No 'Major Obstruction' Now To March On Dacca

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Indian troops vaulted the last river barrier to Dacca today, establishing a bridgehead on the Meghna 36 miles northeast of the provincial capital, an Indian army spokesman reported. The spokesman declared "no major obstruction" now lies in the path of the Indian army to Dacca. New dispatches from Dacca reported before communications were cut off that thousands of civilians were fleeing. The bridgehead was established unopposed on the west bank at Ashuganj. Indian troops crossed the river—three miles wide at that point—by river steamer and helicopter, said the spokesman, Col. B. P. Rikhye in Calcutta.

People in Dacca apparently were fearful of heavy casualties if the Pakistani army makes a stand there. About 30,000 Pakistani troops are in the Dacca area and Indian warplanes are pounding them.

India also reported fighting with Pakistani troops all along the western front in Kashmir and to the south.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi brushed aside a United Nations call for an immediate cease-fire. She declared that India would "take all steps" to achieve East Pakistan's independence.

Pakistan said it accepted the cease-fire appeal provided U.N. observers were stationed on both sides of the border, a condition previously rejected by India. Indian officers in Calcutta were not saying outright how soon they expected to be in Dacca but were suggesting it might be a few more days.

With mastery of the skies, the Indian warplanes were striking heavy blows at the retreating Pakistanis, damaging or destroying 61 ships, gunboats and river craft trying to ferry troops across the Ganges west of Dacca, Indian Col. Rikhye claimed. The survivors of the garrison town of Jessore in the southwest were surrounded near Khulna, 40 miles to the southeast, the spokesman reported.

These Pakistanis, many having their families with them, are trying to get out by ship to the port of Chittagong, on the other side of the Bay of Bengal, he added. The Indian navy has Chittagong bottled up.

There were no reports on military action from Pakistan since the government radio declared Thursday night that "Indian invasion forces have been blunted on all fronts in East Pakistan and they have been dealt heavy punishment."

An Indian government spokesman in New Delhi said there was no new major action in the Chhamb sector in southwestern Kashmir, the area of greatest Pakistani penetration, "but probing attacks by troops on both sides are taking place all along the border" in Punjab and Rajasthan states.

He also reported an Indian naval task force bombarded a 300-mile stretch of West Pakistani coastline Thursday night from Gwadar to Karachi, sinking four warships and destroying the huge oil complex at Karachi.

"We now effectively control the sea off Karachi," he declared. The spokesman said the Indian warships met little resistance and had no losses.

In East Pakistan, India claimed her troops were advancing swiftly toward Dacca, with some forward elements within 25 miles of the capital.

A dispatch from Dacca said thousands of residents were fleeing the city, taking what possessions they could in hand-carts. The dispatch also reported that India continued strafing attacks on the city's airfield and military headquarters Thursday, but India said its planes stayed clear of the city for four hours today to permit evacuation of foreigners.

India claimed Pakistani air forces at Dacca had been wiped out and that her planes were meeting no resistance.

"The Pakistanis are holding out in certain areas but because of the speed of our advances, many of them have had a chance to flee," an Indian spokesman in New Delhi said.

He explained that the Indian troops were bypassing many garrisons and the Pakistanis there were able to escape.

"Our first priority is to capture those who are trying to flee," he said, "then to go back and take on the garrisons."

Indian troops landed on the west side of the Meghna River near Ashuganj, a major port 45 miles northeast of Dacca, the spokesman said. He said they were taken in by helicopter and met little resistance.

Court Bars Interference At Schools

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
Superior Court Judge Robert D. Rouse this morning issued a temporary injunction restraining "persons, groups and organizations, known and unknown" from interfering with the normal operations of the public schools in Pitt County.

The order was based on a motion made by W. W. Speight, attorney for the Pitt County Board of Education.

Speight's petition, supported by several affidavits, alleged that civil rights workers "Golden Frinks, George W. Kirby, Frankie R. Joyner and Willie Fleming, are persons who have acted individually or in concert with others to contribute to the existing or imminent state of emergency in the Pitt County Schools."

The petition also said, "other persons, groups and organizations known or unknown, including the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, are those persons and organizations who have contributed to the existing or imminent state of emergency."

The application for relief cited bombings at the Chicod School on Sept. 2 and at the Ayden-Grifton High School on Sept. 8, participation in unlawful demonstrations and marches by school age children during normal school hours and assaults within the schools, school walkouts and intimidation of students and teachers as evidence that a state of emergency is imminent in the school system.

"Racial tension has been felt in all the schools" Speight commented.

Presenting an affidavit by Ross F. Bryant of Rt. 1, Greenville, Speight said Bryant reported that Frinks, an SCLC field secretary, told that students from Ayden-Grifton High School would participate in a march in Greenville on Dec. 2.

Other affidavits were signed by William C. Wiggins, principal of the Ayden-Grifton High School; Thomas Craft, associate superintendent of the Pitt County Schools; Jamie L. Keeter, assistant superintendent of Pitt County Schools; James Briley, deputy of the Pitt County Sheriff Department.

The affidavits presented by Speight indicated a direct correlation between a list of students who walked out of the Ayden-Grifton school on Dec. 2 and those arrested in a march in Greenville later that same day.

Judge Rouse, said "the court is allowing your motion...for a temporary restraining order," and set a hearing for the case for Dec. 20 at 10 a.m.

The temporary order issued this morning said the respondents Frinks, Kirby, Joyner, Fleming and other persons, groups and organizations, known and unknown, including the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, are (Continued on page 8)

Pakistani In Dire Straits

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The Pakistani army is in a hopeless situation in East Pakistan and cannot hold out much longer than a few days with the longrun outlook no better in the West, according to U. S. government specialists.

State Department experts also say there is no chance of the Pakistani forces, which numbered 70,000 at the outset of the war, pulling off a Dunkirk-like evacuation in the East.

They pointed out that Indian forces, said to include 12 divisions, already hold one East Pakistani port and have the main harbor at Chittagong under a tight naval blockade. Further, the Pakistani air force in the East is destroyed and a sea evacuation would be impossible without effective air cover.

Indian air superiority also rules out any chance for an air evacuation, particularly since the main airport at Dacca has been severely damaged.

The situation in the West is no more promising, at least in the long run, the U.S. experts say, although the Pakistanis are in a position to force a more extended war and even carry out limited offenses into India.

An obvious difference between the two war theaters is that the outnumbered and outgunned Pakistani army in the East is more than a thousand miles from its supply bases and is operating in a hostile territory.

The main body of the 365,000-man Pakistani army is in the West, and although the Indians are capable of numerical superiority in that area, Pakistan can provide the logistic and supply support to maintain a fighting ability.

But the American officials said the Indians hold all the options and even if they suffer a major defeat here and there the final outcome in the West depends almost entirely on the New Delhi government's intentions.

The U.S. experts declined to speculate on India's ultimate goals but they said the possibilities include a drive into Pakistan proper to destroy the Pakistani military structure, followed by a dictated peace.

Another possibility would include capture and occupation of the major Pakistani cities and provinces with a resulting dismemberment of the nation as it now exists.

A more-limited objective could be merely to force Pakistan out of the long-disputed Kashmir territory.

U.S. officials rule out any possibility of Chinese intervention, saying the Peking military structure is far from strong and that the snow-blocked mountain passes leading to the subcontinent won't be clear for months.

Asked about parallels between the current war and the 1965 conflict, which ended in a stalemate, the American specialists indicated the situations are entirely different. They said the past fight was marked by limited objectives on both sides and that neither intended the conflict to be conclusive.

Bond Election

GRIFTON — A bond election for the proposed extension and enlargement of the Grifton sewer and water system will be held Saturday.

The election is being held to either approve or disapprove the issuing of sanitary sewer bonds in the principal amount not exceeding $575,000 and water bonds not exceeding $125,000.

The polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. at the Grifton Rescue Squad building.

Elizabeth Hart is registrar for the special election and judges are Janie Mewborn and William B. Lambert.

Parade Route Is Set

The route for the Greenville Christmas Parade, scheduled for Saturday morning at 10 a.m., has been announced by parade co-chairman Bruce Thompson of the Greenville Jaycees.

Thompson said that the parade's starting point will be at Ninth Street and Dickinson Avenue. From there, it will progress up Dickinson to Five Points and then proceed up Evans Street to Third Street.

The procession will then turn on Third and travel to Cotanche and then down Cotanche to Fifth Street. The parade will go down Fifth to Reade Street where it will disperse.

The co-chairman said that there will be no parking on Evans Street from Five Points to Third Street and everyone is asked to observe the "no parking" in that area during the hours of the parade.

Anti-Poverty Bill Veto Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite adverse political implications, President Nixon has rejected an antipoverty bill creating a $2-billion program of day care and other services for children from families of all income levels.

Nixon called the measure the most radical piece of legislation to emerge from the current Congress. He said it would commit "the vast moral authority of the national government to the side of communal approaches to child rearing over against the family-centered approach."

In a veto message Thursday, he said the entire measure to extend the antipoverty program, establish an independent legal-services corporation and create the child-development program would be too costly and administratively unworkable.

Little hope is seen for mustering the necessary two-thirds congressional vote to override the President's veto.

Immediately following the veto message, however, liberal senators and representatives accused Nixon of bowing to politics in making his decision.

"President Nixon seems more interested in appeasing his radical 'right-wing' critics than he does in making good on his commitment to America's children," said Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., chief House sponsor of the child-development program. Rep. Ogden R. Reid, a New York Republican who helped draft the bill, said: "The administration has bowed to politics and broken faith with America's children."

The bill was approved by the Senate, 63 to 17, last week and passed the House, 210 to 186, Tuesday even though Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford had told the GOP members Nixon would veto it.

It would have created a far broader program of day care, medical, nutritional and social services for children from all walks of life than is available under the popular preschool Head Start program.

Quick Signing Of Large Tax Cut Bill Expected As Economy Stimulant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has sent to President Nixon a bill cutting taxes for businesses and individuals by $15.8 billion over three years. He is expected to sign it quickly.

Sponsors say they believe the President will want to move as soon as possible to approve the stimulative effects the measure is designed to have on the nation's economy.

