

Grand Jury Finds No Probable Cause In Murphy Death

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Grand Jury, after hearing three days of testimony, found no grounds for probable cause for criminal action against Highway Patrolman Billy Day, Wednesday, in the Aug. 6 shooting of William Murphy, a black farm worker.

The jury's findings were presented to Superior Court Judge Robert Martin around 6 p.m. Wednesday and the contents of the report made public soon after.

The unanimous vote for no probable cause was received after an hour of deliberation by the 17-member jury panel that included four blacks. Testimony was heard from 24 witnesses during the hearings which began Monday afternoon.

In recommending no action against Day, who said he shot Murphy in self defense as the two struggled over the officer's gun in the front seat of his patrol car, the jury also offered several proposals, including the assigning of two officers to a car during weekend night patrols.

The findings, which backed action by a coroner's jury earlier that ruled the officer acted in self defense, exonerated Day from any wrong doing in the matter.

The investigation into the incident was ordered by Superior Court Judge Robert Rouse last Monday after the Greenville Chapter of the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union tried to get the court to make a State Bureau of Investigation report concerning the shooting public. Following a hearing, Judge Rouse denied the motion to have the report released and instead ordered a Grand Jury hearing.

In proposing the use of two officers to a car during night patrols, the jury said that "The presence of two officers serves as a deterrent to suspects who might otherwise consider resisting arrest or creating an incident."

It continued, "The presence of two officers would also provide a measure of safety to the suspect, especially intoxicated suspects, since their behavior most likely would be entirely different from that of a sober individual."

The jury also asserted that, "With the crime situation as it is today, we feel that the principle of the 'one man' patrol car should no longer be religiously adhered to, especially at night on week-ends. If supervisory personnel do not feel the foregoing recommendation is feasible, it is recommended that safety equipment be installed whereby a prisoner can be searched and placed in the rear seat of a patrol car and, when the door is closed, he can neither escape nor have physical contact with the driver."

The Aug. 6 incident has touched off demonstrations in the county, protesting the shooting, that have resulted in over 900 arrests being made since late August.

E. Pakistan Surrenders; India Orders Cease-Fire On The Western Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Indian army triumphed on its eastern front today with the unconditional surrender of Pakistan's army in East Pakistan. Then the Indian government ordered its troops on the western front to stop fighting Friday night in a unilateral cease-fire.

The Indian Cabinet's decision to call a pause in the Kashmir area was made in the face of a declaration by Pakistan's president that he would carry on the war with India until the "occupied areas are taken back."

In announcing the Indian government's decision, an official spokesman said: "We have repeatedly declared that India has no territorial ambition."

"Now that Pakistani armed forces have surrendered in Bangla Desh, and Bangla Desh now is free, it is pointless in our view to continue the present conflict."

"Therefore, in order to stop bloodshed and unnecessary loss of life, we have ordered our armed forces to cease-fire everywhere on the western front, with effect from 2000 hours Indian standard time on Friday, Dec. 17, 1971."

"It is our earnest hope that there will be a corresponding immediate response from the government of Pakistan."

The time given is 8 p.m. local time, equivalent to 9:30 a.m. EST.

The eastern and western fronts are separated by about 1,000 miles, as are East and West Pakistan.

In East Pakistan, Indian soldiers marched victoriously into Dacca and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told her people: "Dacca is now the free capital of a free country."

It has been the provincial capital of the East wing of Pakistan.

Mrs. Gandhi declared refugees who had fled from East Pakistan to India were already returning to the area which India calls Bangla Desh, or Bengali nation.

The Pakistan president, Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan, apparently refusing to write off East Pakistan, broadcast his intention to put out, two weeks hence, a new constitution that meeting Wednesday after denouncing the council for inaction in the Indian-Pakistani war. (AP Wirephoto)

he insisted would apply to "both the wings" of Pakistan.

Before New Delhi's announcement of its intention to cease-fire in the west, an Indian spokesman had reported the biggest tank battle of the war as having taken place in that sector within the past 24 hours.

Announcement of the eastern-front victory brought cheers in the New Delhi Parliament.

The prime minister said the surrender was signed in Dacca, East Pakistan's capital, at 4:31 p.m.—6:01 a.m. EST—by Lt. Gen. A.A.K. Niazi, the commander of the estimated 80,000 Pakistani troops in the province.

The surrender was received, she said, by Lt. Gen. J.S. Aurora, the commander of India's eastern command, who flew to Dacca this afternoon.

As Mrs. Gandhi spoke in Parliament, Radio Pakistan announced that fighting had stopped in East Pakistan following an agreement between the local Indian and Pakistani commanders. Monitors said the broadcast, in the Urdu language, made no mention of surrender.

Niazi surrendered nearly 24 hours after India gave him an ultimatum to quit and suspend bombing of the East Pakistani capital. Half an hour before the ultimatum expired this morning, the Pakistani commander asked for an extension and for an Indian staff officer to come to Dacca to discuss the surrender.

The Indians dispatched the chief of staff of the Eastern Command, Maj. Gen. J. F. R. Jacob, with instructions to give Niazi until 5 p.m. to give up. Gen. Aurora followed a few hours later.

Meanwhile, Indian troops had entered Dacca, at 10:48 a.m., Mrs. Gandhi told Parliament earlier today. She said one of Niazi's subordinates, Maj. Gen. Mohammed Jamshed of the 36th Pakistani Division, surrendered to them.

"The Indian armed forces will not remain in Bangla Desh longer than they are needed," Mrs. Gandhi declared.

The Indian parliament erupted with cheers and desk pounding when Mrs. Gandhi read her one-minute statement, just as it did last week when the 54-year-old prime minister announced that India had recognized the People's Republic of Bangla Desh.

No Exceptions Seen In Required Treatment Of Industrial Wastes

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency plans to require basic treatment of virtually all industrial discharges into U.S. waterways, even where states don't demand it.

EPA general counsel John Quarles Jr. says EPA's 10 regional administrators are being directed to apply a minimum requirement of "secondary treatment or its equivalent" to all permits for industrial-waste discharges into navigable waters.

More-stringent controls are to be imposed where required to meet state water-quality standards, he said in an interview.

Quarles said the directive "reaffirms and clarifies" existing policy which was not spelled out in writing before.

The "clarification," however, marks the first open establishment by EPA of a nationwide industrial-treatment standard.

Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said last April that "the federal government is responsible for establishing minimum national requirements and supervising state activities."

At that time, EPA had contracted out development of what it hoped would be specific guidelines for water-pollution controls on some 20 major industrial categories.

By July, however, Ruckelshaus concluded that mandatory guidelines were not practical.

Regional administrators, responsible for writing antipollution terms into federal permits required for industrial discharges, were directed only to use their best professional judgment.

To answer any questions about the policy, Quarles said, he was sending a new memo to the regional administrators, making it clear that:

—EPA will require each industrial plant subject to a permit to achieve at least a minimum level of pollution control; thus, there may not be any no-treatment permits.

—The permits must specify discharge limitations and time-tables for achieving them.

—Exact requirements must be determined case by case, but the general standard will be "secondary treatment or its equivalent," that is, treatment roughly equivalent to that given municipal wastes.

—The minimum requirement includes plants located on either intrastate or interstate waterways, including waters for which no state standards have been adopted.

—The federal minimum standard applies even where a lower treatment level might satisfy existing state standards.

Obstruction

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Senate foreign-aid fight is threatening adjournment of Congress, just when it appeared a compromise would permit the session to end today.

The new battle, over the level of foreign-aid spending for the next few months, erupted Wednesday night after it appeared Sen. J. W. Fulbright had been able to take advantage of growing absenteeism to force a sharp reduction in assistance levels.

As plans for a quick vote on Fulbright's proposal fell through, Republican leaders filed a petition that could bring a vote Friday on cutting off the debate unless the matter can be resolved earlier.

The bill providing temporary funding of the foreign-aid program until early 1972, passed Wednesday by the House, is the only piece of business remaining before Congress can quit until Jan. 18.

Earlier Wednesday, both houses had passed and sent to the White House the only other two remaining appropriations bills, a $70.5-billion measure for the Defense Department and a $32-million bill for the District of Columbia.

They also completed action on a measure providing 13 weeks of additional unemployment compensation for states with an above-average jobless rate.

The House has completed its business but cannot adjourn until the Senate does.

Two Named To Bd. Of Home Savings And Loan Ass'n

Dr. Allen Taylor and B. B. Laughinghouse, both of Greenville, have been named to the Board of Directors of Home Savings and Loan Association.

One replaces retired Board member James T. Little; the other fills a newly created place on the Board, which brings the number to 16, executive vice president Herb Lee said.

Dr. Taylor, an Elizabeth City native, is radiologist at Pitt Memorial Hospital here and at Washington County Hospital in Plymouth. He also has a private radiology practice. He graduated from Greenville High School, received his B.S. and M.D. degrees at Duke University and did post graduate work in pathology, medicine, and radiology at Emory University Hospital, Baltimore City Hospitals, and Duke University Medical Center. He is past president of the Pitt County Medical Society and a member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. He and his wife, the former Dorothee Ehrlich of Mohrungen, Germany have five daughters.

A Greenville native, Laughinghouse is vice president of Bostic Sugg Furniture Company here and has been chairman of the Greenville Redevelopment Commission since 1968. He is a graduate of Greenville High School and East Carolina University. A member of Holy Memorial Christian Church, he is married to the former Jane Kanoy of Thomasville and they have four children, Lynn, Britt, Lisa, and Chip.

Committees Appointed By County Planning Board

Committees were appointed last night by the Pitt County Planning Board to study various aspects of subdivision planning so that subdivision ordinances may be proposed to the County Commissioners within the next few months.

Tom Willis, director of the Regional Development Institute, encouraged immediate action on the matter to avoid in the future problems concerned with drainage, sewage and water supply that have arisen often recently in this county.

The committees will report at the January Planning Board meeting. They are as follows: street design and utilities — Lindsay Briley, Marion Nobles, and Willard Dean; drainage and soil — Roy Beck, J. P. Summrell, and Rob Jones; health — Willie Pate, Charlie Tyer, and Johnny R. Dilda; recreation — Austin Britt, J. H. Mobley, and Ed Yancey; lot and subdivision design — Eugene Fleming and Hilton Tetterton; and legal requirements — Rob Jones, Hilton Tetterton, Bill Speight, and Reginald Gray. The Planning Board members and guests saw a slide-tape program presented by Extension agent Ed Yancey called "Keep North Carolina Livable."

County planner Philip Michaels noted several problem areas for the Board. He cited diminishing health services for rural areas, improper land use, solid waste, diminishing amounts and pollution of ground water, transportation, housing, and an information gap between the planners and the public.

Approval was given the Town of Farmville to extend its water lines to a subdivision just outside of its corporate limits on Highway 264.

Community water systems were discussed at length. The Board decided that definite plans need to be made so that the systems will not overlap and so they can be tied together to form a county-wide water system at some future date.

Also discussed was the crucial need for countywide garbage pickup and disposal. It was pointed out that most rural householders have no place to dispose of their refuse properly, so it usually becomes a hazard and an eyesore whether it's on their own land or on the roadside.

7 SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

Candlelight Christmas Tour Of Homes Planned

FARMVILLE—A candlelight Christmas tour of homes, sponsored by the Christian Youth Fellowship of the First Christian Church here, has been planned for Sunday.

The hours of the tour are 5-10 p.m. Tickets may be purchased at the church, located at 201 S. Main St., after 4 p.m. Sunday.

Persons interested in making the tour are advised to stop by the church prior to going on the tour in order to secure a program booklet.

The tour will include the following homes: located on the corner of Duke Drive and Sunset Avenue, is the traditional brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Darden. Several rooms will be decorated with fresh greenery and fruits.

CYF hostesses will be Miss Nancy Darden and Miss LuAnn Willoughby.

Among one of the oldest homes of Farmville is the B. B. Smith Jr. home, located on the corner of South Contentnea and East Wilson Streets. A Christmas wreath adorns the front doorway of the house, spotlighted for effectiveness. The interior decorations include garlands framing mirrors and other arrangements of greenery. Miss Rosemary Anderson and David Smith will be CYF hostess and host, respectively.

Miss Terri Pippin and Billy Wooten will be CYF hostess and host at the colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Turnage, located at 303 W. Church St.

The entrance hall will be decorated with garlands and a Christmas tree will be the focal point in the living room.

The colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Davis is located at 503 Grimmersburg St. Among the decorations are a tree in the music room and a traditional "Williamsburg apple tree" in the dining room. The "apple tree," made of fresh fruits and greenery, adorns the dining room table.

Miss Alice Allen and Miss Nora Griffin will be CYF hostesses here.

The white contemporary-modern home of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Moye is located at 805 E. Wilson St. The large Christmas tree in the living room is decorated with modern decorations. Host and hostess will be Bynum Satterwhite and Pam Johnson.

The First Christian Church parsonage, occupied by the Rev. and Mrs. Jack M. Daniell, is located at 803 E. Wilson St. The decorations throughout the house have been created with fresh greenery and berries and some in permanent materials, candles and ceramics.

Miss Kathy Heath, Roland Letchworth and Andy Wooten will be hostess and hosts.

What's Cooking For Christmas Eve?

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If snacking goes on at your house on Christmas Eve, after carols are sung, you might like to serve Yorkshire Devils—rich little offerings.

These are a hot hors d'oeuvre that's good to serve at holiday time and all winter through. There's a nugget of deviled ham in each of these snacks and their batter is similar to that of Yorkshire Pudding and Popovers but it doesn't rise high.

YORKSHIRE DEVILS
1 can (4½ ounces) deviled

ham
2 tablespoons fine dry bread crumbs
¼ teaspoon ground sage
1 tablespoon minced scallion (green onion)
½ cup unsifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 cup milk
3 teaspoons salad oil

In a small mixing bowl mix together the deviled ham, bread crumbs, sage and scallion. Roll into 12 even-size balls.

In a medium mixing bowl stir together the flour and salt; make a well in the center and break egg into it. Gradually beat in the milk, keeping smooth; batter will be thin.

Put ¼ teaspoon oil in each of 12 muffin-pan cups (1-3rd cup capacity), then add a ball of deviled-ham mixture to each.

Bake in a preheated 425-degree oven for 2 minutes.

Remove from oven and pour some of the batter over each ball. Bake in the 425-degree oven until browned and somewhat puffed—about 25 minutes. With a small metal spatula loosen edges and remove. Serve

YORKSHIRE DEVILS — These snacks are rich and tasty.

Assembly Line Love Is Bad

CHATELLERAULT, France (WNS) — Sylvie and Bernard Foucherault, 22 and 25 respectively, married three years ago after meeting and falling in love on the same factory assembly line. When Bernard was recently promoted to a better-paying job, Sylvie quickly fell in love with her new assembly-line partner, Regis Lunet, 18. She tried to kill her husband by mixing poison in his wine, but he simply complained of the bitter taste and refused to drink. She fed him poisonous mushrooms, but he vomited them up. She gave him poison instead of sleeping pills, and he only complained of headache. Finally she forced her new lover to stab hubby a dozen times while he slept. The knife broke after the third stab. After a month in the hospital, hubby Bernard is on his feet again, and living with his parents. He has suggested divorce.

Wife Questions His Criteria For Promotions

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is the head of a large corporation. He does not drink hard liquor, but very few people know this because at cocktail parties he takes one drink and pretends to sip it all evening.

Now he watches his junior executives' drinking habits very carefully, and they are promoted or fired accordingly. Anyone who takes more than two drinks is dropped or passed over for promotion no matter how good a job he does.

I feel that my husband should have a talk with the man and give him a chance to cut down. He says: "No, once a drunk, always a drunk." He says it takes guts not to drink in today's society, and he needs men with guts to run the business right. What is your opinion? CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: If everyone who takes more than two drinks is [as your husband states] a "drunk"—there are a lot of drunks effectively running a lot of businesses.

I agree, it takes guts not to drink in today's society, but a man who takes a drink publicly and "pretends" to sip it so no one will know he doesn't drink, is lacking in guts himself. If guts is the issue, the alcoholic who said: "No thanks, I'm an alcoholic" has far more guts than your holier-than-thou abstainer.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very good friend I have known for a long time, and I wouldn't intentionally hurt her for the world. She and her husband are about 15 years older than my husband and I, but we went around together and were all good friends.

The whole mess started when her husband started making advances and trying to paw me. I slapped his face once [real hard] in the kitchen when he tried to get fresh, but that didn't stop him. He came over to my house one night knowing my husband wasn't there. I wouldn't let him in, so he climbed in thru the window, and I ran him off with a broom.

In desperation, I told his wife, and do you know what she said to me? "I know his faults, but I love him anyway. You were very cruel to tell me and I will never forgive you for it!"

