Three Planes Lost; Targets Listed

Air Strikes In North Vietnam Are Ended

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The heaviest air attack on North Vietnam in more than three years ended today after more than 1,000 combat strikes in five days, the U.S. Command announced.

Three U.S. planes were lost, five fliers listed as missing and one was rescued, the command said. North Vietnam claimed 14 U.S. planes were shot down and a number of pilots killed or captured.

The U.S. Command said one Air Force F4 Phantom was lost Sunday and its two crewmembers are listed as missing. It said two Navy planes from carriers in the Tonkin gulf, an F4 and an A6, went down today, and only one crewman of the A6 was rescued.

An earlier announcement today said only one plane was downed during the five days of raids. A spokesman said announcement of the other two losses was delayed until the search for their crews was completed.

The U.S. armada of some 350 planes and other aircraft attacked MIG Air Bases, surface-to-air missile sites, antiaircraft artillery batteries, air defense radar sites and fuel and supply depots between the demilitarized zone and the 20th parallel of latitude. The northernmost attacks were about 80 miles south of Hanoi.

Hundreds of other missions were flown by support aircraft including fighters escorting the bombers to protect them against MIG interceptors, electronic planes to jam the enemy radar, command and control aircraft, reconnaissance planes and rescue helicopters.

It was the biggest attack on North Vietnam and the deepest penetration since the bombing halt on Nov. 1, 1968.

"The strikes were terminated at 3:36 p.m. today," the U.S. Command said in a statement. "A damage assessment review is in progress. When information becomes available, additional details will be provided. We have nothing further to add at this time." The sharp escalation in the air war began Sunday, one week after five U.S. planes were shot down during operations along the border between North Vietnam and Laos.

Official pilots' reports reaching Saigon said poor weather—mostly low clouds—prevented an accurate assessment of the damage done by the raids.

"It may be some time before we get clear weather so that reconnaissance planes can photograph the damage," said one U.S. diplomatic source. But much of the bombing was done by "all weather" planes using radar and computers to guide them to their targets. Informal sources said the strikes would have been even more intense had the weather been clear.

Veteran pilots said they encountered some of the heaviest missile fire from North Vietnam's Soviet SAMs they had run into since the United States began sustained air war against the North in February 1965. They reported sighting MIG jets several times but said none challenged them.

Most of the attacks against fuel and supply depots were in the areas of the Mu Gia, Ban Karai and Ban Raving passes, the key entry point to the Ho Chi Minh trail that runs down through southeast Laos into South Vietnam and Cambodia, the command said. Mu Gia, the northernmost of the three passes, is 70 miles above the DMZ.

"The North Vietnamese have been told repeatedly that action would be taken to protect the lives of U.S. military personnel should the enemy threaten our aircraft or engage in efforts to achieve a significant logistics buildup or violate the DMZ," the command said.

Four MIG bases were repeatedly attacked, the objective being to crater the runways and destroy communications equipment, the command reported.

The command said the bases were bombed because there had been increased MIG activity from them.

In the ground war, 25,000 South Vietnamese troops ended a 39-day drive in Eastern Cambodia against staging areas of three North Vietnamese divisions. The campaign along Highway 7 was designed to head off an enemy dry-season offensive into the 3rd Military Region of South Vietnam, which includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces.

South Vietnamese military headquarters claimed 1,336 North Vietnamese troops were killed, many of them by massive U.S. air support. But only 195 weapons were reported captured, indicating that the claim was considerably inflated. South Vietnamese losses were reported as 86 troops killed, 226 wounded and 17 armored vehicles destroyed or damaged. The South Vietnamese Command also claimed that numerous supply caches and much enemy equipment were destroyed.

Some of the paratroopers who took part in the drive were reportedly being shifted to the Central Highlands near the border of northeastern Cambodia, where North Vietnamese troops are reported massing for an offensive.

Heavy fighting continued at two points north and south of Phnom Penh, the Cambodian military command reported. It said the road to the provincial capital of Prey Veng had been cut as the result of a battle 30 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

$8,634 Award

A $8,634 award for scientific research has been granted to East Carolina University by the National Science Foundation.

The funds will be divided among the departments whose professors have been actively involved in personal research projects which are primarily supported by other grants.

Dr. John Howell, dean of the ECU Graduate School, said the NSF grant is intended to encourage the institution's programs in scientific research.

Six academic departments at ECU will share the grant: Biology, Chemistry, Geology, Physics, Psychology and Science Education.

Shaping Foreign Trade Changes

By STERLING F. GREEN
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has sketched new blueprints for a many-sided effort to rebuild U.S. trading competitiveness and technological leadership.

Export-stimulating proposals contained in the newly released White House report include consideration of the value-added tax, special credit arrangements for exporters, tax incentives for private research and development, and the possible establishment of Japanese-style trading corporations.

The effort would supplement the dismantling of trade barriers the topic of negotiations begun as part of the agreement among the Group of Ten richest non-Communist industrial nations for currency revaluation and monetary reform.

The report was prepared by Peter G. Peterson, special presidential assistant for international economic policy, at President Nixon's request.

The book-length document has been used in briefing the President, Cabinet members and other high officials, but Peterson emphasized that its proposals "are still in the development and evaluation stage."

In a survey of overseas obstacles to trade—which presumably would be major targets of American negotiators in the current talks—the paper accuses the European Common Market countries of fostering a discriminatory trade system that threatens to divide the world into rival blocs and "leave as outcasts the Asian and Latin American countries."

The report also criticizes Japan's longtime policy of manufacturing almost impenetrable barriers to foreign products and investments, but notes that these restrictions are being gradually eliminated.

The report suggests that the United States might learn from some Japanese techniques.

"The Japanese example of promoting large trading companies, which specialize in export development, is well worth evaluating," Peterson said.

The report confirms that Nixon will send to the new session of Congress a new "technologies opportunity program" designed to stimulate industrial research and development.

Peterson also suggested that the value-added tax, long favored by Nixon, could provide a valuable stimulus to U.S. exports as it does to European exports.

The tax is a flat levy on the value added to manufactured goods at each stage of the production process.

Dramatic Fall For U.S. Birth Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's birth rate fell dramatically this year to one of the lowest levels in history, a preliminary estimate by the Census Bureau shows.

Population experts are puzzled by the sharp decline since an increase in the birth rate had been expected in 1971. Whatever the cause, they are hopeful it represents more than just a short-term phenomenon.

According to the estimate, the rate dropped to 17.3 births per thousand people, a dramatic dip over the 18.3 births per thousand recorded in 1970. The rate is based on an estimated 3,591,000 births this year.

Although final figures won't be in until February or March, Census officials are now almost certain their preliminary estimates will be borne out in the final count since the birth figures for January through October are known to be well below last year's rate.

Not since the years of the Depression during the 1930s has the birth rate been so low. But the 1971 estimated rate, even with a decline, still implies continued growth of the U.S. population.

Census officials are cautious about trying to interpret what the 1971 decline means, lest they be caught by a sudden upsurge in 1972. An increase had been anticipated because of the relatively large number of women of prime child-bearing age.

But they suspect it means that either women have decided to have smaller families or have postponed plans for more children for various reasons, such as the state of the national economy and fears of such things as inflation and unemployment.

Population experts are reluctant because the birth rate figures are still preliminary and the detailed breakdowns needed to make analysis are not yet available.

"I don't know why," said Dr. Murray Gendell, director of Georgetown University's Center for Population Research. "It's a real puzzle. We need much more detailed information."

He noted that the birth rate began declining in 1958 and did so steadily through 1968. Then it picked up to 17.8 per thousand in 1969 and reached 18.3 last year.

Some Speculate Soviet Would Pay Malta Price

By RODNEY PINDER
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain today prepared to pull its forces out of Malta after telling Prime Minister Dom Mintoff that his price for the Mediterranean island's naval and air bases was too high. There was speculation that the Russians would pay if the NATO allies wouldn't.

Many Maltese were stunned at the news that Mintoff was ready to sever the island's 170-year-old ties with Britain. Malta's police force was put on a general alert in case of trouble in the streets from pro-British factions.

Malta's fiery Socialist prime minister has demanded $46.8 million a year for allowing Britain to keep army, navy and air force units stationed on the island that was a strategic fortress in World War II but is no longer considered vital to the Western allies.

Britain and its partners in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization offered $24.7 million, plus $18.2 million spread over five years. The showdown after months of negotiations came Wednesday when Mintoff demanded $11 million immediately, and Britain refused. Mintoff told the British to get out by Friday, and Britain responded by ordering her 3,500 servicemen and their 7,000 dependents on the island to prepare to leave.

The British said, however, that it would take until March 31 to get their forces out. They pointed out that they paid Mintoff $12.3 million as rent on the bases until then.

The British have been paying $11½ million a year for the naval base and two airfields.

Mintoff has frequently stressed that if the British go, he would not allow the Russians or any other foreign power to establish a presence on the island.

But Malta—population 325,000—is in financial straits, its bases are all it has to sell, and the Russians are the only other prospective customer.

If Britain pulls out, Malta loses the base rent, plus an estimated $13 million a year spent on the island by the British servicemen and their families. And to 6,000 presently unemployed will be added another 6,500 who work for the British.

Record Sum For Industry

RALEIGH (AP) — Industry pledged to spend a record $702 million for new manufacturing facilities in North Carolina this year, Resources Secretary Charles W. Bradshaw Jr. announced today.

He said at a special news conference this was $20 million more than the previous record investment of $682.5 million in 1969. The 1970 figure was $632 million.

"Setting a new record is significant," Bradshaw said, "but more important are the 25,433 jobs that new manufacturing facilities created for North Carolinians in 1971."

He added, "In a period when the national trend was towards increased unemployment, 25,000 new jobs mean more to the people of our state than any other economic indicator."

Bradshaw said the average beginning pay for the 25,000 new jobs will be $5,375. This compares with 22,500 new jobs in 1970 with an average beginning pay of $5,054.

"Job opportunities with good pay for our citizens is the reason state government pursues a policy of seeking new industry and assisting existing industrial citizens in their expansion programs," Bradshaw said.

He told newsmen the 1971 capital investment of $702 million will add $136.7 million to the North Carolina payroll.

License Plates Will Go On Sale Here January 1

Mrs. Anna D. Garriss, the local license agent for both city and state tags, has announced that the 1972 license plates will go on sale beginning Saturday, January 1, 1972 at 9:00 a.m., at Home and Auto Supply on Dickinson Street.

Hours for sale of the tags will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. each Monday through Friday, with Saturday hours from 9:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

Mrs. Garriss states that one point particularly needs emphasizing in order that fast, efficient service be performed. "Each person must have the renewal card," she observed, "before a plate can be issued."

She also added "it is very important that everyone fill these out and have them signed before presenting the renewal card for purchasing a license plate." This action will not only insure quicker action for each patron, but will prevent the forming of long lines.

Anyone who has not received a renewal card should contact Mrs. Garriss early so that there will be sufficient time to contact Raleigh to get a card. A person may also notify by mail the Department of Motor Vehicles in Raleigh of non-receipt of a renewal card if they have not received one by the first of January.

Another thing Mrs. Garriss mentioned is information on problems with titles. "I want everyone to feel free to call me or my assistant, Robin Garriss, should there be any problems with titles," she remarked. The telephone number is 758-1193.

Judge Says No-Fault Insurance Discriminatory

CHICAGO (AP) — A judge has ruled Illinois' new no-fault auto insurance law unconstitutional, contending it discriminates against the poor, but state officials say they will appeal the decision and they expect the law to take effect Jan. 1 as scheduled.

Judge Daniel Covelli of Circuit Court praised the concept of no-fault auto insurance Wednesday, but objected to a section which links pain and suffering claims to medical expenses.

The law requires insurance companies to pay their clients' claims regardless of who was responsible for an accident, but a special feature limits claims for pain and suffering to an amount equal to not more than half of medical expenses up to $500 and to an amount equal to no more than medical expenses above $500.

Because the poor generally go to public hospitals where charges are low, Covelli said, they would receive actual dollar compensation less than persons who went to more expensive, private hospitals. The disparity, he ruled, would violate the constitutional rights of the poor to equal protection and due process.

"Persons with identical injuries and requiring identical medical treatment," Covelli said, "could receive widely disparate amounts of compensation for their general damages, depending on purely fortuitous factors such as where the injury occurred, which hospital was used, what doctor was employed and the wealth or poverty of the victim."

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie said, "The decision will be appealed immediately." Attorneys for the state said they would file for a stay of the injunction Covelli is issuing to prohibit the state from spending money to administer the law.

Appeals are expected to the Illinois Supreme Court, and perhaps the U.S. Supreme Court, state officials said, and the stays usually are granted in such circumstances.

Both state officials and insurance industry spokesmen said the no-fault coverage would take effect Jan. 1, because the benefits already are written into 1972 policies.

The Illinois law excludes death, dismemberment, permanent disability and permanent disfigurement from the limit on pain and suffering claims, but the limiting feature is not a universal provision of no-fault auto insurance laws.

Covelli ruled on a class-action suit filed on behalf of low-income residents of Illinois.

