Budget Study Material Given City School Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

As regularly as the coming of spring, members of the Greenville City School board are faced with homework in the city schools annual school budget.

At the March meeting of the board held Monday night, Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, presented each board member a spiral bound document, Future Directions for School Financing, containing the "Budget Proposal and Supportive Data, 1972-1973 Greenville City Schools."

"This is the most detailed preliminary budget in the history of the city schools," Dr. Cleetwood commented.

Because of the extensive amount of material to be studied by board members, a decision was reached to conduct a workshop study by the board next Monday, with a full public hearing at a later date prior to adoption of the budget at the April meeting.

Also in monetary matters, it was disclosed that only between 40 to 50 percent of the second $2.00 part of the per pupil fees for instructional supplies had been collected to date. Pointing out that the uncollected fees represented a sizeable amount of about $6,000, board member Dr. James Bearden asked that Dr. Cleetwood take whatever action is needed to collect the additional authorized fees.

A decision to continue the present policy of not issuing honor roll lists in the Greenville schools was confirmed by the board. Dr. Cleetwood remarked that "generally honor rolls are self-defeating." He noted that the average or poor student passing or doing good work received no rewards for their efforts which were often more diligent than efforts of brighter students who could maintain high averages with little or no effort.

Charles Ross, director of elementary education, said that in the elementary schools, issuing of honor rolls was an impossibility due to the system of non-gradedness now in effect.

Following appearances by residents of Pinewood Forest Subdivision, both for and against an annexation request for including the area in the Greenville School District, school board members approved taking the subdivision into the city school district. This matter will now go to the Pitt County School board for its action. Approximately 30 school age children are living in the area and are now attending the Winterville schools.

A review of school personnel status at this point in the school year shows eight teachers scheduled for mandatory retirement at the end of the school year, based on having reached the age of 65. A total of seven end-of-year resignations have been received, with one resignation also received to be effective at the end of March. Another teacher, who had been on sick leave due to an extended illness, is now back on the job.

A closed session of the school board has been set for April 20 for a full board review of professional personnel appraisal. Dr. Cleetwood noted such a meeting is one of the rare exceptions of board meetings which under most circumstances are open to the news media and the public.

Board member Lester Turnage reported on the status of progress for the proposed new middle-junior high school. Turnage disclosed he had met earlier Monday with members of the County Commissioners in connection with an appraisal of the 30 acre area being studied as a site for the school. Turnage explained that prior to official action by the commissioners, demographic studies on students, street plans, soil boring tests and other studies had to be submitted. The board authorized necessary expenditures needed to carry out the required studies.

Approvals were given for renewal of the agreement between the city schools and the Boys' Club for the use of Aycock facilities as a summer use site; and for an easement grant to the Greenville Utilities Commission to lay a power line

Illinois A Question Of Muskie Margin

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine battles two Democratic rivals in dual Illinois presidential primary contests today, seeking a boost for his shaken White House campaign in the crowded elections ahead.

Two million Illinois voters were expected to cast ballots, well over half of them in the Democratic primary.

The primary matched Muskie and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in a presidential preference poll, and Muskie, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and an uncommitted slate of candidates in a contest for 160 of the 170 Illinois delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

At least half the delegates, and probably more, are expected to be chosen uncommitted to any candidate, but set to follow the lead of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Muskie is expected to win easily in the preferential contest, which is not binding, and to capture more delegates than McGovern.

The question is one of margins, and Muskie needs big ones to regain the campaign momentum he lost in the first two primaries—New Hampshire, where he won with 46.4 per cent of the vote, and Florida, where he ran a fourth with 9 per cent.

In the Democratic preference race, the stakes were only psychological. McCarthy said he expected to get at least 30 per cent of the vote. "Anybody ought to get 30 per cent," he said on election eve.

Muskie managers aimed for at least a 65 per cent showing against what they considered a McCarthy-McGovern tandem in the preferential and delegate contests.

A big, two-way showing in Illinois would give Muskie a badly needed lift as he heads into Wisconsin for an April 4 primary that matches the entire Democratic field, with 12 candidates on the ballot.

Nobody appears to have found a national issue to turn on the Democrats in Illinois. In Ottawa Monday, Muskie sounded the national unity theme he has stressed throughout his campaign.

"We must find what will unite us and get us moving in the same direction," he said. "That is the main challenge of this campaign."

Most Labor Members Of Pay Board Reported On Brink Of Quitting

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority of the five labor members on President Nixon's Pay Board reportedly is on the brink of quitting the board to protest White House wage-price regulations.

"We're closer to walking off the Pay Board than at any time since Phase 2 began," said one high source in the AFL-CIO, which has three members on the labor-industry-public board. One Pay Board member, President Floyd Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said he is ready to vote at a labor summit meeting Wednesday to walk off the board.

A high source in the United Auto Workers said, however, that his union isn't ready to give up its seat on the Pay

Board, and the Teamsters union also is reported reluctant to quit. The Teamsters and Auto Workers are not affiliated with the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO. The five labor members previously have worked closely on Pay Board matters.

"I don't believe we're doing much good sitting there, and I don't think it would affect us very much if we left," Smith said of his desire that labor quit the Pay Board.

He said he believed the other AFL-CIO representatives on the Pay Board—AFL-CIO President George Meany and President I.W. Abel of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers—share his view.

But a source close to Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock said he does not think the labor members will resign from the Pay Board.

"I don't think that's going to happen. If we leave the board, we would get it in the eye worse," the source said.

The Auto Workers and Machinists unions suffered the first contract rejection when a majority of the 15-member Pay Board voted to order wage hikes for thousands of aerospace-workers rolled back from about 12 per cent to roughly 8 per cent.

The latest Pay Board rejection ordered pay increases for 15,000 West Coast longshoremen reduced from 20.9 per cent to 14.9 per cent. That prompted Meany to call Wednesday's labor summit meeting.

Sources said Wednesday's meeting at AFL-CIO headquarters may also decide whether the longshoremen's unions will follow through on earlier hints to renew strikes on all coasts to protest the contract rejection.

Sharp Drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices dropped sharply today in fairly active trading as unfavorable news concerning devaluation of the dollar touched off heavy selling.

The 11 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 10.39 points at 930.76.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, declines outnumbered advances by four to one.

Analysts said investors were concerned about reports that there might be a delay in the devaluation of the dollar that could trigger renewed monetary speculation.

The Wall Street Journal said Tuesday that the Treasury might wait until a related appropriations bill is passed before notifying the International Monetary Fund of the dollar's new value, instead of notifying the IMF of the value when the devaluation bill itself is passed.

Analysts said the reports were providing incentive for some investors to take profits on stocks that recently gained in price.

Approve School Year Calendar

Plan Number 4 of six proposals offered for the 1972-1973 school year calendar was approved by the Greenville City School Board at the March meeting.

Under this plan, students in the city schools will report for orientation on Friday, August 25, with the first full day of school set for Monday, August 28.

Dr. Cleet C. Cleetwood, superintendent of the Greenville City Schools, explained that for the first time, the school year would be comprised of 187 school days. Of this number, 180 are full school days for students, one an orientation day, and six days are teacher workdays. The six days are an increase from the four workdays authorized by the state in the current and past school years.

Holidays tentatively set for the 1972-73 school year include: Labor Day, Monday, September 4; Thanksgiving holidays,

Thursday and Friday, November 23 and 24; Christmas holidays, Thursday, December 21 through Monday, January 1 inclusive; Easter holidays, Thursday, April 19 through Tuesday, April 24.

Under this calendar, the final school day for students is Thursday, May 31. Student holidays (days provided for teachers to attend conferences and to complete in between term work on tests, etc.), will fall in the coming school year on Friday, October 20; Wednesday, November 1; Friday, January 19; and Wednesday, May 23.

Rose High students have also asked that consideration be given to taking one of the two days reserved for make up days to be used as a student holiday sometime between the one scheduled in January and the one in May, as this makes a long stretch without a student holiday.

FBI Asked To Join Search For 25 Escapees Of Cincinnati Jail

By BILL VALE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The FBI was asked today to join in a search for 25 prisoners, four of them charged with murder, who escaped from the Hamilton County jail in downtown Cincinnati Monday night.

The inmates, including four women, overpowered guards and obtained handguns in fleeing the sixth-floor lockup in civilian clothes.

Officers initially reported three escapees were caught but H. D. Culler, chief deputy sheriff, said 27 persons made the initial break and only two men were recaptured within the jail building.

Culler said the break apparently was engineered by four prisoners and that one used a foreign made .32-caliber gun at the start of the break.

The FBI was asked to help after officials said a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid confinement could be filed against escapees.

As the prisoners fled, officials said, they seized four pistols and a teargas gun.

Police at one point arrested 30 suspects but only one was identified as an escapee and the others were released.

A taxi driver reported that three escapees forced him to drive them to nearby Dayton, then fled on foot.

The jail, built for about 175 prisoners, housed about 275 when the break occurred at 9:30 p.m. Officials said seven jailers, the normal complement for the hour, were on duty.

Judge Joseph Luebbers of Hamilton County Municipal Court was working in his fifth floor office and was taken hostage briefly before being released unharmed. A custodian in the courthouse and a night watchman were tied up and robbed, but neither was hurt.

Harry Culler, the jail's chief deputy, said the break started when a trusty, William Butts, 28, who faces an armed robbery charge, pulled a .32-caliber pistol on a paraplegic in charge of the jail office. Culler said Butts sold candy from a concession area in the jail.

Butts then turned the weapon on other jailers and prisoners were let out of the cells. The prisoners forced jailers to hand over keys to doors from the cellblock, then herded the guards into a storage room.

The prisoners seized four handguns and one teargas gun.

The prisoners moved to the women's jail on another section of the sixth floor and let out four women.

bodia's capital since the Vietnam war spread to the neighboring country two years ago.

Many of the casualties were refugees driven from their homes by the war. One entire refugee shanty town was wiped out, and more than 100 huts were leveled.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said there were no American casualties.

Cambodian helicopter gunships patrolled the outskirts of the city after the attack and strafed at least 10 suspected rocket launching sites, all within an eight-mile radius of the center of the city. But there was no report of the results of the counterattack.

A Cambodian military spokesman also reported heavy fighting in the district town of Neuk Leong, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh on the highway to Saigon. The spokesman said it appeared that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were trying to cut the highway and move westward toward the capital.

Voter Rule Is Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 6 to 1 vote the Supreme Court today struck down Tennessee's one-year residence requirement for voting in state and congressional elections.

The court, in an opinion delivered by Justice Thurgood Marshall, said the one-year barrier did not serve a "compelling" interest of the state and interfered with the right of citizens to travel and take up homes in new states.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger stood alone in dissent. He disputed that it is a violation of the Constitution "to require newcomers to be exposed to state and local problems for a reasonable period such as one year before voting."

Marshall's opinion did not state flatly how long a state can require a new resident to wait before voting there, but he suggested 30 days might be proper. "Fixing a constitutionally acceptable period is surely a matter of degree," he said.

Humphrey Reverses Early Endorsement Of Nixon Busing Plan

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, reversing himself from his immediate reaction of applauding President Nixon's proposal for a moratorium on busing to achieve school desegregation, now says Nixon's plan deceives the American people and "is insensitive to the laws and the Constitution of this nation."

Humphrey's comments in a speech prepared for delivery in Milwaukee Monday night came at the same time two other leading Democrats criticized Nixon's proposal made last week in a nationally televised address, as demagogic.

Humphrey, campaigning for the April 4 Wisconsin primary, called on all Americans to "examine closely the fine print" of Nixon's plan for a moratorium on busing coupled with a $2.5-billion shot-in-the-arm for schools.

"And now that we have the full, fine-print details of his moratorium plan, I say he is tampering with the Constitution and the separation of powers and he is launching a frontal assault on the great progress this nation has made in equal education since 1954," the Minnesota senator said. He said the $2.5 billion Nixon proposed is not any new money but "simply a transfer of funds already appropriated by Congress."

