IDLE FOR A DECADE — The North Carolina gas chamber's last execution was in October, 1961. (AP Wirephoto)

A 'Stay' Of Executions

By BILL EAST

Written for Associated Press

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — With the end of 1971, North Carolina closed out the first decade in its history without an execution.

The last was on a crisp Friday morning, Oct. 27, 1961.

Leaves on the trees around the Capitol Square in Raleigh had turned many colors. Beneath them walked four Wake Forest University students.

Jesse Shearing Jr. of Scotland Neck, Bill Featherstone of Spindale, Sam Leaman of Asheville and Charles Lewis of New Bern had driven from Winston-Salem to Raleigh to protest an impending execution.

A few blocks away, inside the gray Central Prison, 31-year-old unemployed Negro farm worker Theodore Boykin was being prepared for the walk to the gas chamber.

The afternoon before, students Shearing and Glenn Blackburn Jr. of Winston-Salem had sent Gov. Terry Sanford a telegram asking clemency for Boykin.

Boykin had been convicted of raping and killing Mrs. Lena T. Barnes on Christmas Eve of 1960 at her farm home near Kenansville, where she lived alone.

As the students walked around Capitol Square carrying their signs, they stopped passers-by and asked their support.

Gov. Sanford talked to the students. He told them he saw no reason for capital punishment but that if he granted clemency in the case, which he described as involving a brutal crime, he would be justified in granting clemency in all other cases and, in effect, changing the law.

Sanford also told the group he was "glad to see people interested in problems like this."

A few moments later, the governor gave his final decision to his executive assistant: "No clemency."

At Central Prison, the cyanide flakes were released at 10:02 a.m. Boykin, who had a fourth grade education, was pronounced dead at 10:20 a.m.

The Wake Forest students put their signs back in the car and silently began to drive back to Winston-Salem.

In the 1950s, the state executed as many as 20 to 25 people a year. During the last 10 years, Death Row at Central Prison has always been occupied.

The reason no one has started the walk to the gas chamber is that each person sentenced to die in the state has had his or her case tied up in appeals. And when the appeals ran out, there have been stays of executions.

Two governors—Dan K. Moore and now probably Bob Scott—are the first in modern state history to go through four-year terms without executions.

Scott, who announced his opposition to capital punishment in 1969, has privately vowed there will be no executions during his term, which ends in January 1973.

The office of the warden of Central Prison said recently nine persons still are on Death Row—the total has gone as high as 12 and 13 during the decade.

And a spokesman said a lot of paperwork still is being performed on those there.

Just before the state reached its 10-year execution-free anniversary, a court upheld the conviction of Owen Swanson Doss of Pitt County, who was convicted of first degree murder.

When that happened, it automatically reset his execution for the third Friday after the certification—or last Oct. 29.

Just before that day, Doss was given a stay which, in effect, postponed his execution indefinitely. In the meantime, more appeals will be prepared.

In the decade, the death sentence has come to the forefront throughout the nation as courts ruled on various phases of its legality.

Some of the rulings, such as the selection of capital case juries, have had the effect of upsetting some the death sentences. Other prisoners have had their sentences changed or reduced.

But the main ruling, whether the U.S. Supreme Court believes the death is "cruel and unusual punishment" and thus unconstitutional, has not come. The subject is on the court's docket for this term and the decision may come in 1972.

The General Assembly takes up the subject every two years, but there has not been suf-

Fires Took Seventeen Lives Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seventeen persons died in five fires Sunday and early today. Twelve of the dead were children, including four boys from a California family and three youngsters who died in a Kansas City home.

Three of the fires occurred Sunday in New York State, including a huge blaze at a Pillsbury grain mill in Buffalo where a worker died as rescuers tried to dig him out of a pile of rubble.

A pre-dawn blaze today in Vista, Calif., took the lives of Mrs. Kenneth Collins, 30, and her sons, Bobby, 10; Jimmy, 8; Keith, 6, and Stevie, 1½. The father was reported in fair condition after the fire of undetermined origin raced through their wood and stucco house.

A fire in a Kansas City home early today killed three children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lofton and left the parents suffering burns, smoke inhalation and shock. The dead were Lisa, 4; Crelle, 2½, and Joseph Jr., 18 months.

In the Buffalo mill fire, Deputy Fire Commissioner Thomas Lahiff said two other workers were reported missing and were presumed dead. Ten workers were hospitalized, five in critical condition.

City fire officials theorized that a welder's torch set off the explosions and fire but Pillsbury President Terrance Hanold disagreed, saying he had been told no such equipment was in use.

John Regos, one of the 28 men at work at the time of the early morning blast, was pinned alive under debris. He died after receiving the last rites of the Catholic Church and shots of morphine to ease his pain.

More than 175 firemen, using 32 pumpers and ladder trucks, fought the blaze.

Also in Buffalo, a fire early Sunday took the lives of three men. They were identified as Joseph Jaminski and Albert Lang, both 60, and Lawrence Wilson, 35.

Five children, aged five months to six years, were trapped in a blazing house trailer in an isolated area near Pulaski, N.Y., about five miles from Lake Ontario.

The dead, all from the McDonough family, were 6-year-old twins, Matthew and Francis, Patricia, 4, Timothy, 3, and Rosemary, 5 months. Their father, Frank McDonough, 49, was hospitalized in good condition with burns.

Two stepsisters and a family friend escaped the fire.

Bhutto Frees Bangladesh 'President'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto announced today the release of Sheik Mujibur Rahman, Radio Pakistan announced.

Sheik Mujib was the dominant political leader of East Pakistan before his arrest in March. Rebels there have proclaimed him president of Bangladesh.

The radio said Bhutto made the announcement of his release at a mammoth public rally in Karachi where the crowd roared its approval after he asked for it.

"You have relieved me as a great burden," the radio said Bhutto replied.

The release of Mujib could pave the way for a settlement between India and Pakistan following their two-week war last month.

Mujib is the leader of the Awami League, now in power in an independent Bangladesh.

Bhutto, said that "world opinion also favored Sheik Mujib's release."

"I hope India will similarly honor world opinion and leave occupied Pakistani territory," Bhutto added, according to the radio.

The radio did not say when Mujib would leave West Pakistan or if he had already left.

Sheik Mujib was jailed on treason charges by Gen. Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan, then the president, in the March crackdown on Mujib's East Pakistani autonomy movement.

It was Mujib's insistence on autonomy for Pakistan's Eastern province, which had 75 million of Pakistan's 130 million people, that fouled Yahya's plans for a constitutional assembly last year.

Running on Mujib's six-point autonomy program, the Awami League won 136 of East Pakistna's 138 National Assembly seats in the 1970 election. Bhutto's National People's party won a majority in the West but fell far short of a nationwide majority.

With Mujib refusing to budge on autonomy or to accept the president's demands, Yahya postponed the scheduled opening of the assembly.

Hartke Running

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana announced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today and said he would campaign in New Hampshire's primary.

He said he would decide on whether to enter presidential preference primaries in other states after his campaign for the March 7 New Hampshire balloting is organized.

Standing in the same spot where the late President John F. Kennedy announced his successful campaign 12 years ago—the lobby of the Sheraton Carpenter Hotel—Hartke said:

"The American people, and the world, cannot afford four more years of Richard Nixon's failures."

But, he added, "if the Democratic party expects to receive the mantle of leadership, it had better start leading. This campaign is all about a country which is fighting for its life. The Democratic party is entitled to have a candidate ready to lead the fight. I am ready."

Free-Riders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's tax laws contained loopholes big enough for 112 Americans with incomes above $200,000 to pay no federal income taxes in 1970, according to preliminary information supplied by the Treasury Department.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said Sunday the information, supplied at his request, showed three of the free-riders each reported more than $1 million income for 1970.

In 1969, before the Tax Reform Act took effect, 300 persons with incomes of at least $200,000 paid no taxes, he added. Of those, 52 made more than $1 million.

The chief provision in the 1969 act that was supposed to end tax avoidance by the rich was a requirement for a minimum tax. Reuss called it "a love tap."

"The Tax Reform Act of 1969 was supposed to end this grand-scale tax avoidance, but it is obvious now that it hasn't done so," he said.

Between $20 billion and $30 billion in additional revenue could be raised annually if everyone was required to pay his fair share of taxes, Reuss estimated.

He said a tax reform bill he is co-sponsoring would raise about $19 billion by plugging loopholes. Another $10 million could come from repealing new tax benefits for businessmen and taxing the income of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. firms on a current basis, he said.

Police Capture Three Of Five N.C. Escapees

RALEIGH (AP) — Police at Raleigh and Fuquay-Varina early today caught three of five escapees from Dorothea Dix State Hospital and Raleigh police were searching an area in the southern edge of the city for the other two.

Police in Fuquay-Varina captured 36-year-old Richard L. Lunsford of Wilkes County and later Raleigh police nabbed 13-year-old Johnny Ray Hicks of Davidson County and 17-year-old Danny Dorsay of Gaston County.

Officer J. D. Hedrick said four of the fugitives came up on the porch of a home on Lake Wheeler Road in Raleigh. The woman called police and officers swarmed on the scene. They caught two of them and the other two got away.

Still at large were James M. Hicks, 15, brother of Johnny Ray Hicks and Donnie Ray Flood of Stanly County.

The hospital reported the Hicks brothers were charged with murder in the slaying of Alvin R. Sechrist, 72, at his home between Lexington and Salisbury Nov. 17.

Dr. C. W. Lynn, acting superintendent of the hospital, said the inmates escaped by removing a metal grill from a window.

"None is considered dangerous," said Lynn. "They were not armed. Four of them were being held for treatment and observation. The other was a mental patient."

Hand Shattered

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A 13-year-old Charlotte boy has had his hand shattered in an accident with fireworks. . .Police said he and some other boys were playing with firecrackers they had found in their neighborhood.

They said his father reported the boy was holding one of the large firecrackers and one of his companions lit it. The immediate blast tore the youth's palm, severed the ends of three fingers and shattered his eardrum Saturday.

A doctor worked to restore the hand for more than two hours. Results of the surgery were not known.

Nixon Hints No Dumping Faces Spiro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hinting broadly he will seek re-election with Spiro T. Agnew as his running mate, President Nixon has given Americans a glimpse at a campaign-year platform built on his moves for peace abroad and a healthier economy at home.

In an hour-long nationally televised interview Sunday night, Nixon said he will announce by Jan. 14 his decision on running for another term, and added he sees no reason at present to "break up a winning combination" by dumping Vice President Agnew.

Responding to questions of CBS correspondent Dan Rather as they sat before a crackling fire in the White House Oval Office, Nixon said:

—The rate of withdrawing U.S. troops from Vietnam will continue at present—or perhaps accelerated—levels in early 1972. But he indicated that a residual force of 25,000 to 35,000 Americans would stay until prisoners of war are freed.

—He will cut drastically the coverage of his wage-price-rent controls this year if they continue to succeed in trimming the rate of inflation, but some controls may be needed beyond 1972 to keep the economy cool.

—As the nation moves "from war to peace in the year 1972, we are going to bring the unemployment rate below" the 5.8-per-cent average of the non-war years in the decade of the 1960s.

—He will not allow the Communists to gain "any bargaining advantage due to my desire to affect our election campaign" when he travels to Peking and Moscow for election-year summit talks.

—The Soviet Union has escalated arms shipments to Egypt and "we will not allow the ... military balance in the Mideast to be shifted" against Israel, which is seeking more U.S. Phantom jets.

—Negotiations still are under way at various levels to free Vietnam POWs. This will be discussed when he goes to Peking and Moscow, and recent Chinese release of two Americans offers "one slightly hopeful note."

After disclosing he will make his re-election plans known by Jan. 14—in time for the New Hampshire primary—Nixon added: "Whatever my decision ... I will engage in no public partisan activities until after the Republican convention. The problems of the presidency ... are so great that it will not be possible to take time off for partisan politics."

But later in the interview Nixon sketched a peace-and-prosperity platform he is likely to use in his expected re-election bid.

When Rather noted that polls show half of those interviewed say Nixon fails to inspire confidence and lacks personal warmth, the President said: "My strong point is not rhetoric, it isn't showmanship, it isn't big promises—those things that create the glamor and excitement that people call charisma and warmth.

"My strong point ... is performance. I always do more than I say. I always produce more than I promise."

As for Agnew, Nixon said "the vice president has handled his difficult assignments with dignity, with courage. He has, at times, been a man of controversy, but when a man has done a good job in a position, when he has been part of a winning team, I believe that he should stay on the team."

Before the November election, Nixon said, "our goal is to end American involvement in Vietnam ...."

He said because recent air raids on North Vietnam "have been very, very effective," he plans to announce before Feb. 1 that troop withdrawals "will continue on schedule, at least at the present rate, possibly at somewhat a larger rate."