The Senate passed the compromise version of the legislation 71-6 Thursday, soon after the House cleared it 320 to 74.

One of the first effects of the measure, assuming it becomes law, will be refunds averaging $200 to some 3 million to 4 million buyers of new cars in the last four months. The 7-per-cent excise tax on autos is repealed retroactive to Aug. 16.

All taxpayers should obtain somewhat larger refunds or owe slightly smaller final payments when they file their 1971 returns because of the increase in the 1971 personal exemption from $650 to $675.

The bill boosts the exemption to $750 in 1972. This will bring some cuts in withholding for millions of taxpayers after next Jan. 15.

But many taxpayers in higher-income brackets will find they have more deducted from their checks each week even though their tax liability has been reduced.

The reason is that there now is substantial underwithholding on these persons and the bill seeks to correct it. In this category are couples whose husband and wife work, persons earning more than $15,000 a year, and persons with two or more jobs.

The measure boosts the low-income allowance or minimum standard deduction to $1,300 next year, compared with the $1,000 now scheduled.

This will give special relief to about 25 million individuals in the lower brackets and wipe out income taxes entirely for 2.8 million of them.

Under the bill a single person with $4,000 income would get a $34 cut in 1971 and $65 in 1972. With a $7,500 income, he would get a $31 tax reduction in 1971 and $63 in 1972.

A married couple with two children and $7,500 income would pay $29 less in 1971 and $77 less in 1972. With two children and $12,500 income, the couple would get a $22 cut in 1971 and $62 in 1972.

Business would benefit from a 7-per-cent tax credit for plant investment and provision for faster depreciation writeoffs.

Senate Democrats made no attempt in the final debate to restore the 1972 effective date for the bitterly controversial presidential-campaign-financing plan.

Appeal Sentence In Cruelty Trial

AYDEN — Nine blacks charged in connection with a Nov. 23 demonstration here were handed six-month jail terms Thursday following their conviction on cruelty to animals counts in District Court.

The blacks were charged with throwing live chickens onto the street during the November protests. Some 14 of the chickens were killed by vehicular traffic during the demonstration that was termed by Southern Christian Leadership Conference filed secretary Golden Frinks as a "chicken march."

Judge Robert Wheeler ordered the nine to serve the six-month active sentences and continued their bonds. He ruled that insufficient evidence was shown in similar cases against two other blacks. All 11 protestors still face charges of parading without a permit.

Defense attorney Jerry Paul argued that the defendants did not kill the chickens themselves and that traffic could have stopped to avoid the fowl.

Notice of appeal was given following the convictions. The sentences handed down by Judge Wheeler were the maximum jail term for cruelty to animal offenses although conviction of the charge could also warrant a $500 fine.

Over 300 Parading Cases In Ayden Continued Pending Ruling

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN — Over 300 parading cases were continued here Thursday pending a ruling on a complaint filed in U.S. District Court asking for a temporary restraining order to prohibit enforcement of the town's parade ordinance.

The complaint was filed Thursday morning by Greenville attorney Jerry Paul and listed Lois Williams, Golden Frinks, Willie Fleming, George Kirby and the Pitt County United Effort Coalition as plaintiffs in the case.

Listed as defendants were Ross Persinger, Mayor of Ayden; J. H. Ross, Chief of Police; Don Russell, city manager; Judges J. W. H. Roberts and Charles Wheedbee; and Solicitor Eli Bloom.

The complaint, that questioned the constitutionality of the parade ordinance, charged that the defendants "are all elected officers in the County of Pitt who seek to deny to black people their constitutional rights and use their official positions to perpetuate racism."

Seeking injunctive relief for the plaintiffs the suit alleges that "actions of defendants have resulted in the denial of First Amendment rights to plaintiffs, summary punishment, unreasonable bonds and crude and unusual punishment."

Protests in the Ayden area followed the shooting of a black farm worker by a highway patrolman in August.

The complaint alleges that, "Despite the fact the ordinance is the same ordinance that has been declared unconstitutional by a Federal Court in the District, the state continues to use it to harrass blacks and deny them the right to voice grievances."

It asserts that the ordinance has been used to arrest people leaving court, "at the direction of the District Court Judge." The complaint alleges that the "court system has used it as an excuse to set unreasonable bonds, $200 to $2,000 to attempt to break up the coalition."

plaintiffs still wish to march through Ayden and will continue to attempt to do so."

The suit requests that the court issue a temporary restraining order prohibiting officials from arresting, prosecuting or detaining the plaintiffs in the exercise of their rights by walking or parading in Ayden.

The plaintiffs also stated in the suit that it is "an action to present a proper case for the determination of the constitutionality of the Ayden parade ordinance, and declared ban on public meetings."

The suit charged Judges Roberts and Wheedbee with having "failed to supervise the conduct of court officials and encouraged actions that have resulted in and had the purpose of intimidating, humiliating and harassing plaintiffs. They have encouraged and participated in bad faith prosecutions of the plaintiffs when plaintiffs have tried to exercise first amendment rights" it alleged. "This has resulted in the inability of plaintiffs to obtain fair trials in the state courts."

The action was filed in U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina. Frinks, Fleming, and Kirby are field staff workers for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference while Lois Williams is an Ayden resident.

Ambassador Brings Love Of Art Pushy Mom Courting Disaster For Her

By MARTIN ZUCKER
HERZLIA, Israel (AP) — Dr. Rafaelita Soriano, the Philippines' only woman ambassador, has brought along her love of art as a companion to her new post as envoy to Israel.

The walls and shelves of her office and residence are showcases of Philippine art, and her handsome stucco residence in this diplomat suburb of Tel Aviv is a virtual museum of Philippine culture and folklore.

The walls are filled with the works of Lorenzo, Custodio, Ti-joya, Luz, Manansala, Doctor and Cabrera. Perched on shelves are wood carvings by Romulo de Jesus and Ansel Dayag.

Her collection has so enthused Tel Aviv museum officials that they are scheduling an exhibition of Filipino paintings.

But promotion of art is only one of the many activities that has kept the new ambassador busy since her arrival here.

There has been a constant round of introductory visits to Israeli ministries and institutions and the corps diplomatique. Dr. Soriano has initiated a fortnightly newsletter with Philippine news which is sent to more than 800 individuals, newspapers, businesses and institutions in Israel.

Getting to know her new post, her embassy staff, the political issues of the Middle East, preparing reports for Manila and setting up a new residence, have also kept Dr. Soriano busy.

She gave tips for safety and fire hazards during this season of the year.

Mrs. Brown also spoke in behalf of GRIP, saying a good neighbor policy was needed.

Mrs. F. L. Cox presided at the meeting and a report on the pansy sale was given. Mrs. Archie Rogers reported that the garden club Christmas tree had been placed in the lobby of the post office.

Mrs. William F. Cox announced that a tour of homes in Kinston would be held on Dec. 16 and is being sponsored by the Arendell Academy.

Mrs. William Wiggins, Mrs. Joe House, Mrs. F. W. Davenport and Mrs. H. C. Oglesby were named to make final plans for the annual club Christmas party on Dec. 17.

Mrs. Thurman Williams was acting hostess for the meeting.

was working each day past midnight," she said. "Now things are less hectic and I am even able to enjoy the luxury of reading books again."

She pointed out that she has one disadvantage that her male colleagues—the men ambassadors—don't have.

"I have to wear two hats. One as head of the embassy and the other as head of the household."

Dr. Soriano, previous to her appointment, was assistant secretary for United Nations Affairs and International Conferences in the Manila Foreign Office. Her diplomatic assignment means separation from her husband, Dr. Jesus Llanera Soriano, acting chief of medicine at the Manila Veterans Memorial Hospital, and from her daughter and two grandchildren.

"Sure I miss them all," she admitted, "but we keep up a steady correspondence to bridge the distance. And next summer I expect them all to visit me."

In the meantime, she is able to recreate in Israel some home atmosphere with occasional dinners for her "adopted family"—members of the two dozen or so Filipino population working or studying in the Holy Land.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 27-year-old daughter who is no raving beauty, but she is a lot better looking than most of the girls whose pictures you see in bridal veils in the Sunday papers. She is very intelligent and has lots of dates, and I know she has turned down several good marriage proposals.

When I ask her what she is waiting for, she says, "Don't rush me, Mom."

Is there any way I can get her to hurry up and think seriously of marrying and settling down? I am 50 years old and would like to see a few grandchildren before I leave this earth.

MINNEAPOLIS MOM

DEAR MOM: Many Moms who have rushed their daughters into marriage see more of their grandchildren than they expected to. They're raising them because the marriage didn't work out. If you're eager to see things hatch, settle down on a chicken farm.

DEAR ABBY: My husband keeps our receipts and bills in his dresser drawer. I needed one to refer to the other day, so I asked him if I could go into his drawer and get it, and he said yes.

As I was looking thru them I came across a small piece of paper with a long distance telephone number on it, and a girl's name under it. It's no one I know, and I can't remember hearing my husband mention her name.

My husband works in a garage, so it could be one of his customers. But why would he keep just that one?

Should I ask him about it, or keep quiet? I don't know what to think or do.

HURT AND WONDERING

DEAR HURT: Ask him. It beats guessing.

DEAR ABBY: It's amazing to me how seemingly good parents will buy such dangerous toys for their children. It's bad enough that toy manufacturers are permitted to put them on the market.

There was a fair here recently where double-barreled popguns with strong springs and loose corks were sold. Every boy on our block got one—except mine.

Once the corks were lost, the children would shoot rocks at each other.

Bows and arrows with rubber tips that came off easily were also sold.

Abby, please say something about these weapons and the accidents they can cause. So many children are blind in one or both eyes because of such "toys."

I can't keep my children from playing with their friends. All I can do is tell them to look the other way when fired upon.

Main Cost Of Building Gingerbread House Is Patience And Time

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—You can build a gingerbread house for Christmas as easily as a child builds a house of cardboard, but with dried gingerbread and icing instead of cardboard and glue.

It's as simple as that, says Barbara Godard, who made only one such house herself before she undertook to teach the technique in classes at H. Roth's Institute of International Cooking & Baking here.

