Planning New School-Financing Few New Proposals Offered By Nixon In 'State Of Union'

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged a Democratic Congress today to reject "the intense pressures of a political year" and enact an array of stalled administration measures, an enlarged defense budget and a "new technology program" to promote research and create jobs.

In a 4,000-word State of the Union address, prepared for delivery at a live-broadcast joint session, Nixon said he and Congress should close ranks "in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or nation."

The President, an announced candidate for a second term, said he wants a bigger defense budget and a "new technology program" to encourage research, create jobs and make American industry more competitive abroad.

He promised to unveil later in the year a plan to finance public schools without burdening the property-tax system.

Nixon's delivery of the message coincided with the beginning of his fourth year in office.

Otherwise, Nixon said little about new initiatives but stressed instead that Congress should act on "more than 90 major administration proposals" such as welfare reform, government reorganization and revenue sharing that have been hanging fire for a year or longer.

In a companion 15,000-word written State of the Union document, the chief executive warmed over his past arguments on behalf of the pending bills.

In his written presentation, Nixon said his planned visits this year to Communist China and the Soviet Union "will mean not that our differences have disappeared or will disappear in the near future." The important thing, he said, "is that we talk about these differences rather than fight about them."

"It would be a serious mistake," he continued, "to say that nothing can come of our expanded communications with Peking and Moscow. But it would also be a mistake to expect too much too quickly."

Discussing home-front reaction to the Vietnam war, Nixon wrote: "There has been a tendency among some to swing from one extreme to the other in the wake of Vietnam, from wanting to do too much in the world to wanting to do too little. We must resist this temptation to overreact."

For the United States to withdraw from international responsibilities "would be to make a dangerous error," he said. If anyone had doubts the political season is at hand, Nixon erased them at the outset of his speech for the joint session.

At a time when at least 10 members of Congress are vying for Nixon's office, he said: "There are more candidates for the presidency in this chamber today than there probably have been at any one time in the whole history of the Republic..."

"I know the political pressures in this session of the Congress will be great... There is an honest division of opinion, not only between the parties but within the parties, on some issues of foreign policy and domestic policy as well."

"However, there are great national problems that are so vital they transcend partisanship. Let us have our debates. Let us have our honest differences. But let us join in keeping the national interest first. Let us join in making sure that legislation the nation needs does not become hostage to the political interest of any party or any person."

In explaining the scant number of fresh ideas he was submitting, Nixon said, "There is ample precedent, in this election year, for me to present you with a huge list of new proposals, knowing full well that there could be no possibility that they could be enacted even if you worked night and day."

Saying "I shall not do that," Nixon contended he was limiting himself to "only vital programs which are within the capacity of the Congress to enact, within the capacity of the budget to finance, and which I believe should be above partisanship."

The President, after painting a glowing picture of developments during the first three years of his term, said anew: "We must now go on to build a generation of peace."

But he added that until an international arm-reduction agreement is reached, "we must maintain the strength necessary to deter war." He went on: "Because of rising research-and-development costs, because of increases in military and civilian pay, and because of the need to proceed with new weapons systems, my budget for the coming fiscal year will provide for an increase in defense spending."

Details will be announced

Monday when Nixon submits his budget for the 1973 book-keeping year that begins July 1.

That budget presumably will disclose some details, too, of the President's plan for "major initiatives to stimulate more imaginative use of America's great capacity for technological

Lt. Gov. Taylor Gives High Priority To N.C. Environment In Future

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The state of environment of North Carolina in the future is a major concern of Lieutenant Governor Pat Taylor. A candidate for governor in the forthcoming elections, Taylor, on a campaign visit to Greenville Wednesday afternoon, talked to some extent on this subject.

"We must plan for the future population growth of North Carolina," he commented. "We ought not to let towns grow up and then become urban slums." Taylor believes that now is the time to "get land for parks while there is still land available. There needs to be open space for all types of areas."

He sees a pressing necessity for county governments to play a more concrete role in state plans for wiser utilization of land areas. "Several years ago," Taylor pointed out, "county governments were authorized to zone land."

In reply to a question about the effectiveness of county governments in this role, Taylor said, "They are not doing much about it. There must be better leadership and incentive within the county to do this."

"Counties should for example be encouraged to provide sanitary land fills," he added.

On the issue of total resources and pollution problems, the gubernatorial candidate commented "I think you will see more and more regulations on the use of air, water and land resources within the near future."

When asked about his thoughts on the future prospects of the medical school at East Carolina University, Taylor observed that he had talked to Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of ECU. "I told him I'd

Picture Given County

Pitt County Commissioners, at a special session yesterday, accepted a picture of the county court house that burned in 1910, from Thurman Moore of Greenville.

The picture will be hung in the commissioners' room in the court house annex.

Charles Gaskins, chairman of the board, told commissioners that Moore and his brother, Tom Moore who died last week, had indicated sometime ago that they wished to present the picture to the county.

The building that was destroyed by fire more than 50 years ago was located on the site of the present court house, but was a smaller structure.

Another presentation was made at the meeting also.

Mrs. Margaret Roberts, clerk to the board, presented former board chairman Vernon Cox with a resolution from the board commending him and expressing the appreciation from the board for his service as chairman of the commissioners during 1971.

In addition to the presentations, commissioners yesterday reviewed changes in the property tax laws.

Tax Receipts

December, 1971 local one percent sales and use tax collection have been compiled by the State Department of Revenue in Raleigh. A total of $5,978,213.54 was collected throughout the state.

Area counties received amounts as follows: Pitt, $106,143.93; Wayne, $109,153.89; Greene, $6,890.38; Craven, $80,110.42; Beaufort, $45,864.78; and Lenoir, $89,839.56.

ECU Plans International Studies Expansion

Dr. Leo Jenkins today revealed plans to greatly expand programs of international studies at East Carolina University.

The ECU president announced plans for an exchange of university personnel between Greenville and Japan and also between Greenville and Africa.

In opening remarks to a two-day Latin America symposium, Jenkins also said, "There are plans afoot to establish a campus in Latin America and this summer Dr. Wilkins Winn of the Latin American committee will lead a group of students to summer studies in Cuenavaca, Mexico. "We here at ECU believe strongly in the value of a foreign educational experience for our students."

"We feel that nothing will be more broadening in an intellectual sense."

The Latin American symposium opened this morning with a host of dignitaries and officials attending the sessions. Theme of the symposium is "Emerging Perspectives" for Latin America. Lectures today included a look at Andean America as a case study in Latin American problems; Latin America and its relations with the United States; an analysis of Fidel Castro's rise to power in Cuba.

Dr. Kermit L. King, formerly president of the University of Liberia and now in the ECU Office of International Studies, joined Dr. Winn in a discussion of aspects of international studies.

Others on today's symposium program included John H. Crimmins, deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs, Anthony L. Furr, Vice President, Wachovia International Investment

Corp., and Patricio Rodrigues, First Secretary for Economic Affairs, Embassy of Chile.

Symposium leaders included Dr. Edward Leahy of the ECU Department of Geography and Gen. John A. Lang Jr., ECU Vice President for External Affairs.

In opening remarks, Dr. Jenkins pointed to ECU's already established European study program now located at Bonn, Germany, and outlined further plans.

"Nothing can serve better to acquaint our young people with the area visited, with its culture, its values, its characteristics in an esthetic sense, and at the same time its opportunities in an economic sense."

He said this provides a yardstick by which to "better judge our own American society."

Jenkins added, "We see our mission here at ECU not only in terms of teaching the student how to make a living, which is important, but also what to do with this living, which is equally important."

"We feel that both purposes will be served through the medium of our program of international students."

At A Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here at a glance is what President Nixon told Congress today in his State of the Union address:

POLITICS—Because of next November's election, Congress will face political pressures but must resist these and show "high statesmanship" in acting on vital legislation.

TECHNOLOGY—A federal partnership in research and development is needed to advance technology, create jobs and make American industry more competitive in world markets.

SCHOOLS AND TAXES—The President later this year will propose a plan to finance public schools and ease the burden of local property taxes.

DEFENSE—The new federal budget due Monday will call for development of new weapons systems and higher defense spending.

SUMMITRY—Nixon will go to Peking and Moscow "with no illusions" but hopeful that, despite differences, it will be possible to find ways to talk about disputes instead of fighting about them.

ECONOMY—Statistics are encouraging but unemployment is too high; "our goal is full employment in peacetime—and we intend to meet that goal."

A Superior Court jury — including three blacks and nine whites — was expected to begin deliberation this afternoon in the trial of Donald McKinley Smith, 18, charged in connection with a bombing at the Ayden-Grifton High School September 8.

Testimony in the case ended this morning and attorneys for the state and defense were in the process of arguing their cases before the jury at noon.

Deputy Sheriff Tommy Burney was the first witness on the stand as court resumed this morning. He had been the last witness to testify yesterday before Judge A. Pilston Godwin adjourned court for the day.

During the proceedings yesterday, Judge Godwin ruled that an admission made by Smith during an interview with deputy Burney, relating his involvement in the incident would be allowed.

The jury remained out of the courtroom much of the afternoon as defense attorney Frank Ballance offered arguments on behalf of his motion to have testimony by Burney suppressed.

Burney testified that Smith was arrested on Sept. 15 at St. Gabriels Church here. He said that Smith accompanied him to the courthouse and gave him a statement concerning the bombing during questioning in the grand jury room.

Reading from the statement, Burney said that Smith told him that he, accompanied by several others, went to the Ayden-Grifton High School on the morning of Sept. 8. The group arrived there in two cars, he said.

Burney said that Smith told him he (Smith) lit the fuse to the dynamite after another person placed it in a sink in the bathroom. Two wooden matches were needed to light the fuse, it was related.

(As testimony began Tuesday, P. H. Blettner Jr., an investigator with the U. S. Treasury Department's Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division told the court that two wooden matches had been found among the debris left following the blast in the school. He said that in his opinion, the damage had been caused by four sticks of dynamite placed in one of the lavatories in the boys restroom.)

The witness testified that Smith told him he went to Philadelphia, Pa. following the incident but changed his mind and decided to "come home, turn myself in to the police, and make things right."

The Cost Of Moving From A Dream Castle

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your comment to "Lady Dreamer" reminded me of a cute saying I'd like to share. "The neurotic BUILDS dream castles. The psychotic LIVES in them, and the psychiatrist collects the rent."
MRS. L. P.

DEAR MRS. L. P.: A competent psychiatrist doesn't "collect the rent" for anyone's dream castles. Instead he helps his patient to find a dwelling he can actually LIVE in. And his fee is more appropriately the cost of moving.

DEAR ABBY: We have a very surly, selfish son in law who is married to our only child.

She is a wonderful girl and we love her very much, but we just can't understand him. He treats our daughter all right as far as we can see, but he treats us terribly.