Robersonville Station Was Robbed In Night

ROBERSONVILLE — Martin County police are investigating a break-in at a service station here last night that resulted in the theft of an estimated $4,500 in cash and merchandise.

According to Robersonville Police Chief J. B. Bullock, the break-in at Roy Lee Vanderford's Service Station was discovered at 6:35 this morning.

Chief Bullock said that a hole was knocked in a bathroom wall at the station and entrance was gained through the hole. No estimates of the damage to the building have been made, he said.

The chief reported some $2,100 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes stolen but no description of other items possibly taken was available.

Pitt deputies are assisting in the investigation.

Simple, Private Rites

PARIS (AP) — Maurice Chevalier, who wanted "to go out discreetly and with dignity," will be buried after a simple private ceremony Wednesday. He will lie in a vault alongside his mother.

The 83-year-old entertainer, who for half a century spelled Paris to audiences on both sides of the Atlantic, died of heart failure Saturday after three weeks hospitalization for a kidney ailment.

His nephew, Rene Chevalier, said funeral services will be held in the little church at Marnes La Coquette, where Chevalier lived just west of Paris, with burial in the village cemetery. His mother died in 1926.

"All his life he considered himself as an artisan," said the nephew. "He wanted to finish like this, to have no visitors, not have his body on view at the time of his final departure and to join, with simplicity, his dear mother."

Mourners were turned away from the gates of Chevalier's luxurious home Sunday. "No one is permitted in. These were his last wishes, and no exceptions will be made," they were told.

President Georges Pompidou, in a tribute, said: "The French people recognized themselves in him and foreigners found in his person an image of France, a partial image no doubt, but gay and warm. That is why this popular tenderness which will accompany him to the tomb will be even more touching than his triumphs in the theater."

Bandits Arrived In Limousine To Stage $1 Million Hotel Heist

By BOB MONROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say a slick gang of bandits, who used a sleek black limousine to lull security guards and gain entrance to the elegant Hotel Pierre, may have made off with more than $1 million in cash and jewelry from 47 safe deposit boxes.

Detectives said one man, whom they did not identify, had satisfied them that he had lost jewelry and money worth $800,000. Chief of Detectives Albert A. Seedman indicated that the early Sunday robbery might turn out to be the biggest hotel heist ever pulled here.

The Pierre, one of the nation's most luxurious hotels, is located on Fifth Avenue at 61st Street, overlooking Central Park. About half of its units are cooperative apartments that sell for $200,000 to $300,000.

To keep out undesirables, the hotel locks its doors between 1 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. But a security guard is posted inside to admit guests.

It was just after 4 a.m. Sunday when the sleek limousine pulled up to the 61st Street entrance. Two well-dressed men got out and carried their bags to the door. They told the guard they had a reservation.

When he unlocked the door, they walked in and the startled guard saw they were carrying guns and one was wearing a rubber nose. Two other gang members apparently followed.

The gang quickly rounded up 16 employes—including three guards, bell hops and others— and herded them into the executive offices. Using 14 sets of handcuffs and a supply of adhesive tape, they bound the captives and made them lie on the floor.

While the rubber-nosed man stood guard, the other members of the gang went to the battery of safe deposit boxes behind the cashier's office and began forcing them open.

Seedman said the men used a guest list to select the boxes but the hotel manager, J.V. Bennett, later denied this, saying the boxes were opened randomly.

At one point a guest, Haelio Fragga, a lawyer from Rio de Janiero, telephoned the desk to find out why he could not get an elevator. A gunman donned an operator's jacket and went to the floor.

But when he couldn't make the car go down, he dropped his disguise and took Fragga, his wife and his mother-in-law to the executive offices with the other captives.

At 5:40 a.m., the gang packed its haul in the suitcases and left. A few minutes later, one of the captives got loose and called police.

Couple Exchanges Vows Sunday

Miss Beverly Dianne Stephenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Carlton Stephenson and John Daniel Vines, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carson Vines of St. Petersburg, Fla., were united in marriage at four o'clock Sunday afternoon in the Immanuel Baptist Church.

The Rev. Irby Jackson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated with four seven branch candelabra and palms. A prayer bench was used.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Thurston Perry and Larry White played the marimba. Dr. H. D. Lambeth accompanied by his daughter, Debbie sang "Theme from Love Story" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. James L. White sang "Song of Ruth."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire silk peau gown styled with high neckline and lace bodice with long lace bishop sleeves. Lace appliques accented with seed pearls accented the skirt. The back was enhanced with a large bow covering a detachable train at waist and was edged with wide lace border flowing to chapel length.

She used a Spanish style mantilla applique and bordered with chantilly lace as a headpiece. The bride carried a cascade of white carnations with blue ribbons.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Hugh Hobbs of Chicago, Ill. She wore a floor length light blue chiffon gown with empire waistline, ruffled neckline, saphire blue velvet vest applique accented with a floral trim, long sleeves ruffled at the wrists, with blue velvet buttons and a blue velvet bow accenting the front. Maid of honor was Miss Phyllis Farrow of Greenville. She wore an identical dress as that of the matron of honor.

Both wore headpieces of light blue chiffon bows with sapphire blue veils. They carried nosegays of pom pons tinted blue with streamers of blue velvet.

Bridemaids were Miss Debbie Evans of Rock Hill, S.C., Mrs. R. N. Sellers of Tulsa, Okla., Miss Sandra Shoe of Greenville, and Miss Beverly Vaughn of Rocky Mount. They wore dresses identical to that of the maid and matron of honor. The attendants wore head pieces of sapphire bows with light blue veils.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were Gene Holdway of High point, Billy Duncan and Gary Duncan both of Rocky Mount, Mike Stephenson of Greenville, and Charles Carson Vines of Queens, N.Y.

The mother of the bride wore a mint green silk dress and coat with fur collar and brown accessories. She wore a corsage of red roses.

Grandmothers of the bride are Mrs. R. Y. Stephenson of Clayton and Mrs. Nola Duncan of Greenville. Mrs. Stephenson wore a ice blue knit dress, navey accessories and a corsage of red carnations. Mrs. Duncan wore a blue knit suit, matching accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Earline Coghill.

After a wedding trip to unnanounced points the bridal couple will reside in Mars Hill.

The bride is the student at Mars Hill College and the bridegroom is also a student at Mars Hill College.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

Cake was served by Mrs. Jack Lee and Mrs. Earl Langdon. Punch was poured by Mrs. Billy Duncan.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rumbley, Mr. and Mrs. George Shoe. Presiding at the guest register was Mrs. John Farrow. Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bradbury.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the Moose Lodge for the Vines-Stephenson wedding party after the rehearsal. The dinner was given by the Vines Family.

A bridal luncheon was given Sunday at 11:30 by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bradbury, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rumbley, and Mr. and Mrs. George Shoe at the Three Steers.

Let The Untrusting Prove Her Doubts

By Abigail Van Buren

(c 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I was married at 16, and 13 months later I gave birth to a baby boy. When he was four months old I divorced my husband for a very good reason, and moved back with my parents. I've supported myself and my baby since I was 18.

I am now 21 and very much in love with a 25-year-old fellow I met at work. He's crazy about my son, says he loves me and wants to marry me, but there is a problem. I met his parents who seemed to like me, but his mother wants to see proof of my divorce. She told her son that she has a "funny feeling" that I was never married.

Abby, I have documented proof of my divorce but as a matter of principle I refuse to prove anything to her. She can think whatever she wants to think. My boyfriend is begging me to show her the proof and get it over with. What should I do? DIVORCED AND NO LIAR

DEAR DIVORCED: Nothing. If his mother has a "funny feeling" you were never married, let her try to prove it.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing a letter I cut out of your column several years ago, which is so very timely I would like to see it reprinted in your column.

As a mother of a teen-ager I know how easy it is to be critical of today's teen-agers [particularly with the hassle so many of us have with our children over their long hair].

We need to be reminded of the importance of relating to our young people and making them feel welcome in our homes. Will you please print it again? HARRISBURG, PA.

DEAR MOTHER: Yes. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 15 and I think I know why kids end up in parked cars doing what they shouldn't.

Boys have started coming to my house along with girls, and my Dad is already complaining about the noise, and not having any privacy any more. I have always brought my girl friends to my house to watch TV, or just to talk, or to make lemonade and stuff, but this year it's different. Sometimes I think Dad hates to see me grow up.

I'd rather have a boy come to my house than go out on a date with one and I should think my Dad would prefer that, too. But if he keeps grumbling about the TV program we're watching instead of going to watch the other TV, he'll make my friends self-conscious and they won't come back, and I won't want to stay home evenings either.

We live in a small town and except for movies, where can we go that doesn't cost a lot more than kids our age have to spend? Most of my friends have the same trouble with their folks. They say we make too much noise, our dances are silly, our ideas are kooky. They criticize our hair, and clothes and our choice of friends. No wonder kids want cars! They want to get as far away from home as possible.

I really don't want to go off in a car with a boy. I just want a place where my friends can come and have fun and act like teen-agers without feeling guilty about being one. To my way of thinking, it's better to have room to move around, play games, and make fudge than to run off some place in a car because, if you keep driving, you get to speeding just for fun, and if you park somewhere, you might just go too far if you aren't careful.

I wonder how many kids who end up in trouble had these same thoughts and fears? I wish you would tell parents, Abby, that we kids aren't bad. We just want to get together, and home is our favorite spot, if only we were made to feel welcome. SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR ABBY: I am a beauty operator, and every Christmas my steady customers give me Christmas gifts, most of which I can't use. I am really touched by their generosity, but if they only knew how much more I would appreciate the cash instead.

I don't want to come off sounding grabby, but some of my customers spend $10 or more on some useless little doodad which I either put away until I have a garage sale, or find someone to give it to.

I wish these nice people would realize that they wouldn't insult me if they gave me a dollar or two instead. It would save them the trouble of shopping and gift wrapping, and we'd both be happier.

Most of the operators I work with feel exactly the same about the gifts they get. Thanks for letting me sound off, Abby. All my customers read your column, so maybe if you print this, next year things will be different. Thanks, pal. BEAUTY OPERATOR

DEAR OPERATOR: Your letter makes sense. Next year may bring you a "green" Christmas. Good luck!

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Morris Brody Speaks To Credit Women

The Greenville CWI met for its regular meeting at the Three Steers Restaurant with Morris Brody speaking on "The Youth Market In The Seventies."

The ages in this span range from 13 to 20 years of age. We are told that this segment of the population (slightly more than 12 per cent of the total) earns and spends 12 billion dollars annually. In dealing with these youths, we have to think about who they are and come to realize that all people are different he said.

Their educational opportunities are greater than ours; they are better trained; there is greater exposure; and they are more concerned about what goes on than we are aware.

We ask ourselves, 'How does it effect the merchants and others?' One is that they have their own checking accounts and the other is that they have charge accounts, Brody pointed out.

We should understand their backgrounds. Will they be good credit risks? Our answer is definitely "yes". We have to live in this society with them. Their need of identity is important so they can know and find themselves. "Acceptance" is their common denominator. Don't be afraid to hold out your hands and your hearts to them. These youths will reward your best effort, he concluded.

Mrs. Angelene Venters' name has been sent to the state office as having gotten four new members into the club during 1971. One of the club's aims for the new year is to build membership.

Couple Celebrates 50th Anniversary At Reception

VANCEBORO — Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jones, of Rt. 1, Vanceboro, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, Dec. 26, at a reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Morris, also of Rt. 1.

Guests were greeted by the receiving line composed of their children, Sybil Morris, Opal Joyner and Alfonza Jones, who presented them to the honored couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones

Rudy Morris and Randy Joyner, grandchildren, presided at the guest book. Christine and Nancy Jones opened and displayed gifts and directed guests to the refreshment table.

The table was covered with a gold cloth and centered with a gold centerpiece. The three tiered wedding cake was served by Annette Morris and punch was poured by Elizabeth Morris.

Good-byes were said by Dessie Stanby, Mrs. Jones' sister.

Projections Of Major Events In The Coming Year

EDITOR'S NOTE: From around the world, United Press International correspondents offer their projections of major events and developments in 1972.

The United States
By GRANT DILLMAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon will find it impossible to separate foreign policy and domestic politics in 1972. As things now stand, he has an excellent chance of coming out ahead in both areas.

He has two overriding foreign policy goals—both of which will have an important bearing on whether he wins re-election next November.

In a reversal of priorities from a year ago, the most important is a successful conclusion to his current drive to get other major Western trading nations to revalue their currencies upward. The idea is to spur U.S. sales abroad, thereby creating jobs at home and reducing the political risk inherent in a 6 per cent unemployment rate.

Second, the President must continue the program that has seen U.S. troop strength in South Vietnam drop from a high of 540,000 when he took office to a current level of about 150,000. Nixon's strategy has almost defused the war as a political issue. The only remaining questions are whether the nation will accept a residual force of 50,000 in Vietnam and whether anti-war forces can sell the idea that killing Vietnamese by U.S. bombing is as immoral as killing Americans.

