Another Round Slated Wednesday

Planes Raid Targets In N. Vietnam For 3rd Day

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Flight after flight of U.S. warplanes struck at targets in North Vietnam today for the third day in a row. Radio Hanoi claimed one more jet—the sixth since the weekend—was shot down in Monday's raids.

Informants said another round of strikes is planned for Wednesday, sustaining the biggest bombing campaign since the halt in full-scale attacks more than three years ago. Superseding an earlier broadcast, Radio Hanoi said tonight that one jet was shot down Monday over Quang Binh Province, just above the demilitarized zone. It made no mention of the fate of the crew. Radio Hanoi claimed earlier that five F4 Phantoms were downed Sunday in the opening day of the raids. It said a number of pilots were killed and captured and specified that at least two were killed.

In Paris, both the United States and North Vietnam called off Thursday's session of the Vietnam peace talks. The United States said it was doing so because the North Vietnamese had violated the 1968 understanding which resulted in the halt to the sustained bombing of North Vietnam. The North Vietnamese said it acted in protest of the current air attacks.

The Communist Pathet Lao claimed today that it killed more than 3,100 Thai and Laotian government troops and captured more than 200 others in the four-day battle in which the Communists recaptured the Plain of Jars last week.

In a 2,500-word communique broadcast by Hanoi Radio, the Pathet Lao also claimed Communist Forces captured or destroyed 34 105mm and 155mm artillery guns, 20 armored cars, hundreds of rifles, mortars and machine guns and shot down 17 U.S. planes.

The United States has acknowledged that five fighter-bombers were shot down while supporting the Laotian forces, and two Laotian planes were also reported lost.

In Cambodia, government forces launched a sweep against an enemy concentration reported less than 10 miles south of Phnom Penh.

Rule Is Revised

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Walter Jones reported today that the Department of Agriculture has eased the requirements for one year lease transfer of tobacco allotment.

Rep. Jones said he looked into the matter after receiving numerous complaints from farmers in the district.

The ASCS had tightened up on tobacco allotment leasing arrangements to the point where it was working a hardship on farmers.

Rep. Jones said the requirements have now been modified so that only one of the parties involved will now have to have his signature to the agreement witnessed. If the parties can show a hardship, the procedure can be handled by mail.

Most important, Jones reported, the Department has eliminated the requirement that lien holders of the transferring farm must sign the agreement. The new regulations apply to one year leases only.

Plant In Rocky Mount Burned

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — The N. Summergrade Sons plant that manufactured bed spreads and quilts was ravaged by fire Tuesday and officials estimated the loss in machinery and inventory of completed goods at $135,000.

The plant was housed in a warehouse-type building on Rocky Mount's southern outskirts. About 40 persons working in the plant got out safely after the fire was discovered about 9 a.m.

Civilian Prisoners To Be Pawns In Bengali Parleys

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer
Dacca (AP) — India will use Pakistani civilians held in Bangla Desh as pawns to deal for the safety of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and other Bengalis in West Pakistan, a high Indian official said today.

Shortly before this announcement, the first 600 of the 35,000 Pakistani prisoners of war held in Dacca began moving out by train and river steamer to prisoner of war camps in India.

India's special envoy to Bangla Desh, D. P. Dhar, said the plan to seek a swap is still being worked out and has not yet been offered to the Pakistani government of President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

New Delhi gave the Bangla Desh government the green light Monday to hold war crimes trials for Pakistani soldiers and provincial officials charged with slaughtering Bengalis since March. Foreign Secretary T. N. Kaul told Indian newsmen at a special briefing in the Indian capital that the Geneva Convention on prisoners of war would not stand in the way.

An estimated 97,000 Pakistani soldiers surrendered or were captured in East Pakistan during the two-week war in which India freed the rebel province and set up the Bangla Desh regime.

Some 5,000 civilians also are held by the Indians at a Dacca cantonment. They include former Gov. A. M. Malik and other officials.

Dhar told newsmen that India is concerned for the safety of half a million Bengalis in West Pakistan. They include two Bengali battalions, a large number of dependents and Sheikh Mujib, the acknowledged political leader of Bangla Desh.

"There will have to be a package deal," he said. "If Mujib is returned, normalcy will come within two hours."

Pitt County Employment For November 810 Above Year Ago

Total employment in Pitt County for November, estimated at 31,500, dropped 1,750 from September, but increased 810 workers from November, 1970.

According to Lloyd Noe, manager of the Greenville Employment Security Commission, the number of unemployed people in the county was estimated to be 1,720 or 5.2 percent of the work force. This total represented an increase of 460 unemployed people since September, which witnessed the lowest unemployment of the year, but the number of unemployed persons declined by 70 since November of last year.

"The mid-November total employment estimate of 31,500 represents a worker decline of 1,750 since September, but is substantially above the 1971 low of 28,210 recorded in January, 1971," Noe said. "The worker decline over the past two months was influenced primarily by agriculture which showed a decline of 1,610 workers since September."

The nonfarm wage and salary sector and the "all other" nonfarm sector also recorded smaller worker declines over the past 60 days, a loss of 150 and 10 workers, respectively.

The total employment in November, 1971, was estimated to be 810 above the year ago level. Major gains were recorded a loss of 360 workers.

Nonfarm wage and salary employment in November, 1971, was 1,020 above the November, 1970 level.

Although unemployment increased by 460 from September to November, the current number of jobseekers is 70 less than the number recorded in November, 1970. The current unemployment rate of 5.2 percent represents a rise of 1.5 percentage points from September, but a drop of .3 percentage points from the year-ago rate.

Noe explained that a survey of 107 Pitt County firms reveals that employment is expected to continue to drop over the next three months and by February, 1972, be down by 2,300 to 29,200. Thereafter, employment will begin climbing and should reach an estimated 31,150 by May, 1972. Agriculture may drop another 500 by February, 1972, but by May it should increase nearly 1,000 above the current level.

Cigarette Tax In Chicago Upheld

CHICAGO (AP) — A five-cents-a-pack tax to be imposed on all cigarettes sold in Chicago has been upheld as constitutional and the way now appears clear for it to go into effect Jan. 1.

Judge Nathan M. Cohen of Circuit Court upheld Monday the right of the city to impose the tax, which several cigarette distribution firms had contended as in violation of the equal protection clause of the Illinois and U.S. Constitutions. Revenue from the tax will go toward salary increases for city officials.

U.S. Balance Of Trade Deficit Is Now Assured

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New balance of trade figures show the United States is virtually assured of its first trade deficit in almost a century.

Even though the $227.2 million deficit for November was a sharp improvement over the $821.4 million record figure for October, it's not enough to offset an 11-month trend of more imports than exports.

Last month's statistics released by the Commerce Department Monday put the U.S. trade deficit at $1.7 billion for the first 11 months of 1971. That makes it nearly impossible for December's figures to prevent the first annual deficit since 1893.

The department said the November figure was influenced by dock strikes on the East and West coasts, but that it "does not have adequate information to enable it to specifically measure the influence of the strikes on the statistics."

The bureau said exports totaled $3.16 billion in November while imports totaled $3.39 billion.

Meanwhile, in domestic economic developments Monday: —Chairman Preston Martin of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board predicted that mortgage money will be in plentiful supply, and perhaps a little cheaper, during 1972.

Martin said he expects conventional mortgage interest rates to stabilize at present levels, or even decline a bit.

He said mortgage commitments currently are being made at a national average of about 7.37 per cent, compared with an average of 7.79 per cent in November and the high of 8.52 per cent in August 1970.

—The Internal Revenue Service said retailers must prominently display their base prices by Sunday.

The IRS said it will not consider the base prices displayed prominently if a shopper can obtain access to them only by requesting base price information from the retailer or an employee.

The base price for retailers is the price charged during the 90-day wage-price freeze, usually that price that prevailed in the 30 days ending Aug. 14.

—The Price Commission denied a 1.9 per cent price increase sought by Swift & Co. for fertilizer products on grounds that it exceeded the commission's profit margin requirements.

It was only the ninth time the commission has denied a price hike request. The commission also approved 52 more increases, bringing the total approved to 249 out of 1,917 applications.

Nothing Dramatic Is Expected From Nixon-Brandt Talks

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer
KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Blessed with balmy temperatures and a warm diplomatic climate, President Nixon and West German Chancellor Willy Brandt today open a summit conference expected to produce words to match the weather but no dramatic developments.

With U.S.-German relations very cordial and world economic tensions eased, the Brandt-Nixon talks are said by officials from both countries to be focused on exchanging views on general, global matters.

Nixon and Brandt plan to meet this afternoon and at a private dinner tonight, while Secretary of State William P. Rogers confers with his German counterpart, Foreign Minister Walter Scheel.

The talks on all levels primarily will be exchanges of views of East West relations. The role of the western alliance in the changing international scene and Brandt's idea of establishing some formal link between the United States and the European Common Market.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler indicated the soft nature of the conference, the first to involve a foreign leader at Key Biscayne, when he told reporters Monday they "should not expect any dramatic developments... no specific agreements."

