Rezoning Bid Is Approved On 2nd Try

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

W. E. Dansey's second bid within a year to have a lot on the Tar River Estates rezoned from R-6 residential to Neighborhood Commercial received the Planning and Zoning Board's recommendation for approval last night.

Following a "courtesy" hearing before a packed house at City Hall last night, member Louis Singleton made a motion that the request be recommended for consideration before the City Council.

Dansey made a presentation of plans for the convenience shopping center comprising an area 200 by 200 feet at the corner of First and Oak Street, which he notes would include a convenience food store, a day care center, a beauty shop, laundromat, and offices for the apartment complex. Dansey mentioned that at the end of the summer there will be about 410 apartments in Tar River Estates with approximately 1,200 people. He handed commisssion members a petition supporting the request, which he said contains 285 signatures, 75 percent from the apartment residents and 25 percent from persons in the vicinity outside the apartment complex.

Following Dansey's presentation, opposition spokesmen told the commission of their reasons for opposing the addition of a commercial establishment in the neighborhood. Primary reasons included increased traffic; downgrading of the value of their homes in the residential area; dangers involved in small children crossing streets to visit such an establishment; opening the door to other commercial usages within the residential neighborhood; and conflict of interest on Dansey's part as a city councilman and at the same time a developer interested in the welfare of his renters above that of the entire community.

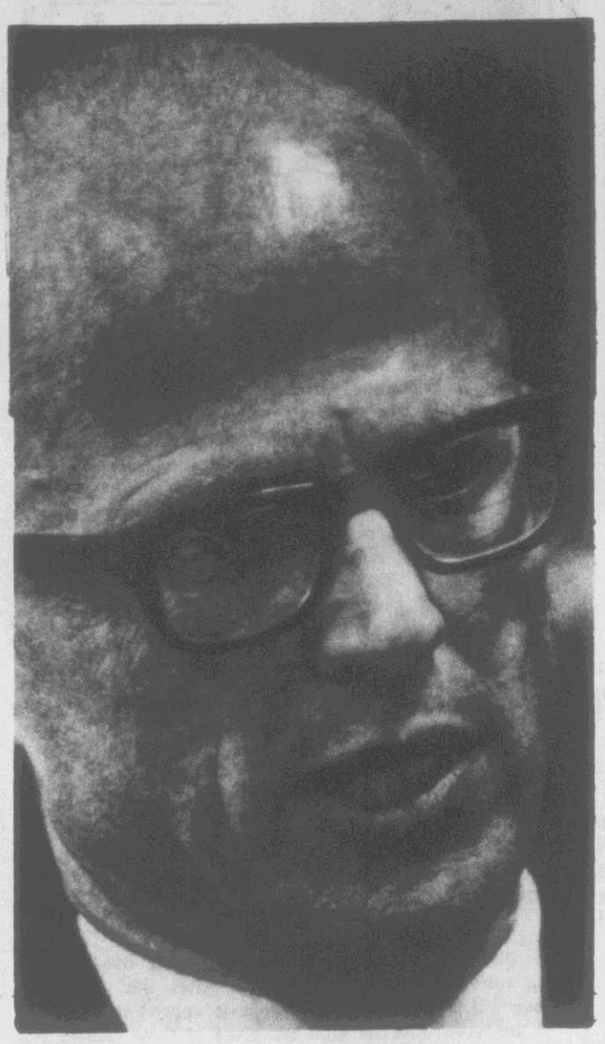

Proponents of the request refuted what they termed was the opposition's implication that apartment dwellers were only temporary transients; that they were occupants of apartment units by choice; that the convenience store would diminish rather than increase traffic as they could walk to such a shop; and that the presence of an establishment of this type would not depreciate the value of individual homes in the area. It was also mentioned that it was up to parents to control their children on the matter of crossing streets to spend money at a commercial establishment.

In making the recommendation motion, Singleton said it was his feeling that such a convenience store would be beneficial to those living in the apartment complex. Member Louis Clark expressed an opinion that he thought it would be good for the neighborhood to have a meeting of minds about what is valid and acceptable rather than let emotions rule their thinking on this particular matter.

The commission also approved recommendation of a preliminary plat for the Colonial Mobile Home Park to be constructed across N.C. 11 from Burroughs-Wellcome. Recommendation is contingent on changes in the plat plan that would provide a greater maximum of drainage by the inclusion of larger drain tile than provided on the original plat.

PRISON PROGRAM — State Correction Commissioner Lee Bounds reports needs during 1973-79 bienniums to renovate or replace inadequate prison buildings. (AP Wirephoto)

Prison System Needs Can Run To $75 Million

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — At least $75 million is needed during the 1973-79 bienniums to renovate or replace inadequate buildings in North Carolina's prison system, state Correction Commissioner Lee Bounds said today.

"This is a conservative figure," Bounds said in an interview. "And the amount is based on the expectation that our prison population doesn't exceed 12,000."

The current prison system population is about 10,000.

Even if the $75 million were made available by the General Assembly, it would be the mid-1980s or later before the huge capital improvement program could be completed, Bounds added.

Many of the prison buildings are old and outmoded. Central Prison is more than 100 years old. Most of the 66 road units are at least 35 years old.

"Most of them were designed for punitive treatment of prisoners and not for rehabilitation," Bounds explained.

Bounds said he would like to see individual cells in every prison unit in North Carolina. This would cut down on assaults and homosexual activity, he explained.

The Correction Commission recently approved a $32.3 million capital improvement program for the 1973-75 biennium. This is part of a vast six-year program envisioned by Bounds to update and modernize prison housing.

The $32.3 million request includes $14 million for two high rise-centers for youthful offenders. The structures would be similar to the Western North Carolina center at Morganton which is nearing completion.

Other major items in the program for the 1973-79 biennium include $3.7 for improvements at Central Prison, $3.1 million to replace Craggy Prison at Asheville, $2.4 million to provide single cells at Caledonia, and $4.5 million to turn some of the road units into advancement centers.

Looking ahead to the 1975-77 and 1977-79 bienniums, Bounds said at least 16 million is needed to renovate and replace medium custody units at Odum prison in Northampton County, Polk Youth Center at Raleigh and the prison in Harnett County as well as the Women's Correctional Center in Raleigh.

In addition, some $24 million is needed to modernize the road units throughout the state. At these units, individual cells would be provided and the existing dormitories used for treatment and training purposes, Bounds said.

He has given top priority to a request for $650,000 to provide personnel training during the 1973-75 biennium.

"There is a great and growing need for more and better training at all levels of the state correction service," Bounds said. "The need is least adequately met now at lower levels where personnel receive very little training before being assigned duties."

Under the proposal, a state correction service academy would be operated at Polk Youth Center to provide a basic course for prison personnel.

Number two priority was given to a request for $120,000 to expand and improve educational and library services for prison inmates.

"We believe the requested funds will enable us to assure against any person leaving our prisons a functional illiterate who has the inherent ability to complete a course in basic education," Bounds said.

Nixon Visits Great Wall; Further Talks

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP) — President Nixon visited the Great Wall of China today and called for an end to "walls of any kind between peoples." Then he met with Premier Chou En-lai for three hours.

As usual, nothing emerged from the secret talks in the Great Hall of the People. But in 12 hours of talks over four sessions, they obviously have been working on ways to bring their two nations closer.

It was not yet clear whether they had taken up the nettlesome problem of Vietnam. Nixon said before coming here that at least the prisoners of war issue would be on the agenda.

While such issues as cultural exchanges would be easier to settle, Chou has made plain he considers U.S. plans for settling the war are unacceptable.

Chou and Nixon will meet again Friday after the President visits the Forbidden City.

In the evening the Nixons, with members of the presidential party, were guests of Chou at an informal Peking duck dinner in the banquet room of the Great Hall of the People. The press was excluded.

On his visit to the Great Wall, an engineering marvel build 2,200 years ago to keep out barbarians, Nixon told reporters: "What is most important is that we have an open world.

"One result of this trip," Nixon continued, "we hope may be that walls erected, whether physical like this wall, or whether they are other walls, ideological or philosophical, will not divide the people of the world."

Looking out across the snow-dusted hills at the 1,500-mile-long wall winding westward, he expressed the hope that "peoples, regardless of their different backgrounds and philosophies, will have an opportunity to communicate with each other."

Later, at the nearby burial vaults of the Ming emperors, Nixon commented: "We have not known Asia well enough. Communications have been badly neglected." He said he hoped many Americans would have a chance to visit China.

The temperature was 27 degrees for the President's first sightseeing since his arrival in China Monday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, other members of his staff and the usual crowd of American newsmen and photographers.

Deputy Premier Li Hsien-nien, Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei and their wives were hosts for the trip.

After the 40-mile drive from Peking, the presidential party spent half an hour looking about and strolling between watchtowers along the 18-foot-wide roadway on top of the wall.

"It's unbelievable," said the President as he surveyed the huge battlemented structure snaking off over the horizon.

He discussed details of the wall with his hosts and pointed to various spots in the area, displaying the knowledge gained from intensive study before and during the trip.

At an informal news conference after the party came down, Nixon made his appeal for an end to walls but commented that "the Great Wall is a great wall, and it had to be built by a great people."

Turning to the vice premier and looking up at the massive Ba Da Ling gate high on a nearby mountain, the President said: "We will not climb the mountain today. We are already meeting at the summit in Peking."

The vice premier responded with praise of Nixon for "a great speech."

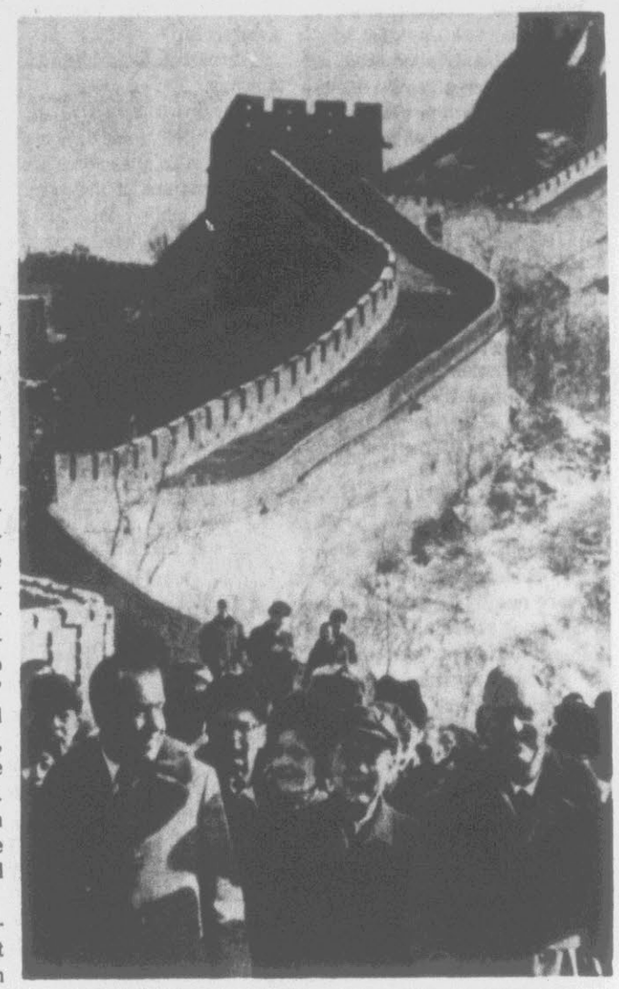

"The American people are a great people," Li added.

The party then had tea in a nearby tearoom and motored to the Ming tombs, where they spent another half hour.

The Chinese led their guests down the 96 steps to the burial chamber of Chang Ling, the third emperor of the Ming Dynasty, who died more than 500 years ago.

After coming out of the vault, the President spotted four little girls skipping rope in a park area and went over to shake hands. One of the four pushed her companions out of the way to be first.

Accompanying photographers snapped away.

The trip delayed the start of Nixon's daily meeting with Chou until 5:15 p.m.

The premier was the host today, at the Great Hall of the People, and the Chinese dispensed with the preliminaries of the previous sessions.

Newsmen were not invited in for a photo session, as they had been on the three previous days, and the Chinese quickly escorted them from the building.

Nixon was accompanied as usual by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the President's chief adviser on national security. Secretary of State Rogers continued his separate talks with Foreign Minister Chi.

Kissinger did not accompany the Nixons to the Great Wall, having visited it when he came to Peking earlier to arrange the President's trip. White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Kissinger remained at the guest house compound working on matters relating to the President's stay in China and other national security affairs.

Employment Up

RALEIGH (AP) — Nonfarm employment in North Carolina was down seasonally in January from December but showed a whopping increase over January of last year.

..State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane reported Wednesday that the January employment total of 1,799,600 was off 22,500 from December but 30,-600 higher than in the same month last year.

The January employment included 715,300 in manufacturing jobs. This was down 1,800 from December, but up 7,400 from a year ago. The nonmanufacturing total of 1,084,300 in January was down 20,700 from December but up 23,200 from January of last year. The largest seasonal employment decline of 14,300 was in retail trade where extra help hired for Christmas was laid off.

Out Of Running

CHARLOTTE — Charlotte writer Nancy Roberts announced today that she is withdrawing from the Democratic race for Governor of North Carolina.

Mrs. Roberts, the second woman to seek the governorship in modern times, told a news conference that she was supporting another Democrat—former State Sen. Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles of Greensboro.

"I must announce that I am withdrawing. Mister Bowles has not sought either my support or my withdrawal," Mrs. Roberts said.

She said she would be voting for Bowles with "enthusiam believing that he shares many of my concerns." Mrs. Roberts said earlier this week that she had been contacted by representatives of two other Democratic candidates to drop out of the race. She declined to reveal who they were.

Daniel Berrigan Freed On Parole

By MARC CHARNEY
Associated Press Writer

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — "Terrific, free!," exclaimed the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, the anti-war priest, poet and writer as he walked out of a federal prison today. He was imprisoned for 18 months.

The 51-year-old Jesuit, a simple cross hanging from his clerical collar, grinned broadly as he was cheered by nearly 200 supporters at the prison gates.