Our friendship has cooled off a lot since then, but at least it did put a stop to all his funny business. Was I wrong in telling my friend about her husband? BROKEN FRIENDSHIP

DEAR BROKEN: Yes. You did it the hard way. You should have told your husband.

DEAR ABBY: A reader wrote to tell you that he [or she] had read somewhere that when a couple becomes engaged and the boy doesn't give the girl an engagement ring, but buys her a fancy wedding ring instead, she can wear it as her "engagement" ring. The reader asked if that was proper.

You replied, "Not in MY book. A wedding ring should not be worn until AFTER the wedding."

Well, Abby, in Switzerland, when the couple becomes engaged, the boy gives the girl a plain gold wedding ring which she wears on her RIGHT hand. After the wedding she wears the ring on her LEFT hand. Sincerely yours, MRS. S. W.

DEAR MRS. S. W.: Live and learn! I appreciate your setting me straight. You and I have learned from different "books" . . . each is correct, so when in Rome [or Switzerland] do what the natives do.

Hair Design Team Wants Business Of Young People

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
The two members of an English prize-winning hair design team, John and Suzanne Chadwick, are planning "a youthquake" in the United States. The handsome couple in their mid-20s have won more than 300 hair awards in Europe and want to lure young people to hairdressing salons.

While rumblings of the quake they are engineering have already been felt in 250 mini salons that were set up for young people within other beauty salons Chadwick says, "the idea needs a massive push because many hairdressers need re-training." Sometime in December they hope more than 7,000 hair dressers will be snipping and clipping in the Chadwicks' new layering technique.

"Hairdressers complain young people have ruined their business, but they must revise their thoughts about youth, and recognize this is a real revolution. Give them what they want now or they may be lost to the salons forever," he says.

What youth doesn't want is mama's hairdo with its teasing, rollers, hair spray. And they don't want salons that resemble boudoirs with their massive crystal chandeliers.

His decor for the mini salons is on the right beat, he says, with silvery walls, track lighting, green plants, real music and an appointment board outside where the young people can sign up for an appointment and shop while they wait for it in one of the 500 salons located in specialty and department stores. The Chadwicks are consultants to all the Glemby salons here and in Europe.

"We aren't pushing our ideas on the young people. They will accept only what they want and what is in good taste. For example, denim and big belt buckles fashions went from the streets of Greenwich Village to Vogue Magazine."

First, the Chadwicks will train the staffs of the beauty salons. More than 2,000 members will attend Sunday seminars in San Francisco, Atlanta, Chicago and New York. And in each of those cities they expect to train 100 hair cutters who will come in from outlying areas for one week. They will be taught to incorporate style right in the hair cut. These people will then return to their salons to show other hairdressers the new techniques.

The Chadwicks four basic precision haircuts with youth appeal are: (1) the higher layer cut with all hair layering on top; (2) the perfect vertical hair cut with a slightly layered look; (3) the low layer cut—hair that is all one length, "the most precision cut of all, and, (4) the chunky hugging cut—the highest degree of layering.

Pretty brown-eyed Suzanne was wearing the "chunky hugging" which is layered all the way from the crown to her shoulders. It gives the appearance of waviness as it fans out windblown style from the face. If you prefer, "you can be chunky in back and vertical in front," she says. John cuts Suzanne's hair and she cuts his when she "gets around to it."

or hairdos that they must set every night.

In England where the mod look began early, the boys are wearing suits and short cuts. Girls are wearing dressier clothes, he explains. Denims have been out for several years. The music is much softer.

"Young people do not need to shout or play loud music to be heard any more," Chadwick says. "People listen. It is time hairdressers got the message."

The Bamboo Curtain Yielding

The bamboo curtain which has separated Red China is cracking.

Latest in a series of events which indicate this is the freeing of two Americans who had been held captive. One was a man who had been in Chinese prison for 19 years. The other was a woman who was captured on a yacht in 1968. Peking also announced that it had reduced the life sentence of another American prisoner and revealed that a fourth American had committed suicide in prison.

The two who were released crossed over into Hong Kong and were then flown to the United States.

The release of the two can be interpreted as a slight gesture of conciliation toward the United States. Coming on the heels of the announcement that President Nixon will visit Peking and Red China's admission to the United Nations it forms a pattern of emergence for China.

The differences between Red China and the United States are major and none of the things which have occurred recently mean that our two nations will soon become close allies.

Some small steps in improved relations have been taken however, and they can lead to better things.

Charity Begins Here, But Doesn't End Here

There is suffering in the world on an unimaginable scale this Christmas season, thanks in large part to the new war in South Asia.

We know about poverty and family disaster quite close to home; but they shrink in degree as compared to the uprooted multitudes (so many of them just children), too far away for us to see, hear or touch.

It would, we think, be a better Christmas for anyone who helped relieve their utter misery.

A $5 check to CARE will go a lot further in that organization's massive relief endeavors: feed more, comfort more, than a similar sum could possibly do any other way.

Charity begins at home, but it cannot end there. You can help many people, many children, by sending a check to CARE Food Crusade, 615 Forsyth Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. 30303.

Power Balance Is Big Factor

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The ease with which India, backed by the Soviet Union, is dismembering Pakistan has raised the most serious concern high in the Nixon administration over historic Russian expansionism in Southwest Asia.

What is not appreciated outside high government circles is that the fruits of India's military victory may not be limited to the detachment of East Pakistan from the Pakistani central government as the independent state of Bengal. In permanent vassalage to India.

Rather, border regions in West Pakistan itself may be carved out of Pakistan and placed under virtual Indian control — if Moscow concurs. In that event, the present Soviet leaders would have fulfilled the czars' ancient dream of penetration deep into Southwest Asia. Given present Soviet activity in Afghanistan and the Persian Gulf, the step beyond this might be northern Iran.

Thus, the future not just of East Pakistan but of the world balance of power is the major factor explaining the Administration's support for Pakistan that so angers liberal politicians. Yet, there is little that President Nixon can do. U.S. reaction to the events in the Indian subcontinent is drastically limited by two factors: first, reversion by the U. S. to a new form of isolationism, the direct product of the Vietnam war; second, the new U.S.-Soviet nuclear parity.

While Soviet-backed India carves up U. S.-allied Pakistan, neither the Nixon administration nor any other power today has the ability to say no and make it stick.

Rather, the only real weapon available to President Nixon is indirect pressure based on Moscow's desire for vastly increased trade with the U.S., a settlement of Central European post-war problems and, perhaps, a strategic arms agreement.

Nobody knows whether the Kremlin will risk these top-priority goals by taking full advantage of the India-Pakistan war. But considering how quickly U.S. influence in the subcontinent has been smashed, it is taken for granted here that hard-liners in the Kremlin will want to pyramid the Soviet assets so clearly evidenced by the India-Pakistan war.

The test of Soviet intentions probably lies in its reaction to Indian military actions in Kashmir and, beyond that, in two strategic areas of West Pakistan called Baluchistan and Pushtunistan.

It is assumed here that India will gobble up the small western strip of Kashmir now controlled by Pakistan unless the Soviet Union exerts maximum pressure on New Delhi to cease and desist once the East Pakistan operation ends.

Similarly, the fate of Baluchistan and Pushtunistan which, with a combined population of some 7 million, border Afghanistan, may be decided in Moscow. These two regions contain large minorities with separatist tendencies which could be easily exploited by India and Afghanistan. Considering the long history of Soviet aid to Afghanistan, the Kremlin could bring India and Afghanistan together in continuing the partition of Pakistan. The result: semi-autonomous states under Indian domination in these two areas.

Bad Bill And Good Veto

The cartoon showed a fat and happy President at his White House desk, chortling over his veto of the Child Development Act. Peering through a window are the pinched and reproachful faces of two little children, one white, one black. A captain suggests that someone ought to pull the drapes.

The point, in a word, Richard Nixon is an ogre. If he were not an ogre, he would sign the bill. Well, score one for our side. The President did not sign the bill. Well, score one for our side. The President did not sign the bill. He put his signature instead to a five-page veto message that ranks among his finest state papers of recent months. On the following day, in a born-again revival of good judgment, the Senate refused to override. The bill is thus dead for this session and, thanks to the veto message, opponents will be better equipped to resist a resurrection in the next.

This bill was incredible. Imagine, if you please, a casserole composed of yesterday's spaghetti and Tuesday's leftover hash, to which a hundred helpful cooks, bursting with good intentions, had added a smattering of spinach, pickled beets, eggplant, avocado, cream cheese, caviar, maple syrup, malted milk, hard cider, sauerkraut, cole slaw, Grape-nuts, two cans of motor oil and a whipped cream topping. Garnished with raw politics and drenched with crocodile tears, this was the soggy mess deposited on the President's desk. Mr. Nixon has a strong stomach, but this was too much.

It was understandable that congressional liberals should have concocted this dish. Minnesota's Walter Mondale, for one, is widely acclaimed for his galvanized innards. He can swallow whole washtubs of nonsense without so much as a hiccup. It was beyond belief, however, that conservatives knowingly could have supported the bill. In charity, one has to conclude that they simply did not know what the bill contained. Certainly in the House this was true. The bill was hustled across the chamber as a floor amendment, unread and misunderstood.

The bill had three bad parts. The first would have looked the Office of Economic Opportunity into a dozen categorical programs of untested wisdom. A second section would have spawned an irresponsible and unaccountable National Legal Services Corporation. The third and most calamitous section would have created a monster. It would have brought into being a full-blown program of "comprehensive child development services."

As the President took pains to remark in his veto message, a number of modest child-care programs already exist — some private, some public. (He has asked a reasonable expansion of these in his own welfare program. No one questions the basic proposition, that more mothers can be put to work, gaining self-respect and paying taxes, if day-care facilities can be provided for their children. So far, so good.)

Senator Mondale's concoction could not be recognized in any such common-sense terms. Doubtless it was not so intended, but the bill pointed to a virtual Sovietization of America's children. Except for a couple of paragraphs of afterthought parsley, faintly acknowledging the parental role, the stew fairly simmered with communal dumplings. The bill en-

Other Editors Say Sarnoff Showed Way

(Kinston Free Press)

David Sarnoff, 80, the man who made radio a household necessity with the American public and the world, is dead. His success story will live on and be told again and again wherever men live on the planet or others in the generations to come.

Starting out as a Russian immigrant paper boy he saved his money, bought a telegraph instrument, and in 1912 became the first American to hear about the sinking of the Titanic with 1,517 persons aboard. President William Howard Taft ordered all other wireless stations on the east coast silenced in order that Sarnoff could relay the news. He reported the names of the 700 survivors to the American public, staying on the job for 72 hours until he got the news out. He had started work at 15 as a messenger boy and later learned the Morse code.

His understanding of the potential of radio led to his formation of the highly successful RCA firm and he later became founder of the National Broadcasting Corporation. When he retired in January, 1970 annual gross sales of RCA were over $3,000,000,000 and it employed over 128,000 persons and had plants in 64 locations throughout the world.

Like so many other millions of immigrants to this favored land, Sarnoff worked hard and took advantage of his opportunities. While some may attribute his success to luck, we suspect it is really the combination of effort, inspiration and the fruits of a free enterprise system unlike any other in the world. He was a good citizen, a loyal American throughout his life and his service to humanity will endure in future. He will be missed but his contribution ranks at the forefront of a revolution in communications that makes all men neighbors wherever they live on this planet or elsewhere in the Universe.

Well, We Still Have Pea Soup

By ELMER ROESSNER

Many food prices are rising and the rise will continue, judging from Department of Agriculture reports.

Holiday turkeys will match 1970 prices, it reports. But "beef prices are higher than a year ago and analysts foresee little beef price change this winter. Pork will remain fairly plentiful. (Pork prices topped beef prices in Chicago recently.) Chicken and egg prices may be a little higher. And don't forget pea soup: dried peas are plentiful," says one USDA release.

It added that the fish catch is short and prices higher, peanut butter prices are up and dried beans cost more because of the short crop. Lettuce prices are high and tomato, celery, asparagus and onion crops are short.

COMMENT: While prices of prepared foods are frozen, they can be raised with permission of the Price Commission. But government farm price supports, increased income, and the rise in prices of prepared foods will exert upward pressures on uncontrolled foods. And if food prices generally continue to rise, they will reduce the housewife's spending for other products. In short: food prices can give the Administration, a bellyache.

Steel Price Rise May Hit Everything

The Price Commission's grant of an average rise of 3.6 per cent on steel products to U. S. Steel will be followed by similar rises to other steel producers.

COMMENT: The consequences may be much broader than that. The 3.6 per cent average increase will mean increases of 8 to 9 per cent on many steel products. The rise in steel prices will have a pyramiding effect because steel prices were increased last August just before the price freeze.

Eventually higher steel prices will produce another round of price increases. Autos, construction, highways, canned goods and thousands of other products will be allowed to go up to pay for higher steel.

Several years ago the steel industry spent several million dollars to get over the idea that "nothing is made without steel." It won't have to spend a cent to make the public aware that the rise in steel prices will make

Styptic Pencil Season

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — During the holiday season, along with remnants of wrapping paper, Christmas card lists, light strings and ornaments, family traditions make their annual appearance.

It may be the reading of "The Night Before Christmas"; going caroling; the yearly egg-nog party; or the same old lopsided star at the top of the tree.

Our family tradition is the styptic pencil.

It all started the Christmas our daughter was 6. By promising to turn over to her older brother her assigned viewing time on our one television set, she had bribed him to take her shopping at the neighborhood 10-cent store.

Gay had made her purchases, except for finding a present for her father—a matter to which she was devoting lengthy search. However, her taste ran to the most expensive merchandise and Brenn, better versed in finance, pointed out that she had only one dime left.

Since gift items available for that sum were somewhat limited, the remainder of the shopping expedition threatened to be a protracted as well as tearful one. Brenn, impatient to get back to his favorite TV program, resourcefully directed his impetuous sister's attention to a styptic pencil—price 10 cents. He gave her the hard sell, predicting that it might even save her father's life by stemming the bleeding should he cut himself while shaving. Gay bit—and bought.

On Christmas morning Daddy welcomed the gift with such enthusiasm that Gay smugly took full credit for the choice. During the year Daddy tactfully managed to nick himself a few times and to remark to Gay that her first-aid item was more useful than a tourniquet.

Having been so successful the previous year, Gay decided to stick with a winner the next Christmas, and again there was a styptic pencil waiting under the tree for her father, even though the price had gone up to 15 cents.

By the time she was 8, Gay's allowance had grown, but so had her sense of humor, and she purchased a styptic pencil for old times' sake, along with another present. From that time on the gift showed up every year, sometimes wrapped

Dec. 16, 1931

It was announced today that William S. Tyson, prominent Greenville attorney and solicitor of Pitt County court, has been appointed chief clerk and accountant of the committee of accounts of the United States House of Representatives. The announcement was made through Congressman Lindsay Warren of this district.

Firemen, wishing to do their part for the poor during the Christmas holidays, have opened a toy repair department and will mend all toys to be contributed to the poor. The firemen adopted the plan last year in an effort to bring cheer.

Strength For Today

BURDENS—BIG AND LITTLE

Responsibility. Some people are in it up to their necks. Others seem to have a perfect genius for avoiding responsibility. If there's a heavy job to be done somebody else is nominated. If a mistake is made up go the hands, the shoulders are shrugged, the eyebrows lifted in amazement. "Don't blame me."

Alibis? They are hard to establish at times, but when a person is in real trouble he needs to be able to establish an alibi. The President of the United States is said to receive ten thousand letters a day. Scores of people, of course, are retained to answer them. But how would you like to come to your office every day and feel that the world was depending upon you for something important to be done? It's an amazing fact that anyone should ever want to be President. As George Washington left his Mount Vernon home to go to New York and be inaugurated first President, he said that he felt as sad as a criminal would feel being led to his place of execution.

We all need to remember that responsibility involves real burden-bearing. Even monarchs that reign but do not rule find their positions trying. There was a great figure in this country who received such applause that several policemen had to be at the door of his office building every day when he went to his office and left it. Everybody wanted to shake hands with him or get his autograph.

NEW BLUE-AND-WHITE — Lt. J. H. Tripp and Sgt. E. E. Laughinghouse stand with two new Greenville Police Department patrol cars put into service this week. The new blue-and-white look had its debut when one of the two new vehicles led last week's Christmas parade here. According to Chief Glenn Cannon, all of the department's old regular patrol cars will be re-

Painted with the new blue-and-white colors. He said the two-tone cars should be more readily identified as police vehicles and the new twin rotating blue lights on top should be more easily seen. When the painting is completed, a total of seven cars will sport the blue-and-white look. An eighth vehicle is scheduled to be added in the near future. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Ship Attacked On High Seas

MIAMI (AP) — A Cuban exile-owned freighter, crippled by fire from a Cuban gunboat, was under tow toward the Communist island today following a bloody attack on the high seas.

