have the technical capability to treat all acid wastes involved. Dumping operations would begin within 18 months after approval, the company has said, and would continue for about 10 years.

South Viets Pushing In 3 Offensives

MY MOVE — Former N.C. Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward Scheidt ponders a jump during a tournament at Greensboro. (AP Wirephoto)

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Backed by heavy U.S. air support, 57,000 South Vietnamese troops pushed ahead today with three dry-season offensives. North Vietnamese gunners hit South Vietnamese positions in two of the operations with more than 100 rockets and mortars, killing three soldiers and wounding nine.

Only small patrol clashes were reported on the three fronts—in the central highlands, along Highway 7 in eastern Cambodia, and in the lower Mekong Delta. The fronts are 150 to 200 miles from one another.

The newest offensive, disclosed today, is a five-day-old, 7,000-man infantry and armored push in western Kontum and Pleiku provinces along Cambodia's northeastern frontier, 260 miles northeast of Saigon. Its aim, spokesmen said, is to stop two North Vietnamese infantry regiments and an artillery regiment reported moving from base camps in Cambodia into South Vietnam's central highlands.

Ninety-six North Vietnamese were killed in the highlands offensive over the weekend, the allied commands said, at the cost of two South Vietnamese killed and 27 wounded. Three U.S. observation helicopters were shot down, and six American crewmen wounded.

Fighting has tapered off since Sunday, but North Vietnamese artillerymen are besieging the Poley Kleng outpost 12 miles southwest of Kontum City and less than 20 miles from Cambodia. It was shelled eight times Tuesday with 60 mortars and rockets, killing one South Vietnamese ranger and wounding one.

U.S. B52 heavy bombers made more strikes in the area against infiltration routes 3 and 7 miles east of the border.

The B52s also struck north of Highway 7 in eastern Cambodia in support of the 25,000-man South Vietnamese offensive under way there since Nov. 22. This drive has met no major resistance, but Tuesday night the North Vietnamese fired 15 rockets into the Tay Ninh base camp, the operations center for the offensive. Two soldiers were wounded.

Across the border in Cambodia, South Vietnamese paratroopers clashed with North Vietnamese forces 12 miles northeast of Chrum, and two of the paratroopers were killed and six were wounded when their unit was hit by 40 mortar shells. The South Vietnamese command said five of the enemy were killed and 114 bazooka-type rockets were captured.

No action was reported in the third offensive, a 25,000-man push begun last Friday across more than 2,000 square miles of the lower Mekong Delta stretching from the U Minh forest to the Ca Mau peninsula.

President Nguyen Van Thieu visited the forces in the Cambodian offensive Tuesday, and today he flew to Ca Mau to speak to troops taking part in the lower delta push.

The president told them South Vietnamese military operations the length of South Vietnam and in Cambodia and Laos have brought security to the Vietnamese. Thieu repeated that he would not accept a coalition government with the Communists, nor "concede any area, no matter how remote, to the Communists."

Vote Electoral College Be Kept

HONOLULU (AP) — A resolution calling for scrapping the electoral college in favor of direct election of the president and vice president was defeated Tuesday in the Resolutions Committee of the 48th annual congress of the National League of Cities.

The resolution, sponsored by Mayor Carlos Romero-Barcello of San Juan, P.R. also would have extended presidential voting rights to residents of U.S. possessions—Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, American Samoa and Guam.

He said the South Vietnamese must continue to fight until the Communists are defeated or agree to a negotiated settlement. He added that the Vietnamese must solve their own problems and not accept a solution dictated by foreign governments.

Ed Scheidt Opines Checkers A Science

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A former FBI man, currently a checkers champion, says, "I've never seen a chess player who can play checkers worth a darn."

With that statement Edward F. Scheidt, 68, retired North Carolina motor vehicles commissioner, continued his onslaught on fellow checker players from North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Florida and Georgia recently in a Greensboro tournament. He won the event, which lasted for three days.

Scheidt, a serious checkers player since his high school days during world War I, said, "Checkers is underestimated by the average person. Checkers players can usually play acceptable chess."

"Checkers is a science. Chess is a philosophy."

Since leaving the state position in 1965 Scheidt has lived in Reston, Va., in semiretirement. He has done some occasional consultant work and is now traveling the college lecture circuit.

Scheidt tells student audiences about his 21 years with the FBI, emphasizing "intimate, behind-the-scenes glimpses" with a human interest touch. He retired from the bureau in 1953 and was appointed motor vehicles commissioner.

The Winston-Salem native still considers North Carolina home and said he enjoys returning to give other serious checkers players a good game.

Recognition To Blackmer

RALEIGH (AP) — Sidney Blackmer of Salisbury, veteran stage and screen actor, is the recipient of the 1971 Morrison Award given for outstanding contribution to the arts in North Carolina.

The presentation was made Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Roanoke Island Historical Association. The citation said Blackmer had rendered "valuable service to the advisory committee to the North Carolina School of the Arts."

George Mallonee, association general manager, reported that a record 77,557 persons attended "The Lost Colony" pageant at Roanoke Island this year. The association sponsors the drama.

Mrs. Fred W. Morrison of Washington, D.C., was re-elected chairman of the association.

Mallonee said the association's various activities netted a profit of $37,529 the past fiscal year.

Close Hearings To News Media

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Two black groups say hearings they are sponsoring on grievances against public schools are being closed to the news media because, "Black folks are just past the point of letting white folks know what's on their mind. We're trying to develop strategies to deal with the system."

The Rev. Leon White of Raleigh, executive director of the North Carolina-Virginia Committee for Racial Justice, made the remark to newsmen after a hearing in Charlotte Tuesday. Pupils from schools in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County met with members of the committee and with representatives of the North Carolina arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

White said a hearing would be held today in Raleigh, another in Wilmington Thursday, and others around the state in the next three weeks.

Says Billing Misleading

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Mrs. Robert Byrne, a Greensboro housewife, maintains that Duke Power Co. bills lead customers to believe they get a discount for prompt payment, but actually they are assessed a 5 per cent penalty if they don't pay in time.

The utility says her interpretation is incorrect, and the North Carolina Utilities Commission has scheduled a hearing Jan. 18 on the argument.

At issue is this sentence on bills: "The net amount of the bill is now due. When you pay by the gross due date on the bill you save the difference between net and gross."

D. W. Booth, senior vice president of retail operations for Duke Power, said in Charlotte: "The total money collected from the additional 5 per cent late payment charges, made only once for any particular bill, almost exactly offsets the total expense incurred in collecting bills which are not paid by the due date. If such a charge were not made, the electric rate of those customers paying their bills on time would have to be increased in order to cover their extra collection expense. We feel this is the fairest approach to the problem."

Charter Air Lines Push Rate Fight

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — An aerial war is under way in the seemingly peaceful skies through which businessmen and tourists travel.

It involves the nation's regularly scheduled airlines and the charter, or supplemental, lines. The charter lines also are called unscheduled.

Says a spokesman for one scheduled line, referring to an industry position paper:

"The financial condition of the U.S. airlines is being eroded by the supplemental carriers. Flying whenever they want and wherever they want—at their convenience—they are taking more and more of the transatlantic business."

In 1970, he said, the six U.S. supplemental lines carried 8.5 times more passengers on the North Atlantic route than they did in 1964. The two U.S. scheduled lines carried 2.5 times more passengers in the same period.

Says Steedman Hinckley, head of Overseas National Airways, a leading charter line:

"They're taking our business away from us. Anytime we take from them it's original sin, but it's always open season on us."

The two systems have always been a bit jealous of each other.

The scheduled lines get the bulk of the business but that bulk includes some unprofitable flights, routes and seasons. The supplementals must settle for fewer flights, but these are almost always full.

If their ordinary relationship to each other wasn't irritating enough, their feelings were rubbed raw by the reduction in military flights, which hurt both scheduled and supplemental carriers.

That wasn't all. Airlines must order their planes well in advance, with one result being they are prone to over-order rather than under-order, and that is just what they did, especially with the huge 747s.

"Capacity comes in surges and waves," says Hinckley. "The 747 was one big wave, the biggest of all. It was too much too soon. The timing was unfortunate."

As he sees "Anytime the scheduled carriers have more seats than passengers they cut rates to compete with each other and then they come after our business."

The scheduled carriers certainly have cut their rates—plan to do so—especially on the routes to Europe, but they do not concede that they are seeking the business of the supplementals. That business, they tell you, is really theirs, for they too are permitted to run charter flights.

With plenty of capacity, they say, why shouldn't the scheduled lines go after more charter business? The supplementals concede the point, but they make a very serious claim against the regular carriers.

"They have come up with low-cost loss leaders in their fare structures as though they were operating overstocked supermarkets," says Hinckley. "Their rates are noncompensatory and destructive to competition."

Hinckley claims that in their efforts to win more charter business the regular lines not only have cut advertised rates but have developed an "under-the-counter" business 30 per cent lower. He makes a passing reference to what he considers a rather low ethical level.

The scheduled lines deny their intent is to destroy competition by beating down rates to unprofitable margins, but there is little question that earnings of both types of carrier are off, perhaps dangerously so.

Hinckley maintains the supplementals can still undersell the scheduled lines. Offseason New York to London, he says, the supplementals can offer a $130 roundtrip rate, compared with the lowest scheduled rate of $180.

The charter, which must fly with all seats filled, is the most economical way to sell, he says. "If they eliminate us then the cartel is going to have higher prices when their business comes back."