After making a few brief remarks to his supporters, Berrigan hopped into a car driven by his brother Jerome and went to a Roman Catholic church, where he conducted a religious service.

Newsmen asked Berrigan what would occupy his time now that he is free on parole. "Survival and resistance," he said.

What form will the resistance take?

"I will have to see what happens," the priest said.

Berrigan was released as his brother Philip, also a Roman Catholic priest, was on trial in Harrisburg, Pa., on charges of conspiring to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger. Both Philip and Daniel had been sentenced to three-year terms at the federal prison here for burning draft records at Catonsville, Md., in 1968. Philip has not been granted parole.

Berrigan pledged today to live by the terms of his parole, but added; "I'll insist on my constitutional and human rights."

Asked about life in prison, Berrigan said: "It was dreadful and marvelous, depending on whose face you were looking at. I made hundreds of friends. It's a Popsicle prison, not like Attica."

How was he treated in prison?

"Normally—that is to say, like on the edge of a zoo," he said.

What did he gain from prison life?

"More gray hair and more bright thoughts," he said.

Berrigan, wearing a black coat and black shirt, said he plans to visit his mother in Syracuse, N.Y., before going to New York City.

Enemy Slacken Their Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks slacked off during the night, and the U.S. Command said American fighter-bombers flew no strikes in South Vietnam during the period.

U.S. military sources said there was no sign that enemy troops poised along South Vietnam's western borders with Laos and Cambodia were withdrawing. They said the Communist command was still capable of launching a major offensive.

Heavy U.S. air strikes continued against the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos, North Vietnam's supply line to the South. Sources said American warplanes were averaging 200 to 300 strikes a day against the 250-mile network.

The South Vietnamese command reported 13 enemy attacks during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today, the lowest in 2½ weeks. Since Feb. 11, enemy attacks have been averaging more than 30 a day.

South Vietnamese officers in the field said their forces killed the commander of Viet Cong troops in the two provinces south of Da Nang in an ambush just before dusk Wednesday.

Walkout On Talks

PARIS (AP) — The Communist delegations to the Vietnam peace conference walked out of the talks today to protest the escalation of the U.S. air war last week.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations said they would return next Thursday, March 2. But the U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations—who called off last Thursday's meeting—said they would decide later whether they would meet next week.

It was the first time in the three-year history of the talks that a delegation had walked out after a session started. U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter said it violated the conference rules of procedure. Xuan Thuy, leader of the North Vietnamese delegation, told today's session:

Pitt County Received $310,052 In Net Distributal Tax Proceeds

Pitt County has received $310,052.29 in net distributal tax proceeds for the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1971, according to the sales and the use tax collection and distribution report issued by the Department of Revenue.

The report, submitted by State Revenue Commissioner G. A. Jones Jr., indicated that net collections for the quarter in Pitt County totaled some $313,294.89, with the cost of the collecting service by the state amounting to $3,242.60.

On a per capita distribution basis figured relative to town or city populations, Greenville received $77,485.08 of the toal amount. Population for Greenville was listed as 29,063.

Farmville, with a population of 4,424, received $11,794.86 of the distribution, it was announced and Ayden, figured on a population of 3,450, received $9,198.07.

Other Pitt towns, their populations and receipts are: Grifton, (Pitt's share) 1,548, $4,127.13; Bethel, 1,514, $4,036.49; Winterville, 1,437 $3,831.19; Fountain, 434, $1,157.09; Grimesland, 394, $1,050.45; and Falkland, 130, $346.59.

Total popualtion for the county was 73,900 and the county itself received $197,025.34 of the total amount. Distribution to the towns in Pitt, added to the county total, provided the $310,052.29 figure.

Jones explained that the per capita figure for each county is determined by dividing the total net distributable proceeds of the county by the total population of that county plus the total population of all municipalities within the county. The figure is multiplied by the county population and each municipality to determine the amount to be distributed to the county and to each municipality therein.

Greene County, figured on an ad valorem basis, received a total of $20,097.30 of net collections with $18,600.55 distributed to the county and the rest allotted to Snow Hill, Hookerton and Walstonburg.

Snow Hill received $1,161.22 on the basis of an ad valorem levy of $40,277. Hookerton, with a levy of $7,070, received $203.83 and Walstonburg, with a levy of $4,568, collected $131.70.

Lenoir County received $248,715. 30 with $188,777.77 of the amount going the the county and the balance going to four municipalities. On the basis of the ad valorem levy, Kinston received $54,412.04 on a levy of $845,068.

Beaufort County received some $86,935.91 with $63,380.49 going to county distribution and the balance going to seven municipalities. Washington received the greatest share, $15,785.23 on the basis of a population of 8,961. Total county population was set at 49,352.

Jones reported that the cost of collecting the tax by the state is $1.035 per $100 of collections.

Total proceeds of the counties figured on an ad valorem basis ws $5,671,533.57. On a population basis, the total of all counties participating was $8,785,609.63.

County manager H. Reginal Gray said this morning that Pitt County's proceeds from the first distribution, which consisted of approximately two-thirds of a full quarter, amounted to $181,553.46, of which the county itself received $115,369.67.

Greenville's share of the first distribution amounted to $45,371.97, while Farmville received $6,906.57 and Ayden, $5,386. Other towns and their receipts in the first distribution were: Grifton, (Pitt's share) $2,416.67; Bethel, $2,363.60; Winterville, $2,243.39; Fountain, $677.54; Grimesland, $615.10; and Falkland $202.95.

Model Embarks On Acting Career

By NORMAN GOLDSTEIN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - "People are skeptical of models being good actresses," said the model who is determined to be a good actress.

"You must really concentrate and work....Acting is much more stimulating, more exciting. It takes more of yourself, your emotions, than just static modeling.

"It's a way of expressing myself. It's difficult to express myself in life, what I feel. Maybe it's my shyness. Acting can bring everything out of you."

Marisa Berenson, 5-feet-9, blue-eyed, model-thin-and a vegetarian to keep it that way—spoke with animation about her career. After a motion picture debut in "Death in Venice," she gets a big break as a featured player in the film version of "Cabaret," which costars Liza Minnelli and Joel Grey.

"Basically," she said on a publicity visit, "I've always wanted to act, in the bottom of my heart."

Indeed, acting seems to be the fashionable next step for many a model, from Ali MacGraw to Jennifer O'Neill to Cybill Shepherd, to name the most current.

Some have tried to combine the two careers, but not Miss Berenson, who caused a stir in the modeling profession two years ago by becoming Vogue magazine's first full-length nude model, for a jewelry display.

But now, says the 25-year-old granddaughter of fashion designer Elsa Schiaparelli, "I've stopped modeling altogether. They're two different things. I'd been wanting to stop; I'd been modeling for six years. You can't do both," With "Death in Venice" came "the beginning of one and the end of the other."

A role in that film came via actor friend Helmut Berger, who introduced her to Luchino Visconti in Rome. The Italian director found "physically right" for the non-speaking part of Dirk Bogarde's wife, but admitted, she recalled, that he was taking a risk by using the acting neophyte. It all worked out well-well enough for her to be offered the role in "Cabaret."

In it, she plays the part of Natalia Landauer, a department store heiress Miss Berenson describes as complete opposite her own personality:

"She's German, Jewish, virgin, bourgeois rich, with strict principles, uptight, prim and proper, yet vulnerable underneath.

"Almost opposite," she added, laughing.

The subject turned — as it would naturally these days in the presence of an attractive career woman and one of the world's most eligible jet - set bachelorettes - to women's liberation.

Miss Berenson was outspoken: "I don't think women are on the same level as men ... I'm not at all for women's lib. Of course, as far as work goes, they should be respected. But I don't at all agree with the idea that they practically become men and lose their femininity.

"A woman is a woman and should stay that way."

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

GOOD DINNER

Baked Chicken Rice
Creamed Cucumbers
Butternut Squash
Cherry Cake Beverage

CREAMED CUCUMBERS

This delightful dish may be new to you.

2 large cucumbers
1½ cups boiling water
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 chicken bouillon cube
Salt and white pepper to taste
2 tablespoons minced parsley
Paprika

Peel cucumbers and cut in half lengthwise. With a teaspoon, scoop out seeds and discard. Slice cucumbers crosswise about ¼-inch thick—there should be 2½ cups. Turn cucumbers and water into a 1½-quart saucepan; boil, covered, just until tender-crisp—5 to 10 minutes; drain. In the clean saucepan over low heat melt butter; stir in flour; remove from heat. Gradually stir in milk, keeping smooth; add bouillon cube; return to moderately low heat and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and bubbly. Add cucumbers, salt, pepper and parsley; reheat. Turn into serving dish and sprinkle with paprika. Makes 6 servings.

THE BRIDE COOKS DINNER

Broiled Steak French Fries
Salad Bowl
with Roquefort Dressing
Gaufrettes Spiced Coffee

SPICED COFFEE.

Add a fillip to the usual brew.

1½ cups hot strong freshly brewed coffee
2 whole cloves
½ cinnamon stick
2 thin wide strips orange peel
4 small sugar cubes
Whipped cream

Into a small saucepan pour the coffee and add the cloves, cinnamon stick, orange peel and sugar. Allow to stand over very low heat, stirring several times, until bubbles begin to appear around edge—about 10 minutes. With a slotted spoon remove cloves, cinnamon and orange peel and discard. Pour the spiced coffee into small after-dinner coffee cups and top with whipped cream. Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Dad Learns To Love His 'Special Child'

By Abigail Van Buren

[© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: I want to do something now that I have been wanting to do for seven months. I want to say "thank you" for something you did for me.

On May 6, 1971, our second son was born. But he was not like our first, healthy, "normal" son. He is Mongoloid. With the help of family, friends and doctors, I prepared myself for the raising of our "special" child. But the acceptance came much harder for my proud husband. It's easier for a mother to love the child she has carried for nine months, but for the father, that love sometimes comes harder, and after many forced smiles and sleepless nights, my husband now admits that he was miserable. Needlessly miserable, he knows now, but at first he wondered if he could ever "love" his second son as he should.

On May 11, your column concerning Mongoloid babies appeared. It could not have come out at a better time for us. THAT made the difference in my husband's life. After reading that column, he no longer had that "why-did-this-have-to-happen-to-us" attitude. And just knowing how other people have handled it can help a lot.

Our baby is eight months old now, and a happier child I've never seen. And I know a lot of his happiness comes from knowing that his mother and daddy and brother really love and accept him totally.

Dear, Dear Abby, if you did nothing else in 1971, you have helped one father find the love he always had for his "special" child. Thank you! DOUG'S MOTHER
FORT WORTH, TEXAS

DEAR MOTHER: Your letter made this five-feet-nothing columnist nine feet tall today. After this appears, I know I'll be deluged with requests to reprint that column, so tomorrow, with the kind indulgence of those readers who have already read it, I shall do so.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the identical twin who said she did not enjoy being a twin, and didn't believe twins had any special "closeness" between them:

You are dead wrong! I've been a twin for 52 years, and altho my twin and I are separated by thousands of miles, we still think and feel alike. When she had a back operation, my back actually ached. When I was laid up after an auto accident, she said she felt my pain.

She bought a fur coat in New York. I bought the identical fur coat in San Francisco! [Neither one knew the other was even considering a fur coat!]

She sent me an ash tray for an anniversary. I had just bought one for myself exactly like it.

It's almost weird the way we think and feel alike, but it's the truth. Please sign me . . . GREAT TO BE A TWIN

DEAR GREAT: No identical twin would doubt you. At least, not this one.

DEAR ABBY: I shall be receiving my engagement diamond in a few weeks and I want very much to have my picture in the newspaper's society section announcing my engagement and wedding plans.

My problem: I am a divorcee with a 5-year-old child. I was not formally engaged the first time because I had a shotgun wedding.

Under the circumstances, would it be proper for me to announce my engagement with a picture in the paper just like all the other brides? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: It is proper for a divorcee to announce her engagement and wedding plans, but the announcement should include the fact that you are MRS. SO AND SO, and the mother of a child by a previous marriage. To deliberately omit these facts would leave you open to criticism.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Roebuck-Martin Vows Exchanged In Ceremony

Immanuel Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding of Carolyn Martin Hardy and Mack Darrell Roebuck on Saturday, Feb. 12, at 4:00 p.m.

The Rev. Irby B. Jackson officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. D.L. Martin of Saxe, Va., and the late Mr. Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Archie Roebuck of Greenville.

The bride wore a formal length ivory peau de soie gown designed with a high neckline encircled with chantilly lace and clusters of pearls. Panels of chantilly lace extended over the shoulders and down the gown front. A satin band accentuated the empire waistline and finished in the back with a bow and long panel trimmed in flower medallions of chantilly lace. The full bishop sleeves featured buttoned cuffs trimmed in lace and clusters of pearls.

Her ivory illusion fingertip veil was attached to a tiara headpiece of satin loop bows. She carried a large nosegay of yellow and white pom pons with lace and ribbon entwined with a yellow bow and streamers.

Miss Cathy Anthony of Greenville was maid of honor and Donnie Buck Foell of Greenville was best man.

Following a wedding trip to the coast, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Randolph Henry High School, Charlotte Court House, Va., and Mitchell's Hair Styling Academy, Greenville. She is employed at Surburban Beauty Shop.

The bridegroom attended East Carolina University and is employed by the U. S. Post Office, Greenville.

Following the rehearsal Friday night, an after-rehearsal party was held at the church.

Air Of Cordiality Offers Hope

Pres. Nixon's historic visit to Peking is well underway now and, if cordially is any guide, it could lead to better relations between the two nations.

The presidential reception at the airport where Nixon's plane landed were formal and stiff and his led to speculation that this might be the tone of the entire visit. Nixon was met at his plane by Premier Chou En-lai and other high officials, along with a band and an honor guard. Still there was no great outpouring of people to welcome the visiting dignitary.

As the round of banquet proceeded, however, things looked better. Next came the surprising early meeting with Mao Tse-tung. There was another four hour meeting with Chou En-lai. While little has come out as to what was discussed at the meetings or what agreements were reached, there was much to indicate that progress had been made.