"The deck is covered with blood. I am dying ..." the freighter's captain, 55-year-old Jose Villa, said in a final and desperate radio message received here Wednesday.

"Tell the Coast Guard to come quickly," Villa said. "Tell them there are dead and wounded here."

The Johnny Express was the second ship owned by Bahama Lines of Miami—a firm operated by Cuban exiles—to be seized by Cuba in 10 days. A Bahama Lines official said the Johnny Express had been taken in tow by Cuban patrol boats about 118 miles north of the island's east coast.

"It is on its way to Cuba by force," the spokesman said. "It is piracy and no one will do anything to help us."

The Johnny Express had a crew of 14, including two American citizens, according to Bahama Lines. It is the sister ship of the Lyla Express, which was seized Dec. 5 and taken to Cuba.

U.S. Coast Guard spokesman Ron Wright said planes with medics were dispatched purely on a humanitarian mission in efforts to provide medical aid for the crew and "we can't get involved in the fight." The planes were unable to find the Johnny Express.

A spokesman added that the ship was of Panamanian registry and not in U.S. waters when attacked so "our hands are tied."

The plight of the ship became known Wednesday when Bahama Lines received a distress signal: The Johnny Express, like the Lyla Express, had been returning from a run to Haiti. It was attacked about two miles off the coast of Little Inagua in the Bahamas.

Bahama Lines radio operator Francisco Blanco said Villa told him the Johnny Express was being pursued by a Cuban gunboat. As the office struggled to stay in contact with the ship, Villa later reported the Johnny Express was under fire and was being rammed by the gunboat. "They are shooting at us from close range," Villa said in one message.

"Tell them they are finishing the boat off. Tell the Coast Guard they are finishing us. Tell them to come get the wounded."

Jack the Ripper couldn't have used up those stytic pencils as fast as my husband acquired them.

A couple of years ago we were facing our first Christmas without the kids. Brenn was in California and Gay was going to school in Paris. Gately, we decorated the tree but the lights didn't seem as bright as usual.

Then, on Christmas Eve, Gay walked in her door. She had turned in her ticket for a scheduled class trip and used the money for a surprise visit home.

She brought us a lot of lovely things, but her father's favorite present was the French version of a stytic pencil, in a squat metal case instead of a thin glass tube, and bearing the label: "Hemo Stick, pour les coupures de rasoir."

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page A-4) visioned whole regiments or psychologists, psychiatrists, child specialists, group leaders, nutritive experts, research directors, short-order cooks, text book salesmen, out-of-work artists, doctors of infant emotion and resident fellows in mud-pie analysis. One million tots on one million couches, attended by one million mail-order mommas. This was the nursery of Mondale's contriving.

Mr. Nixon objected to the cost — $2 billion for openers, 20 billion annually in the course of time. He objected to the prospect of an administrative nightmare, peopled by 7,000 "prime sponsors." More than anything, he objected to a program that would "diminish both parental authority and parental involvement," and instead would "commit the vast moral authority of the national government to the side of communal approaches to child rearing over against the family-centered approach." It was, in brief, a lemon of a bill; but it was a honey of a veto.

Evans-Novak . . .

One such traditional fishing ground is the Iranian province of Azerbaizhan, on the Soviet border. Though still remote, a large dose of Soviet-supported political agitation might conceivably trigger a separatist movement in Iranian Azerbaizhan, again with U.S. ability to react inhibited by domestic politics.

The pattern is simple. India has military supremacy, thanks to Soviet arms, and diplomatic immunity, thanks to Soviet vetoes in the United Nations.

Thus, Pakistan's incredibly stupid and shortsighted decision last spring in trying to smash Bengla Desh (East Pakistan) by military force is having worldwide repercussions far beyond East Pakistan.

Scott And Five GIs Exchange Yule Greetings

RALEIGH (AP) — Christmas greetings were exchanged Wednesday between Gov. Bob Scott and five Tar Heel soldiers stationed in Germany.

At the same time, they lit Christmas trees to usher in the holiday season.

"I am delighted to have this opportunity, and this somewhat unique means of expressing to you — the servicemen from North Carolina stationed in Europe and your families — a very merry Christmas and a very happy New Year," Scott said via a telephone-radio hookup from his office to the Army base in Neckersulm, about 80 miles southeast of Heidelberg.

Scott spoke briefly to Spec. 4 Timothy C. Hall of Rt. 4, Ashboro; Spec. 5 Vernie L. James of Durham; Spec. 4 Ronald J. Triplett of North Wilkesboro; Spec. 4 Andrew N. McLelland of Burlington; and Spec. 4 Herschel Adams of Winston-Salem.

Connally Resuming Monetary Campaign On Friday

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Likened to a Texas steamroller after his last appearance on the world financial stage, John B. Connally resumes his trail boss-job Friday in the U.S. drive to rearrange international monetary affairs.

Connally left foreign colleagues to off-the-record mutterings about Texas cowboys after his bravura performance at a meeting of financial leaders early this month.

In a surprise move, the Treasury secretary let it become abundantly evident in sessions at Rome's Palazzo Corsini that the United States was willing to undertake the previously unthinkable: devalue the dollar.

President Nixon's announcement Tuesday of his willingness to do so had been clearly foreshadowed by Connally dealings.
Connally, a Lyndon Baines Johnson protege in the often rough-and-tumble school of Texas politics, "would be better sticking to his guns and lasso," said one European governmental source after the Rome meeting.

tackle again the knotty problems of world finance.
For Connally, the meeting is another step in a career that has included being governor of Texas, secretary of the Navy for John F. Kennedy and attorney for the enterprises of the late super-rich oilman, Sid Richardson.

So, when the negotiators got around to the nitty gritty of how many pounds or marks or francs or lire or yen the dollar should be worth, he abruptly suggested that they recess, to assemble again in Washington on Dec. 17 and reconcile matters.

Devalue the dollar, and foreign products, will cost more to import. U.S. goods will then be more competitive abroad, and the costs of American tourism will increase correspondingly.
The aim is to reduce or eliminate this country's deficit in the balance of payments—the amount the United States gives or spends overseas which is not balanced by exports. The deficit in the July-September quarter reached a record $12 billion.

Other issues are involved—tariffs, policies on farm products, investments and defense costs, and the U.S. import surcharge of 10 per cent which Nixon proclaimed on Aug. 15.
Foreign manufacturers bitterly resent the surcharge, and in Rome, the United States pledged to drop it if a satisfactory currency realignment is negotiated.

Colonel's Case Is Up To Jury

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — After 3½ months of trial, 106 witnesses and thousands of pages of testimony, the jury today will begin debating the guilt or innocence of Col. Oran K. Henderson on charges of covering up the My Lai massacre.

The two generals and five colonels on the jury will be sent into seclusion after the military judge, Col. Peter S. Wondolowski, reads from a detailed list of instructions on the legal issues in the case.

It was the sixth time a military panel was asked to tackle the issue of My Lai and involves the last such charges on file.

While other trials involved responsibility for the slayings, the Henderson court-martial deal with the break in the chain of command that kept word of the deaths at My Lai from reaching Army headquarters for a year.

Henderson is charged with dereliction of duty in failing to conduct an adequate investigation of reports that civilians were killed in the attack on March 16, 1968. He also is charged with not reporting a war crime to his division commander and with making a false statement under oath when questioned about My Lai at a Pentagon inquiry.

Henderson faces a maximum sentence of 39 months in prison upon conviction of all charges, the term set by the jury in later deliberations. Both a guilty verdict and sentence go automatically to a lengthy review process.

Henderson is the highest ranking officer to be put on trial as a result of My Lai. In the five previous trials one man, Lt. William Calley Jr., was convicted. His life sentence on conviction earlier this year of murdering 22 Vietnamese civilians has been reduced to 20 years and is still undergoing appeals.

Alley Files For Re-Election

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — State Sen. Zeb D. Alley of Waynesville has filed as a candidate for re-election, subject to the Democratic primary next May.

The 43-year-old attorney gained prominence as a freshman senator this year by championing legislation to ratify the 26th Amendment allowing 18-year-olds to vote in all elections.

Alley also was the author of a companion bill which lowered the age of legal adulthood in North Carolina from 21 to 18.

Big Reminder Of Traffic Job

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. Francis W. Sargent was 30 minutes late Wednesday for a briefing held by a committee studying transportation problems in the Greater Boston area.

His official car got tied up in traffic.

Brownies Visit A Rest Home

WINTERVILLE — Brownie Troop 275 of Greenville visited the Jones Eastside Rest Home here yesterday afternoon to sing carols for the residents.

Each resident was given a gift of gaily wrapped candy. Brownies who participated were Cindy Champlin, Jill Cherry, Karen Downes, Mary Garrett, Susan Paul, Jeri Walters, and Dena Williams. Their troop leaders are Mrs. Harry Williams and Mrs. Sheldon Downes.

Doctors Buying Neighborhood

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Four doctors who operate a gynecology-obstetrics clinic have bought most of the 23 houses in a residential neighborhood on the fringe of the affluent Myers Park section, but some of the holdouts are considering going to court.

The holdouts say they may try to enforce deed restrictions intended to keep the neighborhood residential.

One of the doctors said his group has no definite plans now, but "expects to need a larger clinic in the future."

Two Injured In Traffic Mishap

Two persons were reported injured in a 10:55 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard at an entrance to Pitt Plaza yesterday.

Police identified drivers of the two vehicles involved as Shelby Cooke Register of Route 1, Bethel and Jessie Braxton Cahoon, 17 of Grantsboro.

Officers, who set damage to the Cahoon car at $350 and damage to the Register vehicle at $175, reported Mrs. Register and one passenger in her car were injured.

Cahoon was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Student 'Bank'

RALEIGH (AP) — The state Board of Higher Education announced Wednesday it is setting up a center which will channel the names of students denied admission by one college to other colleges.

In announcing the organization of the Education Opportunities Information Center (EDIC), Dr. Cam West, state director of higher education, said that it will be headed by Stan C. Broadway, the board's director of student personnel services.

The center will compile lists and biographical information on students rejected by one college and make them available to deans of admission at other colleges and universities.

Lions Club And Families Hold Annual Dinner

The members of the Greenville Lions Club and their families met Monday night for their annual Christmas dinner.

A hospitality hour, arranged by Mrs. James Hix, preceded the dinner. A musical program was presented after dinner by the East Carolina University Collegium Musicum, under the direction of Dr. Robert Irwin and Mrs. Barbara Henry from the ECU School of Music.

Santa Claus paid a visit during the evening and distributed presents to all the children.

James Hix presided over the meeting which was attended by 123 persons.

Contempt Citation Dismissed By Court

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Court of Appeals has dismissed a contempt citation against three Gastonia newsmen who attempted to photograph the jurors in a murder trial.

In writing the opinion for the court, Judge Frank M. Parker noted that the contempt citation brought by Judge Fate J. Beal against Gary Martin, Kermit Hull and Jay Hampton, was issued seven weeks after the expiration of the court session at which the case was tried.

Parker wrote that Beal "lacked any authority" to enter such a contempt order after the court session ended.

Beal was holding court in Gastonia last April when the Gastonia Gazette published a photograph of the defendant, taken while he was being taken from the jail to the courtroom.

Judge Beal instructed bailiffs that no further photos would be taken of participants in the trial.

On the morning of April 20, Martin, Hull and Hampton began snapping photographs as the jurors were leaving a motel to return to the courthouse. They were arrested and their cameras taken by bailiffs.

Later that day, Beal conferred with the editor of the Gazette and it was agreed that no photos of the jurors would be published, a stipulation that resulted in the release of Martin, Hull and Hampton.

On the same day, a juror became ill and a mistrial was ordered.

On June 10, Beal signed his order holding Martin, Hull and Hampton in direct contempt of court, but imposing no punishment.

GOING ON SALE
RALEIGH (AP) — The 1972 North Carolina auto license tags will go on sale Jan. 4.

They will have blue letters and numbers on a white background.

Orders Coed Legal Voter

RALEIGH (AP) — Superior Court Judge Coy E. Brewer directed the Wake County Board of Elections Wednesday to register a Meredith College freshman who claimed that her dormitory room constituted a permanent residence that entitled her to vote in Wake County.

Immediately after Judge Brewer ruled in the case of Katherine Inez Hall of Tarboro, the board of elections announced its intention to appeal to the North Carolina Court of Appeals.

Attorneys for Miss Hall contended that although she was a resident of Tarboro prior to moving to Raleigh to attend college, she met the requirements of the election law by having stated she plans to remain in Wake County indefinitely.

It was the first major court decision in North Carolina on student voting since passage of the 26th amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Judge Brewer told the court that the Hall case is not a class action and that his decision would apply only to Miss Hall. He said other efforts by students to register would have to be dealt with on their individual merits.

Ross
Mr. Larry J. Ross died in Newark, N.J., Tuesday. Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Sarah Daniels of Greenville.

He was the son of the late Annie Ross.
Nobles
Mrs. Maggie Nobles of Rt. 2, Farmville died Saturday morning at the home of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gertrude Wilson, after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be conducted Sunday at 1 p.m. at Warren Chapel Free Will Baptist Church by her pastor, the Rev. A. L. Miller. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Although she was born in Pamlico County, Mrs. Nobles spent almost her entire life in this area. She was a member of Warren Chapel.

Her survivors include a son, Moses Wilson of the home; a grandson, and two sisters, Mrs.

Tom Frank of New Bern and Mrs. Alice Hardy of Boston, Mass.

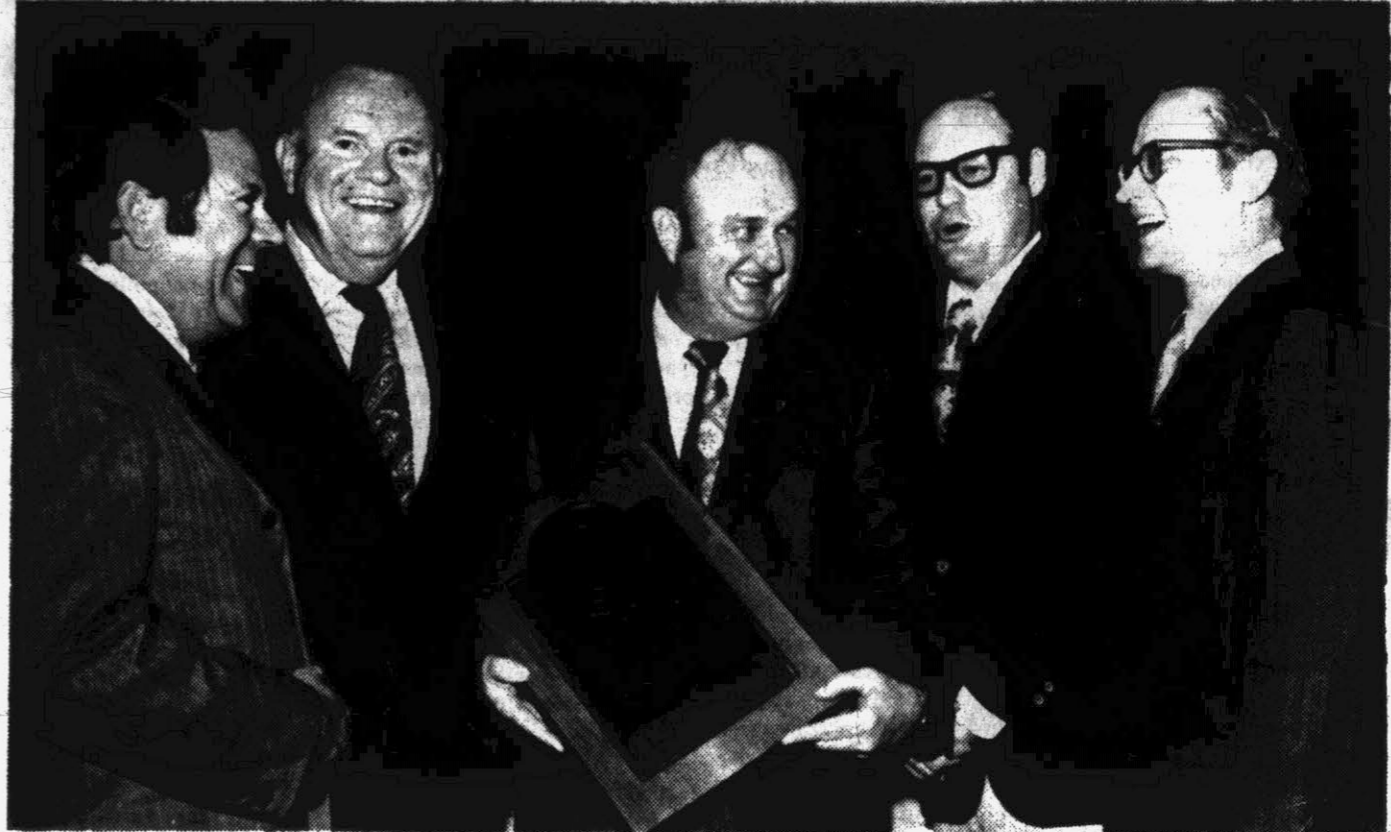

Visitation hours will be from 6 to 9 p.m. Saturday at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home here.

