Acrimonious Meeting In Paris

Viet Reds Get Warning

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — The United States warned North Vietnam and the Viet Cong today against new "military adventures" they are believed to be planning in South Vietnam. The warning was sounded by the U.S. peace negotiator, William J. Porter, as the long-deadlocked peace talks resumed following a four-week recess. The acrimonious meeting left the two sides as far apart as ever.

"I wish to caution you that the military efforts you seem to be planning on the western border of South Vietnam and elsewhere in Indochina are not likely to achieve anything to your permanent advantage and will probably entail the loss of many more lives," Porter told the 139th session of the talks.

"I urge you to reflect before you engage in the military adventures you apparently are planning."

North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy and the Viet Cong's Nguyen Van Tien vigorously denounced President Nixon's television interview Sunday. They reiterated that the American prisoners in Communist hands would not be released until the United States has committed itself to total and unconditional withdrawal and repudiated its obligations to Saigon.

Tien flatly denied Nixon's news conference assertion that the United States sought in vain to obtain assurances that Hanoi would release its prisoners in return for total American withdrawal.

Nixon said such a deal had been "under discussion at various times in the Paris talks but... the North Vietnamese rejected it."

Porter complained about the "erratic and highly unsatisfactory" movement of mail to and from the prisoners and said it violated the North Vietnamese authorities' own commitments.

Porter also asked the Communist delegates to indicate where the families of Americans captured by the Viet Cong can address their letters. Letters recently received from 18 men held by the Viet Cong were the first signs of life from several hundred Americans missing in South Vietnam, some of them for more than five years.

Porter reiterated that the United States and the Saigon government remain ready to call a general cease-fire throughout Vietnam and to open talks for organizing internationally supervised elections in South Vietnam. North Vietnam and the Viet Cong have repeatedly rejected both proposals.

Cape Kennedy Probable Choice As Launch Site For Shuttle System

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon's support of a scaled-down space shuttle with a throwaway booster rocket has made Cape Kennedy the clear favorite to become the initial launch site for this rocket plane of the future.

The cape, from which man first went to the moon, always has been a favorite, even though its premier position has been threatened by proposed launch sites in California, New Mexico, Utah and Oklahoma.

But there seems little argument after Nixon's announcement Wednesday in San Clemente, Calif., that he backs a six-year, $5.5-billion program to develop a shuttle system that will only be half reusable, instead of fully re-flyable as once envisioned by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The orbital section, carrying as many as 12 persons, will be designed to fly 100 or more times into space, but the booster section will be a rocket that will be dumped into the ocean, just as Apollo's Saturn 5 rockets sink beneath the sea after hoisting men on lunar journeys.

The biggest plus for the cape is that it is the only place in the country which has pads and facilities for rockets large enough to launch the shuttle, which will be the size of a Boeing 707 jetliner.

If the launch site were placed elsewhere, not only would launch pads have to be built, but millions of dollars of communications and tracking equipment would have to be installed.

Another factor favoring the cape is that the spent boosters can drop in the Atlantic away from inhabited areas.

And the cape has water access on which to ship huge rocket sections from manufacturing points in the United States and Western Europe, which is expected to contribute to development of the shuttle.

Why was any site other than Cape Kennedy considered?

Originally NASA envisioned a completely reusable shuttle, with both the orbiter and booster sections flying with manned crews back to earth like airplanes, to be refurbished and flown again.

This design might have worked against the cape as a launch site because of the surrounding Atlantic Ocean. Some felt that an error in landing by either craft might send it into the sea, where corrosive salt water would make it unusable.

Why the throwaway booster? NASA determined that development of a fully reusable shuttle would cost more than $10 billion and the space agency budget would have to peak at more than $7 billion in the mid-1970s.

Knowing Congress would not accept such a high figure above the present $3.2 billion space budget, NASA settled on the throwaway booster.

Officials said the $5.5 billion is the least that could be okayed and still have the shuttle flying on tests with astronauts by the target date of 1978.

Goals Given By Governor

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott called today for a manpower development and training program that would give every able-bodied citizen the opportunity "to acquire skills necessary to his own support and the support of his family."

In setting goals for the state's manpower development program, Scott also called for the elimination of illiteracy in the state with "a specific, irrefragable deadline for doing it."

Scott set these goals in a talk prepared for delivery to the North Carolina Manpower Council.

He also set these goals:

"The public school dropout rate must be reduced to insure that young people entering the labor force for the first time are capable of going directly to work or can benefit quickly from more specialized and more sophisticated training ...

"We need to offer, as quickly as possible, occupational education to every child from the sixth to the twelfth grades so that their occupational choices and goals can be made realistically and knowledgeably."

"North Carolina's manpower training programs must be coordinated so that job force requirements can be met as the state's industrial base expands."

"North Carolinians looking for work need a unified employment placement service."

"Both the public and private sectors in this state need an annual labor force survey."

Scott called on the council to "work rapidly and to act boldly" in preparing a manpower development and training program for the state.

Almost One Billion Dollars Down The Drain In Medicaid

NEW YORK (AP) — A grand jury estimates that "almost a billion dollars went down the drain" through cheating, waste and "completely disorganized if not chaotic" supervision in New York City's administering of the Medicaid program.

Jule M. Sugarman, head of the city's Human Resources Administration, rejected the billion-dollar estimate, saying the specific losses described in the report totaled less than $5 million. He said the report "does great danger" to the program.

The grand jury findings, based on a two-year investigation by the Manhattan district attorney's office, were released Wednesday by state Supreme Court Justice Jacob Grumet.

The report described cases of dishonest doctors, dentists extracting teeth unnecessarily, pharmacies shortchanging patients, and nursing homes billing the city for the care of patients who had died or been discharged.

Pat Nixon Reveals President Decided

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — First Lady Pat Nixon, getting the jump on her husband, says the President has definitely decided to run for re-election.

Mrs. Nixon made the disclosure Wednesday to reporters after her arrival for the second stop of her three-nation West African tour.

Nixon said in a television interview last Sunday that he would announce his decision before Jan. 14, two days before the deadline for candidacies in the New Hampshire primary.

Mrs. Nixon said her husband's re-election chances "are very good." Asked what the campaign might be like, she replied:

"It's going to be whatever type the other side makes it. It might be easy and it might be very difficult because we don't know who's the candidate on the other side yet."

Asked by reporters if all this meant that the President was a candidate for re-election, Mrs. Nixon replied: "Oh, sure."

Mrs. Nixon flew to Ghana from Liberia, where she headed the U.S. delegation to the inauguration of President William Tolbert. Prime Minister Kofia Busia praised her at a dinner in her honor Wednesday night for "excellence as an ambassador of good will."

Mrs. Nixon spent much of the day fielding questions about American aid to Ghana, which was impoverished by the spending of President Kwame Nkrumah, now an exile in Guinea. Ghana received $246 million in U.S. aid during the 1971 fiscal year, and Mrs. Nixon commented at one point: "My husband is for an aid program and his administration is going to be working with Congress to get a decent bill."

Busia, who met with Nixon in Washington last November, said Mrs. Nixon's visit came at "a time when we need it most," since his country is facing "bold and difficult steps" to put its economy in order. The prime minister and other leaders expressed hope Wednesday that they could count on continued U.S. aid.

The banquet was held in the garden of the presidential mansion beside the ocean. The 176 guests had a cold buffet and watched a 50-member cultural troupe put on a spirited show of native dances.

Dissent-Torn Pay Board Meets Again To Argue Aerospace Pay Cutback

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pay Board set another meeting today to debate how much of a cutback to recommend in a 12-per-cent aerospace pay raise it has sent back for reworking by labor and management.

The unions said they don't want the board's advice. In any case there was no assurance that the public and business members of the dissent-torn board could agree on a figure.

"I've stopped predicting," said public member William Caples. "It's like seduction. You're never sure until the end."

The public and business members of the board overruled labor members Wednesday in ordering the panel's first wage veto, a rejection of a 51-cent hourly pay raise in the first year of contracts covering more than 100,000 workers at five aerospace firms. The unions said 34 cents of the raise was cost-of-living catch-up due them under 1968 agreements.

Pay Board chairman George H. Boldt, who abstained from voting, said the panel decided the total raise was too far out of line with the aim of the new wage-price control law and the board's own guidelines.

The board has ruled that new contracts can't contain raises of more than 5.5 per cent, except in special cases when the top limit is 7 per cent. However, the board has approved the only other two contracts it had considered previously, even though they exceeded those guidelines.

After Wednesday's action the presidents of the auto workers and Machinists' unions, whose contracts were affected, denounced the board's nonlabor members for broken promises and called Boldt and some others incompetent.

Both the union chiefs, Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers and Floyd E. Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, said they would decide what to do at a joint strategy session of more than 300 union negotiators in St. Louis Saturday.

But neither threatened to strike nor to give up membership on the Pay Board.

Woodcock said the board's business and public members had gone back on assurances they gave him last Nov. 8 that the aerospace pacts would be cleared by the board before it begins applying its 5.5-per-cent rule strictly.

Losing Cutters

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Budget reductions have forced the imminent decommissioning of four Coast Guard cutters on the East Coast and the transfer of four ships from the Pacific to replace them.

Fifth District Coast Guard headquarters here said Wednesday the Absecon and Chincoteague of Norfolk and the McCulloch and Mendota of Wilmington, N.C., will be decommissioned in late February or March.

The Chataqua of Honolulu and the Taney of San Francisco will be transferred to Norfolk while the Pontchartrain of Long Beach and the Winnebago of Honolulu will be moving to Wilmington.

The Coast Guard said the moves are part of a budget cut involving the decommissioning of 10 cutters and reassignment of others.

School Board Advisory Committee Meet Set

The inaugural meeting of Greenville's new 1972 committee, the Citizens Advisory Committee to the Greenville City School Board, will have its first public meeting, on Monday, January 10, at 8:00 p.m.

On that date, members elected by their communities to represent them on the advisory committee will meet in the auditorium of Third Street Elementary School.

For this initial meeting, persons representing the 26 areas of the city's school district — there's a total of 30 people, or will be when all representatives are elected — will be given an orientation on the purpose, scope, and responsibilities of the committee. A majority of the 26 areas have already taken action to hold community meeting and to elect their member or members as of today. The few areas from which representatives have not been named will probably take care of their community election the latter part of this week.

Also, at the meeting on Monday, action is expected to be taken for the election of the six "at large" members who will be serving on the Citizens Advisory Committee to round out the full 36 membership authorized by the school board in their approval of the concept of such a committee in the November 1971 school board meeting.

Watershed Hearing Is Continued Today

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

NEW BERN — A hearing involving the Chicod Creek watershed project which began yesterday, continued this morning in U.S. Eastern District Court here.

Five environmental groups, including the Natural Resources Defense Council, the North Carolina Wildlife Federation, the Pamlico-Tar Conservation Coalition, the National Wildlife Federation and the Friends of the Earth, are attempting to have work on the Chicod watershed project halted until an environmental impact statement is presented as required by the National Environmental Policy Act.

Named as defendants in the action are officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, USDA's Soil Conservation Service, USDA's Farmers Home Administration, and the Pitt County Drainage District Number Nine (the Chicod Creek project).

Two other groups petitioned the court to intervene as defendants in the action. They include a group of landowners and Greenville Attorney Frank Wooten on behalf of the Pitt Drainage District.

U.S. Judge John Larkin said he would rule on the intervention in about 10 days.

The defendants are involved in work on the watershed project which in effect will channelize the creek, allowing it to carry more water and drain more land in Pitt and Beaufort Counties. They said provisions have been made for wildlife normally adversely affected by channelization.

The plaintiffs contend that the project will channelize over 66 miles of the creek and its tributaries, turning natural streambeds into sterile, unsightly ditches, level 360 acres of valuable mixed hardwood forest and drain approximately 500 acres of prime wetland habitat for fish and wildlife.

Cost of the project is estimated at $1,503,831, with about $706,000 coming from the SCS and the remainder of the costs funded by the 250 landowners involved in the watershed area.

The first witness to take the stand during the hearing yesterday was Edward Bradley, a field supervisor for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Department of the Interior, Raleigh office.

Bradley said that after stream channelization has been accomplished, an area would not normally have flooding as severe as with a natural stream, but said vegetation, wildlife population and water fowl would be affected by channelization.

A witness for the plaintiffs, Bradley said there would be a direct loss of 20 acres of stream fisheries habitat and areas downstream would be affected by sedimentation.

Defense witness Harold Liles, SCS, Raleigh, said a total of $215,742 has been spent on the project so far and another $807,436 has been obligated.

He said delays would increase the cost of the project. Liles explained that a delay of one month would cost $4,560 while a six-month delay would cost more than $27,700.

A delay of one year would add $55,480 to the cost of the project, according to Liles. The Chicod project has been under consideration since 1946 and an application for the project was submitted in 1963.

Furniture Preferences For This Year Swing To The Mediterranean For Most

By JOHN N. GREGORY
CHICAGO (UPI)—Furniture preferences in 1972 will swing to the Mediterranean for most people and 18th Century Europe for rich folks. But for the lazy among the latter, there is a futuristic, $3,000 "sleep cocoon" with a stereo, television and lighting system.

That's how furniture manufacturers are betting, and their track record runs close to perfect, to judge from previous forecasts.