RUBBER USE JUMPS
NEW YORK (UPI) —More than 6 billion pounds of rubber, an increase of 670 million pounds over last year, will be used in production of tire and non-tire productions in 1971, B.F. Goodrich estimates. Of this figure, nearly 4.5 billion pounds will be used for production of all types of tires.

Col. Henderson's Jury Asks To Hear 3 Witnesses

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) —
The defense case is completed, but the jury trying Col. Oran K.

Henderson has asked to hear at least three more witnesses whose names have figured in the My Lai coverup court-mar-ranking officers who had served with Henderson in his 30-year Army career. In the 50 days of trial, the prosecution called 62 witnesses and the de-defense 41.

The prosecutor, Maj. Carroll
Tichenor, offered no witnesses in rebuttal.

Henderson could receive a sentence of 39 months in prison if convicted of three charges lodged against him as a result of the March 16, 1968 massacre in the hamlet. He was accused of failing to conduct an adequate investigation, failing to report allegations to higher command and lying to Army investigators.

The two generals and five colonels on the jury had asked for time to review notes each made in the trial, which began

Aug. 23. After two hours, when the court was summoned for day's adjournment, the jurors asked to hear:

—Fred Blakey Jr. of DeKalb,
Ill., the driver-clerk for the late
Lt. Col. Frank A. Barker, commander of the assault force.

Find Soldier Shot In Head

BELFAST, Northern Ireland
(AP) — A young man found shot through the head Monday was identified today as a British soldier, and police said they presumed he was killed by an Irish Republican Army assassination squad.

Circumstances surrounding the death of Pvt. Robert Benner were similar to those in the murder of three British soldiers

March 10 in the country near Belfast.

All four were off duty and in civilian clothes. Benner's body was found on a lonely road near the border with the Irish Republic.

Benner, who was not married, was the 41st British soldier killed in Northern Ireland this year and the 165th person known to have died in the communal warfare of the past 28 months.

Police said it was believed he was somehow led to the area around lunchtime, then executed with a bullet through the brain from close range.

A 15-year-old boy was shot in the arm in the Roman Catholic
New Lodge district of Belfast early today. Police said he was wearing a green jacket similar in color to those worn by soldiers.

Charge Administration Is Playing Politics

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has been accused of playing politics with the White House Conference on Aging by using it as a forum to announce a "headline-clogging" crackdown on substandard nursing homes. "In some groups there was quite a strong feeling about the timing of this announcement," said James G. Haughton of Chicago, a co-chairman of the conference's health section.

"Many thought it would hog the headlines and put into the shadows other health issues," he said. "They regarded it as a political ploy to divert attention from other major issues of this conference."

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson announced during a conference luncheon Tuesday that 37 states and the District of Columbia risked the loss of $3.4 billion in federal Medicaid

Eye Surgery For Union President

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — I.W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers union, will undergo eye surgery to correct a defect in one of his tear ducts.

A union spokesman says Abel will enter the Eye & Ear Hospital on Monday and is expected to be out of the hospital within two days after the operation.

The spokesman said Abel will be required to rest and forego the use of his eyes for about two weeks.

funds unless they quickly correct "substantial deficiencies" in nursing-home certification. Richardson said the states must submit detailed corrective plans by Dec. 15 and show marked improvements in nursing home inspections and surveys by Feb. 1, or face "a non-compliance procedure" that could ultimately result in withholding all federal Medicaid funds.

State inspections of all 7,000 Medicaid-licensed facilities in the nation will be required by July 1, he added.

HEW has been working intensively on the nursing home problem since late last summer when President Nixon announced that federal funds would not be spent to subsidize substandard facilities for the aged.

Could Exercise Aboard Airliner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Passengers can exercise on airliners without leaving their seats, according to the Air Transport Association. The association suggests riders flex their calf and thigh muscles, forcefully press their feet against the floor, point and lift their toes and rotate their feet at the ankle.

separate groups today to form recommendations on how to solve their "double jeopardy" of being both old and non-white. Sessions were scheduled for blacks, Asian-Americans, Spanish-speaking Americans and American Indians, as well as for delegates concerned over such issues as blind, poor and rural old people.

Fourteen sections prepared final conference recommendations to be voted on before presentation to a general session tonight. The recommendations will be reviewed by a Cabinet-level committee and forwarded to the President.

Section chairmen said there appeared to be strong support for national health insurance, improved Medicare and Medicaid programs in the interim, a guaranteed annual income for the elderly above the official poverty level, liberalized food stamp policies, property-tax relief for the aged and retirement policies based on physical health rather than chronological age.

Puzzled By Capsule On Planet Mars

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The announcement in Moscow that a Russian capsule had landed on Mars left American scientists as puzzled as ever about the mission of the Soviet Union's Mars 2 and 3 spacecraft.

They stand ready to applaud a Soviet achievement, but until the Soviets reveal more details the significance of the feat can't be assessed.

"The question is, have they landed an instrument package on Mars that is sending back data or have they just sent down a flag?" said a scientist at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory here.

The announcement Tuesday from Tass, the Soviet news agency, said that as Mars 2 passed within 776 miles of Mars on Saturday a capsule was separated from it and delivered to the surface of Mars a pennant showing the Soviet Union's coat of arms.

But the Russians gave no further information about the lander. They didn't say whether it contained instruments, or if the capsule survived the landing and was sending back data.

Nor did they say when Mars 3, launched nine days behind Mars 2 last May, would reach Mars.

The announcement said that Mars 2, after dispatching the capsule, went into Martian orbit and began transmitting data.

Speculation here is that an instrument package with a flag was sent to the surface, probably by parachute.

The flag, one scientist suggested, might be to salvage Soviet pride if something went wrong and the instruments were destroyed.

But if the Soviet Union has landed an instrument package, the scientists here agree, it is a significant step in the exploration of the planets.

"For everyone's sake, I hope they have landed instruments and are receiving data. If that is the case, it will be a fantastic accomplishment that we ought to take our hats off to. The entire scientific community should applaud it," said Dr. Robert Sharp, a Cal Tech geologist working with Mariner 9, the U.S. craft now orbiting Mars.

"I think they're to be heartily commended," said Dr. Carl Sagan of Cornell University, here also for study of data from Mariner 9. "Of course we want to know what sort of scientific instrumentation is on board and until we find out it's hard to assess the experimental program. But merely landing, even if there is no instrumentation is an achievement."

If the Soviets have landed a capsule that can sample the atmosphere, photograph the surrounding terrain, take the Martian temperature and perhaps reach out a mechanical arm to scoop the soil, they will have achieved an important milestone. They probably can obtain data the United States can't from the orbiting Mariner 9.

Hurricane Season Ends

MIAMI (AP) — The 1971 hurricane season officially is over, leaving nine deaths and an estimated $235 million of property damage in the United States.

"That's pretty small considering we had five storms in a row strike the U.S.," said National Hurricane Center forecaster Paul Hebert.

The Atlantic season ended at midnight Tuesday after spawning 12 storms—five of them hurricanes—since it began June 1. Edith, Fern, Ginger, Irene and Beth grew to hurricanes, with winds of 75 miles an hour or more.

While nine persons died in the United States, Hebert said the toll around the Caribbean is unknown.

When Hurricane Edith, the season's blockbuster, tore into Nicaragua on Sept. 9 her winds were clocked at 160 m.p.h. and she was pushing high seas.

Reports on casualties along Edith's path varied considerably, Hebert said.

While Edith was the strongest, Hurricane Doris, her predecessor, did the greatest U.S. damage by dumping torrential rains along the already soaked Eastern Seaboard.

Hurricane Ginger's 31-day life span was the longest in history.

Jean Knight Likes Her 'Being Somebody' Today

By RANDY SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — She likes being a woman, but says she has given men a lot of competition in her time. Singing, she reminds you of a sassy little girl getting back at her boyfriend.

She's Jean Knight, who burst into fame last summer with her hands on her hips, singing "Mr. Big Stuff, who do you think you are..." Working for Stax Records here, she views her success with enthusiasm. "I love it. It's hard to believe that you're a nobody yesterday, and today you're somebody. I really love it."

She says she enjoys it when people describe her voice as sexy. "I like being a woman," she said. Although very feminine, she says she gave the boys plenty of competition when she attended Joseph S. Clark High School in New Orleans. "Because I was always running for elections," she explains, "and I won several of them. And those classes where I wasn't president, I was vice president."

Camp Fire Girls Here

The first Camp Fire Girls group in Greenville was organized earlier this month with eight charter members. Members are Cindy Brinson, Becky Clark, Phyllis Jones, Lori King, Suzanne McGee, Lois Phelps and Susan Smith. The group Guardian is Mrs. James McGee and the sponsor is Mrs. Helen White. Sixth grade Camp Fire Girls work for the Fire Maker Rank. They will earn honor beads in each of the seven crafts which are:

Political buff or not, she has insisted on being a woman first of all. "I don't think a woman should walk next to him," she says. "I think they can both sit down and discuss things intelligently," she said. As for Women's Lib: "I don't care about the movement because I feel men were put here to lead in some ways just as women were too—like men go into the armed services. I don't want to go into the armed services."

that have been made to protect women too," she added. In some ways she's a bit old fashioned, although she likes bright clothes, particularly red. "Today, girls can wear pants or anything else to church. Maybe I'm old fashioned about that, but I do like to see dresses in church," she remarked. "Perhaps some of today's fashions are robbing girls of their respect for femininity. It seems as though women's fashions are becoming more masculine, and men's fashions are becoming more feminine."