The confection that has been a Yule tradition in middle Europe for years is available in the United States from commercial bakers—but at prices substantially higher than the homemade variety.

The ingredients are cheap. The main cost is in time, patience and imagination.

"It's like flaky pastry. I used to think it was the most difficult thing there is. But it's simple if you know how," said Miss Godard in an interview.

"It appeals to the imagination of children."

It also appeals to adults' imagination. The fancy food and utensil shop that sponsors the cooking and baking series had as many grownup applicants for the course as it did children.

Miss Godard, who holds a Cordon Bleu certificate from the famed Paris school, said her own interest in fine cooking began during her junior year in college. She spent it with a French family in France—and gained 20 pounds.

A year as a graduate student in Geneva, Switzerland, and two jobs that sent her to Europe several more times whetted her appetite still further.

Her unending quest for cooking skill has led her to prepare every savory and sweet pate feuilleté, or flaky pastry, recipe in a popular French cookbook for Americans, conduct cooking lessons for children and adults in their own homes, cater daily lunches for six to 14 members of the Fulbright scholarship selection committee during its regular meetings and spend the past summer as pastry cook at a private inn and club in Harwichport, Mass., on Cape Cod. The six-day-a-week club job included hand-tying 700 rolls and baking 30 loaves of bread a day at the height of the season.

"I must have done thousands of strawberry shortcakes and ice cream puffs. I can't really go wrong (decorating gingerbread houses)," Miss Godard said. "I've been decorating birthday cakes all summer."

Her first gingerbread house was a Christmas gift last year to her goddaughter, who lives on a farm in Maine.

"I thought it would be fun to make, and she was a good excuse," said Miss Godard.

She estimated that the project took a total of 12 hours over a three-day period. She baked three sheets of gingerbread in an 11-by-17-inch jelly roll pan, cut it from cardboard patterns while the cake was still warm, then let the pieces dry overnight before putting the house together with quick-setting icing and decorating it with more icing, plus candies and dried fruit.

Unlike commercial gingerbread houses, which sometimes include some inedible decorations, hers is made of food products only. Although the recipe didn't call for it, she cut windows in the house instead of drawing them with icing. For panes, she used diamond-patterned strips of opaque gelatin sold at the fancy food shop.

Miss Godard said she had envisioned her first gingerbread house as a decoration to be enjoyed year after year. Her goddaughter, who was eight or nine years old at the time, had a better idea.

She ate the house as soon as the package was opened. "I was crushed," said Miss Godard. All she has left is a color photograph taken by a friend who is a professional photographer.

She plans to use the photograph on her Christmas card this year. Meanwhile her second gingerbread house already is spoken for. Another friend asked to buy it even before it was baked.

Recipes for gingerbread houses appear in several cookbooks. The one Miss Godard uses is in "The Cooking of Germany" by Time-Life Books.

Victory Will Not Win A Mind

If there is any doubt in anyone's mind as to the futility of war, they would only have to read of high altitude Indian bombers making a direct hit on a Dacca orphanage that housed 400 children and a staff of 100.

The Associated Press reported that four bombs landed in the Moslem Mission home. Rescue workers clawed through the wreckage to recover bodies of children.

A witness was quoted as saying that he heard a sound which he took to be a helicopter. "Then suddenly the explosions came—one, two, three, four children were screaming. It was dark and we couldn't see them in the mud and under the wreckage.

The news report said bombs blasted craters more than 20 feet deep and more than 20 feet wide. Bodies lay in the mud and covered with bright cloth.

Of course, the same thing may eventually be written about Pakistanian bombs falling on India's children, and in this is to be found the futility of this war.

If India crushes Pakistan it will not have won a single mind. India will have to dominate these people to control them.

There should be a cease fire in the India-Pakistanian war and the differences should be settled by negotiation. There is no other suitable way.

They Unite To Lobby For You

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — Who lobbies for you?

The State Council for Social Legislation says it does. A loose confederation of 23 statewide organizations, it reaches a consensus on goals and pays a staff member to promote its views to the lobby in the state," she reported to the annual meeting.

"This reputation is based on the kinds of programs we support as well as the organizations that make up the Council. For the first time, the Council's help was widely and actively solicited, particularly in the area of consumer legislation. Both the news media and many legislators looked to us as the 'voice of the public.'"

The '71 record had pluses and minuses. The significant victory was enactment of mandatory licensing of day care facilities, sought by the Council through several sessions. Sen. McLendon was one of the sponsors of the successful bill.

The Council failed in its bid to abolish the death penalty and to raise from 16 to 18 the limits on juvenile age jurisdiction of the district court.

'73 Goals Planned

Doing away with capital punishment will repeat on the Council's legislative program for 1973. Other areas sketched out for attention include liberalization of abortion laws, a positive approach to drug abuse, further consumer protection measures, better housing for migrants and seasonal farm workers, and assurance of the rights of the mentally ill.

After study by member groups, the Council will formulate specific goals at its annual meeting next year.

Dr. Bland said some Council members might quibble at the "people's lobby" label, but he thinks it apt. "I see the Council as an advocate for the people, and I am heartily in favor," he said.

The Council has a 50-year history of advocacy for social legislation. Dr. Bland recalled that Dr. Frank P. Graham, as president of the University of North Carolina, was a leader in its early years.

While some goals are a long time in coming, the Council doesn't get discouraged. "We usually find we pick up votes from session to session, and eventually the objective is reached," Dr. Bland said.

Council membership includes professional, civic, and church-related groups. More than half-a-dozen are religious bodies, including the North Carolina Council of Churches, the N.C. Association of Jewish Women, and four agencies of the United Methodist Church.

Their participation in the Council as a vehicle for political action is in keeping with the church's involvement with society, Dr. Bland said.

"When the church fulfills its prophetic function, it is an agent for social change," he commented.

An Outstanding Voice In The Cause Of Peace

Dr. Ralph Bunche who died Thursday was one of the outstanding workers in the cause of world peace.

Dr. Bunche was undersecretary-general of the United Nations and won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1950 for mediating an end to the 1949 Middle East War over Palestine. He became mediator in the dispute when the Swedish UN Mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte was gunned down by an assassin.

The grandson of an American slave, Dr. Bunche achieve eminence working through the United Nations for peace. He was a great credit to our nation, and he served the world through his dedication to peace efforts.

McGeachy Just Flabbergasted

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — Hector McGeachy Jr. is a nice enough man but at the present time he is caught up in the politics of '71, which means he doesn't know if he's running for office or running for cover.

This is no babe in the woods we're talking about. At the age of 54, McGeachy is well-schooled in the hard knocks of politics. He comes from Fayetteville and has served in the State Senate five times. He's a veteran Democrat, as loyal to his party as sunrise to day. He's a decorated World War II veteran and his civic record would do proud to any Rotarian.

Right now, Hector McGeachy isn't confused. He's flabbergasted. His billboards say he is running for attorney general but the man can't swear to it.

Most people figured McGeachy would be in the race for lieutenant governor next year. But when Jim Hunt and Roy Sowers rolled out the heavy ammo, McGeachy started looking for another ballot.

Attorney General Bob Morgan was running for Governor, right? Then, by golly, Hector would run for attorney general. Up went the billboards, campaign headquarters were opened in the Sir Walter Hotel.

"Before I ever announced for attorney general," McGeachy said, "I went to see Bob Morgan. He told me he was running for Governor."

Morgan says, however, that he kept telling people that he hadn't made the final decision to run for Governor and it isn't his fault if people didn't believe him.

Three weeks ago Morgan made his own announcement and it wasn't exactly routine. He said he would not run for Governor, but would likely seek reelection to his present office.

"I was completely shocked," McGeachy said. "It was like a bomb had exploded in my hands. The man told me he was running for Governor. I had him checked out five or six times and I knew he was running for Governor. To this day I've not heard anything from Bob Morgan. It looks like he would have given me the courtesy of a telephone call. I am amazed. I just don't understand it."

What does McGeachy do now? Does he hang in there and take on an incumbent who is tremendously popular? Does he look for another race?

"My present intentions are to run as I have been running," McGeachy says. "I've been running for attorney general for six weeks. I'm going to look at the entire thing again and make some kind of formal announcement right after the first of the year. I'm getting telephone calls every day from people who encourage me to stay in the race for attorney general. They tell me not to back down."

"People tell me, especially in the Piedmont and West, that Morgan not only let his supporters down when he got out of the Governor's race, but he let the Party down too. They bitterly resent it. They say this wasn't the action of the Bob Morgan they used to know."

McGeachy has been using his own money in his campaign up to now. He would have to raise a lot more to take on Morgan and quite frankly, he doesn't know if he could get it.

For the next few weeks McGeachy will keep on running for attorney general. Then he'll have to make a final decision to take on Morgan or do something else.

Strength For Today

WITHOUT CEASING

In his first Epistle to the Thessalonians (5:17), the Apostle Paul urges the newly converted Christians to pray without ceasing. This, of course, did not mean that they were to be on their knees every waking hour praying for the improvement of their own lives, the lives of others and the spread of the gospel. It meant that one was to be in a constant attitude of prayer. Christian believers were to recognize that their lives were primarily spiritual in nature and that they must therefore give themselves to the developing and enriching of the spiritual side of their lives. In their homes, in their places of business, in their fellowship one with another they were to maintain a spiritual attitude of mind.

Many believe that prayer consists of asking God for some gift. This is part of it, but not the whole of it. There are children to be thought of as one goes about his work or hers. There are vast enterprises into which the Church as a whole has entered. There are projects being carried on in each individual church.

We are also to remember that we are citizens of a nation. We may well thank God for the fact that we live in a free nation which with all its stumbling and mistakes is consecrated to the betterment of its own people and the betterment of the world.

Pray without ceasing. Maintain a spiritual attitude toward every aspect of life — and keep after it with unremitting vigor and faith. — By Earl Douglass.

Christmas In Phase II

WASHINGTON — There are many persons concerned with how Phase II will affect their Christmas this year. Here are some letters the Cost of Living Council has had to deal with.