A big indication that things were warming up for the American visitors was reflected in the fact that Chinese newspapers began to print news of the visit. "Chairman Mao Meets President Nixon" a headline across the top of the front page of the Peking People's Daily. The entire front page was devoted to the meeting between Nixon and Mao and other news of the visit, complete with pictures. In a nation with a controlled press, the publicity is doled out according to the wishes of those in power.

It would be too hopeful to expect too much immediately from the president's visit to China. Yet, the smoothness of the talks will set the pace for future negotiations between the two nations as they attempt to solve their mutual problems. The way the visit has gone so far has to offer some encouragement.

The Rural Way Now In Jeopardy

By BRYAN HAISLIP

RALEIGH—Urbanization is a tide which threatens to wash out the traditional character of the South, leaving sprawling cities like those of every other region.

The Southern heritage is a rural way of life, close to nature and self-sufficient.

Today it is in jeopardy. If its values are worth preserving, planners and elected officials must exert efforts to control growth patterns and end the continuing migration from countryside to town.

Means to that end will be explored this spring by a conference of the region's leaders in Birmingham, Ala. It is being arranged by the Center for Urban Studies at Duke University, under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

"Redevelopment of the Rural South" is the theme. Seminars and workshops are part of the format. Gov. Bob Scott will serve as chairman for a panel of Southern governors, addressing themselves to the topic.

Avoiding Examples Elsewhere

"The only way to keep Southern cities from being like New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and other places is to make rural areas more attractive so their people will not have an incentive to move to the cities," said Dr. Thomas Naylor, director of the Duke Center.

"We believe that the new South had better not become the urbanized, industrialized South," he said.

Dr. Naylor also is executive director of the L.Q.C. Lamar Society, a non-profit organization formed in 1969 to give intellectual thrust to the search for solutions to Southern problems.

Gov. Scott, a farm boy, often has talked of the need for rural development as an essential component of a sound economy for North Carolina.

Problems In Perspective

He takes the position that problems can't be neatly packaged as "rural" or "urban," but must be seen in the context of the whole. Increasing regional and national attention focused on the rural scene, he explained, comes from the realization that many current problems of the cities had their origins in changes taking place in rural areas.

Modern technology has brought a decline in farm employment. Lack of jobs in rural areas has sent people to the big cities, both inside and outside the state.

Taking the jobs and services to people where they live is the only alternative to having the people move where the jobs and services are.

"We can no longer tolerate a situation where North Carolinians are forced to move from a rural poverty situation to an even more cruel urban poverty situation," Scott declared.

Census Illustrates Trend

Figures from the 1970 census illustrate the urbanizing trend. Nine counties had 36 per cent of the state's population. More significantly, they showed two-thirds of the state's population growth from 1950 to 1970.

Sixty-six counties had 30 per. cent of the population, and over the 20-year period accounted for only 3 per cent of the state's rise in population.

A closer look at the figures shows emerging population centers, though not recognized as cities. For example, Goldsboro had a 1970 city population of 26,000 which served as a center for an urban cluster that totaled 50,000; Rockingham was listed at 6,000, but had an urban cluster of 25,000; Asheboro had a city population of 11,000, but a total urban cluster of 26,000.

"I am convinced that the foundation of rural development in North Carolina must rest on the creation of a network of small urban centers, which along with the larger cities, can maintain a reasonable balance they can obtain the level of public service that we have come to expect in today's world," Gov. Scott said.

Serving Both Today And Those Tomorrows

The more we have reflected on the car - removal program by the Greenville Police Department, the more we enthuse.

It is a case of serving both today and the future.

Big cities that moved late into the business of removing discarded automobiles have an expensive problem on their hands. We can assume that in many cases a backlog of junk has gotten out of hand.

By offering to remove disabled and discarded cars now, before the unsightly litter has had time to accumulate out of all proportion, the police department is avoiding future headaches, as well as making life in Greenville a little more attractive.

Somebody cares.

Morton Grew In Importance

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Hugh Morton made a talk last Wednesday night in Burlington and threw some sharp verbal punches at Pat Taylor and Skipper Bowles.

Then Morton got into his car and drove to Durham, where he met with Mack Pearsall, his gubernatorial campaign manager, and with experts from the Social Systems firm, a computer outfit that was also working in the Morton campaign.

They got an early read-out on a poll that was taken in Morton's behalf. The poll was conducted after Morton ran a series of 30-minute press conferences on television across the state. He was hoping this latest poll would put him in a competitive position.

To put it bluntly, the poll was discouraging. It showed Taylor in first place, Bowles second about 15 points behind, and Morton with about 10 per cent of the vote. Morton wasn't moving in the polls.

The one bright spot came in the undecided column. A large number of North Carolina voters didn't know which person they planned to vote for in the Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Morton was told that he had a chance but a large amount of money would have to be spent on media advertising. They were talking in terms of $500,000.

Morton was not doing well raising money. Small contributions were coming in well enough, but the big money that a candidate has to have wasn't available. And his latest showing in the polls made it extremely likely that raising money would be even more difficult in the future.

With just a handful of people present in that room in Durham Thursday morning, the decision was reached about 1 a.m.: Morton would pull out of the race.

He had planned to pay his filing fee in Raleigh Thursday afternoon. Hundreds of Morton supporters drove to the State Capital Thursday to be on hand for the big occasion. They took over a huge ballroom in the Sir Walter Hotel. The Morton Salt girls were there, Ralph Smith and his crackerjacks led cheers: "Who's Gonna Be North Carolina's Next Governor? Hugh, that's who."

They thought they had come to Raleigh to cheer Caesar, not to bury him. But Morton took the podium around 2:30 p.m. Thursday and announced that he would not run. Surprise? Baby, this was a smash.

What went wrong with the campaign?

Morton got into the race very late into the day. He decided last summer that the Governor's office was his cup of tea and started running. Skipper Bowles had been running for three years and rumor has it that the neanderthal man was Pat Taylor's first campaign manager for Governor.

Bowles and Taylor had not only been planning and building political organizations, they had also cultivated the all-important financial sources.

Morton was behind in the polls and in the money race and it would have taken a super miracle for him to have caught up.

He didn't want to put his friends through a game of desperation politics, so he got out. He'll be second-guessed but the move was a wise one.

What does Morton do now?

Taylor and Bowles were going after his vote the minute that he made the big announcement. At one time, Morton had planned to back Bowles for Governor. But he said he and Skipper had some "serious differences over principles" that led to Morton's entry into the race in the first place.

Morton has also been

Old Questions Re-Raised

Last week's decision of the California Supreme Court, banning death sentences in that State, raises anew some old questions of law and public policy. In my own view, the decision was clearly wrong.

The California court construed California's own State Constitution. The decision is therefore final and not subject to further appeal. It applies solely to California, and serves to nullify only those death sentences that had been imposed by California courts upon more than 100 prisoners awaiting execution.

Yet the action of the California court cannot be viewed so narrowly. On January 17 th U.S. Supreme Court heard argument in four cases (the most heinous of them, ironically from California) that directly challenge the concept of capital punishment as a violation of the Eighth Amendment. The amendment says that "cruel and unusual punishments" shall not be inflicted.

The problem presents two separate questions. The first is, Is capital punishment unconstitutional? The second is, Is it immoral, unwise, or ineffective? The questions have nothing to do with one another.

I do not see, for the life of me, how capital punishment, as such, possibly could be held unconstitutional. The Fifth Amendment implicitly sanctions it: "No person shall be held to answer for a capital... crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury." Both the Fifth and the Fourteenth Amendments give further sanction in terms of due process of law.

Mr. Justice Stewart made the point during oral argument last month: "One of the things that bothers me about the Fourteenth Amendment," he said, "is that the deprivation of life is expressly prohibited without due process of law—and therefore by implication is approved when there is due process. And this is why I say that to met it is more than just a semantic problem. Now we're not talking about the express wording of the Constitution."

Precisely. Even if one embraces every activist theory ever advanced about our "living," or "flexible," or "evolving" Constitution, only the two adjectives of the Eighth Amendment would be subject to judicial interpretation: Is a particular method of execution "cruel and unusual"? Disemboweling a prisoner, or boiling him in oil, might thus be unconstitutional. But unless the legislative judgment of 41 States is to be discarded altogether, the electric chair and the gas chamber cannot be regarded, at law, as constitutionally impermissible.

The California court confused the two questions. The majority declared that capital punishment, as such, "degrades and dehumanizes all who participate in its

Public Forum

(Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words)

To the editor:

American children are suffering from widespread parent failure. Parents hardly know what to expect of their offspring, are in conflict to what their values are, while others lack the confidence to impose discipline and many other doubt their rights to structure a child's attitudes, beliefs and conduct.

How a child develops into an adult depends majorly on whether parents care enough about their children to assert and defend the necessary values. It also means putting home responsibilities first.

Rearing our children is the most important task most of will ever undertake.

Love and discipline are the foundation of all values. Children need discipline if they are to develop comptent, self-confident personalities. Unfortunately many parents are letting other children and the media, specifically television and the movies, do the job.

If one has a religious faith, it can help solidify a sense of family and help guide a child in his ethical development.

It is equally important that parents put forward a positive attitude toward their own racial and ethnic heritage. No one should be ashamed of his family's past because misplaced shame is self-crippling. Anything a family does together whether it is eating at home, in a restaurant, camping, going to church or going on a vacation is worthwhile, because it promotes a family spirit. Children may resent at times that they cannot do what every other child on the block is doing, but, for outbalancing that resentment, they gain the security of family membership.

If a child is to learn to be an adult, he has to begin by respecting the adults he know, his parents and, if they are alive, his grandparents. By learning to obey his father and mother, a child has the freedom within the sure boundaries they set for him to discover his own identity. By learning to respect other people's right, a child gains the self-confidence to claim his own.

Words That Wound

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that a man on the water wagon gets tired of hearing:

"All I can say, Harry, is—it was about time."

"What'll you have, Harry—another cup of coffee?"

HAL BOYLE

"What do you use for a chaser after you drink a glass of water?"

"It must be nice to see only gray elephants again for a change."

"I'll give you two weeks at the most. Then you'll be back with your foot glued to the bar rail again."

"It's okay with me, Harry. The less you drink the more there'll be left for me."

"I hear you're off the sauce, Harry. I hope this means we'll see you more often at the Rotary meetings."

"I guess about the only exercise you get is climbing on and falling off the water wagon, isn't it?"

"All I did was wave the cork under his nose—and he fainted."

"Well, it's no big loss to the rest of us barflies if Harry turned pure. He hasn't bought a round since Firpo knocked Dempsey out of the ring anyway."

"One of the nicest things about being dry is that you find the conversation of your wife and children so much more stimulating."

"There's nothing worse than a reformed drunk."

"Well, I guess he's had enough hangovers to last him the rest of his life, anyway."

"Better you than me, Harry."

"How about a mug of root beer, Harry? You haven't tried that yet."

"What are you going to do with all the money you save now—leave it to me?"

"Let me slip you a fake Bloody Mary, Harry. Nobody'll know I left the vodka out."

W. Chester Harris, local attorney, today made public the announcement of his candidacy for judge of Recorder's Court subject to the action of the Democratic primary in June. While there have been reports of many candidates for the various court offices in the coming primary, Mr. Harris is the first that has given the press a statement endorsed by the resolution of the Pitt County Tax Relief Association.

Employees in state buildings at Raleigh are being denied any ice water during the remainder of the winter. The action is a means of cutting down expenses, one of the several adopted by the state the last few months.

Strength For Today

RIGHT AS USUAL

The Bible declares that jealousy is cruel as the grave (Song of Solomon 8:6). The expression "You can say that again" applies to this situation. The jealous person is miserable and will continue in misery as long as he (or she) continues to be jealous. Jealousy is a disease, and it can make a person sick and keep him so. To want something somebody else has constitutes a continuous self-torture. There is nothing complimentary about jealousy. The jealous person is definitely afflicted. He had better search for a remedy (or a cure) and start on the project immediately. Jealousy never makes people happy — it makes them miserable.

You may retort that God speaks of Himself as a jealous God (Exodus 20:5). In all such cases the Hebrew word for jealousy really means "zealous." If we have that kind of jealousy, okay. No one will complain or criticize, but the jealousy of wanting what we do not have and cannot have because it belongs to someone else — this is an unmitigated evil. It is a form of self-torture. We like zealous people. It is a stimulating sight to see them at work on a project. They have a smile on their faces and frequently a song on their lips. They are zealous.

Some of us are old enough to remember diseases that have been definitely eliminated. More of that type of scientific triumph is in store for us. But being ill-natured and glowering and muttering all the time — this is illness. The Bible calls it "strong as death- — cruel as the grave." And the Bible is right as usual.

High Wages And Jobs Related

By ELMER ROESSNER

Unemployment in Detroit is estimated at 10 per cent of the labor force. The United Auto Workers, the city's dominant union, has asked for a committee of business, labor and civic leaders to demand that employers explain why they are quitting the Detroit area.

COMMENT: Detroit, like many other cities, is plagued with crime in the streets and racial tensions. But there is another factor in Detroit: high wages.

Federal-Mogul Corp. closed two roller bearing plants late last year. An official said that wages in the Detroit area averaged $2 an hour above scales of the company's competitors in other areas. The Detroit work will be divided between Mogul plants in the South and in rural Illinois.

Ex-Cell-O Corp., which has previously moved some operations out of Detroit, says it plans to move others because of the high-wage problem.

That isn't the end. Detroit's products, a multitude of other manufactured goods, must cost more than products made in other areas. Fortunately for the auto industry, U.A.W. scales prevail wherever autos are made.

U.S. Users Eye Foreign Steel

Industry Week reports many U.S. steel users are seeking bargains abroad. A Chicago mill says price shading is necessary to keep orders in this country. General Motors said it will buy 154,322 net tons of Japanese steel, double the amount it purchased last year. A Southern pig iron facility has closed because customers can buy foreign pig iron cheaper than U.S. pig iron.

COMMENT: AGAIN THERE IS THE PROBLEM OF HIGH WAGES. Lower U.S. wages are unthinkable. The alternatives: new voluntary quota agreements with European and Japanese steel producers; higher tariffs on steel; or federal quotas on steel imports, just as we have on meats.