Zigzag Stitch Is More Desirable
LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—A sewing machine that does zigzag stitching has become more desirable with the popularity of knits and stretch fabrics, says Gerda Petersen, textiles specialist at the University of Nebraska. An ordinary zigzag machine makes it possible to do mending, darning, overcasting of seams, stitch buttonholes and at least one kind of stretch seam. The seamstress who makes girdles finds the zigzag the best machine for this purpose, says Miss Petersen.

A WIDE TAX RANGE
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The state reports a range of $660 in the amount of local property tax revenue being spent per child, with the low of $30 in Wolfe County in Appalachia and the high $696 in Anchorage near Louisville.

Masseuse? Nyet Yard Work Has A Real Reward

LONDON (AP) — "Sonya gives full body massage," said the stickers pasted up all over London's after hours district, emulating the cards with which prostitutes advertise themselves as secretaries, riding teachers, companions and the like.

Sonya's commercial gave three telephone numbers. "This is Intourist, the Soviet travel agency," said a voice at one of the numbers. "We do not give body massages, and I do not know who Sonya is."

The other numbers rang at Tass, the Soviet news agency. The Committee of Fighters for Soviet Jewry, an underground group, sent London newspapers an announcement today that it is Sonya.

"We wish to make (the Russians) lives unbearable as they are making the lives of the Soviet Jews unbearable," the message said.

A family from each of the three housing areas operated by the Housing Authority received personal checks for one month's rent from the authority's executive director Tuesday in recognition of their yard improvement efforts during 1971.

Col. A E Dubber made the check presentation to a representative of each family following their selection as the family in each area that made the most improvements in their yards during the year.

Selection of each family was made by authority staff members and area neighborhood organizations. The personal check from Dubber will cover the December rent for each family.

Iceland Base Is At Stake

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Three members of the coalition government's majority in Parliament announced opposition today to the threatened expulsion of U.S. forces from Iceland, apparently killing the leftist government's plan to close the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's base at Keflavik.

Political commentators said the defections produced a parliamentary lineup of 31 members in favor of retaining the U.S. presence and 29 ostensibly for expulsion. But they reported more members of the two non-Communist government parties privately oppose expulsion and may come out against it publicly.

The three defectors — John Skaftsson, Bjorn Palsson and Bjorn F. R. Bjornsson — are all members of Premier Olafur Johannesson's moderate Progressive party. The other members of the coalition are the Communist People's Alliance and the Liberal Left party.

Watershed Project Is Suit Target

An environmental suit against officials of the Soil and Conservation Division of the Department in connection with the Chicod Creek Watershed Project has been filed in U.S. District Court in New Bern.

At 5:00 p.m. Tuesday, attorneys for five plaintiffs — The National Resources Defense Council of New York, the National Wildlife Federation of Washington, D. C., the North Carolina Wildlife Federation, Friends of Earth, Washington, D. C., and the Pamlico-Tar Conservation Coalition of Washington, N.C., joined action in filing the suit.

John G. Shaw, of Fayetteville, one of the attorneys representing the plaintiffs, said the suit is being brought against the Soil and Conservation Division in the names of officials of various departments of the Department of Agriculture. Also named in the action is Larry Tucker of Route 1, Grimesland, a contracting officer for the Chicod Creek Number 9 Watershed Project.

Attorney Richard Wertheimer of the law firm of Arnold and Parker in Washington, D. C., outlined the basic contents of the document which seeks a temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction, for which a hearing is being sought before Judge John Larkins at an early date.

"The first point is that officers of the Soil Conservation and other Department of Agriculture officials failed to file an environmental impact statement which is required under Section 102 of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969," Wertheimer observed.

The second point Wertheimer noted is that the "project is not appropriate to funding under Public Law 566, which is the statute under which the Soil Conservation Service undertakes small watershed projects."

A third point in the injunction request deals with a claim that the project otherwise violates the purpose of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

understanding of the nature of human relations in our lives and to stimulate discussion of how the leaders of the community can utilize good human relations practices in their individual pursuits.

"During the wrap-up session yesterday, Charles Dunn told the group, 'We need to recognize that there are more things that bring us together than separate us. Basically we are all striving for the same things. I hope as a result of this meeting, the people will get together in their communities and try to find what the problems are and what can be done to solve them.'"

"If we can take back to our communities what we have learned here and take a leadership role in solving the problems, it will be good for our communities and lead them to a solution of our problems," Clarence Wiggins told the participants.

Dudley Flood asked the group, "What kind of contribution must each person make to insure a unitary community, a good community in which all people can be happy and treated equally?"

"You must find out what kind of community you want for all people and then decide what you can do to acquire that community," Flood added.

Tom Young stated, "The people of Pitt County have to acknowledge they have problems; the white citizens have to acknowledge that the black citizens have grievances; and the white leadership must come forward to acknowledge that problems exist and discuss the problems with black leadership selected by the black community; then progress will begin to be made."

Recorders in each group session attempted to identify the problems discussed by the participants.

- Some of the problems brought up were:
- shifting of responsibility;
 - not asking people what they think;
 - apathy on the part of businesses;
 - not talking enough and listening enough;
 - a feeling that justice is unavailable to the poor and the black;
 - need for better pay for law enforcement officers so they will do a better job;
 - economic and housing problems;
 - need for more involvement;
 - real issues often pushed under;
 - schools degrading education;
 - law enforcement officers should not be stereotyped;
 - Billy Day situation.

New Directors Are Welcomed

The new board of directors of the Pitt County Farm Bureau were welcomed by President Burney Baker at the organization's meeting last night.

Elected to three year terms on the board of directors were: Fredrick G. McGlohon, Ayden; Atlas Wooten, Falkland; Bill Erwin, Arthur; Wiley Ray Hardee Jr., Swift Creek; and Leroy Bowling, Bethel.

During the business session, President Baker appointed the following members to serve on the budget committee for 1972: David H. Smith, Mrs. Ruel Dilda and D. R. House Jr.

M.R. Joyner New Regional Manager

Max R. Joyner, division manager for Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Co. here since 1958, has been named to succeed T. Byron Donaldson as regional agency manager upon the latter's retirement, effective today.

Joyner, who joined Jefferson Standard in Greenville in 1958, will be in charge of the company's 24-county regional agency and will supervise some 50 life agents in the region. He will continue to maintain offices here, he reported.

The company reported that Joyner's annual sales of new life insurance has exceeded the million-dollar mark on seven occasions. He has qualified for the Million-Dollar Round Table of the National Association of Life Underwriters four times and holds chartered Life Underwriter designation awarded by the American College of Life Underwriters.

A Greenville native, the new regional manager graduated from Greenville schools and East Carolina University. He is married to the former Catherine Smith of Greenville and they have three children.

Donaldson, manager of the Goldsboro regional agency for the past 18 years, will continue as an associate of the agency, according to an announcement by Seth C. Macon, Jefferson Standard Senior Vice president-agency.

Macon said that the Goldsboro agency, serving 24 Eastern counties, now has $141,000,000 of life insurance in force, compared with approximately $33,500,000 in 1953 when Donaldson became manager.

Rampants Romp To Win Over Jaguars

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor

Farmville Central High School lost a basket last night. They started hounding it right away, but they didn't find it until they'd been trying for nine minutes and 23 seconds.

Farmville Central visited Rose High School's gymnasium for a basketball game with the Rampants, and the Jaguars were never in the game.

finally bowed to the improved Rampants, 79-53, and it could have been worse.

But it was all wrapped up in the miserable Farmville field goal shooting in the first half of the game. After going the entire first quarter without a two-pointer, Farmville collected only four in the second period.

trouble in rolling to their first victory of the season, after bowing in their opener last week to Bertie. A key factor in the game was the return to action of Lonnie Payton, who missed the opener. His board play sparked the Rampants, while the scoring of Robert Kear pulled the Rose quintet away in the first half.

near the Rampants. The Rose team was charged with 26 fouls, although no one fouled out of the game.

Farmville did manage to lead once in the game, after the opening score. That came on a free throw by Melvin Bunch, who got a charity shot after 58 seconds.

But just eight seconds later, Kear hit a jumper to start himself on an 18-point half, and Farmville never led again.

Kear followed with a driving layup that made it 4-1, and a jumper by Daniels raised it to 6-1. Robert Carraway scored from under the nets, to run it to 8-1, and a jumper by Tommy Williams ran it out to 10-1.

Farmville Central finally got back in the action with another free throw by Bunch. But a three-point play by Kear with 3:51 left in the first period ran the lead out to 11, 13-2.

Farmville came back with five straight free throws, three by Robert Tripp and two by Luther Hunter, cutting the margin to six, 13-7 with 3:22 left. But baskets by Kear and Payton ran it back to 10, and Rose managed to make it 12 on two free throws by James Wooten with 24 seconds left.

In the second period, the Rampants ran off the first four points on a drive by Kear and a fast break by Williams, making it 26-10. But Farmville cut it back to 13 before what turned out to be a five-point play ran it back to 18.

Kear hit a jumper, and at the same time, Payton was fouled, under the basket. Payton made the first of the one-and-one situation, but missed the second. Kear grabbed off the rebound and put it in for the quick five points, running it to 32-14.

Payton then hit a jumper with 5:20 left to run the lead to 20 for the first time, 34-14.

