Volunteers Launch Massive Search 400 Persons Missing In Flood

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — National guardsmen and hundreds of volunteers set out at dawn today in search of an estimated 400 missing persons, victims of flooding that left 61 known dead and wiped out whole communities.

Meanwhile, attention began to focus on the cause of a break in an earthen dam which precipitated the flash flood in Buffalo Creek hollow Saturday morning. Waters from an 18-acre lake were unleashed.

Ben Tudor, general superintendent of the Buffalo Mining Co., said the situation had been building for a long time.

He said the state had denied the coal company permission on many occasions to send some of the slag and sludge which had accumulated in the firm's lake into valley streams, relieving pressure on the dam.

"They were too concerned about the trout downstream," Tudor said. "It either had to be the people or the trout and now both are gone."

Authorities said they expected to find many more bodies as bulldozers began searching the remains of 14 Appalachian coal camps along the 20-mile hollow.

National Guardsmen made it the last 2½ miles to the end of the hollow early today; guardsmen said only two of 37 houses remained in that area. They said the onrushing water stripped the land down to bedrock.

Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr., who planned to ask the West Virginia Legislature today for $1 million to start relief work for flood victims, estimated that 4,000 of the Buffalo Creek area's 7,000 residents were left homeless.

President Nixon told Moore by telephone from China that he had declared West Virginia's Logan County a national disaster area.

Many flood survivors spent Sunday night on cots in classrooms and hallways of public schools across the county as officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development arranged for mobile homes to be trucked in for those left homeless.

Many residents of the hollow acknowledged they had been warned this past week that the dam might break. But they said similar warnings had been issued in previous periods of heavy rain.

All other warnings had proven to be false.

In Washington, the U.S. Geological Survey estimated about 25 large earthen banks at coal mines in two West Virginia counties alone serve as dams but "generally lack adequate spillways."

The agency said another 75 banks in eastern Kentucky, southwestern West Virginia and Virginia are inadequately protected.

Dragging River

Members of the Greenville Rescue Squad began dragging the waters of the Tar River here this morning in an effort to find some trace of a 20-year-old local man reported missing at 2:33 a.m.

According to Police Chief Glenn Cannon, George Charles Simpkins has been missing since his truck was found parked on the N.C. 11-U.S. 13 bridge crossing the river. The truck motor was running, the lights were on and a note was found on the truck's windshield, the chief noted.

Chief Cannon said the note, which contained a message for Simpkins' wife, led officers to believe that he may have jumped into the river. Dragging operations began shortly after 8 a.m. after search of the lowland area near the bridge by police and rescue workers before dawn failed to turn up any trace of Simpkins. Rescuers were continuing their search for Simpkins at noon.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said Sunday that too many juveniles are being illegally jailed in North Carolina.

Scott said this as he told Jaycees at a Governor's Prayer Breakfast that the state will sponsor a comprehensive study of the needs for juvenile detention facilities and services in North Carolina.

Scott said the state Social Services Agency has contracted with the National Juvenile Detention Association to make the study at a cost of $52,891 in state and federal funds.

Scott told the Jaycees that state law "forbids the jailing of juveniles unless the jail has facilities for separating them from other inmates" and "most of our jails do not — and cannot — provide such a separation."

"Yet, in far too many instances in North Carolina, they (juveniles) are locked up in the local jails anyway, thereby coming in contact many times with adults and hardened criminals," Scott said.

Nixon Party Is Again On American Soil

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — President Nixon returned to American soil today after a historic week in China during which he pledged to withdraw all U.S. forces from Taiwan some day and agreed with the Chinese to develop bilateral trade, exchange programs and contacts between the two governments short of formal diplomatic relations.

As expected, there was no change in the two governments' opposing positions on Vietnam.

The Spirit of '76 landed the President and Mrs. Nixon at Anchorage's Elmendorf Air Force Base at 12:04 a.m.—5:04 a.m. EST. The presidential party was to rest for nine hours in Anchorage and will arrive in Washington tonight.

Nixon left Washington on Feb. 17 and arrived in Peking on Monday, Feb. 21, the first U.S. president to visit China while in office.

"This was the week that changed the world ... The Chinese and American people hold the future of the world in their hands," Nixon said at his final banquet with Premier Chou En-lai in Shanghai Sunday night.

It was a clear crisp night with the temperature at 17 degrees as the President stepped from his big jet, followed by the First Lady. Few spectators were on hand, but the Nixons were welcomed by Lt. Gen. Robert Ruegg, commander of the Alaskan Command, and Maj. Gen. Joseph Cunningham, commander of the Alaskan Air Command.

Nixon and Chou summed up their talks and separate discussions by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign Minister Chi-Peng-Fei in a 1,750-word communique issued Sunday. Explanations of the communique were given American newsmen at a briefing by presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and Marshall Green, the assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs.

The communique (1) set forth statements of position from each side summing up their differing positions on Taiwan, Indochina, Japan and Korea; (2) expressed mutual adherence to certain general principles of international conduct; and (3) announced agreement to expand relations in various fields

"to broaden the understanding between the two peoples."

Nixon at the banquet Sunday night noted that the communique showed areas of disagreement as well as agreement.

"But what we have said in that communique is not nearly as important as what we will do in the years ahead to build a bridge across 16,000 miles and 22 years of hostility which have divided us in the past," the President declared. "What we have said today is that we shall build that bridge."

In furtherance of this goal, the two governments said they could facilitate "people-to-people contacts and exchanges" in such fields as science, technology, culture, sports and journalism.

They also agreed to "facilitate the progressive development of trade between their two countries," and to "stay in contact through various channels, including the sending of a senior U.S. representative to Peking from time to time for concrete consultations"

Tucker On Pitt Board

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Burney L. Tucker of Winterville, was appointed by members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners this morning to fill the unexpired term left vacant a week ago by the death of commissioner Vernon Cox.

The term is set to expire December, 1974.

Tucker, a Winterville native, was mayor of the town for 13 years, beginning in the late 1940's and was deputy tax collector for Pitt County from October 1950 to October 1955.

The new commissioner has served as chairman of the Selective Service Board in Pitt County since March, 1961 and is assistant manager of a Greenville fertilizer company. Tucker is a member of the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church, the Winterville Ruritan Club and the Winterville Kiwanis Club and a former member of the Winterville Volunteer Fire Department.

He is married to the former Mabel McGlohan and the couple has three children.

In other business at the special session, Commissioners adopted a resolution of respect and appreciation for Cox's service to the board. A member of the county board for a number of years, Cox had served as vice-chairman and chairman of the group and at the time of his death was chairman of the county Board of Health and acted as liaison for the commissioners on matters dealing with the construction of the new hospital.

Also approved at this morning's session was a resolution adopting a new county seal.

The new seal, similar to the bronze plaque on the front of the Court House annex includes an outline map of the county contained in a circle, the date 1970 when the county was founded, a drawing of the court house and the words, "Agriculture, Industry, Education."

Title-Winners

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Nine communities today were awarded the title of All-America City in competition cosponsored by the National Municipal League and The Saturday Evening Post magazine.

Selected from more than 100 entrants were Beloit, Wis.; Carbondale, Ill.; Chickasha, Okla.; Jamaica, N. Y.; Lowell, Mass.; North Branford, Conn.; Placencia, Calif.; Santa Fe Springs, Calif., and the Twin Cities area of Minnesota.