Savings Bank Deposits Set January Record

A total of $710 million was deposited in the nation's mutual savings banks in January, a new high for that month. In addition, $165 million in interest brought the total to $875 million.

COMMENT: This is only part of consumers' savings. In addition, there were deposits in thrift accounts in commercial banks, purchases of E bonds, mutual funds, securities and real estate.

If only half of the amount saved were spent for goods and services, a lot of merchants, service firms and unemployed would be singing, "Happy days are here again."

Cameras Oversee Florida School Children

Eastman Kodak reports that its automatic camera security system has been installed in schools in Polk County, Fla., to detect disruptive conduct and to provide positive identification of trouble-makers.

COMMENT: Big Brother is watching them, and it isn't 1984 yet!

Clock Experiment Has Proven Einstein Theory

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists who twice hauled atomic clocks around the world in 80-hour trips say they've confirmed what Albert Einstein theorized: Time is relative.

The flights also yielded new time-keeping information important to national defense, space exploration and navigation.

One of Einstein's theories of relativity holds that the time a clock measures depends on its speed relative to the earth, the stars and all other objects in the universe.

Thus, time travels more slowly for a rapidly moving object than for a stationary one.

A commonly used, theoretical example is that of twin brothers, aged 20. One, an astronaut, takes a 32-year space voyage at close to the speed of light, but by earth standards ages only 4½ years in that time. His stay-at-home brother is 52 years old when the astronaut returns to earth.

Astronomer Richard Keating and physicist Joseph C. Hafele set out to prove the Einstein theory last October when they flew around the world, first to the east and a week later to the west, with four atomic clocks in tow.

The theory implies a clock traveling eastward at the 600-mile-an-hour speed of a jet plane should show an elapsed time a fraction of a second less than that of a comparable clock that stayed home during an 80-hour global flight.

The same clock traveling westward should show an elapsed time a fraction of a second greater than that of an earthbound clock because the plane would be flying against the earth's easterly rotation.

Keating said in an interview that the first firm measurements of the trips are consistent with these projected conclusions:

—The eastward-bound clocks in effect "ran slow" by 40 billionths of a second compared with an earthbound master clock. Put another way, time contracted for the airborne clocks.

—Traveling westward, the clocks "ran fast," or time expanded, by 275 billionths of a second.

Keating said the experiment unquestionably demonstrated a "relativistic effect," the phenomenon suggested by Eisenstein's theory, and marked the first time "anyone has done so while using physical clocks."

He said a major purpose of the $80,000, Navy-financed project was to test how atomic clocks behave during plane trips.

Since 1966, the Navy has transported atomic clocks to various parts of the world to help assure that the huge master atomic clock at the U.S. Naval Observatory and other clocks at U.S. military bases and National Aeronautics and Space Administration installations are synchronized.

Now that the relativistic effect has been demonstrated, it will be possible to make corrections for it, Keating said.

Restoration Costs Soar

RALEIGH (AP) — Restoration work on North Carolina's 132-year-old Capitol has been estimated to require nearly twice the money the General Assembly appropriated and the state's Advisory Budget Commission will discuss the problem Friday.

The 1971 General Assembly appropriated $525,000 for the restoration, but contractors have estimated it may cost as much as $945,000.

The commission, which must approve awarding of contracts for the work has several options. It can seek money from other sources in the budget, go back to the 1973 General Assembly for more money or cut back in the amount of restoration.

Plans call for installing a new roof, cleaning and re-painting exterior stone, patching plaster, repainting the interior, repairing floors and installing better lighting, heating and air conditioning.

The American Forest Institute estimates that insects and disease annually destroy 2.4 billion cubic feet of timber.

"They say you can dry out quicker, Harry, if you return to the beauty of nature. Shall we take a walk through the park and feed a few nuts to the squirrels?"

"No, I'm not going to pour you another drop of prune juice, Harry. I'm your friend as well as your bartender. I can't bear to see a grown man drinking himself silly on prune juice."

critical of Taylor's approach to things and at one time during the campaign he told a group that he would not back Taylor.

It's conceivable that the Morton people could decide the next Governor. Morton will be in no hurry to make up his mind. He'll do a lot of listening in coming days.

As a matter of fact, some people believe Morton is a more important figure now than he was when he was a candidate. Pat Taylor and Skipper Bowles are saying nice things about the Grandfather Mountain man.

processes." Such punishment is "incompatible with the dignity of man." Very well. But these are not arguments of law; they are arguments of policy—they are the arguments of a legislative committee room.

We ought to keep these things straight. It simply does not follow that a given practice is unconstitutional because it is viewed by some judges as degrading, dehumanizing, or "incompatible with the dignity of man." Human slavery exhibited all those evils; yet human slavery was expressly sanctioned by the Constitution and was ended, as a matter of law, only by the Thirteenth Amendment. By the same token, to deny women a right to vote is unfair; but it was not unconstitutional prior to the Nineteenth Amendment.

If capital pusnishment is to be abolished, it ought not to be abolished by judicial decree. This is to vest in judges the power effectively to amend the Constitution. It ought to be abolished by the Congress, as to Federal crimes, and by the individual States, as to State crimes. Or it ought to be abolished by outright amendment of the Constitution.

Reasonably minded men may well disagree on the wisdom of capital punishment. As a public policy, perhaps it ought to be abandoned. But "the express wording of the Constitution," in Stewart's phrase, has to be upheld.

Billica President Of Scout Council

Dr. Harry Billica of Greenville, was installed as President of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts of America at the Annual Recognition Meeting on Tuesday held at the Moose Lodge in Greenville.

Dr. Billica has been active in Scouting for many years, having served as Scoutmaster, Chairman of Camping and Activities Committee, Camporee Chief, Member of the Council Executive Board, Council Commissioner, Vice-President of the Council, and National Council Representative. He also served as Chairman of the Camp Development Committee during the construction of Camp Sam Hatcher and Bonner Scout Reservation. He is an Eagle Scout and the holder of the Silver Beaver.

The new Council President received the B.S. degree in Chemistry from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1941, and his Ph. D. from the University of Wisconsin in 1947. For the past 25 years he has been with E. I. DuPont DeNemours & Co. Currently he is Research Manager of the Fiber Surface Research Secton, Textile Fibers Department. He is a recognized authority on man made polymers and fibers.

East Carolina Council's highest Award to men for outstanding service to Scouting, the Silver Beaver Award, was presented to several eastern North Carolina men: Charles W. Clagett, Washington; Thomas P. Benton, Havelock: J. Beverly Congleton, Stokes; Luther W. Hardee, Jr., Kinston; Dr. Thomas E. Leary, Ahoskie; Cabell C. Ramsey, Kinston; and S. E. Selby, Farmville.

The Silver Fawn Award, the Council's highest award to women for outstanding service to Scouting, was presented to Mrs. Mae Woods Bell, Rocky Mount and Mrs. E. D. Harrison, Williamston. Both the Beaver Ceremony and the Silver Fawn Ceremony were conducted by Walter L. Hood of Kinston.

DR. HARRY BILLICA

Dr. Billica presented the National Spencer Awards to the Council and to each District in the Council for reaching the majority of the Boypower Goals during 1971.

Jimmy Congleton of Stokes, presented the Council a picture of Lord Baden Powell, Founder of the Boy Scouts of the World.

Commander Thomas J. Keane, USNR (Ret.), gave the feature address of the evening. Keane's address centered around patriotism and our American Heritage. Cammander Keane is a pioneer of the Boy Scout organization. He was a close associate and adviser to the late Dr. James E. West, the first Chief Scout Executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

Keane's successes in Scouting include the development and promotion of the Sea Scouting Explorer program; serving as the first National Director of Sea Scouting; and long and continuous service in helping develop the Boy Scout movement in Japan.

Officers and Members of the Council Executive Board from the PITT area for 1972 were installed by Harold Bedenbaugh, Deputy Regional Scout Executive, Boy Scouts of America. Those installed were: Fred Baumann, Knott Proctor, Jr., Dr. Andrew A. Best, E. E. Rawl, Jr., Dr. Harry R. Billica, Paul Redgate, Dr. James Bowman, Frank W. Saunders, Wyatt Brown, Frank Steinbeck, Dr. Ed Clement, Dr. Allen Taylor, J. B. Congleton, Rev. John Taylor, Dr. Ed Hooks, Dr. Earl Trevathan, Dr. Herbert Hadley, and W. H. Watson.

More than 300 Scouters from all parts of the Council attended the Annual Recognition Banquet.

Silver Beaver Award To Two Pitt County Men

Two Pitt County men, J. B. Congleton of Stokes and S. E. Selby of Farmville, were awarded the Silver Beaver Award for distinguished service to Boy Scout activity in their respective communities.

Presentation of the awards took place on Feburary 22 at the Annual Recognition Banquet of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts of America, held at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Congleton, a merchant and farmer of Stokes, was cited as "the most active Scouter in his community for ten years." Since 1962 he has served as Troop Committee Chairman, on the Council Executive Board, vice-chairman of the district, district chairman, district finance chairman, a member of the Troop Committee, a scoutmaster, and a member of the Order of the Arrow.

He is a member of the Pitt County Board of Education, a 32nd degree Mason, a charter member of the Stokes Ruritan Club, an elder in the Christian Church, and has been active in the Pitt County United Fund work.

Congleton is also the father of three Eagle Scouts.

The second Pitt County recipient of the Silver Beaver Award, S. E. Selby, is pastor of the First Christian Church of Farmville and is a teacher at the H. B. Sugg High School in Farmville. Selby is Boys' Counselor and Advisor to the Youth Government group at Farmville Central High School.

Active in scouting in three councils, Selby was cited for "rendering outstanding service to the East Carolina Council for many years." Previously Selby had served with the Tidewater Council in Norfolk, Va. and the General Green Council of Greensboro before locating in eastern North Carolina.

In 33 years of Scout work, Selby has been a Boy Scout; a member of District Explorer Council; of the District O and E Committee; Scoutmaster of Troop 421; Chairman, Pack 421; and a recipient of the Green Band and the Compass Awards.

Senator Jordan Here March 3

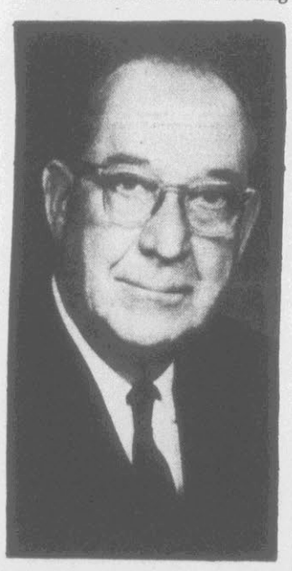

North Carolina U.S. Senator B. Everett Jordan is scheduled to be in Greenville on Friday, March 3, as guest speaker at the Annual Spring Dinner Meeting of Pitt County Democratic Women's Association.

At 7:30 p.m. on that date, Senator Jordan will speak at the annual affair being held at the Elks Lodge in Greenville.

Dr. Kaye Stokes, publicity chairman of the association, also reveals that Mrs. Nick Galifianakis, wife of Fourth District U.S. Congressman, is slated to be on hand representing her husband.

In addition to members of the association and their husbands or individual guests, the public is also invited to attend as long as reservations remain available.

Persons interested in making reservations and securing information on prices of the dinner are asked to call Mrs. J. Con Lanier at 758-1727 or Mrs. W. F. Tyson, 752-6625. Reservations must be made no later than 8:00 p.m., Wednesday, March 1.

SENATOR JORDAN

Senator Jordan was born September 8, 1896 at Ramseur, N.C. He attended Trinity College, now Duke University and holds an honorary LL.D. degree from Elon College. He is married to the former Katherine McLean of Gastonia. The Jordans have three children.

In World War I, Senator Jordan served with the U.S. Army Tank Corps and was with the occupation forces in Germany in 1919.

He is a Rotarian, a Shriner, and is recipient of the Silver Beaver Scout Award. He has been a Bible class teacher in the Methodist Church since 1927 and has served on numerous North Carolina boards and commissions, both in political and in higher education fields.

First appointed to the U.S. Senate in April 1958, Jordan was elected as a U.S. Senator in November 1958, reelected in 1960 and again in 1966. He is again running for the office in the 1972 elections.

The Farmville bank that houses the centennial store is the Bank of North Carolina, not North Carolina National Bank, as was reported in The Daily Reflector and a Shopper's Guide article about Farmville's centennial plans.

Art Building Plans Ready

Odell Associaties, Inc., a Charlotte arthitectural firm, have drawn final plans for East Carolina University's long - awaited School of Art Building.

The new structure, to be built on the site of the Old Austin and Wilson Hall Buildings, will face Fifth St. at the central entrance to the ECU campus.

It will include 55,000 square feet of space for studios, workshops and offices, and will be completely air conditioned, according to James Lowry, ECU's Director of Maintenance and Operations.

Construction and installation bids will be opened this June. The building will be a reinforced concrete structure with brick facing, designed to allow for future expansion.

Our man Sam makes house calls. On doctors.

Sam Pridgen put in about 20,000 miles last year in line of duty. That covers a lot of North Carolina. And a lot of health care professionals.

Sam is a Blue Shield Professional Relations Representative. He calls on doctors, and their assistants. At their offices, hospitals, or clinics, and even their homes, if need be.

His Blue Cross counterparts call on Administrators and the business office staff of hospitals, nursing homes, and home health agencies.

In all, we have 18 specially trained Blue Cross and Blue Shield representatives who keep the professionals and providers of health care up to date on changes in Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage, contracts, methods of claims reporting, news of what others like them are doing and planning...and also the nitty gritty of how to fill out claims forms accurately.

If we make our man Sam sound like an all-round guy, it's because he is. He's a real pro in the health service field. So are all the other Sam types who work for Blue Cross and Blue Shield. Maybe you know the one who serves your own community. You should, especially if you are a medical professional yourself.

He's there to help.

So are we, all of us, at Blue Cross and Blue Shield.

Call on us.

Serving you is our only business.

