That Carolina Moon Again

SPOT ON THE FILM? — No, it's a Carolina moonrise over Eastern North Carolina. The shot was produced with a time exposure as the moon made its way over the horizon. Even though spring weather has arrived the moon still has the appearance of a cold object suspended in the sky, but the daffodils blooming on the side of the roadway, try to tell a different story, spring is near. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

New Combat Troop Slash Is Effected

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced the second biggest troop cut of the Vietnam war today, leaving fewer than 10,000 American combat infantrymen and artillerymen in the Saigon, Cam Ranh Bay and Da Nang regions.

Among the units included in the 4,940-man reduction was the 2nd Squadron of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment. The night before one of its 1,060 men was killed and five were wounded in a clash 24 miles northeast of Saigon.

The other big unit was the 5th Battalion, 42nd Artillery, whose authorized strength was 600 men.

In all, 32 Army units and one small Air Force detachment were phased out.

The U.S. Command said it was the largest single reduction since last July 1, when 6,095 troops were pared. The cutbacks today reduced total U.S. strength in Vietnam to fewer than 120,000 men from a peak of 543,000 in April 1969.

President Nixon has ordered this force cut to 69,000 by May 1.

The clash in which the armored cavalry squadron suffered its casualties was one of three fought Tuesday by units from the 1st Air Cavalry Division in the Saigon region.

Two fights flared after an American patrol detected an enemy squad moving toward night campsites near fire bases Gibraltar and Fiddler's Green, a U.S. spokesman said.

Decentralized Mental Health Dept. Is Advised

RALEIGH (AP) — A North Carolina Mental Health Association study committee reported today that "remnants of the dark days when such institutions were referred to as snake pits still linger" inside the state's four mental hospitals.

In a report detailing results of a study at all state mental hospitals, the association reported:

"Far too often our hospitals serve as no more than concentration centers for isolating the mentally ill from society, centers in which they become nonentities engulfed by an endless stretch of empty hours."

The committee, headed by Mrs. Leif Valand of Raleigh, studied conditions at Broughton Hospital in Morganton, John Umstead Hospital at Butner, Dorothea Dix Hospital at Raleigh and Cherry Hospital at Goldsboro.

As a result of its study, the committee said it was recommending to Gov. Bob Scott that the central office of the Department of Mental Health "be decentralized to the point where greater professional and financial resources can be brought to bear at the regional level."

As an example of what it said was a need for change, the committee said the Department of Mental Health "has been aware of the problems of Cherry Hospital for at least two years but failed to respond adequately with the result that the problems worsened."

Cherry Hospital was the subject recently of a State Bureau of Investigation probe that resulted in the forced resignations of two top officials.

John C. Higgins Jr., president of the mental health association, indicated in an interim report by the study committee Feb. 14 that there is a serious lack of treatment at the state hospitals.

Rollins said lack of money was partially to blame for problems experienced by his hospital, where dietary workers and male psychiatric aides are paid less than $5,000 annually. He added there is a 42 per cent turnover annually among dietetic and psychiatric aide personnel.

No Objections To Four-Laning Project Heard

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

No objections were voiced yesterday at a public hearing held by the North Carolina State Highway Commission on the proposed four-laning of N.C. 30 and 33.

R.W. McGowan, Highway Department assistant chief engineer for preconstruction, conducted the hearing. He explained the proposed widening of the bypass in detail.

According to McGowan, the proposed project will begin in the vicinity of the Eastern Greenville bypass, thence easterly to a point about .8 miles east of secondary road 1427 in Beaufort County (north of Mr. Ed's Restaurant).

The proposed design consists of adding a 24-foot roadway with a 68-foot depressed median. The additional right-of-way, between 125 feet and 150 feet, will be variable to contain the construction.

The project will include 14 miles of construction and will cost an estimated $5,315,000.

According to McGowan, the project will relocate 56 families, five businesses, and one non profit organization.

Area Highway Commissioner W. Arthur Tripp explained that the project has been surveyed and that preliminary plans have been approved. "Now we need money for the project and the right of way," Tripp added. "This will determine the speed of construction from Mr. Ed's Restaurant to Greenville."

"The project will be located on the north side of the present N.C. 30-33 Highway from the Eastern Bypass to Washington."

"Crossovers will be placed uniformly where turning traffic can be handled without problems," McGowan said.

"We hope to get the project under contract as soon as possible," McGowan explained. "We need to settle right-of-ways, get the houses relocated, as soon as possible."

Max Roebuck, mayor of Washington, told the group that a four-lane highway is needed in Beaufort County.

"In Beaufort County, we are not served by any four-lane highway. The entire area east of Greenville needs a four-lane highway," Roebuck explained. "I plead with you not to try to block the four-lane highway going east."

Local landowner Carl Pierce expressed concern about the amount of land involved. He questioned whether or not a 68 median is necessary and why there would be controlled access.

The proposed project from Mr. Ed's Restaurant to Washington, which was let in a separate contract, will include a five-lane highway, with center turning lane, and curb and gutter.

Chou Invites 2 Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two top Senate Leaders, former Far East history professor Mike Mansfield and Chinese art expert Hugh Scott, have been invited to visit China.

They hope to make the trip in late spring or summer and, in Democratic Leader Mansfield's words, "add a few more bricks" to the foundation laid on President Nixon's just-completed journey.

Nixon relayed Premier Chou En-lai's invitation to Mansfield and Scott Tuesday, then received praise from congressional leaders as he reported on his own historic mission.

Mansfield, who visited China in 1921 as a Marine private and who still holds a professorship in Far East history at the University of Montana, has been trying to visit China for two years. He was last there in 1944.

The White House also said Tuesday that President Nixon had spoken with Chinese leaders about John Thomas Downey, an American pilot held in China since the Korean War.

"The matter was discussed from the standpoint of mercy and compassion," said White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

Downey, charged with espionage in 1952, had his sentence commuted from life to five years last December.

Ziegler refused to disclose details of Nixon's discussions about Downey. Republican Leader Scott, who has one of the country's most extensive private collections of Chinese art, last visited the mainland in 1947.

He met Chou while a U.S. delegate to a meeting of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in New Delhi, India, in 1950.

The Pennsylvania Republican said the formal invitation to himself and Mansfield will be made when U.S.-Chinese contacts are established in a third country, possibly in about two weeks.

Scott said the trip couldn't come until Congress is in recess, possibly at the time of the national political conventions this summer.

Earlier in the day, before he went to the White House to meet with Nixon, Mansfield told reporters his primary objective in making a trip to China would be to "revisit old scenes" and not necessarily to meet extensively with Chinese leaders.

At the time he met Chou, Scott called the Chinese leader "a very dynamic, personable man" and said: "If he were selling Fuller brushes door to door, he would make a million."

Mansfield reported that the bipartisan leadership group that heard Nixon's report "was unanimously in favor of the President's trip and what he accomplished."

Israeli Forces Attack Syria Guerrilla Bases

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli forces crossed the border to attack today for the fifth day in less than a week as fighter-bombers strafed and bombed Arab guerrilla camps in the desert of southern Syria.

The Syrian army placed the assault 60 miles south of the capital of Damascus and said three guerrillas and two Syrians were killed.

The air and artillery assault was a reprisal attack against guerrillas based in Syria who had fired at Israeli positions in the occupied Golan Heights 13 times in the past four days, the Israelis said.

The Israeli military command said all planes returned safely, despite Arab claims of intensive anti-aircraft fire. Seven Arab guerrilla centers came under fire, a military spokesman said.

Israel accused the Syrian government of supporting and encouraging the guerrillas.

The attack into Syria—the first since Jan. 24—came after four days of Israeli operations against Arab guerrillas in southeast Lebanon. Israel claimed about 50 terrorists were killed in the Lebanese operation, which ended Monday.

Today's raids appeared to have the same aim as the attacks into Lebanon—to break up guerrilla concentrations and to force the Arab government to clamp down on guerrilla operations.

The Syrian army was accused of handing over camps to the guerrillas, and training, arming and feeding them. Syrian President Hafez Assad was quoted as telling an Arab newspaper last year—when guerrillas hit Israel 39 times in two months—that "we are strengthening them and spurring them on."

A Syrian army communique said the shelling began at 3:15 a.m. and "the enemy opened mortar, artillery and tank fire on three Syrian villages opposite the cease-fire line. Our positions returned the fire. Two citizens were killed, a woman wounded and a school destroyed in the barrage."

The Syrian communique said the air attack began four hours later.

Voting Suit

RALEIGH (AP) — Seventeen East Carolina University students have asked a federal court to order the Pitt County Board of Elections to register them to vote in Greenville.

The students filed the suit Tuesday in U.S. Eastern District Court against the Pitt board and the state Board of Elections. They said the suit was filed in federal court because actual damages they are seeking exceed $10,000, the minimum for a federal suit.

The suit centers around a memo sent by Alex Brock, executive secretary of the state board, to county elections boards. Brock advised the boards, "Students shall not be registered in counties where they are temporarily residing while attending a business school, grade school, college or university."

The ECU students contend they satisfy all legal requirements for registering, including residing in the state for one year and in their precinct for over 30 days.

A test case on the registration standards for college students is pending before the State Supreme Court. It was brought by a Merdith College student against the Wake County Board of Elections. A ruling on that suit will likely come before one of the federal suits.

Demo County Chairmen Say It's Jordan

RALEIGH (AP) — By an overwhelming margin, North Carolina's county Democratic chairmen believe that U. S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan will win the party's nomination for another term.

Of 63 county party leaders who answered an Associated Press poll, 58 said Jordan would carry their counties if the primary were held now. Only four said Congressman Nick Galifianakis would win their counties. The primary is

May 6. There are 100 counties. There were none who thought that Durham eye doctor Eugene Grace or that Joe E. Brown of Greensboro, a George Wallace supporter, would carry their counties.

But one of them, Clint Fuller of Franklin County, expressed the opinion that television editor Jesse Helms, a Republican, would carry his county in the November general election. "Jordan is way ahead," is the way Charles F. Blackburn of Vance County put it. Cameron Ware of Cleveland County estimated the vote in his county by percentages. He figured it would be 65 per cent for Jordan, 25 per cent for Galifianakis, 5 per cent for Grace and 5 per cent for Brown.

"Jordan has good local support and is the only candidate to visit the county," Ware observed.

"People here feel a deep loyalty to Sen. Jordan, especially among the older voters," commented Mrs. Harold Blue of Moore County. "We have some younger people interested in the Galifianakis campaign, but over-all I would think Sen. Jordan would easily carry the county."

"Galifianakis is very popular with local Democrats," said Phil Edwards of Chatham County, one of the three chairmen who felt that Galifianakis would carry their counties. Chatham adjoins Galifianakis' home county of Durham and is in the 4th Congressional District which Galifianakis represented in Congress.

"Jordan will carry (county) but could falter with good effort from younger Galifianakis. Not a sure thing," said Lewis E. Waddell Jr. of Catawba County.

"Close for Galifianakis," said William Winn after saying Jordan would carry his county.

"Galifianakis may surprise us," observed Mrs. Ben Humphries of Rutherford County.

Cigarette And Payroll Taxes Seen Alternative

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — A representative of Charlotte has proposed that North Carolina's larger cities seek cigarette and payroll taxes, and more state matching grants, as new sources of revenue.

City Councilman Jim Whittington said he was proposing these alternative possibilities, among others, because "Property owners will not stand for taxes to be raised higher and higher."

He spoke Tuesday at a one-day meeting of representatives of the state's 11 cities with population of 35,000 or more. The cities constitute a division of the North Carolina League of Municipalities. The league will sponsor meetings for other divisions before making its legislative proposals to next year's General Assembly.

An official of the league, who asked not to be identified, said that if the league pushed all of Whittington's seven proposals, "It would start a fight between the big and small cities."

Whittington also advocated that officials of the largest cities organize to obtain their "fair share" of revenues from the state. But they rejected this suggestion, at least temporarily. H. J. Elam III, president of the league, and mayor pro-tem of Greensboro, said its first priority was for the "clean water" bond issue which will be voted on in the May 6 primary, and he did not want to do anything that might jeopardize passage of the bonds.

Whittington also proposed:

- A hotel-motel tax.
- An increase in city motor vehicle license taxes from the present $1 to about $5 or $10.
- An amusement tax.
- A rewriting of the Schedule B tax listings, which cover many types of business and industries, but do not cover others.

The cities with 35,000 or more residents are Asheville, Burlington, Charlotte, Durham, Fayetteville, Gastonia, Greensboro, High Point, Raleigh, Wilmington and Winston-Salem.

Cascioli-Mitchell Vows Exchanged In Ceremony

GRIFTON — In a double ring candlelight ceremony Friday evening at seven o'clock in the Grifton Free Will Baptist Church, Miss Laverne Mitchell became the bride of Toby Joseph Cascioli.

The Rev. Gordon Hart performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Roy Turnage presented a program of wedding music. Rob Roy Turnage sang, "We've Only Just Begun," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer." The bride, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eber Mitchell, was given in marriage by her brother, Van Mitchell, of Grifton. She wore a short sleeve gown of white peau de soie with a scalloped neckline and a stiched design on front of skirt and a laced bodice. Her full length veil of illusion was edged in lace and satin ribbon. She carried a bouquet of white flowers centered with an orchid.

Mrs. Dianne Thomas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Sue Carter served the bride as maid of honor. They wore full length gowns of navy blue crepe trimmed in white lace and velvet ribbons. They carried two long-stemmed red roses with greenery and red ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Connie Barrow, niece of the bride, Miss Lorraine Cascioli, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Iris Davis, sister of the bride. They wore dresses identical to the matron and maid of honor and carried a single long-stemmed red rose.

Miss Debra Dennis, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She carried a basket of flowers. Greg Harris, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Honorary bridesmaids were Misses Edna and Mary Catherine Cascioli, sisters of the bridegroom.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Toby Cascioli of Grifton.

The father of the bridegroom served his son as best man. Ushers were Don Wheatley, James Woodard, and H. J. Smith, all of Grifton.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Lathan Dennis.

For her wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a two piece beige outfit and wore the orchid lifted from her bouquet.

The couple will reside in Grifton.

The bride is a graduate of Grifton High School and is now employed by Tropigas Inc. of N.C. in Ayden.

The bridegroom is a graduate of North Lenoir High School and attended Montreat Anderson and Lenoir Community Colleges. He is now employed by E. I. Du Pont, Kinston.

A reception following the ceremony was given by family of the bridegroom in the fellowship hall of the Grifton Presbyterian Church.

Showers given in honor of the bride included a bridal shower given by the sisters of the bride and a couples shower by the family of the bridegroom.

Abby Reconsiders Point On Needlework

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will reconsider your opinion of the lady who always did needlework when visiting with friends.

You said, "She is making a statement. The company isn't sufficiently fascinating to warrant my total attention."

Not at all! I work full time and have a large house and family, and the only time I can do needlework, a hobby which I love, is while riding in the car, at meetings, and during evenings with friends.

I have finished dozens of worthwhile projects this way, and so have many of my friends. We certainly do not mean to be insulting.

Needlework and knitting can become almost automatic, and need not take away from one's attention to the conversation going on. And if the conversation is boring or trivial, we are at least accomplishing something! Sign me . . .

KNIT WIT

DEAR WIT: I see your point [no pun intended], and hereby reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: Put me down as one who does needlework in company. It's doctor's orders. And it has done wonders for me. In fact, I think I owe my "sanity" to the needlework I have done in the last two years.

Most of my friends know why I am almost never without my little tote bag of needlework. And the others can go jump in the lake.

By the way, I am a male, and anyone who wants to make something of that will be dead wrong! Sign me . . .

"BUSYFINGERS"

DEAR ABBY: You were unfair to those of us who do needlework while conversing with others.

Some folks smoke because it "relaxes" them. Well, knitting relaxes me! And my knitting doesn't bother anyone. But their smoking sure bothers me. Apologize!

MRS. K. E.

DEAR MRS. E.: I already apologized for that one.

DEAR ABBY: I know it's impossible, but I would give a year's pay to meet "Practically Untouched," because I am just as hungry for affection as she is.

There is only one difference. My wife loves me [I think] and she is an attractive, intelligent woman who is fun to be with. I just can't get her into the bedroom.

If I want to retire early, she stays up watching television until I'm asleep. If I come home late from a business appointment, she's asleep. Or pretends to be.

I am no slouch, either. I'm 6 feet 1 and weigh 180. I'm fit as a fiddle, have a headful of premature silver gray hair, play golf and tennis in summer and handball in winter.

In our 25 years of marriage, my wife and I have never gone off for a weekend together. She still calls it "non-sense" to run off and leave the children, who are now 23 and 24, and married with families of their own.

I have never cheated on her in my life. My parental influence and religious training still sticks. But how long can I curb these growing frustrations? I am constantly propositioned by widows and neighbors. Even some of my friends' wives drop little hints. It's one big battle, and it's not getting any easier. Sign me . . .