Meanwhile Monday, in De Kalb, Ill., Sen. George McGovern, like Humphrey a candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, said Nixon's televised address was "the most dangerous demagogic address ever delivered by a president of the United States." The South Dakota senator made the remarks to some 2,500 students in Northern Illinois University while campaigning for today's Illinois primary.

And Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, in a statement inserted in the Congressional Record, said Nixon's speech was "a belittling of the presidency."

"In a wholly emotional and transparently political television address, the President sought to identify himself with thousands of Americans who are frightened by the changes accompanying the end to school segregation in this land," Kennedy said.

"He chose," the Massachusetts senator continued, "neither to educate nor to encourage them. He chose instead to exploit their fears."

Meanwhile, a group of black administration officials said the President's antibusing proposal raised grave constitutional questions which may adversely affect black Americans.

In a telegram to news media, the Council of Black Appointees said it is giving detailed study to the Nixon proposals, and may suggest changes "to safeguard the rights of black Americans."

Samuel C. Jackson, deputy undersecretary of Housing and Urban Development, is chairman of the group.

Suspected Cancer Virus Is Found Among Humans

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer
STANDORD, Calif. (AP) — The telltale biochemical fingerprints of a suspected human cancer virus have been found in the healthy relatives and friends of cancer victims, a scientist said Monday.

The discovery supports a provocative but still unproven idea that some cancers might be transmitted from person to person by a virus.

Dr. S. Kingsley Sanders of the Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York discussed on Monday the results of the institute's latest work with scientists from 11 countries meeting at Stanford University for a symposium on Hodgkin's disease—cancer of the lymphatic system.

Sanders and his colleagues reported last September evidence that two different virus-like particles exist in cancer cells taken from Hodgkin's disease patients and grown in the laboratory. The scientists said then the next step was to test relatives, friends and others close to Hodgkin's disease victims for antibodies to the cancer virus particles. Antibodies would be produced by the body's natural defense mechanism after exposure to the virus and would be the fingerprints of the virus' presence.

These studies, which Sanders said Monday were preliminary and incomplete, showed positive antibody tests in 60 per cent of those who did not have Hodgkin's disease but were closely associated with a victim of the disease.

Studies of "normal" individuals with no history of contact with the disease showed only 30 per cent positive, Sanders said.

He stressed in an interview that there still is no conclusive evidence the virus particles cause Hodgkin's disease.

The immediate importance of the findings, Sanders said, is that scientists now have a powerful tool to test large populations for evidence of the virus particles. Such data then could be correlated with geographic and environmental factors that seem to influence the disease.

Argue Over Legal Wife Of Dying Adam Powell

MIAMI, Fla (AP) — A Circuit Court judge has issued a restraining order forbidding Jackson Memorial Hospital from releasing the body or possessions of former congressman Adam Clayton Powell "in the event of his demise" pending determination of who is his legal wife.

Powell, 63, has been in critical condition at the hospital since last week. He was airlifted here March 7 by a Coast Guard helicopter from his Bahamian island retreat of Bimini.

Judge Jack A. Falk issued the order Monday after Yvette Powell, the mother of Powell's 10-year-old son, said that Powell is in a deep coma and his chances of survival are "extremely remote."

She has been separated from Powell since September 1965. The suit charged that Darlene Powell "has alleged and asserted to hospital authorities that she is the lawful wife of congressman Powell."

"Any such relationship, the suit added, 'is void, voidable or bigamous' since Yvette Powell has 'continually' been Powell's wife since their marriage Dec. 22, 1960.

Her attorney, Michael Newman, asked the court to determine who is Powell's legal wife.

When Powell was airlifted from Bimini the Coast Guard said he was suffering from complications following prostate surgery. The hospital has refused to release details of Powell's illness.

Pitt County school children 12 years old and under in grades one through six are to receive immunization shots against red measles and German measles in a program planned for March 27-30 by the Community Health Department and endorsed by the Pitt County Medical Society, the Pitt County Board of Education, and the Greenville Board of Education.

The program is being undertaken to assist in compliance with a new state law requiring immunization against measles. Children may get a single shot containing both vaccines through the free program in the schools. An alternative is that they may get measles inoculations from their private physicians, as many may have already done.

It is estimated that the program will affect 8,500 school age children in the county.

"The state law now makes it mandatory that all school children through 12 years of age be immunized against red measles to attend school," said Dr. R. D. May, Medical Director of the Pitt County Community Health Department. "The State Attorney General ruled that a parent's word for this could not be taken and that a physician's statement is needed as verification. The combined vaccine which will be used in this campaign will meet all requirements for school attendance as far as red measles is concerned.

"The after-effects of Red measles often handicap a child for life. Girls, who in later years contract German measles during pregnancy, run the risk of having handicapped children. There is no reason for children to have either form of measles now that the new vaccine is available.

"Certain children should not get this vaccine. These include those who are allergic to eggs or feathers or those taking certain sophisticated drugs for chronic illness. If one has any doubt, he should call the physician who is prescribing the drugs," he said.

The vaccine will be supplied by the State Board of Health, and will be given by Community Health Department personnel. Various civic educational and social organizations in the county will assist with clerical and administrative duties.

Information sheets and forms to be completed by parents were sent home to parents through the schools recently. These forms contain a blank to be filled out and returned to the schools. Parents must simply answer yes or no to the question of whether to vaccinate the child. The only acceptable reason for a "no" response is that the child has already received vaccinations for both diseases; the child is allergic to eggs or feathers; the child has some physical reaction that the health nurse should know about or is ill on the day of immunization; or the child has religious beliefs that prevent his participating. In the case of first three reasons, a doctor's certificate will be required. In the last instance a statement from the child's minister will be acceptable.

All public and private schools in the county having elementary-aged students are participating. Preschool-aged children and infants will continue to receive their immunizations from their private physicians in their offices or through the Pitt County Community Health Department, the Greenville Health Center, or one of the five area mini-clinics in Ayden, Bethel, Grifton, Grimesland, or Farmville.

Pupils Going To Special Concert

Approximately 1,700 Greenville school children of the fourth, fifth and sixth grades are expected to attend the annual Children's Concert of the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra on Wednesday at 1:00 p.m. in Wright Auditorium on campus.

The orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Robert Hause, will utilize young Greenville school musicians of the Pilot String program in addition to regular members of the university symphony orchestra.

The program will open with the entire audience joining in singing the first verse of "The National Anthem." The audience will also be invited to join in singing "Seventy-Six Trombones from The Music Man. Other numbers from the Meredith Wilson The Music Man will also be included on the program.

The principal offering of the annual concert will be Camille Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals." For this selection, ECU faculty pianists Charles Bath and Paul Tardiff will be featured with James Rees as narrator.

Miss Debra Johnson, soprano, will sing "Home Again" using the Gray Barrier arrangement of Carole King's composition. Student violinists from the String Project will play Arcangelo Corelli's "Sona" and the orchestra will perform Georges Bizet's "Carmen Suite, No. 1."

Among school children attending the concert will be fourth, fifth and sixth graders from Greenville's four private schools — Pace Academy, St. Raphael, St. Gabriel, and the Seventh-Day Adventist School as well as students from the six public elementary schools.

The children's concert this year will be videotaped for delayed broadcast on the educational channel of the University of North Carolina.

Church Must Accept Women In Religious Life

WINNIPEG (AP) — Equality between the sexes will come about only when men stop fearing the feminine and acknowledge that both sexes share similar characteristics.

That's the opinion of Penelope Washbourn of Wooster College in Ohio who said: "We have split the human personality into two separate entities, labeling one masculine and the other feminine, attributing certain characteristics to each."

She said the feminine is the irrational, that which cannot be controlled, a category into which both death and emotions also fall.

"Our Western society fears both these because we are unable to control them. And so we suppress them," a move sick people," she adds. "They complex for the elderly."

She fought against moving out of her home for several years, preferring the freedom and privacy, but decided to move because the neighborhood around her house has deteriorated in the 20 years she has lived there.

She concedes that her next move may have to be to a nursing home, but not as long as she can manage for herself, however difficult.

In the privacy of her own home, she can scream—without bothering others—when the pain becomes too great, she said. And she can get up in the middle of the night to paint.

"That's what I like to do," Miss Schneider said in her rich German accent. "My painting makes me happy."

"Mr. Litwack keeps me busy. He keeps saying my painting is good and that keeps me going," she said.

might get inspired. Everyone has another quality. They should see what can be done, even if they are handicapped and old. I still have a reason to live. So many just want to die."

Miss Schneider, 64, came to the United States in 1949 from Munich, in her native Germany, hoping that American doctors could help her. She was able to work for about 16 years, until her arthritis became worse.

She was hospitalized, but emergency surgery failed to help, she was confined to a wheelchair and her depression grew.

"I tried everything," said Herman Litwack, a social worker who worked with her at Jewish Hospital.

"She just kept getting lower and lower," Litwack said. "Finally, I remembered she had mentioned something once about a painting hobby she had as a little girl."

Litwack gave her a billfold picture of his daughter, bought her paper and pastels and put her to work.

Abby Could Care Less!

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I'm glad to see that you make mistakes, too. In your column you used the expression, "could care less" to convey indifference. What you meant was "COULDN'T care less."

Just think about it for a minute, and you will realize that if one could care LESS he cares a great deal. And if he COULDN'T care less, he doesn't care at all.

By the way, I could care less about your column. And that's a compliment.

KRISTY IN L. A.

DEAR KRISTY: And I could care less about my choice of words, which is to say that I care so MUCH I couldn't care MORE! Thanks to you and Judge Haworth of Calexico, Cal., and all the others who wrote to good-humoredly chew me out—more or less.

DEAR ABBY: I can't tell you how happy and relieved I was when I read that letter in your column from "Dreamer." [She was the 41-year-old happily married woman who said she was having an "affair"—strictly mental—with an attractive man of her acquaintance.]

You see, I am a happily married woman, too, and I'm also a "dreamer." I have my favorite fantasies about Dean Martin, Paul Newman, and Gregory Peck, and I've always felt a little guilty. I would never cheat on my husband, Abby, and I'd never tell him about these romantic dreams I enjoy secretly.

It was so good to know that there are other women who dream dreams like I do. And I felt a lot better when I read your answer saying it's harmless as long as you don't try to make your dreams come true.

Thanks, Abby. I'll sleep [and dream] a lot better tonight.

ANOTHER DREAMER

DEAR DREAMER: Fantasies have always been a part of our lives. They are perfectly normal, and nothing to be ashamed of. Some fantasies serve a very useful purpose. Ask any dreamer.

DEAR ABBY: My son, who is 30 years old, misbehaved while married. [Other women, drinking, and beating his wife.]

I know how all this started. His wife refused relations with him after the birth of their third child. I will admit, she went thru a bad time with the pregnancy and delivery, but she demanded more of him than any man could tolerate. My son respected her wishes for two years. Finally he couldn't stand it any longer and he strayed.

His wife found out about it and they had a row. He went out and got drunk and that is when he beat her. She left him promptly and they have been apart for four months.

My son supports her and the children, but he would like to be a family man again. His wife won't let him in the house, and she won't give him a divorce.

Abby, is there something I can do to get them back together again? She will speak to me, but not to my son.

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: As long as there is no communication between your son and his wife, there is nothing you [or anyone] can do. Urge her to seek counseling. An impartial third party is always far more effective in mediating domestic problems than a member of the family.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Political Party Launches Action

BASEL, Switzerland (WNS) — Now that women have won the right to vote in Switzerland, their new political party has launched an "action against the enfeebling of women." Letters addressed to local wives in their maiden names call upon them to rebel against husbands who impose "a slave's life on them."

"Maybe you will have time to read these lines between the washing, ironing, cleaning and cooking," reads the letter. "Have you noticed that your husband works only eight hours a day and has plenty of time to read his newspaper?"

LAMB RIBLETS WITH ORANGE SAUCE — Serve this thrifty but delicious dish with hot cooked rice.