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday

MRS. LINWOOD HAROLD SMITH

Miss Hilda Fay Little, of Rt. 1 Greenville, daughter of Mrs. Clarence J. Little and the late Mr. Little and Linwood Harold Smith, son of Mrs. J. M. Smith of Greenville and the late Mr. Smith, were united in marriage Sunday at three o'clock in the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. Willis Wilson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Susan Smith. Mrs. T. L. Byrd, sister of the bridegroom, soloist, sang "Whither Thou Goest," "The Sweetest Story Ever Told" and the "Wedding Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, J. B. Benton of Fremont, wore a formal length white chantilly lace gown styled with a sabrina neckline and A-line silhouette skirt with a full train. The empire bodice was trimmed in tiny embroidered white flowers as was the satin ribbon that formed a sash. The long full sleeves were also of chantilly lace.

She wore an elbow length illusion veil attached to a headpiece of embroidered lace medallions. The bride carried a prayer book with a white orchid with streamers of white velvet.

Mrs. J. B. Benton of Fremont, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a street length dress of light blue shantique featuring short sleeves with a latticed lace covered bodice. Her matching blue headpiece was styled with organza flowers and sheer petals with a blue illusion veil. She carried a nosegay of red and white carnations with red and white velvet streamers.

Li. Burnice Smith of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were O. J. Stancill Jr. of Kinston and Jan Smith of Greenville.

The bride's mother wore a navy polyester dress with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore a garnet polyester dress and matching accessories. Both mothers wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Clifton Worthington presided at the register. After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside at Rt. 1, Greenville.

On Saturday evening following the rehearsal, a cake cutting was given by Mrs. O. J. Stancill Jr. and Mrs. J. B. Benton at the home of Mrs. Stancill in Kinston.

The table was decorated with ivy and a centerpiece of white carnations and mums.

The three tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Zeb Mooring, sister of the bridegroom, and punch was poured by the bride's mother, Mrs. Clarence J. Little.

The bridal couple presented their attendants with gifts.

Pilgreen-Penny Vows Spoken On Sunday

The Arlington Street Baptist Church was the scene of the Sunday wedding of Miss Gwendolyn Faye Penny and Paul Pilgreen at 4:00 p.m.

The Rev. Russell Myers officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Walter Hearne of Greenville, organist. Wallace Powers, soloist, sang "Wedding Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Elwood Penny of Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. William Luther Pilgreen of Rt. 9, Greenville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white satin designed with an empire waistline and scoop neckline. Her floor length veil of illusion was designed with lace trim. The gown and veil were made by Mrs. Mattie Mae DeLoach, aunt of the bride.

The bride carried a bouquet of white phalaenopsis orchids with Frenched red carnations tied with red and white velvet ribbons.

Miss Sandra Daniels of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a Christmas green floor length satin dress with an empire waistline, high neckline and belled sleeves. Her headpiece was a matching green bow and illusion and she carried a bouquet of red carnations and white pom poms tied with red and green ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Denette Penny, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Clifton Whitehurst, both of Greenville. Their gowns were styled identical to the honor attendant in Christmas red and their bouquets were tied with green and white streamers.

Junior bridesmaid was Carolyn Pilgreen of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom. She was dressed in a red satin dress fashioned with an empire waist, high neckline and Juliette sleeves. Her headpiece and flowers were identical to the bridesmaids.

Flower girl was Renee DeLoach of Greenville, cousin of the bride. She wore a dress of white satin and wore a white ribbon in her hair. She carried a white basket tied with red ribbons and dropped red petals.

The bridegroom's father was best man. Ushers were Bill and Earl Penny, brothers of the bride, and Dave Tuten, all of Greenville.

The church was decorated with candelabra flanked with greenery and arrangements of white mums and pom poms. A prie-dieu was placed at the altar and pews were marked with white satin bows.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a blue dress and wore an orchid corsage lifted from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and is attending Pitt Technical Institute. She works parttime as a secretary at Pitt Memorial hospital. The bridegroom also graduated from Rose High School and is employed by Collins and Alkman, Farmville.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall following the ceremony.

The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons and pom poms.

Mrs. Joe DeLoach served cake after the bridal couple had cut the traditional first slice of the cake. Mrs. William Pilgreen poured punch.

Non-Jews Welcome In Most Synagogues

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me why non-Jews are not allowed to visit Jewish synagogues? Don't tell me this is not true because I was personally turned away. A GENTILE

DEAR GENTILE: According to Rabbi Bernard S. Raskas, Temple of Aaron, St. Paul, Minn., never is anyone asked upon entering a synagogue whether he is Jewish.

During the High Holy Days, (three days a year) all synagogues are crowded with congregation members and there are no extra seats available. In this kind of situation, as in an overcrowded theater, concert hall, etc., where there is simply no room, understanding and cooperation is expected.

Outside of these rare instances, all branches of Judaism cordially welcome non-Jewish visitors.

DEAR ABBY: My son is 15 and he thinks he is in love. The person he is in love with is two years younger than I am, and I am 34.

Would you put a stop to this romance, or would you let it go on? My son said if I tried to put a stop to it, I might just as well forget him as a son.

I could press charges against the woman, but she has had her share of problems, and I don't want to put her thru any more. She left a very good husband for my son, and altho I think she must be crazy to want a 15-year-old kid, she does treat him awfully good.

If you have any advice for me, please hurry it.

NERVOUS IN LITTLE ROCK

DEAR NERVOUS: Unless you want to press charges against the woman, there is nothing you can do.

DEAR ABBY: A letter in your column signed "BUGGED," about the guests not eating, but taking the refreshments home, prompts this letter.

Is it considered proper to take refreshments home? I'm sick of preparing (and buying) goodies for guests who ask if they can take some home to their husbands and children. It happens at parties and showers. It even happened at my wedding. [Even tho we ordered the cake for 75 to 100 extra people, there wasn't even a piece left for me to taste!]

How can this piggy practice of taking refreshments home from parties be brought to an end? ALSO BUGGED

DEAR ALSO: It probably can't. Some hostesses insist that their guests take home the leftover goodies. Not all are motivated by generosity, they just don't want the tempting stuff around.

CONFIDENTIAL TO F. D. J.: Beware of statistics! They can make a case for almost any point one wants to prove—depending upon a variety of factors. For instance: Statistics showed that Switzerland ranked Number One in the highest increase of unemployment over the last year.

Those statistics would indicate that the glorious little country which so many regard as the ideal place to live has suffered a tremendous economic blow. The FACT IS: In 1970 there were 34 jobless men in Switzerland, and in 1971 the unemployment figure rose to a grand total of 51! Ha!

DEAR ABBY: This is for the person who never misses a chance to brag about his ancestors. If he goes back to his great-great-grandfather, ask him what he knows about the other seven. Then remind him that there is as much in his blood from each of these 15 people as there is from the one he boasts of; not more than seven per cent of his heritage can be from any one of them.

If he is so foolish as to go back to his great-great-great there are 32 people involved, and if he goes back to the Mayflower, if that lineup didn't include some bums, prostitutes or horse thieves, his case would be the exception.

"Honor thy father and thy mother." But it's risky to go very far beyond them.

ANOTHER MONGREL

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Lively Package Was Surprise

SWINGTON, England (WNS) — Margery Senior, 66, was told in advance to watch for a surprise package on her doorstep and warned her retired husband George not to have a heart attack over it because it would probably be "only flowers." But when the parcel arrived, out popped Tracey, their four-year-old granddaughter all the way from South Africa. "I almost had a heart attack myself," commented Mrs. Senior later.

Real Loss If Forced To Close

To a greater or lesser degree many of North Carolina's private colleges and universities are facing financial straits not unlike those which is forcing Shaw University to drastic cut-backs in its operations.

The president of the 106-year-old predominantly black institution has announced the school must reduce its $4 million annual budget by at least $1 million next year in order to survive. It means almost a 50 per cent reduction in its faculty and staff as well as programs, and follows a 20 per cent cut-back in personnel which took place quietly last summer.

In other states as well as North Carolina private colleges and universities have found themselves caught in a financial squeeze because of increasing costs and decreasing enrollments. The latter is attributed chiefly to the increasing differential between the cost of attending private colleges and public institutions.

Private institutions have traditionally played an important role in higher education in North Carolina. If several were to be forced to close their doors because of financial problems, it would be a significant loss to higher education in this state.

The drastic action which is being taken at Shaw is shocking. But faced with the alternative of closing the institution, its president Dr. Archie Hargraves has chosen this bold new course in an effort to weather and survive the grave financial situation.

It is not enough for the people of North Carolina merely to sit by with the feeling that the financial crises facing many of its private colleges are not their concern.

The crisis which faces many of the private institutions is indeed a crisis which faces the entire state.

The One Bright Note Is That Slower Rise

It seemed to be the same old story. The FBI reports that violent crime was up 10 percent and property crime up six percent for the first nine months of the year compared with the same period last year.

There was an encouraging note in the report, however. The percentage increase was said to be the smallest in five years and 52 cities of more than 100,000 population reported fewer crimes than in the first nine months of 1970.

It may be that some progress is being made in stemming the ever rising crime rate.

Hanoi Fanning War Protests

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Behind North Vietnam's massive and bloody winter offensive in the Plain of Jars region of Laos is the clear intent of undermining President Nixon's February trip to Communist China.

There are, to be sure, additional explanations. But as viewed by analysts here, Hanoi wants to send another strong signal to Peking that Hanoi looks with great suspicion and some fear on the Nixon visit.

Moreover, that intent is believed to be matched in Moscow, whose ties to Hanoi are closer than generally realized and are getting yet closer. Soviet shipments of arms, food and transport to Hanoi are now at the highest point in several years. Experts inside the Nixon administration believe the Soviet bloc accounts for at least 80 per cent of all outside aid received by Hanoi.

And the Soviets also share Hanoi's diplomatic goals. One of Moscow's major purposes in world power politics is to create tension between the Chinese and Americans on the eve of Mr. Nixon's historic mission to Peking.

This meshes with the Soviet triumph in the Indian sub-continent where Moscow dealt a savage blow to the prestige of both China and the U. S. by all-out support of India's military triumph over Pakistan, which was backed noisily but ineffectually by the U. S. and China. Now, the Kremlin appears to be pressing its fortunes harder in Indochina.

One obvious way to accomplish that is to back Hanoi's veteran regiments on the Plain of Jars region in Laos. Although the invading Communist army has annually seized the plain every dry season, the bloody attacks of the past two weeks have reached a new high in intensity. The North Vietnamese have brought up heavier artillery and more firepower than ever before.

Furthermore, their attack has come earlier in the dry season than last year.

Whether the current offensive is intended to overrun Long Tieng, headquarters of Gen. Vang Pao's gritty little guerrilla army of Meo tribesmen, or stop short is still uncertain. But given the new offensive capability of the North Vietnamese, there is no doubt here that a sweep, as far south of the plain as Hanoi wants is within Communist capabilities.

This military pressure on Laos is matched by North Vietnamese military action to the south in Cambodia. With four trained divisions there, the North Vietnamese are believed by some analysts to be capable of investing Phnom Penh, the beleaguered capital. But, just as in Laos, there are differences of opinion whether the enemy's purpose is to keep advancing or simply to occupy threatening positions in a war of nerves.

The hope in Moscow and Hanoi of spoiling President Nixon's trip to Peking is, however, not the only explanation of Hanoi's military offensives in Laos and Cambodia. Another, quite different, reason is the fact that South Vietnam is beyond Hanoi's reach for the present.

With U. S. war dead down to less than ten a week, the Communists are fast losing one of their most formidable assets over the past 10 years in the Vietnam war: an energetic and effective peace movement in America.

Unable to mount a serious offensive in South Vietnam, Hanoi is doing the next best thing to keep the anti-war flame burning in the U. S. by escalating the way in Laos and Cambodia. With four U. S. jets downed over the Dec. 17-18 weekend (one of which ran out of fuel) and with headlines portraying its military advances outside South Vietnam's borders, the North Vietnamese are desperately trying to energize the anti-war movement on the theory,

Rebels Stuck On Beach

The great conservative rebellion against Richard Nixon, launched last summer on a rolling wave of press releases, seems to be stuck on the beach. It is going nowhere and might as well be abandoned.

I venture that forlorn judgment with some regret. The leaders of this rebellion, identified mostly with Human Events and National Review, possess some of the best minds on the conservative right. Their bill of particulars is soundly based. In announcing that they had suspended their support of the President, they were fired up on philosophy only, without the slightest motive of personal political gain. The movement might have spiced up an otherwise dull campaign.

Yet it has fizzled, and it may be instructive to examine the reasons why.

A political rebellion, if it expects to get anywhere, needs the motive power of professional politicians; it cannot be fueled solely on the hot gases of intellectual indignation. As a general proposition, politicians are not intellectuals, nor intellectuals politicians. There are exceptions—Woodrow Wilson, Henry Wallace, Adlai Stevenson—but their number is few and their batting average is low.

In the case at hand, no politicians of the first rank have rallied to the rebel flag. Barry Goldwater, for example, has rejected the rump movement with characteristic bluntness. Ronald Reagan wants no part of it. John Tower of Texas remains aloof. Even Sen. James L. Buckley, whose younger brother Bill is admiral of the bathtub flotilla, has pointedly and publicly renewed his own support of Mr. Nixon.

In extremis, my colleagues have turned to John M. Ashbrook of Ohio. He is one of the nicest guys in the House, a principled conservative and a thoroughly decent man. His credentials are impeccable, but his name is unknown. If he decides to enter the primary in New Hampshire, the lusty support of the Manchester Union Leader will assure him a Tuesday-night splash. After that, what? After that, nothing.