Receiving honorable mention were Camden, N. J.; Fort Myers, Fla.; Greenville, N. C.; Hillsboro, N. D.; Huntington, N. Y.; Kenai, Alaska; Lawrence, Kan.; New Martinsville, W. Va., and St. George, Vt.

The awards were given for outstanding achievements in upgrading the quality of community life, brought about by citizen initiative and teamwork, the co-sponsors said.

The All-America Cities Awards were established in 1949 by the National Municipal League to encourage citizens to take the initiative in improving their cities. The Saturday Evening Post magazine, now published quarterly in Indianapolis, joined the League in 1971 as co-sponsor of the awards competition.

Astronaut Aldrin Later Asked Psychiatric Care

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin Jr., the second astronaut on the moon, says he later spent a month undergoing psychiatric treatment in an Air Force hospital.

"I was on my way to having a good old American nervous breakdown," the 42-year-old Aldrin said. "I realized it and asked for help."

In an interview published in Sunday's Los Angeles Times, Aldrin said the near breakdown occurred after he left the National Aeronautics and Space Administration a year ago to command the Aerospace Research Pilot School at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

"I virtually ceased to function for brief periods of time and I couldn't get organized," he said.

"I knew I was sick, so I went to various doctors and my commanding officer and told them I wanted psychiatric help."

He said he was sent to Wilford Hall, an Air Force hospital in San Antonio, Tex.

"There is a sort of stigma attached to mental illness of any sort and because so much was at stake—for the space program, the Air Force, myself and my family—it was kept secret," said Aldrin. "I no longer agree."

Aldrin was on the Apollo 11 mission in July 1969 and was the second human to set foot on the moon, behind Neil Armstrong.

He said the space mission was easy compared to his life as a public figure afterward.

"We became public personages, the guys who simply had to attend such and so convention or banquet. We became public relations men for the program. ... The change didn't suit me—I don't think it suited any of us ..."

Aldrin will retire from the Air Force as a colonel Wednesday. He said he made and announced the decision before his illness and before being passed over the second time for brigadier general.

the area, but there was no report that they had resumed bombing and strafing. The guerrillas said their anti-aircraft guns were in action.

Israeli sources in Tel Aviv admitted that action was continuing inside Lebanon but gave no details of today's operations.

Israeli officials said they would not heed the Security Council resolution adopted early today, calling it "one-sided and cynical." The government had no immediate official comment, but an authorized official declared: "The Security Council is not going to interfere with our defending ourselves. The resolution does not take into account the attacks we have suffered."

Israeli Starting Leave Lebanon

Israeli troops and tanks battled Palestinian guerrillas in the southeast Lebanon for the fourth day today then began withdrawing from their forward positions, Lebanese witnesses reported.

On Sunday, the U.N. Security Council demanded that Israel pull back its forces.

The Palestinians said fighting continued around Rashayya, another major village in the region. Israeli fighter planes were providing an air umbrella over

38 Million Man-Hours Of Safety At DuPont Plant Are Recognized

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Carolina industrial safety record. The last disabling or lost-time injury that occurred in this Dupont facility was Feb. 26, 1964, eight years ago last Saturday.

The previous state record was held by Western Electric Company's Greensboro Shops with 38,004,393 man-hours. Woolard pointed out to those attending the ceremonies that the safety record established by the Kinston plant is one of the best known in industry, ranking second only to Dupont's Chattanooga, Tenn. plant, which hold the world mark of 45,808,779 safe man-hours.

State Labor Commissioner Frank Crane called the record "an amazing accomplishment." He said the Dupont Plant is a pioneer in accident prevention and he reminded that the plant regularly receives safety awards and recognition for its safety program here. He told Dupont officials and employees who attended the ceremony, "The State of North Carolina is proud of you, and the State Department of Labor is proud of you."

R. J. Blair, director of the Dacron Division, urged Dupont employees, "Don't stop here. You have gone eight years without a major injury and it's certainly worthwhile to continue."

The Kinston plant began operation in March, 1953 with the world's first commercial production of "Dacron" polyester fiber. The plant currently employs approximately 2,500 employees who are backed by over 100 employees in the adjacent Dacron research laboratory. The annual payroll of the two organizations exceeds $32 million.

Juvenile Detention Needs Underlined By Scott

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Bob Scott said Sunday that too many juveniles are being illegally jailed in North Carolina.

Scott said this as he told Jaycees at a Governor's Prayer Breakfast that the state will sponsor a comprehensive study of the needs for juvenile detention facilities and services in North Carolina.

Scott said the state Social Services Agency has contracted with the National Juvenile Detention Association to make the study at a cost of $52,891 in state and federal funds.

Scott told the Jaycees that state law "forbids the jailing of juveniles unless the jail has facilities for separating them from other inmates" and "most of our jails do not — and cannot — provide such a separation."

"Yet, in far too many instances in North Carolina, they (juveniles) are locked up in the local jails anyway, thereby coming in contact many times with adults and hardened criminals," Scott said.

He pointed out that last year 251 juveniles were jailed in Cumberland County, which has no juvenile detention home, while only one was being jailed in Mecklenburg County, which has a detention home.

Scott said only seven juvenile detention facilities operate in North Carolina and none of them is east of Raleigh. The facilities are at Asheville, Gastonia, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, Durham and Raleigh. A regional facility at Wilmington will be opened this year.

The governor told the Jaycees that the projected study of detention facilities will not conflict with a bar association study of prison and juvenile correction facilities because detention homes to hold juveniles before trial and the correctional institutions are to hold them after trial.

"When both of these studies are complete, North Carolina will then be able to chart a proper course toward the best solution to the juvenile problem—a problem that continues to grow in our state and nation," Scott said.

ESTATE PLANNING MEETING

The Pitt County Agricultural Extension office has scheduled an educational meeting on the topic "Estate Planning" to be held at Parker's Restaurant on Thursday, March 2 from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. A dutch lunch will be served.

This meeting will be of interest to all persons 18 years of age and older. The purpose of the meeting is to create an awareness on the part of property owners of the problems associated with transferring property between generations. Basic information about the concepts of estate planning and the reasons for developing estate plans will be presented.

County Extension Agent Henry C. Riddick stated that many property owners in the county have given little thought to disposition of their property at death, and they are unaware of the hardship that will be thrust upon the surviving family members by lack of planning.

There are many ways of providing for the transfer of property to heirs that will assure the property owner of the desired division of property, provide security for survivors, and minimize death taxes.

Some of the questions to be answered at this meeting are:

1. What happens to my property if I do no estate planning?
2. Why make a will?
3. What happens to jointly-owned property if one owner dies?
4. How can I minimize the estate and inheritance taxes?
5. What happens if I give my property away?
6. Can I disinherit a child?
7. How can I provide for the continuation of my business after my death?
8. Why might there be a need for insurance in an estate?
9. How much tax will come out of my estate when I die?
10. How can I keep my heirs from wasting my property?

Estate planning is an involved process. But the worst mistake a property owner can make is to assume that it doesn't matter—and to nothing!

Extension specialists from N.C. State University will be conducting the meeting. Interested persons will want to attend and then see their lawyer, banker, or other-counselor for further assistance.

Every property owner has an obligation to himself and to his family to acquire some knowledge of estate planning and to develop a satisfactory plan. Attendance at this meeting is a good first step. If interested, call the Pitt County Extension Office (758-1196) by Wednesday afternoon.