Most Americans Approve Of Trip

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans approved of President Nixon's visit to China, according to the Louis Harris Poll.

In a nationwide survey of 1,480 households between Feb. 8 and 14, the poll reported Wednesday, 78 per cent thought the visit was a good idea.

The poll also noted that by 62 to 21 per cent, those queried did not agree with the statement that "the war in Vietnam will come to an end faster" because of the trip. And by 63 to 21 per cent those polled did not believe that the trip will result in "the United States getting out of Vietnam faster."

CASUALTIES

SAIGON (AP) — Two Americans were reported killed in Indochina last week, the same number as in the previous week, while the number of wounded dropped from 28 to 21, the U.S. Command announced today.

OK KLEINDIENST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously approved President Nixon's nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general.

Rezoning . . .

programmed to extend over a period of years.

Projected developments call for dedication of major arteries through the property connecting with Belvoir Road; a mobile home park that can be moved from one location to another as the pattern of development changes; an industrial park; a shopping center; and an apartment complex area.

Anderson mentioned twenty-six million as the eventual cost of the entire project. He also said that as this is a totally undeveloped area, the developers were anxious to create an area that would project a good image.

Clarence B. Tugwell reported on his commission's assignment for recommending a name for the projected loop road in the Cental Business District Project. The recommendation is to name the loop Reade Circle. This would apply to the curved loop from Fifth and Reade on to Pitt Street. Tugwell noted in his presentation that he spent two day trying to establish who Reade Street is named for, but had no success. He said he did find out that Cotanche is not an Indian name, but was the maiden name of Susanna Evans.

In connection with the Central Business District Project, commission members accepted a suggestion by A B Dubber, Executive Director of the Redevelopment Commission, that the Planning and Zoning Commission recommend a slight change in the boundary of the project. Dubber said that changing the boundary would make it possible for Pitt Street to be placed on the list of streets maintained by the State Highway Commission. The action, if approved, Dubber explained, would also result in saving the city approximately $100,000 in acquisition of property. The area for which the change is requested runs south along the west side of Pitt Street from the intersection of Fifth Street.

On a review of the proposed apartment layout of Sutton property located at the southwest corner of Red Banks Road and East 14th Street extended, the commission tabled a decision on the matter. After authorizing City Planner Dillon Watson and City Engineer C. A. Holliday to provide the Board of Adustments with information that board is seeking on road patterns and plans for the area included in the Thoroughfare Plan, the commission tabled the item due to lack of sufficient information to properly consider it at last night's meeting.

Another recommendation for approval was that of a request by Harold Dail for rezoning his property at 417 West Third Street from R-6 to Downtown Commercial Fringe. The property is currently being used as a wood working shop. Dail has plans to put the wood shop in the rear of the building and use the front portion for a sports shop. The commission is also making a second recommendation to the City Council that rezoning of a larger area in the vicinity be considered, one that would extend to the railroad.

Louis Singleton, committee chairman on a study for the widening of Chestnut Street, recommended in his report that no action be taken to widen Chestnut Street. Singleton's recommendation is that if the volume of traffic warrants it, that parking be eliminated from the street.

A request by Chester Rogers for rezoning of property in Greenvield Terrace could not be considered by the commission. Rogers had been instructed in error to appear before the commission. He was informed at last night's meeting that the Joint Board of Adjustments was the proper board to consider his request.

Heavy Sale Of Mao Buttons

NEW YORK (AP) — Lapel buttons bearing the image of Mao Tse-tung have been enjoying a brisk sale in recent days, says a San Francisco importer.

Clinton Reilly said Wednesday that in anticipation of President Nixon's trip to China, he secured 50,000 Chairman Mao buttons from a contact in Hong Kong. He said he has sold 15,000 in the past 10 days.

Annual Speak-Up Event Tonight

The Greenville Jaycees will hold its annual Speak-Up competition tonight at the Elks Lodge, according to program chairman John White.

White said that Speak-Up is a Jaycee program designed to develop its members ability to speak publicly.

Speak-Up, the chairman asserted, is probably the most demanding internal program on the Jaycee calendar "but since one of our most important aims is to develop our members personally, we feel that it is a necessary one."

Contestants tonight will be Stan Morgan, Mike Peters, Tom Reese, Joe DeLoach, Marvin Buck and Bill Wilson. Five judges from local businesses and East Carolina University will select the winners.

Trenton Police Are Reinstated

TRENTON, N. C. (AP) — Trenton's wife-husband police team of Chief Maggie Small and policeman Earl Dewey Small, have returned to duty.

Mayor James R. Hood said the two officers, who were suspended from duty following a family row Jan. 21, were reinstated recently.

"Things appear to be running smoothly in the police department," Hood said.

Farmville Advances; Conley Is Ousted

Rebound For The Tar Heels

North Carolina forward Bill Chamberlain (31) takes a rebound under his own goal in Wednesday night's game as Georgia Tech players are unable to get their hands on the ball. Tech players are Bruce Brown (54), Steve Post (44) and Terry Farrell (10). North Carolina won, 87-66. (AP Wirephoto)

VANCEBORO — Farmville Central got 28 points from Robert Tripp as he led the Jaguars past stubborn Jones Central last night, 86-71, in the first round of the District II, 3-A Tournament. Conley High School got 34 points from David Pugh, but that wasn't enough as West Carteret eliminated the Vikings, 84-75.

Tonight, Farmville Central will meet Eastern Carolina Conference rival North Lenoir in the 7 p.m. game, while Ayden-Grifton takes on West Carteret. The two survivors meet Friday for the championship.

Conley fell behind in the late stages of the first period, fell back by as much as 16 points and never could pull back after that.

West Carteret took the lead on a basket by Dennis Hester, and got another from him for a 4-0 lead. Conley finally got moving, but cold shooting at the start kept them behind until Bernard Wilkes hit a baseline jumper with 3:20 to go, putting Conley into the lead, 12-11. West Carteret tied it up on a free throw by Colin McDuffy, but a three-point play by Pugh pushed Conley out by three, 15-12 with 1:55 left in the period. It was the last lead for the Vikings.

West Carteret got two quick baskets from Hester and took the lead for good on a shot from underneath with 1:27 left, 16-15. Hester hit again to raise it to three, and after a Conley free throw, two more baskets raised the lead to 22-16 at the end of the period.

West Carteret ran off six more points before Conley could score to start the second period. John Graham got a free throw, then Thomas Frazier hit a jumper. Another free throw, by Joe Raymond, and a basket by Hester ran it out to 12 at 28-16 before Pugh finally hit.

The Patriots continued to ease away however, getting two free throws and a basket by Graham to run the lead out to 15, 36-21. Then, with 1:38 left in the half, Hester hit to make it a 16-point spread, 40-24, the biggest margin the Pats enjoyed. They held a 42-28 halftime edge.

In the third period, Conley was able to make no gains at all until late in the period. The two teams swapped basket-for-basket throughout the first five minutes of play before Graham hit a jumper to up the margin to 16 again. After that, however, Conley got two straight from Tommy Roach to cut the lead back to 11 at the end of the period, 62-51.

Conley fell back 14 early in the period, but a foul against the Pats also brought on a technical and Conley made hay on the play. Pugh hit both of the foul shots, added the technical and then Mike Sutton hit a jumper to complete the sweep on the play, and trimming the lead to just eight, 68-60.

Still, however, West Carteret managed to hold to the margin, and Conley never was able to come closer than seven in the rush to the wire.

Besides Pugh's 34, Dwight Hawkins added 13. Graham led West Carteret with 24, while Hester had 23 and Raymond had 15.

The other game produced one of the sloppiest of any tournament. Neither team acted as if it wanted the win, as the lead changed hands on numerous occasions, mainly because of the mistakes of the other team. Turnovers were too numerous to count, and it was only in the final quarter, when Farmville Central opened with a 12-point spurt that the game was finally decided.

The contest was tied on 14 occasions throughout the first three periods. The lead changed hands 13 times, and neither team had better than a four-point edge until the Jaguars hit their final period streak.

With both teams fumbling the ball, it was still a wild-shooting game. Many of Jones Senior's shots came from 25 to 30 feet away. Farmville got the opening lead, but lost it to two baskets by Jones. It bounced back and forth, however, with Farmville taking it at 5-4, again at 9-8 and finally at 16-15 on a shot by Charles Rasberry. A free throw by Connie Tripp and another basket by Rasberry upped the Jaguar margin to four, 19-15 with 1:15 left, but Jones fought back and cut it to two on a last second basket by James Gray, 21-19.

In the second period, Farmville again returned to a four-point edge, 25-21, but Jones took command, tieing it at 25-25 on a free throw by Melvin Morgan. Van Baker then put Jones into the lead and a basket by Morgan upped the lead to four, 29-25. They held that advantage twice more in the period, once after Farmville had come back to tie it, but the Jags finally regained the lead when Robert Tripp tied it up, then McCoy Williams stole the ball for a 37-35 lead with 1:18 left. It was 39-37 at the end of the period.

In the third period, it continued along the same pace, with neither team going anywhere. Farmville led by four, but Jones came back to hold a three-point edge, 54-51 late in the period Farmville tied it up at 55-55 on a drive by Tripp, and then gained the lead on a jumper by Williams, holding a 58-56 lead as the horn sounded.

But in the opening minutes of the final period, Jones ran out of steam, and Farmville shot away. Rasberry hit two free throws to open the period and Williams followed with a basket from underneath.

Tripp hit two free throws, while Williams and Rasberry each added two from the line to run it out to 12. The streak ended with a Williams basket which made it 70-56 with 5:28 left. After that, it was all over.

Besides Robert Tripp's 28, Williams had 20, Rasberry had 18, and Connie Tripp had 12. For Jones, Baker hit 28, Morgan had 15, Dean Payton had 12 and Louis Quinn had 10.

Following tonight's semi-finals, the two finalists meet Friday for the title, with the winner advancing to the state tournament next week.

Ayden-Grifton, Conley Girls Are Eliminated

DUDLEY — Both Ayden-Grifton and D. H. Conley were eliminated from the Girls District II Basketball Tournament last night. Ayden-Grifton bowed to South Lenoir, 39-37, while Roseboro-Salemburg beat Conley, 41-30.

The two winners meet tonight at 8:30 p.m., while North Pitt, the Eastern Carolina Conference champion takes on Southern Wayne in the other game at 7 p.m. The two survivors meet Friday at 7:30 p.m. for the title. The winner goes to the State Tournament next week in High Point.

South Lenoir inched in front of Ayden-Grifton, 7-6, in the first period, but couldn't pull away. The Chargerettes came back with an 11-10 second quarter and it was all tied up, 17-17 at the end of the half.

In the third period, South Lenoir again inched out into the lead, getting 10 points to nine for A-G. That left the Lenoir team in front, 27-26, going into the final period. They again outhit Ayden-Grifton, 12-11, to take the win as the Chargerettes were just unable to ever catch up.

Theresa Taylor led South Lenoir with 12 points, while Dorothy Small had 11. Patsy Loftin had nine to lead the Chargerettes.

In the other game, Katrina Owens, a 6-4 lassie, dominated play and guided Roseboro-Salemburg to its victory over Conley. R-S slipped out into a 16-13 lead in the first period, then both teams tossed in eight points in the second frame. That made it 24-21 at the half.

In the third period, Roseboro outhit Conley, 9-4, and stretched the lead out to 33-25. They outhit Conley again, 8-5, in the final period to wrap it up.

Miss Owens led the R-S scoring with 18 points, while Madge Dews had nine to lead the Valkyries.

Injuries Worry Carolina Coach

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

North Carolina basketball coach Dean Smith says the home game with Virginia Saturday for first place in the Atlantic Coach Conference could be the pivotal game of the regular season.

North Carolina won by six points in their meeting at Virginia, but has three players with minor injuries going into Saturday's game. Bill Chamberlain, who injured an ankle in last Saturday's game against Notre Dame, reinjured it in the second half of Wednesday night's game against Georgia Tech, which the Tar Heels won 87-66.

Dennis Wuycik took a hard blow in the nose in the Georgia Tech game, but Smith said he probably would be all right by Saturday.

And Steve Previs has two groin injuries, but the coach said, "He's such a determined kid he wants to play."

Smith also said after the home victory over Georgia Tech that "There's absolutely no chance" of junior star Robert McAdoo leaving the team now to turn pro. The coach, commenting on reports that McAdoo might do so, said:

"Mac told me that at the end of the season he will make a decision whether to return next year for his senior year or to go pro."

Virginia is first in the ACC on an 8-2 record and is 20-3 in all games. North Carolina is next at 7-2 and 19-3. The regular-season leader will get a bye in the first round of next month's conference championship tournament which leads to the national collegiate tournament.

All three players Smith mentioned as slightly injured played well in the victory against Georgia Tech, a team which the Tar Heels had beaten by 45 points earlier in Charlotte. Chamberlain scored 24 points and Wuycik 18. Previs had seven assists, the second of which broke Charlie Scott's season record of 108 set in 1968-69.

Virginia also won Wednesday night, 84-74 over Pitt, for its first 20-victory season in history. The Cavaliers won by hitting on 14 free throws in the final three minutes, 18 seconds.

Duke nipped North Carolina State 74-73 in overtime on Ron Righter's 19-foot humper with 25 seconds to go.

Duke solidified its hold on fourth place by raising its ACC mark to 5-4, and is 12-9 in all games. N.C. State, fifth in the seven-team league, is 4-6 and 13-9.

The victory was revenge for Duke, which a month ago had lost to N.C. State 85-58, its worst loss of the season.

ACC teams now are idle until Saturday, when Virginia will be at North Carolina, Maryland at Duke in a regionally televised afternoon game, Wake Forest at Clemson, and N.C. State home to East Carolina of the Southern Conference.

Oak City Upset By Aurora Five

PLYMOUTH — Oak City's Trojans never got cranked up last night in the District One, Class A Basketball Tournament, and as a result were sent packing by Aurora, 63-41.

The loss knocked out of the tournament the regular season Martin County champions. Aurora goes on to meet Creswell, winner over Mattamuskeet, in tonight's semi-finals. In the other game, Martin Tourney champ Jamesville meets Belhaven. The finals will be held Friday night.