ON THE VERGE

DEAR ON: I hope this letter reaches you in time because you sound like a man with one foot in somebody else's bed. You say your wife is intelligent. If she is, sit her down and read this letter to her! And if your life at home doesn't improve after that, she can't say she wasn't warned.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Market Ladies Are Increasing

BRUSSELS, Belgium (WNS) — Frenchwomen work more than any other ladies within the European Common Market. An official report declares that 46.6 per cent of Frenchwomen between 14 and 65 years old are currently employed. West Germany ranks second with 40.3 per cent, followed by Italy, Belgium, and the Netherlands. The number of working women is increasing throughout the Common Market, insists the report. But it admits that women are not paid as much as men for the same work despite the provisions of the original Treaty of Rome on which the market is based.

Good Meals At Home Offset Poor Food Habits And Snacking

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Many teen-agers have very poor food habits but the majority of them are not poorly nourished, says Frances Huessenstann, an associate professor of education at Columbia University Teachers College.

Mrs. Huessenstann, whose field is the sociology of adolescents, participated in a nutrition seminar sponsored by the Bureau of Nutrition of the New York City Department of Health.

Her views run counter to nutritionists who, in recent years, have cited teens as one of the most poorly fed age groups in affluent America.

Mrs. Huessenstann said that, on the contrary, growing affluence has made parents better able than those of a few generations ago to provide vitamins to offset their children's dietary lapses.

Blames Junk Food
She said children also are well-nourished despite bad food habits if their mothers provide good meals at home to offset snacking on "empty calories." The latter term often is used to describe foods high calorically but low in nutritional value.

Mrs. Huessenstann blamed the widespread consumption of what she called "junk food"—corn and potato chips, candy and soft drinks—partly on school administrators who keep vending machines on the premises to add an estimated $300 to $700 a week to school income.

The federal government agency which operates the school lunch program recently ordered all vending machines removed from lunchrooms that serve Type A meals. These meals are nutritionally balanced according to U.S. Department of Agriculture standards.

As a consultant to Houston school districts, Mrs. Huessenstann said she'd seen administrators there seeking other in-school locations for vending machines that would not violate the lunchroom ban.

She urged adults who want to improve teen-agers' eating habits first to find out what the eating habits are.

"Many of us don't know what they eat but we have a missionary zeal about how important it is to improve their diets," she said. "We must ask them what they eat and if they'd like to improve their diet. We tend to forget that teen-agers are dignified human beings. When we speak of their eating habits as faddish, we deprive them of dignity."

I dislike the word "fad" because it is derogatory."

Mrs. Huessenstann, whose own children are 18-, 19- and 20-year-old sons, said all had become vegetarians. She suggested that young people's growing interest in vegetarian and other natural foods diets is based partly on fear.

Avoidance of contamination in animal products caused by fallout, growth hormones or chemicals in feed; promotion of ecology by reducing waste products from animal slaughter; religious convictions and avoidance of responsibility for killing anything.

Advisory Groups Needed
She added that some also said they regarded a vegetarian diet as sounder nutritionally, and its preparation more creative than a regular diet using animal products.

"We are not going to turn the schools over to the kids," Mrs. Huessenstann said, "but they should be involved in decision-making and evaluation."

To accomplish this, she advocates widespread use of teen adviser groups to try out new curriculum and ideas and to teach students to teach one another.

She said the greatest need for nutritional tutoring is at the lowest socio-economic level, where mothers may not know how to prepare nutritious meals to offset their children's poor food habits.

Avoid High Prices
But she added that all adolescents at all socio-economic levels need "general knowledge of good foods and nutrition and some high powered person to consult with."

She also urged adults to try to keep youngsters from being duped into paying high prices at health food stores. A chart at the entrance to the seminar room documented the price problem. More than half the prices listed for 51 different products available at both supermarkets and health food stores were 100 per cent or more higher at the latter. The prices were collected by health education students at Hunter College here in December, 1971.

Floating Shower Honors Mrs. Allen

Mrs. Doug Allen, the former Helen McAndrew, was entertained at a miscellaneous floating shower Saturday night.

Hostesses were Miss Jane McAndrew, sister of the bride, and Miss Elaine Flippin. The shower was held at the home of Mrs. Charles McAndrew.

The bride was given a corsage of white carnations. The guests were greeted by the honoree, her mother, Mrs. McAndrew, Mrs. Mayo Allen, mother of the bridegroom, and Miss McAndrew.

Miss Nancy James registered the guests.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with a spring bouquet. Miss Pat Allen, sister of the bridegroom, served cake and Miss Flippin poured punch.

Couple Says Vows On Saturday

The chapel of St. James United Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Nancy Morton Hill and James Carl McKnight on Saturday at 3:30 p.m.

The Rev. Gerald F. Peterson officiated at the private double ring ceremony. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Zenas Morton Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Cleon James McKnight, all of Greenville.

Miss Kathy Morton of Fayetteville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Robert McKnight of Greenville, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony held at the home of the bride's parents for family and close friends. The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride attended East Carolina University and is presently employed at Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. The bridegroom is a student at East Carolina University.

True Assessment Takes Time

President Nixon's historic journey to Peking has ended and, like most events of such momentous nature, it will be years before the results can be judged.

After 22 years of total alienation it can be observed that this initial contact was cordial enough. However, it is also clear from the statements which have been issued by leaders of the two nations that we are still far apart ideologically, and on several key issues.

Probably the most startling development from the trip was President Nixon's agreement to withdraw all U. S. forces from Taiwan at some future time. There was also agreement on development of bilateral trade, exchange programs and contacts between the two governments.

"This was the week that changed the world," the president said. "The Chinese and the American people hold the future of the world in their hands."

It was known, of course, before the president's trip that there was likely to be no hard bargaining between him and the Chinese leaders on most of the issues that separate the two nations. Many hoped for a miracle in the form of Chinese action to help end the Vietnamese war, but few really expected it.

The Nixon visit can only be a door opener. It could not be left to any one of lesser stature in the United States government because the full impact of the presidential office was needed to re-establish contacts between the two nations.

There are those who argue that the Nixon trip to China was designed to influence the election which comes up in November. Certainly, Nixon, being the shrewd politician that he is, had his eye on the effects it would have on his future. It is also true, however, that the time had come to improve relations between China and the United States. The Nixon trip to Peking was the logical way to begin the long road back to better relations between the nations.

Only time will tell how much history will be changed by the visit. It is certain, however, that United States Asian policies will be vastly different in the future from what they have been for the past 22 years.

Pressure Is On N.C. Counties

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH, N. C. — What does the future hold for North Carolina counties?

Problems. They are being pressed to deliver services traditionally performed by the city, such as water and sewer, to citizens clustered beyond municipal boundaries.

They are involved in the debate over administration of public welfare programs, a function the state board of social services insists must urban means city, Morrisey said. More and more, county commissioners must deal with problems and make available services which are essentially urban in character, he explained.

Larger Role For Counties
The legislature in recent years has followed the trend to make both counties and cities broad, general-purpose governments, Morrisey pointed out. Now, most services and functions of local government may be performed by both counties and cities or jointly.

The agenda for the district meetings, held annually by the association, will include the $150 million clean water bond issue on the May 6 ballot.

Counties look to the bond issue as a source for state aid, and increased federal grants, to meet water and sewer needs, Morrisey said. It contains provisions, he added, designed to encourage regional action by groups of counties to assure adequate water supplies.

A future bond issue for school construction also will enter the discussion. The 1971 legislature failed to act on a proposed $200 million issue for the purpose, Morrisey recalled, and sentiment is building to revive the idea at the '73 session.

Thoughts For Future
Commissioners will be asked for long-range thoughts on county government structure, as input for a revision of basic county law which will be drafted by the Local Government Study Commission to put before the next legislature.

"Counties are still operating in a 19th century structure," Morrisey commented. "The least we can do is build a 20th century model for the 21st century."

The schedule for district meetings follows:

- March 2 — 9:30 a.m., District 11, Boone; 2 p.m., District 12, Hickory.
- March 7 — 9:30 a.m., District 10, Monroe; 2 p.m., District 9, Lexington.
- March 8 — 9:30 a.m., District 6, Lumberton; 2 p.m., District 8, Sanford.
- March 9 — 9:30 a.m., District 7, Graham; 2 p.m., District 5, Oxford.
- March 14 — 9:30 a.m., District 1, Edenton; 2 p.m., District 4, Goldsboro.
- March 15 — 9:30 a.m., District 2, Kinston; 2 p.m., District 3, Jacksonville.

A Remarkable Record Of Industrial Safety

Eight years and 38,227,150 consecutive man-hours worked without disabling or lost time injury is a remarkable record.

That is what the Kinston Dacron plant has achieved and the new state record was recognized in ceremonies here Tuesday.

State Labor Commissioners Frank Crane called it an "amazing accomplishment," and indeed it is.

The record took the concerted effort of management and labor and it has worked to everyone's advantage.

We hope that Dupont employees will continue to build on this outstanding record.

Sen. McGovern Draws Blood

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

MANCHESTER, N.H. — Tactics employed by Sen. George McGovern in one arduous night of campaigning around Manchester last week explains the unease now pervading the New Hampshire campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, acutely sensitive to any such criticism from the left.

Muskie, national Democratic front-runner and lopsided favorite to win in the New Hampshire March 7, was clearly McGovern's target during his first four stops that evening. "I would think that anyone running for President as a Lincolnque figure ought to act more like Lincoln," snapped McGovern. Time and again, McGovern sought to contrast his own unmistakably clear policy stands with Muskie's ambivalence.

But McGovern saved his roundhouse punch for the evening's final event — a reception in the well-heeled suburb of Bedford, which comes as close to being McGovern country as any place.

Among these upper middle-class liberals, McGovern charged that Muskie's erstwhile support for the Vietnam war casts doubt on his "foresight," "judgment" and "reliability." At the 1968 convention, Muskie "led the way for the Lyndon Johnson war policy while some of us were risking our political careers" and did not change until 1969 when public opinion also changed.

To Muskie managers here, McGovern's onslaught in this lackluster primary campaign could reduce the Muskie total, once 70 per cent in polls, to around 50 per cent. Even so, a Muskie win is inevitable. At best, McGovern cannot hope for much more than 25 per cent, a poor second in a drab field.

But the Muskie camp's sensitivity to McGovern's barbs goes beyond this primary. In New Hampshire as at national headquarters, Muskie staffers bristle over any suggestion that Muskie is inadequately militant about reduced defense spending or Vietnam. Among Muskie operatives, the memory of the left's non-support of Hubert Humphrey in 1968 is vivid. Consequently, the Muskie camp here is more worried about McGovern's harpoons than heavy barrages from the right-wing

The 'Spirit Of Peking'

WASHINGTON — The "Spirit of Peking" has had more of an effect on Americans than anyone would like to admit. For example, my Uncle Leo and Aunt Zelda, who live in Brooklyn, had broken off diplomatic relations with my Uncle Harry and Aunt Gertrude, who live in New Jersey, about 20 years ago. No one is quite certain what caused the break, though rumor in the family had it that Uncle Harry had sold

Uncle Leo some hospital insurance and Uncle Leo had been unable to collect on the policy because of some small print which Uncle Harry had neglected to mention to him. Aunt Zelda called Uncle Harry a crook and Aunt Gertrude declared both Aunt Zelda and Uncle Leo persona non grata in the entire state of New Jersey. The other day Uncle Leo's son, Henry, pointed out to his parents that if President Nixon could go all the way to Peking to normalize relations with Mao Tse-tung, they could at least take a crack at making peace with Uncle Harry and Aunt Gertrude. Surprisingly Uncle Leo and Aunt Zelda agreed to open negotiations, and Henry went on a secret mission to the

Other Editors Say A Jury Of Peers

(Washington Daily News)
If by a jury of peers, it is meant that there must be absolute equality in all phases of life, then getting such a jury is impossible in any trial.

If the 12 men who sit in the jury box must be of equal economic standing, the same race, the same religion, the same social level, and hold jobs equal to the job held by the defendant, then there is no way to find justice under any circumstances.

Recently in North Carolina a judge was asked to reverse a conviction on the grounds that the jury was not made up of members of the working class, while the defendants were working people.

Those words "working people" open a wide door. At least it is subject to much discussion. There are day laborers and there are blue collar workers, and there are also professional workers. Under the concept proposed to this judge in this case, since the two men on trial were "working people," we take it that they were laborers. And what they were talking about was the fact that no day laborers were serving on the jury which convicted them.

It is true that the judge wasted little time in denying the request. But the fact that it was ever made is strange to the average layman who today looks upon the halls of justice with great suspicion anyway.

If justice demands exact equality in every phase of living, then it would be well nigh impossible to get any jury in any case. We could imagine a merchant in trial when he demanded that every one serving on the jury also be a merchant.

This would be impossible justice, impractical justice, and something so far-fetched as to make a mockery out of that very word "justice."

There should be no discrimination in the selection of juries. It is true that because of the racial makeup of our society, jury service should not and must not be confined to one race. That means that we must seek absolute color-blindness in our search for pure justice.

But to go into economic, social, and religious elements of individual jurors is to go too far.

We say all this knowing full well that somewhere along the line somebody will bring a suit before the U. S. Supreme court on these very grounds. And what that high court says will be the law. What we say here will make no difference.

But exactness in every situation, to our way of thinking, is just impossible.

Setbacks Fail Cool Toymakers

By ELMER ROESSNER

Almost simultaneous with the Toy Fair in New York, Topper Corp., one of the nation's largest toy manufacturers, announced an agreement with a creditors' committee to pay 50 per cent of their claims, the smaller ones within 10 days, larger ones extending into 1980.

Topper explained that its losses were caused by extension of credit to toy dealers to the extent that Topper was financing a large part of their inventories through 1971, and by Topper's failure to receive key merchandise because of the East Coast dock strike.

The toy business is one of the most fragmented in America, with more manufacturers than in either the apparel or furniture fields. Many of the smaller toy companies are subsidaries of larger manufacturers and many products are produced at a loss for promotional purposes. The resulting intense competition keeps profits down. There are about 2,000 manufacturers fighting for the toy dollar.

Furthermore, the field is unusually sensitive to business curfews. When Dad is laid off, it seems he buys cheaper and fewer toys for the kids.

But the current grind did not dampen enthusiasm at the Toy Fair. The 800 exhibitors were running around like children, making toys work and uttering cries of delight to impress toy buyers.

There was, perhaps, a somewhat larger number of hand-made toys this year. When a manufacturer is not sure whether a new toy will catch on, he presents only a hand-made model. If orders are promising, he goes into production; if not, he abandons the idea.

Two current themes showed their influence on toys this year: the fight for ecology and the growing demand for toy safety. Some of the ecology themes were a bit far-fetched. For example, sets for making jewelry out of natural rocks were supposed to give youngsters an appreciation of ecology. There was also a proliferation of rock collections to the same end.

The toy safety theme was somewhat less voluntary.

Living Needs Goals

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — There is nothing duller than a man who has achieved his goal. His life from then on seems curiously empty and inert. He is like a sack that can no longer stand upright. He is drained. The way to fresh horizons and a happy life is to have ambitions you can never really achieve except in daydreams. This keeps you cheerful.

Here are a few goals I'd like to achieve myself—if I weren't kept so busy walking my treadmill in other ways:

Carve a new face on Mt. Rushmore with a screwdriver. Button my lip. Find a prerogative and exercise it.

Have a lovely beach maiden in Bali peel me a coconut.

Join a good safe three-wheel motorcycle club and wear a black leather jacket with a skull and crossbones insignia on the back.

See something that boggles the imagination. Catch a Mississippi River catfish bigger than the boat I fished from.

Bake a hot cross bun. Bend an iron bar between my teeth and the ones the dentist sold me.

Trump up an excuse. I can hear it now—trump, trump, trump.

Be sent to jail for starting an earthquake.

Invent a Martini that would evaporate before you could drink it.

Win an argument with a talking horse.

Peace proposals to end the conflict and Shanghai, made by Joseph Paul Boncour, French delegate at the League of Nations Council, at Geneva yesterday, were accepted by the Japanese government today.

Salvation Army "Bundle Day" will be observed in Greenville Saturday, according to information given out this morning by Ensign Joseph Willett, director of the organization's activities here.

Mrs. Olivia Darden of Greene County, is 72 years of age but she has had only 18 birthdays. Mrs. Darden was born during Leap Year and like hundreds of other people who made their appearance during a similar period, celebrates her birthday each four years. Sunday evening Mrs. Darden was given a birthday dinner by her children and grandchildren.

The birthday cake, though, contained 72 candles denoting each year Mrs. Darden has lived.

Holshouser Counts On His Work With Minorities

By MELVIN LANG
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Former state Republican Chairman Jim Holshouser, now a candidate for the GOP gubernatorial nomination, is counting on his off-season work with minorities to put him in the chief executive's office in 1973.

Holshouser started laying the foundation for his gubernatorial bid soon after he successfully led President Nixon's campaign in North Carolina 1968. With no publicity, Holshouser and a few other Republicans began meeting with blacks—some registered Democrats, some Republicans—across the state, starting in Wilson in the fall of 1969.

Gradually the meetings expanded as more participants came in and others went on to other work. According to Holshouser campaign manager Gene Anderson, several of the black participants subsequently won federal appointments in North Carolina and Washington.