The first is from a man named Ebenezer Scrooge, a partner in the firm of Scrooge and Marley. Mr. Scrooge writes:

"Dear Sir, I have an employee named Bob Cratchit who works as a clerk in my warehouse. For some years I was under the impression that Cratchit was not doing his share of the work. (For example, he always asked to take Christmas Day off, which I have considered humbug.)

"But last year I had a bad experience. I won't go into details, other than to say it changed my attitude on many things. One of them was my feeling toward Cratchit. I decided I had been mistaken about him, and to make amends I promised him a raise. Unfortunately, I told him the raise would go into effect on Aug. 16, 1971.

"My question is: Can I now go ahead and give him this raise, as I would hate to go through the same bad trip this Christmas as I did last year?"

Scrooge's letter was turned over to someone at the pay board who replied:

"Dr. Mr. Scrooge, your letter in regard to your employee Robert Cratchit was referred to this office. Unfortunately, we cannot give you a definite answer at this time as to whether you can raise his salary. The raise, if permitted, would have to be within the wage guidelines set forth by the Cost of Living Council.

"Would you be kind enough to tell us if this is a merit raise, an across-the-board raise or an inflationary raise which would cause you to raise the price of your products?"

"Speaking for the Administration, we urge you (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say When Gulliver Stirs

(Christian Science Monitor)

When Gulliver stirs, Lilliput trembles. And so it is of no great surprise that as mainland China stirs itself into a new relationship with the United States after 22 years of hostility, the smaller client states of the two giant powers most involved with the Asian Pacific rim find themselves in a state of upheaval.

Regrettably, that upheaval translates itself into political turmoil and varying degrees of repression. So it was in Thailand three weeks ago, when that country abolished its parliament. And so it is in South Korea, whose President Park Chung Hee this Monday declared a "state of emergency." To meet the "crisis," which is more apparent to Mr. Park than to either neutral outside observers or to the South Korean people themselves, President Park has imposed a vaguely worded restrictive program.

President Park laid the "emergency" partly at the door of North Korea, which he charges with gearing up for war by mass-producing weapons, preparing for invasion, and increasing the number of infiltrators into South Korea. But, perhaps most significantly, he complains that the United States-Red China move away from confrontation to negotiation "is only an aspect of big powers trying to maintain status quo in a stalemate of nuclear arms race."

The last statement is probably the real clue as to Mr. Park's anxieties. Only last July in his inaugural address Mr. Park had forecast a peacefully united North and South Korea by the mid-1970's. And in recent weeks the North and South Korean Red Cross groups have been meeting at Panmunjon, for the first substantial talks held since the Korean war ended in 1953, to discuss the possible reunification of families divided by the artificial halving of the country.

As the big-power status quo changes so apparently have the hopes of the smaller Asian nations for a stabilized future. While their giant neighbors jockey for optimum position in the game of global power politics, Mr. Park may have decided that the risks of attempted detente between South and North Korea are too great at this time. If that is the case, South Koreans may themselves be living in status quo a lot longer than they had reason to believe only a few short months ago.

More Than Just Devaluation

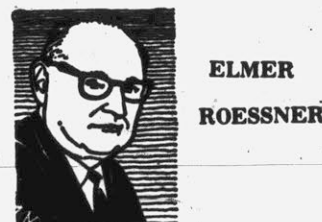

By ELMER ROESSNER
Hopes rise daily that an agreement can be reached on revaluation of American and foreign currencies and that this will permit the United States to end the 10 per cent import surcharge and that all will be right with the world. COMMENT:

If such a simplistic solution to international trade problems were accepted, the United States would be no better off than before; in fact we might be worse off.

One of the factors that has caused the balance of trade to run so heavily against the United States are the hundreds of special rules, regulations, quotas when taken all together are as much of a barrier to American exports as is the 10 per cent import surcharge we have imposed in an effort to straighten the balance of trade.

Take, for example, the broiler. The U.S. just about invented the process of converting 12 pounds of grain into six pounds of chicken in six weeks. For a while we flooded the markets of the world with the cheapest protein it had ever tasted. Then nation after nation imposed restrictions to protect their own chicken growers. Chickens had to be brought in alive some places, dead others. They had to be inspected from left to right, or from right to left. About the only requirement overlooked was that each chicken had to carry an edelweiss in its mouth.

We might do much better on balance of payment if we insisted that the many restrictions on our exports be listed as we lift the 10 per cent surcharge. Productivity Rising. Labor Reports Productivity in the private sector of the economy rose in the third quarter at an annual rate of 4.3 per cent, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reports.

COMMENT: About 0.001 per cent may have been due to the fact that some workers, fearing a layoff, worked a little harder. Almost all increases in productivity are the result of management thinking, planning and spending.

There may have been a time in American history when some dairy hand figured that standing on a slanted platform a cow would give more milk faster. If such a thing ever did happen, labor would be credited with increasing productivity.

But except where suggestion systems are used successfully, productivity is a

Instant Friends On Bus

By EVELYN AUGUST
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Six days on an English bus with 31 complete strangers—that's what I call instant friendship!

How ironic that Americans would travel 3,000 miles across the Atlantic to meet more Americans. John Bennett, our handsome Scotch driver, was the only foreigner on the bus. And even he had spent five years in the United States.

Most memorable of our "instant friends," were a wise-cracking couple from New Jersey and their motorbike enthusiast sister. They laughed their way across England and Scotland despite the jolting they got in the very last row of the bus.

Rose Marie, an airlines ground hostess, was forever dozing off. It must have been all those scones and hot cross buns she bought at bakeries along the route.

She agreed about halfway through the trip that our rosy-cheeked Scotch driver, despite thinning blond hair, was "the sexiest man alive."

Later, however, we decided his "strong, silent" appeal was really just boredom and indifference. Our group was only the third of 18 he would shepherd around before summer was over and already he seemed weary.

We got the distinct impression that 31 instant friends were just too much for our silent Scotsman. At mealtime, he would sit by himself at a little table all his own, then disappear.

To a busload of American tourists, England and Scotland at night are anything but exciting. The bars close at 10 p.m., the theaters' show a night ends at 10:30 p.m. and there's not a soul on the streets (Continued on page 5)

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL
Dec. 10, 1931

It was announced today that W. T. Grant Company of New York, one of the largest department stores in the country, will open a branch in Greenville February 1. The firm has leased the store formerly occupied by McClellan stores. W. T. Grant Company deals exclusively in goods ranging from five cents to five dollars in price and operates only two other stores in North Carolina. A representative of the concern from New York was here several days ago and stated Greenville was the smallest town in the United States in which the firm has located.

It was announced today that state automobile license plates will go on sale in Greenville at Blades Motor Company on Washington Street Tuesday, December 15. The sales will be handled through the Carolina Motor Club and will be in charge of Miss Ward Moore. Sales will be conducted until January 15.

Edmond Harding of Washington was a Greenville visitor yesterday.

Fayetteville Publisher Dies

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Richard M. Lilly, publisher of the Fayetteville Observer since 1949, died unexpectedly at his home today. He was 64.

Sheriff W. G. Clark, acting coroner, said Lilly was found dead in bed shortly before 6:30. Lilly had last been at his desk Wednesday.

He was a Fayetteville native, the son of Dr. H. W. and Mrs. Hester Calvert Lilly. He studied law at Wake Forest and was admitted to the bar in 1929, practicing until he became publisher of the newspaper.

Survivors include his widow; three daughters, Mrs. Charlotte Broadwell, Mrs. Virginia Yarborough and Mrs. Ashton Lilly Fox, all of Fayetteville; and a sister, Mrs. Hester Gray of Greensboro.

Another sample of the kind of mail the Cost of Living Council is getting comes from Mrs. Dalla Young, who writes:

"We have no money for Christmas this year so I'm going to sell my beautiful hair and with it buy a gold chain for my husband's watch. I understand Jim is secretly planning to sell his watch to buy a comb for my beautiful hair. Are we permitted to do this under Mr. Nixon's Phase II economic plan?"

"Dear Mrs. Young, 'In answer to your question, I am advised to tell you that you can exchange a gold watch-chain for a comb, providing you apply for an exemption on combs and watch-chains are specified in Paragraph 4A, Chapter XII or Volume III of Phase II price and wage guidelines (as amended in Index 345). Please submit in quadruplicate your request to the price commission and we will try to get you an answer before March 1, 1972."

The final letter came from a young girl named Virginia. "Dear Sir, 'Is there a Santa Claus? My friends say that under Phase II there isn't. Who am I to believe?'"

"Dear Virginia, 'You should stop speaking to people like George Meany and get on the President's team. 'Hail to the Chief, 'John Connally 'Secretary of the Treasury.'"

My little room—my Cinderella attic room I called it—was beyond belief.

To brush your teeth at the tiny sink in the corner of the room you had to get down in your knees or you'd hit your head. The walls and ceilings were covered with three different patterns of wallpaper. And when my suitcase arrived, there was barely enough room for me. I was afraid that if I tripped over the suitcase, I might fall right out the window. But for all that, I wouldn't mind another six days on an English bus with 31 complete strangers. Next time, however, I'll be armed with a list of "What to do in Edinburgh after dark."

Cite $77.63 Average For Crop

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina flue-cured tobacco growers received a record average of $77.63 per hundred pounds for their 1971 crop which brought a total of $552 million.

John Cyrus, tobacco marketing specialist for the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, said today that "in some respects this would have to be classified as the best crop in history."

Tar Heel tobacco growers produced 711 million pounds this year, a drop of 73 million from last year, but the cash total was down only $10 million. The $77.63 average was an increase of $5.73 over 1970. "Generally, farmers were well pleased," Cyrus said. "It was very unusual during the auction season to see a farmer reject a bid on a pile of tobacco."

He noted that growers placed 55.8 million pounds, or 5 per cent, under the government loan program compared to 144 million pounds — 12.8 per cent in 1970.

This was the lowest amount since 1960 when growers placed 52 million pounds under a loan. Cyrus said a combination of things contributed to the success of the 1971 Tar Heel tobacco crop.