The European, custom-made style will lean more toward the Queen Anne influence with the graciously curved, fabriele legs, and ice cream colors according to the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers.

The NAFFM is busy gathering information on next year's trends for the 1972 Winter International Furnishings Market to be held here in February.

Accent pieces for the more expensively furnished rooms will be elegantly Oriental. Oak or olive ash burl will be tooled to create bamboo-like effects and coloring will emphasize off whites or very light blue hues, the NAFFM said.

The switch to 18th Century styling ended nearly seven years of Mediterranean dominance in custom pieces. However, that does not mean an end to Mediterranean.

Norman Waxman, vice president of marketing for Schnadig Corp., Chicago, said Mediterranean remains as strong as ever, possibly stronger, as an attraction in the general market.

Mass production has caught up with Mediterranean, Waxman said, and brings the styling within the buying range of many more people than in previous years.

However, refinements in the Spanish styling have removed some of the bulkiness formerly present. Fabric changes will feature olefin fibers, which also have undergone changes and no longer come with the coarse, hard finish. The new, smoother look of this fabric makes it highly desirable for all styles. Olefin now comes with an easy-care surface that can be wiped clean with a damp cloth. The finish is applied at the mills.

The accent on occasional pieces will move toward more contemporary design, Waxman said. The industry failed to come up with any radical changes during its October market in North Carolina.

"Indications were that there has been some consolidation in accent pieces," Waxman said. "Business in the industry had reversed enough so new changes didn't seem necessary. The general idea seemed to be to regroup and recoup after the slump which preceded the North Carolina market."

Waxman said a lot more plastic will be shown this year as a wood substitute. The color tones will be intense in both contemporary and traditional lines, he said, with emphasis on rusts and browns, more red in Mediterranean, and golds and greens remaining quite popular. Behind the color improvements, Waxman said, is the recent activity of large corporations which have moved into the field of individual packaging.

"The package concept provides big outfits with control over decor. They can coordinate colors professionally and be aggressive in this area," Waxman said.

While plastic material is more costly than wood, the price range between the two on furniture is expected to remain competitive for the present, Waxman said.

However, he predicted that more exposure to plastics and experience in working with them could lead to structural improvements and manufacturing economies that would help out a damper on inflation. Labor costs, he said, are less in plastic work than in wood, and plastics are more flexible.

The $3,000 cocoon consists of a large shell which contains a 96-inch diameter mattress inside, and comes equipped with a stereo system for tapes or recordings. There is room on the inside of the shell for a television set and a lighting system is included to permit reading or writing without any discomfort.

Most prominent woods will be pecan, oak, cherry and walnut in that approximate order, NAFFM said. Printed wood grain patterns on plastic coated finishes will retain their popularity, too.

The bubble furniture lasted long enough to "give us something to talk about," a NAFFM spokesman said. "It was a flash. It's gone."

Waxman expects the industry to enjoy near-boom years ahead. He cites the growing number of people in the home-owners age group, increases in housing starts, and demands for more housing.

She Should Tell Mate To Shape Up

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-M. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 15 years has suddenly decided that marriage is a "trap," and he wants out. He wants his own apartment so he can come and go as he pleases. (Not divorced, mind you, he just wants to be free to do as he pleases.)

A wise friend suggested a cheaper way. Give him the spare bedroom and let him do as he pleases. The idea appealed to my husband, and that is what he is doing now.

This friend told me to let my husband have his flings and have a ball, and in time he will get tired of it and come back to me. In the meantime I should be pleasant and uncomplaining, and be a good mother to our two teen-agers.

My problem: How can I endure the pain of seeing him come and go as he pleases? Can you give me a few pointers on how to put up with this when my heart is aching?

LONELY

DEAR LONELY: Your friend sounds like she has shredded wheat where her brains should be. You have given up your role as a wife to become the "mother" of a teen-ager who has just discovered the opposite sex.

What are you getting out of this arrangement? The privilege of keeping your husband's room clean, and washing his underwear? What if his "flings" last until he is 80? And in the meantime, what kind of example is he setting for his children?

Tell your husband we all make mistakes, and you made a beaut when you agreed to the spare room arrangement. And unless he is willing to go for counseling and try to repair your marriage, he can clear out, and you'll see him in court.

DEAR ABBY: We had company for dinner, and served one of the guests a cocktail in a glass which had a crack in it. She said, "Oh, dear me?" Then she went into the kitchen and poured the drink down the sink, and asked for a "good" glass.

I told her there was nothing wrong with that glass, and she said, "Well, if a glass has a crack in it, there are probably germs in the crack, and I wouldn't want to drink from a glass with germs in it."

I asked her how germs could possibly survive the heat of an electric dishwasher, and she said, "I'm no scientist, but I don't want to take any chances."

Abby, if I had been a guest I never would have embarrassed my hostess the way this woman embarrassed me.

Is it true that germs can live in the crack of a glass which has been washed in an electric dishwasher?

EMBARRASSED HOSTESS

DEAR EMBARRASSED: The chances for germs surviving the heat of an electric dishwasher are practically nonexistent. And so were your guest's manners. It's a good policy, however, to toss out cracked glasses. And that goes for cracked dishes, too.

DEAR ABBY: "BUGGED," the office employee who resented having to "kitty in" for an expensive Christmas gift for the Big Boss who had everything he needed or wanted, prompts this letter.

I also resented being asked to kitty in for a Christmas gift for the boss, and here is how I handled it: I faced up to the fact that I could refuse if I was big enough and willing to accept the consequences, whatever they might be. So when the committee approached me, I simply said, "Don't include me in the group gift. I prefer to do my giving on an individual basis."

I gave the boss a box of home-made Christmas cookies, which went over so well that the next November he started to tell me how much he liked last year's Christmas cookies!

I may be an oddball, but my fellow employees have accepted the fact that I cherish my right to refuse to give to office collections. I do give to some, as an expression of sympathy, or for some weddings or baby gifts. But I no longer automatically give for everything.

Experts On South America To Be ECU Symposium Speakers

Diplomats, educators and other experts in Latin American affairs will be featured at East Carolina University's annual Latin American Symposium Jan. 20-21.

The Symposium, entitled "Latin America: Emerging Perspectives," includes seven lectures on U.S.-Latin American relations, Castro's Cuba, the investment climate in Latin America, American students at Latin American universities and related topics.

Several hundred persons in eastern North Carolina Businesses and industries have been personally invited to hear lectures on Latin American import-export potential and investment possibilities.

Tom Willis, director of the ECU Regional Development Institute, said he expects good response to the invitations, as many area commercial organizations are aware of the largely undeveloped trade potential which exists between Latin America and eastern North Carolina.

Symposium speakers include: Dr. David G. Basile, former acting Public Affairs Officer for the U.S. Department of State in Ecuador; Patricio Rodriguez, First Secretary for Economic Affairs, Embassy of Chile; Dr. Neill Macaulay, university of Florida professor who spent two years with Castro and Che Guevara during Cuba's revolutionary period; John H. Crimmins, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs; Anthony L. Furr, vice-president of Wachovia International Investment Corp. and area office for Wachovia's Latin American interests; Armistead I. Selden Jr., Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for International Security Affairs; Dr. Kermit L. King, former president of the University of Liberia who is now with the ECU Office of International Studies; and Dr. Wilkins Bowdre Winn, ECU professor of Latin American history.

Dr. Edward Leahy, coordinator of Latin American Studies at ECU, said all symposium lectures are free and open to the public.

Lectures are scheduled at 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and 8:15 p.m. on Jan. 20 and at 10 a.m. on Jan. 21, in the Biology and Nursing Auditoriums.

Persons who wish further information about the Latin American Symposium may telephone Dr. Leahy at the ECU Department of Geography.

Brazil And U.S. Use 'Hot Line'

Associated Press Writer BRASILIA (AP) — The United States and Brazil are operating a hot line and taking other steps to prevent the fishing war on the west coast of South America from spreading east.

The communications link gives Brazilian officials rapid access to U.S. officials in Brazil, and they in turn can report instantly to Washington.

At the same time—despite public denials—the two governments are looking the other way when potential incidents arise.

The tacit agreement reflects U.S. and Brazilian desire not to let stray fishing boats or occasional passage by U.S. warships and planes disturb one of the most solid alliances the United States has in Latin America.

It contrasts with the strained relations the United States has on the Pacific coast with Ecuador and Peru, which have resumed seizing U.S. tuna boats with the start of the fishing season.

The understanding, as it is described by some U.S. officials, emerged from a deadlock between Brazil and the United States in fishing talks last year.

The United States, which recognizes a territorial limit of only 12 miles for fishing, has refused to give in to Brazil's insistence on the 200-mile jurisdiction that Ecuador and Peru also claim. More talks are scheduled before the start of the shrimp and lobster fishing season in March.

U.S. officials appear optimistic about reaching an agreement that will avoid reference to the 200-mile limit and mention only "conservation" aspects of fishing control. Brazil has said it "will not move one centimeter" in its demands for recognition of the limit, but last year Brazil and several other nations agreed on temporary shrimping arrangements using the conservation approach. Since the stalemate, the United States and Brazil have been doing their best to avoid incidents.

One Florida boat claimed the Brazilian navy shot at it and chased it out of the 200-mile zone, but there was much confusion surrounding the incident and it was never clear what really happened.

Later, according to fishing industry sources, U.S. shrimpers began studying ways to avoid casting in the area, especially in large numbers. There have been none of the confrontations which have cost the U.S. tuna industry more than $3 million in fines for operating in waters claimed by other Latin-American nations.

Rep. Ingram To Announce Entry

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — State Rep. John Ingram of Ashboro says he intends to announce within 10 days that he is a candidate for state insurance commissioner.

Ingram issued a statement Wednesday in which said that he authored a bill during the 1971 legislature to permit 18-year-olds to vote and that he fought for changes in the auto insurance laws. He said present laws punish the safe driver.

So far, the present insurance commissioner, Edwin Lanier, has not said whether he will seek re-election.

ABC-TV Winds Up Three Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — ABC closed out three of its television series in succession Wednesday night—all involving important film stars.

First came "The Smith Family," a pleasant enough family-type affair. Its greatest asset was Henry Fonda playing a calm, wise police sergeant. Its fatal weakness was an attempt to mix the sergeant's police work and his home life—loving wife and three kids.

In the final episode, Sgt. Smith was pursuing a jewel thief when the burglar's girl friend attempted to get the detective off the case by claiming he had tried to assault her. The rest of the half hour was divided between the sergeant wrapping up the case and the effects on the family when its head was under a well-publicized cloud.

It has not been a bad series, just one that never quite established an identity.

Then came the windup of "Shirley's World," which in spite of the presence of Shirley MacLaine was from debut to the last broadcast a very poor, ill-conceived series.

A lot of it was shot on location—from Japan to the English countryside—but scenery does not make a comedy series, particularly when the comedy does not come off and the characters are as unreal as paper dolls.

In the show's swan song, Shirley was on vacation from her unlikely job as star reporter-photographer of an unlikely magazine. She spent it riding with her boss in an automobile race in Wales. For laughs there was riding over bumpy roads, getting lost and getting stuck in muddy cow pastures.

The whole project will quickly be forgotten by everybody except Miss MacLaine.

"The Man and the City," the third dropout, did not deserve its fate. Anthony Quinn gave a strong and appealing performance as the concerned mayor of a Southwestern community. The story lines were intelligent, the production values good.

It might have had a chance had it not been preceded by "Shirley's World," and had tough entertainment competition from the other networks.

The last program began interestingly enough—huge quantities of drugs were being stolen from the city hospital, a scandal was exposed and an investigation of corruption started. The windup, however, was on the melodramatic side: The wife of the paraplegic head of the hospital was being blackmailed by a former lover to help him steal supplies.

Rites Today For Photographer Perry Aycock

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Perry Aycock, 43, who during his 13 years as an Associated Press photographer covered hurricanes, space shots from Cape Kennedy, an Alaskan earthquake and Southeastern sports events, died of abdominal complications Wednesday.

He was hospitalized Christmas Day with pneumonia and peritonitis, and abdominal hemorrhaging developed several hours before his death.

Aycock was married only last Dec. 11 to the former Sally McDonald Swift of Raleigh. He also leaves a son by a previous marriage, Paul Aycock of Raleigh.

A memorial service will be held at 12:30 p.m. Thursday at the Brown and Wynne Funeral Home in Raleigh.

The body will be flown to his native Cleburne, Tex., for burial at 3 p.m. Friday in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Aycock served with the Air Force and then began his journalistic career as a newspaper photographer at Wichita Falls, Tex.

He joined the Associated Press in Memphis, Tenn., in 1958, and nearly three years later was transferred to Raleigh, where he had been based for the past 10 years.

Find Dynamite Bomb Fired But Failed Explode

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A 40-stick dynamite bomb, which police say would have gone off if it had been put together properly, was found Wednesday night in an apartment building containing 20 persons.

Bomb experts said a detonator was fired but the device, found inside a washing machine in the building near the Showboat Hotel, didn't explode because the dynamite wasn't bound together.

It would have caused extensive damage to the building if it had exploded, a police spokesman said.

There were no clues as to the bomber, he said.

Officers said they were called to the apartment by manager Al Fox, who told them he heard a loud noise in the laundry room—similar to a firecracker explosion.