Farmville snipped the score back to as little as 16 late in the period, on two free throws by McCoy Williams and a rebounding shot by him, making it 40-24, but Wooten came back with two quick baskets to run it out to 44-24 at the half.

Rose quickly ran out by 22 at the start of the second half, but the Jaguars cut it back to 19 at 48-29. But a shot by Payton raised it to 21 at 50-29, and the margin never fell below 20 again.

Payton hit again to run it to 23, and minutes later, Daniels started a string of eight straight points, including two three-point plays that ran the score out to a 31-point spread, 62-31 with 2:47 left.

Farmville again came back, cutting it to 25 just before the period ended, with Daniels hitting again to make it 64-37.

The final frame only set up the final margin. Rose went out by as much as 30 again early in the period, and just coasted through the frame to take the win. Kear, who didn't score at all in the second half, finished with 18, leading the Rampants. Daniels followed with 16, while Payton finished with 10.

Williams was the only Farmville scorer in double figures, finishing with 14.

The Rose Rampant Cubs also came up with their first win of the year in the preliminary, taking a 58-54 win over the Baby Jaguars.

Farmville jumped off to an early lead, but Rose held on and trailed, 17-15 at the end of the period. The Jaguars eased out by another point in the second period, and went into the intermission with a 30-27 lead.

Rose began to come back in the third period, however, as the lead changed hands a number of times. Rose outthit Farmville, 12-10, but trailed, 40-39, at the buzzer.

In the final frame, however, the Cubs pushed into the lead, and outthit Farmville, 19-14, to move ahead late in the period and stay there, moving out into as much as a five-point edge with about a minute to go.

Herbert Bynum led the Rose scoring with 13 points, while Phil Ragazzo had 12 and Jackie Savage had 11.

Daniel Smith led Farmville with 17, while James Cobb and Lee Johnson each had 12.

The Rampants, now 1-1, travel to Tarboro on Friday for their first road contest of the year.

A-G Trips North Pitt; Big Orange Rolls On

By CHIP LAMBETH Reflector Sports Writer

LITTLETON—What started out looking like a dismal evening for the Chargers of Ayden-Grifton, turned out not to be so bad after all. The Charger J.V.'s and girls teams were both defeated by eager North Pitt teams 52-44 and 54-27 respectively.

The A-G boys, however, came roaring out on to the floor and thoroughly overwhelmed the Panthers 62-50. The Chargers were tied only once in the contest and that was in the early moments of the game.

The win keeps A-G's boys in the unbeaten ranks with a record of 3-0 while North Pitt falls to 0-2. The North Pitt girls, however, have not been defeated in two seasons and are presently 2-0. For the Chargerettes, it was their first loss and they are 2-1.

The Charger J.V.'s had pulled to within a point of the Panthers in the final quarter but the North Pitt frosh pulled away in the closing minute of play on a pair of jump shots and four clutch free throws.

Then the girls came out on the court. A-G controlled the opening tap and took an early lead on a free throw by Deborah Harris. But that was as big a lead as they could get, as North Pitt took the lead on two field goals by Minnie Hollis and Bernadine Jordan. From there on out it was the Lady Panther's ball game.

At the end of the first quarter the score stood at 16-7. The A-G girls were held to only four points in the next frame while North Pitt pumped in 12. Nancy Sugg's free throw in the first minute of play in the second half was all the A-G girls got for the next five minutes as the Lady Panthers controlled the boards getting 17 points.

At the end of three quarters it was North Pitt 49, A-G 16.

The Chargerettes outscored the Panthers in the fourth quarter but their rally came too late to do any good. Phyllis Johnson and Susan James each had 11 to lead the scoring. Fellow Pantherette Hollis had 10. Maude Babbington had nine to lead Ayden-Grifton.

Melvin Stewart got things rolling for the A-G boys as he hit on a lay-up after only five seconds had elapsed. Daniel Highsmith tied it up for the Panthers with a field goal but A-G got the lead back on a free throw only to have North Pitt tie it up again as they received a charity throw, also. The Chargers regained the lead on a jumper by Jimmy Maye and held on to it for the rest of the game.

The Chargers started to pull away on baskets by Danny Garris and Milton Brown and at the end of the first quarter as Ayden-Grifton led 19-10.

In the second period, the Chargers moved out to a 13 point lead but the Panthers shortened it to eight just before the half ended.

A-G dumped in 19 in the third quarter to North Pitt's 10. At one stage, A-G had a 17 point lead over the Panthers and at the end of the period the score was 49-33 A-G.

The Panthers could only pull to within 13 in the last quarter but in the closing minutes of the game the Charger defense proved to be too much for North Pitt and the Panthers had to suffer their second straight loss.

Highsmith led the scoring with 15 while Garris had 14 for A-G. Chargers Willie Stewart and Melvin Stewart were the only other players in double figures with 13.

Greene Runs By Southern Wayne

DUDLEY — Greene Central High School's Rams snapped a two-game losing streak and picked up their first victory of the year last night. The Rams stopped hosting Southern Wayne, 69-51.

But the Greene Central girls, in their first year of play, lost their third in a row, 39-20.

In that game, Southern Wayne inched out into a 7-5 lead in the first period. The Ewes, however, were unable to keep pace in the second period, as the Saintes pulled away, scoring eight points to none for Greene Central. That made it 15-5 at the half.

In the third period, Southern Wayne continued to move away from the Ewes, pushing through 13 points to five for Greene Central. That upped the lead to 28-10 as the final frame got underway. Southern Wayne again outthit Greene, 11-10, to wrap it up.

Pat Brogden led the Southern Wayne scoring with 16 points.

In the boys contest, it was a different story. Greene shot away to an 18-6 lead in the first period, and was never in trouble in the contest. Dominating the boards all the way, the Rams quickly built their lead, and continued to pull away in the second stanza, outscoring the Saintes, 22-9. That made it 40-15 at the half.

In the third quarter, things were no better for Southern Wayne, as the Rams continued to pull away, outthitting them, 15-9. That put the Rams on top, 55-24, as the final quarter started. Southern Wayne finally got things going, 27-14, in the closing period, but it merely made the rout a little easier to take.

Lacy Ward and Ervin Spivey led the Greene scoring with 12 points each, while Billy Williamson had 10. Kenny Williams had 16 rebounds.

Chocowinity Dumps Bears

CHOCOWINITY — Chocowinity High School handed Bear Grass a pair of losses last night. The Chocowinity boys downed the Bears, 53-38, while the girls won their half of the contest, 44-24.

It was the fifth straight loss against no wins for the two Bear teams.

In the girls game, Chocowinity grabbed an early lead and never lost it, moving out into a 12-5 spread by the end of the first period. Chocowinity continued to pull away in the second period, outthitting the Lady Bears, 11-3, for a 23-8 halftime margin.

Bear Grass put a small rally together in the third period, but could erase just one point from the lead with a 7-6 advantage. That left the Bears still behind, 29-15, as the last period opened. Chocowinity rolled through the period with a 15-8 advantage to take the win.

Dunning led the Chocowinity scoring with 15, while Smith had 12. Gloria Wobbleton led the Bear Grass scoring with nine.

In the boys contest, Chocowinity also grabbed the early lead and never let it go. By the end of the first period of play, the Bears had fallen behind, 17-0, and never caught up. Both teams played slowly in the second period, scoring five points each. That upped the halftime score to 22-15.

Chocowinity added a couple of points to its lead in the third period with a 13-11 advantage in the scoring. That pushed the lead out to 35-26. Then, in the final frame, Chocowinity outthit the Bears, 18-12.

Vann Rogerson was the game's high scorer getting 20 for Bear Grass. Smaw had 16, Page, 12, and Daniels, 10, for Chocowinity.

Bear Grass entertains Chocowinity next Tuesday for the next outing.

Conley Rolls By Oak City Teams

OAK CITY — D. H. Conley High School remained unbeaten last night as they rolled to a 70-59 victory over Oak City. It was the first loss for the Trojans on the year. In the girls contest, Conley also was victorious, winning, 45-32.

For the Valkuries, it was their second win in three starts, while Oak City has yet to win in five games. Conley pushed ahead in the first period, building up an 11-6 lead, and they were never headed after that. By halftime, they had built up a 26-16 lead, after outscoring the Trojans, 15-10, in the second quarter.

Conley continued to pull away in the third period, outnitting Oak City, 11-3. That made the score 26-13 as the last stanza began. In that, Oak City finally got moving, outnitting the Valkuries, 13-8, but to no avail. June Hall led the Valkuries with 12 points, while Jane Hall added 11. Sylvia Jones led all scorers with 19 points for Oak City.

The boys game went the same way, with the Vikings pushing out into the early lead and never being caught. By the end of the first period they had built up an 18-11 lead. Both teams improved their scoring in the second frame, with Conley holding a slim, 21-20 edge. That made it 39-31 at intermission.

Oak City tried to put together a rally in the third quarter, and outnitted the Vikings, 15-11. That cut the lead back to 50-46, and threatened the Conley lead.

But in the final period, the Vikings shot away again, outscoring the Trojans, 20-13, to wrap it up.

David Pugh led the Conley scoring with 27 points, while Dwight Hawkins had 20. Edward Briley had 13 and Whit Whitfield had 12 for Oak City.

Conley hosts Aycock and Oak City visits Panteo on Friday.

Southern Conference Basketball Action Gets Underway Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seven of the eight basketball coaches in the Southern Conference get a look at their charges under fire tonight on the opening night of the new season, which most of them expect to spend chasing Furman's defending champion Paladins for top seeding in the league's title tournament.