Anderson, calling the conferences "bridge building," candidly admits the Holshouser organization believes "we made some substantial progress in

The first thing on the agenda was dinner, and Aunt Gertrude served 14 courses. Uncle Leo and Aunt Zelda pretended they were enjoying every moment of it, though Aunt Zelda had made everyone eat before we left Brooklyn because she said, "You never know if they're going to feed you when you go there."

After dinner Uncle Leo made a toast in which he said that it was nice to be in New Jersey again after all those years, and while there were great differences to be settled in the family, particularly the question of what type of insurance Uncle Harry sold, he hoped the visit would bring about new relations between them.

Uncle Harry responded by saying that anyone who doesn't read an insurance policy is an idiot, but there were more important things in life than whether you can collect when you go to a hospital.

After the toasts Uncle Harry's 9-year-old granddaughter provided the entertainment by playing 14 numbers on the piano. Uncle Leo and Aunt Zelda applauded politely.

The highlight of the trip was a visit to Uncle Harry's "great" wall, which he had built in the back of his house to keep his neighbor's dog out. It was 4 feet high and 30 feet long, and Uncle Leo said he thought it was one of the great wonders of the world.

Manchester Union Leader, which regularly assaults Muskie as a leftist while largely ignoring McGovern.

The reaction is questionable. The Democrats of New Hampshire, largely Roman Catholic and working class, are basically conservative. In the long run, the Union Leader may prove much more damaging than McGovern.

Moreover, McGovern's tactics lack a certain rationality in conservative Manchester. When McGovern's canvassers find a Muskie supporter there, they follow up by mailing a comparative voting analysis of the two Senators which shows Muskie deficiently dovish ("Sen. McGovern has sponsored and fought for efforts to reduce overall and line item defense expenditures...Muskie's record is the opposite").

Muskie's managers realize that such mailings to the Manchester working class can only hurt McGovern. But the unease they cause in Muskie headquarters transcends political reality. To veterans of the 1968 McCarthy campaign who run the 1972 Muskie campaign, McGovern hostility is all too reminiscent of Democratic fratricide four years ago.

That explains why a Muskie aide angrily telephoned McGovern headquarters over a flyer written by University of New Hampshire students attacking Muskie's vote against a U.S. troop pullout from Europe. More significantly, it is one reason why, after much internal debate, the Muskie campaign rejected advice from many local supporters and agreed to face McGovern and lesser candidates in a televised debate March 5.

Until that decision last week, McGovern had made much of Muskie's refusal to debate. Radio commercials attacking Muskie on that count were regrettably shelved. Even as his and Muskie's seconds were negotiating, McGovern got in his last licks ("Lincoln didn't run away when challenged to debate").

But even if the debate itself is less politically productive than the debate issue, McGovern still hopes to embarrass Muskie over statewide television on defense spending, disclosure of campaign contributors, troops in Europe, amnesty for draft dodgers and, of course, Muskie's past heresy on Vietnam.

Tony Podesta, the incisive young operative from Muskie's national headquarters who runs the New Hampshire campaign, has been reassured by superiors in Washington that this small state's primary is no longer as significant as formerly; whether Muskie gets 50 per cent or 65 per cent is not all that important. Undoubtedly true. But the fact George McGovern is drawing blood here is proof that Muskie operatives cannot chase the specter of 1968 from their memories.

could be expected if blacks—or other minorities—helped the Republican party.

Holshouser, Republican state chairman when the meetings began, turned to Washington and the influence he publicly has claimed was hit. As a result, Anderson said, federal appointments followed that "Af-

Nuclear Plant For CP&L Is Approved

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission has granted Carolina Power & Light Co. a permit to build a $1.1 billion nuclear power plant in Wake county.

CP&L must still get approval from the Atomic Energy Commission and the state Department of Water and Air Resources before it can begin construction.

In granting the certificate of public convenience and necessity Tuesday, the Utility Commission told the state's electric utilities that the ground rules governing power plant planning in North Carolina are changing.

The agency indicated displeasure with CP&L's procedure in the Wake County case, saying the company had already bought a "substantial portion" of the land needed for the 18,000-acre facility before it announced plans to build the plant.

At a public hearing in November on CP&L's application for a permit, environmentalists represented by the Conservation Council of North Carolina attacked the safety of the plant, which will be built 20 miles southwest of Raleigh. They specifically charged that the planned emergency cooling system was unsafe.

The commission rejected this contention in its order, saying the design of the plant is safe and "presents no substantial hazard to the public."

Nat'l Parks Test Quotas

NEW YORK (AP) — Three national parks will experiment this summer with a quota system for wilderness vacationers, Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton said today.

Morton said he had asked the National Park Service to work out an "experimental and temporary program" for limiting the use of certain wilderness areas endangered by overcrowding.

He said limitations would be placed on visitors to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee, Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado and Sequoia-Kings Canyon in California.

"This will be a temporary and an experimental program to try and limit the visitations to the wilderness areas to that number of people that the environment can be compatible with and so that we can be assured that those areas will not be destroyed or degraded," Morton explained.

He made the announcement on the NBC "Today" show.

—Dan McDonald, a former youth counselor for the Greensboro police department, now working under Lassiter as a HUD equal opportunity representative.

—John "Chip" Chase, first minority enterprise representation for the Small Business Administration in Charlotte.

Anderson said that, through the conferences, "We were able to arrange several lower level federal appointees, basically to agricultural groups. In addition, we had several named to advisory level positions in Washington which are not paid."

Another Holshouser effort on behalf of minorities, according to Anderson, was to seek federal grants for Kitrell College, an all-black, two-year school near Henderson, and "for the Lumbee Indians in Pembroke."

Anderson said the experiences gained in the 1968 presidential campaign prompted the work with minorities.

"We had this chicken and egg problem, which relates to the blacks saying the Republican party in North Carolina has never done anything for us. On the other side of the coin the Democrats said, 'Don't do anything for the blacks because they'll vote Republican,'" Anderson said.

"Holshouser thought we ought to break out of that cycle, and the Republican party ought to be the first to give."

The Holshouser conferences later developed into the North Carolina Black Republican Caucus and remains a publicity-shy organization.

Pollock, first president of the caucus, declined to identify any of its members when a newsmen asked him to do so this week.

Frank Rouse, who succeeded Holshouser as state GOP chairman last year, said earlier this week he has worked with the caucus but apparently has not been as deeply involved as was Holshouser.

Nor have the other GOP gubernatorial candidates—James Gardner, Leroy Gibson and Thomas Chappell—actively pursued the caucus.

Questions about the caucus to Gardner's offices in Raleigh and Rocky Mount have gone unanswered.

Gibson, a Jacksonville insurance salesman, founded the militant Rights of White People organization now involved in racial unrest in Wilmington.

Chappell, a Greensboro auto salesman, decided at the last moment to enter the race.

Plain Of Jars Is Battlefield

By CARL STROCK
 VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — For the fifth time in three years, the Plain of Jars is the main battlefield in Laos' rising and falling war.

To break a North Vietnamese siege of the big U.S.-Laotian base at Long Cheng, 20 miles to the southwest, several thousand pro-government guerrillas are raiding the plain in efforts to destroy supplies and cut lines of communication.

"We can't just sit in Long Cheng and let the enemy pound us with heavy artillery," says the acting defense minister, Sisouk na Champassak.

But he describes the operation by Gen. Vang Pao's Meo tribesmen as defensive and short-term.

The rolling, grassy plateau—named for the hundreds of ancient stone funeral jars found there—was controlled outright by the Communist Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese for five years after they captured it in 1964.

That followed the Pathet Lao's withdrawal from the neutralist coalition government set up by the 1962 Geneva accords on Laos.

In mid-1969 the colorful Vang Pao launched a surprise offensive call "about face" and occupied the plain in the name of the Lao government.

Because of a threat the Communists would try to take it back, the United States moved the plain's 15,000 inhabitants to the lowlands. Since then, the Plain of Jars has been a free-fire zone and the scene of periodic ground fighting and frequent U.S. air strikes.

Long Cheng's fate depends on what happens next on the Plain of Jars. The new operation by Vang Pao's troops appears to have drawn some of the besieging enemy back to defend rear-supply areas, U.S. military analysts say.

The Plain of Jars is strategic as it's often called, to the extent that it is a logical springboard for the North Vietnamese and Pathet Lao should they decide to launch an offensive into the lowlands and toward Vientiane or Luang Prabang.

Beyond this the plain's importance is mainly political or psychological. "It's worthless, but it's there, and it has become a symbol," said one American analyst, noting that both sides have committed political prestige to occupying the plain.

One popular theory here is that the two warring sides fight for the plain because they believe its control promises an upper hand.

Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma frequently reminds visitors that the North Vietnamese defense minister, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, said in 1964 that North Vietnam could not tolerate a hostile presence on the Plain of Jars.

To Vang Pao and his Meo tribe followers, the plain has a special meaning. "This is our homeland," the general recently told newsmen. "We have no choice, we have to fight for our independence."

PLANS NEW SCHOOLS
 JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel will spend $3 million in the next three years for new primary schools in Israeli Arab villages. Seven new high schools also are planned for the villages at a cost of $75,000 each.

Garbage For Reclamation

JOE BAXTER, JR., inventor, engineer and city councilman, examines shovelfull of fibres extracted from garbage. (UPI Telephoto)

By TERRY FLYN
FRANKLIN, Ohio (UPI)—This southwestern Ohio community of 10,000 people is "attempting to assume the role of nature" with the world's first garbage disposal and reclamation plant. The plant is the brainchild of Joe Baxter Jr., inventor, engineer and city councilman, who believes "if you follow nature's plan you can't go wrong."

Baxter, who works at the Black Clawson Co., in nearby Middletown, invented a machine known as the hydropulper which churns up waste paper into a slurry through the use of water spun at high speed. Baxter said the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare asked his company to come up with a new idea in solving the problem of solid waste.

"Paper-churner is Invented The Madison, Ky., native went to work and came up with his paper churning, the heart of the Franklin Disposal and Recycling Plant. The next stop was Franklin City Council where, with the backing of City Manager Bernard Eichholz, the council asked for a federal grant.

The U.S. Bureau of Waste Management came up with $1.6 million of the $2 million needed while Black Clawson agreed to put up part of the rest and to operate the plant for the 18-month test period. The garbage that cannot be recycled is destroyed in an incinerator equipped with a bed of hot sand and a temperature of 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit. "We are attempting to assume the role of nature and utilize everything we can," Baxter said. "If you follow nature's plan you can't go wrong." The demonstration period ends in August and at that time it will be up to the community to decide if they want to continue the operation. "Everyone wants to get involved in environmental work, you know—until it bothers them or costs money," Eichholz said. "It's Time to Act That's the decision we have to make here," he added. "We're running out of room, running out of places to shove our waste, and we're running out of time. It's time to stop backing up and do something positive." A tour of the Franklin plant revealed a simple procedure, and so far a relatively inexpensive one, for getting rid of solid wastes. The garbage is brought to a dumping area and taken by conveyor belt to the paper-churner. The spinning drum removes non-pulpable materials such as glass, metals and plastics. The paper slurry is then run through a graduated series of slotted screens, the last ones with openings of only .020 of an inch. The fibers are then washed and partially dried before being shipped to paper factories. Most of the non-recoverable materials such as rubber and textiles are fed into the incinerator. The bed of hot sand is blown through the incinerator by a 500 horsepower motor at a temperature of 1,500. When the waste material enters the chamber it disappears in a puff of flame. "We expected maintenance costs to run about one dollar per ton of input," Baxter said. "So far it has amounted to about 16 cents per ton."

World Day Of Prayer Services Scheduled Friday

Maj. Gen. John Albert Lang Jr., vice president of External Affairs at East Carolina University, will be the featured speaker at the World Day of Prayer service to be held in downtown Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church here Friday, at 10:30 a.m.

Maj. Gen. Lang, a native of Carthage, has the responsibility at East Carolina University for monitoring the University's relationships with Federal, State and community agencies; serves as Liaison with educational foundations and ECU alumni groups; supplies supporting services to the EC President in dealing with the State Legislature and the State Board of Higher Education; serves in a supporting role in development of EC's activities in international studies; and represents ECU in civic and community meetings. At the service, he will speak on "Affirmation of Joy." He will be introduced by Mrs. J. William Byrd.

The service is open to the public of every denomination. On this day Greenville merchants and citizens will join people around the world in praying for "the plight of displaced peoples, the strained relationships between the generations, and the unsettling effect of the technological revolution."

Friday evening at 8 o'clock, a night World Day of Prayer service will be held at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church here with the Rev. W. B. Moore of the Cornerstone Baptist Church and principal of Falkland Elementary School speaking also on the "Affirmation of Joy." Music will be provided by the Crusaders.

The service at Jarvis Memorial Church will open with a prelude, "Open Now Thy Gates of Beauty," on the organ by Mrs. Paul Toll, organist at Jarvis and ECU School of Music faculty member.

The Rev. Charles M. Smith, associate pastor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church will sing the offertory solo. Eight other participants on the morning program will include Mrs. Winton Hill, program leader; Mrs. George Fuller, Mrs. Curtis Howell, Mrs. Walter Woodward, Mrs. W. M. Myers, and Mrs. Bancroft Moselev.

MAJ. GEN. LANG

readers; the Rev. Troy Barrett, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, who will give the prayer of dedication; and Mrs. Boley Farley, who will pronounce the benediction.

Committee members in charge of World Day of Prayer services are Mrs. Charles R. Ross, chairman Mrs. Charles H. Moore, Mrs. Leroy Cherry, Mrs. Linwood Woodard, Mrs. W. M. Myers, program; and Mrs. Charles Kavanaugh and Mrs. Byrd, publicity.

Auto Thefts Up By 183 Per Cent

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Automobile thefts have risen some 183 per cent in the last 10 years and increased to almost one million thefts per year. The actual cost in physical damage is in the neighborhood of $1 billion per year, says C. C. Benson, manager, southwestern division, National Automobile Theft Bureau.

He presented these and other facts to some 100 law enforcement officers attending a seminar here.

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration has rejected suggestions that the United States intervene in Northern Ireland; and says it would take more than a congressional resolution to change its mind.

"Sweeping declarations by outsiders" could make matters worse, Asst. Secretary of State Martin J. Hillenbrand told the House Europe subcommittee Tuesday.

He urged Congress to reject resolutions proposed by more than 80 members calling for some kind of U.S. action in Ulster. Hillenbrand said the administration stands by Secretary of State William P. Rogers's Feb. 3 statement that America "would respond most sympathetically" if asked by Ireland and Britain to mediate.

"In the absence of a request from both parties," Hillenbrand said, "U.S. intervention would be both inappropriate and counterproductive."

"We believe that a resolution urging us to offer our good offices would not in practical terms alter the U.S. position which Secretary Rogers has outlined."

Holy City Plans Industrial Sites

JERUSALEM (AP) — Two areas totaling 375 acres have been set aside for the development of new industries.

The larger zone, 300 acres, will be near the city's Atarot airport to the north. A planned floor space of four million square feet will accommodate a 15,000-man work force.

The other zone is in an unoccupied area nearer the north side of the city. Both sites are being developed at an investment of $9 million.

Kim Family's War Goes On

By MYRAM BORDERS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Although hostilities have long since ceased, the war in Korea will not be marked finished for the Kim family until their father, if still alive, is returned to them.

Hai Song Kim is the father of the famous Kim musical family, more familiarly known as the Kim Sisters and the Kim brothers.

Himself a famous musician in the Orient, Kim was kidnapped by the Communists in 1950, according to his daughter, Sue. There has been no news of him since seven North Koreans walked in the family's front door at Seoul, threatened them with machine guns, and walked away with Kim.

"We have tried everything," Sue said in her home here. "We have written letters, telephoned, made trips, offered every kind of appeal, but nothing has been productive. We don't know if my father is alive or dead."

Doubt Dad's Alive
If alive, she said, he would now be 61. "And we keep on praying that my father, if he was taken for propaganda reasons which we believe, may be freed. June 28 in 1950 is so long ago."

The Kim Sisters, who sing, dance and play a variety of musical instruments, became a sensation on the glamorous Las Vegas Strip in 1958 after they were discovered in Korea, singing for the GIs and getting paid off in chocolate bars.

The girls were an instant hit on America's entertainment circuit, but the rest of their family was still in Korea. There were eight children in all. The four brothers were next to come to the United States to provide the male side of Kim fun on stage. Only one sister remained in Korea, for a spell, then came here but never went into show business. Their mother is dead.

Although the Kims maintain an outward appearance of faith that their father may still be living, Pyung Lee Kim said softly: "We don't really believe it, though."

Marvel At Their Luck
Impresario Tom Ball, who brought the Kims to this country, said the three sisters came with "only possibilities." "They could sing, but they didn't know what they were singing," he said. "They harmonized well. They couldn't play all the instruments they play today. They were making $150 a week." But they were willing to work and did, endlessly.