Prepare Lamb Riblets With Orange Sauce For Main Dish

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Cooks on the lookout for a thrifty dish should not overlook lamb riblets, cut-up breast of lamb.

One of the best ways to prepare the riblets is with an orange-flavored sauce as in the following recipe. When we tried it in our kitchen we found it was not only economical but well liked.

LAMB RIBLETS WITH ORANGE SAUCE

1 medium tomato, skinned and cubed

½ cup dark corn syrup

Grated rind of 2 medium or large oranges (3 to 4 tablespoons)

¼ cup orange juice

¼ cup cider vinegar

1 medium onion (peeled, sliced thin and separated into rings)

2 teaspoons prepared mustard

1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1 teaspoon celery seed

½ teaspoon salt

3 pounds (about) lamb riblets (lamb breast)

1 tablespoon cornstarch

2 tablespoons cold water

In a small saucepan stir together the tomato, corn syrup, orange rind, orange juice, vinegar, onion, mustard, Worcestershire, celery seed and salt. Over medium heat bring to a boil; reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes.

Meanwhile cut riblets into 1-rib pieces; if ribs are long, cut in half crosswise with a cleaver. Place riblets in a 4 or 5-quart Dutch oven or similar heavy casserole. Pour orange mixture over them. Cover tightly and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until riblets are tender—1 to 1½ hours.

Transfer riblets to a broiler rack set over broiler pan or to rack over shallow roasting pan. Broil 6 inches from heat source, turning and basting several times with liquid in Dutch oven, until browned—5 or 6 minutes.

Skim as much fat as you can from liquid in Dutch oven—there should be about 2 cups including a small amount of fat. Mix cornstarch and water until smooth and add to liquid. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute. Serve ribs and sauce with hot cooked rice.

Makes 4 servings.

Eliminating Some Inequities

The new uniform schedule of values, standards and rules for valuating real property for tax purposes should eliminate some inequities in Pitt County.

The new schedule was adopted by the Board of County Commissioners last week. State law requires that revaluation of property in the county take place every eight years and the property must be appraised at its true value in money.

The new valuations were submitted to the board by Associated Surveys of Greensboro which is carrying out the work under $175,000 contract.

Board members were told by County Attorney W. W. Speight that it was the board's duty to approve the values submitted "unless we can show the values are not justifiable." The revaluation is scheduled for completion by Oct. 1 and in time for the tax listings on Jan. 1, 1973.

Even though it is expected that there will be considerable differences in values placed on specific parcels of property, the revaluation will not necessarily mean higher taxes for an individual tax payer. The actual amount paid is determined by the tax rate which is set by the county commissioners. If the commissioners see that the new valuation is going to bring in considerably more money at the current $1.52 per $100 rate, then they would have a duty to adjust the rate downward to produced the revenues actually needed for the county government.

There will always be differences of opinion on the valuation placed on individual parcels of property. However, the new schedule adopted by the County Commissioners seems to us to be a more equitable way to do it. It appears we will have a fairer valuation for the future.

New Audiences For Bel Canto

By BRYAN HAISLIP
RALEIGH — "Diva" means divine.

If the title hadn't existed, it would have been invented for Joan Sutherland.

Angels sing, if at all, like Sutherland; at least, legions of the world's grand opera fans believe so.

Thousands of Tar Heels could agree after the Australian soprano's appearances in Raleigh under auspices of the Friends of the College concert series.

Sutherland, a tall redhead of imposing presence, creates the kind of audience awe that comes from watching a superlative performance whether in music, politics or sports. What she does, which is singing in the florid style of bel canto, no one does better.

Regal on stage, she is warmly human in person. She takes an earthly view of the art she practices with celestial perfection.

Music is entertainment, rock, folk or operatic, she said. There may be cultural and educational values, she granted, but a performance must give pleasure.

Regal on stage, she is warmly human in person. She takes an earthly view of the art she practices with celestial perfection.

Music is entertainment, rock, folk or operatic, she said. There may be cultural and educational values, she granted, but a performance must give pleasure.

That's Entertainment

"We think of ourselves as entertainers," she explained. "When we cease to entertain..." She made a gesture of finality.

Reaching new audiences is one of the aims of the current tour for Miss Sutherland and Richard Bonyng, her accompanist in domestic life as well as in recital. A star in his own right, Bonyng is a conductor and musicologist who has revived interest in the 19th century bel canto literature which is his wife's specialty.

Their North Carolina engagement, one of only 16 nationwide, illustrated the Friends of the College impact on the state's cultural life. Drawing audiences up to 22,000-plus over hundreds of miles for an attraction, FOC is the phenomenon of concert series in the country.

"We don't know of any other of its kind that is larger," said Henry Bowers, major domo for the series and associate dean of student affairs at N.C. State University.

Stimulation For Other Series

Starpower stimulation is only part of the FOC contribution, Bowers said. "We feel it has helped create audiences for local series in many smaller cities and towns of the area," he explained.

Now nearing the close of its 13th season, FOC membership drives are in progress in communities of the eastern and central sections of the state within a 75-mile radius of Raleigh. Some people come regularly from as far away as southern Virginia and northern South Carolina.

Last year, some 19,800 tickets were sold. In addition, the 13,000 N.C. State students can use their ID cards to attend the concerts in Reynolds Coliseum.

That base of support gives the budget of $140,000 enabling FOC to schedule attractions such as the Sutherland-Bonyng recital at a price tag of $22,000 for two evenings. For the audience, membership figures out to less than $1.50 for concerts which in New York, Washington and elsewhere could easily cost four times as much.

Opera Is Alive And Well

The Bonyngs believe opera remains a lively, relevant art requiring only exposure to gain a growing audience.

"Young people go crazy for bel canto," said Bonyng. "We've seen it in this country, Europe and throughout the world."

Recently they taped two half-hour programs cap-suling "The Barber of Seville" and "Daughter of Regiment" for showing next month on NET educational television. Under the title "Who's Afraid of Opera?" the programs aim to captivate the uninitiated. "We hope it may become a series," Miss Sutherland added.

They make careers and marriage a fun mix. They met as students in Sydney, married in London where both continued their studies, now follow together the circuit of the world's opera houses.

His advice and coaching turned her in the direction of coloratura, which zoomed her from the ranks of sopranos to international superstardom.

Who wears the pants at home is quickly answered. "He does very definitely," she said. "He makes the musical decisions. He knows so much more about it than I do."

"He can't sing, but that's beside the point. I can't conduct either."

Each Case Must Be Judged On Own Merit

The N. C. Supreme Court ruling has created a difficult job for local Boards of Elections.

The court upheld a ruling that one Meredith College student is eligible to vote and register in Raleigh where she is attending college. However, the court left the burden on individual students to convince local election officials that they consider the college community their home.

The action verbally means that each student who wishes to register in his college town will have to appear before the board to present his case for residency there. It will be a painstaking process, but as the ruling indicated, each case has different merits.

Wallace Wears A Demo Cloak

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — One reason Democratic party leaders now feel that Gov. George Wallace will not run as a third-party Presidential candidate was his scrupulously polite performance at a Feb. 21 closed-door session of Democratic governors in Annapolis, Md.

The purpose of that session, unreported until now, was a strong appeal for party unity by Lawrence F. O'Brien, Democratic national chairman. When O'Brien finished his one-hour talk on the perils of third-party Presidential politics, Gov. Robert Scott of North Carolina looked at Wallace and asked:

"Well, Governor, I suppose you are now going to demand equal time." Wallace, who had listened intently to O'Brien with a hand cupped to his ear, replied that he had no argument with O'Brien — that is, he would not defend his own American Independent Party. "I'm quite satisfied," Wallace told O'Brien.

Moreover, Wallace soon afterward pointedly let it be known the Wallace pledged delegates to the Miami Beach convention will take the same loyalty pledge as other delegates: a pledge not to support any Presidential candidate other than the convention nominee.

That word was dropped quietly to national party headquarters via Southern governors friendly to Wallace. Wallace repeated it publicly on Jan. 23 on CBS's "Face the Nation."

Thus, if Wallace cannot tailor the Democratic platform to his own liking and walks out of the convention, top party officials think he will sit out the 1972 campaign.

In view of Wallace's love for the limelight, that may seem highly improbable, but perhaps no more improbable than the Wallace decision at Annapolis to rejoin business sessions of the Democratic governors' organization for the first time since his reelection.

Vulnerable Kissinger

The fact that the Democratic party is now mapping a political attack on Henry A. Kissinger as the sinister shaper of foreign policy, wholly immune to Congressional questioning, will not change President Nixon's decision not to let him testify on Capitol Hill.

Kissinger has made it clear privately that he would in no way resist testifying before Congressional committees (as contrasted to informal briefings). Nixon insists that if he permitted Kissinger to testify, he would be opening the door to Congressional encroachment on the "executive privilege" claim used by all Presidents to protect confidential advisers from Congressional scrutiny. The President tells intimates that he does not want to see a precedent that might embarrass future Presidents.

The Democratic attack on Kissinger's unprecedented role as the government's chief foreign policy official (a role that ought to be filled by the Secretary of State) will center on Kissinger's conduct in the India-Pakistan war.

It will also try to prove that

Loud And Clear: Fed Up

By J.J. KILPATRICK

They voted for God and George C. Wallace in Florida last week. God won big. The Governor won too. But it is a curious thing: The significance of these election returns has been largely muffled in woolly speculation on Humphrey's hopes and Muskie's momentum.

The Florida ballot asked voters to say whether they favor an amendment to the U. S. Constitution to allow prayer in public schools. On that question, 1,139,000 voted yes, only 296,000 no.

In the presidential primary, the Democratic ballot listed eleven names — some of them big names, with big money behind them. It was Wallace against the field. He ran them into the ground. No one else was even close. Consider the dimensions of Wallace's victory. He polled a stunning 42 per cent of the vote, roughly as much as Humphrey, Jackson and Muskie combined. Wallace carried every county in Florida; he swept eleven of the twelve congressional districts; he won 75 of the 81 Democratic convention delegates.

In the First District, up in the Panhandle, Wallace polled 66,000 votes; his closest rival was Henry Jackson with 18,000. In the Second, it was Wallace 59,000, Hubert Humphrey, 12,000. In the Jacksonville district, Wallace had 46,600 to Humphrey's 19,900. Over in Tampa, in the Sixth, it was Wallace 38,000 to Humphrey's 14,000. In the Seventh, the Sarasota district, Wallace polled nearly 47,000 to Jackson's 14,000. The Ninth District, which includes Palm Beach and Fort Lauderdale, gave Wallace 43,800 to Humphrey's 17,600.

Unless one set of rules is to be applied to Wallace, and another set of rules to everyone else, this has to be regarded as a landslide — as a smashing, jawdropping, eye-popping triumph. Yet if you watched network TV Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, you missed the significant story altogether. The significant news wasn't Humphrey or Muskie. The significant news — I mean no irreverence — was in the astounding vote for God and for George C. Wallace.

This was middle America exploding. In the prayer amendment, the people of Florida found a vehicle for demanding a return to all those qualities our society has lost in recent years — a return to decency, to kindness to obedience, to charity, to tolerance, to a principled

Other Editors Say 'Scorn' Misplaced

(Jacksonville Daily News)

Some well-meaning people are getting carried away, scorning military service to the nation. Also, there are some people not well-meaning who are also scorning service to the nation in uniform. They, of course, are the people who would welcome the destruction of our institutions, who would welcome tyranny — a tyranny in which they and their kind would rule America by iron-handed means other than democracy.

For people not well-meaning, there is little if anything a newspaper editorial can say to encourage them to review their convictions. But for well-meaning people who are getting carried away lately, attacking the military service, there is a chance to point out the story of William F. Friedman.

Incidentally, he was a Russian. At least, he was born in Russia. Most Americans have never heard of him, but he may well have saved American lives in war than any other man in our history.