Joe Williams' Paladins open at home against Wofford, The Citadel's Bulldogs entertain Campbell, Virginia Military's Keydets are hosts to West Virginia Wesleyan and Appalachian State's Mountaineers make their debut as a league member at home against Mars Hill.

East Carolina's Pirates and Richmond's Spiders, two of the teams expected to challenge Furman, have tough road assignments — ECU at West Virginia and Richmond at Duke. Davidson's Wildcats play a non-convention exhibition at home against the Australian National team.

Williams came to Furman last year after turning out an NCAA runner-up at Jacksonville in 1970 and guided the Paladins to the championship in the season-ending tournament after a fifth-place finish during the campaign.

He has one of the three returning All-Southern choices from 1970 in 6-foot-7 junior Russ Hunt. Also back at 6-foot-6 junior Joe Sutter of Davidson and 6-foot-2 junior Mike Anastasio of Richmond.

Two second-team choices also return, 6-foot-7 senior Eric Minkin of Davidson and 6-foot-10 junior Al Faber of East Carolina.

To go with Hunt, Williams has veterans in Don Jackson and Bernard Collier, plus 6-foot-8 junior college transfer Roy Simpson and sophomores Gary Clark at 6-foot-5 and Bud Bierly at 6-foot-6.

Sutter and Minkin, plus John Pecorac, give coach Terry Holland a nucleus to try to regain the title Davidson had won three straight years until last season. Sophomores Mike Sorrentino and John Falconi are expected to sparkle for the Wildcats.

Both East Carolina and Richmond also will depend on sophomores to provide depth. The Pirates have topflight veterans in Faber, Jim Fairley and Dave Franklin with added help from junior college transfers Jerome Owens and Earl Quash and sophs Nicky White and Ray Pesko. Anastasio and Roger Hatcher are Richmond's top returnees.

Lettermen John Sutor, Lou Meckstroth, Jim Below and Steve Fishel are on hand to give new coach George Hill a veteran look at The Citadel, but William and Mary—which does not open until Saturday when it entertains Furman — must depend on newcomers to replace its graduated top scorers.

Sophomores will have to provide most of the firepower at VMI, the bottom team in the last three years. Appalachian plays just four conference games but will be seeded by a rating scale. The Mountaineers return all their starters, but several may be bumped by newcomers.

Five ACC Teams Opening Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five of the seven Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams open their season tonight. And Coach Lefty Driesell, whose Maryland Terrapins are ranked sixth nationally, says, "We just can't possibly be as good as people are saying."

He said of his sophomore-dominated lineup, "I'm concerned about our lack of experience, although I know we have good confident athletes." One of them is perhaps the most talked-about sophomore in the country, 6-foot-11 Tom McMillen, who led the Maryland freshman team to an unbeaten season.

Maryland is home to Brown. Duke is home to Richmond, Wake Forest to Canisius, North Carolina State to Atlantic Christian, and Virginia is at Washington and Lee, in all games against teams outside the ACC.

North Carolina, ranked No. 2 in the Associated Press preseason poll, opens Thursday in a game at home against Rice. Clemson plays its first game Saturday, against Davidson at the Charlotte, N.C., Coliseum. Virginia is at Duke Saturday night in the first league game.

South Carolina, winner of the ACC championship tournament last March, has left the conference to play independently.

After a December dotted with holiday tournament appearances for every team, the conference will settle down to the long regular season schedule.

Preseason polls of conference coaches and newsmen picked North Carolina, Maryland and North Carolina State as the top contenders, in that order.

But N.C. State has lost two top men, center Paul Coder and forward Bob Huets, who have withdrawn from the squad pending disposition of marijuana possession charges. The Wolfpack has a promising sophomore in 7-foot-4 Tommy Burleston of Newland, N.C. He averaged 27 points and 15 rebounds with the freshman team, which finished 14-2.

Valkuries Hope To Be In Race

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(Tenth of a series)

HOLLYWOOD — D. H. Conley High School's girls basketball team might be on the verge of breaking through to championship caliber, Coach Carol Ann Tucker believes.

But they've got to start putting a little more team effort into things to do it.

The Valkuries, playing their second year together as a unit after consolidation last year, still tend to play as individual units from time to time, Miss Tucker said, and this hasn't helped to make the team a championship type one yet.

"We have seven lettermen back from last year," Miss Tucker, in her first year at the Valkuries' coaching post, said. "Three or four of them were starters, but I'm not real sure."

Miss Tucker feels that the team does have real good depth and experience, however, and that this is one of the big pluses for Conley. "Most of them have played before, so there is no problem there. But too many times, we tend to play not as a team, and this is what we really need to put it all together." Nevertheless, she feels, the team will represent the school well in the coming season.

The Valkuries are lacking in height for the most part. Anna Nell Worthington, at 5-11, represents all of the height on the team.

But rebounding hasn't been that bad. "We've got some speed which has helped on rebounding. We've been able to block out pretty well but I still don't think we're getting as many as we should. We need to work harder in this part of the game," Miss Tucker said.

Overall, the team speed is good, and this has allowed the Conley girls to use the fast break to good advantage. "You just about have to have good speed to be successful with the new five-man rule," she said.

And Miss Tucker, like nearly all of the girls' coaches, likes the new rule which allows just five players instead of six, and lets them go full court. "This should revive interest in girls basketball. I think it will help attendance, and make the game more interesting. The officials should like it better too."

Miss Tucker has been pleased with the Valkurie shooting from the foul line, but the outside shooting during play hasn't been that good. "I guess you'd say we have to get the ball inside," she said.

Defense, however, has been another strong point. "We're really doing well here. Our speed and quickness have enabled us to get on the ball well and we're ready for people when they come with the ball."

Miss Tucker, so far, hasn't settled on any particular lineup using six girls for the most part to fill out the five-girl starting unit. Usually among them are Jan and June Hall, Madge Dews, Glenda Denton, Ivey Pugh and Miss Worthington.

Top reserves are listed as Deborah Bryant, Diane Cayton and Daphne Simpson.

As far as the conference race is concerned, Miss Tucker isn't sure of things yet. "The only one I'm anyway familiar with is North Pitt, and they are strong. But it could be anybody's race, and I'll never quit hoping that we'll be right up there with the rest of the leaders.

"But we've got to have good teamwork, and we just have to have the ability to get it down the court and into the basket like everyone else," she said.

Williamston Pops Edenton

EDENTON — The Williamston Tigers ripped through Edenton for a pair of victories last night. The girls won their game, 32-13, while the boys took a 54-43 decision. It was the second straight victory for both teams.

In the boys game, Williamston rushed away to a 14-7 lead in the first period. They continued to pull away in the second frame, outnitting the Aces, 16-9. That made it 30-16 at the half.

In the third period, however, the Aces made a comeback, outscoring Williamston, 13-9. That cut the lead back to 39-29, but that was about as close as it came. The tigers pushed through 15 in the final period, while Edenton got 14, to wind it up.

Albert Bonds led the Williamston scoring with 14 points, while Laurence Jackson and Mike Weaver each had 10. Adonis Leigh had 15 to lead Edenton.

In the girls contest, Edenton couldn't find the mark at all during the first period, while Williamston was scoring seven. Williamston continued to move away in the second frame, as Edenton finally began scoring. But the Tigers held an 8-5 advantage in the period and led 13-5 at halftime.

In the third quarter, Williamston continued to pull away, hitting seven while Edenton got three, making it 22-8 as the last frame got underway. Williamston wound up with a 10-5 advantage in that period.

Libby Warren led the Williamston scoring with nine points.

Williamston travels to Scotland Neck on Friday.

Southern Cal Begins Drive

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southern California, tired of playing second fiddle to cross-town rival UCLA, begins its drive to unseat the national champion Bruins tonight at Arizona State in one of the key games of the opening night of the 1971-72 collegiate basketball season.

Although UCLA, ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press' preseason poll, and second-ranked North Carolina both have the night off, seven of the Top Ten will be in action.

Besides the game between third ranked USC and Arizona State, No. 4 Marquette hosts St. John's, Minn., No. 5 Ohio State visits Georgia Tech, No. 6 Maryland entertains Brown, No. 7 Houston travels to Stanford, No. 9 Louisville journeys to Florida and No. 10 Kentucky plays host to Northwestern.

UCLA opens its schedule Friday night against The Citadel, North Carolina plays its opener Thursday night against Rice and No. 8 Long Beach State also opens on Thursday, against Corpus Christi.

Southern Cal lost only two games last season, but both defeats came at the hands of UCLA in Pacific 38 battles. With a number of veterans back from last year's squad, the Trojans hope to eliminate that last obstacle this time around.

Marquette will be going without its sparkplug, Dean Meminger, who is now with the New York Knicks of the NBA. But Jim Chones, the 6-11 pivotman who looked so impressive last year as a sophomore, is back to serve as the hub of the team on both offense and defense.

Big Ten champion Ohio State features 7-foot center Luke Witte, but will likely be without 6-foot-2 guard Allen Hornyak, who averaged 22.5 points per game last season. Hornyak was hospitalized Tuesday with heel injury.

Maryland coach Lefty Driesell will be counting on a group of talented sophomores, including 6-11 Tom McMillen, 7-foot Mark Cartwright, 6-3 Jap Trimble and 6-0 Rich Porac, to give a boost to his returning veterans, who include 6-7 Jim O'Brien and 6-1 Howard White.