The years have brought constant change to the Kims. All are now as American as apple pie. Sue, 31, who heads the family in Oriental tradition, is married and has one son. The two acts—the girl trio, the boys' quartet—spend more time rehearsing and practicing than they spend on stage on the Las Vegas Strip, in Chicago, Los Angeles, New York, Miami, or wherever. And they now command group incomes that touch $15,000 a week.

The Kims, both male and female, can't "get over" their good fortune. She puts it this way:

"We played a date in Chicago. When we arrived there from Las Vegas, we had 80 pieces of luggage. Imagine! Three girls who not long ago were walking barefoot on a frozen road to Pusan."

WILLIAM SAROYAN still writes daily because "I'm a writer full time, all the time." (AP Wirephoto)

Saroyan Sticks To His Writing

By JOE BIGHAM
And
Associated Press Writers

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — William Saroyan, his face bordered by shaggy gray hair and adorned with a walrus moustache, feels he thrives in what he calls "majestic loneliness." "The making of anything really worth making calls for an isolation," says the 63-year-old author. "Isolation and necessity for intense concentration over a prolonged period of time make the artist almost antisocial."

Saroyan, who has been telling stories about life in and around Fresno for almost half a century, continued in a rare interview: "The loneliness is not desperate, abject loneliness, but a kind of majestic loneliness—a kinship with larger things. They may be isolated, but they're not alone."

Saroyan still writes daily because "I'm a writer full time, all the time."

"And in my 64th year it's sensible and more creative—other than creative loafing, that is, and I can't do that."

Saroyan's writing has combined probes into mysteries of living and dying with glimpses of the unique character of individuals. To achieve the sense that "each one is a distinctly separate person," he employs a philosophy that "speed and brevity is the point, out of which comes unified work."

His prime example of speed was "The Time of Your Life," the 1940 Pulitzer Prize winner penned during six days of almost constant effort.

The play, for which Saroyan refused the Pulitzer because he wouldn't be "patronized," was revived in 1969 and currently is playing in Washington, D.C. "If he knows somebody, Saroyan is very warm," said a local friend, sculptor Varaz Samuelian. "He doesn't pay attention to people with great position or in big business."

Saroyan described his latest of more than 60 books, "Places Where I've Done Time," as a collection of 84 short stories ranging from unpleasant times of his life to mixed pleasures of putting in time in Paris and Fresno.

"Anywhere you spend time, you do time," the author said. "I spent time in an orphanage and three years in the Army. That was jail time to me. Otherwise, you simply 'put up' the rest of the time. We've been putting up with dismal weather these last three weeks, haven't we?"

Saroyan's orphanage time was at age 3 after his father died. His mother brought the family together again later, providing him an American childhood blended with Armenian ancestry that flavored Saroyan's mostly autobiographical short stories, plays and novels.

Library Loan By Dorm Authority

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Dormitory Authority has approved a multi-million dollar loan to help finance construction of a library-learning center at the Brooklyn center of Long Island University.

Work on the $9 million building is expected to start in June. The five-story structure will provide reading areas on three upper floors. The lower floors and basement will be used as an audio-visual center, lecture hall, theater and television studio.

Bath House Fire Seen From Afar

FORT LEE, N.J. (AP) — Smoke and flames from a recent five-alarm fire that burned down the bath houses at Palisades Amusement Park were seen from New York City across the Hudson river.

The amusement park was being torn down to make way for a high-rise apartment complex.

Pinball Machine Is High-Cost Outlet

By EDWIN SMITH
WARSAW (UPI) — Pinball machines are Poland's latest weapons against juvenile delinquency.

An arcade with two dozen of the latest buzzing, flashing American machines opened this month in a former coffee house on the corner of broad Marshalkowska Street, Warsaw's main shopping avenue.

It was the first time such things had been seen in Poland, and from the first morning the arcade was thronged with teenagers crowding around to try their luck at three zloties (12 cents) a time.

"It will never develop my brain, but it's a good pastime after toiling away at my books," said a 17-year-old boy as he put his token in a machine that was supposed to simulate the thrills of big game hunting, in Africa.

A Price Reduction
But he complained about the price of the tokens. "Prices should be cut in half for young people," he said.

"For adults (who pay five zloties—20 cents) they are all right."

After a few minutes' inspection of the Polish-language instructions most of the young people could understand roughly how the games work, but few have yet learned the subtle skills practiced by real pinball fanatics, juggling the tables just enough to deflect the ball the right way without setting off the "tilt" alarm.

The idea of the arcade, as the Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu explained, is to provide a better place for young people to spend their free time than the sometimes rowdy coffee houses and beer halls.

But the newspaper admitted it was an expensive pastime.

A Costly Amusement
"The price of the tokens is justified by the high price of the machines," Trybuna Ludu said. A supervisor of the arcade confirmed that a total investment of something like $40,000 had been necessary to import the pinball machines from Chicago.

"But it is doubtful whether this price fits the pockets of the 16, 17 or 18-year-olds who will be the clients of the shop," "The problem still remains," Trybuna Ludu said. "where to go and dance on a Saturday night if you are under 20 and have only a little money in your pocket?"

Costly Letdown In Grain Exports

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Reduced grain exports from Texas ports are costing the state's grain industry millions of dollars, says John J. Seibert, grain marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"The impact is already being felt throughout the total industry, from producer to handler, transporter and exporter," said Seibert.

Historic Indian Drawings Buried

ASOTIN, Wash. (AP) — A county road crew buried Indian Petroglyphs along the Snake River, University of Idaho, anthropologists say.

But the anthropologists add that the drawings' primary value was esthetic and that most of the designs had been duplicated before the crew covered them with crushed boulders.

The crew was providing fill for widening an area road.

Dr. Raper. To Be Church Speaker

MOUNT OLIVE — The President of Mount Olive College, Dr. W. Burkette Raper, will be the guest minister at Little Creek Free Will Baptist Church near Ayden on Sunday.

He will teach Sunday School before delivering the sermon at the 11:00 a.m. service. Dr. Raper is representing Mount Olive College, a two-year church related liberal arts institution located on a modern, multi-million dollar campus in Mount Olive.

David Charles Hansley is pastor of the Little Creek Church.

First Recording Made By Wilson Housewives Who Eye A New Career

It all started four years ago in Wilson when Mrs. Barbara Berry was asked to get a group of musicians together for a one-time civic entertainment affair.

Today, the Barbara Berry Singers number five attractive housewives with several things in common. One is a love of music, which has led to the release of their first record, Restless.

In addition to Mrs. Berry, the other members are Mrs. Marsha Jones, Mrs. Ann Givens, Mrs. Barbara Cobb and Mrs. Carol Blake. Except for Mrs. Givens, a native of Pennsylvania, the musicians all hail from various North Carolina towns — Tarboro, Graham, Fayetteville and Oxford — before making Wilson their homes.

Restless, an original rock-spiritual by Dr. James V. Cobb, head of the Music Department of Atlantic Christian College, was cut in New York at the Baroque Studios and released a couple of weeks ago.

Mrs. Jones, in Greenville recently to talk about the record and the group, admitted that "if the opportunity presents itself, we feel we would like to try to further our careers."

This could present some difficulties, as the second thing the five musicians have in common are children. "There are 19 children among the five of us," Mrs. Jones revealed. Mrs. Jones, with two children, is the youngest of the group. Greenville residents will perhaps remember her as Marsha Davis of Tarboro, who made several appearances around Greenville and at East Carolina University three years ago.

Although they are housewives, Mrs. Jones said "We consider ourselves professionals. We are not merely housewives with music as an excuse to abandon dish-washing." She added "fortunately, we have understanding husbands who take an interest and are proud of what we're trying to do."

That the group is serious about their music is evident from the time they spend at work. "We rehearse four to five hours every week," Mrs. Jones remarked. The musical interest of the five singers-instrumentalists is quite varied. "We constantly try out all different types of music," Mrs. Jones said, "including old favorites, ballads, pop, religious medleys, spirituals. At this stage we want to continue to experiment. It's more exciting not confining ourselves to one type of music."

The group's acknowledged leader, Mrs. Barbara Berry, Mrs. Jones commented, "is an accomplished pianist and arranger." Mrs. Blake and Mrs. Jones are guitarists, as is Mrs. Berry. All the singers can play various percussion instruments.

With Restless now on disc, the young housewives will be making a number of personal appearances to "meet the public."

"Naturally we're excited," Mrs. Jones remarked. "If things go well, we may soon be working on recording an entire album."

Ghostwriters Are Under Attack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A move is under way in a small but growing number of states to curb what is becoming a successful service industry in college towns from the Ivy League to the Pacific Coast—merchandising term papers on the open market.

In the California Legislature, the New York courts and the Massachusetts attorney general's office, public officials backed or goaded by college authorities are moving against young entrepreneurs who are getting rich by churning out other people's homework.

Ever since a pair of pioneering brothers launched a Boston term paper factory 18 months ago and extended its operations to 49 other branches nationwide, more than 100,000 papers have been sold to students and the number of competing firms is proliferating.

"I am helping students overcome the busy work and repetition and wasted time of going from shelf to shelf and page to page doing term papers in which no learning is involved," says Ward Warren, 23, who with his brother, Kenneth, 27, founded Term Paper Research Unlimited Inc.

The brothers say they did $1.8 million worth of business last year.

Termpapers Unlimited and the others advertise openly in campus newspapers—"Are you cramped for time? Let us help you," reads one ad—and reach students who pay from $2 to $6 a page for documented research on topics as varied as Aztec social structure to Zambian foreign policy.

The papers are composed by ghostwriters, including moonlighting faculty members, graduate students and technical writers—many with M.A. and

Ph. D. degrees—who sign agreements relinquishing their rights to their works.

"We've given these trained people a better way to make money and the students have access to a clearing house for information," said Ed Whalen, 29, a former English instructor who is vice president and chief editor for Creative Communications Consultants in Urbana, Ill.

The ghostwriters get anywhere from $2 to $5 a page for their products.

This view—and the practice of peddling term papers—is the target of a measure introduced by California Assemblyman Jim Keyser that would make it a misdemeanor to sell term papers to students in higher education institutions.

"This bill is against the sellers and not against students," said Keyser, a Granada Hills Democrat. "I think getting it passed could be a little tough because people will argue you can't legislate morality."

The reaction of educators and administrators to the term paper business has been mixed, ranging from violent opposition to philosophical re-evaluation of the efficacy of term papers.

Harvard Dean of Students Archie Epps calls the term paper companies "a blot on the conscience of American institutions of higher learning" and an official at Southern Illinois University said the firms reflect "a breakdown in the relationship between faculty and students."

On the other hand, David J. Carson, dean of students at Babson College in Massachusetts, Ward Warren's alma mater, sees the term paper companies as a spur to new thinking.

"Perhaps there will be some serious and beneficial gains out of all this if it causes some re-evaluation of the whole process of which term papers are a part," he said.

Ward Warren said students seem to have no second thoughts about buying a term paper. He told a story of a freshman who bought and submitted as his own work a five-page paper entitled, "Why I wouldn't Use a Professional Term Paper Writing Service." Not every student is a potential customer, Warren said, and Termpapers Unlimited occasionally advises would-be clients to do the work themselves if the paper is a short one.

Would he himself purchase a term paper prepared by a commercial service? Warren was asked. "No, sir," he replied with a straight face. "I've got an image to protect."

Dismiss Suit On Dredging

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP)—State charges that Carolina-Cape Fear Corp. had caused dredging to be done illegally on Bald Head Island were thrown out of court Tuesday.

District Court Judge Ray Walton heard the case and dismissed the charges, saying: "There is evidence there was a hole but there is nothing in the evidence that the Carolina-Cape Fear Corp. had anything to do with it."

The corporation has announced plans to develop a multimillion-dollar resort and residential complex on the semitropical island near Southport.

Gov. Bob Scott wants the island preserved in its natural state. Walter Johnson, an assistant supervisor for the state Division of Commercial and Sports Fisheries, testified Tuesday he found a hole on the island Feb. 12 that had been excavated to a depth of 18 to 24 inches. The excavation was 30 feet wide and ran 60 feet offshore, Johnson told the court.

When he returned Feb. 13, he said, there was no trace that dredging had occurred. Johnson had photographs made of the hole on his first visit.

Chavis Bond Is Reduced

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Bond has been reduced from $100,000 to $15,000 for black activist Ben Chavis on a charge of being an accessory after the fact to murder.

Superior Court Judge Joshua James lowered the bond Tuesday at the request of attorneys for Chavis, a field organizer for the Commission on Racial Justice. He is accused in the shooting death last March of Negro

Briefing For Candidates

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Bob Scott plans to hold a two-hour briefing March 6 to give North Carolina's candidates for governor and lieutenant governor a rundown on the state's financial outlook.

Scott said Tuesday the briefing would include information on the "state budget, anticipated revenues for the coming year, along with an analysis of the expenditures of current programs."

The governor wrote the Democratic, Republican and American party candidates Feb. 25 notifying them of his plans for the briefing, which will be handled by members of the state's professional staff.

Scott frequently has said he wished such a briefing had been available to him during his 1968 campaign.

"North Carolina's budget of all funds totals nearly $4 billion," Scott wrote, "and the information we will share with you will be of assistance to you as you campaign across the state."

teen-ager Eugene Wright. Another Negro teen-ager, Donald Jerome Nixon, is charged with murder in Wright's death. Nixon has been released from jail under $3,000 bond.

Chavis had been in jail since Friday when District Court Judge G. H. Burnett found probable cause on the accessory charge. Burnett set the bond at $100,000, saying he did so after hearing that Chavis two weeks earlier had stated he planned to visit Africa.

Potions, Psychology By Egyptian Herb Doctor

By LISETTE BALOUNY Associated Press Writer

CAIRO (AP) — In an era of heart transplants and do-it-yourself medical treatment, supported by antibiotics and computerized medical care, the age-old art of herbal medicine is finding new clients in Egypt.

Modern doctors agree that many of today's medicines have their foundation in herbs. But the herb doctor has an added attraction—he still has time for his patients in a warm, friendly atmosphere.

A good herb doctor combines the jobs of doctor, chemist and psychiatrist at less cost in time, money and emotions to the patient, according to Hadj Mohamed Nabet.

"Man was made from earth and from earth he shall be cured of his ailments," says Nabet.

It is with this motto, for the past 500 years, that his family has cooked and prepared potions, mixing its own special brands of herb, flowers and grasses.

"I have been a herb doctor for the past 50 years, and experience has taught me a patient not only is in need of a curative potion—it is also a question of psychology," says Nabet, 68. "The patient needs to unburden his troubles, a physical ailment is almost always accompanied or preceded by a psychological upset."

Nabet, the eldest of the few remaining herb doctors still in business in old Cairo also has been dubbed "Sheik El Attarine" (Chief Herb Doctor) for his wide experience.

He and the others trace their profession back to the Pharaohs, whose use of herbs for medical purposes, are the earliest recorded in history.

The ancient Egyptians passed their medical knowledge along to the Assyrians, the Hebrews, and the Copts, and through them to the Greeks Romans and Arabs.

The art of healing, associated early in history with sorcery and religion, was called phar-ma-maki by the Pharaohs, and apparently is the origin of the word pharmacy.

Nabet, who says he has cured all sorts of diseases from ulcer to mild colds, points out that lately most of his patients are the educated classes in contrast with the past.

"The fact is, you see, that the educated types are looking for promotion and fulfillment of ambitions. They are continuously worrying about money. Dashing about to catch their buses. Gulping down food at commercial restaurants. In short they take less rest and even then at irregular hours", Nabet says.

"After diagnosing their ailment and preparing the herb formula accordingly I always emphasize the need and value of diet and rest," he points out.

For stomach pains, he gives special vapours cooked with flowers, or boiled leaves. For burns he prescribes a combination of coconut and almond oil. For kidney stones he gives a mixture of wild flower seeds.

Warn Of Crisis In Dental Health

NEW YORK (UPI)—Statistics show dental health in the United States is below standard and may even be approaching the crisis stage. More than 25 million Americans have lost all their teeth; another 25 million have lost at least half their teeth. And about 50 per cent of the adult population has some form of periodontal disease by middle age, according to the American Society for Preventive Dentistry.

Offer Political Study Course

BOSTON (UPI)—The political side of government is the core of an experimental course at Boston State College. "presidential Politics, 1972" will encourage students to take part in primary races by working as canvassers, telephone committee workers, fund raisers, headquarters workers, and anything else which actively involves them in the political arena.

Bank Guards In Gun Fight

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — An argument between guards in the basement of the Federal Reserve Bank turned into a gun battle Tuesday, leaving one guard dead and three others wounded, police said.
Witnesses said the sounds of at least a dozen shots rang through the halls of the granite bank building across the street from the Virginia Capitol.
Police said the first persons at the scene found guard Sgt. Pascal R. Fuson, 52, seated in a room adjoining the conference room where the fight broke out. His pistol had been fired six times, they said.
Fuson, a guard at the bank for 24 years, was taken into custody and charged with murder and three counts of malicious wounding. He was held in lieu of $100,000 bond.
One of the wounded men was in critical condition Tuesday night.
Police said the shooting apparently erupted after Fuson burst into a room where the four guards were meeting, and an argument began about the qualifications of one of the wounded men who is scheduled to succeed the retiring head of the bank's security division.
Police said they were not sure what touched off the shooting or who fired first.