He said some trade and world economic problems would be discussed but it was apparent this would be a relatively small matter because the Bonn government earlier canceled the participation by its economic and finance minister, Karl Schiller.

There was no need for a high-level discussion involving Schiller and U.S. Secretary of the Treasury John Connally, officials said, because of the progress made in recent weeks in their areas.

There's More To A Sense Of Humor Than Laughs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — You may well be under the impression that the reason you laugh at something is because it's funny.

But a seminar on joking held Monday at the American Association for the Advancement of Science meeting here went deeper into the question.

Dr. Werner Mendel said we laugh to express anxiety and tension without harming others. Our jokes contain hidden emotional references.

Dr. Mendel, professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California, focused on the classic "Boston Strangler" joke as an example. "A husband and wife are having dinner together," he quipped "when the doorbell rings. The husband goes to the door and the man says 'I am the Boston Strangler.' The husband turns around and yells to his wife, 'It's for you, dear.'"

Laughter.

Dr. Mendel explained that the man in the joke expresses "an enormous amount of murderous aggression toward his wife and does it without the husband's taking direct responsibility" for the aggression.

Another function of humor, Dr. Mendel continued, is to allow us to say something suspect without serious consequences. It always gets you off the hook to say "I was only joking."

Dr. Mendel said ethnic groups use humor to express social beliefs they are too polite to utter directly.

He cited this joke he said American Indians get a lot of mileage out of:

"A recent survey shows that of all the Indians questioned only 15 per cent thought the United States should get out of Vietnam immediately. Eighty five per cent thought the United States should get out of America immediately."

Lindsay Seeks Presidency In Fla. Primary

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, a Republican until last August, announced today that he seeks the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I have decided to seek the presidency," he said, "and I will begin that effort in the Florida primary." The Florida primary is March 14.

Lindsay attacked the Nixon administration for ignoring the needs of ordinary people in the nation and the world, calling the White House now "a clubhouse for privileged power at home and the parade ground for juntas and generals from around the world."

He said in a prepared statement that Washington "is a capital closed to the ordinary citizen, but open to bankrupt corporate giants, foreign dictators and to those wealthy enough to buy privileged protection with campaign cash."

Lindsay, 50, said he chose Miami to announce because its economic and cultural diversity make it a testing ground for the principles he will run on.

Following his appearances in the state, Lindsay was to fly to Wisconsin, where he will announce his plans Wednesday for the April 4 primary there.

The mayor, who during much of his term of office in New York has fashioned himself as a spokesman for the nation's rapidly growing urban populace, said he will "speak for the America that Washington has ignored."

He added that "six years of running the second biggest government in America—six years of a fight for survival—has convinced me that our communities and neighborhoods will have a chance only when Washington looks beyond its sheltered walls."

Lindsay said the process will begin only with "a willingness to face the truth."

DAYANS DIVORCED
TEL AVIV (AP) — Defense Minister Moshe Dayan and his wife Ruth were divorced today, ending 36 years of marriage.

Actor Is Wounded

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Television actor Tom Lester was listed in satisfactory condition at a Hattiesburg hospital today following a hunting accident in which he received wounds in the chest, arm and hand.

Friends of the family said doctors told them it was likely the 29-year-old gangling actor, who played the part of Eb in the television series Green Acres, would be released from the hospital by the end of the week.

The accident reported occurred Monday afternoon while Lester, native of Laurel, and one or more companions were quail hunting on a Forrest County farm.

Doctors said birdshot pellets peppered Lester's arm and hand rather severely while a single pellet entered his chest cavity and collapsed the left lung.

No additional details on the shooting were released.

ADVERTISED — Ellen Haneles was furious with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Haneles of Miami, Fla., when she returned from a trip to New York to learn they had taken out newspaper ads seeking a husband for her. Thirty men have answered the ads and Ellen has dated just one of them. (AP Wirephoto)

Satellite Falls; Bad Axe Safe

BAD AXE, Mich. (AP) — Confusion led to a radio Monday report that a Soviet satellite was expected to plummet to earth somewhere within a 200-mile radius of Bad Axe.

But it wasn't such a bad day at Bad Axe after all. The satellite splashed down in the Indian Ocean near Australia.

The confusion began when an area radio station quoted the Air Force 754th Radar Unit at Port Austin as saying that the satellite was on its way.

A spokesman for the 754th, in turn, said it got the news from the NORAD Space Defense Center at Colorado Springs, Colo.

But NORAD was baffled by the whole mix-up.

"I don't know where they (the 754th) got this idea," a NORAD spokesman said. "We regularly send out alert messages four days, two days, one day, 12 hours and six hours prior to impact. In this case, each message predicted a landing off the west or southwest coast of Australia."

He said the satellite, prob-

Food Stamp Users To Get No Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department plans to eliminate the practice of allowing food stamp spenders to take up to 49 cents change in cash when they shop for groceries.

The year-old practice was criticized in a congressional report that said it "threatens the success of the food stamp program."

Under new rules that will take effect March 1, food stamp spenders will get small-denomination tokens or store credit slips in change when they cash in food stamps for groceries. Also, they no longer will be permitted to pay returnable bottle deposits with stamps and redeem the bottles for cash.

Agriculture Department spokesmen say investigations of the cash-change practice have revealed very limited violations. But conceivably, food stamp users could make several small purchases with coupons and collect enough cash in change to buy cigarettes, beer, soap, toilet paper or other items not available under the food stamp program.

Trudeau's Son Is 'Justin Pierre'

OTTAWA, (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau says his son has been named Justin Pierre.

"I had ideas about the baby's name," he told newsmen Monday, "but my wife did, too, so we've named him Justin Pierre."

"I'm afraid he looks like me," the 53-year-old prime minister said of his son, born on Christmas Day.

Trudeau and his wife Margaret, 23, were married March 4 of this year. Their child is the first born to a Canadian prime minister in office since 1869.

Congressional Demos Attack Air Blows

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Attacks by congressional Democrats are mounting against stepped up bombing raids over North Vietnam while Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says the new strikes were prompted by violations of a 1968 understanding with Hanoi.

Laird refused at a year-end news conference Monday to rule out more strikes against North Vietnam and Radio Hanoi reported that fresh waves of American bombers hit various targets for the third straight day today.

The defense chief described the attacks by a reported force of 350 planes as being of limited duration. He said they will not slow down the U.S. troop withdrawal rate.

With the U.S. troop level in Vietnam down to 160,000, Laird said: "The primary emphasis is on protecting the remaining American forces that are in Vietnam today."

But Democratic presidential hopeful Sen. George McGovern said the "shocking escalation... sinks us deeper into the quagmire of Indochina and, more important, makes it certain none of our prisoners will be released."

"While Bob Hope acts as an emissary of President Nixon in seeking release of our prisoners, the Air Force acts as the true Nixon instrument in guaranteeing that the number of POWs will be increased," the South Dakota senator said in a statement issued from his presidential campaign headquarters.

In Philadelphia, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., signed a statement calling for the setting of a date for total withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam, cessation of all bombing and removal of U.S. support for the present Saigon government.

The former vice president signed the statement after his speech before the American Association for the Advancement of Science was disrupted by a group of jeering antiwar, anti-Humphrey young people.

Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., who heads a Democratic study group on "Vietnam oversight," said Nixon should address the nation on the air war.

"The American public has the right to know not only of the winding down of the war but of the winding up as well," he said.

Wolff and Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., said they would call for a full congressional investigation of the air war when Congress reconvenes next month.

Heavy bombing of the North, Aspin said, will "prevent serious negotiations, keep POWs separated from their families and prolong the war."

Meanwhile, Reps. William F. Ryan and Benjamin S. Roethlisberger, both D-N.Y., and Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., sought signatures for a telegram to Nixon calling for "an immediate halt to all American bombing missions in North Vietnam."

Warn Parents Of Gun 'Games'

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British Army distributed thousands of leaflets to parents in Northern Ireland's trouble spots today, warning: "If your child plays with a toy gun in the streets he may be killed."

The children are playing a new game called Ambush, the Army said. Youngsters, sometimes only 5 or 6 years old, have pounced on army patrols, blasting away with plastic weapons. One common toy is a replica of a Thompson submachine gun which makes a machine gun-like noise and flashes in the dark.

At least three times during the Christmas holidays children playing Ambush narrowly escaped being fired at by soldiers who thought they were terrorists, the army reported.

"A large 10-year-old can look like a 14-year-old," said Maj. Jim Kellie, "and we have had reports of 14 and 15-year-olds firing the real thing. In the dark or dusk it is extremely difficult for soldiers to distinguish between the real thing and the authentic-looking toy."

Said Capt. Robert Long: "We want parents to realize that soldiers have orders to shoot to kill anyone who aims a gun."

The leaflets, posted on doors and stuck to mailboxes, warn fathers and mothers: "Many of the guns could be confused with the real thing. No soldiers want to shoot a child. This would be tragic for all of us."

