

Nixon Is Expected Morton Quits Governor's Meet Mao After Race For Lack Of Money Serious Talks End

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — President Nixon, tarrying here en route to his China summit talks, is likely to meet Chairman Mao Tse-tung in the picturesque resort city of Hangchow. American sources said this seemed a logical site for a Nixon-Mao conference since Hangchow, the next-to-last stop on the President's China itinerary, is a favored retreat of the 78-year-old Communist leader. A Hangchow meeting would further underscore the apparent political eclipse of Mao inasmuch as Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai are expected to dispose of serious negotiations in Peking before the American visitor sees Hangchow. The President and Mrs. Nixon, who arrived Thursday afternoon following a 10-hour non-stop flight from Washington, will remain in Hawaii until Saturday afternoon. Then they will fly to Guam for an overnight stay before proceeding to Shanghai and Peking. A major reason for the Hawaii stopover was to allow the Nixons to adjust gradually to the physical and psychological effects of traveling at jetspeed through time zones. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who was with them aboard the presidential plane, said in response to newsmen's questions that the U.S. government has no confirmation of a report that Le Duc Tho, the Hanoi official who conducted secret negotiations with presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, would arrive in Peking a day before Nixon. Rogers offered no support for speculation that the North Vietnamese official would be meeting with Nixon or other Americans in Peking. Several thousand persons, some waving "Aloha" banners, greeted the President and Mrs. Nixon at Kaneohe Marine Air Station.

The Nixons borrowed the 17-room home of Brig. Gen. Victor Armstrong, a brigade commander. The spacious frame dwelling on the Kaneohe base sits on a hilltop and commands a spectacular view of the Pacific and nearby natural stone attractions such as Pyramid Rock and Chinaman's Hat.

The President worked during most of the flight from Washington, conferring on his China agenda with Rogers and Kissinger, a principle architect of the historic mission.

Kissinger spent some 2½ hours alone with the chief executive while Rogers was with Nixon for less than an hour. Another measure of Kissinger's paramount influence in the China preparations: He was quartered next door to Nixon while Rogers was housed two doors away.

WITHDRAWAL — Hugh Morton announces at a Thursday rally he is withdrawing from the race for Governor. (AP Wirephoto)

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Hugh Morton of Wilmington has pulled out of the race for the Democratic nomination for governor for lack of money, touching off a spate of wooing by other candidates hoping to win his backing. "I haven't told anybody I preferred anybody," Morton said when asked if he would support one of the other candidates. "I have been contacted by supporters of both (Hargrove) Bowles and (Pat) Taylor," he added. "I'm going to vote for somebody, but I haven't made up my mind," Morton added. Meanwhile, State AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby told newsmen he probably will enter the governor's race as a Democrat and that he expected to reach a final decision Sunday. Earlier Taylor had made his candidacy official by paying a $385 filing fee to the state Board of Elections. Two other gubernatorial candidates, black dentist Reginald Hawkins and Rocky Mount businessman Jim Gardner planned to file today, Hawkins as a Democrat and Gardner as a Republican. Morton made his announcement of withdrawal to a stunned crowd of 300 supporters who had gathered at a Raleigh hotel to celebrate his filing as a candidate. "Let me assure you that money is the one and only reason why I'm leaving the race," Morton said. Before Morton withdrew, an Associated Press poll indicated Taylor was leading in the race. Of 59 county Democratic chairmen who answered to poll, 47 said Taylor was leading in their counties. Ten said Bowles was leading in theirs, while only one had Morton out in front. There were none who said Hawkins or Eden school teacher Zeb Vance Dickson were leading in their counties. "The only honorable thing is to come out and tell you what the situation is," Morton told his supporters. "I'd feel I'm imposing on you if I told you something other than I believe myself. That's just the way it is."

Morton said he had spent $50,000 of his own money in the nine months he has been campaigning and probably will have to spend more before his campaign affairs are settled. He estimated it would cost $500,000 to finance a campaign through the first primary. Morton said "new Internal Revenue Service restrictions ... which have practically dried up the usual revenue sources," was a major reason for the lack of campaign funds.

Announce 7 Planes Lost

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the loss of seven more planes in the Indochina war, including three shot down during the heavy raids on North Vietnam this week, a spotter plane in Cambodia and three others between Feb. 4 and Feb. 13.

All six fliers aboard the planes lost in North Vietnam were missing, and three crewmen were killed and one was injured in the other crashes.

While the command admitted three losses during the attacks north of the demilitarized zone Wednesday and Thursday, North Vietnam claimed its forces shot down seven of the U.S. raiders, damaged several others and killed or captured a number of pilots.

The plane losses over the North—two Air Force F4 Phantoms and an F105—were the heaviest since three jets were shot down during the last heavy raids on North Vietnam Dec. 26-30.

Pilots reported about 35 missiles were fired at them. The three planes downed were hit by the Soviet-built SAMS in an area less than 15 miles above the DMZ, the command said.

The U.S. Command, announcing results of the 50 hours of air strikes at North Vietnam which ended at dusk Thursday, said they destroyed or damaged seven long-range 130-mm artillery guns, two surface-to-air missile sites and five 85mm antiaircraft artillery guns. The main target of the strikes were the 130mm guns, which have a range of more than 16 miles and are the most powerful North Vietnam has. The command said they had been moved into the DMZ region for the first time in the war.

"If the South Vietnamese get rolled up, we get rolled up with them," said one American officer. "We're very reliant on the South Vietnamese for security." "The long-range guns were the prime targets, but in order to get to them with some degree of safety, we also had to go after the SAMS and antiaircraft guns. The area where we struck is heavily defended."

In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong's four-day cease-fire for the Tet festival of the lunar new year ended at 1 a.m., and a rash of small attacks was reported in the Saigon region and along the central and northern coasts. Casualties included one American wounded, seven South Vietnamese and one Viet Cong killed, and 27 South Vietnamese wounded.

Hawkins In Pitt

Dr. Reginald Hawkins, Negro candidate for governor, will be in Greenville and Pitt County Saturday on a campaign tour.

The Charlotte dentist, who announced his gubernatorial candidacy several weeks ago, will first be at a press conference at Holiday Inn at 2:00 p.m.

Following the press conference, Dr. Hawkins will make a series of stops at various points in the county — Bethel, Farmville, Ayden, Grimesland, Pactolus, Falkland, and Fountain in a people to people program.

Dr. Hawkins' final appearance in Greenville Saturday will be for a major speech at Cornerstone Baptist Church, at 13th and Railroad Streets. At that time the candidate has said he will spell out the major issues of his platform.

Rev. William B. Moore, pastor of Cornerstone and spokesman for the Negro candidate, says the public is invited to be on hand for Dr. Hawkins' appearances and to meet and talk to the candidate.

A report on the board's decision regarding the middle-junior high school site is one of the agenda items for the meeting of the Greenville City School Board at 8:00 p.m. Monday night.

Other items scheduled to be discussed include a request for a special research study; an organizational report from the February 14 meeting of the Citizens Advisory Committee; and approval of a school calendar revision to make up a day lost due to bad weather.

The board will also be considering routine matters in the areas of personnel, budget-finance, school facilities and curriculum. The meeting will be held in the board room of the City School office on West Fifth Street.

Jesse Helms Is In Senate Race

RALEIGH (AP) — Broadcast executive Jesse Helms of Raleigh filed today as a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Democrat B. Everett Jordan.

Helms, 50, issued a written statement that he was convinced "that North Carolinians yearn for political forthrightness among our leaders, for a return to sanity, honesty and economy in their government, and for a meaningful two-party system that will give them a choice."

Helms is executive vice president of WRAL-TV in Raleigh, where he also serves as an editorialist five days each week. "I have tried to level with the people and, in turn, they have leveled with me," Helms said in his statement. "The deluge of mail I have received constantly through the years has convinced me that the people of my state do share the concerns I have tried to voice and the principles I have tried to defend."

Helms switched his political party affiliation from Democrat to Republican two years ago.

$129,982 To Pitt

Pitt County will receive $129,982.71 in local one per cent sales tax returns collected by the state in January, it was announced by the North Carolina Department of Revenue.

G. A. Jones Jr., revenue commissioner, reported that the Pitt County taxes were part of $6,262,734.46 collected in the 65 counties that voted last year to impose the local option levies. The one per cent tax is included in sales tax charges and is returned to each county.

Jones announced that sales and use tax collections in neighboring Greene County totaled $8,267.45 and Beaufort County registered $58,406.59. The only other county in this area to adopt the tax was Lenoir and total collections there for January were $111,727.70.