Nixon also looks for important—if not spectacular—results from his Peking and Moscow trips. At a minimum, he hopes for a start on achieving normal relations with China and an agreement with Russia for a limitation on nuclear arms. The President will continue to walk as softly as possible in the Middle East, which also could figure in the 1972 election. He will work for peace talks between Israel and Egypt. But he also will continue judicious arms shipments to Israel, probably including some Phantom jets, to offset Soviet weapons shipments to the Arab nations.

The President recognizes the peril of larger war inherent in the struggle between India and Pakistan, backed as they are by Russia on one side and China on the other. But he is said to believe that neither Moscow nor Peking is likely to intervene directly.

Africa and Latin America pose a multitude of problems for the United States. But they will continue to receive low priority as the administration presses for solutions to larger issues involving war or peace.

China
By CHARLES R. SMITH

HONG KONG (UPI)—The signs are Communist China will pursue a relatively moderate course at home and abroad in 1972. Political in-fighting will continue under the surface and there will be more purges as civilian elements within the Communist Party seek to reassert control over the military factions which came into dominance during the Cultural Revolution.

The year may bring the long-delayed 4th national People's Congress if, as expected, there is sufficient consolidation of the civilian elements concentrated around Premier Chou En-lai. Then some new faces would emerge in the top leadership levels.

On the economic front the theme also will be consolidation with more emphasis on capital construction in the heavy industry sector and on foreign trade. The year probably will see American businessmen doing more business with China, even being invited on a selective basis to the Canton Fair.

China will continue to press for complete U.S. withdrawal from Indochina but possibly will agree to an expanded conference to settle the issue. At the U.N., China can be expected to be assertive and to put forth some dramatic resolutions on such subjects as disarmament and reorganization of the world body at the next General Assembly.

Soviet Union
By JAMES O. JACKSON

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union, under the prodding of Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, will continue to push the ambitious "peace offensive" it launched in 1971. Its main aims are dissolution of NATO and the Warsaw Pact, greater trade with the West, a cooling down of the sharp ideological conflict with China, U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia, Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab land, and steady buildup of the Soviet armed forces and military arsenal.

Brezhnev, coming more and more into focus as the strong man of the Kremlin, meets President Nixon in May and the summit get-together could be a decisive one for both leaders. Whatever may emerge and whatever the USSR may call its big plan, the over-all objective remains what it always has been—the weakening and defeat of capitalism. The Kremlin will not deviate from this target in 1972.

Indochina
By ARTHUR HIGBEE

SAIGON (UPI)—There is hope among the South Vietnamese that 1972 may, at last, be the year that brings peace. But after 25 years of war and having seen such hopes shattered often in the past, it is a highly tempered hope.

The American withdrawal continues: from a highpoint of 543,400 U.S. troops in mid-1969, the total was down to about 150,000 at the end of 1971. The goal is a drop to 40,000-60,000 American troops by mid-1972. The South Vietnamese picked up the main fighting burden, but the pace of battle slackened. Although opinions vary, no major Communist push is foreseen this spring; due to heavy U.S. bombing of supply routes, the Communists are regarded as unable to mount a major offensive.

Cambodia, pulled into the war 20 months ago, improved its army but not enough to blunt Communist activity and at year's end the capital of Phnom Penh was under pressure. Imposition of military rule saw at least the temporary end of democracy in Cambodia; the next months should prove whether this will improve the country's fighting posture.

Southeast Asia
By MAX VANZI

SINGAPORE (UPI)—The nations of Southeast Asia that over the years escaped the bloody fate of Indochina will work increasingly in 1972 to find cooperative ways to shore up their neutrality and security.

Malaysia, which previously had shown little interest in the region beyond its borders, campaigned vigorously in 1971 for a neutral Southeast Asia and found much support. Thailand, The Philippines, Singapore and Indonesia, fellow members of ASEAN (the Association of Southeast Asian Nations) joined with Malaysia in signing a declaration of "peace, freedom and neutrality" for the area. A summit conference to test the concept of regional neutrality is set for Manila in the new year.

Mideast
By GERARD LOUGHRAN

BEIRUT (UPI) — Political analysts believe the Arab world could face war again in 1972. Diplomatic efforts seem to have worked themselves out and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat is taken increasingly seriously when he warns that the decision for war has been taken. Only a spectacular breakthrough either at the United Nations or by the Big Powers can stave off limited hostilities, probably next spring, analysts believe. The traditional polarization of the Arab states between rightist monarchies and left-wing Socialist states is likely to continue, though the conservative regimes such as King Faisal's Saudi Arabia are regarded hungrily by coup-prone radicals. There is persistent talk that King Hussein, most vilified of Arab leaders during 1971, may go his own way to seek a separate peace with Israe. But sources close to the Jordan Court consider that his commitment to the battle genuinely overrides a natural desire to free his country of the intractable Palestinian problem.

By THOMAS CHEATHAM

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Presidnt Nixon's visit to Moscow in May shapes up as the only scheduled event in 1972 that could play a major role in maintaining the Middle East cease-fire — provided another round of fighting doesn't break out first. Israeli officials expect Washington and Moscow to do their utmost to keep the lid on until the summit, although the Soviets are thought to be willing to let Egypt conduct limited military action to illustrate the crisis.

The Nixon administration's part in maintaining a tentative peace until May, the Israelis feel, may be to continue to withhold Phantom warplanes from Israel unless there is a massive shipment of offensive Soviet weaponry to Egypt. Whatever Nixon and the Soviet leadership decide on the Middle East, Israel makes it clear it will not accept an imposed solution, but rather insists on a negotiated settlement. It will take a major effort by both superpowers to bring concessions from either of their Middle East partners.

United Nations
By BRUCE MUNN

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The new secretary general of the United Nations inherits at the start of 1972 an empty treasury, a world of strife and a demanding need to rebuild the crumbled prestige of the United Nations as a peace-keeping organization.

On the same October day the foreign minister of Pakistan called the United Nations a "fraud and farce" for its inability to do anything about the Idnia-Pakistan war, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban accused the Security Council of being unable to give guarantees for peace in the Middle East.

Despite the cease-fire that came after two weeks of fighting and the surrender of East Pakistan, the Indian-Pakistani strife retains all the earmarks of rivalling the Mideast conflict as a long-running and potentially explosive dispute.

Peking China's entry into the United Nations rekindled the cold war, with the added factor of bitter ideological and political conflict between Peking and Moscow along with that older confrontation between Washington and Moscow.

On several occasions during 1971 the United Nations almost did not meet its payroll and its money problems carry into the new year. By all accounts, 1972 looms as a year of transition, turmoil and trial for the world organization and its incoming secretary general.

A Trend To Lower Birth Rate

Population experts are hesitant to draw conclusions from the Census Bureau estimates which show that the birth rate fell dramatically last year to one of the lowest levels in history.

Estimates were that the rate dropped to 17.3 births per thousand people, well below the 18.3 births per thousand recorded in 1970. There were an estimated 3,591,000 births during the year.

The experts say that the birth rate has not been so low since Depression years of the 1930s.

An increase had been expected since there are a relatively large number of women of prime child bearing age.

The experts, of course will have to watch the trends in future years before it can be determined that there actually is a slowing down of the birth rate.

Our guess, however, is that the lower birth rate is a definite trend that will continue on into future years. The young adults of today are highly conscious of the over population threat which could soon see a world unable to feed its billions of people. This is bound to affect the thinking of young adults as they plan their families.

There needs to be a slowing down in the alarming increase of world population. We suspect that the young adults of the United States will help dramatize this to the rest of the world by limiting their own families.

Another Great Tourism Year

By CHUCK BARBOUR
N.C. Travel & Promotion Director

RALEIGH — It was another banner year in 1971 for the travel industry in North Carolina. That means we'll top the $802 million that tourism brought into the state in 1970.

We make the prediction even though only a handful of the state's travel points have reported to date and even though the reporting period covered a time of "tight money" in the nation. The early figures submitted to us provide all the indications we need to predict a healthy increase.

There were some areas — such as Grandfather Mountain and the Wright Memorial — which had declines in attendance for one season or another, but for the entire year the state's share from the national tourist dollar will probably be higher that the year before.

So, where do we go from here? How does the future look in the travel industry?

Future Looks Upward

There's no reason to think that we'll experience anything but a continuous climb — recession or not. People are traveling more, seeing more and vacationing more than ever before, and they're going to continue doing it even if it means sacrificing in some other areas of the family budget.

There are many reasons for the surge in travel. The Interstate Highway System can be credited in part, but the changing times and the way people think must be considered.

Our great-grandfathers, for example, were part of an agrarian society. They made their living primarily from the land, working from daylight until dark, six days a week. They gave little thought to leisure time activities.

Today, we are looking forward to a four-day work week. During the next two or three years the 32-hour week will become a reality. The switch is currently a function of small companies, many in the service business, but with growing demands on the part of unions and organized labor, the big shift will surely occur.

More Travel Time

This new leisure will have special impact on the travel industry in North Carolina. Think about it, three days of vacation per week plus regular national holidays could mean as many as 162 days of leisure each year.

Those of us in tourism are enthusiastic, thinking of things to promote more interest in travel. North Carolina has a golden opportunity to lure more and more tourists to the state...tourists who will spend $70 billion this year in the United States alone.

Let's assume that we can convert to travel just a few of the people who now spend their time watching ball games or bowling. The conversion of just one per cent of the people over age 54, according to a recent magazine article, could mean as much as $60 million in new travel money each year.

What do we plan to meet the new challenge?

The Travel and Promotion Division is committing itself to an unremitting effort and investment in innovative approaches through the Travel Council of North Carolina, the motor clubs and other travel organizations to trigger new groups of travelers.

"Mini-Vacations" Plan

The state's "Explore North Carolina" program is one example, and plans for "mini-vacationers" package tours, "weekender specials" and "stretch weekends" are also on the drawing board.

The rapid growth in recreational vehicle vacations prompts a need for more study in that area. At the moment there are 2½ million recreation vehicles in America and over 400,000 more being produced each year. North Carolina, we're sorry to report, is sorely lacking in facilities to accommodate these vehicles.

New development of parks, campgrounds and recreational areas must be given prime consideration by future sessions of the legislature if we are to stay abreast of our sister states. Without new areas and more park space, we are going to eliminate a fertile field of untapped income.

There is a great need, and demand, for more and better travel resorts. Sure, North Carolina is blessed with many...but we need more. Carowinds, a theme park to be opened in 1973 in Charlotte, is the type of attraction now drawing the traveling public. Recently, on a Sunday afternoon, cars were backed up 30 miles waiting to get into Disney World. North Carolina can and will get some of that traffic once Carowinds opens to the public.

We hope for the day when we can claim a chain of the finest travel resorts in America right here in our great state. We have a start, but we must do more, establishing resorts within the grandeur of the beautiful mountains of North Carolina or along our historical coastline.

We think of people seeking a place to relax in the "Goodliest Land" where there are luxurious accommodations but nature's beauty has not been spoiled by man's lack of thought for ecology.

The nation is beginning to demand it...fun, comfort and happiness. The people right here at home want it ... and if we can't provide it, somebody else will.

A Good N.C. Year For Highway Construction

North Carolina awarded $166.14 million in construction contracts during 1971, making it the second largest building year in state history.

It was a good year for highway construction, and it was also a year when the public began hearing reports of various projects being held up while ecology studies were made.

The planners are having to show that the road projects will have minimal effect on the environment. While this requirement often lengthens the planning stage it should prove to be a protection for our environment.

Nixon Delays John Mitchell

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The real reason Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell is delaying his resignation to take over President Nixon's reelection campaign is not his well-known reluctance to leave the Justice Department but a request from the President, who has not yet decided on the new Attorney General.

Originally scheduled to move into the plush offices of "The Committee for the Reelection of the President" at 1701 Pennsylvania Avenue the end of this month, Mitchell's new schedule will keep him at Justice at least until early February.

His appointments secretary, ordered by Mitchell several weeks ago to make no appointments for him beyond the end of December, has a new order: book him for appointments as Attorney General through January.

How much bearing the succession problem has to do with Mitchell's delayed departure is somewhat speculative, but a new name — Asst. Atty. Gen. L. Patrick Gray III — is now under consideration.

Gray, an intimate of Presidential counselor Robert H. Finch, is chief of the Department's civil division. Both White House moderates and some liberal Republicans in the Senate have been waging a quiet, backstage battle against elevating Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst to Mitchell's job. Their objections: Kleindienst's image as an abrasive, law-and-order hatchet man would hurt Mr. Nixon in the Presidential campaign, even if he were only made "Acting" Attorney General (avoiding a Senate confirmation battle).

Gray, on the other hand, has no political enemies on the right and, through his work as Finch's right-hand man when Finch was Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, total acceptablility to the Republican center and left.