In other major games on tonight's schedule, there will be a triple-header at the Palestra in Philadelphia pairing No. 15 Penn against Kings, Pa., LaSalle against Lehigh and No. 18 Villanova against Philadelphia Textile; No. 11 Jacksonville hosts Biscayne; No. 12 South Carolina journeys to Auburn; No. 13 Michigan visits Notre Dame, and No. 14 Kansas hosts Xavier, Ohio.

Also, No. 16 New Mexico State meets Angelo State; No. 17 St. John's, N.Y., plays the Italian National Olympic team, and No. 20 Oklahoma opens against Samford.

It's Been Big Year For Bobby

COLLEGE STATION, Tex.

(AP) — For Bobby Allison, the 1971 racing season has been a "hectic ball game—an unending series of 26 hour days and more joys and headaches than most people would expect in a lifetime."

Even so, Allison said Tuesday at Texas World Speedways, "I hate to see it end."

And no wonder. The 33-year-old hustler from Hueytown, Ala., went to the post 97 times—more than any other driver in America—won close to $300,000 in prize money and still found time to ramrod one of Alabama's most promising new industries.

Allison was among some 30 NASCAR drivers who checked into the $6 million facility to begin practice today for Sunday's $90,000 Texas 500, final event on the Winston Cup circuit for Grand National stock cars.

Among the arrivals was Richard Petty, the circuit's top money winner with just over $328,000. Another was Bobby Isaac, who won the first and only 500 mile race at the two-mile circuit last year.

Petty already has clinched his third Grand National driving title, becoming only the third driver ever to win it that many times.

The drivers were to get their first shakedown run today and most predicted top laps would be in the 173-174 miles-per-hour bracket. Buddy Baker, Petty's Dodge-driving teammate holds the official lap mark of 176.284 m.p.h.

Qualifying for the 40 positions in Sunday's starting field begins at 1 p.m. Thursday, with 20 spots open the first day.

The day's fastest driver claims the whole position.

Allison operates a racing parts and manufacturing business at Hueytown that he says presently has a 90-day back log of orders.

He joined the famed Holman and Moody racing team in May and during the rest of the season won 10 races, seven of them at distances of more than 400 miles.

Allison departs the Holman and Moody Mercury after Sunday's race and next year will team with the legendary Junior Johnson, an ex-driver turned car-builder, to race Chevrolets.

School Students Act In Skits To Learn Languages

By ALISON LERRICK
PARIS (AP) — "Just put it down on the round thing with four legs."

If you can't remember how to say "table," you must talk your way around it at International House, the language school for people who are old enough to speak to strangers.

"A good mimic will be good at languages, and a good actor will have a good accent ... provided he has not had a traumatic shock in his youth from a teacher who told him he was stupid," says John Haycraft, school head.

In 1953, then a Yale M.A. in drama and history, Haycraft started his first classroom in Cordoba. Since then, he has globe-trotted his school into 27 cities, including Bangkok, Tokyo, Tripoli, Beirut, Athens, Algiers and Lisbon.

At any given time, there are 20,000 students somewhere in the world in front of a "white board"—instead of a black to start out with a clean slate—but only 10 to a class.

Expatriates-to-be prepare to make the plunge. Travelers, among them plane loads of American students on vacation, learn how to speak as the Romans—Malayans or Moroccans—do.

Expatriates-to-be prepare to make the plunge. Travelers, among them plane loads of American students on vacation, learn how to speak as the Romans—Malayans or Moroccans—do.

"The French, English and Spanish are the worst students because they had empires and imposed their languages on others," says Haycraft. He speaks six languages, the same ones as his Swedish wife. Their three children, ages 12, 10 and 6, are only fluent in two apiece.

Don Juans may want to learn French, the better to ooze with savoir-faire, but businessmen everywhere are boning up on English, the language of business. IBM sends its Dutch, Danish, Swedish and Spanish engineers to London for a crash course.

Everyone else may call executives "sir," but their teachers—circa age 25 and trained at the rate of 1,000 a year in London central headquarters—call them by their first name "to create atmosphere."

"When you call the Japanese by their first names, they romp around like Italians," chuckles Haycraft. In Japan, they study Spanish too. In Rome, the biggest demand is for Italian. In Paris, German is coming into fashion, but English is still lengths ahead.

"Seeing is remembering" is the school's battle cry. So, to make the constructions "I will take off" and "I have taken off" stick in your mind, Haycraft organizes stripteases, both beginner and intermediate levels. "They only go as far as decency permits," he adds hastily.

Willy-nilly, the students must lay aside their inhibitions and act in skits, "since speaking a foreign language is like playing a role." To play Englishmen, they star in one of Haycraft's favorites: "a girl with double vision goes to the oculist."

After 80 hours wrestling with a language, the students "begin to make sense." Some demand to be "totally bathed, even with lunch in English." Others are more "satisfied" by "regular doses," three hours daily, while those with low tolerance can only stand three hours a week.

Politeness is taught on the telephone, a toy one. One student must persuade another to lend him his car, while the embarrassed car-owner is forced to refuse gracefully, knowing his friend is a bad driver. When more or less in command of their tongue, they set off on "Walks in Paris." In a hotel, they take turns playing receptionist and client who complains about his uncomfortable room. On a walk to the Louvre to describe the paintings, everyone takes time out to describe a motorcycle.

Learning the language is not enough, though. You must learn what it means. "What does 'yes' mean?" he asks. "You can say it five different ways."

The accent, therefore, is the content, which leads to all kinds of misinterpretations by a beginning ear.

WORKERS INCREASE
FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Despite an attempt to hold the state payroll down by a semi-freeze on hiring, the number of state employes is climbing back to 30,000 again after two years.

One-Party Rule In Mexico Has Brought Corruption

EDITOR'S NOTE—It's not exactly a one-man contest, but every voter knows the result in advance when a presidential election is held in Mexico. One-party rule has led the country into conditions that the current president promises to correct. This is the last of three articles telling of Mexico today.

presidential palace. The demonstration was the first public indication that the interior minister, Luis Echeverria, had received El Rincón, a message from the out-

Sponsor Singing Program Sunday

By CHARLES GREEN
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Several hundred happy, chanting farmers jammed the street outside the Interior Ministry on a bright October afternoon in 1969. Their clamor ended the months of speculation and put another man on the road to the going president notifying him he was chosen to become chief of the Mexican people. Nine months later, July 5, 1970, Echeverria smothered his only opponent with 86 per cent of the vote. The actual campaign opened in private many months before that demonstration at Echeverria's office. The names of 15 possible candidates began to circulate among the elite of the Partido Revolucionario Institucional, or PRI, which has ruled Mexico for almost five decades. The party leaders eventually submitted three names for final selection by Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, prohibited by the constitution from serving more than one six-year term as president. Diaz Ordaz picked a man and returned the name to the group. Support rolled in for Echeverria. His nomination by the party's national convention was a formality. The PRI sprang from political shambles left by Mexico's 1910-17 revolution, from which the party took its name. Through the decades its influence spread through every sector of Mexican life. It contains three "pillars"—the farm group, the labor group and a "popular" group that takes in everything else. It became a clever coalition of almost all political factions. The president, traditionally the party's leader, becomes a father figure and drifts into powers undreamed of by those who wrote the constitution. The president gets to name more than 16,000 office holders, including the ruling party's candidates for Congress. Mexico's constitution, like that of the United States, provides for checks and balances in three branches of government. But in real life the president almost becomes an emperor, picks his successor, and moves on to private life. Politicians being human, exercise of such vast powers over the years led to corruption, oppression of dissent, demagoguery and a breakdown in the people's faith in government. A leader of Mexico's new left says: "There are no real institutions in my country any more. There are no viable political, social or economic systems. Everything, every part of life in this country, is controlled by the PRI." Corruption became such a part of life that Mexicans coined a word for it—the "mordida" or bite taken openly by traffic cops and customs agents. Public servants in higher positions may have been more discreet, but there are former politicians, and some still in office, who live like po-pressment on middle-class salaries. Political favors have gone to the highest bidder. Justice has been sold. As Mexicans saw people crowding around the payoff trough they began to adapt to a way of life that takes such corruption for granted. Payoffs extend through all phases of Mexican life now, from politics to press, from cops to communal farmers. Echeverria has taken steps he hopes will change these faults, invigorate the ruling party and pull Mexico's poor into the mainstream of economic life. His aides say this determination has caused him more problems than any president has faced since Lazaro Cardenas upset business interests before World War II with plans for nationalization of basic power industries. Echeverria is pushing for a more equitable distribution of income, new concessions to labor, better wage policies, new social security measures, decentralization of industry, application of modern agriculture methods, special programs for marginal groups, more vocational training and extension of public health, rural development and low-cost housing. The first global conference on the environment will be held in Stockholm next June 5-12.

175-Year-Old Town's Legacy Is A Quiet Life

By H. G. Jones, Director
 N.C. Dept. of Archives and History

Written for Associated Press
 RALEIGH (AP) — The little town of Milton, hugging the Virginia border in Caswell County, was incorporated 175 years ago this month. Actually, the village already has celebrated its anniversary with an all-day affair featuring dinner on the ground and a speech by Governor Bob Scott in October.

Milton today is a drowsy community of 19th-century houses squeezed on three sides by the Dan River, County Line Creek, and the Virginia line. Travelers on N.C. 57 and 62 slow down, creep up the tree-line streets, note the quaintness of the buildings, and then drive on, little realizing that this was once the most thriving town in the north Piedmont. Over a century ago, it had more than 1,000 busy inhabitants. Today, its population is below 250.