"Nevertheless the chances of this happening are very real. Don't let your child play with these weapons."

heavy bombing of the North, Aspin said, will "prevent serious negotiations, keep POWs separated from their families and prolong the war."

Meanwhile, Reps. William F. Ryan and Benjamin S. Roethlisberger, both D-N.Y., and Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., sought signatures for a telegram to Nixon calling for "an immediate halt to all American bombing missions in North Vietnam."

Pauper Gave To The Poor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus garbage dump worker who died earlier this month at 85 ate pet food so he could give more of his $500-a-month salary to the poor, it has been revealed.

During the last three years of his life, William Knapp kept enough of his salary to buy pet food and pay rent on the ramshackle, four-room house where he lived, a relative said. The rest he gave away.

None of his friends or relatives know where the money went. "He did it kind of secretly," said Mrs. Kessie Barton, his sister-in-law.

"There wasn't a person who would ask him for money for a good reason who wouldn't get it," said the Rev. Harry Meyers of First Pentecostal Church.

When Knapp died Dec. 16, he left $95 and a few possessions. His friends paid for his funeral.

Knapp died at University Hospital, where Meyers urged him to go two days before his death, even though Knapp didn't like hospitals.

"Willie said the Lord always promised him a clean bed to die in," a friend remarked. "It was a prophecy come true for him."

Point To Big Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some areas of the country not known for large production of winter wheat have boosted 1972 acreages sharply, according to an Agriculture Department survey.

A report issued last week showed 1972 winter wheat plantings up 9.2 per cent nationally from this year, including increases in the plains states.

But the report also showed acreage increases ranging up to more than 20 per cent in states not noted for large winter wheat output. Georgia farmers, for example, say they planted 290,000 acres for harvest next year, a 20 per cent boost from 1971.

Kentucky showed a 22 per cent gain, from 247,000 acres for 1971 to 301,000 next year. Two years ago Kentucky farmers planted only 219,000 acres of winter wheat.

Most showed gains. Only two in the Southeast, for example, showed winter wheat acreages down from 1971. Florida plantings were reported at 70,000 acres, and North Carolina 290,000 acres, each down nine per cent from this year.

Brother, Sister Sworn Into Army

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Howard L. Swaim, 19, and his sister, Dean, 18, were sworn into the Army together Monday at the Armed Forces Examination and Entrance Station here.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald C. Swaim of rural Shawnee, Kan., looked on approvingly.

Howard is headed for basic training at Ft. Polk, La., and then helicopter training at Ft. Walters, Tex. He said he had been considering enlisting since high school.

"I made my final decision when I saw my draft number—77," he said.

He had been unaware of his sister's similar interest until a recruiter told him of it.

Cars Damaged In 100-mph Chase

BOSTON (AP) — Three police officers were injured and four private automobiles were damaged Monday in a 10-mile chase at speeds up to 100 miles per hour.

A 15-year-old boy who police said was driving a stolen car was taken into custody at the end of the chase.

The four cruisers were forced off the street during the chase. The car they sought was wrecked.

The injured officers were treated for bruises and back strains.

Identify Victim As Charlottean

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago police Monday said a man whose last known address was Charlotte, N.C., was the man whose body was found in the nose wheel compartment of a Delta Airlines propjet.

Police identified him as Robert Harris Davis, 44.

The body was discovered Sunday night at O'Hare International Airport where the plane landed.

Officials said the man could have died of exposure or lack of oxygen on the flight from Atlanta. The plane flew at an altitude of 24,000 feet where temperatures were as low as 8 degrees below zero. The nose wheel was not pressurized.

Chicago police said Davis had been fired earlier Sunday from the Delta work area where he was a day laborer.

Purse-Snatching Reported Here

Greenville police are investigating a reported purse snatching at a drug store on Dickinson Avenue last night.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, a handbag was reported stolen from Mrs. Tom David of 610 Oak St. about 7:30 p.m.

Chief Cannon quoted Mrs. Davis as saying two men took her purse as she was walking into the drug store, then ran.

Value of the purse and contents was estimated at $40.

Cabbie Killed In Train Collision

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A taxi driver was killed and his passenger injured Monday night when a train struck the cab at a Hendersonville crossing and dragged it 50 feet.

The dead man was identified as Euston Lusk, about 50, of Flat Rock. The passenger, Morris Ledbetter of Hendersonville, was hospitalized in good condition.

Witnesses told police the flashing signal at the crossing was working when the Southern Railway freight train struck the taxi.

Male To Oversee Equal Rights

HONOLULU (AP) — The University of Hawaii has been under federal scrutiny recently on charges that women are discriminated against in appointment to higher-ranking administration and faculty posts.

University President Harlan Cleveland, in a move to safeguard the rights of all, announced the appointment of an "equal employment opportunity coordinator."

He named a man, Robert H. Prahler, to the post.

This Recipe Is To Keep Kids Happy

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
A 46-page booklet called "Recipes for Busy Little Hands" compiled by Doreen Craft and emanating from nursery school work, includes a charming recipe:

RECIPE FOR A HAPPY DAY
1 cup of friendly words
2 heaping cups of understanding
4 heaping teaspoons of time and patience
Pinch of warm personality
Dash of humor

Instructions for mixing: Measure words carefully. Add heaping cups of understanding, use generous amounts of time and patience. Cook on the front burner but keep temperature low; do not boil. Add generous dash of humor and a pinch of warm personality. Season to taste with spice of life. Serve in individual molds.

Besides recipes for paint, plastic art, finger plays and other things children can do, "Recipes for Busy Little Hands" contains food recipes. A list of suggestions for letting children help in kitchen work is worth noting:

Let children shell and cook peas.

Make popcorn in an electric popper with a glass top so children can see what is happening.

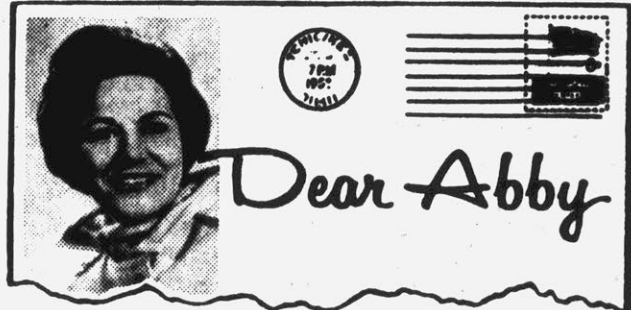

Let children dice cooked potatoes for salad with blunt knives.

Make pizza with English muffin halves, tomato sauce, cheese. Dice or mash boiled eggs for sandwiches.

Let children cut up marshmallows, apples, banana, pineapple and other fruit for Waldorf Salad.

Provide children with plastic measuring cups and paper cups and let them pour their own juice.

Pass The Salt And Then Leave

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who was annoyed with her gentleman friend because he always salted his food before even tasting it, reminded me of something I once read about Thomas Edison.

Edison would always invite a prospective employee over for dinner. The first course would be soup, and if the fellow salted his soup without tasting it first, Edison wouldn't hire him.

JOE GOLDSTEIN, SIOUX CITY, IA.

DEAR JOE: Heaven only knows how many good men Edison passed up by prejudging a man because he prejudged the soup.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to read about George who always seasons his food with plenty of salt and pepper before even tasting it, because I do the same thing.

I have been criticized often for this, but, Abby, I don't just "guess" that the food will need more salt. I KNOW it will.

You see, I am one of those people who can't taste any seasoning unless there is a whole lot of it. And if the food had as much salt in it as I liked, nobody else would be able to eat it.

I just happen to like a lot of salt. Now, I take a token taste first, and then pour on the salt to suit myself. That way I keep everybody happy.

PASS THE SALT

DEAR PASS: I don't want to alarm you, but I am told that a craving for salt is nature's way of telling you that you need to have a thorough physical checkup.

DEAR ABBY: We are parents of a child who is not doing well at school. We think we might be part of the problem and have been considering speaking with the school psychologist.

A neighbor told us that the school principal would insist on sitting in on all the conferences, and the psychologist could not keep confidential any personal, family problems that might come out during these conferences. Private help is out of the question right now, as we cannot afford it. Any suggestions?

SUBURBANITES

DEAR SUBURBANITES: Go to school and get your information directly from the school psychologist. I can't believe what your neighbor told you is true.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

What If Oil Was Discovered?

North Carolina has fairly well defined its policies concerning the exploration of oil on its submerged lands, but beyond the dollars and cents factor, it has not developed a well-defined policy that would regulate producing oil wells.

Until recent years when the ecology kick developed, most states, like many individuals, dreamed of the day when someone would find a profitable oil reserve under its lands. They thought in terms of royalties and profits without giving much thought to how such an oil strike and its subsequent development would affect the ecology. They thought only in terms of how it would affect the economy.

The director of North Carolina's Earth Resources has predicted that oil exploration along North Carolina's coastal areas will see "a significant increase" in the next few years. The state issues drilling rights to firms for two-year periods provided the firms meet a required minimum of feet drilled in explorations. There is also the provision that companies return to the state 12½ per cent of any profit they make on gas or oil pumped from beneath its property.