The conservative rebellion suffers from this defect also, that Mr. Nixon will not stay bad. It is the most unkindest cut of all. A good working rebellion, to stay alive, has to feed on the raw meat of new resentments. Old complaints, like last Saturday's ham, tend to get chewy and run out of juice. Richard III, to pick an agreeable villain, had the kindness to stay a villain. And on to Bosworth Field. Richard Nixon is not so cooperative. The President in October made two smashing nominations to the U. S. Supreme Court. He not only nominated Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist, he got them

Other Editors Say Letters Undelivered

(Wilson Times)

Consider all the letters to the prisoners of war, with signatures by the thousands, plus the letters written to the prisoners by school children and decorated by them, now mouldering in the cellar of a Paris warehouse, unlikely ever to reach any prisoner. As one example the fifth grade children in a West German school wrote and decorated cards and mailed them to "An American prisoner in North Vietnam". The cellar is stuffed with more than 25 tons of letters and petitions. You recall the petition solicited here, and more likely than not resting in the warehouse with many more such letters and petitions.

The cellar is the graveyard of all such communications addressed to the North Vietnamese or Viet Cong delegations at the Paris peace talks. As the word got out that the Communist delegations refused to accept the appeals the flood of mail slowed. This year few Christmas cards have been received and these are buried among the stacks of organized petitions.

Buried among the letters and petitions are boxes of shoes, and books mailed to the prisoners by well-wishers and scattered among the petitions are the Christmas cards and other mail addressed to the prisoners.

When the petitions were being signed the majority doubted they would be delivered. Now there is proof. The petitions and letters arrived but they are not being delivered. So again the effort to bring encouragement to the prisoners of war has failed. They will not have the chance of even a message from home.

It is too bad that the prisoners of war cannot receive the messages from home, but they evidently cannot. Many prisoners have been released, but there are many more. It is now hoped and before too long more will be released.

A Quick Comeback That Failed

By ELMER ROESSNER

With only hours to go, it appears that the once high hopes for economic recovery this year will not be realized. There has been some progress, but much less than was hoped for at, say, the end of the General Motors strike.

In its December Monthly Review, the New York Federal Reserve Bank says: "The progress of the economic recovery from last year's recession continues to be mixed. A year after the cyclical trough, tentatively placed in November 1970, production and employment remain sluggish by comparison with the gains experienced in earlier recovery periods. Indeed, the unemployment rate again inched up to 6.0 per cent in November as the rise in employment was swamped by a large increase in the civilian labor force."

COMMENT: There will not be much zing to the recovery until consumers have confidence in the future. Total income has risen every month this year but, except for a flurry during the

ELMER ROESSNER

Christmas season, spending has not kept pace, but savings have continued to pile up.

Consumer confidence will not return until unemployment is cut.

This appears to be a chicken-and-egg situation: unemployment will not decrease until consumers step up spending; consumers won't step up spending until unemployment decreases. Sluggishness is likely to continue.

Airlines Cutting Group Rates

To Hawaii

Led by United Airlines, airlines servicing Hawaii are discontinuing inexpensive group fare rates between the West Coast and Hawaii January 3.

COMMENT: Here is another instance in which competition brings higher, not lower prices. The Civil Aeronautics Board has granted routes to Hawaii to six airlines. In addition, trans-Pacific lines are permitted to grant stopovers in the Islands. The result is that Hawaii is one of the most over-served spots in the world.

This led to low-price group fares, which cut revenues more than they increased traffic.

Paint Tracks Linger

By JOY STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Though the American Institute of Interior Designers hasn't yet asked me to join, I nevertheless point with pride to my newly decorated kitchen.

Unfortunately, the finger with which I point is still covered with paint, which turpentine, scouring powder and magic incantations have so far failed to budge.

It's okay, though, because my paint-splotted hands match my hair, my kitchen floor and my best pair of blue jeans.

It all started when I decided that the red countertops had to go, especially since the refrigerator was fronted by a huge green panel—a great combination during the Christmas season but a bit too avant-garde for my taste the rest of the year.

Copper-bottom pans hang in shiny array on the kitchen wall so we decided this should be the keynote of our color scheme. The first move was to cover the countertops with adhesive plastic of solid copper color. The table, also heretofore red, got a cover-up of a print material in tones of copper, brown and black.

These jobs were reluctantly undertaken by my husband. My only contribution to the project was to cluck sympathetically and to make sure there was no child under 17 unaccompanied by an adult around to hear him when the stuff stuck where it shouldn't and didn't stick where it should.

This accomplished, we turned our attention to the refrigerator, decking it out with the solid copper. While its counterpart on the counter stuck to the horizontal surface it was supposed to hide, the disguise on the refrigerator insisted on obeying the laws of gravity and before nightfall was drooping like badly peeling sunburn.

We tried again with the lighter-weight print, but it too came loose at the corners. Though we patted it lovingly back into place every time we passed, it became evident some basic incompatibility existed and we accepted the inevitable separation.

Still, the green of the refrigerator was a jarring note in an otherwise tasteful kitchen until

Hundreds of Greenville people are expected to celebrate the New Year tomorrow night. Watchnight services will be held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist, St. Paul's Episcopal and Immanuel Baptist Churches. The socially minded are expected to attend the dance at the Country Club as the highlight of the New Year's observance. With the city still decorated in keeping with the holidays, scores of people are expected to take part in the celebration. The usual ringing of bells and blowing of whistles will notify the sleeping citizens of the change of the year.

Playing at the State Theatre Thursday and Friday is Jackie Cooper and Irene Rich in "The Champ."

THE TRUE GUIDE

The word "light" appears hundreds of times in the Bible, especially in the New Testament. Jesus spoke of himself as the light of the world (John 8:12). He also said that his disciples were the light of the world (Matthew 5:14). If we have the idea that religion is primarily a matter of gloom and repression, we need to get such an idea out of our minds and as quickly as possible. Christianity is a religion of light. One of its first characteristics is good cheer. Christmas and Easter are seasons characterized by light and gladness. The more we know about the Christian religion the more are we impressed by its emphasis on good cheer. Darkness has no place in sound Christian faith.

The philosopher Goethe was said to have cried out in the last moments of his life: "More light, more light." For centuries missionaries have gone to distant parts of the earth and wherever they went darkness began to give way to light. Church leaders have made mistakes precisely the same as leaders in other walks of life, but the sum total of Christian influence on the life of the world has been the dawning of more light.

This means, of course, that many of us need to take a good searching look at our religion and start making it over. There it is—a thing of light, the giving of sight to blind eyes and gladness and singing to those who are sad. Sorrow has its place in life. Every human being experiences it at some time or other, but we can bear our sorrows if we have light to sustain and guide us.

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Although North Carolina traffic fatalities are up slightly over 1970, the state will end the year with a record low death rate of 5.5 fatalities per 100 million miles traveled.

Col. Edwin Guy, commander of the State Highway Patrol, said today that travel increased in North Carolina 6 per cent this year, "but the state was able to reduce the death rate to its lowest percentage in history."

Guy said the patrol's intensified program against drunken drivers "has played a significant role in reducing highway fatalities."

He said in an interview that the patrol arrested a record 41,000 motorists this year on charges of drunken driving, compared to 35,348 in 1970.

The patrol began using 36 breathalyzers in 1966 to test drinking drivers. The number of drunken driving arrests that year totaled 9,478. It rose to 12,662 in 1967, jumped to 19,541 in 1968 and 25,317 in 1969.

"It is presumed that a person is under the influence of intoxicating liquor," Guy said, "if there is 0.10 per cent or more alcohol in the blood at the time he is tested."

At present, the patrol has 162 breathalyzer units and 400 certified operators.

"To assure fairness, a policy was established specifying that an officer would not conduct a chemical test on a person he had arrested," Guy pointed out.

"To become a certified breath testing technician in North Carolina," he added, "an officer must complete a ten-day course conducted by the Department of Community Colleges in cooperation with technical institutes throughout the state."

Guy said he believes North Carolina's training program for breath test operators is the most comprehensive in the nation.

As of Wednesday, 1,792 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in North Carolina, an increase of 25 over the 1,767 killed in 1970.

"While the fatalities are up," Guy said, "the number of licensed drivers increased more than 10,000 during the year and motor vehicle registration was up more than 300,000."

"We want to see the number of drunk driving arrests come down," Guy said, "but we also want to see the death rate reduced. We will never change our social pattern about drinking. We've got to change the social pattern about drinking while driving."

Guy said he would like to see "every tax dollar on alcoholic beverages spent on the problems alcohol causes. I would like to see an education program against drunk driving in schools at the elementary level with tax funds financing it."

$92,771 Check Was Mistake

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Randy Witt was shocked Wednesday when he received his monthly statement from the First Security Bank of Idaho.

The statement contained an unprocessed check made out to the bank from the State of Idaho for $92,771.48.

The 27-year-old mechanical designer said he immediately called the bank to inform them of the mistake and then braved a Boise snowstorm to deliver the "lost" check to a branch office.

Witt said a bank officer "took the check, said thanks and turned his back. I thought I might get a fifth of whisky or something."

State Treasurer Marjorie R. Moon said the check covered state warrants First Security had already honored. She said the check wouldn't have done a private citizen any good.

The patrol chief released figures showing that in 1935 North Carolina's fatality rate was 26.04 deaths per 100 million miles traveled. At that time there were only 512,076 motor vehicles registered in the state.

In 1945, the death rate had been cut to 12.77 and in 1955 to 7.296.

The present motor vehicle registration totals more than 3.1 million.

An 'Old Man' Of 42 Is Flying In Hostile Skies

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer
DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Lt. Col. John O'Gorman has "many, many friends in the Hanoi Hilton," but he still flies the hostile skies of North Vietnam.

"I feel a little guilty that I'm not with them," he said. "We all flew the same missions together back in the old days. Some of them have been prisoners of war so long. Why them instead of me?"

"But I like to think they're putting up with the hardship as disciplined airmen. All I can do is keep fighting."

wife and seven children in St. Louis, Mo., to return to Vietnam for a third combat tour. Now 42, he commands a squadron of F4 Phantom fighter-bombers in an escalating air war with MIGs and surface-to-air missiles.

Many of the men he flies with were still in high school when O'Gorman nursed a crippled A1 Skyraider back from Hanoi with 19 flak holes in the fuselage. But they're getting a taste of what it was like bombing the Red River valley in 1966.

"We've got faster, more sophisticated aircraft and better weapons systems, but there are more MIGs, more SAMs than there were before," O'Gorman said. "A dogfight is still a dogfight whether you're both traveling 100 miles an hour or 800 miles an hour."

Despite 14,000-pound bomb loads and push-button missiles that can zap the other guy while he's still a blip on a radar screen, Phantom pilots yearn to shoot down a MIG

"the old way, the way the Red Baron did it," with machine guns blazing.

No one in the squadron has done it yet, but O'Gorman insists "it's still possible. My boys are cocky and they're good."

Many fighter-bomber pilots in Da Nang admit they're "gung ho" career flyers, glad of the chance to do what they've spent years training for. But O'Gorman says antiwar sentiment in the United States "does have an effect on morale."

"Here we are, all college men, well read, well informed, and we believe in what we're doing in Southeast Asia. Then you have 19-year-old kids who say it's wrong. Who's right?"

"I'm a military man, and I still see the only solutions here in a military victory. Continuous, sustained pressure from North Vietnam is preventing people from living freely. Our bombing eases this pressure."

"Every time someone tells me I'm wrong I always remember 26 churches on the Bien Hoa highway outside Saigon. They were built by refugees from North Vietnam because they were so glad to escape."

"Those churches have got to mean something."

Mars 'Ridges' Pose A Puzzle

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A series of mountain ridges "wrinkled like an elephant's hide, but ... uniquely Martian," has been photographed by a camera aboard the Mariner 9 spacecraft, a scientist says.

"We've never seen anything like this on either the earth or the moon," a project scientist said Wednesday at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which is conducting the camera probe of the red planet.

Mariner 9, in orbit around Mars since Nov. 13, took the television picture on Dec. 17 just south of the planet's equator. It was relayed from an altitude of 4,000 miles.

The picture shows a series of parallel ridges jutting from a slowly subsiding dust storm. The ridges appear to stretch hundreds of miles across Mars at about 3½ miles above the planet's mean elevation. They appear to be broken by valleys 1½ miles wide.

Dr. Harold Masursky of the U.S. Geological Service, head of a photo interpretation team on the Mariner 9 project, said the faulted nature of the photographed area indicates relatively recent volcanic activity.

Photo interpreters said they have seen nothing to indicate details of terrain surrounding the ridges nor have they seen anything similar to the ridges in pictures returned from other high Martian regions.

Scientists said there was no chance the ridges could be the now discounted Martian "canals," because the ridges are too small to be seen through telescopes from earth.

As an indication that a dust storm on the planet is subsiding, scientists noted that the region photographed was completely covered by dust three weeks before the picture was taken.

JPL officials said they plan to fire Mariner 9's rocket engines today to raise the spacecraft's orbit higher so they can map more of the planet.

One Dead In War Action

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that one American was reported killed in action in Vietnam last week, the lowest weekly toll in nearly seven years.

A spokesman, Maj. Chester Hanson, said it was the lowest toll since the week ending March 1, 1965, when no Americans were reported killed in action. This was just before the big U.S. troop buildup started.

The weekly casualty summary today was the 12th in succession to report less than 10 American combat dead. Last week the total was seven.

The U.S. Command also announced that five Americans died last week of nonhostile causes and 29 were wounded in action. There were 15 nonhostile deaths and the week before.

South Vietnamese headquarters listed 287 government troops killed, 633 wounded and 14 missing last week, compared to 405 killed and 723 wounded the previous week.