Aurora doubled the score on Oak City in the first period of play, 10-5, but neither team had a hot hand. Aurora managed to improve its scoring in the second period, getting 16, but Oak City could only get nine. That left the Trojans trailing, 26-14 at the half.

Oak City finally got going in the third period, but still lost ground on a 17-16 Aurora advantage, to trail 43-30 as the final frame opened. Again, the Trojans could not pass Aurora, which outhit them, 20-11, to win going away.

Tex Hooker led Aurora with 25 points, while Frank Tatum added 17.

Wayne Jones was the only Trojan to hit double figures, getting 11.

Youth Track Program Slated For Spring

A youth track program which hopes to attract between 8,000 and 10,000 will get underway in Eastern North Carolina next month, and have its windup here in May.

Under the sponsorship of the Belk-Tyler chain and Buster Brown Textiles, the first of an annual "American Classic" track programs was announced yesterday at a luncheon at the Holiday Inn.

L. A. Bailey, executive vice president of the Belk-Tyler company, made the announcement of the meet, and noted that it comes during the year of the Olympics. "This will be a junior olympics in every way," he said. He also emphasised that his company would provide only financial support to the program, and that it would not run it otherwise.

Bill Carson, East Carolina University track coach, will be the overall director of the program, and will be in charge of the final competition. Other track coaches in the areas involved will handle local programs.

A local program will be held in each community where a Belk-Tyler store is located, a total of 15. These include Ahoskie, Edenton, Elizabeth City, Farmville, Goldsboro, Greenville, Kinston, Mount Olive, Murfreesboro, Plymouth, Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Washington, Williamston and Wilson.

Competition is not limited to these particular areas, but entry blacks are available at the credit department in each of these stores. Parental approval must be given in writing on the application for each entrant.

The program is set up so that both boys and girls may take part. Three age groups will also be set up, giving a total of six classifications. The junior group will include 6-7, while the intermediates will be 8-9. Ten, 11 and 12-year olds, will be in the senior division.

Competition in the senior division will indlude the high jump, long jump, 100 yard dash, and 440 and 880-yard runs for boys. Girls will compete in high jump, standing long jump, the 50-yard dash, 440-yard run and the 440-yard relary.

The intermediate and junior divisions will be run off under decathalon rules. Each contestant will complete in the high jump, the standing long jump and the 50-yard dash, with points given to each event and the winner determined on an overall total.

In keeping with the olympic theme and the overall theme of "God and Country," the championship event, which will be held at the East Carolina University track on Saturday, May 13, a parade of champions into the area will kick off the day's activities. Each city's representatives, an expected total of 400 from the 15 cities, will march in as a group, carying American flags. They will assemble on the infield for the playing of the National Anthem and the opening ceremonies.

Each team will be uniformed by the sponsoring store, and each team will also be fed during the day.

On the local level, each competitor will receive a certificate of participation, with champions and other finalists presented appropriate trophies. Gold, Silver and Bronze medals will be presented to overall champions.

Application blanks are expected to be available at all Belk- Tyler stores by March 1.

A doctor who operates on himself has a fool for a patient.

It's an old saying, but it's never made more sense. There are some jobs in life that you just don't tackle by yourself. The preparation of your income tax should be one of them.

And that's where H & R Block, The Income Tax People, come in. H & R Block is America's largest tax service with more than 6,000 conveniently located offices to serve you. Your H & R Block representative is specially trained and can provide information on legitimate income tax benefits and opportunities that the average man on the street doesn't even know exists.

For instance, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? Or, that if your income increased over the last few years, you may save tax dollars by "income averaging?" And even if you did, would you know how to go about "income averaging" to begin with? Probably not. And there's no reason why you should. After all, you're an amateur when it comes to doing income tax.

H & R Block's charges start at $5 and last year averaged under $12.50 for over 7 million returns we prepared.

And, if we make any error in the preparation of your tax return that costs you any interest or penalty on additional taxes due, while we do not assume the liability for the additional taxes, we will pay that interest and penalty.

Our one time fee entitles you to year 'round tax service and assistance.

Come to the company that more than 7 million Americans placed their confidence in last year. Come to the people who will fill out your next income tax return efficiently, quickly, confidentially. Come to H & R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

Virginia Claims 20th Victory

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The buttons read "BP for President"—and if the election were held in Charlottesville, Va. along about now, he just might make it.

"BP" is Barry Parkhill; Charlottesville is the home of the University of Virginia. Ever since BP came to Charlottesville, the ol' town hasn't been the same.

Parkhill, a 20-year-old, 6-foot-4, 185-pound junior at Virginia, is a basketball player. A very good basketball player.

Last year, Parkhill sparked Virginia to a 15-11 record, the first winning season for the Cavaliers in 17 years.

This year, Parkhill and his mates have gone a step further. Virginia won 18 of its first 19 games, climbing to the No. 6 spot in the national rankings, the first time the team had ever cracked the Top Ten. After losses to Penn State and Duke, Virginia edged Clemson Monday for its 19th victory.

Wednesday night came another milestone. Parkhill and 6-10 senior Scott McCandlish scored 22 points apiece as 13th-ranked Virginia defeated Pitt 84-74, raising the Cavaliers' record to 20-3. It was Virginia's first 20-win season in 67 years of competition.

Pitt led by five points at halftime and the game was tied with 3:18 to go, but the Cavaliers poured in 14 free throws down the stretch to break the game open.

Neither coach was happy with the officiating. Five technical fouls were called, four of them on Pitt.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, third-ranked Louisville whipped Cincinnati 93-73, No. 5 North Carolina trounced Georgia Tech 87-66, ninth-rated South Carolina overpowered Toledo 94-72 and No. 11 Florida State defeated Jacksonville 70-61.

Louisville, 20-2, jumped off to an 8-0 lead and was never threatened. Jim Price scored 25 points to lead all scorers.

"We played very well," declared Louisville coach Denny Crum. "I was especially pleased with the defense. Cincinnati is a good shooting team, but we played real aggressive defense."

North Carolina, 19-3, sank 52.9 per cent of its shots from the field and pressured outmanned Georgia Tech into 33 turnovers. Bill Chamberlain topped the Tar Heels with 24 points, but Tech's Steve Post took game honors with 25.

"It was hard to get up for this game," conceded North Carolina coach Dean Smith, "because we beat Georgia Tech by 45 points in Charlotte. We played extremely well on defense and forced Tech to take bad shots. Georgia Tech just doesn't have the rebounding strength to play with us."

Rebounding strength also helped South Carolina, 18-4, past Toledo, 16-5. Seven-footer Danny Traylor and 6-10 Tom Riker dominated the boards as the Gamecocks jumped ahead 19-5 and coasted to victory. Traylor scored 21 points and grabbed 10 rebounds, Riker had 25 points and 15 rebounds.

In a battle of independents seeking post-season tournament bids, Florida State came from behind in the final seven minutes to beat Jacksonville. The Seminoles are now 21-4 while Jacksonville's record dipped to 18-6.

In other major games, Penn State edged West Virginia 80-79 on a steal and lay-up in the final eight seconds by Chuck Crist; Al Burks scored 35 points to lift Duquesne, 18-4, past DePaul 70-65; Ron Righter sank a 19-foot jumper with 25 seconds to go in overtime to give Duke a 74-73 victory over North Carolina State, and St. Joseph's held American U. scoreless over the last 5½ minutes to record a 59-53 Middle Atlantic Conference victory.

In a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia, Temple, 20-7, routed Rhode Island 108-64 and Syracuse, 18-5, rallied in the second half to overcome LaSalle 87-80.

The nations top-ranked small college team, Eau Claire State of Wisconsin, overpowered Wisconsin-River Falls 99-68 to boost its record to 20-1 and clinch at least a tie for its third consecutive State University conference crown.

Six Eau Claire players scored in double figures, Mike Ratliff leading the way with 27 points and 16 rebounds. Jack Renkens of River Falls took game honors, however, with 33 points.

NCAA Bringing Suit Against Porter, ABA

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A $216,663 damage suit has been filed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association against the American Basketball Association and Howard Porter, former All-American at Villanova University.

The legal action is designed to stop the ABA from secretly signing college players before they complete their eligibility.

The NCAA filed the suit Wednesday in Common Pleas Court in Chester, Pa., and asked the court to order the ABA to notify the NCAA and the school involved within 24 hours after a player with remaining eligibility signs an ABA contract.

In addition to the injunction, the NCAA seeks general and special damages totaling $116,663 from the ABA and Porter and $100,000 exemplary damages from Porter.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said the $16,663 represents out-of-pocket expense to the NCAA for investigating the Porter case and the additional $100,000 is "being sought because of damage to the association's reputation as to its ability to enforce our eligibility rules and to the integrity of the NCAA's national tournament."

Porter, who now plays for the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association, led Villanova to second place in the national finals last March at Houston. He was selected as the tournament's most valuable player.

After it was determined Porter had signed an ABA contract Dec. 16, 1970, and was assigned to the Pittsburgh club, Villanova vacated its second place finish in the tourney and forfeited its share of the receipts amounting to $78,347.84.

Byers said at a news conference that Porter had sworn in an affidavit dated Feb. 4, 1971, that he had not signed a contract and that Jack Dolph, ABA commissioner, had denied to the NCAA and Villanova officials that Porter had been placed under contract.

Both Porter and a spokesman for Dolph said they had no comment about the NCAA's action.

The NCAA hinted it is also investigating Jim McDaniels, who starred for Western Kentucky, the tournament's third place team.

Late Shot Whips Cavs For Boston Celtics

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Cleveland is a funny team," Jo Jo White said—but the Boston guard wasn't laughing. He was panting.

"You get them down and they keep fighting back. They don't quit. No question—they're going to be tough," White said Wednesday night after his jump shot from the top of the key with 13 seconds to play gave the Celtics a 113-111 National Basketball Association victory over the scrappy Cavaliers.

In the night's other NBA games, Milwaukee overhauled Baltimore 113-105, Houston surprised Los Angeles 115-110, Atlanta nipped Phoenix 120-118, Cincinnati defeated Portland 110-106 and Seattle squeezed by Detroit 97-96.

The victory enabled the Celtics to pad their divisional lead over the idle New York Knicks to three games. But, as the score indicated, it was anything but easy.

"They had everything to gain and nothing to lose," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said of the Cavaliers, last in the Central Division. "They were out there scratching and grabbing all night."

The Celts appeared to have things locked up early, leading by 16 points in the third quarter before the Cavs became aroused and caught them at 108-108 with 1:48 to play. John Havlicek's 33 points and White's 29 led Boston while Bobby Smith had 29 and Austin Carr 25 for Cleveland.

Milwaukee's victory was its 11th in a row against the outgunned Bullets, who faded after holding the lead for all but the final 2½ minutes.

"In a close game," Baltimore Coach Gene Shue sighed, "power usually wins. When you go down the stretch against a strong team, chances are you'll get beat."

The Bullets got beat by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's power as the Bucks' big center drilled in 35 points and grabbed 17 rebounds. Archie Clark had 23 to top Baltimore.

The road-weary Lakers were no match for the Rockets in the first half as Houston shot to a 60-42 halftime lead. Then Jerry West and Gail Goodrich sparked one of Los Angeles' patented second-half surges—but despite going in front 96-93, the Lakers couldn't maintain the momentum.

Elvin Hayes hit 33 points for Houston while West had 36 and Goodrich 32 for the Lakers.

Jim Washington hit a career-high 28 points and hauled in a personal season-high 20 rebounds to pace Atlanta's victory over Phoenix after the Hawks had blown a 13-point third-quarter lead. Pete Maravich added 24 points for the Hawks while Paul Silas scored 26 to lead the Suns, losing for only the third time in 14 games.

Scoring honors in the league for the night went to the Royals' little Nate Archibald, who bombed in a career-high 50 points in Cincinnati's squeaker against the Trailblazers. Sidney Wicks had 30 for Portland.

Seattle saw its 18-point third-period lead against the Pistons vanish before Dick Snyder canned a 20-foot jumper with 12 seconds remaining for the SuperSonic triumph. Spencer Haywood had 38 points for the Sonics and Bob Lanier had 31 for Detroit.

Big Ten Meets Over Eligibility

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Athletic directors of the Big Ten Conference were meeting behind closed doors today to rule on the eligibility of two University of Minnesota basketball players given season suspensions for their part in a Jan. 25 brawl with Ohio State.

Under a federal court order, the directors must reaffirm the suspensions by 6 p.m. Friday or Corky Taylor and Ron Behagen will be permitted to rejoin the Gophers immediately.

If the suspensions are upheld, attorneys for the two 6-foot-9 juniors are expected to appeal the decision to the conference's faculty representatives or to federal court.

There was no immediate ruling from Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke on the request of attorneys for the players that Athletic Directors Ed Weaver of Ohio State and Don Canham of Michigan be prevented from voting on the matter because they had prejudged the case.

Wednesday, Weaver was reported as saying he would attend the meeting but not vote.

Canham said Wednesday he thought the directors would uphold the suspensions, and said he would vote to continue the disciplinary action "unless there is new evidence."

Taylor and Behagen, suspended following the melee that sent three Ohio State players to a Minneapolis hospital, were practicing with the team following the order of U.S. District Court Judge Earl Larson in Minneapolis Tuesday.

Larson permitted the players to return to practice.

Hunt Continues To Lead Scorers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Furman's Russ Hunt has led the Southern Conference basketball scoring race since the start of the season, and his lead seems to get bigger every week.

The 6-foot-8 junior, one of three sophomores chosen to the All-Southern team last year, is now four points a game in front of a 6-foot-8 teammate, Roy Simpson, a junior college transfer.

Hunt has scored 582 points in 25 games for a 23.5-point average to 419 points in 23 games and a 19.5 average for Simpson.

Sophomore Stan Davis of Appalachian State is third with 390 points in 23 games for a 17-point mark, while another sophomore — John Falconi of Davidson — is fourth with 274 points in 17 games for a 16.1 average.