Membership Meet Held

The Bell Arthur Water Corp. held its annual membership meeting Monday night at the Bell Arthur Fire Department with J. S. Flake, president, presiding.
Some 43 families that are members of the corporation were represented at the session with approximately 60 people attending. The facility was completed in August of last year and is beginning its first full year of operation.
Donald R. Parrott, CPA of John C. Proctor & Co., presented the financial report and Willard Dean, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, discussed the proposed operating budget for the coming year.
Directors for the corporation were elected for terms of office ranging from one to three years. They are J. S. Flake, Frank Young, Glen Strickland, Freddy Midgett and Thomas McKaskill.

Composer Lionel Bart Declares Self Bankrupt

LONDON (AP) — Composer Lionel Bart, an ex-slum dweller whose hit songs made him a millionaire, has declared himself bankrupt.
"I'm sorry, I can't say anything," the 41-year-old Bart told newsmen after filing a petition of bankruptcy in court Tuesday.
The composer of Britain's most successful stage and screen musical since World War II, "Oliver," Bart hit the top in a meteoric, 13-year career as a songwriter.
His fortunes started to ebb in 1965 when "Twang," a musical based on the adventures of Robin Hood, folded after six weeks.
At the height of his success, Bart was a prominent member of the jet set. One of his purchases was a golden toilet paper holder for the bathroom of his sumptuous house in London's fashionable Kensington district.

Heart Surgery For Dr. Sabin

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Albert Sabin is reported in satisfactory condition after undergoing open heart surgery at Cleveland Clinic.
Developer of the oral polio vaccine bearing his name, Sabin said surgeons removed veins from his legs and used them to bypass a blocked coronary artery during a two-hour operation Tuesday.
Sabin, 65, said he expects to leave the clinic about March 17. He plans to spend a month recuperating in Florida before returning to the Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel. He is president of the institute.
Sabin also has developed vaccines to fight encephalitis, sandfly fever and dengue fever. He has been working on the possibility of a link between viruses and some cancers.

Five Public Hearings Slated Thursday

Five public hearings, one on annexation and four on rezoning, will spotlight the March meeting of the City Council Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock in City Hall.
Scheduled to be heard is a request by Leroy Cherry to annex property located on the east side of U.S. 264 by-pass, north of the proposed Devonshire Apartments.
On rezoning, the public hearings will begin with Van C. Fleming's request to rezone a 12.5 acre tract on the east side of North Greene Street extended. The property, adjacent to Prepshirt Manufacturing Company, is now zoned unoffensive industry. The request is for a change from R-6 residential zoning, with a 500 foot strip along the street to be highway commercial.
In the case of Oakgrove Estates, C. R. Surrrell is seeking a change from unoffensive industry to R-6 residential to permit the development of a subdivision in the area, containing about 33 acres, located on the north side of Greenfield Boulevard extended and west of State Road 1419.
Planning and Zoning has recommended rezoning the Dora's Grill property on Greenville Boulevard to Highway Commercial.

Leroy Cherry is requesting the tract being considered for annexation also be rezoned from Shopping Center to R-6 residential.
Other items, all preliminary to public hearings at a later date, to be considered at the City Council meeting include: A request for rezoning of the Harold Dail property at 417 W. Third Street from R-6 residential to downtown commercial fringe. In conjunction with this request, the Planning and Zoning Commission has also recommended rezoning of a larger area in the vicinity; a request for rezoning of the W. E. Dansey property from R-6 to neighborhood commercial. The property is located at the northeast corner of Oak and First Streets.
Also on the agenda is the naming of the loop road; sale of land to the Redevelopment Commission; a boundary change in the Central Business District; an agreement between Seaboard Coast Line Railroad and the City of Greenville; and taxi permits for two applicants.
Petitions for street improvements will be discussed for Church Street and Allen Street, and a sidewalk installation approaching Eastern Elementary School is also on the agenda.

Talked With Drowning 'Victim'

ACCIDENT VICTIM — Carl Allen Robin, 27, of 600 East 11th St. gives a peace sign as Greenville Rescue Squad workers render first aid for his broken leg after the motorcycle he was riding collided with a car about 9:45 a.m. today at the intersection of Fifth and Reade Streets. Police charged the driver of the car involved in the mishap, Mrs. Ann Ratledge Young, 1108 East 10th St. with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety. Damage was set at $200 to the motorcycle and $75 to the Young car. (Reflector Photo by Stuart Savage)

Greenville police officers would still like to find George Charles Simpkins today, but they are not looking in the Tar River where for the past two days members of the Greenville Rescue Squad have been searching for his body.
Police were told by Simpkins' relatives late yesterday afternoon that they talked with the 20-year-old man by telephone. Simpkins' mother said she did not know where he was calling from.

Simpkins' truck was found about 2:30 a.m. Monday parked on the Memorial Drive bridge. A note on the vehicle windshield contained a message to his wife which led officers to believe he may have jumped into the river. The note concluded, "Goodbye World."

A search of the lowland area below the bridge by police and rescue workers before dawn Monday failed to turn up any trace of Simpkins. Rescue Squad members then worked all-day Monday and Tuesday dragging the waters below the bridge in an attempt to find the body.

Officials of the Fire Department's rescue unit said the two days rescue squad members spent probing the waters in search of Simpkins cost more than $200.

Spokesman said that 97 man-hours were spent in dragging operations and at the minimum wage figure of $1.60 per hour that accounts for at least $155.20. Food for the men working in the search cost $14.50 while gas and oil for the boats used during the search cost $8.80. Repairs to one of the squad's motors amounted to $12.55 and hooks used on the drags and lost on river-bottom snags (75 of them) cost $14.50 to replace.

And the expense figures don't include two trips to Ayden to have the repair work done on the boat motor or the time spent by police officers and rescue men in the early morning search of the lowland area near the bridge or the time spent by police directing traffic at the bridge during rescue operations.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning that officers would like to talk with Simpkins when he can be located.

No Sudden Cure Ahead: Salk

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Jonas Salk says the battle to find a cure for cancer won't produce a major breakthrough such as he hit upon in developing the first polio vaccine.
"There is not going to be a breakthrough," Salk told a luncheon audience Tuesday. "This is a tough problem that is going to have to be whittled away."

The Salk Institute here is among the research institutes searching for a cancer cure and its 57-year-old director said "progress has been made." But Salk said it was impossible to predict when the illness might be controlled.

Provided Care For Injured Dog

The employees of the Bank of North Carolina NA are proving to be good friends to animals as well as to their customers.
Last week, a small male black dog was injured by a car and was found in the doorway of the bank crying.
He was taken to a local veterinarian, where he was treated for a fractured pevis and kept for observation until Tuesday morning.
A spokesman for the bank said that the dog was not wearing a collar or tags, but that they would like for the owner to have the dog. The owner of the dog is requested to call the bank.

Exposition Site In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 650-acre tract of land previously set aside as an industrial park has been approved as the site for an exposition celebrating the nation's 200th birthday celebration by the 1976 Philadelphia Bicentennial Commission.
The commission's board of directors announced Tuesday it had voted to accept virtually the last option open for an exposition site in Philadelphia.

The tract, in the southwest section of the city, contains 500 acres for an exhibition area and 150 acres for a park and recreation area.

The plan must now be submitted to the U.S. Department of Commerce and the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission by March 13 for approval.

Avoid Stringent Antibusing Bill

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ending more than a week of debate, the Senate was expected to complete action today on a $23-billion higher-education bill, with indications that it will contain no stringent antibusing amendments.
Under earlier agreement, the final vote was to come by 2 p.m. today.
The measure then goes to a conference with the House, which put three major antibusing riders into the version it passed in November.
The Senate voted 50 to 47 Tuesday to reverse itself and reject a proposal by Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., to prohibit federal courts from ordering busing to desegregate schools.
Civil-rights advocates were confident they could keep any tough antibusing riders out of the bill in today's debate.
Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., had pending an amendment which would guarantee parents the right to have their children attend neighborhood schools.
Ervin said he would follow this with a proposal to guarantee pupils the right to attend any school chosen by their parents.
Similar proposals have been rejected in previous years.
Although generally ignored in the uproar over busing, the bill would revamp federal programs to help college students and institutions of higher education and would provide increased U.S. funds to both.

In addition, the bill includes the $1.5-billion school-desegregation program originally requested by President Nixon in March 1970.
The Senate revised the President's proposal to put stricter guidelines on spending the money in an effort to insure that it produces quality integrated education rather than just desegregation.

Also included in the bill is a $390-million Indian-education program.
Responding to pleas from their leaders, 97 senators showed up for the crucial test on the Griffin amendment Tuesday.
The amendment had been tentatively adopted last Friday by a 43-40 vote.
The Senate went on Tuesday to seal into the bill a compromise plan of Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott containing much-milder busing restrictions.
The Scott-Mansfield amendment would prohibit use of federal funds for busing unless re-

Detroit Police Win Pay Boost

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit policemen will receive a $750-a-year pay raise retroactive to July 1 under terms of a state arbitration award made Tuesday.
The boost will place the annual pay of a patrolman with four years experience at $12,750. A similar arbitration panel awarded a fireman of comparable experience a $12,979 salary last December.
The Detroit Police Officers Association had been bargaining for a $2,000 yearly increase, while the city had budgeted $382 per patrolman before the dispute went to arbitration provided under Michigan law.

Pirates Open Tourney Against The Citadel; May Be Dark Horse

After three months of battling, the Southern Conference basketball teams get down to the business of deciding who the champion is. And for the first time in many years, it could be that there may be more than one or two teams that might lay claim to it.

Thursday afternoon at 2 p.m., the annual Conference Tournament gets underway, and by Saturday night, the eight teams involved will be down to one—the champion. Davidson, the winner of the regular season title is the favorite to win the tournament, but last year's winner, Furman, which is hosting this year's squabble, is a high pick in many circles.

Site of the tournament is Greenville S.C.'s Memorial Auditorium. Four games will be played Thursday, two Friday and the big one to wrap it up Saturday.

Although there were only seven teams in the regular season race, there will be eight in the tournament. Appalachian, a provisional member of the league, is being allowed into the tourney, taking eighth seeding.

It will meet Davidson in the first game of the evening session at 7 p.m.

And Appalachian may be the only team in the race that could be counted out. They failed to produce a victory in four games with Southern teams.

VMI, which finished seventh, will meet Furman in the final game, and they come into the tournament with a two-game winning streak in the league, after losing the first 10 league contests they played.

East Carolina, seeded fourth, will meet the fifth place team, The Citadel, in the first game of the afternoon session, at 2 p.m. Following that game, Richmond and William & Mary meet in the other.

The ECU-Citadel winner will take on the Davidson-Appalachian victor at 7 p.m. Friday, while the other two survivors battle at 9 p.m.

The championship contest will be held Saturday at 8 p.m.

The Pirates come into the tournament with four straight losses behind them, to Old Dominion, William & Mary, George Washington and N. C. State, but Coach Tom Quinn doesn't feel that this is a disadvantage.

"As far as I can remember, there are only three teams coming in on a winning note. VMI won their last two, William & Mary won its last game, and Furman won its last. But Furman hasn't played in nearly two weeks, and I can't see how this can help them."

Quinn feels that the Pirates will be going into the tournament in an excellent frame of mind. "Instead of resting, we've been working hard, extra hard," the coach said. "We had two drills on Tuesday, instead of one. Having exams last week saturated us, and we haven't been mentally tough recently. I think we're getting back to this plane now, just in time. The players are up high and they're working hard."

The coach added that he hasn't been disappointed with the attitude or hustle of the team all year. "The way we've been hitting the boards all year shows that we've been hustling. We've had some other problems, but not in these categories."

Jim Fairley and Al Faber will lead the Pirates into the game, both hitting just over 13 points per game. Jerome Owens and Dave Franklin are both hitting over 10 per contest, while Earl Quash is high in there too.

Top reserve Nicky White is also carrying a respectable average around nine per game.

The Bucs are the leading rebounding team in the league, with both Faber and Fairley averaging over 10 per contest.

"In playing The Citadel, we'll be played a pretty good team," Quinn said. The two split during the regular season, each winning on their home court. The Bulldogs nipped the Pirates, 89-86, in Charleston, then lost to the Bucs in Minges, 91-83.

"There's really not a lot of difference between our teams," he said. "We have similar records (Citadel 12-12, ECU 11-14), but we've played a tougher schedule. We match up pretty well on height and quickness. We may have the edge in rebounding, and they have an edge in outside shooting."

Quinn added that the Bucs tend to run better, and that the Pirate defense may also be a little better. "Their defense is based a lot on consuming a lot of time with the ball," he added.

The Bulldogs have two good outside shooters in Steve Fishel and Lou Mechstroth. Prior to last Saturday's loss to Fairleigh-Dickenson, Fishel was the leading scorer with a 15.3 average. Mechstroth was hitting 11.5.

Inside, the Bulldogs like to go to center John Sutor, who has a 14.7 average, and forward Oscar Scott, 12.9. "We have to stop them both inside and outside to do it," Quinn said.

The other member of the starting five, Jim Below, is hitting at a 7.7 clip, while number six man, Cal Hayslip, has a 7.0 average.

Sutor is the leading rebounder with a 8.9 average, while Scott is getting 7.5.

"We've made a few adjustments for the tournament, but we don't plan any major changes in our offense or defense," Quinn said. He also added that he thought this could be one of the best tournaments the Southern has had because of the presence of big men throughout the league, and the variety of offenses and defenses being played.

Quinn lists Davidson as the favorite, based on their record, but notes that Furman can't be counted out, since they have a home court advantage.

"I don't think we can be counted out either," he added. "We have pointed all year to the tournament, and we could pull it out. We've been playing top competition on the road, and this can't help but help us. Our players, I feel, are better than they realize, and if they do finally realize it, they will know that they have the ability to win it all."

The last two years, the Pirates have been upset victims in the first round, both times to Richmond, and both times by a single point. Both games were the last played during the first round.

Does Quinn feel that the first game instead of the last night find the Bucs with less tension? "Oh, I don't know. Is there really that much tension that builds? It has to build for the other team too. But really, I think we'll do better in the afternoon. We practice in the afternoon. We probably play much more basketball in the afternoon than at night. So I think it would tend to be a help playing when we do."

Since joining the Southern, the Pirates have not performed well in the tournament. They lost in the first round their first three trips there. In 1969, the only time they escaped with a first round win, they went to the finals, before bowing to Davidson.

Owens, Fairley On Second Team

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Four juniors, two of them repeaters from last year, and just one senior were named today to the All-Southern Conference basketball team.

Repeating the All-Southern honors they gained as sophomores in 1971 were Russ Hunt, the conference scoring leader from Furman, and Joe Sutter of Davidson.

Furman, the defending league champion, also placed junior Roy Simpson on the honor team and Davidson, which finished first during the regular season, put sophomore John Falconi on the squad.

The senior is John Sutor of The Citadel, the lowest scorer of the five but the second most accurate marksman in the league with almost a 60 per cent average from the floor.

It may be one of the tallest All-Southerns in history with Simpson and Sutor at 6-foot-8, Hunt at 6-foot-7, Sutter at 6-foot-6 and Falconi at 6-foot-5.

Hunt, named three times during the season as Player of the Week, scored 582 points in 25 games for a 23.5-point average and Simpson was the conference's No. 2 scorer with 449 points in 23 games for a 19.5 average. Simpson also ranked in the top five in rebounding.

Until he suffered an ankle injury that kept him out of seven games, Falconi was among the league's top scorers, but two recent brief appearances have dropped his average to 15.8 on 285 points in 18 encounters.

Sutter scored 388 points in 25 games for a 15.5 average and Sutor had 346 points in 23 starts for a 15-point mark.

The team was selected cooperatively by the news services, the league coaches and the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association.

Named to the second team were three more juniors—Jerome Owens of East Carolina, Jeff Trammell of William and Mary and Steve Fishel of The Citadel—and two seniors, Jim Fairley of East Carolina and Eric Minkin of Davidson.

The 1972 All-Southern Conference basketball team:

Russ Hunt, Furman, 6-7, 200, Junior, Milford, Conn.

Roy Simpson, Furman, 6-8, 205, Junior, Louisville, Ky.

Joe Sutter, Davidson, 6-6, 185, Junior, Marion, Ind.

John Falconi, Davidson, 6-5, 186, Sophomore, New York, N.Y.

John Sutor, The Citadel, 6-8, 228, Senior, Philadelphia.

Second Team

Jerome Owens, East Carolina; Jeff Trammell, William & Mary; Jim Fairley, East Carolina; Steve Fishel, The Citadel; Eric Minkin, Davidson.

Honorable Mention

Don Jackson, Furman; Jeff Snider, Richmond; George Spack, William & Mary.

Presbyterian Only Unbeaten

Presbyterian remained as the only unbeaten team in the double elimination Church Basketball League after last night's play. The Presbyterians downed Oakmont, 71-63, to gain the finals.

Immanuel beat Piney Grove, 46-45, and Black Jack downed St. James, 66-64, in an overtime, to advance in the losers' bracket.