Father Objects To Name 'Dad'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-M. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My parents were recently divorced. I live with my mother, but I see my Dad occasionally.

I made a date to play tennis with him on Sunday at a club he recently joined. When we met he asked me not to call him "Dad" because he didn't want anyone to know he has a 20-year-old daughter.

I was hurt. He is my father. Should I call him "Dad" anyway?

HIS DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Certainly. And if you're in a playful mood, just for fun, call him "Grandpa." He's old enough to be one!

DEAR ABBY: I must make a decision soon and I don't know what to do.

I am in love with, and want to marry, a man of considerable means and position. I am 36 and have never been married. He is 44 and divorced. His ex-wife has remarried, and she is no problem. But he has a 20-year-old daughter who lives with him, and she's the problem.

The daughter never got along with her mother. [That's why she's living with her father.] She is an only child, and while I don't know this for a fact, I think she's slightly retarded.

She has never had a date in her life, and the reason is obvious. She has a bad complexion from eating sweets continually. She is terribly overweight, very lazy, and very, very sloppy.

She "works" for her father ["filing" at his office] when she feels like it, which isn't very often. She's usually at home, eating and watching television.

She likes me, but I don't think I could stand having her live with us for the rest of her life, and I'm afraid that would be the deal.

Well, Abby, what do you say?

BETWIXT AND BETWEEN

DEAR B AND B: If you are considering marrying a man, you should be able to discuss the matter of his "problem daughter" with him. [Does he know what her potential is? Why is she permitted to vegetate?] If she is "slightly retarded," surely she could be doing more with her life. If you don't love this man enough to want to help him with his problem, and his daughter is his problem, don't marry him.

DEAR ABBY: In hiring a secretary I bear in mind that a good secretary is one who is a good "keeper of secrets," as the word "secretary" implies.

I receive all kinds of mail from people all over the world, and I never know what will be contained in those letters. However, I expect no raised eyebrows, censuring, or personal comments from my secretary regarding the contents of my mail. And certainly none regarding my replies.

When I dictate to my secretary, my thoughts are transmitted to her as mechanically as to the typewriter itself. This doesn't mean that I consider my secretary to be less than a human being with personal feelings. However, whatever her personal feelings might be, they should never interfere with her job.

If I should ever feel the need of a censor or editor, I would hire someone else who is qualified in that field.

THE BOSS

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TO TELL OR NOT TO TELL": Tell! If you had paid for flowers, fruit, or some other perishable gift to be sent to friends, wouldn't you want to know if your gift arrived fit for the garbage can?

A Poor Image If Chou Visited

It is unpalatable to acknowledge some truths; and among the more distasteful to face up to is that the President could not convey the same sort of atmosphere to a visiting Chou En-lai as the Chinese have conveyed to the American visitors, and to Americans staying at home and following the big news story of the day.

Suppose Premier Chou went to Washington. What would he and his entourage see?

They would see first of all a cordon of security similar to that on the frontline of a battle zone with police, troops, patrol cars, motorcycles, helicopters and rooftop sentries.

They would see, or read about, or view on television screens: demonstrators, crowd-haranguers, posters unlike anything they have seen

A Smaller Field Of Republicans

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — North Carolina republicans are leaving more state legislative seats unchanged in the 1972 general election than two years ago.

Fully one-half of the 50 Senators to serve in the 1973 session will be chosen among Democrats, with no GOP opposition. In the 120-member House, there will be at least 37 seats decided without a two-party scrap.

Normally, a presidential year with the White House incumbent on the ticket would be expected to bring out a larger field of hopefuls for the party. President said that while the total number of legislative candidates is lower, there are GOP entrants in all areas where chances for victory are best.

The party's legislative field is a strong one, including a dozen women, two blacks, an Indian, and a number of experienced incumbents, he said. Optimism is high to raise the GOP delegation in the '73 General Assembly from the seven Senators and 24 House members serving in the '71 session.

Frustrations in the search for candidates reached to the local level in some parts of the state.

It was too much for W.R. (Buddy) Makepeace III of Sanford. He quit as Lee County Republican chairman.

In his letter of resignation, Makepeace said he "tried very hard, but unsuccessfully, to urge many of our most qualified Republicans to seek office in the coming elections. I have received practically no cooperation."

Finally, two candidates who did file represented "political and philosophical differences" so sharp he could not support them, Makepeace added.

Search Is Disappointing
Disappointment similar in kind but not degree was expressed by Duane Robinson, Cleveland County GOP chairman, at the failure to get out candidates for local offices.

The people who wanted to run weren't qualified and the people who were qualified didn't want to run, said Robinson. Some said they would run only if a full slate could be recruited, and others backed out due to business plans, he explained.

"You know, it's really bad about capable, qualified people who do not elect to seek office," Robinson said. Long minority status limits the reservoir of talent from which the party can draw prospective candidates. This is particularly true in the East, traditional stronghold of the Democrats.

Taking the Senate for example, there are eleven districts where no Republican filed and eight of them are in the east.

However, the party also came up short for Senate candidates in some Piedmont and western areas where it has voter strength. In Mecklenburg, with four Senators, only one GOP candidate filed; in the 19th district, including Guilford and Randolph counties, only two Republicans filed for three seats.

The visitors sight-seeing plans would have to be curtailed. It would be hard to envision them as being "safe" anywhere in our country; even our own public figures risk their lives in public appearances with or without security precautions.

The idea of thought-control is abhorrent to us all; but the principles of self-discipline, courtesies and concern for the well-being of others instead of self...those things do live on.

Too bad they aren't accepted by all Americans. The ameniteis make a difference.

Russia Is Still Very Much In Space Field

The success of a Soviet moon mission in landing on the moon and returning rock samples to earth shows that the Russians are still very active in space exploration.

The Soviets described the mission as successful and relayed pictures back from the moon.

While the Russians seem to be making no effort to land men on the moon or other planets at this time, their interest in the planets has not waned. We can expect other missions to the moon and planets by Soviet space craft.

Political Goal On Battlefield

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Delayed beyond President Nixon's arrival in Peking by sluggish logistical preparations and relentless U.S. bombing, the still-pending Communist winter offensive in Vietnam is now clearly aimed at one political goal: forcing U.S. acceptance of its new and suddenly escalated asking price for peace.

A largely overlooked clarification of its latest negotiating proposals strips bare the fact that Hanoi now demands nothing less than total dismantling of South Vietnam's governmental apparatus. Scarcely by coincidence, this diplomatic escalation is accompanied by preparations for the biggest Communist offensive since the fateful Tet campaign of 1968.

This is the classic Communist technique of fight-and-talk. In the view of experts here, the Hanoi politburo would not dare demand so much in Paris if it did not anticipate gains on the field of battle. Indeed, North Vietnam hopes such military success may help elect a Democratic President who would probably be more receptive to their proposals than Mr. Nixon.

Involved here is point two in the revised seven-point peace plan submitted by Vietcong negotiators at Paris Feb. 2. Besides requiring the immediate resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu, point two insists that Saigon "disband at once its machine of oppression and constraint against the people."

This, in turn, was clarified Feb. 3 by Nhan Dan, the authoritative Communist party daily in Hanoi. In a remarkable editorial which has received all too little attention here, Nhan Dan said: "The Saigon administration must end its bellicose policy, and the oppressive and coercive apparatus in South Vietnam must be abolished immediately."