Falconi returned to action this week after mssing seven games because of an ankle injury but was used sparingly againt Dayton. Jeff Trammell of Willian and Mary is fifth with a 15.8 average, while Steve Fishel of The Citadel and Joe Sutter of Davidson — another of last year's sophomore all-conference choices — are tied at 15.5.

Rounding out the top 10 are John Sutor of The Citadel at 15.2, John Rutt of Appalachian at 14.5 and Jim Fairley of East Carolina at 13.6. Jerome Owens of East Carolina has a 13.3 average.

Richmond's Spiders and Virginia Miltary's Keydets, both of whom have been surprising people of late, tangle tonight in Lexington, Va., in the only action for conference teams.

The Spiders upset West Virginia last Saturday night and led 12th-ranked Maryland for a half Tuesday night before bowing. VMI won for the first time in 11 league starts Tuesday, surprising William and Mary 37-35 in overtime.

Richmond is 3-7 in league play and 6-16 over-all, VMI 1-10 in the league and 5-18 against all opposition.

All conference teams were idle Tednesday night.

City Opens Tournament

Big Value Discount of Farmville and the Book Exchange advanced into the semi-fanals of the City Basketball Tournament last night. The Exchange nipped Stewart's Sandwiches, 54-52, while Big Value won by forfeit over College View.

The tournament continues on Monday with Big Value meeting regular-season champion Coca-Cola in the first game. The Exchange meets Hallow's Distributing in the second game. The winners meet Wednesday for the title.

In the lone game played, Book Exchange moved out and gained a 26-19 lead in the first period of play. Sterwart's tried or a second half rally to pull it out, holding a 33-28 advantage, but it just fell short.

Bille Stokes and Glen Batten led the Exchange with 14 points each, while Charles Meeks had 21 and Frank Corbitt had 15 for Stewarts.

Big Names Are With Gleason

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Almost all of golf's great names are on hand—Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Lee Trevino—but a rookie and an also-ran may be the men to watch in Jackie Gleason's $260,000 Inverarry Classic.

The inaugural of golf's richest event got under way today on the 7,178-yard, par 72 Inverarry Golf Club Course with rookie Lanny Wadkins and rebounding Marty Fleckman factors to be reckoned with in the 72-hole chase for a whopping $52,000 first prize.

Both have come very close in recent weeks and both have served notice they're ready to break through—Wadkins for the first time as a pro and Fleckman after a long, dry spell.

The 22-year-old Wadkins, a quietly-confident product of Winston-Salem, N.C. and Wake Forest, is in his first full year on the pro tour. He lost in a playoff for the title in Phoenix last Sunday and was second by a stroke the week before. He's won $36,189 so far this season, more than Nicklaus, Palmer or Trevino.

Fleckman, a darkly-handsome 27-year-old from Port Arthur, Tex., and the University of Houston, is in the process of playing his way out of a long, puzzling slump. He was one of the game's most ballyhooed youngsters when he won the Cajun Classic shortly after turning pro in 1967.

He had a solid, $22,000 money-winning season the next year—and hasn't made expenses since then. He rarely made the cut for the final two rounds and dropped back into the ranks of the Monday qualifiers.

But he finished third, one stroke out of a playoff, last week and was fourth in the rich Hawaiian Open two weeks before that. He's picked up $25,141 already for his best money-winning season ever and more than he made in the last three years put together.

The big guns, however, drew most of the attention and the gallery. Palmer, Nicklaus and Trevino all took some time away from the tour last week and all have had some problems this season. Neither Palmer nor Trevino, bothered by poor first rounds, has won yet this year. Nicklaus won the Bing Crosby but has played poorly his last two times out.

Player arrived from South Africa only last weekend and is making his first start in this country this year.

Med Exam Criticized

WINNIPEG (AP) — The pre-fight medical examination of boxers was criticized Wednesday by the man who conducted the examination of light-heavyweight boxer Stewart Gray, who died after being knocked out in a title bout Monday night.

Gray, 27, of Toronto, was knocked out in the seventh round by Al Sparks of Winnipeg, the Canadian champion.

Except for a brief period early Tuesday, he was unconscious until his death Tuesday night.

Dr. J. Reid Taylor, a Winnipeg neuro-surgeon who examined Gray at the pre-fight medical, said the present system of examination is impractical.

Record Setting Habit Forming

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Record-setting can be habit-forming—at least as far as the Utah Stars are concerned.

The American Basketball Association's West Division leaders collided Wednesday night with Kentucky, the East's front-runners, and busted the Colonels 133-116 for their eight victory in a row.

And for the second successive game, the Stars came up with a record individual performance. This time it was Willie Wise, pumping in a career-high 50 points. On Monday, teammate Zelmo Beaty had set an ABA mark with 63.

In Wednesday night's other ABA action, New York edged Indiana 108-106, Carolina squeezed the Floridians 132-118 and Virginia bounced Memphis 121-105.

Wise was red-hot in the first half, canning 12 of 15 shots and scoring 29 points as the Stars amassed a 71-53 intermission lead. By the end of three periods, Utah's margin had ballooned to 106-79 before the Colonels, led by Louie Dampier's 27 points, outscored the Stars 24-9 in the opening minutes of the final quarter.

A streak of eight straight games was facing the Nets—eight straight losses to Indiana—before Rick Barry, with 32 points and Bill Melchionni with 28, snapped the Pacers' string.

Indiana, with George McGinniss scoring 24 points battled back from a 41-25 deficit to a 67-67 tie, but couldn't maintain the momentum.

The Cougars moved into a tie with the Floridians for the fourth and last playoff berth in the East as George Carter came off the Carolina bench to pump in a game-high 28 points. The Floridians held an early 43-25 lead before the Cougars went on a second-period tear. Larry Jones and Manny Leaks scored 23 apiece for the losers.

Charlie Scott had a big night for the Squires, snapping a personal week-long slump by netting 46 points to tie his own club scoring mark in the victory over the Pros. Rookie Johnny Neumann hit 24 to top Memphis, which dropped its 10th in a row.

Industrial In Tourney Play

Empire Brush and Carolina Telephone advanced to the second round of play in the Industrial Basketball League Tournament last night.

Vermont American won the game on the scoreboard, 57-49, but Carolina Telephone protested that Vermont had used an ineligible player. The protest was upheld, and the victory awarded to Carolina.

Monday, State Highway and Empire Brush meet in one game, while Wachovia and Carolina Telephone meet in the other. The finals will be held Wednesday night.

Greenville Utilities threatened to take the first game, building up a 34-29 halftime lead. But Empire Brush came back with a 33-22 advantage in the second half, erasing the lead and taking the win.

James Parker led Empire Brush with 26 points, while Curtis Barrett had 11. For Greenville Utilities, James Gorham had 26 points and James Ward had 10.

Building A Home For Farmville Church Family

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — "We consider this new building a home for our church family and a place where we may reach out and feel God's presence," the Rev. Jack Hunter said of the new Farmville United Methodist Church.

In the first sermon preached in the new sanctuary Sunday, Jan. 16, Rev. Hunter explained the symbolism woven into the sanctuary and its furnishings. The major focal points in this worship area of simple modern design are the pulpit, the font, and the altar table.

"Within the chancel area, the pulpit signifies the importance of the Word of God since its design suggests an open book," the minister said.

"The baptismal font is used for the practice of the United Methodist Church's two sacraments, holy communion and baptism. It is placed in full view of the congregation because baptism is an act of worship where we share with the disciple who presents himself or the parents who present their child for this sacrament," he said.

Cube on cubes describes the oak altar table. "Its form recalls the sacrificial block of the Old Testament and, at the same time, recalls the meal table of the Last Supper. The altar rail extends almost all the way around the altar area, so communicants may gather around the table as did the 12 disciples," he explained.

"The cross just in front of the altar is a Greek one, a most ancient Christian symbol derived from the Greek letter Chi (X) and Rho (P), the first two letters of the Greek word for Christ. The cross predates the familiar Latin one by several centuries, symbolizing not only the crucified Christ, but a resurrected Lord," Rev. Hunter said. "The cross in its somber dark metal reflects the suffering of Christ, while at the same time, the crystal and polished bronze symbolize the richness of joy in the resurrection. Its position between the altar and congregation gives a sense of movement within the space, reminding us that Christ moves in and among us through time.

"The two standing iron candlesticks, hand-wrought in Sweden, are 'Eucharist lights,' signifying the divine and human nature of Christ.

"The credence shelf holds flowers and offering plates, so that the altar table may be reserved for our offering of life and labor of love, along with the elements of Holy Communion.

"The pulpit falls are reversible. The communion table orphreys recall the communion cloth and are accented with the proper liturgical color to match the pulpit falls. The communion cloths are natural silk and create an solid vested cube when in use. The stoles are designed as garment accents. They have been executed in Indian raw silk with bands of refined Thailand silk."

Windows Have Meaning

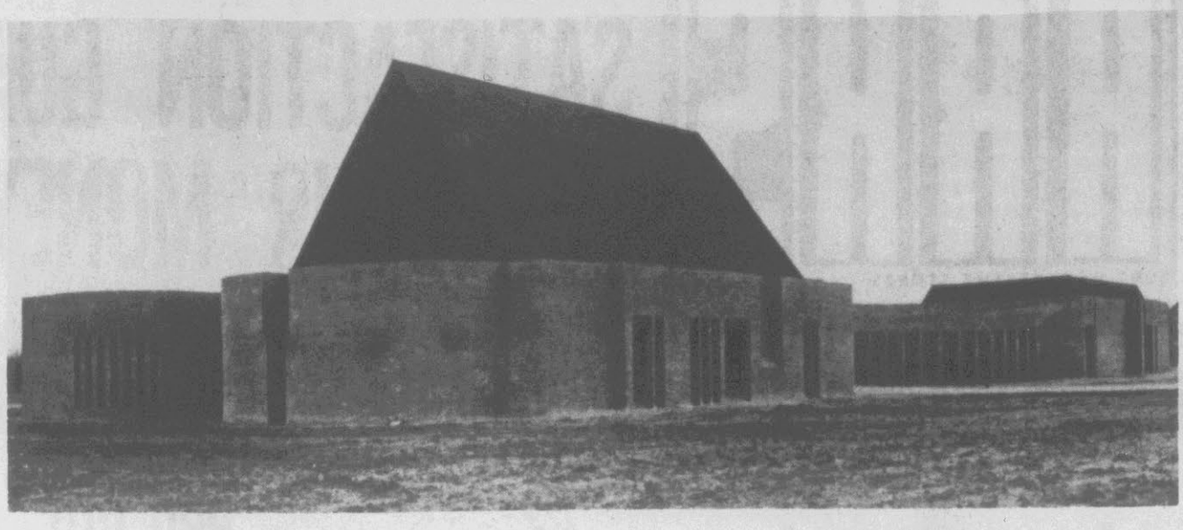

"Each of the stain glass windows has significant meanings," Rev. Hunter said. He explained: "The first lancet symbolizes the creation of light. The design consists of clear glass, ribbed glass, with opalescent glass, and mirror.

"The second lancet symbolizes the creation of earth and man. The design consists of a seeded tinted glass on the outside of the brown element. This glass will permit one to see the grass, trees, and earth outside. The center element is mirror to permit one to see himself—"man."

In the second bay, the absence of a window symbolizes the fall of man.

The third bay holds one lancet which symbolizes Christ's presence in the world. Strong red and green colors are symbolic of Christmas, the presence of the God-Man. The pattern forms a cross, the symbol of the Christ message. Mirror in this design has been kept to the edges showing that man supports Christ's word and work. The cross form is a derivation of the older celtic cross symbolic of Christ's resurrection. Thus, the pattern does not stop with Christ's death, but suggest the glory of Easter.

"The fifth bay has two lancets, one symbolizing the liturgy and the other, Christ's second coming. The liturgy lancet is dominated by the rich color of wine, symbolic of Christ's Eucharist. The humanity of worship is brought out with the repeated use of mirror. The second coming design terminates in a recall of Christ's presence and a large mass of mirror. The final gesture of the design is a classical movement of universality—the turning in and at the same time the opening out of forces."

THE EXTERIOR of the new Farmville United Methodist Church.

Gothic Contemporary Design

Located at the intersection of West Church Street and Highway 264-A. here, the church is designed along Gothic contemporary lines. "The building committee interviewed many fine architects before they met one associated with Freeman-White Associates of Charlotte who impressed them very much," Rev. Hunter said. "Stacy Simmons told them of his 'dream church' he had been designing throughout his career. It became reality here."

The church's sanctuary seats 500 persons on oak pews cushioned in deep orange. Its acoustics are so good that a person standing at the entrance can carry on a conversation in normal tones with another near the chancel area. A Casavante Freres pipe organ and space for the choir occupies the balcony. Everything in the church, from the minister's stoles to the stain glass windows was designed by Rambusch, a firm liturgical design known as one of the best in the world.

A Charlotte interior design firm, Omnia Design Inc., did all the planning throughout the rest of the church. Paneling throughout is solid oak, with the exception of the pastor's study, done in teakwood. The study and the parlor are richly decorated.

An unusual feature is a room expecially for brides and their wedding parties to use just before the ceremonies. The kitchen has every convenience from a cafeteria serving facilities to crushed ice maker to automatic dishwasher. What appear to be folding doors in the fellowship hall may be let down to become a stage. There are a library, spacious Sunday School classrooms, a choir room with light the minister may switch on remotely to summon the choir, and a sacristy used for storing paraments (communion cloths, stoles, etc.) and for preparing communion fare. A Scout meeting room has an outside entrance.

The exterior is of salmon-colored handmade brick and windows are recessed. Corners are non-existent. Work yet to be done includes the construction of a chapel, more office space, and an 85-foot bell tower, plus landscaping. Members of the building committee who have planned the building over the past four years include R. T. Monk as chairman, T.E. Joyner Jr., Miss Etna Lewis, Miss Elizabeth Lang, Mrs. J. Irvin Morgan Jr., Dr. Bert Warren, and W. C. Monk. Most of the appointments in the sanctuary and throughout the educational and office facilities were given by various church members as memorials or gifts honoring living persons.

Lake ice must be at least eight inches thick to safely support the weight of a car or pickup truck.