"It was a short crop volume-wise, and demand was very good," he explained in an interview. "It was one of the best smoking crops in history. Coupled with this, cigarette consumption is at a record high despite the ban on television and radio advertising."

Cyrus said he is very optimistic about the outlook in 1972. "If we have a similar crop in 1972," he said, "It wouldn't surprise me if the average for the year hits $80."

He noted 1971 was a year in which there was no major congestion at tobacco redrying plants and no sales holidays.

Cyrus said the Stabilization Corp. reduced its stock inventory by 223 million pounds this year compared to 87 million in 1970.

Chairmen For Study Groups

RALEIGH (AP) — Appointment of chairmen for nine studies to be conducted by the state Legislative Research Commission were announced Thursday by House Speaker Phil Godwin and Senate President Pro Tem Gordon Allen, co-chairmen of the research body.

Members of the study groups and their vice chairmen will be announced soon. Godwin and Allen stated.

Rep. William P. Whichard, D-Durham—Motor vehicles.

Program To Stress 'Real House' Work

Greenville Jaycees and area merchants are sponsoring a "Real Gold Revue" tomorrow night on WOOW Radio in an effort to explain how and why Real House exists in Greenville.

According to Ray Landon, chairman of the Jaycee project, the broadcast will begin at 8 p.m. and last for approximately eight hours featuring music designed to revive musical memories from the 1950's and 1960's.

Landon said that Jaycee president Dave Gordon, board of director officials Danny Miller, Joe DeLoach and Johnny Carros, and other Jaycees will be on hand, along with Real House personnel, to explain the functions of the organization.

"Many citizens of Greenville are uninformed or misinformed about Real House and we want to clear the air about this much needed and very worthwhile venture," the chairman asserted.

"Real House is doing a fine job as it is, but could do much better with more support. Real House benefits not only East Carolina University but many area citizens, young and old."

J. MARSE GRANT, editor of the Baptist state publication "Biblical Recorder" will be guest speaker at the ordination of two new church deacons, Sam Bowers III and Noel Lee III, at Pictolus Baptist Church Sunday at 11:00 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

Brief Freeze

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Highway Commission reported Thursday that a freeze on eight categories of federal highway assistance funds had been lifted after only 24 hours.

Commission officials were surprised Wednesday when the Federal Highway Administration ordered that no contracts be approved beyond the close of business Dec. 7 which required federal aid in the eight categories.

After getting instructions Thursday to lift the freeze, E. G. Oakley, acting division engineer for the federal agency, said "there was a rather sudden change in instructions."

Highway Administrator George Willoughby explained that the freeze did not affect road construction projects in North Carolina. He said it applied only to the current quarter and that North Carolina projects for this period had already been funded.

Couple Calmly Looking Forward To A Planned Buddhist Wedding Rite

By NANCY BROWER
Asheville Times Writer
Written for The AP

ASHEVILLE (AP) — April White and Joel McCleary are getting married in a few days. She will not promise to love, honor and obey in the traditional way. He will not endow her with all his worldly goods. They don't care much about worldly goods.

They are Buddhists and will be wed in a Zen ceremony at 11 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 18, in the Zendo of the Cambridge Buddhist Association, Cambridge, Mass.

The couple, who visited the prospective bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. McCleary, in Asheville over the Thanksgiving holiday, viewed the ceremony with the serenity associated with their Eastern religion. All the traditional pre-wedding hubbub, which they dismiss as "Western," is missing.

The bride-to-be, who can't help following tradition by being beautiful, is not shopping for a gown of satin and lace. She will wear a simple long dress, not a wedding gown. He will wear a dark suit which the two jokingly refer to as "a Sigmund Freud suit."

The bridegroom, big and good-looking, is not recruiting his friends to be groomsmen. There are no attendants in a Buddhist marriage ceremony. The entire assembly joins in the chanting of sutras, which are Buddhist holy writings or texts.

During the wedding ceremony, the Zendo will be lighted by candles and scented with sandalwood incense. Everyone will be seated on the floor. The Rev. Mr. Horioka, who is Japanese, will officiate.

No tiered wedding cake with doves and cupids is being baked. The ceremony will be followed by a 12-course oriental wedding feast. Joel McCleary jokes that it will rival the "food marathon" at which Chou En Lai entertained the United States ping pong players. He adds that the feast will be washed down with saki, which the Japanese call "wisdom water."

At the time of their Asheville visit, the couple was unsure if the State of Massachusetts would recognize their Buddhist rite as a legal marriage ceremony. If not, they will follow it with a brief civil ceremony.

In the serene Buddhist way, the couple takes time to sip tea and talk about what being Buddhist means to them and how they came to embrace this faith they prefer to call a philosophy.

Both had become Buddhists before they met. Miss White, who is a senior art student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, said her conversion to Buddhism came as the result of a long search for her innermost self. "Buddhism points toward the truth and it works. It is not just a system of beliefs. It is a process that helps you understand things and work toward enlightenment."

Enlightenment, they explained, is the goal of Buddhists who strive toward a state of perfect wisdom and perfect compassion, called "Nirvana."

Joel McCleary, who was graduated cum laude from Harvard University last June, has been studying at the Lamaist Buddhist Monastery in Washington, N.J. He cites his studies at Harvard in Eastern religion as leading to his interest in Buddhism.

Talking with the affianced couple, it becomes apparent that they are serious about their faith. Her approach is more emotional; his more intellectual. One senses they will have much to talk about as they debate points of Buddhist philosophy.

After a wedding trip to a destination they refuse to disclose, the newlyweds will set up housekeeping in the bride's off-campus apartment until she is graduated next June.

She describes the decor of the apartment as "opulent starkness," adding that the furnishings are few, low-toe-floor and oriental in design, with lots of oriental art on the walls.

Cooking will be less of a problem for April than it is for most brides. She and her husband-to-be plan to follow a vegetarian diet.

If all her wishes for the future come true, April would like to be among the tiny, select group in Zurich that studies the psychiatric methods of Carl Jung and to become an analyst.

The bridegroom, who is talented in many fields, has not yet made his choice of a life's work. Both hope to spend a part of each summer studying and meditating at Buddhist monasteries in this nation and in the East.

April was born on the day the first atomic bomb was dropped on Japan. This is seen as very significant by the couple, who have chosen to seek perfect wisdom and perfect compassion together.

College Student Wants To Join War On India

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP) — Jahangir Tareen, a Davidson College student from Multan, West Pakistan, wants to go back home and fight against India.

He plans to visit the Pakistani embassy in Washington next week to seek financial help.

The 21-year-old son of a retired policeman is a graduate of Punjab University in Lahore, 200 miles from his home. He majored in political science and economics, and speaks English fluently. He came to Davidson at the urging of an American professor at Punjab University.

Jahangir says, "India is trying to destroy my country, and Pakistan is fighting for its very life. I feel that I have to do something, call it a moral duty if you want."

He called the Bangla Desh rebels in East Pakistan "nothing more than a secessionist movement, something no country in its right mind would tolerate."

Seek Bettering Of Relations Between Community, Campus

RESOLUTIONS . . . calling for improved community-ECU relations were exchanged Thursday night by Phi Beta Lambda fraternity and the Greenville Jaycees. On hand for the exchange were (L-R) Dr. David

An exchange of resolutions by the Greenville Jaycees and a business fraternity at East Carolina University calling for improved relations and understanding between the community and ECU was made Thursday night at the Jaycees' regular meeting.

Some 20 members of Phi Beta Lambda, their advisor Dr. David Stevens, and School of Business dean Dr. James Bearden were guests of the Jaycees for the formal exchange.

Dr. Stevens told the gathering that the idea for the effort grew out of cartoons appearing in a campus publication depicting stale relations between local merchants and the campus community.

"This doesn't really represent the citizens of our community and the University campus," he pointed out. We wanted to ban together and accentuate the positive in our community."

The advisor said the fraternity decided that the Jaycees and the service organization could be of "mutual benefit" to each other in helping to foster improved relations.

Mike Dolan, Phi Beta Lambda president who presented the resolution to Jaycee president Dave Gordon, said that "we hope we can accomplish much of the university and local community by working together." He added that it was hoped the Jaycees could work in a liaison capacity between the university and community.

Gordon, in discussing the resolution drafted by the Jaycees, said that the effort on the part of the two organizations is hopefully "a beginning of good relations" between the community and ECU.

Dr. Bearden pointed out that the endeavor is one that "I think will be a milestone" for the university and a "significant event in the life of the Jaycees."

Two Fires Here In Early Hours 'Possibly Set'

Greenville firemen responded to two fires on Contentnea Street early this morning and reported both fires may have intentionally been set.

The first of the calls came at 1:55 a.m. when a frame garage was reported burning at 207 Contentnea St.

Fire officers said the blaze originated in the upstairs portion of the building and noted that it was burning in "5 or 6 different places."

The second call came at 2:45 a.m. Firemen said a storage shed at 8 Contentnea St. was on fire at that time. The fire damaged one end of the building, officers reported.

Both fires are being investigated by the Greenville Police Department.

CANTATA
A cantata, Carol of Christmas, by John W. Peterson will be presented by the Winterville Missionary Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, December 12. The presentation will take place at the church with Mrs. Paul Braxton providing accompaniment, with the program to be directed by Jerry S. Cribbs.

New Hotel For Winston-Salem

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Plans have been completed to build a $7.1 million hotel on the downtown site of the Hotel Robert E. Lee, which is vacant and will be razed.

A group of area businessmen, Salem Ventures, Inc., has a contract with the Hyatt House hotel corporation to take a 21-year lease on a seven-story, 325-room hotel, with two 10-year options.

The city has agreed to build a 625-space parking deck behind the hotel and lease it to Salem Ventures.

2nd Community Meet Slated

The second of the 26 areas designated as representative areas for the Citizens Advisory Committee has announced plans for a community meeting in order to elect or select a representative.

On Monday, at 8:00 p.m., citizens of Drexelbrook, Oakmont, Sheraton Park and Dellwood, the communities comprising Area Number 21, are asked to attend a meeting to be held at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, 1801 South Elm Street.

Mrs. Barry Shank is area coordinator. She urges all interested residents of the area to attend the meeting at which a representative for the communities will be named to serve on the advisory board.