That apparatus, according to the editorial, consists of the following: "Over a million puppet troops, civil guards, spies and (a) system of puppet administration and secret agencies from the central level in Saigon down to every village and hamlet."

The meaning is unmistakable. Setting a date certain for withdrawal of U.S. military forces, long demanded by American war critics, is no longer enough to bring peace and release U.S. prisoners. Nor is the ouster of Thieu. Instead, Hanoi says for the first time it wants Saigon's army and police disbanded and its national administrative network destroyed before the fighting stops.

This audacious public escalation beyond anything demanded by the Communists during now-concluded secret negotiations in Paris is indigestible even for moderate doves in the United States, much less the President. Thus, Hanoi knows that only some significant Communist battlefield success — exceedingly rare since 1968 — could generate Congressional and press demands for acceptance of these terms.

This intent always eclipsed the highly publicized motive of embarrassing Mr. Nixon's arrival in Peking as the principal political goal of the 1972 Tet offensive, in the opinion of many analysts — a view gaining credence now that the President has gone to China without any accompanying Communist salute from the Vietnam front.

But even if Hanoi had wanted its new offensive to coincide with the China visit, it lacked the capability. For one thing, the typically laborious logistical preparations for an offensive by North Vietnamese regulars have been slower than ever. For another, heavy U.S. air bombardment has hurt badly.

Although a few U.S. policymakers are skeptical, the consensus among those military and civilian officials is that the bombing jumbled Hanoi's military timetable. (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

CHEER UP

A million-dollar robbery occurred some time ago, and the newspapers called it a "heist." Why not give it its true name? It was thievery and might have ended in loss of life if the thieves had not been so anxious to get money and valuables—and get going.

Yes, crime is increasing in the USA and much faster percentage-wise than the growth in population. There is a percentage of our population (admittedly small) that makes a business of stealing. Almost all murders are connected with robbery.

But should we be discouraged? Not at all. There have been periods of violence and crime in the past and our country has survived them. We will survive this present wave. Our only apprehension needs to be that things might get worse before they are better.

A world scholar some years ago declared that the USA (and probably the whole of the North American continent) would go to pieces because of inner weaknesses.

But it cannot be said too often or too vigorously that nations can stand a lot before they disintegrate. Communism could rip us to pieces if it ever got the upper hand. It's up to us to see that it never does. There are hopeful signs also. The kids are standing up and protesting against wars that bear the name of "police actions." The different branches of the Church are coming together in friendly understanding. We survived Hitler and his empire of murder. It would be hard to imagine anything worse than that.

Cheer up!

Mao Comes To America

WASHINGTON — Every one of us who has been glued to the TV set since President Nixon and his party arrived in China now knows more about the People's Republic than he dared dreamed he would.

Thanks to our able TV correspondents, we are now aware of what a hat costs, what kind of leather people wear on the soles of their shoes, how people walk in a park and how many bricks it takes to build a brick teahouse.

One can't help projecting into the future, when Mao Tse-tung makes his first visit to the United States and his activities are beamed back via satellite to the people in China:

"Good evening, comrades — this is Wo-pang of the Anti-Imperialist Television Network Broadcasting System, bringing to you live and in red color the banquet that President Nixon is giving in honor of our beloved and venerated leader, Chairman Mao, and his beloved and venerated wife, Madame Mao.

"Ba Ba Rah, what do you make of all of this so far?" "Wo, the thing that impressed me the most was the reception the American people gave our beloved Mao. I was told by my interpreter that no one had received such a reception in Washington since Mayor John Lindsay joined the Democratic Party. The people seem very pleased to see Chairman Mao."

"Did you see many school children waving to Chairman Mao?"

"No, I didn't but the interpreter told me that was because most of the children go to school on buses and it's hard to see them waving. Wo, what impressed you the most so far about this trip?"

"I think the thing that impressed me the most is that the U.S. Marine Band had managed to learn the Chinese national anthem. I believe this is a very good sign for future Chinese-American relations. They're starting to eat now. Do you have any idea what they're eating, Ba Ba Rah?"

"I have the menu right here in front of me. The first dish is fruit cocktail, which is supposed to be an American delicacy."

"It is, Ba Ba Rah. I had some for breakfast and I can assure our Chinese viewers it is very delicious. Our beloved Mao is now eating his fruit salad with a spoon."

"Yes, Wo, Chairman Mao and Madame Mao have been practicing for months with a spoon and fork and knife. They both seem to be handling them very well."

Learn It All By Mail

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Each day in winter 30 million Americans have head colds. People over 45 years have the fewest. But preschool children can have from six to 12 a year.

Height as well as brains can be an asset in industry. A survey of University of Pennsylvania graduates found that graduates 6 feet 2 or taller received starting offers at least 12 per cent better than those under six feet.

Height is a help in politics, too. The average American male is 5 feet 8—but no U.S.

President that short has been elected in the 20th century.

Probably four out of five people can't tell you why grapefruit are so named. It is because the fruit grows in grapelike clusters of from three to 18.

One of the reasons why diamonds are so hard to find is that the pure carbon from which they are made turns into a gem only under a pressure of a million pounds a square inch and temperatures at or above 2,500 degrees. Such conditions are found in nature only at an earth depth of 150 or more miles.

Quotable notables: "The father is always a Republican toward his son, and the mother's always a Democrat."—Robert Frost.

A food oddity: Do you know where it is illegal to eat meat, fish or even eggs? They are banned in the sacred city of Hardwar on the Ganges river in India, says the National Geographic Society, for fear that the city's reputation for sanctity would be hurt by the killing of any living animal that could be used for food.

Worth remembering: "The pursuit of happiness is complicated by not knowing when you have found it." Forgotten heroes: The first baby carriage in America was made here by Charles Burton in 1884. Nice going, Charlie.

Under suspicion: The bald eagle was picked by our founding fathers as the national emblem because it was native to America and had a noble look. The choice was made over the objections of Benjamin Franklin, who preferred the wild turkey as an emblem. Denouncing the bald eagle as a feathered ruffian, Franklin said it is "a bird of bad moral character. He is generally poor and often very lousy."

It was Alfred North Whitehead who observed, "The kindness of the American people is, so far as I know, something unique in the history of the world, and it is the justification of your existence."

This Is Where Customers Live

By ELMER ROESSNER

Where will the customers be tomorrow? Is a continuing worry for almost all businessmen. A new highway several miles away may reduce traffic and hence sales of a store in one location; the abandonment of an apartment house may bankrupt a dozen shops in the neighborhood.

But there are larger customer movements. For the last score of years, the growth of suburbia has shifted much shopping from downtown to suburbs and even beyond.

But there are even greater changes, Fabian Linden of the Conference Board consumer economics department points out in the current Record. One is the movement of seven million persons a year to new addresses, often in other states and areas.

With the aid of Commerce Department figures, he updates current consumer market trends:

New England: The growth here has been slightly below average in recent years and the relative importance of the area has declined modestly. Income varies greatly, from 22 per cent above the national average in Connecticut to below average in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Middle Atlantic: New Jersey has been expanding at a relatively fast rate, but growth in New York and Pennsylvania has been sluggish. Per capita income, however, is about 14 per cent above national average and a fifth of the nation's spending power occurs in these three states.

East North Central: Population growth has been below average in these five states, particularly in Ohio and Illinois. Per capita income is moderately above average; in Illinois, almost 15 per cent above.