Mecklenburg County in the Piedmont topped the other counties in collections with $923,936.51 while Camden County near the coast stands to receive the least in sales tax returns with $1,932.88.

Reject Request For TV 'Reply'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has rejected a request of the Democratic National Committee that it receive time from the three major television networks to respond to Nixon administration economic messages.

The committee requested time to respond to three TV and radio appearances by President Nixon, one radio broadcast by Nixon and three TV press conferences by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

The Democrats said a 1970 decision requiring ABC, CBS and NBC to provide time for presentation of contrasting viewpoints to the President's message on Vietnam also required them to provide time to respond to the latest statements.

The networks replied that they have provided a reasonable opportunity for the presentation of opposing views on issues raised by the administration's economic policies.

The commission said the Fairness Doctrine does not require a broadcaster to give time to any particular person or organization unless there is a personal attack.

To do as the Democrats asked, the FCC said, would move the commission toward an "equal-opportunity" requirement which it has consistently refused to adopt and which "Congress has made clear that it did not intend to engraft on the Fairness Doctrine."

Schools Closed By Racial Clash

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Classes were suspended in all city schools today after a racial melee at Statesville High School Thursday left nine students injured, one seriously.

School officials said the fight broke out as students were changing classes shortly after 1 p.m. They reported that dozens of black and white students were involved on each side.

One white student, David S. Gaines, 17, sustained a fractured skull and was taken to Winston-Salem Baptist Hospital, where he was listed in satisfactory condition. Six others were treated at a local hospital and released.

One black youth, Robert Gray, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct as police cleared the school building after breaking up the fight.

The immediate cause of the fight was undetermined but school officials said racial tensions had been climbing for a week as a result of a series of minor incidents.

The Statesville board of education met in emergency session Thursday night and canceled all classes today. A state Department of Public Instruction trouble-shooter was due to arrive in Statesville today and begin a study of the situation.

Statesville schools were integrated under a court order in 1970. About 20 per cent of the 800 high school students are black.

Makes Miners Offer

LONDON (AP) — The coal strike inquiry board today offered Britain's 280,000 striking coal miners pay increases which went far toward meeting their demands.

Leaders of the national Union of Mineworkers went into a huddle to consider whether to accept the offer and end the six-week-old strike that threatens to paralyze British industry by the end of the month.

The miners' employers, the National Coal Board, immediately accepted the settlement terms proposed by the three-man commission headed by Lord Wilberforce, a former High Court judge.

The tribunal recommended increases ranging from $11.70 to $15.60 a week. The miners, whose pay varies between $49.40 and $74.10, had demanded $15.60, while the coal board offered $7.80.

The inquiry board said it was offering considerably more than the board offered because this was "in the interests of the nation as a whole."

It recommended that the raises be retroactive to Nov. 1 and that the scale prevail for 16 months from then.

The government warned, meanwhile, that drastic new power cuts will hit homes and factories next Wednesday whatever the miners decide.

Officials said the worst blackouts since the World War II Blitz would probably last only a short time if the miners go back to work next week.

Gardner Files; Invites Debates

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Republican business executive Jim Gardner filed as a candidate for governor in North Carolina today and, in doing so, threw out a challenge for opponents from all parties to face him in public debates.

Gardner, who polled more than 700,000 votes in losing to Gov. Bob Scott in 1968, aimed his challenge at Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, a Democratic candidate, but later extended it to cover all Democratic and Republican hopefuls.

"I'm willing to start anywhere, in the west or in the east, in a series of open forum debates to discuss head to head, face to face, live, the true issues facing this state," Gardner told a news conference.

Gardner said he singled out Taylor for the initial challenge because "he happened to be the first one I've heard to say let's get down to serious business." He avoided direct answers to inquiries as to whether he thought Taylor would win the Democratic nomination.

Taylor could not be reached immediately.

But Lindsay Warren, Taylor's campaign manager, brushed aside the challenge as being premature.

"I would say that there is ample time for that between now and the general election in November," Warren said. "As soon as we have been nominated as the Democratic nominee, we'll be delighted to turn our attention to the Republican nominee — whoever he may be."

Gardner is opposed for the GOP nomination by Rep. Jim Holshouser of Boone, a former Republican state chairman; T. F. Willard, a Guilford County carpenter; and Leroy Gibson of Jacksonville, an insurance salesman and founder of the militant Rights of White People organization.

Governor Reminds Services Must Be Paid For

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott says candidates who promise new services without new taxes should be pinned down on exactly where they intend to cut to finance their programs.

"New or expanded services require new or expanded revenues," Scott said Thursday night. "I can vouch for the fact this is an elementary fact of political life."

Scott spoke at a meeting of the Piedmont chapter of the National Association of Accountants. The governor also revealed that a recent study by the Research Triangle Institute for the Department of Administration forecast a state deficit of $411 million in 1980 based on present revenue sources and programs.

Scott quoted the report as saying that the main reason for the large projected deficit "is that the state's personal income is not projected to grow at as great a rate in the 1970's as it has during the 1960's ..."

The report said, "Any programs calling for the delivery of an improved quality of services would, of course, require increased expenditures over those shown and a correspondingly larger deficit if revenues are not also increased." Scott noted that state law forbids deficit spending, and the state must raise revenues sufficient to cover all expenditures.

He said candidates "who are tempted to take the something-for-nothing line—who might say that significant new services can somehow be provided with the same resources—had best be cautious."

Inflation and the increased cost of doing business will consume most of any accumulated surplus or credit balance the state has, he said. "And then there is the argument that expanded services can be accommodated within the existing revenue base by a simple reordering of priorities or emphasis.

"But again, one must be careful. Education accounts for 70 per cent of our outlay in the general fund and health services account for another 10 per cent.

"Where would you cut, and why, and how much and for the benefit of what other category?"

"... Those who say they will cut back or eliminate should not be allowed to deal in generalities," Scott said. "They should be specific and say what programs or services will be trimmed."

Old Fixtures Can Be Used In Remodeled Bathrooms

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Many houses with old-fashioned bathroom fixtures can be updated without doing an expensive remodeling job, points out artist-designer Jack Denst, who has just remodeled his 90-year-old Victorian House in Chicago.

While he used "every trick in the book," he says, to make rooms look larger, he may have taxed his ingenuity more in the bathroom than any other place.

Instead of using a lot of mirror-bright finishes, he decided to turn the bathroom's old features into decorative assets, adding a few contemporary attractions without incurring too big an investment. The removal of a small wall of a tiny bedroom next to it provided him with more space, and a tiny closet became a shower stall.

A bathtub with claw feet was moved to a more prominent position. Still utilizing existing plumbing at its former position along the wall, it now puts out into the room. Behind it on a wall covered with a patterned bronze foil, he placed a convex "shoplifter's mirror."

Still following the old theme, Denst used an old-fashioned coat rack as a towel rack and he covered the narrow window in the 12-foot high room with three tiers of brown shutters. Next to the window he boxed in a section of old pipes covering it with brown suede.

Instead of concealing the toilet behind a costly partition as one might find in new homes, Denst used a smoke-colored

Members Hears Program By Dr. Rives

"Elegance in North Carolina in the Eighteenth Century" was the program topic for the meeting of the Chatham Book Club Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. Ralph Rives' introductory remarks dealt with the English ancestry of the majority of the inhabitants during that period and the fact that they lived according to their English traditions.

He called attention to the number of towns that were named after those of the mother country. "Furnishings and luxury items," he said, "we imported as there were no skilled craftsmen in the colony until the latter part of the century."

"Many of the earliest homes were of the gambrel-roof type of English-Dutch origin. This form, later, gave way to many of the architectural features of the West Indies, which were more suitable to our climate."

Dr. Rives accompanied his talk by showing slides of Eighteenth Century homes and interiors located in the north eastern and coastal sections of the state.

Mrs. A. C. Ruffin, president, conducted a business session following the program. Mrs. R. W. Stark was hostess for the meeting.

Guests included Dr. Rives and Mrs. Melvin Stanforth.

Luncheon Given Club Members

Mrs. J. D. Wilson Jr. and Mrs. Don Freeman were hostesses for the Bonae Artes Book Club luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Wilson.

Following the luncheon, a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Herbert Carlton, president.

Mrs. Virgil Clark and Mrs. James Tucker will be hostesses for the next meeting.

Should Twins Dress Alike?

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you said, "If identical twins really want to be 'individuals,' they should not dress alike."

I am an identical twin, and I disagree with you because my twin and I have been mistaken for each other just as often, wearing entirely different outfits as when we dressed alike.

Dressed differently, we had to identify ourselves to everyone we met. ("I'm June, dressed in green today. Jean is wearing blue.")