William F. Friedman immigrated to the United States with his family in 1893. In World War I he was working for our government and continued to until he died at the age of 78. He was an Army officer and retired as a Lieutenant Colonel after World War II. His decorations included the Medal of Honor — our nation's highest award.

Let's go back to World War I when he was asked if he could break the new code developed by the British. They were convinced that it was unbreakable. In a very short time he read back the first line of the example of the code he was working with: "This cipher is absolutely undecipherable."

This brilliant and able man continued to work in Army intelligence and before World War II broke the famed Japanese "purple" code. It would be difficult to measure the number of lives he saved by that amazing feat. Again, perhaps more lives than were saved by any other American in any war.

Big deal? Not at all. Scorn service to our nation in uniform and you discourage brilliant, able, dedicated men like William F. Friedman from joining the Army, the Navy, or Air Force. For we have in uniform today — and have had in our history — many brilliant, able and dedicated men who not only have saved American lives, but American ideals, too.

Malay Name System

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer
SINGAPORE (AP) — When an international newscaster referred to a Malaysian spokesman as "Mr. Inch," five million inches in Malaysia tittered in merriment for the rest of the week.

It was even funnier when at Bangkok airport, in neighboring Thailand, someone paged for "Mr. Tan Sri."

"Inche" means "Mister" and "Tan Sri" is an honorary title from the king in Malaysia. Both cases point out sharply that in Southeast Asia, there's plenty in a name.

For Malays, the name system is eminently useful. For example, if a man is named Dato Abdul Ibrahim bin Dato Haji Ishak, you immediately know: A man named Ishak went to Mecca and received honors from his sultan. He had a son named Abdul Ibrahim who was also royally feted but who hasn't yet made the pilgrimage.

But for foreigners, it's mind-blowing. Take Inche Mohammed Ismail bin Haji Ibrahim. He's Inche Ismail, Mr. Ismail or Ismail. You don't throw a dart and choose, you look for the name before the "bin," which means "son of".

If there's no "bin," it's a matter of deciding by placement. And you must always use the Dato, Tan Sri and Tuns which are knight-like titles, and, most certainly, the Tunkus and Tuankus which are royal.

In Thailand, someone might be named Surin Ruandej. Like the Malays, his real name comes first: Surin. But unlike the Malays, his last name isn't his father's name—it doesn't mean anything.

A past king ordered Thais to have last names, and they sim-Freahish March tornadoes killed at least 214 persons in five southern states yesterday and today. Alabama suffered worst with 169 dead, in Georgia 30 were dead, Tennessee 12, Kentucky 2 and South Carolina one.

Governor O. Max Gardner is fifty years old today. The North Carolina chief executive, now in the last year of his four year term, spent the day quietly at the executive mansion but Mrs. Gardner surprised him with a cake to commemorate the event.

An inter-city meeting of Rotary Clubs of this district will be entertained by the Greenville Club within the next several weeks. This decision was reached at the regular meeting of the club last night at which time a letter was read from the district governor relating to the inter-city gathering and inviting the Greenville Club to act as host.

A PROBLEM TO PONDER

Gambling is a form of indulgence that takes possession of many people and ruins their lives. A compulsive gambler is a miserable person. He has very little interest in anything but gambling. He may know to what this indulgence is leading. It means not only the loss of money but the danger involved as gambling interests have a way of "collecting" their debts and jeopardizing finally the whole life of the gambler who played and lost.

For those who do not have the gambling spirit this fascinating weakness which lays hold on some people is almost beyond understanding. They cannot see the appeal of taking a chance on something and coming out a loser. But the compulsive gambler knows all about this. The time comes when he is ready literally to sell his soul for a game of chance. The non-gambler shakes his head in bewilderment over the weakness of some friend who is positively willing to sell his soul, and mortgage the souls of others, in the appeasement of the gambling urge.

The born gambler needs to stay as far removed from gambling as possible. The winning of a few dollars may whet his appetite for more. The loss of a few dollars leaves him with the exciting possibility that one more chance will lead to riches.

Fortunes without number have been dissipated by compulsive gamblers. Every known device for "winning" money positively fascinates the compulsive gambler. The testimony of tens of thousands has been that gambling does not pay. It may, in a winning streak, seem to pile up riches and give a thrill indescribable to the person who is gambling. But what of the pay-off if the gambler loses — which he generally does?

Gambling is a bondage which we can avoid if we will — and we had better will to do so.

New Game In Stock Exchanges

By ELMER ROESSNER

Stock trading will soon take on a new look in America. Vast changes are about to be made in the system. Pressures for change come from William J. Casey, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, from the New York Stock Exchange, and from the big-money operators: mutual funds, insurance companies, trust funds, etc. There are also considerable pressures against change from many brokers.

These are the big changes ahead:

—Qualification for membership in the exchanges. These differ from exchange to exchange. The New York exchanges allow only brokers. Other exchanges, notably the Philadelphia-Baltimore-Washington exchange, allows any adequately financed broker-dealer to obtain membership.

Commissioner Casey wants a standardized regulation. Affiliates of mutual funds, insurance companies, etc., could obtain membership only if more than half their business was with the general public. This proposal has provoked a nationwide dispute, and even Congress has got into the fight.

The SEC announced it hopes to have new rules ready by April 15, but Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. (D-N.J.) has announced that his Securities subcommittee will hold hearings on April 18 on a bill to prohibit the SEC from making any change before hearings in Congress. The SEC is expected to postpone action until after the Williams hearing.

Meanwhile, many institutions are opposing the proposal. Prudential Insurance Co. of America pointed out that it saved almost $500,000 last year negotiating fees with its own broker subsidiary.

—Beginning March 24, the New York Stock Exchange brokers' fees on small orders will be changed. The present $15 surcharge will be eliminated and new permanent rates will be in effect. These will make some small lots cheaper, some costlier. Rates are scaled to the amount of money involved, rather than to the number of shares.

—Beginning next month, fees on the purchase or sale of more than $300,000 orders may be negotiated, instead of being fixed. Casey said that the figure would later be cut to $100,000.

—The SEC favors a system by which all sales and bids that do not result in sales, in all the stock exchanges and over-the-counter markets in the country, be made public at once. There is some technical difficulty; the present tape systems could not carry the volume and new electronic techniques will be necessary.

—The SEC is also considering new rules covering the initial offers of new stocks. In recent months, many have been bid up to high prices after introduction, only to sink after the initial enthusiasm has declined.

But when all these changes are effective, it will still be just as easy to go broke in the stock market.

Corporations To Replace Doctors And Dentists

The Internal Revenue Service has announced that it agrees with state laws that permit professional practices to be incorporated. A disturbed person may therefore go to the Brown and Jones Corporation for headshrinking rather than to an individual psychiatrist.

Because of the ruling Prentice-Hall has rushed production of a new book, "Incorporating the Professional Practice," by George E. Ray, attorney and specialist in the field. (216 pages, $19.95.) It tells how to go about incorporating.

Shirley Chisholm Says Nation A Disaster Area

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York, who is seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, says President Nixon has "made the nation an unemployment disaster area."

She called in a speech Monday night for an "Economic Bill of Rights" to guarantee every citizen "a real job at honest wages instead of a guaranteed wage for a mek-work job."

Mrs. Chisholm told the crowd of about 500 in a high school, "Americans don't need a college degree to understand the phony arithmetic of the Nixon economics."

She said that in 1971 individuals paid $86.2 billion in taxes while corporations, which she declared control 90 per cent of the nation's wealth, paid $26 billion.

"Our President seems to act on the assumption that what is good for the international banker and the corporation on Wall Street will trickle down to the middle class and the poor people," she said. "Yet all that trickles down is increased taxes and cost of goods."

Mrs. Chisholm said the President is engaging in "foreign policy grandstanding" in a time of domestic trouble.

Mrs. Chisholm, who is on North Carolina's first presidential preference primary on May 5, spoke earlier in the day in Raleigh and Greensboro.

In Raleigh, she said she can't get too excited about the issue of busing because it is nothing new to her fellow blacks.

Where were the busing opponents, she asked, "when blacks were bused past white neighborhood schools to rattletrap shacks with tarpaper on the windows."

Mrs. Chisholm said busing is a temporary, "artificial instrument" made necessary by a degenerated society.

She said at Meredith College in Raleigh that President Nixon's proposal to pump more money into inner-city schools was "long overdue," but could be just "political verbiage."

"It is not enough today for the President to say what he wants," she told the Meredith student body. "The question is, will Congress move on this. I've been in Congress long enough to wonder whether or not it is just political verbiage."

ply picked at random. They took their village name, a name from a book or just a meandering collection of unpronounceable letters.

Indians in Southeast Asia, as in India, frequently use the names of gods. You don't call Hari Subramaniam either Hari or Mr. Subramaniam. You call him Maniam.

The Philippines offer some of the most colorful names. Spanish colonizers insisted all inhabitants take a Spanish-sounding surname. Villages were given a letter of the alphabet to choose from.

There are still settlements of Valencias, Valdezes, Villaloboses and Valenzuelas.

Traditional Chinese names have suffered a bit in Southeast Asia. Classically, the surname comes first with two prenames following. Hence, Mr. Lee How Fook is Mr. Lee.

But what about Robert Tan Chin Khoon? He's still Mr. Tan, but he's either Robert or Chin Khoon, depending upon whether he's talking to you or to his grandmother. Actually, to his grandma, he's probably "Ah Chin."

Filipino Chinese mix the Spanish past with their own ancestry and come up with names like Jesus Tan—Jess to his friends.

And, when you've really got the system down, you can try Vietnam, where the surname comes first or last, depending upon your latitude, and there are more "Nguyens" than Smiths in New York.

Nixon foreign policy is being made outside normal State Department channels, thus leaving Congress in the dark and posing Constitutional threats to basic American institutions. The real target in the developing attack is, of course, not Kissinger but Mr. Nixon himself.

HHH's Right Hand

Temporary winner of the battle over day-to-day control of Sen. Hubert Humphrey's Presidential campaign is a transplanted Texan and protégé of Lyndon B. Johnson: Lloyd Hand, now a Los Angeles lawyer.

Hand's principal rival in the Florida campaign was Jack Chestnut, Humphrey's national campaign manager who was brought fulltime to Miami. While Chestnut was putting in what some colleagues thought was excessive time at the hotel swimming pool, Hand was at Humphrey's side. In the final weeks, Hand made the decisions about where Humphrey went, what he did and whom he saw.

Hand's imperious manner did not endear him to the Humphrey staff. At one point, he protested that the campaign manifest did not refer to him as "Ambassador." Hand (a title picked up during a 14-month hitch as President Johnson's chief of protocol). At another point, his pretty wife, Ann, displaced CBS correspondent David Schoumacher in the press pool car.

However, Humphrey staffers are rejoicing prematurely that Hand is not with Humphrey in Wisconsin. Their interpretation that he has lost the power struggle is incorrect. Hand is off on a business trip to Burma and will return to Humphrey's side later.

A footnote: Humphrey backers are depressed that Dr. Edgar Berman, millionaire physician from Lutherville, Md., remains Humphrey's constant companion in 1972 as in 1968. They regard Berman as a political dilettante whose advice is often disruptive. However, another controversial Humphrey intimate, William Connell, has been relegated to second-tier duty, mainly in connection with Pennsylvania campaign.

Firm Acquires Fremont Plants

FREMONT — U.S. Industries, with area divisions in Ayden and Farmville, announced the acquisition of Fremont Manufacturing Co., makers of ladies sportswear and other apparel.

Thomas Anderson, head of the Farmville Division, said the Fremont plant will continue to operate as a division of U.S. Industries. It will be under Anderson's supervision.

The company reported that immediate plans are to expand the operations here to employ some 20 additional people. Plans call for the construction of a new plant on a four-acre site with employment expected to reach 200 over the next few years.

Operations began at Fremont Manufacturing in 1965 and the employee total has grown to about 80 people.

and godly way of life. This was a cry from the heart. Who could miss its poignant meaning?