Angela Davis Released From Jail On Heavy Bail

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Black militant Angela Davis has been freed on $102,500 bail and is expected to spend her first day in more than 16 months outside jail walls at a secret hideout in Santa Clara County.

The 28-year-old Communist and former UCLA philosophy instructor smiled and gave a clenched fist salute as she emerged from the county jail here Wednesday night after $2,500 in cash and a $100,000 surety bond were posted.

About 75 supporters—some cheering, some weeping—greeted her in a drizzling rain. Miss Davis entered a car which immediately sped off. She made no statement but called a news conference for later today in San Jose.

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason, who will preside at her trial on murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges starting Monday, set bail during a closed hearing Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Davis' attorneys argued that she had been denied bail solely on the grounds that she was charged with offenses carrying a possible death sentence. Since the California Supreme Court outlawed the death penalty last Friday, they said, there was no further reason to deny her bail.

Chief prosecutor Albert Harris Jr. said he opposed bail because the high court ruling isn't final for 30 days and the attorney general plans to ask for a rehearing.

Miss Davis is accused of furnishing four guns and helping plot an unsuccessful escape attempt by three San Quentin Prison inmates at the Marin County Civic Center in San Rafael on Aug. 7, 1970. A judge, two convicts and an accomplice were killed.

ANGELA DAVIS

She was arrested in New York Oct. 13, 1970.

The bail order prohibits her from traveling outside the six counties of the San Francisco Bay area without court permission, bans all air travel and requires her to live in Santa Clara County.

Moore said she would be staying in "a nice, clean, safe place designated by the court." Mrs. Walker explained that it was being kept secret to respect her right to privacy.

Miss Davis is required to report once a week to the Santa Clara County Probation Department. Mrs. Walker said she had already met with probation chief Wylie Smith.

The bail order also prohibits her from attending or participating in public meetings or rallies without court approval, forbids her possession of firearms and requires that she obey a ban on pretrial publicity.

The Worry Clinic

It's Right To Reward Merit

Churches have duped Americans for 50 years regarding Jesus! So it is high time we set the record straight. Jesus was a "free enterprise" advocate. He even used physical force! And abhorred the do-gooder political policy of squandering taxes to elect and elect!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case T-510: Elmer T., aged 20, is a college football star.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "you preach 'free enterprise' in your column.

"So you must be pleased at the new Rose Bowl regulation.

"For now the Big Ten conference champion can go to California two or more times in succession, if it remains on top each year.

"As you know, in the past the runner-up was picked for the trip to Pasadena if this year's conference champ had already gone there the year before."

FREE ENTERPRISE

Yes, I am happy to see that the Big Ten has removed this restriciton on "free enterprise" in athletics.

For our American leadership in world affairs has not been due to the typical strangulation rules of Communism or Socialism.

Our Founding Fathers believed in rewarding merit.

"Those who don't work; don't eat" were the terse words of Capt. John Smith.

"Survival of the fit," was the similar adage of Charles Darwin.

Not happiness but the "pursuit of happiness" was all we were entitled to.

In an age of pseudo-religious idealism and illogical morality, we have been engulfed in Maudlin do-gooder Philosophy.

We have indulged in the silly sentimentality of making it a virtue to coddle the welfare minorities, who would greedily kill the goose that has laid the wonderful golden eggs of our American luxurious standard of living.

Jesus didn't advocate such inane do-gooder philosophy, for Christ believed in the superior "free enterprise" system.

Jesus thus did NOT recommend that lazy or chickenhearted people be coddled and supported by the courageous workers of society!

Do you want Biblical proof? Then note the following:

"The poor ye have with you always," He tartly chided Judas when the latter vetoed the anointing of Christ with Mary's costly perfume, saying it might better have been sold and the proceeds given to the poor.

Christ also gave the mob but one free picnic when He fed the 5,000 with the lad's loaves and fishes.

He didn't offer them free food stamps permanently!

And He didn't indulge in Socialized Medicine but once, when He healed the 10 lepers, 9 of whom didn't even say "Thank you."

Thousands of hungry and sick folks were also within easy range of Christ during the 3 years of His itinerant ministry.

But He fed and healed only those who showed enough initiative to approach Him.

Instead of waving His hands and curing all the sick people in Judea, Jesus healed only those with sufficient I.Q. to ask for His aid.

"God helps those who help themselves," was thus our pioneer maxim that showed Christ's social attitude.

Jesus also lauded the policemen and soldiers in the 7th Beatitude!

And He commended the industrious "free enterpriser" who invested the 5 talents!

But He even reproved the Communist who hid his lone talent and was too chicken to compete in the "free enterprise" market!

Indeed, Jesus then ordered the "free enterpriser" to take away the talent from the Communist and add it to his own thrifty profit!

We need this new concept of religion, so send for my booklet "How to Stimulate Bible Reading," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.

Land Bank's Meeting Set

The annual stockholders meeting of the Federal Land Bank Association of Washington, will be held in Washington on March 18, according to Hackney High, manager of the association.

One of the highlights of the meeting this year will be a report on Association progress during the past year. The election of one director is also on the program and a report of the board of directors on important actions taken during the year.

The annual meeting will begin with a bar-b-que-fried chicken supper, with the meeting set for 5:30 p.m. at the Washington High School.

The Washington association makes long - term loans to farmers, growers and ranchers in Pitt, Beaufort, Martin, Hyde, Tyrrell, and Washington counties. It is entirely owned by the members it serves.

Offer Doctors Extra Courses

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Your doctor may be going back to school this year, and he can stay in the state while he's learning the latest techniques in medical care.

Texas medical schools, hospitals, and specialty societies are offering a variety of continuing or postgraduate education courses for Texas physicians throughout 1972, says the Texas Medical Association.

Fifty-six courses, covering general and family medicine, malignant disease, cardiovascular disease, psychiatry, nuclear medicine, pathology, radiology, surgery, and other topics, are offered to physicians in various locations over the state throughout the year.

SWINGING ROAD SIGN

STANLEY COMMON, England (AP) — Local council officials found out why many motorists were losing their way en route to this Derbyshire town. Children were using a signpost as a swing and had it pointing in the wrong direction.

Searchers Find 300 Weapons

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent search of 1,900 Adolescent Remand Shelter cells on Rikers Island uncovered 300 homemade weapons.

Correction Commissioner Benjamin J. Malcolm called it "the first massive search" in the department's history.

A total of 260 correction officers and supervisors took part in the early morning search.

New York hunters took 47,784 deer during the 1971 fall season.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ten of ♡

South's opening bid of three spades on a six card suit is a shade unorthodox, however he did hold the required six winners with favorable vulnerability and possession of 150 honors was well calculated to remove some of the sting should he run into an adverse double.

It would have been better judgment on North's part to bid three no trump instead of carrying on to four spades. The taking of nine tricks would have been quite routine and North's tenaces are not subject to the opening assault. Playing the suit contract, South had to go all out to avert defeat.

Altho a club lead originally would have assured declarer's defeat since it attacks the dummy's side entry before the diamonds can be established, the natural opening of the ten of hearts is not subject to criticism. North played the jack of hearts and East the queen—followed by the ace. The shift was to a trump and South was in.

Trumps were drawn with two pulls and declarer was ready to begin working on the diamonds. There was a shortage of entries to dummy inasmuch as the ace of clubs was the only sure access. He led the five of diamonds from his hand—intending to pass this trick around to East. This would leave him in a position to enter dummy on the next round by cashing the ace and king of diamonds and discarding one club. A fourth round is then ruffed out to set up a long card in the suit for the discard of another club and thereby restrict South's losses on the deal to two hearts and one diamond.

When the five of diamonds was led, however, West upset South's plans by putting up the ten of diamonds. If the former was allowed to hold the lead, he would surely shift to a club, so the king of diamonds was played from dummy followed by the ace and then a third round. East played the jack and South was about to ruff when he changed his mind and discarded the three of clubs. If West had the queen of diamonds and the suit divided three-three, he was welcome to the trick, for now North's suit would be established and declarer would have a parking place for his remaining club loser.

Altho East's jack of diamonds held the trick as West showed out, South was in a secure position nevertheless. East could not return a club without presenting dummy with a free finesse, so he led back the queen of diamonds. Declarer ruffed, crossed over to the ace of clubs and discarded the eight of clubs on the good seven of diamonds. In all, he lost two hearts and one diamond.

ECU Prof Invited To Appear Friday

The private utility contends that it is in business to generate and sell electricity, not to wheel power.

Dr. Collins will discuss the competitive effects of structure of the electric utility industry in relation to the dispute. He first began his studies of the industry structure while serving as an economist with the Federal Power Commission from 1968 to 1970.

In June of 1971, Dr. Collins was invited to submit a statement before the United States Senate Antitrust Subcommitte on the social desirability of combination gas-electric utilities.

An East Carolina University professor has been asked to appear Friday before the President's Price Commission in Washington, D.C.

Dr. William H. Collins, assistant professor of economics in the School of Business, was invited to appear in connection with a dispute between Southern California Edison, a private electric utility, and a group of municipal electric utilities in southern California.

The municipal utilities, it was reported, have complained that the private utility engages in practices to limit their activities.

Mounted Police Too Expensive

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Police Department has dropped the idea of having mounted patrolmen for the city parks. Too expensive.

City Mgr. Scott McDonald said it would cost as much as $60,000 a year to maintain a stable. "It's just not feasible" he said.

TO DISCONTINUE

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The cities of Norfolk and Chesapeake have been put on notice that the Virginia Transit Co. will discontinue all bus service Aug. 23 because of mounting losses.

Costly Epidemic Of N.Y. Graffiti

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a new epidemic in this city. It's called graffit and scrawls on subway walls and trains are noticeable almost everywhere.

Frank T. Berry, a Transit Authority official, says it costs the city more than half a million dollars a year to remove the scrawls. Most of the markings are drawn by teen-agers using felt-tipped pens.

Two Licensed By Medical Bd.

Dr. Kyoung-Hi Park Kim and Dr. Robert D. May recently have been licensed by the State Board of Medical Examiners.

Dr. Kim is a medical consultant at the East Carolina University Developmental Evaluation Clinic here. A native of North Korea, she received her M. D. degree from Seoul Women's Medical College, now a part of Korea University, and did her internship and residency in pediatrics at the University of Kansas Medical Center and District of Columbia General Hospital. She has done a year of residency and three years of research in her sub-specialty, pediatric hematology (the study of children's blood diseases, as a fellow at the Children's Hospital in Washington, D. C. She is certified by the American Board of Pediatrics.

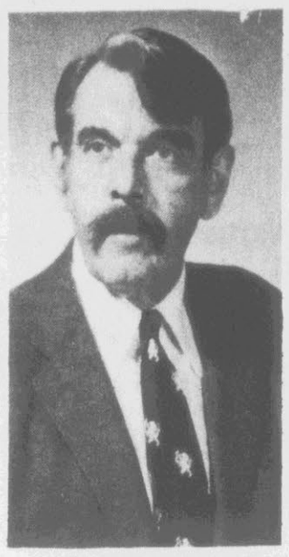

The wife of Dr. Jung-Gun Kim, a professor in the Department of Political Science at East Carolina University, she has two sons, Bobby, 12, an Aycock Junior High School student, and Chany, seven, a first grader at Eastern Elementary School.

Dr. May is medical director of the Pitt County Community Health Department. A Florida native, he did his undergraduate at Emory University and the University of Georgia and his postgraduate work at Temple University Medical School in Pennsylvania. His internship was done at Temple and his residency in pediatrics, at the University of Pennsylvania. He practiced pediatrics in Pennsylvania from 1954 to 1969, when he began studying Public Health at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. His residency in Public Health was done at the health department of Prince George County, Md., and he came here last October.

Both physicians were licensed on the basis of examination, although both had been certified to practice medicine previously.

Looking for Husband-Wife Franchise teams to operate their own merchandise stores on a full-time basis. Management and sales experience desirable.

This Franchise requires a very small investment. Program is designed to furnish the Agent with a ready-market, pre-sold customers and immediate earnings.

Everything made available from store fixtures, display material and promotional aids to your training with plenty of encouragement. You'll retain a favorable percentage of the profits.

Write today giving your name and address and telephone number with your complete qualifications to Box 142, Baltimore, Md. 21232.

The Datsun 510 is a champion. It's also a wagon.

Datsun 510 Sedan. Winner: 1970 East African Safari. Winner: 1971 2.5 Trans-Am championship.

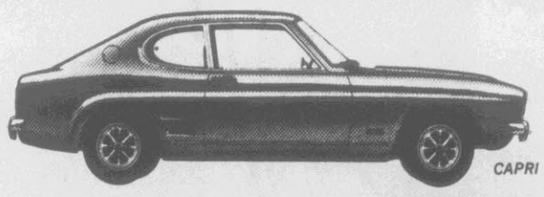

Datsun 510 is also available as a wagon, with lots of the features that help us win races. Overhead cam engine. Safety front disc brakes. Solid unibody construction. Plus, comforts you expect: vinyl-trimmed interior. Tinted glass. Whitewalls. And more, included in the price.

If you need a hard-working wagon, drive Datsun 510. It sure beats whatever's second.

Last year, Capri was "Import Car of the Year."

CAPRI

MONTEGO MX BROUGHAM
wsw tires, wheel covers, vinyl roof optional

This year, Mercury Montego is "Car of the Year."

When you're hot, you're hot!

Not one, but two winners of Road Test Magazine's awards are now in our showroom.

Mercury Montego, the new personal-size car with big-car ride, was selected "Car of the Year" for 1972 by Road Test magazine. Its editors considered more than 40 models to determine the winner.

Last year Capri, the sexy European at a shamefully low price, won the "Import Car of the Year" award over all contenders.

Impressive? We think so . . . and we're sure you'll agree when you see and drive these outstanding cars. Visit us soon! Discover for yourself why Capri sold more cars in its first year than any other import did, and why Mercury Montego sales during November were up 147% over the same period last year.

Capri and Mercury Montego: both winners and just two of the many better ideas we have for you! Remember, nobody in the business has more kinds of cars for more kinds of people.