We felt we were more individually identified when we dressed alike because then people would have to find a distinguishing facial feature, a mole, something personal in order to tell one from the other.

I have often heard the "Don't-dress-twins-alike" theory to encourage their individuality, but I cannot believe that clothes make the twins or the individual.

Sincerely,
MRS. J. P. A.

DEAR MRS. A.: I see your point, but do not agree with you. I maintain that when twins are small, and have no voice in their selection of clothing, most mothers will dress them alike because they look so cute. But as soon as they are old enough to express themselves, their individual preferences (if indeed they have any) should be respected and encouraged. Twins who dress themselves identically are saying, "Look at us. We're twins!" [P. S. I asked my twin and she agrees with me.]

DEAR ABBY: How does a respectable man keep from falling in love with his neighbor's wife?

STARTING TO FALL

DEAR STARTING: He keeps a "respectable" distance from her.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend and I are mature adults who are living together in an apartment near my parents' home. My parents are not crazy about this setup, but they have accepted it. The problem is this: When my folks go South for a month they want someone to stay at their house, and since I am an only child, I stay there. It's no hardship for me, but my boy friend feels that he should be able to stay with me at my parents' home, too, and I don't agree with him.

I know my parents would be hurt if I brought this kind of living into their home. I have let him stay with me at my folks' home a few nights, and I felt terrible about it.

We have argued a lot about this, and I think I am right. He thinks HE is right. What do you think?

ONLY DAUGHTER

DEAR ONLY: I think you are right.

DEAR ABBY: A question for "SOPPING WET AND COVERED WITH DOG HAIR IN HARTFORD": Was this the dinner party at which the hostess said, "I'm sorry there are no napkins, but from time to time a large shaggy dog will pass among you"?

BEEF POT ROAST — Small whole onions, carrots and mushrooms are added and the gravy includes tomato sauce. Good to serve with noodles.

This Pot Roast Goes Into The Oven

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Once upon a time pot roasts were usually cooked on top of the range. But nowadays many cooks like to bake the roasts, tightly covered, in the oven. This has its advantages because no watching to keep the heat even is necessary. The following recipe uses the oven technique.

OVEN POT ROAST WITH VEGETABLES

- 1 can (15 ounces) special tomato sauce
- 1½ cups dry white wine
- 1 cup water
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 beef bouillon cubes, crumbled
- 1 bay leaf
- ½ teaspoon thyme
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 5-pound boneless beef rump roast
- 8 to 10 small whole white onions, peeled
- 3 to 4 carrots, pared and thickly sliced
- ½ pound small fresh mushrooms
- 4 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup cold water
- Hot cooked noodles

In a large heavy saucepot (about 5 quarts) mix together the tomato sauce, wine, 1 cup water, garlic, bouillon cubes, bay leaf, thyme and pepper.

Place roast in saucepot; cover. Bake in a 300-degree oven for 2 hours; add onions, carrots and mushrooms; bake until meat and vegetables are fork-tender—about 1 hour longer.

Mrs. Hanifer Is Speaker

The Seira Book Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Elvin Holstius. Mrs. Thomas Hanifer presented the program, showing some of the equipment and methods used in the Remedial Reading programs in the Pitt County School System.

Remove roast and vegetables, discarding bay leaf, to warm platter and keep warm.

There should be no more than a film of fat on the liquid in the saucepot; if there is more, skim off excess. Measure liquid and if there is less than 1 quart, add broth to make this amount; if there is more than 1 quart liquid, boil it until it is reduced to this amount.

In a small mixing bowl, whisk together flour and ¼ cup cold water until smooth; gradually whisk in 1 cup of the hot liquid in saucepot, keeping smooth; return to saucepot. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Serve meat and vegetables with noodles; pass gravy. Makes 8 to 10 servings. NOTE: If any meat is left over, refrigerate. It will be delicious sliced cold and used in sandwiches.

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By DUANE WILLIAMS
D. H. Conley's Student Task Force is conducting a drug survey this week. The drug survey will be conducted by the 16 members in the Task Force.

The purpose of the survey is to try to determine how bad the drug problem is in Pitt County. Another purpose of the survey is to see how the people of Pitt County can approach this situation.

The survey sheet which will be given to each student is completely anonymous. No student's name will be on any sheet. After the survey, all sheets will be put in a central box which also contains all the sheets from the other high schools in Pitt County. Students are urged to cooperate in successfully completing this survey.

Fund raising drives now seem to be going all over Conley High School. Students are working in earnest to sell their products to raise money for their respective interests. The freshman class is planning a cake sale to raise money for their Freshman Prom in May. The FBLA is sponsoring a drive to raise money for their State Convention to be held in Durham. The members are selling stationery and also brushes to clean car windows. Yet another club, VICA, is selling candy to buy a small van which will serve as an activity bus for cheerleaders.

D. H. Conley's aviation science class will be traveling to Washington, D.C., next Thursday. The class has worked all year on various projects to raise money for the four-day trip.

A trip to McGinnins Auditorium at ECU highlighted the week for a group of Conley English students. The students left school Monday afternoon to watch a Shakespearean comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing," given by the East Carolina Drama Club.

Wrestling
D. H. Conley's wrestling team, under the excellent coaching of Steve Morgan, has captured the Eastern Carolina Conference Wrestling Championship in their first year of existence. In the conference tournament held at Farmville Central last Wednesday Conley placed first in a field of five. Conley also captured a win Tuesday night over Plymouth High School.

Conley is hosting the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament. The tournament which started Monday night will continue through Friday night. Conley's girls have advanced into the semifinals with a victory over North Lenoir and the boys' team played C. B. Aycock last night. Good luck, Vikings.

Billionaire, 85, Works As Usual

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Oil billionaire H. L. Hunt, one of the world's richest men, has celebrated his 83rd birthday—by going to the office as usual.

"Saturdays and holidays are days when I have to get things done," says Hunt, who still works six days a week.

Although he says he "rather dreads" birthdays and parties, his staff honored him Thursday with a small celebration and presented him with a birthday card 5 feet tall. It carried verse composed by the office receptionist.

Nixon's Effort Opens A Door

President Nixon is currently on an historic visit to Red China, where he is meeting with high government officials there to discuss our mutual problems.

No one expects this visit to radically change the Red Chinese-American relationship over night. However, the trip is recognized as a major change in United States policy insofar as China is concerned. It is strongly possible that the groundwork will be laid for better relations between the two countries, leading eventually to the exchanging of ambassadors.

The visit could be of enormous benefit in the continuing search for ways to maintain world peace. We have to face the possibility that it could fizzle and nothing will come of this effort to re-establish relations between the American and Chinese people. We are inclined to be optimistic about Pres. Nixon's visit to Peking, however. We

Pigeon Racing Grows In N.C.

-By JOEL GROVES-
(Gastonia Gazette)

RANLO, N.C. — Flashing wings fill the air. The birds circle once to get their bearing, then turn instinctively toward home. This is pigeon racing.

A little known but popular sport, it has a growing number of fans in North Carolina. Clubs from Winston-Salem, High Point, Greensboro, Lexington, Concord and Kannapolis are among those represented in the North Carolina Combine Association.

E.A. Cathey of Ranlo is one of the pigeon racing enthusiasts, having won 69 first place trophies in racing with hundreds of awards for second, third and fourth place finishes.

Cathey has been raising and racing pigeons for more than 18 years. In 1957 he and three other men formed the Gaston County Club which now has 13 members and adds one or two members each year as the sport grows in popularity.

"The difference between the common pigeon and the racing pigeon is the same as the difference between a work horse and a race horse," Cathey said.

Flock of 115 Racers

He has approximately 115 pigeons now with quite an elaborate roost-and-breeder setup to raise his prize pigeons.

A large house holds most of his pigeons with the cocks and hens separated. In each roost a cubby-hole arrangement provides individual roosts for each bird.

"Each pigeon has its own roost that it goes to each night," Cathey said. "If they begin roosting in one place, then they will go to that place every time."

The homing instinct is the idea in pigeon racing. Pigeons are marked so they can be identified and released anywhere from 100 to 500 miles away at a predetermined time.

The owners then await the arrival of their pigeons at home where the birds are timed on how long it took them to fly the distance. Times are computed in yards per minute, and the fastest time is the winner of the race.

Veteran of Many Flights

"I have one bird that is 11 years old," Cathey said. "It has flown in at least six 500-mile races and flown more than 8,000 miles in race competition."

Cathey's reports show how each pigeon has performed, but there is also a space reading "lost in York" or "lost in Tampa," which is the sad part of racing.

"We never know just what happens to the pigeons when they are lost," Cathey said. "They just don't return home. The funny thing is that we probably lose more pigeons on the short races than on the long ones."