Sentenced For Hendersonville School Burnings

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — James Robert Arrowood, 25, a former volunteer fireman, has been sentenced to five to 10 years for the burning of three schools in August.

A psychiatric report introduced by the defense said he had an "irresistible impulse" to set the fires, which caused damages estimated at $650,000. In one case, Arrowood telephoned in the alarm.

The fires were at the Flat Rock Junior High and Balfour Elementary schools and the Fruitland Baptist Institute.

Arrowood pleaded guilty Thursday to a charge of unlawful burning. In sentencing him, Superior Court Judge Sam Ervin III recommended that he be given psychiatric care.

Gov. Bob Scott ordered the National Guard into Henderson County between the second fire and Arrowood's arrest.

The first official U.S. exploring party into what is now Oklahoma was in 1806.

Farmville Central Has Experience; Seeks To Be Best In Conference

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(18th of a series)
FARMVILLE — With four starters back from last year's team, the Farmville Central Jaguars are rated one of the favorites in the first year race in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

The Jags actually are a new team, formed from the consolidation of two schools, but between the two there is plenty of experience around. "We should have pretty good experience," Coach D. L. Scott said. "Our depth is good too. It looks like we have nine or 10 people who can play for us at any time."

The four returning starters include the brother combination of Connie and Robert Tripp, Charles Rasberry and McCoy Williams.

In addition, there are three other lettermen back, James Johnson, Mitchell Carmon and Jackie Barrett.

"We have the best height we've had since I've been here," Scott said. "There are a couple of 6-4's and 6-2's." The tallest two are Rasberry and Barrett, but Scott pointed out that the two rarely are on the court at the same time.

"We've been able to rebound with most of the teams we've played, but I wouldn't say this would be a strong point with us," the coach said.

That, he feels, will be the speed and quickness of the team. "We didn't show it against Rose," he said. The Rampants are the only team to have beaten the Jaguars so far. "But we should come along and be pretty good." I guess the Rose game was just one of those things.

The shooting of the Farmville Central team hasn't been as good as Scott thought it would be. "We have some good shooters on the team, but so far they just haven't hit like we thought they would. We've been coming off the boards with the ball, but we haven't gotten the shots."

Defense has been the point that worries Scott the most. "We've been pretty weak so far," he said. The Jaguars have allowed an average of 64 points a game through their first four. "We really haven't had a lot of time to work on this, but it should be strong around the middle of the year."

Currently, Scott is starting the Tripp brothers, Williams, Rasberry and Melvin Bunch. His top reserves include Barrett, Archie Spruill, Johnson and Carmon.

The team is not a young one. "About half of them are seniors, and we have just one sophomore. The rest are juniors."

In the conference race, Scott said that he thought earlier in the year that Southern Nash and Ayden-Grifton would be the teams to beat. "But it looks like Conley is going to be one of the teams that has to be reckoned with. Southern Nash did a good job against North Lenoir, and they're going to be tough. (Farmville beat them, 80-69, since Scott was interviewed.)"

But where will the Jaguars be? "We expect to be right up there fighting for the title," Scott said.

The defense has to improve, however, the coach says. "Our shooting must come along too. If the defense and the shooting get better, we'll be up there."

The Jaguars will probably get their toughest test tonight, as they play host to unbeaten Conley.

Head basketball coach Bucky Waters of Duke University is currently under fire from the Duke student body, and this may have an effect on the game Saturday night between the Pirates of East Carolina and the Duke Blue Devils.

The game is set for 8 p.m. in Duke Indoor Stadium, with a freshmen preliminary between the two schools set for 6 p.m.

Waters, whose Blue Devils are off to a 2-1 start has come under fire since one member of the team quit shortly after drills began. Signs and handbills began appearing at the Duke games when the season opened calling for Waters' firing.

So far, however, Duke's administration has lined up behind Waters.

"If it were to have any effect on them," East Carolina Coach Tom Quinn said, "it might make them try a little harder. We saw the Penn game (which Duke lost by one point in an overtime) and they gave a great team effort. If I hadn't known there was any problem at the school, I wouldn't have known it by the way they played."

Duke played a semi-stall type game against the 10th-ranked Quakers, and nearly pulled it off. Their other loss was to surprisingly strong Virginia, 86-77, while they beat Richmond, 54-42 in their opener.

One factor that may hurt Duke is that playmaker Gary Melchioni, who is averaging 12 points per game, will probably miss due to an ankle injury sustained against Virginia. He's not expected to be back prior to Duke's first game in the Big Four Tournament next week.

"I don't look for them to try to slow game against us," Quinn said. "I really don't see what they would have to gain by it. We're not the type of team you really have to do this against."

Quinn pointed out that Duke has two fine big men, Chris Redding and Alan Shaw, and they have an outstanding shooter in Richie O'Connor. "Jeff Burdette will do a good job of handling the ball for them if Melchioni isn't able to play," he added.

"They have good depth and are a very solid team," the coach said. "But we're preparing to play against about any type of defense they throw against us."

Quinn made no bones about the fact that the Pirates are getting an easy game. "We're going to have an outstanding effort to beat Duke. We'll have to play defense just as good as we did against Davidson to do it, too." He added too that the Pirates would have the added difficulty of playing on the road.

"I think Duke and Davidson are very similar teams," Quinn said. "Duke is a little taller, however, with two 6-10 boys in there."

The Pirates have gone against three teams now that have put full-court pressure on them, but Quinn isn't looking for it in this one. "We expect more of a half-court press from Duke," he said. "I think it wouldn't be to their advantage to get into a running game with us. I look more to trapping and the zone pressure."

While East Carolina greatly enjoyed its first victory over Davidson in ten games, the Pirates are not resting on their laurels. "We quit thinking about Davidson at 3:30 yesterday," Quinn said, "and started thinking about Duke. We have a hard, inspired practice, and the players were all very serious about it. Naturally we're happy to get the victory. We beat a good team, but we're still making a lot of mistakes. We're able to cover some of them with our hustle."

The coach was pleased with the way the Bucs came back against Davidson after being down by 10 early in the game. "We weren't impatient," he said.

He also praised the play of two sophomores, Nicky White and Ray Peszko. "They are coming in and doing a good job for us," he said. "We do need to get deeper at guard, but I feel we can go with any of our three reserves, Greg Crouse, Ernie Pope and Dave McNeill and get the job done."

Redding leads the Duke scoring with 14 points, while Shaw and Melchioni each are averaging 12. O'Connor is the only other Blue Devil in double figures with a 10.6 mark.

In rebounding, Duke has only a five-rebound edge in the three games they've played. Shaw is the leader with an 8.6 per game average.

Following the Duke contest, the Pirates have one more game prior to Christmas, against The Citadel in Charleston. And while the Bulldogs don't come up to par with the first four Pirate opponents, Quinn still feels that the Bucs must beware of them. "They beat us down there last year, and they're always tough in Charleston."

After that, the Bucs take part in the two-day Oral Roberts Tournament in Tulsa, Okla.

Chargerettes Claim Victory

ROCKY MOUNT — The Ayden-Grifton girls gained a 36-27 victory over Northern Nash last night. It was the only game played.

Northern Nash clipped one point off the lead, 9-8, but it didn't do any good.

The win gave the Chargerettes a sweep over Northern Nash. They won an earlier game, 30-25. Ayden-Grifton pushed out into an 11-6 lead in the first period of the game and never trailed again. They again outscored the Knights, 11-6, in the second period, and held a 22-12 lead at the half.

Both teams pushed through six points during the third period, as the Ayden-Grifton lead climbed to 28-18. Then, in the final period, Nancy Suggs led the Chargerettes with 14 points, while Decia Little added 11. Susan Williams and Phyllis Davis each had 10 for Northern Nash.

The Ayden-Grifton girls play host to Farmville on Tuesday.

Oral Roberts Cagers Rolling

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pay attention, please, the Oral Roberts University revival meeting is going strong.

"I consider us a college basketball power with a shot at the NCAA playoffs," said Coach Ken Trickey after Thursday night's 83-74 victory over Hofstra in New York's Madison Square Garden.

For you disbelievers, please consider the facts: 13 straight victories dating back to last year and an impressive record of 52-9 over three seasons.

It's all part of the school's rebuilding program under the Titans' vital, young coach. And Trickey insists that Oral Roberts will soon be a household word, like the UCLAs of this world.

"We've fought like dogs to get major teams on our schedule," said Trickey, "because we believe we can compete with the big ones."

Pack To Face Tough Purdue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Teams from hotbeds of basketball, the Big Ten and the Atlantic Coast Conference, meet tonight when Purdue is at North Carolina State.

The visiting Boilermakers have won all their three games this season, 82-75 over Kent State, 94-84 over Eastern Michigan and 113-85 over Northern Illinois.

The N.C. State Wolfpack, 2-1, opened with victories over Atlantic Christian, 113-75, and Georgia, 92-81, before losing at West Virginia last Monday, 87-75.

Wolfpack Coach Norman Sloan says that Purdue "is a much better club than West Virginia."

Purdue has three starters from last year's 18-7 team. They are cocaptains Bob Ford and William Franklin, and Jim Rogers, who form the front line and are seniors.

Sloan says that in addition to these experienced players, two Purdue sophomores will present problems for the Wolfpack. They are 6-foot-6 Frank Kendrick, who does a good job around the boards, and Tom Gilbert, 6 feet 2, described by Sloan as a great shooter.

N.C. State plans no changes in its starting lineup of two sophomores and three juniors, led by 7-foot-4 sophomore Tommy Burleson, who is averaging 24 points and 16 rebounds. He is joined on the front line by junior Bob Heuts and sophomore Steve Nuce. Juniors Rick Holdt and Joe Cafferky are the backcourt men.

Nuce scored 20 points and Cafferky 15 against West Virginia, while Burleson was held to 12.

The game is the only one tonight for an ACC team.

On Saturday, Purdue is at Clemson, and three other ACC teams entertain visitors when East Carolina is at Duke, Virginia Tech at North Carolina, and Baldwin-Wallace at Virginia.