When we invite the two of them for supper, she usually comes alone. She's embarrassed, but confesses she couldn't get him to come with her. When he does come, he eats fast and wants to run away right after the meal is over.

We have given them a lot of financial help. We bought them a nice little house and are helping them furnish it. We even bought them a second car.

I was in the hospital for two weeks and he never came to see me once. He didn't even send me a card!

Would it be childish for us to treat him like he treats us? I mean stop all financial help? I wouldn't want to hurt my daughter, but someone should teach this fellow a lesson.

HURT

DEAR HURT: Any financial help you gave him was undoubtedly more for your daughter's sake than his. Don't reward his indifference and rudeness with generosity, but be careful how you "teach him a lesson" or your daughter might wind up paying for the lesson.

DEAR ABBY: I am a school teacher. The other day another teacher told me in the presence of the school nurse and some office secretaries, that she had seen a woman shoplift a purse in a local store.

I asked her if she reported the incident to anyone, and she said she had not. I then told her that I thought she had an obligation to report it.

A discussion followed. One person agreed with me. Another said, "If that woman was stealing, she must have been very hard up and needed to steal so it would have been unkind to report her."

Another said, "I'd have minded my own business because if I made such an accusation and wasn't able to prove it, I could be sued for slander."

Now I'd like your opinion, Abby.
AN EX ANGELENO

DEAR EX: I would have reported it. To quote Edmund Burke [again], "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Tall Boy" who was tired of having people ask him, "How's the weather up there," hit home with me because I, too, was tall in school. Being a girl it was even worse.

When kids would ask me how the weather was up there, I'd give them the answer my Dad suggested: "Why don't you grow up and find out?"

That shut them up. And they respected me more for telling them off instead of pouting.

Couple Weds In Ceremony

ROBERSONVILLE—Miss Margaret Ann Clark became the bride of Joseph Thomas Johnson Jr. in the Cross Roads Christian Chapel Church, located near here, Sunday, Jan. 9, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Henry Clark of Robersonville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas Johnson Sr. and the grandson of Mrs. Louis T. Johnson of Robersonville.

The Rev. Russell Mann, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Marshall Wilson presented a program of nuptial music and Mrs. Evelyn Peaks was soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of silk organza over peau de soie. The A-line skirt was styled with a high rise waist applied with a bodice of chamilly lace. The sleeves fitted slightly above the elbow falling to full puff sleeves ending in a wide band of chamilly lace at the fingertips.

The bride's chapel length veil of silk illusion was attached to a crown of petals and a bow. Chamilly lace trimmed the edge of the veil. She carried a cascade of white mums, a red rose and a bridal orchid. The red rose was lifted from her cascade as she walked to the altar and given to her mother.

Mrs. Sammy Edmondsom of Aulander served as matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gene Clark of Garner, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Warren Tripp of Greenville, sister of the bridegroom Mrs. Alton Crandall and Miss Peggy Johnson of Robersonville and Mrs. Danny Bowen of Williamston.

The bridegroom was attended by his father as best man.

Ushers were Gene Clark of Garner, brother of the bride, Donnie Clark of Robersonville, brother of the bride, Warren Tripp of Greenville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Alton Crandall of Robersonville and Mike Hoard of Williamston, cousin of the bride.

MRS. JOSEPH THOMAS JOHNSON JR.

Following a wedding trip to Raleigh, the couple will reside in Robersonville. The bride works as a beautician at Monty's Beauty Court. The bridegroom is associated with his father in business and will enter the U. S. Army in April.

Reception

A reception was given immediately following the ceremony at the Robersonville Country Club by the parents of the bride.

The bridal table was covered with a white organdy cloth with garlands of greenery accented with green bows on each corner. The centerpiece was a large bouquet of yellow and white daisies and snapdragons adorned with two five branch silver candelabra holding green candles.

After the bridal couple cut the first slice of the wedding cake and toasted each other, Mrs. Gussie Bunting served cake and Mrs. Clayton Hoard poured punch.

On the table beside the register was a picture of the bride.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the Johnson-Clark wedding party included a wedding breakfast Sunday morning at the Town and Country Restaurant, Williamston.

Host and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Clark of Garner.

Mrs. Sam Clark and Mrs. James Jenkins entertained the bridal couple and invited guests at an after-rehearsal party Saturday night.

Members Introduced At AAUW Meeting

Seven new members were introduced at the Monday night meeting of the Greenville Branch of AAUW.

They are: Dean Carolyn Fulghum; Dr. Malene Irons; Mrs. Charles Kernan; Mrs. Benjamin Lewis; Mrs. Hugh Patterson; Miss Minnie Stancil; and Mrs. Elizabeth Ross.

Guests from the local League of Women Voters and other interested persons attended the discussion which was presented by three panelists: Judge Robert Rouse Jr.; David Reid; and Herman Moeller.

Mrs. Wallace S. Eakes introduced the speakers to the group. Each panelist gave a short resume of his area of work and a discussion followed the speeches.

Judge Rouse, resident Superior Court Judge of the Third Judicial District, explained that North Carolina presently has 43 resident judges who are elected for eight year terms. The state of North Carolina is considering the Missouri plan of appointing judges which has the advantage of affording more lawyers the opportunity to become a judge without the cost of an expensive political campaign. Some people feel that they should continue to elect the judges.

Reid reminded the group that the trial lawyer has the obligation to protect the rights of his client whereas the judge must insure both the state and the client their just protection. The main concern should be the rehabilitation of the offender.

He commented that volunteers in Pitt County are helping certain juvenile boys to better adapt to the community.

Moeller, an associate professor in the ECU Department of Social Work and Correctional Science, feels that the correctional system in the United States, though not up to par at the present time, is at a turning point now.

We have developed a national leadership to help. Funds are now available to plan more nationally, the organization and to educate the people who are entering this field. Community and mental health centers are helping to rehabilitate the offender. The offender, instead of being isolated behind prison walls, can now come into the community to work and return to prison at night, said Moeller.

Mrs. Wellington Gray conducted a business session after the program. Dean Fulghum, liaison between the university and the AAUW, reported on a committee that has been established to determine whether women on campus are suffering from job discrimination.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Ann Phillips, Mrs. William A. Pollard and Dr. Emily Farnham.

Only The Tip Of The Iceberg

The narcotics traffic is something bigger than most of us probably think.

Just this week 23 men were charged with smuggling 1,500 pounds of heroin into the United States.

About 24 hours after that story came out, federal authorities announced the seizure of one million amphetamine pills exported to Mexico by an American manufacturer, then smuggled into the United States illegally.

A week rarely goes by without disclosure of some such spectacular seizure, find, or arrest.

It must be assumed that there are scores of smaller narcotics finds every week that do not merit national press attention.

All of it, the reported and unreported drugs seized throughout the country, represents a nightmare of public and private tragedies that have been averted.

At the same time, it must be acknowledged that the seizures represent only the tip of an iceberg. The drug traffic goes on and on ... permeating every social level and extending from big cities to the crossroads; its extent only dimly realized by the public at large.

Clearly it is a problem that needs ever-increasing attention at legislative, judicial and enforcement levels. The tide can be stopped if and when the public is willing to accept the necessary steps.

Long Trend Of Red-Ink Budgeting

President Nixon's budget, which Congress receives Monday, will be about $246 billion — and not surprisingly it is a record.

Also not surprisingly there is expected to be a big deficit this year — from $10 to $20 billion.

While the budget would show only a four percent increase over the preceding year, it still represents another in a long series of budgets which have set new spending records.

The deficit, too, follows the pattern of most budgets in recent years. It all reflects the rapidly rising cost of providing new and expanded services to the public.

Worried Over GOP Primary

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — It might seem strange but Democratic Party leaders in North Carolina are just as worried about a Republican gubernatorial primary between Jim Gardner and Jim Holshouser as some Republicans are.

One Democratic candidate for Governor, who didn't want his name used, put it like this:

"A Gardner-Holshouser primary is going to make the Republican nominee much tougher to beat in the general election. There is no question about that in my mind. If the Democrats don't get united next fall, we stand a good chance of losing."

Here's the reasoning behind the man's statement:

Many Democrats didn't believe Holshouser would have been handed the Republican nomination. But if he beats Gardner, the voters will look upon his candidacy as the genuine article.

Says the Democrat: "Holshouser's problem would have been one dealing with his image. He looks too young to be a Governor. He also isn't well-known in many parts of the state. But a campaign against Gardner will give him plenty of exposure and if he wins, the voters will look at him with new respect. I can hear it now, 'He beat Gardner head to head. He has to have a lot going for him.'"

On the other side of the coin, there has never been much question about Gardner's ability to run a strong race against the Democrats.

He gave Bob Scott all he wanted in the 1969 campaign, getting nearly 48 per cent of the vote.

Said the Democratic candidate for Governor: "Gardner has the looks, the money and the willingness to fight. He also learned a lot in his campaign against Scott. And if he beats Holshouser, the voters will take him even more seriously."

There seems to be no question about Gardner's intentions. He held a get-together with Republican leaders from the West the other night and told a friend he was highly pleased with the response. That meeting took place in Morganton and one man who went said: "Jim told us flat-out that he was running."

Ask Gardner about his intentions and he says: "I haven't completely decided yet. But if I do run, I will be satisfied in my mind that I can win the nomination and the general election. I won't run if I'm not convinced of those two things."

That's nothing more than political talk.

The feeling here is that Gardner will be in a much tougher campaign against Holshouser than he was in 1968 when he crushed John Stickle for the Republican nomination for Governor.

Stickle was a transplanted Charlottean with a Boston accent, who seemed to have trouble identifying with the man on the street. He ran well in Mecklenburg but got clobbered everywhere else. Gardner won the nomination by 70,000 votes.

Holshouser has been several years preparing himself for this run at the Governor's office. He served as state chairman of his party and won elective office in the State House.

Many of the Party's pros have been committed to him for months and it would seem that Gardner would have a hard time getting this support to come unglued.

While Democrats are worried about the Republican winner, Republicans are concerned about what the man will have to do to win the nomination.

Said a prominent Republican from the West: "If it's Gardner and Holshouser, it'll be a damn blood-letting. Each man will be concerned about winning the nomination and nothing else. A lot of people are going to get mad and getting them back together by November won't be easy."

If President Nixon remains popular in North Carolina, if the Republicans can come up with a serious candidate for the U. S. Senate, and if there aren't too many knife-wounds

Strength For Today

SUGGESTIVE EVEN TO THIS DAY

Once in history there appeared a man who had everything his heart could desire. This man was King Solomon. He had power which made his neighbors tremble. He had such wealth that neither he nor his counselors could compute it. He was among a half dozen of the most learned individuals who have ever appeared in human history. Every indulgence of the flesh was his for the asking, and it seemed that the multitudes of the whole world positively fell over themselves in their excited eagerness to serve him.