Cathey also breeds his own pigeons, attempting to bring out the best qualities in a racer.

Record-Keeping Guides Breeding

"What we usually do is just breed the pigeons that have proven to give the best performance in the most races," Cathey said. "Here the records we keep are important."

The average time for a 400-mile race is 10 hours, Cathey said. His pigeons always fly somewhere between 40 and 48 miles per hour during a race.

"The only time a bird will come down during a race is for water," Cathey said. "They don't come down to feed. They fly most of the time."

The opening races of the season are for the old birds, beginning March 18, according to Cathey. The young birds begin racing in the fall.

Cathey said that the old birds need only to be conditioned for the racing season.

"The only way to condition a bird is to take it out and let it fly back," Cathey said. "The usual length for training is 100 miles. I usually take them down to Greenville (S.C.) which is about that distance."

With March coming on, Cathey will be hitching up the trailer he uses to transport his pigeons and making many training trips in the next few weeks.

"Probably one of the biggest troubles with so much federal regulation these days is that many of the people directing the federal programs are long on theory and short on business experience." —Moville (Iowa) Record.

believe the trip will lead to further contracts and, while it will be many years before the two countries become close allies, we do see better relations ahead.

North Carolina Felt Frank Graham's Impact

The death of Dr. Frank Porter Graham in Chapel Hill removes one of the giants in public life from the North Carolina scene.

At 85, Dr. Graham had been inactive in public affairs for some time. However, in 1930 he was elected president of the University of North Carolina and a few years later he was named president of the Consolidated University. From then until 1949 he was overseer of the University's development into a great institution.

He was appointed to the U.S. Senate in 1949 but was defeated in a heated campaign. As so often happens with men of foresight, Dr. Graham's ideals would likely be acceptable to the North Carolina electorate of today.

Dr. Graham had great impact on North Carolina during his long career. His influence will be felt for many generations to come.

Tide Against School Busing

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — At the moment Monday morning that President Nixon was plotting anti-busing strategy in the White House with conservative Congressmen of both parties, one of the leading liberal-labor Democrats in the House — Rep. James G. O'Hara of Michigan — was quietly polishing his own anti-busing amendment to deal with the country's hottest domestic political issue.

O'Hara is a former chairman of the liberal Democratic Study Group in the House, one of Hubert Humphrey's stalwarts in the 1968 Presidential campaign, and a trusted Congressional supporter of the United Auto Workers. It is, then, remarkable that he has been secretly perfecting a moderate anti-busing Constitutional amendment of his own. As an acknowledged leader of Democratic liberals, O'Hara can by no stretch be kissed off as a racial bigot.

Jim O'Hara's emergence as an anti-buser shows that Mr. Nixon is far ahead of the serious Democratic Presidential contenders (except for Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who chose the same Monday morning to endorse an anti-busing amendment) in perceiving public opposition to forced racial busing of school children. The Democratic candidates seeking a middle-course on busing are out of touch with mainline sentiment in Congress and among the public.

Given O'Hara's standing among House Democrats and with Mr. Nixon's new commitment to block pro-busing decisions of the Federal courts, a Constitutional amendment would surely pass the House by the required two-thirds majority.

The more liberal Senate would pose more opposition. Even there, however, there are recent signs of political worry by such leading school integrationists as Sen. Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, whose allies back home have been warning him of rising public resentment about busing.

Pressure on the President to support an anti-busing Constitutional amendment began a year ago. At that time Clarke Reed, Mississippi Republican state chairman, and other Southern Republican leaders began lobbying Atty. Gen. John Mitchell.

Their concern: the profusion of Federal court decisions ordering school districts to engage in massive crosstown busing was threatening the President's Southern strategy, aimed at capturing the 1968 George Wallace vote to give him a solid national majority in 1972.

Until Monday, the President held back. He denounced busing but refused to risk prestige by coming out for a remedy, either an act of Congress or a Constitutional amendment. As one Presidential intimate told us: "The President was worried about polishing up the old Tricky Dick image." Besides, having refused to take a position on the equal-rights-for-women Constitutional amendment on grounds that the process of amending the Constitution is no business of the President, Mr. Nixon did not want to appear inconsistent.

That reluctance gradually disappeared as political pressures rose and 143 House members (split about equally between Democrats and Republicans) signed a discharge petition to force a House vote on an anti-busing Constitutional amendment.

In the background was the voice of Gov. George Wallace, charging in the Democratic Presidential primaries that Mr. Nixon said he was against busing but let his Administration underwrite pro-busing

Red China Lobby Crowd

WASHINGTON — Whether President Nixon planned it or not, his trip to China has created an elite White House press corps that has split the correspondents in Washington asunder.

By choosing 87 TV commentators, technicians, newspapermen and columnists out of 2,000 applicants, Mr. Nixon has conferred the nearest thing to knighthood on the correspondents making the trip.

For the past week the White House press room has been divided between those who got their cholera shots and those who didn't.

"The Red China Lobby Crowd," as they are bitterly referred to by the newspapermen who aren't going, were easy to identify because they kept waving the Little Red Books of Mao Tse-tung during last week's press briefings.

They also could be found in the Executive Office Building cafeteria eating their chili and beans with chopsticks.

In fairness to the Red China Lobby Crowd, they tried to keep a low profile once the list of those who would accompany President Nixon was posted. Many went out of their way to be nice to those who hadn't been chosen. One of them gave out free fortune cookies during Henry Kissinger's briefings. Another served jasmine tea during a poker game in the lounge. Others handed out bowls of rice to their new-hungry fellow correspondents.

But despite this outward display of friendship, there was a feeling on the part of those who weren't going with President Nixon that the Red China Lobby Crowd was patronizing them.

There was nothing anyone could put his finger on, but there were little things that added up. One correspondent who was making the trip refused to take off his quilted Mao jacket in the press room. Another had his name in Chinese plastered on his portable typewriter, and still another man kept referring to those who weren't going as "counter-revolutionnaires."

Adding insult to injury, the 87 elitists did exercises every morning in front of a portrait of Mao on the White House lawn. This was followed by a 10-mile swim down the Potomac, where they shouted slogans of support for the Cultural Revolution.

As if this weren't enough, some of the Red China Lobby Crowd started to confess their sins publicly in front of Ron Ziegler and asked to be sent to state farms after their trip so they could be "rehabilitated."

One White House correspondent who had been turned down said, "I don't give a damn how the elitists behave now. But it's when they come back from the trip that they'll be insufferable. After eight days in China they'll all be experts, and God help us when they start spinning their tales of what happened to them when they visited a tire factory in Peking."

Other Editors Say Another Take-Over?

(The Wilson Times)

At the rate the federal government is going, it will not be long before the only thing you can do for yourself is to breathe. Private pension plans are now coming under the jurisdiction of Congress. Changes will be made in the private pension plans within a year or so, either at the current session or early next year.

As usual the results will be to cost employers more money. The majority of the pension plans have stipulations of length of time you work in order to come under the coverage. One of the objectives is to give guaranteed protection to people who change jobs so often that they can not count on accumulating vesting.

The government would be doing the workers a favor if the direction was toward rewarding those who work and hold their jobs rather than providing protection for those who change jobs.

Under the plans now being made a minimum pension will be guaranteed. The workers will get 75 per cent of their average pay for the last three years they worked. Employers will pay into a special fund to make sure the money is there.

When the company pays the entire cost of the pension and it is worked out under an approved plan what becomes of it? Most plans call for retirement at 65. Under the plan now being considered the employers will "own" their pension sooner, earlier vesting will be required by law.

The government would be doing the workers a favor if those who are studying the subject would look into the coverage now being provided. In the majority of cases coverage is provided for those who die before 65 so as to help provide for the families.

All the plans provided by the federal government are not always better than plans provided by private industry and under trust and special supervision.

There are plans to work out. So comparisons should be made and then we are certain in many cases, the government will find the employees have been given the best breaks from private industry.

Psychologists For Economists

By ELMER ROESSNER

The Nixon Administration may need more psychologists and fewer economists to get the boom sounding again.

Consumer savings are high. Yet poll after poll reflects consumer reluctance to spend freely. There's a willingness to make housing and auto purchases, especially when they may be urgent necessities, but less willingness to purchase other things. Have you noticed the large number of sales recently?

"Troubled times have left a psychological mark on people," Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress. "Something has happened to our system of responses," he added, referring to the fact that traditional recipes such as easy credit and big budget deficits haven't worked well. He cited as psychologically upsetting things as "a very long and most unhappy war," the school busing controversy, the impending youth vote, the recollection of campus disorders and urban race riots and the fact that "women are marching in the streets." He could have added the rising state and local taxes and the threat of more to come.