U.S. communiques also reported 1,035 enemy were killed last week, a slight increase over the previous week's revised claim of 1,026 enemy killed. As usual, these totals include both body counts on the ground and unreliable estimates from aerial observation.

The allied commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,627 killed in action, 302,396 wounded, 10,123 dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—137,660 killed in action, 297,898 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—788,682 killed.

Celebrants Have Free Chauffeurs

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Merrymakers in the suburban Detroit community of Dearborn may panic Friday night when their host or bartender tells them they're loaded and he's calling the police.

But instead of being taken to the city jail, the overzealous New Year's Eve celebrant will be ferried home by one of Dearborn's finest.

In a move to expand highway safety programs on the normally dangerous holiday weekend, Mayor Orville L. Hubbard has asked local police and firemen to provide emergency chauffeur service for inebriated partygoers.

Bar owners, party hosts and survivors of office parties may call the police or fire departments when they spot someone they feel should not drive. Person's alert enough to realize their own state will be accorded the same service.

confirmed in December over the opposition of Fred Harris, Birch Bayh, Ted Kennedy and other of their ilk—and in the process he greatly gladdened conservative hearts. Not content, the President then vetoed the infamous child development bill, in a message that rippled and rang with the old sib-boom-bah. So who shoots Santa Claus?

A third consideration comes to mind. An incipient rebellion has certain aspects of melodrama, and melodrama offers alternatives. The rule is, your money or your life. Belinda's virtue must be surrendered or the mortgage gets foreclosed. My colleagues have no such credible threat. Once they leave Nixon, where do they go? To Wallace of Alabama? Who would believe it?

The certain prospect is that Mr. Nixon will win renomination at San Diego. No one will lay a glove on him. What, then, in November? Bill Buckley writes with a free-flowing pen, but one struggles in vain to see him scratching an X beside the name of Edmund Muskie. Conservatives can stick with Nixon, or they can stay home and sulk. These are their options; everything else is hot air.

But better a poor rebellion than no rebellion at all. In a close race, Nixon will need every vote he can get; and if he is moved to feed our discontent just every now and then, some good may come of our growling. Conservatives learn in their cradles—it is the mother's milk of their philosophy—that when you are awfully hungry, half a loaf is one hell of a lot better than none.

quite correct, that the protesters invariably blame the U.S. for Communist-caused bloodshed.

For President Nixon, these developments pose a serious political hazard. If he responds to the Communist offensive by stepped-up U.S. bombing or even a renewal of bombing in North Vietnam itself, he might be disinvited to Peking.

But if the offensive continues, he will arrive in Peking in a weakened bargaining position from which both Moscow and the Chinese will profit. Such are the perils of the course of summitry on which Mr. Nixon has embarked.

Doctor Develops Home Treatment that RINSES AWAY BLACKHEADS HELPS DRY UP ACNE-PIMPLES . . .

QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE 15 MINUTE HOME TREATMENT MUST SHOW IMMEDIATE IMPROVEMENT OR — YOUR MONEY BACK!

A leading New York Doctor, working with a cosmetic laboratory, has developed a simple home treatment that rinses away blackheads, helps dry up acne pimples, and shrinks enlarged pores. The name of this medicated product is QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE. Apply this delightfully Mint-Scented Cream and within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla, dries and turns this cream into a plastic-like masque. You will now feel as though hundreds of "tiny fingers" are kneading the skin, loosening pore-caked dirt, blackheads, and other foreign impurities. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws out waste matter from the pores. . . In 15 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with lukewarm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see that blackheads and other pore "fillers" actually come off on your wash cloth. And your skin feels clean . . . really clean . . . refreshed, smooth like velvet. Women 35 and over will enjoy the skin tightening experience as the masque relaxes tired facial muscles and eases tension lines on face and throat. If you suffer the agony of blackheads, acne-pimples, and enlarged pores, give yourself this home treatment and see the breath-taking results. Ask for it by name, QUEEN HELENE MINT JULEP MASQUE.

Private Rites Tuesday For Former Justice Harlan

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — John Marshall Harlan, a Supreme Court justice who repeatedly opposed use of the legal system as the machinery for social reform, is dead of cancer at age 72.

His death in a Washington hospital Wednesday prompted President Nixon to call Harlan "one of the 20th century's giants on the Supreme Court."

Harlan retired Sept. 23 after 18 years on the court. More than a month earlier, he had been hospitalized for what was first described as a backache then later acknowledged to be bone cancer.

William H. Rehnquist, a former assistant attorney general and a strong conservative also, will replace Harlan on the high court Jan. 7.

At Harlan's bedside when he died in George Washington University Hospital were Justice Potter Stewart; Harlan's daughter, Mrs. E.H. Dillingham of New York City; and three sisters.

Later, Stewart said of his former colleague: "Mr. Justice Harlan was more than just a scholarly judge. He was a human being of great worth."

"For us here at the court he was more than a learned colleague. He was a beloved brother and a noble friend."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said Harlan's career as a lawyer in public service was virtually unmatched.

"His careful, thoughtful opinions covering a wide range of important constitutional questions constitute a legacy to the court and the country and through these, his wise counsel will remain with us and to future members of the court," Burger said.

It was in his prolific research and legal scholarship that Harlan took greatest pride, as well as continuing a family legacy in the law and on the high court.

Harlan was the grandson and namesake of the Supreme Court Justice who, in 1896, cast the only dissenting vote against establishing the racial doctrine of "separate but equal." The high court overturned that doctrine in 1954—the year before Harlan was appointed by President Eisenhower.

Harlan was heir to the legal thinking of the late Justice Felix Frankfurter and ideological opposite of Justice Hugo L. Black, whose retirement ironically preceded his own by six days. Black died September 17, eight days after his own retirement.

Harlan said in 1964 that the Supreme Court was not "a general haven for reform movements." It is not intended to right every wrong, he argued. He took a narrow view of his own prerogatives and paid deep respect to tradition.

Harlan's observance of precedent was so strong that his own dissent from a decision that became law would not prevent him from allowing the majority decision to apply to other situations even though his views had not changed.

In his last major opinion last May, Harlan combined with five other judges in rejecting attacks on the way juries apply the death penalty.

In the Pentagon papers case, he was one of three dissenters in the decision to allow the New York Times and the Washington Post to resume their articles on the once top-secret documents.

While the particular four-letter word being litigated here is perhaps more distasteful than most others of its genera, it is nevertheless often true that one man's vulgarity is another's lyric," he wrote.

Harlan was born in Chicago on May 20, 1899. He received a bachelor's degree in jurisprudence from Princeton University in 1923 and a master's degree at Oxford. He earned his law degree from New York Law School in 1924.

While working as a corporate lawyer in New York in 1954, he was chosen as a member of the U.S. Court of Appeals. The following year he went to the Supreme Court.

Harlan served in the U.S. Air Force in World War II, reaching the rank of colonel. He was decorated with the Legion of Merit and the French and Belgian Croix de Guerre.

Private funeral services are scheduled for Tuesday in West-Conn., where Harlan had a summer home.

Could Increase Elder's Safety

NEW YORK (UPI) —Most accidents to the elderly happen at home but a great many potential hazards can be eliminated through safe design and furnishings, according to a new "retirement safety guide" published by the National Retired Teachers Association and American Association of Retired Persons. Adequate wiring and electrical systems and flame-retardant fabrics in home furnishings can reduce the hazard of fire—the greatest threat to home safety, the Guide says.

Litter And Trash Left In Antarctica Will Last

By ALTON BRAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
MCMURDO STATION, Antarctica (AP) — Where man goes, man pollutes, and this pristine white continent has not escaped the consequences of human exploration.

But now an anti-pollution conscience is greatly diminishing the insults that man has been wreaking on this environment.

For 14 years at this main U.S. base in Antarctica, trash, garbage, beer cans, plastic containers, old tires, abandoned machinery have been floated out to sea on melting ice floes, soon to sink to the bottom of McMurdo Sound.

In places, divers report, the seabed is becoming a highway of litter that crowds sponges out of living space.

For 14 years, raw sewage has been piped into the Sound, hard by the shoreline of Ross Island.

This summer season, a $175,000 incinerator capable of burning 600 pounds of material per hour is going into action.

Next summer a sewage treatment plant, costing $225,000 and using chemicals and bacteria, is expected to make sewage sterile for later disposition into the Sound.

This station is on land that lies free of snow in summer (when it is winter in the United States) so landfill sites are being sought for compacted cans and other non-burnable trash.

Field parties going into the snow-free dry valleys 60 miles from McMurdo are equipped to bring back all their trash, garbage and body wastes to keep those areas free of contamination. The measure follows some years of disregard concerning such waste disposal.

And studies are under way concerning putting mini-sewage treatment or disposal plants at such places as the South Pole Station, 800 miles to the north, where now sewage is piped out to sink into the snow and ice two miles thick. Some thousands of years from now, the movement of the ice will deposit it in the sea.

There are those who say man-made pollution is of no great consequence here, because man occupies only a few areas of the 5½-million-square-mile continent, and that penguins contribute more body waste by far than man does to the sea.

Conservationists and ecologists reply that man can do something to reduce the impact of his waste, while animals can't, and that penguins don't drink beer and throw away the cans.

Further, they say, discarded paper and clothing, much less cans and plastics, may last for many years in cold waters possessing fewer organisms than warm climates to act upon biodegradable materials.

Ecologists worry too about effects of increasing tourism, limited so far to shipborne visits to places like this, in terms of litter and sewage and possible disturbance of penguin rookeries.

While actions are being initiated to control some sources of man-made pollution, there are others beyond control.

DDT and other pesticides have been found in penguins and other animals here, and scientists are finding and wondering about the effects of traces of lead, and other metals borne, like the pesticides, on the winds from distant civilization.

Will Tear Down Landmark Hotel

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A downtown landmark, the Hotel Robert E. Lee, has been sold to a firm which will tear it down and build a $7 million hotel on the site.

Salem Ventures Inc. bought it for $505,000 Wednesday. The new 326-room hotel, to be known as Winston-Salem Hyatt House, will be managed by the Hyatt House hotels firm. Razing of the Robert E. Lee is to start in March, and the new hotel is expected to be in operation by January of 1974.

Scant Suspense When Candidate Puts Hat In Ring

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine has announced his candidacy for the White House, confiding in some 500,000 potential financial supporters.

He'll tell everybody else on Jan. 4, in a 10-minute television appearance.
Of course anyone interested already knows Muskie is running.
But no matter that his announcement in advance of his formal announcement declared a candidacy that had been obvious for a year.

For announcements by men seeking the White House seldom are staged for purposes of information; they are instead exercises in political theater.

Given the financial and organizational demands of modern campaigning, the question answered when a serious contender makes his formal announcement of candidacy is no longer whether he will run, it is when he will say that he is running.

Former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, who slid into the current Democratic campaign with what he called "a sort of announcement," described the exercise of declaring candidacy this way:

"A formal announcement is when you do it in the Senate Caucus Room with your family at your side."

The Caucus Room is a marble-columned hearing room with plenty of space so that supporters can flock in to applaud when the announcing candidate does what everybody knew he was going to do.

It is where McCarthy, on Nov. 30, 1968, announced he would challenge former President Lyndon B. Johnson. It is where the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy declared his candidacy.

In the Caucus Room last Nov. 19, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, his family at his side, announced he is a candidate for the 1972 nomination.

Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma used that hall to announce his candidacy, but chose a smaller, out-of-the-way hearing room to announce six weeks later that he was quitting the race for lack of money.

There are variations, but the common thread in such announcements is the absolute lack of suspense about what will happen.

Sen. George McGovern, first entry in the 1972 Democratic race, announced his candidacy last Jan. 18 in Sioux Falls, S.D., on a statewide television broadcast. He flew back to Washington the next day to re-announce at the Capitol.

He sought a head-start with the early announcement, particularly on the problem of voter recognition.

But the 1971 campaign of the undeclared Muskie was as vigorous as that of the announced McGovern.

Muskie, in a fund-raising letter dated Dec. 27, said "I am writing now to tell you that I will formally announce my candidacy for President on Tuesday, Jan. 4, 1972."

He said campaign money is his most urgent need. Muskie said television time for the formal announcement, at 8:20 p.m. EST on CBS-TV, will cost $30,000 "and that's just a fraction of the sum we must ultimately spend."

Muskie's television statement will be followed on Jan. 5 by an announcement news conference, probably in the standard place, the Caucus Room.

That hall is not available to people who are not senators, so they have to improvise. When Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio announced Wednesday his conservative challenge to President Nixon in 1972 Republican primaries, he hired a hall, the Chandelier Room at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel. That kind of setting can be a tip-off if there is any doubt about what the prospective candidate will do.

It doesn't take a hotel reception room to announce that a man is not running.

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California, a Nixon challenger from the left, announced his candidacy not once but twice, in Los Angeles and then, four hours later, in San Francisco, last July 9.

New York Mayor John V. Lindsay went to Miami to declare Tuesday that he is running for the Democratic nomination and will enter the Florida primary. Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty made his announcement at his own City Hall.

Then there is the announcement that a candidate is likely to announce that he is running, demonstrated by Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana in a Tuesday appearance in Manchester, N.H.

Announcing candidacy is not a pre-requisite for abandoning candidacy. Sens. Harold Hughes of Iowa and Birch Bayh of Indiana demonstrated that by campaigning unannounced for support for the nomination, then withdrawing from the race.