Was he happy? Few men have been less so. One of the sourest books ever written is Ecclesiastes, a regretful appraisal of life by Solomon, the old roue who having indulged in every pleasure and having enjoyed every honor which this world could bestow came to the end of his life with about the worst taste in his mouth that anyone has ever experienced.

The point does not need to be labored. People who have their own way in everything generally miss happiness by a mile. Strange as it may seem, the people who have to suffer most frequently get the most out of life. The pampered darlings grow up discontented and often drink themselves, worry themselves or bedevil themselves into early graves.

An occasional reading of the Book of Ecclesiastes constitutes a wholesome corrective in the field of thought and action.

The Second Copernicus?

SAN JUAN, P.R. — He looks like a professor of astronomy, unwinding at the Faculty Club after a long day on Observatory Hill. He is slightly bemused by the inability of others to comprehend those Milky Way mysteries that are perfectly clear to him. Bow-tied and bright-eyed, he is no bigger than a large sparrow or a small owl — but he makes you listen. His name, they say, is Louis O. Kelso. An uneasy suspicion will not go away that his name is really Copernicus.

By any name, this sawed-off San Francisco lawyer is just now the talk of Puerto Rico. He is the principal inspiration and chief author of a capital fund plan presented to the Puerto Rican legislature Friday evening by Governor Luis A. Ferre. In the astronomy of economics, the Kelso theory has all the mad simplicity of suggesting that the earth goes around the sun. Everybody knows it isn't so.

This takes a little explaining. I ask you to hold still, because Kelso may be important. If his plan of "universal capitalism" is sound — and a respectable flock of hard-headed businessmen have begun to try it — the guy may have found a cure for inflation, poverty, and the abuses of welfare. Sure enough, his formula sounds like Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; but Governor Ferre, who is nobody's fool, is risking his reputation on the scheme.

This is the plan: The Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, through its legislature, will create an unprecedented "Proprietary Fund" along the lines of our Comsat — a public corporation, privately managed. Beginning in July, if all goes well, an estimated 800,000 Puerto Rican workers, earning between $500 and $7,800 a year, will become eligible to buy shares of preferred stock in the fund.

Assume for the sake of example that 100,000 such workers agree to take 100 shares each at one dollar a share. That is $10 million. The Commonwealth then would match this investment, share for share, in common stock in the Fund. It is anticipated that the great bulk of investors would not pay for their preferred stock out of

Other Editors Say The Hypocrites

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

The liberal campus intellectual crowd likes to talk about freedoms. They enter into learned discourses on freedom of speech, the right to deliberate, ad infinitum.

We notice an inconsistency, however, in the way they apply their liberal academics to actual practice.

Take Princeton University, for instance. It's the very core and heart and center of liberalism espousing individual freedom. What happened there last Saturday is enough to disillusion some of the more faint-hearted of that breed. It takes a really tough and experienced practitioner to continue unabashed with the customary liberal rhetoric after what happened last Saturday.

About 75 Princeton students attempted to prevent members of the school's Board of Trustees from entering Nassau Hall where they were to consider a proposal calling for the retention of a Reserve Officers Training Corps program on the campus.

You see, the liberal student crowd thought there was the possibility that the trustees just might decide to keep ROTC at Princeton, and that would be against the things for which the students stand. They are unashamedly anti-war and anti-military and therefore they oppose anything that might smack of "jingoism." Ergo, ROTC has to go, no matter that the trustees' right to sit and deliberate freely on this matter was being infringed upon by strong-arm tactics strongly reminiscent of Hitler's Brown Shirt hooligans of the early Thirties.

In the Princeton episode last Saturday, about 15 members of the school's security forces, after some scuffling and shoving, finally managed to clear a path through the mob for the trustees. The students had locked arms to physically block the entrance, to bodily prevent the trustees from engaging in their peaceful deliberations.

We cite this as one of the many examples of sheer hypocrisy practiced by the so-called "liberals" on and off campus who spend too much of their time preaching about rights and rights and rights — but it seems that the only rights that are sacrosanct are their own, for when they themselves are jailed for blowing up a federal building or whatever, they are the first to scream about their rights being violated.

Sentiment Costs The Taxpayer

By ELMER ROESSNER

The American passenger train may be doomed. High-speed trains along the New Haven-New York-Washington corridor, the passenger-auto trains between Virginia and Florida, and a few other runs may survive.

I, once a peanut butcher on the long-halted Oakland-Antioch railroad in California and a railroad buff ever since, will mourn with hundreds of thousands of others.

The economics are simply against continuing operation of passenger trains, even though sentimentalists favor them. And in a free-enterprise system, economics rules. Although you can still get soapstone griddles and Pear's Soap, buggy whips and Congress gaiters are hard to find.

The formation of the National Railway Passenger Corp, better known as Amtrak, was a heroic effort to save part of the railroads by a group of old-timers, Congressmen.

They voted $40 million for the new corporation to run some of the main lines. The $40 million is all gone. It is currently seeking government guaranteed loans of $100 million, authorized by Congress when it voted the original $40 million to get Amtrak's wheels turning, and would like $170 million more for operating expenses and new equipment.

ELMER ROESSNER

And unless Congress waves a red lantern in front of Amtrak, this can go on and on, with requests getting larger and larger as wages and equipment become more expensive over the years.

Hendrik S. Houthakker, former member of the President's Council of Economic Advisers and new Harvard professor, told the joint Congressional Committee that "the federal budget will probably be swollen by a few hundred million of dollars" by Amtrak. It can happen every year.

He pointed out that planes and buses offer alternate satisfactory methods of travel. "Apart from a desire to relieve railroads of an unnecessary burden, the support for Amtrak reflected mostly nostalgia and fashionable prejudice against private cars."

Defenders of the passenger choo-choos point out that San Francisco subsidizes its cable cars and is happy with the results. Fares, a nickel many years ago, are now 25 cents and the cable cars attract thousands of tourists who spend many times the amount of the subsidy in hotels, restaurants and stores.

If sentiment for the old iron horses is strong, after most of the Amtrak are halted, there will be nothing to prevent the

Two whiskey distilling plants and a similar number of distillers were in the hands of federal officers today as a result of a series of raids in this community during the week. The distilling plant plants of five and twenty gallon capacities were the smallest captured by officers in this community since prohibition became effective.

Suburban Branches Have Problems Too

Many a downtown retailer envies stores in the suburbs, wishing he could relocate or at least establish a suburban branch. He may be kidding himself, according to Jack I. Straus, chairman of Macy's executive committee.

Suburbs have the same problems as downtown stores, he told the National Retail Merchants Association, including traffic tie-ups, rising taxes, shoplifting, scarcity of skilled labor and "even the air isn't so sweet any more."

savings or current earnings; it is expected that they would borrow the money through a bank at a low interest rate, pledging their total stock as security and applying the dividends toward payment of interest and possibly (if the Fund does well) toward repayment of the principal also.

At the end of five years, the government guarantees redemption of the preferred stock at par value. This guarantees repayment of the original $100 loan. The bank cannot lose. The worker cannot lose either: He always comes out of the deal with at least his matching 100 shares of common. Neither can the Commonwealth lose: Its Fund will have enjoyed the use of this capital all the way.

Meanwhile, it is assumed that the Fund is earning money through investments, through rentals, through its own industrial development loans. The $10 million invested by the workers, plus the $10 million put up by the Commonwealth, provides a capital pool of $20 million. With good management, such a fund should earn 15 to 20 percent, all of which would be paid out in dividends. For the first time in their lives, the workers would be getting a little piece of capitalist action. In 10 or 20 years, it might be a big piece.

Both Kelso and Governor Ferre are capitalists to the bone. They also are social thinkers. Under the present economic system, the typical worker is effectively denied a part in the capital structure. Such a worker has but one source of income, his own labor. The Kelso plan would provide him, through his dividends, a second source of income — a source, moreover, that is tied to inflationary forces. Ultimately, in a thriving economy, such dividends would replace at least a significant part of conventional public welfare. The psychological advantages are apparent.

The Puerto Rican venture admittedly is small in scope. Any critic could advance 100 reasons why it can't work. At the very least, it will demand a prodigious job of explanation. The whole theory sounds crazy. But, then, one may recall, they said all that of Copernicus, too.

like to talk to him and members of his staff to see exactly how they see the situation." He indicated he would later make a statement of this subject.

The question of possible additional state taxes to meet growing demands for services is an issue that will be confronting Taylor and other candidates for public office in this election year.

Referring to comments on taxes he made in his announcement speech as a candidate in October 1971, the lieutenant governor recalled he had "told people I've been in government long enough to know you couldn't categorically say there will be no additional taxes.

"Additional services will call for additional money," he observed, "and there's certainly not enough waste in our government to save enough by cutting to avoid a possible need for additional taxes.

Taylor said that most state money comes from income tax. "If more money is needed, this is one source that could be looked at. The second major source, is sales tax. This is another place where we could look." These two sources he termed "real money" — money to provide funds for a wide spectrum of state services.

On the third source, gasoline tax, Taylor feels that because of the sizeable increase of gasoline taxes in 1969, it might be questionable that there would be "an effort to further increase gasoline taxes in the foreseeable future." Gasoline taxes, Taylor reminded, are "used exclusively for highways."

Road developments in the eastern part of North Carolina elicited a remark from Taylor that "there's no question that good roads will help develop the area, and make it easy for people from the central and western parts of the state to get to the beaches and sounds of the eastern seaboard."

He mentioned U.S. 74, which provides easy access from Wilmington to Asheville. "There's no comparable road in this area," he said.

Taylor remarked that by its very shape, North Carolina lends itself to an east-west, not north-south flow. "However," he commented, "the highway system has been oriented mostly north-south instead of east-west."

Despite Taylor's recognition of the need for additional roads in eastern North Carolina, an observer could detect a degree of caution in endorsing too hasty a plunge into a wide-scale program of over-development in highways for the East. Several times he alluded to the unspoiled atmosphere of the coastal area — and his own delight in living in a small uncongested town — Wadesboro.

On the idea of crossing county lines in school districting — one that has increasingly been expressed with favor by county officials in various areas — Taylor said that "if there could be any plan to reduce the length of bus rides for school children, we ought to be looking for ways to do this." He added that any such plan should be "within the context of what states can do in light of policies developed by federal courts.

He noted too that "our counties, by and large, are so large that it might not be very practical to end up with this type of arrangement, especially if it might conceivably result in longer bus rides."

Our suggestion he offered is that of "separate buses for small children and older children. So often little ones have to leave home very early, and are late returning home. The State has yet to do all it can to make busing as safe and as comfortable as possible."