West North Central: In these seven states, population growth has been below average, with declines in the Dakotas. Growth in Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas has been marginal. Income is substantially below the norm.

South Atlantic: This seven-state and District of Columbia area has had a substantial but irregular growth rate, especially in Florida, Delaware, Maryland and Georgia. The economic profile varies greatly from state to state.

East South Central: Growth has been below average in these four states, especially in Alabama and Mississippi. Personal income has increased above average in Kentucky and Tennessee.

West South Central: Texas and Oklahoma account for an above-average increase in population in these four states, but Louisiana and Arkansas growth has been below par. Income is 15 per cent below the national average.

Mountain States: Population increases in Arizona, Colorado and Nevada have brought this eight-state area's growth to almost twice the national average. In recent years total personal income has risen 55 per cent.

Pacific: In the past five years the population has increased half again as fast as the national average (despite some recent reports of ex-migration). Average per capita income is 10 per cent higher than the national average, but in the last five years income appears to be contracting.

Besides this, present plans for still more bombing may mean still more delay.

But nobody in authority here doubts that, however delayed, the blow will come — probably in the central highlands. It is inconceivable that Hanoi would undertake the agonizing labor of sending south heavy reinforcements and supplies without intending to make some noise. Indeed, the Communist artillery buildup in the central highlands continues at this writing.

Militarily, the situation is not greatly different from a month ago. Barring a calamitous and wholly unexpected collapse of South Vietnamese troops, the '72 Tet offensive cannot score strategic gains. But temporary tactical successes in the central highlands may reap great political benefits among war-weary Americans, perhaps including pressure here for acceptance of Hanoi's ever-clearer demands requiring total capitulation by South Vietnam.

Chairman Mao looks very much at ease. Who is that he is speaking to next to him? "My interpreter says that is Billy Graham, a minister who is the second-most important man in the Administration. The man speaking to Madame Mao is Bebe Rebozo, a friend of President Nixon's who is the third-most-important man in the Administration."

"Billy Graham seems to be handing pamphlets to Chairman Mao. What do you suppose they are?" "I don't know, Wo, but my interpreter says he believes Mr. Graham may be trying to persuade Chairman Mao to become a Christian."

"No Bebe Rebozo is handing pamphlets to Madame Mao. What do they say?"

"My interpreter says that Bebe Rebozo is probably trying to sell Madame Mao some Florida real estate."

"Who are those people who have just come out on the stage, Ba Ba Rah?"

"They are the American entertainers. They are called the Ray Coniff Singers."

"One of the women is pulling a sign out of her bosom. Is that unusual?"

"Oh, no, Wo. My interpreter informs me it is always done when somebody entertains at the White House."

Taylor's Blow For Environment

RALEIGH (AP)—Li. Gov. Pat Taylor has struck a blow for a cleaner environment.

Taylor, a candidate for governor, did this when he asked his county campaign managers not to permit his campaign posters to be nailed to trees and telephone poles.

Taylor suggested that the posters be placed in store windows "and other controlled situations where they can be removed after the campaign."

Robbers Hit Low Road Bids Two Places By Barrus Co.

Two business places in the Chico community on Highway 43 South were broken into last Thursday night, according to a report from Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Some $352.44 worth of merchandise was taken from Mills Grocery, the Sheriff said. Included were 50 cartons of cigarettes, six boxes of panty hose, a box of cigars, a 38 pistol, a blank 22 pistol, and a television.

Entrance was gained by breaking a glass out of the front door and unlocking the door from the inside, Tyson said. He said the owner, Heber Lee Mills, reported the robbery at 8 a. m. the following morning.

Cox's Roundup, across the road from the Mills store, was also broken into, Tyson said. A window was broken out and the steel bars were pulled away from a window on the west side of the building, Tyson said. Burglary tools were left on the inside, but nothing was reported missing, he said. He estimated damage at about $30.

Southern Conference Sets Tourney Line-Up

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The eight schools of the Southern Conference have spent three months playing either 24 or 25 games and now they're all down to a three-day basketball season — the only one that counts.

Beginning Thursday in Greenville, S. C., the eight will battle it out in the annual tournament that decides the conference champion and the league's representative in the NCAA playoffs.

Anything that's happened up until now is out the window except for the one team in the winner's circle Saturday night.

Here's the lineup for Thursday's opening round with conference and over-all records:

Fourth-ranked East Carolina, 7-5, 11-14, vs. The Citadel, 5-6, 12-12, at 2 p. m.; third-seeded William and Mary, 6-4, 9-16, vs. Richmond, 3-9, 6-18; at 4; top-ranked Davidson, 8-2, 18-7, vs. Appalachian State, 0-0, 8-17 at 7; and second-seeded defending champion Furman, 8-3, 15-10, vs. Virginia Military, 2-10, 6-18; at 9.

The Davidson-Appalachian and East Carolina-The Citadel winners meet Friday at 7 p. m., followed by a clash at 9 between the Furman-VMI and William and Mary-Richmond victors at 9. The title game is set for 8 p. m. Saturday with no consolation.

William and Mary's Indians clinched the No. 3 spot with an 85-62 victory over Richmond's Spiders in Saturday night's only league action, but four teams were beaten by outside opponents.

Davidson's Wildcats dropped an 88-82 regionally televised decision to ninth-ranked South Carolina, The Citadel's Bulldogs took a 67-46 licking from Fairleigh-Dickinson, East Carolina's Pirates were bombed by N. C. State 92-57 and Appalachian lost to UNC-Wilmington 82-67.

The Indians shot 50.8 per cent from the floor as Steve Seward scored 18 points and Jerry Fisher and Mark Ritter 14 each. Jeff Snider was Richmond's only double figure scorer with 14.

South Carolina overcame an early 11-point deficit to win over Davidson as sophomore Brian Winters scored 24 points and Kevin Joyce 23. Sophomores Mike Sorrentino and T. J. Pecorak had 18 for Davidson.

Despite shooting only 28 per cent in the first half, N.C. State built a 10 point lead, then hit East Carolina with 57 points after intermission. Al Faber led East Carolina with 15 points.

Farleigh-Dickinson hit 19 of 20 free throws in the second half to pull away from The Citadel. UNC-Wilmington broke away from Appalachian early in the second half after the two had been tied at 32.

The Florida Derby for 3-year-olds will be run March 2 at Gulfstream Park, Hallandale, Fla.

Petty Takes Richmond 500

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Plymouth looked a little different —there's now some red mixed in with the blue—but the outcome was the same as Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., won his fourth consecutive race at the Fairgrounds Raceway.

The 34-year-old Petty, who now has won eight times here in the last 11 years, slipped past pole-starter Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., just past the midway point Sunday and breezed to a 1½-lap victory in the Richmond 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race.

Allison, still looking for his first victory in his Junior Johnson-prepared Chevrolet, had to settle for second after clearly dominating the early stages of the race.

Bobby Isaac finished third in a Dodge, seven laps back of Petty; Dave Marcis held on for fourth place in a Dodge, another five laps back; and Bill Dennis made a comeback after losing three laps early in the race to finish fifth in a Ford.

Three caution flags for a total of 49 laps slowed Petty's winning time on the .542-mile track to 3 hours, 55 minutes, 20 seconds or an average speed of 76.62 miles per hour.