Fox said he found the dynamite sticks in the washing machine and scattered around the floor.

Cars produce 85 per cent of smog in cities and 90 per cent of all carbon monoxide, says the Senate Commerce Committee.

Accidents, But Fewer Deaths

There is really no way to measure accurately the loss caused by traffic accidents in Pitt County last year. But bad as it was, the year at least was better than the previous one in terms of lives lost in local traffic accidents.

During 1971, 24 lives were snuffed out in traffic accidents in Pitt, 22 of them on highways of the county and two within the corporate limits of Greenville. During the previous year Pitt County counted a total of 32 traffic deaths, five of which occurred within the corporate limits of Pitt County

Adjust Focus On Prevention

By BRYAN HAISLIP
CHAPEL HILL — Efforts to solve problems of alcohol too often put the cart before the horse.

The focus of the past has been on programs to treat the drinker after he's become an alcoholic, overlooking the basic need to know why he drinks. "We've spent millions of dollars in trying to rehabilitate alcoholics, but very little on prevention — or even understanding," said Dr. John A. Ewing, director of the Center for Alcohol Studies of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

A better investment of dollars, he added, would be in research with the potential to show how and why people become alcoholics, and thus lead the way to prevention and treatment of the disease. Such an approach would save not only dollars but untold human suffering.

That's the direction for a $690,000 study, spanning three years, which officially began Jan. 1.

Areas to be covered by the study include Southern drinking patterns and variations from the national norm, early-stage identification of alcoholism and the hidden alcoholic, the interaction of alcohol and drugs, and alcohol education in public schools.

Many Areas Involved
The University's schools of education, medicine, public health and social work all will be involved in the three-year research and training program, Dr. Ewing said.

Dr. Ewing has spent some 20 years in alcohol research and in the rehabilitation and treatment of alcoholics. He was one of the first psychiatrists at North Carolina's original alcoholic rehabilitation center at Butler.

He served as acting director of the Alcohol Studies Center from its formation in 1970 until his appointment as director last September.

Much of the efforts of the past to deal with alcohol have been on a hit-or-miss basis, without real evaluation of effectiveness.

"Although civilized nations around the world have all introduced many varieties of alcohol beverage control legislation, there is very little on record, except in the case of Finland, where scientific methods have been used to evaluate the effects of legal measures," Dr. Ewing said.

He visited Finland last fall to study Finnish monitoring techniques and present scientific papers.

Southern Style Drinking
Southern drinking has its own style. It's been behind the corncrib more often than in the living room, and deadly serious rather than convivial and social.

Historically, Dr. Ewing said, the South has had special attitudes toward alcohol. In some areas, bootlegging has been a way of life and "the revenuer" a legitimate enemy if not a target. Vast numbers of people reap financial gain from restrictive alcohol laws in the South he said.

"In March, 1971, more than 150 persons were arrested in Durham over a single weekend for possession of non-tax-paid whiskey or wine or beer or selling liquor by the drink," he said.

"We know, too, that North Carolina leads all other states except Georgia in acute deaths from alcohol poisoning which generally follows one great spree of drinking," he said. Heavy drinking is associated with at least 50 per cent of all violent deaths in the state, whether by automobile, accident or murder, he added.

Knowledge Aids Prevention
Knowledge of the causes for such conditions, Dr. Ewing explained, can be the first step towards their prevention for the future.

North Carolina, and the 49 other states, all have laws requiring alcohol education in junior high and senior high school, but very little has been done to evaluate the laws and the programs they require, Dr. Ewing noted. "We have enough scientific information to tell us that current methods are not working," he said.

"Students, for example, are often more sophisticated about the use and effects of alcoholic beverages than the person teaching them."

The Center will search for innovative and imaginative approaches to alcohol education in the public schools.

"If we are not able to come up with an effective alcohol education program for our schools," Dr. Ewing said, "we might have to conclude that time spent on the subject in school is wasted time."

"If so, we may be thrust back to the teaching of alcohol uses and abuses in the home."

One project will aim to identify alcoholism early before ill effects on health, job, economics, family and behavior have developed.

"Earlier identification of alcoholism means earlier intervention and hopefully creating a change for the better," he said.

towns. The eight fewer deaths in traffic accidents in the county last year could be attributed of many different reasons, but hopefully the decline in loss of life in auto accidents reflects greater driving care by the vast majority of the county's motorists.

At the outset of the new year, Pitt's record is clean so far as traffic deaths are concerned. There have been accidents, of course, but no lives have yet been lost. From a realistic standpoint, it is too much to hope that the county will go through 1972 without loss of life in traffic accidents. It is not too much to hope, however, that the loss of life in such accidents will show another decrease in 1972 just as it did in 1971.

In a large measure, the number of traffic accidents, injuries and deaths during this year will depend upon the care exercised by local drivers. Traffic control devices, highway engineering, law enforcement efforts all contribute to reducing the accident toll. But all of these things are only a drop in the bucket compared with the importance of the individual driver exercising the greatest possible caution each time he gets behind the wheel.

In 1972, as in all the other years, safety on Pitt County's highways rests principally with local drivers.

Nixon Decision Likely Just Before Deadline

President Nixon dropped the broad hint that Spiro Agnew will be his running mate in 1972.

On a television interview with CBS correspondent Dan Rather the president said he saw no reason to "break up a winning team" by dumping Vice President Agnew.

Of course the decision of the GOP ticket will not be made until the Republican convention is held. We doubt, though, that the final decision has been made on whether or not Agnew will be the vice presidential candidate. We suspect the decision will come only shortly before the convention and it will depend on what kind of image is needed most at that time to help the presidential candidacy.

Ervin Denies Mind Made Up

By J.J. KILGO

U. S. Senator Sam Ervin—75 years old and picking up steam—knows everybody says he's about to retire and he knows that everytime a political poll is taken here, his name tops the popularity list among North Carolina voters.

Walk among Tar Heel politicians and you hear the whispers over and over: "Sen. Sam is sending all of his furniture and belongings back to North Carolina. He's calling it quits after this term."

Gov. William B. Umstead appointed Ervin to the Senate in 1954 and he's been a fixture there ever since. The Hugh Morton poll shows Ervin as the most popular politician in North Carolina. Skipper Bowles' poll indicated the same thing. A kind word from the Senator wouldn't hurt a politician's chances these days.

Ervin's term expires in two years. The Senator and I had this conversation:

Q. Everybody down here says you're going to quit after this term. True or false?

Ervin: I've heard all that talk. I'm a day to day man myself. I never decide anything like that this early in advance. I haven't made up my mind what I will do when this term expires and I won't for a long while yet. But I understand everyone else has retired me.

Q. The political polls in North Carolina show you to be Top Dog. Does that give you a boost?

Ervin: People tell me that I've shown up very well in the polls taken in North Carolina and that certainly makes me feel good. I don't know what to read into all of that. I've never taken a poll myself.

Q. Do you believe in political polls?

Ervin: I don't know if I do or not. Politicians don't seem to take a bad poll, do they? A couple of people who were thinking about running against me took polls to measure their chances and said they came out very well. But shortly thereafter they announced they wouldn't run against me.

Q. Are you going to pitch in and help some of the North Carolina candidates this year?

Ervin: I sort of doubt it. I think I'll probably just vote and keep my choices to myself.

Q. What do you think about North Carolina's presidential primary?

Ervin: I think it's foolish, the way it's set up. We're going to divide the vote and it appears that all we will accomplish is to divide the Democratic Party on just about every score.

Q. Do you still favor Sen. Henry Jackson as the Democratic candidate for President?

Ervin: I think he's the best man but I don't know if his campaign is getting off the ground or not. I haven't heard whether or not he plans to run in the North Carolina primary.

Q. Can President Nixon be beaten in North Carolina?

Ervin: I think it depends upon the Democratic can-

POST-CHRISTMAS 'SUGAR PLUMS'!

By J.J. KILPATRICK

Ought Not To Have Done

With the coming of Advent last month, the Episcopal Church launched into the second year of a three-year experiment with new forms of worship. By comparison with the sweeping changes imposed upon Catholic ritual, the Episcopal "authorized alternatives" are tentative, mild and unassuming. Nonetheless, they invite comment.

Not comment in any doctrinal sense. To a large extent, what the Episcopalians do with their forms of worship is the business of Episcopalians only. Their clergy and laity can fight out a format with the church's Standing Liturgical Commission in advance of the General Convention of 1973.

Yet the Book of Common Prayer, like the King James Bible on which it is based, is not exclusively the property of the Anglicans or of Protestant Christians either. It is part of the common inheritance of literate men. And when a committee of earnest butchers begins to hack away at the Book of Common Prayer, critics from every denomination — or from none — have a right to be heard.

I speak as a conservative. It is often said of us that conservatives tend to resist all change; but it is not so. What conservatives resist is thoughtless or needless change — change for the sake of change itself. We are governed by Randolph's first principle of statecraft: Never without the strongest necessity disturb a thing at rest.

What possible necessity could be advanced for tinkering around with the General Confession? Its beautifully candenced lines have passed into the treasury held in trust by English-speaking men: "We have erred, and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep. We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts. We have offended against thy holy laws. We have left undone those things which we ought to have done; and we have done those things which we ought not to have done..."

That is simple speech, direct and understandable. Though it is a general confession, couched in the first person plural, it is intensely personal. Every individual who makes that humble confession knows precisely those things which he has done, or left undone. The ordinary words evoke his erring conduct.

By contrast, the proposed new version offers little but store-bought piety, gift-wrapped in perfunctory ribbon:

"We have not loved you with our whole heart, we have not loved our neighbors as ourselves." Doubtless these failures of love are shortcomings, but what do the words mean? They do not evoke the kind of sins a man really feels badly about.

Take another example, from the best known of all prayers. Acting in concert with the ecumenical International Consultation on English Texts, the Episcopal revisors would rewrite the Lord's Prayer — touch it up a little, give it a new paint job, get rid of "thy" and "Thine" and put on a chromium strip.

Every school child (until the Warren court came along) learned to pray:

Some misguided people are still trying to save the breaded veal cutlet from extinction. The claim is even made that a breaded veal cutlet, taped over a black eye, will help it to heal faster. This may be true of a piece of raw beefsteak, but definitely it is not true of a breaded veal cutlet, which would only inflame the black eye, not cure it.

The Red Cross stands ready to distribute the proposed 40,000,000 surplus bushels of wheat among people of the nation the minute Congress authorizes such action. This was the message which Chairman Payne imparted to the Senate investigation committee at Washington yesterday.

Three talks and introductions of two new members occupied attention at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club last night. Talks dealing with classifications were made by Dr. K. B. Pace and J. H. Waldrop. The new member admitted were N. O. Van Nortwick and E. H. Dixon, Jr.

Risk In New Air Charge Rule

BY ELMER ROESSNER

Just as most transatlantic airlines were predicting summer business that would pull them out of the red, the Civil Aeronautics Board announced plans for a new rule that might let non-scheduled airlines skim the cream off summer travel.

The CAB has proposed a rule permitting anyone to go on a charter flight provided they sign up and give their passport number six months in advance. For this year, only four months notice may be required.

The old rule that the charter flight passenger had to be a dues-paying member of the Sons of I Will Arise or a Hoboken Beer Club would be wiped out. Charter flight organizers would be permitted to organize groups of 50 or more anybody. Mass advertising would be prohibited to prevent the nonskeds from cutting too deeply into the scheduled lines profits.

There is danger in this change unless the CAB takes preventive action. The change may attract more reckless promoters into the travel business.

Thousands Stranded
Last year thousands of Americans were stranded

ELMER ROESSNER

when their return charter flights did not materialize. The organizers had gone broke or simply disappeared. Friends and relatives had to cable funds to get stranded home, embassies advanced ticket money and, in some cases, scheduled airlines granted credit to those left at airports by competing charter flights.

Proposals to require reservations four to six months in advance may attract more promoters who will have months to disappear after collecting down payments. Other promoters may be tempted to sign up would-be travelers and sell the reservations at a profit to other organizers.

There will be a repetition of last year's confusion and chicanery unless the CAB devises ways to assure the return of round-trippers.

The CAB will act on its proposal late in February or in March. Meanwhile, there will be uproarious battles over the proposal.

Scheduled airlines, American and foreign, and some travel agencies will fight it. With nonskeds offering round trips to London for as low as $274 a round trip this summer and the regular airlines charging $294 with 22-day minimums and 45-day maximums and $556 unlimited economy class, scheduled airlines and travel agencies could lose a bundle of profits.

On the other hand, youth groups, retirees and others with moderate incomes, along with travel agencies that cater to them, will shout just as loudly for the new rule.

Blow To Hanky-Panky
There have been a lot of sharp operators in the charter flight trade. Organizers have created fictitious groups and back-dated memberships to meet requirements that charters could only be assigned to members of groups for six months or longer.

However, both nonskeds and scheduled airlines have been permitted to organize "affinity groups" in which packages consisting of flights, sightseeing, hotels, meals and other incidentals are offered. These groups, however, do not appeal to youths who like to roam where the wind listeth.

The reactions of foreign governments and their own airlines have not yet been voiced. Some may oppose the diversion of regular-fare travel to charter flights, and foreign governments can deny charter flights landing rights.