Turning from more pressing issues he will face in his campaign to one that will likely not pose major obstacles for a candidate, Taylor spoke briefly on support for the fine arts.

"I'm all for it," he stated.

"I'm considering some very comprehensive recommendations from two or three people in this area." The lieutenant governor, who is credited with playing an instrumental role in supporting the creation of the new archives building for the State, referred to an active group in North Carolina "who are dead serious about a new art museum building for North Carolina." He said they were talking in terms of $15 to $20 million dollars, and mentioned the name of Senator Tom White as an advocate of the arts in North Carolina.

At the public reception held for Lt. Gov. Taylor at the Moose Lodge from 4:30 to 6:30 Wednesday, a large number of Greenville and area residents stopped in to chat with the candidate.

Taylor had an opportunity to talk with old friends as well as several groups of young people, most of them students from East Carolina University.

And judging from the interest shown by this younger group, Taylor and other candidates for public office may be facing a major new trend in this campaign year — closer involvement with a very young generation of voters.

All Agree Skilled Manpower Bypass Eastern N.C.

Industry executives and military officials agreed yesterday that an abundance of trained and skilled manpower is bypassing Eastern North Carolina and could be utilized. More than 100 industrialists, bankers and civilian executives joined high-ranking military officers from the U. S. Marines, Army, Coast Guard and Air Force in discussion of the problems and programs already in motion and those that are planned.

The occasion was a daylong conference on occupational guidance and placement for military separations sponsored by East Carolina University. Spokesmen described both job training and guidance programs both before and after separation from military service.

The question, one speaker asked, is "whether this is enough?"

Officers from Camp Lejeune, Fort Bragg, Cherry Point and other major military installations described various training programs for separatees, mostly in "very basic trades" such as carpentry, bricklaying, welding and construction work, prior to separation. These men, engaged in transition from military to civilian life, are being used to advantage in base construction work prior to being released.

The military officers said that there had been opposition to the concept of training "for something else" than soldiering. But, they added, "This concept is changing." In addition to basic trades, the programs now include more exotic fields such as electronics, radio-television repair, drafting and lay-out according to the capacity and interests of the individual.

In some cases, they said, private industry sends instructional experts onto the bases to develop skills in salesmanship and promotion, complete with decorated offices and closed circuit television as aids, and follows up with job interviews on site before a man leaves service.

Officers and industry officials agreed that "the heart of transition (to civilian life) is in counseling the individual." They said each man must be aware of the perimeters of "what he will be facing in civilian life and be adjusted to it."

More than 5,000 military personnel are separated from the service at Eastern North Carolina bases each year. This, sponsors pointed out, represents a great manpower pool with skills and talent which is largely untapped.

Speakers stressed the importance of continuing cooperation with the regional community colleges and programs such as those offered by East Carolina University.

Dr. David Middleton, dean of the Division of Continuing Education, and Thomas Willis, director of the ECU Regional Development Institute, described their programs and opportunities offered returning veterans.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU president, welcomed the officials attending the conference and hosted a luncheon on the ECU campus as the discussions continued.

No Shoeing By Smithy

NAPOLEON, Ohio (AP) — Matt Becker is a wiry 84-year-old man who knows he is one of a dying breed.

He's a blacksmith, a trade he has followed 66 years and still works at six-days a week.

He came to the United States from Germany when he was 18, after learning the blacksmith trade from his grandfather.

"I didn't like it at first because I couldn't speak English," Becker said of the trade in his new country. But he stuck with it because "it's the only thing I know."

He walks one mile each morning from his home to the rustic old shop, considered a local landmark. "I want to work as long as I'm able," he said.

The thing he misses most from his work in a modern world is horses. "I haven't shod a horse in 30 years," he said. "Shoeing horses started slacking off around 1940. Besides, I couldn't handle one at my age anyway."

Although he still uses many of the old tools of his trade, most of his work now is spent sharpening blades for mowers and repairing parts for tractors and farm implements.

He said many farmers in the area come to him "because I can fix things for them that might take weeks to have repaired at a factory."

Motorists passing his shop often hear the clang of hammer on metal as he shapes a piece of metal on his anvil.

He started his shop here in 1920 as a partnership but soon bought out his partner because there was not enough work for two men.

"When I'm gone," he noted, "there won't be a blacksmith in this town."

Preservation Funds Trebled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development has trebled the funds available for its Historic Preservation program. In 1970, $1 million was available on a matching basis. For the fiscal year started July 1, $3 million became available.

Under the preservation program, matching grants are made to states and local public bodies to acquire, restore and improve sites, buildings or areas of historic or architectural significance in urban areas.

Farm And Ranch Assets Increase

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Farm and ranch assets in Texas totaled $29.2 billion on Jan. 1, 1971—an increase of 4 per cent or $1.1 billion from a year earlier.

Charles K. Baker, marketing economist at Texas A&M University, says advances in real estate values accounted for 73 per cent of the gain. Most of the remaining gain was attributed to higher values for livestock and poultry inventories and machinery and motor vehicles.

Just-About-Broke Demos Plan Appeals For Funds

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A full-page ad declaring "the Democratic party is just about broke" and appealing for funds to "help assure you of a choice of candidates in 1972" will greet newspaper readers in about 10 cities in early February.

The ads are the first step in a double-barreled fund-raising campaign being mapped by Democratic party leaders here to start paying off their $9.3-million 1968 debt and begin building a fund to finance the 1972 race.

The second step: Fund-raising appeals for "the party of your choice" to be sent with telephone and other bills, provided those businesses go along.

The new campaign, unveiled in an interview by Treasurer Robert S. Strauss of the Democratic National Committee, is the party's answer to congressional rejection of the plan to give each major party $20.8 million through a $1-per-taxpayer checkoff on income tax returns.

The newspaper ads, planned for New York, Los Angeles, St. Louis, Washington, Louisville and some smaller cities, will cost about $45,000. Strauss hopes they'll at least recover the cost and provide a list of contributors who can be reached again in the fall.

The ads carry the notice that the new campaign-financing bill, which cleared the House Wednesday, provides up to a $12.50-per-person credit or a $50-per-person tax deduction for political contributions.

As for the plan to put bipartisan fund-raising appeals into the envelopes in which Americans receive phone or credit-card bills, Strauss said he discussed it with representatives of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and a major oil company.

"They haven't said 'no' yet," he said.

Strauss said that since he became party treasurer in March 1970, the national committee has paid all its regular bills. But it still has to contend with the 1968 debt and the stockpiling of funds for the 1972 campaign.

One of the major items in the debt is nearly $1.5 million owed AT&T and its subsidiaries for phone service. Strauss said a telephone company official visited him this week asking for a plan for payment of that debt plus payments in advance for phone service at the party's July nominating convention in Miami Beach.

"I told them there was no way that we could repay the debt, but that we've been good customers," Strauss said.

He added that he plans to pay 20 per cent of the estimated $100,000 cost of con-

Offer Program Of All-English Music

The Collegium Musicum, East Carolina University's instrumentalists and singers specializing in music of the Renaissance period in Europe, will present a special program of English music this week.

On Friday, at 8:00 p.m. in the Blue Room of the Greenville Art Center, members of Collegium Musicum will honor St. Agnes Day in an all-English program of music.

Mike Barker, coordinator of the program, says the legend of St. Agnes is an old one, pre-dating Elizabethan days in England. According to the legend, on this particular Friday night, all single virgins who "eat not, speak not, nor look behind them will see in their dreams the man they are going to marry." Barker declined to comment on whether the legend would still provide a vision to today's modern maidens as it did in the Renaissance Days.

For the program, in which players will use authentic instruments of the age—viola da gambas, recorders, krumphorns, sackbuts and cornets—selections will be drawn from the repertory of three 16th and 17th century English composers, Christopher Morley, Anthony Holborne and John Dowland. Morley's "Two Part Canzonettes" and Holborne's "Fruit of Love" are two of the works scheduled for this performance.

Vocalists in the group are Debbie Stokes, Debbie Rhodes, Debbie Johnson, James W. Powers, Jr. and Robert Beard. Instrumentalists are Christopher Ward, Linda McLinden, Jill Fraser, Vashti Phelps, Nancy Neidinger, Leslie Kopp, Mike Barker, Patrice Barker, Lee Hendricks, Randy Guptill, Elizabeth Stoney, David Howell, Brenda Wall and Mike Smith.

The Collegium Musicum is under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Henry. Players and singers will be dressed in Renaissance costumes. This performance is free, and the public is invited to attend.

Admitted . . .
Under cross examination by Ballance this morning, Burney told the court that Smith did not turn himself into officers. Burney said officers had held a warrant charging Smith in connection with the incident since September 9, but had been unable to locate him.

James Arthur Corey, 19, an 11th grade student at the school testified that he was outside the school before classes began on the day of the bombing and that he talked with Smith and several other persons with Smith.

He related that the group Smith was with "said did we want to join them . . . about the bombing."

Corey said "I reckon" they were talking about the bombing of the school. "I didn't know for sure they were talking about bombing the school."

"He asked . . . did we want to join him. I said no."

Charles Gregory Prayer, 16, a 10th grade student at Ayden-Grifton said he saw Smith and talked with him before school began.

After Prayer said he didn't remember making several statements to officers about the meeting with Smith, Judge Godwin said "the court is ruling that the witness is obviously hostile."

Assistant Solicitor Jim Mills then introduced a written statement signed by Prayer.

Prayer told the court that he had read the statement and had signed it.

According to the written statement, Prayer said a member of the group Smith was with on that morning said "we are going to bomb the school."

The statement continued, "Donald Smith said you better not to go to school today...something is going to happen..."

Under cross examination, Prayer told attorney Ballance, "I did not tell him that . . ."

The final witness to testify was ATF agent Edward Garrison, who, along with deputy Burney was present when Smith made the statement read in court yesterday.

advance, and to direct it toward improving the quality of life for every American."

For the moment, Nixon only promised "a new program of federal partnership in technological research and development—with federal incentives to increase private research, and federally supported research on projects designed to improve our everyday lives in ways that will range from improving mass transit to developing new systems of emergency health care that could save thousands of lives annually."

Nixon said the answer to increased foreign competition "is not to build a wall around America" but to improve U.S. technology and productivity.

As a sort of bonus, he said, the technology program will "put to use the skills of many highly trained Americans—skills that might otherwise be wasted."

A Review Very Satisfying Hines Concert

ECU's first event for 1972 in the Artists Series saw veteran opera bass Jerome Hines in a solidly satisfying performance before a receptive audience in Wright Auditorium on Wednesday night.

The passing years have not dulled the sonorous voice of America's renowned basso—a voice that matches the singer's majestic physique.

Hines was at his best in the opera selections. His singing of the death scene of Tsar Boris in Moussorgsky's "Boris Godounov" revealed the full depth of Hines's richly textured voice. This is a moving aria of dramatic intensity, and Hines fully realized the full scope of singing and acting abilities for which he is justly noted.