If oil exploration is expected to increase, it follows that officials likewise expect the likelihood of finding commercial quantities of gas and oil along the state's coast to increase also. It is time now for the state to look beyond the possible economic impact of oil finds to the ecological factors.

People in this area of the state particularly are familiar with the various squabbles which have developed in connection with the development of phosphate mining operations in Beaufort County. Clear-cut policies were not developed prior to the beginning of operations, and there is still controversy over whether the ecology is being properly protected in the Pamlico river area.

Based on the experience of other areas where oil is being produced, North Carolina should be able to develop sound policies which would protect the environment and ecology if profitable oil resources are found in this state.

It would be far better to have such regulations clearly defined and understood even if they are never needed. Otherwise the state may find that this serves to the best advantage neither its economic nor its ecological considerations should the dream of producing oil wells in North Carolina ever become a reality.

A Hardboiled Tom Connally

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Having somewhat reluctantly agreed to dollar devaluation without getting as much in trade concessions as he would have liked, Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally is now privately urging a delay in asking Congressional approval until there is concrete progress on the trade question.

This shows just how tough a bargainer Connally is. It also points up this dimly realized fact of life: although Connally's enormous success in pulling off the monetary agreement has properly lionized him in Washington, he was one of the last high in the Administration to accept the necessity of devaluation.

Moreover, his activities of the last few months reveal what Connally does and does not care about it. He is intent on the very best bargain possible for the United States and is ever aware of isolationist sentiment at home. Of far less concern to him is the Western alliance's solidarity in the face of rising Soviet power. While that combination produced an unqualified U.S. success this time, those more internationally inclined are uneasy about the future.

Certainly, when President Nixon announced his New Economic Policy Aug. 15, neither he, Connally nor anybody else in the Administration had firmly charted a course ending with raising the dollar price of gold in return for upward revaluation of other currencies and new trade negotiations.

But as the scheduled Rome meeting of finance ministers from the ten richest Western countries neared in mid-November, the Nixon administration's top financial officers became convinced that devaluation was essential. This was the view of Paul Volcker, the universally respected Under Secretary of the Treasury for monetary affairs. Peter Peterson, White House aide specializing in international economics, agreed. So did Henry Kissinger and everybody else in the Administration with two notable exceptions: Richard M. Nixon and John B. Connally.

They were concerned with possible adverse political effect at home in granting concessions to the Europeans—and particularly to the French. As Mr. Nixon well knew, currency devaluation is habitually the recourse of a government in political trouble.

But in late November, financial advisers inside and outside the government convinced the President and Connally that devaluation was a matter of self-interest. Deeply involved was New York economic consultant Pierre Rinfret, who had intimate contacts in both the Nixon administration and European financial circles.

The argument that was particularly telling for Connally was that the superficial French triumph in finally raising the price of gold by 10 per cent would be a most Pyrrhic victory. French citizens who followed the advice of their government three years ago and hoarded gold actually would lose money, considering inflation and what they could have made in normal investments.

Thus, the U.S. decision to devalue was made prior to the Rome meeting, postponed to Dec. 1. Although at Rome Connally expressed shock over press reports of dollar devaluation, the truth was that those leaks resulted from feelers Connally himself had indirectly sent out to European central bankers.

There remained, however, disagreement over timing. Connally did not want to surrender the bargaining point of dollar devaluation until Japan, Canada and the Europeans had come around substantially on lowering their trade barriers. Finally, he accepted Volcker's advice and went for devaluation without getting as much in the way of trade concessions as he wanted.

Now, anticipating trouble over trade questions (more from Japan and Canada than the Europeans), Connally is proposing that Congressional approval of devaluation not be sought until substantial progress on trade bargaining is assured. That would not delay the good effects from devaluation, but it would give Connally a way to continue his pressure on other Western powers.

Some of this hardness may be playacting, to make his fellow finance ministers think they are scoring immense victories when Connally finally concedes a point. Certainly, the little drama staged in the Azores was intended to put President Georges Pompidou in a posture of receiving far more than he really did.

But even conceding a certain amount of theatrics, John Connally's position in world economic bargaining has been relentlessly hard-boiled. Its present success is undeniable. The only caveat concerns possible future repercussions from America's allies, if and when they have their backs to the wall economically.

Strength For Today

BALANCE

Zeal. Do you have it? Some people seem to radiate zeal in everything they do. It man consists of nothing more than scanning the headlines of the newspaper and smiling or shaking the head yes or no. Some people go through life as if every act were a burden. This may be due to a physical weakness. It may, on the other hand, be a mood which downgrades the person who has it and causes him (or her) to slip through life without notice.

But let us not be deceived by what appears to be a lack of zeal or an abundance of zeal. The person who never smiles is a person who has few friends and little influence. The person who is always smiling and slapping everybody on the back is a tiresome nuisance. Life largely consists of balance.

Who Makes TV News?

Edith Efron's book, "The News Twisters," came forth from the Nash Publishing Co. on October 15. Since then, the shells have been flying. Her thesis is that the three television networks were guilty of gross bias during the presidential campaign of 1968.

The thesis, of course, is valid. Any English-speaking adult, possessed of eyes, ears and access to a television set, must know the thesis is valid. To a considerable extent —

Other Editors Say 'Bah, Humbug!'

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

One of the fixtures of Christmas, although somewhat of a negative fixture, is old Ebenezer Scrooge of "A Christmas Carol" fame. He's supposed to represent the antithesis of all that's merry and good about the Christmas season.

Well, several San Francisco psychiatrists have come up with some interesting observations about Old Scrooge, one of which is that he may have been acting quite normally as he stomped about casting "Bah, humbugs" to the world.

To Dr. Robert Cahen, Scrooge's humbugs may have been a sign of sanity in a world of frustration. "There's no doubt that Scrooge has become progressively more popular as people find out that Santa Claus has let them down," says Cahen.

Dr. Robert Wald views Scrooge as a nonconformist figure and independent thinker of great proportions who refused to be happy and forgiving just because everybody else was running around awash in good will.

Wald declares: "Scrooge's greatest crime was that he lived before his time. He had the attitudes before Christmas Eve that everyone has afterward when their great expectations collide with reality."

It was only the threat of an untimely death, terrible anonymity and ghostly graveyards that coerced Scrooge into adopting the required merry and forgiving attitude. Wald thinks that was unfair.

"Actually," declared the psychiatrist, "everyone owes Scrooge a debt of gratitude. All we have to do is smile a little and, compared with Scrooge, we're great people. Scrooge just takes the heat off."

And Dr. Earl Burgess, another psychiatrist says that muttering "Bah, humbug!" takes the edge off our holiday frustrations.

"Getting angry when you're depressed is good for you," he says. "It's far better to get angry and behave like Scrooge than to jump off the Golden Gate Bridge."

For some reason, these psychiatrists, no matter how well meaning, seem to think everybody goes around at Christmas time with their heads bowed, depressed, suffering fits of frustration and only too glad there's a Scrooge they can identify with. To that we say "Bah, humbug!"

What Happened? We Go Broke

By ELMER ROESSNER

The 1971 dollar crisis appears to be over.

Now we can begin work on solving the next dollar crisis.

The agreement reached with much fanfare but no sacrifice on any nation's part may not work, at least for long. The compromise seems to baffle common sense.

Here is one nation, the United States, going broke. That's what happened. We gave away so much money and credit, we scattered so many dollars around the world, that we were unable to redeem them in gold as we had promised. If all the nations of the world had demanded an ounce of gold for every $35 in American paper they held, the Treasury would be cleaned out of the yellow metal. Even if every wife in America turned in her wedding ring, we couldn't meet the obligation.

So we embargoed gold. That was exactly equivalent to what Joe Blow does when he can't meet the payments on the television set. He files a petition in bankruptcy. But in international circles, that horrid word is not used. We "devalue."

Everybody Richer

And the strange thing is

that in the processes, nobody loses.

The U.S., we are told, will increase international trade, increase employment, increase profits, increase wages and take off, with sleigh bells jingling, to a new prosperity.

The other nations of the West will have to make adjustments, they are told. But by revaluating their own currencies, they too will increase trade, employment, a sense of euphoria and a stronger posture against communism.

Dr. Milton Gilbert, economic advisor of the Bank for International Settlements, writing in the current issue of the Morgan Guaranty Survey, doesn't go that far. But he does go so far that the Morgan bank sees fit to announce that publication of his article "does not imply agreement by this bank in every respect with Dr. Gilbert's analysis."

Dr. Gilbert writes that the system probably coming out of current negotiations will lead to instability and more controls over the movement of money. He argues that gold should play a greater, not lesser, role in a new world monetary system.

"Unstable System" He writes that he is skeptical that special drawing rights (SDRs) can adequately take the place of gold and yield a disciplined system but, "I feel quite sure of one thing: an inconvertible dollar means an unstable system, as events of Love stuff: Ever wonder where the word "sparking" came from? It is a Hoosier term for courting derived from early days on Indiana farms. Young sweethearts sat up by the hearthside after the girl's family went to bed. To keep warm in winter, they had to throw more logs on the fire. Neighbors, noting the sparks showering from the chimney so late at night, surmised there was a serious courtship going on.