Thursday night, Immanuel and Black Jack meet, with the winner meeting Oakmont on Friday. The winner of that game advances to the finals against Presbyterian.

In the opener, Black Jack inched out into a 38-36 lead at the end of the first half, but St. James came back to tie it up, 62-62, at the end of regulation time.

Then, in the overtime, Black Jack hit four points, while St. James got two. Steve Peele hit the basket that made the difference for Black Jack.

Tal Adams led Black Jack with 21 points, while Peele had 16 and Ephrigham Smith had 13. For St. James, Guy Howell had 21, while R. T. Harry and Charles Vincent each had 12.

Piney Grove threatened to knock out regular season co-champ Immanuel in the first half, gaining a 20-16 lead. But in the second half, Immanuel came back to outpace Piney Grove, 30-25, to just sneak by.

Dick Evans led Immanuel with 17 points, while Tom Meeks had 16 and Buddy Allen had 14 for Piney Grove.

Winding up the evening, Presbyterian found itself down by one at halftime, 36-35. But they came back and outshot Oakmont, 36-27, to take the victory and move into the finals.

Frank Freuler led Presbyterian with 25, while Larry Graham had 22 and Don Owen had 10. Doyle Daughtry led Oakmont with 18, while Bobby Hall and Bobby Tunstall each had 10.

Stokes In Junior Win

STOKES — Stokes-Pactolus Junior High School dropped Chicod in a pair of games Monday. Stokes' girls beat Chicod, 23-17, while the boys took a 35-33 victory.

Denise Pilgreen led Stokes in the girls contest with 10 points, while Patricia Roach had 10 for Chicod.

In the boys contest, Ken Roberson had 10 and Larry Daniels had 13 for Stokes. C. Clemons hit 17 for Chicod.

Three Teams Set For State Title Bids

Three area basketball teams open play Wednesday and Thursday in three Piedmont cities, seeking state championships.

One, Ayden-Grifton, will see action tonight, facing the defending 3-A champion in a first round game. The other two, Williamston in 2-A competition, and North Pitt, in the first girls championship, play their first round games on Thursday.

For Ayden-Grifton, a trip to the state championships is nothing new. Bob Murphrey, the Charger coach, has been carrying his team to the title contests with regularity since he came into this area.

This, however, will be his first trip when the team was not playing in Class A competition. Last year Ayden High School's Tornados finished third in the state. Now, consolidation with Grifton and South Ayden has taken place and upped the team into the 3-A ranks.

The opponent in the first round will be no pushover for the Chargers. Pinecrest went 26-1 last year, winning the state 3-A title. Little of the team that won the title is back this year, but they would like nothing better than a back-to-back sweep. So far this year, Pinecrest is 21-4, losing three three games within the Southeastern Conference. The other loss came to non-conference foe Seventy-First, another team that made the final eight-team 3-A field.

Forward Rick Golston, 6-3, is the leading scorer for Pinecrest, hitting at a 23 points-per-game clip. He's joined by center Dexter Pride, 6-4, who's averaging 13 points and an equal number of rebounds.

Guard James Leah, 5-11, rounds out these in double figures, hitting 11 per contest. The other starters are 5-9 guard Rufus McLaughlin, hitting seven a game, and either 6-2 Alex McCaskill (7.0) or Eddie Utley, 6-6, (8.0) at the other forward slot.

"We been averaging around 60 points per game," Coach Roger Paschal said, "and holding our opponents to about 48."

Offensively, the team doesn't go in for a lot of speed, and likes to free lance. Defensively, they go mostly with a man-to-man with some pressing, and an occasional 2-3 zone.

"We have a pretty good bench," Paschal said. The next guard on the team is Teddy Hancock.

Although there are only two starters back from last year's team, the others had plenty of experience. "There just were too many better players ahead of them last year, but they've come along fine in taking over," Paschal said.

Ayden-Grifton comes into the game with a 22-3 record on the year. The Chargers are averaging 59.7 points per game and have allowed 52.3.

Willie Stewart leads the balanced attack of the Chargers with a 10.8 average. Melvin Stewart, his brother, is hitting 10.7. Coach Bob Murphrey alternates four other players in the remaining three positions, and all score well. Milton Brown had a 9.6 mark, followed by Carlton McCarter, 9.5; Danny Garris, 8.9; and Jesse Smith, 7.6.

The contest between the two is set for 8:30 p.m. in Durham High School. The other first round game tonight has Barlett-Yancey meeting Seventy-First. The two Wednesday winners meet Friday at 7 p.m. The Thursday night contests send Madison-Mayodan against Garner and Hendersonville against Washington. The winners meet Friday at 8:30 p.m. The championships and consolation will be held Saturday.

Meanwhile, in Winston-Salem, the 2-A State Tournament gets underway tonight also. Williamston, the Albemarle Conference champion, doesn't join in the action until Thursday, facing Bessemer City.

Bessemer comes into the tournament with a 20-0 record on the year. The team has been averaging 71 points per game and holding their opponents to 49.

Forward Reggie Wideman is the leading scorer. The 6-2 frontcourt star is hitting at a 19-per game average. His fellow forward, 6-4 Theo Smith is hitting 15 per game, while center Darnell Kemp, 6-4, has a 14 point per game average.

The two guards are Olando Alexander, 6-0, and Goldie Byers, 6-0, both averaging about seven per game.

"We like to get the ball inside," Coach Jackson Parker said. "We run free lance at times, and at other times we'll go to pattern ball, depending on the situation."

The coach feels his team plays good defense. "We run a number of patterns, and we don't stick with any one of them. We do press some."

The club is a veteran one, with only Byers as a sophomore, breaking the senior-junior mold. "Our depth is ample, but not as tall as we'd like. One of our reserves, Roger Lomick, made the All-District Tournament Team, however," Parker said. An example of the skill of the team came in the final district game, when they had to rebound from seven points down with 1:49 to go. "With 24 seconds left, we were up by one, and won it 55-49," the coach said.

This is the first trip to the state for Bessemer City since 1958, when, oddly enough, they were beaten in the consolation by Williamston. "That was when Gaylord Perry was playing, and he almost beat us singlehandedly," Parker said.

The Tigers go into the game with a 20-3 mark for the year. They've been scoring 62.3 points per game, and have limited their opponents to a mere 47.6.

Albert Bonds leads the Williamston scoring with 14.5, while Dwight Ange is the other Tiger in double figures at 13.9. They are followed by Laurence Jackson at 8.1, Clifton Little at 6.8 and Rufus Speller with a 6.1 average.

In the field of the 2-A, Wallace-Rose Hill meets Trinity and Wake Forest takes on Sylva-Webster tonight. In the 8:30 Thursday game, Fairmont meets Fred T. Foad. The Wednesday winners meet Friday at 7 p.m., with the Thursday survivors vying at 8:30 Friday. Consolations and finals will be held Saturday. All action takes place at Reynolds High School.

The first girls tournament for the state takes place at High Point Central High School. North Pitt's unbeaten girls, 26-0 on the year, and 51-0 over their two-year history, face East Lincoln in the first round Thursday at 7 p.m.

East Lincoln brings tough competition to the Big Orange Machine, having run up a 25-1 record on the season. The 2-A school won the Southern District Seven regular season title, the tournament title, and then the overall District Seven championships to gain the state trip.

Brends Johnson, a 5-9 center who is averaging 18 points and 14 rebounds per game, was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, as she led East Lincoln to the title.

Patty Ewing, 5-6, was an All-Conference selection and was Miss Johnson's predecessor as MVP in the District. She's averaging 11 points and eight rebounds per game.

Donna Sigmond, 5-4, is the quarterback of the team, and is joined by 5-4 Sandy Abernathy in the backcourt. The other forward is 5-6 Dayle Howard.

Two other girls, Virginia Howie and 5-9 Brenda Link see right much action according to Coach Henry Barkley.

The East Lincoln team averaged 56 points per game and held its opposition to 26. The lone loss came to Catawba County's Bandys High School. "We lost on their court, then beat them at our place. We beat them again in the district, 62-44," Barkley said.

Barkley believes his team's defense is the strong point of East Lincoln. "We use both man-to-man and zone defenses," he said.

While the Big Orange has yet to lose a game—ever, they don't have a single girl hitting in double figures. Susan James leads the starters with a 9.7 average, with Minnie Hollis right behind at 9.3. Phyllis Jenkins has an 8.1 average, followed by Joy James at 6.5 and Debbie Pollard at 5.3.

Overall the team is averaging 49.3, and defending to a 21.9 tune.

In tonight's contests, Hamlet and West Montgomery meet in the first game, with Smithfield-Selma and Central Cabarrus meeting in the second. Following the North Pitt-East Lincoln game, Manteo and North Buncombe collide. The semifinals are Friday and the finals Saturday.

Pair Battling For The Lead

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer Minnesota and Ohio State are battling once again ... for the Big Ten basketball lead.

The two rivals, who staged a donnybrook last month that resulted in two Minnesota players being suspended, surged back to the top of the wild and woolly Big Ten race Tuesday night. Unranked Minnesota edged Purdue 48-43 and 14th-ranked Ohio State crushed Illinois 103-70 while No. 16 Michigan, which had a half-game lead entering the night's play, bowed to Indiana 79-75 and fell a half-game behind.

The big noise nationally, however, came down South where unheralded North Carolina State stunned third-ranked North Carolina 85-84 on Paul Coder's three-point play with seven seconds left.

Elsewhere, second-ranked Louisville remained atop the Missouri Valley Conference with a 90-85 victory over North Texas State, setting up Thursday night's showdown with Memphis State; fourth-rated Penn ripped St. Joseph's 77-64; No. 9 Marshall downed North Carolina-Charlotte 76-59 and the hectic Southwest Conference race narrowed from a five-to-a three-way tie among defending champion Texas Christian, Texas and Southern Methodist.

Minnesota rallied from a 16-point first-half deficit to turn back Purdue, holding the Boilermakers without a field goal over the final 7½ minutes. Bob Nix, who led the Gophers with 15 points, sank two free throws to tie the game at 39-and his basket with 1:48 remaining sent them ahead to stay.

Ohio State hit 51 per cent of its shots against Illinois, with Allan Hornyak scoring 27 points, Wardell Jackson 23 and Luke Witte 21. Coach Fred Taylor said it was "the best we've played offensively" in more than a month. "The kids have been so grim. Burkie (assistant coach Bob Burkholder) even tried reading them a poem before the game."

Harv Schmidt, Illinois' coach, was more impressed with the Buckeyes' defense, calling it "the best Ohio State defensive team I've seen."

Schmidt then took a look at the Big Ten stretch drive. "Ohio State has a tough game at Indiana, which is playing very well. Minnesota's awesome. Michigan is probably at a disadvantage with two of three on the road."

Aaron Agrees To Big Pact

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hank Aaron, who holds five major league and 11 National League batting records, holds another record of shorts today—he probably is the nation's highest paid baseball player.

Aaron, with 639 career home runs and only 75 away from Babe Ruth's record of 714, signed what was believed to be a three-year contract Tuesday at a salary reportedly in the neighborhood of $200,000 a year. Braves President Bill Bar-point halftime deficit. Joby Wright paced the winners with 24 points while Henry Wilmore had 27 for Michigan. N.C. State's triumph was the 300th for Coach Norman Sloan, who said that nothing could be finer than to beat North Carolina. "If you had to pick a game for your 300th win, it would be against North Carolina."

Coder was the star of the show, scoring the last seven points for the Wolfpack. The loss dropped the Tar Heels into a tie with Virginia for the Atlantic Coast Conference lead.

State led 44-33 at halftime but Carolina roared back and led 84-80 with 1:14 to play. Coder then hit a jump shot and followed with the three-point game-winner. Tommy Burlerson led the Wolfpack with 24 points and Dennis Wuycik had 30 for the losers.

Louisville had trouble with North Texas State's zone press but beat the Eagles at the foul line, sinking 18 of 26 to the losers' nine of 11. Jim Price scored 23 points and Ron Thomas 21 for the Cardinals while Jeryl Sasser paced the low-flying Eagles with 23.

Al Cotler's 25 points sparked Penn over St. Joseph's and earned the Quakers a share of the Philadelphia City Series championship with Temple.

"They look like the best in the East to me," said Jack McKinney, the St. Joseph's coach. "I've seen North and South Carolina and I've seen Penn a few times. I think they're better than North Carolina."

Marshall struggled past UNC-Charlotte despite 19 turnovers as Randy Noll scored 22 points and grabbed 14 rebounds while Mike D'Antoni had 15 points and 13 assists.

"It was one of our poorest games of the season," said Carl Tacy, coach of the 23-2 Thunder Herd.

In the frantic SWC, Texas Christian nipped Texas Tech 89-88 on Jim Ferguson's basket with 26 seconds left, Bobby Rollings scored 21 points as SMU downed Rice 78-69 and Texas shot 55.5 per cent and held off a late Texas A&M charge for an 80-73 triumph. Tech and A&M had been part of the five-way deadlock.

In a meaningless SWC game, Arkansas set a league scoring record by trouncing Baylor 131-109 as Dean Tolson scored 34 points and Martin Terry 33. The old record was 119 points shared by Baylor and Texas A&M.

Quellar, for example, is still in San Juan, Puerto Rico, demanding a $25,000 raise to $90,000. That's about $18,000 more than Cashen has offered. But Quellar is not budging—literally or figuratively.

An Associated Press poll showed only six clubs—San Francisco; Boston, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and the Chicago Cubs—with all athletes signed and satisfied. Or at least signed. Several others are close with only one or two stragglers. And some of those still unsigned are hardly vital operatives.

The 38-year-old Aaron is third behind Ruth in career homers. Willie Mays, 41, has 646.

Hard To Pick Their Favorite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The Carolina Cougars, given a day off by the American Basketball Association schedule-maker could hardly relax Tuesday night.

Sandwiched between Pittsburgh and the Floridians in the three-way fight for fourth place in the ABA's East Division, the Cougars didn't quite know whom to root for when those two clubs went against each other.

The Floridians wound up on top 134-126 and moved one-half game ahead of Carolina in the standings. The loss dropped the Condors 4½ behind the Cougars.

In the only other ABA game played Tuesday night, Utah defeated Memphis 125-115. Al Tucker's 22 points paced

Baltimore Has Ten Holdouts

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer Are the kids crying? Are the bills piling up? Is the boss on your back? Well, quit complaining. If you think you have troubles, consider the problems of Frank Cashen, executive vice president of the Baltimore Orioles.

Today is March 1, the date generally accepted as the official opening of baseball spring training. If a player isn't signed by today, he's considered a holdout. The Baltimore Orioles have 10 players—most of them important ones—who fall into that category.

Cashen, who succeeded California-bound Harry Dalton and inherited the signing headache, enrolled shortstop Mark Belanger and rookie outfielder Don Baylor Tuesday but his situation is easily the most critical in the signing derby.

Still unhappy with terms are infielders Dave Johnson, Boog Powell, Brooks Robinson, and outfielders Don Buford, Paul Blair and Merv Rettenmund, all regular performers for the Birds. Also unsigned are left-hander Mike Cuellar, one of Baltimore's four 20-game winners, rookie flash Bobby Grich and infielders Rich Coggins and Jerry Davanon.

The dissatisfaction is the price Baltimore is paying for three straight American League pennants and apparently, the gap is quite wide in some of the cases at least.

Cuellar, for example, is still in San Juan, Puerto Rico, demanding a $25,000 raise to $90,000. That's about $18,000 more than Cashen has offered. But Cuellar is not budging—literally or figuratively.

An Associated Press poll showed only six clubs—San Francisco; Boston, Minnesota, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and the Chicago Cubs—with all athletes signed and satisfied. Or at least signed. Several others are close with only one or two stragglers. And some of those still unsigned are hardly vital operatives.

The New York Mets, for example, lack only utility outfielder Don Hahn, and their crosstown rivals, the Yankees, are missing only infielder Jerry Kenney. The Los Angeles Dodgers are without only minor league pitcher Mike Strahler and the Detroit Tigers, who got Mickey Lolich to agree to an $85,000 contract Tuesday, have only utility infielder Cesar Gutierrez unsigned.

San Diego's lone holdout is infielder Ed Spiezio and John Briggs, a first baseman, is the only Milwaukee Brewer still unsigned.

Baseball's paid players have some high-priced company also unsigned. Atlanta scraped together a reported $600,000 to satisfy Hank Aaron for the next three years but now the Braves will have to dig down for some more cash to satisfy Orlando Cepeda, Ralph Garr, Rico Carty, Cecil Upshaw and rookie-of-the-year Earl Williams.

Joe Torre, the National League's Most Valuable Player and Vida Blue, MVP and Cy Young Award winner in the American League, are major holdout headaches for St. Louis and Oakland.

Pitcher Clay Carroll, outfielders Hal McRae and Bernie Carbo and shortstop Dave Concepcion still haven't agreed to terms with Cincinnati.

The Chicago White Sox still don't have signed contracts from slugger Dick Allen, outfielder Rick Reichardt and pitcher Joe Horlen although only Horlen, resisting a 20 per cent pay cut, is considered a real problem.