Oral Roberts, a little-publicized independent from Tulsa, Okla., moved from the college division category to university after a couple of big years against small schools.

The sky's the limit now, says Trickey.

"We've got the talent—just let us show it off against the good teams," he said.

After the Titans overcame a 13-point deficit Thursday night to win the first game, 10th-ranked Penn demolished Manhattan 87-66 in the nightcap of a doubleheader.

In other games, Merrimack defeated Army 67-66, Rhode Island walloped New Hampshire 90-73; Boston College blasted Canisius 76-58; Syracuse tripped Cornell 95-82 and Colgate topped Lehigh 102-91.

Furman hammered Appalachian State 101-91; Minnesota took Butler 77-56; Oklahoma turned back Stetson 94-78; Missouri trimmed Virginia Commonwealth 73-66; Texas Christian beat Wyoming 84-79; New Mexico defeated Oklahoma Christian 88-81 in overtime and Brigham Young shrugged off New Mexico State 90-80 in other key games.

defensive effort so far," but felt that the team still isn't playing good offensive basketball.

"We're making too many turnovers," he said.

The Paladins, now 2-1 in the league, play their first home game on Monday, hosting Martin Tech. The game is set for 7:30 p.m. in the old Bethel High School gymnasium.

But in the second half, Pitt Tech switched into a pressing man-for-man defense, and it was too much for the Halifax team to handle. Pitt began to pull away from them, pushing out by 10 points midway through the period, and building up a 15-point lead with about five minutes left. They went back into the zone to protect the lead and gradually inched out to the final margin.

Eddie Stokes led the Paladins with 24 points, while Wayne Brown had 21 and Frank Brown added 12. For Halifax, S. Vick had 14 and J. Boseman had 11. Coach Bob Tucker praised the Paladins for turning in the "best

Matmen To Host Heels

The East Carolina University wrestling team opens its dual meet season tonight, playing host to the University of North Carolina.

The Pirates, who just "won" the state championship for the third straight year, also open their home season with the meet.

No actual state championship is awarded on a team basis, but unofficial scores, "gave" the title to the Bucs again.

The junior varsity matches get underway at 7 p.m. in Minges Coliseum, with the varsity slated to take the mat at 8 p.m.

Furman Evens Southern Record By Downing Apps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
That string of injuries and illnesses that had been dimming Furman's chances of making a run for top seeding in the Southern Conference basketball tournament appears to be clearing up slightly.

Three of coach Joe Williams' four "walking wounded" put in at least a token appearance Thursday night as the Paladins evened their league record at 1-1 and spoiled Appalachian State's first conference start with a 101-91 victory over the Mountaineers.

The Paladins had been missing three starters — and Don Jackson still is on the sidelines — when they dropped a 110-91 decision last Saturday night to William and Mary's Indians.

But Bernard Collier, a letterman who was a flu victim; Jackson's replacement, Steve Dougherty, also suffering from the flu; and heralded transfer Roy Simpson, suffering from a bruised calf, got into Thursday night's encounter. Collier scored 12 points.

All-Southern Russ Hunt was scoring 29 points.

Jacksonville Stops Rose

JACKSONVILLE — The Jacksonville Cardinals romped to a 49-17 victory over Rose High School's wrestling Rampants last night.

Rose captured only four of the 13 matches, as the Cardinals took eight and one finished in a draw.

The loss left the Rampants still looking for their first win after having drawn Rocky Mount in their opening match.

The Rampants host Goldsboro on Monday.

Pupils Leave After Norfolk Schools Busing Order

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Norfolk public schools have lost one fifth of their white students since the start of a court-ordered plan to achieve racial balance by crosstown busing. More than 7,000 white students have been withdrawn from the city's 71-school system since June 1970, just before the federal courts ordered the first busing on the grade-school level.

Under the 1971-72 busing plan, which touches virtually every school in the system, about 24,000 of Norfolk's 50,000 pupils attend schools outside their neighborhoods. When official enrollment figures were released Sept. 30, whites held a slight 52-48 per cent edge over blacks in the schools.

The 1970 census, which included the predominantly white crews of ships at the giant Navy base here, put the Negro population of the city as a whole at 28 per cent. While white attendance had been dwindling since September 1966, when the ratio was 59.7 to 40.3 per cent, the last two school years brought a sharp drop in the white majority.

School Board lawyers, arguing against busing, had sought to keep black enrollment at desegregated schools below 40 per cent. They said only in this way could "quality education" be maintained. The courts disagreed. But a considerable number of white parents apparently agreed—and withdrew their children from the public schools.

Vincent J. Thomas, chairman of the Norfolk School Board and president of the Association of Big City School Boards, deplores the loss of the white middle class and says the school system is in imminent danger of resegregating. "It makes no sense for us to commit educational suicide," Thomas says. "The abandonment of urban public education by the middle class can only lead to a gradual deterioration of our public education system, as it has in communities such as Washington, D.C."

Discipline has been a problem, although not an overpowering one, during the early months of full desegregation. City Manager G. Robert House Jr. said he was faced with rowdiness in some schools and aboard the buses that was just beyond the grasp of school authorities but not quite a full-blown police problem. House decided to put one or two plainclothesmen in each of the city's 15 secondary schools. School officials, at first wary of placing police in hallways, have since said the plainclothesmen fit in well, drawing a minimum of attention while succeeding in keeping the peace.

many factors besides busing middle class from the central city to the suburbs.

Small Excerpt From Training Program Focuses Church Issue

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Some white Christians find it hard to worship with other races. They may close their churches to others. A few white people actually feel superior to other races." But "brothers in Christ stand equal in God's sight." This is a small excerpt from a voluminously printed but guardedly shelved training quarterly for youths that has become an explosive question mark among Southern Baptists. The last-hour banning of its distribution a month ago has aroused one of the sharpest upheavals of reaction in the history of 11.5-million-member, mainly white Southern communion, the largest in U.S. Protestantism. Although officials of the denomination's Sunday School Board declined to make public the textual material after stopping its distribution, a check of a privately obtained copy shows it indirectly supports racial integration in churches. And that seems to be why it was blocked, although reasons previously given were indefinite, such as "subject to misinterpretation" and "potentially inflammatory." "The material promotes integration in churches, and this is not our job," a spokesman for the board said in a telephone interview. "It's not appropriate under Baptist policy, which leaves such matters to individual congregations." Zeroing in on that specific issue, the California State Baptist Convention, in criticizing the board's action, demanded that it make publicly clear its position "on race relations and its belief in integration." That question—whether the church's national agencies should advocate integration in local congregations—may become a major issue at the denomination's convention next year in the wake of the current dispute. Three years ago, at their convention in Houston, Tex., Southern Baptists declared they would "welcome to the fellowship of faith and worship every person irrespective of race or class." Since then, however, some attitudes have stiffened, particularly over school busing. The Sunday School Board, which publishes most teaching material, has avoided pressing for a specific open-door policy, the board spokesman said, since congregations are free to determine their own practices on it. "We lay down the principles by which individuals should be respectful of other races and be reconciled to their brothers, but we don't draw the conclusion that they necessarily should belong to the same church," he said. "That's not within our prerogative. We have to acknowledge that this remains in the hands of individual churches." A few of the 34,000 Southern Baptist congregations still have constitutional requirements limiting members to whites. While most do not, they remain predominantly white. Some now include a trickle of black members only a few are thoroughly integrated. Although Southern-based, the denomination has congregations in all 50 states. Often, attempts at admitting black members lead to firing of ministers, as occurred last month at Due West, S. C., Baptist Church. Meanwhile, as controversy swirled over the 140,000 training quarterlies and 18,000 teachers' guides that were locked up in a Nashville warehouse and replaced with revised material, the Southern Baptist social-concerns agency, the Christian Life Commission, met this week. It was expected to urge an open-door interracial policy by congregations. As for the gently worded teaching material itself, it implicitly supports church integration, but not explicitly. It cites Scriptures calling for interpersonal love and respect and saying all people and races "are one in Christ Jesus." Outside the church, the text says, there are definite color differences, but in the church, "God drives a new lesson deep into our hearts" that makes Christians "all the same color."

Suggest Season Ticket To '72 Summer Theatre

A season ticket for the 1972 Summer Theater Program as a Christmas gift is a suggestion received from members of the ECU Summer Theater. For the first time, notes director Edgar Loessin, the fare for the coming season is specially designed with the family in mind. "This year in particular we've been able to put together a season with the entire family in mind," he commented about the 1972 summer program. Once again five musicals make up the summertime offering, opening on July 5 with "Fiddler On The Roof", the fabulous musical that had the longest Broadway run of any musical. This will be followed by "Once Upon A Mattress", which opens July 17. Based on a fairy tale, the comic musical version originally starred Carol Burnett. "1776", a musical version featuring characters from early American history such as John Hancock, Benjamin Franklin and George Washington, will open on July 31. Next on the list is "I Do, Do", which goes on stage on July 31. The last of the five offerings is "The Fantasticks", opening August 7. Now in its 12th year Off-Broadway, this show features the memorable "Try to Remember" and other songs known and loved by everyone. This coming season also marks the first time two new category of season tickets are being offered, both at reduced rates. One is the "Monday Night Special" at $12.50, for which tickets will be good for attendance on Monday nights only. Four of the five opening night fall on Mondays. Loessin observed that regular patrons were sometimes hesitant about attending opening night. But the director observed that all the shows presented are polished and ready for the public on opening night so that no one need hesitate about choosing that particular night to attend. The second special category being offered for the first time is a season ticket, also $12.50, for children under 12 years of age. Loessin said this was particular appropriate this year in light of the musicals being ones that will appeal to young people as well as adults. The Summer Theater director is enthusiastic about the popular support given the theater. "Last summer, as you know," he commented, "the summer theater experienced some big disappointments." He noted that following withdrawal of the annual state subsidy and failure of plans for a new theater building, "we asked our patrons at that point to help us, so that the theater could continue. "...the show will go on — and it is largely because of the support of our friends in Eastern North Carolina. In contributions both large and small, our patrons donated a total of $3,000 to maintain the theater. "Although every year is a challenge," Loessin said, "we look forward to better times, and we thank all of you for your goodwill and support." Patrons desiring to order season tickets for Christmas gifts, either the regular season tickets at $18.00 or one of the two new categories of $12.50 season tickets must have their orders in to the ticket agency by Thursday, December 16 in order to assure delivery by December 25. Interested persons may come by the ticket office at McGinnis Auditorium on campus, telephone 758-3690 or mail orders to: Ticket Office, McGinnis Auditorium, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834, with a check or money to include return postage.