Strength For Today

ATTIRE

So you don't like the clothes that the kids wear. Many of us feel the same way, but that is neither here nor there. If some people want to get themselves up like monkeys, that's their business. You say you don't like long hair such as the kids have appropriated to themselves without apology. A lot of us feel the same way about long hair and blue jeans, but that is the business of those who adopt these styles. It wouldn't take much effort for us to turn our faces and look the opposite direction. Of course, if we have kids that go to fantastic extremes in the way they let their hair grow long and attire themselves — there's not much we can do about it. And in all justice it needs to be said that long hair and blue jeans do not necessarily involve morals in any way.

The aborigines who live "down under" for most of us in North and South America are probably no more aboriginal than were their ancestors centuries ago. If they want to stand still and let the world sweep by them — what is that to us?

Why do we insist on making so much out of matters that amount to so little? We read in the 6th chapter of the Old Testament Book of II Samuel that when the ark of the Lord was brought into Jerusalem King David danced before the Lord with all his might, and Michal, Saul's daughter, looked through a window and saw King David leaping and dancing before the Lord and she despised him in her heart.

The trouble was that David neglected to put on enough clothes and as he danced people put their hands over their mouths to suppress laughter.

Attire had its place in life thousands of years ago — and it still has its place in life.

New Grifton C-of-C Officers Are Installed

GRIFTON — "The Grifton Chamber of Commerce will be dedicated to making Grifton a finer place to do business, a finer place to live, and a finer place to raise and to educate children." With these words, Dick Moore, president of the newly-reorganized Grifton Chamber of Commerce, accepted the challenge put to the Chamber by Kinston Chamber of Commerce official Jack Hankins who installed the new Grifton officers Tuesday evening in the Grifton School Cafeteria.

"Good works are not enough; you have to do a selling job on your community. You are going to have an opportunity to do something good for Grifton that will last a long, long, time," Hankins said. He said that a good Chamber of Commerce is dedicated to the economic well-being of the entire community, but that its activities must in-

Hunting Trio In Hold-Up

The search for three men who robbed at gunpoint a cash and carry grocery on Rt. 1, Grifton early Wednesday morning is continuing by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the 24-hour service store, located at Hanrahan Crossroads between Ayden and Grifton was held up at 12:55 a.m. by three men wearing ski masks and carrying a sawed-off shotgun and pistol.

The sheriff reported that Charles Mumford of Kinston, who was on duty at the store at the time of the incident, told deputies the men took approximately $300 in cash from the cash register and his wallet containing about $50.

Mumford reported that the intruders left him in the rear of the store and made their escape in a car that had been parked down the highway from the business.

Sheriff Tyson said that the owner of the store, Clyde Cannon drove up as the three men were running out of the building.

He said that agents of the State Bureau of Investigation are assisting in the investigation.

Trained 20,000 Disadvantaged Or Handicapped

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's technical institutes and community colleges provided training last year for 20,000 persons classified as disadvantaged or handicapped.

In a report prepared for the State Board of Education, the Department of Community College's Kenneth S. Oleson said the training ranged from basic education programs for adults to high school and handicraft studies.

The program was supported by funds through the vocational amendments act of 1968.

Oleson said funds set aside this year include $628,444 for training of the disadvantaged, $418,962 for the handicapped and $218,201 for students with special needs.

Prowler Caught In A Skylight

DETROIT (AP) — When police arrived to check a report of a prowler in a bar supply store on Detroit's East Side, they found Johann Drescher hanging head down, caught at the waist in a skylight.

Half-frozen and dizzy, before his plight was discovered by the store owner Monday night, Drescher had to be cut down by firemen.

The way Detective Sgt. Frank Wiecek pieces the case together, Drescher had taken off his coat and was trying to squeeze through reinforcing bars under the skylight when he got stuck.

Arraigned before Recorder's Judge Samuel H. Olsen Wednesday, Drescher, 23, argued that he should not be charged with breaking and entering.

"I wasn't inside," said Drescher. "I was hanging. I never entered the building. I was hanging for four or five hours." Olsen set bond at $1,000.

clude more than just retail promotions and efforts to attract new industry. The membership should cut across community lines and include people from all walks of life, all the political leadership, all the financial leadership, and people who believe in the future of Grifton, he added.

He challenged the officers to demand action and ideas from the membership. He said the new Chamber should decide what its aims are — new business, better quality of living, promoting something unique that Grifton has to offer — and then work toward these goals with a realistic plan that demands active participation of all the members.

In accepting the gavel of presidency, Moore announced that the Chamber has already chosen a major project that will require a total effort by all civic and social groups and many "just plain Griftonians." They will sponsor the Second Annual Grifton Shad Festival on

Valuation Dates Set

SNOW HILL — Schedules of evaluation to be used in the new real property appraisal effective Jan. 1, 1973 were adopted by the Greene County Commissioners Tuesday.

The schedules will now be advertised and will be open for public scrutiny, County Auditor George Memborn said.

The Greene County tax listing period runs from Jan. 4 to Feb. 4, the tax supervisor reported.

The Social Services Department director told the Commissioners that she does not believe the widely publicized discrepancies in Social Service reporting are too bad in Greene County.

The Commissioners considered whether a federal recommendation that the Greene Lamp (Greene-Lenoir) Community Action Program Board of Directors be filled by designating agencies and having a member from each, rather than by individual appointments. They decided to continue their present policy, appointing whomever they wish rather than following the directive.

January Class In Skin Diving

TAHLEQUAH, Okla. (AP) — Northeastern State College announced Wednesday that 12 students are enrolled in a skin diving class it is offering this month at Panama City, Fla.

The course, between regular semesters, will give two hours college credit in nature study.

The students will spend the time until Jan. 11 exploring underwater caves and collecting specimens for the college and Muskogee High School.

Books Closed On 1970 Incident

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — The books have been closed with a suspended sentence for the last of five defendants in a rock-throwing incident in 1970 when President Nixon was campaigning here.

Four others were sentenced earlier on misdemeanor charges.

On Wednesday Municipal Court Judge William J. Harris suspended sentence for Ronald J. Cosetti, 30, of Santa Clara, who had pleaded no contest to a charge of failing to obey a police order. He also was accused of jumping on the roof of a police car as a chanting crowd threw rocks and bottles at the Nixon motorcade leaving a pre-election Republican rally with Gov. Ronald Reagan and then-Sen. George Murphy. No one was injured.

Charges of malicious mischief and disturbing the peace were dropped.

The United States may now have 10,000 to 15,000 inhabitants who are 100 years of age or over. Each has his own recipe for how to live longer. The best I ever heard was given by a lady centenarian in New Jersey who said: "Whenever I had a crisis in my life, I met it by going to bed until I felt better."

Saturday, April 8. The date has already been listed with the Department of Natural and Economic Resources in Raleigh and will be given state-wide publicity through them.

Other new Chamber officers installed Tuesday were: Clifton Genry, vice-president; Mrs. Vickie Troutman, secretary; Mrs. Catherine Condon, treasurer; Roger Davenport and Don Sauls, one-year directors; Early Mullen and Joe House, two-year directors.

Boys Club Is Given Books

The 600 members of Greenville-Pitt County Boys' Club now have a new set of World Books for their library as the result of a gift from Field Enterprises Education Corporation in Raleigh.

The encyclopedias, received just before Christmas, came from T. W. Bye, branch vice-president and general manager of the education corporation, and were accepted by David Wilcox, Executive Director of the club.

The Boys' Club, in addition to facilities for sports and crafts, has a library that is gradually being expanded through gifts of books. Part of the club's program to help the boys is a study area, which is open to the boys six days a week from three to six daily and again from seven to nine in the evenings.

Wilcox expressed his pleasure and that of the 600 boys about the new set of encyclopedias, which Wilcox says will be instrumental in assisting boys who use the study area and the reference books there in working on their school assignments and other educational or study projects.

"Give us this day our daily bread." The busy copy editors of this revision cannot leave even this line alone. They would tinker it up: "Give us today our daily bread." It is a small change, but it is a poor change. The emphasis and immediacy of "this day" are scrapped; a stressed syllable is abandoned; and the poetry comes out wrong.

Under the proposed revision, "lead us not into temptation" becomes, if you will brace yourself for a shock, "do not bring us to the test." This is disaster. Men know temptation, which walks through their lives, moist-lipped, wickedly inviting. No invocation in the great prayer holds deeper meaning than "lead us not into temptation." But "do not bring us to the test?" What do the words mean? Most of us rather like to be tested. The word has connotations of fair competition and appraisal — court test, laboratory test, test of skill. Why shouldn't we be brought to a test?

These are typical of the proposed revisions. They are the work of men with tin ears, good clerics but bad poets. The authors ought to turn again to the old confession, down on their knees, for in recommending these changes they most surely and sadly have done things they ought not to have done.

didate and the party platform. Politics is in a very fluid state right now and things are uncertain. I think it's too early to start predicting.

Q. These are strange times, Senator. How do you feel about the future of the country?

Ervin: Well, if I wasn't an optimist I guess I'd be very pessimistic right now. You don't, in my opinion, build a great country by giving the people federal handouts for a living. You don't build a great free enterprise system when the government takes most of a man's profits in the form of taxes. You have problems when you heavily tax the working people to give money to those who won't work. But like I said, I'm optimistic by nature. I stay encouraged that we'll work out our problems.

Sen. Ervin will be 77 years old when his term expires in 1975. People supposedly close to the Senator say this will be his last time in Washington. He wants to come home.

Says Ervin: "I'll let everybody know when I decide."

Secrecy Label Probe Begun By House Committee

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee is undertaking an inquiry aimed at curbing overuse of the secrecy stamp and closing what the chairman calls the "open season" on government secrets.

Without mentioning either columnist Jack Anderson's disclosure of Nixon administration strategy papers on the Indian-Pakistani war or the Pentagon papers, the Louisiana Democrat announced Wednesday a major inquiry by his committee into proper classification and protection of national security secrets.

In the meantime, Anderson reported that Kenneth B. Keating, U.S. ambassador to India, had, in a secret cablegram, challenged Nixon administration statements made to justify U.S. policy toward India and Pakistan.

Herbert indicated that targets of his committee probe, shortly after Congress returns Jan. 18, will include both unnecessary secrecy and "the callous disregard by some individuals" who publicly expose sensitive information.

While federal officials often abuse their right to classify, he said, this does not give any individual "the right to unilaterally ignore any classification action and thereby break existing law."

"Recent events clearly indicate that despite existing law we now have an open season on all classified information in government," Hebert said. "Our national security requirements therefore demand early and prompt legislative action to correct these apparent deficiencies in the law."

The corrective law, he said, should "strike a proper balance between the right of the public to know and the indispensable ability of our government to function."

Columnist Anderson contended Wednesday the only security involved in the papers he released was the job security of officials responsible for what he called the blunder of America's siding with Pakistan during the Indian-Pakistani war.

Anderson said the papers showed the White House lied.

The purported minutes of three White House strategy meetings quoted presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger as saying Dec. 5 that President Nixon "wants to tilt in favor of Pakistan" — before denying publicly Dec. 7 that the administration was anti-India.

The administration has kept silent about Anderson's release of the material. But government agents reportedly are trying to determine who turned over the papers to Anderson.

Hebert said subjects of the House probe will include adequacy of the National Security Act and merits of his own proposed bill to create a national commission on classification and protection of national security information.

Meanwhile, Anderson's agency, Bell-McClure Newspapers Syndicate, released Wednesday night another column carrying what Anderson said was a paraphrased version of a secret cablegram sent by Ambassador Keating to Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Keating was quoted as being "very interested to read" a U.S. Information Agency account of a White House briefing by Kissinger. Anderson said the cablegram was dated Dec. 8.

"While he (Keating) appreciated the tactical necessity of justifying the administration's position, he felt constrained to state that elements of this particular story do not coincide with his knowledge of the events of the past eight months," according to the column.

Anderson wrote that Keating questioned a U.S. statement that a $115-million relief program for East Pakistan was initiated "at the specific request of the Indian government."

According to Anderson, the ambassador referred Rogers to a Keating report on a conversation with Indian Foreign Minister Swaran Singh. The Indian government was said to be "reluctant to see the relief program started prior to a political settlement" because it might "bail out" Gen. Agha Mohammad Yahya Khan, then-president of Pakistan.

U.S. Auto Sales Above 10 Million Mark In 1971

DETROIT (AP) — For the first time in the auto industry's history, sales in the United States topped the 10 million mark last year. The 1971 record is due partly to a late year buying surge brought on by the wage-price freeze and repeal of the excise tax.

The final tally for the year, counting imported and domestic cars, was 10,155,411, topping the 9.66 million record set in 1968.

Last year's total sales figure, for the four major U.S. automakers was 8,676,294, still nearly 100,000 cars short of 1965's record.

But, the final total for 1971 represents a 22 per cent jump over the 1970 count when an economic recession coupled with a 67-day strike against General Motors Corp. to produce the worst sales of recent years.

Even though imported car sales set a record, their percentage share of the total 1971 market remained about the same as last year's—14.6 per cent. Major importers, including the Big Three automakers, sold 1,479,117 cars, beating the record of 1,228,402 set the previous year.

The sales picture for the imports was very strong at the beginning of the year and at one time held over 16 per cent of the market. But sales late in the year were hampered by the recently revoked 10 per cent import surcharge and dock strikes.