A footnote: Mitchell's long-delayed move into the Nixon campaign is raising problems. Top politicians and campaign contributors flocking to Washington to plan for 1972 find themselves conferring with Harry Flemming, Jeb S. Nagruder and other lesser lights; instead, they want Mitchell.

McGovern's Folly

As if he were not having enough trouble expanding his support for President beyond its present narrow left-of-center base, Sen. George McGovern has now managed to alienate anti-Daley reform Democrats in Chicago who ought to be his natural allies in Illinois.

On Dec. 1, McGovern operatives were privately but vigorously recruiting non-organization Democrats in Chicago to run as delegates pledged to McGovern against uncommitted organization delegates. One of Chicago's most prestigious anti-Daley Democrats had all but committed himself to becoming a McGovern delegate.

But on that same day, McGovern spent 30 minutes in Mayor Richard J. Daley's presence on the fifth floor of city hall and emerged with a declaration he would run no delegates in Chicago. The Mayor, said the proponent of open conventions, "convinced me in a nice sort of way that I would be spinning my wheels by running

What They Said In 1971

WASHINGTON—The year 1971 produced its share of losers. But worse than losing is being responsible for someone else's losing. Aren't you glad you weren't the person who said to:

Gen. Yahya Khan, president of Pakistan: "My advice, Mr. President, is to arrest Sheik Mujibur and teach the East Pakistanis a lesson."

To a Time magazine editor: "Hey, they're looking for an editor at Look and will pay twice the salary."

To Chiang Kai-shek: "Generalissimo, this will make you laugh. Somebody started a wild rumor that Nixon is going to visit Peking. Hahahahahaha."

To President Nixon: My advice, Mr. President, is to sail the Enterprise into the Bay of Bengal. It will show the Indians we mean business."

To Premier Sato of Japan: "I have it on highest authority that President Nixon will reject a surcharge on foreign imports."

To Sen. Fred Harris: "You announce for President, and we'll get you the money."

To Larry O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic party: "Don't worry about the deficit. Congress will pass a bill which will give us $20 million."

To Jan Stenerud, place kicker for the Kansas City Chiefs: "Okay Jan, get this easy kick from the 32-yard line, and we wrap up the ball game."

To Judge Mildred Lillie of Los Angeles: "President Nixon is going to nominate you to the Supreme Court, and since you're a woman there is no way the American Bar Assn. can prevent it."

To a housewife: "We're having a special on Bob Vivant vichyssoise today, Mrs. Smith."

Other Editors Say More Drunk Driving

(The Durham Sun)

The war against the drinking driver continues in North Carolina, but just who is winning the struggle remains unclear.

The North Carolina State Highway Patrol reported recently that the patrol arrested some 3,354 Tar Heel motorists for drunk driving during the month of October.

The alarming figure represented the 62nd consecutive month that arrests on the drinking-and-driving charge exceeded those made the same month of the previous year.

The success of failure of efforts to curb the drinking driver problem depends on the angle from which it is surveyed.

Does the fact that the patrol managed such an amazing number of arrests during October reflect a more efficient patrol? Or does it mean that the officers just had a greater number of opportunities to make arrests?

Col. Edwin C. Guy, commander of North Carolina's patrol, said he feels the greater number of arrests contributes significantly to traffic safety, but at the same time Colonel Guy admits that the availability of breath-testing equipment has been an important factor.

And so the war goes on, with arrests mounting, along with the highway deaths.

As one traffic safety message puts, "It's time to scream bloody murder" about the drinking driver on our highways. It would seem that there are many people who have yet to realize that it's tough enough to drive an automobile when sober. To do so when drunk is nothing less than a blatant and total disregard for life, both of the drinking driver and the unfortunate motorist who happens to be on the road at the same time.

The breathalyzer, available in only 76 per cent of drunk driving cases during October 1970, was available in 99.5 per cent last month, Colonel Guy said.

While 80 per cent of the persons arrested for driving under the influence submitted to the test, another 17 per cent refused. In 3 per cent, of the cases it was reported impractical or impossible to administer the tests.

Perhaps the breathalyzer is helping to get the job done, but last month, blood samples from 78 deceased motor vehicle operators were submitted to the State Medical Examiner for analysis. An alarming 68 per cent showed evidence of having consumed alcoholic beverages.

Is The Bible Wrong?

By GERARD LOUGHRAN

BABYLON, Iraq (UPI) —The story of the Tower of Babel is all a mistake, archaeologists believe.

Man was not challenging God by attempting to build a tower to heaven. He was offering Him a step-ladder to earth.

Probably it was the simple nomadic Jews, marched into Babylonian captivity eight centuries before Christ, who got it all wrong.

Experts say the remains of what is believed to be the original tower of Babel —still visible at Babylon, south of Baghdad —prove it.

Genesis 11 tells the accepted version succinctly:

"And the whole earth was one language and of one speech. and it came to pass, as they journeyed from the East, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar and dwelt there.

"And they said to one another, go to, let us make bricks and burn them thoroughly. And they had brick for stone and slime had they for mortar. And they said, let us build us a city and a tower whose top may reach unto heaven....

"And the Lord came down to see the city and the tower and the Lord said, this they begin to do and now nothing will be restrained from them which they have imagined to do.

"Let us go down and confound their language that they may not understand one another's speech. So the Lord scattered them abroad upon the face of the earth. Therefore is the name of the city called Babel."

Serious historians long discounted the story as mere legend, although Greek writer, Herodotus, gave an eyewitness account of what he said was the Babel Tower in a visit to Babylon in 460 B.C.

"A solid tower was constructed, one stadium (about 20 yards) in length and one stadium in width. Upon this tower stood another and again upon this another and so on, making eight towers in all. In the topmost tower there is a great bed richly appointed and beside it a golden table. No one spends the night there save a woman designated by the God himself. The priests told me that the God descended some times to the temple and joined her . . . but I cannot believe this."

Babylon at the time was a magnificent city with massive walls on which two chariots could race abreast, and hanging gardens built by King Nebuchadnezzar to please his Medean queen when she sighed for the trees of her native uplands.

It was here that Daniel underwent his ordeal in the Lions' den and the three Hebrew youths, Shadrach, Meschach and Abednego, faced trial in the fiery furnace. It was in one of the city's magnificent palaces beside the River Euphrates that Belshazzar cowered in terror when he saw the writing on the wall.

For centuries Babylon was considered myth until, in the 1920s, a British explorer discovered the famed "Ur of the Chaldees" in southern Mesopotamia and unearthed evidence that the stories of ancient Babylon were not legend, but

Strength For Today

HOW DO YOU CLASSIFY?

The worst of all sons (from the moral standpoint) and crimes (from the legal standpoint) is killing. We have to keep on hand a sufficient number of enlisted soldiers to make sure that we could repel an attack if necessary. It is a crying shame that after two world wars have been fought nations are still lunging at one another's throats. The Prince of Peace was in our midst two thousand years ago. Yet, since the year 1900 more men have been killed in battle than had been similarly lost in all previous wars.

We cannot be pacifists unless we want to be destroyed. A world peace established and carefully guarded is still a necessity.

After killing all varieties, probably the next most serious sin and crime is theft. It is utterly amazing when we think it over that there is a crime community within our decently living community and that this group of criminals subsist on what they can steal from others. And they steal plenty every year. This does not mean that the world is getting worse morally. In some areas it is, but in most areas we have made some moral improvement—a little bit, but still very real. Kipling once wrote that there are six and twenty ways of imposing tribal lays and every single one of them is right.

Every citizen has his rights under the Constitution. We need, however, to remember that the people who are set upon have rights also. There are thousands—probably millions—of people in our big cities who would not think of going out after dark. This is particularly true, of course, among women. We want to see that everybody gets his rights, but let us always remember that the person who is pounced upon has rights also.

Welfare Costs Cripple States

By ELMER ROESSNER

There is painful significance for every state in the union in a year-long study of economic conditions in the Commonwealth of Massachusettes by the First National Bank of Boston.

"Massachusettes has just about run out of wealth-creating energy, and its economic engine needs an overhaul," the study finds.

It raises a question that is being raised in other states: whether the cost of welfare is impoverishing the whole state.

The study cited the decline in textile, apparel and leather industries. "These losses cut into the state's income payments and raised unemployment," it pointed out. More recently, winding down the Vietnam War caused cutbacks in defense contracts and changing socio-economic priorities reduced space expenditures.

This required the discovery of sound economic growth and the retraining of workers in declining industries for jobs in growth industries, it said.

Difficult Problem

In a growing economy, that's easy, First National said, but it's difficult in a mature economy.

In addition, "Mushrooming

welfare costs are subtracted from local productive resources which create the real wealth necessary for jobs and financing local and state government services. The vicious chain reaction then forces governments to tax business and citizens at ever higher rates.

This causes many businesses to move to more favorable locations. "At this stage, the state losses more tax revenue and must hike the taxes of those that remain, while the welfare rolls grow," it added.

"To close the revenue gap all sorts of new taxes and tax schemes are proposed, such as a lottery or general sales tax.

"Seen this destructive process becomes self-sustaining and a strong anti-business environment emerges. In such an environment, the worker losing his job in a dying industry has little alternative today but to go on welfare."

It pointed out that between 1965 and 1971, payments to aid families with dependent children rose from $54.2 million to $252.9 million.

"The standard of living in Massachusettes has been reduced. For the business and employees who remain, taxes are being increased to support the unemployed on welfare. For those out of work and unable to find jobs, the lack of growth and deteriorating business environment condemn them to a life of bare survival.

"Fundamental Truth"

"In these two factors we find a fundamental truth: the redistribution of income to reduce the pain of unemployment in a mature economy has the effect of stopping economic growth or further eroding the business base. We are forced to rob ourselves or our economic future."

First National called upon business, the state and federal government to coordinate plans to develop growth industries and retain men for them.

The situation is not confined to Massachusettes. To a greater or lesser extent, the troubles pointed out exist in every state, in our state.

It raises the question of whether the entire concept of welfare needs re-examination. The unemployed, the impoverished, the young and the sick must, of course, be taken care of. Passing the burden to the federal government simply changes the channels through which the productive people, the fortunate ones, are taxed. But some way must be devised to care for the unlucky without making everybody else unlucky too.

Nixon Decides 'Being President' Is Best Campaign

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided the best way to campaign for reelection during the next eight months is simply by being President.

So he is spurning "public partisan activities" even as he prepares to announce by mid-January that he is, indeed, seeking a second term in the White House.

The first public step in that candidacy is due today, with Nixon's New Hampshire organization expected to announce that the President's name will be on the ballot in the Republican presidential preference primary March 7.

Nixon said Sunday night he will make his own announcement by Jan. 14. That presumably will come with the filing of a slate of 14 New Hampshire Republicans, pledged to support his renomination, as candidates for seats at the Republican National Convention.

The President said flatly that he will not campaign, in New Hampshire or in the other presidential primaries, and implied that he doesn't expect two Republican challengers, one on the right and one on the left, to cause him major political problems.

"I have decided that I will engage in no public partisan activities until after the Republican convention," Nixon said in a CBS interview. "The problems of the presidency, the problems of this office in which we sit, in this year 1972, are so great that it will not be possible to take time off for partisan politics."

The Republican game plan, clearly, is to let the corps of would-be Democratic challengers slug out the active campaign until late summer, while Nixon performs from the best of all sages, the presidency.

Party spokesmen and proxy campaigners certainly will miss no opportunity to draw the contrast, and to depict Nixon as above such political wrangling.

It is a scenario well adapted to Nixon's self-assessment, for the President said that his strong points are not rhetoric, showmanship, the attributes that create glamor, excitement and charisma.

"My strong point, if I have a strong point, is performance," he said.

Talking of his forthcoming announcement, Nixon recalled that former President Lyndon B. Johnson decided against seeking re-election, but added: "I do not anticipate that events such as led President Johnson to his decision may affect my decision ...."

Nixon has said he does not think the war in South Vietnam will be an issue. He said Sunday night the important thing will be whether the American people are convinced the President has done everything he can to end the war and to protect Americans.

Among the events that led Johnson out of the 1968 campaign was a surprise setback in the New Hampshire primary, where then-Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy captured more than 42 per cent of the vote to run a close second to the President, and won 20 of 24 national convention delegates.

In the coming New Hampshire primary, Nixon faces the challenge of two young Republican congressmen, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr. of California on the liberal side, Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio on the conservative flank.

delegates against his slate in Chicago."

McGovern's agents who had been lining up a Chicago delegate slate were stunned and appealed the Senator's verdict. As of now, a month later, no final decision has been made.

What does seem final, however, is the disillusionment of the Chicago reformers, who were outraged by McGovern's submission to the Mayor. The key anti-organization Democrat who was about to endorse McGovern has changed his mind and is advising his colleagues to do the same.