Cooper
Mrs. Verna Council Cooper died Friday in Pitt Memorial Hospital after a brief illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday at 3 p.m. at Reddick Chapel, Bethel, with Elder Warren Cooper officiating. Burial will be in the Council Cemetery.

Mrs. Cooper, daughter of the late Columbus and Hattie Council, was born in Martin County, but had made her home in Norfolk, Va., for the past 20 years.

Surviving her are two sisters, Mrs. Lucy Howard of the home and Mrs. Cora Harris of Tarboro; and three brothers, Johnnie Lee and Leroy Council, both of Greenville, and David Council of Bethel.

Board Of Realtors Officers Installed

James L. Harris was installed as president of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors at the group's annual realtors ladies night banquet last night at the Greenville Elk Lodge.

Other officers named included

Collice Moore, vice president and Mrs. Carolyn Bobbitt, secretary-treasurer. Board members named last night include Jack Wallace, Louis Clark and Joe Bowen.

A. P. Carlton, the 1972 president of the North Carolina Association of Realtors, delivered the keynote address and conducted the induction ceremony for the incoming officers.

Jim Bichsel, executive secretary of NCAR, was also a special guest. Clark was also installed as state director from the local board for the coming year. About 65 realtors and wives attended the banquet.

Doctors Attend Anatomy Course

Seventeen physicians and dentists from eight states participated in advanced head and neck anatomy courses at East Carolina University this year.

The courses, which took place in January and in December, were a joint offering of the East Carolina University School of Medicine and the ECU Division of Continuing Education. Each course included lectures, demonstrations, dissections and clinical sessions, which gave the participating doctors an intensive review of head and neck anatomy.

Instructional staff consisted of practicing specialists and medical school faculty members from ECU and the Medical College of Virginia. They were: Dr. R. K. Green, (oral surgery), Dr. E. S. Hegre (anatomy), Dr. G. H. Williams (otolaryngology), Dr. H. R. Seibel (anatomy), and Dr. R. P. White (dentistry), all of the Medical College of Virginia.

Dr. G. E. Hair, ENT, Fayetteville; Dr. S. M. White (ophthalmology) Greenville; and Dr. Michael R. Schweisthal (anatomy); Dr. W. S. Bost (surgery, otolaryngology) and Dr. I. E. Lawrence (anatomy) of the ECU School of Medicine.

PTA Meeting Slated Tonight

The PTA of Third Street School will meet tonight at 7:30 in the school auditorium.

A special Christmas program will be given by the school chorus.

All parents are urged to be present.

So Far, Nine Jurors Selected

By 11:30 this morning, nine jurors had been selected in Superior Court in the case against Bobby Ray Ward, who is charged with the rape of an East Carolina University coed on Sept. 28.

The selection of the nine jurors was made from among the first list summoned for duty but a special venire was ordered late Wednesday and the first of the new panel was called for questioning just after 11:30 today.

When court was recessed after 6 p.m. yesterday, a total of seven jurors had been selected. Only two more were chosen this morning as questioning continued.

Ward, 18, whose address was listed as Rt. 1, Grifton, is charged with the rape of 18-year-old Hulda Mae Miller of Colerain near the ECU campus.

Judge Robert M. Martin is presiding.

Church Program Set Saturday

A Christmas program will be presented Sunday night at 7:30 at the Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church.

The program will consist of exercises by children and a pageant by the young people. The public is invited.

VIDEOLESS DRIVING

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Television watching is out for Texas motorists.

A law passed by state legislators this session prohibits motorists from having television sets in their vehicles if the screen is visible to the driver.

Annual Party For Children

The annual Christmas party of the Pitt County Association for Retarded Children was held last night in the trainable classrooms at Aycock Junior High School. The children of the classes presented a pageant on "The first Christmas" using poems and carols to tell the story. Art and craft work done by the children for the Christmas season was displayed around the room.

The staffs of the Remedial Education Activities Program and the Farmville Child Development Center were hosts for the event.

Mrs. Vann Latham, the ARC's Operation Santa Claus chairman, reported that more than 190 gifts have been given by the group. Her husband and son will take them to Caswell this afternoon, she said.

Experienced Ayden-Grifton To Use Teamwork For Title Drive

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(23rd of a series)

LITTLEFIELD — For some it might be confusing to say that you have seven starters back for your basketball team this season, but to Ayden-Grifton High School's Bob Murphrey, it makes sense.

Last year, there were three different schools making up the area; now they are consolidated into one. And from those three came a total of seven starters, four from Ayden, and three from Grifton. Oddly enough, all members of the old South Ayden team were graduated. The seven starters include Jim Herring, Mike Jackson and Gary Kelly from Grifton, and Willie Stewart, Danny Garris, Milton Brown and Melvin Stewart from Ayden.

And Ayden's team was the third-place finisher in the state in the 1971 Class A Tournament.

This year, however, it is a different story. With consolidation, A-G has jumped to the 3-A classification. But Murphrey doesn't feel that a return trip is out of the question.

With the experience, the Chargers are near the top of the new Eastern Carolina Conference, and hope to stay there.

"I think we've got real good experience," Murphrey said. "Of the 12 people on the team, nine have a lot of experience. This helps when you have this. We've been playing those eight or nine right much, and we don't sacrifice much when we do."

Height is one of the big problems for the Chargers, however. The tallest man is 6-3 Garris. "He's not a real pivot man," the coach said, "and we've been trying to find someone to work that position." He thinks he might have found that man, Tuesday, against Farnville Central, Jesse Smith, off the South Ayden junior varsity, stepped in, pulled down nine rebounds, got 12 points and was credited with four assists. "He may be the answer to our weakness on the inside," Murphrey said.

The rebounding of the Chargers has been good at times, "better than I expected," the coach added. "But at other times, it hasn't been as good as I would like." Willie Stewart is the leading rebounder, and heads the conference with a 13-0 mark per game. "He's only 6-0, but he plays bigger," Murphrey said.

"Garris has also been doing a good job on the boards, but he does a better job offensively than he does on the defensive boards."

Ayden-Grifton tends to play a control type game, and speed is one of the reasons. "We really don't have a lot of speed, so we use this type of game. We try to control things. We're not real good shooting either, so we have to be patient and work for the good shots."

That, according to Murphrey is his philosophy: good defense, rebounding, and working for that good percentage shot. "I feel like if we do this, we can stay with about anyone."

Murphrey said that he has accepted the fact that he has no great shooters. "We're trying to improve this phase of the game, but you can't make a shooter overnight. We have to make up for it by doing other things well: rebounding and defense."

And the defense usually is pretty good. "It's been inconsistent," Murphrey said. "In certain games, it has been as good as I've seen, but in a few games, we've lost our poise." But overall, Ayden-Grifton is among the defensive leaders in the league, holding most to below 50 points. "We got caught up in a running game with Conley and this hurt us both offensively and defensively," he noted of the only Charger loss.

"We're going to have to improve our defense, and I think we will," he said.

Currently, Murphrey is starting Smith at the center position, with Willie Stewart and Garris at the forwards and either Brown, Melvin Stewart or Carlton McCarter at the guards. "Carlton is a senior, but he's improved a lot this year, and is going to play a lot."

Main reserves include Herring and Chuck Babington.

Murphrey feels that Conley is currently the team to beat in the conference. "They've beaten the top three teams in the league, and until they are beaten, they're the favorites. But I don't think they're invincible."

Overall, he feels that Conley, Farnville Central, Southern Nash, Greene Central, and possibly Eastern Wayne or North Lenoir are the teams that Ayden-Grifton must beat to win. "I think we can still win it; we're right behind them. Any team in the league is capable of beating another, however."

For Ayden-Grifton to come through, however, there must be a team effort. "There are no great individuals on this club, so it has to be a team effort," the coach said. "If we continue to play as a unit, we can do the job."

Belhaven Downs Oak City Five

BELHAVEN — The Belhaven Bulldogs remained undefeated last night with an 89-75 victory over Oak City's Trojans. The Trojanettes, however, captured their first victory of the year, upending Belhaven, 40-24.

In the girls game, Belhaven edged into an 8-6 lead in the first period, but could score only two points in the second frame. Oak City got moving in the period, however, and came up with 10 points. That pushed the Trojanettes out into a 16-10 lead at intermission.

In the third period, Oak City, enjoying its lead, outhit Belhaven, 13-9, and boosted the lead to 29-19. They did it again in the final period with an 11-5 advantage to wind things up and claim the long-awaited victory.

Sylvia Jones led the Oak City scoring, dumping in 24 points. In the boys contest, Oak City wanted a victory, too, but couldn't quite pull it off. The Bulldogs inched out into an 18-17 lead at the horn at the end of the first period, then began to steadily pull away from the Trojans. They pushed in 26 points in the second frame, 10 more than Oak City could get and rolled out to a 44-33 lead at the half.

In the third period, Oak City tried for a comeback, outhitting Belhaven, 23-19. That cut the margin to 63-56, but that was as close as they could come. Belhaven outhit them again, 26-19, in the final period to wrap it up.

Wayne Jones led the Oak City scoring with 23 points, while Edward Briley had 16 and Ronald Duggins had 15. For Belhaven, Cleveland Arthur had 36, while William Cray had 16. Greg Palmer had 14 and Marvin Clark had 12.

Oak City hosts Robersonville on Friday.

Height is one of the big problems for the Chargers, however. The tallest man is 6-3 Garris. "He's not a real pivot man," the coach said, "and we've been trying to find someone to work that position." He thinks he might have found that man, Tuesday, against Farnville Central, Jesse Smith, off the South Ayden junior varsity, stepped in, pulled down nine rebounds, got 12 points and was credited with four assists. "He may be the answer to our weakness on the inside," Murphrey said.

Ohio University Claims Second Victory Over Big Ten Opponent

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio University's Bobcats have not yet bobbed up in the nation's Top 10 basketball teams this season, but if they continue beating Big Ten teams, they might join the elite.

The unheralded Bobcats posted their second straight victory over a Big Ten Conference club, upsetting 12th-ranked Indiana 79-70 Wednesday night. Four days earlier, they toppled Ohio State, ranked fourth at the time, 77-69.

Hoosiers' Coach Bob Knight said, "Ohio University just came to play harder than we did, and that was it in a nutshell. They played well at both ends. They grabbed loose balls.

We didn't underestimate them. We knew they were strong." The Bobcats, 3-1, showed their strength quickly, grabbing a 5-2 lead in the first three minutes and never relinquishing it. Tom Riccardi's 18 points paced Ohio University's balanced attack. Tom Corde added 17 points and Bob Howell scored 15.

Indiana's Joby Wright led all scorers with 35 points. It was the Hoosiers first setback in five games.

Meanwhile, sixth-ranked Brigham Young remained unbeaten, whipping Oklahoma State 84-74 for its fifth victory. The Cougars were led by Bernie Fryer with 21 points and Kresimir Cosic with 20. Sophomore Ralph Rasmunson topped Oklahoma State with 29 points. Long Beach State, rated 13th, downed Loyola Los Angeles 73-67, for its fourth victory in five games. The 49ers outrebounded Loyola 60-40, with Chuck Terry grabbing 15. Terry also was Long Beach's high scorer with 17 points.

Virginia, the No. 19 team, pulled away in the second half for an 82-62 triumph over William and Mary. Six-foot-10 Scott McCandlish poured in 26 points for the Cavaliers.

St. Joseph's, Pa., broke the scoring record for the Philadelphia Palestra, crushing Nevada-Reno 128-66. The previous Palestra mark was 125 points, set by LaSalle in 1967.

Undefeated Syracuse won its fifth game, shading Penn State 73-70; Mississippi handed Southern Mississippi its 13th straight loss over two seasons 107-92; Murray State nipped Bradley 75-74 on Les Taylor's field goal with three seconds left; Scott Michel's tie-breaking field goal with eight seconds remaining helped Yale top Brown 73-70, and sophomore Glen Price's 20 points paced St. Bonaventure to an 80-66 victory over DePaul.

Cavs Hustle By William & Mary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

William and Mary stopped Virginia scoring ace Barry Parkhill but couldn't stop the Cavaliers as a team.

Appalachian State gave Virginia Tech a good tussle but couldn't hold down the Gobblers' hot shooter, Allan Bristow.

And so the techniques were the opposite, but two Southern Conference teams still ended up getting their knuckles rapped when they ventured outside the league Wednesday night.

The Indians, leading the conference with a 2-0 mark, were sky-high in taking their home court against the 19th-ranked Cavaliers, but committed 34 turnovers in succumbing 82-62.

The score was close at half-time—just a 30-26 lead for Virginia—mainly because William and Mary constantly dogged Parkhill and kept him from penetrating.

But 6-foot-10 Scott McCandlish pumped in nine points soon after intermission and turned the game into a rout.

"It wasn't that we took them lightly," said McCandlish, the top scorer of the night with 17 points. "The team was talking more about being up than actually being up."

Said Parkhill, who ended up with 16 after hitting a school

Blue To Get Raise

OAKLAND (AP) — Pitcher Vida Blue, the American League Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards winner will get a "substantial raise" over last year's $14,750 rookie contract, says Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley.

"And I'm not talking about peanuts," Finley said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

Finley said he is awaiting word from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on contract guidelines.

Blue himself is on the way to Vietnam with Bob Hope and other entertainers, but he has been quoted as saying "I'm going to make a whole lot more money next year."

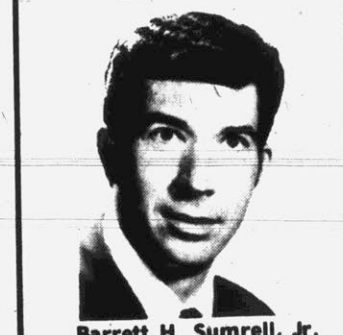

Asked about his reaction should Vida come up with a figure of around $100,000, Finley replied:

"I don't know. I've never had anyone ask me for $100,000." Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players' Association, has sent a letter to players bringing up the matter of increases for athletes and entertainers.

Miller pointed out that it may be some time before the federal pay board rules on sports.

Specific individuals are not barred from salary boosts above the 5.5 per cent guideline set by the board, but the unit in which they work must not exceed that. The question of what is a unit has not been defined.

As Football Injuries Pile Up, Pro Wives' Nerves Get Frayed

(EDITORS NOTE: This is a year of innumerable injuries in professional football. It's tough on players to be out. It's tough on wives who watch their husbands week after week, knowing the next play could put them in the hospital. Here is the story of two veteran football wives who may be typical—their husbands are neither subs nor super stars—and how they have adjusted.)

By KAROL STONGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Betty Manders doesn't fret that her husband might get hurt. Trudy Philbin does.

"You just wait until it happens," said the wife of Dallas Cowboys-center Dave Manders. "At first you don't worry because you're not used to anything happening," said Mrs. Philbin, whose husband Gerry is a defensive end for the New York Jets. "But the more things that happen, the more you worry."

Gerry and Dave both are 6-feet-2, 245 pounds and 30 years old. Philbin joined the Jets in 1964 as a third-round draft choice out of the University of Buffalo. Manders went to the Cowboys the same year as a free agent, two years after graduation from Michigan State.

Both have been on Super Bowl teams, have been spared the trauma of being traded and have suffered their share of injuries.

Their wives' like those of other players, sit in stadium stands or in front of the television set, watching their mates get hit week after week and waiting for them to get up. The women offer ice packs and sympathy when their hulking husbands come off the practice fields or home from games with minor ailments. When they suffer serious injuries, the wives travel daily to nearby hospitals and accept other wives' offerings of babysitting, food and goodwill and return the favor when mishaps strike their homes.

"You do as much for them as you can without hurting their vanity," said Mrs. Philbin.

Trudy is a 28-year-old strawberry blonde from Wichita, Kan., who as a teen-ager liked "anything dangerous except skiing. I don't like the cold." Now a resident of suburban Huntington, N.Y., and the mother of John, 4½, and Douglas, seven months, Trudy spent her high school days getting school records in high jump and winning trophies in drag racing. She attended Wichita State for one year, then became a stewardess. It was while flying the Atlanta-New York route for Eastern Airlines that she met Gerry, who already had one shoulder operation and a couple years' pro experience.