Busing was the big issue in the Wallace campaign — the imbecilic business of busing children to schools according to the color of their skin. But busing was not the only issue. Wallace attracted more than half a million fed-up Americans who were fed up with everything. They saw Wallace as a medium for protest. Who could be deaf to the roar that erupted?

It is imperative that we search for meaning here. This was not a vote against busing alone, but against the whole computerized inhumanity of a bloated government that has lost touch with its people. It was a vote against unfair taxes, against unpunished crime, against unrewarding foreign aid. It was a striking manifestation of the sense of helplessness, of futility, of disillusion, that millions of Americans feel. It was not a vote of confidence in Wallace; it was more nearly a vote of no confidence in anything else.

Edmund Muskie missed this altogether. On election night he bitterly denounced the Wallace voters for their lack of decency and humanity; he saw nothing but a threatening manifestation of "some of the worst instincts of human beings." He said of Wallace: "I hate what he stands for."

That stiffnecked insensitivity will get Muskie nowhere. Florida is a State of almost microcosmic aspects — urban and rural, white and black, old and young, Jew and gentile, liberal and conservative. To impute bigotry to 42 per cent of the voters in this Democratic primary is to slander men and women who deserve something better. They deserve to be heard. And one way or another as this campaign proceeds, through God or through George Wallace, they are likely to be heard again and again.

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — When Rep. Ed Edmondson decided to run for the U.S. Senate, he got the whole family in the act.

Edmondson said Monday his son Drew, 25, will be the state coordinator for his race for the Democratic senatorial nomination. He gave the rest of the lineup:

—Daughter-in-law Linda, in charge of the Oklahoma City headquarters.

—Son Jim, 27, a junior law student at Georgetown University in Washington, doing research and writing speeches.

—Son John, 22, in charge of polls and surveys.

Edmondson is one of eight candidates for the Democratic nomination to succeed retiring Sen. Fred Harris.

Hint Mars Has Water

HONOLULU (AP) — Photographs taken by the Mariner 9 spacecraft indicate water—and thus life—may exist on Mars, the mission's chief scientist says.

"These photographs are a real shot in the arm to those interested in extraterrestrial life," Robert Steinbacher, an official of the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, said in an interview Monday.

Steinbacher said one photograph shows "contours of a glacier buildup" that indicate vast ice fields may lie beneath frozen carbon dioxide at the Martian polar regions.

He said another photograph shows erosion patterns "that give every indication of having been made by flowing liquid, and evidence points to water."

He said it isn't likely that water usually exists in any quantity for any period of time because of Mars' atmosphere, where pressure normally causes ice to turn to gas rather than melt into water.

Gap Widening

WASHINGTON (AP) — The difference between the poorest and the richest in America has nearly doubled in the past two decades, says a study prepared for Congress.

The study, by professors at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, finds that the average gap between the poorest one-fifth and wealthiest one fifth was $10,565 in 1949 and $19,071 in 1969.

Released Sunday by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, the study says most of the present techniques for reducing inflation simply make the poor worse off.

The poor, it concludes, "are asked to pay the price necessary to stop inflation for the rest of society."

Conditions for the poor, the study says, cannot be changed by concentrating only on education, training and the like.

It calls instead for such policies as using government wage and price structures that stimulate increases in private wages, concentrating manpower programs to improve income distribution and adopting job quotas for minorities.

New British Budget Aired

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government today announced sweeping measures to help British industry gear for tough competition within the European Common Market and to slash unemployment.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber also told the House of Commons old-age pensions will be raised by 12½ per cent.

State funds, he said, will be made available for projects designed to bring down the country's record high unemployment.

Introducing the government's annual tax budget, Barber said its primary aim was "to help British industry to modernize, re-equip and reorganize to meet the challenge of greater international competition" when Britain joins the Common Market next Jan. 1.

He said he intended to force national output of goods and services up from its present 0.91 per cent rate of annual increase to 5 per cent by the end of this year.

"Our task is to lay the foundations for sustained growth over a prolonged period ahead," Barber said.

The chancellor also announced measures to free the transfer of capital to countries within the sterling area and to Britain's future partners in the Common Market.

These measures, he said, will go into effect Wednesday.

Dr. Cleetwood said he had received assurances from the Utilities Commission that no danger existed in placing the power line underground near the gas line.

Plans for Rubeola immunizations for the city school children were announced for next Monday and Tuesday. The immunization needs parental consent, but is required by a new state approval legislation. Children whose parents fail to give permission will later receive a letter of notification indicating that under state law the child must be withdrawn from school unless permission is given.

Board members, after discussing policy on field trips and excursions, asked the school staff to furnish more detailed information on the different categories of trips for the board members to consider before formulating a policy statement.

Board members approved two appeals for pupil reassignment. In both instances, parents were seeking to keep the children in the school they are currently attending and from which they would normally be reassigned due to circumstances. One of the requests dealt with a child whose parents had failed to provide correct information on their official place of residence. School board member Dr. Bearden raised the possibility of having a more fool-proof system of checks to prevent future recurrences of this nature. The parents of this child must pay the out-of-area special fee.

The April school board meeting, normally held on the third Monday of each month, was set for Tuesday, April 25 for the next meeting.

Ask Recognition For Bangladesh

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed by voice vote today a resolution calling for U.S. recognition of the new nation of Bangladesh, formerly East Pakistan.

With concurrence by the House, where a similar resolution is pending, the resolution would express the "sense of Congress" that the United States should join some 47 other nations in recognition of the nation emerging from the two-week India-Pakistan war last December.

The resolution would not be binding on the President.

The State Department has said that recognition of Bangladesh is under study in connection with a review of U.S. relations in South Asia.

Table Tennis Hobby Reveals Contributors

DETROIT (AP) — A Chinese table tennis team has set April 10 as the date for the start of a two-week tour of the United States, Graham Steenhoven, president of the U.S. Table Tennis Association, announced today.

A visit to China last spring by a group of American table tennis players, led by Steenhoven, was the first in a series of diplomatic overtures which culminated in President Nixon's visit to Peking. The Chinese return to visit has been pending for nearly a year.

Steenhoven, a Detroit auto company executive, said that Song Chung, acting president of the Table Tennis Association of the Peoples Republic of China, told him the Chinese team would consist of 20 players.

Steenhoven said no schedule has yet been set for the Chinese visit. He said Detroit is the only city now definitely on the itinerary.

Golda Offers Visit Jordan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir said today she "would be delighted to go to Amman" if King Hussein of Jordan invited her.

At a Foreign Press Association luncheon, she was asked if there had been contacts between Israeli officials and Hussein on a Middle East settlement.

"If there had been contacts with Hussein," she replied "and since there is no official Jordanian statement, I wouldn't tell you about them."

Seeing the newsmen busily writing, Mrs. Meir quickly added:

"Don't misinterpret this. There were no meetings. I would be delighted to go to Amman if Hussein wants."

Mrs. Meir rejected the concept of an independent Palestinian state between the borders of Israel and Jordan.

She said she did not expect anything detrimental to Israel to materialize from President Nixon's visit to Moscow.

Nonetheless, she added, "we have an expression in Hebrew which says we should always have fears. All Israelis have reason to be uneasy since the Middle East is high on the agenda for the talks."

Mizell Tobacco Bill Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Tobacco subcommittee today reported to the full House Agriculture Committee a bill sponsored by Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C., providing for lease and transfer of flue-cured tobacco allotments throughout the marketing season.

Current law provides a cutoff date of April 1 for lease and transfer of allotments, Mizell said.

The new measure, he said, is designed to "have a stabilizing effect on the tobacco market, preventing growers from experiencing heavy losses in any given year by providing greater leeway in the amount of income a grower can receive through lease and transfer operations."

Mizell first introduced this legislation last May. The bill will go to the full House for a vote after the Agriculture Committee approves the measure.

Hobby Reveals Contributors

RALEIGH (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Wilbur Hobby today released a list of the more than 600 individuals and organizations which have contributed to his campaign and challenged his opponents to do the same.

"You and I know that money talks," he told a news conference. "And this is especially true in politics. In this campaign, what will the political money buy? It will buy, at the very least, access to the next governor of this state."

"Access begets influence," he said. "And influence begets power."

Hobby, president of the state AFL-CIO, said the voters "deserve to know exactly who the candidates will be prone to do favor for."

He repeated his charge that his major Democratic opponents, Pat Taylor and Skipper Bowles, are committed to the "big boys" and not the average taxpayer.

Hobby said his People for Wilbur Hobby group has taken in $28,047.60 for the campaign so far. Most of the more than 600 names on the list were individual union members who donated between $1 and $5.

Also on the list were 21 contributors — all of them union locals — who contributed $200 or more. The largest donation was $2,500 from the 1,438 members of the boilermakers union.

Hobby had previously announced that the state AFL-CIO had given $10,016 in cash and advertising and printing costs for his campaign.

He said he sent letters to all locals asking for contributions, but had asked them not to send more than $2 per member. He said no more than $100 was being accepted from any single individual.

LOVE PAYS OFF

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The slogan "Virginia Is For Lovers" has reaped an estimated $3 billion in tourist revenues since it was launched nearly three years ago, says the Virginia State Travel Service.

State officials explain what the slogan really means is that Virginia is for history lovers, beach lovers, mountain lovers and, of course, just plain lovers.

One $100 check had been received from a company, he said, but it had been returned. He said even though the firm was unincorporated and therefore eligible to contribute, he is not accepting money from business firms.

New Plant Said Near Completion

FARMVILLE — A. C. Monk & Co. announced that construction of its new processing factory and corporate offices is nearing completion.

Monk officials reported that the installation of new threshing equipment, three redrying machines and two automatic packers is almost finished.

The plant will be operational by late July, as scheduled, it was noted. The new facilities will more than double the present capacity.

The processing plant and offices are part of Monk's multi-million dollar expansion program now underway.

The sheriff reported that officers seized a quantity of heroin consisting of 26 bundles valued at approximately $150.

Norfolk Named Club Director

The East Carolina University Pirates Club announced Monday the appointment of Ira Norfolk as the organization's first executive director. The directorship is a newly created post and represents the first full-time position within the club's framework.

Norfolk, who was athletic director and head basketball coach at Atlantic Christian College for eight years, will spearhead the club's fund raising activities and general operation. The Pirates Club is the chief athletic booster organization at East Carolina.

A graduate of the University of North Carolina, Norfolk is a retired marine and served one year as assistant athletic director at VMI before assuming his duties at Atlantic Christian.

He had the following statements concerning his appointment at East Carolina: "I view this job as a fine challenge, and feel quite fortunate to have an opportunity to help further the education of young men representing East Carolina University."

"I have been especially gratified," he added, "by the sincere response and reception extended to me by all segments of the East Carolina staff and the Greenville community. Their continued support will be of immeasurable assistance in fulfilling my new role."

Norfolk will officially assume his duties with the Pirates Club on April 3, and plans to move his family to Greenville in early June.

Pirates Sign Grier Cager

Randy McCullen, Greer (S.C.) High School cage standout, has signed a four-year grant-in-aid with the Southern Conference Champions East Carolina University.

The 6-3 guard is regarded as one of the top college prospects in South Carolina, averaging 19.5 points per contest this year and earning a berth on the Area 2-4-A All-Star Team.

Greer coach Jim Jack predicted, "Randy can be an outstanding college player. He has the size and the ability to do it. He is an outstanding shooter, ball handler, and team leader. He is a very unselfish ballplayer with a great competitive attitude."

East Carolina coach Tom Quinn asserted, "We feel that Randy will be a definite asset to our program. His style of play, his great shooting ability, and his basketball savvy are all very closely aligned to the type of ball we play at East Carolina. We feel very fortunate to have signed him."

McCullen was the unanimous selection as MVP on the Greer squad and also appeared on the All-Area Team selected by the Spartanburg Herald. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Matt McCullen of Greer.

Rose High School's Rampants took advantage of errors by the Williamston Tigers yesterday to ease out a 3-2 victory and keep their unbeaten string going. The victory was the fourth for the Rampants this year without a loss.