Lindsay vs. Lucey

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin is scrupulously adhering to his avowed neutrality in the Wisconsin Democratic Presidential primary next April 4, but some of his staff members are privately letting it be known they will make this one deviation: they will miss no opportunity to hurt the Presidential prospects in Wisconsin of Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York.

The reason is the Lindsay staff, whose big-city rudeness is becoming legend around the country in the few months that the Mayor has been a Democrat.

On Oct. 15, both Lindsay and Lucey were in Gary, Ind., to back the reelection campaign of Mayor Richard Hatcher. But for the Mayor, it was also his maden appearance as an unannounced Democratic Presidential candidate. Playing that role, Lindsay's aides treated Lucey — a respected figure in national Democratic circles for over a decade — like a ward-heeler, ignoring him for the most part.

At that point, some Lucey aides determined that if and when Lindsay entered the Wisconsin primary, as now seems probable, they would do what they could convertly to cause him trouble.

history.

In digging out the story of Babylon, archaeologists found numerous tower-like structures called ziggurats, the largest of them —made of burned brick and 300 feet square —at Babylon itself. Texts in the ruins called it "The House of the Foundation of Heaven and Earth."

Experts believe it was the original Tower of Babel.

Evidence suggests it was built by Sumerians originating from mountainous country who, when they reached the Babylonian plains, fashioned their own mountains out of brick. They used them as places of worship and, far from challenging God, they offered him a stepping stone to earth in the hope he would descend to join them.

Speculation is that Jewish captives, marched 800 miles from their pastoral lands, were astonished at the diversity of languages in this teeming city. They concluded that the confusion of tongues was God's curse on the Babylonians for setting up strange religions and constructing arrogant towers into the heavens.

Today the Tower of Babel is little more than a heap of brickwork and the hanging gardens —once one of the seven wonders of the world —are incomprehensible structures bare of any floral decoration. The Iraqi government has asked the United Nations for funds to restore the ruined city of which only the splendid Ishtar Gate with its bas reliefs of mythical animals stands unchallengeably magnificent.

To Henry Kissinger: "Henry, I'd like you to meet a Hollywood starlet who hates publicity."

To George Meany: "Forget it, George. The President wouldn't dare show up at an AFL-CIO convention in Miami."

New PTI Courses Set On Thursdays

Pitt Technical Institute's Thursday night schedule of courses includes two new courses and the resumption of three others.

A 60-hour furniture upholstery course will begin at 7 p.m. in the library. At this first meeting, class procedures and operations, supplies and equipment will be discussed. The class will meet Mondays and Wednesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. until the 60-hour course is completed.

A 20-hour stocks and bonds course will begin at 7 p.m. and will meet each Thursday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Securities and investments, exchanges, and the technical side of the Market will be studied.

A Beginning Art Class now in progress will be resumed at 7 p.m. in Room 24. The course content includes freehand, black and white drawing in a study of shapes, shades, and shadows with perceptive overlapping forms in charcoal. The course is 33 hours long.

A course for advanced cake decorators begun before Christmas will begin again in Room 103 at 7 p.m. Students learn new designs in the 24-hour course.

A Sewing I class is set for 7 p.m. in Room 3. This class meets each Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m.

All evening courses cost 10 cents per hour of instruction. For further information, one should contact Pitt Tech, 756-3130, Ext. 38.

New Oil Spill On West Coast Is Mopped Up

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — About 125 workmen mopped up globs of crude oil on San Francisco Bay and two Pacific Ocean beaches over the weekend in a cleanup of last Friday's spill from a tanker chartered by Standard Oil Co. of California, the company reports.

Standard spokesman Dale E. Blasye said 10 boats and foot patrols were used to gather thick Indonesian oil spilled Friday during discharging operations by the Liberian tanker, Golor Obo.

Standard officials first estimated the spill at 80 gallons and said it was contained around the company's refinery at Richmond Long Wharf. Blasye said Sunday that the oil apprently had broken through barriers and "we have no way of knowing exactly how much was spilled."

PEKING-MANILA TRADE

MANILA (UPI) —The Philippines, which has no diplomatic relations with Communist China, has concluded its first direct trade with Peking since 1949. A local American-owned company sold 3,000 tons of coconut oil worth 840,000 U.S. dollars to the Communists.

Connally Among 'Best Dressed'

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally has succeeded President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as the best-dressed statesman, in the view of the Fashion Foundation of America.

The foundation's list of the best-dressed for the coming year, released Sunday, also included:

Lawman, New York Police Commissioner Patrick V. Murphy; television, Johnny Carson; civic affairs, Mayor Charles P. McCarty of St. Paul, Minn.; music, band leader Doc Severinsen; government, presidential assistant Henry Kissinger; sports, boxer Muhammad Ali; communication, television newsman Walter Cronkite; and international society, Aristotle Onassis.

Investigate 2 Robbery Tries

Greenville police today are investigating what appears to be two robbery attempts — one at a restaurant on Greenville Boulevard early Saturday morning and the second at a grocery store Sunday night on Charles Street.

Officers were called to the Beef Barn about 12:45 a.m. Saturday, Chief Glenn Cannon said, and found telephone wires to the building broken as well as the coil wire and alternator wire disconnected on the manager's car, making it inoperable.

Similar conditions were present at Spain's Food Land on Charles Street near the 14th Street intersection Sunday, according to Chief Cannon.

Police were called to the food store about 6 p.m. after the manager had attempted to make a telephone call and found his telephone would not work.

Investigation revealed that telephone wires at the building had been disconnected and that tires on the manager's car had been cut.

Chief Cannon said the circumstances in the two incidents here this weekend are similar to an incident at the Pico Club just South of the City Limits on the Tar Road on December 18 in which a man was shot.

In that case, two masked men apparently cut tires on 10 cars and cut telephone lines to the building and shot one man with a shotgun in what appeared to be an attempted robbery.

Chief Cannon said, however, he did not know if the incidents are related.

Capture Boy Inside Store

James Earl Cox, 17, was charged with breaking, entering and larceny by police early today after officers found the youth inside Heath's Grocery at 808 Pamlico Ave.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, officers on regular patrol found about 26 cartons of cigarettes outside the store and the front door of the business broken open about 12:30 a.m. Investigation of a noise heard inside the building led to the discovery of Cox inside the store.

About $67 worth of property — including $8 in money — allegedly taken from the store was recovered, according to the chief.

In addition to being charged with today's break-in, officers served a warrent on Cox charging him with breaking, entering and larceny of the store several weeks ago.

SUNDAY NIGHT FIRE ... Firemen reported extensive damage was done to the Red Rose Club on Albemarle Ave. in a fire reported at 11:45 p.m. Sunday night. Officers said the blaze erupted on the second floor of the masonry-and-metal building. Cause of the fire was listed as "undetermined". A man reportedly sleeping on the first floor of the building when the fire broke out escaped unhurt. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Retired After Nearly 50 Years

John Lloyd McDonald, Division Two Superintendent with the State Highway Commission, retired Dec. 31, with approximately 50 years of service with the commission.

McDonald began work with the Highway Commission on March 5, 1922, and served in various capacities prior to being promoted to the position of equipment superintendent on Nov. 1, 1942.

He is a member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, where he served on the board of stewards and was secretary-treasurer and president of the Men's Bible Class. He is a member of the Loyal Order of Moose and the Elks.

McDonald is married to the former Teresa E. Crawley of Greensboro.

McDonald was honored by his fellow employees and friends at a retirement dinner Friday night. He was presented a gift.

Drive-In Robbed

An estimated $300 to $500 was taken in a robbery at the Little Mint drive-in on Memorial Drive at the Chestnut Street intersection late Saturday night, according to police department officials.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the robbery occurred about 11:35 p.m. He explained that John Turnage, 50 of 106 Lindenwood Dr. left the building to empty some trash and was approached from the rear by two masked men. After being struck on the head, he was forced back inside the building where the thieves took the money from the drive-in office.

Turnage said one of the robbers carried a pistol and one a shotgun.

Chief Cannon explained that at least one shot was fired during the robbery. He said the lawbreakers apparently fired a shot at a car parked in the Little Mint parking lot. The shot, the chief explained, struck a hub cap on one of the vehicle's wheels.

Investigation of the incident is underway.

ficient support to outlaw the death sentence in North Carolina.

The legislature has changed the laws to permit juries to recommend life sentences and to permit defendants accused of capital crimes to plead guilty in writing, making life sentences mandatory.

Even with these laws, North Carolina picks up two or three death sentences a year.

More Entries For 1972 Jaycee Salute

Preparations for the Greenville Jaycees' "Outstanding Young Educator" project are nearing completion, according to project chairman Joe Cannon.

Cannon said that the project is a nationwide Jaycee program designed to recognize the dedication and contributions of professional educators, male and female, between the ages of 21 and 35. These educators, he added, must work with students in grades one through 12 to be eligible.

Thus far, Cannon pointed out, the response from the Greenville City Schools has been excellent. The number of nominations for this year's award has doubled as compared to last year's project and the credentials of the teachers participating are impressive, he reported.

Nominees for the award will be judged by a panel of civic leaders and professional educators on Friday. The OYE winner will receive a Jaycee plaque and $100 cash scholarship at a special meeting of the Jaycees on Jan 13.

The winner of the Greenville event will be eligible to compete for state recognition during activities in February in Wilmington.

Bundy Has Four Speaking Dates

State Rep. Sam D. Bundy has four speaking engagements during the first two weeks of January.

He will speak to the Farmville Kiwanis Club tonight and tomorrow night will address the Bethel Rotary Club. Thursday he will be in Smithfield to address the quarterly meeting of the Mill Creek District Christian Men's Fellowship and next Wednesday will make his 20th annual visit and address to the Greenville Kiwanis Club.

Mexico City's International Airport has an information bureau open 24 hours a day.

Toll-Free Plan Wins Approval

Jack Lewis, spokesman for a committee to work for toll free telephone service between Farmville and Fountain and between Farmville and Greenville today announced that the N. C. Utilities Commission has approved the plan.

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company says the service should be instituted in from one to two years and will allow subscribers in Farmville to call phones on the Fountain line and the Greenville line without going through long distance.

Members of the committee which has worked since March 11, 1970 to get the matter put before the Farmville, Fountain and Greenville subscribers include Lewis, P. K. Ewell, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Messer, Emile LaCoste, Tommy Bullock, Lloyd Englehardt, Robert Lee Smith Jr., Jim Lancaster, Marvin Speight and Rom Webber from Farmville, and Carter G. Smith, Bruce Beasley, Douglas A. Moore, Bruce Beasley III, and Mark Owens Jr. from Fountain.

The Committee looks forward to a great increase in the convenience of telephone use and overall extension of business in the area, Lewis said. He extended thanks to all who have taken an active part in the successful campaign for extended area service in Pitt County.

Charge Driver In Sunday Mishap

Mark Durward Case, 38, of 219 Harmony St. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:30 p.m. mishap here yesterday on Memorial Drive, 500 feet North of the Trade Street intersection.

Officers reported the Case car collided with a vehicle driven by Rita Sue Hodges, 19, of Grimesland, causing an estimated $350 damage to the Case auto and about $120 damage to the Hodges car.

No injuries were reported.

MANY MAMMALS

LINCOLN, Mass. (UPI) — There are 914 species of mammals in North America, according to ths Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Do you really want your brother-in-law to know how much you earned last year?

Of course not. It's nobody's business but your own.

However, annually millions of taxpayers bear this kind of personal information to people who really shouldn't know. For what? Just so they can save a few dollars doing their income tax.

That's some price to pay.

You see, for only a few dollars more than it costs to do it with any amateur who might not know that work clothes in some instances are deductible, or that income averaging might save tax dollars, you can have your tax return done by a specially trained member of the H & R Block team with complete confidentiality. There are thousands of them in over 6,000 conveniently located offices. H & R Block's fees start at $5 and the average cost was under $12.50 for the 7 million families we served last year.

Furthermore, if your return is audited we will accompany you, at no extra cost, to the Internal Revenue Service and explain how your return was prepared, even though we will not act as your legal representative.

This means that H & R Block is ready to offer you year 'round tax service for just one low fee a year, with no extra charge for audits and estimates. Yes, we cost a little bit more than your relatives or friends or neighbors but when you think of what we deliver, you can't afford anything less than H & R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

SHULA TO THE SUPER BOWL — Miami Dolphins Coach Don Shula sprints across the Orange Bowl turf Sunday after this team shutout the Baltimore Colts 21-0 to win the American Football Conference Championship. (AP Wirephoto)

Super Bowl-Bound Miami Fans Among The Wildest

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

MIAMI (AP) — Batten down the hatches, New Orleans. Fasten your seat belts, Dallas Cowboys. You haven't seen anything yet.

The Miami Dolphins are Super Bowl bound, and they take with them the hopes of the downtrodden and the loudest, wildest cheering section in professional football.