OSU Alumni Take Gleason Inverrary; Weiskopf Beats Nicklaus For Top Money

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — How sweet it was.

"It's just wonderful to beat you, Jack," a grinning Tom Weiskopf told that legendary man Nicklaus. "You'll go down as the greatest golfer ever ... and today I beat you."

Weiskopf and Nicklaus turned Jackie Gleason's Inverrary Classic into a $260,000 Ohio State University alumni tournament. Tom was the best of the old Buckeyes Sunday, closing with a 68 for a 10-under-par 278 total.

His paycheck: $52,000.

Nicklaus bungled a two-footer at the 16th hole and rimmed out a 15-foot putt trying for a tying birdie on the 18th, settling for a final-round 67 and 279.

Jack's consolation: $29,640.

"My dad's a railroad man," said Weiskopf. "It takes him five years to make what I earned today. I'm a very lucky guy who's finally grown up a little at the age of 29."

Weiskopf, billed as "Another Jack Nicklaus" when he followed the Golden Bear out of Ohio State, became known as one of the tour's biggest spoiled brats when he hit the circuit in 1965.

That, he says, is changing.

"Just when I was ready to quit, I decided to get off my tail and grow up a little," said Weiskopf. "That was just before the Philadelphia Open last August and I went out and won it."

Mac McLendon (his playing partner) and I agreed that I never walked in the path of my shot."

There were many confusing post-tourney explanations of applicable rules but Weiskopf was not penalized. A tour official said, however, "If Tom had hit his shot into the trap he had ranked, we'd have slapped a two-shot penalty on him."

Weiskopf's $52,000 payday still didn't make him 1972's leading money man. His $62,817 total for the year leaves him short of the leader's $63,866.

That man? Jack Nicklaus.

McLendon finished with 70 for a 280 total, missing birdie putts by an inch on each of the last two holes, and earned a healthy $18,460 for third. Buddy Allin, Tony Jacklin, Bob Smith and Chi Chi Rodriguez were at 282, pick up checks for $10,140.

Pirates, Orioles Hampered By Early Season Problems

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pirates and Baltimore Orioles hardly resemble championship teams these days.

The world champion Pirates played their first intrasquad game and Don Leppert's team beat one skippered by Dave Ricketts 13-6, taking advantage of eight errors.

The Orioles, meanwhile, have other problems. Even though 20-game winner Dave McNally showed up in Florida for a workout after signing Saturday for an estimated $105,000, the list of missing Birds resembles an all-star team.

The most prominent holdout is Mike Cuellar, McNally's fellow southpaw and 20-game winner, who reportedly is holding out in Puerto Rico for $80,000 some $8,000 more than the Orioles have offered.

Although not due officially until Wednesday, the rest of the unsigned Orioles include infielders Brooks Robinson, Boog Powell, Dave Johnson, Bobby Grich and Jerry Da Vanon and outfielders Paul Blair, Don Buford, Merv Rettenmund, Don Baylor and Rich Coggins.

"Never in the history of baseball have so many been so reluctant to play for so much," grumbled Frank Cashen, the team's executive vice president.

The best Pirate news came when Dock Ellis, who had arm trouble late last season and didn't pitch after the World Series opener, worked two scoreless innings.

Pitchers made most of the news in other camps.

Manager Charlie Fox of San Francisco said Giant pitchers are in their best early spring condition "in my memory."

Cincinnati's Sparky Anderson termed his mound staff "25-30 per cent stronger" than in 1970, when the Reds won the National League pennant.

Anderson said he hopes to Nicklaus, one of the game's great thinkers since boyhood, has always been aware of close friend Tom's immaturity.

"Everybody grows up in stages," he said. "Some people mature earlier than others. Tom had trouble settling down at first."

Despite all the growing up, Weiskopf still managed to jeopardize his lead in golf's richest tournament. As if in a fog, he walked through a sand trap Sunday while pacing yardage to the 17th green.

"I know you can't rake in your path," Tom said, "but

Baltimore Has No Home Edge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Bullets have no home court advantage at their other "home."

"There's no advantage to playing here," said Baltimore Coach Gene Shue, talking about the Bullets' eight scheduled games at the University of Maryland's Cole Field House.

The most vociferous of the 11,885 fans there Sunday were clearly rooting for New York as the Knicks edged the Bullets 97-95 in an overtime National Basketball Association game.

"It was like playing two straight games in Madison Square Garden," said Shue, referring to the home-and-home series over the weekend.

In the other NBA games, Atlanta trimmed Portland 113-110; Phoenix defeated Cleveland 127-125; Golden State stopped Houston 117-104 and Los Angeles turned back Chicago 123-118 in overtime.

Saturday night's NBA scores: Baltimore 104, New York 97; Milwaukee 119, Phoenix 117 in overtime; Chicago 107, Golden State 106; Seattle 122, Cincinnati 106 and Houston 122, Detroit 106.

Winners, Losers Comment On Weekend ACC Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The winners in Saturday's Atlantic Coast Conference basketball games had these comments:

"We'll have to rebound better. I wasn't pleased with our board work. It's always a problem." — Dean Smith, North Carolina.

"The gym was very hot, and we were concerned our lack of depth would hurt us." — Bucky Waters, Duke.

"This has to be the best win of the season for us for a number of reasons. Every guy contributed." — Jack McCloskey, Wake Forest.

If Smith and Waters sound somewhat like losers, they did not intend to. The Tar Heels of North Carolina had just smashed 13th-ranked Virginia, 91-78; and Duke had upset No. 12 Maryland, 68-59. Wake Forest, meanwhile, was downing Clemson, 70-63.

The losing coaches made these comments:

"We have nothing to be ashamed of in losing here (at Chapel Hill). We are tired. I can't take anything away from North Carolina." — Bill Gibson, Virginia.

"Our boys did not come to play, and Duke did. Nobody on our club played up to his potential." — Left Driesell, Maryland.

"We lost it in the first half." — Bates Locke, Clemson.

Those were the only conference games played. In a game against East Carolina of the Southern Conference, N. C. State won handily, 92-57.

Only one week remains in the ACC regular season. Fifth-ranked North Carolina — with 1,000 victories in intercollegiate play now in the records — hold the top spot, and it can clinch the bye that goes with being No. 1 by winning one of its two remaining games.

The Tar Heels will go to Raleigh Tuesday to face N.C. State's Wolfpack, then Duke visits Chapel Hill Saturday.

Duke also plays at Clemson Wednesday, the same night Wake Forest goes to Maryland. In other games Saturday, Virginia is at Maryland, N. C. State is at Wake Forest, and Clemson visits former ACC member South Carolina.

Smith was presented the game ball after the Virginia win, suitably inscribed to say it was used in North Carolina's 1,000 basketball win. He commented, "(This is) the nicest present I can ever possibly receive." His 41st birthday is Monday.

Since becoming head coach at Chapel Hill in 1961, Smith's teams have won 145 games. This year they are 20-3.

In the ACC they are 8-2, followed by Virginia at 8-3 and Maryland and Duke, each with 6-4 records.

The outstanding individual performance in the four games Saturday came from Robert McAdoo, who scored 24 points for North Carolina. Barry Parkhill had 19 to lead Virginia's effort.

Alan Shaw paced Duke with 16 points, but Maryland's Len Elmore was the high scorer in that game with 19 points.

Sam Jackson had 15 for Wake Forest and Mike Browning 19 for Clemson.