The most successful announcee of the last campaign was, of course, President Nixon, who made his formal entry simply by sending an open letter to the citizens of New Hampshire on Feb. 1, 1968.

Champagne And Caviar Sales Reported Strong

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The year 1971 may have been a time of economic belt-tightening, but champagne and caviar sales suggest that many Americans are preparing to welcome in the new year in lavish style.

Dealers and importers of the "bubbly" and top quality eggs of the sturgeon reported demand for both luxury items was strong, with little price resistance by customer.

Caviar was in short supply and in most shops the prices are higher than last year.

Imported champagne was plentiful—stocks were laid in before the 10 per cent surcharge was imposed temporarily and before the dock strike on the East Coast. Prices were holding fairly steady but there are warnings that after the holidays there will be increases.

Domestic champagne, the bulk of which is produced in California, also was in good supply. A spokesman for the California wine growers said there had been only slight price increases since last year, the boosts depending on the type of wine.

"This is a big year for us," said a spokesman for Sherry-Lehman, Inc., a New York wine and spirits store. "Champagne is flowing like water around here."

He said some customers were buying for next year in anticipation of higher prices—due to currency devaluation and rising prices for grapes in France.

In Dallas, champagne sales were brisk. An official of Neiman-Marcus Co. said: "They bought all we could get our hands on," but declined to give sales figures.

Fifty 12-bottle packages of Bollinger French 1966 vintage, priced at $89.95 each, "sold out in a hurry" at Stop and Shop, Chicago's largest gourmet store.

The caviar trade, despite short supplies and rising prices, still found demand firm.

Department of Commerce statistics showed that in the first 10 months of 1971, imports of "fresh, chilled, frozen, prepared or preserved" sturgeon roe amounted to 95,879 pounds, valued at $1,147,600, compared with all of 1970 when 106,953 pounds worth $1,217,116 were imported.

Romanoff Caviar Co. of New York, a major importer, said the fresh Beluga, considered the ultimate in roe by gourmets, was bringing up to $80 a pound at retail, compared with $60 to $70 a year ago.

Supplies were tight because of pollution in the Caspian Sea, the sole commercial source.

Poe Decides He Will Skip Race

CHARLOTTE (AP) — William E. Poe, chairman of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg school board, announced Wednesday that he has decided against running for Congress in 1972.

Poe, a Democrat, had been mentioned as a candidate in the 9th District to succeed veteran Republican Charles R. Jonas, who is retiring. The only announced candidate is James G. Martin, a Republican who is chairman of the Mecklenburg County commissioners.

The Oklahoma state motto is Labor Omnia Vincit, meaning labor conquers all things.

Student Will Be Duke U. Trustee

DURHAM (AP) — With the new year, Duke University will get its first student as a trustee.

Jeffrey Kurzweil, 21, a senior from Bergenfield, N.J., who is majoring in religion, will officially become a member of the board of trustees on Saturday. He was among four trustees elected by alumni last spring.

NORTH VIETNAM REFUSES PACKAGES — These packages are part of some 900 returned to the U.S. Postal Service by the Soviet Postal Administration that North Vietnam refused to accept for American prisoners of war and mission in action personnel. They are being processed in a New York post office and will be returned to the senders. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices slipped today in moderate trading, as the feeble yearend rally apparently came to a halt.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was off 2.71 to 890.95.

Declines outnumbered advances on the New York Stock Exchange by a large margin.

Since the beginning of the week, prices have advanced moderately in what analysts described as a typical yearend rally. Today's decline, they said, signaled the entry of profit-taking pressure.

Big Board prices included: Delta Air Lines, down 1¼ to 49½; Boise Cascade, off ¼ to 18½; Bausch & Lomb, down 1¼ to 181½; Royal Dutch, off ¼ to 35½; and Fannie Mae, down ¾ to 93½.

Reprisal Bombing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Irish Republican Army guerrillas today blasted the country home of the speaker of Northern Ireland's Parliament in reprisal for what they called "the wrecking of British class homes" by the British army.

The country residence of Maj. Ivan Neill at Rostrevor in County Down was empty at the time of the attack. Nobody was hurt but the interior of the mansion was destroyed.

A statement from the IRA's militant provisional wing claimed responsibility and said: "The attack was in retaliation for the wrecking of working class homes in the Newry and South Down area by British terrorist forces."

The incident followed a warning from the Londonderry unit of the IRA that "rich loyalist supporters" of the Ulster and British governments would be the organization's next targets.

The IRA is fighting to bring down Northern Ireland's government, oust the British and unite the Protestant North with the Roman Catholic Irish Republic in the south.

Police said there was another explosion three hours before the attack on Neill's residence. A car near the house was demolished by that blast. No one was hurt.

Troops and guerrilla snipers exchanged fire in the Bogside during a dawn search of empty and derelict houses in the neighborhood. An army spokesman said nobody was hurt.

The attack on the speaker's house followed a wave of post-Christmas violence throughout the province Wednesday.

Added Jobless Benefits Will Begin Sunday

RALEIGH (AP) — Starting Sunday, jobless North Carolinians will be eligible to receive additional benefits of up to 13 weeks in extended unemployment insurance payments.

The Employment Security Commission announced Wednesday that the extended benefits will be available in North Carolina and other states because unemployment nationally has exceeded 4.5 per cent for three consecutive months.

F. Fuller Martin, the ESC's unemployment insurance director, estimated that about 4,000 workers will be eligible initially for the extended payments. He said he expects 100 additional persons to become eligible each week during the first quarter of 1972.

The extended benefits will case when unemployment among insured workers drops below 4.5 per cent nationally for three consecutive months. Martin noted that unemployment in North Carolina is about half the national average, but extended benefits are based on the national figure.

He said persons covered by unemployment insurance can claim extended benefits if they:

—Are unemployed and have exhausted their regular 26 weeks of insurance payments.

One Injured In 2 Wrecks

One person was reported injured and an estimated $775 property damage caused in two collisions here yesterday.

A passenger in a car driven by Lenice Lawson Cherry of 306 West 14th St. was reported injured when the Cherry car collided with a vehicle driven by James Phillip Hemby, 36, of Route 1, Winterville about 10:45 p.m. at the intersection of 14th Street and Myrtle Avenue.

Damage was set at $60 to the Cherry car and $120 to the Hemby auto by police who charged Mrs. Cherry with improper passing.

Connell Alexander Lovett, 43, of 517 McKinley Ave. was charged with having improper brakes following investigation of a 4:39 p.m. collision at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Washington Street.

Driver of the second car involved was identified as Donald Jerry Taylor, 17 of 913 North Railroad St.

Damage to the Taylor car was estimated at $150 while damage to the Lovett vehicle was placed at $425.

Television Firm Reveals Grants

Financial contributions have been made by North Carolina Television Inc. (WITN-TV) to several Eastern North Carolina colleges and universities, including East Carolina University.

East Carolina University Foundation received a $500 grant. Other $500 grants went to the art departments of Atlantic Christian College, Chowan College, Mount Olive College, and N. C. Wesleyan College. A $500 contribution was also made to the Historic Bath Commission for the Edmund H. Harding Memorial Fund to further the planned restoration program underway in the community of Bath near Washington.

Veteran Actor Out Of Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Veteran film actor Bruce Cabot has been released from the Loma Linda University Medical Center after responding to radiation treatment for lung and throat cancer.

A hospital spokesman said Wednesday that Cabot, 67, was in "satisfactory condition." He was admitted last Oct. 26 in critical condition.

Cabot had parts in more than 300 films including a lead in the classic "King Kong."

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Phil Kirk, R-Rowan, who at 27 is North Carolina's youngest lawmaker, has filed for reelection.

—Meet the eligibility requirements of a regular claimant.

—Have a benefit year in progress on Jan. 2, and —Are not receiving any other form of unemployment compensation from other states or the federal government.

"Persons eligible for additional payments may file their claims on or after Jan. 5 at the local Employment Security Commission office," Martin said.

"The federal government will bear half the cost of extended payments," he added, "and the state will pay the remaining cost from its unemployment insurance fund. These payments will not be charged to individual employers' accounts."

Unemployment insurance payments in North Carolina average $41 per week.

Reports Sum For Wildlife

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department said today it is distributing $47,890,000 to the states for fish and wildlife restoration and hunter safety programs in fiscal 1972.

Fish and wildlife restoration funds are apportioned by the size of fishing and hunting areas and the number of sporting licenses issued in each state. The money comes from excise taxes on fishing tackle, ammunition and guns.

Hunter safety funds are apportioned by the size of the general population of each state.

A state-by-state rundown of where the money is going includes:

	Fish Restoration	Wildlife Restoration	Total Hunter Safety
Ala.	$240,420	$674,543
Ga.	277,059	700,533
La.	180,676	648,367

Hawaii Stopover

HONOLULU (AP) — The White House advance party traveling to China to arrange technical aspects of President Nixon's Peking visit, including news coverage, arrived here Wednesday night for a two-day stopover.

A spokesman for the 25-member group refused to say what was planned during its stay at a deluxe resort hotel overlooking the Pacific.

The party is headed by presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler and Brig. Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., Nixon's deputy national security adviser.

The party is due in Peking Jan. 3 after a stop in Shanghai. After Peking, the party will fly to Hangchow. The three cities are the ones Nixon will visit.

Flying with the party was Maj. John Schutes of Elkhardt, Ind., one of the presidential pilots. Also along are representatives of the three major television networks.

The group is expected to return Jan. 9.

Lament Assails Writers' Union

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian Nobel laureate Alexander Solzhenitsyn has written a lament for Alexander Tvardovsky, criticizing the members of the Soviet literary establishment who ousted the late poet as editor of a prestigious literary journal.

Tvardovsky, one of the Soviet Union's leading literary liberals, died of a stroke Dec. 18 after a long bout with lung cancer. He was removed as editor of Novy Mir—New World—last year.

In his lament, written for friends and made available to some Western correspondents Wednesday—Solzhenitsyn attacked the "mediocre ... unhealthy fat ones" of the secretariat of the Soviet Writers' Union for dismissing Tvardovsky.

"There are many ways and means to kill a poet: those chosen for Tvardovsky were to take away his favorite child, the journal for which he suffered," Solzhenitsyn wrote.

Dr. Ronald L. Thiele, assistant clinical professor of pediatrics at the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, has been named dean of the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions. Announcing the appointment, Dr. Edwin Monroe, ECU Vice President for Health Affairs commented: "ECU and Eastern North Carolina are fortunate to obtain the services of this highly qualified physician whose training and experience will be invaluable as head of the expanding allied health programs at the University."

Dr. Monroe added that Dr. Thiele, who has an extensive background in the field of handicapped children, will be "very helpful" to the mental retardation programs for children in this region.

A native of Michigan, Dr. Thiele received the undergraduate and MD degrees from Wayne State University, and did internship and residency training in the Children's Hospital, Oakland, Calif.

He also holds the Master of Public Health degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

His career has included positions as Chief of Pediatrics at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Guam, associate and clinical professor of child and maternal health at Berkeley, and Superintendent of Clover Bottom Hospital and School, Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Thiele is the author of several published articles and reports on physical and mental illnesses of children.

As dean of the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions, Dr. Thiele will oversee curriculum programs in medical record science, medical technology, physical therapy, social work, dental hygiene, occupational therapy and correctional services.

N.C. Editor Is Retiring

HIGHPOINT (AP) — Publishers of the afternoon and Sunday High Point Enterprise announced today the retirement of editor Holt McPherson and the appointment, effective Saturday, of executive editor Joe Brown to the top position.

Brown, 47, a graduate of the University of North Carolina School of Journalism, is a native of Snow Hill who started work on the Enterprise 23½ years ago as a reporter. He has been its telegraph editor, city editor, and managing editor.

McPherson, 65, has been associated with the newspaper since he delivered it to subscribers as a youth. He became its editor in 1931, and after working on newspapers in Florida and Shelby from 1937 to 1952, returned to become editor again.

The UNC journalism graduate is a founder and the president of the UNC Journalism Foundation and is a past president of the North Carolina Press Association.

McPherson has been appointed to various commissions and boards by five presidents and now serves as a civilian aide to the secretary of the Army.

The announcement of the change was made by copublishers D. A. Rawley and Randall Terry.

Williams

Word of the death of Mr. Carl H. Williams, vice president of Foodland-Clover Farm Co. on Dec. 22 has been received by Ormond Wholesale Co. of Greenville.

Williams, a visitor to the Greenville wholesalers earlier this year, died in Fairview General Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio. He was one of the founders and first vice presidents of the Frozen Food Association of the Delaware Valley.

Brown

Dr. Garland Greene Brown, 72, died in Chicago, Ill. Wednesday. The body will be brought to Greenville and funeral arrangements will be announced later by Wilkerson Funeral Home.

Dr. Brown, a native of Greenville, attended the Greenville City Schools, Randolph-Macon Academy in New Bedford, Va., St. John's College, Annapolis, Md., the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland, and Tulane University at New Orleans, La., where he received the M. O. degree. He did his internship at Toura Infirmary, New Orleans, James Walker Memorial Hospital in Wilmington, and Lucas County Hospital in Toledo, Ohio. He went to Chicago, Ill., to practice medicine as a physician and surgeon and was on the staff of Swedish Memorial Hospital and Bethany Home in Chicago. Dr. Brown was a member of the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, the Kappa Alpha Fraternity, Nu Sigma Nu Medical Fraternity, the American Medical Association, the Chicago Medical Society and the Illinois Medical Society. His wife, Mrs. Betty Allen Brown, died March 26, 1967.