It was a close game all the way, and only two runs in the fifth inning after Rose had lost the lead to Williamston enabled the Rampants to pull it out.

Overall, Williamston made six errors, all coming in the two innings when the Rampants put together all of their scoring. Rose played errorless ball, but both of the Williamston runs were unearned because of passed balls.

And only a fluke let in the second Tiger run when heads-up baserunning got the best of the situation.

Of the three Rose runs, only one was earned, the winning one.

Both teams got off a threat in the first. Dwight Ange reached on a single with one away for Williamston and moved to second on a passed ball, only to die there. Robbie Cox slapped the first pitch into left-center for a double for the Rampants, but a walk and a fielder's choice erased him a third. A wild pitch put runners at second and third with one out, but Rose, also, was unable to get a run across.

Neither team got off another threat until the fourth inning, when the Rampants pushed over their first run. With one out, Randy McKinney laced a double down the left field line, and moved on to third on a passed ball. Then, with two away, pitcher Mike Weaver tried to pick him off, but had his signals crossed up with the third baseman, and the ball was thrown away. McKinney trotted home with the run, giving Rose a 1-0 lead.

It didn't last long, however, as Williamston came back with two runs in their half of the fifth. With one out, Gary Whitehurst drew a walk and Hubert Smith was hit by a pitch. Both advanced on a passed ball, putting runners at second and third. Then, with two down, Dwight Ange hit a ball into the hole at short, beating out the throw to first for a hit. Whitehurst came home easily, and Smith kept going from second. Bill Lee's throw from short was a little wide of first, but was handled by Derek Dunn. Dunn, however, didn't notice Smith coming in home, and no play was made on him and he put Williamston ahead, 2-1.

The Rampants came back with two to take the lead for good in the bottom of the fifth. Jim McDermott led off, reaching on an error on the shortstop. A pickoff play at first by the catcher was thrown into right, and McDermott moved on to second. Robbie Cox singled into right, scoring McDermott with the tying run, and the ball was errored there, letting Cox move to second. J. C. Daniels added another hit into right, bringing in Cox with the winning run. Daniels went on to steal second and then gain third on an error. Cobb and McKinney both walked, loading the bases with one out, but the Rampants went down in order after that, ending the rally, but not in time from Williamston.

Neither team managed any threat after that.

Rose plays a practice game with the East Carolina freshman today, and returns to regular play on Friday, April 7, against Tarboro.

Greene Central Downs S. Nash

SPRING HOPE — Greene Central opened its Eastern Carolina Conference season yesterday with a 7-4 victory over Southern Nash High School.

The Rams scored three runs in the fifth inning to break open the game and go on to record the victory. They had to hold off a rally by Southern Nash in the final inning however, to claim the win.

Johnny Earl Johnson hurled the victory for the Rams, going all the way. He allowed nine hits, walked six and struck out nine.

Mike Perry, Danny Whitley and Billy Williamson led the Greene Central hitting with two in four trips each. Lamb, Perkinson and Winstead each had two hits for Southern Nash.

Greene Central moved into the lead in the first inning, pushing over a run. Robert Ivey walked and Perry reached on an error. Another error on the relay allowed Ivey to come the rest of the way for a 1-0 lead.

In the third, the Rams picked up another. Ivey again walked, and this time, stole second. Whitley then brought him over with a single for a 2-0 edge.

After the Firebirds had come up with a run in the bottom of the third, Greene Central broke it open with three in the top of the fifth. Perry reached on an error and Bob Scott walked. Stevie Williamson brought in both runners with a double, then scored when Billy Williamson got a hit, making it 5-1.

Greene Central added two more in the sixth, while the Firebirds got one in the bottom of the fifth and two more in the seventh.

Greene Central visits Conley today.

Supreme Court Hears Flood

By GREGG HERRINGTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball's reserve clause, totally binding an athlete to the team that owns his contract, is a violation of antitrust laws and the antislavery amendment to the Constitution, the Supreme Court has been told.

Arthur J. Goldberg, a former Supreme Court justice and now attorney for former major league outfielder Curt Flood, told the high court Monday the clause is "the most obvious restraint known to man."

Any player who tries to break his contract for a better offer with another team is black-listed from organized baseball, Goldberg said.

There is "a group boycott and blacklist not only in this country but also in Mexico and Japan," Goldberg told the court.

The court heard oral arguments from Goldberg and attorneys representing baseball club owners and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. The justices took the case under advisement and are expected to rule on legality of the clause by June.

Attorneys for the major-league teams argued that Flood's dispute is not a legal issue but a union-management problem that should be settled through collective bargaining.

They also described the clause as the cornerstone of baseball without which all the good players would be bought by the wealthiest teams in the largest cities.

St. John's Has Job Of Stopping Fuqua

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Mad Bomber is loose in Madison Square Garden.
Somebody better stop Richie Fuqua before he does more damage in the 35th National Invitation Basketball Tournament.
"I only hope that we can hold him to his average," says St. John's, N.Y., Coach Frank Mulzoff, as his team prepares for tonight's quarter-final match with Oral Roberts and the high-scoring Fuqua.
Oral Roberts is still in this tournament because Memphis State failed to hold the nation's second-leading scorer in check last Saturday night. Fuqua connected for 42 points, six over his 36.1-point average, as the Midwestern independent Titans upset the Tigers 94-74.

"Nobody has to tell me that Oral Roberts is for real," says Mulzoff, referring to detractors who claim that the Titans don't belong in a post-season tournament because of a patsy schedule.
Princeton plays Niagara in tonight's second game to establish the rest of Thursday night's semifinal field.
Jacksonville stopped Lafayette 87-76 and Maryland turned back Syracuse 71-65 Monday night in quarter-final games to make it to the semis.
Fuqua, the big shot of Oral Roberts' run-and-gun offense, has a chance to become the nation's top scorer. He's on the verge of catching Dwight Lamar, who closed out the season with Southwestern Louisiana with a 36.34 average. Fuqua's

Seaver Proves His Arm Okay

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Mrs. Joan Payson can stop holding her breath. Her National League baseball franchise, sometimes known as the New York Mets and mostly identified as Tom Seaver, is healthy again.
Mrs. Payson pays Tom Terrific $120,000 per season to exercise his right arm for the Mets and when that high-priced limb began aching a couple of weeks ago, it caused no small amount of concern around the club's spring training camp.
Seaver worked four innings of the Mets' 4-3 exhibition loss against Los Angeles and was touched for three runs. He said afterward he was satisfied with the performance since he had not worked in 12 days.
In other spring training games Monday, Detroit downed the New York Yankees 3-1, Philadelphia shut out Kansas City 1-0, St. Louis topped Cincinnati 3-1, Tokyo's Lotte Orions edged San Francisco 2-1, Houston whacked Atlanta 10-5, Montreal downed Texas 6-2, Boston edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, Oakland outlasted the Chicago Cubs 7-6, San Diego nipped Milwaukee 32 and Cleveland jarred California 8-5.

While Seaver was setting Met minds at ease, Don Sutton worked six scoreless innings for Los Angeles, permitting just three hits and striking out six.

Detroit's Joe Coleman, for example, pitched six innings against the Yankees and the first 5 2-3 were hitless. Rich McKinney managed the only New York hit against Coleman.

Trevino Avoids Knee Operation

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:
Lee Trevino's gimpy left knee bothers him in cold, wet weather—but not enough to undergo surgery.
"They wanted me to have an operation on it about a year ago," said Trevino, who was hurt when he accidentally stepped on a golf ball a couple of years ago.
"I asked 'em how long it would keep me out. The doctor said, 'about 14 weeks.' I said, 'No way. No way at all. I can't afford it.' I could afford the operation, of course, but I couldn't afford the money I'd lose from the tour.
Trevino, incidentally, has ordered a six wood for use at the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, Calif. this summer.
"I've carried a five wood for years," Trevino said. "I can get more loft with the woods than I can long irons and I want a six wood for Pebble."
Jimmy Jamieson has what you might call a mixed bag. The chubby young man from Moline, Ill., was going over his clubs after shooting a course record 63 in a recent tournament.
He has Ping, Spalding and Powerbilt irons, Golf Craft woods, a Hagen wedge, a Hogan sand iron and a Spalding putter.
"Now, if I ever win the Open, I've got 'em covered," he said, grinning.
Some of the tourists are wondering openly about the new Billy Champion and rookie Rick Fusari shared a four-hit shutout as Philadelphia nipped Kansas City. The Phils managed only five hits against Paul Splittorff, Bill Butler and Ted Abernathy.

Rick Wise permitted just one unearned run and four hits in six innings as St. Louis topped Cincinnati.
A name out of big league baseball's past, outfielder George Altman, slammed a two-run homer in the first inning and the visiting Tokyo Lotte Orions beat San Francisco.
Houston exploded for six runs in the sixth inning and jolted Atlanta.
Ron Fairly tagged a three-run homer, helping Montreal whip the Texas Rangers. Ernie McNally worked six innings for the Expos, allowing both Ranger runs and four hits.
Boston scratched out a pair of first inning runs on Tommy Harper's single, a double by Luis Aparicio and two infield outs and edged the White Sox. Wilbur Wood worked seven innings for Chicago, allowing only two hits after the first.
Dwain Anderson and Joe Rudi each had three hits and three runs batted in, leading Oakland past the Chicago Cubs.
Clay Kirby of San Diego and Jim Lonborg of Milwaukee each hurled six strong innings, allowing one run apiece, and the Padres edged the Brewers. Derrel Thomas' 10th inning single delivered the deciding run.
Ray Fosse's three-run homer in the eighth inning boosted Cleveland to its victory over California.

format for the Match Play championship at Pinehurst, N.C., this fall.
It's complicated. Eight players are exempt. They are the winners of the four major championships, the defending champion, and the next three leading money winners from last year.
The other eight come from the $100,000 Liggett and Myers Open, being played simultaneously on the same Country Club of North Carolina course. The first eight players after 36 holes of competition in that tournament are transferred to the Match Play brackets.
"But suppose," said Lou Graham, "I had two hot rounds and have a five stroke lead at the end of 36 holes. Now, I'm playing in a $100,000 tournament, with a chance for $20,000 and full rights, a year's exemption, a spot in the Masters, everything.
"Now they tell me I have to go into the Match Play and play Jack Nicklaus head to head in the first round. Do I have the option of saying 'No, I'd rather continue in the medal play tournament.'"
The answer, Lou, is No. You do not have the option. The top eight must go into the match play bracket.

current mark is 36.14.
If he repeats Saturday's performance, he'll move into the No. 1 spot.
Tonight's matches follow a pair of tense games Monday night.
Clearly superior Jacksonville was really given a battle by unheralded Lafayette in the first one and didn't pull away from the Leopards until late in the game.
Lafayette Coach Tom Davis said he was told before the game by one of Jacksonville's assistant coaches: "If you beat us, it'll set basketball back 20 years."
They almost did—until the Dolphins' brawny and quick front line of David Brent, Ernie Fleming and Abe Steward took over.
Lafayette stayed with the powerful Florida independent in the first half and only trailed by 46-44 at intermission.
But Jacksonville's Big Three crushed any Lafayette upset hopes, taking command of the backboards. Brent, especially, was impressive. He scored 20 points, stole 10 rebounds and blocked 5 shots while playing part-time. The 7-foot center sat out about half the match because of foul trouble.
Maryland, also a big favorite over Syracuse, didn't have it much easier. The Terps appeared to be on their way to an effortless victory when building a 35-20 lead in the first half as Syracuse shot a horrendous 18 per cent.
But Greg Kohls, who only produced five points in the first half on 1-for-9 shooting, scored 17 points in the second stanza to power an inspired Syracuse comeback.

Houston exploded for six runs in the sixth inning and jolted Atlanta.
Ron Fairly tagged a three-run homer, helping Montreal whip the Texas Rangers. Ernie McNally worked six innings for the Expos, allowing both Ranger runs and four hits.
Boston scratched out a pair of first inning runs on Tommy Harper's single, a double by Luis Aparicio and two infield outs and edged the White Sox. Wilbur Wood worked seven innings for Chicago, allowing only two hits after the first.