40 Years Ago Today

By GWYN COGHILL

Dec. 28, 1931

With the exception of intermittent exploding of firecrackers and a few fire alarms, Christmas was quietly passed in Greenville. The fire department was called to Harvey's Wood and Coal Yard on Ninth Street Saturday to extinguish a burning wood pile and then to the home of Louis Curry on Chestnut Street where fire originated in a closet. The home of Burt Allen, also on Chestnut Street, was damaged by fire on Christmas Day.

Tomorrow night at 7:30 the "Coeds" of East Carolina Teachers College will play the second basketball game of the season in the Campus Building when they will take on a strong local team composed of former high school stars. This game will end the pre-season work of the college team.

The dollar, he contends, became inconvertible in March, 1968, with the agreement that stopped the purchase and sale of gold in free markets by monetary authorities.

He added that current suggestions for demonetizing gold cannot be taken seriously while central banks hold $40 billion in gold. "Gold is woven into the very fabric of the world monetary system."

Discussing the formation of a new international monetary system, Dr. Gilbert cites as a possibility, but one not likely to be chosen, a dollar devaluation involving "a realistic value of gold in terms of the dollar." He does not specify what a "realistic value" would be and says that, while such an approach would have many supporters, "they are not vocal because of intense U.S. opposition."

Bucs To Play In Oral Roberts Tourney

Georgia Favored By Touchdown

By F. T. MACFEELY
Associated Press Writer
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—

North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley's Tar Heels are one-touchdown underdogs to brother Vince's Bulldogs, but that doesn't take the fun out of Bill Dooley's bowl game.

"It's a great reward for a winning season," Dooley said as he put his Tar Heels through some hard practice for their Gator Bowl football meeting with Vince's Bulldogs Friday afternoon.

"I definitely like bowl games, and I haven't met many players who don't like to go to one," Bill said. "Oh, some coaches may make them drudgery as they use the bowl practice to develop young players for next season. Those teams are probably the only ones who don't like to go to a bowl."

He gave his 60-man squad a long, vigorous workout Monday after arriving from Chapel Hill but plans to let up a little the rest of the week.

"We needed that work," he said. "We had to take off some of that Christmas turkey and dressing after four days away from the field. And we were in the final exam period before breaking for Christmas so that we only got in about one hour's practice a day."

The Georgia squad, a touchdown favorite off its 10-1 season record compared to North Carolina's 9-2, arrives late this afternoon to wind up preparations. This is the first meeting of brothers as head coaches in a bowl game.

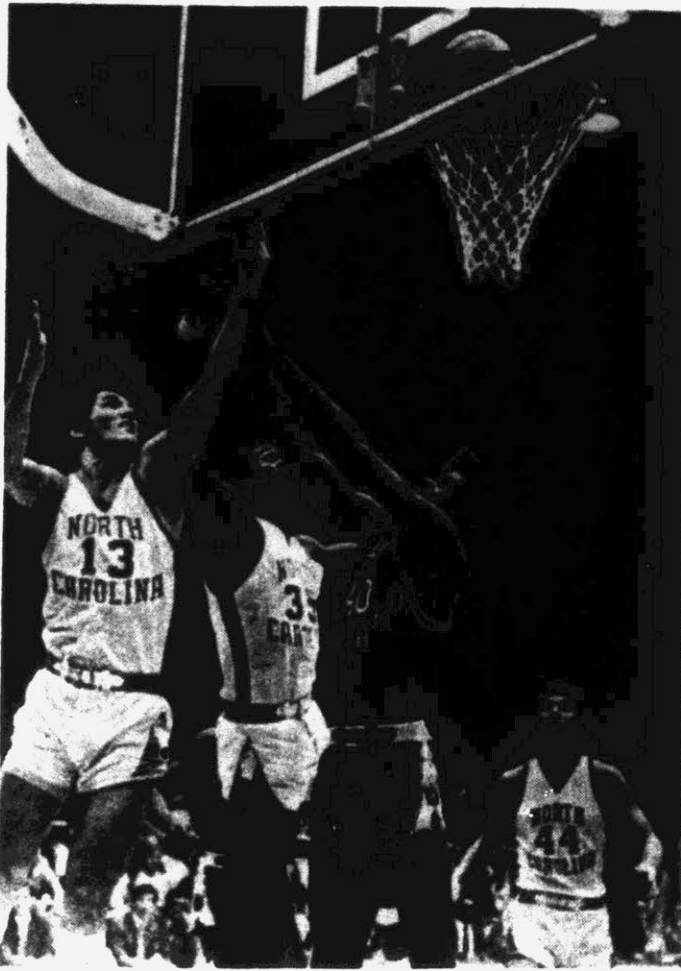

The teams have similar offenses, hinged to strong running attacks and tough defenses. That isn't surprising since the brothers conferred as they prepared their squads in the spring, never dreaming they would meet in a bowl game.

"I'm not concerned about going against my brother, but I am concerned about going against his team," Bill said. "He's got a big bunch that will run right at you, a great quarterback in Andy Johnson who runs like a tailback, a blue chip sophomore in tailback Jimmy Poulos and good size with quickness on defense."

Bill Dooley calls his quarterback, senior Paul Miller, a real winner.

"He's quite amazing," the Tar Heel coach said. "He doesn't look good throwing or running, but he's a success at both. He's just a real winner."

Tulsa, Oklahoma. The Bucs will meet Loyola of Los Angeles in the first round of the two-day tournament.

Oral Roberts, the host team, will meet the University of Connecticut in the second game of the first night's play.

The two winning teams will meet for the championship on Thursday night, with the consolation game preceeding it.

The Bucs go into the game with a 1-4 record on the season. They have lost all three of their road games to date, to the University of West Virginia, Duke University and The Citadel. They split their only two games thus far, losing to nationally-ranked Jacksonville, and downing Southern Conference defending champion Davidson.

The Lions will be a team that is somewhat similar to the Pirates. "They drew some votes in the poll last week," Coach Tom Quinn said of Loyola. Quinn did not know the current record of the team, but the scouting report he had received listed them as 1-2 in their opening two games. Apparently they have improved on this, however. "They lost to Long Beach State, 73-67, and Long Beach is nationally ranked," he said. "They also lost to Utah." The Lions are the defending champions of the West Coast Athletic Conference.

"They are about the same height as we are," Quinn said. "They are 6-8, 6-9 and 6-5 across the front and 6-2, 6-3 in the backcourt."

"They use an open center offense and their basic defense is a 1-2-2 zone," Quinn added.

Their best shooter and top rebounder is 6-8 center Steve Smith. "Their leading scorer, however, is Don Shaw, who has a 20.5 average. Dwayne Williamson, one of the guards is hitting at a 17 point average, while Smith is getting about 13 per game." Smith is also averaging about 14 rebounds per game.

The Lions are also a good shooting team, hitting about 45 per cent from the floor and 75 per cent from the line.

"They are aggressive and play a very physical game," Quinn said. "They like to freelance at times and are fast-moving. They are well-disciplined and a good overall team," he added. Quinn said that he had not received reports on the other two teams in the tournament. "We'll scout them in the other game Wednesday night."

Following the tournament, the Pirates have a quick journey to Dayton, Ohio, where they meet the University of Dayton on Friday night. The Flyers were just 2-2 prior to their meeting with Duke last week, and are off to a disappointing start — for the usually highly-regarded Flyers.

"I'm a little leary of playing three games in three days like this after a long layoff," Quinn said. "The team was expected to work individually, but that doesn't make up for team workouts."

Dayton is led by 6-11 Joe Coladaric, and a talented group of sophomores, including leading scorer Don Smith.

Following the three day trip, the Bucs head south to meet Southern Mississippi on Tuesday prior to returning to Greenville.

"We know a little more about them, since we played them last year," Quinn said. "They are about our height, too. Their leading man is a guard, Houston Cunningham, I believe they are a very good shooting team."

Quinn said that he is looking forward to the tournament and the rest of the trip. "It will be quite an experience for us. We need it for maturation. And it'll help us get ready for the Southern Conference Tournament, too."

Tar Heels Dump Harvard, 96-78, Gamecocks Win, Remain No. 3

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

In a season usually reserved for a ho, ho, ho, North Carolina presented a huff, huff, huff, and still managed a convincing 96-78 college basketball victory over Harvard Monday night.

The fourth-ranked Tar Heels, just back from a successful tour of Spain and playing their fourth game in five nights, forgot their weariness to wear down their Ivy League visitors in one of the few non-Christmas-tournament games played.

"Our boys had to be very tired for this game," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith, "but I was very proud of the job they did against Harvard. I think the team played very well under the circumstances."

The team arrived home Sunday after winning its Christmas Tournament in Spain last week—getting the jump on the tourneys in this country which got started Monday. But there was no breather for the tired Tars, who barely had time to unpack before going up against Harvard.