Betty and Dave were childhood sweethearts in the ski country of Kinsford, Mich., on the Upper Peninsula just two blocks from Wisconsin. Tall, blonde and 32, Mrs. Manders also is a graduate of MSU.

When the Manders were married, pro football wasn't in their plans, but, as she says, "Dave found out that watching it and playing it weren't the same." Now they live in North Dallas with Mark, 9, Mike, 6, and Cassie, 2.

The year after the Philbins were married, Gerry underwent routine surgery to remove spurs from his leg bone. It wasn't until 1970 that injuries made major inroads again. It was Gerry's other shoulder.

The rule of thumb is three dislocations—then surgery. The third time came when the Jets were in Houston and Trudy was watching the game on television with Betsy Baker, wife of linebacker Ralph Baker. "I saw the doctor put his foot on Gerry's chest and yank the shoulder back into place," said Trudy, wincing. "I think I could feel the pain as much as he did. They shouldn't show things like that on television."

Trudy missed the next mishap even though she was sitting in the New England Patriots' stands. It was in October, 1971. "After the game we were joking around and I asked Gerry if he was going to walk me to my car," she recalled. "He said he had something to tell me: 'I have to go back with the team—have a problem with my knee.'"

Gerry tore ligaments and tendons and was hospitalized for three days. He still wears a knee brace when he plays.

Mrs. Manders, who has watched her husband nearly twice as long as Trudy has watched Gerry, says she knows Dave's every pain. "The bruises and the blood clots worry me more than the broken bones," she said. "A break will be set and will mend and he won't play until it does, but there are so many unknowns with a deep bruise or a clot."

Manders, unlike Philbin, hasn't suffered a serious football injury since 1967.

"That was the year he tore up his knee in an exhibition game in San Francisco," Mrs. Manders recalled between answering the telephone and wiping candy smears off Cassie's face. "He tore ligaments, cartilage, the whole knee. He was hospitalized for 17 days and sat out the rest of the year."

"You hate to see your husband discouraged, down. You hate to see anybody out of work, and his work is playing football." Trudy Philbin agrees—even if it means playing in a shoulder harness or in a knee brace. "I'd rather have him play in that than not to play at all," she said.

But in pro football, eight years is a long career and both families know that the day soon will come when the game will no longer be a part of their lives. And they plan for that day. Both husbands have outside sources of income and have made investments.

Although the Manders have never been spendthrifts, Betty said she thought Dave's football injury brought home the fact the paychecks wouldn't always be there.

"The injury did us good. You think 'Hey, wait a minute, it could all end tomorrow.'"

Rose Hosts Cardinals

Rose High School's Rampants will seek to get back on the winning track Friday night when they entertain the Jacksonville Cardinals in a non-conference basketball game.

The junior varsity teams will clash at 6 p.m., with the varsity game set for approximately 7:45 p.m.

Rose is currently 3-3 on the season and 0-1 in league play.

Sloan Praises Guard Cafferky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joe Cafferky, who gets the ball upcourt for the North Carolina State basketball team, is the Iron Man for the Wolfpack.

The junior guard has gone the full 40 minutes in each of the four games this season with the exception of the last three minutes of the opening game against Atlantic Christian. The Wolfpack, which won 113-75, had such a comfortable lead that coach Norman Sloan took out Cafferky, a 6-foot-2, 170-pounder from Haverford, Pennsylvania.

"I'd like to give Joe some rest," Sloan says, "but he's been so important to our scheme of things that it's been almost impossible. And every time I've asked him if he wanted a spell, he's said no. I'm just wondering how long he can keep it up."

Cafferky is second among Wolfpack players in scoring. His 15.5 average is exceeded only by the 24 of 7-foot-4 Tommy Burleson.

N.C. State is 3-1, having lost only to West Virginia while beating Atlantic Christian, Georgia and Purdue.

State is one of the Atlantic Coast Conference teams which will play in the North Carolina Big Four Tournament in Greensboro Friday and Saturday.

The tournament will consist of two doubleheaders. On Friday night, Wake Forest will play North Carolina, ranked No. 4 nationally, and then N.C. State will play Duke.

On Saturday night, the losers of the previous night will open play, and then the winners will meet for the championship. These games are holiday season extras and will not count in the ACC standings.

In addition to the Big Four games, Maryland will be home to Canisius Friday, and Clemson will be at Indiana State Saturday.

ACC teams are idle tonight. There was only one game Wednesday night, the 19th-ranked Virginia Cavaliers remaining undefeated by beating William and Mary 82-62 with a second-half spurt in the game at W&M in Williamsburg, Va.

Virginia, which took its fifth game, had only a four-point lead at halftime, but 6-foot-10 Scott McCandlish scored nine points soon after intermission. And Jim Hopgood scored 10 points in the second half which, together with McCandlish's effort, gave Virginia an insurmountable 52-33 lead.

'Futbol' Making Mexican Inroads

By GREGG MACALEESE
Associated Press Sports Writer

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Football never will replace bullfighting as the heartthrob of the 436,000 residents of Juarez, Mexico, located just across the border from El Paso.

But "futbol Americano," as the people across the border call it, is making inroads.

This year one of the Juarez high schools, Colonia, played two good American teams to a standstill.

And this week, with the coming of Saturday's Sun Bowl between Iowa State and Louisiana State, football is at a fever pitch in Juarez.

"These futbol, ees beeg thing, eh?" said Luis, a taxicab driver whose amazing reflexes have kept him alive in the daily jungle of traffic in Juarez.

"I go some day and see it," he said with a smile. "I go with friends."

This year about 2,000 Juarez residents and their friends will see the Iowa State-LSU clash, if pre-game ticket sales are any indications.

This is a far cry from the 20,000 or more fans who jam themselves into one of the Juarez arenas to watch a bullfight. But it is a start.

In a way, it was the Sun Bowl that has kept American football alive in Mexico.

Back in 1945, the Sun Bowl hosted what proved to be the first international bowl game when the University of Mexico played Southwestern University.

Mexico lost 35-0 and has never been back.

The University of Mexico still has a football team, but it confines its schedule to small colleges and freshman teams.

It would be murder if it had to play either LSU or Iowa State.

But then, several American teams have been murdered by the Bengals and Cyclones this year.

$1 Million For Miami

MIAMI (AP)—A middle-aged widow who likes football has set aside $1 million in her will to help the football program at the University of Miami, her attorney said Wednesday.

"My client has always loved football," said Starr Horton. "And she's become a big University of Miami fan since becoming a permanent resident here."

Horton said the woman asked to remain unidentified. "The lady doesn't want any publicity," he said.

The money will go into the school's general endowment fund, Horton said, with annual earnings of about $55,000 going each year to provide football scholarships.

Kinston Matmen Drop Chargers

KINSTON — Kinston High School claimed a 46-15 victory over the Ayden-Grifton High School wrestling team yesterday.

Doctors, Hospitals Come Under Price Board Rules

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If your doctor now charges $15 for an office call, he can tack on another 37½ cents, but not a penny more unless the government approves it.

A hospital which charges $50 a day for a room can add $3, but no more unless the government says it's okay.

The Price Commission handed the medical profession those guidelines Wednesday in what is believed to be government's first attempt to regulate medical costs across the board in the United States.

The American Medical Association, which has consistently fought government regulation, had no immediate comment pending a review of the guidelines by AMA officials. An AMA spokesman, Dayton Moore, said his preliminary research turned up no past effort at such widespread government regulation of medical costs.

The commission guidelines, issued in implementation of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic program, limit increases in doctors' fees to 2.5 per cent a year and in hospital charges to 6 per cent a year.

To raise prices even to those cutoff points, medical professionals must prove their expenses have gone up. And, to raise prices above those ceilings, they must request specific government approval.

Doctors, hospitals and others in the health-care field may not raise prices to give themselves larger profits, the commission ruled.

The commission plan, however, would permit health-care costs to rise twice as fast as other costs.

Chairman C. Jackson Grayson Jr. said the commission hopes to halve the 12.9-per-cent rate of inflation in medical costs, while its goal for the economy as a whole is to keep price increases to a maximum 2.5-per-cent average.

"We were concerned with not reducing the quality of health care in the country," Grayson said. "That was very important to us."

The guidelines split the medical field into two divisions, institutional and non-institutional providers, and set up different regulations for them.

In the first category, which includes hospitals and other institutions, prices may be raised only to reflect allowable costs, offset by productivity increases.

But prices may not be raised to reflect higher labor costs of more than 5.5 per cent, the Pay Board ceiling for permissible wage increases.

Hospitals and other medical institutions may raise prices up to 2.5 per cent without notifying the government, but for raises higher than that, they must tell the Internal Revenue Service and Medicare officials.

Stricter regulations apply to the non-institutional category, which covers doctors and dentists, including a variety of specialists, medical and dental laboratories, rest homes, blood banks, nurses and midwives.

To raise fees at all, they must prove justification, and to go higher than the 2.5-per-cent lid, they must get advance clearance from the IRS and special state-designated boards.

The commission said doctors and hospitals must post lists of their base prices and inform patients the lists are available for inspection.

For policing, the commission will rely on IRS spot checks and patient complaints.

On another economic front, the Federal Reserve Board reported that industrial production gained in November and said the figures indicated the nation's sluggish economy may be coming out of hibernation.

The board's industrial production index, which tends to reflect early economic trends, showed that industrial output advanced eight-tenths of one per cent in November after an October standstill.

In other economic developments:

—The Price Commission said businesses with less than $1 million in sales may raise prices enough to boost their profit margin to 3 per cent, at least for the time being. Previously, all companies had been barred from raising profit margins at all.

—The commission deferred rulings on residential rents and insurance rates.

—The Salvation Army's 3,821 officers in the United States won approval from Pay Board Chairman George H. Boldt for pay raises. Boldt said most fall within the 5.5-per-cent guideline and added that most officers are exempt from controls anyway, because they make less than the $1.60-an-hour federal minimum wage.

—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange registered a solid gain. The Dow Jones average of 30 leading industrial stocks advanced 8.62 points to 863.76, highest since Oct. 19. Some analysts credited the gain to the possibility that dollar devaluation will encourage European investment in American securities.

—The American dollar, after hitting record lows in international money markets, recovered slightly as initial panic over devaluation appeared to subside.

Young Runaway Said Stowaway

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy found wandering in the terminal of Tampa International Airport Wednesday says he's a runaway from a British boarding school.

The youth, identified by juvenile authorities as Phillip Davison of Coventry, England, told police he stowed away on a British Overseas Airways flight from London to New York City late Monday.

Davison said he then sneaked aboard a National Airlines plane bound for Tampa, juvenile officials said.

Airport guards stopped Davison for questioning in the terminal but, according to one officer, "he changed his story several times" and was turned over to police.

Authorities did not disclose how long the youth had meandered about the terminal, nor what roused their suspicions.

In Coventry, police said Davison was listed missing from a boys' home there and called him a "real adventurer."

The boy took off about a month ago on another excursion and turned up in Switzerland, Coventry police said.

Juvenile officers said the slightly built youngster with a thick British accent told them he ran away from a school in Gilwern, Wales.

A. W. Alexandre, a Florida Division of Youth Services counselor, said late Wednesday it had not yet been determined how the boy managed to stow away twice, if he actually did.

Once the story is pieced together Alexandre said and "if it checks out to be correct" the youth will be turned over to immigration officials to be returned home.

"If the account is incorrect, we'll have to start at the beginning," he added.

Check Battery For Cold Days

NEW YORK (UPI) — A windy, sub-freezing morning can reduce a fully charged battery's efficiency as much as 60 percent, according to a battery company.

To compound the problem, say Gould Automotive Battery engineers, engines are twice as hard to start at zero degrees as they are at 80 degrees Fahrenheit. To avoid cold weather starting problems, have your service station operator test your battery to make certain it is fully charged and has ample capacity to handle cold weather starting loads.

Christmas Hopes Dim In Strike-Bound Florida Town

By JOHN VAN GIESON
Associated Press Writer

PORT ST. JOE, Fla. (AP) — Santa Claus isn't making any promises in this paper mill town, where Scrooge is a strike that has shackled the St. Joe Paper Co. for five months.

David Treace, the skinny, 6-foot-3 freshman at Gulf Coast Junior College who is paid $1.60 an hour to pillow up as Santa Clause, is as jolly as he can be in a town where 750 paper workers are on strike. About 1,500 people call Port St. Joe home. "You can't give a definite yes what you're going to give anybody," he said. "Usually the parents are standing there with a worried look on their face. You have to say, 'Well, we'll see.'"

"I've never been a Santa Clause before, but I kind of feel it would be a lot easier in any other community," the 19-year-old Santa added.

Taking an unscheduled stroll along the quiet three-block length of Reed Avenue, Port St.

Joe's main drag, in the heart of the Christmas shopping season, Santa encountered only six children.

"Because the parents aren't sure about their Christmas this year, they don't let the kids in to see me as much," he reflected.

The "wish book" catalog in the Sears catalog store at the east end of Reed Avenue is in little danger of fraying at the fingers of wide-eyed tykes.

"It's my understanding that business is off 40 to 60 percent," says sport-shirted H. Lee Treace, David's father and owner of the Sears outlet.

Youthful Charles Arrant, the Retail Merchants Association president, said he would not reveal just how much the Christmas business was off at the Carp's Department Store he manages.

"It's bad, you might as well face it," Arrant said. "A company like this is the backbone of the town. You could go up and down and talk to any merchants on the street and they'd probably tell you the same thing."

One out of four workers in Port St. Joe draws his paycheck at the giant paper mill—but three-fourths of them have been on strike since Aug. 5.

Another 400 timber cutters and haulers were idled by the shutdown that cleansed the bay-side town of its pungent pulp-processing aroma and its constant plume of white smoke.

"My children got the message that there's not going to be no Christmas," says folksy Charlie Davis, president of Local 379 of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union.

Davis has a 12-year-old girl and 23-year-old retarded son.

Out where the tangy, salty breeze off St. Joseph Bay sweeps across the picket line, stubby striker M. J. Robinson says he has tried to get the same point across in his simple home near the railroad tracks that used to feed 110 carloads a day of sectioned pine logs into the hungry mill.

"They knows now, but they forgets quick and looks for something anyway," Robinson said. "We're going to get them something Sumoway."

Thadus Russ, a gold-toothed black man elected vice president of the union in a show of racial harmony, has seen his $127 weekly salary as a winch-truck driver whittled in half.

"I haven't made over $60 in four or five weeks," he said.

Like all the other pickets, Russ earns $24 to $40 a week in strike benefits plus whatever he and his wife can pick up at odd jobs. Christmas means presents for eight kids from 5 to 16 years old.

Over at the pine-paneled union hall, where burly middle-aged men are reviving pinochle skills they learned as GIs, a sign saying "please donate unwanted Xmas toys we repair" has produced a battered pool table, an electric football game with missing players and several dog-eared jigsaw puzzles.

"We're going to repair them and do what we can with them and give them to needy families," Davis said.

He pointed out that many strikers will be fixing their Christmas dinners out of the surplus commodities they've been existing on for five months. Canned turkey with all the trimmings. That or maybe a deer felled out of season in the forests leased by the paper company. "You just don't buy happiness," Davis said. "You've got a certain amount of man you've got to live up to and your children have to understand." As Chamber of Commerce President Wes Thompson, manager of the Florida Power Corp. office, put it: "I'm sure we're going to have more of a Christmas than a commercial Christmas."

Yet things are not all bad in the season of "peace on earth and good will toward men."

As Davis points out "80 percent of our people have gone out and got part time jobs."

And observers on both sides of town feel that hardship, especially in the Christmas season, has a way of drawing people together.

"You just don't buy happiness," Davis said. "You've got a certain amount of man you've got to live up to and your children have to understand."

As Chamber of Commerce President Wes Thompson, manager of the Florida Power Corp. office, put it: "I'm sure we're going to have more of a Christmas than a commercial Christmas."

and ANNE DENSON

Wednesday Dec. 8, the student body assembled in the gym for a gymnastics demonstration by the East Carolina University gymnastics club. This team also performed at halftime during the Ayden-Grifton-West Craven basketball game Friday, Dec. 10.

The newly-formed wrestling team had their first match at North Pitt Thursday, Dec. 2, losing 66 to 12. They were defeated again Monday, Dec. 6.

by D. H. Conley.

Mrs. Clarissa May's music class sang at Tarrytown Mall on Dec. 14 at 4:30 p.m. In addition there will be an assembly in the Ayden-Grifton auditorium for the chorús to perform.