In the arias from Mozart's "Don Giovanni", Hines brought into play an added touch to Mozart's own spoofing that heightened enjoyment of the arias—one of Leporello and two or three of Don Giovanni's in the Rossini areas, one on the program and an encore, the deep voiced singer proved adequately agile in tackling Rossini's tongue-twisters.

In the three Schubert songs on his program, Hines registered the tender melancholy of Schubert's music, most especially in "Der Doppelgänger," and with its slow tempo and lyric beauty.

Of the encores Hines gave a demanding audience, two were, to use his description, "pseudo-spirituals." Spirituals are not necessarily the best material for opera stars—in Hines' case, the power of his voice tended to overpower the simplicity needed for spirituals.

A happier encore note was an exaggerated take-off on some of the silliness that can mark operatic music in a hilarious version of Mother Hubbard, "Hello, Mother Hubbard."

Alexander Alexy, pianist accompanying Hines, provided an extra bonus of enjoyment for the evening. A senior citizen with youthful vigor, Alexy provided impressive interpretations of three of Gershwin's preludes and for encores played two Chopin pieces—the "Valse Brillant in A Flat" and "Nocturne in C Sharp."

The wide appeal of the Artist Series in eastern North Carolina continues to be evident. At last night's concert, for example, a group of students from West Carteret County High School in Morehead City made the trip to Greenville with their teacher, Laurence Stith.

The young travelers and all who came out to hear Hines last night were rewarded by an evening of fine music splendidly performed by a singer who again last night justified his reputation as one of America's greats.

Urges Early Tax-Listing

Pitt County Tax Supervisor R. S. Moye today urged property owners in the county to list their property for taxes as soon as possible and avoid the 10-per cent penalty for late listing.

All property, both personal and real, in the county is required by law to be listed for tax purposes during the month of January. Persons listing property for taxes after the last day of January will be subject to the 10 per cent penalty, according to Moye.

Moye emphasized that property must be listed in the name of the owner and in the township in which it is located, and said no individual extensions can be granted. He noted too, that there are no plans at the present time to extend the listing period in the county.

"I don't know whether half the people have listed or not," Moye said. "Time is getting short for listing without a penalty."

The tax supervisor noted that the January listing period also applies to businesses in the county and said no individual extensions for listing business property can be made either.

State Highway, Carolina Telephone and Wachovia are all tied for first with 3-1 records. Empire Brush is 2-4, Greenville Utilities is 1-5, and Vermont American, 0-6.

In the opener, Vermont American threatened, taking a 14-11 lead. But Carolina Telephone came back to outscore them, 23-16, in the second half and gain the close win.

No one on either team hit double figures. Wachovia rolled out a 20-12 lead in the first half and continued to pull away in the second. They outthit GUC, 30-23, to rack up the win and keep pace in the first place race.

Bill Baggett led Wachovia with 18, while Dan Evans had 13 and Jim Smith had 11. John Ward had 13 and Rufus Bynum had 12 for GUC.

In the final game, State Highway outthit Empire Brush, 17-14, in the first half of play. The Brushmen tried for a rally in the second half, outscoring State, 19-18, but it fell just short.

Bob Edwards led State Highway with 12, while Clyde Elks had 10. Curtis Barrett had 10 for Empire Brush.

Saints Have Most To Gain

NEW YORK (AP) — George Allen, who wheeled and dealt his Washington Redskins into championship contention this season, also traded them into last place in the National Football League draft.

Allen revamped the 'Skins by exchanging a raft of draft choices for proven talent that paid off with a 9-4-1 record, their best since 1945, and a shot at the Super Bowl before Washington succumbed to San Francisco in the playoffs' first round.

But his philosophy—"the future is now"—has also left them with only 10 selections in the 17-round draft or college seniors which begins Feb. 1, the NFL said Wednesday.

On the other end of the scale is New Orleans. The Saints, with six extra picks accumulated in trades—including the one that sent quarterback Billy Kilmer to the 'Skins—have 23 choices, tops among the 26 teams.

Eight other teams also have extra picks—Oakland with 21, Pittsburgh and St. Louis with 20 apiece, Baltimore with 19 and San Diego, San Francisco, Dallas and Cleveland with 18

Changes Set For Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The NCAA Basketball Committee has decided to change the national finals to a Saturday-Monday arrangement instead of the Thursday night-Saturday afternoon schedule of the last few years.

It also has put the finals pairings of the four regional winners on a rotating basis. In the first round of 1973 finals, for example, the East will play the Mid-West, and the Mid-East will play the West. Then in 1974 the East will meet the West and the Mid-East the Mid-West.

San Diego, Calif., was chosen for the 1975 finals. Tom Scott, Davidson College athletic director and chairman of the Basketball Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, also announced Wednesday that the Eastern Regional Tournament will return to the Charlotte Coliseum in 1973. It had been held in Charlotte in 1958-59-60 before point-shaving scandals prompted the NCAA to put regionals on campus sites. But Scott said the committee had trouble trying to find a host school for the 1973 Eastern regional because of the NCAA stipulation that the host would have to turn down any bid to the National Invitational Tournament (NIT).

Penn Gains Revenge Over Villanova Five

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
"In 17 years of basketball coaching," said Penn's Chuck Daly, "I never gave a player a game ball."

Daly's streak ended Wednesday night. He presented his first "game ball" to Corky Calhoun, one of the stars of 10th-ranked Penn's 74-64 revenge victory over 15th-ranked Villanova.

The 6-foot-7, 210-pound Calhoun, one of the tallest backcourtmen in the nation, earned the ball by scoring 20 points on nine of 13 field goal attempts and two of four free throws. He also had four assists and four rebounds.

Penn, seeking to avenge last year's 90-47 humiliating setback to Villanova in the NCAA Eastern Regional Tournament, had worked the past week on trying to get the ball inside to Calhoun against the Wildcats' 1-2-2 zone defense. The practice paid off as Calhoun, often a reluctant shooter, played one of the best games of his three-year varsity career.

Actually, Phil Hankinson led the Quakers with 24 points, but Calhoun's scoring outburst and over-all play were the keys.

Penn fell behind by nine points early in the first half, but held the Wildcats to one field goal in the last 10 minutes of the half and pulled ahead for good 32-29 at intermission. The emotion-packed triumph gave Penn a 10-2 record. Villanova fell to 11-3.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Marquette remained unbeaten, trimming Chicago Loyola 80-70 for its 13th victory of the season and its 66th in a row at the Milwaukee Arena. Jim Chones led the Warriors with 20 points.

Despite the victory, Marquette Coach Al McGuire was unhappy. "We're going to have a long talk tomorrow (Thursday)," he said. "We haven't had a meeting in about three years. They're not men yet, they don't show enough fear."

North Carolina, rated third, jumped to a 20-3 lead against Wake Forest and cruised to a 92-77 victory, its 12th in 13 games. Bob McAdoo topped the Tar Heels with 22 points.

Fifth-ranked South Carolina overcame a 17-point deficit for the second consecutive game and ended Niagra's 12-game winning streak with an 80-69 triumph over the Purple Eagles. The Gamecocks' Kevin Joyce poured in 33 points, 26 in the second half, while 7-foot Danny Traylor grabbed 20 rebounds and blocked nine shots.

Florida State, the No. 11 team, posted its ninth successive victory and 14th in 16 games, overwhelming South Alabama 105-72. Rowland Garrett scored a career high 24 points for the Seminoles.

Marshall, rated 16th, whipped Miami, Ohio 81-63, as Randy Noll scored 24 points and grabbed 16 rebounds and Russell Lee tallied 22 points and had 20 rebounds.

Marshall now is 13-2.

Abilene Christian hiked its record to 12-2, defeating the Air Force 76-70 with five free throws, including three technicals, in the final minute. Toledo made it 11-2, riddling Bowling Green 76-53 in a Mid-American Conference clash.

Providence, with Marvin Barnes scoring 28 points and hauling in 22 rebounds, won its 10th game in 12 starts, beating Fairfield 87-75.

Elsewhere, it was: Dayton 76, Cincinnati 60; Duke 86, Canisius 58; Clemson 74, Furman 72; Ohio University 88, Virginia Tech 79; North Texas State 74, Wichita State 63; Penn State 83, Gettysburg 53; Pittsburgh 91, Bucknell 67, and The Citadel 86, Arkansas State 48.

Koufax Didn't Expect To Make It 1st Year

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Election to Baseball's Hall of Fame surprised Sandy Koufax, excited Yogi Berra and interrupted Early Wynn's tomato-picking.

Wynn, a 300-game winner who had failed three times previously to be elected to the shrine that houses the sport's heroes, was notified of his election while picking tomatoes at his home in Nokomis, Fla., near Sarasota.

Wynn was grateful. "I'd been hoping for it," he said, "but I didn't want to build up my hopes too high. It's like being placed up there on a pedestal, not like getting a gold watch for your longtime efforts. It's recognition I was waiting for for a long time."

But, said Wynn, he would have been happier if the honor had been bestowed when he first became eligible. "I don't think I'm as thrilled as I would have been if I had made it the first time," he said. "Naturally, I'm happy. So is my wife. We have had a long wait. I was disappointed the first year and disappointed the second year. The third year I just shrugged it off."

"I would have liked to have joined Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Walter Johnson as players who gained the honor the first year they were eligible."

Koufax did exactly that, becoming the ninth player to make it his first year of eligibility. Others who did it were Jackie Robinson, Bob Feller, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Honus Wagner and Christy Mathewson.

Koufax was surprised by the honor, embellished by a record vote total.

"I'm a little surprised I got as many votes as I did," Koufax explained. "I didn't have as many good years as some others in the Hall and I thought that might count against me."

Koufax pitched for the Los Angeles Dodgers for 12 years before an arthritic elbow ended his career. But it's the last four that made him a Hall of Famer.

From 1963 to 1966 he had records of 25-5, 19-5, 26-8 and 27-9 with earned run averages of 1.88, 1.71, 2.04 and 1.73. He also pitched a non-hitter each year, including a perfect game in 1965.

And that made him, at 36, the youngest player ever to be elected.

"This is the biggest honor I've ever been given, not just in baseball, but in my life," said Koufax.

Berra was even more excited. "My fans and friends were really pulling for me," said

Berra, who missed out by just 28 votes last year when he was eligible for the first time. "My kids are happy about it, and I feel great."

Koufax led the balloting with 344 votes while Berra received 339 and Wynn 301. A record 396 votes were cast with the players needing to be named on three-quarters of the ballots, or 297, to be elected.

Only one other player besides Koufax, Berra and Wynn ever has received more than 300 votes—Stan Musial who collected 317 in 1969.