The great days of Milton came only 20 years after its incorporation. Archibald D. Murphy, who was born not far from Milton, stimulated great interest in the opening of North Carolina's rivers and streams for water transportation.

Among the companies formed to push a system of "internal improvements" was the Roanoke Navigation Co. which sought to open the Dan River to larger boats. Milton was advantageously located, and the company's plans set off speculation that raised prices of lots along Main Street to $100 per front foot. This boom, however, tapered off, and Milton's growth was steady but moderate until the Civil War.

Several tobacco houses and at least six tobacco factories made the town an important economic center. An early textile mill was burned prior to the Civil War. Other businesses thrived; eight newspapers were published in Milton at one time or another after 1818.

One of Milton's most famous residents was Tom Day, a black free man whose cabinet shop supplied furniture for the homes of the affluent. His handwork is much sought after today by antique collectors whose tastes lean to the heaviness of mid-19th century styles. Day made the pews for the Presbyterian Church in the town — but only on condition that he be permitted to sit with his white neighbors. Gov. Scott has praised him as a man "who rose above his handicap of color in the days of slavery."

Another well-known Miltonian was Romulus M. Saunders, who served in Congress as minister to Spain during Polk's administration. He also was a state legislator, judge, and attorney general. In 1844 he was chairman of the Democratic National Convention.

Milton's legacy today is one of a quiet, charming village retaining a large number of historic buildings. Among these are the row of business buildings along Main Street, the Spotswood or Yellow Tavern, the State Bank Building, "Fairview," and the vacant Irvine House, Hurdle House, and the Romulus Saunders House. In his anniversary address, Gov. Scott urged Miltonians to organize a preservation association which, he said, could lead to a "revitalization of this historic town, not in terms of luring belching factories but in terms of attracting families seeking a quiet, attractive place of residence where the "air is pure and the neighbors are hospitable."

Unlike other 19th-century towns which have been transformed into 20th-century business communities, Milton has reverted to a residential village. In doing so, some of its early structures have been allowed to deteriorate beyond repair. On the other hand, it retains a unique air of bygone days and maintains much of its physical heritage which exemplifies small-town life of a century ago.

Political Impact From Nixon's China Mission

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's seven days in China will end as the presidential primary season of 1972 begins, and his mission is sure to have maximum political impact when New Hampshire voters cast the year's first ballots March 7.

Republican sources say Nixon will be an avowed candidate for a second term by the time of that leadoff primary, with his name on the ballot in New Hampshire and a pledged slate of convention delegates entered in his behalf.

Nixon is scheduled to be in China from Feb. 21 until Feb. 28. That means he will be coming home almost on the eve of the New Hampshire balloting.

It also means his journey will be dominating the news, and commanding television attention, during the peak days of the New Hampshire campaign.

The White House announced Nixon's schedule Tuesday, and Henry A. Kissinger, his national security adviser, said the February dates were chosen as the earliest time that technical preparations and "all other arrangements indicated a reasonably successful outcome."

A Nixon campaign organization headed by former Gov. Lane Dwinell already has been set up to deal with the New Hampshire primary challenge posted by Republican Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California.

Nixon's political men hope to roll up a New Hampshire landslide of proportions that would end the McCloskey insurgency on opening day.

Nixon's name can be entered by others in the New Hampshire presidential preference poll, but to put a pledged slate of 14 convention delegates on the ballot, the candidate himself must give written consent.

The filing deadline in New Hampshire is Feb. 6.

An alternative, and one that would not require Nixon's direct involvement, would be to enter a slate of delegates listed as favorable to the renomination of the President.

But, under that option, the Nixon organization could not determine whose name would go on the ballot as favoring the President.

The risk involved was demonstrated in 1968, when then-Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy won a near sweep of New Hampshire Democratic delegates in his challenge to former President Lyndon B. Johnson. McCarthy entered a compact, pledged slate of delegates, and most of them won when a long list of contending delegates who favored Johnson divided the loyalist Democratic vote.

The Florida presidential primary comes one week after New Hampshire, on March 14, and Nixon's name will be on the ballot there, too.

AMA Sees Its Future In Young

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The American Medical Association, affirming that it's very future lies in the hands of present day medical students — youngsters with "bright ideas and energy"—has taken the revolutionary step of giving the students representative power in the framing of AMA's far-reaching policies and decisions.

The historic action—directly affecting nearly 40,000 present students and generations of fledgling medics to come—was taken Tuesday by a nearly unanimous vote of the AMA's policymaking House of Delegates.

The more than a century old AMA is holding its 25th annual clinical meeting here.

Medical students, while allowed to attend AMA meetings and even sometimes to address the House of Delegates, have previously had no voting power.

During the last decade—although with somewhat less intensity in recent years—many of the students have repeatedly charged that the AMA has not involved itself sufficiently in the socio-economic issues affecting medicine, nor paid enough attention to the views of young people along those lines.

And, even though relations between the AMA and the future doctors have improved recently, spokesmen for the students say lack of voting power and of direct involvement in framing decisions continually ranked the young men and women.

Even at Tuesday's session, there was a move by a House reference committee to have proposals for granting the voting power to students referred to the Board of Trustees for "study and development"—a move which would have delayed a decision until at least next June.

But a number of veteran delegates, led by Dr. Joseph F. Boyle of Los Angeles, vigorously argued against any further delay—and it was Boyle who framed a resolution that ultimately spelled victory for the students.

"The past few years," said Dr. Boyle, "have seen the increasing involvement of these young people...in issues regarding American medicine)...and despite the apprehension of... (some AMA members)... they (the students) have demonstrated extraordinary maturity and progressiveness."

"The future of the AMA lies in the hands of these young people who have shown bright ideas and energy."

And Dr. Amos N. Johnson of Garland, N. C., added: "The time is now to bring these young people into closer relationship... (with the AMA)..."

"If we fail to do so, there will be an erosion of the wish of these young people to enter the medical profession through the AMA."

In another action, the House obliquely turned down a proposal that the AMA endorse the recommendation made by a U. S. Public Health Service advisory committee that "routine smallpox vaccination programs be discontinued."

It affirmed that such an "abrupt curtailment" of routine, universal vaccination might be hazardous "when the disease is still endemic in some parts of the world."

Instead, the House adopted a resolution calling for the AMA to "emphasize the use of smallpox vaccination for all health personnel, all travelers to and from endemic areas, and all persons in the military service."

And it further voted to have the AMA "alert the (medical) profession to the contraindications as well as the indications for vaccination against smallpox"—thus leaving it up to any person's doctor whether or not vaccination should be given.

Loses Suit To Fix Paternity

GRASSE, France (AP) — Paloma Ruiz Picasso has lost a court case in which she sought to be declared the daughter of artist Pablo Picasso.

Paloma, 22, was born to Francoise Gilot at the time she was living with Picasso.

The court heard the case in secret and rendered its ruling Tuesday. A similar request by Paloma's brother, Claude, 24, had been rejected by the same court in April 1970.

A formal recognition of paternity would give Claude and Paloma automatic rights to inheritance under French law.

Picasso has never denied that he was the father but has always refused to make the recognition legal.

Hepburn Leaves Boston Hospital

BOSTON (AP) — Actress Katharine Hepburn has left Massachusetts General Hospital for an undisclosed location.

A hospital spokesman said Tuesday that Miss Hepburn, who had been in the hospital since last Friday, underwent no surgery but a number of tests were performed.

Escambia Bay In Dying Agony; Pollution Is Deadly

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Writer
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Almost every day, fish churn the coffee-brown waters of Escambia Bay in violent death struggles. Then they pop to the surface, bellies up, fins rotted away, eyes falling out, blood oozing through skins.

Sometimes they blanket the surface for miles. The stench is sickening.

Escambia Bay, in its dying agony, is a victim of pollution. Its suffering is shared by everyone around its shores.

This summer, massive fish and oyster kills have brought final destruction of a once bountiful seafood industry. Visitors who have been coming back year after year for the water sports read of the kills and cancel reservations.

Real estate values are falling. Homes on the bay, once in great demand, are going up for sale, but prospects sniff the wind and there are few takers.

"Without the water, this town is nothing," says an angry Lt. Buster Zangas of the Florida

Marine Patrol. "And the water has been taken away."

"The bay has gone to hell. No sensible person would argue that fact. Day after day, the whole bay floats with dead fish. I've seen the bottom blanketed with dead fish like fluorescent paint. There can't be anything left."

"Every time there is a kill, the pollution boys say they are investigating to see what killed them. They know damn well what it is—and they know the answer. Plug those damn pipes."

The pipes to which Zangas refers are the outfalls of the Monsanto Chemical Co., manufacturer of nylon yarn; American Cyanamid Co., producer of acrylic fibers; Escambia Chemical Co., which turns out plastics and chemicals, and the Gulf Power Co.

These industries, a federal-state pollution task force reported, are responsible for pollution that has strangled the bay. They were given until Jan. 1, 1973, to stop harmful discharges or shut down.

But the bay didn't have that much time.

"For all practical purposes, Escambia Bay is dead," says Harmon Shields, director of marine resources for the Florida Department of Natural Resources. "To bring it back is to do away with pollution."

Monsanto, Escambia and American Cyanamid discharge waste water containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium into the waters.