For the N. C. State Wolfpack, Joe Cafferky put in 23 points.

Weiskopf Wins $52,000

Tom Weiskopf gives a wave to his gallery after sinking one of his many birdies on the 9th hole during the final round of the Gleason Classic in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Weiskopf slipped past

Jack Nicklaus on the final four holes to win by just one stroke. The $52,000 that Weiskopf collected is the largest purse on the tour and the largest first prize to date. (AP Wirephoto)

Jinx Still With Floridans Several Teams Still Fighting For Berths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Floridians play basketball at several "home" cities, but can't run away and hide from that old Kentucky jinx.

Playing in Tampa Sunday, the Floridians bowed once again to the Kentucky Colonels 135-112 in the American Basketball Association.

It was the eighth straight loss to Kentucky for the Floridians, who also play home games in Miami, Miami Beach, and St. Petersburg.

In Sunday's other ABA games, the New York Nets defeated the Pittsburgh Condors 131-123 and the Denver Rockets stopped the Carolina Cougars 113-105.

Saturday night's ABA scores were: Virginia 121, New York 119; Carolina 146, Pittsburgh 130; Indiana 115, Dallas 113 and Kentucky 123, Memphis 100.

The Colonels, led by Artis Gilmore, outscored the Floridians 35-22 in the first quarter and never stopped picking on their "cousins." Gilmore wound up with 33 points while teammate Dan Issel scored 24 and Walt Simon, 17.

Larry Jones led the Floridians with 28 while Manny Leaks scored 18.

New York buried Pittsburgh under a team-record 49 points in the first quarter. The Nets, led by Bill Melchionni and Rick Barry, fired 71 per cent from the field to take a 76-62 advantage in the first half.

Melchionni scored 30 points while Barry had 21. Bill Paulitz and Tom Washington added 21 to the Nets' attack. George Thompson fired in a game-high 41 points for Pittsburgh while Bob Varga pitched in 31.

Byron Beck's field goal in the late minutes of the game sparked Denver's triumph. Two free throws by Gene Littles had put Carolina ahead 98-96 before Denver regained the lead for the last time on goals by Julius Keye and Beck.

Brigham Young and Long Beach State have it made. UCLA is knocking on the door. The rest of the nation's college basketball teams are killing each other trying to get into the NCAA Tournament.

It'll be a battle to the death in most cases.

Winning the Western Athletic Conference last week assured seventh-ranked Brigham Young an automatic berth in the post-season tourney, which begins March 11.

Sixth-ranked Long Beach became the second major team to grab a spot with Saturday night's 62-60 triumph over Los Angeles State that secured the Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship.

Top-ranked UCLA, as expected, is winning the Pacific 8 handily. The Bruins toppled Oregon State 91-72 Saturday night and cinched a tie for the league title.

Everyone else in the country is nervous—including some major independents who will receive at-large berths along with the conference champions.

Second-ranked Marquette is among them. The Warriors appeared to be a sure thing before losing their top player to the pros and suffering a humiliating defeat as well—70-49 to Detroit Saturday.

However, a member of the NCAA Selection Committee insists that the Warriors will be judged solely on their season-long merits—not on their record after the departure of center Jim Chones.

"They're still a good ball club without him," says Tom Scott, chairman of the national selection committee. "He's a real, fine boy. But they weren't a one-man club with him."

Oral Roberts, the nation's No. 20-ranked team which has a record identical to Marquette—22-1—improved its chances for NCAA participation by defeating Boston University 87-78.

Hawaii, No. 17, is another possibility for one of the nine at-large berths, which will be announced Wednesday. The Rainbows enhanced their record to 24-2 with a 91-83 triumph over San Diego State.

Strong consideration must also be given to No. 8 Marshall, idle over the weekend, ninth-ranked South Carolina, which whipped Davidson 88-82; 10th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana, a 103-83 victor over Dayton, No. 11 Florida State, which defeated Stetson 49-47, and No. 16

Houston, 96-80 conqueror of Houston Baptist.

There are several other independents seeking post-season employment: Duquesne, Providence, Syracuse, Detroit, Villanova and Jacksonville.

If they don't make the NCAA, there's always the NIT in New York, which also extends invitations Wednesday.

The New York tournament also attracts some runners-up in the conferences, but right now the various teams aren't thinking second place at all.

Louisville, ranked third in the country, is fighting hard to stay atop the Missouri Valley Conference madhouse. The Cardinals had to beat back a late bid by contending St. Louis for an 84-78 triumph Sunday. Memphis State, No. 19, edged Tulsa 91-90 and trails the league-leading Cardinals by one game. The 1-2 teams meet this Thursday in a showdown match.

Penn. No. 4, clouted Columbia 79-62 and maintained a one-game lead over Princeton in the Ivy League; fifth-ranked North Carolina moved into first place in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 91-78 victory over No. 13 Virginia, last week's leader. The Tar Heels' hold a half-game advantage over Virginia and a two-game lead over No. 12 Maryland, which lost to giant-killing Duke 68-59.

Missouri, No. 14, lost to Kansas 93-80 and dropped out of the lead in the Big Eight giving way to Kansas State's one-game lead. Louisiana State upset No. 18 Kentucky 88-72, but the Wildcats kept a half-game lead over Tennessee after the Vols lost to Alabama, 72-67 in overtime.

The Big Ten still shaped up as a three-team fight after Michigan defeated Minnesota 64-52 and took a half-game advantage over the Gophers and Ohio State. The Buckeyes, ranked No. 15, stopped Northwestern 76-74.

Other conferences races are also tight fits. In the Ohio Valley Conference, Morehead State holds a one-game advantage over Eastern Kentucky; Davidson has a half-game margin over Furman in the Southern Conference; San Francisco is one-up on Santa Clara in the West Coast Athletic Conference; Ohio University has the same shaky edge over Toledo in the Mid-American and Temple and Rider lead the East and West divisions, respectively, by one game in the Middle Atlantic Conference.

Singleton Hoping To Lead In Homers

By FRANK ECK

AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

Ken Singleton led the New York Mets in bases on balls last season, and now he hopes to lead them in home runs next season.

Singleton is the popular 6-foot-4 Mount Vernon, N.Y., switch hitter who in the final Shea Stadium game of the season blasted two home runs off Cardinal right hander Daryl Patterson. In 27 innings with St. Louis, Patterson gave up only one other homer.

The two round trippers gave Singleton, who turns 25 next June, 13 homers for the season. That's not many but it was a good number in view of Singleton's right field activity. He went to bat only 298 times in 115 games.

Fourteen homers each by Ed Kranepool, Tommy Agee and Cleon Jones tied for the Met lead. Both Kranepool and Agee batted more than 420 times and Jones was up 505 times.

"If I get to play more, I'll probably do all right," says Singleton at the mention of home runs.

"Those five weeks I spent with Ralph Kiner at St. Petersburg, Fla., after the season ended figure to help me. Ralph tried to eliminate most of the early motion in my swing. He made me feel more compact."

The Mets have been looking for a home run hitter but Gen. Mgr. Bob Scheffing refused to be pressured at the recent winter meetings. Such names as Orlando Cepeda, Richie Allen and Ron Santo were being mentioned as likely sluggers to give the Mets more power to challenge Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

The Mets just couldn't make a trade for any of those sluggers. "We would have to give up too much," says Scheffing.