The Dolphins, the one time step-child of the American Football League, keep bumping off the big boys. And the people here on this sub-tropical Peninsula just keep on yelling, screaming, bragging and waving handkerchiefs until the outsider fears his ears and nerves will surely pop.

It's the 1969 baseball Mets with palm trees, green sweat shirts and helmets.

On Sunday, it was time for the champion Baltimore Colts—the poised team of Johnny Unitas and gargantuan Bubba Smith—to get their come-uppance just as the Kansas City Chiefs got theirs in double overtime the week before.

The Dolphins whipped the Colts 21-0—the first shutout for the defending National Football League Champions since the Chicago Bears pulled one off Dec. 5, 1965—and qualified to meet the Dallas Cowboys in the Super Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 16.

Dolphin fans fell into a state of hysteria.

Now nobody is shrugging off this brash band of former ragamuffins, coached by Don Shula and quarterbacked by Bob Griese, five years out of Purdue—least of all the vanquished Colts.

"Can Miami beat the Cowboys? I don't know why not," said Baltimore's 38-year-old field general, Unitas. "They're a fine team. Griese is a good quarterback. They have a good rush. They don't make many mistakes.

The 6-foot-8, 265-pound Bubba Smith, black, bearded and dazed by the systematic destruction of the great Colts team, was quick to agree.

"You bet," said Smith. "But they gotta run the ball and they gotta rush the passer. They do things like our team is famous for doing, capitalizing on the other team's mistakes and then hitting when you got the other team groggy. They're good."

The beaten giant—hours after the final score had gone on the scoreboard—still was unwilling to believe that disaster had really struck.

"It's a mystery to me—I don't understand it," he mumbled in his beard, shaking his head. "I think this team is better than the one a year ago when we won. It's the best Baltimore team in the five years on the squad.

"Yet these guys went out and beat us at our own game."

Don McCafferty, who moved up to head coach when Don Shula left the Colts to take over the Dolphins' meager fortunes two years ago, offered his own considered version of the upset.

"They came up with the big plays," he said, "and we didn't. When we needed a field goal, we missed. When we needed a pass, we didn't get it. When we needed five yards on third down, we failed."

The Dolphins produced a textbook victory. They gave Unitas breathing room and then stopped him cold when he started to threaten. Their blocking was decisive, their tackling vicious, they struck with merciless swiftness.

The game was little more than eight minutes old when Griese faded back and arched a pass into the arms to wide receiver Paul Warfield on the Baltimore 40. Warfield, in full stride, caught the ball over Rick Volk's shoulder and then won the race to the goal line—a 75-yard thrust. Little Garo Yepremian kicked the first of his three extra points.

With 4:33 left in the third period, a Unitas pass to Eddie Hinton was tipped by defender Curtis Johnson. Safety Dick Anderson caught it in the air and, behind great blocking, raced 62 yards to score. Now it was 14-0.

The Dolphins dealt the coup de grace in the last period, Larry Csonka scoring from the five after a 50-yard Griese pass to Warfield.

The Colts, who beat the Cowboys in the Super Bowl here a year ago on a 32-yard field goal by Jim O'Brien, played without hard-running Norm Bulaich and with only partial service from workhorse Tom Matte, both injured.

But it's doubtful that the staunchest Colts fan would think the two men's presence might have altered the outcome.

Scoring Secret 'In The Mind' Says Goodrich

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The secret to scoring 40 points, says Gail Goodrich, is all in the mind.

"I worked hard at being mentally prepared for tonight's games," said the Los Angeles Lakers' pocket-sized guard after his scoring spree had carried the Lakers past the Boston Celtics 122-113 Sunday night for their 31st straight victory.

"I just wasn't ready to play against Seattle," said Goodrich of his 12-point performance in win No. 30 last Thursday night. "I felt lethargic and slow. I just wasn't mentally prepared. But tonight I felt good."

He felt a great deal better than Celtics Coach Tommy Heinsohn, whose team rallied from a 20-point second-half deficit to within five but couldn't catch up.

"The Lakers won this game at the free throw line," he said. "It's just unreal to me that we only had eight free throws in the first half and they had 27."

But just as damaging to the Celtics, who lost their second straight game after winning 10 in a row, was their own inaccuracy from the floor. They took 25 more shots than the Lakers in the first half but hit only 36 per cent to the Lakers' 56.

John Havlicek and Dave Cowens scored 29 apiece to lead Boston, while Jerry West and Jim McMillian had 27 each for Los Angeles.

West also recorded his 5,000th career assist, a feat achieved by only four other players—Bob Cousy, Guy Rodgers, Lenny Wilkens and Oscar Robertson.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, Detroit edged Houston 109-107, Philadelphia walloped Cleveland 148-119, Atlanta defeated Phoenix 116-111, and Portland trounced Buffalo 108-90.

Jimmy Walker, who scored 26 points, hit a foul line jumper at the final buzzer, lifting Detroit past Houston. The Rockets' Mike Newlin had tied the score 107-107 with two free throws with five seconds remaining.

Houston's Elvin Hayes matched Walker for high scoring honors with 26 points.

Philadelphia's 148 points were its high for the season and the most ever scored by any team against Cleveland. Billy Cunningham led the 76ers assault with 38 points. Bobby Smith topped the Cavaliers with 28 points.

Don Adams scored two baskets in the first minute of the final period and two more in the last two minutes, helping Atlanta beat Phoenix. Walt Bellamy paced the Hawks with 30 points, one more than Lou Hudson. Clem Haskins was high for Phoenix with 29.

Rookie Sidney Wicks fired in 30 points and Geoff Petrie played the role of playmaker in leading Portland past Buffalo. Fred Hilton, also a rookie, netted 26 points for the Braves.

In the NBA Saturday, it was: New York 104, Cincinnati 94; Phoenix 114, Boston 104, and Seattle 97, Buffalo 83.

Bill Bunting Is On Waivers List

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Journeyman forward Bill Bunting, who was averaging only 1.3 points a game, has been placed on waivers by the Virginia Squires of the American Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-8 Bunting was acquired by the Squires last year from the New York Nets for a No. 2 draft pick. He previously played with the Carolina Cougars.

He had played in only 16 of the Squires' 40 games this season and had not seen action since Dec. 7.

LOPAT HAS CAGUAS

CAGUAS, P.R. (AP) Ed Lopat, former New York Yankee World Series star, is managing the Caguas Criollos in the Puerto Rican League. The former manager of the Kansas City Athletics has a number of Montreal Expos on his roster. During the major league season, Lopat scouts for the Expos.

FAMILY OF CAPTAINS

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Tommy Yearout is the third member of his family to serve Auburn as a football captain. His brother Gutsy captained the 1966 and 1967 teams while Vic Costellos, an uncle, was 1942 captain.

The Harry S. Truman sports complex in Kansas City will open next April 11 when the Kansas City Royals meet the California Angels in a night baseball game.

Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins was the first National Hockey League player to score 20 goals this season.

Room For Two Stars On Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Artis Gilmore joined the Kentucky Colonels this year, Dan Issel quickly nipped talk of possible friction.

"I'm delighted," said last year's co-rookie of the year in the American Basketball Association. "With Artis on the team, I'll have more fun ... because the rebounding and scoring load won't be on my shoulders."

It turned out he was right. There is room for two stars on one team.

The Gilmore-Issel combo has been making sweet music together and Sunday night helped the hot Colonels waltz away from the New York Nets 116-84.

Issel scored 26 points and had 13 rebounds while Gilmore tallied 16 and collected 11 rebounds. The dynamic duo did all their damage early, letting the reserves mop up.

In other ABA contests, the Floridians defeated the Utah Stars 119-113 and the Denver Rockets ripped Dallas 103-84.

There were no games scheduled Saturday.

The Colonels, who have won 30 of 39 games this season and hold a 5½-game lead over Virginia in the East Division, took an 8-0 lead at the start and never were threatened by the Nets.

Rick Barry paced New York with 25.

Mack Calvin scored 32 points and had 15 assists to lead the Floridians over Utah. Larry Jones added 27 points and Warren Jabali, 23 for the winners.

Glen Combs scored 29 for the Stars, who fell behind by 18 points in the second quarter and were never able to recover.

Rookies Marv Roberts, Dave Robisch and Al Smith powered Denver over Dallas.

Roberts led Denver with 18 points while Robisch had 14 and 17 rebounds. Smith made each of his 14 points in the final quarter.

Those three took advantage of Dallas' cold shooting as the winners led throughout. The Chaparrals only converted 30 per cent of their field goal attempts and their starters were held to a total of 37 points.

Donnie Freeman was the only Dallas starter in double figures. He had 22.

The Cleveland Browns were the first team to win a pro football crown in 1971. They won the Central Division in the American Football Conference.

Some Hoped For Revenge Against Colts

Cowboys Ready For Second Try

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — A bloodied young quarterback on his way to stardom and a veteran defensive end fighting for his job keyed the perennial "Next Year's Champion" Dallas Cowboys into the Super Bowl Sunday for the second consecutive year.

Quarterback Roger Staubach, a three-year man from Navy, scrambled San Francisco dizzy in a 14-3 National Conference title victory in Texas Stadium and defensive end George Andrie made the big defensive play.

"Look out Super Bowl," said Cowboy tackle Bob Lilly. "Some fans sort of ridiculed our play last year and I think we have something to prove."

There was little disappointment among the Cowboys players that they would not get a chance for revenge against Baltimore in the Super Bowl and instead would play Miami.

"We never really cared about the opponent," said linebacker Le Roy Jordan. "I said last year we would be back. And we are going to do it this time."

Andrie's interception of a John Brodie pass and his six-yard run to the 49er two-yard line in the second quarter was the defensive gem of bitterly fought game. Calvin Hill, who later left the game with an injured knee, crashed across from one-yard out for the touchdown.

Dallas' 7-0 lead held up until Bruce Gossett kicked a 28-yard field goal to make it 7-3 in the third period.

Andrie, who had shared duty this year with Pat Toomay, said, "It was just an impulsive play. We had studied San Francisco's screen plays. We were blitzing and I just saw the screen coming. Brodie threw the ball right to me. I don't think he saw me."

Andrie was tackled by Brodie and took severe ribbing from his teammates.

"George didn't wait for my block," said Dallas' other defensive end Larry Cole.

Staubach finally took some pressure off the Doomsday Defnese with an 80-yard drive in 14 plays deep in the fourth quarter.

Staubach, who had guided Dallas to nine consecutive victories, nailed tight end Bill Truax for 22 yards on a crucial third-and-four situation at the Dallas 45 on the drive.

Then the former Heisman Trophy winner scrambled for eight yards—his fifth run of the day against the 49ers. Duane Thomas climaxed the drive with a two-yard touchdown run.

"I was having a hard time the way San Francisco was double teaming both receivers," Staubach said. "The ball was taking off on me. I didn't want to put it up for an interception. Remember, I'm just a young guy."

Staubach got a bloodied elbow and was asked if he suffered it on one of his scrambles.

"I think I got it when I came off the field and coach (Tom) Landry bit me," Staubach joked.

Landry said Staubach's wild scrambles certainly aren't planned.

"He runs enough without any plays," smiled Landry.

San Francisco coach Dick Nolan said, "Roger's scrambling certainly helped."

Linebacker Frank Nunley added, "I think he's sometimes overlooked as a great passer because people think of him as a scrambler. He's a great passer."

And Nunley predicted, "Dallas is going to win the Super Bowl, There's no doubt in my mind."

Dallas limited San Francisco to nine first downs and intercepted Brodie three times.

Florida State And St. Louis Bid For Seconds

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Florida State and St. Louis University, a pair of unheralded and unranked teams, begin their quest tonight for their second holiday basketball tournament titles in one week.

Both play opening round games in the Senior Bowl Tournament at Mobile, Ala., with Florida State meeting Denver and unbeaten St. Louis facing South Alabama.

Florida State, an independent, has an 8-2 record, losing only twice—to Hawaii in Honolulu, once in a controversial forfeit 30-10 and the other time 81-76. The Seminoles, eligible for post-season play for the first time in four years after being on probation by the NCAA for recruiting infractions, won the prestigious Far West Classic last week.

St. Louis, which finished in a three-way tie for the Missouri Valley Conference title last season but was beaten by Louisville 68-66 in a playoff, was not considered a championship contender this season. But the surprising Billikens have reeled off five consecutive victories. Last week, they won their own holiday tourney, their first tournament championship since the Kentucky Invitational in 1960.

Rich Stallworth led the Billikens to the crown. In two games he scored 37 points, grabbed 24 rebounds, had 15 assists and was voted the tournament's most valuable player.

Ron King, Florida State's leading scorer last season with a 22.7 average, and Reggie Royals, 13th in the nation last year in rebounding, paced Florida State in the Far West Classic. Both were named to the All-Tournament team.

"Florida State is the best team we've seen all season," said Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller after the Seminoles had edged the Beavers 73-72 in the semifinals.