General Motors, recovering from the 1970 strike, led the industry in gains. GM sold 4,653,894 cars in 1971, beating its all-time 1965 record—by 77 cars. GM sales were up 42 per cent from 1970.

Ford Motor Co. posted a 7.6 per cent gain for the year on sales of 2,377,357, compared with 2,209,687 in 1970. Chrysler sales were up 2.5 per cent, with sales of 1,388,070 in 1971, compared with 1,353,304 during the previous year.

American Motors Corp. fought an uphill battle all year and managed to close nearly even with 1970, showing a drop of 1,399 autos—258,372 in 1970 and 256,973 in 1971.

Among the major importers, Volkswagen sales declined for the first time in recent years. VW sold 522,657 cars in 1971, down from 569,696 the previous year.

Only the Japanese cars were able to continue their phenomenal growth, but they, too, slowed down in the late months. Toyota sold 294,850 cars in 1971, up from 196,749 in 1970. Datsun sales were 188,029, compared with 104,067 in 1970.

Boasts IRA Unbeatable

LONDON (AP) — Bernadette Devlin, Northern Ireland's fiery Roman Catholic member of the British Parliament, told a national television audience Wednesday night that the guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army are unbeatable.

"You can't beat the IRA," Miss Devlin declared. "You can't have a military victory."

She urged the 14,000 British troops in Northern Ireland be withdrawn.

Miss Devlin appeared in a three-hour BBC debate with seven other Irish politicians, including two from the Irish Republic and the Rev. Ian Paisley, Northern Ireland's leading Protestant militant.

Paisley said Northern Ireland's Protestant majority—one million against 500,000 Catholics—would never agree to a political deal that would destroy their heritage.

In Northern Ireland, meanwhile, an 18-year-old British soldier on foot patrol in Belfast was killed by guerrilla snipers, the first person to die in the communal violence this year. He was the 44th British soldier killed and the 207th fatality since August 1969.

Transferred Due Women's Lib

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A fourth grade girl has been transferred to another class following her parent's complaint that her teacher had been stressing women's liberation.

Vikki Howe was removed from the fourth grade class taught by Pat Jimmerson at Schenk Elementary School because her mother, Mrs. Howard Howe, said she and her husband were concerned about the women's lib issue.

The class had allegedly discussed the possibility of writing to newspapers and suggesting that the "women's section" be called the "family section" instead.

Revival Series Now Underway

Services begin each evening at 7:30 including Saturday, and The Rev. Tim B. Henry, pastor, invites the public to come and hear this team as they sing and minister.

Railroad Selling Tiny Community

GERLACH, Nev. (AP) — The Western Pacific Railroad is selling Gerlach, a tiny railroad community 90 miles north of Reno.

Western officials said Wednesday the railroad built and owns the town, but now wants to get out of the community business in Gerlach which has 18 commercial lots with business establishments and 111 lots of dwellings.

Dan Brown, president of Land Corp. of Nevada, said his Reno-based firm is considering buying the town, but hasn't come to any figure with the railroad.

School Break-In Charged Youth

Kirby Williams, 17, of Cotanche St. has been charged with breaking, entering and larceny in connection with a December 17 break-in at Rose High School here.

Williams was charged with the December incident by officers yesterday after he was taken into custody in connection with the alleged theft of a newspaper vending machine from the Shell Pantry on Greenville Boulevard before daybreak.

A number of items taken from the school have been recovered, according to Police Chief Glenn Cannon.

Rehabilitation Replaces Punishing Drunken Driver

By HOWARD ANGIOINE
Associated Press Writer

Education and rehabilitation are replacing punishment in many parts of the nation as law enforcement officials seek more effective ways to cope with drunken driving.

"The pure penalty program hasn't solved the drinking driver problem," says a Wisconsin judge who helped organize a series of classroom sessions for convicted drunken drivers.

"What we are attempting to do is to get at the behavioral patterns and attempt to change those patterns by self-analysis."

The judge, William G. Callow of Waukesha County Court, says none of the 67 persons who have taken the course since it began in September has been back to court.

The Waukesha program is one of many available in more than half of the states.

The U.S. Department of Transportation has spent $31.5 million in backing 35 alcohol safety action programs in 34 states and Puerto Rico through June 1971.

Nine of the projects started in 1970, and 20 more in 1971. Nine more are scheduled to get under way early this year.

Generally the programs offer classroom studies of traffic rules and behavior, and then self-analysis on the part of the convicted drunken driver, who can avoid license suspensions, fines and jail terms by taking the courses.

Regarding the self-analysis part of the course, Callow says of the program in his area: "The cardinal rule of the course is to get people to examine the 12 hours immediately preceding their arrest, then kick it around. It's an analysis of their way of life and of the frustrations, habits or loneliness which lead to their drinking problem."

Most of the programs are patterned after Phoenix' pioneering Alcohol Research and Re-education Project and feature four 2½-hour evening classroom sessions spread over four weeks.

Dr. Ernest I. Stewart, director of the Phoenix program, says more than 7,000 persons have gone through it and very few graduates have been rearrested.

Stewart says the program revolves around the theme "we can't do anything for you unless you want to help yourselves."

He says the program is divided into four classes, each covering a different area, but designed to make the students realize the dangers of drunken driving.

In the final period, says Stewart, "we try to have students analyze themselves and where they stand in regards to alcoholism. If an intolerable home situation is causing them to turn to drinking, then maybe divorce is the answer; we point out that it's better than killing themselves and others."

ALMOST PERFECT
VIENNA (AP) — Establishment of fatherhood in future will be even more exact, says Dr. Wolfgang Mayr. He said his Institute of Blood-Group (Sero-logic) investigation was able to detect two entirely new genetic characteristics which enabled them to rule out fatherhood by a 99 per cent certainty.

Women Train As Airline Pilots

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The first batch of woman commercial pilots has started an 18-month training course at the Universities Air Squadron (UAS).

Five girls — all university students — were selected from 19 applicants and have now joined 45 male trainees.

Quiet Night For King Frederik

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Denmark's ailing King Frederik spent a quiet night and his fever dropped a bit, the 72-year-old monarch's doctors reported today.

The king went to bed with influenza New Year's Eve, developed pneumonia the next day and had a heart attack on Monday.

"The king slept quietly all night," a medical bulletin from the Municipal Hospital said today. "The functions of the heart and the blood pressure are satisfactory. The temperature is 38.0 Centigrade," or 100.4 Fahrenheit.

A temperature of 101 was reported Wednesday morning, and during the day it rose to 102. This indicated that the influenza is persisting.

UNC Prexy Expected To Head Board

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A committee headed by Gov. Bob Scott plans to recommend a president for North Carolina's new university structure in March or April.

Scott left little doubt during a meeting Wednesday that he and most other members of the new higher education governing board expect the choice to be University of North Carolina President William Friday.

Scott presided Wednesday over the organizational meeting of the new board at Quail Rost Conference Center near Durham. The board selected three committees to direct planning for the new higher education system.

Scott was named head of the personnel committee, which will recommend a president and other officers for the staff of the board.

After his selection as chairman, Scott told newsmen, "I suspect they will recommend Dr. Friday" as president. He also acknowledged that Dr. Cameron West, director of the Board of Higher Education, is a likely candidate for senior vice president.

Scott said he would be satisfied with either West or Friday. The board also picked former Sen. Tom Wolfe of Kingston to head a facilities committee, which will have the tough job of selecting the headquarters site for the new board. And Victor Bryant of Durham will head the code and policies committee.

Rape Charged 15-Year-Old

A 15-year-old has been charged with rape in connection with an incident near the E. B. Aycock Junior High School here Wednesday morning.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said the juvenile was taken into custody about 3:30 p.m. He was charged with assaulting a 16-year-old white student near the junior high facility about 10:50 a.m.

The alleged assault occurred in a wooded area behind the school, investigators reported. According to Chief Cannon, two girls, one 16 and the other 15, were going from one building to another at the school when they heard a commotion in a wooded area. Going to investigate, they found two boys fighting.

Quoting the girls, the police official said the alleged assailant then appeared, told them he was employed by the school system to check on unauthorized absences, then picked up a stick, asked their ages and forced the two to the ground with the older girl partially on top of the younger student.

Chief Cannon said that the alleged attacker told both girls not to report the incident, then walked off through the woods. The girls then started home to report the incident, but were picked up by a school cafeteria employee and returned to the building.

The alleged attacker, according to the chief, identified himself as a student at Rose High School.

Paul Rasberry, principal of Aycock Junior High School, this morning disputed some of the details of the police record of a reported assault that allegedly occurred at the E. B. Aycock Junior High School.

Rasberry explained that the cafeteria cashier, a woman, driving a car several blocks from the school, spotted two girls she recognized as junior high school girls. The cashier stopped and escorted the two students to the school. Rasberry said the girls, according to the cashier, were headed west along Greenville Boulevard, in a direction away from the school.

"The two girls had not reported to any of their classes on Wednesday morning," Rasberry commented. "When the cashier brought them into the school office, it was then that one of the girls told us about the alleged assault and we called the police at that time."

Rasberry said it concerns him there is an implication that the alleged assault occurred at school. "This is not at all the case, as the wooded area cited is at the intersection of Fairview Way and Greenville Boulevard."

On Dean's List For Semester

RALEIGH — Kathy Elaine Bullock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Bullock of Rt. 1, Stokes, has been named to the dean's list of Peace College for the fall semester of 1971.

Election to the dean's list at Peace requires a B-plus average in courses taken during the semester.

Watershed . . .

Carter told the court he had corresponded with the SCS office in Raleigh about the project in October, 1971. He said his association was concerned about the Chicod Creek watershed project because of the great deal of construction involved in the project.

Carter stated he received a letter from Jesse L. Hicks, SCS, which said SCS was in the process of preparing an impact statement of the project which would be sent to the Washington office for review. The statement would then be released for public information. Carter told the court he had never received the statement and that he was told by SCS officials that the statement had not been completed.

Bids on the Chicod Creek watershed project were opened on Dec. 16 but rejected because they were too high.

Liles, who took the stand again this morning, told the court that bids on the Chicod project ranged from 46 per cent to 68 per cent above government estimates for the project.

He said one bidder who submitted bids on another project, was 50 per cent higher on the Chicod project than government estimates while $1,000 below estimates for the other project.

Liles said he felt the difference in cost figures was due to the impending suit and contractors were leary of bidding.

The only other witness heard during this morning's session was Charles L. Lehning Jr., assistant state conservationist with SCS, Raleigh.

He outlined the history of the project and said the drainage district would cover about 35,100 acres of land in Pitt and Beaufort Counties, or a 5½ miles by 10 miles area.

He said a meeting with the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission in May, 1971 resulted in that commission's approval with two exceptions. He said first the commission suggested that work not be stopped on the channelization during the herring run as first proposed by the watershed plans, and secondly, that work on the creek be done from both sides rather than from only one side as was first proposed.

Lahning noted that there are three projects currently underway in the 1.9 million area Tar River Basin, affecting some 151,000 acres.

He said such projects would "give relief from flooding and provide opportunities for adequate outlet of drainage..."

Lakers Capture 32nd In A Row

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Cavaliers coach Bill Fitch, who was victim No. 32 in the incredible victory streak of the Los Angeles Lakers, says the Lakers will meet their "strongest challenge" in their next two games.

Atlanta, the Lakers' next opponent, "has a strong front line," he said, and the Milwaukee Bucks have Kareem Jabbar.

"It will be a real challenge to Wilt (Chamberlain). If they get by the Bucks, the Lakers will be the greatest team ever," said Fitch.

The Cavaliers lost 113-103 to the Lakers Wednesday night before a crowd of 11,178—the largest crowd ever at the Cleveland Arena for a Cavs' game.

In addition to Los Angeles, the NBA's three other division leaders won Wednesday night.

Milwaukee, in first place in the Midwest Division, beat Cincinnati 115-106. Boston, pacesetter in the Atlantic Division, rallied for a 111-105 victory over Houston, and Baltimore, atop the Central Division, crushed Detroit 111-89.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Chicago walloped Philadelphia 139-107, and Seattle took Atlanta 127-116.

Lakers coach Bill Sharman said Chamberlain, who scored 10 points and grabbed 16 rebounds was "above a super star tonight."

Fitch agreed that it was Chamberlain who turned the game around when it looked as though the Cavaliers might pull an upset.

Cleveland had managed to take a brief five-point lead in the last quarter before the Lakers put on their final drive.

Chamberlain and Jim McMillan, who wound up with 29 points, led the game-winning rally.

McMillen Leads Terps To 83-70 Win Over NCS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tom McMillen of Maryland scored 22 points and held captain Paul Coder of North Carolina State to just two as the 12th ranked Terps defeated the Wolfpack 83-70 in an Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game Wednesday night.

Maryland outscored N.C. State 24-2 in a nine-minute spurt in the second half, and that was the difference. The Wolfpack cut its disadvantage to five points with 2:44 left to play. But Maryland then increased its advantage to 10 points on a three-point play by McMillen and two free throws by Jim O'Brien.

Maryland's 6-foot-9 center Len Elmore outrebounded 7-foot-4 Tom Burleston of State, 16-8. But Burleston made 18 points, two below his average, before fouling out with 3:30 remaining.