Royals Can't Be Counted Out

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer
FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Manager Bob Lemon won't come right out and say the Kansas City Royals are going to win the American League West Division championship this season but he isn't about to say they won't either.
"Five clubs could win it," Lemon says, "including ourselves. Most of the team are improved ... California, Chicago, Minnesota. And, then, there's Oakland. They're the team to beat."
Nobody had to tell Lemon about Oakland. The Athletics won the West last year by a fat 16 games over the runner-up Royals, starting their fourth season since they began operations as an expansion club. The A's beat Kansas City 13 times in 18 games.
Lemon admits he had two major worries—first base and right field. Right off, though, Lemon is more inclined to talk about the three things that were chiefly responsible for the Royals' rise in 1971—pitching, speed and defense.
The Royals could be superb in all three. Right-handers Dick Drago, who won 17 and lost 11 a year ago, and Mike Hedlund, 15-8, have another year of experience and head the mound staff along with sophomore left-hander Paul Splittorff, 8-9.

Monty Montgomery, another right-hander, who made his major league debut last Sept. 14, will be the other starter in the four-man rotation.
Lemon probably will carry 10 pitchers. Besides the four front-line starters, three are certain to be 39-year-old Ted Abernathy and Tom Burgeimer, the aces of the Royals' strong bullpen, and Bruce Dal Canton, who posted an 8-6 record.
Center fielder Amos Otis and shortstop Fred Patek provide much of the club's speed. They were the two leading base stealers in the AL last season, Otis getting 52 and Patek 49.
Patek, at 5-foot-4 the majors' smallest player, and second baseman Cookie Rojas, in his 18th year of professional baseball, were two reasons for the Royals' 1971 success. They were in on the majority of Kansas City's 178 double plays.
Paul Schaal, who reached base 255 times last year, is the third baseman. Jerry May, injured often last season, will be behind the plate, Lemon says, "if he can stay whole."
Lemon's problems at first base and in right field may not be as acute as in 1971 when various players manned both positions from time to time.

Los Angeles May Get Bowl

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — The Super Bowl VII sweepstakes began today at the National Football League meetings with the strong possibility that the game would be awarded to the city of Los Angeles—the scene of the crime perpetrated against the NFL in 1966.
In 1966, Los Angeles was awarded the first Super Bowl, the much ballyhooed meeting between the Green Bay Packers of the NFL and the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League. But when super Sunday dawned, there were more than 30,000 empty seats in the Los Angeles Coliseum.
The lingering distaste left in the mouths of the NFL's owners, however, seems to have diminished during the past five years and heading into today's sessions Los Angeles seemed to have an edge over Houston, Miami, New Orleans and Dallas—rated in that order—in a wide-open race.
Here's the way the race looked at a glance:
Los Angeles—Rozelle discounted the blacking out of the nation's No. 2 television market and past history as major factors, leaving only one strike against the city, the fact the Rams could possibly be in the Super Bowl. But it meets every other prime specification—93,000-seat stadium, warm weather, hotel facilities.
Houston—Rice Stadium is the candidate, and the major factor in its favor is that almost undoubtedly it would be a neutral site. The Oilers don't figure to be in the Super Bowl, and besides the Oilers play in the Astrodome. Weather is warm enough and there are 80,000 seats.

Miami—Has it all—weather, hotels, stadium plus three past successes. But the Dolphins have to be considered Super Bowl contenders, and that could be a major strike.
New Orleans—With neither the weather nor the hotels, New Orleans is a longshot for a second successive hosting, but just might find itself in the running if a deadlock occurs.
Dallas—Biggest strike against the city is the Cowboys, defending Super Bowl champions. If the game were awarded to Dallas, it likely would go to the Cotton Bowl rather than Cowboys' Texas Stadium.
The NFL owners spent most of their time at the opening Monday sessions dealing with constitutional amendments of little general interest. But Commissioner Pete Rozelle said he had cautioned the assembled owners about the sport's "trouble spots."
Among the spots Rozelle singled out were:
—The growing feeling that pro football is more of a business than a sport.
—The trend in litigation against the league with eight antitrust suits currently pending.
—The threat of states and cities extending legalized off-track betting to include pro team sports.
—The possible decline in fan interest due to a drop-off in scoring in the NFL.

Oak City Rips Bear Grass Nine

OAK CITY—Oak City High School bested Martin County Conference rival Bear Grass, 13-6, yesterday. The game, however, was a non-conference meeting between the two and will not count in the standings.
Oak City had the game well in command after the first inning, scoring five runs. They added two more in the second to wrap it up.
In the first, Willie Baker opened with a double and Ronald Duggins reached on an error, scoring Baker. Marty Smith walked and another error, this one on Gene Scott's hit, scored Duggins. Milton Baker reached on another miscue, and that brought in Smith and Scott. Eddie Ayers finished off the scoring with a double, bringing across Baker.

In the second, two more came across. Duggins tripled and scored on Smith's single. Scott reached on an error, and that brought in Smith.
Oak City, ahead 7-0 at that point, went on to pick up one in the fourth and five more in the sixth. Bear Grass scored three each in the third and fifth innings.
Marty Smith led the Oak City hitting with three in three trips, while Billy Ross had two in three appearances. Kenny Wynne and Earl Wynne each went two-for-three for the Bears.

Scott Claims Club Know Of Grievances

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Newly-acquired Phoenix guard Charlie Scott was expected to be recalled as a witness today in a hearing in U.S. District Court to determine whether an injunction should be granted against the former American Basketball Association scoring leader.
In testimony Monday, Scott's lawyers produced letters written by his agent, Select Pro, Inc., of Los Angeles, to the Virginia Squires, stating Scott's grievances with the club.
Scott left the Squires after claiming the club had not met its commitments. The letters, the attorneys argued, proved that Scott had given written notice of grievances to the Virginia club, and thus negated any charges of breach of contract on his part.
Among those ready to testify were John Block, a major Phoenix Suns owner, Suns general manager Jerry Colangelo and Suns team captain Dick VanArsdale.
The Squires were represented by a trio of lawyers, headed by Frederick Firth.
When questioned Monday, Scott contended Squires owner Earl Foreman had not fulfilled a promise to pay back salary of $26,500.
Scott said Foreman was to have paid the Chemical Bank of New York $22,000 to repay loan Scott had taken.
Scott claimed he needed the money because he had two outstanding loans and was paying alimony of $25,000 at the time. The new Suns player said he reminded Foreman several times about the agreement's due date of March 1.

The 6-5 guard said the first time Foreman was reminded, the Squires president told him he never remembered such an agreement. Scott said Foreman later promised to have the situation cleared up by March 1, but Scott learned later that the loan had not been paid.
The Chemical Bank notified him at that time, Scott said, that his account was being frozen.
East Carolina University's netters fell to Ohio University, 8-1 yesterday, suffering their third defeat in four matches.

The Worry Clinic Platonic Life Makes Misers

Ronald is an enigma to his wife. Yet she is a smart woman with a college diploma. But many such wives fail to see the direct connection between Silas Marner and a low "cheese-cake" menu in the bedroom! Wives, wake up! It pays!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
Case T-531: Ronald J., aged 39, is a modern Silas Marner. "Dr. Crane," his wife confessed, "Ronald used to be a generous husband."

"But during the past couple of years, he has become very critical of my house keeping. And he now refuses to let me have any money. Instead, he does out whatever funds are needed even to buy groceries. Yet he makes a good salary and we are fairly well off, financially. What causes a formerly jolly, free-spending man to become such a miser?"

PLATONIC MISERS

Money misers usually get that way in the bedroom! For when a man fears impotence and develops a sexual inferiority complex, he squeezes the dollar instead of his wife! For $$$ represent power. Since he realizes that he has lost his erotic vigor, such a husband then tightens the family purse strings in order to force his wife to come to him for handouts. For that makes him still the financial master of the home, even if he dreads having lost the dominant sexual role therein. "Dr. Crane," many a worried husband like Ronald has confessed, "I have been dethroned in our boudoir. So now I try to become King Midas and force my wife to pay attention to me because still control the purse strings." Yet many otherwise smart wives seem to miss this direct connection between waning erotic vigor and an increasing miserly condition. "Generous with love; liberal with money," is an axiom of marital psychiatry. "Stingy with love; miserly with money," is its corollary.

Wives, you can easily transform a Silas Marner into a generous husband if you will merely restore his erotic ego in the boudoir. "Only a winner can be generous," is a rule of psychology that you should memorize with reference to your bedroom. So start concentrating on more "cheesecake" in your boudoir. Become tactfully more seductive. Take the initiative in a revival of your honeymoon romancing. For a husband who has become scared about his inability to function, will avoid making advances.

For he dreads the humiliation of your discovery that he is apparently impotent. And I use that term "apparently," for most cases of platonic males are a result of psychic inhibition, due to a previously developed fear of erotic failure. Such a platonic mate can thus be made to function quite readily by a "call" girl or prostitute, thereby showing that his inability to function with his wife is due to an emotional block. Sometimes new bridegrooms thus grow suddenly impotent because of an emotional "complex" that may intrude during their honeymoon. So your wives should never let your mates become platonic and miserly for you can easily restore their sex ego. Then they will become jolly, generous husbands again. Wives, make a secret resolution NEVER to take second place to an immoral "call" girl, for you rate Number One if you just play your cards seductively!

THE HOMETOWN FOLKS WERE UNANIMOUS IN THEIR OPINION OF THE LOCAL VILLAGE IDIOT!

BUT NOW THAT 'MOONIE GOOBISH' HAS A NETWORK SHOW OF HIS OWN...

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ 3 ♥ Dble. Pass
4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Ace of ♥

When West made a preemptive jump over South's opening one spade bid, it presented North with a slight problem. Game was by no means certain and yet a profit appeared reasonably assured on defense, for North could expect to take three tricks and the opening bidder might be counted on for three. Altho the double is for penalties, partner is not obliged to leave it in if his holding is not suited for defense.

South was reluctant to settle for a lesser profit on the deal and inasmuch as he had a self-sufficient suit including 100 honors, he jumped to four spades. But for a flaw in declarer technique, his judgment would have been rewarded with a handsome profit on the deal. West got off to the most effective lead of the ace of hearts, followed by the queen. South covered with North's king and East ruffed with the three of spades. The shift was to the jack of clubs. South played the queen which lost to West's king to complete the defensive book.

West exited with the jack of hearts ruffed by declarer and after the latter drew the outstanding trump, he finessed the jack of diamonds. When this lost to East's queen, South scored the deal up as a washout.

Declarer could have assured success by merely refusing to cover West's queen of hearts at trick two—permitting the latter to hold the trick. If the latter continues the suit, East will presumably ruff the king, but now South can overruff, draw trumps and take the diamond finesse with complete confidence. Even if East turns up with the queen, it is the third and final trick for the defense, for now North's diamond suit provides a discard for the queen of clubs and declarer has the rest of the tricks.