Sluggers Rusty Staub and pitcher Carl Morton were still negotiating with Montreal and Staub in particular was unhappy with the talks. He wants a three-year contract at $100,000 per year but the Expos are holding fast at $90,000 per year for two years.

Philadelphia's Willie Montanez, a 30-homer man as a rookie last year, Frank Howard, Texas' largest Ranger, and California second baseman Sandy Alomar are other unsigned regulars.

Nicklaus Near All-Time Mark

By BOB GREEN

Associated Press Golf Writer MIAMI (AP) — Jack Nicklaus is closing in on one of his most cherished goals—passing Arnold Palmer on the all-time money winning list—and could achieve it with a victory in this week's $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open golf tournament.

"It's something I'd very much like to do, particularly with Arnold still playing," the 32-year-old Nicklaus said Wednesday before a practice round on the 7,065-yard, par 72 Blue Monster Course at the Doral Country Club.

"You always like to be the first in as many categories as possible."

Nicklaus, in his 11th year on the pro tour, picked up $29,840 last week for his second place finish behind Tom Weiskopf in Jackie Gleason's $260,000 Inverrary Classic, the richest event on the schedule this year.

That boosted his career total to $1,447,030.86. Palmer, 42 years old and in his 18th season, beat only one man in the field in the Gleason with finishing rounds of 80-79 and won only $400.

Palmer, the game's all-time leading money winner for about a decade, now has a career total of $1,471,226.83 of which $263,330 was won in the seven years before Nicklaus turned professional, an era of relatively small purses compared with the present multi-million dollar tour.

Nicklaus trails by only $24,195.97. First prize in the Doral-Eastern, which begins its 72-hole run Thursday is $30,000. Palmer, stung by one of his poorest performances in recent years, is not competing.

And Nicklaus, as usual, is one of the favorites in the strong, 144-man field. A victory would vault him into the No. 1 spot on the all-time list with almost $1.5 million.

Some of his chief challengers include Weiskopf, Lee Trevino, Tony Jacklin of England, South African Gary Player, Masters Champion Charles Coody and defending title-holder J.C. Snead.

Trevino showed flashes of his old brilliance last week before fading and said he's now ready to "get down to some serious golf." Player made a run at the title in his first American start of the year and Jacklin has played very well in his last two leading money winner for about

Coder's Free Throw Wins For Wolfpack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"We have worked on these seven-second situations about 80 to 90 times in practice, and it didn't turn out like this," said Coach Dean Smith, whose third-ranked North Carolina basketball team was upset 85-84 at North Carolina State Tuesday night.

"We will execute it better next time," he added, looking to Saturday's home game against Duke which will end the regular season, and to the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament beginning the following Thursday in the Greensboro, N.C., Coliseum.

With seven seconds remaining, Paul Coder hit a free throw that gave the State Wolfpack the game.

Coder, who scored the last seven points for the Wolfpack

West Leads Laker Win

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry West's shooting has earned him the name "Mr. Clutch." So it isn't surprising when his great shooting wins a game.

The Los Angeles Lakers' guard, with 11 years as a professional in the National Basketball Association, was the spark Tuesday night in a 114-111 victory over the New York Knicks.

It was West's field goal after 12 seconds of the fourth quarter that gave the Lakers the lead. It was another Mr. Clutch basket in the last half minute that iced the game for Los Angeles. The 33-year-old star scored 32 points, 22 in the second half.

At an age when many ballplayers are checking their retirement plans, West is checking the opposition for the NBA playoffs. The victory over the Knicks clinched the Pacific Division title for the Lakers and puts the team on a collision course with the Chicago Bulls, the runner-up team in the Midwest Division of the Western Conference.

"It's been a relatively easy season," West said, toiling off after the Knicks' contest. "Coach (Bill) Sharman has been resting me. It makes it easier for me and it helps the team."

Is he thinking retirement? "So many people have retired me," he said. "But I'm not sure what I'm going to do. I'd like to keep playing but I'm just going to wait and see. Meanwhile, I have the playoffs to think about."

Despite a team filled with stars—Wilt Chamberlain, West and the now-retired Elgin Baylor—the Lakers have never won an NBA title. The players are thinking "this is the year."

The Lakers set a professional sports record of 33 straight victories earlier this season, and have a chance at eclipsing the NBA record for victories in a single season. The team needs 12 victories to break the 68-victory record set by Philadelphia in 1966-67.

It appeared another steady performer, the Knicks' Jerry Lucas, held the thunder when he bombed in four straight baskets starting the game. New York held the lead until late in the first quarter, then regained it five minutes later. The Knicks managed to maintain the lead until West's fourth-quarter field goal.

Gail Goodrich backed West's scoring with 28 points while Wilt Chamberlain had 20 and Happy Hairston 14. Lucas' 32 points led the Knicks, who got 20 points from Dick Barnett, 19 from Bill Bradley and 14 from Dean Meminger.

In other NBA action, Milwaukee defeated Detroit 131-113, Seattle edged Baltimore 118-117, Atlanta trimmed Buffalo 99-98, Chicago thumped Portland 116-92, and Golden State topped Cincinnati 128-120.

John Block paced Milwaukee's closing spurt, which handed Detroit its seventh loss in eight games. Block scored 17 of his 21 points in the second half but still finished as the Bucks' second-highest scorer to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar who had 34. Bob Lanier had 35 points for the Pistons while Curtis Rowe had 24 and Jimmy Walker 21.

Spencer Haywood's 28 points, Dick Snyder's 28 and Lenny Wilkens' 25 were just enough for Seattle to defeat battling Baltimore in overtime. Wilkens scored four points in the extra period. Archie Clark led the Bullets with 32 points while Jack Marin had 28.

hit a field goal to tie the score at 84-all, and then was fouled by George Karl to set up the game-winning toss.

It was the 300th victory over Norman Sloan, the N.C. State coach, and he said, "If you had to pick a game for your 300th win it would be against North Carolina. We finally won our one-point game." His team has lost three one-pointers in the conference.

North Carolina led 84-80 with 1:14 to play. Smith said in the post-mortem, "When you come from behind and get ahead like we did, there's a danger that you feel you have it won."

Smith was 41 years old two days ago. He had commented at the time that he couldn't think of a better present than winning the N.C. State game, which would clinch the regular-season conference title for the Tar Heels.

But North Carolina and Virginia now are tied with identical 8-3 records in the league and 20-4 in all games.

Maryland and Duke are tied for third place at 6-4, N.C. State is next at 5-6, and then come Wake Forest 3-7 and Clemson 1-10.

Regular-season games remaining are Duke at Clemson and Wake Forest at Maryland tonight, and this schedule on Saturday:

Duke at North Carolina, Virginia at Maryland, N.C. State at Wake Forest, and Clemson at South Carolina.

Any ties at the end of the regular season will be resolved at an 11 a.m. meeting Sunday at the Greensboro office of ACC Commissioner Bob James.

The No. 1 finisher over the season will receive a first-round bye in the seven-team championship tournament.

If two teams tie for a position, a coin toss will determine the seeding. If more than two tie for the same spot, a drawing will be held.

The No. 2 finisher will open its tournament bid against No. 7; No. 3 will play No. 6 and No. 4 will play No. 5.

If two teams tie for a position and one won both of their regular season ACC games, it will get the higher spot and no coin toss will be needed. If they split the home-and-home play, the tie will be broken Sunday.

Some Stamps Are Issued For Profit Or Propaganda

MAO TSE-TUNG and his quotations were printed on the Communist Chinese stamps (top), and in Taiwan the government issued stamps (bottom) depicting achievements of Pres. Chiang Kai-shek. (UPI Telephoto)

By FREDERICK H. MARKS
TOKYO (UPI)—Asian countries are issuing a wide variety of postage stamps—big and little, silk and three dimensional—and the purpose is usually either profit or propaganda.

While some serious philatelists turn thumbs down because many of the issues obviously are aimed at collectors and not put out for postal purposes, the stamps can be a good governmental revenue source.

It's difficult to pin down just how high profits are in the stamp-issuing business, because some countries make no distinction between general stamp sales and sales to collectors. And other countries, such as the tiny Himalayan Buddhist Kingdom of Bhutan, keep the figures a closely guarded secret.

But of the countries which do keep records, Nationalist China earns the most on stamps—$750,000 in 1970, up from $500,000 in 1969. Singapore made $400,000 in 1970, while South Korea added $380,000 to government coffers solely from sales to collectors.

The Biggest Stamp
 The competition is keen. Several years ago, for instance, Laos put out what may have been the world's biggest stamp—two inches by an inch-and-a-half. Not to be outdone, the Philippines is now producing a series of stamps the exact same size.

Then there's Bhutan where the royal government issued its first stamps in 1962. Stamps represented the first attraction for foreign exchange so Bhutan has continued to put out more issues each year.

In 1967, Bhutan issued the world's first three dimensional stamps. A later issue of Bhutan stamps was printed on metal foil and a more recent issue reproduced sacred scroll paintings on silk. All of Bhutan's stamps are printed overseas, a common practice among Asian countries.

The wide exposure of stamps to the general public makes them a good propaganda medium. In Taiwan, the government issues stamps depicting the achievements of President Chiang Kai-shek, such as a recent issue designed to demonstrate land reform and economic prosperity.

Marcos on Stamp
 Philippines President Ferdinand Marcos is featured on several of his country's stamps, and in South Vietnam some special issues have been used to spread word about agricultural reform programs, general mobilization and community development.

In South Korea opposition parties in 1970 denounced the issue of a million stamps showing the face of President Park Chung Kee—just one year before an election.

Postage stamps in Singapore mainly are designed to emphasize national unity among various races—Chinese, Malay, Indian and others—by showing aspects of each group's culture and traditions.

The abundance of Asian stamps has caused some philatelists to shy away from them and one Hong Kong expert says with a sniff:

"With few exceptions, Asian stamps have little appeal except to local collectors. Laos and Bhutan are not popular with serious collectors and dealers (because) they produce far too many special issues for their own postal use, plus imperforates, and miniature sheets."

The same expert notes, however, that some of the Japanese and Ryukyus stamps are well-designed and printed. "Japan's miniature sheets really have no postal value, but they're collectors items and worth their weight in moon-dust," he said.

Special Events Issues
 Most Asian countries seize on anniversary events and holidays for special issues of stamps, as well as visits by other heads of state and the Olympics.

One event that rated special issues all over Asia was Expo 70, Japan's World Fair held in Osaka.

Japan has issued a plethora of special stamps this year to commemorate the Winter Olympics in Sapporo.

India puts out between 20 and 25 new issues annually, followed closely by Pakistan, with an average of 20 new stamps each year. Most countries, however, limit their special issues to between eight and twelve.

Some of the more colorful stamps issued in the region are from Australia, and Australia is one of the few Asian countries printing its own stamps.

The postage stamp business is not limited to the non-Communist countries of Asia. Communist China issues both regular stamps and special issues. Last year, for instance, China's ministry of communications issued a set of four stamps commemorating the Afro-Asian table tennis invitational tournament.

Speed-Read Course Set

A course in reading improvement — both speed and comprehension — will be offered on Monday evenings by the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education.

Anyone who wishes to improve his reading ability, vocabulary and use of English may enroll in the course. It is especially designed to correct inefficient reading habits which are widespread among adults.

Classes will meet each week, March 13-May 15, in the ECU Education-Psychology Building.

Instructor is Dr. Keith Holmes of ECU School of Education faculty. A reading specialist, Dr. Holmes holds degrees from Cornell and Columbia Universities.

Further information and registration forms are available from the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville.

Since class size is limited to 25 persons, DCE officials urge early enrollment.

Dallas Uncovers Indian Relics

DALLAS (AP) — Hundreds of Indian artifacts, some believed to date back to 5,000 B.C., have been unearthed by two police officers around the Farmer's Branch intersection of Interstate 35 and LBJ Expressway.

Patrolman Frank LaRue and Don Norman, a dispatcher, have been finding arrowheads, tomahawks, grindstones, pottery, teeth and human skeletons since they started scouring the area two and a half years ago.

The Great Geysir in Iceland is the namesake for spouting springs throughout the world.

Age Sees Equal Susceptibility

NEW YORK (UPI)—While it is true that men are more prone to heart attacks than women, this statistical edge for women begins to fade as they grow older.

Says the Institute of Life Insurance: "After menopause, women begin to gain on men in probability of a heart attack. By age 70 the two sexes are almost equally susceptible."

District Meeting On Thursday For League Of Municipalities

"Greenville will be adequately represented," City Manager Harry Hagerty commented about the district meeting of the North Carolina League of Municipalities being held in Kinston on Thursday.

Hagerty pointed out that the representation from Greenville would have been much greater except for a conflict caused by the regularly scheduled meeting of the City Council on Thursday night.

The district meeting, hosted by Kinston Mayor Simon C. Sitterton Jr. and the Kinston aldermen, is an afternoon event that continues into the evening hours.

Mayors, governing board members, city managers and other key municipal officials from more than 50 towns in the area are expected to be on hand.

S. Leigh Wilson, executive director of the League, will present a program designed to bring the latest information on League programs and services to the guests. In addition, recommendations for legislation needed in the 1973 General Assembly will be solicited from those attending.

The major issue of the meeting is expected to be the scheduled May 6 referendum on the statewide Clean Water Bond. The act would authorize North Carolina to spend $150 million over a five-year period in grants to local governments to provide assistance in improving sewage treatment systems and water supply systems.

Similar district meetings are slated between now and April 6 in Elizabeth City, Rocky Mount, Whiteville, Laurinburg, Lexington, Graham, Canton and Hickory.

Tower Of Pisa Leaning Further

PISA, Italy (AP) — An international tender will be called by 1975 for funds and ideas to stop the Tower of Pisa from leaning further with the threat of falling, Public Works Minister Salvatore Lauricella has announced.

A commission of 25 experts has studied the changes in the tower's stability. The tower is 4.4 meters off center, and its inclination increases by one millimeter a year.

The government has set aside $5.5 million for the work.

Five Principles Of Chou Nag Other Asian Leaders

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
This was Chou En-lai speaking.

"The Chinese people are friendly to the American people and do not want a war with the United States. The Chinese government is willing to sit down and enter into negotiations with the United States to discuss relaxation of tension in the Far East and specifically in the Taiwan area."

The Chinese Communist premier spoke those words 17 years ago.

Recalling them, leaders in other nations of Asia may entertain some nagging misgivings about what went on between Chou and President Nixon.

Back in Washington after his meetings with Chou and Mao Tse-tung, the President reported that he agreed with the Peking leaders on "some rules of international conduct which will reduce the risk of confrontation in Asia and the Pacific."

The two pledged themselves to "conduct their relations on the principles of respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity of all states, nonaggression against other states, noninterference in the internal affairs of other states, equality and mutual benefit and peaceful coexistence."

Those are, word for word, the same "five principles of coexistence" that were much in the news 17 years ago when Chou represented China at an Asian-African conference in Bandung, Indonesia. Chou was a chief advocate there of the five principles.

Only a short time before the Bandung meeting, Chou had met in India with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru. Both endorsed those same "five principles of peaceful coexistence."

They also agreed that the United States was a colonialist menace to Asia. That was seven or eight years before China and India went to war over their border dispute. Their relations remain bad to this day.

Chou made his remarks about eagerness for peace with the United States at a time when Red China was weak. It had not recovered from the upheavals that followed the revolution. Also, it had spent much energy and resources at war against the Americans in Korea. It was in a poor situation to invite risks.

Today the Chinese again are in no situation to take risks. They have not recovered from the three violent years of the cultural revolution that turned the party and government structure inside out in a vast purge. That purge has been succeeded by others, the most recent of which struck at the highest levels, toppling Lin Piao, the defense minister and Mao's assigned heir. His fall seemed directly concerned with resistance to the idea of receiving the U.S. president on Chinese soil.

True, China doesn't want to go to war with the United States. Since Korea it never has. Both Mao and Chou have said so explicitly.

But the five principles of coexistence did not preclude another sort of conflict. Although the principles pledged China to stay out of others' affairs, China was, for example, directly involved in Indonesia in a 1965 Communist attempt to take over that vast island nation. The attempt blew up because of miscalculations and resulted in the destruction of a Chinese-oriented party.

The five principles did not dissuade Peking from supporting, as it still does, "Thai Patriotic Front," a "Malaysian Liberation League," and other such organizations with headquarters in China. The principles did not stop Peking from sending logistic support, labor troops and munitions to Laos and Vietnam or from interfering in Cambodia's internal politics, nor from actively supporting violent Maoists in India and Burma.

Perhaps Red China's support of violence externally was dictated by fear of the United States. The idea of a U.S. military disengagement from the mainland could provide Peking with an opportunity to uphold the five principles.

But some will recall uneasily that when the Chinese-dominated Indonesian party suffered its debacle, Peking's response was to declare that the Indonesian party "learned with profound understanding the inevitable truth of the great leader Chairman Mao that political power grows out of the barrel of a gun."

MADDOX GETS WIG — Georgia's Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox came to work with his bald head (left) and after lunch he was sporting a new wig (right). Maddox said it took him 30 years to lose his hair and 30 minutes to get it back. He took quite a ribbing from the Senators while he presided all afternoon over the Georgia Senate.