North Carolina got 28 points and 14 rebounds from 6-foot-10 Robert McAdoo and jumped out to an early lead that it never relinquished. And surprisingly, NC used a fast break attack most of the night—a strategy you wouldn't expect from a team that was supposed to be tired.

The Tar Heels' neighbors from South Carolina—the two are close both geographically and in The Associated Press poll as well, protected its No. 3 ranking with an 87-69 romp over Fairfield in the opening round of the Quaker City Classic at Philadelphia.

In other first round games of the Quaker City tourney, Tennessee, ranked No. 20, topped Manhattan 76-70, Boston College edged LaSalle 62-61 and Villanova ripped Massachusetts 100-83.

South Carolina made 16 of its first 22 shots from the floor and the deadly Gamecock accuracy sunk Fairfield. Kevin Joyce led the early surge, making eight of his first nine shots from the floor and finishing with 21 points. Tom Riker had 23.

The only other member of the Top Ten to see action Monday was second-ranked Marquette which defeated Georgetown 88-44 in the opening round of the Milwaukee Classic. In the other first round test, Marshall, ranked No. 17, edged Wisconsin 85-83.

Marquette suffered through a first half in which it shot a mere 20 per cent from the floor but bounced back after intermission against Georgetown.

Jim Chones, who had just one point in the first 20 minutes, finished with 17, tops for the Warriors, 7-0. Allie McGuire, who missed 11 straight shots in the first half, hit four quick ones at the start of the second half to key a 22-2 Marquette spurt that put the game out of reach.

Marshall, 8-0, was down 10 points at the half but bounced back, tying the score on Randy Noll's three-point play with 91 seconds left. Then Mike D'Antoni's 20-footer with five seconds left won it for the Thundering Herd.

In the Holiday Festival at New York, Louisville, ranked No. 15, walloped Syracuse 103-81 with Jim Price's 26 points leading the offense. In other opening round games, Providence whipped Penn State 81-65, Fordham took Utah 74-67 and St. Peter's of New Jersey topped Duke 77-74.

Host St. Louis University and Chicago Loyola advanced to the finals of the St. Louis Invitational with decisive victories.

Carlos Martinez keyed a string of 11 straight St. Louis points that gave the Billikens the lead for keeps in a 95-70 victory against Yale. Martinez finished with 19 points, one less than teammate Rich Stallworth. Mike Baskauskas hit 30 for Yale.

Chicago Loyola took Southern Methodist 102-78 with Larue Martin hitting 27 points and Nate Mayes adding 22.

Missouri and Colorado advanced in the Big Eight Tournament, beating Nebraska and Oklahoma State respectively.

Missouri pulled away from Nebraska in the last stages of the first half and went on to a 76-64 triumph. Colorado strung the game's first nine points and went on to an 83-62 victory over Oklahoma State.

Oklahoma City used four straight free throws in the final 16 seconds by Larry Trimble to whip North Texas State 85-79 in the opening round of the All College Tournament. Marvin Rich had 29 points for OCU while Ephraim McDaniel hit 30 for the losers.

In the other opening round game of the All College, guards Bob Sherwin and John O'Malley combined for 46 points to lead Army past Indiana State 83-75. Sherwin finished with 25 and O'Malley had 21.

In the Astro-Bluebonnet tourney, Michigan State topped Texas A&M 67-65 and Houston rocked Louisiana State 100-66. Sonny Willis hit 20 points in only 22 minutes to lead Houston's romp past LSU.

MSU, in front throughout the game, had to bounce from behind to catch Texas A&M.

Havlicek Wins Second Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

John Havlicek is tough enough for 47 minutes and 59 seconds, but in that final second he's pure murder.

The Boston Celtics' star beat Detroit earlier this season with a basket at the buzzer and Monday night he did it to the Golden State Warriors 99-97 with a long turnaround jump shot as time ran out.

In the only other National Basketball Association games, Philadelphia held off Buffalo 121-112 and Atlanta downed Portland 135-121.

Havlicek tied the score with 16 seconds left on a jump shot and the Warriors worked the ball for the last shot. Cazzie Russell misfired on a 25-footer, Boston's Don Nelson grabbed the rebound and passed to Havlicek, who turned and fired as the buzzer sounded.

Havlicek and Nate Thurmond of the Warriors shared scoring honors with 28 points apiece.

Atlanta and Portland were tied at halftime but Herb Giliam of the Hawks scored 11 of his 17 points in the third period to help his team pull away. Giliam, subbing for the ailing Pete Maravich, hit two field goals late in the period to give the Hawks a four-point lead and the Blazers never threatened thereafter.

Lou Hudson, the scoring leader with 31 points, led a fourth-quarter flurry as the Hawks built their lead to 25 points. Geoff Petrie paced the losers with 23.

Billy Cunningham, Bob Rule and Kevin Loughery led the way as Philadelphia ended a six-game losing streak and extended Buffalo's string of losses to the same number. Cunningham scored 26 points, Rule 25 and Loughery 21.

The 76ers led by 19 after three periods before Fred Hilton, who scored 21 points in only 23 minutes, and Randy Smith led a Buffalo rally that sliced the margin to eight points, but no closer. Smith paced the Braves with 24 points.

ABA Race Is Tightening

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Things are tightening up in the American Basketball Association ... among the also-rans.

New York edged the Floridians 113-111 while Dallas downed Pittsburgh 97-92, leaving the Condors and Nets in a virtual tie for third place in the Eastern Division, one game behind the Floridians. Meanwhile, Dallas, the Western Division cellar-dwellers, climbed to within one game of idle fourth-place Denver.

Rick Barry's 38 points helped the Nets snap their own three-game losing streak and the Floridians' four-game win skein. Rookie John Roche sank three of four free throws in the final 20 seconds to seal the victory while Bill Paultz and Bill Melchionni each added 20 points for the Nets.

Warran Jabali and Larry Jones tallied 22 apiece for the Floridians, who went down to defeat before their largest crowd of the season, 5,124.

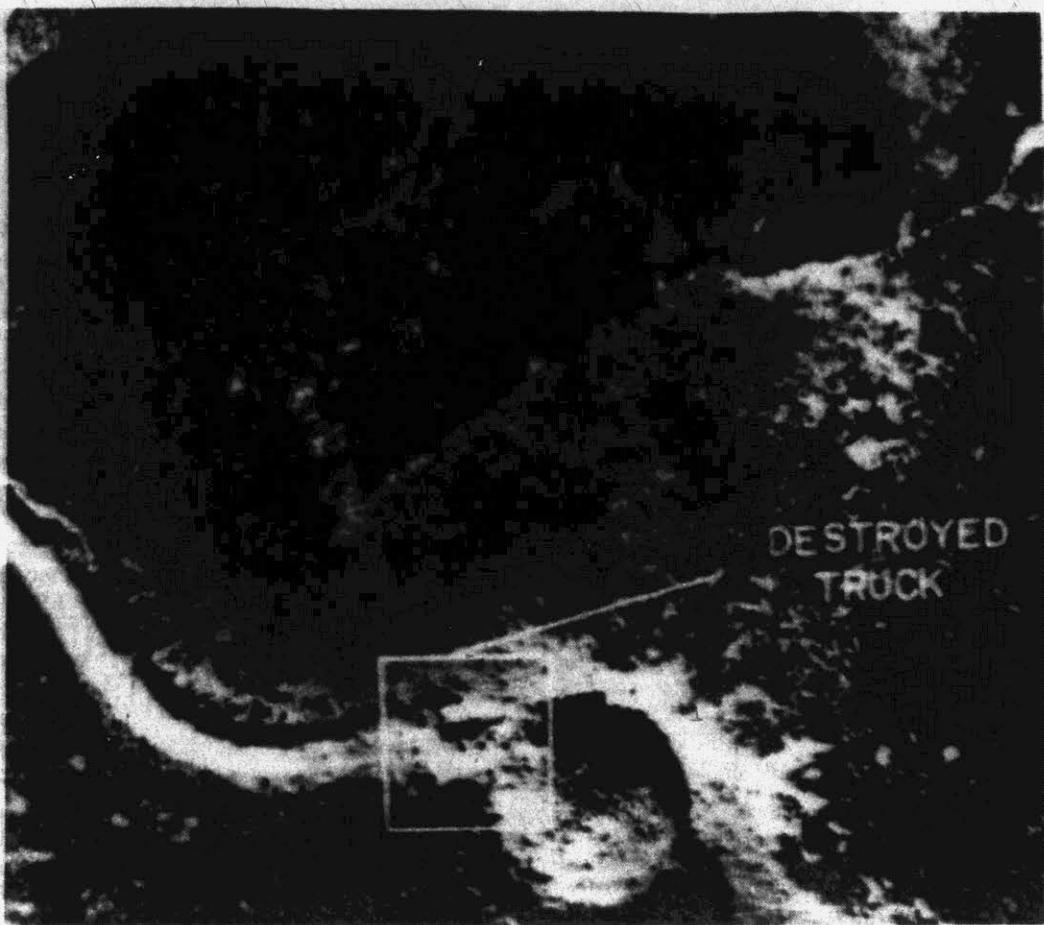

Rich Jones led Dallas with 27 points as the Chaps built a 10-point lead in the final period and then staved off a Pittsburgh rally. John Brisker, who sparked the rally along with George Thompson, led the Condors with 17 points.