Surviving are two sisters: Mrs. Ellie Brown Tolson and Mrs. Lawrence Watts Sr., both of Greenville; and three brothers, Dr. James Brown, Jr. of Baltimore, Md., Dr. William M. B. Brown and Harry Moore Brown, both of Greenville.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS PITT COUNTY

The listing of property, both real and personal, owned by any person, firm or corporation as of January 1, 1972 will begin January 3, 1972 and continue through February 1, 1972. Property must be listed in the township in which it is located.

Persons who have requested to list by mail should receive the listing forms early in January. These must be completed and returned to the office of the Tax Supervisor before the listing deadline.

Anyone owning property, real or personal, subject to taxation must list such property within the listing period, and anyone failing to do so is liable to the penalties prescribed by law.

North Carolina Law requires owners and operators of parks or storage lots renting space for three or more house trailers or mobile homes to furnish the Tax Supervisor of the county in which the lot is located, the name of the owner and a description of each trailer or mobile home, situated thereon. This list must be submitted by January 15 of each year. Persons failing to comply with the law shall be liable to payment of the tax plus a penalty of $250.00.

You must have your social security number and motor vehicle registration cards when you come to list.

Under the Laws of North Carolina, no extension may be granted unless the county commissioners extend the listing period for all.

For a complete list of locations and dates for listing taxes during January, see other ad in this paper.

Loyola Drops Bucs In Tourney Opener

OMAHA, Neb. — Loyola of Los Angeles warmed up after a cold opening last night, and gained an 87-68 victory over the East Carolina University Pirates in the first round of the Oral Roberts Basketball Tournament.

The loss sends the Pirates into the consolation round of the tournament tonight, facing Connecticut. The Huskies lost to host Oral Roberts, 106-88. Loyola meets the Titans for the championship.

The Pirates got off to an eight-point lead in the opening minutes of the game, but fell behind by as much as five points during the half. They came back to lead by three points in the second period but lost it again and never caught up again.

The Bucs went the final three minutes of the game with only a final basket in the last 15 seconds to their credit, while Loyola kept the ball away from the Bucs, using the foul line to build their lead from five with 3:41 to go to the final 19-point edge.

The Pirates dominated the rebounding in the contest, pulling down 44 to Loyola's 31. Al Faber grabbed off 12, while Dave Franklin had 11 and Jim Fairley had nine.

But that was about the only place the Pirates were dominate.

Loyola outshot them from the floor, 49.3 per cent to 43 per cent. The Lions missed only five free throws, hitting 21 of 26.

And in turnovers, there was really a difference, and that meant the game. The Bucs lost the ball 20 times, as compared to seven for Loyola. The Lions' press was telling on the Bucs, and it meant the fifth loss in six starts for the Pirates.

The Pirates jumped off to a six-point lead as Faber tossed in two baskets and Earl Quash got another. Loyola finally got on the board with a shot from the corner by Robb Morgan. Dwayne Williamson added another for the Lions, but the Pirates pulled away by seven after that.

Quash hit a jumper and Jerome Owens got a free throw. Faber hit from the corner, and it was 11-4. Steve Smith hit for Loyola, but Franklin pushed in a rebound, and then added a free throw to make it 14-6, the biggest Pirate lead.

Loyola began to warm up after that, however, and slowly chipped away at the lead. They cut it to five on a jumper by Smith and a free throw by Morgan at 18-13. Then, three more free throws by Don Shaw cut it to four, 22-18. The Pirates went back out 24-18, but Loyola then ran through 10 straight points before the Bucs could score again.

Scott Kay hit a jumper and Shaw dropped in a pair of baskets. The second with eight minutes to play, pushed Loyola into a tie, 24-24. Kay then hit on a rebound to put them in front, 26-24 with 7:29 to go.

Kay added another minutes later for a 28-24 lead. The Bucs got a free throw from Owens, but Bob Siemack hit to make it 30-25.

The Bucs then rallied to regain the lead. Fairley hit two free throws and Faber scored on a rebound. He hit again to make it 31-30 for the Pirates, and Owens and Greg Crouse both hit to raise the lead to five, 35-30.

Loyola got a shot from

Morgan, and a free throw from Smith to cut it to two, and Bill Thomason hit at the horn to deadlock it at 35-35 at intermission.

Faber hit on a three point play right at the start of the second half to put the Bucs on top by three, 38-35, and then held to that until Morgan cut it to one on a pair of free throws at 45-44.

Kay then hit a jumper with about 16 minutes left to make it 46-45 for the Lions, and the Pirates never caught up again. Smith followed with a jumper to up the lead to three, and after a Pirate free throw, baskets by Williamson and Morgan ran the lead out to six, 54-48.

Siemack ran the lead out to eight at 58-50 with 9:34 to go, and Smith hit a rebound with 8:38 left to make it nine, 61-52.

The Pirates tried to rally after that, cutting the lead back to as little as three points. Trailing by nine, 65-62, the Bucs got a basket from Quash, two free throws from Owens and a tap-in by Franklin to close the gap to 65-62 with 5:14 to go. But two quick baskets by Smith ran it back out again, and the closest the Bucs could come after that was five at 71-66.

At that point, Loyola went into a stall and the Pirates were forced to foul. The Lions hit on 10 of 13 in the final three minutes to wrap it up.

Smith led the Loyola scoring with 23 points, while Shaw had 19, Williamson had 12, Morgan had 11 and Kay had 10.

Faber was tops for the Bucs with 21, while Franklin had 14, Quash had 12 and Owens had 10.

Following tonight's game with Connecticut, the Pirates travel to Dayton on Friday night.

Cleveland Is In First Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don't blink. That's no mistake in the National Basketball Association's Central Division standings. The Cleveland Cavaliers, believe it or not, are in first place.

The Cavaliers, laughing stocks of pro basketball a year ago, moved into the lead of their oddball division Wednesday night with a 103-102 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

That moved Cleveland six percentage points ahead of idle Baltimore and even though their record is a less than sparkling 15-23, it's a first place mark and worth every bit as much as the fancy 32-7 log that Milwaukee has in the Midwest Division and Los Angeles' 35-3 in the Pacific.

In other NBA action Wednesday, Golden State topped Cincinnati 107-102, Phoenix took Houston 124-106, and Milwaukee whipped Portland 123-84.

Cleveland's 15th victory matched its total for all of last year when the Cavaliers were so funny they even had their coach, Bill Finch, making jokes about them. They lost 67 times last year, tying an NBA record and finished a fat 27 games behind the division champion Baltimore Bullets.

Butch Beard's driving layup in the final 24 seconds beat the 76ers for Cleveland with Kevin Loughery and Hal Greer missing chances in the final moments to reverse the decision for Philadelphia.

John Johnson's 37 points led all scorers.

Milwaukee snapped a slump that had produced three losses in four games, by ripping overmatched Portland.

Kareem Jabbar scored 32 points for the Bucks and Jon McGlocklin, returned to the starting lineup, added 21. Milwaukee ran off a 24-4 spurt late in the third quarter and early in the fourth to break the game open.

Dick Van Arsdale and Clem Haskins poured in 27 points apiece leading Phoenix past Houston.

The Suns bounced from behind to take charge of the game in the second period and held a 61-45 halftime lead.

Cazzie Russell's 33 points helped Golden State finish off Cincinnati and tumbled the Royals to their ninth straight loss.

Russell hit 10 of his points in the final period as the Royals dropped their 18th game in the last 15.

Joins Bucs

Stuart Christian, a 6-1, 235-pound linebacker from Ashland, Va., is one of the latest to join the East Carolina University football program. The transfer from Chowan was one of 23 listed on the All-American National Junior College team. He was the outstanding defensive player in the Coastal Conference last season.

COLUMBIA (AP)—The University of South Carolina, which had hoped to boost its puny football prestige by importing Paul Dietzel as coach, may lose him to the Denver Broncos of the National Football League.

Although Dietzel probably draws the highest total salary of anybody on South Carolina's state payroll, the professional team might make him an offer he may find hard to refuse.

T. Eston Marchant, chairman of the university's board of trustees, announced at a news conference Wednesday that Dietzel was in Denver to discuss the possibility of becoming head coach and general manager of the Broncos, replacing Lou Saban, who resigned to become head coach of the Buffalo Bills.

Marchant said that although Dietzel has expressed a strong desire to remain at Carolina, the tentative discussion with Bronco officials was so promising "he believed he should at least go to Denver and be apprised of all the facts on the scene."

In Denver, Gerald Phipps, chairman of the board of Empire Sports, which owns the Broncos, said Dietzel "is one of several people that have been interviewed" for the coaching vacancy.

"We plan on interviewing several more and that will probably take us up to the first of the week," Phipps added. "There has been no offer made to any of the candidates interviewed so far."

Dietzel, reached in Denver early this morning, said, "I've had pro offers before and I've never been interested."

"But, I've been around coaching a long time and no one's ever talked to me about $75,000 a year before," he added.

"I really didn't think I'd be interested when I came out here," the USC mentor said, "but I've been kind of surprised. There were a lot of things about professional football I didn't know about. But, as of now, they have not officially offered me the job and I haven't officially accepted or rejected."

Dietzel said he hoped to "know something" when he returns to Columbia Friday.

Marchant said Dietzel assured Carolina officials he would advise them immediately if he intends to accept any offer by the Broncos.

"It is our strong desire that he remain with us at Carolina and continue his highly successful work and programs," the USC board chairman added.

The blond, 47-year-old Dietzel came to Carolina in 1966 after four years as football coach at Army and seven years at Louisiana State University. In six seasons at Carolina, Gamecock football teams have posted a 27-35-1 record. His combined record in 17-years of coaching is 94 wins, 77 losses and five ties.

Because Dietzel is paid from funds of the University of South Carolina and not from the state's general fund, his salary as head coach and athletic director is not a matter of public record. However, his straight salary was reported a few years ago to be $25,000 annually with several lucrative side incomes, including a $10,000 television program and a house furnished by the university. The salary of Gov. John West is $35,000 and a few state officials make a bit more.

Last July, Dietzel's original 10-year contract with Carolina was extended two years to 1978. Marchant said university officials have not discussed contractual arrangements with Dietzel in the event he should decide to accept an offer from Denver, and that to his knowledge no feelers have been made to possible successors.

Dietzel won the national championship at LSU in 1956 and was named national coach of the year. He was Atlantic Coast Conference coach of the year in 1969 after Carolina won the ACC title with a 7-3 regular-season mark.

He played a part in leading Carolina out of the ACC early this year because of a dispute over college entrance requirements for scholarship athletes. As an independent, South Carolina posted a 6-5 record for the 1971 season.

Says Dietzel Owes Apology

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Michael J. Mungo, an outspoken member of the University of South Carolina board of trustees, says USC football coach and athletic director Paul Dietzel owes the school president and the public an apology.

Mungo said Wednesday he was "shocked and appalled" to learn that Dietzel had met with officials of the Denver Broncos professional football team without first notifying USC President Thomas Jones and other board members.

"I strongly resent that the board was not notified of this action," Mungo said. "If it is true that he (Dietzel) went to Denver without first contacting the president of the university, then I think he owes President Jones a public apology."

"All this communication and rapport should have been made directly with the president of the university, for whom Coach Dietzel has reportedly said he works."

"I support Coach Dietzel and his programs, the university, and its academic programs, both publicly and privately," Mungo added. "But there is a protocol to be followed, and we owe that to the public as long as they place their trust in us."

"Coach Dietzel is the highest paid public official in South Carolina and we have tried to honor his every request," Mungo said.

"I am shocked and appalled to think he would go shopping around without first contacting responsible parties. And, as long as I remain on the board, there's not going to be any damn secrecy about public matters."

Jamesville, Oak City Take Wins

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville and Oak City came away winners in the first night of the Jamesville Holiday Classic last night. Jamesville downed Columbia, 59-49, while Oak City routed Chowan, 61-38.

Tonight, the two Martin County teams will switch opponents. In the first game last night, the Chowan High School girls ripped Jamesville, 44-10. Tonight, the Jamesville junior varsity meets Oak City's JVs in the first game.

In the girls contest, Chowan sewed it up in the first period of play, roaring into a 15-3 lead. They continued to batter the Lady Bullets in the second frame, again scoring 15, while Jamesville went scoreless. That made it 30-3 at halftime.

In the third quarter, Chowan again outthrew Jamesville, 7-2, to up the lead to 37-5, and then did it again, 7-5, in the final period.

Sheila Byrum led the Chowan scoring with 12 points, while Pat Perry added 11.

In the first of the boys' games, Oak City pulled into the lead early and held it the rest of the way. They built up a 16-11 lead at the end of the first period, then outthrew Chowan, 13-9, in the second. That left the Trojans in front, 29-20 at halftime.

In the third period, the Trojans really went to work, dumping in 21 points, while holding Chowan to just six. That upped the lead to 50-26. Chowan outthrew Oak City, 12-11 in the final period, but it was much too little.

Ronald Duggins led Oak City with 15 points, while Howard Peele had 12, Jerry Spruill had 11 and Edward Briley had 10. For Chowan, Holly had 12 and Waverly Westbrook had 10.

Rounding out the evening, Jamesville managed to slip into a 13-12 lead over Columbia as the first period came to an end. Columbia came back with a 9-8 advantage in the second period, however, leaving it deadlocked at 21-21.