Four new clubs have been formed at Ayden-Grifton. They include: the Future Homemakers of America, sponsored by Mrs. Eunice Casey; Mrs. Reather Hemby and Mrs. Joyce McLawhorn; the science club under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Finch; the social sciences club sponsored by L. K. Hardy; and the Honor Society, headed by Mrs. Elizabeth Morris and Mrs. Louise Little. The Honor Society will be composed of the old members of the Beta Club and Honor Societies at the former Ayden and Grifton High Schools.

Rockefeller In Campaign Role

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he has agreed to head President Nixon's re-election campaign in New York next year.

Rockefeller told a news conference Wednesday "that the President stands better with the voters of New York State right now than he has at any time."

Scant Impact In Must-Work Bill

RALEIGH (AP) — State Social Services Commissioner Clifton Craig says a "must work" welfare bill now awaiting President Nixon's decision will have little effect in North Carolina.

The bill would require most able-bodied welfare recipients to sign up for work in order to continue receiving payments.

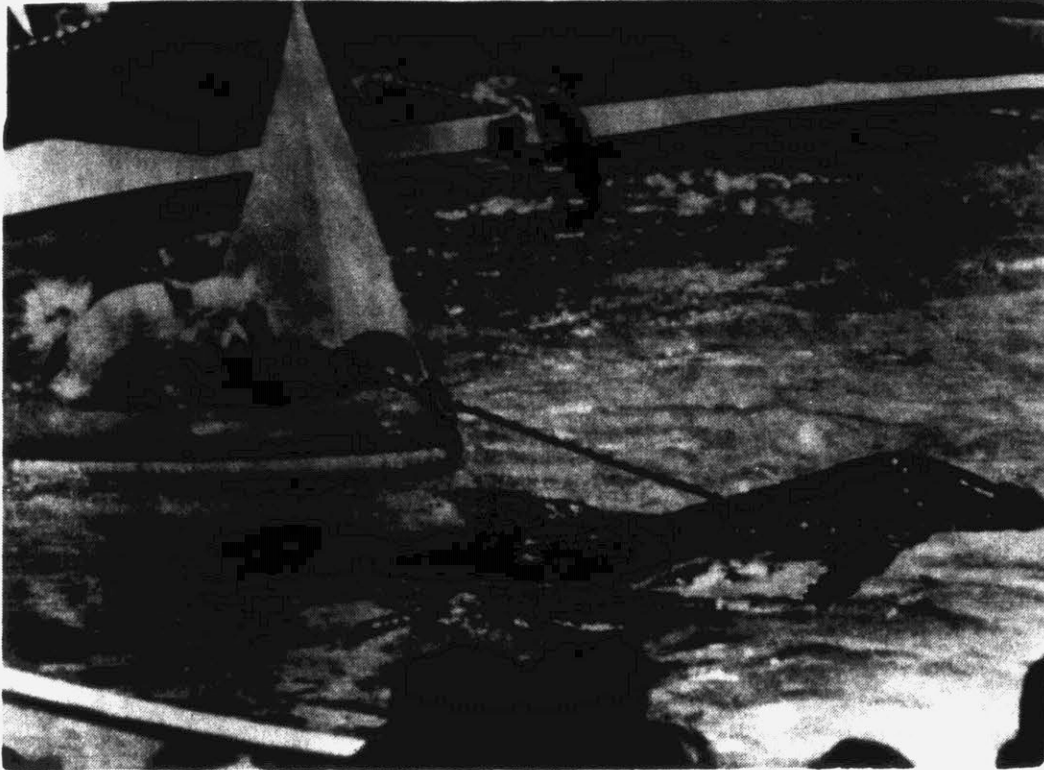

"We already have a law that requires all recipients in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program to register for work with an employment service unless they are specifically exempted," Craig said.

Schools See Drug Crackdown

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Police started a crackdown on the sale of narcotics in public schools here with the arrest of 15 persons Wednesday, most of them pupils or former pupils at Harding High School.

Among those arrested was the sister of one of the policemen making the arrests. He knew she would be arrested, but he was not assigned to arrest here.

Charges against the 15 included selling LSD, marijuana, amphetamines, cocaine, or another narcotic to undercover agents who had been on the job two months. No heroin sales were involved.

Start a great new holiday tradition.

$4.80 Fifth. $3.05 Pint.

Barton's QT. The new quiet taste in whiskey.
You see—Barton's QT is distilled differently than every traditional whiskey in America. It's distilled at a higher proof than traditional whiskey. Then it's stored in selected seasoned barrels. (Most traditional American whiskey is stored in new barrels.) Then it's filtered in a special way.
All to make Barton's QT the lightest, mildest whiskey you ever tasted.
So tear up last year's holiday shopping list. This year, the gift to give is the new, light taste in whiskey.

Azores Parley Apparently Eased 'Cold War West'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
Cold War West, the little power-politics contest between two long-time friends and allies, seems to have receded to a considerable degree.

President Nixon's Azores visit with President Georges Pompidou of France indicated a warmer and more fruitful relationship between Paris and Washington than was possible when Charles de Gaulle ruled.

For nearly 200 years, despite occasional tiffs, France and the United States considered one another fast friends. They were allies in two 20th century wars and that left a backlog of mutual esteem.

The Paris-Washington cold war began after De Gaulle became head of a Fifth Republic tailored to his liking, with strong authority in presidential hands. De Gaulle resented the United States as a competitor for authority and influence in European economics and politics. He regarded the U.S. dollar as an instrument of "economic colonization" in France and Western Europe.

A high point of his offensive to eject U.S. influence from Europe came in 1965 with an attack on the dollar. The French-American cold war extended to conflict over the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Vietnam, the Middle East, China and attitudes toward the Soviet Union.

Aware that France was no match for U.S. power, De Gaulle used economics as a political weapon, seeking to hit the Americans where it would hurt a lot—in the gold reserve basket.

France, like most of Western Europe newly prosperous because of the U.S. aid that rebuilt the war-shattered continent, had plenty of dollars from such sources as U.S. military expenses in France, tourists and U.S. business investment.

Using this wherewithal, De Gaulle decreed on New Year's Day, 1965, that France would convert into gold $300 million of its $1.3 billion hoard of dollars, in addition to the $500 million or so cashed regularly on an annual basis. It wasn't the amount so much as the obvious intent that hurt. The move threatened to undermine world confidence in the dollar, and President Lyndon B. Johnson took swift steps to reduce the amount of gold the United States had to hold, by law, to back the dollar.

Along with the economic attack, De Gaulle steered France's foreign policy toward a collision course with Washington. In 1966 he pulled France out of the military side of NATO. U.S. troops were obliged to leave France, abandoning what they could not take with them, which included nearly $1 billion worth of immovable installations.

By 1968 it was French policy to "discern" that the Soviet-Western cold war was over, that Moscow had pulled in its expansionist horns and there was nothing more for the West to fear.

When Georges Pompidou, a Gaullist, succeeded his resplendent chief in May 1969 the United States had cause to wonder if a hostile French policy might be long-lasting.

One of Richard M. Nixon's first major diplomatic forays as President had included a visit to France, only two months before De Gaulle would retire from office. The visit seemed to have had important impact.

The fact that Nixon put Pompidou at the top of the list of European leaders he chose to meet at the summit in advance of his prospective Peking and Moscow visits further suggested that the United States thought highly of French friendship. In turn it probably heightened the Nixon standing in France.

The Azores agreement, at least on the surface, seemed to clear away much of the negative French reaction to Nixon's Aug. 15 "new economic policy" bombshell. France thereafter had rejected U.S. pressure to revalue the franc upward, while in turn it pressured the United States to devalue the dollar.

Differences between the French and Americans seem to have narrowed. France has welcomed Nixon's initiative in mending relations with China. Paris never tires of pointing out that De Gaulle decided as long ago as 1964 to recognize Peking, at a time when such a move was highly unpopular with official Washington.

The French and Americans see more or less eye to eye on the problems of divided Germany. As for NATO, the French now are eager for U.S. troops to remain in West Europe, feeling that is the only way to assure development of a secure mode of life for both East and West.

Some differences—even sharp differences—remain in the policies of the two friends. But in general, the relationship has been progressing steadily back to a point where the abrasiveness of the De Gaulle era seems to have been greatly diminished.

Trio Robbed Elderly Couple

GERMANTON, N.C. (AP) —

Authorities report three men robbed an elderly couple of between $1,000 and $1,500 Wednesday after gaining entry to their home on the pretext of being doctors.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yates, who live in a rural area 10 miles from Winston-Salem, told authorities the men told them they wanted to examine them so that their Social Security benefits might be raised.

Lost Fight Against Rule

RALEIGH (AP) — A Burlington high school teacher, L.G. Guthrie, has failed in his effort to have thrown out the requirement that North Carolina public school teachers must renew their certificates every five years.

This came when the state Supreme Court ruled that the North Carolina Constitution gives the state Board of Education power over qualifications of teachers and their certification. It said this delegated the board the authority to establish rules as long as they did not violate the law.

Guthrie, then a teacher and assistant principal at Walter Williams High School, brought the case on behalf of himself and other teachers.

In its ruling, the Supreme Court upheld the decision of an Alamance County court which ruled for the defendants, the state Board of Education and the Burlington City School Board.

Associate Justice I. Beverly Lake, in writing the opinion in the case, said it was proper for the state to insist "that the teachers in its public schools keep their knowledge abreast" of changing times.

Drivers Die, 19 Head Of Cattle Killed In Crash

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — Two heavily laden tractor-trailer trucks, one carrying 109 head of cattle, collided on Interstate 85 Wednesday, injuring both drivers and killing 19 of the cattle.

Peter Subblet, 31, of Richmond, Va., driver of the double-decker cattle truck, and William Ashley Johnson, 48, of Goldsboro, whose truck was carrying a large tank, were admitted to a Warrenton hospital.

Highway patrolman V. R. Vaughan said both trucks were traveling northward. He said the accident occurred as the cattle truck started to pass the other truck and the second truck swerved causing a collision.

The cattle truck turned over and the other truck veered into the southbound lane and crashed into a bridge abutment.

Two Davidson Students Picked

GREENSBORO (AP) — Two Davidson College students have been selected as North Carolina's candidates for Rhodes scholarships, providing for study at Oxford University in England.

A selection committee Wednesday chose Daniel Gray Clodfelter of Thomasville and Lawrence H. Wilkinson of Greensboro. Clodfelter is president of the Student Government at Davidson and he is the top scholar in his class.

The selection committee was headed by former Gov. Terry Sanford, now president of Duke University.

Clodfelter and Wilkinson will compete against nominees from five other southeastern states in Atlanta this weekend. Four Rhodes scholars will be named from the district.

NO MORE WHALING — Leo Lady, captain of the whaling ship Donna Mae, poses with a harpoon gun on the craft as whaling ends in the United States. The U.S. Commerce Department ban on whaling went into effect Wednesday, putting an end to the U.S. whaling fleet that was once the mightiest in the world, with 750 ships in 1840. (AP Wirephoto)

The Worry Clinic Management Is Getting In Act

Note Jim's request for a "smorgasbord" address on personnel psychology as well as marital problems. The latter often reduce office and industrial efficiency! For an employee fearful of a divorce, or anxious about the "generation gap" between his children, works below par!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M. D.

Case S-546: Jim W., aged 35, is president of his regional management association.

"Dr. Crane," he telephoned, "we'd like for you to address our banquet session next month."

"It is to be the night we entertain our wives, so please show words: "Thank you."

(6) The 1 most important word: "I."

In a former column I gave you readers a somewhat similar list of motivating words, adapted to sweethearts, salesmen and clergymen, too.

Indeed, in modern industry, a series of splendid lectures in the field of Human Relations can be based on those 7 topics.

Clergymen might well employ them, also, for sermons.

If so, document them liberally with actual cases from your office, store or factory — or church parish.

Use concrete examples, as Christ did in his superb parables.

Some of my brilliant coeds at Northwestern University, who rated scholastic honors and a Phi Beta Kappa key, would actually shed tears in my office.

"Dr. Crane," they would plead, "what is wrong with me that I can't win boy friends?"

"But don't I look as attractive as other girls on campus?"

"And I dress well, use deodorants and exotic perfume!"

"So what is my trouble?"

Well, these girls were too high-brow!

They tried to toot their own horn in philosophical discussions and make a graduate "seminar" out of the dialogue on their dates.

The popular coeds, who were swamped with boy friends, merely used the above items as No. 3, No. 4, No. 5, and No. 6

CARDS BEGAN IN 1875
NEW YORK (AP) — The first American Christmas cards were made in 1875 in Roxbury, Mass., by Louis Prang, a lithographer who had perfected a process of color printing about 100 years ago, says Irving Cohen, president of a card shop chain.

Prang's early cards were acclaimed the world over and the few remaining today are considered collectors' items.

The auction in today's hand should have provided West with all the information he required to uncover the killing opening against South's four heart contract.

North opened the bidding with one spade and South responded with two hearts. Over the rebid of three clubs, South repeated his hearts instead of showing the diamonds—it is usually advisable to rebid the six card suit before naming the four carder.

When North bid four clubs, South now showed his distribution by bidding four diamonds. Alerted to the fact that his partner had six hearts, North offered a delayed preference to four hearts and the auction subsided.

West opened the jack of clubs and the king was played from dummy. Declarer continued with the ace, the connection between personnel psychology and happy home relations."

Management Strategy
Bravo to management, which spark plugs our superior American industrial system!

Special college courses are now scheduled on Personnel Psychology.

But back in 1924, I pioneered such a course while teaching at George Washington University in our national capital.

However, the polysyllabic axioms in the thick textbook I employed at that time can be abridged greatly.

For example, I recently received a clever little one-page message from the Gary Office Equipment Company.

The title on that sheet of paper was:

"A Short Course in Human Relations," as follows:

(1) The 6 most important words: "I admit I made a mistake."
(2) The 5 most important words: "You did a good job."
(3) The 4 most important words: "What is your opinion?"

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By DUANE WILLIAMS
The Christmas spirit hit Conley this week as door decorations went up all over the school. Doors were judged on the basis of originality and beauty. The doors were decorated by students of their prospective classes. Winners were Mrs. Beulah Mebane, Richard McLawhorn, and Mrs. Allen Gore. Mrs. Kathryn Lewis, and Miss Ala Ray Taylor. We, the students of D.H. Conley, would like to extend our thanks to these people for the time they gave to our school.

Ecology Club
The Ecology Club is sponsoring a campus beautification drive to improve the looks of our campus. They have just planted trees in the open court and they plan to plant some more trees in the front of the school.

One of our senior English classes presented three performances of a tragedy Oedipus the King, for the entire student body. From reports I have received, it seems that the play was very entertaining and well done. We would like to congratulate the English class in this great undertaking.

The choir of D.H. Conley directed by Miss Dianne Finnegan, performed in Tarrytown Mall Monday night. The choir performed a number of Christmas carols to the lights of the Magic Christmas tree. We are very proud of our choir for being chosen to sing this yearly event.

Sports
Attention sports enthusiasts! The winning streak of the basketball teams is now sixteen with the J.V. 6-0, the girls 5-1, and the Varsity 6-0 and leading the conference. This week, the Vikings shot down the Jaguars of Farnville Central and also the North Lenoir Hawks. In the North Lenoir game, David Pugh took high honors with 19 points. Coach Steve Morgan is leading the wrestling team right on up this year with a 3-0 record. The latest victim was Ayden-Grifton Chargers who were stamped 57-10. Keep on moving team!

A new radio program is now carried on the intercom of D.H. Conley every Friday afternoon. Charles Allen presides as master of ceremonies and organizes the program. Current happenings of the school are discussed and featured speakers are interviewed. The show is called "Vi-Kon Talk-In" and is getting better every week.

The Vocational Industrial Club of America held the initiation for its members and officers. The club is led by president, Liz Byrd. V.I.C.A. helps to introduce students to different vocational occupations and vocational opportunities in life.

The Future Homemakers of America Club decorated the school's Christmas tree in the student commons area Sunday afternoon. The F.H.A. decorated the tree in honor of the senior citizens. Congratulations, club, for a beautiful tree!

The second edition of THE SHIELD is scheduled to go out Friday afternoon. The newspaper staff and its advisor, Mrs. Helen McClanahan, have again done a fine job and have spent many long hours working on the paper. We hope the paper's a great success.

Since school is dismissed for Christmas holidays on December 17, this will be the last of Conley news till we return to school January 3. I would like to say Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all.

Regional Roles In Museums, Historical Societies Pushed

By H.G. Jones, Director N.C. Dept. of Archives, History Written for the AP

Community interest and involvement was the over-all topic of a southeast regional workshop on the administration of historical societies and museums conducted last week in Raleigh.