Mass psychology undoubtedly has great effect on human affairs. The Mississippi Bubble, a financial scheme that bankrupted half of France in the 1720s was a product of mass hysteria; so was the boom that preceded the bust of 1929.

In World War II, when American bombers met effective anti-aircraft fire, the number of bombers that landed in Sweden rose. When German anti-aircraft fire became less effective, more U.S. bombers got back to England on a wing and a prayer. Yet authorities agreed that the men who landed in Sweden were just as brave as those who made it safely back.

There is a parallel today. William P. Montgomery, manager of Kemper's group insurance division told the American Management Association that the number of claims workers file for long-term benefits goes up as unemployment increases.

He added that "more fraudulent long-term disability claims are filed when there is a recession than when jobs are plentiful. Any one claim could involve $50,000 to $1,000,000."

He may be right in his estimate of the rise of frauds, but it is also probably true that in good times a man with a pain in the back will assure himself that it will go away

Black Eye Is A Gift

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little chores is explaining how you got a black eye.

An optimist is a guy who thinks his story will be widely believed.

A cynic is a guy who thinks nobody will believe his tale, not even himself.

The cynic is usually right.

There is a sex difference in black eyes—as there is in everything else. If a woman gets a black eye, it is automatically assumed by one and all that she either got it innocently and accidentally or was beaten up by her husband, the brute. But if a man gets a black eye, it is automatically assumed that he was up to some kind of wrongdoing and merely got what he deserved.

A black eye is, of course, merely God's way of giving a man his comeuppance and saving him from his overweening pride. Without an occasional black eye to keep him humble, man would be unbearable.

The average man probably gets a black eye about once every 10 years of his life.

An odd thing about their occurrence is that they usually happen to a man when it is particularly embarrassing for him to have one. For example, it is most likely for him to acquire a black eye the day before he is supposed to make a speech.

It is rare indeed for him to get a black eye while he's in the hospital or the day after he goes into the woods on a two-week camping trip, when only bears and bluejays can jeer at him.

There are endless excuses given by victims as to how they got a black eye. Here are a few (Continued on page 5)

Since Dempsey started to blaze another comeback, he has smashed his way to victory after victory but hardly against fighter men of the Levinsky variety.

The bi-centennial celebration of the birthday of George Washington, "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen" will be fittingly observed in Greenville next Monday. Although there will be no special exercises in connection with the occasion, banks and the post office will be closed and various clubs and organizations will render programs in keeping with the day.

Strength For Today

LET'S BE ON OUR WAY
The word "discipline" has basic meaning of "teaching, instructing, training." The persons that Jesus gathered about himself in his brief but significant ministry were called disciples. They were learners. They were being taught something of infinite value.

Discipline in the minds of many people means something heavy and unpleasant. Usually it means punishment. This, however, is because many people associate the word discipline with something hard and unpleasant. They were disciplined in school — probably at the end of a stick. The soldier in the army is disciplined. The athlete in training for some outstanding event is disciplined.

Discipline is learning. To be disciplined means to be taught something.

We would probably be a lot happier than we actually are if we took the word discipline at its face value (learning). The whole of life is a discipline, and the people who emerge and become leaders are people who have accepted discipline at its full value and made the best of it. Life ought to be made better every time we encounter a new truth or learn more about an old truth.

We need more discipline in life—not less. On the last day of our lives we should be learning something new or learning more about something old. When we stop learning we stop living. A distinguished surgeon holds tenaciously to the conviction that everyone should have at least two careers. He has not performed an operation in years, but he has written some excellent novels. Time will test the soundness of his theories. In the meantime he's on his way.

Alumni Seek Funds For Scholarships

The local chapter of the St. Augustine College Alumni Association is currently attempting to raise funds with which to establish a scholarship program designed to help worthy students attend the Raleigh school.

M.G. Frizzell of Greenville, president of the local alumni chapter, said funds are being raised through socials, alumni chapter memberships, and various contributions. He said, too, that a ball game may be held to help provide money for the project.

Frizzell noted that the Rev. William Hadden of Greenville and St. Paul's Episcopal Church have assisted both the local alumni and the college in their efforts to provide scholarship program needs.

The local alumni chapter officer explained that St. Augustine's College was founded in 1887 through the joint efforts of the Freedmen's Commission of the Protestant Episcopal Church and a group of clergy and laymen of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina. It opened as the St. Augustine's Normal School and Collegiate Institute in January 1888 with four students.

The first bachelor's degrees were awarded by St. Augustine's decisions of the Federal courts.

Dr. Robert Hause, conductor of the orchestra, will conduct the program on Sunday. On Sunday's program, two faculty members will be featured in the comical Camille Saint-Saens composition Carnival of the Animals. Charles Bath and Paul Tardiff will be duo-pianists in this work.

Then, Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, the House Republican leader, went to the mat with the President and Mitchell. Ford begged the Attorney General to intervene against court busing orders with all the power of the Federal government. That set the stage for Monday's meeting.

What the President's Cabinet committee will finally recommend to Mr. Nixon is still open. The Monday session revealed some tension between Mitchell and Elliot Richardson, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. Richardson implicitly backed a legislative remedy; Mitchell tended toward a Constitutional amendment.

The President himself was open on the proper approach, but he pounded home one point: although "the lawyers" could find a thousand reasons why both approaches might not work in view of the Supreme Court's pro-busing decisions, it was up to him, the President, to find a remedy that will work.

Strategists for the leading Democratic Presidential contenders, including Sen. Edmund Muskie, are hoping all this will backfire among the voters as transparently political. But the remarkable stand taken by a liberal of O'Hara's stature is a strong indication that Mr. Nixon is on the right political track and most of his Democratic opponents are not.

"I was mugged."—10 per cent.

"My neighbor caught me kissing his wife in the kitchen, and pitched a fist in my eye. He must be some kind of a nut."—100 per cent.

This last excuse, true or false, is the best one to use. There will be at least a note of admiration and sympathy in the jeering you get. Everybody has to like a guy who gets a black eye while doing something he'd secretly like to do himself.

House correspondent said, "I can just hear future White House briefings when every question by the elitists will be preceded by 'Ron, when Chou En-lai told us...' or 'As you recall, Ron, you denied in Shanghai...'"

It is obvious that the White House press room will never be the same again. By making his trip to China, Mr. Nixon has been able to destroy the morale of the press corps forever. Using divide-and-conquer tactics, he has managed to turn brother correspondent against brother.

When the elitists return from their trip and start talking down to those who didn't go, there could be a lot of blood spilled on the White House press lounge floor. The President may not have resolved his diplomatic problems by going to Peking, but he has put the men covering him at the White House in disarray and that, as Vice President Agnew would agree, is worth all the tea in China.

With the strain on everyone's income today, we're not about to lower our interest rate on savings at NCNB.

When savings rates were going up, you saw a lot of advertising. Now that several of the larger banks across the state have cut their regular savings interest to 4%, you find out about it in small print or legal notices.

At NCNB, we analyzed the figures carefully. After all, that's our business. And we're in business to serve our customers and provide a profit to our stockholders.

We feel that, especially now, with the strain on everyone's income, we should do our best to pay our savers the highest rate permitted by law.

North Carolina National Bank is more than interested in the people of North Carolina. We have made, and will make, many commitments to provide the most convenient, modern banking service available anywhere.

NCNB pioneered in many savings plans. Brought the first nationwide bank credit card to North Carolinians, BankAmericard. Introduced $100 minimum free checking. And just recently, we announced the installation of the convenient, new NCNB 24 service that lets you withdraw cash from your checking account or BankAmericard account 24-hours a day.

We have over 3,000 professionally competent people, working in 112 offices throughout North Carolina, who are interested in helping you. And this decision to continue to pay 4½% daily interest is a pledge to continue to provide help for you in every possible way.

Hot Shooting Monarchs Dump Pirates

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Old Dominion University proved to be too fast for the East Carolina Pirates last night as the Monarchs worked up a 92-79 victory over the Bucs.

The speed of the Monarchs on the fast break, their tough defense, and their board power, were too much for the Bucs, who fell back to a .500 (11-11) after the loss.

The Bucs never led in the game, and had only a 2-2 tie to show as their best effort. They did close from 22 down in the first half to within four early in the second half, but the hot-shooting Monarchs pulled away again.

Old Dominion suffered through two cold spells in the game, late in the first half, and early in the second. During these periods, they hit very few shots from the floor. But their early game shooting, and their power down the stretch made the difference, and they finished with a 48.7 percentage for the game. During the first half, when they got most of their lead, they hit 58.4 per cent.