Berra and Wynn, like Koufax, had considerable credentials. Berra hit 358 homers while batting .285 for the New York Yankees while Wynn was one of only 14 pitchers in history to win 300 games in a 23-year career with Washington, Cleveland and Chicago.

All three have kept some connection with baseball following their playing days, Berra as a coach for the New York Mets, Wynn as a scout for the Minnesota Twins and Koufax as a broadcaster for NBC.

Rounding out the top 10 in the voting were Ralph Kiner, 235; Gil Hodges, 161; John Mize, 157; Enos Slaughter, 149; Peeewe Reese, 129; Marty Marion, 120, and Bob Lemon, 117.

Rose Swimmers Fall To Hampton

HAMPTON, Va. — Rose High School's swimming team dropped a dual meet to Hampton High School recently, and then placed seventh in the Old Dominion Invitational Swimming Meet.

Rose lost to Hampton, 59-36, in the dual meet. The Rampants won first place in three of the nine individual events, and split the two relays.

In the invitational, the Rampants seventh place finish represented a two-place improvement over the 1971 meet. Mike Van Dyke set two new school records in the meet. He was third in the 50-yard freestyle in 23.6 seconds, and fourth in the 100-yard freestyle in 52.9 seconds.

Others who placed in the invitational were Herb Wilkerson, seventh, and Harding Sugg, eighth in diving; Tom Adams, ninth in the 100-yard butterfly in 1:04.0; Mont Wooten, sixth in 4:27.4 and Al Winn, 12th in 4:40.5 in the 400-yard freestyle, and Wooten, 11th in 1:04.7 in the 100-yard backstroke. The freestyle relay team of Wooten, Adams, Van Dyke and Winn finished fifth.

Mounty Player Dies In Wreck

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP)—Larry Harris, a former forward for West Virginia University's basketball team who was capable of breaking open a game with long-range shots, was killed near here Wednesday when his car smashed into a bridge abutment on interstate 79.

WVU forward Sam Oglesby, was critically injured in the crash and underwent more than four hours of surgery at University Hospital late Wednesday and early today. Oglesby had been excused from practice Wednesday because of an injury he received in a Tuesday night game.

Harris, 21, a native of Charleston, was killed instantly at about 4:15 p.m. Wednesday, a coroner said, when he was hurled through the windshield of his 1961 Corvair, suffering a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

Oglesby, 22, suffered head and back injuries. Dr. Robert Nugel, a neurosurgeon, and Dr. Douglas Bowers, an orthopedic surgeon, performed the surgery on Oglesby.

The tragedy struck hard at the basketball team which has been beset by problems since Harris and guard Levi Phillips were declared academically ineligible two weeks ago. Since then the Mountaineers' record has fallen from 5-0 to 7-3.

"This is a terrible tragedy," WVU Athletic Director Robert N. "Red" Brown said. "But things like this do happen." Coach Sonny Moran, who identified Harris' body shortly after 8 p.m. Wednesday in a Fairmont hospital, said he wanted to recover from the shock before deciding his next course.

Brown said he would meet with Moran today to discuss the Mountaineers' next scheduled game, a Saturday night date at Davidson. There was no indication whether it would be played.

An eyewitness to the accident told police the car belonging to Harris was traveling south on I-79 near the Harrison County line when it struck a bridge abutment on the left side of the road, swerved to the right and back to the left.

There was no explanation for what caused the accident. There were skid marks on the highway and the car did not appear to be damaged beyond repair.

Dr. C.H. Kuhn, Marion County coroner, said Harris and Oglesby were thrown from the car on impact. He said Oglesby was treated briefly before being taken to University Hospital.

In a brilliant preps career at Charleston High School, Harris teamed with Phillips and another WVU teammate, Curtis Price, to lead the Lions to the state Class AAA title in 1968, Harris' junior year.

His senior year brought Harris all-state honors as he averaged 24 points and 16 rebounds a game.

Tar Heels Zip Past Deacons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Before the game against third-ranked North Carolina, the Wake Forest basketball coach, Jack McCloskey, said, "We seem to play our best against the better teams on our schedule. We did a good job against Duquesne, Maryland and Virginia. It's been the lesser teams that we've had the most trouble putting our game together."

But he learned quickly in Wednesday night's game against the Tar Heels that his team was having trouble against a first-class club.

North Carolina jumped to a 20-3 lead at home, and went on to win 92-77.

North Carolina stayed in a man-to-man defense all night, and frequently pressed the Deacons in the back court. The Tar Heels also used their height advantage to penetrate Wake Forest's 2-3 zone.

Robert McAdoo, who leads North Carolina scoring with a 21-point average, was high man in the game with 22 points. Dennis Wuycik added 18 as the Tar Heels won their 12th game against only one defeat.

For Wake Forest, now 3-10.

Willie Griffin had 15 points and Rich Habegger 14.

The other two Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams which played Wednesday night, Duke and Clemson, won against outside foes.

Richie O'Connor scored 23 points to lead Duke to an 86-59 victory over Canisius.

The Blue Devils, now 7-6, are home to North Carolina in a regionally televised game Saturday afternoon.

Clemson scored 32 points at the foul line and held off a late Furman spurt to defeat the Paladins of the Southern Conference, 74-72.

For the Clemson Tigers, Dave Angel had 21 points and Bud Martin 17. Martin made 13 of his points from the foul line, with four of his free throws coming in the final two minutes. Danny Odle, a Clemson star, drew his third personal foul midway of the first half and was benched for the rest of the half. He made only eight points in the game. Russ Hunt was high for Furman with 17 points.

Clemson is 7-5 and Furman 7-7.

ACC teams are idle tonight.

Lenoir Rhyne Rallies To Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Lenoir Rhyne rallied from a nine-point deficit with a little over six minutes to play to nip Elon 62-61 in a Carolinas Conference basketball game Wednesday night.

Dan Williams' basket in the last minute gave the Bears the deciding points. Duffy Ross, who led home-team Elon with 17 points, made good a shot at the buzzer, but it was too late.

For Lenoir Rhyne, Rick Peak had 19 points, 11 from the foul line, and John Lentz had 18 points.

A pressure defense helped High Point turn back Pfeiffer 62-48 in another league game.

Tubby Smith had 18 points and John Kirkman 15 for the winning Panthers. For the visiting Pfeiffer Falcons, John Tinsley had 14 points and Tom Roseman 13.

James Brown's 26-point performance helped Catawba defeat Campbell 81-73 in a game at Campbell.

The home club, behind 47-30 at the half, pulled within four points with 54 seconds left. Danny Gaither led Campbell with 23 points.

Presbyterian will be at Newberry in the only action for conference teams tonight.

Mickey Lolich and Joe Coleman of the Detroit Tigers each had a 14-strikeout game last season. So did Dodger Sam McDowell as a member of the Cleveland Indians.

Wood Takes 1st Step Toward Coaching Goal

By BOB GREENE Associated Press Sports Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—Willie Wood thinks its time for a black head coach in the National Football League.

He took the first step Wednesday, retiring as a player to become defensive backfield coach with the San Diego Chargers.

"Eventually I would like to move into ahead coaching position," Wood said. "I think the time will come when the NFL will have a black coach. This job will help prepare me to take advantage of the opportunity when it comes."

A District of Columbia native, Wood was a quarterback at Southern California, but wasn't selected in the pro football draft following the 1959 season. He wrote a letter to the late Vince Lombardi, then head coach and general manager of the Green Bay Packers, and was signed as a free agent.

Three years later, Wood, carrying from his free safety spot, grabbed off nine interceptions to lead the NFL in that category. In his 12 seasons with the Packers, the 5-foot-10, 190-pounder was considered the surest tackler on the squad and picked off 48 enemy passes for 699 yards and two touchdowns.

"In all honesty, it saddens me to leave after 12 years of establishing such strong friendships in Green Bay," Wood said.

"Four or five years ago I decided I wanted to remain in pro football after my playing days were over.

"I was hoping it would be with Green Bay, since I knew the system there and the personnel."

But the Packers, who have had four straight so-so seasons after forging a dynasty in the NFL from 1960 through 1967, hired a new coach prior to the 1971 season and he brought in his own assistants.

"I sort of felt the guy they had hired as defensive backfield coach would be around for awhile since he built a house in Green Bay," Wood said. "I couldn't wait to see what would happen."

"I felt it would behoove me to look around. So I put out a few feelers that this might be my last playing season."

Wood said several clubs contacted him, but Harland Svare, newly named head coach of the Chargers, came up with a firm offer.

"It's kind of difficult to give up playing after you've been doing it for so long," Wood said. "But I will be going back to California and San Diego, and it's an ideal place to play."

"Plus, I felt the Chargers have a nucleus of becoming a very fine ball club," he said. "They have an outstanding offense and if I can help mold the defense, it will be a feather in my cap."

Drivers Gear For The Pole

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Parnelli Jones' two-year speed record was at stake at Riverside International Raceway today as some 35 drivers gunned for an up-front berth in Sunday's Winston Western 500 stock car race.

Qualifying runs around the 2.62-mile, eight-turn road course were to begin at 1 p.m., with the first 15 spots in the 44-car starting field up for grabs.

Jones, who won this event in 1967, set the lap record for the course of 113.310 miles per hour in 1970. The former Indianapolis 500 winner from Torrance, Calif. isn't entered this year.

Prime candidates for today's pole position honor included three former winners—Richard Petty, A. J. Foyt and Ray Elder—and a number of crack drivers from the regular NASCAR Grand National circuit and from outside it.

The latter included Mark Donohue, perhaps America's top-ranked road racer, who is making his debut in stock cars in an American Motors Matador; Bobby Isaac, the 1970 Grand National champion, in a Dodge;

David Pearson, a three-time title holder who is returning to regular competition in a new Ford Torino; and Bobby Allison, who captured eight major races last year and was the No. 2 money winner behind Petty.

Petty, the Plymouth ace who Wednesday announced that his racing organization had been purchased for the season by STP millionaire Andy Granatelli, holds the 500-mile race record for Riverside. He won in 1969 at a speed of 105.516 m.p.h. Granatelli and Petty announced their new association at a news conference in Los Angeles Wednesday.

Petty said his electric blue trademark color would disappear from his Plymouth beginning with the Daytona 500 Feb. 20. The car will be painted Granatelli's colors of red and blue.

DRAWING CARDS EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—The two largest crowds in Michigan State home football history were attracted for games with the Spartans' top rivals — 80,093 in 1971 for Michigan and 80,011 for Notre Dame in 1966.

Trevino Adds Another Feather To His Cap

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Golf Writer TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—"Oh, man! So many good things have been happening to me that I just can't believe it!"

Lee Trevino, the merry Mexican from a poverty background, who added a dash of fresh color and a new dimension of pro golf, was talking about his selection as The Associated Press Athlete of the Year for 1971.