The Senior Bowl, which will end Tuesday night, is one of only two major college basketball tournaments being played this week, compared with 35 last week. This week's other major tourney, the Presidential Classic, begins Friday night at Fort Myers, Va., with Virginia Tech against American University and Texas A&M against George Washington. The championship game will be Saturday night.

Meanwhile, top-ranked UCLA opens defense of its Pacific Eight Conference championship, playing at Oregon State Friday and at Oregon Saturday. The Bruins, winners of their own tournament last week, are 8-0 this season.

Machines Failed Test

LONDON (AP) — The British general post office declared today that $50,000 worth of machines were a failure because people are better.

Twenty machines were designed to cope with 200 million telephone calls a year from customers calling information to ask for telephone numbers.

They were given a year's trial and failed to cope with the problem. Officials said the old-fashioned operators were far more efficient.

Ben Vaughan, chief telecommuncations expert, said "The girls were quicker at finding the numbers."

A post office official explained that an operator just had to push a button and the machine was supposed to do the rest, selecting the required number from the micro-filmed directory and flashing it on to a screen so the operator could give it to the inquirer.

Army's 1972 outdoor track team will be captained by Steve Hannan of Wilmington, Del.

Wm. And Mary Should Know By January 25th.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

By the time they finally play their next home game Jan. 25 against Virginia Military's Keydets, William and Mary's Indians will know pretty well how they stack up in the Southern Conference basketball race.

The Indians' last home game was Dec. 15, an 82-62 defeat at the hands of unbeaten 11th-ranked Virginia that dropped their over-all record to 2-2. They've been on the road ever since, winning just one of six encounters and falling into a tie for the conference lead.

Tonight, the Indians will be at The Citadel to meet the Bulldogs in a game that could drop them well down into the league pack they led until they ran into an 81-68 defeat Saturday at Davidson.

And the Indians have conference games on the road at Richmond and East Carolina before they finally return to their home court.

William and Mary is 2-1 in the league and 3-7 over-all going against The Citadel, 1-1 and 3-5. The Bulldogs' last outing was a 77-72 loss to Virginia in the finals of the Palmetto Classic, and the Bulldogs were leading the Cavaliers with two minutes to play.

While the William and Mary-Citadel meeting is the only conference game tonight, two other league teams will take on outside foes.

East Carolina's road-weary Pirates, 2-6, wind up an away stand almost as long as the Indians' with a stop at Southern Mississippi. VMI, 2-3, has a date at tough College Division power Roanoke, 7-1, which won its own invitational last week by blasting Kentucky Wesleyan.

The Indians trailed Davidson by just two points at intermission Saturday, but the Wildcats pulled away in the second half, mainly at the foul line, where they cashed in on 35 of 46 shots.

Joe Sutter scored 20 points and Eric Minkin added 19 and pulled down 10 rebounds for the Wildcats, now 3-2 in league play and 6-3 against all opposition. Jeff Trammell had 19 points and Mark Ritter 18 for William and Mary.

Trophy Will Be In Honor Of A Retiree

WINSTON—SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The outstanding high school basketball player in an area comprising 23 northwest North Carolina and four Virginia counties will be honored with a trophy to be presented annually by the Winston-Salem Journal and Sentinel.

The award, announced Saturday, will be in honor of just-retired Journal-Sentinel sportswriter Frank Spencer and will be named for him.

Spencer retired Friday after 50 years with the newspapers. He was the dean of North Carolina sportswriters.

Shortly after he came to the newspaper he organized the Northwest Basketball Tournament for high school teams—boys' and girls'—from the area. He was only 20 years old at the time, and only 14 teams were in the first tournament.

It ended in 1951 because it had grown too big, with more than 2,000 players competing, and Spencer called it "the world's greatest basketball tournament."

Some of the first teams in the event had to practice on outdoor courts. After 20 years, 300 more gymnasiums had been built throughout the area, and the newspaper said, "Frank Spencer has built more gymnasiums...than any living man in North Carolina."

Spencer also covered other sports for the newspaper, chiefly college football and basketball.

Weekly in football season he wrote a column of predictions ascribed to a roach who lived in his paste pot, Colonel Leo. When Spencer retired, the wood engravure of Leo that illustrated the column retired with him.

Details on the selection of the boy or girl trophy winner will be announced, editor and publisher Wallace Carroll said.

Deacs Face Three Big Contests During Week

Wake Forest basketball Coach Jack McCloskey has a problem coming up tonight, another Wednesday and another Saturday.

His Deacons face undefeated, 11th-ranked Virginia at Winston-Salem. And when that game ends, the Deacs must get ready for another unbeaten team—Florida Southern—two nights later at Winston-Salem.

Then Saturday night the Deacs travel a short distance to Greensboro to play No. 16 Maryland, which has only one blemish on its record.

"Those teams have a combined record of 25-1," moaned McCloskey.

His team, on the other hand, has lost its last five games and is 2-6.

"Our big problem is consistency," McCloskey said, adding that there is no apparent pattern to the inconsistency, either. "We play well against good teams, and play poorly against poor teams."

In going against the Cavaliers, who have Maryland and Duke scalps already in nine games, McCloskey plans to try to contain Barry Parkhill, whom he calls "one of the most outstanding players in the conference."

Penetrating the shifting Cavalier defense is another worry for Wake Forest. McCloskey says Coach Bill Gibson switches often from a zone to a zone press to a man-to-man. "We have to recognize immediately the defense they're playing," McCloskey said.

The Cavaliers have not beaten Wake Forest in Winston-Salem's Memorial Coliseum since 1959. Speaking of his team's determination to prove they can better last year's 0-7 ACC road record, forward Jim Hobgood said, "It's an ACC game and it's on the road. That's all it takes to get us up for the game."

No other ACC teams play tonight. And all are idle Tuesday.

Best Of Carolina Conf. Teams Play Wednesday Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The best basketball teams in the Carolinas Conference meet this week in a game that could indicate the regular-season championship.

Unbeaten Catawba plays once-beaten Guilford at Salisbury Wednesday night. The Indians are 5-0 in the league and 10-0 in all games, while the Quakers are 4-0, and 5-1.

Only two teams play tonight, both against outside opponents. Mars Hill is at Guilford and Allen is at Newberry.

Elon, holding the No. 3 spot in the league with Lenoir Rhyne, puts its 3-1 conference and 5-2 over-all records on the line at nonleague Campbell Wednesday night. Lenoir Rhyne plays winless Presbyterian at Clinton the same night and independent Belmont Abbey goes to High Point, which is 1-3 in the conference and 4-6 in all games.

The Onwentsia Club, Lake Forest, Ill., will be the site of the 1973 Senior Amateur golf championship. The dates are Sept. 17-22.

Trainers Budd Lepman and Grover (Buddy) Delp finished in a dead heat at the 1971 Monmouth Park meeting. Both saddled 22 winners at the meeting.

The Worry Clinic

Need Sermons, Not Sociology

Rev. George Phelps is a patriotic Baptist preacher. Like me, he believes in Christ's injunction about turning the other cheek for personal insults. But not for threats to mankind's hard-won freedoms of religion, of speech, etc. He says seminaries are often becoming cemeteries!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case S-560: Rev. George Phelps and I occupied the same pulpit recently.

He is a retired Baptist clergyman who believes in militant Christianity.

We both agree with Christ's injunction about turning the other cheek for personal insults.

But not for threats to mankind's hard-won freedoms, such as freedom of speech, of public assembly, of religion, etc.

Jesus thus suffered indignities, including the ignominy of being spit upon by propagandized morons.

And His face was bloodstrewn from the crown of thorns impressed upon His head.

Yet Christ never remonstrated.

But when He found the sacred Jewish Temple being converted into a den of thieves by the greedy money changers, did He meekly assent?

Although He was the world's greatest Applied Psychologist and thus could have verbally persuaded those men to move across the street to handle their nefarious deals, Christ resorted to brute force!

For He violently turned over the tables of the money-changers and drove them out with a whip which He braided for that purpose!

This was violent physical force!

For those moneychangers were desecrating the sacred religion that it had required 1,800 years since Abraham to evolve!

Rev. Phelps and I also conversed about the liberal slant that some American seminaries have taken in recent years.

"The head of Garrett Biblical Institute," I added, "has recently stated in print that he isn't preparing his students to be pulpit preachers!

"For he says about 80 percent of them aren't taking a parish, anyway.

"Instead, he announced they were going into the inner city to do social case work with drug addicts, hippies and underprivileged residents.

"Then I also quoted Union Theological Seminary's data showing 80 percent of their 1968 graduates were likewise not expecting to handle a parish.

Rev. Phelps shook his head sadly.

"Dr. Crane," he mused, "I find that many seminaries are becoming cemeteries!

"They receive enthusiastic, idealistic young college men who plan to imitate St. Paul's zeal.

"But the seminaries often kill such religious fervor!

Evangelistic Preaching

A number of editors who run this column have been criticized by local clergymen because of my exposure of the liberal tinge now coloring many sermons.

For it is always risky to attack "sacred cows."

"Dr. Crane," one of my faithful Bible Class students at the Chicago Temple recently scolded me, "I know what you say is correct.

"But you should not have held up our Methodist Church to public criticism!"

Alas, somebody must explode the anti-evangelistic trend in many seminaries and hundreds of pulpits.

We laymen who furnish the funds, donate our time to teach the Sunday School Classes, and fill the choir lofts with volunteer singers, want evangelistic sermons, not sociology lectures.

And we don't finance those pulpits for sob sister eulogies of hippies, homosexuals and Viet Cong butchers of South Vietnam villagers.

Twenty Dead In Holiday Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A rash of wrecks including one in Rockingham County in which three persons were killed and one in Avery in which two died, brought North Carolina's New Year's holiday weekend death toll to at least 20.

Five of the deaths came in the closing hours of 1971 and brought the total for the year to 1,803. This was 31 more than were killed in 1970.

The three killed in a head-on collision on N.C. 37 three miles south of Eden in Rockingham County were Thomas Ray Carter, 22, Ronald B. Barnes, 19, and William J. Carter, all of Eden.

Two victims of a collision on N.C. 194 near Elk Park in Avery County were identified as William Arcus Benfield, 19, of Newland, and Renetta Gale Baldwin, 18, of Rt. 1, Banner Elk.

James McNeill, 28, of Rt. 6, Fayetteville, was killed when his car collided with another vehicle on a rural-paved road about eight miles north of Fayetteville.

A 65-year-old Roxboro woman, Fannie Lee Farrish, was killed on N.C. 49, 17 miles south of Yanceyville when the car in which she was a passenger ran off the road and hit a tree.

Kenneth Franklin Rowland, 49, of Rt. 1, Mount Pleansant, was killed when his car ran off a rural paved road nine miles west of Albemarle.

Nettie Lowe Wilson, 49, was killed when her car made a left turn into the path of another vehicle near Winston-Salem, where she lived. Dannie Lee Woody, 20, of Maiden died when his car left a rural road in Catawba County.

E. Fremont Mendenhall, 81, of Thomasville, was hit by a truck as he walked near his home. Robert R. Branton, 4, of Asheville died in a wreck on I40 near Old Fort.

Alvin E. Pate of Oakland, Calif., 64, died when he was struck by a vehicle on a rural road south of Winston-Salem. Edsel Akers of Dobson, 25, died when his car plunged off U.S. 601 near his home and landed in a creek.

John M. Garris, 57, of Rocky Mount died in a collision on I95 near Four Oaks. Beeler R. Cox of Charlotte succumbed when the car he was riding in hit a parked car and then a tree.

Joy Wilson, 13, of Pittsboro died when she was thrown from a motorcycle on a rural road. Mrs. Frances Strickland, 37, died as she tried to cross U.S. 401 on foot near Fayetteville.

Another pedestrian, James Spencer, 55, died on a rural road near Lillington. Hazel Hester, 62, of Sanford, was killed in a car-train collision at a crossing near her home.

The Associated Press kept the weekend death count from 6 p.m. Thursday to midnight Sunday.

Lost $125 Coat 'Found' Owner

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Police Lt. John F. Halaska's evening out with his wife had been spoiled Thursday when someone walked out of a restaurant with his new $125 overcoat.

Halaska was in a good mood again Sunday, relating how his coat had found its way to his desk Saturday night.

While booking a man whom other officers had brought in, Halaska glanced up, blinked and said to the man "I'll thank you to return my coat."

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K 9 6 4 2 ♡KQ10 5 3 ◇7 4 ♣A
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ◇	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	3 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Obviously, in view of North's strong bidding you intend to proceed to game despite the fact that you opened a hand of moderate strength. The question is merely whether to go on to four spades or to stop off and try for a nine trick contract. It is a very close decision, and we have a slight preference for the three no trump bid in view of the fact that partner's spade support may be somewhat doubtful. It is to be borne in mind that your three no trump bid at this point would not definitely settle the issue, and since you have already described a two-suiter, partner may decide to go on to four spades.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠4 ♡AQ9532 ◇Q108 ♣KQ10
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Dble.	Rdbl.	1 ♠
2 ♡	4 ♠	Pass	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—In this situation, North's pass must be construed as forcing. He redoubled announcing a strong hand and wishes you either to proceed to five hearts or double the opponents. Under the circumstances, our recommendation is a double, for a five heart bid seems somewhat too much of a risk.