And in the final spurt that pulled them away from the Bucs, they must have hit well over 60 per cent to remain in the lead.

East Carolina, bothered by Old Dominion's tough press and its zone defense, hit only 42.3 per cent for the game.

The rebounding was even, 55 for each team, and that hurt the Pirates too. They usually pick off about 55 per cent of the loose balls.

The game was played under unusual conditions. Just as the game started, a short circuit put the scoreboard and clock out of commission, and it stayed that way the entire game. Time was kept on stop watches, and the score on a blackboard after that.

Old Dominion grabbed the opening lead on a baseline jumper by star Dave Twardzik. East Carolina tied it up on a jumper by Earl Quash, but a fast break bucket by Rick Nau put Old Dominion back ahead, 4-2, and they never lost the lead again.

Set To Make A Break

Old Dominion's Joel Copeland, with the ball, looks for a teammate to pass to in hopes of setting up another fast break against the East Carolina Pirates last night. Copeland had just picked off a missed shot by the Bucs.

Turning to guard him are Nicky White (30) and Al Faber at right rear. Old Dominion rolled past the Pirates on hot shooting, 92-79. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Terry Foster followed with a bucket for a 6-2 lead, but the Bucs cut it to one on a three-point play by Jim Fairley. Baskets by Joel Copeland and Nau ran it back out to five however, 10-5. From there, Old Dominion slowly built up its lead, finally hitting 11 at 22-11 on a jump by Twardzik.

The lead stalled there for a few minutes, then Jay Rountree hit to up it to 30-16. After a Pirate free throw by Al Faber, Old Dominion ran off four straight baskets and moved out by 21.

Rich Michaelen got the first and Rountree followed with another, Copeland and Michaelen each got another, and the Monarch led grew to 38-17. East Carolina got another free throw to make it 38-18, as Faber hit again, but a basket off the break by Twardzik ran it to

Baby Pirates Roll By Old Dominion, 102-54

East Carolina University's freshmen, shooting a blistering 63 per cent from the floor, rolled to a 102-54 victory over the Old Dominion yearlings last night. It was the last home court appearance for the freshmen.

The victory raised the Pirate record to 3-10 on the year, while the loss was only the third in 15 games for the Baby Monarchs.

Nothing that East Carolina did was wrong in the contest, as they led all the way after the opening minutes. By halftime, they had worked up a 16-point lead, and then continued to build on it the rest of the way.

The Baby Bucs hit a fantastic 63 per cent from the floor for the game, and added 87 per cent of their free throws. It was something Old Dominion couldn't cope with.

It was also another outstanding night for Tom Marsh and Fred Stone, who hit 60 of the 102 points between them. Marsh canned 33 points on 11 field goals and 11 free throws (out of 11), while Stone hit 12 field goals and three free throws for 27 points.

Bob Ringer added 15 more points for the Baby Bucs, while Harry Moser had 13, and played one of his best games of the year.

Old Dominion was down almost before they knew what hit them, as they were unable to get inside of the sticky Pirate defense and couldn't control the boards when a shot missed.

Oliver Purnell hit a free throw to give Old Dominion the opening lead, but the Bucs took it at 5-3 on a three-point play after two and a half minutes. Old Dominion tied it at 5-5, but the Bucs moved out again on a free throw by Stone and Old Dominion never caught up again.

Slowly the Bucs built their lead out to 11 at 20-9, and then went to as much as 17 before leading 45-29 at halftime. In the final period, it was just more of the same, as the Bucs completely dominated the second half, outitting the Baby Monarchs, 57-25.

Tom Street led Old Dominion's scoring with 19 points, while Mark Flint and Oliver Purnell each had 12.

The Baby Bucs travel to Williamsburg, Va., on Saturday, to play a preliminary with the William & Mary freshmen prior to the varsity meeting of the two schools.

Old Dominion—Flint 12, Street 19, Moore 4, Purnell 12, Anderson 2, Burrell 1, Hunt, Pezzella 4, Grant, Shonard.

William & Mary Again Indoor Track Favorite

Since the realignment of the Southern Conference in 1964, only two schools have managed to win as many as seven indoor track championships. One is The College of William and Mary and the other is VMI. The Indians of William and Mary are the reigning champs and have scaled their present pinnacle via six consecutive crowns. Only two other Southern Conference schools have earned the number one spot in the last eighteen years and they are Virginia Tech which is now an independent and Furman University, three-time winners in the early sixties.

firsts and a second in the jumps and hurdles events.

Last year, three records fell and one was established in a new event for the indoor games, the 220 yard dash. This year there are two new events including the three mile run and the 35 pound weight throw and as many as four new records are a possibility.

In the two mile, Snyder will be replaced by teammate Ron Martin as the favorite, Martin, the William and Mary Englishman, finished second in the two mile race at the VMI Winter Relays two weekends ago. His time of 8:55.1 was identical to that of eventual winner Mike Mosser of West Virginia. The result of that race had to be determined by looking at the tape back on VMI's video tape recorder. Snyder's time in the two mile last year was 9:13.7. The S. C. record is 9:08.0 set by Carl Hatfield of West Virginia in 1968.

The long jump mark of 23'5 1/2" is in jeopardy if Norm Williams of the University of Richmond can get his steps down right. He is capable of 25 feet but has had trouble hitting the board.

Swetenburg won the 60 yard high hurdles last year with a time of :07.4 but it will likely take a better time to win this year. William and Mary freshman Charles Dobson ran a :07.2 in the Winter Relays, just a tenth of a second off the VMI Field House record set by Richmond Flowers in 1968.

The William and Mary two mile relay team of Lewis

McGhee, Jim Graham, Al Sharrett and Reg Clark broke the Winter Relay record this year by going it at 7:46.7. The conference record is 7:50.3.

In the triple jump, Walter Davenport of E.C.U. will be favored to win and maybe even set a new record because of his showing in the Winter Relays. His jump in that meet of 49'4" is five inches better than the Southern Conference standard.

Strode is also capable of bettering the conference record of 15'9 1/2" in the pole vault which was set by Dan Tyson of Furman in 1968.

Other top performer in Saturday's meet should be Gale Sommers of VMI in the 35 pound weight and Donnie Cumberland also of VMI in the 60 yard dash and the 220, Furman's Bill Dimitroff in the shot put and Tom Malik in the high hurdles and 220, Richmond's Larry Chowning in the 1000 yard run and The Citadel's Frank Thomas in the high jump and Forrest Rayford in the pole vault.

The schedule of events gets underway at 1:30 PM with the bulk of the finals events being in the evening segment which starts at 6:30. The events in the program have been closely patterned after those which are run in NCAA championship competition.

Other top performer in Saturday's meet should be Gale Sommers of VMI in the 35 pound weight and Donnie Cumberland also of VMI in the 60 yard dash and the 220, Furman's Bill Dimitroff in the shot put and Tom Malik in the high hurdles and 220, Richmond's Larry Chowning in the 1000 yard run and The Citadel's Frank Thomas in the high jump and Forrest Rayford in the pole vault.

Jamesville Boys, Oak City Gals Gain Martin Tournament Finals

WILLIAMSTON — The Jamesville boys and Oak City girls won their way into the finals of the Martin County Conference Tournament last night. Jamesville beat Robersonville, 63-58, while Oak City slipped past Bear Grass, 38-34.

In tonight's finals, the Oak City girls meet Robersonville, and Jamesville's boys take on Bear Grass. The boys tournament winner will receive a berth in the District One Tournament, along with regular season champ Oak City. Robersonville's girls have already captured the lone girls district berth.

In the girls game, Oak City inched out into a 10-8 lead in the first period. They continued to lead in the second period, out-scoring the Lady Bears, 10-5. That made it 20-13 at the half.

In the third period, Oak City again outthit Bear Grass, 9-5 and held a 29-18 lead going into the final frame. Bear Grass tried to rally, and outthit Oak City, 16-9, but fell short.

Sylvia Jones led Oak City with 19 points, while Cindy Ross had 10. Anna Mizelle led Bear Grass with 13.

In the boys contest, Robersonville got a leg up on Jamesville with an 11-10 lead at the end of the first period. But the Bullets came back to outthit the Eagles, 21-16 and capture a 31-27 lead by halftime.

Williamston Teams In Finals

WINDSOR — Williamston's boys and girls, both regular season champions, win close contests last night to gain the finals of the Albemarle Conference Tournament. The boys downed Edenton, 50-46, while the girls took a 30-26 victory over Weldon.

In the girls contest, Williamston and Weldon matched baskets for the first period, which ended in an 11-11 deadlock. The action slowed during the second period, but Williamston held a 4-3 advantage and a 15-14 lead at intermission.