The 32-year-old Trevino, who made that lightning, unprecedented sweep of the American, Canadian and British Open titles, was named Wednesday in a nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

He amassed 118 votes to win by a wide margin over baseball's Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals and Roberto Clemente of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, who got 31 votes apiece, and Kareem Abdul Jabbar of basketball's champion Milwaukee Bucks, who was fourth with 24.

"You've got to be thrilled any time something like this happens to you, particularly when it comes from an outfit like this, where so many people all over the country are voting for you," Trevino said before today's first round in the $150,000 Dean Martin-Tucson Open, in which he is a heavy favorite.

"I called my wife and told her, 'Honey, so many things are happening to me I just don't believe it.'"

The honor was the latest in a series of national awards for the talkative, colorful ex-Marine who burst on the national scene only four years ago and last season established himself as one of the game's greatest players and biggest gate attractions.

"I was even named sports personality of the year in England," he said. "Can you imagine that?"

Earlier, he had been named Player of the Year by the Professional Golfers Association and had been selected Athlete of the Year by a national magazine and again by a national sports newspaper.

Trevino, the grandson of a Dallas gravedigger and a former $35-a-week assistant at an El Paso, Tex., driving range, started slowly last year but finished with one of the most successful seasons in pro golf history.

He missed several tournaments because of the illness of his mother—she died later in the year—and admitted: "My mind wasn't on the game."

He wasn't eligible for the Tournament of Champions but started his drive by winning the $60,000 Tallahassee Open the same week.

He added a couple of top 10 finishes in the next few weeks, then started a fantastic string.

On successive weeks he won the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, missed a playoff by a single stroke at Atlanta and lost in a playoff for the Kemper title in Charlotte, N.C.

The U.S. Open was next and he stormed staid old Merion in Philadelphia with a flair and flourish, beating the feared Jack Nicklaus in a playoff and hammering it up with a toy snake act.

He had a letdown in Cleveland the next week, then came from well back in Montreal and beat Art Wall in a playoff for the Canadian National Open.

Next was the British Open at Royal Birkdale, a seaside links that almost foiled him. But he hung on to win, despite a double-bogey seven on the 71st hole, and completed one of the game's classic sweeps.

An emergency appendectomy knocked him out of a few tournaments and he won only once again on the regular tour, the late-season Sahara.

He also helped the American team to a Ryder Cup triumph over England and teamed with Nicklaus to take the World Cup for the United States in a field of teams from 46 nations at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla.

He wound up the season with $231,000 in prize money, second only to Nicklaus.

But there are goals yet to achieve for the fast-talking, quick-quipping man with the infectious grin.

"Now I want to win the Masters," he said. "That's going to be my big goal this year."

He had boycotted the Masters for the past two seasons.

Cougars Edge Past Florida

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The shooting stars were exploding all over the joint in Utah and, when the blazing ended, it made Memphis' Pros look like amateurs.

Zelmo Beaty, Willie Wise and Red Robbins went on a first-half shooting tear that powered the Utah Stars to a 143-118 American Basketball Association victory over Memphis Wednesday night and enabled them to open a 4½-game lead in the West Division.

In other ABA action, Virginia outlasted Kentucky 138-132, Denver shelled Dallas 116-92 and Carolina edged the Floridians 108-104.

The Pros played the Stars even for the first five minutes and held a 19-17 margin before Beaty & Co. went to work. And when the halftime buzzer signaled an end to their work, the Stars had set a team record for one-half scoring as they took an 80-52 lead into the locker room.

Beaty, playing barely more than that first half, and Charlie Williams of Memphis, shared scoring honors with 28 points apiece. Wise added 23 and Robbins 20 for Utah while George Lehmann had 20 for the Pros.

Kentucky, front-runners in the East, saw its margin over second-place Virginia cut to seven games as Charlie Scott went on a scoring binge for the Squires, pouring in 46 points, and Julius Erving and Doug Moe teamed for 49 more.

That overcame Dan Issel's 37 points and Artis Gilmore's 35 for the Colonels, who led most of the way before falling behind for good in the final five minutes.

Ralph Simpson, with 19 of his team-high 27 points, and Dave Robisch, with 10 of his 14 assists, led a 71-point second-half burst that fired the Rockets to victory over Dallas, which managed just 43 points in the two periods. The Chaparrals' Donnie Freeman led all scorers with 29 points.

Carolina's Cougars, with Jim McDaniels' 32 points and 22 rebounds, opened a 10-point lead, then held off a futile last-gasp rally by the Floridians, paced by Mack Calvin's 31 points.

Citadel In Romp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Big things were predicted for Furman's basketballers this year—but the only big thing that happened to them Wednesday night was one they'd like to forget.

The "thing" came in the person of 7-foot Clemson center Dave Angel, who dumped in 21 points to lead the Tigers to a 74-72 victory over the disappointing Paladins.

Angels also hauled down 14 rebounds as Clemson outrebounded Furman 36-29 despite the losers' front court duo of 6-foot-9 Roy Simpson and 6-foot-8 Russ Hunt, both of whom scored 17 points.

The Paladins saw their record tumble to 7-7 on the year despite having three returning starters, a highly touted junior college transfer in Simpson, the graduates of a 17-3 freshman team and a charismatic young coach in Joe Williams.

The only other Southern Conference team besides Furman seeing action Wednesday was The Citadel, which trampled Arkansas State 86-48.

The Bulldogs hit 59 per cent from the floor and rang up a 41-14 halftime lead. Four players scored in double figures for The Citadel, Steve Fishel leading with 20 and Cal Hayslip adding 15.

Schools Are Taking Part In Program

Two Pitt County Schools have been selected as one of the 16 schools in the state to participate in a pilot program of occupational awareness in grades kindergarten through six.

The schools chosen to participate by the State Department of Public Instruction are Bethel Primary and Bethel Grammar.

The schools were chosen to participate in the project because there is a Middle School Occupational Program in grades seven and eight and a well-developed vocational program at the high school level.

According to John Hassell of the State Department of Public Instruction, the program is part of a statewide thrust in occupational awareness and career education.

The program will include: —Kindergarten through third grade students will have career awareness and self awareness built into the regular curriculum.

—Grades four through six will receive information on occupations. The students would not be taught occupational education but rather an enlargement on the awareness of the world of work and on information about occupations.

—Grades seven through 9 will work in the area of Occupational Exploration:

—Grade 10-12 about occupational specialization and technical school occupational advancement.

Pitt Schools Are Included

Pitt County is one of 130 school units selected to participate in the Statewide Assessment Study being sponsored through the Department of Public Instruction.

The schools in Pitt County participating include: A.G. Cox, Ayden Grammar, Belvoir Grammar, Chicod, Grifton, G.R. Whitfield, H.B. Sugg and Stokes-Pactolus.

In each of the schools 20 students will be selected by random sample to participate in the testing.

Sections of the Iowa Test of Basic Skills and the Large-Thorndike Aptitude Test and other supporting surveys will be administered to the 20 sixth graders in each of the local schools during the week of April 17.

Results of the testing will be reported in regional and statewide status rather than by county.

Parents Gather On Care Of Pre-Schoolers

A get-acquainted meeting was held Tuesday night for persons interested in care of pre-school children.

More than 50 persons attended. Mrs. Mildred Stocks reported, including representatives of public, church, private, and non-profit, profit-making and family day care programs and interested agencies like East Carolina University and Greenville City Schools.

Besides talking about common problems and ideas, those present agreed that an organization to provide a continued exchange of ideas and educational benefits for those who care for and teach pre-school children is needed. Mrs. Stocks said. A committee to bring in suggestions for a name for the organization and by laws for it was appointed. Those serving on it are as follows: Joe Smith, Mrs. Martha Moye, Mrs. Dorothy Helwig, Skeet Creekmore, Mrs. Anita Brehm, Mrs. Anne Harrison, and Mrs. Grace Manning.

Hans and Mark evolved a new language which even their parents failed to understand. Onomatopoeia explains some of their primitive words, plus the other inclusions in their unique vocabulary. But this is also how our savage ancestors developed their tribal dialects.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
Case S-578: Hans and Mark, aged 16, are identical twins. "When they were little," their mother explained, "they played together a great deal. "And developed their own language.

"Daddy and I often could not comprehend what they said but they seemed able to understand each other perfectly.

"When they went to kindergarten, they also communicated easily with each other, but their teacher and the other children often couldn't comprehend what they were saying.

"For they apparently developed their own language. "And as I have thought more about it, I think this must be true of twins.

"For parents let them entertain themselves much of the time, figuring they have a playmate of their own age. "So twins probably fail to receive as much spoken language from their parents and other adults.

"Thus, they create a spoken language of their own which is very meaningful to them but not understood by others, even in their own family circle. "Doesn't this sound reasonable, Dr. Crane?"

Yes, this is a valid psychological observation. For young creatures often mimic others of their own kind, as well as outside creatures.

Mockingbirds thus imitate other sounds produced by feathered creatures. Parrots and parakeets even repeat human spoken words, too.

And our early psychologist, Conradi, took the eggs of English sparrows and placed them in the nests of canaries.

The canaries hatched the sparrow eggs and reared the young fledglings. Meanwhile, those baby sparrows never saw or heard any adult members of the English sparrow species.

But when they began to use their voices, they imitated the canaries. They would trill and sing, just like their adopted canary parents, except their voices were deeper.

When young twins are in the playpen together, one twin may notice that the other emits a certain sound when it falls and suffers a little pain.

Or it may detect a different note when its twin sibling is hungry or angry. So it seems to evolve a language based on common toddler situations and spontaneous cries or vocal utterances.

Onomatopoeia refers to formation of words in imitation of natural sounds, as buzz, hiss, tinkle, etc. This was one of the early bases of primitive language, supplemented quickly by the word "mama," plus animal cries of moo, ba-a, oink, woof, meow, quack and a few dozen other sounds that symbolized the creatures that uttered them.

Opening lead: King of ♠
The United States regained most of the ground lost to France in yesterday's hand taken from the World Championship held in Taipei last May when they capitalized a few deals later on another preemptive situation.

At the table where the Americans were seated North and South, South opened in third position with four hearts. Although an occasional slam may be missed by taking preemptive action with a sound opening bid, partner requires specific cards and his original pass substantially reduces the chances. The preemptive call inhibits competition from the opposition and served in the present case to make matters extremely difficult for West.

To overcall with four spades runs the risk of a substantial set, if partner has nothing. On the other hand, it is unlikely that East can be induced to bid spades himself when West holds such a concentration in the suit and the location of a couple of key cards such as the king of diamonds and the queen of clubs in partner's hand would provide West with an excellent play for 10 tricks.

West's decision to double is the conservative course induced by a willingness to settle for a penalty once the opposition has effectively barricaded normal communications. As the cards lay, even a modest profit was not available on defense.