Maryland now is 9-1 in all games and 1-1 in the ACC. N.C. State is 6-4 and 0-1.

Duke, which has not had a losing season since 1939, got back to the .500 mark by defeating independent Virginia Tech 83-73.

Richie O'Connor wheeled inside Tech's pressing defense to hit on 11 of 17 field goal attempts and scored a Duke season-high of 26 points. In bringing their record to 5-5 the Blue Devils also scored a season-high 83 points.

"The game was very important for our team, it did a great deal for our confidence," said Duke Coach Bucky Waters.

Clemson got hot in the second half and defeated Georgia Tech 66-57, the first time since 1967 the Tigers had beaten Tech in Atlanta. Clemson shot 63 per cent from the floor to go from a 34-33 halftime lead to a 59-43 advantage with eight minutes left. Dave Angel was high with 21 points for Clemson, whose record is 5-2.

Wake Forest used reserves in the final 10 minutes in defeating Florida Southern 87-64 to break a six-game losing streak. It was Florida Southern's first defeat of the year after seven victories.

Wake Forest's Sam Jackson and Willie Griffin combined for 26 points in the first half. Jackson added only four points and Griffin two after intermission, when they were used sparingly as the Deacons won their third game against seven defeats.

ACC teams are idle tonight and Friday night. On Saturday, Maryland will be at Clemson in a regionally televised game, ninth-ranked Virginia at North Carolina State, and third-ranked North Carolina will be home to Furman.

Wachovia, CT&T Share The Lead

Wachovia Bank and Carolina Telephone moved out into the lead in the Industrial Basketball League with victories last night. Wachovia beat Vermont American, 72-25, while Carolina Telephone nipped State Highway, 53-51.

In the other game, Empire Brush claimed its first win, 38-34, over Greenville Utilities.

Carolina Telephone and Wachovia are now 2-0 in the league, while Empire Brush and State Highway are both 1-1.

Vermont American and Greenville Utilities are both 0-2. In the opener, it was no contest from the start as Wachovia moved out into a 25-9 lead at the half. They really caught fire during the second half, outthrusting Vermont American, 47-16, to win handily.

Travis Russ led Wachovia with 23 points, while Dan Evans had 18, Bill Baggett had 13 and Terry Sparrow had 13. Connie McGowan had 10 to pace Vermont American.

Empire Brush eased out into a 20-17 lead in the first half of its game with Greenville Utilities, and then had to hold on to claim the win. They barely outscored GUC in the second half, 18-17, to hold on for their first victory.

Curtis Barrett led Empire Brush with 11 points, while James Ward had 13 and Leon Harris had 10 for GUC.

In the final game, Carolina Telephone edged out into a 29-23 lead in the first half of play. But they too, had to hold on as State Highway rallied in the second half of the contest. They outscored the Phonemen, 28-24, but fell just short of getting the win.

Willie Wallace led Carolina Telephone with 20 points, while the Highwaymen were led by Fred Mills with 14, Smith Worthington with 12, Phil Page with 11 and Clyde Elks with 10.

After logging more mileage on one trip than many teams get in a single season, the East Carolina University Pirates are at home tonight entertaining Southern Conference rival Richmond.

And Richmond is a team the Bucs would very much like to beat. Last year, in fact, for the past two years, the Spiders have been a thorn in the side of the Bucs, dropping them twice in the Southern Conference Tournament's first round. They have also been pesky during the regular season.

Last year, the Bucs beat them, 79-63, in Richmond, after trailing by nearly 15 points early in the game. Then, at home, the Spiders fell to the Bucs, 82-81, when a last-second shot by the Spiders just missed.

Two years ago, the Spiders dumped the Bucs in Richmond, 90-72, and then lost here, 115-91. In the tournament, the Bucs have met Richmond three times, first in 1966 when Richmond won on a buzzer shot, 76-74. Then, the last two years, the Spiders have won, 75-73 and 69-67.

And now the battle begins again.

A lot may depend on how well the Pirates have recovered from their long road trip. "We saw some good things on the trip," Coach Tom Quinn said. "We attacked the zone defense quite well, and we spent some time brushing up our man-to-man offense."

Quinn had praise for Al Faber for his play in the four road games. Faber scored over 20 points in each of the four games, and attacked the boards hard, too. He was named to the All-Tournament team of five in the Oral Roberts Tournament.

"We were able to call on others too, Quinn said. "(Ray Peszko did a good job for us in part of the Dayton game, and all through the Southern Mississippi game. (Greg) Crouse did an outstanding defensive job for us in several games."

Quinn pointed out that the Pirate fast break went very well against Southern Mississippi. "It went too well; we ran past ourselves and ran out of gas in the second half. But our defense was as good as its been this year in the first half."

Quinn feels that the Pirates have come a long way during the long trip. "We've improved, matured and had to overcome a lot of problems," he said. "We had the long layoff before the tournament, and then had the travel problems to overcome."

The coach was pleased with the level of adaptability the Pirates showed during the trip. "We went back on the court after 10 days off and played with only one practice session. We had to face a fine Loyola team, which by the way handed Hawaii its first loss recently. And even though we lost, I was quite pleased with the way we did."

Quinn added that Peszko is shooting for a starting position on the team. "If he continues to play like he has in the last couple of games, it's going to be hard to keep him out of there."

"We're glad to be home," he added. "The fans will see that we have improved if we are recovered from the travel. But I'm glad we took the trip. The tournament was good for us, and I think we represented the university well — all over the country."

And for the Bucs, it literally was all over the country. They made stops in Memphis, Dallas, Chicago, New Orleans, Hattiesburg, Indianapolis, Dayton, Tulsa, and Atlanta during their trip. While going from Memphis to Tulsa, their plane developed engine trouble and the plane returned to Memphis. They were then routed through Dallas to Tulsa, thus getting their trip off on a bad note. Traveling from Tulsa Friday morning to play Dayton Friday night, they made two transfers, and arrived late in the afternoon for the game.

"We were leg weary against Dayton, and mentally weary against Loyola," Quinn said. "We were far from home, but the hospitality was incomparable in Tulsa. I see that tournament as developing into one of the top ones in the country."

And Quinn still is hoping to get the Eastern Carolina Classic back on its feet, probably with a four-team format. "I'd like to try it again about two years from now, and really give it a good try this time, using those two years to get ready for it."

Meanwhile, there is Richmond. The Spiders are as big a team physically as the Bucs will face this year. "They are very experienced and a typical Richmond team," Quinn said. "They are a group of big, good shooters, but they are not extremely fast. They have great potential, but are off to a slow start."

Richmond is currently 1-1 in the league, having beaten VMI and lost to Davidson. They are 2-7 overall, their latest game a loss to Canisius, 69-55, on Tuesday.

A freshman game between the two schools starts at 5:45 p.m., with the varsity contest scheduled at 8 p.m.

Trevino's Back, And Having Fun

A slimmer Lee Trevino, no longer the "short, fat man" he once called himself, clowns (left) with an umbrella "for the L.A. sun" and then (right) drops his club while admiring one of his tee shots in yesterday's Pro-Celebrity prelude to the Los Angeles Open. Coming off a four-week golf layoff, Trevino has trimmed his weight and taken up daily running to strengthen his legs. (AP Wirephoto)

New Look To Super Mex: He's No Longer Fat Man; Ready For Tour

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — There's a new look to the 1972 model Lee Trevino, a restyled version that's slimmer, trimmer and almost svelt.

He's still the brash and brassy guy who gave himself the label "Super Mex," but his self-applied description as "a short, fat man," no longer is apt.

"I've been working pretty hard for about three weeks now," the 1971 PGA Player of the Year said today before teeing off in the first round of the $125,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open, the traditional kickoff tournament for the long, rich pro tour.

"I started about 15 days before I came out here," Trevino said. "I've been playing and beating balls, sometimes up to a thousand, every day for two weeks. I haven't had a drink in that long ... well, a little on New Year's Eve."

"And I'm running every day, putting in that road work to get the legs in shape."

Trevino, down to about 175 pounds, was one of the favorites for the $25,000 first prize in this first event on the pro tour that offers almost $7.5 million in prize money this year.

The 31-year-old ex-Marine bolted into the front rank of the game's greatest stars last year when he won six tournaments, including that near-incredible sweep of the American, British and Canadian opens in less than a month.

He's coming into the season after a four-week layoff.

"I feel good. Real good. Strong and ready, I'm hitting it pretty good," Trevino said. "I think that layoff was good for me. I wanted the time to get ready."

In addition to Trevino, Arnold Palmer and Billy Casper were the other top choices with such other standouts as George Archer, Miller Barber, Dave Eichelberger, Jerry Heard and Australian Bruce Crampton—all $100,000 winners last year. Defending champion Bob Lunn and England's Tony Jacklin are also on hand.

The final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally on CBS.

Fighters Work Toward Bout

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Heavyweight champion Joe Frazier put in about six rounds Wednesday and challenger Terry Daniels did 17 in preparation for their Jan. 15 title bout here.

Frazier started with light-heavy George E. Lee of New Orleans but less than one round was enough for the champion's manager, Yancey Durham, who figured Frazier needed more competition.

Frazier and Ray Anderson of Akron, Ohio, then went at each other for three spirited rounds to the applause of fan in the French Quarter penthouse gym.

Frazier wound up the day with two rounds against heavyweight Mike Boswell of Youngstown, Ohio.

Daniels worked 17 rounds, four of them against Texas heavyweight Sonny Moore who continued to imitate Frazier's boring-in style.

Ronnie Wright, the challenger's trainer, said Daniels "looked 100 per cent better" after the workout than he did Tuesday.

Finances Top NCAA Agenda

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association prepared to open its 66th annual convention today by thrashing out proposed restrictions on financial aid and athletic scholarships which have drawn the wrath of many of the country's top football coaches.

In a preliminary action Wednesday before the formal opening, Illinois State University was slapped with a year's probation for violating NCAA provisions governing financial aid, eligibility, recruiting and practice time.

A round-table discussion was scheduled this afternoon to discuss the proposed restrictions on financial aid, which have been recommended by a special committee and backed in principle by the policy-making NCAA Council.

After earlier evaluation of the committee's broad concepts—financial aid based on need, limiting the number of athletic scholarships, etc.—the Council, drafted special legislative proposals to incorporate these changes in the constitutions and bylaws.

However, no formal consideration can be given the amendments at the convention. Following presentations by a special panel, a vote will be held Saturday during the windup business session on whether to hold an unprecedented special convention prior to July 1 to consider adoption of the amendments.

The major proposals that actually will come up for a vote by the NCAA's 656 member institutions Saturday would significantly tighten the recruiting of prospective student-athletes.

Wednesday, the Council made a slight change in its resolution to determine if a special convention should be called to consider the financial aid recommendations. The Council said it would first introduce a resolution to consider at any special convention both legislative reorganization—separate divisions for large and small schools—as well as the financial aid proposals.

If that resolution fails, the Council said it would push for a special convention to consider reorganization only. If that, too, fails, it will propose considering financial aid only.

Illinois State's probation, which resulted from at least six violations, did not include any sanctions. This means that Illinois State's entire athletic program is subject to review by the NCAA but there is no ban on postseason competition.

Griese Wins First Battle; Is Picked All-Pro Over Staubach

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Griese of the Miami Dolphins won the first battle of the Super Bowl passers today when he edged Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys for the quarterback's spot on The Associated Press All-Pro football team.

Griese, who passed for 19 touchdowns during the regular season, took the coveted quarterback's spot with 25 votes to 21 for Staubach in the balloting that salutes the top players in the American and National conferences.

The 60-man panel representing each city in the National Football League virtually ignored last year's No. 1 quarterback, John Brodie of San Francisco, who collected just one vote.

In all only four players repeated from the 1970 team—tight end Charley Sanders of the Detroit Lions and three defenders, end Carl Eller of Minnesota, tackle Alan Page of the Vikings and cornerback Jimmy Johnson of the 49ers.

Five of the new faces were from the American Conference champion Dolphins, who took more places on the squad than any other team. Included were Griese, running back Larry Csonka, wide receiver Paul Warfield, guard Larry Little and placekicker Garo Yepremian.

The Cowboys, who will represent the National Conference in the Jan. 16 Super Bowl against the Dolphins, placed three players although Staubach missed in his bid. The Cowboys making it were tackle Rayfield Wright, guard John Niland and defensive tackle Bob Lilly.

The most interesting vote on the defensive unit was for the middle linebacking spot, which went to Willie Lanier of Kansas City over Dick Butkus of the Chicago Bears, the perennial choice. Lanier drew 23 votes while Butkus was second with 14.

The offensive team also had John Brockington of Green Bay at a running back spot, Otis Taylor of Kansas City at wide receiver, Ron Yary of Minnesota at tackle and Forrest

Blue of San Francisco at center.

The other defensive All-Pro's were Bubba Smith of Baltimore at end, Ted Hendricks of the Colts and Dave Wilcox of San Francisco at outside linebacker, Bill Bradley of Philadelphia at free safety, Rick Volk of Baltimore at strong safety and Willie Brown of Oakland at cornerback.

Would Rather Have Victory

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It's not that George Allen isn't grateful.

It's just that George Allen is ... well, George Allen.