It was just as close throughout the third period, as both teams tossed in seven points. That left the Lady Tigers in a 22-21 lead going into the final period. They were able to stretch it out slightly in the final frame, tossing in eight to five for Weldon.

Terry Parker led Weldon with 10 points. No one hit double figures for Williamston.

The boys contest was just as close, with Williamston also getting a four-point victory here. They pulled away early, however, and built up a 15-9 lead in the first period. Edenton put together a small rally in the second period, outitting the Tigers, 13-11. That closed it to 26-22 at halftime.

In the third period, Williamston got back the two points it had lost in the second frame, with a 13-11 margin. That left them ahead, 39-33 going into the final period. Edenton again outthit them, 13-11, but it wasn't enough.

Albert Bonds led Williamston with 17 points, while Dwight Ange had 13. Reddick paced Edenton with 17, while Rankin had 10.

The Williamston girls will meet the winner of the Gates-Northampton game, while the boys meet the Weldon-Gates winner on Saturday.

Drivers Mourn Friday Hassler

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Every time I race past that spot," said stock car hero Bobby Allison, "I'll remember it ... that's where my pal Friday Hassler got it."

Allison began to choke.

"Friday and me began knocking around race tracks in 1959," he said. "Sure, our business is risky. Sometimes, folks get killed. But you never get used to it."

An eerie gloom shrouded the garage area at Daytona International Speedway as Thursday's sun faded. Pro drivers, men noted for their bravery, wept openly.

Hassler, a 36-year-old Tennessean with four sons, was smashed to death in one of Thursday's 125-mile qualifying race for Sunday's $178,000 Daytona 500.

His wife, Joannie, was amid the horrified crowd of 40,000.

A blowout on the Dodge driven by David Boggs of Morrisville, N.C., triggered the deadly chain reaction that gobbled up Hassler's car and a dozen more.

Allison buzzed to victory in the afternoon's second 125-mile, but said, "I was thinking about ole Friday, especially when I raced past the spot where he was killed. I was winning, but I felt sick inside."

Bobby Isaac captured the event that claimed Hassler's life, covering 50 laps at the slowed-down speed of 127 miles an hour.

Conley Teams, Big Orange To Finals

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD—Both of D. H. Conley's basketball teams took wins along with North Pitt's Big Orange Machine to advance to the finals of the Eastern Carolina tournament tonight.

The Conley boys dumped Greene Central out of the race 54-48, the Valkyries edged past Eastern Wayne 37-30, and the Pant-HERS rolled by the girls from Southern Wayne, 49-25.

In the opening contest, the Valkyries jumped into the lead in the first quarter and steadily built it until the Squaws rallied in the fourth quarter but could not cut the lead more than the final seven points.

June Hall put the first point on the boards for Conley sinking a free throw. Marcelletta Best gave the Squaws their only lead of the night as she scored from the corner, 2-1, but Hall got the Valkyries back out in front as she canned a jumper from the corner also, 3-2, and Conley never trailed again. Annanel Worthington and Madge Dews added free shots to boost the lead to 6-2.

Cathy Lancaster made a charity shot for Eastern Wayne but Miss Dews got the point back as she sank a free shot. Glenda Denton scored from the top of the key and Jane Hall popped in a jumper to give the Valkyries an eight point margin as the first quarter ended, 11-3.

Jan Hall scored again in the opening minute of the second quarter but the Squaws outshot the Valkyries in the period 10-8 to trail by six at the half. Rolanda Odum, Sharon Wilson, and Patricia Smith scored for the Squaws in the final two minutes of the quarter to cut the Conley lead from 19-7 to 19-13.

The Valkyries held the Eastern Wayne girls to just four points in the third period while getting nine for their own to lead 28-17 going into the final frame.

The Squaws topped the Conley girls again 13-9 but they could not come up with enough points to threaten the Valkyries.

Miss Wilson led the Squaws with 11 points. For Conley, Miss Dews dumped in 12 and Jane Hall got 10.

The Rams jumped off to the lead in the boys game but the Vikings scrambled back and passed them at 10-8 and controlled the game from three on out.

Billy Williamson hit first for the Rams with 29 seconds gone in the game. David Pugh knotted the score at 2-2, hitting from outside. Kenny Williams put Greene Central back in front on a free shot about two baskets by Conley's Larry Daniels put the Vikings out by three, 6-3.

Williams and Stevie Williamson combined for a three point play tying it again and Lacy Ward vaulted the Rams into the lead once again as he sank a jumper from the corner with 3:57 to play in the first period.

That was the last time the Rams saw themselves in front as Daniels dumped one in from the lane, 8-8, and Pugh put Conley ahead to stay scoring a three point play, 11-8.

Th Rams got only one more basket in the period and that was by Ward. The Vikings pumped in six more points to forge ahead 17-9 as the horn sounded ending the first quarter.

The Vikings added nine in the second frame while Greene Central had four. At intermission the score was 21-18 as the Rams put on a late surge in the last two minutes of the half.

The Vikings zoomed out to a 13 point margin with 3:22 left in the third period, 35-22 but the Rams again rallied and cut the lead to seven at 37-30 and a free shot by Jackie Sherrill with three seconds to go in the quarter made it 37-31.

Conley continued to stay in front during the first part of the last frame but with 4:13 to go in the game, Williams scored after the Rams had cut the lead to 44-38 to put the Rams down by just four points.

Ervin Spivey cut the gap to two hitting from the top of the key, 44-42. Pugh dumped in a pair of free shots to make the Conley margin four and then the Vikings went on a rampage getting eight in the next 45 seconds moving out by 10 at 52-42 with :56 seconds to go.

The Rams scored six points in the last minute on buckets by Sherrill and two by Billy Williamson but still lost by six, 54-48.

No one for the losers had over ten points. Viking Daniels led his team with 14, Pugh dumped in 13, and Dwight Hawkins had 10.

The Pant-HERS did not have quite the contest as did the two Conley teams. They roared out in front in the opening frame, 12-5, and rode the game on out. The Big Orange out-shot the Saintes by nine in the second quarter, 15-6 to lead at the half, 27-11.

North Pitt ran its lead out to 40-14 in the third period but were topped 11-9 as the Pant-HERS second string came in for the starters.

Jaxie Bryan led the Saintes with 10 points. Susan James had 13 for the Big Orange and Minnel Hollis had 10.

North Pitt's girls will take on the Valkyries in one first game tonight with the Chargers meeting the Vikings immediately after.

McDaniels Jumps To NBA; Battle To Come

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Carolina Cougars have obtained a restraining order prohibiting Jim McDaniels from playing with any other basketball team, specifically the Seattle SuperSonics, for ten days.

Judge James G. Exum of Guilford County Superior Court issued the order Friday morning. A Cougar spokesman said the state court system had jurisdiction in the McDaniels case because he is still a resident of North Carolina.

The Munchak Corp., owner of the Cougars, also filed a complaint saying McDaniels repudiated his contract when he signed with Seattle, and asking that a summons be issued requiring him to appear in court in Greensboro to answer the charge.

Munchak said at a news conference before the Cougars game with the Virginia Squires that if McDaniels is allowed to play with Seattle, it will mean "open season on all sports contracts. Our contract with McDaniels is legal and binding. If it's not, then no contract is binding. We will take what steps are necessary to put the best basketball team we can find on the floor."

The situation also roped in McDaniels' alma mater, Western Kentucky University, which said it had no reason to believe McDaniels signed a pro contract while still playing collegiate basketball.

McDaniels, meanwhile, was to be on the basketball court for the Sonics Friday night when they contested Golden State for second place in the NBA Pacific Division. The big center was not expected to play against the Warriors, but player-coach Lenny Wilkens said McDaniels likely would see action Sunday against Portland.

McDaniels, who has been averaging 26.8 points and 14 rebounds a game for the Cougars, declined to outline his reasons for quitting the ABA club.

The Sonics would say only that he signed a six-year pact. No other contract details were announced.

McDaniels joined Spencer Haywood as the second man to jump from the ABA to Seattle. Haywood, an all-star forward, emigrated to Seattle from Denver last year in a move that touched off a marathon court case and had an impact on drafting of college talent.

The Cougars went to court in Los Angeles, asking $1 million damages and an order stopping Los Angeles attorney Al Ross from allegedly interfering with McDaniels. Ross was the attorney who represented Haywood when he came to Seattle, but McDaniels would not admit Thursday to any connection with Ross.

The Cougar suit contends the former Western Kentucky star first signed with the ABA club in November 1970. The six-year contract was for $1,357,000 in salary and a $50,000 bonus, with the salary to be paid over 25 years.