In the third period, however, Jamesville managed to pull away, holding a 20-16 scoring advantage, and that gave the Bullets a 41-37 lead. In the final period, they insured the victory with an 18-12 advantage, wrapping it up.

Larry Modlin led the Bullet scoring with 16 points, while Bill Moore, Robert James and Alvin Grimes each had 10. Gregory Middett had 16 and Neal Fenner had 12 for Columbia.

Illinois Knocks Out Florida In Two Ways

By BERT ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Sports Writer Illinois' Fighting Illini knocked Florida from the ranks of the unbeaten ... and virtually kayoed the Gators' Tony Miller in the process.

The battling Illini won the Gator Bowl Basketball Tournament championship Wednesday night with a hard-earned 76-75 decision over Florida ... leaving Miller sprawled on the floor at the finish.

Miller, named the tournament's most valuable player and the game's top scorer with 31 points, was set up to take the final shot in hopes of pulling out Florida's seventh straight victory.

As he fired the ball toward the hoop, he was slammed to the court by two Illinois players. And to add insult to injury—Miller suffered a broken ring finger on his right hand during the fall—the officials ruled that he didn't get the shot off before the final buzzer and he was not awarded any free throws.

"I knew I was fouled," said Miller, "but I have no way of knowing whether I got the shot off before the buzzer. There was so much noise I couldn't hear it."

Neither Florida Coach Tommy Bartlett nor Illinois Coach Harvey Schmidt would comment on the controversial play.

While Florida was suffering its first setback, top-ranked, unbeaten UCLA rolled to its seventh blasting Texas 115-65 in the first round of the Bruin Classic. It was the seventh game the Bruins have exceeded the 100-point mark.

Ohio State, the nation's No. 6 team, also posted a first-round victory in the Bruin Classic, crushing Arizona 90-47 as Allan Hornyak led the way with 27 points, 24 in the first half.

Fourth-rated North Carolina, seeking its third championship in 10 days, beat St. Joseph's, Pa. 93-77 in the opening round of the Sugar Bowl Tournament. The Tarheels, led by Dennis Wuyck's 21 points, face Bradley tonight for the title. The Braves whipped Purdue 72-64 in the tourney's opening game.

North Carolina won the Big Four Tournament at Greensboro, N.C. and a tourney in Spain before playing in the Sugar Bowl Classic.

Seventh ranked Indiana with the help of John Ritter's five free throws in the final two minutes, edged Old Dominion 88-86 for the championship of the Old Dominion Classic. Joby Wright, named the tourney's most valuable player, paced the Hoosiers with 24 points and Ritter had 23.

Southern California took third place in the Kodak Classic, smothering Rochester 88-55 as Paul Westphal poured in 24 points.

Unbeaten St. Louis University won its own holiday tourney, overpowering Chicago Loyola 87-62. It was the Billikens' fifth victory of the season and their first tournament championship since the Kentucky Invitational in 1960.

Meanwhile, a score of other tournaments conducted opening round or semifinal play, and here are the results:

Far West Classic (semifinals)—Washington State 60, New Mexico 51, and Florida State 73, Oregon State 72.

Big Eight Tournament (semifinals)—Kansas State 92, Iowa 75, and Missouri 86, Colorado 57.

All-College Tournament (semifinals)—Oklahoma City 89, Army 82, and Eastern Kentucky 89, Santa Clara 85.

Steel Bowl Tournament (first round)—Duquesne 56, Wake Forest 55, and Pitt 88, Navy 78. Charlotte Invitational (first round)—Virginia Tech 77, Rutgers 73, and Davidson 91, Georgia Tech 66.

Poinsetta Classic (first round)—Auburn 103, Furman 78, and Clemson 67, Holy Cross 49.

Tangerine Bowl Classic (first round)—Miami, Ohio 78, Rollins 63, and William and Mary 94, Stetson 67.

Evansville Holiday Tournament (first round)—Seattle 79, Evansville 68, and Murray State 90, Pacific 87 in overtime.

Garden State Classic (first round)—Lafayette 88, American University 78, and George Washington 78, Rider 69.

Phillips Gets Starting Nod

DALLAS (AP) — After weeks of agonizing, Texas Coach Darrell Royal has made a big decision: It will be Eddie Phillips at starting quarterback in the 36th annual Cotton Bowl Classic.

Royal decided on Phillips over runt-sized Donnie Wigginton, who guided the Longhorns to the Southwest Conference championship after Phillips was felled with a pulled hamstring and an injured toe.

"It hasn't been an easy decision because I realize there is a lot of sentiment for Donnie," said Royal. "I was sincere when I said he (Wigginton) should have received the most valuable player award in the Southwest Conference this year."

Dooley Ousted By Papa Bear

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—An outsider may coach the Chicago Bears for the first time in the half-century history of the club, with which owner George Halas helped found the National Football League.

Halas Wednesday fired Jim Dooley, 41, his hand-picked successor, after the Bears collapsed badly towards the finish of Dooley's fourth season this year.

Halas personally announced the dismissal of Dooley, who had a 20-36 overall record, closing this year with 6-8 after losing the last five games.

"The record speaks for itself," was Halas' explanation.

Halas, 76, insisted the job has been thrown wide open, with a new coach likely to be selected from his staff or from the professional or collegiate ranks.

That opened a full-tilt guessing game, with Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame and Abe Giron and Bill Austin from the Bear staff immediately being seen as likely replacements.

Halas said he'd like to name the new coach at the latest several weeks before the NFL player draft Feb. 1, adding:

"He will have a free hand to name his assistants."

The Bear player reaction was in sympathy with Dooley, with Gale Sayers commenting:

"I hate to see him go. I thought he was a fine coach."

"Strange as it may seem," said Halas, who yielded the coaching reins to Dooley in 1968, "we don't have any working list of candidates yet."

Halas said he told Dooley of his dismissal in a "very emotional" 90-minute conference yesterday morning.

If Halas decides to bring in a man from outside the Bear organization, it will be the first such move since Papa Bear unveiled the former Decatur Staleys as a Chicago NFL entry in 1920.

Halas was head coach, business manager and publicity man decade after decade, with a few exceptions during which he really still was commander-in-chief.

Three Southern Teams In Finals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three Southern Conference teams will be playing for championships tonight in holiday tournaments, and The Citadel's Bulldogs may have the least enviable assignment.

The Bulldogs, who barely got past Air Force 61-60 Wednesday night in their own Palmetto Classic, have a date with Virginia's unbeaten 11th-ranked Cavaliers, who trounced Xavier of Ohio 85-65.

Also playing for titles tonight will be Davidson's Wildcats, the host team for the Charlotte Invitational, and William and Mary's Indians, visitors in the Tangerine Bowl Classic at Orlando, Fla.

Davidson, which trounced Georgia Tech 91-66, is matched against Virginia Tech's Gobblers who turned back Rutgers 77-73. William and Mary, a 94-67 victory over Stetson, takes on Miami of Ohio, which whipped Rollins 78-63 to take both Florida teams out of the Orlando tourney.

Two conference teams were beaten Wednesday night.

Furman's Paladins were drubbed by Auburn 103-78 in their own Poinsettia Classic. Auburn goes after the title against Clemson, which turned back Holy Cross 67-49. Furman meets Holy Cross for third place.

And the best East Carolina can get is third place, too. The Pirates were beaten 87-68 by Loyola of Los Angeles in the Oral Roberts Classic. Their opponent will be Connecticut, which took a 106-88 drubbing at the hands of host Oral Roberts.

John Sutor had 21 points and 12 rebounds to lead The Citadel past Air Force. The Bulldogs blew a 15-point lead in the second half but went back in front on baskets by Oscar Scott and Sutor.

Virginia's pressing defense forced 31 Xavier turnovers as the Cavaliers ran their record to 8-0. Barry Parkhill hit 10 of 16 shots from the floor for 25 points, and Frank DeWitt added 19. Paul Wagner, a 6-foot-6 sophomore, came off the bench to score 16 points and spark Davidson over Georgia Tech. Joe Suter also had 16 for the Wildcats. Allan Bristow had 26 points and 13 rebounds and Darwin Pippin added 22 points as Virginia Tech overcame a five-point halftime gap.

William and Mary also used a press to outscore Stetson 57-33 in the second half. Jerry Fisher had 23 points, Jeff Trammell 18 and Steve Seward 17 for the Indians. Sophomore Gary Dees scored 20 points in the last 11 minutes to lead Miami to its triumph.

Jim Retseck's 24 points and Dan Kirkland's 17 did it for Furman as Auburn shot 56 per cent from the floor. Russ Hunt led Furman with 24 points. Sophomore Terrell Suit was tops for Clemson with 20 in the Tiger's victory over Holy Cross.

Al Faber had 21 points in East Carolina's defeat.

Rice Said After Rice

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Homer Rice, athletic director at the University of North Carolina, said he was at Rice University at Houston, Tex., Wednesday and talked with university President Norman Hackerman.

He said, "Our talks were confidential."

Rice University has been without an athletic director and football coach since Bill Peterson resigned both posts. Homer Rice is former football coach at the University of Cincinnati who has been at North Carolina for three years.

ACC Teams In Championships

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The three nationally ranked Atlantic Coast Conference teams in holiday basketball tournaments, North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland, opened with easy victories Wednesday night. They advanced to tonight's championship rounds.

North Carolina, No. 4, crushed St. Joseph's of Philadelphia 93-77 in the Sugar Bowl Tournament in New Orleans. Dennis Wuyckick with 21 points and Bob McAdoo with 18 led the Tar Heels to their seventh victory against one loss.

North Carolina plays for the title tonight against the Bradley Braves, who defeated Purdue 72-64.

Eleventh-ranked and undefeated Virginia led all the way in routing Xavier of Ohio 85-65 in the Palmetto Classic at Charleston, S.C. As usual, Barry Parkhill led the Cavaliers, hitting 25 points.

Also scoring in double figures in Virginia's eighth victory were Frank DeWitt with 19, Scott McCandlish with 16 and Jim Hobgood with 10.

Virginia meets The Citadel for the title. The Citadel edged the Air Force 61-60.

Maryland, No. 16, should have the hardest time tonight when it meets ninth-ranked St. John's of New York for the championship of the Maryland Invitational Christmas Tournament.

The host Terrapins ran their record to 7-1 with the help of three long streaks which buried Western Kentucky 103-67. Maryland had seven players in double figures, paced by Jim O'Brien with 15 and Tom McMillen with 14 points.

St. John's held off a second-half Harvard rally to win its eighth game in nine starts, 94-88.

North Carolina State won third place in the Gator Bowl Tournament in Jacksonville, Fla., by beating Columbia 76-48. Columbia brought only eight players to the tournament and was able to dress just six for the game. An eye injury had sidelined its top scorer, Foley Jones, the night before, and another player came down with a virus.

Seven-foot-four Tom Burleson of the N.C. State Wolfpack controlled the backboards and snared 17 rebounds. The Wolfpack parked him under the offensive basket and from there he got most of his 26 points. Rack Holdt had 16 and Joe Cafery 14 for N.C. State, which had lost 74-72 to Illinois in the opening round.

Illinois won the championship by knocking Florida from the unbeaten ranks, 76-75.

Wake Forest lost 56-55 to unbeaten duquesne in the first round of the Steel Bowl Tournament in Pittsburgh. Duquesne won on a jump shot by Ruben Montanez with 27 seconds to play. Montanez was the high scorer for Duquesne with 20 points.

Sophomore Terrell Suit made his first start a memorable one by scoring a game-high 20 points to lead Clemson to a 67-49 victory over Holy Cross in the Poinsettia Classic in Greenville, S.C. Two other sophomores performed well for the Tigers, Denny Odle with 16 points and Mike Brown with 13.

Clemson, now 3-2, plays for the championship tonight against Auburn, which opened with a 103-78 victory over Furman.

Tailbacks To Play Key Role In Gator Bowl, Dooleys Both Declare

By F. T. MACFEELY
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Run, tailback, run.

The Dooley coaching brothers, Vince and Bill, predict that will be what 70,000 ticketholders and a national television audience will see when Georgia and North Carolina meet in the 27th annual Gator Bowl football game at 2:10 p.m. Friday.

When tailback Jimmy Poulos of Georgia tucks the pigskin under his arm, chances are he will aim for a hole opened by guard Royce Smith.

And when Lewis Jolley's turn comes for North Carolina, he will follow fullback Geof Hamlin to daylight.

Smith and Hamlin are experts at their jobs. So expert that each won the coveted Jacobs Award — Smith as best blocker in the Southeastern Conference and Hamlin as best in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"It's not easy to learn blocking," Smith said. "There are no natural blockers the way there are natural runners like Bob Hayes. It's something you have to learn the technique, or you'll lose it."

Injured in Georgia's only loss, to Auburn, Smith missed the season windup against Georgia Tech and is just now back to full strength and skill.

"He'll start," said Georgia Coach Vince Dooley. "He's healed and the only question is his physical stamina because of the time away from action."

Hamlin, like Smith, takes pride in his blocking technique. "But I'd rather carry the ball," he said. "Anybody would."

In the Tar Heels 11 games this season, he carried the ball 134 times, averaging 4.4 yards. On most of the other 547 rushing plays Hamlin helped clear the path.

"I thought I was a good blocker in high school in Ottawa, Ont.," Hamlin said. "But I didn't really start learning the technique until my first spring practice at North Carolina. I learned it from a real good fellow ahead of me, Saul Zematus, also a Canadian."

While Hamlin scored three touchdowns this season, Smith hasn't had one since high school at Savannah, Ga., where he was a fullback.