"I'd gladly trade the honor for a victory over San Francisco," Allen said Wednesday when told he had been named the National Football League Coach of the Year by The Associated Press.

He referred to his Washington Redskins' 24-20 loss to the San Francisco 49ers in a National Conference playoff game.

The loss ended Washington's chances of going to the Super Bowl following their best season since 1945 when they won the world championship.

The 49-year-old Allen moved to Washington a year ago from the Los Angeles Rams. He then began a stream of trades that built the Skins from an also-ran to a contender.

"The future is now," Allen proclaimed on Jan. 7, 1971.

"There is nothing like winning," he said frequently.

Allen's first acquisition as coach-vice president of the Skins was Billy Kilmer, who was to back up starting quarterback Sonny Jurgensen. When Jurgensen was injured in pre-season, Kilmer took over and led the team to victories in its first five games.

The big trade was with the Rams, a massive deal that saw Allen obtain what turned out to be the nucleus of his "Over-the-Hill Gang" defensive unit: linebackers Myron Pottios and Jack Pardee and defensive tackle Diron Talbert, plus three other players and a draft choice.

To the Rams went seven draft picks.

Allen, who posted a 49-17 record in five years with Los Angeles, had to overcome the injuries of Jurgensen and wide receiver Charley Taylor, who missed the last eight games.

His selection as Coach of the Year, Allen said, was due to "a fine job by our coaching staff and total effort by all of our Redskins players."

Allen polled 33 of the 60 votes cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and sports broadcasters, easily outdistancing Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins and Ed Khayat of the Philadelphia Eagles, who tied for second with eight votes apiece.

John Mazur of the New England Patriots received three votes, Bud Grant of Minnesota and Tommy Prothro of Los Angeles got two apiece and Don McCafferty of Baltimore, Tom Landry of Dallas, J. D. Roberts of New Orleans and Nick Skorich of Cleveland received one vote each.

Cougars Fall To New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Kentucky Colonels are No. 1 in the East ... they also might be considered No. 1 in the West.

Kentucky, the American Basketball Association East Division leader, bolstered by Louie Dampier's 37 points, posted a 129-123 triumph Wednesday night over the Utah Stars, the ABA West leader.

The contest was knotted 28-all at the end of the first quarter but then the Colonels scrambled to a 65-59 halftime edge and maintained their advantage as Dampier poured in 14 of Kentucky's last 19 points.

In Wednesday's other ABA game, the New York Nets upended the Carolina Cougars 125-116.

Dan Issel added 31 points for the victors, with Ron Boone scoring 25 points for Utah and keeping the Stars in the game the second half.

Tom Washington, who canned 21 points and snared a season-high 21 rebounds, learned it was Nets Coach Lou Carnesecca's 47th birthday Wednesday and spread the word to the rest of the team.

The Nets then made their coach's birthday a happy one by defeating the Cougars for the fourth time in five meetings this season.

Rick Barry paced New York with 32 points and Bill Melchioni added 29.

Larry Miller, who notched 29 points for the losers, fueled a late Carolina rally that narrowed the gap to 109-107 but the Nets pulled away in the closing moments.

Furman Dumps Citadel, 101-86

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Furman's towering front line has propelled the Paladins into just the spot picked for them in preseason analyses—first place in the Southern Conference.

Bud Biery, Roy Simpson and Russ Hunt combined for 57 points Wednesday night as Furman raced to an easy 101-86 victory over The Citadel.

The win put the Paladins in undisputed possession of the conference lead with a 3-1 record. Idle Davidson is next at 3-2.

The 6-foot-6 Biery poured in 25 points and hauled down 15 rebounds. Simpson, the 6-foot-9 junior college transfer, added 17 points and the 6-foot-8 Hunt had 15.

John Sutor paced The Citadel with 25.

Meanwhile, two other teams in the conference ventured outside Wednesday night and were annihilated.

Appalachian State was trounced by East Tennessee 96-65 and Virginia Military suffered a 111-71 loss at Eastern Illinois.

Appalachian fell behind 20-6 after the first eight minutes and was never in the ball game. The Mountaineers were led by John Rutt and Erwin Hill with 14 points each. Tommy Martin had 29 for the winners.

VMI hit only 32 per cent of its floor shots as powerful Eastern Illinois put six men in double figures. Rod Brewer was high for the Keydets with 18.

Duke Athletic Director Quits

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke University has announced that Athletic Director Edmund M. "Eddie" Cameron will be given a leave of absence Feb. 1 prior to retiring effective Aug. 31.

Cameron is ending a 45-year association with the athletic staff, during which he has been football and basketball coach.

The university announced Wednesday that Carl James, associate director of athletics, will assume the responsibilities of athletic director during Cameron's leave of absence. Although Duke officials did not indicate who eventually would succeed Cameron, the 42-year-old James appeared to have the inside track.

James played football at Duke through 1951 and was a member of the track team. From 1954 to 1966 he was assistant to Cameron and Duke's chief recruiter. Then he left Duke to enter the trucking business and returned in May of 1969 as associate athletic director.

Cameron is a native of Irwin, Pa., and was graduated from Washington & Lee University in 1924. A year later he became head football coach at Greenbrier Military Academy. In 1926 he went to Duke as freshman coach.

In 1929 he took over as varsity backfield coach. That same year he was named head basketball coach.

In basketball, his teams posted a 226-99 record over 14 seasons. They won three Southern Conference titles and were second five times, never finishing out of the first division.

In 1924 he was named acting head football coach and athletic director when Wallace Wade left for duty with the Army. Cameron's teams won three straight Southern Conference titles and lost only once to a college team in 1944-45—war years.

He coached Duke in its first bowl victory, 29-26 over Alabama in the 1945 Sugar Bowl game.

His football teams had an overall 25-11-1 record.

He was one of the founders of the Atlantic Coast Conference when it was formed in 1953. For years he has been its basketball committee chairman.

He has played a major role in the new physical expansion program of the Duke physical education and athletic facilities.

Dave Nelson of the Washington Senators went to bat 425 times before he hit his first major league home run.

Manny Sanguillen, despite his running speed, grounded into 21 double plays with Pittsburgh last season.

Dock Ellis of the Pittsburgh Pirates set a record when he made five putouts in one game last June.

Retirement.

The end of work, or the beginning of worry?

Most people look toward retirement as a time of relaxation and enjoyment. And it can be if you prepare for it. But if you don't, it can be a time of worry and discontentment. A time when you can look back and think of a million ways that you could have saved, but didn't.

Well, there's no better time to think about retirement than now, while you're working.

One easy way to save on a regular basis is by purchasing U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months

(4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 ... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Buy U.S. Savings Bonds. They'll help make your retirement just what you want it to be.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.

Tax Booklet Is Available

A booklet offering information on how to fill out Federal tax returns will be sold at both postal service facilities in Greenville, Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills announced.

Mills said that "Your Federal Income Tax" was written by the Internal Revenue service and contains examples to illustrate how the tax law applies to actual situations. He added that a special feature of the booklet is the sample, filled-in return, Form 1040, keyed to pages where explanations can be found for each entry on the return.

The postmaster reported that the 160-page booklet will be on sale at the postal facilities immediately and will cost 75 cents a copy.

"By selling this booklet at postal facilities in the Greenville areas we are offering a convenient service to our customers," Mills said. "We are participating in a nationwide program to make the tax booklet available to the public in over 15,000 postal facilities.

Another IRS publication, "Tax Guide for Small Business," will also be sold at both facilities, he said. This booklet contains data concerning federal income, excise and employment taxes and also contains a 1972 tax calendar with due dates for various tax and information returns and payments, it was reported.

Avoids Colds By Avoiding People

NEW YORK (UPI) —The only way to escape catching cold, according to a pamphlet issued by the U.S. Public Health Service: avoid all contact with people. Even the most considerate person is a source of infection at times. The pamphlet particularly cautions against contact with the person who brags about never letting a cold get him down. He goes about his business, spreading his cold wherever he goes.

FROM CHICAGO TRIBUNE-NEW YORK NEWS SYNDICATE, INC.

THE BEST OF DEAR ABBY

A selection of the wittiest and wisest—and most entertaining—letters in Abigail Van Buren's mail bag in 1971.

Through her sprightly replies, Abby in reality is applying love and understanding—and plain old horse sense—to the human problems of her readers.

DEAR ABBY: You told Willie, who had been giving his female bookkeeper "a few kisses" because he couldn't afford to give her a pay raise, that the cheapest solution would be to give her a raise. [Willie's wife had already caught wise.]

You are probably on sound ground, marriage-wise. But are you on sound economic ground?

Because of the wage freeze, Willie cannot give his bookkeeper a money raise until at least Nov. 13.

Isn't Willie, therefore, morally obligated to keep kissing his bookkeeper until he can grant her a pay raise?

R. L. L.: CLEVELAND

DEAR R. L. L.: Willie has it made. He can't give her a pay raise or Nixon will nail him. And if his wife catches him kissing his bookkeeper, he'll get it in the assets.

DEAR ABBY: I urge you to run for the office of President of the United States.

You have everything a good President needs. Intelligence, common sense, courage, and a real understanding of people's problems. Furthermore, you're uncorrupted and fair-minded.

I feel certain that with Abigail Van Buren as our President, we would have peace and friendly relations with our foreign neighbors.

If you would become a candidate, I can promise you the support of millions. And campaign funds would be the least of your worries. How about it?

"ABBY FOR PRESIDENT"

DEAR "ABBY FOR": Thanks, but no thanks. Not that I'm reluctant to serve my country. But I'm not so sure how my husband would feel about being "First Lady."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just received an invitation to a surprise 25th wedding anniversary party for a couple I'll call "The Johnsons," which is not their real name. We have been friends with the Johnsons for many years. Here is the problem. About five years ago Mr. Johnson and I started having an affair, and it's still going on, but nobody is wise. We really love each other, but we know it's hopeless. My question: Should we go to the party?

It would be difficult for me to sit there and pretend to be happy while Mr. Johnson pretends he loves his wife. And it would probably be embarrassing for Mr. Johnson, too.

On the other hand, there is no excuse I could give my husband for not going. My only out would be to get sick at the last minute. But if I did, my husband wouldn't go without me and I would feel like a rat making him miss a good party. I am not a very good liar. What should I do?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: If you've been carrying on with Mr. Johnson for the last five years and nobody is wise, you are a better liar than you think you are. You'd be better off going to the party and pretending to be happy, than staying home and pretending to be sick.

DEAR ABBY: Would you believe that my wife got an overdraft notice from the bank informing her that she was $17.88 overdrawn in her checking account, so she sat down and wrote out a CHECK for $17.88 to cover it and mailed it to the bank?

LOVE HER ANYWAY

DEAR LOVE: With some of the mail I get, I can believe anything.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I were very much in love when we married 12 years ago. She was brought up in one religion and I in another, so in order to be "fair," we were married by a Justice of the Peace.

After our first baby came, she wanted it baptized [in her former faith] so I said, "Fine." Then she decided she wanted to attend her former church again. I said, "All right. Just don't start nagging me to go with you." She promised she wouldn't, and she didn't.

Another baby. Another baptism. Pretty soon she started getting a ride to church and back with the man across the street who had the same kind of mixed marriage we had. [His wife didn't attend any church.]

Are you ahead of my story? You guessed it. My wife and this neighbor announced that they are "in love" and want to be free to marry each other.

If you can see the moral to this real-life soap opera, please put it in your column in capital letters! STUPID

DEAR STUPID: I see the moral. It's "DON'T SELL RELIGION SHORT. IT ISN'T DEAD. IT'S ONLY SLEEPING."

DEAR ABBY: I have a rather large rump and my husband doesn't like me to wear a girdle. I am far from "firm," and I feel so sloppy without one, but every time I wear a girdle my husband starts in on me.

This has caused a slight rift between us. What should I do? RUMPELSTILSKENS

DEAR RUMP: Wear pantyhose. They'll sort of bring everything together.

DEAR ABBY: Our middle son, Russell [made-up name] is our problem. He is a very intelligent boy of 19 who went to college for one year just to please us, then he quit. "Why waste your money and my time?" he asked.

His grades were above average and he could have continued. His reason for quitting? He likes to work with his hands. He is now going to a trade school and we are so disappointed in him. Now, I'm not putting down people who work with their hands, but it seems to me a man who works with his hands does so only because he isn't smart enough to work with his mind. Russell's father and grandfather are professional men, and both Russell's brothers plan to enter a profession.

Can you put something in your column stating a college degree is absolutely necessary these days, Abby? After Russell graduates from college he can do anything he chooses, but we want him to finish college first. Thank you. RUSSELL'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Sorry, but I don't agree with you. College is not for everybody. If Russell likes to work with his hands, that's what he should do. It's not true those who work with their hands aren't smart enough to work with their minds. Some handwork requires as much skill, talent and brains as many professions. Let Russell do his own thing. Happiness is working at that which gives one pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: I am a professor of theology who has been fascinated with your column for many years.

How do you arrive at your answers? Do you think you have some special divinely inspired power that directs you to guide others? Or do you follow a certain philosophy of life? And if so, whose?

Your answers are so direct and to the point, I sometimes think it is just a matter of common sense. Yet so few people have it. And finally, Abby, how long did it take you to write today's column? F. M. P., Ph.D.