The suit also contends McDaniels wanted to renegotiate the contract to spread the salary over 15 years with an additional $50,000 for aggravation.

That suit spurred Western Kentucky Officials to issue a statement they had no reason to believe McDaniels signed the pro contract while still playing for them.

If he had, it would mean he was ineligible to play for Western Kentucky when the school won third place last season in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament.

The NCAA ordered Villanova to forfeit its second-place finish and receipts from the 1971 tournament after ruling that Howard Porter had signed an early pro contract.

The Seattle contract had the blessing of NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy, who noted that the Sonics had drafted McDaniels on the second round of the 1971 college draft.

"In addition," Kennedy said, "when submitting McDaniels' contract the counsel for the SuperSonics advised that there was nothing to prevent McDaniels from either signing a contract with Seattle or performing under it."

Seattle attorneys declined to discuss the contract situation at a news conference Thursday because of "the possibility of future litigation."

Mel Monheimer Jr., the Sonics' attorney, said, "Nobody from the SuperSonics has been served with any papers." He added that he felt the Sonics were not subject to the restraining order against the Los Angeles attorney.

Jack Dolph, Kennedy's opposite number in the ABA, declined comment on the goings-on.

McDaniels himself refused on the advice of counsel to outline his reasons for quitting the Cougars.

Immanuel Ices Church Share

Immanuel Baptist insured itself of at least a share of the Church Basketball League title with a 68-43 victory over St. Paul's last night. Presbyterian remained a half-game behind with a 60-43 win over Piney Grove. In the other game, Oakmont beat St. James, 74-66.

Immanuel has completed its schedule with a 13-1 record, while Presbyterian is 12-1 with a game to play. They are followed by Oakmont 9-5; Piney Grove, 7-6; Black Jack, 5-8; St. James, 5-9; Trinity, 3-10; and St. Paul's, 0-14.

In the opening game, Presbyterian eased out into a 28-19 lead after the first half of play. They continued to dominate the game in the second half, outthumping Piney Grove, 32-24.

Mike Gwynn led Presbyterian with 25 points, while Larry Graham had 12. Tom Meeks led Piney Grove with 15, with Jim Mills adding 10.

Immanuel doubled the score on St. Paul's in the first half, taking a 32-16 lead into the intermission. Immanuel then coasted through the second half, scoring 36 while St. Paul's got 27.

Luther Rickenbacker, Ray Dunlap and Lindsay Hardee

each has 12, and Drew Rumley had 10 for Immanuel. Jack Wall had 22 and Dave Bumgarner had 12 for St. Paul's.

In the final game, Oakmont also doubled the first half on St. James. By the half, it was 34-17. St. James put on a rally, outthumping Oakmont, 49-40 in the second half, but it wasn't enough.

Don Parrot led Oakmont with 18, while Paul Alston and Bobby Hall each had 14 and Doyle Daughtry had 13. Guy Howell had 18 and Rusty Jacobs had 14 for St. James.

Same Course May Be Break

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Paul Moran, who has had nothing but problems on the pro golf tour, gets a break today in the second round of the $125,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament—he gets to play on the same course again.

"I had real good first rounds in both the Crosby and the Hope," the stocky, 33-year-old Moran said Thursday after his five-under-par 66 gave him a share of the first-round lead.

"Then they switch me around on a different track, and maybe with different partners and I don't know what I'm doing and I missed the cut both times."

"At least, this time, I'll know where I am and what I'm doing."

The format for the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am and the Bob Hope Desert Classic call for the players to compete over three or four different courses for the first three or four days.

Moran was among the first-round leaders in both of those, before fading back and failing to qualify for the final round.

Moran, who has never come close to winning a major event in his three years on the pro tour, won only $10,971 last year and $4,969 the year before, less than expenses. He had to qualify Monday to get into this tournament.

He was tied for the lead with chunky Jimmy Jamieson, also seeking his first tour title, and lean Dale Douglass, a 10-year tour veteran. Douglass, who seems to have a liking for desert layouts, won on the same, 6,641-yard, par 71 Phoenix Country Club course two years ago and missed the title in Tucson by a single stroke last season.

Just one stroke back of the leading trio was a group of seven tied at 67. They were Gene Littler, Bob Goalby, Australian Bruce Devlin, Fred Marti, Chuck Courtney, Jerry Heard and Richard Karl.

Jim Wiechers, Ron Cerrudo, Larry Wood, Babe Hickey and George Boutell followed at 69 as 38 players in the field scored 70 or better on the friendly little layout.

Some of the top names had their problems. George Archer and Billy Casper, among the pretourney favorites, were well back in the pack at 73. Defending champion Miller Barber had a 71.

The Worry Clinic Nicotine May Affect Embryo

Marie's query should alert every wife who expects to have children! For 250,000 deformed babies are born in the U.S.A. EVERY YEAR! And their mothers are often the unwitting accessories to such defective infants. So give your unborn baby a fair break!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Case T-505: Marie R., aged 24, is terribly worried.

"Dr. Crane," she asked, "if a pregnant wife is a chain smoker, will that be more likely to produce a deformed baby?"

"The reason I am worried about this is due to what happened to my younger sister."

"She has been a heavy smoker ever since she went to college."

"Now, at the age of 22, she had her first baby."

"And it had no arms!"

"For its hands came right out of its shoulders like the fins of a fish!"

"So can chemicals that an expectant mother takes into her body during pregnancy, cause such defects?"

Birth Defects

Yes, indeed! Many of you readers may recall the thalidomide controversy a few years ago.

Expectant mothers who were taking that tranquilizer seemed to have a much higher percentage of deformed infants.

But that same year, though 4,000 defective babies were attributed to thalidomide in the U.S.A., there were 72,000 other defective babies born.

Nobody seemed to mention what caused those 72,000 other malformed children, yet we knew that tobacco is a definite factor.

At the university of Missouri, Prof. Carl J. Marienfeld recently experimented with pregnant sows which were fed tobacco stalks.

And 59 deformed piglets were born among 782 offspring of such sows.

Yet the normal rate is only 6 defective piglets per 1,000 when the sows did not eat tobacco stalks.

At present, there are 250,000 defective babies born each year in the United States, according to the National Foundation of the March of Dimes.

Although mature adults may be fairly resistant to alcohol and tobacco, as well as other drugs such as thalidomide, the human embryo is very sensitive to minor toxic changes.

Which is why German measles is now a threat when expectant mothers contract that contagious disease during their first 3 months of pregnancy.

For in those early weeks the embryo is not as large as your little finger.

So when its arm buds and eyes and other sense organs are just starting to form, a minute foreign chemical may deform them.

Remember, a rugged adult alcoholic may thus have his mature brain cells so affected by the alcohol in his blood stream that he gets delirium tremens and has hallucinations about pink elephants.

Imagine what that same alcohol will do to a tiny human embryo whose delicate sense organs are just beginning to form!

An adult non-smoker, if he uses a cigar, will get so nauseated that he vomits and may even hemorrhage from his stomach.

So imagine the nicotine effect on a human embryo!

You expectant mothers should thus diligently avoid any dangerous drugs during pregnancy, else you may deform your baby or have a miscarriage!

So send for my booklet "How to Stop the Tobacco and Liquor Habits," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Five of ♠

When South opened the bidding with one heart, North's holding was too strong for a single raise—it is worth 11 points in support of hearts—and yet not strong enough for a jump raise which shows 13 points. North is obliged to take an indirect course by making a temporizing response of two diamonds despite the fact that his suit is not strictly speaking-biddable. When he raises hearts on the next round, it becomes clear that he has a better than average hand inasmuch as he took the time to show another suit first. South held ample reserve strength to carry on to four hearts.

West opened the five of spades and East played the king which was taken by declarer's ace. Trumps were drawn in two rounds ending up in dummy and a small club was led. South put up the queen and West went in with the king. The nine of clubs was returned and the ace was played from dummy. The 10 of clubs was led, covered by East's jack and ruffed in the closed hand. The queen and jack of spades were cashed and North discarded a diamond.

A diamond was led and then West followed with the seven, the nine was played from dummy—losing East's 10. A diamond was returned and the defense cashed two more tricks in the suit to set the declarer down by one.

South began his stripping operations too late. When he received the favorable opening of a spade and East's king appeared, he could have cinched success. All that is required is to draw trumps, play the high spades—discarding a club from dummy and then lead the ace and 10 of clubs.

It does not matter which defender goes in for, in order to avoid presenting South with a ruff and discard, the opposition must lead diamonds themselves—assuring the declarer of losing only two tricks in that suit.