"John Jennings is the luckiest lineman I know," Smith said with a touch of envy.

Jennings, the other starting guard for Georgia, picked a teammate's fumble out of the air and ran 39 yards for a touchdown against Mississippi.

While both teams made their marks — Georgia 10-1 and North Carolina 9-2 — on running attacks, quarterbacks

Sullivan Says Sooners Strong

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "That's just what I've been trying to tell everybody," said Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan of Auburn. "Their defense is underrated."

"I think they have more physical talent than any team I've tried to prepare for," said the All-American quarterback shortly after the fifth-ranked Tigers arrived here Wednesday for their final workouts before Saturday's Sugar Bowl date with No. 3 Oklahoma.

While most observers have gawked at the awesome Oklahoma wishbone attack, Sullivan has been more concerned with the Sooner defense.

"People have moved quite a bit on them," Sullivan said, "but when they had to have the big play, they got it. They are big and I believe their speed and quickness is their greatest asset."

Sullivan led Auburn to nine straight triumphs this year before the Tigers were belted 31-7 by Alabama, another power that lives by the wishbone.

The Crimson Tide dominated the game with ball control, keeping Sullivan and his All-American wide receiver Terry Beasley on the sideline for 42 minutes.

"I don't think it will be that type game," said Sullivan. "They (Oklahoma) seem to score quicker."

The Sooners, led by All-American running back Greg Pruitt and quarterback Jack Mildren, are solid 11-point favorites over the Tigers, who staggered to their only defeat only two days after Sullivan Andy Johnson of the Bulldogs and Paul Miller of the Tar Heels can use the pass effectively as a surprise weapon.

Georgia is favored to win the game by a little more than one touchdown.

was acclaimed the Heisman winner.

Sullivan acknowledged that it seemed as if the Tigers were always in a position of having to prove themselves to others.

"I feel we have one more chance to go out as winners instead of losers," he said.

The Tigers concluded their heavy workouts at Auburn before arriving here Wednesday and will hold only brief sessions in Sugar Bowl Stadium today and Friday.

"We've worked real hard," Sullivan said. "Now we'll get that last chance to go out as winners."

Terps' Opener Is A Big One

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Coach Lefty Driesell of Maryland views tonight's game against ninth-ranked St. John's as a chance for the Terps to gain national basketball recognition.

For center Len Elmore, the championship game of the Maryland Invitational Christmas Tournament has even more significance for the 16th ranked Terps.

Elmore and teammate Jap Trimble have played with or against seven St. John's players on New York City playgrounds or in high school, so tonight will be war.

"This game has special meaning," Elmore said, after scoring 13 points and grabbing 14 rebounds as Maryland trounced Western Kentucky 103-67 in Wednesday's opening round. "If we lose, I'd have to go home and take a ribbing from the guys."

Elmore, a 6-foot-9 sophomore, has already given his teammates a personal scouting report on St. John's, which held off a Harvard rally to win its first round game 94-88.

Driesell, who saw the Redmen wallop Georgetown earlier in the season, said he'd "be up all night trying to think of some way to beat them. 'This is our chance to beat a team in the top ten.'"

Lefty said the Terps, now 7-1, "probably played their best game of the season" while hitting 64 per cent of their shots and holding a 56-34 edge in rebounds.

A 13-2 streak early in the game and another 11-point string gave Maryland a 43-23 halftime edge over Western Kentucky. The Hilltoppers, 4-4, never recovered and another 11-point string made it 60-31 after five minutes of the second half.

Jim O'Brien had 15 points and Tom McMillen 14 as seven Terps scored in double figures before a home crowd of 12,500.

Tar Heels Rip St. Joe, 93-77

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — He might have trouble convincing others of it, but North Carolina coach Dean Smith thinks Bradley could cause his tough Tar Heels some problems tonight in the title game of the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament.

The Carolina crew, going after its third tournament championship in 10 days, whipped an experience-shy St. Joseph's (Penn.) 93-77 in Wednesday night's opening-round game. The Bradley Braves took Purdue 72-64 in the other first-round encounter. St. Joe's and Purdue will meet for consolation honors in tonight's opening game.

The 5,825 fans saw Carolina zip into a 7-0 lead in the first two minutes, and the Tar Heels had a 16-point bulge midway through the first half. They led 48-35 at intermission and had things pretty much their own way in the final 20 minutes.

Senior Dennis Wuyckick topped the Carolina attack with 21 points, while big Bob McAdoo connected for 18.

Smith said he was satisfied with his team's play. He said he thought it "was more rested than when we played Harvard Monday night." North Carolina recently returned from Spain where it won three games and a tournament crown. The Tar Heels previously won the Carolina Big Four championship.

"Bradley could cause us some problems," Smith said of his Tar Heels, who were ranked fourth in this week's Associated Press poll. "If they control the ball like St. Joe did, it could be a good game."

The victory was Carolina's seventh against one loss.

Village Soon A Ghost Town

By ED ROWLAND
Associated Press Writer
PORTSMOUTH, N.C. (AP) — One of the most isolated communities on the Atlantic coast is becoming a ghost town after a 250-year history colored by visiting pirates and the rugged seafaring tradition of North Carolina's "Bankers."

In the near future, the neat frame homes maintained by the last two natives of Portsmouth Island will be vacant, ending Portsmouth Village's existence as a community.

Elma Dixon dwells by herself most of the year in a small, green house on the Outer Banks island that is a long boat ride from any other land. Nearby lives her niece, Marian Babb.

A few other people stay on the island now and then, mostly for hunting and fishing, and there are some parttime residents in other houses who are not natives of Portsmouth. Before the Civil War, the island had more than 500 residents and was one of the busiest ports in North Carolina. Now, its permanent population is zero.

A niece of Miss Dixon's, Mrs. Lee Dominick de Beaufort, says Miss Dixon and Miss Babb like to stay on Portsmouth despite the loneliness "because they don't like to see it abandoned."

"Their main concern is the homeplace—to keep it going," she said.

There are telephones on the 20-mile long island, which lies across an inlet from Ocracoke Island. Visitors must hire a boat, bounce through often choppy water past Teach's Hole—where the pirate Blackbeard was captured and beheaded—and wade ashore across a mud flat to reach the remains of the community.

Food Processing Being Watched

NEW YORK (UPI) —Some persons are concerned that food processing destroys much nutritive value and leaves only empty calories in the form of sugar, carbohydrates and oils without any vitamins and other nutrients.

Dr. T. E. Hartung, chairman of the department of Food Science and Technology, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration continuously is examining the processing methods to assure that no massive destruction of food nutrients occurs.

"Hamming" it up . . . uninhibited fourth-graders from Castleton, N.Y.

CLASS PORTRAIT

Now here's a revolutionary, new-style class portrait, apt for an age of youthful repudiation of the orthodox. "Smile, please" indeed! With wit, courage and imagination, fourth-graders of Maple Hill Elementary School in Castleton, N.Y., posing for a group photograph, decided to immortalize themselves just as they are—or even worse: no faked graciousness. They were having a visit from photographer Arnold LeFevre, who encouraged them to "ham" for the group photo which he took. As the result shows, they proved singularly uninhibited "hams."

The big thrill was for the kids to get into the act themselves by taking their own solo portraits using the method shown in the picture in the bottom right hand corner of the page. When each sitter judged the best—or worst—expression had been achieved, he or she took the shot by means of a rubber bulb on a long cord attached to the camera. All in all the visit was a great creative success—and produced a series of photos which will not be forgotten in a hurry.

Bricklayer, 87, Still Hustles To Work

By JOHN N. GREGORY
CHICAGO (UPI)—Ed Johnson gets up early each morning when the weather is decent.

packs a lunch and hustles off to work—possibly the nation's oldest active bricklayer. Johnson, who will be 87 in March, has been laying brick since he was 21. He learned his father's trade in their native Sweden and the bricks he has laid in a lifetime could build an impressive monument but that isn't what he wants.

"I just want to stay healthy so I can work some more," Johnson said in an interview. He also likes to tell funny stories and "yokes" in a still noticeable Swedish accent.

"When he gets warmed up, he really can tell some good stories," said his daughter, Mrs. John Anderson, with whom Johnson lives in the Chicago suburb of Northbrook.

When he isn't laying brick, Johnson can be found "monkeying around" with his tape recorder, or driving his car and performing chores for his daughter, or watching television. His favorite television fare is Perry Mason and some soap operas.

"Sometimes the operas get boring," Johnson said. "They do a lot of talking but they're not getting anywhere. They're not fast enough for me—I'm a man of action."

His "action" includes building an outdoor and an indoor fireplace and making extensive masonry repairs at the Anderson house.

"He also runs lots of errands for us in his car," Mrs. Anderson said.

Johnson's longest drive each week is to his church in the North Side of Chicago, about 18 miles from home. Although there are alternate routes, he prefers an expressway.

"It's nice and fast. That's what I like," he said. "I drive the speed limit, 60-65 miles an hour. If someone drives too slow, I pass him up."

Johnson joined the bricklayers union shortly after he arrived in the United States in 1911, but it was a union work gang that nearly ended his career prematurely "when I was only 72 or 73 years old," Johnson said.

"Some young fellows in a work gang told me to go home and take it easy. They didn't like to see us old guys on the job. But here I am, still a bricklayer. You don't find so many like that, eh?"

If the gangs didn't want a good bricklayer, Johnson figured, then his son, Irwin, a contractor, did. The younger Johnson added:

"He's a regular 'Johnny-on-the-spot' for me. He's a topnotch bricklayer and I sure have been able to use him. He'll climb scaffolds, work chimneys, anything. I turn a job over to him and know he's going to do it right."

Johnson added to his son's comment, saying: "I was working with these guys, three laborers. I was about 35 feet up on a scaffold and they couldn't bring me bricks and mortar fast enough to keep me going."

An Oak Produces More Than Acorns—Truffles

By ALISON LERRICK
PARIS (AP) — Cicero called them "children of the gods." Lucullus never had a banquet without one. And rumor has it Jacob sneaked a few into the potage.

Last year, the French consumed 40 tons of them despite an average cost of $20 a pound. "Truffles are not a business. They are a way of life," says Jacques Pebevre, the "Truffle King" to his friends. His grandfather Pierre began the dynasty as a peasant with a pig on the banks of the Dordogne.

Alain, next in line, is still out truffling at age 86, with a patriarchal white beard. Johnson's longest drive each week is to his church in the North Side of Chicago, about 18 miles from home. Although there are alternate routes, he century farmhouse in Cahors now turns out about 30 per cent of France's truffle total, including the ones that go to Maxim's and the Tour d'Argent.

How many truffles altogether? "If I sold stringbeans, I would quote in tons. With truffles, I would rather not," he says superstitiously.

To make a truffle, you need three ingredients—first, the vine-growing soil of Perigord and the Vaucluse, second, a climate that is neither too hot, too cold, too dry nor too rainy, and third, an oak—and hope that nature will do the rest.

A peach tree may grow only peaches, but an oak is good for more than acorns. An oak "father" may give birth to anything from one truffle to 10 pounds of them yearly. Starting on their 10th birthday, most oaks are responsible for an annual two pounds of truffles growing among their roots.

Pebevre himself has 40,000 oaks at his personal disposal, spread out over 500 acres, to give their roots elbow-room.

After "forming itself" in the late spring, the mushroom lives "its maiden life" 10 inches underground, shrinking away from such enemies as rabbits and wild boar. From November to January, it "declares itself," begging for excavation by "burning" the grass over its head, thanks to its special bacteria, and emitting that unmistakable odor that has sent gourmets out digging for the last 3,000 years.

But even the well-trained nose of a Pebevre cannot bring home a truffle unaided. The harvest, as one enthusiast wrote, features "the joys of the hunt, the long walks in the forest and the work of the faithful companion." This last used to be the sow, whose career is too often nipped in the bud by two complementary factors: the corn she is rewarded with, leading to "obesity, a handicap in long expeditions," and the demand for smoked ham.

A dog, in contrast, has a long professional life before him as a truffle sniffer. The most talented breeds are German Shepherds, spaniels, poodles and fox terriers, but mutts are best of all. Some, though keen, have the unfortunate habit of preferring truffles to a reward of meal or cheese.

Once uprooted, the truffles go to market, held three times a week in the season. They may weigh in anywhere from a pound to one-fiftieth of an ounce. You buy them in their natural state, which includes about 20 per cent dirt.

After sorting, sterilizing and immersion in a pressure cooker for 2½ hours—at which point they lose the second fifth of their original weight—the truffles are ripe for the can, according to category, of course. There are five: peeled, the "no plus ultra" at $50 a pound; extra brushed, which are round like marbles; brushed first choice, of irregular shape; pieces; and peels, the remains of the peeled and worth half as much.

Traditionalists wouldn't touch a truffle, "the black diamond of the cuisine," unless it is embedded in foie gras, with champagne flowing. The trio are well-mated because the goose-liver grease soaks up the truffle smell and the champagne cleanses the palate.

Indeed, the aroma can only be described as "very strong, almost irritating ... even nerve-wracking. There are some people who can't bear to enter my house in the winter," says Pebevre. Those who do like the smell, and most do, can have their truffle and eat it, too. For so penetrating and pervasive is the truffle scent that by leaving a small truffle overnight among whole eggs, you can have "omelette aux truffes" the next day and keep your truffle.

"Thanks to the truffle, I don't have to eat. I'm just as happy to sniff things. This business develops your nose," says Pebevre. "Sometimes, that is agreeable."