DEAR F. M. P.: I think my answers are simply common sense in a capsule. And it took me about 1 hour and 53 years to write today's column.

DEAR ABBY: I recently turned 18, so last night when I was out with my boy friend and another couple, I mentioned that I was going to register so I could vote.

The other couple (both of them are old enough to vote) said they had no intentions of registering because politics are so rotten these days there is no point in voting. And my boy friend agreed with them!

I just bit my tongue and said nothing because I was outnumbered. I read your column every day, Abby, and I've never run into a problem like this.

Maybe if you say something it will change the minds of people like my friends? CONCERNED AT 18

DEAR CONCERNED: No one said it more brilliantly than Edmund Burke: "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

In a democracy, the place to improve the quality of leadership is in the voting booth. You should have spoken up.

DEAR ABBY: You recently wrote that there is more fighting going on in the average American home because of hair than anything else.

I am a girl, 19, and I want to know why adults are so quick to judge a person by his outward appearance? If a boy has long hair he is taken for a hippie, radical, pot smoker, homosexual or freak. Why?

It makes me sad that outward appearances mean everything to adults. They don't bother to look at a person and see beyond his hair or his dress. They don't care what's on the inside.

Why can't adults forget what a person looks like, Abby, and judge him for what he is? They'd get to know a lot more beautiful people they now pass up because they look like trash. SPEAKING FOR MANY

DEAR SPEAKING: I agree, it's what a person is on the inside that's important. But we can't go around with X-ray eyes, bypassing appearances in order to look into a person's heart, soul and motivations. So, I ask you, why would a respectable girl want to get herself dressed up to look like a streetwalker? And why would a decent productive young man want to look like a shiftless, unwashed, bushy-headed bum?

Long hair, if it's clean and cared for, doesn't offend me. But long, greasy, neglected hair on men or women—young or old—does.

A person may be immaculately clean, but if he looks dirty, I don't want him serving me in a restaurant. And I haven't the time to give him a physical.

True, perhaps we are missing out on meeting a lot of beautiful people because they look like trash. But who wants to pick thru what looks like trash in order to meet beautiful people?

Somewhere there should be a happy medium. And the I respect a person's right to comb his hair and dress the way he wishes, if he gets himself dressed up to look like he's going to a costume party, he shouldn't feel that society is picking on him if somebody laughs.

DEAR ABBY: The other night some friends of ours and my husband were at a party. Everyone had a few drinks, and I had enough to make me woozy so I went into the bedroom and stretched out on the bed. I was lying there with a cold wash rag over my face and my eyes closed when someone came into the bedroom and kissed me. I was afraid to open my eyes to see who it was, but I am sure it wasn't my husband.

I am afraid to ask any of the men who were at the party for fear of asking the wrong one. What must I do?

SURPRISED

DEAR SURPRISED: Forget it. Maybe it was one of the girls.

DEAR ABBY: I am an Italian who reads your articles in the Rome Daily American. I am very much interested in meeting the Memphis, Tenn., lady who is looking for a husband.

I am 32 years old and am 5 feet 11. I am very well built and have olive skin and green eyes and plenty of black hair. I speak five languages and come from Italian nobility on my mother's side. I play the mandolin very well and sing romantic songs.

The Memphis lady says she is self supporting, is in good health and she owns a late model American-made automobile. If she would like to correspond with me, please ask her to send me a recent photograph of the automobile.

VITO IN NAPOLI

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is being married soon. She will have a formal church wedding followed by a reception. Toward the end of the reception she plans to change into her going away clothes, for which she has selected a HotPants outfit. Abby, I have nothing against HotPants, but don't you think she could have selected something a little more appropriate?

MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Possibly not.

DEAR ABBY: Tell the woman who asked you whether or not she should marry an ex-press to go ahead and marry him. He will make an excellent husband. He already has taken the oaths of poverty, obedience and chastity.

BEAT IN BUCYRUS, O.

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I was in the hospital for several weeks and became very friendly with Gloria, a patient who shared my room. Gloria was a divorcee, my age. We exchanged a lot of confidences and I told her about a fling I had with an old beau to get even with my husband who had a thing going with my best friend.

When my husband would come to visit me, he'd kid around with Gloria, and after he'd leave she'd tell me how cool she thought he was.

I teased my husband about Gloria's digging him and he just laughed.

Well Gloria got out of the hospital before I did, and wouldn't you know, she managed to get together with my husband. I didn't find out about this until after I caught them in my house in my bed, and the kids were even home at the time.

My husband says it was all my fault because I threw Gloria at him. Don't you think they were equally guilty? I am madder at her than I am at him. Have you any advice for me? CHEATED ON

DEAR CHEATED: Yes. Don't ever tell your husband another woman thinks he's cool. It drives up his thermostat.

DEAR ABBY: This is not a letter seeking advice, it is a statement of horror at the vulnerability of the female species. After reading a best seller which instructs women on how to be "sensual," I have concluded that I am certainly not sensual, nor do I want to be!

If a man has to take a woman for a "trial run" as if she were an automobile, I'll probably be called back to the factory due to a leaky fuel pump. And according to the author's more descriptive passages, I'd say she is well on her way to her 50th six-thousand-mile check-up. I hope her muffler falls off!

It gives me a pain in the pocketbook to realize that I spent $1.25 for that book. Sign me.

SENSIBLE, NOT SENSUOUS

DEAR SENSIBLE: You're beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorced woman in my early 40s. Where can I find a man in my age bracket who would like an attractive companion for dinner and the movies without expecting sex afterwards? I can't afford to travel far.

It seems that all the eligible men in the northern part of New Jersey expect sex after an evening's entertainment.

"J" IN LINCOLN PARK, N. J.

DEAR "J": Try Southern New Jersey. The men there are much more civilized and domesticated, I'm told.

DEAR ABBY: Tell me honestly how a guy can concentrate in a classroom when right across from him sits a pretty girl in a see-thru blouse.

When I should be concentrating on my studies, I find my mind slipping off on an entirely different subject. Don't get me wrong, Abby, I have nothing against girls looking sexy, but there's a time and place for everything, and I'm in college to prepare for my future. —DISTRACTED

DEAR DISTRACTED: Maybe she's in college to prepare for her future. Sublimate and concentrate!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are the only young couple on our block who have no children, but we have two poodle pups we think the world of.

In a way, those poodles are our "children." We have toys for them, and all the neighborhood kids love to play with the pups.

Our poodles will be a year old soon, and I would like to give a birthday party for them. I would invite the neighborhood kids over for birthday cake and ice cream; and I'd have crazy hats and balloons just like a regular birthday party. I'd even take pictures of it. My question: Do you think people will think we are completely nuts? CHULA VISTA

DEAR CHULA: No. Just "arf" nuts.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know your thoughts on entertaining the "boss." Is this still being done as a means of advancement? I have never been able to issue such invitations, and my husband agrees that we shouldn't. [Of course, we never "advanced" very far, either.]

We would reciprocate an invitation should we receive one from someone higher up in my husband's organization, but is it our place to make the first move? Does a boss expect this? Or would he consider it an attempt at making "brownie points"?

Ours is a common problem, yet I have never seen it discussed in your column.—QUANDARY

DEAR QUANDARY: The first move should be made by the one higher up in the pecking order. Entertaining the boss is still used by some who hope it will help them at the office. But if a mediocre man is destined to meet his Waterloo, even his wife's Beef Wellington won't save him.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding trumpet playing and kissing: I have been married to a trumpet player for 28 blissful years. Altho he is no longer a career musician he plays his trumpet each evening to keep his lips hot. The nights he plays "The Flight of the Bumble Bee"—WOW!!! WELL-KISSED

DEAR WELL: You're lucky you aren't married to a violinist. They just fiddle around.

DEAR ABBY: Last year while my husband was going with another woman he gave her a Swiss watch for Christmas. They had a fight in February and he broke up with her and asked her for the watch. She gave it to him. Now my husband says I can have the watch if I want it. It looks good as new. Should I wear it? NOT PROUD

DEAR NOT: Why not—if it keeps time. [Look inside. Maybe he gave the other woman the "works".]

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell me if it is possible for a woman to conceive while she's in the water. I mean in a pool, river or bath? MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: Not without a man.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to say, "right on" to Peg who resented the fact there were plenty of nude girlie shows for men to enjoy, but no beautiful, nude men for women to look at.

I think it's time we women got a peek. ANOTHER PEG

DEAR PEG: Down, girl. As Spiro Agnew said, "When you've seen one, you've seen 'em all."

DEAR ABBY: Recently, a date of mine kissed me in the ear and injured my eardrum. He caused a suction which blistered the eardrum and made it hemorrhage. Altho my hearing is not permanently impaired, I have spent a considerable amount of money seeing an ear specialist.

I really think this fellow should pay for all the medical expense since he caused the damage, but since he didn't do it intentionally, I suggested that he split the bill with me. He just laughed.

I know there is no way I can force him to pay, but under the circumstances, do you think I am being unreasonable in asking him to at least pay half?

NO JOKE IN INDIANA

DEAR NO JOKE: Certainly not! I've heard of girls paying thru the nose for a little thrill—but this is ridiculous!

The Worry Clinic Pitfalls Await Usual Couples

Note Dr. Goff's sage advice about marriage! For thousands of divorces are unnecessary. They are due to inadequate knowledge of the psychology of the opposite sex. This newspaper has insured thousands of marriages against divorce! For newspapers are America's best educators!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case S-563: Dr. Charles R. Goff served as pastor of the skyscraper Chicago Temple for

19 years; then became Radio Pastor of the Methodist Men's Hour on nationwide radio. "I am vitally interested in the Scientific Marriage Foundation," he said at our last Board Meeting. "For I remarried 19 couples who had previously been divorced. "If they had understood the factors necessary for happy wedded life, they would never have broken up their original happy homes. "But society has failed to educate young people for successful married life. "So they blunder along and often make mistakes that they could have avoided if forewarned. "One such young husband dropped into my study at the Chicago Temple. "He admitted that he and his wife had parted over what now seemed rather trivial faults. "But he said he had lost track of her, since she had moved and left no forwarding address. "One day he visited Marshall Field's Store and was riding the escalator to the 3rd floor when he saw his former wife coming down the opposite escalator. "Their eyes met and he waved. "She waved back. "He was desperately eager to reach her but had to wait till he got to the top and then stepped on the 'Down' escalator. "Fortunately she had dawdled after reaching the first floor, probably hoping he might follow her.

"So they made up and came to me to be remarried." Marriage Pitfalls Here are some of the common pitfalls that you should understand in advance, if you wish

- to stay happily married:
- (1) Avoid crossing rigid racial, religious and cultural lines.
 - (2) Don't marry in the teens, for 50 percent of such end in divorce by the 5th wedding anniversary, due to confusion of sexual magnetism with true love.
 - Plus juvenile instalment buying beyond their incomes.
 - And inadequate experience at earning or budgeting a pay check.
 - (3) Realize that men have a much greater craving for erotic calories, as well as the dinner table variety.
 - So wives must function as one-wife harem to keep their mates satisfied.
 - Divorce usually is not due to a wife's poor culinary skill in the kitchen but to her failure to serve adequate "cheesecake" in the boudoir!

(4) Husbands must beware of the filting they will receive when the first baby arrives! For women are 75 percent maternal and not over 25 percent sexual creatures.
So they shower 100 percent of erotic and maternal attention on their young husband the first year or so.
But with the coming of the first baby, they instantly shift 75 percent of that cooing and attention to the infant.
Many angry husbands allege their wives even shift 95 percent to Junior!
But this is normal, so you husbands need not feel deflated in ego!
Women were made that way! It's their innate nature!
(5) Become active together in the same church!

For religion promotes an extroverted, unselfish outlook and love must be nourished by unselfishness!

The bidding:
West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass 2 NT
Pass 3 NT Pass Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♣
A completely uninspired defense permitted South, the declarer at three no trump, to emerge unscathed in today's hand.
West opened the bidding with one spade and North overcalled with two clubs. South made a very sporting bid of two no trump and his partner was well within himself in carrying on to game.
Inasmuch as the opposition appeared to be fully prepared for a spade lead, West decided to launch a surprise attack by leading an unbid suit. He accordingly opened the queen of hearts. The king was played from dummy to hold the trick.
South could now count eight tricks—one heart, two diamonds, and five clubs. There appeared to be no way to develop a ninth without enlisting the aid of the opposition by means of an end-play. In order to exert pressure on West in discarding, declarer decided to cash out his winners.

Last year, Capri was "Import Car of the Year."

This year, Mercury Montego is "Car of the Year."

When you're hot, you're hot!

Not one, but two winners of Road Test Magazine's awards are now in our showroom.

Mercury Montego, the new personal-size car with big-car ride, was selected "Car of the Year" for 1972 by Road Test magazine. Its editors considered more than 40 models to determine the winner.

Last year Capri, the sexy European at a shamefully low price, won the "Import Car of the Year" award over all contenders.

Impressive? We think so... and we're sure you'll agree when you see and drive these outstanding cars. Visit us soon! Discover for yourself why Capri sold more cars in its first year than any other import did, and why Mercury Montego sales during November were up 147% over the same period last year.

Capri and Mercury Montego: both winners and just two of the many better ideas we have for you! Remember, nobody in the business has more kinds of cars for more kinds of people.