Ever since his freshman days at Hofstra University at Hempstead, N.Y., the Mets have been high on Singleton. They made him their No. 1 draft choice five years ago and brought him along slowly in the farm system.

He made stops at Winter Haven, Fla., Raleigh-Durham in the Carolina League, Visalia in the California League, Memphis in the Texas League and Jacksonville and Tidewater, Va., in the International League.

It was at Tidewater in 1970 that the Mets knew Singleton was ready for the big leagues. He was only 23 then and was hitting a home run every 13 trips to the plate. In 64 games he had 17 homers and was batting .388 when the Mets brought him up.

Ken played in 69 games with the Mets during the last half, hit five homers and batted .263. He hit only .245 last year but slugged .393.

Tobacco TIPS

By SAM J. WEEKS

Adequate amounts of the proper fertilizer is an important factor in producing a good yield of quality tobacco. Over-fertilization, however, will produce unsatisfactory quality and a reduction in the value of the crop.

Soils differ in their productive capacity and in their fertility level. Therefore, careful attention should be given to the physical and chemical characteristics of the soil when determining the rate and grade of fertilizer to be used. Soil tests, crop performance history and rainfall patterns are helpful in estimating the fertilizer and lime requirements of a specific field.

Nitrogen is one of the key elements in the production of quality tobacco. A low level of total nitrogen will result in a low yield and quality. On the other hand, when an excess of nitrogen is used, the tobacco produced will be low in sugar, high in nicotine, undesirable in color, and generally poor in quality. The amount and form of organic matter, the texture of the surface soil and depth to the subsoil are important characteristics which influence the total amount of nitrogen required to grow a crop of good quality tobacco. As a general practice, tobacco should not be grown directly after a legume because it is difficult to predict the amount of nitrogen needed from fertilizer.

Results from experimental tests and farm demonstration have shown that the source of nitrogen, in both preplant and side dressing fertilizers, is very important. These results show that the best quality tobacco can be grown when 60 per cent or more of the total nitrogen used is in the nitrate form. This is especially true when tobacco is grown in fields that have been fumigated for nematode control.

Tobacco preplant fertilizer is available containing 50 per cent nitrate nitrogen. There are several tobacco top dressing materials available that give good results. Some of these materials are 15-0-14, 15-0-19, 13-0-44. If the potash level is medium or high, nitrate of soda can be used successfully as a top dressing material.

If you have not already had a soil test made on your tobacco fields, plan to do it soon so that you can use this important information in determining the correct fertilization program for your tobacco fields.

Nixon's Next Chore: To Reassure Allies In Asia

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon returns to a politics-conscious Washington tonight with another burst of televised fanfare and a campaign to reassure America's Asian allies.

In view of Nixon's main concession to Peking in a visit—ending communique—his formula for an eventual U.S. force pull-out from Taiwan—Nationalist China's ambassador is likely to be notably absent from the welcoming crowd at Andrews Air Force Base.

"I won't be able to be out there," Ambassador James C.H. Shen told an interviewer when asked about the administration's invitation to the Washington diplomatic corps to greet the President.

"I'm hosting a dinner tonight," the Nationalist Chinese envoy explained, and said he doubts any other representative from his embassy will be at Andrews.

Nixon already has dispatched two of his China trip aides to Tokyo to start a fast swing around the Asian rim. Asst. Secretary of State Marshall Green and John Holdridge of the National Security Council staff are assigned to report on the Peking talks in friendly capitals—including Taipei.

This isn't enough to suit at least one Democratic presidential contender, Hubert H. Humphrey. The Minnesota senator said Nixon should confer personally with Japan's leaders and should call a Pacific summit conference of Asian allies to explain U.S. policy.

The initial political reaction among presidential hopefuls to Nixon's trip windup was split along liberal-conservative lines.

Conservative Republican Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio and Los Angeles Democratic Mayor Sam Yorty portrayed Nixon as caving in to China's central demand on Taiwan.

Democratic Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota found the communique less than he had hoped for. New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, a Democrat, termed it a good step.

The politicians are well aware that Nixon has yet to unveil all details of his Peking parley and that another summit spectacular, his trip to Moscow, is coming up in May.

Specific agreements announced in the 1,750-word communique issued Sunday before Nixon's departure from Shanghai fell short of what many had speculated beforehand.

The lengthy U.S.-Chinese statement voiced general accord on promoting trade and cultural exchanges between the two nations, without saying just how this would be done.

Establishment of formal diplomatic relations remains a long way off. The two sides agreed only to "stay in contact" through a meeting site in a third country and periodic visits of a senior U.S. official to Peking.

The prime sticking point, Peking again made plain, is Taiwan. The Chinese part of the communique repeated the long-standing demand for U.S. force withdrawal from the island, which Peking says belongs to China.

The United States went along with the contention of both Nationalists and Communists that Taiwan is part of China, and put forward this formula for solving the issue:

—"The Chinese themselves" should peacefully settle the Taiwan question.

—"The United States "affirms the ultimate objective of the withdrawal of all U.S. forces and military installations from Taiwan."

—"In the meantime, it will progressively reduce its forces and military installations on Taiwan as the tension in the area diminishes." U.S. officials said many of the 8,000-9,000 U.S. servicemen on Taiwan are slated to come home as their Vietnam-support role ends.

The communique made no mention of the 1955 U.S. defense treaty with Taiwan. U.S. officials elsewhere said Washington is still committed to the treaty.

The U.S.-Chinese statement included one section of special interest to Moscow, Nixon's next scheduled summit stop, though the Soviet Union was

Focus Attention On Mental Care

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Republican candidate for governor Jim Holshouser has predicted that the condition of North Carolina's mental health facilities "will be one of the biggest exposes in North Carolina history."

Holshouser spoke Saturday at a North Carolina Jaycee Governmental Involvement Week-end program that featured seven candidates for governor.

The state's mental health system, said Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, a Democratic gubernatorial candidate, "is understaffed and has inadequate facilities. It is time to decentralize the institutions into a more neighborhood type system."

Another Democratic candidate, labor leader Wilbur Hobby, said "more positive approach to mental health is needed" and community involvement and community counseling programs "must be adopted to do away with the old prejudices and restore the concept of individual worth."

"We're still treating people as we did 25 years ago — as outcasts," said Dr. Reginald Hawkins, a Democrat. "People are being dehumanized, they are treated as subhumans in these institutions."

"I am quick to say that 99 per cent of the mental hospital personnel is doing a good job, but I am glad to see some fresh air on the topic of (patient) abuse," said Democrat Skipper Bowles.

"There is need for some administrative changes here."

Bowles said he flatly opposes any tax increases. Holshouser, Hobby and Hawkins saw the need for fiscal reform and restructuring.

Taylor said that while "no one likes taxes," needs in education could make tax increases necessary.

New Try For Space Probe

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency, thwarted Sunday by a power loss and high winds, will try again tonight to launch the Pioneer 10 spacecraft to explore the planet Jupiter.

The Atlas-Centaur rocket was rescheduled to start the probe on its 22-month journey to Jupiter at 8:45 p.m. EST.

The countdown advanced smoothly to within 59 minutes of liftoff Sunday night when there was a sudden loss of electrical power in the blockhouse and launch area.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said a circuit breaker had failed but it did not know why.

About the same time, a weather balloon launched from Cape Kennedy detected strong high altitude winds. Even if the power had not failed, the winds would have halted a launch attempt.