Bill Butler of Kansas State led North rushers with 57 yards in 14 carries, Bruce Laird of American Institute made 38 in 8 and Ernie Cook of Minnesota covered 22 in 7 tries.

For the South, Durrance romped for 50 in 12 attempts, Tennessee's Curt Watson gained 43 in 12 and Allen Harrell of Arkansas State got 24 in 7 before departing with a severe knee injury.

Dean Carlson of Iowa State hit 9 of 15 passes for 107 yards for the North. Diagneau connected on 4 of 8, but gained only four yards. Jim Hamilton of Arkansas State connected on 8 of 20 for the South to gain 79 yards and Scooter Longmire of Utah was 1 of 8 for 14.

Gary Thielier of Tennessee grabbed six passes for 61 yards and Barry Pearson of Northwestern caught four for 44 yards for the North.

Senate Leaders Anxious To Avoid Money Battle

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders, anxious to limit election year money fights, are proposing early action on appropriations to finance the government next year.

"Everybody has a common interest in getting out early next year," said Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

Despite that interest held by both Scott and Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, it is a virtual certainty that Congress will have to recess for the Democratic National Convention and return to work in mid-summer.

The Democratic convention begins in Miami Beach July 9, the Republicans convene in San Diego Aug. 21. Congressional business between the nominating sessions would certainly be heavily flavored by presidential politics, particularly with the Democratic nominee likely to come from the Senate.

And there is no guarantee Congress would be able to finish work in time to adjourn for the year prior to the Republican convention.

The situation is similar to that of 1960, when then-Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson returned to the floor of the Senate as that party's nominees for President and vice president.

As vice president, Richard Nixon was then the presiding officer of the Senate.

Hoping to speed things up,

Scott has prepared a resolution to require that the authorization bills which must be passed in advance of appropriations be sent to the floor of the Senate by next June 1.

That could clear the way for early action on the appropriations bills Congress must pass each year before adjourning. They cover spending for the budget year beginning each July 1, but few of them are in fact approved by that time. Instead, Congress has routinely approved resolutions to continue spending authority while it decides what to do about appropriations.

That buys time, but it won't be much help next year if Congress hopes to adjourn during the summer.

Prepare For New Flu Epidemic

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With an eye on the calendar as well as the microscope, scientists are working to blunt the next thrust of a worldwide influenza epidemic.

Major epidemics of the disease sweep the world about every decade, making the late 1970s the next danger period. And the danger is real. The "Asian Flu" epidemic of 1957-1958 and the "Hong Kong Flu" one, are now following two avenues toward a more effective, more quickly generated vaccine.

To head off the next wave there are new diplomatic initiatives as well as advances in the laboratory.

The government's National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases is working against the clock "with the hopes that we can get some better way of handling this—a better vaccine, or else some other method of handling the disease, maybe even better (drug) treatment," says its director, Dr. Dorland J. Davis.

Davis recommends present-day vaccines for such groups as the elderly and the chronically ill, but acknowledges that they haven't been effective for the population at large.

In the influenza virus, scientists face a medical quick-change artist that is unlike its viral relatives such as smallpox, measles and poliomyelitis for which successful long-term vaccines have been developed.

New strains, mutations of known flu virus, keep popping up to slip past the immunity the body has built up against their ancestors.

When a new virus arrives, says Davis, it takes several months under current methods to isolate it and make vaccines.

"So much time is taken up that the epidemic is over," he adds.

Scientists, who feel this winter flu season will be a "quiet" one, are now following two avenues toward a more effective, more quickly generated vaccine.

Flu virus microbes, Davis says, have an "overcoat" of protein antigens, substances which stimulate the formation of antibodies, disease fighters within the body.

"It's our hope that by studying these antigens we might identify ones that are significant and then recombine those in such a way that we will have a vaccine which can be more useful," says Davis.

Another approach is the "hybrid virus." When a new mutant virus strain shows up, says Davis, it can be combined with a known, quick-growing virus to shorten dramatically the time needed to produce a vaccine.

Sources in the scientific community say they are hoping to get at the suspected source of the periodic epidemics—southern China.

They say privately that recent trips by American scientists to southern China plus President Nixon's planned trip to the mainland may lead to opportunities for exploration of a generally held theory on the origin of the diseases.

Turnabout By Defector

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says a Soviet intelligence officer who defected to the United States nearly three months ago is back in Moscow.

State Department press officer Charles W. Bray III said Monday that Anatoliy K. Chebotaryev was under no duress when he decided to return. He boarded a Moscow-bound Aeroflot plane in New York Sunday night.

Chebotaryev, described as a major in the Soviet intelligence service, held the post of an engineer with the Soviet trade mission in Brussels when he walked into the U.S. Embassy there Oct. 3 and asked to be taken to the United States.

He arrived here Oct. 7 and lived in the Washington area "under no restraint of any kind," Bray said.

U.S. And Russia Agree To Space Data Exchange

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union have agreed to start exchanging medical and biological data gleaned from space flights and will talk about exchanging scientists, the Manned Spacecraft Center has announced.

The agreement recommends that cochairmen of a joint working group explore the possibility of an exchange of one or two scientists to work in laboratories during biomedical research programs in the two nations.

Details of the agreement were worked out in a meeting in Moscow Oct. 9-13 and were announced Monday. The October meeting resulted from a Jan. 21 space cooperation agreement between the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

The cochairmen of the working group are Dr. Charles A. Berry, former chief physician for the U.S. astronaut team and now NASA's director of life sciences, and Dr. N. N. Gurnavsky of the U.S.S.R. Ministry of Health and a member of the Soviet Academy.

The announcement said the October session included an examination of selected biomedical data and an exchange of reports on the Soviet Soyuz and the U.S. Apollo programs.

"In the interest of expanded and more regular exchange of space biomedical data the working group recommended that meetings be held at least once a year or more frequently should the need arise," the announcement said.

"The joint working group recommended that the next meeting be held in May 1972 in the United States to consider in addition to flight data, methods of predicting the state of the human organism during and after space flights, methods of pre- and post-flight medical observations of flight crew members, and recommendations to achieve a consistent use of terminology."

Tuesday. Some happenings lend themselves to visual presentation; others don't. TV is partly show biz: There has to be something light. Producers, writers and anchor men are prisoners of the clock. But when the red light signals air time in the studio, someone has to have made the decisions. This is news tonight; and this is not.

Such decisions have to be personal; no computer can make them. They are the products of professional judgment, but that is merely another way of saying that they are personal opinions. Miss Efron's point is that in 1968, the judgments — or opinions — resulted in a lopsidedly liberal bias in the network news.

Her documentation provides a thousand telling examples. One issue in the fall of 1968 was U.S. policy toward the war in Vietnam. During the seven-week period of her study, CBS carried one item only in support of that policy. This was a 287-word excerpt from a speech by Lyndon Johnson on October 9. But CBS carried 20 items in this period, totaling 651 words on 13 different evenings, in which the policy was opposed.

Look at the record more closely. It was "news" in the judgment of CBS that the war was opposed by John Gilligan of Ohio, George Ball, Senator Morse and Eldridge Cleaver.

This was not news at ABC. At ABC which carried 413 words in support of the war, it was news — 1,467 word of news — that Senator Fulbright, Paul O'Dwyer, Senator McCarthy, Senator Javits, Dick Gregory and Vanessa Redgrave opposed the war.

None of this, in turn, was news at NBC. Oddly, NBC reported no news whatever — not a single word in seven weeks — in defense of the war policy; but it was news at NBC, to the tune of 1,017 words, that the war was opposed by, among others, Tom Hayden of the SDS, the president of Yale and Connecticut matron.

This is not a pattern of news; it is a pattern of bias — and for this pattern the network news executives have to be held accountable. As we move into the 1972 campaign, viewers of the evening news will want to keep the pattern of 1968 in mind, and be wary.

One of the puzzling things to scientists is that city cats seem to be getting measurably darker than cats raised in rural settings. Some believe the change is genetic—a case of evolution at work. Why the change? One belief is that city cats lead more dangerous lives and therefore need more camouflage.

Another thing puzzling to science is why dogs bark. Wild dogs don't bark—although they howl and growl, yelp and whine—until put in company with domestic dogs. One possibility: the barking of dogs is a response they have developed to the sounds of the human voice.

Odd claims to fame: Edward Damaresqu lived 85 years on a pension, the longest of any man in history. A surveyor-general of Tasmania, he was put on a full pension by the East India Company at the age of 19 in 1821 because of ill health. He enjoyed it until he died in 1906 at 104.