Sponsored by the American Association for State and Local History with the assistance of the National Endowment for the Humanities, the workshop brought to North Carolina about 80 persons from the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, and Puerto Rico.

The North Carolina meeting, hosted by the state Department of Archives and History, was the second of eight such workshops to be conducted around the country by the American Association for State and Local History during 1971 and 1972. The first was held in Wilmington, Del., during October.

Following an informal reception Thursday night at the restored 1813 State Bank Building, now operated by NCNB in Raleigh, two days of instructional sessions were begun Friday morning at the Archives and History-State Library Building.

Included among the faculty and topics Friday were "Educational Programs for the Community," led by Richard Haupt, director of the Cincinnati (Ohio) Historical Society, and "Developing an Oral History Program," conducted by Peter Olch, assistant director of the History of Medicine Division of the National Library of Medicine in Washington.

Chain Letter Still Illegal

The Greenville Post Office has been notified by the Postal Inspection authorities that a chain-letter scheme involving United States savings bonds is in operation.

Inspector Leo C. Shatzel gave the following information concerning the illegal scheme: The operation involves two $18.75 savings bonds and a list containing names and addresses of various persons. The list is sold to a "Customer." The buyer gives one bond to the seller of the list and, in his presence, mails a second bond to the person whose name appears first on the list, Shatzel said.

The first name is then removed from the list and the new participant adds his name to the bottom, makes two copies and sells the list to two other persons.

The idea is to reap rich harvest of bonds as the person's name reaches the top.

Shatzel warned that such schemes, in addition to being illegal, always turn out so that the few who start them get back more than their investments while others lose their money.

Participants may be prosecuted under the fraud and lottery laws, Shatzel said. He urged anyone receiving such a letter to notify local postal inspectors or the office of the Inspector in Charge, Chattanooga, Tenn. 37401.

AASLH workshop director John R. Kerwood led an informal discussion on the "Promotion of the Humanities through Historical Societies."

Saturday's program included a session on "Interpreting Historic Sites and Buildings," presented by Raymond F. Pisney, assistant administrator; John D. Ellington, curator of exhibits; and Larry Misenheimer, audiovisual specialist, all with the Historic Sites and Museums Division of the State Department of Archives and History.

Mary Claire Peden, manager and curator of the Gunston Hall Plantation in Lorton, Va., spoke on "Membership Promotion and Development," and the workshop was concluded by a slide presentation on "North Carolina's Historical Architecture" presented by John B. Wells III and Janet Seapker, who works with the statewide survey of historic places being conducted by the State Department of Archives and History.

Participants in the workshop were all salaried employees or volunteers engaged in the program of a historical society, agency, or museum. The Humanities Endowment-funded workshops are designed to center on the solution of basic problems confronting persons involved in historically oriented activities, with special emphasis on various ways historical organizations can reach and involve the communities they serve.

HEW Admits Some Goofs In Desegregation Funds

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Federal efforts to deaden the pain of full school desegregation in the South cost about $43 million last year. It will cost almost that much this year.

The government maintains most of the money has been well spent — but some critics disagree. The critics say the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which disburses the desegregation assistance through the Emergency School Assistance Program (ESAP), doesn't keep a close enough eye on who gets the money and how it's spent. HEW reluctantly admits making a few mistakes, but emphasizes they weren't many and won't be repeated.

The program is national in scope but the South claimed the major portion when the funds were first distributed last year and the situation is unchanged this year. More than $70 million is available nationwide, $40 million of it going to the Southeast.

The program was initiated by Congress in 1970 as federal courts ordered hundreds of schools across the South to wipe out, once and for all, the dual school system. Integration moved ahead in a quantum leap but school officials complained it was too much and too soon.

They said that since federal courts were to blame for the turmoil, the federal government should meet the cost of smoothing out integration. The result was ESAP which, in its first year, financed 600

Southern school desegregation projects. The money paid for such things as new instructional materials, teaching aides, motivation seminars for teachers working for the first time in a fully desegregated environment, counseling services and a variety of other activities.

Criticism of the program has been brisk from the start. Some politicians have said the government shouldn't be spending the money at all. They have argued that the Nixon administration is using the funds as "hush money" to keep local discontent over school integration within politically manageable limits.

Both the administration and HEW have shrugged off that argument as scarcely worthy of an answer. "We have an obligation to help ameliorate turmoil in the schools if it is caused by integration," said a regional HEW official. "Such a program is necessary now and will be until there is a marked change in social attitudes."

Other critics argue that the program has been loosely monitored and that money was spent — at least occasionally — in ways that perpetuated segregation.

HEW defends its administration of the program, saying it was put together hastily last year to meet pressing need for assistance. It points out that at least 10 projects lost funds during the first year and scores of others weren't approved as a result of the agency's close checking. HEW says control of the program has been tightened up this year, but maintains it is physically impossible to monitor all projects.

"We've put more men in the field to see recipients of the money are spending it as they assured us they would," said Dick Alexander, who helps run the program for HEW's Office of Education. Programs, he said, are monitored only on a "random basis."

Since last year, the regional office has been stripped of the final say on whether a program will be approved. That power now resides in Washington.

Alexander was asked whether internal politics — internecine haggling among the bureaucrats — or last year's performance prompted Washington to shift the power. Sitting in his office in a Peachtree Street building, Alexander fell silent and turned to gaze at a window.

"I guess you noticed the pall of silence," he said. Alexander says that "99.44 per cent of the funds are being spent for what they were intended. There are isolated cases where that may not be true — but, as I say, they are isolated."

"I know of one guy who got some money and bought a car with it for his personal use," said Alexander.

There were serious abuses last year, prompting six civil rights and research organizations to undertake an investigation. They concluded that over half of the districts receiving assistance should have been declared ineligible because they routinely practiced discrimination.

HEW Admits . . .

 HEW did not dispute the report, which received little publicity.
 Luther Munford of Jackson, Miss., undertook a study for the foundation-supported Southern Regional Council, an Atlanta based research organization that monitors desegregation in the region. He reported a few months ago that his survey of 30 Mississippi districts showed those receiving assistance were likely to be discriminating against black pupils and teachers.
 The South Pike County district was found to be using $8,900 in federal assistance for a busing plan that insured white schools would have only a few black pupils, even though the system was two-thirds black. The busing and expenditure of the federal funds violated a federal judge's order for the system to desegregate fully. The Justice Department finally intervened.
 Munford and others believe the incident showed ESAP officials are inclined to place too much faith in the word of Southern school officials. "Those people won't like to you," says Alexander. The Mississippi district, he said, "was out of gear."
 ESAP officials have also been accused of spending too little time checking out applications, especially those submitted by community organizations. Ten per cent of the assistance is going to such groups this year.
 Prodded into action by a newspaper, ESAP officials and the office of the state's attorney in Florida are currently investigating two questionable applications from "community organization" groups in Florida.

 The Boca Raton News reported the applications contained false and misleading information that went undetected by HEW until called to its attention by the paper. ESAP finally turned down one application, not because it had independently found something suspicious — but because another group submitted a better proposal, said the newspaper.
 ESAP approved a partial grant to the other group singled out by the paper, but later froze the money when questions were raised about the proposal.
 "What we discovered in our investigation of the matter was that HEW apparently was not checking out these proposals," said editor Davis Merritt. "If they had checked, they could have found on their own what we found. It raises serious questions — national questions — when you consider the implications."
 HEW says no money has been paid and contends it was only a matter of time until it raised its own questions about the applications. "They haven't gotten a cent," said a HEW information officer in the Atlanta office.
 ESAP is attempting to monitor 380 projects in the South with 20 field men, plus a small backup force in Washington, said Alexander. The agency admits that is too few men but says it was much more serious last year when fewer people monitored over a new program and many more projects.

Despite that, HEW has experienced some notable successes in efforts to insure program funds are properly used and that school districts stick by their word.
 The Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N.C., system was found to have sold surplus furniture to a private school which had not adopted a policy of nondiscrimination against blacks. This violated ESAP guidelines so the district, largest in North Carolina, lost $1.3 million in federal desegregation assistance this year. Without it, they would have been required to use local money for the projects.
 The Duval County board has filed a federal court suit to force HEW to come up with an additional $750,000 which ESAP money in the South was used last year for busing, but under new administration policy that is no longer allowed. Thus, many districts required to bus large numbers of pupils are using the money for imaginative new projects.

 Jacksonville Duval County, Fla., Nashville Davidson County, Tenn., and Mobile, Ala., three of the largest cities in the region under busing orders, will receive about $5 million in desegregation assistance this year. Without it, they would have been required to use local money for the projects.
 The Duval County board has filed a federal court suit to force HEW to come up with an additional $750,000 which the district proposes to use for busing, despite administration policy. Meanwhile, HEW says the Florida district will receive funds for projects within current policy.

 Mobile County, which operates Alabama's largest school district, is receiving about $1.5 million for use in solving a number of problems. Mobile's application for the grant shed light on at least one problem arising from the broadened desegregation.
 "Desegregation has created classrooms of students with more diverse individual abilities than teachers are accustomed to providing for," said the district. It pointed out that because of this, individualized instructional materials were in short supply, classrooms were overcrowded and "teachers need to be informed of new ways to cope with the diversity which confronts them."

 The district used ESAP money to hire 200 teaching aides and finance a series of seminars in which black and white teachers exchange ideas. HEW says it has been keeping a close eye on the district.
 One of the most ambitious and potentially important ESAP projects was proposed by Nashville, scene of a series of antibusing demonstrations earlier this year. The system proposes to use federal funds to underwrite a model preschool program that would demonstrate "the viable concept of quality integrated education."

 Such a school, said Nashville school officials, could develop a program "to demonstrate that young children do not suffer ill effects from bus transportation."
 About half of Nashville's pupils are being bused under a federal court order.

Committee.
 The committee had been presented with two rival resolutions, each wanting to name an official state Santa Claus. The politicians dodged the issue by congratulating both contenders and declining to establish any hierarchy.
 Vying for top Santa were Leo Konwinski of Iron River and Kenneth-Burden of Marshall. Both have been playing Santa Claus for more than 20 years. Konwinski has even grown his own beard.
 "We're thanking the two gentlemen for their work in the two communities on the Santa Claus bit," said Committee Chairman James E. O'Neil Jr. "But it would be a tragic mistake to designate one official Santa."

Teacher Sometimes Forgets

DALLAS, N.C. (AP) — Totally blind Nancy Brooks, who has been teaching a class of mentally retarded children at a day care center, says, "I forgot a long time ago that I was blind while I am teaching these children."

Her pupils were scarcely aware that 22-year-old Miss Brooks cannot see.

And the teacher adds, "I've never been happier than when I'm teaching these children."

Miss Brooks is a natural story teller who spins a tale of Peter Rabbit or the Three Bears while holding a book and turning its pages, her German Shepherd, named Miss Katie Brooks, beside her.

In fact, the teacher regards Miss Katie as an asset. "When I teach the children to be kind to animals, I point out that we are kind to Katie. And even in discipline, she's wonderful because I can use her as an example."

"I can say to the children, 'See how Katie sits down? If Katie can sit down, why can't you?'"

Miss Brooks had each child's name printed in Braille on the back of individual health charts, and with the assistance of an aide who reported on such things as dirty hands, she kept track of brushed teeth and the like. A small square of tape marked the day of the week, so Miss Brooks could tell which day it is.

She has not always been totally blind. At birth she had a little sight in one eye. The other had to be removed when she was 10, and the one that remained had to be taken six years later.

But having been able to see for part of her life is a beautiful memory. "When I'm told something is red or green or big or lovely, I know what it means. I'll never forget some of the beautiful things I've seen—lakes, trees, fields, flowers."

After attending the state-supported Governor Morehead School for the blind in Raleigh for 13 years, Miss Brooks went to Western Carolina University. There she took Braille notes instead of using a tape recorder—"The recorder made me lazy"—and got assistance from other students.

She will receive a degree in special education there in the spring.

While in high school the Monroe native worked at a summer camp for the blind, where she says, "I became interested in the special needs of retarded children."

She says those youths have "difficulty in doing things that blind children had no trouble with—well, like putting on a pair of shorts with an elastic top. You don't have to see to be able to do this, but if you're retarded it can be a real problem."

"These children I'm teaching here—they are children first and mentally retarded children them."

second. I wish, of course, that their mental retardation could be wiped away, but it can't be. And I don't feel sorry for Miss Brooks' practice teaching ended this month, and she returned to Western Carolina for semester exams.

Another Former Movie Star Authors A Book

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Shirley MacLaine hit the best-seller lists with "Don't Fall Off the Mountain." Tom Tryon with "The Other," and Hildegard Knef with "The Gift Horse." More and more performers are seeking the gold and glory of the literary world.

Lawrence Welk, the author, has sold 125,000 copies of his memoirs, "Wunderful, Wunderful." Ruth Gordon made the lists with her reminiscences, "Myself Among Others." Julie Andrews supplied Harper & Row with its best-selling children's book in years, "Mandy."

Latest to join the author-star sweepstakes is Evelyn Keyes. Movie fans of the 1940s and the late show will recall her in the Ruby Keeler role of "The Jolson Story." She played one of Scarlett O'Hara's sisters in

"Gone with the Wind." She was also noted for a tempestuous marriage to John Houston and a surprisingly placid one to Artie Shaw. She is the longest-lasting of his wives; they are still wed after 15 years.

"I Am a Billboard" concerns a Southern beauty who comes to California, has a teen-age marriage, gets discovered for films and has a wild love match with a famous director. Pretty much the Evelyn Keyes

Plan Kennedy Center Concerts

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, in its third season, is going to give the last two of three Saturday evening concerts in Kennedy Center, in March and April.

If it is well received, this will lead to a permanent affiliation under which the Lincoln Center group will become the resident music organization at Kennedy Center as well.

It Began With Spirit Worship

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Christmas tree had its beginning in one of the oldest forms of worship known to mankind, that of spirit worship. In the Black Forest of Germany, tribesmen each winter cut down and brought into their homes an oak tree in tribute to the god Odin, whose spirit was believed to inhabit the tree. In the 8th Century, at the urging of St. Boniface, an English missionary to Germany, the oak tree was replaced by a fir tree in honor of the Christ Child.

story. "I suppose it might be called autobiographical; you write about what you know," she remarked. "At least one part is recognizable."

Still blonde and beautiful, Miss Keyes keeps her hand in acting. She did a television pilot and two English television shows during the past year. This was her return to Hollywood after a dozen years, and she finds it much changed.

"I'm glad I left," she said. "Hollywood would be the worst place to be if you have been a 'glamor girl' and find yourself getting older. I don't mind it at all. I've found something else—writing—that gives me more satisfaction than I ever knew in films."

Houston, Tex., is the nation's third largest port.

Check License Of Solicitors

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ask to see the license of solicitors who rattle a tin can under your nose during Christmas shopping. Usually, the solicitor asks for funds on behalf of needy children, according to the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York. Reserve your donations for the legitimate charities that need them, the Bureau suggests.

Santa Claus Has Ancient Origin

NEW YORK (UPI)—The legend of Santa Claus, his reindeer and his visit via chimney has ancient origins. The belief that Santa has a reindeer-drawn sleigh and enters houses through the chimney comes from Scandinavia. It developed from a Norse legend about the goddess Hertha, who rode on a reindeer's back. Her appearance in the fireplace in midwinter brought good luck to the home.

LUTHER AND LIGHTS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Martin Luther was probably the first person to light a Christmas tree by placing candles on it for his children—"to bring the stars indoors."

Chagall Book is Priced At $37

NEW YORK (AP) — "Chagall at the Met," a critical appreciation of Marc Chagall's designs and murals at the Metropolitan Opera, with text by art critic Emily Genauer, has been published in a limited edition and is on sale at the Met Gift Shop for $37.50.

The book contains an introduction by Sir Rudolf Bing, personal observations by Chagall and 52 full-page color reproductions. These are of the original sketches for "The Magic Flute" and studies and sketches for the two large Chagall murals which hang in the upper foyer of the opera house.

The book measures 10 1/2 by 14 inches, has 150 pages and was printed and bound in Paris.

Russians Discover New Sport: Bowling

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI)—The man who said you can't do business with the Russians never tried to sell them bowling alleys. Or, for that matter, roller coasters.

Roger Bensiger tried bowling alleys this summer, despite the fact that until now the Russians didn't know a bowling ball from cannon shot.

The result? Bensiger's firm will install 24 bowling lanes in a bowling center the Russians are building for July, 1972 opening. It will be the introduction of the sport into the Soviet Union.

"It was very different from doing business in this country," Bensiger said. "There was tremendous curiosity and tremendous politeness.