Pembroke Representative
PEMBROKE, N.C. (AP) — W. Earl Britt, Fairmont lawyer, has been elected by Pembroke State University as its representative on the new 32-man board of governors of state-supported universities. Under restructuring of higher education, the board will begin governing all 16 public universities on July 1. With his election Thursday, Britt stepped down as chairman of the Pembroke board of trustees. The vice chairman, Harry West Locklear of Pembroke, was moved up to succeed him.

"I'll see to it that your new home is well built!"

4-bedroom COLUMBIA

Property owners... Here, at last, is a building plan to suit your needs... No matter how much or how little you want to pay... Let me explain...

This is Mike Roberts, Manager, Tampa, Florida. But it could be any representative of Jim Walter Homes, anywhere. Our business is building for you... on your property... no matter where it's located. Our managers are trained to work with you... to work FOR you. He'll "live with" your new home from start to finish... or at least as much of the finish as we are going to do. And this brings about the other subject... of how much or how little you want to pay. Listen to this.

Frankly, we know of no other builder who will build exactly as we do. We'll offer you a selection of over 20 models and we handle our own financing. What does this mean to you? It means we can build your new home to almost any stage of inside completion. After completing the outside you decide how much more we can do for you... how much of the inside you want us to finish. We'll do just about as much... or as little... as you tell us to. Then you handle the rest... to save money. Do it yourself... or have it done... now or later on... as you can, when you can. If you like, we'll even supply the materials you'll use and add the cost to your mortgage. It's that easy. COMPLETE DETAILS WILL COST YOU NOTHING. So let's get together and talk about building your new home.

North Pitt Notes

By ELLEN HEATH
North Pitt has really been bustling this week. The Seniors ordered their graduation invitations and began their candy selling project.
The Annual Staff, which consists of all seniors, began hard work on the annual.
The juniors received the posters and patches they earned from selling magazines earlier in the year. The three high salesmen, Linda Corey, Clint Lewis and Danny Dixon, received $10 each in addition to their prize.
Wednesday, the 82nd Airborne Division Band presented a concert to the North Pitt students during their study halls.
Everyone really enjoyed the band and especially when they played "Joy to the World" and "Beginning." The Student Involvement Committee helped with the presentation.
Linda Corey, one of the Student Government treasurers, presented this week's WOOW radio broadcast of North Pitt News.
North Pitt's wrestling team, coached by Mr. Williams, is doing extremely well. They have won matches against Rose High and Ayden-Grifton in the past two weeks. Tuesday afternoon, the Panthers wrestling team won a tough match against Kinston.

Some of the Panther wrestlers attended a wrestling clinic which was held in Chapel Hill Saturday.
The boys who wrestle have only one problem. Coach Willaism requires the wrestlers to have short hair.
Basketball
North Pitt plays three basketball games this week. The Panthers played North Lenoir Tuesday night. Both the "Big Orange Machine" and the Varsity Panther boys won their games. Wednesday night North Pitt played host to Greene Central in a make-up game. Friday night the Panthers have a home game with Southern Nash.
Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Norcott, and Mr. Dewar have been out of school lately. Mrs. Edwards returned to school Wednesday. The students hope the other sick teachers will return to school soon.
Thanks to Christie Speir, co-president of the Student Government Association, North Pitt will have one black and one white homecoming queen this year.

Last year, North Pitt had a princesses. The names of this year's princesses will be announced in next week's "North Pitt Notes."

All presents accounted for.

ELM DISEASE DECLINES
DETROIT (UPI)—Detroit is making progress in the war against Dutch elm disease with the 1971 elm inspection revealing 9,600 positive Dutch elm disease cases, a drop of 400 from last year.

"While the figure is still within the 10,000 range we've been experiencing annually, we're holding on to many trees," report Leslie Toth, city forester. About 130,000 street elms remain in Detroit.

"Eleven, twelve and one more for a baker's dozen," said my grandma, counting out eggs for a customer. "It'll be 'found gold' for her!" And she smiled as she bustled about the shop.
Even then, as a child, I knew that Grandma was the "found gold" for all who knew her — always giving more than was expected, cheerfully looking for ways to gladden those whose lives touched hers.
Today I know that Grandma's strength was of the spirit. The teachings of her church gave purpose to her life. She lived her creed joyously, demonstrating vividly for all around her the vitality and richness of the Christian life.
Today, in a world that sometimes seems dark with selfishness and greed, each of us needs to realize and utilize the spiritual resources of his church as a necessity of life.

The Worry Clinic Passing Along An Inheritance

Ralph Miller's family illustrates what we psychologists call "Cultural Inheritance." Liking for reading, music and religion are not genetic forms of heredity. But they can be passed along from one generation to another by a deft "brain-washing" of kiddies!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Case S-540: Ralph A. Miller lives in Berlin, Ohio.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "you once mentioned that your wife was a Miller.

"Well, my father and mother were both named Miller before their marriage.

"And in 1943, my son Oscar, gave the valedictorian address at the Berlin High School Commencement.

"This year his son James also delivered the valedictorian address. Back in 1942 there were also 5 Millers on our varsity basketball team.

"And this year 10 graduating seniors out of 90 were likewise named Miller."

transmitted from parents, much as our dinner table fondness for spaghetti vs. rice vs. roast beef, etc.

"Like father; like son" thus illustrates the fact that daddy or mother can implant idealism in their youngsters by lauding books, music, religion and art.

Abraham Lincoln's mother had almost no schooling but she indelibly impressed her young son with respect for Deity.

So when she died and Lincoln's father buried her without a preacher to handle the funeral, 9-year-old Abraham Lincoln was disturbed.

Weeks later when an itinerant clergyman stopped at their cabin, Lincoln coaxed the preacher to go out upon the hillside and conduct a belated religious service.

Fortunately, too, Lincoln's stepmother was also a woman who stimulated his ambition for knowledge.

So Abraham Lincoln became one of the best educated men of his age, even exceeding the prominent law graduates of Harvard, Yale and other ritzy New England colleges.

Yet he never had more than one year of formal grade schooling!

Ralph Miller's son was valedictorian and Oscar's son then followed in his dad's footsteps by also delivering the valedictory address 28 years later.

So you parents, even if you never got to finish high school, can still implant cultural ambition in your kiddies.

And you don't need to put on any high-pressure salesmanship to do it.

Instead, just surround your children with some good books, such as the Bible, an encyclopedia, a dictionary and a few famous novels.

Then tactfully urge your kiddies to consult the encyclopedia for answers to their questions.

Thus, you figuratively "brainwash" your children favorably toward printed books, newspapers and magazines.

By all means, place a pleasant "halo" around reading materials!

Read aloud to your kiddies when they are below school age.

Then trade family chores, as by offering to wash the dishes for them if they will meanwhile read a chapter from a story book.

And if youngsters ever get behind their classmates, due to illness or frequent moving from one town to another, then use the "flash card" plan outlined in my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," so enclose a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Fourth Graders Aid Chapel Fund

LANESING, Kan. (AP) — Warden R. J. Gaffney has declared members of the fourth grade class of Cure of Ars school in Leawood, Kan. "honorary inmates" of the Kansas State Penitentiary for their gift of $32.68 to the chapel fund at the institution.

Gaffney said Wednesday the nun who teaches the class heard him speak recently, and told her fourth graders about the drive for money to build an all-faith chapel inside the walls.

The Kansas Legislature authorized construction of a chapel but stipulated that the $150,000 would have to be raised pri-

Eyes React To Danger Signals

NEW YORK (AP) — Eyes come to the aid of a person in danger, even though his body may not react, reports the Society for Visual Care.

This phenomenon of suddenly improved vision is caused by additional adrenalin released by the contracted pupils and, unfortunately, lasts only a short time—until the danger disappears. For long-term improved vision, the society recommends regular and thorough eye examinations.

Opening lead: Four of ♠ Information gleaned from the auction got West off to what proved to be the killing lead in today's hand. South opened the bidding in third position with one heart and North chose to make a temporizing call of one spade.

Holding 12 points in support of hearts, we would prefer a jump raise to three hearts after the initial pass—even the North has only three trumps. First of all, the bid of a new suit is no longer forcing and South might be inclined to pass on some minimum holding that would produce a good play for game. The direct action offered by the immediate raise of South's suit is more apt to induce the latter to carry on once a fit is shown.

As it developed, South had ample in excess to make a rebid of two clubs. North now made his move by giving a jump preference to three hearts and South routinely proceeded to game.

Declarer should have given more thought to his initial play. Had he done so, it would have appeared more logical to put up the king of hearts from dummy at trick one. If West is leading from an honor in hearts, it is more apt to be the ace. [After all, he can never lose the top trump, whereas a lead away from the queen may cost a trick.]

If South plays the king of hearts at trick one, he cannot lose the hand. At trick two a club is led to the king, followed by the ace and then a third round which is trumped with the seven of hearts. East must overruff with the queen and since he has no more trumps, he cannot prevent South from regaining the lead in time to ruff out West's queen of clubs with the deuce of hearts.

Declarer loses only two trump tricks on the deal to score an overtrick instead of going set.

PARENTS CHIDED

SINGAPORE (UPI)—A government official says parents who do not supervise their children's studies are themselves "too lazy or they have too many children."

Culture Ministry secretary Shaari Tadin urged parents to "stop buying comic magazines and start buying electrical, mechanical and chemical books to put them on the right path for the next era."

Pepsi

You've got a lot to live

Pepsi's got a lot to give

What we mean is this: living isn't always easy, but it never has to be dull. There's too much to see, to do, to enjoy. Put yourself behind a Pepsi-Cola and get started. You've got a lot to live.