The chemicals over-enrich the waters, causing explosive algae blooms. Oxygen is depleted in the process, toxic conditions develop, and death runs through the entire chain of marine life.

Last Sept. 5, Escambia dumped 29,500 pounds of nitrogen into the bay, 10 times its normal daily discharge. Several massive fish kills followed. On Sept. 8, oyster fishermen preparing for an expected million dollar harvest found the oysters all dead.

At a hastily-called state hearing, Escambia admitted the discharge but refused to accept responsibility for the kills.

Chairman David Levin of the Florida Air and Water Pollution Control Board told the company's officials he was convinced that the dump contributed to the wipeout of the oyster beds.

Pensacola courted industry after World War II, trading the water for payrolls. The giant Monsanto plant led the way to the bayside in 1951, lured by the water transportation facilities, a seemingly unlimited supply of good processing water, the climate and water sports which made it easy to get workmen. The Escambia plant went up in 1955, American Cyanamid in 1958.

For years, Escambia Bay took everything thrown into it—industrial wastes, untreated municipal sewage, fertilizer and pesticide runoffs from farms—and still it thrived.

In 1967 the kills began. A year later, Joe Quick, a state marine pathologist, found fish bleeding from open ulcers, with fins and tails eaten up.

This summer, marine losses were fantastic. Nineteen times, fish died by the millions. Dozens of smaller kills occurred.

"How many died this year?"

"How can you estimate that when you see the entire surface of the bay, miles long and miles wide, covered with dead fish?" Zangas asked. "You could say 50-to-75 million. That wouldn't be accurate, but it wouldn't be too high, either."

Joe Blanchard, fisheries biologist for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, says that "all of a sudden in the past three years, this thing has become a monster."

All the companies report they are spending large sums in seeking ways to reduce pollution and contend that federal pollution officials are trying to drive them out of business. They say they are making progress in pollution abatement efforts.

But, at the recent state hearing, technical manager John Cramer said the Escambia company "does not know how to get a further reduction of nitrogen deposits."

And all the people can see is the dying fish and the dirty waters.

When there is a kill, Milton Meadows, manager of the Rodeway Inn, gets phone calls and letters from people up north. These are his regular customers, cancelling reservations.

"They say they don't want to have to smell the dead fish or swim in the water," Meadows said.

"We can't take it much longer. Merchants, service stations everybody is being hurt."

Until 1968, half the catches unloaded at the docks of the American Seafood Co. in Pensacola were harvested in Escambia Bay. Now, nothing is taken in the bay. The boats must go far out in the Gulf of Mexico.

"People were aware when industry came in that we were going to have a pollution problem, but 99 per cent didn't realize the extent of it," said the company's owner, Clyde Richbourg.

"The people of Florida are going to have to take a stronger stand."

Before a strong stand can be taken, Levin says drastic revisions will be necessary in state laws dealing with pollution and punishment of violators. He thinks the state should repeal all its laws and start over again, and the burden of proof should be shifted from the state to industry when fish are killed.

Need Additional Church Relief

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Church relief organizations have provided funds to shelter 285,000 refugees from East Pakistan, report officers of the World Council of Churches, but two million refugees still lack adequate shelter.

Church relief groups also are distributing clothing and food, and 24 mission doctors and other medical workers are treating 4,000 patients a day among the refugees, but the supply of clothing and medical aid still is "only a drop in the ocean," says a Council representative. P. C. Joseph.

SINGING SATURDAY
A church spokesman announced that the Grindle Creek Church of God will resume its normal schedule of Saturday night singing Dec. 4 featuring Miss Linda Stillman, the Vanceboro Singers and the Gospel Sounds.

Optimistic Over Tourist Outlook

MANILA (UPI) —Tourism Commissioner Gregorio Araneta II predicts that tourism soon will become one of the Philippines' major industries.

Araneta said projects that have been "selling" the country's tourist spots are Rizal Park, near Manila Bay, the Banaue rice terraces, an engineering wonder, and the World War II fortress island of Corregidor.

The Worry Clinic

Another Wife In Other Days

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
Dr. Jay is in a common dilemma of men past 40. He craves more seductive aggression in the bedroom from his stodgy wife. In olden times, such men remained on friendly terms with their platonic older mate but indulged their libido with a younger wife. Modern women, wake up! You must be a one-wife harem!

Case S-531: Dr. Jay is a dental surgeon, aged 47.

"Dr. Crane," he asked after my recent address before his state dental society, "I have a bedroom problem.

"My wife and I have been married for 25 years and have 2 grown children.

"But she is not interested in sex.

"Apparently, she is quite content with household duties and church activities.

"So she shuns the boudoir phase of our marriage.

"As a result, I can appreciate why movie actors divorce their middle-aged mates to wed a girl half their age!

"Maybe polygamy would be a good thing in modern America."

WIVES, BEWARE

There are two dangerous periods in marriage where divorce is usually likely.

The first is during the early years, for 50 percent of teenage weddings now end in divorce by the 5th anniversary.

Alas, the second hazardous zone is after 20 or 25 years of reasonably happy marriage.

For that is the time when men wish to revive their sexual life, partly to prove they are not senile and "on the shelf."

But the average wife isn't very erotic, even when she is first married so her desire for boudoir romancing is generally even less after the age of 40.

Oh, there are exceptions, as in the case of women who are in a panic because of a breast amputation due to cancer, or to a hysterectomy.

If they then feel below par as a woman, they may carry a sexual chip on their shoulder and actively seek erotic indulgence, just to prove that "I am still all there as a woman."

Smart wives should safeguard their happy homes by vividly realizing not only that men are usually geared to a much higher degree of sexual indulgence.

But the age of 40 scares men into worrying lest they become impotent.

Then this terror itself, being a mental function, immediately reduces their erotic capacity even more.

For I have repeatedly warned you that a man can't celebrate (think) and also emote at the same time.

Worry produces functional impotence!

Thousands of good wives subconsciously evade and avoid their mates in the bedroom.

Instead, such women should actually furnish their mates more "cheeseecake" in the boudoir than they did on their honeymoon.

For a honeymooning husband needs very little active cooperation from his bride.

But a middle-aged man requires far more aggressive erotic techniques from his older mate, since she generally lacks that sylph-like figure and greater mystery that served as a double tonic to his youthful libido.

Benjamin Franklin suggested that an older woman actually could be a more satisfactory mate than a coed, IF.

And that big "IF" means, IF she will play her cards more seductively!

Otherwise, her husband may develop a secret "affair" with a younger woman.

Or, like Hollywood actors, divorce the older wife for a younger substitute.

So send for my booklet "How to Prevent a Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. It is ideal insurance against divorce!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.) Copyright 1971.

The bidding:

1NT 2♦ 4♥ Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♦

East presented South with a Greek gift in today's hand as the only means of upsetting the latter's four heart contract.

West opened the four of diamonds and East cashed the first two tricks in that suit with the king and ace. The high trump could be expected to complete the defensive book, but the question then arose as to where a setting trick might come from. East paused for a moment to study the situation.

South might be expected to have at least a six card suit for his jump to four hearts. Since he had already shown up with two diamonds, this left him with a maximum of five cards in the black suits. Altho the game bid might have been based solely on long hearts headed by the K-Q-J, there was a good chance that declarer also held one of the black kings—which would enable him to score 10 tricks with ease once trumps were drawn.

Even if declarer had neither the king of spades nor the king of clubs, there was still no hope of scoring a setting trick in the black suits because both kings were readily finessable if West held them. East came to the inescapable conclusion that the trump suit offered the only chance for his side.

If West had the king of hearts or the queen and two small, then the contract would be beaten off the top. If he held a doubleton queen or three to the jack, however, a trump promotion would be necessary. In order to achieve his objective, East continued with a third round of diamonds—with the full knowledge that this would give the declarer a ruff and discard.

South discarded a spade from his hand and ruffed in dummy with the deuce of hearts. A small trump was led and East played the ace to return a fourth diamond. South was helpless. Hoping that the adverse trumps were divided two-two, he trumped with the queen of hearts to prevent an overruff. He then cashed the king. When East showed out, however, it was revealed that West's jack of hearts had become established to score the setting trick.

It would not have availed declarer to trump in with the ten, of course, since West would have overruffed with the jack.

Quickie Holiday Is For Recovery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Many people feel they need a mini-holiday to recover from a maxi-vacation and are booking quickie holidays to the Caribbean, Florida and Mexico as little as a day in advance, says Eastern Airlines. The airliner calls the three-night holidays the "plan and pack" syndrome.

Pitt Technical Institute is receiving applications for a 16-hour course of liquid embroidery and fabric decoration.

When sufficient applications (15 or more) have been received, an organizational meeting will be conducted.

There will be a two-hour weekly session for eight weeks. The cost will be $2.

The participants will use tubes of color to paint and decorate various designs onto almost any surface — fabrics, glass, wood, metal, plastics, leather, paper and pottery.

Additional information may be obtained at Pitt Technical Institute.

Police in Pittsburgh, Pa., will receive a $400 pay increase per man in 1972. The city has 1,600 policemen.

THIS GUARANTEE SAYS SO

American Motors Buyer Protection Plan

1972 New Car Guarantee
When you buy a new 1972 car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship.
This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first. All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for under normal use and service in the 50 United States or Canada and that guaranteed repairs or replacements be made by an American Motors dealer.
This guarantee is in lieu of all other guarantees or warranties, express, implied or implied in law, of American Motors Corporation or others, including implied warranties of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose.