"We had in excess of 40,000 visitors to our exhibit and there wasn't a fingerprint left on the walls."

Bensiger, executive vice president of the Bowling Division of Brunswick Corporation, went to Moscow last summer after his firm was invited to participate in "Attraction '71," a recreational exhibition at Gorki Park sponsored by the Soviet Ministry of Culture.

"There were 60 exhibits from 14 or 15 countries—primarily European countries," Bensiger said in an interview. "The Japanese were represented very broadly and there were two American companies—Brunswick and another firm selling roller coasters."

Bensiger said all literature and visual aids had to be previewed by exhibit personnel but no problems arose.

In setting up the exhibit itself—a 400 square foot inflatable tent to house two complete bowling lanes—the Russians were very cooperative and efficient.

"When we asked for help they were there," Bensiger said. "They seemed to feel an unusual sense of pride—in contrast to some exhibit centers in the United States."

Another Russian trait was punctuality. "When the statement was made that someone would come to see you at a certain time," Bensiger said, "they were there."

The exhibit ran from Aug. 10 to Aug. 31, with the hours from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. devoted to official visitors and prospective customers within the Soviet Union, and the hours from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. devoted to the general public—about 1,000 a day.

"The first time a group of officials would come through," Bensiger said, "there might be mechanical experts. They would be greatly interested in trying to understand the mechanics of bowling. Another group might be physical education specialists. During their first exposure they would be reserved except for technical questions and extracting information.

"Since the exhibit went on for 21 days, many officials returned time and time again as a consensus developed that bowling was a worthwhile thing. They became far less reserved. Eventually the thing they wanted to do was bowl.

"Once they tried it they were pleasantly surprised that they could take a 10 to 16 pound ball, throw it down the lane and see the pins fall."

He said that after the first two weeks it seemed obvious by the amount of time being spent at the bowling exhibit that the Russians were interested and formal bargaining began.

"Final negotiations began at four in the afternoon of the last day and were concluded at 10:30 p.m. I was surprised at their decisiveness—I was told negotiating with the Russians was a very long and arduous process."

He advised businessmen dealing with the Russians to be prepared to answer a wide range of technical questions, without any "I'll get in touch with you later on that" delays.

"Once the business at hand is discussed, be prepared for Russians to be more interested in you as human beings," Bensiger said, "than in any commercial exhibit you might be involved with at home."

The Russians can be very generous—to a fault. Bensiger said at a reception on the third day of the exhibit he complimented a woman responsible for architectural planning of recreation parks on the necklace she wore. She immediately took it off and presented it to him.

He couldn't refuse and didn't know how to reciprocate—until someone suggested how much winter-weary Muscovites love flowers. The woman official was delighted with a bouquet.

Bensiger was gratified at the success "fundamental American marketing techniques" achieved in Moscow but said he was not at liberty to reveal the price the Russians paid for the bowling alleys.

Asked how his fellow exhibitors fared, Bensiger said: "Oh, the Russians bought something from every exhibit—including the roller coaster."

$3,700 Tagged To Finance Fish

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A $3,700 check from an Adrian, Mich., firm paid to compensate for accidentally killing about 24,000 fish in the Raisin River, will be used for sport fishery improvements.

The Bohn Aluminum & Brass Co. gave the fishery department the check after admitting the fish were killed when nitric acid was accidentally released in the river.

Blight Wedded Britons To Tea

CHICAGO (UPI)—A plant blight 100 years ago not only kept the English wedded to tea but made South America the world's coffee growing center.

Beginning in the 1870s, says Encyclopaedia Britannica, an epidemic of coffee rust hit Ceylon and is credited with helping keep the English confirmed tea drinkers.

When the rust destroyed the thriving Ceylonese coffee industry, new plantations turned to tea. South America then became the world's principal coffee producer.

Florence Plans Build A Subway

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI)—Florence is planning to become the third Italian city after Rome and Milan to give itself a subway.

According to a tentative blueprint, subway lines through the center of the city would pass under the middle of streets to avoid weakening foundations of historic buildings.

Be One-Handed In Safety Step

CHICAGO (UPI)—For safety, be one-handed with the water-electricity contacts in the kitchen, the National Safety Council cautions. That means avoid touching an electrical current source with one hand while you contact a ground, such as a water faucet, with the other. And also, disconnect appliance cords at wall outlets. Dangling electric cords remain energized—and deadly if they fall into water.

Horn-Honkers Being Hobbled

SINGAPORE (UPI)—Motorists in Singapore who use unorthodox car horns risk violating traffic laws.

The Registrar of Vehicles reports six motorists were ordered to dismantle their horns after complaints from the public that five of them used "musical" horns and one had a high-pitched air horn.

Robersonville Plans Celebrate Its 100th Birthday

ROBERSONVILLE — Men will be encouraged to honor their forefathers by growing a mustache or sideburns and the ladies are being asked to go old fashioned by wearing a bonnet, apron and an old fashioned dress as this Martin County town comes into the homestretch of its first century.

Donnie M. Hardison, chairman of the celebration, reports that all the people and businesses, as well as schools, civic groups, and churches are being asked to take part in a variety of special events that will be staged.

April, 1972 is the month of celebrating the centennial. Hardison reveals that in April, the following main events have been tentatively scheduled:

April 20 and 21 — "Old Fashioned Bargain Days." For this occasion, wooden nickels will again come back into use. Store personnel will be dressed in gay, old fashioned clothes of a century ago. Historical relics and displays will be featured on the streets.

On the evening of April 21, the "Centennial Queen's Cotillion" will be held with the presentation of five finalists for the title of "Centennial Queen" and her princesses of the Royal Court of Honor.

April 22 — "Homecoming Day" will see the official opening of Centennial Headquarters and all exhibits and displays. Visitors and dignitaries will register in the morning. To proclaim the opening hour, fire sirens and church bells will be used. City, county and state officials are expected to attend opening ceremonies, and the oldest senior citizen of the town will cut the Centennial Birthday Cake.

In the afternoon the major parade of the Centennial celebrations will take place, with bands and drum and bugle corps from across the state. Floats, old cars, horse drawn vehicles and other attractions will make up the parade.

On the night of April 22, entertainment will center on the major event of the celebration, a historical spectacular depicting the dramatic highlights of the history of Robersonville.

April 23 — Churches on this Sunday will observe the theme "Religious Endeavors — in Robersonville." In the afternoon, individual church picnics and socials, open house programs for churches, and old fashioned hymn sings will be the featured activities. A second performance of the historical spectacular will take place that evening.

April 24 — On this day, farmers, merchants and educators will be honored, beginning with a pancake and sausage breakfast. Visiting exhibits will feature agricultural and industrial events, with open houses at all schools in the afternoon, culminated by a tea honoring teachers. A third performance of the historical spectacular will take place in the evening.

April 25 — Ladies day, with a round of coffee and card parties will be followed by a homemaker's fair. Baked goods, canned goods, needlecraft, art and flower arranging will be judged and awards given. At noon, pot luck luncheons for churches, clubs and individuals honoring outstanding women in Robersonville. Garden tea parties will be an afternoon feature, with awards given for the oldest costume and the best copy of an old costume. A fourth performance of the historical spectacular will close the day's festivities.

April 26 — "Brotherhood Day" is the theme to be observed, with coffee served to men as they go to work. Open house will be conducted at civic, fraternal and patriotic organizations. Following a picnic luncheon, men's competitive sporting events will take place to include a softball game, horseshoe tournament, a tug of war, fly-casting and other events. The final performance of the historical spectacle will take place.

April 27 — Youth Day marks the final day of the week long centennial celebration. Working in cooperation with public officials, the young people will have a Youth Hobby show by clubs, ending up with a Youth feature pets, decorated floats students, Scouts, and school Parade in the afternoon that will and costumes.

Many Rely On Self-Insurance

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Did you ever wonder who pays the expenses of recalling a product found to be faulty? If you have, you've probably assumed it was an insurance company. But chances are it wasn't.

Large, financially strong companies so far have chosen to rely on self-insurance. Many smaller companies are badly exposed, with neither the insurance or the capability of surviving a recall.

Such companies are facing growing risks and maybe even bankruptcy as their products encounter government and customer vigilance against items considered to be health or safety hazards.

The federal Food and Drug Administration alone ordered the recall of more than 1,400 products last year, up more than 500 from a year earlier. The list included 365 foods, 927 drugs, 90 devices, and 44 cosmetics.

Despite this, only a tiny percentage of companies have bothered to buy recall insurance. In the entire country it is estimated that only about 200 companies have such coverage, despite its availability since 1966.

Industry officials claim the unpopularity of the insurance can't be traced to any reluctance to publicize on their part, but a random check of several companies reveals considerable ignorance of such policies.

Some manufacturers apparently believe their standard liability policies offer protection, which they do not. Such policies protect against claims of injury or damage but do not provide coverage for recalls.

Recall insurance pays the cost of notifying distributors and consumers to discontinue using a product as well as the actual withdrawal cost.

Also included are costs of stationery, postage, telephone and telegraph, advertisements, employe overtime and outside hired help and the costs of unusual disposal problems, such as might be involved in disposing of aerosol can.

To qualify for the insurance, which is available to practically any manufacturer, a company usually is required to present a plan of withdrawal, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

Typically, a policy requires that the insured pay at least the first $1,000 in costs and then participate to some extent—10 per cent or 20 per cent—in expenses above that figure.

Because of the scanty experience with the insurance, rates so far are not standardized but depend heavily on the assessment of the individual applicants.

An Old-Fashioned Christmas Tree At Birthplace

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP) — Eighteen children from a Head-Start school have decorated a Christmas tree with paper cut-outs and popcorn chains at former President Lyndon B. Johnson's birthplace.

The decorations are the same type used when the Johnson family moved to this central Texas community in the early 1900s.

The tree was decorated for a Christmas celebration next Sunday at the white frame house where Johnson was born in 1908.

Nicolas Veloz Jr., acting superintendent of the LBJ birthplace, said National Park Service employes will pass out cookies to visitors Sunday at the birthplace and Johnson's boyhood home in Johnson City, 20 miles east of here.

Israel Expects Tourist Crowds

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is ready for its biggest Christmas since capturing Bethlehem in 1967, the Tourism Ministry reported Tuesday.

As many as 35,000 visitors were expected before the end of the year, a tourism official predicted. About 20,000 pilgrims visited Israel last year.

A report broadcast by the state radio told, however, of cancellation of hotel reservations because of increased tension in the Middle East.

Origins Told In A Tinsel Tale

NEW YORK (UPI)—Tinsel on a Christmas tree, how it started—according to a Ukrainian legend: Long ago a poor widow had a tree but could afford no ornaments. When she awoke on Christmas morning she found a spider had spun its web over the entire tree and the moonlight of Christmas eve had turned it to silver. The widow's children were delighted.

The Queen's English Is Something Else

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
 Associated Press Writer
 LONDON (AP) — "A lorry pranged the banger in the boot and I hadn't the readies to get it out of the ricky, so do you fancy taking the tube to the cinema or slipping round to the local for a pint?"

That's the kind of overheard remark that can make an American tourist in London think something's gone wrong with his ears. It means, as anyone who took English lessons before coming over here might be able to figure out:

"A truck smashed into the trunk of my car and I didn't have the money to fix it, so do you want to take the subway to the movies or go to the neighborhood bar for a beer?"

George Bernard Shaw, the "My Fair Lady" playwright, once mused that what separated the United States from Britain wasn't the Atlantic Ocean, it was the English language. And he wasn't kidding—or taking the mickey.

Now the British Council—the government agency that sends scholars to remote places like Dacca and Addis Ababa to teach the pristine tones of Oxford English to the natives—predicts in its annual report that English will be the most widely spoken language in the world by the end of the century.

Just listening to the different use of words by Americans and Englishmen, the ear boggles at what might happen once the language gets into the mouths of, say, Tibetans.

Slang, of course, which changes all the time, is bound to be different on opposite sides of the Atlantic. But even the most commonplace conversation reveals linguistic rifts wrought by American independence from the mother tongue.

A U.S. garbage can is an English dustbin. Sweets are candies. A chemist's shop is a drugstore, and a draper's shop is a dry-goods store. Gasoline is petrol. An American buys things on installments, but an Englishman gets them on hire-purchase—often called the never-never plan.

"The Americans often make words complicated," explains one British Council philologist. "They have automobiles and we have cars. They have exterminating engineers and we still have rat catchers. We have lifts and they have elevators—I'm surprised they don't call them vertical personnel distributors."

Even pronunciation can be confusing. For yes, an American may say yeah or yep, while a class Englishman might mutter something like earce, rhyming with pierce. An English "no" is often pronounced near.

Other English-speaking countries have chosen sides and stuck with them. Thus Canadian speech is virtually indistinguishable from the American next door, but Australians, New Zealanders and South Africans speak fairly pure English English.

"Americans began changing the language almost as soon as they got off the Mayflower," explains the British Council scholar. "They saw new things and met new conditions. And immigration into America brought all sorts of influences that changed the language. Negroes developed their own slang in the ghettos.

"Immigration into Australia, for example, was much more English and the English in-

Extra Effort In Holiday Traffic

NEW YORK (UPI)—During the Christmas season many families make extra efforts to drive hundreds of miles to be with relatives.

The Consumers Insurance Information Bureau, noting that the holiday weekends are high auto accident times, offers these tips for those contemplating long auto trips:

- Avoid peak traffic hours and the most congested roads. There are indications that an early afternoon start is not best. The noon to 6 p.m. period on the day before a long weekend produces peak traffic deaths.
- Make sure car lights and signals are operating.
- Clean headlights, taillights and all windows thoroughly inside and out.
- Check Cooling System
- Never wear sunglasses after dark. They may reduce glare but they also cut vision.
- Tobacco users should give the inside windows an extra good cleaning. Smoke clings to glass and leaves an oil residue which causes faster steaming of windows. Paper towels absorb both moisture and residue best. Keep a roll under the front seat for quick use. Do not use bare hands or gloves.

- Have a mechanic completely check the cooling system. Make sure heater and defroster are working properly and have him check all engine hoses and give the system a pressure test.
- How's the antifreeze?
- Replace windshield wipers. They probably deteriorated in the summer sun and will streak the windshield. Have an antifreeze added to the windshield washer solution.
- Stretch Your Legs
- Check tires, brakes and wheel alignment. If you're going near cold weather country, have snow treads or studded tires put on. At least carry chains. A shovel, flares, blankets and first aid kit can be helpful.
- Take it easy. Don't push too hard. Even if it takes an hour or so longer, stop frequently for coffee or a snack. Get out and stretch your legs.
- Never drive without a window or vent partially open. Exhaust fumes are not always detectable and can bring on drowsiness.
- Make sure everyone buckles up and latches the doors.

Russian Christmas Just Omits Christ

By JAMES O. JACKSON
 MOSCOW (UPI)—At Christmas time, Russia has everything that America has. Everything, that is, except Christ.

A Western stranger visiting this officially atheist nation at the end of December would see very little that differs from New York or Chicago. Colored lights, decorated trees, gift-laden shoppers and images of a bearded, befringed old man delivering toys on a sled.

But the Russian Christmas season has been carefully shorn of any religious meaning. The ancient pagan trappings of Christmas were adopted wholesale by the Communist regime, and transferred to the New Year celebration.

Except for a distinct Russian flavor, those trappings could have come straight from New York's 42nd Street.

The hero of the season is "Ded Moroz" (Grandfather Frost), a jolly old man with a white beard, bright red nose and fur-lined clothing. He rides in a sleigh drawn by a traditional three-horse troika, and delivers gifts to children who have been good all year long.

Girl Aide

To assist him Ded Moroz has a beautiful, golden-haired girl named "Snegurochka" (Snow Maiden), who is so delicate she melts away when New Year's is over.

The Russian New Year at its most typical can be seen in Moscow's huge Detsky Mir (Children's World) department store, billed as the world's biggest toy store.

The tall central hall contains a 50-foot-high fir tree, called a "yolka," whose boughs sag with decorations, colored lights, dolls, candies and gifts. Beneath it tens of thousands of shoppers team through the aisles in search of gifts to be delivered on New Year's Eve to the city's children.

For many Muscovites the gift delivery is arranged by a factory New Year committee which provides a costumed Ded Moroz and Snegurochka to drive to apartments of factory workers with bags full of toys.

After the children have been put to bed, Russian parents commence celebrating New Year's Eve in a style that has not changed for centuries: eating, drinking and dancing until dawn.

Religious Xmas

A religious Christmas still exists in the Soviet Union. But it is a somber, little-noticed one. The Russian Orthodox Christmas is celebrated with an eight-hour Midnight Mass in the few remaining churches that continue to function.