The king of spades was opened and South ruffed the continuation. He cashed the king of hearts to which all hands followed and then a diamond was led. West put up the ace and continued with the queen, taken by North's king. A heart was led and when the queen appeared South covered with the king to draw the remaining trump. A trick was conceded to the king of clubs and the contract claimed. In all, declarer lost one spade, one diamond, and one club. The profit for the doubled game was 790 points.

At the other table, South also opened with four hearts, however, the American player holding the West cards chose to overcall with four spades instead of doubling. Although this bid could have been defeated two tricks for a maximum penalty of 500 points, the Americans were assured of a net gain on the deal. As matters developed, West was permitted to buy the hand undoubled.

A heart was led by North and after cashing two heart tricks, South shifted to the ace of clubs. When his partner followed with the five, South returned a trump. West played three rounds of trumps ending up in dummy and led a diamond and finessed the queen. North unwisely released his king and declarer was subsequently able to obtain a club discard on East's long diamond. In all he lost two hearts, one diamond, and one club to suffer a very modest 100 point deficit on the deal. The net gain to the United States was 690 points.

Quickly Nab 2 Suspects

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Two young men were arrested in an automobile minutes after a bank on the western outskirts of Charlotte was robbed Tuesday. The men, from Charlotte, were charged with the $4,800 holdup and held in bond of $20,000 each for federal court trial. The FBI identified them as John Calvin Isles, 26, and Ronald Dixon, 21.

Quickly Nab 2 Suspects

The robbery of the Hovis Road Branch of the Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. was the third bank robbery in North Carolina this year. The Hovis Road branch also was robbed last Sept. 28.

The FBI said a masked gunman fled with the cash to a getaway car in which another man was waiting. Isles and Dixon were arrested 15 minutes later on a rural road a mile from the bank.

New Diesels To Meet Standards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Development of a compact but powerful new diesel engine series which it says will meet environmental standards proposed for 1975 vehicle emissions while satisfying the continuing demand for more-powerful heavy-duty engines has been announced by Cummins Engine Co.

The "K" series, in 6-cylinder and 12-cylinder models, will cover a power range from 400 to 1200 horsepower, making it the most powerful engine ever built by the 52-year-old power specialist.

Drill Team To March Again

The East Carolina University AFROTC drill team will march for dimes here and in Farmville Saturday and in Kinston Friday night.

The dimes collected will go to the National Health Foundation, which sponsors the March of Dimes drive against birth defects each year.

The drill team will be at Five Points in downtown Greenville Saturday morning and at Pitt Plaza and Farmville that afternoon. They will drill at Vernon Park Mall in Kinston Friday night. While they march, other cadets and Angel Flight members will request donations at intersections throughout town.

the project chairman, Cadet Maj. Clyde Crusenberry, said.

The goal for this year's Marchathon is $2,900. Long one of the most successful fun-raising projects for the March of Dimes in the nation, last year's ECU AFROTC Marchathon raised $3,900.04 to top the $2,800 goal by over $1,000, local March of Dimes campaign chairman, Lee Moore, said.

Cadet Maj. Crusenberry cited the other cadets who have worked with him in planning this year's Marchathon and he praised local merchants who have promised to donate meals and refreshments to the Marchathon participants.

Helped Prepare A Policy Statement

A 21 member lay advisory committee helped prepare the policy statement on minority group studies, recently adopted by the State Board of Education.

Among the students of the committee were Mrs. LaRue Evans of Winterville and Robert Carraway of Greenville.

State School Superintendent Craig Phillips praised the work of the committee, saying "they are working hard to develop better human relations and cultural understanding among all the citizens of North Carolina."

The policy statement, adopted at the board's January meeting, says in part, "we must prepare our children to participate creatively in an increasing pluralistic society. To do this, we must make every effort to help them become more inclusive and understanding of all people."

"The inclusion of studies about minority groups has several purposes: to complete the American story; to fill an academic and cultural void; and to create an educational experience that is realistic and rewarding for every student."

The entire curriculum must be reviewed and revised. The revision should not isolate small numbers of heroes but should assure that minorities are included in the total picture. While it is not easy to revise a curriculum which has been characterized by a selectivity that has omitted the significant contributions of many people, this task must be done. Such a revision must be dynamic, contributing to the well-being of the entire school community.

Says Behavioral Science Skills More In Demand

Skills of the behavioral scientist are more in demand today than ever before, according to Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, chairman of the East Carolina University Department of Psychology. Psychologists "should welcome the opportunity to try to deal with the much larger subject matter of the problems of society today," Dr. Prewett said. He addressed the Western Carolina University Psychology Convocation at Cullowhee, N.C., on the subject "Involvement of Psychologists in Local Problems."

"The challenge is greater than the passive classroom, and the risk of failure is larger" because of the complexities of modern society, Dr. Prewett said. But he added, the "stimulation of dealing with these challenges is exhilarating and the rewards potentially very great."

Humphrey Visits N.C. Saturday

RALEIGH (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota will speak in Raleigh and Charlotte Saturday. The engagements had been scheduled before he announced last week as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president.

Bearden Sees New Obstacles For Tobacco

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Dr. James H. Bearden, dean of the School of Business at East Carolina University, says the U.S. tobacco industry should prepare for increased tobacco taxes, health considerations, synthetic tobacco, and world competition.

He told the 24th Tobacco Workers Conference Wednesday that it should not turn a deaf ear to a proposition for economic planning within the industry. Bearden said that if tobacco consumption goes down, farmers, workers and regions will suffer great economic hardships unless they can be shifted into other productive outlets.

He called for federal, state and industry participation to make plans for a possible reduction in tobacco use. Bearden left no doubt that he believed the tax on tobacco will increase.

He cited news reports within the past few days to stress the point. They included a story that the U.S. surgeon general suggests a cigarette tax based on nicotine content; the prediction of a chemical company executive that synthetic tobacco will be used within three years; an increased Greek import tax; a charge by the surgeon general that the tobacco industry is covering up smoking hazards; reports that smokers may soon have to move to the rear of the bus, and even one headline that smoking causes wrinkles.

Synthetic tobacco is the industry's biggest threat, he said, despite protests from cigarette companies that it is not a threat.

"It should be noted that the cigarette industry is not necessarily the same as the tobacco industry," Bearden said. He said manufacturers could shift to a tobacco substitute with few regrets about the tobacco farmer and worker.

N.C. Topless Clubs Obtain Court Order

RALEIGH (AP) — For the next nine days at least, North Carolina's topless night clubs can operate without threat of action by the state Board of Alcoholic Control.

The clubs obtained a court order Wednesday temporarily restraining the ABC Board from enforcing its order banning topless dancers from retail beer and wine outlets. The order was signed by Superior Court Judge J. William Copeland.

A hearing on the order was set for 10 a.m. Jan. 28 in the Wake County courthouse before Superior Court Judge Maurice Braswell.

The six topless night clubs in Raleigh were back in business on a topless basis Wednesday night. The operator of one club said he had checked with police to see if they planned to make any arrests. He said he was informed that the police would advise the clubs in advance if they planned to clamp down.

An official of the state ABC Board said earlier this week the retail beer and wine outlets in the state had been advised that topless dancers are out under a State Supreme Court ruling last Friday.

The attorney general's office as interpreted the ruling as saying female breasts are private parts of the body and exposure of them in public violates the obscenity law enacted by the 1971 General Assembly.

The Supreme Court struck down an Onslow County ordinance that forbade topless dancing on grounds it was preempted by the 1971 indecent exposure law.

Before the restraining order was obtained, topless dancers at Raleigh's "My Apartment" were converted into go-go girls for the club's regular lunchtime show. Ted Pace, the assistant manager, said there was a definite drop in business and the club had cut prices twice since receiving the no-topless order Monday night.

At Fayetteville, Rep. Sneed High, D-Cumberland, said he believes the ABC Board overstepped its authority in ordering the ban.

High said the action was a "left-handed way of administratively enforcing a criminal statute."

High, an attorney, said he would ask the board to tell him in writing what dancers may or not wear and "to be specific on what part of the bosom must be concealed." High added he does not think topless waitresses are included in the board's ban.

NCAE Says State Outlays Fell Behind

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Association of Educators says the Tar Heel state has fallen behind South Carolina and ranks 45th in the nation in per-child public education expenditures.

Dr. A. C. Dawson, executive secretary of the association, said Wednesday national studies show North Carolina is spending $695 per child this year compared to $700 in South Carolina and the nationwide average of $929.

He said this is the first time in recent history that North Carolina has dropped behind South Carolina. The state also trails Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Virginia and West Virginia.

Virginia leads the southeastern states with an expenditure of $875 per child.

"North Carolina citizens are expecting the impossible if they think $695 per child will buy the same quality of education here that $875 per child will buy in Virginia," Dawson said.

The NCAE announced earlier this week that it proposes to present a $328 million educational package to the 1973 General Assembly. Increased teacher salaries and 10-month employment for teachers are the top priority items.

"Educators generally consider the per pupil current expenditure the one best indicator of a state's effort on behalf of its public schools," Dawson said.

Fast Justice Given Trio

DUNN, N. C. (AP) — Three young men were arrested, tried and sentenced in the space of 10 hours Wednesday in connection with the theft of $152,893 in securities from a New Yorker's car.

The defendants were fined and given suspended sentences.

They were Jerome Braswell, 23, of Smithfield, N. C., and two Floridians, Donald Mures, 17, of Opa Locka and 16-year-old Jeffrey Krenn of Hialeah.

State District Court Judge Woodrow Hill found them guilty on breaking and entering charges. He placed them on probation for five years each and ordered them to pay $15 damages and a $250 fine each.

The youths were arrested shortly before 3 a. m. by a Dunn police officer who said he saw them break into a car in a motel parking lot.

The stocks and bonds were found in the boys' car, according to police Chief Ray G. Sullivan. He said the securities belonged to Joseph Schwartz of Rego Park, N. Y., a guest at the motel.

Since a policeman had seen the alleged theft, said Sullivan, the case was prepared for the 9:30 a. m. criminal session of court on Wednesday—the only day of the week court is held.

WCU President Resigns Post

CULLOWHEE, N. C. (AP) — Western Carolina University has announced that its president, Dr. Alex S. Pow, who suffered a stroke Oct. 31, has resigned because of his health.

Dr. Pow, 53, who was named president in 1968, will stay on at the state-supported university in another capacity which will not involve so much pressure. He has been a professor of political science.

Pow was vice president for academic affairs at the University of Alabama before coming to WCU.

The university announced the resignation Wednesday. It said that Frank H. Brown, vice president for administration, had been named acting president while the board of trustees searches for a new president.

Fossil plants and animals more than 200 million years old have been found in Antarctica.