Q. 3—As South vulnerable, you hold:
♠105 ♡K9642 ◇A3 ♣Q1094
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
2 NT	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—A hand containing 10 points in addition to a five card suit looks highly slamish. Opposite a two no trump opening the suggested call is a temporizing bid of three hearts, and if partner rebids three no trump, no trump should be raised to four. This is slightly stronger bidding than a direct raise to four no trump.

Q. 4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠2 ♡KQ94 ◇AK6 ♣AKJ72
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Dble.	Pass	2 ♣

What do you bid now?

A.—Even tho you forced partner to bid and he may be completely lacking high cards, we nevertheless suggest a sporting bid of five clubs. The ace of hearts should be favorably located and it may well prove that partner will lose only a heart and a spade. True enough, if he has four small clubs and no face cards you will probably be set, but it is worth taking the risk.

Q. 5—As South vulnerable, with 70 part score, you hold:
♠AJ10 2 ♡J104 ◇AQ10 3 ♣J9
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Partner has shown possession of the ace of hearts and a distinct interest in a slam. You certainly were not stretching a point to make the slight overbid of game. A mere return to three spades would indicate that you desire to let matters drop. Four spades will suggest to your partner that in addition to data previously supplied your trump support is good.

Q. 6 — Neither vulnerable, you open with one club, partner responds with one no trump, and you hold:
♠AK64 ♡73 ◇942 ♣AK96
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Your hand contains but 14 high card points and partner cannot have as many as 12, else he would not have responded with one no trump. It is true that partner's response of one no trump to a bid of one club is apt to be somewhat better than the average no trump response, but it will not have as many as 12 points. A rebid of two spades risks having partner return to three clubs, for which you are not fully prepared.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, your partner opens the bidding with three no trump and you hold:
♠875 ♡Q10654 ◇73 ♣Q62
What do you bid?

A.—There is no need to take action with your evenly balanced hand containing only four points. A slam is out of the question and partner should not have any difficulties in making three no trump.

Q. 8—You are South, vulnerable, and hold:
♠A764 ♡J107 ◇3 ♣A9752
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 ◇	1 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Three hearts. Partner should be given a strong inducement to proceed to game. The lack of robust trumps is no objection to the jump raise, inasmuch as partner's vulnerable overcall must be presumed to advertise a good suit. A big demerit for bidding two clubs to which partner need not respond, inasmuch as he did not open the bidding.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

Many Tar Heel farmers and gardeners are taking on a new challenge. They are trying to grow tomatoes in the dead of winter with the aid of plastic greenhouses.

Some of these growers are producing fine greenhouse tomatoes. Others are having problems.

Dr. Charles W. Averre, extension plant pathologist at North Carolina State University, said leafminers are one of the biggest problems. While leafminers are an insect, they help diseases to get started.

"Hold a tomato leaf up to the light and you can see the tunnels that leafminers make," Dr. Averre said.

Leafminers are difficult to control, but Malathion used as directed on the label will help.

Leafspots -- early blight, leaf mold and grey leafspot -- can also damage greenhouse tomatoes. These diseases, which are caused by fungi, can be controlled by Maneb plus Zinc sprays.

All plant surfaces should be covered in using these sprays. Power sprayers are usually required. Also, it is important to follow label directions.

The greenhouse atmosphere should be kept as dry as possible as a means of reducing the severity of leafspot diseases. All plant trash and dead leaves should be removed from the house. Good sanitation practices are a must in any tomato greenhouse operation.

Wilts may also be a problem in some greenhouses. Once the tomatoes are growing, however, little can be done to help this problem.

If a grower will do his pruning by pinching instead of by cutting with a knife, he may be able to reduce the spread of the wilt diseases. It is also helpful to select wilt-resistant varieties of tomatoes.

Guard against the use of tobacco products in the greenhouse or around the plants. Tobacco can contain the virus that cause tobacco mosaic and certain diseases of tomato plants. Eliminating weeds around the greenhouse before the crop is planted is another way of reducing the possibility of virus infections.

Root-knot nematodes can be a problem, but as with viruses and wilts, little can be done to control nematodes on established plants. Fumigation before planting is the answer to this problem.

Successful tomato greenhouse operations require a great deal of attention to pest control and sanitation in addition to good management.

Scientists at North Carolina State University have recently developed the world's first tomato varieties with resistance to the destructive Southern Bacterial Wilt.

The new varieties have been named Venus and Saturn.

Both varieties were developed for the fresh market, and they have performed well in both trellis and ground trials.

Venus and Saturn produce attractive, red fruits, averaging about one-third pound each. Fruit shape is the main difference between the two varieties.

Both varieties have moderate resistance to radial cracking. They are mid-season to late in maturity and have good foliage cover. Plants will keep growing until frost and carry immunity to Fusarium Wilt.

Tobacco TIPS

By S. J. WEEKS

Tobacco is very sensitive to soil conditions. The difference in soils can cause a wide variation in the characteristics of tobacco produced in a given area, or often on a single farm. Although a farmer has no control over the type of soil on his farm, a knowledge of the soils most suitable for tobacco production can help him to plan his cropping system more efficiently.

The main characteristics of soil suited to the production of high quality tobacco include: (1) sandy or sandy loam topsoil, (2) sandy clay subsoil, and (3) relatively low level of fertility.

Good drainage is one of the most important factors in considering a topsoil for good tobacco production. The top soil should be of such nature that it will not harden when dry, or get sticky when wet. Such soils permit the roots to penetrate readily.

The most satisfactory subsoils for tobacco are yellow or red-dish-yellow in color and of medium texture. The subsoil should be a little heavier than the topsoil, but should not be tight. This type of subsoil drains yet retains enough moisture for the plants. The medium texture lets the air reach the roots and also enable the roots to penetrate deeply.

Because of the scarcity of ideal tobacco soil, many growers must use land that falls short in some respects. Proper management can help to overcome these disadvantages. Regardless of the soil type where you grow your tobacco, a soil test report is very important. It can be used as a guide in deciding the best way to provide adequate plant nutrients for your 1972 crop. Soil sample boxes and information sheets may be obtained from the Agricultural Extension Office in Greenville.

LOOK OUT MEN — Yes sir, 1972 is leap year and pretty Sonja Mathews of Atlanta, Ga., is doing some hard thinking. Being 'caught' by Miss Mathews, though, looks as though it wouldn't be such an unhappy fate. Just how fast men should run this year is something to think about, too. (AP Wirephoto)

Farm Scene

By SAMUEL J. WEEKS

During the twenty year period (1950-1970), the tobacco producers share of the tobacco users dollar was cut in half. It was reduced from 16 cents in 1950 to eight cents in 1970. The state and local taxes on tobacco products was doubled during this period. They advanced from 11 cents in 1950 to 22 cents in 1970. The wholesalers and retailers portion of the tobacco users collar increased from 18 cents in 1950 to 27 cents in 1970. The tobacco manufacturers helped to keep the cost of tobacco consumer products down by holding their increased cost of production to only one cent per dollar spent on tobacco products during the 20-year period.

At the present time, direct taxes account for 40 cents of every tobacco users dollar or five times what the grower receives for his crop since his share of the consumers dollar is only eight cents. The tobacco farmer, like the manufacturer has managed to continue to produce tobacco at a profit, even with a one-half reduction of his share of the consumer dollar.

By using better production techniques made available to the farmers through research, they have been able to make changes in their production practices that have enabled them to continue to make a profit for their efforts as a tobacco grower.

Labor-saving equipment has played an important role in keeping production cost in line with income received from tobacco produced. Some of the other practices that have been successfully used are better-fertilization practices, disease and insect control, and chemical sucker control. The efforts made by research personnel and private seed breeders in devloping better varieties of tobacco seed have also been very helpful in keeping tobacco growers in business.

Wives May Be Just As Guilty

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Wives who make sandwiches for their husbands' friendly card games may be guilty of promoting gambling under Oregon's new criminal code.

Multnomah County Dist. Atty. Desmond Connall says the code, as he understands it, makes private card games beyond the reach of the law although still technically illegal.

But anyone connected with the game who doesn't play is, according to the code, promoting gambling, Connall said.

So card-playing Oregon husbands apparently will have the choice, after the code goes into effect Saturday, of inviting their wives to join their games or making their own sandwiches.

Growth Seen By Baptists

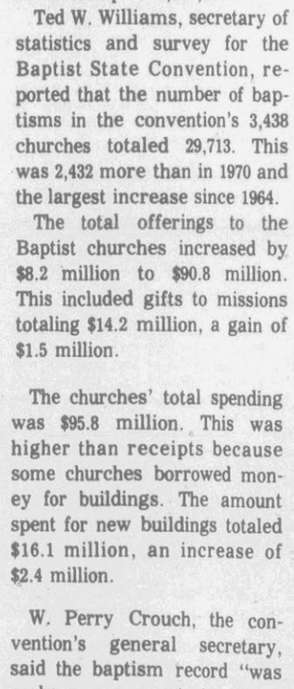

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina Baptist churches gained 13,993 members in 1971 and this brought their total membership to 1,037,557.

Ted W. Williams, secretary of statistics and survey for the Baptist State Convention, reported that the number of baptisms in the convention's 3,438 churches totaled 29,713. This was 2,432 more than in 1970 and the largest increase since 1964.

The total offerings to the Baptist churches increased by $8.2 million to $90.8 million. This included gifts to missions totaling $14.2 million, a gain of $1.5 million.

The churches' total spending was $95.8 million. This was higher than receipts because some churches borrowed money for buildings. The amount spent for new buildings totaled $16.1 million, an increase of $2.4 million.

W. Perry Crouch, the convention's general secretary, said the baptism record "was perhaps our greatest encouragement in 1971 because the increase means that almost 10 per cent more people came into the fellowship of our churches by profession of faith and for baptism."

They Will Farm In Greenhouses

JOHNS CREEK, Ky. (AP) — A group of strip mine operators in Kentucky has begun a three-year experiment in developing greenhouse farming on hillside benches, the flat surfaces created by surface mining.

The Kentucky Surface Mining and Reclamation Association has appropriated $4,000 for the project's first year. The funds go to Johns Creek High School in this Pike County town, where a Horticultural class is starting and a greenhouse is being set up to experiment with soils and plants to find out what can best be grown on the stripped land.

NOTICE OF RESALE

North Carolina
Pitt County

Whereas the undersigned, acting as trustee in that certain deed of trust executed by Charlie Mills and wife, Lula H. Mills, and recorded in Book B-35 at Page 7 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, did foreclose and offer for sale the land hereinafter described; and whereas within the time allowed by law an advanced bid was filed with the Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County and an order issued directing the trustee to resell said land upon an opening bid of Two Thousand Two Hundred Fifty-Five Dollars ($2,255.00).

Now therefore under and by virtue of said order of the Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, and the power of sale contained in said deed of trust, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale upon said opening bid at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the door of the County Courthouse in Greenville, North Carolina, at twelve o'clock noon on the 14th day of January 1972, the following described property located in Chicod Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

Tract No. 1 — Lying on the south and north sides of the newly paved road leading from N. C. Highway No. 43 to Black Jack, and containing 13.2 acres, more or less, and being lot No. 2 of the Martha Haddock land known as her home place.

Tract No. 2 — Chicod Township, Pitt County, on the east side of the newly paved highway leading from Black Jack of Chicod High School, and containing 9.37 acres, more or less, and being lot No. 3 of the Martha Haddock thoroughfare tract of land.

EXCEPTING, however, from the above described land 5-10ths of an acre, more or less, which the grantors herein conveyed to Jimmie Charles Mills by deed dated March 14, 1960, and recorded in Book P-31 at Page 585, of the Pitt County Registry.

Reference is made to the map prepared by J. B. Porter, R. S., and recorded in Map Book 5 at Page 45 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

Tract No. 3 — Being tracts Nos. 1, 1A, and 1B of the Haddock property as shown on map made by Joe M. Dresbach, R. S., dated January 1963, and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Map Book 11 at Page 86, which map is hereby referred to and made a part hereof for a more specific description of said property.

But this sale will be made subject to that certain other deed of trust executed by Charlie Mills and wife, Lula H. Mills, in favor of Farmers Home Administration which is duly of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina, in Book R-33 at Page 639 and likewise subject to all outstanding and unpaid taxes.

The successful bidder at said sale shall be required to deposit ten percent of the amount of his bid pending report of sale and the expiration of the statutory time for an advance or upset bid.

This the 28th day of December 1971.