'Cherry Hill Fats' Moving To Protect New Image

By ROSLYN BARBAROSH
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) —
Sylvan Scolnick is leaving suburban Cherry Hill, N.J., an event of about the same magnitude as the moving of the London Bridge to Arizona.

Scolnick, who looks like a 600-pound elf, is better known as "Cherry Hill Fats." And the reason he is moving is to protect his new image.

Scolnick has over the years gained a reputation as a wheeler-dealer, the J.P. Morgan of the phony bankruptcy field and the Caruso of stool pigeons.

"Maybe after I move out of here they won't call me Cherry Hill anymore," he said. "I'm tired of being a freak in a side-show."

Scolnick, 41, also is attacking his image on another level. He's taken off 30 pounds, bringing his weight down, he said,

"to a little, but not very much, below 650 pounds."

Scolnick moves very slowly. But his mind moves at racing car speed. He talks fast and can think up a con for almost any kind of business transaction you can think of.

Chances are he's probably already pulled it off to the tune of a few million dollars.

"I was into everything illegal," Scolnick said.

Scolnick is on 30 years probation following imprisonment of 44 months for a series of intricate bankruptcy frauds in the early 1960s that allegedly netted him and his associates millions of dollars. Probation came after he also pleaded guilty to arson, burglary and conspiracy.

From the time he had a near fatal heart attack in 1958 until his house of cards fell in on him in 1966, Scolnick hustled a lot of bucks, about $20 million, he claims. "The doctor didn't give me a plug nickel," Scolnick said of his heart attack, which he blames for his entrance into a "life of crime."

"I looked around, no money, no insurance," he said. "If anything happened to me, my wife left alone, family, nobody to depend on. So when I pulled through, I went into the bankruptcy business. I said to myself I'm gonna get myself together, make $50,000 or $100,000, at least leave some money for my family."

Scolnick is still concerned about supporting his family, and he's still making good money, not as fast as he used to, but at least this time he claims its legal.

Since his release from the Federal Penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., Scolnick has been in the advertising business. Using a friend as a salesman, Scol-nick puts together advertising packages—sales, ads, billboards, time and space.

Most of his clients don't know who he is, and some of them are well-known corporations. "Not everyone is used to Sylvan Scolnick," he explained. "Some people back away at the name. I can understand that."

But Scolnick, still the slick salesman, counters with three major selling points why he is a "better risk than anybody on the street."

"I can't afford any slips," he said. "Second, anything questionable I walk away from. Anyhow, No. 3, I try harder. I have more at stake."

Scolnick's first venture into the bankruptcy business, in partnership with his father-in-law, Morris Stein, left 532 creditors with a shortage of $534,000.

Stein eventually went to jail with his son-in-law on charges of concealment of assets. By the time the federal government discovered the bilking, the statute of limitations had run out on the fraud and violation of national bankruptcy act charges.

The first insurance fraud was a $643,000 arson job, on March 26, 1965, that involved 13 businesses and injured two firemen in the Frankford section of Philadelphia. Dist. Atty. Arlen Spector called the fire "the largest arson in Philadelphia."

Scolnick testified he hired Sidney Brooks to set fire to Regency Builders, Inc., for $4,000. "I didn't expect the whole block to go up," Scolnick said.

Scolnick and Brooks got together again in December 1965, to steal back Brooks' $100,000 that the Internal Revenue Service had sealed in a safety deposit box in the Philadelphia Savings Fund Society for back taxes.

Scolnick said he told Brooks to keep hiring deposit boxes until he could get one next to the sealed one. Then one day in December, Brooks threw a brick through the bank window as a diversionary action. Two accomplices took the guard's set of keys to the box, and were supposed to switch the boxes and leave. The next day one of them was to return and take the money out of the switched box. When the crime would be discovered several months later when Brooks' trial came up, he was to sue the bank for insurance on the $100,000.

"I told him to make sure that he don't open the box, that he don't remove it," Scolnick said, explaining what went wrong. "They opened it and got so excited when they saw the $100,000, they ran out of the bank. If he'd switched it, they couldn't have arrested him. Then there would have been no crime. We were all charged with stealing the metal box. They couldn't make the other stick—the impounded $100,000—it was Brook's money."

The accomplices were arrested and implicated Brooks and Scolnick. Brooks, who was eventually arrested in Rhodesia, implicated Scolnick in the fire and several other schemes.

That's when Scolnick began singing to the district attorney, the FBI, anybody who would listen to him.

By the time he finished telling all, Spector had to call a moratorium on Scolnick's cases because he was backing up the court so much. Scolnick is still singing, and a U.S. Marshall delivering court subpoenas is still a familiar figure in his Cherry Hill home.

Meanwhile, Scolnick had been living high.

"I spent more money than is in the U.S. Mint," he said. I don't think the government has that much gold in Fort Knox, because as fast as the money came in it went out."

Scolnick sighed as he reminisced.

"I printed DuPont paint labels," Scolnick grinned. "And they (the authorities) thought I was printing money so, when the Secret Service broke in they found all these cans of paint," he said, doubling over with laughter. "I'm trying to get my press back now, I need it."

"The paint was just like sour cream. I used to put this muck in that looked just like lucite. But after you painted with it a good rainstorm would wash it away just like nothing."

It cost Scolnick 45 cents per can of paint. He sold it to auction houses for $2 a gallon, who would in turn sell it to the public for $3.50-$4 a gallon.

The Worry Clinic Hobbies Curb Delinquency

Note the superb hobbies that Arnold and Edna both have picked! Instead of squandering church money on indicted criminals, why not subsidize the primary classes with Arnold's musical instrument? For music is ideal insurance against delinquency!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

Case T-514: Arnold Lassen took his graduate work in psychology at the University of Iowa.

Then he became a topnotch executive with a Chicago food corporation until his recent retirement.

"Dr. Crane," he smilingly informed me, "I have now taken up a couple of new hobbies.

"For I ride a bicycle every day.

"And also play the harmonica. Indeed, I have organized a group of harmonica fans, so we put on concerts at Nursing Homes and have appeared on radio.

"In fact, I wish all the children in the primary grades could now be taught to play a harmonica."

Harmonica Hobby

William Shakespeare would undoubtedly approve of Arnold's suggestion about teaching ALL kiddies to play the harmonica (mouth harp).

For many youngsters can't afford a violin or even a guitar, nor do their homes have a piano. But music is a vital form of spiritual food.

"It ranks next to Vitamin 'R' (Religion) in the early training of kiddies.

Shakespeare lauded music as follows:

"The man that hath no music in himself, 'Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, 'Is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils."

Notice how John Erskine also praises the peaceful influence of music:

"Music is the only language in which you cannot say a mean or sarcastic thing."

Last summer I spoke at a Sunday School class party of men and women in the Senior Citizens category.

And Edna Harris, aged 85, entertained the group with her harmonica!

Last summer, too, a famous "Harmonica Contest" was held in 30 American cities.

TV stations cooperated to help promote this widespread indulgence in musicmaking by boys and girls.

Remember, a child who can play even one simple ditty on his harmonica is more pleased thereby than if you took him to the opera!

For "audience participation" is the keynote to effective motivation of children regarding music and all other cultural subjects.

The harmonica is not an expensive musical instrument. And it quickly lets a child play his favorite tunes, for if he can whistle a melody, he can soon play it on his harmonica.

A generation ago, kiddies would whistle tunes and enjoy making music in that manner. Whistling has now largely disappeared, so the harmonica offers an even better type of musical indulgence.

And experts like Arnold Lassen can astound you with their "symphonic" effects on a harmonica.

It permits cultural recreation for city urchins who may be living in cramped quarters.

For it isn't enough just to strengthen a child's muscles on a civic playground!

He also needs exercise of spiritual values via music and religion!

So urge your Sunday Schools, and public primary grades, to sponsor "audience participation" music via the harmonica.

Harmonicas are excellent insurance against juvenile delinquency!

The king and ace of spades cleared up the trumps and now South's sole concern was to avoid losing four tricks in the red suits. While he would have to play diamonds himself, there was a way to make the opponents open up the heart suit for him. But, first it was necessary to strip out clubs.

The ace of clubs was cashed and a third round ruffed with

Red Ink Prospect Isn't Worrying N.C. Candidates

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina gubernatorial candidates aren't worrying too much about forecasts by Gov. Bob Scott's administration that the state will be in the red by the end of the decade.

Most of the hopefuls said they would meet the prediction by improving the state's tax base and not by raising taxes. Some said they would revamp the state's whole tax structure or that they would make better use of current revenue sources through improved business and budgeting practices.

A few indicated their willingness to raise taxes if it appeared necessary.

Scott released Feb. 17 a study by the Research Triangle Institute which indicated that if state services and taxes are maintained at their present levels, the state will have a $411 million deficit by 1980.

Since the state is required to have a balanced budget, this would mean that services would have to be reduced or more revenues raised to cover the projected deficit.

The report said, "Based on a projection of the continuation of past trends, a potentially serious problem is indicated for fiscal year 1980-81... The primary reason for the magnitude of this projected deficit is that the state's personal income is not projected to grow at as great a rate in the 1970s as it has during the 1960s...

"Any programs calling for the delivery of an improved quality of services would, of course, require increased expenditures over those shown and a correspondingly larger deficit if revenues are not also increased," it said.

Scott said candidates who aspire to lead the state in four of the eight years covered by the prediction should be pinned down on what services they plan to expand, how they will pay for them or what others they will cut. Even some of the candidates who said they would not raise taxes but would work for an increase in personal income agreed that, if their programs don't succeed, the governor who serves from 1976 to 1980 may face drastic financial decisions.

Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles of Greensboro, who is running for the Democratic nomination, noted that the projection was based on a continuation of recent trends in personal income.

But, he said, "We're out to reverse that trend. I'm not willing for North Carolina to continue to have the worst paid industrial workers in the nation."

He said his extensive vocational education proposal, the keystone of his campaign was aimed at reversing this situation.

Two other Democrats candidates who are both wooing the same segment of the population—blacks, young people, women, liberals and union workers—said they would revamp the whole tax structure if elected. They are Wilbur Hobby, state AFL-CIO president, and Reginald Hawkins, a black Charlotte dentist.

Hobby said he would announce next week a "blockbuster" plan to redistribute the state's tax load, shifting more of the burden from the people to industry and business.

He indicated that a key portion of his program will be the long-standing union goal of making the state income tax a specific percentage of the amount of federal tax a person contender, Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor, could not be reached. But his campaign manager, Lindsay Warren, said, "His basic position in this area is that he hopes it will not be necessary to levy any new taxes during the next administration."

He said Taylor would try to emphasize savings and economy in government but that the question of taxes will really depend on "the services people want."

Taylor has said previously that he is flexible on the tax question and would not hesitate to ask the legislature for new or expanded levies if he thought they were necessary to provide essential services.

Warren said Taylor would be "strongly against" the state moving to deficit financing.

Another Republican candidate, Jim Gardner of Rocky Mount, could not be reached directly. He has avoided news conferences and interviews since he announced for the race and has not made public statements about taxes or fiscal policy.

An aide, Bill Brantley of Rocky Mount, said Gardner is opposed to new taxes and rejects the notion that services can't be raised without them.

rate is slowing down. He said his four terms in the state House led him to believe that, with "the increase in revenue we're going to have, the size of the surplus we're going to have, the economies we can bring forth in reorganization and some improvements in the budget process itself, I think we can get the job done without an increase in taxes."

Holshouser said, "On a continuing basis, state government can't expect to raise the level of services periodically without raising taxes or the tax base. It's going to be incumbent on the next governor to take the lead in raising the income level in the state."

"You owe it to the continuing governmental process to look not just at the four years you're going to be in office. If we don't improve our state income situation, we're going to be leaving somebody holding the bag somewhere down the road."

"I have confidence in my own ability to make it work," Holshouser said.

An aide, Bill Brantley of Rocky Mount, said Gardner is opposed to new taxes and rejects the notion that services can't be raised without them.

Brantley said the candidates would try to introduce good business practices to state government, broaden the tax base and reorder spending priorities. He said he thought Gardner would have a public statement of his priorities soon.

Another candidate, Democrat Gene Leggett of Harkers Island, said, "We don't need to raise a penny of taxes. The state is squandering millions of dollars in taxpayers' money."

He said he would recommend drastic budget cuts in such areas as welfare, and would advocate liquor by the drink as a revenue measure.

Democrat Zeb Vance Kitchin Dickson of Eden said he would not raise taxes "unless it is absolutely necessary." He said he would first have to study how money is being spent now.

Morgan Ordered 'Look Into' Whitmire Charges

RALEIGH (AP) — The question of whether a western North Carolina highway commissioner has violated the state's conflict of interest law will be investigated at Gov. Bob Scott's request.

The Raleigh News and Observer said in a copyrighted article in Tuesday's editions that crushed stone taken from a quarry owned by Commissioner E. J. Whitmire of Franklin was being sold to the state.

"I have no facts at this time on which to take any action," Scott said in a prepared statement Tuesday. "There has been only the story by a reporter in the local paper and that certainly does not make the charge a fact as anybody who reads this paper knows."

Scott said he was asking Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan "to look into the matter to determine for me all the facts as to whether there is any conflict of interest by Mr. Whitmire."

The newspaper quoted Whitmire as saying he was "reasonably sure" he had not violated any state law.

The attorney general checked out Whitmire's quarry connections in 1969 at the request of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

In September, 1969, Morgan said Whitmire would not have conflict of interest provided his firm refrained from doing business directly or indirectly with the highway commission.

The News and Observer reported it had learned that stone from a quarry at Penrose was being sold to the commission. Whitmire owned half the quarry before he became a commissioner in 1969 and bought the other half last year, the newspaper said.

It also reported that payments for the stone were made by the state to Ernest Childers, who worked for Whitmire for many years. Childers was quoted as saying he is the head of Macon Equipment Co. and that the corporation was "signed over" to him by Whitmire in January, 1970.

Meanwhile, Republican gubernatorial candidate Jim Holshouser issued a statement calling on Gov. Scott to investigate members of the Highway Commission and "kick out those who are doing business with the commission."

Holshouser also criticized the commission's budget and accounting procedures. At the same time, he called for a complete list of all corporations and individuals doing business with the commission for the last 24 months.

Under North Carolina law, it is a felony for a highway commissioner to furnish or sell supplies or materials directly or indirectly to the commission. Violation is punishable by a fine of not more than $20,000 or three times the value of the transaction, or both the fine and imprisonment.

Trio Convicted In Philippines

ANGELES CITY, Philippines (AP) — A Philippine court judge convicted three U.S. Air Force sergeants Wednesday of abducting a 25-year-old Filipino woman and sentenced them to prison terms ranging from 4 to 17 years. They were also ordered to pay the woman a total of $1,650 damages.

All three men pleaded innocent and announced they would appeal their sentences.

They were Donald McDaniel, Portsmouth, Va., sentenced to 10 to 17 years; Hiawatha R. Lane, Rocky Mount, N.C., 4 to 10 years, and Bernard Williams, Fieldsboro, N.J., 4 to 10 years.

Williams and Lane were convicted of being McDaniel's accomplices.

The alleged abduction of Pelagia Malquista occurred on Sept. 5, 1968, while the three Americans were stationed at Clark Air Force Base, adjoining Angeles City.

The case became a cause célèbre in Philippine-American relations when the Air Force transferred Williams to North Dakota in September, 1969, a month before the trial was to begin before Judge Ceferino Gaddi.

Gaddi and others charged that the transfer of Williams symbolized a lack of respect for Philippine justice on the part of American authorities.

The Air Force said his transfer had been due to a clerical error. But when it tried to return him to the Philippines, he went to the U.S. courts, claiming he could not get a fair trial in the islands.

Last month the U.S. Supreme Court refused to review a lower court ruling authorizing Williams' transfer, and he was returned to Clark base this week. Meanwhile, Lane and McDaniel had remained at the base north of Manila, and Gaddi refused to try them without Williams.

No Charges In Bicycle Mishap

No charges were placed in a 7:40 p.m. mishap yesterday on Elm Street, 200 feet South of the Brookgreen Drive intersection that resulted in a bicycle rider being injured.

Police reported Gary Michael Dancy, 14, of 1505 Greenville Blvd. was injured when the bicycle he was riding was involved in a collision with a car driven by Robert Charles Joyner, 16, of 205 Eastern St. Damage to the bicycle was set at $25 while no damage resulted to the car.

New Recreation Program To Be Explained Here

A public meeting to explain the newest recreation program in town will be held Friday night at 7:30 in the Eppes Gymnasium.

Boyd Lee executive director of the Greenville Recreation Department, announced that with the lease with the Greenville City School Board now in effect and repairs to the building complete, the program planned will be discussed and members of the staff introduced.

Ronald Darden has been named as Recreation Supervisor at Eppes. Darden is a Greenville native, a graduate of Eppes High School, class of 1967, and attended Elizabeth City State University.

The public is invited to attend and to be prepared to offer ideas they may have that can be incorporated into the recreation program at Eppes.