Policeman The Worry Clinic Is Dragged Small Wonder Rates So High

HICKORY, N.C. (AP) — A motorist who had been stopped on a driving charge fired at one of two policemen early today, and dragged the other 177 feet under his car.

The other patrolman fired three times at the car and hit the man in the shoulder. He got away, but had been recognized by the policemen. He was captured without resistance at his home in Hickory after additional officers and deputies surrounded the residence.

The motorist was identified as John Henry Ennis, 59, a furniture worker. He was charged with drunken driving, assault with a deadly weapon by firing his pistol, assault with an automobile, hit and run, failure to render aid, and secret assault for pulling the gun.

Small Wonder Rates So High

Mary's tragic case suggests the need for far more "horse sense" in our courtrooms! And medical fees would be much less. So would automobile insurance. For miniskirts and hot pants, instead of logic, sway many juries!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case S-556: Mary T., aged 13, was in an airplane crash. "Dr. Crane," a mutual friend informed, "Mary's home was struck by a Navy jet plane."

"And Mary was killed instantly."

"Her family sued the government and were awarded $80,000 in damages because of her death.

"But when a railroad yard worker recently had both legs cut off by a freight car shunted down his siding, he won a judgment of $950,000."

"Yet he was middle-aged! And still alive afterwards!"

"Besides, a double amputee can get along quite well with artificial legs. How do you justify awarding a man almost a million dollars!"

"No wonder insurance rates are so terrific!"

"So why don't we have a standardized and more reasonable scale of damages?"

Legal Nonsense
A leading insurance executive recently told me:

"Dr. Crane, we no longer can predict how juries will act!"
"You may have all the logic on your side, but a phony witness in a miniskirt or hot pants can bamboozle the jury with her crocodile tears."
"So the jury may render a verdict in her favor and for excessive amounts."

"That's why automobile and professional liability insurance premiums now run so high."
"Why, some physicians in California must pay $7,500 per year just for malpractice insurance!"

When I was interning at Wesley Memorial Hospital in Chicago, we often had cases of minor auto injuries.
In fact, some unscrupulous men (and women) would wait at a stop light till an oncoming auto came almost to a halt.
Then these crooks would throw themselves in front of the car and claim they were struck.
Afterwards, they would malingering about their so-called "serious" injuries in order to make a good case for "am-balance chasing" attorneys.

It is now becoming a racket to "milk" anybody with property or wealth, regardless of whether such a person is totally innocent.
So one of the much needed innovations in American society is a standardized legal scale of financial awards for various injuries.
A generation ago, accidental death was rated at maybe $25,000 by insurance firms.
Loss of an arm or leg would be $5,000, ect.
With inflation now rampant, maybe those figures might properly be doubled.

But no ordinary workman with half his productive life already behind him, should merit anywhere near a million dollars for loss of both legs!
Do returning Army cripples get such lavish awards?
Skyrocketing automobile insurance rates would then drop surprisingly.
So would the fees you now must pay to physicians and dental surgeons!
For insurance companies at present are under a legal "sword of Damocles" for they never know whether they will be tapped for $10,000 or $1,000,000 in a case of amputated limbs!

And many a workman, after a few beers at lunch, is actually responsible for his own injuries on the job.
But it is standard practice to blame the employer, whether that be a factory, railroad or trucking firm.
Let's have more "horse sense" in our courtrooms.!

IRS Will Check Posting Of Prices Carried Out

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Internal Revenue Service agents will begin checking retail stores closely next week for violations of rules requiring freeze-period price ceilings to be posted prominently.

"We will vigorously enforce this regulation," an IRS spokesman said. "These directions have gone out to the field."

Enforcement will be concentrated in big chain stores, those with annual sales of $100,000 or more and subject to a government regulation requiring prior approval of price increases, the spokesman said.

But he emphasized that consumers searching for the highest possible price a store can charge on a given item can obtain that information only by asking the store's management.

What must be posted under government requirements are freeze-period prices, the legally permissible ceilings that existed on goods during the 90-day wage-price freeze from Aug. 15 to Nov. 13.

In many cases, retailers have asked and received approval from the Price Commission to boost their prices beyond this limit. As a result, the freeze-period price is intended only as a rough guide for consumers.

There's one general rule, however, that government regulators informally pass on to consumers: If the price increase on a given item exceeds 2.5 per cent, ask the retailer for the new ceiling price.

Although 2.5 per cent is a general target, the government has approved many price increases higher than that. The rule is that a retailer may not boost his percentage markup, and price increases must be justified by cost increases.

Consumers, however, will not get a look at all the ceiling prices that were permissible during the freeze.

A retailer with annual sales of more than $100,000 a year must post the freeze-period ceiling prices on, at most, 40 items in each department of his store. The items covered are the ones he sold most during the last fiscal year. Or he may post prices only on items that accounted for at least half of total dollar sales in each department.

One exception: Large retailers must post freeze-period prices on all of their food products.

For retailers with annual sales less than $100,000, the same posting rules apply, with a few exceptions. Not all food ceiling prices must be posted, only the ceiling prices on high-volume goods.

The IRS spokesman said little trouble is foreseen in gaining compliance with the posting requirements, long sought by consumer groups. "We're getting a good response," he said.

Judge Orders Occupiers Out

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge ordered 16 antiwar veterans today to remove their barricades from inside the Statue of Liberty, the national monument they have held since Sunday night to protest continuation of fighting in Vietnam.

Judge Lawrence W. Pierce barred the veterans from continuing their occupation, effective the moment their lawyers arrived on Liberty Island in New York Bay to inform them of his ruling.

Pierce's decision came after government lawyers argued that they could not "bargain away the right of other people to visit the statue," which they called "a symbol for mankind."

The government also contended that damage possibly was being done to the statue because the veterans have gained access to locked parts of the 305-foot-high monument.

"Since they have no keys, we can only surmise they gained access by knocking down the doors or some other way," said Asst. U.S. Atty. Alan B. Morrison.

A lawyer for the veterans countered, however, that he talked with the group Monday and was assured that the government's surmise that damage was occurring "is without foundation."

A full hearing on a motion for an injunction was scheduled for Jan. 5.

'Students Only' Conference Set

GREENSBORO (AP)—High school journalism pupils will have a chance to fire questions at Gov. Bob Scott Jan. 8 at the University of North Carolina.

The governor said he would conduct a news conference "for students only" following his speech to high school pupils attending a journalism workshop.

Concerned Over POW Treatment

GENEVA (AP)—The International Red Cross Committee said today its delegates in Dacca have approached Bangla Desh authorities in an effort to assure humane treatment of those held prisoner by the new government.

The committee confirmed that it received a message from the Chinese Red Cross alleging prisoners are subjected to atrocities and asking the committee to intervene.

"Our delegates in Dacca are examining the situation and discussing the issue with the local authorities," a Red Cross spokesman said.

Charge Eight In Seoul Tragedy

SEOUL (AP)—Police charged eight persons today with negligent homicide and other offenses in connection with a Christmas Day hotel fire which took 157 lives.

Among those arrested were Im Yong-san, 50, president of the Taeyonkang Hotel, who was charged with negligent homicide, and three city officials who were accused of overlooking defects in the hotel's fire escapes and firefighting facilities.

White House Is Open To Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—When President Nixon went to Florida he left the White House open to let the public get a look at the mansion's Christmas decorations.

Monday night 11,442 persons toured the downstairs public rooms, which will remain open to visitors through tonight.

Schedule Another Course In Preparation For Parenthood

A "Preparation for Parenthood" course will begin at the Moyewood Social Services Center Jan. 5.

This 24-hour course is designed for expectant parents or others desiring understanding of the maternity cycle, the newborn, and their care. This course, designed for both husband and wife, will dispel any misinformation and assist participants in establishing confidence in their roles as parents, Mrs. Lana P. Ratcliffe, R.N., one of the instructors, said.

Instruction will be provided to promote skills in body mechanics as an aid in achieving optimum conditions for labor and delivery. Hospital routines will also be discussed. The course will describe characteristics of the newborn, home preparation, infant care, and development through the first year of life. Lecture, discussion, audio-visual demonstrations, and practice sessions will be utilized.

Instruction will be provided by junior level students of obstetrical nursing under the direction of Mrs. Ratcliffe and Mrs. Theresa G. Lawler, R.N.,

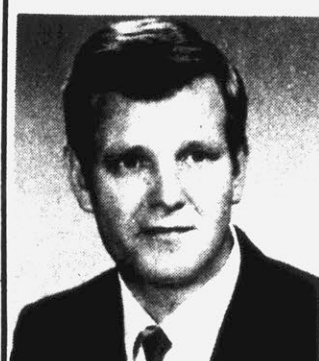

Many Gifts Before She Died

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—An eight-year-old leukemia patient whom doctors had not expected to live until Christmas died Monday.

The youngster, Mary Nell Humphries, "got just about everything a little girl could want for Christmas," said her father, Bobby Humphries, a Gastonia textile worker.

The little girl got many gifts Christmas morning, more Saturday afternoon from police, and an ambulance ride with her family to tour the county and look at Christmas decorations.