If East ruffs the second round of hearts to make the club shift, South can put up the ace, draw trump and then cross over to the king of diamonds to discard the queen of clubs on the king of hearts. The key to the hand was for declarer to protect his club holding from attack before he was in position to take full command of the proceedings.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: By being diplomatic and very considerate of members of your family you will be able to avoid the tempestuous, emotional time that could otherwise be your lot today and tonight. Your judgment is not too good so make a point to double-check whatever arises, then you can sidestep some otherwise difficult pathways.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) See what should be done to make your home more comfortably charming as well as add to the harmony existing there now. You have to use a new method if you want to start an uptrend in some important outlet. Get busy early.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) Some discussion is necessary with associates if you want to get those new methods operating efficiently, become more successful. Much care in driving is necessary, as well as more courtesy toward others now. Think.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you talk over some monetary matters of importance with a financial wizard or banker, you can handle them with true efficiency. You have taken on some heavy responsibilities that now seem to be too much for you, but this is not so. Keep busy and all is okay.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Good friends are in a most emotional mood, so handle them with real care now. Show you are most thoughtful of them. Take those health treatments that are really good and time tested.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to get much work done before you can go out for amusements, so get an early start on them. Confiding in others could result in the loss of good ideas and much cash. Try to be as secretive as possible today and tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to approach that bigwig who can help you gain your aims in a gingerly manner and then you get the right results. Avoid group affairs that are not apt to go very well now. Do some reading, relaxing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Follow the ideas of higher-ups more if you want to get your business duties handled well and with less trouble, work. Obey every regulation that applies to you solely. Don't argue so much.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) New information has cropped up that can be somewhat alarming to you, but by sleeping over it, you find it provides opportunities to advance. Don't permit a new contact to lead you pell-mell into something you are not sure of.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get obligations ahead of you handled with speed so you free more time for hobbies and other activities you like. Mate is irritable, so hold your temper and give a chance to relax. Show helpfulness, too.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Being more cooperative with an associate gives you an opportunity to understand ideas better and then you can work together happily. You have to be exact where some public duties are concerned. Think logically.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Procrastinating will never get that work ahead of you done, so roll up your sleeves and get it out of the way now. Reap the benefits soon. Rest tonight instead of gadding about and wasting energy foolishly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Taking chances with new types of pleasure you know nothing about could lead to something dangerous, so stick to the tried and true. Get more work done on that hobby that pleases you. Stay within your budget.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those highly emotional young people, which is fine, provided this quality is channeled in the right directions, otherwise there can be little success in this chart, so give the right ethical training, diet and education necessary early, and slant toward business or highly artistic lines for best results. Eradicate martyr complex while young through kindness and understanding.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Has Enrolled In New York School

Marian Teresa Halevy of 300-11 North Oak St., Greenville, has enrolled at the Katharine Gibbs School in New York for the one-year secretarial course beginning in September.

Environmentalists To Fight On

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Gov. William Egan of Alaska says the Interior Department's statement on the environmental impact of proposed oil pipelines through his state probably will be sufficient for the department to grant a right-of-way permit for the line within 45 days.

But three environmental groups that obtained a court injunction more than a year ago holding up issuance of the permit now say they will demand public hearings on the statement.

Interior Undersecretary William T. Pecora says hearings would be a circus and "would interfere with a more thoughtful and rational analysis." Hearings were held last year after a preliminary environmental statement was issued.

The nine-volume impact statement released Monday was ordered by a federal court after the environmental groups demanding that Interior study the environmental effects of the proposed line that would run nearly 800 miles across Alaska from the oil-rich Prudhoe Bay on the North Slope to an ice-free tanker port at Valdez to the south.

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., a consortium of seven oil companies, is seeking permission to build the line.

The impact statement considered the Alyeska proposal as one of five possible pipeline routes leading to Alaskan ports and four trans-Canada land routes that would eliminate the need for tankers to carry the oil to the U.S. West Coast.

Egan, speaking at an impromptu news conference in Juneau Monday, said no specific route or system other than the Alaskan overland route had been analyzed and that no specific proposal for a trans-Canada route had been submitted to the Interior Department.

The report said it could not evaluate the potential oil loss from a pipeline break, "but perfect no-spill performance would be unlikely during the lifetime of the pipeline."

Comparing their impact on the ocean environment, the report noted that a Canadian route would have the lowest impact from oil spillage because it would not involve tanker transport at all.

As for unavoidable impact on land-based life systems, the report said a Bering Sea route would have the least impact and a trans-Alaska-Canada coastal route the next lowest.

In their effect on the land itself, the report said, "it appears that the trans-Alaska routes would have less impact than the trans-Alaska-Canada routes."

Reorganize Pitt Humane Society

Reorganization of the Pitt County Humane Society was begun Friday night.

Among projects discussed were a spaying fund, a grievance committee for those with complaints for owners of annoying animals, an investigatory committee for cases of cruelty to animals, involvement of youth in humane work, and fund-raising methods.

The Humane Society is dedicated to the protection of animals, both by preventing cruelty to animals and by preventing the birth of unwanted animals. The Society also can serve as an adoption agency to find homes for orphan animals. The local group seeks to become affiliated with the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA), a national organization.

Mrs. Elizabeth Savage, a long-time supporter of the Pitt County Humane Society, led the group in its plans for reorganization. Nominal dues for those who can pay, with reduced rates for students and charter members, were established to support efforts of the group.

Officers will be elected at the next meeting, to be held the last Monday night in March. All those, from elementary school up, interested in protecting animals are invited to attend the next meeting and join the group. Exact time and place will be announced soon, Mrs. Savage said.

Higher Speed Limit 'Last Straw' For Zeb Dickson

ZEB V.K. DICKSON relaxes from rigors of his gubernatorial campaign. (AP Wirephoto)

By YVONNE BASKIN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A remedial math teacher for the Eden elementary schools, Zeb Vance Kitchin Dickson, decided to run for governor when he heard that speed limits were being raised to 70 on North Carolina's interstate highways.

"I had thought about becoming a candidate for nine or 10 months," Dickson said in a recent interview. "I was trying to talk myself out of it.

"Then somebody announced they were raising the speed

Driver Injured During Collision

Martha Ann Strong of Route 2, Winterville was reported injured yesterday when the car she was driving was involved in a collision with a vehicle driven by Loretta Anderson Pruitt of 418 Bonners Lane.

Police reported the collision occurred about 12:08 p.m. on N.C. 43 about 100 feet south of the Southview Drive intersection.

The Strong car, they reported, was a total loss while damage to the Pruitt vehicle was set at $500.

Mrs. Pruitt was charged with careless and reckless driving and driving under the influence.

limits on the interstates," he said. "That was the last straw."

He borrowed $385 and paid his filing fee for the Democratic gubernatorial race on Dec. 6. Since that time, he has been waging a weekend campaign on a platform based on lower speed limits.

"If we quit killing 1,800 people a year, the insurance companies would be glad to reduce the auto insurance rates 30 to 50 per cent," he said.

"We've tried everything else—seat belts, improved automobiles and highways, but not speed."

Dickson said his "priority plank" is establishment of a 50-m.p.h. speed limit for cars and 55 for trucks and buses, since, he said, trucks have more reason to go places faster than individual automobiles.

Trucks would drive on the left and cars on the right, he said, and there would be no switching of lanes.

Dickson also would raise teachers' salaries at least $1,000 a year, but he said he hasn't figured out yet where the money will come from.

He said he wouldn't recommend any new taxes unless they were absolutely necessary, and he would inform the people why he wanted new taxes if he decided they were necessary.

Another of his major proposals is a work corps that would take people off welfare, give people temporary jobs, give first offenders a chance to work instead of going to jail and ease the return of ex-convicts to society.

Dickson said he would seek "universal health care" by seeing that all citizens could qualify for some type of group insurance plan, such as those which businesses provide for their employees.

His "youth conservation commission" would operate youth councils in each county to help young people—"entertain them, keep them out of trouble and teach them things like highway safety."

The 64-year-old teacher says he is a "complete novice in political strategy" and has never run for any office or been active in any political campaign before.

As for a campaign organization, he said, he has "quite a number of brothers and sisters and cousins throughout the state" who are working for his election.

Dickson said he bought a camper-trailer on the installment plan to use in traveling around campaigning on weekends. That and the $385 he borrowed to pay the filing fee are his "total campaign indebtedness," he said. The rest of his material has been paid for in cash.

He has been circulating, at $1 a copy, a four-page tabloid called "The Campaigner" to help raise money. The document gives a lengthy account of his birth in a log cabin in Alleghany County, his upbringing in a family of 11 children in Ashe County and his days as a cheerleader and musician at Appalachian State University in the 1930s.

"The people of North Carolina have waited too long for a man from the 'ranks of the common people' to come along and run for governor," he said in a campaign statement. "I intend to prove that a poor boy, born in a log cabin and who went to school in a one-room log school house, can be elected governor."

Prison Guards Halt Fighting

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Prison guards used chemical spray to put down two outbreaks of racial fighting Monday at the Polk Youth Center, a camp for youthful felons.

Corrections Commissioner Lee Bounds said three inmates were transferred to Central Prison's hospital for medical treatment. Their injuries were described as not serious.

Bounds blamed the fighting on racial tension triggered by alleged pilfering of personal property by inmates.

"As far as we have been able to tell, the precipitating cause was an alleged breaking in of the lockers by other inmates stealing personal property," he said. "At least, this is what we've been able to put our finger on. But a more fundamental cause is racial conflict. It was black and white confrontations."

The center houses 430 inmates between the ages of 14 and 21. Bounds said the population was divided about equally on a racial basis.

The disruptions started in one dormitory and later broke out in a second residential unit. Bounds said both outbreaks were halted within moments.

Correctional guards regularly stationed at the center, located just west of Raleigh, put down the fighting. Bounds said other officers from units in the Raleigh area were in the process of being mobilized when the fighting stopped.

He estimated property damage at $110.

Charge Informer Was Conspiracy

By LEE LINDER

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The defense charged today that government use of a paid FBI informer in the Harrisburg Seven conspiracy case constituted "provocation, instigation, entrapment and, indeed, crime."

It asked for immediate dismissal of the indictment that charges a plot to kidnap White House aide Henry A. Kissinger.

"The process is not unusual in political cases," said attorney Leonard Boudin in a motion filed with U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman at the start of the ninth week of the trial.

Oral argument was scheduled this morning with the jury of nine women and three men out of the courtroom.

The motion came as the government was ready to wrap up its case with only four witnesses left. It already has put 56 on the stand.

Antiwar priest Philip Berrian and six codefendants are accused of conspiring to kidnap Kissinger, blow up underground heating ducts in Washington, and vandalize draft boards around the country to show their dissatisfaction with the Vietnam war.

Boudin attacked as "illegal and unconstitutional" the employment by the FBI of informer Boyd Douglas Jr., while he was imprisoned in 1970 with Berrigan at the Lewisburg (Pa.) Penitentiary. Douglas is the government's chief witness.

Douglas is a man who has "a long criminal record of violence and fraud, and a similar record of fraud in his personal relationships with everyone he has met," Boudin said.

"The FBI used this man, knowing how weak, pliable, and dishonest an instrument he was, in an effort to create and provoke crime."

Douglas was serving a prison term on a bad check charge when he met Berrigan.

Must Eavesdrop On Loan Sharks

By EDMOND LeBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Concealed recorders and wiretaps or electronic eavesdroppers are critically important in fighting the loan shark racket, the head of the Justice Department's organized crime section says.

Edward T. Joyce, acting chief of the section, told a House consumer affairs subcommittee today that enforcers generally must rely on information from a victim, who usually has been intimidated into extortion payments by threats of beating or worse.

"The victim himself may be willing to testify against his hoodlum creditor, but without corroboration such testimony is seldom trial-worthy," Joyce said in prepared testimony.

"Consequently in many loan shark cases the government has asked the victim if he would consent to wearing a body recorder or transmitter during his next meeting."

This technique was used in about 66 organized crime-linked extortion cases, Joyce said.

In other cases, where victims are too frightened to testify, "probable cause of extortionate credit transactions involving certain telephones or particularized premises will furnish the support for a court-ordered wiretap or electronic bug even without a cooperating victim," Joyce said.

Joyce said loansharking is now at least a very close third to gambling and the narcotics traffic as a source of income to organized crime.

Moreover, he said, it also provides a channel for underworld infiltration of legitimate business.

Ban Film About Nixon In China

ANKARA (AP) — The martial law command in Ankara has banned an exhibit and film on President Nixon's visit to China.

The command gave no specific reason but told the Turkish-American Association it did not believe the showing would be suitable under present circumstances. It was to have opened today.

Diplomats speculated that the military authorities were afraid of anti-American or pro-Chinese demonstrations at a time when security forces are engaged in a widespread roundup of leftist extremists, many of them Maoists.
